Brown Orders Aerial Spraying

GELES (AP) — Brown approved "immediate action" to spray affected areas.

The spraying of the pesticide Malathion will begin in northern California as soon as safety procedures can be worked out and the residents are informed, Brown said.

Brown said he reversed his earlier decision not to implement aerial spraying after speaking with Block by telephone.

"The decision of the U.S. Department of Agriculture to quarantine statewide 200 types of fruits and vegetables leaves California with no alternative. We are being forced into aerial spraying," he said at a news conference in Century City.

The quarantine would require a massive fumigation program imperiling the lives and health of thousands of produce workers. That is not acceptable," said Brown.

Santa Clara, San Mateo and Alameda counties had been based on protests by citizens fearful that the chemical agent could cause cancer or birth defects. Many experts said the doses of malathion planned for spraying would be safe.

Congressmen Say No to Missile Funds Cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Texas congressmen voted against a proposal Thursday that would have prohibited any funds for the controversial missile system.

The amendment, offered by Rep. Ronald Dellums, California, failed by a margin of more than 3-to-1, with all but Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston, and Rep. Ron Paul, R-Lake Jackson, voting with the 316-96 majority.

Leland spoke in support of the amendment by Dellums, who said the MX system would be "costly and dangerous." The amendment was to the Department of Defense authorization bill for the 1982 fiscal year.

The MX system would involve putting missiles in underground silos and shuttling them from site to site so enemy nations would be unable to pinpoint their locations.

Officials recommended putting the system in Nevada and Utah, although at one time they considered putting some of them in West Texas or Eastern New Mexico.

"I have some disagreement with the expenditures for the MX. It is not the most effective way to spend our money. I would rather we spent it on antiballistic missiles, on defense, than on more offensive missiles," Paul said.

"Our firepower is adequate now. Besides, it's economically unsound to have the MX built in the West, and militarily I think it's vulnerable."

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

James Roberts of the Andrews County News took note of the significance of "a small glass of water" as he commented on the nation's 205th birthday last week.

"It's such a small thing for most of us—clean, cool, refreshing drinking water—available to every citizen without giving the matter a second thought or care," said Roberts. "From a practical standpoint, most citizens have complete faith and trust in the drinking water of every town, hamlet and city in the nation, and drink away with only an occasional complaint about taste or odor. As Americans, we simply do not give a passing thought to the luxury of drinking water."

"Yet, for the vast majority of the world's population, drinking water is a problem. The most advanced civilizations on earth—Paris, Rome, London, Algiers, Vienna, Mexico City, Oran, Tangiers, Athens, none can deliver a safe, pure glass of drinking water."

"The baseball strike doesn't seem all that you consider this."

Its value in MS-60 condition, the lowest grade of an uncirculated coin, was $26,000. The dealer paid her $4, less an half its worth in silver content. The coin was sold to the dealer the next day for $22,000 to a retail rare coin company. Within the next week, it was resold for $32,000 and within months again sold for $46,000, $52,000 and finally brought in $96,000 at auction.

Plans Take Shape For AJRA Finals

Now that the July 4th celebration is over, the Snyder Chamber of Commerce staff is concentrating on plans for the annual American Junior Rodeo Association National Finals, scheduled for Aug. 10-15 in the Scurry County Coliseum.

It will be the sixth year in a row for the AJRA to hold its national finals rodeo here, and this year's show promises to be one of the best ever, chamber officials said.

The chamber's AJRA committee, headed by Ralph Miller, has been working on plans for several weeks. They announced recently that they had signed Bob Tallman, one of the top professionals, to handle the announcing duties at this year's national finals.

Tallman has his own crew that provides on-the-spot interviews and comments from down in the arena as well as the announcer's booth, and he is in demand throughout the year wherever rodeos are held.

Chamber officials are now seeking additional horse stalls that could be made available for use on the coliseum grounds during the AJRA show. Anyone who has stalls that could be used during the national finals is asked to call the chamber office at 573-3558.

Body Is Identified As Missing 11-Year-Old

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Pathologists still have not determined the cause of death of an 11-year-old girl whose body was found Tuesday in a creek outside Tyler, but Smith County Sheriff J.B. Smith says he assumes the girl was murdered.

"This case will be investigated as a capital murder," Smith said. "This is one of the worst crimes we have investigated since I became sheriff (five years ago), and the first I recall involving a child this age."

He said the investigation has yielded "several leads" but no suspects.

Trisha McRoy was missing from the couch where she slept when her family awoke Saturday morning. A hole had been cut in the screen door.

A fisherman found her decomposed body lying face down and covered with mud in a creek five miles from her parent's house outside of Tyler.

The girl's blind father, Gene McRoy, said Thursday he was "relieved" that Trisha's body had been identified.

"All I want to do is remember Trisha the way she was," he said. "I just hope they (authorities) catch this individual so it won't happen again to some other little girl."

