New Building Records Seen Here In '48

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

ANOTHER year of record-breaking building is in prospect for Lubbock during 1948.

Chances are better than even that most, if not all, of the records set during 1947 will be shattered. These include total construction costing $11,203,801 and 974 residences valued at $5,448,598 during 1947.

If there is to be any slackening at all in the 1947 pace, during the new year, it is not likely to appear for several months, at the earliest.

Uncertainties Noted

These views are shared without discoverable dissent among those who are in closest touch with building and prospects in this city.

At the same time, they acknowledge the existence of many uncertainties which might have drastic effect upon construction before the new year runs its course. A war, depression or other very serious world or domestic crisis, they say, might bring building to a virtual standstill almost overnight.

But, barring some such emergency, the opinion prevails that Lubbock building during 1948 will be limited largely by the labor and materials available and the willingness to proceed with construction despite high costs.

25 Percent Hike In '47

Since the indications are that labor and materials will be somewhat more plentiful during 1948 than 1947, and because of the building which must be done almost without regard to costs, the belief is that new records are likely to be set.

However, the records made during 1947 will be a tremendous challenge.

The final tabulations announced by City Building Inspector Lloyd Ross Wednesday afternoon showed that the total of $11,203,801 in permits during 1947 exceeded the previous record of $8,946,191 in 1946 by $2,257,610, or 25 per cent.

The permits for 974 residences costing $5,448,598 were far ahead of any previous records. The previous record for the number of

Justice Department To Probe Reports On Rocket Plane

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31—The Air Force disclosed today it has called the Justice department's attention to publication of certain data on the XS-1 rocket plane and asked it to determine whether national security was violated.

An Air Force spokesman said that "the publication of recent XS-1 data in Aviation Week (a magazine) has been referred to the Department of Justice for consideration . . ."

An article in the latest edition of Aviation Week reported that the rocket plane had flown faster than the speed of sound. (Sonic speed varies from approximately 600 to 900 miles an hour, depending on altitude and temperature of the air.)

The Air Force declined, at the time, to discuss the magazine story.

Cold Weather Slows Traffic Over Plains

By BILL CLARK

GLASSY streets and highways webbed the South Plains early this morning and ice-laden branches were popping after day-long snow flurries blanketed the area in white.

At midnight Lubbock and the South Plains miraculously appeared to have escaped New Year's Eve fatalities—despite the fact that 17 traffic accidents had been reported in the city to police and numerous others in the South Plains area to Texas Highway patrolmen.

19 Degrees At Year Opens

The reported accidents were estimated to account for less than a quarter of the total number of "fender-brushings" and slide-collisions that happened during the day in the city.

Temperatures at the weather station north of Lubbock showed a steady decline from 30 degrees at 12:01 a. m. Wednesday to 19 at midnight at the beginning of the New Year. The minimum for New Year's Eve was 19, and the temperature remained steady at that from 5:30 p. m. until after midnight this morning.

Freezing Weather Continues

However, the pre-dawn temperature was expected to be as low as 15 degrees.

The weather was only slightly warmer than during a similar cold spell last year at this time, when temperatures ranged from a maximum of 21 to a minimum of 13.

No more snow was expected today, weather bureau officials said, although the temperatures will remain below freezing all day and tonight, becoming slightly warmer Friday.

Communications Disrupted

Ice forming on telephone lines interrupted Lubbock-Amarillo telephone service and caused long delays on east and south calls.

Employes of Southwestern Bell Telephone company were working feverishly to maintain long distance service. An employe estimated that as many as one-third of the long-distance circuits had been out of service during the day and last night.

Amarillo was virtually isolated

Tornadoes Strike In 100-Mile Long Path

Cotton Valley Near Shreveport Hit; Hundreds Said Homeless In Area

(By The Associated Press)

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 31—Fourteen persons were killed and an estimated 200 injured today when tornadoes ripped through 100 miles of Louisiana and Arkansas.

Ten persons were killed at Cotton Valley, La., one at Village, Ark., one at Leton, La., one at Haynesville, La., and another at Dykesville, La.

One third of Cotton Valley was reported flattened and Haynesville and Gillham, Ark., were hit.

Five persons were injured at Haynesville, while at Gwolham there was considerable property damage but no casualties.

Cotton Valley, worst hit of the communities, is a small oil and railroad town northeast of Shreveport. Most houses there were of frame construction.

Hundreds Said Homeless

Col. W. D. Schaeffer, of the Louisiana National Guard, said Mayor Sam Coyle, of Cotton Valley, reported that 500 persons there were homeless and estimated that 200 were injured.

Schaeffer said guardsmen had recovered the bodies of ten persons at Cotton Valley.

Tom Anderson, Cotton Valley bus station cook, said the storm struck there about 4 p. m.

"It tore down pretty near all of the buildings except some stores and the bus station," Anderson related.

"The storm came from the west.

"There was no warning. The sky was clear up until the time it hit. The storm lasted about 30 minutes. Then came rain and a howling wind that tore up the front side of the bus station. Most buildings were knocked flat," he said.

Communications in the path of the storm were disrupted and reports of the dead and injured were incomplete.

The storm hit first south of Vanceville, La., a small town northeast of Shreveport. It did not hit Vanceville, but moved northeastward to strike Cotton Valley and Haynesville and move on into

14 Missing In Alaskan Area

(By The Associated Press)

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Dec. 31—An Air Force B-29 Superfortress, which appeared to be engulfed in "a blinding flash" two minutes after a 12:11 a. m. takeoff, added nine more names today to Alaska's roll of missing airmen for the year's final week.

It raised to 14 the total of men missing, and probably dead, in two B-29 mishaps since Christmas Day.

Elmendorf Field authorities reported today's apparent disaster came after the B-29, starting on a routine long range weather observation mission to the San Francisco bay area, sent an emergency call that the No. 3 engine was out, "stand by."

A few seconds later the men in the field control tower saw what they described as "a blinding flash" on the plane's line of flight, directly to the west across the Knik arm of Cook inlet.

While a fruitless air search was launched promptly, despite a snowstorm, a ground party set out by Army weasel (a tracked vehicle) for an arduous, round-about trip to the area. It covered approximately 50 miles of road to Palmer and cut cross-country about 40 more to the Point McKenzie area, where disaster is believed to have struck the bomber, but reported by radio this afternoon that it had found no trace of the plane.

The site is only eight to 10 miles west of Anchorage, but in an isolated wilderness area. A dog team was to be flown to Goose Bay, across Knik arm and about 15 miles from Point McKenzie.

HST Hopeful For New Year

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31—President Truman said in a New Year's message today that he faces 1948 "confidently looking forward to a world peace on which all nations can agree."

And he said the United Nations must be made to work, no matter how long it takes, "for the simple reason that we can't afford anything else."

Peace Need "Selfish"

The President, surrounded by members of his and his wife's families, told his final news conference of 1947:

"It is to our selfish interests and to the selfish interests of every country in the world that we do have a workable world peace."

He pointed up his comments later by telling Russia's new ambassador to the U. S. that "a mutual spirit of good will and confidence" is necessary if the world is to solve its postwar problems."

Americans "aspire to live at peace with other nations in a stable and prospering world and will respond promptly to the people of any nation who make clear that they have the same goals," the President said.

The new envoy, Alexander S. Panyushkin, called at the White House and presented his credentials.

1947 Said "Good Year"

He said he considered it "my most important task" to foster good "political, economic and cultural relations" between the U. S. and Russia as a means of "strengthening universal peace."

Mr. Truman replied that the Soviet envoy could count on "the full support and assistance" of the U. S. government.

Their meeting was private but the State department made public the remarks exchanged. The President also permitted his press conference remarks to be quoted directly—something he seldom does.

He said he thought 1947 had been a good year but "not as good as we would like to have had it—none of them ever are."

When we fret about slow progress in the United Nations, the President said, we should remem-

Most Germans Face Problem Getting Food

Many Germans Said Hungry And Cold

(NOTE TO READERS: This is the fourth of a series of articles by The Avalanche-Journal's Editor, who has just returned from Europe where he studied Occupation methods of the U. S. and British in Germany and gathered first-hand information concerning general conditions. With 13 other U. JOHANN SCHMIDT, Germany's prototype of our "John Smith, the Man in the Street," is a most unhappy individual.

If you like, say "He should be. He asked for it." But don't forget that, after all, Johann Schmidt is a human being and that while no decent man can forgive the German nation for the woes its disease of Nazism brought to the world, compassion can—compassion must—be shown suffering individuals.

Before I left Lubbock on a six-weeks trip which took me well over the face of German, Austria and into Italy and France, countless people stopped me on the street, or called by phone to say:

"I want you to find out if the Germans really are hungry."

I found out about that. Found out about it before I had been in Berlin for 15 minutes; found out about it merely from looking at the people through the window of "Ike" Eisenhower's old Cadillac V-16, in which I was being driven from Tempelhof airport to the Army's Berlin Guest house.

Johann Schmidt, his wife Johanna and their spindly-legged kids are hungry—if they live in any German city. Furthermore, they are poorly clothed against the damp, penetrating German winter—and they are always cold.

No "Fat Germans" Are Seen

Our first stop in Germany was Berlin, to which we flew in our special mission, Army C-54, from Lagens Field in the Azores.

As the procession of seven limousines with MP motorcycle escort swept through the streets of Berlin, members of our party were puzzled to note the hundreds of Germans standing or shuffling about on the sidewalks of every block, aimlessly doing

Editor Can Make Only One Speech In City: Tuesday Night At High School

Because he has been asked to make more speaking engagements to Lubbock and South Plains organizations than he possibly can fill, Editor Chas. A. Guy, of The Avalanche-Journal, will make only one speech in Lubbock concerning his findings in Europe.

The Avalanche-Journal will present Mr. Guy at Senior High school auditorium next Tuesday night, Jan. 6, at 8 p. m. There will be no admission charge and all citizens interested in the Editor's observations in Europe are invited to be present as the guests of The Avalanche-Journal.

In addition to the speech covering his experiences in Europe, Mr. Guy will answer any questions he is able to answer regarding specific conditions in the U. S. and British Occupied zones of Germany and in the Free State of Trieste, hot spot of Europe.

"I wish I could accept all individual invitations," Mr. Guy said, "but if I did I wouldn't be able to do anything else for the next several weeks. To accept them all would force numerous people to hear me twice and I have a horror of boring people when it can be avoided. As a 'good neighbor,' I'm going to try to accept all South Plains invitations, because I consider that a duty. But one speech in Lubbock will give all really interested people a chance to gain additional information about Europe today."

The Editor will be introduced by Mayor Clarence Bestwick.

STEVENSON PLANS TALK TODAY

Four Candidates Are Seeking State Offices As Year Opens

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Dec. 31—The turn-of-the-year today found four candidates for public office—and probably a fifth—at the starting post for Texas' 1948 political year.

The four announced their candidacies for state office today.

The fifth, Former Gov. Coke Stevenson, will announce his intentions by radio at 11:45 a. m. tomorrow concerning the political race for a United States senatorship. His candidacy is considered virtually a certainty.

Bascom Giles, commissioner of the general land office of Texas, said he will seek re-election.

Ernest O. Thompson likewise announced he will run for re-election as Railroad commissioner.

State Rep. Ottis Lock of Lufkin will ask for promotion to a state senatorship.

Bruce Lloyd, now tax assessor-collector of Wood county, will seek election as state treasurer.

Giles, who is serving his fifth two-year term as land commissioner, said he had filed his name with Bob Calvert, chairman of

Vandenberg Not Seeking Backing

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan tonight formally requested Republicans in his state not to propose him for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948.

The 63-year-old Senator's long-expected announcement, made in a New Year letter to Michigan GOP leaders, opened the way for men who want the nomination to campaign vigorously for the backing of Michigan's 41 delegates to the party's national convention.

Can Serve Best In Senate

Vandenberg himself typed the announcement and delivered copies to newsmen. It said:

"On the threshold of this presidential election year, I wish to make this statement to my Michigan Republican friends who have been good enough to suggest that Michigan might again propose me for the nomination.

"Without presuming any such event, I urge that my name shall not be presented or supported either in the Michigan state convention or the national convention at Philadelphia.

"I am confident that I can best serve my country by completing my present term in the Senate.

Not Completely Out

"This is said with deepest appreciation of the previous loyalties which Michigan Republicanism has given me through 20 years of public service. My debt on this account passes all possibility of repayment.

"With every confident hope for a Republican victory in 1948, I remain, Arthur H. Vandenberg."

Republican presidential aspirants hopefully eyeing Michigan's weighty delegation to the June convention each could find encouragement in the fact that the Senator expressed no preference among the possible candidates—including Senator Taft (R-Ohio), former governor Stassen of Minnesota and, although he has not announced his candidacy, Governor Dewey of New York.

At the same time Vandenberg did not say he would resist a "draft" movement which could develop under some circumstances, such as a deadlock at Philadelphia.

Reds Claimed Losing In Greek Fighting

ATHENS, Dec. 31 (AP)—The violent attempt by Greek Communists to seize Konitsa as a capital for their newly-proclaimed "free state" has been beaten back by fiercely fighting Greek troops, the ministry of war announced today. Two columns of relief troops moved toward the embattled garrison before diminishing resistance.

One column, the communique said, is only a mile and a half from Konitsa and is in communication with the garrison. It has completed mopping up the Voidhomata river valley, which runs parallel to the Kalpaki-Bourozani bridge highway near the western edges of Konitsa.

