Gas prices jump to fund road work

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas motorists, who for many years paid the lowest gasoline tax in the nation, saw a 5-cent increase at the pumps today as state taxes went up to repair roads that officials say have gone to potholes.

The doubling of the gasoline tax is part of a triple-hike that hits the wallets of most Texans. The sales tax on cars went up from 4 percent to 5 percent and the annual motor vehicle registration fee was raised — as much as 200 percent for owners of new, small cars.

Gallon by gallon, car by car and license plate by license plate, Texans are paying to patch the highway system. The Legislature in July approved an overall $4.6 billion tax hike to pay for highway and school improvements.

The higher taxes for education funds — including a one-eighth percent hike in the state sales tax — are effective Oct. 2.

"I think you're going to find some people who will be disgruntled" with the higher tax at the gas pumps, said House Speaker Gib Lewis, who presided over the first tax hike in 13 years.

"I think they are only going to have to sit and think for one second about where the funds are going. They're going to the highways, so they can get to their jobs quicker and they can cut down on repairs to their cars from hitting the chuckholes," said the speaker.

The director of the Texas Service Station Association offers another way to live with higher taxes.

"There's nothing you can do about it. There's no use complaining about it. It's going to be there," Bill Ligon said of the gasoline tax hike.

The nickel-a-gallon gasoline tax rise will bring in $1.34 billion over the next three years — the single largest increase.

For car registration fees, lawmakers changed the whole system, scrapping the weight-based tax for a levy based on age on car.

Owners of new cars under 3,500 pounds paid $15.80 a year under the old system. Today it costs $46.30 a year to register any car — regardless of weight — made since 1981.

"Ecology-minded people who complied with the request from environmental and government leaders to get smaller cars are now going to pay more for license plates," said Bill Aleshire, Travis County tax assessor-collector.

Motorists whose registrations come up in August are the first facing the new fees.

"Those people know about it. We've heard from them," said Dian Neill, staff officer for the motor vehicle division of the state highway department. "Now we're sending out September notices. Soon we'll hear from them."

Aleshire said the usual end-of-the-month crush for license plates and stickers was about 25 percent worse this week as motorists with July registrations tried to beat the hike.

Many drivers with August registrations tried to beat the hike by paying in July. For many, it was a worthless effort because of a highway department ruling that the new fees would be charged for August registrations once Gov. Mark White signed the bill on July 13.

"We had people showing up for the past two weeks for August plates who were upset that we were charging the new fees," said Aleshire, who has asked for an attorney general's opinion concerning when the new fees should have gone into effect.

Mrs. Neill said all August registrations — no matter when they were purchased — were billed at the new, higher rates because the new law was effective Aug. 1.

The registration fee increase will raise $708 million for the state over the next three years. The fees will increase $6.25 in each of the next two years, topping out at $58.80 for the newest cars in 1986.

Tax rolls to allow figuring tax rates

Certified tax rolls have now been delivered to the six entities with taxing powers here: Scurry County, the college district comprising Western Texas College, the City of Snyder and the school districts serving Snyder, Ira and Hermleigh.

With this figure provided by staffers with the Scurry County Appraisal District, budget planners for each taxing entity must now begin final work to set their respective tax rates.

The tax rate is the figure multiplied times $100 valuations to produce a final tax bill. These range from some 8 cents to 63 cents among the six member entities of the district.

As an example of how a tax charge is figured, a residence valued at $50,000 applied to a tax rate of 30 cents would produce a tax bill equaling $150.

As predicted earlier, only two taxing entities experienced an increase in the final valuation of taxable property — the City of Snyder and the Hermleigh ISD. All others will have a smaller tax base to finance budget years falling within 1984-85.

Included in the latest calculations provided by the appraisal district staff is a figure required by law called the "effective tax rate."

It reflects a tax rate figure which would produce the same amount of tax dollars as generated last year based upon the new values.

SDN format to 6-column

Beginning with this issue, the Snyder Daily News adopts a new layout format, changing from eight to six columns.

The switch follows a nationwide trend brought about by the advertising industries attempt to standardize the sizes of advertising — both national and local.

In addition, the six-column format has long been recommended by page layout experts for its "readability."

These experts recommend a six-column format for its cleaner, less clutter look, staffers note.

SHS teachers invited to Rockefeller event

Two Snyder High School fine arts instructors have been invited to participate in an education seminar sponsored in Boston by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund — the same group which awarded SHS a fine arts in education award this past spring.

Invited to attend the seminar are Jerry Worsham, drama instructor, and Bill Lyon, choral director at the high school.

The event begins Friday and is to continue through Sunday.

The Rockefeller Fine Arts in Education Award has been in effect for three years and the seminar is to bring 30 of the recipients together.

The seminar is to gather information pertaining to pre-college fine arts education in the U.S. — information which will be used in a cultural education exchange program with the Peoples Republic of China.

David Rockefeller Jr., who traveled to Snyder to present the Rockefeller award last May, will preside at the first of the 15 planned seminars.

Farm session planned here

A meeting to allow questions and comments regarding the 1985 federal farm bill is planned here Aug. 10 — a Friday — by staffers with U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm's office.

It will begin at 9 a.m. at Snyder Savings and Loan Community Room.

All Scurry County farmers and ranchers as well as any other interested persons are invited.

All comments will be forwarded to Stenholm, who serves as a member of the House Agriculture Committee.

Stenholm staffers to preside at the meeting will be Randy Green, legislative assistant for agriculture; and Dale King, district representative from Stenholm's Stamford office.

Howard Limmer has the answer for quick weight loss--open a new store.

Limmer, Snyder Anthony's manager, has been directing the last-minute efforts to open the new store on College Ave. this week. The effort to set fixtures and stock shelves with merchandise got underway Saturday. Some 75 area store managers and assistant managers hit town Sunday to help with the project.

By Monday, Limmer had the inside of the store shaping up, and cash registers were ringing by Wednesday. Limmer wants to operate a week or so to work out the bugs before a full-fledge grand opening.

Limmer's answer for quick weight loss is back-to-back 20-hour days and a store full of company brass from Oklahoma City.

Howard has only two misgivings about his move off the square. One is training his old white pickup not to go all the way downtown each morning. The second concern is over coffee. "My system has been so conditioned to Stinson Drug coffee, I may go through withdrawal."

Dean Floyd says he doesn't have time for Limmer anyhow. "I'd rather go fishing with my grandson."

Dean recently carried grandson Raymond fishing, and there is evidence that Raymond is a natural fisherman. Everytime he tells the story about the fish he caught, his hands extend a little further.

Raymond was four years old last week, and he was eager for the big day to arrive. On Monday, young Raymond was in the store and announced when his birthday was to be.

"Just three more naps and I'll be four."

It just doesn't seem right that all that energy should be wasted on young folks. Youngsters don't want a nap, but older folks like Dean and Howard would glady agree to a afternoon siesta.

Did you hear about the Aggie loan shark who loaned out all of his money and then skipped town?

Committee for Reagan announced

Roy Baze and Roger Mize will serve as co-chairmen of the Scurry County Reagan-Bush Steering Committee and Roy McQueen will serve as treasurer, U.S. Sen. John Tower announced Tuesday.

"This excellent group of respected community leaders exemplifies the grassroots involvement we need to win Texas' 29 electoral votes," said Tower, Texas campaign chairman for the effort.

Baze is the retired senior vice president of Exxon Company USA. He is the Republican County Chairman in Scurry County and is active in civic and community organizations.

Mize is the president of Snyder National Bank and Snyder Savings and Loan Association. He is chairman of the board of Elsa State Bank and Trust Company in Elsa.

McQueen is the publisher of the Snyder Daily News and is active in local civic and church affairs.

Other members of the Reagan-Bush Scurry County Steering Committee are Henry Clark, Ted Crenwelge, Gene Dulaney, Jack Denman, M.L. Duke, Bill Eiland, John Jarrell, Bill Jones, Sig Line, Harry Reed, Rod Waller and E.D. Walton.

