Bell Confirms Finance Probe

Possible Link With Official's Death Studied

DALLAS (AP) — An internal investigation within its Texas operations was confirmed today by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The report came as the Dallas County assistant medical examiner, Dr. Vincent DiMaio, disclosed he is withholding a verdict while probing a possible link between the telephone company investigation and the death of T. O. Gravitt.

Police said Gravitt, 51, head of the company's system in Texas, was found dead in the closed garage of his home last Thursday morning. The motor of his car was running. He was dead of carbon monoxide poisioning on arrival at Presbyterian Hospital, Dr. DiMaio's autopsy showed.

In his position, Gravitt was in charge of 38,000 employes in an area served by six million telephones. The Texas Bell system is a $3.5 billion investment.

The investigation has been under way since May, the Dallas Times Herald said.

One Suspended

Developments include:

One employe, called a management person, in San Antonio has been suspended from his $60,000-a-year job and a broad review is being conducted.

Sources close to the investigation say three forms of irregularities have been uncovered—kickbacks on right-of-way purchases, kickbacks on the purchase of equipment and falsification of expense accounts.

A special three-man team from the head office of Bell in St. Louis is investigating and auditing records and files in the San Antonio office as part of the probe.

Probe Continuing

In a prepared statement, a Dallas public relations officer for Southwestern Bell, Jim Pattillo, said, "I am not in a position to say whether he (Gravitt) was involved . . . our investigation is continuing.

"Present indications are that no significiant amounts of company money are involved. We must determine whether there are other irregularities that demand clarification."

Pattillo said he was authorized to issue the statement.

DiMaio said he is certain of the cause of Gravitt's death but needs to conduct more investigations to determine the manner of death.

Ruling Awaited

'PROJECT INDEPENDENCE'

Mandatory Energy Controls Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's still-secret "Project Independence" energy study strongly supports mandatory fuel-saving measures, coupled with accelerated U.S. oil production.

It suggests mandatory conservation measures might include a gasoline-mileage standard for cars, and lighting and insulation standards for buildings.

Increased oil production probably would have to come from drilling in new areas of the Atlantic, Pacific and Alaska coasts, plus commercial development of the Navy's petroleum reserve in Alaska, it says.

No Recommendations

The study makes no specific recommendations but clearly indicates it would be hazardous for the United States to rely on energy production-increases alone to carry it through the next 10 years.

It says that with conservation and increased production, the United States can be independent of foreign oil by 1985. Without them, oil imports will grow, increasing both the dollar drain and the danger of a new oil embargo.

The report does not explain what it means by independence, but U.S. energy officials previously have defined the concept as holding oil imports low enough to avoid the possibility of blackmail by a foreign oil cutoff. This specific level has not been established.

Study In Draft Form

The study, some 1,100 pages stamped "Limited Official Use," was still being circulated in draft form for comment among federal agencies today, but a copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

A revised final version is to be made public around Nov. 7. It appeared unlikely that the major conclusions would change.

How much the nation must do depends heavily on the world price of oil, the study says.

It estimates that the world price might drop from $11 per barrel to around $7 per barrel — but ironically, the lower price would be harder to cope with, because it would encourage greater imports, the study concludes.

"Some combination of accelerated supply with either conservation or emergency measures would be needed," it says.

Offers Choice

While it offers a choice for coping with an embargo, the study provides a long list of advantages for strong energy conservation steps.

"The advantages of energy conservation are: 1) it delays the exhaustion of the low cost domestic energy resources, 2) it puts less pressure on the environment and 3) to the extent that it reduces the waste of energy resources it is cheaper than the other strategies."

The study says the main disadvantage of energy conservation was the danger that, if pushed too far, it could retard economic growth.

Although billed as a blueprint for energy independence when former President Richard M. Nixon ordered it last January, the study limits itself to evaluating the nation's energy problems and its major policy alternatives.

Kissinger To Offer Russians Options On Nuclear Arms Limits

MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met today with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev to offer a series of options for a new treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons.

Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko also was present for the meeting in the Kremlin. It was Kissinger's first meeting with the party chief since the American arrived Wednesday.

Details Not Revealed

Details of the American proposals were not disclosed. But a senior American official told newsmen the United States is prepared to join the Soviet Union in negotiations for a broad agreement instead of concentrating on restricting the development of missiles with nuclear warheads.

An agreement on guidelines for the arms negotiations would be approved by President Ford and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev at a minisummit meeting the Russians have proposed be held during the President's visit to the Far East next month.

Major Test

American officials consider Kissinger's visit a major test of the Soviet interest in negotiating an extension of the 1972 pact limiting some offensive nuclear weapons. That agreement expires in 1977, and the two governments have agreed in principle to work out a new treaty valid until 1985.

The fact that the Soviets proposed the Ford-Brezhnev meeting was taken by American officials as evidence that they want to continue the policy of detente they forged with the Nixon administration. U.S. officials were also hopeful that the recent compromise with Congress over Jewish emigration and Soviet trade benefits would give Kissinger's mission a push forward.

Kissinger also hopes to win Soviet acquiescence to his plan of step-by-step, separate negotiations between Israel and each of its Arab adversaries. Last week the Russians called again for early resumption of the Geneva peace conference, which would give them a forum in which to take a hand. Kissinger is pressing instead for an attempt to work out interim settlements between Israel and its more moderate Arab foes, Egypt and Jordan.

Also on the agenda for Kissinger's talks are the deadlocked negotiations in Vienna to reduce American and Soviet forces in central Europe and the talks in Geneva on European security and cooperation.

Blaze Kills Six Persons

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — Fire swept through a house in this Los Angeles suburb early today, killing a family of four and two neighbor children.

Firemen found all six dead when they arrived at the two-story house in Chevy Chase Canyon. A neighbor turned in the alarm.

The victims were identified as Stanley and Sandra Myers, both in their 30s; their son Daniel, 8, and daughter Lisa, 7; and next-door neighbors Mathew Bondi, 5, and his sister Colleen Patrice, 3.

Jay and Carole Bondi had visited the Myers' Wednesday evening. Their children had been put to bed upstairs after they fell asleep, and the Bondis decided to leave them for the night rather than wake them when they went home after midnight.

All the victims were burned almost beyond recognition, firemen said.

Next door, the Bondis slept—unaware of the flames engulfing the home a few yards away.

Cause of the fire, believed to have started in the living room, was under investigation.

Mitchell's Defense Lawyer Focusing On Differences In Dean's Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Mitchell's defense lawyer in the Watergate cover-up trial focused today on differences between John Dean's trial testimony and what Dean told the Senate Watergate committee 16 months ago.

William G. Hundley reminded Dean that he had testified at the trial about a long telephone conversation he had with Mitchell on June 22, 1972, in which he reported on the progress of the FBI investigation of the Watergate break-in.

In his second day of cross-examining Dean, Hundley noted that Dean never mentioned the Mitchell conversation in his Watergate committee testimony. Mitchell is a former attorney general and is one of five defendants in the trial.

Hundley also pointed out that Dean never mentioned the conversation to a federal grand jury.

Asked by Hundley to explain, Dean said, "The first time I was asked about that was in this courtroom."

Hundley then turned to another conversation Dean had testified he had with Mitchell.

At the trial, Dean said he talked to Mitchell on the telephone on June 28, 1972.

Hundley reminded Dean that he had told the Watergate committee his conversation with Mitchell on the 28th was at a meeting and not on the telephone.

Mitchell later had told the committee he was out of town that day.

Meeting Recalled

Dean said he subsequently recalled that he attended a meeting in Mitchell's office on June 28 but that Mitchell wasn't there and that he had called him later when the former attorney general returned to Washington.

In his cross-examination of

Ford Takes Campaign To Breadbasket

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is venturing into America's breadbasket after signing legislation of intense interest to farmers that expands government regulation of the $500 billion-a-year commodities futures exchanges.

Aides said Ford planned to issue a statement today at Des Moines, Iowa, on the bill he signed into law six hours before the Wednesday midnight deadline.

The Iowa capital was the first stop in another day of campaigning for Republican candidates in Ford's effort to avoid what he calls "a veto-proof Congress."

From Des Moines he was heading for Melvin, Ill., and a fairgrounds celebration honoring retiring House GOP Whip Les Arends. After that, he scheduled appearances at two receptions and a Republican fund-raising dinner in Chicago.

The legislation signed by Ford Wednesday night establishes an independent agency topped by a five-member commission to oversee trading of futures contracts. It also brings under regulation contracts that

Ellenburger Gas Strike For Loving

Clayton Williams Jr. of Fort Stockton has completed as an Ellenburger discovery in Loving County, his No. 1 Gataga, three miles southeast of Mentone, and two miles northwest of the Vermejo (Ellenburger and Fusselman) gas field.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 3.631 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, producing through perforations at 21,162-21,597 feet, which had been fractured with 45,000 gallons.

Drilled to 22,076 feet, it was plugged back to 22,050 feet, in a 5-inch liner hung from 17,946-22,076 feet.

The following tops were reported under ground elevation of 2,725 feet: Delaware lime, 4,410; Bone Springs, 8,253; Wolfcamp, 10,457; Atoka, 16,062; Barnett, 17,516; Mississippian lime, 18,018; Woodford, 18,200; Silurian, 18,870; Fusselman, 19,117; Montoya, 19,445; Simpson, 19,922; and Ellenburger, 21,095 feet.

Location is 650 feet from southwest and 1,815 feet from southeast lines of section 65, block 1, W&NW survey.

Houston Firm Sets Borden Re-Entries

Westland Oil Development Corp. of Houston, has scheduled as wildcats, two former producers in the Good, Southeast field of Borden County, about 10 miles north of Vealmoor.

The projects, in block 32, T-4-N, T&P, are to be cleaned out to 9,000 feet.

No. 2 Clayton-Johnson, 663 feet from north and 664 feet from east lines of section 40, is ½ mile northeast of the Fusselman discovery in the field and one mile northeast of the Firm's No. 4 Clayton-Johnson, a planned 9,650-foot wildcat re-entry.

No. 8 Clayton-Johnson, 660 feet from north and 1,270 feet from east lines of section 45, is ⅞ mile southeast of the Fusselman opener and 5/8 mile southeast of the firm's No. 4 Clayton-Johnson. Old total depth is 9,789 feet.

The projected cleaned-out depth is sufficient for tests of the Pennsylvanian.

Reeves Gets Probe, Pecos, Deepening

Wildcats have been planned for Reeves and Pecos counties.

Lone Star Producing Co. intends to drill No. 1 Palafox Exploration, a 10,500-foot searcher for gas in Reeves, 17 miles southwest of Toyah.

Bentsen Not Discouraged After New Hampshire Tour

NASHUA, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., shook hands with 100 factory workers in New Hampshire, the state with the nation's earliest presidential primary, but only two of them recognized him.

Nevertheless, Bentsen said he is not discouraged.

"I've come a long way since Thanksgiving when I started traveling around the country," he observed.

Seeking Support

Bentsen spent 12 hours in the state Wednesday, seeking support for his own unannounced candidacy for his party's 1976 presidential nomination and campaigning for New Hampshire's Democrats.

He walked through the Edison Electronics Co. plant in Manchester with Norman D'Amours, candidate for the U.S. House.

One woman recognized Bentsen after being introduced to him. She said, "Oh yes, I saw you on television."

John Hopkins, a design engineer at the plant, also recognized the tall Texan. "You and Scoop have got to do it this year," he said referring to Bentsen and his Senate colleague Henry "Scoop" Jackson, D-Wash.

Known By Demos

Bentsen was better known at a political gathering of Democrats. State Rep. Joseph Cote of Manchester, told him, "I like what I've heard you say. If you run in the New Hampshire primary, I will support you, Senator."

Bentsen's day was filled with speeches and meetings with politicians. The theme of his talks focused on the economy and criticism of the economic policies of the Republican administration.

His traveling through at least 32 states "has paid off," said the 53-year-old senator, whose Texas drawl is more pronounced in private conversation than in public speeches.

"At first I was unknown, but now one poll says that I'm one of the top three contenders."

Although he made no formal declaration of his presidential intentions, Bentsen told a college audience in Nashua:

"Would I like to be President of the United States? Yes, I would."

$365,000 Raised

Bentsen said he has raised $365,000 for his exploratory bid for the White House, adding, "I'm not interested in tilting at windmills. I want to see what my prospects are."

He said he hadn't decided whether he will enter New Hampshire's March 1976 primary and he has not been seeking any particular alliances with the state's democratic politicians.

"It's too early for that," he said in an interview. "I've been doing that sort of thing more in states like Pennsylvania, California, New Jersey and Virginia."

Growing Congressional Independence Is Real Target Of President

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is demonstrating his belief in continued presidential domination of U.S. foreign policy by warning that a Democratic election landslide may threaten world peace.

The real target of Ford's stepped-up campaign rhetoric is the growing congressional independence, spearheaded by liberal Democrats, in the foreign and military field.

Like Democratic President Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican President Richard M. Nixon, Ford finds his policies challenged by the growing mood in Congress against U.S. involvement abroad. Like his precedessors, Ford is against it.

Verbal Challenge

In the Johnson years, the challenge was mainly verbal in the form of growing criticism.

In Nixon's presidency, it became more concrete. Moves to limit U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia culminated in the cutoff of funds for bombing Cambodia, and the House joined the Senate to limit U.S. military aid to South Vietnam.

In Ford's first weeks, the battle has been over enforcement of a law that cuts off U.S. military aid to a country engaging in aggression. The Congress has decided that Turkey is in that category because of its invasion of Cyprus.

Battle Won

Like his predecessors, Ford warned that such a cutoff would tie the hands of U.S. negotiators in trying to work out a long-range agreement. He won the battle for now, when Congress voted to delay the cutoff, but only by a bare margin amid extensive pre-election absenteeism.

The President has repeatedly cited the fight on the campaign trail. Until this week, however, he only said it threatened 30 years of foreign policy bipartisanship.

In Oklahoma City Tuesday, Ford stepped up his rhetoric, warning that "If we get the wrong kind of Congress, peace could be in jeopardy."

If the polls are right, however, Ford is likely to get what he considers the "worst kind of Congress," one with more Democrats more eager to limit U.S. commitments and weapons abroad.

Policy Threat Seen

What Ford sees threatened is the policy under which the United States, as "leader of the free world," takes the major role in containing worldwide communism through regional defense organizations such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and massive military aid.

Despite the much-publicized detente with the Soviet Union, this remains U.S. policy. And Ford's record is totally in accord with it.

In the White House now, Ford is battling for the same stance at a time when it is under growing challenge. The congressional leadership of both houses supported him last week, but the rank-and-file is restive.

And the polls show the electorate's interest increasingly directed at domestic concerns, less likely to heed this sort of presidential appeal.

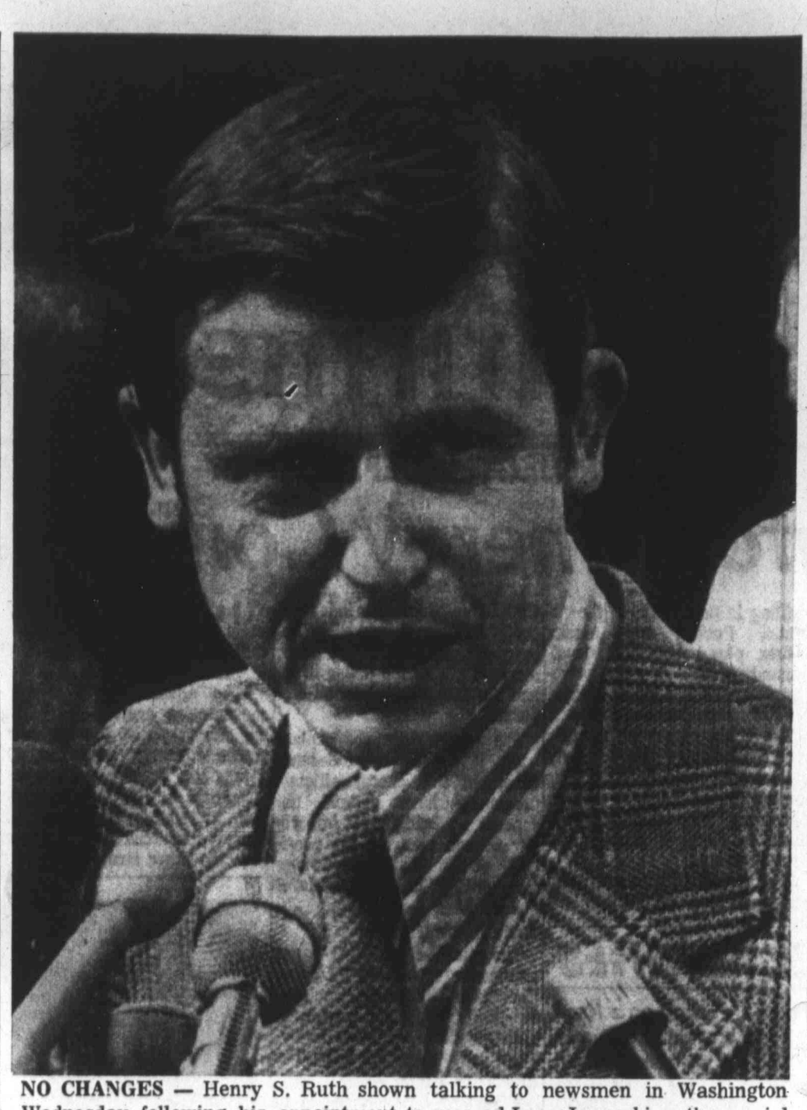

Chicago Donor Defends Massive Gifts To Nixon

MEMPHIS (AP) — Chicago millionnaire W. Clement Stone, 72, says he believes the $6 million he gave to two of Richard M. Nixon's presidential campaigns was money well spent.

"I think my goal was achieved — to change the course of history for the better," the insurance man and philanthropist said at a convention of hotel executives.

Expressing the view that history will look kindly on Nixon, particularly for his record in foreign affairs, Stone said:

"He had the guts to have detente with Russia and China. He got us out of Vietnam with honor. He kept the Communists from taking over Israel."

NO CHANGES — Henry S. Ruth shown talking to newsmen in Washington Wednesday following his appointment to succeed Leon Jaworski as the special Watergate prosecutor. Ruth said, "I'm very grateful to Mr. Jaworski for his recommendation. The operation will go on exactly the same." (AP Wirephoto.)

Ruth Named Prosecutor

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Henry Ruth takes over as special Watergate prosecutor on Saturday, there'll be no sense of crisis as there was on that other Saturday a year ago.

"Bloody Saturday," it was called in the overblown rhetoric Washington ascribes to moments of political confrontation.

That was the night Richard Nixon lost a gamble and set in motion the impeachment proceedings which were to end his presidency, the night Nixon outraged a large segment of Congress and the nation by firing Archibald Cox as the Watergate prosecutor, the night he suffered the protest resignations of the attorney general and the deputy attorney general.

Henry Ruth anguished through that Oct. 20 weekend in 1973 and stayed on as the deputy Watergate prosecutor, a position he had held since June 1973 when the special force was established.

Nixon Backed Away

He stayed on as Nixon, backing away from the confrontation, allowed the Justice Department to rescind the order abolishing the prosecution force.

He stayed on to test the mettle of Leon Jaworski, a Texan, a Democrat, a lawyer respected among his colleagues, the new Watergate prosecutor.

And he stayed on to succeed Jaworski on this October Saturday in the sort of routine transition customary for jobs the public seldom notices.

It was an ordinary two-page Justice Department press release which announced Wednesday that Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe had appointed Ruth to the job.

Choice Expected

The choice was expected. Jaworski had recommended Ruth. No one else was seriously considered. There were no whispers of opposition, no rumored rivals.

There was no suggestion of protest in Jaworski's earlier announcement that he is resigning to return to private law practice in Texas.

Ruth, 43, takes over the job as the prosecution force proceeds with the major trial resulting from the Watergate investigation, the cover-up conspiracy charges against the high command at the Nixon White House.

Neal Calls Shots

Assistant Prosecutor James F. Neal will continue to call the shots for the prosecution team in the courtroom as he did under Jaworski.

Other aspects of the sweeping investigation must be finished, but the biggest decision of all has been made. There will be no prosecution of Richard M. Nixon, pardoned by President Ford for all federal crimes committed in the office he resigned.

Saxbe said the Watergate team, under both Cox and Jaworski, "has admirably performed the task of restoring public confidence in the integrity of the criminal justice system."

Little To Say

As for Ruth, he had little to say as he emerged from the heavily-guarded prosecutor's office for the customary brief session with news photographers.

Turning aside questions, he said, "The operation will go on exactly the same. I have a lot of work to do."

Mrs. Rockefeller Leaves Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller was to escort his wife Happy today from Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, where her cancerous left breast was removed last Thursday.

On Wednesday a hospital spokesman said Mrs. Rockefeller's condition was still improving. "She is up and about and taking her exercise," said the spokesman.

The operation on the wife of the former New York governor was performed less than three weeks after the President's wife, Betty Ford, underwent a similar operation.

Volcano Continues To Spew Out Lava

GUATEMALA (AP) — The Fuego volcano 24 miles from Guatemala's capital has been erupting for two weeks, and officials say there is no lessening of the outpouring of lava, burning rock, hot ash and cinders.

Only one death has been confirmed—a six-month-old boy who was hit in the face by a burning rock as his mother fled with him in her arms from the town of Yepocapa, at the base of the 10,000-foot mountain.

About 1,000 of its 12,000 inhabitans have remained despite government pleas that they flee. Most of the rest have taken refuge in schools and public buildings in Guatemala City.

The government estimates the damage to cotton and coffee crops from the ash and cinders at $35 million, and officials say this will increase if the eruption does not stop soon.

The volcano is shooting rock and ashes as high as 20,000 feet into the air, and the ashes are more than six feet deep in some places around Fuego. Several roads have been covered, and government crews are clearing them so more people can be evacuated.

Two smaller volcanoes which erupted with Fuego subsided last Monday.

This is the first volcanic activity in Guatemala in three years and the largest of the century, according to the National Weather Service.

Dear Abby

—By Abigail van Buren

Fancy Words, Same Old Story

DEAR ABBY: Chuck and I have been married for 20 years. I was 17 and he was 18 at the time, and we were very much in love. I still am, but I'm not so sure about Chuck.

Recently Chuck expressed the need for less togetherness and more freedom to explore and develop ourselves as individuals. We talked it out and he admitted that his basic need was sexual experimentation. Chuck says he doesn't want to deceive me, but his need has now become an obsession.

We have three children and everything to stay together for. Chuck suggested one night out a week for both of us and no questions asked. I don't want another man, and I'm afraid if I agree to such an arrangement, Chuck might find someone else.

Please advise me.

CHUCK'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Chuck has suggested in highfalutin language that you both swing with others. To my way of thinking (and regardless of what married swingers say) this would signal the beginning of the end.

DEAR ABBY: I sure hope you can help me. I am 14, and already I am ruining my life. My problem is I am always lying to impress people or to get attention, I guess. If I tell the truth, I stretch it so much, it's not the truth any more.

I have told some terrible lies that got a lot of people into a lot of trouble. Once I scratched my own face up, and told everyone that my mother did it, just to get people to feel sorry for me.

I don't take drugs or anything like that. I just lie and make up stories. I'm such a good liar I almost believe some of the things I make up. Please help me to stop lying, Abby. I don't have a friend in the world.

DON'T SIGN THIS

DEAR DON'T: Chronic lying is a symptom of a deeper emotional problem. You need professional counseling. If your school has a psychologist, ask to see him (or her). If none is available, ask your mother to arrange an appointment with someone at your local mental health clinic. The person who knows he has a problem and seeks help is well on the way to solving it. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I have had the same beauty operator for about three years. I like her work very much, but she does something that I find very irritating, and I am amazed that somebody hasn't called her on it.

She addresses her patrons by their last names. "Johnston, I'll be with you in a moment. Smith, you're not dry yet. Jones, take the first dryer."

Perhaps most of her customers are either used to it, or they don't mind, but I find it rather rude.

Am I being petty? Or shouldn't a hairdresser address her patrons as either Miss or Mrs.?

