Daniel Gives Indications He Will Run For State Governor

Cyprus Curfew Stopped

By L. S. CHAKALES

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—The population of Cyprus went back to work as usual today after the British ended their unprecedented 24-hour curfew on the east Mediterranean island colony.

One killing and some minor violence were reported during the 4 a.m.-to-4 a.m. restriction the British ordered to prevent an outbreak yesterday on Greek Independence Day.

But with Cypriots free to roam the streets and countryside again, there was a fresh threat of violence from pro-Greek islanders seeking to get rid of their British colonial government. There were recurring reports also, that another general strike might break out later this week.

British intelligence agents pressed a search during the curfew for the mysterious chieftain of the Cypriot rebels. They had been tipped off that the shadowy rebel leader, known only as "Dighennis" after a legendary Greek hero, was disguised as a black-robed Greek Orthodox priest.

The British governor, Field Marshal Sir John Harding, ordered an absolute curfew in 15 cities and a limited curfew elsewhere to avoid possible violence on the 135th anniversary of Greece's independence from Turkey.

More than 160,000 Cypriots were sealed in their homes in the 15 cities during the curfew. Outside the cities, the rest of the island's 500,000 Cypriots were restricted to the immediate vicinity of their homes. Virtually the entire 18,000-man British garrison and the entire police force moved about on the alert to throttle any violence.

Masked men shot and killed a Turkish Cypriot in a coffee shop near Limassol. The assassins escaped.

A bomb was tossed at a military patrol in Paphos port, 60 miles southwest of Nicosia. A Greek woman was injured slightly. Other bombings were reported in a village near Paphos and at a police station near Kyrenia. There were no casualties and damage was slight.

Greek-origin Cypriots are seeking union with Greece. Harding deported their leader Archbishop Makarios March 9 on charges he had sponsored violence which has cost the lives of 22 British soldiers.

During the curfew, only government authorities, police, troops and newsmen generally were permitted to move about.

In Athens, Independence Day also passed quietly. Riot police guarded the British and Turkish embassies during the annual military parade. A small group of students broke windows on some British-owned buses during the chief attempt at anti-British demonstration. Police scattered the students with their clubs, injuring four of them.

HOW HIGH AND DRY CAN YOU BE?—A stern view of the 441-foot Italian freighter Etrusco at low tide shows how high she was driven on the beach in the northeast storm in Scituate, Mass. Her 30-man crew was rescued by breeches buoy. Twelve of the crew have moved back aboard while salvage plans are under discussion.

Ike Prepares For Meeting

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — President Eisenhower pulled into town hours ahead of time for his good neighbor conference with Mexican President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada.

He arrived aboard a special train from Washington after a leisurely overnight ride, breakfasted aboard his private car and drove to the huge white Greenbrier Hotel about 45 minutes later. There in late afternoon he was due to be joined by the Canadian and Mexican leaders, flying in from their distant capitals.

The first thing the President did was to make a morning golf date with Sam Snead, the Greenbrier professional. A chill wind whipped across the fairways from the surrounding mountains, which got a light sprinkling of snow during the night.

About 150 persons were waiting at the railroad station to cheer Eisenhower on his arrival. Another 200 or so were assembled at the entrance to the hotel. The President responded to their applause with smiles and waves.

Both President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada arranged to fly to Charleston, W. Va., and ferry here in light planes suitable for landing at the smaller Greenbrier airport.

Diplomatic officials said the sole purpose of the gathering, which was Eisenhower's idea, is to afford neighborly talks among the three North American powers. No one could recall a precedent for such a three-way conference. The United States has many common interests with each of the other countries, but aside from a general interest in peace and hemispheric security there are no important issus of common concern to all three.

The series of talks will begin this evening. Other sessions are scheduled for tomorrow, winding up with dinner tomorrow evening. All three principals will leave Wednesday morning.

The conference is to be held in the Virginia wing of the huge 600-room Greenbrier Hotel. American officials said the usual conference table has been dispensed with. The principals, together with their advisers, will hold their talks, other than at mealtime, in the living room of the $250-a-day Presidential Suite.

FEMALE "FLAT TOP"—Here is how it will look, girls. On a dare, 24-year-old Mellissa Harvey of Charleston, W.Va., has shown the way. The hair is 1½ inches long in front, shorter in back. How does Mellissa like it? She's not certain; says it depends on how it grows back.

Radio, TV Talk Slated Tonight

DALLAS (AP)—Sen. Price Daniel made it clear today that he would announce tonight as a candidate for governor of Texas.

The senator, looking eager and energetic, held an early morning news conference with most of the talk revolving about his scheduled statewide radio and television broadcast tonight.

Daniel said he had received 29,352 replies to his request two weeks ago that voters tell him if they wanted him to make the race.

"The replies are favorable by a ratio of about 65 to 1," he said. "I assure you that if the response had not been favorable I would have been guided by that."

Questioned about his possible resignation from the Senate Daniel said:

"We would certainly time it so that neither I nor anyone else would handpick my successor if I'm nominated for governor," then he added, "and if I run for governor."

Daniel arrived last night for the speech, which will be carried at various times by radio and TV stations beginning at 6:30 p.m. (CST) but the address is scheduled on the Texas Quality Network and Texas State Network at 8:30 p.m.

The senator said his speech tonight would be "a definite and positive announcement of what I'm going to do about the governor's race."

He said the response to the "sincere and frank request I made to the people has been very encouraging and heartwarming."

"My position was a little different from other prospective candidates," he said. "I did not feel free to seek a change without the wholehearted approval of the people I am working for."

Daniel still has two years to run on his Senate term. He said he plans to remain in the Senate unless "called to higher office. I have said before that if I ran for governor I would time it so my successor would not be hand picked," Daniel said.

The voters, he said, should be the deciding factor in making a successor to him in the Senate if such is needed. By his wording, Daniel indicated he would time his resignation so that a successor would be named by special election.

"No, sir, I do not intend to engage in personalities with anyone," he said in reply to a question on charges made by candidate Reuben Senterfitt.

Told that Senterfitt has challenged him to public debate, Daniel said, "I don't intend to comment on anyone that's doing a lot of name calling. I want to stay above that."

The probable entry of Daniel into the race would pit him against Senterfitt, Evetts Haley of Canyon, J. J. Holmes of Austin and Lee O'Daniel of Dallas.

Daniel also steered clear of the "favorite son" campaign boosting Sen. Lyndon Johnson for the Democratic presidential nomination. "I've got business of my own here today," he said.

The senator, who supported President Eisenhower in 1952, said that "I am a lifelong Democrat" and "plan to support the Democratic presidential nominee this year unless forced by my conscience to do otherwise."

Twirling a half-burned cigar in his hand, he by-passed a question on the subject of interposition. Daniel was one of the authors of the recent "southern manifesto" signed by southern members to Congress.

Bond Election Called On 3 Proposals Here

The Scurry County commissioners court this morning voted to call a bond election on three proposals.

The decision came after the court has been presented petitions bearing 847 names, circulated by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, calling for an election proposing park improvements, an additional runway at the county airport, and a library and mobile book unit.

Date for the election had not yet been definitely set at noon today, but it was expected to be set either this afternoon or tomorrow.

The three proposlas ask for improvements totaling $205,000 All proposals will concern whether the commissioners court shall be authorized to issue bonds of the county to mature serially within any given number of years not to exceed 10 years from their date of issuance and to bear interest rate not to exceed three per cent per annum.

The first proposal has to do with park purposes, including purchasing and or improving lands for county parks. Proposed is $65,000 for this project, which would include picnic areas at Hermleigh, Dunn, Ira, Fluvanna, and at the south side of Snyder.

The second proposition is for enlarging and improving the county airport, Winston Field. The airport, built a few years ago at a cost of slightly more than $400,000, has only one runway, which runs north-south. The proposed enlargement would be an east-west runway to provide for safer landing on windy days. Many times flight schedules are hampered because of lack of runways here, and many private pilots have trouble with their planes with only one runway at the airport. The proposal is that $50,000 be set aside for this project. The federal government has already agreed to pay half the cost of the runway, and this election would be to provide funds for the county's half of the cost.

The third proposal is for $90,000 for purchasing, constructing, equipping, and improving buildings; a mobile unit, and other permanent improvements to be used for county library purposes. There is no public free library here now.

Civic Loyalty League Names Officers Here

Officers of a newly-formed organization designed to combat legalization of sale of alcoholic beverages here were elected in a public meeting held yesterday afternoon at the First Baptist Church.

About 150 persons attending officially approved the name, Scurry County Civic Loyalty League, for the organization.

After recommendations from H. L. Wren, chairman of the nominating committee, the group elected the Rev. G. M. Cole, pastor of the First Baptist Church as chairman; the Rev. J. Lennol Hester, postor of the First Methodist Church, and the Rev. John Reaves, pastor of the First Christian Church, as co-chairmen; and H. W. Cargile as treasurer.

The organization discussed some plans for action prior to the calling of an election, and those attending heard a talk concerning the liquor industry throughout the state by a representative of Texas Alcohol-Narcotics Education, Inc.

Petitions are now being circulated here to call a local option election.

Hearne Man Dies

DETROIT (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones, 79, minister emeritus of Central Woodward Christian Church, died today. He was a native of Hearne, Tex.

Living Coast Remains At Same Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that the nation's living costs remained unchanged in February from the January level.

Food prices declined a bit but costs of nearly everything else edged up.

The February index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics was three-tenths of one per cent higher this February than in February, 1955.

The bureau's index was 114.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average base period, the same level as in January.

Ewan Clague, Labor Department statistics commissioner said the outlook is that food prices are remaining steady but the prices of most other consumer items, except automobiles, are "creeping up."

Clague said that unless there is an unexpected decline in food prices, probable increases for other consumer items will carry the over-all living cost index up slightly in March.

Food prices declined during February by four-tenths of one per cent, the fifth consecutive monthly decline, bringing average food prices to their lowest level since December, 1950.

The chief factors in the February food cost decline were sharply lower prices for eggs, with smaller decreases for beef, frankfurters and fish. These declines were partly offset by higher prices for pork, poultry, fresh fruits and vegetables, canned juices, bakery products and coffee.

Housing costs edged up a bit in February, primarily due to higher prices for house furnishings following the January sales. Clothing prices averaged one-half of one per cent higher and transportation costs rose due to higher prices for gasoline and auto repairs.

Armory Deed Is Extended For One Year

A one-year extension to preliminary deed to property for the proposed new National Guard armory to be built here was granted by the county comissioners court this morning.

The state armory board several months ago approved the construction of a new armory after the county had agreed to give the National Guard a site in the county park, just west of the exhibit barn, and the armory was to be built by last fall.

In a letter addressed to the commissioners court, Martin Harris, attorney for the armory board, said it had been called to his attention that title to the site will revert on or about April 1.

"As you probably know, our armory construction program has been held up for more than a year by the federal government," he said, adding "We now think that we have that problem licked and have been advised that funds will be forthcoming in the near future for additional armory construction. My recollection is that the Snyder armory is number 74 on our priority list, and we have completed 47 of these armories."

Harris asked for a three-year extension to the title.

The court consulted Maj. Bill Schiebel of Snyder, a battalion National Guard office. Scheibel said the armory board met last week and went over its priority list. It has been reported, he said, that money is available for a large number of armories and that many will be under construction soon.

Soviets Fire Cell Leader

MOSCOW (AP)—The chief Communist organizer of Tiflis University has been fired for failing to indoctrinate the students with communism successfully and for failing to wipe out national and racial pride.

This was disclosed in the March 24 issue of the Tiflis newspaper, "Dawn on the East," which reached Moscow today.

The firing of the university communist cell's party secretary, S. Djorbenadz, was related in an article which said also that the students had indulged in mass cutting of their classes in Marxism-Leninism and dialectical materialism since last September.

According to university figures, between Sept. 1 and Dec. 31, 31,083 man-hours of classes "were skipped without any excuse."

The newspaper said the students organized themselves into groups and went to the movies instead of the classes while teachers "lectured in virtually empty auditoriums."

"Especially 'organized' in this way are groups in the West European Language and Literature Faculty (School). Unfortunately they are followed by the Faculty of Physics," the newspaper said.

The paper said that since the beginning of 1955 "there were 176 registered cases of students' breaking rules of Socialist order and some of the students were punished and, for instance, 41 students were detained by the police during the first 2½ months of this year."

(Tiflis is the birthplace of the late Joseph Stalin, who now is under attack by present Kremlin leaders.)

