

Spelling champ wins with 'cambist'

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Paola, an eighth grader from Glenshaw, Pa., misspelled three words but then won the 50th National Spelling Bee by correctly spelling "cambist," a word he had never heard before.

With the field of 94 reduced to two finalists, John emerged the winner by correctly spelling "sesquipedalian" after runner-up Joan O'Leary misspelled it. He then followed with cambist, a word dealing with tables of exchange.

Joan, an eighth grader in St. Joseph's school in Yonkers, N.Y., misspelled only two words — the other being "yizkor," the Jewish service for commemorating the dead — but John won it by correctly spelling two words.

John wins $1,000 and a color television set. His school will receive a plaque. Joan will receive a $500 check at Friday's awards banquet.

John, who placed 22nd in last year's national bee, said, "I was scared, mostly today, when I started to miss."

"The last word, I figured out what it was because I had never heard it before."

He said that he had been trying to get to the national finals for three years and that his experience paid off in the end.

Under contest rules, when only two spellers are left, the second contestant gets a chance to spell a word missed by his opponent.

If he fails the competition goes on. But if he spells that word correctly and also the next one he is declared the winner.

After they missed veery, both also misspelled "futtock," which is a curved timber on an old wooden ship, and "yizkor." Joan incorrectly spelled "sesquipedalian" and John followed with the correct version and "cambist."

Today's final round took less than one hour. It began with 26 contestants who survived seven rounds yesterday.

Joseph Funic of North Olmsted, Ohio, got the $250 third prize, dropping out after he misspelled "trage" as "trieche."

In fourth place was Roxanne Taylor, an eighth grader from Forest Hills, N.Y., who missed "meconeter" which is an instrument used to measure a newborn child.

One of the 12-year-olds making it into today's final rounds sailed through equivocate, balbriggan, ensuith and outosarcoma. Another of the 26 survivors of Wednesday's opening rounds went through quarantine, panegyric, aquanaut and anaphylaxis.

It was a tough first day even for the pre-teens and 13- and 14-year-olds who had gotten to the 50th National Spelling Bee by surviving competition from an estimated eight million others.

A record field of 94 started, and 17 girls and nine boys were still around for more today after seven rounds and 536 words.

The spelling bee organizers compile all manner of statistics. "The average number of children in the family of a '77 finalist is 3.2. The average family size last year was 3.4. It required a total of 527 words to decide the 76 competition. Sponsoring newspapers in this year's spelling bee represent 37 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands."

Missing from that litany (one of Wednesday's words) is the pressure, mounting with each round, and the barely concealed disappointment and self-reproach when a bell signals a misspelled word and elimination.

At what other event does audience applause go mostly to the losers?

These were some of the scenes Wednesday.

—Jana Schroeder of Vandalia, Ohio, legally blind from birth, walking confidently and unaided to the microphone at center stage five times to spell correctly quilt, tepid, granule, cicada and wooter. But then, in the sixth round, she had "bummer" as "bumber." At that moment, she was everybody's disappointed 14-year-old.

—Stephen Glasgow, 13, from Circleville, Ohio, getting the bell for spelling "symbiosis" as "symbiosis" only to get a reprieve when the judges ruled the official pronouncer had mispronounced the word to include the offending "i" syllable. Wide grins in the room.

—Theresa Walla of Lewistown, Mont., six rounds behind her, beginning "flexuosity" with "fleu" and walking off with a disgusted "oh, shoot."

—Lyndon Bond of Hartwell, Ga., so careful in rounds one through four that he hesitated four seconds between each letter, asking the pronouncer a dozen times to repeat "phlegm." When he finally spelled "phlam" and was thrown out, Lyndon snarled at the pronouncer "I thought you said phlam!"

Committee nixes car buyer rebate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee today rejected President Carter's proposed rebates to motorists who buy fuel-efficient cars but indicated it might accept a watered-down version of his tax on gas-guzzling autos.

The 31-5 vote against the rebates was a heavy blow to Carter's long-range energy conservation program. Other key parts of the tax package also are in trouble.

Members of the committee viewed the rebate scheme as unworkable because a large portion of the money would be paid to buyers of foreign cars.

After knocking down the rebate, the committee began considering a new staff plan that would replace Carter's proposed tax on gas-guzzling cars. Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the committee, endorsed the staff's proposed compromise, but the Carter administration had no immediate response to it.

The compromise would delay the new tax until the start of the 1979 model year and even then the mileage standards required of new cars would be far below those proposed by Carter.

For example, Carter suggested that 1978 cars be required to get at least 18 miles to the gallon or purchasers would face a tax on less efficient models. The compromise would postpone the standards for a full year.

But in 1979, instead of the 18-mile-per-gallon standard suggested by Carter, no car would face the new tax unless it got less than 15 miles per gallon. The tax then would be between $339 and $553.

In 1985, no tax would be imposed except on models getting less than 23.5 miles per gallon. Carter wanted the tax on all models with less than 27.5 miles per gallon. But instead of Carter's proposed $2,488 tax on the least efficient models, the compromise would impose a tax of $3,856.

No matter what happens to the gas-guzzler tax, auto manufacturers still would face several penalties unless mileage standards already written into law are met. That law requires efficiency of at least 18 miles per gallon in 1978, rising to at least 27.5 miles per gallon in 1985.

The committee finished its second day of work on Carter's energy-tax proposals Wednesday. One opponent, Rep. Joe Waggoner, D-La., said 20 of the 37 members of the panel were ready to vote against the so-called gas-guzzler tax.

Working on Carter's other energy tax proposals, the panel approved a tax credit of up to $400 for persons who improve the fuel efficiency of their homes and a credit of up to $2,000 for purchasers of home heating and cooling systems powered by the sun or wind.

In both cases, the credits proposed by Carter were rejected in favor of versions offered by committee members.

The rebate and gas-guzzler tax are key elements of the far-reaching energy program Carter spelled out on April 20. Another major provision — a standby gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon — also is in deep trouble.

In an effort to reduce U.S. gasoline consumption 10 per cent by 1985, Carter asked Congress to impose a gradually increasing tax of up to $2,500 on cars that get poor gasoline mileage.

Officers-turned-witnesses

A hit-and-run accident, "witnessed" by six area law enforcement officers, is under investigation at the Pampa Police Department today. The accident was staged when half of the officers attending a 40-hour traffic accident investigation school were in the field to measure skid marks on E. 25th Street. Larry C. King, Pampa Patrolman, was struck by an unidentified vehicle while the other officers were measuring skid marks nearby. "Witnesses" coming to King's aid were, from left, Johnny Bennett, Pampa patrolman; Steven Goodman, Borger patrolman; Howard Thompson, Spearman patrolman; Carol Elliot, Pampa records clerk; David Hodges, Pampa patrolman, and Ronnie Duck, Pampa. Officers from the Pampa, Spearman and Borger police departments and the Carson County Sheriff's Office have been in Pampa since Monday attending the school which is being instructed by James Ball and Robert Riemschneider, both with the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement in Austin. The course was organized by the Panhandle Regional Law Enforcement Academy in Amarillo and instruction centers on study of skid marks, determination of drag factors, determining vehicle speed by skid marks and filling out accident reports properly. Officers completing the course will receive intermediate or advanced certification in law enforcement.

Wallace resigns as assistant chief

By JEANNE GRIMES
Pampa News Staff

The Pampa Police Department will be re-organized into three major divisions in the wake of Assistant Chief George Wallace's resignation which was announced today.

Wallace, a 17-year veteran in law enforcement, submitted his resignation to Pampa Police Chief Richard Mills Tuesday. It will be effective at 5 p.m. July 6.

In announcing the assistant chief's action, Mills said, "It is with regret that I accept this resignation of Assistant Chief Wallace. George is a dedicated officer, an excellent investigator and a valued personal friend."

"His services will be missed by the police department and myself personally. However, I certainly understand his desire for a better financial life for himself and wish him the best."

Wallace wrote his decision to leave the Pampa Police Department "has not been an easy one to make." He said the Department "is one of the best departments that can be found anywhere."

The veteran law enforcement officer said he was resigning to devote more time to expanded farming operations and "other business ventures."

"And I have not completely ruled out getting into some kind of private investigation work," he said.

Mills said the assistant chief's job will remain vacant for the time being. Starting Monday, Lt. Robert Scott will be transferred to command the department's service division.

"George will instruct and assist Bob Scott in learning what he needs to know in his new assignment," Mills said.

In the re-organized department, Mills said, lieutenants will command patrol, criminal investigation and service divisions. The service division encompasses records, communications, vehicle maintenance, personnel, purchasing, animal control and other duties that do not fall under patrol or criminal investigation.

Wallace was hired by the Pampa Police Department as a patrolman in 1960 and in 1961 he left Pampa to accept a police job at Farmers Branch. He left Farmers Branch after two years and returned to Pampa. Wallace was promoted to sergeant in 1964 and to lieutenant in 1967. He was named assistant chief in 1968.

Mills said Wallace has held "every position in the Pampa Police Department a commissioned officer can hold."

"George has worn several hats here in the department," the chief said.

Judge calls hearing 'housekeeping'

By THOM MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

A pre-trial hearing on a suit to force redistricting of Gray County commissioner precincts was moved behind the door of 31st District Judge Grainger McIlhenny's office this morning.

He called the meeting with the attorneys representing the two sides of the issue "a housekeeping thing."

Wayne Barfield of Amarillo represents the petitioners in the suit which was filed in late 1976 by Ralph Prock and others.

Defendants in the suit include Commissioners Joe Clarke of Precinct 1, Jim McCracken of Precinct 3 and Ted Simmons of Precinct 4. Don Hinton, currently serving as county judge, was Precinct 2 commissioner when the suit was filed. He is named as a defendant along with former County Judge Don Cain, currently serving as judge of the 21st District.

Clarke did not run for reelection and no longer is Precinct 1 Commissioner.

Representing the defendants in the case is Pampa attorney Bill Waters.

In the suit filed Nov. 18, 1976, Prock asks that the Commissioner precincts of Gray County be reapportioned as nearly "as is practicable on the general principle of substantial numerical equality."

He included in the suit figures from the 1970 census in an effort to show the precincts are not evenly divided in population.

The 1970 Gray County census shows a total population of 26,949.

"The City of Pampa (which is situated wholly within Precinct 2) has a population of 21,726," Prock said. And he stated in the petition that the rural area of the county has a total population of 5,223 persons.

The plaintiffs contend that less than 20 per cent of the total population is represented by 75 per cent of the Commissioners Court.

In his request for redistricting Prock said the figures "indicate that the voting power of many citizens of Gray County is diluted and they are deprived of their rightful and equal representation on the Commissioners Court, all of which is contrary to the spirit and intent of Article 1, Sections 1, 2 and 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas and the Constitution of the United States."

Judge McIlhenny said this morning that "at this stage neither side has requested a jury to be impaneled so it apparently will be a non-jury case."

He said that each side's pleadings and opinions of the case were reviewed.

"I wasn't asked to make any rulings and I didn't make any," he said.

Trial date for the case is set for June 28.

Airport bill $1 1/2 million

By TIM PALMER
Pampa News Staff

Increased airport activity in Gray County resulting from increased economic activity may warrant $500,000 in improvements in county air facilities, officials said today.

The figure is a planning estimate not based on engineering research, they said.

At a Texas Airport System Plan regional planning meeting this morning at City Hall, George Dresser of the Texas Transport Institute suggested the development of the main runway, 1129, at Perry Lefors Field near Pampa into a 40-R. taxiway.

Other plans included an overlay of runway 1735 and a long-range plan to extend that runway.

Texas Aeronautics Commission officials added, however, that government funds for airport improvements are limited, and money may not be available for the improvements at Pampa for three or four years.

Harold Goodwin of TAC in Austin said $150 million is needed for airport improvements in the next 20 years.

Pampa mayor Jimmy Wilkerson said city population and economic development have been on the increase for the past few years, and "we anticipate this to continue for the next couple of years."

He cites the Celanese Chemical Co. transition from gas to coal as one example of situations causing increased air traffic in the area.

Increased activity at the McLean airport may necessitate extension of the runway by 1100 feet, Dresser said. The county would have to purchase the land north of the runway in order to extend the runway.

Dresser added, however, that the need for the extension may be "five to 10 years" in the future.

Funds for airport development are available from the Texas Airport Aid Program and TAC Planning and Engineering Assistance on the state level.

Federal funds are available from the Planning Grant Program and the Airport Development Aid Program.

Beginning in 1979, 80 cents in federal funds will be provided for every 20 cents of local funds.

The morning meeting conducted by the Texas Aeronautics Commission included discussions for improvement needs at airports in Wheeler, Roberts, Carson and Hemphill counties as well.

Charged in rape

BORGER — A 26-year-old Fort Worth man has been jailed in Hutchinson County in lieu of a $25,000 bond on a rape charge.

Borger Police Chief Arthur Wright said this morning Melvin Gardner has been charged with the rape of a 25-year-old woman early Saturday in her Borger home.

The chief said Gardner had been in Borger "three or four weeks." He moved here from Fort Worth.

