School tax rate decision on tap

The Snyder school board is expected to set a tax rate at a called meeting to begin at noon Tuesday. The board will be having lunch at the Northeast Elementary campus and is expected to open the meeting for business around 12:30 p.m.

The exact figure for the tax rate is expected to be set pending the outcome of board discussion Tuesday. It is expected to be in the range of 75 to 80 cents per $100 valuation, administrators say. The tax rate last year was 51.5 cents.

The board has put off setting the rate pending the outcome of the recent special session of the Texas Legislature.

Specifically, school officials hoped to pinpoint the amount of state-allocated dollars the district can expect this year.

This information has not been released, however, and Superintednent Bob Hawes said he does not expect it for the next 30 days.

The board must now set the rate since a reporting deadline required by the Scurry County Appraisal District is nearing.

Tax notices to county property owners are expected to be mailed beginning next week.

The budget which the school's tax rate will help fund was approved Aug. 7 by the board. It totals some $12.6 million, down from last year's budget of some $12.9 million.

Reagan repeats calls for release

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — President Reagan told the United Nations today that there has been movement in U.S.-Soviet negotiations to reduce nuclear-missile arsenals, but condemned Moscow's detention of an American reporter as "a particularly disturbing example of Soviet transgressions against human rights."

"The world expects better," Reagan said in his fifth speech to the United Nations.

"It expects contributions to the cause of peace that only the leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union can make."

Reagan again demanded the release of Nicholas Daniloff, the Moscow correspondent for U.S. News & World Report, and said the Soviet Union "bears the responsibility for the consequences of its action."

Accord reached today...

War risk addressed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 35-nation Stockholm conference today formally adopted the first East-West security agreement of the decade, an accord designed to reduce the risk of an accidental war in Europe.

During this morning's final session of the 32-month conference, the clock remained at 10:56 p.m., the time it was stopped on Friday, the original deadline for the conference. Delegates said they had to "freeze" time because several issues were unresolved.

The agreement was reached late Sunday when Soviet and U.S. negotiators compromised on arrangements for notification, observation and on-site inspection of military maneuvers.

After today's final session, delegates celebrated the accord with champagne toasts.

According to military experts, the final document will enable NATO, the Warsaw Pact and neutral European nations to foresee and judge with greater precision than before all sizeable military maneuvers and movements in Europe.

"There were issues we fought for and did not achieve but the result is definitely a step forward. It enables us to check the real will to build confidence," said a NATO military expert, who spoke on condition he not be identified further.

Juvenile contract okayed

Commissioners Monday authorized County Judge Preston Wilson to sign a contract with Lubbock County to house juvenile offenders from Scurry County.

The contract calls for 20 days to be paid for by the county at $40 per day — $800 for the year — regardless of actual use. The county may exceed the 20-day limit if space is available at an additional $40 per day. Wilson noted that monies for the facilities will come from state funds provided to the local juvenile department.

Also Monday, court members agreed to allow representatives of Western Texas College to erect a bronze plaque on the courthouse wall directly behind the bandstand on the southside of the square. Dr. Harry Krenek, WTC president, and Bettie McQueen, dean of instruction, presented the large plaque to the court.

Similar in design to a state historical marker, the plaque recognizes that the current structure stands in memory of the original bandstand that stood on the northwest corner of the courthouse lawn and that it was donated through the efforts of WTC faculty and staff.

First session tonight for 'parent training'

The parents of elementary-age school children are invited to their child's campus Monday night for the first in a series of "parent training" workshops.

Monday's session, to begin at 7 p.m. at each of the six local elementary campuses, will precede similar workshops Tuesday at the junior high and Thursday at the high school.

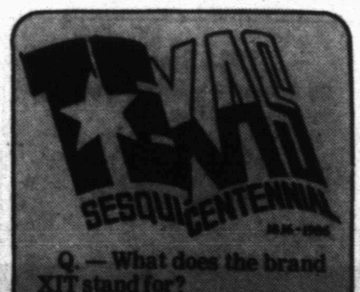

Each is designed to show how parents can help their children study at home.

The sessions, a first for school districts across Texas, are part of House Bill 72 mandates which require school officials to offer the training.

For Monday's elementary school meetings, principals and staff members at the respective campuses will be directing the sessions.

School officials say these will be helpful in planning how the parents can help their child study at home. Also, information will be provided related to study skills, discipline management and curriculum.

Since the workshop is not designed for students, parents are asked not to bring their child with them.

Q. — What does the brand XIT stand for?

A. — While many believe it stands for Ten in Texas (10 counties), it was said to be designed as a brand that means nothing, but is near impossible to alter with a branding iron.

Two youth 'exchange' trip to Paris for local

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Charlie McCormick, son of Claude Jr. and Barbara McCormick of Snyder, has helped host foreign exchange students in his home before, but this past summer he wanted his "own experience."

To achieve his goal, he signed up for the International Youth Exchange Program (coordinated through the Snyder Rotary Club and the work of local volunteers and organizations) and crammed by studying 50 hours of French language tapes.

He flew to Paris in June to visit Remi Hussenot, who lives in Bordeaux, a city with a population of about 100,000.

Hussenot returned to the U.S. with McCormick on July 27, but they did not come directly to Snyder. Instead, they arrived in Boston to visit McCormick's sister, Cindy, where they were joined by his parents. Later, they all flew to Houston to visit the younger McCormick's sister, Jeannie.

Hussenot remained in Snyder until Aug. 31.

McCormick said he was determined to become an exchange

Q. — Is the bronze statue for the white buffalo still in the works?

A. — Yes. The first two models for the statue, the creation of local artist Robert Taylor, are to be unveiled Oct. 4 at an auction planned in conjunction with White Buffalo Days.

In Brief

3 on docket

WASHINGTON (AP) — With time rapidly running out on the 99th Congress, the House plans to tackle the year's three major money matters this week, and a special impeachment panel in the Senate continues the trial of an imprisoned federal judge.

The House plans action on more than two dozen bills, mostly minor, today and Tuesday.

But the money starts to roll Wednesday, when the House plans to vote on an election-year budget package designed to shave about $15 billion off the fiscal 1987 deficit without tax increases or major cuts in federal spending programs.

The budget plan, similar to one passed by the Senate on Friday, is a hodgepodge of items such as government assets sales, user fees for government services and accounting changes. It would allow Congress to drop the deficit below $154 billion, the threshold at which Gramm-Rudman calls for across-the-board spending cuts.

Past problems

NEW YORK (AP) — President Corazon Aquino, on a day filled with nostalgia for her years in America and awards for her revolution in the Philippines, said her country still has problems over past human rights abuses.

In a hectic, emotional day Sunday, Mrs. Aquino visited her exile home in a Boston suburb, met in New York City with college classmates on a stage where she once performed Philippine native dances, spoke extemporaneously to her biggest crowd of Filipino-Americans yet and received four awards.

SNB 'jar' total

The Snyder National Bank money jar, a feature at SNB's fair booth, contained $555.75 and the winner who guessed closest to this amount was notified Monday.

Winning a $50 savings bond was Louis Beuerlein of 2604 35th St. He missed the exact amount by only 20 cents, estimating $555.55.

Another entrant was very close as Strick Posey of 2206 44th St. guessed an even $555.

The gallon glass jar contained both bills and loose change.

'Moonlighting' is snubbed by Emmy awards

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — For the second year in a row, the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences snubbed a hot new show to honor the CBS police series "Cagney & Lacey," but NBC was the big winner with 19 of the 31 Emmys.

ABC's "Moonlighting," which led going in with 16 nominations, was shut out Sunday in the 38th Emmy Awards at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, winning just one award — editing — in crafts categories announced two weeks ago. It was the same fate suffered last year by NBC's "Miami Vice," which had 15 nominations but won only for supporting actor Edward James Olmos.

ABC had just one Emmy, matching PBS, while CBS had 10.

"Cagney & Lacey" won for best drama series; for outstanding lead actress, Sharon Gless, who plays Detective Christine Cagney; supporting actor John Karlen, who plays Detective Mary Beth Lacey's husband Harvey; and a directing award for Georg Stanford Brown, co-star Tyne Daly's real-life husband. It was the second consecutive best drama award for the show.

NBC's first-year comedy series, "The Golden Girls," beat out "The Cosby Show" and garnered five Emmys, while NBC's "Peter the Great" was named best miniseries and its "Love Is Never Silent" was named best drama or comedy special.

Counting the craft awards announced two weeks ago, NBC collected 34 Emmys, CBS 22, PBS 11 and ABC 6. Last year, NBC won a total of 25, CBS 18, PBS 17 and ABC 8.