Ask Us

Q — Why were the new fees for license tag registration charged before Aug. 1, when the law went into effect?

A — A spokesman for the county tax office said that the initial report from Austin was that persons with tags expiring in August could still register their vehicle under the old charges during the month of July. This was incorrect, they noted, and a subsequent directive indicated that all tags expiring in August would come under the new fee, regardless of when the actual registration was completed.

In Brief

Four stabbed

PALESTINE (AP) — Four prisoners were stabbed by seven other inmates at breakfast today in the Texas prison system's Coffield Unit, where a search turned up nearly 500 weapons 12 days ago, a prison spokesman said.

Charlie Brown said all four inmates were hospitalized following the attack, which he said occurred between 5:30 a.m. and 5:45 a.m. in a hallway adjacent to the unit's chow hall.

Brown said he could not release the names of the victims yet because their relatives had not been notified.

Two victims were undergoing surgery at Anderson County Memorial Hospital, Brown said. One was in critical condition with a collapsed lung. The other was in serious condition with stab wounds to his abdomen, Brown said.

Won't run

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson today said he has decided not to run for the U.S. Senate in South Carolina because of other "national responsibilities."

"After much thought, consultation, discussion and prayer, I have decided not to run for the U.S. Senate as an independent Democrat in the general election in the state of South Carolina in 1984," Jackson said in a statement prepared for a news conference at the National Urban League 1984 annual conference.

Jackson said he feels a "strong obligation to continue to stimulate voter registration and voter turnout among members of the Rainbow Coalition."

Still rationing water

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — As a standing-room-only crowd looked on, city officials in this drought-stricken South Texas city decided to develop a water rationing plan based on family size.

Meanwhile in North Texas, the Jacksboro City Council Tuesday night voted to apply for $3.7 to $5 million in revenue bonds to improve Lake Jacksboro and lay a permanent water line to Lake Bridgeport.

Rady & Associates, a Fort Worth consulting firm, has estimated that Jacksboro could run out of water by mid-September.

Corpus Christi officials had been considering allocating a flat 6,000 gallons per month to each residential customer.

The revised plan based on family size will likely allow 6,000 gallons a month to a family of six, 9,000 for a family of eight, 10,000 gallons for families with nine or ten members and 13,000 galons for larger households.

No changes were proposed in the plan to have commercial and industrial customers cut their water use by 25 percent or in the plan to have all water customers pay rate surcharges if they exceed allocations set by the city.

This latest conservation plan is aimed at stretching Lake Corpus Christi water through autumn 1985 if there is no further rainfall in the Nueces River watershed.

City officials are concerned because Lake Corpus Christi is below the half-full point. Corpus Christi has an annual rainfall of about 30 inches, but to date the city has received only 6.9 inches of rain.

If there is no rain and the lake level continues to fall, city officials said, the city will have to find other sources of water.

45 nominees for education board

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White will get a list of 45 nominees for the revamped State Board of Education by Sept. 1, according to the legislative panel that will pick the candidates.

Speaker Gib Lewis, chairman of the new 10-member Legislative Education Board, said Tuesday that "well over 100" applications for the 15 spots on the new State Board of Education have been submitted.

The new education law scraps the 27-member elected Board of Education and sets up a 15-member panel picked by the governor. The board reverts to an elected one in four years.

White will select from among the three nominees recommended for each of the 15 districts.

"If anyone has a desire to serve (on the new board) they need to get their applications in right away," said Lewis.

Secretary of State John Fainter told the LEB that the U.S. Department of Justice, which must approve all election-related changes, will rule on the new plan within 60 days.

Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, told the LEB he wants current board member Mary Helen Berlanga of Corpus Christi appointed to the new panel.

Berlanga called his cousin's wife "the pride of South Texas and the Hispanic community."

Also Tuesday, the LEB was told that an apparent legislative oversight may have left the state responsible for funding full-day kindergarten in districts that want the state money to do it.

LEB member Bill Haley, House public education committee chairman, said lawmakers meant to pay only for half-day kindergarten. But Lewis said the Texas Education Agency's interpretation of the education reform package includes state money for full-day kindergarten.

If all eligible districts opt to take the money, it could cost the state $90 million, officials said.

Haley said the 1985 Legislature probably would correct the error. He warned districts not to take the money unless they are willing to pick up the costs if the 1985 Legislature does rework the bill.

Board members also sought to allay fears of school superintendents who have seen computer printouts indicating the new legislation would give their schools less money than previous printouts showed.

"My office has received some concerns from superintendents calling in saying this is going to hurt us and we are going to lose a great deal more money than we previously anticipated," said Lewis.

He added that "some of the superintendents around the state have been crying the sky is falling," but Texas Education Agency officials told the board that the later printouts are inaccurate.

Exercise is key to weight loss

DEAR DR. LAMB — How many pounds will a 240-pound female lose walking briskly three miles per day, 10 miles a week, while eating 1,200 calories a day?

What is a safe pulse rate during the walk? How long should it take to lose 100 pounds following the above procedure? I have 11 to 12 months to do this.

DEAR READER — Since I do not know either your age or your height, I shall have to make some assumptions. Let us assume that you normally use 2,000 calories a day while on your regular routine. That means on 1,200 calories a day, you will have a calorie deficit of 800 calories a day.

In a week that will represent a total calorie deficit of 5,600 calories.

If you walk a mile and weigh 240 pounds, you will use an extra 90 calories. That means at only 10 miles a week, you will use an additional 900 calories. The combination of the diet and walking means you will have a calorie deficit of about 6,500 calories a week.

Since there are about 3,200 to 3,500 calories in a pound of body fat, that means you would be using the number of calories in two pounds of body fat a week. It follows that at the end of a year, you would have lost the calories in about 100 pounds of body fat.

You should expect to increase your walking distance as you progress, because as you lose body fat, you will use fewer calories per mile. I would hope you could build up to walking four miles a day and relax a little on your calorie restriction.

You will get the guidance you need for your program in the Health Letter 20-10, Doing Something About Body Fat, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am considering getting a vasectomy. How effective is this operation? What will it do to my sex life? Who does one see about getting it done? Is it permanent? If a man wants to have children again, can a vasectomy be reversed?

DEAR READER — Basically, the sperm cells produced by your testicles are transported through a tube called the vas deferens to the area of the prostate gland. Here the sperm cells join with secretions from the prostate and are released through the urethra.

A vasectomy means cutting the vas deferens tube and blocking it. That way, sperm cells cannot escape from the testicles and the man is sterile. The testicles continue to form testosterone. Since it is a hormone, it is carried by the bloodstream to the man's body to provide the usual male characteristics, sex drive and even influence his personality. This function is undisturbed and that means a man's sex life is not altered. Any possible change is usually from a psychological factor, usually because the man didn't understand his operation.

Sometime the tubes can be reconnected, but you should consider the operation to be a permanent procedure. You can see a urologist about having the operation done. It is rather simple.

Reagan eyes school with more power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, concerned about a "growing lack of discipline and disorder in the public schools," is asking the Supreme Court to expand the power of school authorities to search students' belongings for drugs and weapons.

The Justice Department urged the court to use a New Jersey case to establish that students do not have the same constitutional protection as adults against warrantless searches and seizures.

"The panoply of constitutional protections guaranteed to adults cannot and should not be transplanted wholesale to children," the department said. "Both history and common sense compel this conclusion in the context of school searches."

Department lawyers said that evidence seized in a search by a school official should be admissible in a criminal prosecutions if the official had reasonable grounds for conducting the search.

The department, in a "friend-of-the court" brief filed Tuesday, carried out orders issued last Jan. 7 by President Reagan, who called in a national radio address for a crackdown on "rude, unruly behavior and even violence" in the nation's classrooms.

