BRITON FLIES PLANE AT 404 MILES PER HOUR

Wichita Man Wounded In Shooting Near Holliday; Stepson Surrenders

48 BIRDSHOT TAKEN FROM VICTIM'S BACK

Albert Miller in Hospital Here for Treatment Of Wounds

JENKS WILLIS JAILED

Argument Over Cattle Led To Shooting, Archer Officers Told

The target of a shotgun discharge near Holliday Sunday afternoon, Albert Miller, 31, of Wichita Falls, is at the Wichita General hospital, painfully wounded. His condition, however, is not deemed critical.

Jenks Willis, 18, drove to Archer City shortly after the shooting and surrendered to Sheriff Fred McDaniel. He said that he had shot his stepfather.

The shooting occurred a few miles from Holliday on Willis' farm. The charge from the shotgun struck Miller in the back. Although the shot was fired at close range, at a distance of approximately 30 feet, the load failed to penetrate deeply. Forty-eight birdshot were removed by physicians from Miller's shoulders and back.

The shooting was said to have followed an argument over some cows. In a statement to O. M. Wiley, assistant district attorney at Archer City, Willis said that his mother gave him the cows, which he had in the pasture of the farm. The youth's story said his stepfather came to the place Sunday to get the animals, and that in order to protect his property, he shot.

Willis is held in the Archer county jail to await developments of the case. His examining trial will be held at Archer City Monday, it was said.

The shooting took place shortly after 2 p. m. Miller was immediately rushed to the hospital here. He resides here at 302 Second street.

Gandhi Tells MacDonald Wishes of Nationalists

LONDON, Sept. 13. (US)—A secret conference reported to have been held tonight between Premier MacDonald and Mahatma Gandhi, at the Dorchester hotel, may have a most important bearing on the deliberations regarding Indian independence at the round table conference, the sessions of which open tomorrow.

It is understood that Gandhi intimated to the prime minister that unless the national government is prepared to discuss the matters of principle laid down by the India national congress, at Karachi, the Mahatma sees no purpose in further discussions. Such details as are to be worked out may be left to the experts, he is said to have hinted.

Austrian Revolutionary Forces Open Attack

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 13. (UP)—The powerful Nationalistic Heimwehr organization began an armed revolutionary movement at dawn today in three provinces, seizing control of more than a score of cities in central and southern Austria and mounting machine guns at stragetic points.

The government of Chancellor Dr. Buresch prepared to mobilize troops and rural police against the insurgents, who were well organized in Syria, upper Austria and Salzburg, but the state gendarmerie acted quickly to suppress the movement in the principal cities.

Aimee Takes Plane And Singer To Yuma And Becomes Bride

By A. M. ROCHLEN
(Copyright 1931 by Universal Service Inc. and Los Angeles Examiner)

YUMA, Ariz., Sept. 13.—Behold the bride—Aimee Semple McPherson. Just as the sun peeked over the mountains into California, the noted evangelist was married here this morning to David L. Hutton, Pasadena musician, vocal teacher and recently leading baritone in Mrs. McPherson's opera, "The Iron Furnace."

Mrs. McPherson's romantic trip to Arizona, made by air and at night, came like a bolt of lightning to her closest friends and associates. Every step was clothed in utmost secrecy, and only a dozen persons knew of her decision to marry Hutton, and only six, including members of her family, knew the hour and place. No reports of the impending marriage have been circulated.

Mrs. Hutton

The ceremony was as simple and dramatic as it was unexpected. With only her son, Rolf, his wife, Lorna Dea McPherson, the jubilant and happy Mr. Hutton and representatives of the Los Angeles Examiner and Universal Service, Mrs. McPherson flew to Yuma, obtained a license, and was married and on her way to Los Angeles within an hour.

A few close friends and associates preceded her to this little town. They rousted Donald B. Wosemer, clerk of the court, out of bed, and had him and the necessary papers in a suite of rooms at the San Carlos hotel. While more of the guests were still sound asleep, two snappy signatures adorned the dotted lines and the wedding cavalcade was on its way to the airport.

Married in Air

There, in a tri-motored plane of the Century Pacific lines, the ship that brought them through the night to Arizona, Mrs. McPherson and Mr. Hutton were married by Miss Harriet Jordan, minister and director of Angelus temple.

F. C. Winters, manager of the temple was best man. Mrs. Winters was matron of honor. Miss Emma Schaeffer, for years Mrs. McPherson's secretary, was bride's maid and Rolf McPherson gave the bride away.

"We are so happy and so anxious to get back to our work and our people at the temple," Mrs. McPherson said immediately after the ceremony.

Hutton, his vivid blue eyes dancing with delight, echoed the sentiment.

Bodies of Gangster Pair Found in Vicinity Of Newark

BAYONNE, N. J., Sept. 13. (AP)—With the identification of a body found in Newark bay, tonight as that of Sam Monaco, and earlier discovery of the body of Louis Russo, Newark, gangster, at Harrison, police believed they had uncovered a double gangland slaying.

Monaco and Russo left Newark together in Monaco's car Sept. 10, at 3:30 p. m. An hour later the car was found abandoned in New York City.

The double slaying, Newark police believed, was in retaliation of the slaying of Dominic (The Ape) Pacelli in a Newark private hospital, Nov. 3, 1930.

STATE SALARY CUTS PLANNED

Economy Caucus Discusses Reductions

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—An attempt to cause a "voluntary" reduction of all salaries by agreement of department heads, avoiding legislative action, has been projected in a caucus of state officials with Gov. Ross S. Sterling and the state tax board.

If it fails, cutting the appropriations may be submitted to the legislature. It has been discussed with both senators and representatives. The house, voting 85 to 17, petitioned Governor Sterling to submit the salary reduction question.

Governor Sterling refused to have the tax board vote a tax rate increase until after it was found how the revision of the appropriations worked out.

Senator Ben G. Oneal, Wichita Falls, with whom state officials have discussed the attempted "voluntary" reduction of state salaries, protested against any such forced cut in the low pay of eleemosynary institution employes, such as those in the Wichita state hospital. Many of these salaries are bare living requirements, Senator Oneal insisted.

The plan is to get all heads of departments to tell their employes that salaries will be cut 5 or 10 per cent, and if they don't like it they can get other jobs.

It was believed a small part of the 126 district judges, and probably nine of the appellate judiciary would take part in the informal procedure since the judges' salaries are fixed by law. The plan could not reach the higher education budget at all.

Chairman Claude D. Teer of the board of control was quoted by lawmakers as favoring a flat cut all the way down to the small-salaried employes of the institutions. Some of the salaries run down to $30 a month and board.

A saving of $1,200,000 in departmental and eleemosynary salaries was predicted in the "economy caucus."

The official voluntary agreement to cut employes' salaries was broached in a conference of Governor Sterling, Treasurer Charley Lockhart and Comptroller George H. Sheppard, members of the tax board. Chairman Claude D. Teer of the board of control and a member of the house, who led the fght back in the regular session to cut the salaries.

The slaying occurred last Dec. 14 when Foshee encountered his wife emerging from a dance hall with another man. The couple had been separated only a few days.

GEORGIA TO SEEK COTTON LEGISLATION

Agriculture Commissioner Calls Mass Meeting Of Farmers

LONG ON WAR PATH

Louisiana Governor Says Sterling Protecting Speculators

(By The Associated Press)

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, announced Sunday he would call a mass meeting of Georgia farmers in Atlanta for Wednesday to demand a special session of the legislature to pass cotton relief laws.

Talmadge, an ardent supporter of the plan of Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana to prohibit cotton planting in 1932, said he would call the meeting partly because the Texas legislature "needs encouragement to pass the Long plan," which has been disapproved by Gov. Ross S. Sterling.

The Long plan will come up today in the Texas legislature, along with the acreage restriction scheme which Governor Sterling has approved.

Legislators Besieged

Talmadge, in announcing the mass meeting, added that some action must be taken at once to relieve a situation he said was becoming more serious daily. He pointed to short ginning reports and indications that the farmers are holding cotton. He said that without some definite action now the farmers and croppers can lay no plans for their future operations.

Meanwhile the Texas legislators were besieged from across their borders by pleas for enactment of the Long plan, and other pleas for acreage restriction, and sponsors of the latter scheme in that state were laying plans to carry their fight all over the South, confident that the Texas legislature would adopt it.

At the same time Gov. Theo. G. Bilbo of Mississippi had under consideration a plan to use national guardsmen to close down cotton gins and cottonseed oil mills, as was done with Oklahoma and Texas oil wells, "until they give Mississippi farmers a decent price for cottonseed."

Texas Holds Key

Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma, however, said he knew of no law in Mississippi under which Governor Bilbo's proposed shutdown might be effected. He pointed out that the oil well shutdowns in his state and Texas were carried out under authority of conservation laws designed to prevent waste of petroleum. He said he did not want to be put in the position of criticising Governor Bilbo because he did not know "what laws he has."

The verbal barrage from out of the state into Texas continued over the week-end with Governor Long

Main Figures in Arkansas 'Holy War'

Here are the principals in the Jonesboro, Ark., "Holy War" which has divided the town into two camps, while state guards parade the streets to preserve order. Rev. Dow H. Heard, left, is the pastor of First Baptist church. His character was assailed by "Fighting Joe" Jeffers, sensational evangelist leader who is conducting a revival at Jonesboro. Jeffers refused to stop his use of personalities in his lectures and told city officials he would take orders only from God.

TROOPS LEAVE CHURCH 'FRONT'

Jonesboro Quiets Down After Clashes

JONESBORO, Ark., Sept. 13. (AP)—National guardsmen, called here Thursday when a controversy between factions of the First Baptist church reached alarming proportions, were withdrawn today.

At a conference this morning Capt. Harry Eldridge, in charge of 150 guardsmen, and Mayor H. J. Boaler agreed there seemed no further need of troops.

The troops were called by local officials, alarmed over strife caused by attempts of the Rev. Joe Jeffers, Baptist evangelist, to oust the Rev. Dow H. Heard from the church pastorate.

Charging the calling of the national guard was "the most ridiculous thing" he ever heard of, Jeffers in a sermon at his tent tabernacle late today said the troops "might well have been used in cleaning up vice instead of trying to break up a revival meeting."

Jeffers' sermon subject was "My Business in Jonesboro," answering an anonymous prayer circulated here reading "Oh, Lord, help me to keep my nose out of other people's business."

Making no reference to Dr. Heard, other than to intimate he would answer the pastor's Sunday sermon tomorrow night, Jeffers said his business here was "to see that the city officials cleaned up Jonesboro."

Dr. Heard made no direct reference to the disturbance of the past week in his sermon today, but urged the congregation to consider all actions, so nothing regrettable would be done in haste.

Waco Official's Trial Will Be Continued

WACO, Texas, Sept. 13. (UP)—Trial of Arthur Mills, former county tax collector, on charges of embezzling county funds, probably will be reset tomorrow owing to the defendant's illness.

Mills' case was scheduled for trial here tomorrow in 54th district court, but his physicians said today he would have to remain in a hospital at least a week following an operation.

Ten indictments were returned against the former McLennan county official alleging embezzlement of funds totaling $57,000. Mills already has been tried on one of the indictments, the case resulting in a mistrial.

Wichita Highway Leaders Pledge Support to New Southern Route

Road Commissioners of Two States Asked to Seek Designation of International Road Across Nation

Support of this section of Texas and Oklahoma for the proposed United States highway No. 66 from Canada to Mexico by way of Wichita Falls, Mineral Wells and San Antonio was promised representative highway commissioners of the two states by about a score of business men assembled at the Wichita club Sunday noon for consideration of the project.

Called by Joe S. Bridwell, chairman of the highway committee of the local chamber of commerce, the meeting had for its purpose the designation of the proposed road as "the straightest north and south highway across this country west of the Mississippi river." It would lead from Reynosa, Mexico, opposite Hidalgo county in Texas, to Winnipeg, Canada.

