Labor Boss Is Target Of New Crackdown On Peronista Group

THE SENATOR GOT A DEER—Sen. Estes Kefauver, (D-Tenn.) left, and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, (D-Tex.) look over the 10-point buck deer that Kefauver bagged with his first shot while hunting on the Johnson ranch near Stonewall, Tex. Dixon-Yates Dispute Heads For Court Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) decision to pay no damages to the Dixon-Yates group on a cancelled private power contract headed for a court fight today. The issue may involve millions of dollars.

Figuring heavily in the AEC's action, announced last night, was a legal opinion that New York financier Adolphe H. Wenzell, "while having a conflicting private interest, acted as one of the principal advisors to the government in the negotiation of the contract."

This opinion by AEC General Counsel William Mitchell in effect confirmed charges made by Democrats who had fought the power contract from the beginning.

The commission's action also amounted to a victory for these Democrats who argued, after President Eisenhower ordered the pact cancelled last July, that no money settlement should be made with the Dixon-Yates group because of the conflict of interest they alleged.

Underlying the long standing Dixon-Yates controversy was the public-vs.-private power issue and the dispute was almost certain to echo in the national election campaigns next year.

Sens. Anderson of New Mexico and Gore of Tennessee, two of the leading Democratic foes of the Dixon-Yates contract, applauded when they learned that the AEC had informed the Mississippi Valley Generating Co. its power contract "is not an obligation which can be recognized by the United States."

The AEC cited Mitchell's opinion that "there is a substantial question as to whether there were material violations of law and public policy in the inception of the contract."

The AEC action means it does not intend to pay any of the costs incurred by the Dixon-Yates group for site acquisition, preliminary work on the power project, and the like.

Office Deputy Resigns Here

Sheriff Homer Whisnand today announced the resignation of Lowell Holt as the office deputy.

Holt resigned to accept a post as an investigator for an insurance firm. He will work out of the company's main office at Houston. Holt had been a deputy with the department since February, 1954.

In announcing the resignation, Whisnand highly commended the deputy. Holt is a former agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He served for four and one-half years in Indiana, New York, and Vermont with the agency. He resigned just before coming here.

Holt is a 1949 graduate of the Baylor Law School. A native of Gatesville, he is a World War II veteran and served in the Army as a captain.

Dallas Man Taken To Texarkana Prison

DALLAS (AP) — W. M. (Doc) Estep, 59, convicted of using the mails to defraud in his promotion of a "miracel cure" scheme, was taken to the federal correctional institution at Texarkana yesterday to begin serving a 5-year sentence.

Estep was convicted at Abilene in May, 1954. He had spent 402 days in the Dallas county jail but only 6 of them counted on his prison term because the others were spent while he was appealing his conviction to higher courts.

Reds Staging Strong Drive In South Asia

By EUGENE LEVIN

NEW DELHI (AP)—The Communist world is staging a strong campaign to win friends and customers at the Indian industries fair, largest ever held in South Asia.

On hand with impressive exhibits are Russia, Red China, East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Hungary. The exhibits range in size from Hungary's 8,000 square feet to 58,000 for Red China. All are attracting big crowds, with the Indians particularly curious to see what their Chinese neighbors are doing.

There are also displays from the United States, West Germany, Britain, Austria and the Netherlands, and smaller stalls from several other non-Communist countries.

Together the Red exhibits far outweigh those from the Western world, even counting the 100,000 square foot American pavilion.

In the field of publicity the Reds have had it all their own. The official fair guide carries almost 100 pages of advertisements from Communist states and less than half a dozen from Western governments. Other Red ads appear in buses and in newspapers.

Trade delegations from the Red countries are busy holding news conferences and seeing Indian government officers. From these meetings emerge daily news stories giving the impression the Reds are India's main commercial contacts.

Actually, all but a fraction of India's foreign trade is with the United States and Britain. However, Communist countries are getting an increasing share, and the picture may change further when India starts placing orders for its multibillion dollar, second five year plan.

Gov. Harriman Talking More Like Candidate

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — Averill Harriman, sounding more like a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, stabbed at the Eisenhower administration yesterday with a series of sharp worded attacks on farm and power polices.

The New York governor, who again told reporters he is not an "active candidate," said he was going to tell the people about what he considered the mistakes of President Eisenhower, no matter what the personal cost.

"I am going to do it, regardless of how unpopular it makes me," he said.

Harriman divided his administration criticism among a $12.50 a plate Democratic fund raising dinner, a panel discussion with six college students and a luncheon talk to regional party leaders.

"The first fundamental thing we should do is to put the farmer back where he was when the Republicans took over—by restoring 90 per cent price supports," he said in the dinner speech.

"The farmers have served us well, both during and since the war. Now when they are suffering from the effects of expanding to meet our needs, they should be protected—not treated like some kind of economic delinquents who deserve to be punished.

3 Accidents Reported Here

The number of auto accidents in Scurry County during the campaign in connection with Safe Driving Day Dec. 1 has now increased to three.

The campaign started Nov. 21 and will run through Dec. 11. Two accidents occurred in the city last night, but no one was injured in either of the mishaps, according to Arthur Bryant, policeman.

The first was at 8:10 p.m. at the corner of Avenue S and Twenty-fifth Street and involved a 1950 Ford sedan driven by Joe Kirk Dorsey, 1212 Twenty-ninth Street, and a 1953 Pontiac sedan driven by Peggy Jo Pope, 3782 Avenue V. Damage was slight.

The other accident involved only one car, a 1953 Ford sedan driven by Willie Fred Frazier, Cabin Courts. That accident occurred at Avenue K and Nineteenth Street at 10:25 o'clock last night.

Johnson, Kefauver End Talk

Whether their private exchange of views might have some effect on Kefauver's eventual announcement concerning presidential aspirations was uncertain.

But there was no uncertainty about their agreement on these points:

1. They thoroughly enjoyed their deer hunt on which Kefauver bagged a 10-point, 90-pound Buck.

2. They think the Democratic and Republican parties have similar foreign policy aims but Republican methods of achieving those aims have failed in several instances.

3. They feel the Republican administration is vulnerable to attack on the farm issue.

4. Unified Democrats can use Johnson's 13-point legislative program to push to a presidential victory.

Kefauver conceded during the course of a one-hour press conference that it would be "unfair if I didn't say I feel very much inclined to make the (presidential) race," but he avoided a direct answer as to whether he has reached a decision in his own mind.

He said he will make an announcement on that score in late December or early January.

Johnson repeated he is not going to give any potential candidate for the democratic presidential nomination an advance pat on the back. His 13-point program enunciated Monday night in a speech, calls among other things for broader social security coverage, income tax reductions for low income groups, a return to 90 per cent parity for farmers, and an expanded federal health program.

Ike To Have Traditional Thanksgiving

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Like millions of other American families, the Eisenhowers were together today for a traditional Thanksgiving celebration.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower had their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, their daughter-in-law and their three grandchildren with them at their big white farm home for a turkey dinner and some pleasant family talk.

This transquility may not last long.

Beginning Monday, the chief executive moves closer to full resumption of his official duties and Republican party leadership.

A meeting scheduled that day with GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall could have a bearing on how soon Eisenhower will announce whether he plans to seek a second term. This will be Eisenhower's first meeting with Hall since the President's heart attack two months ago.

But all that was shoved aside for Thanksgiving.

"The children" got in yesterday from Ft. Belvoir, Va., where Major Eisenhower is stationed.

Seven-year-old David and his sister Barbara Ann drove in with their parents. The littlest Eisenhower, Susan, came from Washington with her grandmother, who is "Mimi" to the youngsters, just as grandfather is "Ike."

A 40-pound bird contributed by the turkey industry was ready for the oven.

The President, whose cooking skill runs more to steaks and fish than to poultry, left the roasting job to the household staff—but he got a dispensation from his doctors on his turkey intake.

Airline Passengers Are Led To Safety

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty-two passengers, including actress Vivian Blaine, were led to safety last night when an engine caught fire just after an American Airlines DC7 landed at Idlewild airport from Los Angeles. Emergency crews quickly quelled the blaze. Damage was minor.

Light Holiday Traffic Death Count Expected

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council doesn't expect traffic deaths on this Thanksgiving Day to total much more than an average nonholiday day.

The council urged motorists to make today an extra-safe day on the nation's highways. But it did not issue a traffic toll estimate because it said experience shows Thanksgiving does not usually draw out large crowds of motorists.

Reds Set Off Big Explosion

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's mightiest nuclear test blast—probably involving a hydrogen bomb—sharpened the atomic arms race today.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) announced last night that the Soviets had set off another explosion in their current test series.

He described this blast as "the largest thus far in the U.S.S.R." He said it was "in the range of megatons."

The AEC chairman didn't call it a hydrogen explosion, but only such a thermonuclear blast could produce an energy yield measures in megatons, or an explosive equivalent of millions of tons of TNT. Less powerful fission-type atomic bombs produce yields up to about 100 kilotons—that is, the equivalent of 100,000 tons of TNT. The atomic bomb that levelled Hiroshima 10 years ago was rated in strength at 20,000 tons of TNT.

Strauss' statement left open the question of whether the newest Russian blast was smaller or bigger than the greatest American nuclear explosion on March 1, 1954, at Bikini Atoll in the Pacific. That test blast was estimated unofficially to have had the force of between 15 and 17 million tons of TNT.

"The Russian tests indicate an increasingly intensive effort by the Soviet government to develop their nuclear weapons potential," Strauss said.

The announcement of this latest Soviet test came on the heels of the Geneva conference where Big Four foreign ministers failed to arriveat solutions to East-West differences, despite the outwardly friendlier relations generated by the Summit talks, also at Geneva, last July.

Despite an officialy expressed American hope that there would be no reversion to cold war methods, this newest and most powerful Soviet nuclear test seemed to be a warning to the West to take heed of Russia's might.

