Events planned July 4th as well as a few changes were outlined Tuesday.

The annual parade kicks off the day's planned events at 9 a.m. in Towle Park. The parade will assemble at the Moffett Field parking lot at 8 a.m.

Tax consolidation swing vote sends school to county

A major step was taken Tuesday toward the consolidation of tax collection services in Scurry County as the Snyder school board voted to switch its collecting agency from the appraisal district to the county.

The vote Tuesday was made with a minimum of discussion, although the topic itself has generated at least two presentations to the school board in the past several weeks.

The motion to change was passed unanimously with all seven board members voting.

Up until Tuesday's vote, tax collection chores here were evenly split with the county tax office collecting for itself, WTC and the city. The Scurry County Appraisal District collected for Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira ISDs.

The Snyder school district was considered a swing vote in the matter since last year it paid some 89 percent of the appraisal district's entire collection budget.

These charges are based on the actual cost of collecting taxes.

A $60,000 annual savings was quoted often as the reason for the consolidation effort, which had been actively supported by both county commissioners and the WTC college board.

The college board noted it felt either entity could do the job effectively. During earlier meetings, County Tax Assessor Collector Rona Sikes said she would not give up her tax collecting duties unless a "vote of the people" specified this.

A straw vote had been proposed, but county officials learned as recently as Monday that the state election code would prohibit it being included on an Aug. 8 ballot planned in conjunction with a ½ cent county sales tax ballot.

In voting for the change Tuesday, the board cited a comment made by appraisal district head Ray Peveler, who said at an earlier meeting that he believed the county could do essentially the same job as the district since it now utilized computer programs devised by the district's staff.

In other action Tuesday, the board amplfied on its dress code related to shorts worn by elementary age youngsters. Last June 15, trustees eliminating the wearing of shorts at the junior high and high school level.

Under policy finalized Tuesday, youngsters enrolled in grades K-6 may wear "walking shorts no higher than mid-thigh."

All trustees attended Tuesday's special session to include Mike Jordan, Ben Wilcox, Ygnacio Benitez, Ken Branam, Billy Bob McMullan, Luann Burleson and Charlene Light.

In other school-related action, the board voted to:

—Authorize administrators to offer contracts for, at the high school, a coach-history teacher, a trainer-health, P.E. teacher, a social studies teacher and two English teachers; and at the junior high, a coach-English

DONOR TURNOUT — A good turnout was counted at Tuesday's blood drive, conducted in the Towle Park Barn. Some 203 people registered with 191 accepted as donors. Also, 37 people donated blood for the first time. The next drive is due Aug. 25. (SDN Staff Photo)

Drive nets 191 pints for UBS

Some 203 people registered Tuesday for the Scurry County blood drive with 191 being accepted as donors. Thirty-seven people donated blood for the first time.

Several pin awards were also presented to longtime donors. Those receiving one gallon pins were Kathy Post, Susan Miller, Donald Anderson, Danny Pierce and Norris Lofton.

Danita Roe and Tommy Henry each received a two gallon pin.

Those receiving three gallpn pins were Bobbie Combest, James Day, Zelma Irons and William West.

C.Z. Lankford received a four gallon pin.

The next blood drive has been scheduled for Aug. 25.

School board continues line item cuts

Questions raised regarding line items in the Snyder ISD athletic budget were finalized Tuesday during the second nightly session of scheduled week-long budget study workshops.

The decisions resulting from these questions included a consensus by the board that a secretarial position for the athletic director will be reduced to half-day status--an item which prompted the most discussion both Monday and Tuesday.

The board had considered the option of eliminating this position, but eventually leaned toward a half-day reduction following strong objections by AD Dennis Tomlin.

He noted that during football season, his schedule allows him little if any time for administrative duties associated with the AD's job.

With the change, it was noted that the administrative offices will likely again take over ticket sales and the high school principal's office will again be responsible for ascertaining UIL eligibility of players.

The Tuesday session was used to "clean up" pending decisions on both the athletic budget and the instructional support budget--mainly involving special programs and computer assisted instruction (CAI)--first proposed June 15.

In addition, the board managed to complete study sections for both the maintenance and transportation budgets for the 1987-88 school year. The session lasted four hours Tuesday.

Jail inmate files suit against local officials

Scurry County Sheriff Keith Collier and District Attorney Ernie Armstrong have been named defendants in a civil rights lawsuit filed in Federal District Court in Lubbock this week by an inmate of the Scurry County Jail.

As of Wednesday morning, neither Collier nor Armstrong had been served with official notification of the suit.

Plaintiff in the suit is Charles Allen "Junebug" King, 27, of 3208 Ave. L.

King is currently being held in the local jail in lieu of bonds set at $10,000 on a robbery charge and $20,000 on a charge of delivery of cocaine.

