Census Trustees Begin Work In County March 1

"Every Child Missed Is Loss Of $22 To County," Says Cummings

Announcement of census trustees for the consolidated and common school districts of the county was made this week by Logan Cummings, county superintendent, Monday.

"The census begins March 1 and continues through March 31. During that time, an intensive effort will be made to list every child in the county of school age in this scholastic census," Mr. Cummings said.

"For the welfare of our schools, it is imperative that we list all these children. For every child missed, the county fails to get $22 in state apportionment money," he pointed out.

In addition to all children between the ages of six and eighteen, Mr. Cummings said that any child who will be six years old before or on September 1, and any boy or girl who will not be eighteen until after September 1 is eligible.

Census trustees will call at each home in their various districts to ascertain the scholastics population. Should any family having children of a scholastic age be missed, however, the parents are urged to contact either the trustee named or Mr. Cummings.

The Census trustees include: Samnorwood, E. G. Sanders; Buck Creek, George Aduddell; Quail, Carl Chaudoin; Fresno, J. A. Killian; Elm Valley, H. C. Fitzgerald; Rolla, J. R. Godbey; Shinnery, W. C. Supreme Court Rejects Petition On Tax Contract

Test Case Made Of Agreement With Corneil On Tax Collections

In a test case before the state supreme court, Collingsworth County's motion for permission to file a mandamus petition seeking to permit it to carry out a contract with A. N. Corneil for the collection of delinquent taxes was stopped by that body Wednesday, February 14.

Approval of the contract between the county and Mr. Corneil for 1940 had previously been declined by Attorney Gerald Mann and State Comptroller George H. Sheppard on the grounds that Mr. Corneil is not an attorney at law and that such a contract can not be made with a person who is not an attorney.

Mr. Corneil has been employed as collector of delinquent taxes in (Continued on Page Twelve)

Mrs. Templeton Clerk Candidate

Mrs. R. H. Templeton this week authorized The Wellington Leader to announce her candidacy for the post of District Clerk. At this time, she made the following statement:

"My announcement for the office of District Clerk of Collingsworth County is actuated solely by the fact that I need a job and a steady income to aid me in making my living, and to assist me in the task of educating my two boys.

I wish to stand upon my own merit and not upon the reputation and ability of my late husband, and I feel that I am capable of performing the duties of this office, and conducting its affairs to the satisfaction of all the people of Collingsworth County.

If elected I promise to conduct the affairs of the office in a proper manner and to give all my time and attention to the office.

Group From Canada Finds County Too Cold For Comfort

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kern and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spool of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, spent four days in Wellington last week and found the weather too cold for their liking.

Mr. Kern is a brother of Harley Kern of Wellington. The party came here from California, where they have been for the past month.

Although the temperature falls to thirty, thirty-five and forty degrees below zero in the section of Canada where they live, Mr. Kern explained that the wind didn't blow and it is "dry cold," and consequently they can dress to withstand the cold.

"All of them nearly froze here," commented Harley Kern.

Mr. Kern is a stock buyer in Edmonton. Mr. Spool is active vice president of the Alberta Government Telephone system. While here he commented that a majority of the Canadian people favored closer relations with the United States, especially where trade is concerned.

The group arrived here Monday and left Thursday.

Motorists Stranded As Deep Drifts Block Roads

Taking the entire section by surprise, a West Texas snowstorm swept down on Collingsworth County and the rest of the Panhandle Friday and Saturday, temporarily isolating the inhabitants, and disrupting all methods of travel to the point that they have not yet returned to normal.

This storm has been termed by many local residents as the worst since that of April, 1938, while others believe that it is the severest in the last ten years.

No serious injuries have been reported directly attributed to the cold or snow, although a large number of local residents were caught out in the blizzard. Likewise, no livestock losses have been reported.

While some fields were swept almost clean of snow, it was banked high in others, and along roads and highways, it was drifted to depths of six and eight feet, and in some places to an estimated depth of twelve and fourteen feet. This was especially true of roads running in an east and west direction.

Wednesday morning some roads were still blocked until students were unable to get to school, and residents in a number of rural sections were unable to get out to highways to come into town, or were forced to detour many miles to make the trip.

* Little attempt has been made to estimate the amount of snow that fell, due to the fact that the snow falling before noon Friday melted rapidly, while that falling after 3 o'clock in the afternoon drifted badly.

The government rain gauge at the J. M. Strong home in Wellington was completely filled with snow, and Mr. Strong reported that after this had melted, 1.60 inches of moisture remained in the gauge. The gauge at the J. A. Killian farm at Fresno measured somewhat less, but both Mr. Strong and Mr. Killian were of the opinion that it was impossible to determine just how much snow fell in the gauges and how much was blown in or out by the high wind.

Snow began falling at Wellington about 8:30 Friday morning, and continued to fall heavily throughout the day. Schools at Wellington, Samnorwood, Dodson and Quail were dismissed before or shortly after noon in order that the students who ride the buses might get to their homes.

Despite this precaution, one bus running out of Dodson to Pleasant Point and Fresno, turned over when it slipped into the bar ditch. None of the occupants was seriously injured, however, and reports reaching here stated that so easily did the bus turn over that none of the windows were broken. Students were taken to the home of Mrs. Mattie Jamerson until they could be transported to their homes.

Norwood Juniors To Present Play

"Father Goes Domestic," a comedy, will be presented by the Junior class of Samnorwood High School Tuesday evening, February 27, Miss Helen Ramage, class sponsor, announced here this week.

This play was originally scheduled for January 17, but was postponed a short time before that date.

"We extend a cordial invitation to all people of the surrounding territory to be present. This play will offer many laughs and comic situations," Miss Ramage said.

Proceeds from the play will be used by the Junior class.

Even Rabbits Get Snowbound This Time

It was nothing surprising when a number of motorists were caught in the snow during the week end blizzard, but even the rabbits were snowbound too.

Mrs. Bill Roberts, who teaches at Bean Hill, was forced to leave her car in a snowdrift Friday. Early this week when Mr. Roberts and some friends went to get it out, they raised the hood and huddled against the engine was a rabbit, the snow packed beneath it so firmly that it could not escape.

The group believed that the rabbit crawled in from underneath before the snow had drifted against the vehicle.

District Census Bureau Still In Need Of Workers

Experience With Public, Good Handwriting Necessary Says Smyers

Believe it or not—the Bureau of the Census with headquarters for District 23 at Pampa, Texas, which comprises the following counties: Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Childress, Collingsworth, Cottle, Donley, Gray, Hall, Hansford, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Motley, Ochiltree, Roberts and Wheeler—is still in need of applicants for the enumerators positions for the coming Population, Housing and Agriculture Census which begins April 2nd.

