Joe Walker, who oversees this territory for the R.L. Polk Co., publisher of the city directory, has been around town lately getting things lined up for a new directory which is scheduled to make its appearance next August.

A resident of Amarillo, Walker observed the other day over coffee that the Rev. Harry Vanderpool was his pastor at Amarillo prior to moving on to a church in Albuquerque, N.M.

Rev. Vanderpool, of course, is well-known around Snyder, having served the First United Methodist Church here as minister for several years before moving to the Panhandle, and consequently nobody around here was inclined to doubt Walker's story about a $100 bill at the Amarillo Church. He said Rev. Vanderpool casually mentioned, just before the offertory one Sunday morning, that it would please him very much if someone would drop a $100 bill in the offering plate, because the minister had never seen a $100 in an offering plate.

Well, someone did put in a $100 bill, and when the ushers brought the offering to the altar, one of them took the $100 bill and handed it up to the minister without delay. Rev. Vanderpool, in turn, held it up so that the congregation could see the $100 and used it as an example of instant blessing.

The Rev. Miller Robinson, who has been absent from his pulpit at Colonial Hill Baptist Church for several weeks while recuperating from knee surgery, attended the morning service last Sunday, but as a "spectator" rather than an active participant. So, while the morning offering was being taken, one of the ushers made certain that the pastor got one of those visitor's cards that Baptists always hand out and request their guests to fill out and drop in the offering plate.

Now that he is able to get around some on crutches, Rev. Robinson plans to return to his pulpit this Sunday, but quipped with tongue in cheek, that he was going to miss those television programs that he saw for the first time while he was immobilized by surgery.

The Texas Industrial Commission reports that it is going after more Eastern European markets for Texas products. They say that the import-export turnover between Eastern European nations and the Western world in 1970 amounted to $22 billion, but the U.S. share of this was only about two per cent. So, the U.S. Department of Commerce is going to have a booth at the International Trade Fair in Bucharest, Romania, and the TIC is going to join the department in the booth and at the same time take a delegation of Texas manufacturers to Msocow.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Feb. 4, the 35th day of 1972. There are 331 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1789, George Washington was elected the first president of the United States. All 69 of the presidential electors cast their votes for the general.

On this date:

In 1776, during the American Revolution, American troops occupied New York City.

In 1783, hostilities ended between the United States and England.

In 1861, delegates from six seceding Southern states formed the Confederacy at Montgomery, Ala.

In 1887, the Interstate Commerce Commission was established.

In 1901, a campaign to wipe out yellow fever in Cuba was begun by U.S. Army Maj. William Gorgas.

In 1948, Ceylon became a free, self-governing dominion in the British Commonwealth.

Ten years ago: French troops in Algeria were ordered to stand by for trouble from French residents opposed to independence for Algeria.

Five years ago: Presidential adviser Walt W. Rostow said extremely interesting and delicate diplomatic negotiations were under way to determine whether North Vietnam was seriously interested in peace talks.

One year ago: Egypt announced that it would extend a cease-fire with Israel for one month.

New Filing Fees Cost Voter More

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A streamlined list of filing fees for political candidates, that will cost the voters more money, was enroute today to local election officials.

Secretary of State Bob Bullock announced the revised schedule Thursday following instructions from a Dallas federal court. The court outlawed Texas' old filing fee system, which allowed levies of $7,000 and $8,000 for some county offices, then gave Bullock authority to set new and "reasonable" fees for this year.

Bullock stressed the new fees were not designed to raise revenue to pay for the May 6 Texas Democratic and Republican primaries and the June 3 runoffs.

Other sources estimated the new fees might raise as much as $500,000 toward the cost of the elections.

Gov. Preston Smith has said he will try to transfer funds already appropriated by the 1971 legislature to furnish the estimated $1.2 million or $1.3 million additional that will be needed.

Formerly all costs of primary elections were paid by candidates' fees. The Dallas federal court held that this system put an illegal burden on the candidates and kept many from seeking public office.

The previous system called for a $1,000 fee to run for most statewide offices.

The fee system sent to all local election officials Thursday by Bullock calls for a $400 filing fee for all statewide offices, $300 for U. S. representative races, $150 for state senator, $100 for state representative, $100 for the courts of civil appeals, for district judges, for district attorneys and most county officials with four-year terms. County commissioners would have a $50 fee and justices of peace, fees of $25 to $50.

If a candidate can not pay the filing fee, election officials were told to certify him if he furnishes a petition signed by qualified voters. Statewide offices would take 2,500 signatures and local races as low as 25 signatures.

The fees must be paid before the fourth Monday in February.

"No intimidation of any sort may be used to encourage candidates who file for office to contribute to the party," Bullock's order said.

IF CONGRESS ENDS STRIKE

Worldwide Shipping Tie-Up Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry Bridges, boss of the striking West Coast dock workers, today threatened a worldwide shipping tie-up if Congress forces an end to the strike by compulsory arbitration.

Bridges, testifying before a House Labor subcommittee, said any law Congress passes to end the strike will affect ships only when they touch at U.S. docks.

"These ships go overseas," he said, "and we've got a few friends in other countries, and they will respond to our call for help. It may reach the point where the ships won't come back here."

President Nixon has asked Congress to pass emergency legislation that would create a three-member board with the power to settle the strike by compulsory arbitration.

Emund J. Flynn, president of the Pacific Maritime Association (PMA), which represents the shippers, endorsed the bill, saying he saw little prospect of settling the dispute by negotiation.

But Bridges emphatically rejected it and indicated his longshoremen might ignore the law if it were enacted.

"We have no intention of submitting to such legislation unless that is the will of our members as expressed in a secret ballot," he said.

Bridges said he did not blame the PMA for accepting Nixon's proposal.

"We have these blockes on the ropes," he told the subcommittee. "We're going to whip them and they are depending on Congress to save them."

Bridges and Flynn appeared by subpoena before a special subcommittee of the House Labor Committee headed by Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J.

Bridges said the parties to the dispute are close together and he urged that Congress let them settle it.

He denied there is an emergency in Hawaii, where he said the union has made special provisions to handle the export of sugar and has permitted special voyages to bring in necessary supplies.

"The emergency has been manufactured in the facile minds of some of the members of Congress from that state—and in the mind of the present assistant secretary of Labor who was formerly employed by the Hawaii Employers Council."

Bridges said the principal items in disagreement are the effective date of the wage increase of 72 cents an hour, which the union wants retroactive to Nov. 14; paid holidays; employer-paid prescription drugs for employes; an increase in insurance coverage and wages for certain skilled differentials.

Even if the bill is passed, Bridges said, he would recommend that the 15,000-member International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) return to work only if they elect to do so by secret vote.

US Job, Jobless Rates Reflect Economy Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that the nation's total employment rose in January while unemployment dipped slightly and Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said the figures reflected real growth in the economy.

The figures—adjusted for seasonal factors—showed a rise of 240,000 in total employment to 80,636,000 and a drop in the jobless rate from a revised 6 per cent to 5.9 per cent of the work force.

Although the actual number of jobless increased 752,000 to 5,447,000, it usually increases much more in January and the Labor Department figured it as a decline of 56,000 on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The nation's total employment rose 240,000 to 80,636,000 on a seasonal basis, although the unadjusted figures showed a drop of more than one million.

The report, by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said nonfarm payroll employment on a seasonal basis reached an all-time high of 71.4 million.

"Employment has advanced strongly since last summer," the bureau said.

The bureau said the January unemployment figures represented essentially no change.

The report also said average hourly earnings of some 45 million rank-and-file workers rose three cents an hour to $3.53, but that a larger than usual cut in the length of the average work week reduced weekly earnings to $129.20, a drop of $1.35 from December.

It said weekly earnings were up $7.32 or 6 per cent over the past year. Inflation of 3.4 per cent over the same period reduced the gain to $2.93.

The average work week dropped 18 minutes to 36.9 hours, the report said.

The biggest drop was in manufacturing where the work week fell off 24 minutes to 39.9 hours.

The report said the jobless rate for men declined slightly from 4.3 to 4.2 per cent for a total of 2,485,000.

JUMP TRACK — Six cars, including the caboose of Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific Railway Co. Train No. 6 jumped the track at the trestle on Thirtieth Street at 6:40 a.m. today. Officials said two of the cars were loaded with clay and canned goods. None of the cars overturned, but there was damage to the track and to the crossties on the trestle. Officials said local trucks would be used to return the cars to the track. Repairs were being made this morning.

Mystery Cloaks Missing Tanker

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Ships and planes searched the choppy Gulf of Mexico waters south-southeast of here again today for a missing tanker with 40 persons aboard.

