Call to Kemp ends waiting VP choice made Friday

By SANDRA SOBIERAJ
Associated Press Writer
RUSSELL, Kan. (AP) - The mystery solved, Republican presidential candidate Bob Dole hoped to debut the Dole-Kemp ticket with a red, white and blue rally at the rural courthouse where his political career began.

But a drenching rain threatened to move the festivities to a covered exposition hall at the fairgrounds.
Dole emerged from his house this morning briefly to look up at the sky as he awaited the arrival of former housing secretary and New York congressman Jack Kemp.

Dole had hoped to keep his choice of vice presidential running mate a surprise until today's event. But even as American flags were being stationed Friday along Main Street for today's formal announcement, GOP activists were voicing enthusiasm about the selection of Kemp, a sometime Dole antagonist.

Kemp arrived at a small airport about 35 miles from here early today and spent the night at a motel in Great Bend.

Nelson Warfield, Dole's press secretary, said that the former Senate majority leader reviewed newspaper clips this morning announcing his Board to consider salaries, contracts

The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees are set to tackle a number of issues when they meet in regular session on Monday.
The board meeting will be held at 6 p.m. in the school board room, 601
N. 25 Mile Avenue.

The meeting agenda released Friday shows trustees will be asked to take action of some sort on salary increases for paraprofessionals and administrators, on extension of contracts for Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt and his administrators, and the salary of the superintendent.

Another item facing the board is the appointment of a trustee to fill the vacant District 1 seat abandoned last month by Cherry McWhorter, who moved from Hereford.

Of the remaining four action items facing the board, one is a "no pass, no play" exemption for advanced classes, one is a waiver application for ED-FLEX and one is a waiver request for the high school dealing with the Algebra I-4 class.

Trustees also will be asked to vote on a policy change affecting student schedules.

Two employee complaints -- by Mary Ontiveros and Nevelena Mendez -- will be held immediately preceding the action agenda.

There are two items on the discussion agenda -- a personnel attendance incentive program and the district's expenses relating to the Hereford Aquatic Center.

The only information agenda item is Update 51, which is a package of policy updates sent to the district by the Texas Association of School Boards and which relates to local policy changes needed in the wake of legislative decisions.

Other items to be handled at the meeting Monday are reports from Greenawalt and his assistants, as well as regular business such as communications and public comments.

The meeting is open to the public.

STANTON LEARNING CENTER ADDRESSES wide VARIETY of EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

By SHERRI MARTIN
Staff Writer

With programs ranging from alternative education to accelerated teaching, Stanton Learning Center provides a diverse environment for children ages 3 through 19.

"We are probably one of the most -- if not the most -- diverse school in the system," Principal Susan Robbins said.

Stanton Learning Center, formerly Stanton Junior High, provides eight programs for students in the Hereford Independent School District.

SOAR High (Step Out and Reach High) is an alternative program designed for junior and senior high school students who are not successful on their home campuses.

It provides a positive alternative, Mrs. Robbins said, for students who want to achieve.

Through commercially designed packets, the program offers core subjects of English, biology, physical science, algebra, geometry, math of money, TAAS Math, TAAS Reading and U.S.
History.

SOAR students must go to Hereford High School for electives.

"I think it's good because they have to get along," Mrs. Robbins said.

"When they're at the high school, they have a responsibility to this program. If they want this program to work, then they have to take responsibility to do what they need to do when they're not here," she said.

This year, for the first time,
Stanton will offer an Advanced Child Development class.
Students may elect to take this class or continue to take electives

Dissecting action

at the high school.

"Our students like being here.
I think part of the reason is, after they come, they adjust. There's not as much need to prove themselves to other kids or peers."

Prime Time is a mandatory placement disciplinary program.

Mrs. Robbins said children in grades 4 through 12 may be assigned to the Prime Time unit following a third-party hearing conducted at the district administration building.

Prime Time is an off-campus center so students can continue their school work while being disciplined by the district.

The Deaf Smith County Youth
Home program -- overseen by Mrs.
Robbins -- is designed to educate students ages 10-17 who are placed in the home through the county juvenile judicial system.

The home is a 12-bed, 24-hour detention, which is operated by the county juvenile probation office.

A regular school day is provided by teacher Rick Jackson for young people confined in the home.

In-school GED -- General

Equivalency Diploma -- is a pilot program for students who otherwise would not finish high school.

Students must be at least 16 to enroll in the program, but may not take the GED test until their 17, unless there is a court order.

"I don't want to track somebody in the GED program if there's any chance that they might stay in school and get that diploma," she said.

Stanton requires students to take a practice test before the actual GED exam.

Students cannot take the GED, Mrs. Robbins said, without the school's permission.

"If you want us to pay for it, you'll have to wait until we believe you're ready," she said.

The PPCD special education program is designed for students, ages 3 through 5 with learning

Smith County students is just a week away, as classes in Helping out

Northwest Primary School student Jake Sturgeon in the school's HOSTS program. Batterman has volunteered as a mentor in the program since it began, never missing a day of work and mentoring as many as five students.

By SHERRI MARTIN
Staff Writer

Last winter, icy weather forced cancellation of classes in the Northwest Primary School HOSTS program.

Community volunteers were called and told they did not need to report for their regular mentoring sessions.

Helmi Batterman could not be reached.

"I looked up and there she was,"
Northwest HOSTS teacher Doris Cagle recalled.

Batterman had walked through the ice and snow to fulfill her responsibility as a mentor to five young students who are enrolled in the program.

"It doesn't matter if it is cold, icy and snowing, Helmi's always there," Mrs. Cagle said.

"There is no reason not to be there," Batterman said.

And she has never missed a day of tutoring since the program started three years ago.

HOSTS -- Help One Student To Succeed -- is a language arts program that uses adult mentors to help at-risk students. A similar language arts HOSTS program operates at West Central Intermediate School, while HOSTS math classes are offered at Bluebonnet Intermediate and Hereford Junior High, although mentors are not used at HJH.

This year, a bilingual HOSTS class will be introduced at Northwest and one other campus.

Mrs. Cagle said HOSTS pairs a student who needs help learning to read at grade level with a community volunteer who serves as mentor.

For many students, she said, learning requires more than the typical classroom setting can provide.

Students who, for a number of reasons, have fallen behind their peers in reading skills need more individual attention than is possible in the classroom setting.

It provides one-to-one contact, she said, which results in students learning faster and becoming selfreliant.

"Unlike teachers with more than 20 students in a class, mentors work one-to-one with the student," Batterman said.

Since starting the HOSTS program, Cagle has seen students grades and self-image increase and absenteeism and discipline referrals decrease.

A benefit to the student is the increase in self-confidence through developing a relationship with the mentor.

"If you think you can do something, you can do it," Cagle said.
"And that's as important as anything else."

The HOSTS program is equally beneficial to the mentors.

For Batterman, her students have taught her computer skills.

"I was computer illiterate. The students have taught me so much about computers and more," she said.

Cagle said several mentors feel that the HOSTS program is a chance for them to give something to the school system that has educated them and their children.

A mentor's role is to work with an individual student for 30 minutes per week on reading and vocabulary skills. Teachers provide the materials and activities for the student.

Every Monday morning, -
Batterman leaves her home on Beach Street and walks around the block to Northwest for her tutoring sessions.

When she started, she was a mentor to two students. Last year, she tutored five students in reading.

"She's here at 8:30 a.m. and doesn't leave until almost noon," Cagle said.

"It's not that much to give one hour a week. I wish there was more time," Batterman said.

She often provides feedback to the Care urged around school zones, kids

We've all heard the saying "Kids say the darndest things." Well kids do the darndest things, especially around school zones.

With school starting up again, now is the time for drivers to start thinking about the dangers this presents.

Whether you drive through school zones once a year or work there every day, you can never forget certain lessons.

One is that you have to use better judgment than the small children who surround you, said Trooper Wayne Beighle, public information officer for the Texas Department of Public Safety in Amarillo.

"It's important to remember that kids aren't small adults, and they don't think like adults. They lack experience with traffic, and they don't always act logically. When you sound your horn, for instance, a child may think it's OK to cross the street in front of your vehicle," Beighle said.

Children also have limited perceptual skills. They sometimes cannot tell if your vehicle is in motion or stopped and they cannot accurately judge the speed and distance of vehicles, or detect safe gaps in traffic.

"Elementary school-aged children often aren't tall enough to be seen on the other side of a parked car, or as they move between vehicles to cross the street when they're getting picked up. School zones are not the time to light a cigarette or call the office on your car phone," Beighle said.

The key is to see children in time to avoid a collision. Search for curb to curb for kids who could enter your path. Everyone who enters the roadway is vulnerable to injury, but children on foot are even more at risk.

Many times the children probably have their minds on school, not on the vehicles moving around them.

This means, Beighle said, it is your job to be even more aware of what is going on around you. Since it is hard to predict kids' actions near school, try to avoid these areas. Reroute your trip if possible, to avoid peak drop-off and pick-up times and to avoid getting stuck behind a school bus.

If you can't avoid driving through a school zone, the best strategy is to slow down and stay alert. It's up to us to keep kids alive and safe.

Wedding information must be submitted by 5 p.m. Monday to be included in the next Sunday Brand. Wedding information forms, as well as those for engagements and showers, are available at the news office, 313 N. Lee.

GOP likes Dole's choice

By CALVIN WOODWARD
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) - A jolt of enthusiasm ran through Republicans swarming to this convention city with Bob Dole's choice of a running mate. "Jack Kemp, like few others I know, can truly electrify," a GOP leader said.

Party members hailed the former housing secretary's vigor and years of effort to expand the Republican base while preaching the tax-cutting mantra as an inspired mix for the campaign.

"With this decision, Bob Dole just made Bill Clinton's vacation a little less restful," exulted House Majority Leader Dick Armey of Texas.

Kemp's past differences with Dole and his sometimes erratic relationship with the party were brushed aside in the first blush of excitement around the country. Even a prominent Democrat called the pick a bold stroke.

Kemp "makes the tax cut argument for them better than Dole can make it," former New York Gov. Mario Cuomo said. Citing Kemp's energy and credibility with minorities, Cuomo said: "You put that all together and it's formidable."

But Sen. Christopher Dodd of Connecticut, general chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was quick to signal a line of attack in portraying Kemp as lax on balancing the budget. "He's had a long record of opposing deficit reduction, and so that's a critical issue," Dodd said.

The Clinton campaign cited Kemp's voting record against abortion rights as a New York congressman along with weakness on deficit cutting. His record "is out of the mainstream," spokeswoman Ann Lewis said.

Some of the activists who won strong pro-life and religious conservative language in the GOP platform were slower to be heard from.

Ralph Reed of the Christian Coalition was guarded, saying his group had hoped for a running mate who was anti-abortion, for term limits and for tax relief. "Jack Kemp fulfills many of those things," he said.

From the top ranks of the party to the state activists swarming to San Diego as delegates to the convention that opens Monday, there was hope Kemp would boost Dole's lagging campaign.

"Jack Kemp, like few others I know, can truly electrify the American people with his unbounded enthusiasm," Armey said.

"His form of conservatism is really the type of conservatism that average people live their life by," said David Spence, a delegate from Arizona.

Kemp is considered anti-abortion but a bridging figure in the party on that and other issues, said Ann Stone of Republicans for Choice.

Last year, the group's members named Kemp their No. 3 pick for presidential candidate behind abortions-rights Republicans, retired Gen. Colin Powell and Massachusetts Gov. William Weld.

Kemp "reaches to constituents Republicans usually ignore - minorities, ethnics and union members," Stone said. "He's not in a box. He reaches out, and pro-choice people like that."

Florida Sen. Connie Mack, who also was said to be on Dole's short list, said Kemp would be a "great spokesman" for Dole's economic and tax-cut plan.

"Jack Kemp is the ideal choice," said Michigan Gov. John Engler, another finalist.

Dole, during a Senate career that stressed the need to balance the budget, was at odds with Kemp's forceful advocacy of tax cuts as the main engine of growth.

House Speaker Newt Gingrich said: "He was, with Ronald Reagan, the original advocate of a big tax-cut program. ... I know of no one who has been in more places in America preaching the concept of opportunity than Jack Kemp."

disabilities.

At Stanton, Mrs. Robbins said, the program works with students who have mild disabilities such as speech or physical problems, up to severely disabled individuals who are blind or in poor overall physical condition.

Stanton offers two units of half-day instruction programs.

The Gifted and Talented program is only available to students who meet district criteria and are identified through a special testing procedure.

First graders participate in G/T on their home campuses, while second-through sixth-graders are bused to Stanton once a week.

The 4-year-old Pre-Kindergarten program is designed for economically disadvantaged children and/or those with limited English language.

It is a half-day instruction program, with morning and afternoon classes based on the Stanton campus.

Mrs. Robbins said there is a waiting list for students who want to enroll in the program.