Gardner was one of two suspects taken to Amarillo by Hutchinson County law enforcement officers Wednesday for polygraph examinations into the Saturday rape and the stabbing death of Mrs. Abbe Rodgers Hamilton of Borger on May 3.

Lon Blackmon, Hutchinson

County sheriff, said the polygraph cleared one of the suspects in the Hamilton murder and Gardner was charged with the rape.

Mrs. Hamilton's death is thought by some law enforcement officers to be the work of so-called "traveling rapist" although Sheriff Blackmon again stressed an autopsy on the pregnant woman "did not produce evidence to prove or disprove rape."

Rewards for information leading to the conviction of Mrs. Hamilton's murderer have reached more than $17,000. The sheriff said there are no new leads in the case.

"The only thing we know right now," Sheriff Blackmon said, "is we know a lot of people who didn't do it."

Postal inconveniences

Benjamin Bailar, the postmaster general, is pushing now for a definite postal increase from 13 cents to 16 cents and a probable reduction in "services" from six days to five days a week. Bailar cites ever-rocketing costs of delivery for the new impositions.

Magnanimously, Bailar says he will not seek more subsidies from Congress, for that would be an extra burden to taxpayers. Instead, he says it is more just for the users of the mails themselves to pay the costs in postage. As a thing to say, that is nice.

But it is not correct. Postage is a tax because it happens to be a monopoly price. True, if any tax can be called "fair," a users' tax is the most likely candidate. But so long as the government requires that people make use of only one instrument for sending their post, and mandates only one non-competitive price for the privilege, the comfort is small. Present postage is but a users' tax in addition to the taxes earmarked for the post office subsidy.

And postage still goes for the payment of thousands and thousands of government employees who know not the rigors of competition. Hence, the ever-widening gap between performance and consumer satisfaction.

We seem to make the point incessantly, but when some top-echelon bureaucrat like Bailar proposes to inconvenience us anew it occasions repetition. Nationalization of an industry is always justified because it is "essential" to our wellbeing, therefore we supposedly cannot allow the private market the chance to take a day off or raise rates.

In fact it is historically nationalized industry that inconveniences us the most. Bailar is merely following a pattern. Nowhere in his warnings of higher costs and his ingratiating suggestion that costs should be spread fairly does he bring himself to the logical conclusion: the free market.

A users' tax is only a clumsy approximation of the free market, which actually is a shorthand way of defining the fair spread of costs. There is a powerfully compelling expedient which Congress can take to relieve the aching old post office of its inequities and inefficiencies while bringing postage down in a competitive spiral. Simple: Pass Rep. Philip Crane's bill to repeal the first-class monopoly, and allow the free market to carry the mail for those who would rather take their chances with it.

Rights versus the majority

Leading candidate for the title of catch phrase of 1977 has to be "majority rule."

If only the bullheaded, white-dominated regimes of South Africa and Rhodesia would concede power gracefully to their black majorities, everything would be dandy on that continent, we are told.

Andrew Young, our highly quotable ambassador to the U.N. who seems to create a new diplomatic flap every day, recently branded the government of South Africa as "illegitimate" because "just a few million people make decisions about a nation of more than 20 million."

But black Americans of whom Young is one, should of all people be realistic about majority rule, submits a South African newspaper correspondent in this country.

Since black Americans live as a minority in a white majority, and white South Africans are destined to live as a minority in a black majority, the two actually share a common lot, says Henry Katzew. Because of their own experience, black Americans could be a catalyst for greater understanding between white and black in South Africa. Yet there are increasingly strident stalls for majority rule.

"What are you fighting for?" he asks. "For human rights in South Africa or majority rule?" It may not even turn out to be majority rule, but rule in the name of the majority by self-appointed black dictators or oligarchies.

Unfortunately, we can already guess the answer. When majority rule does come, either peacefully or through bloodshed, will Andrew Young and others who are so concerned about "human rights" in those countries fall as suddenly silent as they now are about the victims of "legitimate" black tyrants like Idi Amin?

Between the years 1820 and 1971 the United States received an estimated 45,533,116 immigrants.

Nation's press

'ERDA-gate' coverup uncovered by Journal

(Wall Street Journal) We were frankly astounded at the reaction to our April 27 editorial, "1001 Years of Natural Gas," telephone messages from high officials, a deputation from Exxon, an urgent letter from Robert F. acting administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration. Naturally, the attention made us curious.

Having put together most of the pieces, we can now report on the cause of the excitement. Deep in the bowels of ERDA, an outfit called the Market Oriented Program Planning Study (MOPPS) had solved the energy crisis for five days in April. It took that long for the administration, the oil companies and ERDA to sniff out the solution and get the crisis back on the track. They thought they had driven a wooden stake through the heart of the MOPPS solution, but here in our editorial the monster was rising again.

In January, about 70 ERDA people were thrown into a task force to study potential supply and demand. In most resource studies, such a thing as prices never appears. So apparently nobody thought it was necessary to warn the MOPPS people against calculating supply curves, that is, calculating how much gas would be available at different prices in an unregulated environment. In their innocence, they tried to apply a little economics.

The study estimated that at $2.25 per thousand cubic feet (mcf) the nation would be awash in natural gas. From $2.50 to $3 we'd be engulfed with it. MOPPS reckoned that at $2.50 the U.S. would have about 45 years worth of natural gas at current levels of consumption. The price would have to go higher to tap some of the unconventional sources, like geopressed methane, which conceptually would last us for a thousand years. But why would anyone worry about these exotic sources if we had 45 years worth of the usual stuff likely to be available at lower prices?

Indeed if that were true how could there be an energy crisis? How could the President go on television with ringing calls for sacrifice? Why should American taxpayers be scared into coughing up billions of dollars—something like 5 per cent of GNP—to cause conservation? How could Exxon recoup its investments in gasification research and coal properties by supplying gas from these sources at $3.75 per mcf?

The innocent scientists and technicians in MOPPS had no idea what vested interests their simple calculations threatened. Even more to the point, bearing this unwanted message to the White House would be a black mark against the ERDA bureaucracy. The Federal Energy Administration would be in a position to gobble up all of the best spots when the two were merged into the new Department of Energy.

Given these realities, there was only one answer to the no-energy-crisis crisis. The ERDA brass recalled the MOPPS study, and threw out all the charts that had been so innocently put together over the months. By April 6, it had a "revised" MOPPS study, with the charts looking much like those from the FEA.

In these five days, the price projections jumped so high that the energy crisis was back in business. Mr. Carter's regulated gas price of $1.75 looked good, because MOPPS II showed that higher prices in an unregulated market won't do much good anyway. And surely it would be prudent to give Exxon and other coal-gasification people a few billion dollars of tax money to spend on their plants.

A higher price can even be given to exotic sources like geopressed methane. Mr. FEA assures us ERDA will do the research on that. Gas sources of two or three generations hence do not threaten anyone. The problem is allowing prices of ordinary gas to rise into the $1.75-$3.00 range, where if MOPPS I is right they would bring on the next generation of gas at threateningly low prices. While promising to do the research, ERDA has disbanded the MOPPS I crew, reassigning its members to study almost anything else but natural gas.

Now we have no idea whether the price figures in MOPPS I are correct. It is certainly possible for other groups in the administration to dispute them in all good faith. And clearly Exxon has made serious investment decisions on the basis of other numbers though perhaps tempered with "political reality." But to us the MOPPS I estimates seem not at all implausible, given the one thing we know for sure about natural gas: Since the Phillips decision in 1954 its price has been held at not only artificially but, in recent years, ridiculously low levels. Most of the gas found has only been a by-product of oil exploration. It stands to reason that if looking for gas suddenly becomes profitable a lot will suddenly be found. But the point is—the point of our original editorial was—that no one will know until the price is deregulated.

MOPPS certainly does show, though, how many vested interests need the energy crisis. The President needs a war to fight. Without an energy crisis the energy bureaucracies cannot grow. The energy companies are turning into a regulated industry, all of which try to dampen innovation. We now hear energy czar James Schlesinger bragging that privately most companies do not favor deregulation. This is not yet true, but in time the proposed policies certainly would reduce the oil companies to the state of the airlines.

With all of this clout behind the energy crisis, it is scarcely surprising that a crude but effective message goes out: By gosh, boys, there has to be an energy crisis, so don't nobody find no energy.

Newspaper editor surveys his mail

Uncle Sam is prolific pen pal

By Al Zdon

One of the daily routines at the Tribune, as at many businesses in town, is for someone to trudge down to the Post Office each day to pick up the mail.

The majority of the letters the editorial department receives every day are from people who have some sort of news for us. The majority of those with news for us, by far, are the various state, federal and local government units and agencies.

In an effort to find out how much government mail the Tribune receives we decided to keep track for one month. From Apr. 6 to May 5 the Tribune received 453 letters, packages, post-cards, books, magazines, pamphlets and other mailables from our various governments.

The mail came from 86 different agencies and units which tends to lend weight to the statements by President Carter and others that our government is getting a little spread out.

Of those 86, the state of Minnesota led the way with 39 different offices or agencies sending us their valuable information. There were 30 federal units and 17 local units represented in our mailbox.

The Minnesota House of Representatives was the runaway leader in the mailbox derby. Over the one-month span they sent the Tribune 52 letters.

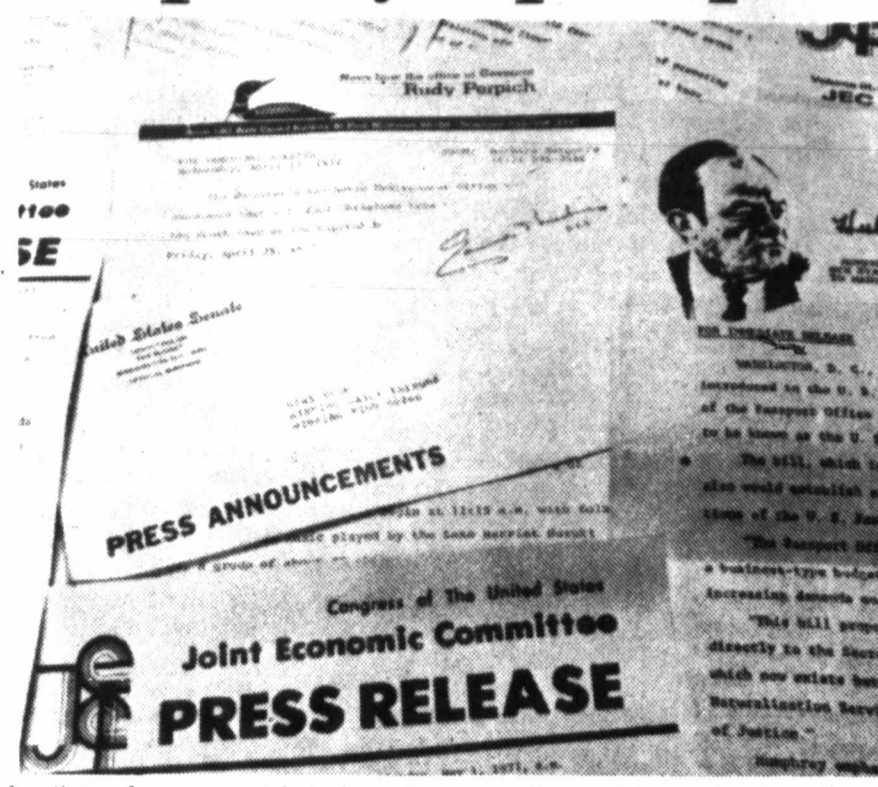

The University of Minnesota in the Twin Cities finished a poor second with 32 missives, followed closely by its sister the University of Minnesota at Duluth with 26. In fourth place was the University of Minnesota Agricultural Extension Agency with 24.

Finishing strong were the U.S. Senate with 19, the Minnesota Senate with 17, the U.S. House with 15, U.S. Army, the Navy, General Services Administration and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, 10 each.

Topping the frequency list locally were Hibbing Community College with nine, District 701 (Hibbing schools) seven, the St. Louis County Health Department with six and the St. Louis County Heritage and Arts Center and the Hibbing Public Library with four each.

Hardly anyone will deny that one of the functions of government is to keep the people informed of its doings through the press. The purpose of our survey was to find out, however, whether there might be too much of a good thing.

If every piece of mail sent to us cost the government 13 cents then the total cost to Uncle Sam would be $58.89. Since a good percentage of the mail was larger manila envelopes or booklets that cost more to send, then $60 per month would not be too far off for an average.

That means that it costs about $720 per year to keep us informed. Multiply that by the 25 daily newspapers in the state and you get $18,000 per year. And then there are about 130 television and radio stations. And there are about 350 weekly newspapers in the state.

But perhaps that's pretty cheap, by government standards, for letting us know what's up.

That is, providing that they had something to say that was worthwhile. Most of the mail did have some pertinence, however remote, to our area. Some of the mail did not.

The Congressional Joint Economic Committee wrote to say that "multilateral development banks should assist the developing countries' adjustment to higher energy costs by financing projects to exploit domestic energy resources and to create efficient export and import-competing industries." Very interesting.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey wrote to say that he favors transferring the functions of the passport office to a new agency of the Department of State. That was a timely tidbit.