The communique said the second column, constituting the bulk of the relieving forces totaling some 4,000, had captured the Bourozani bridge 11 miles west of Konitsa. However, other authoritative reports said the bridge had been blown up by retreating rebels but, had been repaired and that government forces were moving across it into the plain north of Konitsa.

Cotton Export Subsidy Plan To Be Continued Until June

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—The Agriculture department announced today that its cotton export subsidy program will be continued until June 30, 1948.

The subsidy is ½ cent a pound. The subsidy, which has been in effect for several years, is designed to help make American cotton competitive with foreign cotton in the world markets.

Cotton to receive benefit of the subsidy must be shipped prior to July 1, 1948.

Holiday Death Mark Hits 201

(By The Associated Press)

Texas' violent death toll for the holiday period beginning Dec. 20 passed the 200 mark last night shortly before the official end of 1947.

The grim count was 201 dead, of which 95 of them were traffic accidents.

Bad weather and a last fling for the New Year's holiday were expected to add more to the death list.

Wrecks Take Toll

The dead included:

Ralph Walker, jr., 20, of near Colorado City, was killed Wednesday afternoon when his car skidded on a U. S. highway bridge five miles west of Colorado City and overturned. Sheriff Nick Narrell of Colorado City said ice on the bridge was the cause.

Leon Eugene Latham, 35, Fort Worth carpenter, was injured fatally late Wednesday when his automobile and a Fort Worth Transit company bus collided. His death brought Tarrant county's traffic fatality toll to 70 for 1947, one above the 1946 figures.

Jimmy Knaur, 13, of Denison, died Wednesday night on a Denison street when struck by a truck while pushing his motorcycle.

G. B. Shaw, 39, Arlington cafe operator, was killed Wednesday afternoon in an automobile colli-

Snow, High Winds, Hail Batter Texas

(By The Associated Press)

ALTHOUGH rain, snow and sleet were falling late Wednesday night in the Panhandle and in North and East Texas, U. S. Weather bureau forecasters stuck by their predictions for clear but cold weather throughout the state by early afternoon Thursday.

The bureau listed light snow as falling in Dallas, Wichita Falls, Waco, Abilene, Amarillo and Pampa, and at scattered points in East Texas.

Winds Hit Texas

During the late afternoon Wednesday high winds, accompanied by driving rains and heavy hail, caused considerable damage in East and Central Texas, although the storms were not of proportions comparable to the Cotton Valley, La., storm which is reported to have claimed a death toll estimated variously from 10 to 200.

The Texas deaths of at least two persons were blamed on cold weather.

Lineman Killed

Ralph Walker, jr., 20, rural electrification lineman of the Dorn community near Colorado City, was killed and three others injured in three separate automobile accidents within a half hour Wednesday afternoon on a bridge five miles west of Colorado City.

Walker's car skidded and turned over. Sheriff Nick Narrell of Colorado City said ice on the bridge caused the accident.

James Rogers, a disabled negro veteran of World War I, was killed when the ambulance in which he was riding skidded on a road near Eden, Rogers being

Only One Convict Still At Large

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CANYON CITY, Colo., Dec. 31—Colorado's worst prison outbreak in 18 years, with a dozen hardened felons battering from an isolation cellblock, was written off as a failure tonight in jig time by possemen's bullets and shackles.

Of the 12 convicts battering their way to freedom last night, only one still was at large. He was James Sherbondy, 28-year-old murderer, called "mountainwise" by Warden Roy Best.

Officers Posse Search

Possemen tonight wandered through foot-deep snow in the garden park area north of here in search of Sherbondy, but the escapee eluded officers as he did 10 years ago when sheriff's officers combed the wooded areas of Tennessee pass for the then 17-year-old youth.

At that time he was being sought for questioning in connection with the 1937 slaying of Eagle County, Colo., Sheriff O. W. Meyer.

Bloodhounds and an aeroplane search proved fruitless in the Tennessee manhunt. Sherbondy was finally captured in Hastings, Nebr., when he tried to hop a train.

Two convicts were killed, four more wounded and another beaten on the head by an intrepid ranch wife swinging a claw hammer. Six guards and two nearby residents, one a woman, were shot or beaten.

The warden said the convicts

OPTIMISTIC NOTE SOUNDED

New Year Welcomed Here With Enthusiasm Despite Cold Wave

SNOW, cold winds, icy streets and temperature hovering between 15 and 20 degrees put a slight damper on some New Year's Eve celebrations and observances last night, but Lubbock and South Plains residents for the most part did not allow the wintry weather to seriously hinder their celebrating the traditional "ringing out the old and ringing in the new."

A Watch Night service scheduled at Asbury Methodist church under sponsorship of the church young people was called off because of the weather, and Oneness Pentecostal church also called off a New Year's Eve service. However, programs at First Baptist and Central Baptist churches were held as scheduled, with possibly slightly smaller crowds attending because of the weather.

Lubbock night clubs reported near capacity crowds despite the cold and snow, but some reservations from towns and cities around Lubbock were cancelled because icy roads made travel hazardous. However, most clubs had long waiting lists from local residents which compensated for the out-of-town people who were unable to

Dawson Judge To Run For State Senator

The South Plains' political pot began to boil yesterday with announcement by County Judge Kilmer B. Corbin of Dawson county that he is a candidate for state senator from the 30th senatorial district.

Corbin was the first candidate to officially announce for a major office in the area.

The senate post is now held by Sterling J. Parrish of Lubbock. He is serving his first term, and indicated Wednesday that he would make an announcement soon regarding his candidacy for re-election.

Arthur Duggan, Littlefield attorney, has also been mentioned as a possible candidate for the post, but as yet has made no announcement of his plans.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

AND a happy and healthy New Year to readers of this column.

Seven years ago, stammering, bashful, earnest George the Sixth, in one of England's darkest hours of adversity, broadcast the words of a Canadian poet, Louise Haskins, to the world. Her poem "God Knows," from a short collection called "The Desert," has lifted her from obscurity to world fame because of the royal recognition.

THAT poem on The Gate of the Year set forth no defeatist ideas; it showed no surrender; it held forth no shining bayonets. It was a simple expression of sound faith in God and in His wisdom. The Woman's Angle is passing it along to her readers because the thought will bring courage and comfort to those who may be facing in their own lives the "crisis of Empire" which faced England's king on that memorable day. The poem containing the quotation is called "God Knows":

—And I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year:
"Give me a light that I may tread softly into the unknown."
—And he replied:
"Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the Hand of God.
"That shall be to you better than light and safer than a known way."

So I went forth and finding the Hand of God trod gladly into the night. And He led me towards the hills and the breaking of day in the lone East.

THREE LITTLE WORDS

Of all the advice we have ever read, given to those who want to live in the world more happily and successfully, the best came from the pen of the talented cartoonist Tad. It is only three words: "Don't kid yourself."

GOOD HEALTH

REPORTS from life insurance institutes indicate the health of the American people was excellent in 1947 and the picture during the closing months gave cause for optimism regarding health conditions in 1948.

Parents can still be concerned over a national accident rate which makes motor and other fatal accidents the most common of all causes of death among children.

According to figures cited by the Women's Division of the Institute of Life Insurance, four and half times as many children died in accidents in 1945 as from pneumonia, five times as many as from heart disease and 15 times as from in infantile paralysis. The ages covered are from five through 14, a group which in 1945 numbered more than 22 million children.

FIGURES for 1947 show that cases of measles and scarlet fever were at low ebb. Whooping cough had a periodic increase, but deaths rose less than did cases, indicating that greater success is being achieved in treating the disease. The numbers of cases and deaths from poliomyelitis were the smallest in five years.

As for adults, the 1947 record for diseases of middle and later life, of the heart and coronary arteries, nephritis, cerebral hemorrhage, cancer and diabetes, was relatively good. Suicides and homicides both declined slightly during 1947.

These encouraging figures do not mean we can become complacent about the health of the people, is the warning given. There is still a large toll of preventable sickness and premature death that can be reduced by improving health and nutritional habits, by providing more adequate medical care and by increasing the hospital and public health facilities.

And the year certainly will call for increased efforts in the safety field if there is to be a further reduction in the motor vehicle accident rate.

NEIGHBORHOOD COFFEE

WHEN Mrs. Cecil L. Wolfe and Mrs. A. F. Rasor moved to their homes on Thirty-second street there were only three houses in their block. Since that time residences have been added until today there are only two vacant lots.

The two women decided it would be a good idea to give a coffee some day, invite the neighbor, and give everyone an opportunity to get acquainted. They just got under the 1947 wire, since they chose Wednesday, which turned out to be the worst day of winter, for their party.

The coffee was so successful, the hostesses thought others might like to follow suit, since Lubbock is growing so rapidly and neighborhoods are still playing fruit basket turned over and constantly changing.

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wright, above, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary recently at the home of a daughter, Mrs. M. Yarbrough, 2428 Twenty-fourth. Mr. Wright who is 82 and Mrs. Wright who is 80 are natives of Texas, having lived the past 35 years in Denton county. Since last June they have made their home with Mrs. Yarbrough. Other children are B. B. Wright of Lubbock; W. C. Wright, Sacramento, Calif.; A. H. Wright, Los Angeles, Calif.; C. A. Wright, Durant, Okla.; D. F. Wright, Oklahoma City; and Mrs. Ethel Robbins of Harlingen. Grandchildren of the couple are Cope Wright of Lubbock and Capt. Edgar Yarbrough who is stationed at Austin.

Announcements Are Made Of Marriages Of Lubbock And South Plains Couples

Mr. and Mrs. Robert White of Snyder are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Bobbye White, to Jack K. Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Greene of Snyder, which was read Dec. 23 in the home of the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Mary Caton, in Lubbock with Dr. M. Norvel Young of Broadway Church of Christ reading a double ring service.

The vows were exchanged before the fireplace which was decorated with poinsettias and greenery and lighted with Christmas tapers.

The traditional wedding march was played by Miss Dorothy Donnell after a prelude of "Always" and "Clair de Lune."

The bride wore a white wool suit with powder blue blouse, black accessories and a corsage of deep pink carnations. She carried a white Bible for something borrowed; wore a gold ring belonging to Mrs. Caton for something old; put a penny in her shoes, gift from the bridegroom's grandmother for luck and wore blue earrings, gift from her parents, as something blue.

Miss Dossie Caton was maid of honor and Joe T. Alexander served as best man.

Close friends and relatives attended the wedding and a reception which followed. A two-tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bridal couple, was served with coffee.

The couple will be at home in Snyder where Mr. Greene is employed. He recently received his discharge from the Navy, after serving two years on the West Coast and in the Pacific. Mrs. Greene has been employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

CHRISTMAS WEDDING IS ANNOUNCED

Mrs. G. A. Hayslip of Lubbock, Rt. 1, is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Betty Lee Hayslip, to James Troice Rackler, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Rackler of Acuff, which took place Christmas day in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Hayslip, 711 Thirtieth, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. Rev. Hershel Henkel officiated.

The bride wore an ice blue tailored suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. Miss Hiavatha Hayslip, maid of honor, wore a gray suit with brown accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Dalton Rackler of Tahoka served as best man.

NEW BID FOR TALKS SEEN

Molotov Claims Agreement On German Peace Pact Possible

By W. R. HIGGINBOTHAM
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 31—Soviet Foreign Minister Viacheslav M. Molotov declared today that an agreement on Germany is possible and indicated that Russia would be interested in a new meeting of the Big Four council of foreign ministers.

He qualified his indirect invitation for a new meeting, however, by indicating that Russia was willing to resume discussions of Germany only on what amounts to Russian terms.

"General agreement will be achieved on the German issue despite existing differences" if the United States and Britain adhere to the Yalta and Potsdam agreement, he said in a 3,500-word statement broadcast by radio Moscow.

Moscow identified the statement as an account of Molotov's replies to Russian newspaper interviews on the London conference, which broke up Dec. 15 over Russia's demands for $10,000,000,000 in reparations from Germany.

These demands were refused by U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall on grounds that, in effect, the Western nations would have to pay the reparations because Germany needed help to regain her feet and become self-sufficient.

Molotov concluded his statement with the flat charge that the United States was responsible for the London failure. This was, he said, because of U. S. plans to "convert the western part of Germany into a base for extending the influence of American imperialism in Europe."

U. S. Attitude Scored

Despite his accusations against the United States, Molotov repeated twice that "the time has come" for the Big Four council of foreign ministers to concentrate on Germany and also the Japanese peace treaties now that the satellite treaties are in effect.

Observers believed parts of Molotov's statement could be interpreted as an indirect bid for a new Big Four meeting on Germany while other parts were intended mainly for German consumption.

Molotov emphasized that completion of a peace treaty for Germany was vital for "the consolidation of peace in Europe" but insisted that the United States no longer considered a speedy German settlement as vital.

Zonal Merger Attacked

Large sections of his statement were devoted to an attack on the merger of the American and British zones of Germany and proposals to include the French zone.

"Bankruptcy of this policy is inevitable because it contradicts the historical development of Germany and meets with condemnation throughout democratic Europe," he said.

This "anti-democratic policy," he said, was dictated by a "desire to see Germany dismembered both politically and economically."

