THEY MAY TESTIFY AGAINST CLARA

Asserted episodes in the life of Clara Bow, film star, who claims that her former secretary, Daisy De Boe, embezzled $16,000 from her, were expected to be revealed by this array of witnesses which Daisy brought to court in Los Angeles. Miss De Boe testified that one of her duties was to pay Clara's liquor bills and poker debts. Photo shows, left to right, Mrs. Chloe Douty, employed in Miss Bow's home for a while; Lucille Dought, Mrs. Douty's daughter, a mystery witness; Mrs. Grace Black, Miss De Boe's sister; Miss De Boe, Marian Morris, modiste from whom Clara bought clothes, and Mrs. Frances Blair, former housekeeper for the "It" girl.

CLARA'S PARTIES IN BACKGROUND AS JURY PREPARES TO RECEIVE CASE OF SECRETARY; ATTORNEY HAS CHARGES

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—Clara Bow's liquor bills, poker debts, boy friends and financial affairs hovered in the background today as a jury of elderly men and women waited to hear the final arguments of attorneys before retiring to deliberate on whether the film redhead's former secretary, Daisy De Boe, is guilty of grand theft.

Daisy's trial on charges of theft of $15,300 from the film flapper probably will reach the jury late in the day. Clara's erstwhile secretary-confidante will face a possible prison term of from one to ten years if convicted.

Clara Not Business Woman

In yesterday's arguments the prosecution painted Clara as "an artist and not a business woman" who Daisy, and characterized Miss De Boe as one who "betrayed the friend who trusted her."

Deputy District Attorney David Clark accused Daisy of "deliberately perjuring herself."

"Actually she was stealing from her employer right and left, as the evidence shows," he asserted. "She was authorized to buy everything Miss Bow needed, but never to transfer Miss Bow's money to her own private account. She was not authorized to take Miss Bow's letters and telegrams, later to use them in an attempt to extort $125,000

COURT READY FOR PRO LAW CONFLICT

ARGUMENTS STUDIED BY TALENTED ARRAY OF ATTORNEYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — The raging prohibition battle was carried into the supreme court's quiet chamber today with the validity of the Eighteenth Amendment at issue.

While in nearby chambers members of congress pondered the Wickersham prohibition report, a talented array of counsel presented carefully studied arguments.

The immediate cause of the dispute was the recent decision of Judge William Clark of the Newark federal court, holding the amendment invalid on the ground it was improperly ratified.

His opinion asserted an amendment subjecting individual rights to federal control must be submitted to state conventions for ratification. He placed the Eighteenth Amendment in this category. It was ratified by state legislatures.

Upholding validity of the amendment for the government, Solicitor General Thacher was ready with an argument that the court had previously sustained the amendment and that the case presented no new question for its decision. He held either method of ratification was proper.

Rehearing Denied In Thompson Case

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today overruled a second motion for rehearing in the murder case of Clyde Thompson, Eastland county, who was sentenced to the electric chair for killing one of the Shook brothers.

Thompson was alleged to have killed the two Shook brothers September 7, 1928. He was assessed the death penalty for the killing of A. L. Shook.

Negro Sentenced To Die For Slaying

FORT WORTH, Jan. 21. (AP)—Sam Louder, negro, will die in the electric chair under a verdict returned last night by a jury which convicted him of murder in the slaying of Evans Johnson, 22, Arlington policeman, Nov. 23.

Johnson was shot when the officer went to the negro's home in Arlington to question him about a disturbance. Louder pleaded self defense.

VOLCANO SHOWS ACTIVITY

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, Jan. 21 (AP)—The nearby volcano Colli, which has been dormant for centuries, is showing signs of activity. A column of smoke was seen emerging from the volcano yesterday and a fog, accompanied by a strong sulphuric odor, spread over the city.

PRAYER MEETING TONIGHT

CHURCHES WILL WAGE DRIVE

CITY - WIDE CAMPAIGN FOR ATTENDANCE IS PLANNED

Extensive publicity will be provided in connection with a city-wide go-to-church campaign which will begin Sunday and close with a pre-Easter revival, in which churches of the city will participate from Sunday, March 29, through Sunday, April 5.

Chairman of publicity committee named by the Lubbock Ministerial association in connection with the go-to-church activity is E. L. Pitts, county judge.

Other members of the committee are:

Secretary Gerald Wren, Dr. F. M. Malone, O. H. Cline, Claude Young, Joe B. Taylor, C. A. Gibson, N. L. Peters, Jack Boyd and Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Committees will be asked to telephone all Lubbock homes between 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning and invite the occupants to church services.

Daily announcements of the go-to-church drive will be made at theaters and similar announcements willl be made at luncheon gatherings of service clubs.

Posters and cards probably will be placed in cafes, hotels and other public places to advertise the campaign.

Whereabouts Of Two Girls Being Sought

SHAWNEE, Okla., Jan. 21 (AP)—Whereabouts of two girls, Jewell Casteel, 14, and Cynthia Mills, 15, missing since last Friday, remained unknown today.

A statewide search has been instituted for the girls and a reward offered for information leading to their recovery.

The girls were wearing blue overalls when last seen.

Quinn Funeral To Be Held Friday

BODY LIES IN STATE; TO BE BURIED HERE

PUBLISHER DIES WHILE SEEKING AID FOR STALLED CAR

Funeral services for Linville Herbert Quinn, 32, publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal publications, who was found dead shortly after 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on a Yoakum county ranch, will be held in this city Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor, will officiate.

The body will lie in state at Rix-Sanders funeral home until Friday afternoon. Attendants at the home today stated that friends may view the body until that time but that the casket will not be opened at the church.

Fiancee To Be Here

Services are being held up pending the arrival of Miss Frances Bagot, Mr. Quinn's fiancee, and members of her family who are en route to Lubbock from their home at Anderson, Indiana, by airplane. A number of other out of town attendants are expected to arrive in the city, including the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Guy, Sr., of Tulsa; Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Roderick, of Slaton; M. B. Hanks and

BURIAL PLACE INDEFINITE

Friends in charge of arrangements for the services here this afternoon declared plans for burial here had been postponed pending information received from relatives. The funeral services will be held here, Friday, however, it was said, regardless of where the body is sent for burial.

EX-OFFICIAL IS UNDER CHARGE

HAROLD ROTHCHILD IS CHARGED IN BORGER POSTOFFICE CASE

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Jan. 21.—Harold Rothchild, former postmaster at Borger, was at liberty under $4,000 bond today, on a charge of conspiring with unknown persons to steal $3,292.08 from the postoffice department Nov. 20. He was arrested yesterday in Borger.

When the robbery was reported, Rothchild told postoffice authorities two armed men came to his home at night and one of them took him to the postoffice to open the safe while the other remained at his home to guard Mrs. Rothchild and a nephew. After the postoffice safe was robbed, he was returned to his home, he said.

Rothchild has been replaced as Borger postmaster.

Flying Vaudeville Team Off On Tour

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—A flying vaudeville team composed of a speed flier and a funny man set out today to do its bit for the drouth sufferers of the southwest.

Captain Frank Hawks and Cowboy Will Rogers left Glenn Curtiss airport early this afternoon for Washington, where they will talk things over with the Red Cross. Tomorrow they fly to Little Rock, Ark., where Rogers will start looking over conditions in the southwest, while Hawks returns here to keep radio engagements.

Monday, at Austin, Texas, Rogers will start a tour for the Red Cross and his speed plane. The "Show," which will continue its tour two or three weeks, will include a monologue by Rogers and gags and aviation pointers by Hawks, who once was a stock actor.

C. S. Colvin Being Tried On Pro Count

Trial of C. S. Colvin on a charge of transporting whisky is underway in ninety-ninth district court before Judge Clark M. Mullican.

Four penitentiary sentences, one of which was suspended, were meted out in the court Tuesday, second day of jury trials in the January term of court.

Lonnie Patterson was convicted of forgery and passing and received suspension of a four-year sentence. Joe Anderson was sentenced to spend six months in the state penitentiary for chicken theft. J. D. Mincey was dealt a three-year term for forgery and passing. A. Lopez was sentenced to a year in the state prison when convicted of liquor sale.

In Appreciation Linville Herbert Quinn

He died as he lived, brave, generous, courageous. He asked no quarter but granted it, carrying his own load and many times, that of his friends.

The Staff of the Avalanche-Journal bears his bier proudly, humbly, supported by the knowledge that its members have been privileged to labor with a man to whom his all was not too much to give.

NEW ROADS IN U. S. DURING 1931 TO COST NEARLY BILLION DOLLARS AND WILL EMPLOY SOME 300,000 WORKMEN

(By The Associated Press)

New roads long enough to circle the globe will criss-cross America beneath the straining muscle of some 300,000 workmen this year at a cost not far short of a billion dollars.

Reports compiled today show that upwards of 9,000 miles of the approximate 25,000 mile total will be hard surface. This is exclusive of 11 states in which highway commissions could make no mileage estimates.

Cost Over $900,000,000

The actual cost estimates, not including 6 states in which road programs still are under legislative consideration and taking no account of independent county highway construction, is $818,048,923, of which the federal government will contribute $293,500,000.

The estimate of workmen to benefit in the program is perforce conservative since a total of nine states have no definite figures on this particular item.

The six states unable at this time to forecast any figures are Arizona, Vermont, Tennessee, Massachusetts, Ohio and New Mexico. Tennessee expects to match its federal allocation of $4,400,000, however, and the governor of Massachusetts has proposed a bond issue of $10,000,000.

Louisiana Takes Lead

Louisiana stands out as the most ambitious state of the year in its program of 2,500 miles of pavement and 1,000 miles of gravel with contemplated expenditure of $75,000,000 and employment of approximately 12,000 men.

Pennsylvania is second in planned expenditure of $60,000,000, but by far the leading contributor to employment in the contemplated use of 50,000 workmen on 1,400 miles of new roadway.

California Work Tangled

Should California use half of its budget for the biennium in 1931 it will spent $55,191,500. This state has several legislative wrinkles to iron out, though, before a definite program can be announced.

New York expects to spend $57,000,000 for maintenance of old roads and construction of 700 miles of new and to employ some 11,000 men.

Cost Of Living Is Said To Be Lower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Costs of living in representative cities of the United States in December were estimated by the labor department today to have been 6.2 per cent lower than they were during the same month last year.

The composite calculation, dealing with all the items consumed by an average family, showed decreases in food prices were most notable, amounting to more than 7 per cent since last June, while house furnishings and clothing came down by about half that percentage.

MEETING HELD AT POST ON PLANS

O. B. MARTIN SPEAKS TO SESSION ON PLANS OF AREA

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Journal Staff Writer

POST, Jan. 21.—Drouth relief plans for alleviation of suffering in 32 Texas counties were explained at a mass meeting of 250 West Texas farmers, bankers and business men here this morning.

O. B. Martin, director of drouth relief work in the state; Sterling C. Evans and Miss Myrtle Murray, both of the extension department at Texas A. & M. college, all of College Station, spoke on the relief plans.

Ira Le Duckworth, local banker and member of the Garza county drouth relief committee, welcomed the visitors and introduced O. P. Thrane, Snyder banker and member of the governor's drouth relief committee, who presided.
who presided.

Mr. Thrane related the early history of efforts to obtain federal aid in drouth relief.

A maximum of $600 each would be lended to farmers under the federal plan, with maximums of $1 an acre for cotton seed, 25 cents an acre for grain sorghums, $1.30 for tractor fuel and $8 a month for each animal for mule power, Mr. Evans explained.

Need $15.00

Miss Murray said that a maximum of $15 would be available to each farm for a hotbed in which spring vegetables could be raised.

CHARGES PRESENTED ON TREATMENT GIVEN IN POLAND

(By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Jan. 21.—Charges of "menaces, acts of terrorism and bloody violence" were laid before the council of the League of Nations today by Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, in a formal protest at Polish treatment of German minorities in Upper Silesia.

German-Polish relations growing out of the minorities question are regarded in Geneva as one of the greatest threats to the peace of post-war Europe. It has been feared for weeks that the debate begun today will set off international antagonisms of far-reaching consequences.

Six Prisoners Are Sought From Belton

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—Central Texas sheriff's departments and police were on the lookout today for five or six prisoners who sawed their way out of the Belton jail and escaped early this morning.

One of the prisoners was reported captured at Temple.

APPEAL DENIED

Appeal of John W. Brady, below, former appeals court judge, was denied today by the State Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin. Brady is under sentence for three years for the slaying of Miss Lehlia Highsmith in Austin in 1929.

