Mass Honors Children Who Died In Fire

EDITOR'S NOTE: Larry Morrone, now of the United Press International staff in Chicago, made his first Communion at the Our Lady of the Angels Roman Catholic Church and attended Sunday school in the school building that burned down a year ago, killing 92 students and three nuns. He returned to the church Tuesday night to join parishioners in honoring the memory of the dead.

CHICAGO (UPI) — "Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted."

The words from the Scriptures echoed through the quiet church sanctuary filled with humble, hard-working fathers and sobbing mothers.

They were spoken by Cardinal Designate Albert G. Meyer, celebrant of the Solemn High Mass Tuesday night honoring the memory of 92 little children and three courageous nuns.

They were the 95 who died in the Our Lady of the Angels school fire, the worst school fire in Chicago history.

Tuesday night, on the first anniversary of the terrible holocaust, parents, relatives, friends, guests and firemen — 1,200 persons in all — filled the sanctuary to overflowing.

Through the gathering dusk they came, shuffling past the gleaming superstructure of the new school building, halting briefly on the cement steps to brush away the tears before entering the hushed chapel.

"It's been a long year with much to forget," said a mother whose child died in the blaze.

"The children are happy in heaven," said a woman with her shawl draped reverently over her head.

Her words were echoed by Cardinal Designate Meyer, who called on the parents to seek

Federal Mediators Need Ike's Help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal mediators, apparently thwarted in attempts to settle the steel dispute, looked to President Eisenhower today to tongue-lash union and management negotiators into a more conciliatory mood.

The Chief Executive was almost certain to be asked about the deadlocked steel talks at his news conference today. He already has announced he will discuss the steel dispute in his nationwide TV-radio speech Thursday night.

Hopes of government peacemakers sank with the disclosure Tuesday that the "big 11" steel producers were appealing over the heads of union leaders to get rank-and-file workers' support for their "last offer" of Nov. 15.

Steelworkers' President David J. McDonald has rejected this proposal as completely inadequate but R. Conrad Cooper, chief management spokesman, said the companies would not sweeten it any further.

Both sides obviously were pointing to a January vote on the final offer by the 500,000 union members who now are working under a Taft-Hartley injunction which halted their 116-day strike.

Cooper announced that circulars were sent to steelworkers' homes describing the "last offer for strike settlement" which the company intends to submit to a plebiscite.

Under the law, the National Labor Relations Board conducts the secret ballot vote if there is no settlement within 60 days after an injunction is issued. Federal mediators are directed to try and settle the dispute during the two-month cooling-off period.

Federal Mediation Director Joseph F. Finnegan arranged separate sessions today with management spokesmen in the morning and the union bargaining team in the afternoon.

U.S. Guerrillas To Hear Fate Today

HAVANA (UPI) — The lives of two Americans, one of whom was carried into court on a stretcher, rested today in the hands of revolutionary tribunals that were asked to sentence them to death by a firing squad.

A five-man court martial in the western province of Pinar del Rio is expected to announce a verdict today in the case of Austin Young, of Miami, one of the Americans for whom the government demands death.

The prosecution also has asked the death penalty for Fernando Pruna, a Cuban co-defendant in the Young case. Peter J. Lambton, a British-born American from the Bahamas who is also on trial in Pinar del Rio, faces a possible 30 years in prison.

The three men, with 36 Cuban companions, have been charged with membership in an anti-government guerrilla band and with the murder of a soldier killed in a clash shortly before their arrest.

The other American who faces the threat of the firing squad, Cuban-born Rafael del Pino of Miami, was tried by a military court in the officers' club of Havana's cabana fortress-prison. The trial ended at 12:40 a.m. today, but the verdict is not expected until Friday.

Del Pino, who has not yet recovered from injuries received when police ambushed and captured him July 25, rode to the officers' club in an ambulance and was carried into the improvised courtroom on a stretcher.

13 Buried In Avalanche

COURGNE, Italy (UPI) — An avalanche thundered down on a construction site today and buried a hut in which 35 workmen were sleeping.

Twenty-two of the men escaped but 13 were missing and presumed buried under the huge mass of snow.

Firemen, rescue workers and national police converged on the nearby village of Ceresole and organized efforts to try to get through to the construction site at Mua.

The men were working for a company digging a tunnel for a hydroelectric project. The construction site had been snowbound for 24 hours and telephone lines were down.

Two of the survivors skied to Ceresole to report the disaster and summon help. Six feet of snow covered the road to Ceresole, which is 50 miles northwest of Turin.

Youth Captured In Burglary Act

A 16-year-old high school student was surprised about 8:30 this morning in the act of burglarizing the Pampa Roller Rink, 123 N. Ward, Police Chief Jim Conner reported.

The youth, a former employee of the local rink, was caught by owner Bill Watson.

Under questioning at police headquarters, the boy admitted breaking into the roller rink "about 20 times" before through a rear door. He said he usually took between one and four dollars during each breakin. Conner said the boy has been turned over to juvenile authorities.

Gates Inherits Fight Over Missile Gap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thomas S. Gates Jr. took over as defense secretary today and prepared for a new congressional fight over the threatened gap between American and Russian missile strength.

The 53-year-old Philadelphian was to be sworn as Neil H. McElroy's sucessor at a White House ceremony, becoming top director of the administration's embattled military program.

Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas, a Chicago attorney, was reported to be a front-running possibility for deputy defense secretary, the post Gates held for the past seven months after a two-year stint as Navy secretary.

The new defense chief has his work cut out for him, as McElroy demonstrated in spelling out military policies and budget plans at a farewell news conference late Tuesday.

For much of the first half of next year, Gates will direct the Pentagon's presentation to Congress of a new 41 billion dollar military budget that honesly could be said to please hardly anybody.

A priority task will be to try to convince a skeptical Congress that America has such diversified and large quantities of other weapons that it can afford to let Russia build up a superiority in long-range ballistic missiles during the early 1960's.

McElroy brought the controversial "missile gap" back into the news Tuesday when asked if Russia would have more of the globe-spanning nuclear weapons than America.

"If they built what they could build and if we build what we intend to build, we think they will have more missile capability for the period 1961 through 1962 and maybe into 1963 than we would have," McElroy said.

At that time the solid-fueled, rapid-firing American Minuteman ballistic missile will come into service, he said. He described it as so superior to current ballistic missiles that no more of the present missiles should be built than are "absolutely required."

If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis Hdwe.

Purpose Of Ike Trip:

Aims To Prove U.S. Sincerity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today he is making his 11-nation goodwill tour in an effort to convince the world that the United States is sincerely seeking methods to secure peace.

The President told a news conference he felt the compulsion during his relatively few months left in office to go out and eradicate the many doubts about America's sincereity which still persist in many minds, including those of U.S. allies.

Eisenhower, who leaves Thursday night for the journey to Europe, Asia and Africa, said he knows it's going to be a tough trip. But he said his doctors told him three days ago he was capable of making it and he believes he can do it. The 22,370-mile tour demands resistance to fatigue, but the President feels as fit as possible at his time of life.

The chief executive, in an obvious reference to reports that Mrs. Eisenhower feels the trip is too strenuous, said it was only natural that any man's family thinks he is taking on too heavy a load. The doctor's examination three days ago, Eisenhower said, was his regular monthly checkup.

The president will make a radio-television address to the nation at 7:15 p.m. e.s.t Thursday to discuss both his trip and the steel dispute shortly before taking off in a jet airliner from nearby Andrews Air Force Base.

The President said he thought he could make the journey in good shape without—without and this was said with a wry smile—losing the last vestige of what he once thought was a good disposition.

His disposition at the press conference was, for the most part, relatively serious. He laughed a few times, once at an unusually long and complicated question which he bypassed for later study.

Lone Survivor Of Plane Crash Recounts Air Trip

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — Louis Matarazo had looked at his 21 fellow passengers with the usual mild curiosity when the plane took off from Philadelphia.

Most of them were businessmen like himself. A couple of woman passengers also were aboard the twin-engined Allegheny Airlines plane that was flying to points in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Matarazo is the only one alive today. He lies in Divine Providence Hospital, the bandage over his injured eye unable to shut out the sight of the flaming crash against a mountainside.

The cries of the trapped and injured, and the dying, haunt the quiet hospital room. Why just me, is his thought. Why was I so lucky?

He remembers the plane swinging away from the Williamsport-Montoursville airport after an improper instrument approach. It rammed into a 2,500-foot mountain, killing the 25 others aboard.

"There was a crash...the plane burst and exploded," Matarazo said.

It was only an act of God, Matarazo believes, that caused the plane to crack open by his side and allow him to stagger out on a wing. He walked along the wing through the flames and dropped to the ground.

"I could hear the other passengers screaming, but it was too hot to reach them," he said.

He stumbled down the snow-covered, rugged mountainside, slipped exhausted against a tree and began saying his prayers.

Rescuers found him there. Two other passengers also were alive, but died on the way to the hospital in the long trip by stretcher out of the rugged woods.

"Thank God, you're here," Matarazo said to Father Francis P. Corcoran, a Roman Catholic priest who was one of the first to reach the scene to give last rites of the church to the victims.

"I feel sorry for those other people," Matarazo said.

Rescue crews worked through the night to recover the charred bodies of the passengers who had sat beside him only hours before.

Boy Shoots Mother After Clothes Tiff

NEW YORK (UPI) A 16-year-old boy ambushed his mother when she entered their darkened home Tuesday night, firing two bullets into her with a .22 caliber rifle equipped with a home-made silencer.

The wounded woman, Mrs. Marie Murphy, 39, staggered across the street to a neighbor's home.

"My son shot me, I don't know why," she gasped to the neighbor Mrs. Elizabeth O'Malley.

Police said the shooting apparently climaxed a feud between the youth and his mother about his love for hot-rod attire—black leather jackets and black chino trousers, the uniform of many of New York's street gang members.

Police set up a watch at all rail and bus terminals in an effort to apprehend the teen-ager, Robert Murphy.

They said he had packed a suitcase for a getaway and loosened light bulbs in the modest home so he could fire at his mother from darkness.

The single-shot rifle was found in a garage at the rear of the home. A black leather glove had been attached to the muzzle to act as a silenca.

Ike Firm In Stand On Refusing To Assist In Birth Control Advice

Cattle Growth Aid To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is about to take a "new look" at the widespread use of a synthetic female sex hormone to fatten up cattle and poultry, it was learned today.

The hormone drug, diethylstilbestrol or more commonly called "stilbestrol," is known to cause cancer of the breast in man when taken in large doses, Food and Drug Commissioner George P. Larrick said.

Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education of welfare, will announce the new study of the scientific and legal aspects involved in its use in animal feeding at a news conference Thursday.

Flemming kicked off the recent cranberry controversy by announcing that some of the crop had been contaminated by weed-killer that has caused cancer in rats.

The FDA stopped issuing any new permits for use of stilbestrol after the last session of Congress passed the so-called D'elaney Amendment which bans food additives found to induce cancer.

However, the law makes no provision for rescinding permits of those with prior sanction to use stilbestrol.

Larrick said there was no cause for alarm. He said he was still eating meat and chicken, and "feeding it to my children and grandchildren."

The FDA chief said there still was much "conflicting evidence" on the effects of stilbestrol. He said FDA planned to "marshal the world's literature" on the subject and the agency's experts have started a new investigation "to find out where we stand."

He reported that about 80 per cent of the livestock raised today are fed stilbestrol.

Larrick said that recent scientific tests have turned up minute quantities of stilbestrol residue in the skin and liver of the chicken. He said no such residue has been found in meat tissue. Cattlemen, usually stop using stilbestrol up to 48 hours before slaughter.

Yarborough Denies He Has 30 On Staff

AUSTIN (UPI)— Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) took sharp issue Tuesday with newspaper reports indicating he has a staff of 30 assistants.

He said his staff works so hard that people think that it is "twice as big as it really is."

"I have a staff of 18 persons full-time, and three college boys who work half a day each, two at a rate of $100 per month," Yarborough said.

Matter Not Function Of Government

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower today firmly opposed involving the federal government in any way with assisting other nations with birth control advice.

Eisenhower told his news conference he could not imagine a subject more improper as a matter of government responsibility or function than birth control.

Furthermore, Eisenhower said that as long as he is president the United States government will have absolutely nothing to do with advising other nations on their birth control problems. If another country wants birth control advice, he said it could seek professional information.

The birth control controversy flared anew after the Roman Catholic bishops of the United States charged last week that a "propaganda campaign" was being waged to pave the way for U. S. support of 'artificial birth prevention" programs in underdeveloped countries which are experiencing population pressures.

Declaring that this would be a "morally disastrous" solution to population problems, the bishops said that American Catholics "will not support" any use of public funds, either through direct foreign aid or through international organizations, to "promote artificial birth prevention."

