IG INSPECTION FOR COMPANY E-

Wellington's National Guardsmen are shown here during the annual IG or "federal" inspection Wednesday, Oct. 4. During this annual event, every phase of National Guard activities is inspected, including the equipment, facilities, and training program. Every man was questioned individually by Lt. Col. Burl Lewis, Inspector General's section, 4th Army, San Antonio. Below, Col. Lewis is shown as he questioned Lonnie Boark, who returned only a few weeks ago after completing his six-months active duty under the National Guard program.

Guard Unit Has Annual IG Inspection on October 4

Wellington's National Guard unit received its annual IG inspection Wednesday, Oct. 4, with Lt. Col. Burl C. Lewis, inspector general's section, 4th Army Headquarters, San Antonio as the inspector.

The 74 Wellington guardsmen form Company E of the 36th Division's First Battle Group, 142nd Infantry, along with two platoons in Shamrock, which were inspected on Tuesday, Capt. Willard R. Harrell of Shamrock is commander of Company E.

"Our mission is to determine as closely as possible the capability of the unit," Col. Lewis said.

He questioned each guardsman concerning his job assignment and what he would do in a given combat situation.

Following this inspection, he observed the men in their class work, which at that time was on map reading. At the close of the session, he spoke briefly to the men.

His report, however, will be made upon his return to 4th Army Headquarters, and the rating, along with recommendations, will be sent to Capt. Harrell.

The IG, or "federal" inspection is an annual examination of all units of the 36th Division by US Fourth Army officials. The units are rated according to Active Army Standards.

Unit maintenance, discipline and training, and all other phases of the Wellington Guard operations came under close scrutiny in the inspection.

Accompanying Col. Lewis on the inspection were Lt. Col. Robert K. Cline, executive officer, 142nd Infantry, Amarillo, Col. Dale V. Watkins, Battle Group Surgeon, 142nd Infantry, attached to the Amarillo unit, and Capt. Valta E. Tarbet, Jr., 142nd Infantry, of Amarillo.

Lt. Bob Lynch is the executive officer of Company E.

More Figures Presented on Buck Creek Dam

A meeting of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement Board was held Oct. 3 to further consider a dam on Buck Creek at Red Bluff, west of Wellington.

Fred Squyres, work unit conservationist, of the Soil Conservation Service, and Clyde Drake, resident highway engineer, presented figures from a recent study.

A dam as proposed, 100 feet high, would be 3,600 feet in length and it would extend westward approximately six miles to the Buck Creek bridge southwest of Quail.

It would cover some 2,500 surface acres and would impound between 80,000 and 85,000 acre feet of water.

The land at this point has a 15-foot fall per mile, it was pointed out.

The next step will be to contact Congressman Walter Rogers to determine how much engineering help can be secured from the government, Paul Spillman, legal advisor for the board, said.

John Coleman, chairman of the water board, presided at the meeting.

Attend District Kiwanis Meet

Five Wellington Kiwanians attended the annual Texas-Oklahoma District Kiwanis Convention held in San Angelo from Sunday through Tuesday, Oct. 8 to 10.

One of the group, John Coleman, was a candidate for lieutenant governor of the district.

Attending were C. T. Hubbard, president, and L. B. Bratten, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman, George Shadid, and Morris Sullivan.

25th Anniversary

Parsons Drug Holds Formal Opening

Parsons Drug, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Parsons, Jr., this week is celebrating two events — the silver anniversary of their owning the store, and the formal opening after a complete remodeling.

During the remodeling, complete new shelving units were installed along the walls, in a new and modern wood design. A number of counters were removed, enabling customers to have more direct access to the merchandise they wish to select.

The store was further departmentalized, and along the south wall, the new natural wood display shelves were combined with mirror background to better display the merchandise, which is shown in separate cosmetics and gift departments. Featured in each of these are some of the major lines of perfumes and other cosmetics, china, sterling and plate silver and crystal. Along with these are a variety of other gift lines.

A serve-yourself coffee bar was installed to replace the fountain, which was removed when the store was remodeled.

The prescription department has always been considered by the owners as the heart of the store. Partitioning was removed above counter-level and the room itself enlarged. Here again complete new fixtures were installed.

