SLACKS SHED IN HURRY WHEN MOUSE APPEARS

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 15 (AP) — And what would you do if a house ran up your trousers leg?

Mrs. Ruth Chick, a taxicab driver, held tightly to the wriggling bump under her uniform slacks, dashed for a coat closet in a nearby building—and shed the slacks in a jiffy.

Later she displayed a small glass jar with a piece of cloth tied over the top. Inside the jar was the mouse.

"Just in case," she explained, "my husband says it was all in my imagination."

CHARLIE WASN'T MOVING BUT HIS FURNITURE WAS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15 (AP) Neighbors, watching men load a truck with furniture from Charlie Parlico's house, surmised he was moving.

But Pablico wasn't.

When he returned home from work, he reported to police, all his furniture and $400 in currency had disappeared.

MAYBE HE'D BETTER NOT GO BACK TO HOME STATE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 15 (AP) — Two Norwegian merchant marine officers were sitting in a hotel lobby talking in their native tongue when an American soldier stopped, listened and asked:

"Is there anyone here from Minnesota?"

"No," said one.

"That's funny," said the soldier, "you talk like they do."

WHY NOT START YOUR OWN SHIP PLANT, LADY

CHICAGO, Oct. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Robert S. Milne, 70, painted her two-story house all alone. Then she papered the entire interior, painted a picket fence, and some storm windows.

"But what makes me mad," she said today, "is when I tried to get a job in a war plant they told me I was too old."

CENSOR PROVES HE, TOO, CAN BE HUMAN BEING

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—A New York woman received a letter from "somewhere overseas," which closed:

"And I love you, our baby and the censor."

There was a post-script in the censor's blue-pencil writing:

"Because he loves me too I'll tell you he's in India."

Seven-Mile Advance Made In Plan To Seal Up Crimea

By JUDSON O'QUINN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 16—Russian soldiers blasted the hard-fighting Germans from the wrecked buildings of Melitopol yesterday in hand-to-hand fighting and charged seven miles down the railway from Zaporozhe in a major battle for a break-through at the northern door to the Crimea, Moscow announced early today.

More than 4,500 Germans were killed in the area comprising about a 56-mile front from south of Zaporozhe to Melitopol in the southern Ukraine, a bulletin said.

Nazis Destroy Dam

Part of the battlefield was reported flooded by the Germans who announced they had destroyed the re-built Dnieper dam, a few miles from Zaporozhe, in an attempt to stall the attack. The Russians, however, made no mention of the dam.

Fighting for three days in the center of Melitopol, Soviet troops were forced to use their bayonets and hand grenades to pry the Germans from fortified buildings including a factory and a church.

The Moscow midnight communique supplement, recorded by the Soviet monitor, made no claim that the town had been captured but its fall appeared imminent as another column moved up on the town from the northeast.

Savage Fight For Town

Fighting savagely for the town—beyond which lie the flat plains that lead to the Crimea—the Germans piled in reinforcements from other sectors and sent wave after wave of counter-attacks against the Russians.

"The Hitlerite counter-attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy," the communique said.

Northward at Zaporozhe the last remnants of German troops were cleaned from the river's east bank and at least 1,500 were reported drowned in the Dnieper as they sought to escape.

Middle Dnieper

Stubborn fighting also raged on the middle Dnieper where German counter-attacks withered before massed Russian guns at the bridgeheads on the west bank of the river north and south of Kiev. The Germans are being dislodged from one line after another, a Tass dispatch said.

German attempts to bomb temporary bridges across which the Russians were pouring supplies were thwarted by Soviet fighting planes.

In the White Russia fighting the Germans launched several counterattacks south of Gomel trying to force the Russians off the western bank of the Sozh river. After more than 800 Germans were killed the Germans withdrew and the Russians moved up to improve their positions, Moscow said.

P-T Boats Join Air Force For Assault

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Saturday, Oct. 16.—The Fifth Air force and swift P-T boats have struck blows at Japanese air bases and shipping on the opposite end of New Britain from Rabaul which only Tuesday was pulverized by a 350-ton bombing attack.

The sector of New Britain nearest to General MacArthur's potential invasion springboard on the Huon Gulf of New Guinea felt the weight of air assaults announced in today's communique.

Cape Gloucester Hit

Cape Gloucester, the New Britain air base nearest New Guinea, was given a 42-ton pounding by heavy bombers.

On the north side of the coast, about half way up to Rabaul, medium and heavy bombers hit the Cape Hoskins airdrome and destroyed a coastal vessel. Directly south across the island from Cape Hoskins, heavy bombers struck the Gasmata airdrome and nearby anti-aircraft positions.

Mitchell bombers flew low along the coast from Cape Gloucester to Sag Sag, strewing bullets in Japanese-occupied villages and destroying or damaging five barges.

Coastal Vessel Sunk

The P-T boats sank an enemy coastal vessel, destroyed or damaged eight barges and strafed shore installations around Rooke island which is between the western tip of New Britain and New Guinea's Huon peninsula.

On New Guinea, in the Madang-Alexishafen area toward which Australian troops now are driving north and northwest in the Ramu valley, Mitchell medium bombers attacked at low level. Their more than 30 tons of bombs wiped out supply dumps and anti-aircraft positions and spread many fires as well as destroying two enemy fighters on the ground. There was no enemy interception.

Aussies Push Ahead

In the Ramu valley, the Aussies pushed ahead in an area less than 20 miles from Bogadjim, the Japanese defense post for Madang.

More than 400 Japanese dead have been counted in the Ramu valley campaign, headquarters said. This drive began Sept. 18 from Kaiapt, a base 60 miles northwest of Lae which was seized on that date by airborne Australians.

The Japanese air force, which has been active on a limited scale, sent 12 planes against Buna and Oro Bay, New Guinea, causing minor damage.

Service Shifts Called 'Minor'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP) — The reported drastic reorganization of the Army service forces finally became effective today in what was officially described as "a minor transfer of activities" in various administrative changes at ASF headquarters.