The 572-foot vessel, V. A. Fogg, with a crew of 35 and five maintenance men aboard, became the object of a search Wednesday when she did not arrive here as expected after sailing from Freeport.

The U.S. Coast Guard reported Thursday night a life jacket was found floating about 60 miles south of here where a pilot had seen smoke Tuesday. A Coast guard spokesman said the preserver contained no markings and could not be identified as belonging to the tanker.

The tanker was to clean 18 empty tanks of highly explosive benzene residue, then deliver to Galveston two tanks of xylene, not considered highly explosive.

There has been no radio contact with the vessel since it left port.

The cleaning location was to be about 50 miles offshore, as required by federal regulations.

However, a Coast Guard spokesman said the search area had been widened to include areas as far as 150 miles off the Galveston coast.

Winds in excess of 30 miles per hour and waves up to 14 feet high hampered search efforts.

A column of smoke about two miles high was reported Tuesday in the area where the ship was to have cleaned the tanks.

The vessel is owned by Texas City Tanker Corp., a division of Texas City Refinery Corp. A spokesman for the firm said no names of crewmen would be released until all next of kin had been notified of the ship's disappearance.

Two Coast Guard Cutters, the Valiant and the Gentian, both out of Galveston, and four aircraft from Houston, Corpus Christi and New Orleans searched the Gulf Thursday.

The Coast Guard said 17,000 square miles of the Gulf was searched Thursday.

The missing ship stirred memories of another tanker which disappeared nine years ago today. The Marine Sulphur Queen, carrying over 15,000 tons of liquified sulphur from Beaumont to Norfolk Va. vanished Feb. 4, 1963 off Florida. No trace of the ship nor the 39 crew members was ever found.

TED McMILLAN

McMillan Is Candidate

Ted J. McMillan has announced as a candidate in the Democratic Primary for the office of Tax Collector Assessor for Scurry County. He is a lifetime resident of the county, and served in the Marine Corps in the South Pacific during World War II. He and his family reside at 2712 Avenue U.

He is married to the former Virginia Taylor. They are parents of four children, Lane, Lana, Laddie and Lance. He is a member of Colonial Hill Baptist Church, and employed by Snyder Laundry and Dry Cleaning Co.

"I sincerely feel that I am capable and qualified to seek this office, and offer to the people of the county a pledge of dedication, honesty and courteous service," McMillan said.

Personal service turns off boss' secretary

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary for a very nice man. He is a wonderful person to work for, except for one thing. He is always bringing me his kids' essays or term papers or book reports to type up. Also his wife is active in club work, and she sends lots of letters and speeches to the office for me to type.

I wouldn't mind doing this once in a while, Abby, but I think I am being taken advantage of but I don't have the nerve to tell my boss how I feel.

Maybe if you print this letter in your column, he will see it and take the hint. Or perhaps some of your readers have some suggestions on how I can refuse to do work for the whole family without hurting anyone's feelings.

PEEVED TYPIST

DEAR PEEVED: I assume you are being paid to work so many hours a day, right? So long as the work falls within your general competence, what difference does it make what you're doing? If the extra work necessitates working overtime, then you're entitled to extra pay. And if you're not getting it, you can either demand it, or look elsewhere.

DEAR ABBY: My question: When someone is ill, what is wrong with asking the ailing person himself, or a relative or close friend about the nature of the illness? I have asked three different people this question, and I got the following answers: 1. It is "bad taste." 2. It is an invasion of privacy. 3. Some illnesses are "embarrassing" to reveal. Very truly yours,

BRONX DUMMY

DEAR DUMMY: My answer would be a combination of all three.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is good looking, but he is very conceited. Now that we are married, he can't stand it when someone gives ME a compliment instead of him. If someone tells him he has a pretty wife, instead of being pleased about it, he says something like, "She's very artificial. You should see her in the morning."

I get so upset when he makes remarks like that, Abby, because I know I am not ugly.

Whenever we get all dressed up to go somewhere, he never tells me I look nice. He always asks, "How do I look?"

What is the matter with him? And how can I cure him?

PUT DOWN

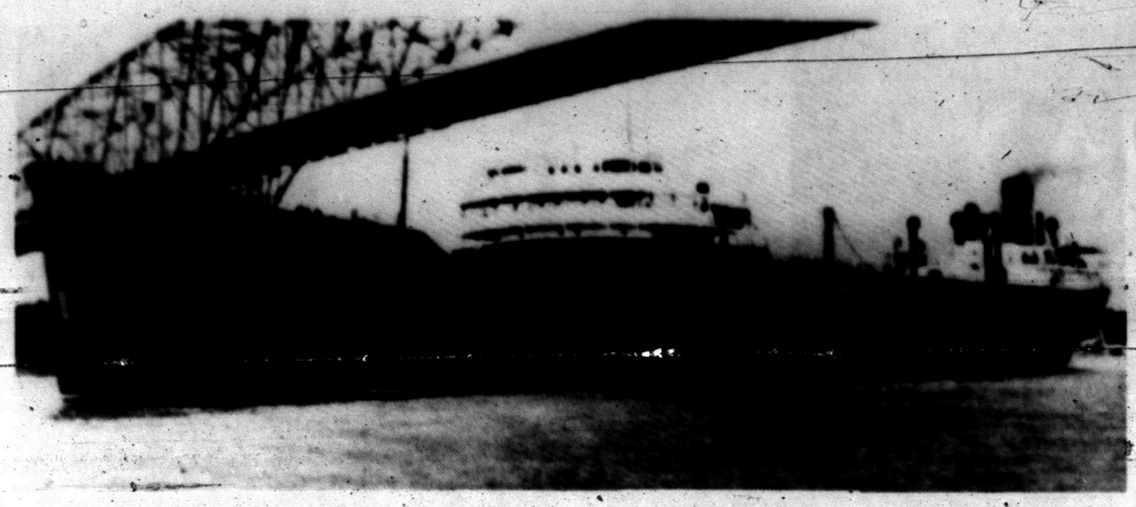

DEAR PUT: Your husband isn't "conceited"—he's immature and unsure of himself. Only those who feel insecure are constantly begging for compliments and reassurance. His jealousy and competitiveness are further signs of insecurity.

You can't "cure" him. Only he can cure himself by improving his opinion of himself.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WILL WAIT FOREVER FOR HIM IN ODESSA": You may have to. A man is married until he is divorced. It doesn't matter whether they have been "separated" for six months or sixty years.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

MISSING IN GULF OF MEXICO — The 572-foot tanker V.A. Fogg is missing in the Gulf of Mexico with 35 men aboard. The tanker was on a short run from Freeport, Texas to Galveston, Texas. An intensive air and sea search for the tanker is under way by the Coast Guard. A space agency pilot of a T-38 told the Coast Guard he saw "fire and smoke, as if an explosion" had occurred about 45 miles southeast of Galveston at 3:40 p.m. Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Honorary Society Organized At WTC

A new honorary society, Phi Theta Kappa, has been organized at Western Texas College, according to Dr. Duane Hood; Director of Student Services.

Sixty-five WTC students have been invited to join the organization, designated as the Psi Zeta Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa. A student must attain at least a 3.2 scholastic average to be eligible for membership. Membership is by invitation only.

Phi Theta Kappa, which was founded in 1918, is a scholastic society of American junior Colleges in 1929 and now has a membership of more than 385 chapters.

Members of Phi Theta Kappa are afforded opportunities for the development of leadership and service, an intellectual climate for the exchange of ideas, lively fellowship for scholars, and stimulation of interest in continuing academic excellence. Members also engage in an Honors Program which culminates each summer in the National Phi Theta Kappa Honors Institue. In addition to programs provided by the National Phi Theta Kappa local chapters plan and pursue their own activities, including special campus activities, serving as hosts for visiting dignitaries, and special community events.

Sponsors are Rita Colley, instructor of business, and Ed Barkowsky, associate professor of English.

One of the first activities of the local group will be to host the official opening of the Fine Arts Building on the WTC campus in the near future.

Department Going Mod

AUSTIN, Tex. ZAP) — The Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation is going mod.

With the help of the Department of Corrections, TDMHMR is providing the latest in fashion, design and materials for clothes worn by residents of state mental hospitals and schools for the retarded.

They include hot pants for young girls, pant suits for women and jump suits for men.

The mental health department furnishes clothing for its indigent hospital patients and state school residents. The clothing items are made at the Department of Corrections and sold to TDMHMR through an interagency contract.

In an effort to keep pace with changing styles, representatives of the central office and Austin-based facilities met recently with Department of Corrections officials to revamp the clothing catalogs from which state institutions order items of wearing apparel.

Miss Dors Joins Campaign

SUNNINGDALE, England (AP) — Actress Diana Dors has joined a campaign aimed at allowing prisoners to have sexual intercourse with their wives in jail.

