Fair Caravan Off On Third Trip Friday

LARGEST UNIT OF CARS IS EXPECTED

NORTHWEST TERRITORY TO BE VISITED BY DELEGATION

Promise of the largest delegation yet to compose a goodwill tour from this city during the 1930 season was given today with announcement by R. F. Bayless, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, that approximately thirty-five automobiles have already been signed for the third booster motorcade which will leave here early Friday.

Mr. Bayless stated that the committee is very anxious that as many vehicles as possible make the trip tomorrow due to the fact that it probably will be the easiest one of the four planned. "We will have plenty of room for anyone wishing to go who does not have a car," he declared. "From all indications tomorrow's jaunt will be a banner one from the standpoint of attendance and the greater our delegation the greater will be the response from citizens of that section at the Panhandle-South Plains fair."

The committee will continue working today signing up members for the caravan and if anyone is missed we would appreciate their calling the chamber of commerce. We will assemble tomorrow morning at 12 o'clock at the city hall and regardless of whether you have a car or not, a place will be made for anyone wanting to go along.

Those Going

An incomplete list of those who had signed at noon today includes Albert Crosby, John I. Chesley, Mr. Williamson, E. C. Henley, O. C. Gooden, C. B. Kover, Henry Tubbs, G. W. McLeod, J. H. Hackfield, A. L. Stoggin, H. W. Stanton, B. E. Strickland, C. B. Powell, J. O. Ford.

NIGHT CLASSES TO BE GIVEN AT TECH

TEN OR MORE COURSES TO BE OFFERED IN FALL TERM

Announcement was made late yesterday that fall term night classes will be organized at Texas Technological college in the near future through the extension department. Classes will be organized in chemistry, geology, English, history and mathematics for freshmen; business economics and marketing for business men and possibly French and German, depending upon the number indicating a desire to take the courses in which full college credit will be given. If the demand does not justify the organization of a class, the subject, excepting chemistry and geology, may be taken by correspondence.

Fall Credit Given

Night courses will be scheduled on different nights of the week so that students will have a wider range of choice in the subjects. For each subject, successfully completed, a full college credit toward a degree or a student's certificate will be given.

If there is sufficient demand for them other subjects may be added to the night courses. The fee per extension class subject, yielding a three term hour credit, is $10. Four term hour courses may be taken in proportion to the credit granted. If a subject is taken by correspondence, the fee will be the same as that for extension class work.

TOPHANDS OF RODEO FAME EXPECTED IN EL PASO NEXT WEEK FOR ANNUAL ROUNDUP AND RODEO CONTEST SERIES

EL PASO, Sept. 18.—(Special)—Within a week tophands of rodeo fame will begin their trek toward El Paso for this border city's annual roundup and rodeo contests which are to be held Oct. 3, 4 and 5.

Topping the usual attractions of thrills and gold for these stars of the rodeo arena will be two days of wild steer roping for the world's championship in Juarez, Old Mexico, just two weeks on a bronc from El Paso. The steer roping, prohibited by laws in Texas, will be held Oct. 6 and 7, continuing the three days of El Paso's rodeo contests.

Steer Roping Feature

Indications are that the steer roping events will prove to be the biggest public contest ever held. Arrangements are being made to permit at least 100 ropers to try their luck and skill during the two days of contests. One hundred and fifty of the most vicious steers obtainable have been gathered from ranches in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona and Montana. Under special dispensation of the Mexican government they will be permitted to enter Old Mexico for the contests.

W. D. Cornell, president of the Southwest Range Stock show and Roundup, in charge of the annual gathering of cowboys and cowgirls for the world's championship in range sports, announced here that nearly $15,000 in prize money and trophies will be available for winners of the rodeo contests. Most of the stock for the contests has been centered on his Van Horn ranch near here and will be shipped on into El Paso and Mexico during the next several days. During the rodeo here each year

Thought For Today In the same day also will I punish all those that leap on the threshold, which fill their masters' houses with violence and deceit.—Zephaniah 1:8.

Don't let us rejoice in punishment even when the hand of God alone inflicts it. The best of us are but poor wretches, just saved from the shipwreck. Can we feel anything but awe and pity when we see a fellow-passenger swallowed by the waves?—George Eliot.

Puzzles Europe If you ever wonder why Europeans tend to look upon Americans as a strange and incomprehensible people, you might give a little attention to the recent cable dispatches concerning Mr. Jack (Legs) Diamond.

Legs Diamond is a New York racketeer, rapidly gaining a Manhattan reputation as a sort of small-scale Al Capone. Not long ago, threatening for the broadening effects of travel, he sailed for Europe.

His liner got to England and the British authorities, forewarned as to his antecedents, refused to let him in.

Thereupon he went to Belgium. The Belgian police met him at the dock, trotted to the German frontier and turned him loose—possibly as a belated reprisal for the indignity of 1914.

In no time at all the Germans arrested him. Having been tipped off that he was a director of various criminal enterprises and a highly dangerous man, they immediately wired New York and announced that they were holding him, would New York please send and get him?

The surprise came when New York replied that it didn't want him. In a broad sense, of course, that was understandable, but New York that it had no criminal charges ready to place against him, had no cell yawning for him and, on the whole, had no reason to deprive him of his liberty.

This was the sort of thing that the Europeans found themselves unable to assimilate.

Here was a notorious "bad man" on the loose, England, Belgium and Germany, in rapid succession, gave him short shrift, and the Germans thoughtfully and tactfully arrested him so that his home town could deal with him as he deserved.