CALL ME MRS.

DEAR CALL ME: A hairdresser (and anyone else who performs a personal service) should address clients as "Miss" or "Mrs." unless she is asked to address them in some other way. If it irritates you, tell her. No sense getting hotter under the dryer.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Meat Loaf Sauce

Ordinary meat loaf becomes a gourmet's dish when served with sour cream sauce. Cook thin onion strips and sliced mushrooms together in butter until done. Just before serving stir in sour cream and slowly heat mixture until hot, but do not allow it to boil. Serve over slices of meat loaf.

Conductor Chapter Speaker

Dr. Thomas Hohstadt, conductor of the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Chorale, was the guest speaker for a meeting recently of the West Texas Chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

The meeting was held in Grace Lutheran Church, with Mrs. Bruce Barthel as the hostess.

Mrs. Rodney Maxson was welcomed as a new member. Presiding was Mrs. Loyd Sanders. Mrs. David Blaschke also was a guest.

Safety Program Given Chapter

Sgt. Fred Johnson of the Midland Police Department's crime prevention unit was guest speaker for the bi-monthly meeting of the Xi Pi Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held recently in the home of Mrs. Jack Camden.

Sergeant Johnson also showed a film entitled "Lady, Beware," which concerns safety for women in their homes and also when away from home. He advised all citizens to keep their doors and windows locked with security locks, rather than the standard locks now found on most homes. He noted that "crime is on the upswing in Midland, as well as over the United States, and the crook's life should not be made too easy."

Step Up Flavor

Two or three tablespoons of raw grated pineapple added to any fruit salad will not only step up the flavor of the salad but it also prevents cut apples and bananas from turning dark.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Double Knit Pants Lose Their Crease

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR POLLY — Can anyone tell me how to put in sharp creases that will stay in double knit trousers through repeated washing? I would prefer not sewing along the line of the creases but still do not want to press them in each time the pants are washed. — P.L.H.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns dining out in restaurants. This would be a treat enjoyed more often if the menus would list "Ladies' Portions." Many of us cannot eat a man-sized meal and I do believe many, particularly senior citizens, would appreciate smaller servings at a slightly lower price. This would not only help with our budgets but conserve food as well — H.E.P.

DEAR POLLY — Marie wanted to know how to restore the luster to polished cotton. I do not know about restoring but the way I care for it is to wash it gently in lukewarm suds, rinse thoroughly and dip in a gelatin solution to add body. This leaves the fabric looking much like new. To make the gelatin solution I soak one tablespoon plain gelatin in a half cup cold water and then dissolve this in a gallon of boiling water. If the material is quite heavy use half the amount of water. After dipping the fabric roll it in a towel to absorb the excess moisture, iron while slightly damp and fabric will be restored to look almost like new. — M.H.

DEAR POLLY — and Marie — Much polished cotton is worn in Hawaii and the women there use a starch about the texture of corn starch bought in Oriental food stores. Mix first with a bit of cold water and then add hot water to make a thin liquid Dip fabric, wring and drip dry. — RUTH.

DEAR GIRLS — Information released by washing machine company says to wash polished or glazed cotton in COLD water and a heavy duty detergent to retain the finish and run the washer only three to five minutes with it set at gentle speed. The dryer should be set for regular fabrics and the fabric removed when still slightly damp.

Ironing very damp table linens, with a hot iron, on the wrong side first and then the top adds luster and the same could doubtless apply to the ironing of polished cotton. — POLLY.

YMCA Dance Classes Slated

A new course in ballroom dancing begins Thursday at the Central YMCA. Classes for young adults and adults will be conducted by Mrs. Julie MacCurdy, dance director.

The fun dances of the 1930's and 40s are now the latest "in" thing. South American dances such as the cha-cha and rumba will be taught, as well as the ever popular waltz and foxtrot.

For more information, go by 800 N. Big Spring St. or dial 682-2551. Cost for the 6-week session is $12 for members and $18 for non-members.

Church Women Plan Meeting

The Women of the Church of the Tres Rios District of the Presbyterian Church will meet Tuesday in Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Registration will be held at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. Robert A. Hobbs, district president, will preside. Mrs. Mabel Franz will present the declaration of faith, and Mrs. Ora Farlow will give the study on Matthew and the White Cross Project.

Mrs. Marian Fisher will speak on "New look at Aging."

There will be a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. prior to adjournment of the meeting.

Community Day Program Planned

The Church Women United will observe World Community Day Nov. 1 with a meeting in Trinity Presbyterian Church. The executive board will meet at 9:30 a.m., prior to the general meeting at 10:30 a.m.

The Rev. Richard Schmidt, assisted by Roosevelt Campbell, will present the program. There will be a covered dish luncheon.

Connecticut Oyster Industry Reviving

MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — Connecticut's oyster industry, which lay dormant for years because of badly polluted waters, is showing new life signs which mean more jobs and a boost for the state economy, a state official reports.

The industry began dwindling in the late 1930s "when the state became industrialized. The state was growing by leaps and bounds and when it did grow that fast, we put more effluents into the waters," said John Baker, director of the state Agriculture Department's aquaculture division.

Sulfuric acid and other contaminants from industrial waste killed off seed oysters in beds near the shores, making it virtually impossible to support the industry, he said.

New technology and new ideas have been developed, he said, with the advent of the state Department of Environmental Protection so that the harmful effluents are "not as harmful."

Almost 100 persons are curently licensed by the state to harvest seed oysters which, in turn, are sold to commercial firms which plant them in their own beds until they mature in 4 to 5 years.

Between September and December 1973, Baker revealed, the harvesters "took 80,000 bushels of oyster seed out of the Housatonic River. . .one of the biggest takes on the natural beds."

Heller Admits He's Slow Writer

By EVE SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Heller admits he is a slow writer.

After all, it took him eight years to finish his first book, "Catch 22," and 14 more to produce his second, "Something Happened."

When literary critics wrote about one-book novelists and writers with second novel difficulties, they always mentioned Heller — among others — as an example. He says that got to be a little irritating.

"I wanted to call them up and say, 'Hey! I'm working! I work as rapidly as I can. But I recognized regretfully about halfway through "Catch 22" that I'm a slow writer. The fact that there was a large interval between books did not disturb me. I was absorbed in my work."

Boyish Appearance

Boyish in turtleneck sweater and striped jacket despite his 50 years, Heller leaned back in a chair at his publisher's office and shook his mop of unruly gray-blond curls. He pronounced himself "happy as a clam" about early reviews of his new book.

Critics so far are generally favorable in reviews of "Something Happened," perhaps in part because many of them dismissed "Catch 22" as a work of little consequence back in 1961. Heller's novel has become a celebrated World War II story; eight million copies have been sold around the world and the title has become a part of everyday language.

"Just the other day I got a letter from three or four guys aboard a destroyer who had just read the book for the first time. I've heard from a lot of servicemen who identified with it, and I answer their letters, but I would say the success of the book exceeded my most extravagant daydreams," Heller said.

New Book Different

Heller's new book is completely different from tales of wartime absurdity. It tackles the life, loves and work of Bob Slocum, middle-management executive in a New York company. Most of the action takes place inside Slocum's head.

Something has happened to make him what he is — efficient but afraid, loving his family and his sometime-mistress but unable to express that love. Instead he worries about his job — he is about to be promoted, he wants to be promoted, but he doesn't want to fire Andy Kagle, the man he will replace.

And, at the end of the book something has happened. Slocum has changed, has been promoted and everyone says he is doing well. But is he? Is his life empty? Heller leaves the question nagging at the reader.

Meticulous concentration on style and form characterize Heller's writing. He writes in longhand, usually from three to five pages a day, which he then edits, polishes and concentrates into one typewritten page.

Jots Down Notes

"Then I think about it all the time: what I'll write next or in the future. I jot down notes on cards I carry with me.

"I put a lot of thought into this book, into every sentence, every paragraph. I like to tell a story not as a story, but in various episodes. It requires a lot of work to change technique. I write with as much intelligence as I can — intelligence a reader can recognize as having meaning," Heller added.

When Heller isn't writing or thinking about writing, he teaches creative writing at New York's City College. It is more, he says, than a substitute for working.

"Ideally there are 12 students in a class. I have to keep reminding myself that they are very young. Those enrolled in my classes work very, very hard, although some are more gifted than others. And many of them have part-time jobs.

"Even young writers have problems, periods of fatigue and writer's block. I try to explain to them that everything they read on the printed page didn't come to that author that way, quickly, the way it reads. It just isn't true," Heller said.

He added that he is an accessible person. If a student wants to meet him or interview him for a term paper, he takes the student to lunch.

"Bertrand Russell did that for me once. I'm not as hospitable as he was, but I think it's a good idea," Heller said.

He tries to read the new novelists and his contemporaries who "seem to have sensibilities that harmonize with my own. And he is reading almost all of Dickens.

"Television, the automobile and the jet airplane, along with night baseball and the telephone, interfere with reading and writing. One needs a lot of time and patience for Dickens. He can't be skimmed. I always set aside an hour an evening to read purely for pleasure, and the past few weeks it has been 'Bleak House.' "

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., Heller was a B25 bombardier during World War II, as was "Catch 22" character Yossarian. He came home from war to go to college, graduate Phi Beta Kappa from New York University and get his master's degree in American literature from Columbia University.

He has been married 29 years to the same woman. "We've outgrown our self-consciousness about it. We're no longer apologetic that we like being married to each other," Heller said.

They have a daughter 22 and a son 18, and live in Manhattan.

Now that "Something Happened" is being greeted as the publishing event of the year, will Heller begin a new novel?

"I won't begin another book until I have a good idea to write about," he said firmly. "It would come to me, and then I'll work on it as rapidly as I can."

Copying Machines Sometimes Placed In Odd Locations

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Copying machines are as familiar in the modern office as water coolers. Sometimes, however, they are placed in odd locations and some service representatives at Xerox Corp. have found their job more than routine.

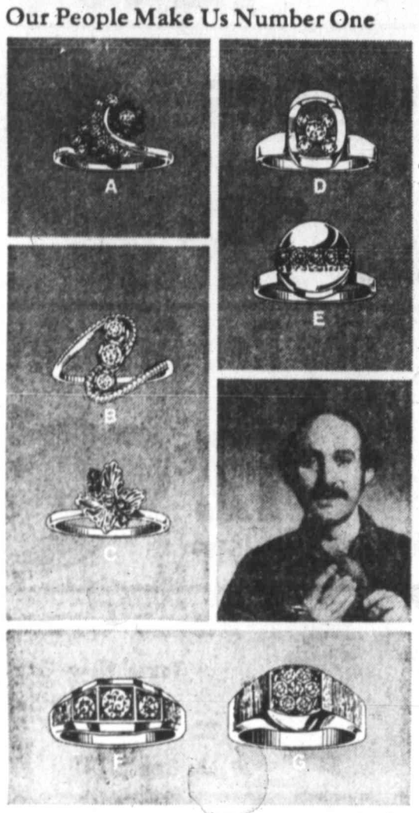

One man answers service calls for a desktop copier installed in the ladies' room at an Indiana steel mill. A secretary makes sure the coast is clear. She hangs a "do not disturb" sign on the door while the service representative is checking the machine.

Another technician services a copier at a nudist camp in rural Indiana. He wears a business suit and a red face. One of the nudists said that he walks through their camp like a streaker in reverse.

Pollution Rules Puts Builders, EPA On Collision Course

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A new rule that will make automobile exhaust pollution a factor in construction planning has put the state's builders and developers on a collision course with the Environmental Protection Agency, a Legislative committee was told Wednesday.

New regulations due to go into effect Jan. 1 will require EPA approval for any new construction project that can accommodate 1,000 or more cars or any highway project that serves 20,000 or more vehicles.

The new rule also requires an EPA permit for any expansion project involving 500 or more automobiles.

The Texas House Land Use Study Committee has been holding a series of public hearings on the issue around the state.

State Rep. Ray Hutchison of Dallas, vice chairman of the committee, said the panel has been considering the possibility of setting up state guidelines for automobile emission control in construction planning as an alternative to the EPA regulations.

The majority of those who testified before the committee at the Inn of the Six Flags said they were against "adding to the bureaucracy" of the program through further state controls, however.

Eugene Robbins, president of the Texas Good Roads Assn., predicted that Congress will restrict the EPA from enforcing the new regulations.

Bill Introduced

U.S. Rep. Bob Casey of Houston has introduced a bill that would withdraw enforcement power for the regulations from the EPA, Robbins said.

"There's no question that they (EPA officials) are going beyond their congressional authority," Robbins said. "Congress should prohibit the EPA from exercising this control."

While he predicted that Congress will censure the agency, Robbins added, "I don't believe it will happen until the regulations are put into effect Jan. 1 and people are exposed to them."

Dave Fox, president of Fox & Jacobs, Inc., urged the legislative panel to have the state attorney general seek and injunction to halt enforcement of the new indirect emissions regulations.

Fox claimed the rules seek to deal with automobile emission problems that won't be problems by 1980.

"I would hate to see us try to comply with these regulations that are so questionable," he said.

Industry Surprised

Fox said impending enforcement of the new regulations caught the building industry by surprise.

"I only found out about it 60 days ago," he said.

Hutchison and others on the committee expressed concern that the pollution regulation could impede planning of large developments and hamstring the building and real estate industry.

"The impasse does predate construction and gets involved in the real estate market itself," he said.

Hutchison said developers might be reluctant to purchase property in a community that already had reached its emissions quota under the EPA rule.

Others claimed the rules could have the effect of prohibiting shopping centers, parking garages and other large developments in certain areas.

"We won't realize the full effect of this (the regulation) until people want to go shop and they can't go shop . . . or until they put up a barricade and say no more cars," Fox said. "You have to hit them over the head with a sledge hammer to get their attention."

HOLT, BULLOCK, GRANBERRY CAMPAIGNING—

Challengers Say Two Incumbent State Officials Are Costing Texas Millions

By The Associated Press

Two incumbent state officials are costing Texas millions of dollars, their political challengers have charged.

Republican Bob Holt, candidate for treasurer, estimated that State Treasurer Jesse James is costing Texas taxpayers about $250 million by not investing the state funds through modern money management techniques.

"I want him to tell the taxpayers of Texas why he earned less than one per cent on our total state revenues of more than $7.4 billion while the state of New York earned 4.2 per cent on its total public revenues," Holt said at a news conference in Austin. He said the state could have earned $300 million last year.

James said Monday that his department earned $51.6 million in interest paid on state deposits in 1,200 Texas banks in the past 12 months.

Bullock Campaigns

At campaign stops in Wichita Falls and Lubbock, Bob Bullock, Democratic candidate for comptroller, asserted that Texas is losing millions of dollars by failure to audit large out-of-state companies doing business in this state.

Bullock said the comptroller's office presently audits out-of-state corporations only "when they smell a rat" and such companies otherwise go unquestioned.

Out-of-state corporations account for half of all sales taxes remitted and represent 30 per cent of the largest 1,100 sales tax reports filed in the state, he said.

Bullock said all major state taxes, including sales taxes, franchises, oil and gas production and motor fuels, should be subject to out-of-state audits.

Granberry Speaks

In Houston, Jim Granberry, Republican gubernatorial candidate, reminded Texas voters that they will be selecting a governor for four years instead of two.

"I charge every voter to consider carefully this historical fact when they examine the two years of the do-nothing administration of Dolph Briscoe," he said.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, seeking re-election as Democrat candidate, remained in Uvalde where his mother, Mrs. Dolph Briscoe Sr., 86, is in critical condition at a hospital. Earlier this week the governor cancelled an 11-city campaign sweep to be near his mother.

In Houston, American Party gubernatorial candidate Sam McDonnell told a group he was "running a poor boy campaign to upset the establishment."

McDonnell declared his opponents have not discussed the "real issue" of the campaign, which he said is the growing power of the federal government.

Democrat Making Up Lost Ground In Utah Campaign

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Most top Utah Democrats didn't want Rep. Wayne Owens to run for the Senate this year. After his role in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment investigation, it looked like they were right.

But as Nov. 5 nears, Owens appears to have made up the ground he lost in mid-summer. His race against Republican Mayor Jake Garn of Salt Lake City is one of the nation's closest Senate contests.

One poll, which showed Owens 10 points down in mid-August after he had led in earlier surveys, now puts the 37-year-old liberal congressman one point ahead of his 42-year-old rival for the seat held for 24 years by retiring GOP Sen. Wallace F. Bennett.

An Owens victory would give the Democrats both Senate seats in this once heavily Republican state. Utah also has a Democratic governor and two Democratic House members.

Garn, who will become president of the National League of Cities if he loses the Senate election, looks to a Nov. 2 visit by President Ford for a last-minute boost. Like many Republican candidates, however, he has opposed Ford's 5 per cent surtax plan.

Moreover, there is little evidence Utah voters are impressed by presidential endorsements.

In 1970, the polls indicated a similarly tight race between Democratic Sen. Frank E. Moss and Republican challenger Lawrence Burton. Then-President Richard M. Nixon came to the state in the final days to help Burton, but Moss won by a surprisingly wide margin.

Owens, in only his first House term, faced resistance from Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, Moss and the state Democratic chairman when he sought Senate nomination. He won the nomination in July at a bitter state convention, when polls showed him well ahead of Garn.

When he dropped behind the mayor a month later, Owens blamed it on his committee vote to impeach Nixon. Some critics suggested that the congressmen was less impressive than other committee members during the nationally televised proceedings.

His campaign apparently faltering, Owens took the offensive with a brochure, newspaper ads and radio-television commercials that attacked Garn and accused him of having a conservative, do-nothing record.

The mayor is continuing to avoid attacks on Owens, running his own "positive campaign."

Owens' most publicized backer is actor Robert Redford, who lives in Utah. Redford and singer John Denver have sponsored fund-raisers for Owens, who has also benefited from parties given by top Democrats in Washington.

Garn has said he would not accept large individual contributions but has received several $5,000 "loans" from supporters. The money was lent with the understanding the contributor would then raise that amount to repay the loan.

Former Beatle Says Group Will Not Play Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Beatle George Harrison says the British rock group will never get back together. "The only way it will happen is if we're all broke," he says.

Harrison, announcing his first U.S.-Canadian concert tour in eight years, said Wednesday that the Beatles belong in the past.

"Having played with other musicians, I don't even think the Beatles were that good," said the mustachioed Harrison, 31.

The four musicians — Harrison, John Lennon, Ringo Starr and Paul McCartney — officially disbanded the Beatles in 1970.

Action Will Be In Pacific, Asia For Long Time To Come, Admiral Tells Downtown Lions Club

Americans must look west toward the Pacific and Asia because this is where the action will be for a long time to come, members of the Midland Downtown Lions Club were told Wednesday noon at their meeting in the American Legion Hall.

The speaker was Adm. Noel Gayler, commander in chief Pacific, who is in Midland to deliver a series of addresses and to visit friends. He was introduced by Carlton Beal, a long-time friend. The admiral and his wife are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Beal during their Midland visit.

Gayler Tuesday night addressed a meeting of the Permian Basin Section, Society of Petroleum Engineers, AIME, at Ranchland Hill Country Club. Today noon, he was the speaker at the meeting of the Downtown Rotary Club, also in the American Legion Hall. The Gaylers will depart tonight for Albuquerque, N.M.

The admiral, in his Wednesday noon address, said the nation's security is important to all Americans, who should pay attention to what is going on in the world today.

Pointing to the fact that two-thirds of the human race live in Asia, Adm. Gayler stressed the fact that change — economic, social and political — is taking place there today. He said that people in Asia now are tuned in to the world and they are seeing for the first time what the rest of the world has.

"And they want some it," the speaker declared. "The prospect of violent change becomes apparent because of what the people want."

Four great powers — Russia, China, Japan and the United States — are in competition in Asia, Gayler explained, and it is noteworthy that nationalism is rampant throughout the countries of Asia today. Although he does not look for war with Russia, he said the overall situation must be handled with caution.

He pointed to Russia's great resources and enormous rearmament program and the build-up of its military strength in Asia. The Russian navy, with its tremendous expansion, is designed to contest control of the seas with the United States.

"Our presence stabilizes conditions in the East," the admiral said, "despite the fact that our military forces are stretched pretty thin."

He cited the dire consequences of what would happen to the United States if it should be cut off from its allies through loss of control of the high seas.

"We cannot let another country become the dominating force in Asia," Gayler said.

"Japan is the best and most constant ally we have out there," he declared. "Japan, Korea and The Philippines constitute our forward bases in Asia."

Fears of possible cuts in appropriations for the military in Asia were cited by the speaker, who said that any such reduction would reduce this nation's position of power in a vast expanse of territory where sealift and airlift are so important.

"We have 10 years of catch-up ball to play in Asia," he said, "and this takes a lot of resources and a lot of energy.

"We must show beyond doubt that we will not give up the Indian Ocean or the Pacific by default," the much decorated combat fighter pilot of World War II declared.

Gayler stressed the fact that the United States must wind-down wars, maintain balanced forces and keep a forward-basing structure of troops, ships and planes in the Pacific.

He expressed the belief that defense today is not taking a disproportionate share of the nation's budget and cited figures to prove his point.

He emphasized the fact that without security the United States can have nothing else.

Sugar Firm's Profits Soar

By The Associated Press

Great Western United Corp. says soaring sugar prices fueled a 1,200 per cent jump in the corporation's after-tax profits during the third quarter of this year.

Net income for the three month period ended Sept. 30 increased to $20.96 million, or $9.23 a share. That compares with $1.6 million, or 3 cents a share, earned in the same period in 1973. The corporation is the parent firm of Great Western Sugar Co., the nation's largest beet sugar processor.

The twelve-fold increase in Great Western United's profits was generated by sales that doubled from $91.5 million last year to $180 million.

In another development in the sugar industry Wednesday, SuCrest Corp.'s sweetener division said it will raise its wholesale price for industrial sugar by $4.95 per hundred pounds, effective at the close of business Friday.

The increase will apply to the Baltimore-Washington, New York-Philadelphia and mid-Central regions.

At Great Western's Denver headquarters, board Chairman Robert G. Everett credited the sharp boost in earnings to the continuing high level of sugar prices.

In slightly more than a year, the supermarket price of a five pound bag of sugar has leaped from 79 cents to as much as $2.50 in some parts of the nation.

Great Western Sugar's operating profit before taxes and administrative costs rose to $44.67 million from $4.65 million in the 1973 period. Sales went to $168.9 million from $76.7 million a year ago.

China May Be Preparing For Another Nuclear Weapons Test In Atmosphere

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China may be preparing for a new nuclear weapons test in the atmosphere, U.S. intelligence sources report.

It would be the second such blast this year and China's 17th since it started testing ten years ago.

Intelligence sources said the movement of special equipment and other activity normally associated with nuclear testing has been detected at the Lop Nor test center in northwest China.

Satellites Used

They did not say how this activity was detected, but it is known that the United States keeps watch on developments in China by means of reconnaissance satellites.

U.S. experts said that China has hydrogen bombs with the blast equivalent of three million tons of TNT and a variety of smaller tactical nuclear weapons that could be carried by missiles and aircraft.

During the most recent Chinese test last June 17, a device with a blast force of more than 500,000 tons of TNT was dropped from the IL28 medium bomber more than a mile above Lop Nor, U.S. intelligence sources said.

Program Successful

After that test, Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger said it reflected "the slow-paced Chinese program" which he described as moderately successful.

Radioactive fallout has drifted over Japan and the United States after past tests.

Defense officials told Congress last February that China has deployed medium and intermediate-range ballistic missiles. These weapons, with reaches from 600 to about 1,700 miles, could hit targets in the eastern part of the Soviet Union and many areas of Asia.

Arabs Okay Militant Stand For Summit Meet Saturday

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Arab foreign ministers have approved a militant Syrian resolution as the basic working document for the Arab summit meeting opening Saturday.

But Egypt indicated that it would still go along with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's step-by-step approach toward an Arab-Israeli settlement.

Demand Endorsed

Speaking in Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat endorsed the Syrian demand for Israeli withdrawal from all Arab lands occupied in the 1967 war and said Egypt would permit no bargaining over the right of the Palestinians to self-determination.