Mr. and Mrs. Parsons are

Armory Secured for Scout Exposition

The National Guard Armory has been secured for the 1961 Scout Show for the Comanche District Nov. 4. Plans for the event were described Tuesday, Oct. 10, by Hollis Alford, Adobe Walls Council representative.

This is a booth type show in which the boys will be giving live demonstrations of their scout skills.

Tickets will be available from any Boy Scout, Cub Scout or Explorer. Selling tickets for a show of this kind is the only thing that Boy Scouts are allowed to sell in uniform, Alford explained.

The tickets are for individuals and the boys are asked not to sell blocks of tickets to business firms.

The show will start at 2 p.m. and continue until 7 p.m.

The Exposition committee consisting of Sandy Parsons, Jr., chairman, Fred Squyres, arrangements and Billy Thogmartin, tickets, was appointed by Elmont Brannigan of Memphis, district camping and activities chairman.

"The public is urged to come and see the show. Let the boys know that you appreciate their efforts," Alford said.

Bank Resources Above 6 Million, a New High

Collingsworth county's bank assets reached a new high in the county's financial history for this season of the year, calls made Sept. 27 have revealed.

Combined resources totaled $6,444,683.90 for the three banks, First State Bank, Dodson, City State and Wellington State Banks in Wellington.

This is around $340,000 more than the resources were a year ago, an all-time high up to that time. It is around three-quarters of a million dollars higher than the figure five years ago.

Total resource figures have been higher than this at several times in recent years, but never at this time of year.

Deposits follow closely the asset figures.

Total deposits for the three banks are $5,879,227.56, about one hundred thousand dollars higher than a year ago. It is more than $800,000 higher than five years ago.

Of the total deposits $5,082,345.61 has been in demand deposits, while the remaining $790,000 is in time deposits, deposits of various governmental and political subdivisions, other banks, etc.

The deposit figures, howev-

750 Still to Go

2,800 Head of Steers to California Lots

Wellington Livestock Sales last week shipped 2,800 feeder yearlings to the Coachilla Valley Feed Yards at Thermal, Calif., and approximately 750 cattle remain to be shipped to the same company, Rusty Henard reported.

The shipment was made by rail with 98 cars required for those already shipped. Seventy-eight cars went out in 3 days.

Most of these are local calves, and were taken on option during the summer.

Otto Hanson, contract buyer for the feed yards, and Singer & Brummett of Amarillo handled the transaction and were here to oversee the shipment.

The usual procedure on steers bought in this area and sent to California feed lots is to put them on feed for 120 to 140 days, starting on sugar beets and citrus pulp. Grain is added later and the calves will be finished on a concentrated grain ration.

These steers would grade medium and good now and will be fed to choice. Feed lots seldom take them on to prime grade on the west coast.

This sale will be approximately 500 head above a similar shipment a year ago by Wellington Livestock Auction. and it is the largest shipment made from here in recent years.

Rockets-Lynx Open District Play Friday

Wellington Skyrockets open conference play against Spearman Lynx Friday, Oct. 13 at Spearman.

This game will be played at 7:30 p.m., as will all other conference games, Coach Frank Lindsey announced.

In general strength, Coach Lindsey compares Spearman to Clarendon. "In fact, they're a whole lot like Clarendon," he remarked.

To date the Lynx have won two games, including one from Canadian last week. They run the double wing T formation and also bring the wings in occasionally and run straight T.

Last week they resorted to passing quite a lot and could well repeat this against Wellington.

Injuries continue to dog the Rockets. The team lost both guards in play Friday night, with Herman Childress receiving an injury on the kickoff play. Then in the third quarter, Delmer Duckworth got a bruise underneath his ribs when he was on the bottom of a pile-up. Skippy Duncan and Ronny Ketchum played these two positions for the remainder of the game.

Gary Holliman is still nursing a sprained ankle, but Lindsey was optimistic that he may be able to play this week.

A two-county boll weevil school will be held Friday, Oct. 13, at Hedley, in conjunction with the Hedley Cotton Festival, County Agent Bob Lynch announced.

The school will be from 10:30 a.m. until noon in the Lions Club building.

