House Moves Toward OK Of Arms Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House appeared certain today to pass without major changes a bill to give the Defense Department $33,665,066,000 in new money for the coming fiscal year.

A day of debate yesterday disclosed no major opposition to the allotments recommended by the Appropriations Committee for the Army, Navy and the Air Force. A few members voiced belief that some of the $512,784,000 chopped by the committee from President Eisenhower's requests should be restored.

But Rep. Mahon (D-Tex), floor manager of the bill, told newsmen he didn't believe the House would make any major alterations.

Mahon jolted his colleagues by his opening remark that the United States and Russia have "just about" reached the point where each has "the full capability to destroy the other."

The opposing world powers, he said, are on the threshold of "atomic plenty" and are moving toward a position of "mutual deterrence."

It soon may be, he said, that both sides will realize that there can be no winner in war and "the argument as to which side is the stronger will be somewhat pointless."

But until then, he cautioned, the only answer to the present day situation appears to be to provide more and more money.

Rep. Scrivner (R-Kan) said that in total air strength this country outclasses and outnumbers Russia "by more than 2 to 1." But he said defense spending must remain at the rate of about 35 billion dollars a year "just so long as Russia remains a menace to our security."

Rep. Flood (D-Pa) said the United States no longer has "the biggest or best" army or air force —"somebody else has."

SMALL HANDS SAVE SISTER

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Four-year-old John Lande stopped digging worms long enough yesterday to stick a dirty hand down his baby sister's throat and possibly saved her life.

Mrs. Irving Lande said that while she was talking on the telephone her 19-month-old baby put a bottle cap in her mouth and it lodged in her throat She said she tried desperately to dislodge it. The baby began turning blue and she yelled for someone to call an ambulance. At this point, little Johnny ran indoors, put his hand down his sister's throat and came out with the bottle cap.

Johnny had been digging worms with his hands.

Russia Opens Cultural Drive In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—You can buy a new Russian car in Argentina.

You can also shop for Czech trucks and Hungarian factory machinery.

And if you are curious about life in the Soviet Union, a Soviet cultural center will be happy to explain all about it.

Indications are that Russia has opened a trade and cultural offensive to win friends and customers in this Southern Hemisphere country of 19 million. The drive is apparently a direct follow-up of the economic lure dangled before Latin America recently by Soviet Bulganin told an interviewer his government is ready to furnish technical aid and more trade to Latin America. He cited as likely Soviet exports industrial equipment, timber, oil, cement, chemical products and agricultural machinery. He said Russia would take numerous diverse Latin-American products.

The best indication that the Kremlin means business is a report from Moscow that Soviet trade expert Anastas Mikoyan, a first deputy premier, plans to visit Argentina and other Latin-American nations soon.

An outfit called "Moskvich Argentina," with an announced capital of 2½ million pesos (around $52,500), has opened a swank showroom in Buenos Aires. The firm bills itself as "exclusive distributors in the Argentine republic of Soviet automobiles and trucks Moskvich and MAZ-200."

The Moskvich, a small four-door sedan with a 32-horsepower, four-cylinder engine, is advertised to sell for 142,700 pesos. That's around $3,000 at the present free market exchange rate. The firm's MAZ-200 truck is listed at 297,700 pesos (approximately $6,250).

Such prices sound high but the cars are the cheapest for sale in Argentina, U.S. Fords and Chevrolets run around $8,500.

One reason is the low price the Russians set originally. Another is the Argentine surtax on foreign cars, which rises steeply from 80,000 pesos (about $1,700) on the small Russian and European makes to 275,000 pesos on Fords and Chevrolets.

The Russians have installed cultural centers in at least nine of Argentina's major cities. These sponser lecturers, publications, movies and other forms of propaganda. The center in Mendoza also gives Russian language courses.

Judge Restores Bus Segregation

Cites Tension In Alabama Boycott

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones, taking note of racial tension and unrest here, yesterday ordered Montgomery city lines to discontinue a desegregation policy on city buses.

Jones held that segregation on buses which operate solely within states has not yet been outlawed by the U.S. Supreme Court and added that nothing in the federal Constitution prohibits it.

On these grounds, the veteran jurist ordered the bus company to "comply and abide" by city and state laws which forbid mixing of races on public conveyances.

In Chicago, Vice President Benjamin W. Franklin of National City Lines, Inc., parent firm of the Montgomery company, said: "We will obey the injunction, of course." He said no decision had been made by the company on future legal action, if any.

The National City Lines announced it was adopting a policy of desegregation after the Supreme Court's April 23 decision which dismissed an appeal from the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals. That court had held that separation of the races on Columbia, S.C., buses was unconstitutional and had sent the case back to the original trial court to determine the question of damages.

The Supreme Court's decision had been interpreted as outlawing segregation on city or intrastate buses, but some lawyers now contend it did not.

Actually there have been no reports of desegregation aboard buses. Negroes are continuing their five-month-old boycott of city buses in protest over the seating arrangements.

City officials, in filing their injunction petition, said desegregation on city buses more than likely would bring about violence and possible rioting.

"A situation of tension and unrest has been created in the city of Montgomery, which is likely to explode into violence at any time, if not restrained," Judge Jones said in his decision.

"There is no straight-out decision of the Supreme Court of the United States holding that a state or city may not require the separation of the races on buses where carriage of passengers is solely intrastate," he said.

Power claimed for the federal government in the South Carolina bus case "does not exist and never has existed," Jones said. "It is a power reserved to the states and their people."

* * *

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—The South Carolina Public Service Commission said in a statement today that state law requiring segregation of intrastate bus and railroad passengers "are in full force and effect."

The commission said a recent U. S. Supreme Court dismissal of an appeal in a case involving segregation on Columbia buses "has no effect on the validity or enforcibility of the laws of this state."

The Supreme Court declined to hear the appeal in the case by the bus operators from a 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The commission apparently was following the opinion of State Atty. Gen. T. C. Callison who said recently "this question is unsettled as far as the Supreme Court is concerned. In other words, it (the court's refusal to hear the appeal) isn't conclusive. It hasn't rendered a final decision on intrastate transportation."

The commission's statement said that since the Columbia case had not been tried on its merits in the district court, there has been no final judgment in the case. The statement added that "the Supreme Court's action therefore merely means that the case is not yet ripe for its decision."

24 Rockets Are Set Off Accidentally

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—Two buildings were struck today when 24 rockets were set off accidentally while being unloaded from a Sabre Jet plane at Selfridge Air Force Base.

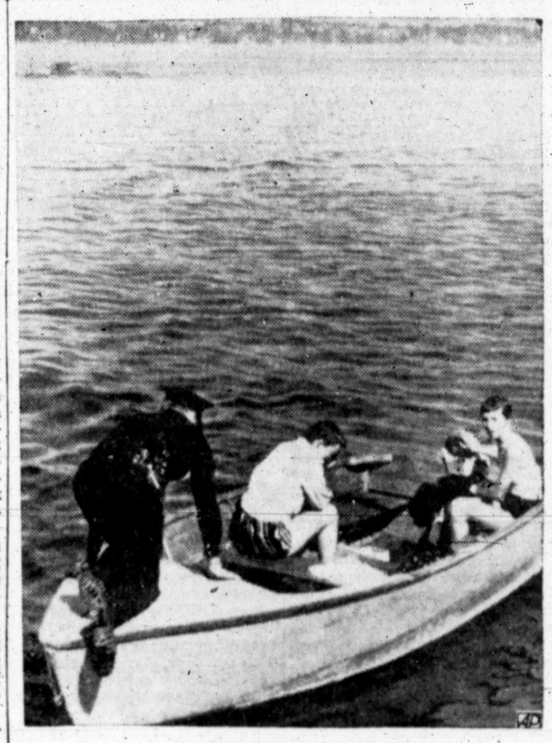

An Air Force man was burned when the missiles shot out from the plane's rocket pod.

One rocket shot into a home about two miles east of Mount Clemens. Another hit a building in the salvage yard at the base.

Base officials said the rockets apparently were set off by an electrical short in the firing mechanism. The missiles were in a pod being lowered from the plane's fuselage.

Officials warned people not to touch or handle any rockets they might find. Police sealed off a two-mile square area while officers attempted to retrieve the unexploded rockets.

A girl found one rocket in front of the L'Anse Cruse school and took it into the building. Air Force personnel hastened to the school to remove the firing mechanism.

Red Arms Cut Not Peace, Says Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today it is quite possible the Soviet Union has cut its armed forces and may reduce them more. But he said the purpose is not peace and the free world must keep its guard up.

Winding up the administration's appeal to the House Foreign Affairs Committee for a $4,900,000,000 foreign aid authorization, Dulles said nothing has yet happened in the world situation to make it "prudent to terminate or curtail" the program.

Chairman Richards (D-SC) has said the committee may cut the authorization by as much as 1½ billion dollars.

Dulles said there are some "germs of high favorable developments" in Russia. Speaking of open newspaper debate on Stalin and other issues, Dulles said these might indicate some concession to public opinion by the Soviet leaders.

"Our long range purpose," he said, "is to accelerate the day when the Soviet Union will be a decent state to do business with."

But the secretary said that when he speaks of such a development he is thinking in terms of "10 years or even a generation."

Meanwhile, he said, if the Soviet leaders are allowed to have successes abroad with their new professions of peaceful intentions and offers of economic aid, the pressure on them to relax at home may be reduced — "people might say, we are succeeding so well abroad, let's go on the way we have."

Dulles said he thinks the Soviet Union may be overextending itself by carrying on extensive developments in new weapons, guided missiles, increased industrial base and intensified agriculture all at once.

Eden Lashed On Frogman Mystery

LONDON (AP)—Laborites today launched a major parliamentary attack on Prime Minister Eden for failing to clear up the British frogman mystery.

Newspapers of various political views also called on Eden to tell what happened to Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, the diver who disappeared April 19 near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze in Portsmouth Harbor.

Eden found himself projected into the eye of a political storm. Public interest in the case appeared to be building up. The powerful and independent Times thought that this was "an unsavory affair."

In Parliament and out, Eden's refusal to discuss the case in the House of Commons yesterday was interpreted — rightly or wrongly —as meaning that Crabb was operating on secret service orders and lost his life while trying to spy out underwater secrets of the 12,800 - ton Ordzhonikidze. The cruiser brought Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev on their visit to Britain last month.

Prison Escapee Arrested Here

Police patrolmen picked up a man Tuesday night for vagrancy, ran a routine check on his record, and found him to be an escaped convict from California.

He is being held now in city jail for transfer back to the west coast.

Patrolmen Jack Jones and James Sewell made the arrest of Jess Broadwater at the west viaduct Tuesday night on a vagrancy charge and held him in the city jail overnight.

Wednesday morning, the department sent out a routine check before releasing him, and immediately a call came from Folsom, Calif., that he had escaped from the state prison there.

No word was given as to how long he had been gone, but they said he was serving five to 15 years there for burglary.

Broadwater told the police he has served a term for burglary in Oklahoma but didn't mention the California escape during interrogation Wednesday.

He was taken to the district attorney's office here this morning and signed a waive to extradition proceedings. Officials from the Folsom state prison notified the police here they were sending men immediately to take Broadwater back.

Attorney Recalled For Caudle Trial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The government called Ben L. Shifrin, St. Louis attorney for shoe manufacturer Irving Sachs, back to the stand today in the trial of two former high Truman administration officials accused of sidetracking Sachs' tax evasion case.

Accused are Matthew J. Connelly, a former Truman White House secretary; T. Lamar Caudle, onetime head of the Justice Department's tax division; and Harry I. Schwimmer, former Kansas City attorney for Sachs.

Shifrin testified yesterday he met with Schwimmer in Kansas City in 1947 relative to Schwimmer's becoming counsel for Sachs in the tax case. Shifron said David L. Sheffrey, a Kansas City attorney for Sachs, had recommended Schwimmer as the "right man" to handle the case.

A former Treasury Department attorney, Frederick Seltzer of Kansas City, testified that he was told Connelly had arranged for a delay in prosecution of the Sachs case. Sachs was fined $40,000 for tax evasion in 1951.

Seltzer, third witness called in the federal court trial which began Monday, said that in a chance Kansas City meeting in 1949 Schwimmer told him "Matt Connelly had arranged with the Department of Justice to have the investigation continued so that Schwimmer could take all the time necessary to recuperate from a heart attack."

Seltzer said Schwimmer, who had suffered a heart attack a short time before, brought Connelly's name into the conversation about the tax case.

On cross-examination, the former Treasury Department attorney said he saw nothing wrong with the continuance on the basis of what Schwimmer told him.

Earlier Seltzer had testified Schwimmer in a 1948 conference told about a meeting with "the chief" at the White House before discussing the case. The reference to "the chief" went unexplained.

The government charges Schwimmer gave oil leases to Connelly and Caudle for their help in the Sachs case.

A letter from Caudle to the U.S. district attorney at St. Louis, urging prosecution of Sachs, was read into the trial in a surprise move yesterday.

Ernest M. Flinn, St. Louis director of Internal Revenue and an intelligence agent for the Revenue Service in the Sachs case, had failed to recall the letter under cross-examination.

Four Votes Cast In Bond Election

Four absentee votes had been cast by noon today in the $900,000 school bond issue election, John Dibrell, school board secretary, reported.

The absentee voting period ends Friday night. The election will be held next Tuesday.

The proposed bond issue includes $510,000 for revamping the junior high school, $250,000 for elementary schools and $140,000 for athletic facilities.

The absentee ballots may be marked at Dibrell's Sporting Goods store, 304½ Gregg.

SCHOOL EXPANSION

Bonds Proposed To Ease Problem

(This is one of a series of articles designed to acquaint the public with reasons which school officials believe establish the need for facilities proposed under a $900,000 bond issue up for decision on May 15. — Ed.)

Big Spring chool trustees have proposed a $760,000 solution to the problem of overcrowding in the city's junior high and elementary schools.

The $760,000 and $140,000 for expansion of athletic facilities make up the $900,000 bond issue proposal on which voters will rule next Tuesday. Nothing is provided in the proposed issue for high school expansion. The present high school plant is considered adequate, at least for another year or two.

Most of the proposed bond issue will be for relief of the critical junior high situation, if the proposition is approved by voters.

Trustees currently plan a $510,000 expansion of junior high school.

Some of this, the exact amount not yet determined, will be for renovation of the present junior high school. The balance will go toward starting a second junior high school for the city. School authorities and architects say it is impossible to present an adequate program in present quarters for the 1,170 students presently enrolled. They also say it is impractical to attempt to operate a junior high for more than about 900 students.

Consequently, trustees propose to overhaul the present building to take full advantage of its capacity and start a new junior high for the overflow.

Renovation, still in the planning stage, will include the installation of restrooms on the second or third floor, provision of office space for principal's staff, nurses and others, the conversion of the Central Ward building to junior high purposes, the establishment of additional laboratories for science classes, and enlargement of the library.

The plan also involves the conversion of the school administrative building, adjacent to the junior high, to junior high use. Administrative quarters will be transferred to South Ward, which also will be closed as far as elementary classes are concerned.

Trustees won't know until investigation of the old building is complete just ho much they will have available from the $510,000 for the start of a new junior high. However, preliminary studies have indicated that the funds will be sufficient to purchase a site and construct basic facilities.

Construction of about 18 additional elementary classrooms, for which $250,000 is proposed in the bond issue, will be necessary to offset the closing of the nine classrooms in Central and South Ward schools and to get the remainder of elementary pupils off half-day sessions. At present, there are 22 elementary groups on the half-day schedule.

The school board proposes to construct six additional rooms at the overflowing North Ward school, three at West Ward, three at the Lakeview elementary plant, and six at either College Heights, Park Hill or in the vicinity of the proposed military housing project for Webb Air Force Base.

The Air Force's recent request for a school near the housing area has complicated the elementary picture. Trustees know they won't have sufficient funds to construct an adequate facility, but they plan

HERE FRIDAY

Economist Due To Introduce Book

Dr. Sidney Miller, economist in the School of Business Administration, Pittsburgh, Pa., University, was to arrive here this afternoon for the introduction of his book, "Tomorrow in West Texas."

Dr. Miller will speak and the 633-page volume will be released at the American Business Club luncheon in the Settles ballroom Friday.

The book covers material Dr. Miller gathered in the late 1940's in an economic survey of West Texas. Cooperating in the survey was the Texas & Pacific Railway which will have several representatives here for introduction of the book.

The Texas Tech Press published the book which is copyrighted by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

A number of Big Spring businessmen and civic leaders are to be on hand for Dr. Miler's talk. Representatives also are expected from other towns in this area.

The economic study report is being released at a series of towns in the T&P area of West Texas. Similar meetings were set at Mineral Wells and Abilene.

A breakfast honoring Dr. Miller and the T&P officials is being planned for Friday morning, J. H. Green, Chamber of Commerce manager, reported. He said invitations were to be extended this afternoon.

Dr. Miller and A. A. Siler, L. C. Porter and J. J. Finnegan of the T&P were to arrive by special rail car this afternoon. They will depart Friday night.

Greene said several West Texas Chamber of Commerce officials may accompany the group.

Ike Seeking Another Demo For High Post

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Eisenhower was reported authoritatively today to be looking around for another widely known Democrat he can appoint to a high post in his administration.

This would follow up his offer yesterday to name retiring Sen. George (D-Ga) as his personal ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

George, who announced he won't run again but will serve out his present term, said he may be available for the post in January.

George's announcement of retirement was followed a few hours later by a formal statement from former Georgia Gov. Herman Talmadge that he will seek the Democratic Senate nomination in the Sept. 24 primary.

Talmadge has been campaigning informally for months, and it was generally anticipated that he would give George strong opposition.

George gave no reason for reversing a previous decision to run again, although his doctor spoke of health considerations. The senator is 78.

Anti-Talmadge forces were reported looking around for a primary opponent for the son of the late Eugene Talmadge. Those named as most likely included former Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson, defeated by Talmadge in 1948, and Earle Cocke Jr., Atlanta airlines executive and former American Legion national commander.

At Atlanta, Talmadge praised the retiring Senate dean and said if he is elected "it shall be my purpose to seek the advice and wise counsel of Sen. George often." He indicated his campaign will be keyed to maintenance of racial segregation.

George now serves as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and congressional spokesman for the Democrats on foreign policy. In the NATO position, he would have a hand in new efforts to expand that organization's role beyond a purely military one.

The offer of that post was generally viewed among Democratic senators as representing a White House effort to temper their party's criticism of adminstration foreign policies in a campaign year.

Denying this was the aim, a high administration official said, however, that Eisenhower would like to find a "cooperative" Democrat he could name to some responsible position. This source did not indicate whether Eisenhower had a particular job in mind.

The offer to George was represented in administration quarters as having been made on the basis of Eisenhower's personal liking for the senator and in recognition of George's support of many administration programs.

George's decision to retire evidently was made without a specific offer from Eisenhower.