"Those who are qualified with good handwriting, experience in contacting the public and experience in dealing with forms and routine are urged to request an application blank from the above mentioned office," Carroll Smyers, District Supervisor, said here today. "The Bureau of the Census is in search of competent, well-qualified individuals to become enumerators. The selection of enumerators will not fundamentally be made on the basis of need. We are looking for a competent personnel, for we are engaged in the most voluminous undertaking of any nation in the history of the world."

The method of selecting enumerators will be through a series of tests and examinations which will be given in the latter part of March, at points selected by the district supervisor in the district, it was stated.

"This is the time of year when inventories are being taken all over the nation, but the biggest inventory of all is the 1940 Census, which in a greater or lesser degree will call for the participation of every man, woman and child in the United States and its possessions," Smyers added.

Although the school has an enrollment of only 124, Mrs. Van Beber points out that music is taught, visual instruction equipment is utilized, a complete physical education program is under way, and that twice a year a doctor and health nurse visit the school and give thorough physical examinations to the pupils.

Other features unusual in a school of this size, as described in the article, are the school band, cafeteria, complete library and the water supply system.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the many kindnesses shown to our mother, Mrs. Susie Helen Smith, and to us, during her illness and death. Your words of sympathy have meant more to us than we can ever express. We also wish to thank our friends for the many beautiful floral offerings.

QUAIL

Last week the F.F.A. boys helped Mr. Aaron and Mr. Crawford seal the Methodist Church. The Ladies Aid Society had bought the sheet rock several weeks ago but it had not all been put on. Boys from each of the three classes worked two hours each. Most of the sheet rock had been put on the walls but the ceiling had not been covered. Jesse Lee Robinson transported the boys back and forth from the school to the church and only one group was late to class.

Last year the boys made racks for the song books and put them on the back of the pews of the Baptist Church.

The Cotton Classing team seems to be getting along well with its training. Samples of cotton were secured from the Quail Gin and from Baker Hoskins, cotton buyer, at Wellington. Both Ralph Bourland and Mr. Hoskins have contributed information. Six boys are training for the team but only three can be taken to the area contests at Lubbock. They will be selected some time during the week and will accompany Mr. Dowell to Lubbock for the contests on Saturday, February 24.

The dairy cattle judging team is finding it hard to get out to train on account of the weather. The district Livestock Judging Contest will be held in Wellington March 2, but owing to the bad weather and the necessity of training the cotton classing team and Dairy Cattle Judging team the Livestock team has hardly begun training.

Several of the boys have prepared their entries to the Amarillo Fat Stock Show and they will be mailed in this week.

Two of our best show calves got sick recently. Billie Joe Pegram's calf developed a bad case of bloat and had to be tapped in the side and one of Pete Dowell's calves took the waterbelly. Both animals are improving but will not show so well.

The F.F.A. boys set out sixty trees on the school ground last week. These together with several other shade trees, the shelter belt, and flower beds they provided last year and the year before with the help of the Garden Club will make quite an improvement of the school grounds.

SAMNORWOOD By ELTON GULLEY Judge C. C. Bishop, county judge, visited the Samnorwood F.F.A. Chapter Thursday, February 8, and made the Assembly address concerning laws that we have for our protection and the protection of the home.

Commenting upon the opening of the Chapter session, Judge Bishop said, "It reminds me of a Supreme Court procedure." He told of a visit to Mount Vernon, George Washington's home, and about the room where Washington stayed that had a hole in the wall so the family cat could come and go at will.

Judge Bishop then outlined the various courts, and the types of cases settled by each. He continued by telling of the guardianship of children whose parents at death have left land, and concerning the trial of boys and girls in juvenile court.

About property rights, Judge Bishop said that the law gives a man, married and with a family, the right to have certain property free from attachment for debt, providing the debt is not the purchase debt. This includes 200 acres of farm land with all the improvements, furniture, farm equipment, home equipment, five cows with calves, two yolk oxen, two horses, one wagon, one buggy, 30 head of sheep, wages from personal service, wearing apparel, 20 head of goats, 50 chickens, 30 turkeys and one dog. The car is also free from attachment if paid for, as are trucks and tractors.

The speaker outlined the Texas truck law in comparison with that of other states, and concluded by telling the group that the occupation, with rural electrification and natural gas, is one of the greatest opportunities of today.

WELLINGTON

Beside the regular F.F.A. projects, members of the Wellington chapter are completing other supervised farm practice jobs, not connected with the regular projects. Each member has a list of ten of these jobs which he plans to carry out and which will benefit his home or community.

Twenty-one boys will renovate orchards; 28 will add home conveniences; 19 will seed lawns on their farm homes, and 34 will plant trees and shrubs—about 810 in all—to beautify the premises; 53 will repair or build farmstead structures; 71 will add or repair equipment articles; and 48 boys will build fences. Other jobs will be added as the need for them arises.

For the first time in history more than 100 women took part in the Annual Congress of American Industry, sponsored by the Nat-tional Association of Manufacturers.

A new synthetic wood product known as "isorel," made by compressing wood fibers with synthetic resins, is being manufactured.

It Is An Art To Roast Pork Loin Right; Try This Way

The loin roast is the same meat as the loin chops which you like so well. To bring out its very best flavor the roast should be thoroughly cooked in an oven moderately low.

Cooking at this temperature will give a roast that is well done but not dry. The crust will be uniform brown, crisp, but not hard. As you carve a perfect pork roast you should find the meat a grayish white, with no tinge of pink, and slices firm, juicy and tender.

If you have no thermometer, figure from thirty to thirty-five minutes per pound for the roasting time. Simple, isn't it?

A loin roast does not need to be put on a rack in the roasting pan, for the natural arc of the ribs makes its own rack.

Here's a hint that will make you the lifelong friend of the person who does the carving. Have the meat retailer separate the backbone from the ribs by sawing lengthwise parallel to the chine bone. He will not completely remove the backbone, but after the meat is cooked the backbone becomes loosened and can easily be cut away from the ribs before the roast is brought to the table. Then your lifelong friend, the carver, merely has to slice between the ribs, cutting close against both sides of each rib, alternately making one slice with a bone and one without.

Roast pork is more tempting when sliced fairly thin, two slices usually making one serving. If it is a small loin, each slice may contain a rib, while with a larger roast it may be possible to cut two boneless slices between the ribs.

Those nine little olives standing in a row were stuck on the ends of the rib bones, just for fun, but it does make a right perky way to serve the tempters, doesn't it?

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

Sickness has taken a heavy toll in this county in the last few days. Among those who are seriously ill are: Charlie Glenn, Frank Royal, H. S. Cook, W. G. Hite, B. P. Clark, W. M. Brewer and J. A. Gordon. Each one of these men has many friends who are sincerely hoping for their recovery.

Each one of these has a specific ailment, but the thing that makes me sad is that the real difficulty in each case is the matter of age. Time goes by in a hurry. Those of us who are younger ought to try to make their last days as happy as possible while we have the chance.