"The sad truth is many classrooms across the country are not temples of learning, teaching the lessons of goodwill, civility and wisdom important to the whole fabric of American life," the president said in his speech.

The Justice Department used those exact words Tuesday in defending warrantless searches conducted by teachers that may produce evidence to be used in criminal prosecutions.

"Having been given responsibilities like those of a parent, leeway must be given to teachers to exercise authority in a manner that might not be permitted of other state officials," the department said.

It cited a 1978 government report that each month 282,000 students were physically attacked in America's public schools, 112,000 were robbed and 2.4 million were victims of theft.

"School searches — conducted in a prompt and informal way — are a vital means of protecting students and teachers from weapons and drugs and enforcing school disciplinary rules," the department said.

The bidding was grand

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Jim: "Here is a deal from the Cavendish Club's Invitational Team-of-Four held in New York in May. I was playing South, and my partner was Bobby Wolff."

Oswald: "You and Bobby Wolff were the anchor pair for the winning World Championship teams I captained in 1970 and 1971."

Jim: "We don't often play together any more, so it was a pleasure to have this opportunity. Let's look at how we bid to the grand slam in diamonds. After the response of two clubs to my opening one-diamond bid, I bid two spades to show extra values. Bobby now supported my diamonds."

Oswald: "From that point until five no-trump, you were cue-bidding controls. Your bid of three hearts showed first-round control and North showed the heart king. When East doubled four hearts, your four-spade bid announced strong controls in that suit, and certainly guaranteed that your heart cue-bid was legitimate."

Jim: "Partner's five no-trump bid was the grand slam force in diamonds — our agreed suit. With two of the top three honors in diamonds, I was delighted to accept partner's invitation and bid seven."

Oswald: "I'm not taking anything away from your bidding, but it was much more difficult for your opponents at the other table to reach the grand slam. There your teammate sitting East opened with a weak two-bid in hearts, and West raised him to three. North-South at that table did very well after that start to reach six no-trump, but they still lost on the deal."

Sweater sets, cords come back

By Florence De Santis

NEW YORK (NEA) — While the days apparently are gone when each college had its own carefully defined "look," that doesn't stop college fashion favorites of past years from being revived.

A classic example — the sweater set — returns among this year's campus trends. Many of the sets are highly individualistic, and made of cashmere as in the days when the pullover with matching cardigan first became a campus rage.

Of course, current sweater sets come in today's vivid jewel tones or winter pales. Many carry the intarsia (pictorial inlays) themes introduced by the Italians. They're looser, too, than the old-time sweater sets, as are most of this fall's sweaters.

At Outlines, the Italian look of softly mixed rainbow hues appears in a big-cowled, dolman-sleeved pullover, or in a loose crew neck with raglan push-up sleeves. Cardigans at Outlines come long and oversized, too, in such bold patterns as wide bands of brown and white zigzag striping.

In pants, cropped corduroys bid to be campus favorites, but the stonewashed denim trend is by no means finished. This deliberately aged appearance comes now in loosely cut but tapered jeans and a matching vest or ranch-style jacket. It harks back to the working-cowboy look where jeans started.

Less scuffed but still casual are the washed-indigo denim bomber jacket and hip-yoked jeans at Blasswear, paired with a cream cotton knit T-shirt trimmed in striped cotton sheeting.

The move away from tight jeans to looser pants with details such as yokes, roll-up bottoms and tapered legs reflects the individualism of the "street" influence. It may include amply proportioned suspender pants worn with a loose crew neck sweater, cropped pants with a high waistband cinching a cotton bellows-pocket shirt, or black washed denim pants adding fullness before the pants taper to the bottom. Tuck in an oversized lumberjack plaid shirt or a cotton oversize sweater for the authentically slouchy look.

The "street" look can go as far as wrinkled cotton work shirts and scuffed denims, with an authentically spiky hairdo to complete the effect, but it also includes the widespread adaptation of jogging clothes to general wear.

Campuses have been seeing plenty of jogging suits for some time. Firms like Converse are presenting them this fall in such colors as fuchsia, teal, mango, red pepper and magenta. Sports firms are using fleece, the fabric of jogging suits, in such tops as Smart Alec's Trevira-cotton gray top: It's loose and cropped, banded across the front in black and red sections. It goes with red fleece pants, wide at the top like joggers but tapering to above-ankle black cuffs.

Campus coverups follow the individualistic trend with ethnic inspirations, such as the Honey Collection's huge fringed shawl in blue, black and gray wool blend plaid, or their ponchos and ruanas in earth colors. Alice Blaine likes oversize jackets, styled like a French butcher's jacket or cut long in kimono style and knit of acrylic in teal, wine and black check. She calls her versions of the street influence the "throwaway" look.

Real coats for campus are equally big and slouchy, such as George Masket's broad-shouldered, three-quarter length gray wool flannel with waist-deep lapels and huge patch pockets. But many campus coats this year are knits, such as a big cream wool from Penn Wright & Manson with strands of thick rug yarn in spaced blocks patterning the surface. The big-ribbed shawl collar frames the face.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

CAMPUS FASHIONS include casuals inspired by jogging suits, such as these Trevira-cotton fleece separates from Smart-Alec of California. Loose gray cropped top is banded in red and black sections, while red pants taper from wide top to narrow black cuffs. Seen at Executive Retreat, Palm Springs. Top $22; pants $23.

"Lois is redecorating..."

DENNIS THE MENACE

"FOR PITY SAKES, GEORGE, DON'T BE SO STODGY! GO OUT AND GET AN ICE CREAM CONE IF YOU WANT ONE!"

Demo ticket arrives in state

AUSTIN (AP) — With a new poll showing them trailing President Reagan in Texas, the Democratic presidential ticket of Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro today were scheduled to make their first appearance in the state.

Mondale and Rep. Ferraro, chosen as his running mate two weeks ago, were to visit Austin, Houston and San Antonio in the two-day swing as they seek support in a state Democratic leaders consider crucial to the presidential election.

In Austin, the two planned to speak to a late-afternoon rally on the Capitol steps. In Houston, they will answer questions from community college students Thursday morning, then travel to San Antonio for another rally.

The Texas tour is part of a campaign through the South, an area where many Democrats say President Reagan is ahead.

GOP pollster Lance Tarrance of Houston on Tuesday released a new survey which he said showed Reagan with "a substantial lead in Texas."

Tarrance said the poll, commissioned by the Reagan campaign, surveyed 600 registered voters.

It showed that if the election where held now, Reagan would beat Mondale by a 59 percent to 32 percent margin in the state. When the complete ticket of Reagan and Vice President George Bush was pitted against Mondale and Ms. Ferraro, the GOP margin widened slightly to 60 percent to 32 percent, Tarrance's poll said.

"The solid lead that President Reagan holds over Walter Mondale shows that the president continues to enjoy the widespread support he has earned among Texans," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, chairman of Reagan's Texas campaign.

"Walter Mondale certainly did not help himself with Texans by naming as his running mate a member of Congress from New York City. I am confident that President Reagan and Vice President Bush will carry Texas in 1984 just as they did in 1980," Tower said.

No Democrat has become president without carrying Texas, the nation's third-largest state, and Democratic officials have said they expect Mondale and Ms. Ferraro to campaign extensively in the state.

Democratic Party officials were working to make certain the turnouts this week were sizeable.

Around downtown Austin on Tuesday, flyers were being distributed encouraging people to attend the 4:45 p.m. rally.

Paul Harvey

Prominent among lapel buttons around the Democrats' political convention was the one which boasted simply: A WOMAN ON THE TICKET!

It was a calculated risk, that Geraldine Ferraro would upstage candidate Mondale. She upstaged everybody.

But before the tumult and the shouting died, the lady from Queens was under the media X-ray.

Before she was even nominated, she was being subjected to a kind of exposure she has never known before.