Chinese Leader Declares Reds Must Be Defeated Within Year

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

When 1947 was young, Chiang Kai-Shek's generals were saying that it would take from three to six months to dispose of the Chinese Communists.

As 1947 ended, Chiang Kai-Shek himself told the Chinese people:

"Although we cannot expect immediate results in the military operations, the main forces of the Communist rebels must be annihilated within one year. Afterwards, it may take two years to clean up the remnants."

If Chiang had said the main Communist forces "will be" wiped out in 1948, he would just be restating what his generals had said. However, he said they "must" be wiped out, which raises the question of what will happen if they are not.

China Faces Defeat

The use of the imperative suggests that correspondents may not be wrong in cabling from China that unless Chiang gets aid from the United States soon, he faces defeat at the hands of the Communists, possibly in 1948. America is the only possible source for the amount of aid he needs—assuming it is not already too late for it to be effective, which is another question correspondents have been writing about.

Thus, whether he intends it so or not, Chiang's speech appears to be his clearest appeal thus far for American aid.

Russian Influence Studied

In the same speech he came nearer than ever before to accusing Soviet Russia of aiding the Chinese Communists. He said that "the present Communist menace comes as much from without as from within."

This does not, however, back up the charge made the day before by his chief of staff in Peiping that Russia is sending the Communists military advisers, arms and communications equipment.

Chiang stops short of accusing Russia by name or specific charge, but at the same time may strengthen the arguments of those Americans who seek congressional action to provide him with American military help.

He may be going slow on Russia for reasons obvious to Chinese but not so apparent to many Americans. On Dec. 30 the Shanghai Ta Kung Pao printed a statement by 52 influential Chinese which recalled China's geographic position next to Russia, particularly with reference to the vital question of a Japanese peace conference.

Dawson County Road Bond Issue Okayed

LAMESA, Dec. 31 (Special)—Virtually complete returns from Lamesa and Dawson county, released this afternoon by County Judge Kilmer Corbin, indicated that the $150,000 road bond election held here Tuesday had passed by the necessary two-thirds majority.

The total vote compiled up to 1:30 p. m. today was 204 for and 88 against. Corbin said that this total represented 12 boxes complete out of a total of 17, with 5 small rural boxes yet to come in.

Harmony, Patricia, O'Donnell, Munger and Shumake have not reported the results in their areas, but Corbin said that it was very unlikely that the vote in those sections would change the outcome of the election.

Involved in the passage of the bond issue is construction of about 25 miles of hard-surfaced, farm-to-market roads at a cost of approximately $200,000, one-fourth of which is to be financed by the state. Contracts for the jobs would be let by the State Highway department which would also assume the responsibility of future maintenance.

London Cowboy Fund At La Marque, Texas Given Good Boost

LA MARQUE, Tex., Dec. 31 (U.P.)—Generous people from throughout the nation were sending money to this small Texas town today to enable a London couple and their three boys establish a new home and a new future in Texas.

Money was arriving in letters to Mrs. Glen Weber and the Mainland Times of La Marque from people who want to "help the London boys come to America."

Mrs. Weber, with Orlando and Louis Blackburn of the Times, has lead the movement to "transplant" war veteran Fred Payne, his wife and their three sons in Texas. She said a fund has been set up in a La Marque bank for the Payne family.

Americans Follow Suit

The money has been deposited in the "London cowboy fund," which was inspired by a longing letter from the Payne boys—Howard, 11, Leonard, eight, and Skipper, seven—who wrote and said they wanted to become Texas cowboys.

Those interested in the ambitious project hope it won't be long before they will have enough money in the fund to buy boat tickets for the Paynes who are anxiously awaiting the chance to settle in the United States.

An eight-year-old St. Louis boy who forgot to sign his name wrote:

"I am sending you a quarter that papa gave me to see Roy Rogers in the movies. I want to give it to the London boys to help them come to America."

But not all the letters had offerings. A Texas father asked if Mrs. Weber wanted to adopt his six children, and a Michigan couple asked her to find them a home in Texas.

WOULD TAG CHILDREN

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Dr. Edward Press, medical director for the U. S. Children's bureau here, believes all children should wear metal identification discs. Writing in the American Medical Journal Dr. Press said it not only would facilitate quick identification if a child is lost but would save lives by aiding doctors who might have to give the child emergency aid after an accident.

Judgment Asked As Result Of Wreck

Judgment in damages totaling $126,885 was asked in the suit of Emma Levetia Pigg and others against J. W. Starr, doing business as Starr Gas Co., Inc., Wednesday afternoon in the 72nd district court of Judge Dan Blair.

The suit is outgrowth of a June 12 two-truck collision in which Leslie Dewey Pigg, husband and father of plaintiffs, and Carlton (Cowboy) Stidham, alleged to have been employed as driver for the Starr Gas company, were burned to death.

The suit identified Pigg as a driver of a transport gasoline truck owned by Homer Johnson. Both drivers lived in Levelland.

The plaintiff's petition listed residence of the gas company as being in Midland county.

Mrs. Pigg brought the suit individually and as community survivor of the estate of her late husband, and as guardian of the estates of J. E., James W., Joy Ann, Coy W., and Jerry D. Pigg, minors who range in age from 20 years to 11 months.

The collision was on U. S. highway 290 about five miles from the western limits of Lubbock. Stidham was driving westward in a butane truck, Pigg eastward in his transport truck and trailer. Both vehicles caught fire after the collision and were virtually destroyed.

The suit is the fourth to be filed in connection with the mishap. Wednesday's action was filed by Leo S. Hay of the law firm of Hay and Hudspeth of Lubbock.

The name "smorgasbord" is a compound of the words for butter, cheese, and bread.

More Federal Employes Named Among Speculators On Market

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—Twenty-six federal employes were listed by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson today as having speculated in the commodity markets in the past two years.

No "big names" were involved. The 26 were described as officials and clerks holding relatively minor positions.

Three were from Anderson's own department.

A few hours before he released the list, Anderson told reporters that because of the "heartaches" involved, he soon will recommend that the government quit making public the names of private citizens trading in grain and other commodities.

But the cabinet officer said he believes the names of all federal, state and local officials who have speculated should continue to be published until all are disclosed.

There were further repercussions today from the original list of 80 speculating federal employes which was made public Monday. That list contained the name of Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, White House doctor.

President Truman told a news conference he does not think his physician had done anything wrong.

Graham had said that he simply turned money over to his broker with instructions to use his own judgment in handling the account. He didn't know of the grain purchases until weeks after they were made, he said, and as soon as he learned of them, he ordered the grain sold.

FDR Opposed Speculation

Today's list was made public by Anderson in connection with a letter he sent to Senator Knowland (R-Calif). Knowland, pointing to a 1937 directive by the late President Roosevelt calling on government employes not to speculate in commodities, had asked for a list of such employes found to be speculating in 1946 and 1947.

The names had been gathered by the Commodity Exchange authority, which is in Anderson's department. Officials said that some, at least, of the employes did not know of the Roosevelt directive. Anderson said the 26 had speculated in cotton and egg futures, but he did not furnish details of the transactions.

Anderson told reporters he will propose halting the publicizing of private speculators' names as soon as "everybody is satisfied we are not trying to shield anyone." Publication of the lists, he said, is causing "heartaches" for "many innocent holders" of commodity futures.

Veterans Housing Plans To Be Resumed Under New Allocation

Applications were pouring into the Federal Housing administration office here yesterday following resumption of business under Title VI (veterans housing program) after the President had signed a bill authorizing an additional $750,000,000 intended to carry the program until next March 31.

Under the bill $250,000,000 is authorized immediately, and an additional half billion can be authorized on executive order. This portion of the national housing program was shut down last Nov. 12 when funds were exhausted, leaving many potential applications in the plan stage, according to J. A. Raley, jr., chief of the office here.

Raley said both sections of the Title VI program are affected. One section involves small improvements, and the other large scale construction. He said preferential consideration will be given to applications offering the best possibilities for production of houses at the lowest sale price or rental.

Raley pointed out one major change in section 608 (large scale program) which provides that regardless of amount of loan applied for, preferred stock must be issued to the FHA commissioner, and the project will be subject to the same rules and regulations governing rentals, reserves for replacements, etc., which were previously applicable only with respect to mortgages in excess of $200,000.

Recording Studios Work To Beat Petrillo Deadline; Top Stars Take Part In Plan

By WAYNE OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—Everything from Bethoven to be-bop was recorded in studios across the country today and far into the evening as record and transcription companies sought to beat James C. Petrillo's midnight ban on "canned" music.

The final New Year's eve rush climaxed weeks of stepped up activities by recording firms—and musicians—to build up a backlog of recorded music prior to the midnight expiration of the American Federation of Musicians' contract with recording companies.

AFM President Petrillo announced last Oct. 18 that when the contract expired, union members "never again" would make recordings which he contended destroy employment opportunities for musicians.

Vast Sums Spent

Since then, recording firms have spent an estimated $2,000,000 to $2,500,000 building up a supply of records and transcriptions for use during what a Columbia records news release referred to as "Petrillo's great silence."

While the eleventh hour rush was more pronounced at some of the smaller firms, even the big four of the home record field—RCA-Victor, Columbia, Decca and Capitol—made New Year's eve recordings at their New York studios.

Among those making final day recordings at RCA-Victor were opera singer James Melton, Vaughn Monroe and his orchestra and Beatrice Lillie, British musical comedy star. Columbia's last minute recordings included performances by Metropolitan opera singer Rise Stevens, vocalist Buddy Clark and Frankie Carle and his orchestra.

Eventual Settlement Expected

Singing star Gordon Macrae wound up Capitol's final recording session, early in the afternoon. Decca officials reported they had already cleared up their major recording engagements but the few remaining ones were completed by mid-afternoon.

The big backlog of recordings has been built up not only for home record players, but also for transcribed radio programs. One major transcription firm, for instance, reported it had recorded for two years ahead on one of its most popular programs.

While Petrillo attributed the ban to his contention that recordings reduce employment for musicians, industry leaders say they believe a major factor was the Taft-Hartley law. A provision of the law prohibits union collection of royalties on each record sold, as under the present contract, for the AFM's welfare fund.

As for the "never again" feature of the ban, industry officials generally take the view that while the ban may be a long one, some solution will be worked out in time and musicians will resume the making of recordings.

Petrillo imposed a ban on recordings in 1942 when he demanded—and won—the contract calling for royalty payments ranging up to five cents on each record sold. It was 27 months before the last firm had agreed to the terms.

Vernon Rent Controls Lifted, Sherman, Denison Unchanged

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—Rent controls were lifted today from defense-rental areas at Vernon, Tex., and Holdrege, Neb., but kept in effect in five other areas despite recommendations that they be eliminated.

The areas for which housing expediter Tighe E. Woods turned down recommendations of local boards that controls be abandoned include:

Sherman-Denison, Texas, including Grayson and Fannin counties.

Woods held that data submitted by the Vernon and Holdrege area boards showed that rent control no longer is necessary in those districts.

In disapproving the recommendations for lifting controls in the other districts, he said that insufficient information was submitted by local rent boards to warrant such action.

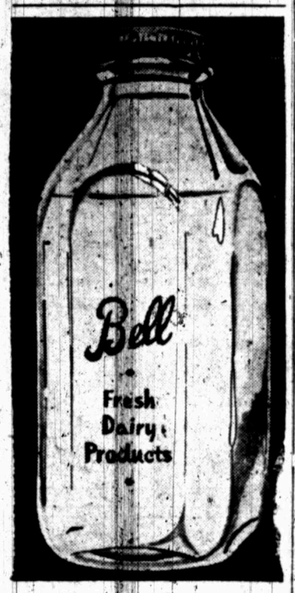

Birmingham, Ala., was the third largest iron-shipping point in the world in 1898.

Ohio Team Continues To Rule As Slight Favorite Over Tech

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

EL PASO, Dec. 31—A subdued, confident Texas Tech football team arrived here this afternoon at 5 (MST) and went immediately to Kidd field, where a brief limbering up exercise was conducted in below freezing weather.

No attempt to run through plays was made, Coach Dell Morgan exposing his players to the elements only long enough to loosen up stiff muscles from the long bus ride.

The squad, curiously studied by the Miami university gridders, just finishing a brief, final drill, dressed and went to the downtown hotel for a quiet evening.

16,000 Fans Expected

The Sun Bowl game this year between two of the better T formation teams from two sections of the country, will be the 13th in the series that began in 1936. A crowd of 16,000 overflow persons is expected to jam its way into the Texas School of Mines' stadium located under the towering mountain peaks forming the backdrop for the pageant. The kickoff will be at 2:15 p. m. (M. S. T.)

The Red Raiders still are rated from one to seven points under the Ohio team, but indications tonight were that the odds might drop to even by game time. Advance odds were posted on the smoothness of the visiting Redskins in practice, their high spirit and their fine season's record.

The weatherman predicted fair skies for tomorrow's game, but with temperatures expected to go no higher than the low forties. This turn in the weather is a potent in favor of the Ohio squad, more used to cold weather than the Techsans.

The Sun Bowl stadium is reported to be sold out for the game, and scalpers were touring the town today.

Tech will go into the game tomorrow carrying a weight advantage in both the line and the backfield. The probable starting line, as announced tonight by Coach Sid Gillman, will average 181 pounds, with a backfield slightly higher at 186 for a team average of 183.

