Injection kills death row inmate

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Charles Rumbaugh, convicted of a murder he committed during a robbery at age 17, was put to death today in an execution a human rights group said violated international agreements.

"About all I can say is goodbye," Rumbaugh, 28, told his personal witnesses in the death chamber. Then he said to the other two dozen people who watched the lethal injection: "For the rest of you, even though you don't forgive me for my transgressions, I forgive you for yours against me.

"That's all I wish to say. I'm ready to begin my journey."

His breathing became labored as the drugs took effect, he gasped and coughed twice. Two physicians pronounced him dead at 12:27 a.m., the first person in more than two decades to be put to death for a crime committed while under the age of 18.

Rumbaugh left instructions that his body be cremated and the remains be placed in a tiny coffin he constructed himself of mat-

Unexpected news prompts discussion...

District seeks 4-year-old class waiver

Snyder school trustees opted to seek a state waiver Tuesday from implementing a state-mandated pre-kindergarten program here this fall — despite information that such a program might be possible if an unexpectedly small first grade enrollment at North Elementary was combined from three to two classes.

If this occurred, and as of Tuesday night no decision had been made, the district would gain one extra classroom and one extra teacher at North.

But Tuesday's decision regarding pre-kindergarten was shaded by other unknowns related to implementing here a half-day instructional session for a select group of 4-year-olds.

Due to an enrollment drop at North, the board was told that one of three first grade classes initially planned for could be reduced to two.

This information then produced a lengthy discussion related to the previously planned for waiver request to Texas Education Agency officials. The request is to hold off for at least one semester initiating the pre-kindergarten program locally.

Such requests must be submitted each semester and theoretically Snyder could ask for a similar decision next spring also — postponing the implementation until next fall and a new budget year.

With the possible development of one extra classroom and one extra teacher, however, the reason cited in this request — the unavailability of classroom space — would be eliminated.

But after a lengthy discussion, the board opted to continue with the wavier action for the moment to allow further study of the situation.

Trustees pointed to no budget monies allocated this year for the pre-kindergarten program and the unknown factor of eventual enrollment in it.

As part of House Bill 72 mandates, the pre-kindergarten program is to be implemented by all Texas districts beginning this year. However, waivers have been pointed to as possibilities by TEA officials since some districts will likely have to implement construction projects to add needed classroom space.

The pre-kindergarten plan will involve specific groups of 4-year-old children attending classes for half-a-day. As now mandated by the state, only children identified as "limited English proficient" or who qualify for the school's free lunch program would be admitted for pre-kindergarten classes.

In an attempt to determine how many students might eventually take advantage of regular school pre-kindergarten classes here, school administrators pointed to

Q. — Does Snyder schools have a policy of hiring only beginning teachers in order to save money?

A. — School officials say there is no such policy or practice. Of 26 new teachers hired this school year, only nine were first-year teachers.

In Brief

Car bomb

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A car bomb exploded at a roadblock in southern Lebanon today, killing the driver and injuring two militiamen from the Israeli-backed South Lebanon Army, military sources said.

The Toyota car blew up at a checkpoint near the village of Hasbaya, at the edge of Israel's buffer zone about 10 miles north of the Israel-Lebanon border, said the sources. They spoke on condition they not be identified.

It was not known whether the driver was on a suicide mission, and the sources had no additional information.

It was the seventh car bomb attack in the past two months.

Needs surgery

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Imprisoned black leader Nelson Mandela has an enlarged prostate gland, with cysts on his liver and right kidney, and doctors say he needs surgery, Mandela's daughter, Zenani, said today after visiting him at Cape Town's Pollsmoor Prison.

Mandela, 67, the black nationalist leader of the outlawed African National Congress, has been in jail for 20 years. He was visited by doctors last week.

Try thwarted

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Gunmen tried to kidnap the Portuguese ambassador at a checkpoint between the Christian and Moslem sectors of Beirut today, but soldiers from a mostly Shiite Moslem army brigade opened fire and scattered the abductors, an embassy spokesman said.

Bids for widening of C-City Highway opened in Austin

Bids were accepted in Austin Tuesday to widen the Colorado City Hwy. (State Hwy. 208) as it links Snyder to the Scurry County line.

The apparent low bidder was J.H. Strain of Tye with a construction estimate just over $3 million. The exact figure is $3,015,000.

This makes State Hwy. 208 the most expensive of four projects undertaken in Scurry County this summer — a time period which has seen some $6.4 million spent here in state or federal funds for highway renovation or construction.

Tuesday's estimate was considerably lower than initial cost projections for the work, predicted last March at an estimated $4.3 million.

The Colorado City Hwy. work will entail adding shoulders to both sides, creating a 40 ft. wide roadway.

In all, 13 miles will be widened stretching from the traffic circle in East Snyder to the Mitchell County line.

The renovation will include work to five bridges and one large culvert, highway officials note.

Since contracts aren't expected to be awarded for another month, work likely won't begin until early October.

With cooler weather approaching — which precludes the laying of asphalt — it is expected that completion of the project will stretch past the winter.

The widening of State Hwy. 208 will cap four total projects involving highway work here this summer.

The one nearest completion was begun in January and involves a similar widening by adding shoulders to U.S. Hwy. 180 (the Lamesa Hwy.) west of the city.

It was bid at a projected cost of $1.4 million.

In July, two more projects were bid out. The first was for the construction of Houston Parkway — linking the deadend at 48th St. and Houston to the Big Spring Hwy. plus from 30th to 32nd Sts. It bid for in excess of $639,000.

One day later, bids were received to widen and "beef up" a six mile stretch of Farm to Market Rd. 1611 from U.S. Hwy. 84 (the Lubbock Hwy.) to 37th St. as it runs west from the city.

This work brought a price tag of $1.4 million.

Highway officials have noted that during 1984 less than $1 million was spent in Scurry County for highway or road repairs.

With more than $6.4 million already pledged for 1985, the "difference" has been credited to the availability of funds thanks to both a five-cent federal highway tax and a five cent state highway tax related to the sale of gasoline.

Boiler bid okayed following 4-2 split

Bids were approved Tuesday by school trustees to have a new boiler system installed at West Elementary and to buy 28 "starter system" microcomputers plus related equipment for elementary schools here.

The boiler bids produced the most discussion by trustees with the final decision regarding which type of system to buy producing a split 4-2 vote.

