Inspections Not Satisfactory Will Result In Summons For Driver

The City of Wellington will cooperate with the state authorities in observing a safety week in Wellington from July 22 through July 27. O. K. Huddleston, state highway patrolman, was in Wellington this week and asked the cooperation of all local officials in making the week effective.

In connection with the campaign, Mr. Huddleston will be here on July 24 with six patrolmen and in co-operation with local officers will establish a safety lane. The Dodsonville Water Works project came to a temporary halt this week when the well turned out to contain "hard" water.

The small test well showed soft water and the large well, which was drilled about 10 feet from the test location, surprised the drillers when they hit hard water at 52 feet. Samples of the water have been sent to the state department and it is feared that a new well will have to be started.

Last week the local fans saw the Gassers win a double-header from Shamrock in which the Irishmen failed to score. City Teachers Get 10 Per Cent Salary Raise

Board Increases Salaries From $1.50 State Allotment Increase

Bonus Possible

Board Employs Teacher And Selects Equalization Board

Voting to raise all teachers' salaries by a margin of 10 per cent, members of the Wellington Independent School Board met Monday night. The general raise in salaries in the Wellington Schools will amount to around $2,900 and comes from the additional apportionment allowed by the state.

The additional raise in salaries is also subject to a bonus for the teachers, depending upon the payment of high school tuition and state funds. The bonus will be optional with the board, but since the state requires that the apportionment funds be applied on salaries an increase of another 10 per cent is possible in the form of bonus payments if the state apportionment is paid in full.

Topping Starts On Streets

Bura Handley started Tuesday on the first topping work in the City of Wellington, which when completed will provide the town with over 2 and one-half miles of additional hard surfaced streets. The road crew completed slightly over one block in the first day on the first application, but Mr. Handley estimates that they will be able to squirt between two and three blocks a day after the work is well under way.

Have Good Base

The first coating consists of one layer of asphalt on which medium sized gravel is spread. After this has been swept and rolled it will be followed by another coating of asphalt and a second coat of much finer gravel, which will work down between the larger stones and will provide a permanent binding. Although the result of the topping is yet to be seen, highway experts have pronounced the base for the streets which has been down for several months to be one of the finest in this section.

Why buy your Hosiery from Peddlers ?

COMPARE VALUES before you "pay down that small deposit" to the silver tongued salesman---who knows his stuff.

DO YOU KNOW that in most instances the price you pay for hosiery bought at your front or back door is more by the single pair or by the box---than your own merchant would ask you?

You Are Told In a Very Convincing Manner by these peddlers that you are saving on the purchase price of these hose because they come Direct-from-the-Mill-to-you--thus saving you the wholesalers and retailers profit--and in some cases you are led to believe there are only two steps from the Growers-to-you.

But these Peddlers OMIT telling you of These Facts which are NOT shown in the "cleverly prepared chart" but which Are Very Decidedly a part of Direct Selling Organization Expense.

THE SALESMAN is paid his profit from 15 per cent to 50 per cent which as a rule is the initial deposit on your order,---in addition to this deposit if he averages a certain number of sales he is given a bonus on his earnings of 10 per cent to 25 per cent all of which the customer pays.

THE BRANCH MANAGER comes in for 10 per cent to 20 per cent on the orders taken in the territory under his supervision. In many instances the Branch Office Rent is paid by the main office---which goes in to the price of your purchase.
Due to the many changes of Branch Managers there are unavoidable expenses which must be paid by the main office---and which are added to the price of the hose.
Office stationery, printed matter, etc.---are expenses never mentioned to you.

THE DIVISION MANAGER or District Manager is paid his traveling expenses, in addition to receiving a salary or commission on all business in his territory. Some direct-selling-organizations maintain Sectional Sales Managers whose traveling expenses, salary or commission must be paid.

IN ADDITION to the above some Direct Sellers pay Recruiting Managers---Sales Investigators---Sales Promoters---Home-Office Representatives---Advertising Specialists. All these men must be paid a salary and their expenses. Are you told about these?

THE HUGE AMOUNTS SPENT for Advertising is NOT mentioned by the well trained Bell Ringer. Tremendous Sums Are Spent in the conducting of Testing Schools---to devise "decoys" to better enable the Peddler to secure your attention.

SPECIAL PRIZES---Cash---Watches---Clothing---even Automobiles must be added in to the price on the order blank.

CONVENTIONS---Special Sales Meetings---costing enormous amounts must be figured in the cost of the hosiery. Freight and cartage expense thru different stages of manufacturing is necessary.

Do Not Be Misled by "THE GUARANTEE" which is most attractively pictured to you by the Clever Salesman as a Pair Free, etc.

Some of the leading Hosiery Peddlers have gained their momentum of business on this pair free guarantee—but this Guarantee Has Been REDUCED—until now—the dissatisfied customer is obliged to answer a most lengthy and EMBARRASSING QUESTIONNAIRE in order to receive any consideration, which was assured her at the time of her purchase.

It is not impossible that eventually ONLY the toes—heels—and tops will be guaranteed—and as a rule they are of materials other than silk.

HOW MANY TIMES has the salesman called back as he promised, when taking your order to pick up your unsatisfactory hosiery and make an adjustment? How long before you received any consideration?

Recipes For Canning Beets Are Given By Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Donaghey

"Often beets are too large when they are canned," says Miss Annie Mae Donaghey, county home demonstration agent. "To insure a quality jar of beets, they should be one and a fourth to one and a half inches in diameter, uniform in size. To avoid sediment in the bottom jar use a coarse salt in preference to table salt."

Miss Donaghey gives the following recipes for home demonstration members and persons who expect to do any canning this summer.

Beet Relish

1 quart chopped cabbage.
1 quart cooked chopped beets.
1 cup grated horseradish.
2 cups sugar.
1 tablespoon black pepper.
4 tablespoons salt.

Mix ingredients and cover with vinegar, heat mixture to the boiling point. Pack in jars and seal.

Pickled Beets

1 gallon 4 per cent vinegar.
5 cups sugar
5 tsp. mixed spices.

The beets should be young, tender, practically free from cracks, peeled and with defects trimmed, uniform in size (1 1-4 to 1 1-2 inches in diameter) and good color. Sort beets, putting those of uniform size together. Cut the tops, leaving about two inches of the stem and roots, until after cooking. Steam under 15 pounds pressure 15 to 20 minutes (or cook until tender). Peel, trim, and drop while hot in vinegar which has been previously prepared and hot. For the spiced vinegar use the above ingredients. Tie spices in bag. Mix sugar, vinegar and spices. Let simmer about half an hour for the spices to infuse. Drop beets in, let boil three minutes. Remove spice bag, pack in jars and cover with hot vinegar. Seal immediately and place where they will cool quickly. Use only glass.

Baby Beets

Only young, tender beets should be canned, and the turnip-shaped varieties make a more attractive product. Wash thoroughly and scald in boiling water or steam for about 15 minutes until the skins slip easily. Leave on at least 1 inch of the stems and all of the roots during the cooking to prevent bleeding. Slip off skins, fill the containers, add 1 tsp. of salt to each quart, and fill with hot water. Process immediately at 10 pounds pressure, or 240 degrees Fahrenheit, quart glass jars for 40 minutes, pint glass jars for 35 minutes and No. 2 and No. 3 sanitary or R enamel tin cans for 30 minutes.

Texas Rattler Is Deadliest; Even Odds Life-Death

Statistics released from New York this week offered the people of Collingsworth County no excuse for carelessness with rattlesnakes.

The report said: "The odds are 99 to 1 you'll be bitten if you pick up a mountain rattlesnake, but 5 to 1 you live—even without treatment.

"Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of Bronx Zoo and noted authority on snakes expressed this opinion last Tuesday.

"The chances of being bitten by the copperhead are about the same, but the odds on living without treatment are 10 to 1, Dr. Ditmars said.

