Drastic 30-Hour Week Bill Is Approved By Senate

House Passage Uncertain For Black Measure

Proposal Goes By Senate With Margin Of 23 Votes; Would Allow Five-Day Week And A Six-Hour Day

Modification Seen

Penalty Of $200 Fine, Term In Jail Being Provided For Violation; Labor Secretary May Give Exemptions

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 6. — By a margin of 23 votes the senate today passed and sent to the house one of the most drastic legislative attempts ever made to overcome machine age unemployment problems—a bill limiting labor in manufacturing industries to five days a week and six hours a day.

The measure, sponsored by Senator Black (D., Ala.), and approved 53 to 30, would take effect 30 days after enactment and remain in operation two years.

Expect Modification

Democratic leaders would not predict what President Roosevelt's attitude might be, but they did expect the measure to be modified in the house, if taken up there, probably to make the work week 36 hours.

Mr. Roosevelt was reported to be withholding any decision on the legislation pending further study of the form in which it passed the senate.

The modification to 36 hours was proposed today by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, but was beaten, 48 to 40, with 35 Democrats, 12 Republicans and one farmer-labor voting against it.

House Is In Recess

The house cannot take up the measure until next week, as it recessed today until Monday. Speaker Rainey has said the house would not consider it unless it were made part of the president's emergency program, but Senator Black, who has conferred with Mr. Roosevelt on the subject, is confident that body will take it up.

Advocates of the bill argued it would put 6,000,000 jobless back into employment on a share-work basis and that it would be upheld by the supreme court despite the 5 to 4 decision of that court holding the child labor law unconstitutional.

Opposition Is Strong

Opponents claimed it was "glaringly unconstitutional" and would result in increased unemployment, confusion and discrimination.

As finally passed, after many exemptions were added, the measure

Markets Stage Gain Thursday

Grain Prices Are Carried To Highest Levels For A Year While Securities And Cotton Also Advance

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 6.—Grains paced all financial and commodity markets into higher ground today.

A booming rise at the outset of trading carried most grain prices to the highest levels for nearly a year, and advances from that stage were of a minor character.

Inflation Talk Heard

Talk of currency inflation by a group of industrials, and reports of freezing temperatures in Kansas where the wheat crop already has been reported seriously curtailed by unfavorable weather brought buyers to the grain pits in a hurry.

Opening transactions found wheat as much as 1 1-4 cents a bushel higher than yesterday's vigorous rise with corn 1 1-2 cents up. September wheat contracts later crawled almost 2 cents above yesterday to a peak of 60 1-8 cents a bushel, the highest price paid for wheat in many months. A single car of No. 2 red wheat sold in the cash grain market for 63 cents a bushel, the highest cash price paid in Chicago since March, 1932.

Securities Gain

Security markets felt the pull of grains and also scored a sharp rise early, advancing 1 to 3 points. Later, however, stocks tapered off and many gains were halved.

Cotton pushed up with the grains, heavy buying orders and covering sales by short operators enabling it to finish with net gains of 45 to 50 cents a bale, as it did yesterday.

FDR Gets Two Cases Of Beer

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Under police escort a truck, gaily decorated, delivered two specially wrapped cases of beer at the White House at 12:05 a. m. today.

Outside, a huge crowd cheered and motorists set up a din with their horns. The truck bore this sign:

"Here's to you — President Roosevelt. The nation's first real beer in years."

In addition to the cases of beer—made at the Abner Drury brewery—two bottles in a special glass enclosed case were presented. The bottles were accompanied by this inscription: "The first 3.2 beer bottled in the District of Columbia since 1918 for President Roosevelt."

Girl Witness Denies Attack In Negro Case

Long Missing Witness Turns Up Dramatically To Offer New Slant On Case; Tells Of Intimate Affair

(By The Associated Press)

DECATUR, Ala., April 6.— Ruby Bates, long missing witness in the "Scottsboro case," appeared dramatically and unexpectedly in the courtroom today and denied her testimony in previous trials in which eight of nine negroes indicted for an attack on two girls were sentenced to death.

The girl, missing since February 27, appeared just as the defense was prepared to rest its case in behalf of Heywood Patterson, 19-year-old Chattanooga negro, and the first of the nine to face retrial.

Attack Is Denied

"No, sir," she replied, raising her voice slightly, in reply to a question from Samuel S. Leibowitz, New York, chief of defense counsel, who asked "were you attacked aboard the freight train that afternoon?"

"I told it because I was excited," she replied to Leibowitz' question as to why she testified in the trials in Jackson county two years ago that she had been attacked by six negroes.

Through a long cross-examination, in which at times she was obviously "flustered" and hesitated on some questions, she reiterated she was not attacked.

Tells Of Actions

Taking up a recital of her movements from March 23, 1931, until she was taken from a Southern railway freight train at Paint Rock, Ala., Miss Bates admitted intimacies testified to in the forenoon by Les-

Fee Salaries For Counties Cut By Senate

Maximum Compensation For Any County Officer Would Total $6,000 Under Terms Of Measure Approved

Saving Is Cited

Bill Now Goes To The House And Amendments Expected To Send It To Conference With Senate Committee

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 6.—The Texas senate unanimously passed a bill late today to reduce the fee salaries of all county officers.

Under the bill, the maximum compensation for any officer would be $6,000 annually, and that would be paid to the district attorneys of the larger counties. The maximum pay for other county officers in counties having a population of more than 150,000 would be $5,000 annually. The maximum pay for each constable and justice of the peace in the big counties would be $3,000.

To Save Thousands

Sponsors estimated the bill would save several hundred thousand dollars. At present, a large number of special laws govern the payment of fee salaries to officers.

Reduction of county officers' compensation was recommended by the senate fee investigating committee, which spent more than a year in the study of questions relating to the fee system. The bill now goes to the house. It probably will be amended there and the final draft likely will be prepared by a free conference committee.

Maximum Fees

The maximum fees for county officers proposed by the senate were as follows:

Counties of less than 10,000 population according to the 1930 census, $3,000.

Counties of between 10,000 and 25,000 population, $3,250.

Counties of between 25,000 and 37,500 population, $3,500.

Counties of between 37,500 and 75,000 population, $4,250.

Counties of between 75,000 and 150,000 population, $4,750.

Counties of more than 150,000 population, $5,000, except district attorneys, whose compensation would be $6,000.

Amendment Adopted

An amendment by Senator Margie E. Neal of Carthage to permit the officers in Rusk and Gregg counties to receive $4,250 was adopted by a one vote margin notwithstanding vigorous opposition.

Senator Neal argued the population of these counties had increased tremendously since the 1930 census as a result of oil development and that their officers should be placed in the population bracket of between 37,500 and 75,000. The 1930 popula-

Three Persons Are Convicted In 72nd Court At Levelland

Hood originally was arrested in Lubbock recently in connection with cattle theft. A 72nd district court grand jury returned an indictment charging Bert Hester and Chick Lewis with prohibition law violation.

Fateful Gathering Of Statesmen At Washington In Near Future Planned

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 6. — A fateful gathering of European statesmen at Washington in coming days was in the making tonight as President Roosevelt called for "realistic action" to help the world, and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, the first to come, sent word he would sail for New York a week from Saturday.

Broad plans on the part of the president aimed at solving the world's greatest ills by personal conversations with the chieftains of the leading nations took on definite shape with information from a high official quarter France already has been approached on the matter of sending special representatives here and that a formal invitation will be sent to Paris soon.