"But between these two principles it is our right to preserve and maintain freedom of movement, and we do hope this stand will be adopted by our brothers. These two positions are not open to discussion," he told the Egyptian People's Assembly.

Proposal Approved

Kissinger, during his recent visit to the Middle East, won Sadat's approval for his proposal that the Arabs and Israel try for a gradual advance toward a peace settlement. The American secretary urged that the next step be separate negotiations between Israel and Egypt, Syria and Jordan for another Israeli withdrawal from some of the occupied territory.

The draft resolution which Syrian Foreign Minister Abdelhalim Khaddam put before the other Arab foreign ministers demanded total Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories and said that separate peace talks were an Israeli device to disrupt Arab solidarity.

An eight-member committee debated the resolution behind closed doors all day Wednesday. Authoritative sources said Algeria and the Palestine Liberation Organization sided with Syria; Egypt, Jordan and Saudi Arabia tried to modify the draft's hard line with amendments, and Kuwait and Morocco leaned toward the moderates.

A similar moderate-militant split was reported in a later meeting of the full 21-member Arab League Ministerial Council. But officials pointed out that any resolutions adopted by the summit conference must be approved by consensus rather than majority vote.

The Syrian proposal also urged formal Arab recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization's claim to the West Bank of the Jordan River, which Israel took from Jordan in the 1967 war.

This is vigorously opposed by King Hussein of Jordan, who has warned he will boycott further peace moves if the summit backs the PLO's territorial claims. The moderates on the eight-nation committee were also trying to resolve this dispute.

Odessa Residents Celebrate 'Helen And George Mahon Day'

ODESSA — Odessa rolled out the red carpet Wednesday for Rep. and Mrs. George Mahon, in the city to open a Presidential Museum exhibit, hold a news conference and receive honors from numerous organizations.

While in Odessa, the 19th District U.S. representative announced in a news conference at the Presidential Museum he would introduce U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as a Democratic presidential candidate in the 1976 election.

Officially dubbed "Helen and George Mahon Day," the occasion began when the Mahons opened the exhibit, "Foreign Countries Honor Our President," co-sponsored by the Odessa chamber of commerce, University of Texas of the Permian Basin and Presidential Museum.

The exhibit contains items from more than 50 countries which have honored U.S. presidents. Rep. Mahon was instrumental in securing information for the new exhibit.

During his news conference, Mahon also said he would vote for a surcharge on a scale higher than the proposed $15,000 yearly income. He said he had heard no favorable comments on the prospect of a surcharge but that was "not surprising in this time of inflation."

His noon address at a civic club luncheon included reference to whether the U.S. could remain a world power, saying "it all depends."

He told the capacity audience at the Inn of the Golden West "the greatest nation on earth, or that has ever been on earth, is beginning to have doubts about itself, and there is more than a fragment of evidence as basis for these doubts."

The civic luncheon program also included presentation to the Mahons from UTPB, Odessa Arts and Humanities Council, Odessa Classroom Teachers Association and the Odessa College Bicentennial Museum.

Mrs. Mahon was named an honorary "Lady of Edenton," symbolizing the first political act of the American colonial women.

Two players representing the Globe of the Great Southwest performed a scene from "Romeo and Juliet" substituting the names "George and Helen."

Nixon Back In Hospital, Facing Possible Surgery

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, facing possible surgery, has re-entered the hospital here because home treatment for his phlebitis condition proved ineffective, his doctor says.

Nixon limped slightly but was unassisted as he walked through a rear service entrance to be admitted Wednesday night to Memorial Hospital Medical Center for the second time in three weeks. A spokesman for the hospital in this coastal city bordering Los Angeles said the former president was expected to be released by the end of the week.

Nixon apparently made the 50-mile trip from his San Clemente home to the hospital by car.

No Announcement

There had been no advance announcement that he was returning to the hospital. Jack Weiblen, hospital vice president, said Nixon was brought in after dark to reduce publicity.

"He covets his privacy," Weiblen said of Nixon, who resigned as president last Aug. 9.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's longtime personal physician, said Nixon was taken to the hospital after anticoagulent drugs proved ineffective in treating inflamed veins in Nixon's left leg.

"For the past few days oral anticoagulation medication has been inadequate," Lungren said in a statement to newsmen late Wednesday night.

He said a diagnostic radiology test called a venogram had been performed on the 61-year-old former president after his arrival and showed a "near total occlusion or blockage of blood flow" in the area of Nixon's left thigh.

Lungren noted that several blood clots were found in the swollen leg, but he added that "these clots could be old or fresh."

Medication Given

Nixon received anticoagulents Coumadin orally and heparin intravenously during his first hospital stay, 12 days ending Oct. 4. But only Coumadin had been prescribed for him while he was convalescing at his oceanfront villa at San Clemente.

"If we're not capable of proving adequate prophylactic anticoagulation by oral Coumadin, then the possibility of surgical intervention must be considered," said Lungren. He has treated Nixon since 1952.

Lungren gave no indication what the surgery would involve or when it would be performed if results from Nixon's current hospitalization prove unsatisfactory. Other medical spokesmen were not immediately available to comment on the nature of such surgery.

During Nixon's recent hospitalization, a blood clot caused by the phlebitis moved from his left thigh, through his heart and lodged in his right lung. The decision to discharge Nixon from the hospital Oct. 4 was taken after Lungren determined the clot no longer posed a serious danger.

Lungren performed a lung scan on Nixon Wednesday night and concluded that the right lung was stable and "there was no evidence of any new involvement."

Treatment of the swollen left leg has delayed Nixon's testimony at the Watergate trial in Washington. He has been subpoenaed as a witness for both the defense and prosecution.

Aid To Pan Am Promised

HOUSTON (AP) — Congress is going to do its best to help solve the problems of Pan American World Airways, U.S. Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., has promised.

"I for one—and I think I can speak for my colleagues—are not going to let a great pioneer airway suffer or go down," Casey said Wednesday night.

Casey spoke at a reception sponsored by the Support Pan Am Committee which said the airline has lost $170 million since 1970.

Turned down by the Ford administration for a $10.2 million a month federal subsidy, the airline now is seeking passage of legislation which it said encourages fair competition but does not provide a subsidy.

Some 200 persons at the receptions saw a slide presentation of the company's problems.

The employes committee claims Pan Am's problems have grown as the federal government split its overseas routes among more and more carriers.

The committee said other factors stem from the airline having to buy most of its fuel overseas at uncontrolled prices and that it is losing money carrying U.S. mail at less than one fifth the price this country pays to foreign airlines.

U.S. Reps. Barbara Jordan and Bob Eckhardt, also Democrats, attended the reception but promised the Pan Am employes only understanding.

Comic Book Used As Learning Aid

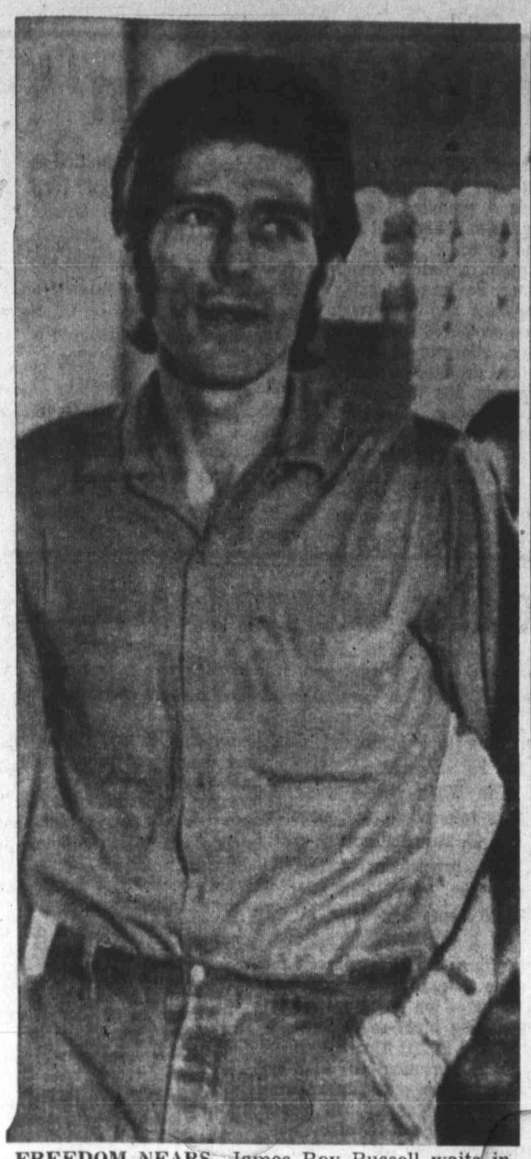

NEW YORK (AP) — The comic book has joined the more serious text books of education to help developing readers.

"The Electric Company," television's contribution to easing education's reading crisis, has published "Spidey Super Stories," a new four-color comic starring the super-hero "Spider-Man" as an education device.

While not the first time the comics have been used as an educational tool, Spider-Man's adventures for the Electric Company are believed to be the first in which educational researchers have applied their knowledge of the way in which young children — particularly beginning readers — approach the printed comic book page.

Simon Aide Says Nation Heading For Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation is headed toward a recession and the Ford administration might as well admit it, says an administration economics adviser.

"Let's call a spade a spade," said Paul W. McCracken in a telephone interview Wednesday. "I think we are probably in the early stages of what could turn out to be a V type recession."

Brief Recession

That means a recession which is sharp but brief and looks like a "V" on a graph, in contrast to prolonged declines in economic activity, McCracken explained. He indicated he thought the worst would be over by mid-1975.

McCracken said unemployment could approach 7 per cent and the decline in economic output about 4 per cent next year. Another administration economic adviser, L. William Seidman, said his best guess on unemployment would be about 6.5 per cent.

McCracken, a former chairman of former President Richard M. Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, now serves as a part-time consultant to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon. He also recently was named by President Ford to help compile his new economic program after the economic summit meetings.

While McCracken said it was a moot point to argue whether the economy is in a recession, as President Ford has claimed it is not, "my judgment is that we're probably moving into one."

McCracken, a professor of economics at the University of Michigan, does not rank as an official administration spokesman, and the administration continues to shy away from describing the current economic condition as a recession.

Seidman said in a separate meeting with newsmen Wednesday that it is hard to put a label on the economy at the present time. For some industries, such as furniture and steel, he said there is no recession. For housing, he said there is a deep recession.

No. 1 Enemy

"Inflation certainly is the No. 1 enemy, but stagflation is right behind it," said Seidman. "It's better to say we have two problems."

Stagflation is a term currently being used to describe a condition of economic stagnation and inflation. "The current lack of growth in the economy is a problem," said Seidman.

McCracken said his forecast of recession does not mean he is criticizing Ford's economic advisers, who he said are "doing an excellent job." He said he agrees with the administration's economic policies, including the 5 per cent income surtax proposal, but added he does favor a further easing of the tight money policies of the independent Federal Reserve Board.

Father Of Texas Nomad Family Linked To Murders Sentenced In Store Robbery

DALLAS (AP) — The father of a Texas nomad family linked to a number of murders across the country has been sentenced to life in prison in connection with a grocery store robbery here.

Sherman Ramon McCrary, 48, a Byars, Okla. native who moved to Dallas in 1943, was assessed a life sentence Wednesday in Dallas County Criminal District Court.

The six-man, six-woman jury deliberated about a half hour on the sentence for McCrary, who had been indicted as an habitual offender.

Earlier, the jury deliberated 12 minutes before finding him guilty in the Feb. 2, 1972 robbery.

Carl Taylor, 36, McCrary's son-in-law, was sentenced to life imprisonment last May in connection with the same robbery.

McCrary has been sentenced to a 30-year term in Colorado for kidnaping, a life term in Colorado for murder, and a five-to-life term in California for robbery.

Mr. and Mrs. McCrary, their son Danny, their daughter Ginger, and Taylor are believed to be involved in a string of 22 slayings from Florida to Oregon.

McCrary has been convicted or indicted for eight murders. His son is serving a life sentence in the Oct. 17, 1971 abduction-slaying of Jena Covey of Mesquite.

Justice Department Prepares To Fight Prosecution Of Jacobsen

DALLAS (AP) — Justice Department officials today prepared to fight a federal judge's order that could affect their deal to have milk lobbyist Jake Jacobsen testify against former Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

The order was issued Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Hill who said that Jacobsen's immunity-for-testimony deal in the Connally case did not absolve him of a crime in Texas. Hill then appointed three Texas prosecutors to try Jacobsen in the misapplication of $825,000 in funds belonging to a San Angelo savings and loan Association.

The Justice Department had agreed with Jacobsen to drop the San Angelo charges in exchange for Jacobsen's testimony in the bribery and conspiracy case against Connally. Jacobsen pleaded guilty to a bribery charge in Washington.

The Justice Department claims that it was Jacobsen who gave Connally illegal contributions totaling $10,000 for his help in getting government subsidies for the milk industry. The contributions reportedly came from Associated Milk Producers Inc., a Texas-based milk cooperative for which Jacobsen worked as a lobbyist.

U.S. Atty. Frank McCown said Wednesday that the Justice Department would take "appropriate affirmative action" to protect its bargain with Jacobsen. He indicated that the judge's order appointing the prosecutors was "without precedent so we have to study it to see what action we will take."

Dallas Men Appointed

He said he expected to ask the federal appeals court to overturn the action, but added he did not know whether it would be in the form of a direct appeal or some type of writ.

The three men appointed by Hill are Dallas attorneys. They are Wayne O. Woodruff and Patrick Higginbotham who were named prosecutors, and Andrew Barr who was chosen as their first assistant.

The three said they will begin a study of the case immediately. "The court has asked our assistance as attorneys to serve as special prosecutors in this matter and in response to our duty as officers of the court we have accepted this responsibility," they said in a joint statement.

Hill said the special prosecutors were appointed "in order to fulfill and protect the public's interest in vigorous prosecution of such (the San Angelo case) an indictment."

He said the prosecutors will have "full authority to control the course of investigation and litigation relating to the offense charged . . . and to handle all aspects of the case to the same extent as a United States attorney."

Official Criticized

Hill, who earlier refused to drop the misapplication charges against Jacobsen, as requested by the Justice Department, had criticized government officials for making the leniency deal with Jacobsen. Hill said the government had made a promise it could not keep and said his court was not bound by it.

Ray Cowan, a former Jacobsen partner, has pleaded guilty in the savings and loan case. He will be sentenced later.

Jacobsen, informed of Judge Hill's order, declined to make any comments. His Washington attorney, Charles McNeilis, said Jacobsen would testify according to his agreement with federal prosecutors. "I feel sooner or later the executive end of this agreement will be fully accomplished," he said.

Woodruff, 54, was admitted to the Texas Bar in 1947 and served as an assistant district attorney from 1948 to 1952. He and Barr are affiliated with the firm of Locke, Purnell, Boren, Laney and Neely.

Higginbotham, 35, has been a trial attorney with the firm of Coke & Coke for about 10 years. He also has lectured at Southern Methodist University Law School on federal litigation.

Barr, 34, was a former assistant U.S. attorney in Dallas from May 1967 to July 1973.

HISTORIC CHURCH BURNS — Firemen pour water on the burning Preston Methodist Episcopal Church, which was set ablaze Wednesday. Two small boys admitted setting the blaze, which was fought by 125 firemen and 35 pieces of equipment. The historic, 87-year-old structure, which serves a bilingual part of Detroit, was destroyed by the flames. (AP Wirephoto.)

Blaze Destroys Historic Church

DETROIT (AP) — Parishioners wept and the pastor declared, "It's totally gone, totally gone," as flames roared through the old red brick church.

Police said two boys, aged 7 and 9, admitted setting a fire that destroyed the Preston Methodist Episcopal Church in the center of the city's Latin-American community Wednesday.

Dr. Charles Swan, pastor of the 87-year-old church, said his bilingual congregation of about 100 recently raised $7,000 for a new roof for the church.

He said headphones had just been installed in pews so that Spanish-speaking parishioners could listen to an instant translation of his sermons.

"I couldn't feel worse if it had been my own house," cried Mrs. Bessie Fox, who lives a few doors away from the church. "What are we going to do?"

Mrs. Beatrice Rayner, who was married in the church 37 years ago, said, "I have no idea what we're going to do Sunday. We're all sick about it."

Some 125 firefighters and 35 pieces of equipment were unable to save the building from the five-alarm blaze that authorities say was started in the basement by two boys too young to prosecute.

Neighbors said they saw the two boys run from the unoccupied church after the blaze broke out. The boys later confessed to setting the fire. One of the children suffered minor burns on his hands, witnesses said.

Fire officials said the boys' names would not be revealed because of their ages. Authorities said they weren't sure what would be done with the children.

The Rev. Dr. Swan said after learning the cause of the fire: "The schools only have the kids so many hours of the day and then the parents must take care of them, or they can burn a church or a civilization."

Mitchell's Defense Lawyer Focuses On Differences In Dean Testimony

Dean Wednesday, Hundley sought to portray the former White House counsel as ready to sacrifice anyone to save his own skin when the Watergate cover-up began unraveling.

"John Mitchell never asked you to bite the bullet for him," Hundley said to Dean during cross-examination on Wednesday.

Hundley tried to get Dean to admit that he had tried to get Mitchell to step forward to take responsibility for the Watergate break-in.

"You didn't have any information that Mr. Mitchell was responsible for the bugging," Hundley told the former White House counsel. "Yet you joined in a plan to have him step forward because that would save you."

Leadoff Witness

Hundley was the second defense lawyer to cross-examine Dean, the leadoff government witness in the trial of five former Nixon administration and campaign aides accused of conspiring to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

John J. Wilson, lawyer for H. R. Haldeman, former White House staff chief, led off the cross-examination and had Dean relate how he took $4,850 for his honeymoon from a $350,000 cash fund kept by Haldeman in the White House.

"Didn't it lay on your conscience at all that you spent money that didn't belong to you?" Wilson asked.

"I was prepared to account for it at any time I was asked to," replied Dean.

Heated Exchange

But the most heated exchange during Wilson's cross examination was not with Dean but with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

At one point the 73-year-old attorney accused Sirica, an old friend, of being "palpably unfair."

"Now listen, Mr. Wilson, you know me, you've known me for years," the judge replied, pointing his finger at the short, balding lawyer. "I'm as much interested in getting the truth out as you are."

At issue was whether tapes of conversations about which Dean's memory was unclear would be played for the jury.

Prosecutor James F. Neal accused Wilson of trying to imply that "I deliberately refused to play a tape because I didn't like its contents."

The White House conversations referred to took place on Feb. 27, 28 and March 13, 1973.

The prosecutors agreed to play the tapes. But after a bench conference later in the day, it was decided that playing them would be put off for some time, if not indefinitely.

Part of the procedure for introducing tapes as evidence at the trial is that a participant in the conversation or someone accepted as authoritative can identify the voices and relate the substance of the discussion. Dean has been used for that so far.

Colson Role Questioned

Hundley asked Dean a number of questions about the role of Charles W. Colson, former White House special counsel, in trying to get Mitchell to take the blame for the break-in.

He drew from Dean testimony that it was Colson who had the closest relationship to E. Howard Hunt Jr., one of the break-in defendants, and that it also was Colson who had prodded campaign officials to utilize Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy, whose political intelligence plan led to the break-in.

Originally, Colson was one of the cover-up defendants. Charges against him were dropped after he pleaded guilty to a charge in another Watergate-related case.

Probe—

week, according to DiMaio.

"We need more background on the circumstances leading to the death to solve the problem of the manner of death," DiMaio said.

Asked whether his probe was centering on a possible link between the company investigation and the death of Gravitt, DiMaio replied "yes" and declined to elaborate.

He said he found no evidence of any obvious medical problem such as a brain tumor that would have caused Gravitt to black out or collapse while his car motor was operating.

Police Not Called

Police were not called to the Gravitt home when he was found by his wife. Investigators contacted Presbyterian Hospital for their initial information.

Gravitt was found by fire department ambulance attendants beside his car where his wife said she discovered him at 11:15 a.m.

Gravitt, a civic leader with ties to more than a dozen organizations, came to Dallas in 1973 from San Antonio and assumed control of Southwestern Bell's Texas operations.

Southwestern Bell serves Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and parts of Kansas.

is expected to follow Wednesday's high of 69. The overnight low dipped to 59 degrees, with tonight's low anticipated in the middle 50s.

A stationary weather front stretching down the east side of New Mexico through the El Paso area triggered the rainfall, and it was expected to slip toward the east as far as Wichita Falls and Del Rio by this evening.

Heavier showers and thunderstorms were in prospect as the frontal system advanced.

Corpus Christi on the coast and Texarkana in the northeast corner of the state were among the few points where skies were clear in early morning.

Fog plagued the Panhandle-Plains sector, including Dalhart, Amarillo, Childress and Lubbock, according to The Associatad Press.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 50 degrees at Dalhart and 52 at Amarillo and El Paso up to 72 at Brownsville, Galveston and McAllen. Brownsville was the warmest spot in the state Wednesday with a high of 85.

Jury Is Seated In Kent State Trial

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A jury of eight men and four women was seated today in the trial of eight former Ohio National Guardsmen indicted in the 1970 Kent State shootings.

The Guardsmen were indicted March 29 by a federal grand jury which spent nearly three months investigating the May 4, 1970 shootings.

Four students were killed and nine wounded by a 13-second burst of gunfire from National Guard troops during a confrontation with demonstrators protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

The defendants were indicted under federal civil rights statutes. The indictment charged them with wilfully assaulting and intimidating the student demonstrators by firing weapons in their direction and with violating their constitutional rights not to be deprived of liberty without due process of law.

GOP Opponent Criticizes Patman For Blast At Butz

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — Jim Farris, Republican candidate for the 1st U.S. Congressional District, has charged that his opponent, Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., was trying to shift blame from his own failure by calling for the firing of U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz.

Farris said Patman's action Tuesday was a "purely political move" to cover Patman's failure to represent the interests of farmers and ranchers for many years."

"What is really needed is a complete overhaul of the entire Agriculture Department," Farris said. "The former Paris mayor said Butz's removal would be only a partial solution at best.

Farris said 60 per cent of the department's budget and manpower has been diverted into consumer welfare programs, instead of agriculture programs.

Patman sent a telegram to President Ford Tuesday asking that Butz be replaced by "someone more sympathetic to the plight of farmers and ranchers."

Nuclear Violation Charges Heard

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea said today the United States has brought nuclear weapons into South Korea in "flagrant violation of the armistice agreement," and demanded they be removed.

It said if the United States maneuvers to provoke a new Korean war, it "should bear full responsibility for all the consequences arising therefrom."

Chicago Thieves Leave $21 Million

CHICAGO (AP) — Thieves who took almost $4 million from the vault of an armored vehicle company left behind an additional $21 million in cash, probably because they lacked time and manpower to take it all, investigators say.

"They got away with as much as they could in the time they had," Chicago Police Cmdr. Victor Vrdolyak said at a news conference Wednesday. He said the total loss in the weekend theft at the Armored Express Corp. was $3,931,452.

Police confirmed that an Armored Express security guard on duty at the time of the theft was an acquaintance of a man now being sought for questioning in the case. Two other Chicago-area men already have been questioned, but no charges have been brought, police said.

Lone Star To Make More Tubular Steel

DALLAS (AP) — Lone Star Steel Co. said today it will spend $60 million to develop increased production capacity for tubular steel used in the petroleum industry.

Vice President L. D. Webster said the money will be funneled into the company's plant east of here, increasing production 40 per cent. He said the expansion program will become operational in three phases beginning in the last quarter of next year with the final phases to be completed by the end of 1976.

PAINTING REMOVED FROM AUCTION BLOCK — An employe of Sotheby Park Bernet Galleries in New York inspects Braque's still life, "Guitar, Fruit and Pitcher," before the start of Wednesday night's auction there. The painting was removed from the auction block when bidding only reached $270,000. The painting's presale estimate was $400,000 to $500,000. (AP Wirephoto.)

SCHOOL BUS TRAGEDY — A work-train caboose rests atop a school bus Wednesday near Rockmart, Ga. The bus was struck at the crossing by the backing train and carried several hundred feet down the tracks. Seven children were killed and 73 others, including the driver, were injured. (AP Wirephoto.)