The principal change was one separating the educational and training functions of special services division from its morale and entertainment activities, the former being shifted to the division of military training under Brig. Gen. W. L. Weibel.

Other changes:

Army specialized training (the college program) from the director of personnel to the interior of military training.

Women's Army corps shifted from the director of personnel, the WAC director and her staff now reporting directly to the ASF commanding general, the WAC training division going to the director of military training, and WAC housing, supply and mobilization activities going to the ASF mobilization division.

Exchange Service

Army exchange service, which operates the post exchanges, shifted from supply to personnel, since its work is considered more of a morale factor than a military supply problem.

The ASF technical information division assigned to the control division.

No changes in personnel accompanied the various transfers, officers said.

The directive made no mention of reducing the number of Army service commands in the United States from nine to six, but officers declined to say whether this proposal had been rejected or was still under study.

Navy Confirms Raid Wednesday On Makin

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 15. (AP)—American land-based Navy Liberator bombers made a "light bombing attack" on the Makin island Japanese seaplane base in the Gilberts Wednesday, Pacific fleet headquarters reported today.

The announcement said the bombing force suffered no loss.

(Radio Tokyo disclosed the raid in a broadcast Thursday night saying six bombers carried out the attack.)

Makin is the northernmost of the Gilbert group. It last was bombed Sept. 18 both by land-based heavy bombers and carrier planes.

FDR Opposes Tariff On Natural Rubber

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — President Roosevelt advocated today that, in the postwar world, any effort to impose a high tariff on natural rubber be opposed in order to assure cheap and plentiful tires for American cars.

This view, he told a press-radio conference, has been expressed in exchanging toasts last night at a stag dinner given at the White House for President Lescot of Haiti.

Institutional Sugar Users Get Increase

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — The Office of Price Administration (OPA) today announced November-December sugar allowance increases for institutional users normally doing their own baking.

Commercial eating places such as restaurants and hotels will get five instead of four pounds for every 100 persons and Asylums will be increased from .03 to .04 pounds per person served.

Stocks Of Meat, Fats And Vegetables Show Increase

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — The War Food administration reported today that cold storage stocks of beef, lamb, mutton, butter, cheese, poultry and frozen fruits and vegetables increased during September despite a heavy market demand.

For the second successive month, creamery butter stocks reached a record level—232,435,000 pounds compared with 123,599,000 a year ago. The bulk of this butter either belongs to the government or has been set aside for government military and lend-lease use.

Stocks of meat as a whole declined, reflecting a heavy withdrawal of pork and a seasonal decline in hog slaughtering. Meat stocks totaled 596,038,000 pounds compared with 724,769,000 a month ago and with 456,578,000 a year ago.

Beef stocks increased from 101,254,000 pounds on September 1 to 111,929,000 on October 1, while supplies of lamb and mutton increased from 13,777,000 to 17,682,000. Pork stocks, on the other hand, declined from 497,164,000 to 361,186,000.

Lard stocks declined sharply, from 226,235,000 pounds to 160,545,000. They were, however, three times larger than a year ago.

Cheese stocks increased slightly more than 10,000,000 pounds during September to reach 181,213,000. Shell eggs, on the other hand, declined from 7,529,000 to 6,012,000 cases. Frozen poultry increased from 55,315,000 to 86,001,000 pounds, but were nearly 30,000,000 pounds below a year ago.

Frozen fruit stocks totalled 220,238,000 pounds or 4,900,000 pounds less than a year ago but about 35,000,000 above a month ago.

Frozen vegetable holdings totalled 160,624,000 pounds compared with 134,162,000 a month ago and with 117,796,000 pounds a year ago.

Bitterly Contested Texas Battle Seen

Gerald Mann Hints New Dealism Will Be Issue In Race Against Gov. Stevenson

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Oct. 15. — A bitterly contested race for the governorship, with the New Deal as the chief issue, today appeared in prospect for Texas in 1944.

Without flatly announcing his candidacy, Attorney General Gerald C. Mann in a formal statement served notice that if he decided to remain in public life "it will be as governor of Texas." The statement unqualifiedly took him out of a race for re-election as attorney general, opening wide that door for a rash of candidacies.

No Definite Commitments

Still unanswered was the question of whether Mann and Gov. Coke R. Stevenson would be the principals in the contest, but on this date the signs were good that they would be.

If Stevenson does not run for his second elective term, there was good reason to believe that Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith would seek the office. Smith has been a consistency sharp critic of New Deal policies. Should Mann, who said he remained in "complete harmony with the great social gains accomplished by Franklin Roosevelt" announce, this would make a rugged pair of contestants for a seated campaign.

In New Deal Harmony

"This opposition does not date from gasoline rationing but from the day the administration proved itself responsive to the needs of all the people. I am in complete harmony with the great social gains accomplished by Franklin Roosevelt. His opposition now is coming from those who have been unseated. Big business and selfish interests are using the hardships of war to get back in the saddle. Our governor is playing their game.

Mine Walkouts Bring WLB Plea

(By The Associated Press)

Work stoppages affecting copper mining and transportation ended yesterday but labor difficulties slowed production of a major shipbuilding concern and walkouts by thousands of miners aroused uneasiness in Washington.

With about 20,000 coal miners out in Alabama and 3,500 out in Indiana, the War Labor board asked John L. Lewis, the United Mine Workers president, to use his influence to get them back to work.

"We call upon you as a responsible leader of your union to urge the employers to return to their jobs at once so that full and continued production may be resumed," the board said in telegrams to Lewis and district union officials in Alabama.

Runaway Strikes Feared

Earlier in the day, it was disclosed that Secretary of Interior Ickes, as solid fuels administrator, had urged the War Labor board to speed disposition of the coal wage dispute, saying he feared runaway strikes which might spread throughout the industry if no contract was reached by Oct. 31.

