Means of Postponing Death Discussed At Public Health Meet

Eminent Physicians at Fort Worth Hear Arraignment of Prohibition as Factor in 300 Per Cent Increase in Death Rate

FORT WORTH, Oct. 27. (UP)—Means of postponing death, described as the greatest cause of human fear and a determining factor in human conduct, were discussed here today among more than 1,200 physicians attending the American Public Health association convention.

Eminent doctors participated in the sessions, arriving here from cities in both North and South American countries.

Among statements contained in reports read before various sections of the convention were:

Prohibition has caused an increase of 300 per cent in the death rate.

Persons do not die because they get degenerative diseases, but get such diseases because they are dying.

Prohibition Condemned

Newly settled territory is likely to be more healthful than old centers of population because the land has not been demineralized and its products are, consequently, more sustaining.

Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician of the State Prudential Life Insurance company, Newark, N. J., and author of many works on medical subjects, condemned the prohibition laws as responsible for ill health through the development of the bootleg industry with its "bad liquor."

Doctor Hoffman advocated the Canadian system of restricted liquor sales. He proposed the issuance of licenses to buyers of spirits. Two persons would testify to the applicant's record for moderation, according to the plan, and licenses would be revoked in cases of drunkenness.

"Prohibition, further, breeds lawlessness," the physician asserted. "We are living in the greatest crime era in the history of the world."

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Talker was glad to see champions come to the defense of the railroads when they were criticised as an incubus to progress in a recent communication to the press by Early Van de Venter. Talker thought at the time Mr. Van de Venter did not really mean all he said.

The railroads make a very substantial contribution to the taxes collected in the counties in which they operate; they make very substantian contributions to the pay rolls of these communities. J. H. Hughes of Henrietta points out in a communication in Sunday's Times that the railroads are assessed $1,722,220 in Clay county, one-fourth as much as the land assessments in that county and $664,260 more than all the town and city property in that county. The railroads therefore pay, and have paid, a very considerable part of the costs of building Clay county's highways which are used by passenger buses and freight trucks in direct competition with them. What is true of Clay county is true of almost any county in Texas where there are railroads and highways.

No, we wouldn't want to see the passenger trains and freight cars hauled around empty, and our roads filled with trucks and buses. Railroads cannot have pay rolls unless they have business and the more business they have the larger pay rolls they will have. On long distance hauls and travel they perform a service that is hardly possible for bus and truck lines, but they cannot exist on that business alone and if they could they would have to charge rates that would add considerably to the cost of living.

Talker believes that the people will see that it is not in the public interest to permit the railroads to be choked out of existence. Just how they are to be preserved, he wouldn't undertake to say but certainly that problem can be solved.

John T. Flynn, writing in the November Forum on "The Birthday of the Slump" tells us that the slump is finally dying of old age after the efforts of "scientific business" to be its executioner. And he says he has a growing conviction that the hard times have not been nearly so bad as they were painted. He points out that over a billion dollars was spent in newspaper and magazine advertising in 1929 and says that if the depression had had to pay for its own advertising it would have a bill for ten billion dollars on its hands.

And here's what he thinks will happen: "We will get business under way, get people back to work, increase corporation profits, work up another speculative mania, produce more than we can use, use up our credit resources on speculation, cripple the building industry again, overstock ourselves with everything, get business into a decline, bring on a stock market collapse, slide into a depression, call it a 'healthy reaction,' if the Republicans are in office and blame it on the Democrats if the miracle of a Democratic administration should ever happen."

A banker friend of Talker's says that the situation of today is described in Genesis in the interpretation of Pharoah's dress by a young fellow named Joseph whose name had been connected with a rumor about Mrs. Potipher.

Anyway Joseph seems to have been a better prophet of the business trend than some of the experts who told us a year ago that the stock market slump was only a "healthy reaction."

Just one week from today is the time when the people will vote a split shift at the pie counter and will give a lot of Democrats a turn at the jobs held by Republicans.

Democrats ought to be very enthusiastic about that plan to pass the jobs around among the jobless. And it would give the Republican office holders a rest, too.

Col. Arthur Woods, head of President Hoover's employment committee, endorses the odd jobs campaign that has been carried on in the newspapers. "Let's all spruce up our home," he advises. "Make the little repairs that are needed, do that little job of painting, fix the odd corners of the yard, replace the worn out or broken parts that halt the smooth running of the household."

"Let us do the same thing in our communities," he suggests. "We can give work to hundreds of thousands by improving shabby play-

MAYBE HE KNOWS!

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (US)—A little brandy every day, a lot of tobacco and several lungs full of fresh air on arising in the morning and—presto!—you'll live to be more than a hundred.

And the authority for that is Chief White Horse Eagle, 109-year-old Indian chief, no less, who returned today on White Star liner Adriatic, accompanied by his white wife to whom he has been married 46 years.

The chief and his queen, Wa-The-Na, just completed a "short trip" around the world. The "short trip" took three years, but, as the chief put it:

"What's three years to a man who intends to live a thousand?"

LOGSDON AND TYSON BILLED BY GRAND JURY

Government Charges Youth Paid $500 for Immunity In Case Here

TRIAL IN NOVEMBER

Defendants, Arrested In Fort Worth, Make $5,000 Bonds

Allegations that an Abilene youth paid $500 to escape a 30-day whisky sentence, delivering the pay-off money in Wichita Falls, are contained in bribery indictments returned in Amarillo Monday against J. G. Tyson and W. R. Logsdon, former federal prohibition officers, according to Alex Mood, assistant United States district attorney at Amarillo.

Both defendants, arrested in Fort Worth, are free on $5,000 bonds set by United States Commissioner L. Newman. The two men, charged with accepting bribes, are to be tried in Wichita Falls in the November term of the United States district court, opening on Nov. 17.

Mr. Mood, said Monday night that the alleged bribery took place about a year ago in Wichita Falls. Both of the accused men have been out of the service since that time. The attorney said the government charges that the Abilene boy was promised that the jail sentence would be set aside. The indictment sets forth that the convicted youth first negotiated with Logsdon and later paid the $500 to Tyson, Mr. Mood declared.

Logsdon left the service following a bribery charge brought here two years ago by Mrs. Rickey Ketchem. The officer was acquitted of the charge after a trial in Fort Worth several months later.

Tyson is the father of the widely known prohibition officer who recently gained fame by his investigation of Broadway night clubs, centering his attention on the famous Texas Guinan club, Mr. Mood said.

28 Miners Trapped At McAlester

McALESTER, Okla., Oct. 27. (AP)—Twenty-eight men were trapped and one instantly killed tonight by a violent explosion near the mouth of the Wheatley No. 4 coal mine of the Samples Coal company in north McAlester. The dead man was William Donley.

The mouth of the mine, a slope pit, was blocked by debris from the blast, and rescue crews were baffled in their first attempts to reach the imprisoned men, whose fate was unknown.

The cause of the explosion was a mystery. It's detonation was heard in McAlester, two miles from the scene.

The entombed men were members of a crew that went on duty at 7 o'clock tonight.

Trained rescue crews of miners gathered at the mine soon after the explosion, but had not been able to enter the wrecked shaft late tonight.

A group of American Legion members, who were called from a relief committee meeting by news of the explosion, took charge outside the mine and held back the anxious crowd of relatives and friends.

Workers estimated it would be five or six hours before they could clear away the wreckage in the shaft sufficiently to enter the mine.

ITALY 'FED UP' WITH LEAGUE, IL DUCE SAYS

Mussolini Predicts Fascist Rule of Europe Within A Generation

ENEMIES ARE WARNED

Italy 'Must Expand' Eastward, Dictator Hotly Tells Rivals

By PRINCE PIGNATELLI

ROME, Oct. 27. (US)—Intimation that Italy has its fill of the efforts of the League of Nations to dictate national policies and a prediction that Europe will be ruled by Fascists in another generation were hurled at Fascist provincial chiefs in Venezia palace today by Prime Minister Benito Mussolini.

In an impassioned peroration on the eve of the eighth anniversary of the famous Black Shirt march on Rome, the chief of the Fascists called on his aides to fortify the party against the constant intrigues directed against Fascism, and promised that the greatest military demonstration Rome had ever seen would come at Fascism's 10th anniversary celebration in 1932.

War Clouds Mentioned

A particularly significant portion of Il Duce's speech dealt with the war clouds over Europe, the existence of which he did not deny but rather affirmed, and essayed to explain away the charge that Italy is in a measure responsible. He said:

"The Geneva comedy (the League of Nations) cannot go on. Our Balkan policy is dictated by our need to expand to the eastward.

"We shall always be hard with our enemies, and shall march with our friends to the end."

The effects of the anti-Fascism campaign have been felt even in the ranks of the Black Shirts, Mussolini asserted, calling upon Giovanni Giuriati, secretary of the Fascist party, to institute a general housecleaning and rid Fascism of the Bourgeois and Liberal elements who have filtered into the ranks. Mussolini declared:

"It is necessary to correct the opinion that Fascism cannot be exported.

"Today, Fascism is universal in spirit, and one can foresee a Fascist Europe, solving in a Fascist sense the problems of the modern state.

"Anti-Fascism is not dead; the opposition is still alive, and the field of the struggle has enlarged to include the whole world, which is everywhere battling for and against Fascism."

A rigid enforcement of Fascist policies and practices in Rome was ordered by the premier, who said:

"The formula of 1925, 'all power to Fascism exclusively,' still holds good!"

The "military demonstration" of 1932 to which Il Duce referred is the gathering of Fascists to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the March of Rome, and will call out more than 100,000 armed members of the party and the young Fascists. Similar demonstrations will be held at the same time in a half-dozen of Italy's larger cities.

Mussolini is not hesitant in admitting that the arming of the party and its youthful adherents is in preparation for another European conflict.

Grand Jury Fails To Find Election Law Violations; Nine True Bills Returned

Nothing to substantiate reports that violations of the Terrell election laws had occurred in Wichita county during the recent primary elections was found by the October grand jury in its investigations, according to a report filed with Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district court Monday afternoon.

Commendation of the work of Sheriff W. G. Bralley during the past four years, and of the present condition of the county jail and other prisoners' wards, was contained in the written report.

Nine indictments were returned by the jury during its final session Monday, bringing the total number of true bills returned to 48, of which 45 were for alleged felonies and one for misdemeanor.

Bills returned Monday were as follows, according to Sam Spence, district attorney:

S. H. Beard, theft of over $50, now in jail at Stephenville; Wayne Watson, burglary, in connection with the theft of articles from the Dr. J. C. A. Guest home here last month; Carl Holcomb, theft of chickens, and burglary, now in jail here; Sam Parks, theft and forgery for more than $50, now in jail; indictments against five other men for disposing of mortgaged property, burglary, forgery and theft, perjury, and swindling by false representation. Those named in the last five charges have not yet been apprehended, it was said.

A partial report, revealing nine true bills, was returned on Monday, Oct. 6, and a second report, bringing the total of indictments to 35, was returned on Oct. 9, when the grand jury recessed until Oct. 27.

Walter S. Curlee was foreman of the jury, which also contained Gordon Douglas, M. A. Barwise and A. L. Robb, of Electra; W. W. Chambers, A. L. Gregg, and F. A. Hill of Burkburnett; Carroll Duke and John B. Barbour, of Iowa Park; Marvin Smith, J. L. Jackson Jr., and John W. Thomas of Wichita Falls.

Operatic Curtains Lift to Inaugurate New York and Chicago Social Seasons

Colorful Scenes Unfold as Brilliantly-Clad Music-Lovers Assemble for Annual Opening Festivals

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (AP)—In the crimson and gilt amphi-theater of the Metropolitan Opera house, society gathered in jewelled magnificence tonight to watch the opera "Aida," which Verdi wrote for the Khedive of Egypt, and to join the blazing pageant which opens New York's social season.

Since the gay nineties, when the dowager Mrs. Vanderbilt's diamond dog-collar sparkled among the jewels in the golden horseshoe, the grand opera opening has been society's gala night. Tonight was no exception.

Clad in silks and clinging velvets, studded with gems and wrapped in ermine, they stepped from shining limousines. Flashlights boomed, whistles sounded, traffic halted, and the Broadway throngs pressed close to the lines of the blue-coated policemen to see the show.

Favorite Produced

The notables swept up the double-tiered, red-carpeted staircase to the boxes of the golden horseshoe, the lights dimmed to twilight and the curtain rose on an opera that has been one of the greatest musical favorites for 50 years.

In the setting of Egypt's pyramids and golden sands Maria Mueller sang the role of Aida, the captive daughter of the Ethiopian king; Karin Branzell wore the glittering trappings of the Egyptian princess, Amneris; Giovanni Martinelli sang the love songs of Aida's lover, Rhadames; and Giuseppe de Luca portrayed the Ethiopian king, Amonasro.

The feasting and dancing of an Egyptian court, religious scenes in the Temple of Isis, the death of Rhadames and Aida in a sealed tomb unfolded on the historic stage. Rita de le Porte, arrayed in the gold and jeweled costume of an Egyptian dancer, whirled through the famous ballet in her debut as premiere danseuse.

BURK C-C MAPS 1931 PROGRAM

Textile Mill and New Phone System Sought

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Oct. 27.—Civic projects for the coming year beginning with the annual membership drive Nov. 5-6-7, were outlined in a meeting Monday night of the directors of the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce.

Two major projects, in addition to the civic enterprises which are a part of the regular schedule, were adopted as goals for the year. The body will work for a new telephone system for the city and for the establishment of a textile mill to provide a market for cotton grown in the adjacent territory.