7 KILLED, MORE THAN 70 INJURED—

Youngster Says Everybody Started Hollering After Train Hit School Bus

ROCKMART, Ga. (AP) — "Everybody started hollering. Then I busted out a bunch of windows and tried to help others out," said a young passenger in a school bus that was struck by a train. Seven children were killed and more than 70 were injured.

"The bus stopped, and the train was going to let us through, and then the train hit us," said Bobby Duke, a seventh-grader at Rockmart Junior High School. The child in the seat next to Bobby died trying to climb out a window as the bus was dragged down the tracks.

The dead were identified as Neal Williams, 10; Terry Wigley, 6; Lynn Morgan, 6; Chris Holders, 10; Timothy Streetman, 12, Mike Stamps, 15; and his brother, Timothy Stamps, 7.

All but four of the injured children were treated and released from Rockmart-Aragon Hospital. Only three of the 78 passengers apparently escaped injury, a hospital spokesman said.

The bus driver, Billy Kellett, 50, was in shock at the hospital Wednesday night and was unable to describe how the accident occurred, officials said.

William M. Westerman, superintendent of the Georgia Division of the Southern Railway, said a work train was backing up at between 5 and 8 miles an hour when the caboose struck the bus.

The caboose crashed into the bus broadside, flipped it over about 50 feet down from the crossroad and dragged it upside down about 300 feet along the tracks as the children screamed, witnesses said.

Latest Marijuana Raids Net 'Substantial Substance'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — In an international marijuana crossroads where shipments are many times measured by the tons, a federal spokesman says the contraband from the latest narcotics enforcement operation should be called a "substantial seizure."

Federal authorities in the United States and Mexico held on Wednesday 18 persons, two airplanes and more than 10½ tons of marijuana as a result of a set of one-two punch raids on either side of the border.

After dark Tuesday, U.S. authorities struck a ranch near Harper, Tex., in a remote area of the Texas Hill Country northwest of here, arresting three young men and taking 1,300 pounds of marijuana.

About the same time 450 miles away at a ranch near Soto La Maria, Mexico, Mexican authorities gathered up 10 tons of marijuana which was apparently ready for importation into the United States.

If the marijuana from the joint raids were to have reached the street consumer in the United States in the form of a marijuana cigarette, its value could have been in the millions of dollars.

Mexican authorities were quoted here as saying during the raid, an airplane landed on the strip there and it was seized and more persons were arrested. The arrest total in Mexico was 15.

The U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration director in San Antonio, Bill Kline, said an airplane was also seized on the U.S. side but not at the ranch strip near Harper. He would not disclose the location of the plane seizure in the U.S.

"It was a substantial seizure," said Kline, but he said he did not believe it was a record.

He declined to estimate the drug's street value.

However, narcotics sources' estimates of 40 cigarettes per ounce and 50 cents to $1.50 per cigarette in the U.S. would put the ultimate street value of the 21,300 pounds at between $6.8 million and $20.4 million.

Magistrate Joe Leonard of Kerrville, Tex., said Robert Winston De Puy Jr., 31, of Austin, Tex., and two Mexican nationals, Juan Gaitan Mireles, 26, and Martin Moreno Uviado, 25, both of Rancho Lucio Blanco, Mexico, were charged with possession with intent to distribute marijuana as a result of the Texas arrests.

He said the three, who were arraigned Wednesday, were held in lieu of $500,000 bond each.

Kline said De Puy was arrested as he drove a pickup truck out of the ranch and the other two were taken when agents entered the ranch.

USDA Sees Increased Home Canning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Who put eight great tomatoes in that little bitty jar?

The home canner, that's who, forced by a shortage of equipment to stuff as much produce as possible into each container.

Although the canning season has ended for most parts of the United States, the Agriculture Department already is trying to prod manufacturers into increasing production to avoid shortages next fall.

Increased home canning is predicted because of of inflation and President Ford's plea to each citizen to plant a WIN—Whip Inflation Now—garden.

Meanwhile, Americans who didn't can will find the commercially canned vegetables costing more this fall and winter, with some shortages also expected, according to the Agriculture Department.

The department also said that prices of fresh vegetables this fall are higher than last year, primarily because of smaller harvests and higher markups of middlemen.

The figures that canning equipment manufacturers have provided privately to presidential consumer adviser Virginia Knauer show that only half the raw material they need for full production presently is in the industrial pipeline.

Mrs. Knauer's office already has written 20 steel manufacturers to urge increased production by lid-makers. A Knauer aide said this week that the steel companies have yet to respond to the supply queries.

European Institutions Strongly In Favor Of Adding To Investments In American Corporate Securities

NEW YORK (AP) — A survey of European financial institutions that are active investors in U.S. corporate securities suggests they are strongly in favor of adding to their holdings.

The study, by Technimetrics Inc., a financial research organization that supplies data to blue-chip U.S. corporations and institutions, may be somewhat dated, having been completed last April.

Up to that time, however, it was found that 83.3 per cent of all European financial institutions with holdings of $100 million to $500 million of U.S. securities planned to make additional investments by 1977.

Most bullish of all were German, British and Belgian institutions, with Swiss, French and Dutch investors following close behind.

The company maintains that its information was gathered from direct inquiries to European money managers rather than from previously published material, or from government statistics.

Most attractive of all industries, the survey found, was oil. Others mentioned prominently were banking, office equipment, oil service, and medicines.

Conspicuous in their absence from the list of preferred industries were utilities, retail outlets and household products.

Holdings of U.S. securities by European financial institutions amount to about $35 billion, according to Technimetrics, with close to $18 billion of that residing in Switzerland, and $6.8 billion in England.

Other significant holdings were found in France, $3 billion, Scotland, $2.4 billion, Germany and Netherlands, $2 billion.

On a city by city basis, the greatest concentration of U.S. securities was found in Zurich, with $8.3 billion, London, $6.6 billion and Geneva, with $6.2 billion.

The surveys editors commented: "One might compare these numbers with some U.S. cities such as Minneapolis, whose financial institutions hold $9.1 billion in U.S. securities, and Atlanta, with $6.3 billion."

Undercover Narcotics Agent Shot Down

GEORGE WEST, Tex. (AP) — A state narcotics agent doing undercover work was shot and killed near here in South Texas, fellow officers reported today, and two men have been arrested.

A game warden found the body of Patrick A. Randel, 40, and his official car about 2:15 a.m. at a roadside park five miles east of George West, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said. He gave these details:

Randel had arranged to buy narcotics from an underworld source and was last seen alive in the Beeville area about 8 p.m. Wednesday. Subsequently the DPS called for a search in an all points broadcast expressing fear that he had been kidnaped.

The body and car were discovered at a point near the intersection of Texas 9 and 59.

Narcotics agents said the two men in custody were arrested north of Harlingen about 1 a.m. in a car stolen at Austin, and the search for Randel then began. One of the prisoners is 38 years old and the other 41.

The DPS declined to give details of how the two were linked to the case.

Department of Public Safety spokesmen said Randel is the first of its narcotics undercover agents to be killed in line of duty.

The officer was a state trooper before joining the narcotics division.

Survivors are the widow, two sons and a daughter, all of Austin.

Police Seek Woman Who Sold Baby For $5

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Police were looking for a woman who sold an 8-month-old baby boy she claimed was her son for $5.

The baby is in the care of the Children's Aid Society and the woman who bought him Tuesday says she would like to adopt him.

"I fell in love with him," said Katherine Pelletier, 42.

She said her two children, ages 9 and 13, also want to keep him.

Child Sold

A woman claiming to be the infant's mother sold the child on a skid row street for $5.

Mrs. Pelletier and her husband, Charles, 50, were going to a logger's association office Tuesday morning so that Pelletier could sign up for a job when they passed a woman with the baby.

"She looked the typical skid row type," said Mrs. Pelletier, "but the baby was so cute."

The couple admired the baby and jokingly asked the woman what she would take for the baby.

"She said $5 and my husband pulled out his wallet, still thinking she was joking," said Mrs. Pelletier. "He half pulled out a bill and the woman grabbed it and pushed the baby into my arms."

The woman handed them a paper bag with four disposable diapers and a half-filled bottle of milk and hurried away.

"She stopped a few feet away and turned back and said: 'By the way, his name is Samuel,' then she went on walking."

The couple took the child home and kept him overnight before calling police Wednesday. Police said the child was healthy. Medical authorities determined the child's age.

BABY SOLD — A woman claiming to be the mother of Sammy, a baby about eight months old, sold him to a middle-aged couple on a Skid Row street in Vancouver, B.C., for $5.00. The couple jokingly offered the woman $5, but she took the money, handed them the child and walked away. Police have turned Sammy over to the Children's Aid Society. (AP Wirephoto.)

'SPEAKING IN TONGUES' SPREADS—

Charismatic Movement Sweeps Across Nation

EDITOR'S NOTE: Charismatic Christians live in a religious dimension where miracles are expected, devils threaten and worship includes direct communication from God. Who are these people and what are they doing? It is a movement sweeping through conventional denominations and includes some of the more brilliant members of the community. A report after dozens of interviews and attendance at four gatherings.

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

The voice sounded like the voice of Charlie but to the 23 charismatic Christians in The University of Texas professor's living room the words came straight from God.

Electric fans stirred the late summer heat as the prayer meeting built in emotional intensity. Eyes closed. Outstretched arms and hands lifted. Silent prayers, broken by whisperings of "Praise you, Jesus; thank you, Jesus," blended into a low murmuring and singing in unknown tongues.

Now Charlie, a young, bearded man, spoke a "prophecy"—not a prediction or a challenge but a reassurance that seems a standard ingredient of charismatic worship:

Complete Trust

"My children, never doubt that I know every need you have and that I will fill every need you have. I want so much that you trust me completely to meet your needs, that you needn't feel that you have to hide a need from me because I know them already. I knew them from the beginning of time, children. I am faithful, so trust me."

Almost uniformly, charismatic gatherings include praying or singing in tongues, prophecy, embracing and touching, prayer for one another's problems and lots of folk-style—even funky—music.

The charismatic or neo-pentecostal movement is spreading into all parts of society.

"Prophecy is very meaningful to us, that God would speak through each other," said Charlie's group lead, a UT-Austin electrical engineering professor, John Cogdell.

Healing, exorcism, intense Bible study and claims of newfound peace, joy, freedom, power and love are other outward manifestations of the movement.

Long the "domain of the disinherited," as one historian put it, pentecostalism has infiltrated conventional Methodist, Episcopal, Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Baptist, Lutheran and Christian congregations.

The word "chrismatic" traces to the Greek word for gifts. "Neo-pentecostal" refers to speaking in tongues as in the account of Pentecost. The words are interchangeable.

Deep Experience

Charismatics claim to have received a deeply felt experience called "the baptism with the Holy Spirit" or "being filled." They believe this event brings them one or more of the "gifts" mentioned by Paul in I Corinthians 12, including tongues, prophecy, healing, wisdom and the power to interpret unknown tongues.

Most charismatics said they experience speaking in tongues as an unintelligible "prayer language."

But Odell McBrayer of Fort Worth an Episcopal charismatic, says he has spoken Spanish in charismatic sessions. He cannot speak it otherwise. Sherwin McCurdy of Dallas said he spoke a Cantonese dialect he does not know while healing a Chinese woman.

Charismatics sometimes credit God with works that seem to the outsider scarcely more than personal favors, such as providing furniture, jobs, cash until payday and passing grades on examinations.

"We feel that God is interested in the minute details of our lives," explained Lauren Roebuck, an Austin Presbyterian charismatic.

In Texas, thousands regularly attend neo-pentecostal churches, prayer groups and meetings of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

Several sources said Full Gospel is the chief promoter of the charismatic "renewal." McCurdy, an international director, said the 45 Texas chapters each have about 100 "hard core" members.

There are islands of strong charismatic activity including:

—The Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in Houston, a national leader in the movement. About 1,000 attend services that often include singing in tongues and healing. There is a strong emphasis on communal living and social service.

—Beverly Hills Baptist Church in Dallas. Its membership surged to 3,000 after minister Howard Conatser claimed he was "filled" and began faith healing in 1970. It ranked 12th in baptisms among the 40,000 Southern Baptist churches last year and is planning a $1 million domed "World Cathedral."

—The Well, a coffee house and religious community near The University of Texas at Austin. It is the hub for more than a dozen largely Protestant charismatic prayer groups.

—St. Edward's University in Austin, meeting place for more than 100 predominantly Catholic charismatics, whom Bishop Vincent Harris calls "good level-headed people, loyal to the church."

Holy Cross Brother Jim Hanson, a theology teacher and leader of the St. Edward's group, said neo-pentecostalism meshes comfortably with the Catholic Church's "whole tradition of mysticism."

The mystical element appears in many charismatics' literal belief in evil spirits and exorcism.

Presbyterian minister Dick Pickens, director of the Well, told of an Episcopal priest's wife "in bondage to an unclean spirit."

"In an awful voice that sounded like a witch's voice out of children's movies, she began saying things that were irrational. Someone said very quietly, 'Come out of her in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.' She writhed all over the floor. Everybody began praying in the spirit—praying in tongues. We began talking to her . . . We began calling that spirit—actually several spirits—out of her. After about 35 to 40 minutes, she fell over in exhaustion. . . . She got up and began to hug people and speak to people. She was just an entirely different person."

Neo-Pentacostalism

What attracts well-educated, well-to-do people—including seminary-trained ministers—to religious practices they have been taught to belittle?

Dr. William Boyd Littrell, Methodist minister and sociology teacher at UT-Austin, relates the growth of neo-pentecostalism to the turbulence and insecurity of the past decade. He said its roots are much the same as those that feed the renewed interest in astrology, the occult, various forms of mysticism and mind-altering drugs.

"Charismatic people are trying to cope with what do you do when such categories as family, job, government, the traditional church are no longer believable and just don't work," Littrell said.

The Rev. Jerry Tompkins, vice president of the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, was a Midland pastor when he headed a committee that studied the movement in West Texas in 1969.

"I relate it to the times—the crisis of authority, the sense of helplessness, the powerlessness of the average individual. . . . These groups speak repeatedly of power. What they are saying is their lives were out of control before, and they now sense some new power for grappling with their problems," Tompkins said.

'Really Something'

But Pickens and Conatser say people enter the charismatic "renewal" because conventional churches fail to meet their needs for spiritual sustenance and excitement.

Charismatic prayer groups, Pickens said, are "things these upper middle class groups stumble into. They come away singing, 'Wow, this is really something.'"

Tompkins and some other analysts believe neo-pentecostalism has an especially strong appeal to certain psychological types.

"The average charismatic is a crisis-oriented person. Those we talked to tended to talk about their lives in the essentially dramatic terms that a person does at an AA (Alcoholics Anonymous) meeting. I've never attended a dull AA meeting, and I've never talked to a dull charismatic," he said.

Charismatics tend to be middle-aged or college age.

A Baptist minister observed: "It is a fact that it finds its first foothold among middle-aged women. A woman who is not feeling right, just a little out of touch with reality—that's where it starts. Preacher after preacher tells me, 'Well, it started in a women's Sunday School class'."

Some seek restored health.

At Conatser's church one muggy July morning, fully a third arose when he asked those wishing to be healed to stand. No one proclaimed an immediate cure, but Conatser said to be patient—"The Lord spoke to me and said, 'They will be healed.'"

Faith healing has brought Conatser criticism from his fellow Baptists.

"Most Baptists take the position that you don't have the Holy Spirit, the Holy Spirit has you...The general Baptist position is we believe in divine healing but not in healers," said the Rev. Charles Lee Williamson of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Fundamentalism

Paradoxically, charismatics tend to share a basic fundamentalism with Baptist and Church of Christ ministers and members who often are less tolerant of the movement than religious liberals.

"The charismatics I have known have been very, very fundamentalist," said the Rev. Jack Burton of Woodlawn Baptist Church in Austin.

In fact, says the Rev. Hiram Johnson Jr. of Waco's Cogdell Memorial Methodist Church, "The conservatives often use language like charismatics ('God loves you and I love you,' 'the Holy Spirit told me,' 'Jesus is Lord,' etc.) but do not speak in tongues or engage in faith healing."

Some clergymen think the movement has much to teach mainline denominations.

A film shown recently at a Southwestern University conference on the charismatic movement depicted communal living and worship services that included folk dancing, guitar music, prophecy, embracing and singing in tongues.

"Here were people who were essentially freed to be loving, to express themselves," said a conference leader, Methodist minister Lawrence Lacour of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Critics view the movement both as un-Christian escapism and a disruptive force within churches.

A Baptist preacher told this story:

"A woman in one of the Sunday School classes was having a hot flash, and the teacher (a charismatic) came over and placed her hands on her and tried to cast out a devil. I told the teacher to give up her class."

Divisiveness

Why? he was asked. "Because of the divisiveness."

Several sources said the movement seems to be less divisive than in past years, and a number of charismatics minimized the more colorful phenomena such as speaking in tongues.

"I refuse to say speaking in tongues is a thing you must do if you are filled with the Holy Spirit," said Dr. Noel Roebuck, an Austin dentist, charismatic and Presbyterian elder.

Non-charismatic Christians would agree.

Dr. Stuart Currie, a New Testament scholar at the Presbyterian seminary in Austin said: "The way I read Paul, he said speaking in tongues was like singing in the shower. He liked to do it himself, but it didn't do much for his roommate."

Last Solid Waste Hearing Today

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The last of 14 public hearings to improve the state's regulation of industrial solid wastes was scheduled today, and the Texas Water Quality Board said it expected some new proposals.

Hearing examiner William Philbin said numerous persons have asked to speak.

"Some suggestions not heretofore developed in the 13 hearings held to date are expected to be made at the Austin meeting," said a statement from the board.

The testimony at the hearings will be presented to the board, probably in November.

FRUSTRATED COACH EJECTED—

Pistons Caught In Zone

By The Associated Press

Protest? Why? Ray Scott was just as happy he didn't have to watch the fourth quarter.

Coach Scott's torpid Detroit Pistons, usually explosive on offense with Dave Bing and Bob Lanier, went for more than four minutes in the second quarter without scoring, and Phoenix wound up winning the National Basketball Association contest 100-90.

Again in the third period, the Pistons suffered through three minutes without a point, allowing Phoenix to build up a 78-62 lead going into the final set.

That apparently was enough for Scott.

Toward the end of the third quarter, he drew his second technical for deploying the Pistons in a zone defense and was ejected.

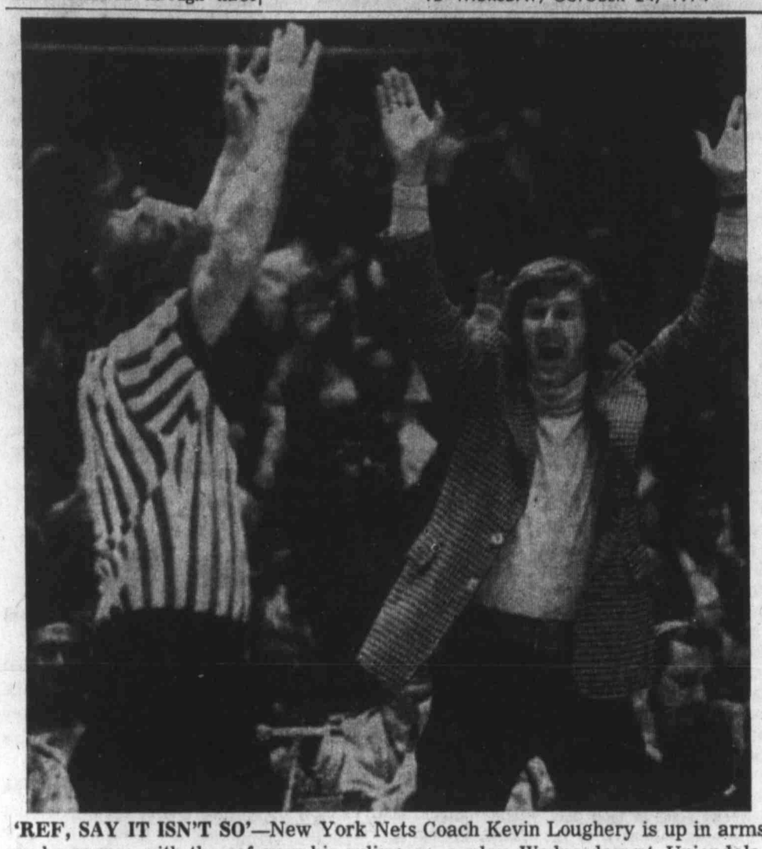

"I don't know why we were picked out for this so early in the season. I see modified zones all the time," Scott said.

"But the way the game was played, I didn't protest."

'REF, SAY IT ISN'T SO'—New York Nets Coach Kevin Loughery is up in arms as he argues with the ref over his ruling on a play Wednesday at Uniondale, N.Y. The ref ruled that basket scored by Nets' Brian Taylor at buzzer ending third period counted for two points and not three. Nets won, anyway, over Memphis, 104-96. (AP Wirephoto.)

In other NBA games, Cleveland edged Boston 108-107, Washington beat Houston 99-95, Seattle dropped Portland 107-97, and Kansas City-Omaha got by Chicago 99-96.

Charlie Scott got 23 points for the Suns and Curtis Perry added 18 before fouling out with about six minutes to play. Lanier had 24 points for Detroit and Bing had 17.

Austin Carr was responsible to a great extent for the Cleveland's squeaker over defending NBA champion Celtics, scoring 16 points in an 18-point Cleveland surge in the second half after Boston had drawn to within a point at 66-65.

Carr wound up with 28 points, and John Havlicek led Boston with 22.

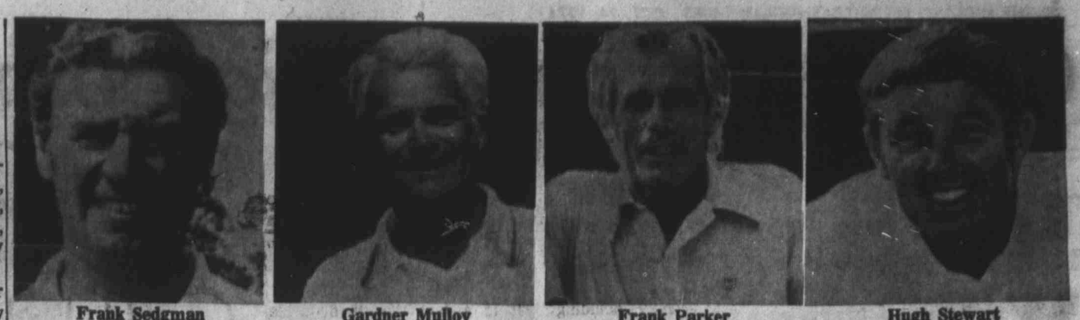

Undefeated Washington got a boost from Phil Chenier in his first start of the season as he scored 27 points. He has had back trouble.

Jimmy Jones, who signed Wednesday with the Capitals after leaving the Salt Lake Stars of the American Basketball Association, played two minutes and said, "I've been in this situation before, being traded about a month after training camp, and it took about a month to fit into the system."

Guard Fred Brown scored 11 of his 16 points in the final three minutes to give the Sonics their victory. Sonics' rookie center Tom Burleson sparked a second-quarter rally when he stole the ball at Portland's end of the court and took it alone for a stuff shot, then scored two more quick buckets to tighten the score at 39-32.

Archie Clark had 19 points for the Sonics. Portland's Geoff Petrie had 24, and Bill Walton scored 15 with 17 rebounds.

Nate Williams' 18-foot jumper with six seconds left capped a Kings' rally that saw them come back from a 98-89 deficit. Nate Archibald led the Kings with 24 points, and Chet Walker had 24 for the Bulls.

Grand Masters Tennis Singles Begin Friday

The Racquet Club's Grand Masters Tennis Tournament field was completed today with Gardner Mulloy, Tom Brown, Sven Davidson, Hugh Stewart and Frank Parker joining Vic Seixas, Torbin Ulrich and Frank Sedgman in the field.