The WLB is considering a proposal, which might form the basis for a general coal contract, to place Illinois miners on an 8½ hour day based on the time they enter and leave the mine. The effect would be to add about $2 a day to their pay. Heretofore, payment has been based on time spent at the coal seam.

At the Kearney, N. J., yards of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company, some 6,000 employes walked out during Thursday night and 800 workers marched to the office of the Navy yard supervisor yesterday to request that the Navy take over the plant. Last night, however, the company reported that the work stoppage apparently had ended.

Chief Of Staff For Mountbatten Named

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Appointment of Lt. Gen. Sir Henry Royds Pownall, of the British Army, to be chief of staff for Lord Louis Mountbatten in the South Asia Allied command, and Major General Albert Coady Wedemeyer of the United States Army to be his Deputy Chief of Staff, was announced today by the war department.

Congress Plans Agency Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP) — A congressional decision to investigate the lend-lease program was broadened almost immediately tonight to include a check into the spending of other federal agencies abroad.

First, the Senate appopriations committee voted to undertake jointly with the Truman war investigation committee an inquiry into lend-lease, vast agency for aiding the Allies.

Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn) of the appropriations committee said this investigation probably would begin by Nov. 1.

He then met with a subcommittee to chart the course of the work and Senator Nye (R-ND), who reported on this meeting, said it had been decided to include also the foreign activities of the office of inter-American affairs, the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the export-import bank.

Want General Picture

"The primary purpose will be to give Congress and the people an overall picture of how American dollars are being spent abroad by all agencies," Nye said. "We don't know enough about what this country is doing abroad and what it may have promised to do."

As for the original lend-lease investigation plan, committeemen had said it probably would cover complaints—such as were heard following the recent war front tour of five senators—that all was not well in the use of American supplies shipped to Britain and others.

Nye predicted the inquiries would be "more or less private hearings" so as not to "stir up international strife."

Nazis In Italy Reel Under Allied Blows

Enemy Position Is Growing More Desperate Each Hour

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 15—Reeling from sledgehammer frontal assaults by the American Fifth Army and their western flank menaced by a powerful British landing force, Nazi defenders of the Volturno river line fell back toward Rome today in some of the fiercest fighting yet seen in the Mediterranean war.

"The enemy's position hourly is becoming more desperate and he will obviously be forced to pull out from all the low area near the river," a military spokesman declared on the basis of news direct from the three-day-old battle.

Pour Across River

Streams of Allied troops, tanks, artillery and anti-tank guns poured across the Volturno on scores of makeshift bridges as assault teams consolidated their hold on high ground overlooking the vital Capua bridgehead. Gains east of Capua averaged from two to five miles, an Allied announcement said.

The Germans yielded their position only after bitter resistance, and time after time launched desperate tank-led counter-attacks in futile efforts to dislodge the Americans and British at key points. Allied tanks and tank destroyers joined the infantry in the furious drive across the still-flooded flatlands north of the Volturno and into the heights beyond, which rise to 4,000 feet.

(A German communique acknowledged the Allies had "superior infantry and tank forces on both sides of Capua." A Berlin broadcast placed the attacking force at four infantry and one tank division.)

Terrific Fighting

Terrific fighting also was reported raging along the coast near the mouth of the Volturno, where British infantry and tanks poured ashore early Wednesday from new, American-type, open-mouthed landing vessels and dug in along a canal under the protective fire of three destroyers.

This amphibious force was attempting to roll up the enemy's coastal anchor four miles north of the Volturno, where the Nazis had concentrated artillery on the dominating heights in apparent anticipation of such a maneuver.

"The enemy has learned to be uneasy about his flanks exposed to the sea," an Allied spokesman asserted. "Because with these new American landing craft it's so easy to put troops ashore swiftly."

Nazis Order Evacuation

(The Algiers French radio reported that the Germans had ordered the evacuation of Italy's entire western coast north of Ostia as a precaution against further Allied landings. Ostia is at the mouth of the Tiber river 10 miles from Rome.)

Patrols of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's Eighth Army stabbed forward steadily in the mountainous center of the fighting line that extends across Italy to a point just north of Termoli on the Adriatic. Montgomery's forces were not meeting heavy and sustained resistance at any point, but the Germans were fighting numerous, sharp delaying actions.

Yesterday the Eighth Army captured the town of Casacalenda, five miles northwest of Bonefro and 20 miles southwest of Termoli. A spokesman said British and Canadian patrols were approaching the communications centers of Campobasso and Vinchiaturo.

A dispatch from Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army headquarters told of the continued and sub-

Navy Ready For A Showdown With Japs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Knox expressed again today the Navy's hopes for a showdown scrap with the Japanese fleet.

"What! I wish they were ready, we've been hoping for it for a long time."

STORM IN BAHAMAS

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP) — A small tropical storm, with winds of near-hurricane force, was reported by the weather bureau here to have been centered eastward of Turks island, in the outer Bahamas, at 3:30 p. m. central war time, today.

Greek Patriots Repulse Nazis

New Drive Adds To Germany's Problem

LONDON, Oct. 15. (AP)—Greek guerrillas were reported today to have repulsed a force of 4,000 Germans in central Greece and advanced toward the railroad town of Karditsa, 160 miles north of Athens, in a new offensive adding to the Germans' already grave Balkan problem.

The Germans were said to be pouring reinforcements into Belgrade in Yugoslavia to meet the menace of swift and sudden attack from irregulars in isolated battlegrounds through 800 miles of territory from the Istrian peninsula south to the Greek Peloponnesus. One Cairo dispatch said the Quisling police chief of Belgrade had been assassinated by patriots under the very noses of the Germans.

Allied Forces Poised

German press and radio reports said Allied forces were poised for thrusts into Yugoslavia and Greece. They said the Allies had established a number of jumping off points on Aegean islands after the Italian capitulation and that Greece was a favorable target for Anglo-American amphibious warfare.

Greeks in London said German troops were moving back from the southern provinces in the Peloponnesus.