Ed J. Williams, president of the chamber, announced that 70 members and a budget of $5,000 is the goal of the three-day membership drive. Forces of the organization will be mobilized at a meeting of directors and team captains to be held on Monday night of next week. Fred Haskett of the Wichita Falls Record News and Daily Times, has been invited to address the group. Later a banquet in which all civic bodies will be invited to join is planned for the formal launching of the drive, but plans are still tentative.

The supplanting of the present telephone system by more modern equipment within the coming year is to receive the full support of the chamber, Mr. Williams declared.

In addition a textile mill with a capacity to handle five bales of cotton daily will be sought for the city. Such a plant could use the cotton production near Burkburnett and in Southern Oklahoma, it was explained. Details for financing the enterprise will be worked out later.

The chamber will continue its community program plan in operation during the past year, the president added, visiting its neighbors with good will tours and entertainments during the year. Agricultural, dairying and highway projects will be pushed, with special attention toward the approaches to the Red river bridge, the board decided.

Mr. Williams reported a spirit of enthusiasm and optimism as the board mapped out its program for achievement during the year to come.

Five-Day Week, Repeal Of Prohibition and Tax On Liquor Urged

SIX-POINT PROGRAM

Non-Political Tariff And Control of Mergers Are Proposed

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (UP)—A picture of a prosperous United States with a universal five-day work week, every Saturday a holiday, with prohibition abolished and liquor taxes replacing the present income taxes, was given over the radio today by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee.

"The Republicans ask what would the Democrats do if they were in power," Raskob said. "I gladly suggest some of the things to be done."

Raskob, a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said there was "no one in this country that can have any misgivings as to where I stand on the prohibition question." He added "there seems to be very little serious attempt to really enforce."

Raskob, making his only speech of the Democratic campaign for control of congress, outlined these features as part of a six part program which he suggested the Democrats carry out if they win power. Coming from the head of the party organization, the suggestions, most of them outside of the party's platform, nevertheless become somewhat official as representing the Democratic promises. There is doubt, however, that all Democrats would support some of them.

Bi-Partisan Tariff

The Democrats, he said, can do much to bring about the five-day week by adopting it for all government work and also by declaring every Saturday a holiday, thus en-

The committee will discuss present entertainment conditions, with the view to determining what class of entertainment is favored by residents here and what would draw largest crowds from the territory surrounding Wichita Falls.

Some effort will be made to assure a continuance of performances of the better type here, although many high class entertainment features here have proved financially unsuccessful. Encouraging a better patronage of high class plays and musical presentations will be a major undertaking of the committee, it was announced.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.—Adv.

Old-Time Barber Shop Gone Forever, Says State Examiner on Visit Here

The barber shop of former years when it was used as a gathering place for the sporting element of a town and occasionally for a shave or haircut, is rapidly passing, giving way to a modern establishment operated on strict business principles with the utmost in service and sanitation, according to Roy W. Johnston, chairman of the state board of barber examiners, and J. B. Robinson, director of examinations, who arrived in Wichita Falls Monday to conduct barber examinations as prescribed by a state legislative act recently gone into effect.

"The prime purpose of this law," the examiners stated, "is to assure the public of the highest degree of sanitation in the barber shop. Modern conditions demanded barber shops that were thoroughly sanitary and free of the possible transmission of disease and the more up-to-date barber as well as the public is rapidly showing its approval of the change."

Every barber, before he is permitted to practice his trade, is now required to be licensed, it was explained. Before a license is granted by the state board, the applicant must first pass physical and mental examinations as well as demonstrate his ability from the mechanical standpoint. Examinations are also given to determine the applicant's knowledge of how to sterilize his instruments and to keep his entire equipment in confirmity with sanitation regulations.

The examinations, which are being held at the Coleman Barber shop in the Perkins-Snider building, are being taken by barbers in Wichita Falls and by those residing within a radius of 100 miles of here.

Colorful Picture of Early Texas History Given in Talk by Priest

Rev. F. S. Rubi Addresses Congregation of Sacred Heart Church; Second Lecture Planned Later

In an address before members of the Church of The Sacred Heart at the parish hall Monday evening, Rev. F. S. Rubi of the Third Order Regulars of the Franciscan Order of Missionaries, drew a colorful picture of the history of Texas since the landing of the early Franciscan missionaries in 1690. His lecture was illustrated by motion pictures showing the monuments the pioneer missionaries left to mark the centers of early Christian culture in Texas. Among them was the Alamo, erected by the fathers and used by them through many years of struggle.

The missionary priest, introduced by Rev. Father F. J. Schiessl, explained that there are only four of his fellows in Texas today, serving a territory measuring 20,000 square miles, and ministering both to the spiritual and physical needs of their flock. Their work now is principally among the Mexicans, he declared, and the four travelers care for the sick and needy, teach methods of preventing illness, and meet every emergency in the lives of their scattered people.

Father Rubi expressed his thanks to the people of Texas for their response to appeals for help and for their donations for erecting an exact reproduction of the famous mission of San Jose, to be built at Waco.

Arrangements have been made for a return visit of the missionary at which time invitations will be extended to Wichita Falls people interested in the history of Texas

Methods of Postponing Death Discussed

giene section, in which he attributed degenerative diseases, such as those of heart and kidney, to breakdown in bodily functions.

The disease follows the breakdown, Doctor Price said, and strikes the victim when he already is dying.

Heart diseases increase in the winter because of a decrease of vegetable vitamines in the diet, the paper pointed out, adding that new soil, rich in minerals, is more favorable to the health of persons who live off its products.

Dr. R. L. Hill, nutritionist for the state agricultural experiment station of Utah, told of tests made with curded milk in the diets of babies, saying it had been learned such milk was beneficial for many infant aliments such as eczema, colic and stomach troubles.

"POOR RICHARD" BEHIND TIMES

FORT WORTH, Oct. 27. (UP)—"Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise," said Poor Richard, of Almanack fame. But don't you believe it. Stick with the hay as long as you wish, if you need the sleep.

That's the advice of doctors in Fort Worth for the American Public Health association's annual convention.

Most folks require eight hours' sleep a night, but if they turn in late at night there's no reason why they should turn out early next morning, according to Dr. P. W. Covington, from Salt Lake City.

"I refuse to go to bed as long as there is any entertainment around," said Dr. Covington, "but I won't stay up unless I can sleep long enough the next morning to get my eight hours. Just so a person gets eight hours sleep, I can't see that the hours make any difference."

"Four hours of sleep are enough for me," declared Dr. N. J. Urbanski, Buffalo, N. Y. "The amount of sleep needed depends upon the individual. I wouldn't be any healthier, wealthier or wiser if I retired every night at 10 o'clock. Yes, I'm afraid Old Richard is a bit out of date."

Dr. J. C. Anderson, Austin, state health department, sees no advantage in a person getting up with the chickens. "I do think, though," he said, "that thousands of men die between the ages of 45 and 50 who would live 10 years longer if they got more rest at night. Seven hours sleep is enough for a man unless he does hard manual labor, in which case he needs more."

REALTORS LUNCHEON

W. S. Curlee and J. M. Baber will be the principal speakers at a luncheon of the Real Estate board at the Kemp hotel Tuesday at 12 o'clock when they will discuss the appraisals of the value of a piece of property in the business district, it was announced by Roscoe Staton, president of the club. The luncheon will be one of the semi-monthly affairs of the group.

Octava Dua Returns

Besides Vanni-Marcoux, in the cast of the new opera were Maria Glaessens, Coe Glade, Charles Hackett, Desire Defrere, Sonia Sharnova, Jenny Tourel and Jean Vieuille who made debuts, and Octava Dua, returned after an absence of eight years. Emil Cooper conducted.

The piece was the historical drama of Alfred de Musset, set to music by Ernest Moret. It concerned the degenerated house of De Medici and unfolded a story of cunning and debauchery up to the plunging of a dagger into the breast of Alexandre de Medici, Duke of Florence.

There were four acts in nine scenes.

If the local committee which is trying to work out a plan for us in Wichita Falls to help improve Wichita Falls conditions can get 500 property owners in Wichita Falls to spend $50 each in improvements and repairs within the next 10 days we will have an entirely different feeling here and the example will be so contagious that it will reach most of the rest of the population.

What we need is to jar loose from a little money, and no campaign is going to get very far that doesn't start some spending in short order.

FETE TO OPEN AT FREDERICK

Annual Cotton Festival Starts Today

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 27.—With balmy October weather and a purified atmosphere following the recent rainy spell, natural conditions are ideal for the second annual Oklahoma cotton festival which begins at the city auditorium at 7:30 Tuesday evening and lasts until Thursday evening.

Miss Margaret Kadane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Kadane of this city, was selected as Miss Frederick and will compete with beauties selected from other cities for the honor of being the cotton queen.

Coronation of the queen Thursday evening will be one of the features of the festival. The Kadane family formerly resided at Wichita Falls.

Among early visitors today was Mrs. Robert Hudges formerly Miss Lois Patterson, last year's cotton queen. Other entrants this year include: Miss Margaret Bryan, Altus; Miss Margaret Hines, Wichita Falls; Miss Joe Meda Parks, Hollis and Miss Maybelle Parker, Tipton.

These candidates will be introduced at Tuesday night's program, after which they will be judged, modelling in evening gowns, street dresses and pajamas.

Local talent will appear in tap dances, black face acts, a Russian dance and other numbers.

WICHITANS TO ATTEND FETE

An automobile caravan of Wichitans will probably go to Frederick, Okla., Thursday to attend the last day of the Oklahoma Cotton festival and view the coronation of the cotton queen for which Miss Margaret Hines is competing as princess of Wichita Falls, it was announced Monday by Wilburn Page, secretary of the Junior chamber of commerce here.

Raskob Gives Demo Program

abling the banks to close on Saturday if they choose.

He proposed a bi-partisan tariff commission with long tenure and no general tariff revisions by congress. He said the capital gain and capital loss tax should be abolished. President Hoover recently criticized this tax for the same reason, that it ties up capital.

As to business, Raskob, one of the tall figures of the industrial world, said "everything has been thoroughly deflated and business now is turning upward." We will be singing "Happy Days Are Here Again" before long, he predicted.

Control of Mergers

The federal trade commission, Raskob said, should be authorized to hold public hearings and by certificate authorized gigantic mergers of industry, so long as the spirit of the Sherman anti-trust act is not violated. Giant mergers can enable reduction of costs, thereby promoting employment, happiness and prosperity, he said.

Raskob's five-day week proposal was based on the argument that recreational activities will be increased, providing for increased efficiency.

Raskob proposed that all holidays, except perhaps Christmas, be celebrated on Mondays to provide a three-day recreational period.

After calculating the probable government tax on the 876,000,000 gallons of liquor which the prohibition bureau estimates was made last year, Raskob said:

"Think what an impetus to industry and employment there would be if $900,000,000 which is today paid the government in federal income taxes by our citizens could be used to increase consumption and enlarge our industries, thus increasing employment.

"Some three or four times this amount is being paid every year to bootleggers, racketeers and others who constitute nothing more or less than idlers and barnacles on society. It is a sorry sight indeed to see sincere and well intentioned men in the ministry and good men and women in other walks of life whose mission is to teach and develop the best of all in us, unconsciously working hand in hand with bootleggers and racketeers in an effort to deny the people of the United States any opportunity to vote on this social experiment after a 10-year trial."

His proposal for a modification or interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust act was said to be the most concrete proposal of a project for which men of industry have been agitating for some time.

"The federal trade commission," he said, "should be empowered to hold public hearings whenever leaders of industry desire to present reasons why certain great combinations in industry are desirable and necessary for our future welfare. If in the opinion of a majority of the federal trade commissioners, facts developed indicate a given combination or merger is not inimical to the public interest and does not violate the spirit of the Sherman law in the matter of restraint of trade or controlling prices, then the federal trade commission should be empowered to issue a certificate which will grant immunity from criminal prosecution to those forming the merger."

The William Mary hotel placed two men at work Monday to redecorate and repaint a number of rooms on the first, second and third floors. These men will be kept busy for some time.

The management of both hotels stated that they desired giving aid to unemployed men and by doing the work now that greater expense could be eliminated in the future.

OIL MEN URGE IMPORT TARIFF

Independents Renew Drive For Protection

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 27. (UP)—"A Tariff of Foreign Oil" was the keynote of the convention of the Independent Petroleum association of Texas here Monday night.

Tom E. Cranfill, of Dallas, president, announced that the tariff problem was the principal issue facing the organization. "I think we will get the tariff from the next congress," he said. "The Republicans have declared for it."

R. S. Sterling, Democratic nominee for governor and W. E. Talbot, Republican nominee for the same office were among a group of speakers on the program.

Mayor C. M. Chambers, of San Antonio, in an address of welcome to the independent royalty owners, producers and refiners from over the state, declared that the tariff should be imposed on foreign crude to "protect the small fellows, the independents, as well as the large companies."

Cranfill, in his address, referred to recent price cutting of crude in the Wichita Falls and Panhandle districts. He said he had made a personal investigation, finding that there were wells at Pampa without a connection. These were refused, he said, by the pruchasing pipe line companies, who should be compelled to obey the law.

On motion of Walter Campbell, of Wichita Falls, the president was authorized to appoint a committee to gather data on pipe lines, including rates for transportation, whether or not discrimination is shown by the pipe line companies and the data to be submitted to a future meeting of the association.

Other speakers on the program include J. F. Lucey, Dallas; W. C. Strouble, Corsicana; R. T. Cannon, San Angelo; M. G. Cheney, Coleman; Senator Edgar E. Witt, Waco, and Marshal Eskridge, San Antonio.

Mrs. Franklin Hardinge Gives Birth to Girl

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (UP)—Mrs. Franklin S. Hardinge, who is 62, paid Miss Ann Livingston, Tulsa, Okla., stenographer, $20,000 for failing to marry her after a jury awarded her $25,000.