Furthermore the story of their work should be recorded. Look at that list above. There is C. J. Glenn, who founded the First National Bank, F. H. Royal, one of the nesters of 89 and an early day merchant; H. S. Cook, who gave the land for the Samnorwood school and so on.

Down here at The Leader office we are trying to compile a record of such men as these. We have a form that if filled out properly will furnish the basis for a comprehensive life story. Unless it becomes our sad duty to publish some of them earlier, we intend to run all of them next summer when Collingsworth County is 50 years old. Won't some of you friends and relatives help us get them filled out? You may not consider it important, but some day the grandchildren of these fine men and women will be very proud to have a record of those who paved the way for them.

Come by and get one of the blanks. If you do not think you can fill them out, we will be glad to work with you during the latter part of the week. We do not have the time to devote to this work on Mondays, Tuesdays or Wednesdays, but we will be glad to do it on any Thursday, Friday or Saturday.

E. G. Sanders, president of the Northwest Texas Conference for Education, has announced the program which will be held in Canyon on March 8 and 9. The program personnel includes Pat M. Neff and many other notables, but the things that I want to call to your attention is that one of our superintendents here in Collingsworth County is president of the association. We are blessed with having a fine group of school men in this county. When they achieve distinction as Supt. Sanders has done, we ought to give them a great big hand. The real value of Mr. Sanders' work is in what he has done at Samnorwood, but it is gratifying to see it recognized and to see him elevated to the presidency of his district association.

There are no flies on the Wellington superintendent either. He goes out in the country and mixes with the citizens. At least he and John Hooper did last Friday. Because they were afraid that some of the school children would not get home on the bus in time, they set out to deliver them in a car. They delivered the children, but they failed to deliver themselves back to Wellington. In fact they stayed at Fresno until Sunday when they finally walked in due to the fact that the roads were impassable. There is some benefit in the fact that John L. Beard and John Hooper know a lot more about 42 than they knew before, but it is possible that there may be quite a bit more resulting from the goodwill created when the parents know that the primary desire of the superintendent was to see that their children were delivered home safe and sound.

I tell you our superintendents in this county have oomph. I can remember the day when Dodson, Quail and Samnorwood had Wellington skinned on this elusive quality. In those days I kept remembering that "it don't mean a thing unless you've got that swing." But today I am happy to report that they all look like Ann Sheridan to me.

The recent snowstorm brought a sting to this county in moisture, made me glad that I am not a doctor. Every physician in town through a trying experience they do every time had

King Cotton's Maid

Mary Nell Porter, left, Memphis debutante, who was selected Maid of Cotton in a Beltwide contest sponsored by the National Cotton Council, gets a few cotton fashion hints from Mary Lewis, nationally known stylist and former executive vice-president of Saks Fifth Ave. As representative of the raw cotton industry, Miss Porter will make a 12,000-mile air tour of the United States, reigning as queen of cotton style shows in 26 major cities throughout the country. Miss Porter will be provided with a complete cotton wardrobe selected by a magazine's fashionists. She will be accompanied by a professional stylist, will appear on at least two national broadcasts, and will be the guest of nationally known stars in New York and Hollywood. Her tour opens in Miami on March 4.

weather comes. One had his neck frost-bitten, another had his legs so numbed by the cold that he could not walk, etc. I got this information from people who had sick folks. The doctors can take it and they say little about it. This is general, but due to the fact that there is an element of humor in it, I want to tell of Dr. John W. Harper who rode 11 miles on a tractor in an effort to attend a blessed event. When he got there the baby had arrived. He stayed until he knew the mother and baby were doing fine, but he still had 11 miles to ride back on a tractor.

John Trew came to town for the first time Tuesday in four days and B. W. Beard went from Midway to Fresno to finally get to Wellington. These stories could be repeated without end, but they all add up to the same thing. We had a tremendous snow, and it was one of the wettest this county had had in years.

The gauge in Wellington shows one and six-tenths inches of moisture. I distinctly remember the snows of 1919 and of 1914, but I doubt if we have had this much moisture from a single snow in the last forty years. Perhaps at long last the wet years are really and truly coming. Who knows, we may be able to raise corn this year.

Here is a significant comment from Ed Bishop in the Dalhart Texan: "Here's a statement that is amazing. Just at the time when everyone has been thinking that more farms had been foreclosed on than any time previous in all the history of the country the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service comes out with this statement: 'The number of forced farm sales through foreclosure and other causes declined 70 per cent from 1933 to 1939.'"

"And a further statement says that almost one-third of all the farmers in the U. S. live on cotton farms, deriving either all or the major portions of their cash income from the production of cotton! And here we are raising Cain because Mr. Hull wants to continue his reciprocal trade treaties with the countries to whom we sell most of our cotton. Texas is more dependent upon foreign trade than most states and without Hull's trade treaties we would have a tough time disposing of our cotton."

Ed Bishop is correct in his statement about the reciprocal trade treaties. The cotton farmers must sell their product at a profit if they are going to eat beef. If a sizable portion of the people of the United States cannot afford to eat beef, then the price of cattle will drop. Furthermore, too low cotton prices over too long a period will put these present cotton growers into the production of beef. That will

Donkey Ball Game Set At Norwood

County sports fans will have a second opportunity to witness a game of Donkey basketball, when members of the Samnorwood faculty meet the Wellington Firemen, and the Norwood school board members play the candidates of Collingsworth county on Wednesday evening, February 28, at the Samnorwood gymnasium.

The two groups will play two quarters of the game each. This game, in which all players are mounted on rubber-shod, trained donkeys, has proved popular in all sections of the Panhandle where it has been seen, and the one game previously played in this county, at Quail, drew a capacity house.

"We believe this will be one of the most exciting and novel games played at Samnorwood in many months," commented Paul Morris, coach. "The game may not go exactly according to official basketball rules, but we guarantee the fun will be there. We are inviting all candidates especially to be present and to take part in the game," he added.

The game will begin at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. A small admission charge will be made.

Lee Moore Judged Promising Boxer

One of the promising young fighters of the lower Panhandle is Lee Moore of Wellington, who recently won the lightweight division of the district Golden Gloves Tournament in Childress.

In addition to winning his golden gloves in this event, Moore was eligible to participate in the four day State Golden Gloves Tournament in Fort Worth. These competitions are open only to amateurs.

Moore, who is a brother of Mrs. Kid Monroe, is considered by experienced boxers of this section as one of the best of his weight in the Panhandle, and predict for him a bright future in state boxing circles.

done outstanding work, not only in the Panhandle but over the state as a whole, will appear before specialized groups during the two day session.

"This conference is the outstanding educational event in the Panhandle each year," Mr. Sanders pointed out. "Practically every school in the Panhandle will dismiss Friday in order that the teachers may attend."