Thanksgiving To Be Happy For Ohioan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Ludwina Runkle today will see her first Thanksgiving since 1932.

Until two weeks ago, the 40-year-old Columbus mother had never seen her husband, Elmer, or their eight children. She was married in 1938 while blind.

Last Aug. 9, she underwent an operation. A cataract was removed but the eyes were still unable to focus. On Nov. 7 she received special glasses—and the long blackout was over.

As a child of 3, Mrs. Runkle suffered a severe attack of scarlet fever which weakened her eyes. Two auto accidents hastened her loss of vision.

Now, sight restored, she marvels over her husband's face—"He looks about like I thought he would"—seeing her own face; recalling what colors look like; and probably the greatest gift of all—a mother's fist look at her children.

The youngsters, five girls and three boys ages 16 months to 16 years, have long known their mother had a sixth sense that told her if they were behaving badly or coming close to danger.

Clouds Cover Texas Today

By The Associated Press

A generous helping of mild temperatures, covered with clouds and topped off with occasional showers, was the Thanksgiving weather bill of fare in Texas Thrusday.

A mild cool front that cleared the state early Thursday prevented a repetition of Wednesday's unseasonaly high temperatures in South Texas. At Brownsville the mercury Wednesday rose to 86, highest in the nation.

Overnight showers were reported early Thursday at Beaumont, Galveston, Houston, Victoria and Lufkin.

Light rain fell Thursday morning at Galveston but skies were clear in Northwest Texas and generally only partly cloudy elsewhere. Rain for the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a.m. included Galveston .26 of an inch, Houston .14, Palacios .09 and Beaumont .03.

Freezing temperatures Thursday morning extended into the South Plains and West Texas. Low readings included Amarillo 25, Lubbock 29 and Abilene 31. Above freezing were Dallas 33, El Paso 42, Austin 46, Corpus Christi 58, Del Rio 45, Houston 58, and Texarkana 40.

Demand By Strikers For Pay Is Denied

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina's labor boss under Dictator Juan D. Peron was reported under arrest today.

The Saporiti News Agency said the provisional government of President Pedro Aramburu was holding Hector Hugo de Pietro, former secretary general of the big General Confederation of Labor (CGT), at the disposition of the National Security Office.

The reason for his arrest was not reported. Nor was confirmation of the report immediately available.

In a continuing crackdown on peronista labor supporters, the government turned down demands that workers who joined last week's unsuccessful general strike be paid for the time lost.

The caretaker regime declared the workers did not deserve pay for the days they did not work because the strike had been declared illegal. Workers have been paid for strike days during the past decade.

The government seized the CGT last week and said all officials of the central organization and its member unions had been removed from their posts. It said an investigation will be made of the way CGT funds were handled during the Peron era.

The CGT, which claims about six million members, was Peron's public mainstay. De Pietro was one of the nation's most powerful men until the September revolt ousted Peron. He stepped out of his post and two lesser officials—Andres Framini and Luis Natalani—were named to head the CGT. The new government fired them last week.

Two former employes of the defunct presidential press office also were reported under arrest. They were identified as Juan Carlos Valdez and Francisco Arbuco. Informants said they were taken into custody on charges of writing libelous matter.

Confusion developed over the possibility that another leader in the revolution against Peron might be stepping out as federal administrator of Cordoba Province. Gen. Dalmiro Videla Balaguer was quoted as saying he had asked to resign. Later he issued a statement saying he had not resigned and that his earlier statement had been misunderstood. Previously his departure from office had been reported in the offering.

Guard Called Out To Watch Indiana Plant

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP)—National Guard infantrymen, called suddenly from their homes on Thanksgiving Eve, went on 24-hour patrol duty today in New Castle because of a new outbreak of violence in the Perfect Circle Corp. foundry strike.

Gov. George N. Craig called out 85 officers and men of Co. D, 152nd Infantry, from Connersville, 30 miles away, after a wave of window smashings and shotgunnings of nonstrikers' homes.

National Guard patrols had been pulled out of this Eastern Indiana city only six days previous. Up to 1,000 troops had been stationed in the city after an Oct. 5 gun battle between striking CIO United Auto Workers and nonstrikers left 11 persons wounded.

Mess Sgt. John Tressler assured the Connersville guardsmen they would eat turkey with all the trimmings today in spite of the abrupt mobilization. He and his cooks scoured New Castle for turkeys, oysters and other holiday fare after Co. D's trucks rolled into the New Castle Armory last night.

Guard officers said troops will patrol the foundry area in four shifts, around the clock. Five of the infantry men will be on point duty and the rest of each shift will cruise the vicinity in jeeps, half-tracks and an armored troop carrier. The company also has tanks available in case of emergency.

Negotiations between the UAW and company representatives in Chicago were in recess until Saturday. Federal Mediator William Murray said the UAW's insistence on a union shop is the main obstacle to an agreement.

UAW officials disowned the persons responsible for the stonings and shotgun blasts. Don Ballard, UAW regional publicity director, said "I don't have any idea who is doing it."

Typewriter Keyboard Inventor Has Surprise

SEATTLE (AP) — Prof. August Dvorak, inventor of the simplified typewriter keyboard which the government is testing, says the General Services Administration apparently is in for a slight shock.

The GSA said yesterday it understood the patent on the machine had expired in 1953 and Dvorak would receive no financial benefit if the government adopts it.

Dvorak said today the government is laboring under a misapprehension; that under a 1949 act of Congress he has obtained a 6-year veteran's extension on his patent, making its expiration date 1959.

He said he is "absolutely delighted," however, to hear that the government has said it's attitude wasn't influenced by whether or not the patent was in effect.

S-D Officials Warn Holiday Motorists

Thanksgiving Day is a good time to remind residents here to drive carefully, Sheriff Homer Whisnand and Police Chief Travis Steele said today as they and other workers enteged the fourth day of the campaign in connection with Safe Driving Day Dec. 1.

The two officers are head of the local campaign and are taking various means of urging motorists to drive carefully to show themselves that safety - consciousness can cut down on the accident rate.

National Safe Driving Day officials point out that during 1954 there were 36,000 traffic deaths in the U. S. as well as 1,250,000 injuries. The national death rate per 100 million miles of travel was 6.4.

E. W. Green, highway patrolman here, said that speed is the top cause of motor vehicle accidents on highways here, just as it is throughout the nation, adding that speed probably always will be the top cause.

During this year so far, Green said, there have been six traffic fatalities on roads in Scurry County and that only one of those has been on a state or federal highway. The remainder were on paved farm roads or unpaved county roads, which cannot be patrolled as can the highways. The lesser number of accidents on the highways is indication, Green said, that radar control has had some effect on speed and helped to reduce the accident rate.

Of the six prsons killed this year in auto accidents, Green said, four have been in one-car accidents and all four accidents, in the opinion of investigating officers, had excesive speed as a major factor in cause. Some of these may not have been exceeding the speed limit, Green said, but going over the safe speed in the situation.

Speed is not only in itself the major accident cause, Green said, but it sets up other violations, to a certain extent. A person could, for instance, violate traffic rules by following too closely, caused by approaching another vehicle from the rear too rapidly.

Whisnand and Steele cautioned drivers to exercise extra caution during the Thanksgiving holidays, as well as at all times. From now through the Christmas and New Year holidays, traffic will be heavier throughout the state, the officers said, urging drivers to watch not only their own driving but that of others on the highways.

National figures show that of the 36,000 traffic deaths last year, two-thirds occurred at night. One-third of the total deaths were caused by collisions between vehicles, while more than one-third were caused by one-car accidents, such as overturning or running off roadways.

Officials stressed that nationally, vehicles involved in 94 per cent of the fatal accidents had no unsafe condition.

Nature Dishes Up Cold Spell For Holiday

By The Associated Press

The weather menu for Thanksgiving was generally cold, sprinkled with rain or snow.

Temperatures tumbled sharply over the Midwest and the Ohio Valley as cold Canadian air continued its southward movement. The chilly breeze dipped into the Gulf states from Texas to Alabama.

It was below zero this morning in northwestern Minnesota and sections of North Dakota. Temperatures dropped to the 20s and 30s in most of the Midwest and they were in the 30s and 40s southward to Northern Texas.

Cold weather continued in the Western part of the country although readings in the 30s and 40s were a little higher than yesterday.

The cold air had not reached the Southern Atlantic states and this morning's temperatures were in the 50s and 60s. They were a little lower in the Northeastern states, mostly in the 30s and 40s.

There were scattered showers from Southeastern Texas northeastward to Southern New. England. Light rain fell along the Pacific Coast from Central California to Washington.

Snow fell in the Northern Rockies with falls measuring from 1 to 3 inches.

WEATHER

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: Yesterday's high 58, low 32, today's 7:30 a.m. reading 34.

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy and a little warmer this afternoon and tonight, mild Friday.

Overnight Developments Add Steam To Race For Governor

AUSTIN (AP)—A speculation on the 1956 governor's race hit a new high in capitol political circles today with these major overnight developments:

1. A report, met with a quick "no comment now" response, that Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd may go into private business at Odessa and step out of state politics.

2. Sen. Jimmy Phillips' announcement that he would tell his political plans at a news conference here Monday. It was generally believed that Phillips would make his long anticipated entry into the governor's race official at that time.

Reports have been current in West Texas and among political pros in the capitol that Shepperd is considering an offer to get into the oil business, and that he has even been house hunting in Odessa.

The attorney general last night said he would not comment on the report now. He told The Associated Press he would have an announcement on his future plans sometime soon.

Shepperd's name has been included on all the lists of prospective candidates for governor for more than a year. Thus far there has been only one formal announcement, that of former House Speaker Ruben Senterfitt of San Saba.

Others often named include:

U. S. Senator Price Daniel; Phillips; Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey; Ralph Yarborough, Austin, who has run twice before and defeated twice by Gov. Allan Shivers; Agriculture Commissioner John White; James P. Hart, former Texas Supreme Court judge and former chancelor of the University of Texas.

