Harrowing Experience Recalled By Two Soldiers Rescued From Narrow Ledge In Rio Grande

(By The Associated Press)

MARFA, July 29 —Two soldiers brought to safety from a ledge in treacherous Santa Helena canyon on which they were marooned five days above the roaring Rio Grande, recalled today fear-stricken moments as the rising stream narrowed their perch each hour.

"Another day and we'd have had to jump back in the river," Sergeant Clyde Ryberg of Minneapolis, said as he arrived at Fort D. A. Russell, last night, hours after the rescue.

Caught In Whirlpool

He told a stirring story of how he, Private Clarency Hansen of Santa Fe, N. M., and Private Harry Buckman of Paris, Tex., "buddies" on leave, and attempting to ride the Rio Grande through the canyon on innertubes, were caught in a whirlpool just after they entered the canyon mouth; Buckman was drowned, and he and Hansen struggled to safety.

Halsen, his feet blistered, his strength almost gone, remained last night at the top of the cliff to which he and Ryberg were hauled laboriously with ropes from a shelf 1,500 feet below. Ryberg walked ten miles over a rough trail to the small mining town of Terlinqua, and was brought here by automobile. He was wearied, but otherwise in good shape.

Were Tied Together

He told how the three entered the river seven miles above the canyon mouth Sunday about 9 a. m., inside innertubes, and tied together, chain-like with a rope, 25 feet apart.

"We floated about seven miles and I reckon it must have taken two hours," he said. "We were all having a swell time, but Buck (Buchman) wouldn't paddle with his hands enough to keep us out of the ledge currents."

Inside the mouth of the canyon a whirlpool on a ledge caught Buckman, Ryberg related.

Was A Fight To Live

"Buck, Hansen, and myself were pulled down and then it was a fight to live. All I remember was rolling, twisting, and tumbling against rocks."

Hansen and I finally came up on

Act Violation Is Charged

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—A labor board trial examiner ruled today that the Ford Motor company had violated the Wagner Labor act by "spying" and discrimination at its Buffalo, N. Y., assembly plant.

The examiner, Francis M. Shea, recommended that the company rehire 50 C. I. O. unionists and cease "interfering" with union activities.

Shea, listing eight methods of alleged violation of the law, said the company's service men had spied on union meetings and on men at work. At the same time, he added, it "disseminated propaganda" to discourage membership in the United Automobile Workers of America.

The findings were based on a 12-day hearing in Buffalo last winter on charges of unfair labor practice brought by the union.

Others Not Reemployed

Shea held that 17 men were discharged for union activity and 33 others were not reemployed after a layoff because of their union membership. He dismissed discrimination charges with respect to 12 other workers.

Among the findings of unfair practices, his report listed the participation by Ford service men in discharges, which the examiner said was an unusual procedure. The service men correspond to company

Underground Water Conservation Urged

Lubbock Men Attend Meet At Austin

Alarming Reports Of Wasting And Salt Water Encroachment Are Cited At State Session

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 29—Legislation to halt depletion of Texas' underground water supplies was urged by speakers before 200 persons attending a state-wide subsurface water conservation meeting under sponsorship of the State Planning board here today.

Alarming instances of well water withdrawals, salt water encroachment and pollution to important sources of water for irrigation, industrial and domestic use in various areas were cited by speakers.

Mayor R. B. Fonville of Houston, pointing out more than 75 per cent of the population of the state depended upon underground water for drinking purposes, said the industrial development of the city had brought serious problems in water consumption.

"Epidemics of typhoid fever in Houston years ago probably were caused by contamination of the water supply," Fonville said. "We have a serious problem of salt water encroachment into our underground water supply."

El Paso Is Worried

Ashley Classen, superintendent of The El Paso waterworks, said his city faced a "problem as acute as Houston's."

"Our city has a very small area where rain water will penetrate to sub-surface water levels," Classen said, "and while we have passed city ordinances regulating the drilling of water wells, we cannot touch the area surrounding us. Private industry is drawing fresh water from under the city and we cannot stop it."

Classen urged legislation to protect the supply.

Representative W. W. Bridges of El Paso, echoing Classen's assertions, said "as the population of Texas increased, instead of conserving water we have become more wasteful."

British Naval Failure Cited

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 29.—The British government's disclosure that the British destroyer Hero stood by without retaliating when a Spanish insurgent plane bombed and sank the steamer Dellwyn Wednesday in the British-operated port of Gandia, Spain, aroused bitter laborite comment today in the house of commons.

Colonel John Llewellin, civil lord of the admiralty, made the disclosure after Richard Austen Butler, parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs, had declared that the attack appeared deliberate.

Any Previous Case

Albert V. Alexander, laborite, demanded whether there was "any previous case in British history where a British ship was being sunk in any waters under the eyes of the British fleet and the British fleet had not taken action."

Llewellin refused to answer this. Another labor member, Frederick Seymour Cocks, then wanted to know if naval authorities had given instructions "to allow British ships to be sunk under the very guns of the British navy and that on no occasion shall anybody fire upon the Italian friends of the government."

National Income To Exceed 61 Billion

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP) — Government experts said today the 1938 national income was virtually certain to exceed $61,000,000,000.

If it does, President Roosevelt's estimate of a $12,000,000,000 reduction below the 1937 figure will have been cut nearly in two. In his budget message to congress, Mr. Roosevelt predicted a drop from $68,000,000,000 in 1937 to $56,000,000,000 in 1938.

The commerce department estimated yesterday the total income for the first half of 1938 was $30,630,000,000. Ordinarily income in the latter half of the year equals the first half.

Department officials said the prospective $7,000,000,000 reduction from 1937 might be lessened still further. Usually income payments fall off in mid-summer to a seasonal low point, but this year they have been moving upward, in contrast to the season trend, since the middle of June.

Separation Agreement Is Said Made; Count Gains Concessions

LONDON, July 29 (AP) — Attorneys for the former Barbara Hutton, five-and-ten heiress, and her estranged husband, Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, announced today the couple had reached an agreement for a separation.

The count was granted "parental right" toward Lance, their two-year-old son. They entitle him to make certain final decisions affecting his son's education, religion and career.

The deed of separation already has been signed both by the count and countess. It is subject to approval by the Danish minister of justice but would be valid both under Danish and English law.

Count Court is Danish and the countess has adopted her husband's nationality.

FLOOD CONTROL FIGHT ON

Dam Officials Charged With Negligence

Crops Said Ruined Because Buchanan Dam Allowed To Fill With Too Much Water

BY OLEN W. CLEMENTS
Associated Press Staff Writer

COLUMBUS, July 29—Planters and citizens whose crops were ruined by flood waters planned a finish fight today for flood control on the rampant Colorado river.

They recalled in a mass meeting here last night how ruinous floods had engulfed their crops seven times in the last three years, and predicted freely the fight would be between landowners and flood sufferers and those who wanted the giant Buchanan dam to function primarily for hydro-electric power.

Best Crops Since 1921

Tales of fortunes wiped away were related by farmers and business men of five Texas counties below Austin. The Colorado, now a roaring flood, this year got the best crops grown in the river bottoms since 1921, they declared.

Twenty-five men from counties flooded by the stream will go to Austin Saturday to ask Governor James V. Allred and United States Senator Tom Connally to launch an investigation into charges Buchanan dam officials were negligent in not opening the dam reservoir flood gates until high water from the San Saba and Concho rivers had reached the dam on the Colorado.

Investigation Ordered

Secretary of the Interior Ickes yesterday ordered an investigation of the charge, but landowners were demanding a separate investigation.

Fayette County Judge E. A. Arnim, jr., charged that the dam was

RED CROSS TO AID

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) — National Red Cross officials here said today 15 workers would spend approximately $100,000 in the next few weeks rehabilitating flood victims along the San Saba river in West Texas.

The amount is to be sought through a state-wide subscription campaign launched on proclamation of Governor James V. Allred, but whether raised or not the funds for relieving destitute persons will be supplied from the national accounts of the Red Cross.

St. Louis officers of the Red Cross notified Washington that 127 homes in the area had been completely destroyed and 644 others seriously damaged.

Test Of Building Code Unsuccessful

A corporation court jury at noon found Tom French guilty in three counts of violating the city building code and he was fined $10 on each count.

French, who builds and sells trailer houses, said he would appeal to county court.

He was charged with moving a building (trailer house) from outside the city into the city, into fire zone 2, before complying with the code; without first posting bond, and without having obtained a permit.

The offense assertedly was in early July.

Witnesses were J. E. Reid, building inspector; George Gaddy, who said he bought the trailer house, and Harry Hamilton, plumbing inspector.

French cross-examined witnesses but did not take the stand in his own right or present an argument to the jury.

As Colorado Got Up On Congress Avenue

With the Texas capitol only a few blocks in the background the rampaging Colorado river overflowed into the main street of Austin, flooding filling stations and other business houses.

FDR's Third Term Threat To Draw Fight In Senate

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 29 —Senator Holt (D-WVA), an administration critic, said today he would ask the 1939 senate to express formal opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt.

"We had intended to introduce such a resolution during the last session," he added, but had held it up "pending proper time."

Similar To 1928 Resolution

Holt explained the resolution would be similar to one which the senate passed, 56 to 26, while Calvin Coolidge was president in 1928.

That resolution was introduced by Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis) and was considered after Coolidge had issued his famous "I do not choose to run" statement. It said:

Precedent Is Cited

"Resolved, that it is the sense of the senate that the precedent established by Washington and other presidents of the united States in retiring from the presidential office after their second term has become, by universal concurrence, a part of our Republican system of government and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

"I don't see why the members who voted for the 1928 resolution

Airplane Builders To Take Off In Balloon On Their Vacation

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 29. (AP)—A tanned young engineer who helps build some of the world's fastest airplanes prepared today to start his vacation in a balloon.

If the weather is favorable this evening a much-patched gas bag will soar aloft with Anthony Fairbanks as pilot and several members of a balloon club as passengers.

Tonight's ascent will be made in an 80,000 cubic foot bag owned by the charter members of the club: Fairbanks, George Hineman, John Copeland and Milford Vanik. All except Vanik are airplane engineers. Vanik recently went to Kansas City as a bureau of aeronautics inspector.

As vocations they build some of the world's fastest planes and as avocations they fly cumbersome, slow balloons.

Duce Has Birthday; He's 55 Years Old

ROME, July 29. (AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini had something today he didn't like—his 55th birthday.

BENITO MUSSOLINI

Italian newspapers, usually lyric about any occasion involving the Duce, were silent in the Mussolinian concept, Fascist Italy personifies youth; Mussolini personifies Fascism; hence any notice of his advancing age is taboo.

When his fellow-dictator, Adolf Hitler, has a birthday, German flags fly, orators orate, troops parade. But on his anniversaries, Mussolini works.

Il Duce doesn't look much older than a year ago. His head is almost completely bald, his waist is thicker, but his vigor continues.

Pope Takes Rap At Fascist Program

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, July 29 —A Vatican City news service today quoted Pope Pius XI as terming racialism and exaggerated nationalism "barriers raised between men and men—people and people."

It said the pontiff's declaration was part of a long speech delivered yesterday at Castel Gandolfo to a group of students of the college of propagation of faith.

The pope also was quoted as defending Catholic action, saying that someone had said that "between the Catholic action and the Fascist party there exists an incurable doctrinal divergence."

His concluding remarks were reported as:

"Who injures the Catholic action, injures the Pope and who injures the Pope, dies."

The pontiff's remarks, in which he stressed again the "universality of the Catholic faith, were uttered as the fascist regime was pushing a vigorous campaign in favor of its recently promulgated doctrine of race.

On July 21 a group of professors published a report in which the Italian people were declared to be of aryan origin. It asserted Jews "do not belong to the Italian race." The report is issued under the auspices of the ministry of popular culture.

PHEW! PHEW!

NEVADA, Mo., July 29. (AP)—A wandering skunk was struck by a northbound Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train near here Wednesday night and wound up in the train's air-conditioning machinery where he broadcast his presence.

The air conditioning was cut off in a hurry and the car ventilated with ordinary fresh air.

Conventions In City Saturday

Both Democratic and Republican parties will conduct county conventions in Lubbock Saturday.

The Democrats will meet at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, probably on the second floor of the court house, said L. C. Ellis, county chairman.

Republicans, who will meet at 10 o'clock in the morning at the same place, will name two delegates to the state convention to be conducted at Houston in early August, at which time a state chairman to serve two years will be elected.

Support Asked

Ellis said he had received a letter from Sam Richardson of Lamesa, this section's representative on the state Democratic executive committee, asking that all county chairmen of the 30th senatorial district seek to have named delegates to the state Democratic convention who favor cooperation with Texas newest governor W. Lee O'Daniel.