Connie Garner, entomologist with the agricultural extension service at College Station will conduct the school, discussing control practices and techniques.

The school is under the direction of Lynch and Flip Breedlove, Donley County agent.

The public is invited and Lynch said that anyone needing a ride to Hedley should contact him.

No Juvenile DWI Case Tried

Judge Raymond Horton has informed The Leader that no DWI cases involving juveniles have been filed or tried in his court as was published in the Oct. 5 issue of this paper.

Charges of drunkenness were filed against two Mexican youths. Both pled guilty and were fined $20.70. The arrests were made by Patrolman Wayne Cook a mile east of town. Patrolman Cook gave the 18 year old youth a DWI ticket—number 7471. These were turned over to Sheriff John Rainey. After talking with the officers Sheriff Rainey filled out both complaints as being drunk and these were the ones on which the youths were tried.

Congratulations, Wellington Business and Professional Women

Congratulations are due from all of us to Wellington's Business and Professional Women's Club in the latest honor they have received — the Carol Lane Safety Award offered by the Shell Oil Company in co-operation with the National Safety Council.

There are many ways to look at this award.

That the money received, $1,000, will be well spent goes without saying. The women will announce later what they will do with it.

To Wellington, it means that much work has been done in the field of safety, principally traffic safety. It means our town is a safer town to live in and it means that we are—or should be—safety counscious.

A finger has been put on safe driving right at the point where it should be put—in school when students reach an age to begin driving the family car. As a result, and with the cooperation of school officials, we have driver education. This, many believe is the key to better driving habits among adults a few years from now.

The winning of this award is excellent publicity for Wellington—of the right sort. And it is nation-wide. Money cannot buy the publicity and good will created by an event such as this.

And so we say, "Congratulations, Business and Professional Women of Wellington, and Thank You, Shell Oil Company and the National Safety Council."

Fire Prevention Week Oct. 8-14

National Fire Prevention Week starts today, and continues through Oct. 14.

This week, needless to say, is highly important to each of us. The occasion will feature inspection of schools, churches and mercantile buildings; it will feature rides on fire trucks for youngsters, programs before various clubs and civic groups. All of these specific phases are important and merit our full co-operation.

Corrections resulting from the inspections are the key to this particular phase, and should be carefully followed through by building owners and tenants.

While Hereford boasts one of the most modern and thorough small town fire departments in the Southwest, the department members would be the first to stress the importance of fire prevention as a goal toward saving lives and property loss.

One week of effort cannot, of course, prevent fires during the other 51 weeks of the year but, during this week, it is possible that we can point out needed corrections, learn more about ways to prevent unnecessary fires, and instill an interest in continued effort toward fire prevention.

Down through the years, fire has ever been civilization's greatest enemy. Fire loss will probably never be completely stamped out, but when all of the towns and communities take as much interest and secure so much cooperation as does Hereford, a tremendous stride will have been taken in that direction.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

Now that Congress has made the Peace Corps a permanent project, it looks like the President's idea man, Ted Sorensen, ought to have the job of running it.

On account of it is reported Mr. Sorensen showed a great love of Peace, even as a lad of 20, by conscientiously objecting to being made a soldier.

My battle-scared neighbor says he didn't know about consciences back when he was drafted, but now that he is enlightened, he wants to be classified as a conscientious objector to paying taxes.

I note that a big push is on for everybody to take up learning how to read maybe 1,000 or 2,000 words a minute.

My double-taking neighbor says at this rate you could be plumb through a book before it dawned on you that it wasn't worth reading.

Says, anyhow, if he got to be a fast reader, he would then likely be as big a pushover for fast writers as he is now for fast talkers who sell him bum ideas and bum merchandise before he has time to think.

I see where in the great Centers of Civilization like New York, Philadelphia, etc., if the police try to arrest a criminal, they are apt to get mobbed by onlookers and have to be rescued with fire hoses.

My thrifty neighbor says these communities ought to be able to furnish their anti-cop citizens with some type of recreation which wouldn't be so wasteful of water.

Says of course these people are entitled to some kind of entertainment between trips after their welfare checks, but having policemen play water polo with them seems extravagant when sawed-off shotguns would cool off their playful insticts much faster.