The campaign was started by Rene Wisbey, whose husband is serving a 30-year sentence for his part in the $7 million train robbery of 1963.

Mrs. Wisbey, 39, recently lost her 16-year-old daughter in a traffic accident. She has appealed to Home Secretary Reginald Maulding to be allowed to sleep with her husband to have another child.

Miss Dors said she supports the appeal. Her own husband, actor Alan Lake, was released from prison last October. He served an 18-month sentence for wounding a man in a tavern brawl.

"I am 40 and want to have another baby before I am too old," said Miss Dors. "If Alan had got a longer sentence it could well have ruined our plans for the family."

If I were a King and knew a Queen whose love was not quite mine..I d send her flowers from Hinshaw's and make her my valentine.

Long Stays On Moon Predicted

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — America is halting lunar exploration for a decade, but when Americans return to the moon, they'll go there to stay for months, a space official said here Thursday.

Dr. Wernher Von Braun, an associated administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said that after Apollo 17 later this year, the space agency will turn its attention from the moon to the earth. Research, he said, will be directed toward earth benefits.

"We will abandon the moon perhaps for 10 years," said the silver-haired, German-born rocket expert. "Instead we'll concentrate the space program toward benefitting earth."

Most of NASA's work, he said, will be toward developing the reusable space shuttle and improving weather, communications and earth resources satellites.

In about a decade, he said, when the shuttle is developed, the new craft will be used to put large payloads into space at a tenth of the present cost.

Later on, he said, the shuttle will ferry laboratory modules into orbit. These will be transferred to a "space tug" which will haul them to the moon. The modules will be joined together to form science stations where scientists can stay and do research for months on end, "just like is done now in the anartiva."

Von Braun said advanced satellites are being developed to improve weather prediction and study the resources of earth.

Knowledge gained from the satellites may one day permit control of the weather, he said, and "rain will be scheduled at night and sunshine in the day time."

Satellites studying the earth can analyze food crops and give early prediction of crop failure, he said. This will help ward off famines which still plague large areas of the world.

Von Braun made the comments at a news conference at the University of Houston. He was here to speak to a student audience on the campus.

Birth Machine Built

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Pupils, meet Hera. She'll show you how a baby is born—as often as you like.

Here is a lifesized mannequin built by Charles Knapp, a mechanical engineer at the University of Kentucky's nursing college.

She's a machine which realistically goes through the process of having a human child, right down to giving the fetus a heartbeat.

"We built this mannequin to fine tune the nurse prior to the clinical situation, so that when she gets to that first patient she has a higher degree of confidence and competence," Knapp said Wednesday.

"I expect that it might prove useful in medical schools and even in courses for firemen, policemen and expectant mothers."

Knapp said the mannequin was named Hera after the Greek goddess of childbirth. She consists of pelvis, vaginal canal, uterus, placenta, umbilical cord and fetus. The machine is made of rubber and plyvinyl chloride gel.

Hera's uterus is encircled with two balloons which force labor contractions and eventually expel the baby and the afterbirth. The fetus is loaded with a speaker that produces a heartbeat. An inflatable wedge in front of the spine alters the position of the uterus to fit various stages of labor.

New Cold Front Seen Sunday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter kept most of Texas in a deep freeze this morning but prospects were seen for a little warming during the weekend—that is, until the next cold front hits the northwest part of the state Sunday.

Thermometers skidded to the lower levels again near dawn although most places were a few degrees less chilled than the day before.

The mercury dived to 4 degrees above zero at Marfa in the West Texas mountain country, and to 11 at Dalhart, 14 at Amarillo and Junction, and 15 at Lubbock.

It was freezing as far south as Kingsville in South Texas but a light freeze failed to develop as expected in the semi-tropical Lower Rio Grande Valley, where it was 34 at Brownsville and McAllen.

The warmest spots near daybreak were Galveston at 36 degrees and Corpus Christi at 41.

Except for a few clouds to help keep temperatures up in the Lower Valley, skies were crystal clear throughout the state.

Elsewhere in the freezing belt, Childress recorded 18 degrees, Tyler 19, San Antonio 20, El Paso, Fort Worth and Mineral Wells 21, Longview, Midland and San Angelo 22, Beeville and Wink 23, Abilene, Austin, College Station, Lufkin and Waco 24, Palacios and Wichita Falls 25, Dallas, Texarkana and Victoria 26, Cotulla and Del Rio 27 and Alice 29.

The early morning marks compared with highs Thursday afternoon ranging from 40 at Tyler and Longview up to 53 at McAllen.

Forecasts promised clear to partly cloudy skies and gradual warming in most sections this weekend except in Northwest Texas, where cooler air was expected to start arriving Sunday.

Baptists To Assist Mexicans

DALLAS (AP) — Under a new agreement with the Mexican government, Texas Baptists are going to provide technical assistance for about 20 communal farms and projects in the north Mexico states of Coahuila and Chihuahua.

Pedro de Koster, director of Mexico's rural industries, and the Texas Baptist River Ministry are arranging the program.

"We are going into the area to provide assistance to the people. We do not advocate any politics," Dr. Elmin Howell, coordinator for the Texas Baptist River Ministry, said in an interview.

Howell said that a Midland rancher, D.L. Kite, has already sold his interest in 11 ranches in Midland and moved with his wife to the Mexican area to begin work with the "ejido" (communal farm) leaders.

Howell said the reaction has been very favorable.

WALNUT CREAM CHEESE CAKE—It's baked in a bundt pan that has a pancoat of butter, walnuts and sugar.

Walnut Cream Cheese Cake Wins Praise

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Cream cheese first started being used as an ingredient in cake more than a dozen years ago, according to our recollection, when such a cake won a large money prize in a bake-off contest.

Now an ingenious cook has invented another cream cheese cake that's absolutely delicious. It's baked in a bundt pan that has a pancoat of butter, walnuts and sugar so the cake doesn't need frosting. Walnuts also give delectable flavor to the cake itself. When tried in our kitchen, we found this cake stayed beautifully moist.

WALNUT CREAM CHEESE CAKE

1½ cups walnuts
2 tablespoons butter for pancoat
2 tablespoons sugar for pancoat
1 cup butter
2 packages (each 3 ounces) cream cheese
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1½ cups sugar
4 eggs
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Chop 1-3rd cup of the walnuts very fine for pancoat and chop remainder medium fine for batter.

Butter a 2-quart bundt pan heavily, using 2 tablespoons butter. Sprinkle with the 1-3rd cup very finely chopped walnuts, then with 2 tablespoons sugar.

Cream 1 cup butter with cream cheese and lemon rind; gradually beat in 1½ cups sugar. Beat in eggs, 1 at a time, until thoroughly blended—batter may look slightly curdled.

Resift flour with baking powder and salt; gradually blend into creamed mixture. Stir in remaining medium-fine chopped walnuts. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—1 hour and 20 to 30 minutes. Let cake stand in pan placed on a wire rack for 10 minutes, then turn out on wire rack to cool.

Woman's Calendar

FRIDAY

Altrurian Club will meet at 3 p.m. at Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. T.W. Pollard as hostess.

SATURDAY

People Without Partners will meet at 6:30 p.m. at the Inadale Community Center. Please bring refreshments.

4-H Club Meets

The Hermleigh 4-H Club met Feb. 2 at the Hermleigh Community Center. The group discussed the Share-the-Fun Contest to be held Feb. 5 at 7 p.m. at the Lamar Jr. High School Auditorium.

Attending the meeting were Cathy Hess, Rosalinda Pena, Wilma Stirl, Julie Roemisch, Sylvia Arellano, Enda Arellano, Lois Hess, and Mrs. Walter Stirl, sponsor.

Group Enjoys Program On Food Buying

A study of how to buy food stuff economically for family use was presented to members of the Art Guild Study Club Tuesday evening by Mrs. Daniel R. Martin, Homemaking instructor at the Snyder High school and a member of the club. The group met at the Martha Ann Woman's Club building.

Mrs. Martin illustrated her topic by the use of slides, charts, passout sheets and canned food products.

Bill Early, well known grocery store owner and experienced meat cutter, was present to discuss cuts of meat and explained how to select the best meats for family use. He used a chart showing all cuts of beef to be found on local meat counters Mr. Early answered questions for the group.

Each club member was asked to bring a can of food from her pantry shelf. Each was given two cans of the same type food and was asked to make comparison as to price, quantity, weight and label content. To buy economically, club members were admonished to shop carefully so as to buy wisely. Never rush through grocery shopping, they were told, and take time to compare one brand against another. The best known brands are not always the only good product or the most economical, Mrs. Martin pointed out. With U.S. Department of Agriculture food controls, one can be reasonably sure of the purity of food stuffs in the market place, club members were assured.