The governor's office took time out to let us know that the governor would be planting a tree in the courtyard of the Pinecrest Elementary School in Hastings. Unfortunately we could not attend.

The National Endowment for the Humanities wrote to tell Iron Rangers who the "Chinese Painting Delegation to the People's Republic of China" will be this year. There were no Hibbingites on the list.

Finally, Rep. Bud Shuster of Pennsylvania sent us an 11-page letter just to say that he opposes the Youth Camp Safety Act now before Congress.

In the midst of this epic piece of reasoning, Shuster took time out to philosophize. "It seems, too, that we in the Congress have a duty to the American people not to squander their money. It's money that was hard earned, and it ought to be well-spent." Well said, Rep. Shuster.

Your Birthday

Dealings you have with large groups or corporations could be quite lucky for you this year. Don't be intimidated by the size of the entity you're approaching.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A busy day is in store for you, but don't let it concern you. The more things you have to juggle, the better you perform.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try not to overplay your hand or be too assertive today. Your advantage lies in letting others come to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be both hopeful and positive today. If you can maintain an optimistic outlook, things happen the way you want them to.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Luck may play an active and fortunate role in your affairs today. This plus your tenacity and imagination should make you a winner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Where others may see only the dark side, you see rays of sunshine. Thus you can bring hope into people's lives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Ally yourself with powerful associates and depend on them to lead the interference today. They'll get you over the goal line where you couldn't yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Doing what comes naturally today and being tactful and cooperative with others will get you just about anything you set your mind on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Dedicated work toward the achievement of some goal can be fruitful for you today. The possibility of large gains is very promising.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If there's someone influential who could be an important contact try to mix socially with him today. You'll benefit from a closer relationship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Initially things may not go exactly as you programmed them. Don't let this dismay you. You're a far stronger finisher than you are a starter.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Just because people do things a certain way doesn't mean that you should follow suit. Be imaginative and creative and you'll think of something better.

Income tax protestor tells how it's done

By THOM MARSHALL, Pampa News Staff
 Dr. A.B. Tibbetts of Amarillo has not paid any federal income taxes since the last quarter of 1972 and Tuesday evening 40 Pampanas gathered in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room to hear him tell his story.

"There's about 13 million of us," Dr. Tibbetts said. "The tax revolt has shaped up." He was speaking of the estimated total number of tax protesters in the nation, not of his organization's membership. The speaker opened the three-hour meeting by listing several items of government expenditure. "Think how many years of taxes it would take for you to pay for just one of these boondoggles," he said. Speaking of a $100,000 government funded study on matchbooks, Tibbetts emphasized, "If you're paying $2,000 a year in income taxes you only have to work for 50 years to pay for that little project." He told of a project in Del Rio where the government gave away 550 chickens and he said the cost of the federal program was $58 per chicken. Dr. Tibbetts compared the runaway inflation in America to the situation in Germany "when it took a wheelbarrow full of these (holding a dollar bill aloft) to buy a loaf of bread."

"I wouldn't have a bank account if I had to carry my money around in a paper sack," Dr. Tibbetts said. "I haven't had one in 17 years and I won't have one for the rest of my life." He said that in order to exercise rights granted under the Fourth and Fifth Amendments of the Constitution, a person must control his own records. Tibbetts told the audience that banks can be liable to a lawsuit if they turn records over to IRS agents involved in a criminal investigation. "If I find out I was under criminal investigation I will sue the bank," he stated and cited a similar case in California recently settled out of court for $1 million.

The incident occurred, Tibbetts said, when a pair of the agents called on him at his office "about two and a half months ago." He said they asked to speak to him alone. "They want to get you in private," he said. "One of them lies and the other one swears to it... I said 'No, I'd rather have some witnesses.'" Tibbetts urged members of his audience not to be intimidated by the IRS. "If you're called for an audit and you go in there with two or three witnesses and a tape recorder I'll guarantee you there won't be an audit... They lie, they steal, they pick locks, they break and enter... The IRS hired prostitutes in Florida to gather tax information on people... Stand on your rights and the IRS boys will make a wide circle around you... They want you to come in there like a little sheep and bring all your records... They hate it when you put the shoe on their foot." But Tibbetts warned his audience, "You should not do this without knowledge. You should not do this if you're fearful. The way to get rid of this fear is to read... Knowledge dispels fear and the truth shall make you free."

As the meeting concluded, the doctor offered published material for sale and encouraged the non-UTAP members of the audience to join the organization. "We don't have unlimited funds like the government," he said, "But when you join an organized group, you get a lot of advantages." Tibbetts said that witnesses are provided to accompany any UTAP member called up for a tax audit, Advice and financial help also are made available to members. It costs $50 admission fee to get into UTAP and dues are $100 per year — increasing to $200 annually in July.

Twirling award

Rolle Jean Welch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Welch of Pampa, recently won a first place award at the National Baton Twirling Association, American League, Texas State Twirling Contest in Lubbock. Miss Welch is a student of Bob Murphy, feature twirler for the University of Oklahoma and senior national champion in one and two baton.

The audience was about evenly divided between wage earners and self-employed Pampanas. There were almost as many women present as men. At one point in the meeting a questioner asked how many members of the audience had stopped paying income tax. Seven or eight hands went up. "We advocate that you should file a tax return," Tibbetts said, "because the Supreme Court says you must file a tax return... But they don't tell you what to put on it." Tibbetts said he files a Fifth Amendment return whereupon he answers no questions that might tend to incriminate him. To help would-be protesters muster the courage to join the movement, Tibbetts said, "They're going to come after me long before they come after you. At one time it was said there were seven agents working on me in Midland." While living in Midland, Dr. Tibbetts learned that IRS agents had gone to a bank and asked to see his records. They found little about Dr. Tibbetts on file.

Speaking of Internal Revenue Service agents, Dr. Tibbetts asked "How do they usually extract money from you?" Then he answered himself, "with fear, threats, intimidation, coercion." He said that since he stopped paying his income tax, "in all these years I've had one eyeball to eyeball confrontation with an IRS agent."

Mental suspect freed

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — William T. Crouch, who was found innocent of murdering his Pima County jail inmate by reason of insanity three months ago, has been released from the Arizona State Hospital. Crouch, 25, left the institution May 7 to live with his father and stepmother at their Pecos, Tex. farm, officials said Tuesday. Crouch said he helps his father in land development and sees a psychiatrist every week. "He definitely helps me," Crouch said. "I like to talk with him about everything." Crouch was diagnosed as paranoid schizophrenic when he was confined in a 6 by 8-foot cell with University of Arizona freshman Paul Simon on February 5, 1975. Simon was beaten and strangled to death that night.

Gunmen wound Turk ambassador

ROME (AP) — Two unidentified gunmen shot and seriously wounded Turkey's ambassador to the Vatican today as he was entering his residence in Rome's posh Parioli section, police said.

Ambassador Taha Carim was taken to a hospital with wounds in the chest and neck, officials said.

The Turkish Embassy said the two assailants rushed at Carim after he stepped out of his car. Each fired one shot and escaped, a spokesman said.

Carim, 62, has been ambassador to the Vatican for three years, having served in other diplomatic assignments in Canada, Pakistan and Lebanon.

The shooting was the third attack on a ranking Turkish diplomat in Europe in the past two years. Turkey's ambassador to Austria, Denis Tunaligi, and its ambassador to France, Ismail Erez, were assassinated within two days of one another in October 1975.

The assailants were never arrested, but an underground Marxist group called the Armenian Liberation Army claimed responsibility for the Paris attack.

In a statement released in Beirut, the Armenians claimed the shooting was revenge for alleged Turkish genocide against their people in eastern Turkey around the turn of the century.

No group claimed responsibility for the Vienna shooting.

Prester John was the legendary Christian monarch of Asia. The name originally was Presbyter (church elder) John. The story of Prester John first appeared in Rome in 1122. Later, the mythical Christian king was thought to be in Africa.

Ethiopia recruits soldiers

People's army recruited by Ethiopian strongman Lt. Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam lacks a few routine items of professional armies elsewhere, such as uniforms and in some cases weapons. Some of the recruits at this training camp at Debre Zeit drill with sticks rather than rifles. The "people's army" is being raised by Ethiopia's Marxist military regime to combat insurrections in various parts of the country.

Beaten missionaries tell story

RECIFE, Brazil (AP) — Two American missionaries who said they were beaten in a Brazilian jail told their story to Rosalynn Carter, and the First Lady expressed her sympathy and promised to tell her husband about it.

Father Lawrence Rosebaugh, 42, a Roman Catholic, and Thomas Capuano, 24, a Mennonite from Altamont, N.Y., told Mrs. Carter they were arrested last month while distributing food to the poor.

They said they were stripped naked, thrown into a crowded cell and not allowed to contact the U.S. consulate for three days, during which time they were kicked and knocked around by prison trustees. They said they were released on the fourth day after being allowed to call the consulate.

"The list of indignities is really endless," Capuano told a news conference Wednesday on the consulate lawn after the meeting with Mrs. Carter. "I felt myself being turned into an animal."

Capuano said Mrs. Carter "came across as very sincere, and I got the feeling that she was really going to carry our message back — not just our message but the message of all those that are suffering still in that same jail cell."

Mrs. Carter posed for photographs with the two bearded men dressed in work clothes and told reporters: "I have listened to their experience and sympathize with them and have a personal message to take back to my husband."

The announcement that Mrs. Carter planned to meet with the men, made during her flight from Brasilia to Recife earlier Wednesday, came as a surprise.

At a news conference in Brasilia Tuesday, Mrs. Carter said the U.S. government was concerned about the incident. But her press secretary, Mary Hoyt, said Mrs. Carter had no plans to meet with the men. Later she said a meeting might be arranged.

There was no immediate reaction from Brazil's 13-year-old military government.

The government of Pernambuco, the state in which Recife is located, has promised to investigate the matter. Father Rosebaugh said he had little confidence in the investigation since it was to be done by the police. He said he told Mrs. Carter an independent investigation was needed.

Mrs. Carter included Recife on her tour to visit Janet Marie Steiner, the wife of a Brazilian industrialist who became a friend during previous trips Mrs. Carter made to Brazil. She also visited a housing project after a heavy rain, walked through the muddy streets and inspected a day care center.

Mrs. Carter told reporters during the flight from Recife that her talks with President Ernesto Geisel were "some of the best discussions I've had."

"I think we have misperceptions about each other and I think that I've narrowed those misperceptions," she said.

"We had some points of disagreement, but I really believe that he listened to me very carefully and took into consideration what I said."

Mrs. Carter goes today from Recife to Bogota, Colombia, the sixth of the seven nations on her Latin American and Caribbean tour.

Seige must end says Dutch leaders

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch government was sending word today to South Moluccan terrorists holding 55 hostages in a train and a schoolhouse in northern Holland to free their captives or face dangerous consequences.

A government spokesman said it was "out of the question" that the twin sieges, which began 17 days ago, will be allowed to continue much longer.

Officials are becoming increasingly worried about the condition of the hostages, especially the 51 persons held aboard the commuter train 12 miles north of Assen.

Cardiologist Jakob Nieveen said they may develop heart problems due to the stress, the lack of exercise and the uncomfortable conditions. More than half of them are over 40.

Dr. Nieveen made the comment after examining Theo J. van Hattem, 46, who was freed from the train Wednesday after becoming ill. Doctors said he might have had a slight heart attack.

Premier Joop den Uyl and his cabinet were hoping mediators Josina Sounokil and Hans san Tan could convince the terrorists their position is hopeless, both "for their demands and for the political aims they have in view," a Justice Ministry spokesman said.

The mediators, elders in the 40,000-member South Moluccan community in The Netherlands, talked for nearly six hours with the gunmen aboard the train Saturday but failed to make any progress.

Eight to ten terrorists are believed to be on the train and four others are holding four teachers at the elementary school in nearby Bovensmilde.

Dutch officials have said they have several plans for an attack on the train should mediation fail. Some 1,200 troops and hundreds of police are surrounding the train, and about 100 Dutch marines are dug in about 100 yards away from it.

Troops and police also are around the schoolhouse. When the siege began, 105 children were also taken hostage, but they were released after four days along with one teacher.

The two gangs, which struck simultaneously, are demanding passage out of the country for themselves and 21 other South Moluccans held in Dutch jails for previous terrorism and sabotage. The terror campaign is aimed at forcing the Dutch government to support the South Moluccan community's demand for independence from Indonesia for their native islands, which were part of the prewar Dutch East Indies.

Nonprofit lobbying halts fraud law efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intense lobbying is halting efforts in Congress to pass measures outlawing "unfair and deceptive practices" by such nonprofit groups as schools and charities, sources say.

The Federal Trade Commission, which already has authority over the trade practices of profit-making businesses, asked Congress this year for jurisdiction over nonprofit groups.

FTC Chairman Michael Pertuchuk told one hearing that nonprofit groups are responsible for "very substantial fraud" and "other practices which would be illegal if committed by profit-making companies."

But provisions to meet Pertuchuk's request were dropped from legislation dealing with the FTC by committees in both houses of Congress. The decisions followed extensive lobbying by educational and other nonprofit groups, House and Senate sources said Wednesday.