Then the home town announced that it wasn't interested! It had him down in its list as a racketeer, but it couldn't do anything about it. As far as New York was concerned he was free as the air, and he could come home any time he wanted to.

It is hardly surprising if Europeans find this a bit thick. In Europe they have different ways of dealing with crooks and highlanders. They do not give them the freedom of the city until such time as they obligingly commit murders under the eyes of the mayor. Politicians do not offend them. The law and the courts do not throw out protective technicalities to shelter them. The criminal is harried and hounded—and, as a result, does not thrive.

Yachting Betty Ceasaire's nonchalant announcement that she has spent more than $500,000 in the last few years in her attempt to wrest the speed boat championship from American hands is an illuminating commentary on the expensiveness of this particular brand of sport.

Indeed, yachting probably stands today as the most expensive sport available. There is simply no limit to the amount of money that an enthusiast can pour into it. The sailboats that competed for the honor of defending the America's cup cost over $1,000,000 apiece. A pleasure yacht like Vincent Astor's or J. P. Morgan's can cost $200,000 a year simply for upkeep.

Nevertheless, the poor man can have his yacht at it, too. For a few hundred dollars he can get a boat and outboard motor that will take him over the water at a dizzy clip. For a little more he can buy a neat rubber cruiser or rubber boat, which is an aristocratic sport, but it does have a democratic side.

A bumper is sometimes like a squire. After a long drive she takes a walk.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says: That Girl on Broadway says Siamese twins are joined together because their parents don't believe in splitting hairs!

There's a woman in New York who never goes to see any of her husband's prize fights. It makes her jealous to see anyone else beating him up.

Actresses are the most unselfish people in the world. They hardly ever keep a husband over a year.

The reason a lot of men never marry is because they hate to penalize all the rest of the women in the world by showing a marked preference for any one of them.

LUBBOCK, Day by Day, with the O. O. McIntyre. Up and bedtime at 7:30 a. m. to enjoy a shower, albeit the wind is coolish on the eighth floor. Then to the coffee shop for a pleasant breakfast that American Institution, the Great God Ham and Eggs.

Down Broadway as Lubbock stirs to business at 8 o'clock. J. W. Gamel, a little late, entering his store and shop girls dodging within portals to miss being lardy by a frog's hair. It is more dangerous crossing the streets at 8 o'clock than it is at noon. Everyone is speeding up a little to get the day started.

Ed and Pat Green and Charlie Middleton, talking things over at the corner of the Leader building. Further down the street and on the other side, C. E. Yager superintends the sweeping of the sidewalk. They're already busy on the renovation and remodeling of the Ellis building at the corner of the Leader and the street.

Night falls and bedtime rolls around. The twinkling of a hundred—or maybe it's a thousand—lights in the street, south and north parts of the city. Sometimes the fire alarm screams and the bell is discernible from the window. I got up at two o'clock one morning to watch a fire in the blocks. I was awed and enthralled by the licking flames, then the dull red glow against a superb, West Texas star-spangled sky. Why are nights always so beautiful in this country?

Lubbock's white ways gradually extending, are an aid to night-time prowling. Often I stroll at eventide, alone. Streets are lined with homes of happy families. Somehow or another I'd rather drift along the thoroughfares where my kind of folk—the ordinary people if you choose—make their abode. I know that kind of life. The more luxurious existence I know largely from motion pictures.

For some reason there is something about a family on the porch at the front door. If I live to be a hundred I'll never fail to thrill when I see, through an undraped window, father reading The Journal as the radio twangs and wheezes and the kiddies work their lessons for the coming day. I could be editor of the New York Times and still thrill to the sight of a white-wing reading my paper.

A giggling reader sends this note: "Dear Plainsman: You're getting ahead-minded in your old age. That story in your column Wednesday, about taking medicine three nights running and then skip a night, was in your column eight or ten months ago. What's the matter, are you running out of material? I suggest you throw your old joke book away before you repeat any more!"

The gentleman is right! That story was a repeater but I told it a day or two before the coming day. I kick out of it that I decided to run it again. Incidentally, I don't know many stories that can be printed and placed in the mails but I'll tell you some others sometime, if you'll just drop around!

Speaking of like books, were in the market any reader, gentle or otherwise, is invited to send one to The Plainsman. Great gobs of thanks await the receipt of such a volume.

Uncle Sam Doesn't Pay Much Money But He Must Be A Swell Boss For Few Workers Quits, Rodney Dutcher Avers

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Either Uncle Sam is a fair boss or else a lot of people are easily satisfied. Periodically one opens one's eyes in more or less astonishment here as the Civil Service transfers a few old federal employees to the retired list and one discovers men who have been on the same job or almost the same job for half a century or more.

Although the government's pay is comparatively low, its jobs are usually secure and women stay in the federal service for so many decades. Government workers here, unless especially distinguished on certain lines, do not find many opportunities for change in the capital. Sometimes they can switch to other branches, but the limited commercial and industrial life of the District of Columbia offers few possibilities within easy jumping distance. That's another reason.

But the government service also breeds an interesting type of worker who takes a deep personal pride in the fact that he is part of the government. He takes immense pride in the performance of his own job and acquires, with the long service and assured security, a sense of vested property right in his job. A man in the War Department is only 67, but he, too, has been with the government for 60 years. His fellow employees gave him a watch and chain as they said farewell, and Frech said he would now wear a watch for the very first time.

Out with Ware and Frech go a dozen or more other War Department employees, all beyond the age of 74, which means that each has had at least two if not more two-year extensions of service beyond the retirement age.