"I really encourage parents, if they're not going to send their 4-year-olds, to let us put someone else in their slot," she said.

"It is a wonderful program. I want parents to bring their children every day. If not, the children miss out on a lot of activities."

In the P-3 program, teachers make home visits and work with qualified 3-year-olds and their parents to prepare them for pre-kindergarten the next year.

Once a month, Robbins said, the teachers offer parenting classes at Stanton, during which the P-3 teachers hold parenting programs and "make-it-and-take-it" sessions where parents are taught how to make inexpensive, educational toys and activities. Parents also are provided with patterns for all activities.

"It is a delight to go into some of these homes and see what there doing with these 3-year-olds," she said.

Robbins credited the teachers and students involved in Stanton's programs for their success.

"I have probably one of the best faculties in the system," she said.

Linda McClain, the SOAR English teacher, was selected as the district's secondary teacher of the year this past spring.

Robbins said the students, especially those with previous discipline problems on their home campuses, don't seem to have as many problems at Stanton.

"These kids are funny; they have a good sense of humor and they're bright. A lot of times, they don't let people see the other side of them, especially in groups, because they think they have to perform," she said.

"It has worked very well," she said, to have students ranging in age from 3 to 19 on the same campus.

The teachers and students -- Pre-K to SOAR -- are very cooperative, she said, and have come to enjoy all different ages of students on the same campus.

"We see the whole spectrum of how kids grow and how parents parent," she said.

selection of Kemp. He said Dole was pleased with the coverage of his decision and particularly "impressed that (former New York Gov.) Mario Cuomo had called the choice formidable."

Campaign sources said Dole made the offer - and Kemp accepted - in a 15-minute telephone call late Friday night. The pair planned to meet at Dole's boyhood home before the rally and a triumphant entrance at the GOP's San Diego convention site on Sunday.

"We've got a veep ... the curtain goes up on the drama of taking the White House back from Bill Clinton," spokesman Nelson Warfield said after Dole placed the call from his living room.

"I can't tell you who the other party was, but I can tell you he was extremely enthusiastic. You could hear him through the phone."

But two sources familiar with the conversation told The Associated Press that Kemp was Dole's choice, ending a months-long review in which Dole sifted through a handful of popular governors and three former Senate colleagues before turning late to Kemp.

Just a month ago, Kemp predicted his stormy relationship with Dole - and a history of deep differences over economic policy - would keep him from being considered. But by Friday, the 61-year-old former pro football player's tune had changed. "Quarterbacks are always ready," he declared.

The Dole team also was ready, arriving here with a vice presidential staff already assembled and former Commerce Department official Wayne Berman at the helm as manager. Veteran GOP strategist Charlie Black, who ran Texas Sen. Phil Gramm's unsuccessful primary bid this year, was also drafted.

Democrats greeted Kemp's selection with footfalls bearing the slogan: "Hail Mary Pass." But one, former New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, called the ticket "formidable" and said Kemp could hurt Democrats by appealing to minority voters.

Dole, who had joked about sneaking his mystery date through the back door, clearly delighted in prolonging the guessing game. "Beats working," he said.

The Dole campaign, stuck far behind President Clinton in horserace polls, was counting on a bold vice presidential choice and a smooth convention next week to excite doubting Republicans.

Indeed, as word of Kemp's selection spread through San Diego, where Dole-Kemp T-shirts were already on sale, reaction among the GOP faithful was overwhelmingly positive.

"We now have a forward-looking, dynamic ticket. It will truly excite the country," said former Dole rival Steve Forbes, the flat-tax advocate whom Kemp endorsed during the primaries.

But a walk through downtown Russell suggested Kemp was not a surefire hit with all voters.

"Who? I don't know him. It should be a woman. They never pick a woman," complained Kaylee Karst, a clerk at Don Dawson Pharmacy.

Pharmacist Mary Sturdy of nearby Hays chimed in that "since he (Kemp) is from the East there's not a whole lot known about him here."

BATTERMAN

teacher on the student's performance.

"We are not teachers. We are more like friends who want to help," she said. "Teachers have all the responsibilities, here, we have all the fun."

At the end of the year, teachers give the mentors progress report on each student. Each year, her students have gained more than one reading level.

"To see the student's progress," she said, that makes it all worth it."

Batterman was recognized as 1994-95 HOSTS mentor of the year.

"I would rather be rewarded for housework -- something I hate to do -- than for being a mentor -- something that I love to do."

"To see the children's smiling faces, that's reward enough," she said.

For Batterman, being a HOSTS mentor has become part of her life. She said she loves it as much as she loves reading books and letters, listening to music and working in her flower beds.

"It has become part of my life. The students and teachers, Mrs. Cagle and (HOSTS assistant) Mrs. Jackson, are so special."

"I'm sure every volunteer feels that way," she said.

Batterman is planning a trip to her hometown of Berlin, Germany, in September.

But she is cutting her trip short so she can be back to start mentoring when the HOSTS program begins again in the first part of October.

"I'll be back when school starts, so you can count on me," she said.

Batterman said anybody can be a mentor.

"All you have to have is a love for children and a love for books," she said.

To volunteer as a HOSTS mentor, contact the Northwest HOSTS program at 363-7686.

Volunteers are asked to attend a training session. The session will acquaint volunteers with the program, the specific duties and materials used.

Jury orders cigarette maker to pay smoker

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) - A man who got lung cancer after smoking for 44 years was awarded a record $750,000 Friday, marking only the second time the tobacco industry has been ordered to pay damages in a liability case.

The state Circuit Court jury said that the cigarettes were a defective product and that their makers were negligent for not telling people how dangerous they were.

Grady Carter, 66, had asked for at least $1.5 million from the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Co., the maker of Lucky Strikes.

"This is a severe blow to the industry," said Allan Kaplan, a tobacco stock analyst with Merrill Lynch. "We knew that when you keep running cases, some jury is going to vote in favor of the plaintiff."

Word of the verdict in the closely watched case came shortly before the stock market closed, sending shares of Philip Morris and RJR Nabisco down 13 percent. American Brands, which sold the Lucky Strikes brand to Brown & Williamson in a 1994 deal, was down moderately, as was B.A.T., Brown & Williamson's parent company.

So far, in at least 19 tobacco liability suits, the industry has yet to pay a cent in damages.

The six-member jury deliberated for 9-1/2 hours over two days. As the verdict was announced, a smiling Carter leaned back and grasped his wife's hand.

Thomas Bezanson, an attorney for the tobacco company, said he expects to appeal.

The only other monetary award against a tobacco company in a liability case was won in 1988 by the family of Rose Cipollone of New Jersey.

Pre-teen gets 20 years in toddler's death

AUSTIN (AP) - A 12-year-old girl convicted in the beating death of a toddler will spend up to 20 years in state custody, a jury decided Friday.

The six-man, six-woman jury determined the girl used a deadly weapon in the death of 2-1/2-year-old Jayla Belton on May 24.

Prosecutors never produced a weapon, but told jurors fists and feet could be considered weapons.

Police and prosecutors said the 12-year-old hit Jayla more than a dozen times. The fatal blow, according to a medical examiner, caused her liver to rupture.

Under the sentence, the 12-year-old will first go to a Texas Youth Commission facility. She could be transferred with a judge's permission to prison after turning 16. She also could be kept in the TYC until turning 21.

A youth commission official testified during the sentencing phase of the two-week trial that the girl could be in the youth system for as little as three years if she were to deal perfectly with the strict and regimental program.

Defense attorney Kameron Johnson said it is doubtful she would be allowed to return home before serving time in prison.

"We will vigorously pursue this through the appellate process," Johnson said. "I believe in the innocence of this child."

The girl showed little reaction to her sentence. She hugged her grandmother, who has adopted her, before being escorted from the court.

Family members and jurors declined comment after the sentence was announced.

Johnson said his client was confused.

"In her mind, if you do something wrong, that's one thing," he said. "But if you're accused of doing something wrong (and you didn't do it), in the end it will all work out."

Johnson added that the girl was not a perfect child but needed no more guidance or supervision than any other youngster.

Gary Cobb, an assistant Travis

County district attorney who prosecuted the case, said the girl does need rehabilitation.

Jayla and four other children were being cared for in an illegal daycare operation, according to the Texas Department of Regulatory and Protective Services.

Some Of Our Best Investments Have Nothing To Do With Money.

Every week this past year, a task force from Hereford State Bank made it a point to call on West Central Intermediate School.

Nine conscientious HSB employees made up this group and volunteered their time as mentors for the school's HOSTS (Help One Student To Succeed) program -- a program designed to place caring people throughout our community in a one-on-one tutoring session with individual students each week.

How's the program doing? Oh it is a resounding success! And even though it has received wide acclaim from both parents and educators, our volunteers will tell you they've been some of the biggest benefactors.

We're proud of these employees involvement. They are giving something of themselves back to the community, and that's what community banking is all about.

When a new school year starts August 19, 1996, the enrichment process will begin again. And volunteers across our community will realize once more that some of our very best investments have nothing to do with money!

Have you ever wondered how those billowy, fluffy clouds can deliver so much moisture on our dry lands?

This week we finally found some numbers to illustrate what we're talking about. It takes 27,154 gallons of water for a cloud to deliver one inch of rainfall upon one acre! That's a figure from Dr. Leon New, Agricultural Engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

And with water weighing eight pounds per gallon, that figures out to about 217,232 pounds--or, according to my arithmetic, 108.6 tons of weight that cloud carried to deliver one inch to one acre of land.

How did it do that?

To carry it a bit further, we checked with the City of Hereford and found the city limits measure 5.34 square miles. With 640 acres to a square mile, that gives us about 3,418 acres of land in the city.

To deliver a one-inch rainfall upon the city would require clouds to carry and deliver something like 371,195 tons of moisture.

Wow! That makes it easier to understand why we sometime have flash flooding, and why Dameron Park was still too wet in places Saturday to have booths for the Town & Country Jubilee!

Clouds delivering life-saving rain must truly be one of God's greatest miracles.

A reception honoring Rep. Larry Combest was held here Thursday night, and the congressman repeated a statement that we heard him make earlier this year--a warning, if you please, that sounds a little scary.

Combest says most Americans indicate they want less government spending, fewer controls over our lives, and lower taxes. He believes that Americans have a "window of opportunity" to change the course of government.

It's a "window," he says, that hasn't been open for a long time and may close within five or six years if we don't take advantage of the situation.

And, if we don't convince lawmakers to make the necessary changes, Combest says, we may mortgage the future of our children and grandchildren.

Jubilee: a time of rejoicing

Out of the Blue

By Garry Wesner

One thing I really enjoy doing is looking into words -- where they came from, what they really mean and how they were originally used and how that usage has changed today.

For the past week, I've been reflecting on the word "Jubilee" and thought I'd share with you all some interesting tidbits about the word.

First I went to my handy Webster's New World Dictionary and looked up the word "Jubilee."

It said, "1. A 50th or 25th anniversary, 2. a time of rejoicing, 3. jubilation."

The word, it noted, is from the Hebrew, so I dug out my Bible, my Strong's Exhaustive Concordance of the Bible and my copy of Vine's Expository Dictionary of Biblical Words to see what they said.

It was very interesting.

The word we translate as "jubilee" is the Hebrew word "yobel," meaning ram's horn or trumpet. It was used in Ex. 19:13 to call the people together when Moses brought down the 10 Commandments from Mount Sinai. The second meaning of "yobel" signifies "Jubilee Year," which was mandated in the Jewish law.

I started in Leviticus 25, where the Hebrew children were being given the law (actually, the law started back in Exodus 20 with the 10 Commandments, so this is just one small portion of the law).

Anyway, Lev. 25:8-15 commands every 50 years be special.

"Ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof: it shall be a jubilee unto you; and ye shall return every man unto his possession, and ye shall return every man unto his family. A jubilee shall that fiftieth year be unto you: ye shall not sow, neither reap that which groweth of itself in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undressed. For it is the jubilee; it shall be holy unto you; ye shall eat the increase thereof out of the field." (vs. 8-12)

During the year of Jubilee, any person who had been sold as a servant for payment of a debt was made free and all land was returned to that individual or family, even if they had been sold in bondservice.

In other words, the year of Jubilee was seen -- as I understand it -- as a year of reconciliation.

The entire nation of Israel was to let the land rest (the wording in my King James Bible is that you count

"seven sabbaths of years" and the next one is the year of Jubilee) and feed off the excess of the previous year.

I would expect that the freeing of bondservants and returning them to their lands would be symbolic of God delivering the children of Israel out of bondage in Egypt and returning them to their Promised Land.

So bringing us back to our original definition, a "Jubilee" can be seen as many different things.

The secular meanings have grown from its origins in the Hebrew to mean an anniversary or a time of rejoicing.

A time of rejoicing is typically not a time for work, but for fellowship, for reflection on God's gifts and bounty and for giving thanks for those blessings.