From the same authoritative source came disclosure that German and Italian spokesmen also will be welcomed here and that the Roosevelt administration will be glad to receive the representatives of any government which sincerely desires to discuss means of starting the world on the upward economic road.

Almost as fast as a message could be relayed through the embassy here, and cabled across the Atlantic, MacDonald today accepted the president's invitation, although indicating that he could be in this country but five or six days.

Say It In Any Way, It's Still 'Here's To You'

When beer comes back, many things may not be as they were in the days of handlebar mustaches and free lunches. But there'll still be toasts and they'll be the same. "Here's to you" perhaps is the commonest, but there are dozens of others—they don't round alike but they are. This sketch shows some of them, taking in a range of convivial drinking that runs the world around.

"Here's to you."

That toast, in one of its varied forms, will be on the lips of many as the flow of legal beer is unleashed again this morning.

For whatever changes the "renaissance" brings, the thirsty aren't going to forsake age-old custom when they lift their seidels to cool parched throats.

They'll still say "mud in your eye," "here's looking at you," and "bottoms up."

If these aren't sufficient, the linguists in the party may adopt:

The German "Prosit" and "Gesundheit."
The Swedish "Skal."
The French "Sante."
The Spanish "Salud."
The English "Cheerio."
The Italian "Salute."
The Finnish "No Kippis."
—in a word, "Here's luck."

The procedure will hark back to the age when father quaffed his lager through bristling handlebar mustaches, but there will be several changes in the customs and etiquette to be observed in this beer rebirth.

The German motif seems to be the favored plan of decoration in the setting for modern beer dispensaries. The beer garden and rathskeller is definitely being preferred to the old fashioned American saloon.

Singing, just as much as pretzels, goes hand-in-hand with beer, so there are sure to be singing waiters. And the bar mirrors likely will have

"New Beer's Eve" Finds Dry Americans Looking At Clock For Zero Hour

Gay Revelers Gather In Large Cities For "Beer Balls" And "Watch Night Parties"

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 6.—It was "new beer's eve" tonight for more than half the population of the United States.

In 19 states, scattered across the map, and in the District of Columbia—with a combined population of about 70,000,000—the moment after midnight was the hour when 3.2 per cent brew could legally be transported and sold.

Long before the hands of clocks turned toward that position, revelers in cities from New York to faraway Washington began gathering for "beer balls" and "watch night parties".

On all sides, as the festivities began, the note of "no untoward celebrations," "no rowdyism," was sounded.

The admonition came from officials, from organizations, and from the brewers themselves.

Feverish Activity

In every one of the 19 states it was a day and night of feverish activity for many.

Brewery forces were working at top speed, and from all sections came reports that they would be unable to supply the immediate demand.

Licensing clerks here and in many other cities found long, serpentine lines at their windows when they came to work—and they grew in length throughout the day.

Signal Is Awaited

Trucks and freight cars were lined up in brewery yards, waiting the signal that would start them off with their cargoes.

One brewery in St. Joseph, Mo., expected to move 100,00 cases across its loading docks within four hours.

But even in the 19 states, there were spots where the foaming brew flowed in a trickle, if at all.

In New York City, where 400,000 barrels of beer were ready to roll out of breweries, Jacob Ruppert, head of the United States Brewers' association, said none would move until 6 a. m.

But plans for New York parties went on, with the exception that

Estranged Husband Returns Home To Find Wife And Their Children Dead

(By The Associated Press)

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 6—A husband returning to his home with high hopes of a reconciliation today found the wife he left two days ago and their children slain and the man he blamed for the estrangement unconscious in a gas-filled kitchen.

The wife, Mrs. Mattie Sue Bengert, 28, was strangled in her bed, and a son, Carl L. Bengert, jr., 8, was similarly slain and the body placed in an automobile in the yard. The other child, 3 months old, Thalbert Allen, was dead in the kitchen oven, with all gas jets turned on.

The man, Henry B. Bedford, 43, principal of Turner public school here, lay across two chairs in the kitchen, unconscious from the gas fumes.

When he regained consciousness tonight, Bedford was taken to detention hospital and handcuffed to a cot. Police postponed questioning him, but he told others he believed he had been drugged; that someone else must have committed the slayings and that the slayer must have placed him on the chairs before the gas stove to incriminate him.

Two Men Are Held In Jail After Affray

Stokes Campbell, 20, Victim Of Main Street Shooting In Floyd County; Farmer And His Son In Custody

No Charges Filed

J. R. Reidheimer Gives Up Gun To Sheriff; No Statement Made Public; Three Bullets Fired Into Body

(Special To The Avalanche)

FLOYDADA, April 6. — Stokes Campbell, 20-year-old Floydada High school senior student, was shot to death in Main street here at about 6:15 p. m. today.

J. R. Reidheimer, 55, a well-known farmer of the Daugherty community, met Sheriff E. S. Randerson in the courthouse a few minutes after the shooting. Randerson quoted Reidheimer as saying, "Here is the gun." Reidheimer and his son, V. A. Reidheimer, 28, are in custody.

Two Eye-Witnesses

District Attorney A. J. Folley was in Dickens late today, and procedure in the investigation was, to an extent, pending his return.

Besides the principals, there were two known eyewitnesses. One was John Eudy, 15-year-old companion of Campbell. The other was J. E. Jones, Floydada produce man.

Reidheimer is father of four sons and a daughter. Campbell, who would have graduated from Floydada High school in June, lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Campbell, in the Daugherty community, about two miles from the Reidheimer home.

Shot Three Times

Campbell is survived by his parents and a younger brother, Maurice. Funeral arrangements were incomplete tonight. The body was held at the Harmon Funeral home.

Justice of the Peace J. S. Solomon, after examining the body of Campbell said the youth was shot in the head once, and in the small of the back twice. A representative of the funeral home was quoted as saying there were two wounds in Campbell's head and two in the back. Deputy Sheriff Scott King found four empty .32 caliber shells.

Boy Gives Details

The shooting occurred in the central parking space on Main street in front of a sanitarium. Eudy said he and Campbell had gone to the sanitarium to have Campbell's eye treated, and that they had found the doctors at the courthouse. Eudy was employed to milk cows owned by the sanitarium, and he and Campbell were about to enter a car owned by the sanitarium when the two Reidheimers drove up, Eudy said.

"Hey, Stokes, come here a minute," Eudy quoted the elder Reidheimer as saying. After both men had left their car, the shooting occurred, Eudy said.

Sheriff Randerson was accompanying a county court jury from

Sales Tax For Texas Opposed

Proposal By Governor Ferguson Killed By House; New Measure Is Being Planned For Consideration

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 6.—A proposal by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to levy a sales tax as a source of revenue to relieve the burden on homes and farms was killed by the house of representatives today.

However, it was possible another bill embracing some of the features of the defeated proposal could be considered. It is sponsored by Representative Harold Kayton of San Antonio, but never has been voted out of committee.

Provisions Of Bill

The bill rejected proposed a tax of one fourth of one per cent on sales by manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers and one and one half per cent on retail sales. Receipts of utilities and amusement enterprises would have been taxed two per cent.

The Kayton bill would impose a tax only on the final sale. One fourth of it would be allocated to the public free school fund, one fourth to the state general revenue fund, one fourth to the county where the sale was made and one fourth to the city in which the sale was made. It would make it mandatory that receipts of the tax be deducted from the ad valorem levy.

Negro Woman Empties Gun At Man; Scores Couple Of Hits

A negro woman emptied a .38 calibre pistol at Earnest Williamson, a negro, scored two hits, but did not wound him seriously about 10:30 o'clock last night. The disturbance occurred in the middle of Tenth street in the 2200-block.