Henry Lewis Bryan, editor of Statutes at Large, of whose work your correspondent wrote recently, is retired from the State Department after serving successively in the Army, War Department, Senate and State Department since 1871. It will take a long time to train a man to replace him, and his time undoubtedly would have been at least two if not more two-year extensions of service beyond the retirement age.

Along with him goes John Stephens. He is responsible for this column and he pointed me out several rows away. I should have been in the tent with the rest flocks (I know that's what you're thinking!)

Dr. CLENDENING solved "blood pressure" means something that is quite simple. The heart, in pumping the blood around through the blood vessels of the body, maintains a certain pressure behind it. Just as when you water your lawn with a hose there must be a certain pressure exerted to throw the water out from the nozzle of the hose. That pressure can be measured by putting a gauge over the end of the hose. And in fact, the pressure under which blood would spurt from the end of a cut artery is the blood pressure.

You can, however, measure the pressure of the water in the hose by compressing the hose at any point behind the nozzle. The amount of pressure you are compelled to exert to shut off the stream of water is the same as the pressure of the water as it comes out of the nozzle. That is the method we use of measuring human blood pressure. We wrap a rubber bag around the arm; it is connected both with a rubber bulb and with a measuring gauge. When we squeeze the arm by means of the bulb so tight that no pulse can be felt, the gauge will measure the amount of pressure we have to use. The exact moment when the pulse disappears (or reappears after being obliterated) is the point which we read on the gauge as the blood pressure.

This is called the systolic blood pressure, because it is the pressure exerted at the time the heart is in systole or in contraction. When the heart relaxes, or as we say, is in diastole, the pressure is naturally lower and is called the diastolic pressure.

Examined 76,000 Aspirants Edwin C. Bartlett, employe of the Postoffice Department, has been retired after 46 years of service, mostly as former assistant superintendent and special clerk in the Washington city postoffice. In the last five years he has supervised civil service examinations in Washington—holding 3788 local examinations in which there were 76,000 competitors.

Thomas Francis Roche has just died at the age of 67 after 47 years of continuous service in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. He was chief of the wetting division, and although he had reached retirement age he had been requested to stay on.

Besides such old-timers as these who are passing along, there are hundreds of others left in the government service with records almost as extensive.

Diet and Health By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

MEASURED LIKE GAUGING OF WATER IN A HOSE If the condition of the arteries and small blood vessels, and with that the related question of high blood pressure, is the central part of the body's muscular system, we should all try to find out as much as is known about them. We know a great deal about what I might call the fringes of the matter, but the heart of the matter is still unexplained.

Dr. Clendening solved "blood pressure" means something that is quite simple. The heart, in pumping the blood around through the blood vessels of the body, maintains a certain pressure behind it. Just as when you water your lawn with a hose there must be a certain pressure exerted to throw the water out from the nozzle of the hose. That pressure can be measured by putting a gauge over the end of the hose. And in fact, the pressure under which blood would spurt from the end of a cut artery is the blood pressure.

In New York

Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—And here are a couple of more true short stories to jot down on your cuff...

There's a book that's well up in the best seller list. It has brought its two co-authors a neat sum in royalties and moving picture rights. It concerns the "low down" on Hollywood told by a master for personal argument.

The two authors were press agents and young-men-about-Hollywood-town not so long ago. After years of customary reportorial improvidence they are now "in the money."

Very well! When they first hit New York, a third youth was in their party.

He had been used as the hero of the book, a former reporter on a Los Angeles newspaper. Around book and movie circles it was said he had helped edit the volume and written portions of it. That's a matter for personal argument.

And all over the land thousands of people have been reading about him. His name has been but slightly altered in the fiction version. Assuming that he is known as Brown, then the novel name is Brownie. Or vice-versa.

And all the time he was the hero of the book, actually he was pounding the streets of New York looking for work.

Laugh that one off. Then there's the very short-short story of the man on the rewrite desk of a New York morning paper who was called upon to write an indignant piece about the hit-and-run driver who had killed a child. The writer began to take notes and suddenly stopped short dropping in a faint. It was his own baby.

It was at one of those parties. It was given for quite a well-known actress who has appeared both on stage and screen. Most of the guests were people of the show world, writers and columnists.

As the evening warmed up, the party deserted the big ball room and spent most of its time around a ready-made bar.

One of the guests was a huge fellow who appeared in a "strong-man" act. He had been at the bar pretty steadily. After his sixth or seventh he looked about and beheld two of the pallid and undernourished-looking young men you're likely to meet almost anywhere on Broadway. The strong man started a moralistic lecture on playing the night life using these youths as his "horrible example."

For a while they were patient but when he became too personable glared at the other.

A few moments later they threw the strong man out of the room.