Refreshments, reminding the group of the approach of St. Valentine's Day, were served and a short social period was enjoyed preceding the program. A short business meeting closed the evening's activities.

GS Cookie Sale To Begin Feb. 11

It's cookie time in west Texas on February 11-20, 2,000 Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts will be out to sell 56,000 boxes of cookies.

The annual cookie sale supports the camping program of the West Texas Girl Scout Council. Proceeds from the sale operate the council's permanent campsite located eight miles south of Sweetwater.

In addition, cookie sellers are able to earn a part of their own camp fee. Last year 111 girls earned a part of their camp fee by selling over 100 boxes.

Troop treasuries keep $1 for each case of twelve boxes sold. These funds finance the troop's weekend campouts, parties and service projects.

For the first time, local girls will be selling the new family size packages of mints, peanut butter, shorties and sandwich. The boxes will sell for $1.

Southern Biscuit Co. supplies the cookies for the local council at a cost of 42c per box. The manufacturer supplies all the advertising and training aides used during the sale.

Local volunteer handling the 1972 sale is Mrs. Mickey Nunley 2350 Sunset.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

A cucumber and two cabbages are the All-America vegetables for 1972.

Cucumber Victory is flavorful, dark green and, most important, disease resistant. Winner of the bronze medal, it is a female or gynoecious hybrid, which means it has a preponderance of female flowers, contributing to heavy yield.

Victory is crisp and top-rated for size and shape for a slicing cucumber. Because of its resistance to both powdery and downy mildew, which often turn cucumber plants white, and to scab and mosaic, Victory can be used over a wider range of climates than other cucumbers. It also has considerable tolerance to angular leaf spot and to anthracnose, two more production problems.

The cabbages are Ruby Ball, an early variety, and Red Head, a later type. Both are reds, Ruby Ball winning a gold medal and Red Head a bronze award.

Ruby Ball is a first generation hybrid, uniform, with short core, solid and sweet. It produces five-pound heads.

Red Head also is an F1 hybrid, has fine uniformity, excellent flavor, compact head and dark color.

Both red cabbages are reported excellent in salads and delicate as a cooked vegetable.

The vegetables were tested in 27 gardens in the United States, Canada and Mexico. All-America says only the best vegetables are considered for an award.

As a reminder to gardeners looking for other top varieties, here are a few recent-year vegetable winners:

1971—Early Xtra Sweet sweet corn.

1970—Small Fry tomato and Waltham Butternut winter-type squash.

Someone asked Purdue University Extension entomologist Glen Lehker why so many different pesticides were needed, saying it seemed that three or four would be enough.

"Would three or four drugs be enough to treat all kinds of human ailments?" Lehker replied. "The same principle applies to pesticides."

If plants such as tomato and potato appear stunted and eventually die by mid-July it could be caused by a walnut tree growing nearby. There is evidence that the black walnut exerts a detrimental effect on certain plants if their roots or bark actually touch. This includes apple, blackberry, alfalfa and heath.

By contrast, we are told, certain plants, such as Kentucky bluegrasses, often grow better beneath walnut trees.

The substance involved is Juglone, a napthaquinone considered valuable in treating some skin diseases.

Top Students Are Women

NEW YORK (AP) — The top three students in the Class of '73 at the Columbia University School of Law are women.

Vivian Q. Adler, of Riverdale, N.Y., Anita H. Laudone of Norwich, Conn., and Beryl Shatz of Harrisburg, Pa., achieved the highest grades in their first year of law school. There were 46 women in their class of 368.

The three have been named Kent Scholars, a coveted academic honor at Columbia Lawn awarded annually in each class to the students with the best academic record for the entire previous year of study. They are now second-year students.

Twenty-seven others in the second-year class with the next best academic records were named Stone Scholars. All were men.

In the Class of '72, now third-year students, two of the top five were women: Jane Parver of New York City, and Ellen Jordan of Staten Island, N.Y. They, too, were named Kent Scholars.

Total current enrollment in the Law School is 1,043, of which 129 are women.

Scotts Divorced Second Time

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Actor George C. Scott and actress Colleen Dewhurst have been divorced for the second time.

The couple split up in Mexico in 1965 but remarried two years later.

Thursday they ended their second union under the Dominican Republic's new laws permitting quick divorce.

The Scotts' two children—Alexander, 12, and Campbell, 11—were left in their mother's custody. Scott, 44, was not present at the proceeding but consented through an attorney. Miss Dewhurst, 47, appeared before the judge.

Bathing Was An Art On The Silver Screen

By AP Newsfeatures

When movies were glamorous spectacles and growing up to be a movie star was what every girl dreamed about, film directors turned bathing into an art, and almost every star of the silver screen was filmed in a tubful of bubbles.

In "Male and Female" Gloria Swanson was the epitome of sumptuous bathing when she appeared in a sunken tub filled with rose water—which had been tastefully colored for the sake of modesty.

And Miss Swanson and Dolores Del Rio were two movie queens who even had exclusive bath fragrances blended for them by Prince Matchabelli.

Joan Crawford personified luxury bathing in "The Women." She was filmed in a glass and marble tub, complete with a cushioned headrest, in a scene which called for a run-in with her step-daughter and a telephone call from her boyfriend. The film, which was about marriage and men, didn't have a single man in the cast.

In the 1940's, the bath was even the scene of a big production number with a dozen dancing girls. In "Step Lively" Gloria de Haven smiled amidst the bubbles while a bevy of beauties whirled around her.

In 1955 movie fans saw Marilyn Monroe bathing in "The Seven Year Itch." The scene involved a plumber who found it necessary to make repairs while she soaked in the suds.

THE DUET CUT — A summery smoothie to tame the savagery of seasons past with a cooler look that is still long, the Duet Cut is the perfect "new look" for an out-grown Shag. The Duet Cut is aptly named for the two very different looks it can achieve. The sleek Duet is reminiscent of the medieval page, but has plenty of freedom to swing. Relax the page, tousle in some gentle curl, and the Duet dresses up for any elegant evening. The Duet Cut is an American Hair Fashion for Spring-Summer 1972, introduced by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

Sorority Plans Valentine Dance

Lambda Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi heard programs on "Nature's Beauty" during their meeting Tuesday evening in the Snyder Savings and Loan Community Room. The programs presented were entitled "The Garden" by Mrs. Truss Farquhar and "Nature's Landscape" by Mrs. Howard Limmer.

Mrs. Farquhar told the history and influences of gardening. She said that the story of gardens began in the earliest days of civilization when man, not only had learned the worth of plants as foods, but he also developed artistic expression through gardening. She said, "Gardens have brought beauty, quiet and repose to those who have sought a retreat from the burdens of daily living. Large or small, formal or informal they have all mirrored the cultural achievements of a period of history or expressed a way of life."

Mrs. Farquhar showed the group pictures of gardens which depicted different times in history and different cultural eras.

Mrs. Limmer presented a program on "Nature's Landscape" in poetry and pictures. After reading poems on nature she demonstrated the elements of natural beauty. Using one photograph, she told the group about color, form, line, space, light and shade, movement, pattern, unity in variety, rhythym, balance and proportion; all element of natural beauty. To sum up the program, Mrs. Limmer asked Mrs. Lanier Campbell and Mrs. Troy Scott to comment on "The Loveliest Spot I Know."

The business meeting was conducted by President Mrs. Bill Early. Topics discussed were the Valentine Dance to be held Friday night, Feb. 12th at the coliseum, the Heart Fund and the program for the next chapter meeting. The program for the Feb. 15th meeting will be presented by Prof. Warren Cullar of the Art Dept., Western Texas College. He will talk on the topic, "The Artist's Landscape."

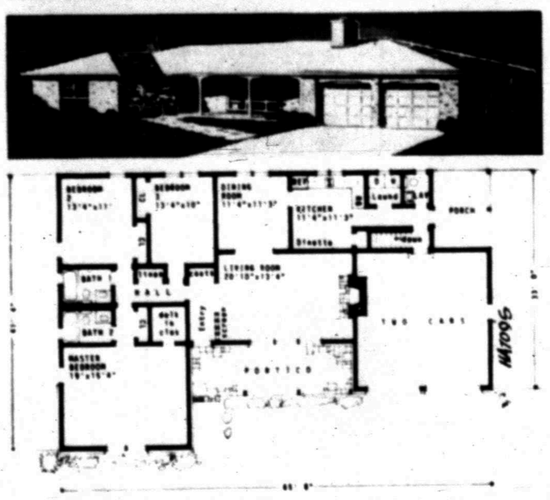

Refreshments were served by hostesses Mrs. Troy Scott and Mrs. Andrew Killian from a table decorated in red and white, depicting a Valentine theme.