The Senate laid aside business yesterday for bipartisan praise of George. However, some Democrats made it clear that the gesture to him won't cause them to call off campaign criticism of administration foreign policies.

Democrat Leaders Fire New Salvos At GOP Administration

By The Associated Press

Democratic leaders fired new broadsides at the Republican administration as a cleanup of returns showed President Eisenhower received 58 per cent of the total vote in Tuesday's Indiana primary.

In Los Angeles, Adlai Stevenson said last night the Eisenhower administration is failing to cope with social problems and is "devoting a smaller percentage of our national income for our social welwe were 20 years ago."

Stevenson, campaigning for California's 68 votes at the Democratic presidential nominating convention, advocated broadened federal aid programs in education, medical care and old age benefits.

At Oxnard, Calif., Sen. Estes Kefauver, who is opposing Stevenson in the June 5 California primary, told a crowd in the town plaza that "if the administration continues in office the control of our country is going to be more and more in the hands of fewer and fewer people."

"When it comes to giving something away," Kefauver said, "the present administration can show remarkable agreement, but when it comes to doing something for the little people they just never get around to it."

In a New York speech last night, former President Truman indicated, in somewhat roundabout fashion, policy chiefs have been "taking Award to Gov. Averell Harriman peaceful intentions."

Presenting the Four Freedoms ion, he believes Republican "foreen in" by Russia's avowals of of New York, Truman recalled that Harriman, a former ambassador to Russia, warned 11 years ago the Soviets were planning to undermine peace.

And, said Truman, Harriman "is not taken in today, as so many of our leaders seem to be, by the smile on the face of the Kremlin."

Truman has declared himself uncommitted to any candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. But he had warm praise last night for Harriman, who describes himself as an "inactive" candidate.

As for the Indiana primary, late returns from normally Democratic Lake County cut Eisenhower's share of the total vote in the state and boosted Kefauver's slice a trifle.

Final unofficial returns gave Eisenhower 58 per cent of the exceptionally light total of 609,777 votes. Lar (America First) Daly, Eisenhower's token opponent on the GOP ballot, collected 2 per cent. And Kefauver, who was unopposed on the Democratic side, was credited with 40 per cent. Kefauver also got Indiana's 26 Democratic convention votes.

In the Ohio primary, Gov. Frank J. Lausche wound up with 54 of the state's 58 Democratic nominating votes pledged to him as the state's "favorite son" presidential candidate. Four anti-Lausche delegates also were elected, three of them in the Cleveland area. Lausche was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator. The incumbent, Republican Sen. George H. Bender, was renominated, also without opposition.

Counting the results of the Indiana, Ohio and West Virginia primaries last Tuesday, an Associated Press tabulation showed that delegates representing a total of 562 of the Democratic convention's 1,372 votes have been chosen so far, 121 were credited to Kefauver and 103 to Stevenson. Eleven other men divided 76½ votes and 261½ were uncommitted. It takes 686½ votes to nominate.

On the Republican side, 557 of the convention delegates chosen to date are for Eisenhower. Another 57 are committed to others—but 56 of these are pledged to Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, who says he is "holding" them for Eisenhower. Seventy - five delegates are uncommitted. The Republican convention will seat 1,323 delegates and 689 of them have been selected up to now. At the GOP convention 662 votes are needed for nomination.

In Texas, unofficial reports collected by The Associated Press showed that the outcome of 254 county conventions Tuesday was confirming a victory won last Saturday by forces of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson. In precinct, or neighborhood, convention last weekepd, the Johnson faction whipped a group headed by Gov. Allan Shivers. This was a decisive phase of a battle for control of the Texas Democratic party. Shivers backed Eisenhower in 1952.

In West Virginia, nearly complete returns indicated possible victory for Gov. William C. Marland in his quest for U. S. Senate nomination on the Democratic ticket. He led Atty. Gen. John G. Fox by 9,245 votes. Former U.S. Sen. Chapman Revercomb won the GOP senatorial nomination from Tom Sweeney, who conceded last night.

In the state's gubernatorial primary, Cecil H. Underwood, minority leader in the House of Delegates, increased a slim lead over Mayor John T. Copenhaver of Charleston. The Democratic nomination for governor was won by U.S. Rep. Robert H. Mollohan.

In New Mexico, nearly complete returns indicated Gov. John F. Simms had narrowly won renomination over Ingram B. Pickett. Former Gov. Edwin L. Mechem was renominated without opposition on the GOP ticket.

In Georgia, former Gov. Herman Talmadge formally announced he would seek the U.S. Senate seat that Sen. Walter George announced yesterday he would vacate next year. Talmadge is expected to have opposition in the Democratic primary Sept. 12.

U.S. School Aid Bill Due Action In June

WASHINGTON (AP) —Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex) said today the sidetracked $1,600,000,000 federal school aid bill will be called up for House action in June.

The bill has been shelved in the House Rules Committee since the start of the session to forestall a floor fight over a proposal to deny federal construction aid to areas which maintain racially segregated schools.

This proposed amendment is being pushed by Rep. Powell (D-NY) a Negro, and until recently it was generally believed he had sufficient backers to write it into the bill.

Leaders were represented as feeling the situation has now changed, and that a majority of House members will go along with a bill lacking antisegregation procisions in preference to having no bill at all.

The threat of a Southern Democrats' filibuster in the Senate presumably would be dispelled if the House sent it a school construction bill without Powell's amendment or one similar to it.

The Democratic-sponsored bill in the Rules Committee calls for a four-year program of U.S. construction assistance at the rate of 400 million dollars a year. It would be limited to actual building, and would make funds available to the states on the basis of their public school population.

The Eisenhower administration has proposed a 1¼-billion-dollar program at the rate of 250 million dollars yearly for five years.

Weather Again Delays H-Blast

USS MT. MCKINLEY, Off Bikini (AP) — An off-and-on H-bomb test scheduled for dawn today was postponed again 8½ hours before blast time.

The command ship Estes said, "It now appears that Sunday (Saturday, U. S. time) will be the earliest possible date on which conditions might be favorable."

The Estes said wind patterns had shifted so that the Marshall Islands might have been endangered by a blast today.

Adverse weather had caused three previous postponements from the original date of Monday, U. S. time.

Officials said the latest delay could be for 48 hours, which would make the next scheduled firing Saturday, U. S. time.

Joint Task Force 7 already started its evacuation of Bikini Atoll and its preparation for the blast hours earlier in hope that the B52 Stratofortress which is to carry the bomb could make its payoff run over the target island of Namu.

Ships on their way to blast stations turned back.

Planes and airships were sweeping hundreds of thousands of square miles surrounding Bikini, making certain no aircraft or ships had wandered into the danger zone, either accidentally or to sneak a look at the first drop of a thermonuclear bomb from an American plane.

The high command of the task force left Eniwetok Atoll yesterday by air to board the command ship Estes in Bikini Lagoon. This observer ship, carrying 15 newsmen, 17 civil defense observers and others, sailed at midmorning.

All of the hard-working 13,500 members of the task force hoped that this time the long-awaited test explosion could be carried out. It had been postponed because of weather on each of the past three days.

At Eniwetok a crew carried out preparations for loading the H-bomb into the B52.

The only official word on size of the bomb was that it would be one of the larger, but not the largest, hydrogen explosions at the central Pacific proving grounds.

This led to speculation the weapon might have a yield ranging from 7 to 10 megatons, a megaton equaling the energy produced by one million tons of TNT.

Court Lags

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Three persons convicted of murder finished serving 12-year sentences last year. The Supreme Court finally acted yesterday on the appeals they entered when convicted. It upheld the sentences.

Herman Talmadge Known As 'White Supremacy' Advocate

ATLANTA (AP) — Herman Talmadge, former governor of Georgia and now candidate for Sen. George's seat in the U. S. Senate, is probably best known across the nation as an advocate of "white supremacy."

He makes no bones about this and in his announcement for the Senate pledged that if elected he would fight for the "survival of Georgia and the South" on the national level just as he fought on the local level during six years a governor.

Talmadge says flatly that Negroes and whites will never go to the same schools in Georgia as long as he has anything to say about it.

The state will resist the U. S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in the nation's public schools "even if we stand alone," according to this square-jawed, cigar-smoking man with the falling forelock of coal black hair.

Now, at 42, Talmadge feels that if elected to the Senate he will be in a position to fight more effectively on the national level what he considers encroachments of states rights.

His stubborness in a fight and his devotion to "white supremacy" both were inherited from his father, the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge, as was his fondness for red suspenders while campaigning among the "wool hat" rural regions of the state.

Talmadge has proved as unyielding as his father on the question of racial segregation but unlike his father will not cling to a hopelessly untenable position, especially where he has lost public support.

A political figure who knew both men said, "Old Gene would fight for a conviction, and once convinced he was right, no power on earth could change him. But Herman is more pliable, more amenable to public opinion and will change if it is against him."

In public life Talmadge can speak equally well in the dignified tones of a governor or in the rustic vernacular of his "wool hat" followers on the farms.

He calls himself a champion of the little man in the belief that "the big folks can look after themselves" and says he has 10,000 friends in the state known to him by name.

Talmadge denies, however, that he is anti-Negro or has practiced racial discrimination and says that Negroes benefited more while he was governor than during any other administration in the state. Nearly one billion dollars worth of permanent improvements were made in Georgia while he was in office.

Some of his detractors have called him a "demogogue." Claims were made while he was governor that he was trying to set up a "dictatorship" and a political dynasty in Georgia along the lines of the late Huey Long's regime in Louisiana.

In reply to this, Talmadge simply points to his record as governor. During his administration he kept his promise to build 10,000 miles of roads and provided more money for education than all previous administrations combined.

Talmadge was born Aug. 9, 1913, at McRae, Ga., and attended public school in Telfair County until his father's home burned in 1930. Then the family moved to Atlanta.

After graduating from the University of Georgia he began law practice with his father in Atlanta and got his first taste of politics. In 1938, he managed his father's bitterly fought campaign against George. His father lost. Two years later he managed his father's successful campaign for a third term as governor.

During World War II Talmadge served in the Navy in the Pacific and was discharged in 1945 with the rank of lieutenant commander.

When he resumed civilian life, his father gave him a 1,000-acre farm near Lovejoy, Ga., in rural Henry County. He lives there with his second wife, Elizabeth Shingler Talmadge, and their sons Gene and Robert Shingler. They were married Dec. 24, 1941. Talmadge and his first wife were divorced in 1940 after three years of marriage.

More Incidents Reported On Israeli Borders

JERUSALEM (AP) — Two more minor incidents have been reported along the Israeli-Arab frontiers despite cease-fire pledges U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold obtained on his Middle East mission.

An Israel army spokesman said an Arab infiltrator fired on a patrol south of Jerusalem and was killed in the exchange of shots.

The spokesman said another Israeli patrol drew fire from Jordan territory west of the Samarian Hills.

The U.N. chairman of the Jordan - Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission supported Israel's censure motion against Jordan for an incident Monday, when an Israeli Frontier house was fired on from positions inside Jordan. But the chairman, U.S. Cmdr. Elmer Terrill, declined to support by occupying positions in the demilitarized area.

Diplomatic sources at U. N. headquarters in New York said Hammarskjold is advocating a three-month trial period to see if the cease-fire agreements he negotiated are effective.

If so, he reportedly would favor an attempt to work out a more enduring foundation for peace along the Israeli-Arab borders.

Big Senate Fight Looms Over Social Security Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee appeared ready today to lay the groundwork for a major Democratic-Republican fight by stripping from a House - passed social security bill its two big features.

The provisions, both opposed by the Eisenhower administration, would lower from 65 to 62 the retirement age for women under social security and set up a system of disability benefits for persons disabled at age 50 or higher.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) predicted in advance that the committee would finish with the measure in today's closed sessions and send it to the Senate floor.

Byrd has declined to say how he stands on the two major provisions. But Republicans have said they expect him to vote with them in the committee to eliminate them.

If the committee does so, key Democrats have said they will fight to reverse that action in the full Senate.

The disability plan has strong support from union labor and welfare groups, but attracted vigorous opposition from the American Medical Assn. and from large business organizations.

Senators Study Chemist's Tale Of Russian Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Internal Security subcommittee studied today testimony from an unnamed American chemist that he had supplied technical industrial information to the Russians over a 17-year period.

"He said he worked for the Russians (from 1933) until 1940," Subcommittee Counsel Robert Morris told newsmen. "His contacts through the 1940s were spotty and his last contact was in 1950."

Beyond saying the chemist lived in "the New York area, broadly speaking," Morris declined to identify the witness, saying "he was afraid of his job and afraid of wrat the Russians might do." He said the man was employed for the entire time by a private concern.

Morris declined to discuss in detail the nature of the information turned over to the Russians, or to say whether any official secrets were involved. He said the witness has been in contact with the FBI.

Morris said the chemist was one of a number of persons called for questioning as a follow-up to testimony last month by Harry Gold, a onetime Philadelphia chemist now serving a 30-year prison term for espionage which included both industrial and atomic secrets.

Police Charge Rioters

Police mass and charge into the fray during rioting in Athens by Greek mobs inflamed by the impending hanging of two Greek Cypriots. Two people were killed and 120 injured when the rioters attacked the U. S. Information Service office and demonstrated against Britain. The Athens branch of the Cyprus ethnarchy asked Queen Frederika of Greece to intervene with Britain's Queen Elizabeth to have the death sentence cancelled.

TROUBLE LOOMS

2 Greek Cypriots Hanged By British

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) —British authorities hanged two 23-year-old Greek Cypriots today for political shootings. The death sentences were carried out at dawn despite international clemency appeals and the threat of bloody rioting on this tense island colony.

Michael Karaolis and Andreas Demetrious went to their deaths behind the closely guarded walls of Nicosia's big Central Prison. Fellow Greek Cypriots had thronged the island's churches praying for an 11th-hour reprieve.

The pair were the first executed by the British in a fight against the 13-month-old violence campaign for Enosis—union of Cyprus with Greek. The British-Cypriot fight has cost 92 other lives on Cyprus, including 27 British soldiers and 12 Cypriot policemen.

As the first Enosis fighters to be executed, Karaolis and Demetrious were assured of martyrdom in the eyes of Greek Cypriots and the Greeks. Karaolis was convicted of slaying a Nicosia police constable, Demetrious of shooting a British businessman who recovered.

Fearing a repetition of the bloody riots which killed at least four persons and seriously injured 142 in Greece yesterday, armed British troops patrolled every island community.

In Athens, news of the executions brought no immediate new violence, but armed security forces stood ready for new trouble. Barbed wire barricades already had been thrown around the British Embassy and rolls of wire were ready near U.S. installations.

Most Greek Cypriot shops in Nicosia closed in protest over the executions. Small knots of men gathered in the downtown streets. British jeeps and armored cars manned with machine guns kept constant patrol.

Only military and police officials witnessed the hangings. Soldiers blocked all approaches half a mile from the prison and searched every person and vehicle headed toward it.

Karaolis and Demetrious lost their final appeal for executive clemency Tuesday. Later their parents and attorneys appealed in vain to Queen Elizabeth II for clemency.

A Greek Orthodox priest who administered the last sacraments of the church last night said the two men met their fate with calm and courage.

The executions were not confirmed officially until about three hours after the men died. The Cyprus government press office announced in a terse, 18-word communique: "The executions of Michael Karaolis and Andreas Demetrious took place at the Central Prison in Nicosia this morning."

Authoritative informants in Washington said Secretary of State Dulles had suggestd informally to British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd that postponement of the executions might ease the Cyprus crisis.

Appeals also came from Laborite members of Britain's Parliament, Greek officials and churchmen and Cypriot leaders. On the other hand, reliable sources said a number of Cypriot policemen had threatened to quit if the death sentences were not carried out.

Despite British precautions, scattered violence flared in Cyprus yesterday. A British commando was killed and another injured when their patrol car was bombed at Paphos. In Limmasol, a British soldier was wounded by a bomb and a British army family's home was damaged by a kerosene bomb at Larnaca.

In Greece, anger over the sentencing touched off bloody riots yesterday against both Britain and the United States, America apparently because it has not supported Greece's demands in the United Nations for Cyprus.

Authorities said three persons were killed and 124 seriously injured in Athens before troops and police restored order.

At one stage a stone-throwing crowd smashed windows of the U.S. Information Agency in Athens. The riot was described as the worst in Greece since the 1944 Greek revolution.

Texas Candidates To Be Busy Again

By The Associated Press

With the dust kicked up by Democratic precinct and county roundups settling, candidates were expected to start making their way back into the Texas political arena.

Most state job seekers took it easy during the fight between Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Gov. Shivers for the right to lead the Texas delegation to the Democratic convention.

In Washington, backers of Sen. Price Daniel, a candidate for governor, said the recent Shivers-Johnson fight wouldn't hurt Daniel, who endorsed the senator as "favorite son" candidate but who didn't take sides on the fight for delegation leader. Daniel backers said their candidate had friends on both sides of that fight.

Two candidates for governor took a stand in the precinct and county convention fights for the delegation leadership post, which Johnson won by a landslide. Ralph Yarborough endorsed Johnson. Reuben Senterfitt backed Shivers.

W. Lee O'Daniel, former governor and senator, will open his campaign for the governor at Waco Saturday.

The old fiddler's reunion at Athens May 25 is expected to draw a number of candidates. Senterfitt, Yarborough and O'Daniel have said they will be there. Bill Daniel of Liberty will speak in behalf of his brother.

Johnson, who with Rep. Sam Rayburn, was given a rousing welcome on his return to Washington, said he thought those who were dissatisfied with the Democratic party in Texas should join the Republicans. He apparently was referring to Shivers and other Texas Democrats who bolted the ticket in 1952 to vote for Dwight Eisenhower.

Johnson said he favored a strong two-party system in Texas and said that disgruntled Democrats would receive more acclaim if they joined with the Republicans rather "by infiltration" of the Democratic party.

The Shivers-Johnson fight is expected to flare up again at the May 22 state convention although the senator's forces will be in complete control.

Some speculation this week was that some effort may be made to replace the State Democratic Executive Committee, made up almost entirely of Shivers supporters, at the May 22 convention. Terms of the committee expire in September.

Churchill Asks Russians Join A United Europe

AACHEN, Germany (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill called on the Soviet government today to show the validity of its new look by joining in a "bona fide united Europe."

The 81-year-old British statesman called on the world to avoid violence and seek unity instead as he accepted the Charlemagne "United Europe" award from this ancient coronation city of German kings.

Inside the 1,000-year-old hall where Charlemagne was crowned Roman emperor, a crowd of 700 listened intently as Sir Winston advised "in a time of unity in Europe, Russia must play her part."

Since World War II, he continued, Soviet policy had divided Russia from her wartime allies.

His listerners applauded loudly as Churchill declared that to bring about a united Europe, it was necessary to have a united Germany.

The Charlemagne prize was voted to Churchill in 1954 for his postwar efforts for European understanding and world peace.

