Six PWA Projects In Area Approved

Six South Plains towns shared in Public Works grants and loans totaling $103,085 authorized this morning, according to an Associated Press dispatch to The Evening Journal from Washington, D. C.

Five other West Texas cities received an additonal $511,272 in allocations, the dispatch said. They were Amarillo, Hamlin, Memphis, Pecos and Sweetwater.

To Announce More

They were included among 186 projects for which allotments totaling $36,308,267 were announced in the national capital. The dispatch said the PWA was rushing to round out 1,579 allotments before nightfall.

Those actually authorized, the dispatch said, brought the total since Wednesday to 1,432 projects having a total estimated construction cost of $352,188,120. Allotments to date include $17,862,500 in loans and $157,332,741 in grants. Applicants must provide the additonal money to round out the construction totals.

Tech Student Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Softball Game But He Got Support And How!

Shades of the kid ball player who told a late spectator "they're ahead, 37 to 0, but our side ain't batted yet!"

Behind the no-hit, no-run pitching of E. J. McKnight, the Still and Guess softball team of Lubbock last night defeated the Wilson Morgan Chiropractors by a score of 43 to 0. The game, played under lights at Wilson, was halted in the fifth inning—doubtless to conserve electricity—at 11:30 p. m.

McKnight is a Tech student and last year was a freshman footballer. He was caught by Prince Scott, another Tech gridman.

Despite the high score, only four home runs were hit by the victors.

The Still and Guess team had beaten the T. & P. team, 6 to 2, in a city league game here Thursday afternoon before going to Wilson.

Higher Income Levies Seen

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—A prediction that the next congress will enact substantially higher taxes on incomes between $3,000 and $50,000 came today from Senator Connally (D-Tex).

Connally, a member of the senate finance committee, said the increases would be necessary because of the mounting government debt. These middle brackets, he pointed out, provide the great bulk of income tax revenue.

Might Raise Others,

Corporation income taxes might be raised along with those on individuals, the Texan said, and a total of between $500,000,000 and $750,000,000 could be added to federal revenues.

A flat 20 per cent tax might replace the present corporation levy of between 16.5 and 19 per cent, he suggested. The rate of the existing levy depends on the amount of profits which corporations turn over to shareholders.

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee said that "if business improves—and there are some little signs of improvement—higher taxes won't be necessary next year.

Principal Job Cited

He said the principal tax job before congress would be providing a long-range form of corporation taxation and determining whether it would be necessary to continue several "nuisance" levies scheduled to

Little Bit Of Polish Can Do A Lot Of Good, Sometimes

BURLINGAME, Calif., June 24. (AP)—It's wonderful what a little polish will do sometimes.

Two months ago Jerry Govia, young gardener found a tarnished bracelet while cutting some grass. He gave it to his children to play with. Yesterday he tried a little silver polish on it to see what it looked like under the tarnish.

It sparkled so brightly he took it to a jeweler who said:

"The bracelet contains 144 diamonds set in platinum. The whole bracelet is worth more than $1,500.

Gains Of $1 To $3 Registered At Midday

Buying Orders From All Over Country Received; Gains Are Most Striking Since 1933

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, June 24—For the fifth day in a row shares in the nation's leading corporations were eagerly bought at rising prices in the New York Stock exchange.

After an upsurge at the start, prices wavered in the late morning, only to come back at midday, many showing gains of $1 to $3, making the five-day upswing one of the most striking since that of the spring of 1933.

From All Over Country

Brokers had buying orders from all over the country and from abroad, as the great gong resounded over the big barn-like trading floor at 10 a. m.

At a fast opening blocks of several thousand shares changed hands on the upside and, for most of the first hour the ticker tape lagged as much as 4 minutes behind floor dealings. The list was forced to absorb a large amount of profit selling, but offerings were taken in stride and, near the second hour, quotations were around the top.

Gainers Are Listed

Steels, rails, motors, coppers, rubbers and specialties were in the forefront of the upswing.

Prominent gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda Kennecott, American Smelting, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Standard Oil of N. J., American Telephone, Westinghouse, General Electric, duPont, Allied Chemical and Union Carbide.

Little Stimulating News

There was little particularly stimulating news, but further boosts in prices for lead, zinc, export copper and other major staples tended to raise the bullish temperature of Wall Street.

Foreign markets exhibited strength and brokers said buying orders for American securities were heavier than usual. Bonds ran neck-and-neck with stocks, rails displaying renewed buoyancy.

City Gets Rain This Morning

Rainfall this morning "just about balanced the books" so far as boosting the six-months total to the quarter-century average for that period, said Don L. Jones, superintendent of the experiment sub-station east of the city.

A shower that gauged approximately .10 inch up to 11 o'clock added to 4.88 inches received earlier in June.

Rains Reported Elsewhere

Railway dispatchers informed stations in Lubbock rain had fallen early today at Levelland, Whiteface and Bledsoe, and all the way to Roswell, N. M. At each place the fall was continuing late this morning.

Jones said that "while farmers need warm, clear weather to allow them to catch up with replanting and weeding of crops," some areas could use rainfall to advantage, particularly "dry areas" to the westward.

Unofficial reports said the "bulk of replanting" has been completed after recent heavy rains.

Fire Destroys Bus At Electra; Passengers Escape To Safety

ELECTRA, June 24. (AP)—Flames destroyed an east bound Bowen bus one-half mile east of here today, but its fifteen passengers scrambled to safety through blinding smoke.

The fire started about 7:50 a. m., under the floor of the vehicle, and efforts of the Electra fire department, using chemicals on the blaze, were unavailing. The loss was estimated at $10,000.

Jack Walton, driver of the bus, said all but four pieces of baggage were saved.

Here's An Idea; Candidates Please Take Note And Copy

(By The Associated Press)

SHAWNEE, Okla., June 24.—Mrs. Ruth M. Johnson will depend on a thought wave campaign in her bid for office as state commissioner of charities and corrections.

No campaign posters, no literature, no platform will be used, said the tall, brown-eyed mother of three, explaining: "I shall conduct my campaign by mental telepathy alone. Definite thought waves of a constructive character will be sent to each of the 3,521 voting precincts."

"These telepathic messages, which will be sent in a concentration period of only 30 minutes each day, will concern a program of rehabilitation."

A profound believer in mental telepathy, the former school teacher said she has no set time for her thought "broadcast" but finds she concentrates better upon arising, usually about 5:30 a. m.

Of her campaign Mrs. Johnson said:

"I use my name in a definite appeal to voters very much like a speaker in an oral campaign. I emphasize my deep interest in social service work and in being of what service I can to humanity."

She said she did not point her thought waves at any particular person. She expects her messages to be received more plainly by persons who are "responsive" but hopes to reach the "subjective self" of the others.

"Their objective minds wouldn't have to be conscious of the message but they definitely would have a favorable reaction when they saw my name on the ballot," she explained.

More Than $4,000,000 To Be Spent By Candidates During Campaign, Clark Estimates

BY HOWARD C. MARSHALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 24.—The first accounts of candidates' expenditures in Texas' political wars this year were in order today and the final date for filing them was June 28.

While the total of all the money to be spent in the great shakeup of officeholders never will be known, Secretary of State Edward Clark estimated expenses preliminary to the first Democratic primary July 23 would exceed $4,000,000.

Test Less Than Month Off

His estimate was made as thousands of candidates stepped up campaigns in a drive for the first big election test of 1938 in Texas, now less than a month distant.

In addition to intensification of campaigns, appearance of numerous straw votes with conflicting results and growing injection of personalities in candidates' speeches and statements were noted.

Clark coupled his estimate of $4,000,000 primary with a declaration the campaign expenditures law was out of date.

"I believe $4,000,000 spent for all political purposes by the candidates and their friends in Texas this year

Oil Firms Employ Former Officials

WASHINGTON, June 24. (AP)—American oil companies have called in former government officials to help them regain $150,000,000 worth of oil properties expropriated by Mexico more than three months ago.

Two have appeared at the state department so far—Donald L. Richberg, former NRA administrator, and Patrick Hurley, secretary of war under President Hoover.

Hurley held a long conference yesterday with Secretary of State Hull on behalf of the Sinclair Oil company, which had extensive oil holdings in Mexico.

Richberg has seen Hull on behalf of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Officials said the state department believed the matter was primarily one between the companies and the Mexican government, and had no intention of adopting the belligerent attitude of the British government, which led to a severance of diplomatic relations between Britain and Mexico.

Ruling Is Given On Candidates

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 24.—A ruling that district office candidates who mail their applications before the deadline are entitled to a place on the Democratic primary ballot was disclosed today by the attorney general's department.

County Democratic executive committees had been at variance on whether candidates' applications mailed before the deadline but received after it should be accepted.

The department held in a conference opinion that mailing constituted filing.

The state Democratic executive committee has followed the practice of accepting all applications of state office candidates sent by registered mail and postmarked before the deadline.

One district office candidacy at issue was that of J. P. Bonner of Vernon, who is running for chief justice of the seventh court of civil appeals.

Position Of Names On Ballot To Be Drawn Here Saturday

Position of names on the Democratic primary ballot will be determined by drawing at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon "probably in the district courtroom on the second floor of the court house," said L. C. Ellis, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee.

Numbered slips on which are written names of candidates for given offices will be drawn from a hat, thus determining position.

In the meantime, candidates will hope for top places on the ballot—which is deemed of psychological advantage by most.

Widow Of Naval Hero Turns To Flag As Last Resort In Case

NEW YORK, June 24. (AP)—Mrs. Sadie Leslie Monssen, widow of a naval hero, turned today to the American flag as a last resort in her fight to save her home from foreclosure proceedings of the Home Owners Loan corporation.

"I'll get an American flag and put it around me and dare them to put me out," she sobbed last night. She had just learned from Washington that the law allowed no more leeway than moratoriums on principal payments already granted.

Mrs. Monssen received notice of the impending proceedings to collect on a $7,000 mortgage two weeks ago. In almost the same mail she was told the government was going to name a new destroyer in honor of her husband, Lieut. Mons Monssen, who beat out a fire with his bare hands and prevented a powder magazine explosion on the battleship Missouri in 1904.

Country Will Get Report On Session

Prospects For Early Gains In Business To Be Discussed; Will Start At 8:30 P. M.

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 24—President Roosevelt's "fireside chat" tonight will give the country a report on whether a special session of congress is likely.

The president, asked at his press conference whether a special session was probable, told reporters that they would get the answer from his address to the nation this evening.

The chief executive talked to the newsmen soon after returning to the White House after a seven-day absence.

Arranges Busy Day

He already had arranged a busy day of conferences with administration officials and also was expected to devote a considerable part of the day to completing the radio address. It will be broadcast over the NBC, CBS and mutual networks at 8:30 p. m., central standard time.

The speech will be his twelfth "fireside chat" since he took office in 1933. It will give him his first opportunity since the start of the $3,753,000,000 spending-lending program to discuss formally the prospects for early gains in business and industry.

To Review Program

He probably will review the administration's "pump-priming" campaign, which got actively under way this week with approval of several batches of public works projects. WPA allocated $61,342,346 yesterday in loans and granted to states and municipalities, bringing total allotments to $139,156,974.

Secretary Ickes, resuming his duties as PWA administrator after a European honeymoon, proposed that the agency be made permanent.

BERLIN, June 24. (AP)—Her passage booked for a quick voyage to New York, Max Schmeling's movie actress-wife, Anny Ondra, waited today only a telephone call from New York before arranging definitely for the trip.

She burst into tears when she heard that her husband, Germany's boxing idol, was in a New York hospital with a back injury suffered in his crushing one-round knockout by Joe Louis Wednesday night.

"It's terrible that punches like that are permitted," she exclaimed. "I didn't know that they were allowed."

Reichsfuehrer Hitler, one of the "Black Uhlan's" millions of German admirers, sent a message of sympathy to Miss Ondra—who never has seen her hubsand fight—and Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels sent flowers.

Wheat Grades Are Required

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The Agricultural Adjustment administration announced today wheat stored on farms as collateral for proposed wheat loans must grade No. 2 or better if it is hard red spring wheat or No. 3 or better if any other class.

Hard red spring and durum wheat must contain not more than 13.5 per cent moisture and other classes must contain not more than 13 per cent.

The loan program will be inaugurated about July 15, officials said.

The AAA said that wheat storage on farms has been approved for most of the wheat growing areas, except in the South, where experience has shown that farm storage is not feasible because of danger from weevils and spilage.

Eight Men Are Killed, Four Others Hurt

Nitroglycerin Bomb Used To 'Shoot' Well Prematurely Exploded; Banker Victim

(By The Associated Press)

HOBBS, N. M., June 24—Public and private investigators opened inquiries today into the mysterious premature explosion of an oil well time-bomb, which dealt horrible death to eight persons, one a prominent New Mexico financier, and injured four others.

The blast snuffed out the lives of George A. Kaseman, 69-year-old Albuquerque, N. M., banker, and seven oil workers whom he was watching as they prepared to "shoot" a well in the rich Monument field, about 20 miles southwest of Hobbs.