THE BIG INCH

The ruled box above is a one-inch ad. It measures one column by one inch deep. It costs the advertisers $1.12.

But look at it this way.

What you get when you buy a one-inch ad in the Snyder Daily News is not just a single inch of space in the paper, but one inch multiplied by 5,000 copies daily.

So you are really buying 5,000 inches, which at 168 inches a page would be over 29 pages of printed newsprint. It looks kinda lonesome by itself.

That's a mighty big chunk of space for a cost of only $1.12. And that price includes delivery to the reader's home. Just imagine reaching all those families by post card. It would amount to $300 just for postage. But the Snyder Daily News does it for a mere $1.12 per insertion.

So you can see that a little one-inch ad is really a pretty BIG inch when it's advertising space in the Snyder Daily News. And the figures show that it's possibly the most effective and economical way to let people in this area know that you have wares and services they could use.

Call 573-5486 and let a Newspaper representative show you how a little BIG inch can wake up sales for you.

Market Report Sounds Like Same Old Story

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There are elements of an old, old story in the report just released by the Securities and Exchange Commission on restructuring the nation's stock markets to make them simple, direct and open.

There will be three working committees, for example, whose job will be to study, report and propose on the policies outlined. Inherent in such recommendations, necessary as they might be, is delay.

There are fresh elements too. The SEC confirmed its intention of seeking one tape to report the prices of stocks on all exchanges—and even the prices of some stocks not so listed.

Under the existing system, each exchange has its own tape. Any investor reading that tape would never know if the stock he seeks is available elsewhere at a lower price.

Broadly summarized, the SEC sees the necessity for more competition among brokers and exchanges by bringing them into one central marketplace.

It intends to end the situation in which large institutions hold exchange seats mainly to trade for their own accounts. It hopes to bring more competition on large orders by lowering to $300,000 from $500,000 the level at which negotiated rather than fixed commissions are charged.

The recommendations, especially for one tape, would certainly make for securities markets "as simple, as direct and as open as we can," in the words of William J. Casey, the SEC chairman.

But implementing those intentions could be another thing. This is testy ground on which reside many powerfully vested financial interests. In addition, depending upon the amount of cooperation among exchanges, the antitrust laws conceivably could be tested.

Moreover, the implementation of any major changes in these billion-dollar market places must always be restrained by consideration for unknown and possibly adverse affects on the entire economy.

The old, old story is the slowness with which progress takes place. Change in the securities markets, no matter how badly needed, cannot come quickly. It takes time and courage to change practices whose origins are in another century.

The present market was structured more by self-interest, especially in its early days, than by planning for the public good. What worked for the private interest took precedence over the public.

Quite odd practices developed. There still exists the situation in which brokers who make a living selling stock are presented as financial advisers. This is not just a dual role but often a conflicting one.

There remains the almost insolvable problem of the specialist, who is assigned to maintain an orderly market in stocks even if it means trading against himself, or buying stocks that nobody else wants at the price.

And there has existed—now to be ended—a practice on some exchanges of permitting institutional traders to trade for their own accounts, thus avoiding commissions and in effect obtaining stock at a discount.

Operations of the securities markets, said Casey, "have become too complicated, with too many transactions structured, contrived and carried out in a particular place or in an unnatural way or without public disclosure ..."

He concluded in a statement about the report: "The steps spelled out in this report are designed to put competition to work for the investor, to move from reciprocal and rebative practices."

But then comes a return to the old script. The untangling in the public interest will be entrusted largely to a market establishment that permitted or encouraged the tangle for its own interest.

Because those involved in the securities markets are the experts, having learned how to deal with and benefit from the tangle, they will be prominent on the working committees.

It means that the supervisory skills of the SEC will be tested. It means that its protective instincts must remain aroused. That too is an old, old story, a story without end.

After 40 remember to ask your doctor for a procto as part of your annual health checkup. It's a lifesaver, says the American Cancer Society.

Junior Editors Quiz on FRIDAY THE 13TH

QUESTION: Why is Friday the 13th known as a "bad luck" day?

• • •

ANSWER: People hold to old beliefs or superstitions held by their ancestors. There have always been superstitions about numbers and days.

There are various theories concerning the number 13 and its designation as a number connected with bad luck. In Scandinavian mythology, there is a reference to the appearance of Loki, the 13th demigod with a record of evil and cruelty. Since the 13th demigod spelled disaster, the number 13 had a bad-luck connotation. The belief that Friday is an unlucky day has prevailed over the years. Many people will not start any new venture on Friday. The Romans and Norsemen considered the sixth day as lucky, but the Christians regarded Friday as the unluckiest day of the year because they believed Christ was crucified on Friday. The Mohammedans consider Friday unlucky because, according to their legends, Adam was created on a Friday and Adam and Eve ate the forbidden fruit on a Friday. Therefore, superstitious people feel that when the unlucky number 13 is combined with the unlucky day of Friday, there is likely to be disaster.

Conclusion Jumping With Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Any husband whose wife packs a liverwurst or baloney sandwich more than twice a week in the lunch he carries to work is entitled to a divorce. But a man is unlikely to run away from his home if his wife shows a little imagination in fixing him the meal he eats away.

A dog may dwell in luxury on Park Avenue, but he leads an underprivileged existence if never even once in his life he has the pleasure of scratching a flea.

Chopping up or sawing logs to warm his home has been one of man's commonplace chores for thousands of years. But so accustomed are we today to having other people do our work that a man who cuts up a fallen tree in his backyard feels he is a hero and equal to his pioneer ancestors. It is to him a feat of great virtue, and for a week he bores everybody at the office bragging about it.

A man is sometimes shaken to discover how quickly his physical condition deteriorates after 40. But no man needs to rush to a doctor—even at 80—if he can do a somersault easily or leap confidently over a three-foot-high barrier.

One of the pleasant surprises in marriage is how much a wife's advice to her husband improves after they have celebrated their silver anniversary. She has learned to separate the possible from the impossible.

Every man yearns at one time or another to become a millionaire, but today the achievement of that ambition is only another form of anonymity. Money still talks, but a million dollars doesn't shout—it only murmurs.

The difference between a wise man and the rest of us is that he learns from experience the first time. Most of us have to come back for a second lesson to get the message.

Three out of five Americans don't know what chilblains are—but feel that if they needed them in a hurry they could always pick them up at the supermarket.

Artifacts Unearthed

DALLAS (AP) — Hundreds of Indian artifacts, some believed to date back to 5,000 BC, have been unearthed by two police officers around the Farmer's Branch intersection of Interstate 35 and LBJ Expressway.

Patrolman Frank LaRue, 38, and Don Norman, 42, a dispatcher, have been finding arrowheads, tomahawks, grindstones, pottery, teeth and human skeletons since they started scouring the area two and a half years ago.

LaRue said the site was probably a high water encampment for migrating Indians.

"They would come to the Trinity River and, if it was flooded, they would camp until the waters receded and then move on," he surmised.

A seasoned amateur archeologist, LaRue was chairman of the Henderson County Historical Survey Committee for six years. He has used some of his latest findings to make a term paper for the anthropology class at El Centro College.

Many of the arrowheads found are made of flint, quartz and other kinds of rock found only in Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and parts of West Texas.

Russia Has Gold Medal

SAPPORO, Japan (AP) — Russia and The Netherlands claimed the first gold medals of the Winter Olympics and the determined United States hockey team battled its way into the Class "A" competition in the first full day of action.

Ard Schenk the fleet Dutch speedskater, and Vyacheslav Vedenin, one of the Soviet Union's corps of powerful Nordic skiers, took the golds in Friday's only two medal events.

Schenk, half blinded by snow, raced to the 5,000-meter speed skating crown in 7 minutes, 23.61 seconds, slow by his standards but no easy effort in the blizzard-like conditions at the Maomanai open air rink. Heavy snow ringed the track as Schenk zipped around the rink, little more than one second off the Olympic record of 7:22.40 set by Fred Anton Maier of Norway in the 1968 Games, but well off his own world record of 7:12.00.

Norway captured both the silver and bronze medals in the event, Roar Gronvold taking the second spot in 7:28.18 and Sten Stensen third in 7:33.39.

Schenk skated in the first pair when the wind was not as fierce as it turned out to be later. The snow was his main problem, especially in the final 1,000 meters.

"Then it began to hurt my eyes. I have seldom skated in more difficult conditions," he said.

The best American finisher in the speed skating event was Dan Carroll of St. Louis, who finished 10th in 7:44.72.

Vedenin, a 30-year-old soldier, hung back in the early stages of the cross-country skiing and was seventh when he made his move. He overtook Paal Tyldum of Norway to capture the gold.

