To Lay Corner Stone At Baptist Church Dec. 5th

Congregation To Formally Accept Church Building Sunday Morning, Dec. 7

Final arrangements have been made and plans are complete for the laying of the corner stone at the new First Baptist Church on Friday afternoon, December 5, at 5 o'clock.

An open house will be held immediately following the laying of the corner stone. Everyone in the county, regardless of creed, is cordially invited by the church membership to attend these two events. This church is justly proud of their fine new structure, and they want everyone to see and inspect it Friday afternoon.

The corner stone ceremonies will be opened with a song, led by Owen C. Taylor. Rev. E. D. Landreth, pastor of the First Methodist Church will then lead the audience in

OUR MISTAKE

We apologize to Courier readers for the mistake we made in Monday's issue in regards to the new First Baptist Church. In that portion of the story where we made the statement that only $4,500 remained to be raised to have the church paid for, we should have said that the payment of $4,500 would have left only the final installment note of $25,000 which is not due for some time yet.

prayer. Following this, Carl Rountree, local attorney, District Judge Louis B. Reed, and Rev. E. F. Cole pastor of the church, will speak.

E. C. Nix will have charge of placing the depository in the corner stone. M. C. Lindsey is program chairman for this ceremony and is extending a personal invitation to everyone in the county to attend these rites, as well as the open house.

Sunday, December 7, the first services are to be held in the new church at the regular hours. Sunday morning the congregation will formally accept the new building. To these services the general public is cordially invited.

Jesse Putman Is Seriously Hurt In Auto Crash

Jesse Putman, of the O. K. Community is in a Lamesa hospital, suffering with serious injuries as the result of an automobile collision about 6:30 Monday evening.

Mr. Putman, with his son Willie George and a nephew, were driving south about 14 miles north of Lamesa. A pickup, driven by a Mexican and pulling a trailer, was going north. The Mexican swerved out into the middle of the highway to miss another trailer parked at the side of the highway. As he did, witnesses say, that he saw Mr. Putman coming and attempted to dodge back to the right hand side. As he did Mr. Putman hit his trailer, which then turned over on Mr. Putman's car.

Putman suffered a fractured skull, a crushed chest and several serious internal injuries. He is now in a Lamesa hospital where his condition is very grave. "The two boys in the Putnam car were uninjured as far as could be learned."

Mr. Putman is employed by Mr. Greenlee in the O. K. Community, and has a wife and four children, all residents of that place.

Local Sears Office Wins First Place In Sales Contest

Lamesa Office Out Sells All Sears Order Offices In United States And Canada

The Lamesa Order Office of Sears, Roebuck and Company, were the recipients of national recognition last week when they were declared first place winners in a National Sales contest from October 16th through October 25th, competing with 240 Sears Order Offices throughout North America.

Miss Jo Hall, local Sears manager, was invited to Dallas for the official presentation of the award on Monday, November 24. She was awarded a beautiful gold plated trophy about 18 inches in height, and was carried to Dallas by American Airlines for the presentation.

Miss Hall and her assistants, Miss Doris Meyers and Miss Hazel Matthews, in winning this honor, have brought recognition to Lamesa, not only from Dallas, and Chicago, headquarters for the Sears organization, but from all parts of the United States, Canada, and Alaska where Sears is represented.

W. F. Plummer, promotional superintendent of the entire organization of order houses, was in Dallas Monday to present the trophy and his congratulations to Miss Hall.

Sheriff's Dept. Captures San Angelo Burglars

Sheriff Buck Bennett and his deputies apprehended two Mexicans in Lamesa Wednesday on pickup orders from the San Angelo police department. These Mexicans, with one other, who has not been caught, are charged with the burglary of the Montgomery-Ward store in San Angelo.

Officers here recovered approximately $500 worth of merchandise at a cache north of Post City Wednesday afternoon. This merchandise consisted of men's suits, shirts, etc. Thursday morning officers located about $180 worth of goods in Lamesa, one article of which was a fur coat valued at $139.

The balance of the goods was reported to be in San Angelo, and officers from that city who came for the culprits Thursday expected to also recover that upon their return to San Angelo.

H. H. Barron, veteran Dawson County auctioneer, will cry the sale, while E. E. Barron will serve as clerk. The sale is to start promptly at 1:00 o'clock Wednesday, and Mrs. Baze will offer several head of horses, cattle, chickens, etc., for sale to the highest bidder. 13,900 Bales Are Ginned Between November 1 And 14 Report Shows

A report from R. S. Stanfield, special agent of the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce, shows that Dawson County has ginned 26,382 bales of cotton from the crop of 1941, prior to November 14. This compares favorably with the report at the same time last year when 26,959 bales had been ginned.

According to this statement Dawson County ginned 13,900 bales of cotton ginned between November 1 and November 14, as the November 1 report gave 12,492 bales prior to that day. This means that the Dawson County gins averaged nearly 1,000 bales of cotton daily for this fourteen day stretch, and if this figure holds good for the two weeks just past, Dawson County should have ginned approximately 40,000 bales by this time.

Ginners and other cotton men estimate that around 80 per cent of the crop is now gathered, and if the good weather continues to hold out, that most of the crop will have been gathered by the first of the year.

Henningsen-Lamesa Breaks 500,000 Eggs In Twenty-Four Hours

Imagine Mrs. Housewife, inviting every man, woman and child in Dawson and Lynn counties to breakfast some morning and having enough scrambled eggs on one platter to give each guest a serving of a dozen eggs.

But that many eggs are actually broken and prepared in Lamesa each day.

Fifteen hundred cases of eggs, with 30 dozen to the case, zip into the Henningsen-Lamesa, Inc. plant daily. Twenty-four hours later they are neatly packed and ready for shipment to Great Britain or the United States Army.

Dry (powdered) or frozen eggs they call them. Not a particle of the food value content lost in the intriguing process either. Nothing but the moisture in part of them. Of course, it would be difficult to whip these eggs for cake baking or the like, but they are good eating eggs and lifesavers to the British.

From everywhere—Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Texas and other states—the eggs come to Lamesa by rail and truck each day.

They are hustled to the plant and the process of converting the eggs into powder within eight minutes begins.

Women handlers take them from the crates and, incidentally, take your breath away the way they slam them around without so much as denting a shell. First, they are candled, held against a light to insure the quality of each egg.

Then large bucketsful are placed beside a long row of sixty women who have a rather monotonous but highly important task to perform.