The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Protestant Episcopal bishop of California, said the Catholic stand "would condemn rapidly increasing millions of people in less fortunate parts of the world to starvation, bondage, misery and despair." He demanded to know whether the policy pronounced by the bishops was "binding on Roman Catholic candidates for public office."

Eisenhower, on the eve of his departure for Europe, the Middle East and Asia, talked at some length about his trip with more than 260 reporters. He said that,

Thousands See Bands, Clowns In Yule Fete

A crowd estimated in the thousands lined downtown streets Tuesday afternoon for Pampa's second annual Santa Day Parade. Bands from five area cities, floats and Santa Claus himself were featured in the 15-minute parade that proceded north on Cuyler St.

The float judged best was presented by Loyal Girl Scout Troop 2 led by Mrs. J. B. Veale Jr. Second place went to Girl Scout Troop 5 led by Mrs. C. V. Moore, and third place went to Trustworthy Troop 27 led by Mrs. Roland Coleman.

The feature of the parade was again Santa Claus drawn (in this case) by four miniature ponies. St. Nick took time out at the end of Tuesday's parade to meet hundreds of youngsters on the Courthouse lawn.

Bands were featured from Pampa High School, White Deer, Wheeler, Lefors, McLean, Robert E. Lee Jr. High and Pampa Jr. High. One hundred high school boys helped Clown Frank Cain add color to the afternoon show.

Escape Trail Ends Where It Started

Confessed burglar Cecil Sexton, 8, was returned from California to Pampa at 8 p.m. Tuesday and will likely be arraigned today, Sheriff Tufe Jordan reported this morning.

Sexton, accompanied to Pampa by Deputy Buck Haggard, escaped a manhunt Friday in a canyon near Groom. The youth told officers Tuesday night that after abandoning his car about 6 a.m. Friday he walked to Groom, took a bus to Amarillo and then a plane to his home at Coalinga, Calif.

Sexton, who confessed he burglarized the Harvester Bowl Friday morning, was wearing shoes and a sweater taken from the Harvester.

Bowling alley manager Red Watson, who talked with Sexton at county jail this morning, said he recognized the boy as an occasional visitor at Harvester Bowl. He said that Sexton confessed burglarizing Harvester once previously, the first week of October.

Learning Staves Off Delinquency, Student Affirms

Bill Byerly of the Pampa Key Club told members of the Top O' Texas Kiwanis Club Tuesday night that "most average high school boys enjoy school and the philosophy of learning."

Byerly, a Pampa High school student, was asked to speak at Tuesday night's meeting on the high school student's point of view. He stated that lack of interest at school invariably leads to vandalism, "but, fortunately these boys are in the minority."

Byerly said that many boys are learning to shoulder the responsibilities of life through organizations such as the Key Club.

At the club's business meeting plans were discussed for the Dec. 19 installations of officers in the Palm Room. New officers will be President Charles Wilkerson, Vice president John McCausland, second Vice president Dr. Bob Thompson, Secretary C. R. Howard, and Treasurer Bill Fry.

Guests were Bob Price, Jack Nichols and Walter Dean.

Pre-School Story Hour To Resume

The pre-school-age story hour sessions are to resume at Lovett Memorial Library tomorrow following a missed session Thanksgiving day, according to Mrs. Lillian Snow, librarian.

The classes, for children four years old to school age, are held Thursdays from 9 to 10 a.m. There have been three classes to date. The original group has grown to three, due to the success of the idea.

Miss Helen Gould is in charge of the sessions and is assisted by Miss Lynn Tatum and Mr. Gl Crinklaw.

above all, he hoped to convince the rest of the world that the United States is truly sincere in its quest for a durable, just peace.

Other news highlights:

He said that unless steel management and labor can compose their differences in free collective bargaining, the government might be forced to some form of action which would be a sad day for the nation.

He spoke vehemently on the need for shelving non-essential federal spending programs in the hope of not only achieving a balanced budget in fiscal 1961, but a surplus to apply to some of the national debt.

During his trip he will be glad to discuss specific issues raised by leaders of other nations. As for the border dispute between India and Red China, Eisenhower said that aside from the legal aspects of determining the actual border, he was strongly on the side of any nation that attempted to solve its international differences by negotiation instead of force.

In answer to a question, the President said that while he is out of the country he will retain full control over any emergency use of this country's atomic or hydrogen bombs. He said this authority could not be delegated.

Seldom have reporters seen Eisenhower quite as blunt and bordering on denunciation as when he discussed the current controversy over whether the United States as part of the foreign aid program should supply birth control advice for other nations.

The subject was raised by a reporter who referred to foreign aid recommendations made to the President earlier this year by a special sub-committee headed by William H. Draper, a retured Army general.

The Draper committee report said the United States should, on request, assist other countries faced with difficult population expansion problems by providing information to help meet the problem. The report itself did not mention birth control.

"The children and sisters who died are happy in heaven," he said. "Our faith convinces us that the sisters and children whose death we mourn are really alive —their immortal souls awaiting resurrection."

Through the muffled sobs of the grieving came the faint shouts of children playing outside the church.

The children could forget, but, for the parents and other adults who stood outside the burning school, Dec. 1, 1958, will live forever.

There were the black-robed nuns, who came last night to memorialize the memory of the three sisters who perished, as well as that of the children they had taught and loved.

There were the firemen, dressed in white gloves, white shirts and ties, who a year ago had wept as they carried lifeless bodies from the blackened, steaming school.

Fight Seen Over Friendship Dam

By ROY MCGHEE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A public versus private power fight may develop in connection with the proposed Amistad (Friendship) Dam across the Rio Grande between Texas and Mexico, congressional sources said Sunday.

Public hearings on the international project have been set in the House Foreign Affairs Committee soon.

Rep. Joe M. Kilgore (D-Tex.) said both the American and Mexican sections of the International Boundary Commission have found the dam feasible as a flood control project.

The project, formerly called Diablo (Devil) Dam, was originated in a treaty between the United States and Mexico signed in 1944. It is one of several international undertakings for development of both sides of the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos discussed the project with President Eisenhower when he visited the U.S. last month. The decision to change the name of the dam to Amistad came at that meeting.

The House Foreign Relations and the Senate Foreign Affairs committees now have the feasibility reports.

But they will not be made public until they are printed and then reviewed by the State Department. Printing of the reports is expected to be completed in the next week or two. But it is not known how long it will take the State Department to review them.

Kilgore said he would have to oppose construction of the dam if irrigators in his district have to repay the cost of the dam.

Kilgore said additional water for irrigation would be negligible and added that the structure's primary function will be to control floods on both sides of the river. Kilgore said although the dam is not in his district he would appear as a witness at the hearings, since his district would benefit heavily from flood control.

It was understood, from sources who did not want to be identified, that the government wants the dam built with repayment provided. Another source said the feasibility reports say there is not for the government to produce electric energy from the project.

But Kilgore said a private power company had estimated it could install, at its own cost, generating equipment in the dam and pay up to $34,000 a year for the electricity derived. He said this would repay the cost of the project over a period of years.

The REA, however, has first call on power developed in government projects. But it was not known whether the REA would want the power potential and whether it would be willing to pay an amount equivalent to private interests.

The dam site is about 12 miles above Del Rio, Tex. The projected structure would store 5,660,000 acre feet of water at full capacity. Of this amount, 3,000,000 acre feet would be set aside for conservation, 2,110,000 for flood control, and 550,000 for silt retention.

The International Boundary Commission has recommended that 56.2 per cent of the conservation water belongs to the United States and 43.8 per cent to Mexico. Such a division would make the U.S. share of construction cost of the project $49,125,000 with Mexico paying for the remainder of the total estimated cost of $71,160,000.

The State Department said the U.S. would pay the larger share because of land acquisition and other costs Mexico would not have.

JETPORT—The world's largest airport, now about half completed, is taking shape in rural Virginia some 23 miles from the White House. To be called Dulles International Airport, in memory of the late secretary of state, the field will cover 9,600 acres, twice the size of New York's Idlewild. Begun in 1958, it will be completed in 1961 and is expected to be handling up to 10 million passengers a year by 1976.

Tax On Cooling Units Clarified By Revenue Service

The Internal Revenue Service has reversed its position on the taxation of self-contained air conditioning units and household refrigerators, according to Wiley E. Davis, administrative officer of the Pampa office. A number of self-contained air conditioning units formerly exempt from 10 percent excise tax will be subject to the federal excise tax of 10 percent on sales on December 1, 1959. Some types of household refrigerators formerly exempt will also be taxable at 5 percent. This change in federal excise tax of air conditioners and refrigerators is due to the adoption of new regulations.

He further explained that the Internal Revenue Service has abandoned the horsepower and cooling capacity test formerly used in determining whether an air - conditioning unit was of the "household type". The commissioner, in a published ruling, had previously held that compressor-type units with a motor horsepower of one or more were non-taxable. Similarly, an absorption type unit with a total cooling capacity of 10,000 b.t.u.'s or more per hour was considered non-taxable. The new regulations which conform to a court decision make no reference to horsepower and cooling capacity and provide that those former tests will be applied to sales made only through November 30, 1959. After that date sales of air conditioners will be governed by new regulations.

Section 4111 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 imposes upon the sale of the following articles (including in each case parts or accessories therefore sold on or in connection with the sale thereof) by the manufacturer, producer, or importer, a tax equivalent to the specified percentage of the price for which so sold.

Articles taxable at 5 percent:

(1) Household type refrigerators (for single or multiple cabinet installations) having or being primarily designed for use with, a mechanical refrigerating unit operated by electricity, gas, kerosene, or gasoline. (2) Household type units for the quick freezing or frozen storage of foods operated by electricity, gas, kerosene or gasoline. (3) Combinations of household type refrigerators and quick-freeze units described above.

Articles taxable at 10 percent:

Self - contained air conditioning units.

Every farm and ranch home needs a good windbreak planting that will protect it from cold winds and drifting snow. Windbreaks can usually be adapted to include feed lots, livestock, gardens or other farm buildings.

In addition to the protection afforded by a well planned windbreak, nothing adds more to the beauty of the ranch. Gardening, annual flowers and yard work are made easier where a windbreak has been established. Pine and cedar trees as well as shrubs can be used to blend in with other yard beautification.

Windbreaks are generally planned in rows against the prevailing winds. Multiple species are used with minimum of three rows. Spacing between rows on our sandier soils should be to 10 feet, or 3 to 4 feet between shrubs.

A typical row arrangement would have a shrub row in Row One, the windward side. Tall trees in Row Two, and low branching evergreen trees or shurbs in Row Three.

A seedbed needs to be prepared before planting the trees. A dead litter cover is desirable. Trees should be cultivated just like any other crop and not "laid by" until their growth is sufficient to shade out the weeds.

The 1960 planting season is just around the corner, so if you want the advantages afforded by a windbreak, now is the time to start planning. For further assistance you may contact the Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting your local Soil Conservation District.

No Christmas Stamp Due To Religious Aspect

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Post Office Deparmtent lately is busy explaining to people why it can't issue a Christmas stamp. Its stamp experts say they have to steer clear of subjects identified with religions.

For other equally good reasons Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has been advising that he also can't issue stamps commemorating Elvis Presley, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and Marilyn Monroe, among others proposed for this immortalization.

According to post office standards for commemorative stamps, Elvis, Doug, and Marilyn suffer one crucial failing in common. They aren't dead. The late Dr. Ephraim McDowell of Danville, Ky., qualified on this score. He also met other tests for exaltation by the post office, and a maroon four-cent stamp bearing his picture will go on first-day sale at Danville on Thursday.

In 1809, according to post office researchers, Dr. McDowell opened the abdomen of Jane Todd Crawford and cut out a tumor weighing 22½ pounds. In preparation for undergoing the knife, without anesthetic, Jane had jogged 60 miles through the mountains on horseback. Any proposals to issue a stamp in her honor will be considered by the Post Office Department.

Dr. Crawford W. Long, reportedly a kinsman of Jane's, came along later with ether. He got his face on a stamp in 1949 as part of a "famous Americans' series. The McDowell four-center is another of this series and is the last of 26 postage stamps issued this year.

The department has lined up 18 new stamps for 1960, including a few regulars and the rest commemoratives. Commemoratives are bigger, more colorful, and prettier than ordinary stamps. They usually are kept on sale only six months or so.

Currently available commemoratives include beauties honoring Hawaiian statehood (pink); the oil industry (brown); dentists (green); and the 100th anniversary of the first air mail, featuring a red white and blue balloon named Jupiter. A full-color 49-star flag also was issued last July 4.