Both Williamson and the suspect were in police custody. The man suffered flesh wounds in an arm and a leg. The arrests were made after a negro doctor reported he was treating a gunshot victim. Patrolmen H. B. Brown, Grady Harrist, and O. E. Rush made the arrests. Williamson said the woman was his wife.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THERE is a way that some Lubbock women can reach out a helping hand to some little girls next Monday night and the pleasure may be mutual for the occasion. That is for each woman to "adopt" a daughter for the evening and take her to the mother-daughter banquet that the City Parent-Teacher council is sponsoring.

Perhaps you do not know of a girl to adopt, since all the little girls of your acquaintance already have mothers who can take them. If that is your trouble, talk to Mrs. R. V. Kimmel. She has a waiting list of little girls who are looking for mothers.

Last year the mother-daughter banquet was a success. The P.-T. A. council members are hoping to make the occasion this year even better. The banquet is going to be on Monday evening at the Hilton hotel and plates will cost only 30 cents.

By the way, you don't have to be a member of the parent-teacher association in order to attend. You don't have to be a member of anything. This dinner is to be a mother-daughter affair for the town and any women who wish may go.

Mothers are expected to attend with their daughters. But there are women who have no daughters to take. These are the ones who are being urged to take one of these little girls whose mother cannot attend or who has no mother to attend. Some of these little girls are on the program for the evening but unless they are "adopted" they cannot attend and participate.

This dinner will be a big opportunity to women who want to hold out a friendly hand to the future mothers—the little school girls of today. Adopt a daughter for the evening. It will be more fun than you can believe.

In addition to the dinner, there is to be a good program. Last year more than 200 attended this affair. Indications now are that the crowd will be even larger this year. And it should be. There are many more than 200 mothers and daughters in the city who should attend such an affair — if only school girls and their mothers attend.

AN INDIAN COLLECTION

DURING the last few years we have had a tremendous growth of interest in this section in the Indians of the Southwest. Since Texas Technological college was established, particularly, we have been hearing most about these Indians and seeing much of their basketry and rugs. People have just become conscious of the arts of the natives of this section.

There has been a good collection of Indian things in the city, however, for some twenty-five years that has not been exploited and therefore has remained comparatively unknown. This is the collection that is at the J. S. Johnson residence, 2002 Broadway.

After Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were married they resided in Arizona for four years and, since collecting Indian things was a hobby with Mr. Johnson, he bought many things from the Navajos in that section. When the Johnsons came to Lubbock some 25 years ago, they brought the collection along.

There are nine blankets in that collection, much pottery and many baskets, the designs being typical of various periods of development among these Indians. In the days before most of us had little interest in the Indians, the Johnsons had many of these baskets hung in their stairway hall. Mrs. Johnson still has the collection.

Until last week when some college boy happened to be in their home and see a part of the collection, it had been little known. Since then, however, Dr. W. C. Holden, has had one of his classes visit the Johnson home and look the articles over.

Because some people do not display what they have, there are often such good collections of articles overlooked when they might draw considerable interest.

How to make good coffee everytime

Delicious crystal-clear coffee every time you make it. Try DRIP Coffee made the Schilling way. Here is the simple method.

Use a Drip Coffee Maker—a simple device that permits fresh boiling water to filter quickly and only once through a special coffee and a filter paper (see illustration)

Specially Prepared Schilling Drip Coffee. It is specially blended, specially roasted and specially ground for the Drip Process. No standard coffee is suitable for the rapid once-through filtration of this method. Grinding it finer helps some—but not much. The Coffee must be specially prepared so that all its rich fragrant goodness may be quickly extracted.

A filter paper rests below the coffee, to let through nothing but the delicious healthful amber drops. Real Drip Coffee cannot be made otherwise. For your convenience, a sufficient number of filter papers (20 to the lb.) are packed in each Schilling tin.

Costs far less. First, you use far less coffee than with any other process (saves you over 5¢ per lb.) Then, the 20 filter papers in each lb. of Schilling DRIP Coffee save you 2c (regular retail price).

The Schilling Drip Maker shown here, is of sturdy enamel endorsed by "The Good Housekeeping Institute". The color is rich ivory, trimmed in pastel green—in keeping with the finest table service.

If your grocer cannot supply you, send his name and $1.25 to A Schilling & Company, San Francisco. The Drip Maker and the Drip Coffee will be sent to you direct.

Special Model DRIP Coffee Maker and 1 lb. of Schilling DRIP Coffee — both for only 25 at your grocers

Moneyback. Try them for a week — for a month. If, morning after morning, they do not produce the most delicious coffee you ever tasted — your $1.25 back from your grocer or from us.

For Percolator or ordinary coffee pot use Standard Schilling Coffee as usual

He came to San Antonio for treatment about a week ago after suffering several heart attacks.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Myrtle Barton Schreiner, a son, Charles Schreiner III; four brothers and three sisters, living in San Antonio, and Kerrville.

"—my skin became clear"

—wouldn't you like to be able to say this, too? Then pause a moment and reason . . . skin affections usually result because of lowered resistance from below the skin surface. Then help the blood that purifies the skin, by increasing its red cells and restoring the vital oxygen-carrying hemoglobin in these cells so that more vitality comes to the tissues. This will increase the ability of the blood to devour infectious pimple germs.

That is just what S.S.S. does—proved by tens of thousands of unsolicited letters of thankfulness.

"Shall I use a good soap?"—certainly—"and cosmetics?"—naturally, but first observe Nature's law and lay the sound foundation from underneath the skin.

S.S.S., in addition to being a valuable general tonic, has the special property of increasing the red cells and restoring the hemoglobin content of the blood, when deficient. Try a course of S.S.S. and note the constant improvement. © The S.S.S. Co

Big Ten Commissioner Is To Lecture At Texas Tech Coaching School

Griffith Will Give Athletic Administration

Big Shot Of Big Ten Signed To Join All-Star Lineup Here; Will Teach Organization And Routine Of Athletics

A new feature in coaching schools will be introduced here late in July at Texas Tech's third annual course when Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Big Ten conference, conducts a series of lectures and demonstrations on organization and administration of athletics.

Arrangements for the presence of Major Griffith were concluded yesterday, P. W. Cawthon, athletic director at Tech and manager of the school, announced last night.

The appearance of Major Griffith here, Cawthon believes, will cause many coaches and school men to enroll who otherwise might not attend. The major's courses will not deal primarily with coaches, and athletic heads who do not take part in actual coaching are due to attend.

Other Instructors Named

The list of instructors in football, basketball, track and wrestling already has been released. Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, Harry Kipke of Michigan and Andy Kerr of Colgate will head the football instructors. Craig Ruby of Illinois will direct courses in basketball. Clyde Littlefield of Texas will instruct track and field coaches, and Ed Gallagher of Oklahoma A. & M. will teach boxing and treatment of injured athletes.

Major Griffith, a native of Illinois, was named commissioner of athletics for the Big Ten in 1922, after serving as director at the University of Illinois since 1919. In addition to his regular duties, Major Griffith is president of the National Collegiate Athletic association, an executive officer in the National Amateur Athletic federation, and is editor and publisher of the Athletic journal, a technical magazine for coaches and athletic directors.

Founded Drake Plays

A graduate of Beloit college in 1898, Major Griffith served three years as director of athletics at Yankton college, Yankton, S. D. From there he went to Morningside college in the same capacity. In 1908 he was elected head coach and athletic director at Drake University, a position he held for ten years. While there he served as regent of the institution, coached football, baseball, basketball and track teams, and founded the Drake Relays, an institution which continues to draw a large field of track and field stars each year.