Another big national magazine has got the New Look, which looks like the work of abstract printers in need of AA help.

My stunned neighbor says he may come to like this periodical again if he ever gets his eyeballs trained to retrieve such messages as may be lurking somewhere in the typographical confusion.

But he is not hopeful, as he notes the magazine is benching its old Conservative editor and running in a team of frantic-groove youngsters belonging to the Anything Different Is Better Society.

I see where Secretary of Commerce Hodges says us citizens are now hamstringing the economy by hanging on to our dollars.

My low-living neighbor says the all-wise sure have a hard time keeping us on the paths of righteousness; one minute we are squandering our money on new cars and TV sets, and the next minute we are tightwads.

Says juvenile delinquency is not the No. 1 national problem any more, and the top worry now is the menace of uncontrolled thrift, which nobody can blame on Congress for setting a bad example.

I see where just before Congress took a break, Senator McClellan put up a bill to outlaw crooked dice, marked cards, and other people-cheaters.

It gives a man a protected feeling to know that government aims to save him from perils like fixed crap games, conceited aspirin advertisers, non-union conspiracies to raise prices, etc.

And when our keepers whip all the dangers of loaded dice and slow aspirin, maybe they will shrow up a little guard against short-weight experts.

DANGEROUS

A Memphis, Tenn., woman was charged with reckless driving when she rammed her car into a parked car containing her husband. "I ran into the car on purpose," she told police. "I own it and I can run into it if I want to."

Bachelor was the term applied to a man in the first or probationary period of knighthood.

Youth Rural Civil Defense Program Set

AUSTIN.—The Division of Defense and Disaster Relief of the Governor's office has announced a new state-wide youth program designed to draw boys and girls into active participation in rural civil defense.

In cooperation with the Extension Service of A&M College, rural civil defense information kits are being made available to every county agent in the state. The kits will be used to make benefits of the program available to all state rural youth organizations.

The program, which will give organizations and individuals the opportunity to earn Youth Achievement Certificates, was developed nationally by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, with the assistance of national and state leaders and staff officials of 4-H Clubs, Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, and other groups.

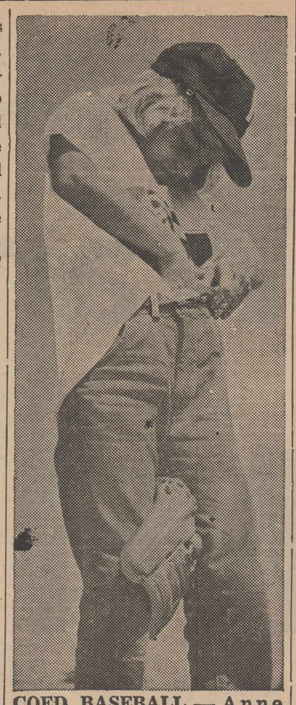

"The purpose of the program is to help youth develop a civil defense awareness and show them how they may take part in their community and county efforts," explained Jas. H. Garner, state civil defense coordinator. "The program is intended primarily for rural youth, but may be used effectively by urban young people."

Each kit contains rural civil defense texts and visuals, outlines for three discussion meetings, basic reference materials and a Leader's Guide. Many activities are suggested for adoption as group or individual projects. All are related to civil defense education and awareness, farm and family protection measures, or support of the community and national efforts.

State youth organizations who want their members to qualify for certificates are asked to make arrangements with their county and local units.

W. L. Shaffer, OCDM Rural Activities Director, stated that the kits are being delivered, through state civil defense offices, to more than 3,000 counties throughout the nation. He added that major rural youth organizations with more than 3,250,000 members cooperated in the development of the new program.

Further details and information regarding the program are available from local county agents.

Decoy Method Successful for Hunting Cranes

AUSTIN.—It has been so long since anyone hunted sandhill cranes that most people are at a loss when it comes to deciding the best method for hunting them.

In a report on the experimental sandhill crane hunting season held in New Mexico in January of this year, some valuable information for potential crane hunters was included. It was the first crane hunting season permitted since the Migratory Bird Treaty between Great Britain and the United States was ratified in 1916. It was a cooperative study by the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife and the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish.