Play begins 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Racquet Club with top seeded Sedgman facing Mulloy, second-seeded Ulrich meeting Parker, Brown facing Davidson and Stewart against Seixas in first round match.

In doubles play, beginning Saturday, it will be Sedgman-Seixas vs. Parker-Brown and Mulloy-Stewart vs. Ulrich-Davidson.

Matches begin at 1:30 on Saturday and Sunday and a free instructional clinic is scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday at the Racquet Club.

Sedgman already has won three Masters tour tournaments and reached the finals in two others while Ulrich has won once and lost in the final three times. In final matches against one another, Sedgman beat Ulrich at Lake Worth in February, at Louisville in May and in Nashville, Tenn. in August. Ulrich won over Sedgman at Big Canoe, Ga., in June.

The Grand Masters Tour is the brainchild of Alvin Bunis, a 50-year-old retired scrap metals broker from Cincinnati, who decided in 1973 to take former tennis greats such as Sedgman, Seixas, Pancho Gonzales and sell them to nostalgia-longing fans.

It has worked out remarkably well. The tour limited to 12 to 15 events broke into the financial black after six events and business is so good Bunis is considering sending out two groups next year.

All of the players own special tennis credentials from the past.

As a result, except for the absence of the booming services of yesteryear, the matches are studies in long, tactical volleys, and the fans enjoy it.

Hawks Win War With Caps

Orr Scores Three Goals For Boston

By The Associated Press

It wasn't known immediately whether Wednesday night's Washington Capitals-Chicago Black Hawks game ended or if the teams simply declared a cease-fire with the score 3-2 in Chicago's favor.

The contest wasn't as much of a battle on the ice as it was off the surface when the final buzzer sounded. The Black Hawks bombed Washington goalie Michel Belhumeur with 42 shots to just 12 for the expansion Capitals, then losing coach Jimmy Anderson blasted a volley at the officials.

Anderson fumed over what he considered a serious breach of National Hockey League diplomatic relations when a third-period collision between Chicago's Stan Mikita and Washington's Yvon Labre resulted in a penalty to Labre and a power play for the Black Hawks.

"The officials consistently let Mikita get away with murder," Anderson snapped. "He can do no wrong. He collided with Labre and they called Labre for high sticking.

"This was such a miscarriage of justice that it defied the imagination. And when Labre legitimately protested, we not only got slapped with a

Grand Masters Tour ...It Couldn't Miss

Battle Scene

By Jed Battles

When you think about it a little, there's no way the Tennis Grand Masters Tour could miss.

After all, it's a case of capitalizing on two of the hottest fads going . . . the booming popularity of tennis and the national nostalgia kick.

Midland's Racquet Club will host the 45-to-60 year old tennis greats this weekend, one of the stops on the $250,000 tour that plays both the United States and Europe.

The names involved are like a Who's Who from the scrolls of past Wimbledon and Forest Hills champions. And it smacks of class. A hustler like Bobby Riggs is a great gimmick, but he isn't considered to be good enough to be a tour regular.

In existence only a year and a half, the tour is already considered a success.

* * *

Al Bunis, the 50-year-old one-time junior tennis star who came up with the idea, admits that he was a little worried in the beginning that some of his old men would be playing in such close proximity to the booming hitters on the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. Tour.

* * *

But the oldtimers' entertainment value — the long strategy-laden rallies, the informal bantering wisecracks — succeeded.

"It's definitely a different game," admits 45-year-old Frank Sedgman. "It's not the bang-bang kind of tennis young hotrods play. You let your opponent make the error. You don't force him into it. It's a slower, more thoughtful game, but people seem to like it all right."

To many the oldtimer's slower pace is part of the appeal. As one fan noted, "Why, you can even see what they are doing. You can actually see them hit the ball."

* * *

Of course, the temptation to reclaim the past is irresistable. Pancho Gonzales was playing against Frank Parker, his old Wimbledon Doubles partner of a quarter century ago. Pancho whistled three dynamite series at Frank and then called out.

"It went that way, Frank, I'm not hitting it where I see it either. I'm just doing it from memory."

* * *

Bunis, a 50-year-old retired Cincinnati scrap-metal broker, was a natural for putting the tour together. "Being a businessman by instinct and knowing all the great old players, it seemed only natural to try to put it all together.

"We were interested only in the very famous players, men who had been world-class players, the truly great old names of the game who can still play competitively," Bunis explained.

Texas Lutheran, Texas A&I Top NAIA Grid Polls

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Texas teams are on top in both Division I and Division II of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Division football ratings.

Texas A&I heads Division I and Texas Lutheran leads Division II. Both are undefeated in six games and received 15 of the 16 first place votes in this week's rankings, released today.

In Division I, Alcorn (Miss.) State moved into second and Henderson (Ark.) State was third. Stephen F. Austin State (Tex.) was fourth and Grambling (La.) which got the only other first place vote in the division, was fifth.

University of Minnesota-Duluth was sixth, Elon (N.C.) College was seventh, followed by Wisconsin-Whitewater, Delta (Miss.) State and St. John's (Minn.) University.

In Division II, Pacific Lutheran in Washington, which took over second place in the poll, received the only other first place nod. Millikin (Ill.) University was third.

Last week Pacific Lutheran and Millikin were tied for second. Both have five victories and no defeats.

Linfield (Ore.) College moved from sixth to fourth in the rankings. William Penn (Iowa) College was fifth, followed by Hanover (Ind.) College, Missouri Valley College, California Lutheran and Northwestern (Iowa) College. Yankton (S.D.) College and Midland Lutheran (Neb.) tied for 10th.

JOHNSON, ISENBARGER GO WILD—

Hawaiians Douse Fire, 60-17

By The Associated Press

After grabbing three touchdown passes during the World Football League scoring explosion by the Hawaiians, John Isenbarger made a startling disclosure. He enjoys running and catching the ball.

Randy Johnson threw for four touchdowns Wednesday night to lead the Hawaiians to a 60-17 victory in Chicago against the hapless Fire.

"I like playing wide receiver and catching the ball," said Isenbarger after the game. "The passes were right on target."

In the other WFL games Wednesday night, Florida beat Charlotte 15-11, Shreveport blanked Birmingham 31-0 and Philadelphia topped Southern California 45-7. Tonight, it's Memphis at Portland in the league's nationally televised contest.

A five year veteran who began the season with the National Football League's San Francisco 49ers, Isenbarger caught 10 passes for 135 yards — scoring on aerial plays of 28, 8 and 7 yards.

Coach Mike Giddings of the Hawaiians got revenge for an earlier 53-29 loss to Chicago by handing the Fire its eighth straight defeat.

Leading 46-10, the Hawaiians made an onsides kick, recovered the ball and scored another touchdown just five plays later.

It was all downhill for the 20,203 Chicago spectators after a spectacular 52-yard field goal by Allan Watson gave the Fire a brief 10-8 edge against the Hawaiians in the opening period.

The Hawaiians and Fire are both 7-10 with three games remaining.

Blazers 15, Hornets 11

With Florida's Tommy Reamon rushing 35 times for a total of 189 yards, the Blazers triumphed on a pair of second-half scoring passes from Bob Davis to Greg Latta — 19 yards — and Jim Strong — eight yards.

The Blazers, 12-5, boosted their WFL Eastern Division lead over the runnerup Hornets, 10-7, before 23,613 spectators in Charlotte.

Steamer 31, Americans 0

Shreveport, 6-10-1, upset Birmingham, 12-5, by gaining a total of 529 yards — 326 rushing and 203 passing — and keeping the ball for 20 minutes in the first half and another 20 in the second half.

Shreveport's Jim Nance, who scored on an eight-yard plunge for the first touchdown, rushed for 126 yards to join J.J. Jennings of Memphis and Reamon of Florida in the WFL's 1,000-yard Club.

Bell 45, Sun 7

Quarterback King Corcoran fired three touchdown passes and scored on a one-yard dive to give Philadelphia, 7-10, an upset against Southern California, 12-5, already the WFL's Western Division champion.

Philadelphia's John Land became the fourth WFL runningback to gain more than 1,000 yards. He gained 84 yards.

Crane, McCamey Neighborhood Brawl Tops 7-AA Play

Terry Williamson

Last Week A Success

We had another good week playing the picking game the last time around with 26 right and only six wrong, bringing the season's record to 173-50 for a .776 percentage.

Sonora, who has won three Class A state championships and another co-championship, looks to be as tough in AA ball this year. Sonora blasted Crane 27-14 in the opening 7-AA encounter last week, and I missed that one. The Bronchos may be tougher since they seemed to have found an offense to go along with their stubborn defense.

I also missed the 14-14 tie between Brownfield and Sweetwater. I had picked that game as 14-13 in favor of Brownfield. Kermit also upset Seminole, giving the Indians two straight losses after winning their first five games.

Balmorhea, Bovina and highly ranked Floydada also lost in other misses.

When I hit a score right on the nose, it's usually time to brag, but I find little joy in announcing that I picked the Abilene Cooper-Midland Lee game to be a 7-6 affair. Unfortunately that's the way it turned out.

This Friday is another big district weekend with the Crane-McCamey by far being the highlight feature of the week, so let's get with it.

This Week A Disaster?

McCAMEY 28, CRANE 14 — Crane was the pre-season favorite to win District 7-AA, but Friday may find the Golden Birds eliminated from the title run. McCamey seems to have found life and now is considered a good bet at capturing it all. I'll be there Friday night.

ANDREWS 21, FORT STOCKTON 12 — Fort Stockton has won only once this year and the Mustangs haven't won any. I guess you call this one an upset?

RANKIN 35, BALMORHEA 13 — Rankin will probably kick the "Devil" out of the Bears as Balmorhea falls from loop contention in District 6-A.

LAMESA 14, BROWNFIELD 7 — The Tornadoes finally find a little offense against the halpless Cubs.

SONORA 25, OZONA 7 — The Bronchos soar toward a showdown with McCamey's Badgers.

STANTON 18, SEAGRAVES 14 — The Buffaloes will need a superior effort to take this one. Seagraves is one of the top teams in the state and the District 5-A outcome could hinge on this game.

PECOS 13, SEMINOLE 7 — The Eagles remain undefeated and tie Monahans for the District 2-AAA lead with three loop victories.

• • •

MORE WILDNESS: Midland Lee 25, Big Spring 0; Midland High 15, San Angelo 14; Abilene Cooper 7, Odessa Permian 0; Abilene High 21, Odessa High 18; Kermit 24, Odessa Ector 14; Lubbock Estacado 21, Sweetwater 10; Lubbock Dunbar 14, Lake View 13; Plains 28, Shallowater 7; Ropes 20, O'Donnell 6; Iraan 16, Clint 0; Marfa 14, Wink 7; Brownwood 34, Vernon 7; Brazosport 21, St. Thomas 0; Friendswood 42, Alief 13; Wharton 29, Sweeny 8; Cuero 33, Pleasanton 6; Iowa Park 20, Weatherford 14; Denver City 18, Frenship 12; Coahoma 14, Ballinger 12; Alpine 62, Canutillo 0; Aledo 39, Boyd 16; Royal 34, Tidehaven 16; Big Sandy 30, Leveretts Chapel 6.

BIRD OFFENSIVE POWER — The offensive attack of the Crane Golden Cranes against McCamey Friday night will have to come from these individuals. Ricky Heredia (50), center; Mike Roseberry (15), quarterback; Max Stone (33), fullback; Willie Neal (22), tailback; and Bobby Hogan (10), halfback. Crane must win against McCamey to keep any hopes alive of winning the District 7-AA crown.

Stanton Faces Seagraves In 5-A

By TERRY WILLIAMSON

Every game from here on out in area high school football action is of the "must" variety, but perhaps none of the contests hold the importance of a couple of games that will be staged in Crane and Seagraves Friday night.

Crane takes on McCamey in a very important District 7-AA contest while Seagraves meets its sternest test of the year against the Stanton Buffaloes in a crucial District 5-A outing.

Coach Joe Boyd's Golden Birds of Crane may feel the pressure more than any of the other three squads since the Cranes lost a 27-14 decision to Sonora in the 7-AA opener. A loss by Crane Friday would, for all practical purposes, eliminate the Birds from title consideration.

Badgers Hot

Both 5-A and 7-AA have only five teams in the loops and only four district games are on the slate. Two losses by any team would mean almost certain destruction.

Coach Joe Neill's Badgers of McCamey had an open date last week to prepare for Crane and the Badgers also own a three-game winning streak. It's a fresh start for McCamey with no losses and no victories in the important district run, so is also an important outing for Coach Neill. A fast start would eliminate some of the survival tactics that may need to be used later on.

Sonora meets, Ozona, who also won their opener last week against Reagan County. The winner here will own sole possession of first with only two weeks gone in loop play, but the eyes fall back to the McCamey-Crane contest.

Should Crane win Friday, the Birds would be back in the loop picture since McCamey would still have a shot at Sonora and Ozona. Crane still has to play Ozona, so they could help themsleves there, but a loss Friday would give McCamey a giant edge in their march for a loop crown while Crane's season would be over, for all practical purposes.

Buffs' Opener

Seagraves already owns a 1-0 record in 5-A while Stanton has yet to encounter a loop fray. Stanton was picked as the pre-season favorite in this league while Seagraves has shown more power with a 6-1 record to date. Stanton is 4-2. Many think that Friday's winner will coast to the loop throne room.

District 2-AAA enters fourth week action with league-leading Monahans drawing the open date to protect their 3-0 loop mark. So the highlight of the week comes at Seminole where the undefeated Pecos Eagles, owners of a 6-0 season mark and 2-0 district reading, meet the Indians in a quest to knot up the district race.

Winless Andrews will try to get that first victory of the season against Fort Stockton, who has won only once this year, while Kermit clings to hopes in a survival battle with winless Odessa Ector Saturday in Odessa.

Rankin on Road

Rankin's Red Devils, the state's second-ranked Class A unit, starts three weeks of road trips with an outing in Balmorhea. Rankin, the heavy favorite to win District 6-A going away, is already 1-0 in loop play while the Bears are 0-1 after a loss to Iraan last week. Iraan and Marfa will try to keep pace with the Devils against Clint and Wink respectively.

You might say it's an off week for District 3-AAA where league-leading Snyder has the open date, but there is one important struggle on the slate with Lubbock Dunbar meeting Lake View Thursday in Lubbock.

Dunbar has a 2-0 loop mark and could tie the Tigers for the loop lead with a victory. Lake View, however, is 2-1 in loop play and must win to remain alive.

Lamesa, winless in district play, tries to rebound against Brownfield, also winless in district action, while Lubbock Estacado meets Sweetwater in another survival battle.

Cubs' Williams Traded To Oakland For Three

By The Associated Press

BASEBALL

CHICAGO — The Chicago Cubs traded slugging outfielder-first baseman Billy Williams to the Oakland A's for three players, including veteran relievers Darold Knowles and Bob Locker.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — First baseman Pat Bourque was traded back to the Oakland A's by the Minnesota Twins, after only two months with the Minnesota team.

TENNIS

SHIZUOKA, Japan — Wendy Overton beat her American compatriot Peggy Michel 6-1, 7-6 and advanced into the finals of the $33,333 Toray Silkok Tennis Tournament.

TEHRAN, Iran — Second-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden dropped the first set before defeating American Vitas Gerulaitis 3-6, 6-2, 6-2 in the third round of the $100,000 Aryamehr Tennis Tournament.

GENERAL

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. — Former Philadelphia Eagle football player Ed Meadows, 42, was shot fatally at his home in Pine Knolls Shores, N.C.

SAN FRANCISCO — Frankie Carter, who refereed more than 15,000 boxing bouts during his career, died of a heart ailment at the age of 66.

Players Pick Jeff Burroughs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Base-stealing king Lou Brock and slugger Jeff Burroughs have been named the 1974 major league players of the year in a poll conducted by the Sporting News.

The national publication has also selected Mike Marshall and Catfish Hunter as 1974's top major league pitchers.

The selections, the result of a poll among 394 major league players, were announced Wednesday by the newspaper.

The 35-year-old Brock, who stole a record 118 bases for the St. Louis Cardinals during 1974, also hit .306 and scored 105 runs in winning National League Player of the Year honors.

Burroughs, 23, led the American League with 118 runs batted in and batted .301 for the Texas Rangers to take top player laurels in the AL.

Brock and Burroughs are both outfielders.

Marshall, a right-handed reliever who came to the Los Angeles Dodgers last winter from the Montreal Expos, appeared in a record 106 games, winning 15 and saving 21. The 31-year-old fireman is the first relief specialist ever named the NL's top pitcher by the Sporting News.

Hunter, already a 10-year veteran at 28, won 25 games for the World Champion Oakland Athletics in 1974. It was the fourth straight 20-game season for the right-hander, who also turned in a 2.49 earned run average in winning American League Pitcher of the Year honors.

LONGEST ROAD TRIP—

Another Howe Record

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Gordie Howe has broken a lot of records in close to 30 years of pro hockey. Today, Howe celebrates another first: the end of his longest road trip ever.

The end came Wednesday night after Howe's Houston Aeros, defending World Hockey Association champions, dropped a 5-4 decision to the New England Whalers.

"That's 53 days in a row away from home, including the time I spent with Team Canada in the series against the Russians," Howe said. "Look at the younger guys. They're bone tired. How do you think I feel at the age of 46?"

Houston Coach Bill Dineen was angry after the WHA champion Aeros suffered their fourth loss in a row after an opening victory.

"I've got to be mad at the schedule maker because it's not right for any team to play five regular season games on the road after also playing five exhibition games away from home," Dineen said.

In other WHA games, the Vancouver Canucks beat the Cleveland Crusaders 4-1 and the Quebec Nordiques defeated the Michigan Stags 6-2.

AGAINST LEE FRIDAY—

Steers Seek Upset

Big Spring's Steers bring a 2-4 seasonal record and 0-3 District 5-4A mark into Friday's league game with Midland Lee at Big Spring's hilltop stadium on the Howard College campus and Coach Bob Burris hopes he can catch some district foe looking the other way and spring an upsef.

Coach Jim Acree just hopes it isn't his Lee Rebels, who have to win this one to make next week's game with Odessa Permian meaningful.

The Rebels have hung tough against most of their foes, but as Burris points out, "We just don't have the people to get over the top."

Danny Ferrell gained 110 yards against Abilene in the 5-4A opener, but has just managed 21 yards in two games since. "We've been using him at defensive safety and we've been playing defense so much we've just had to rest him when we have been on offense," Burris explains.

This Friday Burris plans to suit up 26 players for Lee and use complete defensive and offensive platoons in an effort to ease the situation.

One of Big Spring's big problems has been the loss of quarterback Tom Sorley and end J. T. Smith, a passing combination that accounted for more than 2,000 yards last year.

Junior quarterback Mark Moore succeeds Sorley and Burris is satisfied with his play, "He just lacks confidence in his throwing. In fact we have more confidence in him than he does in himself. If he could hit one or two big ones, it would give him a big boost." Of course, the emergence of a Smith would help.

The Steers beat Hobbs, N.M., and Andrews while losing to Snyder in non-league play. In district, Big Spring lost to Abilene, 12-10, bowed to Midland, 21-6(and then just ran into a stone-wall against Odessa Permian Showing zero yards rushing while losing 24-0.

Lee takes a 5-1 record into the game and comes off a heartbreaking 7-6 loss to Abilene Cooper. They also remember that 24-6 haymaker Big Spring hung on 'em a year ago.

WITH SPONGE INSERTS—

Paultz Lifts NY Nets

By The Associated Press

Billy Paultz, an American Basketball Association All-Star the past two years, hadn't been worth a dime as a New York Nets rebounder in their first three games this season.

But he put a pair of 10-cent sponge lifts in his sneakers Wednesday night and jumped all over Nassau Coliseum, grabbing 17 rebounds in the Nets' 104-96 victory over the Memphis Sounds.

"The first couple of games I couldn't get off the ground," said Paultz, the 6-foot-11 center. "The Achilles were the problem. Both of them hurt me. The right one really gave me a lot of pain.

"The lifts shorten the stretch on your Achilles and the less you have to stretch, the less strain there is and the less pain."

Paultz went into the game with 6.6 rebound average for three games and left with something over 9.0. He also scored 20 points, although Julius Irving led with 33.

Billy Knight, a rookie forward who gets high on soft drinks, came off the bench and scored 21 points for Indiana, which beat St. Louis 122-107. Knight hit 9 for 9 from the floor and gabbed nine rebounds for the Pacers' first victory against two losses.

"Man, that guy is going to turn us all into Hi-C drinkers," said George McGinnis of Knight. "I'm going to give up beer. He just drinks that pop and shoots nine for nine."

McGinnis, however, led the scoring with 32 points.

Al Bianchi could have used a lift — of some kind — for his Virginia Squires. The Kentucky Colonels flattened them 136-82.

Morse Captures Bass Tournament

Joe Morse took first place in the High Sky Bass Club's monthly tournament at Coleman Lake. Morse took a total of 18 pounds, 15 ounces while Glen Hixon took second with 14-14 and Gene Wright was third with 14-6.

Ann Morse won the women's division with a three-pound catch and Brad Hixon took teen honors with two pounds, seven ounces. Glen Hixon's three-pound, 10-ounce black bass was the big bass of the tournament.

The next tournament will be at Oak Creek Lake Nov. 9-10.

JV Tilt Switched

The Midland Lee-Big Spring junior varsity game originally scheduled for Memorial Stadium today has been shifted to the Lee practice field at 4:30 p.m., due to the rains over the past two days.

Lee takes a 3-3 mark into the game while Big Spring stands 1-3.

The Midland Bullpups (4-1-1) play San Angelo's JV in San Angelo at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Dogs Ready For Bobcats

The Midland Bulldogs and San Angelo Bobcats renew a long football series in Memorial Stadium Friday night when they meet for the 36th time since 1931.

There were two years in 1949 and 1950 the two rivals did not meet.

Friday's game is one of the biggest for both teams in the past few years with the loser most likely being eliminated from the District 5-4A race. Both take 2-1 loop marks into the game which should draw a big crowd. San Angelo lost to Midland Lee, 21-7 while the Purple Pack's only loss was to league-leader Odessa Permian, 6-3.

Midland beat San Angelo, 21-14 in 1972, Coach John Reddell's first year here, but the Bobcats came back to take a 33-7 win last year over the pack in San Angelo.

The Bobcats have lost three straight games in Memorial Stadium, losing to Lee, 36-28 in 1972 and 21-7 two weeks ago.

Midland hopes to equal the Rebels mark with a win Friday night.

"San Angelo has its usually fine team which is big and fast," said Reddell, but he quickly added that he has some good athletes too and predicts a slam-bang affair.

Midland will be without the services of defensive guard Scott Pollard who is still in the hospital after suffering a ruptured spleen in the Abilene game. David Hamilton most likely will take Pollard's place on defense with Tom Dunlap also filling in there too, according to Reddell.

Coach Smitty Hill's Bobcats bring a 5-1 mark into the game, the same as Midland and it shapes up as a dandy. San Angelo has won nine out of the last 11 games in the long series.

The biggest margin of victory came in 1932 when the Bobcats rolled to a 61-0 victory. Then in 1965, it was 55-6 in favor of the Concho Cats.

Midland's biggest win came in 1951 when the Pack came up with a 15-point win to the tune of 21-6. There has been one tie in the series and that was a 0-0 standoff in 1957.

Looking at the overall series it stands with the Bobcats out in front with a 22-13-1 advantage.

The Bulldogs must stop the break-away running of fullback Marvin Williams and halfback David Fielder along with the passing of quarterback Rudy Izzard.

Midland will counter with a tough defense and power running game of Mike Gaddy, Mike Hudspeth and Kim Madden.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Midland College, Tech In Rematch

Midland College's girls golf team will try to make it two in a row when they meet Texas Tech at Ranchland Hills Country Club next week.

Ann Wheeler shot an 81 to lead the Midland girls to a 26-stroke victory over Tech at Lubbock's Meadowbrook course this week. Ann had rounds nines of 43-38 while Donna Avery shot 91 and Cindy Cox 93 for a 265 total. Debbie Jones' 87 led Tech while Barbara Fowler shot 101 and Heather Moorehead had 103 for a 291 team total.