BRADY LOSES HIS APPEAL

COURT RULES HE MUST SERVE PRISON TERM FOR SLAYING

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 21—The court of criminal appeals today denied the plea of John W. Brady of Austin, former appeals court jurist, for a new trial on a charge of murdering Miss Lehlia Highsmith, capitol stenographer.

The court overruled a second motion for rehearing. Brady was sentenced to serve three year sentence by a Dallas county jury.

Brady stabbed Miss Highsmith to death the night of November 9 1929, immediately after the annual homecoming football game at the University of Texas. The stabbing attracted nationwide attention, partly, because of Brady's former prominence.

The first trial in Austin ended in a hung jury. Brady pleaded insanity in both trials.

The appellate court is scheduled to mail a mandate from Austin Friday, instructing the Dallas county court to take Brady into custody and deliver him to the state penitentiary.

Tax Payment Bill To Be Up Tomorrow

AUSTIN, Jan. 21 (AP)—The senate state affairs committee, although it stood at odds, decided today to report favorably on Senator Ben G. O'Neal's semi-annual tax payment bill.

Senator Joe Moore of Greenville, chairman of the committee, said the matter should come before the senate tomorrow.

Inquest Is To Be Held In Girl's Case

FORT MORGAN, Colo., Jan. 21 (AP)—An inquest was to be held today over the bullet-torn body of Miss Enid Marriott, 28-year-old school teacher, found beneath the ice of an irrigation ditch Monday, two months after she mysteriously disappeared from Wiggins, Colo.

Motive and identity of the slayer—those were the unknown quantities officers sought to reveal. Investigators said they would search the irrigation canal again today for the weapon with which the teacher was killed.

TWO QUESTIONS STANDING OUT OF TANGLE

JUST HOW FAR GROUP MEANS TO GO AND EFFECT WATCHED

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The growing tumult of discussion, dispute and speculation over the Wickersham prohibition report centered today around two salient queries:

How far did the commission mean to go toward recommending revision of the Eighteenth Amendment? And what will be the political effect of President Hoover's opposition to such a step?

So aroused were the commission members over reports that the president had intervened to forestall an unequivocal modification proposal that the following statement was issued by Chairman Wickersham:

"The statement this morning in the Washington Herald that the president persuaded this commission to abandon a tentative recommendation in favor of revision of the Eighteenth Amendment is absolutely untrue and without foundation."

None Are Talking

Neither the chairman nor any members of the commission now in Washington, however was willing to tell the full story of the weeks of discussion within the commission or explain how or when the decision against an out and out revision proposal was reached.

As it appears in the combined commission report, signed by all of the members but one, the suggested draft of a new Eighteenth Amendment was preceded by an "if," and

RIOT LEADERS FACE CHARGES

SEVEN MEN ARE TO BE PROSECUTED FOR OKLAHOMA RAID

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21.—A grocery store raid and other unemployment disorders here yesterday were laid today to seven men who officers said would be prosecuted.

Others of the 26 trapped in the wrecked downtown grocery were to be released. Three hundred men and women participated in the raid. A smaller disturbance last night led to arrest of one man. County Attorney Lewis R. Morris said charges of inciting to riot would be placed against Albert Grinnell, Frank Pierce, Floyd Phillips, John Simmons, Francis Owens, and two other men not yet apprehended.

Murray Advocates Plan

Governor Murray, who advocated opening of the state fair grounds here to house the homeless, conferred with Sheriff Stanley Rogers and City Manager Ed Fry, following the raid.

He was told the city and county officials were able to meet any situation which might arise in connection with the unemployment situation in Oklahoma City.

Murray deplored unlawful assemblies and said "attempts to overthrow the government and duplicate Russia in this country cannot be tolerated by any good citizen."

State investigation of alleged communistic activities of four organizations was begun.

Two Children Die In Fire At Vidor

BEAUMONT, Jan. 21. (AP)—Frank, Jr., age 2, and John J., age one, children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Graham, were burned to death yesterday afternoon when their one-room home was swept by fire at Vidor, six miles east of here. Their bodies were found in the ashes after the house had burned. Mrs. Graham had gone to visit a neighbor, leaving a gasoline heater burning. The father, who is a trapper, was away from home.

American Woman's Hip Measure More Living Too Easy

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—There's been an average increase of two inches in the American woman's hip measure in recent years, if Herbert L. Kamber, wholesale garment manufacturer, has things right. He attributes it to automobile riding and easy living.

TEXAN ARRIVES IN GOTHAM ASTRIDE BULL AFTER 254 DAYS OF TRAVEL; DECLARES 'BULL RIDING IS SURE HEALTHFUL'

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Here's the tale of a Texas cowboy who took the bull by the horns and held on all the way from Brownsville to Brooklyn bridge—just for the ride.

He's Ralph Sanders, of San Benito, and the bull's name is Jerry. They moseyed down Broadway the other day with 254 days of travel behind them and 2,700 miles of sage brush, sand and snow under their feet.

They had a 32-inch pair of steer's horns for Mayor Walker and a letter signed by Chief of Police J. T. Armstrong, saying they left Brownsville on May 2, 1930.

Let Sanders tell it:

"I just wanted to ride a bull. It's something that ain't been done before on such a large scale and I wanted to see if I could do it. I was all run down—my health was pretty poor—so I bought that old bull and started out. I gained 12 pounds and now I'm as strong as the bull. When I left Jerry weighed 910 pounds and now he weighs exactly a thousand.

"It took 85 days to train that bull so as to make him a good riding animal. I tried to get fellows to ride along by me in an automobile but they wouldn't stick. I had five different guys and they all quit. The pace was too slow for 'em, and they couldn't stand the pressure.

"Jerry walked all the way. He wore out seven pairs of steel shoes. We crossed the Alleghenny and the Ozark mountains. It was pretty slow goin' up in that snow. Bull riding is sure healthful though. I feel better than I've felt for five years."

Two Bridge Parties Are Being Given In Howard Pearson Home Here

DR. MYERS

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

MAKE COMMANDS WISE IN TEACHING CHILD OBEDIENCE

I see no value in my child's obeying me just because I am his father. Only because I at the moment am, in a way, responsible for his conduct am I concerned about his obedience of my commands. It is just as important that any other person, as a school teacher, or policeman be obeyed by my child. He just happens to be growing up in a world where respect for authority is necessary for the welfare and greatest happiness of all concerned.

When my child disobeys his teacher, or employer, or wilfully defies an ordinance, I have not educated him properly in obedience, no matter how obedient he is to me, his father.

Be always so reasonable and fair that the child will learn from day by day experience that your commands are wise. It is often desirable to make careful explanation to the child before the command is made, but rarely practical for him to ask you why after it is made. Let him learn to go ahead and do as he is told. Then, if he still has doubts about its being just and fair, let him come back and say to you what he pleases. Be open-minded then and ready to make amends if you discover you had erred.

Reduce many matters, like going to bed or washing before meals, to a routine, when no commands are needed.

Don't command the child under two or three to do anything, and rarely thereafter. Make requests; lead him skilfully to want to co-operate, and praise him heartily when he does. Then you will not teach him to be stubborn. Say "no" or "don't" in relation to a very few things. Say it once. Then employ punishment immediately if disobeyed.

Don't repeat a command at any age. Be sure you have the child's attention when you give it. If you have doubts, ask him quietly to repeat it after you. Unless commands of things to do are matters suffering, there's no great haste.

In order for my child to learn a general attitude of obedience I must habitually obey the rules of conduct which I demand of him, and he must acquire satisfaction in the long run from habitual obedience and in no way find obedience needlessly hard for him.

Be sure commands are wise before you make them, and that the child has had the necessary early training to insure his obedience then, and if not, that you have available the necessary means to guarantee future obedience in like instances. Before making any command count the cost. Be sure you can see it through. The fewer commands you make the more likely they are to be obeyed. You can displace most commands by requests.

When, however, you do make requests, treat them as such; don't confuse them with commands. If you ask the child of three or of 13, if he will do something for you, and he decides against you, let it be his privilege to do so. If you attempt to force him then, you have not taken him at his word nor expected him to take you at yours; you have made all requests into commands. Then what have you left on which to build co-operation?

New curtains for the kitchen, sun porch or attic can be made quickly from crinoline, argentine cloth or oilcloth by cutting jig-saw edges and scallops. No sewing required.

It is estimated that 200,000 persons in the United States suffered from pellagra, a disease caused by malnutrition, during 1929.

Party Is Given In Bass Arnett Home

Mrs. S. Bass Arnett entertained members of the Tuesday Bridge club at her home near Lubbock yesterday afternoon.

Members in attendance were Mesdames W. A. Bacon, W. O. Stevens, A. B. Conley, Milton Jones, Fred Snyder, W. R. Mesdor, J. T. Hutchinson, J. H. Goodman and Miss Delia Wilkinson.

Mesdames Arthur Clayton, Walter Myrick, jr., and Sam C. Arnett were guests.

Capital Deb

For two reasons the debut of Miss Elizabeth Meyer, above, will be one of the most important events of the Washington social season. One is that she is one of the most attractive newcomers to capital society, and the other is that she is a daughter of Eugene Meyer, jr., recently chosen governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

CHARM CHATS

by Nancy Earle

Noted Authority and Writer on Health, Charm and Beauty.

(Miss Earle will be in Lubbock January 26 to 29)

Pansy weighs a hundred and seventy pounds.

What ought Pansy to do?

Reduce? Of course. But what about all this discourse on the evils of weight reduction?

Eviles of weight reduction, yes. But we hope Pansy will reduce scientifically and that will mean in a manner that will protect her from the usual evils.

In the first place she will consult an authentic chart showing just what her weight, in relation to her height and age, should be. Very likely it will be several pounds more than she thinks now that she would like to weigh.

That then should be her goal. Not the lean lanky curveless lady whom she saw draped across the cover of a fashion magazine. These charts may be obtained from your physician, or from your municipal, county, or state clinic.

Then Pansy will make up her mind that she really wants to reduce her weight. Many Pansies merely think it would be just grand, you know, to lose a few pounds. But they do not make a determined resolution to bring it to pass.

And having made up her mind that she wants to reduce, then Pansy will resolve further that she is going to do the thing correctly, in accordance with the principles of physiology and food chemistry and health requirements.

The very first thing that means is that she will never be beguiled into trying short easy methods of weight reduction. She will not listen to rosy promises of pounds dematerializing "without the bother of exercise or the annoyance of dieting", as one advertisement says.

She will never take any sort of medicine, pills, tablets, or any other preparation in the hope that it will save her the trouble of getting rid of the unwanted poundage herself.

Those preparations are of two kinds, those which contain extract of thyroid gland, and those which do not. Those which do not are absolutely devoid of any effect upon the body. Pansy might as well go about and make a wish on the new moon that her fat would dissolve.

Those which contain the extract of thyroid are extremely dangerous. The thyroid secretion does exert a certain influence upon the weight, but it also has other very important functions and its indiscriminate use is almost certain to bring about dire results too varied and too many to detail here. Beware of those preparations. Only upon the advice and under the direct supervision of an expert physician should any medical measure of this kind be administered. And your physician will never, upon any circumstances, prescibe those patent medicines.

And Pansy will never exchange good gold (and good common sense) for any "reducing cream" or "reducing soap" to melt the fat away, or wash it away.

Nor will she concoct anything at home in the way of lotions (usually containing camphor) or liquids to be applied to the body to get rid of some of her hundred and seventy. Surely Pansy knows better than that! Those preparations hold very pernicious possibilities for the unwary one looking for the easy way. Lasting injury may result.

And Pansy won't starve herself thin either. She will reorganize her diet, but her body will be fed adequately at all times. And of course, she won't insult her body with these trick combinations of food that are perhaps even worse than the starvation.

No, Pansy won't make any of these mistakes. Pansy isn't looking for the lazy way. She means to emerge from her weight reducing campaign more healthy than she was with her fat, and more lovely to look upon. And she won't if she looks for short cuts and magic formulas.

Child Study Unit Is To Meet Friday

Members of the A. A. U. W. Child Study group are to meet from 3 until 5 o'clock Friday afternoon in Room 104 of the Tech home economics building, according to an announcement made by Miss Bonnie Dysart. The program for discussion is "Physical Development in Relation to Mental Development."

Business Meeting Is Conducted By OES

Routine business was transacted at a regular session of the Order of the Eastern Star in the Masonic hall Tuesday evening. Mrs. Paul Hardwick, worthy matron, was in charge and there was one visitor in attendance.