Swiftly they grab an egg in each hand, break the shells, and, with the motion of a teen-age soda jerkier, hold them aloft while yolks and whites splash into a container below. Hour after hour they smash eggs and drop them without mishap from a height of about two feet.

When containers are filled with eggs, the women hastily give a second check to the eggs by smelling them and then all containers are dumped into a huge vat.

This process varies however, according to which shift the women are working, as the whole eggs are put into the same container during the night shift, while during the day shift the yolks are separated from the whites, which takes quite a few seconds more time.

After the eggs are broken and placed in the vats, pumps take the eggs into stainless steel tanks. There they are thoroughly mixed and more pumps shoot them along to a pasteurizing tank. The process is very similar to pasteurizing milk.

The eggs then go to the drying or freezing machines. Within eight minutes the eggs, when powdered, come out golden brown.

Strict laboratory control is maintained over the entire operation, twenty-four hours each day. Technicians test the eggs through every process, and when a 150 pound barrel of eggs is sealed, it is pure.

The eggs, in barrels, are shipped to the Federal Surplus Commission Corporation for distribution—usually to Britain and the United States Army.

It takes fifteen cases of eggs to make a standard 150-pound barrel package of dry eggs. Usually railroad cars hurrying away the wartime food necessity carry from 30-60 to 60,000 pounds. Four carloads is the usual daily production.

Usually it is a seasonal business, with the plant shut down during some period of the year. But the lights are never extinguished twenty-four hours a day they operate. More than 175 employees work in the Henningsen-Lamesa plant alone.

Recently Henningsen - Lamesa completed three new drying and packing rooms, more than doubling the output of previous months. These new buildings represent an additional outlay of more than $25,000.

Lamesa is indeed fortunate in having an enterprise of this nature located in the city, for with its 175 employees it probably has the largest payroll of any individual business between Lubbock and Big Spring. In fact we know of no firm in Lubbock or Big Spring with the possible exception of the Cosden Refinery in the latter city that does have such a large number of employees.

Mr. Hessler, manager of Henningsen-Lamesa, has our thanks for the information contained in this story, and if any of it is in error blame it on the writer for his inability to understand and assimilate the details with which he started.

Courier A Real Bargain At $1.00 Many Report

Many Take Courier For Several Years In Order To Avoid Probable Increase

With the Courier subscription price set for a short time at the bargain rate of $1.00 per year in Dawson, Martin, Lynn, Borden and Gaines counties, residents of this territory are coming in ever increasing numbers and telling the Courier publishers to "Keep the hometown paper coming our way."

Never in the history of this newspaper has the response to the Bargain Rates been so great. Each succeeding day sees the list of new and renewal subscribers growing larger. Many are taking the Courier not for just one year, but for several years, to avoid the risk of having to pay more for the paper in the near future. Because with world conditions as they are, and no relief in sight, it is almost certain that this will be the last time the Courier can be had for the small sum of $1.00 per year.

One reason for the astounding popularity of the Courier is its news coverage. It not only carries the complete news of Lamesa, but of every individual community in the territory. This, together with the press releases from the various governmental agencies such as the AAA, FSA, Extension Service, which is of vital importance to every citizen of an agricultural area and the feature stories and pictures from the Associated Press, the world's largest news gathering organization, make the Courier one of the outstanding news bargains in West Texas.

And too, there are the large numbers of merchandise values offered through the Courier columns by the various merchants of Lamesa. More than one subscriber has told us that they saved enough money in one week by shopping the Courier ads, to more than pay for their subscription. And folks that makes the Courier a double bargain at its Bargain Rates. You not only save half the price of the regular subscription rate, but you can save money on values offered each week by Courier advertisers.

Red Cross Roll Call Still Under County Quota

W. K. Crawley, chairman of the Dawson County Red Cross Roll Call, is urging all persons participating in the drive to please turn in their collection by Monday at the latest. The drive will close on November 30, and all contributions are supposed to be in at that time.

According to a report from John Allen, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the American Red Cross, at the present time only $494 has been turned in for the Roll Call this year. The quota for the county is 1500 memberships. Mr. Allen says that none of the rural communities, as well as the gins, oil mill, compress, have turned in their reports and that when they do the total will be much greater.

$22.50 To Be Awarded Winners In "Mistaken Window Contest"

When the fire siren sounds on Wednesday, December 3, at 5 o'clock, don't make the mistake of thinking it is an air raid or a conflagration. It will be the signal for the merchants of Lamesa to unveil their Christmas windows, and the visitors in Lamesa to start hunting the mistakes the merchants will make in the various windows. All spectators are asked to bring their own paper and pencils and as soon as they have completed their lists of mistakes, turn them in to the judges who will be at the bandstand. The lists must be turned in by six o'clock and as soon as the judges have completed the awards will be made.

A musical program has been arranged for the evening, and the crowd will be entertained. Award for the person finding the most mistakes in the participating windows, will be $100.00 in merchandise vouchers, redeemable at any of the participating stores. Second place winner will be given $75.00 in vouchers, while third place winner will be given $50.00 in vouchers.

Approximately 50 Lamesa merchants are to participate in this "Mistaken Window Contest," and many of them are offering special values on Christmas items during this Christmas Opening event.

Immediately following the closing of the Window Contest, Santa Claus will make his appearance, and will distribute free candy to the children. An attempt will be made to have every child in the county present for Santa's visit.

Committeeman Emphasizes Food-For-Freedom

Testimonial to rural America's contribution to National Defense through the "Food for Freedom" campaign is the Farm Security Administration's program to assist low-income farm families maintain adequate diets and good health, improve their housing and farm and home planning, in the opinion of H. L. Sprull, county committeeman for this Federal Agency in Dawson County.

Commenting on Secretary Wickard's request for American agriculture to step up production of food for this nation and all other nations resisting aggression, Mr. Sprull said it is fortunate that families cooperating with the FSA have been for several years getting more production of the basic foods by using improved methods.

He cited the problems of inadequate acreage, sub-marginal land, ill health and other problems faced by many farm families being assisted by this agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which undoubtedly limit the possibilities of increased production by many operators.

"However these families are following definite farm and home management plans designed to help in each specific case, and I have every reason to believe they are now willing and ready to step in and do their part for national defense by increasing farm production to the best of their ability."

The well-known community leader declared this agency is contributing materially to National Defense by building better morale, by helping needy farm families get back on their feet, and by helping them acquire something of their own to defend.

"This agency also builds national man power through better diet and better health," he continued, "and through live-at-home farming, this program is helping to stabilize the national economy, both during the present emergency and in its aftermath."