"Even with treatment, however, a person has only about a fifty-fifty chance of living after a nip from a diamond or Texas rattler and no chance without aid, he said. This type is found in Texas, Georgia, Florida and other Southern and Western states."

LET US MAKE YOUR VACATION TRIP SAFER

BEFORE you start on your holiday trip, let us completely inspect your car. There is no charge for this service and it will assure you of a safer and more enjoyable trip.

For the motoring convenience and safety of car owners Firestone has established more than 500 Auto Supply & Service Stores throughout the country, and thousands of Firestone dealers are also equipped with Auto Supplies and complete Service Departments to test and service your tires, brakes, batteries, spark plugs, wheels, ignition system, carburetor, in addition to lubricating your car with the most modern power equipment, also crank case service, washing and polishing.

AVOID THE DANGER OF BLOWOUTS

Firestone removes the danger of blowouts by preventing their main cause — internal friction and heat. This is accomplished by Gum-Dipping, a patented extra process which soaks every cotton cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber. No other make of tire is Gum-Dipped.

THERE ARE THREE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS THAT WILL SOLVE YOUR PROBLEM OF WHAT TIRES TO BUY:

1 "Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

— Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes.

For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race where a skid means death. This is undisputed evidence that Firestone gives car owners greatest protection against skidding.

2 "Are they blowout-proof?"

—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the gruelling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Kelly Petillo won the race and broke the record over this 26-year-old rough brick track without tire trouble—in fact, not one of the 33 drivers had tire trouble of any kind.

Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles in 23½ hours, at an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120°, without tire trouble of any kind. These are most amazing proofs of blowout protection ever known.

3 "Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

— Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile. This is made possible by the tough, wear-resisting tread built with higher shoulders and a wider, flatter contour. This thick, rugged, scientifically designed tread is held securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body by Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of cords under the tread. This is a special construction feature not used in any other tire. Unequaled mileage records by thousands of car owners add undisputed evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

Equip your car with a set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Non-Skid Tires, the safest tires ever built and avoid the dangers of skidding and blowouts.

THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

There is a strong possibility that Federal aid can be secured on a road from Dodsonville to Wellington. The designation meets with the favor of highway officials and is a road that would run from Dodsonville through Wellington clear to Hedley. To get the project included in the lateral road program it would be necessary to secure a 100 foot right of way. The selection of the exact route would rest with citizens of Dodsonville and Wellington, but it is thought that a direct route between the two towns would meet with the greatest approval from highway engineers at a later time when assistance might be sought for hard surfacing. The Commissioner's Court is ready to act, and both Dodsonville and Wellington are eager to have the road. About all it would take would be a little interest on the part of those who would be most directly affected by the road.

The east half of Fifteenth Street is beginning to take on on the appearance of a hard surfaced street. Bura Handley and those who work with him are doing an excellent job on the project. Those who have seen it, declare that when finished it will be a first class piece of road building. The work is making a considerable hole in the general fund of the city, but it will provide a permanent improvement that will be of considerable value to the town. The entire street work will cost the city approximately $5,000; but for that amount it is receiving about $50,000 worth of hard surfaced streets. In five years the saving on the cost of maintaining dirt streets will give the people improved streets for nothing. That is, if you don't count what they would have to have paid in Federal taxes whether the streets were improved or not.

You never can tell how people will react to a published statement. Instead of the criticism which I expected on one feature, I have been receiving some approval on my dissertation on the advantages and beauty of Wellington. There has been no open criticism, and that is the only kind that bothers me. I don't care what people say behind my back as long as they don't say it to my face. I never have lost any sleep over something that I don't know about. I was particularly gratified at some kind words of Mrs. J. B. Johnson. I suspect that Mrs. Johnson was more interested in the beauty of the flowers and the sunset than she was in other varieties of beauty mentioned, but she said she agreed with the whole thing. On the other hand Mrs. A. L. Nowlin took the pains to commend the selection, for which I thank her. Word even came to me that such a professional critic of this column as S. R. Pinkston had voiced approval. I am grateful even for intermittent favors. However, I always accept his most acid remarks with good grace, because I have some support in the Pinkston household, and I appreciate it very highly even if it doesn't come from the male element.

Wellington will observe Safety Week from July 22 through July 27. On July 24, state highway patrolmen will be here and will round up a large number of car owners and have them pass through a safety lane. Those who fail to pass the inspection will be given a court summons. However, it is not as bad as it sounds. It is not the intention to put anybody in court. The summons may be redeemed by showing a receipt indicating that the necessary adjustments needed for safety have been made. Unless this is done after a reasonable length of time, the motorist will be fined. The patrolmen act under the state law, which gives them the right to stop and inspect any vehicle at any time. So if you are told to drive through the lane just go ahead and do it. It will be easier. The best thing will be to have your brakes, lights, horn and muffler in good shape before safety week.

The Wellington School Board has announced a ten per cent raise in all teachers' salaries. This is a good move. The salaries of the teachers in Wellington were too low. In many cases they provided only a bare subsistence that could not be called really living. Thus far the low salaries have caused no harm to the Wellington system. In time, however, the system would have been injured if the low salaries had been maintained. Due to the severity of the depression the teachers did not care to take a chance on finding another job. In time teachers of the calibre of those in Wellington now would have drifted away. Teachers of equal ability would not have been attracted by the low salaries. For the information of the tax payers, I would like to add that these salaries are paid out of state funds and not out of local tax money. Furthermore $75 is not a very big return to a high school teacher who spends on the average of $4,000 and four to five years non-productively in order to be able to teach.

The thought of school reminds me of something else. While I have the highest admiration in the world for high school teachers, it is not the most important part of the school system. The most important part of the school system is the kindergarten and the first and second grades. Strange to say, however, the average person gives this part of the school work little attention. It is not only hard work, but it is fundamentally important for it deals with the child in the more formative years. Whether I could do it or not, I have a piece of paper somewhere over at Mamma's that says I am able to teach in any accredited high school, but I could not and I would not attempt to teach the first grades. That is a job for a rained psychologist and an experienced teacher. Every teacher ought to be required to teach in the other grades awhile before they are instructed with the grave responsibility of those children that are just starting. The final result may look mighty sorry now, but personally I still thank heaven for what Mrs. Benson did for me long ago.

My hat is off to Mrs. G. L. Farrar for the work she is doing in the Methodist Bible School with the youngest children. My respects are also tendered to Rev. Tom Johnston for the whole program, of which Mrs. Farrar's work is only a part. This type of work is much more beneficial to young and tender minds than making them sit through a long revival and feeling guilty of a whole bunch of sins that they didn't even know existed. Maybe I had better stop right here with this praise of the Bible School. An old editor once told me to say anything that I wanted to about public affairs as long as it was the truth, but to never never get mixed up in a religious controversy.

Kouri Opens Repair Shop

Salem Kouri recently opened the Novelty Shoe Shop just south from the southeast corner of the square.

Mr. Kouri reports that he has been in the shoe repairing business for the past 14 years, and states that he has a line of first class machinery. In addition to complete repair service, dying and other similar factors, he says that he can order shoes to fit the feet. He says that only first class materials will be used in his shop, and that he will offer repair service while his customers wait.

Demonstration News

By Miss Annie Mae Donaghey
County H. D. Agent

"It's surprising how quickly a child can take responsibility in caring for her clothes," says Mrs. Frank Thomas, wardrobe demonstrator of the Houselog Club, after she added a low clothes rod for her four-year-old daughter, Joe Anna. "Now that there is a place for everything, she takes a great deal of pride in getting all of her clothes properly placed," Mrs. Thomas added.

In making the closet accessories a discarded curtain rod was used for her belts; pockets made from scraps of Joe Anna's dresses, were used for the storage of her socks. The lower part of the shelf has been partitioned off with orange crates for her under clothing.

The bottom of a discarded barrel now serves as a top for an end table for Bertha Mae Carter's bed room. The legs are perfectly plain, being made from scrap lumber that was around the place.