NEW MEDICINE ENDS SUFFERING OF FIVE YEARS

"I Was About to Give Up Hope Before I Found Konjola," Says This Lady

MRS. ALLENE TIPTON

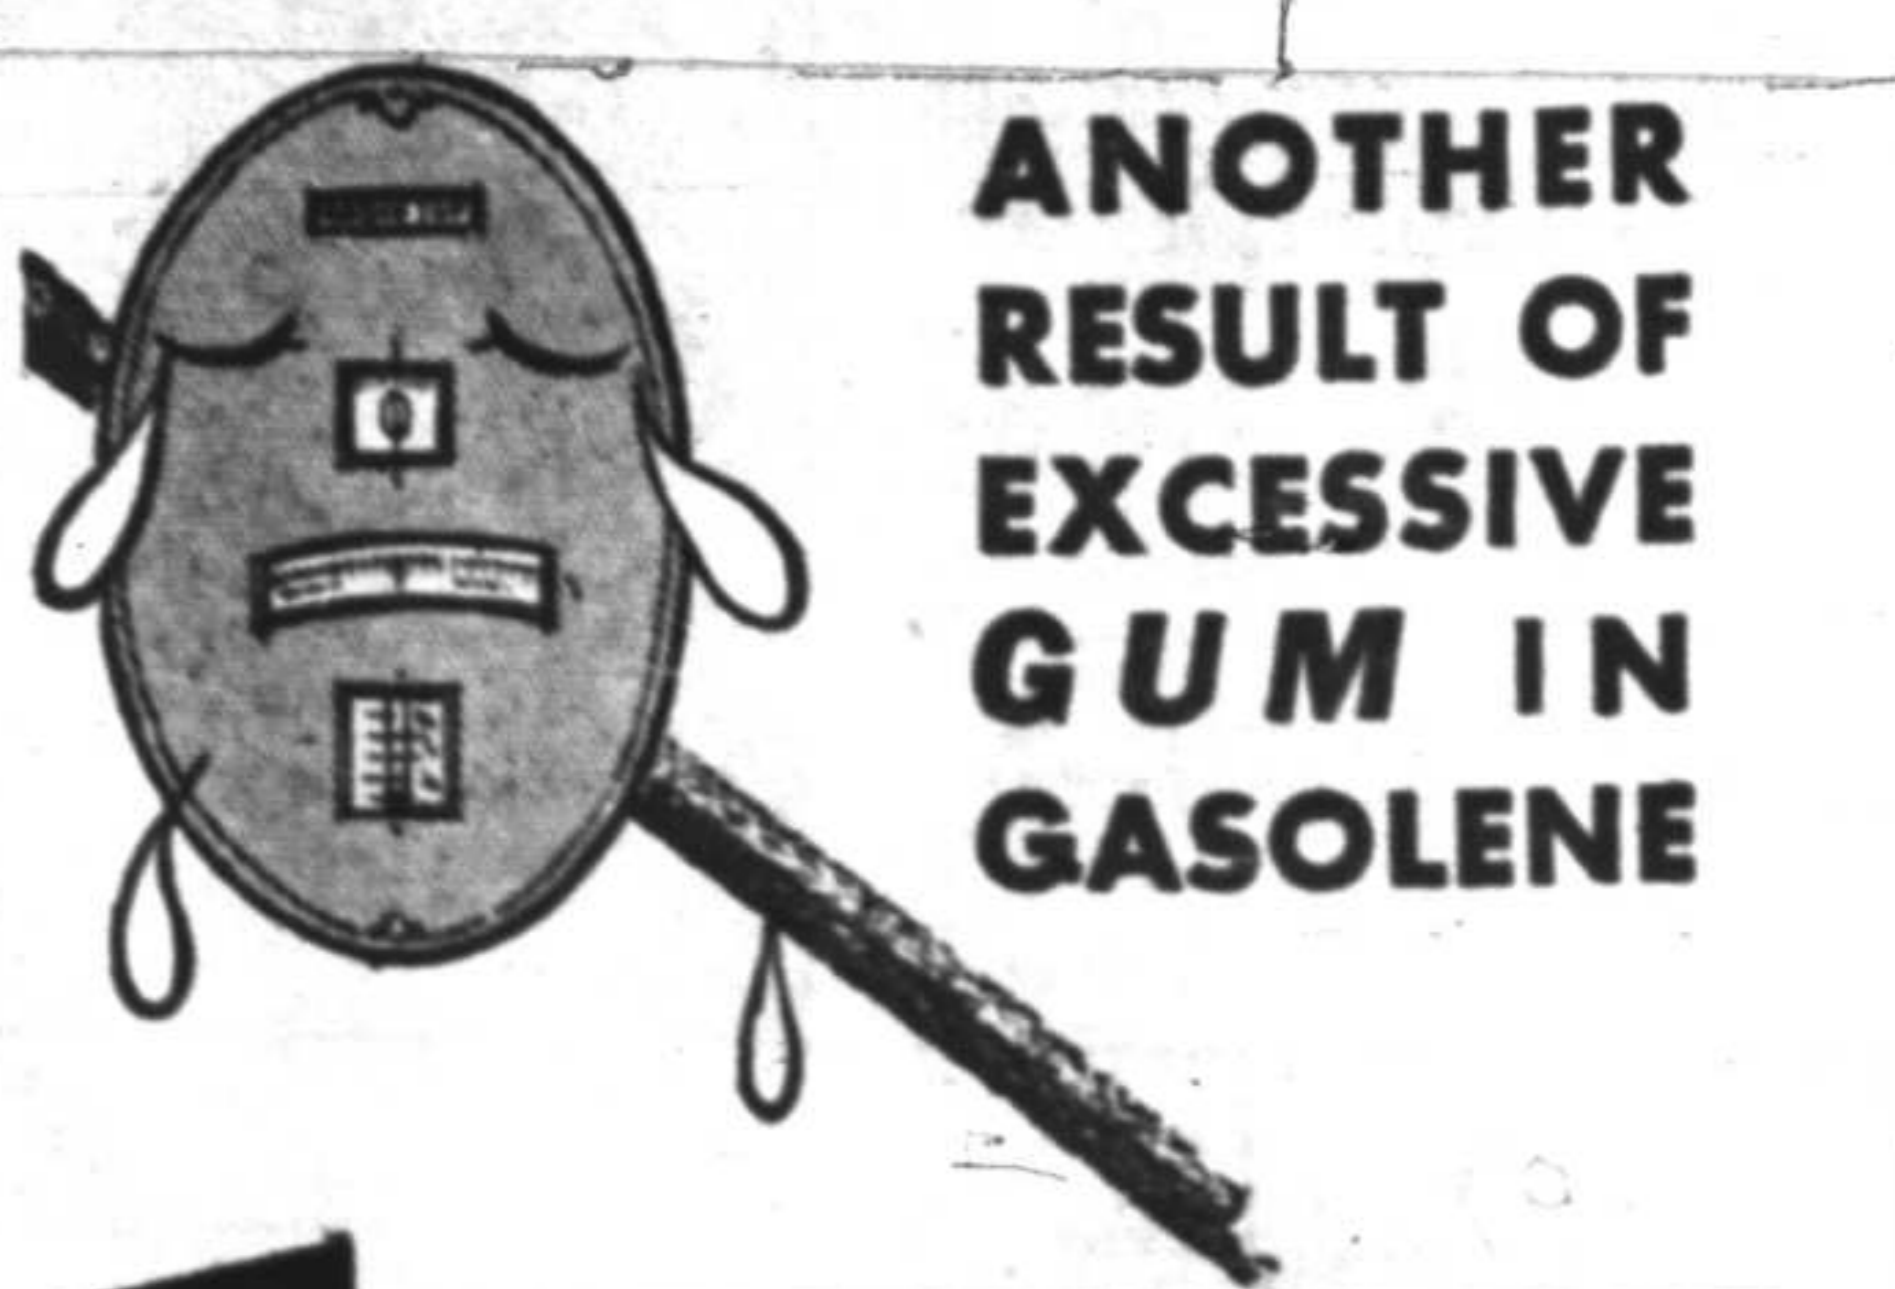

"For five years I was troubled with neuritis and indignation," said Mrs. Allene Tipton, 2311 Broadway, San Antonio. "I used many medicines but none of them helped me like Konjola. The neuritis pains in my arms and chest were almost unbearable. After eating I was sure to suffer the cramping pains of indigestion. My stomach bloated with gas and my heart often palpitated wildly."

"I was about to give up in despair before I found Konjola. I had not completed the first bottle before I began to note an improvement and now, after the third bottle, I have greatly improved in every respect. Neuritis pains have gone entirely. I now eat heartily without any discomfort afterward. I gladly endorse this splendid medicine."