Tech Students Will Form Choir

A choir composed of Tech students who are members of the First Presbyterian church is to be organized Thursday evening at a meeting with Mrs. J. H. Howze, 1107 19th street, at 7 o'clock.

The average English farm is 94 acres and that of Wales 83.

Texas Art Exhibit To Be Shown Here

The Junior Twentieth Century club in meeting Tuesday afternoon voted to sponsor an exhibit of paintings sent out by the Texas Fine Arts association to be shown in Lubbock during the first week in March. The club convened in the home economics building, Texas Technological college.

A place for the exhibit is to be selected later, it has been announced. This exhibit, which includes work of many Texas artists, is being shown in Amarillo this week under the sponsorship of the Amarillo Art association.

Miss Mabel Erwin lectured at the club meeting on domestic and oriental rugs, following the regular program for the year. She illustrated her lecture with samples.

High School P-TA Meets On Tuesday

An address by Superintendent M. H. Duncan and a talk on "The Group and Study Method From the Pupils' Standpoint" by Ruth Glazier were features of a meeting of the senior high Parent-Teacher association in the girls' study hall Tuesday evening.

At the beginning of the program the high school orchestra, under the direction of H. A. Anderson, played several selections. Mrs. H. F. Godeke gave a report of the state convention of P.-T. A's which was conducted in San Angelo last fall, and Catherine Royalty read.

Mrs. J. C. Allensworth, vice-president, presided in the absence of Dr. Jack M. Lewis and there was a good attendance.

Mrs. R. H. Moore Hostess At Bridge

Mrs. R. H. Moore, 2117 13th street, graciously entertained members of the Idle Hour club Tuesday afternoon in her home with bridge in her home. Tallies carried sachets which served as favors for the guests.

Club members playing were Mesdames R. D. Moxley, H. B. Hawkins, R. S. Williams, R. S. Rodgers, Calvin Henson, H. D. Chipley, P. F. Murray, Guion Gregg, L. B. Rice. Other guests were Mrs. Allen T. Stewart and Miss Mary Evelyn Woodson.

SAVING DECORATIONS

If you carefully save all the house decorations from Christmas, Valentine's day, and so on, be sure to mark each box separately because it saves time and wear and tear on the decorations.

H. E. Ellisons Are At Home In Lubbock

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Burchette Raybon and H. E. Ellison Sunday in Clovis, N. M., with the pastor of the First Baptist church there, Rev. Nix, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Ellison are at home now at 708 Avenue M. They were accompanied to Clovis by Mr. and Mrs. Reese Donald of this city.

Mrs. Ellison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Raybon, 1907 Avenue H. She is a graduate of the Lubbock High school and a former student in the business college here. Mr. Ellison has a grocery store on Avenue H.

COOKING CROQUETTES AND ROASTING COFFEE HAVE MUCH IN COMMON

Success Depends Upon the Rule — A Little at a Time

Careful cooks do not crowd too many croquettes into the hot fat because they lower the temperature and then absorb grease. Cooking a few at a time prevents this.

In roasting coffee there is similar difficulty when too much is roasted at once. It is impossible to control the heat and often, as a result, part of the batch is overdone and part underdone. This causes variation in flavor.

Hills Bros., following the rule in the croquette recipe, roast only a few pounds of coffee at a time by their patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting. There is no variation in the roast because there is accurate control of the heat, and of the flow of coffee through the roasters. A rare, uniform flavor is developed such as no other coffee has.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee in vacuum cans that keep it fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed from the cans when they are packed, and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

"GRAND OLD MAN" OF AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY CELEBRATES 88TH BIRTHDAY; STILL PLANNING IMPROVEMENT ON CARS

BY DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT, Jan. 21 (AP)—On the 22nd floor of the Dime Bank building approaching his 88th birthday a white-haired and white-bearded man who made rifles for soldiers in the Civil war and airplane motors in the World war is carrying on because his "plans are not yet quite mature," and because work provides the "best fun" he has.

Henry M. Leland, the "grand old man" of the automobile industry, with mind as alert as it was back in 1890 when he predicted the future of internal combustion engines, and with a physical vitality that is the marvel of his friends and acquaintances, is in his office every day but Sunday from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. To the office comes a steady stream of visitors, mostly would-be inventors who seek his advice on the merit of certain devices, for this is the "unfinished business" this octogenarian mechanical genius feels called upon to look after before his retirement.

Still Has Energy

That he will retire only when his heart stops beating is the conviction of his friends. The energy tha enabled him to walk up 433 steps to his office and then down again when he was 80 years old remains with him, although he has not essayed the climb for some time.

A month hence Henry Leland will have another birthday. His friends will ask him how it feels to be 88 years old, and Henry Leland will reply: "I'm a bit embarrassed; you see, it's the first time I ever was 88."

Doesn't Admit Defeat

Coupling an unfailing optimism with his mental and physical alertness, this outstanding figure of the automobile world doesn't admit such a thing as defeat.

When he was 75 he organized the Lincoln Motor company chiefly for the production of the Liberty motors. Some time after the war the company came upon financial troubles and it seemed that a career that had been so replete in achievement was to be capped by failure. Leland made a fighting comeback, however, after the Lincoln company had been taken over at a receiver's sale by Henry Ford. A bitter fight, still in progress, between Leland and his old friend, Ford, resulted from the latter's purchase of the Lincoln properties. Leland claimed Ford agreed to reimburse certain stockholders when the property was taken over.

It was as head of the Cadillac Motor car company, which he founded in 1902, that Henry Leland introduced storage battery ignition, electric lighting, electric starting and thermostatic control of engine temperatures. Today he is still thinking of improvements that can be made in automobile engines and other moving parts of the vehicle whose future he foresaw when most people scoffed at the "contraption" which some called "the invention of the devil."

LEVINE'S PLANES SELL FOR RENT

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—Airplanes and other property of Charles A. Levine, seized by a sheriff for rent due to Roosevelt Field, were sold today to the highest bidders.

An all-metal monoplane, "Uncle Sam," which Levine built at a cost of $25,000 a year ago for a projected flight around the world, was bid in by Roosevelt Field for $750.

"The Riad," which Levine built for use as a land plane, seaplane or amphibian, sold for $1,000.

Other property, including tools and supplies brought about $50. Roosevelt Field claimed $5,108, or 14 months' hangar rent was due from Levine.

Sponsor and passenger on Chamberlain's flight from New York to Germany in 1927 Levine has been sought by police for two weeks in another connection. Assistant District Attorney Garrison in New York ordered his arrest because Levine failed to appear to explain possession of securities reported stolen.

Thought For Today

Blessed is the man that endureth temptation.—James 1:12.

When a man resisteth sin or human motives only, he will not hold out long.—Bishop Wilson.

A Concern

There is a little boy who hasn't any place to go.

He can't go home, for he has killed a man. He can't go to the penitentiary yet; he is too young. And the boys' industrial school of Ohio, situated at Lancaster, which is supposed to care for him until he reaches the grown-up age of 21, can't take him, either, for the rules of the school prohibit acceptance of a person who is in for a long sentence, according to its superintendent.

So John Woods is as homeless as the man without a country.

Other boys are blowing tin horns, flinging confetti and balloons and colored streamers as the New Year comes. But to John Woods all years will be old years as he sits and wonders what he will do with them. He didn't think of that before. But now that the silver-white hills of winter and the sun-bright fields of spring make up a Promised Land in which he may no longer wander, life is different.

But he is no more concerned about himself than is a society which is confronted with a problem that it doesn't know how to solve. Vast fortunes have been spent in an effort to provide the proper institutions, schools and courses of training for those who have erred. John Woods is a different type of problem. He will never be permitted to go back into the world. He killed a man, during a hold-up. And he is only 14.

One wonders what the reaction of the other boys in an industrial school would be to John Woods. Would they stand off, a little shyly, and whisper to each other that he is the boy who killed a man — who staged a hold-up—did the things that grown men do? And would there be a little fear in their voices, a little aloofness in their manner? Or would there be a touch of admiration because his crime was a dramatic one?

We don't know about such things, for each of these institutions is a world apart. But the problem which centers around John Woods opens the door into the great brick buildings where all the other wanderers from the right path are centered. Their attitude toward others who commit misdemeanors — who shoot men—confronts society.

We are our brothers' keepers. We can't escape that truth. And those who are older and wiser must direct these lads, teach them to distinguish the gold from the dross; show them that those things which are not real will soon become as tarnished as last year's Christmas tinsel.

There will always be some, of course, who cannot be taught. There are many who can.

And meantime it is never too late to "come back." Even when all one's life must be shut away from the trails where high winds blow.

This decision as to where John Woods shall go should concern society as much as it does the 14-year-old boy himself.

The War

An official committee of the German Reichstag, having studied the causes of the World War, finds that most of the blame for starting the trouble goes to Russia, with Serbia and Austria-Hungary sharing in the guilt.

Being a German committee, it naturally views Germany's part in the negotiations that led to the war a little more favorably than, say, a French committee would.

However, there is this to remember: all of this talk about who started the war is senseless unless it is realized that the war was chiefly a product of the European system of handling international relations. It grew out of that system inevitably. If the murder of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand had not started it, some other minor incident would have. It is futile to try to indict any one nation for it. In a real sense, all of the nations were equally guilty.

DROUTH RELIEF BEING TALKED AT POST

MEETING IS HELD TO ACQUAINT AREA WITH DETAILS

Discussion of ways and means of handling drouth relief applications under the federal plan is being held today at a meeting of committees on drouth relief work on the South Plains with O. B. Martin, College Station. The meeting was scheduled to get underway shortly before noon at the city hall in Post.

According to announcement made here yesterday thirty-five counties in Texas have been assured of relief from the drouth fund.

From each of the 32 counties a banker, a merchant and a farmer have been named to handle applications. Each man who makes application for assistance in buying feed and seed will appear before the committee or will send his application to them for consideration.

A list of committee members from several South Plains counties have been announced as follows:

Lubbock — C. E. Maedgen, Lubbock, banker; J. H. Edwards, Slaton, business man; Earl Davis, farmer, Lubbock.

Crosby — J. Edd McLaughlin, Ralls, banker; R. L. Durham, Lorenzo, business man; Sep Smith Crosbyton, farmer.

Dickens—George S. Link, business man; E. D. Lee, banker, and S. R. Bowman, farmer.

Lynn—A. L. Lockwood, banker; J. K. Applewhite, business man, J. W. Elliott, farmer.

Thirty-two counties have been tentatively selected for those to participate in the apportionment of feed and seed. Counties participating, as announced by Mr. Martin are: Baylor, Callahan, Clay, Childress, Coleman, Cottle, Crosby, Dickens, Eastland, Fisher, Foard, Garza, Hall, Hardeman, Haskell, Jones, Kent, Knox, Lubbock, Lynn, Mitchell, Motley, Nolan, Runnels, Shackleford, Scurry, Stephens, Stonewall, Taylor, Throckmorton, Wichita and Young.

In addition to the county committees it is expected a number of others interested in the work will attend.

Members of the state-wide drouth relief committee, are expected to attend and to confer with Director Martin. A number of county agents also will be present.

Hardware Men Seek Variety In Stock

DALLAS, Jan. 21. (AP)—Speakers here at the Texas Hardware and Implement Association's convention asserted that Texas hardware dealers had grown tired of having their field of merchandise invaded by other merchants and were fighting back by extending the variety of things they offer to the public.

Where the old-time hardware store mainly dealt in such staples as barbed wire, nails, garden and farm tools and related articles, the modern hardware store offers a stock consisting of articles ranging from the old-style hand plow to the latest model radio, they said.

Speakers on the program today included T. C. Thompson, Canyon, president and Thomas Nowell, Richmond, Va., vice president of the national association.

Romane Re-Elected Loan Company Head

CROSBYTON, Jan. 21. (Staff Special)—Will M. Romane, manager of the Plains Mercantile company and a pioneer of Crosby county and the South Plains, was re-elected president of the Crosbyton National Farm Loan association at the annual election. Mr. Romane has been president for several years.

Other officers chosen were, S. F. Starrett, vice president; Will T. Dunn, secretary-treasurer; W. M. Romane, O. D. Edler, J. R. McDuff, S. F. Starrett and C. H. Heim, directors.

"Loans amount to $516,850," Secretary Dunn announced. "The reserve is $1,635 and the cash on hand amounted to $1,715.15. We have a membership of 151 and stock held by members is $25,868."

AUTHOR IN HOSPITAL

MONTEREY, Cal., Jan. 21. (AP)—Gouvernuer Morris, the author, was in the hospital here tonight with a badly burned right arm.