Congresswoman Ferraro has campaigned and won three times before. She has faced criticism before. Some of the criticism, relating to the fact that she, a Roman Catholic, approves abortion, became vitriolic, personal, even vicious.

But that was nothing compared to what comes now.

For example: It is federal law — it is part of the federal government's "ethics law" — that members of Congress must reveal all financial data about themsleves and their spouses.

She never has.

During three terms in Congress she has filed five disclosure statements — and never did disclose anything about her husband.

Husband, John Zaccaro, inherited much money, is a successful developer of real estate in New York and derives considerable income from that; probably from other sources.

One remembers that Idaho Congressman George Hansen was convicted by federal jury last April for failure to report his wife's assets; further was recommended by the House Ethics Committee for a formal reprimand.

Compounding the Ferraro "oversight" is the fact that she owns stock in her husband's company and is an officer of that corporation. She will not be able to claim "no knowledge" of her spouse's holdings.

And that's not all: Husband John Zaccaro owns 352 low-rent apartments in New York and is charged by the New York Housing Authority with 106 building violations in those apartments.

Why didn't she anticipate these embarrassments?

She did advise Mondale of her vulnerability on the Catholic-abortion issue, but apparently did not apprise him in advance of her neglect of congressional ethics requirements.

Well...

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: For a living, I deliver singing telegrams dressed like Dolly Parton. I love show business, and a person has to start somewhere, right? This job has me driving all over Chicago and into the suburbs, so in between jobs I've always felt free to drop in on friends and relatives when I'm in the area.

Recently I was hurt to the core when my mother informed me that my sister, who lives in Lake Forest, told her that she doesn't want me stopping by in my Dolly Parton costume anymore because she's embarrassed by what her neighbors might think. I wasn't too surprised because my sister had already dictated how other people should dress when they come to Lake Forest. She never tells people to their face—she makes my mother do her dirty work.

Well, I called my sister and told her off for not telling me to my face that she didn't want me stopping by in my Dolly Parton costume. Then my sister called my mother and laid her out for having told me. Then my mother called me and gave me heck for confronting my sister.

Who was in the wrong here, Abby? I hate these family fights.

DOLLY'S LOOK-ALIKE
IN CHICAGO

DEAR LOOK-ALIKE: First, nobody can "make" your mother do anything she doesn't want to do, so it's unfair to say your sister "makes" your mother do her dirty work.

Carrying tales is immature. If your sister doesn't want you to come to Lake Forest in your Dolly Parton costume anymore, she should have told you instead of telling your mother. And your mother should not have told you what your sister said.

You showed more maturity than both your mother and your sister by telling them what was on your mind.

If you hate family fights, take a lesson from Dolly Parton: Be up-front with everything, and let it all hang out.

DEAR ABBY: I recently noticed an item in your column instructing readers who bake your famous pecan pie to add 15 to 20 minutes to the baking time if they have electric ovens!

Why? A 350-degree oven should be 350 degrees whether it's gas, electric, coal or wood.

I am a former home economist, and this made no sense to me, so I checked with several of my colleagues and they couldn't understand it either. Please explain.

CHERYL C. BAKER,
TULSA, OKLA.

DEAR MS. BAKER: (What a coincidence!) You are right: 350 degrees is 350 degrees regardless of how the temperature is achieved.

However, after receiving a number of complaints about "runny and undercooked" pies, I checked back with the complainers and learned that they all had electric ovens.

Of course, all ovens should be checked and regulated if the [illegible] time seems incorrect, but knowing that most people tend to procrastinate, I suggested adding 15 to 20 minutes to the baking time for electric ovens. Witness the following testimonial:

DEAR ABBY: I tried your pecan pie again, and thanks to your recent addendum regarding baking in electric ovens, mine was a huge success. I wish to say thank you.

POLLY C. RANLETT,
SANTA ROSA, CALIF.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl and I was going with a 22-year-old guy, but we aren't going together anymore. We went to a concert and he borrowed $10 from me for the tickets and said he would pay me back. Well, he hasn't paid me back yet.

We broke up because I wouldn't sleep with him. What is the best way to get my money back?

K. IN N.J.

DEAR K.: Forget the money, and forget him, too. You're lucky you lost only $10. Consider it a cheap lesson.

Regulator neglect cited at Empire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board neglected increasing evidence of financial misdealings at Empire Savings and Loan Association of Mesquite for a year before finally taking action, says a report released by the House Government Operations Committee.

The report, prepared by the Subcommittee on Commerce, Consumer and Monetary Affairs and released Tuesday, said the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. estimates that it will end up paying $163.8 million in insured deposits from Empire, the "largest direct payout in (FSLIC's) 50-year history."

If the bank board had stepped in sooner, the losses could have been reduced, the report said. It called the bank board's supervision of Empire "an instance of significant regulatory neglect."

"We're reserving any comment until we have had an opportunity to study the committee's report in depth," said FHLBB spokesman Bob Moore.

The subcommittee concluded that the bank board does not have an effective system of evaluating real estate appraisals such as those used to back the loans made by Empire. But more basically, the report said, the board does not know how to deal with "the exceptional case of the financial outlaw."

"The agencies have examination and supervisory structures which function effectively when an institution is making a good faith effort to adhere to the law and to the rules," the report said. "But when there is a determined effort to deceive, the agencies are too often helpless."

The subcommittee recommended that the bank board take real estate appraisers who purposely inflate land values to court. (A bank board official, William Schilling, said in a July 10 letter to subcommittee chairman Doug Bernard Jr. that alleged inflated appraisals of condominium developments in the Lake Ray Hubbard area have been referred to U.S. Attorney James Rolfe in Dallas.)

Texas Secretary of State Fainter resigns

AUSTIN (AP) — Secretary of State John Fainter has resigned that post, his office said today. Fainter said he plans to take a job with a private law firm.

"He resigned yesterday," said a spokeswoman in the secretary of state's office, which Fainter ran since being appointed by Gov. Mark White 18 months ago.

Fainter told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram he was quitting to join the Austin office of the Houston law firm Reynolds, Allen & Cook, where White started his law practice.

Fainter expects to concentrate on municipal bonds, his specialty before he went to work for White when White was attorney general.

"It's time. I need to get back to private practice, and it's convenient because it will allow the governor to replace me before the election," Fainter said.

"The governor's office will make an announcement at the appropriate time. I never said I was going to stay here forever," Fainter said.

A possible candidate to succeed Fainter, is Sarah Weddington, who currently heads White's federal-state relations office in Washington.

Ms. Weddington has said she would like to have the job, and White late last month said she would be qualified "for any job," including the secretary of state post.

Fainter, 45, has been secretary of state for 18 months. During that time, he upgraded the central reporting system for elections and has concentrated on voter registration and office automation.

"We have registered more voters than ever before," he said. "And we're making significant progress toward broadening automation in the office."

Fainter was vice president of a Houston brokerage firm, Underwood, Neuhaus & Co., before going to work as first assistant to White in the attorney general's office.

He also headed the committee which oversaw White's transition to the governor's office after his election in 1982.

A native of Pecos, Fainter served as Harris County coordinator for the gubernatorial campaigns of Dolph Briscoe in 1974 and 1978.

Six tax rates to be figured

Using the effective tax rate as a base, individual entities must also calculate if they are proposing to raise taxes more than 3 percent when compared to last.

Entities which exceed this 3 percent maximum must comply with "truth in taxation" public hearings before the tax rate can be implemented.

Tax rate figures are carried to four decimal points. A rate of .3000 equals a 30 cent rate. Likewise, a rate of .0800 equals an 8 cent per $100 valuation rate.

The following information lists by entity the overall tax base this year as compared to last. In addition, it shows the tax rate used last year, the "effective tax rate" for this year and the maximum tax rate which may now be charged without requiring the public hearings.

Western Texas College District: A tax base for the coming year of $2.5 billion ($2,544,277,308), a decline from $2.6 billion last year ($2,655,454,600). Last year's tax rate was .0770 cents. This year's effective tax rate is .0800 and the maximum rate allowed without a public hearing is .0824.