After a two-day autopsy, pathologists in the Dallas County Medical Examiners Office identified the body through "inverted fingerprints" and hair samples, Smith said. Inverted fingerprints, taken when a body is too deteriorated to give normal prints, are made by peeling back the skin of the fingers and getting a print from the underside.

'Better Shake' For Minorities

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Republican Chairman Chet Upham says his party's congressional redistricting plan gives minorities a "better shake."

However, the plan Upham is pushing gives Republicans an even better shake — perhaps doubling the number of GOP Texans in the U.S. House five to 10, while doubling the number of blacks from one to two.

Congressional redistricting is one of five topics on the agenda for the special legislative session that opens here Monday. Upham called a Thursday news conference to announce he would lobby for the Republican reapportionment plan.

For his part, Trudeau wants to know when Reagan's economic program will show results and bring down near-record interest rates that are pinching the economies of other industrialized nations.

Compromise Still Possible...

Congress To Try Tax Cut Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Senate Republicans say yes and House Democrats say maybe to one last pass at a tax compromise, the White House insists that President Reagan is unwilling to give any more on his plan for a 25 percent cut over three years.

In the meantime, less than a month from the president's deadline for getting a bill to his desk, the Senate will defy tradition and go ahead with its own, Reagan-like measure without waiting on the House.

To the White House's surprise, talk of reopening negotiations was resurrected Wednesday by Senate Finance Chairman Bob Dole of Kansas. He said Republicans could give up an extra share of relief for low- and middle-income workers while Democrats could give Reagan the three-year tax cut he wants.

But there were no immediate takers.

House Democrats, battered in earlier confrontations with Reagan, were skeptical, although Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski will meet with Dole, his Republican counterpart, to explore the possibilities.

At the White House, however, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes issued a carefully worded statement saying Reagan "will not compromise on the basic plan... across-the-board cuts for three years and 25 percent."

"That's what he agreed to," Speakes said. "He wants a tax cut for all Americans, not just some Americans."

Even that did not quiet Senate Republicans.

After the Speakes statement, Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker said he still thinks there is room for savings and investment. That would fit any compromise envisioned by Dole.

Rostenkowski did not react publicly to Dole.

House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois said he thought talk of a compromise was "over-exaggerated."

And O'Neill, who already has lost three major tests over budget policy, did not sound excited about the prospect of another round of negotiations. He recalled that Democratic leaders tried for several weeks to negotiate a tax bill with the White House, only to have those efforts abandoned after Reagan struck a deal with conservative Democrats.

"Well, we got shot down so quickly when that tried to happen that I don't know whether it's worthwhile trying now or not," the Massachusetts Democrat said. "But Rostenkowski will talk to Dole again."

Meanwhile, Baker announced that the Senate — tired of waiting on the House — will go ahead with its own tax-cut bill next week. In fact, he told a news conference, his plans call for the Senate to complete action on the measure by the end of the week. That version, written by Dole's committee, is very close to what Reagan recommended.

"There is a growing belief in Washington — and I'm afraid I share it — that there certainly is no rush in the House" to pass the bill, Baker said.

The House traditionally originates tax legislation, but Baker said he sees no reason the Senate cannot go first. Even if the Senate can pass the largest tax cut in history with no more than four days' debate, there is no assurance that will force the House into quicker action. The bill cannot become law until it clears both houses in identical form.

The Ways and Means Committee, which is continuing to write its own bill, now plans to wrap up work by July 24 and have the House pass the measure on July 31. That would give a House-Senate conference one week to work out differences in the two versions before Congress leaves for a month-long recess.

The House committee, in votes on the bill Thursday, agreed to:

—A package of tax cuts geared to help small business, and worth about $9.6 billion over the next five years. The chief provision in the package would gradually raise the amount of business income subject to a lower tax rate. By 1984, the first $50,000 of income would face a tax of 15 percent.

—Allow an American working abroad to avoid tax on the first $75,000 earned in a foreign country each year. Any housing cost above about $6,100 would also be deducted from taxable income. These provisions would replace four separate deductions in current law.

—Give a company a new tax credit of 25 percent for increased spending for research and experimen-

DEAR ABBY: I'm 40 and have been divorced for 8 months. My husband left me for another woman. She 'six kids. (I have five, but only three are at home.)

My 22-year-old daughter lives at home. We get along but here's the problem. She has a boyfriend, and I also a boyfriend. Her boyfriend comes over about five night week and they sit in the living room, talking or watching until 2 a.m. My boyfriend comes over maybe once or tw during the week, and only every other weekend. My young, kids (13 and 16) have the good sense to go to their rooms a leave us alone, but my daughter and her boyfriend do budge. Abby, we need a little privacy. I'm afraid n boyfriend will quit coming around if he can't see me alone. He takes me out to dinner now and then, but afterward h can't even kiss me goodnight without an audience.

My daughter's boyfriend goes out two or three times a week, spends his money, then tells her he can't take her anywhere. I'm beginning to think maybe my daughter is jealous of me. What should I do?