"The general opinion," reads the report, "was that tactics similar to those used on geese would work on cranes. Decoy hunting proved the most successful method, with 36 hunters in 16 parties taking 40 cranes for an average success of 1.11. The cranes decoyed readily to carefully placed decoys in front of well-concealed hunters. Decoys were painted silhouettes constructed from heavy cardboard.

Jump shooting paid off next best. This consisted of hunters locating themselves around a field in which cranes were feeding, and taking their chances on a shot as companions caused the birds to take flight.

In both cases, the 12-gauge shotgun was far the most popular weapon used, and number 4 shot the best load.

The season on Texas cranes will be Nov. 4 through Dec. 3, with a two-bird bag and possession limit.

Crackers Split Double Header With Irish

Wellington and Shamrock junior high football teams split a double-header Thursday evening, Oct. 5 in Shamrock.

Shamrock junior Irishmen won the first game 16 to 6, while the second game, played by the smaller boys on the two squads, went to the Wellington Firecrackers 12 to 0.

In the first game, the Firecrackers' sole score came in the third quarter. Wellington kicked to Shamrock, who ran four downs but couldn't advance and the Firecrackers took over. They started a series of power plays and worked the ball down to the 20 yard line, where Wesley Ward handed off to Lorenzo Aguirre, left half, who scampered the distance for the touchdown. The attempt at the extra point failed.

Shamrock made both touchdowns on power plays.

"The Firecrackers have made a decisive improvement. They have learned they can run this power stuff and it was a new team that went out on the field Thursday night. I was right proud of them," Coach Harvey Millsap declared.

Randy West made the first touchdown in the second game on a quarterback keep, after faking to fullback Neal Roberts, then halfback Joe Wood.

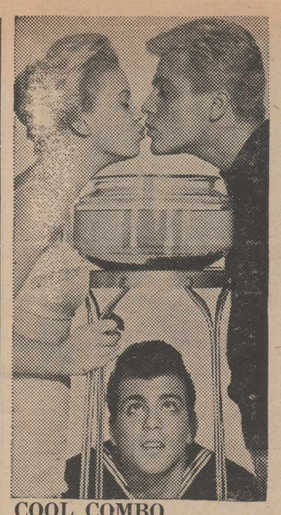

The second touchdown came after a series of power plays. On the scoring play, Stanley Bratten faked first to Doyle Stewart, then Marion Barten, and finally handed off the Donald Wolf who skirted inside right end for pay dirt.

Coach Millsap, with more than 50 youngsters to handle, has divided them in teams, substituting entire teams in the play.

One score was made by each of the second and third teams. "The fourth team didn't score, but they played up a storm," Millsap remarked.

Every boy who made the trip got to play in the Shamrock game, the coach added.

Age group having the greatest number of fatalities from accidents on farmland and around farm buildings is 5-14 years old.

May our Lord bless each of you.

The family of
Mrs. S. J. Glazner.

We take this means of thanking our many friends for their every expression of congratulations and pleasure upon Mr. Roberts' 100th birthday.

Farm Test Plots

5 Demonstrations Visited on Tour

Fifty-eight farmers and land owners attended the Field Day of the Northwest Texas Research Demonstration Program Friday, Oct. 6. Originally four stops at demonstration plots had been planned; but finding a little extra time after the stop at Marella, Bob Lynch included a stop at the alfalfa tests on the Dwane Scott farm one mile north of Wellington.

The first scheduled stop on the tour was on the farm worked be Cecil Shanks one mile south of town where seven varieties of combine maize were being grown. These were RS610, RS608, RS681, DeKalb C-45, TE66, Lindsey 744 and Northrup King 210. These consisted of plots 4 rows wide for each variety. Full details on the yield and other qualities will be issued next year when the results of all demonstrations and experiments will be published in pamphlet form.

The second stop was also on land worked by Cecil Shanks, just east of Highway 83 and demonstrated some varieties of cotton never grown here before and included some supposedly nematode resistant varieties.

The Johnson grass control plot was one the Charles Cason Jr. farm which had an infestation of from 20 to 40 per cent. This ground was deep broke last spring and showed considerable more contrast than the one on the Marvin Clubb farm that was inspected on the 1960 tour.