Had Interest In Well

Kaseman, prominent in New Mexico business circles for 47 years, was president of the Albuquerque National Trust & Saving bank, and of the Albuquerque and Cerrillos Coal company.

He was financially interested in the Monument well and had come with a party of friends to witness the "shooting" operation, designed to increase its production.

The bomb, loaded with nitroglycerin and operated by an automatic timing mechanism, was to have been lowered into the well, where it might shatter the underground rock structure and allow the oil to flow more freely.

Terrific Detonation

Instead, it exploded with a terrific detonation as the workmen removed it from a truck.

Instantly killed were Kaseman, H. A. Greer, gauger for the shooting crew; J. T. Broughton, derrickman; Forrest Huston and Charles Wrigley, rigmen; V. P. Peck, the shooter, and Alex Blair, shooter's helper.

Jack Starkey, superintendent of the Two-State Drilling company, died shortly before midnight in a Hobbs hospital, six hours after the explosion. All the dead but Kaseman were residents of Hobbs.

Injured Expected To Live

Hospital attendants said all the injured were expected to live. They were Fred Luthy, vice president of the Albuquerque National bank, who lost his left eye; Herman Crile, Roswell, N. M., attorney; J. B. Headley, Roswell geologist, and Ole Johnson, rigman.

A "hunch" saved the life of Norman Dollar, rig fireman.

Airplanes Made Of Plastics May Be War-Time Measure

BY DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, June 24 — A secret development in aircraft construction, which may make possible the quick production of thousands of warplanes in the event of a national emergency, has undergone its initial tests in at least four American aeronautical plants.

Research engineers proposed to turn out airplanes from molds, like cup cakes.

Two complete airplanes now being tested in flight are constructed of plastics, the same material often used for molded automobile steering wheels, clock cases and table ware.

The army air corps is highly interested in the process, and one of the two planes which has been flying for several months is described as being on the government "secret list."

Extensive research work on the same material is beng done in Europe.

The fuselage of one machine was turned out recently in two hours by two workmen. Normal-

WASHINGTON, June 24. — The "little cabinet" dinner for President Roosevelt tonight has turned into a digestive-automotive-speechmaking race. The president either will have to bolt his food, break the speed limit, or be late for his "fireside chat."

Attorneys for Thompson filed a waiver.

Thompson recently entered pleas of guilty in 72nd district court of three indictments charging forgery and passing and he was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary in each case. One of the pleas was before a jury and the other two before Judge Daniel A. Blair of that court.

Jas. P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff, said Thompson was being held in the county jail, pending transfer to the state penitentiary.

Champion Country Correspondent Gives Capital Newsmen A Tip

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Mrs. Edna Eaton Wilson, a champion country correspondent, told Washington newspaperfolk how to get two stories instead of one.

"It isn't important," she said, "that Mrs. Jones went to call on Mrs. Brown. The news is what they did. They canned 50 quarts of beans, part by the cold pack method and part in a pressure cooker. That way you have a followup the next winter on which beans turned out best."

Mrs. Wilson, incidentally, said she was "too homesick" for Riply, Okla., where she has a husband and four sons, to stay over for President Roosevelt's press conference today.

She won a trip East and a $500 award from a national magazine as a result of her country news items.

LABOR IS REWARDED

AUSTIN, (AP) — One of the most unique student funds in the United States recently was established at the University of Texas by T. U. Taylor, engineering dean emeritus. Twice each year candidates who have earned the costs of their education by manual labor, are handed $15 to spend it in any way they may desire. In addition to working, students must meet certain scholastic standards.

Applications To Post Expected

Several dozen applications from persons seeking the presidency of Texas Technological college have been received and many more are expected, Clifford B. Jones of Spur, chairman of the board of directors, said late Thursday.

Rumors have linked educators in this and other states with the position, but no steps have been taken toward the selection of a new president.

No Selection For Long Time

"No selection has been made and no selection will be made in quite some long time," Chairman Jones said, in a telephone conversation from Spur.

He ventured no estimate on the length of time that will be required for the selection. The board will proceed slowly in attempt to find an able president to succeed Dr. Bradford Knapp, who died June 11, he said.

The directorate chairman said the entire board will proceed as a unit in the selection of a president, and that no committee will be chosen to seek an educator for the place.

Announcement was made that the next meeting of the board of directors will be conducted July 16. At that time, the board will consider routine business and although the search for a new president no doubt will be discussed the meeting will not be conducted for that purpose.

Circus Tied Up By Labor Difficulties

SCRANTON, Pa., June 24 (AP)—A wage dispute beneath the big top held the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey circus here last night at the end of a second showless day as star performers and laborers debated whether to accept pay reductions.

State and federal mediators, who arrived late Thursday, conferred with Ralph Whitehead, executive secretary of the American Federation of Actors Mayor Fred J. Huester, and the head of the circus, John Ringling North.

About 100 of the performers decided to accept a 25 per cent wage reduction which North said was necessary to keep the "biggest show on earth" going.

They conferred with laborers—canvas men, truck drivers and others who had voted to continue their strike against the pay cut.

The laborers said they were willing to load the circus trains so that the animals and equipment could be taken back to winter quarters at Sarasota, Florida if North would permit them to ride the train back to their homes in the South.

Chicago Man Is Free To Return To Business; Absolved Of Rape

CHICAGO, June 24. (AP)—Thomas McCall, 39, was free today—and adjudged innocent—to reenter the engraving business he left six months ago to serve a five-year prison sentence on a rape charge.

He was convicted last August 15 of raping Miss Virginia Austin, 25, an artist from New York. McCall maintained a confession was obtained under duress.

Later, Robert Nixon, 18, a negro accused of slaying five women, confessed, chief of detectives said, raping Miss Austin. Nixon later denied this. But Thursday Judge John C. Lewe granted McCall a new trial, proceeded with it immediately and found McCall innocent.

AUNT JENNY SAYS— HERE'S A DAINTY, DELICATE "SUMMER" PIE AS COOLING AS ICED LEMONADE — TRY IT!

RECIPE BELOW

LIGHT, FLUFFY LEMON FILLING—TENDER FLAKY Spry CRUST

LEMON CHIFFON PIE

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 egg whites
½ cup sugar
1 baked Spry Pie Shell

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine beaten egg yolks, sugar, salt and lemon juice, and blend well. Cook over boiling water until thick and foamy, beating constantly with rotary egg beater (about 3 minutes). Remove from hot water. Beat in gelatin and lemon rind. Chill until slightly thickened.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Add sugar gradually (about 1 tablespoon at a time), beating after each addition until stiff. Fold carefully into gelatin mixture until well blended. Pile lightly in baked Spry Pie Shell. Chill in refrigerator several hours, or until firm. And when you eat it, notice how perfectly the delicate Spry pastry blends with the dainty chiffon filling.

BAKED SPRY PIE SHELL

1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup Spry
3 tablespoons cold water (about)

Sift flour and salt together. Add ⅓ of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as corn meal. Takes almost no time at all, Spry's so creamy and smooth! Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. This makes your pastry flaky as can be! Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture. With a fork, work lightly together until a dough is formed. Roll dough ⅛-inch thick and prick with fork. Place dough in pie plate and let relax 5 minutes. Pat with ball of dough. Trim pastry ½" larger than pan and turn back edge. Flute rim. Chill. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes.

Civil Aeronautics Authority For Non-Military Aviation Approved

Licenses Will Be Given Lines

BY JOSEPH H. SHORT
Associated Press Staff Writer

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 24.—President Roosevelt gave his approval Thursday to a bill setting up a civil aeronautics authority to regulate this country's non-military aviation.

The measure was one of 55 on which the president took action before he started work on his fireside chat to be delivered to the nation at 9:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) Friday from Washington.

Seven Are Vetoed

Of the 55, Mr. Roosevelt signed 48 and vetoed seven, bringing the total of measures approved to 126 and those disapproved to 18, between his arrival at home here Monday morning and his departure for the capital last night.

The aeronautics authority, to have five $12,000 members and a $12,000-a-year administrator, takes some of its regulatory functions from the bureaus of air commerce in the commerce department and others from the Interstate Commerce commission.

Will Issue Licenses

Among other things, the authority will have power to issue and revoke licenses for air lines carrying passengers and property, pass upon such lines' rates and permit or refuse authority for air line mergers or interlocking relationships.

In addition, it is directed to encourage the establishment of civil airways and to make a survey, on which it must report by February 1, 1939, on whether the federal government shall participate in a program to build and maintain a nationwide system of airports.

Authorizes Buying Of Ships

Among other bills signed was one authorizing the Maritime commission to purchase vessels for operation "on essential routes" and fixing ship building subsidies which are to represent the differences in cost of building ships in this country and abroad.

A third bill would increase the number of naval officers from the present 6,531 to 7,562 over a period of five years.

Another measure approved would permit the interior department to lease state, county and private lands within grazing districts in the interest of the orderly use, improvement and development of the districts.

All the bills vetoed were of minor nature concerning individuals.

The president still has about 175 bills on which he must act by the early part of next week.

Enlightened Accord Between Bar And Press Is Urged

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP) — An "enlightened accord between those interested" was held out by the American Bar association's committee on cooperation between press, radio and bar today as the alternative to legislation to control the press in connection with court trials.

"The press is justly fearful of any legislation which may appear to limit the freedom of the press," the commission said in its annual report to be presented to the bar association's meeting in Cleveland next month.

"The bar should be as fearful of any attempt to limit the freedom of the press as the press itself.

"The alternative to legislation, which undoubtedly the chaos which generally has existed will lead to, is an enlightened accord between those interested and support for judges who act in accordance with this accord."

The committee said the freedom of the press could not be maintained without the freedom of the bar and vice versa.

Grand Theft Complaints Filed Against Youths Who Took Boat

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., June 24. — Grand theft complaints against three Santa Cruz high school boys who "borrowed" a $25,000 yacht and sailed it 2,000 miles down the coast were filed with District Attorney Ben Knight late Thursday by the yacht's owner, Lew K. Foote of Watsonville.

The district attorney said he would send a deputy sheriff to Purto Vallarta, on the Mexican west coast, to take the boys in custody. He indicated they would be tried in juvenile court as all are minors.

Dispatches from Mexico City quoted the head of the Mexican Maritime office communications department as saying the yacht Tira was detained at Puerto Vallarto on the western Mexican coast because her papers were not in order and because the owner had flied complaints in connection with the yacht's disappearance.

The boat was taken from a wharf here 28 days ago.

Foote said he would leave by plane for Puerto Vallarto and that he would return the boat alone.

Ordinance On Stock Passed

Keeping of livestock within most of the city limits of Lubbock will be against the law after next Aug. 15 by provision of an ordinance adopted on first reading at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission in the city hall Thursday afternoon.

The ordinance followed an election last June 14 in which residents of three zones had cast majorities in favor of livestock zoning. In none of the three zones where elections were held did majorities favor retention of livestock.

Areas Are Given

The areas in which the livestock ban will be effective, should the ordinance be finally passed on second reading by the city commission at its next regular meeting July 14 will be bounded by the center lines of the following streets:

South of Sixth between College and H; west of H between Sixth and Twenty-sixth; north of Twenty-sixth between H and Q; west of Q between Twenty-sixth and south city limits; the city limits from Q to the west end of Nineteenth street; Nineteenth street from the city limits east to College Avenue; and east of College avenue between Nineteenth and Sixth streets.

The only areas which are not zoned by the ordinance are the northern fringe of the city and larger areas comprising the eastern portion.

Passed As Health Measure

The ordinance, as prepared for submission to the commission by City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley, relates that it was passed as a health measure. Penalty for violation was fixed at a fine of $10 to $100, with each day of violation comprising a seperate offense.

Adoption of the measure on first reading was by unanimous vote after the commission had read and considered a petition bearing more than 200 signatures asking that the northern boundary of the zoned area be made Eighth instead of Sixth street. George Berry, attorney, presented the petition on behalf of the signers.

Important among other actions of a routine session of the commission was the purchase on a competitive bidding basis of cast-iron pipe costing approximately $40,800 from U. S. Pipe and Foundry company. The pipe ranges from 10 to 14 inches in diameter and will be used, the commission was informed, to tie four wells completed recently into the city distribution system.

Ordinances Are Approved

Two paving ordinances were approved, one on first and the other on second readings. Three readings are required:

That passed on first reading calls for the paving of Twenty-fifth street from Avenues T to X. Streets listed in the other ordinance are: Eighteenth from G to H and from M to Q; R from Main to Broadway and from Thirteenth to Twenty-first; U from Nineteenth to Twenty - second; Adams from Nineteenth to Twenty-second; Fourteenth and Fifteenth, each from G to H; Ninth from J to K; and Tenth from M to Q.

The commission authorized the withdrawal of an application for a Public Works grant to assist in financing the installation of a fire alarm system.