NO PRIVACY

DEAR NO: Have a frank talk with your daughter and agree to some ground rules stating which nights the house will be exclusively yours and which nights will be hers. Period.

DEAR ABBY: I met a girl a few months ago, and I asked her out. We had a great time, but when I tried to kiss her goodnight, she said, "Don't rush it." I felt like an idiot. I figured she didn't like me, so I didn't call her for a long time. Then I got to thinking that maybe it was to her credit that she didn't jump at the chance to kiss a guy she'd only known a few hours. Anyway, I asked her out again and we had a wonderful time. This time I didn't try to kiss her, but when we said goodnight, she gave me a hug, which meant more to me than a kiss.

My advice to guys who don't get kissed on the first date is to call the girl for a second date. Don't feel rejected. It's nice to know that there are still some girls who place a high value on their kisses. I, for one, appreciate a girl who's hard to get.

Georgia O'Keefe Film Set Sunday

This Sunday the Diamond M Museum of Fine Arts is presenting the film "Georgia O'Keefe".

O'Keefe, now in her nineties, was one of the early corner stones of American art and was among the artists responsible for shaping art in the southwest.

Many may remember seeing this film on the Public Broadcasting System a few years ago.

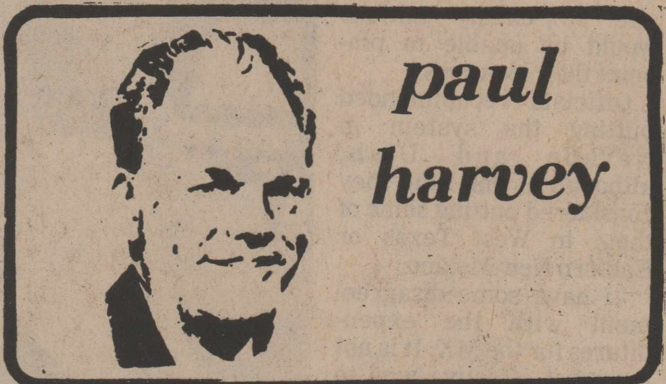

The film shows the rugged individuality of O'Keefe on her ranch and surrounding environs at Abiquiu, N.M.

O'Keefe loved the vast West Texas landscape. Having lived and taught in Canyon for several years, she drew much of her subject matter from this area.

To present the scope and development of O'Keefe's life and art, the director uses fine footage from "Land of Enchantment, Southwest, U.S.A.," a 1948 travel film showing O'Keefe in her studio, and numerous photographs including many by Alfred Stieglitz, O'Keefe's husband.

John Gibson, interim director of the museum, says that this is an excellent film in quality and content. Showtime for Georgia O'Keefe is 2 p.m. Sunday, July 12. The public is invited, and there is no admission charge.

The Reagan administration's impatience with kidnapers was reflected in Atlanta when the kidnapper came out of FBI headquarters feet first.

A former mental patient with an arsenal of weapons invaded the office, took 12 employees hostage, and began to issue demands...

When the talking was climaxed by some threatening gestures by the gunman, a SWAT team moved in for a shootout.

Two hostages were wounded; not seriously. The kidnapper was dead.

Reagan administration policy has been enunciated clearly: No more timidity. Skyjackers will not be refueled, ransom will not be paid, we will not bargain with kidnapers.

All that the FBI will do — and will not do — in hostage situations should not be delineated publicly.

But it might be useful for anybody contemplating hostage crime to know that the Bureau has now prepared counter measures.

Experience teaches that hostage kidnapers generally fit one of four categories.

Most are mentally disturbed, or...

Criminals trapped during the commission of a crime, or...

Prisoners who are revolting, or...

Political terrorists seeking thus to promote some social change.

The first are the worst. Approximately 52 percent of all hostage incidents involve individuals who are mentally disturbed.

These may be paranoid schizophrenics, or...

Manic depressives, or...

Antisocial psychotics, or...

Individuals with "inadequate personality."

J. Edgar Hoover used to say, "Never try to anticipate with logic somebody who is mentally sick; if you could understand how he thinks, then we'd have to worry about you."

Nonetheless, it helps to recognize certain behavior patterns.

For example, paranoid schizophrenics are usually above average in intelligence. Don't try to trick them. Don't lie to them.

The manic depressive already wants to be punished; don't threaten him.

The latter two categories are individuals seeking to "show the world that they are somebody." Try to give them an "out" without the feeling of having failed again.

Force remains the last resort of the lawman in a hostage crisis.

First he will try persuasion.

After that, chemical weapons.

After that, snipers.

After that, SWAT.

But no more of the limitless negotiation which has encouraged an unprecedented escalation of such crime. No more of that.

Sixers Owner To Trim Fat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The new owner of the Philadelphia 76ers, a millionaire who made his fortune in the diet business, says he plans to trim the fat from his National Basketball Association team.

"We will make cuts in the front office, and even in player salaries," Harold Katz said Thursday, after announcing that he was paying more than $12 million for the Sixers.