The major entered the U. S. army as athletic director at Camp Dodge in 1917. There he received his commission as army captain and had charge of the organized recreation of 30,000 men stationed at the camp. He went from there to Camp Gordon, thence to Camp Pike, where he was in charge of athletics, physical training and the bayonet school.

The title of major was given Griffith in June, 1919.

Lubbock County Baseball League To Be Organized

Independent baseball clubs of Lubbock county and the South Plains interested in membership in a county or South Plains league are urged to communicate with Ed Hambright or Jay Harston at Lubbock at once.

Plans are underway to organize an independent or semi-pro league for Lubbock county, and, if enough other towns are interested, a South Plains league may be formed. Hambright and Harston have been selected by a committee of South Plains baseball managers to head the organization and bring about a definite arrangement for the playing of games in this section.

A sufficient number of clubs in this county have showed inclinations toward organization to warrant a good-sized county league, Hambright said.

If enough South Plains towns indicate their desire to get into a larger circuit, a meeting probably will be called here soon, Hambright said.

Tech Athletes Find Gridiron Familiar Spot

Matador Coaches Send Spring Training Charges Through Regular Football Drill On Texas Tech Field

BY ED McKEEVER
Tech Sports Correspondent

The Texas Tech Matadors, after eight days of training and conditioning, have started actual work on the gridiron, as part of their five weeks spring training campaign. The workouts last but one hour, from five until six, and the season is one week less than the six weeks limit of the Border conference.

Coaches P. W. Cawthon, Dutchy Smith and Dell Morgan, run the athletes through about ten minutes of calisthenics and grass drill at the start of practice, in order to limber up the muscles, aid in conditioning, and prepare the players for the workout of the next fifty minutes.

Work On Fundamentals

Fundamentals are the basis of the entire spring training. Practice in shifting, blocking, tackling, running the correct ball carrying path, passing, receiving of passes and punts, calling signals by the quarterbacks to obtain the right cadence, pivoting, and pass defense, is the outline of the backfield men's work; pulling out with the greatest amount of speed and deception, combined with charging and blocking, constitutes the work of the guards; charging, blocking, the proper use of the hands and timing sums up the tackles' work; correct timing in passing the ball, blocking, and pass defense is the centers' duties; while the ends, one of the keynotes to the Notre Dame system, practice shifting, receiving passes, blocking and the proper timing for both offensive and defensive play. The team play of all these systems, positions, combined tends to smooth out the cordination that is essential to the Notre Dame system of play.

Competition Is Keen

From the excellent material and the keen competition for each position, the regular varsity players will be hard to determine. The men looking good so far are: Elva Baker, Bennie McWilliams, Clarence Young, Joe Barlow, Cunningham, Bert Williams, Woodrow Wilson and Vaught, tackles; Will Gilmore, Brax Gilmore, Mack Scoggins, Matt Hitchcock, McMillian, McLain, Sam Jones and J. W. West, ends; Whacker Barton, Larry Priddy, Elmer Fortner, S. B. Morris (unable to participate yet), and Williams, centers; Toby Greer, Lacy Turner, Truett Owen, Morris Alford, Gaines Davis, Griff, James May and Walker Nichols, guards; Len "Call Me Bear" Curfman, Gwyn Dowell, Ted Wilson, Earl St. John, and Marr, fullbacks; Johnny Walker, Aub Butts, Larry Sellis, Marion Harris, Archer and Burrus, right-half backs; Demp Cannon, D. M. McElroy, W. N. Fuqua, Lee Gaylor, Jerry Briscoe and Joe Powers, left-half back; J. V Beauchamp, Adrian Clark and Forrest White, quarter backs.

The Matadors will conclude the spring season with a night game the 27th of this month at Tech field, when they meet the West Texas Teachers Buffs, their old-time rivals and contemporaries.

Pirates, Sox Face Charges In Panhandle

Trial For Failure To Play A Scheduled Game At Amarillo Docketed For April 17; Two Clubs Make Bond

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, April 6.—The damage suit for $1,300 which was filed here yesterday against the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago White Sox, after they refused to play an exhibition game, will be set for trial on April 17 or 18, when the spring term of 108th district court is opened.

Owners of the clubs must file an answer to the charges that they violated a contract without cause before the court's docket is called on the above dates.

Blow To Baseball

"Action of the clubs in their arbitrary refusal to play was a great blow to baseball enthusiasm in this section of the country," said Jerry Malin, sports editor of the Amarillo News and Globe, who sponsored the scheduled exhibition here and filed the suit. "There was probably no other section of the United States where fans would drive as far to see major clubs play, and they should not have been disappointed."

Club managers refused to send their men onto the field because of "cold weather."

Equipment Regained

Club equipment was attached after filing of the suit, but team officials signed a replevin bond and regained possession of their equipment. Each club posted $3,000 bond. The teams then proceeded to Tulsa, 30 minutes behind schedule. They left Amarillo at 9:30 o'clock last night.

The game had been advertised extensively and fans had come to Amarillo from miles around to see it. The contest was called off just before game time.

"Too Big a Risk"

Club officials said they would be taking too big a risk if they let their teams play in unfavorable weather. The teams had been training on the Pacific coast.

Other than to say that "weather must always be considered in baseball," club officials had little comment to make about the suit.

Beer: Fans Can Take It Or Leave It, But Most Athletes Mustn't Touch It; Coaches And Directors Speak Minds

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 6.—The return of legalized beer apparently will be accepted "in stride" by the world of sports, based on conviction the spectators can "take it," but that the athletes, with a few exceptions, must leave it alone.

Some major league ball parks and most golf or athletic clubs plan to sell the three-point-two brew, under certain restrictions, but colleges have no plans whatever to relax regulations against drinking of any kind. Many, like Pennsylvania, have specifically banned beer on the campus.

Training rules for college athletes will not be revised to permit a daily ration of beer or ale on the so-called "English plan," although a survey by the Associated Press today revealed some willingness to permit an "occasional glass," if an athlete needs it or if he knows not to over indulge.

No Problem At All

In the words of Harvard's Bill Bingham, representative of eastern college athlete leaders, "the beer problem is really no problem at all," so far as the undergraduate athletes are concerned.

"Training rules will still be as rigorous as ever," Bingham said. "That's the great difference between England and this country. Over there they are more casual. They tell their men they will not be as good athletes if they over-indulge in spirits. Here we just put our foot down firmly and absolutely forbid the use of alsoholic beverages."

John F. (Chick) Meehan, Manhattan college's nationally known athletic director, shares the general opposition to restoring beer or ale to any college traning table diet, but added:

"At the same time I would have no hesitation in prescribing a bottle or two of ale for an athlete who is over-trained or stale. A glass of ale after the evening meal and another before going to bed has beneficial effects.

"Over-indulgence in beer-drinking is something else. A habit of drinking beer, merely for fun or to pass the time away, hurts the athlete as well as the morale of a squad. There are other and better ways for a boy to break up the monotony of his athletic traning. Older men, in professional sports like baseball, can indulge in beer after a hard game and know when to quit, but college boys would overdo it. That's why we have strict regulations against drinking."

"Personally," said Lou Little, Columbia's head football coach, "I thing a glass or two of beer, occasionally, is all right for athletes, especially if they have been accustomed to it, but we would not think of making this a part of the regular training diet. It is largely an individual matter, as I see, involving a man's background and his personal liking or dislike for beer."