The Raider forward wall will scale at roughly 198 pounds, giving the line a 17-pound advantage. The backfield will be lighter, hitting an average of about 183, or three pounds a man lighter than Miami. The team average for Tech will be about 190 pounds, giving the starting eleven a seven-pound advantage.

Redskins Are Hefty

Spectators were impressed at the Miami team's size, although they did not appear to be as fall as the Techsans, they were barrel chested and generally had larger legs, giving the impression of strong driving force. The Redskin team was pronounced in top physical condition by Coach Gillman, and the visitors mentally are ready to win the game.

Coach Morgan also had his squad at their peak physical shape on the eve of the battle, while the attitude of the players seemed to be one of quiet confidence and eagerness to meet the Ohioans.

Both teams are expected to shoot the works offensively, giving the New Year's day crowd a thrill of perpetual fireworks on the field. Likewise, both coaches seemed to figure that defensive formations used all season would be sufficient for the game.

Today's battle may develop into two separate duels, with Quarterbacks Mel Olix of Miami and Freddie Brown of Tech vying for passing honors and Centers Paul Dietzel of Miami and Roland "Tuffy" Nabors of Tech attempting to outdo each other. These two potential duels nearly overshadow two elevens that probably are as evenly matched as possible.

But Tech's offense won't rest with the potent passing of Brown. Coach Morgan has been drilling the squad on a series of quick opening line plays designed to shake speedster Charlie Reynolds, shifty Walter Maloney, smashing Leete Jackson and ripping Cal Steveson into the open. These backfield stars will highlight the Tech ground attack and will take over much of the burden from Brown.

Snow No Bother

And the light snow here Tuesday night and Wednesday was not enough to bother the turf on Kidd field. Officials predicted that the surface would be soft enough to give good footing, but firm enough to hold the fast breaking backs.

Game At A Glance

Teams: Miami University of Oxford, Ohio and Texas Tech.
Place: Kidd Field, El Paso.
Kickoff: 2:15 p. m. (M.S.T.)
Broadcasts: KSEL (direct) and KFYO (network).
The starting lineups:

TEXAS TECH	POS.	MIAMI
Smith	LE	McCartney
Winkler	LT	McCormick
Pursel	LG	Vracin
Nabors	C	Dietzel
McCurry	RG	Preston
Zoller	RT	Weaver
Kelley	RE	Weber
Brown	QB	Olix
Henderson	LH	Shoults
Lewis	RB	Parseghian
L. Jackson	FB	Wippel

Off the season's record, Miami does rate a slight favorite, with eight victories and one tie in nine games. Miami opened the season with a 28-12 defeat of Murray State (Kentucky), continued with a 35-7 romp over Kent State, added Bowling Green to the list by 33-19 and then played a 6-6 tie with Xavier university. They picked up the win skein again by beating Ohio university 21-0, took Bradley by 32-27, University of Dayton by 12-0, romped over Wichita by 22-7 and ended the season with a 38-7 rout of Cincinnati, which last year won the Sun Bowl game.

Tech's record was not as impressive. They opened with a licking from Texas, 33-0 and then fell to Texas Aggies, 29-7. They bounced back to beat West Texas 21-13 and added Tulsa, 14-7, before bowing to Baylor 32-6. After that they routed Denver, 36-7 and traded this victory for a 40-7 stomping from Rice. Then came victories over Arizona, 40-28 and New Mexico 26-20. With the Border conference title at stake, Tech ended the regular season with a 14-6 victory over a favored Hardin-Simmons team.

"Up" For Battle

Miami scored 227 points during the regular season, while holding the opposition to 85, far better than Tech's summary. In addition, the Redskins have not failed to score in every game for the past four years, during which time they have won 30 games, lost six and tied one.

Whatever the weather, whatever the odds, one thing is certain: both teams are concerned primarily with winning this game and they are "up" for this battle. This year's Sun Bowl duel should result in one of the best bowl games of the day, with plenty of scoring, lots of excitement and an overflow of thrills for the crowd.

Tech's 77-58 Rout Of H-SU Is Record

FORT WORTH, Dec. 31 (AP)—The brilliant shooting of Lanky Bob Prewitt brought SMU a 53-42 victory over Texas Wesleyan and the championship of Fort Worth's first annual invitation college basketball tournament here tonight.

Prewitt tabbed 19 points and connected six times from far out.

TWC moved ahead, 9-7, on the goaling of Doug Higgins and Gus Weber, then SMU started rolling and earned a 25-17 halftime margin.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 31 (AP)—Texas Tech's Red Raiders ran up their tallest score of the season here today to smother Hardin-Simmons 77-58 and set a tournament scoring record for the Fort Worth College Invitation basketball meet.

With Ardie Barton and Chet Jackson leading the scoring parade, Tech grabbed a 46-30 halftime margin and coasted in. The Raiders muffed a chance to pass the 80 mark when they cooled off and tallied only three points in the final five minutes and 45 seconds.

The two teams' 135 points also surpassed the 127 made when Texas Wesleyan trimmed North Texas State 66-61 last night in the semi-finals.

The Cowboys' Glen Burroughs topped point getters with 18 points, Barton's 15 were high for the raiders.

Louisiana State University won the consolation championship by overtaking TCU, 52-46.

The Bengals broke a 41-41 tie on Bob Meador's two buckets, then maintained a one to six point lead during the last five minutes as the Frogs repeatedly missed shots from all angles.

North Texas State roared from behind in the last four minutes of play to trim Texas A&M 59-55 in the third place game of the tournament.

Kiser Stages Upset To Pinion Al Getz

Jack Kiser, Oswego, Ore., grappler, staged the most stunning upset of the season by winning two of three falls from Al Getz in the first main event of the New Year's Eve wrestling card at Sled Allen's arena.

Kiser surprised the Southwestern junior heavyweight champion by copping the first fall in 13 minutes, but Getz evened the score with a 17 minute second fall decision. Kiser gained the decisive third fall in just nine minutes, although Getz protested the referee's decision.

"Lightning" Rod Fenton, the Edmonton, Canada, grunt-and-groaner, bested Gordon Hessel in the second feature go in one of the roughest bouts staged in the local arena. Fenton grabbed the lead with a 20 minute first fall victory, but Hessel took the second decision in 10 minutes. During the rowdy third encounter both wrestlers engaged in a slugging duel outside the ring and Hessel was unable to get back inside the ropes before Referee Billy McEuin finished his count.

Veteran Johnny Carlin of Tampa, Fla., gained a 15 minute, one-fall preliminary bout triumph over Olan Boynton of Amarillo.

WINS TWO FEATURES

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 31 (AP)—Jockey Gerald Porch made a clean sweep of the two feature races at the Fair Grounds this afternoon, winning the Alabama feature on Windswept, and the Texas feature on Junior Wolf.

Despite continued reports from El Paso that Miami rules the favorite in today's Sun Bowl battle this corner continues to believe Tech's Red Raiders will beat the Redskins . . .

Texas should edge Alabama by two touchdowns, or 20-7 . . .

Clear Weather In Prospect For H-SU San Diego State Grid Go

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 31 (AP)—The Harbor Bowl football committee, presenting the Hardin-Simmons university of Texas and San Diego State college in the second annual New Year's bowl game here, looked at a clear sky tonight and declared it couldn't lose.

Committee officials said advance sales, plus the promise of good weather, indicated attendance of at least 15,000.

Hardin-Simmons, the favorite, and San Diego finished off training with light workouts today.

Pony Air Circus, Lion Power Set

DALLAS, Dec. 31 (AP)—Southern Methodist university's explosive Mustangs pit their aerial circus against Penn State's stubborn Nittany Lions here tomorrow in the 12th annual Cotton Bowl classic.

Only a few more than 45,000 persons will be able to cram into the bowl to see the undefeated, untied Lions match their nation's best defensive record against the unbeaten, once tied Mustangs' potent passing.

Cold weather was in prospect for the game after a predicted hard freeze tonight. The weather Bureau held out the possibility that no rain would fall during the game, although .66 inch fell last night and more was predicted. A muddy gridiron would enhance Penn State's chances considerably, while definitely handicapping SMU. A tarpaulin is keeping the gridiron dry until game time.

Strong Ground Attack

The pattern for play was pretty well cut.

Penn State, rolling up more than 300 yards a game and scoring 319 points, has polished its terrific running attack for more than a week.

Southern Methodist, boasting a good ground game, has spent a large share of pre-game drills on passing, with All-America Doak Walker and Gilbert Johnson doing most of the pitching.

Penn State's feat of holding opponents to 17 yards rushing set a new record this year, and the Lions yielded just 27 points.

The Mustangs scored 169 points, gave up 77.

Coach Bob Higgins of Penn State went on record as to what his team must do:

"Stop Walker and break up Southern Methodist's passing."

He expected his hard charging line to do the job.

Mentor Matty Bell of Southern Methodist had the problem of his team holding the Penn State line on offense—then getting through it on defense.

Walker, All-America in his sophomore year, topped Southwest conference scorers with 87 points, led in yards gained on the ground, and ranked among the first ten passers. Field general of the team, the 20-year-old Dallas back has been the difference that made SMU a great team instead of a mere good one.

Rattan Gets 3-Year Levelland Contract

LEVELLAND, Dec. 31 (Special)—Coach Truett S. Rattan of Levelland High school is still winning.

The affable first-year coach whose Lobo football team won for Levelland High school its first regional grid crown in its history, this week signed a three year contract as head football and basketball coach.

That is unusual here as coaches in the past all were hired for one year only.

The salary which Coach Rattan reportedly will receive is approximately $4,500 per year which is not only a local record, but is believed to be the highest figure paid a South Plains Class A coach.

When Rattan came to Levelland high last year his contract called for one year at a much smaller salary.

His first year record is one of the brightest in South Plains history. While he had exceptional football material with which to work he wasted no time developing a team which possessed plenty of drive and initiative and to win a regional title was called on to literally beat down a much heavier football machine before delivering its decisive blows.

Negro Teams Ready For Cattle Bowl Game In Ft. Worth Today

FORT WORTH, Dec. 31 (AP)—Philander Smith and Samuel Huston college football squads arrived here at noon today, took light workouts, and retired to their quarters to await a 3 p. m., kickoff in tomorrow's second annual Cattle Bowl game at La Grave field.

The two negro elevens will meet on a muddy, slippery turf flooded

HANDLES MIAMI T — Mel Olix, shown above, is the key man in the Miami U., Redskin T formation. The Red Raiders will see much of this flash as the two elevens collide in the Sun Bowl at El Paso this afternoon. So smoothe does the Redskin attack function that it is referred to as the "slide rule T."

UT Drops 32-31 Duel To Aggies

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 31 (AP)—A desperation shot with two seconds to go by Bob Harris gave the Oklahoma Aggies a 32-31 victory over Texas and their fourth straight All-College Basketball tournament crown here tonight before 5,000 screaming fans.

The Aggies couldn't hit the first half but staged a brilliant comeback in the second stanza to make it their seventh crown in the 12-year history of the meet.

Steers Spurt Ahead

With one minute to go, it appeared the Aggies had the game on ice 30-27, but Texas jumped ahead on a long shot by Sophomore Forward Sidney Zomlefer and two free throws by Tom Hamilton.

Hamilton had stolen the ball from Harris and dribbled down under the bucket where he was fouled by Lou Amaya. Those two free points were made with 20 seconds left and appeared to be good enough for Texas to snap the Aggies' tournament domination.

However, the Aggies were able to work Harris to the corner where he was handed the ball and drove in to put it away.

Darkhorse Baylor university captured third place in the tournament, defeating a shaky University of Alabama, 29-24, before 5,000 persons.

Except in the first few minutes of play, the Baylor Bears dominated the game throughout and looked like an easy winner at the half with a 17-7 edge.

Bear Lead Mounts

With five minutes gone in the second half, the Bears had run their lead to 20-8 before Alabama began closing in. With four minutes to go Alabama pulled up within three points, 23-26.

Baylor surprised everyone by upsetting the University of Wyoming in the first round, 36-29, and almost upset the Oklahoma Aggies last night in the semi-finals before losing in the last seconds 22-21.

Bill Johnson, Baylor's flashy guard, led the scoring with four field goals and two free throws for 10 points, making him one of the tournament's leading scorers.

Carl Shaeffer, Alabama sophomore, led his teammates in scoring with nine points.

Showers To Hinder Layne, Gilmer Duel

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 31 (AP)—If the weather man knows his stuff, Alabama's Harry Gilmer and Texas' Bobby Layne won't be able to show much of theirs tomorrow in the 14th annual Sugar Bowl game.

The forecaster has predicted that showers, previously expected to end tomorrow morning, are now likely to last longer.

The offensive games of both participants are built around the throwing ability of Gilmer and Layne, two of the nation's most heralded aerialists.

Michigan, Texas In Favored Roles In Top Football Classics

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP)—Thirty-two picked teams will welcome the New Year tomorrow by ending their 1947 football seasons in 16 bowl games, comprising one of the finest assortments of such post-season affairs since Michigan went west to the first Rose Bowl 45 years ago and showed Stanford a thing or two.

A half a million fans are expected to chip in more than $2,000,000 to witness the bowl games, names of which if combined in a salad would produce such ingredients as oranges, pineapples, sugar, raisins and tangerines. There also would be roses for the table, cigars for after dinner, and cotton to ease the bumps and bruises.

