

Late birthday

Five-year-old Michael, second from left, celebrated his birthday seven days late Friday with his brothers and sisters and their father David Wayne Dingler after having their home and car blown away in the tornado that struck Wichita Falls April 10. The divorced father said he can't find a landlord who will rent to him and his five children ranging in age from 12 to 5. (Staff Photo)

Family feels despair in wake of last week's killer tornado

By JOE BROWN
Regional Staff Writer

Death and injury aren't the only tragic stories uncovered after the "Terrible Tuesday" tornado smashed through Wichita Falls.

There's also the despair. David Wayne Dingler, 35, was setting supper on the table for five of his children and his mother that Tuesday night when the warning sirens sounded. He just had enough time to stack his family into a hall closet.

None was hurt, but his home at 1214 Hunt was destroyed. He came back the next day to cut his car out of a tree with a chain saw. It, too, was destroyed.

By Wednesday the impact of what had happened finally hit him.

They were homeless, without transportation and, being divorced, he had the five children to provide for in the coming weeks. This is despair.

A sixth child, a 14-year-old boy, is living with his mother in another part of Wichita Falls.

The family spent the first two nights in his mother's one bedroom apartment in a Wichita Falls housing project. Then he sought help from the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Gary Ashbrook, president of the American Postal Workers Union, said that his group and the Eagles are working closely in providing food, clothing and assistance to storm victims and were advertising their assistance over the radio.

"Mr. Dingler called me and said he was desperate," Ashbrook said.

"We picked him up, re-clothed his children and attempted to find him housing. But every time he showed up and told a landlord that he was the divorced father of five children ranging in age from 12 to 5, they all refused to rent to him."

This problem also was brought out by Joe Laux of the Federal Disaster Assistance Agency working here to help victims of the deadly storm.

Laux said the Red Cross and other agencies were having difficulty placing the man with so many children into a rented home.

"He will get top priority for a federally provided mobile home, but even this will take time. He'll have to have the slab of his old home cleared off, electrical and sewer connections made....so it's not all that simple. This condition has created

Do we need a police van?

By GLENN SHELTON

The following letter from Dr. Ted Alexander speaks for itself:

"Glenn, my boy, I'm writing this to you because I think you have enough sense to 'let's go.' About 10 days or so ago, one of your writers wrote a nice article on the police van Lawton had acquired at about $35,000. I wrote and complimented him, and said we need the same here, and not to wait on the city council or commissioners, but for us to raise the money ourselves to avoid red tape etc.

"I enclosed a check for $10 to start the thing off but have heard nothing from the writer and no action.

"I think a committee should be appointed to accept funds and let's get going. If we can't raise $35,000 by letting our people know what it's for, then I'm wrong. But police need a van, say, like a Winnebago, so they can have everything in that bus or trailer they need in an emergency, such as cameras, plaster of paris for tire prints, first aid supplies, CB and other radio equipment etc.

"We have just gone through a disaster and such a van would have been wonderful for law officials.

"We could use two of them, but I'm shooting for one, first.

"Let's get going!"

Indeed we do need to upgrade our disaster equipment here. It had been 15 years since a tornado had struck within the city limit of Wichita Falls, but that does not mean it will be another 15 before we have a repeat performance.

How about it? Do we need such a van for our police?

FHA rate increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The maximum interest rate that will be allowed on government-insured home mortgages was raised to a record 10 percent Friday by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The half a percentage point increase, to become effective on Monday, marks the first change in the rate since last June 29. It will apply to single-family home loans covered by both Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration insurance programs, a HUD statement said.

The current 9½ percent rate will continue to be the maximum allowed on mortgages for multi-family units, HUD said in a statement.

The statement quoted HUD Secretary Patricia R. Harris as saying she was "reluctant to take this action" but that it was "necessary to bring the FHA rate in line with other competitive rates in both the mortgage and financial markets."

Effective conventional rates — mortgage interest plus some initial home-buying fees amortized over 10 years — have been over 10 percent since December, according to government statistics. In recent weeks they have surpassed 10½ percent.

Vondal S. Gravlee, president of the National Association of Home Builders, termed the FHA increase "regrettable but probably inevitable in light of record rates in the conventional mortgage market."

He said conventional rates were being pushed up "to the 10 percent to 11 percent range nationally by the Federal Reserve Board's tight monetary policies."

The change, he said, might force borderline buyers out of the market but would make FHA-insured loans more attractive to lenders.

Mrs. Harris said the increase in the government rate was "dictated by the persistent high level of discounts prevalent for FHA-insured loans."

"This condition has created hardships for many families in their efforts to achieve home ownership and to sell their homes, particularly among low- and moderate-income families who need the more-favorable terms available in FHA and VA financing."

A discount, or point, is money paid by the seller to a financial institution to make up the difference between the government-dictated mortgage interest rate and the prevailing rate on conventional mortgages.

HUD said the boost in single-family home rates should substantially reduce the five points to seven points now being charged.

A point would be 1 percent of the mortgage amount, or $300 on a $30,000 mortgage. Five points would translate to $1,500 on a $30,000 mortgage, savings and loan officials said.

A mortgage specialist, who asked that his name not be used, said that an increase in a mortgage interest rate from 9½ percent to 10 percent would boost the total payment of principal and interest on a $50,000 mortgage with a 30-year term by $6,610, for example. This figure does not take into consideration points or mortgage insurance, he said.

The FHA was created by the National Housing Act of 1934 to operate a variety of loan insurance and subsidy programs.

The FHA or VA borrower pays an annual insurance premium of 0.5 percent of the average principle outstanding.

In the early years, the maximum allowable interest rates on the government-insured mortgages were in the 4½ percent to 5½ percent range. They moved up to 6 percent in October 1966.

Change in electric rate ordered

AUSTIN (AP) — The Public Utility Commission voted Friday to devise a new method by which electric customers pay for the rising cost of generating fuel.

The commission ordered its staff to immediately develop a plan under which fuel costs would be recovered through the base rate instead of by monthly fuel adjustment charges now added to electric bills.

Pointing out that "it is not our intent to disallow recovery costs," Commissioner Alan Erwin said a new proposal should be presented to the commission "within two months."

The order will not affect the operations of approximately 50 municipally owned electric utility companies, which are not under commission jurisdiction.

The decision came as the commission ordered Texas Electric Service Co., Dallas Power & Light and Texas Power & Light to refund $3.2 million to customers.

Under the order, DP&L customers will receive $400,000 in refunds. TP&L was ordered to refund $1.15 million to its customers, and TESCO customers will receive $1.6 million in refunds.

Refunds will come through lowered fuel adjustment charges during the next billing cycle, according to the ruling.

The rebates were ordered as the result of an unauthorized hike in the interest rates charged Texas Utilities Generating Company for advance payments on electricity purchases.

The commission had authorized a 7 percent rate, but each of the three utilities raised the rate to 9½ percent without obtaining legal permission.

Slain man's friend gives his side

By STEVE OLAFSON
Staff Writer

Since a rookie Wichita Falls policeman fatally shot a 19-year-old Mexican male early Monday, only police accounts of the incident have been made public. But Friday, the man who was with Rosendo Sosa Ortiz before he was killed gave a different account of the incident.

Filberto Delgado, a 31-year-old foreman of a landscaping crew, has been a U.S. citizen for three years. He speaks limited English and chose to give his account of the shooting in Spanish, having an interpreter translate. He refused to have his picture taken for the newspaper and was reluctant to be interviewed.

Delgado said he was driving Ortiz home late Sunday night when police officers Jay Wright and John Bailey stopped them. Delgado said each officer went to a different side of his car and asked them for identification. Because Ortiz spoke no English, Delgado said he had to translate the officers' request.

At that point, Ortiz jumped out of the car and ran because he was an illegal alien and didn't want to be sent back to Mexico as had happened two months earlier, Delgado said.

He said Ortiz did not knock officer Wright to the ground when he broke from the car and ran, as the police have contended. He also said police officers did not yell "Stop! Halt! Stop!" before Wright fired a shot from his .357 Magnum revolver that killed the fleeing man. Police reports said the officers warned the man to stop before he was shot. Both police reports and Delgado said Ortiz was shot in the back.

Ortiz was apparently running for some concrete stairs that lead up to the nearby railroad tracks on Ohio, he said.

Delgado said Wright was about 10 feet behind Ortiz when he gave chase. As the two men approached the corner of Front and Ohio, he said Ortiz was about 20 feet away from the pursuing officer and was rapidly out-distancing him.

"If he hadn't shot him he would have never caught him," Delgado said.

When Wright and Ortiz had rounded the corner onto Ohio, Delgado said they were out his sight, but he said he heard Bailey yell for Wright to shoot.

The two police officers have said Ortiz slowed down and put his hand in his pocket, giving the impression he was reaching for a weapon. The officers said their visibility was limited because of poor lighting in the area.

After Ortiz was shot, police

Sikes to open on Thursday

By LEON HOOTEN
Business Editor

All but the two largest Sikes Senter businesses will reopen for business Thursday, said William "Bo" Berlin, manager of the giant shopping center.

Berlin Friday told shop and store managers and employees that engineers and architects have given the mall "a clean bill of health" structurally.

Dillard's Department Store is expected to reopen in about five weeks, while the JCPenney store may not be able to reopen until late this year.

Some stores may reopen Tuesday, but Berlin said this depends on approval "from the liability insurance carrier, and I won't get this final word until Monday."

Hours for stores that reopen will be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Berlin also told managers they would not have to pay rent for the time the shops were closed and stores will not have to open Thursday unless ready.

News in brief

House votes teacher pay hike

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Friday voted to boost teacher pay by 7 percent a year in defiance of Gov. Bill Clements and then went on a log-rolling spree before adjourning for the weekend. Debate on the 1980-81 general appropriation bill resumes at 10 a.m. Monday.

Speaker Bill Clayton had hoped to finish the $20.2 billion spending measure this week. But a Republican cocktail party and apparent lack of interest threatened a quorum and halted work at 7:15 p.m. Friday. By then, only 111 out of 150 representatives — only 11 more than a quorum — remained on the job.

Set-aside acres increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers have indicated they plan to remove more than 11.2 million acres of cropland from production this year under federal programs aimed at holding down harvests of wheat and feed grains, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The 11.2 million acres was an increase of about 2.5 million acres from the previous week. The set-aside signup began Feb. 15 and runs through April 30. Friday's acreage figures were as of April 12.

Dollar gains strength

NEW YORK (AP) — The dollar gained strength on the world's foreign exchange markets Friday as news of a sharp upward jump in wholesale prices in West Germany raised inflation fears and put downward pressure on the German mark.

The price of gold retreated for the second time in two days. In London, gold closed at $236 an ounce, down from $237 on Thursday, while in Zurich, gold fell by $5 to $253.375 an ounce.

Crews make 'miracle' escape

INVERNESS, Scotland (AP) — Two U.S. Air Force F-111 fighter bombers collided off the Scottish coast and plummeted into the North Sea Friday, but both two-man crews bailed out in what was called a double "miracle" escape.

The planes, which were believed to be unarmed, collided while flying a training mission over the Dornoch Firth's Tain bombing range off the northeast coast of Scotland about 20 miles from Inverness.

The four Americans bailed out in the planes' ejection capsules which have automatic equipment to send out a distress signal. An Air Force spokesman said he could not say if the crews had ejected before or after the collision.

More refugees due in U.S.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysian officials said Friday the United States has agreed to increase the number of Indochinese refugees it will accept monthly from 4,000 to 7,000 effective this month.

They reported they were told that by Richard Clark, U.S. coordinator for refugee affairs, at a meeting with officials of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees.

A government spokesman said Foreign Minister Tengku Ahmad Rithauddeen told Clark an investigation is being made into the deaths of about 100 Vietnamese who drowned off the Malaysian coast when navy vessels were towing their boat out to sea two weeks ago.

Walters fetes tire official

WALTERS, Okla. (Special) — People of Cotton County Friday night welcomed officials of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. to Southwestern Oklahoma.

About 65 Cotton County residents and visitors from neighboring communities greeted James Conneker, manager of the Lawton plant, and his wife. He was the principal speaker.

The banquet was planned primarily as an opportunity to meet the Goodyear people. Conneker said Goodyear will be hiring 1,400 for the plant and plans to have it in full production within a year.

They expect to hire many from Cotton County and many Cotton County people expect to be employed there.

He gave a few statistics on the plant. It will be the 23rd largest business in Oklahoma. It expects to do a $7.5 billion per year business with an annual profit of $226 million.

The Lawton plant will be the 12th largest tire manufacturer in the United States. The plant will cost about $200 million.

It is located on 498 acres of land and has 32 acres under roof. It will have a $22 million annual payroll and the average employee will be paid $6-$7.50 per hour. The firm already has hired 250 employees and plans to hire 30-40 per month until the plant is in full production.

Walters Kiwanis Club, Temple Lions Club and Walters and Temple chambers of commerce sponsored the banquet. Sen. and Mrs. Kenneth Landis of Duncan were special guests.

Wichitans keep sense of humor

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — A new fad has emerged in Wichita Falls, where a tornado last week killed 44, injured hundreds and destroyed thousands of homes.

Despite the devastation that hit much of the city, residents whose homes or apartments were destroyed have inserted a humorous touch — through signs erected in front of their particular pile of rubble.

"For Rent — One Hall With Adjoining Bath," reads one sign.

Another sign announced: "Room Available. Inquire Within." The only room left was the bathroom.

One resident urged: "We Need Another Piece of the Rock."

Borrowing from Junior Samples' used car commercial on the Hee Haw television program, one sign advises:

"For a real good deal, call BR-549."

Contractors need licenses

Persons employing contractors or builders for rebuilding or construction are encouraged to inquire into whether they are licensed.

Ernest Lillard, city public works director, said all damage repair for buildings in the city require a permit. Only licensed contractors will be issued building permits except homeowners who wish to do their own work.

"There are several reasons why this action must be followed," said Lillard. "First and foremost is the safety of the citizen with regards to the buildings being built. In addition requiring a permit will provide some protection to property owners and individuals in selection of a contractor by qualifying the contractor through the license procedure."

Affected property owners also are reminded that a building permit is required before a mobile home can be located anywhere except in a mobile home park.

City building inspection personnel will stop at each construction site to make sure permits and licenses have been obtained. Anyone found in violation of the ordinances and codes will be prosecuted.

Persons with questions are encouraged to contact the city public works department with questions or to report violations.

Interim disposal sites have been established to assist homeowners who are clearing their own lots.

These locations are Kiwanis Park at Southwest Parkway, Weeks Park Lane and Midwestern Parkway, Southmoor and Aldrich, Midwestern Parkway and Armory Road, Windthorst Road and Expressway South Frontage Road behind Bird's Seafood Restaurant and North Frontage Road and Bandera.

The city also has established a contact point at the Southwest Parkway and Fairway command post for persons offering volunteer cleanup assistance. Hours are 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The city number is 322-5611.

Persons may call 691-2281, 691-2371 or 691-3224 to volunteer their help. The city encourages volunteers to go in person to the command post.

Dead animals within the city limits should be brought to attention of the Animal Control Division of Wichita Falls Health Department so they may be picked up.

The city number is 322-5611.

Dingler himself admitted the children were just too much for the wife of this couple in such close quarters. He moved out and they spent Thursday night in Western Hills Baptist Church.

Another postal worker offered them a house he owned that had the windows blown out, but was in otherwise good shape. However, it had no furniture and Dingler felt it wouldn't suit his needs although he is a carpenter and he could have made repairs himself, explained Ashbrook.

The young father has spent every day out at the 4-H Barn disaster center and expressed hope that soon he would be able to rent a home or obtain one of the federal trailers.

His problems have been compounded in that he has been unable to settle with his various insurance companies. The home was mortgaged and the check will go to the holder of the note before his equity can be passed down to him. His auto insurance company has not yet settled so he remains afoot and homeless.

This is despair.

Ashbrook said they advertised the need for a home to shelter the Dinglers and a Wichita Falls couple responded. They took the father and youngsters into their home but ple," said the federal agency representative.

He said there is no question about lack of rent money since this could be provided by the Red Cross or other agencies. It is only the lack of enthusiasm for the five children by possible landlords.

However, Laux hedged this a bit and admitted that perhaps Dingler was being a bit too particular in where he could find a home, saying the father didn't want to locate where he would have to change the children's schools.

"He really has a problem in that they go to different schools and after the storm they are starting and getting out of school all hours of the day. It would be a full day's chore just getting the kids there and picking them up, even if he did have transportation."

Ashbrook said they advertised the need for a home to shelter the Dinglers and a Wichita Falls couple responded. They took the father and youngsters into their home but discovered he was unarmed. His body came to rest in the street, only several feet away from the American GI Forum Lodge at 102 Ohio.