Scurry County: A tax base for the coming year of $2.4 billion ($2,480,017,474), a decline from $2.5 billion last year ($2,599,712,360). Last year's tax rate was .1558 cents. This year's effective tax rate is .1649 and the maximum rate allowed without a public hearing is .1698.

Snyder ISD: A tax base for the coming year of $2.3 billion ($2,308,884,768), a decline from $2.4 billion last year ($2,400,273,458). Last year's tax rate was .3550 cents. This year's effective tax rate is .3701 and the maximum rate allowed without a public hearing is .3812.

City of Snyder: A tax base for the coming year of $273 million ($273,896,248), an increase from $236 million last year ($236,872,813). Last year's tax rate was .2907 cents. This year's effective tax rate is .2563 and the maximum rate allowed without a public hearing is .2639.

Ira ISD: A tax base for the coming year of $200 million ($200,848,895), a decrease from $221 million last year ($221,620,923). Last year's tax rate was .2240 cents. This year's effective tax rate is .2474 and the maximum rate allowed without a public hearing is .2548.

Hermleigh ISD: A tax base for the coming year of $36 million ($36,107,928), an increase from $32 million last year ($32,907,667). Last year's tax rate was .6900 cents. This year's effective tax rate is .6202 and the maximum rate allowed without a public hearing is .6388.

Lake warning sign posted

By The Associated Press

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has posted warning signs at one Texas lake and is studying another in the wake of two rare brain infection cases that officials say may have been caused by an amoeba.

In one of the cases of amoebic meningoencephalitis, a 4-year-old Dallas boy was in critical condition late Tuesday at Children's Medical Center.

Soviets reject latest offer on limitations of space weapons

MOSCOW (AP) — A high-ranking Soviet official said today that Washington's latest proposal on holding talks to limit weapons in space makes no change in the U.S. position and "does not open up prospects for holding the talks."

Alexander A. Bessmertnykh, head of the Foreign Ministry's United States Department, also accused the Reagan administration of taking steps to militarize space.

Bessmertnykh briefed Soviet and foreign reporters on a U.S. State Department message reportedly delivered Saturday to the Soviet government.

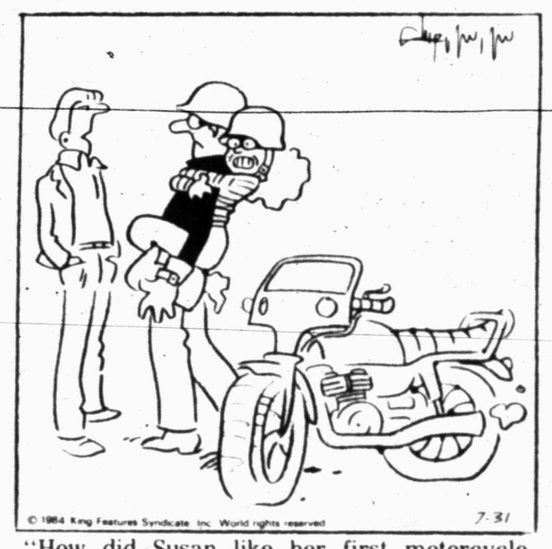

In that message the State Department expressed willingness to engage in talks on weapons in outer space, including the subject of anti-satellite weapons, according to diplomatic sources in Moscow who spoke on condition of anonymity.

However, Bessmertnykh said the United States "proposed talks on the militarization of outer space, rather than the prevention of the militarization of outer space."

"This is nothing but an attempt to substitute the contents of the talks the Soviet Union is proposing and it is designed to legalize the spreading of the arms race to space," he said.

Asked whether he expected U.S. and Soviet officials to hold talks in Vienna, Austria, in September, as proposed by the Kremlin in June, he said, "at present, the position taken by the United States does not open up prospects for holding the talks."

Pellet gun said stolen

Police investigated a misdemeanor theft complaint Tuesday as Michael McKinney called at 10:38 p.m. to report a missing pellet gun.

The gun, with an estimated value of $50, was said taken from his car. It was parked at the Minute Market at the intersection of 25th St. and Ave. F around 10 p.m.

City officers were also called to a domestic disturbance at an East Snyder residence earlier Tuesday evening and a misdemeanor assault charges later filed against one man. No arrest was reported in connection with the incident Tuesday evening.

In other action, police jailed two suspects for public intoxication, one for outstanding traffic warrants and a fourth on charges of driving with a suspended license and misdemeanor evading arrest.

HOUSTON PARKWAY EXTENSION: The Facts

FACT: The Extension will cost some 750,000 dollars. Street construction will be funded by federal money, not local tax dollars.

FACT: The fence along the proposed Parkway Extension is for the sole purpose of allowing the present lessee of the property to keep cattle on the remaining property while surveys and construction are completed. The fence has nothing to do with future development, and City Council has never stated opposition to future development.

FACT: The Extension of Houston Parkway is not a truck bypass. FM 1611 has been officially proposed as a truck route.

FACT: Traffic along the Extension will be controlled as all city streets are controlled by city ordinance enforced by city police.

FACT: The Extension of Houston Parkway will divert traffic away from Towle Memorial Park as reflected by studies of the Texas Dept. of Highways.

FACT: The Extension of Houston Parkway will divert traffic away from Towle Memorial Park and make the 20 mph park drive safer for children.

FACT: The Extension will assist traffic movement out of the residential districts in Southwest Snyder.

FACT: the Extension will help relieve congestion adjacent to West Elementary and Snyder Junior High Schools.

FACT: the Extension will assist emergency vehicles traveling from Southwest residential areas to Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Store to drop magazine sale

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Forty-eight 7-Eleven convenience stores will stop selling adult magazines for two months, but an official says it's not because an anti-pornography group planned to picket the stores.

John Richards, merchandising manager for a group of 48 western Pennsylvania 7-Eleven stores, said Tuesday the ban was imposed for a trial period because "it's just the thing to do."

"There were all kinds of rumors out there. There's been a lot of discussion on adult-type magazines," Richards said. "If they were going (to picket), you know more about it than I know about it at this point."

After 60 days, he said, a decision will be made on banning adult magazines from the stores permanently.

Shortly after Richards' announcement, the National Federation for Decency based in Tupelo, Miss., said it was canceling plans to picket Monday outside 7-Eleven stores in western Pennsylvania.

Steve Hallman, the group's associate director, said it is now "encouraging all citizens who are concerned with the destructive nature of pornography to patronize the 7-Eleven stores ... and express appreciation for this action."

"I don't like to say fear was the motivation," Hallman said of Richards' announcement. "They have the autonomy to make this decision and we are pleased they made it."

Hallman said his group has a national mailing list of 300,000 people.

Train hits boys

DALLAS (AP) — A 13-year-old Dallas boy, struck by a train while he was playing near a railroad trestle, died Tuesday night at Dallas Medical City Hospital, officials said.

Shane Jackson was playing "tag" with some friends near the Prestonwood Country Club on Tuesday when the train struck him at 4:10 p.m., according to Lorie Shaw, a nursing supervisor at the hospital.

Ms. Shaw said the boy, who suffered massive head injuries and multiple broken bones, died at 8:56 p.m. She added that no one else was injured.

Rabies victim critical

HOUSTON (AP) — A comatose 12-year-old girl stricken with rabies remained in critical condition as doctors exhausted efforts to try to determine the source of the disease.

The youngster, suffering the nation's first case of rabies this year, continued to receive the experimental drug ribavirin and was being kept on life support systems at Texas Children's Hospital, hospital spokeswoman Joan London said Tuesday night.

"She remains the same," Ms. London said. "She is in critical condition and doing poorly."

Ms. London said the girl's pediatrician, Dr. Dixie Swanson, "called it a deep coma," but she said the child was not brain dead.