Reason Is Explained

The application, it was explained, was included in one which also seeks a grant to aid in building a new central fire station, a new suburban station and the remodeling of the city hall. O. R. Walker, architect who has assisted in preparing applications, said the information required by the PWA for an automatic fire alarm system is not immediately available. By withdarwing temporarily the application on the alarm system, he explained, it is probable that action will be expedited on other grants for expansion of the fire department.

The commission was advised also that City Engineer Marlin R. Smith, jr., is continuing work on information needed in an application for PWA assistance in building a storm sewer across the southern part of the city. While much of the detail still is to be done, tentative estimates are, according to City Manager W. H. Rodgers, that the work will cost approximately $350,000.

General contractors' bonds of the following were approved: W. J. Sexton, M. E. Stone, Joe Telford, W. L. Cone, J. C. George and W. A. Foster, jr.

Attending the session were Mayor Carl E. Slaton and Commissioners W. B. Price, W. G. McMillan, J. A. Fortenberry and Hub Jones.

Stuart, Rail Commission Candidate, Raps 'Chronic Office Holders' In Talk Here

Centering his attack on "chronic office holders," Robert A. Stuart of Fort Worth spoke on the courthouse lawn here Thursday night in behalf of his candidacy for attorney general.

He was introduced by George S. Bond, former Crosby county judge. G. V. Pardue, attorney, presided and county and precinct candidates made their announcements at the opening of the rally.

Stuart pictured Texas as a state, rich in natural resources, which is being held back by railroad commission orders. He cited the fact that the freight rates are the highest of any state—a fact which, he said, halts industries' moving into Texas. He said gas rates are too high and with Texas cities situated so near the world's greatest gas flow they should be lowered.

"When I am elected your railroad commissioner—and I am going to be—I'll save enough gas and oil now being burned and wasted in our oil fields to give us capital which not only will pay the old age assistance, but also will let us banish the ad valorem tax," he said.

"I'm for oil proration but not the kind we have now," he said. "I'm against this importation of oil from South America. It's cheap oil, produced with cheap, peonized labor to compete with Texas labor—to throw our Texans out of work and add to the jobless problem.

"If we, when I am elected railroad commissioner, will raise the oil allowable, we'll start a drilling boom—a legitimate one. You have found oil in West Texas, but you haven't scratched the surface yet. By drilling we will re-open some of the refineries, put more men to work and we will be on our way to more prosperous times.

"Your independent truck operators are persecuted off the highways. Just ask any one of them. They are being treated like criminals, yet they pay their taxes and help build the highways. When I am your commissioner, I'll see they get a fair deal. They will get just as much consideration as the big monopolistic concerns are getting when they get into the back door of the railroad commission office where only the chosen few can enter. And about this back door—if you hire an attorney who has political pull, he will go through the back door and 'get the job done;' not because he is an attorney, but because he has the key to the situation which exists at Austin and which I will correct when I take the oath of office Jan. 1. On that day I'll nail up the back door."

Stuart is a former director of Texas Technological college. He was co-author of the bill which created Tech and worked for legislation which has given the institution new buildings he said. He was FHA director of the West Texas district, the largest in the United States. He is a graduate of West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon and is president of the board of regents of the seven Texas state teachers' colleges.

State Visit To France Is Given Postponement By King George

LONDON, June 24. (AP)—The state visit which King George and Queen Elizabeth were to make to France beginning Tuesday was postponed today until July 19 because of the death of the queen's mother, the Countess of Strathmore and Kinghorne.

The king decreed only family mourning for the 76-year-old countess, ruling out formal court mourning.

Alarming Shortage Of Underground Water In Texas Areas Reported

Report Reveals Falling Tables

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 24.—An alarming shortage of underground water in some sections of Texas and need for regulation of withdrawals for municipal, industrial and irrigation use were outlined in a report to Governor James V. Allred today.

The report was submitted by C. S. Clark, chairman of the board of water engineers and chairman of the sub-committee on ground water of the Texas Planning board's water resources committee.

Meeting Is Called

The governor has called a meeting in Austin July 29 of all persons interested in conserving subsurface waters.

"The committee is convinced the future of well irrigation and domestic and industrial use of ground water will be best insured by well planned regulation," the chairman said, adding the group's findings were based on surveys of the state board of water engineers and the U. S. geological survey.

The report said sections most endangered by falling underground water tables were the Houston-Galveston area, the winter garden district in South Texas and portions of the shallowater area of the Panhandle.

Irrigation Increasing

The winter garden area, where irrigation by wells has increased rapidly in recent years, has water levels as deep as 200 feet in wells that originally flowed under their own pressure, the report said.

Clark said the Panhandle areas were not as yet seriously affected but multiplying numbers of wells indicated a shortage might be effected.

Water-bearing stratas in the East Texas fields have been greatly overtaxed, the report said, and a new paper mill at Lufkin was faced with the problem of supplying water without injuring the city supplies.

Although neighboring countries appear to have been ignorant of the drink, Abyssinians used coffee as early as the 15th century.

Girl Guide Tames North Woods

She's only 19 and slim and pretty—but she lugs a 40-pound pack and a canoe that a lot of men couldn't handle. Marie Sarkipato, girl guide of Ely, Minn., celebrated her 19th birthday by taking four girl friends on a 100-mile canoe trip into the wilderness of northern Minnesota. Marie is pictured above on the Newton Lake portage.

Loan's Details Are Explained

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, June 24 — Under the new farm act a wheat loan must be offered at the rate of 52 to 75 per cent of parity if the June 15 price of wheat is below 52 per cent of parity, or if the July crop estimate is above normal domestic and export needs, says W. E. Morgan, Texas extension service economist in agricultural planning.

"The amount of the loan will have a long time bearing on the welfare of wheat growers and they should study the matter from all angles before asking a loan on any definite level," he said.

Will Affect Entire Crop

"The loan rate on wheat this year will have a bearing on the price of the entire crop," he added, "so we must think not only of the 200,000,000 bushels put up for loans but also about the price of the other 750,000,000 bushels.

"We have a carryover of approximately 200,000,000 bushels, and it is estimated the winter wheat crop will be 760,000,000 bushels and the spring crop another 250,000,000.

Will Have Big Surplus

"The normal domestic consumption and export of wheat is around 50,000,000 bushels annually, so we will have about 450,000,000 bushels to store. Exports should be approximately 90,000,000 bushels.

"The prospects for the export figure are holding up pretty fair, but if we put the loan far above the world price of wheat, we will shut off our exports and leave us a larger carryover than we had."

The decision wheat growers must make, Morgan said, is whether to ask for a high loan and let the future take care of itself, or ask for a loan at a level which will allow foreign markets to absorb some of the potential supply of 1,200,000,000 bushels.

New Lodge Officers Will Be Installed In Meet Tonight

Installation ceremonies for new officers of Yellowhouse Mason lodge No. 841 are scheduled at 7:30 o'clock tonight, according to Hugh J. McClellan, secretary.

New officers will be George B. Eubank, worshipful master; Early Daniel, senior warden; C. R. Duncan, junior warden; W. H. Meador, treasurer; McClellan, secretary; R. L. Stephenson, senior deacon; John H. Portwood, junior deacon; and B F. Warlick, tiler.

The Retiring Officers

Retiring officers are: Guy Casey, worshipful master; Eubank, senior warden; Daniel, junior warden; Duncan, senior deacon, Ben Smith junior deacon; Meador, acting treasurer; McClellan, acting secretary; and W. H. Wain, tiler.

Burton S. Burks, past master, will be in charge of the installation and will be assisted by H. L. Willeford district deputy grand master.

All Masons Invited

All Masons, their families and friends are invited to attend, McClellan said. The hall has a seating capacity of approximately 300 persons.

The new officers were elected June 3 and will serve a year. A program of songs and brief talks will be presented in connection with the installation service.

A general survey of all forest trees of the Republic of Mexico is being planned by the department of forestry, fish and game.

THE GASOLINE WHICH HAS GROWN

like this

Do motorists feel the difference between gasolines?

They must! . . . as a glance at the table, at right, will indicate. It is a record of amazing growth, a record we believe unequaled in the history of the petroleum industry.

Only a product offering exceptional performance and economy could have earned, year after year, such astounding gains in public favor.

The roll call of Phillips' pioneer achievements helps explain the outstanding performance of Phillips 66 Poly Gas.

Phillips was first to match gasoline to weather. First to offer high test gasoline at the price of ordinary motor fuel. First to offer, at all its stations, the extra-powered gasoline resulting from the patented *Poly*merization process.

Year after year, we have honestly and confidently promised that you would feel that difference with your first trial tankful. Every day, many new thousands of drivers must be doing so—must be noting the added power, pick-up, and mileage—because Phillips' sales figures are still headed steadily upward.

Why not give your motor a chance to surprise you? Try a tankful of Phillips 66 Poly Gas . . . the standout gasoline that costs nothing extra.

Dams Said Aid To Farming

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 24 — Dams are an aid to good farming, federal Soil Conservation service officials say.

Big dams form reservoirs and stock ponds, they point out, while little dams across gully channels reduce the cutting power of runoff water and permit the growth of protective vegetation.

More than 2,500,000 farm and rangeland dams have been built under the supervision of soil conservation service engineers in the past three years, Chief Engineer T. B. Chambers of the service, said.

Provide Much Storage

About 3,500 of the larger dams provide nearly 80,000 acre-feet of storage space—enough to hold about 28 billion gallons of water.

All the dams, both gully control and water conservation, have a distinct value for upstream flood control and for storing rainwater against drouth periods, Chambers said.

He pointed out water held on farms and ranches lightens the load river channels are forced to carry in flood time. Furthermore, he said, much of the retained water soaks into the ground where it can be used by growing plants.

Dams used in the soil conservation service program range in size from simple sod bags placed across gully channels to large rock-masonry structures

Plans and specifications are drawn by service engineers but most of the construction work is done by CCC enrollees or by farmers cooperating in the erosion-control program.

Checking Of Scholastic Census Made By Education Department

AUSTIN, June 24 (AP)—Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, says checking of the scholastic census is proceeding and it is expected more than 12,000 names will be removed before rolls are approved.

Federal census estimates place population increase of Texas at seven tenths of one per cent yearly. Since 1930 the scholastic census has not reflected this increase due to the determination of the state department of education to remove excess names, Dr. Woods said

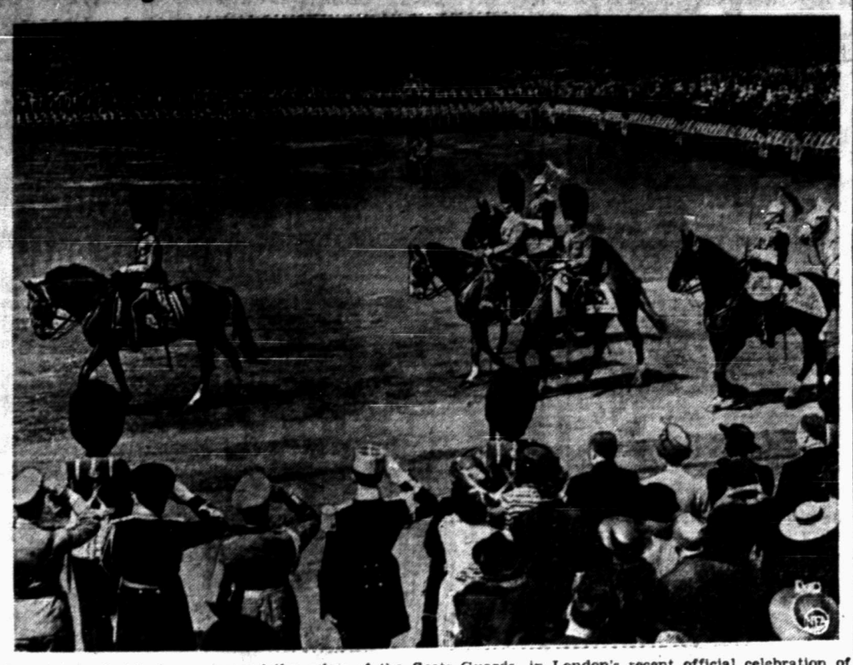

There is annually conserved for equitable distribution more than $750,000 and the checking accounts in part for the present high apportionment of $22 per capita, he explained. If the present trends continue on submitted rolls the scholastic census will show an increase of 7,000, he said.

EARLY BIRD CATCHES STRING

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb. (AP) — Mistaking a piece of string for a worm was fatal for a robin that lived in the Rev. J. M. Wingett's yard.

Although a drone bee does not have a father, it does have a grandfather.

All The King's Horses And All The King's Men

Two thousand picked men trooped the colors of the Scots Guards, in London's recent official celebration of the 43rd birthday of King George VI, while members of the royal family watched and the King, himself, took active part. Photo shows the King, clad in the scarlet-and-gold uniform of Colonel-in-Chief of the Scots Guards, astride his horse at the left. He is followed by his brothers, the Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Kent.

MONTGOMERY WARD

Every German Citizen Must Undergo Period Of Service For State

Goering Heads New Scheme

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, June 24.—Every German man and woman regardless of age class or occupation, was made liable today to undergo a period of service to the state.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, commissar of the Nazi four-year economic independence program, will be in charge of the widespread plan, motivated by a desire to create reserves for state services now that unemployment has fallen to almost nothing.