"Straight Line" Road

Information given at the meeting Sunday emphasized the fact that from the Nebraska-Kansas state line to Winnipeg, a distance of about 1,000 miles, all the proposed course is paved except 25 miles. On the southern end, it is paved from San Antonio to the border with the exception of two counties. Completion of the highway as planned would require some additional paving between San Antonio and Nebraska, particularly in Oklahoma.

The north-and-south "straight line" highway now being urged would enter Texas near Oklaunion coming from Davidson, Okla., and would use state highway No. 5 through Electra to this city. From Wichita Falls it is mapped through Windthorst, Scotland, Jacksboro and Mineral Wells. It was pointed out that automobile time to San Antonio would be reduced by more than two hours by completion of the highway as designed.

D. K. Martin of San Antonio and Sam R. Hawks, Clinton, Okla., were the two state officials present, each

Atlantic Plane Flies Over Azores Islands

HORTA, Azores, Sept. 13. (US)—The junkers plane "D-2072," which left Juncal, Portugal, at 9:25 this morning, (4:25 a. m., eastern daylight time), passed over the Azores six hours and five minutes after rising from the runway at the Lisbon airfield.

Thousands in Horta and other points in the Azores watched the big Junkers plane speeding at more than 100 miles an hour on a due west course. Crowds were not certain whether the fliers would stop at the Azores, and were prepared to welcome the two German aviators, Christian Johannsen and William Rody, whose added passenger was today revealed in messages from Lisbon to be the son of Viscount Costa Veiga, who paid $2,000 for the chance to fly the Atlantic in the guise of "mechanic."

NEGRO HELD IN $1500 ROBBERY

Loot From Lynskey Home Recovered by Police

The recovery of property valued at $1,500 taken in the burglary of the Ed B. Lynskey home, 1907 Eleventh street, 14 months ago, was reported by police Sunday.

Matthew Roberts, negro, was charged with burglary in the case. The negro s under a two-year suspended sentence imposed for burglary in the last session of district court.

The clue which led to the solution of the burglary came Saturday when Detectives Luke Hart and O. A. Roberson arrested the negro on a capias pro fine warrant. In his pockets, they said, was found a quantity of silverware taken from the Lynskey home.

A subsequent search of the negro's home led to the discovery of more silverware, the officers said. A statement was later obtained from the prisoner in the "most approved and gentle style of persuasion," Mr. Hart declared.

Detective Hart was one of several officers who gave testimony last week in the Robert Burns poison murder trial that no third degree methods had been employed to obtain a confession from the negro.

Included in the recovered loot, in addition to the silverware, were items of clothing, bedclothes and linen, a phonograph and several valuable rugs. One of the rugs, valued at $700, had been sold by a second hand dealer for $25. The dealer had paid only $17 for the rug and five smaller ones in the same pattern, the detectives learned.

Articles lost from the Lynsky home were valued at $1,700. The recovery of $1,500 of the property lacked only $200 of being a total return. The home was burglarized July 15, 1930, while members of the family were away.

The negro was given the two-year suspended sentence in connection with the burglary a short time ago of an unoccupied home owned by Fred T. Couper.

SPEED RECORD REGISTERED BY SPECIAL CRAFT

New Mark Recorded After Lesser Rate Takes Schneider Cup

WEATHER IS PERFECT

Great Crowd Thrills at English Corps' Fast Performances

CALSHOT, England, Sept. 13. (US)—Flight Lieut. G. H. Stainforth tonight set a new speed record in the air when he flew one of the British seaplanes specially constructed for the Schneider cup race, at the rate of 404 miles per hour. The previous record was 357 miles per hour.

Stainforth's flight followed the perfunctory winning of the Schneider cup by Flight Lieut. J. N. Boothman who, despite the withdrawal of France and Italy from the contest, flew one of the special Wasp-like seaplanes over the Solent triangle, making seven tours of the 31 mile course at an average speed of 340.8 miles an hour.

The Schneider cup race was postponed from Saturday on account of rain but with fair weather today a monster crowd of spectators found places in all sorts of boats from yachts and launches to big ocean liners, witnessed the shattering of the world speed record as well as Boothman's flight which gives the trophy permanently to England.

CUP BELONGS TO ENGLAND FOREVER

CALSHOT, England, Sept. 13. (AP)—Flight Lieutenant Boothman, flying a super-marine Rolls-Royce powered seaplane, covered the Solent course at an average speed of 340.8 miles an hour today, retaining permanent possession of the Schneider cup for Britain. France and Italy with drew from the races last week.

While Lieutenant Stainforth's speed remained to be checked and verified by the International Aeronautical federation, it officially was announced he had beaten by more than 28 miles an hour the previous world's speed record of 357.7 miles an hour, set by Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar in 1929.

Permanent Trophy

With the performance today of Lieutenant Boothman, Great Britain took the Schneider trophy permanently, having won the two previous Schneider cup races. The cup was presented by the late Jacques Schneider, French sportsman and engineer, for international competition.

The United States won the Schneider cup in 1923 and 1925 and stood a chance of achieving permanent ownership in 1929, but failed to nominate an entry within the prescribed time.

Today was fine and sunshiny after yesterday's postponement of the flights owing to rainy and blustery weather.

Another Record Falls

During the flight, Lieutenant Boothman also broke the world's record of a 100-kilometer flying start on a closed circuit with a speed of 342.9 miles an hour, beating Lieutenant R. L. Atcherly's record of 331.75.

Lieutenant Stainforth went up after Lieutenant Boothman and set the new world's speed record in an 86B seaplane.

As the crowd watched breathlessly, he sped over the course in four laps at the following speeds: First 372.822 miles an hour; second, 404.265; third, 377.011; fourth 390.162.

It was considered likely that another attempt would be made to better the record next week in an 86B machine with an especially adjusted engine.

As Lieutenant Boothman crossed the finishing line at Rhyde the crowd cheered itself hoarse and his wife jumped up and down in excitement.

Fire Razes Vacant House at Midnight

A vacant home at 2004 Fifth street was destroyed by fire shortly before midnight Sunday. Damage was estimated at $2,500 by fire officials. Origin of the blaze was undetermined. Flames had engulfed the place before the blaze was discovered.

10,000 Wichita Pupils Return to School Today for New Session

Slightly reorganized and properly "tuned up" during the past month by Supt. H. D. Fillers, Wichita Falls machinery for the scholastic education of almost 10,000 boys and girls will get under way on a new year Monday morning.

Comparatively few changes have been made in the teaching personnel of the public schools. Moving of residents to and from various sections of the city also has reduced during the past year, and a minimum of transfers of pupils was predicted.

According to Mr. Fillers, all possible economies have been exercised in planning class room work for the ensuing year. No supplies will be required of students unless absolutely necessary, he said. Pupils will be allowed to cover their own textbooks with heavy brown paper in lieu of purchasing regulation book covers. Cafeterias will offer lower rates on all foods for luncheon, it was said.

Schools were opened last Monday in many other cities. The shorter intermission provided at mid-year in this city, however, permits completion of the required 36 weeks by the usual time for spring dismissal.

Monday will be given largely to enrollment and classification, particularly in the grade schools.

Officers Plod Through Maze of False Clues in Futile Search for Slayers

Police here Sunday continued with painstaking care to run down every clue and thoroughly investigate every tip in their fruitless effort to establish the identity and whereabouts of two negroes who shot and fatally wounded Audrey N. Noduruft and assaulted his young woman companion here Wednesday night.

Countless telephone and personal calls have been received by the sheriff's department, police and the district attorney's office with information concerning suspicious negroes. Each tip has been sifted in the effort to arrive at a definite lead in the case.

Four days after the outrage, however, it was admitted that the search for the blacks seemed no nearer its termination than when it started.

Although descriptions, as near as could be obtained, of the attackers were wired and telephoned to all towns in this section and to the police departments of larger cities in the state, the two negroes still are at large. Negroes by the scores have been detained and questioned here and in Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and other places. In each place the suspects have been thoroughly grilled. In each place, also, the result has been the same. No connection between those questioned and the outrage here has thus far been established.

The jewelry of which the young

FARMERS HEAR CO-OP HEADS

Electra Mass Meeting Votes For Legislation

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Sept. 13.—F. A. Caperton, Paris; Paul Payne, Quanah, and S. W. Yeury, Howell, representatives of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, addressed the farmers of the Electra area at a mass meeting Saturday night. The purpose of the meeting, which was called by the association, was to discuss the cooperative and means of remedying the cotton situation. Approximately 100 farmers were in attendance and at the conclusion of the talks, votes were taken to determine the plan the farmers favored. The vote stood about 50-50 for the Long plan and a 35 per cent cotton acreage reduction. The entire assembly favored some sort of legislation.

Caperton, field agent for the cooperative, urged the farmers to write their representatives whatever plan they approved. He expressed himself in favor of acreage reduction and opposed to the Long plan. Farmers must organize if they are to succeed, he asserted. He also discussed the fixation and quick fixation pools of the cooperative.

S. W. Yeury, state director, announced himself in favor of anything which would reduce the acreage, and Paul Payne, field representative and former state director of the cooperative, centered his remarks on the federal farm board and its functions.

E. R. Brown, president of the Electra Chamber of Commerce, called the meeting to order and introduced J. Tom Haynes, prominent Electra farmer, who served as chairman. The meeting was held in the W. J. Sheldon building on West Cleveland.

Wichita Urges New Highway

representing the highway commission of his state. They were authorized by the group which met Sunday to ask the designation of federal highway No. 66 upon the indicated course when the United States Highway commission meets at Salt Lake City soon.

Mr. Hawks spoke briefly upon the rapid development of communities in Western Oklahoma and Texas, and complimented Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma upon being the first governor chosen from the western part of that state. Support of the Oklahoma governor can be expected in the movement for the proposed highway, Mr. Hawks said, since "there is not one paved highway in the western one-third of Oklahoma."

Officials Speak

Mr. Martin was introduced by Mr. Bridwell as "a pioneer road builder of Texas." The commissioner declared that in his opinion, the highway now being proposed would be the most important in this part of the country.

Tim T. Warren of Clinton, Okla., said that plans for the designation of the new highway to be known as No. 66 were launched only about two months ago. In Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, he said, authorities have agreed to route the road within 30 miles of the ninety-ninth meridian at all points.

Short talks approving the movement also were made by L. M. Wagnon of Frederick, Okla., John Boswell, general manager of the chamber of commerce, W. B. Hamilton, Orville Bullington and W. M. McGregor.

Others present at the conference were D. M. Puckett, division engineer in this district for the state highway department; C. E. Wilson, Clinton; DeRoy Burns, Mountain Park, Okla.; A. T. Davidson, Frederick, and J. H. Allison.

Negro Woman Stabs Daughter's Suitor

A negress used a knife at her home here Sunday to convince a negro man that she didn't approve of his seeing her daughter. As a result, the negro is in the Wichita General hospital with a severe although not critical wound.

To further prove that she held the colored swain in disapproval the mother filed a complaint charging aggravated assault against him before County Attorney Louis V. Abernathy.

She alleged that the negro forced entrance to her home when she refused to allow him to see the daughter. The negro is held in the detention ward at the hospital.

FIRE ADDS TO STORM'S HAVOC

Belize Death Toll Reaches 1,200 Humans

(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Press)

BELIZE, British Honduras, Sept. 13.—Fire in the suburb of Mesopotamia, as an aftermath of the hurricane that struck Belize Thursday, was spreading rapidly today, while it was estimated that the death toll of the storm was more than 1,200.

After parties had worked all night to prevent the fire spreading, all efforts still were bent today on stopping its progress as it edged toward an inflammable liquor warehouse.