Sources said groups working against the proposals included the United Way of America, the Catholic Conference, universities and medical organizations, officials said.

"The lobbying was intense," said one Capitol Hill source, adding, "There's no question that the nonprofits ought to have been covered."

The new FTC authority could have been used against "fly-by-night" schools and other nonprofit organizations using deceptive advertising.

Pertuchuk told a Senate panel of a nonprofit hospital organization in Kansas City, Mo., which he said tried to lessen competition from commercial blood banks in the sale of human blood for medical purposes.

"If more conventional respondents had engaged in these same practices, there would have been little difficulty in proving an illegal boycott," Pertuchuk said.

But he said a federal appeals court ruled that the commission could not act against the nonprofit group.

Educational and charitable groups testified against the proposal, saying the bill would subject nonprofit organizations to burdensome paperwork requirements. They also said the Internal Revenue Service has the power to revoke the tax-exempt status for nonprofit organizations.

GREAT TEACHERS

NEW YORK (AP) — Three professors were recently chosen to receive the 1977 Great Teacher Awards of York University.

They are Dr. Lawrence D. Brennan, professor of business communications in the Faculty of Business Administration; George D. Hornstein, professor emeritus of law; and Dr. Frank Cole Spencer, chairman of the department of surgery at the school of medicine. Each received an honorarium of $1,000 and a citation in recognition of their accomplishments as teachers.

Houston mayor decides not to seek reelection

HOUSTON (AP) — Mayor Fred Hofheinz announced today he will not seek a third two-year term in the Nov. 8 city election.

Hofheinz, 38, said it is time to let new faces give Houston government a fresh momentum.

Immediate speculation on a possible successor centered on Frank B. Briscoe, a former district attorney, and Jim McConn, a former city councilman. Briscoe made an unsuccessful challenger against Hofheinz in 1975.

Hofheinz, now in his second two-year term, said "Good government requires change and innovation. It requires new faces, fresh ideas and the energy of new leadership — the kind of new leadership that I brought to city hall almost four years ago."

The mayor of the state's largest city said he believed he would have been successful if he had sought a third term but "the expectation of victory is not enough justification for my candidacy."

"I believe that mayors can serve too long. I believe they can outlive their effectiveness. It is better, in my judgement, to err in favor of brevity of service than longevity," he said.

Hofheinz made no announcement concerning future political plans.

During his years as mayor, Hofheinz said, "We have been able to open the doors of government to groups who never before had access. We have built bridges between racial groups. We have established the priority of community-wide rather than sectional policies and we have fought those who would abuse the authority that you have given them."

In a copyrighted story, The Post said Hofheinz had no definite plans to seek any other political office.

An effort was made earlier this year to recall Hofheinz after he named Niki Van Hoelst to his staff as a women's advocate. Hofheinz made the appointment immediately after the City Council had abolished Ms. Hightower's job.

The recall petition drive fell far short of the required signatures.

Amarillo firm bids low on highway here

Gilvin-Terrill Inc. of Amarillo was the successful low bidder and has been awarded a $653,261.45 contract for highway construction in Gray County.

Part of the project will consist of resurfacing with a hot mix asphalt overlay and a petromat underlayment a section of State Highway 70 which begins at the intersection of Hobart Street and U.S. Highway 60 and extends north along 70 (Hobart Street) 2.348 miles to 21st Street.

The second part of the project is on U.S. 60 beginning just west of the east city limits of Pampa and extending east to the Roberts County line. This section will be scarified and reshaped with a two course surface treatment and asphalt concrete pavement.

Construction engineering for the project will be handled by the Pampa residency office of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation under the supervision of T.R. Kelley, supervising resident engineer.

A preconstruction meeting was held Wednesday at the highway department office in Pampa where it was indicated that construction will begin during the fourth week of June.

Kelley said that traffic will be routed through the project sites with barricade signs and lighted safety devices provided where necessary.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower, 80, ventured from her Gettysburg farm for a rare public appearance as hundreds of well-wishers gathered on the eve of bandleader Fred Waring's 77th birthday to honor him.

"It's quite an honor to be here," the former first lady said Wednesday. "He has been a lifelong friend."

Gov. Milton Shapp declared today Fred Waring Day in Pennsylvania.

Waring, who had received citations from the legislature and the U.S. Congress, said, "I thank all my super friends who are here. I'm thoroughly overwhelmed."

READING, Pa. (AP) — Visitors to hospitalized bandleader Stan Kenton are still restricted to family members and business associates but the 65-year-old musician is reported to be recovering from recent surgery.

Kenton's condition following an operation to remove a blood clot on his brain was described by a spokesman for Reading Hospital as fair.

A release date "is not being given a guess right now" the spokesman added. "He still has some effects of the surgery. He's not out of that yet."

Kenton, hospitalized May 22 after injuring his head in a fall, spent 10 days in intensive care before being transferred to regular nursing care June 3.

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Jerry and Betty Ford plan to spend a couple of months in their favorite mountain resort, Vail, Colo., a

It's a small start, but judging by the eager shoppers from the first U.S. cruise ship to stop at Havana in 16 years, business should be very brisk indeed when and if Cuban tourism resumes in volume. Cigars and rum were leading purchases of passengers from the liner "Daphne" during their day-and-a-half stay.

Police report

A theft, a burglary and a simple assault were investigated by Pampa police Wednesday.

A man told officers an axle, two boat tires and a three-cell flashlight were taken from his yard at 1100 E. Browning.

An officer on patrol noticed the back door of Jumbo's Ice Cream, 1835 N. Hobart, was not locked. The manager was called but nothing was reported missing.

Debbie Cook, 18, of 437 Graham, reported to officers she was sitting in a parked car in the 200 block of N. Cuyler when a woman approached the car, pulled the complainant from the car by the hair and began striking her in the face. Detectives said this morning Ms. Cook will file simple assault charges against her attacker.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press
Texans from Austin to the Gulf Coast crawled out from under an early morning fog and low cloud blanket today to join the rest of the state on another warm day.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 50s in the mountains to the 70s in most of the rest of the state.

Southern and southwestern parts of Texas were on the lookout for expected thunderstorms, while clear to partly cloudy skies were predicted for the rest of the state.

Highs were expected to flirt with the 100-degree mark in North Central Texas and the valleys of the Big Bend. Readings in the 90s were predicted for the rest of the state.

National weather

By The Associated Press
A cooling trend was moving through the northern Rockies today into Montana and Wyoming, producing cooler temperatures through the northern states.

However, little effective rainfall accompanied the weather change and forecasters said the danger of forest fires would be reduced only slightly by cooler temperatures and a lack of lightning.

The Northwestern states have been having unseasonably warm weather. Billings, Mont., for instance, had record high temperatures on five of the first eight days of this month.

There were some severe thunderstorms in the nation late Wednesday, but the only damage reported was some wind damage in Indiana and Florida. A gust during a thunderstorm northeast of Phoenix, Ariz., produced a wind gust measured at 82 miles per hour.

At midnight, moderate thunder showers were reported along the Ohio Valley, the lower Great Lakes and in eastern Colorado. Showers and isolated thunderstorms were widely scattered across the central Intermountain region and were spilling across the Divide in the northern Rockies ahead of the cooler air.

Frost and freeze warnings were up early today for portions of Michigan.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 33 at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to 87 at Yuma and Phoenix, Ariz.

Here are some 3 a.m. EDT temperatures and conditions:
—East: Atlanta 60 clear, Boston 55 clear, Chicago 47 clear, Cincinnati 54 partly cloudy, Cleveland 50 rain, Detroit 48 cloudy, Indianapolis 51 clear, Louisville 62 cloudy, Miami 80 cloudy, Nashville 73 partly cloudy, New Orleans 73 clear, New York 55 clear, Philadelphia 50 cloudy, Pittsburgh 50 showers, Washington 60 showers.

—West: Anchorage 58 cloudy, Denver 65 clear, Des Moines 57 clear, Fort Worth not available, Kansas City 65 clear.

Advice

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 17-year-old girl who many times has felt like going further than I should with a boy I really like. Abby, I'm going to ask you a question I wish I could ask my mother but can't because all I would get is a lecture.

Why should a girl be expected to wait until she's married to have sex? We all have normal passions that get stronger with adolescence. Married people have an outlet for their sex, but what about unmarried people?

Other countries like Samoa permit premarital sex. Why can't we? I can see logical reasons for not being promiscuous, such as danger of venereal disease and unwanted pregnancy, but when two people want sex and know how to prevent disease and pregnancy, why the big "No No"?

Our society is so advanced in other ways, but it insists that unmarried people either suppress their normal sex urges or pretend they don't exist.

If there is any good reason why kids who are in love should refrain from premarital sex, I'd like to know what it is.

SPEAKING FOR TEENS

DEAR SPEAKING: The big "No No" is not the relationship between two normal, healthy, MATURE, responsible people "in love"; it's the use of sex by the immature, irresponsible, confused adolescent who mistakes his first sexual stirrings for "love."

"Knowing" how to prevent unwanted pregnancies and venereal disease is not enough to prevent them; witness NO decline in illegitimacy even with the Pill. And in spite of all the education concerning venereal disease, it's still a major public health problem.

When you are ready to accept all the responsibilities and commitments of "love" and a family, you will not ask me what is wrong with premarital sex.

DEAR ABBY: I have worked at a service station for the last seven months, and I never realized how rude and thoughtless people can be.

I hope you can find it in your heart to print these suggestions for your readers to consider:

1. Please take a few seconds and roll down your window and tell us what you want. We don't have bionic ears and we can't read lips. If you hold up five fingers, that could mean five gallons of gas OR $5 worth.

2. Don't ask us to check your oil when you plan to go right home and put a quart in. We don't need the experience. If you can put oil in at home, you can check it at home.

3. Please don't sit there with your door open while the attendant is trying to wash your windows.

4. When you finish using the air hose, please roll it back up and replace it on the hanger.

5. If all you have is a $100 bill, please ask the attendant if he is able to change it before he puts gas in your car. We keep our cash thinned down, and it's very irritating when someone gets a dollar's worth of gas and hands you a $100 bill.

6. If you want premium gas, please pull up to that pump. We can't get premium gas out of a regular pump.

7. PLEASE don't complain to us about the price of gas. We have nothing to do with the price. We just pump it.

Thanks, Abby. Even if you don't print this, it sure felt good to get this off my chest.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Today I had a blood sample taken. They took a rubber hose and made my vein stick out. When they gave me the shot, I started seeing colors and would have fainted if I hadn't put my head between my knees. I have fainted or nearly fainted every time I get a shot, cut my finger or one time when I moved my leg just after a cast was taken off.

It's embarrassing when you have to get a shot from the school nurse and faint. What causes me to faint? Can I stop fainting?

DEAR READER—This is more common than you might realize. Almost anyone will faint if given sufficient provocation. Even men in top physical condition and superior health, such as candidates for the astronaut program, would faint if run on a tread mill first and then put on a tilt table to strap them upright.

I presume you are fairly young. You may be happy to learn that the reflexes involved change as you mature and fainting is less likely to happen. By the time you are 25 and don't need to see the school nurse there may be no problem.

Most of the faints as you describe are caused by reflex actions. The arteries dilate so blood runs to the lower half of the body. The heart may slow or even stop momentarily. The combination of events leads to a lack of blood flow to the brain and that is what causes the faint. That is also why putting your head between your knees makes you feel better. It helps increase the blood flow to the brain.

Being in good physical condition helps. Learning to relax helps too. You would be less likely to have a fainting episode if you were lying down when you had your blood drawn. I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-2, Fainting: Loss of Consciousness or Syncope. It will give you a good idea of the causes of fainting. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 17-year-old girl. Several months ago I stopped eating red meat, though I still eat chicken or fish every day. I also eat many fruits and vegetables and drink lots of milk.

I haven't had my period for about two months and I am very worried that the cause is no meat. I take a multiple vitamin every morning and someone has suggested vitamin E. Should I start eating meat because of this? In all other aspects I am healthy.

DEAR READER—It is not uncommon for a young girl to have times when she is not regular or misses periods. There are many reasons for this, some totally unapparent even after a good examination. I would think it is more likely that your problem is just a natural phenomenon.

You don't need red meat since you are getting plenty of fish and chicken. The basic protein characteristics are not greatly different. Any vitamin needs you have are more than met by your diet plus the daily vitamin pill. No, I wouldn't recommend vitamin E.

Considering the nature of menstrual periods I would not be surprised if you have already resumed your regular schedule by the time you hear from me.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—I would like to know how to make a zipper work easily. A friend of mine has a pair of fifteen inch boots and has to use the pliers to pull the zippers up and down. — DOROTHY.

DEAR DOROTHY—Rub a cake of soap on the inside of the zipper and it should work easier. Petroleum jelly may also be used. Both of these do work better on metal zippers but can be used on the nylon ones. There is a wax stick sold for this purpose that is very inexpensive. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—A good way to clean the glass doors of ovens is to dip a damp sponge or cloth in baking soda and use just as you would use scouring powder. — L.W.D.