Gov. Shivers has not indicated what if any plans he may have in state politics beyond seeking control of the May 22nd convention that will name delegates to the national Democratic convention.

Pre-Christmas Slate Planned By Kiwanis

Snyder Kiwanis Club members worked on plans Wednesday for an ambitious schedule for pre-Christmas activities.

In their regular luncheon meeting in the Hilander, committee assignments were made for the annual pancake supper, scheduled tor the night of Dec. 2 in the High School cafeteria, and for a special concert scheduled here on the night of Dec. 13 by Rubinoff.

Proceeds for both events will go into the Kiwanis Club's fund to aid underprivileged families during the Christmas season.

At the same time announcement was made that persons who wish to contribute used toys for distribution by Kiwanis members on Christmas may leave them at the central fire station. Kiwanis Club members will transfer toys from the fire station to the High School, where students in shop classes will make any needed repairs. All types of used toys which can be repaired are being sought in the drive. After the repairs are made, the toys will be distributed to underprivileged children.

Plans already have been established for a special motion picture to be shown for youngsters on the morning of Dec. 17. Youngsters will be admitted to the show, at either the Palace or Texas theaters by contributing a can of food, or a toy, at the door. Items collected in this activity also will be used in the Kiwanis Club's Christmas program for underprivileged families. Each year the club distributes food and toys to needy families at Christmas time.

Tickets for the pancake supper, an annual event, are scheduled to go on sale Friday. The tickets will sell for 50 cents each, and a ticket will entitle the purchaser to "all you can eat" at the cafeteria Dec. 2. The Kiwanians will begin feeding at 5:30 p.m. on that date. A program of entertainment during the event is being planned, and Aunt Jemima again will be on hand.

Ticket sales for the Rubinoff concert will begin within the next few days.

In other business at the Wednesday luncheon meeting, Bob Crowell, president - elect of the club, announced appointments to standing committees for the coming year.

A delegation of Kiwanians from Colorado City visited the Snyder club during the luncheon.

Benson Asks For Ideas On Farm Problem

CLEVELAND (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson appealed to the public for ideas on how to help solve farm problems of overproduction, surpluses and declining grower prices and income.

These problems appear likely to become major issues in next year's election.

In a speech prepared for the annual convention of the National Grange, Benson promised that every letter will receive a personal reply and every suggestion will be considered except one—the suggestion that the government return to high, rigid price supports. Some Democratic critics of the Eisenhower administration farm program urge restoration of the old support program.

Benson conceded, however, that flexible price supports—a feature of the administration program—"are not and never will be enough" to boost farm prices in the face of present surpluses. He said nevertheless that such supports can be helpful and should be used.

In Washington, Benson told newsmen that the government's 18-member National Agricultural Advisory Commission is working on proposals that the administration sponsor a "soil bank" plan under which farmers would get government payments for taking a part of the land out of production and building fertility on it for the future. This program would retain flexible supports.

In an obvious thrust at his political critics, the secretary said in his speech no farm program "should ever be manipulated to serve partisan political purposes. Agriculture is too vital to be used in such fashion."

"I have faith," he said, "in the wisdom of our farm people. They are not easily stampeded by demagogues. The farm vote cannot be bought with unsound programs or the promised abandonment of programs that are sound."

Benson reported that the administration has made progress in solving farm problems. He cited disposal of four billion dollars worth of surpluses since mid-1953. He said this was nearly twice as much as the Truman administration had gotten rid of in the two years before the Korean War when it had big surpluses to deal with.

Woman Is Thankful Despite Disasters

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Blanche Horner, 40, gave thanks today.

Mrs. Horner is confined to a wheelchair by arthritis. Six years ago fire destroyed the family home and killed two of the Horner's nine children.

Four years later another child died of spinal meningitis. Last year Mrs. Horner's husband, James, died of cancer.

Yesterday another fire levelled the family home. Mrs. Horner and her children were rescued.

Mrs. Horner said:

"We have our lives to be thankful for, and our faith in the Lord."

Russians Visit Bombay Today

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia had the floor before the U.N. Disarmament Commission today amid speculation whether she would offer some new disarmament plan or merely echo her perennial demands for a ban on atomic weapons.

Soviet Delegate Arkady Sobolev was to lead off the discussion in the 12-nation commission's second day of its new talks. The United States, Britain and Canada were expected to follow with brief statements.

Observers doubted Sobolev would comment yet on France's new compromise plan, although it offered surprise concessions to the Soviet arms position including a call for a ban on the use of nuclear weapons. French Delegate Jules Moch unveiled his plan yesterday.

Any Russian enthusiasm for the French plan probably would be tempered by France's insistence on effective disarmament controls and implementation of President Eisenhower's plan for reciprocal U.S.-Soviet inspection and exchange of military blueprints.

The United States insists any plan for arms cuts and nuclear bans must wait until the Russians show willingness to join in the Eisenhower "open sky" plan.

The Russians have made it clear here and at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference that they will not accept the Eisenhower proposal unless it is tailored to meet Soviet demands for immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb and step-by-step arms reduction.

The French also called for prohibition of atomic test explosions for military purposes. Shortly after Moch spoke, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission announced that the Russians have set off their greatest nuclear blast yet.

Sources close to the disarmament commission said it is pressing to wind up its talks by Friday so that it can turn the arms issue over the U.N. Political Committee for debate. In view of the East-West stalemate at Geneva, the General Assembly is expected to produce no real results on the question this year.

Man Wanted Turkey, And He'll Get It

DETROIT (AP)—Bernie Randolph, 37, of Detroit, wanted a turkey dinner for Thanksgiving. And he's going to get one.

Police said he picked up a turkey at a supermarket, stuffed it into a bag and tried to walk out of the store without paying for the bird.

Bernie will get turkey at the county jail. He is there awaiting sentence after pleading guilty to larceny.

MAID OF COTTON FOR SOUTH PLAINS—Miss Revis Jordan, of Lubbock, was named 1956 South Plains Maid of Cotton, winning out over 25 other contestants at Lubbock. The pretty Texas Tech sophomore will represent the area in the national contest held in Memphis, Tenn., in December.

Snyderite's Father Dies At Paris

J. D. Cochran, 78, of Paris, father of C. S. Cochran 804 Twenty - sixth Street, operator of White Star Lundry here, died at 3:30 p.m. yesterday in Paris after a long illness.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the First Baptist Church at Paris. Burial will be at the Forrest Chapel Cemetery at Chicota under direction of Roden Funeral Home of Paris.

Survivors include one other son, Russell Cochran of Paris; one daughter, Mrs. Ruth Marr of Brookston; one sister, and seven grandchildren.

Thanksgiving Spirit Goes Into Courtroom

CHICAGO (AP) — The spirit of Thanksgiving was evident in Judge Hyman Feldman's Monroe St. Court yesterday as he faced 270 men from the skid row district.

Judge Feldman freed the men of drunk and disorderly conduct charges. Then each man was given a ticket for a Thanksgiving Day dinner today at the Salvation Army headquarters.

Mrs. Holt Is Appointed To Records Post

Mrs. Tommy Holt, clert at the Snyder-Scurry County Health Unit has been appointed registration official here by the city, in conjunction with county officials.

Mrs. Holt will represent the city Dec. 2-3 at Austin in a conference of Texas registration officials at the State Department of Health.

The complications of vital statistics will be discussed during the conference. Subjects will include "cause of death" coding methods and other work with vital statistics.

Various problems face registration officials, and the workshop is designed to keep them abreast of policies in keeping vital statistics.

Among things that will be discussed will be such information as: when the mother and father of an illegitimate child marry, a new birth record may be issed on which the child is shown to be legitimate. Another frequent problem involves the birth record of an adopted child. There is a legal method to file a birth record showing the adoptive parents to be the natural parents, with the birth record bearing no evidence of the adoption.

Among the most important items to be considered will be the necessity of requiring complete documentation before amending a birth certificate. Ways of handling delayed birth certificates, amendments to death certificates, and methods by which Texas parents who adopt children born in other states or foreign countries can get birth records will also be discussed.

Lady Trombonists Have Sex Appeal

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Miss Ivy Benson, who waves the stick for a leading British girl band, says the ladies who play the slide trombone somehow have more sex appeal than their musical sisters.

"I should know," Ivy explained. "Five girl trombonists have left my band this year to get married."

Miss Beson says this, and other factors, have driven her to the conclusion that there must be something about a trombone that drives a man crazy.

"It makes him forget his natural caution," she told newsmen. "It makes him propose."

This strange connection between the trombone and sex makes things tough for Miss Benson in her efforts to keep a sweet band together.

Playing the slide trombone is not an accomplishment that the average young female considers a necessary part of her development —which goes to show how wrong the average young female can be.

Miss Benson's trombonists earn anything from 12 pounds ($23.60) to 25 pounds ($70) a week—a lot of cash in Britain—but she can't keep them because of those would be husbands.

"When I engaged Dorothy England," said Miss Benson, "I thought I was set for a while. Remember I'd lost four before her in the last 12 months.

"Dorothy had a beautiful tone. Her melodic figures were perfect. She was a sensible girl. She could play by ear or read music."

One day, said Miss Benson, she noticed her first trombonist studying what was on her music rack with unusual attention as she blew and pushed.

"But she wasn't studying music. She was reading a furniture catalogue. She'd driven a young man crazy with her trombone, he'd proposed and she was getting ready to fit up a flat. She's leaving us any day now."

Asked if the same thing didn't happen to other pretty instrumentalists, she replied: "Men don't fall over themselves for saxophonists. They don't swoon over viola players. It's trombones."

Russians Go Looking For U.S. Plays

MOSCOW (AP)—For the first time in 25 years Soviet literary figures have gone looking for American plays to translate for the Moscow theater. It's part of an effort to revitalize the Russian stage, also reflected in demands for more new Soviet plays.