Dr. Ralph Feigin, the hospital's physician in chief, said the child has been receiving ribavirin, an experimental anti-viral agent "effective in the test tube" against the rabies virus.

Squad car hits church bus

AUSTIN (AP) — A deputy who fell asleep at the wheel after working a night shift struck a church bus carrying 36 day-care students on an outing to a skating rink, slightly injuring 10, authorities say.

Travis County deputy Daniel Trevino, 27, had fallen asleep before the Tuesday afternoon collision, which injured 10 students, two teachers and Trevino.

None of the injuries were serious. All of the victims, including Trevino, were discharged after being treated at the Brackenridge Hospital emergency room.

Department of Public Safety Trooper Cedric Hudson said Trevino told investigators he had worked the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift at the Travis County Jail, and fell asleep at the wheel as he headed home.

Inmates wants with son

NORFOLK, Mass. (AP) — A 2-year-old boy dying of cancer and too weak to speak may not live long enough to share a few minutes with his father, a convicted burglar being granted a special parole to be with him, a family member said.

"I'm sorry. Matthew is failing right now. He's dying. I can't answer any more questions," his weeping aunt and guardian, Linda Mello, said Tuesday at the door of her Westport home, where the child is spending his last days.

"It's just minute by minute," Mrs. Mello said.

Matthew's father, David Hutchins, was granted parole Tuesday with release scheduled for Thursday at the earliest, said James J. McCarthy, spokesman for the state Parole Board.

He did not say whether release could come sooner if the boy's health deteriorated more quickly than predicted by doctors, who had said the child had several weeks to live.

Shark victim transferred

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — The teen-age victim of a shark attack off South Padre Island is now in a Mexico City hospital to be with her family , but doctors won't speculate whether she'll ever walk again, a hospital spokeswoman says.

It took Valley Community Hospital surgeons five hours to sew 18-year-old Carmen Castro Gayton's right calf and foot back together after the shark attack July 24, doctors say.

She was moved out of the intensive care unit Thursday but remained in guarded condition until Monday, said hospital spokeswoman Suzanne Payne.

Jetliner lands in Tehran after hijackers threaten to bomb it

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A commandeered Air France jet with 63 people aboard landed today in Tehran after the hijackers reportedly threatened to blow it up if the Iranian government refused to allow an emergency landing.

State-run Tehran radio said Iranian Foreign Ministry officials and other government representatives went to the airport after the landing, presumably for negotiations. But neither the hijackers' identities nor the nature of their demands were known, said the radio report, monitored in London.

The Iranian capital was the Boeing 737's fourth stop since Arabic-speaking hijackers took over the plane Tuesday afternoon during a scheduled flight from Frankfurt, West Germany, to Paris and demanded it be flown to Tehran. Earlier stops were in Geneva, Switzerland; Beirut, Lebanon; and Larnaca, Cyprus.

One of the plane's stewards escaped from the craft Tuesday evening while it was being refueled at Larnaca, and Air France headquarters in Paris identified him as Deniel Egea, about 30.

In a telephone interview in Cyprus with a French reporter, Egea said he believed there were three hijackers.

Iran's revolutionary Islamic government had said upon word of the hijacking that the plane would not be allowed to land in Tehran. However, Tehran radio said that despite repeated warnings by the Iranian air force and civil aviation authorities, the airliner entered Iranian airspace early today intending to land at the airport in Tabriz, about 330 miles northwest of Tehran.

But the Tabriz airport was closed, forcing the plane to continue to Tehran, the radio said. The pilot then contacted the Tehran air traffic control tower and appealed for emergency landing rights, saying the hijackers had threatened to blow up the aircraft if permission was again denied, the radio said.

Poll shows Reagan ahead in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas voters prefer President Reagan over Democratic challenger Walter Mondale by 59 percent to 32 percent, according to poll results released by U.S. Sen. John Tower, the Reagan-Bush Texas campaign chairman.

The poll results widened to 60-32 when the vice presidential nominees were added to the preference question, suggesting that Mondale's running mate, U.S. Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, is not helping the Democratic ticket in Texas, Tower told a Tuesday news conference on Capitol Hill.

"I don't think Mrs. Ferraro's gender has anything to do with it," said Tower, R-Texas. "I don't think anybody can tell you with great precision what either the positive or negative impact is of having a woman on the ticket."

Tower said Mondale and Ms. Ferraro, who is from New York, are considered "too liberal" by voters, who prefer Reagan's "right of center disposition."

"I think the fact that he (Reagan) has a Texan as a vice presidential candidate is significant in Texas," Tower said. "The fact that the Mondale people considered two Texans and rejected them, both of whom could be regarded as eminently qualified, and have elected instead to choose a liberal from the New York state, indicates that their ticket is neither geographically balanced nor philosophically balanced."

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros went to Mondale's Minnesota home before the Democratic convention to be interviewed as potential running mates for the former vice president.

The poll of 600 registered Texas voters was conducted by V. Lance Tarrance and Associates of Houston on July 27 and 28, shortly after Reagan and Vice President George Bush visited the state. Tower said the poll has a margin of error of plus or minus 4½ percent.

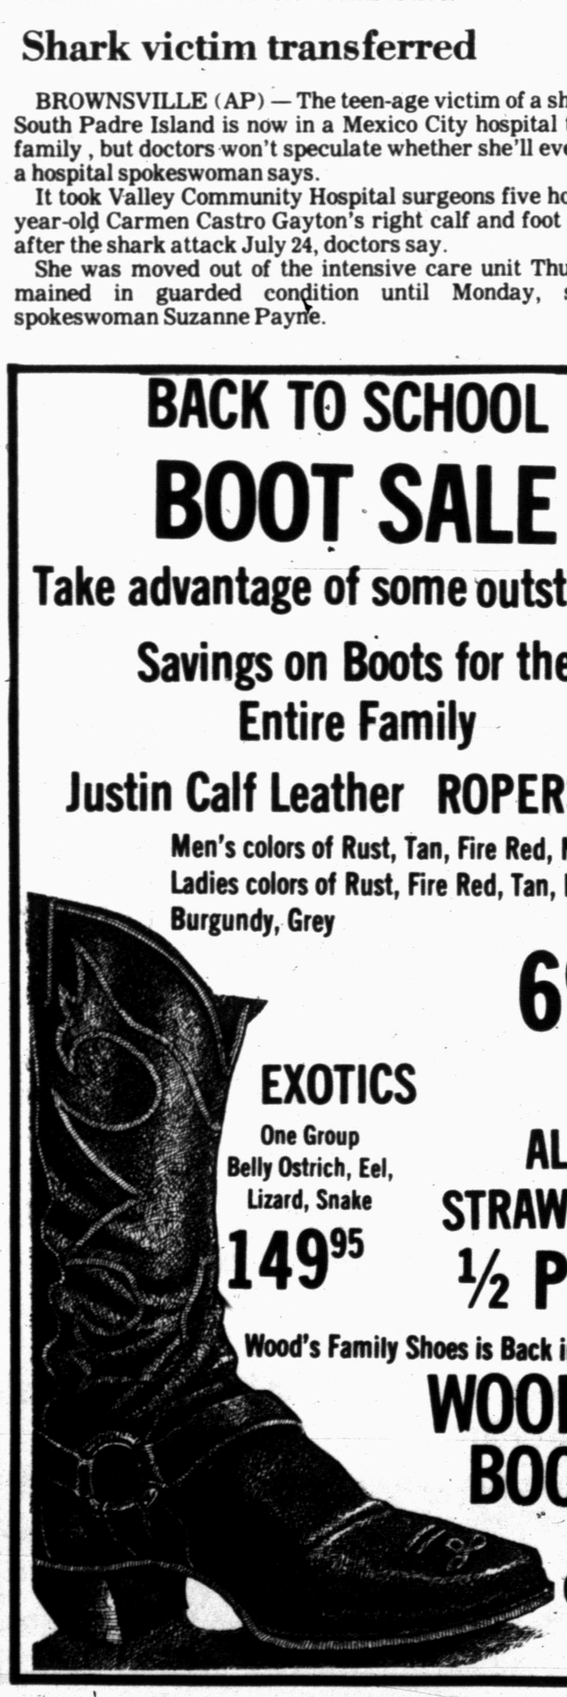

Tower said he had no geographical breakdown of the poll results, but that the Reagan-Bush ticket was "strong" in big cities like Houston and Dallas, in West Texas cities and in some rural West Texas areas.

