Own Party's Pressure Puts Scelba Out

By FRANK BRUTTO

ROME (AP) — Premier Mario Scelba today turned in the resignation of the coalition government with which for 15 months he has battled Italian communism and backed the West.

Even as Scelba was closeted with President Giovanni Gronchi in the Quirinale Palace, a communique from this morning's heated Cabinet session said:

The Council of Ministers agreed unanimously on the presentation to the President of the resignations of the entire Cabinet."

Scelba's own political party, the Christian Democrats, had pulled the rug from under him and started a government crisis.

If Gronchi accepts the resignation, conferences with party leaders will begin at once to pick a new Prime Minister to succeed the tough little anti - Communist Sicilian. Scelba's coalition has been in office 15 months.

If Gronchi refuses to accept the resignations, Scelba will face a test of confidence in Parliament immediately, with his own party split in a revolt against him.

His vice premier, Social Democrat Giuseppe Saragat, said split-off Rightist groups of Christian Democrats had made a deal with the Monarchist-Fascist Right.

Scelba remained in the presidential palace an hour. The tough little Sicilian Premier came out visibly moved.

"I have handed it in," he told reporters.

"I have done my duty. I leave with perfect serenity."

He expressed his hope that "the crisis may now be soon resolved."

As usual, there was no immediate word whether Gronchi would accept the resignation.

Scelba's government came to a crisis last night when his own big Christian Democrat party walked out on his coalition and one of his rebelling minor party allies refused to return to the fold.

The rift in the Christian Democrat party apparently was a fight for power between groups led by Scelba, party Secretary General Amintore Fanfani and former Premier Giuseppe Pella.

Pella and his group want to try a one - party Cabinet. Social Democrat Giuseppe Saragat, vice premier in Scelba's cabinet, charged angrily that they had caused the crisis by making a deal with the Monarchist - Fascist Right.

Molotov Expected To Press 'Peace' Resolution Demands

By MAX HARRELSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Russia's V. M. Molotov was expected to bring into the open today his demands for a United Nations declarations pledging all its 60 members to work for peace.

Western diplomats believed this would be the centerpiece of the foreign policy statement which the Soviet foreign minister was to make before the U. N.'s 10th anniversary session.

Molotov was reported last night to have given the Western Big Three foreign ministers a partial reply to their proposals for setting up the summit talks in Geneva next month.

Informed quarters said he had made reservations on only one important point: namely, the Western proposal to limit the talks to four or six days. He wants no time limit.

As the session went into its third day, there appeared to be little doubt some form of peace declaration would be approved. The main problems were procedure and form.

In private talks, Molotov has said he wants the 60 nations to adopt a formal resolution urging all-out peace efforts.

Western diplomats call this a propaganda move. They have indicated, however, that they would agree to a declaration by Dr. Eelco N. Van Kleffens of the Netherlands, General Assembly president, saying that the delegations here unanimously support all peace attempts. This would not require a formal vote.

The question was: Would Molotov drop his demand for a formal action and agree to the Western suggestion for an informal approach? If so, the meeting would continue to reflect the new atmosphere of apparently diminishing tension which was the keynote of its opening sessions.

Western diplomats were as much interested in the tone of Molotov's speech as in its content because of the significance it might have in relation to the summit meeting in Geneva next month.

President Eisenhower, in opening the U. N. meetings Monday, pledged that the United States would do everything possible to make the Big Four talks a success.

Molotov first brought up the peace resolution in a private meeting with U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold last Sunday. Later he mentioned it to Van Kleffens.

Monday night the Soviet foreign minister discussed his plan with the Western Big Three and they also objected to a resolution. He gave no indication in any of these talks that he was prepared to alter his position.

Any further meetings of the Big Four foreign ministers appeared unlikely during the present session. British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan planned to leave tonight on his return trip to London.

After today there still remained two more full days of speaking and a concluding ceremony next Sunday. French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay speaks tomorrow and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Friday morning. Former President Harry S. Truman speaks Friday night.

Acreage Quota Study Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department authorities on cotton and rice will accompany a congressional delegation to Texas to investigate acreage allotment complaints by growers of the two crops.

This was revealed yesterday following a conference between Joe Hart, LaGrange attorney and director of the Old Cotton Belt Assn. of Texas, and Asst. Agriculture Secretary James McConnell.

Acompanying Hart was Rep. Clark Thompson (D-Tex). Aides of both Texas senators also joined in the meeting.

House Agriculture committeemen handling cotton and rice legislation will arrive in Houston Friday night. They will spend Saturday and Sunday in the Houston and LaGrange areas before going on to Arkansas.

John Cook, a department cotton expert, and J. A. Satterfield, a rice expert, will acompany the congressmen.

El Paso Set To End School Segregation

EL PASO (AP)—El Paso has become the first major Texas city to abolish racial segregation in public schools.

The school board voted 6-1 last night to end such segregation here. It ordered desegregation to be effected this fall in time for school opening.

Earlier, the West Texas town of Friona ordered desegregation. State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar said at Austin he thinks some independent school districts inside military reservations have desegregated their schools.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled racial segregation in public schools unconstitutional.

Of the El Paso action, Edgar said:

"All efforts at desegregation will be interesting to watch. I have a lot of respect for the El Paso board, and I am sure they know what they are doing.

"They do a good job, and I do not think they would go into this without considerable study, preparation and understanding of their local situation."

Edgar has advocated local school boards settle desegregation locally without imposition of rules by the state agency.

The school board member who voted against desegregation here was J. F. Hulse.

During the last school year there were 712 Negro pupils in El Paso public schools. There is one Negro school in this metropolitan area of more than 182,000 persons. It takes in all grades from kindergarten through high school.

Local Negro leaders have filed no suit here on segregation in public schools. A suit is pending before U.S. district court seeking the admission of a Negro to the undergraduate division of Texas Western College here, a branch of the University of Texas.

American and Korean intelligence officers still are questioning the two.

Summer Here; So Just Relax And Take It

By BRUCE HENDERSON

Summer has once again come to Texas. And for any newly arrived Yankees, this bit of advice Don't try to fight it.

Just relax and prespire freely and make up your mind summer will be here for a while. It will. It will stay until 1:42 p.m., Sept. 23.

"Adjust," as the psychiatrists say. If you don't, your throbbing blood pressure has only you to blame.

Summer slipped into Texas at 10:32 p.m. Tuesday under cover of roving thunderstorms. Two "thunderbursters" hit Austin, disrupted power and causing minor wind and rain damage. The Austin Weather Bureau measured .40 inch, but as much as .90 inch was recorded at other points in the city.

Early Wednesday, thunderstorms which cooled big patches of Texas in recent days had become more isolated. Lubbock had a shower. And you could see winking lightning from Amarillo, Childress and Midland.

The Weather Bureau forecast more isolated showers but said a low barometric pressure center which spawned cloudburst rains had faded.

Overnight minimum temperatures ranged from 60 degrees at Amarillo and Dalhart to Corpus Christi's 77.

Rainfall reported to the U. S. Weather Bureau at Dallas included: Victoria .47 of an inch, Houston and San Antonio .20, El Paso .02 and Corpus Christi .01.

If Texas' 1955 summer holds true to form, things won't really start getting interesting until around the middle of July. That's when thermometers begin topping the 100-degree mark regularly, when folks who aren't too care ful get too much sun and keel over.

Joe Sees No Chance For Resolution

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) conceded today he has "no chance of success" in efforts to win Senate approval of a resolution aimed at forcing discussion of Russia's satellite states at the Big Four talks.

A 14-0 vote by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last night to recommend rejection of the proposal apparently foreshadowed an overwhelming tally against it on the Senate floor. It had the united opposition of the administration and of Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate.

Committee members generally agreed adoption of the resolution might tend to tie President Eisenhower's hands in talks with the Premiers of Great Britain, France and Russia opening July 18 at Geneva.

Sen. Barkley (D-Ky), a member, said approval of the resolution would leave Eisenhower "with both hands tied behind his back and his tongue locked in his teeth."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the majority leader, denounced the resolution as an effort to "place a loaded gun at the President's temple." The Republican leader, Sen. Knowland of California, told MCarthy he was seeking to intrude on "an exeutive function." McCarthy replied that the Senate has a right to advise the President.

ARMY SECRETARY STEVENS RESIGNS

Trash Pickup Work Slated For Tomorrow

Snyder's civic clubs, along with individual volunteers, will begin pickup throughout Snyder tomorrow of trash cleaned up by the city's residents this week in the annual cleanup campaign.

The groups will meet at 8 a.m. tomorrow on the lot just west of the bus depot, and trucks and men will be dispatched from there.

Ernest Sears, chairman of the cleanup campaign for the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the drive, said six civic clubs here have been assigned different areas of the city to make pickups tomorrow. The Optimist Club has been assigned the residential areas south of Thirty-seventh Street, including Highland Park, Towle Place, Highlands, and Noble Heights. The Rotary Club has the area between Avenues S and Z and between Twenty-fifth and Thirty-seventh Streets. City employes will cover a nine-block area in mid-Snyder. The Kiwanis Club has all residences east of Avenue E to the city limits. The Jaycees will cover the area between Avenues E and S and between Twenty-third and Thirty-seventh Streets. The evening Lions Club has the area between Avenues E and S and Thirteenth and Twenty-third Streets. The Downtown Lions Club has all residences north of Twenty-fifth Street and west of Avenue S.

A new model packer-type garbage truck will be demonstrated during the pickup day, according to Jack Shelley, city manager. The truck is one of the type now being used by the city but larger than the two the city now has.

Sears urged residents who have been cleaning their yards to box or sack their trash or garbage so it can be picked up and placed on the trucks.

In connection with the cleanup campaign, the Jaycees have been mowing weeds in town for $1.50 per lot and have had many orders.

Panel Reaches Agreement On Pay Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate-House conferees agreed today on a bill raising salaries of 1,073,262 federal employes 7½ per cent retroactive to March 1.

The Senate conferees obtained only a few minor increases in the raises voted by the House. The Senate originally had passed a 10 per cent pay increase measure; the House on Monday voted for 7½ per cent.

Some if the conferees said they had been advised President Eisenhower would accept no more than 7½ per cent.

The increases, which will total about 328 million dollars annually, apply to 983,057 classified civil service employes and about 90,205 related workers.

Sen. Olin D. Johnstown (D-SC) had said earlier the Senate conferees would fight to give the rank-and-file federal employes an 8 per cent pay raise.

The half million postal workers already have been given a raise averaging 8 per cent.

Johnston tacitly conceded he did not expect anything more than 8 per cent. But he said:

"I do not see how it would be fair to give the classified employes less than we gave the postal employes. And I do not see how the President can veto an 8 per cent bill when he approved that amount for the postal workers."

Ike Picks Brucker To Fill Vacancy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert T. Stevens resigned today as secretary of the Army and President Eisenhower nominated Wilber M. Brucker, general counsel of the Defense Department, to succeed him.

Stevens gave "compelling personal considerations" as his reason for quitting. He was a principal in last year's row between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and top Pentagon officials, but neither he nor Eisenhower, who accepted the resignation today, made any reference to that spectacular event.

Brucker, a former governor of Michigan, has been general counsel at the Pentagon since April 1954. He will be 61 tomorrow. His home is in Detroit.

The White House announced Stevens' resignation and made public a letter in which the President accepted "with deep regret" just before Eisenhower left on a six-day tour of New England.

Stevens will leave the Pentagon about the end of July. He told Eisenhower he would work out the precise date with Secretary of Defense Wilson.