Michigan Is Favored

The Pasadena, Calif., Rose Bowl was inaugurated in 1902 when Stanford absorbed a 49-0 shellacking at the hands and feet of Michigan, which is returning to the event for the first time since.

Undefeated and untied in nine regular season games, the Wolverines are favored to stop the Southern California Trojans before some 93,000 persons despite talk that Halfback Bob Chappuis isn't fit as a fiddle.

All-America Bob hurt a leg in practice Monday, but was out for workouts the next day.

Down in New Orleans a sweet Sugar Bowl battle looms between Alabama and Texas. Around 72,000 will witness an expected aerial duel between Bobby Layne of Texas and Alabama's Harry Gilmer.

The once-beaten Longhorns still are favored by six or seven points over an Alabama team that came along strong after dropping two close early-season contests to Tulane and Vanderbilt.

Another of the day's top billings pits Southern Methodist—a 14-13 victor over Texas—against undefeated and untied Penn State in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. The Mustangs had only a 19-19 tie with Texas Christian to mar a 10-game campaign.

Wreck Gets Nod

Miami, Fla., Georgia Tech is rated an edge over Kansas in the Orange Bowl, which has been enlarged to seat 60,000 in a stadium which formerly handled 35,000.

A third All-America back, Ray Evans of Kansas, will be seen in action at Miami, where another passing show is predicted. Jim Still, Tech's leading aerialist, and George Mathews, Jim Southard and others present a formidable problem for Kansas.

Not strictly a bowl game is the annual East-West Shrine charity game at San Francisco, where 62,000 will watch stars selected from eastern and western college teams perform.

Headed by 1947's fourth All-America back, Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack, the east is given a slight nod.

Clyde (Smackover) Scott, former Naval Academy star back, will lead his mates from Arkansas against William and Mary's Indians from Virginia in the Dixie Bowl at Birmingham, Ala. About 38,000 will sit in on what should be another close battle.

Passes also should fly in the Delta Bowl at Memphis, where Mississippi and Charlie Conerly oppose Texas Christian and Lindy Berry.

Mississippi, dealt close defeats only by Vanderbilt and Arkansas in 10 games, boasts the top collegiate passing combination of all time in Conerly and End Barney Poole. Conerly threw 233 passes and completed 133 for a new collegiate record last fall.

Hard Charging Backs

Maryland, featuring a wealth of hard-galloping backs headed by Lu Gambino, leading Southern conference scorer, makes its first bowl appearance, tangling with favored Georgia in the 'Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

Rounding out the bowl programs Texas Tech and Miami (Ohio) in the Sun Bowl at El Paso; North Texas State and Nevada, Salad Bowl, Phoenix, Ariz.; College of Pacific and Wichita, Raisin Bowl, Fresno, Calif.; Catawba and Marshall (W. Va.), Tangerine Bowl, Orlando, Fla.; San Diego State and Hardin-Simmons, Harbor Bowl, San Diego, Calif.; Hawaii and Redlands, Pineapple Bowl, Honolulu; West Chester (Pa.) Teachers and Missouri Valley, Cigar Bowl, Tampa, Fla.; and Wilberforce and Grambling, Vulcan Bowl, Birmingham, Ala.

Grid Greats Tangle For Crippled Tots

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31 (AP)—Cleated football heroes, as well as unsung stars, will band their talents here tomorrow in a game for which there is no greater cause—aid to crippled children.

This is the East-West classic founded hesitantly by a small group of enthusiasts. Its purpose, to provide additional funds for the Shriners' crippled children's hospital.

Studded with names of players who made the national headlines, the East will line up as the favorite, by 7½ points or 2½ to 1 odds.

Assistance To Public On Taxes To Be Cut

The office of the Collector of Internal Revenue for the second district of Texas, headquartered at Dallas, announced Wednesday that it would be unable to furnish as much help to taxpayers in the preparation of their income tax returns for 1947 as it has furnished in prior years.

The staff of field deputy collectors was reduced 35 per cent on July 1, 1947, making it impossible to assign as many men to the work of assisting taxpayers as has been possible heretofore, Acting Collector of Internal Revenue John B. Dunlap said.

"Instructions have been issued to all deputy collectors to limit their assistance to the public in answering questions," Dunlap's announcement said. "Each taxpayer's time with any deputy must necessarily be limited to a few minutes, especially since there will be only one deputy on duty in some field offices."

Dunlap said he regretted the circumstances necessitating this curtailment of service to the public. He added that he felt the public would understand the situation and would cooperate with deputy collectors to the fullest extent in making possible assistance to as many taxpayers as possible by limiting their visits to a few minutes each.

Many Germans Hungry And Cold; Change In Economy Is Problem

nothing and staring at us with dull eyes.

Every face was the color of a gray shirt. Every face was peaked.

Nowhere could be seen the type of individual usually associated with the American idea of "the typical German."

There were no beer-bellied men; no thick-legged, double-breasted women. Just a motley collection of pasty-faced men, women and children who remind one of the movies' characterization of Haitian zombies.

THEORETICALLY, Johann, Johanna and the kids are getting enough food to hold body and soul together.

The current ration is 1450 calories per person per day, which is about half as many calories as consumed daily by the average Texas adult.

But even of Johann can "scrounge" enough food to secure for each member of his family the 1450 calories every day—and that is practically impossible—each individual is short on vitamins. For there are no fresh fruits available; no fresh meat; vegetables, aside from the ever-present potato, are not always easy to get. Milk, for the youngsters only, depends largely upon the generosity of the Americans and, of course, the small daily ration made available to young children by the relief organizations.

Yes, make no mistake about it. Whether he and his deserve their fate, or not, they are hungry—they are hungry all the time. And they are cold.

"Scrounging" Is The National Pastime

A couple of paragraphs up, I used the word "scrounge." Perhaps it's a new word to you, as it was to me when I reached Germany. But "scrounge" isn't new to the Germans. It is the word applied to the national, 24-hour daily pastime of Johann and Johanna Schmidt.

I said as we swept through the streets of Berlin, members of our party were puzzled to note the hundreds of Germans standing or shuffling on the sidewalks of every block. I should have added that we were puzzled, too, to see that everyone carried a satchel, a briefcase, or wore a knapsack—or went in for a combination of the two.

But that was before we heard about "scrounging." That was before we learned that in order to get by, Germans must swap and barter among themselves, and they do — whenever and wherever they can.

TO "SCROUNGE" means, in plain American, "to wangle, by means of swapping."

A German with an extra handful of small potatoes—which he probably has secured from a farmer in exchange for an American cigaret—wants an egg, or some coffee. Ergo, he puts the potatoes in his satchel, or knapsack, and goes in search of someone with coffee, or an egg, who is in need of some potatoes.

Eventually, he finds what he's looking for. Maybe it's six hours later; maybe it's tomorrow, or day after. But he finds what he's looking for.

And why shouldn't he?

He has nothing else to do and the fellow who needs the potatoes is looking for the fellow who has them. The law of percentages eventually gets the two together.

Here's Why Johann Doesn't Work

"Why," you ask, "haven't the Germans anything else to do but stand on the sidewalks and 'scrounge'? Why don't they go to work?"

That is a natural question—and it has a natural answer.

Johann Schmidt—unless he is fortunate enough to be among the relatively few who work for the Americans—doesn't work because his work won't bring him anything, even if he can find work, which is very doubtful.

To be sure, he'd get a fistful of marks for his efforts—efforts which necessarily are feeble because of his run-down physical condition. But what can he buy with the marks?

The answer is "pitifully little," even if he can find it.

So Johann just stands on the street corner, "scrounging" as best he can. Mainly, he relies upon the International Relief Organization—for which we Americans pay about seven-eighths of the freight—to keep him and his family going until Germany once again has a central government and a sound currency upon which to rebuild its completely shattered economy.

JOHANN'S cousin, Hans, who lives in a rural village from which he daily trudges to work his little farm, isn't as bad off as Johann.

As a matter of fact, he and his wife, Elsa, and their kids, are getting by pretty well—better than the British people who were among the war's victors.

Hans and his family live fairly well upon what they raised last growing season, even though the worst drouth in 50 years gripped the whole of Germany. To be sure, Hans and his folks aren't supposed to get any more calories per day than Cousin Johann and his folks. But Hans is close to the supply; he has been schooled in hiding things by generations of his forebears, who were forced to hide things from invaders; and it is physically impossible for occupation authorities to check every farm, every day.

So Hans isn't doing badly now. His life's no bed of roses, but, compared to that of Johann, it is a bed complete with mattress, box springs, sheets and down quilts.

Why Hans Hoards His Produce

Why doesn't Hans do as our farmers do, and take his produce to town, sell it, make money for himself and relieve the suffering of Johann and the other city people?

Hans doesn't take his produce to town for the same reason Johann isn't interested in a job.

What money he might get for his produce would be worthless marks, even great stacks of which are no good unless one can find what one wants and needs in return for them.

Since Hans won't take his produce to town, and sell it, he loses some of his produce (although paid in marks for it) to the occupation authorities, who comandeer it.

But he doesn't let any more of it go than he has to. What he does let go is not enough.

HOW TO solve this problem? How to get Johann to work and Hans to bringing his produce to town again?

Everybody knows the answer—or should know it.

The problem can only be solved by the strong nations (meaning mostly us, with whatever aid we can get from a couple of South American coutries) putting up the wherewithal to stabalize German currency and by managing the job, on the ground, until Germany can be lifted back on her economic feet.

How long will it take?

Well, four-star Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who bosses our occupation of Germany, told me that "if we go into the job willing to stay for 50 years, we might get it done in five." And General Clay knows his business.

How much will it take?

Nobody knows.

But everybody who has even peeked into the situation knows it will be cheaper than pulling out of Germany, building the world's mightiest Army, Navy and Air Force—and then perhaps having to spend blood, in addition to dollars, to fight a war that nobody can win

(TOMORROW: Germany's amazing "cigaret economy," barter, based largely upon American cigarets, and to some extent upon candy bars, coffee, soap and a few other staple items which Germans find it impossible to get but which filter from our personnel into the hands of the natives).

get into Lubbock for the evening.

A midnight show was held at the Lindsey theater, with a good crowd reported, and many small New Year's parties were held in private homes in Lubbock.

Banquet Is Held

The annual New Year's Eve banquet of the Lubbock Fire department was held last night at the central fire station, Tenth and Avenue J. About 50 firemen, city officials, and other guests attended the banquet, which has been an annual affair for the past 25 or 30 years. Sterling Parrish, state senator from the Lubbock district, acted as master of ceremonies for the evening. Oldest guest present was "Uncle Andy" Gillespie, father-in-law of W. H. Rodgers, former Lubbock city manager. "Uncle Andy" is 91 years old and this was his 22nd consecutive attendance of the annual firemen's banquet.

The weather today is expected to be almost a duplicate of last New Year's Day. January 1 of 1947 in Lubbock found snow on the ground and the low .n temperature was recorded as 18 degrees. Apparently the weather man is in a rut, for this New Year's day Lubbock has another snow and the temperature is somewhere under 20 degrees, with a low of 14 expected during the night.

But regardless of the weather, 1947 is past history and 1948 is another opportunity, most people believe. What the New Year will bring to Lubbock and the South Plains depends somewhat upon the people of the area and somewhat upon fate, observers agree. But for the most part, it was with a note of optimism that the area greeted the New Year.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (AP) — Cotton futures were lower today in a short session expiring at noon. Trading was active and confined mostly to year-end eveningup operations. The market showed early strength on mill covering and commission house demand for the new crop months. The rally, however, encouraged considerable profit taking and some hedging, with nearby deliveries showing the largest decline. There was a good deal of switching from near to later months.

The textile and spot cotton markets were quiet, reflecting holiday influence.

Futures closed $1.35 a bale lower to 5 cents higher than the previous close.

The area near Anchorage is approximately 600 miles southeast of the scene of a B-29 crash Dec. 23. The pilot and navigator of that plane, Lts. Vern H. Arnett and Frederick Sheetz, were being sought today by aerial and dog team searchers in below zero weather. The two left the plane Christmas Day in an attempt to reach an isolated native village.

Three parachutists who dropped to aid the crew victims of the first crash, about 95 miles north of Nome, also are believed dead.

Fire which apparently started from a gas pilot light interrupted service in the boiler room of McIlhaney Dairy products, 2403 Ave. H, about 12:30 p. m. Wednesday, plant officials said.

were just as dangerous and incorrigible as those led by Daniel Daniels who staged a bloody riot in 1929. Eight guards and five inmates died in that outbreak, but none got past the outer walls as did the dozen last night while a blinding snowstorm whipped the prison.

The score of escaped men accounted for was brought to 11 this afternoon when three were run to earth in farm country north of here.

John Smalley, 35, Denver habitual criminal, and Harold Hathaway, 27, Pueblo robber, were wounded, but Ernest La Vergne, 31, a Denver robber, surrendered without getting hurt.

The mountain - girl town breathed easier as heavily armed and determined possemen continued their systematic search in foot-deep snow and low temperatures, centering their hunt in the Garden park area north of the city where many tracks were seen.

The dead convicts were Orville J. Turley, 54, Denver murderer, and John Klinger, 43, Pueblo robber. Klinger was shot and killed by police in downtown Canon City. Turley was killed by bullets drilling into a trailer-house, where he was attempting to hide, nine miles east of Canon City.