Tower's news conference followed pollster Louis Harris' announcement that his latest survey, taken after the Democratic National Convention, showed Reagan-Bush with only a two-point lead, 50-48, over Mondale-Ferraro nationally.

Harris said at a breakfast meeting with reporters that the poll showed Mondale five points behind Reagan when voters were asked to chose between Reagan and Mondale alone, but the gap narrowed to two points when voters were asked to chose between the Reagan-Bush ticket and Mondale-Ferraro.

The SAU Story...

Once upon a time, there was a large group of people — art directors, advertising managers and retailers — who found themselves with a problem.

Although they all worked in the same business -- selling through advertising -- they often could not communicate clearly with each other. At times, it was almost as if they spoke different languages. Strange things happened. Art didn't alway fit ad space. Ads did not fit the pages of the newspapers. All of this created great stress for this nice group of people -- art directors, advertising managers and retailers.

However, their plight did not go unnoticed. Great and wonderful entities (the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the Newspaper Advertising Bureau) realized help was needed.

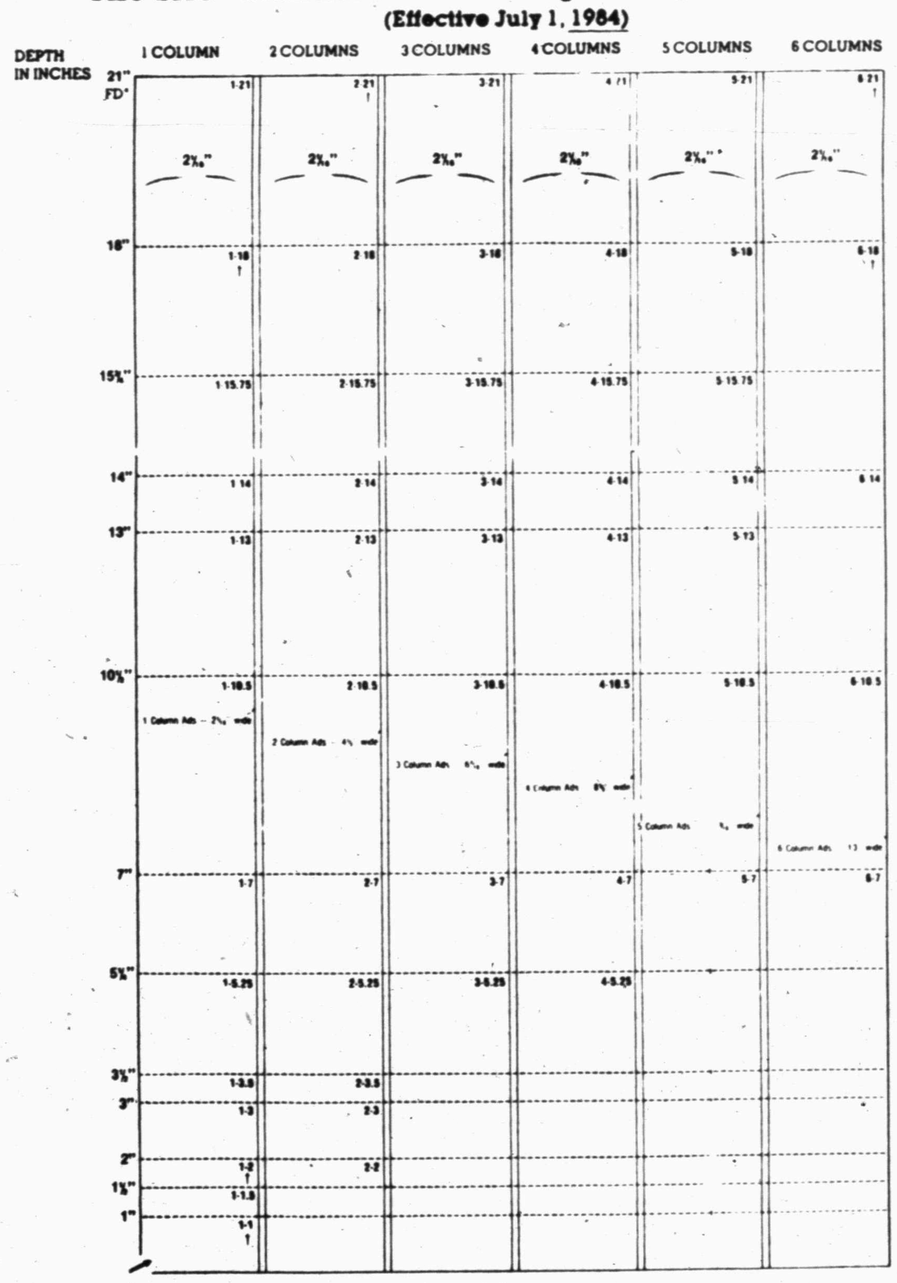

And so they introduced the Standard Advertising Unit System.

The Standard Advertising Unit:

- It minimizes format and dimensional differences so ads can be run easily in a number of newspapers.
- It encourages placement of newspaper ads by advertisers from national and regional locations not necessarily within the newspaper's primary circulation area.
- It encourages SAU modules, providing greater variety to advertisers.

The SAU™ Standard Advertising Unit System

(Effective July 1, 1984)

Minimum size ad unit - 1 inch

Snyder Black earns state tourney berth

When Jimmy Velasquez scampered home on Paul Tate's fourth-inning sacrifice fly nobody realized that it was all the offense Snyder Black would need to earn a berth in the Senior Teenage League State Tournament.

Snyder must not have known. After all, the Black squad added five more insurance runs, blanking the Tigers of Sweetwater 6-0 in the second of a best-of-three playoff series here Tuesday. Snyder had won the first game, 6-4, on Monday.

The district championship sends Snyder into the State Tournament, which begins Monday at Midland's Cub Field. Snyder's first game and opponent were unknown Wednesday morning.

After three and a half scoreless innings, Snyder got down to business here in the bottom of the fourth. Jimmy Velasquez and Willie Greathouse both singled off of Sweetwater starter Mackey Holsey to get the Black team started. Holsey then struck out William Cotton, but the ball got past catcher Mark Redden, and Cotton sprinted safely to first base. Tate then connected on a fly ball to left field which allowed Velasquez to score. Greathouse also touched home plate moments later when Sweetwater short stop Mike Redden could not handle a sharp ground ball hit by Chad Peterson.

Snyder broke the game open in the sixth inning. Holsey started off well, allowing Greathouse to sandwich a single in between two outs. But he walked Tate and Peterson followed with a hook double to left field that brought in both runners. Next-up Chris Fryar singled to push Peterson across, and Charles Bollinger got Snyder's fourth hit of the inning moments later. Justin Webb also countered with a single that scored Fryar and sent Holsey down from the mound. Mike Redden came in and managed to end the inning.

Sweetwater threatened several times, but some good pitching by Tate and Snyder's usual solid defense thwarted the Tigers on each occassion.

In the fifth, Blaze Herring led off with a double. Tate got Mike Glass to strike out, but Mike Redden followed with a single that sent Herring rounding third base. Centerfielder Peterson grabbed Redden's hit on the run and threw a line drive shot to catcher Ricky Hunter, who tagged made the tag to spoil the would-be run.