Therefore, as we reflect on this year's Town and Country Jubilee (which will be just about finished about the time you read this), we can truly see it as a time of rejoicing and a time of rest.

Happy Jubilee to you!

Rep. Combest scores

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest continues to serve constituents of the 19th Congressional District with a rare sense of doing what is best for us and for his country.

And, at a reception in his honor here Thursday night, we believe the Congressman gave a rare insight of his humility and statesmanship.

About a week ago, Combest was all but assured of taking over the chairmanship of the House Ag Committee, provided the Republicans keep control of the House. Then House Speaker Newt Gingrich promised the important position to former Rep. Bob Smith of Oregon if runs again and is elected to the House.

Gingrich wants Smith to seek Rep. Wes Cooley's seat, the man who replaced Smith in 1994. Cooley had run into big ethical problems and announced last week he would not seek reelection.

Should Smith return, his seniority would be restored and, by tradition, he would be next in line for the chairmanship of the ag panel. Gingrich neglected to discuss the matter with Combest, who first heard about it from a reporter.

But Combest, after receiving a well-deserved apology from Gingrich and other House leaders, says he understands and accepts the situation. "Bob Smith and I are good friends. If I were in his place, I would expect to be in line for the chairmanship if I returned to Congress," stated Combest.

Combest had "bucked" Gingrich on putting the farm bill together, and some observers thought Combest was being punished. "I don't believe that is the case," Combest said Thursday.

The congressman stressed to his audience here Thursday night that "the people of the 19th District are my bosses." That means "I will be a team player only if I think it is best for my constituents and my country."

What this means, at worst, is that Combest will be vice-chairman of the committee, and we will continue to be represented by a winner -- a man with common sense and uncommon statesmanship.

Dear Editor:

I felt that it would be appropriate to express my appreciation to Hereford friends who supported and prayed for my husband, Josh, during the Olympic Games.

It was a dream come true for both of us, and we are grateful for the community's generosity and prayers. Josh completed his Olympic experience with three gold medals and a trip to the White House.

He is excited to share his victory with fellow Whitefaces and friends. We hope that everyone was able to take part in the Olympic spirit and join the comradely of our blessed country.

Dear Editor:

I read in a daily paper last month that a U.S. seaman was arrested in Japan on charges of attempted murder while committing a robbery and was being "interrogated without a defense lawyer," which is customary in Japan. My interpretation: The U.S. government has turned a 20-year-old G.I. over to a foreign government.

Army Spec. Michael new stood up for U.S. sovereignty when he refused to wear a United Nations cap and insignia on a peace keeping mission to Macedonia. He was court martialed in May and given a bad conduct discharge.

In 1994, President Clinton and Congress forced GATT and a World Trade Court on us even though 80 to 82 percent of Americans opposed it. We lost our sovereignty.

Last month, CIA Director Deutch testified before the Select Committee on Intelligence which has 19 members, including Sen. Kay Hutchison of Texas. Deutch sought approval to "plant" CIA agents in the clergy and among journalists. This has never been done before and is not needed.

There has been nothing in the major newspapers about this. Thank God for our local newspapers and C-Span. Only there do we find truth.

There is a bill in the U.S. House--HR-2535--and a corresponding bill in the Senate for withdrawal from the U.N. Please support this action. Call and write Sen. Phil Gramm, Sen. Kay Hutchison and your Congressman.

SAN DIEGO (AP)--For all the sound, and sometimes fury, devoted to the writing of campaign platforms, they don't make winners or losers. But they can betray problems for a presidential nominee. So it is for Bob Dole.

Ardent conservatives said no to his terms on the most sensitive topic in the Republican platform -- abortion -- and while that outcome may help bring holdout rival Pat Buchanan to the ticket, it is no mark of strength.

He wanted platform advocacy of a constitutional amendment to ban abortion tempered with statement of tolerance for the dissent of Republicans who favor abortion rights. Dole had said that was his decision, not negotiable, but he could neither force nor bargain it into the draft the GOP platform committee completed on Wednesday.

So the nominee had to back off, twice, in the prelude to the Republican National Convention that will nominate him to challenge President Clinton.

The platform offers a general recognition of differing views within the party, covering all issues, not tied to abortion. And to avoid a threatened challenge attempt when the platform goes before the full convention Monday, rejected amendments that would have moderated the abortion plank were tacked on in an appendix. Dole allies pushed that compromise.

And to get it, they agreed that every significant, losing amendment, on all topics, not only abortion, would be part of the appendix.

Illinois Rep. Henry Hyde, the platform chairman, said it showed the openness of the deliberations. "It ratifies the fact that this is a bottoms-up document," he said. It certainly ratifies the power of abortion foes, who insisted that the issue central to them not be the only one covered by the appendix gimmick.

Otherwise, they would have balked, and could have blocked the deal.

Those distinctions will mean little or nothing to voters. The Republican platform opposes abortion rights, the Democratic platform will support them. But fine print fuels the doctrinal debates of platform drafters. The GOP platform chairman said the word by word defining of terms in San Diego was almost Biblical.

"Get it out of your system," House Speaker Newt Gingrich advised GOP platform debaters. Then, he said, Republicans can get on with the campaign.

Once it is concluded, the platform will go widely unread, and unheeded anyhow.

Despite the rejection of Dole's initial terms, his spokesman declared the platform outcome to be a victory for his tolerance of abortion differences, and a plus for his campaign. Still, it was not the convention prelude the Dole campaign wanted. Platform rifts and concessions are not an asset. Best to be in full command.

The abortion episode actually was weeks in the making as Dole set his terms on the issue, then wavered and altered them. It is a defining single issue to the conservative and,

Christian right, a Republican constituency vital to Dole, but one that always has found him suspiciously pragmatic and prone to compromise. They beat him; now he needs them to join him.

Conservatives want a Dole to choose a vice presidential nominee firmly opposed to abortion; they said the platform outcome should guarantee it.

Platform differences have pointed to cracks in the party base of earlier nominees.

Jimmy Carter couldn't block a liberal plank advocating a public works jobs program when he was renominated in 1980; he accepted it while refusing to promise Democrats he would abide by it.

In 1976, President Ford ran on a Republican platform that effectively renounced his own foreign policy.

rather than risk a test vote against Ronald Reagan's conservative forces at the GOP convention.

Neither platform surrender became an issue, but each was a symptom of weakness with a vital, core constituency.

The conservative stamp on this platform may lead Buchanan, the last loser who hasn't backed Dole, to endorse the ticket. He'll decide at the convention next week, according to his sister, Bay Buchanan, who also is his campaign manager.

She said the platform was "Buchananese throughout."

In as unlikely a coined word, it is supposed to be Dole-sque.

Fort Worth Star-Telegram on consumer debt:

One of the greatest influences on the direction of the U.S. economy is not what Wall Street thinks, or what the Federal Reserve does, or what congress does about taxes.

Reports out last week about June income, personal spending and personal savings provide further evidence that what leads the economy is consumer spending, and what drives consumer spending up and down is the level of consumer debt.

In the spring, consumers increased their debt and the economy grew at more than 4 percent. But in June, consumers reached the limit of their debt comfort zone and spending went down. The rest of the year, while they pay down their personal debt, the economy will retreat to a more normal 2.5 percent growth rate.

This should surprise no one. Consumer debt grew very high during the 1980s, which led to a slower economy in 1991-92. As their debt shrank to a level consumers could abide, things picked up. We are a nation whose economy is based on debt. And consumers are smart enough to occasionally pay off some of their debt. Thank goodness someone is.

Hereford's Young Gun

Andrew Ramirez, son of Ruben and Sylvia Rodriguez, helped the Amarillo Young Guns to a third-place finish in the 16-under division of the USSSA World (softball) Championship, played in late July in Lubbock. Ramirez, soon to be a freshman at Hereford High School, played third base for the Amarillo team.

Mickelson leads PGA

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Phil Mickelson finally learned how to listen to advice. Now he will find out if he has what it takes to win a major championship.

From the time he taught himself how to putt by taking pictures of Ben Crenshaw and trying to duplicate the sweetest stroke in golf, the only short game instruction Mickelson ever accepted was his own.

It was good enough to earn him two NCAA championships, a U.S. Amateur title, eight PGA Tour victories and a general belief that winning a major was just a matter of time.

Feeling another year slipping away without a major, and coming off poor putting performances that knocked him out of the U.S. Open and British Open, Mickelson took a five-minute putting lesson last week.

The result was a straighter stroke, two straight 67s at Valhalla Golf Club and a three-stroke lead over Justin Leonard midway through the PGA Championship.

While he has been in contention for a major every year since he turned pro, the 26-year-old has never led.

"There is as much pressure or as much desire to win this tournament as there has been any of the previous majors," Mickelson said. "This is the last opportunity to turn a good year into a great year."

West Texas Star fall at nationals

The West Texas Stars, a basketball team made up mostly of Hereford boys, found rough going in pool play as the National AAU 10-under Boys' Basketball Tournament this week in Greensboro, N.C.

The first game was the toughest as the Stars lost 55-17 to the Dallas Hornets.

In the second game, the Charlotte Nets edged the Stars, 46-40.

Salinas team takes booster scramble

Coaches James Salinas and Pete Rodriguez teamed with boosters Ed Sanders and David Tipps to win the Whiteface Booster Club Golf Scramble, which was held July 23 at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The winning team shot a 28 - led by Salinas, the reigning Hereford Open champion - in the nine-hole scramble.

Amarillo's Kyle Shields led the Stars with 22 points, and Hereford's Marc Wells and John Griffin each scored two.

The Stars lost the third game 39-27 to the Indiana Warriors. Shields scored 18, Wells added two and Hereford's Landry Lloyd got one.

The Stars were to continue play in the consolation tournament, but no score has been reported.

Two teams shot 31, and a scorecard playoff decided second place. It went to the team of Dwayne Cassels, Bill Bridge, Freddy Gamboa and Wendell Burdine.

Taking third place were L.V. Watts, Robert Blakely, Temple Abney and Clint Coley, who is a new coach at Hereford Junior High.

Heifers & Bulls tourney to benefit Make-A-Wish

The Heifers & Bulls Couples Tournament, scheduled here Sept. 7-8, will benefit the local Make-A-Wish Foundation chapter, according to Bill Brown, president of the Pitman Golf Course Association.

"The local chapter of Make-A-Wish has no administrative costs," said Brown, "meaning that all proceeds will go to help make a kid's wish come true."

Brown said the average cost of a wish is approximately $3,500. In order to help boost the local chapter, tee-box sponsors will be solicited for the tournament. Sponsorships will be $50 each, and all of these proceeds also go for a wish.

Couples can register for the tournament at the Pitman pro shop. Those interested in sponsoring a tee box can contact Brown or the pro shop.

Local man starts association planned just for team ropers

A Hereford man is organizing an association just for calf ropers and planning seven events for 1997.

Justin Hogue has formed the American Calf Ropers Association (ACRA) to give calf ropers an organization all their own.

"I've roped calves for a long time and always loved the sport, but there wasn't anywhere to rope for big money," Hogue said. "This association will enable the ropers to rope for the money that's missing in this sport."

Hogue came up with the idea while driving home from a team roping event in New Mexico.

"I was thinking that there's the USTRC event for team ropers to participate in, and there's also the Professional Bull Riders Association, and the women have a Barrel Racing Association," Hogue said. "So why not start a calf roping association for calf ropers only."

Hogue states that the goals of the ACRA are to increase the number of participants in calf roping, to improve the quality of ropings, to enhance the image of roping throughout the United States and Canada, and to promote new interest and increased popularity in calf roping.

ACRA also is setting up classification system which attempts to be fairer to more ropers.

Hogue, the president of ACRA, is not alone in his organization: Hereford's Bob Barrett is the vice president of ACRA, and local roper Wade Lewis is among the directors.

For more information, or to obtain a rulebook, call 363-6003 or write to ACRA at P.O. Box 611 in Hereford.

Dockery wins Black 10-K

Hereford's Martinez takes two-mile run

Dennis Dockery of Amarillo won the Greg Black Memorial 10-K Run held Saturday, while Hereford's Richard Martinez won the two-mile run.

Dockery finished the ten-kilometer course through north Hereford in 39 minutes and 15 seconds.

Bob Roach of Amarillo was second in 39:32 and David Cash Price of Yukon, Okla., was third in 39:59.

Amy Woods of Amarillo was the first woman across the line in 52:21, and Hereford's Colleen Meyer was second in 54:13.

Complete results of the races were not available Saturday morning.

Martinez won the two-mile run in 11:23, edging two Amarillo runners by three seconds. A pair of Hereford High School cross country runners were fourth and fifth: Tommy Mather, 11:55; and Miguel Carrillo, 12:22.

Debbie Slotnicki of Clovis, N.M., was the first woman to finish the two-mile. She finished 15th overall with a time of 14:36.

