Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT
CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (AP)—Despite Liverpool quotations higher than expected, and notwithstanding notable strength of sterling, wheat prices turned downward early today.

Opening unchanged to 5-8 lower, May 1.00 3-8 to 3-4, wheat then sagged all around. Corn started 1-8 to 3-8 off, May 60 to 60 1-8, and soon declined further.

Wheat closed unstable at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 cent lower, May 1.00 to 1.00 1-8, corn, 1-4 to 7-8 down, May 59 7-8 to 60, oats unchanged to 1-8 off, and provisions varying from 20 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT
NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 1 to 9 lower on disappointing Liverpool cables and under liquidation and southern selling. Jan. 11.78; March 11.09; May 10.75; July 10.45; Oct. 10.01; Dec. 10.00.

Trading was moderately active with cotton interests inclined to await clarification of the tentative proposal for a new farm program based on soil conservation.

Transactions were somewhat mixed. Liverpool was credited with buying while the far east and the continent were sellers. Houses with southern connections were sellers of summer positions, and prices were fairly steady at losses of about 3 to 12 points at the end of the first hour.

Prices renewed their sagging tendency later in the morning when selling developed from Liverpool sources and offerings from locals in the south followed. March contracts eased from 11.10 to 11.03 and Oct. from 10.04 to 9.88, or to net losses of 13 to 20 points, except Jan., which was only 5 points lower. Prices at mid-day were within a point or so of the lowest.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 13 (AP)—Poor cables touched off sufficient selling here today to bring a decline of 9 to 14 points in cotton futures at the start of the new week's trading.

With domestic trade waiting to see what the government would do to replace the farm benefit program, the market took its lead from foreign exchangts.

Jan. showed the sharpest decline at the opening call, losing 14 points to 11.54, while March at 11.04, May at 10.88, and Oct. at 9.99 were off an average of 50 cents a bale.

The Supreme court's decision on the processing tax and the dismissal of the Bankhead act suit had little immediate reflection in prices. The volume of business accelerated and in the case of July and October ran up to small net gains, but other positions held around opening levels.

Jan. sold at 11.68, March at 11.13, May at 10.78, Jly at 10.48 and Oct. at 10.08 soon after the court's ruling was made public.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT
NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP)—The stock market found few surprises in today's Supreme court decisions and selection buying of oil, packing and specialty issues kept the list generally pointed upward.

The utilities were the best performers in early trading, but when the expected TVA decision was not handed down, the majority of power shares lost their buoyancy. The activity was not pronounced during the greater part of the session. A few of the recently conspicuous gainers backed up under realizing.

Cotton sagged at the start, but came back when the high tribunal dismissed the Bankhead case. Grains were lower. Rail bonds were in demand and U. S. government securities improved. The dollar steadied in foreign exchange transactions.

Among share gainers of fractions to around a point were Du Pont, Santa Fe, Ohio Oil, Standard Oil of N. J., Wilson & Co., Armour, Sparks Withington, U. S. Steel and Standard Brands. Down as much were Westinghouse, Liggett & Myers "B," General Motors, United Aircraft and Boeing. Most of the rails, steels and motors were narrow. Air Reduction dropped 8 points on a small turnover.

Administration leaders, faced with the problem of raising an estimated $500,000,000 a year to finance the program, are considering an effort to enact most of the old processing taxes as excise levies. Many AAA officials believe, it is said, that the Supreme court decision invalidating AAA left the way open to excise taxes if they are not linked with payments to farmers which the court considers coercive.

Resemblances Striking

Many observers saw striking resemblances in the aims of the old AAA and the new program, although the latter will be carefully drawn in an attempt to meet the Supreme court's objections to AAA.

The farm representatives who are remaining here will not "picket" in the ordinary sense, with placards, but their presence will be felt in the deliberations leading to actual legislation.

L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange which always has been known among major farm groups as a friendly enemy of AAA, said the action of farm leaders in adopting the principles of the Agricultural Adjustment act as a foundation for substitute legislation was "good psychology."

He intimated opposing ideas had been subordinated to the interest of harmony but that they would be given full play when drafting of the new act got underway.

Received No Reply

Lamb said Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, wrote Finnigan two days later and asked that he supply additional details so the matter could be investigated, but no reply was received.

The Chicago attorney had first reported the matter to the bureau of investigation of the department of justice in New York and Washington, Lamb said.

Dodds and Burkinshaw were retained by a group of prominent Washington citizens to act for Charles Harris, sentenced to die in January, 1935, for the slaying of Milton Harris, a Washington gambler. He has been convicted on circumstantial evidence.

FDR Steps In

They won a reprieve and subsequent commutation to life imprisonment from President Roosevelt.

Fisher would not explain why they have been engaged. He also declined to say if he would seek a writ of habeas corpus in federal district court at Newark today, but such an action is one of the three remaining means by which the execution can be stayed.