He was indicted by a Scurry County grand jury on the robbery charge in March for an alleged strong-arm robbery of Melvin Lee Edwards of Snyder on Jan. 30.

Grand jurors meeting on April 2 returned the indictment against him for delivery of a controlled substance.

Armstrong said Wednesday morning that he did not know the details of the suit filed in Lubbock but noted, "these filings are not particularly unusual."

King is represented by local attorney Jody Hall — via a court appointment — in the criminal cases now pending here.

According to Armstrong,

Summer is normally a slow news times. Reporters are not supposed to make the news, but just report it. During these slow times we can't resist the temptation for a story to go with the perfect headline.

Here's our fictional story concerning Artie Butler, assistant superintendent for business for the Snyder schools.

Artie was standing in line at the supermarket checkout counter when he dropped a $1 bill. The woman ahead of him picked it up.

"Hey, that's my dollar," Artie said.

The woman told him to shove off. Artie got angry and began choking her as she dropped the $1 bill.

A man behind Artie saw the dollar flutter to the floor and he picked it up. Artie turned from the woman to the man and began to tighten his grasp around the man's throat to get his $1 back.

By this time there was such a scene that the store manager ran up and demanded to know what was going up. He, too, saw the $1 on the floor and picked it up. Naturally, Artie turned on him.

Next day the newspaper headline read: "Artie Chokes Three for $1."

Show me somebody who smiles at trouble and I'll show you a lawyer.

Did you hear about the young law student who was asked if he was interested in any specialized field. He said, "Right now I'm sort of torn between corporate and loophole."

We noticed where a lawyer is suing an airline after it stranded him for hours in Chicago.

We think he'll have a tough time with the jury. Anything that takes a lawyer out of circulation can't be all bad.

In Brief

Phone rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local telephone charges go up 60 cents per month today, while American Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s long-distance rates drop nearly 5 percent.

The other major long-distance companies — MCI Communications Corp. and US Sprint Communications Co. — plan to drop their rates this summer too.

But consumer advocates say the typical customer will pay more for phone service overall in spite of the reductions.

"The evidence is clear that most consumers do very little long-distance calling, so once again they're being asked to pay more in their local bill than they'll ever save in long-distance rates," said Gene Kimmelman, legislative director of the Consumer Federation of America.

The Federal Communications Commission approved the higher local charge to shift to subscribers more of the cost of maintaining the wire that runs from their telephone to the phone company's central office.

High court hopefuls assessed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats gave White House emissaries a candid assessment that shows which of President Reagan's Supreme Court hopefuls may win confirmation and who could face "a very hot summer."

The Democratic scorecard was likely to play an important role today when top administration officials were scheduled to meet on the nomination.

Administration and congressional sources, speaking only on condition they not be identified, said Tuesday night the meeting may be the final session to decide who will be nominated to replace retired Justice Lewis F. Powell.

Congressional sources, also insisting on anonymity, have said the candidate reportedly favored by Attorney Gen. Edwin Meese III, U.S. appellate judge Robert Bork, likely would generate considerable opposition among Senate Democrats.

Meese, known for his blunt style, was one of the presidential aides who carried a list of hopefuls to Democratic and Republic Senate leaders Tuesday in separate meetings. The other was Howard H. Baker Jr., the presidential chief of staff who is savvy in the ways of the Senate, where he once was majority leader.

In giving the Democrats a peek at about a dozen prime candidates, the presidential aides "truly wanted a sense from the chairman of the (Judiciary) committee, and the leader of the Senate, if any problems would arise from that representative list," said Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., chairman of the Senate Judiciary panel.

And they got it, Biden said.

Biden flew to the meeting from Chicago, where he briefly interrupted his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. The other Democratic participant was Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va.

Parkinson's disease patients improve after brain implants

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven Parkinson's disease sufferers in Mexico and two in Tennessee showed improvement after gland tissue was grafted onto their brains, but the U.S. researchers say their patients need more study.

"It is too early to conclude whether the cause of the change is a placebo (psychological) effect, the natural fluctuations of the disease or a result of the transplant," said Dr. George Allen of Vanderbilt University Medical Center in Nashville, Tenn.

The Mexican patients showed easing of tremor, rigidity and other symptoms following the experimental treatment, said Dr. Rene Drucker-Colin of the National Autonomous University of Mexico in Mexico City.

Two patients at Vanderbilt "have shown changes in the direction of improvement," especially in gait and facial animation, Allen said, while no judgment can be made about four other Vanderbilt patients because their medication dosages were changed in the course of the study.

The two researchers were interviewed by telephone before speaking Tuesday at a meeting sponsored by the University of Rochester on transplants to the central nervous system.