More Bodies Found

As more wreckage is moved in this city, devastated by the hurricane and tidal wave, more bodies of humans and livestock have been uncovered. It still was impossible today to figure the exact number of deaths.

At St. John's college, where the deaths were many, a large hole had been dug and bodies were being burned as they were recovered.

The hurricane struck inland for about 50 miles and the dead have been floating down to Belize by the river which divides this town.

Food Distributed

Additional relief supplies have arrived and food is being distributed in large quantities.

The crowds were more orderly today. Churches held services this morning and Bishop Joseph Murphy begged his people to refrain from disorders and to set about cleaning up the city.

All churches were crowded with people offering thanks for their salvation.

With the death toll now estimated at at least 1,200, it means one person in every 14 in the city's approximately 16,000 population perished in Thursday's storm.

Fruit Ship Rescues 230 Passengers After Liner Grounds Off Mexico

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13. (US)—Two hundred and thirty passengers and crew members of the Panama mail liner Colombia, wrecked off Point Tosco, Lower California, late Saturday, were safe aboard the United Fruit vessel San Mateo today.

After three hours in open boats, the 130 passengers and 100 crew members were taken aboard while the Colombia lay grounded on a sandy beach, 683 miles south of Los Angeles, the scene of several similar wrecks.

The Colombia, under command of Capt. Theodore K. Oaks, "Whispering Teddy," was steaming north for Los Angeles off the coast of Lower California in the general neighborhood of Magdalena bay when the wreck occurred.

The first SOS call, "We are aground at Point Tosco; help urgently needed," was picked up by the San Mateo, southbound, only 30 miles away, and in command of Captain Colburn, who replied, "We are coming full speed."

With the Colombia's engine room filling with water, Captain Oaks routed sleeping passengers from their staterooms and placed them in the eight life boats, including a motor launch.

For more than three hours the partially clad passengers and crew drifted about, waiting for the San Mateo. Just at dawn she began picking them up but for a long time the motor launch was hidden by huge swells. Finally Captain Colburn radioed: "All passengers on board. All well."

EIGHT HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Two Men and Baby Seriously Injured at Frederick

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 13.—Eight persons were injured, three seriously, Sunday afternoon in an automobile collision on highway 14, eight miles north of Frederick.

E. C. Mueller, of Lawton, driver of one of the cars, and Arthur Rowland of Oklahoma City, occupant of the other car were the most seriously hurt. Mueller has a fractured left arm, several broken ribs and injuries on his head. Rowland is suffering from a possible skull fracture and cuts on his head and body. The 6-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Powell of Lawton sustained a fractured jaw and the loss of several teeth.

Mueller's automobile collided with one driven by Elsie LeMay of Los Angeles. Both cars were traveling at a high rate of speed and it was believed a cloud of dust, barring visibility, was responsible for the crash.

In the car with Mueller were his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Powell. Accompanying Miss LeMay were her mother, Mrs. Farrah LeMay and Rowland, who is the son of Mrs. LeMay. He and his mother were riding in the rumble seat of their automobile.

The LeMay car was traveling north, the Mueller machine south, when the crash occurred. It was necessary to lift Mueller's machine from the ground to remove the injured man.

All occupants of the two cars other than the three more seriously injured received bruises and lacerations.

WOMAN HURT WHEN CAR PLUNGES INTO DITCH

Mrs. A. C. Epp was seriously injured early Sunday night when the automobile in which she was riding plunged 15 feet to the bottom of a ditch when the car struck a bridge railing near Jolly. Her companions, Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Hyde, and the latter's small daughter, Billy Jean, 4, received only minor injuries.

All were brought to the Wichita General hospital here, where it was reported that Mrs. Epp had received a deep gash on her neck. Although her condition is reported serious, hospital attendants said she would recover.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyde and their small daughter received minor bruises. They were considerably shaken up with the impact of the car's plunge.

The accident occurred when the driver, Mr. Hyde, swerved the machine to avert striking a cow which suddenly stepped into the path of the car. Striking the end of the bridge, about one mile this side of Jolly, the car dropped off into the ditch, overturning twice.

Passing motorists brought the four to the hospital here. Mrs. Epp resides at 1409 Thirteenth street. The Hydes live at 1628 Keeler. They had started on their return home after a dove hunt near Henrietta.

School opens soon. Why not rent your bedroom or apartment to teachers or students? A small want ad in The Times and Record News may bring results.—Adv.

Negro Slayers Elude Officers

couple were robbed by the negroes is now expected to prove to be the most valuable clue. A wallet containing a small amount of currency was taken from Nodurft's inside pocket as he lay crumpled in the automobile in which the two were riding, after a bullet from his attackers' gun had penetrated his neck, severing the spinal cord. A wrist watch and a diamond engagement ring, given her the week before, were stripped from the arm and finger of the girl before she was forced by her captors to leave her dying sweetheart and accompany them some distance away from the parked automobile to a clump of weeds. These articles, officers declared, will prove of inestimable value in running the fugitives to earth in the event that the jewelry is pawned or sold.

Nodurft's body left here Friday in the company of his fiancee and three brothers for Lyons, Kan., the home of his parents, where funeral services will be held Monday. The youth, formerly employed by the Continental Oil company here, was employed at Fort Worth by that same concern. The girl is a stenographer for a wholesale house here.

J. D. King, 43, superintendent of Continental filling stations here, died of a heart attack while searching with officers for the two negroes. His body was forwarded to Wolfe City, Texas, where funeral services were held Saturday.

SERVICES TODAY FOR NODURFT

LYONS, Kan., Sept. 13. (AP)—Funeral services will be held at the Methodist Episcopal church here tomorrow for Aubrey N. Nodurft, 23, slain at Wichita Falls, Texas, last Wednesday night by negroes who attacked his fiancee.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Nodurft of Lyons and had worked in Texas as a bookkeeper for the Continental Oil company.

Fee Fraud Inquiry To Be Resumed Today

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. (UP)—After a week-end recess, the Travis county grand jury will convene tomorrow morning to resume its inquiry into alleged fraud in witness and mileage fee warrants of various county officers in Texas.

The grand jury began its sessions last Tuesday, provided with evidence secured by a former grand jury whose sessions were ruled illegal.

VOTE TODAY ON COTTON

Test of Strength Scheduled In Legislature

continuing his radio "invasion" and Governor Harvey Parnell of Arkansas appointing a commission to represent that state in urging the Long plan on Governor Sterling and the Texas legislature.

Governor Parnell said he had found Arkansas farmers in favor of the prohibition law and added that nothing could be done without Texas in that direction.

TEXAS FACTIONS WAIT TEST OF STRENGTH

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. (AP)—Leaders of the cotton prohibition plan and the acreage reduction program were marshaling their forces today for decisive encounters on the floors of the legislature tomorrow when the proposed bills are to be reported from committees.

Supporters of the holiday cotton plan, as advanced by Gov. Huey Long of Louisiana, were fighting an uphill battle. Indications were that the acreage reduction forces would have sufficient votes to put their bill over in both branches of the legislature unless the "no cotton" advocates could effect a split in the opposition through a substitute combination bill.

Long Continues Speeches

From Louisiana, however, Governor Long continued to hurl defiance at Gov. Ross S. Sterling and others in Texas who placed their faith in acreage reduction for solving the cotton crisis.

In another of his radio series, Governor Long charged Governor Sterling with not wanting any law passed that would hurt the cotton speculator. He said he was preparing to make a list of all members of the state legislature who voted against the cotton prohibition bill.

Commenting on Governor Sterling's threat to veto any prohibition plan adopted by the legislature, Governor Long advised legislators to pass the holiday bill and stay in session until it was signed.

"Refuse to adjourn. He'll sign that bill faster than a duck ever went to water," Governor Long predicted.

Indications that reductionists had agreed on the extent of curtailment program with minor changes in the Olsen house bill to coincide with the senate coalition measure.

Three Bills

Three bills will be before the two branches tomorrow, cotton men anticipated. In the house, the Olsen reduction bill was expected to be brought out with a favorable report of the special committee. In the senate, the agricultural committee reported favorably two bills yesterday. Vote was expected tomorrow. The two bills were the prohibition and the coalition reduction measure.

Major features of the coalition bill in the senate and the Olsen bill in the house provide for reduction of acreage to not more than one-third of the cultivated area for 1932 and rotation of crops in following years. Sponsors of the curtailment plan estimate such a bill would result in a 50 or 60 per cent reduction.

Confident the bill finally adopted by both branches would contain essential clauses of the Olsen house bill, leaders of the reduction bloc were moving to carry the fight into other Southern states.

If the reduction bill is passed, leaders planned to offer a resolution whereby delegates will go from Texas to the legislatures of other cotton growing states to aid in passing uniform reduction measures.

As a step to allow the cotton farmer financial protection while withholding his present cotton crop for higher prices, a companion bill to the acreage reduction measure will be offered in the house.

Under it, the farmers could obtain bank loans through means of issued certificates showing the cotton in his possession.

Boulder Dam Syndicate President Succumbs

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13. (US)—William H. Wattis, president of the syndicate which is building Boulder dam, the greatest engineering project in American continental history, died today in San Francisco.

Wattis was 72 years old last spring, although he was suffering from cancer and was under treatment at a hospital here, he plunged with the enthusiasm of a youth into the stupendous job of floating a $50,000,000 engineering syndicate, and helped to prepare the winning bid.

Body of Young Girl Found by Roadside

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13. (US)—The body of a girl about 20, whose description closely tallies with that of Mild Austin, missing daughter of N. D. Austin, federal prohibition agent, was found beside the road half a mile south of Rockaway beach today.

Clad only in a brassiere the body was about four feet from the road, partly concealed in a clump of bushes.

'Baering' Down On The News

BY ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

AL SMITH IN THE COMEBACKS OF 1932

News was light and frothy over the week-end due to the fact that folks are still trying to get home from Labor day.

Mahatma Gandhi not only refuses to visit Hollywood but denies that he has his legs insured for a million dollars.

Aristide Briand says the only way to stop wars is to win 'em.

Aristide wants us to scrap the army and navy. Which is good French but bad English.

While the humanitarians are crying over those Chinese floods they forget that the Mississippi is just as yellow and much closer.

We know the south is in a tough fix. But any woman will tell you that the trouble with cotton is that it ain't silk.

Al Smith might take a tip from Enoch Arden and rap on the door before looking in the window.

This is just to let the weekly news reel folks know that we have already seen menocal of Cuba captured three dozen times from 36 different angles.

AIMEE BECOMES SINGER'S BRIDE

Woman Evangelist Weds in Flying Plane

the plane roared away into a brisk desert shower that raced across the airport as the two were pronounced man and wife.

"We had known each other some months, but the romance began in earnest only last June," Mrs. McPherson said.

"We talked and talked about our plans and after much prayer felt that our lives and our work should be joined. I have worked hard for years and have been lonesome. I love him dearly and I know that we will be happy in each other and in giving out lives to the work we have mapped out."

"Besides," she added, "we are simple folk and for ourselves do not seek pomp and trimmings. Later, if our dear people wish, we can have a celebration, but I am sure Angelus temple would have wanted us to think of our work first and of ourselves last."

License Applications

In making out their license applications, the couple gave this information: "Aime S. McPherson, 38; residence, Los Angeles; where born, Canada; occupation, minister; divorced, yes. Related to each other, no; nationality, U. S. A. Address for certificate to be mailed, Angelus temple."

Hutton wrote on his card:

David L. Hutton, 30 years old; residence, Pasadena; born, Dawson, Ill.; occupation, concert singer; related to each other, no. Nationality, American. Address for certificate to be mailed, Angelus temple.