Katz, who owns a nationwide chain of diet centers, said his lifelong ambition was to own an NBA team and that he has been in the market for two years.

"Many people have called me a little bit crazy," said the 44-year-old Katz at a press conference. "I guess you have to be a little bananas to buy a sports franchise."

"Since I can't play for the Sixers, and can't coach them, the next best thing was to buy them," Katz said. "My youngest son plays high school basketball and he was the driving force for me to buy the club. He said money isn't everything."

But the business of running the team will be important to Katz.

"I am in this to enjoy myself, but I do not intend to lose millions of dollars," he said.

Katz's first official act, even while lawyers prepared the necessary papers for the transfer, was to make it clear that Billy Cunningham would stay as coach.

"It's going to be a very easy transition," Cunningham said. "We met casually and just talked about everything. I see no problems."

Stockton Paces Milwaukee Open

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Flag-whipping wind gusts of nearly 20 mph troubled much of the field in the Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament Thursday, but they suited Dave Stockton just fine.

That's because Stockton, who won the GMO in 1968 and 1973, is familiar with the vagaries of Tuckaway Country Club's course.

Stockton, battling what he said is his worst putting slump of his 18-year career, compensated with superb woods and iron play and shot a first-round 65, 7-under par for the 7,010-yard layout.

Tour rookie Rod Nuckolls was one stroke back at 66, while Thomas Gray, another rookie, and Bobby Wadkins had 67s.

George Archer, whose 12 tour victories include the 1969 Masters, had a 68. So did David Sann, Jay Haas, Lyn Lott, Bob Gilder, Rod Curl, Chi Chi Rodriguez, John Fought, Tim Simpson, Skeeter Heath, Mike Smith and Tom Storey.

Defending champion Bill Kratzert shot a 72. Lon played here at 7 o'clock.

Sherry Mayes, an all-state spiker and middle blocker for the Tigers, is to play for the West All-Star Team. Coaching the squad will be Joyce Elrod, SHS volleyball coach.

Snyder High School won the class 4A State Volleyball Tournament in Austin the past season, it's second state volleyball title in three years under Elrod.

As a key member of that team, Mayes was named All-District, All-State Tournament and All-State. She has signed a scholarship with Southwest Texas State University.

Other Snyder-area players participating on the West Team include Christy Bizzell from Lamesa, Shelly Heath from Monahans, Belinda Bass from Seminole and Linda Magers from Big Spring.

Also coaching the West Team will be Waynette Dolan of Monahans, whose team finished second in District 2-4A action to Snyder.

Moses Fails To Show At U.S.-Soviet Meet

LENINGRAD (AP) - American star hurdler Edwin Moses failed to arrive in Leningrad only hours before the start of the U.S.-Soviet track meet, and a team manager said another American has been substituted for tonight's 400-meter hurdle race.

Moses' absence reduced to 11 the number of U.S. national champions who will take part in the two-day meet at Lenin Stadium, the first between the two track squads in three years and the first major U.S.-Soviet athletic competition since the american-led boycott of the 1980 Moscow Olympics.

Assistant team manager Fred Newhouse said

SHERRY MAYES

JOYCE ELROD

Moses had been expected to fly in from Western Europe by this morning at the latest, but the 25-year-old hurdler from Laguna Hills, Calif., had not appeared by midday and was no longer expected to start.

Newhouse said Moses would be replaced in his event by David Lee of University City, Mo., who finished third in last month's U.S. national championship meet in Sacramento, Calif.

Moses, undefeated in nearly four years, was regarded as close to a sure winner for the U.S. team. His last defeat was in August 1977, and he has won more than 60 consecutive races since then.

Among the 30 American champions, others who passed up the U.S.-Soviet meet included teen-age sensation Carl Lewis, the U.S. titlist in the 100 meters and long jump, and Evelyn Ashford, U.S. women's champion in 100 and 200 meters.

Still, the meet has generated widespread interest. The Soviets said it is being televised in 32 countries and reported by 250 journalists from 15 nations.

"You've got two countries that really don't care for one another," said U.S. 110-meter hurdle champion Greg Foster of Los Angeles, summarizing in-

Baseball Talks To Resume Today With Possible Results

by The Associated Press
The contents of mysterious envelopes delivered to representatives of club owners and players could hold the key to settlement of the baseball strike that entered its fifth week today.

Hours before the start of a meeting of all 26 club owners in New York Thursday night, federal mediator Ken Moffett delivered large envelopes to the adversaries' chief negotiators, the player union's Marvin Miller and management's Ray Grebey. Moffett also arranged for the negotiators' first bargaining session in six days for today at 2 p.m.

The New York Times said the envelopes contained a proposal designed to lead to an end of the strike. "He didn't come all the way from Washington just to arrange a meeting (for today) and those envelopes did not contain engraved invitations to the meeting," the Times quoted an unnamed source as saying.

"I'm going to be very disappointed if nothing good happens" in upcoming sessions, Moffett said after returning home to Washington, D.C.