To Suit Individual Abilities

Job assignments will be suited to individual abilities, under proper contract with the government at payment equal to that of a person's usual work.

Goering's sudden announcement of the scheme came as a surprise even to high Nazi officials.

The exact nature of the service to be performed was not specifically revealed. The plan becomes effective July 1.

That Jews also would be included in the sweeping measure was indicated in use of the word "Staatsangehoerige"—"dependants of the state," which would include Jews—instead of "Staatsbuerger" meaning first-class citizens which the Jews are not.

An image of Marco Polo, who visited Hangchow (which he called Kinsay) in the 13th century, is still to be seen in the picturesque Lingyin Monastery.

Beauties And The Beasts In South Dakota's Dinosaur Garden

Tyrannosaurus Rex, king of five prehistoric beast statues recently erected in Dinosaur Park at Rapid City, S. D., bares wicked-looking teeth at the feminine quintet who had nerve enough to approach it. The monster, as reproduced by E. A. Sullivan, designer, is 18 feet high and 35 feet in length. In the background of the picture is the brontosaurus, largest of the models, which weighs 75 tons.

It's a safe wager that the ancient stegosaurus after which the above steel and concrete copy was modeled never had such a lovely load to tote around. This lucky prehistoric reptile comes right up to date with a cargo of modern bathing queens. Seven feet high, 11 feet long, he's one of five recently erected in Dinosaur Park at Rapid City, S. D., at a cost of $18,000, partly financed by WPA.

Prince Louis Ferdinand And His Bride Are On World Trip

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24 (AP) — Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, and his bride, the Grand Dutchess Kira of the Russian house of Romanoff, sailed Thursday for Hawaii.

The titled honeymooners were given the trip around the world as a wedding present by the former Kaiser. They said they visited the former German ruler at Doorn last month and found him "a picture of health."

Much of Brazil is still unexplored.

Lubbock's Newest Baking Plant, The Good Eats Bakery, Will Stage Formal Opening Saturday

Lubbock's newest baking plant, the Good Eats bakery, at Fifteenth street and Avenue Q, will have its formal opening Saturday afternoon, Walter Granberry, manager, announced this morning. Inspection of the modern baking plant will be from 4 to 9 p. m., in the recently completed building designed especially for that type of industry.

Plenty of light is assured by large windows on the south and north sides. The building is well ventilated and electrically operated machinery adds to easy operation. Two electric ovens, one with a 500 loaf capacity and the other a 400 loaf capacity, are also used for pastry work.

Dough Mixed Scientifically

In the rear of the building is an 18x36 foot dough room, where bread dough is mixed in two machines. One of a high speed mixer, the other a regular mixer, with flour automatically sifted and mixed before being elevated into the machine. In this room the dough, after being mixed, is left for four hours to "raise." It is then placed in the loaf moulding machine, properly weighed and then placed in a controlled 6-section cabinet where the loaves are left to raise. The dough room is airconditioned, temperature kept at a standard minimum and the proper conditions prevail for the dough to go through its natural processes before baking.

After the bread is taken from the ovens and is cooled, it is wrapped or wrapped and sliced, as the case may be. The machine has a capacity of 1,600 loaves of bread an hour. It is then ready for loading into the delivery trucks.

Buy Flour By Carloads

Pastries, pies, cakes, etc., are mixed by a special mixer, operated electrically. They are placed in proper containers for baking. Cookies are baked on large trays, layer cakes and solid cakes, in pans.

Flour for baking is bought by the car load, special flour for pastries and for whole wheat bread being used. "We do not use corn sugar," Granberry explained. Other items used in baking flavoring extracts, chocolate, icing, confectioner's sugar, etc., are bought in quantities.

A dough brake or a kneading machine, is an important part of the equipment. All hand work is kept to a minimum, power being used to do the greater portion of the work. A large store room enables a car or more of flour to be kept on hand.

In Charge Nine Years

Granberry has been in charge of a bakery for nine years, beginning his work in 1929, after being a bread baker for a number of years. He opened the Good Eats bakery Nov. 4, 1933 across the street and just south of his present location. With him is associated L. J. Reischman, of Breckenridge. They selected the name "Butter-Kist" for their line of products.

Walter Granberry, (above) manager and part owner of the South Plains newest baking plant, Avenue Q at Fifteenth street.

Development Of Program To Humanize Warfare Sought By Sec. Hull

Recent Raids Cause Action

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 24 — Secretary of State Hull has begun developing a program to humanize warfare, with the particular objective of stopping aerial bombings of civilians.

Persons close to the state department have disclosed that Hull is devoting much of his time to this subject, brought to his attention by airplane attacks on Spanish and Chinese cities.

Details are not yet ready, nor has the secretary entered into diplomatic discussions with other nations.

View With Sympathy

State department officals, however, view with sympathy the suggestions advanced in London by Norman F. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross.

Davis proposed neutralized hospital zones, an international convention prohibiting or restricting bombing of "open" towns and cities, and zones of immunity for women and children within cities under attack.

Not As U. S. Representative

Undersecretary of State Welles emphasized that Davis spoke in his Red Cross capacity rather than as a representative of this government. Nevertheless Davis, who has been President Roosevelt's ambassador-at-large and disarmament expert, is in close touch with the state department.

Hull probably will not wait until the next session of congress to proceed with his program. He can sound out other nations without waitng for congressional approval.

Raises Military Question

Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the senate foreign relations committee declared the storm of protests in this country against bombings of cities in the Far East and Spain raised a question to the military worth of such attacks.

"There has been a difference of opinion among military strategists since the World war on the bombing of civilian populations," he said.

Makes Peace More Difficult

"Some claim the attacks break down the morale of the people by fear and intimidation. I don't agree with that. I think it actually hardens the people and makes it more difficult to eventually obtain peace.

"It's a complete return to barbarism. I think nations might as well condone the poisoning of wells and all water supplies."

Pittman also disclosed that he and "five or six others" on the foreign relations committee intended to study the entire subject during the summer, although the committee itself would take no official action.

The ancient city walls of Tientsin, China, were pulled down in 1900.

Whoopee! Home Was Never Like This!

Having climaxed a 13,000-mile trip from her West China home with an airplane flight from San Francisco to New York, the baby giant panda pictured above, seems to be excitedly pleased with her new quarters in New York's Bronx Zoo. The panda's name is Pandora, and her 38 pounds of liveliness indicates no ill effects from her long journey.

Nine Trained Polo Mounts Are Shipped To Eastern Market

LLANO, June 24 (AP) — York Ratliff of Llano, polo pony dealer and trainer the past 15 years, has shipped nine trained mounts from San Antonio for sale on the Long Island market.

Ratliff, like the famous cowboy poloists, Cecil Smith and Rube Williams, is a product of the Llano ranch country, and was among the first Texas horsemen to supply trained ponies to Eastern polo players. He was in charge of polo at the Ox Ridge Hunt club at Darien, Conn., the past four years, but this summer will be located at Westbury, L. I.

Each fall Ratliff scouts the Llano and West Texas ranching sections for polo prospects and trains the green ponies at San Antonio in the winter. Polo players and dealers from over the United States make San Antonio unofficial winter headquarters, but disperse about the first of May.

Most of the ponies bought by players and others originate in the ranching country in and around Llano county. Because of the market for this type of animal many ranchmen are breeding horses expressly for polo work.

New Hatchery At Lake Dallas To Stimulate Fish Production

AUSTIN, June 24 (AP)—The state game commission recently announced production of fingerling size fish for restocking Texas waters would be greatly stimulated by the new hatchery at Lake Dallas.

Last year more than 300,000,000 fish were supplied by nine hatcheries.

The commission says the Dallas hatchery, consisting of 52 earthen ponds, is expected to produce 1,000,000 fish of fry size this year. Average production would include 350,000 catfish, 150,000 bass 100,000 crappie, 100,000 goggle-eye and 300,000 bream.

The hatchery cost nearly $97,000, of which WPA provided $59,421.

'Airplane Fishing' Off Coast To Be Protested In California

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., (AP)—The county fishing industry plans an appeal to the state legislature to halt airplane fishing.

Santa Barbara fishermen charge that planes patrol waters off Ventura and Santa Barbara counties, dropping smoke bombs when they sight school of fish. On that signal schooners along the coast—in communication by radio—converge on the school with mile-long nets, making rich hauls.

Exposing Earl McClure

By Chas. A. Guy

Because he is a handsome, soft-spoken young man whom one would not readily associate with sweat-shirts, very few people here and about know that Earl McClure, Boy scout executive for the South Plains area, was considerable of an athlete in his college days.

When an undergraduate at University of Nebraska, Earl lettered in both football and track—and did a nice job in both.

Earl lettered at end on the Cornhusker team in 1927, and those who follow football know that a fellow who makes a regular place for himself on a Nebraska football team can play the game, Nebraska, year in and year out, always has one of the best teams in the country.

Forced out of football by a cracked ankle, Earl didn't let the injury keep him out of track competition.

He broad-jumped and ran the high hurdles for the Cornhusker thinly clads, being especially proficient in the latter.

His best time over the boards was 14:06, when the 120-yard record was standing at 14:04.

He modestly recalls, however, that his average time was "somewhere between 14:08 and 15."

On the sidelines at most of Tech's home football games next year will be one of the greatest linemen the Southwest has ever produced.

"Big Bill" McKinley is the name and he is now headquartering in and about Plains, in Yoakum county, searching for oil.

"Big Bill" was the first—and as far as we can recall the only—university of Oklahoma footballer to make the mythical All-America.

He achieved the honor in 1932, playing at guard. And he deserved it.

Standing around six feet, four inches, weighing in the neighborhood of 200 pounds, Bill was fast and rangy.

Quiet and bashful almost to the point of being shy, the Pond Creek, Okla., athlete had a natural football temperament.

And he's still "nuts" about the game.

Several times last season he drove to Lubbock just to watch the Tech boys practice.

And he made lots of the games, too.

Fletcher Manson Allen, sr., the Old Maestro of the Mat, looked longingly across the iced soda pop down at the Auditorium Wednesday night and recalled the times when police had to jump him out for packing customers in the aisles.

Hot weather and lack of color among the gladiators have cut the wrestling crowds down something more than somewhat and 'tis no wonder the local promoter is wont to recall the good, old days.

But regardless of a summer slump, Fletcher will not follow the lead of grappling nabobs in Amarillo and El Paso.

He will keep running, every Wednesday inght, come what may.

"Even if the cash register doean't ring as much or as loud as in the fall and winter," he muses, "I gotta pay rent just the same. So I'll keep her open right on through."

The writer believes the old interest in the grunt and groan racket will be quickly revived whenever some of the real showmen of the game can be corraled back in this circuit.

The boys who are crushing bones in this loop now are good workmen, but they lack color.

Whenever Sled can bring back such roisterers as Popeye Watkins, Sailor Moran, Buck Lipscomb, the Masked Marvel and some of the other boys who made wrestling a big business in Lubbock, the faithful will be back at the ringside in large numbers.

They are worth watching, even if the customer doesn't know a Japanese crab from a rocking chair split.

Boss Allen, however, is philosophical, as well he might be.

He realizes, probably better than the cash customers, that there are just so many real showmen in the game and that they can't be kept here all the time.

Many other places, such as Toledo, Columbus, Detroit and other foreign seaports, must have their wrestling, too. And it's impossible to keep the cream of the crop in the West Texas league all the time.

When it's possible to get the old favorites back, the now small Wednesday night crowds will treble and quadruple, as they did before.

Before we get off the mat, it must be recorded here that a guy who has traveled the world over has reserved the warmest spot in his heart for Lubbock and the friends he made during various stays in our fair city.

The Masked Marvel, by considerable the best and most intelligent grappler ever to show his wares here, treks the length and bredth of the globe but he always keeps in touch with friends here.

The miraculously trained Marvel consistently makes dollars where the balance of the boys make dimes and quarters and his itching foot is now carrying him somewhere in either Turkey or India.

But his old buddies here—and he has a number of them in Lubbock—have grown used to receiving picture postcards from outlandish places in Africa or the Far East, and bearing the plain signature, "The Mask."

A college graduate in architectural engineering, master of five or six foreign languages and one of the most interesting conversationalists ever to chew the fat in these parts, The Mask frequently has told the writer that of all the places in which he has briefly resided, he likes Lubbock the best.

Badminton, pronounced "ba' minton" by the jolly old British but you can call it what you like, bids fair to take hold in Lubbock.

Something like tennis in miniature, the game is supposed to be mighty fine for taking the tummies off'n tired business men as well as being lots of fun.

There is at least one court in town — owned and operated by Tommie Duggan and Marion Sanford—and another being put in by Edward Clark McKeever. Perhaps there are others, but we haven't heard of 'em.

Incidentally, Marion Sanford is heralded as quite a shark at badminton.