Given a real test, in most cases over a six to eight week period, Konjola has done for thousands all that it did for Mrs. Tipton. Why not begin with this great medicine today?

Konjola is sold in Lubbock, Texas, at Bowen's drug store, and is the best drugstore in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

KOOLMOTOR GASOLENE

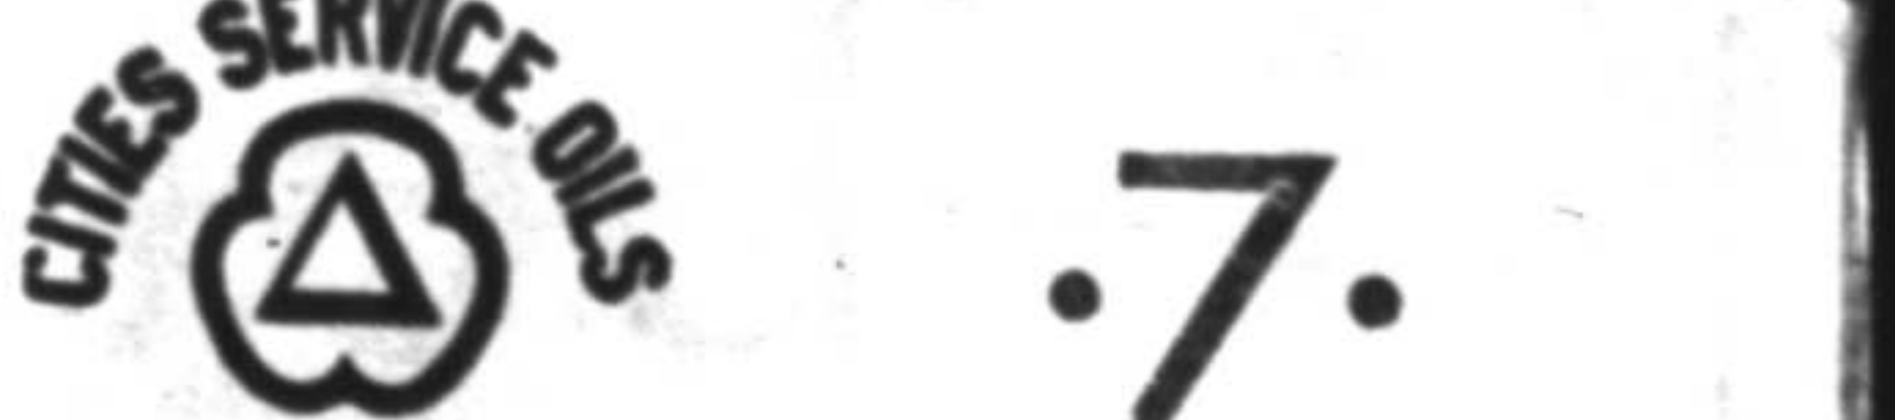

IS FREE FROM HARMFUL GUM

EXCESSIVE gum in gasolene causes delayed seating and, in some cases, complete sticking of the valves in your engine. Faulty valve action allows unburned gasolene to blow out through the exhaust. Recent tests have shown as much as 20% to 30% gasolene wasted because of improper valve operation.