Culture Minister N. A. Mikhailov criticized Russian stage stereotypes last week and the criticism was repeated in stronger words by Pravda, the Communist party organ.

One of the first evident results in the campaign is the importing of foreign companies. A British troupe, starring Paul Scofield and Diana Wynyard, arrived this week for a series of performances of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

This company, directed by Peter Brooks, is the first group of British actors to play in Moscow within living memory. France's Comedie Francaise was here last year.

Soviet translators and authors are having trouble with American and other Western plays because Soviet drama concentrates on ideological and materialist conflicts, while the West concentrates nowadays on the psychological.

Thus there is a question whether Tennessee Williams' "Streetcar Named Desire" is suitable on sociological grounds or is too introverted. Other plays under consideration range back to Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie" and up to William Inge's "Bus Stop."

"We prefer light plays, but light plays which show real earthy American people," said one would-be translator.

A translator gets 4 per cent of the take for each performance throughout the vast Soviet Union. The translator of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," for example, collected two million rubles—$500,000 at the official exchange rate.

Pillar Markings

KARACHI, Pakistan, Nov. 24 (AP) —Twelve hundred miles of border between East Pakistan and India have been marked with white pillars since the countries were established in 147. The last 100 miles is being marked in the next month. Rivers form 100 miles of border.

Feast At Thanksgiving By Pilgrims Related

A certain Winslow 334 years ago wrote a "loving and old friend" in England concerning the Pilgrims first Thanksgiving feast, which occurred a little less than year after the first landing at Plymouth, in late October or early in November.

To this first Thanksgiving were invited King Massasoit and 90 Indian braves who for three days helped the Pilgrims celebrate their harvest. No doubt to the great relief of their hosts, who even at harvest time were not overburdened with food for the year, the Indians largely supplied their own food, in fact they went out and killed five deer, which they "bestowed on our Governor and upon the Captaine and others."

You might be interested to know what this first three day Thanksgiving feast consisted of—here is the menu: "vension, roast duck, roast goose, clams, and other shellfish, succulent eels, white and corn bread, leeks and watercress and other 'sallet herbes,' topped with wild plums and dried berries as dessert—all washed down with wine, both white and red, 'very sweete and strong', made from the wild grape."

"There is no mention of it in the records, but the banqueters may also have enjoyed some of the wild 'Turkies' whose swiftness of foot as they fled through the woods constantly amazed the pilgrims. Neighboring bogs were filled with cranberries, but it is doubtful if the Pilgrims had yet found a happy use for them Nor was the table graced with a later and even happier invention—pumpkin pie."

An indoor picnic with all the trappings can be more fun than the outdoor variety, especially when it's staged on rainy Sunday in the winter. Of course you'll have to have picnic foods on hand so make it a point to include them the next time you shop. Then you'll be all set to surprise the family whenever something is needed to chase away bad-weather "blues."

Hamburgers are the favorite for picnics, indoors or out, so be sure you always have some on hand, just in case. Dad will gladly cook them after you've prepared the chopped beef the way the family likes. Just the addition of minced onion and seasonings satisfies most people. You'll probably want to shape them into patties and adjust the broiler pan so that it's the right distance from the gas before you bow out and let Dad take over.

The kids will enjoy pitching in, too. They can slice the hamburger buns and place the tomato wedges, pickles and potato chips on each plate in readiness for the first round of sizzling hamburgers, hot off the broiler tray.

If you have a barbecue spit in your range, the picnic meal can be planned around barbecued beef or chicken, exactly as if it were held outdoors. You may have to lend a hand with the preparations, as the menu will be more elaborate; but the picnic atmosphere can be preserved just the same.

The keynote should be informality; and what's more informal than a paper tablecloth, paper plates and cups and throw-away knives, forks and spoons?

Most families stock up on potato chips, jars of pickles and relish, and canned vegetables so that it won't be hard to assemble what you need, any time you want to propose a picnic. For dessert, cup cakes or home-made pie will be welcome, or everyone can munch apples. Milk or soda pop or lemonade tastes just as good indoors as out, but if the day calls for someting hot to drink, cocoa or coffee might be your sole concession to the change of season.

When everyone has had his or her fill of sensible food and Junior recalls wistfully that toasted marshmallows to round out the experience would make everything perfect, your cue for the "topper" is to get out the long picnic fork and toast the marshmallows over a top burner. Regulate the flame so that they do not brown too quickly and they'll taste just like they did last summer. Junior will agree enthusiastically!

Mrs. Patterson Is Speaker For Altrurian Daughters

Sixteen members attended a meeting of the Altrurian Daughters Club Wednesday. Mrs. J. D. Scott was hostess for the meeting at her home on Thirty - sixth Street. Mrs. Ophelia Blackard, president, presided at the business session.

Mrs. Billy Greenfield and Mrs. Scott, program chairmen, presented Mrs. Robert Patterson, who spoke to the group on "The Woman In Legislation."

She began by reviewing the constitution of the State of Texas. She noted that there were 49 standing committees, and consequently every representative must serve on several, five being the usual number. The committee meetings are open to the public.

The method by which a bill is introduced and becomes a law was outlined by Mrs. Patterson. Later she spoke on some of the social aspects of the legislature, telling the group about the wives club that the house has. The senate has a similar club. These two groups keep the wives occupied, Mrs. Patterson said.

She showed the book "The Texas Citizen," by Bill Garner, a book giving facts of government in the Lone Star state in readable form. It is being considered as a textbook in Texas public schools.

Also, a sample of the types of reports that are sent to legislators to keep them informed on all state business was shown. This particular reports was "the Legal Structure of the Texas State Hospital System."

Colored slides showing members of the Texas Legislature were shown.

Talk Given On Moslems At Meeting

"Since oil has been discovered they have jumped from the time of Christ to the age of jet planes, without ever having even driven an ox cart, much less an automobile," was the way Miss Ruby Butts, mission study chairman of the Mildred Mein Circle of the First Baptist Church, expressed the situation in the Moslem world in the circles meeting on Monday.

"Colonialism and imperialism are incendiary words to these people," Miss Butts emphasized, however, that there are other aspects of Western life which the Moslems may be more sympathetic toward —Christianity, for instance. "Many of the young people are leaving the customs and religion of their fathers—here is Christianity's opportunity to help them."

Miss Butts told of the Moslems in Pakistan who make up 15 per cent of the population of Pakistan. "These Moslems are displaced persons who fled from India because they did not want to be ruled by Hindus. Already there are 65 people per acre in Pakistan—these Moslems have no home, land or job." She went on to say that around Israel, 50,000 babies yearly are being born to the Arabs who were "displaced" from Israel when that country was born. "Mrs. Houghton of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the UN describes the bitter hatred these Arabs feel for Israel—even the children are brought up with the idea of getting revenge." The Arabs have been offered permanent housing which they will not accept, they prefer to live in tents because that indicates they have not accepted the lot UN has dealt them.

There are three Moslems temples in the US—in Washington, D. C., Chicago, and in San Francisco. "They are also sending missionaries to this country."

Thanks With Humility

Humility becometh a nation as it becometh a man. The Pharisee stood in the temple and prayed thus "with himself," as the Scripture says: "God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican. I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess."

But the publican, "standing afar off," would not even so much as lift up his eyes unto heaven, but beat his breast and cried, "God be merciful to me a sinner."

Jesus closed this parable by saying that the publican was justified, "rather than" the Pharisee, "for every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exhaulter."

The Pharisee was both a hyprocite and a braggart, so bemused by his own assumption of self-righteousness that he thought to fool God Almighty Himself.

As we see it the spirit of Thanksgiving in America has become rather a show-off business, in which we load our tables with the fulness of the earth and call upon the world at large to witness our good fortune. We pay lip service and little more to that humbleness of spirit which prompted the Pilgrims to make a joyful noise unto the Lord in recognition of his manifold blessings. That spirit was born in poverty of this world's goods and in richness of gratitude of the human heart to the Maker of all good things.

The Pharisee called upon God to witness the generosity that prompted him to give a tenth of all he had to good works. Behold his success in matters of this world! He was a man of substance, a successful operator, a bigtime enterpriser, perhaps even a bigwheel, and he condescended to tip off God to his superlative excellence.

But he lacked the one thing essential to a oneness with God. He did not know the meaning of the word humility. That was the one thing the publican had, and it was enough.

So let us celebrate Thanksgiving with humility. To celebrate it in any other way is to make of it a mockery.

Worth Remembering

"The paths of glory lead but to the grave."
... by Thomas Gray

These lines, written about 200 years ago, are worth remembering today.

It's good to remember them when we in Scurry county are faced with the problem of keeping our cemeteries clean.

If we'll look back over the years, we'll recall many good things that people—now dead—did for others. You might say these were their "paths of glory."

Maybe we failed to show our fathers and mothers how much we appreciated what they did for us while they were living. Though they may now be dead, they deserve some recognition.

Well-kept level ground, some shrubs or trees can serve as a symbol of the good they did. And a clean cemetery is a perpetual memorial to the dead.

Here in Scurry county, many people have moved away and can not care for their cemetery lots. Some buried in county cemeteries have no known close relatives. So there is no one to keep their graves cleaned off.

As a result, tall grass stretches for hundreds of feet with only the top of a few gravestones peeking out in the Snyder cemetery. Some graves are unmarked and it is impossible to know who is buried there.

Some folks here want to use county taxes to keep up cemeteries. Petitions requesting this are being circulated for presentation to the commissioners court.

Commissioners tell us a special fund can be set aside in the county budget to provide for upkeep of cemeteries—but only if enough interest develops among the people. This means help will be needed from you and me.

You can help by attending a public meeting at 2:30 p.m. next Monday in the district courtroom. That meeting, called by a special committee to get the public's reaction to the tax-supported cemetery plan, may well determine the success or failure of the proposal.