The writer got out of his automobile last Friday near Los Banos to make a minor repair. A live coal from his cigaretie dropped into the gasoline tank, causing it to flame up.

Morris, believing the burn inconsequential, continued with Mrs. Morris to Sonora, but his arm became worse. Physicians said he would be out of the hospital soon.

American Indians As Badly Off As Ever In Spite Of Shakeup In Federal Bureau And Senate In Investigation

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — The familiar old lead that something is going to be done for the American Indians always turns out to be the same old mirage.

The reformers who insist that the Indians are not getting decent treatment are only matched in their dogged persistency by the bureaucrats of the Indian Bureau who do not seem to change their policies.

At least, the friends of the 300,000 Indians under federal jurisdiction are again squawking to that effect. Possibly they deserve some attention, because when Mr. Hoover became president he eased out the commissioner and assistant commissioner of Indian affairs and installed a couple of noble citizens who were expected to bring about a great change.

Unfortunately, those critics who used to pan Commissioner Burke and his regime have begun to complain that Commissioner Rhoads and Assistant Commissioner Scattergood have made no improvements at all and that the poor Indians, long accustomed to neglect and abuse, are as badly off a sever.

Charges against superintendents of reservations and agencies included accusations of graft, neglect, cruelty and gross incompetence of all varieties. Such charges were so often proved that it was commonly supposed many of the Indian Bureau employes would be fired and a change of policy effected. The idea was that it would be a fine thing if the government could choose an occasional superintendent who would have some sympathy with the Indians. But instead of sending guilty superintendents to jail—or discharging them — the Indian Bureau recently issued a public statement to the effect that more Indians ought to be in jail; that is, that they ought to be made more easily subject to punishment under the white man's laws.

Congress won't do anything about the Indians this session, of course, which presumably means this year. Its members, who have always tried to help the Indians, can only protest, as usual. The Senate Indian Affairs Committee, after years of struggle for an investigation, was authorized to inquire into conditions on the reservations and unearthed much shocking evidence. But it can only make its report and recommend legislation, for which the time is inadequate in this Congress.

The most noticeable effect of the investigation thus far appears to be that cited by Senator Frazier, of North Dakota, chirman of the committee, who says that superintendents whose dismissal was recommended unanimously by his investigating subcommittee are still on the job, putting on the government payroll Indians who testified in their behalf and making things harder than ever for the Indians who protested the treatment they had received.

Senator King of Utah says at least one-fourth of the present 5000 Indian Bureau employes ought to be discharged and that the administration of Indian affairs should then be carried out in accordance with humanitarian instincts.

"I believe that Rhoads had a sincere desire to improve the conditions of the Indians," he says. "but I fear that he has been unable to throw off the bureaucratic net which envelops every person who enters into federal departments and bureaus. The Indians are wards of the federal government, but on many reservations they are no better off than they were many years ago. And nothing is being done about it. Their lack of progress is almost entirely due to the inefficiency of the bureau and those connected with the administration of Indian affairs. Their health has been neglected and their death rate has been very great."

Senator Wheeler of Montana, one of the investigators, says the Indian service employs farmers who, except in rare instances, never visit Indians and show them how to farm. He says few field agents ever get in contract with the Indians. Indians were found sick and half starved, without food or clothing, he says, who had never been visited by a physician or a field agent.

"Unless there is some improvement with regard to caring for the health and other interests of the Indians and unless the Indian service people actually go out and do something for the Indians and thus earn their salaries." Wheeler says, "I will be in favor of doing away with the Indian Bureau entirely because I think in many instances the Indians would be better off without the Indian Bureau than with it."

The wisdom of this is, however, sometimes called in doubt, as indicated by the following excerpt from a book called, "Your Nose Throat and Ears," by Drs. L. S. Oaks and H. G. Merrill (published by Appleton).

Dr. Clendening

"When any material slides down over the inferior turbinate to land upon the floor of the nose, it causes a tickling sensation, or the nose seems filled up; and immediately there arises an almost irresistible impulse to blow it vigorously. Not thinking of anything but the momentary relief afforded, we apply some pressure to partially close both nostrils, or completely shut off one, and send a blast of air through from the throat. Results a satisfying noise, with expulsion of more or less 'corruption' and the feeling of a job well done. However, in the words of a much respected instructor, whose mastery of English had not yet reached its acme; 'That are not all, gentlemen.' The end results of that blast may be more far reaching than we at the time realize. Bacteria-loaded mucous, lying under the middle turbinates, is in close relationship with openings of the sinuses; and whenever we create a sudden pressure within the nasal chambers, we are almost certain to force some of it through into the cavities, which means actively extending the infection to them. This is exactly what ordinary blowing of the nose does for us.

"If one simply must perform this savage rite, it should be done with both nostrils freely open and holding the handkerchief over the nose. Leaving one nostril open and closing the other will not do, because it is not possible to close the posterior opening of that nasal chamber, and harmful pressure is bound to be created within it. Neither is partial closure of both, or of one any more safe or acceptable.

"Patients frequently, when this is explained to them, irritably remark: 'Well, I simply have to blow my nose. How else can I get this stuff out?' Nature's way is to move the secretions backward into the throat from where they may be expectorated, and we should do well to follow her suggestion. The process is unpleasant to listen to; but it is to be hoped the time will come when our bugling-the-nose ceremony will be considered even less aesthetic. Until we do learn to avoid this procedure, in the presence of infections in the nose, we are going to keep right on having annual crops of sinus disease, with their accompanying economic losses and human suffering."

Bishop Cannon's Son Is Married

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—David P. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., was married last Saturday to Miss Margaret Lee Pults of Washington.

The marriage was not announced and the ceremony was attended only by a brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Cannon. The groom, a law students at George Washington university, also has been working with his father on the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The bride's father is Rev. R. L. Pults of Front Royal, Virginia.

A college in the midwest is up for sale. Perhaps it might have been flourishing still had Rudy Vallee got hold of its drinking song in due time.

The president should console himself with the thought that if the Senate doesn't pay much attention to his words he can get plenty for them as a writer later on.

In New York

With Swan

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—We who write of a kaleidoscopic New York—a New York of transient fads and foods, of high life and low life, of playwrights and actors and singers and artists and writers, of fame that is born and dies overnight—

We have a way of forgetting the rivers that run to the sea just outside the island's rim; of forgetting that an island has to be surrounded by water, even as the geography taught us at a very early age.

And then the Manhattan that was Manhattan comes stepping out of the past, dressed in the architecture of another century.

Hanover Square. . . . Whitehall and Pearl streets. . . . And what was once Coentis Slip. . . . Ancient slate roofs, appearing picturesquely between modern and unromantic square brick warehouses. . . . The site of Captain Kidd's one-time residence before he left his beautiful wife to venture forth on a London-made racket which wound him up in a noose.

And then, along the cobbled waterfront, where the shops are for all the world like the country stores of our youths. . . . Shops where you can get anything and everything from a collar button and gum drops. . . . And here you'll find the sailors of the world, hastily laying in supplies before taking to the sea again.

And so to the Battery, which never wants for a crowd. . . . Always, ill weather or fair, tired city dwellers come as near the edge of the water as they may and look hungrily out upon it.

All this occurred to me this cold night, when with pipe and muted radio I turned again to Melville and "Moby Dick" and began to read.

"Go from Corlears Hook to Coendis Slip on a dreamy Sabbath afternoon, and from there to Whitehall northward. There now is your insular city of Manhattoes, belted round by wharves as Indian Isles by coral reefs — Commerce surrounds it with your surf. Right and left the streets take you to the waterfront. Its extreme downtown is the Battery, where that noble mole is washed by the waves, and cooled by breezes. . . . Look at the crowd of water gazers there.

"What do you see? Posted like silent sentinels all around the town stand thousands upon thousands of mortal men fixed upon ocean reveries. Some leaning against the spiles; some seated upon the pierheads; some looking over the bulwarks of ships from China; some high aloft in the rigging as though trying to get a still better seaward peep.

"But they are all landsmen: of the week days pent up in lath and plaster. — tied to counters, nailed to benches, clinched to desks."

And so it is to this day. Now they are penned in giants of steel and stone. The rigging is gone and now the giant prows of great liners become the objects of awe. The very people you are likely to meet a few hours later, stepping and shoving in subways . . . the very people you will shove off the curbstone later as you hurry through Broadway to a theater.

Yes, for a few moments every so often, most New Yorkers are reminded that, after all, they are islanders.

Wild Well Tamed By Oil Workers

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21. (AP)—Oklahoma's wild well tamers are becoming proficient.

The Number 1 Wespaco of the T. B. Slick estate which blew wild Monday was shut in less than eight hours after blowing wild, a new record in the Oklahoma City field.

Two workmen were injured when the torrent burst through connections worn by sand.

Delaware prison officials who ordered five convicts flogged apparently had their own ideas as to how to put prisoners in stripes.

In this respect a depression is like a war: Experts thought it would be over in a few months.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The native surely had the knack of paddling. As he pushed straight back the small canoe moved on with speed and hardly made a sound. "I'll keep in mid-stream, lads," said he. "Then we're as safe as we can be. If we go too near to the shore, the boat might run aground."

"Just take it easy. Don't be scared. Out in the open you'll be aired. Breathe deeply. It will make you grow and also make you strong. I'll do the work and you can rest. I know you lads all like that best. There's naught but fun ahead of us and nothing can go wrong."

"That's fine," said Scouty, with a smile. "But I will paddle after while if you begin to get tired out. I'd like to try my hand. I've rowed a boat, but baddling, I guess, is quite a different thing. However if you'll show me how, I know I'll understand."

"All right! We'll see," the native cried. "But, frankly, lad, this sort of ride will never tire me out a bit. I'm used to it, you see. And, anyway, when night arrives you'll have the time of your young lives. We'll stop at shore and put up camp. That's thrilling as can be."

So, on they rode throughout the day. At meal time Clowny shouted, "Hey! Let's eat a bit. I'm nearly starved. And it is getting dark." So, up on shore they shortly went and 'bout a half an hour was spent in cooking up some supper. All the bunch thought this a lark.

'Twas such a clear and moonlit night the bunch agreed 'twould be all right to just sleep out on blankets, and the Tinies soon crawled in. The native, with a voice quite strong, sat up and sang a merry song. He then played on an instrument and made the Tinies grin.

(The Tinymites cross a portion of the Indian Ocean in the next story.)

Jewelry Goes Bolshevistic

PERHAPS not more precious than rubies. But certainly as stylish right now are the many, many red stones used in the new costume jewelry.

The whole realm of new jewelry sees red! Rubies, if you happen to have them. Red stones, if not. And as a matter of fact, few folks today know a real ruby when they see it.

The lacier your new jewelry is, the better. The day of gobs of this or that stone about your neck has been succeeded by the most intricately-designed bits of loveliness for your neck, your ears, your wrists.

There are two new kinds of necklaces that bear stressing. If you are young and cute, try on one of the collaret necklaces. They are virtually a shallow yoke of gleaming stones. And there is no denying their glamour.

If you are a little older and round yokes are not so becoming as the flattering V, then a cravat necklace is yours for the buying. This type of necklace, instead of merely dangling about your neck, has two little tie ends of brilliants which look much like a jeweled tie.

PENDANT earrings are very good now. But round ones are newer than the pointed ones. And the kind that set a single large stone all around with many small ones that twinkle and scintillate, are very good, from a style point, and very flattering to many women.

There are little glittering belts for wear with white satin gowns that are made of synthetic rubies, set with crystal rondels. There are rings made of synthetic rubies cut square or oval, with a setting of tiny crystals.

Among the very newest spring jewelry in the ruby red category is an exquisitely dainty cravat necklace that hangs low, made of the finest red beads, in a lacy design that has a scalloped edge. There is a triangle of cut crystal where the tie ends loop over each other. This is tremendously effective on a white chiffon or satin gown.

TWO new earrings that would be a chic blessing in anybody's ears are fine crystal, cut in oval form, set in a rim of red, with small rhinestones all around the outside. These, matched up with a bracelet or a ring, are very effective on a dainty person.

The medallion necklaces made their appearance this winter, usually with a bracelet or earrings and ring to make up an ensemble. This spring they come, not set with the mosaic or cameo decorations of the winter, but with synthetic gems, beautifully cut so that they gleam like the real article, and set in the pink of perfection with crystal rondels.

One such necklace and ring ensemble have beautiful medallions of synthetic rubies, in rather rectangular shape, slightly longer than wide, each set completely surrounded with crystal rondels and the necklace itself crystal rondels set in solid silver.