A silver medalist in the 50-kilometer race of the 1968 Games, Vedenin was timed in 1 hour, 36 minutes, 31.15 seconds for the 39 kilometers which equals 18.6 miles. Tyldum's 1:37.25.30 took the silver medal and Johs Harviken of Norway earned the bronze with 1:37.32.44.

Vedenin was only the second non-Scandanavian ever to win a gold medal in individual Olympic ski racing. The best American finish was by Mike Elliott of Durango, Colo., who finished 26th in 1:43.15.03.

The U.S. hockey team, a disappointing sixth in the 1968 Games, had to earn its way into the top class for these Olympics and did it with a 5-3 victory over Switzerland.

Third period goals by Tim Sheehy and Stu Irving decided the issue for the Americans. Sheehy and Kevin Ahearn had two goals each for the U.S. team. The Americans dominated the game throughout, and outshot the Swiss team 59-18.

Coach Murray Williamson's squad had a mere 16 hours rest before swinging into Group A action against Sweden Saturday. Williamson said his young team would be underdogs the rest of the way but his players were optimistic.

"I think if we continue to play like we did today, we are going to win some more games," said Mark Howe, 16-year-old son of ex-National Hockey League star Gordie Howe.

"If we skate like we did today," said forward Henry Boucha, "there is no doubt we will win a medal."

In two other hockey games Friday night, Finland got three goals apiece from Lauri Mononen and Lasse Oksanen to wallop Norway 13-1 and Poland stunned fifth-ranked West Germany 4-0, dumping the losers into the "B" class competition.

In women's figure skating, Beatrix Schuba of Austria put on a spectacular show in the first three compulsory figures, earning a perfect score of 9.0 from the nine judges to seize the early lead.

Julie Holmes of North Hollywood, Calif., second to Miss Schuba in the world championships last year, was second in unofficial figuring or ordinals—or judge's placings—with 28.5 and Zsuzsa Almassy of Hungary was third with 40.5.

An Olympics official explained that the International Skating Union forbids the release of any official results until the entire compulsory program is completed Saturday.

In opening heats of men's and women's luge singles, East Germans held the leads. Wolfgang Scheidel had runs of 52.17 seconds 52.06 seconds for a combined 1:44.23 in the men's event while Anna Maria Muller clocked 45 seconds for both her runs and a combined 1:30.00. There are two more heats in both luge events.

A pair of West Germans, Wolfgang Zimmerer and Peter Utzschneidern took the halfway lead in the two-man bobsled competition. Winners of the two-man European title last month at St. Moritz, Switzerland, the two Germans sped through the icy chute in a total time of 2 minutes, 29.37 seconds to grab a solid lead over 20 others teams.

The best American clocking was 2:34.57 by Boris Said of New York and Thomas Beck of Plattsburgh, N.Y., who were 13th.

Japan's Hideki Nakano took the lead in the Nordic combined, winning the 70-meter ski jump with leaps of 269 and 266 feet for 220.5 points. The event will be completed Saturday with the 15-kilometer cross country race.

Susan Corrock of Ketchum, Idaho, clocked 1:40.52 and finished first in a practice run for the women's downhill ski race. The race was run to familiarize skiers with the trail for the medal event scheduled for Saturday.

In a political development, speed skater Horst Freese, who defected from East Germany, lost his bid to compete for the West Germans.

Freese defected in 1969 and had not completed the three-year residency requirement to qualify for the West German team.

DRIVES IN—Steve Sparks (21), Western Texas College guard from Krum, drives towards the basket past Hardin-Simmons' Donnie Wood (21) and Robert Mahoney (with arm raised) during the college basketball tilt here last night. In the background is Ralph Jackson (51), Westerner post man from Brownfield Union. Sparks made the goal. He scored 14 points during the game. Wood put on one of the sharpest exhibitions of shooting ever seen here and finished with 22 points. Mahoney meshed 15. The visitors won 85-72.

Buttons Triumph 85-72 Over WTC

Hardin-Simmons University's junior varsity basketball team rallied in the second half to take an 85-72 decision over Western Texas College's Westerners here last night.

It was a close game for about 30 minutes. The Buttons went ahead 4-0 early in the game, then WTC scored seven straight points to take the lead. The score was tied a couple of times in the first half, then the Westerners took a 35-33 lead into the dressing room.

It was still close for about half of the second half, but H-SU managed to take a five-point lead with about 10 minutes left. Their margain was 10 points with six minutes left, and they built a 15-point lead before closing with the 13-point spread.

"They were hot in the second half and we were cold," said WTC Coach Sid Simpson. Four visitors hit in double figures, led by Donnie Wood, who roped 22 points. H-SU hit over 50 per cent from the field. Jeff Jamison netted 18 points, Robert Mahoney meshed 15, and Ricky Flowers posted 14. However, the Westerners' Walter Hanibal was high point man for the game with 25 points. The only other WTC lad in twin figures was Steve Sparks, who roped 14. Sparks looked good driving in and shooting from the corner.

"Turnovers also hurt us," said Simpson. WTC lost the ball 23 times, mostly in the second half.

Western hit only 29 of 68 for 42 per cent from the field. At the line, they put in 18 of 28 for 64 per cent.

Hardin-Simmons also dominated the boards, led by Jamison and Jerry Jarnigan, 6-8 post man from Phillips. Hanibal was the leading rebounder for WTC with 17. Ralph Jackson, post man from Brownfield Union, collected nine.

The lead changed three times and the score was tied three times in the second half before the Buttons hit a hot streak to pull away. Wood, Mahoney and Jamison are three of the best shooters ever to appear here.

Tuesday the Westerners have their work cut out for them. They host Frank Phillips Junior College. Phillips defeated Howard County last night.

The loss drops WTC to 8-11 for the season while the visitors went away with a 6-7 mark and a 4-game winning streak.

Three Share Honolulu Lead

HONOLULU (AP)—"That's about as good as I know how to play," Chunky Bob Murphy said after posting a sparkling 65 for a three-way share of the top spot in the rich Hawaiian Open golf tournament.

"The last three rounds I've played, I've missed two greens by a total of four yards. That's about as good as I can play," the red-haired Murphy reported Thursday after moving into a tie with Dave Eichelberger and Grier Jones in the $200,000 event that offers a $40,000 first prize.

They were seven under par on the beautifully conditioned Waialae country Club course, but only one stroke in front of another half dozen players headed by Masters champion Charles Coody.

Travis Splits With B. Spring

Travis Junior High split a couple of basketball tilts with Big Spring teams here yesterday. The 9th graders whipped the Toros 126-51 and the 8th grade dropped a 54-34 decision to Goliad.

The 9th grade outscored the Toros while posting a season-high 126 points. Six Travis lads hit in double figures, led by Welton Cobb with an amazing 41 points. Larry Johns and Greg Gafford each roped 15. Robert Alderete posted 14, Danny Brumley made 11, and Willie Tippens put in 10. For the Toros, Gray pumped in 16 points and Whittington meshed 11.

Travis 8th and Goliad were tied, 23-23, at halftime, but the visitors held 12-4 and 19-7 advantages in each of the last two periods respectively to sack up the victory. Ricky Blakey was the only Travis lad in twin figures, and he had just 10 points. For the Toros, Zapp and Ray each netted 13.

Last night's games closed the season for Travis. The 9th grade finished with a 19-1 record while the 8th grade was 10-8.

Tigers Entertain Chiefs Tonight

"It's hard to bounce back, but the boys have a good attitude," said Bob Moore, coach of Snyder's Tigers, who will host Lake View's Chiefs in an 8 o'clock tilt tonight in the Scurry County Coliseum. Tipoff in the B team game is set for 6:15 p.m.

The Tigers are bound to be low after that close loss at Lamesa last Tuesday night, but the mark of a good team is how they react to adversity. And, the Tigers are a good team. They are 22-3 for the season and 2-1 in second half play in District 3-AAA. Lake View has lost more games than they've won and they are 0-3 in second half action.

"We really don't expect much trouble from them," said Coach Moore. Past history would indicate a one-sided contest. The Tigers thumped the Chiefs 82-39 in the first round. However, the Chiefs could afford a few surprises. They defeated Colorado City in the first round of play, and the Wolves almost upset Lamesa in the second round.

Probable starters for the Chiefs are Richard Palmer (6-2) and Monti Eady (6-2) at forward, Terry Martin (6-3) at center, and Tommy Jones (5-7) and Steve Smart (6-1) at guard.

Coach Moore will counter with his usual alignment, including Tommy Washington and Dub Preston at wing, Kent Horsley and Jerry Brooks at post, and Fred Liner at guard. Also ready to answer Coach Moore's call are wingmen Gary Brooks and David Thompson, post man Kevin Jones, and guards Jackie Murray, Mike Hinton and Charles Anderson.