Panty Raiders Toss Bricks

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State University students, rushing to a girls dormitory to steal some panties, suddenly reversed strategy last night and threw bricks at police. Nobody got a panty.

Police, shooting tear gas into the crowd of 200 boys, won the battle. They arrested 29 LSU students and 13 high school boys.

There was one casualty. One brick struck Patrolman Bill Scruggs on the leg. It may be fractured.

Early in the evening, the students had crowded around Evangeline Hall, a women's dormitory.

School officials decided to break up the party. Dean of Women Helen Gordon told the girls to stay inside. Dean of Men Arden French told the boys to go away. That worked—for a while.

The boys left one dormitory for another. They encircled Pleasant Hall. When they picked up bricks and stones, officials decided it was time for the police.

Rites Set For Mrs. Matthews

LAMESA — Funeral services were set for 3 p.m. today for Mrs. Rellie Emilene Matthews, 74, a resident of Dawson County for 45 of the past 50 years.

She died Tuesday night in Big Spring at the home of a daughter, Mrs. F. E. Eggleston, with whom she had lived for the past three months.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Eggleston and Mrs. J. B. Armstrong of Lubbock; a sister, Mrs. Henry J. Price of Lubbock; three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Conducting services at the Higginbotham Chapel in Lamesa was to be Rev. J. Lloyd Mayhew, First Methodist pastor. Interment was to be in the Lamesa Cemetery.

Pemex To Put High Octane On Market

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Pemex, the government oil monopoly, said today it will put on the market shortly a gasoline of 90 to 92 octane rating. Its best fuel now has a claimed rating of 80.

"Every little bit helps," said D. G. Buchanan in speaking of the 46 cents per hundred increase for raw milk. In his case, it will mean several dollars a day, because Buchanan sells about 1,500 pounds of milk a day at the Big Spring milk depot.

He is now milking 58 cows at his farm northeast of town. He put up a lot of silage last year but all this is gone now. In its place he is feeding alfalfa hay, which is selling for about $33 a ton.

* * *

Several dairymen prefer silage to any kind of roughage, but sometimes alfalfa hay is cheaper. Fred Wilson, who operates a dairy north of Big Spring, says silage can't be beat if the dairyman can grow his own. But when it is bought from someone else, the hay is just as cheap. The cost of hauling silage increases the price and the labor.

Dewey Lake in Glasscock County is bone dry now. It was once the biggest lake in this area and supported a fish population of thousands. Fisherman would set out trotlines and catch tubfuls of catfish weighing from one to four pounds.

Then the lake dried up and became good farming land. During the last few years, according to the Charley Blaylock family who own it, the land has been too dry to even grow crops.

The bottom of the lake covers about a section of land.

* * *

This is Soil Stewardship Week in Texas. Soil conservation is lagging in most areas, as landowners don't think much about it until the soil is gone. Then it is too late.

Erosion, may not have been too damaging here, but in older communities soil losses have been great. In Coke County where I once surveyed two-thirds of the cultivated land, I've seen worthless fields now lying idle that once made a bale of cotton to the acre. The topsoil is gone, gullies are shot through the fields, and the only thing growing on the land is a thin mantle of weeds that sheep graze.

* * *

Lorin McDowell has got good rains on both his ranches, the home ranch in Glasscock County and the other in Borden County. Of the two the Borden ranch is in better shape.

"We have a much better turf up there," he said, "and will have some grass before long. On the home place, the pastures were so bare we may need some showers so the newly sprouted grass will not dry out."

McDowell said he was letting up on feeding now. With another rain on the home place and a few weeks time he could stop altogether.

"I'd like to let the grass get a head start here before starting to graze it," he said.

Here is an idea on how to increase the water output from a small irrigation well: Drill a second well a few feet from the first, then force water into it under pressure. The pressurized water breaks through the few feet of sand between the two and comes up through the first well, carrying sand with it.

After a few hours of circulating the water, a big quantity of sand has been pumped out, allowing the water to run into the cavity much faster.

This was tried near Seminole by Frank Young, and it worked. Also on another well in north Gaines County a similar plan was successful.

* * *

We understand that Harold Talbot of the Luther Community has sold all his hens and the big poultry house is now vacant. Talbot was one of the first men in the county to buy caged layers. He is about the third or fourth producer to decide that selling eggs was more trouble than profit.

* * *

Surpluses are piling up fast in grain sorghums. At the Panhandle Grain and Feed Dealers Association meeting in Lubbock this week, Lloyd Case of the Commodity Stabilization Service told the group that surplus grain was building up faster than new outlets could be found.

The widespread use of hybrid grain sorghums would only make it worse, he said. Within three years there will be enough planting seed for everyone, and production will jump another 30 per cent. He said the soil bank plan would not eliminate the surplus problem.

* * *

ROAD DUST — Most of the greenery you see in pastures is mesquite instead of grass. Some ranges are so choked with brush that it will need to be killed before grass can grow again. Chemicals have been found wanting, and rooting out the mesquite with plows costs big money.

Irrigation farmers are using a little more fertilizer every year. Jimmy Eason of Wason Acres says chemical fertilizers won't give full return for the money spent unless the organic content of the soil is built up. "The trace elements are out of balance, and you need organic matter to make them available."

Rattlesnakes seem to be on the increase this year. Several people have reported killing them . . . South of Stanton someone had been hunting along the highway, leaving several dead rabbits. A dozen or so crows were mopping up the carrion. This used to be the work of buzzards, but now the crows and hawks usually get there first.

A rural minister: "The day of the country preacher is about over. Now most people seem to like the town churches where they can hear the younger, more educated preachers."

Diogenes would have burned a lot of lantern oil had he been hunting an honest man at one of the recent rabbit drives. One ammunition dealer was selling shotgun shells from his pickup, and let each hunter wait on himself. As they picked up a box of shells, they paid him the money. Later when he checked up, he was $18 short.

O'Donnell Woman In State Race

LAMESA — Mrs. Margaret Garland Noble, an O'Donnell ex-school teacher, announced this week she is candidate for the office of 99th District representative in the Texas House of Representatives.

The O'Donnell housewife is the daughter of Mrs. J. E. Garland of Lamesa and the late Judge Garland. Mrs. Noble attended school in Lamesa and Texas Tech.

Wet Weather Outlook For Northern Areas

By The Associated Press

Wet weather was the outlook today for broad areas in the northern half of the country from the North Atlantic Coast to the Far West.

Showers and thunderstorms continued during the night from Lake Michigan eastward across the Great Lakes region and upper Ohio Valley to the North Atlantic Coast. Heaviest rainfall was in northern parts of Illinois and Indiana, Ohio and southern Lower Michigan. Falls at Grand Rapids, Mich., measured more than 4 inches in 24 hours while they ranged from 1 to 2 inches in other parts of the wet belt.

Hot, dry, gusty winds swept dust across the western Texas plains into the Mississippi Valley yesterday. Temperatures climbed to 80 degrees through the lower Ohio Valley. They were 100-plus in parts of West Texas and New Mexico, with the day's top of 107 at Presidio, Tex. It was 97 at Garden City, Kan.

Dust whirled across the Far Southwest and in Utah and Colorado. Strong winds brought cooler weather to the normally hot desert regions in southern California and Arizona.

Olen Puckett To Attend AIA Meet

Mental Eclipse No Solution

The people of this country are entitled to know the hard, cold facts regarding the state of our preparedness to meet whatever our enemies may throw at us. We entered every war we ever fought ill-prepared, ill-trained, and ill-informed as to our "military posture." Fortunately for us, thanks to our "splendid isolation," our friends and allies provided a screen behind which we could ready ourselves for the fray. In the War of Independence it was France that came to our rescue from an overwhelming foe. In the War of 1812 the Napoleonic troubles in Europe saved our bacon. In both world wars Britain and France stood as a shield. In WW II we argued and fiddle-faddled for two long years until Pearl Harbor brought us to our senses.

Our "splendid isolation" was composed of two main ingredients: geographic and mental. The former was well on the way to extinction even before the first A-bomb and jet airplane made its folly apparent even to the most obtuse.

But a considerable segment of our population is still enthralled by mental isolation. They say the very horror of nuclear warfare will restrain all nations from using it. Successive generations said the same thing about gunpowder, mobile artillery, machines, tanks, aerial warfare and no doubt the English longbow. And don't cite us poison gas as contradicting our dictum that men will use any effective weapon that comes to hand. Poison gas was discontinued because of (1) its limited usefulness, (2) its unpredictable behavior, because of wind currents, and (3) because of ability of the enemy to retaliate in kind.

How well prepared are we now to withstand a Soviet sneak attack on our continent? We couldn't stop them if they decided to send some or all of their one hundred inter-continental bombers over some dark night—loaded with H-bombs. What will our relation to Soviet potential in H-bombs and the planes to deliver them and inter-continental guided missiles be two years from now? Our best military minds have testified that in two years our capability will be inferior to Russia's on our present schedule of production.

Is our government telling us all we have a right to know respecting these matters?

Various groups of newspapermen and journalistic societies of all shades of political opinion have charged that censorship and information-withholding devices are more numerous and insurmountable in Washington today than in our history. They have protested time and again without effect.

The people are entitled to know what the score is even if it is bad enough to scare the living daylights out of them. They can take it. They can be trusted. They should be told.

And Now For Some Moderation

County conventions have met over the state and affirmed the margin of victory for supporters of Sen. Lyndon Johnson who wanted him for leader of the Texas delegation to the national convention as well as a favorite son candidate.

It would be in the best interests of the state if a spirit of moderation prevails to the end that some of the unnecessary venom generated prior to precinct conventions may be diluted if not cast out.

Unfortunately, the latter days of the precinct campaign degenerated into needless and reckless name-calling. Equal blame must be borne by both sides and by both major participants for this intemperateness which struck the majority of Texans, regardless of opinions, as lacking in good taste if not responsibility. Sen. Johnson is not a wild-eyed pink; Governor Shivers is not a reactionary crook. On the contrary both have achieved distinctive records of public service, which speak for themselves.

We suppose it is too much to expect that in politics more attention be devoted dispassionately to issues and less to personalities, and that participants in the political arena will resist the temptation to scar the opposition with extraneous and malicious thrusts. However, it is the goal for which all of us might hope.

Americans have a right to disagree, and that right must be respected. When it is, those in the monority at the moment (and today's minority frequently is tomorrow's majority) generally respond to respect of their rights. This was exemplified in the Howard County convention when Douglas Orme, who has staunchly backed the governor, asked that the county's vote for the senator be made unanimous in the interest of harmony. This was not an easy course, but it was one which demonstrated the spirit of democratic process on a higher plane. And had it been the other way around, we could hope that the spirit would have been the same.

Preference Primaries—Hit Or Miss

WASHINGTON—While personal feuds played a part, there is general agreement that the Texas primary was a triumph for moderation.

In rejecting the vicious racist appeals of Governor Allan Shivers' well-heeled followers, Texans showed that they wanted to try to find reasonable solutions to the problems — and above all the problem of integration — that so imperil unity in America today.

The strength of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson in his party is greatly enhanced. But so also, it is evident in the aftermath of the Texas election, is the stature of Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson's rivals for the Presidential nomination have tried to make it sound as though moderation were equivalent to caution and timidity.

Moderation, as the former Illinois Governor has used it, should be equated with responsibility. He has tried under the most difficult circumstances to be responsible to the voters to whom he speaks on issues that touch the deepest emotions of a time of troubles.

Since his defeat in the Minnesota primary, there has been a marked improvement in Stevenson's position. And knowledgeable professional election analysts, studying the Minnesota returns, come up with the interesting conclusion that the victory of Senator Estes Kefauver was due largely to the massive intervention of Republican voters out to administer a licking to Governor Orville L. Freeman and Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, who had gone all-out for Stevenson.

Statewide in the Minnesota primary, the Democrats had 68 per cent of the vote, the Republicans 32 per cent. This compares with the national election in 1952 when General Eisenhower, at the head of the ticket, polled 55.6 per cent to give the state's electoral votes to the Republicans.

If the Republicans were to make as poor a showing in November as they did in the recent primary, Eisenhower would get about the same percentage of the vote as did Alf Landon in 1936, the worst defeated candidate in American political history. Carrying only Maine and Vermont, Landon got 31 per cent of Minnesota's vote.

No one, not even the most wishful Democrat, believes this will happen. While there is some farm defection, all indications are that Mr. Eisenhower will carry Minnesota by a somewhat reduced margin.

Analysts who know the state well conclude that Republican crossovers gave Kefauver his majority. Their motive, particularly in the poorer farming country in the Northern part of the state, may have been resentment at falling farm prices and the Eisenhower Administration's farm policy.

But small town Republican newspapers almost without exception interpreted the Kefauver victory as a blow successfully aimed at Freeman and Humphrey, who are hated by Republicans with a fanatical hatred.

Other instances in Minnesota's rugged political past can be cited to show that voters seeking revenge have moved from the primary of their party into the opposition primary.

The final conclusion of the analysts is that if the Republicans had stayed on their own side of the fence, Stevenson would have got 55 per cent of the Democractic vote, Kefauver 45 per cent, giving Stevenson the state's 38 convention delegates. That is what the Minnesota poll shortly before the election indicated would happen.

It is hardly necessary to add that this is cold comfort to the Stevenson camp. Kefauver got the votes and the delegates and with them a healthy momentum in the later primaries.

But the Minnesota result does underscore what can happen in the hit-or-miss of the Presidential preference primaries.

Even the staunchest advocates of the direct primary have come to realize that with these popularity contests varying in their rules from state to state, the way is open for demagogic appeals tailored to the voters of each separate region in a way that would shame a contest for sheriff.

A responsible candidate can be destroyed in the kind of fracas that leaves a party with no place to go.

National Survival And The Dinosaurs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nations have an evolutionary biology of their own: they adapt themselves to new conditions or they perish like the dinosaur or the saber-toothed tiger which became obsolete in their own lifetimes.

Russia and the West are in an evolutionary process. For several years the Russians have been showing more adaptability to changing conditions than the West. The West is struggling to find new plans to meet the Russian changes.

The struggle was illustrated last week by the meeting of the 15 foreign ministers of the nations which make up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

NATO, strictly a military alliance, was created in the late 1940s by the Western Powers as a defense against Russian attack. This turned out to be a successful adaptation to the new conditions imposed by Joseph Stalin.

By his growls, armaments and reliance on force he had made Russia a public menace which could be seen by the most backward.

NATO forced Stalin to say behind the Iron Curtain. This was a new environment imposed by the West. Stalin didn't know how to adapt to it. His heirs had more imagination.

Where Stalin failed to destroy NATO by threats, his heirs tried to do it by talk of peace to make war sound unnecessary and thereby induce them to abandon the idea NATO was needed.

Where Stalin alienated his neighbors, his heirs promised them help, visited them, sent them engineers. Cracks began to appear in NATO. One of its members, Iceland, asked the United States to get its forces, part of NATO's defense, out of Iceland.

Under Stalin's threats, the NATO partners on the Continent had submerged their differences, but now differences began to appear. For example, between Greece and Britain over the island of Cyprus.

France has withdrawn three of her divisions from NATO to subdue rebels in North Africa's Algeria. West Germany has been dawdling about creating the army which would be part of NATO's defense.

NATO partners began asking asking questions among themselves: Were they in danger of losing to Russia in the long run if they thought only in terms of standing behind NATO's military wall?

Or should they think in wider terms—for instance, in economic help not only among themselves and for themselves but for some of those backward people the Russians were trying to win over with economic help?

Should there even be some kind of political cooperation among the NATO allies? And surely, there must be some way they could consult among themselves before any of the NATO members took an action which might adversely affect another?

The ministers met in Paris last week, agreed NATO should be kept militarily strong, and found no solutions for anything else. They appointed three of NATO's foreign ministers to think up something and report back.

If there is a solution—and there is no assurance there will be—whatever wider cooperation and world planning the NATO allies do may not in the end be done through NATO but through some new kind of organization, leaving NATO to worry strictly about military affairs.

10 Years Is A Long Journey

NEW YORK (AP) — It takes just 15 cents and a few minutes to go by subway from Brooklyn to the Metropolitan Opera House in Manhattan.

It took Robert Merrill 10 hard and often lonely years to make the journey but at 27 he came as a star. He was the youngest baritone ever to make his debut at the Metropolitan in a major role.

Good operatic baritones are almost as scarce as penguins in Florida. Merrill, son of a Brooklyn laborer, is one of the best America has produced.

Like most opera stars Bob is proud to call himself "a long-hair," but he doesn't let his hair fall over his eyes and blind him to other forms of music.

"I like almost any kind of music except rock-n-roll," he said. "But that I don't go for."

Bob was a boy soprano. He took up singing to help cure him of stuttering.

"It did help, too," he remarked. "But I was still so shy about appearing in public that I quit singing at 12 and didn't take it up again tuntil I was 17.

"This turned out to be a good thing. I found out later that many children ruin their voice by using it too much during the years when the voice is changing. It should be rested and allowed to strengthen."

An odd reversal takes place in boys voices as they mature. Sopranos usually turn into baritones or even basos. It is the altos who become tenors.

Merrill has a theory that many young singers, even after they reach physical maturity, destroy their voices by overworking them too hard too early." They try to go after a fast buck too soon. For three years I sang nothing but simple Italian love songs before I appeared before an audience. I was working in a belt factory for $10 a week. I was paid $7 for singing four songs at a wedding reception. The $7 didn't impress me so much as the fact I got a free dinner too."

"In those days I used to buy a dime sandwich at a luncheon counter, then go out and buy a 50-cent cigar just to have a feeling of luxury.

"But it wasn't until I had ten full years of voice study that I felt ready to appear before an opera audience. It's dangerous for a kid to go up into the big leagues too fast. Opera is too demanding."

Merrill now does about 30 opera performances a year, 10 to 15 guest spots on television, about 20 concerts and spends three weeks in Las Vegas, where he usually is costarred with — of all people — "Satchmo" Armstrong, the jazz trumpeter.

To keep up this schedule Bob has to watch his weight like a boxer, take long walks, exercise twice a day.

What is the difference between a baritone and a tenor?

"That's easy," said Merrill laughing. "The tenor usually wins the girl in the opera. The tenor usually gets paid more money, but baritones have one consolation. They usually last longer than tenors."

But Bob is doing all right. His income is high in the six figure bracket.

Big Deposit

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) —Lee Marmon dropped in at an Albuquerque bank to make a deposit. The teller politely handed him a blank and suggested he fill it out. He did so, right at the window. She gasped. It was a deposit of $153,000. When the teller got her breath back, Marmon, treasurer of the Laguna Tribe, explained the money was from the tribal fund.

Installment Theft

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Thieves stole a garbage can from Delores Azoyon's house one night, then came back on the next night and took a barbecue grill.

Emboldened, they returned the third night and stole the watchdog, a $250 French poodle.