Administrators had bid two options, a replacement for the existing Kewanee-brand boiler, and a second plan involving an Ajax-brand steam boiler system comprised of two separate vessels which work independently of the other.

Approved by the 4-2 vote was the Ajax system. Voting for it were Trustees Mike Jordan, Allen Grimmett, Charlene Light and G.A. Parks Jr. Opposing votes were cast by J.D. Hinton and J.M. Kayser.

In making the motion to approve, Jordan pointed to the shorter delivery period involved with the Ajax system — estimated at two to three weeks.

It was noted that the Kewanee boiler would likely take a minimum of 10 weeks for delivery — a time frame that would put installation into the latter part of November.

Grimmett commented also he liked the aspect of having two vessels — creating a "backup" situation if one should go out.

Hinton had commented he had contacted an engineer regarding a recommendation and that he had been told that the Kewanee brand was still considered the best boiler sold.

Once the decision was made regarding which system to buy, trustees voted unanimously to purchase the "best" bid offered by Bailey Boiler Works of Lubbock at $30,394. A lower bid of $25,350 had been received, but school administrators said a reference check had indicated dissatisfaction with an earlier job performed by the firm.

Brine hauling truck wrecks at Caprock

Thirty-three year-old Jamie Boren of 3002 41st St. was at Cogdell Memorial Hospital at noon Wednesday for treatment of injuries sustained in a one-vehicle truck wreck about 3 miles north of Fluvanna.

Boren apparently lost control of the 18-wheel water tanker rig he was driving down the caprock on Farm Road 1269.

The rig — owned by Brine Transports Inc. of Snyder — crashed through a guard rail and came to rest about 50 feet below road level.

Boren was found walking about ¼ of a mile from the wreck scene about 10:30 a.m. by Railroad Commission engineer Martin Gonzales of Lubbock.

He was taken from Fluvanna to the local hospital by units of Aid Ambulance-Snyder suffering from multiple cuts and brusies and a possible broken arm.

The actual time of the accident is unknown but Brine Transports personnel at the scene estimated he likely passed through the Fluvanna area sometime between 9:30 and 10 a.m.

SHS senior named merit semifinalist

Snyder High School senior Lesa Barkowsky has been named as a semifinalist in the 31st annual National Merit Scholarship program.

Lesa is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ed Barkowsky.

She is among some 15,000 high school seniors announced nationwide Wednesday. Semifinalists have completed the first step in the competition for about 5,800 merit scholarships worth nearly $21 million to be awarded next spring.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation publicly recognizes the select group to honor their academic talents and to broaden their higher education opportunities.

More than 1 million juniors attending some 19,000 U.S. secondary schools entered the competition by taking a qualifying test, the PSAT-NMSQT, in October of 1984.

The top scorers in each state, or less than half of 1 percent of each state's senior class, are included in the nationwide group of semifinalists.

To advance, a semifinalist must qualify as a finalist by documenting high academic performance, being recommended by the high school principal, con-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "With 24 hours in a day, it's a shame you have to designate a happy hour."

Kids don't change much, they still like and dislike the same things.

A little friend of ours, Traci Eicke, started to kindergarten over at East Elementary. She called the other evening to give ole-what's-her name a report on her first week of classes.

Bettie asked, "What do you like best about school?"

Traci was quick to reply, "Going outside."

The first week or so is also hard on the staff. Out at Western Texas College, schedule changes make it tough for those in the guidance and counseling office.

Martha Gist, secretary in the counseling office, was bushed after the first couple of weeks. She took off early to attend a funeral in Lamesa Friday and then went on to Big Spring to attend the Snyder football game.

Martha remembered that a couple of years ago that Eddie Peterson's parents, who live in Lamesa, had asked several over after the Snyder-Lamesa football for cake, pie and coffee.

About midway in the fourth quarter, Martha asked, "Did the Petersons invite us for coffee this year?"

"They live in Lamesa."

"Oh, where are we?" deadpanned Martha.

Martha is the same gal who has promised to donate her body to science fiction.

The child's father had to be a hunter when a teacher over at West Elementary asked a student to name the four seasons.

"Dove, quail, deer and elk," the youngster replied.

Government confuses pornography with art

WASHINGTON (AP) — If some conservative Texas congressmen have their way, the federal arts agency would be required to refuse financial aid to any artists whose works "would be patently offensive to the average person and lack serious literary or artistic merit."

The thorny issue of pornography — how it is defined and who decides what it is — surfaced Tuesday at a House hearing on a proposed four-year extension of the National Endowment for the Arts, with spending authority of $185 million next year.

Rep. Richard Armey, R-Texas, said he is worried the endowment is subsidizing "obscene and pornographic poetry" at a time when Congress is looking for ways to reduce government spending and lower huge budget deficits.

"Even if they (the endowment) cleaned up their act, I still wouldn't want them to exist," said Armey.

He complained that the arts were enjoyed by an elitist minority of Americans, and that federal grants to theater, dance, opera and other art forms meant transferring tax money "from the less fortunate to the more fortunate."

Armey was backed by Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Texas, who said "the taxpayers would be absolutely outraged if they could see what is being funded." DeLay supported a proposed amendment aimed at denying endowment funds to artists producing "patently offensive" materials.

"As they say back in Texas, if you hit a mule up the side his head with a 2-by-4, he'll recognize pornography in a hurry," DeLay told the House Education and Labor select education subcommittee.

In late July, Armey and DeLay ambushed the arts endowment's proposed $175 million appropriations bill on the House floor by claiming that "taxpayers are being forced to subsidize pornographic poems."

Astronomers watch comet

FORT DAVIS, Texas (AP) — Two University of Texas astronomers were gearing up for simultaneous observations early today as a U.S. spacecraft attempts to become the first man-made object to fly through the glowing head of a comet.

"The weather is the thing we can't predict," UT astronomer Ed Barker said from the dome of the McDonald Observatory's 107-inch telescope in the Fort Davis Mountains of far West Texas.

"We wouldn't be able to see the spacecraft, of course, in any case. But our observations of the comet, taken with others from around the world, will provide a time-lapse scenario of the comet's behavior during the encounter."

The comet, named Giacobini-Zinner, was first seen in 1900 and rediscovered 13 years later. Too dim now to be seen with the unaided eye, Giacobini-Zinner recently rounded the sun and is headed away from Earth as Halley's comet continues its approach to the sun.