By the time the plane crossed the Colorado river, Mrs. McPherson was writing. It was a message to her division chiefs and it read:

"Send to all branch churches:

"Greetings:

"Please announce to Four Square ministers and members in your district my marriage today to Mr. David L. Hutton of Los Angeles, baritone evangelistic song director, teacher and friend of Homer Rodeheaver. We are entering the Portland campaign together next Friday. I covet your prayers that God may mightily bless our work together in spread of Four Square gospel.

"Yours in His service,

"Sister McPherson."

Aime Relaxes

This message completed, Aimee relaxed in the ample lap of Mr. Hutton and dozed a bit. As the plane neared Los Angeles, Mrs. McPherson became electrified.

"I am due at the temple at 10:30. Please see that we are not late, for I promised my people I'd be there and I always keep my word."

At 10:30 a. m. she was at the temple and in a few minutes her voice was booming across the ether and through the spacious auditorium at Echo park.

Officers Question Man in Shooting

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. (AP)—Travis county officers questioned a man tonight in connection with the shooting of Claude McDaniels and the injury of Mrs. McDaniels at Dessau, near here, today.

McDaniels was shot through the cheeks, the right shoulder and the right side of the body.

Mrs. Alvin D. Clayton, at whose home the McDaniels were visiting, was treated for a forehead wound, at first believed to be a gunshot wound.

McDaniels said he did not recall what caused the shooting. He and his wife were brought to a hospital here.

DANDRUFF! how to get rid of it

Quickly . . Pleasantly . . Inexpensively

IF your scalp itches or burns, if your hair is thinning or you are troubled with loose dandruff, begin using full strength Listerine, systematically, as an antiseptic shampoo. Simply douse it on and massage the scalp as vigorously as you can.

Literally tens of thousands have rid themselves of a dandruff condition with Listerine. They are simply amazed by the speed with which it gets results.

In cases of dandruff the fat glands about the hair become overactive throwing off a disgusting greasy whitish substance known as sebum. This forms in crusts and scales.

Neglect is dangerous

The hair, meanwhile, seems literally to be stifled. It grows lustreless, lifeless, falls out. The scalp feels hot and itchy. If the condition is not treated promptly, eczema and baldness may follow, and often do.

At the first symptom of trouble, the fight against loose dandruff should begin. Consider Listerine's effectiveness against this condition.

If infection is present on the surface of the skin, Listerine attacks it. A powerful germicide, it kills bacteria in 15 seconds, the fastest killing time accurately recorded by science.

Listerine helps to dissolve oily crusts and quickly removes them. And Listerine quickly relieves that burning, itching sensation. It soothes inflamed or irritated areas of the scalp.

If scalp is excessively dry, a little olive oil may be used in connection with the Listerine shampoo, or independent of it. The oil aids in dissolving crusts and scales and keeps hair from drying out. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U.S.A.

An opportunity to study the new Culbertson method of contract bridge is being offered the women of Wichita Falls and adjoining towns under the sponsorship of the Woman's Forum, in a series of four weekly lessons beginning Tuesday, Sept. 15. At the conclusion of each lesson luncheon will be served.

The class which will meet at the Forum clubhouse will begin promptly at 10 o'clock. Mrs. W. E. Maxson Jr., who has made a thorough study of contract bridge under most efficient instructors and whose ability as a bridge player is well known, will teach the course. One hour's time will be devoted to lecture and an hour and a half to play, during which time Mrs. Maxson will answer any questions which the players wish to ask. Players are advised to bring note book and pencil.

At 12:30 o'clock luncheon will be served. The very nominal fee of 75 cents will cover the cost of both lesson and luncheon.

Any person interested, whether a member of the Woman's Forum or not, is eligible to take any or all of the lessons, and reservations may be made by tables or individually. Mrs. J. Truman Stevens is chairman of arrangements.

Reservations for the first lesson, which will deal with hand valuation, must be in by Monday night, and may be made with any of the following ladies: Mrs. Ernest Kirksey, 7230; Mrs. O. W. Harvey, 5956; Mrs. H. C. Langford, 2-5619; and Mrs. R. H. Peterson, 9820.

Contract bridge lessons followed by luncheon have proved very popular in other cities and it is thought that the idea will prove equally attractive to the women of Wichita Falls.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We were reading in the New Yorker last week about the industry that records one's own voice, whether it is immortalized directly in a studio, caught from a radio or what not.

Post and Gatty had their speeches at Washington caught in this way, (unknown to them) by the Speak-O-Phone company, and when they were told they might secure records, Mr. Post said, "Don't want the d—— thing." Having heard the speeches, we do not blame him.

Another possible outcome of the industry was suggested in will-making where relatives or legatees might hear the deceased reading his own will.

It is rather a remarkable thing and we have become quite enthused over it. But we feel the Speak-O-Phone company will not reach the true development of the industry until they place the machines with private parties and one may carry them around and be able to secure any voices on the little wax cylinders.

Little talk fests that were thought vivid conversation at a party in the wee small hours, for instance. How enlightening they would be to Brown and Mrs. Brown, Smith and Mrs. Smith the morning after. Thoughts as well as words are quite different when wine-let or cold sober.

Records of intimate—er-uh—misunderstandings would be worth preserving—a sort of hand writing on the wall—if the participants heard raised voices and angry arguments when not drunken with wrath.

We personally would adore hearing our young voice giving the first reading we ever gave; we remember quite well how cold perspiration broke out on us and our knees knocked and our voice shook.

Telling the worthy thoughts of some splendid writer, we were more self conscious than in this day when we are not embarassed at expressing our own small thoughts. We wonder sometimes, if it is what one calls poise one really gathers with the years.

People change their views so often that it would be a lesson in tolerance if one could hear again the talk or the lecture or the sermon he heard years ago that fully voiced his views. How different it might be now.

There are many to whom a record would be nothing but a delight. Those who love the sound of their own voices even though they express what others think of as "sounding brass and tinkling cymbal" might preserve all the talks they made and bring them out for afternoon callers just as they used to bring out the family album and at a little later date, stereopticon views. At least there would be something to talk about.

Junior Forum Opens Season By Honoring College Girls

"Overtones," the one-act play by Gerstenberg, was a dramatic success on the program given by Junior Forum members Saturday at the Forum clubhouse, honoring members who are leaving soon for school. Directed by Miss Jeannette Moore, it was a brilliant success. Parts were taken as follows: "Harriett," Jeannette Moore, and "Hettie," Harriett's other hidden self, Harriette Peterson Bass; "Mararet," Florence Harrell and "Maggie," her hidden personality, Annabelle Harrell. The play, based on the story of two women in love with the same artist of whom Margaret is the wife, was both dramatic, and when the hidden personalities spoke the real thoughts amusing. It was splendidly staged and acted.

In a talk given by Miss Elizabeth Carrigan directly preceding the play, mention was made of the drama to be studied in the junior organization in the coming year. Drama in all forms, from the very dramatic to light and humorous production will be staged, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," to be presented at the next meeting. Concerning "Overtones," Miss Carrigan said it was written before "Strange Interlude," the one act play being inspiration for the great dramatic success which followed it.

Colorful Setting

More than 135 members and guests were seated at the tables when the meeting opened. Zinnias, marigolds and brilliant autumn flowers were used in the pretty decorations and a delightful luncheon was served. Mrs. P. P. Langford, the sponsor, gave the invocation and Miss Mary Virginia Barron, president, introduced new officers and guests.

Announcement was made that the Junior Forum would give two scholarships in the Junior college and would secure aid for another girl from a different organization. Mrs. Jess McLarry was introduced as the new social service chairman and tentative plans made for her organization.

The program included a piano number, "Sequilla," by Albeniz, Miss Mary Louise Clark; a vocal quartet "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes," Roberta Lincoln, Charlotte Maer, Peggy Williamson and Ruth Tucker, with Miss Minnie Baker at the piano; an encore was given by this group. The final number preceding the one act play was a pretty oriental dance by Ruth Ferguson.

Members and guests present included Misses Lucile Fraley, Dorothy Dragon, Lucile Wilson, Lydia Cook, Edna Prechel, Helen Hanks, Armilda Jane Magee, Elizabeth and Mary Roark of Waco, Laurie Glenn Patillo, Ruth Tucker, Dorothy Johnson, Mildred Johnson, Helen Simpson, Mary C. CHILLICOTHE'S FAIR TO OPEN

Rodeo to Feature Annual Exposition

Special to The Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Sept. 13.—Chillicothe's first annual community fair will begin here Thursday morning, Sept. 17, and will last for three days, ending Saturday evening, Sept. 19. Because of the necessity of increasing the quality of agricultural crops, and realizing this the method to encourage competition, the chamber of commerce of Chillicothe, sponsor of the event, began the first steps toward its originality, later to be taken up by the directors appointed from 11 communities, and right on the eve of the first affair, the community exhibitors are anxious to get started.

From all indications the largest crowd to ever come to Chillicothe at one time will be here, and plans have been made accordingly. Aside from the agricultural exhibits, which will gain much interest, the rodeo and other entertainments carded during the fair are expected to play a great part in bringing many thousands here, coming from as far as Wichita Falls on the east and Childress on the west. The communities will be represented 100 per cent strong.

Most all features during the fair will be free from cost, with the exception of the rodeo and round-up. However, prices have been reduced for performances to the rodeo, to meet with conditions prevailing at this time. Chairman of the entertainment committee, C. L. Glazener, announced the completion of the program during the fair, which will begin at 10:30 a. m., Friday, the second day of the fair. The parade will be headed by two pioneer settlers of Hardeman county, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ayers, mounted on horses.

More than 75 cowboys will be in Chillicothe, several coming from Wilson, Okla., Granite, Okla., Bowie, Rush Springs, Okla., and many other towns to take part in the Odell Rodeo company's rodeo and roundup.

Lonnie Rooney of Wilson, Okla., who plays at Fort Worth, Cheyenne, Wyo., New York, Pendleton, Ore., will be here to participate in the events. Otis Riddle, promoter, also stated there would be several special attractions during the rodeo, giving one of them as a bareback riding exhibition. Other western scenes will be given.

Capone is free on bond awaiting trial on charges of income tax fraud and 5,000 violations of the liquor laws.

TEXAS CROPS SHOW BULGES

Fruit, Grain and Hay Show Increased Harvest

AUSTIN, Sept. 13. (UP)—Fertile fields of Texas will yield fruit, grain, hay and cotton crops this season far in excess of last year's harvest, according to a crop forecast released tonight by the state bureau of the federal department of agriculture.

Only the pear crop will fall to the production level of last year's drouth harvest, it was indicated.

Pecans, damaged 20 per cent last month by case bearers and a heavy "drop," will total 32,000,000 pounds as compared to 9,500,000 last year. Other crop conditions were about normal.

Peach orchards will yield 1,581,000 bushels as compared with 750,000 bushels last year. Pear trees will yield 338,000 bushels, below the five-year average of 431,000 bushels. Other fruit forecasts for this season were: Apples, 230,000 bushels compared with 150,000 bushels last year; grapes, 1,400 tons compared with 4,280 tons last year.

Corn crop condition was set at 70 per cent by the forecast, indicating an average yield of 23 bushels per acre and a total production of 112,203,000 bushels. Last year's production was 86,710,000 bushels.

Other predicted yields were: Tame hay, 606,000 tons; rice, 9,456,000 bushels; peanuts, 92,400,000 pounds; Irish potatoes, 5,329,000 bushels; cotton, 5,094,000 bales.

Young County Cotton Is Opening Rapidly

Special to The Record News

NEWCASTLE, Texas, Sept. 13.—The continued hot dry weather is causing the cotton in Young county to open rapidly and gathering the staple is the order of the day.

The crop has deteriorated heavily in the past 20 days and the yield will be much less than first anticipated. One-third of a bale per acre will now be counted as a good turnout. Much of the acreage will not produce one-fourth of a bale per acre.

The local gins are busy and had turned out 235 bales up to noon Saturday.

Very little of the cotton is being held.