"In this time when the attention of the public is focused on the schools, and when the political conditions of the world are turning into paths that make us fearful, it is imperative that we teachers examine ourselves and our institutions and see what we are doing and can do to educate our youth for democratic citizenship," the Conference's head pointed out.

The conference is composed of all counties of District 9 of the Texas State Teachers Association, including Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Childress, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Gray, Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher and Wheeler.

Officers of the Northwest Texas Conference for Education are Mr. Sanders, president; Miss Orelia Jane Cornelius of Amarillo, vice president; H. P. Clemons of Dimmitt, treasurer; and W. C. Perkins of Shamrock, secretary. R. A. Selby of Amarillo, who was reared in this county, is a past president.

It is now illegal for anyone to serve on the board of directors of more than one bank, according to a law which recently became effective.

Wildlife Is On Increase Thru Dust Bowl Area

Indirect Benefits More Than Double Monetary Value It Is Believed

AMARILLO.—Wildlife is increasing in what once was called the Dust Bowl.

The increased use of soil and water conservation practices with the result that vegetation has been improved and that hundreds of small ponds now dot the Plains country, providing food and homes for wildlife, has been responsible to a considerable extent for these gains, according to Phillip Allan, regional biologist of the Soil Conservation Service in the Southern Great Plains.

"Wildlife is a national resource largely in the hands of farmers and ranchers," Allan pointed out. "Fifty-five per cent of the country is agricultural land and about 80 per cent of the game taken are ally, such as quail, rabbits, pheasants and other small animals, is classified as farm game. This resource is economically valuable to the land owner and to the nation. An estimated one billion dollars flows into trade channels each year from the various pursuits of wildlife, while indirect benefits probably would more than double this figure. Known instances of reduction in insect and rodent damage attributable to birds and mammals give only an inkling of the vast benefits derived from wildlife."

The presence and abundance of wild animals is linked directly with the soil and vegetation of an area, the biologist declared. A good cover of crops, grasses, herbs, and woody plants is essential in providing for needs of wildlife on the farm. These plants also are closely linked to the conservation of other farm resources, particularly soil and water, Allan pointed out.

Various soil conservation practices now in use on farms and ranches in the Southern Great Plains are showing appreciable results in restoring and increasing wildlife, Allan said. The protection and development of vegetation in gullies as an erosion control method is improving conditions for wildlife. On one ranch in the Texas Panhandle such practices have increased quail by 87.5 per cent within three years. Planted gullies in Colorado last year provided nesting sites for sharp-tailed grouse, according to the biologist.

Development of farm and ranch ponds in connection with water conservation and livestock programs offers excellent opportunities for wildlife improvement, it is pointed out. The biologist cited one Southern Great Plains ranch where there were no ducks nesting prior to construction of a pond. The year following the construction there were three broods, and 20 broods during the second year. Another ranch showed a 200 per cent increase in ducks a year after a pond was built.

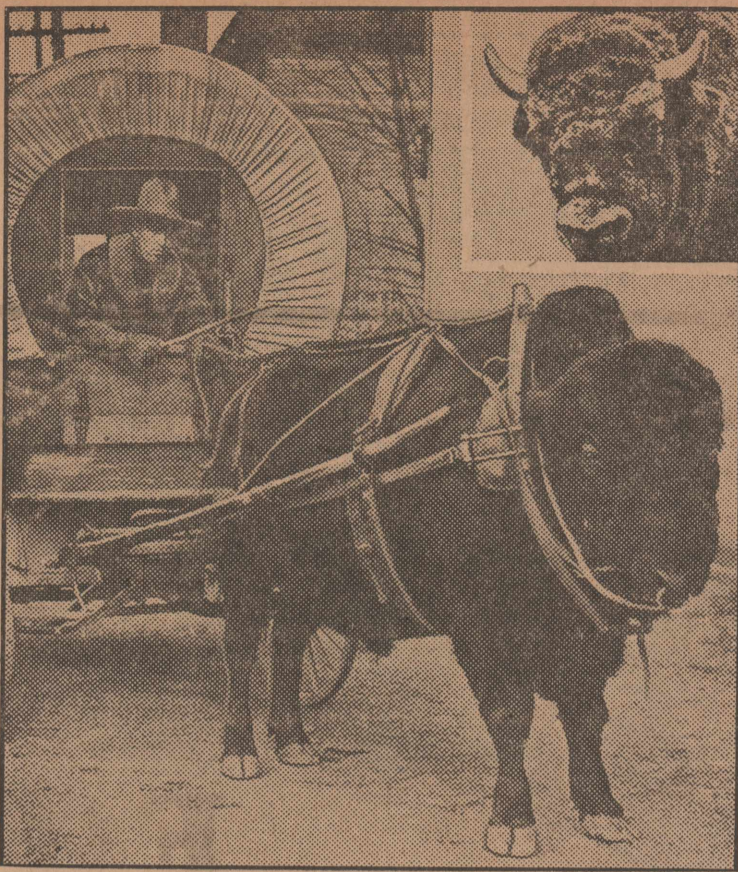

Tree plantings being made under direction of the Soil Conservation Service include shrub borders of species which provide food and shelter for wildlife. These plantings are proving attractive to quail as reports from Colorado to the southern Texas Panhandle and from eastern New Mexico to Oklahoma reveal that coveys are seeking shelter in the protection of the trees. Insect-eating songbirds, too, are finding nesting sites in such trees.

A Texas Panhandle farmer has observed that unharvested grain in a border strip is attracting large numbers of birds. He welcomes them for their destruction of insects in his nearby fields. The sorghum in this strip thus serves a two-fold purpose by providing protection to his field from wind erosion and furnishes a home for desirable wildlife.

Contour furrows which are increasing grass growth in many parts of the Southern Great Plains also are providing nesting sites for songbirds, Allan points out. Weeds, which ordinarily appear during the first or second year after the furrows are conducted, furnish such birds with abundance of food as well as a safe travel lane.

acre for acre, a wildlife crop be as valuable as a cultivated one, Allan declared. He cited one radio rancher who makes about a acre from the trapping of rats and leasing of duck ileges, and reports that jack its last year brought $1,500 to up of ranchers who sold the ses to fur farmers for feed.

Breeder Calls Catalo A Super Cow

Mournful Jumbo, the touring catalo, is a cross between a cow and bison. The animal was bred on Colville, Wash., ranch by Leland C. Wilson, in wagon, who has driven 9000 miles in 22 states to acquaint cattlemen with these catalo qualities: (1) weighs 2100, but can easily pull a 2600-pound load; (2) lives 25-30 years, twice as long as cattle; (3) gives richer milk, averaging 6.7 per cent butterfat; (4) more disease free. Unlike buffalo, inset, catalo has no horns.

WHAT OF THE FORTIES?

In the last days of December 1949, enterprising newspaper men will write for their readers the story of the 40's. They'll write about scientific and social advancement and political maneuvering. They'll write about the failures. No one can tell yet what this story will be.