An earlier edition of Dawn of the East reported Communist party moves against university administrators. This followed student demonstrations protesting denunciations of Stalin at the party Congress in Moscow last month.

It said V. Kupraze, rector of Tiflis University, had been charged with failure to keep discipline.

Inquiry Held On Insurance Of Shoemake

AUSTIN (AP)—Judge Charles Betts ordered today that payments be continued until further notice on the million dollar life insurance policy for A. B. Shoemake, head of the defunct U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co.

In the first detailed report on Shoemake's condition, an Austin neuro-surgeon said Shoemake is "totally incapacitated" and is unlikely to recover fully.

"He is not orientated to time or place. He is completely indifferent to problems and surroundings," Dr. LaLonde testified.

LaLonde said, in his opinion, Shoemake will not live to be 68 when the two 10-year term policies will expire.

Shoemake fired a bullet into his head Jan. 7 at his Waco home and later was transferred to the Veterans' Hospital at McKinney.

LaLonde said his testimony was based on reports of physicians at McKinney. He was asked by D. Wheeler, state receiver-liquidator, to make the report on Shoemake's physical condition.

The two policies were payable to U.S. Trust and Guaranty, but now would go to the creditors of the Waco firm which is in permanent receivership.

LaLonde said Shoemake has suffered "marked damage to the frontal lobes" of the head and bone fragments are imbedded in parts of the brain.

Shoemake is "totally incapacitated insofar as his ability to function alone," the neuro-surgeon said.

LaLonde said his condition could be temporary but said this is unlikely.

High Court Upholds 1954 Immunity Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld validity of the 1954 immunity law intended to compel witnesses to testify in national security cases.

The law provides that when a witness is reluctant to testify for fear of incriminating himself he may be directed by a federal judge to speak, with the assurance that he will be immune from later prosecution as a result of anything he might disclose.

After being promised immunity, the witness must testify or be punished for contempt.

Vaccine Shortage

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—San Antonio's shortage of Salk polio vaccine should be over this week, Woodfin Ray, representative of the Ely Lilly vaccine firm, said he has received notice that the Texas allocation orders are being processed and that the vaccine will be sent by air express, April 1 delivery.

Medicine Hat Has Good Traffic Record

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (AP)—Five hundred days have passed without a traffic accident fatality in Medicine Hat.

Not since Nov. 12, 1953 has anyone been killed by a car in this town of 12,800. The 500th day was the goal of a safety campaign launched by the Medicine Hat News.

Lanning Denies Giving Trust Firm's Money To Legislators

AUSTIN (AP)—R. C. Lanning of Austin, one of the men who handled U.S. Trust & Guaranty Co.'s 1955 legislation problems, swore today he never gave any member of the Legislature money or other remuneration.

Lanning, who received $10,000 to represent the defunct banking-insurance firm for six months, also insisted he never knew during the session that various legislators were on retainer to U.S. Trust.

He is a former state senator and former member of the state Board of Control by appointment from Gov. Shivers. Lanning testified as the House Investigating Committee resumed its inquiry into the rise and fall of U.S. Trust.

Asked if he knew Rep. Bert McDaniel of Waco, Sen. Carlos Ashley of Llano or Sen. William Shireman of Corpus Christi were on retainers to U.S. Trust during the past session, Lanning said he did not.

He said he first became aware of their connection with the Waco firm when he "read about it in the newspapers" after the company was thrown into receivership.

McDaniel was an attorney for U.S. Trust some two years and was a vigorous opponent of bills which threatened U.S. Trust with strict state supervision in 1955.

Ashley was an active leader of Senate opposition which helped kill one bill adverse to U.S. Trust and which sought to exempt U.S. Trust from regulation by the state Insurance Department under the Insurance Securities Act.

He has refunded to the state receiver a $10,000 cash fee paid to him immediately prior to and during the early part of the 1955 session by A. B. Shoemake, president of U.S. Trust.

Shireman has agreed to repay to the receiver a $3,000 cash fee paid him by Shoemake.

Other morning witnesses were Sens. Warren McDonald of Tyler and Jep Fuller of Port Arthur, two of nine senators invited to tell about fees received from U.S. Trust.

McDonald and Fuller made statements closely paralleling ones they had made previously to Senate investigators defending their fees as being for performance of legitimate services.

McDonald, whose fee was $350 for examination of an abstract in connection with December, 1954, purchase of some Tyler property by U.S. Automotive Service, an affiliate of U.S. Trust, said he rejected an offer of a $3,600 retainer. He said he rejected the offer when Shoemake said he was primarily interested in legislation that would be coming up.

McDonald also said he had checked his fee of $350 against the scale of fees suggested by the Smith County Bar Assn. and found the bar's scale would have called for a $625 fee.

"But I'm glad I didn't charge that much," he said.

Fuller said his fee was for handling of claims cases for U.S. Trust in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area, a statement previously substantiated by the state audits.

Also scheduled to appear before the committee was J. H. Hope of Waco, former employee of U.S. Trust who joined Willis Lewis of Little Rock in organizing an Arkansas insurance firm with an illegal loan of $500,000 from U.S. Trust.

Meg Given $650 Hose

DETROIT (AP) — Hollywood hosiery expert Willys de Mond reports Margaret Truman will wear wedding stockings that cost $650 a pair.

De Mond, in Detroit on business, said each pair — Miss Truman will have three— will be decorated with 30 five-point diamond flecks. They are ultra sheer, 75 gauge hose.

De Mond already has delivered the wedding hosiery for another famed April bride-to-be, Grace Kelly. They cost $150 a pair and were hand appliqued with cultured seed and wheat pearls.

Miss Truman wears a size 10 long, De Mond said. Miss Kelly wears 9½ medium.

De Mond, who annually picks Hollywood's "10 best" legs, says Miss Kelly's are near perfect, with 8½ inch ankle, 12-inch calf and 20-inch thigh. The ideal, he says, is 8½, 12½ and 19½.

Local Woman Gets Position

MIDLAND (AP) — J. O. Vinson was named for a two-year term as state director of the Associated Credit Bureaus yesterday.

Represented at the two - day session of District 2 were the Retail Credit Executive Assn. of Texas, the Lone Star Council of Credit Women, and the Associated Credit Bureaus of Texas and the Collection Service Division.

Harry Harris of El Paso is the new state director for the collection service division. Mrs. Ruth Mee of Odessa is alternate.

The Credit Bureau division elected Mrs. Lottie de Marcellis of Andrews president. Mrs. Thelma Ross of Snyder was chosen secretary. Directors elected included Wattie Holand of Sweetwater.

Cooley Calls Off Talk By Benson

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee takes over today the task of rewriting the election year farm bill.

Subject to later approval by both the Senate and the House, the five senators and five representatives will decide betwen rigid and flexible price supports, means of determining parity prices, provision of the soil bank plan and other regulations governing farmers' actions this year.

Sen. Ellender (D-La), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and head of the Senate conferees, still talked hopefully of an agreement before Congress begins a 10-day Easter recess Thursday. Major differences between the two bills made that appear unlikely.

Rep. Cooley D-NC), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, called off a scheduled appearance tomorrow by Secretary of Agriculture Benson before his committee. Benson was to have discussed various provisions of the Senate bill with committee members, but Cooley said he wanted to head off "any more propagandizing" by Benson.

Instead, Cooley said, he would ask for Benson's views in writing.

Cooley said he acted after a news story quoted Benson that his meeting with the House group would give him a chance for further "missionary work" on the farm bill.

"It's too late to do any missionary work," Cooley said in an interview. "We're facing the facts. We don't want Mr. Benson to use our committee room as a forum.

The Senate bill includes provisions for a new $1,200,000,000 soil bank plan, 500 million dolars additional funds for price support buying of perishable farm products, new "domestic parity" plans for wheat and rice, and a variety of other proposals. None of these has been formally considered by the House.

By contrast the House version is simple. It calls for restoration of mandatory 90 per cent of parity supports on cotton, wheat, corn, rice and peanuts and an increase in the minimum level of dairy supports from 75 to 80 per cent of parity.

AREA OIL ROUNDUP

Scurry Stepout Due To Complete

Sun Oil Co. No. 2-D Shannon Estate, one and one-eighth miles northwest of production in the Arah (Ellenburger) field of West Scurry County, has indicated production.

Ike Teams Up In Golf With Snead

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP)—Sporting flaming red rain slacks, President Eisenhower teamed up with Sam Snead for a bone-chilling round of golf here today.

The President ignored a pelting, near-icy rain to get in a few holes in advance of the scheduled arrival later in the day of the President of Mexico and Canada's Prime Minister.

Eisenhower himself arrived at this fashionable resort area from Washington by special train.

The three leaders of North American nations are getting together for a discussion of matters of mutual interest and to get better acquainted.

Eisenhower had breakfast aboard his private railroad car before going to the presidential suite at the plush Greenbrier Hotel. On the patio there he made a date with famed golfer Snead, the Greenbrier pro, and 25 minutes later was on his way to the course, called the Old White.

The temperature was in the high 30s when Eisenhower arrived on the first tee. About 10 minutes later, on the second fairway, it started to rain.

The President already had donned a rainproof windbreaker over a lightweight blue sweater, and when the rain began Snead persuaded him to put on bright red oilskin slacks over his gray trousers.

Grinning as he pulled them on, Eisenhower remarked

"I look like Jimmy Demaret."

Demaret, a top flight golfer who has won a good many championships, is noted for his flashy attire on the links.

Eisenhower was followed around the course by the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder. Snyder told newsmen he wasn't too much concerned about the President golfing in the rain so long as it was hitting him from the back.

Newsmen were permitted to follow the President for only the first two holes.

Eisenhower walked the first two holes and set off on foot for the third green, spurning an electric golf cart which tagged after him with a Secret Service agent at the controls. The President usually rides such carts part of the way.

Eisenhower and Snead teamed against two White House aides, pres secretary James C. Hagerty and appointments secretary Bernard M. Shanley.

As he has been doing, the President joked about the heart attack he suffered last September.

"If you can't beat a coronary case," he told Hagerty and Shanley with a laugh, "then you're in a heck of a fix.

That remark came during a friendly argument over how many strokes top-notch golfer Snead should give the Hagerty-Shanley team. They finally agreed on six strokes for each nine holes.

On the first hole, a 430-yard par four, Eisennowers' drive was 200 yards down the middle and Snead walloped his 275 yards. Shanley got about 250 and Hagerty sliced into the rough. He tried two more off the tee, but his first shot was the best.

On the first, Eisenhower three-putted for a two-over-par six. Snead and Shanley had fives and Hagerty carded a seven. On the second, par four and 380 yards, the President had another six.

Plans Aired For Mission To Mid East

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U. N. Security Council gathered today to take up a U. S. proposal that would send Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on a peace mission to the Middle East.

Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. was expected to introduce such a resolution formally soon after the 11-nation council convened this afternoon at his request to discuss the potentially explosive situation along Israel's borders with her Arab neighbors—Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria.

The American resolution asks Hammarskjold to undertake urgent discussion with all parties concerned and with the U. N. Palestine truce chief in Jerusalem, Canadian Maj. Gen. Edson L. M. Burns. It asks him to arrange adoption of measures to "reduce existing tensions" along the armistice lines.

The big Western Powers had hoped that the resolution could be approved today. Hammarskjold had intended to leave right after Easter for London, Paris and the Middle Eastern capitals. But Arab maneuvers over the weekend put this timetable in doubt.

Delegate Rafik Asha of Syria and Edward Rizk of Lebanon first informally requested postponement of today's meeting. Later, instead of following through with formal requests for postponement, they said they would ask permission to participate in the council debate without a vote. If the Arabs speak, so will Israel, and this will prolong the debate considerably.

Commissioners Okay Two Croquet Courts

The county commissioners court this morning voted to authorize W. J. Ramsey, county park superintendent, to build two croquet courts in Towle Memorial Park.

Ramsey told the court he had had numerous requests for such courts and that they could be built at little expense. Planned location of the two courts is east of the tennis courts.

Two Cars Damaged In Snyder Accident

Two cars were damaged in an accident Saturday night, but there was no injury, police reported.

Driver of one of the cars, a 1955 Ford, was Eldon W. Fowler, 16 of Snyder, and driver of the other car was Mrs. Ida Lane Steele, 39 also of Snyder. Mrs. Steele is wife of police chief Travis L. Steele.