As Jim Crowley, Fordham university's new football coach sees it, no benefits are to be derived from beer by players during the gridiron season. Going even further, Harvey Harman, Pennsylvania's head coach, said: "I do not feel that the use of beer is conducive to the well being of any athlete, in or out of season."

The man who has been head coach of the last three American Olympic track and field teams, Lawson Robertson, says: "I have never made it a practice to give beer to athletes and do not intend to do so. It has a tendancy to increase the weight of men in active competition."

The only restriction for professional athletes, in such sports as baseball, football and hockey, involve over-indulgence.

"There is no harm in the players having a bottle or two of beer, after a particularly hard game or series," remarked John A. Heydler, president of the National League. "It often has a tonic effect but the player who does not know enough not to drink too much will not last long. Competition is too keen nowadays for athletes in any sport so highly skilled as big league baseball to over-indulge and keep their place."

What's the Value of a TRADE-MARK?

© 1933, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

TODAY the Chesterfield trade-mark is very valuable. Back of it is the good will of thousands—perhaps hundreds of thousands—of smokers.

Chesterfield cigarettes were first manufactured more than 25 years ago. At the start, they were sold at a loss, but the quantity sold increased steadily from year to year, until now Chesterfields are sold in great volume at a very small percentage of profit.

The Chesterfield trade-mark, as indicated above, is registered in the United States Patent Office. This means that the United States Government says that only Chesterfield may use this trade-mark for cigarettes.

This is not only for our protection, but for yours as well, because what the Chesterfield trade-mark really means is that you and all Chesterfield smokers will get Chesterfields manufactured under the same formula, by the same people, and in all respects absolutely the same, in every package you buy, year in and year out.

Wherever you buy them, in this or in any other country, you can depend upon the Chesterfield trade-mark.

They're Milder... They Taste Better—Chesterfield

MacDonald's Coming Visit

NEWS dispatches from London and Washington are to the effect that England's Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will journey to this country to discuss world disarmament with President Franklin Roosevelt.

That is pleasant news—not because very much is likely to immediately come of the conference, but because, through man-to-man talk, nations may be expected to move more solidly for permanent peace.

Ramsay MacDonald is one of the world's foremost citizens as well as one of the most powerful officials on the globe. His keen brain, his ready wit and his unquenching desire for disarmament augurs well for international agreements of future date.

The Morning Avalanche does not expect world peace to come on the day after Mr. MacDonald's conference with Mr. Roosevelt but it does expect a better understanding between England and America as a result of the coming visit.

And we cannot imagine a better evangel than the brilliant Scot who sits in control of the King's government on Downing street.

THE BIG DAIRY SHOW

Beginning next Monday, April 10, and continuing through April 13, the Sixth Annual Panhandle-Plains Dairy show, sponsored by the Panhandle-Plains Dairy association, will be held in its permanent headquarters at Plainview. If this year's show is anything like its predecessors, and we have every reason to believe it will surpass them, the exposition deserves the interest and support of all South Plains people seeking improved living and business conditions over the area.

The dairy cow has come to stay in this great territory.

It has a decided part to play in diversification and in furthering greater sources for revenue.

Mark down the dates of the show at Plainview—April 10 to 13, inclusive, and take a run up there. You'll be surprised at the fine stock on exhibition and at the strides being made by those who are actively engaged in the dairy business here.

MARCH'S GOOD RECORD

The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, through its own survey, shows the silver lining of depression.

For, according to the bureau, there were fewer failures in Texas during March than there have been in any month of March since the year of 1920.

That would indicate present economic conditions have taken practically their entire toll; that those Texas businesses which have come this far along the rocky road will more than likely go on through to normalcy.

At least, it is to be hoped that such is the case—and the bureau's report is nothing short of cheering.

NO CAUSE FOR WORRY

There is always more or less worry connected with money. Those of us who do not have it worry about getting it, and those of us who have it are often put to a great deal of worry in hanging on to it. In addition to this no little worry is brought on by the desire to make a jitney grow where only a penny grew before. It seems as though poets and philosophers have conspired to bring money into disrepute, so anxious are they to tell us that the mere possession of it is a great burden.

In more recent times there has come to us the warning that money carries germs. Germ experts even went so far as to demonstrate that a bank clerk's occupation was particularly hazardous because he handles so much money. But now this dread has been dispelled. After exhaustive investigation on the subject of money as germ carriers two Illinois University experts assure us that this danger has been greatly exaggerated. It seems that the metals from which coins are made act as destroyers of bacteria.

This relieves us of the worry connected with the handling of money. The next thing for some expert to do is to tell us how we may be relieved of our worries in trying to get hold of it.

A diplomatic gesture is something that makes you think maybe you will get your money.

Billions Are Taken Away

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

Washington Monument

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Such a law as congress now is putting into the federal code, at President Roosevelt's request, to prevent (or, if not, to penalize) interstate trading in blue sky securities, probably would have averted the present depression, had it been passed 10 or a dozen years ago. That is the opinion of Capitol Hill's best-informed economists and students of banking and the stock market.

Anyway, these authorities say, the pinch by no means would have been so severe or prolonged except for the wholesale dumping of worthless or nearly worthless bonds and shares upon the public during the boom.

Moreover, the losses were incurred largely in a fashion against which the average individual had no means of safeguarding himself.

In Ignorance

He was not consulted. In fact, he was ignorant of what was occurring.

That is, the huge issues of foreign securities, which, by the slump in their values, have contributed so heavily toward the national disaster, generally reacted to the disadvantage of the rank and file of American bank depositors, not directly, but by a roundabout process.

Illustratively, an issue of overseas bonds, of the sort so promiscuously in default today, customarily made its first appearance in the United States in the hands of one of the big New York financial houses, to be floated.

If it were a private bank, the American institution would launch its sales campaign with no camouflage whatever.

If it were a nationally chartered institution, its method was to do its selling through its "affiliated" security company—usually with the same set of officers as the bank, but nominally a distinct corporate entity.

Forced On Smaller Banks

The affiliate would approach each of the big bank's brood of smaller and more or less dependent banks with what virtually was a demand for a subscription to a pro-rata (based on its size) share of the bond issue. The head of one of these smaller banks probably did not often see his way clear to offending the head of the larger one by a refusal, and thus a part of the lesser concern's resources would go into an investment of which he himself perhaps was doubtful.

In a situation like this, it is evident that the head of the smaller bank must frequently have sought safety by unloading as many of the bonds as possible upon still smaller banks, over which he, in turn, could exercise a degree of compulsion.

Thus, with a tightening of the times, it is plain that the Bank of Podunk, for example, may very well have been unable to pay off its depositors by reason of a chain of transactions in bonds which none of the banks that bought them ever approved of.

It is noteworthy, too, that the New York security companies, which did the bulk of the foreign bond selling, refrained from making sales to the banks that they actually were affiliated with. They sold to others; the banks with security-selling affiliates are in an exceptionally sound condition.

Profits Large

Incidentally, the profits from the floating of certain classes of bonds are said, in sophisticated circles, to have been, probably, much larger than has been revealed by any investigation to date.

Really gilt-edged bonds yield a very small commission—a fraction of 1 per cent.

"But," says Representative Sol Bloom of Manhattan (a recognized authority on the security market), "I venture the guess that the issuing governments received less than 25 per cent of the proceeds of some of the foreign bonds disposed of by New York bank 'affiliates' at the boom peak.

"Folk who issue bonds that they never intend to redeem can afford to pay liberal commissions."