Sanitary Rent

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Landlord Andrew Hibyan found a way to make his four tenant families keep their apartments clean. "I got tired of running down to city hall for sanitation violations, so I told the families their rent would be raised $2 a week until the fine, $32, was paid."

Mr. Breger

"Frankly, I think they're starting to overdo this popping and crackling a little . . ."

Around The Rim

Arguments For 100 Per Cent Parity

Alex Dickie, the young and energetic president of the Texas Farmers Union, made out a good case for 100 per cent of parity price supports for farmers here the other night.

In the first place, said Dickie, parity has been defined by Congress as a "fair" price for farm commodities, in relation to prices farmers have to pay for other peoples' produce.

"If it's fair, then we ought to have 100 per cent fairness," the Denton stock farmer claimed.

The Farmers Union president didn't deny that government support of farm prices is a direct subsidy for farmers. But he pointed out that his organization believes farmers are as much entitled to a subsidy as other businessmen and industrialists in this country.

"Take it away from the others and the farmer will go along," Dickie said.

The subsidies he said other segments of the economy are collecting from Washington include tax amortizations granted to various industries, tariffs which protect manufacturers from foreign production, and the government policy of letting defense contracts on a "cost plus" basis.

Ninety-six per cent of defense contracts are being let on a cost plus 10 per cent arrangement with manufacturers, said Dickie. He said the contracts amounted to a guarantee of a 10 per cent profit.

Dickie also claimed that steamship lines, railroads and airlines are benefitting from government subsidy.

"If it's not bad for them, it's not bad for the farmers," he told his Big Spring audience.

Dickie also didn't deny that 100 per cent of parity farm price supports would tend to create surpluses of food and fiber. He denied that surpluses are bad, however.

He argued that the nation should stockpile a full year's supply of food, for use in case of nuclear war. At present, he said, no such supply of food exists.

Actually, said Dickie, present production isn't sufficient to meet the nation's needs. According to his figures, 20,000,000 Americans now are living on an inadequate diet.

And, said the Farmers Union president, America should take full advantage of its capacity for production to defeat Communism in nations that are faced with starvation.

"We should use our abundance. We can base our economy on surplus — not scarcity," he said.

Truman Carries Power To Demo Conclave

WASHINGTON — When Harry Truman announced on Monday that he doesn't wish to be a delegate to the next Democratic National Convention and that he wants to be "a completely free agent," it was a tip-off that the most powerful man at that August gathering will be the former President.

Trumanites abound throughout the Democratic party — men who think as their hero does and who feel he is the only man who can make a rough-and-tumble campaign against Ike.

The former President, of course, hasn't any particular fidelity to the laws of politeness in politics. He still wonders nevertheless why President Eisenhower doesn't hobnob with him, though, if he would read over again some of the innuendoes about the President's integrity which he let loose in his campaign speeches, the former President might be enlightened.

The Democratic party of today is basically a Truman party. The former President really can have the nomination again if he wants if. He is eligible under the Constitution because the present ban against three terms specifically exempts from any limit the man in the White House at the time the amendment was adopted by Congress.

Mr. Truman has already played an influential part in shaping the course of his party toward various contenders. He has managed to indicate that he doesn't favor Senator Kefauver and he has played cool toward Adlai Stevenson. He has been cagey about the candidacy of Governor Harriman of New York, whose financial help at critical times in the past is deeply appreciated by the former President. But he doesn't take the Harriman candidacy seriously.

Harry Truman knows that there is no candidate who will make the vigorous campaign he himself would wage against President Eisenhower. Mr. Truman realizes that the verdict of 1952 was construed as a repudiation of his own administration, and that's why he wants to make a comeback.

The politicians who insist that Harry Truman would make a good candidate offer answers to all objections. Thus, when it is argued that the campaign would revive the so-called "Truman scandals," the answer given is that there now are plenty of scandals about the present administration which can be exploited politically.

As for age, the hero worshippers of Harry Truman say that at 72 he is in better health than Ike. There is the argument, too, that Mr. Truman would unite the party and that the Stevenson managers and supporters would fall into line as they are Trumanites at heart.

The little matter of the South presents a problem to the Truman supporters. Some of the northern strategists, however, aren't counting too heavily on a reconciliation on the civil-rights issue anyway, because it might cost Negro votes in the north — and at present the Negro vote is predominantly Democratic in such cities as New York and Chicago.

Mr. Truman insists, to be sure, that he doesn't want the nomination. He says anyone who advocates it for him is "nuts," or words to that effect. But the reluctant candidate is often the one who later on changes his mind and bows to "the will of the people." If the party actually drafted Harry Truman, his pride would never permit him to turn down the nomination.

Just now the former President is getting ready for his visit to Europe. Politically speaking, the trip is well timed. The Europeans will fall all over themselves to do homage to the man who was responsible for the freest flow of American dollars to Europe in the history of the two continents. In any popularity poll abroad, Truman or Stevenson or any Democrat for that matter tops the list over any Republican. They even forget over there that Dwight Eisenhower led the victorious armies which emancipated them in 1945. Money talks louder in Europe than any victories in war.

Another Truman administration, whether headed by him or a candidate of his choice, would be a spending administration — and hence Europe is getting ready to give Mr. Truman a royal welcome in more senses than one. Dispatches about his triumphal tour abroad will help the Truman candidacy for a third term.

Influential Democrats talk more about the possibility of nominating Truman than they did a couple of months ago when the idea first began to take hold among the Democratic politicians as the fortunes of Kefauver and Stevenson started to sag. Adlai Stevenson is probably the ablest of any of those mentioned for the Democratic presidential nomination, but his word "moderation" has hurt him among the groups that want an extremist like Harry Truman. So it's Truman who is getting the nod just now.

With Hand Out, Paris Ought To Smile

PARIS — The open season on American tourists is well-advanced in Europe, particularly in Paris, which expects at least 550,000 of us before the mid-summer madness ends.

Tourist experts predict that we will spend $150,000,000 in France in 1956. If the experts err, it is on the side of conservatism, in one woman's opinion. But I have no complaint about the high cost of France and Paris; they can't hold a candle to the high cost of living in the U.S.A. and New York City.

But for the sake of improved international relations, and of Franco-American affairs in particular, I beg Marianne to get a grip on her facial muscles and smile, smile, SMILE when and while she extracts, for services rendered, that $150,000,000 from American pockets.

Maybe the present sullen attitude of all Frenchmen I have met in hotels, restaurants, shops and taxis can be traced to the weather, which is exceedingly moist and clammy. Maybe when the sun shines on the Champs Elysee, Parisians will begin to smile.

I hope so, as much for the sake of La Belle France as for the American tourist who never minds having his pockets emptied with a vacuum cleaner as long as the operator is pleasant, courteous and smiling.

In all the years I have been coming to Paris, I have never beefed about prices until yesterday when the hotel at which I am staying charged me 100 francs for a few pieces of hotel stationery! It is small, greedy charges such as this, rather than the big ones, that infuriate the tourist and generate ill will.

But there is good news, too. The employes of the Louvre are conducting an off-again, on-again strike, so that no visitor can be quite certain this treasure trove of art will be open when he arrives. It was closed when I skipped over to have another look at the French impressionists, with a sad little note tacked on the bulletin board saying, "The Keepers Are on Strike."

Tourists who hate tramping through museums but who feel they must do so to keep up with the cultural Joneses may be in luck this summer unless the strike is settled. Life with father in Paris will be a good bit easier if he isn't forced to drag his aching arches through the Louvre's marble halls.

Finally — and this is a hit-and-run visit—the American's home away from home in Paris is so altered on the interior that he will scarcely recognize the old homestead. The American Express office at 11 Rue Scribe where we all go for mail, money and ministrations of many kinds is now a marvel of black and white marble and American automation.

And in conclusion, when I wrote from the Riviera two weeks ago that all an American need pack for a European vacation is money and coat-hangers, I didn't know my own strength!

Police Problem

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A police scout car reported to the dispatcher that it was "in service" at 11th and Allegheny streets.

Then came a brief silence.

Finally, the dispatcher asked: "Would you make that 11th and Yale? I can't spell Allegheny."

Boat On The Move

PARIS, Ky. (AP)—Joe Gilvin woke in the wee hours to find that his boat had bounced into his garage, knocking out part of a wall. Parked on its small trailer near the street, the boat was struck by a passing automobile.

Gardeners Hear Of Texas Conservation

At a meeting of the Big Spring Garden Club Wednesday morning, Mrs. J. I. Balch discussed the topic, "What Texas Is Doing In Conservation."

Members, meeting in the home of Mrs. A. A. Marchant, heard of the work of restoring and preserving the wild flowers and natural resources.

Mrs. Marchant spoke on "Plant Diseases and Their Control." She told the club that plants, like humans, have their own particular diseases. A healthy plant is good protection against disease and insects. A good color indicates a healthy plant.

The use of a mulch for the soil was the subject of Mrs. A. C. Bass's talk. She recommended using peat moss, leaves or cottonseed meal.

Purposes of a mulch, members were told, is to conserve moisture, to protect roots and to help control weeds.

Mrs. H. M. Compton led a workshop on herbs. Giving some of the advantages of growing herbs, she told members that they like poor soil and they make good border plants. Herbs are useful in the kitchen or for aromatic purposes, the speaker said.

The group voted to help one month at the State Hospital in the occupational therapy work being administered there.

A report was given on the posters entered in the Litterbug Campaign. The entries are being judged, with the winners to be announced soon.

It was announced that Mrs. Obie Bristow and Mrs. Loyd Branon had taken cookies to the Service Men's Center.

Mrs. Bristow, the first president of the club, served as installing officer for Mrs. P. D. O'Brien, president; Mrs. Branon, second vice president; Mrs. John Davis, treasurer; Mrs. J. E. Hogan, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Clyde Angel, parliamentarian.

Refreshments were served to 22.

Keeps Hair Natural

Pamela Duncan went through several drastic hair-color changes, and one morning when she awoke most of her hair had broken off. Now, with her hair back to its natural shade, she's busy acting in television. Above is the way she appeared in a recent "Screen Director's Playhouse" on NBC-TV with Errol Flynn.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

The Prettiest Hair Is A Sparkling Asset

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Pamela Duncan might well be called Miss Television. She has played in more than 200 shows, most recently NBC-TV's "Screen Director's Playhouse."

"I came to Hollywood for a month and have been here three years," she told me on the set at NBC, where she has just finished a love scene with Errol Flynn. "My mother just sent me the rest of my clothes from New York with a little note saying, 'I presume you plan to stay.'"

"I presume you like Hollywood," I remarked.

"It has been a great teacher," Pamela confessed. "All the shows I did back East were 'live', and I found seeing myself on a screen very revealing. I am only 5 feet 2 but I wore five-inch heels and felt quite tall. I was in for a shock the first time I saw myself on the screen. Heels or no heels I was more petite than statuesque. The long bob I wore was more than my height could carry, and the first thing I did was to grab a nail scissors and snip."

"Do you always cut your own?" I asked.

"No. I have it done professionally. It is such a clever cut. They follow my natural wave so that all I have to do is wash it, and work with it a bit and it dries the way I like without pincurls.

"Aren't you lucky!" I exlaimed.

"You don't know what a time I had with my hair," Pamela confided. "It is so dark they thought it would photograph better blonde. Then I dyed it red for another series, and after that platinum. With all those bleaches, it broke off. That was a horrible experience. I awakened one morning with most of it scattered on my pillow. Thank heavens for the Italian haircut, because mine was cut within an inch of my scalp. I had it dyed back to my natural shade, and it took almost a year for it to get back to normal.

"I think you can overdo this color craze. There is nothing prettier than hair that is clean and shiny. There is nothing that gives a sheen like a good shampoo. I give myself a shampoo ever three days. I use a spray attached to the faucet which really rinses it clean. And that is the secret of getting the soap out. Then I cut a lemon, and while the juice is fresh and full of vitamins, I use it as a rinse.

"There is great charm in naturalness," Pamela added. "When you try to look different than you are, you are headed for confusion, artificiality or conflict of some sort. If you don't know your type, experiment but don't make the same mistakes I did."

Reds Face Another Rebuff In Austria

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Austria's voters choose a new Parliament Sunday in an election virtually certain to deal another rebuff to Communists. And the two chief rivals are expected to continue their coalition government.

The two big parties, Chancellor Julius Raab's Conservative People's party and Vice Chancellor Adolf Schaerf's Socialists, are fighting the campaign on one overriding domestic issue — whether there shall be more nationalization of industry at the expense of private enterprise.

Although militarily neutral, Austria is safely bound to the Western camp by its political ideas. The election will not change the alignment of the country's foreign policy.

The coalition of the People's party and the Socialists, which have teamed up to give Austria stable government since the war, is expected to continue. The two parties have run neck and neck in the past, and the major question is which will have the edge in the new government.

Thirty per cent of Austria's basic industries already are nationalized, and another 30 per cent are controlled by the two nationalized banks. Raab's People's party favors strengthening private enterprise—what it calls "people's capitalism." The Socialists want more nationalization.

The coalition government broke down early this year over the Socialist demand that the important Zisterdorf oil fields and some 300 big industrial plants be turned over to the government.

Raab's party wants the government only to hold a majority interest in the oil fields.

In the last election, in February 1953, the Socialists won 42 per cent of the popular vote against the Conservatives' 41.3 per cent. Due to the complications of the electoral system, the Conservatives got 74 seats in the 165-member Parliament to the Socialists' 73. Right-wing independents won 14 seats and the Communists 4. The Conservatives held five Cabinet posts to the Socialists' four.

The Communists, who received 5.3 per cent of the popular vote last time, stand a chance of losing all their seats in Parliament. But they are campaigning hopefully.

Political Allies

Surrounded by signs and wellwishers, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson steps before a microphone as he returned to Washington from his political victory in Texas over Gov. Allan Shivers. The Senator and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, left, were greeted on their arrival by a five-man brass band and a cheering crowd of almost a thousand persons. One of Johnson's daughters, Lynda Bird, is at right. The sign back of Johnson's head reads "Mr. Speaker, Texas Never Makes the Same Mistake Twice."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

'Woman Of Year' Says Thanks For The Tributes

To The Editor:

To the people of Big Spring and Howard County, I wish to express my thanks for all of the kind and nice things said to me after I was selected your woman of the year.

When business men and women take time to say Jewel we are glad you were chosen as woman of the year, it makes one stop and think and count the many blessings that have been mine to receive.

Each morning as I sit drinking my first cup of coffee before my mother awakens I count my blessings for the day passed and ask the Lord to help me through another day. With out Him we can do nothing, and I pray not my will be done but thine.

Almost 20 years in Big Spring have been the most happy years in my life. Sometimes the problems were very trying, but the people have helped me over all the hard places.

I have not done much in our county, it has been the working with all of you that has accomplished the work.

The editorial in Tuesday's paper made me realize the work that must be done and if we all work together in the county and town it will be a wonderful place to live.

We do not want to see anyone suffer because we have failed to know about them. Anytime anyone knows of a problem that I might help with please, please call me.

I feel we have more handicaps, malnutrition and other conditions that are not known to us. So please make it your duty to notify the right people and get it corrected or helped.

Sincerely,
Jewel Barton, R.N.

Four From City To Attend Austin Tuberculosis Meet

A meeting in Austin Monday, called by Gov. Allan Shivers to discuss the results of the statewide study, "Searchlight on TB", will be attended by members of the committee which conducted the survey in Howard County.

Among those who will go to the meeting are Jim Smith, Ross Bartlett and Mr. and Mrs. Zack Gray.

The program, to be conducted in the House of Representatives in the Capitol, will begin at 11 a.m. Gov. Shivers will speak on the tuberculosis problem in Texas revealed by "Searchlight on TB" and measures proposed for the control and eradication of the disease.

Brief talks will also be made by representatives of state agencies which provide different services for tuberculosis control. They are Dr. W. S. Brumage, acting director, division of tuberculosis control, State Department of Health; Dr. James A. Bethea, executive director, Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools; John Winters, director, State Department of Public Welfare; J. J. Brown, director, division of vocational rehabilitation, Texas Education Agency; Dr. Milford O. Rouse, Dallas, president, Texas Medical Association; and Dr. Howard T. Barkley, Houston, president, Texas Tuberculosis Association.

Dr. Ralph E. Gray, Lake Jackson, general chairman of the study, will preside. Following the formal agenda, discussion from the floor will be invited.

"Searchlight on TB" was launched statewide in May of 1954, Jewel Barton, county health nurse, said. The purpose of the study was to "review the advances against tuberculosis to date; to take stock of existing measures for its control; to consider what remains to be done toward eradicating the disease in Texas; and to chart specific moves for reaching this goal."

Scrapping Texans Are Nothing New

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scrapping Texans have become an accepted part of Democratic national conventions.

Not since 1940 has a Texas delegation had anything like a united front. That year Texans backed John Nance Garner as a favorite son candidate against Franklin D. Roosevelt. Garner, vice president during Roosevelt's first eight years, was against a third term.

The split among Texas Democrats into liberal and conservative factions had begun to shape up even before the 1940 convention and in 1944 a clean split came. Two groups showed up at Chicago, the "regulars" or conservatives backing Virginia's Sen. Byrd and the "rump" delegation backing FDR for a fourth term.

Speeches seconding Roosevelt's nomination were going on when a compromise was reached: Each group was allocated one-half of Texas' 48 votes. In the end, with victory for FDR obvious, many "regulars" switched their votes. Texas gave 12 votes for Byrd and 36 for Roosevelt.

Gov. Beauford Jester led the state's 50-vote delegation to the 1948 convention in Philadelphia. They were in almost complete agreement in opposing Harry S. Truman as president.

Mrs. H. H. Weinert of Seguin, Democratic national committeewoman, was among the few in the delegation who said she would vote for Truman. There was talk of walking out and bolting the party in November. Jester said he would have no part in the Dixie bolt.

In the end, some delegates did walk out and joined up with the group who helped organize the Dixiecrat ticket of Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi.

Two competing delegations went to Chicago for the 1952 convention, and after bitter controversy the group headed by Gov. Shivers was recognized. They backed Georgia's Sen. Russell.

AROUND THE CAPITAL:

Shivers recently wired Texas congressmen urging their support of legislation to provide that no act of Congress shall be construed as an attempt to nullify applicable state laws on the same subject, unless expressly stated.

Rep. W. R. Poage, writing Shivers he already was on the record in support of such a bill, added: "For 170 years it had been supposed that the courts would interpret a federal law to set aside a state statute only where there was some logical reason to assume that the federal Congress had intended to override the state law.

"In recent years, however, it has become quite apparent that the court does not look to the intent of Congress, but rather attempts to interpret any congressional act to suit its own wishes."

A new member of the secretarial staff of Rep. Teague (D-Tex) is Miss Leila Winstead, graduate of Stephen F. Austin High at Bryan and a former student of TSCW at Denton. Her father, George Winstead, is here with the U.S. Information Service. He is a former director of publicity for Texas A&M.