The Ford driven by Fowler was damaged in the amount of approximately $450, and Mrs. Steele's 1952 Ford was estimated to have about $380 damages.

The accident occured in the 900 block of the East Highway.

Rites For Rancher

LLANO (AP)—Services were held today for T. Y. Hill, 83, prominent businessman and rancher. He died yesterday. Hill had several businesses in Hallettsville, Weimer and Llano and extensive ranch holdings in West Texas.

Two Shopping Areas For Abilene Okayed

ABILENE (AP)—Builders told yesterday of plans for two new shopping centers that will cost more than three million dollars and include space for 62 firms.

The Edgewood Shopping Center, in north Abilene, will have 130,000 square feet of floor space for 27 firms. The River Oaks Village Shopping Center, in south Abilene, will have 135,400 square feet of floor space and room for 35 businesses.

LUBBOCK LADY LOST 30 POUNDS WITH BARCENTRATE

Mrs. E. R. Driver, 2306 Twenty-first St., Lubbock, Texas, wrote us as follows:

Mrs. B. L. Rhoderick
. . . central P-TA president

Mrs. Rhoderick Is New Head Of Central P-TA

The new president of the Central Elementary PTA is Mrs. B. L. Rhoderick, 1911 Avenue S.

Mrs. Rhoderick has been a member of PTA for three years, during two of which she has served as treasurer.

She also is active in the scouts, being Den Mother for Den 1, Pack 34. She and her husband and their two sons, Barry, 8, and Sarah Lois, 6, are all members of the First Christian Church where Mrs. Rhoderick is a member of the Young Matron's Circle.

Mrs. Rhoderick was born in Littlefield, 40 miles west of Lubbock, and Mr. Rhoderick was born in Quitaque, "which is about 130 miles due north of here." They came to Snyder in 1950, at which time Mr. Rhoderick was in the used car business. They are now the owners of Gordon's Grill, where Mrs. Rhoderick helps out by keeping the books.

When asked if she had any hobbies, she replied that "I don't have much time to do it, but I do love to sew, and I like to read most anything.

Recently Mrs. Rhoderick spent a week in Lufkin taking instruction in the teaching of Vacation Bible School. In addition to all her other interests, she will soon be engaged in teaching a class of potential Vacation Bible school teachers. "We plan to study the Old Testament this summer."

Mask Of Soapsuds May Aid Complexion

If your complexion has developed a slightly sallow "protective coloration" during the dark months, why not "veil" it regularly with a mask of soapsuds? Then you won't need to veil it with anything else.

Apply a thick coating of lather and let it dry before rinsing. This gives extra cleansing action, stimulates at the same time, and leaves your skin soft and blooming. If your epidermis needs a very strong stimulating action, cover the later with a towel and let it "set" for a few minutes before rinsing it off.

Sweatband Needed

If a man's workclothes wardrobe includes a special work-type hat or cap, it should be equipped with a removable and washable cradle or sweatband. Then be sure to remove and suds this often as a precaution against developing a forehead irritation or rash.

Hand-Knitters Tips

Handy tip for hand-knitters: suds, rinse, and press grosgrain ribbon before you sew it along the front edges of a cardigan sweater. Then these facings won't pucker later when the sweater is laundered.

Always wash your hands with soap and water before applying a fresh coat of nail polish.

To keep the family bathtub clean, wash it often, using a bristle bursh with hot soap or detergent suds.

Interposition--Again

Rep. Rogers (D-Tex) has introduced a resolution calling for submission of a constitutional amendment specifically granting to the states control of all their natural resources.

In a radio speech Attorney General J. Ben Shepperd has endorsed the Rogers proposal.

But he seems to have associated the Rogers proposal with the Shivers-Shepperd endorsement of the principle of "interposition." This is the movement sponsored by four deep-South states as a means of bringing about a Supreme Court reversal of its desegration decree, or achieving the same end through adoption of a constitutional amendment.

There is everything to be said in favor of the Rogers resolution, which is aimed solely at guaranteeing to the states control of all their natural resources, including natural gas, which was presumably the motivating principle in the Rogers proposal.

Every state has an interest in maintaining control of its natural resources, and theoretically at least the Rogers proposition would attract support in every part of the country. It is a movement that deserves full consideration on its merits.

But the moment the issue of "interposition" as applied to school segregation gets mixed up with the simple proposition that the states rather than the federal government should have control of their natural resources is injected into the picture, the South will inevitably find itself standing alone, and the Rogers resolution would never get to first base in Congress or out.

There is real merit and wide appeal in the proposition that states shuold control their natural resources. Many non-gas producing states can't be bothered about decontrolling natural gas, the sole natural resource so far seized by the federal power; but if you can convince them that oil, coal and hundreds of other resources may join natural gas ultimately under the federal thumb, the Rogers resolution begins to make sense. Obviously "interposition" is something else again.

A Dark Horse Looms

The first major blow the presidential ambitions of Adlai Stevenson received was when Ike Eisenhower said "yes." This newspaper said at the time, in effect, that Ike's "yes" would cause Democratic leaders to take a good hard look at the field of possibilities and ask themselves whether a once-beaten candidate would be the strongest man they could shove in against the champ.

Before Ike said "I will" the field of Democratic potentials consisted almost entirely of one man—Stevenson. He was the only really serious contender at that time. Most Democrats and many Republicans felt the GOP cause was hopeless without Ike, and why not give Adlai another chance?

The smashing defeat of Stevenson in Minnesota did not necessarily mean Kefauver has any better chance for the nomination himself, but most assuredly Stevenson's stock reached a new low. It was a test in two very important fields where Democrats must be able to muster maximum strength —the farm belt and the Northern tier of states. And Adlai lost it by a landslide.

Ordinarily Alaska would not be considered important in choosing delegates, but in view of what happened in Minnesota the contest between Adlai and Estes in that territory on April 24 will take on new significance.

If Stevenson should lose in Alaska and then on May 29 take another beating in a really important state, Florida, it would be the end of him. The California primary does not come until June 25, and if Adlai hasn't been completely smoothered by that time and loses there too, it will be curtains for sure.

His only hope is to win all three of these primaries.

So, the Democratic sweepstakes is wide open as of now. None of the serious party leaders wants Kefauver, the conservative South least of all. The one candidate the South likes less than Kefauver is Governor Harriman. So, it looks like a dark horse.

Inland Side Of Mountains Is Becoming Popular Site For Defense Industries

By FRANK PITMAN

DENVER, March 26 (AP)—The inland side of the Rockies is becoming a favorite place to nestle the United States' latest super-secret defense industries and laboratories—those making satellites and guided missiles.

Serene mountainsides that once cushioned the tread of grazing cattle and hiking tourists are shaking now to the thunder of blasting powder and earth - moving machines carving building sites.

These defense industries are shouldering into the background the colorful ranching and tourist business of central Colorado. And Denver, often termed a cow country capital, is merging as a humming industrial metropolis.

"Five national firms have built new production plants in Denver in the last six months," reports Walter Koch, president of the Denver Chamber of Commerce. "We feel that this is only the beginning."

Behind the trek of heavy industry to the Denver area is the government's policy of dispersal for key defense production.

The trend to the Colorado Rockies started a few years ago when the Continental Air Defense Command (Conad) placed its headquarters at Colorado Springs. There at the foot of Pikes Peak, an around-the-clock watch checks the air; land and sea patrols that shield the U.S. and Canada.

Near to Conad, the new Air Force Academy is under construction on a breath-taking site in the rolling foothills of the rampart Range, jagged mountains thrusting skyward 6,000 feet above the plains.

Twenty miles northwest of Denver, the Atomic Energy Commission has placed its supersecret Rocky Flats plant. Operated by Dow Chemical Co., this facility—in the midst of a multimillion-dollar enlargement—is reported to be manufacturing atomic weapons.

At Boulder, 30 miles northwest of Denver, important laboratories have been established by the federal government. One is the U.S. Bureau of Standards laboratory. A physicist there, Alan H. Shapley, says the laboratory will play "a major supporting role" in the nation's satellite program.

Beech Aircraft Corp. of Wichita, Kan., has had a staff of engineers at Boulder for many months. Recently Beech announced formation of the Beechcraft Research and Development Corp. and said a facility would be constructed on a 720-acre site at Boulder, home of the University of Colorado.

The adticles of incorporation filed by Beechcraft Research in Kansas listed "satellites" first among the businesses the research firm would engage in.

Secluded in the mountains 23 miles southwest of Denver, the Glenn L. Martin Co. is constructing a 10-million-dollar plant. Secretary of the Air Force Quarles says the facilities will be for "research and development of guided missiles."

A few miles away on the plains east of the mountains, the Ramo-Wooldridge Corp. of Los Angeles is starting work on a five-million-dollar electronics manufacturing plant.

Ramo-Wooldridge military contracts—which are about 90 per cent of its activites—are in the fields of guided missiles and other electronic systems.

Mixed Grill Of Personages Is Performing Good Deeds

By Inez Robb

Good deeds in today's naughty world are not exactly a dime a dozen.

And neither is a dramatic personae, dedicated to a good deed, that turns out to be a name-dropper's dream. It includes such persons as a French jockey named Paul Francolon, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, Raymond Wegscheider, a French sergeant wonded in Korea; enchanting actress Leonara Corbett; the Angel of Dienbienphu, Mlle. Genevieve de Garlard-Terraube; Mrs. Albert D. Lasker and Dr. Howard A. Rusk, chief factotum of the Institute of Rehabilitation of the New York University-Bellevue Medical Center.

This mixed grill of personages, headed by the Duke and Duchess, currently is centering its efforts on the organization and support of a similar rehabilitatiin center for France. A suitable site already is being scoufed in Paris.

It is just possible that neither the French jockey nor the sergeant quite realized that they are the inspiration for a rehabilitation center for their countrymen because, accidently and at a party, Miss Corbett heard how both had been rescued from living death and restored to active life by the Institute of Rehabilitiation.

Dr. Rusk, one of the world's foremost authorities on rehabilitation, and Mr. Lasker, who with her husband established the Lasker Foundation for medical research, pumped Miss Corbett full of the transformation of the two young Frenchmen.

In an instant, the jockey had been turned into a helpless and hopeless invalid in a ghastly track accident and the strong young sergeant had come down from Heart Break Ridge a paraplegic.

The two apathetic men were carried into the institute when the friends of one and the comrades-in-arms of the other raised funds to send them to the world-famous New York institute for treatment. Both, trained to use muscles and skills they never knew they had, jubilantly left the institute under their own power.

Miss Corbett, electrified by the stories, went out to preach the gospel. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, fired by the same enthusiasm, took over. The Angel of Dienbinhhu, here to study rehabilitation methods, prayed that other French wounded could share the sergeant's treatment. Mrh. Lasker and Dr. Rusk, having started it all, pitched in.

Now the Duke and Duchess, aided by Miss Corbett, have set themselves to raise 80,000,000 frances ($200,000) to start and equip a rehabilitiation center in Paris. Thereafter, it will be self-supporting

They are asking money only from Frenchmen who are in the chips and from Americans and other nationals who have homes in France or live there a substantial portion of each year. They hope to have all the money in the bank and the center in operation by late summer.

A young French doctor, Jacques Hindermayer, a victim of polio and highly regarded by Dr. Rusk, already has agreed to head the French institute. Both Paul Francilon and Sgt. Wegscheider, who returned to France longing to do rehabilitation work and to help others help themselves, may at last get the chance.

And the Angel can be expected to give a hand.

Protocol Chiefs Preparing Red Carpet For Nikolai Bulganin's Visit To London

By STANLEY GODFREY

LONDON, March 26 (AP)—The triumphal arches will be going up soon along London's tree-lined mall for the state visit next month of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

Protocol chiefs will lay out the red carpets and Queen Elizabeth II will entertain the Communist statesmen.

But in a dusty little former coffee house in the Clerkenwell district of London, where Karl Marx and his collaborator Friedrich Engels worked together, and where for a time Lenin edited his famous revolutionary newspaper Iskra (Spark), there's little excitement.

The building is now the Marx Memorial Library, center of communism's historial associations with this country. And among the volunteer staff, there is only a faint hope Bulganin and Khrushchev will visit their drab, brown-painted headquarters.

Harry Evans, former engineer turned librarian, who is in charge of this shrine of the left-wing intelligentsia, thinks they should.

"It's the only place in the world where Marx, Engels and Lenin the three great architects of international communism worked together under the same roof, apart from the reading room of the British Museum, and you can hardly count that," he said.