For the cute-faced girl or the woman with lovely features there is a dainty little collarette of small ruby drops and crystal, all set in flexible links of silver.

All of these show that new jewelry uses gems like lace for the sake of beauty.

Rhinestones and emeralds are proving a popular combination in the new spring jewelry. Corals, too, are adopting rhinestones to add a sparkle to their beauty.

Beads are twisting themselves into charming designs in order to vary the monotony of the flat strands which are always favorites.

One charming necklace is composed of three strands of turquoise beads which have matching oval clips of turquoise. Crystals and rhinestones are braided together in frosty loveliness in another necklace for evening.

In spite of the unusual play of colors in the new jewelry, crystals and pearls and rhinestones are holding their own, and frequently serve as a display medium, for the gayer, brighter sets.

The New Metal Furnishings

MODERN furniture, which has had its ups and downs since it made its sensational debut back in 1925, seems to have captured at least one division of the home furnishings field.

In outdoor, porch and sun parlor furniture, look for the gay colors and unusual lines of our youngest furniture style.

This trend was very much in evidence at the Winter Style Show which opened at the American Furniture Mart, Chicago, on Jan. 5, to continue for two weeks.

More than 700 manufacturers of furniture introduced their new lines at this exhibition, and buyers came from retail stores in every state. The spaces featuring outdoor furniture rivaled the rainbow in color.

January, in most of the United States, is no time to be thinking of garden parties and furnishings for the open porch, but the furniture industry works well ahead of the seasons. The furniture now shown in the wholesale markets will be delivered to the retail stores in the spring, when the summer time is just around the corner.

OF course, modern furniture is being sold for every room in the house, but it ranks in volume far behind Early American, French Provincial, Georgian, Early English and the other popular periods—until you move outdoors. There it's a different story.

Incidentally, the correct name is now "modern," not "modernistic." The "istic" vanished from the name when the first popularity of this style waned, and the new name is used to distinguish the new product—which is still brilliant in color and simple in line—from its predecessor, which was far more grotesque, and somewhat gaudy.

One-piece telephone stand and stool . . . all of metal, and 100 per cent practical, (Illustration courtesy American Furniture Mart.)

Steel is a popular medium for this type of furniture—used both in round tubing and in flat strips, either chromium-plated or with a dull finish. Aluminum, lighter in weight, has also come into use. Several types of upholstery are popular, with the waterproof and sunproof fabrics leading in the outdoor field. Spring steel seats and backs, which require no upholstery fabric, are also prominent.

UTILITY is the guide post for the modern designers, whose aim is to leave off everything that isn't needed. A new telephone stand, illustrated here, is a good example. It combines both the stand and chair in one piece of furniture and has shelves which provide space for the telephone books. A Continental type flat phone is needed to carry out the lines of the furniture, since the telephone itself is in plain sight.

Reed and rattan—older friends of the furniture maker than steel—are being adapted to the new designs with several surprising results. Burnt rattan is especially popular.

A greater sale of modern furniture for every room in the house is forecast by most furniture manufacturers—but only when architecture has paved the way. In other words, more homes suitable for this type of furnishing must be provided. Great progress has already been made in this direction in the building of skyscraper apartments, and expensive homes, but not so much in the medium-priced dwellings.

The new modern metal furniture can never completely come into its own until more people will build homes into which it fits naturally and harmoniously.

A Deb's Hints On Perfumes

By DEBUTANTE

THE debutante isn't putting all her trust in what her face can do. She has discovered that perfumes help in creating the subtle, evasive allure that women have sought ever since their very great-grandmothers made themselves charming for a certain stag line.

Even those sons of Adam who don't appreciate the surface view can catch a subtle fragrance.

The debutante has rejected those perfumes which are mysterious and exotic. She prefers those that are sweet and demure and feminine, and blend into the just-a-song-at-twilight age in which we are living this winter.

The debutante hasn't been out very long, but already she knows that any man would rather have the allure of lilacs wafted to him instead of a strange Egyptian scent.

There is one guiding rule which the debutante uses in perfume selection. She doesn't choose her scents. She lets them choose her. When she started to buy her perfumes for the winter she didn't know just what fragrances would suit her. So she experimented. She went to a perfumer and had him get out a whole row of little bottles.

SHE put a drop from one of them on the inside of her arm and waited a few seconds. Then she tried another kind, and another. Some of the fragrances faded at once. Others lingered. But one or two triumphed over the rest and sent the others straight back to their gardens. Those that lingered were the ones which suited the debutante's particular skin and would be most lasting and effective when worn by her.

The flowers from an old bouquet are the favorites this winter. You can be as grateful as the debutante if lilac or sweet pea happen to be partial to you.

One odor might grow monotonous if you used it all the time, the debutante decided, so she found another one that took a fancy to her, and bought that, too.

Perfume, she has learned, must be used every night and morning. She will tell you to daub it behind your ears, to put some in an atomizer and spray it on your clothes. It won't be nearly so likely to stain if you use it this way as it would if you made a nice, round spot. The debutante can't afford to ruin any of her fragile laces and chiffons.

THERE is wisdom in supplementing the perfume with toilet water of the same brand and the same scent.

Men like perfumes, the debutante knows. Perfumes make them romantic. They can't don armor, put red feathers in their helmets and start out to rescue a princess today, but they can feel like it . . . and that is something.

For this is the age of loveliness and if you forget to put perfume in your atomizer you are as foolish as those other maidens who didn't put oil in their lamps, the debutante has learned.

The debutante has another secret. She buys different kinds of perfume for every one of the men she likes. Lilacs have a devastating appeal on one lad. Mignonette has a scent appeal for another.

But now and then she varies them, for the wise debutante will never let any man be too sure of anything.

The wise debutante has learned that just because a girl looks like Cleopatra doesn't mean that she should use exotic perfumes.

Types have nothing to do with the choice of perfume. Skins are the deciding factor.

But when she has decided on the two fragrances that suit her she uses them continually. She is never caught without one of the other, for such a condition would spoil the glamour which she has acquired by having the odor of rain-wet lilacs always drifting around when she is near. If scents are to be associated with her, as part of her personality, people mustn't be allowed to realize that they are just liquids in bottles to be applied at will. They must become a part of her by constant association.

Kicking Your Boys Out of the House

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"LONNY, you're not to touch that new chair. Now mind."

Lonny surveyed the blue damask creation with its inviting eiderdown cushions.

"Isn't it to sit in?"

"Yes, but not for you with your dirty clothes."

"Aw, my clothes ain't dirty."

"Oh, yes, they are. Anyway, I don't want you in here at all. It's the only room I have for company."

Lonny went to the window and looked down four stories into the street.

"I want you to go to the store. There's a good boy," she changed the subject.

"Can I have Wallace in tonight?"

"Isn't it your turn to go over to his house? He was here last night."

"I know, but his mother's havin' company."

"We're having company tonight, too. Well—I'll see! Here's the list for the store."

"WHAT we havin' for dinner, Mom?"

"Oh, I almost forgot about dinner. We'll have enough, I guess. There are eggs and half a cabbage and some cold mashed potatoes. I'll make potato cakes. You like them. Now, you run on and get my things."

Lonny did his errands.

When he came home he went to his own room to read one of his new books.

"Lonny!"

"All right."

"Don't lie on your bed and don't sit on it either. That spread is brand clean and Mrs. Brenler might wander in there anyway."

Lonny gazed and grunted.

"I wish that big soft couch in the living room wasn't only for kings to sit on," he grumbled. "My back's tired." He shot a longing glance through the portieres to the place where the big copper-colored davenport spread its velvet arms in wide but rather empty hospitality.

Lonny watched her for a minute. "That cheese and stuff smells terrible. Say, Mom, when do we eat?"

"Oh, it'll only take me a minute to fix up dinner. I forgot, I can't cook the cabbage. It won't blow out before the Brenlers come. I guess you don't care anyway."

"Nope, only I'm awful hungry. Can I have Wallace in tonight?"

"I know—you two can go to a movie. And I'll give you extra for a sundae. Here, give me a kiss, that's the honey boy!"

CLUTCHING his money, Lonny left the house at eight o'clock. He had had a view of his mother before he departed, and a little glow now warmed his heart. How proud he was of her!

Some home he had! Not many of the kids had a home like his! He'd rather just stay in and loaf around with Mother and Dad than go to the grandest movie in the world! But here he was, some way or other, ringing Wallace's doorbell. Funny! It just seemed as though the two of them—

The door opened and Wallace slid out. But Lonny had heard light laughter and men's voices and caught the gleam of white shoulders and shirt fronts.

Two little figures traipsed down the cold quiet street toward the glaring lights that spelled forgetfulness.

And there they sat with several dozen others who had fine houses at home, but whose parents kept those houses for themselves.

Easy Desserts To Make and Eat

By MISSIS PHYLLIS

LET'S make a few desserts—or let's plan them anyway. And get a start on one of them for tomorrow, not to mention the one that will be all ready to eat tonight for dinner.

Here's the list: Apple pie, baked apples, peanut cream pie.

You'll find it easy to make the pie in this order: Make the dough and set it in the ice chest to chill. Pare and dice or slice the apples and mix them with the cinnamon or nutmeg and sugar. Let stand as you roll the dough.

In that way, you don't waste any time, and the dough and sugared apples will stand just long enough to make them exactly right.

For the dough use 3 cups flour, 1 cup shortening, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 cup very cold water (more or less).

That is to be enough dough to make an extra pie shell. Mix the flour and salt and rub in the shortening.

Add the water, a little at a time so that you don't get the dough too sticky.

Roll out one-third of the dough and fit it on your pie tin. Have a tin that is not too shallow—there's no fun eating a shallow pie.

You'll probably need at least four large apples. Pare and core them and then slice or dice them, as you prefer. Add spice from a half to a whole teaspoon, according to taste.

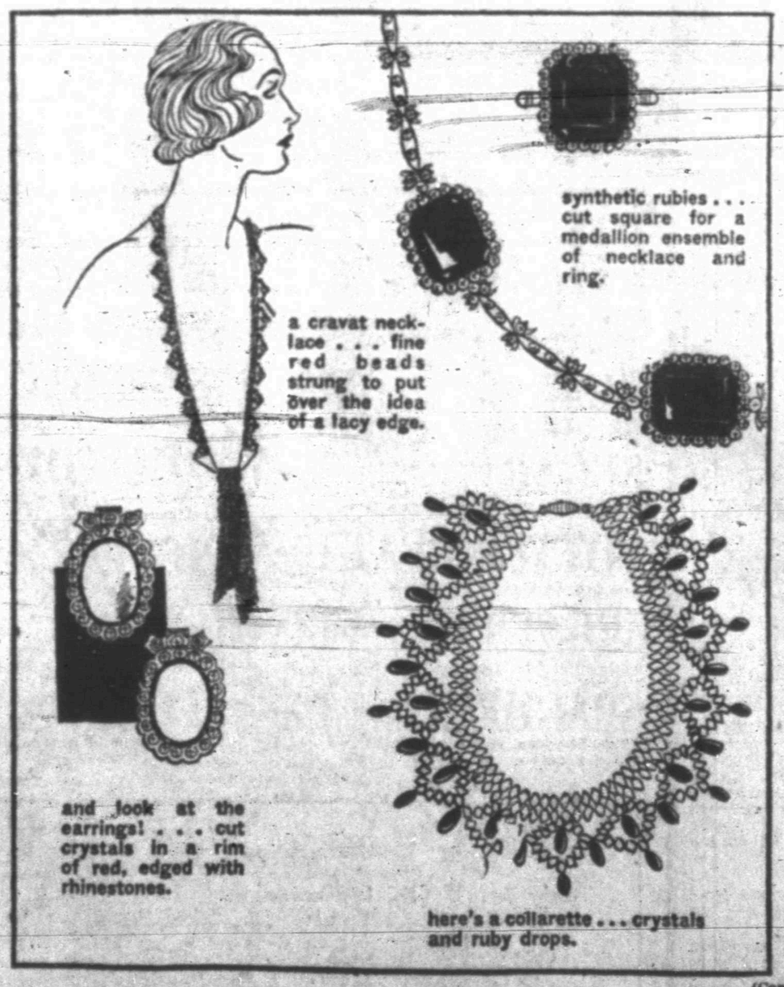

Fill the pie tin with the apples, dot with butter, and pour in a quarter cup of cream. Roll out another third of the dough, cut fancy figures on the top and cover the pie, building up the sides a little to keep the juice in. Bake in a very hot oven for 20 minutes, then reduce the heat to moderate and bake until nicely browned.