Richard F. Heilman, 24, Denver kidnaper, was wounded in the head and an arm when officers fired into the trailer-house. Before he surrendered in the snow-covered mountains around Canon City, R. L. Freeman, 23, Pueblo kidnaper, was wounded in a leg.

Mrs. Delia Nichols, 71, Is Death Victim Here Wednesday

Mrs. Delia Nichols, 71, died at West Texas hospital at 8:25 o'clock Wednesday night after having suffered a fall two weeks ago at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Dora Kight of 1609 Twenty-seventh street, where she had made her home for three years.

Mrs. Nichols had previously lived in Littlefield 25 years. She suffered a fractured hip when she fell at the daughter's home.

Funeral services were indefinite late Wednesday night. Sanders Funeral home reported. Services probably will be conducted here and in Littlefield, with interment in Littlefield cemetery.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Kight and Mrs. J. W. Fancher of McCauley; a stepson, Harry Nichols of Abilene and five brothers, one of whom, Arthur Hammitt of near Amarillo, had arrived last night.

Two Charged In Cafe Burglary

Two Mexicans were charged with burglary of Gin Inn cafe, operated at Carlisle by R. C. Walker, in complaints filed Wednesday and one of the suspects, Anacleto Martinez, 17, remained in jail Wednesday night in lieu of $1,000 bond.

The complaint was sworn to by Dep. Sheriff Frank Mitchell before District Attorney Lloyd Croslin, and was filed in the justice court of D. W. Robertson for investigation of a 99th district grand jury to be impaneled Monday by Judge G. V. Pardue.

The other suspect ran out a back door of a Carlisle residence when sheriff's deputies arrested Martinez about 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

A juke box was broken into and money removed from the cafe Monday night, officials said.

Money Is Found

The 17-year-old assisted them in finding approximately $17.50 in nickels that, put in a canvas glove, had been buried in a field, George Eubank and Frank Mitchell, deputies, said.

Mrs. Bond Sneed Talk of Parkview lodge told police Wednesday night she had lost a black billfold containing $1,310 in travelers checks and a red one containing $160 in cash. Police advised her to communicate with J. D. Hassell, manager of Hemphill-Wells company, where she believed she lost the billfolds.

She did so, and the billfold containing the cash had been found but the other, containing the checks, was still missing late last night.

Dan Daniels of 2408 Fifteenth reported theft of a 1941 Mercury coach bearing two license numbers—New Mexico 4-5355 and Texas AP 4908.

Frank Jimerson, negro, was charged with liquor law violation, specifically possession of beer, and paid a fine of $100 and costs, county court officials said.

Tornadoes Kill 14

Gillham and Village, Ark.

Search for additional bodies and injured persons at Cotton Valley was hampered by a driving rain and darkness. An emergency lighting system was sent there from Minden, La., to replace the Cotton Valley plant which was destroyed.

Known White Dead Listed

There were 35 persons reported hospitalized at Minden sanitarium, 15 at Charity hospital here, 20 at Spring Hill, La., and five at Haynesville. Of the 15 at Charity hospital three, unconscious from head injuries, were reported in a "serious" condition. The remaining 12 suffered from broken bones and cuts.

The known white dead at Cotton Valley are:

Eight identified dead at Cotton Valley, all white, are:

Howard Formby, 10; Clifton Yeates, 46; Charles Cox, 19; Hugh Clayton, 60; Doris Perkins, 4; Mrs. Oder Vowell, 34; Linda Gail Vowell, three months; and Mrs. Vince Vowell, age unknown.

At Dykesville, La., Mrs. Lula McCuem, 84, was killed. One unidentified negro was reported killed at Haynesville and another at Leton, La.

Toby Haynes, about 35, superintendent of the Village, Ark., school was killed when a tornado demolished the high school gymnasium there tonight.

Haynes and some 15 students were practicing basketball in the gymnasium when the twister struck. Columbia County Sheriff Otto Stuart said the boys escaped without injury.

Business District Hit

The tornado, which struck about 7:55 p. m. was the second to visit southwest Arkansas today. The first hit Gillham, about 12 miles north of DeQueen in Sevier county, about 4 p. m.

Sheriff Stuart said 20 oil derricks were demolished by the Village storm and several houses were damaged by the tornado which ripped a path he estimated at "about a quarter of a mile wide and three miles long."

At Cotton Valley the tornado first struck south of town, lifted to pass over the Cotton Valley recycling plant and then struck the business district. The recycling plant pumps natural gas recovered in oil production back into the earth to increase ultimate oil production of the wells.

200 Thought Killed Or Hurt

First news of the extent of the destruction came from Mrs. K. C. Burleigh, acting secretary of the Minden, La., sanitarium, who said she had an unconfirmed report that the death toll would reach 200.

But J. M. Kirkley, police officer at Minden, said he had an eye-witness report from Blacky Giles, superintendent of a recycling plant at Cotton Valley, that indicated that the report of 200 dead was exaggerated but that the number killed and injured would reach that figure.

Guardsmen Sent To Area

At least 60 persons were hospitalized at the Minden sanitarium, with additional patients being taken to two clinics at Spring Hill, La., and into Shreveport.

Maj. Gen. Raymond Fleming rushed National Guardsmen from Shreveport into Cotton Valley and other guardsmen from Minden were aiding state troopers to keep the road between Minden and Cotton Valley open for ambulances.

Fleming said the guardsmen were taking medical supplies and shelter facilities into the stricken area.

Other injured were being rushed to Shreveport, five negroes being taken to a hospital there at 8:30 p. m. Others were reported enroute to Shreveport.

Town "Torn To Pieces"

Minden authorities sent all available food and medical supplies to Cotton Valley.

Tess Potter, American Red Cross field representative at Baton Rouge, was ordered to the scene but could not be contacted because of the disrupted telephone and telegraph lines.

D. M. Emerson, of Minden, who went to Cotton Valley, said that "the little town is just torn all to pieces. There were quite a few (persons) that got hurt."

Major General Raymond H. Fleming, said in New Orleans that preliminary reports he had received from National Guard officers near the storm area indicated that the death toll "might be about 20 or 30."

Building Records

residence permits was 786, with a value of $1,855,000, in 1938. The old record as to value was $3,380,790 during 1946, when 661 permits for dwellings were issued.

Public Buildings Slated

Nearly two-thirds, or 621, of the residence permits were issued during the last six months of 1947 and the belief of builders and contractors that this pace will be equaled, if not exceeded, during the early part, and probably the whole, of 1948.

The opinion is that the residence building pace will be maintained, and perhaps accelerated, if money is available through the FHA and for veterans' homes. All the information available here indicates the expectation that the money will be available.

If so, the prevailing guesses are that 1,500 to 2,000 residences will be built in Lubbock during the coming year. These would represent a total permit value of from $7,500,000 to $10,000,000.

Apparently there is no breakdown as to the other types of building which might be done except the generality, "all kinds."

Among others are $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 in churches, schools and other public buildings which almost certainly will be started. These do not include the new courthouse, the new city auditorium and coliseum and the new public library for which bonds have been voted. Present prospects are that none of these will be started during 1948.

Cost Reduction Unlikely

As to buildings of other types, reports indicate that several times as much construction is in the blueprint, drawing board or planning stage than was done during 1947. Much of this building will, of course, never get further than the planning stage. Much of it is duplicative.

For example, if an office building should be started—apparently not a likely prospect—it probably would kill off, or postpone indefinitely, several similar nebulous projects.

The chief deterrent to a great deal of contemplated building, it was agreed, is high costs. This deterrent is expected to continue through 1948 because, in the virtually unanimous opinion of those close to the industry, no reduction in costs is in sight.

Yet, somewhat strangely, the opinion is somewhat general that building would be retarded, at least temporarily, if costs should start downward. The explanation is that persons planning to build would wait a little longer, hoping for further reductions.

In brief analysis, the belief as to Lubbock is to be that as much building will be done as the available labor and materials will allow.

What that may total in building permit figures for 1948 is conceded to be pure guesswork.

But the average of the guesses—made by men who are qualified to guess—is that the final total for the year is more likely to be over $15,000,000 than under it.

ber how long it took to get our own constitution into final form and then to make it work.

The country had "tremendous difficulties in those days, almost exactly the same difficulties with which are faced now both in Europe and here," he said. And he added:

"It took just about eighty years, really, to get the constitution properly implemented. In fact, it was not the constitution of the United States until 1865.

"So I don't think we ought to be discouraged at things that sometimes get in our way in making this tremendous peace organization work."

Mr. Truman said he hadn't intended to make a speech, but:

"I am very much interested in peace, and I have every faith in the final working of the United Nations as a means of general world peace, for the simple reason that we can't afford anything else."

With the President in his offices were his daughter, Margaret; his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman of Grandview, Mo.; and members of his wife's family who have been spending the holidays at the White House.

Snow Blankets South Plains

in telephone service. Calls from Lubbock to Fort Worth and Dallas, and north of Amarillo were delayed as much as three to six hours.

Accidents Reported

Calls over the South Plains area were put through without delay, however.

Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma buses were running 30 minutes to two hours behind their schedules but no runs had been cancelled because of the weather, employes said. One bus driver came in from Carlsbad and reported seeing a score or more cars which had slid into ditches.

Only minor accidents had been reported at midnight, both in and outside the city.

Mexican Injured

In a car-truck collision a mile and a half east of Lorenzo at 4:05 p. m. Wednesday, Abel Suniga, 21, Mexican of Victoria temporarily working south of Ralls, suffered a shoulder injury. He was driving east on highway 82, made a right turn without signaling and was struck in the rear by a truck driven by Silas H. Sheek, 59, Levelland, a report by Texas Highway patrolmen stated.

Suniga remained in Crosbyton clinic overnight. He was taken there in Marr Funeral home of Ralls ambulance.

Earlier, at 10 a. m., a large truck-trailer overturned a mile and a half east of the city at the first curve on the Idalou highway. W. W. Davis of Arnett-Benson addition was driver. None was injured and damage was light, patrolmen said.

Two Escape Wreck Injuries

En route to the Sun Bowl game at El Paso, two Texas Technological college students escaped injuries and a young woman student of West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon was slightly injured when the 1946 model Plymouth coupe in which they were riding overturned on icy roads 10 miles west of Hobbs, N. M., at 10 a. m. (MST).

A cut over her right eye was suffered by Miss Bernice Ehrlich, 19, of Follett, student at the teacher's college. W. G. Trenfield, 23, and Miss Virginia Trenfield, both students at Texas Tech, were not injured. They are son and daughter of Mrs. George Trenfield of 2115 Twenty-sixth. The accident was investigated by J. G. McAdoo, New Mexico state policeman.

Falls Are Numerous

The pedestrian toll on sidewalks was probably the highest. Dozens of fall victims were treated by doctors at the three Lubbock hospitals, but only a few were admitted.

Mrs. W. W. Perser of Lubbock route 7 was admitted to West Texas hospital after suffering a fractured ulna in a fall Wednesday morning. Mrs. Frank Brooks of 2405 Main suffered a right shoulder injury in a minor car accident and was admitted to West Texas hospital. Mrs. J. J. McGaw, 83, of Lubbock route 6 suffered a fractured left hip in a fall at her home and was admitted to the hospital.

Not admitted were Mrs. Rita Parrish, 1706 Ave. E, who suffered contusion and bruises when a ladder slipped on an icy sidewalk and struck her leg; and Calvin Fleeman, 19, of Lubbock, who fractured his right ankle in a sidewalk fall.

Snow Reported Over Area

Reports from South Plains towns late Wednesday night all reported abundant snow and subfreezing temperatures. Some of them were:

Seminole—Ray Johnson's thermometer said 22 degrees at 11 p. m., and he estimated four inches of snow, which stopped falling about 9 p. m.

Seagraves—Miss Muriel Black said it was warming slightly at 11 p. m., but two inches of snow covered the area and the highways and streets were treacherous with ice.

Brownfield — Observers estimated snowfall at only a quarter of an inch in most places, with fall over all Terry county. It had stopped at 10 p. m.

Veteran Breaks Leg

Levelland — Two inches estimated snowfall was reported, extending in that quantity to Morton, the wind was blowing and light snow was falling at 10 p. m.

Littlefield—More than an inch was reported at 11 p. m., and snow was still falling.

Muleshoe—Snow was still falling at midnight, three inches of snow blanketing the ground. Temperature was estimated at 20 degrees.

Plainview — Temperature was estimated by police officials to be 15 degrees at midnight. The snow had quit about 9:30. No serious accidents had been reported, although one veteran had broken his leg in a fall on a slippery sidewalk.

Deep Snow At Lamesa

Crosbyton—About two inches of snow, with lowering temperatures probably about 18 degrees, residents reported.

Tahoka—A temperature of 18 degrees was reported, the snow having stopped at 10:45 p. m., said Ed Akin, operator of the City cafe.

Lamesa — Lamesans ushered in the New Year under a deep snow blanket. Snow was falling until 9:30 p. m. and had fallen almost continuously since 11 a. m. Estimates of total fall ranged around 6 inches in the deepest places. No serious accidents had been reported, but traffic was slowed everywhere and the footing was treacherous.

State Candidates

the state Democratic committee, for re-election.

Projects Pushed

He said he desired the position again in order to push completion of several projects in which his office is now engaged. Of paramount importance to Texas are these three projects, he said: Completion of the tideland controversy with the federal government; completion of enabling legislation for a constitutional amendment previously approved by the voters to enable Texas veterans to acquire farm and ranch homes; administration of an act passed by the last legislature extending boundary lines of coastal counties involving some 18 million additional acres for taxable purposes.