FORESTATION PLAN O. K'D

President Roosevelt's afforestation program was not acted on in congress until it had been considerably altered from its original form. As introduced, it was attacked on the ground that it sought to establish a system unpleasantly like peonage.

It may be taken for granted that it was not so intended and perhaps it would not have worked out so, but it unquestionably conveyed that idea to certain folk, for they said so.

The curious feature of the whole affair is that millions of Americans undoubtedly are still in ignorance as to just what it does provide. It was a measure to create an army of 250,000 men, to work for the government under conditions which well-informed individuals spoke of as bordering on slavery. One would imagine that not an American would have felt secure until personally satisfied that it contained no such danger. Yet, with a little tinkering, it was possible to get it approved by the U. S. senate without even a roll call.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE POINT:
The New Oxford Dictionary requires over 18,000 words to define and to explain the term "point".

A BURIED CITY:
Old Soulac-les-Bains about 50 miles from Bordeaux, France, has been gradually buried by the inroads of sand and clay covered for considerably over a century. Prior to its obliteration, it was a town of great commercial importance. Presently farmers would hitch their horses to the belfry of the old church, the tip of which still protruded from the sand. About 40 years ago, the French Government had the sand removed, thereby exposing again the ancient House of God.

THE HIGHEST HONORS VIA THE GALLOWS:
Count Gyula Andrassy of Hungary who fought against the armies of Emperor Franz Joseph in 1848, was courtmartialed in April, 1851, and hanged in the effigy on September 22nd of the same year, after a sentence of death for high treason was pronounced against him. Following the Hungarian settlement of 1867 he returned from exile to his native country, to become Prime Minister of the Government that hanged him. The Emperor in whose name he had been hanged, appointed him to the highest position wthin his gift. He made him Minister of Foreign Affairs and of the Imperial and Royal House.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SHEILA SHAYNE, dancer, refuses to marry DICK STANLEY, son of wealthy parents who is in New York trying to learn to write plays. Sheila's idea of marriage is a cozy little home far from Broadway.

She joins a road show company and in a small midwestern city she meets JERRY WYMAN, with whom she falls in love. Jerry is at first extremely attentive but soon his affection seems to cool. He writes infrequently and when he comes to New York on a vacation it is only by chance that they meet.

A few months later Sheila joins another road company, this time as featured principal. The show plays in Jerry's home town but Sheila sees him only once. After that she has no word of him until the tour comes to an end. Then she learns that Jerry has married a girl in his home town.

Sheila is broken-hearted. She is unable to get another part on the stage and her money is almost gone when she is hired as a model at HENRI'S fashionable shop. There she sees DOROTHY TREVOR, Dick Stanley's cousin. Dorothy invites Sheila to spend a week-end at her Long Island home. She goes. Dick is there and asks Sheila to marry him. She agrees but it is settled that the marriage will not take place for some time. Then she receives an offer to play the lead in a new play on Broadway. Sheila gives up her job at Henri's to begin rehearsals.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII

It was a day when the rehearsing had been particularly tedious and tiring. No one could please Brady. He halted Sheila's dancing a dozen times, made her repeat, criticized brusquely. The chorus stood watching in awed silence. Sheila alone was unperturbed. Se could dance and she knew it. The girls in the chorus were frightened because their turn was coming. If Brady found so much fault with Miss Shayne's dancing what would he think of them?

Sheila danced on. Her feet beat out the tapping rhythm, whirled, stamped and skimmed across the stage. There was a fixed smile on her face. The ringlets of her hair curled tightly on her damp forehead. Brady nodded his head to the rhythm. He was standing with one foot on a chair, one hand beating out the time. Some times he would go far back in the pit of the theater, watching Sheila. Some times he would shout approval, though harsh criticisms were more frequent. Sheila didn't mind. She knew Brady was severe because he demanded the best. She repeated tirelessly until he suddenly announced they were done for the day.

She went to her dressing room happily. Brady must be satisfied with her work or he would not have ended the rehearsal. That in itself was a triumph. It gave her confidence and there is no quality more precious to the actor or actress.

A chorus girl timidly offered condolence for Brady's harsh words. Sheila laughed. "I don't mind," she said. "Bill's all right."

She was weary, though. Every muscle seemed to ache. She must go on with this tireless work until she could dance without thinking about it, until the routine seemed effortless.

There were solo rehearsals and full chorus rehearsals daily. Then came full cast rehearsals. At last Mandrake announced. "We are ready for Atlantic City. The show looks to me like a flop." He aldays said that dolefully before his outstanding successes.

The company traveled to Atlantic City for the tryout week. There were more rehearsals there. Sheila endured loss of sleep, weariness, the electric restlessness that always precedes an opening night. There were wires for her from Dick. She had positively forbidden him to be present for the first performance.

"I can't do my best with you there," she told him. "Wait until we bring the show to New York."

The first night came and the show was not, as Mandrake had predicted, a flop. It was praised glowingly by the newspapers. Sheilas name was in the headlines.

The company journeyed back to New York and Sheila thought that she had never been so tired. "It's a good thing," another member of the cast told her. "We get so tired we don't care whether

Texan Ousted At Nazi Meet

Dr. Humphrey Lee Tells About Being Thrown Out Of Meeting In Germany For His Refusal To Salute Flag

DALLAS April 6 (AP)—Dr. Humphrey Lee, for years pastor of the Highland Park Methodist church here, related today how he was "thrown out" of a recent Nazi meeting in Germany because he and his companions refused to salute the Nazi flag.

Dr. Lee, who returned from a four-months' trip to Europe recently, said three Americans and an Englishman attended the meeting, two days before the election that sent Hitler into power, and two of them, newspapermen, were taking notes.

At the end of an address by Adolph Hitler, leader of the Nazis, all the crowd of about 25,000 but the visitors arose to salute the passing flag. When the party refused, Dr. Lee said hundreds of the brown shirts cried "throw them out!"

"I was last in the row" Dr. Lee said "and I think most of their venom was expended on the first two men. Also, some of the saner element of the Nazis had reached my side when I got to the aisle. I was absolutely unharmed."

Another of the Americans reported the matter to police and received an expression of regret from the official in charge of the headquarters at that time. The incident was not reported to the consuls because the two correspondents feared it might cause trouble for their newspapers.

Dr. Lee termed Hitler "an adventurer with a Mussolini complex" but declared that in his opinion the atrocity situation had been exaggerated by the fears of refugees.

The weight of letters sent by air from England last year exceeded all previous records, amounting to 64 tons, compared with 52 1-2 tons in 1931.

Homeless Tenant Farmer And His Family Get Aid

ST. LOUIS, April 6 (AP)—A homeless tenant farmer and his ten motherless children, stranded here two days, were sent on their way today to Kennett, Mo., where the father had acquaintances through whom he hoped to obtain farm work.

The mother died of pneumonia three weeks ago at Port Arthur, Tex., a week after the death of another child, eight days old.

Homeless since the father James Tingle, 46, quarreled with the son of his landowner in February of last year at Garland City, Ark. The Red Cross provided railroad fare for the family to go to Newburg, Mo., where a sister lived. She had room for the large family and they hitch-hiked to St. Louis.

Food—plenty of it—and clothing were given the children, $22.45 was raised in the Soulard district police station and the family was taken to the station and placed in the hands of the Traveller's aid.

MARKET REPORTS

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 6. (AP) — Speculative interest in the commodity advance quickened today and with this broader activity went appreciation in stock prices.

Bonds were irregular, but United States governments remained firm and the dollar showed to advantage against foreign exchanges.