Koolmotor—the original high test, anti-knock green gas—is free from harmful gum. It keeps your valves clean and free-moving—ready to do their best at all times.

A special process—the Cities Service mini-gum process—has reduced the gum content in Koolmotor Gasolene to a harmless minimum.

Keep your tank full of Koolmotor and protect yourself against this loss of mileage and the expense caused by sticky valves. Fill your tank with this powerful, clean burning motor fuel today!

HARMFUL EFFECTS of Excessive Gum in Gasolene

MEMPHIS PLAYERS GO HAYWIRE IN EIGHTH AND CATS EMERGE

(By The Associated Press) MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 18.—Fort Worth, Texas, Texas League contenders for the baseball championship of the south, today stood one up on their Southern Association rivals, the Memphis Chickasaws...

Incidents of the Memphis "disaster" inning, the eighth, included two bases on balls, a throw to third base, for the moment uncovered, and then the drop of a throw to first. When it started Memphis was leading 3 to 1.

"Open Door" Fatal Two runs romped home through the "open door" at third base before the ball was recovered.

Otherwise the series opener was a hard-fought contest and a pitching duel between Walter Beck of Memphis and Dick McCabe of Fort Worth, both right handers.

The second game of the series was scheduled for this afternoon. Harry Kelly was announced as the pitching selection for Memphis.

A delegation of several hundred Fort Worth fans with the Fort Worth police band and equipped with a plentiful supply of cowbells, were on hand yesterday to cheer their team to victory.

Attendance at yesterday's game was 8,644. Receipts amounted to $16,012.25.

That Texas Technological college rates above the average when considered by high school gridsters as a place to follow their favorite sport was impressively marked yesterday when 75 freshmen, representing gridiron talent from leading high schools all over the state, reported to freshman coach Russell T. "Dutch" Smith yesterday afternoon for initial instructions and workouts.

Many of the first year men have been in Lubbock several days and some had already been assigned equipment and had done unofficial practice on the gridiron without supervision of coaches.

R. G. Allen, president of the baseball club, said he had made no plans for continuance of Southern Association baseball here yet but that the future course to be taken would be determined largely by the opinion of Southern League officials.

CARNERA ENDS U. S. INVASION

(By The Associated Press) CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Primo Carnera has finished his conquest among American heavyweights with an average of 1,000, and an extremely healthy bank roll.

The Italian monster last night nominated and elected Jack Gross, a Jewish heavy from Philadelphia, as knockout victim number 28, accomplishing the business in less than four rounds.

Did His Lethandhand About the only difference between Gross and Carnera's other opponents was that the Philadelphia did his fighting left-handed.

Crowd Boos Giant Carnera's victory was not popular with the customers who checked up approximately every time Gross landed a blow—and he accomplished boomed and jeered Primo throughout the fight. Referee Ed Purdy warned Carnera for backhand hitting and for placing his forearm under Gross' chin lifting it joltingly.

Prize of an action intended to tie up part of Primo's receipts for the evening was filed by an attorney for George A. Bremer, Fort Wayne, Ind., fight promoter.

THERE'S a harmony between the natural loveliness of this modern age and the natural, mild goodness of Camels. And if you find them keeping company, don't be surprised. Camel has given the world the luxury of a naturally mild cigarette—a cigarette that preserves all the refreshing fragrance of the choice, mild tobaccos from which it is made—a cigarette that is delightfully smooth, but never flat, never parched, never tasteless.