The NBC telecast, with hosts David Letterman and "Cheers" star Shelley Long, ran just a minute over three hours, virtually on schedule. The emotional peak came with the presentation of the prestigious Governors Award to 73-year-old Red Skelton, who received a standing ovation, as did Lucille Ball, who introduced him.

This was the fourth year Ms. Gless had been nominated, but for the past three years Ms. Daly had won.

"This was part of my dream," said a weeping Ms. Gless, holding her Emmy high above her head. She thanked Ms. Daly, "who I am sure is the most relieved woman sitting here tonight."

"I want to thank the people I forgot to thank last year," cracked William Daniels as he collected his second Emmy as best lead actor in a drama series for his role as Dr. Mark Craig on NBC's "St. Elsewhere." Bonnie Bartlett, his wife on the show and in private life, was named best supporting actress.

John Lithgow was named best guest performer in a drama series for his role in NBC's "Amazing Stories." The Emmys for guest stars is a new category. Tom Fontana, John Tinker and John Masius won the writing Emmy for a drama series for the "Time Heals" episode of NBC's "St. Elsewhere."

"The Golden Girls" was named best comedy series, winning over "The Cosby Show." Betty White was selected as best lead actress over two of her co-stars, Bea Arthur and Rue McClanahan. It also won for technical direction.

Michael J. Fox won as best lead actor in a comedy series for his role in NBC's "Family Ties." He was nominated last year for the same role as a supporting actor.

Two winners from last year won Emmys again. They were John Larroquette of NBC's "Night Court" and Rhea Perlman of NBC's "Cheers." Roscoe Lee Browne was named best guest performer in a comedy series for "The Cosby Show."

NBC's "Peter the Great," filmed largely in the Soviet Union, was named best miniseries. It also won for music composition. Larry Schiller accepted the award, apparently signaling a settlement to his suit following his dismissal as director. It was Schiller who put the miniseries together and secured cooperation of the Soviet Union.

Dustin Hoffman won as best lead actor in a miniseries or special for his role as Willy Loman in the CBS special "Death of a Salesman." There had been a controversy on Broadway in 1984 when Hoffman was denied a Tony nomination for the role.

ABC's only award of the night went to Colleen Dewhurst for the ABC drama "Between Two Women."

Adoptive brothers receive acclaim

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — National acclaim has come to Chris Yerby, 18, and Chris White, 16, since word got out in the past week how they discovered they were brothers after meeting by accident at a Corpus Christi high school.

The newly found adopted brothers are scheduled to appear Tuesday on ABC-TV's "Good Morning, America" program.

"I had no idea anything like this would happen," Chris' mother Margaret White told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. "I mean, we're just ordinary people."

The brothers' story appeared first in the Corpus Christi Caller-Times last week, then was circulated nationally by the Associated Press. Along with "Good Morning, America," the brothers have been called by People Magazine and a correspondent for the London Times.

Newspapers across the United States have featured their story, including front page articles in Cincinnati and Austin.

Yerby, now a student at Texas A&M, said he was a bit stunned by all the attention. He has been interviewed by radio stations in New York and Austin, and a talk show in Seattle, Wash., offered to fly both families to the Northwest for an interview.

Virginia town fears loss of its biggest industry

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Business leaders, fearing a loss of jobs and dwindling sales of everything from cars to carpets, are fighting to keep one of central Virginia's biggest industries: the Rev. Jerry Falwell.

The evangelist, who employs about 2,000 people here, has threatened to move most of his enterprises from the city of 65,000 unless he gets tax exemptions for his Liberty University, Old-Time Gospel Hour television show and Liberty Godparent Home. He also wants forgiveness of a $1.4 million tax debt.

Atlanta is the leading choice for a new base of operations, said Mark DeMoss, Falwell's administrative assistant. "We don't know of another university in America that pays real estate taxes."

The public dispute started six years ago when Falwell sued over the tax status of 23 properties owned by the Old-Time Gospel Hour. A judge ruled that City Council was correct in taxing the properties. The Virginia Supreme Court is to hear the case in January.

DeMoss said the Old-Time Gospel Hour board got into a discussion of taxes when it was considering long-range plans for the ministry and university.

"As we began to discuss expansion and building, it became clear that the tax bill, if we decided to stay here, could very easily be several million dollars a year at some point," he said. "That would become a significant problem."

Lynchburg City Council has scheduled a hearing for Thursday on Falwell's request. The Virginia General Assembly would have to decide on the exemption, but lawmakers say such actions generally are approved if backed by local officials.

Councilman Joseph F. Freeman III said he believes the council will try to work out the problem. Falwell is the third largest employer in the Lynchburg area, which has 200,000 residents. The largest is Babcock & Wilcox, which makes nuclear reactors, followed by General Electric.

After Falwell announced he might leave, businessmen started working to persuade him to stay.

Familiar names top EPA list

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new car mileage figures are out, and the list looks a lot like last year's, with the Japanese-made, three-cylinder Chevrolet Sprint ER still in first place with best mileage, and a Honda in second position. As usual, the worst mileage was recorded by a Rolls-Royce.

It seems that drivers are paying less attention to the EPA's annual compilation of what goes the farthest on the least amount of fuel.

"There is no question that customers are placing a higher priority on performance of the vehicle," Bill Ball, director of the government relations staff for General Motors Corp., said in an interview.

At press previews, "all the general managers said they expected increased sales of large engines and turbos (turbochargers)," Ball said.

The Sprint ER gets 54 miles per gallon in city driving and 58 mpg on the highway, according to the EPA tests conducted each year as part of the agency's checks on auto exhaust pollution. One model of the Honda Civic HF gets 52 mpg and 57 mpg, the same results recorded last year. A Rolls-Royce in last place got 8 mpg and 10 mpg.

The Sprint ER's results are worse than last year's figures of 55 mpg and 60 mpg. EPA said it had not changed its test procedures, and Ball said he had been told by Chevrolet engineers that the lower mileage reflected "normal testing variability."

As part of the emphasis on performance, in the coming model year the Sprint and its Pontiac and Suzuki nameplate twins will be offered with a turbocharger, Paul said. That pushes the mileage down to 37 in the city, 43 on the highway, according to EPA. The car is made by Suzuki Motors, a GM affiliate.

The normal standard is 27.5 mpg, calculated as a combination of the city and highway figures before the EPA's application of deflation factors aimed at making the numbers representative of real-world driving.

Various models of the Sprint and its nameplate twins captured a total of seven out of the top 10 places on the mileage list. Two Hondas and a Subaru made it an all-Japanese top 10, not for the first time.

The diesel-powered Ford Escort and its twin, the Mercury Lynx, was the best car manufactured in North America at 37 mpg-45 mpg. Another diesel, the Volkswagen Golf, captured second place with 36 mpg-41 mpg.

The best gasoline-powered North American model was the Renault Alliance.

Don't count on your opponents

By James Jacoby

South knew it was right to give up a trick to the jack of diamonds early, but he relied too much on the defenders' continuing with their original plan of attack. After winning the spade ace, declarer came to his hand with the ace of clubs, played the seven of diamonds and let it ride. It was easy for East to win the jack and come back with the queen of clubs. The unhappy upshot of all this was that South took only six tricks.

Declarer had the right idea, but his execution was at fault. What about playing the diamond king from dummy? That would never work if East correctly refused to take that first trick. But what if the diamond 10 were played immediately at trick two? Now East perforce must take the jack, and declarer has plenty of time to next force out the ace while dummy still holds the club king for an entry.

Declarer's error was in assuming that East would automatically continue spades after winning a diamond. The lesson is simple: Don't rely on the opponents making a mistake if you can guarantee your contract another way. Worth noting is the correct play by East if he held one more small diamond. Under those circumstances he should refuse to win the diamond jack when the 10 is first led from dummy.

Peace Corps...

25-year anniversary, fallen comrades commemorated

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — They gathered under a cloudless sky with straw hats and parasols and smiles to remember their dead from a 25-year offensive fought with plows and medicines and books.

Bill Moyers, the Peace Corps' first deputy director, said Peace Corps people in general are in tune with poet Archibald MacLeish's notion of the "Need to make nonsense of our lives."

He said the 199 volunteers who died since President John F. Kennedy dispatched the first group overseas in 1961 "would not want us to be sentimental" in remembering them.

And so, he tried not to be Sunday at Arlington National Cemetery.

Moyers recalled the early group as a little ragtag, with little stomach for pretense and none for piety. "The most idealistic staff and volunteers always kept their fingers a little crossed," he said.

When the Washington International School Children's Chorus' first effort revealed that not all its young members have perfect pitch, Moyers observed that "like any good Peace Corps volunteer, they sing in their own key."