There was a tie in the two-mile walk between Judi McMillan of Louisville, Ken., and Matt Coplen, who is from Hereford but is now living in Louisville. They finished in 24:45.

Walter Camp is called "The Father of American Football" and made many changes in the game in the late 19th century.

Big 12 debuts with impressive credentials

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Maybe they should have called the Big 12 Conference the Big Bully.

Consider the credentials of this new league consisting of all the former Big Eight Conference members and Southwest Conference elite Texas A&M, Texas, Baylor and Texas Tech:

-Two-time defending national champion Nebraska.

-Seven teams ranked in the final Associated Press poll including No. 1 Nebraska, Colorado (No. 5), Kansas State (No. 7), Kansas (No. 9), Texas (No. 14), Texas A&M (No. 15), and Texas Tech (No. 23).

No other major conference had as many teams listed in the final AP poll.

-Six wins against one loss in bowl games. Nebraska 62-24 over Florida in the Fiesta Bowl; Colorado 38-6 over Oregon in the Cotton Bowl; Kansas State 54-21 over Colorado State in the Holiday Bowl; Kansas 51-30 over UCLA in the Aloha Bowl; Texas A&M 22-20 over Michigan in the Alamo Bowl; Texas Tech 55-41 over Air Force in the Copper Bowl. The only loss was Texas 38-10 to Virginia Tech in the Sugar Bowl.

-A 49-10 (.831) overall record against non-conference foes in the 1995 regular season.

This future college football monster became a reality on Feb. 25, 1994 but it has taken time to smooth the details. Commissioner Steve Hatchell opened the Big 12 office in Dallas in July.

The league will be broken down into two divisions, Northern and Southern. The North consists of Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas State, Kansas, Iowa State and Colorado. The South will have Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech, Baylor, Oklahoma and Oklahoma State. The division winners will meet Dec. 7 in St. Louis for the inaugural championship game.

The 12 schools have earned more than 130 NCAA championships over the decades, including 15 national titles in football. Nine Heisman Trophy winners have come from six schools in the new league since 1952.

Nebraska, even with a new quarterback at the helm, is favored to defend its national title.

"It will be interesting to see how the pecking order falls in the Big 12," said A&M coach R.C. Slocum. "Right now Nebraska is obviously at the top of the heap. Everything else is still on the back burner. Nebraska is the flagship team of this conference."

Nebraska isn't the only loaded team this year. Colorado, Kansas State, Texas, Kansas and Texas A&M will field teams capable of blockbuster seasons.

The Cornhuskers are favored in the North division while the Longhorns are favored in the South in a preseason poll of Big 12 coaches.

"Somebody has to head them off sooner or later," said Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes. "Russia fell, but how long did that take?"

Nebraska had more off-the-field problems than it did on the field last year, headlined by running back Lawrence Phillips' assault of a former girlfriend.

"Last year was not all bad," said coach Tom Osborne. "I enjoyed the team and the players. Certainly there were things that happened that weren't fun. We had some guys who did some things that we're not proud of."

Osborne has turned author explaining what happened the last two years at Nebraska, including his side of the Phillips controversy. He plans to give proceeds from the $26.95 "On Solid Ground" to charity.

Osborne said he expected heavy media scrutiny for this year's team.

"We've already had a newspaper call and ask for all of our players' driving records and all of our telephone records," Osborne said. "I don't imagine that's headed anywhere positive."

On the field, Nebraska will be awesome again behind 300-pound offensive linemen and a solid defense. Tommie Frazier is gone at quarterback and getting the first shot is junior Scott Frost, who transferred from Stanford in 1994. Should Frost fail, senior Matt Turman, a former walk-on, has game experience.

Tailback Ahman Green rushed for more than 1,000 yards just filling in for Phillips last year, averaging a slick 7.7 yards per carry.

"We think we have the basic ingredients for a very good team," said Osborne. "The big question is at quarterback. We lost two great players in Tommie Frazier and Brook Berringer. Scott has had some playing experience at Stanford for two years. He's been in our program a year and a half so he's not a rookie. I see no reason to believe that we're going to drop off this season."

Frost said he doesn't feel the heat, yet.

"There's no real pressure," Frost said. "Tommie was a great player but I'm not Tommie. The only pressure will be what the team puts on itself. All I can do is do my best and run the offense like it should be run."

Colorado and Kansas State should provide the biggest obstacles for the Nebraska freight train. Nebraska is at Kansas State on Oct. 5 and meets Colorado Nov. 29 in the season-ending showdown.

Koy Detmer is expected back at quarterback for coach Rick Neuheisel, who fields a team of excellent receivers, a quick defense and a solid running back in Herschel Troutman.

John Hessler replaced the injured Detmer last year and led the Buffs to a 10-2-1 season and the Cotton Bowl win over Oregon, so Colorado is well-fixed at quarterback.

Kansas State has a quarterback star of the future in Brian Kavanaugh, who came off the bench to lead the team to a Holiday Bowl win.

Kansas coach Glen Mason is still with the Jayhawks after briefly accepting then turning down the Georgia job. He needs for Ben Roots to make a big move at quarterback.

Iowa State has All-American running back Troy Davis and plans to play Troy's younger brother, Darren, who had a 2,000-yard rushing season his junior year in high school.

Missouri's hopes revolve around quarterback Corby Jones, an option-style game-breaker.

Down South, the Texas Longhorns have as much offensive firepower as any team in the country behind quarterback James Brown, running backs Shon Mitchell and Ricky Williams, tight end Pat Fitzgerald and receiver Mike Adams.

"We're going to have the best offense in the Big 12," said Brown.

Texas coach John Mackovic says "The key is keeping James healthy."

Brown was bothered by shoulder problems last year but a complete recovery is expected.

However, defense remains a problem at Texas and to have an unbeaten season the Longhorns will have to rapidly improve in that area.

One Texas misstep and Texas A&M will be right there. Brannon Stewart, a transfer from Tennessee, makes his much heralded debut at quarterback. The Aggies have three talented running backs, and a bigtime receiver in Albert Connell.

"But it's on defense where A&M really gets good. The Aggies were in the top five in defense again last year. Linebacker Keith Mitchell and end Brandon Mitchell, both preseason All-America candidates return."

The Aggies are the first Big 12 team to play a game, meeting Brigham Young on Aug. 24. Texas Tech plays at Kansas State and Missouri is at Texas on Aug. 31 in the first action between Big 12 schools.

Texas Tech could be troublesome behind quarterback Zebbie Lethridge and 1,000-yard rusher Byron Hanspard.

Baylor also could be a problem if it can cure the quarterback blues. Coach Chuck Reedy recruited one of the top prospects in the nation, Odell James. Osborne wanted James but lost out to Baylor. Jerod Douglas gives the Bears one of the best running backs in the nation.

Oklahoma has a new coach, John Blake, and a new offensive coordinator, Dick Winder, who was at Tech. Eric Moore showed promise at quarterback in spring camp. However, the numbers are down at Oklahoma which is seven scholarships short of the NCAA limit.

"We've got a way to go and we know that," Blake said.

Oklahoma State is coming back behind coach Bob Simmons, who got a win over Oklahoma last year. Tailback David Thompson gives OSU an impressive running game. But the quarterbacking has to improve behind Tone Jones.

Most predictions have Nebraska and Texas playing in the first Big 12 championship game.

The Aggies and Longhorns meet in the predicted South zone showdown on Nov. 29, the same day Nebraska and Colorado tangle.

Mackovic used an high jumping term to make his point about the Longhorns and the new league: "It's time to raise the bar to another level."

But everyone has to jump over Nebraska.

Mariners falter even with contribution from Griffey

By The Associated Press

Ken Griffey Jr. hit his 35th home run and Randy Johnson did not allow a run.

Too bad for the Seattle Mariners that it wasn't enough for them to win Friday night at the Kingdome.

The Mariners lost their fourth straight one-run decision and dropped three games behind Texas in the AL West with a 6-5 loss to the Minnesota Twins.

Johnson, making his second relief appearance in four days while returning from back problems, pitched three scoreless innings. The Mariners want to get the 1995 Cy Young winner at least one more outing before he rejoins the rotation.

"We're just on the short end right now," Mariners manager Lou Piniella said.

In other AL games, Cleveland beat Oakland 10-4, Kansas City defeated California 5-3, Chicago topped Baltimore 4-3 in 10 innings, Texas trimmed Toronto 5-4, Detroit downed New York 5-3 and Boston swept a doubleheader from Milwaukee, 9-7 and 4-1.

Pat Meares hit a three-run homer that capped a six-run rally in the fourth inning for Minnesota. The Twins' No. 9 hitter connected off Bob Wolcott (7-9).

"Every now and then I get lucky," Meares said. "I'm not a home run hitter. I can't explain hitting home runs in two straight games. Sometimes they just hit my bat."

Griffey hit a two-run homer in the first inning and later had an RBI single.

Johnson pitched the last three innings, fanning Ron Coomer with the bases loaded to end the ninth.

"Randy looks terrific to me," Twins manager Tom Kelly said. Rangers 5, Blue Jays 4

Juan Gonzalez set a Texas record by reaching 100 RBIs for the fourth time, leading the Rangers to victory at SkyDome.

Gonzalez broke a 4-4 tie in the seventh inning with a run-scoring single. Ivan Rodriguez homered and drove in three runs for Texas.

Bobby Witt (11-8) earned his fourth straight win. He is 3-0 against Toronto this season.

Valenzuela, Sandberg show old-timers can play well, too

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

For a couple of old-timers, Fernando Valenzuela and Ryne Sandberg are looking pretty sharp these days.

Valenzuela pitched three-hit ball for 7.2-3 innings, retiring 15 straight batters at one stretch, and the San Diego Padres won 4-1 at Pittsburgh on Friday night.

"Toward the middle of the game, I started using my fastball more," Valenzuela said. "I think they were expecting something else from me. It worked pretty good. I felt strong."

Valenzuela, listed at 35 but believed by many to be older, won his fourth straight decision.

Sandberg showed he can still play at 36. He hit two home runs, including the fifth grand slam of his career, as Chicago defeated the Montreal Expos 11-9.

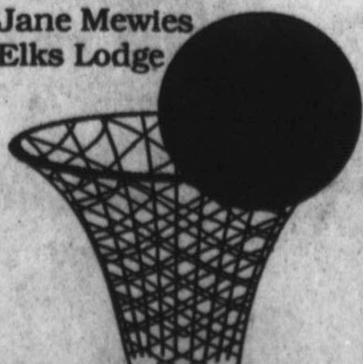

In other NL games, San Francisco defeated St. Louis 8-6, Colorado downed Atlanta 6-4, Houston topped Philadelphia 5-1, Florida beat New York 2-1 in 10 innings and Cincinnati stopped Los Angeles 9-4.

Astros 5, Phillies 1
Shane Reynolds made another strong start for Houston, stopping Philadelphia on four hits for eight innings.

Reynolds (14-6) won for the sixth time in seven decisions. In his last four games, he has allowed just three earned runs and 19 hits in 32 innings.

Definitions offered for educational terms

Below are some of the terms used most frequently by the Hereford Independent School District, along with definitions for those terms and, where applicable, the acronym or abbreviation for that term.

The list was prepared by Nena Veazey, assistant superintendent for professional services.

ACADEMIC TEAMING -- Academic Teaming is a middle school practice which enables a core group of teachers to serve a common group of students. The team works together in the areas of integrating curriculum, discipline and parent conferences. Common planning is a key to the success of this program.

ACCELERATED READING -- Accelerated Reading is a book reporting computer program. The students read from a certain selection of books and take computer-generated tests. Credit is given based on the number of correct responses and tracked throughout the year on a computer management system.

AEIS -- Academic Excellence Indicator System. An annual report describing the district's educational performance. The report includes the performance and profile sections for both campuses and district.

BUILDING LEADERSHIP TEAM -- The BLT is established on each campus to assist the principal in formulating campus performance objectives specific to improving student achievement. The team serves in the role defined by the Board in the District's Site-Based Decision Making Implementation Plan and is chaired by the principal. The areas set forth in the plan include: goal setting, curriculum and instruction, budgeting decisions, staffing, school organization and evaluation procedures.

CAMPUS ACTION-IMPROVEMENT PLANS -- These plans include the mission, goals, objectives and action steps needed to address weaknesses identified through the disaggregation of campus data. The ultimate result of accomplishing the action plans should be improved student achievement.

CHAPTER 1 (ACCELERATED LEARNING) -- Accelerated Learning focuses on at-risk of failure students. It focuses curricular priorities around student needs and builds on student strengths.

DISTRICT LEADERSHIP TEAM -- In compliance with Education Code 21.930 the District established a Districtwide Educational Improvement Team of campus-based professional staff, administrators, parents and community members to advise the Board or its designee in establishing and reviewing the District's educational goals, objectives and major Districtwide classroom educational programs identified by the Board and its designee.