UT astronomer Anita Cockran is assisting Barker in the observations. Both are members of the International Halley Watch that also will study Halley's comet on its closest approach to Earth next spring.

Barker and Ms. Cockran will use the telescope to study the production rate of gases in the smaller comet's mile-wide nucleus and how they are swept into the tail that is expected to be about 435,000 miles long.

The unshielded robot spacecraft was launched in 1978 to sample particles from the sun, and recruited in 1983 for the comet encounter.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful today not to waste funds earmarked for essentials on frivolous things. You can have a good time without robbing Peter to pay Paul.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Guard against tendencies today to make what should be easy into something difficult. Don't be thwarted by obstacles of your own making.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Usually your hunches are pretty good, but this may not be the case today. Should you have to make a choice between logic and intuition, choose the former.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today, a well-meaning friend might try to let you in on a deal that he has greatly misjudged. To find out the true value, it's best to get a second opinion.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're not apt to make wise decisions today if you feel pressured. Don't let anyone put your back to the wall.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Use tested procedures and familiar tools when performing tasks today. Experimenting with labor-saving methods could end up creating more work.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will be defeating your purpose today if you are too possessive of one you love. The harder you grasp, the harder he or she will try to pull away.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make it a point to be supportive of your mate in front of other family members or relatives today. Later you can privately reconcile your differences.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Unless you have something complimentary to say about others today, it's best you say nothing at all. Caustic remarks will invite retaliation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Financial dealings will be your most sensitive area today. If you waste your resources, you're going to end up with a pain in your pocketbook.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Sometimes you can bluff our way through sticky situations, but these tactics won't work today. You'd better have the aces if you intend to call the pot.

Experimental transplant is working

VICTORIA, Texas (AP) — A leukemia patient who was reunited with a long-lost brother and sister in a futile search for a life-saving bone marrow transplant says an experimental procedure using his own marrow is apparently working.

But Steven Akin said the 42 days he spent in a germ-free isolation room at the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston left him hooked on television soap operas.

"It wasn't pleasant being confined," Akin told the Victoria Advocate in a recent interview. "You had to get used to watching TV."

Akin said his immune system is producing white blood cells he needs to fight infection and disease.

However, while in isolation at the hospital, Akin said he contracted a fungus infection. He received transfusions of white blood cells from his sister, Winna Miller of Clear Lake, and John Davis, of Schiller Park, Ill.

College trustees approve Sutton

BILL SUTTON

W. C. (Bill) Sutton brought 35 years of electronic engineering expertise to the Western Texas College electronics program when he joined the WTC faculty this fall.

Sutton's hiring was formally approved Monday during the regular meeting of the college board of trustees.

Sutton added emphasis on preparing WTC's electronics graduates becoming certified technicians. Such certificates are granted by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), the International Society of Certified Electronics Technicians (ISCET), or the Electronics Technicians Association International (ETA). Certification helps insure job placement, Sutton pointed out.

Sutton served in the U. S. Air Force from 1948-51 after graduation from high school in Sapulpa, Okla. In the Air Force he completed courses in radio mechanics, radio repair and technical instructor. He was employed by Southern Railway Co. in Chattanooga, Tenn., from 1955-63, working with installation and maintenance of radio and electronics systems. He was avionics shop foreman for Young Aviation at Lambert Field in St. Louis, Mo., for five years, where he installed, repaired and modified aircraft electronics equipment.

Sutton joined the faculty at Belleville Area College in Belleville, Ill., in August, 1970, and remained there for 10 years, serving as an instructor and coordinator for their avionics electronics program. He left the college to join B.P.M. Ltd. in Houston for three years. He currently resides in Sweetwater where he was associated with Industrial Manufacturing Co.

A licensed pilot, Sutton holds commercial and amateur radio operator's licenses. He holds certificates of proficiency for manufacturer's courses in Motorola, Bendix, Narco, King Radio, Collins, RCA and others.

Sutton is an active Scottish Rite Mason and Shriner and a Rotarian. He serves on the executive board of the Chisholm Trial Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Duarte's daughter gets kidnapped

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Six heavily armed kidnappers seized the eldest daughter of President Jose Napoleon Duarte as she arrived for classes at a private university, wounding a bodyguard and killing her driver.

The kidnappers, dressed in civilian clothes, opened fire on the bodyguards of Ines Guadelupe Duarte Duran, 35, dragged her from her car and forced her into a van Tuesday, a presidential adviser said. She was unharmed when last seen.

A somber Julio Adolfo Rey Prendes, Duarte's closest adviser and secretary of culture and communications, told reporters Tuesday night that there had been no contact with the kidnappers.

No one claimed responsibility, but a presidential security captain at the scene said "certainly it was the guerrillas" who have been fighting the U.S.-backed government for the past six years.

The evening broadcast of the leftist guerrillas' Radio Venceremos, five hours after the incident, made no mention of it.

Mrs. Duarte Duran, a divorced mother of three, was taking courses in advertising and public relations at the New San Salvador University on the west edge of the city. The director of her father's successful 1984 presidential campaign, she also directs San Salvador's Radio Liberty.

Rey Prendes, sometimes blinking back tears, said President Duarte, who had been working at home for the past few days due to illness, was "very shaken but very firm." He refused to speculate on negotiations that might lead to the release of the oldest of Duarte's six children.

Guerrillas have held 13 small-town mayors in eastern El Salvador since spring, demanding an accounting for rebels they say were picked up by the government.

If the guerrillas were responsible for the kidnapping, it would be their most spectacular urban action since rebel gunmen killed 13 people, including four off-duty U.S. Marines, at two outdoor restaurants in San Salvador on June 19.

Rey Prendes said Duarte, of the moderate Christian Democratic Party, has for now cancelled his overseas appointments, including a scheduled visit to Boston University to receive an honorary degree Sept. 20 and an appearance at the United Nations.

Roberto d'Aubuisson, head of the ultra-conservative Republican Nationalist Alliance and Duarte's bitterest political enemy, said in a radio interview Tuesday night that he "lamented" the act and that "all Salvadorans must condemn this type of action."