And Moyers — a White House press secretary, a newspaper publisher, now a commentator for CBS News — acknowledged that, "We were all friends in Peace Corps Washington. We stabbed each other in the front. The art of running the Peace Corps from Washington is the art of running the circus from the monkey cage."

This was a memorial with more laughter than tears.

But Moyers was steely serious in his description of the society these Peace Corps workers would find if they were alive now, comparing it with the frustrations that built in the nation's youth in the 1950s and bubbled into action in the '60s.

He talked of MacLeish's "snakeline sin of coldness of the heart" that Moyers said "bedevils us today."

He worried aloud about a people "buying on credit while hearts atrophy" and asked the crowd jamming the marble amphitheater adjacent to the Tomb of the Unknowns whether it shared his unease that "someone else is in charge and I just live here."

Lucas felt like king during confessions

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Henry Lee Lucas may have been feared and despised by many when he was confessing to hundreds of murders, but Lucas says he felt "on top of the world."

"I felt like a king," Lucas said in a telephone interview from the El Paso County Jail, where he was in solitary confinement awaiting trial on murder charges here.

"I felt like I was on top of the world. I didn't think anyone could get any higher than I was," Lucas said of the 18 months in which his confessions appeared to be making him the biggest serial killer in history.

Evidence was uncovered later which cast doubt on many of Lucas' confessions, and he has now recanted in 300 cases.

Before the summer of 1983, Lucas, 50, had spent the last year of his free life living in a converted chicken coop in the North Texas town of Stoneburg. Before that, he had drifted around the country working as a roofer or salvaging junk. And before that, he had served time in a Michigan prison for murdering his mother.

Now he is awaiting trial for the 1983 ax slaying of 72-year-old Librada Apodaca, Lucas' first trial since recanting his confessions.

For Lucas, the time of his confessions marked the best time of his life, he told the El Paso Times.

Everyone wanted a piece of him. Every unsolved murder case suddenly had a potential suspect in Lucas. Soon, he was to travel in chartered planes all over the country.

He traveled in civilian clothing, dined in some of the better restaurants and was served all the coffee and cigarettes he wanted, according to testimony the past two weeks in the first phase of a pretrial hearing in the Apodaca case.

That hearing is intended to assess the validity of Lucas's murder confessions, which eventually soared into the hundreds and captured the attention of national news magazines and network television shows.

"If I wanted it, all I had to do was ask for it," he said.

FOUR WAYS TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF YOUR ELECTRIC COMPANY.

Smart people know how to take the hassle out of paying electric bills. They know about Texas Electric's programs and services that make things a lot easier.

Look over these options; one may be right for you. Then call Texas Electric and get started as early as next month.

EVEN OUT YOUR BILLS WITH AVERAGE BILLING.

Our Average Billing Plan doesn't give you any surprises. It lets you pay about the same year 'round, based on a 12-month average. Which means you can plan around your budget.

PAY STRAIGHT FROM YOUR BANK WITH AUTOMATIC DRAFT.

With Automatic Draft, your bank, savings and loan, or credit union can pay each electric bill by a simple draft. You can be sure your bill is paid, and save time as well. What's more, you receive a copy of every bill for your records.

THE SENIOR CITIZENS' PAYMENT OPTION.

If you're a senior citizen, you can arrange to pay your electric bill after you receive your retirement or pension check. It really comes in handy if you're living on a budget or fixed income.

HELP FOR SOMEONE WHO NEEDS IT.

If you're ill or disabled, our Special Friend Program will notify a neighbor, friend or relative of your choice, should a bill become past due. You're still responsible for paying the bill, but your friend will help ease your situation, and your peace of mind.

Take advantage of your electric company. We're here to give you the breaks you deserve.

Tiger netters top Panthers; fall just short to Mustangs

ANDREWS – Snyder's Tigers ripped Fort Stockton here Saturday and came close to knocking off a strong Andrews squad in District 2-4A team tennis.

Snyder routed the Panthers 15-3, then narrowly lost to Andrews, 10-8. It was the closest the Tigers have ever played the Mustangs in team tennis.

"I was pleased with the way we played. We fell one short of having a 9-9 tie with Andrews and we beat Fort Stockton. Everyone played real well. It was a good team effort," said Coach Charlie Chrane.

Top boy's seed Michael Risenhoover swept his competition, winning both singles matches and teaming with Michael Rodriguez to claim both doubles matches.

Also making a strong showing were Lori McFarland, Andrea Veazey and Dee Butler - playing in the 4, 5 and 6 spots - who won all of their matches in singles and doubles play.

"Everyone gave 100 percent and that's what we work for everytime we go out on the court," said Coach Chrane. "You can't ask anymore than that."

Risenhoover defeated Fort Stockton's Auden Sarabia 6-2, 6-1 and Andrews' Chad Redwine, 6-3, 6-0 in singles play. He was the only boy's singles winner against Andrews, in fact. He also teamed with Rodriguez to whip Redwine and David Patrick in doubles, 6-3, 7-5, and won with Rodriguez over Fort Stockton's Sarabia and Abel Garcia, 6-3, 6-3.

Snyder will entertain Sweetwater this Tuesday at the junior high courts. Action will get underway at approximately 3:30 p.m. and spectators are invited.

"They'll be tough," said the coach. "Sweetwater returns three lettermen that played in the regional tournament last year. We'll find out some things about ourselves this week."

TRACK AND FIELD

COMO, Italy (AP) - Klaus Tafelmeier of West Germany set a world record in the javelin Sunday with a throw of 281 feet, 3½ inches at the 30th annual Industry Trophy meet.

Tafelmeier broke the previous mark of 280-1½, set by American Tom Petranof of the United States in Helsinki on July 7.

GOLF

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) - Bruce Crampton rolled in a 13-foot putt for par on the final hole Sunday to hold off Peter Thomson and Lee Elder to capture the $200,000 Paine Webber World Seniors Invitational golf tournament.

Crampton finished at 9-under-par 279.

Crampton started the day in a three-way tie with Thomson and Elder for first place at 7-under par while Chi Chi Rodriguez was three shots behind the leaders.

TENNIS

LOS ANGELES (AP) - John McEnroe won his first tournament since a six-month layoff by easily defeating top-seeded Stefan Edberg of Sweden 6-2, 6-3 in the finals Sunday of the $315,000 Volvo Tennis-Los Angeles men's tournament.

McEnroe captured his first Grand Prix title since he won in Stockholm last November.

Carrillo, Colburn stand out but WTC slips in short-go

PORTALES, N.M. – Western Texas got some strong performances from Mike Carrillo and Jessie Colburn here last weekend, but overall finished back in the pack at the first Southwest Region rodeo of the 1986-87 season, hosted by Eastern New Mexico University.

The Westerners, WTC men's team, tallied 150 points to finish fourth behind Tarleton, Odessa, Sul Ross State and Eastern New Mexico. Tarleton, defending Southwest Region champion, scored 225 points. Odessa recorded 205, Sul Ross 165 and Eastern 160. Howard College scored 125 for fifth.

In the women's competition, Western took 80 points, placing fifth. Eastern won with 170 while Odessa had 160 and Texas Tech 105.

"I feel like, after seeing the competition, we have a good chance of winning. We had a bad rodeo and we weren't that far out of it. We had chances but didn't do well in the finals," said Coach Bob Doty. "The girls just had some bad luck. They are going to be okay. The competition will be deep in the men and women both. There will be five teams in both that will have a good chance of winning any weekend."

Carrillo, one of the top bareback riders in the country last year, started off well again. He won the event here with a total 144 score on two-head. His first-go score of 70 was second behind TSU's Andy O'Neal, who had a 72, but he came back with a 74 during the short-go to take the competition.

Teammate Adam Brewster reached the finals with a 63, but scored a 66 there to finish out of the top four.

Colburn, a freshman, won the barrel race for WTC's women's team. She blitzed the competition with a 17.95 in the finals. Combined with her 18.11 in the first go, she had a 36.06.

The only other girl from Western to reach the finals was Tana Whatley in the breakaway roping. Whatley, though not a designated team member, earned individual points by clocking a 3.8 in the short-go. Her total 8.0 was out of the top four, however.

In addition to Carrillo's 110-point effort in the bareback, Western tallied 35 points in the calf roping and five in the bull riding. Brewster picked up the nickle's worth with a 73 in the first-go of the bull riding. He did not score in the finals, however.

Scott Sharp earned the 35 points in the calf roping. He tied for first place with TSU's Shane Talkington in the first-go with a 9.5 time. His 12.8 in the finals put him out of the bid for further points, however.

WTC students Joel Marr and Paul Ivy also reached the finals in the calf roping but finished out of the running, as did Troy Budvarson, Steve Roberts and Robert Fifer in the saddle bronc event. Marr did likewise in the steer wrestling, and Fifer and Sharp made the finals of the team roping, but took a no-time there.