DEAR POLLY—Do not throw away those old gloves but cut the fingers out and use them to cover the handles on your casement windows and there will be no more marks made by these handles on the window shades. Hold the finger on the handles with rubber bands, plastic ties or pipe cleaners. — MARIE B.

DEAR POLLY—My kitchen counter top has sharp corners that are just the right height for my grandchildren to crack their heads on as they play. I cut a clean sponge in two and taped a piece over each counter corner and have saved a lot of head bumps. — JUNE.

Stuffed cubed steak rolls

To prepare stuffed cubed steak rolls combine one cup cracker crumbs, 1/4 cup raisins, 1/4 cup grated cheddar cheese, two tablespoons melted butter or margarine, one tablespoon finely chopped onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard and 1/4 teaspoon coriander. Add one finely diced apple and mix well. Place one-third cup of firmly packed stuffing in the center of each of six, two-pound beef cubed steaks. Roll each steak around stuffing, pressing to keep compact. Secure with small round wooden picks. Place on rack in broiler or pan or over ash-covered coals on outdoor grill four to five inches from heat and broil at moderate temperature 15 to 18 minutes, turning and brushing with barbecue sauce occasionally. Remove picks before serving. Serves six.

New additives quit when food is eaten

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—An ingenious new family of hitchhiker food additives works on foods, but not on you.

They can create appetizing colors, preserve foods, promise to substitute for sugar and saccharin.

But they quit work when the foods are eaten. They aren't absorbed by the body. Hence they don't supply a single calorie and can't cause cancer or other trouble, their developers say.

They are chemicals bonded to special polymers. Polymers are substances made up of repeated links, hundreds to millions, of the same unit, folded upon themselves. Common ones include cellulose, antibodies, plastics and proteins.

While very tiny, the special new polymers still are too large to pass through the small intestine into the bloodstream. Thus, they and their piggy-back food additives journey passively through the body.

Experiments tagging the additives with radioactive carbon atoms show they don't enter the blood or organs of test animals, says Steven Goldby, a chemist and lawyer.

He is president of Dynapol, the firm developing the additives that may replace some of those, like certain food dyes and saccharin, banned by the Food and Drug Administration on suspicion that they might cause cancer or other harm.

It is estimated that some 2,500 different food additives now are being put in Americans' food, with the average person consuming five pounds of them a year.

The challenge to chemists was to form polymers carrying effective food additives in such a way that neither would be absorbed, or the two separated, by digestive juices, bacteria, storage in heat or light or other agents, Goldby said in an interview.

Food colorings have been produced that look identical to the reds, greens, yellows and other colors now in use, or recently banned, that increase eye appeal of many foods.

The preservatives or anti-oxidants mixed into foodstuffs act as scavengers to remove chemicals known as free radicals that can form in certain foods to make them rancid, or to taste bitter, Goldby said. Once consumed, they quit and have no other effect.

The same concept of creating polymers with influential hitchhikers also promises future application in cosmetics, such as lipsticks or eye shadows, in some kinds of drugs, and in industrial dyes and pigments.

When you fix this spinach, they'll finish

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Cooks ask us for new recipes for spreads to offer with before-dinner drinks. They say they often serve cheese or tuna spreads; they want something "different."

Well, here's a recipe for a Crab and Spinach Spread that's deliciously new. It was sent by a friend who wrote: "I find it divine for holiday and all-through-the-winter entertaining. Because it can be put together at the last minute, it's easy to serve hot. The first time I made it I thought the green onion in it might be a little overpowering, but none of my guests agreed with me. So perhaps I was just sensitive to onion that day." When we tried this spread the first time, we served it hot; next time around, chilled. Our tasters were enthusiastic about it both ways. As to the amount of scallion, all our participants thought it just right.

CRAB SPINACH SPREAD
7 1/2-ounce can or 1/2-pound frozen tendon-free king crab
10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach
Salt
1/2 cup finely chopped scallion (green onion)
1/2 cup olive oil
1/2 cup finely chopped scallion (green onion)
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 tablespoons dry vermouth
1/3rd cup grated Parmesan cheese
Freshly ground pepper to taste
1/4 teaspoon dried crushed oregano
1/2 cup commercial sour cream

Crackers or sliced crusty rolls
Drain canned crab and slice the large pieces; drain and slice frozen crab. Cook spinach, using 1/4 teaspoon salt, according to package directions; drain thoroughly. In an 8-inch skillet heat the oil; add scallion, garlic, crab and spinach and cook gently for a few minutes. Stir in vermouth, Parmesan, 1/4 teaspoon salt, pepper and oregano; cook gently for a few minutes. Stir in sour cream and heat gently. Serve warm or chilled as a spread for crackers. Makes about 2 cups — enough for 6 to 8 tasters.

SPICED SPINACH
A lavish way to treat an everyday vegetable.
10-ounce bag fresh spinach
4-ounce package cream-style cheese with garlic and herbs
Wash spinach and turn it into a large saucepot with just the water clinging to its leaves. Cook over moderate heat, uncovered and turning constantly with a long-handled fork, until spinach wilts and there is no liquid. With a kitchen scissors, cut coarsely. Cut the cheese into small pieces and add, over low heat, stirring with the fork, heat until the cheese melts and combines with the spinach. Makes 4 rich small servings.

Note: Instead of the prepared cheese you may use plain cream cheese and season with a tiny clove of garlic (crushed) and your choice of herbs — preferably fresh.
FRESH SPINACH
Follow directions and you'll have a perfect vegetable.
10-ounce bag fresh spinach.

end stems removed
2 tablespoons olive oil
1/4 teaspoon (scant) salt
1/4 teaspoon (scant) pepper
1 tiny clove garlic, halved and smashed
Wash the spinach well in cold water; lift out of water. In a large saucepot cook the spinach in the water clinging to its leaves over moderate heat, uncovered and turning constantly with a fork, until wilted and there is no liquid. Off heat, with a kitchen scissors, coarsely cut spinach into short lengths. Add the remaining ingredients and stir over low heat until flavors blend and spinach is very hot; remove garlic. Serve at once. Makes 2 hearty servings.

WEEKEND LUNCH
Turkey Chowder Rolls
Lebanese Spinach
Pumpkin Tarts
Coffee
JONATHAN BARTLETT'S LEBANESE SPINACH
In our Test Kitchen we found this "salad" particularly delicious when made with fairly fine bulgur.
1/2 cup bulgur
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 onion, chopped
1 pound spinach, chopped fine
Salt and lemon juice

Soak the bulgur in about 1 cup of cold water and set aside. Heat up the oil and cook the onion over medium heat until it is soft. Wash and add the spinach with whatever water is still clinging to its leaves and stir around until it is tender — about 5 minutes or so — and salt to taste. Drain and place in a bowl. Drain the bulgur and add it to the spinach and stir it all around until bulgur is evenly distributed throughout. Refrigerate and serve cold with a little lemon juice squeezed over it just at the last minute. From "The Peasant Gourmet" by Jonathan Bartlett (Macmillan, 1975).

SPINACH blends into a very special Green Devil dressing.
By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Eating habits are changing. Americans are eating more green salads, and nibbling on raw vegetables. A zesty Green Devil dressing made of fresh or frozen spinach with a dash of Worcestershire makes an ideal salad topping. It also doubles as a dip to serve with raw carrot sticks, cucumber or celery sticks, zucchini chunks or fresh mushrooms.

GREEN DEVIL DRESSING
1 bag (10 ounces) fresh spinach or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed
1 cup oil
1/4 cup fresh lemon juice
4 teaspoons original Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar

Thoroughly rinse, drain and remove stems from fresh spinach or place frozen spinach in a sieve and press out moisture. Place spinach in the jar of an electric blender (fresh spinach will need to be packed down). Add remaining ingredients. Cover and blend until smooth, 30 to 60 seconds, turning blender on and off. Use as a salad dressing or as a dip for fresh vegetables.

Chocolate bubbles sweet
CHOCOLATE BUBBLES
Their texture is rather like shortbread, but they're sweeter.
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1-3rd cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/4 cup flour, fork-stir well before measuring
1 cup finely chopped walnuts
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
Cream the butter, sugar and vanilla; gradually stir in the flour; stir in the nuts, then the chocolate. Using 1 tablespoon for each, shape into balls. Place 1 inch apart on an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven about 15 minutes. With a spatula, remove to a wire rack to cool. Makes almost 2 1/2 dozen.

Truckers' dilemma: the law vs. livelihood

JUSTUS CORNER, Pa. (AP) — Independent truckers, those glamorized cowboys of the concrete, sometimes feel addled by the 55 miles per hour speed limit.

The slower speed limit is the best conservation measure ever introduced, federal energy and safety experts say. But going 55, or riding the "double nickel" in trucker talk, isn't worth a dime when a hauler is roped for time.

"If we abide by the speed limit, we are exceeding the number of hours we're supposed to ride each day. We know our costs. We'll be glad to do 55. Hell, we'll go 45 if we can make money," said trucker John Mullen from his home near Scranton in northeastern Pennsylvania.

The Federal Energy Administration estimates that 300,000 barrels of fuel could be saved every day if everyone obeyed the speed limit. That's roughly one per cent of all the fuel used every day. And President Carter's recent energy proposals have placed a premium on fuel savings in the trucking industry.

A recent study by the Environmental Protection Agency said diesel-powered trucks reached a peak fuel economy of 6.9 to 7.8 miles per gallon at 30 m.p.h., whether it's empty or fully loaded.

"In general, it is concluded that best fuel economy for heavy duty trucks occurs between 30 and 40 m.p.h.," the EPA said, shooting down arguments that the big rigs must go fast to be efficient.

In addition, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said there were 55,630 deaths, 3 million disabling injuries and a $20 billion loss to the economy because of highway accidents in 1973, the last year of higher speeds.

In 1975, fatalities dropped to 45,864, injuries fell to 1.5 million and economic loss amounted to $17.7 billion.

The big drawback is slower delivery. In a highly competitive industry that must keep strict timetables to deliver millions of dollars of rolling stock, time is money.

The bigger companies have adapted by adding more trucks, drivers and relay points and re-scheduling deliveries. The independent usually does not have a regular schedule and often carries perishable goods.

Higher shipping rates have not caught up with higher costs for the independent, forcing some 25,000 drivers off the road in the last three years.

"You just can't look him in the eye and say this is all good," said William Johns, safety director for the American Truckers Association and a firm believer in slower speed.

"He's one individual, working out of his own pocket. His equipment produces revenue and if it's tied up, he's looking at an empty wallet," Johns added in a telephone interview from his Washington, D.C., office.

"Even so, we support the reduced speed. It's very difficult to relate to one truck and one driver. You have to look at the nation as a whole," added Johns, whose organization represents 16,000 trucking firms.

Two out of three trucks on the road go faster than 55, ac-ording to a survey by Transport Insurance Co., a Dallas, Tex., firm owned by several large trucking companies. And 30 per cent go beyond 60.

But truckers are hardly the only people who drive fast. A recent NHTSA study showed that cars and buses speed more often. And a recent Associated Press nationwide spot check showed that most drivers, while traveling at lower speeds than they used to, are still exceeding the 55 m.p.h. limit.

The big rigs draw more attention because they're more visible. The sight of an crushing, 18-wheeled, five-axled dreadnaught filling the rear-view mirror can make a motorist shudder.

In addition, part of the trucker's maverick image is built around the citizen's band radio, a communications tool that can ferret out speed traps and monitor police activity. Some are also equipped with "Puz-busters," an electronic device that can detect police radar seven miles away.

Castro calls Soviet Union freest country

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter is idealistic and intelligent. Richard Nixon is false and foolish. The Soviet Union is the freest country in the world. China is a good ally of the United States.

Cuban President Fidel Castro, holder of these opinions, is discussing subjects he hasn't mentioned publicly for years. Despite his high opinion of Carter, Castro says differences between the United States and Cuba are so fundamental that he doubts the establishment of full diplomatic relations is likely during the remaining years of the President's current term.

While more optimistic about achievement of that goal if Carter is re-elected, Castro suggested that relations between the two countries have reached a plateau with the recent agreement on an exchange of diplomats at the sub-ambassadorial level.

Castro, Cuba's leader since he seized power on New Year's Day in 1959, offered his opinions to ABC news correspondent Barbara Walters in a wide-ranging interview. The interview, taped three weeks ago, was scheduled to be broadcast tonight.

Castro, recalling his first meeting with Nixon 18 years ago, said, "I could see he was a false man and politically speaking, foolish."

With Nixon in the White House, good relations with the United States were "absolutely impossible. Nixon always hated our country enormously and he was not only responsible for the Bay of Pigs but he was also closely related to counter-revolutionary elements and to rich families of Cuban origin," Castro said. The Bay of Pigs invasion, in which Cuban exiles landed in Cuba in an attempt to overthrow Castro, was planned while Nixon was serving as Vice President in the Eisenhower administration. The invasion itself was carried out during the presidency of John F. Kennedy.

In proclaiming the Soviet Union "the freest of all countries," Castro said 20 million Russians sacrificed themselves in defense of their system during World War II. He wondered whether America would survive a similar test.