COTTON
A Vast Industry

Cotton is the basis of a vast industry, whose importance affects our national life every day in the year. It is so vast in fact, that the average man seldom thinks of the industry as a whole, but concerns himself primarily with his immediate end. While this is true of human nature, at the same time some consideration should be given to the business as a whole, for if any part of it gets out of balance the entire structure suffers, and if it functions smoothly everyone connected with cotton is benefitted.

The long process whereby a cotton seed is transformed into a summer frock, a man's shirt or a circus tent is interesting. It begins, of course, with the planting in the spring, the cultivation and so on till cotton picking time at which time a vast amount of the Southern population is kept busy harvesting this valuable crop.

Next comes the ginning with some 15,000 gins, scattered through the growing region, cleaning the cotton from the seeds and their fuzzy lint material that was once thrown away as useless waste, but now it seen to be a storehouse of wealth from which come values approximating $400,000,000 a year. From the gin it goes to the compress and is on its long journey to the marts of the world.

Now comes a change from the hot sun of the cotton country to the rumbling machinery of the mills. Each bale is freed from its metal ties, and is acted on by men and machines which spin it into innumerable fabrics. While sundry bleaching, dyeing, printing, cutting and stitching still intervene between the bale and the ultimate consumer it already is apparent that from field to fabric the cotton industry is an essential one, and its interests are essentially mutual. No step could be taken without the one that preceded it, and no step would be taken except for the one is to follow. From the time that the seed is placed in the soil until the final product is purchased by the user, the process is continuous. Therefore, the whole process must move steadily and smoothly either consciously, voluntary and efficiently or involuntary and wastefully.

As efficient units in tris industry, our gins take pride in their work and in the importance of the cotton business to the welfare of the nation.

Boy Scouts On Trip To Palo Duro Canyon

Local Merchants Contribute Funds For Sponsoring Outing

The Scouts left the Legion Hall Wednesday morning, July 3, on a trip to the Palo Duro Canyon which was made possible by the contributions of local merchants. They plan to stop at Amarillo and go swimming, and from there they will go to the Palo Duro Canyon where they intend to spend two nights, returning home Friday evening. Scoutmastes for the trip are: John Templeton, Roy Harrison, and Joe Thompson. Dr. Harper will act as their physician. The merchants who contributed to make this trip possible are: Frank Mitchell, Wellington Motor Company, E. F. Lewis, John Forbis, Pink Sullivan, Collingsworth Motor Company, Logan Cummings, C. C. Bell, Roy Horn, Starkey Seed Company, Wells Department Store, LeDerer Hardware Store, Joe Hardy Drug, J. N. Wallace, McLellan Store. Dr. Orr, City State Bank, The Hub, Wellington State Bank, and Dr. Fires.

The Boy Scouts and scoutmasters want to sincerely thank the merchants for their generous contributions and support.

At the meeting Monday night the Flying Eagle Patrol contested the Bear Patrol on Scout requirements. The Bear Patrol won by having three boys standing when all the Bear Patrol had had to take their seats. The Flying Eagle Patrol also defeated the Bear Patrol in the wrestling matches that were held. Next week the Rattlesnake Patrol will contest the Bobwhite Patrol.

Forty-two Scouts cleaned the Wellington High School campus Wednesday, June 26. After the work was completed, the following people furnished cars to take the Scouts swimming at the Country Club: Mrs. C. E. High, R. F. Newman, Bobo Castleperry, O. B. Raburn, W. F. Decker, Mrs. E. E. Donahoo, Rev. T. M. Johnston and G. L. Farrar.

The Scouts plan also to clean the yards of the ward schools in the near future.

His ability and reputation are summarized in an article appearing in the Beckham County Democrat, Erick, which stated, "He was one of the ablest ministers, in our opinion, who has ever stood in a pulpit. To every man his work and Brother Catron was no mean workman when it came to delving deep into the scriptures. We do heartily commend Brother Catron and the family to the people of Wellington."

Members of the Wellington congregation expressed themselves as delighted over the ability shown by Rev. Catron in his forceful sermons. They extended an invitation to the public to attend the services, and stated that work of the church would be reorganized and continued.

BORROWED THOUGHTS

"Verify your quotations," is the advice of someone, but the advice is sometimes difficult to follow. In cases of many famous sayings it is hard to find out who really was first in saying them. There are many instances of striking phrases which have been attributed to prominent persons, who really borrowed them from others.

For example, Lincoln's reference to a "government of the people, by the people and for the people." Almost identical words were used by John Yycliffe in the 14th century and by Robespierre, Thomas Cooper, Joseph Story, Daniel Webster and Theodore Parker, long before Lincoln uttered them at Gettysburg.

Even the Golden Rule, which appears in two forms in the New Testament, was expressed by Confucius five centuries before Christ and by other ancient teachers.

Perhaps the most catchy phrase ever uttered by the late William Jennings Bryan contained his "crown of thorns and cross of gold" metaphor, which is credited with securing his nomination for the presidency in 1896. It has been and still is generally believed that the phrase was original with Bryan, but the Congressional Record shows that it was spoken by Congressman Samuel W. McCall several months before.

But no one whose words have been appropriated by another could have shown a better spirit toward an imitator than McCall showed toward his in this instance. When questioned about it later, McCall said:

"Yes, Bryan borrowed it from one of my Congressional speeches, and probably I stole it from somebody else."

RARE U. S. MONEY

In a collection owned by a New York bank is the most complete assortment of rare money in the world, which visitors are permitted to see. A few of the rarest United States issues may be mentioned.

There is a silver dollar of 1804, only 14 of which are now in existence. It ic said that the rest of those minted that year went down with a ship bound for China and lost in a storm.

Another oddity is the Pine Tree shilling. Although this coin was minted for 30 years the date 1652 is on all of them. There are paper bills issued in the early days by various states which were printed in two languages; for example, Louisiana issued bills printed in English and French and Pennsylvania in English and German.

Various specimens of local scrip issued during emergencies, are also shown, as well as greenbacks issued by banks between 1820 and 1860, also specimens of Confederate money.

In the early days, American Indians highly valued red woodpecker scalps, which were used as money.

Two cancelled checks issued by Henry Ford are shown—one for one cent, the other for $146,000,000. There is also the special check designed for the payment of Lindbergh's $25,000 Atlantic flight prize money, and a draft executed in Braille, signed by Helen Keller.

Altogther there are about 40,000 pieces in the collection, owned by the Chase National Bank, which is visited by some 15,000 persons every year.

NORMANDIE'S SKIPPER

Newspapers and magazines of late have carried much news and information concerning the record-breaking French liner Normandie, but little has been said about the personality of the great ship's captain, Commodore Rene Pugnet.

A few notes regarding this able skipper of the present "mistress of the seas" may be of interest.

Captain Pugnet was born in the little village of Brantome in the southwestern France, in 1881, on a Friday the 13th, dread sailing day of superstitious seamen.

He is the first of his family to become a sailor, his forbears being chiefly artists, scientists and diplomats. He is a great-nephew of Frederic Bartholdi, the celebrated French sculptor of Italian ancestry, who executed the Statue of Liberty. Captain Pugnet jokingly refers to the statue as his cousin.

The captain himself is a painter of on mean ability, also an inventor, expert pistol shot, boxer, fencer, and airplane pilot. His cabin on the Normandie contains much of his artistic handiwork, including a piano. He reads much when off duty, his favorite literature being mystery and detective stories. His family consists of himself, his wife and one daughter, Marie-Louise, the latter being a popular concert pianist.

No commander who ever lived sailed the seas has had a greater responsibility than Captain Pugnet, with a 51 million dollar ship and thousands of passengers in his keeping. He appears to be discharging that high responsibility faithfully and well.

THE EARTH'S SHAPE

If asked who first conceived the idea that the world is round, many persons would instantly think of Columbus, as it was through his belief in the spherical shape of the earth that he undertook the voyage which led to the discovery of America.