In a brief, to-the-point statement, Thompson said:

Thompson Likes Job

"This is to definitely announce that I am a candidate for re-election to the office of Railroad commissioner for the regular six-year term in the July primary election this year (1948).

"I am thoroughly familiar with the work of the Railroad commission and enjoy it."

Thompson was appointed to the Railroad commission by Gov. Ross S. Sterling June 4, 1932, when Pat M. Neff resigned to become president of Baylor university. He was elected for the remainder of the term, and was reelected in 1936 and 1942.

He is currently serving as chairman of the commission for the third time.

Cold Blankets State

thrown through the rear doors.

Thursday temperatures for the state were predicted to range from 15 to 18 degrees in the Panhandle, to 24 to 28 degrees in North and East Texas and the high 70's and low 80's in extreme South Texas.

Maximums Wednesday ranged from a 17 recorded at Pampa to 89's at Crystal City and Laredo.

By 11 p. m. Wednesday, the Weather bureau reported, skies were clearing in the South Plains area and South Texas but the remainder of the state continued cloudy or partly cloudy.

Heavy Rains Reported

Clearing skies, however, were reported to be moving eastward and were predicted to become general over most of the state by noon Thursday.

Heaviest rainfall Wednesday was reported at Beaumont, 1.10 inches; Fort Worth, 1.16; Texarkana, 1.01, and Dallas, .82.

It was the second straight New Year's Eve to see the state shivering and struggling under severe weather conditions.

Just a year ago, a large portion of the state was experiencing a record breaking blanket of ice and snow.

Damage Estimated At $100,000

Heaviest damage Wednesday night was reported at Temple, Waco and Belton in Central Texas, where winds ranging from 55 to 100 miles an hour damaged aircraft, ripped off housetops and struck down trees.

Unofficial sources estimated damages at Temple at $100,000.

Ice forming on communications lines virtually isolated Amarillo and disrupted service on an estimated 200 miles of long distance telephone circuits in the Panhandle area.

Telephone Circuits Out

Telephone officials in Dallas said there was no direct connection between Amarillo, Lubbock and Wichita Falls, either from Dallas or from Oklahoma City.

Thirty planes at the Waco airport were damaged when a wind estimated at 60 miles per hour struck there.

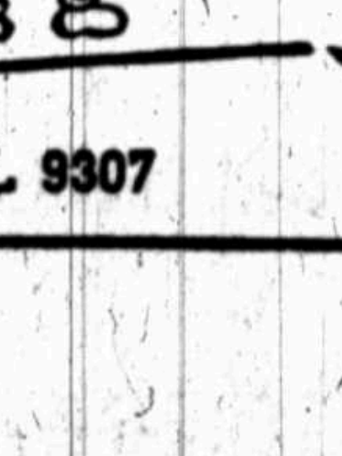

Jews, Arabs Usher In 1948 With Continued Sniper Fire

JERUSALEM, Thursday, Jan. 1 (AP)—The sharp crackle of sniper fire in Jerusalem ushered in a New Year today for bloodstained Palestine where bitter fighting between Arabs and Jews took 10 lives on the closing day of 1947.

The last man slain in a tragic year of hatred and aggression in the Holy Land—first between the Jews and the British and later between the Arabs and the Jews—was an Arab who was killed in a rural village.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!!

Challenge Of 1948

WHILE practically everyone doubtless can think of many things which would brighten this New Year's day further, most persons will agree that conditions could be so incomparably worse that, in the last analysis, few have real reason to complain.

The old year has presented its grave problems and has had its full quota of unpleasant features. Most people have been inclined to feel at times that their country and the world were in a heck of a mess. But, as they look back and contemplate the things that could have happened, the old year probably doesn't seem so bad after all.

One likewise can become extremely pessimistic in considering prospects during the year ahead. Problems and terrible perils unquestionably exist. Heaven alone knows what may happen within the next 12 months. But there is consolation in the fact that it hasn't happened yet, hope in the possibility that it won't happen and challenge in the opportunity that the bad can be kept from happening.

Indeed, there are abundant reasons for the salutation today of, "Happy New Year!" Certainly for most persons, there are many, many more reasons for happiness and hope than for sorrow and despair. If 1947 has not been all that might be desired, it is all the more an incentive and a challenge to make 1948 better.

More To Be Pitied --

UNLIKELY to be greatly mourned or severely condemned is the memory of Victor Emmanuel III, abdicated king of Italy, who died Sunday during the second year of his exile in Egypt.

His name will be preserved in history almost solely because the accident of birth made him a monarch. Although he reigned 46 years, he was credited with practically nothing which added luster to his own name or that of his nation. His chief distinctions were that he possessed one of the finest collections of coins in the world and that he was the head of the House of Savoy, a dynasty which had endured almost 1,000 years—longer than any reigning family in Europe.

Unquestionably he had opportunities to achieve enduring greatness. Most historians agree he could have stopped Mussolini without difficulty if he had acted with decision at the outset of Il Duce's notorious career. But perhaps Victor Emmanuel cannot be blamed because he lacked the capacity and the strength to rise to great emergencies. He was content to drift with the tide.

On the credit side, his personal courage in the face of danger was acknowledged. He could be stubborn at times as demonstrated on rare occasions when even Mussolini bowed to his will. Nor has anyone denied the sincerity of his devotion to Italy and the Italian people, despite his lack of capacity to lead them.

History is likely to remember him as an unhappy, disappointed little man who did the best he could with the little he had to offer—as one who, in the words of an old song, was "more to be pitied than censored."

This Is Happy

BY PEGGY DERN
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

XIX

THOUGH Happy was seething with anger, she had to hold her tongue for the time being. For they had come out in a little grassy clearing on a bluff above the dark river and there before them was a wide-spreading, pleasant-looking white farmhouse. Half a dozen cars were parked in a grassy oval at one side.

George helped her out of the car and they crossed the oyster-shell drive to the double doors that stood open on this mild spring day.

A middle-aged woman, neat and trim in a black frock, greeted them cordially and showed them to a table on a widescreened porch built out over the river. There were perhaps a dozen other tables here, and most of them were occupied by people who greeted George and looked curiously at Happy, as they were escorted to their corner table.

There was no discussion over a menu or ordering; obviously George had made arrangements in advance.

"Nice view," he said, answering the greeting of two couples who were just coming in.

Happy looked out over the river, to the green banks beyond; she was still hot with anger, but she sat quietly, mastering it. George pretended that nothing had happened, although by his covert glances she sensed that he was not quite at ease.

"I—I'm afraid," she said at last, her voice husky and low-pitched. "I'm afraid that I don't care much for being selected for marriage the way you'd—buy a new cow to build up a dairy herd."

George looked amused.

"You blessed infant. I said that I loved you, didn't I?"

She tilted her young chin mutinously.

"But if I hadn't been—young and normal—"

"I wouldn't have permitted myself to fall in love with you, of course," he said almost curtly. "Just as I would never have permitted myself to fall in love with a girl who couldn't be happy here at Guale. That's why, when I knew that I was beginning to be seriously interested in you, I arranged for you to visit here: I wanted to see whether you liked it—whether you would fit in. Can't you see, Happy, that that was only common sense?"

HAPPY drew a long, hard breath and said evenly, "I don't know. I guess I didn't know that love and common sense are supposed to go hand in hand."

The waiter, bearing the first course of their luncheon, arrived at that moment and they were spared the necessity of any further conversation.

Before they had finished the first course, there were sounds of gay voices and laughter, and a group came onto the porch, drawing all eyes to them by their arrogant assurance of their own importance. To the black-clad hostess' apologetic assurance that there was no table available, they refused to listen.

Among them, a girl in a marigold-yellow linen frock, hatless, a huge white bag tucked under her arm, glanced idly about the room. When she saw George and Happy, an ugly gleam touched her eyes. The next moment she was leading her group confidently to the secluded corner table.

"Hi, Georgie Porgie! Hello, Miss—Miss—whatever your name is," Drusilla was as insolent, as arrogant as ever. "Isn't this a heavenly day? Mind if we park until Hutchens can rig up a table for us?"

George's expression tightened a little, though he rose politely and nodded to the others.

"I don't suppose it would matter a bit if we did," he suggested, without enthusiasm.

Drusilla had commandeered a chair from another table.

"Not a bit," she answered coolly, and with a little wave of her white-gloved hand, she added carelessly. "Present your girl friend to the gang, George. I don't think they've met her."

GEORGE performed the introductions, and Happy realized that, of the group of four or five accompanying Drusilla, none seemed to be at ease. But Drusilla perched on her chair and dipped her fingers into George's plate, helping herself to a fried shrimp.

"Isn't it silly of Hutchens not to have a table for us?" Drusilla chattered, scarcely giving Happy time to acknowledge the introductions. "The old hag knows we almost always drop in for brunch on Sundays."

When, a moment later, a harassed-looking waiter announced that Miss Drusilla's table was ready, she stood up somewhat reluctantly.

"We're all playing tennis at Rose-Hedge after lunch, Georgie Porgie; I'll expect you," she drawled, a command in her tone.

"Don't. Happy and I have other plans," said George flatly.

"Oh, but I really think you'd better, George, because, you know, my plans aren't so fixed but what I could trail you and Miss What's-Her-Name around all afternoon and evening. I'm not sure, after all, that that might not be more fun than tennis, now that I think it over," drawled Drusilla sweetly.

For a moment her eyes and George's met and locked. And then George made a weary little gesture of resignation.

"You win," he said desperately. "I happen to know that you are quite capable of doing just that!"

"Of course I am, sweetie; how nice that you realize it," she cooed and walked away, her small retinue behind her, without a backward glance or a word for Happy.

"And that," stated George grimly, "is the girl practically everybody on the island—including herself—expects me to marry!"

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

IT'S too bad Christmas will be over by the time you read this. I was going to suggest a present to you which, in my opinion, would have been the present to end all presents.

However you may keep it in mind for next year and I'll be glad to send you the seller's address if you want it.

Here it is:

"Lucky Wishbone Greeting Gift."

BRANDEIS

"Lasting souvenir of the giver. Think of it!" (I am now quoting the ad.) "Actually inscribed for you on a real poultry wishbone (cured). Your personal message (limit eight words)".

Isn't it just too, too wonderful?

Imagine the joy it would bring to your friends and relatives!

The wishbone of a turkey or a goose or a chicken autographed by you in person!

How clever!

How—Nuts!

But you can never tell.

Some time ago I made fun of another ad.

A fellow advertised some kind of old carriage bells that would sound nice in your car instead of a horn.

You had to bore a hole in your floorboard and go to a lot of trouble to get the gadget into your car, and the contraption cost quite a bit of money besides.

I made fun of the thing and had no idea that anybody would want anything like that.

But what do you think?

A week later I had a letter from a fellow in Oregon asking me to order a set of those bells for him.

He thought it would be awfully nice to have them in his car.

So I suppose the fellow with the autographed poultry wishbones will also do a pretty nice business.

• • •

BY the way, a woman recently advertised a complete silver tea set. There was a tray, a swinging kettle, a cream pitcher, a sugar bowl and a tea pot.

Each of the articles was less than a half inch in size.

I showed the ad to my wife.

"What on earth does anybody want that kind of stuff for?" I asked.

"How wonderful," she exclaimed. It was just what she had been looking for as a present for a friend who is a collector of miniatures.

Carriage bells, miniature tea sets, autographed wishbones—useless?

Nothing is useless, says my pet psychiatrist, as long as you enjoy it.

A happy New Year to you!

Charles Warner, not Mark Twain, first made the statement: "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it."

APPEAL TO MINORITIES

Demos Seeking Votes

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The Truman Administration has presented several New York wishes to the American electorate which are expected to contribute to a Democratic, presidential triumph in 1948. Although the public does not associate them with political strategy, and it may be that they were not intended as partisan moves, their vote-getting appeal has not escaped the eyes of the professionals.

TUCKER

The first consists of the report of the President's Civil Rights committee. That document recommended the elimination of all racial and religious discrimination in every field of human activity, including the outlawing of real estate covenants barring ownership, lease or rental of property to certain groups. It has already been fortified by the Federal Housing Administration in promulgation of new regulations anent these prohibitions.

Should the reorganized Supreme Court adopt the same attitude in several cases now before it for decision, the vote of the great minority groups next November would undoubtedly fall into the Truman column, even if the President took no steps to translate these proposals into reality. He would get the credit for his attitude.

MINORITIES: The 1948 Congress, under Republican inspiration, may introduce and the House may pass (the Senate will not) anti-lynching and anti-poll tax measures. But this counter-attack will hardly prevail against the more emotional appeal which the vague Truman program will pack.

Two other Administration proposals—the Marshall Plan and the partition of Palestine—should have the same effect, although they are not supposed to be political or partisan in origin or nature.

Nevertheless, they are aimed to make happier minority racial groups who may possess the balance of voting power in such states as New England's six, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Michigan, to mention only the more important.

EDUCATIONAL: The revolutionary report of the President's Commission on Higher Education is another politically dynamic document. Although Mr. Truman has not yet urged legislation to implement its startling proposals, and it is probable that few have read it in detail, Democratic publicists will banner its obvious appeal to professional, white-collar, liberal, youthful and independent elements throughout the nation.