Delgado said he didn't know his friend had been killed until a co-worker told him the next afternoon. Immediately after the shooting, he was taken to the city jail where he paid a $28.50 fine for violating the 11 p.m. curfew the city invoked after the April 10 tornado.

Delgado said he didn't know the curfew was in effect the night police stopped him. He said he didn't think Ortiz knew either. Tuesday, the city council eliminated the curfew, except for the tornado disaster area.

Delgado commented that he didn't think the police officer should have fired his weapon "to hit," and should have fired a warning shot first.

The Wichita County grand jury, however, said in a statement Wednesday night that Wright and Bailey acted "in the line of duty" during the incident.

The FBI is conducting a "limited" investigation of the shooting, according to FBI supervisor Jerry Geary of Dallas, but Delgado said Friday he has talked to no one about the shooting except city police.

The American GI Forum and the League of United Latin American Citizens have criticized the grand jury's report and were the first organizations to call for a federal investigation, similar to other requested probes into incidents involving Mexican Americans and law enforcement officials in Texas.

The GI Forum sent a written request to Police Chief Curtis Harrelson Thursday to suspend Wright and Bailey until the federal investigation is completed, but Harrelson said Friday the two officers are still on regular duty, as they have been since the shooting at 12:01 a.m. Monday.

Police are refusing comment about the shooting and have refused to let reporters have police reports concerning the incident. District Attorney Tim Eysen said he doubts the grand jury will change its view of the shooting, but he said he will present the full autopsy report when the panel meets again May 9.

The district attorney was perturbed at criticism of the shooting investigation and said, "If those people have information for this office we'll be happy to receive it. The only things I've heard is what I've read in the paper."

"From the outset, we've seen no racial overtones," Eysen added.

The Mexican consul in Fort Worth is now overseeing the paperwork to recover Ortiz's body and send it back to Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, across the river from Del Rio, Texas, where Ortiz's family lives.

Child abuse problems expected to increase because of tornado

By LOIS LUECKE
Staff Writer

Wichita County can expect some "big problems" in the area of child abuse because of the April 10 tornado, the Wichita County Child Welfare Board was told Friday.

The problems are anticipated, said Jim Jones, supervisor of the child welfare unit of Family Court Services, "because of the stress, the loss, the rage, the anger and disappointment" resulting from the storm.

The abuse, said Jones, already has begun.

"We don't think it will be 10 times worse than it was, but it will be up," he told board members who met jointly with members of Wichita County Commissioners Court and Wichita County Juvenile Board.

Jones said he hoped the medical community "is prepared to provide some kind of brief, superficial counseling for hundreds of people because all of these people are going to need to ventilate and have a little support."

"They're not crazy," he said, "but they need a little help." Jones added. He said the month of March "was the heaviest we have had in probably a year," with 62 new referrals of cases involving neglected or abused children. "And April started off the same," he added.

But the subject Jones dwelt with even more at length, perhaps an extension of the prospect of increasing child abuse, was the frustration caseworkers had in getting abuse cases prosecuted.

It was a familiar refrain, but this time Jones spoke of specific cases, reciting some of the anonymous case histories previously given board members.

Noting that the board had the responsibility of voicing "the community's conscience," Dr. Earle Crawford, chairman, called for a special meeting of the group at noon Wednesday to discuss the problems and to "understand what our responsibilities are."

Rectifying a referral where a child reportedly was molested,

Jones said a case worker from his office went to the county attorney's office for assistance and was told there was "insufficient information." The county attorney's office, he said, indicated no petition would be filed because there was "no cooperation. No witnesses."

Jones said his report indicated the case worker could get no cooperation from the alleged victim's mother.

"What should have happened," said Jones, "was that legal authority, law enforcement, should have made the child available to the court, for example, in chambers, what is going on. It may be different from what was said. It may be worse; it may be better. And if the child needed to be removed, the court should have done it."

He said often a warning from the judge that the child would be removed from the home "is very effective."

But Jones added, "So there are very many things that could have been done; nothing was done, and the child is still at peril as far as we are concerned."

Jones also revealed another frustration with legal procedures when he related how four children who were abandoned had been taken into protective custody by the county on Feb. 26.

He said he was "ashamed" to tell the board that after almost two months, the children are still in the welfare unit's custody, though "illegally." While verbal orders from the court were given, he said, written orders should have followed.

"They should have had by law a 24-hour hearing. They should have had by law a 10-day hearing."

At one point, regarding the abuse cases, Dr. Crawford said "To talk plainly, it looks like there has developed quite a tension between your case workers and one of the assistant attorneys in the county attorney's office. . . I think we need to recognize there is this tension and there is this dissatisfaction, and I think we had better deal with it and look at it. Some of us are wondering if the time has come for some change in procedure in the handling of some of these cases."

No representative of the county attorney's office was present. But responding to questions by Crawford, Wichita County Judge Tom Bacus noted that the "strength of every one of those (abuse) cases begins the minute you hear about it. You begin to document the proof and one person swearing it happened is not going to do it. You've got to have the proof."

Bacus said, "One of the key elements in every one of these cases is to prepare it from the ground up. And you don't always have that time."

He said he was proud of Jones and the child welfare unit. "It is a frustrating job," Bacus said.

"It's a judgment call on the county attorney, who has to decide if the evidence is strong enough to bring a case in the first place, or just a waste of time. . . I think the key is their working with the county attorney, find out what he is going to need, what kind of documentation he is going to need."

Both Bacus and Jones thought the state legislature ought to address the problems surrounding child abuse procedures.

In other matters, the child welfare board, joining with the juvenile board and commissioners court, passed a resolution expressing appreciation of Precinct 2 Commissioner Clark Gresham's 23 years of "selfless civic services to all citizens of Wichita County." Gresham is retiring.

"I've never had nothing. I still have nothing and when I go away I will probably still have nothing. If we can't help each other, who can we help?" Florio asked.

"I've never been in a tornado, I don't even know what a tornado is. The Texas tornado has been in all the newspapers and on all the television here," he said. Florio was in a typhoon once during World War II, so, he said, "I know what it is to be spared."

Florio said that if Texas victims don't mind, he will begin to make the arrangements. "I will make it public what time the mass will be so if people (in Wichita Falls and Vernon) want to go to church at the same time they can go," he said. "I hope the churches there will ring bells at that time."

"I want to find out if it's all right with (the disaster victims). I want to know what is the best time for them," Florio said.

The mass would be conducted 30 days after the date of the tornado. Florio's restaurant is located at 44 Hospital, Providence, R.I. 02903.

For as long as it is needed, Wichita Falls Times and Record News as a public service will publish in all of its editions a Community Bulletin Board listing information of a public nature concerning the recovery of Wichita Falls from the April 10 tornado.

Gathering information for the bulletin board will be the responsibility of the community relations department of the newspapers.

The daily listings will be designed to act as a referral service for those affected by the tornado and to keep the general public informed about the city's status as the massive recovery effort continues.

All directors of agencies who have information in the public interest are urged to contact the community relations department of the Times and Record News between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at 767-8341, extension 258, or by coming to Times Square, 1301 Lamar.

Aid programs

The following is a condensed outline of the various federal and state program available at the disaster assistance centers in Wichita Falls.

DISASTER LOANS

Loans to individuals and businesses for repair or replacement of home and businesses and personal property. Maximum loans are $55,000 to individuals and $500,000 for businesses. The interest rate on these long-term loans is 7 and three-eighths percent. People who suffered losses in the five counties and any adjoining county are eligible to apply.

VETERANS BENEFITS

Veterans Administration can make adjustments to payment schedules for VA insured home mortgages. In addition, VA personnel will assist in obtaining death benefits, pensions and insurance settlements.

FARM AND RANCH AID

U.S. Department of Agriculture makes available a number of programs to assist farmers and ranchers who have suffered losses. These include:

—Farmers Home Administration can provide loans for repair or replacement of farm homes and physical property and production and operating losses.

—Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service can provide grants of up to 80 per cent of the cost of debris removal from croplands, fence repair and rehabilitation of farmlands.

TAX ASSISTANCE

Internal Revenue Service will assist storm victims to file casualty loss claims and to amend income tax forms which may result in refunds on federal taxes already paid.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Social Security Administration will help in expediting benefit checks and in obtaining disability, death and survivor benefits.

LEGAL HELP

Young Lawyers Section of the American Bar Association will provide free legal counseling for disaster related problems, such as replacing legal documents, transferring titles and contracting.

INSURANCE

Texas State Board of Insurance field operations will provide counseling on insurance problems such as obtaining copies of lost policies, filing claims and expediting settlements.

GRANT PROGRAM

Texas Department of Human Resources will take applications for grants to individuals or families who have serious needs or necessary expenses which other aid programs can not meet. The grants, which can be up to $5,000, may be used for repair of owner-occupied homes, medical, dental and funeral expenses, replacement of personal property and various other necessary needs.

DEBRIS CLEARANCE

Contractors hired by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will remove debris considered a menace to public health and safety from both public and private property. Owners of private property who need debris removed must visit a disaster center and sign an access agreement before contractors may do the work.

TEMPORARY HOUSING

Housing for those whose primary residence was left uninhabitable by the storm may be made available without charge for up to one year. Housing may include existing government-owned and government-assisted units, privately owned rental property or mobile homes.

UNEMPLOYMENT AID

Unemployment compensation can be made available to those who became unemployed as a result of the storm. This includes those not covered by regular state or private unemployment insurance programs. Assistance in finding re-employment also will be available.

Israeli guards protect flights

CHICAGO (AP) — Armed Israeli security guards have been on duty at O'Hare International Airport since the twice-weekly service to Chicago by El Al, Israel's national airline, began on April 2.

John Carr, manager of the world's busiest commercial airport, said Thursday that El Al is using additional security personnel on the ground during the two-hour stopovers in Chicago.

About five guards travel from Israel aboard each flight. Officials said some carry concealed weapons while others are unarmed.

Businessman on 'most wanted' list

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI announced Friday that Leo Joseph Koury, a Richmond, Va., businessman indicted on charges including murder, racketeering and extortion, has been placed on the bureau's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" list.

"The multicount indictments returned against Koury, which included violations of the Racketeer Influence and Corrupt Organizations Statute, were products of a continuing FBI investigation into organized criminal activity throughout the Richmond area," the bureau said in a statement released here.

Music fans assault police

BOSTON (AP) — Several hundred rock fans broke store windows and assaulted police on horseback after being denied admittance to an apparently oversold rock concert in a downtown theater, police said.

At least three women were thrown to the ground and their handbags ripped from them Thursday night, said police Lieutenant Leo Morgan. One motorcycle policeman was injured, reported Morgan, who said 25 motorcycle police and 15 mounted patrol officers were ordered into the center of the city to disperse the crowd. One juvenile and a 19-year-old man were arrested for assaulting a policeman's horse.

About 500 to 600 fans stormed the packed theater already holding about 4,000 patrons listening to the music of Rick James, described as a "punk-funk artist," said Police Lt. Leo Morgan.

Students start 'cleanup' fire

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Police said a few hundred University of Nebraska-Lincoln students held a "Spring Cleanup" bonfire that consumed, among other things, old furniture, tires and live chickens.

The furniture, pieces of wood, tires and leftovers from Homecoming '78 ceremonies were tossed into the flames. In addition to the live chickens, the crowd added firecrackers, beer cans and a bicycle to the pyre.

Jacksboro store robbed of drugs

JACKSBORO, Texas (Special) — An undetermined amount of narcotics and handguns were taken from a Jacksboro discount store early Friday.

A spokesman for the Jack County Sheriff's Department said the store was broken into sometime between 12:30 and 3 a.m.

City police discovered a front glass broken and the back door open.

Police and sheriff's department officials are investigating the theft and attempting to determine the items missing, among them a large amount of narcotics.

Walters parks receive funds

WALTERS, Okla. (Special) — Oklahoma Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has contributed $25,000 to the parks program at Walters.

City Manager Buddy Veltema said $10,000 will be used in Youth Park to renovate the swimming pool, run a new water line and construct new bathroom facilities. Two new bleachers for the tennis court and baseball field will be purchased.

A new building will be constructed at Lakeside Golf Course for storage.

The city is now taking bids on construction of the building.

COL. ALVIN HALL JR.

Wichitan gets command post

SAN ANTONIO — Col. Alvin O. Hall Jr., of Wichita Falls, assumed command of Fort Sam Houston during ceremonies here last week.

Hall replaces Col. Meredith Murphy who retired after serving more than 30 years in the military.

Hall became the 65th commander here after serving as Provost Marshal (Joint) United Nations Command, United States Forces-Korea and Eighth U.S. Army for two years.

He was commissioned after graduation from the University of Texas at Austin. In addition to earning a bachelor's degree at Texas, he earned a master's from Shippenburg State College, Pa.

The new commander entered the service in 1953 at Fort Sill, Okla. He has served numerous command and staff assignments with military police and infantry units, including two tours in Germany and two tours in Vietnam.

Tillman museum opening Sunday

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — Tillman County Historical Museum will officially open at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The rope used for the first legal hanging in the State of Oklahoma in Frederick has been loaned to the group to be on display that day from the Oklahoma Historical Society in Oklahoma City.

The museum, which was originally the Horse Creek School on north Deep Red has been reconstructed to match the original school.

The museum will be open until 4 p.m. A brief dedication ceremony will include music by the Frederick High School band. A granite marker will be placed in front of the building and it will be unveiled Sunday. The marker was donated by the Tillman County Monument and Century Granite Co. Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Sellers, of Indianola, Okla., who donated the bell, will be the first to ring it that day.

In charge of the Sunday exhibits are Mrs. Joyce Brown and Mrs. Frances Goodnight.

The historical museum is headed by the Rotary Club and much of the work has been by former President Bob Maxwell. Mrs. Velda Morton, who taught at the Horse Creek School, will also be present.

Humane Society awards banquet set Tuesday

Speaker at the fourth annual Lt. David L. Kelley Memorial Awards ceremony and banquet Tuesday will be Amy Freeman Lee of San Antonio.

The event, sponsored by the Humane Society of Wichita County, will be at the Trade Winds Motor Hotel Clipper Room. It will begin with a social hour at 6 p.m. Tuesday, followed by the dinner.

Five awards are to be presented, including the humanitarian award, two appreciation awards, achievement award and a wildlife award.

Title of Mrs. Lee's talk will be "Some Pet Ideas on the Humane Ethic."

An artist of stature — since 1945, her work has been shown in more than 750 exhibitions, including national and international — Mrs. Lee also is recognized for her role in the humane movement.

As a member of the Humane Society of the United States, she has served on the board of directors and as secretary. She also serves on the advisory board for the Gulf States Regional Office of the Humane Society of the United States.

In 30 years, Mrs. Lee has given 1,240 lectures throughout the United States and Mexico. She also is a prolific writer. Her first published article, which was devoted to the humane ethic, appeared in Nature magazine in 1937. Since then, she has had 174 literary works published.

Reservations for the dinner must be made by noon Monday. To make a reservation, call Betty Varnell at 855-4941 between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday or 10 a.m. to noon Monday or Jan Browne on Sunday.

Youngest Altus mayor sworn in ALTUS, Okla. (Special) — Lonnie Bevers, 25, became the youngest mayor in the history of Altus Tuesday when members of the new city government were sworn into office.

Bevers succeeds James Starr, Altus mayor for four years.

Catherine Coke, assistant city attorney, gave the oath of office to Bevers and other officials: Bernice Padgham, clerk-treasurer; Winston Higgs, Ward 3 councilman; James Parrish Jr., Ward 1 councilman; Buck Mims, Ward 4 councilman; Joe Pierce, street commissioner; James Stauffer, Ward 2 councilman; and Hoyt Benedict, chief of police.

The council approved the appointments made by Bevers to the various committees.

Appointed to the finance committee were Higgs, chairman, Leo Houck and Stauffer. Chairman of the personnel committee is Parrish and other members include Mims, Wilber Hammack and Wayne Ellis. Ellis also will be chairman of the management committee with Higgs and Mims as members. Houck will chair the community development committee, assisted by Parrish and Stauffer.

Houck was voted president of the council.

Bevers also appointed a task force consisting of Houck, Hammack and Parrish to work with the Altus Municipal Airport Advisory Board.

Mangum group seeking funds

MANGUM, Okla. (Special) — Golden Age Apartments, a newly formed non-profit corporation in Mangum, is trying to get Department of Housing and Urban Development funding to build housing units for elderly citizens in Mangum.

The corporation has an option on two buildings in downtown Mangum and has made an agreement with an Oklahoma City architecture firm that will deal with HUD on attaining the funds for the Mangum housing.

If the funding is approved, both buildings will be renovated to provide about 50 housing units. The housing will be available to persons 62 and older. There are no income standards involved, according to Phil Paxton, president of the Golden Age.