Midland's Gaddy Takes Over 5-4A Rushing Lead

Midland fullback Mike Gaddy took over the District 5-4A individual rushing lead with a 166 - yard performance against Abilene, passing Cooper's Scott Ritchey, who had a 257-yard performance two weeks ago.

Gaddy, with 397 yards and Ritchey with 364, were the only rushers over the 300-yard mark after three weeks of league play.

Odessa Permian's Johnny Houser is third with 255 yards and Lee's Milton Jones is at 221. In fifth and sixth place are San Angelo's Marvin Williams, 215, and David Fielder, 188, both of whom will be in action against Midland High at Memorial Stadium Friday night.

In team statistics, San Angelo shot from fourth to first in total offense with 599 yards rushing. Midland, second in total offense with 796 yards, is the leading ground-gaining team with 746 yards.

Defensively, Odessa Permian has been fearsome, allowing only 264 yards total defense, and 17 first downs. Midland High is second in defense with 490 yards rushing and passing, followed by Cooper, 504, and Midland Lee, 612.

San Angelo's Williams broke loose for 89 yards against Odessa last week for the longest scoring play in district thus far.

But Cliff Koroll apparently read the Shakespeare play that tells of all being fair in love and war. So he uncorked a 60-foot cannonball that found its target just 71 seconds after Labre's departure to give the Black Hawks their triumph in the War of Chicago Stadium.

In other NHL games, the Atlanta Flames strafed the Detroit Red Wings 10-1; the New York Rangers crushed the St. Louis Blues 5-1; the Montreal Canadiens sniped the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2, and the Boston Bruins and Pittsburgh Penguins skated to a 5-5 standoff.

Bobby Orr scored three goals, but the Bruins needed a tally by Carol Vadnais to salvage their tie with Pittsburgh.

Eric Vail and Curt Bennett each scored three times to help the Flames humble the Red Wings. "When this team plays bad, I tell it like it is," said Flames Coach Bernie Geoffrion, "so I'm going to tell it like it is tonight (Wednesday): That was the best kind of hockey you're ever going to see."

Bill Fairbairn scored three times to pace the Rangers' rout of St. Louis.

Mission In China

Ambassador and Mrs. George Bush have arrived in the People's Republic of China where he has assumed his new post as chief of the United States Liaison Office in Peking.

China is a long way from their former home in Midland, Tex., but the gracious, friendly, courteous and smiling couple will make friends quickly in Red China. Making friends easily is perfectly natural with Mr. and Mrs. Bush.

Mr. Bush, former congressman from Houston, former U. S. ambassador to the United Nations and former Republican national chairman, said upon leaving Washing that he would be on the alert about ways to improve relations in China.

* * *

"I am convinced that one of the most important parts of the job is first establishing good personal relationships and then being sure that they (the Chinese) understand a great deal about the United States and that we understand the maximum amount about China," Bush said.

And if there is anyone in America who can establish good personal relationships with China, or anyone else for that matter, it is Ambassador Bush. He is a great and most effective diplomat, as proven by his achievements while serving in his United Nations post.

It is fortunate for all concerned that America has capable men like George Bush who are ready and willing to serve their country whenever and wherever called.

The relationship between the United States and China will be strengthened as a result of George Bush having served in his present position.

All best wishes are extended to Ambassador and Mrs. Bush on their mission in China.

Meet Them Head-On!

Fear is one of the worst forms of trouble, according to a publication of the Field Enterprises Educational Corporation.

"We fear the unknown," the article states. "We fear the consequences of making what might turn out to be a wrong decision.

"We worry that we will fail at some task, or be criticized for how we act or feel. We are afraid of losing face and we are frightened by the thought of illness or accidents. Often we try to hide our fears, which is the worst mistake we can make. If we run from our fears, they will chase us and make us cowards.

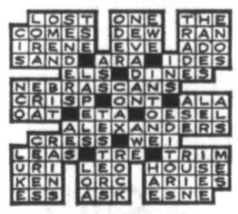

"One man with a reputation for unusual courage once gave this simple rule: 'Never go out to hunt for Old Man Trouble. But if he is in your path, meet him head-on.'"

This really is something to ponder at this particular time when many people fear so many things, including inflation, economic ruin, depression and numerous other crises.

Let's meet the problems head-on!

'I Wish I Could At Least See The Harbor!'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson Says: Support of African racism denied by State Department.

WASHINGTON — The State Department solemnly has denied our story that Henry Kissinger's first tilt was toward the white supremacist nations of Southern Africa.

Although we had requested comment four days earier, the State Dept. waited to respond until our story appeared. It "takes a little straining," said a spokesman, "to say we have tilted toward the white regimes of Africa."

This is precisely the comment our African policy documents called for. Kissinger personally selected as U.S. policy the second option in the secret National Security Memorandum 39. The United States "would maintain public opposition to racial repression but relax political isolation and economic restrictions on the white states."

Kissinger changed American policy from "basic opposition" to "public opposition" toward racial repression in the white-ruled African countries. He changed the existing policy of "correct relations" to a "quiet" policy of more relaxed relations.

Previously, the United States had enforced a strict arms embargo against the white supremacists and kept official contacts to a minimum.

Sale of Aircraft

But after Kissinger changed the policy, the United States approved the sale of aircraft to South Africa; sold Portugal some Boeing 707s which were used to ferry troops to her white colonies; allowed Union Carbide to import chrome from Rhodesia; attempted to retain a consulate in Salisbury, Rhodesia; and vetoed more stringent sanctions in the United Nations.

The State Dept., in all fairness, resisted the changes which were forced upon them by Kissinger's opposites in the basement of the White House. Kissinger was so disturbed at the State Dept., in fact, that he didn't trust them to communicate the new policy to South Africa. Instead, he took the extraordinary step of sending the message through an influential column in South Africa's Johannasburg Star.

"Out of the blue," the Star's Washington correspondent Ken Owen now reveals, "I was summoned to the Executive Office Building beside the White House and asked if I would use my regular column of comment on American affairs in the Star to convey a message directly to Pretoria (the South African capital)."

Full Briefing

Owen told my associate Joe Spear that he spoke to a Kissinger aide who gave him a full briefing on the new policy. He was asked "to emphasize the necessity for Pretoria to respond in a manner which would protect President Nixon's flank from Black Africa, from Negro groups and from the professional anti-apartheid lobby."

Owen claimed that the State Dept.'s professionals regained the ascendancy over African policy after Kissinger became absorbed by Middle East and Watergate.

The tilt toward the white regimes, he said, "still remains technically the American policy, but it has become a posture instead of a process."

FOOTNOTE: We have checked out Ken Owen's story with our own high-level sources who confirm its accuracy.

INSIDE WHITE HOUSE: President Ford's barber, Milton Pitts, has sold him on a more modern look. Pitts sketched a proposed new hairline on a picture of the President in the Washington Post and showed it to Ford. The barber wanted to eliminate the shaved gap around the President's ears which went out of style a decade ago. Ford approved the sketch and is now growing a new hairline closer to the ears. . . Consumer representative Carol Foreman startled President Ford at the secret White House session which spawned his new "Whip Inflation Now" program. "Mr. President," she confronted him, "you've asked us to reduce waste by five per cent, reduce driving by five per cent and increase taxes by five per cent. Could we ask the big oil companies to reduce their profits by five per cent in order to lower the cost of heating oil this winter so people won't freeze?" Ford bucked the suggestion to the ad hoc advisory group which rejected it . . .

Photo Dispute

The photo spread of Susan Ford in People magazine has touched off a dispute between the White House and photographer Stanley Tretick. The famed photographer asked the White House for permission to do a photo story on the President's daughter. He was turned down, with the explanation that Susan wanted to keep a low profile while her mother was ailing. But the White House later sent the magazine a batch of pictures taken by the President's personal photographer, David Kennerley This cut Tretick out of an estimated $1,200 and stuck the taxpayers with the photo bill. He fired off an angry letter of protest to White House press secretary Ron Nessen. . . Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., dropped by the White House the other day and got into a discussion of the Michigan-Michigan State football game with President Ford. The President was completely familiar with the relative strength of both teams. . . Diplomats who have called at the White House tell us that President Ford handles them with ease and confidence. He is well briefed, they say, and "shakes all the right hands" . . . At a White House meeting, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto made the President beam happily by telling him that he had made "people feel he really cared."

TIMELY QUOTES

"Although a total of $94 billion was spent last year (in medical and health care), and this figure continues to rise annually by 10 to 15 per cent, it has not improved the health of our citizens and has in some instances, jeopardized it . . ."

—Dr. Paul B. Cornely in an editorial in the American Journal of Public Health.

"I am almost in sympathy with the Kremlin's expulsion of (Solzhenitsyn). He's against growth and technology and for replacing communism with the theocracy of the Russian Orthodox church."

—Writer Ayn Rand who fled Russia in 1926, criticizing ousted Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn.

WEST ♠ K Q 10 9 8 ♥ 6 ♦ K 7 3 ♣ Q 10 6 2		EAST ♠ 7 4 2 ♥ 8 ♦ J 10 9 5 2 ♣ J 8 7 5
	SOUTH (D) ♠ J 6 3 ♥ A K J 10 9 ♦ A Q 8 ♣ 9 4

West	North	East	South
			1♥
1♠	2♠	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♣	Pass	4♦
Pass	5♣	Pass	6♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—K♠

South won the first trick with dummy's ace of spades, cashed the ace of trumps, played dummy's ace and king of clubs, ruffed the last club and led the jack of spades.

West was in with the queen and had a problem. Should he lead a diamond and hope that his partner would hold the queen or should he lead a third spade and hope that South would have to follow suit?

We asked, "What did he do, and why?"

The answer is that he led a third spade. The reason is that east's spade plays had told him what to do.

On the first spade East had played the deuce. On the second spade lead East had played the seven spot.

This left the six and four of spades unaccounted for. Could East hold both those missing spot cards?

Not on your tintype. That play of the seven spot had to be designed to show exactly three spades and to tell West to play a third spade if his suit were a five-carder.

CARD Sense

The bidding has been: 24

West	North	East	South
	1♥	Pass	2♣
Pass	2♥	Pass	2♠
Pass	3♥	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ A K 8 4 ♥ K 2 ♦ Q 5 4 ♣ A Q 5 4

What do you do now?

A—Bid five hearts. This bid clearly tells partner you are afraid of two diamond losers at a heart slam. If he can take care of the second round of diamonds he is supposed to bid six.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You do bid five hearts and your partner bids six diamonds. What do you do now?

DON OAKLEY

Search Should Be For Fair, Not Blank Minds

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It has to be done in the interest of justice, of course. Even so, there is something contradictory about the hours and days consumed at the beginning of the Watergate coverup trial in Washington in the endeavor to find 12 men and women, and alternates, who retained an "open mind" about Watergate.

On the one hand, Americans are encouraged to learn what is going on in their communities and in their nation. The large percentage of people who answer "don't know" in every opinion poll is cited as a symptom of our lack of caring, our noninvolvement, or of the failure of the media and of leaders to inform the public.

On the other hand, when they are called to serve on juries, people are supposed to have perfectly pristine minds, untainted by prior knowledge or opinion.

'Open Mind'

Actually, anyone who still has an "open mind" about Watergate — meaning either that he has never heard of the scandal or is totally unaware of the many damaging stories that have been published about those involved — would have to be so wanting in the mental department that his fitness as a juror would be suspect on that ground alone.

We seem to have gotten the idea in this country that a fair trial means that only people possessing the naivete of newly arrived Martians are qualified to sit on juries.

What a fair trial really means is that, first, every defendant in a court of law is to be considered innocent until proven guilty and that he has certain basic rights — the right to hear the evidence against him, to confront his accusers, etc. — that must be protected. And second, that those who judge him will honestly put aside whatever prejudices or preconceptions they may have and will make their decision solely on the basis of the evidence presented in court.

This does not call for blank minds. Just fair ones.

CHARLES WILSON, SECRETARY of Defense back in the Eisenhower era, did it when he suggested that what was good for General Motors was good for the country.

Would-be presidential candidate George Romney did it in 1968 when he charged that he had been "brainwashed" about Vietnam.

Another hopeful, Edmund Muskie, blew whatever chances he had in 1972 when he got emotional over some harsh untruths a newspaper had printed about his wife.

Now Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, has given a lesson in how to lose friends and influence people — the wrong way.

"If you want to examine who is hurting the most in terms of percentage of lost income," he said at one of the recent minisummit conferences on the economy, "it's the Wall Street brokers who are hurt the most."

Good Defense

Now, what each of these gentlemen expressed was, in the context in which they expressed it, not without merit. At least, a good defense could be made for each of them.

Nevertheless, there are certain things a public figure just does not say in public. Back in 1968, who hadn't been misled about Vietnam? Yet no one wanted to hear a potential president admit that he had been.

In Greenspan's case, his contention about percentages of lost income may be quite valid. But people aren't worried about the $50,000-a-year broker who is now struggling along on $20,000. They are not impressed that the market slump may have dealt the Rockefellers a paper loss of umpteen millions.

Unfortunately, the truths men speak — or try to speak — oft lie interred with their careers. Their faux pas live after them.

THE CONSUMER ALERT—

New FTC Rule Could Aid 'Hi-Fi' Purchaser

BY JOHN L. HILL
Texas Attorney General

AUSTIN — If you're planning to spend less money by staying home more this winter, perhaps you'll be depending for part of your entertainment on a home stereo system.

And, while buying a new one might seem like a strange way to save money, some folks reason that records and tapes are sources of continual pleasure and can be used and enjoyed over and over again for free after the initial investment.

In just a few weeks, consumers who are contemplating a high fidelity stereo purchase will get a big assist in sorting through the claims made by competing brands.

The assist is in the form of a Federal Trade Commission regulation that will require, after Nov. 4, that all manufacturers of home entertainment audio equipment use the same method of specifying power output. The new rule may have a widespread effect, too, since consumers are expected to purchase an estimated 8 million stereo sets this year.

In the past, one "hi-fi" brand advertised at 50 watts might have been more powerful than another advertised at 100 watts. In addition, one manufacturer's amplifier advertised at 10 watts might actually produce more power with less distorted sound than another's 50 watt amplifier. For the novice buyer, this was confusing, to say the least.

Audio equipment power has been rated by one of three common rating systems heretofore: "Continuous power," "instantaneous peak power," and "music power."

Most audio experts regard continuous power as the most reliable method for the average consumer to use in comparing systems. It expresses an amplifier's ability to produce a range of tones for more than 30 seconds with little distortion of the sound. And it's the way the FTC says all such equipment must now be rated.

Manfacturers now must test their equipment after it has warmed up for one hour, and the equipment must deliver its full wattage power for five minutes before the measurement is made. Manufacturers also will be required to state in what frequency range the power is effective, and all channels must operate at the stated power.

The "instantaneous peak power" ratings, which can be more than 20 times the continuous power ratings, often have impressed consumers who think "the more watts, the better." However, IPP measures amplifier power without regard for sound distortion, so you can get a "fuzzy" sound. In addition, the wattage may deteriorate after the set has been on awhile, since the rating is only for "instantaneous" power.

The FTC says instantaneous peak power claims still can be made by manufacturers, but that they must be shown in advertisements and printed material in smaller size type than continuous power ratings.

"Music power" is a term that has been abused by some audio equipment advertisers to make claims that couldn't always be justified. When used accurately, along with a rated distortion figure, music power measures the ability of a set to deliver better musical sounds than another when all other factors are equal.

Attorney General's Consumer Protection attorneys recommend that consumers in the market for audio equipment familiarize themselves with the new ratings so they can make valid comparisons. They also recommend that stereo shoppers:

— Choose a dealer with a reputation for good equipment and service, and make sure he's authorized by the manufacturer to service the brand selected.

— Take a favorite record or tape when testing equipment. Have the dealer play it on several systems, ranging from low-cost to expensive. When you find a sound you like, listen to the next most expensive system. If you still find the first one satisfactory, it may be a good choice for you.

— Examine the warranty carefully. Make sure it spells out in detail what is covered and for how long.

— If there are any doubts about the dealer, check with people who have dealt with him, and with the local Better Business Bureau.

— If a consumer problem develops, consult the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

Ailing Premier Chou En-lai May Be In Eye Of Chinese Political Storm

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(An AP News Analysis)

Intriguing reports from and about China may mean that a long-gathering political storm is intensifying and that ailing Premier Chou En-lai is in the eye of it.

When Denmark's prime minister visited him Saturday, Chou was in a Peking hospital again. Chou, 76, was reported in May to have suffered a heart attack.

The Danish visitors also saw Chairman Mao Tse-tung and said they found him alert. The meeting, however, was not in Peking, but somewhere to the southwest. The chairman has tended to avoid Peking in recent years during turbulent political weather.

It wouldn't be surprising now if a session of the National People's Congress — NPC — should be convened, whereupon the world could get a clearer notion of what's going on.

The NPC is a rubber stamp parliament. It is supposed to meet annually and hasn't sat since 1964. On paper, it's supposed to attend to a variety of governmental functions, including appointment of a premier on nomination of the Communist party's Central Committee.

The NPC could also be useful by putting a stamp of legality on a new constitution. There has to be one soon, to clear up some existing anomalies. Lin Piao, constitutionally Mao's heir, has been purged and is dead along with many of his followers. There has to be a new defense minister in his place. There have to be appointments to other vacancies.

If there is to be a new chief of state — chairman of government — a post vacant since Liu Shao-chi's fall in the 1966-69 cultural revolution purge, the NPC could provide the machinery for announcing, for example, Mao's restoration to the post for life. He lost it in the 1959 crisis, retaining only the chairmanship of the party.

Mao will be 81 Dec. 26. The Danish visitors report of seeing him suggests he didn't have a stroke, as a British newspaper claimed the other day. But Mao obviously is old and frail. For some time it has seemed he was no longer actually running the party and state.

But Mao as a symbol remains a powerful influence and this is where speculation about Chou comes in.

It's hard to escape an impression that two factions contest for pre-eminence as Mao's days peter out. One would be the Shanghai-based radicals, their influence flowing from Chiang Ching, the former Shanghai actress who is Mao's fourth wife.

A conservative group supports Chou, perhaps including many important military men who dislike the radical record of assault on law and order.

If the radicals should win, Chiang Ching would be a mighty power in China. That could also mean that China would turn away from the policies that under Chou opened the way for contacts with the United States and other outsiders.

Turnpike Authority Raises Operating Budgets For 1975

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Turnpike Authority has approved a 1975 operations budget of $4.3 million for the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike.

Directors of the authority, meeting here Wednesday, also approved a 1975 budget of $1.16 million for the Dallas North Tollway.

The DFW Turnpike budget was 16.3 per cent over the 1974 figure and the North Tollway budget was up 12.4 per cent from 1974.

The figure approved for the North Tollway could force drivers using that tollway to pay a higher toll next year.

Projected Revenues Short

Howard Reily, engineer manager for the authority, said the North Tollway is in good financial shape but projected 1975 revenues were $285,000 short of the net income of $2,710,000 needed by the tollway to satisfy bond holders.

The tollway currently is collecting twice what it needs to satisfy interest payments, Reily said, but probably in 1974 will fall some $198,000 short of the net income it promised to maintain when the bonds to construct the highway were sold.

A study of the tollway by outside engineers was authorized by the authority to determine what the new toll would be. The present top toll on the expressway is 20 cents while Reily said the average toll paid this year was 18 cents.

Neither Reily nor Norman Westerfield, one of the engineers authorized to make the study, would guess how large a hike was needed to meet the 1975 budget. Westerfield said the study was to be completed by Jan. 31, 1975.

The collections were hurt on the tollway by the energy shortage and by the moving of airline traffic from Dallas Love Field to the new airport between Dallas and Fort Worth, Reily said. He said revenue at the Love Field exit was down 20 per cent this year.

A feasibility study on the building of a toll bridge across Mountain Creek Lake at Grand Prairie to connect Texas Highway 303 to Loop 12 also was authorized by the authority. Such a bridge would save drivers five miles in their present trip around the lake, said Don Harper, another engineer.

The board authorized still another study which could affect the present projected 1977 date when the board turns over the DFW Turnpike to the State Highway Department as a free highway.

Fisher Urges Caution

Beeman Fisher, a board member from Fort Worth, said the authority should move slowly to turn over the turnpike to the highway department. He said such a move would not be in the best interest of those traveling between the two cities. Instead, he said the authority should expand the highway.

"I don't think the people have any idea what the situation is going to be until a new highway is built," he said.

The board also authorized a study of completion of the interchange from Northwest 19th Street in Grand Prairie. The study would show the feasibility of building two more ramps on the west side of the DFW Turnpike.

Operators Schedule 113 Petroleum Projects In Permian Basin Areas

The Permian Basin Empire of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico last week drew sites for 113 petroleum tests, including 13 ventures and 100 field projects.

The east side of the Basin was most active in scheduled wildcatting, with six searcher applications received in the District 7-C Railroad Commission office in San Angelo.

The Midland RRC office processed applications for 39 new pool projects, and 33 were filed with the Lubbock RRC office, including 16 in the Wasson field of Yoakum County, where Shell Oil Co. has under way a drilling program.

ON THE SPOT—Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lynn A. Townsend plays with two paper clips as he tells a news conference that the automaker may be forced to close its huge Jefferson Avenue assembly plant in Detroit if the economy continues to slump. For the year, Chrysler sales are down 18.4 per cent. (AP Wirephoto.)

Chrysler Chairman Calls For Eased Credit Curbs

DETROIT (AP) — Declaring that the auto industry and the nation are in a recession, the chairman of Chrysler Corp. has called for President Ford to work toward easing credit availability and encouraging consumers to spend rather than save their money.

"Recession is here in the automobile industry. Recession is here in the building industry. I would say recession is here in the country," Lynn A. Townsend said at a news conference Wednesday.

Aimed In Wrong Direction

He said the President's economic policies are aimed in the wrong direction because recession and slack demand have superseded inflation as the auto industry's key problem.

"Our two problems in this country are inflation and recession. I think inflation has peaked, and very rapidly recession is taking the major spotlight," Townsend said.

"We have been in a program here where apparently the opinion has been that we can control inflation by dampening down consumer purchasing.

"I think it has gotten to the point that we should direct our efforts at stimulating the economy through consumer purchasing, rather than further depressing it."

The news conference came one day after the nation's No. 3 automaker announced an $8 million loss on third quarter sales. Chrysler showed an $11.2 million profit in U.S. and Canadian vehicle sales, but that was offset by a $19.2 million loss in overseas sales.

Plant May Be Closed

Chrysler raised its prices an average $415 in September, and Townsend said Wednesday there is "no doubt" another price increase will be put on 1975 Chrysler vehicles in the "near-term future."

Townsend confirmed that Chrylser is considering closing its Jefferson Avenue plant here, which builds full-sized and luxury models and employs 5,000 workers, as an economy move.

The firm's auto sales are down 18.4 per cent so far this year. Industrywide sales were off 28 per cent in mid-October from levels a year ago. For the year, sales are off 21 per cent.

Researchers Say Texas Must Import Energy By 1985

HOUSTON (AP) — A University of Houston study says Texas, long a leading supplier of oil and gas to the nation, may be forced to begin importing energy for its own needs in 10 years.

The study, released Wednesday by the university's Energy Institute, said the 1985 energy deficit by one viewpoint could "spell the end of the booming Texas economy" since two out of every seven jobs in the state are directly related to petroleum resources.

'Curtailments Inevitable'

The study said it was impossible to predict exactly what lies ahead "but if certain energy supplies continue to dwindle, it is logical to assume that social and economic adjustments will have to be made or curtailments will be inevitable."

The researchers reported that a more optimistic viewpoint is that Texas can remain a petroleum processing and marketing center if it obtains increased imports of overseas oil.

However, the report said this will not happen unless Texas leaders and policy makers begin planning and acting now.

"Decisions about a deepwater mona-buoy terminal or superport location and whether it should be publicly or privately financed and managed should be reached as soon as possible," the report said.