Enterprising people of Collingsworth County will look back and in their own mind write a story of the 40's, too. It will be a story of this county and how it has progressed and where it has failed.

We ourselves will determine just how the story goes.

True, there will be factors out of our control—the weather, the general financial condition of the country around, the political situation as it will affect each individual community. On the other hand, will we have kept pace in a civic way? Will we have tried to make Wellington and Dodson and Samnorwood and Quail as attractive as small towns in this section can be? Will we have continued to plant trees and work for park and playground facilities?

And then there's our agricultural situation. We all depend on it. We know we can raise cotton and sorghums and wheat and barley and probably corn. We know that we must not depend on one of these crops for our living. We can put that knowledge into practice during the 40's. We can improve the strain of seeds we plant, develop them to fill the needs of this county. We can improve the quality and the quantity of our livestock. By the end of 1949 will we have our cattle and hogs and sheep bred up to the point that raisers from other counties will come to us rather than our having to go to them for better animals?

Most of all, will we offer the opportunities to keep our boys and girls here at home to return the best of their talents to their own county? All this is a big order, but there are ten years before us in the 40's. We have the willingness to work and the ability to fill the order.

NEW INDUSTRIES FOR TEXAS

To those who believe the future prosperity of Texas depends upon the industrialization of the state, the opening of two new industries during recent weeks is heartening.

At Lufkin, in the piny-woods section of East Texas, The Southland Paper Mill opened, manufacturing the first newsprint ever made from Texas pine. Already this Texas newsprint has been used by such papers as The Dallas News, The Fort Worth Star Telegram, and The Wichita Falls Record-News. What may be the importance of this industry is seen in view of the fact that most of the newsprint used in the United States comes from Canada and the Scandinavian countries.

On a far smaller scale, but none the less an experiment at industrialization, a young Texan opened the state's first woolen mills at Eldorado last week. Only four years ago J. M. Christian, the owner, graduated from the textile engineering division of Texas Tech, and since then, he has worked for textile firms of the east.

The West Texas Woolen Mills, as the plant will be known, will weave only blankets, both the fine and army type, and suiting, and will make woolen batting, but Texas wool will be utilized for the material.

These are experiments, but they are two steps that will help to draw back to Texas a part of the wealth that rightfully belongs here.

AMERICAN HORSES

During the period of Indian wars in the West, the redskins generally had good horses and ponies, which they rode splendidly and often successfully in their combats with United States troopers sent to quell their many uprisings in the years following the Civil War.

It is natural to assume that the Indians always had horses, but such is not the case. The Indian got his first horses from white men, for at the time of the discovery of America this continent was horseless, and all the horses which exist here today are descendants of animals brought over by Europeans.

Going back to the Ice Age, however, fossil remains show that many horses roamed over both North and South America. In size and appearance they were very much like the ordinary horses of the present. How they came to disappear centuries ago is an unexplained mystery.

Going back still farther, remains of many varieties of primitive horses have been found, some not larger than a shepherd dog, with three and even four toes. The earliest little horses had five toes, but no remains of these have been found on this continent so far, although many have been discovered in the eastern hemisphere.

The earliest horses were no larger than a fox, and the eyes of some of these early breeds were set far down on the head, midway between the ears and nose.

The magnificent Percherons of the present are descendants of the lowly five-toed "critters" of the past.

An unimportant country cross roads may be recognized by the fact that it has only four filling stations.

An exchange suggests that it would be a good idea to train your child in the way you should have gone yourself.

Don't criticize a writer's lack of originality too harshly. Second-hand sense is better than original nonsense.

Preacher Prays, Gets Needed Food Supplies

Students of the Bible know well the record of the Lord as a provider, but it took the Rev. George Winniman of Atlanta, Ga., to bring this fact to the attention of a flippant world of 1940.

It's the power of prayer that has enabled Rev. Winniman to establish, equip and support the modest little combination mission and convalescent hospital he operates in Georgia's capital city. He has prayed for bread and meat, for a piano, for clothing, for bedding, and even for an ambulance siren.

The minister is proud that he's never asked anyone for anything—the Lord excepted—and says he has never failed to get what he prays for. Individuals donate food, clothing and money; bakeries give left-over bread, dairies send surplus milk and markets contribute vegetables that didn't sell.

Occasionally the mission keeper has had to tax the power of prayer. The Rev. Winniman and his associates had planned a big dinner for some 850 unfortunates last Christmas but only 40 of 400 expected pounds of chicken had arrived for the meal the night before.

It was too late to get other meat, and anyway, the mission had spent all its money. So Preacher Winniman went upstairs and prayed. About 8 o'clock representatives of a local organization called, said they had 400 pounds of spare hams, and could the Atlanta Home Mission use any?

Better illustration is the story of Rev. Winniman's ambulance, which he has been operating for two years. First he prayed for the machine, and got an ancient vehicle that had been sitting in the weather two years.

Then he prayed for paint, for somebody to put the paint on, for a fan and fan belt, a battery and all the interior equipment. He got them all.

Against the advice of his associates, Rev. Winniman went on and prayed for a siren. Next day the Fire Department called and said they were sending over a second-hand one. Preacher Winniman says it is not silly to pray for sirens if you have faith and really need one.

Born an Orthodox Jew, Rev. Winniman adopted the Christian religion 15 years ago. He has been nearly three years in Atlanta, operating his mission for down and outers, most of whom haven't lived in the city long enough to get on relief.

Poor of all races, creeds and ages number the 200-300 who are fed two meals and a sermon every day at the Atlanta Home Mission. To eat there, disciples must attend a couple of special services weekly, the ones when the meal and clothing tickets are issued. Generally, Rev. Winniman finds a full house when he arises to preach.

There's the ever-present tragic note in this otherwise encouraging story. Because of heart disease, the rotund, happy missionary is under virtual sentence of death. His physician has told him he may die at any moment and has no chance of living more than a few years at the outside.

It may be George Winniman's faith and prayers, and the good he is doing for his fellow man that keeps him alive. At any rate, he is carrying on the work. He founded, and when that expected fatal heart attack strikes, an assistant trained for the job will carry on.

The Parable Of The Talents

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 25.

Text: Matthew 25:14-27.

Talent, in the parable, is a sum of money, but we speak of it today as the endowment that each man has, either by nature or by training and preparation.

We live in a world where talents are very different. Some men are endowed with great capacities of goodness, service, and achievement. Other men are either dull, or they are handicapped by weakness, temptation, or some great barrier which makes whatever they achieve a very real victory.

The men in the parable who received a varying number of talents, when their master was going into a far country, had instructions to improve what had been given to them and gain in trade as much as they could. It is to be noted that the talents were given to each man according to his several ability. No more was expected of a man than his endowment made possible, and this suggests what is true concerning life. The success or failure of those to whom the talents were given was not judged merely by the result, but by the way in which each man used his talents according to his own powers.