In addition to Paxton, other Golden Age officers are Ed Deaver, vice president, and Orvis McGuffin, secretary-treasurer. Members of the board of directors are Tom Cummings, Fleta Hill, Earline Choate, Leon Skinner, Loyd Gillingham, Jim Lovett and Bob Barnett.

Bi-State Chatter

By LEE ANDERSON
Regional Editor

A tornado, fire and self-protection safety seminar will be Monday in Memorial Civic Center in FREDERICK. The seminar will be sponsored by the safety committee of Tillman County Extension Homemakers. The seminar will begin at 2:30 p.m.

A total of $445 has been contributed by CHILDRESS residents to the Childress County chapter of American Red Cross for use as disaster relief in Wichita Falls, Vernon and Lawton, said Mrs. Weldon Teague, executive secretary. The money will be sent to Wichita County Red Cross, central agency for financing disaster relief.

Lake Altus is one of 22 sites in Oklahoma scheduled for intensive waterfowl management if a bill in the state legislature is approved, State Rep. Howard Cotner, ALTUS, said. A total of 20 acres of marsh is planned to benefit ducks, geese and sandhill cranes.

John Paul Goodnight of Yorktown, Texas, has been named athletic director and head football coach at CROWELL High School. He succeeds Ronnie Bourland, who resigned to take a similar post at Anson, Texas. The family is expected to move to Crowell this summer.

QUANAH Police Department and Citizens Band Radio Club will sponsor two films, "Spot a Tornado" and "The Baylor Killer," Monday in the Community Building. Films will begin at 8 p.m. and will be shown by Jerry Burge and John Taylor.

Lynn Gray of Montague has been named head of the newly formed Business Development Department of First National Bank of BOWIE, president Joe Probst said. Gray served as county clerk from 1973 to 1979.

MUNDAY Band Boosters Club said a junior high band festival will be held Saturday, April 28, in the high school auditorium. About 480 students from area schools will participate in the festival that begins at 9 a.m.

Wellington County Red Cross has collected a total of $1,387 in its 1979 drive, Earl Hunter of WELLINGTON said. He said $250 from the county fund has been sent to Vernon for disaster relief. Donations for the Vernon fund are being accepted at Herring National Bank.

Japanese women: modern riddle

By GEORGIE ANNE GEYER

TOKYO — Japanese women remain the riddle of the modern world. Their status remains the ultimate puzzle.

How can such an advanced, industrialized, egalitarian society have women still staying, even choosing to stay, in the background? Who can understand a country where all the women's liberation movements have failed and where women stop working when they get married?

Perhaps the most startling aspect for me came when I spent an afternoon talking with Prof. Sumiko Iwao, a woman sociology professor from Keio University. Japanese husbands, she said, almost never come home before midnight.

Not before midnight? Every night? Where were they?

She smiled indulgently. "We don't know," she said. "And we never ask." Nor does this woman, who travels alone to conferences all over the world, ask. "He says he is at the office, but I have called in emergencies and he never was," she said, unperturbed.

To deepen the conundrum, one finds such apparent contradictions as: 1) university-educated men more likely than their less-educated brothers wanting their wives to stay at home; 2) women more satisfied than men with all aspects of life: 70 percent feel

Inside Report

Where will summit take place?

WASHINGTON —

The struggle between the White House and the Kremlin over where Jimmy Carter will meet Leonid Brezhnev in the much-delayed summit conference is heating up, with no quick solution in sight.

Holding the whip hand is Brezhnev. He can plead poor health as a bar to travel. Soviet diplomats have bluntly informed the White House that the ailing Soviet president, although only 72, is under doctor's orders not to fly. That means a summit that can be reached by train: Geneva or Vienna.

But the freedom of Brezhnev's whip hand is restricted by the fact that it is the Russian's turn to come to the U.S., in return for Richard Nixon's summit trip to see Brezhnev in 1974, and Gerald Ford's to Vladivostok, also in 1974. Carter's top political aides and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski have warned him that an agreement to meet Brezhnev on Soviet soil would be politically damaging to Carter. Indeed, they warn it might even hurt in the Senate SALT debate.

But there's another reason Carter won't go to Moscow: the juicy prospect of a pre-election summit there in 1980. If Carter met Brezhnev on Soviet soil in 1979, a repeat in 1980 would be out of the question.

With a Brezhnev flight to Washington or Alaska out, the most likely prospect seems to be Vienna, easier to get to than Geneva. But it's not decided and some Carter advisers have been talking up Warsaw, homeland of Brzezinski's family. The problem with Warsaw is twofold: for Carter, its position as capital of the Warsaw Pact would make it embarrassing; for Brezhnev it would be unthinkable to meet Carter in a Soviet satellite after Carter refused to go to Moscow.

New Diet — It may not qualify as a "crash" diet, but Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's new, abstemious eating habits have reduced his bulk from 222 to 210 pounds in the last three weeks.

That is not enough, say Kennedy staffers who are pushing him to get down to at least 200 pounds. The senator's breakfast now is half a grapefruit and a cup of coffee without cream or sugar; lunch, a cup of consommé, lettuce and lean meat, without dessert, and dinner, lean meat, green vegetables and no dessert. Stricken from the Kennedy diet are bread, butter and potatoes.

One political expert to whom Kennedy confided details of what he called a "crash" diet is convinced the effort to slim down is dictated by presidential politics. Others don't agree. They think the driving force behind the fleshing-down process is vanity, pure and simple.

Chopper Fuel — When President Carter summoned his White House helicopter for another routine weekend trip to Camp David, the day after his energy speech to the nation, at least one top Carter aide was incredulous. The sub-cabinet-level official said the president could have scored high political and didactic points if he had foregone his weekend trip just that once, with an announcement explaining that he was practicing what he had preached on energy conservation.

Instead, Carter apparently gave the idea no thought and proceeded with business as usual. Likewise, on his Easter weekend trip to Georgia the president could have taken an energy-saving train to make a symbolic point. Instead, he flew in Air Force One.

The disdainful attitude toward his own appeals to reduce energy consumption raises this question: If the president does not cut down on energy consumption, why would he expect anyone else to do so? The White House response, that a solar heating system is being installed for part of the White House, is ridiculed as causing Jimmy Carter not the slightest personal discomfort.

Haig Campaign — The first Haig-for-president office has been opened in Chicago by a successful composer-conductor who stressed that his "Citizens for Haig" has been launched without the approval of Gen. Alexander M. Haig, outgoing NATO commander.

Indeed, Mark D. Camphouse, who said he has never met Haig, said he had not informed the general about his committee.

Stretching housing rule

A lively debate within the housing industry over the so-called "25 percent rule" governing how much a family can spend on housing is moot for residents of Wichita, Wilbarger and Clay counties and some in Foard County, Texas, and others in Tillman and Comanche counties in Oklahoma.

Housing for the foreseeable future in this area, hard-hit by the April 10 tornado activity, is a matter of what's available rather than what is affordable.

Americans, particularly young families, are obligating more than the traditional limit of 25 percent of income on housing. While there's no hard and fast rule, when Federal Housing Administration was the dominant factor in housing finance, 25 percent was an accepted yardstick for granting federally-insured loans.

Veterans Administration loans were considered to be based on a "20 percent rule," that placed an unofficial 20 percent of disposable income "as the ceiling for the amount a family could afford for housing.

Housing costs include real estate taxes, hazard insurance premiums and utility costs, as well as principal and interest payments on the mortgage.

Today almost 40 percent of all home buyers violate the 25 percent rule, suggesting it has become more of a guideline than a limitation. Many families are even violating with impunity the "33 percent rule," which places a limitation of 33 percent of income on the total long term installment indebtedness, including housing.

How are they doing it? By placing housing at a high priority. While this may not meet conservative standards, it's working for many.

Rebuilding under way

The roar of the April 10 tornado that destroyed about a fifth of Wichita Falls was replaced the next day with the ring of hammers as the city began almost immediately to rebuild what the storm had dismantled.

That's what the bumper stickers being distributed by Wichita Falls Board of Commerce & Industry mean. They read: "Wichita Falls is Coming Back. Strong and Fast!!" What they mean is that the city, estimated to require 17 years for rebuilding a day or so after the storm, is expected to return quicker than first anticipated.

Right now residents are beset on all sides by shortages. All types of lumber and building materials are in short supply or temporarily out of stock. On a long-term basis, labor probably will be the biggest problem in repairing the effects of the giant tornado.

Carpenters, bricklayers, electricians, plumbers and even handymen will have plenty to do for years here as a result of the storm. Many Wichitans plan to do much of their own work in rebuilding. Others must await a contractor, and contractors are so rushed they hardly know where to begin.

But activity is an excellent prescription to counter the despair that's at the edge of Wichitans' consciousness. Wichitans have a right to feel they've been dealt a cruel blow by nature. But those who remain alive can be thankful for that; those who are uninjured have that to be thankful for and those who suffered only property damage can be thankful for their limited good fortune.

Wichitans who suffered no loss should be the most thankful of all, and we're sure they'll continue to offer their help as long as it is needed by their less fortunate neighbors.

Small planes big business

By DON GRAFF

In air travel these days, small is turning out to be big business.

One of the unexpected but possibly most promising consequences of last year's deregulation of the U.S. airline industry has been a burgeoning of "mini" air passenger and freight services. The newcomers, often one or two-plane operations serving only a few points, are filling the void left by the massive rescheduling under way by the major carriers.

When Congress and Civil Aeronautics Board granted the airlines greater flexibility in routing flights and selecting cities served, critics feared smaller communities would be abandoned as major lines concentrated on the most lucrative markets.

They were right. More than 75 smaller cities, by a recent count, since last October have lost or have been notified of impending cancellation of scheduled service. But paradoxically, many may end up better served than before. While the traffic they generate is not sufficient to meet costs of service with it can be profitable for the small plane, low overhead operators. Categorized as commuter lines, they provide direct links among smaller cities and connections to points served by national and regional airlines.

By CAB count, more than 300 commuter lines are operating, many formed during the past year. Almost all are growing and the most promising territory is the West, with its widely separated and expanding urban centers.

Here, for another paradox, the fuel pinch works in the commuters' favor. The rising cost of operating automobiles over long distances is making small plane service a relatively economical means of intercity travel.

Pampered pig

Lucky the pig feels at home in the living room of Mrs. Edna Lynn of Duncan, Okla., but soon it will be back to the pigpen for Lucky. She thinks she's a dog, but her oink gives her away. (AP Photo)

Lucky the pig just like any other good pet

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP)—Lucky is just like any good pet — housebroken, able to sit up, roll over and heel on command.

And when Lucky wants out, she oinks.

Lucky was the runt of a 17-pig litter and would have been sacrificed if Edna Lynn hadn't taken a liking to her.

"She was so tiny you could have held her in the palm of your hand," Mrs. Lynn says.

She said one of her husband's employees raises pigs and she had asked several times that he give her one of the little ones that would normally be destroyed.

"He finally took me up on it," she says.

Mrs. Lynn had to bottle-feed Lucky on a two-hour schedule for the first several weeks of her life.

Lucky's diet now is not pig-like. She eats mainly table scraps, dry dog food and an occasional bag of potato chips when she is lounging on the living room rug watching television.

And being raised with Mrs. Lynn's two Mexican Chihuahuas has given Lucky an identity crisis.

"She thinks she's a dog but was a lot easier to train," Mrs. Lynn says. "I never had any idea pigs could be so smart ... or so clean."

Lucky has learned to push open the screen door when she wants out and even uses a towel left by the entryway to wipe the mud from her nose when she comes in.

And Mrs. Lynn says almost daily walks with Lucky on the end of a leash never fail to be a traffic stopper.

Lucky's pampered days are numbered, though. "She used to come and curl up in my lap, but now she can just rest her head there," Mrs. Lynn said.

Lucky weighs only 50 pounds now, but eventually will tip the scales at around 600 pounds — a little bit too much to have around the house. And then there's a municipal ordinance that makes it illegal to keep farm animals inside the city limits.

In a few weeks Lucky will be returned to the farm where she was born, a move that Mrs. Lynn fears will be traumatic for both her and Lucky.

"We took her back to visit her brothers and sister a few weeks ago and she didn't want anything to do with those pigs," Mrs. Lynn said. "The pigpen was too stinky for her and all she wanted to do was go home and play with the dogs."

Oklahoma

Witness details Silkwood jokes

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Other Kerr-McGee Corp. employees joked about the information-gathering activities of union activist Karen Silkwood, whose estate is suing the company for $11.5 million in damages, one of her co-workers testified Friday.

Gary Longaker, 36, of Oklahoma City said he and about 20 other technicians in the nuclear fuel plant lab where Miss Silkwood worked strongly opposed union representation for lab employees.

He said that in addition to joking about her efforts to gather information on the plant's safety, her fellow workers also clashed with her over her union work.

Longaker said he quit his job at Kerr-McGee because he felt the union was going to lead to the closing of the plant.

"I was upset ... he said. 'I felt my job was being jeopardized over something I didn't feel was important.'"

Miss Silkwood's survivors accused the company of negligence in connection with her contamination with plutonium. The company claims she contaminated herself either on purpose or accidentally in her efforts to show the company had poor safety standards.

At the time of her death in a Nov. 13, 1974, auto crash, Miss Silkwood was trying to get supporting evidence of her allegations that Kerr-McGee falsified nuclear reactor fuel rod quality reports.

"It was sort of a running joke," he said. "We used to say she ought to wear a hat and cape ... She would come into a room, write down something in a notebook and go out. Nobody really knew why she was taking notes."

Longaker also testified that Miss Silkwood received a written reprimand at his instigation.

Goering letter brings in $600

NEW YORK (AP) — A letter signed by Hermann Goering, Hitler's Luftwaffe chief during World War II, was sold Thursday at auction for $600 by a New York firm specializing in autographs.

The letter was written by the Nazi official on March 18, 1946, while he was being tried in Germany for war crimes. It was addressed to a nurse in Straubing, Germany, but was intercepted by a souvenir-seeking American GI who recognized the famous name.

In the letter, which had to be passed by the American censor at the prison in Nuremberg, Goering told the woman he appreciated her loyalty and urged her not to believe what she may have read in the "enemy press."

Study may reduce future casualties

By CINDY RUGELEY
Staff Writer

Investigators from the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta are optimistic that studies of tornado-related injuries in Wichita Falls and Vernon may help reduce future deaths and injuries.

Investigators plan to expand their research beginning Saturday by seeking information from seriously injured victims who have been discharged from hospitals and by sending 50 field workers into the damage area to interview persons whose homes were destroyed.

Dr. Robert Craven, Dr. Roger Glass and Peter Kerndt have interviewed most of the tornado victims who remain hospitalized; however, many left before they could be interviewed.

"It has been difficult to contact these people, but it's important to find out the circumstances surrounding all serious injuries so recommendations to reduce future such incidents will be based on the best possible information," Craven said.

Disaster victims who were hospitalized for their injuries for two days or more, their families or close friends are encouraged to call the Disaster Aid Hotline, 855-4910. A trained operator will record the information, which will be kept confidential.

Craven explained that the investigative team has several theories that must be thoroughly tested.

"To do this, we need to ask key questions of persons who were in the path of the tornado. That's what the 50 field workers will be doing Saturday in neighborhoods hit by the tornado. We hope that disaster victims who are working around their homes will take a few minutes to answer our questions."

About 30 volunteers from Sheppard AFB, five Midwestern State University professors and federal disaster assistance personnel will make up the task force that will enter the damaged area at 10 a.m. Saturday.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

To American National Life and Health Insurance Policyowners in Wichita Falls and Vernon

During the period of emergency which now exists because of the recent tornadoes, your company is offering special assistance by:

1. EXTENDING PREMIUM PAYMENT TIME

Policyowners prevented by tornado damage from paying American National life or health insurance premiums on time will be granted an additional 31 days for payment of premiums, without any interest charge. This applies where the regular grace period for the policy expires between April 10 and May 11, 1979.

2. RAPID SERVICE ON LOAN APPLICATIONS

If extra cash is essential to meet emergency needs, contact your American National representative or branch office regarding the amount of loans available to you on your life policy or policies.

3. PRIORITY SERVICE ON CLAIMS PAYMENT

Arrangements have been made to expedite claims from policyowners or their dependents. Immediate service may be obtained by contacting your American National representative or your nearest American National branch office.

IMPORTANT:

If you have relocated temporarily or permanently, notify your American National branch office promptly of your new address in order for policyowner service to continue. American National representatives will assist policyowners who have policies and will be happy to answer questions concerning their insurance.

O'Neill remark on Ireland sparks furor in Britain

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A remark by U.S. House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill that Britain has made a "political football" out of war-torn Ulster touched off a furor Friday. Britons hotly denied the charge and suggested that Irish-Americans were out of touch.

Margaret Thatcher, leader of the opposition Conservative Party, told a London news conference: "We have never used Ulster as a political football between the parties. Events there are too deeply tragic for any of us to do that."