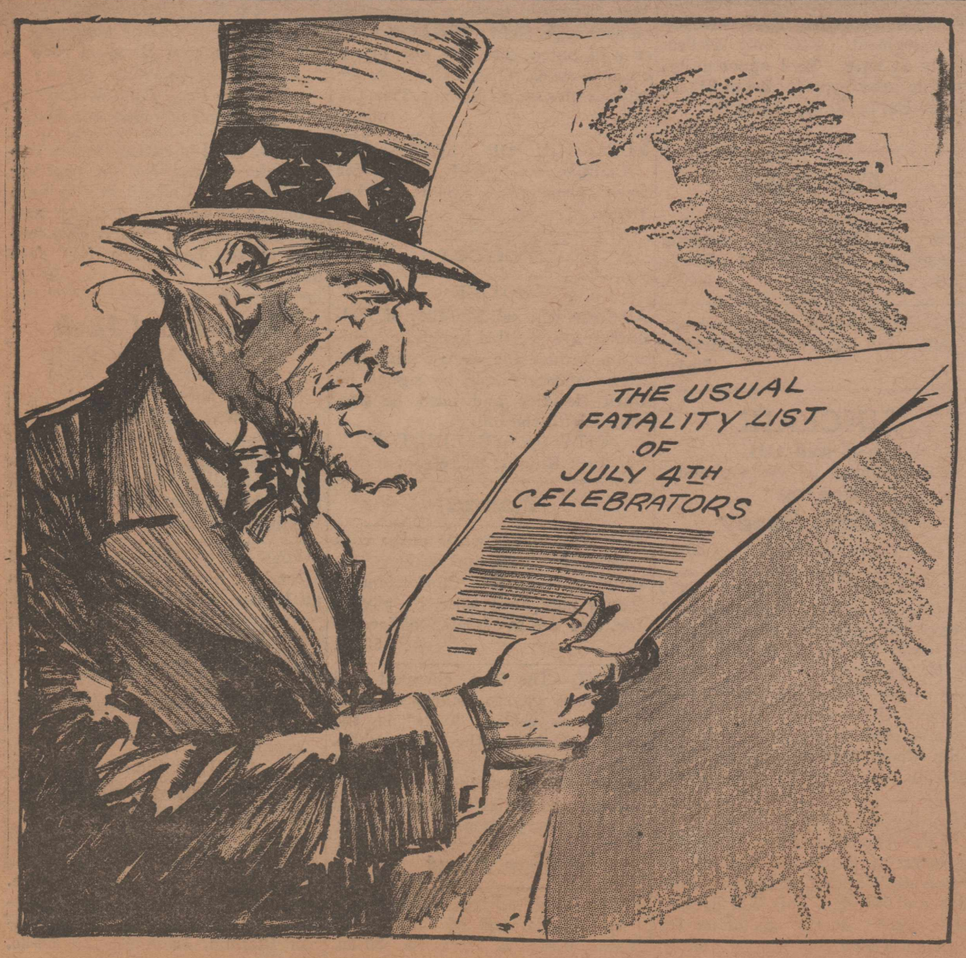

But the true figure of the earth was known centuries before the birth of Christ, although it appears that the spherical theory never gained wide acceptance among the ancients.

Eratosthenes, a Greek geometer and astronomer who flourished in the second century before Christ, is credited with being the first to discover the correct principles whereby the figure of the earth might be determined. Although his results were not accurate, his methods were the same as that followed as the present day.

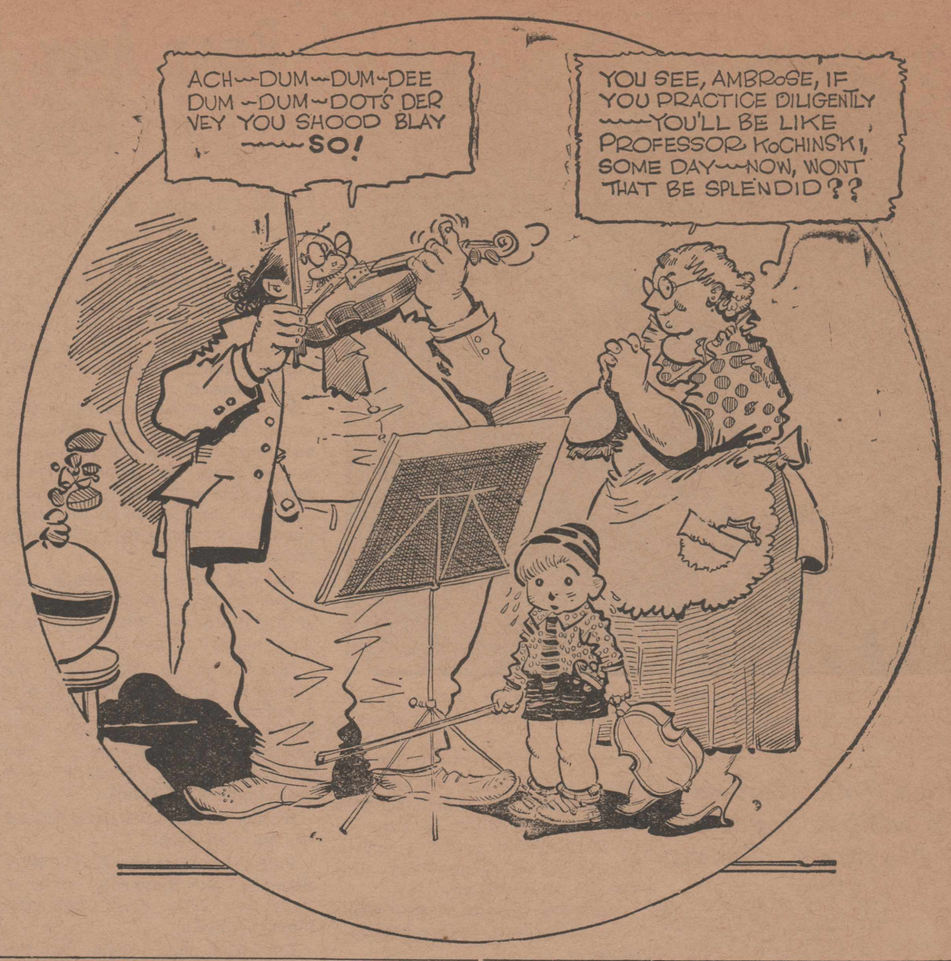

Centuries before Eratosthenes astronomers regarded the earth as a sphere, but generally considered it as the center of the universe. It is said that Pythagoras, born in 582 B. C., was the first to declare that the earth revolved around the sun, but he only taught this secretly to a few chosen disciples.

Many people today do not believe that the world is round. Among these may be mentioned Wilbur Voliva and his community at Zion, Ill, although Rev. Volvia is a college graduate and uses modern scientific appliances, and is an ardent radio "fan."

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

Texas is a posthumous State for the reason that she came into the Union of States many years after the formation of the United States. It is well for us to recall at this time some of the circumstances surrounding the beginning of this nation.

It was during the last Continental Congress that the idea of an independent nation was developed. The Continental Congress was the governing body of a very loosely organized form of government that was composed of the thirteen original colonies that formed our first thirteen States.

On the 7th of June, 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia offered a resolution in Congress declaring that the United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown; and that all political connection between them and Great Britain is, and ought to be, dissolved.

A long and exciting debate ensued. The sentiment of independence gained ground; but there was still strong opposition to the movement. After some days the final consideration of Lee's resolution was postponed until July the 1st.

On the 11th of June a committee, consisting of five members, was appointed to prepare a more elaborate and formal declaration. Mr Lee had been called home by sickness, and his colleague, Thomas Jefferson, was accordingly made chairman of the committee. The other members were John Adams of Massachusetts, Roger Sherman of Connecticut, Benjamin Franklin of Pennsylvania and Robert R. Livingston of New York.