At one point in the interview, Miss Walters called Castro "almost naive" for suggesting that China considers itself a good ally of the United States. Castro backed off somewhat by conceding that the two countries do have "some tactical differences."

The interviewer tried unsuccessfully to draw the Cuban leader into a discussion about women in his life.

Castro, a divorced father of a 27-year-old son, allowed only that he is not married "in the bourgeois sense." He would not talk about his frequently reported friendship with Celia Sanchez, the first secretary of the Cuban Communist Party.

Miss Walters had better luck when she raised the question of political prisoners in Cuba, a subject Castro rarely comments on in public. There are "maybe two or three thousand" political prisoners in Cuba, down from a peak of "more than 15,000 in the early days of the revolution," he said. He attributed the decline to reduced counter-revolutionary activity against him.

Death shocks school

BOSTON (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Judy Belfrey was a high school junior who lived in a sunny suburban world of achievement and popularity. She died in a shabby Boston Back Bay apartment, and police are looking for her killer.

"She was beautiful, terrific," said David Levington, superintendent of Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School. "She was a fine student, popular with friends. I think she was on the field hockey team. She just came back from a bike tour of Cape Cod. We're totally distraught.

"It doesn't make any sense for us to believe," Levington said of the circumstances of her death.

Judy's badly beaten body, fully clothed, was found by her roommate in an apartment they shared, about a mile from the "Combat Zone," Boston's adult entertainment district of topless bars, X-rated movies and pornographic book stores.

Two hours before, she had been in a Combat Zone bar.

"She was last seen Tuesday night in a lounge and seen leaving there with a man," Detective Robert Hudson said Wednesday. "Look, she was a 17-year-old high school girl learning about the city."

Police described the man as being in his 40s and wearing a red blazer and blue slacks. Officers said they had a suspect in mind, but Hudson declined to divulge any details. Police said Miss Belfrey had shared the apartment for less than two weeks with Carol MacDonald, 21, who is unemployed.

Judy had come to Boston from Sudbury, her hometown 17 miles away, because of a school program, Levington said. Her father Charles works as a carpenter in Sudbury.

Judy was one of 20 students, most of them seniors, who participated this year in an "alternative semester" program, described by Levington as "a career exploration kind of study program."

She lived with a Boston family and worked at the Children's Museum from February to May.

When the program ended, the 20 students were rewarded with a bicycle trip to Cape Cod. Judy returned home from the trip on May 28, borrowed bus money from her mother Shirley, and returned to Boston.

Court fines men for DWIs, DWLs

Thirteen men were fined and sentenced Tuesday and Wednesday in Gray County Court after entering pleas of guilty or no contest to charges against them.

On Tuesday, John Edward Shackelford, 47, of 405 N. Christy, pled guilty to the charge of driving with license suspended; Ernest Etham Hutchinson, 22, of Skellytown, no contest, driving while intoxicated; Jerry Lee Royce, 28, of Texhoma, Okla., no contest, driving while intoxicated; Royce Olen Murdock, 36, of Memphis, guilty, driving with license suspended; and William Bradford Houck, 312 Roberts, no contest, driving while intoxicated.

All were assessed $300 fines plus court costs, 30 days in jail and six months probation, by County Judge Don Hinton.

Glen Edward Black, 19, of 1177 Varnon Dr., pled guilty on Tuesday to charges of DWI and DWLS. He received a $200 fine and 30 days in jail with six months probation for the first charge, and a $50 fine plus court costs with four days in jail for the second charge.

Farris Glen Reeves, 21, of 1812 N. Sumner, pled no contest to charges of DWLS. He was fined $50 plus court costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

Johnny Joe Roales, 18, of 216 E. Tuke, pled guilty to the charge of possession of under two ounces of marijuana. He was fined $200 plus court costs, and given a 30-day jail term with 180 days probation.

On Wednesday, Dale Renaldo Vandever, 41, of Mobeetie, pled guilty to charges of DWI; Guzman Mendez Camacho, 22, of S21 Warren St., no contest, DWLS; David Dwight Boyd, 30, of 2304 Wells, no contest, DWI; Steven Walter Boyd, 30, of 2145 Beech, guilty, DWI; and James Claude White, 24, of Skellytown, no contest, DWI.

All were fined $300 plus court costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail with six months probation.

Anita invited to San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Anita Bryant has been invited to bring her controversial anti-gay campaign to San Antonio, but a Baptist preacher who issued the invitation says he's fighting more than just gay rights.

"It's a battle of morality vs. immorality," the Rev. Joe West said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Jim Eggeing, a spokesman for San Antonio's homosexual community, said he doesn't know why an anti-gay rights rally is planned in San Antonio since the city has no homosexual rights ordinance.

The Dade County, Fla., defeat of a gay rights ordinance on Tuesday was a solid victory, the Rev. West said, and may signal the beginning of the "greatest moral revival of our time." He said voters apparently saw through the gays' "fairy tales" about the ordinance.

The minister said he will meet with Miss Bryant in Houston on June 16 when she performs at the state bar association's convention.

Eggeing used to be a schoolteacher, but was fired after telling administrators he was a homosexual.

When a gay spokesman addressed the city council on June 2, the appearance attracted a "we hate gays" crowd, Eggeing said.

The city's homosexual community held a rally and raised $2,000 for the Dade County gay movement. A counter-rally at the Alamo attracted persons opposed to the Dade County gay rights ordinance.

"Our major push now is to show the city council and the county commissioners that we have political clout. It may not be enough to swing a vote, but we can eliminate people who are actively hostile toward gays," he said.

Eggeing said no one knows what percentage of San Antonio voters are gay, but he represents a "significant sector."

While the Rev. West views the San Antonio struggle as one against immorality, Eggeing calls it a battle between civil libertarians and bigots.

And the ex-schoolteacher views the Florida election as a victory.

"The national averages say that one out of ten people are gay. The vote was two to one against the ordinance. That means it was reduced by a factor of five from the national averages," he said.

Jury hung in trial of child abuse death

AMARILLO — After about 20 hours of deliberation, jurors in the Beverly Tachudy murder trial were released and a mistrial was granted.

More than a dozen votes were reported but a 7-5 deadlock of panel members could not be broken to determine guilt or innocence in the case of the 26-year-old mother who is accused in the malnutrition-dehydration death of her 3-month-old son.

District Attorney Tom Curtis said he expects to request another trial date in the case. Defense lawyer in the case,

C.R. Daffern, had been quoted as saying he would oppose any move for a mistrial based on a hung jury. However, an article of the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure provides that the court may discharge a case without the consent of the defense if a jury "has been kept together for such a time as to render it altogether improbable that it can agree."

Terry Tachudy, the infant, died at Northwest Texas Hospital. He weighed 7 pounds, 3 ounces when he died — the same as his birth weight.

Borger man jailed on murder charge

BORGER — A Borger man was jailed Wednesday in lieu of $50,000 bond on a murder charge.

James Donald Smith, 40, was taken into custody by police in connection with the shooting death of Carlton "Chill" Phillips, 36, at a local pool hall.

Phillips had been shot once near the heart with a small caliber pistol. His body was found early Tuesday at the pool hall.

Smith, a double amputee, was arraigned before Municipal Court Judge Jim Layton who set the $50,000 bond.

Pampa Jaycees attend seminar in San Angelo

Four members of the Pampa Jaycees were in San Angelo last week for a three-day training seminar.

Classes at the seminar taught local officers how to run more efficient chapters and offered instruction in chapter management, training, communications and public relations and extending new chapters.

Attending from Pampa were Bob Jeffers, District 112 director; Mike Short, Pampa Jaycees president, and Chuck Smith and Jerry Stafford.

Toastmasters top Herbert best speaker

Mike Herbert won the Best Speaker award at the Pampa Sunrise Toastmasters Club meeting Tuesday with a speech entitled "Look Up, America."

The Best Table Topics award went to Larry Plooster and Jim Olsen won the Best Evaluator award.

The group meets on Tuesdays at 6:15 a.m. in the Pioneer Natural Gas Company Flame Room, 230 N. Ballard. New members are welcome.

DWLS. He received a $200 fine and 30 days in jail with six months probation for the first charge, and a $50 fine plus court costs with four days in jail for the second charge.
Farris Glen Reeves, 21, of 1812 N. Sumner, pled no contest to charges of DWLS. He was fined $50 plus court costs and sentenced to three days in jail.
Johnny Joe Rosalez, 18, of 216 E. Tuke, pled guilty to the charge of possession of under two ounces of marijuana. He was fined $200 plus court costs, and given a 30-day jail term with 180 days probation.
On Wednesday, Dale Renaldo Vandever, 41, of Mobeetie, pled guilty to charges of DWI; Guzman Mendez Camacho, 22, of 521 Warren St., no contest, DWLS; David Dwight Boyd, 20, of 2204 Wells, no contest, DWI; Steven Walter Boyd, 20, of 2145 Beech, guilty, DWI; and James Claude White, 24, of Skellytown, no contest, DWI.
All were fined $200 plus court costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail with six months probation.

Anita invited to San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Anita Bryant has been invited to bring her controversial anti-gay campaign to San Antonio, but a Baptist preacher who issued the invitation says he's fighting more than just gay rights.
"It's a battle of morality vs. immorality," the Rev. Joe West said Wednesday.
Meanwhile, Jim Eggeing, a spokesman for San Antonio's homosexual community, said he doesn't know why an anti-gay rally is planned in San Antonio since the city has no homosexual rights ordinance.

The Dade County, Fla., defeat of a gay rights ordinance on Tuesday was a solid victory, the Rev. West said, and may signal the beginning of the "greatest moral revival of our time." He said voters apparently saw through the gays' "fairy tales" about the ordinance.
The minister said he will meet with Miss Bryant in Houston on June 16 when she performs at the state bar association's convention.
Eggeing used to be a schoolteacher, but was fired after telling administrators he was a homosexual.
When a gay spokesman addressed the city council on June 2, the appearance attracted a "we hate gays" crowd, Eggeing said.
The city's homosexual community held a rally and raised $2,000 for the Dade County gay movement. A counter-rally at the Alamo attracted persons opposed to the Dade County gay rights ordinance.

"Our major push now is to show the city council and the county commissioners that we have political clout. It may not be enough to swing a vote, but we can eliminate people who are actively hostile toward gays," he said.
Eggeing said no one knows what percentage of San Antonio voters are gay, but he they represent a "significant sector."
While the Rev. West views the San Antonio struggle as one against immorality, Eggeing calls it a battle between civil libertarians and bigots.
And the ex-schoolteacher views the Florida election as a victory.
"The national averages say that one out of ten people are gay. The vote was two to one against the ordinance. That means it was reduced by a factor of five from the national averages," he said.

Jury hung in trial of child abuse death

AMARILLO — After about 20 hours of deliberation, jurors in the Beverly Tachudy murder trial were released and a mistrial was granted.
More than a dozen votes were reported but a 7-5 deadlock of panel members could not be broken to determine guilt or innocence in the case of the 26-year-old mother who is accused in the malnutrition-dehydration death of her 3-month-old son.
District Attorney Tom Curtis said he expects to request another trial date in the case.
Defense lawyer in the case,

C.R. Daffern, had been quoted as saying he would oppose any move for a mistrial based on a hung jury. However, an article of the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure provides that the court may discharge a case without the consent of the defense if a jury "has been kept together for such a time as to render it altogether improbable that it can agree."
Terry Tachudy, the infant, died at Northwest Texas Hospital. He weighed 7 pounds, 3 ounces when he died — the same as his birth weight.

Borger man jailed on murder charge

BORGER — A Borger man was jailed Wednesday in lieu of $50,000 bond on a murder charge.
James Donald Smith, 49, was taken into custody by police in connection with the shooting death of Carlton "Chili" Phillips, 36, at a local pool hall.
Phillips had been shot once near the heart with a small caliber pistol. His body was found early Tuesday at the pool hall.
Smith, a double amputee, was arraigned before Municipal Court Judge Jim Layton who set the $50,000 bond.

Pampa Jaycees attend seminar in San Angelo

Four members of the Pampa Jaycees were in San Angelo last week for a three-day training seminar.
Classes at the seminar taught local officers how to run more efficient chapters and offered instruction in chapter management, training, communications and public relations and extending new chapters.
Attending from Pampa were Bob Jeffers, District 112 director; Mike Short, Pampa Jaycees president, and Chuck Smith and Jerry Stafford.

Hayes wins change of venue

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Former Castroville town marshal Frank Hayes has won a change of venue in his trial on a criminal charge of violating the federal civil rights of a Mexican-American prisoner.

U.S. District Court Judge Adrian Spears, after a hearing Wednesday, ordered the case shifted to Waco, 170 miles north of San Antonio.

Spears said he recognized that, realistically, "prejudices do exist" in San Antonio, where the case has drawn extensive publicity for more than two years.

Spears will preside at the Waco federal court trial, scheduled to be held starting Sept. 12.

A federal grand jury indicted Hayes in February on the charge that he violated the rights of Richard Morales, a 27-year-old Mexican-American laborer who was shot to death Sept. 14, 1975, on an isolated country road outside Castroville.

Morales was in the custody of Hayes at the time of the shooting.