So many people want so many places, events and heroes commemorated on stamps that Summerfield in 1957 passed part of the buck to a committee. It set up rules, including one that nobody is hero enough for a stamp until dead for 25 years. "Events commemorated must have "widespread national appeal." Stamps will be issued only on anniversaries starting with the 50th. Fraternal, religious, charitable and commercial groups will not be honored.

The McDowell stamp is the 408th commorative since the first one in 1893 honoring the Chicago World's Fair. Later world's fairs also have been memorialized. Their stamps featured trilons and perispheres and the like and none of them included Sally Rand.

There's no rule specifically covering Sally and in the absence of something covering her pretty specifically I'm sure Summerfield would never let her get on a stamp. But his predecessors weren't all so squeamish. In 1875 and 1895 special stamps were issued for mailing newspapers and periodicals. These featured a number of handsome ladies, some of them fully clothed.

Both Whistler's mother, and Whistler's mother's son, Jas. A. McNeill Whistler, have been immortalized on stamps. Her appearance in the traditional pose on a three-center in 1934 set off a loud protest that a vase of carnations had been added to her son's original work. She wasn't off her rocker, according to the complaint, but somebody in the post office was.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Jones

RUTH MILLETT

No matter how gracious she is at home or as a member of a social group, let a woman get behind the wheel of a car and her manners are apt to slip more than one notch.

When driving for a car pool in the early morning, she may start hitting the horn half a block away from the house where she is picking up a passenger — waking neighbors who happen to be late risers.

In parking her car at a shopping center, she may ignore the lines and park at such an angle that she takes up two spaces.

If a pedestrian gets in her path, instead of hitting the brake she is apt to hit the horn — and it doesn't make any difference if the pedestrian is old and feeble.

If she has agreed to give a friend a lift in her car, she doesn't allow herself time to get out and go to the door, but gives a couple of quick blasts of the horn, like an impatient taxi driver.

She may even snitch a parking space right out from under another motorist who is attempting to back into it — feeling clever to have beat him out.

And if, while driving along a quiet residential street, she meets a friend driving in the opposite direction, she'll quite likely pull to an abrupt stop and hold up traffic until she has had her say.

Let a car ahead hesitate for a moment before starting up when a traffic light changes to green, and there goes that impatient blast of the horn again, this time saying clearly, "Hurry up, stupid, and get out of my way."

Haven't you seen it happen time and time again that when a lady gets behind the wheel of a car she suddenly forgets that she's a lady and becomes just one more impatient, rude, and inconsiderate driver of an automobile.

"TheWorld Of Islam" Described For Twentieth Century Culture Members

"The World of Islam" was the program introduced by Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer and given by Mrs. Rute Jordan at a recent meeting of Twentieth Century Culture Club.

"The key to the power of Islam religion, the youngest of man's universal religions, lies in the word Islam, which means 'submission to the will of God'," Mrs. Jordan said in opening remarks. "Its founder, Mohammed was neither Savior or Messiah, but one through whom God chose to speak. One are followers of this religion."

"It's faith," Mrs. Jordan continued, "concerns itself as much with man's behavior in this world as with his fate in the hereafter. Mohammed, the domineering autocrat that he was, obviously deviated from the Jewish faith by changing two Islamic practices. One of these was in quilah, the practice of facing in a certain direction during prayer from the city of Jerusalem to facing the Arabian center of Mecca. Also, the Fast which formerly had been observed on the Jewisa Day of Atonement was changed to a new distinctly Mohammadean Fast, Ramadan, covering the ninth month of Ramzan.

The sacred scriptures of Islams, The Koran, is the revelation of God to the founder and Allah or God is the main speaker, Mrs. Jordan explained. 'It's chief doctrines," added Mrs. Jordan, "are that there is one God, one true religion and a day by judgment. When mankind turned from truth, God sent prophets to lead them back; Moses, Christ and Mohammed being the most distinguished."

She pointed out that hardly an Arabic book of any importance has been written without making allusions to, or quoting from the Koran.

Mrs. Jordan listed the five pillars of Islam as the repetition of the Creed, "There is no God but Allah and Mohammad is the Prophet of Allah; daily observance of the call to prayer from the minarets of every Mosque five times a day; duty-bound almsgiving; fasting during Ramadan, which is followed by a festival somewhat in spirit like our Christmas, marked by grateful prayers, expansive good-will and the giving of presents; and making a pilgrimage to Mecca once during every Moslem's life."

In conclusion, Mrs. Jordan quoted, "Today Islam looms a religious pillar astride the middle latitudes of three continents. Though its once great empire has been dismembered by the surgery of modern nationalism and weakened by economic adversity, Islam yet remains welded together by the binding force of its faith."

The hostess, Mrs. Jeff Bearden assisted by Mrs. R. E. Dobbin served refreshments during the social period.

Members attending were Ross Buzzard, G. L. Cradduck, J. W. Edminster, H. H. Hahn, L. H. Hart, W. L. Hasse, E. L. Henderson, V. L. Hobbs, Doyle Osborne and L. J. Zachry.

During the business meeting, a vote of thanks was given to the committee headed by Mrs. J. L. Chase for its work in the Beta Sigma Phi Table setting contest which placed the club among the prize winners.

Mrs. V. L. Hobbs, program chairman, announced that the Chritmas luncheon scheduled for the club on Dec. 8 will be in her home, 101 W. 19, beginning at 12:30.

Texas Aggie Professor To Receive Award From Texas Beef Council

Dr. Sylvia Cover, professor of foods and nutrition at the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station, A&M College, will receive the Texas Beef Council's 1959 Distinguished Service Award, W. T. Bonner, Gainesville, TBC president, has announced.

Bonner will make the presentation at the Beef Council's sixth annual Beef Dinner at noon Saturday, December 5, in the Memorial Student Center, Texas A & M College, College Station.

During her long and successful career on the A & M staff, Dr. Cover's major research interests have been the chemical and physical factors involved in tenderness of meat, the content and retention of B-vitamins in foods, and the development of safe processing times for home canned food. Reports of her experiments and research projects have been published in the country's leading scientific journals.

"When we find out what causes toughness or tenderness, we believe we can control it," Dr. Cover says of her current investigations on beef tenderness. She is convinced there is a definite correlation between beef quality and an animal's heredity.

Dr. John B. Truslow, executive dean and director of the University of Texas Medical Branch, will speak on the subject of "Beef, Brains and Brawn." Five cattlemen's wives, winners in the recent TBC recipe contest, will receive their prizes at the Dinner from J. D. Sartwelle, TBC secretary.

The Beef Dinner, climax of the fifth year of the Beef Council's educational program, will be attended by approximately 300 of the state's leading cattlemen, County Home Demonstration and County Agricultural Agents, food editors, and A & M officials.

The Texas Beef Council was organized to provide homemakers with information on the many delicious, nourishing meals which can be prepared from economical forequarter cuts of beef.

Prize-winning recipes were selected from favorite beef dishes of the women who know beef best, wives and daughters of 3,000 cattlemen members of the Texas Beef Council.

The following will be honored at the Beef Dinner at noon Saturday in Memorial Student Center at A & M College; Mmes. N. L. B. Davis of Throckmorton; R. L. Cocaougher of Hereford; Dan Andrews of Graham; Lee Hudgins of Sherman; Layton Moore of Bay City.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'd like your support in a new campaign. 'Back To The Living Room."

Last night my husband and I attended a party. The hostess gave us a quick tour through her lovely new home and then she ushered us all down to the basement. We spent the entire evening in full view of the furnace and laundry tubs, sitting on old brokendown furniture and hard folding chairs. It was drafty and chilly down there, too. We are all adults and certainly not a rowdy bunch.

This isn't the first time this has happened to us. A basement is a basement whether you call it an "amusement room" or a "rumpus room". Why do people do this?

'INSULTED"

DEAR INSULTED: When guests are herded down to a chilly basement to sit on broken-down furniture when a comfortable living room is available upstairs, the motives of the host and hostess are obvious. They are preserving their Number One furnishings for their Number One guests.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is exactly like the one I saw in your column only I'm not a beautician whose friends ask me to do their hair for free after hours. I am a woman who arranges flowers for a florist for a living. All my relatives, friends and neighbors ask me to "decorate their tables" after work and on Sundays. They tell me I am so clever, talented, etc. etc. They don't think it is work for me. No one offers to pay me, either. They just say, "Thanks a million" If I say no to them, they think I am terrible. Please say something about people who ask for professional services after hours for nothing.

CAN'T SAY NO

DEAR CAN'T: Ask these people if they would take a basket of dirty clothes to a woman who washes and irons for a living, ask her to do it up for them, and then say, "Thanks a million!" The principle is the same. When you are asked for your professional services after hours — for free simply say, "Thanks a million, but I'm busy."

DEAR ABBY: I am not quite in agreement with your answer to HEARTSICK MOTHER, who blamed her neighbors for not telling her that her teen-aged daughter was skipping school and entertaining her boyfriend while she was working.

I wish more mothers were concerned about the whereabouts of their children.

I am a High School principal and I know that all schools keep records showing days missed and times tardy. These reports are sent home, but many parents ignore them, if indeed they ever see them. Some parents actually write false excuses claiming 'sickness" or "had to work" alibis.

We need better cooperation between the home and the school. We welcome questions about grades, attitudes and attendance. The old-fashioned visit to school is still the best way for the teachers to get to know the parents and for the parents to get to know the teacher, the school and—

Sugar Plum Styles For Your Honey

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Christmas, with its visions of Santa Claus and sugar plum fairies, belongs particularly to children. For them, it has mystery as well as excitement nd fun.

Every little girl is delighted with the prospect of a Christmas party and oncerned with what she will wear. (Often she will use her clean handkerchief to polish her patent leather Mary Janes.) And little girls have a strong notion of the way they would like to look at a party. Usually, the idea centers around frills and ruffles.

Since idea frequently coincides with her mother's, our small girl goes off to her party looking like the angel she mostly isn't.

This year, her mother can pick from silk organzas and crisp organdies floated over polished cotton slips in contrasting colors. This creates beautiful layers of color - on-color in a misty effect. Newest and most subtle color combination is that of soft brown with pale blue. This is done in a rose - embroidered coffee-colored silk organza dress over a polished blue cotton slip. Misty lace trims neck and sleeves.

Or again, there is a golden brown and blue striped dress in nylon complete with Victorian puffed sleeves.

We show these offshoots of the Victorian era here. The pinafore dress (left) is coffee silk organza over blue with ruffles at neck and sleeves. Striped dress (right) is nylon in soft shades of blue and ardess.

GREEN CHEESE?—A hungry man on the moon eats his lunch. He's a workman on a Hollywood set for the new "Men Into Space" television show.

'Three Stooges' Comedy Too Grotesque For Older Tastes

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Have your children started playing that popular new game, "The Three Stooges?"

It's the game where they slap each other's skull, poke fingers at the eyes by day and, at night, sometimes wake up screaming.

The name is a memorial to a trio of so-called comedians whose filmed TV misdeeds, apparently too grotesque for adult TV, have been consigned to the "kiddy TV show" status.

I'm told by the syndicator, Screen Gems, that 135 stations now carry the show. That's success by some TV stnndards.

Some recent episodes have dealt with the horrors of having a tooth pulled, ghoulish preparations for a prison hanging and a series of air raids, all violent enough to unravel nearly all the good stuff that TV can and does offer the kids.

Why let the youngsters watch if it's so bad? Well, most parents I know who have seen the "Stooges" in action have declared the show off-limits.

But this, of course, promptly makes the show an attractive nuisance. The kids sneak a peek at home or go to a sympathetic pal's house to watch, or hear about it from schoolmates. It has become a disciplinary problem, this show, as keeping kids away from the "Stooges" is about as important as keeping them away from matches.

I'd say nothing on TV today is as destructive as "The Three Stooges" and nothing on TV today can compare with it for sheer adult irresponsibility. My compliments to the TV stations who manage to get along without the "Stooges" and those stomach-turning, psyche-searing antics.

Dialing and Filing: The Steve Allen show, NBC-TV's disappointing comedy hour, fell flat again Monday night. The big sketch, a musical version of "Dracula," of all things, never fulfilled its promise. Some oddball musical fun was sandwiched between embarrassing gags, but these morsels weren't enough. Guest Jo Stafford looked fine, but, unfortunately, wasn't in the best vocal condition. Another singer, Miriam Makeba of South Africa, was, in the word of another more famous gal with the same initials, "interesting."

Once upon a time there was a TV sponsor who didn't sell record albums, too.

The Danny Thomas show on CBS-TV was dull until Hans Conried shattered the stillnes with his wild portrayal of a matchmaker from Lebanoh. He quickened the show's sluggish pace and made the rest of the cast — excluding Thomas — seem pallid.