Odessa's Jim Sharp was all-around cowboy. He edged out Andy O'Neal of TSU 150 to 130. Sharp won the saddle bronc and placed second in the bull riding.

Howard's Lisa Berry was the women's all-around winner. She scored 170 points - all of Eastern's points.

Former WTC competitor Tobin Tate, now with Eastern, was third in the bull riding with 146 on two. His 76 in the first-go was second place.

Don Eddleman, now with Tarleton, won second in the calf roping overall after winning the short-round with a 10.1. Also, Canita Cass, Texas Tech, placed fourth in the break away roping and Cody Foster, TSU, was 7.7 in the short-round of the team roping for second.

Western will compete in the Sul Ross State Rodeo on Oct. 2-5.

Pee Wee football kicks off today

The Scurry County Boy's Club Pee Wee Football League kicks off its 1986 season today at 4:45 p.m. with a game between the Razorbacks and Cowboys in the 9-10 year-old league.

The Rams and Lions take the field at 6 p.m. in an 11-12 year-old game.

Tuesday's slate pits the Cowboys and Colts at 4:45 p.m. and the Mustangs and Rams at 6 p.m.

Games are held behind the Boy's Club building.

Falcons overcome Cowboys, 37-35 on late, 65-yard strike from above

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Atlanta rookie Floyd Dixon said his "Hail Mary" reception from Dave Archer is called a "nine route" in the Falcons' playbook. The answered prayer put the Dallas Cowboys six feet under.

"I didn't look up and just kept running and hoping Dave could throw it that far," Dixon said Sunday after his 65-yard reception helped defeat the Cowboys 37-35 in a wild NFL joust of unbeatens.

Archer could and did.

"I didn't realize he had it for a second," Archer said. "I had been trying to hit Floyd on that route all day."

Floyd's reception to the Dallas two-yard line set up Mick Luckhurst's 18-yard field goal with 20 seconds remaining.

Needing to get within field goal range, the Cowboys tried to answer with a Danny White-to-Tony Hill "Hail Mary" pass. Dallas was at its 31 with only 10 seconds remaining when the last play began. Hill caught White's pass on the Atlanta 35, but he headed downfield and time expired by the time he ran out of bounds at the Falcons' nine.

"I was trying to stop the clock," Hill said. "It was a judgment thing."

Dallas Cowboys' Coach Tom Landry called the Archer-to-Dixon connection the same kind of "Hail Mary" pass that Roger Staubach used to throw to Drew Pearson.

"He had a lot of time and just threw the ball as hard as he could throw it," Landry said. "It was a 'Hail Mary' throw.

"If it comes down in your hands, you win. If it doesn't, you don't."

Dallas led 35-27 with 9:05 to play after White's fourth touchdown pass of the day, a 22-yarder to rookie Mike Sherrard.

Atlanta rallied on Gerald Riggs' two-yard scoring run with 3:28 remaining.

It was Atlanta's first victory in Texas Stadium and left the Falcons with a 3-0 record. Atlanta is now 2-8 all time against the Cowboys. It was the Falcons' first victory against Dallas in 10 years.

The Cowboys stand 2-1 with an unhappy Landry.

"This one hurts," Landry said. "We had the game under control. But you have to give Atlanta credit. The Falcons made the big play."

Overlooked in the Atlanta victory was Tony Dorsett becoming the sixth player in NFL history to join the 11,000 yard rushing club.

"The day I'm looking forward to is passing O.J. Simpson and Jim Brown," Dorsett said.

Luckhurst also hit field goals of 47 and 33 yards. The Atlanta defense produced touchdowns on Mike Pitts' 22-yard return of a White fumble and Bobby Butler's 33-yard interception return.

Frosh fourth at Big Spring

BIG SPRING -- Snyder freshmen girls placed fourth in the Big Spring Volleyball Tournament, held here Saturday.

The girls defeated Fort Stockton in the first round, 15-5, 15-3, lost in a hard-fought match to Pecos in the second round, 17-15, 14-16, 15-8, then fell to Sweetwater in the game for third place, 16-14, 15-7.

Playing for Snyder were Jennifer Pate, Shelly Tomlin, Cindy Srna, Anne Osborn, Trina Brown, Teena Braziel, Annette Ramos, Amber Adams, Melissa Alvarado, Jennifer Spence, Angie Brewster, Teri Lawdermilk, Veronica Rivas and Kathy Armstrong.

The girls, 6-2 on the season, will play again at 5 p.m. Tuesday when they host Lamesa in the Snyder High School gym.

Cats defeat Mustang JV

ANDREWS – Snyder junior varsity volleyball team defeated Andrews 15-9, 15-13 here Saturday.

Scoring on serves were LaFon Williams 5, Sandra Morin 7, Rhonda Echols 3, Christy Greene 3, Kelly Walker 6, Sandra Powell 1 and Holly Fuller 4.

The Cats will take a 14-5 record into their next match, scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday when they entertain Lamesa.

Will host Lamesa Tuesday...

Lady Tigers crack Andrews

ANDREWS – Snyder's Lady Tigers went through the motions and came away with a 15-12, 15-13 victory in District 2-4A volleyball action here Saturday.

"We played well enough," panned Coach Vicki Nelms. "We had two lousy practices Thursday and Friday. With the homecoming dance, homecoming activities and the first (home) football game, our minds were on everything else but volleyball. We took leads pretty much in both games, then let them come back. We try to be too nice sometimes. We don't put an opponent away like we should."

The win puts Snyder at 3-2 in the district volleyball race as they prepare for arch-rival Lamesa.

"This is a very, very important game for us. They (the Lamesa Tornadoes) are 4-1 and after tomorrow they could be 5-1 or 4-2. If we lose we're still not out of it by any means. But it could do a lot for our momentum to beat them," said Coach Nelms, who is hoping for a full Tiger gym when the match starts at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

"I think our kids are ready for them. We hope we can get as many fans in there as we can. This is probably the most important game we've played this season, to us. We need all the support we can get."

Scoring on serves for Snyder last Saturday were Allison Adams and Tammy Williamson, 7; Leslie Ward, 5; Sharnette Thompson and Donna Clay, 4; Shondra Robinson, 2; and Stacy Dunk, 1.

Nelms did see some brights spots from the match with Andrews.

"Sharnette played probably the best defensive game she's played all year," praised Nelms. "Tammy Williamson, right now is just serving for us, but she has an excellent serve and we score points when she's serving."

Man is charged in double killing

AUSTIN (AP) — A 25-year-old man who boasted to co-workers that he was a soldier of fortune who kept a machine gun in his car has been charged with the stabbing deaths of two Austin women, police said.

Jonathan Wayne Nobles was charged Saturday and jailed in lieu of $100,000 bond in connection with the slayings of Kelly Joan Farquhar and Mitzi Johnson Nalley, who were stabbed to death in their home on Sept. 13, authorities said.

Police said the attacker apparently was injured when he struggled with a man inside the women's residence. The 30-year-old man, who survived the attack, was in Brackenridge Hospital being treated under an assumed name.

"I feel certain we have the right man," homicide Sgt. Jerry Slatton said Saturday. "He had access to the area where the victims lived, and he fit the description of the assailant. He admitted the offense. I'm glad it's over."

Ms. Farquhar, 24, and Ms. Nalley, 21, were stabbed repeatedly with a knife at least 6 inches long while they slept, police said. The man survived after five hours of emergency surgery, Slatton said.

Colleges battle for funding

AUSTIN (AP) — When Texas leaders decided they wanted the state to have a reputation as a national center for research and high technology, legislators treated the notion more as a measure of pride than need.

So when 16 "high-technology" bills promoted by Gov. Mark White went to lawmakers in 1985, the Legislature passed only one requiring new money.

But now the status of the technology bills has changed, supporters argue.

In the wake of the oil-price drop that has left the Legislature battling a projected $2.8 billion deficit, business and university leaders throughout Texas are arguing that the state must invest in diversifying its economy.

"Business as usual is out of business," said Pike Powers, formerly a state representative and now an attorney with Fulbright & Jaworski in Austin. "It is imperative that the state develop the technologies needed to make it competitive."

During the next two months, two key state groups — the Select Committee on Higher Education and the governor's Texas Science and Technology Council — will map strategy for how the Legislature should support research and technology during the regular session in January.

"Advanced technologies combined with the traditional entrepreneurial abilities of Texans will form the base for a new Texas economy," says a draft report of the governor's Science and Technology Council.

The council proposes three five-year plans for raising the state to national prominence in science and technology.

