

Twister Hits House in Loco Area Friday

A twisting wind dipped into the Loco community Friday, April 14, about 5:45 p.m. and lifted the porch of the G. T. Austin home, carried it over the house, garage, and an electric power line, then dropped it in the chicken house.

There was no other damage reported in that community or elsewhere in this immediate area, although hard wind prevailed for a few minutes after a sand storm and norther blew in a few minutes after 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin were in the house but were unaware of the twister until the 30-foot porch began to lift. "Right then the wind squalled," Mr. Austin commented. He added that it had been blowing for a few minutes out of the north east.

The porch was shattered and the chicken house demolished, although Mr. and Mrs. Austin lost none of the chickens. There was some damage to the roof of the house.

Neighbors of the Austins felt only a hard, straight wind.

A light shower fell at the time, and in Wellington .14

With the co-op's expansion during the past year to include the building of a grain elevator, a new charter was secured and it became a capital stock company, operating under the new name of Farmers Cooperative Enterprises, Inc., of Dodson.

Heart Attack Takes Life of Lowell Wells

Lowell Wells, 51, a Wellington business leader and lifelong resident of the town, died of a heart attack Sunday, April 16 about 2 p.m. a few minutes after he had launched his boat from the shore of Lake Lugert, where he had gone for an afternoon outing.

With him were his wife and a nephew, Herbie Duncan. Upon reaching the shore, artificial respiration was applied but efforts to revive Mr. Wells failed.

Owner and operator of Lowell Wells Clothier, one of the leading men's stores of the area, he was recognized as one of the leaders of this type of merchandising. Always active in the town's business life, he was likewise a worker for its civic growth.

Lowell W. Wells was born in Wellington March 1, 1910, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wells, and a member of two of the town's pioneer families. He grew up here, attended the local schools, and was graduated from Terrell Military School in Dallas.

Feed Grain Meeting Called Monday Night

A meeting to explain the Emergency Feed Grain Program will be held Monday evening, April 24, at 8 p.m. in the district court room, County Agent Bob Lynch announced.

Lynch and Millard Brown, county ASC manager will present the information on the program, which has now become available.

This program is expected to have more far-reaching effects on Collingsworth farmers than any other recent farm legislation passed by congress, for it will take out of cultivation at least 20 per cent of the county's grain sorghum land.

Most Collingsworth farmers are expected to participate in the program, and for this reason, Lynch urges that they be present for the Monday night meeting.

The Collingsworth county average for the first 20 per cent of feed grain taken out of cultivation will be $14.40 per acre. The average pay rate on the next 20 per cent goes up to $17.30, Lynch said.

The first 20 per cent will be paid in cash or grain certificates and the second 20 per cent in grain certificates only that can be redeemed for cash through the CCC. This will be handled through the ASC here. In each case, the CCC will sell enough grain on the open market to pay off the grain certificates.

The program is completely voluntary, Lynch pointed out, but a farmer must participate in order to receive a support price on his feed grain.

Contrary to rumors that circulated here, the cotton allotment will not be affected if a farmer does or does not participate in the feed grain program.

While grain sorghum growers will be principally affected here, the program also applies to those who use rye or barley as a feed grain.

The county ASC office will set up the procedure for handling the emergency feed grain program here.

Wednesday Morning

Mrs. Cameron Beam Dies Unexpectedly

Mrs. Cameron Beam, who had distinguished herself as a business woman and civic leader, as well as a homemaker and a club leader, died unexpectedly in St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday morning, April 19.

She had been ill about a week and entered the hospital Sunday night.

Her passing came as a shock to the community for she had continued about her usual activities until the week end.

Funeral arrangements are pending and will be announced by Kelo Funeral Home.

Wellington had been Mrs. Beam's home 60 years, since she came here with her parents, Mrs. Lucy B. Wells and the late Henry Wells. She was the former Martha Clay Wells.

Mrs. Beam actively entered the town's business life with the establishment of Sullivan Hardware and Furniture, owned by her husband, the late Pink Sullivan. Her interest, however, extended far back of that, into the early years of her marriage, when he became a partner in the Pioneer Hardware Co. During that period, however, she devoted herself to her home and growing family.

She entered into the active management of the business with her husband, to become one of Wellington's most astute business women, whose judgment was respected and whose business life was admired as far as her influence reached. She remained active in the business until her death.

She worked with devotion in many phases of the town's life. One of them was the schools. With her own respect for learning and her background of culture, she worked with and for the schools of the town. She helped to organize the Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club and was the only remaining charter member.

Shortly after the organization of the Domestic Science Club, she became a member, and had served that group in official capacities, including the

Mrs. John Henard is chairman of the antique show division. Entries must be 100 years old or older.

Entries in both divisions are open to the public and complete plans, along with the various classifications, will be announced within the near future.