"Shadow of Evil," NBC-TV's Alcoa Theater production Monday night, dealt with a drinking man who thought politics would be therapeutic and learned that it was disastrous instead. Cliff Robertson headed a skilled cast and turned in a fine job, but the sketchy plot couldn't bear close inspection.

Jerry Lewis was calmer, more disiplined and relaxed than he's been in a long time during his appearance Monday night on Jack Paar's show in Hollywood. He did well for himself. Maybe he should limit his TV work to this sort of unrehearsed, informal visit.

The Channel Swim: A new one-hour western starring William Bendix, Overland Stage, appears to have the inside track as the replacement for the sinking Riverboat on NBC-TV early in '60... The Lineup, stretched to an hour this season, snaps off the CBS-TV network on Jan. 20. A replacement not yet locked up... Franklin Schaffner and Alvin Boretz are preparing a new series about the New York City police department for NBC-TV. Called Headquarters, the series is based on a book by Quentin Reynolds. Boretz helped CBS-TV launch Brenner another police series, last summer.

Sammy Kaye's former vocalist, Lynn Roberts, will be the guest champagne lady on ABC-TV's Lawrence Welk dancing party next Saturday... Speaking of parties, songwriter Harold Arlen's illness has forced him to bow out of CBS-TV's Thursday night 90-minute big party.

Turnabout By Producer

LONDON (UPI) — Raoul Levy, who made Brigitte Bardot famous by having her take off her clothes for movie cameras, now would like to make her keep them on.

But the French star seems to have more faith in her body than her other talents.

What to do?

"How would you like to see Brigitte?" the shrewd film producer asked over lunch.

"With as few impediments as possible," I replied truthfully.

"Anyone can undress," chided Levy, "but not anyone can act as this girl will be able to do if she gives herself a chance."

Levy lit a cigar and blew out the smoke.

"There it goes," he said. "One million dollars more or less. Because I am definitely tearing up our contract which had until 1961 to run."

This seemed a high price to pay for principles in an industry which generally dispenses with such trifles.

"When they have a hit or a star they always try to repeat the same formula," Levy said. "They are chasing their own shadows. And in 'And God Created Woman' and other films Brigitte wore as little as possible."

"This technique served its purpose. Now she must move on. But she doesn't want to. Well, she can stand in the same place without me."

He said he had no doubts about Brigitte's acting ability and noted that in her current picutre, "Babette Goes To War," she keeps her clothes on.

"In France and Belgium it is a box office smash and it will be a great success everywhere except perhaps Germany because it pokes fun at the Germans, and in Sweden."

"Sweden?"

"You've got to undress them for the Swedes," Levy said.

REJECTED BY A WHISKER

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) —The department store Santa Claus beckoned to the 7-year-old girl to come forward, but the little girl stopped just out of his reach.

"If it's just the same with you," she said, "please don't kiss me. Last year you left whiskers all over my face."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — We may well be in the midst of a creeping bull market, according to Spear & Staff, which also indicates that the steel strike will be settled before Jan. 26, when the Taft-Hartley Injunction expires.

In the face of bullish chart patterns, Spear is now inclined to a more optimistic attitude over the near term, than was expressed last week.

Investors Advisory Institute recommends national distillers & chemical as a buy situation. Indicated year-end earnings should fall in the neighborhood of $2.25 a share against $1.76 last year, the institute notes. Liquor sales are proceeding satisfactorily while the company's chemical operations are maintaining a strong uptrend, the institute says.

Reynolds & Co. feels that 1960 will be a good year for railway equipment manufacturers. Materials and supplies of the railroads are at abnormally low levels, Reynolds says, indicating that American Steel Foundries, General Railway Signal, American Brake Shoe, New York Air Brake, and Westinghouse Air Brake should all be in line for an increase in business volume.

Cotton Allotments To Be Set By Dec. 15

Cotton acreage allotment for the 1960 upland crop are now being established for all the eligible farms in Gray county, according to the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee. Notices of the allotment will be mailed to farm operatos well in advance of the December 15 referendum on 1960 crop cotton marketing quotas.

For 1960, as in 1959, two allotments - Choice (A) and Choice (B) - will be set for each farm. If marketing quotas are approved by at least two thirds of the growers viting in the referendum, then each farm operator may elect a choice as to which allotment he wishes to comply with in growing 1960 upland cotton crop.

Choice (A) will be the "regular" farm allotment, and price support at not less than 75 percent of parity available on the cotton grown in compliance with it. Choice (B) will be 40 percent larger farm allotment, and price support at not less than 60 percent of parity will be available on the eligible cotton.

If marketing quotas are not approved by the necessary majority, then only the "regular" allotments will be in effect, and price support on cotton grown in compliance with the allotments will be available at 50 percent of parity.

Evelyn J. Mason, County Office Manager, pointed out that the 1960 county allotment-representing the county's share of the State allotment, less any acreage reserved for new cotton farms - is divided among farms on which cotton was planted or "regarded as planted" in 1957, 1958 or 1959. An allotment may be "regarded as planted" if it was "reserved" under the Soil Bank Conservation program or if it was otherwish preserved under some legal provisions. The minimum garm allotment for "old" cotton farms is the smaller of 10 acres or the farm's allotment for 1958.

LIVES UP TO NAME

LONDON (UPI) — Five-foot-three inch Joe Sampson, 23, of Karachi, Pakistan, and his five-foot-eight girl friend Patricia Allen, 16, cancelled their elopement Saturday night after arguing for 15 days over who should be boss. "With a name like mine," Sampson said, "I have something to live up to. When I marry I must be master."

EXPENSIVE STRAWBERRIES

NEW YORK (UPI)—The manager of the Eden Hotel in Duesseldorf, Germany, knew just what to do when the son of Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie said he wanted strawberries for breakfast —in November. The German hotel manager called up Wallace Lee, manager of the Waldorf-Astoria in New York. The Waldorf rushed him 10 pounds of frozen berries by plane.

Spider Bite Fatal

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A black widow spider bit Nicholas Burney, 34, five times on the hand when he put on his sweater.

Attendants at Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital said Monday Burney, a former Redlands, Calif., chiropractor, died at the hospital Sunday. He told attendants he tried several remedies before seeking help at the hospital.

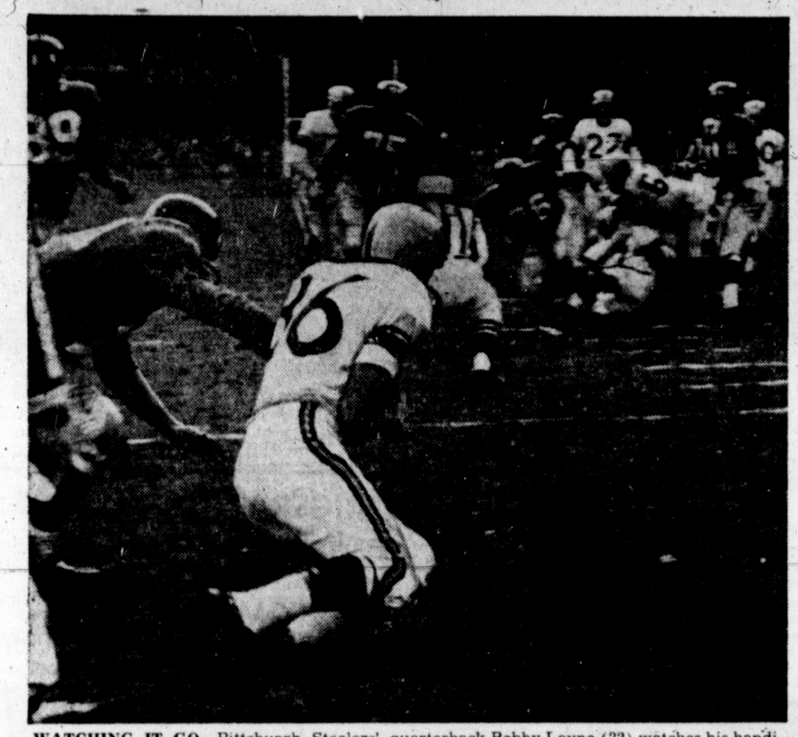
SPORTS PICTURE NEWS
AROUND THE WORLD



WATCHING IT GO—Pittsburgh Steelers' quarterback Bobby Layne (22) watches his handiwork as Jimm Orr (86) snares a Layne pass to score a touchdown against the New York Giants in New York. Layne threw two touchdown passes to defeat the Giants, 14-9.

AWARD WINNER—At a banquet given by the American Power Boat Association in Milwaukee, Wis., Italy's Count Theo Rossi (left) was on hand to present his award to William Stead, of Reno, Nev., as driver of the world's fastest boat in 1959. Count Rossi is the only foreigner ever to win the Gold Cup Regatta.

WINTER WEAR — Keeping the outdoor man in mind is this sweater combining styling with parka warmth. It has an orlon pile hood that drapes gracefully across the shoulders. Bell sleeves, a zipper closure and two front pockets with edge trim add more snap.

BAREFOOT BUGGY—A souped-up soapbox, this low-slung racer features plenty of leg room and a 1½-horsepower motor mounted in the rear. It's being steered by young Jim Lyons, as Richard Pecorella starts the motor in Palm Beach, Fla., where the 14-year-old builders live. They must restrict its use to their backyards and a special track as their contraption could be considered a menace anywhere else.

LOOKING AHEAD—Coleen Bingham is no bearded lady, but she is sporting a "rear-view" hat as she frolics along Coral Beach in Bermuda. She apparently doesn't care where she's going, but does want to remember where she's been—and maybe it's a good idea.

THE ONCE OVER—From freeze to breeze and easy to take seems to be what Spring Hill Farm's "Easy Spur" is saying to stable foreman Dave Sodders at Hialeah, Fla., after they arrived from Chicago. They were there for the $100,000 Widener Handicap.

CLUB MEMBER—Getting the thrill of his young life, three-year-old Jimmy Gilbert Jr. got a golfing lesson from famed Yankee catcher Yogi Berra at the Pinehurst, N. C., Country Club. Accompanied by a group of friends from Tenafly, N. J., Berra was visiting the club on his annual vacation.

PASSER AND PROTECTOR—Two of the big guns in North Carolina State's football attack are quarterback Roman Gabriel and tackle Dick (Tiny) Reynolds. Gabriel (left), a six-foot-three, 205-pounder from Wilmington, poses State's biggest offensive threat. Reynolds, two inches taller than Gabriel and weighing 270 pounds, is from College Park, Md., and looms as a chief defensive stalwart.

HIT PERFORMER—A girl who always knows the score, Norma Martinez keeps tabs on the runs, hits and errors during the broadcast of winter baseball games on TV in Chicago. Norma posts the score every inning in the Cuban League games from Havana during the off-season. Featuring major leaguers in action, the games are TV'd in major U. S. cities.

HAPPY HUNTING—Claud Spiczke (left) and Fill Fussy posed happily with a 420-pound bear they bagged while deer hunting near Aitkin, Minn. The bear is the largest reported in Minnesota this year and one of the biggest in several years. The men spotted it in its den and fired at it. The animal charged at them but was dropped by a second volley.

FAMILIAR STYLE—Taking time out from ice skating, Bob Turley of the New York Yankees is all set to toss a snowball at the club in Grossinger, N. Y. The snowball was made from ice scrapings on the surface of the skating rink, and not from the first snowfall.

Mail Early For Christmas: Start Today Urges Gaylor

"It's time to sart those Chrismas mailings!" postmaster O. K. Gaylor said today. "On the calendar, Christmas is less than a month away, but here in the post office it's Christmas every day from now on.

"Actually, to get all of the Christmas gifts and cards delivered on time is largely a matter of advance planning and preparation that should be done this week," the postmaster pointed out.

"Don't take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages," he said. "Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy brown wrapping paper, and be sure that every package is tied with strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be well suffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the contents."

He said further: "If you have articles of unusual size or bulk, better check with the post office before attempting to mail them—the limits on size and weigh of packages vary, depending on where you mail your packages from."

As an extra precaution agains loss, Gaylor advised placing both your return address and the recipients address on an extra label inside the carton or package before it is wrapped.

If you use Christmas stickers or seals, put them on the back of your Christmas card envelopes so that they will not conflict with the address on the front.

Before you mail your gift packages be sure that proper postage is firmly affixed to each.

It's always a good idea to place a piece of transparent cellophane tape over the address portion of the label to prevent defacing it in transit. Most importan of all, be sure to include the recipient's full name, street address, city, zone and state on your labels.

Here's some other helpful suggestions from Gaylor. Always send your Christmas cards by first class mail. They will be delivered quicker and they'll be forwarded or returned, if it becomes necessary. Christmas cards sent by first class four-cent or seven-cent air mail may carry written messages; whereas, cards sent with third class three-cent postage may only have a wriften signature and will not be forwarded or returned.