In a television interview later, Mrs. Thatcher said her party feels "You really cannot get a solution until you have defeated terrorism." She said its position paper was finished by Northern Ireland spokesman Airey Neave on March 30, four hours before he was killed by a car bomb as he was leaving Parliament.

O'Neill's remark, seen in Britain as an unwelcome American intervention in the touchy Northern Ireland dispute, was part of a speech he made Thursday night at a Dublin banquet for him and five other congressmen currently on a tour of Ireland.

O'Neill said: "There is no more serious problem on the agenda of British politics than a crisis which has claimed 2,000 lives and caused almost 20,000 serious injuries. The problem has been treated as a political football in London, or has otherwise been given a low priority."

The Irish Republican Army has been waging a war since 1969 to sever the Protestant-dominated province from Britain and unite it with the Irish Republic in the south, which is 94 percent Roman Catholic. An upsurge of violence in the past two weeks has killed 12 members of the security forces.

Prime Minister James Callaghan was in Wales campaigning for the May 3 general elections. Cabinet minister Shirley Williams, speaking for his government, said Irish-Americans had little understanding of what is happening in Ireland and O'Neill's remarks were "unfair."

"Many of them, I believe, still regard the situation in both parts of Ireland as essentially that existing when they first left for the United States in the 19th or early 20th Century," Mrs. Williams told a London news conference.

More criticism came from Ciaran McKeown, former leader of Peace People, the reconciliatory Northern Ireland group that won the 1976 Nobel Peace Prize.

Crewman still missing after oil tanker explosion

NEDERLAND, Texas (AP)

— Firefighters found the charred remains of a one crewman Friday and were still searching for another feared lost when a lightning strike triggered an explosion that ripped through a Liberian oil tanker here, Coast Guard officials said.

The Coast Guard said Thursday night's blasts injured 30 of the Seaglider's 33 crewmen and two dockworkers at the Sun Oil Co. terminal on the Neches River.

The missing crewman was last seen dangling on a rope hanging over the side of the blazing, 122,000-ton ship. Justice of the Peace Johnny Knowles said other crewmen reported the man could not swim.

Coast Guard Cmdr. Merrill Louks said the unidentified dead crewman was found on the deck this morning and that the other man was presumed dead.

A "big flash of lightning" hit the tanker, followed by an "explosion — a big boom," said Warren Davis, who was standing about 150 feet from the Seaglider. "We got away from it as fast as we could."

He said the flames shot 150 feet in the air.

A spokesman at Park Place Hospital said seven persons remained hospitalized Friday, three in the intensive care unit in stable condition.

"An explosion from within just peeled the metal back," said fire department spokesman Jerry May. "There is a hole in the ship 100 to 150 feet long in the top middle. The metal is just laid back. There is a crack about 40 feet long down the side of the hull."

John Shaw, a Sun Oil vice president, said the lightning and explosion left most of the mid-section a mass of twisted and torn metal.

Coast Guard Lt. Kim Zigler said the 850-foot, five-year-old tanker was resting on the bottom in about 40 feet of water. But he said the top of the ship was still above the water line.

New postmaster sworn in here

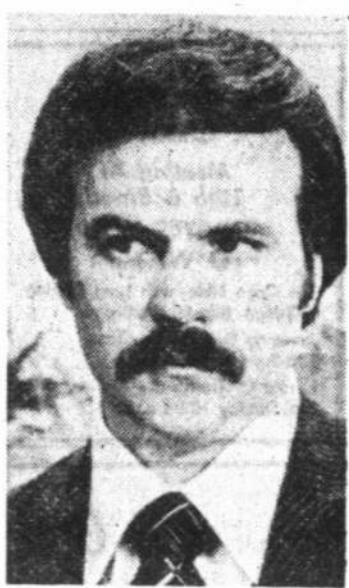

John R. Reed has been sworn in as Wichita Falls postmaster. He is a native of Crockett, Texas, and was postmaster of Hattiesburg, Miss., for 5½ years.

The appointment is effective Saturday. Reed succeeds officer-in-charge J.L. Walker, who has managed the Wichita Falls post office since last spring, when Eugene Broussard was terminated.

The new Wichita Falls postmaster has been a postal employee for 15 years, beginning as a letter carrier in Houston. He served at Conroe, Texas, before becoming Hattiesburg postmaster on Sept. 29, 1973.

Reed was a member of Hattiesburg planning board, chamber of commerce and Rotary Club. He was on the board of United Way in Hattiesburg, and was chairman of the Forrest-Lamar counties combined federal campaign for United Way.

He was a member of the board of Southeast Mississippi Community Action Agency and is immediate past president of the Mississippi chapter of National Association of Postmas-

Reed was a member and Sunday school teacher at Main Street Baptist Church in Hattiesburg.

Both he and his wife, Nora, who also is a native of Conroe, were graduated from high school there. They have four daughters, Joyce, 16; Renee, 13; Rema 11 and Rachel, 9.

Financial aid keeps pouring in Financial aid from other cities for Wichita Falls tornado victims continued to pour into Wichita Falls Friday.

Mayor C.Y. Rone of Azle, Texas, invited Wichita Falls Mayor Kenneth Hill to Azle Sunday to accept funds raised in an auction there.

Hill said he is looking forward to meeting and thanking Azle residents for their support.

Tyler, Texas, Evening Lions Club sent a $300 check to the Wichita Falls Lions Club to assist in Wichita Falls' recovery.

The $300 was the proceeds of a charity golf tournament held by the Tyler club in early April.

The Brookfield, Wis., Lions Club sent $500 to the Wichita Falls club to aid in recovery.

Toll-free number set up for data

* Persons desiring to acquire information on out-of-city contractors can call a toll-free number, the Wichita Falls Board of Commerce and Industry, said Friday.

South Plains Better Business Bureau has established the number. Persons with a complaint about a contractor should also notify the bureau at the number.

The number is 1-800-692-4466.

ATTENTION DISASTER VICTIMS

Victims of W/F tornado who are Texas Farmers Insurance Company policyholders should report their claims immediately, according to James MacKinnon, president. He said victims insured with other member companies of Farmers Insurance Group should follow the same procedure.

Mr. MacKinnon said that a special Farmers Disaster Team has been rushed to the devastated area and a local Disaster Office has been set up at 3006 Midwestern Pkwy. Phone 692-0953 "We expect several thousand claims to be made for damage done by this tornado," said Mr. MacKinnon. "We urge our policyholders who have claims to promptly contact our Emergency Office in the disaster areas."

He said that these instructions apply to claims for home, business, automobile and their property.

Churches, aid centers report too many goods

By MARK PEEL
Staff Writer

It may be because the victims of the April 10 tornado don't have any storage space yet or because most victims are obtaining aid from other agencies, but several Wichita Falls churches and other organizations Friday reported an overabundance of goods and too few victims collecting them.

Capt. Linda Delaney of the Salvation Army said that by Thursday afternoon, more than 6,500 victims have been helped at the Salvation Army's distribution center at Harrell Elementary School at 3115 Fifth.

"It's been sort of an up-and-down thing and right now it seems to be back up again," Delaney said.

The Salvation Army is providing free food, clothing, furniture, bedding, cleaning supplies and several other items needed by disaster victims. The center is open daily from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Lou Hill with the Amvets Store at 717 Indiana said the center has aided "about 20 families" the last two days.

"We're going to be set up here indefinitely," Mrs. Hill said. "It may take two or three months to get it all out because right now, people don't have transportation or housing, so they don't have any way to get down here or anywhere to store it."

The store is open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily except Sunday.

"I don't think we had anybody come in today and we've had very few at all so far," said Mrs. Sharon Smith with the Faith City Mission, located at 402 Lamar. "The only ones to come in have already found housing of some sort or have somewhere to store what they pick up. We're just covered up with clothing."

Jim Sherman, chief of Public Information Office at Sheppard Air Force Base, said the base's Family Services Center and The Attic, a center for younger airmen, have consolidated resources at Warehouse 18 at the base.

The center is providing free clothes, cooking supplies and bedding for any disaster victim in need. The center is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and more information may be obtained by calling 855-6568.

Lori Hamberger with American Legion Post 264 in Burkburnett said that center has been open since Tuesday and has plenty of goods for American Legion members and all others needing disaster aid.

"We've got a bunch of clothing and food and a little furniture, but we haven't had very many people come by yet," she said. "We're hunting for some big boxes we can use to sort all the clothing out we've received."

Betty Scott with the University United Methodist Church said the response at her center has been "gradual" so far. "We've been open since Wednesday and we've had about 50 or 60 people who have come through to get things," said Mrs. Scott. "We have mostly clothing, but we do have some linens, some canned goods and kitchen utensils."

The situation seems to be the same at Faith Village Church of Christ, said Marjorie Lofton. "It's been real slow (Friday)," said Mrs. Lofton. "We've got clothes galore, a lot of groceries and a lot of bedding and a little furniture. I feel like we have a lot of things people need if they would just get out here to pick it up."

However, Don Tinsley with Southwest Baptist Church said that center has been fairly busy. "We've had quite a few people come through," said Tinsley. "Mostly, it's been through word of mouth. We've got all of our goods organized by sizes and it's really just like a department store. We mostly have a lot of clothes, but we do have some groceries left, too."

Floral Heights United Methodist also reports plenty of clothing, bedding, furniture and dishes.

For more information about other disaster aid centers, victims should check the Record News Community Bulletin Board, which is published daily.

City church to celebrate anniversary

Gilbert Memorial CME Church will celebrate the closing of its 74th anniversary Sunday with a 3 p.m. program in the sanctuary.

The church was organized in 1905 by the late Rev. W.M. Titus. It was named Titus Chapel CME Church and was located in the 200 block of Park.

In 1927, land was purchased at 713 Redwood for the new church. Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Hamilton donated money to build the basement, where services were held until the building was completed in 1929.

The church was renamed Gilbert Memorial Christian Methodist Church in honor of the late John Wesley Gilbert, the church's first missionary to Africa.

There have been 23 pastors in the 74-year history of the church. The present pastor is the Rev. S.M. Berliner Jr., formerly of Abilene, Texas. The Rev. G.R. Patterson, presiding elder now, pastored Gilbert Memorial for 20 years.

Church slates testimony series

Z.Z. Renfro of Independence, Mo., will be guest speaker at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints' "Testimony of Jesus" series.

The series will run Sunday through April 29. Renfro served the church 38 years as a full-time minister before receiving his superannuation pin at the World Church Conference on April 18, 1966.

A member of the church's Order of Evangelists since 1960, he continues to minister as a "spiritual father" to the membership, being freed of administrative responsibility.

Moscow cathedral being restored

MOSCOW (AP) — One of the best-known buildings in the world, Red Square's St. Basil's Cathedral, has disappeared inside what the Russians call a "forest" of scaffolding for a rare restoration.

From now until autumn, the 10-domed church that looks something like a giant multi-colored tutti frutti will be a fuzzy blur of iron piping beside the Kremlin, from its 16th century foundations to its glittering golden crosses.

As soon as Moscow's spring frosts melt, a band of 120 workmen trained in ancient construction techniques will begin cleaning the grime — from a nearby power plant — off the cluster of onion-shaped domes decorated like a cornucopia of pineapples and artichokes.

Meanwhile, historians are climbing about on the scaffolding, searching the building's vaults and crevices for clues to its history.

"As long as I've worked with this building, there is always a new surprise," said architect Nikolai Sobolev, who has spent more than 50 years studying St. Basil's.

His tenure goes back to the days when the building still housed a working church, in 1929, and spans the Stalin years of wanton destruction of churches, during which time St. Basil's itself was narrowly saved from demolition.

Only in recent years have Soviet newspapers confirmed that the demolition was planned. It was stopped after prominent architect Pyotr Baranovsky threatened to kill himself if the scheme was carried out. Baranovsky was jailed but later released.

The new restoration work, the second in the church's history, points up the atheist Soviet government's new attitude toward Russia's unique onion-domed churches, whose newly recognized value as tourist magnets and historical monuments have led to a new preservation law. Of the 657 churches in Moscow on the eve of the 1917 Bolshevik revolution, only 100 to 150 stand today, according to Soviet officials, and only 46 of these are ever used for worship.

But the government spend thousands of rubles a year in the restoration of selected churches, as non-religious "architectural monuments." The St. Basil's restoration alone will cost $840,000, Sobolev said.

St. Basil's itself is now a museum, the architectural symbol of Russia, drawing one million visitors a year — so many, Sobolev said in an interview, that its brick-and-stone floors are worn down and must be replaced each five years.

Not everybody finds St. Basil's beautiful. A French traveler a century ago huffed, "certainly... the men who go to pray in this box of glazed fruit are not Christians."

Sobolev said the church's restorers will repaint faded interiors and exteriors with chemical-based paints that use the natural pigments of the original colors, will replace broken masonry and brick, and will bring to life some faded or hidden frescoes of the inner walls.

The restoration crew is the same that has almost completed a major 10-year refurbishing of the neighboring Kremlin with its massive red-brick walls and towers and its ensemble of graceful churches.

NEW YORK (AP) — Paid religious television shows by individual performers are driving public-service programs backed by the nation's major faiths off the air, a new study finds. It says the shift has "narrowed" the output.

The situation, surmised in the Missionaries set at banquet

Two men who have lived with the Kono tribe in Sierra Leone, West Africa, for four years and a member of the National Scripture Union of Sierra Leone will be guest speakers at a banquet scheduled Friday.

Bill Rasch and Ed Mueller, members of Lutheran Bible Translators, have spent four years in Sierra Leone analyzing the Kono language and translating the Gospel of Mark into Kono.

Dr. Modupe Taylor-Pearce, of the National Scripture Union, also will speak at the banquet about the translation effort.

Persons interested in attending the banquet, which will be at Holiday Inn East, are asked to call 322-1523 for reservations.

Industry for some time, was statistically documented in a study of broadcast patterns over the last 20 years on a cross-section of the country's TV outlets.

The trend "has considerably narrowed the sources and content of religious programming" in America, says the joint report by Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox representatives.

It was submitted to the Federal Communications Commission, appealing to it to restore its former policy of crediting stations in seeking license renewals for carrying unpaid, sustaining programs.

Blaming abandonment of that policy in 1960 for the "marked reduction in the diversity of program service," the report cites the sharp rise in commercial religious shows and steep decline in those representing the main religious bodies of U.S. communities.

"Religious programming, in particular, has become unbalanced and unrepresentative, and the public interest has been disserved," the report says.

The study found that paid religious TV broadcasts have climbed from about half the total in 1959 to 92 percent now.

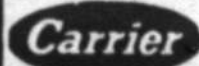

Revival scheduled

A new life revival meeting at Pleasant Valley Baptist Church will begin at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The Rev. Jack Jordan, pastor of Shasta Baptist Church, will preach and a nursery will be available.

Burkburnett city charter opposed

By Brenda Simmons
Regional Staff Writer
BURKBURNETT — A Burk-burnett City Charter provision that calls for a secret ballot of the city council in electing a mayor is being challenged.

During Tuesday's city council meeting, Burk Burnett councilmen, on their fifth secret ballot, re-elected Brack Preston as mayor.

The vote was taken during the public meeting, but in accordance with the city charter, how each member voted was kept secret.

"I feel that is illegal, according to the Texas Open Meetings Law," Mrs. Thomas Smith of Burkburnett said. "And I do not know why it should have been secret. They shouldn't be ashamed of how they (the council) voted," she added.

A Burk Burnett resident for 11 years, Mrs. Smith said she would like the city charter changed and the mayor selected by the people. "I don't feel like any six or seven people should have the right to elect our mayor," she said.

Alderman Billy Ray Mize

Blue law won't be enforced

Waiver of blue law enforcement in Wichita Falls has been extended through Sunday to meet needs and reduce inconvenience to victims of the April 10 tornado.

Mayor Kenneth Hill said he made the decision after checking with relief agencies and storm victims.

Hill said a need continues for victims of the storm to be able to buy household supplies, equipment, clothing and other merchandise normally restricted from sale by merchants seven consecutive days per week.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A citizens group is praising the decision by the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission to freeze a previously approved $49 million rate increase for Metropolitan Edison Co., which owns the Three Mile Island nuclear reactor.

said the council follows the charter in its election procedure. Mize said City Manager
Gary Bean, who was out of town
Friday, may contact Texas
Municipal League for an opinion on legality of the charter provision.

Former Burk Burnett City Attorney Joe Janke, who resigned at Tuesday's meeting, said the city's method of electing the mayor is legal.

"I can't find anything in the Open Meetings Law that says you can't do that (ballot secretly)," Janke said.

Mrs. Smith said she has asked an attorney for the correct procedure in changing the charter and will begin working on a petition when a new city attorney is selected.

In 1978, then Texas Attorney General John Hill ruled governmental bodies, including city councils and school boards, could not vote secretly in public meetings.