The most interesting experiment in the minds of many on the tour was the fertilizer demonstration plots on the N. E. Childers farm one mile north of Marella. This year new formulas were added such as 40-20-20 and 100-0-0. The first number in this enumeration is for nitrogen, the second phosphate and the third potash. Most comment from those on the tour came after a comparison of these two plots. The 40-20-20 was open from top to bottom with full grown bolls. The 100-0-0 was from half to a foot taller and it was loaded but not so thickly, and very few of the big bolls on the cotton fertilized with 100 pounds of nitrogen were open. The strip that had 40 nitrogen, 20 phosphate and 20 potash was open and ready for harvest.

Cotton growers on the tour thought the 40-20-20 and the 100-nitrogen would make about the same yields if favorable weather prevailed for the unopened cotton. The potential yield on this dry land cotton on sandy loam was estimated at a bale to a bale and a quarter per acre. By sharp contrast there were four rows of cotton that were totally unfertilized in the middle of the plot. It might make one fourth of a bale to the acre, some observers said.

The surprise element of the tour was the stop at the alfalfa test on the Dwane Scott farm. Here various varieties of aphid resistant alfalfa are being tested along with their resistance to winter kill and foliage and seed-producing proclivities. It will take another year to know the results. Right now Cody seems very good in all respects. Lahontan and Zia are also spotted aphid resistant. The spotted aphid and dry weather are the two prime factors that practically wiped out an extensive alfalfa industry in the Wellington area a few years ago. Full details on the alfalfa demonstrations will be published next year, including aphid count, foliage yield and seed yield.

Yes... You're a Gambler

You've bet your economic life on this community

And it's not penny ante . . . the stakes are big. You're betting some or all of your precious allotted time that this is where you can get the most out of life. But . . . what you take out in winnings depends greatly upon how you . . . and your neighbors . . . play the game.

. . . If you give some of your better cards to your opponents as the play goes along, your take is going to be smaller.

. . . The competition is tough . . . between areas and communities for bigger shares of Trade . . . the lifeblood of prosperity and better living. If you, or someone else on the home team gives aid and comfort to the opposition by patronizing their stores and service establishments, your share of your community's winnings must be smaller, less satisfying . . . and a poorer return on your investment of the only years you have.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Those who went on the tour of the demonstration plots last Friday had a pleasant and I would think a worthwhile morning. The fertilizer result demonstration on cotton on the N. E. Childers farm north of Marella caused the most comment. The cotton, which is the Gregg variety, was planted on May 26. The plots are six rows wide and were fertilized the entire length of the field with the exception of six rows that had no fertilizer whatever. These six rows made a startling contrast to the cotton on either side that had been fertilized.

The recommendation for the type of soil on the Childers farm had been 20-20-20, that means equal amounts of nitrogen, phosphate and potash to you town readers. The most comment came over the 100-0-0 treatment as contrasted with the 40-20-20 treatment. The one with the extra heavy nitrogen fertilizer was the tallest and the greenest but very few of the bolls were open. By contrast, the 40-20-20 was shorter, more heavily fruited in proportion to height and it was open clear to the top and was ready for harvest at the time of the tour. Both plots looked like they would make more than a bale to the acre. The unfertilized six rows will make about 1/4 or perhaps 1/3 of a bale. The 20-20-20 plot and the 40-20-0 plot also looked very good. It is going to be interesting to find out how the cotton actually turns out.

If you want to find out what barnyard manure will do for sandy land drive out to the F. O. Masten farm three miles east of town. It has a bale and a half or more on it. It has been three or four years since the manure was put on the land.

More people are doing something about fallout shelters than you might think according to Alvin Horton. H&H has several under construction at the present time. He says they plan to have an open house inspection of one of them in the near future. Cliff Campbell is building one on his ranch south of town. I asked about it and he said: "I thought we were just remodeling the basement. They don't consult me on these matters."

Last week we had a two-column story on the front page about the school budget hearing Monday night. Do you know how many people showed up besides the trustees and the school officials? Two—Louise Wells and Emil Kersten. No wonder the school people get discouraged at times and get to thinking that nobody cares whether school keeps or not. About the only time they hear any comment is when Johnnie or Susie fail in their grades or Charlie is prohibited from driving his car during school hours.