"That sounds logical to me," said Ellis. "Standing behind the nominee has been a Democratic principle all the way back. Whether some supported Mr. O'Daniel or whether they didn't makes no difference. He will be next governor of Texas and, therefore, entitled to general support. I hope delegates named in the

There's Great Rejoicing Today In Brazil; Noted Bandit Dead

(By The Associated Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 29 — There was rejoicing in Brazil today because death had ended the career of one-eyed Lampeao.

For 20 years he robbed and killed, cut out the tongues of garrulous women, and made them and their menfolk dance naked in the streets.

Lampeao, or Lampost, 39 years old, bespectacled and pint-sized, and his sweetheart and eleven of his gang were slain last night in a battle with police near Maceio, Alagoas state, northeastern Brazil.

One policeman was killed and several wounded.

Villagers in the area celebrated in the streets, and joyful speeches were made hailing the end of the terrible bandit.

In nearly a thousand previous battles, Lampeao always had managed to fight his way clear of the law, to road through the northeastern hinterland, continuing to plunder and often cutting off ears or legs of those who fell into his hands.

Cruelty was his pleasure, and

Fifteen Men Aboard Giant Flying Boat

Intensive Three-Way Search Is Launched After No Word Of Ship For 12 Hours

(By The Associated Press)

MANILA, P. I., July 29 —An intensive search by air, sea and underwater craft was ordered tonight for the Pan American Airways giant Hawaii Clipper which disappeared with 15 men on a flight from Guam to Manila.

With twelve hours after the last radio call was sent by the 26-ton flying boat, the most intensive three-way search of the Pacific ocean ever undertaken in the vicinity of the Philippines was ordered by army and navy commanders.

Seven planes, eight navy ships, six submarines and an army transport were thrown into the hunt for the $450,000 (Martin) flying boat which literally vanished from the air midway on her 1,600 mile flight.

Fears for the safety of the six passengers and crew of nine increased as the hours dragged by without word since the last message flashed from the Clipper's radio at 12:09 p. m. (10:09 p. m. Thursday, central standard time).

The army transport Meigs, nearest ship to the Clipper's last position, was within the area where it was believed the Clipper was forced down.

Shortly before 10 p. m. (9 a. m. eastern standard time) she began sweeping the sea with powerful searchlights. Rockets were sent up every 15 minutes. Flares lit hourly. Her radio continually sent the Clipper's call letters. Rain made visibility poor and a 15-mile an hour wind made it likely the Clipper, if she landed safely, was blown far from the position.

In her last report the Clipper said she was bucking 14-mile an hour headwinds at an elevation of 9,000 feet between two cloud banks.

Government Fails To Prove Conspiracy, Defense Says

LONDON, Ky., July 29. (AP) — A hill county jury in the Harlan anti-labor conspiracy trial weighed today a defense lawyer's declaration that "it takes more than a bullet hole in a hackberry tree to prove a conspiracy" and his reminder that "the burden of proof rests with the prosecution."

The lawyer, H. H. Tye, was the last of four defense attorneys who stepped before the jurors, one by one, in federal court here to declare the government had failed to prove Harlan county coal operators conspired to thwart union activities because no conspiracy existed.

New Developments In Agricultural Research Are Wealth-Producing

Work In Texas Is Reviewed

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, July 29. — New developments in agricultural research are wealth-producing, says Dr. A. B. Connor, director of the Texas Agricultural experiment station.

Reviewing progress in that field, Dr. Connor said these activities increased the opportunities of those engaged directly in agriculture and often contribute specifically to the development of industrial enterprise.

Citrus For Cattle Feed

"For example," he said, summarizing the direct contribution to research to industry, "a feed processing plant has been established in the lower Rio Grande valley for converting citrus pulp into a feed which has about the same feeding value as beet pulp. It is not improbable large quantities of the citrus pulp will be used for cattle feed in the valley hereafter and this turn will increase the quality of manure almost indispensable for citrus and vegetable growing."

Citrus additional benefits of research, Dr. Connor said:

"Finding of methods of increasing the carrying capacity of Gulf coast ranges by mowing and the discovery of rust resistant strains of wheat and oats have contributed to the development of the livestock industry in that region. Since feeds for fattening and finishing cattle can be produced economically in the Gulf coast region, meat packing industries will follow, thus increasing the wealth of the region. This will place this area in a particularly favorable position because of low water rates to the Atlantic seaboard.

Cites Sorghum Development

"The development many years ago of grain sorghums in the western half of the state provided that whole section with a basic grain crop fundamental to the development of a sound agriculture, with the result that agriculture has developed rapidly there. New towns have increased in population and such development could never have been possible without this basic agricultural development.

"Following the discovery that cotton was fully as resistant to drouth as the grain sorghums, the general use of this crop has obtained in a large section of northwest Texas. The result of this agricultural development, which has been the development of gins, compresses, cottonseed oil mills, warehouses, transportation, and cattle feeding operations. The ginning industry in Texas alone does an annual business of $30,000,000 and employs some 20,000 workers. The cottonseed oil mills crush upward of 1,250,000 tons of seed annually and furnish labor to thousands of workers. Likewise, compressing, transportation, warehousing, and other activities run into considerable money and furnish much employment.

Flax Is Another Crop

"The development of flax growing in Texas, made possible by research, will give the farmer another crop and enable the cottonseed oil mills to lengthen their milling period in crushing the flax seed, and possibly develop uses for the fiber in the manufacture of cigarette paper. These developments all contribute materially to the wealth and resources of the state.

"It will be remembered that not many years ago cotton seed were hauled away from the gins as waste product and later burned for fuel at the gins. Research in the manufacture of oil, meal, and hulls from cotton seed resulted in converting this former waste material into a product of considerable value not only to the farmer but also to industries engaged in this conversion of cotton products through the establishment of a cotton products laboratory, which can be the means of greatly enhancing the income from cotton and at the same time develop dependable industrial activities.

"There is a close relationship between the development of agriculture and the development of industry, and it is our definite policy to extract from agricultural research every practical application that may be the benefit to those engaged in agriculture and as well to those engaged in kindred industrial activities."

"Gly-Cas Greatest Of All Remedies"

Said Mr. Ramsey, Age 82, Given Best Health He Has Had In Years; Indigestion, Gas, Bloating Almost Entirely Gone

"Gly-Cas deserves all of the credit for giving me my present health," said Mr. C. F. Ramsey, P. O. Box 1521, Corpus Christi, Texas. "I had suffered with constipation so severely that my entire system was filled with poisons of years accumulation. My stomach becomes disordered and I was forced to endure awful indigestion, gas and bloating after each meal I ate. Then to make things worse rheumatism attacked me and the pain I endured from this condition together with my disordered kidneys and upset nerves made sleep next to impossible. Then Gly-Cas was recommended to me and I began taking it—I was surprised to obtain such wonderful results."

"Gly-Cas soon proved its great superiority over the ordinary present day medicines," continued Mr. Ramsey. "My stomach has been so regulated that indigestion, gas and bloating seldom ever bother me and I eat and enjoy all the foods I wish. My bowels are now functioning properly and all those poisons have been eliminated in a most natural way. Rheumatism is entirely gone and my kidneys are greatly improved. I am once more able to enjoy full nights of strength giving sleep and I feel more like my self than I have in years. Gly-Cas is one medicine that can be depended upon to give the results that are claimed for it."

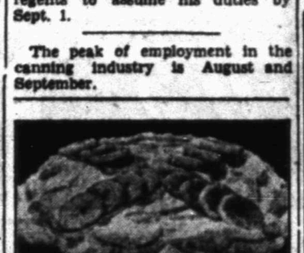

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.

BANANA LOVERS! HERE'S A REAL TREAT FOR YOU

A grand new cake with true banana flavor

This luscious cake didn't "just happen." It was made over and over again before the final recipe was decided upon. Every ingredient was carefully studied. A touch of ginger was found to be the seasoning that best brought out the true banana flavor. And Spry, the new, ALL-vegetable shortening, gave a finer-grained, more delicate cake.

Make this cake today but be sure to use Spry and follow the easy recipe below exactly! Try Spry for flakier pastry, crisper fried foods, too.

Banana Cream Cake

½ cup Spry
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
2 cups sifted flour (cake flour preferred)
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ cup sour milk
1 cup mashed bananas
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
½ cup sifted confectioners sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 bananas, sliced

Combine Spry, salt, ginger and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. (Done so quickly with triple-creamed Spry!) Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Sift flour, baking powder and soda together 3 times.

Add small amounts of flour to creamed mixture, alternately with combined milk and bananas, beating after each addition until smooth. Pour batter into two 8-inch layer pans greased with Spry. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Whip the cream and add sugar and vanilla. Put layers together with whipped cream and sliced bananas and spread whipped cream over top of cake. Garnish with sliced bananas.

(All measurements in this recipe are level)

The new, purer ALL-vegetable shortening TRIPLE-CREAMED!

Reconciliation Dinner Ends In Death For California Woman

LOS ANGELES, July 29 (AP) — Death came to the reconciliation dinner at which Glenn Elmore, 32, Long Beach auto repair shop operator, had hoped to win back his wife.

As the dinner broke up unhappily Tuesday night, Sheriff's Deputy Herbert Jones said, Elmore shot and killed Mrs. Irene Elmore, 28, and then was captured in an automobile chase before he could make good his threat to kill himself.

The slaying occurred in the La Crescenta home of Mrs. E. L. Sherwood, who had helped arrange the meeting of the estranged couple, married two years.

Robert Lee Johnson, of Wilmington, step-father of Mrs. Elmore, told deputies her husband shouted "You can't run away from me" as he fired at her twice in a rear bedroom.

Johnson said Elmore flung away his pistol and ran out the door crying "Don't stop me. I am going to kill myself." He was taken into custody a few minutes later.

The ring-tailed cat of the southern United States is not a cat, but relative of the raccoon.

Whereas, at said election a large majority of the qualified voters voting in said election voted against the keeping of Livestock within each of said zones, and

Whereas, the City Commission has caused a check to be made of the number of Livestock now kept in said Zones 1, 2 and 3 and found that there are within the area included within said Zones 1, 2 and 3, 910 head of cows, 48 head of horses and mules, 30 head of goats and 21 head of sheep; and

Whereas, the area within said Zones 1, 2 and 3 are contained the principal business and residential areas of the City of Lubbock, wherein a large majority of the 30,000 inhabitants, coustituting the population of the City of Lubbock, reside and have their homes and places of business; and

Whereas such a large number of Livestock located and kept within said Zones 1, 2 and 3 necessitates the establishment and maintenance by the owners of said Livestock of barns, lots, pens, stables and stalls within which to keep said Livestock; and

Whereas, the keeping and maintaining of such a large number of pens, lots, barns, stables and stalls for such Livestock within the boundaries of said Zones 1, 2 and 3, has created a great number of prolific breeding places for house-flies, maggots and other harmful insects and bacteria and filth, which has greatly increased the number of house-flies, maggots and other harmful insects and bacteria and filth within said Zones 1, 2 and 3; and

Whereas, the keeping and maintaining within said Zones 1, 2 and 3 of such a large number of barns, lots, pens, stables and stalls, and the keeping and maintaining in said barns, lots, pens, stables and stalls, of hundreds of head of "Livestock," as that term is hereinafter defined, has created a large amount of filth and has polluted the air within said Zones 1, 2 and 3, thereby creating unwholesome, unhealthful, annoying, offensive and intolerable odors that are obnoxious to the sense of smell, and has created a hazard that is detrimental to the public health and especially to the inhabitants residing in said Zones 1, 2 and 3, and is harmful and injurious to the health of said inhabitants and interrupts and interfers with the rights of said inhabitants in said Zones in the quiet peaceable and pleasant enjoyment of their homes and property; and

Whereas, the noise made by the large number of Livestock now kept within said Zones 1, 2 and 3 by lowing, braying, nickering and blating disturbs, interrupts and prevents the inhabitants residing within said Zones 1, 2 and 3 from enjoying the peace and quiet of their homes, to which each are entitled under the Laws and Constitution of the State of Texas, and in many instances disturbs said inhabitants in their sleep and rest, which taken into consideration with all of the above recited facts, has created an unsanitary condition within said Zones 1, 2 and 3 that endangers the public health of the inhabitants residing within said Zones 1, 2 and 3, and created a grave condition, jeopardizing the public health, which makes it imperative that the City Commissoen of the City of Lubbock pass an Ordinance prohibiting the keeping of livestock within the areas of said Zones 1, 2 and 3.

Therefore, be it ordained by the city commission of the City of Lubbock, Texas:

Syphilis Fight Is Progressing

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 29—Chicago was appreciably closer today to its goal of eradicating syphilis.