However, Janke said Hill's ruling was not binding. "It's just one man's opinion," he said.

THE WICHITA FALLS CLINIC IS MOVING TO TEMPORARY OFFICES

Tornado and rain damages have forced the Wichita Falls Clinic to close its offices at 501 Midwestern Parkway until a new roof can be installed and other repairs completed. The Clinic will move its offices to temporary quarters at the Bethania Hospital and Medcenter. The following information will help our patients to utilize our services without interfering with the functions of these hospitals.

1. Please use the entrance on Eleventh Street to the central portion of the Bethania Hospital building. Avoid entering through the new part of the hospital.
Use Medicenters main entrance.
2. Parking has been made available for our patients at the Saint Paul Lutheran Church at 1417 Eleventh Street and the First Baptist Church at 1300 Eighth Street. The Clinic will run a van on a ten to fifteen minute schedule to pick-up and return patients to these parking areas.
3. Physicians will be located as follows:
BETHANIA HOSPITAL
a. Second Floor: Dr. Joseph Bilder, Warren Kable, Frank Lee, and George Slaughter
b. Third Floor: Drs. J. B. Hathorn, Melvin Horany, Madeleine Kent, Preston McCall, P.K. Smith, and Wendell Wyatt
c. Fourth Floor: Drs. Dalton Carpenter, Lowell Harvey, Rick Ho, James Lee, Jack Maxfield, Cecil Meares, Richard Moore, and Clyde Parsons
MEDICENTER
a. Third Floor: Drs. Caras, Cason, Pogue, and Sleeper
Dr. John Wurster will be practicing temporarily at 1511
Tenth Street, Phone — 723-7137.

4. Regular office hours will be maintained — 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.
weekdays and 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon Saturdays.

5. Our phone number 766-3551 will remain the same.

We want to express our appreciation to the many people who have and are helping us during these difficult days. We are especially grateful to our patients for their understanding and consideration. We will endeavor to provide medical care to our patients with the least inconvenience.

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (AP) — More than 600
Cambodian civilians and soldiers — a third of them wounded — fled into Thailand on Friday after heavy fighting was reported between the forces of ousted Premier Pol Pot and Vietnamese-led troops along the Thai border.

Officials at this border town near the key Cambodian town of Poipet said the wounded were sent for treatment at the provincial hospital but the rest were refused sanctuary in Thailand.

Gen. Prem Tinsulanonda, Thailand's interior minister and army commander-in-chief, said in a policy statement Thursday the wounded, elderly or young would be accepted. He said able-bodied Cambodians would be considered escapees.

not refugees, and pushed back into their native land.

Officials said local doctors and medical personnel of the International Red Cross were called in Friday to perform emergency surgery on the wounded.

Authorities said they spent the day trying to push back more than 5,000 Cambodians who fled across the border Thursday north of Aranyaprathet.

Among the 5,000 were about 1,000 soldiers loyal to the deposed Cambodian premier, who has been fighting a guerrilla war against the Vietnamese-installed government of Heng Samrin that took power in January.

Thailand's refusal to accept the fleeing Cambodians has spawned a controversy between the government and the U.N.

High Commission for Refugees.

A spokesman for the agency in Bangkok said the government had promised refugees would not be turned back against their will, but "subsequent actions were different from what was promised."

School plant sale

Iowa Park High School horticulture class has extended its annual plant sale through Saturday. The sale opened last weekend but was held over because of the April 10 tornado. Conducted at the high school's greenhouse off U.S. 287, the sale will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Numerous tomato and pepper plants are available along with hanging baskets and other house plants. Seniors helping with the sale include Irene Arredondo, left, Kip Fuller and Blaine Kidwell. (Photo by Brenda Simmons)

Navy hopes to get bargain on four new ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy could save about $800 million if Congress allows it to buy four advanced destroyers ordered by the shah of Iran but canceled after his overthrow, a top Navy official said Friday. "It's a great opportunity to pick up a bargain," Navy Undersecretary James Woolsey told newsmen. Woolsey said the Navy could buy the four ships for $340 million apiece, the price the shah contracted to pay several years ago, rather than the current cost of $540 million each.

Davis ordered to pay $3 million

FORT WORTH (AP) — Industrialist Cullen Davis was granted a divorce Friday by a judge who ordered him to pay $3.3 million to the wife he is accused of trying to kill.

But the judge said Priscilla Davis, 37, who had sought $50 million, must surrender the couple's $6 million mansion within 30 days.

State District Judge Clyde Ashworth, the third judge to preside over the nearly 5-year-old proceeding, also said she could keep her luxury car, personal belongings and her horse, Freedom.

"She is welcome to get on Freedom and just ride out of town," commented Davis, 45, who said he was "just happy to get it over with."

"I thought it was a fair decision. I am not pleased she got so much money," he said. "I didn't want to give her anything."

Davis said he probably would not appeal and said he planned to marry his girlfriend, Karen Master, "as soon as she will have me."

Ashworth awarded Mrs. Davis $3,340,818 but said the mansion was built on land owned by Davis and was not part of the community property.

In issuing his decision, Ashworth told both parties he was "frankly sorry you've had unhappiness in your lives and your marriage."

"If there was some way I could do it," the judge said, "I'd like to turn back the pages to the fall of 1968 and erase much of what has happened."

Mrs. Davis told one reporter she would be glad to move out of the 20-room mansion. "It already had termites," she said.

However, she said she didn't know where she was going to live. "I really don't know right now. I'll kick it around and come up with something."

Division of property was the only issue in the bitter proceeding, which was delayed by Davis' 1977 Amarillo murder trial and his Houston murder-solicitation trial.

Ashworth ruled that Davis acquired most of his vast fortune before he married Priscilla. He said Davis made $6,649,999 during the couple's stormy 10-year marriage and ruled Mrs. Davis would receive half of that.

He also ordered Davis to pay the couple's taxes for 1978 and all previous years.

Lawyers for Mrs. Davis had argued she was due half the $100 million they claimed Davis realized in corporate profits from his 84-company business empire. They also contended she should receive the mansion, her personal belongings and her car in any settlement.

Ashworth awarded Mrs. Davis' lawyers $1.25 million, ordered Davis to pay half and ruled Mrs. Davis must pay the remainder.

Mrs. Davis also said her third divorce did not sour her views on marriage.

Out 'N About

Spring turkey season opens

By JOHN THOMPSON
Outdoor Writer

This weekend marks the beginning of a very special hunting season for a goodly number of Texas hunters. Today marks the opening of spring turkey season in many counties where turkeys are common, and it is also the opening of one of the most challenging forms of hunting available today.

I suppose the degree of challenge depends upon the experiences you have had as a turkey hunter. For me they are extremely tough to bring down. For my son they are pretty easy.

He went one time, had a turkey called to within 15 feet of where he was hiding, popped it in the head and it was all over.

I have been annually since the spring turkey season finally made its way to Texas.

I've missed them because I called too much, too little, and too poorly.

Wild gobblers are smart, they see extremely well, and somehow they always seem to know when I'm around.

I suppose my best shot at bagging a spring gobbler came several years ago near Menard. This area is infested with turkeys, and you usually don't have to be much of a hunter to get one.

In the fall it is a snap to put wild turkey on the table, but let the spring season roll around and you have another ball game entirely.

I was well camouflaged and sitting in the middle of a small live oak thicket. Turkeys normally passed by this spot on their way to the roost, and I figured all I had to do was wait them out.

Sure enough, after sitting there picking ticks off to pass the time, I spotted a cluster of hens making their way toward me. I watched them feed their way up, and when they got right beside me they spotted something in the thicket that wasn't just right.

But, I kept extremely still, and after a bit they decided I was harmless and continued to feed their way past the thicket. Just as they moved to my right, a gobbler let loose with a tremendous gobble.

He was straight ahead of me about 100 yards and looking at my group of visitors. The big bird would take a few steps, gobble and then strut and drum.

It was a beautiful sight. The hens were somewhat impressed also, and they were staying put to watch the show. I really knew I had it made then, with natural decoys and callers.

Seemingly fascinated with his own show, the gobbler was taking his sweet time, gobbling, strutting and then taking a few more steps.

My decoys were sticking by, and they would cluck, feed and amble around, without making much move toward leaving the show. I sat there like a stump dressed in camouflage, felt a tick making its way up my neck and didn't so much as blink.

Finally the gobbler, feathers glistening in the evening sun, his beard dusting the grass tops, was almost within range. He was still about 70 yards away, but coming steadily.

It was then that my hunting companion, sitting in another thicket a few hundred yards away broke up my happy home. He had three gobblers walk within 15 yards of him, and he dropped one.

My hens went one way, my gobbler another, and I sat there with only the hungry ticks for company.

Of course, this was only one of the times I have missed sure things on spring gobblers. I have missed them by moving too much and by moving too little.

Just how I will miss the one this spring I don't know, but it is a better than even money bet that something will happen to keep me from making a kill.

It is a testimony to the thrill of spring hunting for gobblers, however, that I don't really mind all the misses. It is a super sport no matter what the outcome, and I wouldn't miss it for anything.

Tornado's aftermath

There will be hundreds of boats, campers and other recreational vehicles missing on area lakes and at parks this summer as a result of last week's devastating tornado. Scores of boating and camping rigs were twisted and battered by the killer funnel that slammed into the city. (Photo by Lee Anderson)

Texas railroad operating

The popular Texas State Railroad in East Texas is operating this spring on weekends only, and will begin an expanded summer schedule the last weekend in May.

The 50-mile round trip carries passengers through the pineywoods on an old steam locomotive between the cities of Rusk and Palestine.

Starting May 26 during Memorial weekend, the expanded summer schedule with round trips five days a week, Thursday through Sunday, will begin.

In addition to the round trip ride, passengers can travel one way only or select a new, short round trip about half-way between the two depots to the Mewshaw Switch. The short round trip is offered only on Saturday and Sunday.

For additional information and reservations call (214) 638-2561 or write TSR, P.O. Box 39, Rusk, Texas, 75785. Camping and picnicking facilities are also available.

Childress joggers organize

CHILDRESS, Texas (Special) — A newly-organized jogging club in Childress is off and running.

Officers have been elected for the Childress Road Runners, a jogging group for all ages. Heading the slate of officers is Bill Lynch as president. Vice president is Wayne Lindley, Kenneth Baker, secretary; and DeAnn Halford, treasurer. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons have been set aside by club members for group jogging. Sessions start at 6 p.m. at the high school parking lot.

Several activities also are planned, including predicted time runs. Each runner will predict his own time before such a race, and the one running closest to his estimated time without using a watch will win the event. Achievement level runs also are planned. Those who break the set time will move up a level.

Memberships in the club are being accepted, and prospective members are asked to contact Lynch or any of the other officers.

Mangum snake hunt, flea market under way

MANGUM, Okla. (Special) — Annual Mangum Rattlesnake Derby and Flea Market opened Friday and will continue through Sunday with headquarters in the downtown area.

Saturday's list of activities will include snake hunting, crowning of new rattlesnake queen, flea market, domino tournament, snake pit and butcher shop and a country and western dance.

Sunday's events will include snake hunting, devotional services, flea market and award presentations. Awards will be given for largest snake, most pounds, most snakes, shortest snake and marked snakes.

The event is produced by Shortgrass Rattlesnake Association and is sponsored by Great Plains Country and Mangum-Greer County Chamber of Commerce.

Light is name of tackle game

CLEVELAND (AP) — The operative word for fishing tackle, now and for the next few years, is light. That's the observation of Dick Kotis, immediate past president of the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturers Association.

In rods, "there's no question but the direction is to highly sophisticated graphite and boron," Kotis said. The best graphite rods, though, Kotis said, are a combination of graphite and fiberglass.

When manufacturers first started getting heavily into graphite rods "they were breaking," Kotis said, "until they were mixed with glass." Now, you "can buy a good graphite rod for $40. That's less than a couple of years ago," he said.

Light, smooth, better balanced reels are here already, said Kotis, adding "If I had to pick one that has led the charge (in improving reels) it's Daiwa.

"It's unbelievable how much smoother the new reels are. They're so much better balanced...and the speed of the new reels is fantastic," said Kotis, president of Fred Arbogast Lures of Akron, Ohio.

When it comes to lures, Kotis sees printed finishes expanding. "In the next two years we're going to see four-color and three dimensional" lures in everybody's tacklebox.

The printed finishes make lures look nearly lifelike, scales and all.

Right now, all the lure manufacturers are making their decisions for next year, Kotis said.

"All the major manufacturers are going to be putting out printed baits," he said. As for Arbogast: "We will not make a fish finish on surface lures. I'm probably wrong, but you never see a bass swimming half out of the water."

And in keeping with the trend toward lighter tackle, Kotis sees the lures being "down-sized" too.

Striper tourney set at Texoma

LAKE TEXOMA — The first nationally sponsored striped bass tournament at Lake Texoma will be May 19 and will be under direction of American Striped Bass Society, headquartered in Edgfield, S.C.

Jerry Allen, president of the group, said this will be the seventh striper tournament in the history of ASBS.

"The emergence of Lake Texoma as a striped bass fishery led to the selection of this lake," Allen said.

The tournament will be headquartered at Tanglewood-on-Texoma, with Tanglewood's fishing supervisor Paul Lalla, assisting with the tournament.

Entry fee is $20 and includes membership in the ASBS and qualifies participants for a chance at the $1,000 first prize.

Interested anglers can send their entry fee directly to Tanglewood-on-Texoma, P.O. Box 265, Pottsboro, Texas. All checks should be made to the American Striped Bass Society.

Solunar table

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from Mrs. Alden Knight's SOLUNAR TABLES. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times. If you wish to find the best spot that each day has to offer. The Major Periods begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods are of somewhat shorter duration.

Old Settlers group hears congressman

By ORA LEE FRAZIER
Correspondent

PADUCAH, Texas — U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower spoke briefly to a crowd of Paducah residents Friday from the steps of the courthouse in the first day of festivities that mark the 37th annual Old Settlers Reunion, Rodeo and Horse Show.

Mrs. Dave Emery of Irving, Texas, was recognized as the oldest person present at the Old Settlers Reunion which opened Friday morning. She is 86. Previous winners at the reunion cannot win awards a second time.

Mrs. Emery, who resided in Cottle County for 35 years, received a silver engraved tray.

Similar awards went to Andrew Carroll, 78, who had resided the longest in Cottle County, and Mrs. Dorene Gibson, a King County resident for 32 years. He has been a resident of the county 77 years.

Cecil Dobbs of Ventura, Calif., received the award for having traveled the farthest to attend the reunion. He came about 1,800 miles. Dobbs, a Cottle County native, resided here about 60 years before moving to California.

Veterans Building. Hightower rode in the parade, along with District Attorney W.H. Heatly.

After the parade the crowd turned its attention to a chuck wagon barbecue dinner served at the Old Dance Barn on the rodeo grounds. Featured attraction was 3,300 pounds of Texas barbecued beef.

A rodeo and dance capped off the first day of the two-day event.

The horse show will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in the livestock show barn on the rodeo grounds. Old timers will put on a roping exhibition at 10 a.m. in the arena and the rodeo will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday, followed by a country-western dance.

Rattlesnake derby slated in Mangum

MANGUM, Okla. (Special) — Annual Rattlesnake Derby and flea market in Mangum is scheduled for April 20-22, according to the Mangum and Greer County Chamber of Commerce.

There will be a snake pit for venom extraction and a butcher shop where the snakes are killed and butchered for meat and skin.

Thank goodness for "Mister Roberts."

It's full of humor, it says something worth saying about human values and, best of all, it transports the Backdoor Theater audience aboard a Navy cargo ship plying its tedious route in the South Pacific more than 30 years ago.

We share the frustration and rancor of its crew, cooped up on the good ship Reluctant at the whim of a stupid and vindictive captain.

We share, too, the intellectual misery of the hero, Mister Roberts — a Navy man who wanted battle, not action on a floating supermarket, delivering toilet paper and oranges to remote specks of islands.

E.B. Robinson turns in his best acting job yet as the lieutenant (junior grade) whose compassion for the crew is so great he swaps his own hope of transfer in return for their liberty in Elysium — a paradise, a dream-place to go ashore.

Robinson has had major roles in "A Texas Trilogy" and "Purdie Victorious" at Backdoor, but in "Mister Roberts" he projects a character with more depth and more ease than in any of his previous performances.

Arts On Record

Terry Webb, the captain, hovers over the ship like a pompous cloud — ridiculed but feared by his men. This character, and that of Ensign Pulver, is one that audiences love, and Webb made the most of it. He even made his dimples credible, a sneaky contrast to the captain's mediocrity.

Pulver, now THERE'S an officer for you! Skip Barmore handles this fellow deftly. There's a change in character here, a transition from a commissioned prankster to a sudden adulthood. Pulver makes this happen through his open adoration of Mister Roberts and his endless, fruitless plots of revenge against the captain.