Wilson, Stevens and Brucker drove with the President from the White House to the airport.

Stevens' resignation came a year after his spectacular clash with McCarthy over the question of alleged subversion in the Army and of asserted favored treatment for a one-time McCarthy aide, Pvt. G. David Schine.

Previously the Army's general counsel, John G. Adams, quit his post in the aftermath of the hearings and so did McCarthy's top aide, Roy M. Cohn. Both Cohn and Adams were principals in the 1954 dispute.

Brucker was governor of Michigan from January, 1931, to the end of December, 1932. Previously he was Michigan's attorney general, and from 1923 to 1937 was prosecuting attorney of Michigan's Saginaw County.

GOP MEMBER

A native of Saginaw, Brucker is a Republican. So is Stevens.

In his letter of resignation Stevens said he first brought to the attention of the President "a few weeks ago" the personal considerations he said have dictated his decision to resign.

"I have conferred with Mr. Wilson and believe I can accomplish what you and he desire of me before the end of July.

"If this is satisfactory to you, I will be guided accordingly and work out the precise date of my resignation with Mr. Wilson who, I am sure, will keep you informed.

"I cannot submit my resignation without expressing my profound admiration of your leadership during these last two and a half years and my deep appreciation of the opportunity you accorded me to serve the country and your administration during this same period. I shall always be grateful for this chance to serve our great Army and for your never failing support.

"I leave with real regret. I would like to carry on as a member of your team. Only personal considerations have decreed it otherwise. I am sure you know that I will always be willing to be of service to you, if the occasion should arise."

Accepting the resignation "with deep regret" Eisenhower said in a letter to Stevens he was "indeed sorry that you find it necessary at this time to return to private life." Eisenhower started his letter "Dear Bob."

PRAISE FROM IKE

The President said Stevens had made a "large personal sacrifice" in continuing as Army secretary, and went on to say:

"As secretary of the Army during the past two and one half years you have contributed extensively to the vital task of reshaping our military forces to conform to the conditions of our time. Secretary Wilson and I have been grateful for your devotion and strong support in carrying it through.

"As you return to private affairs, you carry with you my personal gratitude for your fine service along with every wish for your health and happiness in the years ahead."

Eisenhower signed the letter "With warm regard."

Stevens—his full name is Robert Ten Broeck Stevens—is a grey, ruddy-faced man with a quick smile. He took over as boss of the Army on Feb. 2, 1953, right in the middle of the controversy over reported ammunition shortages in Korea.

He promptly flew to the Far East to find out the facts for himself and then he came back and rattled around the country visiting ammunition suppliers and jacking up production.

The ammunition shortage controversy, although it waxed hot for a time, was mild in comparison with Stevens' later controversy with McCarthy.

School At Irving Put On Probation

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN (AP)—The Irving School System went on probation today under a blunt State Education Agency order directing it to reform or lose its scholastic credit rating.

The action brought a promise from Irving Supt. John L. Beard that steps were already being taken to correct situations that brought on the complaints.

The order in effect told the adults of the Irving district to get their schools in order so that the children can receive instruction that is up to state standards.

The probation directive issued yesterday by J. W. Edgar, State Education Commissioner was sharply critical of school officials, the school staff, and patrons in the North Texas town that has been torn by dissension over the schools for months.

A legislative committee has been authorized to investigate it and similar situations. Beard was fired by one school board, which a majority of the voters then abolished. A new district was set up and Beard re-hired.

While the discharge of Beard was not directly mentioned in Edgar's directive, it called attention to lack of good school-community relations and many other factors which resulted in damage to the educational program.

On accreditation probation, a school system is under the constant threat of losing its scholastic credit rating if it does not comply with accepted standards, or with requirements spelled out in the probation order.

When a school loses its accreditation or credit rating its students who seek to transfer to accredited systems find their work subject to question. Their credits are not accepted by standard colleges when the students graduate. The school system loses some financial benefits under the Gilmer Aikin laws.

Loss of scholastic accreditation, however, does not make the school ineligible for interscholastic league competitions.

The order to the Irving schools was issued after a three-man team from the State Education Agency made a survey which found dissension "still prevalent" and the instruction program still suffering as of May 25.

The Irving schools will lose their standing, Edgar said, if they do not comply next school year with these conditions:

1. Staff qualified professionally which "can and will" operate with "unity and competence" to guarantee an adequate and uninterrupted educational opportunity for the Students.

2. School board policies and administrative procedures must be objectively developed in line with reputable school practices. All policies and regulations fairly and impartially administered and made available in writing to the school staff, the students, and all citizens.

3. Establishment of good community relations in a setting "conductive to a high quality instructional program. xxx The relationships which prevailed at Irving during the 1954-55 school year failed to meet this requirement."

Oil, Gas Compact Extension Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Commerce Committee approved yesterday another 4-year extension of the interstate oil and gas compact. The Senate already has approved it.

The compact aims at conserving oil and gas by preventing waste through limiting production.

The resolution would give the consent of Congress to the compact. It already has been endorsed by Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas and West Virgina.

Search Continues For Missing Pilots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A search for two missing pilots continued Wednesday following the deaths of at least two others in plane collisions Tuesday.

Meanwhile, a search for one missing plane resulted in the rescue of a fisherman in the Gulf and the recovery of his companion's body.

Two Air National Guardsmen were killed Tuesday night in a crash near Amarillo's Palo Duro Airport. The men, stationed at Amarillo Air Force Base, were: T. Sgt. Vincent Rauen, 30, Riverdale, Ill.; and S.Sgt. Donald Thomas, 23, Tucson, Ariz. Thomas was practicing landings and takeoffs.

One pilot parachuted to safety and another was missing after the crash of two Air Force jet trainers in an area called "The Wilderness, 25 miles northwest of Del Rio.

The pilot who came down safely from his T35 was 1st. Lt. Rollin R. Lerch, 24, Fond du Lac, Wis. An Air Force spokesman said the other pilot, whose name was withheld, apparently parachuted because his "chute wasn't in the wreckage of his plane."

The Civil Air Patrol search that turned up the two fishermen was looking for a missing Air Force fighter plane from Bergstrom Air Force Base at Austin.

The fisherman who was dead when pulled from the water by a crash boat crew from Matagorda Air Force Base was Harris-Stagner, retired Victoria business man.

His companion, T. B. Clay, 61, a Victoria tourist court operator, is in Calhoun County Memorial Hospital at Port Lavaca. He suffered shock and exposure.

The pilot of the F84F jet fighter missing in the Gulf area was Lt. Col. Alfred Hearne, 32, Austin, member of the 12th Strategic Fighter wing based at Bergstrom. He was reported missing on a gunnery mission after leaving Bergstrom at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday. He was last seen near Matagorda Island, a thin strip that hugs the coast.

The fishermen were sighted in Espiritu Santo Bay, 10 miles west of Port O'Connor.

Clay told Calhoun County officers that he and Stagner had driven to the coast early Tuesday for a day's fishing and were about five miles offshore when a squall struck their skiff about noon.

Clay said the wind and rain squall capsized the skiff. He was able to come up under the boat and cling to it.

He said he did not see Stagner until after several hours of drifting in the shallow bay. Finally, he said, his feet touched bottom and he looked around to see Stagner's body floating nearby. He looped some fishline around it and tied it to the boat.

President Off To New England For Series Of Informal Talks

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower left by plane at 11:20 a.m. today for Rutland, Vt., first stop in a series of informal speeches in three New England states.

Accompanying him to the airport was Secretary of Defense Wilson; Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens, who had just resigned, and Wilber M. Brucker, nominated to succeed Stevens.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the officials came out to the airport to talk over the Defense Department changes.

Stevens told reporters he had no plans except to "finish up my job working for Mr. Wilson."

Asked if he was surprised abqut his appointment, Brucker said he knew nothing about it "until an hour ago." He added he was "supremely happy."

The President posed for cameramen with the defense officials. As he walked up the ramp to his plane, he turned around, smiled, and said "Goodby Charlie" to the defense secretary.

The President left in the old Columbine, the first plane he used when he entered the White House and on his earlier trip to Korea. Officials said this was 18 feet shorter than his Columbine II and was better for the shorter runways in New England.

GOP leaders hope Eisenhower's trip will heal some Republican differences in New England. He will speak at the National Dairy Festival in Rutland first.

He will spend the night at a mountain resort at Chittenden, conferring there with Vermont Republican leaders at breakfast tomorrow morning. Later will go on to New Hampshire and then to Maine for two days of fishing at Kennebago.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) said in an interview that if anything could heal a Republican split in the state it would be Eisenhower's candidacy for a second term next year. He said Eisenhower's decision to visit New England bolstered his own belief the President will run.

"I am satisfied he will run because he has to run," Flanders said. "The reason he has to run is because he cannot drop the responsibility for leadership either in the nation or the world."

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said every element of the GOP will be represented when Eisenhower makes three stops for speeches in New Hampshire. He plans also to visit briefly at Lincoln, the home town of White House chief of staff Sherman Adams.

Bridges, who doesn't see eye to eye with Adams on some political matters, will introduce the President for one talk. Sen. Cotton (R-NH) will officiate at another and Gov. Lane Dwinell at a third.

All this apparently was planned to promote party harmony in a state where the Democrats bid strongly for the 1st Congressional District seat in 1954, losing by 468 votes out of 107,636.

Sen. Payne (R-Maine), who plans to dip a line with the President at Kennebago, said he thinks Eisenhower's visit will "stimulate" the party organization in Maine.

"We've got a big job ahead of us to win back the governorship from the Democrats," Payne said. "The fact that the President is visiting Maine shows his interest in our state and should stimulate the Republicans there."

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), who recently expressed some doubts that the President would agree to run again, will introduce Eisenhower when he speaks at Skowhegan.

Foes Freed By Peron Regime

By JIMMIE PAYNE

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Political prisoners arrested in connection with last week's revolt against the government of President Juan D. Peron are being released, the government announced today.

The order frees political opponents of the government such as Crisologo Larralde, leader of the Radical party, who were jailed during and after the revolt.

The rebels themselves—mostly navy fliers and marine corps personnel—are to be tried by the Supreme Council of the armed forces.

The government announcement said it had been decided to release political prisoners "in the interests of restoring complete tranquility throughout the nation."

A communique earlier from Maj. Gen. Franklin Lucero, army minister and commander in chief of the "forces of repression," reported all of Argentina absolutely calm. Troops guarding public buildings and churches in the capital since the uprising last Thursday were sent back to their barracks today.

Police in Rosario, capital of Santa Fe province and Argentina's second largest city, announced that 21 Communists had been arrested there for distributing subversive leaflets and violating the state security decree.

How Did Grandma's Recipe Book Help Cure A Sick Boy?

When nine-year-old John Rudkin of Norwalk, Conn., became ill of asthma, his mother dug out an old family cookbook and started preparing some old-fashioned homemade bread for him. The bread not only helped John regain his energy and stamina, but led to the establishment of a thriving family business. This unusual success story is one of the many interesting features you'll find in the next issue of Family Weekly.

ONLY SANDRA'S DIGNITY SUFFERED—Sandra Snyder, 8, holds onto a neighbor Mrs. Helen Berke, while Police Officer R. L. Deveux (center), and Fireman Fred Ehrlick (left), amputate bicycle to free her leg after freak mishap at Cluver City, Calif. Sandra was pedaling her bike in her back yard when her leg became wedged between the parallel bars of the bicycle's frame. The officers tried pulling her leg free without success. They put grease on her knee. That didn't work either. Finally, they cut the frame apart with a hacksaw, then pried with a crowbar. Sandra cried in earnest. Her bicycle was ruined. Mother, Mrs. Constance Snyder (right), watches anxiously.