Always use best oil— say expert mechanics

When you consider how much you paid for your sewing machine, vacuum cleaner, lawn mower, washer, and other expensive devices, don't you think it's foolish to try to economize on oil? The very best costs only a few cents a year—and is really cheapest in the long run.

3-in-One, a scientific blend of mineral, vegetable and animal oils, is made especially for lubrication of household devices. It cleans and protects as well as lubricates. 3-in-One costs more to make than ordinary oil but it costs less to use. If you knew what expert mechanics know about oil, you'd never use anything else around the house. At good drug, grocery, hardware, department and general stores, in 15c and 30c bottles and cans. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.—Adv.

DOG ATTACKS SCHOOL BOY

Child Bitten on Arm as He Returns Home

While returning from school, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Grantham, 1601 Collins street, was attacked and bitten in two places on the arm by a large dog in the 1400 block on Holliday street, Monday afternoon, according to a report made to police.

Although the child was not seriously injured, the bites broke the skin and police instructed the owner of the dog to hold the animal in confinement several days for observation for signs of rabies.

A similar report was also made to police in which a dog in the 1400 block on Eighth street attacked and attempted to bite a man who was passing.

Junior C.-C. To Feast on Venison And Ducks Dec. 9

A dinner of venison and duck will be served to members of the Junior chamber of commerce at its annual banquet to be held Dec. 9 at the Wichita club, according to Jerry Vinson, president.

Gerald and Paul Pond, two members of the organization, returned last week from a hunting expedition to old Mexico and have donated two buck deer to the banquet provisions. Bill McKemie, Ralph Pond, Paul Hines and several other hunters have agreed to bring in enough ducks between now and the date of the banquet to supply each person present with half a bird. The venison, which is already on hand, has been placed on ice.

HYDE ANSWERS FRAUD CHARGE

Kansas Demos Accused of Crooked Registration

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 27. (AP)—Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, replied here today to charges directed by Charles M. Howell, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, against the allegations of the Republican state central committee, against the allegations of the Republican state committee that "wholesale fraudulent registration" occurred in Kansas City.

"I see that Charles M. Howell says the Republicans have the police department and the election board and that if there is crookedness in registration it is our fault," said Secretary Hyde, a former governor of Missouri.

"Mr. Howell is right a part of the way. We have the police and the election board and everything except the election thieves," Hyde continued.

"It seems to me that when the Republican organization was able to strike off 8,000 of the 18,500 names challenged it demonstrated pretty thoroughly that crooked registration for the November election was virtually wholesale. If that doesn't prove it, I don't know what it would take to do it."

HIGHWAY PLAN QUIZ WARMS UP

Charges of 'Horse Play' and 'Sell Out' Made

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 27. (UP)—Charges of "horse play" and "sell out" were heard this afternoon when hearing was resumed on the protest of S. C. Craig to Ira Hill's proposed $15,000,000 road note plan.

James S. Twyford, attorney for Hill, charged that "horse play" was being practiced in the hearing. Secretary of State Graves Leeper, before whom the hearing is being conducted denied emphatically that anything was being done to sidetrack the issue.

"I am doing my best to stay in the clear and will try this case as though a man's life was at stake," Leeper said.

The hearing was resumed so that D. C. Patterson, handwriting expert, might testify to the results of his check of signatures on the petitions filed by Hill.

S. A. Horton, attorney for Craig, said he believed Patterson was employed by the Republican party to check the names before he was employed by Craig.

Patterson failed to appear when the meeting opened.

Leeper then conferred with him by telephone and demanded that he answer charges made by Horton.

"If I had the authority I would send the militia after you," Leeper told Patterson over the telephone. "I can't see why you can't find an attorney while there are 1,100 of them here starving for a client."

Horton claimed he was not charging Patterson with irregularities in submitting the report, or the petition signatures, but said he believed the handwriting expert should be questioned to determine the real value of the report.

"I believe there has been lots of things going on by both parties," Leeper said.

"I would be glad if the court would take this case out of my hands."

Cameras Click as Prohi Agents Raid Boston Speak-Easy

BOSTON, Oct. 27. (AP)—While Police Commissioner Hultman today defended the action of police in taking flashlight photographs of patrons of suspected speak-easies during two liquor raids here last night, Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman announced he "would strongly advise the commissioner against any such policy."

Had the patrons demolished the cameras they would have been well within their rights, Silverman said.

Hultman, however, declared it within the law to take the names and addresses of persons found "and I believe we can further identify them by taking their pictures legally."

No liquor was found during the raids and no arrests were made.

Infantile Paralysis Claims Mangum Girl

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Oct. 27.—Infantile paralysis claimed another victim this week when Miss Gladys Agatha Markum, 15, succumbed at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Dial. She was stricken a week before while attending Junior High school.

Besides the parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Markum, the girl is survived by one sister, DeMoyne.

Oklahoma Trio Held On Robbery Charge

Those charged were White Trotter, 20, Carmen; Fred Knopp, 20, Canton, and Clifford Conway, 21.

Durant Proposes U. S. Civil Service Academy

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 27. (UP)—A United States civil academy "rivaling Annapolis and West Point" for the training of public servants, was advocated today by Dr. Will Durant, philosopher, here to address the Atlanta Women's club.

LEADING LAMBS TO SLAUGHTER

THAT'S a good comparison for washing fine silks and woolens in hot water. They were never made to stand such treatment. Perhaps you think there's no other way to get them clean. Then you've never tried White King Granulated Soap.

White King is made from the finest vegetable and nut oils—pure enough to eat. You'll find that it doesn't need hot water to produce rich, creamy suds, thorough cleansing and swift rinsing. Wash your fine fabrics in luke-warm water. It will add years to their lives and at the same time spare your hands from hot-water irritation.

White King Granulated Soap fills every household need. It's economical too. A teaspoonful for the wash basin, a cupful for the washing machine—plenty even in hard water. Try it. Sold by grocers everywhere.

NORTH CHINA FIGHTING ENDS

Rebel Forces Routed After Seven Months

NANKING, China, Oct. 27. (AP)—Nationalist government military headquarters today announced the end of the campaign in Honan province against the northern rebels.

The announcement said the rebel army of Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang had been driven entirely out of Honan and into Shansi and Shensi provinces, and that the Nationalists were in pursuit.

The driving of Gen. Feng Yu Hsiang's army from Honan province today, apparently indicating collapse of the northern alliance rebellion against the Nationalist government, came about seven months after hostilities started.

Declaring the government was corrupt and ineffective against widespread banditry and its "dictator," President Chiang Kai Shek, should be banished, Feng Yu Hsiagn and Yen Hsi Shan, governor of Shansi province, formed a coalition to establish a new government at Peipking.

JAMES A. FARLEY

Says

"Your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the Toasting of LUCKY STRIKE ranks with the many other great contributions to the health and comfort of millions."

Here is the complete statement as authorized by

JAMES A. FARLEY

President, General Builders Supply Corp.; Chairman, New York State Athletic Commission; Chairman, New York State Democratic Committee

"I am certain that without the use of modern, scientific methods the skyscrapers for which our country is so justly proud would never have been possible. I am equally convinced that your modern use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the Toasting of your LUCKY STRIKE Tobaccos ranks with the many other great contributions to the health and comfort of millions and that it is responsible for the skyscraping sales of your famous brand."

James A. Farley

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows — that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating!

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. James A. Farley to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Farley appears on this page.

New "Wall of China"
Easy Pearls
Coolidge and Hoover
Which Is Right?

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Germany is increasing her armed force to the limit. The French are building a defense line, 200 miles long, more extensive than the great wall of China.

"Peace! Peace! But there is no peace!" was the lament of an American statesman a century ago. It is still the lament and cry of a peace-loving world, to which militarists in the high places lend a deaf ear.

One does not have to go to the Tuamotus to come upon pearls. A large pearl of the value of $500 is found in a clam cocktail by a restaurant diner, Mrs. Stacy H. Miller of East Orange, N. J., when her thoughts are as far away from pearls as New Jersey is from the dangerous Archipelago.

The clam cocktail cost Mrs. Miller 35 cents. She will continue to eat in the same restaurant on the chance that she may come across another "find." Pearl divers, who risk their lives daily in shark-infested waters, often get nothing for their labors and bravery after months of trying. But such is life. The element of chance, if not found to square exactly with justice, lends at least color and surprise to existence, which is often more welcome than compensation for labor.

Since the "doers" of Arnold Rothstein and Jack "Legs" Diamond are still at large, enjoying the immunity of free citizens, gangmen are heartened to continue their self-extirpating gun sprees. In Paterson, N. J., another of the clan, "Mushy" Friedman, is shot to death. Five bullets are plugged into his body. A policeman reaches him before he expires, but, like Diamond, he refuses to tell who "did" him.

Friedman is the fourteenth racketeer to pay with his life for violating the code of gangland in Bergen and Passaic counties since Jan. 22.

If the police and law courts were half as thorough and effective in dispensing justice as our racketeers, we might hope for some sort of housecleaning before the edifice of our administration collapses entirely. The suggestion of a satirist that gangsters take over the judicial and executive branches of government and bring the present incumbents before the bar may not be as farcical as it sounds.

Calvin Coolidge, contemplating life from Northampton, compares our affluence and luxury with conditions in Massachusetts 300 years ago when the "bare necessities of existence were about all that the most unremitting toil, hardship and exposure could produce." It would be wholesome to think more on these things, says Mr. Coolidge.

Mr. Hoover, on the other hand, delivers a speech in which he defends high standards of living and asserts they must prevail. Which is right?

Ship's Crew Forced to Leap From Flames

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 27. (UP)—Fire starting in a huge sulphur pocket on a nearby deck enveloped the 7,000-ton steamer Gilteedge here today, trapping 26 seamen aboard the sulphur-laden vessel.

Forced to leap into the sea as flames ravaged the steamer, seven members of the crew narrowly escaped death. All were taken to Rhode Island hospital suffering from immersion.

The fire raged for two hours, feeding on hundreds of tons of sulphur which sent flames spurting over a wide area.

Damage resulting from the blaze, which menaced the providence waterfront was estimated at $100,000.

Times are purty skimpy when flicks hunt fall mushrooms with flashlights. Speakin' o' the movies, who recalls when the word "frank" meant bein' free from affectation instead o' meanin' somethin' vulgar an' obscene.

The University of Illinois finds that the average person speaks 30,000 words a day, and it will be a grave disappointment to Mr. Coolidge to learn he is not even average.

Tom Thumb golf has just been introduced in England. If it proves as successful there as it has here, perhaps it will take them out of the dole they are in.

The Way to Freedom

IN THE November issue of The Forum magazine a young woman tells of her experience in companionate marriage. She and the young man of her choice, she reports, found to their disappointment that this scheme provided them with less freedom than they would have had under a conventional marriage. They entered into it in an effort to avoid the restraints of wedlock, only to discover that they had plunged—so to speak—from the frying pan into the fire.

Ultimately, disillusioned and hurt, they drifted apart; but the young woman is confident that they would have made an enduring and valuable union of it if they had been legally and conventionally married in the first place.

All of this, of course, isn't as interesting as it would have been a few years ago, when companionate marriage was furnishing us with a new and enthralling topic for conversation. It is worth considering, however, for the light that it throws on freedom and the way it is to be gained.

These two young people described in The Forum were, presumably, much like the rest of us; they saw that freedom is hard to get and keep in the midst of a highly organized society, and they resented the demands which society has a way of making on its individual members. So they elected to cut straight through the web and live their own lives as they saw fit. They would refuse to submit, and society might go and chase itself.

Most adult human beings, probably, have felt the desire to try that stunt in one way or another; if not in marriage, then in other fields of activity. We are all rebels to a certain extent, and most of us can think of a good many ways in which the world could be made pleasanter and less confining.

Yet, as we begin to get on in years, we discover the glimmerings of a very strange and surprising truth. Freedom, for the individual, does not come through rebellion. It cannot be had by a simple ruthless slashing of ties and spurning of traditional bonds. You get it only by making up your mind to get along without it. If you grab for it, it inevitably eludes you.

Freedom, in other words, comes through service—not the capital-letter Service of the luncheon clubs, but the genuine article, which flows naturally out of forgetfulness of self. The man who frets about it misses it. The man who puts it out of his mind and whole-heartedly accepts the fact that he cannot possibly live for himself alone—he, in the fullness of time, finds that he has attained it.

This, naturally, isn't pleasant doctrine for the young and ardent. They will not believe it, and they often let themselves in for a good deal of heartache and loneliness in the effort to prove that it isn't so. And yet it is only another way of phrasing that profound old Galilean truth—"He that saveth his life shall lose it."

Enter the New Season

OPENING of the Little Theater 1930-31 season Monday night should serve to occasion in the minds of Wichita Falls people new appraisals of the organization as an asset to the community.

Growth of the Little Theater movement during the past two years throughout the country has been augmented, it is generally agreed, by the rapid development of drama on the sound screen. Despite the popularity of talking pictures, and their capacity for bringing famed stars before the public at reasonable prices, there remains in every city a considerable number of persons who desire an active participation in dramatics rather than a purely passive one. In addition to that group whose members wish to take the stage themselves, there are additional ones who prefer the actor in the flesh, if possible, to one whose picture moves upon a screen in synchrony with mechanically produced sound.

For those two classes, upon whose shoulders rest the continuance of the speaking stage in the provinces, the Little Theater fills a large place in their avocational lives. The character of entertainment which it affords is of remarkably high grade, for its uses plays on which sizable royalists must be paid.

Activities of the Little Theaters as civic organizations are typified by the record of the Wichita Falls Little Theater in 1929-30. By a benefit performance it turned over $980 to the local zoological society for community benefit. By winning third place in the state contest at Fort Worth, giving Wichita Falls wide publicity throughout the state for cultural enterprise on a strictly amateur basis.