Karl Marx, the stoop-shouldered revolutionary expelled in turn from his native Prussia and from France, came to London in 1849 to work on his massive "Das Kapital" — the bible of Communist thinking.

There, in Clerkenwell, center of the British Chartist and trade union movements, he renewed his association with Engels, who was working in Britain as his wealthy father's agent in the cotton business.

The two men already had worked together in Europe and produced their famous "Communist Manifesto." In Clerkenwell, scuffing their feet in the sawdust of the coffee house floor, they planned the first working man's international and maintained contact with Red revolutionaries in Europe.

But little now remains of the physical world in which they lived, apart from the coffee house, with its patched linoleum floors and bare unshaded light bulbs showing up the paint - peeled walls.

A massive bust of Marx frowns down on the faces of Communist students from a garish, red-silk-lined niche in the library.

But Marx's name doesn't figure in the London guide books. In fact, to the average Londoner, he might not have lived here at all.

Marx was buried in 1883 in unconsecrated ground at Highgate Cemetery in London, in a common grave with his wife and his daughter Eleanor, who committed suicide.

Last November, local Communists bought a bigger, more prominent site for his grave, claiming the old one was hard to find and there was no room around it anyway for Communist pilgrims. They raised 10,000 pounds ($28,000) for a massive granite and bronze memorial.

Of the houses Marx lived in, little remains.

On the gaunt house in Maitland Park Road, where he died, a light colored patch marks the spot where a plaque once hung. Nobody knows who took it down.

Even less remains to recall Engel's life here. He died in 1895 leaving no family and his ashes were scattered in the sea.

But Bulganin and Khrushchev can, if they wish, visit the little room in the coffee house that Lenin used as an office during his brief stay here 1902-03.

Today, a small brass plate is nailed to the wall of the office Lenin used

LETTERS FROM READERS

To The Daily News:

Concerning the forthcoming "wet-dry" election many emotions will be aroused, many arguments heard. In Thrusday's edition of the Daily News a group calling themselves a Civic Loyalty League (we fail to understand how the name can fit the announceed objectives), after stating they were going to publish the names of those who signed a petition asking that this matter be put for a free choice of the people, continues: "....We believe that they (the so-called forces of righteousness) espeially want to know who the business men are who sign the petitioin ..Should there be those who do not wish the publicity they will do well to have their names removed from this petition at once."

To me this seems to be a threat of boycott. We might as well say: "If you do not vote as we want you to we will punish you."

I was always under the impression that we here in America prized our freedom - especially our freedom to vote as we pleased, without fear of reprisal. I shudder to think what would happen to this country if such people got complete control. This smacks of dictatorship to me .

My stand as this question is well known. With my Church I believe that all of God's gifts are good, but that the abuse of any of them is bad.

With Jesus Christ (cf. Jn. 2, 2-10; 1 Cor. 11 17; 1 Tim. 6.23) I believe the proper use of alcoholics is good, but that the abuse is bad. I believe hypocrisy is deteriorating to every man's character, and to the children who observe it.

I should like to see the good people of this community vote freely about this matter and I shall follow their decision. Furthermore, I do not care to know how any individual votes, for I respect his privacy in voting.

As a Christian minister my creed might be summed up in the following quotation: "For your enemy, forgiviness; for your opponents, tolerance; to your friend; to your child, good example; to your parents, conduct that will make them proud of you; to all men, love.

(Rev.) Edward Chrisman

* * *

To The Daily News:

Recently I noticed that 12 men of our city are getting petitions to legalize alcoholic beverages in our county.

No doubt these men have their names on some church roll, and claim to be Christians, but still they will do all they can to bring legalized alcohol into our city. Certainly we have bootleggers and always will, but we don't see drunks on every corner, and a liquor sign up and down every street. Our teenage boys and girls are not apt to drink if it isn't put right before them.

Sure these same men will come back with the argument of the money it would bring into our city and the taxes the state gets out of it, but they're not thinking of the broken hearts and home, hungry children, and the souls it sends to hell each day.

Mothers and Dads, are we going to sit idly by and let this evil be brought into our city? We have one of the nicest cities to live in, but it won't be if the "wets" take over.

I for one will cast my vote against this thing. It's up to us as Christians to see that our county stays "dry."

Tension Increases After Gen. Glubb's Dismissal

By ROBERT HEWETT

AMMAN, Jordon, March 26 (AP)—A lean sun-darkened soldier gazed over the sights of his rifle, propped on the edge of a rocky fox-hole. Across the green valley where Christ once preached peace on earth lay Israel—The Arabs' enemy.

Red and white checks on his shawl-like headdress marked the sentry as an Arab Legionnaire of Jordan's British-paid and British-trained army.

It is unique as a fighting force in the explosive Middle East, an army which combines a camel corps with modern tanks, cavalry with fast armored trucks, and above all has 20,000 well-drilled soldiers.

Until young King Hussein of Jordan, in a burst of Arab nationalism, abruptly ordered British Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb out of the country, the West had felt fairly sure that the Middle East's best disciplined fighting force would be held in firm rein. Now it is not so sure.

For more than a year the Jordan frontier with Israel has been relatively quiet, due in a large measure to British discipline in the legion, which has kept down shooting incidents of the type which inflamed feelings along Israel's borders with Egypt and Syria.

But with Glubb's dismissal, tension has increased along the Sea of Galilee where Israel and Jordan meet. What lies ahead for the legion, and the uneasy Arab-Israel truce which threatens after seven years to burst apart in new fighting?

Western diplomats are worried that fresh incidents may be provoked along the Jordan frontier now that Britain's restraining influence is removed. Britons insist there is bound to be a lowering of legion standards, a point which British-trained Jordanian officers bitterly resent.

Informed sources say a group of young "free officers" enlisted Hussein's backing in ousting Glubb to "free the Arabs' hands" in fighting Israel. The big question is whether the "free officers" will gain control of the legion from the older Jordanians and start trouble along the border.

The reasons for the anti-Glubb movement, after the Briton spent 25 years building up the legion, go back to the 1948 Palestine War.

The little Arab Legion, which fought with Britain in World War II, was the only Arab army which had any success against the Israelis.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Women's Club Count International Friends

WASHINGTON - Mrs. Theodore Chapman has seen the world, received numerous gifts, citations and an honorary college degree while she has been president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

She also had a flower named after her but says her greatest reward in serving as head of the organization, which has more than 11 million members throughout the world, has been in helping to build umderstanding and friendship between the women of this country and otherna tions.

Mrs. Chapman, whose two-year term will end with election of a new president at the federation's biennial convention at Kansas City in May, has represented American clubwomen at meetings in Panama, Germany and Alaska. Last summer she headed a group of some 350 on a month's tour of Europe and in Feburary piloted 75 on a two-week visit to the Caribbean.

Focal point of the most recent trip was the two-day General Federation of Women's Clubs' Pan American conference in Costa Rica at the invitation of the women of Costa Rica and the Costa Rican government. This is the first time the organization which has 25 member clubs in Central and South America, has held a meeting in this area.

"One of the most outstanding impressions I got out of my travels is how much alike we are whether we live in the hinterlands or the great big cities," she said. "I've found that all women, homemakers and mothers, have the same interests, hopes and dreams whatever our culture, color or creed."

The recent trip — ports of call were Kingston, Jamaica; Cartagena, Columbia; Cristobal, Panama; Port Limon, Costa Rica and Havana, Cuba - she said far exceeded the group's expectations.

"The idea was to promote friendships and get acquainted," she explained" and although some days were pretty hectic, in general the trip was more leisurely than most. Almost everywhere we went we made kissin' friends, taking down each other's addresses promising to correspond."

In Jamaica some of the North American group promised individual club support of community centers where much help is needed in the way of proper clothing, not only for school children but for couples who want to get married. The natives have so much pride, Mrs. Chapman explained, they won't participate in a marriage ceremony, or send their children to school unless they have enough clothes to wear.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE GREEN CROW. By Sean O'Casey. (George Brazziller, Inc.)

In this new volume, one of Ireland's most poetic, thunderous writers wraps into an explosive package his personal critial comments about dramatic critics, and his discerning essays about other playwrights from Bernard Shaw to Noel Coward. And for soothing good measure, he includes four of his famed short stories.

He explains that the title, "The Green Crow," is derived from the fact that crows are uniform in color and in thought. But in his cousins, the magpies and ravens, the crow has family dissenters who boast a green feather here and there amid their black ones.

Since the riot that greeted the opening in 1926 of his classic, "The Plough and the Stars", a rather irrevarent view of the Irish revolution in 1916, O'Casey has lived in England. He is still a troublesome figure in the Irish theatre. When his new "The Biship's Bonire" opened in Dublin last year, there were disfrubing elements in the first night audience; but there was also a riot outside of people trying to get into the theater.

In "The Green Crow" he writes that the Irish drama critics are "indeed a dull bunch." As for American critics, he says that "however bitter they may be, however exasperating they may become, (they) are invariably friendly..... so long as you don't want to be forever talking about yourself."

O'Casey is tolerant of English critics, but his complaint is that "The (English) critic is to have a mile of paper-space a year to go for the playwright, while the playwright isn't to have an inch of spare space in which to say a word about the critics."

Familiar as the O'Casey tunes are to enthusiasts, "The Green Crow" is a heart warming reminder of his sentiments.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

SATURDAY'S SECOND game victory over Midland must have been a sweet one for the Tiger baseballers.

Midland coach Dub Hedrick, after seeing his charges drub the Tigers, 15-1, in the Tiger season opener nearly two weeks ago at Midland, told Tiger coach Speedy Moffett:

"Maybe you'll give us a better game when we play at Snyder."

Hedrick and his Midlanders must have been overwhelmed at the improvement the Tigers made Saturday from their game less than two weeks ago.

Hedrick and his Bulldogs, perhaps, didn't take into consideration that the Tigers had only worked out one day as a full group prior to their senson opener at Midland.

Hedrick can thank his lucky stars that he got out with as much as an even break in Saturday's doubleheader. His charges didn't get an earned run all day yet the Bulldogs got away with a split.

The same story held true for the Tigers, too, who didn't get an earned tally during the afternoon but managed to win one of the games.

Experience Missing Behind Plate

The first game of Saturday's twinbill might have been a different story had the Tiger regular catcher, Don McNew, been in harness. And we're saying this in all due respect for the fellows who are filling in for McNew until Don recovers from his knee operation.

The reserve Tiger catchers performed as well as they could and that's all one can ask. But NcNew is the only experienced catcher on the squad. A good catcher is almost as vital to a baseball team as pitching.

We certainly don't want to leave the impression that we're bitter over the Tigers losing one of those games Saturday. It isn't that by a long shot. We were well pleased with the outcome. It's just that we wanted to point out that Midland, while she may have been bitter over the split, should have been thankful that she was able to leave the field with an even break in the doubleheader.

We might put it this way—both teams should have been satisfied with the outcome of Saturday's twinbill.

Tiger pitching, if it holds up, may make it interesting for Abilene and Wichita Falls when the district race rolls around.

The Tiger batting is a bit weak at the moment but we look for the Bengal strickmen to find their batting eye before too long. After all the Tigers have only been out less than two weeks and that isn't very much time to get adjusted at the plate.

Tiger Hurlers Stingy In Weekend Games

Tiger pitching in that four-game series over the weekend was a little short of sensational.

In the 28 innings that the opposition batted during the four games, 27 of them were scoreless. Only the 6-run uprising in the sixth inning of the first game of the doubleheader with Midland Saturday did a Tiger pitcher allow a run during the four games.

And the six runs scored by Midland were all unearned. The Tigers opened the four-game set with a 4-0 win over Big Spring Thursday. Then the Bengals won by the same score over Plainview Friday.

In Saturday's twinbill, the Tigers dropped the opener to Midland, 6-0, and won the nightcap, 1-0

The oppostion collected only 17 hist, during the four games.

The Tigers are an interesting team to watch. They have a fine fielding ball club and we've already noted the pitching strength. When McNew returns to his backstopping position and the Tigers get a little more confidence at the plate, look out Abilene and Wichita Falls.

We might say this, though, in defense of the Tigers batting attack — the Bengals were looking at two of the finest chunkers in the state schoolboy circles Saturday in Jim Owens and Larry Cooper of the Midland Bulldogs.

Local Sports Agenda Heavy This Week

Little League Meeting Set Tonight At 8

The Snyder sports agenda this week is crammed full with activity.