The city's intensive campaign, directed into one of its most vital phases a year ago, has become, in the opinion of health authorities, the spearhead of a national movement to wipe out venereal disease.

Polled late last July on the question of whether they would submit to free, secret blood tests by their family physicians 93,931 Chicagoans voted in the affirmative. The ballots represented 261,425 persons, as more than one person was included on each of the 1,000,000 family questionnaires mailed to sound out public opinion.

Physicians Aiding In Fight

Concurrently, 7,000 physicians were asked by Mayor Edward J. Kelly's committee for control of venereal disease to mobilize in the fight against syphilis. Along with hospitals and clinics, they were requested to help determine the number of infected persons under treatment.

Illustrative of the progress of the campaign, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said that 600 private physicians used the board's laboratory in July, 1937, whereas there were 2,500 this month.

Attendance Is Greater

The average daily attendance at the clinic in July of last year was 800; in July, 1938, it has been 1,700.

Cooperating with the Chicago Board of Health are the state department of health and the United States Public Health service.

From the outset the campaigners tossed euphemism overboard; they smashed taboos; they made no bones about the words syphilis and gonorrhea. Newspapers put the words in their stories and headlines; speakers used them freely in public meetings; high school pupils inscribed them on forthright banners and paraded them through the loop.

Health authorities said one significant aspect of the campaign was that in 84 per cent of the cases uncovered the patients didn't know they had syphilis.

Reduced Acreage In 1939 Is Indicated

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP) — Agricultural Adjustment administration officials said today that unless domestic and foreign consumption of American cotton increased this fall and winter, growers may be asked to plant less than 30,000,000 acres to the crop next year.

Confronted with a record surplus of about 13,500,000 bales, growers reduced their planting operations from about 35,000,000 acres last year to 26,900,000 acres this year.

Should yields on this year's acreage equal the average of the last ten years, the crop would be about 11,500,000 bales. This is slightly more American cotton than was consumed in the United States and abroad during the marketing season which closes this week.

Officials explained that unless consumption increased, little or none of the surplus cotton would be used. Consequently, growers would be in the same relative position next spring as they were this spring.

AAA cotton experts feel confident, however, that a business and industrial upswing will come this fall, bringing with it improved domestic markets for cotton goods.

It is officially estimated that American cotton consumed during the present marketing year totaled 5,600,000 bales, or about 2,000,000 bales less than in the preceding year.

Exports, on the other hand, increased slightly. They have been estimated at 5,565,000 bales, or 125,000 bales more than in the preceding season.

New Zealand was the first country to give women the right to vote, in 1893.

Old Age Assistance Grants To States $54,598,098 In Quarter

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) — Grants to states from the Social Security board for public assistance during the quarter which began July 1 totaled $54,598,098 by July 19.

Grants had been made to 46 states, Alaska, Hawaii and the District of Columbia to the latter date.

The board estimated more than 2,300,000 persons were receiving aid during July, including 1,699,000 aged; 39,200 blind, and 602,030 children in 243,000 families.

The number of persons participating and total grants to states for the first quarter of this fiscal year, as of July 19, were listed by the board to include:

New Mexico, 8,110 and $41,969; Texas, 111,300 and $2,412,565.

Emigration Of Jews Difficult

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, July 29. — Jews themselves predicted today that finding emigration opportunities for them would be an almost insurmountable task for the official United States refuge observer, George Brandt, who now is making a survey here.

There are some 300,000 to 350,000 Jews in Germany. Brandt, member of the consular service, through American sources here is seeking to determine how many want to leave with the aid of the international refuge organization newly established in London.

Influential Jews Skeptical

Influential Jews are skeptical. They point out that fewer than 150,000 have been able to leave since Chancellor Hitler assumed power in 1933, despite the expressed German wish that they go.

Emigration was comparatively easy then, but it is increasing daily in difficulty.

The Jew can take little with him in cash or goods he might sell—if a Jew goes to the border with a new suit or other personal object, he must leave with customs officials a sum equal to the article's cost.

If he takes a field glass, camera or other luxury he must deposit twice or three times its value.

Wealth Is Shrinking

The authorities thus far have shown little inclination to speed emigration by financial grants; diminishing business is shrinking the potential wealth of Jewish storekeepers.

Because the Austrian situation presently is confused, one cannot say how many of the 208,000 Jews living there when union with Germany was effected March 13 have been able to leave.

And even though 300,000 to 350,000 Jews may be moved eventually from Germany, the reich still would have 150,000 subjects who can neither be German citizens, because of Semitic origin, nor acquire other citizenship.

Too Old To Emigrate

These include people too old to emigrate or with infirmities barring their entry to other countries.

One of Brandt's first concerns apparently was the fate of Jews held in concentration camps in Vienna, Berlin and elsewhere since an outburst of anti-Semitism in June.

Estimates put their number at 3,000 to 8,000. Jewish circles consider well-authenticated their estimate that Buchwald camp, near Weimar, contains 2,000 Jews.

It probably is not an exaggeration to say that Dachau camp in Bavaria holds an equal number. How many other hundreds might be held in secret police headquarters is conjectural.

Next Objective Asserted

The Nazi regime openly asserts its next objective is elimination of the Jew from economic life, and Jews are being driven more and more out of business.

In small towns, the Jew has almost ceased to exist as a tradesman because no aryan dares buy from him. Many Jewish stores still operate in the big cities, but big white letters on the windows indicate their Jewish ownership and therefore most ayrans do not patronize them.

As Jewish business shrinks, the employers are less able to keep their Jewish help and this makes for increasing distress. By the time the Jew finds an aryan purchaser for his dwindling business he must sell for so little that he has nothing with which to start over again.

The age of a rattlesnake is not computed by the number of his rattles. A rattler grows anywhere from two to three or four buttons a year.

Indian Wishes Water Busters Would Return 'Sacred Bundle'

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—The rainmaking "thunderbird bundle" of the Gros Ventre Indians of North Dakota has worked so well that one Indian wishes the white man would take it back.

Foolish Bear and Drags Wolf, representing the Water Buster clan of the Gros Ventres, asked Indian Commissioner John Collier last January to help them get back the long lost "sacred bundle," which legend says assures good crops and abundant rains.

They located it in a New York museum, and swapped a buffalo horn for it.

Rains followed its return. So much rain—complained Scott H. Peters, a Chippewa employe of the Indian service at Milwaukee—that "much destruction has been done."

He asked Collier today to persuade the Water Busters to return the bundle to the museum "and let the 'white man' control the weather."

Sportometer Short, Short Stories

By Collier Parris

QUOTES: A good job has been done here. . . . I hope everybody keeps it up, because there's a great future here. . . . I am highly pleased with the efforts put forth and the results gained by baseball friends and fans. . . . I am grateful to Sam Rosenthal, Harry Faulkner, the ball players (and I hope we have some of them with the Steers next season), the fans and the press. End quotes, by Bob Tarleton, vice president and general manager of the Dallas Steers and generalissimo of the White Sox Farms, who visited here from Wednesday morning until last night.

BONER: Glad Tarleton had to catch the train before the eighth inning last night when the Hubbers fuddled the game away, mainly because Jno. Taylor, 3rd sacker, failed to hustle on his infield knock down third base way. . . . He could have beaten out an infield hit most easily, scoring a run and leaving the sacks packed with one out for Steve Stevens and Miller to work on. . . . Johnny loafed, was tossed out, and Christie wisely didn't pitch to Stevens, with two out and a sack vacant. . . . Oh, well—it saved a shutout. . . . Johnny, like the third baseman, was waiting outs foul. . . . It wasn't.

BOXING: Up and down the Pacific coast they're all het up over the recent Hostak-Steele bout, which was unreeled in Seattle t'other night and which lasted almost as long as the Louis-Schmeling fiasco. . . . The "het up" sentiment is addressed to the National Boxing Association, members of which reside along the Eastern seaboard. . . . The heat is on because the NBA (not a governmental alphabetical combination) refuses to recognize young Hostak as the champ. . . . And why shouldn't there be a furore? . . . Didn't Hotsy hit the heck out of Champion Steele? ? ? and knock him out with half a dozen blows? ? ? Nobody else was ever able to do it, and Hostak is no newcomer to the ranks. . . . In fact, he's about the best middleweight going. . . .

The fight was officially billed as for the middleweight championship. . . . Nay, nay, said the NBA, a contenent away. . . . "He wasn't rated by us as the leading contender . . . he'll have to enter a tournament, the winner to have the right to challenge Steele.". . . Baloney, says the Pacific Northwest . . . and so do a lot of other fans and critics . . . and so do we. . . . The august tribunal, a committee of three, didn't see it . . . so it wasn't so. . . .

FOOTBALL: It's coming up next week at Texas Tech grounds when 400 and more coaches and physical education men gather for the Texas High School Football Coaches school. . . . Climax will be Saturday night when graduated gridders growl from the Stuhldreher side across to the Waldorf side of the line of scrimmage, and vice versa. . . . You may get your tickets at Sam Rosenthal's Hub Clothiers or Mark Halsey's Druggery. . . . But hurry! . . .

Nice piece of publicity material turned out by the Tech football department. . . . All in a red and black folder, circulated among nooseppers. . . . Already it's getting national notice. . . . Note Eddie Brietz' AP colyum now'nthen. . . . Quotes: Oh, that's where Texas Tech is situated, isn't it? end quotes, when one admits he's from Lubbock, when one vacations in the West. . . . They even get West Texas-New Mexico League results there . . . and Texas gubernatorial election reports. . . . Slip Madigan, St. Mary's mogul, is suiting out his Gaels in solid black silk suits this fall. . . . We missed seeing Madigan by a traffic snarl, but read about it. . . .

GOLF: Congrats to Mrs. J. R. Farmer, the freckled menace to Lubbock's old guard of feminine golf fanciers. . . . Defeating Mrs. Cliff Dean in match play is a job for any able divot digger. . . . It's too bad Lubbock golf suffers a shortage of women swingsters. . . . It's fun, even if you're a duffer, and nobody criticizes your game, regardless of score. . . . C'mon out, especially you mademoiselles. . . . Too many names starting with "Mrs." in local women's golf stories. . . . Only two Misses in the current city tournament — Mildred Boone and Ruth Ford. . . . Don't the coeds and debs play golluf??? Joe Bihl's driving range is doing quite a business out at College and Fourth, 'specially at night.

BASEBALL: Get ready for a big week of it, starting Sunday. . . . Games scheduled at Wink for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday have been transferred to Lubbock for a double header Sunday and night games Monday and Tuesday . . . after which Big Spring, Midland and Wink move in for three-night stretches. . . .

There's a squeeze play Saturday but Tech stadium is bigger. . . .

NEW YORK, July 29.—Ambers and Armstrong may lay one of those great big eggs from a financial standpoint . . . In the four night games at Ebbetts field so far the well-known Dodgers have pulled in 117,369 fans and got the club out of the red . . . Jimmy Johnston flew to the coast to make arrangements for Bob Pastor's fight with Maxie Rosenbloom next week . . . Missions Put Oilers Down To Second Place In Texas Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Tulsa's plummeting fall from Texas league leadership gained added impetus last night as the San Antonio Missions slaughtered the Oilers 13-1 to move into second place.

Beaumont's league-leading and inspired Exporters annexed a second straight game from Oklahoma City, 3-2, capitalizing on bonafide scoring chances to win.

Hits were plentiful as the Fort Worth Cats downed Houston's Buffs 11-3, driving John Grodzicki from the mound after seven innings.

The night's only doubleheader saw the Dallas Steers, clinging to sixth place, eke a 4-3 win over seventh place Shreveport in the opener, then lost the nightcap 8-2 when the Sports scored heavily in middle innings.

Yawkey's Men Surprising In Their Wins

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

For years one of baseball's universal beliefs—like three strikes are out or putting mustard on your hot dogs—has been that a club entertaining hopes of figuring in the money must have strength "down the middle."

Such being the case, it has become increasingly amazing, now that Lefty Grove's wing is laid up for repairs, how those Boston Red Sox continue to hang right onto the Yankees and Indians in the American league pennant party.

Foretold Their Finish

When this season got under way, few thought the Sox had much of a chance. The "experts" refused to see Moneybags Yawkey's boys because of that middle line. And when Grove went into drydock two weeks ago, everyone immediately foretold their finish.

But since that time, the Sox have won seven and lost three, the latest a doubleheader beating they handed the Chicago White Sox yesterday, 13-8 and 8-5.