Through its offer of acting assignments to scores of local persons every year, it provides one of the most effective types of recreation—which consists of getting out of one's daily routine. It is to be hoped that this city will continue to approve an amateur organization which has made such a commendable start, and will register its approval in terms of material support.

A Windowless Factory

THE typical factory used to be a high brick building with blank, expressionless walls studded with small, dirty windows. More recently it became a combination of steel and glass, almost as open to the sun as a greenhouse. Now, apparently, it is about to undergo another change.

The Austin company, international engineers and builders, are building a radically different factory for the Simonds Saw and Steel company at Fitchburg, Mass. The building will have no windows at all, nor will it have skylights; yet its designers believe it will provide more fresh air and better light for its workers than any factory yet constructed.

Hundreds of thousand-watt lamps will provide uniform illumination such as is not possible in window-lighted factories. Ventilation systems will keep the air pure and maintain a constant temperature. All machinery will be painted orange-color, and walls and ceiling will be blue, green and white.

It will be interesting to see if this sets a new vogue for factory construction.

Question

You called me fickle—scorned my flighty ways,
Nor gave me one brief moment to explain;
You said that other lads would fill my days,
And left me to my sorrow and my pain;
I've racked my brain to find the reason why
You charged me with a sin that was not mine,
Did you believe a subtle little lie
That someone told to poison rapture's wine?

Well, we are through, but may I tell you this?
No other lad can lay a claim to me;
No other lad will ever bend to kiss
The lips you claim are steeped in perfidy;
I wonder as I yearn for your caress—
Just what you mean, my dear, by fickleness?

—EX-MISTRESS.

"Always Belittlin'"

The bitterness, sarcasm and other fault-finding you discover in a good Broadway column is necessary to interpret Broadway flawlessly. The Broadway column is hardly as caustic as the genuine Broadwayite, one means to add. To the genuine Broadwayward type all is phoney—all is tinsel—all is horsefeathers. Nothing is on the level—there's a trick to it, it is done to deceive you. To the Broadway cynic all is counterfeit.

Here is a concrete example. It happened the other night when Marc Lachman of the Dillingham press department watched them bring the monster whale to 53rd St. where it is on exhibition.

"Golly!" golly'd an awed witness, "get a load of that gigantic fish!"

"Humph," grumbled Marc (a critic at heart), "they sell bigger herring at Dave's Blue Room!"

Or Pun-Employment?

And, shouts Izzy Elinson, something should be done about the gun-employment situation!

By Golly!

Harry Ruby, the co-author of Amos 'n' Andy's first phlicker, was recently sealed in Hollywood to Cleo Cullen. They Charleston'd down the center aisle at 5:30 p. m. At 9:30 the next yawning in the studio, the groom was fretting. "What's up, Harry?" someone queried.

"Oh," groaned the groom, "these Hollywood wisenheimers make me sick. They know everything, don't they? Just a lotta wiseguys, humph! They said this marriage wouldn't last. Well, we're still together!"

Pun My Soul!

One Harry B. barks: "After reading your col'm for some time I am now convinced that the pen is mightier than the sordid—and why call it tablurid? More appropriate is tablewd!"

And in some cases—tabooed.

O, Mr. Ryder!

Sue Daly, all the way from Kansas City, bellows: "Girls, do your Santa Claus shopping before the Xmas rush!"

Goody, Goody!

"Mr. Winchell: I am not a kin of Rudy Vallee. I wish I were. How I would love to be anything to him! If I were only a lady of the evening I would seek him to see if I could be of any service. How I wish I were a maid in his apartment to make his bed. I would cover his pillow with kisses so that when his weary head laid down at night at least part of me would be with him.

"Please be friends with him. I'm only in New York City for a few days. I'd love to see something nice about Rudy. Sweet Rudy! I like you. I adore him! I'd enjoy you both being friends. If you ever saw him you'd never be mean to him again, poor Rudy. I'm not a kin, but I'll defend him even if I have to come to your office and bite you!—Lydia, Biltmore hotel."

Why, Mrs. Pinkham!

Wisey

Fred Allen of "Three's a Crowd," the new hit revusical at the Selwyn, reports that things are so tough around town that autograph hunters are only asking for initials.

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for F. J. Wilstach's Simile dictionary: Mary Heaton Vorse: Bibulous ladies whose noses are like ripe tomatoes! . . M. Shenkin's: As exasperated as a left-handed eater at Thompson's . . . Jane S. Davis: Your magazine (Liberty) is like an interesting woman—good and bad . . . H. L. Mencken: Will perish as surely as the Arkansas Baptists who die of Jamaica ginger . . . The Pathfinder's: Different as a label and a libel—it all depends upon whom it is pasted, and, "Bugs" Baer's: Collapsed like a pair of vacant sox.

Overhead

"I see that Joe Doakes and Mary Phlung are doing the town together a lot lately. Do you think they really care?"

"Say, they're so gaga about each other, they're at the fighting stage!"

In Fewer Words

Many a play running on Broadway is only walking.

The Idea Dandy

Ashton Stevens, the Chi-Hurld-Exam's drama defender, has a swelegant plan to stifle the entr'acte pests who ask the critic what he thinks of the show. Ashton, who would have other drama oracles follow suit, intends to exit from the next premiere with one or two placards on his back reading: "I liked it" or "I think it is peeoooy!"

Sotto Voce

S. D.: No ma'am—that was hardly Miss Guinan's first Broadway flame.

Mimi Phillips: Very good. Use later.

Gerald Martin: It doesn't jell.

Harriet Lord: "Kisses" and "wishes?"

The Squelch Vicious

The editor of a Jersey newspaper ankled into a place where soda water was peddled. Two other intoxicated reporters began belittling the editor's success in lifting his rag's circulation.

"It is said," sneered one of the rogues, "that while all other papers tumbled during the summer your sheet kept climbing. How do you explain that?"

"Perhaps," said the editor stiffly, "it was because even in the summer we had a talented staff."

"Perhaps," snapped one of the upstarts, "it was because people bought your paper when it was hot to use as a fan!"

HEARTBREAK GIRL

By ROB EDEN . . .

Gail Stuart, hiking to Hollywood, is picked up by Nick Walther, who gets her a screen test. She falls and becomes secretary to Carla Cross, star. By a "white lie" she gets a break for Ross Hardy, her fiance, and he becomes Carla's leading man. Enamored of the star, Ross goes riding with her. Driving at reckless speed, Carla runs down a woman. In the darkness, she is not recognized and she gives Gail's name. Rushing home, she and Ross urge Gail to accept the blame to save Carla's career. Tod Janson, press agent, adds his pleas, promising to take care of her. Stunned by Hardy's attitude, Gail sees the officers and they take her to jail. Bail is refused, as police fear the woman may die.

CHAPTER XVIII

Tod Janson's talk of wire pulling seemed to be in vain, for at 3 o'clock the next day, Gail still occupied a small cell in the county jail. Tod had come and gone three times that day, looking more worried each time. His suave urbanity appeared to be breaking.

The newspapers had been frightful. Two afternoon dailies lay on the cot. The girl had glanced through them, and then thrown them down. Staring headlines. Screen Star's Secretary Jailed on Manslaughter Charge . . . Joy Ride Ends in Jail for Screen Star's Secretary. . .

A big picture of herself in one paper, a smaller one in the other. How had the reporters found them? Photographs of Mrs. Laura Mendenhall on her sick bed in the hospital.

Things Grow Worse

One paragraph in the news stories brought all the black horror of it more vividly than ever to Gail. "Doctors say it will be a miracle if Mrs. Mendenhall lives. Already she has had two blood transfusions, but is sinking fast."

Any minute Gail expected someone to bring word that the woman was dead.

She glanced disdainfully at the bunch of red roses in a vase on the floor. They had come with Carla's card in the heart of the bouquet. Dozens of them, blood red, velvety roses.

What would she do if Mrs. Mendenhall died? Tod had said at his last visit that she was better, but the newspapers denied that. Sinking fast, they read. Sinking fast. What if she were dead now, and no one had told her? She couldn't go through with this farce—couldn't. It was more than anyone could expect of her.

The editorials, too, were awful. Condemning her for driving so fast. "No one safe on the roads today . . . The wild youth of the nation . . . Time to put a stop to their lawlessness . . ."

"Carla Cross, prominent moving picture actress, who hired Gail Stuart as her secretary, expressed sympathy for Mrs. Laura Mendenhall when interviewed on the set at the Werber studio where she is making 'Crossroads!'"

Sympathy. When it was all her doing. When she had struck the woman. Sympathy.

Why hadn't Ross been in to see her? Gail had waited all day for some sort of a message from him. True he was working, but he might have . . . he might have sent word.

At 3:30, the matron came and announced that there was a visitor. Gail got up obediently and followed her into the corridor.

"Mrs. Mendenhall? How is she?" she asked.

"She's still alive," Mrs. Balcom replied, "but very low. They say she won't live through the night."

"You'll tell me if anything happens?"

Crazy Children

"Yes," Mrs. Balcom's lips tightened. She was convinced that her charge was truly sorry for what she had done, but still she couldn't wholly approve of her. Speeding as she had done. Running down a woman on the open highway. These crazy children. She was glad she didn't have any daughter to look after. A son was enough—even if he weren't old enough to drive . . .

"Who is the visitor?"

"I don't know—some man."

Tod again. Gail thought wearily. No use of his coming all the time.

"Sorry I can't stay longer, but we're having a conference this evening."

She would rather he didn't, when he had no news to give her. She felt dirty, grimy, utterly useless. Dark circles shadowed her violet eyes, and her red lips drooped at the corners.

When she reached the small visitors' room, instead of Tod, she found Ross waiting for her. With a low cry she was in his arms, and he was patting her shoulder, reassuringly.

"I thought you weren't coming—that you didn't care—" she half sobbed.

"Silly of you. You might have known I'd come. The first minute I could get away. . Say—I'm awfully sorry about this, but you're doing such a big favor to Carla—"

"You wanted me to do it, didn't you?"

"Yes. Carla—"

"Let's don't talk about Carla now, Ross. Please."

"She wanted me to thank you. You see how it would have been for her, Gail, if she had to come down to this horrible place! Why she's never been inside a jail before—"

"Neither have I—"

"But she—"

"What?"

"She's different, Gail."

"Different than I?"

"Well, not that, but—I can't explain." Ross was embarrassed and showed it. He ran his fingers through his curly dark hair. There was a frown on his face.

Ross Uncertain

"I think she should know now that we're engaged, don't you, Ross?"

Ross turned away, and strummed the bench with his fingers. He did not meet Gail's eyes.

"Don't you?" she persisted. "It would be a good time to tell her. We are engaged, aren't we?" The diamond on her finger. Ross' diamond, which he had said she was never to take off. She hadn't since he had put it there—with a kiss.

"Why, yes—"

"Shall we tell her then? You tell her!"

"I don't think we should, Gail. Not yet. You see, with me just starting and all that. You understand, don't you? It wouldn't be best—not yet. Maybe later after the picture is finished."

"You love me, don't you?"

"Yes—" but it didn't have the conviction that it had had. Ross was not looking into her eyes.

"I think we should tell her then."

"No—please, Gail. Let's wait as you originally planned."

Gail sighed deeply. She couldn't understand why Ross didn't want to tell Carla yet. When he said he loved her, admitted they were engaged. This favor she was doing Carla would give him an excellent opportunity.

"Frightful place, isn't it?" Ross shuddered. "I'm glad Carla's not here. Sorry I can't stay any longer, but we're having a conference this evening about the picture. Brackett's to be there—"

"At Carla's?"

"Yes." He kissed her lightly as he left, and went without a backward look. Mrs. Balcom came for the girl, but instead of taking her back to her cell, took her up another corridor into the offices.

"They told me to bring you here," she explained. "You're to get bail at last. Some one arranged it with the judge—"

Downhearted

Then she didn't have to spend another night here! At any other time Gail would have been jubilant. Now she was downhearted after her talk with Ross. He had been so—distant. So unlike himself. The self she loved, and wanted. Talking of Carla that way. Was he beginning to fall in love with her? No, he would have told her if he had. His work—he was worried about it. The conference—

Nick Walther was waiting in the captain's office when she got there, with Mrs. Balcom.

"Ready to go?" he asked.

"I'm to go?"

"I arranged bail with Judge Latham."

So after she had collected her clothes, she followed him out to his roadster. The same long slim car she had ridden in that first day—

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We learn that facts may be expressed in words that make the statements grave social errors. But counting a true heart, a generous nature and real breeding the fine things of life, we have never wasted study over socially correct and socially wrong things.

◆ ◆ ◆

We were really glad when Emily Post, the authority on the correct thing in social life, announced that one might take fried chicken in the fingers and also that it was permissible to use the knife and fork on salad. (But we were given these facts; we did not read Mrs. Post to ascertain them). So much more sensible than using a salad fork on lettuce and probably sending it into your neighbor's lap.

◆ ◆ ◆

Is a social error or a grammatical error more to be deplored? How many really well educated people, we wonder, heard our president in the international hookup read as he or his "ghost" wrote, that he wished to 'facilitate' the nations upon this forward step, etc. He may really have meant facilitate but felicitate would have sounded more apropos.

◆ ◆ ◆

Social errors, we gather, are such things as not wearing gloves to a luncheon or failing to word one's 'avitations, etc., correctly, though Heaven only knows when Emily Post may make an unannounced change in the best form.

◆ ◆ ◆

The man who uses his knife in eating or the person who eats "crosseways" or uses a spoon for pie can't commit social errors; they are outside the social pale.

◆ ◆ ◆

But inside it, watching every "p" and "Q", there are so often those who have no hesitancy in thrusting the harpoon of criticism into another who may err.