School meal policies

Hereford Independent School District and Walcott Independent School District have announced their policies for providing free and reduced-price meals for children served under the National School Lunch Program and School Breakfast Program.

A copy of the policy is available at each campus or at the school central office. Household size and income criteria are listed in application forms distributed to all households with a letter informing residents of the availability of free and reduced price meals for children.

Applications also are available at the principal's office in each school and they may be submitted at any time during the school year.

Information provided on the application will be used to determine eligibility and to verify of data.

Generally, if a person gets food stamps or AFDC for a child, that child can get free meals.

If the total household income meets levels specified in the income chart attached to the application, the child can get free or reduced price meals.

Foster children who are the legal responsibility of a welfare agency or court also may be eligible for benefits regardless of the income of the household with whom they reside. Eligibility for the foster child is based on the child's income.

Under the provisions of the free and reduced price meal policy, in Hereford the Hereford Food Service Director will review applications and determine eligibility for all campuses. In Walcott, Dr. Bill McLaughlin will review applications and determine eligibility.

In Hereford ISD the regular price for breakfast and lunch is 50 cents for breakfast and $1 for lunch in grades pre-kindergarten through sixth grade; 75 cents for breakfast and $1 for lunch at Hereford Junior High; and 75 cents for breakfast and $1.25 for lunch at Hereford High School.

The reduced price is 30 cents for breakfast and 40 cents for lunch at all HISD schools.

HJH sets orientation meetings

Hereford Junior High School will hold an orientation meeting for parents of all students this week.

The meeting for seventh graders and their parents will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, while a meeting for parents of eighth graders will be at 7 p.m. on Thursday.

All sessions will be at the school. Parents or guardians may pick up their child's schedule at that time.

Schedules will not be given out to students whose parents or guardians do not attend the meeting.

All remaining seventh and eighth grade students may pick up their schedules on Friday in the office, which is open from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Reinauer, Strait are wed in La Grange

MRS. RICHARD DANIEL STRAIT
...nee Brenna Tietjen Reinauer

Brenna Tietjen Reinauer of Hereford became the bride of Richard Daniel Strait of Pflugerville Saturday in the First United Methodist Church in La Grange, on the anniversary of the maternal grandparents of the bride.

Reverend John Nicholson of the church and Reverend Richard Howard Strait, father of the groom, officiated at the double ring ceremony at 3 p.m.

Mrs. John Nicholson provided the wedding music and accompanied Debbie Phillips who sang "How Beautiful." Donna Link signed the selection. Debbie Phillips and Heather Terry, accompanied by Russell Phillips on the acoustic guitar, vocalized "The Song of Reconciliation."

The altar was decorated with ficus and palms greenery. Candles, flowers, pearls and ribbon flanked the aisle and marked each pew.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original candlelight gown refashioned of antique silk and overlaid in organza and lace. The gown, originally worn by the bridegroom's mother, featured a scalloped neckline and lace empire bodice with lace bell sleeves and sheath skirt. The bodice was beaded with gleaming seed pearls. The gown was complimented by a flowing chapel-length train, converting to a bustle for the reception.

A matching pearl encrusted lace bandeau held her double tiered fingertip veil of illusion and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of roses, ivy and baby's breath enhanced with strings of pearls.

Brianna Reinauer of Austin was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Julia Parmelee Russell of Austin, Molly Malone of Arlington, Va., and sister of the groom, Jennifer Strait Matteson, of Seattle, Wash.

Their identical tea-length gowns of champagne crepe featured an empire waist and flowing skirts accented with antique gold and pearl earrings, a gift from the bride. They carried cascading vibrant, exotic, summer flowers, accented with baby's breath, ivy and pearls.

Trevor Terry of Lumberton served as best man. Groomsmen were Russell Phillips of Austin, Brian DePriest of Nacogdoches and Jeff Reese of Austin.

Performing usher duties were Robert Reinauer, brother of the bride, of Hereford and Jeff Coffee of Austin.

The flower girl and ring bearers were Taryn Strait of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Mark and Shane Slater of Indianapolis, Ind., cousins of the groom.

A reception honoring the couple was held at Frisch Auf! Valley Country Club.

Kathy Zbranc of Pflugerville registered guests at the sterling and floral appointed registry. Classical artist Johnny Wilson provided vocals and dinner music in the candlelit garden room.

The bride's three-tiered ribbon basket-weave frosted cake was accented with vibrant cut summer flowers. The groom's two-tiered chocolate cake was covered with cascading chocolate dipped strawberries. Both were served after dinner from a crystal and pearl appointed table.

After a honeymoon in the Canadian Rocky Mountains, the couple will reside in Bryan, at Still Creek Boys Ranch, serving as relief house parents for 20 young boys.

The bride is a 1991 graduate of Hereford High School and a 1995 summa cum laude graduate of Stephen F. Austin State University with a degree in kinesiology and business. She is presently a flight attendant for American Airlines, based in New York.

The groom is a 1990 graduate of Pflugerville High School and a 1996 graduate of Stephen F. Austin State University with a degree in forestry.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

A coach was heard telling his young athletes that defeat is a temporary condition. Quitting is the only thing that makes it a permanent affliction. The beginning of the 1996-1997 school year is drawing very near. Staff members will begin in-service and work-days tomorrow. HJH teachers will have in-service on the 12th, 13th and 14th and the 15th and 16th will be work-days. Students will begin classes on Monday the 19th.

Seventh grade orientation is scheduled for Tuesday, the 13th at 7 p.m. and the eighth grade orientation will be Thursday, the 15th at 7 p.m. Students and parents will have the opportunity to receive schedules, meet teachers, learn which teams students are on and to locate classrooms. These are important meetings for both parents and students and we urge the attendance of all HJH parents and students at these meetings. Those who are unable to attend may obtain schedules at the office only after the orientation for their respective grade.

Those who have made reservations for the trip to see "TEXAS" should be at the HJH parking lot no later than 5:30 p.m., Friday, August 16. Be sure to have your $12 for the ticket, a jacket or sweater and snack money. We will take cold drinks.

Junior Historians who plan to attend the air show on Saturday, August 17 will receive final plans about this trip by Friday. The cost for the show is $5. Plan also to take money for snacks and one meal. Again, we will take cold drinks.

Students should be reminded to wait on purchasing some school supplies until they have met with each class. Other than regular rule paper, pens and pencils, which most classes require, each class may have certain color folders, spirals and other supplies that you can purchase later. The Junior Historians "Little Store" will have many of the needed supplies that can be purchased at school before first period.

Those who plan to be in seventh grade athletics should have physicals before classes begin. Please do not wait until after the 19th to do this!

Our daughter, Joan Grimsley, is finally home after successful surgery, July 23rd, on both hips. She will be homebound for quite some time in rehabilitation. If any of her friends and classmates would like to send her a card or note, her address is Route 1, Box 788, Valliant, OK 74764. Thanks!!

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You have said that the Internet has disrupted relationships between couples and destroyed marriages. That is not the fault of the Internet. Those relationships were already in trouble.

We still use the telephone even though some people make obscene calls. Newspapers have a "personals" section, and people who post those ads are usually living just as much a fantasy life as are the Internet flirts. They're just as disappointed when Prince Charming turns out to be a frog, or the "girl of his dreams" is indisputably an idiot. But we still buy the paper.

The Internet offers an opportunity to exchange ideas with people around the globe and introduce them to our culture. It has put me in touch with people in the Middle East, Europe, Asia, the United Kingdom and Australia. I find that most people are simply interested in being part of a larger community and nothing more. Please don't ascribe sinister motives to something that is basically human nature. -- K.G. in Birmingham, Ala.

Dear K.G.: You have made some valid points. I agree that relationships that are destroyed by cyber-flirting were in trouble to begin with. And indeed, the Internet can be a great source of information. In fact, I just received this letter from the American Self-Help Clearinghouse, an excellent resource that provides listings of self-help groups of all kinds. Read on: Dear Ann Landers: We wanted you and your readers to know that there are many supportive communities of people helping one another on the Internet.

Now, over 1,000 different self-help groups are available on-line. There is support and information for abused women, alcoholics, those dealing with mental illness, parents of children with disabilities, smokers, diabetics, overeaters and those who have had lung transplants or those suffering from cardiac disease, spinal injury, stroke or deafness -- the list is endless. The emotional support given by individuals who share the same kind of problem can be incalculable.

People can learn about the latest groups, like the one for those suffering with latex allergies, or join with others to start a badly needed new support network that may not yet exist.

One Internet dialog helped a man whose young son accidentally strangled himself. The father was in great pain and seeking emotional support, solace and assistance. He received responses from others who had been through the tragedy of losing a loved one, and several referred him to The Compassionate Friends, an organization for parents whose children have died and one which you have recommended many times in your column. When this kind of tragedy strikes, such an organization can be a godsend.

The Internet can be used to reduce much of the isolation, suffering and pain in this world. The American Self-Help Clearinghouse has an on-line database of international and national groups. It includes addresses and phone numbers, as well as mail addresses where available. Our Internet address is:

<http://www.cmhc.com/selfhelp/>
I hope you will tell your readers about the hundreds of self-help groups out there. -- Edward J. Madara, director, American Self-Help Clearinghouse, Northwest Covenant Medical Center, Denville, N.J.

Dear Edward J. Madara: I won't have to tell them. After they read your letter, your Web site will get a lot of hits. Thank you and good luck!

— YOUR EYES —

Swimming And Your Eyes

Nature provided our eyes with a built-in cleansing system: we blink several times a minute, washing tears over our eyes. But some of our modern-day activities—including swimming in treated pools—sometimes cause damage that tears can't fix.

Conjunctivitis—old fashioned "pink eye"—is a familiar summer problem. Ordinary, non-contagious conjunctivitis is generally a reaction, sometimes allergic, to the irritation of chlorine. But pools also harbor bacteria and help more dangerous conjunctivitis spread among youngsters swimming together. It's wise to see your eye doctor to diagnose and treat either kind.

If you wear corrective lenses, do not try to swim with contact lenses. Soft contacts, especially, can absorb chemicals that may irritate the eye. Swim goggles can be made with corrective lenses, even with ultraviolet protection for outdoor use. These offer the added advantage of keeping chlorinated water out of the eyes.

Summerfield wedding unites Euler, Eldridge

Cheri Lynn Euler of Hereford and Darrell Allen Eldridge of Camp Pendleton, Calif., were united in marriage July 22 in the home of Craig and Susie Bainum in Summerfield.

The bride is the daughter of David R. and Jayne Euler of Hereford.

Dr. Tom Fuller, minister of the First United Methodist Church in Hereford, officiated at the ceremony which was set in a landscaped garden of mums, purple cone flowers, columbine, bachelor buttons, poppies, roses, petunias and pansies. The garden gate, decorated with puffs of tulle and magnolia swags, opened to a pathway leading to a pond and fountain that flowed with teal water to match the bride's chosen colors.

Maid of honor was Christi Ann Euler, sister of the bride. Best man was David Buguski of Albuquerque, N.M.

Serving as groomsman was Bobby Diaz of Happy.

Junior bridesmaids, all cousins of the bride, were Stacia Barber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne E. Barber of Raymore, Mo.; Linzy Woodard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Woodard of Hereford; and Ashley Kent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry D. Kent of Fruita, Colo.

Junior groomsmen, also cousins of the bride, were Aaron Kent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ricky D. Kent of Aztec, N.M. and Cash Kent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry D. Kent.

Serving as ring bearer was Jarrod Kent, also a son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry D. Kent.

The vocal selection, "The Wind Beneath My Wings," was performed by Mrs. Lesley Woodard, aunt of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown worn first by her mother, fashioned of ivory peau de soie. The empire bodice was covered in re-embroidered Alencon lace appliques with seed pearling. An open square neckline was set low on the shoulders over stove-pipe sleeves which ended in graceful lace applique bridal points over the wrists.

Beaded Alencon lace medallions were tucked in the wide pleat dividing the soft A-line skirt. The lace applique V-shaped back neckline was covered by buttons which extended down the softly flared chapel-length train. Accented lace medallions and seed pearls graced the hem of the train.

The veil was designed by the bride's mother and attached to a beaded cap with a fingertip length top layer and a floor length layer of flowing bridal illusion, fashioned with a cap of tulle that created a crown effect.

The bridal bouquet, also created by the mother of the bride and Pam Fogo, friend of the bride, was a full cascading tear drop of silk ivory roses, white lily of the valley and small teal flowers set on a bed of trailing Swedish ivy with three linen magnolia surrounded by ivory tulle, teal and ivory ribbons and strings of pearls.

The bride wore a diamond ring

A house is a machine for living.

—Buckminster Fuller

belonging to her grandmother, Jean Kent, and carried a Bible first carried by her mother.

The maid of honor was attired in a full-length teal gown, set off the shoulders, with a bow attached to a train of the same satin material. The dress featured a sweetheart neckline with a V-shaped back. The skirt was accented with a slit to the knee on the left side.