Mr. Sprull said he had made a study of the Farm Security's board program of help for farm families of the lower income group, and has been assisting in the direction of it in this county. He said that in his opinion it is the greatest rural social agency ever established in this county.

"I suppose that most people know that the Farm Security Administration makes loans to farm families who cannot get adequate credit from other source to carry on their operations," said Mr. Sprull, "and at the same time gives these worthy rural people sound guidance in farm and home management planning."

"In so doing," he continued, "this agency is making it possible for every farmer in this country to contribute the maximum toward National Defense."

The County Committeeman explained that although this agency, which is cooperating with the state and county USDA Defense Boards, makes loans to carry out farm and home programs, and sponsors a number of other basic programs, such as group medical care, community and cooperative facilities and services, farm debt adjustment, the farm tenant purchase program, and so forth, the approach is always through the farm family.

"The thing I like most about the Farm Security work," he said, "is that whenever money is lent or assistance is given in setting up any project, the paramount objective is both the immediate and longtime welfare of the family."

Returning to the subject of "Food for Freedom," Mr. Sprull said that he is confident the FSA borrower families will enter into this all-important campaign with willingness and a spirit of patriotism that will be unexcelled.

"And in so doing," he said in conclusion, "I know they will continue the type of farming that will conserve the land and build up their physical health and their morale which are needed now and surely will be needed when this present emergency is past."

Leaders Debate Effects Of Price Control In U. S.

Price control inflation? If one or the other is inevitable, price control seems to be the logical choice. But what kind of price control? In the current Rotarian magazine, Leon Henderson, U. S. Price Administrator, and Bernard M. Baruch, Chairman of the War Industries Board during World War 1, debate the choice of methods to keep prices down.

Mr. Henderson states the problem for both arguments, when he writes that soon 2 billion dollars a month will be pouring into defense production. "Most of those dollars wind up in somebody's pocketbook . . . are itching to be spent," he says, "but the goods whose production they symbolize never come on the consumer's goods market. Instead they go to our Army or Navy, to Britain, to Russia, or to China. Some of those dollars are saved and invested in government bonds, some are drained off through higher taxes. . . . The residue of those dollars left over is estimated to be 4 to 7 billions a year. Price control is the only method left to offset the (inflationary) pressure of those remaining billions."

With this, Mr. Baruch is in full agreement, for he writes, "Because of delay in coming to grips with the price problem, prices have advanced and inflation looms before us. . . . Prompt enactment of a price control law is the greatest single necessity of the current crisis."

But here their agreement ends, for Mr. Henderson holds for discretionary power to establish ceilings, while Baruch argues for all-out price control. Writes Price Administrator Henderson, "If the basic raw materials are held in check, then prices in the subsequent along-the-line manufacturing processes also ought to stay put." But Mr. Baruch, who held a very similar position during the last war, supports the principle of the Gore bill, "that a ceiling be put over all prices, rents, wages, commission fees, interest rates as of some date. Prices would not be frozen, but would fluctuate freely below this ceiling, although not above it."

As to wages, Mr. Henderson admits, "Neither does the (Stegall-Glass) bill attempt to fix wages. There is a good deal of legislation on the books designed to bring about a system of fair wages. . . . I believe wages like every other cost must be kept in bounds. It is significant that in England . . . the precious right to bargain on wages has been retained." But Mr. Baruch finds the Gore bill's provisions more acceptable: "Labor's right to strike or to bargain collectively would not be infringed, nor would labor sacrifice any of the gains made in recent years. One provision specifically provides that no ceiling shall apply to wages below the standards of the wage and hour laws in the states. This probably will mean that wages of our lowest-paid workers will rise, which is as it should be."

The farmer's prices, under the Stegall-Glass bill, will be set, to quote Mr. Henderson, so that "no price could be fixed on any farm product below 110 per cent of parity at the price on July 29, 1917, whichever is the higher." Mr. Baruch's choice of the Gore bill's provision that "guarantees agriculture a ceiling at parity" prices. To attempt to take advantage of the emergency to obtain more than 'parity' prices now may result in agriculture's losing the 'parity' status for which it has fought so long.

Mr. Baruch's main objection is that the Stegall-Glass bill is only piecemeal. "Psychologically," peace-meal control encourages prices to

OUT OF LITTLE ONES

Moses Lake, Wash. (AP)—Lots of little fish are growing to be big fish by eating big fish. Big sluggish carp, which get as big as 40 pounds, are cut up, cooked and otherwise processed at a small plant here, and, says Manager Ray Shinkle, fish experts call carp meal the best food for fingerlings ever discovered.

The past season 200 tons were processed and hatcheries took the whole output. A seine, similar to those for salt water fishing, is used. The firm has a special permit for its operation. A ton of fish works down to about 500 pounds of meal.

rise," he claims, "Under the peaceable bill, the outlook for the future would be a steady rise in prices, slow perhaps, but sure, with no upper limit ever in sight."

One more point finds both men in agreement—and that is the necessity for immediate action. "We as a nation cannot afford to wait much longer, to haggle indefinitely over questions of detail," says Mr. Henderson while Mr. Baruch warns that "procrastination has made the task of preventing inflation more difficult."

There's Got To Be A Santa Claus In The World

By CHANNING POLLOCK
In (December) Rotarian Magazine.

When she was a very little girl, my daughter asked, "What would you do if there weren't any trees?"

"Why," I answered, lightheartedly, "we'd have to invent some. We couldn't get on without trees."

There are quite a lot of things—food, shelter, clothing—we couldn't get on without, and a number of wise men have made my suggestion—we'd have to invent them. What we must have even more than these are food for the mind, shelter for the spirit, that which clothes the nakedness of mere animal existence, and gives warmth to human contacts.

We celebrate Christmas as a religious festival, but a Christmas was celebrated hundreds of years before Christ. The ancient people of the Angli, in what is now Britain, had in December a Modranect or mothers' night. There had to be a day set aside for kindness and generosity, and remembering those we love, and those less fortunate.

Before and since Dickens wrote his immortal A Christmas Carol, there have been a few Scrooges who cried of Christmas, "Bah, humbug!" I have heard modern Scrooges call it a shopkeepers' holiday, and a nuisance, but for the overwhelming majority of us, as for Scrooge's nephew, it is "a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; the only time I know of in the long calendar of the year when men and women open their shut-up hearts freely . . . I say God bless it!"