◆ ◆ ◆

Once upon a time years ago we almost lost all favor when a member of the socially elite was telling us a story while chewing gum and believing that she had lots of humor in her makeup, we quoted what a member of our family had quoted to us as she chewed vigorously;

"A gum chewing girl and a cud chewing cow,
They're alike someway, yet different somehow;
The difference,—oh yes, I see it now—
The intelligent look on the face of the cow."

◆ ◆ ◆

But we have learned that people who take social life very seriously lack humor. The two things could not possibly go together.

◆ ◆ ◆

Some day we shall read and try to memorize Mrs. Emily Post and when she makes a change in correct social procedure, it won't be our fault. We will say "Well, she said 'so and so' when we read her."

◆ ◆ ◆

In the meantime, we still assert that honesty, truthfulness and kindliness are the greatest things in life.

Interesting Program Given At Presbyterian Rally Day

Rally day for the woman's department of the First Southern Presbyterian church was observed in an inspirational meeting Monday when Japan featured the afternoon program. Mrs. J. E. STUPID FROM BILIOUSNESS

"Felt 100 Per Cent Better After Taking Black-Draught," Says This Lady

Cerulean, Ky.—"About 10 years ago, I learned of Black-Draught and the benefits others had gotten from using it, and, needing a good laxative, I decided to try it," writes Mrs. W. M. Poindexter, of this place.

"I had been feeling dull and stupid from biliousness, and after I had taken Black-Draught I thought I felt one hundred per cent better.

"Black-Draught relieves a headache very quickly. I have also taken it for indigestion and colds, and always felt much better after taking it. I think it is a splendid medicine."

Thedford's Black-Draught is composed of pure botanical ingredients, and contains no chemicals. The roots and herbs of which it is made are finely powdered, which enables the digestive juices of the stomach to extract its medicinal properties in an easy, natural way.

This medicine has been in use since 1835, with constantly increasing popularity because of the good it has done to the men, women and children who have taken it.

Little Theater Scores Outstanding Success in Season's First Play

By W. L. UNDERWOOD
The Record News Staff

Since it is solely for the purpose of transporting the audience into the spirit and characters of a play that plays are presented, inauguration of the Wichita Falls Little Theater's 1930-31 season Monday night with the first performance of Willard Mack's "Kick In" may properly be reviewed by stating simply that it was an obvious and complete success.

Quiet which equalled that accorded "Sun-Up" last spring as presented by Marguerite Tanner and her supporting cast marked the reception of the gangland mystery-melodrama Monday night. While the melodramatic elements of plot which might be termed florid are present, the portrayed characters through which the story is told reach so deeply into every day human nature as to take the play clearly above the good old hero vs. villain story.

Cast Excellent

Selection of those who made their initial Little Theater appearance here in "Kick In" must be made largely by referring to casting lists of past productions; Monday night's performance was almost uniformly excellent, and certainly bore out the prediction that this play, more than any of the past season, was adeptly cast from the least to the greatest role. And it is in the adequate development of the lesser roles, such as that of Daisy, Mrs. Halloran, and Myrtle that a dramatic performance attains a satisfying standard.

"Kick In" is replete with humor, though only on one occasion does the narrative abate for a prolonged period of fun making. That is in the second act, when Tilla Mae Schaffer's "Memphis Bessie," Mrs. A. D. Duck's "Mother Halloran," and Mrs. C. A. Spragins' irrepressible "Daisy" provide a delectable, though brief, session of exhilaration against which the tragedy of ensuing action is brought in effective relief.

Remembering that weeks of repeated performances are requisite to perfect rendition of lines, the almost complete lack of lapses in conversation in Monday night's opening presentation was pleasantly noticeable. There were—being a first night—a few cases of slight fumbling as phrases were introduced in a rapid exchange. But after the first act, spoken parts maintained the desired tempo in varying scenes with a striking spontaneity.

Two Other Performances

Performances of Tuesday and Wednesday nights will afford adequate opportunity for acknowledging of individual contributions to the success of "Kick In" as gripping entertainment. Bowing to new comers in the ranks of Little Theater players, however, tribute must be paid Mrs. Victor B. Lowrey for her portrayal of Myrtle Sylvester. To take the stage with inaction born of dumb grief, with only a word to say occasionally, and still to wring the hearts of one's audience with the poignant force of eloquent posture is close to the essence of histrionic excellence. Mrs. Lowrey earned the ovation which greeted her first scene.

Packed houses which are expected for Tuesday and Wednesday night's performances will see Paul Barnett, W. D. Bent, Allen T. Rowan, J. W. Whitelaw, Miss Frances Ann Saunders, Jerry Moffett and Lloyd Wyatt in roles for which they are peculiarly fitted and which receive full justice.

Music before curtains Monday night was furnished by Miss Mildred Anderson, pianist, Durwood Park and Homer Donohue, violinists.

CHURCH CLUB HEARS MARTIN

Episcopal Group Told Of Modern Hysteria

The Episcopal Men's club began its third-year program Monday evening with Judge P. A. Martin as the principal speaker.

Judge Martin named the subject of his address "Hysteria" and stated people of today are living in an age of hysteria.

We don't take time to think soberly, but during the coming year we are going to have to take time to do enforced thinking," he said. "Rapid progress has produced a condition of hysteria which has resulted in a faster moving race."

In making the statement that the world is growing better every day, Judge Martin pointed out the many advantages now available to every class, attributing advancement to a great extent to improved means of communication.

"There is really no more crime today than in former years and there is no more drinking now than there was 25 years ago. The belief that crime is more rampant at present than at any time is advanced by those people who take no time for thought."

A clipping from a Jackson, Miss., newspaper was read during the meeting, which paid tribute to Bishop Theodore DuBose Bratton, father of W. D. Bratton, rector of the Episcopal church here.

J. H. Allison made a brief report on the layman's division of the provincial synod recently held in Little Rock, Ark., describing success of missionary and medical work in China in gaining converts to Christianity.

Dr. Wallace J. Masters, president, appointed an advisory committee of Merrill W. Blair, J. H. Allison and David G. Gray, to confer with the president on questions of major importance.

Vocal numbers were furnished by E. Reeves, KGKO announcer, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker.

Conroe Jurist Faces Charges

CONROE, Texas, Oct. 27. (AP)—State rangers left here today after filing three more felony charges against A. W. Morris, suspended county judge in connection with their investigation into the records of the First State bank of Conroe.

Hearing on an ouster case against Morris, scheduled to open in district court today, was continued until next Monday.

The three new complaints against Morris charged him with making false statements to Bank Examiner F. C. Branson on Sept. 16, 1929.

Fourth Felony Charge

A fourth felony charge was lodged against J. M. Griffith, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants State bank, which failed to open 10 days ago after its records were discovered mysteriously burned. He was charged with making a false entry in the bank's books Aug. 30. The specific complaint alleges that he raised a $320.51 item and made it read $2,321.51.

Griffith who faced two charges of embezzlement, and a charge of the theft of the records of the Farmers and Merchants State bank, filed Saturday, was released again today after supplying a $500 bond on the false entry charge.

False Securities Alleged

The three complaints filed today against Morris alleged that he falsely testified to the security of a note for $1,500 executed by H. A. Budde, the security on several notes aggregating $6,500 executed by the Wells Kennery company and with concealing an $8,00 liability due W. A. Trice. The 56-year-old jurist waived examining trial in all three cases and was released under $500 bond in each case.

"I have nothing to say about the charges against me," Judge Morris declared. "All my talking will be done from the stump during my campaign for county judge on an independent ticket."

GRAHAM AND NOCONA UNDEFEATED IN CLASS B, DISTRICT NO. 4

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

The First Methodist church has already gone far towards organizing a church basket ball league for the city, in fact seven teams have already been enrolled in the league and but one more team may be accommodated. The last team to be taken into the league probably will be known after a meeting tonight of representatives of the various teams who will participate in the league.

This may be a random thought, but it appears the church league will serve the same purpose as the "Rockne system" does in football. In other words, it will be a good means of developing talent for cage teams in the public schools. Ross Edgemon, director of athletics for the church, said the league intended in no way to interfere with high school basket ball, or basket ball in any other school of the city, but would welcome into its fold players not intending to go out for school teams.

This is a sound ploicy, for in this manner the schools will not lose players. On the other hand, players who prefer the church league to the school teams, either on account of age or lack of experience, may learn the fundamentals of the game in the church league and so be available at a later date for their school team. The church league, thus, could serve as a training ground for the school teams, and not interfere with the latter at all. The school teams will have material in reserve, even as a football coach, using the Rockne system of developing all talent in sight, profits by the plan by having experienced material in later years.

What Happened to Lin?

This news is more than a month old. Such reporting! But it could not be helped. I told Lin Storti to write me all about it when it happeend, but he didn't.

Well, it happened anyway, and now Lin Storti and wife are living happily in Long Beach, Calif. They were married in Tulsa, home of the bride, who was Miss Daphine Teel. The ceremony took place just as soon as Storti could shake the dust of the St. Looey baseball park off his feet.

Coach Holton pulled a good one against the Vernon Lions last Saturday, and he might want to use it again some time, but it's too good to keep bottled up in secrecy. Anyway, all the other teams probably know about it by now.

On the defense, he switched Max Sepkovitch and Chick Holden, regular guards, to the tackle positions. The change seemed to work. The Lions made very little, if any, gains through these positions. The whole line, in fact, worked remarkably well, said Coach Holton. Particularly was he pleased with the performance of Earl Harbes, who started at right guard. Harbes is a reserve lineman. Earl played excellently on both offense and defense, and made several fine tackles, the mentor said.

The change of Sepkovitch and Holden to tackle posts was a move decided upon after the Quanah game, Holton said, in which the Indians charged through the Coyote tackles virtually at will.

$5 Per Touchdown

With Kansas being out of the Big Six conference race following charges of professionalism against one of its star players, and with the whole conference being in a turmoil over the question, there has come out of the smoke and carnage only one opinion which seems worthy of notice.

It is that of Dr. Frederick W. Hawley, president of Park college, an institution not listed in the conference, and which in fact does not participate in any intercollegiate sport.

Dr. Hawley is quoted in a recent Associated Press dispatch.

"The rules," he said, referring to edicts against subsidization of athletics in colleges, "are untenable, cannot be enforced, and should be abolished. Subsidization, which exists now, should be openly recognized and controlled. If Big Six athletic rules were applied to other college ventures it would be virtually impossible for many youths to get an education.

"I see no reason why an athlete should not be permittted to use his special abilities to earn his way through school. It is no worse and no better to capitalize your athletic prowess throwing hash or booting a football."

In voicing this opinion, Dr. Hawley is no less than a pioneer in his field. Doubtless many a college president has thought the same thing before. It is a rational thought, and is full of common sense. But to admit that one thinks that way has been taboo. It is just not the thing to say. It is a violation of a code that has long been in practice, at least the outward veneer of our colleges has led the public to think that it has been in practice. But how many instances of professionalism in our colleges have been unearthed in the last few years! The last instances to become known to the public have their origin in the Big Six conference, but virtually every conference has at some time felt the taint. Probably it would be more evident if secrecy in reference to the matter were not everywhere carefully observed.

Dr. Hawley suggests that we bravely come out and admit whether or not professionalism exists in our colleges. Of course there would be many shocked people when the public heard the voices of the athletes emanating from the confessional. But they would be shocked only because they have been taught forever to shriek at the thought of their heroes of the gridiron getting three square meals a day and a cot to sleep on after they have amused the virtuous-minded public by ploughing through an enemy line on every week-end during the season.

Is it, indeed, so awful? Does it actually violate the so-called "spirit" of athletic competition? Before the campus rooters knew that John Ruffam was getting 20 bucks a week from a laundry owner who boosted the team, and for whom the athlete never worked, did said rooters fail to cheer every time said Ruffam made a touchdown? Then why should they cast aspersions on him when it is finally revealed that he virtually has been "playing for money," since the loyal laundry owner was shelling out in order that the athlete might eat?

Dr. Hawley suggests that we come out with the truth of professionalism, and try in some way to regulate it. This last proposition is not clear, but we presume he means to regulate the professionalism to the extent the athletes will not reap a fortune out of their ability to boot a football. Indeed, a fortune should not be the demand of a star. But he should be able to make enough money to take him through college decently clothed, and well-fed, and with enough cash to buy an extra pencil once in a while, and step out occasionally with a fair one.

Doubtless Dr. Hawley's remarks at present will receive but scant attention. "Horrors," the public will shout, "We will never allow pros on our teams!"

What they really mean, in many instances, is, "We will never admit that we have pros on our teams."

And at some later date, perhaps, the colleges will finally come around and admit their professionalism. In which event we can point back to Dr. Hawley and repeat with him, that truth should prevail.

JACKSBORO TO PLAY INDIANS

Tribe Must Hurdle Threat This Week

With the football race of the class B schools in district four more than four weeks under way only two teams have passed undefeated. Graham, with wins over Bellevue, Bridgeport, and Jacksboro still has a clean record on its drive toward the north half championship of the district. Nocona has also stayed out of the defeat column by hanging up decisive victories over Bellevue, Bridgeport, and Bowie. Both teams will find the going harder from week to week, yet Graham will be resting this week while Nocona meets one of its highest hurdles when they journey to Jacksboro. Graham barely nosed out the boys from Jack county last week, 6 to 0, and the Indians from Nocona are expecting to meet some real tough opposition which might prove a drop for them in the percentage column.

Bowie, Jacksboro Strong

With one defeat each the Bowie and Jacksboro teams are still considered in the running and are capable of giving anything in the district plenty of competition. Jacksboro is still in Nocona's way toward the championship and Bowie is still in Graham's path. Should the two teams on top at present pass these foes undefeated, the north half championship will be determined when they meet in Graham in Nov. 21.