Inquiry Into Land Office Deals Ended

CORPUS CHRITI (AP) — An inquiry into Texas General Land Office operations in this area ended yesterday with more reports of state geophysical inspectors renting personal equipment to exploration companies.

Asst. Atty. Gen. William King said the inquiry team would return to Austin. He said a probe into the leasing of state land would be resumed tomorrow.

Assistants to state Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd spent two days here questioning witnesses in a court of inquiry conducted by Peace Justice W. A. Gilleland. The sessions ended after 21 geophysical inspectors were questioned.

Henry L. Smith of Yoakum testified he could not remember exactly how much money he received from exploration companies he was watching. He said he had rented a motor, barge and tractor for a considerable sum.

Demetrious Chionsini of Galveston testified he made $12.50 a day renting pontoons and a motor. Several other inspectors testified earlier they received as much as $500 to $900 a month on equipment rental.

Chionsini denied he granted special favors to General Geophysical Co., which he was assigned to inspect, because it used his equipment.

A 1952 survey showed that a million classrooms were then in use in U.S. public schools.

Texas Feed Record Clear, White Says

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas doesn't owe "one thin dime" of drought relief rebate to Uncle Sam, State Agriculture Commissioner John White insists.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, in a letter dated June 3 and released to the press yesterday by Gov. Allan Shivers, claimed that White had "over-spent" $162,670 in drought relief money in 1953.

Shivers said he had asked White to confer with the state auditor and the attorney general and to furnish him with "all necessary facts" so that he could reply to the USDA.

White snapped back that Texas owes nothing in the dispute over interpretation of the drought relief contract which he signed for the state in 1953.

"The governor knows this, the attorney general knows this, the state auditor knows this, and Mr. Ezra Benson, the U.S. secretary of agriculture, certainly should know it by now," White said.

The federal claim was stated in a letter to Shivers from True D. Morse, undersecretary of agriculture. It said that the USDA, after careful study and consultation with its lawyers, rejected White's interpretation of terms of the contract under which the money was allocated.

White said he had taken exceptions to the federal interpretations over a long period of time, most recently in January, "and I have heard nothing from them since."

"The state of Texas hay transportation program was set up on the basis of one-half the normal freight rate. After negotiating contracts with other drought-stricken states, the federal government alleged that Texas was wrong in giving the farmers the benefit of the reduced freight rate," White said.

"The federal government claimed that only one-fourth of the normal freight rate should be returned to the farmers.

"When the USDA made this claim, I conferred with the governor's office, the attorney general and the state auditors. It was agreed that the USDA was incorrect in its interpretation of the contract."

Liberace Is In Kissing Scenes Now

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Liberace has met the challenge of big-screen movies, kissing scenes and all.

So far in his professional career, the candelabra king hasn't been allowed much more affection than kissing his mother on the forehead. But nov he's making his first starring movie, "Sincerely Yours," and you know how Hollywood can change things.

Oh, he's getting the romance, all right. His amours in the film are brown-haired beauty Joanne Dru and Dorothy Malone, the shapely blonde who sizzled the screens in "Battle Cry."

His first screen kiss was with Miss Malone, and it was a lulu.

"We had to hold it while the camera panned over to William Demarest and Joanne," he said. "Then the camera panned back to us, still kissing. Wow!"

But his kiss with Joanne was even more notable.

"For three days, her neck had been out of joint and she had been having massages for it," he related. "When I grabbed her and kissed her, I heard a strange noise—you can even hear it on the sound track. It turned out I had put her neck back in joint."

How some of Liberace's possessive fans go for all this smooching remains to be seen. But at least they will be satisfied in seeing a lot of him in the picture.

Liberace plays a popular pianist, but not really Liberace. At least Mom is missing. George, too. The story shows him afflicted with partial deafness at the beginning of the picture. Toward the end, he faces an operation that will either restore his hearing or make him completely deaf. You can guess how it turns out.

Oh, yes, he also garners Miss Dru at the fadeout, having managed to elude Miss Malone.

Director Gordon Douglas reported that Liberace's performance is going to surprise a lot of people.

"I had him do two weeks of piano scenes," the director remarked. "I thought it would be a good way of breaking in. His performance had been remarkable. He had one crying scene that is terrific."

Clerk Asks Permit For His Daughter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A department store sales clerk who fled Europe in 1948 pleaded ardently by mail today with Czechoslovakia's foreign minister for a permit to let his motherless little daughter join him in the United States.

Philipp Heller, 39, of Sacramento, came to San Francisco in hope of winning diplomatic backing from United Nations bigwigs to fulfill his great wish.

He found people sympathetic, but "awfully busy" with U.N. conferences and festivities.

He didn't see the Czech foreign minister, Vaclav David.

But his letter tells the pathetic story in capsule form:

"Excellency—

"The United Nations is commemorating a great occasion—the 10th anniversary of the charter signing of the United Nations.

"My daughter is also 10 years old. But her mother, my first wife, died at Prague and my child was put in an orphanage. Now I am married to an American woman. After so many years I want my child with me and don't want her to grow up as an orphan.

"Aren't you of the opinion that it would be in the spirit of today's United Nations celebration if your government would grant my daughter, Vera Anita Hellerova (last known address: Praha-Liben, Chocholouskova Ulice 4) an exit permit, so that she could live with her father?"

Heller's address is 915 T St., Sacramento, Calif.

Bible Thought

When I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; and thou givest him not warning, nor speakest to warn the wicked from his wicked way, to save his life; the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand. (Ezekiel 3:18)

Peace Of The Bear

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin, en route to San Francisco to attend the tenth anniversary meeting of the United Nations, stopped off in Cheyenne, Wyo., for a bit of sightseeing. Each was presented a ten-gallon hat by a reporter from a Denver newspaper.

"Thank you very much for the hat," Molotov said. "It is a beautiful hat. Extend my greetings to all your readers. We must all work for world peace."

Peace, it's wonderful. The Communists have been mouthing it for years, just as they mouthed the word "democracy" until it came to have practically no meaning at all. Peace in Communist mouths has the same meaning as democracy has in the same mouths —a word to play with, nothing more.

The little incident of the hat presentation gave one of the most ruthless of all communist manipulators a world audience upon which to impress the catch-word "peace." What kind of peace? Whose peace? Why, in Kipling's words, the Truce of the Bear.

By word and deed the Communist dictators have made a mockery of peace. The world could have had a genuine peace at any time in the last ten years had the Communist world met the free world anywhere near halfway.

It could have had a Communist peace at any time in the last ten years had it been content to give in on all points, and accept the Communist interpretation of the word—the Truce of the Bear, which is never so dangerous as "when he shows as asking quarter, with paws like hands in prayer."

We Americans are suckers for anything smacking of peace, a fact of which the Communist propagandists are well aware. Pacifism and peace are not the same thing. Between our kind of genuine peace and the Communist kind a great chasm yawns. The Communists wage "peace" as an instrument of war, in pursuit of their ultimate aim of world conquest. They spend more money propagandizing this wolf-word in sheep's clothing than we spend on all our information agencies. They picked up a bargain in Cheyenne.

'Paid' Vs. 'Free' TV

Of course television isn't free, as opponents of pay-as-you-play or subscription TV are continually saying; you buy your set and maintain it in order to hear what's coming on the wild, wild waves. And you pay ear-service by listening to commercials on which present TV economics are necessarily based. In the case of the old time medicine show, in which "Doctor" Whoosis promoted sale of that marvelous new discovery, Old Chief Snookyookum's secret remedy for falling toenails, insect bites, torpid liver and what not, out of which grew vaudeville and 90 percent of today's TV, nobody paid anything but his presence—providing he could resist the good Doc's blandishments.

But one segment of TV opinion believes there is room for paid TV programs, in which the listener drops a quarter or a dollar into a slot, or pays on a monthly basis, and receives in return topflight Broadway shows or A- and B-class Hollywood pictures free of interruptions. The mechanics of paid TV are of less importance—there are several rival systems, all of which are subject to further perfecting experiments —than the establishment of a new principle, to-wit: that viewers are entitled to decide for themselves whether to go on with the present system of "free" TV and all its imperfections or by paying out "admission" fee to attract entertainment of better quality.

A nationwide "poll" of viewers sentiment was recently completed for the information and guidance of the FCC, which must make the final decision as between "free" and paid television. Whatever that ruling is, TV would not become wholly "free" or wholly paid, but a mixture of both. If the viewers were content with things as they are, well and good; if not, they could by supporting paid programs insure the making and the broadcasting of a better class of shows. TV advertising would not disappear, but it would no longer be the be-all and end-all of TV production, and "subscription" TV would provide the sinews for more creditable programs.

It's a lively argument, and we shall see what we shall see.

Air Force Academy Set To Begin Its First Term Next Month In Temporary Quarters

By FRANK PITMAN

DENVER, June 22 (AP) — Under Colorado's blue skies, the U.S. Air Force Academy takes off this summer on its mission of training career officers for the nation's air arm.

The first class of 300 cadets—chosen from among 6,300 nominations—reports next month to Lowry Air Force Base here, temporary site for the academy.

"This will be the most select, highly qualified group of young men ever entered in any institution of higher learning in the United States," proudly declares Brig. Gen. Don Zimmerman, dean of faculty.

The cadets have passed rigid mental and physical tests. They have been found to be of "good character." None has been married. All are between 17 and 22 years old.

They are the beginning of a cadet wing that in about eight years will total 2,496—the number presently authorized by Congress. The academy's operations will be steadily enlarged until it is producing 600 officers annually.

Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, 62, superintendent of the academy, says the Air Force hopes the academy "will be the motivation for a lifetime career in the Air Force." The academy was founded Harmon said, with the aim of providing the Air Force with "a hard core of professional officers."

Establishment of the academy follows recommendations of an Air Force Academy Planning Board appointed Aug. 16, 1948 to investigate the need for a third service academy. Congress authorized the academy in 1954 and appropriated 126 million dollars for its establishment.

One million dollars was spent to rehabilitate buildings and construct additional facilities at Lowry for temporary use until the academy's permanent home seven miles north of Colorado Springs is ready in the fall of 1957.

Fifty-eight million dollars will be spent on the construction of the academy. Flying facilities at the academy will require another 31 million dollars. The other 36 million dollars will go, the Air Force says, "for support elements for the entire operation."

Construction started this spring on the permanent buildings on the site near Colorado Springs. This 17,500 acre tract hugs the foothills of the Rocky Mountains. The western edge is bordered by the Rampart Range, which rises 7,000 feet above the academy area. The altitude of the site ranges from 6,235 feet to 7,900 feet above sea level. Five streams wind through the grounds.

A complete community is being created for the academy. It will be a city of 8,000 to 10,000 inhabitants with a college, an Air Force base and a military training and maneuver area. There will be business offices comparable to a major command.

The academy's program will be similar in some respects to that of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, and the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. Staff and faculty of both cooperated in planning the Air Force institution.

Harmon described the curriculum as "evenly divided between technical or scientific courses and what are referred to as the social-humanities group. All of our technical courses are directed toward aeronautical engineering."

There are two major phases to the academy's program: (1) airmanship under the direction of the commandant of cadets, Col. Robert M. Stillman, and (2) academic under the supervision of the dean of faculty, Gen. Zimmerman.