Now, that "middle line" runs from the catcher out to where the center fielder waits for fly balls. Back of the mask and pads, the Sox had Gene Desautels, who is strictly no bargain. On paper, the pitching staff, aside from Old Mose, was largely a collection of young unknowns. In center field, Doc Cramer didn't figure to be any world beater, but he has been a most pleasant surprise, batting .315 for the season and .341 in the last ten-game stretch since Lefty's been gone.

Kid Comes Through

But it has been at second base and on the mound where things have been popping. Manager Joe Cronin decided to string along with young Bobby Doerr at second last year and the kid finally has come through. For the past month or so he has been travelling at a .400 clip, and, for the final ten-game run since the Sox were counted out (by expert opinion), he's been going at .368 and fielding A-1.

On top of that, the rookie pitchers have been fooling everyone, for which give a large assist to old Herb Pennock, the one-time ace of the World Champion Yankees, who's taken youngsters like Jim Bagby, Emerson Dickman and Dick Midkiff in hand and taught them the tricks. The results is, Bagby and Dickman, between 'em, have won 13 games and lost but seven, Dickman sports a five-game winning streak.

Foxx Hits No. 28

Of course, it's always nice to have fellows like Foxx and the speedy Ben Chapman around. Foxx belted homer No. 28 in yesterday's opener and Chapman drove in four runs, the Sox winning with a five-run blast in the tenth. In the nightcap, Midkiff, tossed in when the White Sox got tough in the fifth, pitched one-hit shutout ball the rest of the way.

This left the Sox only two games back of the Indians, whose game with the Athletics was rained out, and only three back of the pace-setting Yankees, who dropped a 4-3 decision to the St. Louis Browns despite three homers. The Tigers belted the Washington Senators, 12-4

The Giants ended their five-game losing streak by nipping the St. Louis Cardinals, 2-1, and, naturally, it was King Carl Hubbell who did it with a seven-hit pitching job for his 12th win. Linus Frey's three-run double gave the Cincinnati Reds a 4-2 victory over the Boston Bees. The Pirates pounded out seven runs in a big seventh inning to trample the Phillies, 9-2. The Dodgers and Cubs weren't scheduled.

Standefer-Canon Trophy Goes To Lewis Jones This Year

The 1937-38 term Standefer-Canon football scholastic award went to Lewis Jones, line captain of Texas Tech grid teams two years, according to announcement from the college.

Jones, who will be line coach of the Tech freshman team this fall, had an average of 86. He refused an offer of the Chicago Bears of a professional football contract to remain at Tech in his newly appointed capacity. His hometown is Cleburne.

Starting his football career at the college on the freshman team in 1934, the 210-pounder was regular guard thee years. He was named line captain in 1936 and re-elected in 1937.

The Standefer-Canon award, given annually by Drs. Fred Standefer and R. T. Canon, is one of the most sought after prizes on the campus. It was won by Abe Murphy, 1938 line captain, last year.

Winner's name is engraved on a permanent bronze plaque, and a gold football becomes his possession.

Seven Teams Still In Denver Tourney; Borger Loses One

DENVER, July 29 (AP) — Seven teams of a starting field of 14 remained today in the Denver Post baseball tournament with another elimination due today.

The Enid, Okla., Oilers and the Denver Lakesiders, each of which has dropped a game, will clash in an elimination contest today.

In the only other match on today's bill, the Trinidad, Colo. Century club squares off against Borger, Tex., Hubers at 8:30. Century is undefeated in tourney play with 3 wins.

Long range hitting in the final rounds brought the Duncan, Okla., Cementers a close victory over the Borger Hubers last night, 10-9, the Texas team's first defeat of the tournament.

Mrs. J. R. Farmer Is Winner In Women's Driving Contest

Mrs. J. R. Farmer took driving honors with an average of 145 yards in a driving contest for women at a driving course at Fourth street and College avenue Thursday night.

Second honors went to Mrs. Fenner Tubbs with an average of 143. Mrs. J. H. Stiles was third with 141.

A contest for men 50 years old or over will be conducted.

A feature of the Thursday night program was a trick shot exhibition by Joe Bihl and Charles Akey.

Bert E. Collyer, Turf Expert, Dies In Chicago Last Night

CHICAGO, July 29. (AP)—Bert E. Collyer, 61, nationally known horse race handicapper and publisher of "Collyer's Eye," a sports and turf information paper, died last night.

Born in Durham, Ont., Canada, Collyer ran a print shop in his youth before going to Alaska during the gold rush of '98. It was there he gained recognition as a newspaperman for his exclusive dispatch on the Chilkoot Pass avalanche April 4, 1898. Sixty persons were killed at the pass and many injured.

Employed by Hearst newspapers on the Pacific coast, he subsequently was transferred to the Chicago American and named turf editor. In 1914, he established his publication, which, he claimed, was the first to disclose the Chicago Black Sox baseball scandal in 1920.

Ninth-Inning Rallies Bring In Victories In East Texas Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Ninth inning rallies brought victory in two East Texas league games last night.

Longview's Cannibals squeezed a run in the final frame to beat Tyler 2-1 and stop the Trojans winning streak at six games.

Meanwhile Jacksonville, in a finish similar only in the time, clubbed eleven runs in the ninth to bury Palestine 12-4.

Marshall added to its league leadership, by taking a second straight game from the Texarkana Liners, 7-2, while Henderson made it two in a row over Kilgore, 13-9.

Hubbers Nosed Out By Clovis, 2 To 1

Fiddlin' Jake Christie, taking his own sweet time and continually warting the batters with his maddening dilly-dallying, nevertheless outpitched wee Marvin Gramly last night and Clovis took the series final in Parris field, 2 to 1.

The tall Pioneer chunker allowed only two bingles until the eighth inning, when a bit of hard luck almost cost him the decision. Lubbock balanced his tough breaks with boners that let him live.

Marvin Gramly did almost the same masterful hurling that Christie did, but three singles in the third and a home run by Boyce in the seventh lost the game for him.

Hillin, Gramly Single

The Hubbers loaded the bases in the eighth with one down, but were able to push across only one run, hardly enough. Bobby Hillin led off that frame with a clean single to center and Gramly followed with another down the first base line. Joe Gedzius sacrificed both runners, Hillin to third and Gramly to second.

Bob Mosel grounded to Christie, who took plenty of time and had Mosel out by feet, but Jim McDonald dropped the ball to fill the sacks. Johnny Taylor batted Hillin across with a slow roller down the third base line, but stood at the plate counting his change while Hack Harrison threw him out at first.

Taylor easily could have beaten the throw, but elected to "umpire" from home plate. The ball was fair.

Hubbers Fill Bases

Mal Stevens walked to fill the bases again, but got his feet tangled up and Hack Miller grounded in the infield for the final out. Miller's attempt went down as a hit, with Shorty Beals recorded with the putout.

That uprising was the only thing near a rally for the Hubbers all night, only four having reached base to that time and two getting to second. In the ninth Al Carr fanned and Ralph Marshall, batting for Watty Watkins, followed suit. Hillin drew a pass, but Gramly put an end to the game by grounding out to McDonald.

Christie whiffed 14 Hubbers during the contest and walked four. Gramly retired 11 on strikes and passed only one. Boyce was only.

Return Here Sunday

Approximately 1,000 fans were in the stands despite the late afternoon rain and cloudy skies. The game had been designated as an appreciation contest for Bob Tarleton, general manager of the Chicago White Sox farms.

The Hubbers go to Midland for two games tonight and tomorrow night, then return here for a long home stay. Wink opens here Sunday with a doubleheader in a series transferred here from Spudderville. Then follow 10 consecutive days of baseball at the local orchard.

MIDLAND, July 29 (Special — Midland's Cards improved their second place position in the West Texas-New Mexico league here last night by taking the Big Spring Barons, 11-6. The victory placed Midland within two and a half games of the league leading Lubbock Hubbers.

Midland collected 17 hits off big Harry "Peavine" Trantham, sometimes known as the ace of the Big Spring staff. Warren for Midland gave up 8 hits, permitted five runs in the first four innings. Three runs in each of the seventh and eighth provided Midland's margin.

Canadian Tennis Players Face Task In Turning Back Japs

MONTREAL, July 29 (AP) — Laird Watt, of Montreal, and Ross Wilson, of Toronto, faced the strenuous task of turning back the veteran Japanese pair of Jiro Yamagishi and Fumiteru Nakano in the doubles today and saving Canada's Davis cup hopes.

The same Japanese pair, playing in singles yesterday, trounced Bobby Murray and Wilson in straight sets to send the invaders into a 2-0 lead in the five point series. Today's doubles count only one point, but it is the deciding one of the tourney. Should the Canadians win today they have a slim chance of winning the two remaining singles Saturday and taking the series.

Most onlookers here were ready to concede victory to the tireless Japanese. The winning team here will meet the winner of the Australia-Mexico series, which starts in Kansas City today, in the American zone final.

Mrs. Farmer shot nifty golf to defeat Lubbock's fairway queen. Mrs. Dean had qualified Wednesday with an 85.

In other championship flight matches yesterday, Mrs. Akey defeated Mrs. Fenner Tubbs, 5 and 4; Mrs. Heilhecker, runner up in the medalist race, won from Mrs. W. F. Helwig, 7 and 6, and Mrs. Smith defeated Mrs. K. L. Riggs, 7 and 5.

Kovacs In Climax Of His Net Career

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 29 (AP)—Frank Kovacs, 18-year-old Californian who came East "just for the experience," faced the first big climax of his tennis career here today in the semi-finals of the 51st annual Sea Bright Lawn Tennis and Cricket club invitation tournament.

Kovacs, who lives only two blocks down from Don Budge, America's No. 1 star, in Oakland, Calif., was pitted against top-seeded Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, who has high hopes of landing the No. 2 singles assignment on the Davis cup team.

Riggs was the favorite, but on the basis of his performance against third-seeded Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant, of Atlanta, yesterday, Kovacs was conceded a chance of casting a damper on Rigg's cup aspirations.

Kovacs whipped the stuffing out of Grant, fourth-ranking U. S. amateur, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2.

In the other semi-final today, Wilmer L. Allison, of Austin, Tex., was slated to meet Elwood T. Cooke, of Portland, Ore., upset conqueror of second-seeded Frankie Parker in the quarter-finals. Yesterday Allison blasted the cup team hopes of blond Sidney B. Wood, of New York.

Texan Says Senate Should Reject Allred's Nomination As Judge

Dies Recalls House Move

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 29 — Representative Dies (D-Tex.) declares the senate should reject President Roosevelt's nomination of Governor James V. Allred of Texas to a new judgeship in southern Texas because he is not a resident of that district.

Dies said the senate, during consideration of a bill creating the position, had given assurance that a non-resident would not be appointed.

Opposed To Principle

"They said it was an unwritten law not to appoint a non-resident," Dies asserted. "I am not particularly opposed to Allred, but I am opposed to the principle that local people are not granted preference on local jobs. I would make the same objection no matter who the appointee was.

"It is just this sort of thing that brought on the political revolution in Texas last week when the people expressed distinct resentment against the kind of politics that had been played in the past.

Duty Of Senate

"It is the duty of the senate to reject Allred's nomination as beding a dangerous violation of a principle that had been clearly recognized from the foundation of the republic and that had been approved by the house by a two-to-one record vote."

Dies said "it might be" that the house would be asked to pass a bill abolishing the new position if the senate confirmed the nomination. He declined, however, to say whether he would sponsor that legislation.

Recalls House Action

He recalled that the house bill creating the new judgeship stipulated that a non-resident could not be chosen for the position, but the senate shelved that amendment on the ground, he said, that "there is no necessity for it" because a non-resident would not receive the appointment.

President Roosevelt appointed Allred at Wichita Falls, the governor's home city, during his recent trip to the Pacific coast. Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.) reaffirmed today his approval of the nomination. Texas followers of politics have heard many times that Governor Allred would seek the seat of Senator Connally (D-Tex.) in 1940.

Slight Injuries Are Received In Collision Near Idalou

A minor automobile collision happened about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon a mile east of Idalou. No one was injured seriously, said traffic officers who investigated.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Willard of Ralls and two grandchildren, Willard Tolbert, 13, and Lawrence Tolbert, 6, were going west, and C. A. Niemeir, both of Lubbock, were going east, officers said.

Mrs. Willard suffered bruises of the forehead, chest and face and Willard was bruised about the head. Neither was taken to a hospital.

Barton Patterson, Texas Highway patrolman, conducted an investigation.

Election Set On Addition

City commissioners set Aug. 20 as the date for an election on a proposed extension of the southwest city limits to include a 40-acre tract, approximately four blocks square, when they met Thursday afternoon in semi-monthly session.

A petition asking the election had been presented to the commission.