BY IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

A couple of important new photo books have come along recently that deserve special attention.

First, there's "The Creative Photographer" by Andreas Feininger (Prentice - Ball, publisher). This is the concluding volume in a series of three books which sums up the photo philosophy of the author based on some 25 years of daily contact with photographic problems. It is not a textbook for beginners. It is addressed to all who take, work or look at photographs with more than surface interest. It is intended to give direction to photographers with latent talent and to show how to achieve the greatest satisfaction from photography.

In Feinenger's own words, here is his approach to planned, creative photography:

"Photography is picture language.

"Language is used only if one has something to say, something that is worth saying, something that makes sense.

"No normal person would think of using language, in speech or writing, unless he feels he has something to communicate that may be of interest to others. However, the majority of photographs made not only by amateurs, but by professionals, are devoid of reader interest—they are equivalent to empty prattle. Before I take a photograph I consider the following: Why do I take this picture? Will it be of interest to those who will eventually see it? Someone once described photography as 'seeing for keeps.' I always think: Is the subject or event which I am about to photograph worth keeping?

"Ideas and intentions are important, but even the best of these are, of course, wasted unless effectively transformed into pictures. Facility to express onself clearly is an important in picture language as it is in writing. Mastery of the symbols of one's medium is essential to success. The symbol of the writer are words, carefully selected with regard to meaning, descriptive power, sound. The symbols of the photographer are perspective, contrast, gray shade, sharpness, blur—to mention only the important. The fact that these symbols are recorded, in one form or another, each time a photograph is taken, does not guarantee that they appear in their most effective form. As a writer searching for the most descriptive word has many synonyms from which to choose, so a photographer has at his disposal a a variety of symbols from which to select the one which will best express a specific idea. However, bound by a traditional approach, lack of technical knowledge or inability to precisely define their aim, many photographers forego selection, leaving the result to chance and luck."

* * *

The second book, a major effort, is: "The History of Photography—from the Earliest Use of the Camera Obscura in the 11th century up to 1914" by Helmut Grensheim (Oxford University Press).

As its full title indicates this is an exhaustive research job by the top British photo scholar but instead of reading like a dry, historical tract it is written in simple, readable, entertaining style.

The story of the world's first photographer makes fascinating reading. Ask almost anyone who it was and you'd probably get the answer, "Daguerre". After reading Gernsheim's fact - filled report, there's no doubt that it was another Frenchman, Nicephore Niepce, who was successful in obtaining a view from nature in 1826. This was eleven years before Daguere's first successful result, a still life taken in 1837.

Niepce went to England in 1927 hoping to get royal patronage in promoting and protecting his invention. He met indifference from the King the Royal Society and the Society of Arts and returned to France a disappointed man. As his fortune declined, he formed a partnership with Danguerre and revealed his methods. Though Niepce proved photography was possible, Daguerre made it practicable.

Niepce died in 1833 and Daguerre took full credit by publishing the process he named after himself, the Daguerreotype, in 1839. It captured the public imagination and conquered the world with lightning rapidity. "All Paris was seized with 'daguerreotypomania' ", Gernsheim tells us. "Everywhere daguerreotypists were seen eagerly showing their first results—usually views of roofs and chimney-pits—the most convienient subject to take from one's bedroom window—and with pride and joy they counted tiles on the roofs and marvelled at the wonderful detail and fidelity with which the texture of the bricks and mortar were recorded."

As you see, the amateur spirit hasn't changed much in these 116 years. And it's about time Feininger has come along to find out if pictures and chimney-pots are worth keeping.

Some People Able To Make Christmas A Full-Time Job

AP Newsfeatures

Christmas is a full-time job for some folks, like the man in San Antonio, Tex., who applied for jobless pay as an unemployed Santa Claus.

And some people get Christmas down to a system like the Frankfort, Ind., woman who was told it was too late for delivery of an order of personalized Christmas cards. She said she wanted them for next year. Whenever she gets a card, she addesses one of her own and mails it the following year.

Some miss out like Detroit thieves in a bar who go $200, but never did learn that the tree in the corner was decorated with $1 and $5 bills.

Then there was Eugene Ward of Abilene, Tex. who was poking around an abandoned farm house at Christmas time and found a $4,000 uncashed check in the chimney. Deciding Santa might really have come down that chimney, he started looking for the payee.

Edwardsville, Ind., merchants push the season's spirit right out into the street. They furnish nickels to the cops who feed parking meters for Christmas shoppers.

On the other side of the picture was last year's substitute Atlanta postman who ditched a bundle of 1954 Christmas mail under a house. When it was found recently, postal officials ordered completion of delivery before the 1955 holiday, and tried to figure out which substitute was guilty.

And Mrs. James C. Mattox of Augusta, Ga., found a man cutting a Christamas tree on her property. He protested he had driven all the way from South Carolina for the tree. She said she did not normally sell trees, but would sell him one in view of his long trip.

"Huh!" he objected indignantly. "I've spent enough on gasoline, you don't think I'm going to buy a tree, do you?"

Quincy, Mass. makes a festival out of its old Christmas trees. They are collected by volunteers. Top workers get prizes like bicycles and theater tickets. Then there's a public bonfire preceded by half an hour of fireworks.

Palestine's Tangled Story Involves Whole World; Could Set Off Spark For Big War

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Palestine's tangled story involves not only the Jews and Arabs but the United States and Russia. It may, if war breaks out, set off the spark that ignites the world. This is the background:

Palestine, about New Jersey's size, has 1,600,000 people, half of whom entered there in the past 10 years. Of the total, 1½ million are Jews, 70 per cent of the rest are Moslems.

From the time the Romans crushed them in 70 A. D. the Jews, until recently, did not have a majority in Palestine. Nevertheless, through the centuries they looked upon it as their homeland.

The Turks, when they jumped into World War I on Germany's side, held not only Palestine but the surrounding Arab areas. To win the Arabs from the Turks, the French and British promised them that if the Allies won they would break up the Turkish Empire into Arab states.

Britain also—in the Balfour Declaration of 1917—said it would look with favor on the creation of a home for Jews in Palestine. The Jews at that time were only one tenth of the population in Palestine.

The Allies won and began setting up the Arab states, under French and British controls. The League of Nations also gave Britain a mandate — which meant control but not ownership — of Palestine.

Came World War II and the massacre of Jews in Germany. It stung the world's conscience—the Western world's, that is. The Jews, worldwide, meanwhile, had been pushing for a nation of their own in Palestine. They could always point to that British Balfour Declaration of 1917. The British had never made good.

At war's end the British said they would quit Palestine. Jews poured in. Arabs feared Jewish immigration would swamp them. Besides, they objected to creation of a new Jewish state. But in 1947 the United Nations approved this idea: partition Palestine, letting part of it be a Jewish state, part an Arab state.

On May 14, 1948, the Jews proclaimed the independence of Isreal. The next day Egypt, followed by other Arab countries, attacked Israel. The Jews, outnumbered, outfought the Arabs and, by the time an armistice was agreed on, held not only what the U. N. had intended to be Jewish Palestine but most of what had started out to be Arab Palestine.

This armistice, obtained by the U.N., was supposed to be only temporary. The U. N. thought perhaps peace could be agreed on. It hasn't been agreed on yet. Scarcely a week has passed since 1949 that some bloody clash has not occurred along the armistice line between Egypt and her four Arab neighbors: Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Egypt.

That armistice line—besides the Arabs' hatred of the Jews and their refusal to recognize Israel as a state—was one of the sorest points. While that line left Israel in possession of most of what had been Arab Palestine, Jordan held a piece bordering on Jerusalem, and Egypt had a part called the Gaza Strip. The U. N. armistice also called for demilitarized zones.

Early this month fighting broke out between the Egyptians and Israelis in one of those zones — called El Auja — on the frontier between Egypt and Israel.

By itself this would have been bad enough. But the fighting began shortly after Egypt reportedly had ordered 80 million dollars worth of arms from Communist Czechoslovakia. It meant Russia was beginning to make solid contact with the Arabs.

The West, but particularly the United States, while helping Israel get on its feet wanted not only to keep the friendship of the Arabs but to keep them away from Russian influence.

Then British Prime Minister Eden made a proposal — the United States hasn't gone along with it—which infuriated the Jews. He suggested Jews and Arabs settle their differences by making "compromises." The Jews said what he really meant was that they should give back to the Arabs that part of Arab Palestine which they had conquered in the fighting of 1948-49. They said no.

They appealed to the United States for arms. This country said it would consider their request. At once Egypt warned the United States that if it gave the Jews arms it would lose the friendship of the Arab world of which Egypt is leader.

The United States wants to keep the Arabs friendly but, because of the large Jewish population in this country, has to think twice about refusing Israel arms.

In full-scale war breaks out in Palestine, it could in the end involve this country and Russia.

This Could Be Our Year Of 'Solid Gold Turkey'

BY INEZ ROBB

Ever since I was a child, the ancient Chinese custom of christening each calendar year with a name, such as "The Year of the Fighting Dragon," "The Year of the Wise Monkey" or "The Year of the Shooting Star Fish," has seemed poetic and endearing to me.

So last week when I dropped by the butcher shop to order the Thanksgiving bird (and found it mobbed by other women with identical intent), it occurred to me if we Americans could borrow from classic Chinese symbolism for a moment, the year 1955 would surely go down in our history as "The Year of the Solid Gold Turkey."

Today, on this one indubitable American holiday, most of us — including Democrats—never had it so good. Our cup runneth over with prosperity. Wages, employment, savings and the value of the national product are all headed for a record high in 1955.

There are two cars in most garages and a brace of guinea hens under glass in the new 1955-type pot, which has been converted to electricity and equipment with an automatic timer to free the housewife for another hand of canasta.