The man who received the five talents was successful in trade and gained five more talents. The man who received two similarly doubled what he had received. But he that received the one talent, because it was only one—either through fear of losing it or because he despised the small gift—hid his talent in the earth.

What happened when the master returned was just what one would have expected. He commended the one who had received the five talents, and also the one who had received the two talents, and he promoted them to larger places of responsibility and power. But he condemned the man to whom he had given the one talent because, by not using it, he had virtually wasted it.

What does the parable teach concerning spiritual matters and the higher talents of life? The teaching would seem to be very plain. First of all, that God does not expect of us more than a fair and reasonable use of what we have. He does not expect the one-talent man to attain to five-talent, or even two-talent, results. All He expects is that each shall be faithful according to his endowments and abilities.

There is perhaps the suggestion in the lesson that the more a man has, the easier it is to achieve; but that is not always true in life. Someone has pointed out that the greatest tragedies in life are of the 10-talent men and the five-talent men—the people who are capable of really great things, but who throw away their fine gifts. The man who wastes his great powers is no better than the man of small endowments who, like the one-talent man in the parable, does nothing.

The religious life is an adventure. Jesus never commended the timid and the fearful who were concerned only with keeping what they had. It was in losing one's life that one might find it; and it was in devoting one's talents to the service of God—in giving—that one found the highest joy and reward.

I SAW

By V. A. R.

Whittier never saw a Texas blizzard, but when he wrote "Snowbound," he certainly described things around here as they were over the week end. As folks began digging out of the snow, only to wade slush, I SAW

J. L. Anderson, who came down here recently from Lloyd, Colorado, saying he sold out there because he decided to get away from the cold. "And this is worse than anything we ever had there," he added.

Orval Couch, walking down town wearily with electric light repairing equipment swung over shoulder saying that the R.E.A. had two cars stuck in snowdrifts and the entire west end of their lines out.

Pete Melton telling a friend that Junior Montague's Model A—the car that has its windows completely covered with collegiate stickers—finally had to stop running, but not till it stalled in a snowdrift on Elm hill.

Mrs. Cicero Gulley, discussing with friends the snow storm, and some trouble they'd had getting home, saying, "Now I know how tramps feel when it's cold and they're out walking and passing houses where there's lights and fire."

A. S. J. Lockhart, his ears and feet wrapped securely, coming down town with his coat open at the throat.

A. J. Hill returning two books to the library.

Mrs. A. V. Cocke holding tightly to the dress-tail of her small granddaughter, Eleanor Drake, when the latter looked as though she'd like very much to experiment in jumping off the banisters to the church steps.

Mrs. Cliff Campbell, after getting down town without trouble, finding it difficult to pick a place to cross the street without getting wet.

Bill Stafford stopping a former school mate to say "hello" and inquire how everything is getting along.

Mrs. E. W. Jones and Mrs. Chas. B. Jones enjoying a visit sitting in the former's car in the warm sunshine.

Mrs. J. M. Strong, Sr., and her grandson, Robert Strong, walking slowly home in the sunshine which Mrs. Strong enjoys so much.

Mrs. Donald Curry rushing out the door of a local store to call directions to an enthusiastic young niece who was in a hurry to go somewhere.

Mrs. Mae Epps window shopping for new spring minkos, when it looked as though it would snow any minute.

Mrs. J. W. Peoples and Mrs. Winnie Davis Hale driving in the Sunday sunshine, but carefully picking their way so as not to get stuck in a snow drift.

N. M. Higdon running down a back alley through the snow and pulling his hat down over his ears for more protection.

Etta Bell and Mary Ann Lovings discussing whether or not they should tell their sister Peggy they were out waiting for her, or just sit and wait until she got ready to go home.

The most appropriate way of traveling seen lately—a bright red, two seated sled, pulled by grey mule. It was too far down the street to see just who was in it.

H. M. McCaskill saying he drove over fields "and everywhere else" to get from his farm into town through the snow. "We had a lot of eggs we had to bring to the hatchery, so we just had to come," he said.

G. T. Austin digging his car out of a snowdrift, and then discovering after he got to town that none of the other mail carriers were able to make their routes.

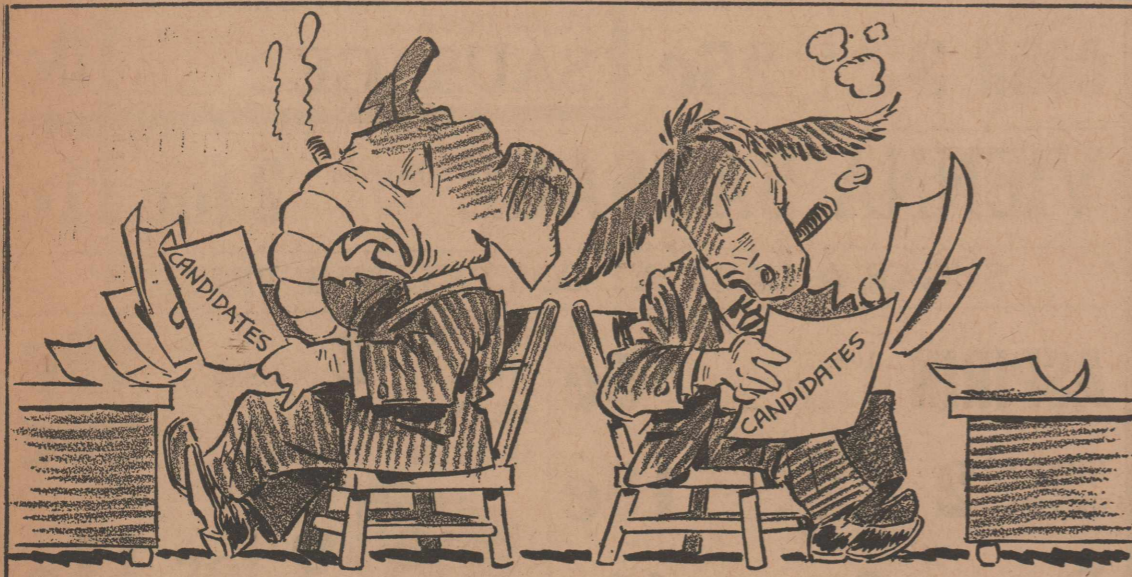

I heard that Henard Gray and his cousin, Pat Henard, who live at the southeast corner of the town section, had to hook up a wagon to come to town for groceries. "Just like living way up in the hills somewhere," commented Henard's sister, Mrs. Robert Templeton.

Mrs. Walter Starr of Quail saying that she and Mr. Starr got to Wellington Sunday, but they had to come down the railroad track for about three miles to get here.

Convicted of selling his children's shoes, bathrobes and nightgowns to obtain money to buy liquor, Charles Klipfel was sent to jail in Rochester, N. Y.