It is always advisable to include your return name and address on each Christmas card envelope because this helps your friends to keep their mailing lists up-to-date and insures correction of your own list if the card is returned as undeliverable.

The postmaster reminds us that the entire Christmas mailing period is primarily a battle against time. If you delay now in getting your Christmas cards and gift packages to the post office, dreaded pile-ups are bound to occur, causing unavoidable slowdowns in deliveries as the holiday approaches.

All mail going long distances should be sent well before December 10. Christmas packages for local delivery should be mailed by December 15, and be sure to mail Christmas cards for nearby destinations at least a week before Christmas.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

From the foreign editor's notebook:

HUNGARY

It may have nothing to do with United Nations debate on Hungary and a probable new indictment of Russia for its ruthless suppression of the 1956 Hungarian revolt, but Communist East Berlin hears that a reduction of Soviet troops in Hungary once more is being discussed. Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky is supposed to have taken it up with Soviet commanders in Hungary.

BLANK CHECK

French President Charles de Gaulle to look out for West German interests in the coming western summit meeting. Adenauer is said to feel that among the Western Big Three, de Gaulle has the greatest personal and national stake in the critical German and Berlin issues. At the same time, he feels that President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are too preoccupied by the atom and arms race to be able to give full consideration to German interests.

SQUEEZE

Britain continues fearful that France and West Germany between them will squeeze Britain out of its former position of prestige in European affairs. The question of a bigger British say-so in Europe will be taken up in London during the visit of Premier Antonio Segni of Italy. The Born reports that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will rely on British hope to dust off the almost-forgotten West European Union (WEU), in which they are members along with France, West Germany, Italy and the three "Benelux" countries. The WEU first was set up to permit the staged rearming of West Germany.

IMPROVED RELATIONS

This are looking up in the long-drawn negotiations to establish relations between Japan and the Republic of Korea, as result of effective behind-the-scenes work by U.S. officials. Incidentally, Tokyp hears that North Korean Foreign Minister Nam Il, long a Communist mouthpiece, lost his job because of the failure of the scheme to repatriate thousands of Koreans now in Japan to Communist North

Red Griggs ★ the pipeline

After Friday or Saturday night, the longest basketball winning streak in the state of Texas could be about four or five games. The longest winning streak right now, of course, is the 46 games collected by the Harvesters over the latter half of the '57-58 season, last season, and the first games of this year.

It's no exaggeration to say that right now, that streak is in greater danger than it has ever been. The Bowie Jackrabbits, who play here Friday and Saturday in Pampa's home openers, have three starters back from the team which went to the state class AA finals last year before losing to Buna, and which lost to the Harvesters by only 10 points.

Among these returning starters is one of their leading scorers, a 6-2 boy named McKinley. In three words, "Bowie is loaded."

No team the Harvesters faced last year was as big a threat to them as this Bowie team will be Friday and Saturday nights. It's true that the Harvesters played such fine squads as Borger and Houston Milby, but last year the Harvesters were tall, experienced, and a match for just about any team which could be sent against them.

This year the Harvesters are comparatively short (6-0 average), inexperienced (only one regular returning) and will have to make hustle and defense go a long way. Coach Clifton McNeely would be the person to tell you that the Harvester streak is going to last indefinitely. But he'd also be the last to tell you that Pampa will roll over and play dead for Bowie this weekend.

Harvesters Play Tough Schedule

"We have a rough schedule this year," said McNeely, "and Bowie is one of the toughest teams on that schedule. However, I'm glad we're playing them, because you have to play the tough teams before you can improve your own style of play. You don't get better by playing weak teams."

Asked if he wouldn't rather play Bowie later in the season, he replied that "this is as good a time as any. By playing Bowie now, the boys will get some valuable experience which may help them later in the season."

McNeely says that this year's schedule is even tougher than last year's. "Bowie should be just as good as it was last year," he declared. "Hobbs may be better than last year, and Sherman has a very fine team." The Harvesters play all three of these teams twice before opening district play.

"The district is very well balanced," continued McNeely. "Borger has an excellent team, as usual. Plainview has four starters back, and will be much improved. Palo Duro, with three starters back, should have a contender, and Monterey has looked surprisingly good."

McNeely, at present, does not consider the Harvester squad as a serious contender for district honors this year. He believes this year, and possibly even next year, may have to be spent in rebuilding.

He should have a good idea, after this week's series with Bowie, about just how much rebuilding will have to be done.

Don't Expect A Great Season

Just for the record, the winning streak which is being threatened by the Jackrabbits began after a 69-63 loss to the Borger Bulldogs, at Borger, on Jan. 15, 1958. The even longer home-court winning streak which is coming under fire began almost three years ago. Borger was also the last team to beat Pampa at home. They turned the trick on Jan. 9, 1957, with a 63-62 victory.

The present winning streak isn't the longest ever recorded by a Harvester team. Pampa went through undefeated seasons in '52-53 and '53-54, and carried the streak over deep into the next season. They won 26 games each in '52-53 and '53-54.

McNeely's total record since coming here during the '47-48 season is 304 wins, 34 losses, the best of any coach in the state. (It figures out to a solid .899, a good batting average in any league).

The worst record ever recorded by a McNeely team was far from bad. It was the 20-7 mark posted by the 1956 team which lost to Odessa in a district playoff.

Few teams, however, ever lost so much as last year's Harvester squad. No team can lose three all-staters and a fourth second team all-district regular without feeling it. In addition to losing four regulars, this year's squad is an average of three inches shorter than last year's.

It's unfair to expect a great season of the Harvesters and their coaches this time. A season such as 1956 would be excellent, under the cicumstances. Good coaching, plus hustle and determination on the part of the players, can only take a team so far.

While this season may not be a great one, it should be an exciting one. The Hustling Harvesters will no doubt continue to live up to their name, and every team they play, including Bowie, will know they've been in a real ball game, whether the Harvesters win or lose.

TITTLE DOUBTFUL STARTER

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI)—San Francisco Forty Niner coaches adopted a "wait and see" attitude today in regard to quarterback Y. A. Shockers Win Over Phillips B Team, 48-37

PHILLIPS — Terry Culley's Shocker team made it a double-header sweep for Pampa here Tuesday night, as they defeated the Phillips B team, 48-37.

The Shockers, paced by Jim Crinklaw, led throughout the game. The Pampa B squad grabbed a lead of 15-8 at the end of the first quarter and increased it to 24-17 at halftime. The Shockers had another big period in the third, as they scored 15 points to boost their margin to 39-23.

Playing against Shocker reserves through most of the fourth quarter, the Phillips B team was able to tally 14 points, but the Shockers still held a comfortable margin at the end.

Crinklaw led the Shockers' scoring with 14 points, followed by Lloyd Balch with 10 (including six of seven free throws). Mike Stewart bucketed eight points, Charles Fant six, Bill Neslage and Jim Stephenson four each, and Charles Simmons two.

Cannon Wins Top Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Halfback Billy Cannon, who sparked Louisiana State to its second straight Sugar Bowl berth, has been named winner of the 1959 Heisman Memorial Trophy as the nation's outstanding college football player.

Cannon received 1,929 points, more than three times as much as his nearest rival, in the balloting by sports writers and sports broadcasters throughout the country.

Runner-up Richie Lucas, Penn State's star quarterback, received 613 points and passing whiz Don Meredith of Southern Methodist was third with 286.

Cannon, who was third in the Heisman voting last year behind Pete Dawkins of Army and Randy Duncan of Iowa, is a 22-year-old married pre-dental student with three daughters. He will receive the trophy from Vice President Richard M. Nixon at a dinner staged by the award's sponsor, the Downtown Athletic Club, on Wednesday, Dec. 9.

West Texas Loses

DENTON (UPI) — Center Jim Mudd poured in 35 points Tuesday night to lead North Texas State past West Texas State 78-72.

Mudd rammed in 14 field goals and added seven free throws for the top production of the season opener for both teams.

Last-Half Harvester Surge Gives PHS 46th Straight

By RED GRIGS
Daily News Sports Editor

PHILLIPS — The Phillips Blackhawks gave the Pampa Harvesters quite a scare for 16 minutes here Tuesday night, but the Harvesters rallied in the second half to take a 59-32 victory.

The win extended Pampa's winning streak to 46 games, leaving their record unblemished going into this weekend's series with the potent Bowie Jackrabbits. Bowie reached the state class AA finals last year, and has three starters back from last year's squad. The Jackrabbits will be here Friday and Saturday to open the Harvesters' home season.

It looked, for a large part of the first half Tuesday, as if there might not be any winning streak left for Bowie to threaten. The well-coached Blackhawks not only played Pampa on nearly even terms for most of the first half, but they also seemed to be about to cause some of Pampa's starters to foul out.

The Blackhawks, maneuvering skilfully on offense, caused the Harvesters to foul enough times to give them 16 free shots. They connected on 11 of them, and put Pampa in a bad spot, defensively, because of having so many fouls.

Pampa led only 15-13 at the end of the first quarter. They opened the gap to 26-17 midway in the second period, but Phillips came back with six points and the halftime score was only 28-23 in favor of Pampa. Three times during the first half Phillips held one-point leads — 10-9, 12-11, and 17-16. They also scored first in the game for a 2-0 lead.

In the second half it was an entirely different story. Paced by Pat Carter and Craig Winborn, the Harvesters jumped to a 44-28 lead at the three quarter mark. Winborn scored four field goals in the third quarter, Carter three.

Carter added three field goals in the fourth quarter, and reserve Larry Stroud sank a field goal and three charity tosses in the same period. Coach Clifton McNeely cleared his bench in the closing minutes of the fourth quarter.

Pampa's defense stopped Phillips cold during the entire last half. The Blackhawks managed only one field goal during the entire last half, and added seven free throws for a total point production of nine in the third and fourth quarters.

Winborn, for the second time this season, was Pampa's leading scorer, and he also topped the 20-point mark for the second time, with eight field goals and six of seven free throws, for 22 points.

Carter just missed the 20-point club, as he hit nine field goals for 18 points. Stroud's five points was third best on the club. Allen Wise, playing with a face mask to protect some teeth which were loosened in a Quanah game mishap, dunked four.

Joe Timms also collected four points. Phillip Gist, Bill Neslage and Hershel Terrell all made two points.

The free-throw shooting of both teams was good. Pampa hit 17 of 22, while Phillips netted 18 of 25.

Elgin Baylor's hot flashes now are plaguing the National Basketball Assn.

The former Seattle University star, recently recovered from the flu, sank two baskets in the last 17 seconds Tuesday night to enable Minneapolis to defeat New York, 103-100.

St. Louis rallied to beat Syracuse, 106-101, in the opener of a doubleheader at New York.

Baylor, who sat out most of the first half, stole the ball at midcourt and drove in for the basket that gave Minneapolis a 100-99 lead over the Knicks. Seconds later, he gained possession of the ball under the Laker basket and raced the length of the court to ice the game for the Lakers.

Minneapolis held a 56-47 halftime lead, but found itself hard-pressed after intermission until Baylor's closing flurry. Baylor had 20 points. Kenny Sears of the Knicks was high for the game with 28.

Bob Pettit led a third period battle for the Hawks. Syracuse rally that climaxed an uphill battle for the Hawks. Syracuse had gained an 11-point lead in the early going, but St. Louis finally went ahead on Johnny McCarthy's jump shot in the third stanza. The Nats closed to one point in final minutes only to see Cliff Hagan and Si Green each sink a pair of fouls.

Pettit topped the scorers with 38 points. George Yardley led Syracuse with 24.

Couple of 'Cats' Are 'Cool' Cagers

By TIM MORIARTY

Those "cats" from Cincinnati and Kentucky needed only one game to prove why the experts are picking them as the "coolest" teams of the new college basketball season.

The Cincinnati Bearcats, with two-time All-American Oscar Robertson tossing in 45 points, rolled to a 107-62 victory over Indiana State and the Kentucky Wildcats clobbered Colorado State College, 106-73, Tuesday night to open the 1958-59 campaign.

Robertson, who hopes to become the first player in history to win the national scoring championship three straight years, got off to a flying start before 7,859 hometown fans. The 6-5 jumping jack scored 11 of Cincinnati's first 17 points, and had 25 to his credit when the Bearcats left the floor at intermission with a 52-30 advantage.

Kentucky won its 32nd consecutive season opener with a well-balanced attack that left Baron Adolph Rupp whooping with joy. The Wildcats, who zoomed to a 45-21 lead at halftime, were paced by senior guard Bennie Coffman's 18 points. Dick Carson and sophomore forward Jim McDonald, taking over for departed All-American Johnny Cox, added 14 each.

Jerry West, another returning All-American, and Jerry Lucas, Ohio State's heralded sophomore whiz, also turned in impressive opening night performances.