A state court jury in San Angelo last summer tried Hayes on a murder charge in the death, but convicted him of aggravated assault. Hayes is now serving a two to 10-year sentence for the offense.

Hayes testified in state court that he killed Morales, but he said the shooting was accidental.

If convicted on the pending federal charge, the former law officer could be sentenced up to life in prison.

The federal grand jury also charged Hayes' wife, Dorothy, and a sister-in-law, Alice Baldwin, as accessories after the alleged civil rights violation by Hayes.

The two women, who will be tried with Hayes in Waco, are accused of helping transport Morales' body 400 miles to a farm in East Texas where it was found buried in a shallow grave.

A half dozen witnesses testified at Wednesday's change of venue hearing. They discussed their involvement in publicity surrounding the case.

When Hayes was convicted and sentenced in state court, some Mexican-American leaders suggested the sentence was too light and condoned the killing of Mexican-Americans by Anglo policemen.

Some Mexican-American leaders and state officials called publicly for the federal Justice Department to intervene in the case and prosecute Hayes again, this time on civil rights charges.

Judge Spears said Wednesday he could not ignore the racial aspects of the case. And, he said, each side seemed to want a trial site that would be advantageous to them.

"It seems to me the plaintiff (government) wants the trial in El Paso because it has a large Mexican-American population and the defense wants the trial in Waco because it has a small Mexican-American population," Spears noted.

Spears last month ruled that Hayes is mentally competent to stand trial. He denied Hayes' motions to dismiss the charges.

IF THE SHOE FITS
PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Czech children have larger feet than previous generations, according to a market research study conducted here.

The study has found that more than 50 per cent of 13-year-old boys and over 80 per cent who are 14 and 15 must buy men's sizes. Twenty-five per cent of the girls in 13-15 age group buy women's shoes.

Children's clothing and shoes are state-subsidized in this country, and the price difference between shoes for children and adults is greater than in the West.

IRS audits Carter, VP

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, calling his tax audit a good thing, is suggesting that Internal Revenue Service accountants go over his income tax returns every year he's in the White House.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, also the target of an IRS audit, hasn't said whether he wants the same annual review. Asked whether the vice president agrees with Carter, spokesman Al Eisele said: "I really don't know."

For Carter, annual reviews hardly would be new.

"They've inventoried me; they've checked my income taxes I think almost every year the last 10 years," the President told reporters Wednesday on his way to dinner at Budget Director Bert Lance's home.

"But I think it's a good thing to do," Carter said. "We're suggesting they do it every year I'm in office."

Carter didn't make it clear whether the IRS conducted a full-scale audit each time it checked one of his returns. Nor did he reveal any IRS findings.

But White House Deputy Press Secretary Rex Granum said Carter authorized him to say an annual, full-scale audit would be welcome as long as Carter is President.

In reply to queries about published reports that the IRS is auditing Carter's 1975 income tax return, White House spokesmen made what Press Secretary Jody Powell conceded were "mistakes and unwarranted assumptions" Wednesday afternoon as they stumbled through a confusing, 2 1/2-hour explanation.

The briefing was interrupted by an hour and a quarter recess so the spokesmen could check their facts.

Granum said at first that the IRS began the audit because the President's accountant, Robert Perry of America, Ga., a town near the Carter's hometown of Plains, invited the agency on the President's behalf to "satisfy itself" of the accuracy of Carter's returns.

But Powell said after the recess that Perry, lawyer Harvey Hill of Atlanta, who has been Carter's attorney on occasion since 1968, and Robert Lipschutz, the President's White House counsel, cannot agree on whether they or the IRS brought up checking Carter's past returns.

"A statement that we brought them up first and brought it (the audit) on, I'm not prepared to make," Powell said. Despite the confusion, this became clear: —The audit began early this year, is still going on and the IRS has not told Carter why agents started it or what specific thing about his 1975 return caught their eye.

—Carter is confident the audit will validate his return. He "feels he has no problems," Granum said. Powell added that there has been no allegation of any impropriety or illegality.

"As soon as this audit is complete, we will make the results of it available to you and everybody else," Powell said.

—Carter does not think the audit is politically motivated.

"There is no feeling on our part that it is," Granum said. And Powell added: "There is no basis for us to claim or hint or imply that the thing was politically motivated."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A lawyer who represented dead billionaire Howard R. Hughes has revealed he has a secret collection of memos in which Hughes said he had left a will.

The disclosure, noted in legal papers filed here Tuesday, came when Chester Davis testified for a pre-trial deposition in Las Vegas last May 17.

The New York attorney confirmed under questioning by lawyer Harold Rhodes that a secret file of Hughes memos existed. Excerpts from the deposition showed that Rhodes, representing former Hughes aide Noah Dietrich, questioned further:

Q. Who has them, sir?
A. I have them, the memos addressed to me.

Q. Concerning the writing of a will?
A. With reference to existence of a will, yes.

Davis acknowledged that he had not shown the memos to Hughes' cousin, Richard Gano, who conducted a year-long search for a will after the billionaire died in April 1976. Gano issued a report last March 28 saying no authenticated will could be found.

However, attorney Paul Freese, who represents three Hughes cousins in the estate litigation, says the Gano report may be meaningless in light of the undisclosed Davis memos.

"It is clear," Freese said, "... that if he has records that would lead an investigator to proof of a lost or destroyed will or to an existing will, then much of the thorough search purportedly done by the estate representatives has been meaningless."

Freese filed a legal motion asking that Davis and Cox, the New York firm headed by Davis, be removed as counsel to Gano.

A hearing was set for Monday before Superior Court Judge Neil Lake, who has presided in other Hughes litigation.

Davis' deposition was taken in connection with a scheduled August Las Vegas trial to determine the authenticity of the so-called "Mormon will" found in Salt Lake City shortly after Hughes' death. Dietrich, named executor in the disputed will, claims it is the real thing.

Firefighters answer calls in city, county

Pampa firefighters responded to two alarms Monday and made an emergency run Tuesday, according to a department spokesman.

An air conditioner at 208 N. Nelson was damaged by smoke and junk belonging to Joe Ed Mackey was burned in a Monday night fire. The blaze was one mile south of Pampa.

At 10:15 Tuesday firemen went to 716 E. Denver where Marie Hernandez was suffering complications following surgery. She was taken to Highland General Hospital where she was admitted for observation.

Alabama prison more secure for Mitchell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell will serve his prison sentence for the Watergate cover-up at a minimum security camp in Alabama where he can get best protection, the Federal Bureau of Prisons said today.

H. R. Haldeman, formerly the White House chief of staff under President Richard M. Nixon, will serve his term at the federal prison camp near Lumpoc, Calif., the minimum security camp nearest his home in Los Angeles, a bureau spokesman said.

Mitchell and Haldeman were sentenced to serve 2 1/2- to 8-year prison terms over two years ago, and they have been ordered to begin serving their sentences no later than noon June 22.

Mitchell's home is in New York City and normally he would have been sent to Allenwood as the camp closest to his home.

Lefors ISD board to meet

LEFORS — The Lefors Independent School District board of trustees will meet at 7 p.m. today in the superintendent's office to consider a four-item agenda.

Discussion will center on personnel and a contract with tax attorneys and the members will be asked to approve payment of current bills, as well as the minutes of the previous meeting.

"Stirring up tennis interest in the Panhandle was like trying to awaken the dead," reflected departing PHS tennis coach Kent King.

"But I think the quality of play is picking up in this area."

King has accepted the tennis coaching position at Grapevine High School in the Dallas-Ft. Worth area. Although Grapevine is in the heart of one of the country's prime tennis areas, King's decision to leave Pampa was not an easy one.

"This is the friendliest town I've ever lived in, and being the son of musicians, I've lived in a lot of towns."

"In the past year, I turned down some good offers at schools which are known as tennis powers. But my wife and I didn't want to leave Pampa," King said.

However, a recent addition to the King family altered their perspective.

"My parents in the Dallas area are getting up in their seventies, and I'm sure they would love to watch their new granddaughter grow up."

"So my wife and I thought and prayed about it, and decided that it was time for us to come home," he said.

King was lured to Pampa two years ago after having a Boy Scout administrative office with the Ft. Worth Longhorn Council.

"I had played tournament tennis since I was in high school, including two years at East Texas State and one at Southeastern Oklahoma, and was just sick of tennis."

"But I got my Registered - Certified Tennis Professional card in 1973 and did some teaching," King said.

Pampa should be thankful that King's interest in tennis was renewed because, in two years he turned the PHS tennis program into a winner.

The Harvesters were perennial last-place district finishers before 1975-76, but in that year they finished third with a 7-7 record in dual meets.

This past year, Pampa again finished third, but sported an 18-2 mark, the best in school history.

"The thing that's been accomplished is that we've eliminated the Amarillo mystique from the Pampa players."

"In the past, Pampa kids never thought they could beat teams from Amarillo," King said, "but with our showing the last two years, we've wiped out that mystique."

King said the Harvesters should have a solid team next year, and could improve on their third-place finish, although Amarillo High will again be districts favorites.

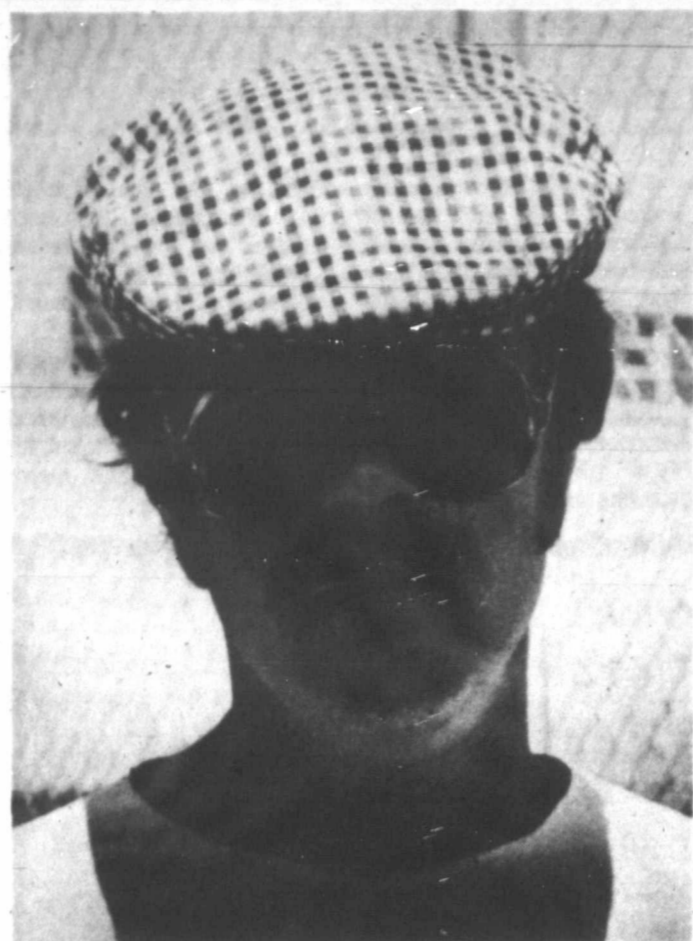

"I've been trying to help Ed (Lehnick, athletic director) get a good coach for these kids, but it's difficult since Pampa has not had a good tennis reputation."

King said Pampa's tennis facilities are not conducive to building a good tennis program.

"It's ridiculous for the second largest city in the Panhandle to have courts in such horrible shape. We have portable courts in Pampa - we have to replace chipped pieces by hand."

"The people in the community have to get behind the building of athletic facilities. I don't believe the school is responsible for providing everything in town," King said.

Long range plans for the 28-year-old include getting a masters degree in political science, and playing more tournament tennis.

Blyleven ends losing streak

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas ranger pitching ace Bert Blyleven severed a personal five-game losing streak Wednesday night and said nobody's happier about it than Patty Blyleven.

"My wife was going crazy," he grinned. "I was becoming unbearable to live with. She told me if I didn't win tonight, I couldn't come home."

As something of an afterthought, he quipped, "She probably fainted in the stands."

Blyleven mannaed the heavy-hitting Chicago White Sox with five hits and rode home runs by Toby Harrah and Tom Grieve to a 6-1 victory in the opener of a two game series. He struck out eight and issued two walks in beating Ken Kravec, 1-2.

"Bert pitched a super game," said Harrah, who drove in three runs with a mighty blast into the left center field stands during a four-run spurt in the third. "When you hold Chicago to one run, you're doing a pretty good job."

White Sox third baseman Eric Soderholm, a former teammate of Blyleven in Minnesota, faced the curve ball artist for the first time and concluded: "He's just unhit-table."

Richie Zisk, the American League's homerun leader, said, "He's awful tough when he starts the ball behind and breaks it over the inside corner."

Said centerfielder Chet Lemon: "I can't believe his record is only 5-7."

Blyleven suffered four one-run losses during the drought and was greeted by a leadoff homerun by Sox leftfielder Ralph Garr. "But you can't get down on yourself. I had a feeling we were going to score some runs tonight," he said.

"I don't think I pitched too different than I have all season."