Consumer Cutbacks

Other actions proposed by the institute included a conservation program including reduced lighting, more energy-conscious building codes and labeling, mandatory if necessary, of major appliances to show energy efficiency, and cooperation with auto manufacturers to improve auto efficiency so that gasoline use will remain at present levels through 1985, along with tax breaks to assist mass transit.

The study also urged greater use of extensive Texas deposits of soft coal or lignite and called for the early completion of a proposed Colorado-to-Texas pipeline to carry coal slurry.

Some industries should locate or relocate to be near the state's liginite deposits, the study suggested.

The study said that while Texas in 1970 consumed only 43 per cent of its total energy production and exported the rest, by 1985 it will need 102 per cent of its total production.

Texas is particularly vulnerable to an energy pinch, the study said, because it uses more energy than any other state—30 per cent more than California, the second biggest user.

And the study showed that energy industries—not transportation as in most other states—head the list of energy users in Texas.

The report noted that Texas has 27 per cent of the nation's refining capacity and is the overwhelming leader in petrochemicals, producing 35 per cent of the nation's carbon black, 54 per cent of the propylene, 67 per cent of the methanol and 87 per cent of the butadiene.

Thus, the study concluded, the economic dislocations from an energy deficit would be far-reaching.

20 Soviet Specialists Start Joint Space Flight Training

HOUSTON (AP) — Training began today at the Johnson Space Center for 20 Russian flight controllers preparing for the joint American-Soviet manned space flight scheduled next July.

The Soviet group includes specialists in communications, flight dynamics, trajectories, spacecraft systems, docking, life support and engineering and development.

Only about eight of the Soviet controllers will be in Mission Control in Houston during the July mission.

Flight controllers from Johnson Space Center were in the Soviet Union in September for two weeks of similar training.

Engineers in Houston and Rosman, N.C., performed an operational test Wednesday night of the satellite relay system that will permit television coverage of the Apollo spacecraft during more than half of the mission.

Broader Tv Coverage

Previous earth-orbit missions have had limited voice and television coverage only when a spacecraft was within line-of-sight of a ground tracking station.

Communications with the Apollo spacecraft of the joint mission will be channeled through the Applications Technology Satellite 6 (ATS-6) that will be over Kenya at the time of the mission.

The operational test involved voice, television, and simulated telemetry transmissions from Houston through ATS-6 to a Rosman ground station and back to Houston.

Engineers from Goddard Space Flight Center at Greenbelt, Md., were to evaluate the performance of the telemetry channel.

The satellite was over the Galapagos Islands during the operational test and had been relaying educational television to remote areas of Alaska. After its move to the new position over Kenya, the satellite will serve as a relay station for education televison beamed to the remote regions of India.

Launching Set July 15

The two spacecrafts are to be launched July 15. They are to rendezvous and spend two days docked together for scientific experiments and crew exchange. The Apollo spacecraft will remain in orbit about nine days and the Souyz spacecraft about six days.

The Soyuz with cosmonauts Alexel A. Leonov and Valeriy A. Kubasov aboard will be launched from the Soviet complex at Baikonour in Kazakhstan. The Apollo with astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton will be launched about 7½ hours later from Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

He Remembers Good Old Days

LONDON (AP) — Dennis Flanders is 45 and a member of the Camelford, Cornwall, Council, but he remembers his early days.

He wants a special board put up in a local park so that young lovers can carve messages on it.

He put the idea forward when the Camelford Council was considering putting wire mesh over a park shelter to protect it from carvers.

"We were all young once and we probably all did a bit of carving of our initials," Flanders said. "We should not go out of our way to stop something which is virtually a tradition."

Youth Bounces To New Record

NOVATO, Calif. (AP) — Brian Partenfelder, 11, claims that he is the new world's pogo stick champion.

Jumping in his own garage and averaging about two jumps a second, after 19,111 jarring jumps Brian quit, with a sore neck and blisters on each of his feet.

Brian did not pause for food or water, but his mother threw water over his head every once in a while.

According to the Guinness Book of Records the previous pogo jumping record was 11,052, set in 1971 by Stephen Newman, 12, of Great Haywood near Stafford, England.

Millions Still Eat Oatmeal

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — More than 8 million Americans a year sit down to eat a bowl of hot oatmeal on an average morning — half again as many as eat any other hot or cold cereal — and this number is growing by leaps and bounds. According to an industry spokesman, the burgeoning consumption of the wholesome cereal is due largely to "its economy compared with other hot breakfast foods and the introduction of convenient, new instant oatmeal varieties and flavors."

The spokesman also reports that the on-coming cold weather months will increase the cereal's popularity even further. "People buy about twice as much oatmeal in January as they do in July," he said.

Western Drama Opens Friday Night At Permian Playhouse

ODESSA — The engrossing story of how two civilizations collided headon in the 19th Century American West, with the certainty that one of them had to give way, unfolds on the stage of Odessa's Permian Playhouse Friday night.

"Indians," the acclaimed drama by Arthur Kopit, begins a three-weekends run at Odessa's community theater with the Friday night opening. It is the second production of PPH's 1974-75 season—and definitely one of the major offerings in the PPH season lineup.

Concerns "Buffalo Bill"

What is "Indians" about? Well, it's mainly about Buffalo Bill Cody who wants to do the right thing by his Indian friends—but just doesn't know how. It's about those same Indians who want to make a try at co-existence with the white man—but don't quite know how, either.

For his searching drama, playwright Kopit has called forth real people out of American history—people such as Cody, Wild Bill Hickok, Sitting Bull and Geronimo. But he didn't intend to teach a stodgy history lesson so he purposely mixed up dates and created a mosaic of fact-and-fantasy. There are moments of high comedy in the play and there are moments of great poignancy. It is a stage work that is enhanced by a multitude of sounds, bound together by ever-changing lighting emanations. The result is a total theater effect.

In PPH's production, staged and directed by Enid Holm, the cast of 22 men and two women is a happy blend of "old hands" and stage newcomers. Heading the cast is Bill Weir, who will be seen as the play's central character, Buffalo Bill Cody. Weir's first Playhouse appearance was as the crusading reporter in "Born Yesterday" several years back. He also has had roles in PPH productions of "Man of La Mancha," "Sunday in New York" and "The Little Foxes."

Keith Pearson, another PPH "regular," will be in the role of Ned Buntline, the dime novelist who ballyhooed Cody to national and international fame. Pearson has 16 major PPH acting assignments to his credit, including those in "Charley's Aunt," "Gypsy" and "Man of La Mancha."

Other familiar faces to be seen in the "Indians" production are Ed Langham who portrays the President of the United States, and Nancy Shafer as the first lady, as well as Lew Belanger, Dick Shafer, Rogere Berggren, James Jenkins, Oscar Russell, Anne Caldwell, Richard Callaway, Don Davis, Bob Ray, Blake Nunneley and Roland Pickett.

New faces in the show belong to Robert Caldwell, Dave Davis, John Rutuelo Jr., Melvin Tolliver and Mike Cherry.

Preceding all performances of "Indians" will be special activities in the theater lobby designed to suggest a Wild West sideshow. There will be Western displays while Indian jewelry and frontier vittles will be for sale.

Following its opening at 8:30 p.m. Friday a second performance is scheduled Saturday night. There will be Friday and Saturday night performances next week, followed by a matinee on Sunday, Nov. 3 and final performances on Nov. 8 and 9. Single tickets are $3 for adults and $1.50 for students. Playhouse season tickets will continue on sale through the run of "Indians." The Playhouse box office is open daily. Telephone reservations may be made by dialing 362-2329.

Final Premieres Of Movie Slated At Globe Theatre

ODESSA — The final two premiere showings of "All the World's A Stage," the Globe Theatre's movie on the life of playwright William Shakespeare, will be Friday and Saturday nights. Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for students.

The movie added a new dimension to the summer work of the Globe's professional repertory company. The picture will be released soon to schools and universities across the country.

Both screenings this weekend will begin at 8:30 p.m.

Russian Violinist David Oistrakh Dies Unexpectedly In Netherlands

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — David Oistrakh, the world renowned Soviet violinist, died early today in his room at an Amsterdam hotel, a spokesman for the Amsterdam Philharmonic Orchestra announced.

Oistrakh was 66 and had a history of heart trouble in recent years. The spokesman said the cause of death had not been determined yet, but it was assumed he died of a heart attack.

Oistrakh in recent years had widened his musical activity to include conducting and arrived in Amsterdam on Oct. 7 for a Brahms series with the Philharmonic. He had conducted six concerts, the last one two days ago, and had been the soloist in three of them.

People who saw the musician in the last few days reported that he looked well and showed no signs of illness, in contrast to his appearance following a series of heart attacks several years ago.

Body To Moscow

The violinist's wife was with him in Amsterdam, and a spokesman for his Dutch manager said she would take the body to Moscow on an afternoon flight.

Their son, Igor, is also a prominent concert violinist. He often appeared with his father in concerts and on records but never equaled him in the estimation of the critics or the public.

A native of Odessa, on the Black Sea, Oistrakh made his debut while a student at the Odessa Music and Drama Institute in the early 1920s and in 1930 won first prize in the All-Ukraine Violin Competition.

Extensive Concert Tours

His career abroad began in 1935 when he took second place in the International Wieniawski Competition in Warsaw, Poland. In 1937, he won first prize in the Eugene Ysaye Violin Competition in Brussels, then the Western world's most coveted prize for violinists.

Extensive concert tours in Western Europe before World War II established Oistrakh as one of the world's leading violin virtuosos.

He made his American debut at New York's Carnegie Hall on Nov. 20, 1955, during the first cultural thaw of the Cold War between the United States and the Soviet Union. He was a sensation and went on to a triumphant American tour of recitals and appearances with leading American orchestras.

After that first season, he was a frequent visitor to the United States until his heart ailment forced him to curtail his travels. But he continued to appear at home and in Western Europe as soloist and conductor, to make recordings and to teach at the Moscow Conservatory, where he had been a professor since 1939.

Final Performances Of 'Jabberwock' Scheduled Tonight, Friday, Saturday

Final performances of Midland Community Theatre's current attraction, "Jabberwock," will be tonight, and Friday and Saturday nights.

Tonight's performance will have an 8 o'clock curtain, and the weekend performances will begin at 8:30. Information on availability of seating for the three performances may be obtained by contacting the Theatre Centre box office, 682-2544.

"Jabberwock," a new comedy by playwrights Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, is based on the late American humorist James Thurber's recollections of his boyhood in Columbus, Ohio, back in World War 1. Clay Guthrie heads the MCT cast as young Jamie, with Gloria Stephenson portraying his mother and Mark Guinan as his father. The comedy role of Grandpa Fisher is taken by Henry Goulet.

The Theatre Centre Gallery art show during the run of "Jabberwock" showcases paintings and sculpture by Enid Little Ellis.

Mrs. Ellis, a longtime Midland resident, also has lived in Washington, D.C., Paris, Rome and Athens. Sculpture is her first love, and the gallery show contains many examples of her work in clay. She studied classical sculpture in both Rome and Athens. She has done busts of prominent Washingtonians, including former Speaker of the House John McCormick and George Bush, a former Midlander.

Subteen Athletics Program Heard

A program on subteen athletics was presented to members of the Westside Optimist Club at their Wednesday noon meeting in the Elks Club.

Linne, who was a three-year letterman at Texas Christian University before his graduation in 1961, later played pro football with the Baltimore Colts and in the Canadian Football League. Formerly associated with the YMCA at Richardson, he now serves as chairman of the Midland Central YMCA's football committee and coordinator of its football clinic. A past president of the Richardson Jaycees, he is active in state Jaycee work.

Religion Today

"... there is in the human condition a built-in strain toward evolving an ultimate meaning system and making it sacred." (A. M. Greeley)

The problem for many modern men and women is how?

Most members of the Unitarian Universalist religious community would not pretend to know the answer. But they maintain:

1. that no one else has the answer either.
2. that the very search for answers informs life with religious values.
3. that this search is carried on better — and more enjoyably — in the company of others who share these assumptions.

JUDGING ART SHOW — Harry S. Parker III was a Midland visitor earlier this week when he judged entries in Midland Arts Association's annual Fall Regional Art and Crafts Exhibition, opening Sunday in Midland County Exhibit Building. Parker, who assumed duties as director of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts last January, is shown above with Mrs. Glen M. Ford, president of Midland Arts Association.

More Than 400 Entries Received For Exhibition

More than 400 entries have been received in the Midland Arts Association's annual Fall Regional Art and Crafts Exhibition which opens to the public Sunday.

Names of winning exhibitors will be revealed at a reception and preview Saturday evening at the Midland County Exhibit Building on E. Highway 80, site of the annual show.

The exhibition will open at noon Sunday and continue on view daily through Nov. 2.

Harry S. Parker III, director of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, was in Midland earlier this week to judge the show following its installation by MAA members and volunteers. Parker had high praise for the quality of art and craft works entered in the regional exhibit, and commented: "I was very impressed by the creativity and quality found in the entries in this Midland Arts Association show. There is work of merit in all media. Anyone who likes art had better take a look to see what is going on in this area."

Artists and craftsmen who entered the show were vying for approximately $1,500 in prize money. New this year is a special $300 purchase award from Gibson's Discount Center and The First National Bank for a work to go into the permanent collection of the Museum of the Southwest.

Parker became director of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts last Jan. 1. He had been vice director for education at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art since early 1971 and before that served as executive assistant to the director of the Metropolitan Museum, Thomas P. F. Hoving and Hoving's predecessor, the late James J. Rorimer. He also served four years as chairman of the Metropolitan's education department.

Parker was educated at the Hotchkiss School and Harvard College, where he received a B.A. degree in 1961. He attended the University of Utrech on a Fulbright Fellowship and received a master's degree in 1966 from the Institute of Fine Arts of New York University.

'Edenton Tea Party' On Tonight At Globe

ODESSA — An historic event of Oct. 25, 1774, will be re-enacted at the Globe of the Great Southwest tonight with the premiere presentation of "The Edenton Tea Party."

The play, which will have a second performance at the Globe on Sunday afternoon, is presented by Odessa's 12 chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority as a Bicentennial event in Odessa.

The play centers around the 1774 happening in Edenton, N.C., when 51 women signed a pledge to boycott English tea and all other British goods. The event was the first recorded instance of political activity by American women.

Mrs. J. S. Hendricks of Odessa is a direct descendant of one of the signers of the Edenton pledge. Members of Beta Sigma Phi talked with Mrs. Hendricks, finding out all she knew through family stories of the boycott. The sorority members also corresponded with officials of Historic Edenton Inc., but were able to learn little of the event other than the names of women involved and the exact wording of the boycott pledge itself.

Accordingly, a script committee was formed from among sorority members to create characters and formulate a dramatic story on "the way it might have been." The play to have its premiere presentation here tonight is the result.

Plots and sub-plots became almost real to the script committee as its work progressed so that "The Edenton Tea Party" encompasses "little" moments as well as "big" ones leading to the historic declaration of boycott.

Portraying the group of Edenton women are Kathy Crawford, Saundra Umstead, Jo Alice Langston, Nancy Wood, Shirley Glass, Cleo McNeme, Charleen Scott, Mary DeWitt, Katy Jane Clark, Mavis Wickson, Jerri Johnson, Cheryl Ferguson, Barbara Owen, Teresa Baugh and Judy Heslop.

Kaye Jones has directed the production, assisted by Emma Mayers. Barbara Owens is production manager.

Performance time tonight will be 8 o'clock, and Sunday's matinee is scheduled for 2 p.m. Tickets, priced at $2 for adults and $1 for children under age 12, will be on sale at the Globe Theater box office before each performance.

Tech Displaying Mural

LUBBOCK — A mural depicting the use of water in arid and semi-arid lands is having its premiere showing at The Museum of Texas Tech University in conjunction with an exhibit of other works by the mural's artist, Peter Rogers.

The mural, 17 by 40 feet, is India ink on gesso. In addition to the mural, which is on the wall of The Museum foyer, approximately 50 of Rogers' works are on exhibit. These include ink-and-pencils, acrylics and watercolors. All are of the theme which he has been evolving since 1956.

Rogers calls this theme "The Quest," and the subject and style are far removed from the representational style used for the mural. Rogers deseribes his "quest" as one for oneness with God, for spiritual enlightenment. The works are subjective, he says, and are the most recent results of his five-year study of the same allegorical theme.

Rogers' completed mural is almost identical to his original sketch for the work. A major change is the addition of a great blue heron, wading in a pool of water near a small dam. Rogers explained that the bird was added because it was "something lyrical in what tends to be a rather stark design."

While the scene in the mural is not specifically of West Texas, it is representational of the American Southwest which is relatively new to Rogers. He came to New Mexico after his marriage to Carol Hurd, the daughter of artists Peter Hurd and Henriette Wyeth Hurd. Rogers was born in England and met his wife in Spain.

The Rogers exhibition will be on display until Nov. 17.

Charlie Chaplin Announces Plans To Produce Movie

LONDON (AP) — "I'll never retire," said Charlie Chaplin, 80. "Perhaps I said I would, but I can't. Things keep popping up in my mind."

With that, up popped the announcement from the "Little Tramp" of silent movies that he planned to produce a movie from a story called "The Freak" that he wrote years ago for his daughter, Victoria.

It has to do with an angel who comes down to earth.

"We began to rehearse it together," he told newsmen Wednesday at a theater party at which two of his old movies were shown. "Then she left home to get married. But I meant to make it one day, and we're going ahead."

Michael Chibbett
. . . to play organ-harpsichord recital

Chibbett To Present Organ-Harpsichord Recital Here Today

An organ-harpsichord recital will be presented here tonight by Michael Chibbett of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Chibbett, currently on his first concert tour of the U.S., has played programs on the East Coast in recent days, and comes to Midland from a recital engagement in St. Louis. He will play additional recitals in the Southwest in coming weeks, including those at Albuquerque, N.M. and Lubbock.

For his Midland recital, scheduled to begin at 7:45 p.m. in the sanctuary of First United Methodist Church, Chibbett has programmed works for harpsichord by Thomas Morley, Jan Sweelinck, Johann Jacob Froberger and J. S. Bach. Organ works will include those by Bach, Mozart and Haydn.

The recital is being presented by the music department of First UMC and will be open to the public without charge. Midland's West Texas chapter, American Guild of Organists, will host a reception in Chibbett's honor in the church parlor following the recital. The public is invited to attend and meet the young artist.

Western Drama Opens Friday Night At Permian Playhouse

ODESSA — The engrossing story of how two civilizations collided headon in the 19th Century American West, with the certainty that one of them had to give way, unfolds on the stage of Odessa's Permian Playhouse Friday night.

"Indians," the acclaimed drama by Arthur Kopit, begins a three-weekends run at Odessa's community theater with the Friday night opening. It is the second production of PPH's 1974-75 season—and definitely one of the major offerings in the PPH season lineup.

Concerns "Buffalo Bill"

What is "Indians" about? Well, it's mainly about Buffalo Bill Cody who wants to do the right thing by his Indian friends—but just doesn't know how. It's about those same Indians who want to make a try at co-existence with the white man—but don't quite know how, either.

For his searching drama, playwright Kopit has called forth real people out of American history—people such as Cody, Wild Bill Hickok, Sitting Bull and Geronimo. But he didn't intend to teach a stodgy history lesson so he purposely mixed up dates and created a mosaic of fact-and-fantasy. There are moments of high comedy in the play and there are moments of great poignancy. It is a stage work that is enhanced by a multitude of sounds, bound together by ever-changing lighting emanations. The result is a total theater effect.

In PPH's production, staged and directed by Enid Holm, the cast of 22 men and two women is a happy blend of "old hands" and stage newcomers. Heading the cast is Bill Weir, who will be seen as the play's central character, Buffalo Bill Cody. Weir's first Playhouse appearance was as the crusading reporter in "Born Yesterday" several years back. He also has had roles in PPH productions of "Man of La Mancha," "Sunday in New York" and "The Little Foxes."

Keith Pearson, another PPH "regular," will be in the role of Ned Buntline, the dime novelist who ballyhooed Cody to national and international fame. Pearson has 16 major PPH acting assignments to his credit, including those in "Charley's Aunt," "Gypsy" and "Man of La Mancha."

Other familiar faces to be seen in the "Indians" production are Ed Langham who portrays the President of the United States, and Nancy Shafer as the first lady, as well as Lew Belanger, Dick Shafer, Rogere Berggren, James Jenkins, Oscar Russell, Anne Caldwell, Richard Callaway, Don Davis, Bob Ray, Blake Nunneley and Roland Pickett.

New faces in the show belong to Robert Caldwell, Dave Davis, John Rutuelo Jr., Melvin Tolliver and Mike Cherry.

Preceding all performances of "Indians" will be special activities in the theater lobby designed to suggest a Wild West sideshow. There will be Western displays while Indian jewelry and frontier vittles will be for sale.

Following its opening at 8:30 p.m. Friday a second performance is scheduled Saturday night. There will be Friday and Saturday night performances next week, followed by a matinee on Sunday, Nov. 3 and final performances on Nov. 8 and 9. Single tickets are $3 for adults and $1.50 for students. Playhouse season tickets will continue on sale through the run of "Indians." The Playhouse box office is open daily. Telephone reservations may be made by dialing 362-2329.

Museum's 'Time' Show Scheduled To Close Soon

The time is running out for the Museum of the Southwest's big "time" show.

The show, "It's About Time," presents time as a real dimension as well as an abstract concept, and details man's efforts through the centuries to keep himself informed of the hours. The show also presents a collection of unusual timepieces.

Guided tours of the time show are being provided school groups, clubs and groups of individuals by docents of the Junior League of Midland Inc. Arrangements for tours may be made through the museum office, 683-2882.

Also scheduled to close at the museum soon is an exhibit of books, art works and memorabilia of the Old West. The collection is from the Nita Stewart Haley Memorial Library.

The museum is open to the public without charge between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays, and from 2 to 5 p.m. each Sunday.

Final Premieres Of Movie Slated At Globe Theatre

ODESSA — The final two premiere showings of "All the World's A Stage," the Globe Theatre's movie on the life of playwright William Shakespeare, will be Friday and Saturday nights. Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for students.

The movie added a new dimension to the summer work of the Globe's professional repertory company. The picture will be released soon to schools and universities across the country.

Both screenings this weekend will begin at 8:30 p.m.

VIOLINIST DIES—Famed Soviet violinist Oistrakh, pictured here during a rehearsal in London in 1962, died in Amsterdam today. Oistrakh was 66. (AP Wirephoto.)

Russian Violinist David Oistrakh Dies Unexpectedly In Netherlands

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — David Oistrakh, the world renowned Soviet violinist, died early today in his room at an Amsterdam hotel, a spokesman for the Amsterdam Philharmonic Orchestra announced.

Oistrakh was 66 and had a history of heart trouble in recent years. The spokesman said the cause of death had not been determined yet, but it was assumed he died of a heart attack.

Oistrakh in recent years had widened his musical activity to include conducting and arrived in Amsterdam on Oct. 7 for a Brahms series with the Philharmonic. He had conducted six concerts, the last one two days ago, and had been the soloist in three of them.

People who saw the musician in the last few days reported that he looked well and showed no signs of illness, in contrast to his appearance following a series of heart attacks several years ago.

Body To Moscow

The violinist's wife was with him in Amsterdam, and a spokesman for his Dutch manager said she would take the body to Moscow on an afternoon flight.

Their son, Igor, is also a prominent concert violinist. He often appeared with his father in concerts and on records but never equaled him in the estimation of the critics or the public.

A native of Odessa, on the Black Sea, Oistrakh made his debut while a student at the Odessa Music and Drama Institute in the early 1920s and in 1930 won first prize in the All-Ukraine Violin Competition.

Extensive Concert Tours

His career abroad began in 1935 when he took second place in the International Wieniawski Competition in Warsaw, Poland. In 1937, he won first prize in the Eugene Ysaye Violin Competition in Brussels, then the Western world's most coveted prize for violinists.

Extensive concert tours in Western Europe before World War II established Oistrakh as one of the world's leading violin virtuosos.

He made his American debut at New York's Carnegie Hall on Nov. 20, 1955, during the first cultural thaw of the Cold War between the United States and the Soviet Union. He was a sensation and went on to a triumphant American tour of recitals and appearances with leading American orchestras.