Parkinson's disease, often characterized by tremors, rigidity or loss of balance, afflicts 350,000 or more Americans. Drugs can control symptoms, but their effect can be sporadic and side effects can include psychological disturbances and impairment of movement.

The disease is caused by the death of brain cells that produce dopamine, which brain cells use to communicate.

Dear Abby

DEAR READERS: Have you ever abused your child? Perhaps without realizing it, you have. Words can hit as hard as a fist. For example:

"You disgust me. Just shut up!"

"Get out of here. I'm sick of looking at your face!"

"You're pathetic. Can't you do anything right?"

"You're more trouble than you're worth."

"Why don't you go and find some other place to live?"

"I wish you were never born."

Children believe whatever their parents tell them. Next time you lose your temper, stop for a moment, and listen to what you're saying. You might not believe your words.

Take time out. Don't take it out on your kid.

Here are 12 alternatives to lashing out at your kid:

1. Put your hands over your mouth. Count to 10. Or better yet, 20.
2. Stop in your tracks. Press your lips together and breathe deeply.
3. Phone a friend.
4. Phone the prerecorded weather information number.
5. Say the alphabet out loud.
6. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a leisurely walk.
7. Splash cold water on your face, or take a warm bath.
8. Pick up a pencil and write down your thoughts.
9. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child hears.
10. Turn on the radio or TV.
11. Hug a pillow.
12. Write for prevention information: National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, Box 2866, Chicago, Ill. 60690. You'll be glad you did.

This is a non-profit organization. The information is free for the asking, but if you are able to send even a small donation, it will be greatly appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were divorced many years ago and I was left to raise our two children with no help from him. They are now 11 and 13 years old. My mom took care of my kids all the years I worked.

I am going with a gentleman who loves me. He is 49, divorced and has two teen-age children who live with his wife, but he supports them in style. He is well-off financially and just came into some inherited money.

He has offered to marry me and buy me a home — on one condition: My children cannot live with us. My mother practically raised my kids, so he thinks they should live with her. Abby, my mother is 72 and she has worked her butt off looking after my kids, and I just can't lay that on her after all she's done for me.

I love this man and he treats me very well, but we fight about this all the time. My kids are good kids, and they come first with me. Please tell me what to do. He has given me an Aug. 15 deadline.

ALL TORN UP

DEAR TORN: Tell the gentleman if he wants to marry you, it's a package deal — triple or nothing. If he says, "Nothing," don't eat your heart out. Would you really want a man who asked you to abandon your children?

Pathway causes heart problem

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Our son, 30, takes medication for Wolff-Parkinson-White syndrome. Is it hereditary?

DEAR READER — The Wolff-Parkinson-White (pre-excitation) syndrome is a non-inherited abnormality of the heart's electrical system. Instead of the usual circuit of conduction, patients with WPW have an accessory pathway along which electrical impulses travel. This pathway is called the bundle of Kent, and it speeds electricity more quickly than normal. It is, if you will, a bypass circuit between the atria (low-pressure chambers) and the ventricles (high-pressure chambers).

WPW is associated with attacks of palpitations and rapid heart rate. Most are innocuous, but one type of attack has potentially serious consequences: atrial fibrillation with rapid ventricular response. This simply means that in the presence of an increase in the heart's pacing, the impulses will more readily reach the ventricles and cause too rapid a pulse.

Treatment is directed toward slowing the speed with which electrical impulses travel through the heart's conduction system. Digitalis and betablockers are commonly used for this purpose. Once the bundle of Kent can be inhibited, electricity will spread through the heart's nerves at a more normal velocity.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My grandson is recovering from Kawasaki sickness. What is this disease?

DEAR READER — Kawasaki disease (mucocutaneous lymph node syndrome) is an infectious disease of children. It causes sudden illness with fever, inflamed membranes of the mouth ("strawberry tongue"), a diffuse rash (which later peels), joint pain, diarrhea, pneumonia and swollen lymph glands. Unfortunately, the heart and its blood vessels can become inflamed; more than 80 percent of children develop cardiac complications of Kawasaki disease, sometimes as long as several years after the acute illness.

In 1986, experts studying the mucocutaneous lymph node syndrome were struck by a strange similarity. Under a microscope, the children's blood vessels showed the same type of inflammation seen in the arteries of adults with a disease called periarteritis nodosa. In this condition, the walls of blood vessels become acutely inflamed and weakened; blood clots (thromboses) may adhere to the irritated linings. Although the cause of Kawasaki disease is still unknown, evidence suggests that it could be a juvenile form of periarteritis. Perhaps the syndrome actually includes several types of similar diseases.