Plans already have been announced to match Deadpan Joe Louis with Playboy Maxie Baer in the fall.

Even the thought smells bad!

Muny Links Play To Open Saturday

DALLAS, June 24 (AP) — Standouts in Texas municipal golf gave Tenison Park's risky 37-35—72 par a last-minute going over today in preparation for the opening tomorrow of the 72-hole Texas Municipal Golf association's annual tournament.

At least a dozen out-of-town par shooters arrived to contest the bid of Dallas' Dennis Lavender for his second straight crown, but the insiders believed the lanky tournament veteran wouldn't be headed in a try for his fourth state golf title.

Of the flock of out-of-town entries, those dozen stars seemed to be the best. They included Hack Williford, former San Antonio city champion; Lonnie Wendland of San Antonio, winner of the 1933 state muny title; Iverson Martin of Fort Worth, recent runner-up for the Texas Golf association title; Arthur (Buck) Luce of Austin, state junior champion and winner of three tourneys the past month.

Also, there was Tom Miller, Austin's rangy city titlist and University of Texas star; Orion Daniel and Tom Williams of Wichita Falls; Derald Lehman and Jimmy Walkup of Fort Worth, both runners-up in the state muny meet; Eddie Connor, Dallas' diminutive tourney star starting a comeback; Gordon Young of Dallas, former state champion, and three San Antonio youngsters, Joe Moore, jr., Jimmy Chasey and Billy Thurmond.

Cities represented in entries to date included San Antonio, Austin, Gladewater, Fort Worth, Beaumont, Wichita Falls, Galveston, Dallas, and Houston.

The first threesome will leave the tee at 8 a. m. tomorrow, Professional Tom Sockwell said.

One Casualty Is Reported In Texas Women's Tennis Play

HOUSTON, June 24. (AP)—Play begins today in girls singles and women's doubles of the Texas Women's Tennis tournament while second round matches in women's singles will be played, with one casualty already listed among seeded stars.

Doris Ames of Houston, seeded No. 3, was eliminated in an upset yesterday by Mrs. Donald Austin of Houston. Marjorie Murray of Galveston, seeded No. 1 and Vye Soper of Houston, seeded fourth, came through first round matches handily while Kay Pearson, in the No. 2 spot, had a bye.

Edith Fordtran of Galveston was top seeded in girls singles.

The tournament continues through Sunday.

Oxford Union Society, of Oxford England, decided by a majority of 14 votes not to admit women undergraduates as debating members.

'Who'll Whip Louis?' Question In Fistic World Now

Schmeling Is Still In Bed; Baer Talked

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 24. — Max Schmeling is in a hospital across the street from Madison square garden — the same one in which Ernie Schaaf died after a clubbing by Primo Carnera—and with the passing of the German as an active threat to the heavyweight title the fight game abruptly has hit a sort of "dead-center."

Two days ago, before Max walked into a crushing first-round defeat by Joe Louis at the Yankee stadium and received the spinal injury which probably has closed his big-time career, the boxing business was booming better than Wall street in the lush days.

Bubble Has Burst

Now, suddenly, the bubble has burst. Louis stands alone, with no opponent in sight except Max Baer, a man once whipped brutally by the tall young negro.

Promoter Mike Jacobs is negotiating for another Louis-Baer fight, either in September here, or next summer in San Francisco. But Mike doesn't have his heart in it, and Baer is willing to face the music again only because of the money involved.

Maxie made a pitiful showing the other time he was exposed to the Louis blasts. Since then he has done nothing more notable than get married, croon to his first-born and split two decisions with Tommy Farr.. It may be extremely difficult to drum up big interest in another Louis-Baer scrap.

Income Tax Is Explained

Louis is back in Chicago today, starting to enjoy a long loaf. He and his wife are thinking seriously of making a boat trip all the way to Europe next month, though passing up Germany as a point of interest. Joe is not particularly anxious to fight in September, as Uncle Sam from now on will be taking an abnormally large cut of the champ's 1938 earnings. The income tax has been explained to Joe.

Although he and his entourage were in the mid-town sector all yesterday afternoon before boarding their train to Chicago, Louis didn't get around to visiting Schmeling at the Polyclinic. Neither did he evince much interest in Max's condition, leading observers to the conclusion that Joe really was no more fond of the German than he had acted in the ring on Wednesday night.

Unless he shows exceptional recuperative powers, Schmeling will remain flat on his back at least until July 2, when he will be taken to the pier in an ambulance to embark on the Bremen for home. Dr. Robert Brennan, the distinguished surgeon who attended Max from the time he reached the hospital, said it would be advisable for him not to stir for three weeks.

The two terrible rights that Louis sank into the left side of Schmeling's back just before the first of the three knockdowns fractured the transverse process of the third lumbar vertebra. The process, it seems, is a small bone that protrudes on either side of the vertebrae and serves as support for the back muscles.

Dr. Brennan promised Brigadier-General John J. Phelan of the state athletic commission he would prepare a full report of the injury, so that the general, "in fairness to Max," could let the public know that Schmeling had done no shamming.

Brownwood Country Club Play Opens

BROWNWOOD, June 24. (AP)—Match play opened today in the annual invitation golf tournament of the Brownwood Country club in which 140 fired qualifying scores.

H. G. Agnew of Ballinger won medalist honors yesterday with a 73, one over par.

Agnew, Billy Bob Coffey of Fort Worth; J. T. Hammett, Abilene city champion and Sweetwater invitation titlist; Houston Cole of Ranger, Brownwood invitation champion in 1936, and A. C. January, Lakewood champion at Dallas, were among those listed as favorites. Fred Bedford of Brady, 1937 champion, did not return this year.

Harvard And Yale Crews Will Meet On The Thames Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 24—Yale and Harvard, foes on land and water since the stone age of American college sport, renew their oldest rivalry tonight when their varsity crews meet on the Thames river in one of the most brilliant settings of the post-war era.

Trained to a knife edge, the two stalwart eights may well row one of the most stirring duels in the history of the Thames' classic. Forgotten are the days when the bulldog and John Harvard had to take the wash of every other crew in the country. Ivy rowing enthusiasts are sure there are no finer crews in the world than these two unbeaten eights.

Harvard's Sensational Frosh Crew Whips Yale Yearlings

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 24 (AP)—Harvard's sensational freshman crew, undefeated this season, whipped the Yale yearlings by two and one-half lengths in the opening race of the 76th regatta between the two old New England universities today.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 24 — Recommended: the Schmeling-Louis fight pictures which are just about the best this chronicler ever saw..... Gene Tunney and Tommy Farr furnished a laugh.... Gene was dashing from the ring after being introduced.... Farr was dashing into the right to be presented.... They collided and Tommy was almost knocked out..... If Max gets a return bout with Louis, so should King Levinsky.

He lasted a minute or so longer than Max, didn't he?..... Eddie Mead, who worked in Louis' corner and Eddie Walker, who tried to help Schmeling, are manager and eastern representative of Henry Armstrong.

Gene Tunney will do the talking when San Francisco interests bid for a heavyweight scrap there next spring..... It looks like fair Harvard at New London today and either Washington or California at Poughkeepsie next Monday..... Newspapers here were driven nuts yesterday by telephoners asking if Max Schmeling had died..... The reports were around, all right, but there silly..... Max is doing O. K. and will sail for home July 2..... Which probably will be the last we'll see of him for some time to come..... Now that the big fight is over, Joe Louis and the wife may make an announcement.

Brugnon Picks Moody And Budge To Win Wimbledon's Singles

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 24. (AP)—Jacques Brugnon, out of his 18 historic years at Wimbledon, today picked Helen Wills Moody and Don Budge to win the singles titles.

"When you ask yourself where are the really great players in this tournament, you cannot go beyond these two," he said.

"Mrs. Moody may not win. Alice Marble or Jadwiga Jedrzejowska may beat her. But she will be at her best perhaps is not so good as it was, still I believe it will be good enough to win."

Puffing on his familiar pipe, the Frenchman who helped take the Davis cup from the United States at Philadelphia in 1927 said he believed the general standard of play is better now than it was 10 years ago.

"There are not the same number of superb players like Henri Cochet, Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines all playing at the same time, but when I walk around the back court I see more good tennis being played than when I first came here."

Second-Place Spudders Here For Series

The scenes change in only one respect today as West Texas-New Mexico league teams open new series on all fronts.

Lefty Jerry Blanchard, Lubbock forkhander, likely will oppose Wink as the three-game series starts with a single contest at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Parris field. It's just about Red Hay's or Frank Lucas' time to take the hill for the second-place Spudders, more probably the latter.

Hobbs At Clovis

Clovis remains at home to entertain Hobbs and Big Spring, after taking a series from the Pioneers, return to Howard county to combat Midland. Both are day games.

"Big Bill" Terry dropped his third decision in four starts against the Boosters Thursday afternoon in a fracas that had all the earmarks of a free-hitter in the early stages. Hobbs scored twice in the opening stanza, then the Hubbers retaliated with three on a homer by Al Carr, his 17th, doubles by Johnny Taylor and Joe Gedzius, and a single by Manager Hack Miller.

Russell Twirls Well

The Rabemen added a pair in the second and two more in the fourth, enough to win. Lubbock tallied twice in the fifth and from there out Terry and Hank Russell, new addition to the Booster hurling corps, battled on even terms. Lubbock went hitless for the final four stanzas, as well as in the third and fourth.

Skipper Charely Barnabe took the mound for his maning Barons Thursday afternoon to hold Clovis to seven hits while his proteges were pounding out 16 good for a 14-to-6 victory.

The series final between the Cardinals and Spudders at Wink was postponed because of rain.

Oklahoma City's Drive Toward Top Halted By Houston Buffs

(By The Associated Press)

Oklahoma City's drive toward the top in the Texas league race was halted by Houston last night but the leading Tulsa Oilers rolled merrily onward, increasing their margin to two and one-half games over the Indians.

Oklahoma City lost to Houston, 3-2, and the skidding Beaumont Exporters picked up a half game on the Redskins because they were idle due to rain. The third place Exporters were scheduled to play Fort Worth.

Tulsa went wild with base hits and Shreveport with errors as the Oilers poked seven runs across the plate in the sixth to beat the Sports, 9-7.

Dallas and San Antonio split a double-header, the Steers, with Sal Gliatto hurling three-hit ball, nosing out the Missions, 3-2, in the opener. Tony Governor, purchased this week from Louisville of the American association, made his start in a Dallas uniform by socking a single to drive in the winning run in the ninth. San Antonio copped the second game, 5-4.

Lynn (Line-Drive) Nelson Is Turning Out To Be Effective Pitcher; Wins 7th Straight

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Those experts who gave Connie Mack's Athletics the slightest consideration this spring decided early and unanimously that as a Pitcher Lynn (Line-Drive) Nelson was a good ex-wrestler.

They figured that a fellow who won only four games and lost nine for an earned run average of just short of telephone number proportions last season would do much better entertaining the folks in the hinterlands with toeholds and airplane spins than boring 'em down his "boom boom" balls at Shibe park.

Didn't Start Until May 8

In fact, Mr. Mack thought so little of him that he didn't give him a starting assignment until May 8, but that Sunday he whipped the Tigers in ten innings.

There isn't a more consistent working elbower in the business this season than the husky right-hander from Kansas City. He's started ten games, and has finished every one.

In those ten starts, he's won eight, seven of them in a row, lost one and tied one, and has an earned-run average just over three-per-game.

Pitches 4-Hitter Thursday

Yesterday he tangled with the St. Louis Browns and pitched a four-hitter for a 7-1 decision.

Way up at the head of the race, meantime, there was a change in the standings as the Yankees, coming up with a new starting pitcher in old Bump Hadley, nipped the Indians, 8-6, to regain second place from the Boston Red Sox. This win, the only one the Yanks managed to save in the four-game series with the league-leaders, shaved the Tribe's pace-setting margin to 3 1-2 games.

The Giants' National league lead also was cut a full game when Bill Terry's Terriers went down, 8-5, before the rip-roaring Reds from Cincinnati. Although they clubbed Johnny (Double No Hit) Vander Meer out for the first time in six starts, the kid had enough lead to emerge with his eighth win in a row, chopping the Giants' loop edge to a game and a half.

Babe Phelps drove in six runs and Tot Pressnell pitched a six-hitter to hand the Brooklyn Dodgers an 8-1 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Cardinals staged a two-run rally in the ninth and topped the Bees, 2-1, in Boston. The Cubs and Phillies were rained out.

Rudy York contributed homer No. 20; Hank Greenberg clouted No. 18 and the Tigers trounced the Red Sox, 10-2 dropping the Sox into third place. Dutch Leonard's eight-hit flinging and a 16-hit attack was enough for the Senators to tramble the Chicago White Sox, 12-0.

Earl Averill Says His Stance Reason For Good Hitting

CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP) — Why is Earl Averill — the guy you saw buried in the American league batting lists last year—topping both leagues at a dizzy .390 clip?

"You're allowed three swings and I'm taking every one," the Cleveland Indians' 35-year-old center fielder declared today. "I'm swinging at anything that looks good enough to hit.