Sweetwater had also threatened in the third inning when Mike Redden slammed a one-out double to the fence. Next-up Chris Franklin walked, and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. As would happen later, Snyder worked out of the inning. Tate got both Brian Taylor and Jason Reeves to pop up for the final two outs.

Both teams also loaded the bases without scoring - Sweetwater in the first inning and Snyder in the second. In the second, Jimmy Cain tried to come home on a fly ball to centerfield, but Herring made a perfect throw to catch him at the plate.

Tate gave up just six hits, and got the Tigers three-up, three-down in the sixth and seventh innings. He struck out eight batters, walked four, and caused Sweetwater to leave eight runners stranded.

Holsey, the loser, allowed all nine of Snyder's hits, three walks and three strikeouts. Snyder left eight on the basepaths.

Snyder did not commit an error. Sweetwater was charged with four.

Snyder Dodgers keep alive in junior action

COLORADO CITY -- Snyder's Dodgers stayed alive in the Junior Teenage League District Tournament here Tuesday, accepting a forfeit from Roscoe to advance to today's 1 p.m. game.

The Dodgers, coming through the loser's bracket after falling to Sweetwater 6-5 on Monday, must win three games today to claim the district title. They were scheduled against Colorado City at 1, and with a victory, would go against Sweetwater at 3:30. Should they defeat Sweetwater at 3:30, they would play the same team again in the finals at 7:30.

Snyder took a 1-0 decision over Roscoe after the opponent forfeited Tuesday. Snyder had tallied a 21-0 lead after three innings of play. The Dodgers had slammed 17 hits off of Roscoe pitcher Alan Richburg.

Terry Garza had started for the Dodgers. He struck out five batters and didn't give up a hit over three innings.

Winner of the district tournament will advance to the Junior Teenage League State Tournament next week in Freeport.

Texas overcomes Baltimore Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) - Jeff Kunkel, an umpire's son, is a fine rookie prospect who is disarmingly honest.

Kunkel admitted he could very easily have been called out on strikes before he hit a key two-out seventh inning home run for the Texas Rangers Tuesday night.

"It was borderline, it could have gone either way," Kunkel said of the low 2-2 sidearm curveball that was called a ball by umpire Rick Reed.

Given new life, Kunkel hit the next pitch from Dennis Martinez for his first major league homer, in his 27th at bat, to forge a 5-5 tie.

The Rangers, who also clubbed three previous homers, scored two runs in the eighth on a wild pitch and an infield out, and then held on to defeat the Baltimore Orioles 7-6.

Martinez retired the first 10 Texas batters before yielding four runs on three homers in the fourth. Then, strangely, he then set down another 10 in a row before Kunkel connected.

Gary Ward hit his ninth homer in the fourth, Larry Parrish hit No. 17 after a single by Buddy Bell, and Pete O'Brien followed with his 14th. The three homers in one inning tied a Texas club record.

The winning runs came off reliever Tippy Martinez, 4-7, after the Rangers loaded the bases on singles by Curtis Wilkerson and Ward, and a walk to Bell.

A wild pitch on an 0-1 delivery allowed Wilkerson to score the tie-breaking run, and Ward came home to make it 7-5 when O'Brien grounded out on a slow roller.

Baltimore scored in the ninth off Odell Jones, 2-4, but Dave Schmidt, the fourth Texas pitcher, earned his seventh save as the Orioles stranded an eighth runner in scoring position.

A homer by Gary Roenicke, his seventh of the season and fourth in eight games, pulled Baltimore to within 4-2 in the fourth and the Orioles chased Dave Stewart to take a 5-4 lead in the fifth.

A two-run pinch single by Benny Ayala put the Orioles in front, but after a double steal on a run-and-hit strikeout, Roenicke grounded out.

Another double steal under similar circumstances was wasted in the sixth when Jones replaced Mike Mason and fanned Eddie Murray with the bases loaded.

The Orioles have an overwhelming, 51-22 record against the Rangers in Texas, but the 35-35 mark of the Rangers in Baltimore is the best of any visiting club.

Olympic Games...

U.S. gymnastics team gold plated

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Mitch Gaylord, Bart Conner, Peter Vidmar, Scott Johnson, Jim Hartung and Tim Daggett - these are the Golden Boys of Summer. They brought the United States its first Olympic team gymnastics victory in 80 years.

The swimmers - Rowdy Gaines, Tiffany Cohen, Theresa Andrews, Rick Carey and the American women's 400-meter freestyle relay team? Well, they were supposed to win. Sometimes that's all they seem to do. That's all they did on Tuesday, sweeping the five gold medals up for grabs.

But U.S. gymnasts hadn't won a team medal of any kind since 1904, and when they won the gold in St. Louis, those Summer Games were nothing more than a disorganized sideshow to a World's Fair.

The American teams back then literally had no opposition, coming to those Olympics from various amateur clubs and dueling only each other. This time they faced China, the defending world champion.

During Sunday's compulsory exercises, Li Ning of China became the first male Olympic gymnast to record a perfect 10, doing it on the rings. Also that day, Gaylord, from Van Nuys, Calif., and Conner, from Norman, Okla., each scored 10, Gaylord on the rings and Conner on the parallel bars.

And on Tuesday night, with the outcome in the balance, Daggett, the last American competitor, was equally perfect on the high bar, giving the United States a final point total of 591.40 to China's 590.80 and bronze-medalist Japan's 586.70. "I just knew I had to do it for the guys," the perfectionist from West Springfield, Mass., said.

Pat Spurgin of Billings, Mont., won the gold in women's air-rifle competition; Detroit boxers Steve McCrory, at 112 pounds, and Frank Tate, at 156, won their first bouts, Tate by default when his opponent failed to make the weight; the U.S. men's basketball team rode Michael Jordan's 20 points to an 89-68 victory over Canada, and Cheryl Miller scored 20 as the American women routed Australia 81-47.

Also, John Marzano of Philadelphia hit a home run and John Hoover of Fresno, Calif., pitched a four-hitter to lead the United States past Taiwan 2-1 in baseball's debut as an Olympic demonstration sport, and the American men's volleyball team pounded Tunisia 15-3, 15-2, 15-3.

But the U.S. men's field hockey team lost 4-0 to West Germany; the soccer team was beaten 1-0 by Italy and the American men's handball team was defeated 21-19 by West Germany.

Of the three other gold medals won Tuesday, two went to China, to Chen Weiqiang in the 132-pound weightlift and Li Yuwei in men's running-game target shooting. The third went to Luciano Giovannetti of Italy, who won a shootoff with Dan Carlisle of Fort Benning, Ga., and Francisco Bozain of Peru in the men's trapshoot.

After three days of competition, the United States has 24 medals, 16 of them gold. China is second both in total medals with 11 and in gold with five.

Sports briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The International Olympic Committee and the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee paid about two-thirds of the cost of transporting the Romanian Olympic team to the Summer Games, according to a LAOOC official.

The LAOOC, the IOC and Romania - the only Warsaw Pact nation to send a team to the Olympics - each paid about $60,000 for two charters of the Romanian airline, Tarom, to Los Angeles two weeks ago.

Boles, Goldberg take 2nd in Dallas tourney

DALLAS -- Snyder native Mike Boles teamed with Lisa Goldberg of Johannesburg, South Africa, to place second in doubles at the Dallas Open Tennis Tournament here recently.

Boles and Goldberg, who competes for the University of Florida in the regular season, are teaching professionals at Canyon Creek Country Club in Richardson, a suburb of Dallas.

Seeded second in the tournament, Boles and Goldberg received a first-round bye, then defeated Fort Worth professionals Villabos and Stuart 6-0, 6-0 in the second round.

They then defeated Wagner from Durbin, South Africa, and Calahan from Sydney, Australia, 6-3, 7-5. In the semifinals they beat Dallas pros Jack Newman and Babs Givens, 7-5, 7-5.

In finals they lost to McMichael of Houston and Heffler of San Antonio, 4-6, 5-7.