If we stopped long enough today honestly to count our blessings and appraise our good fortune, it might delay the dinner considerably. For we take for granted bounties of which other civilized nations can only dream. As a nation, we have had a rainbow 'round our shoulders, a four-leaf clover in one hand, a rabbit's foot in the other, and a solid-gold wishbone in our mouth.

Now I do not want to be confused with Pollyanna, the glad girl. (This is a transformation as unlikely as that of the Duchess of Windsor, as a critic recently noted, into Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.) So I hasten to add that we have some problems along with prosperity.

But, on the whole this is a day to count our blessings. So in addition to the solid-gold turkey, we still have the dove of peace, minus a few feathers, perhaps, but still present and accounted for. Furthermore, we have returned twice from Geneva still in full possession of our watch and our eyeteeth. Granted, our feathers may be a mite ruffled, but the damage is nil.

In addition to having peace and prosperity, we still have our President, approximately as good as new. This certainly a matter for Thanksgiving in a lopsided world in which his personal prestige is a strong and stabilizing factor.

Our blessings are so numerous that it is hard to particularize. But one is so extraordinary that men may remember it long after they have forgotten all others, and this is the conquest of polio.

The extraordinay success of the Salk vaccine this year, to say nothing of what it promises for the future, is a matter for profound Thanksgiving by every man, woman and child in the nation.

In this "Year of the Solid Gold Turkey," as a nation and as a people, we're loaded as never before in our history. Thanksgiving is what we shouldn't feel nothing else but.

Secretary Is Trying To Aid German Women

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Hanna Kiep, women's affairs secretary of the German diplomatic mission here, is trying to encourage her country-women to make the American slogan "never underestimate the power of a woman," come into wider use in her homeland.

Mrs. Kiep, a handsome, clear-eyed Wagnerian type, maintains close contact with American woman in public life and in woman's organizations, trying to "build better understanding and to interpret the hopes and struggles of women in post-war Germany."

"I believe," she told me, "that most American women look upon my mission here as a compliment to themselves and to work they have done, as well as an expression of my country's earnest desire to pave the way for the greater participation of german women in all walks of life."

Her husband, the late Dr. Otto C. Kiep, served in the United States from 1926 to '33, first as counsellor to the German Embassy in Washington, and later as consul general in New York. In 1933 when he resigned from the foreign service in protest against the National Socialist government, they returned to Germany where subsequently he lost his life in the Nazi purge. Mrs. Kiep, who had also been arrested, was released after some months' imprisonment.

Emphazing that the "12 years of Hitler tyranny" had produced a severe setback in the development of the German woman as a citizen, she added that nevertheless, the voting record of women in the postwar elections had played a significant role in the readmission of Germany to the family of nations.

Mrs. Kiep, who recently returned from several months' leave in Germany says the big task confronting German women in the years ahead is helping in the adjustment of the thousands of German men held prisoners of war by Russia for more than a decade who are being returned "thanks to what Chancellor Adenauer has done...we had to pay a high price for it—diplomatic relations—but the price was necessary because the happiness of more than 100,000 families is at stake."

A law student who attended the Universities of Berlin, Oxfored and Geneva, Mrs. Kiep has been in Washington since 1951.

Supply Of University Iceboxes Melt Away

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Montana University inherited 300 iceboxes with a housing project and things got hot for several persons. The residents found it cheaper to use electric refrigeration and the boxes were junked. Montana law required junked iceboxes to be stripped of locks and catches.

Parents got so hot about the boxes on the junk heap that MU President Carl McFarland posted a 24-hour guard over them. The problem melted away after the iceboxes were offered free to all takers. Within a couple days they were carted away. Hunters and fishermen wanted to convert into meat smokers. Do - it - yourself addicts liked them for tool boxes.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The closeup camera of television has had one of its finest triumphs. The occasion was "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" on CBS-TV.

It's doubtful if Herman Wouk's play, based on his novel, could altogether fail in any medium. With good actors and the device of a commentator it probably even would communicate great feeling on radio. For it's a solid, unified drama on the grand theme of man's responsibility.

As one who saw the play from the balcony on Broadway, I enjoyed the television version more. This was because of a camera that enabled one to see at close range the acting of one of the finest casts ever assembled. In Lloyd Nolan, as Captain Queeg, we saw a man coming apart at the seams in the same room with us. In Barry Sullivan, as Lt. Greenwald, we saw the man who loathfully wielded the verbal scalpel on Queeg's paranoid personality.

Charles Laughton's editing of the play was most perceptive. But without the discerning camera direction of Franklin Schaffner, the TV director, the effectiveness of cast and script might easily have been diluted.

There was superior entertainment on the TV set throughout the weekend. In the top drawer was Maurice Evans' presentation of George Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple" on NBC-TV.

Shaw's mordant wit was given a zestful edge by a cast that included Evans as Dick Dudgeon, a Yankee rebel; Dennis King as Gen. Burgoyne; Ralph Bellamy as Parson Anderson; and Teresa Wright as Mrs. Anderson.

Alec Guiness made a delightful filmed appearance on ABC-TV Sunday evening in the role of a puritanical-appearing gentleman who rebeled against his lot as a bank employe and briefly enjoyed the power of stolen gold. The film, one of Guiness' best, was "The Lavender Hill Mob."

Which demonstrates again that while most of television's best are live, you never should underestimate the pleasure of a good film.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE RETRIAL OF JOAN OF ARC. By Regine Pernoud. Translated from French by J.M. Cohen. Foreword by Katherine Anne Porter. Harcourt, Brace.

Half a millenium ago, in 1456, an ecclesiastical court declared that the trial and condemnation of the Maid of Orleans were "contaminated with fraud, calumny, wickedness, contradictions, and manifest errors of fact and law," and ruled them null, void and quashed.

Little good it did Joan herself. Two decades before that, after a horrible execution, her ashes had been swept into the Seine and lost. She was sainted; and she is today a kind of eighth wonder of the world.

But official rehabilitation has been long delayed, at least in some quarters, and this is the first time the record of the second trial, when she was found guiltless, has been printed in the language of her original English judges and executioners. Yet this trial didn't so much free her of guilt as it pinned a monstrous guilt on Bishop Pierre Cauchon, his superiors, associates and underlings. The case brought against her was a shameless tissue of illegality, deception and dishonesty, as these pages show in intriguing detail.

She has been the subject of hundreds of books; the artist has painted her, the composer has hymned her tragedy. But nothing is so moving as the actual record. This transcript brings long-dead voices to life. They are the slick, embarrassed voices of men who should have known better; or the rough untutored speech of peasants who fondly recalled how simple, sweet, modest, pious she was. There are flashes of drama, when she leads her armored troops to a victory they had believed impossible, or when she knocks aside the lascivious hands of her jailers. This is history, but it is also throbbing flesh and pounding blood, and makes excellent reading.

HITLER'S PRIVATE LIFE

Hitler Is Riled By Franco Rebuff

EDITORS NOTE: This is another in the series on the private life of Adolf Hitler as told by his personal valet who has just been released after 11 years in a Russian concentration camp.)

BY HEINZ LINGE
Hitler's Personal Valet
(WORLD COPYRIGHT 1955)

BERLIN.—Adolf Hitler wanted to feel secure on all sides before committing vast forces in an invasion of England.

It was with this thought in mind that Hitler arranged to meet General Franco of Spain at Hendaye, on the Franco-Spanish border, on October 23, 1940.

Franco's train was already on the siding when Hitler's special train with its map room, telephone room, bedrooms, dining room and two carriages equipped as anti-aircraft batteries, steamed slowly into the station.

I knew that the purpose of Hitler's visit was to persuade Franco to attack and capture Gibraltar, thus closing Britain's western guard over the Mediterranean.

Hitler went to Hendaye confident that if he promised guns, planes and munitions to Franco, he would have a ready and willing ally. He was not prepared for the stormy meeting which followed.

Franco was accompanied to the meeting, in Hitler's conference room on the train by the Spanish Ambassador to Berlin, General Espinosa de los Monteros. With Hitler were Keitel, Jodl, Hess, Ribbentrop and other members of his staff.

Later Hitler said, "If the Ambassador had not been there, I think Franco would have agreed to march against Gibraltar. But he prompted Franco to say that Germany was unable to provide Spain with the food and raw materials she needed, and as Spain was very largely dependent upon the Americas for her supplies, she would have to remain neutral.

By the end of the day, Hitler was in a terrific temper. Back in the map room of the train, he voiced his views on the Spanish dictator.

"Franco is a very ungrateful friend and comrade," he started out. "I gave him all the help he needed in the civil war. Now I have offered him all the war material he would need to attack Gibraltar. I have promised to install in Gibraltar the biggest naval guns he could wish for, but he refuses."

Then, smashing his fists on the map room table, he shouted:

"In Germany, that man would never rise to a higher rank than Sergeant (Feldwebel)."

A bit later, when he still was very angry, he said:

"Perhaps I will have to invade Spain in order to secure the Atlantic seaboard."

I think it was the Fuehrer's worst 24 hours in those early days of the war, because within a few hours he was to become even angrier with his only ally, Mussolini.

From Hendaye, the train went to Montoire, where Hitler had arranged to meet Petain and Laval on October 24. Hitler had hoped, I am sure, to be able to tell the two leaders of defeated France that Franco was about to attack Gibraltar, and it would be in the greatest interest of France to join in Germany's declaration of war on Britain.

Hitler said later that "I praised Petain. He was a great man from the first war. I told him it was in the French interest that she throw in her lot against England, because somebody would have to pay for the war and it would be better that it should be England rather than France."

I don't know the exact outcome of this conference, but I did feel that his failure to get Franco's agreement to attack Gibraltar deprived the Fuehrer of much of his force. Within an hour or two, however, worse was to follow.

It was either over the train telephone system or at some wayside station that a message was passed to Hitler to say that Italy had declared war against Greece and that Italian troops were landing in Albania.

Hitler was even more angry than he had been after his meetings with Franco. He smashed his fists on his desk repeatedly and ejaculated:

"Linge, they are messing me up. They are destroying all my plans. Ciano is to blame for this. Well, I will give him something to remember."