The Tiger baseballers have five games on tap while the Bengal tracksters see action once and possibly twice and the tennis team is slated for competition once.

Then in addition to these, the Junior High tracksters have two meets on top and the Snyder Little League will hold a meeting tonight to make plans for the coming season.

The Little League meeting will involve all parents who are interested in the LL program and who would donate some time this summer in operating the leagues.

Tonight's LL meeting will be held in the high school gymnasium and will start at 8. Officers for the coming year will be elected at the meeting.

The Tiger baseballers open their busy week tomorrow in a non-district game against the Tom S. Westerners at Lubbock. Game time has been set for 4 p.m.

Then the Black and Gold nine will return home Thursday to host Big Spring's Steers after which the locals will go to Plainview Friday for a single game and back home Saturday to meet San Angelo in a doubleheader.

Coach Speedy Moffett's pitching assignments this week sends Dwayne Prince against Tom S. tomorrow; Alan Snead against Big Spring; Tim Roberts against Plainview, and Ronnie Baker and Prince or Snead against San Angelo in Saturday's doubleheader.

All five games on the Tiger baseball slate this week are non-district affairs.

The Tiger nine go into this week's activity with a 4-3 season record after winning three of five games last week.

Coach J. P. Ward's tennis team will host Big Spring tomorrow afternoon. The Tiger netters blanked the Steers, 4-0, in a dual meet at Big Spring last week.

Coach Jack Dillon's Tiger tracksters will go to Big Spring Friday for the annual ABC Relays.

Dillon also may take his charges on to Brownwood Saturday for the Bluebonnet Relays.

The local junior high tracksters will host Sweetwater in a dual meet tomorrow at Tiger Stadium and then go to Sweetwater Saturday for an invitational meet.

LOOKS LIKE A BOOST — Gene Brown, San Francisco guard, recovers a rebound during the NCAA final game against Iowa in Evanston, Ill.,—and looks as if he might be getting a lift from Sharm Scheuerman. Iowa players also include forward Carl Cain (21) and center Bill Logan (31). The San Francisco Dons won the game and the title, 83-71.

Collegiate Cagers Point For Olympics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The NCAA, NIT, AAU and armed forces champions have their title trophies in hand and all that remains in amateur basketball this season is the task of selecting the U.S. Olympic team that will compete in Melbourne next November.

The Olympic committee has set up a three-day, four-team round robin to decide the team members at Kansas City April 2-4. Under Olympic rules, the roster will be limited to 12 men—with the round-robin winner contributing at least five but no more than seven.

The other Olympic team members will be selected by the committee from the round-robin rosters.

Each of the four teams will bring a 14-man squad to Kansas City.

The collegians are topped by All-America Bill Russell and K.C. Jones of San Francisco, which whipped Iowa 83-71 for its 55th straight victory and second consecutive NCAA title last weekend.

Louisville, which defeated Dayton 93-80 for the NIT championship Saturday, is not represented on the college roster. The Cardinals' 6-8 Charlie Tyra was the mo valuable player in the NIT, but he's only a junior — and the collegiate roster is limited to seniors.

Dayton's runner-up NIT squad, however, contributes seven-foot Bill Uhl and forward Jim Paxson to the Olympic trials.

Other members of the collegiate roster are Willie Naulls, UCLA; Hal Lear, Temple; Joe Holup, George Washington; Paul Judson, Illinois; Gary Bergen, Utah; Carl Cain, Iowa; Chuck Rolles, Cornell; Bob Burrow, Kentucky; Vic Molodet, North Carolina State; and Bill Reigel, McNeese State.

The Seattle Bakers and the Bartlesville Oilers, finalists in the national tournament at Denver last weekend, will represent the AAU. Seattle defeated the defending champion Oilers 59-57 for the title.

The Air Force all-stars, coached by Bruce Drake, on leave from Oklahoma, made the Olympic playoffs by defeating Navy 78-76 for the armed forces title Saturday.

Eddie Joe Buck, a catcher getting a trial with the Boston Red Sox this spring, holds a degree in agricultural economics from Oklahoma A&M.

East-West Stars Clash

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A West team anchored by Bill Russell of San Francisco and an East squad that includes high-scoring Darrell Floyd of Furman meet tonight in the fifth annual Ararat Shrine All-Star Basketball game.

The tilt is expected to attract a capacity crowd of 10,000 to Municipal Auditorium.

If there's a favorite, it's the West on the basis of Russell's presence in the lineup. Russell, who just got through leading San Francisco to its second-straight NCAA championship, is regarded as one of the greatest collegiate defensive goal tenders of all time. Playing with him will be San Franisco teammate K. C. Jones.

The West, coached by Floyd Stahl of Ohio State, also will offer a great scorer in Robin Freeman, who averaged 32.4 points for Ohio State last winter; Art Bunte of Utah, 21.6, and Russell, 20.6.

The East is coached by Lyles Alloy of Furman.

Tipoff time is 10 p.m. (EST).

Two women AAU teams will meet in a preliminary tilt. The game will benefit the Shriners hospitals for crippled children.

Maxwell Holds Miami Lead

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gardner Dickinson Jr., who surprised even himself by winning the Miami Beach Open, is further proof that brawn is not required in championship golf.

So thin he scarcely casts a shadow standing sideways to the sun, the young Panama City, Fla., pro weighs only "about 125" with a pocketful of change.

But his steady 69 in yesterday's final round edged out by one stroke two husky members of golf's younger set — Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., and Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio.

Although Dickinson pocketed top money of $2,400 for his 16-under-par 272, the tournament probably will be best remembered as "the one Maxwell lost."

The 26-year-old Texan, never worse than a tie for first, entered the final round with a five-stroke lead over Dickinson, who was second. But a misbehaving putter helped him to a 75 and he wound up in a tie for second with Finsterwald.

The 29-year-old Finsterwald, starting seven strokes off the pace, shot a course record 29 going out. He led the faltering Maxwell by one stroke and the consistent Dickinson by three strokes after 63 holes. But he soared to a 39 on the back nine for a 68.

Cary Middlecoff of Dallas, who closed with a 69, and Bob Inman of Detroit, who had a 70, tied for fourth at 275. Jimmy Demaret's par-72 was good for sixth at 276 and Leo Biagetti of Willoughby, Ohio, was next with 71 and 277.

Athletics Banking On Bobby Shantz

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

The sad, sad Kansas City pitching staff is looking hopefully to a pint-sized left-hander who has won just 11 games in the past three years to take over as the big winner.

If Bobby Shantz, 5 feet 6½ and 138 pounds, can come back, the A's will throw their weight around the American League. They may not finish any better than their 1955 spot, sixth, but they won't be pushovers either.

Shantz was the toast of Philadelphia in 1952. He had won 24 games for the A's and had been named Most Valuable Player in the league. But on May 22, 1953, he went to the sidelines with a strained muscle in his pitching arm.

He hasn't been the same since.

That year, he pitched only 106 innings. In 1954, he threw just eight innings and won one game. Last season, he began to climb the long road back and compiled a 5-10 record and a far-from-sensational 4.54 earned run average.

Last December, his arm was declared "sound" by a physician and when he signed his contract in January, he said it felt good.

Shantz, now 30, has been in three games this spring. One was a bad one. He was tagged for seven runs by the Chicago White Sox in 4 2-3 innings. The other two were good. He held Milwaukee to one run in three innings, and yesterday at West Palm Beach he took his longest test, handcuffing the Washington Senators for six innings. The A's won the game 13-1.

He was ahead of the hitters most of the way and scattered seven hits while fanning five.

Another big question mark, Saul Rogovin, who has been in and out of the majors for more than a decade, turned in a fine performance for Philadelphia in Clearwater. He tossed four soreless innings against Boston and the Phillies finally won out in the 10th, 1-0 on Granny Hamner's home run.

At Tampa, the Chicago White Sox licked the Cincinnati Redlegs 6-1 with Jack Harshman giving up just four hits.

Ancient Tommy Byrne, aided by fuzzy-checked Ralph Terry, shut out the Brooklyn Dodgers 5-0 for the New York Yankees at Miami. Byrne held the Brooks to two hits for six innings, and Terry, up from Denver, doled out two more the rest of the way.

Elsewhere, the Cleveland Indians edged the New York Giants 4-3 at Tuson; the St. Louis Cardinals stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4 at St. Petersburg; the Chicago Cubs battered the Baltimore Orioles 10-5 at Los Angeles, and the Milwaukee Braves whipped the Detroit Tigers 5-2 at Bradenton.

Dressen To Direct Team From Bench

ORLANDO, March 26 (AP) — Charlie Dressen's recent announcement that he intends to remove himself from the coaching lines this year was construed by some as an indication that the Washington Senators manager does not expect any of his hirelings to reach base.

That is not true. It means that Dressen believes he has a better chance to make the Senators resemble a major league team by masterminding from the bench. Whether Charlie directs from the coaching lines or from the bench, it still is a tremendous undertaking.

The Senators figure to battle the Baltimore Orioles for last place, if for no other reason than they're composed mainly of players who haven't made good anywhere else. Except for Roy Sievers, Eddie Yost, Pete Runnels and Clint Courtney, there isn't an established major leaguer on the roster.

The present pitching staff won a total of only 25 major league games last year. The big winner was Dean Stone, and he won only six games.

The offensive picture is no brighter. The current team hit a combined total of 59 home runs in the majors last season. Of this number, Sievers collected 25. The only 300 hitter is Courtney, who batted .309 in 94 games.

Dressen, normally a voluble optimist, isn't saying much. He realizes if the Senators are going to climb out of the American League basement, they must get major league performances out of players who have little or no big league experience.

"It's an all-out gamble on youth," is the way Dressen explained it. "I know we've been criticized in some quarters for trading off such established players as Mickey Vernon, Bob Porterfield and Maury McDermott for kids with little or no experience. You must realize, however, that we finished last with those fellows. We can't possibly do worse with the youngsters and we might do better."

Uhl Weeps After NIT Finals Loss

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP) — There are champions with silver cups and champions with tears. The National Invitation Basketball Tournament had both.

The champ with the hardware was Louisville, which after four unsucessful tries to survive the quarter-finals, finally got the idea and mastered Dayton 93-80 in Saturday's finale at Madison Square Garden.

Charlie (Moose) Tyra, a 6-8 junior with a dandy hook and smart rebounding, was the big man for the Cardinals and an unanimous choice as the NIT's most valuable player.

The champ with the tears was Dayton's Bill Uhl, a seven-foot senior and nominee for the U.S. olympic basketball team whose biggest foe wasn't Louisville or Tyra—but himself. He has performed impressively elsewhere but never has approached his top game in the Garden—the one place he's wanted to look best of all.

Like Dayton, never a champ and four times an NIT runner-up in five chances, Uhl missed again Saturday. It may have been one of his better games in the Garden, but it was hidden in Tyra's shadow. The Louisville pivot time and again got position on Uhl to sink hook shots and get the jump on rebounds.

Tyra outscored Uhl 27-10 and outrebounded him 19-10.

Uhl felt the defeat deeply. After accepting one of the wristwatches awarded to members of both finalists, Bill returned to the bench and wept into the warmup robe he clutched in his hands. He had wanted desperately to prove himself to himself.

Baylor Has It 'Made' When Ags Entered

ODESSA, (AP)—It seems a good way for Baylor to win a track meet is to have Oklahoma A&M as an entry.

The Bears have taken two championships with the Aggies as helpers. They won the Southwestern Recreation meet at Fort Worth when Oklahoma A&M was disqualified in the mile relay. Saturday Baylor won the West Texas Relays when an Oklahoma Aggie pulled a muscle and the team had to drop out of the mile relay.

Here was the picture: With the final event—the mile relay—coming up, Baylor had 20 2-3 points and Texas 23 1-3. If Oklahoma A&M won the event and Texas got last place, Texas would win the meet. Texas didn't figure on winning because two regular runners were out.

Oklahoma A&M was leading when its second runner, Chuck Scully, pulled a muscle. Baylor went on to win and Texas wound up third. So Baylor had 25 2-3 points and Texas 25 1-3.

Abilene Christian College swept up the college division with 40¼ points. ACC also cracked five division records, two of them being overall marks.

Bobby Morrow, ACC's great sprinter, won the 100-yard dash in 9.5 to tie the overall record and he anchored the 440-yard and 880-yard relay teams to overall marks.

Abilene won the high school division with 16 points but did not produce the high point man. He was A.W. Hammock of Midland, who won the 180-yard low hurdles and was second in the high hurdles for 8 points. Midland finished second with 14.