Charges Denied That Stalin Left Army Unready

MOSCOW (AP) — The army newspaper Red Star today denounced as "absolutely wrong and harmful" recent charges that Joseph Stalin left the Soviet Union unprepared for Nazi Germany's onslaught.

The big army paper thus challenged the position taken April 24 by Military Herald, official magazine of Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

Military Herald had blamed Stalin for ignoring warnings by Soviet intelligence that Hitler planned to attack. The magazine said the German attack "turned out to be sudden for the Soviet Union although it cannot be considered to have been sudden for the highest leadership of the country which at that time was wholly concentrated in the hands of Stalin."

The conflict between the army newspaper and the magazine was the most dramatic demonstration yet of the ferment and confusion set off by the campaign of the present Soviet leadership to downgrade Stalin and rewrite the history of World War II.

Some Western observers speculated that the Military Herald's charges had been circulated too widely and had to be countered shortly and sharply. To others it appeared to be a case of serious second thoughts on how far down the Communist hierarchy the blame for Russia's unpreparedness would descend.

Red Star's article commemorating the 11th anniversary of V-E Day, took a positive attitude toward the Soviet Union's preparedness for World War II.

"The central committee of the Communist party and the Soviet government reckoned with the possibility long before the war started that Fascist Germany sooner or later would attack the Soviet Union," the army paper said.

SWC Faced With No Recruiting Woes

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FAYETTEVILL, Ark. (AP) — The Southwest Conference may add Texas Tech as a member and remove a probation hanging over Texas A&M but it won't be troubled with recruiting problems for the first time in years when it meets here this weekend.

A year and a half ago things were in such bad shape the conference issued a statement that illegal activity in recruiting and subsidization was threatening its very existence. A half-year later it placed Texas A&M on two-year probation for violating the recruiting rules.

But when the Faculty Committee, governing body of the conference, opens its spring meeting tomorrow morning it won't have even a rumor of violation of the rules, Dr. E. D. Mouzon of Southern Methodist University, conference president, said today.

"As far as I know recruiting this year has stayed with the rules closer than any other year in the history of the conference," he declared.

Texas A&M has adhered to the rules so closely since it was handed the probation that Dr. Mouzon, who was one of A&M's strongest critics, said he would support a motion to remove the ban. He revealed that he also had tried to get the NCAA to lift its probation on A&M but got only a promise that it might consider it at the next meeting of the Council in August.

The NCAA handed A&M a year's probation several weeks ago on similar charges to those that prompted the conference to act against the Aggies. Dr. Mouzon added that he had managed to soften the NCAA penalty some.

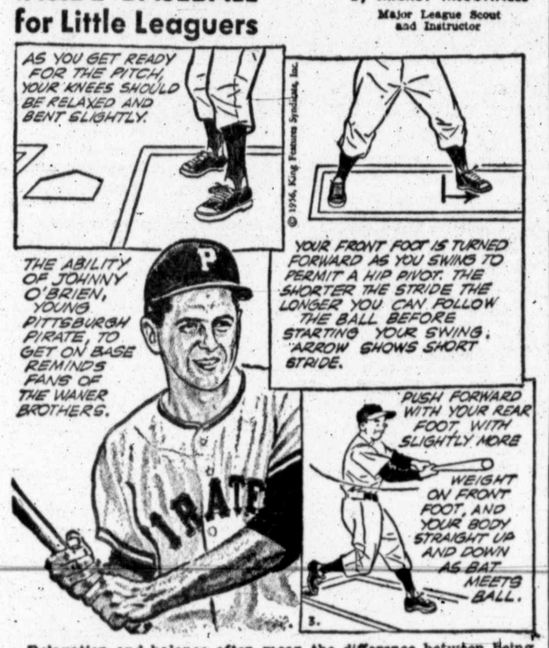

"A&M has done a fine job of clearing itself, has faithfully abided by the rules and deserves to have the probation lifted," he declared.

Texas Tech and the University of Houston will be presented for membership in the conference. Indications are that Tech will make it after 30 years of trying. Houston isn't accorded much chance at this time.

Tech claims to have at least 5 votes. That number is ncessary for the big West Texas college to gain admittance.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

Relaxation and balance often mean the difference between being a good or a poor hitter. Paul Waner proved the importance of relaxation during the years when he caused pitchers for other teams so much trouble that they called him "Big Poison"—and he still preaches it as a batting coach.

Once you are loosened up and ready to hit, don't wave the bat or clench it—but just swing the bat and let its weight drive the ball. As the pitcher draws his arm back, draw your bat back and be ready to take a level swing whether the ball is high or low. If a smart pitcher sees you waving your bat or fidgeting in the batter's box, he'll stall until your arms are tired before you even get a chance to hit. Not only a scientific place hitter like Waner could prove his point about relaxation. Johnny Mize, one of the great power hitters, also practiced it as a player and still preaches it.

It was Ty Cobb who learned that putting slightly more weight on your front foot as you swing will help to keep you from overstriding or lunging at the ball, and George Sisler stresses the importance of keeping your body from leaning forward or backward as you swing.

These fundamentals which have helped such outstanding stars will help you, too!

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Elias Gamboa, who started his sandlot baseball career 25 years ago and who can still play a lot of third base, recently agreed to manage the Big Spring Tigers, the city's oldest diamond nine.

ELIAS GAMBOA

Elias wears his years well. He performed with a Midland team in a state tournament at San Antonio as recently as 1953 and big league scouts, watching every move of the players, mistook him for a fuzzy-cheeked youngster and descended upon him to talk contract after the tournament had been completed.

This is Gamboa's fourth time to mastermind the Tigers. They got off to one of their worst starts in years this spring, which is probably the big reason he wound up with the job. Elias has a knack for eliminating the kinks in a club.

Other managers of the Bengals down through the years have been Arnofo Hernandez, who Gamboa says taught him all he knows about hitting; Julian Vega, Cruz Montanez, Juan Garcia, Hub Rutherford, Tacho Martinez and the late Ynez Yanez.

Gamboa thinks the best Tiger team with which he ever played was in 1932. That year, the club had Albert Garcia at third base, Raymond Cruz in right field, Arnoldo Hernandez at second, PeeWee Fierro catching, Gamboa in center, Callio Galinda in left field, Joe Valdez at shortstop, Juan Garcia at first, and Juan Subia, J. M. Lopez and Pop Payne as pitchers.

Floyd (Pepper) Martin, father of the former owner of the Big Spring Longhorn League club, and Jake Aleman also saw part time service with the Bengals that year.

* * *

Gamboa enjoyed his best hitting season in 1947, at which time he clubbed the ball at a .381 clip.

Elias' son-in-law, Guy Lara, is a member of the club. A former infielder, he now pitches for the Bengals.

Paul Clinite, who handled the publicity for the Ruidoso, N.M., race track last year and, in line with his duties, stopped in here often, is back promoting fights in Phoenix, Ariz.

On Tuesday night of this week, his boxing show featured Vince Martinez, the New Jersey boy who couldn't get a fight for a long time in the East because he dumped his manager, Bill Daley, and Dick Goldstein.

Clinite was more or less used as a political football in New Mexico last year. In order to get at Gene Hensley, owner of the Ruidoso track, the state racing commission, through some weird reasoning, suspended Clinite, despite the fact that Paul was doing a stellar job.

They say it could all be traced to the fact that some one on the outside wanted desperately for Hensley to sell all or part of his stock to them.

Ruidoso is one of the fastest growing race tracks in the nation and the revenue there has been growing by leaps and bounds.

Wally Post, Cincinnati's Mr. Clout, has hit 73 home runs the past two seasons. Like Babe Ruth, he started his baseball career as a pitcher.

Incidentally, when Ruth hit his 60 home runs in one season, he was 33 years of age..

New Goal Post To Be Tried

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP)— An experimental type of goal post designed to return kicking to its one-time significance in the game of football will be tried out here Saturday.

The new design, featuring a goal post within a goal post, will be used in connection with West Virginia University's annual spring intrasquad game, Coach Art Lewis said.

The arrangement, devised by Charles Simmons, a wholesale meat dealer from Elkins, will have the goal posts imbedded behind the end zones, but with the cross bar extended forward to the goal line.

The normal side bars on the goal will be raised an extra 20 feet into the air, with the cross bar 18 feet, 6 inches in length.

A small goal, with a width of 6 feet, 2 inches, will be centered with the lower cross bar, but will be 10 feet higher.

BOB BAKER SCORES SMASHING WIN OVER JOHNNY HOLMAN IN MIAMI

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The heavyweight title picture was slightly less clouded today after Bob Baker's slashing victory over John Holman, but what will happen next appears to be anyone's guess.

Baker, the Pittsburgh giant, pounded out a unanimous decision over Holman, the slow-motion Chicago boxer, last night in a 12-round bout billed as the first in a tournament to determine the successor to the retired heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

Later, Baker's manager Dusty Bettor said he had a promise from the International Boxing Club that his fighter would be matched in the second round of the eliminations with the winner of a Floyd Patterson-Hurricane Jackson bout scheduled for June 8 in Madison Square Garden.

Reports from New York, however, indicated that the Patterson-Jackson winner might meet Archie Moore for the Championship.

Moore, the ancient ruler of the light heavyweight division, is listed as the No. 1 heavy in the current Ring ratings. Jackson is ranked second, Baker third, Holman fourth and Patterson fifth.

If it accomplished nothing else, last night's fight eased the traffic jam of title contenders by eliminating Holman.

Bleeding heavily from a cut over the left eye, Holman was almost a pathetic figure as he plodded after Baker in the late rounds, trying to land a blow that could overcome Baker's mounting margin of superiority.

Baker weighed 211 pounds, Holman 206.

Souchak Seeking Elusive Crown

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP)—Mike Souchak, 29 years old today and on top of golf's dollar world, started his second try this morning for the White Sulphur Open title which he "blew" last year three holes from the end.

Souchak went into the 72-hole tourney against 40 other pros fresh from Sunday's victory in the Colonial at Fort Worth. It was his second first place of the year and gave him total earnings of $12,859.43 so far in tourneys sponsored by the Professional Golfers Assn.

The PGA isn't participating in the White Sulphur tourney, but the $2,300 first prize still would help Souchak's personal bank account.

Last year was Souchak's third and biggest year on the pro circuit. The former Duke University football player finished fifth highest money winner.

He represented the best of the so-called younger element in the game teeing off this morning against an old guard contingent led by Sam Snead, Ed (Porky) Oliver, Vic Ghezzi, Johnny Revolta, Henry Picard, Lou Worsham, Skip Alexander, and Craig Wood.

FOR NATIONALS

Jayhawks Return To Track Drills

After a one-day layoff following their return from the Texas Junior College track and field meet, six members of the Howard County college team resume workouts today for their trip to the National Juco Meet at Hutchinson, Kansas.

The sextet leaves with Coach George McAlister Thursday, May 17, for Hutchinson. Preliminaries in the big track carnival get under way Friday, May 18, while finals are down for Saturday, May 19.

HCJC's lone representative in last year's meet at Hutchinson, sprinter John Dale Curtis, will return.

Others who will go from here include Freddy Stuart, relay runner; Jim Blassingame, half-miler; Tommy Black, pole vaulter; Charles Brown, relay runner; and Harold Hicks, relay runner.

Victoria JC of Texas will probably rule an overwhelming favorite to cop the National championship again—the team was not eligible to compete at College Station beeause it is not a member of the Texas Junior College Conference—but the Hawks should be able to make a fine showing.

For one thing, Curtis is running better than he ever has before. Another, Blassingame is always tough in the 880. For still another, few pole vaulters in senior of junior college anywhere have gone higher than Tommy Black has this year. Black cleared 13 feet 1¼ inches in the meet at College Station.

HCJC won the meet easily, scoring 41 points to 24½ for Blinn, which was runnerup.

Boyd Signs SMU Athletic Letter

DALLAS (AP)—Southern Methodist University corraled two all state high school athletes among six who recently have signed letters of intent to enter the college next fall, school officials said today.

The list includes the widely-sought Bobby Boyd of Garland, twice an all-state halfback with the Class AAA Owls, and a Louisiana basketball player, Bobby James of Rustin. James had a three-year high school scoring record of 17.7 points per game.

Other Texas football players were Pat Neill, tackle, Pilot Point; Bob Koon and Bob Smith, tackle and linebacker from Palestine; and Edwin Young, tackle or end, Seminole.

Church League Adds A 7th Team, Schedule Revised

Because a seventh team, Temple Baptist, has been added, the YMCA Church Softball League schedule has necessarily had to be revised.

Temple Baptist sees action for the first time this evening, meeting East Fourth Baptist in the 9 o'clock contest at the City Park.

Patterson-Jackson Winner May Meet Moore For Title

By Jack Hand

New York (AP)—The master plan calls for Floyd Patterson to box Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson June 8 with the winner fighting Archie Moore for the vacant heavyweight title in September.

The Patterson-Jackson match was signed yesterday for Madison Square Garden as part of the usual Friday night radio-television series.

Unless something startling occurs in other elimination bouts, the Patterson-Jackson winner probably will go against Moore this fall. Of course, Archie still has his June 5 date in London where he must defend his light heavyweight title against Yolande Pompey.

It remains to be seen how the various boxing commissions will react as the tournament progresses. Perhaps New York may recognize one champion and the National Boxing Assn. another.

For months people have been asking about Patterson, "Who did he ever beat?" The answer had to be "not much." Patterson could do nothing but listen and burn up inside. Now that the match has been made, he has an out.

"People have been talking about me," he said. "How I never fought a ranked heavyweight. If I win this fight, they can't talk like that any more.

I'm really sorry Rocky Marciano quit. So many people wanted me to fight him, it would have been more like a real championship instead of a tournament."

What did he think of Jackson, his old friend?

"We used to be good friends," he said. "Even trained together some. But not when I get inside that ring. It ought to be a good fight. He has an aggravating style but I think with my tactics I might be able to outmaneuver him."

For the June 8 match, each fighter will be guaranteed $40,000. Each will get $20,000 from the radio-TV cash (no local blackout) and a guarantee of $20,000 or 25 per cent of the gross gate.

In the latest Ring ratings Jackson was No. 1 and Patterson No. 5. The NBA listed no logical contender but put Jackson No. 1 among "outstanding boxers." It ranked Patterson among the light heavies as No. 1 contender.

Patterson, 21, has a 29-1 record. Jackson, 24, has a 27-4-1 record.

Maxwell May Have Found A Home With Detroiters

By ED CORRIGAN
By The Associated Press

Charlie Maxwell, a 29-year-old nomad, has been in professional baseball since 1947 and has yet to spend as much as two complete seasons with one team.

KALINE

He's been in and out of the majors three times and has played with five different minor league clubs. But it's just possible that he finally has found himself a home with the Detroit Tigers.

A muscular left-handed swinger, Maxwell was tabbed for utility duty before the season started. Jim Delsing and Chick King were the left field platooners. But now King has departed, Delsing hasn't produced and Maxwell is practically in full charge of left field.

His two-run homer in last night's 7-3 decision over the Washington Senators didn't hurt any. Neither did his two homers Tuesday. He has hit six all told and is batting .377, third in the American League.

The Tigers still are in the league basement, but they are beginning to show some life. Al Kaline chipped in with another two-run homer and Frank House contributed a bases-loaded triple.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Cleveland Indians finally stopped the New York Yankees 6-5; the Red Sox crushed the Chicago White Sox 7-5; and the Kansas City As whipped the Baltimore Orioles 4-0 behind Art Ditmar's seven-hitter.

Only two games were played in the National League. Tom Poholsky whitewashed the Philadelphia Phillies for the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0, and the Cincinnati Redlegs edged the New York Giants 6-5.

If nothing else, the manner in which the Yanks dropped their game to the Indians proved Casey Stengel's man are not supermen.

With the score tied 5-5 and one out in the ninth inning, Chico Carrasquel lifted a routine fly to center field. Mickey Mantle parked under it, but the ball bounced out of his glove.

The Tribe shortstop moved to second on an infield out, then went all the way home when relief pitcher Tom Morgan made a bad throw to first on Jim Busby's tap in front of the plate. Morgan took the loss.

Her Score, who came out on the losing end of two 1-0 games last month, was the winner, although Don Mossi finished up for him.

Dave Sisler, son of the Hall of Famer George Sisler, protected a two-run lead for the Red Sox when he came on in the eighth inning with one out and the bases loaded. He threw just five pitches, fanning Nellie Fox and getting Minnie Minoso on a fly.

Kansas City jumped into fifth place by its victory over Baltimore. Jim Wilson, who had won three, suffered his first defeat.

Poholsky now has hurled three brilliant games in a row for the Cards. In crushing the Phillies, he was nicked for only four hits. He struck out five, didn't walk a man and now has permitted just 14 hits and one run in 26 innings. His record reads 3-0.

Reliefer Bud Freeman was credited with the Cincinnati victory over the Giants, when the Redlegs pushed across two runs in the seventh inning to go ahead to stay.

Abilene Grabs Series Lead

ABILENE, (SC)—Abilene's Eagles went one up in their series with the Snyder Tigers to decide the District 4-AA baseball champion by grabbing a 4-1 decision here Wednesday.

With 1,700 looking on, the Eagles coasted in behind the four-hit hurling of Altus Scott.

The second game of the series takes place at 4 p.m. Friday in Snyder. If a third is needed, it will be unreeled in Snyder Monday.

Scott notched his tenth win against a lone defeat. Abilene's record is now 20-3 while Snyder has won 20 and lost seven.

Ronnie Baker, a lefthander, absorbed the loss for Snyder. His record is now 6-3.

Scott retired the first 11 batters he faced and pitched hitless ball until one was down in the fifth, when Joe Reaves produced a single.

Snyder didn't score until the seventh when Reaves got his second hit, moved to second on a walk and scored on a single by Baker.

The Eagles loaded the sacks in the first but didn't get a run until the second, when they helped themselves to three runs. The big blow, a triple by Freddie Green, produced two runs.

The winner of the series meets Midland, champion of District 3-AA.

Simplified Keyboard, Standard Training Bring Jabberwocky

By LILLIAN MCLAUGHLIN
Des Moines Register

DES MOINES, May 10 (AP)—Kjg; g; ndglg ktrdh sl a ktrad, ogdko dxfgrrdh g n k j a ;kalhaoh vd-tnsaohe.

If the average secretary or stenographer had written that sentence on her typewriter it would read:

"This is being typed on a typewriter equipped with a standard keyboard."

The jabberwocky is what happens when a typist trained on the Dvorak simplified keyboard switches back to the standard typewriter, tackling the same sentence but using her Dvorak system.

I wrote it for fun, and then fled—back to the simplified keyboard on which I have been practicing for three weeks (some 40 hours' drill.)

How am I doing?

I'm getting along fine. I'm scoring an average of 45 gross words a minute on test paragraphs in my Dvorak manual, and getting faster every day.