'Hardships' await basketball draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Some are after the big money contracts. Others seek the glory of being a professional basketball player. Many are just too impatient to hang around college while their minds are on the National Basketball Association.

Whatever the reasons, each year about a dozen talented undergraduates shed their school uniforms for those of the play-for-pay ranks. This season is no exception with standouts like Bernard King of Tennessee, Brad Davis of Maryland and Kenny Carr of North Carolina State the most notable hardship applicants. If these three players do not choose to withdraw from draft eligibility — they have until 24 hours before the draft begins to do so — they figure to be among the top picks in tomorrow's NBA draft.

The NBA first allowed its teams to select underclassmen in the draft in 1972 to keep up with the American Basketball Association, which had no restrictions on drafting non-seniors from the colleges. Several of the league's top stars, including Julius Erving, Bob McAdoo, George McGinnis and Adrian Dantley, did not complete their collegiate careers, choosing to enter the professional ranks early. Tennessee's King submitted his name for the NBA draft last year but withdrew at the last moment. The All-American forward just completed his junior year and again has applied for hardship this year.

"I am interested in doing what is best for Bernard King," says the 6-foot-7 native of New York. "Last year, I didn't think it wise to leave school. Tennessee has a fine program and I felt I would improve my game more by staying."

"I feel that my statistics this past season were the best in the country. I want to see which pro teams are interested and what they offer me before I make any decision on what to do. I've been getting a lot of feedback and enlightenment so far and I think the opportunity for me to play in the NBA is there. That's all I want, the opportunity to play."

King denies the monetary aspect of turning professional is important.

"I'm not playing basketball for the money," he says. "I know that I could stay at Tennessee another year and maybe get hurt and have no future. But my main reason for wanting to go to the NBA is to show what Bernard King can do."

Texas trap meet in Amarillo today

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Trapshooters from all over the United States and as far away as Norway are shooting for a special $2,500 handicap today in the second day of the Texas State Trap Shooting Tournament.

Terry Brogdon of Wichita Falls, Tex., and Ray Stafford of Colorado Springs, Colo., shot perfect scores of 100x100 in a preliminary singles event Wednesday at the Amarillo Gun Club.

Pete Cargill of Conroe, Tex., won the preliminary handicap with a 98x100 from the 25 1/4 yard line.

Five shooters tied for second in the preliminary handicap, including Stafford; Dane Johnson of Fort Worth, Tex.; Dan Bonillas of Los Banos, Calif.; Steve Carmichael of Kansas City, Mo., and Ben Patterson, both of Amarillo, Tex.

Russell weds

MERCER ISLAND, Wash. (AP) — Bill Russell, the former Seattle Super Sonics coach-general manager, has married Didi Anstett, 29, a former Miss USA.

She was Miss USA in 1968 and fourth in the Miss Universe competition that year. It was her first marriage and his second.

Cougar leads

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Houston's John Stark shot a two-under-par 70 and took the lead after the opening round of the 80th annual National Collegiate Athletic Association Golf Championships at Colgate University. Arizona State took the team lead with a four-player total of 295.

Duncanville defends prep baseball title

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Pecos looked for its first victory today in four trips to the state school-boy baseball tournament, and Duncanville sought to keep its championship streak alive.

The tournament opener at 1 p.m. matched Pecos and no-hit specialist Lavel Mosby against newcomer DeSoto.

Waco Midway and Uvalde, also making their first appearances in the tournament, were scheduled in the second game.

In the 4A semi-finals Thursday night, defending champion Duncanville plays Victoria Stro-man and Fort Worth Southwest plays Houston Sharpstown.

Duncanville won the title in 1975, as well as last year, after moving from 3A to 4A.

Pecos was eliminated in first-game losses in 1973, 1974 and 1976, and Sharpstown also lost in the semifinals last year.

The two 1977 championship games are scheduled for Friday night.

Mosby, who has a four-year earned run average of 1.25, was drafted by the Texas Rangers of the American League in the second round of Tuesday's pro draft.

Pecos lost 12 of its first 13 games while Mosby was recovering from an injury but won 15 of its next 17 games in advancing to the state tournament. Mosby struck out 17 of 21 batters in pitching a perfect-game victory over Seminole in the district finale.

He pitched no-hitters in bi-district against Canyon and in regional against Snyder and has a batting average of .430 this season, playing outfield when he isn't pitching.

His fast ball reportedly was recently clocked at 83 miles an hour. By comparison, major league fastballer Nolan Ryan was said to have had a top high school speed of 87 m.p.h.

Also drafted was Duncanville pitcher Keith Creel, who went in the second round to Oakland.

Creel says, however, he will accept a scholarship to either Texas, Baylor or SMU unless Oakland offers him more than $40,000.

Tower opponents line up

DALLAS (AP) — They haven't officially announced, but three Texas Democrats considered to be prime challengers for U.S. Sen. John Tower's seat in 1978 were talking like candidates during a television interview here.

The three, Joe Christie, chairman of the State Insurance Board, Congressman Bob Krueger of New Braunfels and Barefoot Sanders, who lost to Tower in 1972, all said they have not decided whether they will seek the Senate seat in 1978.

However, they unloaded a verbal blast at Tower's record in a taped interview Tuesday on Dallas KERA-TV.

It will be September, Christie said, before he makes his decision.

"I promised Gov. (Dolph) Briscoe I'd stay until June of this session. My next promise is to talk to my wife and family about it. I will definitely leave the state insurance board in September," Christie, whose term expires in 1981, said.

Krueger said he will make an announcement at a July Fourth New Braunfels barbecue. Sounding as if he has already made up his mind, Krueger said that there is "not much question" as to what the announcement will be.

Sanders said his decision will be made in September.

The three potential candidates said the political climate is right for a Democratic defeat of Tower. Sanders based his chances on Tower's record since the last race.

White House ghost named Ehrlichman

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The ghost of Abraham Lincoln that's supposed to haunt the White House may have a rival in the neighboring Old Executive Office Building, which houses part of President Carter's staff.

The "ghost" that is said to stalk the marble-floored corridors of the Old EOB, a 19th century relic venerable enough to house an attic full of spirits, has been given the name of John D. Ehrlichman.

Of course, Ehrlichman also was the name of the domestic policy assistant to resigned President Richard M. Nixon. It should be added that Nixon's Ehrlichman is alive and miles away from Washington, serving a federal prison term in Arizona for Watergate-related crimes.

The "ghost" surfaced a few months ago when Carter's people decided to try out an automatic pen used in past administrations by officials called upon to sign more letters than they could manage without help.

Housed in the EOB basement, the pen machine uses a large circular matrix to duplicate each particular signature.

According to an administration source, a Carter employee set the machine in motion and, lo, the signature that emerged read "John D. Ehrlichman."

This caused consternation, and gave rise to the fresh ghost story, because it is standard procedure to immediately destroy the signature matrix of each departing official. The real Ehrlichman had been fired by Nixon, albeit reluctantly, four years earlier.

typewriter, frequently writes entire letters in longhand. However, he has resorted to the robot pen when dispatching similarly phrased letters to large groups of people.

Presidential aides who must sign replies to many of the thousands of letters Carter receives each week use the robot extensively. Without it they'd have time for little else except signing letters.

Even if you never wondered what Presidents and their wives talk about in private, the following might prove instructive:

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, did not betray a trace of a smile this week as he reported on one such conversation, by telephone, between the President and his hemisphere-trotting wife Rosalynn.

"The President did talk to Mrs. Carter this morning," Powell related. "She was very pleased with her visit to Peru. She told the President that she recognized that the visit to Brazil would be one of the more difficult stops on her trip, but she felt that a frank discussion of various agreements as well as differences would be the best step toward increased understanding."

"She told him all that?" an incredulous reporter asked.

"That's what he said," Powell responded, unable at this point to conceal a broad grin.

Another reporter asked Powell to repeat exactly what Rosalynn had said to Jimmy. Without consulting notes, the press secretary repeated himself almost verbatim. Asked how he could put on such a facile performance, Powell said: "I listen very carefully when the First Lady's spokesman speaks to me."

Some 20 million people have tried backpacking and anyone in good health can hoist a nine-pound pack and start off down the trail. But there can be problems. "The first thing that struck me about the Appalachian Trail," recalled one rookie, "was that it all seemed uphill." Others forget the cardinal rule of the trail, "carry out what you carry in," and leave litter to mar the mountain paths and meadows.

But for confirmed backpackers, there is nothing like it. "On my back I carry my shelter and food enough for the length of my stay, and a sense of freedom fills me," explains one. "Often I stop to thank all I see just for being there."

Names in the news

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Bruce Edwards, who stirred up his Baptist congregation in President Carter's home town last year when he tried to get it to allow blacks to become members, will minister to a Hawaii congregation.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards, who resigned his post here in February, said he will take a post with the Makakilo Baptist Church sometime in July.

Carter, who joined a Baptist church in Washington when he became President, supported Edwards' integration efforts.

The 30-year-old minister said he holds no grudges about his congregation's resistance to integration.

"That was something that happened, and we just try to make the best of it and go on," he said.

Fears, whom Maddox pardoned while he was governor, bill their act "The Governor and the Dishwasher."

Maddox plays the harmonica, Fears strums a guitar, and they received mixed reviews when they opened on stage last month in Orlando, Fla.

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Billy Carter will judge a belly flop and cannonball diving contest here next month in the latest of his public appearances.

The president's brother will appear at the World Belly Flop and Cannonball Diving Championships, as promoter Tom Butler calls the event, on July 23.

Butler would not say how much Carter would be paid.

ROME (AP) — American movie stars have taken the lion's share of the David Donatello awards, Italy's top movie prizes.

Dustin Hoffman, who starred in the film "Marathon Man," and Sylvester Stallone of "Rocky" were named best foreign actors Tuesday.

A jury of Italian movie critics and writers also named Faye Dunaway best actress for her role in "Network."

Jody Foster, who played in the film "Taxi Driver," was given a special award as the leading promising actress.

The awards will be presented at the Sicilian resort of Taormina on July 23.

MAJOR HAROLD THOMPSON, who closed the town's only cafe in anger, has reopened. Someone finally owned up to leaving a goat in the shop.

The goat spent Saturday night in the cafe, and Thompson, who owns the place, closed shop and demanded that the prankster make himself known.

"He called me last night and we got it straightened out," Thompson said Tuesday. "I opened up again this morning."

The mayor said, "The goat dirtied on the floor, that's all. He didn't knock anything over or tear the place up. Still, I was pretty aggravated at the time."

Now he figures, "It was just a joke — it's over. You should feel sorry for my wife. She had to clean up the mess."

NEW YORK (AP) — Lester Maddox is joining the ranks of politicians turned television personalities.

The former Georgia governor and segregationist, who recently launched a nightclub routine with a black man, has been signed by NBC for a guest performance in a comedy special to be aired in September.

NBC's announcement Tuesday did not disclose how much Maddox or his partner will receive.

Maddox and Bobby Lee

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tolls are going up on three heavily used bridges near here July 1, but some commuters apparently can't wait until then.

The tolls on the Bay, Dumbarton and San Mateo bridges will jump from 50 cents to 75 cents. Headlines announcing the change apparently have confused some conscientious motorists.

At 92, too much to do

MOUNT CARROLL, Ill. (AP) — At age 92 the only thing a rocking chair means to Fay Freed Christian is something to sell in his furniture store. He doesn't have time to stop and rock.

Christian is a ruddy-complexioned, sportily dressed little man who has been in business in downtown Mount Carroll since 1911.

"I believe in mixing and agreeing instead of arguing," he says. "Having a good thought of others. That's kept me going."

In addition to selling and repairing furniture, Christian is an undertaker. He also frames pictures under a system he patented that gives a three-dimensional effect, sells old-time sheet music, enjoys his 61st year in the Masons and corresponds as past president of the Illinois Society of Sons of the Revolution.

His only television interest is the one hour a day he spends watching the soap opera "As the World Turns," which he began watching before his wife died several years ago.

Christian runs everything himself, no employees.

"I don't get much funeral business anymore — don't advertise or anything like that. People know where I am if they want to come in," he said. "These days the high cost of dying is really something. ... I always have looked out for people's interests and will still put on a dandy funeral — metal casket, embalming, hearse service, chapel services — for less than $1,000. ... And I still would make a little bit on it."

Christian finds much of his pleasure with his granddaughter and three great-grandchildren who live in town.

He also enjoys walking. In a parade last year, "I walked more than a mile to the start of the parade, then marched downtown and back again. After the parade, I started to walk back home, but someone stopped and gave me a ride."

"I like plenty of exercise but by that time I was starting to get a little tired."

When he leaves his store he selects from a dozen different handwritten notes to hang on the door: "I'm at the former Grimm's Cafe on Rapp Street now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ward Rogers;" "At Elsie's Cafe on Highway 64 at Lanark, 7 miles. The food is good;" or "I'm walking through Point Rock Park and then to the cemetery."

Zi Beta Chi names leaders

Child support 'not excessive'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals said today child support payments of $175 a month for each of three children are not excessive, but conceded the father might have to get a job to make them.

Don Jackson contested a Travis County divorce suit judgment that set those payments for his children, aged 14, 12 and 10.