The argument is hardly new. Lawmakers heard it in 1982 with the Texas 2000 Report, and again during the 1985 session.

But policy leaders admit today that Texas has done little compared to other states such as North Carolina and Pennsylvania, which spent more than a decade developing their research and technology to boost their economies.

"In every single respect you can think of, we're coming from behind," Jurgen Schmandt, a political scientist at the LBJ School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas.

"We've not only had to fight tooth and nail with Harvard and MIT," said Gerhard Fonken, vice president of UT, "we've had to fight with our own Legislature, which still views research with suspicion."

Last week, a task force of the select committee presented recommendations to ask the Legislature to spend $80 million more on research during 1988 and 1989, bringing the total state research spending to nearly $300 million over the two-year period.

The initiatives will be debated by the full committee next month.

The 28-member Texas Science and Technology Council debated its draft report, which will recommend similar increases, on Thursday. The plan seeks increases of at least $15 million in research and a $5 million plan for a new state organization to coordinate entrepreneurial activities.

Some gains are being made. Earlier this month, the UT-Dallas received a $10 million grant from the Department of Defense to support research on a gamma ray laser.

Union activist renews boycott

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Cesar Chavez, leader of the United Farm Workers of America, said the nation's grape growers may have poisoned many people by spraying pesticide on their crops.

Chavez appeared in Dallas over the weekend and again in San Antonio on Sunday as part of a four-day Texas tour to publicize the union's latest grape boycott.

Consumers should be wary of grapes contaminated by pesticide residue, Chavez said as about 20 supporters clapped and cheered "Viva Cesar" at a news conference in San Antonio.

"Nobody knows how many people have been poisoned," Chavez said.

Chavez claimed in a Dallas Peace Center conference, attended by 120 at Southern Methodist University, that pesticides sprayed on the fruit in California may cause birth defects, cancer and other ailments.

The union plans to begin random testing of farm products within the next four months, Chavez said.

"We must not allow the government and self-interest of grape growers to threaten lives of farmers and their families," Chavez said. "What we do know is human lives are worth more than the grapes those grocers are selling to us.

Previous grape boycotts organized by Chavez in the early 1970s prompted California legislators to pass the first law in that state giving farm workers the right to form a union and bargain collectively with growers.

Statements hurt pending cases

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Statements by officials at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, playing down the seriousness of alleged misconduct by employees, may have jeopardized several pending cases, investigators say.

Despite the conviction Friday of a former airport manager, investigators said they doubt anyone will receive prison terms in the cases and that two cases still pending may never reach a grand jury.

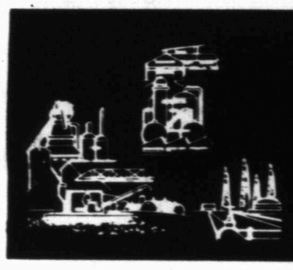

The greatest harm has come from the airport's decisions to award a construction contract to H.B. Zachry Co., which has been named in several indictments, and to rehire Milton J. Wehner, who was indicted on charges of tampering with government records, the Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

Former airport planning and engineering manager James C. Lancaster pleaded guilty Friday to four counts of tampering with government records in connection with change orders on construction contracts between the airport and the H.B. Zachry Co.

Five other similar counts against Lancaster were dropped in a plea-bargain agreement. Lancaster was the first person convicted in an investigation that has yielded 30 indictments.

Two cases were turned over to Dallas County Assistant District Attorney Ted Steinke three months ago, police investigators say.

They have not been presented to a grand jury and the investigators told The News that they doubt they will be. The cases involve misappropriation of airport funds over $200,000 — the most serious allegation so far in the probe, police say.

State farm agent will update policies

Roy J. McCloskey, State Farm agent, located at 3904 College Avenue, would like to remind everyone about the importance of having a complete checkup of all their insurance policies periodically. Sometimes, the policy holder may have insurance policies that have not been reviewed in some time and if they knew originally what the policy provided, they have forgotten. Then when a loss happens, they find that there is no coverage. The responsibility to know what protection the policy provides rests with the policy holder.

The Roy J. McCloskey agency will be glad to review or make a complete checkup of the insurance policies for any individual whether they are a State Farm policy holder or not. In order to save a policy holder time, it would be helpful if they would call for an appointment.

NELDA HOLDEN, Roy J. McCloskey and Marilyn Burton review plans to remodel the office located at 3409 College Avenue sometime in the near future. More space will be available to better serve customers and computers will be installed. (SDN Staff Photo)

The checkup should include all insurance policies in the family-auto, home, health and life.

For any field of insurance whether it be health, Medicare supplement, Worker's Compensation, flood or insurance to provide a SR22 Form, as well as auto, home, health and life call Roy at 573-7266 or come by his office.

FBI: $1.5 million plot said nearly perfect

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — A 9-year-old girl who worked on her homework during 28 hours in a box in the woods helped to unravel an elaborate kidnap plot that the FBI said fell apart at the final detail: picking up the $1.5 million ransom.

Four men were arrested — one at his wedding — in connection with the kidnapping of Amanda Mueller, whose great-great grandfather founded the C.F. Mueller Co. noodle business, authorities said.

The plot, involving one of the largest ransoms ever sought in the United States, was planned as revenge for a failed real estate deal involving Amanda's father that cost one of the men a lot of money, said FBI agent William Wells.

"We believe they had a breakdown in their communications," said Wells. "They were confused as to where they were exactly supposed to be. ... I'd say they knew what they were doing, they were very detailed, up to the miscue."

Amanda was kept in a refrigerator box left in woods east of Naples in the 28 hours before she was found unharmed Saturday, the FBI said.

Texas physician abandons treacherous trip

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A doctor who abandoned a scientific expedition to trace the remote origins of China's Yangtze River says he was not prepared for isolation that was so devastatingly complete.

Imagine, he said, a solitude where 16 travelers could raft down a river for nearly a week without seeing another human being — isolation so complete that it would contribute to the death of a young photographer and spark a mutiny among the crew.

"The imagination did not do justice to the reality of the isolation," said Dr. David Gray, an emergency-room physician at Memorial Medical Center in Corpus Christi and team doctor for the 1986 Sino-USA Upper Yangtze River Expedition.

Sponsored by Mutual of Omaha's "Wild Kingdom" TV series, the Chinese-American expedition was to trace the river from its source at Geladaintong down some 2,000 miles of treacherous whitewater rapids to Yibin.

Besides Gray, the team included filmmakers, soundmen, cameramen, guides, oarsmen and journalists for National Geographic magazine and USA Today newspaper.

They began what they believed would be an eight-week journey down the world's third-longest river on July 1. But Gray, 36, returned home Sept. 8, leaving the expedition with three other crew members after completing only a third of the trip — and after a fifth crewman died of altitude sickness.

The 11 members who continued down the river were stranded when four inflatable rafts were damaged or destroyed in a canyon near the Tibetan village of Yeba.

After losing contact with their road support crew for more than two weeks, the group emerged in Batang, having walked for several days. Ten more members quit afterward, leaving leader Ken Warren, a Portland, Ore., guide, to travel alone.

Even when all 16 crewmen were on the river, Gray said, the sense of isolation on the trip was unlike anything he had ever experienced, including travels in the Alaskan wilderness.

Outside of their base camp of Tuotuoheyan, where altitudes reached about 16,000 feet — higher than any mountain peaks in the continental United States — there was no sign of civilization.

"Most of the people are nomadic," Gray told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. With high altitudes and weather conditions that ranged from monsoons and extreme heat to blizzards during the better months, much of the tundra along the Yangtze is uninhabitable.

"They call it the roof of the world for a very good reason," Gray said. By the time they would reach the river's source — their starting point — the team would be at altitudes of 17,300 feet.

They trucked across the tundra for nearly five days, bumping across a landscape barren save for spectacular wildflowers and small grasses.

Trash cleaners swarm beaches

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Officials estimate that several thousand people took part in a statewide cleanup of Texas beaches over the weekend.

Despite intermittent rainshowers and the steamy sea air that prevailed in between, the wave of trash pickers swarmed a three-mile stretch of Padre and Mustang islands on Saturday, leaving behind dozens of stuffed garbage bags.

Inside the bags were items like plastic containers, weathered twine and Styrofoam pieces. The pickers also found strewn bottles from Mexico, Germany and France, and assorted other odd and ends of garbage.

They were participating in a statewide cleanup Saturday in hopes their efforts would alert others to the continuing problem of tons of litter along the Texas coast.

"This is going to raise people's opinion about what's going on out here. But if you just think about it, the trash will be back out here tomorrow," said Dan Wilcox, who along with several other members of a Rotary Club took part in the cleanup along Padre and Mustang islands.