Shares, bubbling up 1 to more than 3 points at the outset, encountered enough sales thereafter to whittle down the rise, although net gains of 1 to 2 were fairly numerous. Commodity issues, such as foods, metals, farm implements and steels, tended to resist occasional pressure, but utilities might have been stronger. Rails appeared relieved by denial of rumors that Chicago and Northwestern faced immediate reorganization and by word that preparations had been made to meet its May 1 obligations. Turnover was 1,232,000 shares.

Neither government bonds nor the dollar suggested that those markets were worrying about possible inflation. Wall street is still wondering just how this contentious issue is to turn—whether there is to be controlled inflation to the extent that the long price decline will be halted without recourse to currency depreciation. At present, speculators for the rise appear to be giving the chief impetus to markets, as they endeavor to anticipate possible developments.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 6. (AP) — Cotton continued an upswing with other markets today in decidedly more active trading, stimulated by inflationary reports from Washington, evidences of speculative interest, trade demand and active covering. Best prices were shaded by realizing at the end but the close was steady 9 to 10 points net higher.

The opening was steady and more active with Liverpool cables about as due. Private cables reported a small mixed business in Liverpool. First trades here were unchanged to 2 points down but good volume of trade buying developed after the start and traders were stimulated by inflationary news from Washington and by delays to crop preparations by too much rain in the central and eastern belts. Before the end of the first hour May had traded up to 6.46, July to 6.63 and October to 6.84 or 8 to 9 points above yesterday's close.

The market was active during the rest of the morning as May advanced to 6.51, July to 6.67 and October to 6.88, up 13 to 15 points from the opening and 13 points on all positions above the previous close. Prices eased moderately during the afternoon owing mainly to realizing, losing 3 to 4 points from the top but the close was steady, with May at 6.47, July at 6.63, both 9 points net higher, while October closed at 6.88 or 10 points up.

Liverpool is due tomorrow on New Orleans unchanged to 1 penny point down.

Port receipts 2,527, for week 39,758, for season 7,571,301, last season 9,304,403. Exports 10,152, for week 138,975, for season 6,181,247, last season 6,915,512. the third floor of the courthouse to the first floor when Reidheimer approached him. The jury had reached a verdict and was preparing to report. Randerson said he was on the second floor when he saw Reidheimer.

"Here is the gun," Reidheimer was quoted as saying.

"Whose is it?" Randerson said he asked.

"Mine," was the reply.

No Statement Given

The sheriff declined to give additional details of the conversation, as to whether any mention of a shooting was made. No statement had been attributed to Reidheimer tonight.

Main street runs north and south, on the west side of the courthouse square. The sanitarium faces east.

The gun Reidheimer gave up was a .32 caliber pistol. Reidheimer was residing in this section when Sheriff Randerson came here 16 years ago.

Eudy said Campbell had gone to the sanitarium for treatment as a result of infection caused by sand in one of his eyes. Eudy is a grade school student.

Officers would not comment on a motive for Campbell's death. They said they had not uncovered a motive.

The most flagrant breach of etiquette, which may not be recalled by those who came in late, concerns the correct manner of drinking beer.

It is practically treason if the drinker uses both hands to lift the stein to his lips. Indeed, in the dear dead days of sweet lavender and bicycles for two, if such a crime were observed the guilty one was sentenced to buy drinks for the house.

beer imported from other localities would take care of immediate wants.

A Broadway dance hall offered free beer to all patrons.

A Broadway theater decided to serve near beer between the first and second acts, and 3.2 brew between the second and third acts—"just to see if you can tell the difference."

The name of Alfred E. Smith, long a foe of prohibition, was tacked onto the first two cases of beer loaded onto a truck at Ruppert's own brewery.

Advertising Increases

Newspapers showed a continued increase in beer advertisements, with many of the breweries taking full page advertisements.

One New York paper contained 25 advertisements of midnight celebrations.

Philadelphia police had all days off cancelled and men working day shifts were ordered back to 10 p. m. to handle the anticipated "holiday traffic."

West Virginia police were ordered to "ignore beer being carried in privately-owned automobiles by private individuals for their own consumption," even though the sale in that state does not become legal until June 9.

From Clarksburg, W. Va., came reports of a heavy demand for draft horses of the type used by breweries.

Glassboro, N. J., first town in the state to go dry under local option in 1918, was one of the first communities in South Jersey to decide today to license the new beer. Only three applications were received.

Hollywood, center of the movies, found itself outside the Los Angeles area in which beer can be sold.

A chain of restaurants extending into many cities (Childs) announced the sale of beer at 10 cents a glass in four restaurants on or near Broadway "as an experiment."

Elsewhere in New York City, and throughout the 19 states, the price agreed on for the consumer ranged from 5 to 20 cents a glass.

At Coney Island 100 barrels of beer were to be set up at 6 a. m. —"free as long as it lasts."

In St. Louis sirens atop breweries were oiled up to announce the 12.01 hour, and some dealers ordered trucks with ice to the breweries, so the beer could be cooled for consumption while in transportation.

In New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, in the absence of a permanent control plan, licenses were issued under temporary restrictions.

And while attention was concentrated on the foamy malt beverage, wine-growers in upper New York state set to work de-alcholozing thousands of gallons of age-mellowed wines so they would come within the 3.2 ruling.

tion of Rusk county was 32,484 and that of Gregg county was 15,778.

An effort was made to place Jefferson and El Paso counties in the largest population bracket but the amendment was voted down.

The senate began consideration of the bill yesterday. Advocates of the proposal asserted that some justices of the peace in the largest counties had been receiving as much as $10,000 or $12,000 annually.

ter Carter.

She said she spent the night with Carter, Jack Tillery and Mrs. Price in a box car when the "hobo" trip was planned.

On March 24, 1931, she said, she, Mrs. Price and Carter caught a freight train to Chattanooga and there they met Orville Gilley (Carolina Slim) and spent the night in a "hobo swamp."

Unable to find work she said the four boarded a freight train the next day to return to Huntsville and rode a box car to Stevenson.

"Me, Victoria, Lester and Gilley boarded a box car which we rode to Stevenson, and there we got in a gondola," she said. A fight between the negroes and seven white boys occurred in the next car she testified.

When taken from the train at Paint Rock she said she was excited and continued in that state in jail.

"She (Victoria) told me if I didn't say it (that she had been attached) they would put us in jail," the girl testified when asked by Leibowitz if any one told her what to say.

Family Night Service Will Be Held At Baptist Church

A "family night" service will be conducted at the First Baptist church tonight by Dr. O. L. Powers, who is conducting a religious revival here.

"Winning the Lost to Jesus Christ" was the subject of the evangelist last night. "We need to be divinely guided in soul winning," Doctor Powers declared. "Many people think of the accidents of life, but we need to think more of the providences of God."

Use Phillips 66 Gasoline And Save $50 a Year

Phillips 66

If you drive a car, this picture is of vital interest to you—even if you never expect to build a camp fire!

The cartoon illustrates, simply and graphically, what is wrong with ordinary low-gravity gasoline.

Just as a good fire needs paper or light chips to catch the first spark, so gasoline requires very volatile (high test) elements for quick response and snappy action. The kindling corresponds to the medium gravity range in gasoline. And the large logs represent its "heavy" parts.

Combine all these—which is exactly the case with Phillips 66—and you get quick, even, sustained power. Every drop of this higher test gasoline burns clean. There is no knock, no waste. No unused energy blows out the exhaust. No low-test elements resist vaporization and dilute the crank-case oil.