The couple was honored with a reception following the ceremony in the Bainum's home.

Kim Broniman of Adrian and Dawn Clem of Snyder acted as servers.

The table was covered with an ivory satin cloth with netting overlay and a bow accenting of ivory satin, handcrafted by the late Joan Euler, grandmother of the bride.

The bride's two-tiered Italian cream cake was topped with a porcelain bride and groom and decorated with teal roses.

Coffee was served from a silver service belonging to Cami Melugin, cousin of the bride. The coffee service was inherited from their great-grandfather, the late Joe Kendall.

The bride is a 1994 Hereford High School graduate. She has recently graduated from Albuquerque Job Corp with her course of study in nursing assistant.

The groom is also a recent graduate of Albuquerque Job Corp with his course of study in construction. He has just finished Marine Boot Camp at Camp Pendleton.

Out of town guests represented Parachute, Colo., Raymore, Mo., Aztec, N.M., Fruita, Colo., Albuquerque, N.M., Kanoche Bay, Hawaii and Seattle, Wash.

Extension News

By BEVERLY HARDER
County Extension Agent--FCS

When pickling or canning peppers, it is important to follow the directions carefully. Peppers preserved improperly at home have produced cases of botulism.

It is not always easy to tell if a product contains botulism or other harmful microorganisms. A sure time to be wary is if the seal on a home canned product does not have a vacuum when opened or if the lid makes a popping noise when pressed.

However, improper canning times can also produce botulism that may not cause a seal on the home canned product to break.

Peppers can be a rich source of vitamins A and C, so preserving peppers can yield a bountiful harvest of nutrition in the winter months.

Peppers are low in acid and must be properly acidified if they are to be safely processed in a water bath canner. The lower temperatures used in pickling help to preserve the crispness of the peppers. All peppers--sweet to hot--can be pickled.

--Choose peppers that are firm, fresh and free from bruises.

--Preserve immediately after picking.

--Canning salt may be used or can be omitted by those on low sodium diets. Caution: do not use salt substitutes in canning products.

--Use a four to six percent acetic white vinegar. (Other vinegars may turn the peppers dark).

--Make a brine of one part water to one part vinegar.

--Blanch peppers in water or steam for three to five minutes, prick with a fork or slash with a knife or blister and peel.

--Pack peppers tightly into cleaning jars, leaving 1-2 inch headspace.

--Add 1-2 to one teaspoon salt per pint for flavoring.

--Cover with the standard vinegar brine.

--A thin layer (1-8 inch) of salad or olive oil may be poured on top of the brine.

--Follow the process directions.

--Process pints for 17 minutes and quarts for 25 minutes in boiling water bath. (Water temperature should be at 170 to 190 degrees Fahrenheit).

--Caution: This recipe is only for pickled peppers in a vinegar brine.

For further canning information, we invite you to call the county extension office at 364-3573.

Red Cross Update

The Board of Directors and other volunteers are invited to meet Terry Kelly, field service manager from Fort Worth, on Tuesday.

The board will meet at noon, for lunch at the office. Terry will be meeting with the new Chapter Manager Johnnie Meeks for manager orientation.

Volunteers are invited to stop by the office and meet the new chapter manager. He has successfully completed the AIDS/HIV instructor class held in Amarillo. Call the office to arrange for a class or program.

Appointments are being taken for the school clothing program. Call the office to make an appointment. Used clothing will be given out on Wednesday, Aug. 21.

During July, Red Cross managed 31 national disaster relief operations. The estimated cost of these 31 operations is approximately $6.3 million with 21,108 family dwellings affected.

In response to the bombing in the Olympic Village, the Red Cross in Atlanta handled thousands of disaster welfare inquiries from chapters and concerned citizens. Donations are being accepted for disaster relief.

Special thanks to Dale Henson for owing the entire lot at the office and to Rick Whitehorn for giving First Aid programs to the bus drivers school and teaching CPR classes.

Gracias

Our family was stunned by the sudden departure of our loved one, Roy P. Rios. We would like to express our thanks to our out-of-town relatives, local family, friends and vecinos who generously offered prayers, sent flowers and food. Your compassion and kindness brought great comfort in our moment of grief.

We were indebted to the Holly Sugar Corporation employees who went above and beyond the call of duty and respect. For their immediate response to volunteer pallbearers and ushers, and for the special assistance to Roy's Mother at the hospital during the whole ordeal.

To Msgr. Blum, the St. Anthony's Parishioners and the ladies who prepared the lunch on the day of the funeral. To the San Jose Musicians who calmed our spirits. We are truly grateful.

To all of you, especially Roy's friends. Muchas gracias de todo corazón.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Sunday, August 11, the 224th day of 1996. There are 142 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On August 11, 1965, rioting and looting broke out in the predominantly black Watts section of Los Angeles; in the week that followed, 34 people were killed and more than 1,000 injured.

On this date:
In 1860, the nation's first successful silver mill began operation near Virginia City, Nev.

In 1909, the SOS distress signal was first used by an American ship, the Arapahoe off Cape Hatteras, N.C.

In 1934, the first federal prisoners arrived at the island prison Alcatraz in San Francisco Bay.

In 1942, during World War II, Vichy government official Pierre Laval publicly declared that "the hour of liberation for France is the hour when Germany wins the war."

In 1945, the Allies responded to Japan's offer to surrender provided Emperor Hirohito retained his sovereignty; the Allies said they would determine the Emperor's future status.

In 1954, a formal peace took hold in Indochina, ending more than seven years of fighting between the French and Communist Vietnam.

In 1956, abstract artist Jackson Pollock died in an automobile accident in East Hampton, N.Y.

In 1962, the Soviet Union launched cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev on a 94-hour flight.

In 1975, the United States vetoed the proposed admission of North and South Vietnam to the United Nations, following the Security Council's refusal to consider South Korea's application.

In 1984, President Reagan sparked controversy when he joked during a voice test for a paid political radio address that he had "signed legislation that will outlaw Russia forever. We begin bombing in five minutes."

Ten years ago: American and Soviet delegations met for eight hours outside Moscow to discuss arms control proposals.

Five years ago: Shiite Muslim kidnappers in Lebanon released two Western captives: Edward Tracy, an American held nearly five years, and Jerome Leyraud, a Frenchman who'd been abducted by a rival group three days earlier. The space shuttle Atlantis returned safely from a nine-day journey.

One year ago: President Clinton banned all U.S. nuclear tests, calling his decision "the right step as we continue pulling back from the nuclear precipice." A federal criminal investigation was opened into whether senior FBI officials covered up their approval of "shoot-on-sight" orders during a deadly 1992 siege at Ruby Ridge, Idaho.

Today's Birthdays: Former TV talk show host Mike Douglas is 71.

It is better to be profound in clear terms than in obscure terms.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A doctor told our granddaughter that she has an ovary cyst. Is this very rare? I understand cysts like this will go away on their own. True? She does not have pain, or if she has any doesn't complain about it. She's only 18. She is going back for a follow-up soon. — Mrs. L.J.

ANSWER: Every woman develops ovarian cysts over time because of the peculiar relationship between ova and their follicle nests. As an egg matures, a follicle covering forms, to be broached ultimately by the fully mature egg. That's ovulation.

Occasionally an egg fails to break through and remains behind, forming a cyst, which the doctor feels as an irregularity on an otherwise smooth ovary surface. Over years, many such cysts can form. They tend to be painless and self-limiting.

Some cysts develop in a different way — some, in fact, after the egg's successful release from its follicle. Such a "corpus luteum" cyst forms as blood collects in the vacant follicle. As do most other ovarian cysts, corpus luteum cysts often disappear spontaneously during the next six weeks.

They also ordinarily are painless.

A follow-up examination should tell much. A persisting cyst or an enlarging one might raise suspicion of deeper problems, such as cancer.

In that case, more intense and sophisticated testing would be in order to learn just what is going on. In one procedure, the doctor views the ovaries with a scope inserted through a tiny pelvic incision.

I'm betting that your granddaughter's cyst will be adjudged harmless, that it will have subsided or shown signs of that in follow-up exams. I hope so. Then everyone can breathe more easily.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I was diagnosed with porcelain gallbladder and am scheduled for surgery. What do they mean by "porcelain"? How does it happen? Why do they have to remove the bladder? — Mrs. E.M.

ANSWER: A porcelain gallbladder is one whose wall has been infiltrated with blood calcium. It looks brittle, porcelainlike, as though covered by an eggshell.

It happens in a gallbladder that has suffered through a period of chronic inflammation — which is an open invitation for the calcium infiltration. The body frequently relies on calcium concentration as a protective measure in cases of tissue damage.

Surprisingly, symptoms of a porcelain gallbladder are vague midstomach-level pain. There are cases where pain does not occur.

Doctors plan to remove your gallbladder because the condition places you at risk for cancer.

For an in-depth discussion of gallbladder problems and treatments, see report No. 40. Readers can order the report by sending $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (55 cents) No. 10 envelope to: Dr. Donohue — No. 40, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am writing in response to Mrs. L.B., who inquired about laser surgery for narrow-angle glaucoma. My experience might help her. My ophthalmologist used a laser, and the drainage holes are checked annually. It was a successful experience, one that should ease Mrs. L.B.'s concerns. — C.H.

As many of you know, August is typically the library's month for organizing and planning programs. Our new Services Coordinator would like to hear from you concerning special one time or continuous programs that you would be interested in.

Some of you have already expressed a desire to learn to crochet and sew and Sue has already found instructors. If you are interested in these classes, or have other suggestions, please call 364-1206 and talk to Sue Cherry or Rebecca Walls.

There are some new craft and sewing books coming out this week for those of you interested in getting a head start on those Christmas gifts or maybe your kids need some new school clothes.

Maybe you need something good to read to help you relax after that long hard day at work. I'm not sure how relaxing Buzz Cut by James W. Hall will be. Dean Koontz says it's "Unfailing gripping...explodes with the brilliance of chain lightning."

Even John Sandford, another author that keeps you on the edge of your chair, has given it a glowing review.

Set in South Florida, the Gulf and the shade of Key Largo, Thorn enjoys his nice quiet home, a place without a TV, radio or newspaper. Then an old friend Gopher Sugarman comes to visit and begins to tell Thorn about his new job with Fiesta Cruise Lines.

It seems that "Ms. Eclipse" had been loosing $50,000 every month for the past seven months when Sugarman was hired to catch the thief. Then on another cruise, a casino worker was killed and his shirt stolen. Someone was impersonating a casino worker, but who?

As the body count rises, Sugar knows he is no closer to catching the man responsible, that is, until he is attacked by a madman who has a knife in one hand and 400,000 volts of electricity in the other. As Sugarman recovers from the attack, the Thorn arrives in Miami to find a bizarre case of extortion and violence surrounding Marton Sampson, the owner of the cruise lines.

It seems the madman has taken the "Ms. Eclipse" hostage and one by one, passengers began to die. Anxious to catch the man responsible for hurting his friend, Thorn begins to stalk his quarry in a nerve racking game of cat and mouse.

Kate Wilhelm's new book Malice Presence is about the murder of an Oregon Congressman. Almost twenty years before, the congressman led a field trip on which Teddy Wendover was seriously injured. Teddy survived the accident, but was left mentally stunted.

Now, Teddy is six-foot-two and twenty eight years-old with the mind of an eight year-old. Is it possible that Teddy could be responsible for the congressman's death?

The killer left rocks scattered about the murder site. The rocks are just like those that Teddy collects and plays with.

It is Barbara Holloway's job to discover the innocence or guilt of Teddy Wendover and to defend him to the best of her ability in the court of law. This will be no easy case for Kate, but she believes Teddy has been through enough.

Now for the love interest for the week. Catherine Coulter's Rosehaven travels back in time to medieval England. Severin of Langthorne returns from the Holy Lands in 1277 to find his family's estate, his father and brother dead, his mother demented and the land property is owned by the Earl of Oxborough. The Earl knows he doesn't have long live.

Before he dies, the Earl selects Severin to marry his daughter. This will give Severin a new title, property, possessions and a not so willing wife. It becomes Severin's duty to protect his holdings, stay in good standing with King Edward and produce an heir.

Severin, a strong and vigorous warrior, and Hastings, an independent and loyal healer, have their differences. Hastings, unlike many, does not fear the warrior, how could she fear a man who has a pet marten that sits on his shoulder and waves a paw at her? Severin's pet marten may be the one to steal your heart as you read this story.

The Outsider by Penelope Williamson takes place in Montana among an Amish sect known to many as the "Plain People." Rachel Yoder had come to Montana with her family in an attempt to escape the corrupting influence that threatened their simple way of life.

Rachel met and married Ben Yoder in this new wild territory and there she gave birth to a son, Benjo. Rachel had loved Ben deeply and was devastated when he was wrongly accused and hanged by a vigilante mob for stealing cattle. Then one bitter cold day, the outsider stumbles into her life.