Both sides in the strike have claimed a united front after meeting among themselves this week. Player representatives had met in New York on Tuesday.

Ed Fitzgerald of the Milwaukee Brewers, chairman of management's Player Relations Committee, said after Thursday night's meeting that the owners had engaged in "a full discussion" and said recent reports of splits among them are untrue.

Meanwhile, hearings before a National Labor Relations Board administrative law judge were expected to conclude today.

Joe Burke, general manager of the Kansas City Royals, testified that management does not have complete control over baseball's salary structure.

Burke pointed to salary arbitration, where an independent third party chooses between wage proposals from the player and the club, and also noted more indirect influences.

"If you stop signing the players that make up the nucleus of your club, you come under tremendous pressure from your fans and the press," Burke said.

Burke was among five witnesses called the fourth day of before Judge Welles involving League Players' union's charge of bargaining by the union, on since June 12, Welles to order the to open the clubs' financial records.

Miller, the players' association's executive director, testified without the financial records, the players still bargaining in the without very basic information.

The strike "is over" and that the players have something to "show," Miller said, reference to free movement without compensation.

"It is a demand which in my mind, the players might give more consideration to if they saw that the clubs' financial situation was precarious," Miller said.

Partnership Starts Saturday Morning

Practice rounds forecasted the official opening of the 1981 Earl Fish Memorial Golf Tournament today at Snyder Country Club where over 100 local and area golfers were tuning up for the annual partnership.

The two-day, 64-team Earl Fish Tournament begins Saturday morning and continues through Sunday afternoon.

Flight prizes include $280 for first place, $170 for second and $125 for third. Day money will also be awarded to each flight, based on Sunday's round.

Format is low ball, stroke play. Golfers will be placed in divisions based on handicaps for Saturday's play, and will be flighted into eight groups for the final 18 holes.

Saturday's opening rounds will be preceded by coffee and rolls at 7:15. Divisions I and II will tee off from 7:45 to 9:45 and divisions III and IV will leave from 12:45 through 2:45.

Golfers and their wives may attend the buffet dinner Saturday evening at 7:30 in the clubhouse, to be followed by a dance at 8:30.

Sunday's agenda also begins with coffee and rolls at 7:15 a.m. The action is scheduled to get underway at 8 with the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh flights. The championship, first, second and third flights tee at 12:45.

Tournament officials have stressed that teams must play at their assigned tee times.

Players were to register and take practice rounds today. An optional sweepstakes is included. Hor d'oeuvres will be served from 7 to 9 p.m.

Steve Talbott and Bill Detournillon took Championship Flight honors in last year's tournament with a 126 total. First Flight winners were Randy Weaver and Mark Hargrove with a 138. Other flight winners included Mark and Neal Carter, Second Flight, 140; David and Don Holt, Third Flight, 145; Mitch and Steve Mackey, Fourth Flight, 151; and Tommy Lay and Wayne Dodson, Jr., Fifth Flight, 161.

Weather Key Factor In Davis Cup Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) - Weather was expected to play a major role in the quarterfinal round of the Davis Cup tennis match between defending champion Czechoslovakia and the United States, which started today.

The National Weather Service predicted sunny weather with temperatures in the 90s and high humidity.

"It was in the 60's in England," newly crowned Wimbledon champion John McEnroe said Thursday. "You can be in shape to play in England, but the heat and humidity here will definitely be a factor."

Czechoslovakia, the defending Davis Cup champion, announced it planned to use only two players throughout the three-day match - Ivan Lendl, the world's fourth-ranked player, and Tomas Smid.

J.R. Progresses Despite Strike

HOUSTON - Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard, attempting a comeback from a stroke last July, is making progress despite the major league baseball strike, his agent says.

"This strike is having less an effect on J.R. than on some other people," Tom Reich said Thursday. "He is going about his business as usual. I watched him pitch a couple of weeks ago and he's doing fine."

Richard had been throwing batting practice during Astros home stands, but the strike ended that part of Richard's workout.

"It would have been helpful to pitch batting practice, but I don't think it will have a serious effect on his progress," Reich said.

McCoy McLemore, a former member of the Houston Rockets basketball team who trains daily with Richard, said Richard's control also was improving.

"He's throwing up in the 90s (miles per hour) and his control is better," McLemore said. "He looks like he's ready to pitch to me."

Reich said no decision had been made whether Richard would start his comeback with the Astros or in the minor leagues.

"I've said 1,000 times I will cross that bridge when we come to it," he said. "Nobody is going to pose anything on me he doesn't want." "When the time comes that J.R. is ready to compete competitively on where he calls for a union of the William S. F. and J.R."