School opens soon. Why not rent your bedroom or apartment to teachers or students? A small want ad in The Times and Record News may bring results.—Adv.

It may or may not be a wisecrack, but the other day when Junior was asked to give the birthplace of the Liberal government he replied that he was pretty sure it wasn't Scotland.

When you observe a neighbor's cellar lighted at night in these times, it's almost a safe bet that he's expecting company.

Need of a Change

THE current depression with its attendant unemployment, the Russian experiment in Communism, the international debt situation and the disarmament problem have combined to make our puzzled civilization wonder what may happen in the future. The pessimists predict chaos. The optimists see light.

Whatever the opinion may be it is evident that some of our traditional ideas must be discarded if we are to build a new American social structure, adequate to withstand the batterings of the machine age and the onrush of progress.

Our capitalistic economic scheme is criticized, because during a time of depression the common people suffer most. Communists bitterly decry it, capitalists steadfastly defend it and government, seeing no possibility of change, pushes onward with a policy backing its general set-up.

The world watches Russia. If the five-year-plan succeeds, based though it is on a kind of state capitalism, the rest of the world will necessarily be impressed. It will mean that there is something in the slogan "All for one, one for all." It will prove the communal plan is not merely an impractical idea. But it will not prove at once that the individual is happier under such a system. That will take decades.

Most clear-thinkers believe that international debts should be settled on a basis determined by the ability of nations to pay and that the millions spent for disarmament should be spent, in part at least, for other more constructive purposes.

But the significant fact is this: Although there is a world-wide depression and problems of unemployment, there is also an awareness of what confronts civilization. Men and women are thinking, suggestions are being made, plans are being formulated. So far little seems to have been accomplished. But some progress is being made. That is encouraging.

What happens in future will be determined by leaders in thought and statesmanship. If they recognize that changes must be made, that there are probably good features in systems other than our own and that the future demands that present conditions be solved with a blending of new and old ideas, then we can prove the pessimists are wrong. That is why the optimists see light penetrating the gloom of this complex world situation.

Lure of the Quest

MEN are trekking to the west again.

When the price of gold was fixed at $20 an ounce by international agreement, not long ago, hundreds of the unemployed remembered that the creek beds in the hills are said by some to hold nuggets. So they have started the old adventure. They have become placer miners who start out every morning with the hope that today they will find the precious ore. They have become weary men who come every evening, wondering if the quest is futile some days, surprised at their sudden good fortune on others.

For the first time in 40 years Montana newspapers are advertising gold-panning equipment. But the present rush is only a postscript that has been added to the long parade which rode the far trails westward in a pioneering yesterday. Then there was a buccaneering spirit of adventure. Today there is a panic-stricken urge to discover gold since no other employment doors are open.

Yesterday belongs to a romantic yarn of a new country. Today belongs to the economic chronicles of a great nation.

Yesterday men's hearts sang as they followed the dusty roads. Hope rode high as the green boughs burst into pink and white riot of flowering blossoms, or the flame shades of autumn and the white frost of a too-cold evening made them urge their horses faster. Today they go, not so much because they seek fortunes as livelihoods. Making a living is never as colorful as making an adventure.

Men took along a caravan of visions yesterday. Their wind-blown, rain-faded wagons held more than the horse-hair parlor furniture that their wives wanted to bring to the new land, the meal and bacon and ammunition. There was a lonely ecstatic joy when they swung toward the promised land, and a sharper thrill when they saw it over the ridge. The Children of Israel who roamed for 40 years before they came to Canan had felt that same fierce joy when the long road home was ended.

Perhaps a little of this old venturing spirit will come back to the modern placer miners. If it does, whether they find gold or not will not be so important. The lure of the quest, that something which reaches beyond, forever unsatisfied, will return. And that, after all, is worth more than a nugget or two.

Quotations Worth Noting

It is a striking fact, though seemingly little recognized, that the death rate in the United States has been barely holding its own since 1920, in spite of all the advances in sanitation, surgery and medicine that have taken place.—Henry Pratt Fairchild, in Survey Graphic.

Great as have been our difficulties, no man can contrast them with our experiences in previous depressions or with the condition of other great industrial countries without a glow of pride in our American system and a confidence in its future.—Herbert Hoover.

One once had the right, as an American, to live his own life as he chose, so long as he did not interfere with the rights of others—their rights, not their prejudices.—Brand Whitlock.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

You simply do not sweep letters like theirs off your desk and onto the floor or into the wicker . . . You try to dismiss them sometimes—when you realize that you have your own problems to struggle with—instead of taking on a stranger's—and catching their "blues" . . . However, sometimes their letters have tone and melody, so you start all over again and read from the beginning—and attentively . . . That letter from that Cleveland nurse, frinstance . . . Made excellent material for the column, too . . . The one I liked best was from "Miserable One" . . . There was a gal . . . It was in 1927, I think . . . Her opening stanza got me . . . "Oh, you know your Broadway?" . . . Then she proceeded to show me how little I knew about the Canyon—from a femme's angle . . . Some lad Done Her Wrong . . . They always do, it appears . . . So she quit trying to Fight The World and took The Easiest Way . . . After a teaser or so in the column I finally persuaded her to call at the office . . . So pretty she was . . . would she take a little money and go home—to the provinces and be a Good Girl? . . . I still her her laughing at me . . . She wouldn't tell her name . . . Her first name, she said, was Marilyn . . . She promised to keep in touch with me, though, and if she got too desperate, maybe she would take a little help . . . That was in 1927 . . . I've wondered and wondered about her from time to time . . . This morning the mail brought a thickly envelope . . . It contained an announcement—of a wedding . . . The groom's name didn't matter . . . The bride's first name was Marilyn . . . I wonder.

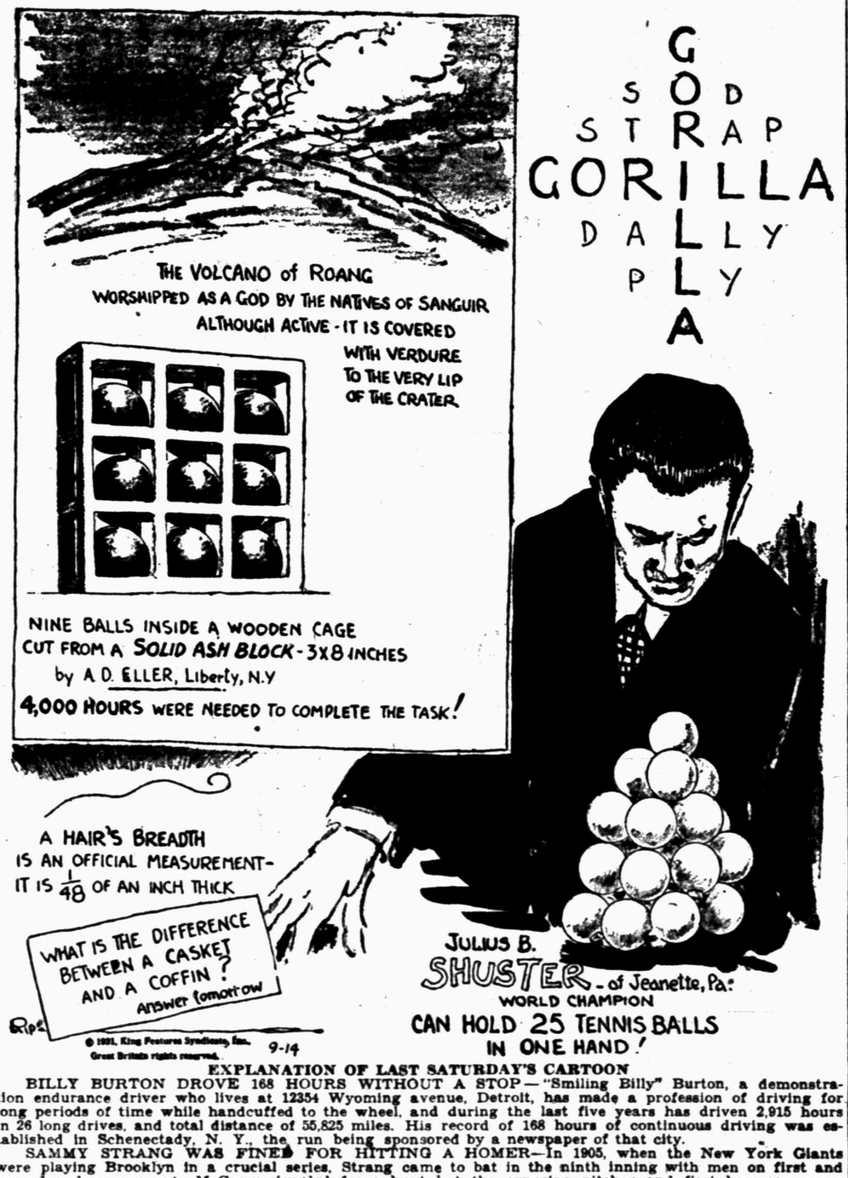

It must have been awful to witness . . . The way that gal bothered him, I mean . . . Bet she's sorry now . . . Now that he's a Somebody and is getting richer . . . And popular all over the air waves . . . They say that when he was on the coast in that cafe they had a tiff . . . And instead of letting him alone, or giving him a chance to forget his aches over her, she patronized the place every night with a different guy . . . And she sat at a ringside table, holding hands with the intruders . . . And he addressed his renowned torch songs to her—the anguish in his voice spellbinding the others who were acquainted with the feuding pair . . . Not until he had let his hair down, it appears, trying to win her back by singing his blues with genuine feeling—did he become a success . . . He always was a fair enough entertainer, they tell you, but that heartache over the estranged half made him the hit that he now is . . . The Right People happened into the cafe one night—heard his sad songs, and his contagiously dramatic delivery, and signed him at a fancy wage . . . Now what his backers are worrying about is that they might be reconciled—and if they are—it will make him too happy—and his songs won't Carry That Wallop . . . If possible they will be kept apart . . . People who are happy are so uninteresting.

Wonder if Claire Windsor and A. C. Read Jr., with whom she just returned from the coast are That Serious? . . . Golly what a bracelet that is! . . . I mean the one Jolson gave Ruby—30 square cut 5 karat diamonds! . . . Probably the result of a horse that didn't pause to take a bow! . . . Wonder what's become of Tommy Lyman since that ugly row at the 61 Club? . . . The joint bank account is all tied up and the cops won't let the spot open since the McCabe stilletoing . . . Dick Simmons and "Curley" Reynolds probably feel terrible . . . Too bad about the Eddie Conrads (Marion Eddy Morgan) who have exploded . . . Since she won the femme altitude record with an amphibian Things Haven't Been The Same . . . His new heart, that Dennison gal with the red hair, isn't the reason, but she's a good one . . . Funny crack of Frisco's—that "Three's a Crowd" was named after the business in the cabarets . . . So Marilyn Miller won't consider $1,250 in a hit show? . . . Marilyn needs a hit show . . . Things must be okie, okie with Mae Murray and her Prince considering those lengthy long distance calls . . . Gulnan probably will never sign an autograph hunter's book so long as she lives . . . At the "Follies" premiere she signed one in haste and just discovered that she signed somebody's note for $750! . . . Of course the bank is responsible, but what a racket that is! . . . If that Betty Stewart, the octoroon, captured with the Rosenhal kidnapers ever starts to talk, too many prominent white locals will get so sick.