"You think you're hitting because you've found the stance, but you don't know. But that's where it comes — in getting the right stance."

The pride of little Snohomish, Wash., refused, however, to even admit he'd wind up in the select .300 list. Last year he dropped to .299 but his lifetime average of .322 is one of the best in the business.

Averill, now in his tenth year in the league leader's middle pasture, has been one of the main reasons the Indians are clicking so well and refusing to fold up at mid season.

Maxie Rosenbloom Is Hurt By Car On Hollywood Boulevard

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 24 (AP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, former world light heavyweight fight champion, was knocked down for what was close to a ten count by an automobile Thursday.

Struck down in the heart of Hollywood, Rosenbloom seized the front bumper of the automobile and was dragged several feet. Dr. Buell Sprague, his physican, said Rosenbloom suffered back and groin injuries, bruises and cuts.

ON Monday, at or about 1:30 p. m., there will entrain from Lubbock several South Plains Confederate veterans, bound for the joint reunion of the Gray and the Blue at Gettysburg, Pa., battle grounds next week.

Probably the Daughters of the Confederacy already have thought about it, but if so, there's no harm in mentioning it again. But it seems to The Plainsman that it would be mighty fine if some group, or organization, would take it upon itself to see that these few aged heroes, and their companions are treated to a bangup good lunch here before they leave.

It may be the last reunion for some of them— and there won't be many here. Someway, somehow, we should be able to find out how many will arrive and make arrangements to care for them.

How about it, Confederate daughters?

The Plainsman would like to have the names of all Civil war veterans living on the South Plains—whether Confederates or Unionists—and would like to know which of those still with us are making the trip to Gettysburg.

All we've been able to find out about to date are former County Judge W. D. Crump, of Shallowater; James T. Flowers, of Anton; Aaron L. Turner and a Mr. Walker, of Brownfield; Miles J. Estes of Bledsoe and Charles H. Foote, of Spur. Will someone down at Brownfield send in Mr. Walker's first name, or initials, please?

Lubbock sure ought to do something for our honor guests before they entrain Monday.

We should give 'em a rousing sendoff, with a band and everything.

Won't some organization take this matter up? The Plainsman will help in any way he can.

That Man on Avenue Q says take a tip from the woodpecker. He makes a living with his head!

The old time doctor who thought long, flowing side whiskers were a business asset now has a son who relies on a little black moustache.

EVER since The Plainsman has been old enough to know a dime from a sack of potatoes he has, like most of the rest of us, been brought up on the "hard money" theory.

Still as ignorant as a one-eyed billygoat about economics and world finance, he isn't ready to give up the "hard money" theory, largely because—like you, and you, and you—he's been brought up to believe that "easy money" advocates are "crackpots."

But the other day he ran across a little piece that originated in London where, like in this country, something "seems to have went wrong" with the old system.

Since the item suggests a parallel of puzzlement in England and this country, we pass it along.

It's good for a chuckle, if not for some downright thought!

"They kept it a profound secret. They said it was "not in the public interest" that the news should be broadcast. The fact remains, that I myself was present when the Great Logical Professor arrived here direct from Mars, and met the World's leading orthodox economist.

"Well boys," said the Logical Professor from Mars 'Everything O. K. up here?'

"'Alas! Far from it,' said our orthodox economist. 'This world is in economic eruption! Wars and rumors of wars, millions of people unemployed, ill-fed, ill-clothed, suffering malnutrition and great poverty, and discontent everywhere!'

"'Oh,' said the Martian professor. 'I suppose, then, that you are finding it impossible to produce sufficient to feed your increasing population, and supply them with what they need for a comfortable life?'

"'On the contrary,' said our orthodox economist, 'we have wonderful machinery! We can produce far more than all the people need, in fact we are actually destroying food.'

"'You don't say,' said the astonished professor. 'Then there must be something wrong with your shipping and transport facilities—you can't carry the goods to the consumers.'

"'Wrong again,' said the orthodox economist. 'We have the most up-to-date and ample transport, and marvellous ships—no, THAT is not what is wrong.'

"'But what CAN be wrong?' asked the Martian professor, lifting his eyebrows.

"'Well, you see,' said our orthodox economist, 'these poor people can't have the goods because they have not got enough money.'

"MONEY," said the professor from Mars. "What on this earth is that?'

"FANCY you not knowing about money!" said the orthodox economist. 'It was invented by Mankind for his own special benefit long before 1066, to make everything simple and easy for the exchange of one man's goods for another man's goods. It enables us to do away with the previous cumbersome procedure of barter. We do not have to lend a cow down Bond Street in order to exchange it for perfumes and jewelry, all we have to do is to exchange the cow into 'money' and then hand over the money for our other requirements. A wonderful invention, affecting the lives and happiness of all Mankind!'

"'So that is where the trouble lies!' said the professor. 'Then obviously what you have got to do is to alter your money system, so as to enable these discontented millions of people to buy the things they need, and employ your unemployed!'

"'Oh, we must not do that,' exclaimed the orthodox economist, with a shocked expression on his face. 'We must not alter our ancient money system! NO, THAT WOULD NEVER DO!'

"'But why not?' said the professor from Mars. 'Am I to understand that this invention has become a sort of 'religion' with rules and regulations that cannot be changed?'

"'Well,' said the orthodox economist, gazing down rather sheepishly at his white spats, 'I had not thought of it that way before, but you are right—it IS a 'religion' with us. We call it 'Sound Finance!'

"The big, thick lips of the professor slowly curled themselves into a Martian grin. Without a word, he clambered back into his rocket-apparatus and started off for home. And when he had reached a height of some eighty thousand meters, he looked down on the World, flapped his great ears, and laughed, and laughed, and LAUGHED."

AS noted above, all The Plainsman knows about monetary systems, foreign exchange, gold and silver ratio and all the rest of that fluff, you could chisel out of granite and shove in your eye.

But at the risk of making our more conservative readers totter on the brink of a nervous breakdown, we'll say that the thoughts of the Martian professor are nothing less than engaging!

Octagon House

BY PHOEBE A. TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Nearly everyone in Quanomet had a motive for murdering unscrupulous Marina Lorne, including the enraged citizens caricatured in her husband's post office mural. But Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, thinks she was killed for a $50,000 lump of ambergris belonging to her sister Pam Frye. Although she was killed by a left handed blow from Pam's knife Asey believes both Pam and left handed Tim Carr, a boarder at the Frye's Octagon House, are innocent, Marina was once married to Tim, and also played around with Roddy Strutt. Then the barn is set on fire by someone trying to locate the missing ambergris, and Asey, Tim and Pam's father are knocked out by person or persons unknown. Two troopers, who disappeared, are found stranded on Dune Island.

Chapter 33

A Nice Idea, Anyway

"We got the guy who knocked us out," said the short trooper.

"Where?" Asey asked briefly.

"We got two pictures, while it was still light. O'Malley had his camera. He's a camera fan, see? And we'll get that guy—"

"Where's the camera?" Asey demanded.

"Where'd you put it, Shorty?" O'Malley asked.

"Me? You've got it."

"I gave it to you. You've got it!"

"Say, I guess—"

"Wait up," Asey said. "Who had it last?"

"When we got out of the boat," O'Malley said, "I had it, and I give it to Shorty to hold while I tried to pull the boat up, but the undertow was too much—"

"So we let the old tub go, but we kept the camera dry," O'Malley said. "Then we walked over here. It was daybreak then, and we went to sleep. Were we ever dead!"

"And you've been sleepin' ever since?"

"No," Shorty said, "we got up and tried to hail a fishing boat to take us off. The engined waked us about nine. But they just waved at us and went on. Thought we was just being friendly, I guess."

"Ever think of swimming back?" Asey inquired.

After a poignant silence, Shorty admitted that whereas they could swim, they were not experts.

"I see," Asey said. "Now, where's the camera?"

It was Timothy who finally found it, buried deep in the soft dry sand of the dune.

"But your pictures have pffft," he said. "See? The film's exposed. One of you gave the camera a good swift kick with a nice heavy boot. It's coming apart—it's dripping parts! Here—"

O'Malley grabbed it from him and then turned to his companion.

"You—"

"No," Shorty said firmly. "I didn't. That's where you was sleeping last. And you been kicking around a lot. You done it yourself. Well, there's that bright idea of yours all—"

"Let's just sum it up," Asey said before O'Malley could let himself go, "by admittin' that the pictures was a nice idea that didn't work. Now, let's sort. What happened to you?"

It began, Shorty announced, with him. He thought he saw someone near the barn. Before setting out to investigate, he called O'Malley, and the two of them went back to the woods together.

"We headed for the barn," Shorty said, "and then I seen something move in the woods to the right, so we went there, and someone made a noise, and I pushed through a bush near that sort of summer house, and wham! That was that. Somebody biffed me."

"And he squeaked," O'Malley said, "and I come running up to where he was—and bam! I got mine. I never was hit so hard in all my life! The guy must of had a billy. When I come to, my head was splitting. And then I found Shorty, and then we heard someone running—boy, was that a chase!"

'A Horrid Scowl'

"You got knocked out before the fire," Asey said. "I see. Then the feller went to Lorne's and accounted for Aaron. Now, what about the fire?"

"What fire?" Shorty said. "After we pulled ourselves together, we seen someone running, beyond Jack Lorne's, and we chased him clear to Chatham—"

"What? Who was it? How?"

"We grabbed a car parked there by the corner. Belonged to some tourist, I guess. Had Indiana plates. And we chased this guy that was running—he got into a sedan with Jersey plates. He turned out to be a tourist too. Nice guy. He was taking pictures of the scene of the crime for his collection," O'Malley said. "Boy, did he ever have an outfit!"

"Then what?"

"We started back in this Indiana car," Shorty said, "and we left it where we found it, and then we seen this other guy running out of the woods—that place was lousy with people! So, we run after him—"

"By then," Tim said, "the biffer having laid me and you out, I suppose, I'm—"

"Let 'em go on," Asey said, "an' see if it turns out like I think."

They had chased the man to the river, where he grabbed a boat, and they followed him in their leaky tub. Pam's boats had caught their eye, but the chains had thwarted them in their haste.

"Then," Shorty said, "all of a sudden we got into a current, and the oars we found in the boat wasn't much, and one got lost overboard, and while we tried to get that—"

"You lost the other," Asey said.

"How'd you know?"

Asey sighed. "People always do. Well, I guess it happened about the way I thought. He got you, Tim, an' then he got these two, and then he got Aaron Frye. Shorty an' O'Malley got sidetracked to Chatham, an' durin' that time the biffer got me. Then, as he left the woods, he run into the troopers comin' back, an' they all had their little boat trip—when'd you take your pictures?"

"When we came back from Chatham, as he was on the edge of the woods. You see, I had my camera ready to take a shot—"

"What did he look like?"

"He was big."

"An' strong," Asey said. "Yes, I know all that. But what did he look like? How tall was he? What size?"

Fifteen minutes of questioning brought forth only the informatio that the man was big and dark.

"You followed him all that time, an' that's all you can tell?" Asey demanded.

"It was dark in the woods," Shorty said. "And he was big and dark—"

"Big and dark," Tim said, "and doubtless about to start on a long, long journey, overseas. Why, I saw more of him in a tenth of a second than you two did in all your chase! I know that he had a horrid scowl—what did you say, Asey?"

Wheelbarrows And Things

"I said, the next time these fellers went off on chases," Asey wagged a forefinger toward the troopers, "they better remember all the things they got taught in school, about how to place an' describe people. Just leave your cameras for your lighter moments. Big, an' dark, an' mad! A woman would of been able to do better than that. Least she could say what he wore."

"Dungarees and a dark shirt," Shorty said. "I know that much. No hat. And listen—this'll make you kid us more than ever, but this fellow that knocked us out, I don't think he was the first person I saw, before I called O'Malley. The first one wasn't so big."

"Perhaps," Tim said, "he got big-

THE TRAFFIC "TICKET FIXING" RACKET

While the "ticket fixing" racket is unknown in Lubbock, promotors of safety campaigns the country over—and especially in the large cities—must be aware of the fact that it is a major evil confronting the traffic problem.

Everyone may not realize, however, that the persons who would welcome most eagerly an absolute ban on the practice are those requested most frequently to "fix" tickets. Those persons include, to mention a few, officials of various kinds, newspapermen and others who, for one reason or another, are supposed to have influence with traffic officers or with the courts where traffic cases are tried.

Usually, the person with sufficient influence to obtain the dismissal of a traffic charge without prosecution is reluctant to do so. Yet it sometime happens that his refusal to intervene on behalf of a confessed traffic violator is both embarrassing and costly. If the supposedly influential person is in business, it may mean the loss of a profitable customer. His refusal is certain to engender ill will.