Ranchers Hear New Practices In Friday Meet

Additional $5,803 Range Payments Delivered Early This Week

An additional $5,803.12 under the A.A.A. program was received in this county Monday morning in the form of range payments, to be distributed among ten local ranchers. This included payments on some of the larger ranches of the county.

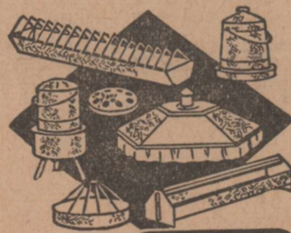

This is the second shipment of range checks to be received, and brings the total number to 31 and the total amount to $9,793.96.

In preparation for their range compliance work for 1940, a group of ranchmen met Friday to hear a discussion of regulations covering the range program. Due to weather conditions, only eighteen men were able to attend, and another meeting for ranchers will be held late next week. Exact date of the meeting will be announced in next week's Leader. C. V. Griffin, administrative assistant, said.

In addition to a review of old regulations, the group at Friday's meeting heard recommendations which the Agricultural Conservation Association has submitted to the state office, and approval of which is expected shortly.

Under these recommendations, eradication of cockle burs and loco weeds, where mowing is not practical, will draw a payment under the range program of $1.00 per acre for light infestation, $2.00 for medium infestation, and $3.00 for heavy infestation.

Mowing of sage and shinnery will draw a payment of $1.00 per acre, eradication of prairie dogs seven and one-half cents per acre, eradication of pocket gophers 25 cents per acre, and the building of levees around gyp sinks to prevent the disappearance of rainfall down these sinks, 15 cents per cubic yard of dirt put in the levee. "These practices may be carried out in connection with deferred grazing," Mr. Griffin explained. "If a man defers 25 per cent of his range land for five months beginning June 1, he will earn 40 per cent of his range allowance, and he can earn an additional 35 per cent of the range building allowance if enough of these recommended practices on any other part of the ranch.

"If the rancher doesn't care to defer or carry out any of the recommended practices, he may earn 100 per cent of his range building allowance by building tanks, contour listing, planting trees, digging wells, etc," Mr. Griffin said.

Nazarene Revival Will Continue Thru Sunday, Feb. 25th

Despite the snow storm that prevented the holding of two services, much progress is being made in the revival at the Church of the Nazarene, under the direction of Rev. Allie Irick, the pastor. Rev. Eugene Woods, reported Tuesday. The meeting will continue through Sunday, February 25.

Longer Jackets, Curved Waists Give "Little Girl" Silhouette

Looking very different this year, the new suits have "little" jackets with large pockets, or longer jackets with deep revers and important single, double or triple breasted closings are seen everywhere. Gored skirts vie with swing pleats, and intricate seamings give sleek princess lines to the backs of jackets.

Two Spring Fashion leaders! Little dressmaker suit in Crown Tested spun rayon and wool twill. Princess reefer ensemble in flannel-like Crown Tested spun rayon and wool fabric. Worn by Columbia Broadcasting Stars.

Dressmaker suits have soft details, such as tiny tuckings or darts under the arms, high placed yokes, tiny pointed lapels and other dressy details. Woolens used are as soft as dress fabrics, too, so that the entire costume is more of a jacket ensemble than a suit.

Three-Piece Suits Following the fashion set by buyers, many American designers have given us the new military cape suit, with its slim hanging cape over a neatly tailored suit—and both of a soft woolen which detracts from any severity of line or color.

New reefer suits have a "bell swing" skirt rippling softly around through the means of gores, below a perfectly fitting princess top. The soft little suits worn under these are buttoned to the neckline and may have four or six tiny pockets, as well as buttons for trimming.

Companion Tweeds Oatmeal tweeds combined with blending plaids, fine checks worn with wide broken checks, soft diagonals with blending tweeds, "fuzzy" woollens mixing up their colors in two and three tones in one suit, give to the Spring suit mode a new and delightful variety. Two-color hound's tooth checks are a favorite with plain skirts and either plain or checked topcoats. Shadow plaids are shown with plain wools, stripes with stripes. Herringbones find interest by varying their colors, and chalk stripes may be used with perfectly matched plain materials!

Dual and triple weaves in twill are new and very smart! These are shown in light suitings, and may be combined with heavier coatings. Ripple crepes and soft flat crepes are shown in dressy suits and ensembles. Rep weaves and fine ribs look new and exquisitely tailored in some of the new reefer suits. Satin edgings and braid give lustrous trimming and add to the richness of the costume.

Farm Security Notes

LIVE AT HOME Living at home, or off the farm, is essential to the economic success of a farming enterprise. Ordinarily a farm family can produce two-thirds of its food at home. Most farmers can produce all their milk, eggs, meats, fats, and most of their vegetables. Fruits can be bought in abundance during season, and preserved for winter use. An extra cow, a few extra hogs, and a good flock of chickens is a good investment.

A good live-at-home program makes it possible for a farm family to meet the loss of income through such abnormal conditions as drought with the least possible suffering.

Farming is a family business. It is a partnership in which the farmer and his wife and children must all pull together. The homemaker is as responsible for the success or failure of this partnership as her husband. Her industry, energy, and wise management can add to, and conserve the family income. Her lack of these qualities can dispart the whole farm business.

The Farm Security Administration awards certificates with blue and red ribbons to families for the production of seventy-five and sixty percent of the food supply at home. During 1939 fifty-four families reached the seventy-five percent mark, and will receive blue ribbons in the near future. Twenty-three other families will receive red ribbons for producing sixty percent of the family food supply at home. These awards are based on the accomplishment of the following points:

- Can 120 quarts of vegetables and fruits per person.
- Keep 2, or more milch cows.
- Butcher 1 to 3 hogs.
- Butcher a beef; can part of it.
- Keep 50, or more hens.
- Raise 150, or more chickens.
- Keep satisfactory records.

J. F. Moore Rites Spoken Here On Monday Morning

Resident Of County For 22 Years Dies At Home Of Daughter

Funeral rites for James Frederick Moore, 76-year-old Wellington man, were held Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the Kelso Funeral Chapel, with Guy N. Woods, minister of the Church of Christ in charge. Mr. Moore died early Sunday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. E. Nunnelle.

Although he had been in ill health for a number of months, he was able to be up, and only a few days before his death he was in town visiting with friends. His death came as a shock to his many acquaintances here.

Mr. Moore had been a resident of this county for 22 years, coming here from Wichita County. During part of the time he farmed near Wellington, but after his retirement a number of years ago, he had made his home with his children. He had many friends in this section who respected him highly.

A native of Texas, Mr. Moore was born in Milam County on November 29, 1863, and at the time of his death he was 76 years, two months and nineteen days of age.