Before limits could be extended a majority vote both of residents in the proposed extension and those of the city as a whole would be necessary.

The 40-acre tract is bound on the east by Van Buren avenue, a part of the present city limits, on the north by Nineteenth street, the west by Tyler avenue and the south by a prolongation of the present city limits.

Voting places will be the city hall for the city population, a garage of the T. R. Prideaux residence at 3123 Nineteenth street for those in the tract seeking to be included in the city limits.

Petitioners had pointed out the area is in process of development for residential property and, by becoming a part of the city proper, utilities would become available there. Property affected, if added to the city, automatically would be placed on the city tax rolls.

Special Meeting Set

At a special meeting of commissioners Tuesday afternoon, when application for PWA monies for extending paving and storm sewer facilities will be discussed, the group will consider persons to hold the election.

Storm sewer construction would alleviate flood conditions after light rainfall throughout most of the southern section of the city, engineers have said.

Otherwise, commissioners Thursday:

Instructed Mayor Carl Slaton to sign a pipeline license for shoving under trackage of the Seagraves branch of the Santa Fe railway an eight-inch water main from the Friend sub-division well to city distribution mains;

Revision Is Delayed

Delayed, pending further study, a revision of bus lines and schedules described by Manager Ray Farmer as more applicable to convenience of the public;

Resolved to authorize the superintendent of the city light plant to purchase two carloads of oil from one of eight companies making bids ranging from 13 to 41 cents a gallon, the superintendent to make his selection in accordance with needs of heavy machinery requiring the oil for the next 12 months;

Took cognizance of a "growing menace from garbage increases" by determining to study the situation and ways of putting on extra trucks at various times. Additional bodies of improved engineering may have to be bought, it was indicated;

Decided to name a tax equalization board, probably to be announced at the special session Tuesday;

Denied the Fannie Bradley estate request for "knocking off" penalty and interest on taxes delinquent on two pieces of city property since 1929, amounting to $871.70. Counsel for the beneficiaries said failure to pay taxes had been a result of error, that it had been belief of heirs it had been paid.

Mayor Slaton, City Manager W. H. Rodgers, City Secretary Lavenia Williams, Commissioners W. G. McMillan, Hub Jones and J. A. Fortenberry and W. D. Wilson, law partner of City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley, attended the session.

Suggestions On Airport Made

A district advisor of the Bureau of Air Commerce, M. H. Smith of San Antonio, Thuresday made important suggestions toward improvement of Municipal airport here, so that when air commerce reaches the point where great liners carrying mail and passengers begin landing here port facilities will be up to required standard.

It earlier had been announced Lubbock was fishing for an airmail line that would connect with at least two transcontinental air routes at Amarillo and with the southern route from Fort Worth to El Paso.

Company Interested

Assurances had been given that at least one transport company was interested and there had been indications at least one other might like to link Lubbock into one of its route ramificatons.

Smith arrived in Lubbock late Wednesday and explained he had been informed blueprints of the Lubbock port and a description of its facilities had been mailed that morning to Maj. E. M. Aight of New Orleans, regional airport supervisor for the bureau of air commerce.

Rather than await whatever formality generally is expected, Smith came to Lubbock at once.

Close Inspection Made

He recommended after making a close inspection of the landing field, including going over the field minutely to estimate drainage index, soil texture, topography and the like, that a "master plan" showing all available information be mailed to his department.

Such a plan would show a contour map of the field, height of structures, including power and telephone lines, near the port, distance from Lubbock, location of important building such as the postoffice, location of all utilities, and other data.

He said it was not likely the drainage problem would have to be contended with at the port, since natural factors were present, allowing of quick seepage or flow of surface water.

Conference Is Held

The aviation committee of the chamber of commerce, as well as the general airport improvement committee, headed respectively by C. E. Maedgen and by Dr. Ben B. Hutchinson, conferred with Smith in a session just before noon.

They were told that, in order to accommodate the heavy planes now in use for mail and passenger line service, runways would be needed here but that it might not be necessary immediately to pave them. Runways of 3,500 feet, rather than of 5,250 that might eventually be required, probably would handle present needs, he suggested.

Smith suggested that the southwest section of the field could be utilized for primary development with better effect than other sections because of prevailing winds and location of permanent structures. Prevailing wind direction here is southwest, listed at 21 per cent of the time. Other directions and percentage were given as, SE 20.4 per cent; NE 11.5 per cent; N 8.2 per cent; NW 8.2 per cent; W 8.1 per cent; S 17 per cent and E 5.5 per cent.

Might Be Extended

Runways preferably would extend from the southwest and the southeast, Smith suggested. After such time as Lubbock might require to become noted for its air traffic and mail poundage the runways might be extended, marginal lights set back 200 feet beyond limits of runways extending diagonally 5,250 feet and north-south and east-west runways 4,500 feet long built.

Flight officials have said in the past Lubbock's position as an air center may become of increasing importance because of at least three factors: Position as an inland defense point for aeronautics; field facilities and natural advantages, and the fact Texas Technological college is here to provide plenty of material for possible training of fliers among students in the future.

When the master plan is submitted further study will be made with resultant recommendations, Smith indicated.

Luncheon Club At Amherst Is Reorganized; Willett Is Head

AMHERST, July 29.—The Amherst Luncheon club was reorganized at a meeting of business men here and Rogers Willett, banker, was renamed president and M. L. Payne, city secretary, renamed secretary.

Plans were made for a trades day program, details of which will be announced later. Next meeting will probably be the third Tuesday in August. The meeting, in Legion hall, was the largest gathering of business men held here, old timers said.

Irrigation Interests On Rio Grande Have Their Fill Today

McALLEN, July 29. (AP)—American and Mexican irrigation interests, recently at loggerheads over division of the waters of the Rio Grande, had their fill today.

On the Texas side it was believed levees would hold the backwaters from the flooded Rio Grande.

On the Mexican side, south of Donna, floodwaters were being taken from the river through the Retamal inlet for storage in Resacas and lakes, for use in irrigating new agricultural developments planned by the Mexican federal government.

Approximately 35 per cent of the annual crop total in the United States consists of cereals.

Man Claims He Was In Dallas At Time Of Dynamite Explosion

DALLAS, July 29 (AP)—Detective Inspector Will Fritz said today E. R. Wyatt told city detectives he was in Dallas Monday night when the front of a residence here was wrecked by a dynamite explosion.

An examining trial on a charge of assault to murder will be held Saturday for Wyatt, who is principal-elect of the Appleby school, near Nacogdoches.

Detectives said Wyatt was a former suitor of Miss Maryjo Miller, 25, of San Augustine, Tex. Miss Miller narrowly escaped injury from the explosion at the home of her brother, Joseph Miller.

Two Armed Men Sought After Man Is Left Bound, Gagged

HUGO, Okla., July 29. (AP)—Two armed men, one believed to be a fugitive Texas convict, were sought today after Wes Thompson of Hugo told officers they took his new coupe and left him bound and gagged four miles southwest of here.

Night Officer Elmer Barnett said Thompson told him one of the men resembled a Texas convict fugitive he knew only as "Slim" Wofford before his conviction.

Thompson loosened the rags which bound him, he said, and had a farmer bring him here.

Thompson's car was found abandoned south of here near the Texas line late Thursday, its spare tire missing.

That Girl on Broadway says the energy now used in worrying about the European situation probably would solve about 86 per cent of our troubles here at home.

There's a lot of talk going around about monopolies, but still every man has a monopoly on the services of one individual—his own.

NOT long ago one of the reporters came in with a set of photographs based upon a local news event.

They were strikingly interesting—but they were such that they doubtless would have been offensive to numerous readers.

They would have been swell in a picture magazine—especially in one of those which grabs circulation by shocking readers and appealing to the morbid.

"Want 'em?" asked the reporter, laconically.

"Nope," we said. "They're interesting, all right, but they're offensive. And I like it here. I don't want to leave."

* * *

After the reporter went away, The Plainsman fell to thinking about why he likes it here. About why he doesn't want to leave, ever—except, of course, on casual vacation jaunts which are restful, broadening and furnish comparisons which nine times out of ten are favorable to the old home town and section.

He found a lot of reasons. Maybe a lot of them are your reasons, too.

THE PLAINSMAN likes Lubbock and the whole South Plains because he likes a place where he's forever seeing a lot of people he knows, most of whom for which he has affection.

Because he likes a part of the country that is on the upgrade; that isn't worn out either in soil, in buildings, or in the attitude of the public toward issues of the day.

Because this town and our section are not hide-bound by senseless precedents or out-moded tradition and an individual can be himself and act himself with worrying about putting up a false front.

Because there is no "society" cluttering up the city and its environs and there's no difficulty in having friends in all economic groups and enjoying them to the fullest; because the richest friend you have is likely to be "as common as an old shoe," and the poorest isn't handicapped for lack of a bulging bank account.

Because people are accepted as people, not as symbols of a family, and where you came from or what your folks did are of little moment as compared with you, yourself.

Because this is largely a "shoe-string" country in which there is little entrenched wealth and everybody here is trying to build himself up and knows he can do that easier if the other fellow is built up along with him.

Because this is one of the best areas in which to bring up children and keep a homey home.

Because you can get practically anything here that you can get anywhere else, save, perhaps, those things you're probably better off without.

Because the climate, all in all, is as good as you can find anywhere else; because the future beckons instead of frowns; because nearly everybody has an "even break" with everybody else and last, but not least, because:

It's home!

For a guy who came out here just under 15 years ago expecting to stick around until he could move on to that newsman's paradise, El Paso, and who expected to spend at least 10 years "barn-storming" the big papers of the country, The Plainsman can find, in the twinkling of an eye, plenty of reason to be glad he never got away.

And doubtless one of the reasons that this city and section are pushing ahead like they are is because practically everybody who's here is likewise happy to stay!

YOU can't discount our agricultural empire and our own lush wholesale and retail kingdom, and who wants to?

We can't overlook the educational and many other advantages which we have at our beck and call.

But supporting all these possessions and all these attributes—natural and man-made—the greatest thing behind this country as a place to live is the type of people who make it up.

After all, people make living either good, bad or indifferent and the people here-abouts are the country's greatest asset.

They make it a good place for all of us to live.

Science now knows about everything except why a cigaret changes its odor when it burns up on the ashtray.

* * *

That Man on Avenue Q says nations are like the unhappily married. After a certain number of insults they get to where they don't give a darn!

If people go to church to worship, how is it they kick when the preacher doesn't furnish amusement?

* * *

JOHN ROULSTON, of 1914 Avenue J, has a garden of about 40 by 60 feet and he'll argue with you all day that it's a swell investment.

And if you're not careful, he'll prove he's right!

John gives his garden an average of two hours per day and that repays him handsomely. Not only does the plot give him all kinds of vegetables for summer eating; it also gives him enough to can up for winter time.

And it furnishes, in addition to the more prosaic yields, strawberries by the basketful!

Just by way of proof, John brought in a couple of squashes the like of which The Plainsman has never seen before.

A special type, they are called New Guinea squashes and John says they have every type he's ever eaten pushed plumb off'n the board.

These lines are being printed before we've had ours yet, but if they taste anything like they look, they'll be oakie-doakie!

DURING the recent gubernatorial campaign it was rumored around the state that Karl Crowley would go back to his job as solicitor for the Postoffice department if he failed to win at the hands of Texas voters.

Since the first primaries, in which Texas voters coldly turned thumbs down on Bro. Crowley in spite of the fact that he offered to save them from out-of-state monopolies, the rumor has bobbed up in print.

There's considerable talk about it down-state.

Should Crowley be reappointed as Jim Farley's lawyer, U. S. Senators Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard will be right in the middle of a pretty hot spot when Crowley's name comes up for senate confirmation. If they don't oppose Crowley they'll be virtually approving his use of Senator Kenneth McKellar's mailing frank in seeking state office in Texas. And Senator Sheppard is chairman of a committee that is supported to play hob with such unorthodoxies!

When Crowley was solicitor of the postoffice department, one of his duties was to see that franking privileges, whereby senators and representatives are allowed to use the mails free for official business, were not misused.

As soon as he began running for governor, Texas was deluged with pro-Crowley campaign material, sent through the mails without stamps, under the frank of a senator from Tennessee, Crowley's home state.

If "Big Jim" does try to take Bro. Crowley back, some fur likely will fly in the senate.

And it should. Sending out campaign material under congressional frank smells to high heaven—especially when done to aid the personal political ambitions of a man whose former duty it was to protect the frank.

Interne Trouble

BY ELINORE C. STONE
Copyright, 1938, NEA Service

CAST OF CHARACTERS

TRAN DEARBORN—heroine, student nurse. She ran into love and trouble when she met.