Doc, that irascible and kindly medic, is played by C.J. Prater.

He's a stabilizer of sorts, with his access to supplies of medicinal alcohol and his skill in transforming it into a semblance of Red Label.

The ship's crew members are wonderful. They brawl, they grouse, they get gloriously drunk on liberty; they return to the ship warmed at last by the common bond of a wonderful memory — the one factor they lacked to make them a unit, not a collection of men.

The staff at Backdoor and the cast are responsible for the set, one of the best ever. It's battle-ship gray, of course, and it all functions, from the guns to the companionways to the hatch.

Director Brynn Bristol can be proud of this production. It has zest and wit and moves economically through its two acts. It will be at Backdoor this weekend and the following two. Reservations should be in order because "Mister Roberts" is definitely something worth seeing.

Vietnam War musical a bold concept that fails

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — During the Vietnam War, the best of anything in Vietnam was called Numbah One and the worst Numbah 10. "Dispatches," a new Vietnam War musical, is Numbah 9½.

It premiered Wednesday at Joseph Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival, which gave us the late 1960s musical "Hair," in which innocent flower children cavorted and protested the war.

Here they cavort in the war, with much macabre spirit, and also do a Woodstock caper, shifting back and forth from the war to a rock 'n' roll concert, ultimately becoming casualties of both.

The dual-casualty idea is from a passage in Michael Herr's book on which the show is based. The rock concert is used as a metaphor for the war, or vice versa, depending on your point of view.

Herr covered the war 11 years ago. His book, mostly done in a gonzo Ernie Pyle style, consists of vignettes and thoughts about the war.

The gifted Elizabeth Swados, the show's director and tunesmith, simply took selections of his work and used them verbatim as lyrics for the 20-odd songs she wrote for the three-woman, eight-man cast.

A bold concept. It fails. His prose suggests a rock beat, but the meter is ragged. Result: her music usually has a tough time finding a home in the words. It tends to thrash about aimlessly.

The rock-war-rol theme becomes a generally loud, noisy, undistinguished blank-verse combat bag of rock, country and gospel. It's often booby-trapped with obscenities.

The troops go through their often-frenzied paces in baggy fatigues and helmet liners, occasionally donning faded hippie garb over their war threads to let us know they're now in rock-concert mode.

They occasionally pause to simply speak passages and bits of dialogue from the book. But it seems unwise to assign the womenfolk the lines Herr quotes Marines, GIs or male reporters as saying.

For example, it's, well, silly to have one woman calling the Theatrical retrospective a first

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Can you imagine an art museum saluting a television network with a theater retrospective of its works? How about "The Best of Starsky and Hutch"? or "Highlights from Hee Haw"? When the network is England's BBC, the idea makes sense. Beginning May 4, the Los Angeles County Museum of Art will present what is billed as a first: a theatrical retrospective of 21 dramatic and documentary films and mini-series produced by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Some of the offerings are familiar to American TV viewers: "The Six Wives of Henry VIII," "Elizabeth R" (With Glenda Jackson), "Tom Brown's School Days." Classics include "The Duchess of Malfi," "Candide," "Macbeth," and "Dante's Inferno" as interpreted by Ken Russell.

Documentaries range from "Rose Kennedy Remembers" to "The Lost World of the Maya" to "San Francisco: The City That Waits to Die" (from earthquake). The festival is not all serious. Included are the Monty Pythonesque "Ripping Yarns," including one about a boy "so unutterably boring that his parents run away from home."

"A Salute to the BBC" was a longtime dream of Harvey Chertok, advertising-publicity vice president for Time-Life Television, the BBC's partner in the United States. Ron Havery, head of the County Museum's admirable film program, liked the notion and the festival became a fact. It will appear in the museum's Leo S. Bing Theater through June 23.

Why are the BBC programs so good? Cedric Messina provided some insight in a telephone interview from London. He produced five of the shows in the tribute, including "School for Scandal," "Macbeth" and "She Stoops to Conquer."

the reasons," said the producer. "The financial rewards are not the same as in commercial television, but the job satisfaction is the greatest in the world."

"Producers like myself have more or less freedom to do what they want — well, I guess you can't qualify 'freedom;' you either have it or you don't. You might compare the BBC to the biggest Hollywood studio, say MGM, at its peak. We have all the facilities of such an operation, but no Thalberg or Mayer to dictate what is made. Not that everything made by the government-financed BBC qualifies for an art museum festival."

"You buy our best programs," Messina pointed out. "A

Henry Fonda leaves hospital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Henry Fonda was released from Cedars-Sinai Medical Center Friday after surgery this week that revealed some cancerous growth in his prostate gland, a spokeswoman for the actor said.

The 73-year-old actor was reported "significantly improved" after Wednesday's operation to relieve pain from an arthritic left hip, said publicist Kim Garfield.

great deal of the programming is modern drama in accents that would be incomprehensible to the American ear."

A frequent visitor to America, Messina declines the "cultural wasteland" view of American TV. The difference, he suggested, "is that historically our radio and television has been based on our literature while yours is based on Hollywood."

While America has "a fantastic number of actors," he observed that they are not as classically trained as their British counterparts, nor do they work as often. Since the stage, movies and TV are all centered in London, actors can perform before the cameras by day and the footlights at night.

House adds funds to schools' budgets

By JACKIE CALMES
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The House agreed Friday to add $6 million to public junior colleges' 1980-81 budgets to correct a computer error, but not all 47 schools would share the wealth.

Some, including Cooke County Junior College, would lose funds previously recommended.

Vernon Regional Junior College, however, would get an additional $340,000 for the biennium, bringing the school's two-year total to $3.2 million.

Cooke County would lose $16,880 of a previous recommendation of $3.3 million for 1980-81.

The computer mistake caused schools that specialize in vocational technical training to be shortchanged when the Legislative Budget Board prepared its budget recommendations.

But in correcting the error and increasing funding for the vocational technical schools, schools with more academic course loads received lowered budget recommendations, an LBB staff member said.

Vocational technical courses receive more state funding than academic courses because of the equipment and longer instruction time required, he said.

The same corrections already have been made in the Senate's appropriation bill, which is still in committee.

Mangum pastor resigns position

MANGUM, Okla. — (Special) — The Rev. Hayes Wicker, pastor of First Baptist Church in Mangum, has submitted his resignation to accept the pastorate at Emmanuel Baptist Church of Enid, Okla.

A native of Memphis, Tenn., Wicker earned his master of divinity degree from Southwest Baptist Theological Seminary in December 1975. In 1972, he was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and in Outstanding Young Men of America in 1976.

Bake sale Saturday

NOCONA, Texas (Special) — Prairie Valley Parent Teachers Organization will sponsor a bake sale Saturday at the Piggly Wiggly Store and Gables Drug Store in Nocona.

The proceeds will help pay for balls, bats, volley balls, basketball backboards and other equipment for the Prairie Valley School, according to Mrs. Roy Phillips, PTO president.

Byers band sets Burk appearance

BURKBURNETT (Special) — "Wild Fire" country and western band from Byers, Texas, will be featured performers at the Boomtown Jamboree Saturday.

Burkburnett Veterans of Foreign Wars post will sponsor the family entertainment beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Burkburnett Community Center.

Also on the program will be other musicians from North Texas and Southwest Oklahoma, including J.W. and the Red River Boys and the Boomtowners.

Buried car owner wants all to rest in peace

By STEVE OLAFSON
Staff Writer

The investigation report termed the offense "burying a car."

And even though the deed is not listed in the statute book as a crime against society, burying a car is against the law when the funeral is for a car you don't own.

The impromptu graveside services got one self-appointed undertaker charged with criminal mischief over $28 Friday after police said he dug a large grave with a backhoe, laid a blue 1972 Pinto to rest, and then smashed the defenseless car repeatedly with the backhoe's arm.

The car's owner, Jeff Plant, wasn't around when his vehicle was being pulverized and buried during the early morning hours Friday. But when the sun came up, he rode to work with a friend and saw a crumpled mass of blue metal sitting by a backhoe. Plant, however, didn't recognize what was once his car and went to his job at Fire Appliance.

"I just drove by this morning and I thought I saw this blue thing by this backhoe," he said. "I went on to work and Tom Reeves comes up and says this guy went crazy on this backhoe. He dug a hole and just bashed the top in."

Plant, 19, was a bit puzzled about the motive behind his car's untimely demise, but he seemed more bewildered than angry because the man arrested and charged in the case once lived next door to him.

"I know this guy. I've talked to him about three or four times. He just must have got drunk and crazy," he said, rather understandingly.

As for his car, Plant said, "It's smashed and they already hauled it away."

Plant recounted how he had left his car parked at some apartments behind an East Scott business because his motorcycle and car keys had been impounded when "I tried to outrun the police one night."

He had earlier been told by his apartment manager to move out, so he left his car at his former residence, intending to get it later, he said.

Plant, a native of Maine who has lived in Wichita Falls a year, said he couldn't get his motorcycle and car keys back until Friday when he received his first paycheck since the tornado hit town last week.

Tom Reeves, the owner of the apartments where Plant once lived, casually mentioned to a tenant that he wasn't sure what to do with the idle Pinto, telling the tenant, "If you wanted to you could dig a damn hole and bury the ... thing," the police report said.

The tenant, a heavy equipment operator who works for Reeves, apparently took him up on the suggestion.

When police arrived at the scene about 3:30 a.m., they found the backhoe operator with a Coors can in hand and a "moderate" odor of alcohol in the atmosphere. The suspect was "cocky and insulting" and "appeared to be swaying and unsure," police reported.

The backhoe burial artist was taken to jail on suspicion of criminal mischief, public intoxication and possession of alcohol for consumption after hours. But Friday he was charged only with criminal mischief over $20, a Class A misdemeanor punishable by up to a $1,000 fine and a year in jail. He was still in jail Friday night.

Despite losing his car, Plant wasn't upset Friday night after the realization of what happened had settled in. He said he might try to get $150 restitution from the suspect or possibly try to win possession of the man's vehicle.

But Plant, who said he knows what it's like to be behind bars, said he hopes the backhoe operator who buried his car doesn't go to prison.

Howard K. Smith to leave ABC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newscaster Howard K. Smith, unhappy about what he sees as a lesser role at ABC, is leaving the network after 17 years as television anchorman and commentator.

An ABC News spokesman said Thursday Smith had been offered a new five-year contract calling for work including "occasional commentary." And the spokesman said ABC was sorry to see Smith leave.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON
Saturday, April 21

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Gains come more easily in year ahead. It should prove to be year of promise. Improved living comforts indicated. Working alone, rather than for corporation may increase opportunities. Romantically, you may seem less interested than usual. Mind could be intent on earning money, gaining material advantages. Loved ones could feel neglected.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Someone may want something from you. Discretion is strongly. Work quietly to please mate, family members. They will return affection multiplied many times. Remember diet resolutions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Catch up on personal correspondence. Someone far away is concerned not to hear from you. Telephone call could answer questions related to personal matters. A hunch pays off and could lead to romance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Take care of errands, chores early in day. Romantic conditions are somewhat intriguing—sort of a cat, mouse situation. It's all in good fun!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Self-discipline is key where finances are concerned. Avoid rash decision. Change of lifestyle can be forward step. Family, neighborhood matters benefit the most.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Self-improvement projects can be enlightening, rewarding. Broaden friendships. Professional can prove invaluable. Results can have profound effect on your future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Change of environment fun for entire family. Watch spending, however. Group entertainment more apt to amuse than company of one or two people. Don't ignore minor health problem.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Pleasure may dominate! Devote more time to hobbies, vocations. Delay making sudden decision involving personal relationship. Give others benefit of the doubt. You won't be sorry.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Good day to do overdue shopping. Buy quality goods, but don't go beyond ability to pay. Quiet time with mate, romantic partner will be conducive to romance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be discreet or face a battery of accusers this afternoon. Family activities are indicated. Household repairs could also be in order. Take chance on your inner feelings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb.

18): Be practical in health matters. Writing could develop into more than hobby. Extra income could result. Stress originality. Inject humor, real life experiences.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Rewards from family activity may be greater than imagined. Mate, partner has own ideas of how weekend should be spent. Rely on intuition. Keep diet, exercise resolutions or suffer consequences.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Not much happens today. Enjoy the peace and quiet. Staying at home produces greater satisfaction than mixing with large numbers of people. Exercise helps you feel better.

among poisonous snakes nearly came to a sorry end Friday, as did Snyman, when he bumped a black mamba's nose.

But it's mating season in the snake cage, and for now at least, Snyman's deadly roommates are more interested in each other than in him.

"A black mamba slithered behind me when I was talking on the telephone. My elbow hit its nose and he reared back to a striking position with his hood flared and mouth open, ready to bite.

"I froze, and he retreated," said Snyman, propped up on a lavender blanket. A puff-adder snuggled against his jacket pocket like a cat snoozing in the sun.

In all, 24 poisonous snakes live in the cage with the 25-year-old carpenter. Sometimes they slither into bed with him for a little body warmth and diversion from the mating season evident elsewhere in the cage.

He has 23 days to go to beat the record of 36 days set in 1975 by countryman Trevor Kruger. Kruger died in an auto accident several weeks after setting the record.

The cage, 10 feet square, contains six black mambas, six puff-adders, six Egyptian cobras and six tree snakes.

"My nerves are running ragged," he admitted after two weeks at the Hartbeespoort Snake Park 65 miles northwest of Johannesburg. He sleeps two or three hours a day and does his chores very slowly to avoid startling the snakes.

"It can take up to three hours to make my bed, and two hours to eat a meal," he said. The reptiles occasionally slither onto his plate. "I have lost weight," he admitted.

Stock market session mixed, DJI up 1.73

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned in a mixed showing Friday, winding up its second consecutive week of declines.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 1.73 to 856.98, reducing its loss for the week to 13.52 points.

But that drop, coming after a 5.19-point setback the week before, nevertheless ranked as the largest weekly loss for the average since it fell 25.12 points Jan. 29-Feb. 2.

One of the most conspicuous losers during the session was Polaroid, which fell 1 1/2 to 35 1/2 on turnover of more than 420,000 shares by the 4 p.m. close in New York.

The company reported that its first-quarter earnings rose to 52 cents a share from 44 cents in the like period last year. But analysts said the increase fell short of some advance estimates.

Other glamor issues were mixed. International Business Machines, whose holders will vote at the end of this month on a 4-for-1 stock split, dropped 2 1/2 to 306 1/2. But McDonald's gained 1/4 to 42 1/2 and Walt Disney Productions added 1/4 to 37 1/2.

General Public Utilities led the active list, up 1/4 at 12. The company, which owns the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant in Pennsylvania where an accident occurred last month, said a postponed meeting of its board to consider dividend action and other matters would be held next Thursday.

In the general market, analysts noted some caution among investors over the outlook for inflation and interest rates.

G. William Miller, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said Thursday the Fed will consider tightening credit if the economy grows at faster than a 2.5 percent annual rate in the second quarter.

Riley-Keylor vows exchanged

Luther Ples Riley Jr. and his bride, the former Terri Sue Keylor, will honeymoon in Hot Springs, Ark., following their wedding Friday evening in Eden Hills Baptist Church. They will make their home at 1620 Harrison.

The bride is a graduate of Burk Burnett High School and is employed by Fire Appliance Co. of Texas Inc. The groom, a graduate of Petrolia High School, is employed by White's Stores.

The Rev. Jerry McFather, pastor, officiated. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Keylor, 1417 Gunnison, and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Riley Sr., 4720 Tammy Drive.

The bride wore a formal gown of Chantilly lace with full skirt featuring a pleated flounce and chapel train. Her mantilla was of matching lace.

Kay Ellzey of Odessa was matron of honor. She wore an A-line peach colored A-line dress with matching shoulder wrap. Tim Keylor and Don Riley, brothers of the couple, were candlelighters and ushers.

(Miss Keylor)

Cecil Watson of Petrolia was best man.

The bride's parents were hosts for a reception at the church. Assisting were Carmelita Hall and Mmes. Don Riley and C. O. Ellzey, both of Odessa, Richard Lewis, Leo Watts and Jerry Culley.

The groom's parents gave the rehearsal party at the church.

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J. (AP) — If you have not yet paid your income tax and feel nervous, go visit Nick Kurti. You will feel better.

"They used to toss people in here who owed somebody as little as one dollar," Kurti said. "Nowadays, with credit cards and all, who could escape? I can't conceive of a worse fate."

It is a wretched place: dank stone walls 20 inches thick, ugly old iron bars, thick oaken door with a foot-long key. A dungeon.

It was designed in 1810 by Victor Hugo — no, according to the brochure, by a Philadelphia architect named Robert Mills — and was the most elegant penal institution, in the current designation, of its day. Now it is on the National Historic Register. A grand slammer.