In Yugoslavia, where Marshal Erwin Rommel was reported taking over the German command, street fighting was said to be enveloping Zenica, 140 miles west of Belgrade on the Bosnia river in what the Germans call the Bosnian Ruhr. Power stations and blast furnaces of the Krupp factories were reported destroyed when guerrillas smashed into the town four days ago.

In Eastern Bosnia

In eastern Bosnit other Yugoslav forces occupied the lumber industry center of Zivnica near Tuzla.

Yugoslav informants here scoffed at reports that Josip (Tito) Broz, leader of the partisans, and Gen. Draja Mihailovic, the government-in-exile's war minister, were near a union of their armies.

"The two forces are further apart than they ever have been," Yugoslav leaders said.

Liberator Bombers Raid Makin Island

(By The United Press)

The Tokyo radio said last night that six U. S. Liberator bombers raided Makin Island, northernmost of the Japanese-held Gilbert islands, Thursday morning.

The broadcast, heard by the United Press in New York, said the raiders were driven off before they could inflict any damage, but did not claim that any bombers were shot down.

Announcement of the attack, which was not confirmed by American sources, followed a Japanese broadcast suggesting that a major American blow against the Gilberts was expected.

A U. S. Navy attack on the Gilberts, the broadcast predicted, would result in a big Naval battle which would be "decisive" for Japan and the United States.

Japanazis Protest Azores Deal, Hint At Reprisals

LONDON, Oct. 15. (AP)—Germany and Japan lodged formal protests in Lisbon today over the granting of anti-submarine bases in the Azores to Britain, and although Germany hinted at reprisals, neither Berlin nor Tokyo showed any disposition to go to war with Portugal on the issue.

Both nations, according to Tokyo and Berlin broadcasts, charged Portugal with violating her neutrality. Protest notes were handed to the Portuguese government in Lisbon.

A Berlin broadcast said, after charging Portugal with violating her neutrality:

"From this, the Reich government reserves for itself the right to take counter-measures in accordance with the changes of the situation in the Azores. That is, the Reich reserves the right in the future to define on its own discretion to what extent it recognizes Portugal's neutrality. . . . What consequences this may have for Portugal are obvious."

Despite the suggestion of retaliation, it seemed doubtful that Germany would declare war on Portugal because this would cost the Nazis a valuable listening post and spy center in Lisbon.

A Domei broadcast from Tokyo quoted a Japanese spokesman as saying that the Azores case was "one more example of Anglo-American violation of international law, as in the case of seizure of Madagascar, and of strong and unjustified pressure exercised on a weaker power."

Nazi War Plant Is 'Rubbed Out'

Heavy U.S. Cost Is Said Not Excessive

By ROBERT N. STURDEVANT
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Nazi's 72-acre ball bearing plant at Schweinfurt was obliterated in yesterday's daylight Fortress raid, the American Air command announced today, and the record loss of 60 bombers was declared officially to be not excessive for the results obtained.

Brig. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commander of the U. S. heavy bombardment division, said today that an estimated 50 per cent of Germany's ball bearings were produced in the Schweinfurt plant, and that therefore the American raiders had in effect smashed 50 per cent of the enemy's war production.

Similar Views Expressed

In Washington President Roosevelt and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States Air forces, expressed a similar view. The War department in a detailed statement on the raid described it as a "heart-damaging blow to the entire war production and machinery maintenance program," a blow that "will have a definite effect on the German war economy within a reasonably short period of time."

General Arnold said this effect in some phases would be felt "within a month—and will result in shortening the war." He observed that "ball bearings cannot now pour from this ruin, and no moving machinery will operate without ball bearings."

Many Believed Prisoners

With the 60 bombers were lost 593 crew members, General Arnold's report said, but it was added that "at least half" of these "are believed to be alive as prisoners of war on the basis of past experiences."

The loss of bombers represented 15 per cent of the raiding force if it equalled the record number of 400 plane used against German targets twice last week. An average loss of 5 per cent is considered an "economical" rate of operation, which both the RAF and the American Eighth Air force have been maintaining or bettering.

Argentina Lifts Jews' Press Ban

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 15 (AP)—A ban on Jewish-language newspapers in Argentina has been lifted, President Pedro Ramirez' press office announced tonight a few hours after President Roosevelt had sharply criticized it.

Mr. Roosevelt had declared in Washington that the ban, affecting all Jewish newspapers printed in Yiddish, was an act in character with "the most repugnant features of Nazi doctrine."

Announcement of the ban's cancellation was made shortly after an official disclosure that Gen. Ramirez had named an author of books, anti-semitic in tone, and two other men to fill cabinet posts vacated by advocates of a diplomatic break with the Axis.

Comment Declined

Government officials declined to comment on Mr. Roosevelt's statement, saying they had not yet been formally told of it. The statement had not been published here up to this evening.

(Mr. Roosevelt's rebuke to Argentina was in the form of a statement which he gave to his press-radio conference. Asked whether anything on the subject is being sent to the Argentina government, he replied that this is a matter for the State department but he had no doubt that his statement would get down to Argentina.

(A Montevideo dispatch said that the announcement of the cabinet appointments noted that the post of foreign minister, which has been vacant since Segundo Storni resigned after being refused lend-lease aid by the United States, had not yet been filled. This was taken to mean that foreign affairs had passed into the background, with the possibility of a rupture of Argentine-Axis relations farther away than ever.)

The new cabinet members and their posts:

Gustavo Martinez Zuviria, an author and director of the national, library, minister of justice and education; Cesare Ameghino, former Buenos Aires province finance minister, minister of finance; Naval Capt. Richardo Vago, minister of public works.

WELL-FED FORCES

IN marked contrast to the ragged and hungry men of bygone wars our armed forces today are well-fed, well-housed and well-clothed and American housewives can glory in the fact their sacrifices have helped make it possible, according to Miss Annette Snapper, authority on consumer research.