At present the only treatment for Kawasaki disease is aspirin. Recently, specialists at Children's Hospital in Boston have recommended intravenous gamma globulin to prevent cardiac complications. Ordinarily, consequences of the inflammation are treated as they appear. The disease occurs worldwide. In 1981, epidemics were reported in Massachusetts and in Rochester, N.Y. Many scientists are trying to discover exactly what Kawasaki disease is. To date, the illness still shrouded in mystery.

Paramedic sentenced to life

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — For six months, Ray Moberg had kept quiet about the whereabouts of his stepdaughter, Deborah Suzette Moberg.

On Tuesday, the suspended paramedic was sentenced to life in prison after admitting he shot the 18-year-old twice and dumped her body in a trash bin in January.

Authorities now believe Miss Moberg's remains may be under tons of garbage at a private landfill, but say they will search for her.

Moberg, 40, also was sentenced to life in prison for breaking into his ex-wife's home. He also was assessed five 20-year terms on charges of sexual assault on children, including two attacks on his own 8-year-old daughter.

"Sending Ray Moberg to prison with two life sentences and five others totaling 100 years provides justice for the victims and spares the victims further pain and suffering," Bexar County District Attorney Fred Rodriguez said shortly after the sentencing.

Miss Moberg disappeared Jan. 9, and hundreds of family members, friends and neighbors searched for her during the early spring.

Authorities said Moberg gave a statement in which he said he broke into his ex-wife's home Jan. 9, and when the girls entered a short time later he shot the 18-year-old twice with a .22-caliber pistol.

He said he handcuffed the younger girl, took her to a car, put her sister's body in the trunk and drove around while trying to decide what to do with the body.

Moberg said after putting the body in a trash bin, he then went to a motel. The 8-year-old was released the next day and told authorities she had been sexually molested.

Deborah Moberg's body is now believed to be in a private landfill, and authorities are trying to convince landfill owners to allow them to search it, Rodriguez said.

Moberg's attorney Steve Hilbig said the plea bargain was fair and that Moberg wanted his stepdaughter to have a proper burial.

He said, however, that finding the body may be difficult.

"I think there's going to be a very slim chance of anybody being recovered just because of how things are done at the landfill. So there might not be any recovery," Hilbig said.

In the plea bargain, prosecutors agreed to dismiss several other sexual assault cases and not seek capital murder or aggravated kidnapping indictments against Moberg.

"He really did not give us an explanation as to why it happened. Just that it did happen," said Assistant District Attorney Tina Tussay. "What he did state in the confession was that unfortunately he had taken Debbie's life through this ordeal, and if he could do something to change that, he would."

The slain teen's mother, Janie Moberg, said a memorial service will be held for her daughter.

"I always wanted to be able to find Debbie alive, but hearing it today from Ray that he confesses to murdering her, I guess I will never be able to give her that one last kiss," Ms. Moberg said.

Local participates in 'Mainstream'

STEPHENVILLE--Twelve of the summer school students at Tarleton State University, including Shannon Fontanilla of Snyder, have the distinction of being the first to participate in a summer youth program sponsored by the West Central Texas Council of Governments.

Entitled "Mainstream," the federally funded program allows the students the opportunity to work on the campus and enroll in six semester hours of academics. The initial students are from a 10 county region in West Texas and their hometowns include Sweetwater, Colorado City, Abilene, Loraine and Snyder.

The students applied for Mainstream through their high school counselors or COG representatives. The program is aimed at young people from homes and environments where very few friends or relatives have attended college. It is hoped that this trend will be halted once the youths get a taste of college life and an interest in furthering their education.

Against the grain

The standard way to develop a trick with an honor combination is to lead up to it. If the defenders' cards are situated well for you, you will take the tricks you need. I like a deal in which you win by doing just the opposite — playing against the grain and hoping the bat doesn't break.

South had a huge no-trump holding — 24 high-card points with two 10-spots. He showed that strength by opening two clubs (artificial) and rebidding two no-trump over North's negative diamond response. Three diamonds was a Jacoby transfer bid showing at least five hearts, and three no-trump by North simply denoted enough to play game.

Declarer has many choices after the club lead. Because of the heart-suit blockage, there is no certain way to take nine tricks. So South took the bold approach. He banged down the queen of spades. West won the king and led a heart, knowing declarer had no more than two cards in that suit. South won the heart ace, cashed his top diamonds and played the 10 of spades. East won his jack and played another heart. Declarer won and played still another spade. On this card West let go a heart and East won his ace. East now returned a club and declarer ducked. That was the fourth trick for the defense as West now won the nine, but West had to give up, either leading into declarer's K-10 of clubs or playing the heart jack into the dummy's king.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Connors, Shriver overcome setbacks to reach final eight

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - They were two of Wimbledon's great comebacks.

First, there was Pam Shriver, down 1-4 in the final set to Sylvia Hanika of West Germany and facing two match points.