Registration due for all Girl Scout levels

Snyder Girl Scouts are gearing up for the year with registration due to begin Wednesday. New here this year is the Daisy Girl Scout program designed for the kindergarten level. "We are looking forward to enrolling many girls and their parents in this expanded program," said area leaders, Peggy Vernon, Debbie Magness and Brenda Clem.

Other scouting levels remain the same with Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior levels available. "There are many exciting opportunities planned for this scouting year and we hope that all previous scouts and many new scouts will enjoy this year's program," the leaders added.

Registration sessions are scheduled for each school. Registration fee stands at $3 per girl. Interested adults may also obtain information and register during these periods. Registration on each campus will take place from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Dates for each school are Stanfield, Sept. 13; West, Sept. 16; Northeast, Sept. 17; North, Sept. 18; Central, Sept. 23; and East, Sept. 24.

Junior high and senior high school girls will register from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Girl Scout Hut at 2300 35th.

Persons wishing additional information may contact Vernon at 573-9000, Magness at 573-2988 or Clem at 573-7408.

The case of the unbid suit

By James Jacoby

What does it mean when you bid two clubs after your partner has overcalled the opponent's opening bid with one spade? If we polled 100 experts, there would be different answers, because some partnerships play that such a bid is constructive, suggesting that the hand may belong to their side. I don't play that way, nor do I suggest that you do so. Holding the East cards, I would have bid two clubs. Later in the bidding I might support spades, but at least I would feel that I had set the stage for my partner making an effective opening lead.

In the Cavendish Pairs, the bidding was as shown. East raised his partner's spade overcall, South bid three diamonds, his second suit, and North got a little carried away — he jumped to five diamonds. South can hardly be blamed for feeling North should have the diamond ace and the club king for such vigorous bidding, and so he bid six. He got an unexpected dividend when poor West made the normal lead of the spade king. Trumps were drawn and declarer played the A-K of hearts and ruffed a heart. When the queen fell, South scored an overtrick, shedding all dummy's clubs on the good hearts. Can you imagine South ever bidding six diamonds if East had stuck in a two-club bid earlier?

Home chemicals worse than airborne ones

CHICAGO (AP) — Toxic chemicals found in every home, from paint to common cleaning solvents, are three times more likely to cause cancer than airborne pollutants — even in neighborhoods close to chemical plants, a federal study concludes.

"It was difficult to accept for a while," said Lance Wallace, an Environmental Protection Agency scientist who evaluated data from the five-year study. "But a number of similar studies ... concluded the same thing."

Wallace's report was prepared for delivery to the American Chemical Society's 190th national meeting today.

He acknowledged Tuesday that toxic chemicals found in the home could be responsible for no more "than several hundred deaths each year."

And even then, he added in an interview, scientists would be hard-pressed to determine the role any given substance played in a cancer-related death, and could not say for sure that toxic chemicals in the home directly caused a single death.

But Wallace said the level of toxic chemicals ingested indoors, either through breathing, eating, drinking water or skin absorption, "make the home more of a toxic waste dump than any chemical plants nearby."

The report cited paints, cleansers, plastics, cosmetics and building materials as probable sources of toxic chemicals in the home.

Some sources were as familiar as cigarette smoke (benzene) but others, like taking a shower, came as a surprise, said Wallace, who is on leave from the EPA as a visiting scientist at the Harvard University School of Public Health.

Showering is suspected as the primary cause of elevated levels of chloroform in nearly every home, he said, because of the chlorine in water.

The study generally found toxic chemical levels indoors at three times the outdoor rate, he said, and for some toxic chemicals indoor values were up to 70 times higher than outdoor values.

The EPA study was undertaken to develop methods to measure human exposure to 11 toxic chemicals contained in air, food and water. Wallace said the 11 chemicals were targeted because of their toxicity and the ability of the monitors to register their exposure levels.

He said the agency was dissatisfied with fixed monitors of air quality because they did not reflect a person's total exposure to toxic chemicals. He said an air-quality monitor was developed that could be worn, and that subjects kept them on for 12-hour periods as they went about a normal day's routine.

Additionally, food and drinking water intake was monitored, Wallace added.

The main study group of 350 people — 275 of those tested had at least one smoker in the household — was drawn from the heavy chemical manufacturing areas of Bayonne and Elizabeth, N.J.

That sample was contrasted with people from the light industrial area of Greensboro, N.C., and rural Devil's Lake, N.D., where the air is routinely swept clean by strong Canadian winds, Wallace said.

The study concluded that people living close to chemical, paint, plastics and petroleum processing plants "showed no greater exposures ... than persons living far away," he said.

Be prudent in using sweeteners

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR.GOTT — I find I am buying more and more products containing Nutrasweet. Could you please comment on this artificial sweetner?

DEAR READER — As far as I know, Nutrasweet is not harmful. It has been approved by the FDA, which will, I understand, shortly be allowing cyclamate-containing products back on the shelves. As with any chemical additive, however, I urge moderation in its use.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Six months ag I was hurt at work and suffered what the doctor calls a lower-back sprain. I still have some pain around both hips and the end of the backbone. Also, my stool is hard and I only go about every three or four days. Will this injury ever get better? I was never one to sit on my behind when it came to doing my share of the work on the family farm.

DEAR READER — Your discomfort will improve with time, but it may take several more months. Unfortunately, even with modern farming methods, there is still a lot of standing in your line of work. Tractor driving and related activities may be difficult for now, but I am sure you will soon be back o normal. Your constipation, which is a common problem following injuires, is probably related to inactivity and minor dietary changes. Use a stool softener if needed for a short perioid of time.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a friend who is a 32-year-old woman. She is (conservatively) 30 pounds overweight, smokes one-and-a-half packs of cigarettes a day and gets almost no exercise whatsoever. Please tell me if I'm right or wrong to be concerned about the possibility of her having a heart attack or stroke. Obviously she doesn't care about her appearance anymore, but I'm sure she wouldn't want to end up in a wheelchair for the rest of her life.

DEAR READER — Your concerns are well founded. A sedentary lifestyle, coupled with obesity and cigarette smoking, gives your friend a higher-than-average statistical risk of eventual disease. If she has high blood pressure, too, she is a prime candidate for future difficulties. Although concerns expressed by friends in the form of gentle pressure to alter her behavior may give her the excuse she needs, she will not reform until she is self-motivated to do so. Unhappily, neither you nor anyone else can make her lose weight, exercise and stop smoking.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Cameras not covered by open meetings act

AUSTIN (AP) — Television cameras are not covered by the Texas Open Meetings Act and can be tossed out of public meetings, according to Attorney General Jim Mattox.