West scored 21 points and grabbed 22 rebounds in leading West Virginia to a 77-69 triumph over Tennessee and Lucas tallied 13 of his 16 points in the second half as Ohio State wiped out a 42-37 halftime deficit to defeat visiting Wake Forest, 77-69.

Wally Frank, picking up where All-America Bob Boozer left off last season, tossed in 35 points in sparking Kansas State to an 85-52 triumph over South Dakota State.

St. John's introduced a pair of promising sophomores in breezing to a 90-66 victory over the University of Bridgeport. Willie Hall and Larry Ellis totaled 36 rebounds between them in their varsity debuts while Tony Jackson scored 22 points for the 1959 National Invitation Tournament champs.

North Carolina State sank 43.9 per cent of its field goal attempts in turning back Penn State, 65-53; St. Louis used 16 players in romping to an 89-14 victory over Abilene Christian; sophomore center Terry Dischinger's 24 points helped Purdue whip Valparaiso, 70-57; Northwestern dumped Western Michigan, 80-66; Larry Ramey's 26 points sparked Butler to an 88-82 triumph over Wisconsin.

Iowa nipped Evansville, 86-84, on a last second basket by Mike Heitman; Georgia Tech opened with a 59-49 win over Duke; Jeff Cohen and Bev. Vaughn each scored 26 points as William & Mary whipped Virginia, 82-70; Louisville rolled to an 87-68 victory over Furman as John Turner scored 20 points; Stanford turned back San Francisco, 55-49 in overtime, and Texas spanked McMurry, 95-54.

Alex Olmedo Becomes Pro

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Davis Cup star Alex Olmedo, the Peruvian who helped the United States regain the world's amateur title in 1958, today held a professional contract that could earn him nearly $100,000.

Olmedo took time out from his classes at University of Southern California to sign a contract Tuesday with tennis promoter Jack Kramer which guarantees him a minimum of $35,000. But Kramer expects the dark-haired Latin star to make much more than that.

Valdes, DeJohn Unimpressive

LONDON (UPI) Joey De John and Nino Valdes, a pair of American campaigners, didn't win many friends or influence any people in Tuesday night's all-heavyweight boxing show at the Empire Pool.

De John, of Syracuse, N.Y., was given London's version of the Bronx cheer when he was awarded a close 10-round decision over Dick Richardson of Wales.

Valdes, a ponderous Cuban now fighting out of New York, also was unimpressive in gaining a technical knockout over Brian London, who quit at the end of the seventh round because of a cut over his left eye.

Five Wins, Two Losses

SWC Squads Open Strong

By BRYCE MILLER
United Press International

If opening games are any indication, Southwest Conference basketball fans are in for one of the finest title chases in recent years.

All games Tuesday night were against outside competition. Five of the conference clubs won by wide margins, and the other two haven't a thing to be ashamed of.

Only Southern Methodist was idle. The Ponies open Thursday night against Minnesota at Minneapolis.

The Phillips 66 Oilers nipped Arkansas 79-78 at Bartlesville, Okla., but All-American Gary Thompson had to score six points in the final minute to do it. He led Phillips with 21 points.

Pat Foster scored 19 for Arkansas.

The Razorbacks were leading the potential National Industrial Basketball League champion 76-73 when Thompson, an Iowa State product, hit two free throws and a field goal in 35 seconds, then stole the ball and drew another foul that resulted in the pair of insurance charity tosses.

In other games Texas clobbered McMurry 95-34, Texas Tech stopped the University of New Mexico 86-69, Texas Christian beat S. F. Austin College 65-47, Baylor bumbled Howard Payne 84-53, Texas A&M overwhelmed Centenary 95-38 for a new school scoring record and Trinity squeaked past Rice 74-72 in a game that saw the lead change hands five times in the last seven minutes.

Coach Bob Rogers let his reserves play most of the game as the Aggies coasted to an easy victory over Centenary and eclipsed the school scoring record of 92 points set two years against Houston.

It was a balanced scoring attack. Sophomore Carroll Broussard had 15, Kelly Chapman 14, Wayne Lawrence 13, Elliott Craig 12 and Pat Stanley 11. Craig had the honor of breaking the old record with a field goal 11 seconds before the end of the game.

Trinity staged a terrific scoring half comeback to slap down the Owls. Rice led 43-32 at halftime.

Don Rhebel led the Trinity offense with 36 points, including 17 field goals for a new school individual scoring record. John Canavan had 14.

For Rice, David Craig pumped in 21 points and Mike Maroney added 14. The Owls hit a superb 24 of 27 free throws in the opening half, and had 30 of 39 overall.

Texas, trying to better last year's dismal 4-20 record, had five players hit in double figures. Jay Arnette paced the attack with 22 points and Brenton Hughes had 17. Toby Burkhardt led McMurry with 19 points.

The Steers led 54-25 at halftime.

Texas Frosh whipped Wharton Junior College in a preliminary battle with Coyle Winborn scoring 27 points.

The Red Raiders jumped to a quick lead and held it throughout the game with New Mexico. Tech had a 13-4 advantage within four minutes and built it to 40-28 at halftime.

James Wiley led Tech with 20 points and Tom King scored 13 points for New Mexico.

Texas Christian held Austin scoreless for the first six minutes while building up 13 points and refused to give up the lead the rest of the game. Bobby Barnard, sophomore center of the brand-new Froggie five, led the scoring with 15 points. Jerry Cobb and Bobby Tyler had 14 each.

Charles Smith led Austin and was high for the game with a 22 point production.

Baylor reserves, bolstered by a 44-22 halftime lead, played most of the last half against Howard Payne's Yellow Jackets. The Bears scoring was balanced with senior center Carroll Dawson's 14 point tops. Mobert McMahan had 11 points for Howard Payne.

Open Boxers Will Fight Thursday

Pampa's open class fighters see their first major action of the year Thursday night at the Optimist Boys Club, against fighters from Clovis, N.M. The matches begin at 7:30 p.m.

Thursday's card will feature Pampa boxers such as Norman Rexroat, Charles Snider, Dickie James and James Snider; Lefors "anchor man" Gary Smith, and Clovis biffers such as Theo Nance, Gene Torres, Ignacio Rodrigues and Wade Stephenson.

The Clovis team, New Mexico state team boxing champion, includes many state champions and finalists. They will be matched mostly against Pampa fighters, but a few top Borger, Amarillo, Dumas and Lefors fighters will be in action also.

Two of the top bouts on Thursday's card will be a slugger's duel and a return match. In the 160-pound weight, Pampa's Rexroat will battle another aggressive boxer, Jimmy Apadoca. Both fighters are strictly sluggers, who go in swinging all the way and put up little defense.

James, in the 121-pound class, will be fighting the only boxer who ever TKO'ed him in nearly a hundred fights. Rodrigues scored a TKO over James in a match earlier this year at Hereford, by opening a cut. James was winning the fight on points at the time.

A second top-notch slugger's duel, besides the Rexroat - Apadoca match, should be the 130-pound fight between Kenny Powell and Wade Stephenson. The 137-pound match between Pampa's Jim Murray and last year's New Mexico runnerup, Theo Nance, should also be a top fight.

Charles Snider, a tough 147-pounder, will meet another New Mexico runnerup, Gene Torres, in another open class event. The other Snider, James, is expected to take on Jack Phillips, a good 147-pounder from Clovis.

Smith, one of the best fighters on Ben White's Lefors squad, will meet Danny Alvarez of Clovis in a 130-pound bout, which may be the top high school fight of the night. In two fights featuring good high school boxers in the lighter weights, Roman Lucero, 100, will meet Corlis Hooten of Borger and Clarence Archie of Clovis, 108, will fight Trent Olsen of Pampa.

Other open fights will be Blaze Garcia of Clovis (who went to the New Mexico state meet three times) against Pete Garcia of Dumas in a 115-pound bout, and Wilford Haines, 160, of Clovis against Bob Willis of Amarillo.

Other high school fights will be Joe Garcia, 105, of Clovis against Lewis Gibson of Lefors and David Lewis, 115, of Clovis against Johnny Ironmonger of Pampa.

RETURN BOUT — Dickie James, Pampa 121-pound class boxer, meets the only fighter who ever TKO'ed him in nearly a hundred fights, Thursday night at Pampa Optimist Boys Club. Ignacio Rodrigues of Borger will be his opponent. (Daily News Photo)

Lee Opens With Win Over Lefors

LEFORS (Spl) — The Lee Junior High Rebels of Pampa dominated play in the second half here Tuesday, to win their season opener from the Lefors B team, 32-13.

The Rebels, along with the Lee eighth graders, open their Panhandle Junior High Conference competition Thursday at Austin of Borger. Their home opener is scheduled next Tuesday against the Lefors B team. Lee seventh grade plays Austin of Borger Friday at Borger.

The Rebels led the Lefors B team by only 19-11 in the first half Friday, but they pulled away in the last half to outscore the Pirates, 12-points to 2. "It was a typical first ball game," said Lee coach Dean Evans. "The boys were a little off on their shooting, but overall they played a fine game."

Gordon Balch led the Rebels' scoring with 14 points, followed by Jon Pitts with 10. Darrell Doss and Wayne Kries, the only other Lee players to score, each collected four points.

Joe Brown Puts Crown on Line

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press International

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Joe Brown, a lithe lightweight who has knocked out five of seven foes who have challenged for his world 135-pound championship, defends the crown again tonight against Britain's Dave Carnley, a fighter who's never been knocked off his feet.

Brown, though, was a solid 12 to 5 favorite over the British boilermaker, who is nine years younger than the champion with only 29 fights on his record compared to 103 for Brown.

The bout, starting at 10 p.m. e.s.t. will be nationally televised with the Houston area blacked out. A crowd of around 6,500 was expected to pay about $45,000 to watch the scheduled 15 round match.

Brown, as champion will get 40 per cent of the net gate and an equal share of the $40,000 paid for television rights, while Charnley, who won the British Empire lightweight championship with a 10-round knockout of Willie Toweel last May 12, will get 20 per cent of the same amount.

Both fighters, with no concern about scaling less than the mandatory 135 pounds at the official weigh-in, were confident of victory.

Brown, who has scored 35 knockouts in winning 75 fights, said he expected to finish off his foe in the early rounds, even though Charnley is a southpaw, a style which has given the champion trouble in the past.

Charnley, while not anticipating a knockout, indicated he expected to be around at the finish, regardless of how long the bout might go, and said he would make his first championship defense in London.

PJH Betters Last Year's Season Mark

The Pampa Junior High Reapers bettered last year's season record Tuesday, when they romped over the Shamrock freshmen in Pampa Junior High Gymnasium, 29-18.

The victory was the second straight this season for Coach Sam Jackson's Reapers, who won only one game last year with a totally inexperienced squad. "I think it might be a good idea to quit right now," Jackson joked after the victory.

The Reapers' next game will be against the White Deer B team here next Tuesday. The eighth grade season will open at that time. Frank Craig's PJH seventh graders will play at Phillips Friday.

The Reapers held a 10-point lead over Shamrock at halftime, 17-7. Larkin Miller led Pampa's scoring with 10 points, followed by C. E. Cantrell with eight. Dwight Thompson netted five, and three boys, John Weatherly, Randy Matson Mary Marler each bucketed two points.

TO HOLD HEARINGS

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Illinois Racing Board will hold a hearing next Monday to consider applications for racing dates in 1960 from the Balmoral, Arlington Park, Washington Park, and Fairmount Jockey Clubs.

Red Sox Get Bob Thompson; Yankees Trying For Spahn

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Southpaw Warren Spahn began his big league career under Casey Stengel and that's the man he may finish it under if current talks between the Braves and Yankees culminate in a long-anticipated trade.

Dispensing with the usual smoke screen that accompanies most trade parleys, the Yankees got right to the heart of the matter by asking the Braves what their chances were of landing the 38-year-old Spahn.

The Braves, naturally asked who will you give?

Gil McDougald and Hank Bauer, was the reply of Yankee General Manager George Weiss.

Milwaukee is receptive to McDougald, but isn't especially interested in Bauer. So both sides retreated temporarily until they can get together again at the major league meetings in Miami Beach next week.

Cal Griffith of the Washington Senators revealed he was "very close" to making a deal with Los Angeles for Roy Sievers and there was 'a good chance" it would be completed today.

Griffith and Dodger General Manager Buzie Bavasi huddled for more than three hours Tuesday night.

The possibility of the Yankees coming up with Spahn almost completely overshadowed Tuesday's straight-player swap in which veteran outfielder Bobby Thomson moved to the Red Sox from the Cubs for pitcher Al Schroll.