LAUGH EACH DAY WITH THE JOURNAL COMICS

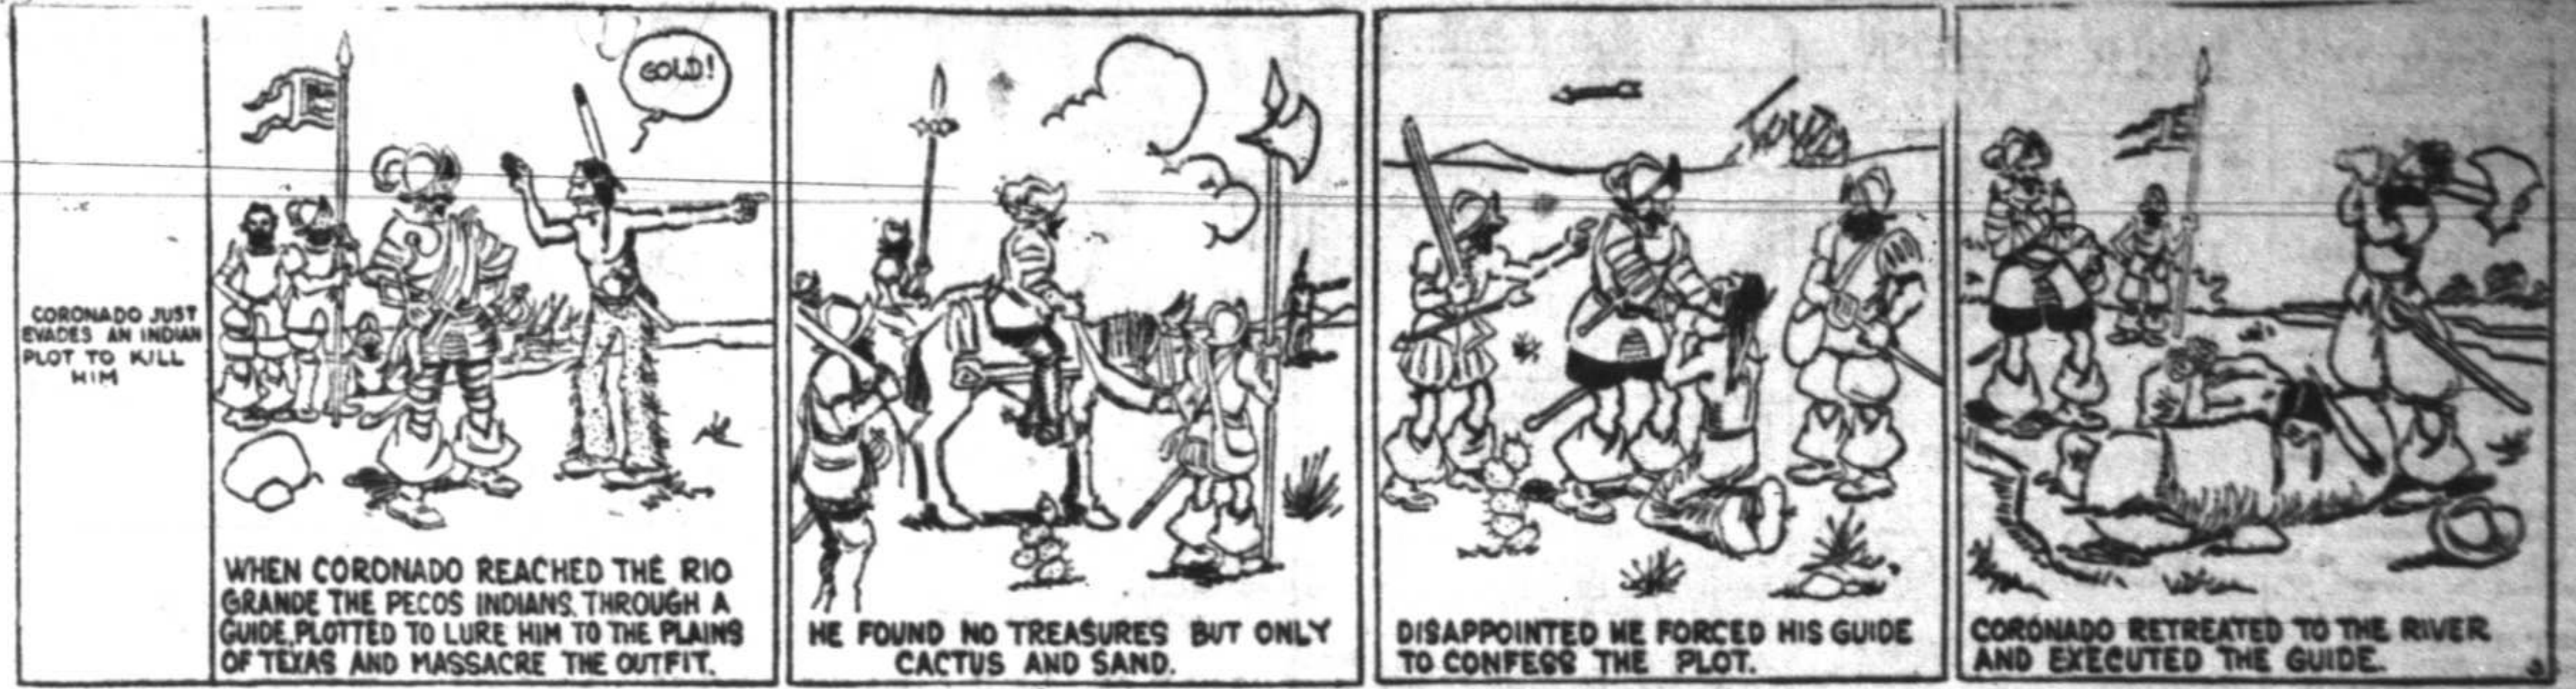

(READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Times on their snowshoes walked around and about the scenery talked. It surely was real beautiful against a clear blue sky. The snow seemed like a glistening ray and was a dandy place to play. It was pretty deep because the mountain they were on was high. When they grew tired they all sat down and gazed off at a distant town. The houses looked like a drop of lake or brilliant snow down in the valley. It was beautiful. You see the higher that you get the colder is the air. You get on the plain and you see this scene.

DAILY MARKETS

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The stock market was called upon to absorb considerable short selling in the early hours today, and prices of prominent shares slipped off a couple of points, with larger losses in some of the industrial specialties.
 American Can, American Telephone, National American, Westinghouse Electric, Columbia Carbon, John Manville, Air Reduction, Col. S. C. Cole, R. M. Macy and American Rolling Mills lost 2 points or more. U. S. Steel dropped more than a point.
 American Agricultural Chemical preferred rallied 4 points. Student-teacher gained 1 point. Studebaker renewed at 2 per cent.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 2 points on July but generally 1 to 2 points higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. The demand was light, however, while there seemed to be a little more southern selling and prices eased off after the opening with new October selling down to 10.85 and March to 11.25, about 2 to 3 points net lower on the more active months.
 The hedge selling in evidence at the opening was absorbed on the decline of 2 to 4 points from yesterday's closing quotations and the market was steadier late in the morning on trade buying and covering. Offerings became very light after the first half hour and it did not take a great deal of buying to bring the price of October up to 11.05 and March to 11.55, or about 12 to 13 points net higher.