New Director Named for C-C

Billy Joe Throgmorton, new manager of the local office of Lone Star Gas Co., was named a director of the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce replacing Eldon Holley, promoted to district manager for Lone Star at Ballinger.

The appointment was made in a meeting of directors last week and announced by N. M. Higdon, C-C manager. Throgmorton's term will run until Jan. 1, 1962.

Farmers Co-op Names Directors, Elects Officers

Three new directors were elected at the annual meeting of the Farmers Co-op Gin on April 8. New directors are Louis Allred, Elvis Crawley and Herbert Bearden. They replace Paul Bell, W. C. Harwell and Emory Hunter, whose terms expired.

All present officers were re-elected for another year. They are J. C. Emmert, president; Travis McGuire, vice president; Lewis Morris, secretary and Fred Cox Jr., assistant secretary.

This was one of the best seasons in the history of the gin, and $137,481.71 was paid back to the members in rebate checks.

The gin manager will be elected at a meeting of officers and directors early in May.

Dodson Grants Rate Hike on Telephones

The Dodson city council in a recent meeting approved an increase in telephone rates asked by General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

This closed a 6-year period in which one of Texas' smallest incorporated towns stayed off action of the nation's largest independent telephone system.

At the same time, however, the council, led by Mayor R. T. Jameson, requested General Telephone Company to prepare a set of rates that would tie Wellington and Dodson into one exchange.

Announcement of the move was made by Paul Spillman, legal counsel for the City of Dodson.

Roy Brewer of Memphis, district manager, and D. R. Mortimer, of the revenue development department, San Angelo, represented the telephone company.

Spillman also asked the telephone company to prepare a proposed set of rates to tie Wellington and Dodson into one exchange.

Parade and Races in Afternoon

Annual Wellington FFA Rodeo Slated for Saturday Night

The annual rodeo and its associated events sponsored by the Wellington Future Farmers will get under way at 1 p.m. Saturday, April 22 when the downtown parade starts.

Three major events are slated: the parade, the horse races that follow at Marian Airpark; and the rodeo Saturday night.

Future Farmers and their mounts, floats, and individuals will make up the parade.

The horse races will start at 2:30 p.m. at the airpark.

The rodeo will begin at 7:30 p.m. Events will include steer riding, calf roping, a boot race, barrel race, ribbon roping, sack race, trailer race, and a special youngsters event, according to Danny Garcia, FFA sponsor.

Only Wellington Future Farmers will participate in the steer riding, due to the number of steers available, but other events will be open to any boy.

Rodeo judges will be Rusty Henard and Edd Smith.

Henard also will furnish the calves and J. A. Killian and Cliff Campbell the steers. Chub White and Frank Campbell are also working with the boys.

Members of the Rodeo committee which has planned the entire event, are Granvel Killian, chairman; Jimmy Brown, vice chairman; and Neal Gray, Tony White, Dan Henard, Kyle Lindley and Terry Bouchelle.

Keep Texas Schools at Top Level, TSTA Speaker Urges

Charles B. Hamilton, field representative of the Texas State Teachers Association was guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Collingsworth County Teachers Association, held Monday night, April 17, at the cafetorium.

Mr. Hamilton discussed the need to keep Texas schools at the highest level, emphasizing that this could be done only with the best prepared teachers. He further emphasized that these teachers could be had only if salaries are tops.

"Texas ranks 35th in the total amount spent per pupil," he said. "It is 37th in teachers salaries and 50th in the amount of salary increase given teachers in the last ten years."

"We lag behind Russia in the space field. Are we going to wake up and find they've silently passed us in the field of education?" he asked.

Mr. Hamilton also is state consultant for the Texas Stu-

It's National Library Week . . . Let's Visit Our Own

This is National Library Week, and time for a word about our own public library.

A visit here and a visit to other libraries shows that we may be proud of our own. And we may be proud, too, of the number of people who use it.

A library is for many things. It is a place to go for material of a serious nature . . . it is a place where students supplement the information from their own homes and their school libraries . . . and it's a place that offers without cost, hours of pure pleasure.

An amazingly large number of the county's older people are regular patrons of the library, Mrs. Pete Cummings, the librarian, says. And it is this group who probably gets the most enjoyment from library books. Most of the men, our last connecting link with the frontier, read westerns, living again in an atmosphere that had something in common with their own boyhoods.

The women, too, want their reading of a recreational nature.

If you have not visited the library lately, it would be well to drop by during National Library Week. It would be better to visit it regularly, reading the books from its shelves that suit your need or taste. We would not want to be without our library.

My veteran daddy neighbor says it seems pretty risky to have the free world's hope of survival living in the same house with a three-year-old daughter.

My low-savvy neighbor says this uproar about the John Birch Society has got him worse confused than normal.

Says it looks like nobody can think up a practical anti-communist method without getting it jumped on by writers, Senators, and other people chap-erons who are generally pretty broad-minded about pro-communist methods.