My net score (after deductions for errors) flutters around in the low 20s.

My composing - typing speed is not so facile as it was on the standard keyboard but a lesson in the back of Dvorak's manual encourages me:

"Creative copy will come along naturally as you and the typewriter become one in expressing thoughts and feelings with machinelike ease."

At any rate, I can type well enough on the simplified keyboard to go back to my normal work, use it and meet deadlines.

My guess would be that within a month I could turn out copy faster than I used to on the standard keyboard.

(Dvorak says a superior typist will require approximately 100 hours for retraining to secure a 35 per cent improvement in daily output—speed and accuracy. Slow and mediocre typists, he says, frequently double their typing performance after 100 hours of retraining.)

I've been asked if the simplified keyboard is really easier to learn and to use?

The answer is yes. At the beginning of my project I read everything I could find on the simplified keyboard, which was considerable.

Statistics from scientific studies comparing the two keyboards were just so many numbers then, but have come to life now.

On the simplified keyboard, 70 per cent of the typing, more than 3,000 words (35 per cent of all the words used in ordinary copy) are typed exclusively on the home row (where the fingers normally rest). Finger motion is reduced by 90 per cent.

On the simplified keyboard only 61 different monosyllabic words are typed exclusively by one hand, compared to 3,800 by one hand on the standard keyboard. (I have been aware of only one: the pronoun you.)

Next question: Will the simplified keyboard ever come into general use?

That's one that three weeks' self - training hardly qualifies me to answer. But it seems fantastic, that a scientific keyboard, geared to put to use the potential speed of modern typewriters, should not be allowed to replace gradually a system worked out for the horse-and-buggy typewriters of the 19th century.

Suggs Bid Is Low On Radar Station

A Big Spring contractor was apparent low bidder on construction of a radar station at Pyote, near Pecos, Army Engineers of Albuquerque, N. M., have announced.

Suggs Construction Company of Big offered to construct the facility for $453,064. The engineers had estimated the project would cost $546,270.

Contract Let For Odessa Pump Unit

Contract for construction of a lift station at the Odessa terminal storage of the Colorado River Municipal Water District has been awarded to J. P. Cooper Construction of Odessa.

Cooper's bid of $16,479 was approximately $10,000 under the only other proposal submitted. It also was within the estimates of the engineer. Under terms of the contract signed after approval of the consulting engineer, the job is to be completed within 45 days.

Currently water flows from the terminal storage into the Odessa municipal distribution system at the rate of 15.7 million gallons per day. However, were the level to fall below a certain point, the water could not flow into the distribution system. The lift will guard against this contingency and at the same time will boost the maximum delivery of water to the system from storage to about 26 million gallons per day.

Thursday's bids included furnishing and installation of a building, foundations for pumps, electrical wiring, etc. The district is furnishing the necessary concrete steel pipe, valves, and the pump. Total cost of the job will be just under $33,000, which is more than $1,000 less than estimates for the project.

Three local members of the CRMWD board, R. T. Piner, president, R. L. Cook and Willard Sullivan were on hand for the bid openings.

Condemnation Award Upheld

The Texas Supreme Court has ruled Howard County court findings in a highway condemnation action to be proper and valid and has dismissed an appeal from the lower court's ruling brought by the land's owner.

Charles Robinson, who was not satisfied with compensation allowed him for 10 acres of his land condemned for highway needs, had appealed from the decision of the lower court.

Original action in the matter was about a year ago. The land needed is on U.S. 80 and located a short distance beyond the Cosden refinery.

Robinson was awarded $200 an acre, Harvey. Hooser, county attorney, said, by a special commission named to appraise the land. He appealed to the county court. A jury ruled that the $200 was proper remuneration.

He took his care to the appellate courts and the decision this week was the termination of the litigation.

R. F. Harris, Ex-Resident, Dies Suddenly

Word was received here Wednesday night of the sudden death, at his home in La Grange, of a former resident of Big Spring, R. F. (Bud) Harris. He was the brother of Mrs. J. Y. Robb of this city.

Mr. Harris, 48, had been undergoing medical checks recently, but his death, attributed to a heart attack, came unexpectedly.

Mr. Harris was born in Big Spring, and went through school here. Later he was employed by the Kimberlin store, and then worked for the Albert M. Fisher Company. He went from here to Pecos, then moved a number of years ago to La Grange. He joined the Rosenberg general mercantile store there, and became manager of the firm. Just a few years ago he had opened his own general clothing store in La Grange.

Mr. Harris served with the medical branch of the Army during World War II.

Survivors, besides Mrs. Robb, are his wife, Mrs. Helen Harris of La Grange, and his mother, Mrs. B. Herman of Santa Monica, Calif.

Funeral service will be in La Grange, but time of the rites and other details were incomplete, pending word of arrival in Texas of his mother.

Police Seeking Hatchet Wielder

DALLAS (AP)—Dozens of cops searched Dallas last night for a hatchet-wielding man who tried to chop his way into a drug store narcotics cabinet and then terrorized employes.

Hearing pounding in the prescription department, a woman clerk found the man, described as about 40 and sandy-haired with a crew haircut, hacking at the narcotics case. When he saw her he started chasing her with the hatchet.

Her screams attracted the manager. The hatchet thug then chased the manager before fleeing.

Indian Monkeys Visit In Israel

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Eight hundred Indian monkeys paid a brief unscheduled visit to Israel today.

They were aboard a British civilian plane which Israeli air force planes intercepted and forced to land. Also aboard were four British crewmen.

The Israelis claimed the plane had violated their country's air space. After identifying the aircraft, which was en route from India to London, officials sent it on its way.

The monkeys are to be used for production of antipolio vaccine in Britain.

COORDINATOR

River Active In C-C Many Years

(This is one of the sketches on the coordinators of the five divisions of the Chamber of Commerce, being presented in The Herald as a Chamber of Commerce Week feature.)

RAYMOND RIVER

A man who has engaged in Chamber of Commerce work "all my life" is now serving the Big Spring Chamber as coordinator of special committes.

He is Raymond River, funeral home owner, a leader in numerous other civic activities.

River is a relative newcomer to Big Spring, having moved here early in 1953 from Mineral Wells. But he quickly found a place for himself in the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations and already has served as chairman of the local Crippled Children Society, vice chairman of the Lone Star Boy Scout district, a Chamber of Commerce director and is now a director of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation.

River was born in eastern Missouri, but at an early age moved with his parents to Lamar, Mo., where his father, the late A. J. River, operated a funeral home.

Raymond started to work in his father's business at the age of 14 and has been in the profession ever since except for a brief period of semi-retirement in Mineral Wells.

He acquired his own business in 1928 and has owned a funeral home ever since except for the time in Mineral Wells when he was owner of Radio Station KORC which he still holds an interest in.

River received his education in Lamar at Central Wesleyan in Warrenton, Mo. He operated his funeral home in Missouri until 1946 when he acquired a business in Clovis, N.M., and moved there. From Clovis, he moved to Mineral Wells and then to Big Spring in February, 1953, after he and Mrs. River purchased the former Eberley Funeral Home.

Mr. and Mrs. River describe themselves as "West Texans by choice."

"We like the country, even if it is a little dusty," said River. "The dust is better than that hot, sticky atmosphere in Missouri."

River is a director for the Texas Funeral Directors Association, a position to which he was elected last year after he served the unexpired portion of the term of a retired director. He holds licenses as embalmer and funeral director in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Missouri.

He is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce at Lamar, Mo., where he was on the organization's board of directors for many years. He served 10 years on the Lamar school board. He has been a Rotarian for more than 20 years and is a past president of the Lamar club.

He has been a member of the Masonic Lodge since 1924 and is a past master, as well as past patron of the Eastern Star and past noble grand of the IOOF. River also has been active in the Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. River have two daughters, Mrs. Walter Howell of Clovis, N. M., and Mrs. Kenneth Tucker of Kansas City. They have three grandchildren.

Trustee Says Need Of Schools Urgent

The school board has no apology to make in asking votes for the impending $900,000 bond and tax issue, R. W. Thompson, vice president of the board, told Lions Wednesday.

After all, he added, "these are your children and you don't need a sales talk on education." The program of physical and staff expansion is one of the costs of progress and growth, for although more than $2¼ million has been invested in facilities during the past six years, enrollment has increased as fast as building. Thompson said that this would not, in all probability, be the last school bond issue citizens would be asked to pass.

"The funds asked are for supplying needs not on a projection of what might happen," he declared, "but for what has happened already. From where we sit, these are to meet the current, urgent needs of the district."

Thompson pointed out that the first "war baby crop" had just reached the junior high level where building facilities for 750 already are bearing the weight of about 1,100 students. Within a few years there will be 1,600 youngsters in the junior high category, hence necessity of expanding facilities in this direction.

Observing that around $140,000 is earmarked for athletic plant, Thompson said that the board regarded athletics as an essential part of the whole school program; that no capital funds have been spent for this purpose for years; and that if approved, it would mean that out of the entire building program since 1949 slightly less than six per cent would have gone to stadium facilities.

Voters also will be asked to vote for operating under Senate Bill No. 116, a device which permits separate levies for maintenance and debt sercice. This frankly would be a means of breaking out from the current overall $1.50 limit. But it would not be a blank rate check, he continued, because not only is there a bond limit of 10 per cent of valuations, but 10 cents must come off the maximum maintenance rate for each per cent over seven that the bond total bears to the total valuations.

Several districts such as Amarillo, Stanton, Lubbock, Fort Worth, Arlington, Victoria, Denison, Denton, Odessa and others have voted for the new tax structure, he said. This offers a better avenue than revaluation because of the urgency. Even if revaluation presupposed higher valuations, it would be two years before the district could realize revenue from this source, Thompson estimated.

Among visitors at the meeting were Clyde Angel, board president. Sixth grade pupils, accompanied by Mrs. Velma Griese, favored with double trio and quartet, and choral numbers.

Big Spring Trio Attends Meeting Of Presbytery

Three delegates from Big Spring First Presbyterian Church attended the spring meeting of the El Paso Presbytery in Pecos on Wednesday.

They were the Rev. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the church, DeWitt Davis and Shelby Read, elders.

Read, as a member of the Presbytery audit committee, made the report to the meeting on the committee activities.

Thirty ministers and more than 20 laymen from the churches in the El Paso area attended the meeting.

The Rev. C. T. Owens, new pastor of the church at Coahoma, was accepted into the El Paso Presbytery from the Central Texas Presbytery. The Presbytery appointed a committee to install him as pastor of the Coahoma church on June 3.

D. T. Evans, elder of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church here was named as one of the committee.

A new church for Odessa,—third for that city—was formed at the meeting.

Troy Jarvis, well known here, who is director of Christian education at the First Presbyterian Church at Odessa, was accepted as a candidate for the ministry.

Hand Grenade Found

Firemen at the Main Street substation found a live hand grenade in front of the station Wednesday but having no use for it, they turned it over to Webb AFB. It was picked up by Webb officials Wednesday afternoon.

16 Sergeants Need Housing

Housing is being sought for 16 master sergeants who are being assigned to Webb AFB from other stations within the next month.

Eight of them will need three-bedroom unfurnished houses, three will need three-bedroom furnished homes, two will need two-bedroom unfurnished places, and three will need trailer space.

Those who might have suitable quarters to rent in any of these categories are asked to notify Webb AFB through any of these three numbers: Phone 4-2511, extension 319 (Office of Information Services), or extension 297 (Personnel), or extension No. 425 (Housing).

Mercury Soars Past 100 Mark

By The Associated Press

Texas temperatures soared past the 100 mark at several points yesterday.

Dust fogged the Panhandle and South Plains. Ranchers and farmers drafted a drought relief program to be presented to Secretary of Agriculture Benson at Houston Monday.

Dust, whipped by 40 mile winds, cut visibility at many points Wednesday. Wink and Lubbock had some dust early Thursday. The forecast called for continued wind and dust in West Texas.

Presidio with 107 degrees was the hottest point in the nation Wednesday. Wink had 103 and Salt Flat 102. A number of cities reported afternoon readings in the 90s and high 80s.

Dawn temperatures ranged from 59 at Salt Flat to 74 at Beaumont.

to request emergency federal aid to help out on the project.

Construction of the six rooms tentatively planned for Park Hill or College Heights will depend on arrangements worked out with Air Force authorities for construction near the base.

Trustees don't look for any surplus of classrooms to appear in other sections of the city when Air Force personnel move into federal housing, possibly 18 months from now. They reason that private dwellings now occupied by Air Force personnel will be lived in by someone. Also, they point to the large volume of residential construction presently under way, particularly in the east and southwest parts of the city, as the prelude to increased enrollment in the city's schools.

Wildcat Tests Listed Today In Dawson, Sterling Counties

Two new wildcat prospectors have been recorded — one in Sterling County and the other in Dawson.

The Sterling venture is being staked about 14 miles southwest of Sterling City as the J. Pryor Lester Jr. No. 1 Hannah Bailey. It will be drilling to 9,500 feet with rotary equipment.

Blanco Oil Company of San Antonio will be staking the No. 2 Wright Estate about 18 miles northeast of Lamesa. It will be projected to 7,750 feet, to try the Lower Spraberry. Drillsite is about one and three-fourths mile southwest of the Felken (Lower Spraberry) field.

Freud, Psychology Pioneer, Is Likened To Columbus

By SAUL PETT
Associated Press Staff Writer

Sigmund Freud, who was born 100 years ago this month, has been likened to Columbus. Both set out searching for a new route. Both ended up discovering a new continent.

Seeking a new treatment for emotional disorders, Freud found, explored and charted the continent of the human unconscious. There had been vague glimmerings of this strange, dark land before, among writers and philosophers with rare but fragmentary insights.

Freud came up with a total picture, still disputed in details but now generally regarded as profoundly sound in its broad strokes. In fathering psychoanalysis, he gave the world a new concept of the human personality.

He found the basic needs and fears of a human being like a powerful stream. You could cover it up, dam it, divert it, but you couldn't destroy its force.

Deny, forget or distort them, these needs could be driven into dark, unconscious closets, but they would still crop up elsewhere—as a nagging sense of anxiety or guilt, as a fear of the unfearful, as an emotional storm in a life that seemed to have all the ingredients of serenity, as a sudden, very real paralysis of an arm for which there was no physical explanation, as a driving, insatiable need to succeed beyond success itself.

He saw the rational and irrational parts of human behavior as belonging and being explained by the one whole. He saw the lunatic, not as a separate mental species, but as an extension of the troubles plaguing so-called normal people.

He saw method to our madness. He saw sense in the nonsensical—in wildly unreal dreams, in forgetful human errors, in seemingly innocent slips of the tongue. He saw these as outcroppings of our unconscious thoughts.

He saw the storms of human personality shaped not merely by today's winds but more importantly by winds which blew many years before. He saw the man being explained by the child. He saw human activity being determined not merely by what we knowingly think but by what we unknowingly think. He related the past to the present, the dark to the light, the shameful to the accepted, the unconscious to the conscious.

Freud turned the mind of medicine in on itself. Among the 9,000 psychiatrists in the United States today, some still seek the basic causes of emotional disorder in brain defects and other physiological factors. But the big majority base much of their viewpoint and technique on Freudian concepts.

Measuring Freud's impact on civilization in general is more difficult.

The Victorian age, with its skittery, shushing notions of sex and propriety, belongs now to history. Grandma never read about sex in her newspaper. Today we have full published accounts of the Kinsey reports. And there are any number of authorities who will tell you that Freud helped speed the end of Victorian morality by stressing that which was elemental in man was not necessarily sinful—that a frank, objective look at his needs and his confusion about these needs could be crucially essential to his mental health.

Much of modern writing—novels, plays and movies—reflect both direct and indirect Freudian influences with their search for the inner man behind the outer man, for the childhood trauma which led to the emotional adult. Freud is also given a big assist in much of modern art—in surrealism and nonobjective painting as it reflects not the superficial, photographic world we see but the raw, ill-defined, illogical outbursts of the unconcious.

In an age of rigid, confining morality, he found that more and more of the repressed memories and feelings of guilt associated with sexual factors. A woman became ill because she felt vaguely guilty for feeling an unconscious physical attraction for her sister's husband. A grown man, after long examination, revealed an abiding sense of guilt for the infantile physical pleasures he once felt lying next to his mother as a baby.

Freud's theories evolved over many patients, through many books and after many years—and he was still working on them when he died in 1939.

Freud saw all neurosis as resulting from the restrictive demands of society clashing with man's libido — his instinctive, pleasure-seeking drives. At first, Freud limited his view of the libido to physical sex; later he included a need for nonphysical love, affection and support.

It was this emphasis on sex which led then and now to all the arguments about Freud.

30 Jap Fish Boats Near H-Bomb Scene

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese government spokesman estimated today that between 20 and 30 fishing vessels are operating near the prohibited zone in which the United States plans to explode n H-bomb.

Sixteen Japanese freighters are in the mid-Pacific, the official added, but they also have been warned and only three are even near the Marshall area.

Sen. Aiken Urges Farm Bill Veto Unless Section Is Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said today he would recommend another veto unless the Senate removes from the new soil bank farm bill a section boosting livestock feed grain prices.

"We've retained the most objectionable feature of the vetoed bill," said Aiken, who often speaks for the administration of farm policies. Eisenhower vetoed the first farm bill April 16, calling it a bad measure.

Aiken spoke to newsmen as the Senate Agriculture Committee sent the new measure to the Senate. Consideration there is expected next week.

Aiken said he finally voted against even sending the bill to the Senate after losing by an 8-4 margin his effort to revise the controversial feed grain section.

"We will file a minority report," Aiken said. "I may offer some amendments on the Senate floor but I plan no long fight.

"It's not worth it," he said. "The committee members knew what they were doing. This will help a few individual farmers in a few states by about 175 million dollars in soil bank benefit payments and cost all other farmers and consumers some 500 million dollars a year."

Aiken said "it would increase the cost-price squeeze already hurting most of our farmers."

Chairman Ellender (D-La) of the Agriculture Committee hurried from the closed-door meeting but told reporters he expects the Senate to pass the bill quickly, including all provisions added by the committee.

Today's meeting followed eight hours of sessions yesterday after which the committee voted 13-1 last night to send the bill to the Senate, subject to reconsideration of the controversial feed grains section today.

Most of the dispute centers around the level of government price supports for oats, barley, rye and grain sorghums as well as corn produced outside of the commercial corn area, chiefly the Midwest.

After Eisenhower vetoed the original catch-all farm bill, which included the soil bank, the House then voted for the soil bank plan but tacked on several other provisions opposed by the administration.

Chief among these was mandatory supports for feed grains, other than commercial corn, for growers who agree to reduce croplands and participate in the soil bank.

Aiken, in an effort to knock out this provision, offered a compromise proposal to lift all planting controls on these feed grains this year and boost price supports from 70 to nearly 76 per cent of parity.