Miss Snapper, who has just returned from England where she made an extensive tour as a guest of the British Ministry of Information in behalf of a large group of hotel and restaurant magazines in this country, says wives, mothers and sweethearts would flush with pride if they could see firsthand just how well men in the services are fed.

"Rationed foods on the home front would seem less skimpy," she says, "if anyone would bear in mind that it is necessary to provide the best for the service men and women on the far-flung battle fronts and on the high seas. And food is not all. Throughout the British Isles, for example, vast hotels and flat buildings have been turned over under what is aptly termed 'reverse' lease-lend to the Red Cross and 250,000 meals weekly and accommodations are provided for American service men.

As regards conditions in England, Miss Snapper said: The government tries to assure everyone in England of at least one good meal a day with particular attention to the children. All school children are served a hot meal at noon, but meals in restaurants consist of three items only: one main dish, one subsidiary dish and one serving of a first course of a sweet. Ice cream is no longer for sale and absolutely no frosting or fancy topping may be added to a cake after it has been baked.

Nothing is wasted; even pea pods and potato peelings make good soup, the women say.

Civilians See SPAAF Sub-Depot In Action

The wheels of routine business kept turning as usual at the 411th Sub depot at South Plains Army Air field Friday morning as the unit of the Air Service command observed the second birthday of the ASC by playing host to a number of Lubbock civic and business leaders.

Including members of the city commission, chamber of commerce and various heads of civic clubs and other business and educational institutions of the city, the party was given a glimpse of the plant which helps "keep 'em flying" at the big glider pilot training center by handling the major overhaul and repair jobs at the base.

Under the direction of Major Ira J. Sellers, commanding officer of the 411th, the group visited the warehouses where flying equipment was displayed, where wings and engines are kept, saw parachutes being packed, airplane wings being covered with fabric, got a glimpse of the famed Mae West life preserver at work, and watched their neighbors—Lubbock men and women—working in the big maintenance shop on two engined towplanes, speedy ships of other types and gliders.

The 60th Sub depot at Lubbock Army Air field also participated in the observance of the ASC birthday but did not hold an open house.

Christmas Mailing Rush Comes Early

The 1943 Christmas rush came early this year for the Lubbock postoffice.

Anxious parents and sweethearts stood in line all day long up to closing time Friday at the postoffice to mail their Christmas package to men in the Armed Services over seas.

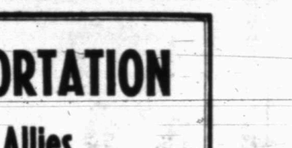

Friday was the last day for mailing these packages and department stores throughout the city reported the heaviest buying traffic this week than they had ever experienced at this time of the year.

Approximately 1000 packages were mailed at the local postoffice last week, but the mailing of Christmas packages this week was much heavier, according to postal authorities.

The deadline for Christmas packages to men in the Navy is November 1.

Tech And SPAAF To Tangle Tonight

Hard-Luck Elevens Are Out For Win

There will be no bowl bids at stake tonight at Texas Tech stadium as the youthful Texas Tech Red Raiders and the veteran South Plains Army Air field Winged Commandoes clash at 8:15 o'clock. o'clock.

It will be a meeting of two teams that launched the season in a blaze of glory, but ran into rough sledding after a big start, and tonight will be shouting the works in an effort to get back on the victory trail.

STUDENTS HOLD RALLY

Texas Tech students rallied in the college gymnasium Friday night to give the Red Raiders a rousing send-off for their battle with South Plains Army Air field in Tech stadium tonight. Students joined in peppy renditions of "The Matador Song" and "Red Raider Fight Song" and other college favorites. Tech's band played several marches and yells were given for the wearers of the red and black.

The story of the two teams is much the same. They will carry much the same record into the ball game tonight. They will both have men on the crippled list, and doubtful starters. They will both have their own fans, their own following, and will be trying hard to redeem themselves before those loyal supporters.

There was some uncertainty expressed from the Raider bastion last night as to who will start at two positions. Bob Brewer, right halfback who was injured in the Texas Aggie game, was reported shelved for another week. Peden appeared to have the inside track for that spot. Coach Dell Morgan was reported to be considering Buster Melton to start at fullback in lieu of Winkler. Melton's ankle was damaged slightly in scrimmage Wednesday but was believed greatly improved yesterday. Several squadmen are nursing minor injuries.

After a couple of shifts in the lineup the past week, SPAAF will turn up with a starting line heavier than any of the massive lines which have started previous games for the glider base. With the addition of 215-pound Joe Maroo, changed to center from tackle, SPAAF's starting wall will average more than 204 pounds per man. Charles "Tex" Lawrence will again start at right end. He played center in SPAAF's first two games.

A new face will appear in the starting backfield, which will average only 168 pounds a man. Herman Ciripompa, 160-pound wingback, will start his first game for SPAAF.

Texas Tech started the season with a brilliant victory over the Lubbock Army Air field, and in spite of a bunch of green kids, looked to be on the road to a great season.

They began to get the tough breaks from that point on. The Navy took the first cut at them when they called in Buck Gillenwater, the veteran anchor to a green line, and Don Anderson, a brilliant pass snatching end.

Several promising men went home and left the school, others were found on the border line of being called in the draft and left the squad. Injuries bit into the ranks.

Tech then ran into rough sailing, and three college teams in a row, getting tougher with each game, bounced them. Oklahoma A. & M. by a close score, the Texas Aggies caught them flat footed for less than a minute and beat them with two touchdown passes, then a great, veteran Tulsa team of bowl fame took their measure.

South Plains opened the season with a win over Fort Bliss, but like Tech, the soldiers found the old injury jinx camped in their midst and since have been beaten by their greatest rivals, LAAF. They then tangled with one of the greatest college teams in the nation, and fell before Southwestern University's dream squad.