Then, even more remarkably, there was 34-year-old Jimmy Connors, down two sets and 1-4 in the third to Mikael Pernfors of Sweden, his hopes of a quarterfinal berth all but dashed.

But with America's chances in the 101st Wimbledon championships fading badly Tuesday, Shriver and Connors dug deep into their reserves of strength and stamina and somehow pulled out both matches to reach the round of eight.

Both were eliminated last year in the first round. Both brought their victories Tuesday down to one thing: Guts.

"For a change, when the chips were on the table, I came up with some good stuff," Shriver said after her 6-7, 7-5, 10-8 defeat of Hanika. "It was as tough as heck."

Connors, who has failed to reach the quarterfinals here only three times in 17 attempts, said after his 1-6, 1-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Pernfors: "The best thing I did out there was grind and fight."

Connors and Shriver were to try to continue their advance today on Court No. 1. Shriver, the No. 5 seed, was to play No. 4 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia in a women's quarterfinal, while Connors, No. 7 in the men's draw, was to meet unseeded Slobodan Zivojinovic of Yugoslavia.

To make up for last week's backlog of matches caused by the rain, organizers scheduled the entire quarterfinal round for this afternoon.

Defending women's champion Martina Navratilova was to open on Court No. 1 against Diane Balestrat of Australia.

Ivan Lendl, the world's No. 1 men's player, continued his bid for a first Wimbledon crown against Henri Leconte of France in the opening match on Centre Court. They were to be followed by Steffi Graf against Gabriela Sabatini, the game's two leading teen-agers, in a repeat of the French Open semifinal last month, which Graf won in three sets.

Then Mats Wilander of Sweden, the No. 3 seed, was to go against No. 11 Pat Cash of Australia.

The match-ups were being completed on Court No. 2 where Stefan Edberg was to play Anders Jarryd in an all-Swedish match and Chris Evert took on Claudia Kohde-Kilsch.

Lendl, who struggled in earlier rounds on a surface he says never makes him feel entirely comfortable, won in straight sets for the first time, beating Johan Kriek of the United States, 6-3, 7-6, 6-2.

Leconte also won in straight sets over Andres Gomez of Ecuador, as did Cash over another Frenchman, Guy Forget, and Zivojinovic over Australia's Peter Doohan, the second-round conqueror of two-time defending champion Boris Becker.

Doohan's Wimbledon dream ended abruptly as he was wiped out 6-2, 6-4, 7-6.

'Waste of time, money and effort...'

NCAA commission's ideas shot down

DALLAS (AP) - It was a showdown in Dallas, and the clear loser was the once-powerful NCAA Presidents Commission.

Not only did the commission fail in its stated purpose to cut the costs of intercollegiate athletics at its special convention, it left town without some of its prestige. There also was a sense that the NCAA's athletic directors were becoming impatient with the commission's "ivory tower" approach to sports.

"The way it turned out, it was evidently very poorly orchestrated and definitely a waste of time, money and effort," Texas A&M Athletic Director and head football Coach Jackie Sherrill said. "There ought to have been more out of it after you spend six months writing tons of legislative proposals."

The commission called a special convention for two purposes.

One was to launch its national forum on the role of athletics in American colleges. That happened Monday and was an apparent success with ideas exchanged ranging from status quo to total abolition of revenue sports.

The next purpose was to push through cost-cutting legislation at Tuesday's business meetings. That was a total failure. In fact, the convention passed one piece of legislation over the commission's objections to restore basketball scholarships that were cut last January.

"I think what the members are saying is we want change, but let's make sure it's the right change," said incoming NCAA executive director Dick Schultz. "You always win some and lose some."

Maryland Chancellor John Slaughter, chairman of the commission, admitted disappointment that some of the legislation failed. "We didn't do a good job" of preparation, he admitted. "I agree with that."

Rev. L. Edward Glynn, president of St. Peter's College and a commission member, said: "I don't think it was a smashing defeat. The reason we called for the national forum was because we knew there was significant disagreement about the proper direction of intercollegiate athletics."

The commission failed on its two primary pieces of cost-cutting legislation: one that would have cut scholarships in almost every sport except football and basketball, and another to trim football coaching staffs.

Another proposal, to restore basketball scholarships to 15 from 13, was passed after it was twice ruled out of order by the chair. The Presidents Commission tried to keep the proposal off the floor since it said it was not in line with the purpose of the convention, to cut costs.

"We all share a concern for cost-cutting," North Carolina State athletic director and basketball Coach Jim Valvano said. "But I don't think it's our desire to limit opportunity for the student-athlete."