The B team Bengals are 18-6 for the campaign and have a chance to win the B team crown. Possible starters for Coach Jim Bartlett's crew are guard Richard Gorman, post men Jimmy Dyess and Larry Mossier and wingmen Max Underwood and Darrell Morgan.

Lamar Loses 2 At Sweetwater

SWEETWATER — Lamar Junior High closed out the basketball season on an unhappy note last night with Sweetwater 9th taking a 68-43 decision and the host 8th grade winning, 43-37.

Sweetwater 9th took a 16-13 lead in the initial stanza and widened the gap in each succeeding period. Roy Carter and Sam Harrell sparked Lamar 9th with 14 and 10 points respectively while Hunt, Thompson, Rowan and Thomas tallied 26, 14, 11 and 10 points respectively for Sweetwater.

The first quarter of the 8th grade game ended in a 7-7 tie, but Lamar went ahead 21-17 in the second period and 28-26 in the third quarter. However, they blew it in the final period as Sweetwater held a 17-9 advantage. Randy Gressett led Lamar 8th with 15 points, but Sweetwater's Amos captured scoring honors with 19 points. His teammate, Palma, put in 11 points.

Lamar 9th finished the season with a 12-3 record while Lamar 8th closed with a 9-7 record.

Southern Kicks Aldridge Out

HOUSTON (AP) — Ellis Aldridge, leading scorer on the Texas Southern University basketball team, has been dismissed from the squad for "disciplinary reasons."

TSU coach Lavalius Gordon said Thursday that Aldridge might be allowed back next season "if his attitude changes."

Aldridge, a 6-foot-3 sophomore guard, had averaged 18.3 points in the Tigers' first 16 games this season. As a freshman last season he led the team with a 20.8 average.

Controversy, Mystery Companions Of Hughes

EDITOR'S NOTE—Controversy and mystery have been constant companions of billionaire industrialist Howard Hughes. But few things in his life have matched the bizarre events surrounding a book which purports to be his autobiography. Following is the last of four articles on The World of Howard Hughes.

By JAMES NORMAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For a man who probably has been more serious than any other in his steadfast pursuit of seclusion, billionaire Howard Hughes has a remarkable career as the center of controversies.

Living behind an elaborate cloak of secrecy that only a fortune of some $2 billion could buy, Hughes became a watched-for and hunted man.

Nothing, it seemed, could bring him out of his hiding places—the Beverly Hills mansion where he spent his time with his former wife Jean Peters, the carefully guarded penthouse in the Desert Inn in Las Vegas and finally the ninth floor of the Britannia Beach Hotel in the Bahamas.

Even in his more visible days as a Hollywood figure, Hughes generated controversy, tilting with censors, flouting movie conventions with the production of such films as "Scarface," and "The Outlaw."

The same was true with his career as a plane maker.

In 1953, Hughes, now 66, dropped from sight and hasn't been seen in public since—yet he remained at the center of intrigue.

Hughes refused to show up in court when Trans World Airlines charged him with mismanagement while he was the firm's majority stockholder. The result: TWA won a judgment of at least $137 million. But Hughes kept his privacy.

And wrapped in that secrecy, Hughes, in 1966 descended on Nevada and within four years—at which time he left in secrecy—had become the state's largest landowner and employer, around whom swirled a statewide debate.

But last Dec. 7, McGraw-Hill Book Co. announced it planned to publish the autobiography of the elusive billionaire. It was a publishing sensation. But once again, the Hughes penchant for privacy was to assert itself.

First, the Hughes Tool Co., led by its general counsel Chester Davis, denied such a book could be possible. It set up a long-distance telephone call said to be from Hughes in the Bahamas to seven Los Angeles newsmen. The man on the phone told the newsman he had never heard of Clifford Irving, the 41-year-old writer who claimed to have met Hughes for secret interviews as he collaborated on the work. The reporters agreed they had spoken with Hughes.

Irving, in New York, to give the galley proofs of the book a final once-over, said he was prepared to show numerous documents with Hughes' handwriting, authenticated by experts. There were two checks, endorsed by an "H.R. Hughes" and deposited in a Swiss bank account. Additionally, there were handwritten letters to Irving, allegedly from Hughes, and a nine-page letter to Harold McGraw, president of the publishing house. The experts also vouched for the many handwritten notations in the margins of the transcript Irving said he had typed from tape-recorded interviews with Hughes.

McGraw-Hill announced it intended to hold up publication until certain questions pertaining to the Swiss bank account were answered.

—Irving swore, in an explicitly detailed, 23-page affidavit, that he personally had handed two checks totaling $325,000 to Hughes and had given another check for $325,000 to a Hughes aide. Then the writer took off for his home on the Mediterranean island of Ibiza, saying he did not plan to return to the United States until there was a valid reason for him to do so.

—Word came from Switzerland that the H.R. Hughes who opened the Swiss Credit Bank account was not a gaunt, 6-foot-3 Texan but a blonde in her 30s carrying a forged Swiss passport in the name of Helga R. Hughes. Later reports said the woman was a brunette.

Hoping to return to the quietude of his 300-year-old peasant house, Irving instead found himself besieged by newsmen. Angered by suggestions that his lovely wife Edith, a Swiss painter, was the mysterious Helga, the writer threatened to sue anyone who implied that.

While bands of newsmen camped in the Irving living room for nearly a week and Swiss authorities asked the Irvings to come to Zurich for an investigation of fraud, Hughes maintained his splendid isolation on an island in the Bahamas.

Irving returned to New York less than a week after he left, and with him came his wife and their two young sons, Barnaby and Nedsky, and there were these further developments:

—Irving disclosed through his lawyer that his wife had opened the Swiss account in the name of H.R. Hughes and had withdrawn the $650,000, placing it "substantially intact" in another Swiss account.

—Irving's friend and attorney, Martin S. Ackerman, announced that in the "best interest" of his client he was withdrawing from the case because he felt Irving at that stage needed a competent criminal lawyer.

—Irving's new attorney, Maurice Nessen, hustled the couple and their children out of their previous place of seclusion north of New York and into a new hideout.

If the events following that Dec. 7 announcement by McGraw-Hill appear confusing, the proliferating theories on what led up to it are positively James Bondian.

One scenario would have it exactly as Irving now says the whole thing happened: that he met with Howard Hughes at the times and locations specified in his affidavit, that he handed the checks to Hughes or an aide, but that because of some whim on the part of the billionaire, he agreed to take them back and have his wife deposit them and they withdrew the money, putting it into another account.

On the other extreme is the scenario that makes Irving the hoaxer who invented the details of his meetings with Hughes and how he obtained autobiographical material from him. Irving has rejected this theory and has steadfastedly maintained that the book is authentic.

Another proposed theory is that Irving was given a packet of material stolen from Hughes by a disgruntled former aide and that he ingeniously wove the documents into an autobiography in an interview format.

Life magazine, which had contracted to publish excerpts of the book in three installments, speculated that authentic material might have been stolen and given to Irving by "a disloyal or greedy employe."

Yet another theory is that Irving traveled through the United States and Mexico as he claims to have, meeting with and interviewing a man he believes was Hughes—in short, that he was duped by a band of impostors who would have had to include masterful actors with intimate knowledge of Hughes' life as well as a master forger.

House Okays Drug Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, after a shouting match and a close vote on jurisdictional control of treatment for addicted veterans, has united behind a $411-million plan for a three-year attack on drug abuse.

Supporters of a coordinated federal campaign climaxed a floor fight Thursday by overpowering advocates of a separate Veterans Administration program, 196 to 174. The House promptly passed the bill intact, 380 to 0.

This put the House at odds with the Senate, which had voted 92 to 0 last December in favor of a $1.5-billion, five-year approach to the same goal. A conference committee will write final terms.

Both versions would create a special White House action office for drug-abuse prevention to pull together scattered federal antidrug programs and determine unified federal policy.

But the Senate bill would have a new national institute on drug abuse handle the money.

The House measure aims money at target areas with major addiction problems, provides for a national training center, and links up a nationwide network of treatment centers.

The floor fight developed when Veterans Affairs Committee Chairman Olin Teague, D-Tex., offered an amendment to strip reference to Veterans Administration drug-treatment programs from the legislation.

The head of the White House office, Teague said, might become a dictator. But Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., shouted back: "This is the most-dangerous amendment in the fight against drug abuse that I have ever seen."

Insisting there is a need to unite all drug-treatment programs under one federal office to gain the most effective coordination, Rogers, chairman of the public health subcommittee, said: "The Veterans Administration does not know how to cure a drug addict ... we want all the experts in the country to come together.