DR. BOB BENCHLEY — hero, handsome young interne. He had trouble, too, keeping up with brilliant

DR. STEPHEN SARGENT—head surgeon. Dr. Sargent's problem was something else again.

Yesterday: In a moment of hilarity, Tran prepares a farcical nursing care report concerning Dr. Sargent. Everything turns black before her when he begins to read it. How did he get it

CHAPTER X

Tran was never to forget the horror of the 10 minutes that followed.

In one sickening flash she had realized how this thing had come to happen to her. The morning before Beula Tagg had volunteered to carry her nursing care report to Miss Armstrong's office. And on her desk with it had lain, forgotten, that farcical report on the case of the mythical "X."

Now Dr. Sargent's clear, fastidious voice was reading it to the end, smoothly, gravely, inexorably, while Tran sat rigid, biting her cheeks, her eyes growing bigger and brighter and wilder in her pallid face. When he had finished, his cool blue eyes swept the faces of the class, resting for an impartial fraction of a second on Tran's before passing on.

"As I believe I told you," he said, "the case is not one that has come under my professional care—nor, so far as I know"—he caughed—"under that of any of our staff. Therefore I may perhaps be permitted more frankness in my comments than I might otherwise use in discussing the medical handling of a case."

The class, fully aware that there was more to this than met the naked eye, exchanged furtive glances. Tran measured the distance to the door, but sat still from sheer motor paralysis.

"I read it to you," Dr. Sargent was going blandly on, "because of several unusual aspects of the report. The first"—his lips twitched slightly—"is the scrupulous reference to the text with which the nurse interlards her remarks and explains her own reactions. The second is the amazing fact that after 10 years of observation, the case was still lacking a diagnosis, when any police court magistrate should have known at a glance that the patient was a mental case—a schizothyme with a marked Napoleonic complex, hovering dangerously near dementia praecox. That this was the nurse's own opinion is obvious although, quite properly, she does not say so. . . . 'A good nurse does not offer opinions' (Nursing Text)" —again he broke off to cough into his handkerchief; then finished hastily, "the exact page, I regret to say, I do not recall."

He's leading up to something diabolical, Tran thought. Oh, well, if he turned me across his knee and spanked me, it wouldn't be any more than I asked for.

"Another strange aspect," Top Sarge was going on, "is that so carefully documented a report should say no more about treatment than that the nurse repeatedly attempted to soothe the patient with 'little thoughtful attentions,' I believe was the phrase." He affected to refer to the manuscript for corroboration. "Of course, mental illness is outside the scope of your present experience, but I wonder if anyone happens to know what treatments are most commonly used in such cases. . . . Miss—er—" he glanced at the class list before him as if selecting a name.

But Tran knew before he spoke whose name he was going to call. "Miss Dearborn?" he said. "Perhaps you could tell me?"

So he was going to play cat and mouse with her, was he?

Tran cleared her throat, but knew that if she cleared it a dozen times her voice would not come. Before he could pursue the matter further, however, the bell mercifully ended the period.

Tran would have scurried out of the room without a backward glance, but Dr. Sargent called, "Oh, Miss Dearborn — just a minute, please."

She had to stand, waiting for the others to file out before she could approach the desk. When she did, and ventured to look up, he was holding out her ill-starred manuscript. His eyes, meeting hers, said as plainly as words, "Of course. It couldn't have been anyone but little feather-brain."

"Have you ever thought," he asked aloud, "that fiction writing might be more exciting than nursing?"

For a moment Tran's heart stood still at the ominous implication of his words.

"I thought you might like to destroy the evidence," he went on, putting the paper into her hands.

Why, Tran thought, but — he's really laughing—inside. He doesn't mind at all. . . . Oh, I'll never be afraid of him again.

"Oh, Dr. Sargent," she choked out, "I,— you — oh, I think you're simply swell!"

Then she did flee because all of a sudden she realized that she adored Dr. Stephen Sargent.

Of course she knew he would probably never even give her another thought. But that didn't really matter. All that mattered was that he should be alive and here where she could see him sometimes, striding around with that look he had of knowing that the world was his oyster, and exactly what he was going to do about it. . . . Only that now everything would be entirely different, because she understood now that he knew how to laugh, and how to be kind. . . . And some time she was going to work with him.

Naturally, when one might contemplate a radiant god — even if only from a remote distance — one had no time for lesser beings like the Bob Benchleys of the world.

The situation might easily have proved difficult when, early in Tran's second year, she was assigned to duty in Emergency. For young Dr. Benchley had been retained at Saint Vincent's as assistant to Dr. Sargent; and it was he who was most frequently called to Emergency in an advisory capacity when the internes found themselves beyond their professional depths.

But young Dr. Benchleey seemed to have retired with definite finality to distances of his own. He was brisk, businesslike, and impersonally courteous when their paths crossed. No recollection, apparently, of the days when they two had clung together, rocking in silent mirth, or danced surreptitiously in a deserted service room to the music of a hurdy-gurdy outside — or even of the day he had begged her to marry him.

Tran told herself that this was all very gratifying and exactly as she would have chosen; but she could not help feeling a little piqued by his punctilliously professional manner. . . . Oh, well, she supposed she was just one of those girls that men kissed and forgot.

At any rate, it made it much simpler to follow the Spartan road of self-discipline to which she had dedicated herself.

It would be gratifying to record that Tran developed overnight into a perfectly controlled young nurse who met all situations with assured poise. But of course, since she was Tran, that could not be true. The occasions were still too frequent on which she had to bite her cheeks to keep from gigging. After helping at her first operation she was humiliatingly sick at her stomach. And there was the historic day when—unable to find a seat in the operating amphi-theater where Dr. Sargent was to do something very daring in the way of laparotomies—she climbed to a point of vantage in a tree that gave on one of the windows. It should have been an instructive afternoon but for the fact that Tran placed too much confidence in a rotten limb, and awoke to find herself in bed with two broken ribs, which, it seemed, Dr. Benchley had already

A GIVEN LESSON FOR US ALL

The last desire anyone could have would be to add to the burden of sorrow of those bereaved by recent automobile accidents in Lubbock county and nearby. They have suffered enough and the hearts of all go out to them.

Therefore, it is without slightest intent or wish to attempt to place the blame for any of those tragedies, or to take to task any of those who may have figured in them that one can point to the obvious fact there have been too many such things; that seven persons killed in our county within less than 30 days is a terrifying toll.

The moral is obvious. The accidents should tend to remind every motorist that unless he is one in perhaps a thousand, he is himself inclined to become careless; that the penalty of anything other than eternal vigilance upon the highways well may be death.

They should remind, too, that we now are in the "dangerous season" so far as the highways are concerned. More traffic moves upon them at this period than any other time of the year. The result is increased danger, as has been demonstrated so terrifyingly in our own community.

Every motorist will be looking most of all to his own well-being if he thinks of them each time he takes the wheel of his car and resolves to guard alertly against such things happening to him.

Today's Thought

The ways of the Lord are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall therein.—Hosea 14:9.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

(Bill Porter, who conducts "Movie Scrapbook" for NEA Service newspapers and is assistant to Paul Harrison in Hollywood, is writing the Hollywood column while Harrison is on vacation.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—This is about the only place in the world where a person is applauded for pulling a fast one. Several of the top ranking stars in the business got their starts from lies and connivances which are merely amusing now that the misrepresentations have been made good.

Nobody cares, for example, that the Norwegian, Sigrid Gurie, was born in Flatbush, or that she has been tilting in court with a previously unmentioned husband, Sam Goldwyn and a few million fans still think she's a good actress.

A Dubuque, Ia., girl named Evelyn Kies wasn't able to crash the movies until she followed the advice of Bob Cummings. At his suggestion she went to England for six months, developed an accent, changed her name, and returned to Hollywood as Margaret Lindsay, an English actress.

She received a part in the "All-British" cast of "Cavalcade." The reason Bob Cummings was so sure the trick would work was that he had done precisely the same thing a few years before.

More Adepts At Little-White-Lying

Claudette Colbert fibbed her way into her first leading role by saying she had three years' stage experience. Then, later, when her career wasn't moving fast enough, she approached Producer Al Woods, broad-a'd him, and said she was from the Isle of Jersey. Overjoyed at seeing someone from his home land, Woods gave her a job which led to her success on Broadway and then to Hollywood.

Gary Cooper received his contract with Sam Goldwyn by filling out a questionnaire on which he listed as experience, "Male lead in 'Lightning Justice'." That wasn't entirely untrue, because as an extra in that picture he had led a dog across the stage on a leash.

When Katharine Hepburn first came to Hollywood she drove about in a Hispano-Suiza and posed as a $16,000,000 heiress. A curious reporter later discovered that there was no fortune and that she rented the car by the day.

While clerking in a department store, Greta Garbo told about her experience as a millinery model and received a part in an advertising film. The film paved the way for her first dramatic role.

Mariam Hopkins Gets Caught Short

Miriam Hopkins walked up to a man who was rehearsing the chorus for the "Music Box Revue" and asked, "Has Mr. Hassard Short been around? He told me to be sure to see him about a job."

"That's funny," the man replied, "I'm Hassard Short." But she got the job.

When Marsha Hunt arrived in Hollywood she was met at the train by a photographer friend of hers. He shot several pictures of her which were passed around to the studios and newspapers, with the story that the wealthy Miss Hunt was visiting Hollywood, but that she wouldn't even consider a movie offer. Studios began to clamor for her, and she was finally signed by Paramount.

Ruth Rogers, Paramount player, came to Hollywood and spread the story around that she had been at the State Theater in Seattle for over two years.

What Miss Rogers failed to mention was that her connection with that theater had been in the capacity of ticket seller.

A Little Naughty But Effective

Loretta Young once answered a telephone call from Mervyn Leroy, who wanted her sister, Polly Ann, for a role in "Naughty but Nice." Her sister was out of town, so Loretta went instead, got by the studio gates by saying "I'm Miss Young," and convinced Leroy she could pinch-hit for her sister. She was then 13.

For years Charlie Judels hoaxed his way into almost every role he played.

His specialty is dialect. He would pose as a German, Frenchman, Italian, Greek, Spaniard, or Swede, and give convincing demonstrations of his ability to speak the language.

It was years before anyone discovered that he couldn't speak any of those languages, but spouts a kind of double talk with an accent. He's still in demand.

When Doctors Disagree

Political Wiseacres See Garner And Farley, Hoover And Wheeler As Opponents In 1940

BY ROONEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Mr. Herbert Hoover's decision to make a series of political speeches in September coincides with a wave of optimism among friends of the former President who hope to make him the Republican nominee in 1940.

Dutcher

These friends find it rather easy to tick off other G. O. P. aspirants one by one, winding up with the conclusion that Hoover looks stronger each month and that the trend of events and Republican political settlement definitely favor him.

Chiefly they are encouraged by the fact that the party and its constituents indicate a revived trend toward conservative candidates and conservative policies. They point to the Republican primary in Pennsylvania where the relatively liberal Gifford Pinchot was badly beaten by the conservative candidate for governor, Judge Arthur H. James, and that in Iowa, where arch-conservative Lester Dickinson was nominated for senator.

If public announcement that Hoover's decision to take the stump was in response to increasing pressure from the Republican rank and file—which was said to want him to unify the party and counteract President Roosevelt's pre-election swing—is to be taken at face value, the opinion of Hoover's friends would seem to some extent well-grounded.

Hoover will be out in front as the G. O. P's big spokesman, unless other party presidential aspirants can figure out how to dim his light. If no other Republican shows up as an oratorical big gun in the congressional campaign, Hoover is sure to receive much credit for any large Republican gains achieved in the November elections.

Hoover And Wheeler?

Some of Mr. Hoover's friends even are beginning to suggest that Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, would make an ideal running mate for the sage of Palo Alto.

It doesn't appear that any of them have actually summoned up the courage to suggest this idea about the vice-presidency to Wheeler himself. Most of those who know Wheeler doubt whether he considers himself anything less than presidential timber—and many Republicans as well as many anti-Roosevelt Democrats feel the same way about it.

Garner And Farley?

Both friends and foes of Vice-President John Nance Garner have arrived at the conclusion that the salty, white-haired Texan is hankering to succeed Roosevelt in the White House. This story first stemmed from senators friendly to Garner who are wont to gather in late afternoons at Garner's office when Congress is in session. The Vice-President is so chary about talking to newspaper men that these senators are about the only source of information as to what he really thinks.

More recently the belief began to spread around the White House and upper reaches of the New Deal that Garner had been bitten by the presidential tick. And now friends of RFC Chairman Jesse Jones, who was bitten long ago—and hard—profess to see unmistakable signs of it and are expressing themselves right sourly.