Gov. Shivers Ready To Head Demo Convention Delgation

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) Gov. Allan Shivers said yesterday he would be happy to head the Texas Democratic delegation to the national convention even if it means competing with Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) for the chairmanship.

The governor declined to say whether he would back the U.S. Senate majority leader for the Democratic presidential nomination, and named only Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio as one he could support.

Shivers replied "I am not ready to say" to repeated questions on the national television network program Meet the Press about whether he would support Johnson.

Panelist Jack Bell of The Associated Press asked Shivers to name a Democrat he could support for the Democratic nomination.

"I probably could name several," Shivers replied. "Lausche, for instance, but I can't name any others at the present time."

Denying that he has any "political ambitions," Shivers said he would be "happy to serve" if the state convention names him to head its delegation to the Chicago convention.

He replied "yes, it would" to a question if this would hold true if he were in competition with Johnson for chairman of the delegation.

The program originated from the studios of WBAP-TV at Fort Worth.

Shivers said that Johnson was "personally a friend and we agree on many things politically, but if Johnson is sponsored by the DAC (Texas Democratic Advisory Council) I would not support him."

Panelist Elizabeth Carpenter of the Houston Post asked Shivers what he thought of the proposal by House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) that Texas Democrats name Johnson a "favorite son" for the nomination.

Shivers said that the proposal actually came from Byron Skelton of Temple," who used Rayburn as his voice."

Skelton is chairman of the Democratic Advisory Council, self-styled liberal wing of the state party.

"Less than two months ago, Sam Rayburn told Lyndon Johnson he was not inclined to support him as a nominee," Shivers said. He replied to questions that he knew this "to be a fact."

This was taken by political professionals in Austin as a sign that Shivers will oppose the idea.

Shivers is the leader of conservative forces fighting for convention control while Rayburn and Skelton lead the liberals.

At Temple, Skelton called it "a ridiculous statement on the part of Mr. Shivers to say that I used Mr. Rayburn as my voice for anything."

Report On School Projects Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The states have projects which, if all carried out, would provide 476,000 classrooms at a cost of about 16 million dollars in the five years ending in September, 1959, the U. S. Office of Education reported today. The totals represent a projection to the rest of the nation on the basis of estimates reported to Congress by 38 of the states.

S. M. Brownell, commissioner of education, said in a foreword to the report that the material makes it clear "there is a big classroom deficit."

Farmer's Wife Nears Goal Of 13 Children

POTEAU, Okla. (AP)—A 44-year-old Cartesville farmer's wife is nearing her goal of 13 children—the same as her mother had.

Mrs. Otis Self gave birth to her 12th child, Sharon Kay, this week. The mother, who was 15 years old when her first child was born, has three other girls and eight boys ranging in age from 3 to 29.

The Oklahoma farm wife said she is "just living like the Bible says and replenishing the earth."

Messy Post Office May Disappear Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old-fashioned and frequently messy post office pen will be a thing of the past in the next six months, Postmaster General Summerfield said today. The department has asked for bids on 500,000 ball point pens and 500,000 refills for use throughout the country.

Tests with ball points at selected offices for the last several months showed few were stolen.

"Few individuals will risk up to a year in prison or up to a $300 fine to steal a pen labeled 'Property of the United States Post Office Department' and held to the desk by a chain," he said.

More Emphasis On Sadism Is Reported In Survey Of Movies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee said today it had found increasing emphasis on "sadism, brutality and violence" in the movies.

In a report on "Motion Pictures and Juvenile Delinquency," the subcommittee said the movies along with comic books and television "have a tremendius influence on the young child in his early development."

"While once again, as with the comic books and television, no wealth of scientific data can be given as a casual relationship between delinquent behavior and the mass media," the report said, "it is quite clear that professional people generally view the presentation of brutality and violence in these media as definitely deleterious to the personality development of normal, predelinquent and delinquent children."

"could provide the many so-called

The subcommittee said it was advised that motion pictures 'trigger mechanisms' that may initiate and provide the content for antisocial behavior on the part of emotionally disturbed children."

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), the subcommittee chairman, said in a statement the report "culimates a year of intensive study" by the group.

"Once the industry realized that we were not concerned with the entire motion picture output, but only those pictures that dwelled on brutality, violence, sadism and crime, they quickly joined with us in taking a critical look at a certain portion of their product," Kefauver said.

The report said, "It is honestly believed that the majority of the people in the film-making business, the great majority, are sincere in their efforts to make good products."

Nevertheless, it went on, the production of Western and crime movies "has remained constant or increased slightly" while "the production of noncrime movies has decreased greatly."

The report said the sub-committee definitely was opposed to censorship of movies and felt "the industry generally does a fine job in regulating itself."

However, it said it had found many difficulties in administering the industry's motion picture production code, among them that the administrators can only recommend, but not force, changes in a script.

In addition to an overhaul of the motion picture production code the subcommittee recommended that administrators of the code consult with "professional people from the behavioral sciences"; that research projects be initiated in universities to study the effects of all phases of the mass media, particularly on juveniles; and that studios producing films for television submit them to the production code administrators for approval.

The report singled out several pictures for criticism because of emphasis on crime and violence. Among them were "Big House, USA," "Crashout," "Kiss Me Deadly," "Black Tuesday" and "Ten Wanted Men."

Reds Launch Challenge To Air Routes

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Russia—with a big new twin-jet airliner reported in mass production ahead of Britain and the United States—has launched a bold challenge for air routes in Europe and Asia.

The airliner is the TU104, the sleek plane which carried Soviet security chief Ivan Serov to London last week and created a sensation among Western aviation experts.

Marshal S. F. Zhavoronkov, chief if the Soviet civil airline Aeroflot, said the plane is in mass production and will be put into international rather than domestic service.

Negotiations already are under way with Norway, Sweden and Denmark on behalf of Scandinavian Airlines for reciprocal direct flights between Moscow and Stockholm and Copenhagen.

Other projected international Soviet routes would link Moscow with Peiping, New Delhi and Kabul, Afghanistan. Zhavoronkov said Russia plans a direct Moscow-to-London jet service "if the traffic warrants it."

Diplomatic observers say the Russians might use the TU104 to penetrate the Middle East. They anticipated the Russians might try to sell it to India and the Arab countries, which now use British and American aircraft.

Leading Moscow newspapers splashed pictures of the plane and details if its performance related by the designer, the famous A.N. Tupolev. These accounts said:

The TU104 can fly 2,000 miles nonstop, cruise at 500 miles an hour, maintain an altitude of 33,000 feet and carry 50 passengers and baggage in pressurized comfort or 70 passengers under tourist-type accommodations. (British experts reported the plane used by Serov was not pressurized and passengers used oxygen masks at high altitudes.

Two U. S. companies began taking orders some months ago for jet airliners. Boeing Airplane Co. of Seattle expects to introduce its 707 jet transport into regular commercial operation in 1959. The prototype, already flying, cruises at 575 miles an hour and can carry 104 to 125 passengers.

Douglas Aircraft Co. of Santa Monica, Calif., is building its first DC8 jet airliner. It plans two versions, both with cruising speeds of 550 miles an hour and capable of carrying 122 to 144 passengers.

26 Killed In Violence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Weekend violence took an unusually heavy toll in Texas, killing at least 26 persons, 18 in traffic.

A sleek, three-engined jet bomber rashed and burned at El Paso Sunday, killing a sergeant, 28. His name was withheld.

Three drilling company employes from Three Rivers were killed Sunday when their car collided with a truck in the fog west of Corpus Christi. They were Carl Rathke, 40, Emil Kunschik, 49, and John Odom, 30.

Three others were killed in a headon crash Sunday north of Atlanta, Tex., on U.S. 59. They were Jackie Bickman, 20, Linda Gridfin, 17, both of Atlanta, and Billy Austin of Texarkana.

Marco Balarezo, 22, pilot at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, was killed when a car turned over south of Austin Sunday.

Rosemary Maxwell, 19, of Waco died Sunday of burns received in a bottled gas explosion at the home of a friend.

Dallas Night Club Destroyed By Fire

DALLAS (AP)—About 120 dancers and musicians fled to safety last night as fire destroyed Nita's Place.

No one was injured, but a caged monkey "screamed like a woman" inside the night club, making firefighters fear a human was trapped. The monkey burned.

A reported $4,000 in cash was reduced to cinders by the heat. The cause of the fire was not determined. Owners estimated the loss at $20,000.

We invite you to try GMC's
great new RSD* ride
-makes roughest roads boulevard-smooth

IT'S A FACT—the new 1956 GMC pickups with exclusive Road Shock Damper Suspension give you a ride comparable to the finest passenger cars in smoothness.

Gone are jolting jounces, front-wheel slither, steering-wheel jitters. GMC's amazing RSD ride makes the roughest road boulevard-smooth—eliminates even the drumming from expansion joints on superhighways.

No longer need you slow down for rough going. Wheel-hop is ended. Travel is safer—steering easier—driver fatigue greatly reduced. And fragile loads are protected from breakage.

Only an actual ride can show you what a sensational improvement RSD Suspension is. We invite you to try it—over the roughest road you know. Come in today for a demonstration.

*RSD Suspension is standard on the Suburban—optional at slight extra cost on other ½-ton models.

See the difference RSD makes

With ordinary suspension wheels hop and bounce violently on rough roads as shown by actual oscillograph records.

With RSD Suspension (on the same road) every wheel bounce is instantly counteracted, smoothed out to a mere flutter on the oscillograph.

McCLAUN & SON OIL CO. OWNERS—Gay McGlaun, right, one of the owners of McGlaun & Son Oil Co., Texaco agency here, is the founder of the firm who started the business in 1913, when it was one of three such Texaco agencies in Texas. He is shown with his son, Alfred McGlaun, who now manages the firm. (Lee Watson photograph)

Texas McGlaun And Son Oil Firm One Of State's Oldest

Snyder automobile users are here with one of the oldest Texaco agencies in Texas, McGlaun & Son Oil Co.

The firm was started in 1913, at that time it was one of only three such agencies in Texas for the Texas Co.

At the time the firm started here there was no demand for gasoline, which is the major fuel distributed by the firm now, but there was a big demand for kerosene which was called "coal oil" and for axel grease to grease the hubs of wagons and buggies.

The frim which has been in operation here for almost half a century has progressed with the times, and has in many cases anticipated the progess and made expansions or added improvements to meet new needs the owners of the firm could foresee.

Being one of the oldest such firms in the state by no means implies that the firm is old in respect to its services or products.

It now has one of the most modern and complete warehouse and storage centers in use anywhere in Texas, if not the most modern and complete.

The new plant was completed late in 1953 with a warehouse for the storage of oils and greases 60 by 100 feet and a capacity of storing 64,000 rail carloads of products. The modern pallet storage method is used in the warehouse to make the speedy handling of great quantities of products easy for the employes of the firm.

Tanks with a capacity of 85,000 gallons are used in the liquid products storage departments, and pumps to the loading rack have a capacity of delivering 200 gallons per minute in either loading or unloading transport trucks.

Owners of the firm are its founder, Gay McClaun, and his son Alfred McGlaun, who is now manager of the business.

The six tetail outlets for Texaco products in Snyder are located in all parts of town so that Texaco customers need never be inconvenienced when they need gasoline, oil, or service.

Women Get Sharp Barb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Quigley (DPa) says the government shouldn't concern itself with "what the women of this country want in a house."

It's "ridiculous," he said in a statement, to call a representative sample of them to Washington at government expense for a "Woman's administrator Albert M. Cole.

"The government does not build houses," Quigley said. "When an individual decides to build or buy a home, regardless of whether the mortgage is to be federally insured, he certainly is not going to consult Mr. Cole as to what he desires in that home. Rather, he will consult the builder."

Cole had proposed that the government pay the women transportation costs and $12 a day allowance for the meeting. Quigley said that "if the Eisenhower administration is really sincere in its promise to economize, this is certainly a ridiculous way to proceed."

Seahawk Jets Crash

HONG KONG (AP) — Two carrier-based British navy Seahawk jets crashed into a fog-shrouded hill near here today and burst into flames. Both pilots were killed. A Chinese woman walking nearby was hurt.

Dry Weather Is Expected

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Monday started as another warm, dry day for Texas, the kind of weather expected for at least the next three days.

Temperatures are expected to approach 90 degrees even in the upper sections of the state. No rain was reported and none was forecast.

The Weather Bureau said there might be a relief from the unseasonable warm weather around Wednesday.