Boston Manager Billy Jurges said he planned to alternate the 36-year-old Thomson in left field with Ted Williams — if Ted decides to return. Otherwise, Thomson, who hit .259 last year, might win the job by defeault.

Detroit has joined Cleveland in the bidding for Philadelphia shortstop Chico Fernandez and the Orioles are listening to several offers for catcher Gus Triandos.

The Orioles completed their second deal of the meetings by sending outfielder Bob Nieman to the Cardinals for catcher-outfielder Gene Green. The Cards also threw in farm-hand Charles (Chuck) Staniland. He will go to Baltimore's Miami farm club from Rochester.

Honors Awarded At Hall of Fame Banquet Tuesday

NEW YORK (UPI) — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, the nation's top-rated Syracuse University team and 10 former stars were honored Tuesday night by the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

MacArthur was presented with the hall's second annual gold medal before a dinner crowd of about 1,400. Last year, President Eisenhower was recipient of the award.

Syracuse's Cotton Bowl - bound Orangemen received a new award, the MacArthur Bowl, emblematic of the national football collegiate championship for 1959.

Rockefeller Not Opposed To Birth Control Aid To Others

By BRUCE AGNEW
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gove. Nelson A. Rockefeller said today he would not oppose this nation's giving birth control assistance to a foreign nation provided the other nation requested it.

"This is a very sensitive subject to various individuals, and, of course, to certain religious groups," Rockefeller said.

"Naturally, a program involving activities relating to birth control would not be undertaken if it was offensive to the people of that country," he added.

Rockefeller, considered a possible contender for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960, spoke to newsmen after returning here from a six-day rest at his Venezuelan ranch. He and his wife flew on to Albany after a brief stopover at Idlewild Airport.

His remarks on birth control were the latest in a series of statements over the week end by declared or undeclared aspirants for presidential nomination. Birth control has been proposed in many quarters as one possible answer to the problem of populations expanding faster than food production — too many people and too little food.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) a Roman Catholic, said he believed it would be unwise for this nation to advocate birth control to other countries. This would be interfering in a totally domestic problem of those nations, he said.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said he would approve of furnishing planned parenthood information to other countries "where (the government) believes it is to the interest of our counry." He noted that poverty and disease are "two of the foremost allies of Communism."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) said the United States should not try to influence the policies of other nations on birth control but should not deny birth control information to nations that desire it.

The International Cooperation Administration called the issue academic. It said no foreign aid funds have been spent to spread birth control information and there are no plans for any such spending.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

There is nothing remarkable about South's six no-trump contract and he has no problems in the play. No opening lead can bother him. After knocking out the ace of diamonds he has seven club tricks, three diamond tricks and two aces for a total of 12.

Six clubs also makes but a club lead will defeat six diamonds and if the diamonds were divided four-one a diamond opening would also beat six clubs so no-trump is the superior contract.

There are lots of ways to reach that spot but the Jacoby transfer seems to work out best.

North's two spade response to the opening no-trump is the club transfer and demands that South bid three clubs. North's three diamond bid forces to game and shows a two suiter of some sort and South's raise to four diamonds shows both a good no-trump and four diamonds.

North's four no-trump is Blackwood and his six club bid normal. At this point South bids six no-trump. Obviously North is very short in the major suits but South can handle either a spade or heart opening and he has the fillers for North's minor suits.

Taft Account Of How He Was 'Done In' Contains 4 Names

WASHINGTON WINDOW
By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

Warren, Harold E. Stassen, Thomas E. Dewey and Arthur E. Summerfield are the names which pack the most punch in the late Robert A. Taft's account of his defeat at the 1952 Republican national convention.

From time to time in that convention it was one of those men, a pair or all of them who pulled the wires. There were others who could pull and push. These four, however, seemed to Taft to be the men who did him in.

It was their convention strategy in control of scattered platoons of fists full of delegates which caused the convention to reject Taft and to nominate for president Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. This turned out well for all concerned—all concerned, anyway, in the strategy which obtained the nomination.

General Eisenhower was elected and became President Eisenhower. Harold E. Stassen, temporarily unemployed when his own reach for the nomination failed, was given the first of several federal appointments by the new President.

Dewey had no interest in political reward for himself. He probably could have had almost any federal office within the President's gift. But Dewey long had been in public office. He needed a job, but as a top drawer corporation lawyer where the one-time boy wonder at last would have an income matching his ability.

Dewey's convention strategies paid off, however, for his close political associate, Herbert Brownell. Brownell was attorney general in the first Eisenhower Cabinet and, doubtless, he is making as much at the law now since he left the Cabinet as is Dewey. They are an able pair.

Arthur E. Summerfield had it made, money-wise, long before maneuvered the Michigan convention delegation against Taft and for Eisenhower. Summerfield's reward was the Post Office Department where he continues as postmaster general.

California's governor hit the jackpot. He became Chief Justice Earl Warren. Warren, like Stassen, was himself a 1952 candidate for the nomination. Taft wrote that Warren and Stassen in 1952 each sought a convention deadlock more than the nomination of Eisenhower. A deadlock was the only situation which could have led to the nomination of either of them.

There were others in power positions in 1952 whose strategy backfired. Pennsylvania's Gov. John S. Fine, for example. Fine played it as a coy favorite son. He held the big Pennsylvania delegation when either the Eisenhower or Taft managers would have swapped an eyeball for it.

The last seen of Fine was when the convention was within a handful of votes of nominating Ike. Fine was shouting for the attention of Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr., for a chance to throw his delegation to Eisenhower. That would have put Ike over the top. Martin ignored Fine.

However that may be, others were more adroit and it paid off. There is nothing wrong with that. It is the American political way.

Stassesn's luck did not hold. He just lost a mayoralty election in Philadelphia. Perhaps Stassen hopes that publication of the Taft memo may remind the President of a famous line from Androcles: "Gratitude is the sign of noble souls."

Rooney And Parr Find Out What Each Is Really Like

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—What does Mickey Rooney really think of Jack Paar?

TV viewers didn't get a chance to find out Tuesday night as Rooney was invited by Paar to leave the show.

Before leaving, Rooney had told Paar (a) he was a Paar fan, and (b) he wasn't a Paar fan. The comments came as he leaned on a desk top, on Paar and sang songs.

Asked by Paar if he, Rooney, liked him, Rooney first said "Jack — first of all, I couldn't figure out why you are so popular till I was here tonight. Then I realized. . ."

BLOWN TO BITS

TOTTORI, Japan (UPI)—A burglar suspect being taken to headquarters in a police jeep for questioning Tuesday blew himself to bits with a stick of dynamite, police reported today. Four police officers accompanying Katsumi Ota, 33, jumped to safety when they saw the prisoner lighting the fuse of a stick of dynamite hidden under his shirt.

FLY ASHES HOME

NEW YORK (UPI)—The ashes of Povl Bang-Jensen, the former Danish United Nations political officer who committed suicide last week, were flown to Denmark Tuesday for burial. Bang-Jensen's widow and five children had flown to Copenhagen the day before.

Some people just can't get a point across without stabbing someone with it.

At this point the band began to play and Rooney began to sing, "Love Is A Simple Thing" as the commercials began. Back again, Rooney was still singing—a different tune this time — and he then told Paar, "everyone stays up late to hear your show. I'm a fan, too. . .you have a wonderful show."

Later, Rooney changed his mind again. "I look at the show. I don't enjoy your show," he told Paar. "I don't enjoy it too much except I can't stay away from it."

"You enjoy it tonight?" asked Paar.

"Not necessarily," replied Rooney.

"Would you care to leave?" asked Parr.

Rooney nodded, pulled himself to his full height, shook hands with Paar and exited to his left.

Paar watched him go while the audience applauded and said, "it's a shame, he was a great talent."

Later, when asked by a man in the audience if Rooney was "really drunk," Paar said, "I don't think so. Just high strung." He added, "but I wouldn't light a match in here for weeks."

Our Self-Interest

The News is vitally concerned with seeing to it that the best possible education is available for all. This newspaper is also vitally interested in seeing to it that the highest real wages possible are available on a continuous basis for everyone.

Indeed, we would be self-defeating were we not so interested and concerned. It would be foolish for any newspaper not to champion the cause of good education. The better the education and the more widespread it becomes, the easier it is for still others to obtain a superior education. And the more people who are benefited by superior education, the better we can make our newspaper and the more persons there will be who will be interested in reading it and using it.

Similarly, this newspaper would cut a rather ridiculous figure if it did not want all wage earners to get as high real wages as they could earn. The more wage earners earn, the greater ability they will have to patronize our advertisers, and the more business all of us will do. More advertising makes more sales. More sales make more profits. More profits make it possible for more people to have better jobs. We could not possibly be in opposition to this wonderful circle of rapidly flowing and ever expanding goods and services.

But if we are to judge from present circumstances, somehow we haven't always gotten this message across to our readers. Apparently, we haven't given enough thought and energy to the ideas relating to promoting better education and even higher real wages for services rendered.

Now if we want better education than is presently available, about the only way we can begin is to show the fallacies and errors in our present educational structure. Otherwise, how would you know that what we suggest is better?

So, let it be known that we think good education — superior education — can ONLY be available in the market place. When education becomes a political tool and is little more than an arm of any government, it must follow that political objectives will color that education. This will invariably provide us with inferior education; for education to be superior must have educational objectives, not political objectives.

Let it be understood that the News doesn't imagine that free enterprise, market place activities will automatically make everybody wealthy and wise. We believe nothing of the sort. But we do believe, and we feel that history gives enormous supporting evidence, that our well-being will improve much faster on a voluntary free enterprise basis, than when political mechanisms of force and violence are relied upon.

Thus, we believe that superior education will never be promoted by "initiated force and violence. Persuasion and example, the hallmarks of market place activities, are also the handmaidens of educational excellence.

And let us consider the matter of high wages that are real.

We are strongly in favor of the highest possible wages to everyone. How do we arrive at this delightful fulfillment? Simply by the processes of hard work and increased earning capacity. In short, we do not believe that high wages which are forced from an employer by the violence of unions and the collusion of governmental intervention, as in minimum wage laws, anti-trust rules, and so forth, are REAL wages. They may be money wages, but they are wages that have not been earned.

No one can successfully demonstrate the fallacy that a bandit, by force, is earning real wages. The bandit is not aiding society in any fashion. He is simply reducing the effectiveness and the productivity of the society by the extent of his predation.

Any organization, such as a union, which acts like a bandit, and which takes money from others for which it produces nothing, is doing the same thing. It is destroying or at least diluting the effectiveness and the productivity of the society.

So, even from a purely selfish standpoint, this newspaper favors superior education and high real wages. We know that the more other people gain, in wisdom and in wages, the larger will be the reservoir of knowledge and wealth by means of which we can gain wisdom and wages for ourselves.

No TV Regulation

Every now and again something occurs which causes lots of Americans to lose faith in free enterprise. One of these occurrences has just taken place. We are referring to the shameful situation in the television industry.

Now, we know that there were a few advertisers, like the department store owner, who tried to get his store mentioned on someone else's broadcast and was happy to pay large sums of money for this gambit.

We are faced with accusations and denials in all sorts of places. Some indicate that the broadcasting industry itself must have been privy to the cheat and is now trying to save face. Others accuse the sponsors of having rigged the quiz shows in such a way that audience interest could be increased. Some are convinced that the advertising agencies themselves played a major role in this situation.

But the upshot of the whole affair is that many and many a person from every walk of life, is now asking the government to get into the act and regulate the industry more than it already does.

We must take our stand squarely against this suggestion, tho we may be terribly in the minority. Nor were we at all encouraged to learn that Mr. Eisenhower had, himself, made a comment indicating that some corrective steps would have to be taken, for the inference was there that government must do the job.

Before you thoughtlessly begin to call on the government to intervene, might we suggest that the facts of the case indicate that the government long since could have intervened on the basis of laws presently in operation. The fact that the government did no such thing is indicative of the weakness of any possible justification for government to get further into the act. The government already has the power to control or limit certain types of ads, including lotteries, and in many ways the quiz shows, with their giant cash awards, could have been classed as lotteries if the government had so decided.

Regardless of the dismal showing made by quite a number of persons, we must not hit the panic button and conclude that government should take over. For government never eliminates corruption, it simply buries it deeply in piles of political expediency. While people begin to rely on government for the elimination of corruption, they soon lose the ability of disciplining themselves.

And when this happens, they find more and more attractive the lure of "getting by" by staying just inside the law. Moral codes are replaced by legal codes. And that which is wrong, becomes only that which is illegal and that which you were caught at.

As a matter of fact, what we have seen in the television expose is this very condition. Quite a number of persons, from Van Doren on, lost their integrity. They did so because they had the example of public approval of such loss, as epitomized by governmental intrusion in virtually every walk of life. In short, if the government doesn't say something is wrong . . . it must not be wrong.