The special work of preparing the paper was allotted to Jefferson and Adams, the latter deferred to the former, whose vigorous style of writing specially fitted him for the task. This the great document our Declaration of Independence was accordingly produced in Jefferson's hand, with a few interlinings by Adams and Franklin.

On the 1st day of July, Lee's resolution was taken up, and at the same time the committee's report was laid before Congress. On he next day the original resolution was adopted. During the 3rd, the formal declaration was debated with great spirit, and it became evident that the work of the committee would be accepted. The discussion was resumed on the morning of the 4th, and at two o'clock on the afternoon of that memorable day the Declaration of American Independence was adopted by a unanimous vote.

All day long the old bellman of the State House had stood in the steeple ready to sound the note of freedom to the city and the nation. The hours went by; the grey-haired veteran in the belfry grew discouraged, and began to say: "They will never do it—they will never do it." Just then the lad who had been stationed below ran out and exclaimed at the top of his voice: "Ring! Ring!" And

Moses As A Patriot

Text: Exodus 24:3-8, 12-18

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 7.

Men and women chosen not only for their personal interest and greatness, but for what they have represented in their careers and in religious history—these are the representative Bible characters with whom the lessons of the new quarter will deal.

Moses, the first of these, is selected as the type of the leader and lawgiver. In Moses these two characters were united. He became the lawgiver in the task of leading his people and developing for them the rules and restraints necessary for the welding of individuals into a well-ordered society.

The topics associated with this lesson are for Intermediate and senior groups and for young people and adults are significant. For the former group the theme is "What It Means to Be a Patriot," and for the latter group "Religion in National Life."

There could be no truer and better example of the patriot than Moses, a man devoted first of all to righteousness and high ideals whose primary obligation was to God and not to his people, but who loved his people and led them because his obligation to God had taught him the definiteness and fullness of human duty. For him devotion to his people was the very essence of faith and action.

Brought by early circumstance into the palace of the Pharaoahs, he had refused, when he came to manhood, to be called the son of Pharaoah's daughter, but had chosen rather to suffer the afflictions of his people.

Like all truly great leaders he had felt the inadequacy of his own strength and ability. He had shrunk from the task before him and had accepted it only with the clear assurance that it was his God-given mission.

The task was made all the harder by the attitude of the people themselves. It is a strange fact in history that so often those who have most needed leadership have been unwilling to be led. They have had more regard for the fleshpots of Egypt than for the allurements of freedom, or their spirit has been so broken by bondage and distress that they have lost either the capacity or the urge to find some better situation.

The inspiration of Moses in his mood of reluctance came through a vision of God and a revelation of his will. Again, as he faces the crucial task of organizing and building into an ordered society the people whom he has led out of their bondage, inspiration comes to him upon the mountain top.

One may read the story in all its literalness of detail, or one may read it in the light of a more critical age distinguishing between the essential truth and the form.

The essential truth is that Moses gave to the people through this experience of inspiration 10 commandments which, as we analyze them were directed toward establishing in all human relations the principles of fairness, consideration, and justice, without which no society can have strength or stability.

We read these commandments today in the light of Christ's larger commandment of love, but the commandments of Moses are not abbreviated. What the commandment of Jesus does is to fill up in the freedom of the life of the spirit all that Moses established in formal codes and rules. Moses is for our age, as for his own, the great type of leader and lawgiver.

AAA Activities Summarized

Supreme Court Decision

The following statement was issued by Secretary Wallace June with the approval of President Roosevelt—"In cooperation with leaders of Congress, amendments to The Agricultural Adjustment Act are being perfected which are intended to bring the Act's provisions as to marketing agreements and licenses into line with the Schechter case decision and also to safeguard the farmers' voluntary adjustment program on basic commodities.

"These voluntary adjustment programs were not in the path of the Schechter case decision, and in no event could there be any question of the Government's ability to fulfill its contracts with farmers.

"Nevertheless, we have taken advantage of the decision to seek perfections in the law which will make certain the Government's authority to continue processing tax rates in accordance with amended provisions of the Act."

727 Millions Paid Producers

Rental and benefit payments to producers cooperating in the adjustment programs, expenditures in connection with programs for removal and conservation of surplus agricultural commodities, and other adjustment expenditures chargeable against receipts from processing taxes reached a total of $790,062,385.33 as of May 1, 1935, cumulative during the two years, since the date of organization May 12, 1933, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration stated last week in its comptroller's monthly report. For the same period, processing tax receipts totalled $824,430,579.15.

"We are witnessing profound changes in our political governments and in our entire economic structure. Change is the order of the day and the demand for change has arisen from the serious maladjustments in our economic system. People have been grouping for a clearer understanding of the forces affecting their lives . . . . As long as people can organize and cooperatively work out some of their own pressing economic problems, all talk of regimentation is an idle threat."—Morris L. Cooke, Rural Electrification Administrator.

ON TEXAS FARMS

"My mother and I sold eggs to pay for my bedroom improvement which cost $7.30," reports a young bedroom demonstrator from Rusk County.

Examination of the improvement achieved with that expenditure indicates that this young person has learned early that ability, initiative and industry are effective supplements to cash.

The list includes a new mattress, home-made from home-grown cotton; mattress and spring covers made from washed and bleached sugar and fertilizer sacks; book shelves made from scrap lumber; the floor refinished with "crank case oil" and waxed; new shades; new curtains; and old furniture refinished.

Six hundred and eighty-two 4-H club girls in 80 counties are entered in an improved bedroom contest, and 11,365 4-H club girls are cooperating with them and improving their bedrooms in definite agreed-upon ways. In this work they learn not only to make the most of what they have, but the principles involved in making a comfortable and healthful bedroom. From a young bedroom demonstrator in Johnson County we get this—"It is imprtant to have circulation of air in the bedroom," and to accomplish this she has put stops on the top sashes of the windows so that they may be lowered from the top as well as from the bottom.

Clothes closets also have the approval of these 4-H club girls. From Collingsworth County this comes—"Daddy says I am as proud of my closet as he was of his first pair of long trousers"—and that story describes how "Daddy" made the closet for his young daughter out of ship-lap covered with paste board boxes and papered with cream colored building paper. The top part was separated off as a storage space for quilts. Shelves for linens and hats, a soiled clothes bin and a rod for clothes hangers completed the job.

Gulf Tells How Gasoline Money Can Be Saved

Fifteen Ways To Save Gasoline Money" Is Topic Of New Booklet

When the man bites the dog, it is news. And when a gasoline company advises motorists how to save gasoline, that is news, too.

Hence it is news to announce that the Gulf Refining Company has just issued a booklet entitled, "15 Ways To Save Gasoline Money." Although the information contined in the eight-page booklet is simple, it consists of driving hints which should benefit millions of motorists.

Do you know what parking secret saves gasoline? The booklet tells you. Have you discovered what driving speeds assure you the greatest economy in gasoline consumption? The booklet tells you. And what fact concerning the inflation of your tires boosts your gasoline mileage? The booklet tells you this, too.

According to Dr. Paul D. Foote, vice president of the Gulf Research & Development Corporation, considerable care was given to the preparation of the literature. The data was prepared, changed, and checked over and over again by leading petroleum and automotive engineers. Caution was exercised in listing the various methods to save the motorists' money, and at least 15 additional ways to cut gasoline costs were eliminated because they were open to debate.

For convenience's sake, the Gulf booklet is divided into three sections. The first chapter is devoted to economy short-cuts which can be controlled by the motorist. The second part is given over to economies which can be secured at no cost at reputable service stations or dealers, such as Gulf's stations. And the third section consists of savings which can be obtained through enlisting the help of competent garage mechanics.

To announce this new booklet, "15 Ways To Save Gasoline Money," to the motoring public, the Gulf Refining Company has undertaken an advertising campaign which is outstanding in many ways, including the number of newspapers to be used. More than 1200 newspapers from Maine to Texas, the largest journalistic army in the modern history of petroleum advertising, will be employed. The offer of the free booklet to any motorist who will drive into Gulf's 40,000 dealers is allied with an interesting "sporting offer" to car owners.