There is a certain magic in a day when even strangers bid us be merry; when the mail and telephone and telegraph and all the means of communication commonly devoted to business bring chery wishes for "Merry Christmas!" Shopkeepers' holiday? Bah! Humbug! It isn't a necktie or a dollar bill that we slip into the hand of the janitor or the postman; it's goodwill and thank you for a year of service. It isn't a toy train that we put under the tree for Junior, a muffler that we wrap in red tissue for Aunt Julia, but the knowledge that Junior has always wanted a train, and Aunt Julia has needed a muffler, and the loving desire that, just this one day, they shall have what they want and need, and that we shall see the pleasure in their eyes, and feel the warmth of their joyful kisses.

Believe it or not, and smile if you like, but, at—well, say 60, my wife and I still hang up our stockings. What a lot of love and laughter and tenderness goes into the trifling gifts we select for those symbols. We trim our little tree with bright stars and tinsel, and for days ahead, in secret, we write messages, and wrap things in gay paper, and hide them from one another until the morning of mornings.

Shopkeepers' holiday! Was it only a shaving kit I could have got for myself that went into that starchy package, or was it my daughter's heart that remembered the time, ages ago, when I said, "Damn that old razor! Some day I am going to have one that fits into my hand properly!"? What about the crate of oranges that comes every Christmas from a colored elevator boy in Florida? I can buy better oranges, but I can't buy what comes with these.

We dine every day, but there is only one Christmas dinner. For years that a family festival, with all our dear ones about the table. Most of them are gone now, and our Christmas guests are people who, whatever their means, have no home of their own. Why? Well, when I was 19, and away from my home for the first time at Christmas, a very lonely lad, the mother of a chap employed in the office with me asked me to her home. I never saw her again; she has been dead nearly 40 years, but she and that dinner live in my memory.

Last Christmas my wife and I had half a dozen old actors, forgotten now, and we talked of the great days in the theatre, and lived again until long after midnight. Irene Franklin, who had been the idol of vaudeville, sang several of her best songs to us, and a very old Shakespearean actor repeated—and how!—the soliloquy from Hamlet. It took Christmas to restore their heyday for an hour or two, and that memory goes on our golden pile of Christmases.

During a radio broadcast not long ago, I met the middle-aged woman who, as a child of 8, wrote to the New York Sun, "Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?" Every year the Sun reprints the reply it made editorially in 1897: "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist. . . . There is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. It is all real? Ah . . . in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding."

Of course there's a Santa! And if there weren't, he would be the very first of the things we'd have to invent. Life must have love and a little childlike faith to be enduring; and the year must have at least one day when we are more conscious of faith and love than of business and bombs and all the realities nobody doubts—and nobody wants!

Methodist Home Celebrates New Building Program

Culminating the most outstanding year of more than a half century and launching the drive for funds to finance next year's $125,000 budget, the Methodist Home drive will dedicate five new buildings on its campus Friday, November 28. Bishops A. Frank Smith of Houston and Ivan Lee Holt of Dallas will take leading parts on the program, and more than 2000 out-of-town visitors are expected from the six conferences of Texas and New Mexico which support the home.

The affair begins with a barbecue on the Home campus at noon, the dedicatory service following at 1:30 p. m. Each new building will then be opened, its donors and the boys and girls who are to live in it serving as welcoming committee guides. Four of the new structures are residences, furthering Superintendent Hubert Johnson's long time dream of doing away with dormitories and transforming the orphanage into a group of homes, each with its own house mother, its own dining room, kitchen and bedrooms, so that children may be brought up in an atmosphere as near like actual home life as possible. Half the home's 400 children are now living in cottages. The fifth building is an infirmary.

Donors are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Perkins of Wichita Falls, who are giving a second cottage for girls after two years ago giving a home for senior girls; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Birdwell of Wichita Falls, a boy's home; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Mitchell of Martha, a girl's home; the late Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Williams of Fort Worth, who will be represented by relatives, a boy's home; R. P. Willis Sr. of Atlanta and the late Mrs. Willie Willis, who gave the infirmary. This building has been furnished by W. T. Penn of Wichita Falls and the late Mrs. Penn.

After the dedication, there will be an evening session of the 48 district superintendents of the Texas and New Mexico conferences. They will discuss the budget campaign, due to be held in all Methodist churches during the month of December. The Home, existing for more than half a century without endowment, has relied on free will offerings for support during its entire history. Because of the limited budget all buildings have been donated by private individuals, 1941 marking an all time high gifts of this nature to the Home.

Lamesa A Cadet At Kelly Field
Kelly Field, Texas, Nov. 26 - Along with 1866 other cadets, aviation Cadet Ray Edwin Speck, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Speck, 706 South Houston Street, Lamesa, Texas, is now a member of the first class of cadets in the new Air Corps Replacement Center (Aircrew) at Kelly Field, Texas. Graduated Lamesa High School 1935; Howard Payne College, 1936; Texas Technological College, 1940-41.
At the Replacement Center he will go through five weeks of preliminary training before being sent to a primary flying school where he will start his flight training. This five week course will give Cadet Speck a thorough military background for becoming an officer in the Army of the United States on graduation from an advanced flying school thirty weeks later.
In addition, the course is intended to prepare the cadet, mentally and physically, for the rigors of the actual flight training to come. Cadet Speck will participate in many activities designed to improve his physical condition beyond even the high standard required for entrance. The course will also include the study of subjects ranging from military law to signal communications.
Upon completion of the course Cadet Speck will enter one of the 18 primary schools located in the Gulf Coast Air Corps Training Area, prepared to concentrate more fully on flying itself than was possible in the past.

SPARENBERG
Sherman Moulton Jr.
Our entire community was shocked and saddened when word came that Hermas (Shine) Trice had passed away suddenly in a Lamesa hospital on Saturday evening at about eight o'clock. He was at work at the Brown Gin Co., where he was manager when he became suddenly ill and his brother carried him to Lamesa where medical aid was given and it was thought he was going to be all right and in a few more moments he suffered another attack which proved fatal. Hermas, better known as Shine to young and old alike was the eldest son of Mr. J. M. Trice and has made his home in this community for the last twenty years and numbered his friends by his acquaintances.
Funeral services were held at the Sparenberg Methodist Church, which Shine had long been a member of, on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. E. H. Claudell having charge of the services, interment was at the Lamesa cemetery by the side of his mother who preceded him in death four years ago. Besides his father, he is survived by the following brothers and sisters, Misses Maurine and Wanda Trice of Sparenberg, Mr. G. C. Trice of Pettitt, Texas, Mrs. Sol Ingram of Delano, Calif., Garland Trice of Pettitt, Texas and J. M. Trice, Jr. of Sparenberg who were all here for the last rites.
There was a large number of our mesa cemetery by the side of his town relatives here also. Our sorrow and we would say like the poet James Whitcomb Riley in his poem "Away":

I cannot say, and I will not say
That he is dead—he is just away.
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.
And you, O you, who the wildest yearn,
For the old time step and the glad return,
Think of his faring on, as dear,
In the love of there as the love of here,
Think of him still as the same,
I say.
He is not dead, he is just away.