Poor J. Brooks Atkinson, the critic for The Times . . . His blunder at the premiere of the "Follies" still pursues him . . . The five elephants in the show are so naturallooking that the critic stated in his review they were real . . . For which he has been mercilessly kidded . . . Thus in his Sabbath article on the drama he discusses the features of various entertainments and says in part: "In the 'Follies,' girls lying in a relaxed pagan pose on the tusks of those confounded elephants" . . . Heheheh . . . Can't quit thinking of that wife whose husband, trapped by a treacherous siren, confessed his sins . . . The wife comforted him and went to see the other woman . . . And in calm tones told her to do her damndest . . . The intruder was whipped and dropped her threatened suit . . . The wife figures that her man, with any conscience at all, will be punished enough, and, as a matter of fact, he is a miserable guy . . . If sinning only weren't so nice . . . Wonder if it is true that in England a divorced woman, or even a woman who gets a divorce, is not permitted to attend a race, a theater or anything to which the king and queen are invited? . . . Sounds sappy to me . . . You get the funniest teasers in your mail when you conduct a pillar of chatter . . . That very clever rhymed proverb, to-wit: "The wise old owl sat on the oak. The more he heard the less he spoke. The less he spoke the more he heard. Why can't we be like that wise bird?" . . . He wasn't so wise . . . If he was so wise he'd have a radio hookup from coast-to-coast and his stuff would appear in nearly every leading city newspaper . . . The dope!

The racketeers are not so smart . . . I mean those clever lads who have their own style of trimming the other fellow . . . One night club impresario was given a breathless call the other yawning. The voice whispered: "I've got some hot ice—just made it. I've got to beat it quick. Will you look at it?" . . . The racketeering night club man told the thief to come right over with his loot of diamonds . . . When he arrived the crook handed the prospect a stone . . . The oh-so-wise man immediately wrote his name on a piece of glass with the diamond . . . He got excited, summoned his partners and told them to buy the burgled jewels with him . . . They agreed to chip in a thousand each and buy the dozen stones . . . Then the impresario had an idea . . . "Why buy them? Why not steal them from the thief?" . . . He handed the visitor $1,000 and then drew a pistol . . . "Where did you say you were going?" growled the Broadway man . . . "Baltimore!" yelled the panic-stricken fellow . . . "Well, start running!" was the retort and the chap raced out, leaving his loot behind him . . . Hilarious laughter followed, and then they inspected their prize package . . . It was all phoney stuff . . . And it cost them $1,000! . . . The lone genuine rock was the bait used by the visitor, who was also a sleight-of-hand expert . . . If they ever catch up to him, poor fellow, it won't be healthy to go swimming in any of the local rivers for at least three months.

SAMMY STRANG WAS FINED FOR HITTING A HOMER—In 1905, when the New York Giants were playing Brooklyn in a crucial series, Strang came to bat in the ninth inning with men on first and second and no one out. McGraw signaled for a bunt but the opposing pitcher and first baseman came in so close that Strang played the unexpected and put the ball over the fence for a homer, drawing McGraw's wrath and a fine of $25. Strang, whose real name is Strang Nicklin, now lives in Chattanooga, Tenn.

THE LAST WORDS OF THE SCHOOL BOY NAPOLEON—While at school in Brienne young Napoleon was a most prolific writer. His written notes of the time embrace several thousand pages. The last words the future Emperor wrote as a school boy were "Saint Helene, petite ile," (St. Helena, little island). Did the boy have a prophetic glimpse of his future glory destined to end in his banishment and death on the very island he mentioned last?

She'll Be Nation's Social Secretary

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—There will not be a single neglectful husband in the United States if Mrs. Katherine Bleecker Meigs' plans materialize.

Nor a debutante who goes to a party without a "dingbat."

Nor a harassed dinner guest who attacks the salad with the wrong fork—

Mrs. Meigs—blond, attractive and enthusiastic—has just embarked on one of the biggest jobs a woman has ever undertaken. She is the newly appointed "social secretary" of the Postal Telegraph company and it is her task to correct America's social errors. From her desk in a Fifth avenue office Mrs. Meigs will solve etiquette problems, arrange entertainments, send flowers, supply shopping assistance, remind husbands of anniversaries—in short, shoulder all the burdens a social secretary might dispatch for any one in the country who wants this service.

There are so many possible duties involved in this new job that Mrs. Meigs admits she hasn't thought them all out yet.

She originated the idea of the department, convinced Postal Telegraph officials it was a worthwhile venture and thereby introduced an entirely new field for women in business.

To Aid Shoppers

"I started with the idea of forming a shopping service," Mrs. Meigs explains, "and the rest just developed. Having lived on the Pacific coast I know that often women in other parts of the country have errands they would like carried out in New York. Unless they have a very patient and devoted friend here to come to their rescue, these wants go unattended.

"Then I began to think that a lot of social problems could be solved from a central bureau. A woman might want to give a party and be relieved of the responsibility of organizing it. Or she might want to know exactly how to lay a table for a formal dinner. "The idea of furnishing 'dingbats' came next."

The term "dingbats" is new society slang for chaperon and it might be as well to explain here that Mrs. Meigs' name is in the New York Social Register, that her ancestors arrived in America in 1640, and that in days before the world war she was one of the first New York debutantes to abandon the butterfly whirl of society for a job involving hard work.

Her Start in Business

That first commercial venture—as her latest—was original.

"I knew a man who had written a scenario he could not sell," she said. "He wanted to produce it with his friends as actors and actresses. I'd never seen a motion picture camera, but photography had always been a hobby with me and I told him I'd make the picture.

"After it was finished we made another. Then I began doing film for commercial organizations. The second year I made a profit of $5,000—and I was proud of it!"

For the prison reform commission she made motion pictures showing the routine and living conditions of prisoners at Sing Sing, Auburn and Dannamora.

She recalls vividly one day at Sing Sing when the hundreds of prisoners were taking their recreation period in the huge yard. Mrs. Meigs (she was Katherine Bleecker then) had been doing some rush scenes, turning the camera crank herself.

A Perilous Assignment

"I looked about me," she said, "and saw all those milling convicts. Not a guard was in sight. Well, I'll admit I was frightened, but I finished the job and left."

On the strength of this motion picture experience she was employed by the Universal Film company as manager of the Broadway theater at Forty-first street and Broadway. She held this post for a year.

Mrs. Meigs still enjoys experiments in photography. On her office desk are photographs made by herself of her son, Henry, who is 10, and her daughter, Betty, who is 8. Willis Meigs, her husband, is vice president of a corporation manufacturing window frames and doors.

The Meigs home is on Staten Island and Mrs. Meigs believes it is quite as possible for a woman to combine home life and office duties as it is for a man.

Her View of Motherhood

"It seems to me children are really benefited when their mothers have interests outside the homes," she said. "I believe that explains the increased respect so many children have for their fathers, as compared with their feeling toward mothers. Being constantly with the mother, the modern boy or girl becomes bored with her."

During the next few weeks Mrs. Meigs will be organizing her staff and finding out just how the nation feels about its social problems. Her assistants will work through shopping services, entertainment bureaus and other agencies already established.

"ONE DINGBAT, PLEASE—NOT TOO OLD"

Mrs. Katherine Bleecker Meigs . . . will solve problems of etiquette, perform shopping errands of furnish chaperones for parties at a moment's notice.

Q.—Will the DO-X go on around the world or return across the Atlantic to Germany?—M. M.

A.—Present plans indicate that this gigantic airplane will return to Germany across the Atlantic.

Q.—Are there as many negroes in the North as there are in the South?—B. E.

Q.—Does an electric bulb become less efficient when old—that is, is more current used for the amount of light produced?—S. W. F.

A.—The bureau of standards says that an electric light bulb deteriorates with age and becomes less efficient, that is, it gives less light in proportion to the current consumed. Minute particles of the filament are deposited on the interior of the bulb.

Q.—Who wrote "The Heavenly Twins?"—W. S.

A.—It was written by Sarah Grand, the pseudonym of Frances E. Clarke McFall. It was published in 1893.

Great masses of dark clouds rising in form of mountains or towers.

Q.—Has the government made the Okefenokee swamp in southern Georgia a game reserve?—A. B. C.

A.—Such a bill was introduced during the term of the 71st congress. The bill did not pass, and is now in the hands of a special senate committee on wild life resources, whose special investigator is Carl D. Shoemaker. No action can be taken on this bill until the meeting of the 72nd congress in December.

Q.—Did General Johnston die from a cold contracted when he acted as pallbearer at General Sherman's funeral?—W. M.

A.—It would seem that this was not the case. According to press reports the general had been suffering for three weeks with an affection of the heart, aggravated by a cold caught soon after General Sherman's funeral in New York. The immediate cause of his death was heart failure, due more particularly to extreme old age.

Q.—What is a fulgurite?—G. H.

A.—Fulgurites are the glassy formations, sometimes called lightning tubes, due to the fusing of loose sand along the path of a lightning discharge in the earth. The inner surface is of smooth glass, while the outer consists of rough, incompletely fused particles of sand. They are found of various sizes, some of several inches in diameter, and in some cases extend more than 25 feet into the ground.

Q.—To what extent does fog interfere with shipping?—V. B. N.

A.—There are no general statistics on the subject, but a specific example that may be cited is that of a dense fog that hung for five days over the English channel. No serious accident resulted, but the time lost by vessels laid up in the Thames estuary alone was estimated to be worth five million dollars.

Familiar Foods Found in Americas

I believe that many of my readers will be very much surprised to see how many of our common foods were found upon the American continent and were unknown upon the tables of Europe before the discovery of the Americas.

Many of our most widely used foods are natives of the new world; for example, potatoes, corn, and tomatoes. Make a picture in your mind of these early explorers eagerly tasting every variety of strange and new foods found on the native Indian bill of fare, loading their return ships with samples of this and that, and imagine what a furor occurred when the voyagers unpacked these unusual delicacies and laid them before kings, queens, and other notables! Imagine how the court crowded close to the royal tables anxious to see and taste the new foods from far and distant lands!

Queen Isabella is reported to have received a sweet potato from Columbus. An intrepid explorer presented Charles V with a pineapple which the king pushed away as he was afraid to taste it.

From Virginia the potato was taken to Europe by Sir Walter Raleigh, and it was extensively grown upon his estates in Ireland, from which fact the American potato was given the name of Irish potato. The potato was probably taken to Europe even before the time of Sir Walter Raleigh by the Spaniards, as it was found growing wild in Chile where it was a native.

Capt. John Smith mentions the pumpkin, calling it by the quaint names of pumpeon and pumpion. This explorer also mentions turkeys and wrote that a better grain cannot be had than the Indian corn.

From this you can see that some of the foods which to us are quite ordinary were once considered remarkable. I am sure that you will find great interest in reading over a list of foods found in North and South America and the West Indies, and I am adding a partial list. Had these countries never been explored it is fairly certain that the European continent would never have had the following foods:

Foods familiar to all: Potato, corn, tomato, sweet potato, pineapple, avocado, Brazil nut, chocolate, coconut, hickory nut, tapioca, maple syrup, peanuts, pecans, popcorn, pumpkin, turkey, vanilla.

Foods less frequently used: Arrowroot, cashew nut, chayote, cherimoya, chinkapin, guava, nasturtium, opossum, pawpaw, prickly pear, sapodilla, sunflower seeds, tonka beans, sweet sop, sour sop, American aloe.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Kumquats and Salsify

Question — "Inquisitive" writes: "What are kumquats and salsify?"

Answer—Salsify, or vegetable oyster, is a plant grown chiefly for its root. The flavor of the cooked root somewhat resembles that of the oyster, and it may be prepared in various ways, either boiled and used hot, or cold in the salad. It is a wholesome vegetable. Kumquats are small orange-like fruits about as big as a large grape. They are slightly sour and are usually used for making preserves, although many people enjoy eating the entire fruit raw without separating the skin. It is all right to use kumquats in small quantities either raw or mixed through salads, but they should not be used with the large amount of sugar ordinarily used to preserve them.

Fainting Spells

Question—F. A. N. asks: "Will you please tell me how I can overcome fainting spells, and what causes them? I cannot have a slight pain without turning very weak and sick and unless I lie down under a fan or apply wet cloths to my head I will faint. I cannot even listen to people telling of operations without having a fainting spell which leaves me weak for a half day. Severe pain will not make me sick or faint, but slight uncomfortable pains always make me sick to the extent that I almost faint."