WHILE the pie is baking, put the baking apples, which have been pared and cored, in a deep baking dish. Fill the core holes with spice and sugar and add a few raisins or figs or dates, if you like. Put a cup of water in the bottom of the pan and cover tightly. Bake in the oven with the pie—being careful to take them out when tender, but not falling apart.

And while these are baking, also bake that other pie shell so that it will be ready the day you make the peanut cream pie, the filling for which contains 1 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks, 1 1-2 cups milk, 1-2 cup flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon butter, 1-2 cup ground peanuts.

In a double boiler mix the dry ingredients well. Add the egg yolks beaten, and the milk. Mix and cook over hot water until thick and smooth. Stir most of the time.

When finished, take from fire and add butter and vanilla. Cool slightly and then add the peanuts, reserving two tablespoons to sprinkle on top of meringue. Fill pie shell. Add meringue as near to serving time as possible.

GANG RECORDS ARE SEIZED

CHICAGO OFFICERS ARE HOLDING IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 21—Records, described by prosecutors as revealing "astounding graft" that reached into high places, was in possession of the law today for presentation to the special grand jury investigating the police department.

The records were seized from two safes found in the Rex hotel, headquarters on the South Side for henchmen of Al "Scarface" Capone in an early Sunday morning raid. Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles E. Lounsbury said they showed dealings between Capone gangsters, politicians, policemen and public officials whose names they "did not even dare to talk about."

Records Revealed

Dennis "The Duke" Cooney operator of the hotel, the prosecutors said, was shown to have had "business or social connections" with various officials. Purported "pay-off" lists, "ledgers and other papers pertaining to liquor, gambling and vice" were among the documents seized.

Panic prevailed in the underworld after the raiders, described as trusted detectives from the state's attorney's office, surprised the operators of the hotel, and kept it under guard for more than four hours. Newspaper investigators reported that virtually every speakeasy in the Loop was quickly closed. So too were gambling houses.

22 Arrested

Cooney is reported to be in Florida. He is known as "The Duke" because he wears a different suit each morning, afternoon and night In his place the officers found George "Tubby" Miller, whom they arrested, as well as 15 other men and six women. In addition to the records the officers found in the safes about $15,000 in currency, revolvers, blackjacks, a shot gun, and police night sticks.

While the raiders were in charge, two uniformed policemen and two detectives sauntered in, saying they had been under instructions to call at the place every hour to see if there were any violations of the law, but that they had never found any.

Been Blind Long?

"How long," asked Mueller, "have you been blind?"

Miss Bernice Shaw, 34, was under subpoena to appear before the special grand jury today and testify regarding her charges that Police Sergeant Jack Herdegen had been a "go-between for vice operators and Jack Zuta, slain business manager for George Moran's North Side gang. Herdegen was arrested on the charge of buying his promotion with $1,500 obtained from Zuta. Hotel proprietors were summoned to testify regarding her charge that she lived with Herdegen for four years and bankers to tell of their reputed joint bank account of $16,000.

Former Congressman Harry W. Starr testified in a contest over Zuta's will that the slain gangster told him he was forming an organization to support Mayor Thompson and expected to become "a power in politics."

Argotane Has Straightened Me Out And I Know From Experience It Is a Good Medicine

"Argotane has straightened me out and I am in fine shape now," said T. D. Travis of 242 Graham St., Abilene, Texas. Mr. Travis does the distribution for all the local advertisers and is a very popular student of A. C. C.

"I suffered terribly from stomach disorders. The things I ate wouldn't agree with me and I would have pains in my back and in my abdomen that would be quite severe at times I suffered greatly from headaches and would often get so bilious and dizzy every time I stopped over I would nearly fall.

"I read so much about Argotane and heard so many people talking about it, I decided that it would help in my case as it has proven. Argotane has got me in fine shape and I am not bothered with stomach disorders any more and my food doesn't bother me as it did and I'm not bilious or dizzy any more. I don't have my headaches any more. I am in fact, I feel splendid. Argotane began helping me right from the start and I have only taken one bottle and feel like a new person. My health is restored and I know Argotane to be a fine medicine from my own experience."

THEY MAY BE DROUTH-STRICKEN AND ALL THAT BUT ENGLAND IS CARING

BY B. L. LIVINGSTONE

ENGLAND, Ark., Jan. 21 (AP) — Small Oliver Twists from drouth-burned farms peeped over their soup bowls here today and asked for more.

But somehow the pathos of that original Oliver of Old England was partly missing. It was quite a festive occasion, and there was more than enough to go around.

Wasn't "Soup Line"

It was a school house soup line—only here they don't call it a soup line. Its just being "folksy."

Times are hard in England, they'll tell you, what with the drouth and a bank failure and a poor cotton crop. But they're not too hard to furnish "the kids with something to eat."

In half a dozen kitchens about town housewives give their mornings to the preparation of savory soup and hot chocolate.

Donates Bread

The bakery man donates several hundred loaves each day, the mayor and chief of police head a small group of citizens who make it their duty to see there is money enough somehow to buy the ingredients.

But every noon hour more than a thousand small pupils from the first grades to the high school forget the meager contents of their lunch pails.

Not Much Lunch

Teachers will tell you about those lunches, consisting, most of them, of a thin piece of salt pork and a heel of bread—sometimes a piece of "fried pie", smeared with sorghum. Sometimes its just a heel. Sometimes nothing.

Something had to be done to prevent pellagara and other deficiency diseases. Salt pork is a poor preventative. Mayor W. O. Williams, and citizens rose to the occasion.

Some of the children are embarrassed but to most of them its a new kind of picnic.

One small sobersides from a hard-hit farm family injected a note of repressed laughter among the teachers serving today's line at the grammar school. It was his second appearance before the soup kettles.

"I don't guess as how you'd be giving any whistles away with the soup, teacher?"

"Only soup," was the grave reply.

"Reckon as how I'll have some more then, please." And there was "more."

ENROLLMENT INCREASED

By Staff Correspondent

SHALLOWATER, Jan. 21—Enrollment of the Shallowater schools has increased, according to R. L. Hooten, superintendent, who reports a number of new children and former students returning to school.

Total enrollment in the schools, he added, was 240, of which [illegible] are in the high school.

ALIENATION SUIT ECHOES DIVORCE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 21. (AP)—Dr. Charles William Margold, sociologist and former professor at Michigan State Normal college, has filed suit for $100,000 against Professor Clarence Linton Meader, 62-year-old linguist and authority on Russian language and literature at the University of Michigan, charging alienation of Mrs. Margold's affections.

The suit was filed 24 hours after Dr. Meader had sued Dr. Margold for $50,000, charging libel, because he was named co-respondent in a cross-bill for divorce filed by Dr. Margold against his wife.

In her original bill for divorce, filed last October and suppressed, Mrs. Margold charged her husband with cruelty and failure to support her and their two children. Dr. Margold filed his cross-bill soon after his return from Europe where he was collecting data for a book he is writing on "Marriage and Divorce." Dr. Margold charged in his cross-bill that his wife had become "infatuated," with Dr. Meader while assisting him in a Russian language course at the university last summer.

Hoover To Dedicate Harding Memorial

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—President Hoover has accepted an invitation to dedicate the Harding Memorial at Marion, Ohio, some time after May.

The invitation was formally extended by former Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, chairman of the Harding Memorial commission. He said Calvin Coolidge also would be invited to attend the ceremonies.

The exact date for the dedication has not been fixed but it will be sometime during the summer.

Health Is At Your Open Window

Oxygen is necessary to breathing. Oxygen is taken from the air by a gas flame just the same as by any other kind of flame. Fresh air supplies oxygen.

So, for your health's sake, let a little fresh air in.

If you must have a fire to dress by, have it in another room. If you live in a small apartment and sleep in your living room, turn out the fire and raise the windows when you go to bed.

Water Heaters Without Flue Pipes Are A Menace

Many gas appliances, including some well-constructed room heaters, are safe to use without flue connections in WELL-VENTILATED rooms. However, it is advisable that all appliances using gas in considerable quantities should be connected with flues, for even the most efficient types may produce poisonous gas when the flame is first lighted.

If your water heater—or any other kind of a heater—is in the bath room, turn it out when you are ready for your bath. It requires approximately 10 cubic feet of air to supply sufficient oxygen to burn one cubic foot of gas—and there usually is little or no fresh air coming into the average bathroom.

Natural gas, when properly used, not only is efficient and economical, but it also is safe.

West Texas Gas Company places a higher value on the health, safety and good will of consumers than upon any revenue it might derive from gas that is not properly used.

NANCY EARLE

BIOGRAPHY

Nancy Earle's life has been divided into three major classifications:

Cultural Training-Newspaper Columnist
Dramatics and Social Leadership
Lecture Work.

Miss Earle, the daughter of influential southern parents, was given every opportunity to develop her talents. Her early education was followed by study in leading universities which led to three college degrees. While in college Miss Earle won distinction, both in her studies and in outside activities, which included research work in fashions, dietetics, and kindred phases of work.

Because of her concrete knowledge of those things of universal interest to women she was secured by a large newspaper syndicate to pass on her knowledge to their women readers. Her articles and personal column proved of great interest to women in all parts of the country.

Dramatics and social work took a large portion of Miss Earle's time for a number of years. President and director of five women's organizations, acting and directing in Little Theatre work, professional stage work, a continuation of her newspaper articles, together with further research work in the three cornerstones of woman's life—fashions, health, and homemaking—occupied Miss Earle's time for a number of years.

On account of her exceptional groundwork and past success Miss Earle was secured to take her messages direct to the women of the United States. Her itinerary carries her to every part of the country and her talks have been the means of entertaining and helping thousands of women.

MINORS YIELD TO MAJORS' UNIVERSAL DRAFT DEMANDS

IN THE REALM OF SPORTS

With Collier Parris
Journal Sports Editor

The Tech Matadors are back with us today after a more or less successful invasion of Abilene. While there they lost one game and won two, which helps the old average considerably. The Simmons Cowboys, habitual Texas Conference championship winners, proved a little too much for the Techsters, but McMurry and Abilene Christian college fell before the attacks of Captain Clarence Hodges and his band.

The Golightly men will undoubtedly be put through a little scrimmage tonight and every day this week to keep them fit. There's such a thing as too much basketball training, but when a team is playing two or three games per week it is hard to give it too much practice. On Friday night the Simmons Cowboys will be in town for a return game with the local collegians. There's a possibility of an urge for revenge on the part of the Matadors and fans at the Tech gym Friday evening are due for a treat.

The Lubbock High Westerners conclude their series with the Big Spring outfit tonight. The game will start at 7:30, and also promises to be a treat for the fans. The Steers won their third game of the season over the locals last night, but the Westerners were handicapped by a few injuries and the absence of two of their best players. Keeling is having a tough time with his material. Starting the season with one letter man, he saw that man graduate into college. He had a likely looking center in Roy Pace, and the latter moves to Amarillo this week. He had a good guard in Bledsoe, and somebody discovered that he lived outside the city limits and crabbed his act. The lad was held out of the game last night, but it is thought that arrangements can be made today so that the youth will be eligible.

Bill Stevens, Big Spring head coach, parleyed with us a while last night after the game and we came to know the man for the first time. Have heard and read quite a bit of his exploits and were glad of the chance to make his acquaintance. He's an affable chap, a good coach, and has a fine basketball team. He feels at home here for he's an old Austin College boy, a former classand team-mate of all the Lubbock coaches. Every coach in town was once associated with Austin College at Sherman, and they're nice guys. Stevens says he's heartily in favor of M. H. Duncan's proposed one-year rule, with which Lubbock fans are acquainted. It corresponds to the freshman rule in college in a way, or is to the effect that a man must reside in town one year before becoming eligible for high school teams.

L. T. "Brack" Barksdale, coach at Floydada and former high rater in Southwest Conference basketball circles as captain and forward of the Baylor University team, will officiate at the game this evening. He has had quite a bit experience since graduation in refereeing ball games and knows his stuff. He brings his Floydada Whirlwinds back to Lubbock Saturday night for the third tussle of the season with the Westerners.

At last we have the news of the settlement of baseball's greatest problem. It has been settled by the unconditional surrender of the minor leagues to the universal draft question. Three leagues, the American Association, the Pacific Coast League and the International League have announce their capitulation to the majors' demands. Thus all five of the so-called nondraft leagues have agreed to accept the universal draft, which means that the majors can henceforth draft or select any player in any minor league at a fixed price. It was a slow, painful course that led to the final surrender, and for several years the battle has waged. Now it's settled, definitely we hope, but temporarily at least. And there's be trades galore from now on, with no protests.