Low Bid Accepted On Highway 137 To Terry Co. Line
State Highway Department engineers announced Tuesday that a low bid of $56,985 had been received by them for the completion of Highway 137 in Dawson County from Punkin Center to the Terry county line.
The low bid was submitted by Public Construction Company, of Denton, and calls for 9.1 miles of grade revisions, flexible base and double asphalt surface treatment on State Highway 137 from 9.7 miles northwest of Lamesa to the Terry County line.
Received by engineers the bid was subject to approval by the Highway Commission before the contract is let, but this is considered to be a mere formality.
The completion of this highway in Dawson County will tie in with the work being done in Terry County south from Brownfield and will give this section another all-weather outlet to the north.

GRASS IS GREENER BUT CATTLE ARE LEANER
Pierre, S. D. (AP)—Tell a rancher from the short grass country his pastures are the greenest in many years and things certainly do look nice this fall. You get a sour smile. Green grass produces soft fat that shrinks off on the trip to market. South Dakota stockmen much prefer ripe, known buffalo grass that cures early in the summer, but liberal fall rains have turned ranches green again—six months early.

FLEET COP PLAYS DECOY FOR A DOG
St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—Police were stumped momentarily when they tried to run in an inebriate who had lain down in the middle of the street to rest. The man's big police dog stood guard and growled whenever they approached.
Finally one of the officers acted as a decoy, taunting the dog until it ran after him. Two other officers then picked up the inebriate and hustled him to jail. On the way they picked up the decoy, out of breath but without a tooth mark on him.

PAPER SO LOUD IT CRACKLES
Evansville, Ind. (AP)—Wallpaper, it now may said, should be seen and not heard. Firemen were summoned on the run when wallpaper in Roscoe Porter's home began crackling like burning wall timbers. They looked over the premises. No fire, no smoke—only strange behaving wallpaper giving a sound effects demonstration.

Workers Urged To Give Employer Correct Number
If a worker is employed by an individual or firm which he knows does not have a record of his social security account number. It is the duty of the employee to all the employer's attention to this oversight according to Robert Mayne manager of the Big Spring, Texas office of the Social Security Board.
"The employer must have the worker's account number in order to make his quarterly wage report to the Collector of Internal Revenue; and unless the employer has a record of the worker's account number or unless it is secured later, no credit can be given to the worker for the wages paid him during that quarter."
"Furthermore," it was explained by Mayne, "if the employer sends in his quarterly wage report with the name of the worker without his account number, it causes additional expense to the employer and to the Social Security Board because the account number must be secured and recorded on reports."
Wage credits are posted to the workers' social security account number, and unless the account number accompanies the employer's wage report, the worker stands to lose his credits. This eventually may result in his losing at least a

Food Handlers Should Get Health Certificates

It has long been admitted by public health authorities that the improper handling of foods at restaurants and soda fountains has been a potent factor in the spread of contagious and communicable disease. The use of certain simple rules of common sense and practical hygiene, together with knowledge of the spread of these diseases can do much to combat and to prevent their spread," states Dr. Brummage, County Health Supervisor.

State law requires current certificates for all food handlers. Individuals ill with tuberculosis, dysentery or septic sore throat are potentially dangerous, and should not handle food or utensils until they have been cured of the disease. A person may have completely recovered from typhoid fever and still harbor the typhoid germs in his body, and may spread it to others. "Typhoid Mary," a cook who died a few years ago has been directly responsible for the death of a large number of people, simply through her food. Lacking personal hygiene she spread through her body wastes the death-causing typhoid germs to the food of the people for whom she cooked.

Every establishment where food is served should be equipped with running water, soap, and individual clean towels for the employees (located at the toilet room) and employees should be instructed to wash their hands thoroughly before returning to work.

There are still a few short sighted cafe proprietors who persist in violating the state law in the storage of doughnuts, sweet rolls and pies on the counter. Any thinking customer will refuse such food as having been exposed to filth and flies. This food has been further exposed to coughs and sneezes of other customers, ill possibly with tuberculosis, sore throats or "colds."

The practice of submerging bottled beverage in cold water which is subject to contamination from the hands is also to be condemned. The bottles should be so placed and the water level should be kept so that the mouth of the bottle is above the water line.

State law provides that all utensils and dishes used for the serving of foods shall be sterilized after a thorough cleaning by being completely submerged in a wire cage in water at least 170 degrees F. for

AP FEATURE SERVICE

Everyone agrees that unwarranted speed accounts for most of the increase in automobile fatalities. Few people agree, however, as to the conditions under which certain speeds are out of place. Although Texas' new speed limit is 60 miles an hour subject to zoning, the new speed law reads "Notwithstanding maximum permitted speeds, no person shall drive a vehicle at a speed greater than is reasonable and prudent under the conditions existing; and speed shall be so controlled as to avoid collision with any highway user in compliance with legal requirements and the duty of all persons to exercise due care."

Ten miles an hour may be too fast for some conditions — icy roads, for example; while 45 may not be too fast on certain high ways. Certainly high speed is out of place — After dark or when pavements are wet or icy.

When approaching street intersection or important crossroads. When rounding a curve or turning a corner.

When driving in congested places. When children are playing in or near the street.

For safe driving you should know how quickly you can stop your car. You may feel that driving at 60 miles an hour is safe under favorable conditions, but do you realize these simple facts:

Your car is covering 88 feet each second.

You travel about four car lengths the time you realize the necessity to stop and the time you can place your foot on the brake. (This is the "reaction distance" of the average driver.)

You cover at least 11 more car lengths after you put the brakes before you can stop — this is about nine times as far as at 20 miles an hour.

If you strike anything, the impact is the same as it would be if you drove your car off a 12-story building. No wonder a fast-moving coupe can turn over a 10-ton truck!

EAT TOO WELL BUT NOT WISELY

Minneapolis, Minn. (AP) — Too much civilization can cause malnutrition, according to a low-cost nutrition study by Northwestern National Life Insurance Company. Millions of Americans are undernourished because food money is wastefully spent on account of over-civilized eating habits and lack of education in food values.