Stillman says the airmanship program will train the cadet in piloting of light aircraft, in the composition, administration and control of military forces.

Cadets will receive navigation training on the ground and in the air during four years at the academy. Full scale pilot training in the Air Training Command follows graduation.

Air Force officials say it's "hoped" all cadets will qualify as pilots. However, the service has need for qualified officers in all branches and nonpilots also will find career opportunities.

The military training phase of the airmanship program starts on the cadet's arrival. It includes basic military training, weapons and equipment familiarization, basic infantry drill and tactics. Military training continues throughout the academic year.

In the summer months the cadets will participate in activities at selected Air Force, Navy and Army installations.

The academic course, Zimmerman says, "will be functional in nature—that is, related to aircraft equipment and aviation problems rather than to purely theoretical situations."

The school of basic sciences includes mathematics, chemistry and physics. The engineering sciences include electrical, mechanics and thermodynamics — with particular reference to gas turbines and rocket engines. The aeronautical sciences include the study of aerographics, aerodynamics and aircraft design.

Zimmerman says the social studies and humanities "are designed to give the cadet a knowledge of the world about him, an understanding of the people in that world and skill in dealing with them." The humanistic studies include courses in geography, comparative government economics and international relations.

Air Force officials say intercollegiate athletics will play an important part at the academy but they assert "The public has gained the impression that undue emphasis will be placed upon the athletic program."

WASHINGTON LETTER

Popular Exhibit Started By Mrs. William H. Taft

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — It was First Ladies' night at the Smithsonian Institution. Mamie Eisenhower, accompanied by the President, was there in person as well as in a glass case along with other White House hostesses in plaster of Paris, wearing authentic gowns of their day.

Mrs. Eisenhower flipped a switch officially lighting and opening the First Ladies' Hall, where her pink inaugural gown and gowns of other presidential hostesses are on display in eight new period settings made to look like rooms in the Executive Mansion at a cost of about $75,000. She looked fit after her recent illness. She wore a halter-top ball-gown of stiff white brocade with emerald gloves and bag matching her jewelry, had a fragile lace stole over her arm and used a sequin-studded small fan. The ceremony in the main hall was attended by several hundred guests. "Mamie, will you look at yourself?" She posed in front of the representation of the East Room where a figure of her own dimensions and banged hair-do stood with figures of Bess Truman and Eleanor Roosevelt in their inaugural gowns.

Since the collection was first started in 1912 with the gift of Mrs. William Howard Taft's gown, the ladies have formed one of the most popular of the Smithsonian's exhibits. Up until now they have been housed in a musty corridor.

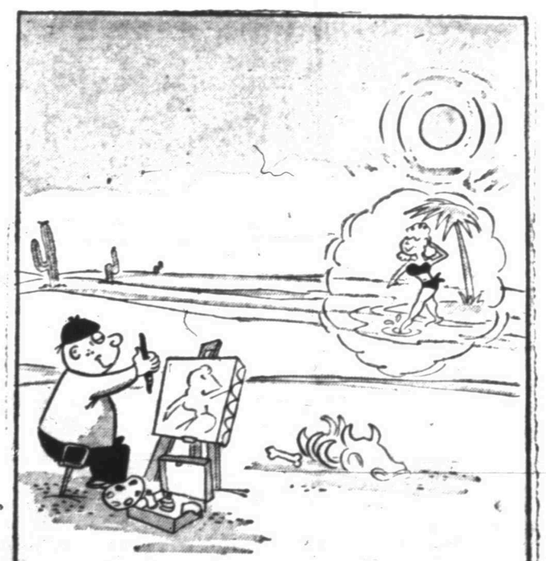

Maragret Brown, curator of the exhibit, says the idea for the new cases came when the Smithsonian inherited several marble fireplaces from the renovated White House. In the Smithsonian's East Room is the gold piano used in the White House from 1902 to the Roosevelt Administration. Other White House backgrounds include gold furniture, mantels, mirrors, chandeliers. In the room where Martha Washington's gown is displayed are furnishings from the first Executive Mansion, in Philadelphia.

Though other living First Ladies had been invited to the formalities, none was able to be present. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, however, visited the exhibit the day before and suggested her figure be turned slightly to show more of the back of her black gown, with its magnificent train. Now she is facing the first Mrs. Wilson in the "Blue Room," which also houses Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. McKinley, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Taft.

United Nations Not Without Critics, But Few Wish To Leave, Or See Unit Dissolved

By WALTER LIPPMANN

There would be no such celebration, as the world is seeing in San Francisco, if in these ten years the United Nations had not proved itself to be a universal and indispensable institution. Nothing that can be said by the statesmen there is so eloquent as the fact that these statesmen are there — that no government has wished, that no government would have dared, to refuse to come. There are still many governments waiting, hoping, and working to be admitted into the United Nations. There is none that would like to resign.

Among those who follow these things there are, to be sure, few in any country who are not critical of this or that in the organization or in the specific acts of the United Nations. There are, likewise, few Americans who agree with all the policies and actions of the American government. But those who would like to leave the United Nations, or wish to see the society dissolved, are no more than an eccentric minority.

• • •

No member has threatened to resign if it could not prevail. And none has been threatened with expulsion if it did not conform to the views of the others. This reflects, I believe, something new in human history, and something of great significance: namely, the presence throughout mankind of a will that the sovereign governments shall preserve the universal society.

This sentiment, so imponderable and yet so compelling, is not due to the triumphs of the United Nations in the specific and hard questions that have been put to them. The United Nations have not solved all their problems; not by any means. The general human will to maintain the United Nations is due to the feeling, almost one might say to the instinct, of the great masses of mankind that beyond and above the cold war, the ideological war, the armaments race, and the revolutions, there is a supreme and universal human interest. This supreme and universal human interest is that issues must never be let reach a point where conflict is irreparable and inexpliable. For humanity has rights that mankind must compel all governments to respect and to defend.

• • •

That the United Nations has come through the past ten years, and that membership is now prized in every nation, is — if one stands off and looks at it — extraordinary. These have been ten dangerous years. The world is rent by the cold war — which is perhaps the deepest, widest, and bitterest schism within the peoples of the world since the long struggle between Islam and Christendom. And with this cold war, alongside of it, as part of it, and at times overriding it, we have been living amidst the epoch-making rise of the peoples of Africa and Asia, and their emergence as new sovereign powers among the powers of the world.

• • •

In the whole of our recorded history there have been few periods, perhaps no period, when so many peoples have been involved in such deep changes in the ways of their lives or engaged in such a diversity of conflicts. It is astounding, therefore, that the universal society of the United Nations survives, and that it is, if anything more deeply rooted, more tenaciously adhered to, then it was ten years ago.

In human experience this is not the first enormous ideological schism when men were prepared to kill and be killed, nor is this the first period of widespread revolution. But this is the first time when in such an age of troubles there has been a truly universal society to which all the antagonists have adhered, or have wished to adhere. That is something without precedent. It is something that is not to be taken for granted but is to be regarded with wonder and with hope.

• • •

This is, I believe, the great conclusion to be drawn on the tenth anniversary of the United Nations. But, of course, these ten years have put many ideas, principles and institutions of the United Nations to many different practical tests. In another article I shall venture to put down some of the things which I believe experience has taught us.

Ordinary Farm Day Gives City Girl Some Memories

By HAL BOYLE

LONG VALLEY, N.J., (AP) — It was an ordinary Sunday outside the big cool dairy barn. The dressed up people from the city enjoyed the sunny countryside.

Inside the big cool dairy barn it was even more of an ordinary day. Cows have no Sunday. The daily drama of life and death among the herd went on unchanged except for one thing.

There was a young girl who saw the drama for the first time. The events of the day changed her, I am sure, forever.

The three cows involved were numbered 204 and 140 and 219—and the first was old and through, the second was young and having her first calf, and the third was middle - aged and having maybe her third or fourth calf.

No. 204 was at the head of the barn and lying, too weary to get up, with her head in its stanchion. She was 14, very old for a cow. Her milk had reached a thousand distant children she had never seen. But now she lay there, unprotestingly, waiting for the slaughterer's truck to come and take her away.

During the morning No. 140, the young heifer, delivered her first calf after a rugged ordeal. Worn out by the struggle and oblivious to the responsibilities of motherhood, she wandered away from her sprawling weak tan calf.

A group of summer residents who came down to see the calf found that No. 219, the middle-aged cow, had taken up the duties of the confused young mother. She was carefully and methodically cleaning the sprawling calf with her tongue, as animals do.

Suddenly it became apparent the middle - aged cow's own ordeal of maternity was at hand. One of the men turned to a young girl, his niece, and said:

"If you're going to get back to the city before the traffic ties you up, you'd better leave now."

"I've never seen anything born before," she said. "I want to stay."

"But it may be hours," he said. "You can't tell."

"Just for a little while," she pleaded. "Then I'll be off."

Her uncle and the others left and the young girl was alone in the filtered light of the barn, sweet with the deep rich scent of hay and animal bodies. Old cow No. 204, a factory worn out, glanced at her with the idle and placid non-interest of age.

The young girl knelt beside No. 219. The miracle of approaching birth made the two one. She knit her fingers and tugged at them tensely in unconscious rhythm with the laboring cow.

"Please," she whispered. "Try again. Harder."

All at once they were three—or almost three. The calf was half-born. Then something was wrong.

"Please, please, please!" cried the girl. She heard a noise. Two dairy hands had come into the far end of the dairy barn.

"Quick!" she cried. "The calf is strangling!"

The two men ran up. One grabbed a rope. With it they completed the rough obstretics of the farm, and the calf was delivered, its forehooves raised to his muzzle in the posture of prayer.

The calf lay there—warm, wet and motionless. One workmen bent and wiped its muzzle to clear the nostrils, then massaged its ribs in an attempt at artificial respiration. The calf lay still.

"But I saw its eyes move," said the girl. "If I could have called you in time—"

The rough workmen looked up at her, puzzled. A calf is $20, more or less, and they come often on a big dairy farm.

"I don't think so," said one of the men, not unkindly. "These things happen, you know."

As one of the men dragged the dead calf away, mother cow No. 219 let out a bellow of anguish that had a human ring of despair in it, and crashed into a chain barrier. She wandered about wildly for a moment, then lowered her head and again began licking the living calf of cow No. 140, the bewildered young heifer who hadn't yet risen to the chores of motherhood.

The young girl got into her car. "But I saw its eyes move," she said, half crying. "If I could have just—"

She turned the car and headed it toward the city. She had seen the sadness of death taking life at the portal of birth, and she would always remember this Sunday, just another ordinary day on a busy farm.

Lot Of Yakking Going On At Big U. N. Celebration

By INEZ ROBB

SAN FRANCISCO — The citizenry of this fabulous town finds it quite unnecessary to get a score card to spot delegates to the present, week-long United Nations birthday fete.

It's a lead-pipe cinch that the party with the dazed look and the bent ears is a delegate. And no wonder. The 10th anniversary celebration of the United Nations turns out to be a talkathon. If the U. N. can survive this, it can survive anything.

Sixty-six (count 'em) addresses by as many dignitaries over a five-day period, beginning with President Eisenhower's address last Monday, are listed in the official program.

As last night's low-descending sun guilded the Golden Gate, there were 20 speeches down and 46 more to go. In any language — and we have 'em all here — that's a lot of yakking, no matter how noble the content or brilliant the delivery.

Already the Grand Old Opry House, where all this oratory resounds, is being renamed "The Cave of the Winds," even as it was ten years ago during the blustery weeks that preceded the concocting and signing of the U. N. Charter.