"When you get out and really look at what's out here, you get disgusted. It's sickening," Wilcox said.

Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro ventured out to Mustang Island to help. He agreed that one cleanup will do little to dent the beach litter problem.

"What are we going to get out here today? Ten to 20 tons of trash, maybe. It's estimated there are 140 tons of trash on Texas beaches," Mauro said. "Every problem has to have a first step taken towards solving the problem. This is the first step."

Some of the volunteers were from out of town.

"This is great for my kids. I figure if they pick up enough trash here, the next time they go to the beach they'll remember not to throw any down," said Celia Favata, an Austin resident who works at the Austin Nature Center.

Alligator spotted at Lake Austin

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — For years, there have been rumors of an alligator living in Lake Austin, and officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department have been hearing recently from those who say they have seen it.

"The reports that we have had are from concerned citizens," said Lt. Wayne Chappell of parks and wildlife. But "there haven't been any reports of it attacking anyone."

A search is concentrating about two miles up the lake from a city park on the shore. Officials said they are not sure where the alligator came from or how long it has been in the area.

Although the rumors of an alligator have been persistent over the past several years, this is the first time that the rumors have been backed up by sightings, said Marc De Parois, who has been hired by the Parks and Wildlife Department to kill or capture the green visitor.

De Parois, a licensed alligator farmer from Kerrville, is one of three people licensed by the state as a nuisance alligator-control hunter.

"I've seen it once," he said, "but I was not in a position to shoot it. I put on my diving gear and practically swam right into it. I tried to get close enough to grab it, but it got away."

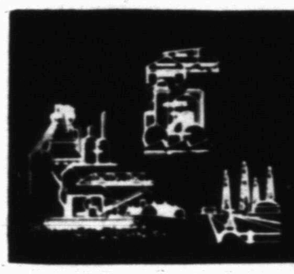

He described the alligator as about 4 to 5 feet long and weighing about 35 pounds. Officials think it is about 5 years old.

"Alligator attacks on humans are rare," De Parois said. "Females who are defending their nests could present a problem, but this one is too small to really hurt anybody. That's not to say you wouldn't have to go to the hospital if he bit you."

Public concern about the alligator has grown with increased media coverage. One local radio station has gone so far as to give the roving reptile a name — Elvis.

"You can't just go, 'Hey, you!'" said Weaver Morrow, the morning disc jockey for KOKE-FM in Austin.

Weaver said he has received quite a few phone calls about Elvis.

1986 average SAT scores are unchanged

NEW YORK (AP) — High school seniors in the Class of 1986 averaged no better on the Scholastic Aptitude Test than students a year earlier, The College Board reported.

The average combined score on the two-part exam was 906 — 475 on the math section, 431 on the verbal — unchanged from the previous year, the board reported Monday. The test is scored on a scale of 200 to 800, with 1600 being a perfect combined score.

The leveling off of average scores in 1986 followed a record nine-point combined gain a year earlier.

The big 1985 gain, along with modest increases since 1980 when SAT scores sank to an historic low of 890, had been widely hailed as evidence that current education reform efforts were starting to pay off in better student performance.

Before that, the 17-year plunge from a peak of 980 in 1963 to the 1980 low was regarded as proof of the decline of the nation's schools.

Texas leads nation in bombings, stolen explosives

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas is among the leading states in bombings and stolen explosives, and law officers say they are seeing increasingly sophisticated devices used in crimes ranging from murder to extortion.

The state ranked second last year to Kentucky in the amount of stolen explosives and blasting caps. But officials say the most common ingredient in illegal bombs is gunpowder, which can be purchased legally over the counter in quantities up to 50 pounds.

In 1983 there were 35 bombings in Texas, and in 1984 there were 37, placing Texas in the top five nationally, the Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday.

Homemade bombs have turned up in Austin and surrounding areas with what law officers say is alarming frequency.

SHERIFF'S NOTICE OF SALE
THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF SCURRY

Whereas by virtue of Order of Sale issued out of the 132nd District Court of Scurry County, Texas, on the 26th day of August, 1986, in Cause No. 15,461, where State Builders And Supply was Plaintiff, and Leonard Durst was Defendant, on a judgment rendered in said Court against Defendant and in favor of the said Plaintiff, for the sum of $2,300.00 DOLLARS, with interest thereon at the rate of 10% per cent annum, from date of judgement, together with all costs of suit; I did on the 26th day of August, 1986, at 10:30 o'clock A.M., levy upon the following described lots, tracts and parcels of land situated in Scurry County, Texas, as the property of Leonard Durst, to wit:

Being all of Lot 7, Block Number 7 of the Erwin Heights Addition to the City of Snyder as the same appears on a map or plat in the office of the County Clerk in Snyder, Scurry County, Texas.

and on the 7th day of October, 1986, being the first Tuesday of said month, between the hours of 10 o'clock A.M. and 4 o'clock P.M. on said day, at the courthouse door of said County, and I will offer for sale and sell at public auction, for cash to the highest bidder, all the right, title and interest of Leonard Durst in and to said above described property.

Witness my hand this the 26th Day of August, 1986.

Keith Collier, Sheriff,
Scurry County, Texas

operational costs, the tax increase was deemed inevitable due to a 40 percent reduction in the district's tax base.

That reduction was credited equally to a dwindling county oil production and the drop in oil prices experienced this past spring and summer.

Also scheduled at the called meeting Tuesday is an appearance by Snyder Band Booster representatives with questions related to budget cuts which affected the band this year.

During budget sessions in late June, the board eliminated some $20,000 earmarked earlier as travel expenses to the state marching contest.

This amount was allocated last year "in the event" the band qualified. The board has indicated its current intent is to budget this figure every two years rather than each year.

In this way, it was noted, band students would have at least two opportunities during their high school years to travel to the state marching contest in Austin.

Hit-and-run said cleared

Police investigated and cleared a single minor hit-and-run traffic accident Sunday.

Betty Juanita Holtzclaw 1901 KSNY Dr. filed the intitial report at 10:57 a.m.

She told officers that her 1980 Datsun had been struck by a vehicle which fled the scene while she was driving in the 1700 Block of 23rd St.

The mishap was cleared around 6 p.m. when police identified a 1978 Cadillac driven by Ingrid E. Mullen of 502 19th St. as the second vehicle involved in the mishap.

Misdemeanor charges of fleeing the scene of an accident, failure to control speed, driving without a license, and having no liability insurance were filed against Mullen in connection with the accident.

No injuries resulted from the mishap.

Assault reports worked locally

Police received two assault complaints Saturday night, both involving altercations between women.

No arrests resulted from either incident.

In all, four subjects were jailed over the weekend on misdemeanor charges including one 34-year-old man jailed on 13 county warrants for issuance of bad checks.

Two others were jailed for public intoxication and one for driving without a license or insurance.

Obituaries

Mrs. C. M. Jones

SAN ANGELO–Services for Mrs. C. M. Jones of San Angelo, 101, are pending.

She died at 5:30 a.m. Monday at the Baptist Memorial Hospital in San Angelo. She was born Oct. 20, 1884 in Lampasas County. She was the mother of T. H. Jones of 3602 Jacksboro in Snyder.

At one time she was the oldest living pioneer in Tom Green County.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Charlie M. Jones, on May 11, 1940.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Oral Shuler of Alpine and Mrs. Gladys Lewis of San Angelo; 10 grandchildren; 15 great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandchild.

Susie Clifton

ABILENE–Services were held at 10 a.m. Monday at Elliott-Hamil Funeral Home Chapel for Susie Clifton, 88, who died Saturday in an Abilene hospital.

She was the mother of Ramelle Parsons of Snyder.

Born in Rising Star, she moved to Abilene in 1970. Her father, the Rev. Asa Leach, was a pioneer Baptist minister. She attended schools in Scurry and Mitchell counties.

A member of the Pioneer Drive Baptist Church, she was the widow of Edwin L. Clifton.

Survivors include two sons, Allen Clifton of Abilene and Col. L. Clifton of San Antonio; another daughter, Marie Frederick of Abilene; eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Browning band to play here

The Browning Band will be playing for a country and western dance Tuesday night in the Senior Citizens Center. Dancing will begin at 7 p.m. and continue until 9 p.m.

The Browning Band will also be playing in the center at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Births

Lloyd and Faye Rinker announce the birth of their grandson, Trey Daniel, weighing eight pounds nine ounces born at 11:49 a.m. Sunday at Hendricks Memorial Hospital in Abilene.

Trey was welcomed by his parents, Randy and Michelle Rinker and his sister, Bethany. Maternal grandparents are Dan Stoker of West Fork, Ark. and Sylvia Wuensche of New Home.

Purse thefts, bathroom damage reported to police

Police investigated a criminal mischief complaint and five misdemeanor thefts over the weekend.