South's vulnerable first seat three spade bid is classic. His excellent suit is protection against a big set. Although North might bid four spades over West's tak-out double, he decided to pass and await developments. After East-West subsided in four diamonds, North ventured four spades. East passed, of course, and West boldly doubled. Declarer won the diamond lead in dummy with the ace pitching a heart from his hand. A low heart now went to the 10 and jack. The return of only one suit, clubs, would defeat the contract. West returned a diamond not sensing any danger. Declarer ruffed and led another heart. West won and now played ace and a club, North winning the king. Another heart was led from the table, South ruffing. When hearts divided 3-3, North's fourth heart was established. South then played king and a trump to North's ace and when trumps divided 2-2 had seven spade tricks: one heart and one trick in each of the minors.

West could and should have defeated the game. He knew South had seven good spades for his preempt and two minor suit tricks in dummy. He had to prevent declarer from establishing the fourth heart. When a heart was led from the dummy at trick two, East played the deuce indicating an odd number. West now had all the information needed to beat the game. A passive defense wouldn't do because trumps broke evenly. If South had the queen of clubs and the 7-3-0-3 distribution he was marked with, no defense would succeed. Therefore, West had to play clubs at trick three while he still had control of the heart suit and hope East had the queen of clubs.

Doctors' Calls Are Stopped

HOUSTON (AP) — More than 400 physicians missed calls when the phone company shut down their answering service because of a mistake, Southwestern Bell officials said Thursday.

"We initially disconnected the service thinking the IRS has a court order to do so and to protect the equipment from damage," said Southwestern Bell spokesman Ken Brasel.

"We found out subsequently that we should not have disconnected the service because the court order they had did not cover it."

The Post Oak Answering Service, which serves about 425 medical doctors, was shut down Wednesday when Internal Revenue Service agents confiscated its property for what they said was more than $27,000 in unpaid taxes.

"It completely disrupted us," said Dr. Harold Dobson, one of the firm's customers. "I deal with diabetics, so if a patient needs to call, it's important."

Melvyn Douglass, a consultant who works as Post Oak's comptroller, blamed the IRS for the shutdown before the mistake was discovered. Douglass said he has been negotiating for weeks in an attempt to work out a payment schedule with IRS.

year-old Miss Texas A&M University is a junior industrial distribution major at A&M.

Quick Bread Is Good With Oats

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A few weeks ago we tried a quick bread made with oats that differed from standard loaves of its kind. We were attracted to the recipe, when it came across our desk, because it called for fresh tomatoes and basil and Parmesan cheese — a good-tasting flavor combination. With tomatoes and basil growing in gardens this summer, this might appeal to some cooks.

Results of our trial? This bread is a rib-sticking loaf that should be sliced thick, slathered with butter and serve hot — as you would spoonbread. Its texture is on the coarse side. It wouldn't be amiss to serve it on a plate with fish or eggs (instead of potatoes) for lunch, a light supper or brunch.

TOMATO OAT BREAD
2½ cups all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt ¼ cup sugar
1 cup quick-cooking or regular oats ¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon dried crushed basil leaves or minced fresh basil leaves to taste
1 teaspoon dried crushed thyme leaves or minced fresh thyme leaves to taste
2 large eggs
1 cup milk 1-3rd cup oil
2 medium tomatoes (about ½ pound), skinned and seeded and diced

(¼ inch) to make 1 cup, not packed down.
Oil the bottom of a 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan; line the bottom with wax paper; oil the paper. In a large bowl stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar; stir in the oats, ¼ cup of the Parmesan, the basil and thyme. In a small bowl beat the eggs slightly; add the milk and oil and beat to blend; add to flour mixture with the tomato; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn into prepared pan. Sprinkle with the remaining 2 tablespoons Parmesan. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — 55 to 60 minutes. Let stand on wire rack for about 10 minutes. Loosen edges and turn out. Remove paper. With another rack, turn right side up. Loaf will have a crack. Serve while still warm or reheat, cut rather thick, with lots of butter.

Easing "The Flood"
NEW YORK — To contain rising administrative expenses in the health care and health insurance industries, 11 major U.S. insurance companies have formed the National Electronic Information Corporation (NEIC).

NEIC will streamline the manual claims submission and handling process between health care providers and insurance carriers. It will be a central clearinghouse for the electronic receipt and distribution of claim information, Robert S. Bradley, president, said.

"NEIC arose from the need to reduce the paper flood which threatens hospitals and insurance companies," Key executives of NEIC include Craig A. Butler, director of marketing, and William F. King, director of systems.

AS YOUTH CHOIR TO SING HERE—Thirty-six people will present the musical drama "Greatest Life," at 7 p. m. Sunday at First United Methodist Church. The choir took its name from the scriptures in which Paul encourages and enables Timothy to bear witness to the Good News.

St. Elizabeth's Has New Pastor

Rev. Louis V. Moeller is the new pastor of St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church in Snyder. He has just arrived in town from Brownwood, where he had served for three years.

Moeller said he is looking forward to his second stay in Snyder as he briefly served in this community 20 years ago when the San Angelo Diocese was first formed.

Moeller, a Rotarian, is anxious to meet the people in Snyder, to become involved with civic and religious organizations and to serve the people in the community.