The winner of this half, consisting of Bellevue, Bowie, Bridgeport, Graham, Jacksboro, Newcastle, and Nocona will play the winner of the south half of the district consisting of Masonic home (Fort Worth), Weatherford, Arlington, Decatur, Rhome, Grandbury, Diamond Hill, (Fort Worth), for the championship of the entire district on Thanksgiving day.

DALLAS, Oct. 27. (AP)—Weldon "Speedy" Mason, triple-threat man of the Southern Methodist university, hardly knows the taste of defeat.

For five years the teams with which Mason played never had been beaten. Then came Oct. 4, 1930, and the Mustangs tangled with Notre Dame.

The men of Coach Knut Rockne eked out a 20 to 14 victory and it was the first losing game in which the fast halfback ever had participated.

In the three years Mason played with Waco High school, his team was the undefeated champion of the Texas Interscholastic league and a claimant of the national title.

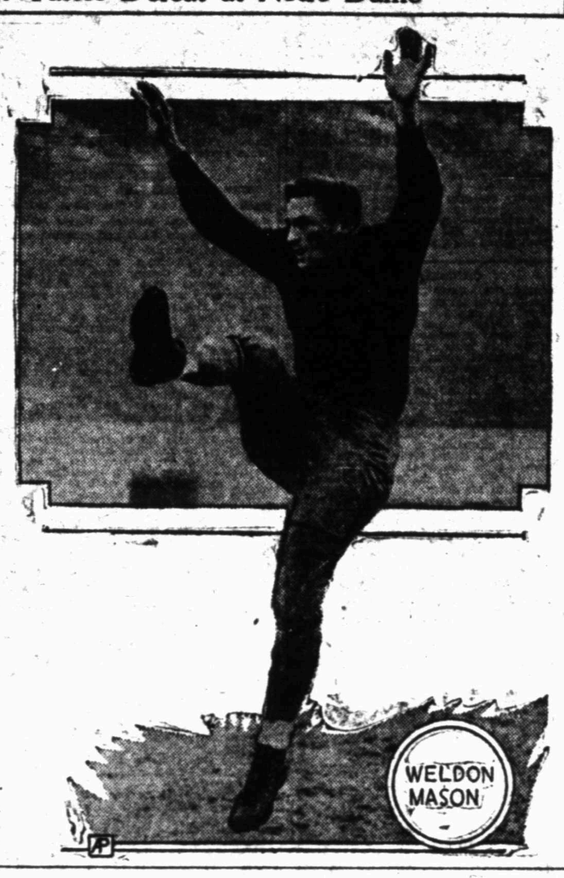

Entering Southern Methodist university in 1928 Mason's team went through an unbeaten season, and last year as a sophomore he starred for the undefeated Mustang varsity.

There was some solace for Mason when his great string of victorious games was broken at South Bend. He had been carried from the field a few moments before the Ramblers scored the winning touchdown late in the fray.

Mason is one of the principal reasons why the Mustangs are favored in the Southwest conference race, despite their back-breaking schedule.

He is an exceptional passer and punter and a terror in a broken field, specializing in long, weaving runs from his safety position. He is, in addition, one of the section's outstanding backs.

Eastern fans will have an opportunity to see the "Pony Express" in action when the tricky Methodists meet the navy at Baltimore Nov. 15.

Spudders Start Rebuilding With Drafting Of Two Class B Players

The first step towards rebuilding the Wichita Falls baseball club for the 1931 season was taken Monday when President William E. Huff announced he had drafted two players from the class B New York-Pennsylvania league.

The players drafted are Robert Fuss of the Scranton, Pa., club, and Herbert A. Bryant of the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., club. Fuss played second base with the Scranton nine most of last season, but towards the close was shifted to the outfield. Bryant is a catcher.

Talent Scramble Starts

Thus the scramble for new talent is on, a scramble that will reach its height early in December at the annual baseball meeting at Montreal. There club officials will bargain for the majority of players with whom they will enter into league warfare next year. President Huff indicated there will be few, if any, additional players acquired by the Spudders until the December meeting.

Data on the players drafted by the Spudders was meager, but club officials said both were great swatters last season, Fuss banging out an average of .315 and Bryant coming through with the much larger figure of .370.

Fuss vs. Allday

Fuss, when he reports for spring training in 1931, will find he is opposed for a berth at the keystone sack by at least one player who will be hard to oust, to-wit, Bear Allday. Bryant will meet similar opposition in the person of Art Bradbury. The latter served as second string maskman last season, while Allday was farmed out by the Spudders to Springfield, Mo.

The call for talent from the New York-Penn marks the second time in the last year the Spudders have called upon that loop. Last season the Spuds acquired Fred Vincent, cyclonic pitcher, from Wilkes-Barre. Vincent is expected to return next season.

Perryton to Get Test In Spearman Clash

Special to The Record News.

PERRYTON, Texas, Oct. 27.—The Perryton High school Rangers will probably get a test of their real strength when they meet the heavy Spearman eleven at Spearman, Friday, Oct. 31. This game will probably decide the sectional championship as these teams are doped as the favorites for class B in this section.

The locals have won five games in a row and three of the teams failed to score, but Spearman has even a more formidable record. That city boasts the best team in its history.

The Rangers are idle this week as far as matched games are concerned, but fans who have seen Coach Shupe drilling his men say that the lads are very busy training for the mix. The Rangers are in good physical shape and should be in top form for the game. A large portion of Perryton will move over to Spearman for this game, on Oct. 31.

Carnera Received With Acclaim in Naples

NAPLES, Oct. 27. (AP)—Primo Carnera, Italy's big heavyweight, arrived this morning from the United States and was given a tumultuous welcome.

Carnera said he would fight twice in Italy, appearing at Milan, Dec. 4, against the French heavyweight, Beguilon, then in Rome against an opponent not yet selected.

The human mountain predicted he would win the heavyweight championship in 1931.

THIS GAME OF FOOTBALL

A Series of Articles by

BARRY HOLTON, COACH OF THE WICHITA FALLS HIGH SCHOOL COYOTES

This is one of a series of explanatory articles written for The Record News by Barry Holton, coach of the Coyotes. They will appear daily. Students of the game may clip the articles as they appear, and by preserving them in a notebook have a ready guide to fine points of the game. Mr. Holton will be glad to answer any questions in regard to the game coming to the mind of the reader. These should be addressed to this newspaper.—Editor.

Following the suggestions of several of our citizens I am going to write a few articles on the modern game of football so that people not particularly familiar with the game can read these discussions then understand and enjoy the game better. My information will be in nontechnical language and will be nothing more than a simple interpretation of the rules. I will discuss in order such things as the field, the players, the time, the scoring, the penalties, and such comparable angles of the game. Football, viewed from the surface is complex, but by its very nature it is simple and easily understood.

THE FIELD

The game is played on a field bound by four straight lines. The lines on the ends having the goal posts are termed the end lines and are 360 feet apart. The lines running in the opposite direction are known as the side lines and are 160 feet apart. Moving in toward the middle of the field from the end lines there are established 30 feet from the end lines the goal lines. This newly created area, that is, the distance of 100 yards between the goal lines and side lines, is known as the field of play. The areas between the goal lines and end lines are known as the end zones. Repeating, then, we have a field 160 feet wide and 100 yards long with two end zones of 160 feet by 10 yards on each end of this field or field of play. All plays or action in general must be made with this field of play. A few exceptions will be mentioned later.

The field is marked off every five yards. These intervals are many times 10 yards because of the inconvenience of making them every five yards. Along the side lines are placed large figures 10, 20, 30, 40, 50, 40, 30, 20, 10. The goal lines are marked in red chalk or sometimes two white lines are run about four inches apart. The edge of the line, nearest the middle of the field regardless of color or number, is the genuine goal line. Near the side lines and on each end of the goal lines are small red flags and the large letter G. The end zones are generally run in diagonals just to make them different from the playing field. All of this marking is for the benefit of the players, officials, and the spectators. These lines enable all concerned to see just where the teams are playing on the field. With these lines it is possible for anyone to tell just what is going on.

In a manner which I will explain in a later paper, a team elects to defend a certain goal. This goal defended by a team is always at that team's back (unless the team is behind its own goal, a very uncommon happening). Next to the same goal line is that team's 10-yard line, and so on till the 50-yard line is reached. Then the lines are spoken of as belonging to the other team. Team A defending south goal is headed north. It plays on its own goal line and its own 10 through 40-yard line. The 50 is neutral and if the same team going north is beyond the 50 it is on the opponent's 40, 30 or whatever line it might be. I am explaining this because someone shouts "they are on the opponent's 10-yard line." To many this means nothing. But it does mean, team A is advancing into team B's territory and is 10 yards from the goal line of team B. Under the same condition it would be proper to say, if speaking of the other team, they are on their own 10-yard line.

As said a few lines above, all playing must be within the field of play, unless otherwise stipulated. When a kicked ball goes out of bounds—between the goal line and across the side lines—the ball is dead and play shall cease. The ball is dead and must be brought back into the playing field and re-played. When a fumble, that is a dropped ball, goes out of bounds it is dead. When a thrown ball crosses the side lines it is out of bounds. A few years ago the ball was not dead if fumbled and rolled out of bounds, but now to prevent the usual scuffling under fences, and I have seen over fences, under grandstands, etc., the new rule of "dead ball out of bounds" has been inaugurated into the rules.

POSSIBLE QUESTIONS

Team A has ball on wide run down field. Player drops ball and it goes out of bounds between goal lines. Whose ball and where?

Team A's ball at the mark where it crossed the side line. Ball is brought back into field of play.

Team A kicks to team B from scrimmage and the ball goes out of bounds across the side line between the goal lines. Whose ball?

Team A has ball and player running with ball steps on side line between goal lines. What happens?

Ball is dead at spot of touching side line.

Announcer says "Team A kicked from its 30-yard line to the opponents 10-yard line and ball went out of bounds."

Explanation: Team A kicked from its own 30-yard line into the defendant's territory to the opponent's 10-yard line and the ball crossed the side line.

Tomorrow, THE PLAYERS.

FOES MEET FOR FIRST TIME

Bobcats Show Power In 'Big League'

A new tradition in the annals of the Coyotes probably will be started here next Saturday when the Wichita Falls and Childress teams meet for the first time in conference warfare in district No. 1 of the interscholastic league.

Rising from the ranks of a class B district, the Bobcats sailed with gusto into class A warfare this year for the first time, and showed unexpected strength. A spirit of rivalry in future comparable to that shown in the annual Coyote battles with Electra and Vernon is regarded as not unlikely, and for several reasons. First Childress, like Electra and Vernon, is in the immediate territory of Wichita Falls. But a more inspiring reason for a life-long rivalry between these two schools exists. Which is the fact that the Bobcats have overpowered two conference teams who had conquered the Coyotes.

Cats Whip Pack's Conquerors

The Bobcats rode over the Quanah Indians, 22 to 12. Quanah, two weeks ago, conquered the Coyotes, 19 to 13. The Bobcats defeated the powerful Vernon Lions, 13 to 6, and the Lions promptly trounced the Coyotes, 6 to 0. The Coyotes, should they overpower the Childress warriors next Saturday, would feel much less downcast over their defeats by Quanah and Vernon.

Electra, the Coyotes' joint rival par excellence with Vernon, smote the Bobcats down last week, 12 to 6. The Bobcats have tasted defeat in two other games, with Amarillo and Lubbock, but these victories of the opposition were more or less expected, when it is considered the Childress team was entering "big league" games for the first time.

The Grind Starts

Realizing, then, that they can "morally" make up for wallopings administered by Quanah and Vernon in one single game, the Coyotes Monday entered the routine practice to get hardened for the Childress game. Coach Holton laid out a plan of work for the week, and decided to start the grind easy, and take on more work as the week advanced. Therefore Monday's session was a warming-up exercise for harder days to come. The coach spent the majority of the afternoon choosing players from the B squad whom he will take to Nocona today for a practice game with the Nocona High school Indians, undefeated outfit in class B of district No. 4.

The game will be played on the Nocona High school field beginning at 3:30 o'clock, it was announced. Bill Morris, Holton's assistant, will be in charge of the team today in Holton's absence.

Women's City Golf Meet Opens Today

The women's city championship golf tournament will get under way today at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club with a field of 30 entrants expected to enter. Mrs. R. R. Fisk is defending champion.

Qualifying rounds will be completed today, and matched play will start Wednesday, according to Bill Strachan, club professional.

The country club championship will be started next Saturday as the third golf tournament of the week, which opened with the city championship tourney Sunday. Tommy Cochran won the city championship when he defeated I. R. Sheldon, 5 and 4.

Church Basket Ball League Meets Tonight

Representatives of basket ball teams enlisted in the Church league fostered by the First Methodist church will meet in the Methodist church annex tonight to elect league officers, discuss plans for securing courts, and dispense with other affairs of the league, Ross Edgemon, athletic director of the church, announced. Representatives of each league are urged to attend. Seven teams are entered in the league and an eighth probably will be selected tonight, it was said.

10-Semester Rule Held Inoperative For Remainder of Football Season

High School Players Held Ineligible Under Rule May Return To Their Teams, Interscholastic League Holds

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. (AP)—Clouds surrounding the eligibility of several Texas high school football players were dispelled here today when the executive committee of the Texas Interscholastic league held the recently enacted 10-semester ruling inoperative for the remainder of the 1930-31 season.

The committee held its previous action in adopting the change in the ruling was premature and that a provision of the league constitution had been violated. The rule was contested by Galveston, Marshall, Abilene and other schools.

The old rule, which provided an athlete might attend high school 10 semesters and be eligible for eight, was ordered reinstated and will govern for the remainder of the scholastic year.