Now, as then, it is only too obvious that there are more wind jammers than spellbinders among the distinguished statesmen assembled here. The one really superlative orator in the whole group is Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Chairman of the Philippines U. N. Delegation, who is in the great tradition of Winston Churchill, Franklin D. Roosevelt and probably Demosthenes.

Gen. Romulo, who is speaking today, is one of the world's most eloquent champions of democracy. The next speaker on today's program is V. M. Molotov, First Deputy Chairman of the Council of Ministers and Minister of Foreign Affairs for the USSR.

And although Mr. Molotov is not a great orator, he is no slouch when he comes into the lists as the champ of Communism. Something tells me is more than coincidence that led the committee on arrangements to juxtapose the two.

Oddly enough, none of the Big Four nations is represented here by anyone who is apt to jeopardize the reputation of the late William Jennings Bryan. Like Mr. Molotov, now known as the smiling Russian, the spokemen for the United Kingdom, France and the U.S. are just good, workmen-like speakers.

President Eisenhower, who opened the gathering last Monday, and ex-President Truman, who will close it come Friday night, are interesting speakers. But they will never be confused with Marc Anthony.

Dr. Luis Padilla Nervo, Mexican Minister for External Relations, is regarded as Gen. Romulo's nearest rival in the oratory stakes. This brings to mind the fact that the representatives of our good neighbors south of the border are always the most florid speakers on these occasions. Real rug-chewers, some. Dr. Nervo speaks tomorrow and the ears may perk up a mite.

Why, you may ask, does the U. N. celebrate its tenth anniversary with a talkathon? Well, the answer is that it's a touchy matter of protocol. Every nation, great or small, must have its say on this occasion or there would — frankly speaking — be hell to pay.

It is impossible to ask the representative of one sovereign state to give his larynx a work-out without inviting all, even if for delegate, press and innocent bystander it is the fate almost worse than death.

As for me, I have just made myself a lapel button which reads: "Hit me again, I can still hear him."

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE FOUR RIVERS OF PARADISE. By Helen C. White. Macmillan.

At the start of the fifth century, according to this novel, a young man of old Bordeaux, Hilary, converted to the new Christian faith, is allowed by his grandfather to visit Rome. Emperor Honorius is fighting a losing battle. Pagan clashes with Christian, barbarian with the spiritless Roman, and Hilary is in the middle.

The general Stilicho is a forceful Spartan figure; Attis, a seductive dancer; Alaric, a fierce and powerful foe. There is some bread and circuses. Miss White's background is more colorful than her foreground is lively, however, and novelistically speaking, there's too much bread, not enough circuses.

HANNIBAL OF CARTHAGE. By Mary Dolan. Macmillan.

In the still more ancient Mediterranean world, here's the story less of a period than of a man, whom we all remember for his elephants that crossed the Alps, for Fabius Cunctator, for Varro, for Cannae.

As Miss Dolan reminds us, all we know of Hannibal is to be found in Polybius and Livy, and about all they knew they learned from Sosylos, a Greek who lived with the Carthaginain general and wrote an account long since lost. So Miss Dolan smartly makes Sosylos the narrator, and gives us a slightly more favorable picture of Hannibal than his enemies left. We march from Spain to the Rhone, across the Alps and down the Italian boot; and then are with him at his death in Bithynia, far from his home. Sosylos saves Daphne from a Roman soldier and keeps her for himself, and Hannibal acquires a lovely mistress, Iris. A first novel, this doesn't quite recapture, at least for me, the rugged Romans, or the force and might of the invader.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite Walt Disney, George Gobel, the color spectaculars and Jackie Gleason's six-million-dollar contract, Lucy continues as TV champ.

With only one more week to go before taking a summer vacation, the CBS-TV show starring Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz has dominated audience ratings for a fourth consecutive season.

Lucy has been ousted from first place a number of times in the various ratings during the season, but has been No. 1 more than any other.

The show holds the biggest edge in the Nielsen ratings, which cover all telecasts every month. Of 16 biweekly ratings in the past 8 months, Lucy tipped 11. Jackie Gleason was first in two, and the Rose Bowl football telecast, Peter Pan and Academy Awards ceremony were the others to lead the periodic ratings.

There was less of an edge for Lucy in the Trendex ratings, which cover only the first week of each month and are limited to 15 major areas with three or more TV stations. Lucy was first in four of its eight ratings, Gleason in three and Peter Pan in one.

American Research Bureau ratings, on a national basis like Nielsen but covering only the first week of each month, gave Lucy three firsts with Gleason, Dragnet, Groucho Marx, Peter Pan and Toast of the Town accounting for the others.

A composite box score of the three surveys shows Lucy with 18 firsts, Gleason with 6 and none of the other regular shows with more than one.

Paying Ted Williams Is One Of Red Sox's Biggest Problems

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

If Ted Williams doesn't call it quits for good this season, the Boston Red Sox management is going to be in one heckuva pickle—how can you give a raise to a guy already making a hundred grand?

A player in that salary bracket (which means Williams, although he's getting a scaled-down check because of his late start) doesn't figure to get a bonus no matter what he does. But he is worth $100,000 to the Red Sox and baseball, at the gate alone, just by putting on a uniform.

Take last night. The Red Sox made it 12 out of 14 by beating the fourth-place Detroit Tigers 5-4. It was Williams' home run with two on in the eighth that did it.

When Williams came back May 28, Boston was 17-24 for the season. They won seven of the next 13 with Williams, still getting into shape, appearing only infrequently.

Then, 10 games ago, Williams took over left field as a regular. Boston has won 8 of the 10, pulling up to .500 at 32-32. Ted has hammered seven home runs, driven in 14 and batted .429 for the 10 games.

The homer last night was on a 3-0 pitch by Ned Garver. Ellis Kinder, another old pro like Williams, came on in relief in the ninth to preserve Tom Hurd's victory.

In New York's Yankee Stadium Mickey Mantle blasted a 486-foot homer as the Yankees beat Kansas City 6-2. It was one of the longest balls ever belted in the stadium.

The second-place Chicago White Sox beat Washington 6-1 and third-place Cleveland trimmed Baltimore 3-1.

In the National, Brooklyn boosted its lead to 12 games over Chicago as Don Newcombe won his 12th by beating the Cubs 7-2 in 11 innings. Milwaukee moved to within 1½ games of the runner-up Cubs by trimming Pittsburgh 6-4, and Cincinnati gave the sliding New York Giants another shove 10-1. Philadelphia dumped St. Louis 10-8.

Alex Kellner, losing his seventh straight to the Yanks, was the victim of Mantle's blast with none on in the first. He left in a four-run Yank fourth. Tommy Byrne won his fifth.

Washington gave the White Sox three unearned runs and Chicago took it from there. Bob Porterfield was the loser while Virgil Trucks won his eighth.

Bob Lemon, retiring with a leg injury after seven innings, became the first American League hurler to win 10 this season. Al Smith's two-run homer in the fifth supplied the edge against the Orioles and loser Jim Wilson.

Newcombe was sent into overtime for his 12th triumph in 13 decisions after being tagged for a homer by Ernie Banks in the seventh that knotted it at 2-all. The Brooks broke out for five runs in the 11th, chasing Warren Hacker as Roy Campanella led off with his fourth hit, a double. Newk drove in two runs.

Bob Buhl tossed a six-hitter for the Braves and Eddie Mathews and Joe Adcock homered to put it away. The Pirates got their first hit off the right-hander in the fourth, after Buhl had retired nine in order.

Little Jackie Collum dumped the world champs to their sixth straight defeat as the Redlegs finally beat Johnny Antonelli. Willie Mays was back for the Giants, but was hitless in four trips.

Back-to-back homers by Richie Ashburn and Gran Hamner gave the Phils three runs in the ninth to beat the Cards.

Cubs- Indians Make Positions Stronger

Both of the Little League winners last night strengthened their positions, but neither has a very good chance of catching the League leaders.

The Lions Club Cubs of the National League took the Kiwanis Club Braves 5-4, and the American League Holder Construction Indians overpowered the West Texas Bank Athletics 11-7.

Four of the Cubs runs came in the second inning when Bob Smith and Stuart Long walked and were brought home by Pat Gibson's double. Franklin Moore brought Gibson in with another double, and he in turn was brought in by Billy Wells' single.

Wells, the only Cub player to get two hits, singled again in the fourth and later came home for the Cubs' only other score.

The Braves got two runs in the third when Benny Minor and Dean Comer scored. Both had taken their bases on balls. Their other two scores came in the fourth when Richard Smith doubled and Comer was hit by a pitched ball. Their scores made it 4-4, but Wells' final counter in the bottom of the fourth broke the tie and won the game.

Moore was the winning pitcher for the Cubs. He struck out 11, walked seven and gave up 4 hits. Jerry Minor, the loser, allowed six hits while fanning six and walking eight.

The Indians scored in every inning except the third to pull farther and farther ahead of the Athletics. Larry Patterson, the leadoff man, singled and Jerry Franks got on by fielder's choice. Their scores put the Indians ahead where they remained for the rest of the game.

Their biggest inning was the fourth when they brought in four runs.

The Athletics also scored in every inning except one, but they were never able to overtake the Indians. Roland Key, the Athletics Pitcher, made a strong effort to win his own game when he homered with none on in the third. He got two other hits, both singles, but was unable to score again.

Henry Lowry won his third game for the Indians. He pitched two and two-thirds innings to strike out four, walk two, give up four hits and hit three batters with pitched balls.

Patterson relieved him in the third, threw two and one-third innings and was replaced in the sixth by Charles Gladson who finished the game.

Key, the loser, allowed eight hits while striking out seven and walking two.

Thursday, the next game night for the Little League, the Cubs will meet the Giants, and the Indians will take on the Yankees.

Pampa Barely Holds Onto Its WTNM Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pampa barely held its West Texas-New Mexico League lead Tuesday night when Abilene beat the Oilers 5-1 and Plainview tromped Lubbock 17-11.

Plainview moved to within three points of Pampa.

Amarillo beat Albuquerque 8-5, and El Paso decisioned Clovis 11-10.

A triple play pulled Maurice Owen out of trouble at Abilene. He held Pampa to three hits in taking the victory.

Plainview and Lubbock slammed 35 hits, and every regular in Plainview's lineup hit at least once and drove in at least one run.

Tommy Lind and Taft Wright homered in the fourth and fifth respectively at Amarillo, each with two aboard.

At Clovis, Jim Baldacci drove in the winning run for El Paso in the top of the ninth. He brought in Jerry McKay.

Players Well-Seeded In NCAA Net Meet

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The men who cast the seedings in the National Collegiate (NCAA) Tennis Championships underway here apparently followed regular season play closely this year. Their rankings have stood up remarkably well.

Hot Fight For 2nd In Texas Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The hottest fight in the Texas League is for second place where three clubs have been changing positions each night for a week and which became a 4-way proposition when Tulsa finally pushed into the first division.

Dallas, leading the league by six games, is enjoying itself watching the others cut each other up.

The major news Tuesday night was Tulsa getting into the first division by edging into a tie with Houston for fourth place. It was a 2-month drive. The Oilers were a flat last April 21.

San Antonio is in second place for the moment but is just one game ahead of third-place Fort Worth and 1½ game to the good over Houston and Tulsa.

Dallas sailed on with a 6-4 victory over Shreveport, handing Pete Burnside his fourth straight pitching decision although he had to give way to reliefer Joe Kotrany in the seventh when the Sports threatened with a 3-run splurge. Kotranty stopped Shreveport like a brick wall.