In a legal opinion made public Tuesday, Mattox upheld the right of Titus County commissioners to bar TV cameras from their meetings. The 1973 Open Meetings Act covers "sonic" recordings, but does not guarantee video cameras access to public meetings, the attorney general said.

The law says: "All or any part of the proceedings in any public meeting of any governmental body ... may be recorded by any person in attendance by means of a tape recorder or any other means of sonic reproduction."

Mattox said this provision of the law does not give members of the public a right to videotape meetings.

"In the absence of a specific provision permitting a member of the public to record its meetings by videotape, the commissioners court may prevent the videotaping of its meetings held pursuant to the Open Meetings Act," he said.

The Texas Association of Broadcasters said the Mattox ruling could affect television coverage of public meetings throughout the state. The TAB and the Society of Professional Journalists said the ruling highlights the need for the 1987 Legislature to revise the Open Meetings Act.

The Titus County camera battle began earlier this year when the commissioners in the Northeast Texas county voted 4-0 to bar television coverage.

The only camera that had been covering the commissioners was owned by FVP Network, a Mt. Pleasant station that leases time on the local cable channel.

County Judge Bill Harper, in an effort to give constituents a look at their commissioners in action, had invited the small television station to record the meetings.

"I thought they were doing a service for the community," Harper said Tuesday. "We meet at a time of day when a lot of people cannot be in the courtroom. This was an opportunity to see how the commission functions. I can't see anything wrong with that."

But the commissioners did, and they approved the rule that barred cameras as of April 8.

Commissioner Loyd Clark, who pushed for the ban, did not answer calls to either his office or home Tuesday. Asked about Mattox's opinion, Clark told told the Mt. Pleasant Daily Tribune, "It says the same thing that it said before."

The commissioners court proceedings were broadcast in their entirety after the local news on the local station.

"When things got sticky or issues got hot it was videotaped. Things were being shown that the commissioners didn't like," said Gale Johnson, FVP's office manager.

Austin...

Two die in cave-in

AUSTIN (AP) — Federal officials say they are investigating a cave-in that killed two construction workers at the bottom of a 30-foot pit.

The workers, Benjamin Eatmon and Juan Rodriguez, were buried in the accident shortly after 9 a.m. Tuesday, authorities said. It was the second accident in five days at the East Austin site.

Eatmon, Rodriguez and Francisco Chabez were working at the bottom of the pit to install an 8-inch city sewer line when the accident occurred.

An investigation into the accident Tuesday and a nonfatal one Friday at the site was being conducted by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, said Bill Hinkle, safety supervisor for the OSHA office in Austin.

Eddie Willis, an inspector for the Austin Water and Wastewater Department, said the workers, employed by Sabine Consolidated Inc. of Beaumont, were working inside a steel-walled "trench box" at the bottom of the pit.

William Hawkins, site foreman, said dirt began falling from the east wall of the pit during the work. Then the south wall of the pit caved in, Hawkins said, and dirt poured over the top of the trench box.

Chabez, 37, said he saw the dirt coming and escaped moments before the collapse. Eatmon, 40, and Rodriguez, 32, were trapped inside the trench box and buried.

As other workers called for help, Hawkins tried to use a backhoe to dig out the men. A dozen rescue workers from Emergency Medical Services and the Austin Fire Department arrived and tried to get oxygen to the workers.

Rodriguez's body was pulled from the hole about 10 minutes after the accident. Eatmon's body was freed about 20 minutes later.

Norm Carmack of the Travis County medical examiner's office said the two were asphyxiated by the rubble.

The deaths of Eatmon and Rodriguez were the seventh and eighth construction-related deaths in Austin since July 11.

Dear Abby

Woman Uses Casual Sex As Means to Gain 'Experience'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I made a big mistake of going to bed with a man on our first date. We dated for a year and a half, but he never really respected me because I was so "easy" (his words). The fact that I had a master's degree, was attractive and made good money made no difference whatsoever—he treated me like trash.

Fortunately, he wasn't the kind of person I would have wanted a permanent relationship with anyway, so I wrote it off as a good learning experience.

Women should use men the way men have been using women for years—for their own fun and pleasure. They should go to bed only with men they know they could never be interested in, and when they meet a man who really counts, they should hold back the sex in the beginning and play hard to get. That way, they'll have all the fun and experience without getting emotionally involved while they're waiting for the right man to come along.

MASTER OF THE GAME

DEAR MASTER: Using men for "fun and experience" is no more moral than men using women. The game you propose is fraught with danger. Jumping into bed for fun and experience can be hazardous to your health and disastrous for the reputation. Grow up and slow up, sister.

DEAR ABBY: Immediately after the death of my father, my sister parked "Sara," her 30-year-old, unmarried, unemployed, lazy daughter, in my mother's home to keep her company and cheer her up. After four months, Sara, who is supposed to be on a special weight-loss diet, has done nothing but sit around, watch television and gain weight. She's even rejected offers of employment.

Mom feels trapped in her own home. It is obvious that Sara is doing nothing for her morale. In fact, I know my mother wishes that Sara would go home already, but she doesn't want to offend Sara's mother.

What should I do?

NO RIGHT ANSWERS

DEAR NO RIGHT: Wrong! There is a right answer. If you "know" that your mom feels trapped and wishes Sara would go home already, encourage her to tell Sara that she appreciated her visit, but the crisis is over and she can go home now.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something to those people who make unannounced visits to see their friends. Several times a week, I change or cancel my own plans because these visits last anywhere from one to four hours.

My plans may have been to take a nap because I had not slept well the night before, or perhaps to enjoy a long soak in a hot tub. Such things may seem unimportant to some folks, but they are cherished luxuries that I resent giving up.

Whatever happened to the old practice of calling first? I would certainly never drop in on a friend and assume I would be welcome.

Please print this, Abby. A friendship is being threatened.

TIRED OF COMPANY

DEAR TIRED: I'll print it, but I doubt if it will help you. Why? Because "those people" who visit you unannounced are welcomed with open arms while you hide your resentment.