Answer—You may have some kind of heart trouble, or you may be over-nervous, due to wrong mental and physical training. Of course, I cannot tell you specifically what is causing your trouble without a personal consultation and examination. If you will mail me your doctor's diagnosis, I may be able to give you some helpful information regarding the diet and treatments.

SPUDDERS END SEASON WITH DOUBLE VICTORY OVER STEERS

GERKEN'S BAT WINS OPENER

16 to 11 Swatfest Follows Close 6-5 Victory

By FRED THOMPSON

The Wichita Falls Spudders ended the 1931 campaign Sunday in a swirl of base and extra base hits, pounding virtually the whole pitching staff of the Dallas Steers for a double victory, 6 to 5 and 16 to 11.

In the first game, Lester White was banged for 15 hits, but splendid fielding, and the mighty bat of George Gerken, which got mighty all of a sudden like on the last day of the season, saved the game. Gerken did no less than hit two home runs and a triple. His triple came in the ninth inning, and he scored the winning run on a timely single by Fuss. Hansen pitched for Dallas, yielding nine hits.

The second game turned out to be a comedy, and after the Spudders had scored nine runs in the last of the fifth, the game had to be called in the middle of the sixth on account of darkness. Hillin started for the Spuds but was bounced early. Pressnell finished. Whitehead, Minogue, Adkins and Murray pitched, or whatever you want to call it, for Dallas in the second game. The Spudders made 16 hits count for 16 runs, while the Steers got 13 hits, including two home runs by Cox and one by Loepp.

SEASON'S STANDING

A crowd of nearly 1,000 came out to say goodbye to the Spudder boys, most of whom had completed plans to leave Spudderville after the game.

Steers Take Lead

The Steers got off to a two-run lead in the first frame of the opening contest. Benes doubled. Cox flied to center. Loepp lined a single to center, scoring Benes, and continued to second when Garms juggled it. Langford popped to first but Jones singled, scoring Loepp. James rolled out, third to first. In their half, the Spuds went down in order.

They scored again in the second. Holman led off with a double, took third on Tesmer's sacrifice, and scored on Benes' single through the box which came after Hansen had grounded out. Cox rolled out to second to retire the side. Gerken opened the Spudder half with a home run over the center field fence. That started a five-hit barrage that gave the Spuds the lead. Bradbury followed with a single. Fuss flied to left. Scharein forced Bradbury at second, catcher to short. Euller singled, Scharein taking third. White doubled off the left field fence, scoring Scharein and Euller, and Garms brought White in with a single before Allday flied to right.

Gerken's Second Homer

The third inning was enlivened with Gerken's second home run of the day, this one sailing over the left field fence. Things rocked along until the seventh, when Dallas scored a run. Loepp led off with a single, went to third on Langford's single and scored when Jones forced Langford, short to second. James skied to center. Holman singled, Jones taking third, but Todd, batting for Tesmer, forced Holman at second.

With two out in the eighth, Cox's grounder to third took a bad hop over Euller's head for a scratch hit, and Loepp followed with a double to score Cox with the tying run. Langford popped to first. In their half, the Spuds went down in order.

With one out in the ninth, James was given a pass, but Holman flied to left and James was thrown out stealing. The Spuds then proceeded to win the game. Gerken tripled against the left center field boards. Bradbury was purposely walked, and Fuss lined a single through short, scoring Gerken with the winning tally.

Second Game

The second game opened like the first, with the Steers taking the lead. With one out in the opening frame, Cox socked one over the left center field wall. Loepp walked but was forced at second by Langford and Jones rolled out, pitcher to first. The Spuds came back in their half to tie it up. Garms walked, took second on Allday's sacrifice, and scored on Badgro's single to left. Gerken fanned and Bradbury skied to right.

The Steers took a comfortable lead in the second, however, bouncing Hillin out. James and Holman led off with singles through short, and advanced on Todd's sacrifice. Whitehead singled to center, scoring James, Holman taking third. Benes doubled to center, scoring Holman and advancing Whitehead to third, but was thrown out when he over-ran second, center to short to second. Cox Singled to left, scoring Whitehead. Loepp singled to right, sending Cox to third, and Pressnell relieved Hillin. Langford's fly to shallow right fell for a double, scoring Cox and advancing Loepp to third. Jones fanned to retire the side.

Spuds Score Pair

The Spuds scored twice in their half of the second. Fuss singled but was forced at second by Scharein. A walk to Euller and a single by Pressnell loaded the bases. Garms beat out an infield hit to second, scoring Scharein, and Euller also scored when Cox dropped the throw from second. Allday grounded out, pitcher to first, and Garms was trapped between first and second to retire the side.

In the third the Spuds scored two more to tie the score. Badgro doubled to left. The next two batters went out, but Fuss doubled to center, scoring Badgro. Scharein doubled down the right field foul line to score Fuss. Euller rolled out, pitcher to first.

In the fourth the Steers went down in order. Pressnell opened the home half by bouncing a double off the shortstop's glove, and Minogue replaced Whitehead on the mound. Garms walked, but Pressnell went to sleep off second and was thrown out, catcher to short. Allday singled to center, Garms taking third, and took second on the throw-in. Badgro singled to center, scoring Garms and Allday to put the Spudders ahead. Gerken flied to center, and Bradbury skied to right.

Steers Ahead Again

The Steers came right back in the fifth to score three times and again grab the lead. Loepp was hit and Langford walked. Jones flied to center. James flied to right, Loepp taking third after the catch. Holman doubled to left, scoring Loepp and Langford. Todd followed with a double that scored Holman, but overslid second and was thrown out. Todd hurt his ankle in the slide and was forced to leave the game when the last of the fifth started. Tesmer replaced him.

The last of the fifth was a wild affair, and the Steers didn't keep the lead long. Fuss and Scharein singled and Euller walked to load the bases. Pressnell walked, forcing in Fuss, and Garms walked, forcing in Scharein. Allday hit to left, the ball bouncing into the grandstand, which, under ground rules, went for a double. Euller and Pressnell scored and Garms was allowed third on the hit. Adkins relieved Minogue and Badgro doubled to center, scoring Garms and Allday. Gerken flied to right for the first out. Bradbury and Fuss walked, loading the bases. Scharein singled to left, scoring Badgro and Bradbury, Fuss taking second. Murray relieved Adkins and Euller singled to left, scoring Fuss. Pressnell fanned and Garms fouled out to third to finally get the side out after nine runs had been scored.

Two Homers

Murray fouled out to the catcher to start the sixth. Benes doubled to center. Cox hit a home run over the left field fence, scoring Benes and himself, and Loepp hit another home run over the left field fence. Langford fanned and Jones flied to right. The game was then called on account of darkness, with the score 16 to 11 in favor of Wichita Falls.

McCarty Chosen Tennis Mentor

Tom McCarty, recently employed teacher and band director of the Wichita Falls High school, has been chosen to coach high school tennis, according to H. D. Fillers, superintendent of city schools.

McCarty has been city champion for the past few years and was winner of the West Texas tournament recently.

McCarty, along with his teaching and coaching, will direct a band for the football games. The Lions club band has played at the football games the last few years, but a band directed at the school and composed of students will greatly add to the enthusiasm of the students, officials said.

The local high school has many capable netters within its doors, but the lack of interest in the sport has failed to uncover many good candidates. Along with Rufus King, runner up in the district meet for the last two years, there is H. R. Hanks, runner up in the school tourney last season and King's partner at doubles, Steve Powers, Albert Biedenharn, Bruce Benton, and Neville Howell. All of these men will make good material for a championship team in 1932.

FOUR WAY WINS

Prince Hurls Mates to Twilight League Pennant

Behind the masterful pitching of Carl Prince, the Four Way Filling Station baseball club of the Twilight league, won the league flag in the first year of the organization by winning both ends of a double-header Sunday at Katy Park over Meyers Grocery, 3-0 and 6-3. The youthful Prince gave up only nine hits while for the first 15 innings he hurled shut-out ball, weakening in the seventh inning of the second game to allow the only three runs made off him. Prince bested Charley Huggins in the first game, then defeated Willard Hillin in the second, giving up only four hits in the first game and five in the nightcap. Charley Huggins lost a hard-luck battle in the opener, allowing only one hit while he whiffed 12 of the champions.

COUPER IN SEMI-FINALS

Golfers Urged to Finish Matches Early

Fred T. Couper Jr., capable golfer of the Country Club links, earned a sensational victory over Ed Fizer, 2 and 1, to make his debut into the semi-final round of all-city men's golf tourney on the Weeks Park course Sunday. Couper was the first contestant to reach the semi-final round.

This was the only match in the championship round played Sunday. Although Couper did not shoot sensational golf, he made excellent shots when he needed to cut down on his strokes.

T. P. Duncan defeated L. A. Reid 1 up and E. L. Witty won over M. L. Strouthers 2 and 1 to make their entrance into the semi-finals of the second flight.

With the exception of the match between L. T. (Bobby) Burns and George Putty, delayed while Burns was engaged in the tournament at San Angelo, the tournament is going off per scheduled. All flights have finished the first round with the exception of this one match. Burns is expected to return to the city Monday.

Since both the quarter-finals and the semi-finals must be played this week, Bill Strachan, professional of the Weeks Park course, is urging the contestants to play their matches early. The finals will be played early next week so as to have the tourney completed before the opening of the Country Club invitation tournament on the 23rd.

DANIEL TELLS CHARITY NEED

Kay Bible Class Urged to Support Chest

Loyalty to the 1931 community chest was urged by Roy J. Daniel, teacher of the Kay Bible class of the First Methodist church, in his discussion of the assigned Sunday school lesson Sunday morning.

The chest offers an opportunity for direct service to the needy in this community, Mr. Daniel pointed out, and will require for success this year the support of every Wichita Falls resident who has an income.

Mr. Daniel's talk in part was as follows:

"As Paul and Barnabas went into the city of Lystra they saw a crippled man—a man whose feet had been deformed from his birth. The crippled man's faith was so great that Paul healed him by commanding in a loud voice, 'Stand upon your feet.' The people of Lystra were worshippers of the Greek gods. Seeing the miracle they believed that Paul and Barnabas were gods who had come from the top of Mount Olympus to visit with them in their fair city. Since Barnabas wore a beard and was the more dignified of the two they thought he was Jupiter, king of the gods. They took Paul to be Mercury, the messenger of the gods, since he was the spokesman who had commanded the lame man to stand upon his feet. Word of the miracle was carried to the priest of the heathen temple, and he ordered the sacred oxen and garlands to be placed in readiness for sacrifice to Paul and Barnabas. The people of Lystra spoke a corrupted form of Greek, and the result was that at first Paul and Barnabas did not realize or make out what was going on. But when they realized that they were going to be worshipped as Greek gods and that sacrifices were going to be made to them in heathen fashion, they ran among the people trying to explain to them that they were simply men like unto themselves, and begged them to go no farther with the hated and heathen ceremonies. Paul and Barnabas even tore their clothes and pleaded with the wild populace. They told the people they had come to tell them about the one and only true and living God. Then there came on the scene some Jews from Antioch and Iconium—the same Jews who had caused Paul and Barnabas so much trouble in Antioch—and they incited the people of Lystra against the two missionaries. No longer looking upon them as Jupiter and Mercury, they began to pelt them with stones. They did so much damage to Paul that he fell exhausted to the ground and they left him for dead. But Paul was not killed—he was only stunned. After a while he came to and with his companion Barnabas he returned through Iconium to Antioch.

"The poet Shakespeare wrote: 'To thine ownself be true, and it must follow as the night the day, thou cannot then be false to any man.'