Amarillo's Powerful Sandies Lick Tough Norman Team, 13-6

By Mack Turner
Avalanche Sports Editor

AMARILLO, Oct. 15—The unrelenting Amarillo powerhouse rolled to a 13 to 6 victory over the Norman, Okla., Tigers here tonight in the top game of the week in Texas schoolboy ranks.

A crowd of 7,200 witnessed the game that saw the Sandies retain their undefeated, untied rating in Texas as the scrappy Norman lads met their first defeat of the year.

The Sandies scored first on their great power attack, and struck through the air for the second. Bill Lynch, star back sparked the Sandies during the entire game.

Norman turned loose a fast stepping pair of backs in Remy and Singleton. One of the outstanding features of the game was the great kicking of Remy, who kept the Sandies in the hole too much for them to roll up an impressive score.

The Sandies struck in the first quarter for an early lead when Lynch checked a Norman drive by intercepting a pass on his own 30 and romping to the Tiger 34 before being roped in.

On the next play, Richard Mixon shot through his own right tackle, cut sharply to the right and romped over the goal line for the touchdown. Irwin kicked wide for the extra point.

Early in the second, Remy kicked out on the Amarillo 4 from his own 49 to push the Sandies back in the hole. After three incomplete passes, Amarillo drew a 15-yard penalty. Bumgarner then flipped a screen pass to Remy who galloped over the goal line for the tying marker. Bumgarner missed for the extra point, and the half ended with the score tied 6-6.

Midway in the third quarter, the Sandies struck for the telling touchdown, opening a push from their own 42 where Lynch had returned a punt.

Mixon carried to mid-field on a pair of laterals, then in two more plays moved down to the Norman 47.

The Sandies then were thrown back to their own 47 on a fumble. On the next play, Lynch took a screen pass from Irwin and romped 53 yards for a touchdown. Irwin kicked the extra point for the 13 to 6 final count and for the rest of the game the teams battled back and forth with no serious threats developing.

Beaumont Man Enters Senior Golf Finals

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 15. (AP)—Guy Keith of Beaumont defeated John Nobel of Dallas to enter the finals of the Texas Senior Golf association tournament and his opponent will be determined in a replay of the semi-finals match between R. H. Nix of Dallas and Billy Hunt of Houston.

Hunt won the match on the 22nd hole but a question involving play at the 17th hole was raised and a committee decided to permit the golfers to replay their match tomorrow morning.

The finals will be played in the afternoon.

"JARRIN' JOHN" BACK

ALBUQUERQUE, Oct. 15 (AP)—Lieut. John Kimbrough, who was a national gridiron figure when he played with Texas A. & M. will don football togs Saturday to play with Kirtland field's "Flying Kellys" against Colorado college's Tigers.

Aggie-TCU Tilt Tops Southwest

(By The United Press)

When the final whistle is blown this afternoon, the two outstanding contenders for the Southwest conference football title held by the University of Texas Longhorns should be out in the clear.

All six teams will compete in title games today.

The Longhorns, incidentally, still are as much of a favorite as they were in pre-season forecasts, but two teams not figured in early guesses are attempting to root the state university team out of the spotlight.

Longhorns Heavy Favorites

They are the Texas A. & M. Aggies and the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, who are scheduled to settle their dispute over the runnerup spot at Fort Worth this afternoon in the region's feature grid attraction.

The Longhorns, while they may be expected to be extended somewhat, are heavy favorites to knock over any aspirations the University of Arkansas Razorbasks have of winning their first conference game in two seasons in a game at Austin.

SMU, Owls Tangle

The conference's other bout will be at Dallas where two much-beaten elevens, one heralded as the possible "dark horse" in the flag chase, tangle at Ownby stadium. They are the Southern Methodist University Mustangs and the Rice Institute Owls, neither of whom has won a start this season.

Outside the conference, Texas Tech meets South Plains Army Air field at Lubbock tonight; Blackland Army Air field tangles with Bryan Army Air field at Waco this afternoon; Ward Island's Marines play Camp Livingston at Corpus Christi this afternoon, and Camp Fannin meets a military police detachment from the Hearne internment camp at Kilgore, Sunday.

Brownfield Cubs Take Levelland, 19 To 13

LEVELLAND, Oct. 15. (Special)—The Brownfield Cubs scored in each of the last three quarters to beat the Levelland Loboes 19 to 13 here tonight.

The Loboes took the lead in the first when Wayne Davis, quarter, plowed through the Cubs' wall. Their other marker came when Horace Byerly, tailback, lobbed the ball to Halfback Seth Murphy, who ran 48 yards.

Chisholm, Brownfield end, intercepted a lateral pass in the fourth in the Loboes' secondary and galloped 80 yards for the night's most spectacular play. The Cubs scored in the second on a pass from Perry, fullback, to Chisholm. Their second counter came on running plays.

Outstanding for Brownfield were Perry, Grenfield, back, and Chisholm. Lobo stars were Charles Ballew, guard, "Cheesey" Graham and Billy Vardeman, tackles, Byerly and Murphy.

CAGE FORMS FILED

AUSTIN, Oct. 15. (AP) — Many Texas high school basketball teams have already formally filed applications to be placed on the 1943-44 Interscholastic league roster, says R. J. Kidd, athletic director. The deadline for filing is Nov. 15, and play will start about Dec. I.

Southwestern Wins Second Tussle Off North Texas, 26-0

AUSTIN, Oct. 15. (AP) — Uncle Sam's Marine reservists playing football as an incidental activity at Southwestern university, had the situation well in hand after a slow start here tonight, landing on the North Texas Aggies with a 26-0 thud.

It was the second time the star-studded Southwestern Pirates had decisioned the Aggies this season.

Not until the third period when the Pirates punched over two counters was their margin comfortable. Southwestern's Jackie Field rang one up in the first, but the Aggies stiffened in the second and held off another drive. Pete Stout, former Texas Christian freshman star, almost got away in the same period for an Aggie tally. It was their only real threat.