While lawyers drafted their last minute plans, Anna Hauptmann knelt in the Trinity Lutheran church here and, scarcely noticed, prayed that the life of her husband be spared.

Governor Hoffman, who once visited Hauptmann in the death cell and who has said he does not believe Hauptmann's execution will solve the Lindbergh case, was asked in New York yesterday if he intended to halt the execution, set for 8 p. m. Friday.

"I don't know yet what I am going to do about it," he said.

He reiterated that there were "plenty of precedents" under New Jersey law for a 90-day reprieve.

Reports Denied

There were reports that the governor told the court of pardons he could, if he desired, repieve Hauptmann for as long as he (the governor) held office, but from other sources close to the court these reports were denied.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who directed the prosecution of Hauptmann, indicated today that if the governor should grant a reprieve he would not challenge its legality.

Hauptmann Calm

At the state prison Col. Mark O. Kimbreling, warden, went forward with arrangements for the execution. Hauptmann, he said, retains his characteristic calm.

Tears came to Hauptmann's eyes when his lawyer broke to him the news that the pardon board had refused clemency, but his only comment was:

"I have told the truth. I can tell no other story."

There was some opinion that the opening of the legislature tomorrow might be accompanied by an airing of the case.

A statement by former State Senator Emerson Richards charged that Governor Hoffman saw in the case a chance to bolster his chances for the Republican presidential or vice presidential nomination.

"an increased purchasing power by retiring four and one-half million men and women over 60 years old from active and gainful employment at $200 per month and replacing them with young men and women, while eight million men and women allotted $200 per month make jobs for seven and one-half million more."

This, he said, would "create buying power and prosperity, the results of forced circulation of money and regulated labor."

Price, a native of Louisiana, has lived in Texas 35 years. He said he "has never gotten over" several years of experience in actual farming in Texas and other states. He said he had devoted many years to the study of "fundamental economic government."

SUPREME COURT

tuating the regulation of agriculture, production, a matter not within the power of congress."

In deciding that impounded taxes must be returned the court said:

"We have no occasion to discuss or decide whether section 21 (d) affords an adequate remedy at law. As yet the petitioner has not paid the taxes to the respondents, and, in view of the decision in the Butler (AAA) case, hereafter cannot be required so to do.

Would Be Trespasser

"If the respondent should now attempt to collect the tax by distraint he would be a trespasser. The decree of the district court will be vacated, and appropriate order entered directing the repayment to the petitioner of the funds impounded . . . and the cause remanded to the district court for the entry of a decree enjoining selection of the assailed exaction. A similar disposition will be made of the companion cases."

The section 21 (d) referred to by the court would prohibit refunds of the processing taxes already paid to the government unless the taxpayer could show that he had not passed the tax on to others.

Officials Defer Comment

Due to intricacies of the decision, administration officials deferred comment pending study.

It took its place in the record being made on the New Deal in the court.

This showed to date the two major ventures thrown out, NRA and AAA on unanimous and six to three decisions respectively; a qualified five to four victory in the gold cases; a loss by the same margin on railroad retirement legislation; and eight to one and nine to none adverse ruling on "hot oil" regulation and the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium. The president's removal of a trade commissioner, the late William Humphrey, also was held improper.

Law Still On Books

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala), author of the cotton law, heard that action in the court room and said it meant "we still have the Bankhead act on the statute books."

"The department of agriculture has the power to save the cotton farmer by proceeding with operation of the Bankhead act.

"It will save this year's crop."

The rice ruling was on a case brought by eight Louisiana rice milling companies.

Contended Section Invalid

They had contended the section of the AAA amendments, requiring proof that they had borne the cost themselves before obtaining a refund was invalid.

The rice millers insisted they could not prove who bore the expense of the processing levy. They said in their business the various lots of rice were handled together and it could not be ascertained what happened to the individual consignment.

The government claimed the millers should "pay first and litigate later." It asserted suits for injunctions against taxes were barred by federal statutes and by the AAA amendments.

Dismiss Petitions

The federal district court and the circuit court of appeals at New Orleans agreed with the government and dismissed the millers' petitions. The courts said they were without jurisdiction to enjoin the tax collection.

In agreeing to review the dispute, the Supreme court granted a temporary injunction to continue until its final ruling. Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo dissented from the review.

Of the $1,200,000,000 processing taxes collected, approximately $200,000,000 was impounded in federal courts. Rice collections to Oct. 1 totalled $153,974. It was expected they would have been $12,000,000 by next June 30.

Commissioners Are To Talk Salaries

Discussions preparatory to fixing salaries for county officials were entered into by members of the commissioners' court at their morning session. The meeting will be continued this afternoon.

The court heard Justice of the Peace J. J. Dillard; J. C. Roberts, constable; and J. A. Wright, deputy constable, in their requests that precinct officers be placed on a salary, in place of retaining the present fee system.

Before considering the salary provisions, the court approved monthly reports from county officials.