The NCAA did pass one major piece of legislation, but it was heavily amended to avoid the opposition of the U.S. Olympic Committee and other amateur athletics groups. The convention voted 284-23 to limit practice and playing seasons to 26 weeks, but attached an amendment that it would only affect team sports.

Tour de France begins

BERLIN (AP) - The Tour de France began today without a defending champion or a clear favorite.

Last year, Greg LeMond became the first American to win cycling's most prestigious event. But LeMond was forced to withdraw this year because of gunshot wounds he suffered in a hunting accident last April in California.

The best hope for the United States is Andy Hampsten, who finished a surprising fourth in last year's Tour and was picked the event's best rookie.

In addition to LeMond's absence, five-time winner Bernard Hinault of France has retired, leaving this year's race wide open for a field of 207 riders.

Hampsten comes to the race after successfully defending his title in the Tour of Switzerland in early June.

"LeMond gave a champion to American cycling. I want to show now that we have a strong team, that there are other good American riders," Hampsten said. "I learned a lot last year by watching Hinault," Hamsten explained. "I also learned by how LeMond had to work to defend his (leader's) yellow jersey.

"But mostly, I learned about my own body, how much I can take. There were times before last year's Tour when I thought I wasn't made for cycling."

Hampsten trained in Colorado this spring for Tour de France's grueling mountain stages through the rugged Alps and the Pyrenees, where the race often is decided.

"I think I have a team which can help me win. It's an experienced team that gives me security," Hampsten said.

Hampsten rides for the 7-Eleven team, one of the 23 nine-man teams entered in the race. The top riders rely on their teammates to fend off challenges by other riders and to shadow competitors trying to break away.

Television for the Olympic Games was first used in London in 1948.

Boxer shot

HOUSTON (AP) - A gunshot wound may have ended the career of the U.S. Boxing Association's newly crowned cruiserweight champion, his manager and agent say.

Sherman Bernard Griffin, 24, was shot four times by a clerk at the Regency Inn motel early Saturday after he allegedly beat open the door of a couple's room and tried to commit a robbery, said Harris County Sheriff's Sgt. J.J. Freeze.

Griffin, who had won the USBA crown just four days prior to the incident, was in fair condition today at Ben Taub Hospital, a hospital spokeswoman said.

He was under police guard after being charged with two counts of aggravated robbery and one count of burglary. He was denied bail.

Doctors told Griffin's family they would not remove a bullet lodged near his spine because the operation could result in paralysis.

Both Henry Harris, Griffin's trainer, and Brian Holt, Griffin's agent, said the wound may mean the end of Griffin's boxing career.

Harris said the fighter told him he had been trying to stop an argument between the couple when the shooting occurred.

"The manager (motel clerk) just came up and started shooting," he said. "Evidently he thought Sherman had jumped on the people or something."

Freeze declined to identify the couple or the clerk.

July 4th is finalized here

can be made there. The winner will be determined by the amount of donations. All proceeds from the contest will go toward the purchase of fireworks for this year's celebration.

On July 4th, the board will be placed in the National Guard Armory.

All contestants will participate in the parade either on a float or in a car provided by the sponsor.

The cutoff for donations will be 5 p.m. on Saturday.

The queen will be crowned at 8 o'clock that night on the stage platform in the cottonwood area of the park just north of the armory.

As of Tuesday afternoon, queen candidates had generated some $205 in funds. Additional monies for the fireworks show have been raised by the Gay 20s.

The Music Contest has been cancelled but rock and roll bands will play Friday from 6 p.m. to dark and country and western bands will perform all day Saturday.

The Gay 20s rather than the Women's Committee will be selling balloons for the chamber and the Jaycees will again sponsor their Fishing Rodeo for children 12 and under.

Contestants are to register at the pond area from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. Saturday and will fish from 9 a.m. to noon. Prizes will be awarded to the person catching the most fish, the largest fish and the smallest fish.

At least 44 spaces have been rented for the arts and crafts booths. Thirty-two artists have signed up including 24 returning artists and eight new ones.

Crafts displays will feature country wood items for walls, tables, benches and bread boxes. Other items will consist of paintings, bandanna scarves, belts, collars, ceramics, china paintings and more.

The Snyder Palette Club will again host the July 4th art show in the Towle Park barn. Photography will be included this year for the first time. Entry fees will be $3 for adults and $1.50 for students per entry.

Individuals are limited to five entries. Categories include still-life, landscapes, portrait, contemporary and photography. Divisions are professional adult, amateur adult and student.

Entries will be taken on Thursday from 1-7 p.m. at the Towle Park Barn. The show will be open to the public on Friday from 6 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Entries are to be picked up at 7 p.m. All entries are to be mounted and wired for hanging.

The 4th of July celebration will also feature a mixed doubles racquetball tournament. The directors will pair up doubles by drawing names.