As "Pioneers" Broke Soil In Alaska

Wild West Ranches "Too Tame" Is Complaint Of Eastern Visitors

CODY, Wyoming.—Life in what once was the wild and wooly west is getting too soft for a lot of Easterners.

The ranchers who are running dude outfits are finding it an increasingly waxing problem to meet the demands of guests for a private room with bath and a dance orchestra and at the same time satisfy their desire for some real old-time ranch life.

"We're faced with a paradoxical situation," said I. H. Laron, president of the Western Dude Ranchers' Association for the last ten years. "We've tried to meet the desires of our friends who come out from the East in the summer, until some dude ranches come near being merely Hollywood farms or miniature Aikens and Newports."

Laron, who has a big dude spread near here, attended Princeton and was a teammate of the Tigers' great Hobie Baker.

"In trying to please the Easterners some of the ranches, perhaps, introduced too many modern conveniences," he continued, "because now a lot of the dudes are asking about real old-time ranch life and are complaining about paved mountain roads and the absence of the old hitching racks that used to line the streets of the Western cowtowns.

"At the same time they inquire about the old West they demand a room with a private bath, French cooking, a dance orchestra and a horse that can take a hurdle.

"In other words, while they find life on some dude ranches too soft, they still demand the comforts of Newport or Miami."

LETTERS From the PEOPLE

(Editor's Note: The Leader will gladly publish any acceptable article which is submitted by readers, provided that the articles are signed by the readers and are free from libelous or malicious contents.)

Our United States Congress has passed a law whereby all persons over 65 years old can draw a pension who is eligible for the $15 to be gotten from the Federal government lives in a state which has matched, or plans to match, the offered $15. What does this mean? Simply, in the final, unless a state passes a law so as to match what our Congress has made possible for the aged, then all such persons who live in the "unmatched" state will not get anything from our Federal Government.

The majority of our states have at this time matched, or plan to match the $15 offered by Congress.

On next August 24th, we see that the amendment to the constitution of Texas for "Old Age Pensions" leads the list of amendments to be voted on at that date.

If Texas should fail to pass the amendment for the aged of our state, then the time will roll around when the great State of Texas will stand out as a selfish oddity. All Federal money will go to the states which properly matched the law of Congress.

Don't fool yourself, our Texas must match the offered $15; otherwise your money will constantly go to the states which met the offered required money made possible by our Congress. We repeat: Don't fool yourself with the idea that the aged of Texas will get the $15 anyway. We must match the $15 offered by our Federal Government or lose out completely.

Great indeed is the age in which we live. Do you grasp the wonderfulness of all nations of our earth being in constant touch with each other? Did you listen to that great speech last night which explained how Mussolini of Italy to Eden of Ethopia, Mussolini trying to dictate like Napoleon of old. Other nations at once are objecting.

Alas. Alas. To any set of people who tries to live selfish, all alone and not to function with others.

Money must circulate among the masses. This is the special greatness of the old age pensions. Mussolini dictators are all over the country who live in old ruts. They yet fail to see the importance of money circulating freely and alike in all our states. Get out of that old rut so as to go on August 24th and vote for the amendment for old age pensions.

Look at the checks gotten by farmers. Business good in Wellington, Memphis, Childress and other Texas towns.

Suppose, to illustrate, that 100 persons in Collingsworth County should get $30 per month. It would mean that merchants, doctors and other business men would get an extra $3,000 in trade each month.

No man can live to himself. No state can live to itself without a tendency to be drained and dried up. One special thing dominates President Roosevelt as an outstanding character abreast with our age. What is that born specialty of our president? Money must circulate among our masses.

A miser person, a miser community, state or nation becomes self-centered without progress, dies without anything but remorse left in memory.

Vote for the amendment causing Texas to function with other states for Old Age Pensions.

—W. P. Davis.

A PROMISE THAT HAS BEEN KEPT

IN 1810, one hundred and twenty-five years ago, the Hartford Fire Insurance Company was organized. Insurance at that time was almost an untried experiment and it was necessary to build up a reputation for reliability and business integrity in order to gain and hold public favor.

In December, 1810, JONATHAN G. W. TRUMBULL of Norwich, Connecticut, became the first Hartford agent. Today, there are more than 17,000 Hartford agents in the United States and Canada, who believe in the soundness of Hartford protection, and sell Hartford Insurance covering any property loss, however caused, against which insurance may be lawfully effected.

The Hartford's great business could never have been built up without a record of performance back of the promises its agents sell. Through five wars, seven panics, and every conflagration this country has known, the Hartford has paid and paid in cash. Because of the Hartford's integrity and the soundness of its protection, this agency is proud to be "Your local Hartford Agent"; and offers complete, expert service for every property insurance need.

I SAW
By C. N. C.

As the first of July is here and people have made no plans for the Fourth in Wellington, the day is liable to be quiet here, I saw

W. F. Decker, B. W. Boarman and S. R. Pinkston discussing prohibition and other subjects.

Dan Bevers refusing to accept an apology from Margaret Goforth after she had called him sissy. Do you blame him?

Cecil Coe telling B. F. Ford how much something had grown in 48 hours. I think he was talking about cotton.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Holloway shopping for a week's supply of groceries in a local grocery store.

Bess Owens getting a shoeshine in a local barber shop. Preparing for Sunday company, I expect.

J. C. Donaghey and Frank Eikenburg talking over matters on a corner of the square Saturday evening.

Wylie Hazard transacting business in town Saturday afternoon.

Sam Smith walking slowly around the square as he seemed to enjoy smoking a long black pipe.

Gene Wright arranging a very attractive window with wash boards and laundry soap. That might be an incentive for hard work.

B. G. Glenn, Henry Vaughan and T. S. Somerville discussing financial problems as they leaned against a show window.

Joe Parker Glenn taking his small son, Charley Joe, to the show Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Tom Parker and Joe going home late Saturday evening leaving Mr. Parker standing in the middle of the street looking after them.

John Bonner telling several friends goodbye—saying he feels like he is leaving home. We are sorry to see Mr. Bonner leave here.

John Jones trying to make a trade with a colored boy—think he got by with it.

Mrs. Jess Coe and Mrs. Gordon Phillips admiring a display of pretty summer dresses in a local show window.

Roy Willingham carrying a large paper bag of groceries.

Farris Breedlove and Frank Campbell enjoying a drink at a local soda fountain.

Mrs. R. C. Stevenson and Mrs. C. T. Donnell trying to locate their husbands to go home.

Mrs. I. M. Hutchens telling Mrs. V. A. Porter that all they wanted for Sunday dinner was chicken, gravy, hot biscuits and tea. Who could wish for better?

Russell Hopson looking over a display of magazines—planning a quiet Sunday at home.

Nila Gay Lowrie trying to locate a certain party—don't think she found them.

Bob Ritchey sweeping the sidewalk in front of the corner Sinclair station. He was really working.

G. R. Morgan walking leisurely down the street as if he had plenty of time.

J. B. Young and his small granddaughter, Barbara Ann Brickey, stopping at a neighbor's to get out of the rain as they walked to town real early Saturday morning.

Mrs. Calvin Jones playing with her bull dogs in the cool shade of her yard.

Betty Lou Blanton and Zula V. Porter when discovering that they had gained a pound, decided to forget about the diet they had so faithfully followed.

Largest "Raw" Diamond In Existence, Big As Hen's Eegg, In U. S.

At last Americans have opportunity to see one of the world's greatest diamonds without the necessity of traveling abroad.

The giant "sparkler" in question is the Jonker diamond, a 726-carat gem as big as a hen's egg—the largest uncut specimen in existence.

The enterprise of a New York gem dealer, who passed over a fortune of more than $700,000 for the magnificent stone, is responsible for its arrival on this side of the Atlantic.

The Jonker diamond is the newest addition to a select family of famed gems. Tragedy, the result of coincidence or avarice, has spotted the history of most of the other outstanding gems, but nothing of the kind has marred the brief career of the Jonker stone.