Galveston Lets Grandstand Award

GALVESTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Shearn Moody and associates awarded a contract yesterday for erection of a grand stand and park for Galveston's Texas league ball club. The park will be almost an exact duplicate of Stuart stadium at Beaumont, seating 7,500 persons and will be constructed of steel, concrete and cypress. Work on the diamond started yesterday.

S. M. U. Mustangs Down Bears, 47-37

DALLAS, Jan. 21. (AP)—The Southern Methodist university cagers extended their conference winning streak to three games last night, with a 47-37 victory over a fighting squad of Bears from Baylor university.

Led by the amazingly accurate shooting of Jack Reynolds and Rhea Williams, the Mustangs had little difficulty in keeping the lead after settling down to consistent playing. Reynolds was high scorer with 21 points and Williams marked up 14.

Tech Freshmen To Play Crosbyton

CROSBYTON, Jan. 21. (Staff Special)—The Texas Tech freshmen will play the Crosbyton Chiefs in the high school court here Tuesday January 27. Coach Bird is expecting a large crowd out for the game.

CONFERENCE BETWEEN SLUGGER AND OLD MASTER SLATED

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21.—Four of the big shots with the champion Philadelphia Athletics have confided to friends that they have signed playing contracts for 1931. They are Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw, Gordon Cochrane and Jimmy Foxx.

The status of Al Simmons, the remaining big shot of the ensemble, is different. Before leaving for Florida last week Manager Connie Mack said a contract would not be sent to Simmons, but that he would meet his star sticker later and discuss salary. Simmons will train according to his own ideas at Hot Springs and probably will not be with the team in Florida. Last year he did not sign until batting practice for the opening game with the Yankees was under way.

Simmons led the American league in batting last year.

STEERS DEFEAT WESTERNERS

BIG SPRING QUINTET IS TOO MUCH FOR LOCAL CAGERS

The Big Spring High school Steers had eyes for the basket last night and the Lubbock Westerners lost the first of a series of two games to Coach Bill Stevens' gang, 25 to 12. It was a fast game, regardless of the failure of the locals to get going in a scoring way, and one of the best high school basketball teams of West Texas was playing naturally to take a victory.

The Westerners played without their tall center, Roy Pace, and their hot shot guard, Bledsoe, last night. Pace has moved to Amarillo and Bledsoe was ruled ineligible on some technical charge. It is thought that the charge will be withdrawn today.

The teams meet this evening at 7:30 in the Tech gym for the second and final game of the series. Coach Stevens' outfit is one of the smoothest teams and one of the tallest high school teams ever seen on the local court, and the club displays a good show all the way.

SPOILS BELONG TO MAJORS IN DEMANDS

INTERNATIONAL LOOP SUCCUMBS TUESDAY TO PROPOSAL

BY HERBERT W. BARKER,
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—Baseball's battle over the universal draft is ended and the spoils of war belong to the major leagues.

The minor leagues' defenses, slowly crumbling for several weeks, collapsed yesterday when the last Class AA stronghold, the International League, voted to accept the majors' demands.

Fought It Alone

The International League, where some of the most violent anti-draft sentiment was manifested, was forced to yield to a superior force. Its four allies, the Class AA American association and Pacific Coast league, the Class A Western League and the Class B Three-Eye League previously had capitulated to the majors and left the International to fight alone.

A majority of the league's club owners decided that the battle was too unequal and what had threatened to develop into a bitter and costly baseball war had resolved into nothing more than a harmless verbal duel won by the majors without bloodshed.

Ending of warfare will bring about a renewal of business relations between the majors and the five leagues hitherto classified as nondraft minors.

The draft gives the majors the right to select at a fixed price and at a specified time one player from any minor league in organized baseball. The five non-draft leagues operated under a modified draft agreement by which the majors. Men developed solely in the minors were exempt from the draft.

Chief points in the triumph gained by the majors were two-fold: first, they now can draft any player from the minors at a set price provided he has had four years of experience in minor league baseball; second, they can send out on option to minor league clubs 15 players instead of eight, as had previously been the rule.

The draft dispute began last summer when the majors demanded that the five non-draft leagues accept the draft before Dec. 1.

Forty Contracts Sent Out By Giants

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—Contracts to 40 players have been mailed from headquarters of the New York Giants.

The first Giant to be released is Arthur Veltman, catcher, who goes to the Boston Braves on waivers.

LIBERAL ARTS TEAM DOWNS AGGIES TO TAKE LEAD IN TECH INTRAMURAL GRID CLASHES; HIGH SOPHS BEST SENIORS

Starting the college intramural football program yesterday, the team representing the school of Liberal Arts, launched a campaign headed for a championship by trouncing the school of agriculture eleven, 20 to 7. It was quite a thrilling game, a fight all the way, with the Liberal Artists showing a little edge but not being outfought. The Aggies were fighters. It was L. A. for the first three quarters, but in the last round the Aggies made a rally that resulted in a touchdown, and caused students of the arts department some anxious moments.

Watkins, Roberts and Neese on the Artists' backfield proved real football players, and Oswald, fullback for the team, was a consistent ground gainer. Ratcliff, quarterback for the Aggies, passed well and Hitchcock, end, was a good receiver for several yards of gain. The combination was good for a touchdown.

The Engineers and Cadets meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the field north of the gymnasium for the second game of the intramural season.

BILL DAVIDSON FLINGS PASSES FOR VICTORY

Barnett's Sophomores, high school intramural football team, defeated the Seniors, coached by Swede McMurray, yesterday to gain a top position in the high school intramural grid race. The score was 12 to 0, and came about as a result of two long passes, Bill Davidson to Nelson and Bill Davidson to Williamson. That tells the story.

The Sophs thereby gained the right to meet the Juniors, charges of Pinkey Lowrey, on Friday afternoon for the championship. The game will start at 3 o'clock. The Juniors tied with the Seniors last week in a hectic struggle.

A corrective rest room with 30 beds will be a feature of the new women's activity building at the University of Texas.

SIMMONS TO BE HERE ON FRIDAY

ONE GAME IS LOST TO ABILENE TEAMS ON RECENT TRIP

Coach Crip Golightly and his Texas Tech cagers return to Lubbock today after a three-game program in Abilene and prepare to do some entertaining on the local court before roaming the Plains again.

The Simmons Cowboys were the only cagers in Abilene able to outdo the Matadors. That was last Saturday night when Captain Hodges and his crew fell before the perennial Texas Conference champions. On Monday night the Matadors successfully met the McMurry College Indians, and last night saw them in a one-sided defeat over the Abilene Christian College Wildcats. That is, the score was one-sided for most of the game. Late in the contest the Cats crawled up a little and the final score was 31 to 25 for Tech.

On Friday night at the Tech gymnasium, the stadors entertain the Simmons Cowboys who play a return game here. It is to be supposed that the Matadors will be in the proper frame of mind for a good game and a victory if it is at all possible. The game starts at 8 o'clock.

DR. J. F. X. STACK

Health Commissioner, City of Hoboken, N. J.

DR. J. F. X. STACK
216 GARDEN STREET
HOBOKEN, N. J.

June 17, 1930.

American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

I have seen your advertising displays in the newspapers and on billboards, telling people about the harm spitting may cause and the dangers lurking in cigars when the tips are sealed with spit. Your efforts to teach the public and thus prevent suffering will do more than sell cigars. You will benefit public health, and for that reason I want to give my enthusiastic approval to your campaign.

As a health commissioner, I am interested in seeing information of this sort brought home to everybody. Human ills would be greatly lessened if every person knew what danger there is in spitting in public places and in using the tongue to seal or moisten anything in manufacturing. Your campaign is indeed a "Crusade of Decency" and my department wishes you success in your efforts.

You are welcome to use this letter in your plan of public education, if you wish, with the understanding that I am not publicly endorsing your product in preference to any other, but that I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner.

Very truly yours,
J. F. X. Stack M. D.
Health Commissioner,
City of Hoboken, N. J.

... one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Dr. Stack's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVIL OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Dr. Stack writes: "I am heartily in favor of your campaign to better your industry by making it cleaner."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it... Smoke Certified Cremo — a really wonderful smoke — mild — mellow — nut sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by method recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

DAILY MARKETS

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—Small early advances in stock prices failed to hold today and the market turned easy in zestless trading. Prominent industrials and utilities ruled generally in a fractional range during the earlier hours, with quotations tapering off after the initial rise.

There were slightly larger recessions in Westinghouse, National Biscuit, Case, Air Reduction and Coca Cola, which eased 1 to 1½. Allied Chemical lost 3.

Rails improved and held their gains. Atchison rose 2 and New York Central, New Haven, Frisco, Rock Island and others rallied 1 to 1½.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 21 (AP) — Cotton had a firmer opening in sympathy with more favorable Liverpool cables. First trades showed gains of nine points and the market continued steady and rather more active during the first hour, although prices eased off three to five points from the highs on a little profit taking. March trading was 10.33 and May at 10.57.

At the end of the first hour the market was steady and tending upward, owing to the generally better trading prevailing.

Following the early spurt in prices, the market quieted down and eased off some on profit-taking. March dropping to 10.30 and May to 10.54, down six to eight points from the early highs. Towards noon, the market ruled quiet but steady at two points above the lows.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (AP)—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 10 to 16 points on a continuation of yesterday's buying which again included trade and commission house demand as well as covering by shorts.

The relatively steady showing of Liverpool with advances in Egyptian cotton probably stimulated the demand to some extent while there were reports that the trade was showing an increased disposition to buy prices. Southern selling and scattering checked the advance around 10.37 for March and 10.61 for May, however, and prices showed reactions of 4 or 5 points from the best at the end of the first hour although the undertone remained steady.

The more urgent demand was supplied on the initial advance which attracted considerable realizing while there also appeared to be a little southern selling. Offerings were absorbed on reactions of 6 or 7 points, however, and the market held steady late in the morning on continued covering accompanied by reports that mills were showing more disposition to fix prices. At noon May March was ruling around 10.33 and May 10.58 or 5 to 10 points net higher.

HERBERT QUINN, PUBLISHER, DIES WHILE WANDERING IN YOAKUM SANDS

Max Bentley, of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Dorrance Roderick and Kelton B. Clark, of El Paso; Mr. and Mrs. James R. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Farris Fish, of Matador; Gene Howe, Wilbur C. Hawk, J. Lindsay Nunn, Norris Ewing and Dr. and Mrs. George G. Ingham, of Amarillo.

Staff Is Pallbearers

Burial will be in the Lubbock cemetery and the bier will be borne by members of the Avalanche-Journal staff with whom Mr. Quinn worked. Active pallbearers will be Guy Hughes, Hugh Norman, C. W. Ratliff, Irving Hall, Vestel Lott, Paul Carter, J. D. Shaw and Roy Watts.

Honorary pallbearers include T. E. Roderick, Slaton; J. Lindsay Nunn, Wilbur C. Hawk and Gene Howe, Amarillo; Dorrance Roderick, El Paso; Charles A. Guy, Ross McWhorter, Jed Rix, Dr. Sam Dunn, Owen McWhorter, Don Mitchell, Bud Roberds, C. A. Sheffield, Byron C. Dickinson, Spencer A. Wells, Lewis Price and Thomas B. Duggan, Jr., all of Lubbock.

Mr. Quinn came to Lubbock from Green Bay, Wisconsin, in 1927, joining the advertising staff of the Avalanche-Journal at that time. Since then he had been active in civic enterprises.

Named Publisher

He became advertising manager of the publications after a few months and later was named publisher when Dorrance D. Roderick became publisher of the El Paso Herald-Times.

While in Green Bay, Mr. Quinn served on the staff of the Press-Gazette and prior to that time was a member of the staffs of the Daily-Phoenix and Times-Democrat in Muskogee, Okla. He was a graduate of Westminister college at Fulton, Missouri, having been a star athlete with that school and a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Was Active Citizen

Mr. Quinn was a member of the First Presbyterian church and was an active worker in the Lubbock Kiwanis club, a director of the Lubbock Board of City Development and secretary of the Lubbock country club. He also was a member of the Masonic lodge.

The untimely death of the young newspaper publisher came as a climax to what was meant to be a Sunday afternoon jaunt across the sand dunes west of here to look for antelope. He, together with Chas. A. Guy, managing editor of the Avalanche and Journal, and Mrs. Guy, left Lubbock early Sunday afternoon and were last seen by Fred Snyder at a railroad crossing just east of Lehman. At that place the party talked with Mr. Snyder who told them where the antelope were to be found.