Moeller, who will also serve as pastor of St. John's Catholic Church in Hermleigh—a mission of the local Catholic church—has been a priest for 30 years. He attended the seminary in San Antonio and was ordained in Denver, Colo.

Moeller is a native of Runnels County, Tx. and is the eldest of five children.

He has pastored churches in Amarillo, Lamesa, Happy, Tulia, Pep, Stanton, Odessa, Big Spring, Ozona, and San Angelo.

Hobbies include the outdoors particularly hunting, fishing, and boating.

Moeller replaces Rev. James Coleman who had pastored at St. Elizabeth's for the past 10 years.

Ignorance about epilepsy

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am appalled at how ignorant people can be concerning epilepsy. I am an epileptic and have been most of my life, but it was not diagnosed until two years ago when I suddenly developed grand mal.

I'm 33 and healthy in other ways. Sometimes I get severe cramps and diarrhea which decreases the effectiveness of my medication. Then I have multiple seizures. A loved one, out of ignorance, said I was "odd" and she never heard of anyone having several seizures consecutively and I should control myself. Dr. Lamb, what is there to control? It's no fun to wake up in the hospital and not know what happened. I have even heard nurses make cruel remarks like I was some sort of freak.

I have accepted my epilepsy for what it is, just an illness like diabetes. I'm fortunate, though, because it can be controlled except when I have one of these episodes. Then they just put me on an I.V. with potassium and in no time I'm as good as new. If you have any information, please send it to me.

DEAR READER — You sound very well adjusted. Just keep in mind that when you have to deal with that type of ignorance which you describe, it is the other person's problem (his ignorance) not your problem. Some of the most distinguished names in history are those of epileptics, including Alexander the Great and Julius Caesar.

Most seizures can be controlled with modern medicine. It sometimes takes a while to find the right combination for an individual case so it requires patience for all concerned.

As you requested, I am sending you The Health Letter number 10-8, Epilepsy: You Can Have It Too. I used that title because the number of auto accidents alone that cause brain damage means that we have many new cases of epilepsy each year. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

While the cause of many cases of epilepsy is often not known, many are from such accidents. Repeated attacks, as you describe, are classed as status epilepticus. They constitute an emergency and can be dangerous, so be sure those around you understand this and get medical attention for you right away.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 27-year-old male. My voice is high pitched but low in output. Whenever I try to converse with somebody, by the time I get to my sixth word, I end up having to clear my throat in order to continue. I have to constantly repeat this process in order to talk. I have had this problem as long as I can remember and would like to know why.

DEAR READER — It is probably related to stress; you may find conversations stressful. If you are very shy you may need some professional counseling to determine why and to help you function better in your social environment. You could also benefit from an evaluation by a speech therapist. It may be that you need some speech therapy to help you speak more normally and gain confidence in your speaking ability. If you need the names of qualified speech therapists in your community, you can get them from the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, 10801 Rockville Pike, Rockville, Md. 20852. Husband To Sue Wife's Killer

NEW YORK (AP) — The husband of Helen Hagnes Mintiks, 31, the violinist slain last year at the Metropolitan Opera House, has won the right to sue her killer and the opera association.

Papers filed Tuesday in the Manhattan Surrogate's Court show that sculptor Janis Mintiks plans to sue the Metropolitan Opera Association and convicted killer Craig Crimmins, 22, Baptist Minister...

Shocks Given For God

RAND RAPIDS, Mich. — The minister who has been pushing the button for six years now as his way of teaching children how to "hear the word of God," and says the practice "is not dangerous."

The Rev. Dwight Wymer says he has been pushing the button for six years now as his way of teaching children how to "hear the word of God," and says the practice "is not dangerous."

"I've done nothing wrong — I'm teaching God's word," he said.

But Dr. Richard Potter, director of the city health department, said he thought the shocks did the children no good, physically or mentally.

"It seems to me like it would have the opposite effect and cause the child to reject the teachings because of the association with pain," Potter said.

Three children received shocks Monday night at the opening session of the one-week summer Bible school at Wymer's Immanuel Baptist Church. At Thursday night's class, some parents said they were uncomfortable with what was going on, but were not pulling their children out of the class.

"Sometimes God talks to you and calls you and we just don't listen," Wymer told the children that first night. "But sometimes he can shock you into hearing his word, and this just makes that demonstration clear."

Brian TenHopen, 8, said the shock he received "hurt me until I went home and got in the tub. But it was fun, everybody was laughing, and I wanted to do it."

Seven-year-old Pat Popma said he volunteered for the shock but "wouldn't do it again. It hurts. I was going to cry, but all my friends were watching me."

Kent County authorities could not be reached on whether Wymer could be prosecuted, and the city attorney said he would not address the issue unless a complaint were brought against the minister.

Wymer said he has received no complaints from parents.

The 36-year-old pastor has headed the church for two years and said he opened last year's Bible school by giving shocks to children.

He said he decided to build the stool after reading a magazine that provides suggestions to ministers who lead Bible classes. He said he has used it off and on for six years on children, mainly at parties.