Raymond Medrano Jr. of 1111 26th St., Apt. 11, filed the criminal mischief complaint at 3:09 a.m. Sunday.

He told police that someone had apparently entered his apartment through the bathroom window and damaged the window, the bathroom sink and floor.

No value was estimated for damage to the apartment. The incident is thought to have occurred earlier Sunday or Saturday night.

Detectives are also investigating the thefts of four purses from two cars reported Saturday night.

Jody Dunk of 2908 El Paso Ave. and Stephanie Blair of 3111 Ave. X filed the first of those reports at 10:52 p.m.

They told officers that both their purses had been taken from Blair's 1978 Ford while the car was parked in front of the Blair residence earlier in the evening.

A similar report was filed by Melissa Doty of 3723 Ave. U and Chenelle Reeves of 2904 42nd St. at 11:04 p.m.

Both purses were apparently taken from Doty's 1980 Ford while the vehicle was parked at the Reeves residence earlier in the evening.

City officers investigated and cleared a bicycle theft complaint Saturday night.

Manuel Sandoval of Snyder reported the bicycle stolen from 1112 14th St. at 10:44 p.m.

That bike was later recovered from a 14-year-old juvenile male at 1 a.m. Sunday and the case was closed with no further investigation requested and no charges filed.

HATS GALORE–Charlie McCormick, right, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude McCormick, Jr., visited France this summer and played host to his French "brother," Remi Hussenot, who has a passion for all kinds of American hats. student because one of his sisters had participated in an exchange program some years ago.

While in France, McCormick and his "brother" visited Hussenot's grandmother in the country for three days.

Everyone spoke English, so he said he had no trouble communicating.

They spent 10 days in Bordeaux "seeing the sights" and 11 days at the beach. They attended Hussenot's cousin's wedding in Paris at a military base. While in Paris they toured all the sites including the Eiffel Tower and the Louve. McCormick said they traveled around by themselves.

He said he noticed the French do not eat as much fried or fast food as Americans do. "It's unusual for an adult in France to enter a fast food place," he explained. "At the beach we ate a lot of fish."

"All in all we are not that different," McCormick observed. "We're all basically the same."

He added, "I learned where home really is."

While in Snyder, Hussenot saw "Texas" in Palo Duro Canyon and had his picture taken with the two Snyder natives who are appearing in this summer's cast.

He turned 18 during his visit and was treated to a birthday party at the home of the Roy Carters. Juanita Raborn baked him a big, chocolate birthday cake.

Now that he is 18, Hussenot said in France he can get a driver's license, vote, get married and attend restricted movies.

The McCormicks also took him Austin, San Antonio and to visit relatives in Shreveport. They also "did Dallas" including Six Flags.

While in Snyder, Hussenot attended a rodeo and developed a passion for hats, expecially cowboy hats.

He has two brothers and one sister. His father is a businessman who sells water to cities in France.

His sister is a nanny in Washington D.C. and has charge of four children. She will be here a year. One of his brothers is attending New York University.

Hussenot said he would like to attend an American university also because of the educational opportunities.

He has been studying English for six years and welcomed the opportunity to take advantage of the Rotary International Youth Exchange Program for a second time. His father is a Rotarian.

Last summer, Hussenot exchanged with a girl from Wisconsin.

Since he said it is very important to learn to speak English in France, he likes to visit the U.S. so he can learn more English.

While in Houston, the McCormicks took Hussenot to NASA, a Galveston beach, a church musical, the Astrodome, the zoo and numerous galleries.

"I like meeting people," Hussenot said. "Americans are very friendly."

County approves bandstand plan

Written by Drew Bullard, chairman of the historical commission's marker committee, the plaque notes that the original structure "hosted musicians, political speakers, curious children and ardent conversationalists."

The pair also presented a smaller bronze plaque to be mounted on the bandstand itself noting that the structure was constructed by WTC building trades classes.

Commissioners also approved a request by Ralph Williamson and Jack Denman, representatives with the United Way campaign, to use the bandstand Sept. 27 for the second annual Jamboree to kick-off the organization's annual drive.

Williamson noted that food and entertainment will highlight the affair in an effort to "return something back to Scurry County" in return for the local support shown United Way.

Ranch competition winners announced

Only three teams competed in the third annual Scurry County Fair Ranch Competition held Saturday but they gave the crowd a good show of skills needs for everyday working on the area ranches they work. The championship team was the McDowell Ranch entry with the Cooper Mountain Ranch team placing second. Team members were as follows:

Cooper Mountain Ranch, Snyder: Roscoe Kropp, team captain; Eddie Boucher, Calvin Robinson, Travis Rinehart.

Open A Ranch, Snyder: Kinney Hart, team captain; L. J. Mueller, Mark Mueller, Charles Church.

Results of the events are as follows. They are placed in the order won.

—Team penning: Open A Ranch, Mcdowell Ranch, Cooper Mountain Ranch.
—Team branding: McDowell Ranch, Open A Ranch, Cooper Mountain Ranch.
—Heading & healing: McDowell Ranch, other teams were "no times."
—Horse saddling: Cooper Mountain Ranch, McDowell Ranch.

Dear Abby

Mom Who Follows House Rules Won't Have to Range

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the mother who planned to divide her fortune in three equal parts to be given to her three children, even though she took turns living with two of her daughters. The other one hardly looked at her.

I think you should have run the enclosed letter again. I've kept it in my Bible for years, so if I ever have to live with my children, I will remember these rules. Thank you for your column.

EVELYN M. PORTER,
CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, PA.

DEAR ABBY: Years ago, when my widowed mother came to live with me and my husband, she made our lives so miserable that I determined that I would never bring such misery to my children if I ever had to live with them. One day I sat down and wrote myself a letter. In it were some pertinent rules, and on the outside of the envelope I wrote, "To be opened on the day I go to live with my daughter, heaven forbid." I tucked it away in an old book and forgot about it. I've been widowed and self-sufficient for six years, but now I was recently forced to give up my job and go live with my oldest daughter. I've opened that letter and I think your older readers might benefit from it, as I intend to. Here are the rules:

1. Give what you can toward your keep. Any budget will stretch just so far.
2. Keep yourself clean and neat.
3. Remember, it is their home. Be especially considerate of him. He allowed her to bring you here.
4. Give them privacy at every opportunity.
5. If they want to go away on a vacation, but are hesitant because of you, offer to visit another relative or friend so they will be free to go.
6. Don't offer any advice or express any opinions unless asked.
7. Volunteer information that they might be too embarrassed to ask for, such as arrangements for your burial, hospitalization, etc.

These rules were written over 20 years ago! I read them often and am determined to keep them.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I know that the best way to handle obscene phone calls is to hang up without showing any reaction. But I feel an overwhelming anger that needs to be expressed when one of those "sickies" lets go with his filthy spiel. Then one day it suddenly dawned on me: Why not let the Good Lord take over!

Now I interrupt the caller with some good old-fashioned fire and brimstone from Psalm 141 and Romans 18:32. A few callers became so startled that they actually listened to the whole thing! No one has ever called back.

So keep your Bibles by your phone, folks. It works.

A SERMON
FOR THE VERMIN

DEAR SERMON: I'm not sure those who gave us the Good Book would approve, but I can't think of anyone more in need of a sermon than a creep who makes obscene phone calls.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I thought you might like to hear how I handled a remark about my obesity: When a "supposed" friend said, "You certainly are getting fat," I replied, "Every time I look into a mirror, I am reminded of how fat I am, but your stupidity shows only when you open your mouth. I may lose weight, but you will always remain stupid."

Salvadoran population grows

DALLAS (AP) — About 18,000 Salvadorans are scattered throughout the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex, making the area the fourth-largest concentration of Salvadorans in the United States, officials say.

However, few of them seek political asylum because they regard their chance of obtaining legal residence as slim.

It is a community that largely has arrived since 1980, according to Proyecto Adelante, a refugee support agency in Dallas. The refugees' presence in the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area trails only that of Los Angeles, Houston and Washington D.C.

Officials at Proyecto Adelante say the Salvadorans have fled to the United States to avoid civil war or persecution at home, the Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday. But few are being granted permanent residency.

As the number of Salvadorans losing asylum cases and being sent home has grown, the number of petitions from them seeking political asylum has dwindled in the Dallas area from 1,135 in 1983 to 35 in 1984 and 194 last year.

Of 2,200 political asylum claims filed in Dallas since 1982, Proyecto Adelante has won permanent residence in only five cases, the newspaper said.

U.S. Immigration and Naturalization officials say that Salvadorans who once stepped forward to ask for asylum now wait until they're arrested to file their requests.