Ribbentrop had left the train at Montoire, but within seconds a message was flashed to him to arrange an immediate meeting with Mussolini. Ribbentrop was to be there: he was always called into conference when Mussolini was being seen. Train officials went forward to tell the driver the train was being diverted to Munich en route to Italy.

At Munich, Ribbentrop was waiting at the station and as soon as the train got in he boarded and began his talks with the Fuehrer. I don't know what happened in these talks, but Hitler remained in a difficult mood as the train sped south to Florence, where Mussolini was to meet him.

I watched the meeting on the station platform. Mussolini obviously knew that Hitler was angry, and he appeared nervous. Hitler was stern, cold and aloof. Instead of the usual demonstration of comradeship, it was obvious something was amiss.

Mussolini probably had been warned in advance by Ribbentrop, and he had gone out of his way to play on the Fuehrer's vanity. There was a larger guard of honor than usual, and a bigger band to play Deutschland Uber Alles. There was more heel clicking and saluting than usual. But throughout it all, Hitler remained grim-faced and Mussolini ill at ease.

They drove together through streets to one of the most beautiful palaces we had ever seen. Hitler's quarters were luxurious. Mussolini immediately drew Hitler's attention to a magnificent picture gallery, obviously played on his known liking of good paintings. Outside the palace, thousands were shouting:

"Fuehrer, Heil Fuehrer! Duce, Duce!"

Several times, both Musolini and Hitler made appearances on the balcony of the palace and the crowd shouted louder. Hitler's vanity was being breached.

"It was a greeting such as the Romans gave their Caesars," Hitler remarked to me later. "But they did not deceive me. They are trying to soften me now because of the way they have messed up my plans."

But I could see that Hitler was coming around to the opinion that what had been started by Italy must be allowed to continue.

Later he said: "I hope Italy can stand on her own feet, but if not, I will have to give her help. It may mean we will have to postpone the drive against Russia for a few months."

Much later, when the German army was stalled in the snows of Russia, Hitler recalled this meeting with Mussolini and said:

"Had I been able to attack in April as I had planned, I would have overrun Moscow and Leningrad before winter arrived. But because of the help I had to give Italy in Greece, I couldn't do it."

Turkey's Most Popular Star Rises Quickly

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A brown-eyed brunette Turkish actress, who says she's no pinup, has plenty of compensating qualities.

Her name is Lale Oraloglu (pronounced Laleh Ora-low-loo, much simpler she says than Lollobrigida). She is a champion swimmer and rower, a linguist, a writer, a radio director, a happy wife and mother, and incidentally Turkey's most popular movie actress.

She has won almost every prize the Turkish film industry has to offer. And she has done it without ever wearing a revealing gown or a bathing suit—except to swim the mile-wide Bosphorus "just for exercise."

Miss Oraloglu's rise in the struggling young Turkish film industry has been phenomenal. Four years ago she was a piano and singing student in Istanbul's conservatory. She also took a few theatrical lessons, presumably to prepare her for opera.

One day Istanbul's little theatre needed a fill-in for a bit part. Lale—which means tulip—got the role. Two months later she was playing the female lead in the theater's production of "Dial M for Murder."

Since then she has had starring roles in 10 films and played a character part in another. Even having a baby didn't slow down this female dynamo. While pregnant, she played the part of a stooped old woman. After her baby's birth she played a young mother.

Would she like to go to Hollywood?

"Certainly," she says. "What actress wouldn't? But you know it's almost impossible for us to get outside offers. Nobody ever hears about Turkish actresses. Our films are not dubbed into other languages and are never seen abroad."

Oil Activity Gain Recorded During 45th Week Of 1955

West Texas drilling during the 45th week of 1955 picked up 20 applications over the preceding week as activity continued well above average.

A total of 135 applications, including 27 wildcats, were filed in Railroad Commission offices of Districts 7-C and 8. The total compares with 115 applications, including 18 wildcats, filed the previous week.

Totals for the year now are 811 wildcats and 3,888 field tests, making a grand total of 4,699 tests for oil, and a weekly average of 104.4.

Ten counties in District 7-C shared 35 applications including 11 wildcats, and 19 counties in District 8 shared 100 applications including 16 wildcats.

District 7-C wildcats were: Tom Green, three; Reagan, two; and one each for Coke, Concho, Crockett, Runnels, Schleicher and Terrell.

District 7-C field tests were: Crockett, nine; Reagan, seven; Runnels, five; and Coke, Irion and Upton with one each.

District 8 wildcats were: Gaines, four; Pecos, Andrews, Borden and Ector, two each; and one each for Crane, Mitchell, Ward and Winkler.

District 8 field tests were: Andrews, 18; Ector, 14; Howard and Crane, 7 each; Pecos, 6; Dawson and Ward, 4 each; Gaines, Midland Mitchell, Scurry and Winkler, 3 each; Borden, Garza and Hockley, 2 each; and one each for Lubbock, Terry and Upton.

Tigers, Lamesa Clash In 1-AAA Finale Here Today

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

TIGER BASKETBALL COACH J. P. Ward and Snyder High School have at least one honest - to - goodness friend at a rival school.

We're referring to Bob Clindaniel, basketball coach at Plainview High School.

Ward is in a predicament now what with football season overlapping into the basketball season. It won't be so bad except that all five returning Tiger basketball lettermen are also members of the Tiger football squad.

Ward, incidentally, would like nothing better than to see the Tiger gridders capture the state championship despite the fact that he is going to be hurt for cage material until the grid season is completed.

Well, to make a long story short, when the district basketball schedule was drawn up, the Tigers came up with three scheduled conference games before the Christmas Holidays.

The Bengals have conference games scheduled for Dec. 16, 17 and 20.

So, if the Tigers reach the state finals which is their plan, of course, the state championship game would be scheduled Dec. 17.

Unless something was done, the Tiger cagers, thus, would be playing conference games before the five returning lettermen could even join the club.

Ward is busying himself now to get the three conference games scheduled in December changed to a later date if the Tiger gridders are fortunate enough in going "all the way."

The Tiger five is scheduled to play at Plainview, Dec. 17, in a District 1-AAA game.

Clindaniel Responds

But Clindaniel, a very congenial fellow, told Ward this week:

"If you beat Garland I'll agree to postpone my game with you Dec. 17." The game would be reset for Feb. 4 in the event the Tigers defeat Garland.

Ward, at this writing, hadn't been able to contact the other two schools that are on the Tiger slate before Christmas, Sweetwater and Levelland.

Sweetwater is scheduled to come here, Dec. 16, and the Tigers are scheduled to go to Levelland, Dec. 20.

If the Sweetwater and Levelland coaches fall in line with Clindaniel on this matter, then part of Ward's worries will be over.

Ward said this week "it's going to be hard enough as it is without having two strikes against you before you start."

The Canyon Reef basketball tournament, incidentally, scheduled here for Dec. 9-10, will be moved up one day if the Tigers subdue Garland next week.

The new dates would be, if it doesn't conflict with any of the teams' schedules who are to appear in the tournament, Dec. 8-9 Thursday and Friday.

This would allow the tournament to be concluded before the Tiger footballers play that week.

Teams in the Canyon Reef Tournament are Midwestern, Trinity, Wayland and McMurry in the college division and Lubbock (Tom S.), Andrews, Midland and Snyder in the high school bracket.

The tournament is being co-sponsored by the Snyder Quarterback Club and Snyder High School.

A look into the Crystal Ball and here are scores of games of primary interest to us. Although you may not read this until after some of the games are completed, we assure you this is being written before the games in case we get close to some of the scores:

Snyder 27, Lamesa 7.
Sweetwater 28, Big Spring 13.
Levelland 40, Plainview 13.
Monterey 27, Vernon 19.
Abilene 34, San Angelo 20.
Amarillo 14, Lubbock 7.
Pampa 19, Borger 14.
Midland 14, Odessa 13.
Hobbs 40, Garden City 27.
TCU 20, SMU 14.
Texas A&M 14, Texas 10.
Baylor 20, Rice 7.
Navy 19, Army 7.
Notre Dame 27, USC 14.

A Happy Thanksgiving weekend to you all.

Playoffs Start In AA, A

By The Associated Press

The battle for state championships in two classes starts today in Texas schoolboy football.

Thirty-one bi-district games are scheduled this weekend in Classes AA and A, cutting the field in each to 16 for next week's second round.

As the field squares off Phillips and Killeen are favored for the finals of Class AA and Chillichthe is considered the most likely team to meet defending champion Deer Park for the Class A championship.

While Classes AA and A are moving through the first round, Classes AAAA and AAA will be winding up the regular schedule. Three district champions are to be deteriined in Class AAAA with Abilene, Forth Worth Paschal and Corpus Christi Miller expected to win them and complete the bracket of eight for the state playoff. El Paso High, Dallas Sunset, Tyler, Houston Reagan and Baytown already are in it.

Class AAA decided all its district representatives last week. They are Snyder, Garland, Gainesville, Texarkana, Temple, Port Neches, Victoria and Alice. Snyder plays Garland, Gainesville meets Texarkana, Temple engages Port Neches and Victoria battles Alice in next week's first round.

The week's Class AA and Class A playoff schedule:

Class AA—

Thursday: Burkburnett at Stamford, Crane at Spur, Grapevine at Olney, Friday: Phillips at Olton, Breckenridge at Ballinger, Terrell vs. Athens at Tyler (night), Bonham vs. DeKalb at Commerce (night) New London at Jasper night), La Vega at Killeen (night), Lockhart at Brenham (night), Floresville at Eagle Pass, Sinton vs. Weslaco at Robstown (night). Saturday: Smiley vs. Hillsboro at Houston (night).

The champion Snyder Tigers will put an eight - game winning streak on the line today when they battle the Lamesa Tornadoes at Tiger Stadium in the final District 1-AAA contest of the season for both teams.