You need only three or four pounds of food a day, the study points out, and says the cost can be as low as 25 cents daily if you stick to simple food and avoid tidbits and stimulants. A pound of whole wheat foods plus a pound of milk per person daily, a few vegetables and fat, and if any food money is left, dairy products, fresh eggs, additional fruits and vegetables and good meat — and there's your menu.

It's Your Life ...

The Typical Accident Victim:
He was a pedestrian.
He was forty years of age—by no means decrepit; nevertheless his eyesight and hearing had passed the peak of their efficiency, and he was less alert and agile than he was only a few years ago.

He had the usual worries that go with adult life of the family bread-winner; he was frequently preoccupied and occasionally was downright absent-minded. He probably had had a couple of drinks.

He had never learned to drive a car, and his walking habits had been formed when automobiles were both fewer and slower than they are now.

He was wearing dark clothing, a crumpled coat seemed to blind him, and while the headlights of the his outline was scarcely discernible to the driver against the dark background of the paving.

It was between six and seven o'clock on a late autumn evening, and he was struck just as he stepped out from between two parked cars preparatory to crossing between intersections on an unlighted street in a fairly large city. It can be you!

How To Meet Driving Emergencies:

When a tire blows out: If a tire bursts, do not apply the brakes nor throw out the clutch until the car has lost almost all of its momentum. A front tire blowout may cause you to lose control of the steering wheel unless you are holding it firmly. In the case of a blowout of a rear tire, a sudden application of the brakes, at high speed, may cause the car to turn.

When right wheels strike a soft over-shoulder: In this emergency a fast-moving car is likely to swerve and turn over. The driver should hold the steering wheel tightly, remove his foot from the accelerator, and allow the engine to reduce the speed of the car to a safe point before he applies the brakes. Throws out the clutch, or attempts to steer back onto the hard surface.

When going too fast around a curve: Every time a curve is rushed, centrifugal force acts to push the car from the road. When the driver realizes he is going too fast, his first thought is to apply the brakes. This is dangerous and makes the car more difficult to control. The brakes should be used before reaching a curve.

When going down a steep hill:

Before starting a dangerous descent, a car should be put into second gear, or if the hill is long and very steep, into low gear. If further retardation is necessary, apply the brakes intermittently. To stop a car on a steep grade the brakes should be applied gradually up to a point of locking the wheels.

When your back wheels slide crazily and your heart sinks—you are driving too fast for safety. But how can you tell when you are likely to skid?

One way to find out is to try your brakes on a slippery road while traveling about 10 miles an hour. If your car tends to slide at this speed, be extremely careful at higher speeds.

Exactly what to do when your car is skidding depends on your driving experience. Here are some suggestions, however, that are well worth following:

1. Don't put your foot on the brake.
2. Don't throw out your clutch. It is better to stall your engine than to allow your car to waltz all over the road.
3. Take your foot off the gas.
4. To pull out of a skid, turn the steering wheel in the same direction that the car is sliding. You must be quick about this or the skid will be over and any damage likely to occur will be done.

Swerving suddenly or jamming on your brakes at high speed may cause skidding even on dry roads. A slight swerve or a sharp turn even at a reasonable speed on wet, oily or icy pavements, or roads covered with soggy leaves may result in a disastrous skid. Smooth, worn tires and unequal brake or air pressure are also frequently the causes of serious skids.

Stopping on slippery or icy streets is often difficult. The first rule for safe stopping under these conditions is to begin slowing your car at some distance from the stop where you wish to stop. At first press your brake lightly and release almost at once. Then press

WHERE THERE'S A WILL THERE'S A WAY
Washington (AP)—Wild ducks on the Mud Lake National Wildlife Refuge in Marshall County, Minn., want their bands whether they are being given out or not.

When manager Carl B. Vogen temporarily closed his banding traps, the ducks found a way in anyhow. One trap was packed with 72 ducks. Vogen discovered the ducks had entered by diving under the surface of the water and coming up through the bottoms of the traps.

CHINESE GOLD MINING INCREASED SEVENFOLD
Chungking (AP)—Gold valued at $30,000,000 in U. S. currency was produced from Chinese mines during the current year, according to official estimates.

Mine output has been increased seven times over prewar production, despite a lack of modern machinery which forces the almost exclusive use of human labor and primitive implements.

A REAL HE-MAN MOVIE STYLE
Aberdeen, Wash. (AP)—On the way home from a movie with his girl, Jim Clark showed her what he-men are like. He tread and shot a two-hundred pound bear that had roamed the outskirts of the city two months, robbing orchards and frightening house-wives and children. They sighted him near a river bank. Clark jumped out of his car, waved a flashlight and the bear took to a tree. Edith Olson rushed to Clark's home for a 12-gauge shotgun. One shot was enough. "Oh, yeah, a couple of times the bear started to come down Clark boasted later. But I just waved the flashlight and yelled. 'You stay up there,' and he stayed."

it again, release quickly and repeat. By using this method, instead of applying your brakes continuously, you can stop withoutskidding.

COINCIDENCE
Norton, Kans. (AP)—Private Earl Riddle is stationed with the 127th Field Artillery at Camp Robinson Arkansas.

His twin brother, Everett, is a first class seaman in the U. S. Navy. Neither knew a thing about the other's plans for a vacation until they both arrived on the doorstep of their parent's home here, almost at the same moment, on furlough.

Be Careful In Buying New Coat

This year's winter coat will likely cost more and have to last longer than the one before, so women buying new ones need to be extra careful in making their selections.

"Check every detail of coat quality before you buy to make sure you get the best material and the best made coat you can afford." That's the advice of Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist for the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, to women buying winter coats now.

The first step is to find out the fiber content of the coat, and this year consumers have the new Wool Products Labeling Act to help them. The exact wool content and the kind of wool must be included in the label of every coat containing more than 5 percent wool.

Next look carefully at the lining and inter-lining, making sure the seams are generous and well stitched. Otherwise they may fray badly. The inter-lining material is to provide extra warmth. It and the lining should be seamed separately so the coat will look better and fit better.

A woman will likely get better wear from her coat and look better in it if the grain of the cloth hangs straight all around, if it's hemmed and finished with silk-ribbon binding, if all seams lie flat, and if the thread is strong and matches the coat materials.

Mrs. B. H. Ross of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Walls of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Boswell of Coahoma, Miss Johnnie Ross of Ranger, and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Ellison of Hobbs, New Mexico were visitors in the home of Mrs. H. P. Baze and children during the Thanksgiving Holidays.