"The only people who are in danger are people who seek permission (from U.S. authorities) to stay here," said an 18-year-old Salvadoran who lives in Irving and only gave his name as Ricardo. "Nobody seeks permission anymore."

Most refugees who enter the country, sidestep the organized sanctuary movements here and come into the country on their own, usually paying smugglers at border checkpoints in Guatemala, Mexico and Texas.

Lucas Martell, a retired coffee plantation manager, says he fled El Salvador with his wife, children and grandchildren after national guardsmen burned down his home in 1982, then beat and interrogated him. Now 86, he lives in the South Dallas home of his son, Ernesto Martell.

"No tenemos libertad" — we have no liberty.

"Here we feel like we are hiding," he says. "We're constantly hiding."

Spokesmen for refugee support agencies say most Salvadorans head to Dallas and Houston seeking jobs and escaping feelings of vulnerability near the Texas border. In some cases, refugee support groups urge Salvadorans northward, telling them they have a greater chance of winning immigration appeals in big cities.

"The Rio Grande Valley is the most inhospitable place for Salvadoran refugees because no one has been granted asylum here out of the thousands we file here," said Danny Katz, administrator for the Proyecto Libertad organization in Harlingen.

Proyecto Adelante workers say 70 percent of refugees seeking asistance come from three of 14 Salvadoran provinces — La Union, San Miguel and Morazan — where the civil war is most intense.

They say they are seeing an imbalanced immigration pattern.

Houston juries handout tough terms

HOUSTON (AP) — As public opinion swings back to a general alarm about drugs, juries in Houston are handing out tougher sentences to convicted drug offenders, prosecutors and defense attorneys say.

"It's not hysteria," Harris County District Attorney John B. Holmes said. "It's a normal reaction to a social problem."

But defense attorney Mike DeGeurin says he worries about juries looking more at the alleged offense rather than the individual involved.

The Houston Post reported Sunday that the average prison term for Harris County felony drug convictions has increased from about five years in 1983 and 1984 to about six years in 1985.

"It's really escalated, say, in the last several months," prosecutor Bob Loper said. "I've tried a few large cases recently and the juries really hammered those people."

Last week, a jury gave a 40-year prison term and a $5,000 fine to a 22-year-old Houston man for possessing one gram of crack. He had had one previous aggravated robbery conviction.

"I was shocked," prosecutor Gladys Aguero said. "I never thought they were going to give 40 years."

But prosecutors and defense attorneys agree many Houstonians increasingly are reacting in alarm to drug use and the social ills it may cause just as people did in the mid-1960s.

Recent sports scandals and President Reagan's anti-drug campaign have contributed to the public's awareness, Loper said.

Judges and juries also are responding to findings that so-called recreational drugs are more dangerous than previously believed, according to Bert Graham, an assistant Harris County district attorney who heads the trial bureau.

Juries now are more reluctant to grant probation to drug offenders, defense attorney Wendell Odom Jr. said.

That attitude will get tougher, prosecutor Rusty Hardin predicted.

Nevertheless, a defendant convicted of selling a small amount of narcotics has a better than 50 percent chance of probation, Hardin said.

State District Judge William Hatten recently granted deferred adjudication to a college student who pleaded guilty to selling one pill for $20.

Hatten said it was better for the student to be under his supervision the next 10 years than to send him to the penitentiary where he likely would be released soon.

The judge and many defense attorneys said prison is not the only answer to the problem. Drug education must play a major role in the future, they said.

Surgery depends on the patient

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 55-year-old woman with a cystocele (dropped bladder). The gynecologist suggested surgery, but the urologist felt this isn't urgent. What is your advice? Does this condition make sexual relations harmful?

DEAR READER — A cystocele, if mild, produces no symptoms and requires no treatment. However, as the bladder's ligaments of suspension weaken — as they may in middle-aged women who have borne children — the patient may experience difficulty controlling urine flow. Typically, women with moderate to large cystoceles tend to wet themselves when they cough, sneeze or strain. Under these circumstances, surgery to re-suspend the bladder often will relieve this unpleasant loss of control.

An operation is not necessary for good health, however; the decision to undergo surgery is best left to the patient. All normal activity, including sexual intercourse, is permitted in women with cystoceles, both before and after surgery.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Like some of your other readers, I suffered from liver spots. For other reasons, I added PABA, B complex and niacin to my diet. After six months, I now have only a faint discoloration on my left elbow. It may not work for everyone, but it worked for me.

DEAR READER — PABA (para-amino benzoic acid) is useful in treating some skin diseases. I cannot see why combining it with B vitamins would be harmful, so I am glad that your home remedy worked for you. I'd be interested in learning if other readers have used this combination with success. Liver spots are caused by normal aging of the skin and are notoriously difficult to treat, so you may have discovered a new method.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A year ago my husband was diagnosed as having spinal-cord atrophy, cause unknown. He takes 160 milligrams of Lioresal and 30 milligrams of Librium to help with his severe spasticity; other than that, no doctor in this area can give help. Can you give us more information on his condition?

DEAR READER — The spinal cord, a major part of the central nervous system, relays nerve signals between the brain and various body parts. Like other tissues, the spinal nerves can atrophy or shrivel. As you point out, muscle spasticity is a consequence of the unusual disease called spinal atrophy. Because other disorders can mimic spinal atrophy, your husband may wish to have the diagnosis corroborated. I believe that this could be done in a teaching hospital where, after appropriate investigation, he could be started on a program of physical therapy to maintain his independence.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report, WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NURSING HOMES, offers a step-by-step guide to rating facilities and finding the best care available. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR READERS — A recent column erred in stating that an electrical arc can "weld" contact lenses to the eye.

Eye experts unanimously agree that this is impossible, and the American Optometric Association says that "reports" of this hazard are based entirely on rumor and have been thoroughly discredited.

In addition, in 1983, both the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration stated that these reports were false and that there was no such danger.

The American Optometric Association adds that it would be physically impossible for an electrical arc to bind contact lenses to the eye: The lenses could never concentrate rays sufficiently to do this type of damage, and the heat from an electrical arc isn't intense enough to affect contact-lens plastic.

McDonald's has Welding Machines and Supplies

McDonald Welding Supply has gained a reputation for service, and for good reason. The staff at McDonald Welding Supply comes early and stays late. This is especially important to the area's busy oil fields, and this is why so many companies have depended on McDonald Welding Supply for their supply needs.

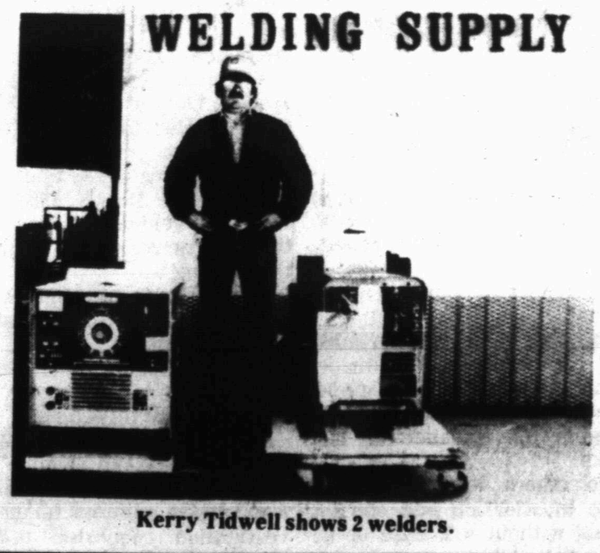

The firm serves an area bounded by Sweetwater to Loraine to Colorado City and Big Spring and back to Snyder. The Company has three 18 foot bobtail trucks for delivery to farms, businesses and well locations.

In stock at McDonald Welding Supply is the Miller and Lincolin Welding equipment line, which includes small engine drives and electric machine for farm and home use. They also have a large stock of smaller welders. They vary in size and can fit in the rear of a foreign truck as well as a two-ton truck. In addition, they carry Victor and Uniweld welding and cutting equipment and Walton vises.

If you need steel for oilfield fabrication, you can find exactly what you need at McDonald Welding Supply. The firm has a complete line of Milwaukee heavy duty electric drills and grinders. They have Williams hammer wrenches and heavy tools.

Safety equipment of all types is stocked including goggles, first aid kits and refills, hard hats, liners and fire extinguishers. This popular business also stocks chains, cable, tubing and chain hoists. They have recently added a complete line of Grade "8" Hard Bolts and Nuts in sizes from 5/16 to 1 ¼. Blocks as well as all types of pulleys may be added to the list.

The available list of supplies is almost endless, just ask for it. Stop by and see Gayle or Jack McDonald and the staff at McDonald Welding Supply, 1110 College Ave.