The horror is that it served as the Burlington County jail from that nostalgic era until just 14 years ago. Unchanged except for the addition of bare light bulbs and equally elaborate plumbing, it rendered 155 years of continuous service to the family of man.

Its alumni association numbers in the thousands.

It includes an insignificant draftee at nearby Ft. Dix, Albert DeSalvo, who went on to become the Boston Strangler, and it includes Doc Jones, who hated to see the old lockup go out of business.

"Everybody knew Doc Jones," Nick Kurti said. "He used to hang around the river at Florence, where I grew up. He slept here and there, and every winter the poor old guy did something to get himself put in jail. He had no place else to go.

"I caught some tourists chipping at the peeling paint in one of the cells. They almost erased where Doc Jones had scratched his name. I stopped them just in time."

service in the family of man.

He retired from his job at a rope and cable manufacturing firm 10 years ago, after three heart attacks. The job as assistant-curator at the debtors' prison museum, he says, was literally just what the doctor ordered.

It gives him time to interest himself by idly poring over yellowing jail registers, discovering who has dwelt in these ancient walls, and why.

"I have come across some names that have really shocked me," he said.

"I grew up in this county and I know a lot of people. I could go to some people and say, 'Did you know that your great-grandfather spent time in the county jail?' But, oh, no, I dare not say it."

"I do like to chat with the old timers who drop by. They tell me things about this place that aren't in the brochure.

"For instance, we had one sheriff who dealt with troublemakers by making it easy for them to escape. The sheriff would wait for him on the other side of the wall, catch him, and send him off to the state penitentiary for jailbreaking."

Garden Hints Seminar scheduled

By DON DECKER
County Agent

A landscape renovation seminar is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at North Texas Federal Savings and Loan Building at 2733 Midwestern Parkway.

"The purpose of this event is to assist homeowners repairing or renovating damaged landscapes from the recent storm," Barbara Cornelius, county Extension agent, said.

Dr. William Welch, Extension landscape horticulturist, will show the repair and first aid to wind damaged trees and shrubs. His presentation will also touch on placing a dollar value on trees and shrubs lost to the tornado, identifying old landscape errors, and the correct design for renovating a landscape.

"Coping with Pest in the Landscape" is the topic of my presentation. I will show control measures for weeds, certain insects, and the more common diseases. Ms. Cornelius will show new ideas in the use of outdoor furnishings.

SPRAY PECANS

Pecan trees need to be sprayed with NZN for pecan rosette (zinc deficiency) and Benlate (benomyl) for the control of scab which is a fungus disease. These two materials are applied when the leaves are about one-third grown.

Frank Grant is spraying his trees with NZN and Benlate. Both are diluted in water and applied at the same time. However his pecan tree is infested with cankerworms so he is adding Malathion to the spray to control them at the same time.

Preventative treatment for insects is never recommended. This practice tends to develop resistant insect populations. I would not add Malathion to this spray unless the trees are worm infested.

The next pecan spray will be coming up between May 25-June 5. The exact dates will be announced through the news media. Timing of this application is critical. We have on 3-4 days which are effective in the control of the pecan nut casebearer.

WEED CONTROL

This is a real good time to eliminate the broadleaf weeds in the lawn. Weed control now will help lawns keep a fast start this spring. An entire lawn can be sprayed with a hose-on-sprayer in less than an hour.

The materials which do a good job are the hormone type chemicals. They must be applied with caution so there will be no damage to adjoining gardens, trees, shrubs and flowers.

I had good results using a mixture of 2,4-D Amine, MCPP, and Dicamba. It is sold under the trade name of Trimec or Wipe-out. This chemical kills even the tough to control weeds such as henbit, chickweed, and dandelion.

Spraying when there is a little to no wind is the secret to reducing the hazard to adjoining plants. The hose-on-sprayer is an advantage too because it makes large spray droplets which are less susceptible to wind drift. The sprayer can be held close to the ground when near other plants. It is a matter of good judgement in keeping the spray off of the other desirable plants.

A sprayer used for this purpose should be kept for weed control only. Hormone type sprays are very difficult to remove from a sprayer.

CPA Wives install officers

Certified Public Accountants Wives have installed new officers, including Mmes. Charles Wegman, president; Mrs. Randy Greenway, vice president; Mrs. Kenneth Schroeder, secretary; Billy Coulson, treasurer; Richard Sink, reporter-historian.

Mrs. Mac Cannady installed the officers, giving each a chrysanthemum, the club flower, and speaking on "An Optimistic Outlook."

CPA wives voted $125 to go to the loan fund scholarship at MSU.

(Miss Avant)

Cox-Avant vows read

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — Miss Dona Gale Avant and Ronald Dwayne Cox of Lawton were married Friday evening in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church in Grandfield. The Rev. T. W. Darnell, pastor of Grandfield and Frederick churches, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Avant of Loveland and Mr. and Mrs. Irving D. Cox, Lawton.

The bride wore a formal silhouette gown of Qiana and Venice lace trimmed with pearls. The full skirt fell from an empire waistline and swept to a cathedral train. Her veil of illusion edged in lace was held by a Camelot coil.

Mrs. Mike Little was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Nancy Avant and Miss Brenda Burke.

Larry Cox was best man and groomsmen were Mike Little and Gail Hinkle. Ushers were Tony Burke and Mark Cox. Kim Avant was flower girl and candlelighters were Yvette Avant and John Burke.

Others assisting were Lisa Washburn and Mmes. Nena Molina, Gene Hieneman, Glena Vance, Terri Hayes and Lori Washburn.

The couple will live in Lawton following a trip to Amarillo. The groom is employed by Rosemont Dairy Farms there.

Where you can help!

(Editor's Note: Many individuals are concerned with what they can do to help those who have been tornado victims with specific needs, such as doing laundry, transporting people to appointments or providing hot meals and supplies. To offer information on any small, individual aid that can be given, the following column will run daily in the Wichita Falls Times and Record News family pages.)

● Neighbors also may volunteer their time to take a child (without transportation because of the tornado) to a music lesson.

● Other needs will be picking up clothes from the cleaners, providing a mattress or going to the grocery store for tornado victims.

● The Rev. W. C. Harting, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, where three pickup truck loads of clothing, food and supplies were received from four Lutheran congregations in Dallas, said the clothes have been sorted to size and placed in the church basement.

"Those who suffered loss are welcome to come by between the hours of 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m. at the church, 11th and Holiday.

"In addition to clothing there also are food, pots and pans, bedding and a few items of furniture," Harting said.

The church and Our Redeemer Lutheran Church of Wichita Falls, both affiliated with the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, also are administering cash assistance sent from the Dallas congregations, as well as the Synod's district, Harting said.

● Sandwiches are available at St. Mark's Methodist Church, 4319 McNeil, furnished by Floral Heights United Methodist Church, 2214 10th. Also at Floral Heights Scout Hut across from the church there is clothing, including work clothes, baby diapers and children's clothes, bedding, linens and towels.

Garden club plans amateur flower show

The Woman's Forum Garden Club members have agreed not to cancel the scheduled amateur flower show to be held Thursday at the Forum.

Mrs. J. W. Carter, president, said that the show will go on, despite the fact that some members have lost their homes and gardens.

Reservations for the luncheon and show, beginning at 11 a.m., must be made with the Forum or Mrs. Carter by Wednesday. Members will not be required to bring an entry for the show as previously planned.

"If you have a flower arrangement, a potted plant, flower or cutting, please do so, however," Mrs. Carter said.

Ann Landers Says

Some can handle pot, others can't

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: How do you hang on to your job anyway? You are so square it's pitiful. I refer to your moldy views on marijuana. People depend on you for straight facts. So why do you print those trumped-up scare stories about pot? Instead of getting people off it you look foolish.

I've been smoking pot for six years. I'm what you'd call a weekend smoker. It has made me much more relaxed and put me in touch with my real feelings. I look forward to the calm and peace I get from five or six joints an evening. The only trouble with pot is that it's getting awfully damned expensive.

Please get some fresh information and give us the facts, Ma'am. That's what you're there for. . . . Living Proof You're Full Of Baloney

Dear Baloney: The "fresh facts," according to a recent report from the federal drug enforcement officials, are as follows: Most marijuana now being sold in the United States comes from Colombia instead of Mexico. Colombian pot is three to ten times more powerful than Mexican pot.

Five years ago 75 percent of the pot came from Mexico. Today it's less than ten percent. The reduction in Mexican pot is due to the strict policing done in Mexico and at the U.S. border. You are right about the price. A lid (ounce) used to sell for $20 or $30. Today it's $40 and $50. Hawaiian pot (Maui Wowie) goes for $150 an ounce.

The potency of pot is determined by the amount of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) — the hallucinogenic agent it contains. Mexican pot has one to two percent of THC. Colombian pot has from 6 to 10 percent.

My information comes from a report by Peter Bensinger, administrator of the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency. These facts are reinforced by teachers who tell me more teen-age students are falling out of their seats Monday morning, stoned, spaced-out and incoherent — a result of those weekend pot parties.

My position on pot is the same as it was ten years ago. Some people can handle it — others can't. Most teen-agers have enough problems without messing with chemicals that can screw up their heads. Some long-time smokers call me crazy and insist that pot has not damaged them in the least, but pot-heads, like alcoholics, are not the best judges of the shape they're in.

Unless a teen-ager is a chemist, there's no way he can be sure of what he is ingesting. The possibility of getting angel dust sprinkled in with pot should be enough to scare even the dumbest cluck off the stuff for life. Angel dust can blow your mind

Rider's girls doubles team of Joanie Waltko and Leslie Toury coasted to two easy wins Friday to capture the regional tennis championship and earn a chance at a state title.

Waltko and Toury defeated Tyler Lee's Bostick and McLean 6-1, 6-4 and Richardson's Mallory and Evans 6-4, 6-3 to win the crown, their fifth in the last five weeks.

The victory earned Waltko and Toury a trip to Austin May 4-5 for the state tournament.

Yankees whip Rangers

Munson's RBI singles key 5-3 victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Thurman Munson rapped a pair of run-scoring singles as the New York Yankees defeated the Texas Rangers 5-3 Friday night behind the four-hit pitching of Ed Figueroa and Dick Tidrow.

The Yankees jumped on Steve Comer, 1-1, for two runs and three hits in each of the first two innings, with Munson singling Mickey Rivers home both times.

Meanwhile, Figueroa, 2-1, helped by sensational fielding plays by third baseman Graig Nettles and center fielder Rivers, was working on a no-hitter until Al Oliver drilled a run-scoring double in the sixth following a lead-off walk to Bill Sample. Oliver came around for the Rangers' second run on a pair of infield outs.

The Yankees scored their first two runs before Comer retired a batter on a walk to Rivers and singles by Willie Randolph, Munson and Reggie Jackson. They made it 4-0 with two outs in second on Bucky Dent's single, Rivers' RBI double, a walk and another single by Munson.

Nettles, who made a diving, back-hand stop of Bert Campaneris' smash in the third inning, delivered a run-scoring single off Dave Rajsich in the bottom of the fifth. Rivers raced into deep left center and made a lunging catch of Bump Wills' drive for the final out in the top of the inning.

Tidrow relieved Figueroa in the ninth following a leadoff walk to Jim Sundberg and Mike Jorgensen's single. Tidrow retired the side on two grounders and a strikeout at the expense of one run.

Figueroa survived six walks and the Rangers stranded runners in scoring position four times. After Figueroa retired the first seven batters, Mike Jorgensen reached on an error and was erased at second when Nettles turned Campaneris' shot into a force play. Wills walked but Sample fouled out.

Figueroa walked Richie Zisk and Oscar Gamble with two out in the fourth but Jim Sundberg grounded into a forceout. Gamble picked up the Rangers' second hit, a two-out single in the sixth.

Texas threatened again in the seventh when pinch-hitter John Grubb delivered a pop fly double with one out and Wills walked, but Sample bounced into a force at second and Oliver flied out, leaving runners at the corners.

Comer retired the Yankees in order in the third and fourth innings but walked Randolph to open the fifth and was replaced by Rajsich one out later with a 2-0 count on Jackson. Rajsich fanned Jackson but Nettles, who received a standing ovation and had to tip his cap to quiet the crowd, singled to score Randolph, who reached second on Munson's ground out.

Tidrow retired Grubb and Wills on grounders in the ninth as Sundberg scored and Jorgensen reached third. He fanned pinch-hitter Pat Putnam to end the game.

WF Classic alive & well

By TED BUSS
Sports Editor

During the long and confusing days following Black Tuesday, Leo Cook must have gotten fifty telephone calls inquiring about his health and about twenty more inquiring about the health of the city softball facilities.

Cook is proud to announce the Wichita Falls Fast Pitch Invitational is alive and well and "will be bigger and better than ever June 5."

"I had a bunch of telephone calls from players and managers who have been to our tournament in the past and will be here this year," Cook said. "A lot of these guys have friends here and they were deeply concerned about them. And, of course they were wondering if the tournament would be affected."

The 19th annual WF classic begins its six-day run at Scotland Park on a Tuesday and will again feature the near all-night sessions Friday and Saturday with the championship finals coming off at 4 p.m. Sunday.

For the first time ever a national champion will open the tournament when the ISC (International Softball Congress) fast pitch kings from Oklahoma City takes on one of the 40 or more contenders.

Last year Oklahoma City went under the banner of Atlee's Carpet and finished second here. This year the Sooners will be sponsored by McCoy Homes and the Oklahomans have already lined up a schedule that will take them to Wisconsin, Iowa, Tennessee and California as well as Wichita Falls.

"We'll play in some big tournaments," said six-time all-tournament catcher Marvin Harris, "but none of them any bigger or better than Wichita Falls."

"We always play well in Wichita Falls and I think it is because we have a good following. I've been trying to retire for a couple of years, but it's tough to do when you have tournaments like Wichita Falls to play in."

Harris may be getting a little older, but he sure isn't slowing down. Last year he was one of four Oklahoma City players to hit over .400 in the ISC national tournament.

Bob Toney tied a national tournament record by going six-for-six in the Sooners' opening win and he was named the tourney's MVP.

Veteran righthander Clarence Ball won two games and was named to the all-tournament team along with third baseman Jim Garner.

However, Oklahoma City is just one of the many blue ribbon fast pitch teams who'll be in town June 5.

Defending champ Houston Park-Smyers, the team that came from the loser's bracket to kayo San Antonio and Oklahoma City down the stretch, will be back, along with San Antonio, Fort Worth, Baytown and Tulsa.

Tulsa just may be the top-seeded team this year due to the addition of Roy Burleson, one of the nation's top pitchers. Burleson was here as a youngster in 1967 with Navy champ Sub Flot One, and many veteran players like Harris consider him the best pitcher ever to play in the Wichita Falls Invitational.

Houston A-1 Bonding was considered to be the best team along the Gulf Coast this year, but A-1 (expected to be another strong contender here) has already lost three games to Houston Park-Smyers.

"It takes a combination of skill and luck to win the big tournaments like Wichita Falls," Harris said. "Once you get past the first two rounds anybody can win."

Bullets top Hawks...

ATLANTA (AP) — Mitch Kupchak scored five points during a 2½-minute stretch of the final quarter that put the defending champion Washington Bullets in control in an 89-77 National Basketball Association quarter-final playoff victory over the Atlanta Hawks Friday night.

The Bullets, who snapped Atlanta's 17-game home court winning streak, thus took a 2-1 advantage in the best-of-seven series which resumes here Sunday afternoon.

Bobby Dandridge put the Bullets ahead to stay at 70-69 when he sank a free throw on a technical foul against Atlanta's Terry Furlow with 7:45 remaining.

Kupchak then sank two free throws and, following a layup by Tom Henderson, converted a three-point play with 4:31 remaining, giving the Bullets a 77-71 lead.

Kings clobber Suns...

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Guard Otis Birdsong funneled in 23 points and Scott Wedman added 22 to power the Kansas City Kings to a 111-91 victory over the Phoenix Suns Friday night and even their National Basketball Association playoff series at one victory apiece.

The two teams will meet Sunday in Phoenix for Game 3 of their best-of-seven Western Conference semi-final series.

Birdsong, the Kings' leading scorer throughout the season, pumped in 21 of his game-high total in the first half when the Midwest Division champs bolted to a decisive 61-42 bulge.

...Sixers nip Spurs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving scored 39 points, but it was huge Darryl Dawkins' 14 points and seven rebounds in the final period that enabled the Philadelphia 76ers to beat the San Antonio Spurs 123-115 Friday night for their first win in three games of their National Basketball Association playoff series.

The fourth game of the series will be played here Sunday afternoon.

San Antonio, after trailing all but the first 1:22 of the game, moved in front 86-85 on a basket by James Silas with 1:34 left in the third quarter. The Spurs held the one-point advantage at 88-87 on a jump shot by Larry Kenon just before the buzzer ended the period.