Under the ruling declared inoperative today, an athlete was given only the opportunity of participating in league games for a period of five years following his graduation from grade school. The semesters were counted even though the athlete was not in school.

Many Players Affected

In ordering the change, the committee held the revision was material in that it affected numerous players and required a year's notice before it would be effective. The committee did not make known its attitude toward adoption of the rule for the 1931 football season.

Arguments against the rule were presented by R. D. Green of Abilene; C. M. Smith of Galveston, and E. C. Deering of Marshall.

Although representatives of only three schools were present to register personal protests against enforcement of the ruling, several other schools had expressed dissatisfaction with the action of the executive committee.

The main argument hinged on the materiality of the ruling, the league constitution providing that a year's notice must be given before "material" changes can be made effective. Prior to the hearing today, the committee had adopted the attitude the change was not material and that they were within their rights in promulgating the revision.

Ousted Players Eligible

Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the league, said that at the time the ruling was placed into effect it was not believed it would affect more than a few athletes and that it would inconvenience, temporarily, only a few schools. Several of the schools have been observing the rule rigidly, he reported, and these schools now will be free to use athletes formerly held ineligible under the ruling.

TWO COYOTES, BANNED BY RULE, MAY NOW RETURN

Several football teams in district No. 1 will receive with cheer the news that players previously held ineligible under the 10-semester rule may return to their teams. Two Coyote players, Frank Stanfield and Leland Richards, were among the Northwest Texas High school players ruled ineligible, and who may now return to the game. Both are reserve linemen.

In Electra, Roy Curfman, first string lineman, was held ineligible under the rule declared inoperative today.

Sweetwater Acts on Tax Installments Dec. 18

SWEETWATER, Texas, Oct. 27. (AP)—A special election to amend the city charter to permit the payment of taxes in three installments was tentatively set for Dec. 18 by the city commission today.

There was an election last week on a proposition to amend the charter by repealing the city manager provision, but the provision was retained by a 4 to 1 vote.

SPUR TEAM PUT ON PROBATION

School Officials Rebuked By League

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. (AP)—Resolutions severely criticizing and reprimanding school officials of Spur for irregularities in the conduct of the school's athletics, were adopted here tonight by the executive committee of the Texas Interscholastic league following a lengthy session. The school was placed on probation by the committee but was not expelled.

The executive committee sustained the charges of the district committee in which it was held that undue influence and pressure was brought to bear by officials of the Spur school on officials of the Dickens school to obtain a transfer certificate for Grady Edgar from Dickens to Spur and to obtain an additional credit which would make him eligible for interscholastic competition.

The charge of the district committee that the transfer certificate which was filed in the Austin office of the league did not contain the true signatures of the principal or superintendent of the Dickens school, was sustained.

The committee likewise sustained a third charge that Edgar had been played in games prior to the time of filing his transfer certificate from Dickens to Spur.

In announcing the decision of the committee, Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the league, stated Edgar was not used in any conference games and the executive committee was inclined to be lenient on this account.

The resolution placing the Spur school on probation severely criticized the tactics of school officials and warned against a repetition of the violation under penalty of expulsion from the league.

Henderson said the district committee had dropped charges against a second Spur athlete, following a hearing several days ago and that the only complaint lodged with the executive committee was against the use of Edgar.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (AP)—An opening advance in cotton today was followed by reactions under some southern selling and realizing, but prices firmed up again later when offerings became comparatively light and there was a renewal of trade buying which brought in covering or rebuying by some of the early sellers. March contracts after selling off from 11.47 to 11.28 advanced to 11.57 and closed at 11.55. The general market closed steady at net advances of 8 to 16 points.

There may have been a little buying early on reports of heavy frosts in the Carolinas and Georgia, as well as on the cables but the demand was less active than recently, and there appeared to be some reactionary sentiment following the advance of last week.

A belief that the buying of last week had eased the technical position of the market and that the advance might have gone far enough under prevailing conditions was considered largely responsible for the reactions from the opening advance. There also appeared to be a little more southern selling here during the early trading, but it was very little in evidence early in the day and the afternoon advance may have found some encouragement in reports of increased sales of cotton goods last week.

Liverpool cables said hedging and realizing had been absorbed by continental buying there and reported a fair cloth inquiry from the continent with yarn sales equal to production. Exports today, 31,637, making 2,046,623 so far this season. Port receipts 77,083. U. S. port stocks 3,497,509.

LINTERS SERVICE

Reports will be issued every Thursday by the bureau of agricultural economics covering quotations at Atlanta, Charlotte, Memphis, New York, Little Rock and Dallas.

The quotations, which will cover the grades from No. 1 to No. 7 and also mill firsts, will be based upon the official standards for grade and character of linters, developed by experts of the department.

For western character linters, quotations f. o. b. New York and Dallas will be available. For valley characters, the quotations will be f. o. b. New York, Memphis, and Little Rock.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27. (AP)—The cotton market, after ruling quiet with prices tending downward most of the day, rallied sharply in the late trading with considerable activity and advanced to levels 27 to 29 points above the lows of the morning.

After an opening gain on good cables the market turned reactionary on profit taking, a weaker technical position and easier stocks, declining 15 to 19 points from the opening highs. The late rally near the end was attributed to active buying on a rumor of an extra dividend by U. S. Steel. The close was a shade under the top, showing net gains for the day of 15 to 19 points.

Liverpool came in 7 to 8 points better than due and private cables reported fair buying by the continent. First trades here showed gains of 6 to 9 points. Prices soon eased off, December trading from 11.09 to 11.00, January from 11.22 to 11.17 and March from 11.43 to 11.38 or 5 to 9 points from the opening highs.

Later in the morning prices continued to ease off in narrow trading on selling for a reaction and easiness in stocks until December dropped to 10.91, January to 11.04 and March to 11.28 or 15 to 18 points under the early highs and 7 to 9 points under Saturday's close.

The market rallied 5 to 6 points from the lows in early afternoon on some short covering late trading the market became quite active and advanced sharply on the heavy Wall street buying. December advanced to 11.18, January to 11.32 and March to 11.57, up 27 to 29 points from the lows and representing new highs. The close was a shade under the best at net gains for the day of 15 to 19 points.

Port receipts 77,108, for week 129,798, for season 4,159,329. Last season 3,912,043. Exports 31,212, for week 45,986, for season 2,009,112, last season 1,857,740. Stock Market Ignores Unfavorable Developments to Close Higher

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (US)—The stock market demonstrated today that it is inclined to ignore minor unfavorable developments. It closed higher despite announcement of an unimportant stock exchange suspension and continued discouraging rumors. Further weakness in Case Threshing machine likewise had but temporary influence on the main body of stocks. The commodities furnished little stimulus, although maintaining an orderly tone. Thus, the stock market had to concern itself primarily with its own position.

An early setback in prices, moderate in the main list and occasioned principally by the failure and the decline in case, gave way to dullness, which prevailed until the final hour. The dullness in turn was followed by some revival in activity and an upward price tendency, a development which was highly cheering in that on many recent occasions dullness introduced softness in quotations. Volume ran under the 2,000,000-share mark.

The market's own action is winning to it additional support from skeptics. Ability not only to maintain previous price levels but also to add to the gains is proving sufficient inducement to bring in new buying which, of course, is still on moderate scale. Naturally, it will take continuance of such demand, which in many instances springs from investment sources, to maintain an upward trend to prices. For the time being, the important consideration is the market's ability to hold gains.

Leadership today was furnished by Radio-Keith-Orpheum, which advanced two points on the hoped-for benefits from its latest picture. The stock obviously is not in the investment list, but attraction of increased interest in such an issue may very well denote a significant change in the market, since it has been difficult to attract any lasting following for several months. The very widespread notice which a stock of the caliber of R.-K.-O. receives could conceivably spread into other speculative and semi-speculative issues and gradually bring about a fair-sized rally in the entire list.

Steel common assumed leadership in the afternoon and its final price represented a gain of 1¼ for the day. Its performance gave additional strength to the hope that the Steel corporation directors at their meeting tomorrow afternoon may vote an extra dividend as a demonstration of their faith in the outlook. The expectation, however, received little support from the realization that earnings in the third quarter will be considered satisfactory if the regular $1.75 dividend is fully earned. General Motors likewise improved in price, although there was a decided skepticism evident toward this stock until its third quarter report, which may also be released after the market's close tomorrow, can be observed. Estimates of General Motors' earnings vary, but it is generally conceded that the 75-cent dividend was not earned.

Continued selling of Case Threshing was attributed to persistent stories of new financing, yet bankers familiar with the company denied any knowledge of such plans. It is admitted, however, that collections of the company, whose business is with agriculturists, have been very slow. The trading community, however, approved the market's disinclination to follow Case's weakness except momentarily. This was further evidence of the changed attitude apparent in thoughtful quarters, where the market no longer is considered as a unit, but individual situations are studied quite apart from the general prospects.

Thus, the Copper shares remained within a narrow range on well-founded reports that American and foreign producers are planning early conferences with a view to arranging a cooperative program for handling the present excess supplies of the metal and also to attempt an agreement with respect to production.

On the other hand, the oil shares appeared nervous over the latest price cuts in crude, with considerable uncertainty regarding their immediate prospects.

Railroad and public utility shares held, on the average, fractionally above last week's closing levels. There is little doubt but that continuation of recent firmness in the market will encourage resumption of more aggressive activities on the constructive side.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 27. (AP)—Slow demand was reported for all grains as the week started on market here today. Mills bid 86½@87½c basis delivered Texas common points for available No. 1 hard wheat but offerings of that commodity were light. Estimated receipts for the two-day period were: Wheat 5 cars; corn 16; oats 5; barley 2 and sorghum 1.

The trade was awaiting the South Texas new sorghum movement due to start soon, when lower prices are expected. Meantime the sorghums seem to mark time.

Bids and offers on coarse grain ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points freight paid.

Corn—No. 2 mixed 88½@89½c; No. 2 white or yellow 91@92c.

Oats—No. 2 red according to seed quality 50@52c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 45½@46c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.65@1.67; No. 2 kaffir $1.38@1.40, both prices being nominal.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (AP)—Relief from anxiety about Argentine rust damage, together with suggestions that the Argentine wheat surplus would be hugely increased, pulled wheat prices down late today. Clearing weather reported in Argentina led to late selling of wheat here, and so too did a forecast that the surplus of new and old wheat in Argentina this season would aggregate 239,000,000 bushels compared with only 100,000,000 bushels last season. Under such circumstances 2,163,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total was virtually ignored.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled ⅜@1c a bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed at ⅜@¾c advance, oats ⅛c off to ¼c up, and provisions unchanged to 17c down.

At first, the wheat market in Chicago had displayed a general upward trend owing to reports that rains and higher temperatures in Argentina were threatening to increase danger of damage by rust.

Corn and oats received more sustained buying support today than wheat did. Weather conditions over the corn belt were rather unfavorable for husking operations, and country offerings of corn to arrive were limited.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Dec. 77¼c, 79⅛@¼c; March 81⅛c, 83¼c; May 82⅝@¾c, 84⅝@⅞c. Corn—Dec. 77c, 78⅞@79c; March 78⅞c, 80⅞c; May 81¼@⅜c, 83⅛c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (US)—Weekly statistics offered little trading incentive in the wheat market. Buyers backed off when local selling appeared on the bulge and had little difficulty in checking the advance despite the firmness of Liverpool.

Minneapolis and St. Louis reported quiet cash markets without any particular feature to the trading in wheat. Kansas City, however, again spoke of a firm demand for all wheat arriving and a noticeable firmness in the December contract.

Broomhall says that good general rains over the week-end in Argentina will no doubt prove beneficial, although a superabundance of moisture might result in damage from rust later in the season if temperatures keep high.

The same authority says that indications point to a surplus this season for Argentina of approximately 239,000,000 bushels of wheat. This compares with last year's preliminary estimates of 184,000,000 bushels later reduced to 148,000,000 bushels and finally made 100,000,000 bushels owing to the large quantity of unmerchantable stuff.

Kiwanis Club Hears Explanation Of Proposed Texas Amendments

Brief explanations of the five proposed constitutional amendments to be voted upon at the general election on Tuesday, No. 4, were given before members of the Kiwanis club at the Kemp hotel Monday noon by Ben G. Oneal, Democratic nominee for state senator.

Urging that his hearers give some thought and discussion to the amendments regardless of what position they will take in voting, Mr. Oneal commended particularly the amendments which would extend the regular term of the legislature to 120 days bi-ennially.

In the order of their proposal, the amendments provide for the following changes:

1. Removal of the restriction which now specifies that the supreme court shall not meet between June and October, and provides permission for it to meet at any time.

2. Gives permission to the 17 Texas counties in which the University of Texas has oil lands to tax those lands for county purposes only, valuations to be set by the state board.

3. Permits the University of Texas to invest its permanent fund in bonds of the United States, of the state of Texas, or in counties, school bonds, or municipalities in Texas, or in improvements around the university campus.

4. Stipulates that the legislature shall meet 120 days in regular sessions, the first 30 days to be given to introduction of bills, the next 30 days to consideration of bills in committee, and the last 60 days to the passage of bills.

5. Increases the per diem of legislators to $10 per day for the first 120 days, and thereafter not to exceed $5 per day; mileage to be decreased from the present rate of 20 cents to 10 cents.

The speaker was introduced by Jouette Bonner. Announcement of an old fiddler's contest to be held at the Majestic theater in Henrietta next Thursday evening, Oct. 30, as a charity event was made by Rube Loftin of that city. He invited Kiwanians to be present.

A club singsong was led by W. E. Young, with M. A. Ellis at the piano. Honoring the recent arrival of a baby daughter, Lou Ann, Van Lesley dispensed mild Havanas Monday. Guests were introduced by Dr. H. T. Wood.