Kickoff time has been set for 2:30 p.m.

The Tigers, with the 1-AAA title already tucked away, will probably be in for a "let down" today after being "high" for last week's championship battle with the Levelland Lobos.

Coach John Conley's Bengals wrapped up the 1-AAA title in defeating Levelland last week, 33-6. Win or lose today, the Tigers will still be the district champs.

But the Tigers have a few scores to settle with the Tornadoes. The Bengals own only two wins in 10 starts against Lamesa since the two schools started meeting each other in 1926.

Most of the games have been close duels but Lamesa has managed eight victories in the series. The Tors have won by seven points twice, six points twice and one point on another occasion.

The Tiger victories came in 1928 by 18-12 and last year by 7-6.

The Tigers will be favored to make it three wins over the Lamesans today but the Tornadoes could very well stage an upset if the Tigers "let down."

Lamesa has one of the most dangerous secondaryies in the district. The Tornadoes, incidentally, have two speed merchants who are being compared with Sweetwater's great break-away runner, Harroll Hobbs.

Both Dwayne Powell and John Middleton of the Tornadoes have done so well this season carrying the mail that various scribes around the district are comparing the two with Hobbs.

The Tigers will counter with power runners Joe Baxter and Jack Spikes, the 1-2 punch in the Tiger ground gaining department.

One of the two Tigers injured in workouts this week, Don McNew, is expected to be available for starting duty today. McNew twisted a knee early in the week but the injury is healing well and the 178-pound senior is expected to play today.

The other injured player, however, quarterback Powell Berry, isn't likely to see action today. Berry sprained an ankle in a workout Tuesday. The injury is responding to treatment but the junior signal caller will likely be withheld from action today.

In his place will be Jerry Taylor who has shared the man-under duties with Berry all year.

Sixteen seniors will be suited out today for what may their last home game. This is the last scheduled game of the season. The Tigers enter bi-district play against Garland next week at Garland.

The Tiger seniors are ends Don McNew, Don Savage and Harold Hooks; tackles George Herring, George Jennings and David Forbes; guards Shorty Grimmett, Hal Holiday and Pat Fowler; centers Robert James and Eddie Joyce; and backs quarterback Jerry Taylor; halfbacks Joe Baxter and Jack Spikes; and fullback Lanny Wadleigh.

Other games on tap in 1-AAA today, all season finals, send Big Spring to Sweetwater, Monterey to Vernon and Plainview to Levelland. Palo Duro has already finished its schedule.

LAST HOME GAME?—The Tiger footballers shown above may or may not be playing their final home game in a Bengal uniform today against Lamesa. They are the seniors for the 1955 champs. It all depends on how the Tigers fare in the post season playoffs whether the Tigers will be playing at home any more after today. From left to right, the seniors are FRONT ROW—Don Savage, Hal Holiday, Shorty Grimmett, Robert James, Pat Fowler and Jerry Taylor. MIDDLE ROW— Lanny Wadleigh, Harold Hooks, George Herring, Joe Baxter, David Forbes and George Jennings. TOP RCW—Don McNew, Alan Snead, Jack Spikes and Eddie Joyce. (Lee Watson photograph)

Ira, Highland Quintets Divide

Ira and Highland High School basketball teams broke even in a doubleheader at Highland Tuesday night.

The Ira girls won by 76-43 while the Highland boys emerged victorious, 51-37.

Baleria Eubank led the Ira girls to victory with 34 points. She was followed by Joan Ford with 18, Peggy Taylor with 16 and Mary George with 11 were high for Highland.

Ira scoring in the boys game was well distributed. Tommy Echols led with 10, followed by Wayne Gullett with nine, Billy Don Farmer with seven, James Autrey with six and Jerry Ford with four.

Thompson led Highland with 21.

Ira's boys had previously defeated Highland in the season opener, 30-27.

Both Ira teams will host Roscoe next Tuesday night, first game to start at 7 p.m.

Hobbs Hosts Bearcats In Bi-District Tonight

Hobbs' Panthers and Garden City will tangle tonight at Hobbs in a bi-district Six-Man football game.

Kickoff time has been set for 7:30 p.m.

Hobbs is the District 8-B champion while Garden City copped the 7-B title.

Both Hobbs and Garden City were extended to the limit before clinching their respective district championships.

Hobbs defeated McCaulley, 48-0, in its final game of the season to clinch the 8-B pennant. Had Hobbs lost the season finale to McCaulley, the race would have ended in a three - way tie for the title between Hobbs, McCaulley and Blackwell.

Garden City defeated Forsan in its final to win the 7-B title.

The Panthers of Coach John Comte finished with a 7-1 record to 6-2 for Blackwell and 5-3 for McCaulley, Rounding out the five-team loop, Ira finished fourth with a 2-6 record with Divide occupying the cellar with an 0-8 mark.

Hobbs has rolled up 374 points in 10 games for a 37.4 average per game. Panther opponents have scored 208 points for a 20.8 average.

31	St. Joseph	14
48	Backwell	39
48	McCaulley	0
374	Totals	208

Two seniors, three juniors and one freshman make up the starting Hobbs lineup. The starting offensive lineup for the Panthers tonight will be:

Ends—Perry Thomson, senior, 125 pounds; and Henry Medrano, senior, 160.

Center—Fred Cave, freshman, 148.

Quarterback—Doyle Hayes, junior, 170.

Halfbacks — Bernon Etheredge, junior, 170, and Mac Etheredge, junior, 160.

Howard Gordon, a junior, replaces Cave on defense.

Others who have seen plenty of service this season and who are expected to be pressed into service against Garden City are John Soto a sophomore at end; and Pat Murphree, a junior at center.

Other reserves include Jimmie Pullig, Joseph Martinez, Bobby Hardin, Roy McIntosh, "Doc" Hardin, Jerry Trice and Carl Hendrix.

Another lad who deserves credit for the district title won by Hobbs is George Gantt, a transfer who was inelgible to play this season under the one-year rule. Gantt has been working out with the team and will be eligible next fall.

This is the first year Hobbs has played Six-Man football. The school has previously played 11 man.

Hobbs won the site of the game by winning a coin toss last week.

Admission prices for tonight's game will be $1 adults and 50 cents students.

Title On Line In Junior College Tilt

PAUSE TO GIVE THANKS . . .

. . . not only for our bountiful Thanksgiving feasts, but for all the advantages we, as Americans, have! The security, opportunities and freedom that are ours alone in America should make every day a day of joy — every day a day of Thanksgiving.

Let us pause for a few minutes on this American holiday and count our blessings.

Army Dispute Develops Over 'Copters' Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — A few Army helicopters have swirled up a dust by argument over doctrine as well as ground rules in the Louisiana war games.

It has taken a high-level meeting and agreement between Secretary of the Army Wilber Brucker and Secretary of the Air Force Donald Quarles to end the bickering between generals in blue and generals in brown.

Quarles said that he had ordered Gen. O. P. Weyland, director of the joint Army-Air Force Exercise Sagebrush, to "rescind" a ruling to which the Army objected, urgently.

So now the Army will be permitted to use its experimental Skycav reconnaissance patrol into aggressor territory. The Skycav outfit is composed of a total of 2 helicopters and light liaison-type planes, equipped with television, long-range cameras and other gear to give commanders an on-the-spot view of enemy territory. In Exercise Sagebrush, more than 1,200 aircraft of the Air Force and Army are involved.

The issue raised by the Army's plan to test Skycav was carried to Weyland a few days before the battle phase of Sagebrush started.

He held that this would be contrary to ground rules. Those rules, said the Air Force, were agreed upon by the Army and Air Force and included the provision that any "assault" mission would be conducted by Air Force aircraft. Weyland ruled that operation of the Skycav in "enemy" territory was an "assault" operation and thus the Army should not use its aircraft.

The decision did not ban any of the approximately 400 Army aircraft from engaging in flights over aggressor territory for artillery fire spotting, evacuation of simulated wounded and other missions Air Force spokesmen said.

The Army said it wanted to carry out a test of its Skycav unit—and appealed the case to the Pentagon.

Quarles ordered Weyland to permit the Army to proceed with the test but said he felt Weyland's decision "was in accord with the rules of the game laid down in advance for the maneuver director."

He said, without elaboration, that there was a "doctrinal question" involved.

That sounded like he was talking about the old question of where, when and how Army aviation should be used in actual battle.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE STATE OF TEXAS

TO:

J. M. Cunningham and wife, Stella V. Cunningham, if living, and if deceased, then the heirs, devisees, legatees and legal representatives of the said J. M. Cunningham and wife, Stella V. Russians May Introduce New BOMBAY, India (AP)—India's Russian visitors made the Bombay Aquarium their first stop on a busy tour today as a promised meeting with news correspondents was dropped suddenly from their schedule.

The Press Guild of India had arranged the news conference with Sovet Premier Bulganin and Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev, now on a whirlwind tour through India after a state visit to Prime Minister Nehru.

The mass interview was first advanced from afternoon to early morning, then canceled and inspection of the fish was substituted. Government information officers had no explanation.

Bombay, scene of bloody Communist-spurred rioting Monday, was calm. Vast crowds lined the visitors' route, cheering and waving flags.

The riots had no apparent connection with the Soviet leaders' visit, stemming from the Nehru government's proposal to make Bombay city an independent state and separate it from neighboring Marathi-speaking territory.

Visible evidence of the destructive riots—in which at least 12 were killed and 266 injured—was hurriedly cleared away before the Russians' arrival.

There are 61 million registered motor vehicles in the United States and 72 million licensed drivers.

Phonograph Records

JAKARTA, Nov. 24 (AP)—The biggest demand at the U.S. information library is for phonograph lessons in English. It is a reflection of Indonesia's new requirement for study of English in high schools. English is replacing Dutch as the No. 2 language in this former Dutch colony.