The committee accepted Aiken's proposal on this year's crops but then picked up the House-approved mandatory and higher supports for 1957 and 1958.

It is this action that Aiken tried to revise today and failed.

In last night's 13-1 vote, Sen. Williams (R-Del) opposed sending the bill to the Senate.

Among other things, the bill retains price support levels for corn and other livestock feed grains—oats, rye, barley and grain sorghums—which President Eisenhower has criticized in the past. The committee added also provisions for a two-price plan for rice and for keeping for two more years present price support levels on wheat, corn and peanuts.

Missing from the bill was Eisenhower's requested authority to make advance payments of up to 500 million dollars this year to farmers who sign contracts to put part of their croplands into the soil bank next year.

Instead, the Senate committee approved a provision to pay farmers benefits this year on acres they agree to take out of 1956 production. The House bill has a similar arrangement.

Under the two-price program for rice, urged by Ellender, growers would get one price for that part of their crop used for food in this country and Cuba and a lower price for that going into export.

Ellender said it would not go into operation unless the secretary of agriculture approved. If he did, the program would have to be tried for two consecutive years out of the next three.

The committee also voted to retain the present rice allotment of about 1,700,000 acres for the next two years.

Sen. Young (R-ND) won approval of an amendment that would prevent a scheduled drop in the parity and support levels for wheat, corn and peanuts during the next two years, retaining existing parity levels for that period.

It could prevent a drop of as much as as 15 cents a bushel for wheat, 6 cents a bushel for corn and 1½ cents a pound for peanuts if supports were at the minimum of 75 per cent of parity during the next two years.

Even Angels Feel At Home On Heavenly New Floors

Angels would adore to tread on today's floor coverings — covered with gold flecks, soft as a kitten's ear, noiseless as a cloud.

These days you just don't get fond of one floor covering and do your entire house in it. You experiment with a different floor surface in every room for a fashionable effect, if you like.

Take that entrance hall. If it is small you can make it look larger by a cleverly laid bold directional pattern in rubber tile. It is easily cut into custom designs so that a choice of designs might be had to perform all sorts of optical illusions.

If you prefer linoleum, you might enjoy one of the elegant new designs such as one flecked with gold chips available in handsome pattern of giant black and cocoa squares. Lovely with wrought iron furniture.

One of the oldest materials, ceramic tile, has gone too from kitchen and bathroom into the living area of the home. Paul McCobb, well-known designer, uses it in his own apartment for entrance hall, foyer and dining room. John Wisner uses leaf green, sapphire blue and pale yellow tiles in broad stripes in a contemporary living room.

Plastic and asphalt tiles offer interesting effects for floors. The newest idea is a plastic cork tile that is smart in den or entrance hall, music or sun room.

Carpet manufacturers have not been asleep, however. Warm and glowing colors are achieved in wool, rayon, nylon, cotton or combinations of those fibers. They have managed to foil the L or U-shapped room too, in many instances, with tufted seamless carpet made to the exact measure of the floor. Although custom ordered it is less expensive in the long run because you pay only for what you use. Wool may be dyed to match any color sample.

Rest Of Family Likes Surprises On Special Day

Well, so much for Ma and the ladies. Here's how to please other members of the family.

The small fry contingent; vanilla pudding with a maraschino cherry nestling in a snowy nest of flaked coconut.

The teenage set: a sundae made from vanilla or chocolate ice cream, bananas, crushed pink peppermint candy, chocolate fudge sauce and flaked coconut. It sounds disastrous, but they love it.

Pa, plus sisters cousins, and aunts; Angelfood cake (homemade, from a mix or bakery-bought) cut into three layers and sandwiched together with lemon filling made from a mix) and the whole covered with sweetened whipped cream and studded with flaked coconut.

Grandma and Grandpa: old-fashioned Ambrosia. Rounds of membrane-free orange and sliced bananas are arranged on a glass serving plate—the banana is sprinkled with lemon juice, the orange with sugar. Then the pretty showpiece is sprinkled with flaked coconut and chilled before serving. No geriatrics expert could say this dessert isn't fitting and nutritious.

IS SOMEONE YOU LOVE
GRADUATING THIS YEAR?

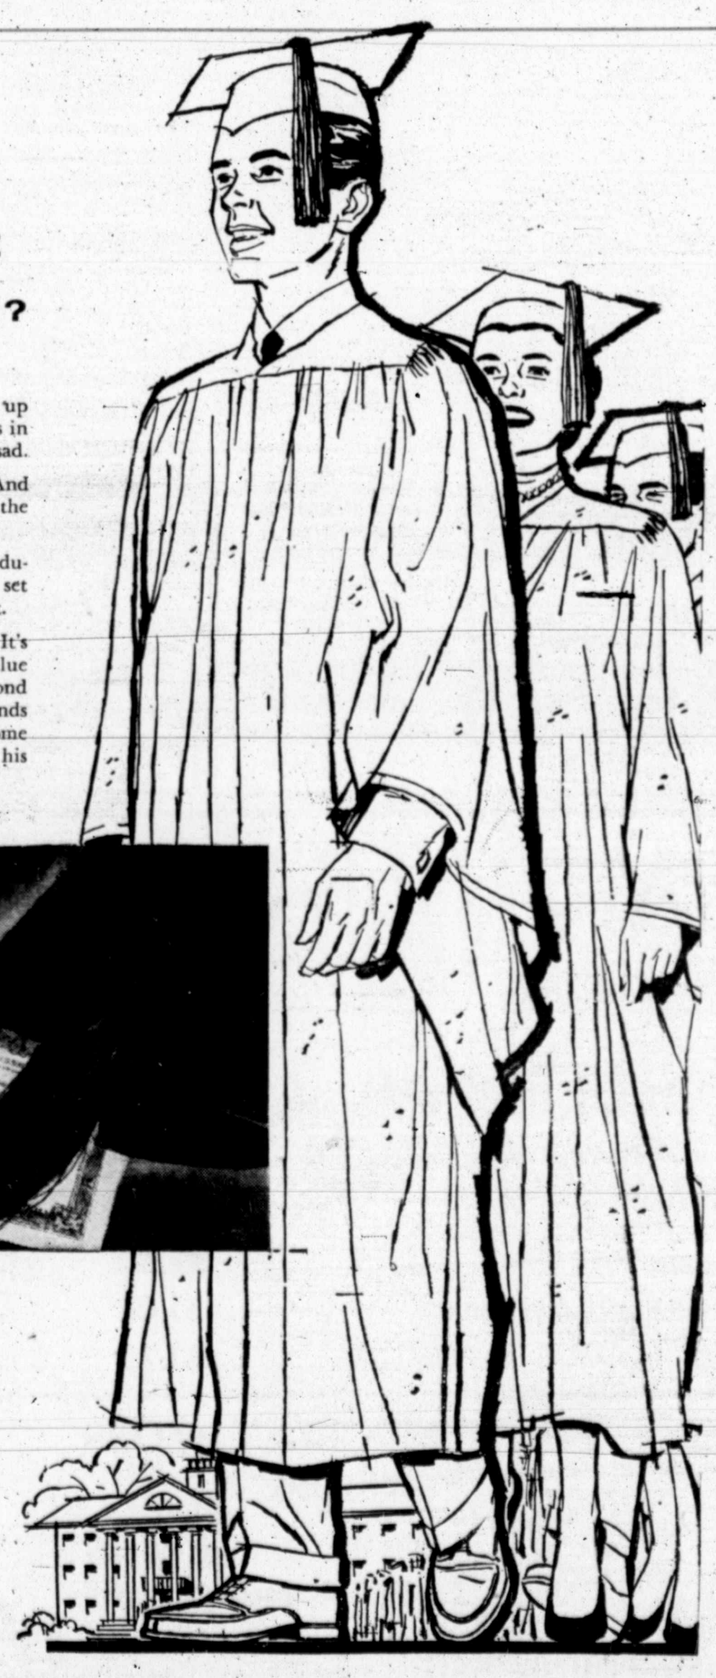

How thrilling it is to watch your boy or girl step up to receive a diploma. How grown-up he or she looks in cap and gown. How proud you feel—and a little bit sad.

Graduation is a great day. A tender one, too. And one that joins memories of the past to thoughts for the future.

Undoubtedly you're planning on giving your graduate a special gift. Something that he's had his heart set on for a long time. But here's an additional thought.

Why not give a United States Savings Bond, too? It's the gift that speaks of the future — increasing in value as time goes on. Your graduate will treasure your Bond — and it may become the first step in a Savings Bonds program that will make some special big dream come true. Like further education, a trip to Europe or his or her first home.

Savings Bonds are easy to buy — no sizes or colors to worry about. Buy your Gift Bond in the denomination you choose— $25, $50 or $100 — at your local bank.

And while you're there, buy a Bond for yourself, too. Or sign up for Payroll Savings where you work. There's no better way to make your own dreams come true.

For the big things in your life -- be ready with U. S. Savings Bonds

Russia Ready To Announce Arms Cutback

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia is reported preparing to announce a drastic cutback in conventional arms which may reduce her armed forces to 1½ million men and slash her military budget.

High Western diplomats in the Soviet capital predict the Kremlin will proclaim a decision to cut its armed forces to levels suggested at the recent, stalemated East-West arms talks in London. The cut, they said, would not be conditional on the West joining in.

The Soviets proposed at the London talks that the armed forces of Russia, the United States and Red China be limited to 1½ million men each. The Western Powers suggested a ceiling of 2½ million.

Four visiting members of France's Parliament said they had been tipped by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev:

"The Soviet government is at this moment taking a very important decision which will be announced soon."

Western diplomats feel Russia would like to cut her armed forces for other reasons as well as for the propaganda effect.

The present Soviet government apparently is not so apprehensive of war as was Stalin, who established the present levels. (The State Department has estimated that Russia has some 4½ million men under arms with 175 to 225 division ready for combat.) With advances in atomic development, the Russian leaders probably feel safe in reducing conventional arms.

Uncle Ray:

Caesar Was Hailed As Deity In Rome

By RAMON COFFMAN

During the coming summer I expect to "cross the Rubicon."

According to my plan, this will happen while I am riding northward out of Italy.

That event will mean only a little in my life, but it meant a great deal to Julius Caesar to cross that river while moving southward. He was leading his forces past the southern limit of Gaul.

It seems that Caesar was accompanied by only one legion (about 5,000 soldiers) when he crossed the Rubicon. As he marched toward Rome, however, he was joined by many former soldiers.

Caesar with Calpurnia, his third wife.

Before long, he learned of the trip of Pompey across the Adriatic. On the other side of that sea, said the reports, Pompey was adding to the size of his army.

Fearing that Pompey might return to Italy with powerful forces, Caesar decided to pursue him. After crossing the Adriatic, he suffered defeat in an early battle but saved most of his army. Thousands of additional soldiers joined him.

Then came a deciding battle. With 24 thousand men, Caesar marched to a district near the town of Pharsalus in northern Greece. There he attacked Pompey's forces, which contained more than twice as many men.

Caesar was the victor, and returned to Rome in triumph. There the Roman senate named him dictator ("the one who says") for a period of 10 years. Later he was made "dictator for life." As it turned out, his life lasted only two years after his first appointment as dictator!

A legend in Caesar's family spoke of the goddess Venus as one of his ancestors. Perhaps this story suggested to him that he was really a god who had come to earth to rule a mighty empire. A statue of Caesar was set up in a temple, and carved on the statue were Latin words meaning "To the Unconquerable God."

DENVER (AP)—Great Basins Petroleum Co. announced yesterday its stockholders had approved acquisition of Brown Well Service of West Texas, Odessa, and two other companies.

Great Basins said the other two firms, Lincoln Petroleum Co., Los Angeles, and Lincoln Oil, Gas & Refining Co., Denver, gave a grand total of assets of more than 10 million dollars.

Great Basins said the firms hold producing properties in nine states and additional selected unexplored leases covering 400,000 acres in 12 states and Canada.

The Denver firm said Brown Well Service stockholders will receive 300,000 shares of Great Basins stock, plus $112,500 cash and a four per cent promissory note for $864,500 to be paid out of permanent financing.

French Troops, Algerian Rebels Locked In Combat

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—French troops on both sides of flaming Algeria battled nationalist rebels today in grim retaliation for continuing coordinated attacks on European farms and military posts.

Heavy rebel losses were claimed as French forces fanned out in counterstrikes against the raiders, but slashed communication lines hampered any accurate estimate of casualty totals.

The Arab nationalists did not let up in their own campaign of hit-and-run arson and assassination. Fragmentary reports said at least 14 persons were killed by rebels in attacks on some 46 towns and military stations in eastern Algeria.

In Western Algeria, where the rebels opened their concerted offensive Sunday, French authorities said strong counterattacks had taken the lives of at least 200 rebels. Twenty Europeans were reported killed and some 40 farms burned in the original nationalist assaults in that sector.

Stepping up their assaults this week, the rebels poured out of their mountain strongholds to make well-planned strikes with machine guns, grenades, rifles and crude gasoline bombs.

In the town of Rouached, north of Constantine, 10 houses were burned and at least six rebels killed. Near Redjas, five Moslems friendly toward the French were found with their throats slit.

Visitors Stay And Stay In Chambers Of Judges

By SAM BLACKBURN

Offices in the Howard County courthouse from top to bottom are all tastefully and adequately furnished. There was ample consideration given to the matter of comfort for the workers—more so, in fact, than is generally the case in such buildings.

But there are two pieces of furniture, exclusively limited to only two offices, which catch the eye of every visitor.

Proud possessors of these special pieces are the occupants of the posts of District Judge and County Judge.

Just how it happens that these two dignitaries were singled out for the special distinction these pieces of furniture afford is not quite clear. There are varying explanations.

EYE CATCHERS

If you are a caller in the office of either Charlie Sullivan, the district judge, or in the private chambers of R. H. Weaver, the county judge, your attention is immediately attracted to a huge chair. They are identical and are only found in the two offices mentioned.

These chairs are giant affairs, luxuriantly upholstered, built on heroic molds. They are those Fancy Dan chairs which, when the occupant seats himself and relaxes, the back gently lowers itself. Instantly, an extension emerges from the front of the chair and lifts the sitter's legs and feet to a most comfortable level. The chairs readily adjust to whatever position best suits the user.

Experiment reveals that it is very, very easy to sit in these chairs—so easy, indeed, that when a visitor has established himself he finds it difficult indeed to abandon his position.

LONG VISITS

Perhaps, some courthouse attaches argue, this is why callers at the offices of the two magistrates are inclined to prolong their stays. But, of course, it may be that the business they have to discuss with the judges is such that somehow it requires more time than is the case in visitors to other offices.

It is rather amusing, at times, to be in either office and watch visitors. The one who gets there first and, naturally, usurps possession of the contour chair, draws envious and malignant glances from the others who were a few seconds too late.

There is no recorded instance, it is said, where the occupant has risen to his feet on such occasions and suggested that the later arriving caller take the chair.

A strange thing about the chairs—rarely does either Judge Sullivan or Judge Weaver make use of them. These gentlemen prefer, it seems, the seats at their desks.

JUDGES SILENT

The obvious intent of providing such equipment for the offices of the two presiding jurists of the county was to enable the judges to relax in the intervals between tiring sessions on the bench.

If this was the purpose, it has missed its target.

The chairs are popular—indeed yes!

But their popularity is greatest with the casual visitors who make their way to the chambers of the two judges.

On hotter days of the year, it is very, very refreshing to remember something you should discuss with Judge Sullivan or Judge Weaver and, while engaged in such discussion to ensconce yourself in these big overstuffed chairs and cool off for an hour or so.

And what do the judges personally think about these special chairs they have have in their offices?

Both maintain a discreet judicial silence.

There are observers, however, who will suggest there are times when both Judge Sullivan and Judge Weaver would just as soon that the county fathers had not been so efficient in their work.

Dog Ends Vigil At Wreck Scene

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — A dog has ended his two-day vigil beside U. S. 50 east of Pueblo.

Officers today found that he had disappeared.

The dog's owner, Herman A. Brook, was injured and another dog was killed in an automobile accident 25 miles east of Pueblo Monday.

He was left behind when Brook was taken away in an ambulance. Brook is in a Pubelo hospital with a broken leg, head cuts, and a back injury.

Patrolman Lloyd Goldsmith returned to the scene yesterday to take pictures of the wreckage. He found the dog standing guard, growling at anyone who approached him, refusing offers of food.

Martha Raye Shows Evidence

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedienne Martha Raye came up today with a picture which, she said, proves she didn't have dinner alone at the Stork Club with a man whose wife is suing her for alienation of affections.

Martha's photograph shows her seated between, Robert O'Shea, whose wife is suing her for $50,000, and "Al Riddle, my boy friend, from Las Vegas."

A previously published version of the same picture showed only the portion with her and O'Shea. The date the photograph was made was not disclosed, but Martha said:

"See — I wasn't sitting alone in the Stork Club with O'Shea, as you can plainly see."

Alluding to Riddle's presence, she continued:

"I met him out there when I was playing in one of the gambling joints. Al's a dealer at one of the tables. We liked each other right off, and he came to New York several times to visit me."

"The night that picture was taken it just happened O'Shea was with me as one of my regular bodyguards.

"I'd been getting mysterious threats on the telephone, so I hired four Westport (Martha's home is at Westport, Conn.) cops."

She said she knew when she first saw the published version of the picture that Riddle should have been shown also.

Texan Killed In Jet Crash

SHAW AIR FORCE BASE, S.C. (AP)—A Texan was one of three airmen killed yesterday in the mid-air collision of two jet planes about 6 miles south of here.

He was First Lt. Henry T. Parsons, son of John Parsons, Rt. 1, Spur. His wife, Mrs. Lannell L. Parsons, lives here.

The other victims were First Lt. Winston M. Phillips of Birmingham, Ala., and Airman 2 C. Royce R. Holland of Holland Pinson, Ala.

Parsons was piloting a RF8RF jet reconnaissance ship which collided with a weather reconnaissance plane carrying the other two.

Navy Identifies Crash Victims

GUAM (AP) — The Navy today identified the three victims of the crash of a two-engine attack bomber photo plane Monday at the naval station here.

The pilot, Lt. David T. Avery, died Monday night. He is survived by his widow in San Diego.

The others were Lt. (jg) Don C. Boothe, co-pilot, son of Mrs. Clare A. Boothe, 808 Mississippi St., Amarillo, Tex., and Aviation Machinist's Mate 1.C. Glenn R. Hable Jr., survived by his father Glenn R. Hable Sr., San Pedro, Calif., and his widow Shirley.

No, Not Triplets, Just 3 Generations

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP)—Police records today had this notation in connection with a 2-car accident:

The driver of one of the cars—Manuel L. Souza, 187 Smith St.

An injured party — Manuel L. Souza, 187 Smith St.

Witness questioned — Manuel L. Souza, 187 Smith St.

They are different parties, three generations of a family.