This is a sorry state of affairs, but the cure will be found by getting government OUT of some of its regulatory functions, not further enmeshed in them. For the sense of right and wrong must reside within individuals and not within legislative bodies.

Each individual has the faculty of knowing when he is right and when he is in error, insofar as moral judgments are concerned. But when we continue to ask the government to manufacture our morals for us, we will lose that ability. And this is precisely what lots of people are actually clamoring for right now in respect to TV, if they but realized it.

The cure to the television mess is an improvement in public taste, for the public is the greatest disciplinarian of all. No one can really blame TV if the taste of the public is so atrocious that it actually finds these ridiculous quiz shows interesting. But if the public awakens from its TV hypnosis and starts turning off the sets when this kind of nonsense is aired, there will quickly be an end to it.

One way or another, the cure isn't to be found in more governmental control and regulation. Just the opposite is true.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Waste, Waste, Waste

As people become prosperous they invariably become wasteful. When they are struggling for existence nature warns them that waste will get them in trouble.

There are about as many different ideas of waste as there are individuals. To the youth play and exercise are not waste. They are a part of his life. They are the way for him to develop. As a man becomes mature, however, he can overdo play. It becomes a waste of his life.

The biggest waste is the waste of time—life. And most waste comes from doing things that give a transitory satisfaction but are not cumulative and tend to weaken the body and the mind and the character of the individual. They tend to put him in bondage to his appetite or his transitory pleasures.

Individuals would not waste so much if they were not assisted in their waste by government. Government is the means usually used to promote enormous waste. Individuals are not able to waste very much as individuals, but when they get control of the lives of other people by way of aggressive force — that is, by way of government — they are capable of causing waste to increase and increase until it finally enslaves the individual.

Now, just how is the government so capable of causing so much waste? It causes it by passing laws that violate the Decalogue and the Declaration of Independence. In other words, it causes waste by man - made, legalized laws that violate eternal laws that no man made or can un-make.

These wastes might be summarized as government giving certain group monopolies over certain services and interfering with each man being owner of himself and all he produces. It also interferes with men having the right to freely exchange what they have produced.

Examples

Probably the greatest example of waste caused by government is giving the state — the government — a monopoly on schooling. Of course, they aren't strong enough yet to prevent a parent from secretly instructing his child, but he cannot do it fully and publicly. He can only do it at the sufferance of the state. In almost every state where parents have tried to educate their children they have always lost out, by the government courts taking away from them the right to educate their own children.

It also gives the state the right to enslave the youth of the land and make him attend school when he has no will to learn. This is a waste of life of the youth who has no desire for book learning and a waste of time and material for those who are obliged to try to put up with pupils" who have no will to learn from books. Everyone has a will to learn something but their tastes and capabilities are entirely different but the state that tries to play God tries to mold them all under the same pattern.

The reason this part of government is such a great waste is that it misinforms people and teaches them to believe there are no natural eternal laws like the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence which govern human relations as the physical laws that govern the movement of the celestial bodies. And when the youth of the land have been so trained, the result is laws that interfere with people freely exchanging goods and services, such laws as the minimum wage law, protective tariffs, the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti - Trust Law, the Norris-Laguardia Law, the Wagner Law, the Taft Hartley Law, and the law that gives the banks the privilege of pyramiding credit five times their capital.

And all these laws that violate these eternal principles lead to war, and, of course, everyone recognizes that war is a great waste. They lead not only to war between nations, but they lead to wars between citizens in the same state and business. They lead to strikes and strikes are nothing but civil war, which is a great waste of human energy and material.

And, of course, waste leads to want. John Patt observed: "Waste not, want not, is the law of nature."

Many people like to make a great display and think that is grandeur, but William Mason said waste is not grandeur.

An old saying, an English proverb, is: "Spare the spigot and let out at the bunghole." And that is what we're doing with the government attempting to stop a little individual waste and opening the bunghole to a stupendous government waste.

It might be contended that civilization is the process of learning what waste leads to. If civilization is the process of setting men free from aggressive force or fraud, then that also is a definition of eliminating waste.

Would that more people would understand the blessings that come from thrift. The only person who can be injured by the accumulation of capital is the person who has it given to him. This need not injure that person if he becomes a steward of that wealth, but if he uses it to waste his life and energy then that inheritance injures him. But wealth that is created in the world materially benefits everybody in the world.

If You Want To Get Ahead

Fair Enough

How Industry Copes With Labor Unions

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

It would be impossible for a Scandinavian industrial firm to break the solid front of employers in a strike across-the-country as the Kaiser family broke the front in the steel strike here. The employers' union would have legal rights, enforceable in the public courts. It could recover damages and might be able to destroy the "Kaiser" by boycott.

A firm which joins the association must obey all the rules of the grand, overall body and of its particular subordinate group. It cannot deal separately with a labor union. The subordinate group usually is composed of companies in the same field, although region as well as the nature of the business may be considered.

The employers pay dues directly to the Norwegian Employers' Federation. They also pay fees to their subordinate groups.

Dues and fees are unalike in this way: Dues are obligatory to the grand association, based on the principal of the payroll tax. Fees are paid for services by a staff of more or less expert specialists. They provide economic and statistical information.

The overall association has absolute ultimate authority to approve or reflect agreements and to negotiate with unions. This is a continuing service, not often dramatic these days. The federation supplies educational services to an institute for industrial foremen. In our country this probably would be felonious practice in the view of the Labor Relations Board. Under the old Wagner Act written by Felix Frankfurter's communist friend, Less Pressman, it would have constituted "coercion" by the employer.

The four Scandinavian countries are united in almost all phases of the matters which I am discussing. Accordingly, the organized employers hold a joint meeting through a high committee once a year. In these little nations, often viewed with longing eyes by Americans, the employer has no more individuality for freedom than the worker. But he can fight the unions through his own union.

Industry - wide "bargaining" is established whereas we forbid it under many laws, mostly federal. Thus, our steel workers' union can make the same demands on all employers, regardless of their economic health or other considerations, but our steel industry must not appear to be acting in concert. There have been venturesome deviations from this old habit, as in the case of the passenger airlines which now have a timid agreement to help one another in strike trouble. But they probably would develop a "Kaiser" in their midst in a prolonged strike even if the Department of Justice did not interfere.

As a rule, each new member of the employers' federation must pay five crowns (ranging from 75 cents to a dollar, American) for each adult male employee when he joins. The fee for each minor male and each female is half that much. The employer also pays an annual fee for each adult male and half as much for each minor male and each female. The voting power of the members and of their respective industries is proportionate to the number of employees for whom they have paid these imposts. There is also a payroll tax to the employers' union of one-half of one per cent, reduced by half in 1949 because the treasury was swollen and at loss for legitimate places of investment.

The fees, discussed above, are not much more than the cost of the services which they bespeak. But the dues can roll up to enormous totals available as a war chest to defend members who have been struck, to reimburse them for losses caused by strikes and to reimburse brother firms in the common front whose plants are closed down by lockouts ordered from the topmost authority.

Just before the second war the treasury available for such defense was about $8,700,000. The kitty is still abundant for emergencies. The power to draw on the financial strength of all the industries in proportion to their payrolls to defend companies under attack is awe-inspiring. Here, a similar custom would raise steel and motors to equality at least with the unions which beset them. Not only are Scandinavian firms reimbursed for actual strike losses, but those which are ordered by the common front of industry to shut down and lock out workers in sympathy with stricken firms also are reimbursed.

We are dealing with a miniature and with a people who know one another as intimately as the Irish know their neighbors.

There are only 544,000 workers in the Norwegian job-trust, known as LO, the equivalent of our AFL-CIO.

There are 8,500 organized employers with a payroll of about $210,000. The union workers not accounted for in this disparity apparently work for companies outside the federation.

The Doctor Says:

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Like all other skin areas, the scalp is constantly shedding its outer layers. This process is normal and continuous and usually attracts no particular attention.

When the scalp sheds in somewhat larger than average flakes, the condition has been called dandruff.

When attention is drawn to the flakes of dandruff in the hair or on the collar, the condition becomes a disease not of the scalp but of the mind of the self conscious person afflicted.

Dandruff itself is NOT a scalp affliction It is NOT due to infection with any specific bug. It is NOT an indication of bad hygiene.

Indeed, it is often made worse by daily hair washing with medicated soaps.

Despite cunningly contrived sales lures that aim to cajole the consumer into purchase of a "dandruff cure," you can have an awful lot of dandruff without becoming bald.

Here's how to make scaling of the scalp less noticeable:

Wash the hair no more than twice weekly.

Use any nationally advertised sudsing detergent as a shampoo in place of soap.

Each day rub in any nationally advertised preparation of non-medicated dimethicone or silicone oil morning and night. Each of these suggested products is readily identified by its descriptive label as required by the Food and Drug administration. Your druggist can help you get them.

I hate to kill false hope among the bald, but when the hair follicles are completely destroyed by disease, radioactivity or poison, hair tonics have no more effect on your scalp than they would have if you rubbed them on a billiard ball.

When the hair follicles are damaged but capable of recovery, hair will grow whether the tonic is rubbed on the scalp or not.

If there were a true "hair tonic," there would be no bald barbers or skin specialist. Television personalities wouldn't have to wear toupees.

As matters now stand, those with naked scalps might better look before they rub.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — As every visitor to New York knows, we are in the throes of tearing up the middle section of Manhattan island for perhaps the 40th time in its long and gaudy history and all manner of stainless steel and glass spears are thrusting into the sky. Park Avenue from Grand Central to 57th Street has all but ceased to be residential and thanks to $25,000,000 in British money, some alert chaps are about to put a 57-story wunderhutte over the railway station itself. In the last few years of all this rush of buildings to its head, Manhatten has gone in for making things pleasant and dramatic for sidewalk strollers who like to stop and look down into the excavations.

Recent examples offered genuine Sidewalk Superintendents have been oval glass inserts in the wooden walls surrounding the excavations, framed daily bulletins in Olde English script describing the day's construction plans and in the case of a building at 53d Street and Park they even had a mellifluous male voice doing a running description bit over a set of loud speakers set into the wall. One of the commentators was not only a learned fellow but he had a sense of humor and elected to give the working stiffs down in the rock well real stature as experts.

"Mr. Harry Jones," he would say, "the gentlemen in the black and white wool jacket, the one approaching the shoulder of rock there in the Northwest corner of our excavation, is a renowned detonationist and is about to implant six sticks of dynamite in that rock. If you have time, please wait to observe what we all hope will be a spectacular explosion leading to disintegration of the stubborn rock. Mr. Jones estimates it is 11 minutes to Moment Zero. Standby for countdown."

Naturally, this excavation was a big hit and drew larger and more loyal audiences than even "My Fair Lady." You almost had to reserve a place by a good window. A building at 53d and Fifth, notable now for being 666 Fifth Ave., for being covered with quilted aluminum and for having a restaurant on its top floor, went even beyond when it was being constructed. It hired notable artists to cover its construction wall with amusing and sometimes slightly naughty paintings of the workmen, and the workmen were invited to brush their own commentary into balloons leading out from the mouths of the painted workers. The electrical group vied to be funnier and more audacious than, say, the steel men and the cement men did their best to be funnier than the framing men. All New York wandered by this job to keep up with the day's jests.

But all of these have been paled by a construction job on Park Avenue at 55th. There the excavation crew, whanging drills into the hard rock, has a collection of strong - voiced fellows working the sledges and bawling out the Anvil Chorus with precision and vim. When not giving opera workout as they hammer the steel drills into the rock of our island they go in for Southern and railway work songs, like that marvellous rhythm chant "The Rock Island Line," which Leadbelly used to do so well. Not only do they sing at the top of their lungs in perfect unison and with charm but they grin as they do it, proving that they are having a wonderful time while earning $38 a day. The other afternoon, in the wan sunshine, they did a sensational rendition of a true Dixie railway workers' chant that went: "Gotta see Ole Henry —whump! Yes, indeed, Ole Henry — whump! Henry's the man to see — whump! He's the one with my money — whump!" At each whump a sledge landed solid on a drill head. If David Merrick had strolled by I think he would have commissioned his composers and writers to do a musical comedy based on the scene and the theme.

If this kind of deep excavation showmanship continues it is not beyond imagining that soon we shall have costumed work crews, rehearsed by Sir John Gielgud, with costumes by Lucinda Ballard and shoes by I. Miller, together with a printed program of events like a theater program.

In any case, if you have an hour or so the next time you visit New York, don't neglect our building excavations and the colorful crews that dig them. These are artists, clowns, show offs, stars and performers, able at their work and totally aware that up above them on the fenced sidewalk, peering through glass windows is an appreciative audience.