The Eagles pounded 12 hits, four for extra bases.

Grant Dunlap homered with two on in the eighth to furnish the margin as Tulsa nosed Houston 5-4. Ed Gasque was the winning pitcher with help from ace relief hurler Al Widmar in the ninth.

It was Tulsa's 15th victory out of the last 16 at home.

San Antonio edged past Fort Worth into second place by beating Oklahoma City 6-3 in 10 innings. Four Indian errors were made in that fatal extra inning which saw the Missions score three runs. Oklahoma City got a 3-run lead in the fourth on Fred Marolewski's 2-run homer and a double by Ray Cash. San Antonio tied it up in the sixth when Gerald Jacobs hit a pinch 3-run double.

Beaumont knocked For Worth out of second place with a 5-0 victory with Phil Paine allowing the Cats just two hits, both singles. Dick Kokas hit a 3-run homer in the eighth when the Exporters got four runs.

Bob Morrow Readies For His Big Test

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Bobby Morrow, who has turned in some fantastic times in the so-called "bushes" of college track, goes against the best this week and his coach thinks he'll win.

At Boulder, Colo., Friday and Saturday, the Abilene Christian College freshman has the chance to show if he's a big time sprinter. In the field facing him in the National AAU will be such worthies as Jim Golliday of Northwestern, who has done 9.3 in the 100 to tie the world's record, and Art Bragg, former Morgan State star, who defends his championships in both sprints.

Golliday may not be up to snuff, however. The great Midwestern sprinter pulled a thigh muscle in the Big Ten-Pacific Coast Conference meet yesterday.

But there will be plenty of fellows capable of shaving the 100 time close to the fabulous 9.3 Mel Patton hung up as the world's record.

Morrow has run the 100 in 9.1, 9.3, 9.4 and 9.5 but was aided by the wind in both the 9.1 and 9.3 efforts. He also has run 220 yards in 20.5 and 20.6 around a turn, both with a favoring wind, and 20.7 without it. That he can run them fast without benefit of the wind was shown by his 9.4 and 9.5 100's and a 21.3 in the Texas AAU bucking a 6-mile wind. He also ran 100 in 9.7 against it.

The tall, muscular young man hasn't lost a race in two years. He has won 37 straight 100's and never jumped the gun.

Old Netter Carries On At Wimbledon

By TOM OCHILTREE

WIMBLEDON, England —The Wimbledon Tennis Tournament gets back today to the whip-cracking business of sorting out new champions after a journey down memory lane with Jean Borotra.

Borotra is one of the last survivors of the Golden '20s in the world arena of any sport.

His doubles victory yesterday was a great boost for the middle aged everywhere. For the young it was a misty-eyed occasion.

Borotra and his youthful French partner, Robert Haillet, defeated Canada's Robert Bedard and Don Fontana 6-4, 6-3, 6-8, 2-6, 6-4.

And when the modern generation of stars take to the courts today, they will still be playing somehow in Borotra's shadow.

The 57-year-old Frenchman is too old for singles now. But the crafty angled volleys and stinging smashes that Bill Tilden and the other stars of an earlier age knew, are still part of his game.

When the 3½-hour match ended —and Borotra finished it with a placement—the 5,000 spectators at No. 1 court gave him a standing ovation.

French tennis writers shouted, "C'est magnifique," and swallowed hard to get the lumps out of their throats. Borotra himself grinned and mopped his brow with his handkerchief—a gesture he had carried out after almost every point, win or lose.

"Oui, oui, I'm a little tired," he said. "But it was fun. The Canadians were fine boys."

Haillet did not carry Borotra. It was an equal partnership. The younger man provided the crushing service and the hard forehand drives, Borotra the subtle strokes, the volleys and the overhead smashes.

Most of yesterday's play was given over to women's singles in the first and second rounds. There were no upsets among the top-ranking girls. Doris Hart, Louise Brough and Mrs. Beverly Fleitz led the Americans into the second round.

Today Tony Trabert, first seed from Cincinnati, meets one of the hustling South Africans, Trevor Fancutt. Defending champion Jaroslav Dorbny, Czech-born Egyptian, clashes with Mervyn Rose of Australia, and Sweden's Sven Davidson opposes Enrique Morea of Argentina.

Californian Breaks U. S. Two-Mile Mark

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A skinny kid from Southern California, who runs well when he feels good was in the best of health last night as he shattered the U.S. collegiate 2-mile record in the 14th annual Pacific Coast Conference-Big Ten intersectional track meet.

ON THE BALL AT WIMBLEDON—Beverly Baker Fleitz, of Santa Monica, Calif., rears back for a shot during her winning match in the women's tennis championships at Wimbledon, England. The California girl disposed of Germany's Inge Pohmann, 6-0, 6-2, as American stars paraded through the first day of women's competition in the "world series" of tennis.

Tri-Service Slaps Tigers Down To 3rd

Tri-Service made its place in the City League standing more sure last night by dumping the Tigers 7-1. The loss forced the Tigers to fall to third place behind Sun Oil.

J. M. Sterling opened the scoring in the first inning when he tripled, later making it home on an error. Bernard Bishop, who got on by the same error came in on a single by Howard Sterling to score what proved to be the winning run of the ball game.

The Tigers' lone run came in the second inning when Don McNew took his base on balls. Three other walks brought him home to score and loaded the bases, but Berman Corbell, the Tri-Service pitcher tightened up and closed the inning.

There were three three-baggers hit in the game — two by J. M. Sterling, and one by Corbell. Every run scored by the winning team, with but one exception, had an error involved. The Tigers made only five errors, but they came at the wrong times.

Corbell was the winning pitcher. He gave up one run and one hit while walking five and striking out 15. Ronnie Baker, the loser, pitched two innings to give up three runs and three hits, and to fan two and walk none. Dwayne Prince relieved him in the third and finished the game.

NCAA Golf Meet In First Round Today

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The first round of match play in the National Collegiate (NCAA) Golf Tournament got under way here today with Louisiana State University already loaded with honors.

First out was LSU sophomore Johnny Pott, medalist, who tied the NCAA record yesterday with a 36-hole qualifying total of 136. Yesterday's 34-33—67 was coupled with Monday's 69 for an eight-under-par total.

He is paired with Bob Goetz, Oklahoma A&M, who qualified with a 74-74-148.

LSU took the team championship yesterday with a low aggregate score of 574. Other members of the championship team are Jim Mangum, 145, Scotty Fraser, 146, and Cecil Calhoun, 147.

Pott, who yesterday tied the mark set by Don Albert of Purdue last year at Houston, is former Mississippi Junior champ, was runner-up in this year's Southeastern Conference tournament and low amateur in the Baton Rouge, La., Open. He won the Mississippi Junior title in 1953.

Defending champion Southern Methodist rated only an eighth-place tie with Purdue with an aggregate 599 although it returned with last year's team intact. North Texas State, 583, was second followed by Oklahoma A&M, 588, and Stanford and Houston, each 591.

Defending champion Hillman Robbins of Memphis State was fifth out today, paired with Chuck Briggs of Seattle. Robbins turned in a second day of steady qualifying yesterday for a total 71-70—141. Briggs qualified with 75-74—149.

The 58 collegians who finished with scores of 150 or better qualified for the championship flight. Fifteen others, tied with 151s, met today in a sudden-death playoff for the six remaining berths. Match play began immediately.

Six qualifiers broke par 36-36—72 in two days of qualifying rounds. John Marschall of Iowa, leading Monday with a sizzling 66, covered the same ground in 72 yesterday for a 138. Floyd Addington, Southern Methodist, yesterday duplicated his first round for a 69-69—138. Joe Campbell of Purdue ranked fourth among qualifiers with a 68-72—140, followed by Robbins' 141, and George Clark of North Texas State with 70-72—142. Rex Baxter of Houston made it even par with 70-74-144.

Moore Risks Standing In Tonight's Bout

By MURRAY ROSE

Moore gambles his light heavyweight crown and his hopes for a heavyweight championship fight this fall when he faces ambitious Carl (Bobo) Olson, the middleweight ruler, in a 15-round title fight tonight at the Polo Grounds.

A loss to the 160-pound titleholder not only would cost the 30-year-old Moore his crown but would ruin forever his chances of getting a whack at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano. Even a close victory could prove fatal to Moore's prospects of moving up.

The 175-pound king will be 39 in December and if Al Weill, Marciano's manager, has his way, Archie will be eligible for social security before Rocky is permitted to fight him.

So why is Moore on the threshold of achieving his long-sought goal, risking all against the lighter Olson?

The answer is money and supreme confidence. Moore figures to gross around $90,000 from a probable gross gate of around $225,000 plus the $100,000 radio-television money. And the old Gypsy of the ring firmly believes that he can whip any fighter around today.

"I'll knock him out," said Moore calmly after finishing his training with a gym session yesterday at Summit, N.J. "No, I won't name the round but I'll do it no matter how he fights. After him, it's got to be Marciano. They won't be able to duck me any longer."

There was just as much confidence in the Olson camp although the 28-year-old San Franciscan declined as usual to make any outright prediction.

"I'll be after him every second of every round," said Bobo. "He hasn't had the pressure put on him all the way for a long time. I'm going to outspeed and outhustle him. I know I can go 15 rounds at a top pace. I don't think he can. Sure, I know he can hit awfully hard with that sneak right hand of his but he'll have to catch me with it first."

The betting odds make Moore, undefeated over the last 3½ years and winner of 20 straight, a 2-1 favorite. The writer picks Moore to win by a knockout within 12 rounds, although Bobo has been stopped only once in his career. That happened March 13, 1952, when Sugar Ray Robinson stopped him in 12 rounds. Since then the slope - shouldered, Hawaii-born scrapper has racked up 21 consecutive wins.

Starting time for the outdoor fight is 10 p.m., EDT. It will be broadcast and teleceast by ABC.

A crowd of about 20,000 is likely although it could be more if the weatherman's optimistic forecast holds good in the evening.

If it should rain, forcing a postponement, the fight will be held tomorrow.

The two fighters planned to motor in from their camps directly to Madison Square Garden for the noon weigh-in ceremony in the Garden ring. Moore has made his weight a secret, per custom, but he figures to scale around 174 to Olson's 170.

Archie was two pounds under the division limit at 173 when he stopped Harold Johnson in the 14th round on Aug. 11, 1954, in his last title defense. Although his announced weight was 196½ only last May 2, when he whipped Nino Valdes, the leading heavyweight contender, it is believed that he has been close to 175 for the past week or so.

Olson was a hefty 169 two months ago. He weighed that much and looked fast and strong in drubbing Joey Maxim, former light heavyweight boss, in a 10-rounder in San Francisco.

Moore has stopped 81 opponents in posting a 119-19-5 win-loss-draw record. The big ifs in his case are weight and age. He is a powerful puncher.

Police Say Quintet Not Being Sought

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City police say four men and a girl sought in Italy are not wanted here in connection with the $305,243 holdup of the Woodside, Queens, branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank last April 6.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Thomas P. Cullen of Queens said yesterday he had become interested in at least some members of the group because of "certain information and rumors."

They have been investigated, he added, and "we have come to the conclusion that they are practically cleared of suspicion."

Cullen, who did not name the individuals, said one man is a respected Queens businessman, another is a New York City civil servant and a third is a federal employe.

Cullen told newsmen that he knows little about the fourth man or the girl, who might have joined the others in Canada or on board a ship.