Try this next time you have your day planned and company surprises you. Surprise them with: "I'm sorry you didn't call to let me know you were coming; I have plans for the day and it's too late to change them now. Please telephone ahead next time because I'd like to spend some time with you."

Inhospitable? No, just lesson No. 1 in the art of enlightened selfishness. Be good to yourself. It's later than you think.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Snyder's Lady Tigers fall; ready for district play now

PLAINS -- Snyder's Lady Tigers' 11-game winning streak came to a halt here Tuesday night.

The Tigers fell to Plains, 17-15 and 15-8.

"We were never ready to play. We just never got into our game plan at all. We got upset about the officiating and we let it effect us too much," said Coach Vicki Nelms, who called the officiating "inconsistant."

Snyder had began the season with a 2-2 mark, then reeled off 11 straight wins - including championships in the San Angelo and Breckenridge tournaments. But the string ended Tuesday.

"We didn't play like we had been playing. It's a good time for an off game. If we were going to have one, then this was the best possible time, before Saturday."

Snyder opens the District 2-4A season Saturday, hosting Fort Stockton at 3 p.m. in the high school gym.

"We're ready for district and the girls could have been looking a little towards Saturday. That's possible," said the coach.

Nelms did see at least one bright area, despite the loss.

"I thought Donna Clay played well. She came in and played front row and made some super saves. She's been playing well of late and really helping the team out."

She said the Tigers, 13-3 now, are gearing up for Saturday.

"We've got three workouts before Saturday and we'll make the most of them. We're looking forward to district play."

Cats defeat Plains in 3

PLAINS -- Snyder junior varsity defeated Plains here Tuesday, 15-6, 8-15 and 15-3.

The Cats, now 10-3, return home to host Fort Stockton at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Snyder High School Gym.

"We played well the first game, took a vacation the second game and played well again the third game," said Coach Patty Grimmett. "We were glad for the win. You're happy anytime you win."

Women's Club Championship winds up today

The Snyder Country Club Women's Club Championship held its final round today, with 19 ladies competing.

The final round of play - expected to end in the early afternoon - was to be followed by an awards luncheon.

The tournament is sponsored by Edith McKanna, a life member of the Ladies Golf Association.

Playing in the Championship Flight were Anita Talbott, Carolyn Greene, Delores Key, Jo Sterling and Juanita Hester.

First Flight contestants were Lu Wolf, Kaye Cypert, Dena Ellis, Norma Thompson, Martha Fagin, Suzy Reed and Joycelyn Holder.

Competing in the Second Flight were Margie Briggs, Colleen Duke, Doris Gard, Evelyn Thomas, Gertrude League, Mary Blackmon and Chris Jordan.

The 1984 club champion was Chere Thomas. She has moved from the city.

Slam three homers...

Yankees claim 11th straight

by The Associated Press

The New York Yankees have won 11 consecutive games. No Yankee team has won so many in a row since the 1964 Yankees reeled off 11 straight. And the comparisons with the old Bronx Bombers don't end there.

The Yankees hit three more home runs Tuesday night in outlasting the Milwaukee Brewers 13-10. During the 11-game streak New York has produced 22 homers and now has hit 153 in 137 games.

The victory kept the Yankees 1½ games behind first-place Toronto in the American League East. The two teams meet in a four-game series starting Thursday night at Yankee Stadium.

"This is what it's all about," said winning pitcher Ed Whitson, 10-7. "You're going to run into games like this.

"But everybody in this lineup is capable of coming up and hitting the ball out of the ballpark. Any body. Any pitch."

Whitson knows his offense. The Yankees have four players with 20 or more homers - Don Mattingly (28), Dave Winfield (24), Don Baylor (21), and Rickey Henderson (20). Third baseman Mike Pagliarulo has hit 18.

Not since 1962 has a Yankee team had five players with 20 or more homers. The World Champion '62 Yanks had Bill Skowron (23), Tom Tresh (20), Roger Maris (33), Mickey Mantle (30) and Elston Howard (21).

Elsewhere in the AL Tuesday night, Toronto nipped Detroit 2-1; Baltimore and Boston split, the Orioles took the first game 7-5 before the Red Sox bounced back to take the nightcap 5-3; Chicago beat Minnesota 7-2; Kansas City blanked California 6-0; Cleveland downed Seattle 8-5; and Oakland drubbed Texas 10-3.

Blue Jays 2, Tigers 1

In Toronto, Damaso Garcia singled in the seventh inning to snap a 1-1 tie and Doyle Alexander outpitched Jack Morris as the Blue Jays sent Detroit to its sixth straight defeat.

With one out in the seventh inning, Jesse Barfield singled and stole second. One out later Garcia singled to left to score Barfield. Alexander, 15-8, checked the Tigers on seven hits and twice pitched his way out of bases-loaded jams. He struck out eight and walked four.

Royals 6, Angels 0

At Anaheim, Frank White and Lonnie Smith hit two-run homers to back the three-hit pitching of Charlie Leibrandt as Kansas City blanked California to increase their lead over the Angels in the American League West to 1½ games.

The victory was Kansas City's ninth in its last 10 games and the Royals are now 32-15 since July 21, when they trailed the Angels by 7½ games.

The Angels won 7-1 Monday night and the two teams square off in the rubber game tonight, with the Royals' Danny Jackson facing Ron Romanick.

Mets back in top seat

by The Associated Press

Whitey Herzog isn't in awe of Howard Johnson, but would have to concede that the New York Mets' third baseman does know how to end a dispute. And pick his pitches.

"It was a fastball right down the pipe. That's the only pitch he can hit. He can't hit a changeup or a breaking ball," the St. Louis manager said of the ball Johnson hit for a grand-slam homer Tuesday night.

That grand slam beat Herzog's Cardinals 5-4, gave them their fourth straight loss and removed them from first place in the National League East as the Mets assumed sole control for at least one night.

Johnson was the first batter after a bench-and-bullpen-clearing incident that stemmed from George Foster's being hit by a pitch from Cardinals starter Danny Cox. His ninth homer turned a 1-1 tie in the first inning into a 5-1 lead that Ron Darling and Roger McDowell barely held.

Mets Manager Dave Johnson said the altercation and Johnson's homer helped motivate his players. "You hate to see things like that interfere with the outcome of a ballgame," he said. "But any time a pitcher hits one of your players and the next guy hits a home run, it charges you up."