How To Remove Oil Taste From Grapefruit

Heating grapefruit before pressing or canning the juice gets rid of most of the objectionable peel oil taste. According to J. F. Roseborough horticulturist of the A. and M. College Extension Service, steaming or dipping grapefruit in hot water for one-half a minute to three minutes and then spraying with cold water, will produce juice by mechanical extraction containing in some cases as little as 0.002 percent peel oil.

This is a cheap solution for one of the troublesome problems in the juice canning industry. Under the tentative standards of grades for "A" or fancy, must contain more than 0.004 percent by volume of recoverable oil. To meet this standard of juice flavor, some packers ream out grapefruit by hand, which is a slow and expensive method and yields less juice than mechanical extraction. The flavor of juice from pre-heated fruit seems to have a characteristic fresh-fruit flavor as juice from hand-reamed fruit. Marsh seedless grapefruit, the chief variety raised in Texas, responds more rapidly to heat treatment than does Duncan. Valencia oranges also respond well.

ATTO SALESMAN 'HORNS IN'

Madill, Okla. (AP)—The horn on Roy Godfrey's auto short-circuited and he had to get up at 4 a. m. to fix it. The more he thought about it, the more irritated he became and finally wound up in a garage.

A few minutes later he was all fixed up—not with a new horn or a bit of repair work—but with a whole new car, which he drove away muttering: "Doggoned if I want to be bothered with that sort of noise at that time of the morning again."

HOLD YOUR HATS (AND YOUR TEETH)

Lassen National Park, Calif. (AP)—There's need for one more rule in the mountain-climbers' guide at Lassen Volcanic National Park in California. It is "Keep your mouth shut."

This came up as a result of an experience by a man who recently climbed Lassen Peak. As he turned to explain to his wife over the beauties, a sudden gust of wind blew his false teeth from his mouth. They were recovered from a rock pile, but it was decided those with false teeth had best view the grandeur in silence.

Twenty-five theatres in London were open in October this year, compared with three during the same month last year.

BUICK BUILDS FOR DEFENSE

THE needs of the defense program decide how many Buicks we can build for you in 1942.

But there is no limit on how well we may build with the materials at our command.

So we invite you to look upon this car not as you would any ordinary new model, but as an unusual vehicle built to square with unusual times.

Check into the strength we have forged and hammered and wrought into the frame, the chassis, the drive.

Look into the everlasting comfort which is provided in soft, all-coil springs.

Dig into the engine, and see how resourceful engineering has stepped up the efficiency of valve-in-head design with Domite pistons and FIREBALL compression — how it also enables you to conserve fuel while actually getting more power through Buick's exclusive Compound Carburetion.

And what is more important in any car these days?

Immediately following the closing of the window contest, Santa Claus will make his appearance, and will distribute free candy to the children of the area. An attempt is being made to have all the children in the rural schools of the Lamesa trade territory to be in Lamesa for Santa's visit, as well as those from the city schools.

Christmas lights on the downtown streets of the city are to be installed prior to December 3, and it is expected that Lamesa will have a gay holiday appearance for the Christmas opening.

Many Lamesa merchants are this week offering special prices and values on holiday merchandise as an added attraction for the opening, and your attention is called to the large number of ads in this issue of the Courier, listing items of every description, all suitable as gifts and remembrances at this Yuletide season.

BIG BEN OF THE WEST

HAYS, Kas. (AP) - Motorists are surprised to see a gigantic clock standing in a field between Hays and Victoria, Kas.

The thing cost $4,837 and was installed in the cupola of a barn in 1880 for Robbins Battell, wealthy English landowner. The barn was destroyed by wind in 1901. The clock was repaired and placed in the field where it is visible from a transcontinental highway.

Battell saw the clock only once in the 41 years he owned the farm.

A BIRD IN THE HAND IS WORTH ...

HELENA, Mont. (AP) - Wearily Rudy Kufeldt and a friend tossed their five pheasants shot during a long day's hunt into the back seat of their car and sat down to rest before starting home.

Suddenly one of the birds which apparently had been stunned but not wounded, regained consciousness and sailed out the open car door. Another hunter blazed away and knocked it out of the air.

That left Kufeldt and his friend with four pheasants and two red faces.

LOST AND FOUND

ORLEANS, France (AP) - Not everybody was the loser in the great panic which accompanied France's defeat in 1940. Some people were finders. The latest story is about 216 pearls of great price in search of their owner. They were found in a swamp near the village of Oison, where a farmer some time before came upon a case containing three million francs worth of jewelry while tilling his field. Nobody has yet claimed them.

The dried meat of the coconut, Tahiti's leading industry, is a source of nitro-glycerin and other explosives; the hard outer shell is treated to yield a fine charcoal, used as an absorbent and filtering material in gas masks.

PURCHASES OF SAVINGS BONDS IN TEXAS DECLINE

AUSTIN, Nov. 5 - Purchases of savings bonds in 31 Texas cities in September totaled only $387,695, a decline of 33.5 per cent from September a year ago. For the first nine months of the year, purchases amounted to $5,475,796, a drop of 14.2 per cent from the comparable period of 1940.

NICE BRUINIE!

Hickory, N. C. (AP) - Immediately after North Whittener had his picture snapped with a big black bear in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park the bruin took a piece out of Whittener's leg. No, the photographer didn't get the action shot.

PARDON ME, TOO, GOVERNOR

Olympia, Wash. (AP) - Gov. Arthur B. Langlie recently pardoned himself, officially, in one of several documents to be sent to the state penitentiary.

A stenographer made the mistake on papers intended to free H. A. May, serving a prison sentence for grand larceny, and it read: "Now, therefore, I, Arthur B. Langlie, governor of the state of Washington . . . do hereby pardon the said Arthur B. Langlie and restore him to all the rights and privileges he forfeited by reason of his conviction and confinement."

It got as far as King county clerk at Seattle, before being discovered.

MRS. CHARLIE ROBERTS HOSTESS TO HANCOCK W. M. U. MONDAY

The Hancock W. M. U. met November 24, 1941, in the home of Mrs. Charlie Roberts.

A business meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Jack Meares. Plans were made to have a Little Moon Christmas program, in all day meeting, Wednesday, December 3, at the school building. All ladies of the community are invited and especially were members of the Society of Christian Service invited. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon, with the teachers in school as the guests.

A Thanksgiving offering of $23.50 was made. A Royal Service program was given.