FALLOUT DETECTION EQUIPMENT

This is Wellington's only equipment for the detection of nuclear fallout, demonstrated by C. A. Crawford, high school instructor. The equipment was made available to schools by Civil Defense. The box-like instrument is a geiger counter, not much larger than a fountain pen, which can be worn clipped in a pocket. "But by the time there's enough radiation fallout for these to detect, you'd

13 Calves in State Fair Junior Show

Thirteen calves from Collingsworth county will be exhibited in the junior livestock show at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas next week.

These calves will be shipped Sunday afternoon from the Wellington Sale Barn.

Showing calves will be J. C. Saunders, Don Amerson, Gary Oldham, Stanley Oldham, Ricky Nall, Jim Henard, Ronny Hartman, Mitzi Hartman, Tommy Yarbrough, Joe Wood and Teddy Martin.

Nall is to exhibit an Angus calf, which also was the winner of the Collingsworth county Youth Project Show. The others are Hereford calves.

All calves will be entered in the commercial steer show and will be sold in the junior sale Friday morning, Oct. 20.

Most of these calves were bred in Collingsworth county.

Saunders also will exhibit three barrows in the junior livestock show.

Boys attending Samnorwood and Quail schools plan to spend the week. Others will go down at mid-week, Lynch said.

Another highlight of the show will be the Central and Western United States 4-H Tractor Driving Contest to be held at the Fair next week.

To National Insurance Meet

Mrs. Dudley McMillin was one of several thousand delegates who attended the National Association of Insurance Agents Convention in Dallas the last week of September.

One of the highlights of the meeting was an address by Brig. Gen. Nathan Twining.

Besides the business sessions a number of entertainments were on schedule for the women delegates, including a breakfast and style show one morning. Each guest attending was presented an orchid corsage and charm bracelet.

Also included in the schedule for the ladies was a day's outing and tour of Six Flags Over Texas.

Delegates attended from Alaska and Hawaii, as well as most other states.

Rocket B Loses to Speedy Irish

Wellington B Skyrockets lost to the Shamrock Irish B team by a score of 60-12 in a game played here Thursday night, Oct. 5.

Shamrock simply had too much speed for the young Rockets and was able to score almost at will.

The highlights of the game as far as Wellington is concerned was the 75-yard scoring run by right halfback, Danny Martin, and the 25-yard passing play from Mike Wolf to Mickey Carter.

"We feel that the kids played some real good ball but they were outclassed," Coach James Stavenhagan declared. "We hope that we learned something from the mistakes we made."

New Grasses Appear Here

Fred Squyres, work unit conservationist, has reported the appearance here in small quantity of several grasses not native to this area.

One of these, lead plant, was found along Buck Creek. It is especially palatable to livestock.

Another is purple top, a native of East Texas, which grows to about the height of Indian Grass. It was found at Lillie.

Also found at Lillie is Arizona cotton top, a high plains grass and one which SCS has tried unsuccessfully to establish here three times.

Another grass making an appearance was black grama, located in gravely soil along Buck Creek and Salt Fork. It grows well in New Mexico and is considered an excellent winter grass.

The three grasses were located during the current growing season.

A trip to Canadian is due for the Rocket B team Thursday, Oct. 12, to meet the Canadian B team, Coach James Stavenhagan has announced.

Game time is 7 p.m.

"We hope to be improved enough to handle them," the coach said.

Two impressive runs were by Bob Antoon for about 22 yards and Craig Bervall for around 21. The Rockets took a good footing and beat the Tigers away from the end zone in a well played, hard fought second half, limiting McLean to one touchdown the entire half.

Next week the Rockets journey to Spearman for the first of the games that count, as they open their 5-AA district play with the Spearman Lynx.

Biggest Bass Not the Best

AUSTIN. — Medium sized bass are more productive than the larger bass, according to a test run by Harmon Henderson at the San Marcos Hatchery of the Game and Fish Commission. This experiment follows the test made last year on a large female bass, given the name of Frenchie.