TWO MP TRAINS COLLIDE

ONLY ONE PERSON IS HURT; BLAME LAID ON ENGINEER

(By The Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Sept. 18.—Two Missouri Pacific passenger trains collided about six miles south of Odem, Texas, at 3 a. m. today. Only one person, O. R. Hayes, fireman on train No. 16, was injured. The cause of the wreck, Mallory McDonald, Missouri Pacific official, who was on train No. 16, northbound, said was "due to engineer northbound train passing meeting point" with train Number 13, southbound.
 Hayes hurt an arm and an ankle in jumping from his cab. No passenger was injured. The only damage was to the pilots of both engines.

 come from the $250,000 trust fund which he established for her some time ago.
 Beery reported to police Monday his wife had disappeared Sept. 8 without explanation, and asked aid in locating her. He said she had been ill and he feared harm had befallen her.
 After his wife had been located, Beery asked the authorities to continue their investigation of her disappearance, declaring "I want the proper authorities to investigate this matter and prosecute anyone guilty of enticing or luring Mrs. Beery from her home. If it can be established any person or persons are responsible for her strange absence, I shall lodge charges against them."
 Emil Wickman, a rancher living near Las Vegas, reported Mrs. Beery and Raymond Wells, a former film director, had been his guests for nearly a week. He said Mrs. Beery brought Wells to Las Vegas from Los Angeles in her automobile.
 Offers Her Car
 Wickman said he and Wells were trying to finance a motion picture company and that Mrs. Beery was interested enough to help in some of the preliminary financing and to offer the use of her car.
 Court records here revealed Raymond Wells sued Beery several months ago for $50,000 damages for alleged assault. Wells asserted Beery knocked him down and injured his case never was proved. The understanding is it was settled out of court.
 Two years ago Mrs. Beery started divorce proceedings but dropped them. She and Beery were married at Boston in 1910 and have one son, Noah Beery, 3rd.

NEGRO IS HELD FOR ATTACK ON AUSTIN COUPLE

Join Forces

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Sept. 18.—Charges of assault to murder and intent to criminally attack were filed against Walter Banks, negro, for an attack Sunday night upon Mr. and Mrs. John Harkey. Bond was set at $5,000.
 Harkey and his wife were attacked as they were walking toward their home. The negro first slugged Harkey and then dragged Mrs. Harkey through a barbed wire fence and tore off her clothes. The negro fled when Harkey recovered consciousness and went to his wife's aid.
 Banks was arrested on suspicion and tentatively identified by the Harkeys. He denied all knowledge of the attack. A wound on his wrist where Mrs. Harkey said she bit her assailant and the fact that he worked near the scene of the attack, led to his arrest.

 Eighty thousand gallons of grain mash was found in vats and 20,000 gallons of grain alcohol was ready for shipment. There was a crating department and evidence that five gallon tins of alcohol were shipped in carload lots from a railroad siding near the building.
 Storage rooms were crammed to the ceiling with materials for making alcohol, including 100,000 pounds of raw sugar and 2,000 gallons of molasses.
 A stoppage in the ventilating system led to the discovery of the distillery. Persons living nearby had complained of the odors.

 Constitutionality of the anti-evolution act was upheld by the state supreme court, which however, recommended to the attorney-general that a nolle prosequi be entered as to Scopes. The court held that the judge who assessed the $100 fine exceeded his jurisdiction and reversed the judgment. Under Tennessee law a judge cannot impose a fine in excess of $50. The anti-evolution statute provided a minimum penalty of $100.

THREE MORE CHILDREN OF CALIFORNIA FAMILY STRICKEN WITH PECULIAR MALADY; THREE OTHERS DIED ON SUNDAY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—The three eldest children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Love were taken to a hospital today suffering from symptoms similar to those which preceded the death of the three youngest children in the family last Sunday. The three stricken are Robert, 14, Frances, 11, and Geneva, 9. Last Sunday Betty, 3, Virginia, 3, and John, 18 months, died after becoming ill early in the day. Lola, 7, also was taken ill last Sunday and still is in a critical condition. The strange ailment at first was diagnosed as leucemine poisoning, similar to ptomaine poisoning. Later, however, a chemical analysis of vital organs was ordered. Mr. and Mrs. Love, out of work for several months, were not affected. They said they had not eaten the night before the youngest children were fatally stricken as "there wasn't enough for all." Authorities said they believed something the children had eaten was responsible for the tragedy.

New Pool Draws Much Interest

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 18 (AP)—The Carr City pool, Seminole county, is drawing new interest. Following completion of a new Wilson sand producer in the area and staking of several new locations came an announcement Tuesday that William McCulloch, formerly president of the McCulloch Oil company, had entered the area with the purchase of leases covering the south half of the southwest, the northeast, lot 2, and the south half of lot 3, all in section 4-8-5 at a reported price of $450 an acre. A three-fourths interest in the acreage as acquired has been sold to the Independent Oil and Gas company, of which McCulloch formerly was vice president in charge of production.

TWO NATIONS PART WAYS

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 18.—Uruguay and Peru have reached the parting of the ways. The Montevideoan government last night announced diplomatic relations with Peru would be broken off immediately because of irregularities in the observance of international conventions which both recognized. It was supposed here the reference was to the Peruvian provisional government's objection to the Uruguayan minister, Sr. Folsada, sheltering refugees from President Leguia's administrative group at the outbreak of the recent revolution. At the time Sr. Folsada was declared persona non grata, but was not recalled by Montevideo. It would seem the effect of the new move would be to make the Peruvian government recall their own representative here and hand Sr. Folsada his passport. The countries are 208 contiguous and danger of an armed outbreak between them is almost non-existent. Men outnumber women by about 3,000,000 in India, the male population of Calcutta alone being more than double the female.