After that first season, he was a frequent visitor to the United States until his heart ailment forced him to curtail his travels. But he continued to appear at home and in Western Europe as soloist and conductor, to make recordings and to teach at the Moscow Conservatory, where he had been a professor since 1939.

Final Performances Of 'Jabberwock' Scheduled Tonight, Friday, Saturday

Final performances of Midland Community Theatre's current attraction, "Jabberwock," will be tonight, and Friday and Saturday nights.

Tonight's performance will have an 8 o'clock curtain, and the weekend performances will begin at 8:30. Information on availability of seating for the three performances may be obtained by contacting the Theatre Centre box office, 682-2544.

"Jabberwock," a new comedy by playwrights Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, is based on the late American humorist James Thurber's recollections of his boyhood in Columbus, Ohio, back in World War 1. Clay Guthrie heads the MCT cast as young Jamie, with Gloria Stephenson portraying his mother and Mark Guinan as his father. The comedy role of Grandpa Fisher is taken by Henry Goulet.

The Theatre Centre Gallery art show during the run of "Jabberwock" showcases paintings and sculpture by Enid Little Ellis.

Mrs. Ellis, a longtime Midland resident, also has lived in Washington, D.C., Paris, Rome and Athens. Sculpture is her first love, and the gallery show contains many examples of her work in clay. She studied classical sculpture in both Rome and Athens. She has done busts of prominent Washingtonians, including former Speaker of the House John McCormick and George Bush, a former Midlander.

Subteen Athletics Program Heard

A program on subteen athletics was presented to members of the Westside Optimist Club at their Wednesday noon meeting in the Elks Club.

Featured speaker was Aubrey Linne, a former youth coach and pro football player. Linne is director of the sports publications division of B. P. Industries here and has been a Midland resident for the past year and a half.

Linne, who was a three-year letterman at Texas Christian University before his graduation in 1961, later played pro football with the Baltimore Colts and in the Canadian Football League. Formerly associated with the YMCA at Richardson, he now serves as chairman of the Midland Central YMCA's football committee and coordinator of its football clinic. A past president of the Richardson Jaycees, he is active in state Jaycee work.

Religion Today

"... there is in the human condition a built-in strain toward evolving an ultimate meaning system and making it sacred." (A. M. Greeley)

The problem for many modern men and women is how?

Most members of the Unitarian Universalist religious community would not pretend to know the answer. But they maintain:

1. that no one else has the answer either.
2. that the very search for answers informs life with religious values.
3. that this search is carried on better — and more enjoyably — in the company of others who share these assumptions.

The exhibition will open at noon Sunday and continue on view daily through Nov. 2.

Harry S. Parker III, director of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, was in Midland earlier this week to judge the show following its installation by MAA members and volunteers. Parker had high praise for the quality of art and craft works entered in the regional exhibit, and commented: "I was very impressed by the creativity and quality found in the entries in this Midland Arts Association show. There is work of merit in all media. Anyone who likes art had better take a look to see what is going on in this area."

Artists and craftsmen who entered the show were vying for approximately $1,500 in prize money. New this year is a special $300 purchase award from Gibson's Discount Center and The First National Bank for a work to go into the permanent collection of the Museum of the Southwest.

Parker became director of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts last Jan. 1. He had been vice director for education at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art since early 1971 and before that served as executive assistant to the director of the Metropolitan Museum, Thomas P. F. Hoving and Hoving's predecessor, the late James J. Rorimer. He also served four years as chairman of the Metropolitan's education department.

Parker was educated at the Hotchkiss School and Harvard College, where he received a B.A. degree in 1961. He attended the University of Utrech on a Fulbright Fellowship and received a master's degree in 1966 from the Institute of Fine Arts of New York University.

'Edenton Tea Party' On Tonight At Globe

ODESSA — An historic event of Oct. 25, 1774, will be re-enacted at the Globe of the Great Southwest tonight with the premiere presentation of "The Edenton Tea Party."

The play, which will have a second performance at the Globe on Sunday afternoon, is presented by Odessa's 12 chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority as a Bicentennial event in Odessa.

The play centers around the 1774 happening in Edenton, N.C., when 51 women signed a pledge to boycott English tea and all other British goods. The event was the first recorded instance of political activity by American women.

Mrs. J. S. Hendricks of Odessa is a direct descendant of one of the signers of the Edenton pledge. Members of Beta Sigma Phi talked with Mrs. Hendricks, finding out all she knew through family stories of the boycott. The sorority members also corresponded with officials of Historic Edenton Inc., but were able to learn little of the event other than the names of women involved and the exact wording of the boycott pledge itself.

Accordingly, a script committee was formed from among sorority members to create characters and formulate a dramatic story on "the way it might have been." The play to have its premiere presentation here tonight is the result.

Plots and sub-plots became almost real to the script committee as its work progressed so that "The Edenton Tea Party" encompasses "little" moments as well as "big" ones leading to the historic declaration of boycott.

Portraying the group of Edenton women are Kathy Crawford, Saundra Umstead, Jo Alice Langston, Nancy Wood, Shirley Glass, Cleo McNeme, Charleen Scott, Mary DeWitt, Katy Jane Clark, Mavis Wickson, Jerri Johnson, Cheryl Ferguson, Barbara Owen, Teresa Baugh and Judy Heslop.

Kaye Jones has directed the production, assisted by Emma Mayers. Barbara Owens is production manager.

Performance time tonight will be 8 o'clock, and Sunday's matinee is scheduled for 2 p.m. Tickets, priced at $2 for adults and $1 for children under age 12, will be on sale at the Globe Theater box office before each performance.

Tech Displaying Mural

LUBBOCK — A mural depicting the use of water in arid and semi-arid lands is having its premiere showing at The Museum of Texas Tech University in conjunction with an exhibit of other works by the mural's artist, Peter Rogers.

The mural, 17 by 40 feet, is India ink on gesso. In addition to the mural, which is on the wall of The Museum foyer, approximately 50 of Rogers' works are on exhibit. These include ink-and-pencils, acrylics and watercolors.All are of the theme which he has been evolving since 1956.

Rogers calls this theme "The Quest," and the subject and style are far removed from the representational style used for the mural. Rogers deseribes his "quest" as one for oneness with God, for spiritual enlightenment. The works are subjective, he says, and are the most recent results of his five-year study of the same allegorical theme.

Rogers' completed mural is almost identical to his original sketch for the work. A major change is the addition of a great blue heron, wading in a pool of water near a small dam. Rogers explained that the bird was added because it was "something lyrical in what tends to be a rather stark design."

While the scene in the mural is not specifically of West Texas, it is representational of the American Southwest which is relatively new to Rogers. He came to New Mexico after his marriage to Carol Hurd, the daughter of artists Peter Hurd and Henriette Wyeth Hurd. Rogers was born in England and met his wife in Spain.

The Rogers exhibition will be on display until Nov. 17.

Charlie Chaplin Announces Plans To Produce Movie

LONDON (AP) — "I'll never retire," said Charlie Chaplin, 80. "Perhaps I said I would, but I can't. Things keep popping up in my mind."

With that, up popped the announcement from the "Little Tramp" of silent movies that he planned to produce a movie from a story called "The Freak" that he wrote years ago for his daughter, Victoria.

It has to do with an angel who comes down to earth.

"We began to rehearse it together," he told newsmen Wednesday at a theater party at which two of his old movies were shown. "Then she left home to get married. But I meant to make it one day, and we're going ahead."

Chibbett To Present Organ-Harpsichord Recital Here Today

An organ-harpsichord recital will be presented here tonight by Michael Chibbett of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Chibbett, currently on his first concert tour of the U.S., has played programs on the East Coast in recent days, and comes to Midland from a recital engagement in St. Louis. He will play additional recitals in the Southwest in coming weeks, including those at Albuquerque, N.M. and Lubbock.

For his Midland recital, scheduled to begin at 7:45 p.m. in the sanctuary of First United Methodist Church, Chibbett has programmed works for harpsichord by Thomas Morley, Jan Sweelinck, Johann Jacob Froberger and J. S. Bach. Organ works will include those by Bach, Mozart and Haydn.

The recital is being presented by the music department of First UMC and will be open to the public without charge. Midland's West Texas chapter, American Guild of Organists, will host a reception in Chibbett's honor in the church parlor following the recital. The public is invited to attend and meet the young artist.

Bob Hartmann More Equal Than Other Aides To Ford

By LEE BYRD

WASHINGTON (AP) — A warmly autographed picture of John Fitzgerald Kennedy sits on the mantel. To one side of the desk, a news printer hums away where Rose Mary Woods' tape recorder once did.

It is an impressive office, cream and yellow. And most notably it adjoins that of the President. It was here, before Miss Woods, that H. R. Haldeman maintained the severest order witnessed at the White House since Sherman Adams. An outer sanctum through which few men passed to the inner.

Where Comparison Ends

"Sure, it's got that magic door," said Robert Trowbridge Hartmann, silver hair flapping over brow as he nodded toward the Oval Office. "And that's where the comparison ends."

Still, it obviously is of no little consequence that Bob Hartmann sits between the President's secretary and the President's ear, and that she answers to both men. Indeed, it is said around the White House that Hartmann, 57, is Gerald R. Ford's alter ego, a kindred spirit, as Haldeman was to Richard M. Nixon.

Assistant speechwriter Milton Friedman reduces the phenomenon somewhat simply: "Hartmann and the President ... are harmony."

Friedman is in a position to judge, for Hartmann's influence is reflected first and foremost in the President's spoken word. Ford's most noted lines — "Our long national nightmare is over," and to Congress, "I do not want a honeymoon with you. I want a good marriage" — are spawned not by the 38th President, but by his top adviser.

Working On Speech

Hartmann was interviewed as he worked on a Ford speech to the United Nations, and he seemed at some pain about it. It was really no test, he said, of the music they prefer to make together.

"It's different from what we generally want to do, because it's one of those things where you have to get a lot of collective views reflected. At the U.N., the President speaks as an institution ... It's just not a matter of communicating to the American people his own personality.

"But most of the time we ignore the old method, in which you get about 20 people involved and then about the 6th draft goes to the President. That's just not for us ..."

Robert Hartmann, presidential friend, counselor, confidante, troubleshooter and wordsmith. An old salt from the press corps who still suffers the deadline syndrome, who often procrastinates and then gets up at 2 a.m. at his Maryland home to finish something the President wants first thing when he arrives at the office.

"It drives him nuts," laughs Hartmann.

Not that everything flows from his pen at the last moment. When Ford was sworn in, he had a short, eloquent speech which expressed ideas he and Hartmann had discussed — alone — long before Richard Nixon resigned.

Sharing Thoughts

"He shared his thoughts with me" in those final days, said Hartmann, "because he couldn't share them with anyone else."

There are many who view Hartmann's special relationship with the President with disdain, perhaps with envy. "It's the Prussian guard all over again," said one Ford staffer who is not so privileged. "Just like Haldeman or (John) Ehrlichman."

Certainly there's no love lost between Hartmann and the people he disparagingly refers to as "the system" or "the establishment" around the administration — meaning the Nixon holdovers.

Hartmann is much credited with keeping Ford at arm's length from Nixon during the former President's plunge to resignation. And that strategy took shape even before Ford officially became vice president, when Hartmann helped circumvent a White House plan for an elaborate swearing-in ceremony in the East Room. Instead, Ford took the oath in the House.

No secret was made of Hartmann's running feud with L. William Seidman, now a key economic adviser, whom Ford had brought to Washington early this year to reorganize the vice president's office. Hartmann, or so it would seem, has little use for studied organization. But he and Seidman now claim to get along. "We learned better," said Hartmann. "We both work for Gerald Ford."

Yet it may be partially Hartmann's doing that Seidman, a millionaire accountant from Grand Rapids much admired by Ford for his managerial creativity, works across the street from the White House, rather than in it. Seidman had been named by some as a prime candidate to replace the departing Alexander M. Haig as chief of staff. But Hartmann made it clear he wanted neither Seidman nor anyone else with such power.

"That title is going to be dissolved and the man who replaces Haig will be little more than an administrative assistant," vowed Hartmann at the time. "And if I were Seidman, I wouldn't want to waste my talents pushing paper. I certainly don't." The job subsequently went to Donald Rumsfeld, and press secretary Ron Nessen officially confirmed the lesser responsibilities.

At the White House itself, the top-echelon staff includes Hartmann, Counsel Philip Buchen, Counselor John O. Marsh, Rumsfeld, and Nessen. In addition, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger spends a good deal of time at his White House office.

"We are all No. 2s," says Hartmann. "No single one of us, for example, will run the staff meetings. And all of us have ready access to the President."

Usually In Background

But it is obvious that some are a little more equal than others. Hartmann's duties seem the most sweeping, and the least defined, and he is usually somewhere in the background of every presidential turn. Buchen, whose office is a step away from Hartmann's — and hence second closest to Ford's — also spends much time with the President, though he insists that "I merely provide legal service" and does not involve himself with policy or politics.

In fact, Buchen has handled some of Ford's most ticklish tasks, including the pardon of Nixon.

A less controversial job has been Buchen's direction of the Ford transition, an assignment he began many months before Nixon departed. A one-time law partner of Ford in Grand Rapids, Buchen recalls that, "The vice president didn't want any of his own staff involved ... I got a small group together and we would meet periodically, building a sort of checklist."

The process has been going on for weeks, and slowly the Nixon men and women are being replaced. For the most part it's been smooth, perhaps due to Buchen's quiet, gracious manner.

HOROSCOPE

by Carroll Righter

Oct. 25)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An interesting day which brings dramatic and unexpected opportunities in the a.m., which can be used quickly to your advantage, after which you can go to work to put your aims in action.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Listen to suggestions of modern-thinking pals, but double-check ideas with expert in p.m. Act to gain some fond personal aim.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put ideas to work that will improve community life. Later get together with good pals for recreation. In p.m., avoid one trying to fleece you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study new ways to advance, then contact bigwigs who can help get wheels rolling. A new contact teaches you how to have more prestige.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Some dramatic act is the way to gain your aims with closest tie now. Later, look into new ventures you like that are profitable.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Reach understanding with a puzzling partner and clear the air, then make new agreements that are fairer. Avoid showdown with an angry person.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Set up work more efficiently in a.m., then work out better agreements with partners. Improve vitality. Out socially tonight and have fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan amusements early, then put that creative skill work with a vengeance. Do something thoughtful for a good friend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Handle home problem early, then get out to activities that most please you. Evening can be particularly rewarding at home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Shop early, then get duties, appointments out of the way so you can enjoy kin in the evening. Consider some new plan for success.

HARD TIMES CALL FOR A TOUGH CAR.

A Volvo is the answer. The body is welded into one solid piece. The roof pillars have supported over eight tons. Metal parts most prone to rust are made least prone to rust. They're galvanized.

Outside: coat upon coat of primer and paint. Underside: two separate undercoats. Finally, more mileage. The Volvo 144 goes about 70% farther on a gallon of gas than most popular big domestic sedans.* Come in and see our Volvos. Before things get worse.

Proposed Utilities Board Opposed By Regional Planning Commission

By GEORGE MASSEY

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission Wednesday adopted a resolution opposing the creation of a state utility commission by the Texas Legislature.

The opposing resolution will be presented to the Texas Municipal League at its annual convention later this month and will be presented to the Texas Legislature by the group.

Jim Kent, PBRPC board member, told the planning group that the people of Texas have utility rates substantially lower than the majority of states with utility commissions and substantially lower than the national average.

Kent said another reason for the opposing resolution is to ensure that the local governments "have a say in the setting of gas rates." He said only two states are presently operating without state utility commissions and that Texas was one of the "hold outs."

Kent told the PBRPC board members that the other states with utility commissions were using "highly inadequate" means of determining realistic gas rates for customers in various parts of the country. He said the utility commissions in general "just don't have the right input of data or qualified personnel" to determine what the rates should be for a specific area.

Other members of the board, including Midland County Judge Barbara Culver, joined Kent in adopting the opposing resolution for a state utility commission. The board went on record as opposing, "another bureaucratic regulatory agency." Several board members chipped-in with, "We've got more than enough of those (controling agencies) than we need now."

However, Judge Culver asked that the PBRPC note in its resolution that the planning group was "in favor" of supporting the present Texas Utility Advisory Board. Judge Culver's proposal was given approval, and will be included in the board's resolution.

The PBRPC board, in other action, gave favorable comments for two highway improvement projects — one in Reeves County and the other in Ector County — and approved Step 1 Projects for Pecos and Monahans. The Pecos-Monahans projects both involve sanitary sewage and water treatment plants under the funding of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Another two projects for Lamesa, presently ongoing, received approval by the board, but not after some indepth questioning by Judge Culver.

It was noted by the judge that a food commodity service being offered by Lamesa is a duplication of services in the various counties.

Janet Everheart, Lamesa project representative, told the board that her county's food service had been funded by the Texas Department of Community Affairs and would supply food to needy persons in the PBRPC's 17 counties if those counties so requested.

Judge Culver told the board that projects such as the Lamesa food service showed a lack of communication between the various counties in several aspects of planning. She said that Midland County officials were not aware that Lamesa is offering the food service, and that an attempt should be made to inform every county what services are available.

Judge Culver pointed out that some counties, such as Midland, might not want the services because it would be a complete duplication while others might be in great need of it. She said that adequate funding could not be obtained for the project, or denied, unless it was discerned "exactly who would be using the service offered."

The Lamesa Head Start program was given approval of the board without debate.

Fourteen new members were leected to the PBRPC Emergency Medical System Committee which is conducting a study to discern the needs for emergency medical efforts throughout the entire 17-county region.

New members include Col. elected to the PBRPC Emergenty; Len Wilson, Andrews County; Jim Burkett, Borden County; Charles Lathan, Dawson County; Dean Williams, Ector County; Judge Marcus Crow, Gaines County; Don Stringer, Glasscock County; John Snyder, Howard County; Fred Kennedy, Martin; Dr. John C. Research Finds No Link Of Coffee, Heart Disease

BOSTON (AP) — Healthy people who gave up coffee for fear it caused heart disease can safely resume having an extra cup with their breakfast, say researchers who found no link between the brew and cardiovascular problems.

In a major 12-year study published today of almost 4,500 persons, "it was concluded that coffee drinking, as engaged in by the general population, is not a factor in the development of atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease," the report says.

However, the study asserts that no conclusion can be drawn about the possible effect of coffee or persons who already have heart disease.

Controversy has boiled over the relation of coffee drinking and heart disease since the publication of a statistical study two years ago by the Boston Collabrative Drug Surveillance Program.

That study found a direct link between coffee and heart problems in a sampling of hospital heart patients. But several studies since then found no such relationship in sampling persons who had no heart problems.

The latest report was published in the New England Journal of Medicine by Dr. Thomas R. Dawber, Dr. William B. Kannel and Tavia Gordon of Boston University Medical Center.

Boston Surgeon Says Hospital Costs Escalating Too Rapidly

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Most surgeons do not know how much hospital tests cost, and one way to let them know is to send them a copy of their patients' bills, a Boston surgeon says.

"Surgeons don't know the cost of tests they order in the hospital—that's one reason the cost of surgery is rising so fast," Dr. Thomas Ballentine Jr. said Wednesday at the American College of Surgeons convention.

The neurosurgeon said he performed an operation on a South American man who was hospitalized for 10 days and then sent home.

"When I heard the hospital bill, I fell on the floor. It was $5,310. The man has no insurance. He has to pay it all," Ballentine said.

"Costs are escalating at a fantastic rate. If we don't do something, our system is going to fall flat on its face."

However, Ballentine said attempts to implement government control should be resisted by physicians because such control would result in even higher medical costs.

Sir Benjamin Rank of Australia, also part of an international panel on financing of surgical care, added that development of national health insurance should not be left to economists because no proposal will work if it is opposed by doctors.

Rank, a Melbourne plastic surgeon, said that once a government gets control of medical priorities, there is always "a sacrifice of quality for quantity and economy."

Greek Cypriot Students Stage Nicosia Protest

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Several hundred Greek Cypriot students marched through the streets of Nicosia today in an anti-American demonstration.

They chanted slogans and carried placards deriding U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. They also demanded withdrawal of the Turkish invasion force from Cyprus and the return of Greek Cypriot refugees to their homes.

Many Greek Cypriots feel the American government was behind the Turkish invasion of last July.

The demonstration wound up outside the heavily guarded U.S. Embassy. The students sat in the street for 10 minutes blocking traffic.

Ford Refuses To Endorse Judy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has refused to endorse Republican Judy Petty in her race against Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, but has praised her effort and wished her well.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Wednesday the President believes Miss Petty is "waging a vigorous and determined campaign for Congress and he wishes her well."

Woman Episcopal Priest To Conduct Services Sunday

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Jeannette R. Piccard of Minneapolis says she and two other women ordained as Episcopal priests will celebrate the eucharist in New York City's Riverside Church Sunday.

The three are planning the service despite a declaration of the Episcopal House of Bishops that they are not priests.

The ordination of the Rev. Dr. Piccard, 79, and 10 other women last July was called "irregular" by the church, because the Episcopal Church's General Convention has not yet permitted the ordination of women as priests.

"It seems incredible that sex alone can be a barrier to the priesthood," the Rev. Dr. Piccard said Wednesday. "What are we living in — the Middle Ages?"

The House of Bishops voted last week in favor of ordination of women in principle but did not act on ordinations that have already taken place.

Seven Protestant and Roman Catholic women's groups will sponsor Sunday's service with the Rev. Dr. Piccard as a celebrant. Other celebrants will be the Rev. Alison Cheek, 47, of the Diocese of Virginia, and the Rev. Carter Heyward, 28, of the Diocese of New York.

Ray Defense Says Main State Witness Was Drunk

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray was placed at the scene of the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by a man who was too drunk to stand up 15 minutes before he said he saw Ray, according to testimony in a hearing on a motion for withdrawal of Ray's guilty plea.

James McGraw, a taxi driver, told a federal court hearing he was to pick up Charles Quitman Stephens, the state's key witness against Ray, about 5:45 p.m. on April 4, 1968, but found Stephens drunk and unable to walk or stand in an upstairs bedroom of a rooming house.

Stephens identified Ray as a man who ran from the upstairs bathroom of the rooming house shortly after King was shot as he stood on the balcony of the nearby Lorraine Motel about 6 p.m. Authorities say the shot was fired from the bathroom.

Rays attorneys placed McGraw on the stand in an attempt to discredit Stephens' testimony and support their contention that evidence was available to Ray's former lawyers to argue his innocence.

Ray pleaded guilty and accepted a 99-year prison sentence for the slaying of King, but he is now asking that the plea be withdrawn so he can stand trial in the case.

Modern Paintings No Longer Rated As 'Blue Chips'

NEW YORK (AP) — Modern paintings, long regarded as blue chip investments that could also decorate walls, have apparently become the latest casualty of the world's shaky economy.

A "barometer sale" of modern art at Sotheby Parke Bernet on Wednesday painted a glum picture of sliding prices, with about one-third of the works bought back by their owners.

The price trend was down for the first time in more than 30 years.

The auction had been estimated to gross from $5.5 million to $7 million, but brought only $4.785 million. Last May, a similar sale of works by many of the same artists fetched $8.3 million.

Freedom Of Information Measure Being Redrawn

WASHINGTON (AP) — A freedom of information measure vetoed last week is being revised by White House aides to overcome President Ford's objections to the legislation.

The new draft of the bill, intended to broaden public access to government documents, probably will be sent to Capitol Hill within a few days after receiving Ford's approval, aides said Wednesday.

In a veto message last Thursday, Ford said he would "submit shortly language which would dispel may concerns regarding the manner of judicial review of classified material and for mitigating the administrative burden placed on the agencies, especially our law enforcement agencies, by the bill . . . ."

The veto message indicated the form of the revised bill. For example, Ford suggested that when a request is made for classified documents, the courts could review the classification but would have to reject the request for access to the material if the government agency involved could cite a reasonable basis for secrecy.

Ford also said he wanted more flexible criteria governing the response by law enforcement agencies to requests for investigatory records.