Gasoline made-to-order for YOU

In addition, every gallon of Phillips 66 gives you the benefit of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY. Based on Government weather reports over long periods of years, barometer records, and many thousands of continuous road tests; we scientifically pre-adjust the Phillips 66, which you buy, to your locality and its weather. Hence, this greater gasoline never fails to deliver the peak of performance in your car.

Here's how to save that $50

Now sum up these savings: Without extra cost, you get higher test and higher anti-knock gasoline. Your engine delivers more pep, power, and mileage. It stays fast, smooth, and flexible with fewer carbon-scraping and valve-grinding jobs. Motor wear and tear is sharply reduced. To the average car owner, these combined savings will rarely mean less than $50 per year.

Remember, Phillips 66 gravity right now ranges from 62° to 68°. The difference in results is so easy to feel, that even inexperienced drivers note the improvement.

Get a trial tankful tomorrow at the Orange and Black 66 shield, where this sensational performing gasoline does not cost a penny premium . . . And while you are there, why not drain and refill with Phillips 66 Motor Oil! It is the perfect partner of Phillips 66 gasoline in quality, value, and performance. A guaranteed 100% paraffin base lubricant, so good that we call it "The world's finest oil for your motor."

Phillips MOTOR 66 OIL — "CHEAP" OILS ARE COSTLY

You make certain of more miles of real protection with this scientific motor oil. It is simply the finest lubricant which the great Phillips organization can produce. There is a grade specially engineered for every motor. 35¢ a quart.

show goes over or not."

Sheila did care. It was not for own sake but for Blind Tim-. She felt that she must be a cess for Timmy. And for Dick, She knew Dick would be oud of her. He had always tised her, believed in her abil-. She visualized him in the dience, sliding from his orches- seat to come to her dressing om between the acts. She could him with Trevor, perhaps, or rothy, following every tap of flying feet as she skimmed r the stage. Oh, yes, she nted to be a success for Dick! And so at last the opening ght arrived. There was Sheila's me in the big electrical sign, heila Shayne in 'Flying Flags'." ere was her picture in the wspapers. Sheila Shayne star- g in 'Flying Flags."

Eve Samper came to see her e in the afternoon. Sheila had n in bed most of the day, rest- in accordance with Man- ke's orders. Eve tried to re- ve Sheila's worries.

"Just think tonight is another earsal," she counseled. "Pre- nd you're in Atlantic City again. u were a wow there!"

"I know. But New York is ferent."

"You won't be. You'll be a ock-out. Everybody says so."

Eve departed soon and Sheila ed once more to sleep. She ld not. She lay with her eyes closed, thinking about Dick. She had not heard from him since morning. At 5:30 Sheila would arise, dress and eat a very light lunch. An hour later she would drive to the theater. Her maid would be there, puttering about the dressing room, arranging each cosmetic, each bit of apparel in readiness.

She was just leaving when the telephone rang. Sheila heard Dick's voice over the wire. "Scared?" he asked. "I was when I saw your name in front of the theater."

"Oh, no!" she told him stoutly. "Not a bit!" He would not know that her hand was shaking.

Once in her dressing room, Sheila barred all company. She was frightened, terribly frightened, and much depended on her regaining her composure. Her hands were icy to the touch. Lucy, the maid, quiet and cheerful, comforted her.

"You're going to be a big success," Lucy insisted. Sheila found herself dressed for the first act half an hour before the curtain would go up.

"Here are some telegrams," the maid told her, holding out a stack of colored envelopes.

There were telegrams from friends scattered throughout the country. Almost all of them were actors and actresses, people she had known during her years of trouping. It was good to read their gay, encouraging messages.

There was a knock at the door and the maid answered. Mandrake came in briskly. "How're you feeling?" he asked.

"Scared," Sheila admitted.

"That's fine! I've never known a successful star who didn't have stage fright before the curtain. But you've nothing to worry about. You're going to be a big hit, little girl. I'd stake my last dollar on it."

"Don't! You might lose!"

Lucy followed Sheila into the wings as the opening chorus began. In a cleared space Sheila began stretching, bounding, twirling, warming up for her entrance. Nobody paid her the slightest attention.

As she danced the tense look on her face disappeared. Sheila forgot to be frightened. She was thinking only of her dancing now. There came her cue! She fluttered to Lucy's side, tossed a scarf across the maid's arm, smiled, and in another instant was gone.

Now she was on the stage and dancing as she had never danced before. The light patter of applause burst into an uproar. Leaning forward eagerly, the maid watched her. This was not the frightened, trembling girl she had assisted a half hour before. Sheila was a bright elf, bewitched, electrified, holding her audience spellbound.

Each time she appeared it was the same story. The applause filled the theater. Not only for Sheila's numbers but for the other members of the company as well. "Flying Flags" was a success.

Even before the last curtain, when again and again Sheila was called to receive applause, that fact was apparent. Mandrake appered with her, bowing. The juvenile lead took a bow. Then the other principals. Then Sheila again, swooping like a gay bird toward the footlights. Blind Timmy was with her, flushed and reluctant.

"Author! Author!" came the cry from the audience. It rose to a crescendo. Where was the author?

Sheila heard Mandrake's voice beside her. "'Go with him, Sheila," the producer was saying. "Here!"

She turned. Amazed, unbelieving, she found herself looking up at Dick Stanley!

Identity Of Bank Robbery Suspects Said To Be Known

BRECKENRIDGE, April 6. (AP) — Two young men whose identity was known were sought over McBrayer mountain near South Bend in Young county today as suspects in the $1,000 robbery of the Elbasville State bank.

J. W. Morrow, sheriff, said he was able to learn the identity of the men by describing them to a South Bend woman. The woman's daughter was arrested and placed in the Graham jail last night when it was said she took cigarettes and food to the men. She was apprehended as she came off the mountain.

Sid Kelso and L. C. Sport, rangers, were aiding J. B. Foster of Graham, sheriff in the hunt for the men, whose descriptions corresponded to those of the men who robbed the bank yesterday.

E. B. Miller of Plainview, business manager of the Plainview Herald, was a visitor in Lubbock Thursday.

Carlock And Johnson Purchase 1,000 Bales From Ellwood; Destination Of The Cotton Is Unknown Here

One thousand bales of cotton were purchased yesterday by Carlock and Johnson, local cotton brokers, from W. L. Ellwood, owner of Ellwood farms, it was learned yesterday afternoon. The cotton is said to be the last of the large number of bales that were turned over to the land owner as rent by his tenants in Hockley and Lamb counties.

No announcement was made by the purchasers of the huge block, as to the destination. It is believed that the cotton will be resold and shipped to Houston, probably for export, within a short time. The local firm was the highest bidder of a number of brokers, according to reports.

The cotton is said to be of a high grade and staple. It was grown on some of the best cotton land in this section.

Seriousness Of Financial Situation Of Lubbock School System Stressed

Lubbock public school board members yesterday issued a statement in which they stressed seriousness of the financial situation of the system. The intimation of the statement was that the board was in earnest when it annouhced delinquent taxes must be paid by April 15 or the schools would have to be closed.

"The school board desires to stress the seriousness of the situation confronting the schools of Lubbock," the members said.

"Notwithstanding rumors to the contrary, unless an appreciable amount of taxes are paid by April 15, the schools must close.

"Up to the present, only a small percentage of the amount needed has been paid, and the members urge those who owe taxes to pay them as soon as possible."

When the graveness of the situation became apparent last month board members arranged to eliminate interest and penalties on all delinquent taxes to April 15. Payments have been coming in slowly, but several property owners have notified officials by letters and telephone calls that they were arranging to pay their taxes.