Current talk of a Garner-Farley ticket emanates from the Garner side of the fence and makes no hit at all with the friends of Farley, although the postmaster generals and the Vice President are on very good terms.

Politics In Georgia

Anti-New Deal Democrats in Georgia are beginning to express doubt as to whether Senator Walter F. George or former Gov. Eugene Talmadge, campaigning against the senator, has the best chance to beat U. S. District Attorney Lawrence Camp, New Deal candidate for George's seat.

On the ground that strong presidential endorsement of Camp as against George may cause nomination of Talmadge, George supporters have sent overtures to Roosevelt urging him to abandon his plans for anti-George, pro-Camp speeches in the state. Thus far the answer has been that a Roosevelt endorsement of Camp is much more likely to nominate Camp than the anti-New Deal Talmadge. Georgia New Dealers are beginning to see visions of a Camp landslide.

The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(Letters from readers are invited and welcomed. They will be published gladly whenever they do not violate the laws of libel, or the rules of decency, and when they do not exceed 300 words in length. Letters originating individuals, firms or organizations must be signed by the true name of their writers.

WHERE TO GET THE MONEY

Dear Plainsman: In-as-much as the people of Texas have spoken and shown by their choice that organized politics in Texas must go; and all ideas of the politicians were exhausted trying to pay a few dollars to the aged of our great state, and Mr. O'Daniel says why not pay the old folks $30 a month, why not? And why not get the money through a transaction tax of one cent on each transaction, whether it is five cents or five dollars, some will say yes and the big moneyed man can buy his big lots and just pay a penny and the little man would be forced to pay the most taxes.

Let's test this, if the big man bought in big lots he would put in circulation idle cash, put men to work and would help business and now with money will put more than they have to in circulation so they would rather pay the one cent transaction tax than speed up circulation. We will take for example one cent on each sale paid by the purchaser in say one big grocery store in Lubbock, the sales amount close to one thousand sales each day and every three days would pay one aged citizen his $30 per month; or one store would pay 10 old people $30 per month and each sale they transacted would cost them one cent and as there is in Lubbock some 30 grocery stores and other stores that make that many sales a day that would be three hundred aged of Lubbock could be paid $30 each month and each would pay a dollar tax at least.

Why not give Mr. O'Daniel the boost that one cent transaction tax will pay; say put it on groceries, dry goods, hardware, drugs, beauty parlor's, and a hundred other places where one cent would not be noted and the state income in Lubbock alone would be in 12 months $2,000,000. To the state of Texas or Lubbock county would be about four billion of the 44 million the cheap politicians are raving about, 44 counties in Texas to pay the old age $30 per month, 210 counties to pay other state expenses.

Why not the cheap way of financing the state?

J. W. Rauleston.

POETRY ON O'DANIEL

Dear Plainsman: Since poetry is in order I am mailing this one I wrote during one of my moments of enthusiasm over O'Daniels sudden victory.

In "Beautiful Texas" alone,
A governors election was won
In a plain, straightforward race,
Through sheerest manly grace,
By an early adopted son.

O'Daniel's supporters are glad—
Though all his opponents are sad—
They tried, and loudly they sighed,
'Til at last they all grew wild-eyed
At all of the votes he had.

May God's hand guide him through
His chosen task to do;
And co-operation flow
Down where Blue Bonnets grow,
Be the prayer of each Texan true.

Mrs. M. A. Grant,
Slaton.

...et and strapped.

When she tried to thank him, he snapped with a brief return to the Bob Benchley Tran used to know. "Oh, Agility, if you would only stop being such a precious little idiot. If—"

Then he turned crimson, broke off abruptly, gathered up the stethoscope he had been using, and stalked out of the room.

But that hadn't meant anything. After all, it appeared; for a day or later Beula Tagg told Tran that everyone in the hospital was talking about Dr. Benchley's affair with Mrs. Maitland, a pretty young widow who had been a patient.

Not that it mattered, for three times in the last month Tran had been alone with a patient when Dr. Sargent came in. Once he had even smiled at her and said, "Thanks. That helps a lot," when she had moved a light to a better position for him without being asked.

It was one stormy afternoon late in Tran's second year that the terrible thing happened which threatened to change Tran's world completely.

19—Livestock For Sale

Lubbock Auction And Commission Co.
AUCTION SALE EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

LUBBOCK AUCTION AND COMMISSION COMPANY'S cattle market was bristling in action and all buyers were quick on the trigger and eager, which makes the local basis attractive for the coming week.
Trading was featured by a good demand and a fast session in the stocker division.
The market, in both sales this week, held strong to 25 cents higher.
Not enough cattle were on hand to meet the demands of our buyers and we are looking to you—our good customers—to keep us supplied with enough cattle to satisfy our many buyers.
If you have no way to get your stock in, wire or phone us for trucking service.
We are bonded for your protection!

Loyalists Are Said Gaining

(By The Associated Press)

HENDAYE, France, (At The Spanish Frontier), July 29 — Dispatches from Barcelona said today that Spanish government militiamen were advancing north and south of the insurgent headquarters city of Gandesa on a circular front extending 15 miles.

The line was said by government observers to reach from north of Villa Alba de Los Arcos, a secondary communications center five miles from Gandesa, through the eastern outksirts of Gandesa, to Bot, an insurgent communications junction 12 miles to the southwest.

Started Surprise Offensive

This front roughly paralleled the Ebro river and the line, 14 miles to the rear, from which Colonel Enrique Lister's "people's army" of 60,000 men started its surprise offensive on Monday.

Insurgents said only 20,000 government troops had been able to cross the broad Ebro and that half that number had been either killed or captured in fighting since Monday.

Are Crossing Stream

Advices from Barcelona, on the other hand, insisted that 75,000 government soldiers crossed the stream the first few days and that "countless others" still were crossing on pontoon bidges, heavily guarded.

Government estimates put the number of prisoners taken at 5,000 to 6,000. The surprised insurgents were said to have abandoned so much war material that the rout resembled that of Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Italian forces on the Guadalajara-Madrid front in March, 1937.

Insurgents Open All Dams On River To Destroy Spans

HENDAYE, France, (At The Spanish Frontier), July 29 (AP)—Spanish insurgents opened all dams today in the Ebro river and its tributaries in an attempt to sweep away bridges behind the government's advancing armies on the Cathalan front.

An insurgent news agency report from St. Jean-de-Luz, France, said Generalissimo Francisco Franco's high command had released a swirling nine-foot-high wave of floorwater from dams high in the Pyrenees mountains.

It said the torrents "made the river impassable" in 30 minutes.

Government advices admitted the Ebro had risen noticeabley, presumably from the opening of dams. They denied, however, that their bridges had been swept away and insisted their communications lines were intact.

Insurgents said they had reached all the dams of the Nougera-Pallaresa river and the Serge hydro-electric system above the government's feeder lines across the Ebro.

Youth "Cools" In Jail After Stealing Overcoat When Mercury Was In 90's

Thursday's thermometer registered more than 90 degrees but Derry Wise swiped an overcoat!

The young collegian, approximately 21, will "cool" 38 days for the offense.

A complaint filed in the court of S. E. McMillan, justice of peace, charged the man, who had two years college work in a New Mexico junior college, with taking the coat from C. A. Kathman, and he pleaded guilty, drawing an assessment of $100 and court costs.

Wise said his home was at Clovis.

WALL STREET REPORTS
NEW YORK, July 29 (AP) — A further promising stock market rally bogged down on the home-stretch of today's session and forenoon gains running to a point or more were substantially reduced or turned into losses of as much.

Late selling in the steels darkened the market horizon and even the buoyant motors of the morning slipped with the rest of the list in the final hour.

Transfers approximated 1,250,000 shares.

Prominent in the backward column were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Dupont, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Deere U. S. Rubber, Oliver Farm, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Consolidated Edison, North American, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Yellow Truck and Allis Chambers.

After the convention is over, said Ellis, the county Democratic executive committee will go into session to canvass returns of last Saturday's primary.

"Especially I hope," he said, "attendance at the convention is big and representative of the various voting precincts. The public is invited to attend, and we hope for a large crowd."

Ellis said the election Saturday had been conducted with a total expense approximating $1,100, "including most of the supplies needed in the second primary." Those who assisted in handling the election received $3 each and 30 cents an hour overtime. The three largest boxes required expenses of from $85 to $90 each, Ellis said.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Next Before Committee

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) — The senate civil liberties committee turned its attention today to the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, second large independent steel firm to be investigated concerning strike activities.

The first witnesses summoned before Chairman LaFollette (Pro-Wis) were Frank Burnell, president of Sheet and Tube; J. C. Argetsinger, vice president and general counsel, and R. M. Welch, director of industrial relations.

Senate investigators endeavored to add to the information gathered in the last two weeks about labor espionage procedure in the "little steel" strike last year.

Preliminary investigation of Republic Steel corporation was completed yesterday.

Freight Reductions Ordered On Cotton Sent To New Orleans

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) — The Interstate Commerce commission ordered today freight reductions approximating 25 per cent on cotton shipped from Oklahoma to New Orleans.

The New Orleans cotton exchange and other port and commercial interests of New Orleans had complained that the old rates were too high.

The effect of today's order, officials said, will be to give New Orleans rates approximateing 75 per cent of the any-quantity rates. The New Orleans interests had asked for a 70 per cent rate, the same as now is in effect to southern mill points.

Held As Suspect

Arrested in Oakland, Calif., as a suspect in a five-year-old New Orleans torture slaying, Myrtle Barnes, above, 35-year-old tavern operator, told police she was "glad the suspense was over." She said two men forced her into the basement of the restaurant where Joseph Famularo was stabbed to death in 1933 and then had made her drive them to Pittsburgh, but she insisted she knew nothing of the actual slaying.

Two Soldiers

the surface about 250 yards down stream. We never saw Buck again. His innertube came back and we both knew the river had gotten him."

Ryberg and Hansen made their way to a ledge 15 feet above the water.

Supplies Were Gone

When they took stock the only supplies they had were a half box of raisins, a knife, and a small pencil.

Sunday afternoon, with the water rising almost to the end of their perchy, they dried off the innertube Buckman had used, and wrote a message on it in pencil:

"stuck 500 yards entrance. Buck gone. Bring lots of rope."

One Chance In Thousand

"We figured there was one chance in a thousand of some guy finding that tube," Ryberg said.

John McGovern, David Wise, and Wise's father, J. C. Wise, chanced by accident on a Mexican who lived in the river bottom below the canyon's end. He gave them the tube which had been picked up by his son.

By prearrangement the three had planned to meet the voyagers when they came out of the canyon. They immediately started a search.

Heard A Whistle

Tuesday afternoon as the two lay under a shelter built of reeds to keep out the baking heat, the last of their small store of raisins eaten, they heard a whistle.

By then the ledge which had been 40 feet wide and 200 feet long had narrowed to 15 feet in width and 16 in length.

"We ran to the edge, took off our shirts, and yelled," Ryberg said.

David Wise, standing at the top of the cliff, saw them. Food and blankets were lowered on ropes.

Heavy Rope Lowered

On Wednesday noon the searchers were supplemented by soldiers from Fort D. A. Russell, who lowered a heavy rope, but had difficultv in working it into position, and after several hours of attempts, abandoned efforts for the night.

Yesterday a block and tackle was rigged, and Hansen pulled up in the morning, the ascent requiring about an hour. Ryberg was taken up during the afternoon.

Scanty communications facilities from the section delayed news of the rescue for several hours. The first report that the two had been taken from the canyon came from an army plane which scanned the gorge yesterday for the body of Buckman.

Sure Companion Dead

The plane reported it had not sighted either the men on the ledge or the rescue party, nor had it found any trace of Buckman.

Ryberg was sure, he said, that Buckman was dead.

When the three entered the river they were fully clothed, and wore heavy boots and army hats.

They made the attempt at the particular time, because they wanted to catch the stream as it rose, Ryberg explained. They drove Saturday with David Wise and Mcgovern to Lajitas, above the canyon mouth. Then the latter returned downstream to await them.

Plans Second Attempt

Ryberg said he planned to make the attempt again.

"You can bet your boots that when I get out of the army, and that will be in about three months, I'm going back and swim that canyon," he said.

Residents of the Big Bend country said walls of the canyon, except for the place where the two found safety, were almost smooth.

Persons who had navigated the canyon at low water, said a successful attempt at flood stage was impossible.

OUTLINE PICNIC PLANS

Plans for an ABC picnic Tuesday night, at Buffalo lakes, postponed last week, were outlined by Harold Humphries at the luncheon today in the Hilton hotel. Miss Etolle McLeod played two piano numbers. Vice-President J. E. Maisch presides. Tom Atkinson and Ross Hanna were co-chairmen.