The commission would revise and expand our educational system in the institutions of higher learning. It warns colleges and universities to open their doors to the young men who made, repaired and flew airplanes in the recent conflict, as well as to those gifted in the classics of literature, history and philosophy.

"Motor skill and mechanical aptitude," it says, should entitle a girl or boy to advanced education, as well as the more conventional qualifications that have prevailed in the past.

It is, no matter how read or interpreted, a democratic sideswipe at the foundations of such institutions as Groton, Andover, Lawrenceville and at such big brothers as Harvard, Yale and Princeton. Under its provisions, as Harry Truman as well as a Franklin D. Roosevelt could have attended those exclusive schools.

SUBSIDY: The presidential advisers spell out their program in detail in presenting their specific demands for the 1948-1949 period.

They ask $120,000,000 to provide an annual subsidy of $400 for four years of collegiate study to 300,000 students. They suggest a $15,000,000 appropriation to underwrite 10,000 graduate students at $15,000 a year. These are minimum demands, the commission explains, and should be expanded in future years so as to double our present college population of 18-21-year-olders by 1960.

PUNCH: It is the commission's long range program, however, which packs the political punch. It should appeal to every youngster who has reluctantly quit his studies at the end of grammar or high school for want of cash, and to every parent who has suffered heartache for inability to give the fullest educational advantages to their children.

The federal government, according to the report, should eventually furnish financial aid to needy and worthy students in the last few years of high school. It should provide at least tuition for the first two years of college. The commission also urges establishment of hundreds of two-year, junior colleges, which should be financed by the communities and the federal government.

It is the G.I. educational bill stretched to include future generations of civilians. Although many M.C.'s question the wisdom of such a federal invasion of this broadened field of education, and it will mean an additional burden on the budget, the tax structure and possibly the public debt, the report will make an excellent political sales talk in the presidential campaign.

POLITICAL: In their frank discussions of these two reports on civil rights and education, Administration politicos concede that they are political as well as social documents. And they will be used as such in an attempt to depict Mr. Truman as a truer friend of the "little fellow" than even F.D.R. was pictured to be.

The strategy for 1948 is to win Mr. Truman first honors as the "underdog's man of the year." They expect it to be a winning slogan.

Told by his physician that he was as sound as a dollar, a local man called a taxi, rushed to his lawyer's office and made out his will.

Motion picture producers continue to go to greater and greater lengths to emphasize the rather well-known fact that man is a mammal.

In the case of the jerry-built house, the chances are that the purchaser will have a mortgage over his head much longer than he has a roof over it.

Giving a woman driver the right-of-way isn't prompted by chivalry on a man's part—it's prompted by the first law of nature.

A teacher of diction says, "Women are much harder to understand on the telephone than men are." Yes, and off it.

"Your fellow man has the same opinion of you as you have of him," asserts a philosopher. Hey, fellow man, you so-and-so; come out in the alley.

Why does a lawyer invariably ring in the word "scintilla" when he gets into high gear?

"The trend of our economic system is making it harder all the time for a poor man to borrow money," asserts a congressman. This couldn't be true. There is no way of adding difficulty to impossibility.

To whom it may concern: Your friends and acquaintances are bored with most of the petty details of their own lives. Why do you think they could possibly be interested in hearing about yours?

Believe It Or Not-By Robert Ripley

1948 SAID YEAR FOR ACTION

Nation Said Facing Busy Year

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON— A book that lay on display for the holiday trade attracted the eye and invited the soul away and away.

It was about a cruise down the inland waterway to Florida. On the jacket was a smart-looking motor launch, the kind most of us dream about, and most of us can only dream about. Away the mind went, away from the jostling, hectic throngs, down that waterway, a gleaming road passing now among the sand dunes, now among the palmettoes and live oaks, winding through the Golden Isles of Georgia, drifting through the sleepy swamps, and on, if I could have my way as pilot, to Key West at the tip of Florida.

STOKES

How nice to get away from it all—the year we've just been through, and the year we are facing.

Trip Is Recalled

And there, at Key West, to sit on the dock with a fishing line, not caring whether they bite or not, watching the boats slowly come and go, feasting on the changing colors of the water, drinking in the warm sun.

There is a memory of Key West that comes back from not so many years ago. My wife was driving me to Miami to catch a train to go back to the cold north after a vacation, and we stopped at a roadside stand to get some breakfast. A man stood lazily at the counter, passing the time of day with the young woman who tended it.

"You haven't got anything to do, have you?" she asked.

"I've got to write a letter tomorrow," he drawled.

That was back before the war. Key West was placid among her shining waters. A couple of officers and a handful of enlisted men managed the peaceful Navy Yard.

The war changed all that. Key West suddenly came alive with sailors and soldiers and submarines and airplanes and all the paraphernalia of war.

And Key West and all of America was changed forever after by all that. In the days before all that, it didn't seem to matter so much to individuals what happened in Germany, or Italy, or Poland, or Russia, or France, or China or Japan, or what somebody in Washington did or did not do about it. And that was only the day before yesterday, and not at all a long time ago.

Now it does matter, and being a citizen has become a responsibility not alone to our community and the nation, but to the world, whether we like it or not. We've had a confusing and tense year when the Government in Washington, including Congress and the Administration, did not seem able to make up its mind exactly what to do about this, that and the other.

Face New Problems

We now have rung that year out merrily, but we wake up to find ourselves with quite a batch of problems that piled up in that year of confusion. They require quite a batch of resolutions. There is inflation and high prices. And Europe is still in trouble. She was coming out slowly from the war when a drought ruined a great part of her crops and her people haven't got enough to eat.

We have made a couple of resolutions: To do something about high prices here at home, and to do something for Europe by what we call the European Recovery Program to help her to help herself. For we know that unless Europe gets on her feet then we'll suffer, too, in time.

These things that we must do are no longer something that somebody here in Washington can do for us. For these problems affect every one of us directly, and what we do now will affect us for a long time to come. This has been called a test of the world leadership we have assumed, and it is. It is, consequently, a test of each one of us, for it is our individual decisions that will make up the national decision that somebody here in Washington must execute.

In the year ahead of us we've got to act. We can wait no longer. Unfortunately, we can't just write a letter tomorrow and dismiss it. And we'll have to take that cruise another year, if ever, in our own lifetime.

NO MORE LEAKS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (U.P) — The old leaky rain barrel under the waterspout by small town porches soon will be replaced by the latest thing in barrel construction, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was told at its meeting here. The new type is of glued laminated wooden staves with plywood heads, and it is not subject to wormholes.

BOARD BARS BUTTER

NEW YORK (U.P)—The Board of Education announced the city's school lunch menus will include oleomargarine instead of butter, thus saving about $124,000 a year.

Side Glances ------- By Galbraith

"We'd better wake grandpa and tell him the New Year's noise is going full blast on the radio—he's never heard anything like it!"

Romanian Royal Family Asks Passports To Leave Republic

BUCHAREST, ROMANIA, Dec. 31 (AP)—The Romanian royal family of ex-king Mihai I applied today for 60 passports to leave this newly proclaimed democratic republic.

Mihai, who abdicated in a surprise move yesterday, came back to Bucharest with his mother, former queen Helen from the royal castle at Inaia, where they spent the night.

The 26-year-old former monarch conferred for an hour with Dr. Petru Groza, premier of the Communist-dominated government.

Groza said in an interview with foreign correspondents that Mihai was free to come and go as he pleases. He said that if Mihai wants to go abroad he probably has personal reasons, hinting at the reported romance of Mihai and Danish Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma.

Swiss Trip Expected

(Official Swiss sources said they expected that Mihai would enter Switzerland. Princess Anne said in Copenhagen that she had received no direct word from Mihai since he quit the Romanian throne. She went back to Denmark after a trip with Mihai and his entourage recently from London to Switzerland).

Mihai planned to return to Sinaia to spend New Year's eve with his mother.

The chamber of deputies met in full strength this morning with the full cabinet to witness the swearing in of the fifth member of the newly established presidium. He is George Steare, first president of the Bucharest Court of Appeals, who arrived late from a trip out of the city.

New Republic Hailed

The other four members, headed by Mihail Sadoveanu, president of the chamber, were sworn in last night. After the ceremony the chamber adjourned until Jan. 20.

Workmen hoisted a large red billboard bearing the words "long live the popular Romanian republic" over the place at the lobby entrance which formerly bore the royal coat of arms.

Street cars and buses carried stencilled slogans: "Long live the popular republic."

By noon the army had sworn allegiance to the new form of state. The new oath demands that the taker defend the regime against enemies both inside and outside the nation and "to keep service secrets." Civil servants took a similar oath.

Parliament is to draft a new constitution.

Billy Cathey, Wreck Victim, Moved To Hospital Near Dallas

Billy Cathey, 26, of Lubbock, who was seriously injured in an auto accident 25 miles north of Roswell, N. M., on Dec. 6, has been moved from the veterans hospital at McKinney to the vets hospital at Lisbon, James Cathey, a brother, reported last night.

Cathey, recently moved from the Amarillo veterans hospital, suffered head injuries in the accident which required oral surgery. He was to have undergone surgery Wednesday morning, but X-rays taken Tuesday caused the operation to be postponed for further study of his condition. James Cathey said that information received here indicated that the surgery might be performed next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cathey, 2427 Nineteenth street, who journeyed to McKinney to be with their son during the holidays, have accompanied him to Lisbon, a suburb of Dallas.

Effect Of GE Price Slash Undetermined

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (UP)—Price cuts up to 10 per cent on electrical appliances effective tomorrow—meaning a $50,000,000 yearly saving to consumers—were announced today by the General Electric company. However, spokesmen in other industries were doubtful that the move would start a general price decline.

Charles E. Wilson, president of GE, said the reductions, averaging 5 per cent on about 40 per cent of the total production of the company, were made in the hope of reversing the inflationary spiral. He said he hoped other industries would follow suit.

Wilson warned, however, that retention of the price cuts depended on whether the company was forced to pay higher labor or production costs. The United Electric workers (CIO) already has announced it will seek wage increases after the first of the year.

In Detroit, spokesmen for the automobile industry predicted the motormakers would be unable to follow the electric equipment company's lead on price cutting.

Truman Says New Aeronautics Chairman To Be Named Soon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP)—A new Civil Aeronautics board chairman will be named soon, President Truman said today, to replace James M. Landis, whose term expires tonight.

Mr. Truman declined to comment at a news conference on the reason for his refusal to reappoint Landis.

Likewise, he said he has not decided on a successor to Clarence M. Young, former Republican member of the board.

Mr. Truman said that the findings of a five-member air policy commission brought to the White House yesterday had not reached him yet. It will be made public after he has read it.

San Antonio Man Named Tall-Tale Champion Of Burlington Liars' Club For Past Year

BURLINGTON, Wis., Dec. 31 (AP)—The Burlington Liars' club, certified by truth serum, announced today that the biggest lie of 1947 was told by John C. Hopley, San Antonio, Tex.

The tall-tale title went to Hopley for his fable about a fly, an eight-ball and poolroom wager. It was the second straight year that a resident of San Antonio had been crowned world champion liar.

President O. C. Hulett said the club this year "discarded the crystal ball and all similar antiquated devices" and chose the winner "strictly from science."

Truth Serum Given

"Each judge was given a shot of truth serum before he went to work," Hulett said. "That left us with a clear conscience."

Here is the year's championship fib of 1947:

"I want to tell you about a pool shot I saw one night in Dude McCook's pool room in Enid, Okla.," Hopley related. "Me and my friend Charley Skorrea were playing that night for the championship of Boggy Creek bottoms, and it was his shot.

"Just as he started to shoot for the eight-ball, a fly lit exactly on top of the ball.

"Charley said 'I'm going to kill that fly with one shot.'

Dakota Weather Related

"Time—and the fly—stood still while the boys booked bets on whether or not Charley would make good his boast.

"Most of the boys in the house expected Charley to loft the cue ball so that it would light on top of the fly and exterminate it," Hopley went on. "But when the boys had placed their bets, Charley chalked up his cue and knocked the eight ball from under the fly—so fast that the fly fell and broke its back."

Honorable mention in the competition went to R. F. Harris, Williston, N. D., who told this story:

"You can believe this or not, but last winter it got so cold in North Dakota, people had to carry ice cubes in their pockets to keep warm."

26-Year-Old Denton Worker Admits Taking Part In Robbery

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 31 (AP)—A 26-year-old Denton electrician, Robert S. Ross, admitted here early today he was one of two men who robbed the Sears-Roebuck store in Denton of $3,500 the night of Dec. 23.

Ross was arrested Monday night here. He made a statement admitting his part in the robbery after several hours of questioning by Houston detectives and Police Chief Jack Shepherd of Denton.

Robbery charges have been filed against Ross in Denton. His accomplice still is at large.

Ross said he and the other man lured the Sears-Roebuck manager to the Denton Railway Express agency by a telephoned ruse, then forced him at gun point to take them to the store.

Dr. Edgar Smith, Lockhart Physician, Taken By Death

LOCKHART, Tex., Dec. 31 (AP)—Dr. Edgar Smith, 75, a physician here for 33 years, died in his office late yesterday after suffering a heart attack.

Before coming to Lockhart, he practiced at Mendoza, Caldwell county, for 18 years.

He is survived by his wife and two brothers, R. L. Smith of Austin and O. A. Smith of Kingsville.