The Rev. Bruce Bode of the non-denominational Fountain Street Church here said he was appalled. "I tried to imagine what religious beliefs are being communicated to these children," Bode said. "Here again, it seems to me, that we have another example of the repudiation of reason by religion."

Yvonne Binder, a teacher in the school, said attendance has increased since Monday. She said news reports "took one little incident and ignored the prayers and the lessons that went along with it."

Salvadoran Woman Says...

No Leftist Connection

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A 32-year-old Salvadoran woman arrested for illegally entering the United States says she's a devout Baptist, not an exiled member of a leftist organization operating in war-torn El Salvador.

Ana Estela Flores Guevarra, 32, who has been questioned repeatedly by FBI officials about her identity, denied Thursday that she was "Commander Norma Guevarra," a member of a Communist front organization who fled El Salvador in 1978.

Ms. Guevarra has been in the Nueces County jail since July 1, serving a 90-day sentence for violating U.S. immigration laws. U.S. Border Patrolmen in Cotulla arrested her and 12 others June 24 after finding them hidden in a railroad freight car.

FBI agents have confirmed interviewing her in Cotulla after being told by border patrol agents that she possessed documents that indicated she might be a leftwing activist in El Salvador.

A Washington expert on Central American guerilla activity who asked not to be identified has quoted investigators as saying Ms. Guevarra was believed to be "Commander Norma Guevarra."

And newspaper reporters for El Dia Hoy in San Salvador have said a woman using that name was a leading member of the UDN or Union Democratica Nacional (Democratic National Union), a front for the Partido Comunista Salvadoreno (the Salvadoran Communist Party).

"No, I am not a Communist," said the Spanish-speaking Ms. Guevarra during a 20-minute interview in the county jail chapel with the Corpus Christi Caller, "I am a Christian."

She said she came to the United States to make money so she could attend theological school in Mexico and she has no idea why the FBI has questioned her at least four times.

"It is a possibility that due to my last name, Guevarra, they've confused me. I don't know how this could have happened ... because all we do is study the books about the role of Christian women ... and participation in the church."

Norma Guevarra fled El Salvador in 1978 after being arrested at a house where several members of the UDN were staying. She was released because of a lack of evidence.

"I heard (of Norma Guevarra) when they had her in prison and they (protesters) took over the embassy to ask for her freedom," Ms. Guevarra said.

She said documents confiscated from her after her arrest in Cotulla were a copy of a sermon by Monsignor Oscar Romero, a taped cassette of church music, and two books — one dealing with the role of Christian women in the church and another about unity in the church.

Romero was assassinated March 24, 1980 outside a small chapel in San Salvador. He had been an outspoken critic of the junta regime and had called for an end to civil strife.

Julian De La Rosa, assistant agent in charge of the FBI's San Antonio office, declined to comment on what documents had been taken from Ms. Guevarra.

The Ford Motor Co. was incorporated in Michigan in 1903.

Hollywood's Smallest Cowboy To Appear

Little George Havens, once known as Hollywood's smallest cowboy, will be at Faith Baptist Church, 37th St and Ave. C, this Sunday.

Little George is four feet, 11 inches tall and is a former Hollywood actor and stunt man. He made over 100 movies and was a regular on the Grand Ole Opry. After more than 10 years of movies and singing, Little George accepted Christ as his personal savior. He said he was making a movie at the time, and he walked off the set and quit the movies to serve God.

Later, he entered the ministry and since then has preached in a greater part of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Jamaica, in Europe, North Africa and on the shores of Galilee.

Little George Havens also is the director of the Cowboy Camp Meeting held annually in Santa Anna, Tx., where people come from across the nation to camp and attend worship services.

The public is invited to hear him preach and sing in both the 10:50 a. m. and 7 p. m. services Sunday at Faith Baptist Church.

Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers, the leading rusher of the National Football League in 1980, also attempted two passes and completed one for 57 yards and a touchdown.

Gospel Meeting Begins Sunday

A four-day Gospel Meeting begins Sunday, hosted by the 37th Street Church of Christ.

Tex Williams, chairman of the Sunset School of Preaching's Missions School, will be the guest speaker. Williams has been a frequent visitor to Snyder. During his college days, he was preacher for the Dunn Church of Christ.

Services Sunday will be at 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m. Weekday services are set for 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

The Sunset School of Preaching is located in Lubbock and is under the oversight of the elders of the Sunset Church of Christ. In the past several years, Williams had traveled extensively to all continents, visiting missionaries and mission points.

Williams has served several local churches as minister. These include Brownwood, Austin, Abilene and Oakland, Calif. He worked for more than four years for Boles Children's Home in Quinlan.

A graduate of Abilene Christian University, Williams was active in both football and track, and his senior year was elected president of the ACU student body. He now holds a masters degree from ACU in missiology.

The series of meetings will continue through Wednesday. Charlie Garner, minister, invites everyone to attend.