Deputy Police Commissioner Richard A. Dougherty said twice yesterday in response to queries that the Police Department had made no request to any authorities about the five in Italy. Three of them originated from New York City.

Word came from Rome that police had spread a net throughout Italy for the five in connection with the Queens holdup — the biggest cash haul in a bank robbery in U. S. history.

In Italy the five were identified as:

Giuseppe Michael de Tacco, also known as John di Tacco, 37, New York.

John Timothy O'Connell, 35, New York.

Daniel William MacGuire, 28, New York.

Peter Jerome Kirdam, 34, Manchester, England.

Janette Forest, 27, Montreal, Canada.

Texan Plugs Wild Gas Well

RENOVO, Pa. (AP)—One of the nation's largest natural gas wells capped late yesterday, ending the fear of death and destruction that hovered over this area since the well exploded last week.

The "wild one" was quieted by Paul (Red) Adair, oil and gas well troubleshooter from Houston, Tex., and a nerveless team of 16 others who knew one accidental move might be their last.

As the 3,000-pound cap was maneuvered by a crane over the well head, Adair jammed a bolt through matching holes. That provided a pivot for the cap to be swung through the tremendous pressure of the flowing inflammable gas and for other bolts to be placed.

Then Ed Ingram, production superintendent for the New York State Natural Gas Co., turned a valve wheel that cut the roaring gas to a whisper and finally to silence.

The well cap blew off last Wednesday because of a faulty gasket, Adair said. The next day the gas, flowing at an estimated 200 million cubic feet daily, exploded, injuring 10 workers.

Adair, working at the core of the fire which melted down a tractor, placed and set off 300 pounds of nitroglycerin to snuff out the fire last Saturday. Then the crew carefully began scooping out a trench close to the well so that Adair and Ingram could place themselves for the final effort.

There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

Pupil Elopes With Prettiest Teacher

CHESTERFIELD, England (AP) — Norman Bircumshaw, a 17-year-old high school student, has eloped —with the prettiest teacher in his school.

He disappeared a week ago with Celia Timmins, 23, a physical training instructress. They left letters saying they were heading for Scotland to marry.

The last trace of the couple was at a hotel near the Scottish border. They stayed the night in separate rooms, then headed north in her car.

Scotland is the usual destination for runaway young English lovers. After 21 days over the border, minors can marry without the parental permission England requires.

Friends said Norman and Celia had been planning to elope for some time.

"She very pretty — prettiest schoolmarm I've seen," one boy said.

Retired Farmer Starts New Family At Age 85

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Gabriele Cicala, who has already raised a family of 10 children, aged 38 to 53, has started anew at the age of 85.

Cicala, a retired farmer, remarried after the death of his first wife seven years ago. Yesterday his second wife Venera, 33, gave birth to a seven-pound boy.

"I'm still full of pep," said Cicala.

Identity Of Driver Who Imagined He Saw Light Is Confused

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP)—Police admitted here today there was a case of mistaken identify in last week's arrest of a man for stopping at a red light that wasn't there.

At the time, police identified a driver who stopped at a non-existent traffic light as Charles Henry Turner, 22, of Moberly, Mo. He was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days for drunk driving.

Police Chief W. E. Traylor said today, however, he has received a letter from a Charles Henry Turner in Moberly, Mo., in which Turner said his car and credentials were stolen there early in May. He said he had been embarrassed because of publicity given the stoplight incident.

Traylor said the man arrested here now has given his name as James M. O'Connor of Chicago. He has been charged with suspicion of a felony and his case turned over to the FBI.

Couple Married In Jailer's Quarters

CATLETTSBURG, Ky. (AP) — A former milkman and his common-law wife were married, spent a few minutes together, then went back to separate cells yesterday.

The ceremony uniting Raymond S. Speed, 48, and Virginia Brammer Speed, 34, was performed in the living room of the Boyd County jailer's quarters.

"The first marriage of two people under prison sentence we ever had here," said Jailer Haskell Estep.

The couple, now awaiting transfer to prison for two-year terms, was convicted on charges stemming from robbery of a poolroom operator.

They had lived together about a year in Ohio, where common-law marriages are recognized.

Runaway Power Mower

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP)—Otis Morley's power mower got away from him and went chugging across Crain highway all by itself. Morley said a motorist narrowly missed hitting the wandering mower, then reacted in the fashion of automobile drivers around the globe. He honked his horn at it.

Statue Has Only Head Of Churchill

LONDON (AP)—That's the former Prime Minister's head on London's new statue of Sir Winston Churchill but the body belongs to a man interned as pro-German during both world wars.

Gerald Hamilton, 67, and also an author, disclosed today that he was the stand-in model for the bigger-than-life, seated bronze of the 80-year-old statesman unveiled in London's Guildhall yesterday.

"I must say the situation did strike me as a little strange," Hamilton told reporters. "But I was only the body. The statue is me only from the head down."

The model explained he has roughly the same measurements as Churchill, and even the famous stoop. Since the former Prime Minister's time was precious (and his patience on the short side), sculptor Oscar Nemon asked Hamilton to pose for the 60-odd sittings in which he worked on the body.

Hamilton was interned in World War I as a friend of Sir Roger Casement, the Irishman hanged for dealing with the Germans in the interests of Irish independence. The government put Hamilton under wraps again in 1941 for trying to organize a separate peace with the Germans.

"I'm not a Fascist or a Nazi," he said. "I just thought it was better to deal with the Germans than the Russians—and I still think I was right."

Churchill saw the statue at the Guildhall ceremony yesterday. He liked it, but commented on the stand-in: "Couldn't they pick anyone else?"

Graham Gets Fast Start

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Billy Graham's revival series in Germany got off to a flying start last night before a crowd of 20,000 in a Frankfurt football stadium.

An estimated 1,500 persons—including some American servicemen — answered the American evangelist's call for "decisions for Christ."

The arena was one third full. The crowd was considerably smaller than those which attended open-air meetings Graham held earlier this year in Scotland and England, but huge compared to those who turned out for his recent one-week series in Paris.

Pastor Martin Niemoeller, famous German evangelical leader interned by Hitler during the war for defying Nazism, closed the meeting with a prayer.

Graham told his audience, "We listen to politicians. We listen to diplomats. We listen to philosophers. Now let's listen to Christ."

He urged his listeners to spend more time reading the Bible and thinking more about religion. "Don't go away thinking of Billy Graham," he said. "Go away thinking of Jesus Christ."

Powell Claims Effort Made To Bypass Integration Plan

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Powell (D-NY), in a reversal of position, today accused House leaders of trying to force through a "dishonest" compromise military reserve bill that would bypass his antisegregation amendments.

Powell, whose amendments have stalled President Eisenhower's reserve program in the House, said he has withdrawn his previously announced support of compromise proposals and will fight them.

He said in an interview his switch was prompted by a prediction made by House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts. Leaving the White House yesterday, Martin said he expected the final reserve bill to come close to the measure originally asked by Eisenhower. The President has publicly indicated his disapproval of the attaching of antisegregation riders to such legislation as the reserve bill.

A compromise has been proposed by Rep. Vinson (D-Ga). Martin described Eisenhower yesterday as "not too pleased" with the Vinson bill.

Members of the House Armed Services Committee rebuffed Vinson, their chairman, yesterday and voted 16-14 to send the bill to a subcommittee for polishing. Vinson had urged the full committee to approve the compromise at once.

Interviewed after the weekly meeting of Republican congressional leaders with Eisenhower, Martin said the final version of the bill to strengthen the reserves would be worked out in separate House and Senate action, then in a conference of the two houses. Martin also said the President wanted a bill providing for more reserve expansion than would come about under the Vinson bill.

Powell said Martin's outline of strategy meant that the final bill could contain features he is opposing—assignment of reservists to National Guard units and some provisions construed to contain elements of universal military training.

The month long House impasse was created by adoption of Powell's amendment to bar assignment of reservists to National Guard units practicing segregation. The Vinson compromise would eliminate all reference to the Guard. Powell originally hailed this as a "clear-cut victory for me."

Powell said he accepted the Vinson measure "as a sincere compromise. But if the Senate can take care of these features, this is nothing but a subterfuge and a dishonest attempt to win our votes" in the House.

Powell said he would fight all compromises unless given assurances the final bill will eliminate the National Guard and other provisions he is opposing. Because opponents of various elements of the reserve program are backing him, Powell's stand could be significant.

The Vinson bill would eliminate various provisions backed by Eisenhower, including a proposed new six-month training program for teen-age volunteers who then would be liable for 7½ years in the active reserves.

Elsewhere in the defense field, a Senate-House conference committee yesterday agreed on legislation to extend the doctor draft for two years beyond June 30 and to reduce the maximum age of draftable doctors from 50 to 45. Both Senate and House already have approved a four-year extension of the regular draft, which also is due to die on the last day of this month.

Atomic Data From All Urged By U. S.

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The United States wants all countries to give the U.N. information on atomic tests so the world can see they are not a threat to human health if properly safeguarded.

If everyone agrees to this proposal, it would mean that the Soviet Union and Britain, the only other powers known to have conducted atomic tests, would turn in data on radiation and fall-out.

Veteran observers at the U.N. speculated that even with the new Soviet policy of sweetness and cooperation Moscow is not yet likely to submit any important data on nuclear tests.

Results of the fall-out from nuclear tests over the Marshall Islands and in Nevada are known but nothing has been published by the Russians on their nuclear tests.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., permanent U.S. delegate to the U.N., started this latest move in the complicated atomic picture last night by issuing a statement. U.S. sources emphasized the statement had no relation to the U.N. 10th anniversary celebration in progress in San Francisco and no bearing on the Big Four conference next month in Geneva.

They said that after consultations with other governments, the United States had decided the time had come for such data to be submitted. It could not be put into effect until after the U.N. Assembly has taken action, if it does, at the next session beginning Sept. 20 in New York.

"Although the best scientific information known to us shows that properly safeguarded nuclear testing, in contrast with nuclear warfare, is not a threat to human health, there has been concern in several parts of the world over the problem of radiation from atomic tests and of its effect upon human health and safety," Lodge said.

Apparently he was referring to the incident of some radioactive material falling on a Japanese ship in the Pacific Ocean and on the forced removal of some Marshall Islands people from their homes after a nuclear test. Also, India's Prime Minister Nehru still has on the U.N. table a proposal that everyone stop nuclear tests pending agreement among the nations on a system of atomic control.

Lodge said there is a large body of scientific data in existence relating to this question and "we in the United States are making intensive studies of it."

"These studies must and will continue," Lodge said. "But the data which already exist and which will become available in the future both in the United States and in other countries have not been collated.

"We therefore propose that these data from all countries should be assembled so that all nations can be satisfied that humanity is not endangered by these tests."

Steel Wage Hike Nearer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The booming steel industry moved another step closer today to a definite wage offer which may determine whether 600,000 steelworkers will strike.

Three of the industry's top producers have promised a wage hike. They haven't said yet how much.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. scheduled resumption of wage talks today with the CIO United Steelworkers.

The three producers who committed themselves this week to pay increases are U. S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Republic Steel Corp.

The steelworkers, who now earn an average $2.33 hourly, will be free to strike at midnight June 30 if no agreement is reached.

U. S. Steel is expected to spell out its offer either tomorrow or Friday. It usually is the pace setter of the industry.

David J. McDonald, president of the union, has said only that he wants a "substantial" wage boost.

The current talks are being held under a wage reopener clause of a two-year contract signed last June. Under that agreement, only wages can be discussed this year.