Minimum temperatures ranged from 44 degrees at Dalhart and Salt Flat to 66 at Corpus Christi at dawn.

El Paso had 48, Amarillo 49, Lubbock51, Houston54, Lufkin and Texarkana 56, Abilene, Waco and Wichita Falls 59, Dallas, San Antonio and Alpine 60, Brownsville 62 and Laredo 63.

Sunday's high was 90 at Presidio. The low was 68 at Galveston.

Body Of Missing Roughneck Found

BROWNWOOD (AP) — The body of F. L. Wilder, 36, missing for about 10 days, was found at the foot of a 30-foot rural electric power line about 23 miles north of here yesterday.

Sheriff Ray Masters said Wilder, a part time oilfield roughneck, was wearing pole-climbing spurs and a pair of wire cutters was found near the body. Justice of Peace P. H. Hart said death apparently was from electrocution.

One of the lines on the pole had been cut, but service was not disrupted.

Charges By Isreal

JERUSALEM, Israeli Section (AP) — An Israeli army spokesman charged today that a unit of Jordan Arab Legionnaires crossed the armistice demarcation line yesterday and fired on an Israel patrol. There were no Israeli casualties, the spokesman said. He reported that the attack occurred near Ben Shemen, in the coastal plain.

Negroes Are Urged To Get Out And Vote

MARSHALL (AP) — Rep. Charles Diggs Jr. of Detroit, first Negro elected to Congress from Michigan, urged Negroes here yesterday "to get out and vote more."

Diggs, 33, spoke to Founders Day at Wiley College, a Methodist school for Negroes. He said the right of Negroes to vote is the key to the racial problem.

"Too many Negroes are interested in individual attainment rather than group achievement," Diggs said.

Diggs, who said the district he represents is 55 per cent white, urged Southern Negroes to enter new fields including accounting and engineering.

Father Of Fourteen Children Is Killed

CORSICANA (AP) — The father of 14 children was killed today when his car and a Burlington Rock Island freight train collided near Mildred, five miles southeast of here. He was O. E. Mesker, 43, an oil field worker.

Sheriff Rufus Pevehouse said Mesker's car crashed into the 24th car of the 48-car train. The train was not damaged. Mesker's widow also surfives.

Services Fro Pioneer Newspaper Held

TEMPLE (AP) — Frank Denison, 77, of Belton and Dallas, a pioneer Texas Newspaperman, died yesterday.

He was one of the original stockholders in the Temple Telegram, and also held banking, farming, mining and other interests.

Services were held today in Belton. Denison was born Nov. 26, 1868 in Bryan.

IF TECH IS ADMITTED

SWC Would Keep Round-Robin

WACO, March 26 (AP) — Baylor University has received replies from six conference schools, including Baylor, indicating "an overwhelming desire to retain the Southwest Conference's present round-robin system of play," Dr. W.R. White, president, said today.

"We have been assured by every school in the conference—except one—and also by Texas Tech that they would firmly support continuation of the present round-robin policy," Dr. White said.

"They indicated they are just as interested in keeping the round-robin alive as we are," he said. Dr. White did not identify the seventh conference member from which no reply has been received.

The poll was initiated by Baylor several weeks ago after Bruin supporters and ex-students expressed fear the present system of play might be deemed if the conference were split into two divisions or expanded to nine or ten teams.

These fears were set off by reports that Dr. Willis Tate, president of Southern Methodist, had suggested that a split conference might develop. Dr. Tate later said such a split league had not been discused by the SMU Athletic Council. Dr. White said that Dr. Tate had made such a remark at the conclusion of a meeting but that he considered that Dr. Tate meant it to be facetious.

Baylor supporters quickly warned a split league or any setup not involving the round - robin could have highly adverse effects on the Baylor athletic program.

The Baylor supporters had asked that Baylor authorities review their stand on the admission of Texas Tech to the Southwest Conference. They feared that Tech's admission would mean a split conference and that this would harm the Baylor athletic program.

Dr. White said at the time that Baylor had no plans to change its approval of the admission of Tech. The admission of the West Texas school is considered probable at the May meeting of the conference.

Newcomers In TV Debuts

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

This is "new face" week in television boxing with [redacted] young gladiators slated to make their debuts over the networks.

The three are welterweight Larry Baker, Mt. Vernon, N.Y., lightweight L. C. Morgan, Dayton, Ohio, and Cherif Hamia, French featherweight champion. They're all underdogs, too.

Baker, 25-year-old native of Indianapolis, risks an unbeaten streak of seven against the more experienced, harder-hitting Pat Lowry, 26-year-old ex-Marine from Toledo, at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Monday night DuMont TV, 10 p.m., EST).

Lowry has a 40-9 record with 28 knockouts. Baker, making up for a bad start, has an 18-10-3 record with seven kayos.

Morgan, whose first two names are Langston Carl, bumps into the best young prospect in the lightweight division in Ludwig Lightburn at the Cleveland Arena Wednesday night (ABC-TV, radio, 10 p.m., EST). Ludwig, 21, has won seven straight and is ranked as the No. 5 contender. His streak includes a split decision over Morgan. His record is 38-6 with 13 knockouts. Morgan's only loss in his last 10 was to Lightburn. His record is 13-2 with nine kayos.

Butcher Knife Bandit Beats Up Clerk, 68

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A bandit armed with a butcher knife beat a 68-year-old clerk, left him tied to a post for 11 hours and robbed a safe in a bowling alley yesterday.

John W. Higgins, who lives at the bowling alley, told police he was asleep in the office when a man awakened him, forced him to open a safe, took $170 and tied his arms around a post.

Applewhite Denied 60-Day Deferment

FORT WORTH (AP) — Television singer Charlie Applewhite headed a group of 12 draftees who reported today to the Army.

The baritone, 23, recently asked for a 60-day deferment so he could appear on two TV shows. His request was denied by local draft board 111.

Robert Fulton's steamboat, "Clermont," began regular service in 1807.

Consultant Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Smith if Houston was named consultant without pay to the Federal Civil Defense Administration yesterday. Smith is an oil operator, rancher and farmer. He was civil defense director for Houston and Harris County from 1953 until January.

Television Offers Promise To Science

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Television promises to open the ocean depths for science, a speaker at an international meeting on marine biology said today.

Dr. Harold Barnes of the marine biological station, Millport, Isle of Cumbrae, Scotland, told scientists from 17 nations that television cameras lowered into the ocean could give a continuing motion picture of submarine life.

Non-pictorial use, he said, could be in such studies as making counts of plankton—the minute organisms that form dense populations over wide areas and furnish the food base for other sea life.

The meeting is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Naval Research and the University of California's Srippes Institution of Oceanography.

Three-Engine Jet Bomber Goes Down

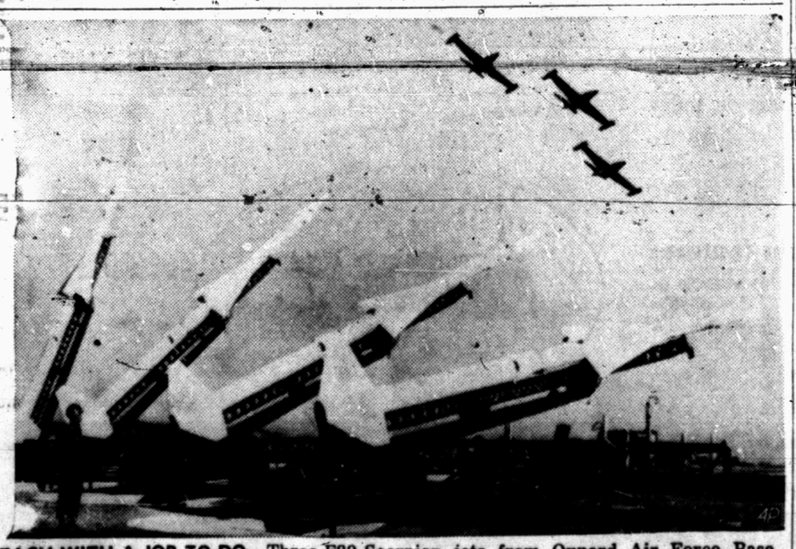
EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—An XB-51 three-engine jet bomber, the only one of its type in existance, crashed and burned yesterday, killing one man and seriously injuring another.

A 28-year-old staff sergeant, whose name is being withheld pending notification of next of kin, was killed and the pilot, Maj. James O. Rudolph, one of the air force's top test pilots, was severely burned when the plane crashed on takeoff.

The plane, based at Edwards Air Force Base in Muroc, Calif., was being flown to Eglin AFB Fla., where it was to be used in the filming of a motion picture.

Only two XB-51s were constructed and the other crashed in 1952.

ADLAI'S STILL SMILING AFTER DEFEAT—Appearing undismayed by his loss in the Minnesota presidential primary to Estes Kefauver, Adlai Stevenson (left) reads a statement at a press conference in Chicago in which he said "I am no longer the front runner." At right is James Finnegan, Stevenson's campaign manager. Stevenson said "I have no intention of withdrawing and I will go to the convention seeking the nomination."



EACH WITH A JOB TO DO—Three F89 Scorpion jets from Oxnard Air Force Base swoop past the Army's NIKE site at Point Vicente to provide a striking picture of part of the team which is providing 24-hour protection against enemy attack. The aircraft are attached to the 437th all-weather fight-interceptor squadron. The NIKE site is operated by Battery "D", 554th Anti-Aircraft artillery missile battalion.

Junction Slates Easter Services

JUNCTION, Tex. (AP)—Two hours before Saturday midnight, a light high on a rocky hill overlooking the Llano River will signal the start of this West Texas city's unusual Easter observance.

Soft, sacred music will fade and a white robed figure, outlined by the light, will mount a donkey.

Carefully picking his way between large boulders and twisted, water-hungry shrubs, the rider will descend the slope to join devoted friends who climb to meet him.

So will begin the Junction Easter Pageant, depicting Jesus' last sad week on earth.

The membership of a non-sectarian men's Bible class began the pantomime portrayal of the Easter Story on the eve of Easter Sunday, 1951, before a small audience of townsmen.

Last year 2,000 cars were parked before the slope. About double that number is expected this year, for the fame of the "Easter Pageant in the Hills" has spread.

The original small cast has increased until over half the population of the town participates in the 12 scenes.

Cars will begin to arrive Saturday afternoon in the natural amphitheater. By mid-afternoon the occupants will be picnicking among the pecan trees.

By pageant time everyone will be in the cars and a stillness will descend over the audience as the circle of light appears.

The Easter story then will move from stage to stage through a devout portrayal of the last seven days on earth for history's only divine human.

Television Star Dies

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—British actor Robert Newton, the wily, gravel-voiced Long John Silver of television and the movies, died at his home yesterday of a heart attack. He was 50.

Although he had had a heart ailment, his death was unexpected. His wife, the former publicist Vera Budnick, sobbed as she told a reporter:

"He was having a glass of water. He just keeled over. There was nothing anyone could do."

Newton returned to Hollywood last June after a year in Australia, where he made a film version of "Long John Silver" and filmed 26 half-hour television shows based on the character.

Only last year he said he intended to take out Amerian citizenship.

The veteran of stage, screen and television was one of the top character actors in the business, excelling in salty, slightly disreputable types. He first appeared in the United States in the mid-1920s. From 1947 through 1951 he was voted one of the top 10 moneymakers in British films.

One of his best recent movie roles was as Androcles in "Androcles and the Lion."

He leaves three children: Kim, 18 months, by his fourth wife, Ver; Nicholas, 5, by his third wife, the former Natalie Newhouse of London, and a daughter, Sally, 24, by his first wife.

Kelly Gowns Are Revealed

DALLAS, TEX. (AP) — The eight bridesmaids at the wedding of movie star Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier of Monaco will wear identical gowns of sunlight yellow silk organdie over taffeta.

The gowns have full and fluid wide skirts and bell-shaped sleeves caught to a tiny cuff below, designers at Neiman-Marcus, Dallas specialty store, announced.

Tiny covered buttons extend from simple, small collar to a high obi sash that ties in the back with three separate bows. Flowing streamers extend from the bows.

The hats of misty hairbraid in petal-like layers repeat the pale yellow of the dresses. A small butterfly bow hovers at the back.

The four flower girls will wear white Swiss organdy embroidered with yellow and white daisies and worn over soft yellow organdie pettioats.