For 18 years Jacobus Jonker, a poor, 61-year-old prospector, had sought diamonds in South African diggings, with little success.

On January 17 of last year, at Elandsfortein, Pretoria, his native assistant came running to him, flourishing what resembled a small rock. Jacobus examined it, then hurried to his hut.

All that night, he, his two sons and some friends, sat up, armed with guns. The reason for their caution was bound in a handkerchief, tied about the neck of Junker's sleeping wife.

The next day Jonker entrusted his shiny fortune to the care of a mine manager; then sold it to a diamond corporation for some $300,000. The American gem dealer, Harry Winston, then is said to have paid more than double this amount.

The new stone is said to be the fifth largest diamond ever discovered. The Cullinan, found in 1905, was the "granddaddy" of all diamonds. It weighed 3024 3-4 carats.

The Jonker diamond, incidentally, was picked up about three miles from the spot where the Cullinan was discovered. Since both stones had flat sides, and apparently had been split, it is believed by some that the Cullinan and Jonker specimens are parts of the same stone.

Winston, however, is skeptical; he believes the color and fire of his gem are much finer than that of the Cullinan. When the Jonker stone is cut, he declares, the controversy may be settled.

The second largest diamond is one of more than 2000 carats discovered in September, 1933, along the upper waters of the Saobento river in Brazil. The third largest known to the world is the Excelsior, found in the Jagersfontein mine of South Africa in 1893, by a native who was loading a truck.

And the only other diamond known to exceed the size of the Jonker specimen is the Great Mo-Gul, which came from the Golconda mines of India several centuries ago and is said to have weighed 787 carats.

Experts believe the Jonker stone to be one of the most flawless gems in the world. When cut, they estimate it will weigh 425 carats, which will make it second in size only to the Star of Africa, a part of the giant Cullinan.

The size of the Jonker diamond, largest uncut specimen in existence, is compared in the picture above to that of an ordinary hen's egg. The valuable gem was found by a native laborer on the South African "diggings" of Jacobus Jonker, early last year.

LaHue Grove Is Picnic Grounds

F. G. Holland today announced that he has charge of the Ellis LaHue Grove, three miles east of town on the Mangum Road, and that the place has been cleared off for picnics and outings.

He states that a wading pool will be constructed for children and that cold drink and sandwich stands will be erected for the convenience of the visitors. Admission charges will be made for small picnics, but church outings, the old settlers picnic, and similar outings will be allowed the use of the grove free. Mr. Holland also expects to erect a barbecue stand later, and says that the grove has been cleaned off and is now open.

Tourist Trade Is Expected To Double In 1935

Conoco Travel Bureau Routes Summer Travelers Through Texas

"Wellington merchants who are 'on their toes' and looking for their share of this summer's tourist dollars should reap a rich harvest. There will be twice as many tourists on the road as there were last summer."

Such is the surprising prediction just released by the Conoco Travel Bureau, America's largest free travel service, maintained by Continental Oil Company, Denver, Colorado.

In a bulletin addressed to the merchants of "Main Street" in all cities of the United States, the Travel Bureau advises them to prepare for the greatest tourist trade in years.

"Dust storms have spent their fury, leaving a new top soil," and flood waters have receded," says Joe H. Thompson, director of the Bureau. "As a result of heavy rainfall, America's highways, and particularly the mountain areas, are green in vegetation, and wild flowers are more beautiful than ever."

"During the first five and a half months of this year the Conoco Travel Bureau received 115 per cent more trip service applications than during the same period in 1934.

"At present, more than 250 carefully trained employees are working day and night shifts in the Bureau's Denver office. During the early part of June last year the Denver personnel numbered 226.

"The Conoco Travel Bureau was born five and one-half years ago in response to the demands of motor vacationists and everyday travelers anxious to secure accurate, up-to-the-minute information regarding North American highways, scenic regions and travel costs. Each motorist applying for Travel Bureau assistance receives a generous assortment of maps, booklets, cottage camp and hotel guides, and special instructions covering every phase of its journey. Even temporary highway detours and choice fishing and hunting areas are indicated. More than 22,000 Conoco dealer stations in 42 states act as branches of the Bureau and are equipped to render additional tourist assistance of a more localized nature."

Readers of this newspaper may secure individualized trip service without spending a cent—even for postage—merely by writing the Conoco Travel Bureau, Continental Oil Building, Denver, Colorado, stating where and when they wish to go.

Pentitentiary Is Full, Can Take No Prisoners

AUSTIN.—Lee Simmons, general manager of the prison system, has notified Gov. James V. Allred that the penitentiary population has increased to 5,804, and that it is not prepared to take care of that many.

Simmons suggested that no additional prisoners be received and that the Board of Pardons and Paroles be instructed to ascertain what prisoners are eligible for parole.

Allred directed the board members to visit the penitentiary at Huntsville and the State farms and make such recommendations.

"It looks as though we must stop receiving prisoners for a while," Simmons wrote, "as warm weather is coming. We have so many third class prisoners that it is unfair to them and to the management."

"There are a number of prisoners who have been here a number of years and I feel that with safety many could and should be paroled."

PASTURES IMPROVED

MOUNT PLEASANT—By doing extra pasture improvement work such as mowing weeds, cleaning out brush and sowing permanent pasture seed on 15 acres, J. L. Hess, Jr., 4-H club boy from Old Union community in Titus county, figures that he increased the grazing capacity of his pasture enough to give pasturage for five cows. He estimates that this additional pasturage is worth $60 to him for the past year.

Texas Became Field For International Strife In Early Days

AUSTIN, Texas.—Immigration and colonization projects seemed to be the order of the day in Texas at the opening of the nineteenth century when the province became the field for international strife. Wars in Europe kept Pedro Grimarest from carring out the stupendous scheme of his notorious patron, the Prince of the Peace, but men of other nations rushed forward to take his place. Texas could not be settled with Spanish-armed Uhlands, wived with the maidens of the religious houses of Spain, but others of lowlier degree but with equal ambition immediately took the task. Before the reader of the documents now being translated from the Bexar Archives in the library of The University of Texas pass in array American frontiersmen, Irish adventurers, Dutch farmers, French traders and a motley band from various quarters of the globe. Some of them desired a good fight, some a safe refuge from personal foes, some economic betterment, and still others territorial enlargement for the country that gave them birth. Each, however, bore an humble petition in his hand.

Favored Spain

On April 1, 1804, an Irishman, quick to see the advantages of settlement in Texas, wrote the Commandant General, saying:

"I, Juan Curon, Apostolic Roman Catholic, native of the Province of Munster, Ireland, married, with a family, a resident for ten years of the Province of Louisiana and recently removed to the pueblo of Nacogdoches, in this province which is under your jurisdiction, appear before you in due form and declare that:

"The Government of the United States does not suit me while that of the Crown of Spain does; and that I have always been a faithful subject of our sovereign (may God bless him).

"I, therefore, respectfully ask that you be kind enough to grant me permission to locate with my family in the said Republic of Nacogdoches in this province under your command.

"I am forwarding two documents in order that you may be informed as to my honorable conduct and integrity."

Frenchmen Petitioned

About the same time, a Frenchman, Bernardo Martin Despallier sought safety in this same delectable land. He wrote directly to the Governor, for time was pressing, describing his good and bad fortune as follows:

"Having lost all my goods in Santo Domingo, I thought there was nothing for me to do but return to my native country, the Province of Louisiana, where, at the time Baron de Carondolet (may God preserve his life) was in command. Here I met with all the kindness I could expect to find from a superior officer and a kind hearted man like him. He was good enough to give me the appointment as captain of the mounted militia in the Legion of Mississippi; and, during the war we had with France, I conducted myself as my position and my loyalty demanded, as did my uncle Valentine Lyssard, Commandant of the Post of Papide.