Check Swindler Given 60 Days

Sixty days in jail and costs of court were imposed upon a man by Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law Monday afternoon following the defendant's plea of guilty on charges of swindling by check.

A $15 check given here, according to L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney, was one of a large number which the man admitted issuing to laundrymen in this section.

Fines totalling almost $75 and a one-day jail sentence were imposed upon a negro woman Monday morning following pleas of guilty on three charges of theft. The woman was accused of having stolen articles from three different department stores here during the past week. A negro girl arrested with her was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Another negro woman was fined $1 and costs on a charge of disturbing the peace when it was shown that she and her husband, whom she recently hunted down at a local hospital with a pistol, had been reconciled.

VETERAN OFFICER DIES

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 27. (UP)—Walter Overbay, 55, veteran Tulsa peace officer, died at his home today as a result of heart trouble.

Young Traveler Asks Candy for Breakfast

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27. (AP)—A happy 40-pound boy, clad in a short pants suit, socks and shoes, an overcoat and a light felt hat, en route from Houston, "for delivery" in Florida by bus, stopped over here an hour for breakfast today and continued on his way with a smile.

He is 4-year-old Harold Mizelle, sent by his mother, Mrs. Leola Mizelle of Houston, to visit Mrs. J. C. Bunch, in Bartow, Fla.

The smiling rosy-cheeked youngster was enjoying the trip. He called for candy for breakfast as the general agent of the bus line escorted him to a restaurant.

But Harold, displaying a good appetite, accepted eggs and grits for the early meal and tucked away the candy in his overcoat pocket until the trip resumed.

DICE GAME ROBBED

DEWEY, Okla., Oct. 27. (UP)—A half dozen dice players, who chose the seclusion of the timbered Caney river to play late yesterday, were poorer by $650 today. A bandit, who threatened them with a gun, took that amount and escaped in a car belonging to one of the players.

New Orleans Baby Holds Record For Fish Swallowing

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27. (AP)—Charity hospital staff claimed a fish-swallowing record today for little 18-month-old Floyd Foght.

The baby's grandfather had returned from a fishing trip and left his catch on the kitchen table.

Shortly afterward Floyd became suddenly ill. He was rushed to the hospital in the arms of his father.

A staff of hospital physicians and nurses began a careful examination but all had despaired of saving the child's life.

The baby had turned purple, its heart was still very faintly beating and his circulation was working.

Dr. Paul Isbell, Charity hospital interne, discovered a foreign object lodged in the infant's body. Floyd's clamped jaws were pried open, and the object was gone after with forceps.

Within a few more seconds a live young flounder measuring three and one-eighth inches long and two inches wide with fins and all was removed.

Hypodermic stimulant was administered and artificial respiration started. A few minutes later Floyd opened his eyes and began to cry.

The doctor had saved a life.

Motor Bus Legislation To Be Asked in Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. (INS)—While the short session of congress, beginning Dec. 1, will be largely devoted to appropriation bills, a heavy drive will be made for the passage of legislation providing for federal regulation and control of motor bus transportation, it was learned today.

The organized bus owners of the country want regulation as a protection against what they consider "the irresponsible and wildcat operators in this new field." They assert that the irresponsible bus operators do not want regulations of any kind, and are having a harmful effect upon an industry that has grown extensively.

Crosbyton Suspect Admits Other Charges

Sheriff W. G. Bralley was unable on a trip to Crosbyton Sunday to connect a suspect held there with the Majestic thater robbery here last Friday night, or the kidnaping of George Garrett, deputy sheriff, last week, but did produce evidence which brought from the man held at Crosbyton confession of other charges against him.

Confronted with photographs and finger prints carried by Sheriff Bralley, the man admitted that he was given a five-year term in Oklahoma in 1927 on a charge of conspiracy to commit a felony, and that he was wanted in Archer county for car theft and in Nebraska for burglary and breaking jail.

Mrs. Ruth Moody, cashier of the Majestic theater when it was hijacked and Mr. Garnett accompanied Sheriff Bralley to Crosbyton.

Headlight Testing Station Approved

C. V. Pope, 901 Brook, was granted a conditional permit Monday by the county commissioners' court to install a headlight testing station at that address.

L. F. Joiner was named in Mr. Pope's application as the person who will operate the station.

The bond of Glade & Combe, who hold a contract to construct about five miles of rock asphalt road-top on the Thornberry road, was approved.

Permission was given the Municipal Gas company to construct a 2-inch gas line from Chester street southward on the east side of the county farm road to a point opposite Vista Heights addition, thence under the road and on the west side to the county farm.

Heartbreak Girl

By Rob Eden

the day he had picked her up on the road.

"I'm disappointed in you, Gail," he said, after he had started the car, and was swerving through traffic.

Disappointed? Of course. He didn't know—

"You seemed to me like a sensible girl—not one of these wild youngsters. Why did you do it?"

Gail didn't answer. Mr. Walther disappointed in her. That hurt.

"Aren't you going to answer me?"

"I—I've nothing to say."

"You're not sorry?"

She looked at him her eyes brimming with tears. He saw them. "I didn't mean to be harsh, Gail—but you deserve a good scolding. Hollywood's been bad for you. I can see that."

She wanted to tell him it wasn't her fault. That she hadn't done it. That it had been Carla. But Carla had said she mustn't tell anyone. Only the four of them were to know—

"Aren't you going to ask me how Mrs. Mendenhall is?" Nick turned the car swiftly around a corner.

"Have you been to see her?"

"I just came from there. She's very bad, Gail. Very bad. There'll probably be a lot of trouble from this. You'll have to look out." He hadn't smiled at her yet. His face was so serious, so stern. For the first time, she realized how much she wanted his approval. How much she needed it.

Dying!

They passed a newsstand and a black headline caught her eye. "Joy Ride Victim Dying!"

Nick saw her quiver and sit bolt upright in the seat. He stopped the car and bought a paper—the one with the screaming line.

"It's very serious, Gail, and I want you to realize it. I don't know what will happen if Mrs. Mendenhall dies. I'll help you all I can, of course, but I may not be able to do much. Judge Latham is a personal friend of mine. That was the reason I could arrange the bail. Tod Janson came to me in despair. You understand now?"

He thought she didn't care. Thought she was as hard as flint. He was trying to make her see. If he would only smile—but Nick didn't smile all the way to Carla's house. And he said nothing after those last words. The paper lay in her lap. "Joy Ride Victim Dying."

Mexico Wars Against Smuggling of Gold

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 27. (AP)—Special guards today were ordered into the state of Chiapas to guard the Guatemalan frontier against any smuggling of gold out of Mexico.

It was said in government circles that the tightening up against gold smuggling along the United States border had been effective and the smugglers had transferred their activities to the southern frontier.

Mexico is seeking to prevent the outflow of gold in the belief that such exportation has been responsible for the declines of the silver peso.

TWO HELD IN STOCK FRAUD

Officials Bar Plot to Bomb Refinery

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 27. (UP)—Details of the alleged fraudulent operation of the Stock and Bond Investment company by former stock manipulators in New York were disclosed today as more arrests were made.

Four days after W. W. Easterday, former associate of Nicky Arnstein in the $5,000,000 Wall street bond steal, was arrested as a fugitive from justice from New York, two men were captured today.

H. Lehmkuhl, who said he was a former Los Angeles bank cashier, but who officers believe is Gustave Boehringer, associate of Easterday in the New York fraud, was arrested early today as he drove past a refinery that had been threatened with destruction.

Denies Charge

He denied he was Boehringer and disclaimed any connection with a plot to bomb the refinery.

Officers, however, attached significance to the fact that the Stock and Bond Investment company recently acquired the refinery, paying $6,500 on the $150,000 project. Postal inspectors determined that the company immediately established a brokerage office at Chicago, selling shares on margin on the contract deposit. Easterday's arrest stalemated the transactions and when W. L. Beavers, refinery owner, who is on bond in connection with selling securities without a permit, pressed for payment, the threat was made, officers said.

Salesman Held

Harry Harris, alleged stock salesman in the Stock and Bond Investment company, was held in jail today on a charge of failing to pay his hotel bill.

E. R. Cochran, federal postal inspector, said, however, he had found enough bonds and papers on Harris to complete a case against the company.

Lehmkuhl was questioned for two hours by Cochrane today about the investment company and its operations and an alleged plot to blow up the Crump refinery.

The Stock and Bond Investment company's offices were located in the same building as the Crump refinery offices.

"This stock and bond company has been selling stock on a marginal basis and firm members were pocketing the first payment," Cochrane said.

"I have complaints on over $40,000 worth of stock now."

NEGRO ASSAILS 'J. HAM' LEWIS

De Priest Urges Blacks to Oppose Demo

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (AP)—Appeal of Mayor William Hale Thompson for negroes to vote for James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic candidate for senator, in order to defeat Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican, has brought about a break between the mayor and Oscar de Priest, the country's only negro congressman.

The congressman today distributed pamphlets to offset those sent out through the police department by the city's chief executive and in a speech declared that "no sane man, unless ill advised or sick, would ask the colored people to vote for a Democrat." Mayor Thompson had asserted he would support Lewis because of his wet platform. The De Priest pamphlets, captioned "Vote the Republican Ticket Straight," were distributed by women.

The congressman in his speech last night said: "I propose to spend the rest of the time until election advising our people to pay no attention to the ravings of Mayor Thompson. I was surprised to find the mayor a sick man. He certainly is not the same man we elected mayor three times.

"If he finds it impossible to go along with his party he should resign. He talks about what he has done for the colored race, but he should remember that three times it was we who saved him from defeat. I don't propose to see him use our people as his cat's-paw."

De Priest was a Thompson appointee on the civil service commission and was generally regarded as a political ally of the mayor.

BOOSTERS PLAN IMPROVEMENTS

First Project Expected To Start Soon

Members of the I. O. Boosters' club furthered plans for improvement of street and property conditions on Indiana and Ohio avenues north of Sixth street in a meeting held Monday noon at the Holt hotel.

Definite action recommended by members of the program committee was discussed, and plans adopted for beginning of actual work upon the club's first project within the next two weeks.

Weekly meetings of the organization will be held on Monday hereafter, at the Holt hotel, according to action taken by its members at Monday's meeting.

By unanimous vote of those present, the secretary was instructed to send a letter of appreciation to Leo M. Underwood, director, for the services given by the Faith City band in connection with the club's section in the American Legion day parade here last Friday afternoon.

Suit Seeks Recovery For Glass Broken by Wind

Taking of evidence was completed before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Monday afternoon in a suit which has its origin in damage wrought by one of the high winds which visit Wichita Falls occasionally.

Malacord and Son, dealers in mirrors and plate glass, are the plaintiffs in the suit, seeking reimbursement for more than $500 worth of glass allegedly destroyed when a truckload of the merchandise was overturned by a gust of wind while delivery was being made to the plaintiff's place of business.

The W. C. Heath Transfer company and the Aetna Insurance company are defendants in the suit.

Wallace Visits Austin On 'Small Business'

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. (AP)—Representative John Wallace of Teague, whose recent resignation as the nominee for re-election from his district led to widespread reports of his probable appointment to the state board of control, was in Austin today on "small business matters."

Wallace said that he had nothing to add to the statement he made in declining the nomination. He said then he was declining for "business reasons."

It was known that Wallace conferred for a short time last night with Gov. Dan Moody before the governor left for Houston.

STATE: "She Couldn't Say No" with Winnie Lightner, Chester Morris, Tully Marshall and Johnnie Arthur. Comedy, "Confounded Interest," with Charlie Ruggles. Silly Symphony, "Merry Dwarfs"; Sportlight novelty and sound news.

STRAND: Amos 'n' Andy in "Check and Double Check." Monkey comedy, "The Little Covered Wagon." Terrytoon cartoon. Sound news.

MAJESTIC: "Scotland Yard" with Edmund Lowe and Joan Bennett. Short subjects and news.

GEM: Rod la Rocque in "Beau Bandit." Lloyd Hamilton comedy.

Advertising "She Couldn't Say No" being a new type of picture for Winnie Lightner—one in which she takes up a little serious drama for the first time—had the effect of scaring off the Lightner fans who like their Winnie rough and funny.

◆ ◆ ◆

Drama in "She Couldn't Say No," however, isn't the drawing-room type. Instead of trying to do a Ruth Chatterton, the incomparable Winnie keeps her own style, even in the few tears she almost sheds. The whole picture is a torch song. Those who don't like torch songs won't like it.

◆ ◆ ◆

A crescendo climax, in which Winnie, the night-club queen, "burns up the boy friend," a gangster, (Chester Morris) is a classic in the torch line. Instead of providing ear muffs for patrons to don whenever Winnie opens her mouth, the operator at the State cuts down the machine three points lower than it has ever been cut before. Out in Hollywood she can probably be heard as far as Beverly Hills.

◆ ◆ ◆

Tully Marshall, Sally Eilers and Johnnie Arthur are as usual. Chester Morris can thrust out his lower jaw and bark at Winnie almost as loud as her own yelps. It's the best of the night club-gangster type of pictures.

◆ ◆ ◆

The boy who shouted "Wolf!" too many times has nothing on Manager D. L. Johnson at the State. Twice has Mr. Johnson advertised a Charlie Ruggles short feature; twice has this column made special mention of the Ruggles short; and twice have we been fooled. There is even a sign in the lobby advertising the Ruggles comedy this time, but there isn't anything inside that looks, sounds, staggers or swears like the funniest man on the screen. After this, seeing is believing.

◆ ◆ ◆

Even at that, the program is above average. Any program that includes a "Silly Symphony" is above average, and the "Merry Dwarfs" number is one of the best seen here—a conglomeration of grasshoppers being shod to the strains of the "Anvil Chorus" and little long-bearded gnomes doing a drunken ballet.