Dying from a bullet wound in the side, Rachel extends her help and kindness. Cain was the stranger's name and Rachel knew that name and the gun he wore indicated a killing nature. Despite all warnings of the others, Rachel hires Cain to work the ranch with her when he is well enough. Rachel never dreamed that the killer lived just below the surface or the gun that he so easily used would prove to be her salvation.

Oops! I forgot to tell you. The family film for August is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 22 at 7 p.m. Babe is a movie with a barnyard full of unforgettable characters. It is fresh, original and very funny. The film stars James Cromwell, Magda Szubanski and the pig as Babe. Take your family out for a free night of movies at the library.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I have a cedar chest that is around 70 years old. Before giving it to me, my aunt used mothballs in the chest.

The smell has permeated the wood and I cannot get rid of it. I have sanded the interior, let the chest air in the sun for days at a time, and even rubbed it with a chemical cleaner.

The mothball odor remains, especially after closing the lid for a time. No one can give me any other ideas. Please help. — Judy Foster, Chester, S.C.

We get this question all the time. So, we contacted a leading manufacturer of cedar chests and here is what they suggest.

In a well-ventilated area, preferably outside, wipe out the interior of the chest with naphtha or mineral spirits, following the label directions exactly. Be sure to read the entire label first, as both of these solvents are flammable. Let the chest air outside in a shady spot (not in the direct sun) until completely dry.

When dry, you may be able to renew the cedar smell by sanding the interior of the chest with 400- or 500-grit sandpaper. Wipe or vacuum up the residue. If this doesn't bring back the odor, you may want to put small cedar balls or cedar chips in the chest for some cedar smell.

You can also buy cedar oil (usually available from the manufacturer) to wipe down the interior walls. However, if you do this, you need to use caution when putting things back in the chest because the oil may stain. — Heloise

LAUNDRY-DETERGENT BOXES
Dear Heloise: Save large laundry-detergent boxes with handles for children's smaller toys. They are strong and can also be decorated with wallpaper. — Claire B. Anderson, Seattle

PERFUME SAMPLES

Dear Heloise: I have a neat tip. When I receive a statement from large department stores they always include several fragrance samples on paper. I insert them in my bed linens and they give the linens a nice fragrance.

It lasts until the next month's statement arrives with a pack of fresh fragrances. — Della Ruth McCauley, Spruce Pine, Ala.

Good hint. We have had similar hints before, and after printing them we always get letters from scent-sensitive readers who ask us to remind others that if they are inviting guests to stay overnight to check if they are allergic before using a scent strip in the spare bedroom. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: When my latticed laundry basket became so broken (the lattices) that it was ready to be trashed I cut the top off, leaving one row of lattice on the top.

I put it on our patio for a bird pool for the little finches to use for bathing and drinking. This pool also is used by squirrels and rabbits for drinking. Dogs and cats "at large" come for drinks. — M.G. Ross, Circleville, Ohio

Your hint is double duty — recycling and an animal helper. Since we're having a drought here in south Texas many of us are putting out containers of water for the wildlife and birds. Thanks for writing in. — Heloise

REUSE FILM CANISTERS

Dear Heloise: I found a nifty way to reuse the 35mm film canisters. I used a utility knife and slit the plastic from the top, about halfway down, to create a slot.

I slipped a roll of postage stamps inside the canister, pulling the first stamp through the slot.

Voila! I have a neat stamp dispenser for my desk at home. You can snap the lid on or leave it off, and you can paint or decorate the canister, if you like.

Make a new one every time you buy a roll of 35mm film. — Judy Turner, Mesa, Ariz.

Class-action status denied

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Class-action status has been denied to more than 50-thousand woman who filed lawsuits claiming they suffered medical problems from using the contraceptive Norplant.

U.S. District Judge Richard Schell said Thursday in Beaumont it's premature to grant class-action status to plaintiffs because no individual cases have gone to trial.

He cited an earlier appeals court opinion in a case against a tobacco company.

Schell will preside over a trial in February of five of the thousands of lawsuits pending in his court. The defendant is Wyeth-Ayerst Laboratories, which distributes Norplant in the United States.

Schell invited plaintiffs to again seek class-action status after the first of the trials are completed.

How To Be A Winner

This column might have been easier to write a book. There are so many characteristics of winners it is difficult to confine these thoughts to approximately 600 words. I feel like the mosquito flying over the nudist colony: Where do I start?

Here's a lesson I learned at age 19: If there is little to lose and much to gain by trying, by all means try. So, I'll try to edit the book into a column.

Winning Ways

My dictionary defines the word way as "a path in life; ... habits of life or conduct." Therefore, the paths you choose and the habits you develop become your winning ways.

• Winners have integrity. Winners are of sound moral principle, upright, honest and sincere. Winners are honest even when the consequences of being honest are negative. A winner measures his or her actions against this four-point guide: 1) Is it true?, 2) Is it fair to all?, 3) Are my words consistent with my actions? and 4) Would I be ashamed if this was printed on the front page of the newspaper?

• Winners decide what they want from life. Winners don't take care, they take control. There is nothing that can stand in the way of person's will to achieve. Winners decide where they want to go and what they wish to accomplish. They develop a plan and set goals to achieve their plan.

• Winners start early. In the quiet of the early morning you'll find winners getting a jump on the day. The "early start" philosophy works equally well in college studies, engineering projects, growing your business and cleaning your house.

• Winners don't avoid conflict. They don't go out of their way to create conflict, but they don't avoid it either. Winners know that new objectives create new tensions. They realize that some folks will reject new ideas. Winners are willing to experience conflict and change to achieve worthy goals.

• Winners accept responsibility for their actions. Winners make mistakes. However, they gracefully accept the consequences and go on with their lives. Though winners make mistakes, they seldom make the same mistake twice. When you reap the results of your efforts, you work harder to eliminate errors. This is a key principle of good leadership.

• Winners are achievers. Winners start their own engines. They do not rely on others for motivation. They grasp opportunity with both hands and do not let go until they achieve the desired result. Winners never confuse activity with productivity.

• Winners hang with winners. Positive attitudes can be very fragile. Since losers are often negative, winners avoid them. Doesn't it make more sense to surround yourself with people who are positive and uplifting if you want to grow and prosper? Of course it does, and winners know it.

• Winners are quality-driven. Winners know the value of hard work and they know the rewards of smart work. The quality-driven winner will look for the smart way to do it right, thereby saving time and effort of doing it over.

• Winners never quit trying. Winners know that you cannot fail totally if you have the courage to try. If you can't climb over your personal mountain, go around it. If you can't go around, dig a tunnel through it. If you can't dig through it, turn it into a waterslide and call it "Magic Mountain." Just don't quit trying.

So much to write, so little space. These winning ways are only the beginning. Winners know the value of making work fun, laughing when surrounded by difficult circumstances and the job of living a balanced life. They practice loyalty, pay strict attention to details and are strong team players. The list goes on!

For the family seeking the height of style and comfort with an affordable price tag, Plan G-13, by HomeStyles Designers Network is their answer. With 1,895 square feet of living space, this home is most inviting.

The French facade will catch the eye of passers-by. The exterior, accented by quoins, keystones and arched window arrangements, is striking.

Adjacent to the living and dining rooms, the breakfast nook and kitchen share a serving bar. The bay in the nook makes the area bright and sunny.

On the way to the master bath, two walk-in closets with mirror doors provide storage space. The bath has a cheery garden tub and a separate shower.

Keeping an eye on Texas

Cattle ranchers suffer losses

The price per head of cattle has dropped to its lowest point since 1975 due to an abundance of cattle, the Texas drought and the increased cost of supplemental feed. Imports from Mexico appear to have little effect on the market.

After the North American Free Trade Agreement, Mexico and Canada have supplied only 2.7 percent of the demand for beef in the U.S.

Ag Day to feature several speakers

Agricultural producers in the High Plains have had their hands full this season. First it's been the drought and now in the northern Panhandle counties--some crops are being harvested late, if at all, due to wet fields.

"Moisture or the lack of it is still the most important factor determining success or failure in production," Dr. Bob Robinson, Panhandle and South Plains Extension District Director, said.

Organizers of the Texas Panhandle Ag Day on Aug. 22 are hoping to present the pros and cons of this season's production and offer some perspectives for the future.

The occasion will have scientists, specialists and consultants with the Texas A&M Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service with USDA--Agricultural Research Service.

Ag Day registration begins at 8:30 a.m. at the Conservation and Production Research Laboratory, less than a mile west of Bushland. Education and industry exhibits will be open before and during the program. Coffee and donuts will be courtesy of CIBA Crop Protection.

Bus tours will start by 9:15 a.m. where the participants will see research results and demonstrations highlighting sorghum, corn, forages and alternate summer crops for the dryland and irrigated operation.

More than 20 speakers will address a full range of topics important to Panhandle producers.

Tour stops and scientists featured include dryland forages and alternative summer crops with USDA scientist, Paul Unger. Efficient use of irrigation water for grain production will be discussed by Terry Howell, Arland Schneider and Steve Evett, all of USDA. The third stop includes talks by Ron Allen of USDA and Clay Salisbury, TAES.

Study identifies how best to control spurge

By DAVE CLARK
Associated Press Writer
MANDAN, N.D. (AP) - Tim Faller points to a fenced-off pasture painted yellow by the flowers of the leafy spurge plant, a tenacious weed that is spreading throughout rangeland in the West.

On the other side of the fence, the grass truly is greener. Hardly a spot of yellow can be seen.

"Just one year ago that same amount of spurge was on the other side of that fence," Faller said.

The difference? One field is grazed by sheep, who gladly gobble up spurge, the bane of many a livestock herder. The other field is not being grazed.

Faller, the director of North Dakota State University's Hettinger Research Extension Center, is one of the leaders of a 10-year study, in its first year, about how best to use sheep to control spurge.

The noxious weed infests more than 1 million acres in the state. It crowds out native grasses and destroys rangeland.

Sheep eat the leaf and flower off the leafy spurge plant, but the roots are untouched.

"They don't kill it, they just control it," Faller said. "If you take the sheep off, it will grow right back."

Faller said researchers hope to learn about the long-term effects of adding sheep to pastures that are also grazed by cattle.

"You've got to have a little bit longer view of the impact on the rest of the environment," he said. "What happens to upland birds? What happens to grazing deer?"

The research is being conducted on 2,400 acres owned by the state Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation. Half the land is near the Missouri River Correctional Center, a minimum security prison in Bismarck. The other 1,200 acres are at Sunny Farm south of Mandan near the Youth Correctional Center.

The pastures are divided into 20-acre plots. Each plot is fenced off to make four five-acre pastures. One pasture is grazed with sheep, one is grazed with cattle, one has both animals and the fourth is left empty.

An experiment several years ago at the Dickinson Research Extension Center found that adding sheep to land grazed by cows had no significant effect on the rangeland.

"Sheep use a different component of the range," said Jim Nelson of the Dickinson research center. "By combining cows and sheep, we were able to get better use of what was on the land."

Faller said the optimum ratio is roughly 80 percent animal units of cattle to 20 percent animal units of sheep.

Sheep eat broad leaves, including buckbrush and snowberry that help control erosion and provide shelter for wildlife. Faller said overgrazing by sheep would endanger those plants.

The connection with the corrections department began five or six years ago when Rough Rider Industries, a prison factory that employs inmates, asked for help controlling leafy spurge on its land.

The area couldn't be treated with chemicals because it is too close to the Missouri River and has too many trees. So, NDSU researchers put sheep on the land to eat the spurge.

"After one year, we pretty much had the spurge in check," Faller said.

When corrections officials saw how successful the sheep were in controlling the spurge, they asked if something could be done with the 2,400 acres that now make up the experiment area.

Agriculture Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. horticultural exports are up 2 percent from last year's level, spurred by a recent increase in demand for nuts and juices.

The Agriculture Department says shipments of tree nuts in May were 64 percent above year-earlier figures, while export sales of fruit and vegetable juices rose 17 percent.

On the other hand, exports of fresh vegetables dropped 17 percent.

In the first eight months of the fiscal year that began Oct. 1, 1995, exports of fruits, vegetables, nuts, flowers and ornamentals totaled $6.3 billion.

One of the bright spots in the export picture is wine, with shipments running at a record $275 million, 32 percent above a year ago. In the five years ending last Sept. 30, the value of those exports soared nearly 50 percent.

"More varieties of higher-quality U.S. wine, robust foreign demand, favorable exchange rates and market promotion efforts by the U.S. wine industry have contributed to these results," USDA said in its monthly report.

The three biggest customers - Canada, the United Kingdom and Japan - regularly take more than half the U.S. wine shipped abroad.

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) - Flue-cured tobacco production in Virginia is expected to rise 17 percent this year, and market prices may increase because much of the tobacco crop in North Carolina was damaged by Hurricane Bertha.