Says he is partial to clean fighting, same as the Methods Vigilantes, and even tried same once, but got stabbed in the back by an opponent who was partial to winning.

I see where the U.S. is fixing to borrow an extra $10 million and send it over to Egypt to rescue some old Nubian temples and other relics about to be put under water by the Aswan Dam.

My souvenir-saver neighbor says you wouldn't expect this action from people-planners with such ripe distaste for any item which dates back farther than the FDR era.

But says if our chiefs are now moved to save those mementos of Early Egyptian life maybe they will also get sentimental and preserve some little keepsake remindful of Early American life, such as an old balanced budget.

Kids just naturally grow up . . . and they do it fast. The kids the age of the little girl in our picture will be wanting a home in 1981. We hope she has a home (run by electricity, of course) in 1981 and that her home life is a happy one. We also hope she has something else as well — a strong, free nation — where she has a right to get ahead under her own steam and will always be secure!

Investor-owned companies, like West Texas Utilities Company, are working hard to see that this little girl's "wants" come true in 1981. Each year, WTU spends thousands of dollars and uses thousands of man-hours planning ahead to be sure we can supply the ever increasing demands for electric energy. In a private enterprise nation, this is our job! We are going to do a good job for our little girl.

AT HOME TODAY

In our little girl's home today, she can enjoy electric living at a very economical cost. For instance — the average family, served by WTU, can cook a complete meal for less than 3¢ with a modern electric range. If you are not using an electric range, you owe it to your "little girl" to investigate this modern method of cooking today.

Texas Wheat Growers Income Rises in 1960

There was a spectacular increase in income for Texas wheat growers, which gained 27.6% in 1960 over 1959. Income for wheat in 1960 was $135,475,000, compared with the 1959 income of $106,205,000. At the same time, income from sorghum grain dropped 6% from $207,479,000 in 1959 to $194,968,000 in 1960. This was a direct result of a huge over-supply of corn in other states which was a development of US department of agriculture policies.

The plaintiff's petition states that on July 23, 1960, Mr. Oldham had leased a section of land, section 13, block 13, when the Stelco, Inc., acting for El Paso Natural Gas, dug a ditch across the land. This left 100 head of cattle cut off from water, the petition continues, with resultant loss of much weight, to the extent that additional feed had to be bought for these cattle. Two head of cattle fell in the ditch and died, he said.

NOTICE To The Public Concerning Damage To Public Roads

This is to advise that considerable complaint is being made about farmers plowing out into, and turning tractors and plows on the road beds in different sections of the county, thus injuring or defacing the surface of the road beds, and in connection herewith, we wish to inform the general public that such practice is strictly forbidden by the laws of this state.

ARTICLE 784, Penal Code, states the law as follows; "Whoever shall willfully obstruct or injure or cause to be obstructed or injured in any manner whatsoever any public road or highway or any street or alley in any town or city, or any public bridge or causeway, within the state, shall be fined not exceeding $200."

Also Article 6674N, 6716, Penal Code 1356 and Penal Code 833.

The construction of a county road involves a heavy expenditure of public money and damaging a public road is the same as damaging a public building.

I intend to prosecute violators of this law and ask all farmers to please co-operate.

Observe Library Week In County and Schools

The Collingsworth County Library, along with school libraries, this week are observing National Library Week.

Although no specific program is planned, Mrs. J. L. Cummings, county librarian, took the occasion to invite interested friends from throughout the county to visit the library, and if they are not already acquainted with its facilities, to learn what it has to offer.

The Wellington high school library club has made posters and is displaying book jackets in the library.

The club also held a tea on Monday, April 17, to mark the opening of National Library week.

The program included a reading by Mai Nell Ratliff and a book review by Mrs. Jean Stover, who presented "Papa's Wife" by Thyra Ferre Bjorn. This was guest night and members of the junior high library club attended.

Both wings were torn off the plane and its nose was buried in the soggy field, but it did not catch fire and Hartman walked away from the wreckage.

He had sprayed about 1,000 acres of wheat in that area on the day of the accident, which occurred at 5:15 p.m.

The pilot said he was flying south at about 80 miles an hour into a 15-mile per hour wind when it hit the air pocket.

June 12, 1932, in Shamrock. They lived here for some years, then resided for a year in Abilene, while he was with the Texas State Highway Department, then for a year they made their home in Amarillo. At that time, 1942, he enlisted in the United States Army and saw two years of combat service in New Guinea and the Philippines.

He helped to organize the Wellington Investment Corporation and served as its president several years. He was secretary at the time of his death. He had served also as His special pride, however, was the Quail girls chorus, directed by his wife, to which he contributed immeasurably with his work and time and encouragement.

A man of friendly nature, he held the respect and esteem of those in all walks of life over the county, just as he touched so many facets of the county's life.