False Gods

"In that situation at Lystra, Paul was true to himself and to his God. He could have permitted the people to make a god of him and could have received at their heathen hands worship and exaltation to the top of the sacred Mount of Olympus. But he could not be false to them and at the same time be true to himself. He knew he was no god. He knew that he was simply a man who sought to bring to them the story of the living God and tidings of great joy. So rather than to appear somebody or something he was not Pau. suffered persecution and stoning at the hands of the people of Lystra. Of course the worship of heathen gods was an abomination to Paul, and it was his job to try to turn the people of Lystra from that worship to the worship of the true and living God. God did not mark up on Paul's service record that he failed. He marked up on his record that he tried. 'When the Great Recorder tallies up the score of life He does not record whether we won or lost, but He records how we played the game.'

"One trouble with the world today is that on every hand there are so many false gods calling us to worship and calling us away from the true God. There is the god of money. There is the god of pleasure. There is the god of selfishness. But let us turn from these false gods and turn toward the light of the true God that Paul sought to bring to the people of Lystra. Let us turn to the God of our fathers. Let us worship the God who made the heavens and the earth. Let us give obedience to the God who gives us day for work and the night for rest. Let us bend the knee to the God who sends the sunshine and the rain, who gives us the seasons, who made the dry land and the deep blue sea, and who created man in His own likeness, far above the animals of the earth and a little lower than the angels. Remember that in the dim dark unknown stands God keeping watch above His own. Remember 'God's in His heaven, all's right with the world.' When the false gods call to us let us bear in mind the words of the poet and beware: 'Where lives the man who has not tried; how pleasure can into folly glide, and folly into sin?'

Community Chest

"At the present time Wichita Falls is having the opportunity to be true to herself in the community chest campaign. The budget has been submitted after much hard work on the part of Mr. Basham and Walter Cline and their co-workers. The budget calls for $2,400 for the Boy Scouts; $1,200 for the Camp Fire Girls; $3,268 for Children's Aid society; $12,000 for commissary account; $2,300 for colored day nursery; $6,629 for day nursery; $12,117 for family relief; $9,088 for Salvation Army; $1,500 for Travelers Aid society; $3,000 for Y. W. C. A.; $2,419 for executive office; $4,000 for campaign expense; a total of $59,921. This budget is $6,074 less than the budget for last year. It is to be noted that a new department has been created, that of a commissary to be maintained in the Memorial auditorium. Food is to be stored there and will be issued upon orders from the Family Relief society and Salvation Army. It was my privilege to serve as chairman of the local American Legion sick and relief committee the past winer, and in that place of service I saw much suffering among the worthy people of Wichita Falls, and I believe that the establishment of the commissary in the Memorial auditorium is a step that will make unnecessary bread lines and soup lines in our city next winter. It is to be regretted that our character-building organizations had to be cut to the bone, and in these times of stress those organizations are to be praised for their spirit in being willing to maintain practically skeleton organizations until conditions improve. It is the duty of every one of us in Wichita Falls to do all in our power to put over the community chest drive. Let each and every one of us inject into our jaded bodies that all-conquering spirit of the days of the world war, and 'give until it hurts.' Let us remember that we are our brothers' keepers. Let us be able to send out to the world the good news that Wichita Falls is true to herself and will never be false to her highest calling."

Baby Chicks Presented to Farmers By Childress Bank Yield Big Profit

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Sept. 13.—One hundred and fifty-nine Childress county farmers report an average of $10.07 on day old chicks furnished the farmers by the City National bank of this city last spring. The farmers agreed to pay six cents each for the chicks supplied. The cost was estimated at feed six cents per chick, labor at four cents per chick, fuel 50 cents for each farmer. The interest was 50 cents.

Thirty-nine farmers have made detailed reports of the results. Three report a loss, three report a profit of up to $5, five a profit of from $5 to $10, eight a profit of $10 to $15, and eight a profit of over $15. The pullets now on hand and beginning to lay are valued at 60 cents for the larger breeds and 50 cents for the smaller breeds. Fryers were sold by the farmers, the heavies at 40 cents and the lights at 30 cents each.

The farmers are now supplied with flocks of pure bred chickens, and will be in a position to raise a large number of chicks next season. The officials of the City National bank are well pleased with the results of their assistance to the farmers, who were unable to purchase chicks last spring.

V. E. Hafner, county agent, who had charge of the work, is of the opinion similar offers will be extended other farmers of the county next spring, possibly a little earlier. This will be done to assist the farmers in producing more poultry and poultry products.

MARTIN TALKS ON HEALING

Help Needed in Spiritual Things, Class Told

Institutions designed to relieve the physical ailments to which human bodies are subject were extolled by Judge P. A. Martin in an address Sunday morning before members of the Floral Heights Methodist church men's Bible class.

Speaking upon the healing of a lifetime invalid at Lystra by the apostles, Paul and Barnabas, Judge Martin declared that "the Christian spirit has done great things for the underprivileged, but we need to do a great deal more for them in the realm of things spiritual also."

The speaker's address in part was as follows:

"Still touching the high spots of Paul's first missionary journey, we find the great apostle and his companion, Barnabas, at Lystra, a city in Galacia, that part of the province called Lycaonia. Here it seems they found no Jewish synagogue in which to preach. This, however, was but a minor obstacle to St. Paul. He began to proclaim the gospel to the people, doubtless in the Greek tongue, with which they were familiar as wells their hearers. There is no doubt that the Apostle Paul was a master of three languages, the Hebrew, the Greek and the Latin, but it is evident that he did not understand the native tongue of the Lycaonians.

Crippled for Life

"'And there sat at Lystra, a certain man, impotent in his feet, being a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked.' His age is not given, but he was a man grown. His childhood and youth had passed with the passing of the years. Other children had played their games around him, while he sat and looked on, unable to join in their merriment. Youth came along with is allurements to the young. Joyous groups of younk folk went to their parties and picnics and enjoyed their sports and their dances, while he sat and looked on, utterly unable to join any of them. Then there came a time when young men and maidens passed by, whispering words of love perhaps, on their way to the markets, to the festivals and the amusements and laying their plans for a life of married bliss. He sat and watched them with wistful eye. Love and life were not for him. These withered, impotent feet could never take him to the marriage altar. He could never go anywhere, except when some kindly souls lifted and carried him about, and so he had grown to manhood. His people believed in the gods of ancient Greece, Jupiter, Mercury, Mars, Venus, Neptune, and all the stars of heaven and we can well imagine that as the dragging years went by, he spent many weary hours praying to them, the only gods he knew, for relief from his condition. But the religion of his people offered no hope, no consolation. In fact, if he had lived somewhat earlier, in Sparta, he would have been killed in childhood, just as soon as his infirmity was known, for they had a law calling for the death of all who were not able-bodied citizens of the state. But here in Lystra he lived to manhood a hopeless cripple, probably existing upon the alms of passers-by.

"But under his rags and dirt and dust and out of his misery and hopelessness and his bitter experiences he had developed a quality which is all too rare in the world, not only in the days of Paul, but even in this day and in all intervening time. He had developed a mind capable of grasping the truth, if it ever came his way. He heard Paul preach about God and the riches of His kingdom; of Christ and His power to save 'to the uttermost.' Paul, looking steadfastly upor him, perceived the light of a new faith, the brightness of his first great hope, beaming from his eyse. Then in a loud voice the apostle called out to him:

"'Stand upright on thy feet!' And the cripple leaped and walked, a well man, a cured man, a man able to enter the arena of life and do his part. We hear no more about the Lystran cripple. But we may well imagine that after his miraculous cure he was always a devoted follower of Christ.

"The effect upon the people of Lystra was electric. They at once jumped to the rather natural conclusion that Paul and Barnabas were gods in the form of men, so they set about to worship them; but the apostles, horrified by their preparations to make sacrifices to them, ran into the crowd, rending their clothes and assuring them that they were but men of like passions with them and with great difficulty they restrained the Lystrans from making sacrifice to them.

"And yet, in a short time some Jews from other cities came along and persuaded the Lystrans to mob Paul, so they stoned him, dragged him out of the city and left him for dead. The disciples followed to the dumping ground where they had left his body and, as they stood around he arose and went back into the city with them and left with Barnabas for Derbe the next day. God had other work for Paul to do.

"I am not prepared to say that a man in this day can be cured by faith, as was this cripple, though many thousands of good people believe in such cures; but I do say that Christianity has furnished the world with institutions where such deformity can be successfully treated in early life by skilled surgeons and such conditions either cured or greatly relieved. It has also furnished institutions where the halt, the lame and the blind find a place of rest and recreation.

"The Christian spirit has done great things for the underprivileged; but 'the field is white unto the harvest' even now. Crippled in mind, in spirit, in heart, the ranks of the underprivileged is being recruited day by day. I wish every citizen of our fair city could have witnessed a scene in the 89th courtroom only yesterday. A man came before me pleading guilty of the crime of burglary; he had entered a residence and stolen some of its contents; when asked why he did it, great tears ran down his cheeks as he said, 'I had been out of work for seven months and my wife and children were hungry.' I don't know whether he told the truth or not, but I gave him the lowest term I could. I would have suspended his sentence if I could have legally done so.

"But I thought that perhaps if he had received some encouragement at the proper time; if some good man had bidden him to 'stand upright on thy feet,' and had given him a chance to make a living this thing might not have happened."

Wichita Faces Challenge in Matching Chest Funds of Other Texas Cities

That Wichita Falls faces a challenge in the financing of its 1931 Community Chest not only from the standpoint of the present emergency but from that of pride in local success, is evidenced by a survey of chest campaign results in other Texas cities.

"Other Texas cities are demonstrating that they are ready to care for their own during this period when there is so much suffering and the needs of our unfortunate people are so great," stated Walter D. Cline in making the survey public.

"Eight Texas cities which are included in the survey show total increased subscriptions over last year of $223,931, these communities having raised $1,656,577 in 1930 and $1,880,508 in 1931."

The tabulation of the cities surveyed follows:

City—	Raised 1930	Raised 1931
Beaumont	$113,828	$134,457
Dallas	450,000	583,953
El Paso	145,000	152,064
Fort Worth	256,641	277,645
Houston	522,463	525,300
Port Arthur	55,000	82,533
San Angelo	28,860	28,000
Waco	84,785	96,556

Problems Common

It was pointed out that the cities surveyed have problems common to those faced by Wichita Falls in the financing of the current chest campaign. Each was faced with the task of raising its fund from a smaller group of potential givers than ever before, leaders of the local movement say.

They point out that success was attained only through more liberal participation of every resident with an income.

That an oversubscription in the current chest campaign should be a matter of concern to every resident is the feeling prevailing among volunteer workers already backing the movement with their service for the period of the campaign.

"Wichita Falls has held her head high among Texas cities all through the years," said J. H. S. Bonner, colonel of the general soliciting organization. "She has succeeded in civic projects where others have failed. We cannot let one of the greatest emergencies of our history prove an exception to the rule."

It was announced from campaign headquarters that 232 cities of the nation reporting recent compaigns have averaged an increased subscription over last year of 7.6 per cent and have subscribed 99.2 per cent of their total campaign goals. These 232 cities raised a total of $69,088,826 in 1930. Their combined goal in 1931 was $74,908,176 and they raised a total of $74,312,107.

Final preparations leading up to the official launching of the campaign Sept. 21 will occupy the time of campaign leaders and workers during the coming week.

YOU see him in the center of a craning crowd. His counter is an upturned box. With nervous gestures, and one eye on the cop at the corner, he dispenses his wares. Perhaps . . . on an impulse . . . you buy.

Next week, when you return to get your money back—as he so confidently promised—you find your sidewalk salesman has moved to fresher fields.

You will find many familiar names among the advertisements in this newspaper. Their messages carry no extravagant claims. They tell you the truth about the products which they feature. They are as dependable as an old friend.