However, predicting demand on the tobacco warehouse floor is like forecasting the weather.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The interest rate on pre-1996 loans from the Commodity Credit Corp. is 5 7/8 percent this month, up from 5 3/4 percent in July.

The Agriculture Department says the rate for 1996 crop-year loans disbursed this month is 6 7/8 percent, compared with 6 3/4 percent in July.

Ask Cecil Oglesby about his cellular service!

It brings the field a whole lot closer to the home office.

Cecil Oglesby has been in the farm implement business long enough to see some vast changes in both the equipment he sells and the equipment he uses to keep ahead of the difficult times his industry is going through.

As the owner of Oglesby Equipment Company, Inc., Oglesby says the cellular phone has been one of those new tools that helps his business meet today's growing challenges.

"We have five cellular phones here at our company, and they save us lots of mileage on our vehicles," he said. "The phones are more versatile than the two-way radio, and they sure save us a bunch of time when we're on the road for service or sales calls."

"We switched over to XIT Cellular because their rate structures were better suited to our needs than other cellular providers we had used earlier," he said. "We've been very happy with XIT."

The Big Easy arrives as series on USA Sunday

By Roberta C. Nelson
©TVData Features Syndicate

The steamy, sultry city known as the Big Easy sizzles onto television screens Sunday, Aug. 11.

Based on the 1986 theatrical release of the same name, The Big Easy premieres on USA Network as an hour-long drama series filmed entirely on location in New Orleans.

"The city has kind of an underbelly and nether world, and that hasn't been portrayed in the past by films that tried to portray it, including (the film) The Big Easy," says David Ross McCarty of Louisiana Locations, consultant to the film and the series.

"We ask the locals, 'What is unique? Things that have never been seen? Neat little getaways that you know about?'"

The sexy, sassy city famous for its wrought-iron architecture, cool jazz and hot Cajun food is as prominent in the series as the stars.

"New Orleans is a flavor of America no one really knows," McCarty says.

"We're using all very realistic names, music, foods, beers and flavors; we'd use smells too, if we could do it."

Music - Dixieland, blues and zydeco - plays a prominent role. The Big Easy employs a music consultant who lines up jazz musicians to perform on the show. A fictitious jazz club, Blue's Spot, was invented for the series.

The Big Easy stays faithful to the original film, straying only occasionally to accommodate the series' story lines.

Tony Crane plays Detective Remy McSwain, a charming womanizer who rarely goes by the book. "We've got our own way of doing things," he tells Anne Osborne, a beautiful federal attorney, in one of the many memorable lines borrowed from the film.

Remy's smooth, sexy style annoys, alarms and excites Anne, who is engaged to an environmental attorney in her hometown, Washington, D.C.

In another scene, also true to the film, she tells him, "I've never had much luck with sex."

Anne is in New Orleans to investigate illegal dumping in the bayou - an opportunity for the show's directors to use stunning photography of New Orleans' natural environment.

Anne, played by Susan Walters, is as foreign to the hot, humid South as a Nordic ice queen. She's even allergic to the shellfish used to create the city's famous cuisine.

Together, Remy and Anne fight crime in the Crescent City. That is, when the sexual sparks between them momentarily subside.

Remy seems to be related to half the town - the half he hasn't slept with.

Wherever he goes, there is a cop who is his cousin, a woman from his past or a body whose face he recognizes.

"Remy McSwain never met a floater he didn't know," says his partner, Detective Darlene Broussard (Karla Tamburelli), a former showgirl.

Barry Corbin, who played Maurice Minnifield in Northern Exposure, plays C.D. LeBlanc, New Orleans' sheriff and Remy's uncle.

While the C.D. LeBlanc character in the movie was corrupt (and killed off), the series' C.D. is a wise counselor to Remy.

What sets The Big Easy apart from other crime dramas is its strong identification with the people and places of New Orleans. From the jazz funeral at the end of the second episode to the Mardi Gras beads hanging on Remy's bedpost, no one would mistake The Big Easy for a show set anywhere else.

Barry Corbin, Susan Walters and Tony Crane (from left) in The Big Easy, a weekly crime drama set in New Orleans. Crane plays an unconventional detective, Walters portrays a federal attorney and Corbin plays the local sheriff. The series premieres Sunday on USA Network.

It's a great time to give extra attention to romance if you have been neglecting it lately. Write love poems, plan special evenings. Your creative juices are boiling over. Take advantage.

TAURUS -- April 21/May 21
Strategic planning helps make things right this week, Taurus. Don't put it off. Focus on the short term and achieving your goals will fall into place on its own. Take a break with a Pisces friend on Wednesday. Listen carefully to advice. A weekend outdoors is key to relaxation.

GEMINI -- May 22/June 21
People are having trouble reading you early this week. Make efforts to stay on an even keel. Patience is needed on the home front midweek. Remember to listen before you act. Working hard without complaints won't go unnoticed. Be careful not to bite off more than you can chew.

CANCER -- June 22/July 22
Take time out to concentrate on yourself. Catch up on all that you've been putting off. When was the last time you exercised. Cancer? Stop making excuses and get to it. Leave room in your schedule for the unexpected on Saturday. You'll need it for a romantic tryst with a Libra.

LEO -- July 23/August 23
A Sagittarius sweeps you off your feet on Sunday with creative romantic overtures. Put yourself on the backburner this time and remember to say thanks over and over again. You might want to repay his/her efforts on Thursday. It will be worth your while. Money is tight over the weekend.

VIRGO -- Aug 24/Sept 22
Confused about romance? Funny how you've found yourself here yet again, Virgo. When will you learn? Make a decision and stick to it. A female Leo brings a blessing in disguise on Tuesday. Pay close attention or you risk missing its significance. Time alone gives you insight.

★ ★ LIBRA -- Sept 23/Oct 23

It's hard to build friendships over the phone. To really know someone you need time together. Make it a priority this week. Pull out all the stops, use charm, creativity and don't forget your sense of humor. A Capricorn will find you impossible to resist. Good news comes in the mail Friday. Money looks good over the weekend.

★ ★ SCORPIO -- Oct 24/Nov 22

Have you been dragging your feet lately? It's time to make things right. Stop weighing every possible outcome and seize the moment. Don't be afraid to delve into savings for special projects. Thinking about getting a new job? A Taurus poses an interesting opportunity.

SAGITTARIUS -- Nov 23/Dec 21

If you're thinking about getting in touch with an old friend, now may not be the time. Focus more on self-improvement. Books and magazines offer good insight and bring things to the surface. Don't be afraid to examine your life closely. It's an important step in getting ahead.

CAPRICORN -- Dec 22/Jan 20

It's a good time to make plans for the future. Setting long-term goals gives you motivation to prioritize your life. Finances should fall at the top of your list. It's a good week to put in some overtime at work. Family driving you crazy? Be careful not to turn battles into war.

AQUARIUS -- Jan 21/Feb 18

Pulling yourself out of a rut is hard work, especially for a sensitive Aquarian. Nonetheless, it must be done. Stop focusing on loss and open your eyes to all that is around you. Future challenges await. Make a list of things you have yet to achieve and get going on them.

PISCES -- Feb 19/March 20

A Leo appreciates your efforts at work on Tuesday. Take pride in the example you have shown. Financial matters demand some attention midweek. Bag lunches are a great way to cut costs. Stress ties your muscles up in knots midweek. Extra time at the gym relieves your body and your mind.

HIGHLIGHTS

Tom Brokaw of NBC Nightly News and Jim Lehrer of Newshour With Jim Lehrer on PBS will provide live coverage and analysis of the Republican National Convention Monday through Thursday.

No fireworks, but Republican convention full of purpose

By Roberta C. Nelson
©TVData Features Syndicate

Everybody knows how the story will end at the four-day Republican National Convention in San Diego. So why watch?

"The absence of knockdown, drag-out floor fights has only to do with fireworks," says Jim Lehrer, PBS anchorman for the convention coverage.

"Selecting presidents is the most important function we perform as citizens of the United States. It is not a show of sparks and explosions. It is a show of purpose and substance."

Lehrer and NBC's Tom Brokaw will lead their respective news teams at the convention in a cooperative venture between the two networks that began in 1992.

Dan Rather heads the CBS contingent, which includes Ed Bradley, Lesley Stahl and Andy Rooney.

ABC's news team, headed by Peter Jennings, plans live coverage with Cokie Roberts, Jeff Greenfield and Michel McQueen.

Since the proliferation of individual state primaries now dominates the nominating process, conventions have become carefully orchestrated coronations of a party's nominee.

But Lehrer says there is still much to learn from watching the proceedings.

Voters and viewers gain important insight watching the party hammer out a platform that indicates — even if it does not predict — the party's philosophy for future policy decisions.

And the roll call of the states is still a stirring sight, as the individual states cast their ballots.

PBS and NBC plan the heaviest live coverage, three hours each night.

CBS has scheduled one hour of live coverage Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 12 and 13, and two hours Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 14 and 15. ABC plans one hour of live broadcast Monday and Tuesday, and 1 1/2 hours on Wednesday and Thursday.

"National nominating conventions are the parties' first opportunity in the election season to address the voters 'wholesale,' as [political analyst] Mark Shields would say. 'Here is our candidate. Here is what we believe. Here is why you should vote for us.'"

SOAP TALK

Two daytime favorites head for prime time

It's that time of year again when the networks and cable stations announce their new fall lineups.

This year there is a big plus for fans of soap operas. Several favorites from the past are showing up on the prime-time schedule.

Michael Easton is one such favorite. Easton starred as Tanner on Days of Our Lives a few years ago. After a short stint on VR.5, Easton has taken on his own show.

The syndicated program Two is the story of twins (both played by Easton) who fight the battle of good vs. evil.

"It's a show where viewers will be left wondering which twin is actually on screen," says Easton.

"It is a great part to play, and you just don't find these [kinds] of roles every day."

Of his work, Harrison Ford says, "I don't use any particular method. I'm from the 'let's pretend' school of acting."

"In the story, the twins were separated at birth by a car accident. One twin, the evil one, was sent to foster homes. The other twin was raised by a very loving family."

"The evil twin discovers he has a brother and decides to ruin his life."

Easton says working on the soaps gave him an appreciation of what it takes to be an actor.

"Working on Days was hard work," says Easton. "People don't realize just how hard daytime actors work."

Easton's new show is one of the better syndicated programs up for grabs this year. His fans will definitely be happy to see him back on a regular basis.

Susan Walters, who played the popular Lorna on Loving, also has a new show.

Walters is a member of the cast of

The Big Easy on the USA Network.

"It's a wonderful role," says Walters, who plays a federal attorney who has recently moved to New Orleans. "It's a new place and a new way of life for the character."

Walters has gone blond for the role, and she loves it. "I've been wanting to make a change for a long time. Big Easy was the perfect excuse. I love being blond."

CHITTER CHATTER

WASHINGTON (AP) - Esquire magazine enlisted the help of a photographer with some serious White House connections to get a candid shot of President Clinton - fledgling shutterbug Chelsea Clinton.

The magazine is publishing a picture in its September edition of a relaxed and smiling Clinton in shirt and jeans swinging a golf club in the secluded Treaty Room of the White House.

The room, which serves as the president's private office, is strictly off limits to photographers - but not to Chelsea.

"Only someone with Chelsea's connections could have obtained such a rare photograph of the president," Esquire said.

The photo appears with an article by author Taylor Branch, who has known Clinton since the 1970s. After interviewing the president, Branch left his camera with the president and said he would be honored to have Chelsea photograph her father for the magazine.

NEW YORK (AP) - Alicia Silverstone longs for the good life, not the glamorous one.

"I really love what I'm doing on this movie, but, at the same time, I'd rather be married and have beautiful babies and millions of animals and eat delicious food and get as fat as I want. Live! You know?"

The 19-year-old "Clueless" star is producing a movie tentatively titled "Excess Baggage," but she's not a big fan of the business.

She called Hollywood "very cold and very dry and very dark. But the people, they always have a smile on their face, though I always wonder, how deep in that smile is the knife?"

She said Hollywood is not the kind of place where people reach out and say, "I know you can do it." For that reason, "I never hang out with people in the industry."

NEW YORK (AP) - "Home Alone" star Macaulay Culkin is willing to dip into his fortune to save his parents from the financial ruin brought about by a long-running custody battle.

The 15-year-old actor, whose worth is estimated at $17 million, also has no interest in acting until his parents' squabbling ends, said his lawyer Kenneth Weinrib.

The actor's never-married parents, Christopher "Kit" Culkin, 51, and Patricia Brentrup, 40, have spent so much on their legal fight that they are near bankruptcy.

Macaulay is unable to focus on his career because of the custody battle involving him and his six siblings, Weinrib said. To help smooth things out, his lawyer and accountant have asked a judge to approve a bailout plan for the parents.