The medium sized bass not only are much easier to handle in the hatcheries, but they stay healthier and do not consume as much food as the larger bass, according to Joe Marks, hatchery supervisor.

In the test run last year, a female bass weighing 1 lb. 12 oz. produced an average of 31,021 bass fry in 3 spawns. Another bass weighing 3 lbs. 4 oz. produced 44,530. A third bass, weighing 3 lbs. 8 oz. produced 42,024 in four spawns, whereas a 5 lb. 4 oz. bass produced 36,430 in four spawns. The 1 lb, 12 oz. bass lost only 4 oz. total weight after spawning, whereas the 5 lb. 4 oz. bass lost 20 oz. In the spring of 1960, Frenchie produced 40,200 bass fry, whereas this year her production was 44,530, or a total of 84,730 for the two-year period.

It is expected that these experiments will be carried on for a period of several years, in an effort to get useful information on bass spawns.

Spirit Still Up

Rockets Drop Game to McLean 32-0

By Max Courtney

The Wellington Skyrockets again Friday night suffered defeat, 32-0, at the claws of the McLean Tigers.

Time after time, Tommy Herron, McLean's jackrabbit, zipped up and down the gridiron for a notable gain. Wellington drew the short straw the first half and didn't scratch in anything while McLean rolled up a 26 to 0 lead.

The second half, starting about the middle of the third quarter, someone seemed to light the Rockets' fuse. It was then McLean scored their last touchdown. The Rockets dug in and even dug out as they began to bring in some first downs and yards rushing. This was as a result of McLean's second string taking the field, as only a few saw action the entire game.

The Rockets seemed to hold on to their spirits the entire game but just didn't have the support or the reserves to really turn the tide when they did wake up. Only eight reserves dotted the sideline at the end of the game and the school's heftiest boys sat in the stands among the skimpy crowd of Wellington rooters.

Still some of the Rocket starters were out of pocket, causing the backfield to fall below peak performance again as two needed players, Gary West and Gary Holliman saw very limited action as a result of recent injuries.

Wellington's boot to McLean on the opening kickoff was taken by Clyde Windom on the 30 yard line where he bobbled the ball and let it roll past him. When he did retrieve it, he only saw stars at the end of his 2-yard carry, when Herman Childress slammed him to the ground, resulting in no more ball that game for Childress, after his receiving a leg injury and a nice long rest for Windom on the sideline.

Three first downs put the ball on Wellington's 15 and in the hands of Tommy Herron, who made his first trip to the point patch. Ken Willingham sank his toe in the ball and lifted it through the uprights for another point for the Tigers.

Wellington's neat little pitch play on the kick netted them a 30 yard run-back, only to have a penalty call for a re-kick. Their pitch play on the kick sends the ball from one man to another until it is behind a wall of hard-hitting little Rockets. Wellington hung on for three downs then Richard Mauldin punted to Herron, who traveled back only to eat grass at the merciless hands of Jackie Daves and Herb Duncan, who swiftly and ruggedly drove him head first into the ground.

The switching of the ball from one end of the field to the other, at the end of the quarter slowed the Tigers down on the march to the end zone. Where this time they let Jim Watson carry it through from the 15, but this time the Rockets charged and blocked Willingham's try for the point.

Again the Rockets received, tried three downs and sent the ball sailing down field off the toe of Mauldin. McLean snatched another first down, handing the pigskin to Herron again on the 36 where he zoomed to the angling stripes for six more points. Followed by Willingham and his toe for one more point.

Wellington again took the kickoff, toyed with the ball for three downs, decided to gamble on the fourth, which yielded an incomplete pass, giving McLean the ball. Herron moved it to the 40 where he took it again and streaked down the field for six more points. Willingham's kick being to one side of the goal post this time and no good.

The Rockets fizzled again as they tried to move the ball after they received the kick and McLean took over for a short time before the first half ended.

This half time, McLean's and Wellington's bands were opponents for top marching honors and both gave splendid performances. All 26 members of the band joined together for a spectacular half-time production.

The second half only netted the Tigers six more hard earned points as the McLean trackman Herron zipped in from the 20 and Willingham's kick again fell no good.

The Rockets took the ball and showed yards gained as they plowed through the line, took to the air and wound up