'Shopping' For Funds Is Out

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 29. — Three administration leaders who sometimes disagree over questions of policy clamped down cooperatively today on "shopping" methods used to obtain federal public works and relief funds.

The three are Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; Secretary Harold Ickes, chief of the Public Works administration, and WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

Discharged By Ickes

Their cooperative endeavor to prevent cities and towns from "shopping back and forth" for the best bargain in federal allotments was disclosed by Ickes yesterday after a dispute with Mayor Maurice J. Tobin of Boston.

Tobin declined to accept a $1,125,000 PWA grant for a new city hall, requested by his predecessor. Instead of building a new hall, Tobin said, he would get the WPA to do over the old one and thus save the taxpayers cash.

Announced Rejection

He announced rejection of the grant after having ignored, Ickes said, two inquiries as to whether the city still wanted the money. This, the PWA chief declared, was discourteous, and he indicated there would be no WPA money for the city hall.

"Harry Hopkins and I don't allow people to shop back and forth," Ickes said. "And neither do Jesse Jones and I, if anybody went to Harry Hopkins for money and he discovered that a PWA grant had been withdrawn, he would turn them down."

Flood Control

managed by Clyde McDonough, close friend of Secretary Ickes, and intimated the planters would be satisfied only with an independent investigation of the handling of the flood waters.

McDonough's official title is general manager of the Lower Colorado River authority.

More Crops Ruined

Even as the men met and talked here, the river, its damage here done, started dropping, and the flood roared on toward Wharton, 48 miles below, in flatter country, where lowlands were fast being inundated and crops ruined.

Staunch supporters of a plan to erect levees along the river to prevent further floods threw strength behind the group who will go to Austin.

Should Limit Storage

They maintained that a reservoir above Buchanan dam should not be allowed to be more than half filled at any time.

Hydro-electric power partisans, they said, claim the reservoir must be nearly full to generate power, which is expected to be sold and the revenues used to pay the federal government a $10,500,000 lien against the dam.

State Senator L. J. Sulak of La Grange said he planned to introduce a bill in the Texas legislature requiring dam authorities to keep reservoir waters down to 60 per cent of the project's capacity.

Gov. Allred Announces He Will Attend Conference

AUSTIN, July 28 (AP) — Governor James V. Allred announced today he would be here tomorrow morning for the mass meeting of Lower Colorado river valley farmers to discuss responsibility for this week's disastrous flood.

Other high officials who may attend the session were Senator Tom Connally and Congressmen J. J. Mansfield of Columbus and Lyndon Johnson of Austin.

Brazilian Bandit

It was said to be his particular delight to take over a village and force the leading citizens to doff their clothes and dance before him.

He had always a supply of women in his hideouts, and authorities said many of them bore him children, to fill the ranks of his bandit army.

Many are the tales of fantastic orgies by the bandits after a profitable theft.

Their tactics were to gallop swiftly into remote towns or attack small clusters of houses, to loot, violate, mutilate, kill and flee.

Many of his victims never told of their terror. If they went to police, Lampeao always warned, "I shall return."

Additional Troops Called Out To Quell Rioting In Burma

RANGOON, Burma, July 29 (AP) —British military authorities called out additional troops today to restore order in this sacred city where 46 have died the past four days in fighting between Burmese Buddhists and Indian Moslems.

During the night knives flashed, stones flew and sticks were wielded from the darkness as British troops patrolled the streets in armored cars, set up machine-guns and barricaded trouble areas.

Forty were killed yesterday in the biggest riot of the past several days, when Buddhists undertook to avenge what they held to be an insult to their faith in a new Moslem book.

Water Meeting

laws and W. A. Cunningham of the University of Texas' Bureau of Industrial Chemistry offered the services of the bureau to all cities facing water problems.

The rancher's problem is furnishing water for cattle was outlined by R. L. Purifoy of Texas A. and I. college at Kingsville who asserted water was "more important" than striking oil on ranchlands in that area.

"Surface water cannot economically be made available," Purifoy said, "and well water constitutes the primary source for cattle." He gave figures showing the necessity of subsurface conservation for stock-raising.

Sulphur Mines Blamed

Lack of water due to development of sulphur mines in Brazoria county was described by Cleveland Davis of that county.

"A sulphur mine now is using 1,800 gallons of well water a minute and it has dried up the artesian wells in the farming area," he said.

Admitting the end of resources of Big Spring in obtaining underground water for domestic purposes, City Manager E. V. Spence of the Howard county seat revealed plans for a $1,200,000 surface development 40 miles from there.

He said 72 wells drilled there in recent years had proved ground water no longer can be a reliance; that the supply steadily is diminishing.

Supplies Diminishing

El Paso and Houston representatives also said ground supplies once thought inexhaustible were diminishing seriously and no longer were adequate.

From Lubbock at the conference were Deans O. V. Adams and A. H. Leidigh of Texas Technological college, Marlin R. Smith, jr., city engineer, and H. I. Keifer, Evening Journal staff writer. Captain Holbrook of Plainview also attended.

Gov. James V. Allred said he plans to visit Lubbock en route to or from Amarillo, when he attends a Will Rogers celebration Aug. 15.

The Lubbock party will leave Austin late Saturday.

Chinese Is Said To Have Had Large Sum Of Money Along

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 29 (AP) —Friends of Wah Sun Choy, a passenger aboard the missing Hawaii Clipper, said today the restaurant operator was reported to have in his possession "a large sum of money" to be turned over to the Chinese nationalist cause.

Wichita Falls Man Was Officer On Clipper

WICHITA FALLS, July 29. (AP)—A crash during a regular passenger run of the Pan-American Clippers is something that is just almost impossible, according to Mark Walker of Wichita Falls, first officer of the missing Hawaii Clipper.

During a recent visit to the city, Walker expressed utmost confidence in the safety of the giant flying boats, pointing out that in the history of the company a plane carrying passengers had never met with a major catastrophe.

Walker is the son of M. D. Walker of Wichita Falls, a building contractor. He first joined the flying forces of Pan-American airways in 1935, at that time being assigned to flights between Miami and Rio de Janeiro.

GOP Publishes Quotations Of FDR For Party Attacks

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—The Republican national committee has published a booklet of quotations by President Roosevelt in which it charged that "intellectual dishonesty permeates the entire fabric of the president's philosophy."

The quotations were taken, the committee said, from the president's published "public papers" and from newspaper accounts of his utterances.

The booklet is being distributed among party speakers and others for use in the Republican attack on the Democratic party in this fall's general election campaigns.

Revolt Flares On Greek Isle

(By The Associated Press)

ATHENS, Greece, July 29 — Insurgents seized the capital city of Canea, on the island of Crete, in a revolt against the Greek government today.

Greece's dictator, General John Metaxas, who has been suppressing opposition with stern action, announced that "I am determined to smash the rebellion by every means."

REVOLT SAID CRUSHED

ATHENS, July 29 (AP) — A revolt against the regime of General John Metaxas, dictator of Greece, apparently was crushed today.

The governor of the island of Crete, where the uprising broke out, cabled Metaxas that order had been restored in Canea, the Crete capital.

All rebel-held government buildings have been reoccupied by authorities, he reported, and the revolutionists have fled.

Garrison Weakened

Four hundred armed men, reported to be sailors, effected the coup by taking advantage of a weakened garrison at Canea. Most of the troops there had been sent to northern Greece to provide vacation reliefs for other garrisons.

Premier Metaxas ordered army, navy and air forces to the island. Communication was suspended, and ships were not permitted to depart for the island.

Last Revolt Crushed

Greece's last revolt, in the spring of 1935, led by the late, former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, was crushed after bloody naval and land engagements.

Venizelos, a native of Crete, started his revolt there. The capital, population about 26,000, is an important port.

Premier Metaxas, who became premier April 28, 1936, established dictatorial powers on August 5 to crush what he said was an attempted communist revolt.

He announced the first of this year that, in a continuing purge, he would use "severity without pity" to crush opposition. He rounded up nearly 100 oppositionists in May.

Relatives Visit; Hadn't Seen Each Other In 40 Years But Lived Not Far Off

It had been 40 years since W. L. Burk and Ed D. Allen, cousins, met—yet they had lived within 250 miles of each other the last 20 years.

This morning Burk and a daughter, Mrs. Mare Satterfield, came to Lubbock on business and broke the habit of the years by visiting the Lubbock man in his county clerk's office.

Burk, who in 17 years has seen oil "come and go" in the most romantic field of all — the Ranger and Breckenridge pools—said the outside public-at-large has made up its mind about Lubbock, expecting to see a clean and rapidly growing town, "but never seems to appreciate through reading what it actually finds when it gets here."

Ed S. Wilson Returns From Attending Father's Funeral

Ed S. Wilson, 1626 19th street, owner of a cleaning and pressing plant here, returned last night from Olney, Ill., where he had been called due to the sudden death of his father, Glenn S. Wilson.

The elder Mr. Wilson, 65, died in the Lenox hotel in St. Louis on July 23. He was in St. Louis for medical treatment for asthma and heart trouble. The funeral was held at Olney, family home for many years, last Tuesday.

Prominent in business and civic circles of Illinois, Mr. Wilson resided in Wichita Falls from 1909 until 1925. While in Texas he operated a 100,000-acre cattle ranch located in Archer county.

Active in Illinois Democratic circles, Mr. Wilson was the son of the late Ed S. Wilson who, near the turn of the century, was Illinois state treasurer.

Japanese Fliers Are Accused Of Dropping Bombs On Refugees

SHANGHAI, July 29. (AP)—Japanese fliers were accused in Chinese reports today of causing hundreds of civilian deaths during persistent bombardments of the middle Yangtze river region.

Chinese dispatches from Nanchang said Japanese raiders spied 3,000 refugees in the Lushan mountains south of Kiukiang and dropped bombs on them, killing "uncounted hundreds."

Game Conservation Plans Are Studied

KERRVILLE, July 29 (AP) — Thar's deer in them thar hills.

Plentiful signs of the fleet-footed deer and antelope are showing out here, but game conservationists think a little care should be exercised in the big hunt this fall.

A movement has been started to kill the runt deer and let the big ones live. The Texas Wildlife federation at its annual convention heard Tarleton Smith propose the movement but took no official action, although many delegates to the Galveston meeting privately said Smith had hit upon a plan that would vastly improve the deer in West Texas.

Smith, a young biologist stationed here, thinks a three-year moratorium on big deer would improve the quality and breed of Texas deer to such an extent the sturdier stock would be perpetuated through many hard hunts to come.

"Hunters have concentrated on the big deer so much in the past," Smith said, "that the runt deer are getting the top hand on the range.

"Why not concentrate on the less desirable deer for a while and let the big fellows get a chance to improve our stock?" he asked.

Will J. Tucker, executive secretary of the state game, fish and oyster commission, nodded assent at the Galveston convention but did not commite himself on the idea. His organization is powerless to sanction the move except through widespread publicity if Texas deer hunters approve.

Meanwhile the Hill country is expecting thousands of deer hunters this fall.

One Killed, One Injured When Board Falls From Oil Derrick

WICHITA FALLS, July 29. (AP) — A fourble board falling from the top of a derrick in the KMA oil field late Thursday crushed one man to death and critically injured another. J. V. Brashear of Iowa Park was killed.

Lee Tomlinson, also of Iowa Park, was reported near death in a Wichita Falls hospital. Both were members of the crew.

"PANS" HALF DOLLAR

MOUNTAN CITY, Nev. (AP) — While panning for gold here, Louis Butler saw a peculiar looking nugget. It was gold, all right, because it was stamped "California Gold." The object proved to be one of the half dollars minted in 1860.

Going, Going--

But Threatening Rock Never Does Fall Off

THREATENING ROCK
Only Seems To Be Falling

By AP Feature Service

SAYDATOH, N. H., July 29 — The national park service has concluded that Threatening Rock is just a 30,000-ton bluff.

For a thousand years, probably longer, the monolith has been threatening to topple on people. It scared the daylights out of the stolid Indians who dwelt at its base in Pueblo Bonito around the year 1000. It worried the park service for a while—but no more.

Some wanted to tie it in place by cables; others proposed a concrete underpinning. Finally someone scraped out some debris engineers thought might be acting as a wedge between cliff and rock.

Threatening Rock promptly creaked back toward the canyon wall. Then it leaned outward again; then back. The engineers decided it had been doing that for years.

Old T. R. is a sandstone slab about 100 feet square and 30 feet through.

If Threatening Rock should fall, it would ruin the ruins of Pueblo Bonito—and maybe a few anthropologists. But park service officials calculate it won't fall for at least a thousand years.