The entry fee is $10 per person and the entry deadline is Thursday at noon.

Play begins at 6 p.m. Friday and will continue Saturday from 8 a.m. to about noon at the Western Texas College racquetball court. First, second, and third place trophies will be awarded.

The Snyder Jaycees will host an outdoor invitational volleyball tournament on Saturday beginning at 8 a.m. at the Tiger practice field.

The tournament will be a 20 team double elimination style tournament. The first 20 teams to enter will be the ones to play.

Entry fee is $40 per team. This is a co-ed tournament only and first, second and third place prizes will be awarded.

A tennis tournament is planned for Thursday through Saturday from 2 until 4 p.m. Those interested may enter three events and mixed doubles. Fourteen and 16 singles will begin play at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday and 10, 12, and 18 singles will begin play at 11 a.m. that day.

All matches will be played at the junior high courts.

Other activities slated for July 4th include a West Texas Tae Kwon Do Demonstration set for 7 p.m. Saturday by the pond area in Towle Park and patriotic musical entertainment which begins at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the pond area in Towle Park. Jane Womack will perform with the singing Cowboys before the fireworks display.

The Noah Project will sponsor mule rides for children at $1 per ride in the fireworks area all day Saturday prior to the fireworks display that night.

Twenty food and activity booths will be set up during the celebration.

Position analyzed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Albert Gore Jr. entered the Democratic presidential campaign as the bright new kid on the block, the youngest man in the 1988 race for the White House. But how well he does may depend on something he can't control — whether he is still the only Southerner in the race when the first votes are cast.

Now the 39-year-old senator from Tennessee resolutely insists he is not a southern candidate, that he is a national candidate from the South. But time and the primary calendar combine to insist that he do well in the southern primaries on March 8, 1988, or watch his campaign come to an end.

Complicating Gore's calculations is that two more Southerners who would be president are waiting in the wings. Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia and Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton are trying to decide whether or not they can win next year.

The problem for Gore is that either man can slice away a chunk of the South on Super Tuesday 1988, leaving Gore with a part of a part of a victory — which is to say no victory at all.

Clinton and Nunn are mulling their decisions and may have something to say later this summer about their plans.

If either man or both enter the race, the 1988 primary season will take on a different pace.

At the moment, most of the Democrats are scrambling for an edge in Iowa — with its kick-off caucuses Feb. 8.

The theory — based in part on Gary Hart's 1984 campaign — is that, with no front-runner, a good showing there will give a candidate the momentum to race out ahead of the pack and do well in the New Hampshire primary eight days later.

teacher, a coach-math teacher and a science teacher.

—Continue to carry pleasure boats on the district's tax roll. Such vehicles have been taxed since 1980, it was noted.

—Renew the delinquent tax collection contract now being handled by the law firm of Gates Steen of Austin.

however, the federal lawsuit was filed "pro se" — meaning that it was filed by King in his own behalf without the services of an attorney.

Possible injury in cycle wreck

A 15-year-old Snyder girl was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for treatment of possible injuries following a car-motorcycle accident in Towle Park Tuesday evening.

According to reports, Stacy Richardson of 3002 Ave. X sustained possible injuries to her leg in the mishap.

She was riding on a 1980 Yamaha motorcycle driven by Richard Charles Clayton of Big Spring. It was in collision with a 1981 Buick driven by Jo Ann Tovar of 413 30th St.

The accident occurred at 9:48 p.m. in the 2800 Block of Towle Park Road.

Window broken, tires said slashed

Police are investigating two criminal mischief complaints filed Tuesday.

J.T. Guynes of B&J Welding on 25th St. filed the first report at 8:04 a.m.

He reported someone had apparently broken a back window out of the cab of a Case backhoe while the machine was parked on his company yard between noon and 2 p.m. Saturday.

Bennie Jones of 3008 ½ Ave. U filed the second report at 9:45 p.m.

She reported all four tires on her 1978 Cadillac had apparently been cut sometime earlier in the evening while the vehicle was parked at her residence.

Budget studies continue today

Wednesday from 4:30 until 7 p.m. to look at both the junior high and high school budgets.

Their efforts are an attempt to further pare down operational estimates already cut and presented to them by administrators. Last year's school budget totaled some $12.6 million.

Items prompting "consensus decisions" by the board, with the qualification that any decisions could still be changed prior to final approval of the entire budget, included:

Athletic Budget

—High school boy's basketball games will likely continue to be played at the coliseum. Trustees had questioned the expense, estimated Tuesday at some $1,900, but were told that athletic officials believe added gate receipts from the coliseum's better seating make up for this.

—The AD was directed to reduce his football equipment portion of the budget from near $20,000 to $15,000 and to justify any expenses over this figure.