The car, which was driven by Mr. Guy, became stalled in sand on a ranch in Yoakum county about 75 miles west of here.

Windmill Sighted

A windmill was sighted from the car and Mr. Quinn suggested that he go to the mill, scale the tower and try to locate some lights.

"Of course we had no idea of the seriousness of the predicament," Mr. Guy said this morning in recounting the tragic incident which has stirred the whole cattle country as well as the closer confines of West Texas. "When Herb marched off to the windmill two miles away, none of us ever entertained any idea other than he would be able to perceive a light, after dark which was approaching, and make his way to help.

"As we tracked him yesterday from the point where he left the windmill we perceived that he was making his way directly to the Surratt headquarters of the Snyder ranch. He evidently saw a light from the tower and struck out for it.

Believe Light Went Out

"Reconstructing the whole terrible occurence, I believe the light went out as he was pushing his way across the ten intervening miles, for his trail led to a point a quarter of a mile from the headquarters before turning abruptly to the south.

"I can't believe yet that such an awful thing could happen within 60 to 80 miles of Lubbock, not to mention other smaller points of lesser distance.

"It was bitter cold both nights and most of the two days. As Mrs. Guy and I huddled in our coupe at night our breath formed a coating of ice over every particle of glass and metal inside the car. Until the ice was melted by the sun at approximately 9 o'clock on both mornings it was impossible to see without opening a door.

None Had Heavy Clothing

"Mrs. Guy was thinly clad, wearing high heeled pumps and sheer hose. None of the three of us were dressed for anything more than we expected to do—spend a few hours of a pleasant Sunday afternoon in the open.

"We were never lost. As my wife and I grew weak from lack of food and water—we were without both for 36 hours—we set out to Lehman 25 miles away, walking through the sand. When we met Mrs. John Robertson, who had heard no report of our being missing, we were going straight to Lehman, the last point of civilization which we passed.

"We kept waiting, waiting, feeling that Herb would get back with help even though he and his aides had to search us out. His last words had been 'I won't come back without help.'

Called Him Back

"When we were first stalled beyond getting out without additional motive power, I started out for help. I had gone thirty or forty yards when Herb called me back, reminding me that it might take until early morning to get teams to the place.

"'You stay here with your wife,' he said. 'She'll feel better than she would with me in case help doesn't come before morning. I don't mind going at all.'

"And with that we shook hands, joked as we always have while working and living together, and Herb Quinn marched to his death."

After Mr. Quinn failed to return to the car, Mr. and Mrs. Guy started out walking Monday but returned to the car after walking about two miles.

Fear Felt Monday

Fear for safety of the missing trio began to be felt on Monday morning when the two men failed to appear at the newspaper office. They had planned to return by 6:30 o'clock Sunday night. As hours passed without word of the three, Dr. Sam G. Dunn, brother-in-law of Mr. Guy, and T. B. Duggan, jr., chartered an airplane with Jimmie Cole at the controls. A thorough search was made over Cochran county but failed to reveal any sign of the missing party.

While those in the plane were returning an automobile bearing three members of the Avalanche-Journal staff left the city for the Tom Duggan ranch, later learning that the missing persons had not been seen there.

Additional Aid Called

A call for additional men was sent out to Lubbock and within a few short hours a large party was on its way to scour the open pastures. The three newspaper staff members joined the party at Levelland, having recruited several cars of men from that city. The party was headed by Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, Chief of Police John Lemond, Chief Deputy O. B. Conley, Fred Snyder, George Wolffarth, T. B. Duggan and a number of others.

The rescuers worked long after nightfall in an effort to find some trace of the missing trio but after long hours of driving over pasture lands had failed to bring even a track to light, the search was discontinued at midnight until the following morning.

Proclamation Issued

Some members of the party drove into Lubbock to recruit additional searchers and a proclamation was issued by Mayor J. J. Clements for all who possibly could to join in the search. At daylight the searching party again assembled, this time at the Gourd Vine camp to begin a day of anxious scrutiny of miles of uninhabited territory and trackless wastes.

The morning wore on with little encouragement and the party gathered at White Face for a conference. Decision was made at one time to abandon the quest but leaders declared that one more hunt would be conducted. As the party started for the sand hills, which heretofore had not been visited, an automobile bearing Mrs. Guy and Mrs. Robertson was encountered. This led to finding of Mr. Guy and subsequent tracing to the spot where the body of Mr. Quinn was found.

His Trail Followed

Starting at the point where he left the car, expert trackers took Mr. Quinn's trail and followed it from late in the forenoon until about 5:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when the body was discovered by Hurley Sampson and Aaron Morris, two cowboys on the Tom Ivey ranch.

Tracks showed that the man did not once stop after leaving the windmill, not even a momentary stop for breath. At times the trail led in a straight course but most of the time it veered to the right.

At no time did the wanderer attempt to light a fire with which to keep warm. At some points, near the end of the trail, his steps seemed to become a bit shorter as if he were tiring.

Night Search Prepared

Those conducting the search pushed forward rapidly as sundown approached, hoping against hope that trace of the man would be found before dark. However, in the event that darkness caught the trailers before the objective was reached, preparations had been made to continue onward Tuesday night. A number of lanterns, flashlights and other lighting equipment had been obtained.

Trailers became confident that they were nearing the end of their goal as the headquarters of the Tom Ivey ranch came into view about 4:30 o'clock. A short time later a hard riding cowboy appeared bringing the news that the body had been found.

The man lay less than half mile away from the Ivey headquarters, in full view of the ranch houses. He had evidently passed the ranch in darkness. Had he passed in daylight a bare bit of reserve strength would have carried him to safety.

Mr. Quinn, who weighed over 200 pounds and was apparently in good health, had suffered from high blood pressure and physicians expressed the opinion last night that he had fallen from a heart attack after scaling a fence, dying where he fell.

In addition to the scores who searched in automobiles, ten airplanes, five from Port Sill, Okla., two from Fort Bliss, and three local ships, aided in the hunt.

Telegrams of condolence poured in today as friends and associates of Mr. Quinn and Mr. Guy learned of the tragic ending to what was planned to be a four-hour motor jaunt. Representing largely the newspaper fraternity of Texas, in which Mr. Quinn was highly esteemed, telegrams were received from

by a statement that opinion among members was divided.

Six Favor Change

Yet at least six of the eleven declared in appended statements that they favored either revision or repeal, and at least two of these individual expressions alluded to revision as if they understood the full commission was for it.

Col. Henry W. Anderson, the member who proposed a complete substitute for the present system said in Richmond the report as a whole "favors modification of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Until other members speak, the capital and the country apparently will be left to draw their own conclusions and place their own interpretation on a report which is being variously interpreted today as dry, wet, and a straddle.

Less Dispute On Position

There was less dispute over the position taken by the president in sending the report to congress.

With whatever effect on his fortunes in 1932, he said definitely that he not only agreed the amendment should not be repealed, but did not want to be understood even as favoring a revision of it.

Speaking as an individual, and not in his official role as chairman of the Republican national committee, Senator Fess of Ohio indicated after a White House call today that he expected Mr. Hoover's stand on the Wickersham report to be his stand in the presidential campaign of next year.

The Ohio Senator was quick to add that he had not discussed the report with the president. For himself, he said he regarded the conclusions of the commissions as "in the main, encouraging to the dry cause."

A Democratic senator opposing prohibition, Walsh of Massachusetts, placed upon the president's message the interpretation that Mr. Hoover had definitely taken up the dry side, and would lead his party in 1932 against revision.

Another Democratic anti-prohibitionist, Representative Mart T. Norton of New Jersey, described the president's stand as "amazing," in view of the revision leanings she saw in the report itself.

From a Republican opposed to the dry statutes, Representative Schafer of Wisconsin, came this observation:

"It may be necessary for congress to conduct a survey to ascertain what conclusion was really reached."

Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah joined the president in objecting to the proposal for replacing the Eighteenth Amendment to empower congress to regulate traffic in liquor.

Resolution Introduced

A resolution to that end, as well as one for a congressional investigation of enforcement was introduced by Representative Laguardia, Republican, New York.

A senate inquiry to determine how the Wickersham commission arrived at its "conflicting conclusions" and whether advice was received from outside the commission was proposed in the senate by Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, an anti-prohibitionist.

He introduced a resolution to direct the judiciary committee to question Chairman Wickersham.

The resolution said the report was "confusing and contradictory" and that an investigation should be made because congress may be called upon to enact legislation on the basis of the report.

WAR VETS TO SIGN PETITION

MEETING IS SCHEDULED FOR THURSDAY NIGHT ON RESOLUTION

Lubbock county World war veterans will gather in this city Thursday evening at the local American Legion hall for the purpose of signing a petition to be sent to Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally and Marvin Jones, representative from this district, urging that they support legislation authorizing ex-service men to cash their adjusted service certificates at full value. The movement has been taken up by other counties on the South Plains, according to announcement by local Legion officials.

Numerous requests have been made by Legion posts in surrounding towns concerning the Lubbock meeting. C. L. Lincoln, of the Howard post at Brownfield, has asked for a copy of the petition and indicated that his post would sponsor a similar movement there. A representative of the Ralls post was in Lubbock last week to obtain a copy of the petition, which he said would be signed by every veteran in Crosby county.

Tomorrow's meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock and a special program of entertainment for the occasion is being arranged. This will include short talks, orchestra music and refreshments. All veterans of the World war, whether a member of the Legion or not, are invited to attend.

WHEAT ACREAGE WILL BE CUT 40 PER CENT IN PANHANDLE

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Jan. 21.—The plan of cutting wheat acreage 40 per cent this year was agreed upon yesterday by wheat farmers of the Panhandle in a mass meeting here. They pledged themselves to back a similar movement throughout the wheat growing states.

Resolutions adopted set forth that the issue confronting wheat producers was that of over-production and that prices would not be higher until the surplus was moved.

Bankers, county farm agents, grain dealers and others who attended indorsed the plan.

Taxi Driver Too Wise For Dry Agent's Ruse

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Jan. 21 (AP)—A taxi driver here knows where to take fares who ask for a drink.

"Sure," he told a thirsty customer last night, "I'll take you where you can get all you want."

He drove for half an hour into the country. The passenger nervously asked their destination.

"Winnipeg," was the answer. "You look like a dry agent."

They returned to Grand Forks. The passenger paid the bill with the comment, "you win."

CRUDE PRODUCTION DROPS PAST WEEK

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 21 (AP)—Daily average crude oil production in the United States fluctuated only slightly last week, totaling 2,080,247 barrels, a decrease of 763 from the preceding week's average, says the Oil and Gas Journal's report.

The widest shift was in Oklahoma where a drop of 16,055 barrels carried the state's output to 440,385 and accounted for a decline of 10,298 in the total for the midcontinent area, which was placed at 1,067,154 barrels.

West Texas production was estimated at 238,502 barrels, an increase of 3,106; north central Texas had a decrease of 3,610 with an output of 87,197 barrels, and the Texas Panhandle showed an increase of 3,447 barrels with a yield of 57,706. Kansas production was up 1,790 at 107,610 barrels.

Eastern production was 108,000 barrels, a drop of 1,000 while the Rocky Mountain area had a gain of 2,542 with production of 98,168 barrels.

California production was up 3,500 at 537,750 barrels.

FILIPINO KILLS SWEETHEART AND WIFE AFTER OBJECTIONS MADE TO THEIR COMPANIONSHIP

(By Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Jan.P 21 — The "last trick" of Jose Cruz, 30-year-old Filipino amateur magician and butler of Asa G. Candler, Jr., wns written into DeKalb county records today as the murder of Miss Gladys Frix, pretty 19-year-old stenographer, and his own suicide.

After discovery of the bodies of the couple yesterday in a parked automobile on the Candler estate, officers found a note in the Filipino's room, scrawled on a child's slate, which said: "This is my last trick and I hope you enjoy the performance."

On Cruz's body was found an unsigned note which said:

"To whom it may concern:

"We, Gladys Frix and Joe Cruz, are taking our own lives because we love each other but due to the objections of Louise Frix (sister of Gladys) and Mrs. J. T. Clay (grandmother), we cannot find a way to be together in peace."

The coroner's jury did not believe there was a suicide pact since the note bore no mark from the girl. Testimony before the coroner's jury showed that Miss Frix's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Frix, had forbidden Cruz to call at their home or to see their daughter. Frix is a railroad engineer and was on his run to Chattanooga when his daughter's body was discovered. Other testimony from relatives of the girl said she had feared Cruz. She made her fatal date with him Saturday night through her cousin, 18-year-old Miss Day Adair, at his request.