Both sides have expressed optimism about a settlement before the strike deadline. Most observers feel the union will agree to a raise of from 12 to 15 cents an hour.

Scholarly Cop Wins $16,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Policeman Redmond O'Hanlon deferred to his responsibilities as a family man and took $16,000 in TV quiz show winnings rather than risk it trying for $32,000.

O'Hanlon, 39, a spare-time Shakespeare scholar, had run up his winnings with correct answers to questions on the CBS TV program The $64,000 Question.

Last night the New York City police officer was given a chance to double his money by taking a crack at another question. Had he missed, he would have lost the money but would have gotten an expensive automobile as a consolation prize. Had he known the answer, he would have won $32,000 and a chance to try for $64,000 next week.

He decided to be satisfied with $16,000. Later he told newsmen, "If I was a single man, I would have gone all the way."

To the studio audience he explained that his dilemma was that of "the egotism of a scholar vs. the conservatism of the father of five children."

After the program, his wife commented, "I feel wonderful" and her husband said he had no regrets about his decision.

"We did not want to become rich out of this," he added. "We just wanted to be able to do things for the comfort and education of the children." The five youngsters range in age from 6 months to 10 years.

O'Hanlon has degrees from Fordham and Drew Universities and has long made a hobby of Shakespeare. When he first appeared on the show he chose to be quizzed about the playwright and his works and all following questions were in that category. He lost nine pounds during the two weeks of the contest.

1612 - 26th — We Have The Finance Plan You Have Been Looking For — Ph

Scholarly Cop Wins $16,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Policeman Redmond O'Hanlon deferred to his responsibilities as a family man and took $16,000 in TV quiz show winnings rather than risk it trying for $32,000.

O'Hanlon, 39, a spare-time Shakespeare scholar, had run up his winnings with correct answers to questions on the CBS TV program The $64,000 Question.

Last night the New York City police officer was given a chance to double his money by taking a crack at another question. Had he missed, he would have lost the money but would have gotten an expensive automobile as a consolation prize. Had he known the answer, he would have won $32,000 and a chance to try for $64,000 next week.

He decided to be satisfied with $16,000. Later he told newsmen, "If I was a single man, I would have gone all the way."

To the studio audience he explained that his dilemma was that of "the egotism of a scholar vs. the conservatism of the father of five children."

After the program, his wife commented, "I feel wonderful" and her husband said he had no regrets about his decision.

"We did not want to become rich out of this," he added. "We just wanted to be able to do things for the comfort and education of the children." The five youngsters range in age from 6 months to 10 years.

O'Hanlon has degrees from Fordham and Drew Universities and has long made a hobby of Shakespeare. When he first appeared on the show he chose to be quizzed about the playwright and his works and all following questions were in that category. He lost nine pounds during the two weeks of the contest.

Almanac Admits It Has Competition

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—The famed John Baer Almanac, whose say-so is devoured as fact by a multitude of devotees, graciously conceded today that it isn't quite the only weather oracle in the game.

The 131st annual issue of the all-purpose guidebook gives the first hint in all those years that some other agency also could play the seer. In a limited way, of course.

The 1956 edition shatters tradition first by recognizing the existence of the U. S. Weather Bureau. What's more, it even suggests that the bureau be given more money to improve its services. Heretofore, the almanac has looked upon the Weather Bureau's activities as amusing but futile.

In giving ground slightly a second time, the almanac forsakes science for fancy. It tells readers to go looking for toads—the right kind may be a weather sign. If the toad is rusty brown, dry weather is in store. If it is very dark and mottled, get ready for a wet spell.

The most ardent of the almanac's partisans quickly dissociated themselves from what they termed a sign of weakness on Olympus. The sturdy Pennsylvania Dutch of this rich farm belt derided all the talk about weather bureaus and toads, and stood pat on the almanac.

As the almanac foresees it, the early months of 1956 will be unusually cold, with high winds and plenty of snow in the North. And here is the book's forecast for August of next year, when the two major political conventions will be held: high winds, squalls, tornadoes over wide areas.

Long-time residents of this southern region of Pennsylvania say that thousands of farmers and others live by the almanac, planting by the moon as it suggests, and taking its exalted counsel in many other ways.

As 1956 is Leap Year, the masterwork comes through with sharp advice to girls on how to make the most of the opportunity. One tip: Be demure, but roll the eyes, using subtlety.

Lest romance be withered, the book exhorts, "Eliminate that onion breath." And how? "Just don't eat onions."

Women who have landed husbands are told how to keep them. They are told also how to take care of their homes, their clothes. A suggestion: If the veil of your hat becomes limp and lifeless, press it between sheets of waxed paper. Better than that, get your husband to buy you a new hat.

Published in Lancaster, picturesque heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch country, Baer's almanac has an international distribution. Total circulation, it was reported, may run to 250,000.

Saunders To Testify In Bridges Case

By KATHERINE PINKHAM

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—David L. Saunders, chunky ex-Communist, today faces cross-examination on his labeling of labor leader Harry Bridges as a member of the powerful Communist Central Committee in 1936.

Saunders testified Bridges once paid Communist party dues to him personally by slapping three silver dollars on his desk.

Australian-born Bridges is defendant in a civil action brought by the government seeking to cancel his citizenship. The government says he concealed Communist connections when he obtained it in September 1945.

Bridges testified Monday he never was a Communist.

The suit is considered a prelude to new deportation proceedings.

Saunders, a former port captain, testified brusquely and with positive manner. He said he was himself a Communist for 10 years—1935 to 1945, and in 1936 was district organizer for the party in California, Utah and Hawaii.

He testified:

In those years Bridges attended important closed meetings of the Communist party . . . In 1936 the national Communist convention in New York elected Bridges, who was not present, a member of the Central Committee . . . Bridges' alias was Comrade Rossi . . . Bridges was chosen to recruit Harry Hook, then a lodge business agent of the AFL machinists, into the party.

Saunders gave names and dates with exactitude. He is now operations manager here for NYK, a Japanese steamship line.

Preliminary cross-examination by Bridges' attorney Richard Gladstein brought out that Saunders was screened from the waterfront here as a security risk for a time, but was cleared after he testified for the government in a trial of 14 alleged Communists in Los Angeles in 1952.

Bridges denied on the stand that he ever used the name Rossi "even in a joking way," and said he had never been inside the New York headquarters of the Communist party.

He "didn't recall" whether he tried to recruit Hook into the Communist party when Hook was leading a machinists' strike.

Army Plans Switch Of 35,000 Soldiers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army plans to start July 2 the transatlantic movement of some 35,000 soldiers and about 10,000 of their wives and children — with half heading for Germany and the other half for Kansas.

Involved is the rotation to Ft. Riley, Kan., of the 1st Division and its simultaneous replacement in Germany by the 10th Division, now at Ft. Riley.

The Army said yesterday the operation—described as the biggest peacetime movement of its kind—would take weeks.

The married soldiers will travel with their families in cabin-equipped vessels of the Military Sea Transport Service. The Army will ship furniture and automobiles for those who want to take them along.

Denver Picks New Mayor

DENVER (AP)—Will F. Nicholson, 54-year-old Republican state senator and friend of President Eisenhower, was elected Denver mayor by a margin of only 766 votes in the Colorado capital's first runoff election yesterday.

The 6-foot-4 winner officially polled 60,505 votes to 59,739 for his opponent Dist. Atty. Bert Keating.

Keating, a Democrat, conceded the hairline decision three hours after polls closed. He specified it was a conditional concession. "I want to check and see that the returns are correct," he said.

The runoff was made necessary when neither Nicholson nor Keating, who emerged topmost in a six-man mayoralty field in a May 17 election, polled a required majority.

Absentee ballots turned the balance in the nonpartisan election. Those who actually visited the polls in the city's 407 precincts gave Keating an advantage of 34 votes. But Nicholson, president of a real estate firm and twice a state senator, polled 2,366 absentee votes to 1,566 for Keating.

The winner assumes the four-year, $18,500-a-year post July 1. He succeeds Quigg Newton, a two-term mayor who had accepted a post with the Ford Foundation in New York.

Nicholson ran for the Senate on the GOP ticket against Democrat Edwin C. Johnson, now Colorado governor, in 1948.

Horses Like Cold Weather

EDINBURG Scotland (AP) — A cold horse is a happy horse, a court decided yesterday.

The Scottish Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals charged that Donald Bowles, director of Edinburgh Zoo, caused unnecessary suffering to five old horses by keeping them out in the snow last January.

But the Earl of Roseberry, president of Scotland's Royal Zoological Society and one of Britain's best known race horse owners, testified that horses like being out in the snow.

"Cold weather is much better for them than warm weather," he said. "They are not so worried by flies and insects."

The earl, twice owner of the Epsom Derby winner, said he keeps his hunters and thoroughbreds out all the year.

The sheriff's court dismissed the case.

Why keep old horses at a zoo? They are slaughtered and fed to the lions.

38 Million Americans Are Cigarette Smokers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government estimates that about 38 million Americans use cigarettes regularly, with men smokers outnumbering women by almost 2-1.

The preliminary results of a Census Bureau survey, released yesterday, also indicated that about 2,100,000 persons have stopped smoking cigarettes in the past 2½ years. A more complete report is expected in several months.

The study, based on a sampling of about 40,000 persons, was made on behalf of the Public Health Service's National Cancer Institute. The health service said the data would be useful in the study of "the incidence of cancer in the population—particularly lung cancer—in relationship to smoking habits."

Wedding Dance Fatal

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (AP)—Alyre Doucette, 24, died of a heart attack last night at his own wedding dance. He had married Marjorie Desroches yesterday morning in the village of South Rustic and brought her to his mother's home here in the evening for their wedding party.

Rites Set For W. E. Matthews

Funeral services for Wiley Eugene (Gene) Matthews, 24, a former Snyder resident, will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon in the First Baptist Church in Venita, Okla. Burial will be in the Purdy Cemetery in Purdy, Mo.

Mr. Matthews died Monday in the Veterans Administration Hospital in McKinney. He had been in ill health for three years and had been in the hospital for several weeks.

Born in Missouri in 1931, Mr. Matthews came to West Texas at an early age. He was graduated from Ira High School in 1948. He and his wife, the former Jo Ann Martin, were married in 1950. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. (Onie) Martin, formerly of Snyder and now of Venita. Mr. Matthews was employed by the Snyder National Bank, N. W. Autry and the West Texas State Bank before being called into the army. He received a medical discharge from the army.

Mr. Matthews was a ministerial student at Howard Payne College for a year following his high school graduation. Due to an accident which disabled his father, it was necessary that he discontinue his college work.

Survivors in addition to his wife and parents include a brother.

MOST Modern V8 FOR YOUR JOB!

NOW...THE SHORTEST STROKE V8's IN ANY LEADING TRUCK!

Now new Chevrolet Task-Force trucks bring you the industry's most advanced V8 engines* with an ultra-short stroke for reduced friction and wear. Here are some of the features that make 'em the most modern V8's money can buy!

Modern oversquare design! Note that the bore is bigger than the stroke. And the stroke is the shortest of any V8 in any leading truck!

Modern 12-volt electrical system

You get double the punch for quicker starting (up to 30% faster cranking speed) and more efficient ignition for finer performance. Also, you have a greater reserve of electrical power.

Gas-saving high-compression ratio

With a high 7.5 to 1 compression ratio, Chevrolet's new V8 truck engines squeeze extra power—and work—out of every tankful of gas. Your ton-mile hauling costs go down with this modern V8 power on the job!