Padres 3, Reds 2

Ty Cobb's record was built to last, and it survived another night. Pete Rose went 0-for-4 in front of a sellout crowd of 51,045 and still has only 4,191 hits.

Hollingsworth gets hole-in-one

Linda Hollingsworth scored a hole-in-one on No. 6 at Western Texas College Golf Course recently.

She used a 7-iron on the 115-yard shot and was playing with John Hollingsworth and Bob Doolittle.

House committee finishes '85 farm bill; fight ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — A divided House Agriculture Committee patched up its differences at least temporarily, completing and sending to the full House a massive farm bill to replace the law that expires in less than three weeks.

The committee approved its version of the new 1985 farm bill on a voice vote after tacking on a provision allowing wheat and corn farmers to vote on a program giving them higher price-support levels. The provision also appeased a substantial minority on the committee opposed to efforts to ease such supports downward.

While committee members approved a package cutting $11.8 billion in spending from its earlier versions of the bill, the Reagan administration called the cuts "smoke and mirrors" and vowed to seek further changes when the bill comes before the full House, possibly as early as next week.

The Senate Agriculture Committee, meanwhile, picked through farm credit provisions in its version of the bill but remained at least several days away from completing work.

With fewer than a dozen legislative days remaining before current farm law expires Sept. 30 and a strong possibility looming for a bruising conference fight between the two bodies, it appeared unlikely that new legislation could be completed in time.

The wide-ranging bill includes everything from farm price supports and subsidies, to authorization for the food stamp program, foreign food aid and agricultural research.

The heart of the House bill — programs to support farm income and commodity prices and to provide farmers with credit — carried a pricetag of $42.8 billion over the next three years, according to the Congressional Budget Office. That was after the committee made savings required under a congressional budget resolution by deferring some farm payments to later years and trimming back several programs.

Food stamps and other programs are not included in the $42.8 billion, and the final pricetag had not been computed by committee staff. But the $42.8 billion is more than half the expected final figure.

Despite the $11.8 billion cost-cutting, the Reagan administration signaled its discontent because it contended some House provisions move away from the more "market-oriented" policy it seeks.

The bill contains some provisions that would begin to ease downward price-support levels for major commodities that are blamed for pricing the United States out of world markets. To make up for the cuts, farmers are offered increased direct income-protection payments.

But other provisions go against the administration's professed free-market principles. For example, the measure contains a dairy section that would pay farmers not to produce milk and would tie price support levels to farmers' costs of production.

Austin man pleads guilty

AUSTIN (AP) — A 38-year-old Austin man has been sentenced to 15 years in prison after pleading guilty to hiring a person to kill the new husband of his former wife.

The plea bargain between Larry Folkner and the Travis County district attorney was approved by State District Judge Bob Perkins. Folkner pleaded guilty Tuesday.

Folkner was charged with criminal solicitation in March after a Louisiana man told police Folkner offered him a car, cash and a gun to kill the husband of Folkner's ex-wife, Margaret.

The two were divorced in November 1984, and the woman married Tommy Latimer of Seguin.

"Folkner did not want Tommy Latimer raising his 5½-year-old daughter," said Bryan Case, assistant Travis County district attorney. "Folkner was also jealous and wanted his wife back. It was certainly an ill-conceived plot, but we felt he was very serious."

Case said that after the divorce, Folkner met Michael Bancroft, 22, at a coin laundry, and the two became friends. Folkner asked Bancroft if he knew anyone who would "take care" of Latimer, Case said.

Bancroft told Folkner he would do it for money and a car, Case said. Folkner gave Bancroft a $400 car, $200 cash and a gun in February. Bancroft told Folkner he would kill Latimer and go to his home at West Monroe, La., Case said.

Bancroft did go to Louisiana, but without making an attempt on Latimer's life, Case said. Bancroft was arrested in Louisiana several days later on an armed robbery charge and told police that Folkner had hired him to kill Latimer.

Louisiana authorites contacted Travis County law officers and arranged for Bancroft to telephone Folkner to talk about the deal. Officers recorded the call.

Rumbaugh executed today

chsticks, lined with velvet and a red bandana, said D.J. Stubben, who wrote a book about the convict.

Attorney General Jim Mattox, asked whether such crimes by juveniles should merit the death penalty, noted that the case went before two juries and "each determined he should be punished by death."

Amnesty International argued that Rumbaugh's death violated international agreements — never confirmed by the U.S. Senate — that bar execution of people convicted of crimes committed when they were under 18.

Across the country, 32 juvenile criminals are on death row, according to Victor L. Streib, a professor of the Cleveland Marshall College of Law at Cleveland State University.

Texas had the last such execution May 7, 1964, when James Andrew Echols was executed for rape committed when he was 17.

Amnesty International members telephoned Gov. Mark White's office to try to halt the execution, according to White's legal counsel, Leslie Benitez.

In his last interview with reporters a week ago, Rumbaugh said the rights group's protest is "not going to have any effect. Look where it's at now. I have no more appeals. You've got to accept this some time."

About a dozen death penalty opponents carried candles outside the prison during the execution.

Rumbaugh rejected any lavish final meal, choosing instead a flour tortilla and glass of water.

"He believes the purpose of food is to sustain life, so why should they give him food to sustain his life when they're going to kill him in a couple of hours," said Mrs. Stubben, who visited with Rumbaugh for about two hours Tuesday. "It seems kind of hypocritical to him."

Rumbaugh turned down all last-minute pleas from attorneys, Mrs. Stubben said. "I think he'd be upset if he got a stay."

Rumbaugh spent his last hour lying on a bunk, listening to the radio and typing a letter to Mrs. Stubben's year-old daughter. The letter will be opened in 13 years, she said.

Mrs. Stubben was a friend of Michael Fiorillo, the Amarillo jeweler slain by Rumbaugh during a 1975 holdup.

"He was destined to end up where he is tonight," she said. "If he hadn't killed Mr. Fiorillo, he would have ended up killing someone else."

Besides Mrs. Stubben, three sisters and a brother-in-law visited Rumbaugh. His mother came to the prison but decided to not see her son. The family declined to talk to reporters.

Rumbaugh's troubles with the law started at age 6 with a break-in. He committed his first armed robbery at 12 and spent most of his life in reform schools, mental institutions and jails.