At the conclusion of the meeting a delicious refreshment plate was served to the following members, W. H. Burns, Jewell Hughes, Walter Evans, Ben Dobson, Jack Meares, W. T. Williams, W. H. Harvick and Charlie Roberts.

IT'S NOT LEGAL BUT IT WORKS

Falls City, Neb. (AP) - Nebraska law makes NO provision for collecting back taxes on the installment plan, but Sheriff Irvin Gates does it anyway, like this:

He takes partial payments "on trust," keeps an unofficial set of books and issues an unofficial personal receipt. When the delinquent is paid in full, he turns the money over to the county attorney and an official county receipt is issued.

In the first nine months of this year, installment collections of $1 or more totaled $1,238.

FIRST ROTARY DISC PLOW IS FOUND BY U. OF T. HISTORIAN

Dr. W. P. Webb, University of Texas author-historian, examines with pride what he believes to be the first rotary disc plow ever invented.

One of three in existence, this plow was invented by Ole Ringness, of Clifton, an early Norwegian settler in Texas, about 1859. It has been in possession of the Ringness family for 82 years. Dr. Webb learned, and has been obtained for the Texas Memorial Museum, located on the University campus.

Attention was first called to this plow in a recent issue of the Southwestern Historical Quarterly, of which Dr. Webb is editor, in an article entitled "Norwegian Settlements in Texas" by the late Axel Arneson of Fort Worth.

Importance of the implement lies in the fact that it is the predecessor of one of the most widely used types of plows, since the rotary disc—first patented in 1867—is especially adapted to planting wheat, oats and barley, since these grains require a shallow furrow. It is also used for breaking off dead stubble, thus fertilizing the ground for the next crop. The disc plow can also be used in breaking top soil to let water seep through.

Ringness conceived the idea of the revolving disc plow while he was driving an ox wagon with a badly dished wheel over soft wet ground. Dr. Webb explained. He noticed that the dished wheel turned up the sod in plow-like fashion. He then hammered out several dish-like iron discs about 18 inches in diameter to test the idea. The relic Dr. Webb has received is one of these samples.

The inventor never obtained a patent on his discovery. He went to New York in 1872 with the idea of proceeding to Washington to seek a patent on his plow, but became ill while in New York and died there.

Need A New Milk Bucket?

Word that priorities officials in Washington have granted a preference rating to manufacturers of dairy equipment has been received by E. R. Eudaly, dairy specialist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

The rating applies to such household tinned and tin-plate products as milk cans, pails, strainers, and cream cans.

Steel is so necessary to defense needs that civilian use of the metal is now being restricted. The priorities officials, however, apparently realize the importance of milk in the Food-for-Freedom campaign.

Only enough steel will be allocated to produce the 1,340,000 milk cans needed for normal replacements plus a 6.8 percent increase to handle the additional eight million pounds of milk called for in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's national production goals for 1942.

"I don't usually like to holler 'buy now' ", Eudaly commented, "but this is one time the defense agencies want farmers to figure out their needs and to buy or order as soon as possible. Seems that will help manufacturers to estimate their steel needs."

Manufacturers will be required to get the cans and utensils to the milk producers before next spring, according to the terms of the preference order.

Farmers Plan An Extensive Terrace Program

A terracing program of 25,518 miles of standard terraces is the goal of Texas farmers under the 1942 AAA farm program, according to Fred Rennels, assistant administrative officer in charge of the Texas AAA.

The extensive terracing program will be made possible by the conservation services or purchase order plan of the AAA program, he explained. The cost of terracing, established at a basic fair price for farms in a county, may be deducted from future AAA payments.

In arriving at a basic fair price for each county, the AAA official said that written offers will be made to county AAA committees by persons equipped to construct terraces. The farms used as basic guides for establishing the fair price will be farms selected at random throughout the county and are not necessarily included in the 1942 terracing program.

Factors entering into fair and reasonable prices include the customary price normally paid in the county, the price at which farmers can obtain terracing service through other channels, and the value of terracing to farmers in conserving and improving soil fertility.

In determining fair and reasonable prices to persons constructing terraces, Rennels said, that consideration should be given to cost of constructing terraces, kinds of machinery and scope of area to be served, and a reasonable margin for construction work.

After establishing a basic fair price for a county, terracing will vary by farms, Rennels said in explaining that the cost would vary as much as 25 cents per 100 feet. Any increase over 25 cents per 100 feet would be sent to the state AAA committee for further consideration.

BANKS FOR BONDS

New York (AP) Banks which hold $10 in dimes and $8.75 in quarters are being offered for 10 cents at the 1100 odd branches of Bundles for Britain in the U. S. and American possessions. The $18.75 saved will buy a United States Defense British civilians.

Advice On Curing And Storing Of Sweet Potatoes

Curing sweet potatoes in storage houses is the most suitable method, provided there is sufficient volume to justify the expense. Otherwise, says E. A. Miller, agronomist of the A. and M. College Extension Service, banks may be used satisfactorily if they are properly constructed.

The bank should be placed on a well-drained spot, properly ventilated and protected by a shelter or large loss will result. If less than 20 bushels are to be stored the cone-shaped bank may be used, but for larger quantities the bank should be long and narrow with a v-shaped trough inverted and laid in the bottom of the bed.

Supports should be placed beneath the trough so as to hold it about two inches above the ground with the ends extending beyond the bank. Miller says. The ridge of the trough should be cut to allow the air drawn into it to pass through the banked potatoes from the bottom. These openings should be covered by hardware cloth to keep out the rats. An upright flue extending out of the top of the bank is placed over the inverted trough, with the top covered to keep out moisture.

The edges of the flue should be open along its entire length so the air can circulate into it from the potatoes. About four inches of good, clean straw should be placed under and over the potatoes and covered with enough earth, where necessary, to prevent freezing. In cold weather all openings should be closed. A bank five to six feet wide at bottom, four feet high and 20 feet long will store around 200 bushels.

Miller cautions that sweet potatoes should be handled as carefully as eggs because they bruise easily.

Farmers requests for terracing and contouring dates for this winter are beginning to roll into the office of the county agent. Applications for this service are filed according to the order in which they are received. "First come, first served." Within the next thirty days all requests for this service should be in.

If your dairy cattle do not green feed available be sure to get at least one pound of alfalfa per day.

Clean, clear, fresh water should be available for dairy cattle at all times. The water should be warmed on these cold mornings. Cows will not drink enough water to keep milk production these cold mornings. They will drink enough to keep going. Warm your water, increase the water consumption of your dairy cows, and your milk production will stay up.