Allowable Cut In Six Fields

AUSTIN (AP)—Inability of Cities Service Oil Co. to take its normal share of oil production in six West Texas fields has prompted a cut in allowables for those areas.

Following an emergency hearing Monday, the Railroad Commission yesterday placed the Block 12 Field on seven producing days for May. The Elkhorn (Ellenburger), Shafter Lake (Devonian) and Shafter Lake (Wolfcamp) Field, were put on 15 days and the Shafter Lake (Yates) Field on 13.

The Elkhorn (Ellenburger) is in Crockett County. The others in Andrews County. All six previously had been on the regular statewide producing pattern of 16 days for May.

The commission was told Cities Service could purchase only 80 per cent of normal from its connections in the fields. The curtailment is designed to achieve proportionate take from each of the fields.

Brownwood Woman Is Baptist 'Mother Of Year'

DALLAS — Mrs. Susan Ellen Weedon, a 92-year-old pioneer who was reared in a log cabin and taught her first Sunday school class under a brush arbor, Wednesday was named as the 1956 Texas Baptist mother of the year.

She has 10 sons and daughters, 20 grandchildren and 30 great-grand-children. She is a member of the Coggin Avenue Baptist Church in Brownwood and has been an active church worker for more than 70 years.

Mrs. Weedon grew up in Indian country and has spent her whole lifetime within 25 miles of the place where she was born. Baptist leaders in Dallas said she was chosen "mother of the year" because of the lasting influence she has had on the lives of her children and the outstanding contributions she has made to community and church life through her religious work.

All 60 of the great-grandmother's children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren are Christians and church members, with the exception of the smaller ones who are not yet old enough to decide religious matters for themselves. Four are in full time religious work.

Mrs. Weedon was born in a log cabin on the banks of Pecan Bayou and first taught Sunday school in 1896 under a brush arbor. Her secret of longevity, she said, was that "I just worked and sang and prayed and had a good time."

Have To Find A New Way To Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — George P. Mahoney, who has run in four major elections since 1950 but never made it, has found new twists to the story most every time.

Under Maryland's county unit vote system, similar to the national electoral college, Mahoney tied rival Millard E. Tydings in unit votes for the Democratic senatorial nomination Monday, but appears the loser by popular votes, which count in the event of tie.

Tuesday night City Councilman James J. Duffy summed up: "They're going to have to find a new way to beat Mahoney. He's won and lost, lost and lost and now he's tied and lost."

Adlai Warned

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — A large sign on the roof of an auto repair shop looked down on Democratic presidential contender Adlai Stevenson in a speech at the Albany Freedom Movement.

It read:

"Careful what you say, Adlai. This side of the street is good Republican territory."

Youngsters 'Treat' Mothers By Helping In Kitchen Sunday

Cookie Cut-Ups

Larry Callihan, 6, and brother Alton, 4, take over in the kitchen at cookie-making time. Here they are rolling out a batch in honor of Mother's Day. Mother, Mrs. Ross Callihan, fixes the boys up with aprons and a low table so they really get that important feeling of lending Mom a hand. (Photo by Keith McMillin)

Every youngster loves to "help" Mom in the kitchen.

This dubious treat for Mother's Day can be enjoyed by children and Mom, both, with patience and planning, according to Mrs. Ross Callihan.

Her two boys, Larry, 6, and Alton, 4, like to get sticky with cookie dough and assist Mom with the rolling, cutting and decorating of fancy shapes.

"I won't say it doesn't get on my nerves," says Mrs. Callihan, laughing. "All children are messy, but then I spill things, too."

Mrs. Callihan stays in the kitchen with the boys and fixes a small table where they can work.

"Two children together can come up with pretty original ideas," thinks Mrs. Callihan. The boys like animal cutters best so they can stick in raisin eyes. With parental supervision, they can squeeze frosting outlines from a decorator's tube. Colored sugar is easy and pretty for them to sprinkle on the cookies.

Larry is old enough to stir in the ingredients his mother measures. Here is the basic recipe they use:

COOKIES

2-3 cup butter
1 cup sugar
¼ cup milk
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
4 cups flour

Cream butter and sugar. Beat in egg. Dissolve soda in milk and add to mixture. Then add vanilla and stir flour in slowly. Add salt. Chill ½ hour. Roll to ⅛-inch thickness and cut with floured cutter.

FROSTING

2 cups powdered sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter
Milk or cream to moisten

Sift sugar. Add melted butter and vanilla. Add milk, a few drops at a time, until a stiff mixture is formed. Color with a drop of vegetable coloring.

Airy Dessert Wins Favor Of Ladies

All ladies like light, airy sweet desserts. Mom is no exception. Fix this for her:

PRUNE CHIFFON

Ingredients:

One envelope unflavored gelatin, ½ cup cold water, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cans (5 ounces each) strained cooked baby-food prunes, 1 teaspoon aromatic bitters, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 2-3 cup icy-cold evaporated milk (whipped) or 1 cup heavy cream (whipped).

Method:

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water in top of double boiler. Place over boiling water and stir until gelatin dissolves. Add sugar and salt; stir until sugar dissolves; remove from heat. Stir in prunes, aromatic bitters, and lemon juice.

Chill until slightly thickened. Fold into whipped evaporated milk or cream; pile gelatin mixture into sherbet or parfait-glasses and chill until firm. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Instant Cream Has Pantry Top Spot

Take a look in Mom's pantry. Bet she's using many store-bought quickies, one of them instant cream.

She has a trick of using it to make rich, smooth sauces. During the warm weather she can use instant cream in homemade ice cream sodas and in chilled soups to good effect.

Want biscuits and pastry to have a beautiful golden glaze? Mix a tablespoon of the instant cream with a tablespoon of hot water; brush the mixture on the biscuits or pastry before baking.

If there are tea-drinkers in her household Mom can strongly recommend instant cream for use in a good hot strong cup of that comforting beverage.

Ellis "A Meal in a Minute" BEEF STEW

Meat Loaf Boasts Surprise Gimmick

Meat loaves are ideal main courses for inexperienced cooks to prepare for Mother. This is one with a gimmick:

MEAT LOAF SURPRISE

1¼ pounds ground beef
¾ cup uncooked oatmeal
1 egg
1 teaspoon pepper
1 cup bouillon
1 medium onion
2 large dill pickles
¾ pound natural mild cheese

Combine ground beef, rolled oats, egg, salt, pepper and beef bouillon in a bowl. Put half of meat mixture into a one-pound loaf pan, making a hollow (1 inch deep and 2 inches wide) in the center of the meat mixture.

In this hollow place a layer of onions, dill pickles and cheese. Cover with the remaining meat mixture. (The meat should completely seal in the center ingredients to keep meat loaf firm and to avoid overmelting of the cheese.)

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 60 to 65 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Remove from pan. (It is easier to slice if meat loaf rests for another 5 to 10 minutes after removing from pan.) Serve hot or cold. Garnish with sliced tomatoes, cucumbers and green onions if served cold.

Cheese Imparts Heavenly Flavor

If Mom likes Swiss cheese she'll go for this recipe:

Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in a large saucepan. Add ½ cup chopped onion and cook until a yellowish color. Add ½ cup chopped green pepper, 2 cups uncooked white rice, 1, No. 303 can tomatoes, 2 teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon black pepper and 3½ cups water. Bring to a vigorous boil.

Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid and leave over this low heat 14 minutes. Turn off the heat. Stir in 1½ cups grated Swiss cheese. Continue to cook slowly if all of liquid has not been absorbed. Serve with cooked green peas.

Strawberries Add Spring Note To Pie

For a springtime touch to pie, choose large unhulled strawberries for garnish.

Starting at the tip, divide each berry into thirds lengthwise by cutting twice almost through hull. Slightly spread slices into fan shape and arrange each berry at intervals over whipped cream and coconut on top of chiffon filling.

Sliced berries must be handled carefully and not spread too much or they will break off from hulls.

"What She Does In The Kitchen – –"

6-Year-Old Fixes Salad, Pie Crust

Mrs. Horace Garrett should be royally entertained on Mother's Day.

Six-year-old daughter Ann, assisted by the family cook, Annie Mae, plans a gelatin salad and ice box lemon pie for the event.

Perched on the cabinet, Ann carefully cuts up ("mutilates," says her mother) salad vegetables and fruits and stirs gelatin. Here is her favorite salad:

PRIZE SALAD

Dissolve a package of raspberry gelatin in a cup of hot water. Add a 1-pound can of cranberry jelly and ½ cup cold water. Chill until partially thickened. Fold in a small orange, peeled and diced, ½ cup pineapple chunks and ¼ cup chopped walnuts. Chill until firm. This is good with poultry.

Vanilla wafer crusts are another of Ann's specialties.

"She crushes the wafers on a piece of waxed paper to make the crust — if she doesn't eat the crumbs first," says Mrs. Garrett. The crumbs are moistened with melted butter, pressed into a pie plate and chilled before adding this filling that Ann loves:

ICE BOX LEMON PIE

3 eggs beaten
Juice of 2 lemons
Grated lemon rind
Dash salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 can sweetened condensed milk

Combine and pour into crust. Chill well before serving.

Teenager Could Give Tips To Older Cooks

Red roses striking a vibrant note against a white lace cloth is Barbara Porch's idea of a Mother's Day centerpiece.

And the menu? Baked ham, candied yams, fresh corn, green beans, vegetable salad, hot rolls and iced tea, all climaxed with Barbara's specialty, coconut pie.

Mothers like Mrs. Alva Porch with older daughters can really relax Sunday. A home economics student, Barbara, 16, might even teach some mothers a cooking trick or two, especially about pie-making. This is a never-fail recipe as far as Barbara is concerned:

PASTRY

1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅝ cup shortening
¼ cup water

Mix together salt and all of flour except ½ cup, which is mixed separately with the water to make a paste. Cut shortening into dry ingredients until very fine. Then add paste and mix thoroughly. Knead and roll on lightly floured board. Makes a one crust shell for this filling:

COCONUT FILLING

1¼ cups sugar
4 tablespoons flour
1 box coconut
2 cups milk
2 eggs
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt

Combine sugar, flour, salt, coconut. Add milk slowly, stirring to prevent lumping. Then add egg yolks one at a time and beat after each addition. Cook in double boiler until thick for 15 minutes. Add butter and vanilla. Set aside for cooling. Pour into crust, then top with this:

MERINGUE

3 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon baking powder

Beat whites until peaks form. Add 1 tablespoon sugar at a time, beating after each addition. Then add baking powder. Swirl over all of pie with spatula and brown in oven.

Chill Easy Pie

Mix a cup of finely crushed graham-cracker crumbs with a third cup of butter; pat evenly over bottom and sides of an eight-inch pie plate. Chill, then add a filling of whipped cream (sweetened) and sliced bananas.

Wake Mom With Tray Of Goodies

Wake Mother with breakfast in bed Sunday.

Serve these Muffin Eggs with chilled orange juice, cereal and strawberries and cream. Buy a pecan coffee ring to nibble on with after-breakfast coffee. Here is the way to fix the main course:

MUFFIN EGGS

INGREDIENTS:

Four large English muffins, 4 eggs, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine (soft), ¼ cup grated Romano cheese.

METHOD:

Preheat oven thoroughly at very hot (475 degrees). Put the eggs in a bowl of very hot tap water to warm while oven is being preheated. Cut the center from each English muffin almost to the bottom with a 3-inch cookie cutter and work out circles with a fork, making wells as deep as possible.

Spread wells of muffins and rough surface of cutout portion with butter and place muffin wells on a sheet of aluminum foil. Toast in preheated oven 5 minutes. Remove from oven. Break an egg into each buttered muffin well. Cover eggs with grated Romano cheese. Return to oven and bake until whites are opaque and yolks are as firm as desired—about 5 minutes for soft-cooked yolks, about 10 minutes for firm yolks. Muffin will be crustiest when baked 10 minutes.

Meanwhile toast the buttered cut-out portions in the oven; if they do not get brown enough to suit you, put them under the broiler. Serve each muffin egg with a cut-out portion at once. Makes 4 servings.

NOTE:

The Romano cheese will probably supply enough salt for the eggs for most eaters; but a pepper grinder and extra butter may be passed. A 1¾-inch cookie cutter may be used for cutting out muffin centers; because muffins are placed on aluminum foil it won't matter if eggs are large and whites run over outside of muffins a bit.

The Romano cheese may be bought in 6-ounce wedges. Use a French rotary grater for shredding the cheese if one is available.

Heat Two-Way Soup

Children usually like bowls of two-way soup. Heat cream of tomato soup in a sauce-pan; in another pan heat cream of green pea soup. Holding one pan of soup in one hand, and the other pan of soup in the other hand, pour the two varieties into a soup bowl at the same time. The tomato soup will stay at one side of the bowl, the green pea soup at the other, creating an effect that will seem wonderful to Junior!

Fill Mom's Cookie Jar

More experienced junior cooks can lend a hand with the baking and mix up a batch of these Chinese Almond Cookies, Americanized with rolled oats.

Cookie Bakers Adapt Chinese Cakes To US

Mom likes to munch on cookies just like the rest of her family. Fill the cookie jar for her with these:

CHINESE-AMERICAN ALMOND COOKIES

Ingredients:

1½ cups sifted flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup butter or margarine, ¾ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon almond extract, ½ cup uncooked quick rolled oats, whole unblanched almonds.

Method:

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. With electric mixer or wooden spoon, beat butter; gradually and thoroughly beat in the sugar. Beat in egg and almond extract. Stir sifted flour mixture into creamed mixture until blended. Stir in rolled oats so as to distribute evenly. Chill.

Shape dough into balls about the size of a walnut; place on buttered cookie sheet allowing 2 inches between each. Flatten balls with the bottom of a glass tied round with waxed paper. (Or use a glass with several thicknesses of cheesecloth wrung out of cold water and tied over its bottom.)

Press a whole almond into the center of each cookie. Bake cookies in a moderate (375 degrees) oven 8 to 12 minutes. Remove from cookie sheets with a wide spatula to cooling rack. When cold, store cookies in a tightly covered container and they will stay crisp. Makes about 40 cookies.

Note:

If you want to shape the cookies without chilling and the dough is very soft, keep wetting hand with cold water and you will be able to roll the dough into balls between your palms. In this case, use the cold damp cheesecloth-covered bottom of a glass for stamping cookies flat.

Diet Painlessly

Here's a lunch you can prepare for a dieting mother:

Arrange sliced hard-cooked eggs over creamed cooked broccoli or canned asparagus (heated) and serve with crisp buttered toast for a delicious lunch. If canned pimiento is on hand, add some strips of it for a garnish.

Colored Telephones Catching On Here

Green. Ivory and black.

Red. Yellow. . .

They're going into homes and business offices here at the rate of 15 per month — "they" being colored telephones.

Whereas only three and four were being installed here by the telephone company last summer, officials report they are installing between 10 and 15 each month now. The national rate is only about 50 per cent more than were being placed a year ago.

Here now, a colored phone can be ordered and delivered almost immediately.

Bell Telephone came out with the colored plastic telephone body about three years ago, but only last fall were they available here in abundance. Up to that time, the local company had to order them and wait weeks for the order to be filled before they could install it.

Eight solid colors and three combinations are available in desk type phones, and four solid colors are offered for wall models.

The colors for desk models are green, red, yellow, blue, beige, gray, brown, and ivory. The red, yellow, and beige models have matching cords while the remainder come equipped with black cords.

In combinations, the company has ivory-and-black; green-and-black, and red-and-black. Solid colors ivory, biege, red, and green are stocked for wall sets.

The combination models have a colored plastic body and a black dial and hand set.

Charges for obtaining a colored instrument are only the initial installation fee. Charges for installing the solid colored models are $10. The combination phones cost $5.50 for installing.

There is no extra monthly fee.

Reason for the cheaper rate for combination models is the black pieces are standard; therefore the company can manufacture them for regular phones and just fit them on the colored plastic bodies.

Currently, the red and ivory solids are the biggest sellers here.

Sales have been about even here between replacements for black phones and installation in new offices and homes.

Before the plastic varieties were patented, the telephone company experimented with metallic models. These proved too costly, however. Also they tried painting black models.

But this too was unsuccessful, and the plastic versions came to the front.

Hard Time Losing Campaign Cards

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Towne Young, 72-year-old associate justice of the Fifth Court of Criminal Appeals, is having hard work getting rid of the 50 campaign cards a friend printed for him in 1926.

Judge Young, who has never drawn an opponent for re-election since he became a judge in 1923, won't have to use his 25 remaining cards this year. The filing deadline for the Democratic primaries, which is tantamount to election in Texas, passed Monday with the judge again unopposed.

Nurses Of U. S. Honored On Florence Nightingale Day

(This is the final in a series of articles published during National Hospital Week).

* * *

Friday marks the climaxing day of National Hospital Week, which has been observed locally as well as throughout the nation. It also marks the birthday of Florence Nightingale, the famous "lady with the lamp" whose birth anniversary is noted each year by hospitals.

Florence Nightingale gained fame during the Crimean War, when she was sent by the British government to supervise care of the wounded and sick. On her return home, she revolutionized nurse's training throughout the world.

Although the nursing profession has advanced far from the day of Miss Nightingale, nurses still enter the profession because of their desire to relieve pain and suffering.

The Nightingale Pledge speaks well for the profession today just as it did more than a century ago:

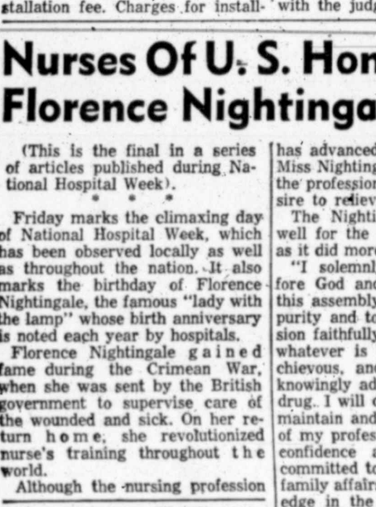

"I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly: To pass my life in purity and to practice my profession faithfully. I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous, and will not take or knowingly administer any harmful drug. I will do all in my power to maintain and elevate the standard of my profession, and will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping, and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my profession. With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the physician in his work, and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care."

Many more young women are needed in this dedicated profession whose members shall live by the Florence Nightingale pledge. National Hospital Week, of course, involves recognition of many other devoted workers besides nurses. The nurse is a member of a team which includes the physician, administrative staff, technicians, housekeepers, dietitians and many others. But tomorrow is logically the nurses' day, and the nation is saluting the white clad legion of mercy.

Manpower Failure New World Problem

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The world is past the age of mechanical failure and now faces "the problem of manpower failure," Dr. Edward C. Holmblad of Chicago said here last night.

Dr. Holmblad, managing director of the Industrial Medical Assn. told delegates at the Oklahoma State Medical Assn. convention that physicians are concentrating more and more on preventive health. He said, "It is one place where we are trying to work ourselves out of a job."