...Lakers lead Sonics

LOS ANGELES — Using a tenacious defense highlighted by several blocked shots from Kareem Abdul-Jabar, the Los Angeles Lakers held a narrow 58-57 lead over the Seattle SuperSonics in their NBA playoff game here at the Forum. Playing one of his best games of the playoffs so far, Abdul-Jabar was eight of 12 from the field in the first two periods. Coming off the bench, Adrian Dantley put in 12 points to aid the Lakers.

The SuperSonics, who led the best-of-seven series 2-0 coming into Friday night's game, held a 29-26 lead at the end of the first period. Game No. 4 in the quarterfinal series will be played Sunday in Los Angeles.

Proud TWC shows Indians who's still king on the 'field' 9-3, 5-0

It's just a downright disgrace.

Texas Wesleyan College, one of the nation's best in small college baseball, will not be enjoying any post-season activity this spring. Two ineligible players inadvertently saw to that.

So the rest of the season will be "playoff" time for the Fort Worth team, and Friday night at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas Wesleyan showed Midwestern State it was still the tops in the Texas Athletic Conference race on the field if not in the standings with a 24-hit attack and a 9-3, 5-0 sweep of a conference double-header.

"We're a bunch of discouraged young men who realize we have one of the best NAIA baseball teams in the country, but will not be able to prove it because of two small errors involving fringe players," TWC coach Frank Fultz said. "We talked about it before the game and decided we would play with pride and enthusiasm the rest of the season. At least we can still prove we're the TAC champ on the field."

Texas Wesleyan will have to forfeit "around 20 games" Fultz said because two players — used primarily as a courtesy runner and pinch hitter — who were not eligible under college transfer rules. The Rams' TAC record, once a mighty 10-2, is now 4-14 after the forfeits.

Against Midwestern, Texas Wesleyan unleashed a balanced hitting attack most pro lineups would be envious of and pitchers Steve Daniels and R.C. Castaigne limited MSU hitters to three runs and 10 hits in 14 innings of work.

In the first contest the Rams took charge from the first inning, scoring at least one run in five of seven innings — two each in the second and third and three in the fourth.

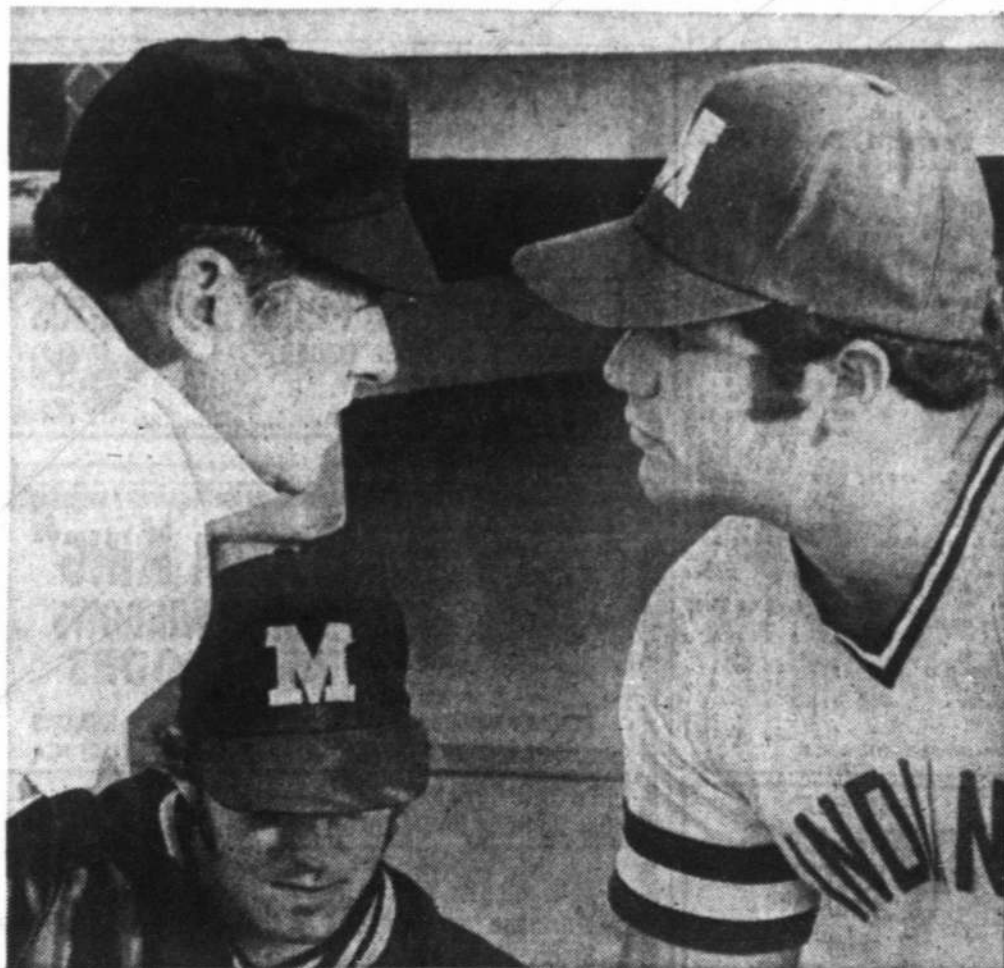

Tyke Maravich, Billy Schell and Gary Ship-py and Rick Eberly chalked up multiple-hit games during the evening's action.

Midwestern scored its only runs in the second and sixth innings of the opener. Danny Hagen drove a double to deep center field in the second and scored when right fielder Phillips dropped Will Kelly's bloop hit. Dave Connacher walked and Rick Loesch followed with his eighth home run of the season in the sixth inning to close out MSU's scoring.

Daniels limited the Indians to four hits in the opener and Castaigne held the Tribe to six safeties in the nightcap while keeping Midwestern scoreless.

The Rams tallied one each in the first two innings of the nightcap and put the game out of reach with three more in the last two innings.

Midwestern, 24-12-1 on the year and 7-7 in TAC play, will play their final home games of the year at 2 p.m. Sunday when they host Texas Wesleyan at Sheppard.

Waltko, Towry team for regional top spot

DENTON, Texas — Rider's girls doubles team of Joanie Waltko and Leslie Towry coasted to two easy wins Friday to capture the regional tennis championship and earn a chance at a state title.

Waltko and Towry defeated Tyler Lee's Bostick and McLean 6-1, 6-4 and Richardson's Mallory and Evans 6-4, 6-3 to win the crown, their fifth in the last five weeks.

"The girls played real steady tennis," Rider coach Jerry Franklin said. "They used the lob very effectively at times when they needed to win the crucial points."

"You could just tell by the way they played, our girls wanted it more."

Earlier this season, Mallory and Evans had defeated the Rider duo, and Franklin said revenge was on his girls' minds. "We outlasted them," he said, "and we outsmarted them. We just outplayed them."

The victory earned Waltko and Towry a trip to Austin May 4-5 for the state tournament. It was the first regional championship for Rider in seven years.

Bosox rout Royals, 9-2

Reds 10, Cards 3

BOSTON (AP) — Amazing Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs with his 386th career homer, a single and a double Friday, powering the Boston Red Sox to a 9-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Yastrzemski, who will be 40 in August, also drew an intentional walk as the Red Sox boosted their record to 7-4 behind the relief pitching of Andy Hassler.

Hassler, 1-0, took over in the fourth inning after 20-game winner Dennis Eckersley was forced to leave the game. Eckersley suffered a severe bruise just above his right elbow when struck by a line drive off the bat of Hal McRae in the third.

The Red Sox ripped Kansas City's Dennis Leonard, 1-2, and two relievers for 14 hits, including four by slugger Jim Rice, who snapped an 0-14 slump. The Red Sox jumped into the quick lead as Rick Burleson tripled to the 379-foot mark in center and scored on an infield out in the first.

Tigers 7, Blue Jays 2

DETROIT (AP) — Milt Wilcox, celebrating his 29th birthday, fired a six-hitter Friday and got plenty of hitting support as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 7-2.

The Tigers, winning their fourth in a row, gave Wilcox all the support he needed with three runs in the opening inning off Mark Lemongello, 0-2. Tim Corcoran hit a two-run single in the inning and Lance Parrish followed with an RBI single.

Astros 5, Pirates 4

HOUSTON (AP) — Craig Reynolds reached third base on Pittsburgh third baseman Phil Garner's throwing error and scored on a sacrifice fly by Jeff Leonard in the 10th inning to give the Houston Astros a 5-4 victory over the Pirates Friday night.

Reynolds led off the 10th against Jim Bibby, 1-1, with a hard grounder to third and Garner heaved the ball into right field. Cesar Cedeño was intentionally walked and stole second, Jose Cruz struck out, Enos Cabell was also walked on purpose to load the bases, then Leonard batted for Rafael Landestoy and lofted his game-winning fly to center field.

Pappas leading PBA

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Hot-shooting George Pappas extended his lead in the $150,000 professional bowling Tournament of Champions on Friday with just eight games of match play remaining.

The Charlotte, N.C., bowler, who has led the lead from the start of the tournament and is averaging 223 for 40 games, moved to a 185-pin advantage over Dick Rittger of River Falls, Wis. Pappas had a 9,288 total to Rittger's 9,073.

Next came Tommy Hudson of Akron, 9,008, Jeff Mattingly of Tacoma, Wash., 8,895, and Steve Martin of Kingport, Tenn., 8,889.

Duran wins

SAN ANTONIO — Wichita Falls native Pat Duran staggered Houston's Jim Senigal with right hooks to the head and won a three-round decision over his opponent in semifinals action at the Texas AAU Boxing Tournament here Friday.

Duran will advance to the finals here Saturday.

Insurance FACTS

It makes little difference in which part of the country you live, or whether it is an urban, suburban or rural area. Personal assets are vulnerable to loss by fire, theft, vandalism, natural disaster, or civil disorder. Inventory your household belongings. Keep it up to date as further items of value are accrued. Have reappraisals made because of changed market values. A photograph of each item, or room, would be most helpful to supplement the inventory. The inventory and photos should be stored away from the article described, preferably in a bank safe deposit box. An accurate record in case of need will then be readily available.

Reds 10, Cards 3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Griffey singled, doubled and homered and Johnny Bench and Dan Driessen blasted solo home runs, powering the Cincinnati Reds to a 10-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Friday night.

An 18-hit attack enabled veteran left-hander Fred Norman to coast to his first victory of the year in three decisions with a nine-hitter. It was Norman's first complete game in 39 starts since September 4, 1977.

Griffey, who started the night with a .365 batting average, raised the mark to .400 with his single in the first inning, double in the third and home run in the fourth. Each was at the expense of St. Louis left-hander Bob Sykes, 1-1.

Phillies 8, Mets 0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies scored five unearned runs on only one hit in the fifth inning Friday night and went on to an 8-0 victory over the New York Mets behind the five-hit pitching of Dick Ruthven.

It was Philadelphia's fifth straight victory.

Ruthven, 3-0, was rarely in trouble after getting the lead on Garry Maddox's two-run single in the first inning. Manny Trillo's RBI single in the third made it 3-0, then the Phillies made it a runaway in the fifth.

Padres 7, Braves 4

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry Turner drove in four runs with a homer and a single and Gene Tenace added a two-run homer Friday night, leading the San Diego Padres to a 7-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

After Ozzie Smith singled off Rick Matula, 1-2, to open the fourth inning, Turner hit his first homer of the season, over the wall in right field.

Turner also ignited a three-run San Diego sixth with a double and scored when Dave Winfield singled. Tenace then drilled his second homer of the season to left field. Turner capped the Padres' scoring with a two-run single in the eighth.

Winner Randy Jones, 3-1, scattered eight hits. He retired 16 of the first 18 batters he faced, yielding only singles to Glen Hubbard in the first inning and Jeff Burroughs in the fourth.

Cubs 8, Expos 5

CHICAGO (AP) — Dave Kingman's grand slam homer in the third inning and three unearned runs in the fourth led the Chicago Cubs to an 8-5 victory over the Montreal Expos Friday.

Lynn McGlothen posted his second triumph of the season — both over Montreal and helped his own cause with two singles. Bruce Sutter earned his third save for the Cubs. Steve Rogers, 0-2, was the loser.

The Cubs scored a run in the first by a single by Scott Thompson and a double by Bill Buckner.

"Last year the final four teams included Oklahoma City, Houston, San Antonio and Odessa (Stockton Packers) and any one of the four could have easily won it."

Cook feels he'll have anywhere from eight to 10 teams with honest-to-goodness chances to win the tournament.

SIDETRACKS: After his house blew away in the April 10 tornado, veteran Wichita Falls softballer Floyd Stone received a helping hand from some of his most fierce competitors through the years in the WF Invitational. Many of Mel Wiegand's former players at Fort Worth rolled up their sleeves and helped Floyd out. National ISC champ Oklahoma City should be even stronger this year with the addition of hard-throwing Larry Hays of Lubbock (also the LCC coach) and former Wichita Falls MVP Charlie Burleson, also of Lubbock. Oklahoma City finished the season last year 55-6 "and," says Marvin Harris, "two of those losses were in the finals at Wichita Falls. San Antonio was 96-11 and finished third here and fifth in the ASA national tournament. Defending champ Houston Park-Smyers won 12 of 16 tournaments last year and finished 12th in the ASA tourney. Park-Smyers had a sensational year considering the fact that ace hurler Larry Powell was bothered most of the year by a damaged knee that required surgery in the off-season. Topeka and Wichita, Kan., both will return April 5 and Rich Montgomery, one of the best hitters of the 1960s, will attempt a comeback with Wichita.

Experimental hot line may revolutionize homework

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I'm stuck," said the young caller. "I can't figure out how to do 25 times 2?"

"Maybe I can help," responded science-math teacher Ronald Hugo, answering another routine plea for homework assistance in Philadelphia's experimental, and so far very successful, "Dial A Teacher" program that has excited educators worldwide.

Patently, Hugo suggested Michelle Kerst, an 8-year-old third grader, write 25 on a paper twice, and then add the numbers together instead of multiplying.

"I got it, I got it," she said happily.

"O.K. What did you get?"

"Fifty."

"You have more problems like that?"

"Yeah. We got eight rows of times tables to do. We had a substitute today, and she laid it on us."

Michelle said it was the first time she had telephoned DATA Line, which stands for Dial A Teacher Assistance, "because my mother or father usually is home to help. But now I got your number."

School Superintendent Michael Marcuse said that since the homework hotline opened in February, financed by a $32,000 federal grant, hundreds of other boys and girls, and sometimes their parents, also have got the number. An estimated 8,000 have called for help.

"More than 250 calls are received each night," Marcuse said.

science and social studies. And occasionally for Spanish or French."

Six to eight teachers, specialists in their fields, answer phones in the Board of Education's Pedagogic Library between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday. Textbooks and reference books are quickly available there if needed.

"We've got hundreds of inquiries from all over the United States, from England, Australia, Tasmania," Marcuse said. "I originally got the idea a couple of years ago as part of the parent-partnership program which helps parents understand the problems associated with homework assignments. Some parents are willing but not able, so we decided to try it

Marcuse acknowledged "it is difficult to test the effectiveness of the program in better learning, but it helps some students, too proud to ask their friends, out of the frustrations of trying to figure out certain homework problems. If interest and gratitude is a measure of success, it's successful."

Ronald Zehnle, a high school math teacher, said "my main emphasis is to make the students more dependent on themselves, to find something themselves, not to do the homework but to give direction."

"The concept is not to give students answers but to help them to arrive at their own answers, to get a better grasp on the process of understanding the problem," Marcuse said.

"Occasionally teachers refer to certain sources of information. It is not 'look it up in the encyclopedia,' that kind of an answer. It goes into depth to try to help the student as quickly as possible. The answer is given only if the teacher feels the student will benefit from it. No way on earth are we trying to do a child's homework, which is designed to increase the mental problem solving process. And we don't want to negate that."

"I don't think it is any more a gimmick than tutoring is a gimmick. It can really play a major role in extending the classroom into the home."

Dr. William Blackwell, a curriculum specialist who supervises the project, agreed that DATA Line is providing unexpected benefits, especially when the parent listens in to the dialogue between pupil and teacher.

"When the parent gets on the phone we explain what we are doing to help solve the child's problem and how he can help at home," Blackwell said.

"More kids should use it," said Charles Brickhouse Sr., after hearing Blackwell explain step-by-step to his daughter, Carla, 12, how to work out a tricky math problem. "I was sitting on that phone and the teacher made sure she did the work herself. And it taught me something, too."

Then came the call from Doty Smith, 15, who was asked after the Easter recess to list the 10 plagues in the Passover story.

"No," Doty said, she didn't have an encyclopedia. Or a dictionary.

"How about a bible?" Blackwell said.

"I got a little one," she replied.

"Then look up the Book of Exodus and call back if you can't find the answer." She never called back.