R. L. Cooper added the Pirates' second touchdown with a sneak around left end topped off by a 72-yard run. Spot Collins placekicked the extra point this time. In a few moments Field lofted a long pass to Bill Hearne who fell one yard from the goal. On the next play Ken Matthews, ex-Texas Longhorn, drove over and Collins again converted.

Capitalizing on a fumble during which Stout was injured, the Pirates drove 24 yards in the fourth for the final score, R. W. MacGruder carrying over from within the five yard line.

Whiteface Buried By Sundown, 49-Nothing

SUNDOWN, Oct. 15 (Special)—Sundown this afternoon added another game to its undefeated record in the six-man district 3-A competition by rolling over Whiteface here 49 to nothing. The local sextet now has five straight district wins.

Other teams in the loop are Southland and Wilson.

Sundown's scoring was divided this way: Joe Buck, 13, Darrell Benson, 13, Jack Lambert, 12, Ruel Nugent, 6, and James Matlock, 5. Matlock compiled his points on conversions.

Harold Sides showed some outstanding ground gaining to star for the losers.

BUFFALO, N. Y., OOct. 15. (U.P.) Bucky Harris, one-time boy wonder of baseball who managed the Washington Senators to the American league flag in his first year as a manager at the age of 27, today was looking forward to his new job—managing the Buffalo Bisons in the International league.

Announcement that Harris would take over the Bisons next season was made yesterday by John Stiglemeier, general manager of the club.

Christians Picked To Beat Aggies, Grant Over Badgers

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Making these predictions with the full knowledge that a football officially is described as a prolate spheroid—and therefore never bounces in the expected direction:

Notre Dame over Wisconsin—Some 20,000 fans will see the Badgers pay the penalty for holding Notre Dame to a 7-to-7 tie a year ago.

Duke over North Carolina—the two strongest teams in the Southern conference will attract 38,000 for the first of their two meetings, which Duke should win after a tough struggle.

Holy Cross over Cornell — No one has scored a touchdown on the Crusaders this season. Cornell probably will but not enough to win.

Purdue over Ohio State — At least 60,000 Clevelanders will turn out to see the fuzz-faced Buckeye civilians bow to Purdue's collection of Naval trainees.

Camp Grant over Minnesota—The Gophers have pounded out a pair of easy triumphs over Missouri and Nebraska but the soldiers aren't easy.

Texas Christian over Texas A. and M.—The Aggies may have the smoother team but Texas Christian boasts the most experience and will have the vocal support of 15,000 followers.

Navy over Penn State — The Pennsylvanians haven't lived up to pre-season expectations while the middies are even better than predicted.

Army over Columbia—The Cadets will remain undefeated but they may lose the distinction of not being scored against.

Southern California over San Francisco—The Trojans to keep right on rambling.

Northwestern over Great Lakes.

Wake Forest over North Carolina state.

Iowa Pre-Flight over Missouri.

Tulsa over Oklahoma — This will be played at Oklahoma City and pits Red Wade of Tulsa against Bob Brumley of the Sooners.

California over UCLA.

Southern Methodist over Rice—A bitter struggle between two of the Southwest conference's poorer teams.

Indiana over Iowa.

Iowa State over Nebraska.

Hurrying through the remainder: Texas over Arkansas; Oklahoma A. and M. over Norman, Okla., Navy; Colorado College over Kirtland field; Kansas over Washburn; Villanova over Bucknell; Carnegie Tech over Lehigh.

SEGURA, TALBERT WIN

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15. (AP)—The two top-seeded players, Pancho Segura of Ecuador and William Talbert of Indianapolis, won semi-finals matches today in the second Pan-American tennis tournament, and meet Sunday for the championship.

Ropesville Defeats Cowhands, 13 To 6

A drive by the Lubbock High school Cowhands was nipped by the final gun at the 2-yard line, and the Ropesville eleven added a 13 to 6 victory to its undefeated record in a well-played game Friday afternoon at Chapman field.

The Cowhands got off to a lead in the first quarter when Robert Collier, left end, blocked a Ropesville boot and fell on it across the goal line.

In the second, Godwin, Ropesville fullback, rammed through the line for a short distance for his team's first counter. Godwin also kicked the point to put the visitors in the lead, 7 to 6.

Richardson, halfback, went over from the two in the fourth for the final touchdown.

Kipper McGowan, Lubbock, left guard, turned in the outstanding line performance.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Interpreting The Figures

FRED W. VINSON, director of Economy Stabilization, said recently that living costs advanced only 12 per cent during the first 19 months of this war as compared with 29.5 per cent during the same period of World War I.

We don't pretend to know whether his figures were correct. But his statement follows a line of argument that defenders of and apologists for present high government costs harp upon constantly. It runs thus

"Yes, government costs are high. But, because they are high, the cost of almost everything else is cheaper than in 1917-18."

It is true that most essentials cost less now than they did in the other war. Very much less, in many instances.

But Mr. Vinson and other administration spokesmen have shunned one subject like poison. They haven't compared present costs of government with those of 25 years ago, and for good reason. Every tax of every kind is higher, very much higher, than in the other war. Likewise, innumerable new taxes now are levied which were not collected in 1917-18.

As an example, consider income taxes. Fewer than five million people paid taxes on 1918 incomes. Around 45 million people pay them now. Forty million people are paying them who wouldn't have paid them in 1918.

Furthermore, rates are enormously higher. The AVERAGE rate on 1918 taxable incomes was 7.08 per cent. Today the MINIMUM is 20 per cent. A head of family without children making $50 per week would have paid around $20 in 1918 income. This year it would be around $300. The same person with two children wouldn't have paid anything for 1918. This year he will be lucky if he escapes for less than $100. And this same situation applies to practically every tax.

Indeed, the situations then and now are about the same. Then, high livings costs and lower taxes took practically everything that almost everyone made. Today, lower living costs and infinitely higher taxes do the same. People could at least feel that they were getting something in return for the high prices in 1918. They don't feel that way when they hand huge sums to a tax collector who often is not even courteous.