Surviving Mr. Moore are his widow, Mrs. Meddie Adell Moore, and six children, C. C. Moore of Odessa, I. S. Moore of Wichita Falls, O. G. Moore of Clinton, Okla., E. J. Moore of Joplin, Mo., Mrs. J. A. Pitts of Clinton, Okla., and Mrs. Nunnelle. Ten grandchildren and three great grandchildren also survive.

Pal bearers for the funeral service were Charlie Bearden, Claude Neece, C. B. Nunnelle, Corbett Ford, Heard Edmondson, and Ike Emmert.

Hymns included "Rock of Ages" and "The Old Rugged Cross."

Interment was in the Wellington Cemetery with the Kelso Funeral Home in charge.

Everyone has been enjoying the nice weather the past weeks.

Several have been on the sick list this week. Floyd Moore has been quite ill with influenza, but is much better now. Mrs. Oscar Davis has been sick the past three weeks, but is improving at this writing.

Quite a number of people from Texola and Ella "chavareed" Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore Tuesday night. They were married last month. Everyone reported lots of fun, candy and cigars.

Glenn and Clarence Gosnell of Texola spent Tuesday with their sister, Mrs. Casey Jones, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dorman of Pampa visited over the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Davis and family.

Eagles To Close Season Feb. 26th

Participation in the district basketball tournament and a matched game with the Turkey Turks come next on the schedule of the Samnorwood Eagles, Coach Paul Morris announced this week.

The Eagles will play in the district meet Friday and Saturday, February 23 and 24, in Childress.

The game with the Turks, due Monday night, February 26, will close the home schedule for the Eagles. This game, Norwood fans believe, will be one of the most exciting of the season, in view of the fact that the county boys are out to avenge a 50 to 33 defeat handed them earlier in the season by the Turkey team.

This in addition will be the final game for seven Samnorwood cagers, Captain John Rainey, Kirklin, Bradstreet, Deger, Furgeson, Cunningham and Coleman.

Intramural boxing matches are also being arranged for the Norwood-Turkey game, Morris said.

Miss Opal Hill of Post, Texas, was named "Cotton Queen" and awarded a medal by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. She is the only woman in the United States to hold the degree of bachelor of textile engineering.

500 FLAT TIRES... AND EVERY CUSTOMER WANTING SERVICE "NOW"

● Suppose a service station were required to handle a rush order like that. To give such service would require many extra employes, all of whom would be busy only occasionally. Also, much extra investment in equipment would be necessary.

● Wouldn't this service station have to charge for each flat tire repaired throughout the year a sufficient price to cover the cost of being ready when this rush order came along?

● During January your Gas Company was called upon to supply fourteen times as much Gas to its customers as on a summer day. The investment necessary for giving Natural Gas Service in times of extreme demand is standing by throughout the year, waiting for the time when it will be needed.

● Isn't it likewise true that Gas rates should be sufficient throughout the year to cover the costs made necessary because of investments standing by so as to be prepared when extreme demands occur? Your Gas Company is prepared, and that is why we say...

Carbon Monoxide Poison A Danger In Winter Months

Drivers Warned To Check Exhaust System Of Automobiles

To minimize the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning during winter weather, motorists are urged by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, to check up now on the exhaust system of their automobiles for defective connections and leaks.

Cold weather, which necessitates driving in closed cars, is the time of the year when carbon monoxide finds most of its victims. The poison seeps inside the car from leaky connections and overwhelms occupants of the car.

Carbon monoxide is colorless, odorless, and tasteless; when in the air, it gives no sign of its presence and is taken into the blood instead of oxygen. Suffering or collapse results from lack of oxygen.

Dr. Cox pointed out that warming up a car in a closed garage is a frequent cause of carbon monoxide deaths. It follows that if one plans to run the automobile engine for any purpose inside the garage, the door should be thrown wide open immediately, and this irrespective of outside temperature.

Leaks from manifold connections, defective mufflers, leaks from loose muffler connections, and leaks from hot air heater connections are potential sources for release of carbon monoxide and should be checked. Pay particular attention to these items and remember that proper carburetor adjustment causes minimum production of carbon monoxide, and that the highest proportion of the gas is produced by an idling motor.

Dr. Cox pointed out that headaches which occur during long drives may indicate that carbon monoxide has been leaking into the air. Sleeplessness, dizziness, fatigue, and extreme cases of paralysis are other symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning. "Truck drivers making long drives in cars with defective exhaust systems are particularly vulnerable," he said.

Carbon monoxide poisoning is also attributed to worn-out hose or faulty connections on gas heaters. When using the hose type of connection, persons should make certain that no leakage due to wear and tear exist. A thorough investigation of such appliances each autumn to check the leakages and replace worn parts of gas appliances is indicated.

In short, carefulness is the effective weapon against carbon monoxide poisoning. Carelessness and indifference alone make it the killer.

this county since September, 1937, and in all years previous to this approval had been given the contract.

In a called meeting February 1, members of the Commissioners Court, feeling that the opinion given by the Attorney General and the Comptroller was in conflict with the decisions of several courts of civil appeals, gave its approval to Mr. Corneil's making of this a test case before the supreme court.

The case was tried before Judge C. M. Cuerton. Grounds on which he overruled the motion for permission to file the mandamus petition have not been learned here, it was stated late Tuesday evening.

Refusal to approve this contract by the state will in no way affect collections made by Mr. Corneil or tax suits filed in the local court, Judge C. C. Bishop, county judge, said.

Wellington, became stalled, and J. L. Beard, superintendent, and John Hooper, band director, left to help in delivering students to their homes. Before they could do this and return to Wellington, their car, too, became stranded. The two were forced to stay at Fresno until Sunday evening, when they walked through snowdrifts to the highway, and were picked up and brought to town.

No classes were held at Samnorwood Monday or Tuesday. Although school work took up at Quail Monday morning, only a few students were able to get in.

Friday night and Saturday morning, more than a hundred cars were estimated to have stalled in snowdrifts in Wellington and along the highways out of town. A highway truck from Shamrock picked up a number of stranded motorists Friday night and brought them to town, while Sheriff Claude McKinney, along with a number of individuals, made several trips to bring people in.

By Saturday morning, all roads out of Wellington were blocked, telephone wires were down, and the entire west end of the rural electrification lines were out.

Not until late afternoon were the roads from the south cleared sufficiently for the morning mail to be brought in to Wellington. These roads were again blocked by snow a short time later.

Although snow and fine rain began falling about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, it did little toward further blocking roads.

Warmer weather and sunshine Sunday did much toward melting out snow in the roads and streets, and work crews, with road graders, tractors and shovels set to work immediately clearing out the roads. Again Monday, snow fell heavily throughout the morning but rising temperatures quickly melted it away.

Wednesday, however, mail carriers were still unable to make their entire routes over the county, and it was believed that not until the latter part of the week at least would it be possible for travel to be resumed in all parts of the county.