—Travel expenses for district football coaches, when provided by the district, are to be limited in the future with more emphasis placed on coaching clinics rather than attendance at state tournaments.

—Charter buses for three out-of-town football games next season will be retained. Administrators showed that for the football team, since players and equipment can be loaded in one bus, a charter is equal in expense to the cost of running two regular yellow school buses.

Instructional Support

—A decision to reduce the number of computers to be purchased at the elementary levels next year from 16 to eight. The plan calls for four computers to be added at West and Stanfield Elementary, thereby bringing the total number at all six elementaries "even."

—Plans for an "alternate school" for repeat discipline offenders at the high school will again be placed on hold next school year. The proposal was to hire a paraprofessional staffer to supervise this and to set aside an area at the SHS ag building. With the decision, Superintendent Bob Hawes noted that the district is currently out of compliance with state mandates to establish such an alternate school.

—Plans to conduct an in-house survey of secondary school staffers was endorsed, but to be completed as much as possible by local staff rather than the $6,500 outside study initially proposed. The purpose of the study would be to establish district educational goals at the upper levels similar to those in place in the lower grades.

—Some $5,500 will be set aside by the district for the training of school personnel to be used as part of a "core team" of volunteers for a drug and alcohol abuse self-help program proposed in the city.

Maintenance

—Building repairs districtwide next year will be up, now estimated at $145,431.

—The largest repair item planned next year will be a new roof for West Elementary, estimated at $80,000. It was noted the roof currently leaks at the library, in four to five classrooms and in one campus office.

Transportation

—The budget included requests for three new vehicles, one of which was turned down by the board. The purchase denied would have added one 15-passenger van, bringing the total of such vehicles to three. Its cost was estimated at $19,000. The board approved the purchase of one 65-passenger yellow school bus and a replacement for the ¾ ton pickup used by the ag department. It was noted the current pickup has more than 120,000 miles on it.

Court ruling pleases lawyer

AUSTIN (AP) — Clarence Lee Brandley's lawyer said he is pleased with an appeals court's decision granting a hearing on new evidence in the murder case that sent the former high school janitor to death row.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals on Tuesday told a Montgomery County district court to conduct a full hearing regarding allegations and evidence brought out this year.

The action followed an appeal filed by Brandley, who contends he is innocent and that new evidence will prove it.

"I think it's great. We couldn't have asked for a better ruling," said Houston attorney Mike DeGeurin, who represents Brandley.

Attorney General Jim Mattox, whose office has been investigating the case, also applauded the court's action.

"The court's decision is a proper and appropriate one. Now, this entire case can be aired in court, which is certainly the proper forum for its airing," Mattox said.

"I would hope both the prosecution in Montgomery County and Mr. Brandley's defense attorneys call each and every witness about which questions have been raised and have these persons testify under oath before the court," Mattox said.

Brandley, who is black, was janitor at Conroe High Schoool, north of Houston. He was sentenced to death June 14, 1981, by an all-white jury for the Aug. 23, 1980, rape-slaying of Cheryl Dee Fergeson.

Miss Fergeson, 16, of Bellville, who was white, was manager of a volleyball team that was visiting the school. She was found strangled about two hours after she was reported missing.

Brandley, who was convicted on circumstantial evidence, was scheduled to die March 26. But his execution was halted after his lawyers filed a request for a hearing on additional evidence.

Included in the new evidence, DeGeurin said, are additional statements from two other school janitors about "what really happened on the day of the tragedy ... Those statements are in stark contrast to what was testified to at the time of the trial."

According to DeGeurin, "depending on which janitor you talk to, Clarence Brandley is absolutely innocent of the charges."

He said corroborating witnesses can show that "there is an entire story that was never presented to the jury" that convicted Brandley.

"There were some white janitors messing around with that girl, teasing her, and actually pulled her into a bathroom screaming for help when Brandley was not even around," he said.

DeGeurin said he didn't expect the hearing to be held before late August or September.

Pylant named to Who's Who

Eddie Pylant, a 1987 graduate of Snyder High School, has received notification that he has been named to "Who's Who Among American High School Students" for the second consecutive year.

Pylant is the son of Rex and Judy Pylant of Fluvanna and the grandson of Faye Moore of Snyder and Dee and Viola Pylant of Fluvanna.

Pylant was active in the symphonic band, stage band, was named to All-Region and All-Area bands, the National Honor Society, science team and calculator team during his high school career.

In his junior year, he received the Texas Electric Science Award and attended the Science Symposium in Austin. He was also in the top 10 of his class.

In the fall, Pylant will attend Texas A&M University, where he will major in chemistry. He was awarded the J. W. Van Dyke Academic Scholarship from Texas A&M and a second scholarship from the Snyder Aggie Club.