Monster Subject Of Movie

By DALA McKINSEY
Associated Press Writer

FOUKE, Ark. (AP) — The monster that put this Miller County town of 394 residents on the map is going to be the subject of a full-length motion picture, "Tracking the Fouke Monster," to be released this spring.

Charles Pierce, who is producing the movie, says it will not be a tongue-in-cheek look at the monster.

While the matter has been treated lightly by some, with even more than 100 "Fouke Forever" T-shirts being distributed by Little Rock Radio Station KAAY, Pierce does not think it is a laughing matter.

"I believe that the people in Fouke are fine Christian people," he said. "Most of them would not tell you a story.

"There has been a lot of humiliation and joking because people are laughing about it," Pierce said. "We intend, under no instances, to humiliate those people. We are going to tell it as they tell it to us, with them on the set."

Not only are the Fouke residents going to advise the producers of the film—they are going to do some acting.

However, the monster is not going to be used.

He has not shown himself in several months. Or at least if he has, Fouke residents have been reluctant to discuss him with newsmen.

For scenes that call for the monster, a man is dressed in a gorilla suit, but a spokesman for P and L Productions in Texarkana, who are making the movie, say that they are only using the shadow of the monster.

The Fouke monster came to the attention of news media last spring when Bobby Ford, 25, and his family moved into a home at the north edge of Fouke on U.S. 71.

One evening Ford claims that the monster stuck a hairy paw through a window at the house and took a swipe at his wife, who was lying on a couch.

Jackie To Testify

NEW YORK (AP) — A lawyer for Jacqueline Onassis says she plans to testify during the nonjury trial of a $1.3-million damage suit brought against her by a free-lance photographer.

Simon Rifkind, lawyer for the former first lady, said Thursday he did not know whether Mrs. Onassis' children also would testify at the open trial to begin Feb. 14.

Mrs. Onassis has claimed in a suit, later dropped, that the activities of photographer Ronald E. Galella terrified her, her son John and her daughter Caroline. Galella's suit contends that Mrs. Onassis and Secret Service agents have interfered with his work.

In scheduling the trial, U.S. District Court Judge Irving Ben Cooper denied a request by Galella that the case be heard by a jury. Cooper said he would hear the case himself.

The judge said he intended to handle the trial in a manner that would give Mrs. Onassis, widow of President John F. Kennedy, "no more and no less than would be due if her name was plain Mrs. Jones."

Should the issue of damages be decided in Galella's favor, Cooper added, he would consider impanelling a jury to fix the amount.

Rifkind opposed a jury trial, telling the court it would mean "taking a little case and expanding it into a big case."

Dick Kinaman, who scouted for the Los Angeles Angels in 1971, will manage their Quad Cities team in the Midwest League this season.

SING HERE SUNDAY — The Singers of Hardin-Simmons University will sing in the Sunday morning worship services at First Baptist Church. The group is composed of, from left, Jim Jones, Larry Wolz, Bill Jackson, Tom Pack and Ted Burgess. They have appeared in church services and presented concerts in many cities.

TO PRESENT "NATURAL HIGH" SUNDAY NIGHT — This group of youth from the First Baptist Church in Big Spring will present the Christian rock musical, "Natural High," at 7 p.m. Sunday at Colonial Hill Baptist Church. "Natural High" is a contemporary religious musical done with special instrumentation, sound effects, choreography and lighting. Purpose of the play is to show that Christ is a reality and that the Christian faith is a sustaining "natural high." The 60-member cast is directed by Wally Shamburger, music director at the Big Spring church.

Be still

"O bless our God .. .which holdeth our soul in life." Psalm 66:9.

The indestructible soul of man, devoid of earthly pride,
Just where in the anatomy can such a gift reside?
Undying ego, divinely touched more than human clay.
That drives man on to seek his God 'till time shall pass away.
This inner light that is possessed by every human kind
Can it possibly reside within man's own subconscious mind?

GM Earnings Second Best

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has reported earnings of $1.9 billion for 1971, making it the company's second best year, and has started 1972 with a sales gallop.

GM disclosed in its financial report made public Thursday that sales in 1971 hit a record $28.3 billion compared to the previous high of $24.3 billion in 1969.

Last year's earnings were topped only by the $2.1 billion racked up in 1965.

For the first month of this year, GM reported a sales gain of 13.2 per cent in passenger cars and 68.2 per cent in trucks over the January 1971 figures.

The company has twice increased prices since the end of President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze last Nov. 12. GM estimated the two increases totaled 3.8 per cent and raised the price of its cars by an average of $132 each. But the automaker claims it still has been unable to recoup all added material and labor costs.

Earnings per share of $7.62 in 1971 compared with $2.09 in strike-beset 1970 and topped the $5.95 return of 1969. Profits were equivalent to $7.41 a share in 1965.

Instructors Sketched

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Don't be fooled by your instructor's pretty legs, Ron Watkins advises fellow Michigan State University students in his book, "The MSU Professor Rating and Coloring Book."

The 33-page guide offers 387 thumbnail sketches of faculty members.

"She has nice legs ... but should rely more on what's in her head than what's on her lecture notes," he says of one instructor.

Watkins writes another professor "must be a genius—he's over everyone's head," and another "lectures like a used car salesman."

Watkins, 28, a senior majoring in communication, says the sketches were drawn from professor rating forms he distributed to students last fall.

DESPITE GUARD DROP

Nixon Leaves Out Reserve Bonuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although military reserve strength still is falling, the Nixon administration has backed away from proposed enlistment and re-enlistment bonuses to stem the drop.

The action comes despite repeated statements by top officials that they have promoted the National Guard and Reserves to front rank in preparedness while cutting the regular armed forces toward their lowest level in nearly a quarter-century.

According to the latest reports, Guard-Reserve manpower slipped to nearly 44,000 below strength at the end of 1971 while draft calls were light and all signs pointed to a diminishing draft in the future.

Last year, Pentagon manpower chief Roger T. Kelley indicated the administration was preparing to recommend bonuses ranging up to $2,200, along with other incentives, in the new defense budget.

But when President Nixon sent his defense budget for fiscal 1973 to Capitol Hill last week there was no mention of bonuses.

Instead, Nixon said the impact of recent pay increases and other improvements on reserve enlistments "will be closely observed."

"Further incentives may be necessary in the future to assure manning levels and high combat readiness for our reserve forces," Nixon told Congress.

Since the budget message, it was learned the Kelley has written a House Armed Services subcommittee saying: "I want to take full advantage of this period of light draft pressure to determine whether we need such incentives as variable re-enlistment and enlistment bonuses."

Kelley said an evaluation should be possible by mid-April.

The defense-manpower boss noted that many men who have enlisted for one year did so expecting a bonus for re-enlisting in the Guard or Reserve.

He acknowledged that the draft has been "virtually eliminated as motivation" for enlisting in the Guard and Reserve because only about 10,000 young men were inducted in the last three months of 1971. On top of that, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has announced there will be no draft calls during the first three months of this year.

"We recognize that if the current shortfall trend is not abated by higher pay and accelerated recruiting," Kelley said, "it will be necessary to request authority to use bonuses to stimulate reserve enlistment and re-enlistment or, as a last resort, to draft people into the Reserve."

Ministers Set Meeting Monday

The Scurry County Ministerial Alliance will meet Monday at the Steak House. Speakers for the meeting will be Judge Preston Wilson and two high school principals. All ministers are urged to attend.

Blonde Named Miss SWTSU

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — Kaye Alexander, an 18-year-old green-eyed blonde singer, was named Miss Southwest Texas State University late Friday night and will represent her school in the Miss Texas pageant.

Miss Alexander, who measures 34-24-34 is a sophomore elementary education major and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Alexander of San Marcos.

First runnerup was Jeanie Boome, 20, of Gatesville, a brown-eyed brownette with 36-24-37 measurements. She is a senior elementary education major and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Boome of Gatesville.

Jenice Graham, 18, a blue-eyed brunette, from San Antonio was named second runnerup. An art major, she has 36-26-36 measurements and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Graham of San Antonio.

Gail Kapalski, 20, of West Columbia, a hazel-eyed blonde and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.J. Kapalski was named Miss Congeniality by the other entrants in the pageant.

Every man can help some boy to measure up; to keep his feet on the ground, his heart courageous and his compass pointed to the tasks ahead. And if it is my boy you have helped, I shall be everlastingly glad. Every father will join me in saying, "God Bless You." Best of all, the Heavenly Father will know and be quick to say, "My Son saved a world, and who knows what the son you help will do for good." Boys clubs and concerned women and men are contributing time and wealth to help your boy and mine start right. Every man can hold his head higher if he can remember that he helped a boy measure up to his true potential.