Japanese Paroled

TOKYO, March 26 (AP)—The Japanese Foreign Ministry said today the United States has paroled another Japanese World War II criminal, cutting the total still held to 133. The released civilian, Takeo Kirishita, was serving a life term.

White Men Beaten By Negro Mob

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Two white men were beaten by a mob of angry Negroes before five carloads of officers scattered the attackers yesterday. The incident followed the shooting of a Negro man.

Police said the most seriously hurt were Johnnie J. Maloy, 50, white, and Foster King, 34, a Negro whom Maloy shot in a leg. Maloy suffered a brain concussion and compound fracture of one leg.

The officers gave this account of the incident:

Maloy and Hillary Calhoun, 41, were selling oranges from a truck in a Negro section. Maloy and King became involved in an argument when Maloy accused a Negro of stealing a crate of oranges.

The trucker pulled a pistol and shot King in the leg.

The shooting drew a crowd of Negroes and one of them, Love Andrews, 29, snatched the gun from Maloy. Then the Negroes attacked the two white men.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Hamp Gandy said the Negroes stopped beating the truckers when police arrived.

He said charges are planned against both Maloy and King when they leave the hospital.

Andrews was jailed on a charge of affray. Calhoun was arrested on the same count and freed on $100 bond.

Man Caught For Stealing Shoots Self

SEAFORD, Del (AP) — Norman Gladden, 45, was caught stealing from the night deposit box of a bank, police said, and moments later shot himself to death.

Gladden, a district supervisor for a large insurance firm, was believed by police and FBI agents to have been responsible for two earlier thefts.

Patrolman R. Lee Coulbourn, hired to watch the depository on weekends, told this stiry:

Gladden opened the depository. He had a key issued to him for his business. He stood around in front of the bank for about half an hour. Three times he drew bags from the box and then walked to his car and got in.

"You're under arrest," Coulborn called to him.

As Coulborn moved toward the car, Gladden asked:

"Do you mind if I get a pack of cigarettes out of the glove compartment?"

"No, go ahead," Coulborn said.

Gladden took a pistol from the compartment and before Coulbourn could stop him fired a single bullet into his head.

The three bags found in the car contained $800 in cash and $2,400 in checks.

Gladden, who is survived by his wife and 4-year-old son, came here six years ago from Cape Charles, Va.

'Shock Tubes' Create Searing Temperature

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exploding gases in a 100-foot metal tube have created speeds of more than 18,000 miles an hour and temperatures half again as hot as the sun's surface.

An Air Force announcement yesterday said the conditions prevail for only a few millionths of a second in laboratory experiments, but they permit a study of the "interaction of satellites with the earth's atmosphere."

The Air Force announced the development of the "shock tubes" at the Avco research laboratory at Everett, Mass.

The tube is like a cannon, 100 feet long and four inches in diameter.

'LAST MINUTE SHOPPER'—Actress Grace Kelly is escorted by Mrs. Marcel Palmaro, wife of Monaco consul general, as she arrived at Idlewild Airport, N.Y., from California. Miss Kelly said she would be very busy with "lots of last-minute things" before sailing for Monaco where she will marry Prince Rainier.

Southern States Report Violence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scattered violence and a declaration that the South is not bluffing in its determination to win a legal reversal of the U.S. Suppreme Court decisions highlighted the tense segregation scene yesterday.

At Pensacola, Fla., about 100 Negroes attacked and beat two white men after a Negro was shot, and in Atlanta five Negroes escaped injury when an explosion damaged a home in the northwest section into which they moved last Friday.

The Pensacola incident developed in a predominantly Negro section while two Pensacola white men, Johnnie J. Maloy, 50, and Hillary Calhoun, 41, were selling oranges from a truk.

Sheriff's deputies said Maloy accused a Negro of stealing a crate of oranges, drew a gun and fired twice. A bullet struck Foster King, a 34-year-old Negro, in the leg.

Deputies said Love Andrews, 29-year-old Negro, took the gun away from Maloy and then other Negroes swarmed over both men. Maloy suffered a brain concussion and a compound fracture of the leg. Andrews was held without bond on a charge of affray. Calhoun was arrested on the same charge and then freed under $100 bond.

The Atlanta explosion occurred in a predominantly white section where some homes have been sold to Negroes. A similar blast was reported Feb. 25 in the same area.

Police did not determine what caused the blast which shattered part of the foundation of the frame structure and tore a hole in the living room floor. A white neighbor whose home suffered minor damage told police three Negro adults and two children moved out of the house with their belongings about five hours after the explosion.

In Washington, Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) said one purpose of a manifesto signed by 101 Southern senators and House members was to alert all sections of the nation to what he called Southern determination to win a legal reversal of the Supreme Court decrees outlawing segregation in the schools.

"People in other sections of the nation think we are bluffing about this," he said in a TV interview. "We are not bluffing."

The Mississippi Democrat said there was "lots of room" for enactment of a constitutional amendment to permit continued racial segregation in the public schools but did not indicate such a move is planned."

In another radio debate on the issue, Rep. Forrester (D-Ga) insisted the Supreme Court's decision outlawing segregation is "illegal" and called the Southern manifesto an "immortal document.

Rep. Keating R-NY) said it seemed to him "ridiculous to claim that a decision of the Supreme Court is illegal" and said the segregation decision "is a good decision and it is one which must be lived up to."

At Brooklyn, N.Y., the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., convicted Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott leader, told a Concord Baptist Churh rally that Negroes in the United States "are not seeking to defeat the white people" but are merely fighting injustice.

High School Teacher Held After Eloping

NEW YOR (UP)—A high school art teacher has been charged with abduction and rape in his secret marriage to a petite brunette student half his age.

George Wald, 34, was arrested yesterday after the parents of Sydney Silverman, 17, found out the two eloped last Jan. 9. It was his third marriage.

"Don't worry, honey, this is only a dream," Wald told his teenage bride. "Being with you is worth a night in jail."

"I love him and I'll stick with him," Sydney sobbed.

Police said the six-foot, 235-pound teacher and his former student were married at Elkton, Md. They have seen each other only on weekends because they feared to tell her family.

Growing tired of his lonely life, Wald decided to tell Sydney's parents the secret.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Albert Sclafani gave this account of what Wald did:

He went to his bride's Brooklyn home, waved the marriage certificate and announced, "She's my wife — I want her home with me."

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Silverman, called police.

Lack of parental consent and alleged falsification of the girl's age in the marriage license application were involved.

"She's only a baby—he's a man who's been married twice," protested Silverman.

Sydney said she met Wald while he was a teacher and she a student at Manhattan's Industrial Arts High School. At first she turned down his requests for a date but finally agreed on graduation night last June. they were engaged in August.

Sydney is now a secretary for the Boy Scouts.

Wald has two children, 7 and 9, by his first wife, who died in 1949. He was divorced from his second wife in 1953 after eight months of marriage.

Services Conducted For Reprisal Victims

ROME, March 26 (UP)—Commemorative services were held at the Ardeatine caves outside Rome today for the 335 Italians who were massacred in reprisal during World War II for the bomb killing of 32 German soldiers in Rome.

A wreath from President Giovanni Gronchi was placed at the caves which now have beome a national Italian monumenct.

Rotary Conference

GREENVILLE (UP)—Ollie Obert of Australia, first vice president of Rotary International, was the speaker today to the Rotary District, 188 conference. Some 750 delegates of about 50 rotary clubs in Northeast Texas heard Atty. Gen. Shepperd address the opening session last night.

3 Governors Mentioned In Party plans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some Demorats casting about for alternates to the two active seekers of the party's presidential nomination speculated yesterday about three governors — A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, Averell Harriman of New York and Frank Lausche of Ohio.

The active candidates, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Adlai Stevenson, focused their attention on California's June 5 primary, their last direct clash. Kefauver is campaigining there: Stevenson plans to fly there later in the week to talk with campaign workers.

Republicans were generally quiet on political matters over the weekend, but GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall took on his Democratic counterpart Paul M. Butler in a sometimes noisy CBS television debate from Philadelphia.

When Butler asked whethere the people can hope for successul guidance of foreign affairs if President Eisenhower delegates duties to others, Hall retorted that "the President has not asked that any powers be delegated at all."

Hall accused the Democrats in Congress of "stalling" on new farm legislation, and said this might cost farmers a billion dollars this year.

Butler pointed to a big gain in the proportion of Democratic to Republican votes in last week's Minnesota primary, and said this indicated dissatification with administration policies, including its farm program.

"Republicans weren't in the Minnesota primary," Hall replied. "We were on the sidewalk watching."

Since Kefauver upset Stevenson in Minnesota, there has been increased talk among some party members about other possible candidates.

Several have boomed Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who says he is not a candidate. A weekend report from Chicago indigated that the Stevenson camp regards Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri as a dark horse contender of growing strength.

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas declined to say yesterday whether he would back Johnson for the nomination. Asked on an NBC television interview to name persons he would support, Shivers mentioned only Lausche.

Shivers bolted the Democratic ticket in 1952 and supported Eisenhower, who carried Texas. As to what he will do this year, Shivers said, "That all depends on the conditions, the nominees and the platforms."

Sen. Allen Ellender (D-La) said he welcomes reports that Chandler may seek the nomination. Chandler has not commented. "Happy is a mighty fine fellow," Ellende said, "and he certainly would be more acceptable to most Southern Democrats than either Kefauver or Harriman."

Power Drive By Russians Is Disclosed

WASHINGTON (UP) — A former Soviet intelligence officer says the Russian leaders' denunciation of Stalin is a desperate attempt to retain their power. It indicates, he said, "the revolution has already begun."

Nikolai E. Khokhlov, who defected to the West in 1954 after 13 years in the Soviet intelligence service, gave that appraisal in a copyright interview published today by the magazine U. S. News and World Report.

The 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party in February, he said, "openly and publicly confirmed that dictatorship cannot exist any longer in the Soviet Union. Without publicly saying so, it actually confessed the complete bankruptcy of the Soviet system."

Some of Stalin's actions and his system of one-man rule were openly riticized by some soviet leaders at that Congress. Reports reaching the West since then have said that Nikita Khrushchev, Communist party boss, himself denounced the former dictator as a murderer and a ruler who hurt Russia.

Western leaders, attempting to assess the developments, have come up with varying ideas. The moves have been interpreted as a further effort of Khrushcev to seize power and alternatively as a possible means of keeping any one man from emerging as dictator. Some have contended the present Russian rulers dared denounce Stalin only after they felt secure in their present power.

Khokhlov discounted that idea, saying "if they were really strong, they could simply have reformed the government, started a new kind of regime and explained it all by saying that conditions had changed and so the government was changing. They would not have felt it necessary to go to all that trouble of blaming Stalin."

He said Khrushchev tried and failed to make himself a dictator like Stalin.

"Now," he added, "the members of the Soviet ruling clique are trying to save their skins. But it's more important than that. It was not just a failure of Khrushchev. It was even a failure of the whole system of communism."

"A revolution does not always consist of an armed uprising," he said. "Sometimes it begins with a growth of quiet resistance that causes a kind of government paralysis, a disintergation of the state system. And that is what is going on now in the Soviet Union."

Flash Bulletin from Mobilgas Economy Run

FORD WINS IN ECONOMY TOO!

V-8 WINS CLASS A

In this year's Mobilgas Economy Run a new Ford V-8, with Fordomatic, was the official victor over every car in its field, with a winning average of 47.7643 ton-miles per gallon. This means that the sturdier, heavier Ford carried more weight, with greater gasoline economy per pound, than any car in its field.

This latest Ford victory was scored over a rough and rigorous 1,468.8-mile route running from Los Angeles to Colorado Springs. The winning Ford threaded its way over the tough and twisting course averaging better than 40 mph. Through the heat of Death Valley and over the chilling height of an 11,000-foot mountain peak . . . through the gas-eating stop-and-go of city traffic and over the straight-line open road . . . Ford proved anew its traditional reputation for economical performance.

The winning Ford was a regular-production model taken right from the assembly line and officially impounded until the starter's gun sounded. It was no different than thousands of '56 Fords you see on the road and in dealers' showrooms. This proves that Ford, the Performance, Style and Safety leader, leads in Economy, too! That adds up to four big reasons why the '56 Ford is worth more when you buy it, while you drive it, and when you sell it, too!

The "ton-mile" formula is used by contest officials to insure equal chance for all cars in each class regardless of size or weight. Ton-miles per gallon equals the car weight (including passengers) in tons, multiplied by the number of miles traveled, divided by number of gallons of gasoline consumed.