"This gained for us a great number of enemies as was the case with all officers who were faithful to the Prince and who earnestly desired to do their duty. The realization that I have a great number of enemies everywhere has impelled me to try to reach you in order to learn whether, under your protection, I can be considered a good Spanish citizen.

Devoted To Spain

"When I have talked with you and made my family known to you, I believe you will give me that title. There are doubtless people at San Antonio who are acquainted in New Orleans. They must know my family—the Facendes, the Florios, the Regios, Mr. de Trevague, deceased, major of the regiment of New Orleans, and Mr. Layssard, also deceased, who was commandant for life at the Post of Papide. In a word, all my relatives have been devoted to Spain. This I can say without fear of contradiction. I am able to give you proofs of all I have had the honor to sumbit to Your Excellency if you will permit me to settle in your jurisdiction. I will bind myself to go to New Orleans to provide myself with a removal permit from that government and with affidavits as to my conduct. My reason for wishing to move is that I am told that the French have secured Louisiana, and you may believe that, if this is true, our enemies will show themselves because we have placed so many obstacles in the way of their wicked plans. This is why I desire to retire to a province where I hope to spend the rest of my days in peace."

The Governor and the Commandant General had many such petitions to consider and haste was one characteristic of the Spanish officials. So Despallier was forced to await with what patience he could command and to fill in the time with drawing up exact plans for the establishment of colonists in Texas as a means of defending Texas from the encroachment of his personal foes as well as from national enemies.

Turning over the sod on the lawn of his home at Rutland, Vt., Kenneth Martin, 19, found his mother's wedding ring, which he had thrown out of a window when a baby.

Failing to obtain a marriage license on credit, George Abritton of Erie, Colo., requested County Clerk Fred Burger to send it to him C. O. D. intention of going after the Memphis boys here Sunday.

Ira Morgan pitched the game here against Hollis last Sunday and did a splendid job in the first six innings by holding the visitors down to three hits. Knight finished the mound work and allowed four hits, but buckled down in the pinches with a row of strikeouts.

Resume Of Game

In the first inning Hollis went down in 1-2-3 order. Adair hit out to Strong; Owen fanned and Truett hit out to Morris. Brisbin hit out for the Gassers; Morris took first when the pitcher made an error, but was thrown out at first on the next play. Newman fanned to retire the side.

In the second period Atkinson and Carlton hit out to Morris and Vandy fanned. The Gassers braced in their half when Horton got to first on an error and Neeley walked. Brown hit out and Strong got to first on a fielders choice, which put Horton out. Strong was ruled out for interfering with a hit ball, and the inning closed with the game still scoreless. The third inning also closed scoreless with both sides putting up only three batters each.

Hollis rallied in the fourth and attempted to score, but Atkinson hit into a double play and retired the side. Brown got the only Gasser hit in this inning, which also closed scoreless, but featured many errors for the Hollis nine.

In the fifth Hollis' three batters went down in short order. Strong hit through third for a clean hit. Nig Wilson followed with a two-bagger. Morgan hit out and Brisbin went out on a long fly, which scored Strong, giving the first score of the game.

Hollis got two hits in the sixth, but retired scoreless. Morris singled for the Gassers and took second on an overthrow. Newman and Horton flew out. Neeley singled scoring Morris. Brown walked, and Strong singled, scoring Neeley; Wilson took first after being hit by a pitched ball, then Ira Morgan singled to score Brown and Strong. Brisbin singled and took second on an overthrow. Morris hit out to retire the side.

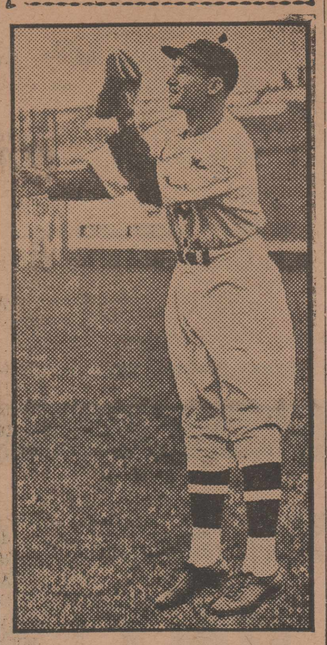

Knight relieved Morgan as pitcher in the seventh, but carried on the good work by retiring the Hollis nine with only one hit. The Gassers ran in two tallies in their half after Horton singled, and Neeley took first on an error. Strong hit scoring Horton and Wilson walked scoring Neeley. Brisbin and Knight fanned to retire the side.

In the eighth Gould and Rollins got hits, but Hollis retired scoreless when Tabers fanned, Adair flew out and Owens fanned. In the Gasser half Morris doubled, but was thrown out at third. Newman hit out and Horton hit out to retire the side. Hollis threatened in the ninth after Truett and Atkinson singled, but the side retired when Truett was thrown out in an attempt to take home plate.

the aged patriot did ring as he had never rung before.

The multitudes that thronged the streets caught the signal and answered with shouts of exultation. Swift messengers bore the glad news throughout the land. Everywhere the declaration was received with great enthusiastic applause.

At Philadelphia the king's arms were torn down from the courthouse and burned in the street. At Williamsburg, Charleston and Savannah there were bonfires and illuminations. At Boston the declaration was read in Faneuil Hall, while the cannon fire from Fort Hill and Rochester shook the city of the Puritans. At New York the people pulled down the leaden statue of George III and cast it into bullets. Washington received the message with joy, and ordered the declaration to be read at the head of each brigade.

First Payment--

Mr. Stovall stated that the producer does not have to request that his certificates be returned, because 15 days after the checks arrive in the county the pool manager will return all certificates to the producer unless he executes the form BA201B.

31 Percent Remains

Slightly over 31 per cent of all the certificates entered by the producer will be left over, subject to his option of repooling or of exchanging for 1935 tags. Total payments include slightly more than 68 per cent of the certificates entered. This county has received a total of $195,307.85 from the government surplus pool, the first payments having run to $144,400.00 and the present checks amounting to $50,907.85.

Mr. Stovall said that the large numbers of checks and acceptance slips involved would not permit sending personal notices to each producer, that the notice in the paper would apply to every producer who entered certificates in the 1934 pool.

John Grady--

ing Maude, where he served as manager, he visited the office in Oklahoma City and learned that Wellington has been set up in the picture schedule.

"This simply means that we will get the pictures and in some instances, weeks earlier than we have gotten them in the past," Mr. Grady said. "However, the same class of outstanding productions will be featured at the Ritz each week."

The new Ritz manager has been in the theatre business for the past 11 years, about four years of which was spent in the general office of Griffith in Oklahoma City. He comes here from Maude and previous to that time spent four and one-half years in Seminole. He has also been stationed in Honey Grove, Stillwater, Tonkawa and Hugo.

It's Grady—Not Gray

"The theatre business carries you lots of places and you have to do lots of things," Mr. Grady said, "but imagine my surprise when I picked up The Leader and found that I was married to a local girl. It also had my wife guessing."

In way of straightening things out Mr. Grady states that he is John Grady and not John Gray. The article published in the paper last week may be attributed to several things. In the first place, the Griffith official did not make himself absolutely clear last week when he told John Bonner the new manager's name over the telephone. As soon as it was learned that the new manager's name was John Gray, and that is what Mr. Bonner understood, industrious Leader reporters tracked down a John Gray, who used to be assistant manager here. Hence, came the error and Mr. Grady's ficticious marriage to a local girl.

"Anyway, we are quite happy to be here," Mr. Grady said, "and if my wife never was before, she certainly is a local girl now."

Mr. Sanger said that employees would be chosen from the rolls on such projects as might be designated by the government, including highways, city streets, Federal buildings, or any other public works projects. He also said that the government was planning a huge program and that it might be possible that local applicants could secure jobs in other sections if work in this area was not sufficient.

"The main thing is to be registered," Mr. Sanger said. "We now have around 350 registered here and there should be 250 more applicants in Collingsworth county."