The person in position to fix traffic tickets is, most definitely, not in a favored position under present conditions. It would be a relief to him if he could honestly say to those so inconsiderate as to call upon him that neither he nor anyone else can "fix" a traffic charge.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 24—The littlest picture in production now is "The Terror of Tiny Town," a singing western with an all-midget cast, caparisoned in 10-pint hats and mounted on Shetland ponies. They're playing it straight, so straight that you might think it just an ordinary picture if they were not surrounded by normal-sized sets and props to lend true perspective to their small size.

Of course, too, a few of the players have gnomelike figures (although they're all true midgets, not dwarfs). And some of their voices are immature and sound pretty ludicrous when they get into some of the heavier melodrama. But however you reckon their stature as movie actors, it's true that every one of these Little People is a star of their small world.

"Terror's" Nemesis And Lois Have Soured

As members of midget troupes they have sung and danced for millions of spectators in vaudeville and world's fairs and circus sideshows. A few have appeared in Broadway productions, fewer in pictures, yet none of their names or histories is known to the public.

Old Charlie Becker, for example, has worked steadily in all branches of show business since 1912, and professionally is as famous as any who ever lived. Yet the name of Lya Graf zoomed to greater public prominence than Becker's ever will attain when she was plopped on J. P. Morgan's lap during a congressional investigation in 1933. It just goes to show what a little ballyhoo will do.

Hero of this picture, and nemesis of "The Terror of Tiny Town," is Billy Curtis. Not quite 30, he is perfectly proportioned and is 43 inches tall. He was born in Springfield, Mass., and spent two years in junior college before he went into vaudeville.

"I'd made up my mind to be a lawyer," he said, "But I had to earn some money. This movie stuff is a lot harder than the stage. I sang and danced and did comedy, and until two years ago I played child parts in legitimate plays. 'Anything Goes' was my biggest musical."

Curtis is the midget who a few months ago married Lois DeFee, the 6-foot-4-inch lady bouncer from Manhattan night clubs. He confided that there will be a divorce soon. And he also said, with a heavy sigh, "Believe me—that marriage was my last really BIG mistake!"

Billy's A Vet-ran Of 50 Pictures

"The Terror" of the Lilliputian film is the only year-round resident of Hollywood. Little Billy. Hasn't used any other name since he was adopted, at the age of 9, by a showman named Jerry Grady.

Before that, in his home town of Lynn, Mass., he had danced on street corners for nickels and competed for prizes on amateur nights at the Gem Theater.

Billy turned out to be a talented actor, and he never traveled with sideshows as a freak. His vaudeville salary has topped $600 a week. He has worked for Morosco and Dillingham and in dozens of big musicals with such stars as George M. Cohan, Charlotte Greenwood and Marilyn Miller. For part of a season his dresser was Charles Farrell. Beginning in the silent days of movies, with Marie Prevost, Billy has played in some 50 pictures.

He lives alone, in an apartment which has full-sized furniture, and kicks a box around the kitchen to stand on when he cooks. Dozens of actors, and the entire membership of Hollywood's Masquers' Club, will tell you that Billy is a marvelous cook.

He's a popular member of the club and generally is to be found there, maybe perched at the bar drinking beer or wrangling over a game of pool with his good friend William Hall, the 6-foot-4-inch leading man.

Billy is about 42 inches tall, but he has a full-grown temper. At a Masquers' picnic Jack Oakie pushed Billy to the ground several times and hee-hawed at the midget's warnings. Pretty soon Little Billy hopped up on a chair and conked the sturdy Oakie with a beer mug.

The big actor went down and out, and for the next three days studio press agents reported that Oakie was confined to his bed with a heavy cold.

New Wage-Hour Law Will Start Fur To Flying And Unions And Lobbyists Are Set For Fray

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 24.—You may expect an immediate drive in several industries for a prompt raise of the 25-cents-an-hour minimum fixed in the wage-hour law.

Unions in the textile and garment industries, for instance, will begin demanding a 40-cent minimum as soon as the new administrator of the law is appointed. That's the top which may be fixed as a minimum after investigation and recommendation by a board for any industry.

Rodney Dutcher

Actually those unions will hope to get a minimum of from 30 to 35 cents. Under the new 44-hour maximum work week, that would mean a minimum weekly wage of from $13.20 to $15.40.

C. I. O. unions will open an information office in Washington, designed especially to advise unorganized workers of their rights under the bill and of reaching or approaching the maximum weekly wage of $17.60 which it is possible for the administrator to set after four months. (Few such minimum wage schedules—40 cents an hour for 44 hours—are anticipated.)

Shades Of The Blue Eagle

Although the hourly wage minimum is below the scale in most industries and depression curtailments make the hour maximum beside the point in many, Washington is looking forward to a period similar to the old NRA code days as hundreds of industry boards are created and their members and lobbyists for employers and labor start flocking to Washington.

The new law provides for a virtual resurrection of the old NRA scheme as it was envisaged by labor leaders and liberals in Congress. Its big difference from NRA is the absence of provisions for trade practices and price-fixing agreements by industries.

Bill Really Has Teeth

Considering the fact that wage-hour legislation was thought to have been killed for this session of Congress when the House buried it last December, and that only a drastic modification of the Senate bill passed last year was thought to have any chance at all, the provisions of the law are so drastic as to be surprising—even amazing. It's a stronger bill than the Senate bill. Labor and administration lobbyists worked feverishly in the last few days and nights to make it so.

The wage-hour board which the original administration plan and the Senate bill contemplated now becomes an administrator of a division in the Labor department with power to approve or disapprove recommendations of industry committees representing employers, labor and public—or to set up new committees.

But whereas administration brain trusters never dared write in a flat minimum wage floor and the Senate would have permitted minimum wages as low as its proposed board wanted to set them, the law writes in a 25-cent floor for one year, a 30-cent floor the next and virtually a 40-cent floor after seven years. The Senate bill exempted many more industries than the final House-Senate version.

Tough For Violators

Pending possible but unexpected invalidation by the liberalized Supreme court, the law will be hard to beat. The administrator will have his own legal staff, co-operating with the Justice department on enforcement. Criminal prosecution with a maximum $10,000 fine penalty for the first offense and possible jail sentence for the second is provided.

The administrator is entitled to seek court injunctions against violators, contempt of which would mean fine or imprisonment. Employers appealing wage decisions to courts must post bond to cover wage payments.

Finally, employes or unions representing them are enabled to sue violating employers for damages amounting to double the wages involved plus court costs.

Political Implications

The law will have certain, but immeasurable political effects, since it will begin to apply to affected industries around the middle of October, two or three weeks before the November elections. By that time, also, the administrator will be able to boost the 25-cent figure in some industries. For this reason few members cared to vote against the bill and it was passed overwhelmingly in more effective form than many of the legislation's warmest advocates had expected.

ger the more you saw of him."

"It was different people," Shorty insisted.

"It should have been," Asey told him. "The first one you seen was the one that fired the barn. Then the biffer got you, and you chased him again after your interlude with the tourist that took the nice pictures. Now, there's a few more little d'tails I want to get settled before we go back. Did either of you see Aaron Frye wheelin' somethin' into the barn, yesterday?"

The troopers stared at him.

"Why, he carried some coal out," Shorty said, after a pause. "I askd if I could help, the frist trip. I helped him dump it. He told me he could manage the rest."

"I see," Asey said.

Apparently Aaron had first carried a load of coal out in the barrow, and thus lessened any suspicions anyone might have had. Once having implanted the idea that he was carrying out coal, he could carry out the ambergris. "I see," Asey said again. "Now, did you spot anyone carryin' anythin' out of the barn?"

Shorty shook his head. "I don't think so. You see anyone, O'Malley?"

"I don't know, it seems to me—who helped Frye later? Someone was doing some carting. That woman, the one with the cat."

"Oh, not Gran," Tim said. "She's not much of a one for carting. She's better at telling people where to cart, if you know what I mean."

"No, she was the one," O'Malley said. "I know, because the cat was sitting in the wheelbarrow, big as life. She had the barrow."

"I do remember, now," Tim said. "It was after they put up the barbed wire, after the crowd had trampled around the flower beds. Gran couldn't stand it, so she went and tried to repair the damage. I was flitting around," he explained to Asey, "with Hanson and over at Lorne's, trying to catch sight of those papers. Gran did do some repair work, on the zinnias, and probably she used the barrow then. What does it all signify?"

"Was that after Aaron did his carting, or before?" Asey wanted to know.

"I don't think I remember," O'Malley said. "After, I guess. I tell you, yesterday was mixed up. It was around the time that Strutt boy was there, too, I think. I," he frowned, "I think he wheeled something, too."

"It sounds," Timothy said, "as though everyone in the vicinity of Octagon House had spent the day playing with barrows."

Asey learns about art, Monday.

Reductions In Funds Shown

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 24.—The Highway commission has released figures showing the reduction in federal aid on highway construction as decreed by congress for the fiscal years starting July 1, 1939 and 1940.

The commission said the regular federal aid allotment for the year starting in the summer of 1939 was reduced 20 per cent and the following year, 8 per cent; the secondary of feeder road allotment was curtailed 40 per cent each year, and the grade crossing program cut 60 per cent the first year and 40 per cent the second.

Estimated allocations for Texas, the commission said, were as follows:

Regular federal aid the first year $6,200,000 to be matched by the state; secondary aid $930,000, also matched, and grade-crossing aid, $1,070,000 not be matched.

In the second year, regular federal aid, $7,130,000; secondary aid $930,000 and grade crossing aid, $1,804,000, on the same matching basis.

Whoever heard of dinner getting started on time in one of those places, much less finishing according to schedule? But just suppose it does.

That will mean the president will light into an eight or nine course meal at 8 p. m., and unless he refuses to talk and concentrates solely on food, he won't get through for an hour.

Suppose he indulges in a little conversation and answers a question or two. Well, that will put him in his White House automobile, say at 9:10.

Granted he'll have a motorcycle escort, he still will have to make a fast trip back to the White House.

That's the situation, so—if the president sounds a little out of breath tonight — you'll know why.

Mexican Funds To Be Discussed By Federal Claims Commission

WASHINGTON, June 24. (AP)—The federal government will disburse $2,000,000 of Mexican funds within the next few days in partial settlement of losses suffered by 1,358 United States citizens during the Mexican revolution of 1913.

State department officials said today the payment would represent approximately two-fifths of a $5,500,000 settlement agreed upon by a joint commission of Mexican and United States representatives.

A large portion of the money will go to Utah residents, members of the Latter Day Saints church. They were driven from their homes in the Mexican states of Chihuahua and Sonora during an Agrarian uprising led by Pancho Villa.

German-American Bund Leader Exposes Fight Against Jews

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—Fritz Kuhn, acknowledged "fuehrer" of the German-American bund—an organization closely patterned after the nazis of Germany, today told a New York legislative committee that his group is "out in the open in its opposition to Jews in America."

In testimony before the committee headed by Senator John J. McNaboe as chairman Kuhn recited a list of charges against American Jewry which closely resemble the fanaticisms of nazi Germany.

He also traced the growth of the German-American bund in this country and claimed the organization has spread to activity in 94 American cities.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—Stocks leaped upward 1 to more than 4 points today in the fifth consecutive rallying session, but profit selling became more insistent and cut down top marks in many cases at the close.

Buying orders from all parts of the country flooded the boardrooms at the start and the ticker tape, during almost the entire first hour, was behind as much as 4 minutes. Volume dwindled as traders appeared to reduced quotations. At that transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares, the best with the exception of yesterday's since last December.

Rails and selected industrials were in the forefront of the resumption of the climb. Farm implements showed strong at the last when earlier favorites were inclined to give ground. Utilities were among the few groups to lag. Gold mining issues also lacked popularity as talk of a hoist in the gold price evaporated.

Only 13 Booths Are Unreserved In New Merchants' Unit

Only 13 booths among the 50 in the new Merchants building at the Panhandle-South Plains fairgrounds remained available this morning, according to officials of the fair association.

It is definitely assured, officials added that many requests for space cannot be filled, just as was the case in the old building last year.

Several exhibitors last year had not been called upon and they will be given preference in the leasing of the remaining booths, officials of the association said. Thus far, only one of last year's exhibitors who has been contacted has failed to reserve space and he is engaging in a new type of business not permitting his use of the Merchant's building booths.

Of the spaces remaining, three are double and seven are single. Single booths are 10 feet square and the doubles have a 20 foot front by 10 foot depth.

Windsor's Admirers "Want Him Back"; "Country Needs Him"

LONDON, June 24 (AP) — Admirers of the Duke of Windsor, "all agreed in love, devotion and loyalty to our former king," want him back in England.

That is what Compton MacKenzie, British writer and author of a biography telling the "real" story of the abdication, declared last night at a dinner celebrating Edward's 44th birthday.

When a telegram arrived from France expressing the duke's appreciation of the good wishes of the society of Octavians, founded to give the abdicated king a "square deal," MacKenzie boomed:

"We don't want to send telegrams to France, we want to send them to Fort Belvedere. This country needs him."

Hoppers Are Great Threat

COLLEGE STATION, June 24.—Texas' federal allotment of grasshopper poison to battle a severe infestation in 11 counties was exhausted today in the face of urgent requests for new shipments, entomologists at Texas A. and M. college announced.