While awaiting trial, Rumbaugh attempted suicide twice, slashing his wrist with a razor blade and taking an overdose of drugs. He also tried to hasten his execution during a February 1983 competency hearing by pulling a makeshift knife and attacking a U.S. marshal, who shot and wounded him.

He became the 48th person to be executed since the U.S. Supreme Court allowed states to restore the death penalty in 1976.

Bids approved by ISD board

Five businesses bid the work, all from either Lubbock or Amarillo.

Regarding the computer bid, the Computer Case of Snyder was awarded the contract with a bid of $34,525. Six firms bid the purchase, four of these involving Apple computer products, the brand handled by the Computer Case.

Although the local bid was approximately $100 higher than an Abilene firm's, trustees voted unanimously to "stay at home." The savings in shipping freight plus followup service after the sale were pointed to as reasons.

The computer purchase in large part will be funded through federal funds. The district-match will equal some $6,900.

In other school business Tuesday, trustees approved a request from Denise Hinton, fifth grader teacher at West, to take six hours of college credit work during the fall semester.

3 arrests Tuesday

Snyder police logged three misdemeanor arrests Tuesday.

Two subjects were jailed for driving while intoxicated and the third for public intoxication.

1 wreck Tuesday

A single minor traffic accident was reported in Snyder Tuesday.

Involved in the 11:48 a.m. mishap in the 200 Block of the East Highway were a 1981 Cadillac driven by John Frances Tate of Dallas and a 1979 Pontiac driven by Gerald Thomas Dubose of Rt. 2, Snyder.

Waivers sought for TEA rulings

summer pre-kindergarten conducted locally the past several summers.

The criteria regarding English usage has been used for these classes. This past summer, 54 students were enrolled in this program, and it was speculated Tuesday that 55 was a "possible" number for the regular school sessions.

The state-mandated pre-kindergarten plan, however, does not require school districts to provide transportation to and from school for such children — another factor pointed to which might reduce enrollment. During the past summer program, the district did provide transportation.

Because of such factors, administrators noted Tuesday they are uncertain when projecting how many students might enroll in the pre-kindergarten program if offered.

Dr. Tom Scannicchio pointed out a "cursory" survey conducted last spring which indicated 55 students might attend. He added, however, these numbers could possibly rise to 70 or 80 students.

In addition, the program comes under the new TEA rule that class sizes cannot exceed 22 students. Following this, one teacher could handle up to 44 students without a waiver request, dividing up the school day into a morning and an afternoon session.

If numbers greatly exceeded this, another teacher would have to be employed and a second classroom required. With Tuesday's discussion, the potential for only one extra classroom system-wide was identified — the facility related to the situation at North.

In a related matter, any "extra" portable classrooms might be required later this year as a solution to the overcrowded situation involving Stanfield Elementary kindergarten students.

This situation prompted a second waiver request Tuesday, an attempt to bypass the 1-22 classroom ratio at Stanfield for the fall semester. Fifty two kindergarten students are now enrolled in two classes there.

As it now stands, the district will seek waivers for both requirements and continue to monitor the enrollment situations at both the Stanfield and North campuses.

A reply from TEA regarding both requests is also expected within a few weeks.

Veteran officer charged in thefts

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police say a decorated veteran officer charged with stealing painkillers from a drug store is a suspect in at least 20 other pharmacy burglaries.

Patrol Sgt. Robert L. Daniels, who was twice nominated for officer of the year and who had been dubbed "Super Trooper" by colleagues for his hard work, was placed on unpaid leave following his arrest Tuesday.

Daniels, 33, was freed on $12,000 bond after being charged with burglary and drug possession, authorities said. He is a suspect in at least 20 other pharmacy burglaries, they said.

He was arrested at 2:30 a.m. as he allegedly walked out of a pharmacy with a bottle containing 500 painkillers stuffed into his shirt, police said.

Daniels is a 1973 honors graduate of the police academy who has received 22 commendations for his police work in 11 years, said police spokesman Doug Clarke.

Police said Daniels, a bespectacled father of three with a receding hairline, told them he had been addicted to painkillers for several years. They said his family is making arrangements for him to enter a drug treatment program.

"Police are human," said Capt. B.L. Dumas. "None of us in today's society are immune to this kind of problem or addiction."

Daniels became the target of a top-priority police investigation after he aroused the suspicion of other officers by turning up frequently at pharmacy burglaries.

BLACK AND GOLD DAYS PROCLAIMED — Snyder Mayor Rod Waller has officially proclaimed every Friday from now through November 15 as Black and Gold Days in the city. Local residents are being encouraged to show their loyalty to SHS's Raging Tigers by wearing the school colors on those days. Western artists show scheduled

LUBBOCK--The fourth annual National Western Artists Show and Sale will be held in Lubbock on September 20-22. It will feature the works of 37 artists from 12 states and Canada.

The Friday evening portion of the show will begin at 4:30 p.m. at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center and will include the art show and catalog, an awards banquet and a dance to follow.

Tickets for the evening are $25 each and may be purchased by writing the Ranching Heritage Association, P. O. Box 4040, Lubbock, Texas 79409 or telephone (806) 742-2498.

The art will be moved to the Ranching Heritage Center at Texas Tech University to become a part of the Ranch Day activities on Saturday, Sept. 21, from noon till 4:30 p.m. It will also be on display from 1-4:30 on Sunday, Sept. 22. There will be no admission charge for the show on Saturday and Sunday. Catalogs will be for sale for $5 each. The Ranching Heritage Association will receive a 20 percent commission from the sale of art at the show.

Scurry County K-P Cadets host Abilene 4-H Dog Club

Scurry County K-9 Kadets hosted the Abilene 4-H Dog Club Saturday, with activities taking place in Towle Park.

Everyone brought their dogs and a picnic lunch. The children worked their dogs in obedience for the first hour under the direction of Sharyon Bond, sponsor of the local dog club.

Lunch followed and the children played games.

At 1 p.m. Mrs. Bond started the next set of classes in confirmation and showmanship. Classes were over at 3 p.m.

The Abilene club will re returning once each month to have classes with the local club.

Time for color

That splash of purple fills just 1% of this page. But it dominates your eye and your attention. Color can do that. Adding one color to a black-and-white newspaper ad can also increase sales by 64%.* Give you any bright ideas?