Meanwhile, from Amarillo came a report that the grasshopper plague in the southern Great Plains may hinder conservation work in the "dust bowl" region. The danger is so great, said A. A. Miller, in charge of the government's control program in the Texas Panhandle, that a long-range war to exterminate the pests is planned.

Crops Are Threatened

R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the A. and M. extension service, said at College Station that crops in the 11 Texas counties are threatened with the most severe grasshopper infestation in the history of the state.

Poison has been spread in fields—three million acres—particularly in Dallam, Hartley, Sherman, Hardeman, Childress, Potter, Randall, Hansford and Moore counties and nearby areas. The state grasshopper control committee has asked the federal government for additional poison allotments.

Importance Is Explained

Conservation officials at Amarillo explained the importance of the war against the pests in their campaign.

The government's conservation program in the dust and drouth area revolves on the idea of cover crops, sorghum, weeds or anything that will tack down the soil and protect it from the wind. Should the 'hoppers destroy most of the vegetation any summer during the next few years, there is a chance the conservation program would be materially hampered. Unprotected soil blows when the winter and spring gales come. Regardless of the amount of moisture in the ground. Only an adequate cover can prevent blow hazards.

Flood Waters Rushing On In Montana; Take Nine Lives

HAVRE, Mont., June 24 (AP) — Homeless farmers, beleaguered by flood waters in the valley flats of the Milk river in north-central Montana, braced today against the onrushing tide that has taken nine lives, left one missing and damaged thousands of dollars worth of property.

The flood waters were rushing toward Malta, east of Havre, on the swollen Milk river where flood stage is expected today.

Farmers gave up their homes yesterday in the valley flats as the cloudburst-widened river struck at Harlem, 60 miles above Malta.

Rain ranging to cloudburst proportions has pounded over every section of Montana in 24 hours, creating "flash floods" similar to the Custer creek flood that weakened a trestle through which a Milwaukee railroad train plunged early Sunday, killing an estimated 46.

To Have Busy Summer

Tonight's speech will mark the beginning of a busy summer season for Mr. Roosevelt. In the next two weeks he is to make four out-of-town addresses and complete arrangements for a politically significant journy across the continent to San Francisco.

Meanwhile he must sign or disapprove 175 bills which congress passed last week. He also must complete the organization of such newly authorized agencies as the wage-hour division of the labor department and the independent civil aeronautics authority.

Glow Of Friendliness Imparted In News From London That Princess Elizabeth Is Learning How To Make Up Household Beds

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Writer

NEW YORK, June 24 — There is a delightfully homely touch in the news from London that little Princess Elizabeth, who is slated to succeed her father as ruler of the British empire, is learning to make beds.

It imparts a glow of friendliness to learn of this housewifely pursuit of a small girl whose weight is scarce enough to tip the scale against the crown jewels and other emblems of regal power which presumably will one day be hers.

Brings Exalted Royalty Down

That helps bring exalted royalty down closer to us ordinary earth-treaders, who have no choice but to make beds and do a lot of other humbrum things in order that we may win an occasional hour of leisure in which to dream of palaces and kings and queens.

Still there is a deal more importance than that attached to this bed-making by a British princess. It is the democratic sort of thing which tends to spell political security for the throne.

This schooling in household affairs is no "stunt" devised especially for Elizabeth. She is following a tradition which has existed in the royal family for generations.

Member Of Girl Guides

The princess is studying bed-making and cooking as a member of the Girl Guides (America's Girl Scouts), but if she weren't learning these things as a guide, she would be getting them from her mother, Queen Elizabeth, and from her grandmother, Queen Mother Mary.

Princess Elizabeth's mother has learned the intricate business of being queen of the world's largest empire, but her thrifty Scotch soul revels in all sorts of housekeeping. Before she and George came unexpectedly to the throne, Elizabeth used to spend considerable time in the kitchen baking scones and cakes according to old Scotch recipes. She has little time for cooking these days, because of public duties, but she much prefers the simple fare of her own Scotland to the elaborate French menus of the palace chefs.

As Duchess of York, Elizabeth supervised all details of her home. She early established an enviable reputation for economical conduct of her establishment.

Took Charge Of Affairs

Queen Mother Mary always made her home one of her chief interests throughout the 26 years of her husband's reign. She actually took charge of household affairs in the various palaces, including Buckingham palace with its 150 servants.

So far as possible Queen Mary arranged every menu for her tables. The head chef presented his suggestions to her majesty for all meals and she approved or remodeled them to suit her fancy. She even supervised personally the annual spring house-cleanings — some job, in view of the fact that one could scarcely travel the corridors of Buckingham palace on a bicycle in a day of hard pedaling.

They Know Prices

Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth always have done the shopping for themselves and their children, and have looked after the larger purchases for their homes. You can't fool either of them about prices. They know the value of things, and purchase as economically as possible. They have to, for it costs plenty to maintain royal palaces.

The training of twelve-year-old Princess Elizabeth will not include so much of the household lore as was imparted to her mother and grandmother. She will be a queen in her own right—ruler of a vast empire—whereas they have been merely helpmates of monarchs. Her schooling must delve deep into affairs of state, finance, economics, constitutional law, social problems and what not.

The princess will never go to school, of course. She is in the hands school, of course. She is in the hands lessons of court etiquette are being imparted to her by mother and grandmother.

Texas Candidates

is a conservative estimate," he said. "As in other years, the election will be a great medium for the redistribution of wealth.

"The expenditures law belongs to the horse and buggy days; it ought to be changed."

He estimated approximately 10,000 candidates were running for state, district, county and precinct offices and allowed an average of $400 expenses for each.

"And, of course," he added, "many candidates will spend much larger sums."

Higher Taxes

expire July 1, 1939.

The present undistributed profits tax on corporations, he said, may be continued if it works satisfactorily. The levy was a compromise between the house and senate. Harrison originally opposed any undistributed profits levy, and President Roosevelt recommended one heavier than that finally enacted.

Congressional experts already have begun work on next year's tax measures, and are laying the groundwork for an inquiry into existing tax exemptions.

STILL IN ARMY OVER "THERE"

And because he left her alone while he took evenings out, Sari won a divorce in Los Angeles. Seven boys told Bill Mabray, police identifications officer, five of them had been breaking a downtown cigar case "off and on the last month." Ranging in age from 9 to "about 11" and in height from "knee high to a duck to just over that" some of the boys had been in the police station before, having been called to explain rough tactics used by "newsies" recently. They will be taken at 9 o'clock Saturday morning before 99th District Judge E. L. Pitts, who hears a majority of juvenile cases here. Charges probably will be filed this afternoon.

bomb and I had a hunch something would happen, so I started running," he said. "I got scarcely 50 feet before it went off."

A coroner's inquest was to be called today, while representatives of the "shooting" firm also began an investigation.

Gruesome Tales Related By Those Who Visited Scene

Several Lubbock residents visited horror-stricken Hobbs, N. M., Thursday night after the explosion near Monument which took the lives of eight men and injured others.

Jack Starkey of Hobbs, superintendent of the Two-State Drilling company and who was killed in the explosion, was a close friend of Texas Technological college and had assisted Tech football men in obtaining jobs, it was said here this morning.

Hugh T. Williams, graduate manager of athletics at Tech, Calvin Hazlewood, administrative secretary of the Alumni and Ex-Students association, and Ellis Foreman, member of the association, arrived in Hobbs shortly after the accident to attend a meeting of the Hobbs branch of the association.

Heard Gruesome Tales

They heard gruesome tales brought from the accident scene. Later, the meeting of alumni and ex-students "almost was broken up" because of the accident. The group managed to dispose of some business, although the explosion was the principal topic of conversation.

Dr. J. H. Stiles and Dr. H. E. Mast of Lubbock sanitarium staff, Miss Ann Knight and Miss Edith Franklin, nurses, and Dr. Rush Crews, brother-in-law of Dr. Mast who recently graduated from the University of Texas school of medicine at Galveston and is visiting here, went to Hobbs in answer to a call for aid. Many doctors already were on the scene, however, and the Lubbock group returned.

Parts Of Flesh Found

Foy Pribble of Hobbs, second vice-president of the Tech Alumni and Ex-Students association, told the visiting trio from Tech of having visited the scene of the accident. Parts of flesh, including a severed hand and other body parts, lay about. The tires on nearby automobiles were torn to shreds. Several automobiles were damaged beyond repair.

Many cars were attracted to Hobbs and the explosion scene after the reports of the accident spread.

Conversations expressed the irony of the fact that George A. Kaseman, about 65, president of the Albuquerque, N. M., National Trust and Savings bank and of the Albuquerque and Cerrillos Coal company, was at the scene of the explosion because he had expressed a wish to see an oil well "shot" for the first time.

The nitroglycerin time bomb exploded about 5:30 o'clock and Williams, Hazlewood, and Foreman arrived in Hobbs at 6:20 o'clock. They went to Monument, six miles southwest of which town the explosion occurred, to see several persons whom they knew and there heard horrifying tales of the tragedy.

Elusive Prisoner Is In Custody Again

"Out Again In Again" William O. Kraft was in custody late this morning at Beaver, Okla., after another of a series of hide and seek games with the law.

Wanted in Lubbock for armed robbery of an automobile salesman, and in several towns of five states for hijacking, Kraft staged a thrilling hare and dogs chase Thursday night with Sheriff Ford Householder near Liberal, Kas.

He and Roy Rushing, also wanted in connection with investigation into the robberies including that here, parted company at Springfield recently. Kraft said after being recaptured.

Picked up near Wichita, Kas., several days ago on a charge of robbing an Anthony, Kas., filling station, the two men were found in possession of a coupe taken from the Lubbock man.

En route to jail at Anthony, they escaped from the Anthony sheriff.

They became objects of a widespread search in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Then Kraft, after being caught by Householder after a 30-mile chase Thursday night over highways and praires, slipped easily out of the Beaver county jail and was caught again near Liberal.

Officials said they were not decided how to go about keeping him in jail.

Kraft pried jail bars apart with a leg ripped from a table and slid down a drain pipe, then stole a car for his flight.

Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and New Mexico cities would like to question him about a series of armed robberies, said the Associated Press.

Texas Tech Graduate Associated With Law Firm In Philadelphia

Hubert L. Allensworth, former Texas Technological student who received his bachelor of laws degree June 18 from the University of Michigan, has become affiliated with a law firm in Philadelphia, where he will make his home, friends were advised today.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Allensworth, 1906 Sixteenth street, and the brother of John Allensworth, a pre-medical junior in Tech, and of William Allensworth, who will begin his junior work in Senior High school in the fall.

Hubert Allensworth received his bachelor's degree from Tech in 1934 before beginning a three-year course in Michigan. He was secretary of his graduating class and of the Michigan student council.

Members of the family said he probably will visit Lubbock during the Christmas holidays.

Trans-Miss Tourney In Quarterfinals

LINCOLN, Neb., June 24. (AP)—The Trans-Mississippi golf tournament entered its quarterfinal round today with five states represented among eight surviving contenders for the throne vacated abruptly by Don Schumacher of Dallas. A sixth state, that of general doubt, prevailed concerning the ultimate champion.

Missouri, Utah and Nebraska each had two men still in the running as the 36-hole matches started, and Colorado and Texas each boasted one contender.

Walter Blevins, wiry little sharpshooter who is tougher than a boot, and Ted Adams, who beat the man who beat the champion, were Missouri's candidates, both from Kansas City. Salt Lake City provided Utah's twin threats—tall Ven Savage and Short Ed Kingsley. John Kraft represented Colorado and Colorado Springs, and J. V. Scott of Houston was the lone Texas survivor.

Nebraska placed its hopes in gangly Bob Fraser of Omaha and Harry Kaufman of Lincoln.

Adams met Kraft, and Blevins met Savage in the upper bracket, while Kingsley met Scott and Fraser met Kaufman in the lower division.

Tyler's Trojans Slice Game Off Marshall's Lead In East Texas

(By The Associated Press)

The Tyler Trojans sliced a game off Marshall's lead in the East Texas league last night, the Tigers losing, 11-4, while second place Texarkana downed Jacksonville, 8-4, and third place Henderson defeated Longview, 3-1.

Tyler hit hard in the late innings to crush the Tigers before a crowd of 2,300 who paid a dime each to see the game.

Texarkana swept the series with Jacksonville as Eugene Davis pitched stellar ball except in one inning. The Jax rallied for four runs in the eighth.

A sensational mound duel between Bob Thomas of Henderson and Harry Boyles of Longview saw only eleven hits on both sides, the Oilers getting but five of them but counting in the clinches.

Palestine beat Kilgore, 8-5, in a battle of home runs. Twenty-six hits were marked on the scoreboard during the battle.

SANTA FE, N. M., June 24 (AP) — Clarence E. Mehaffey, characterized by federal agents as the cleverest swindler of a decade, was brought here from Los Angeles Thursday and lodged in the state penitentiary pending arraignment on charges of defrauding an Albuquerque bank of $5,345.