Yes, costs of many items are lower than in the other war. They should be. They would have to be if people are to pay taxes. But don't hand any bouquets to the government for any costs that are lower. It is taking the difference, plus a good bit more.

"Better Late Than Never"

DOUBTLESS the action of Portugal in making the Azores islands available for use as United Nations anti-submarine bases will be helpful in the closing stages of the Battle of the Atlantic and in other ways.

Even so, a great many people might be hesitant to pin any medals on the Portuguese for this belated concession.

Those people recognize that, if the Azores are of value now, they would have been a hundred times more valuable not so many months ago when Axis submarines were running wild in the Atlantic.

Many people will remember, too, that not too long ago, the Portuguese government became so coy in its dealings with the Axis that Britain and the United States were poised for a blow at the Azores. They feared, and did not deny, that they might have to seize the islands to keep them from falling into the hands of the enemy. Nor can the persisting rumors be forgotten that the enemy occasionally did use those islands as bases for his raiders.

Thus, the best that can be said of the course Portugal is following is, "Better late than never." In the last analysis, the status of the nation is no better than that of victory bandwagon climber—one that waited to make sure of the identity of the bandwagon before it did any climbing.

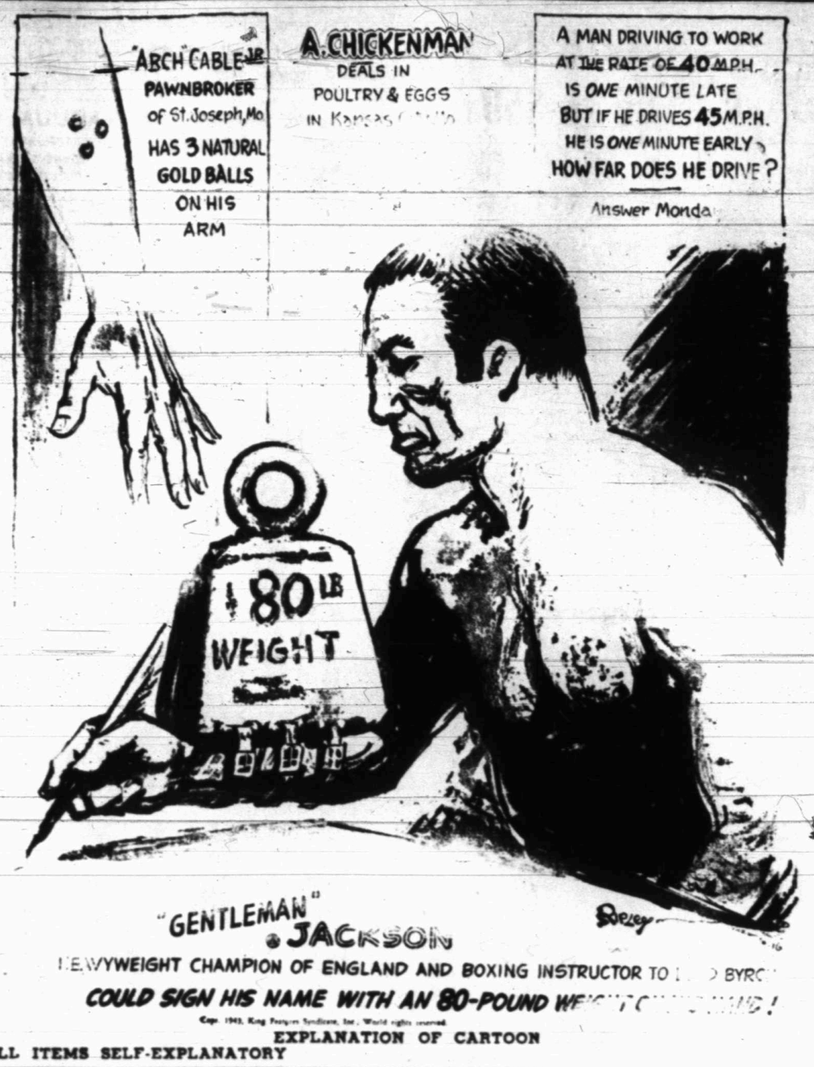

The One Minute Sermon

Remember, I beseech thee, the word that thou commandedst servant Moses, saying, If ye transgress, I will scatter you abroad among the nations:

But if ye turn unto me, and keep my commandments, and do them; though there were of you cast out unto the uttermost part of the heaven, yet will I gather them from thence, and will bring them unto the place that I have chosen to set my name there.

Now these are thy servants and thy people, whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power, and by thy strong hand.—Nehemiah 1: 8 through 10.

Murder In Convoy

YESTERDAY: In England, Greg is sent to Aldershot Camp, where he buries himself in work for the next three days. He is given a premature leave of absence, decides to go to London. He is low in spirits when he arrives, since, before arresting Joan, he had agreed to meet her in London at the "Welcome Snail" inn. When he arrives in London, he takes a cab, doesn't know where to go. Finally he tells the driver to take him to the "Welcome Snail."

JOAN IS WAITING

CHAPTER XII

For fully 15 minutes the little taxi twisted and turned through the night, Lieutenant Rollins remarking to himself that the gray-haired driver must have cat's eyes. At irregular intervals, two-decker buses roared by and melted again into the darkness. There were few, if any, autos other than taxis. Astonishingly few, too, were evidences of air raid damage.

Finally, his cab drew up beside a curb.

"That will be two bob, and tupence for my tip," the driver said over his shoulder. "Just walk straight ahead and feel for the door."

Rollins eventually found the door knob. The door opened out. He pushed aside the curtain and stood blinking in the quaint little place, familiar to decades of London tourists.

A chubby little Frenchman in impeccable formal attire greeted him. "Bon soir, Monsieur. I am Pierre . . .". Then looking over Greg's shoulder, "You are alone, oui?"

The officer smiled. "Oui, I am alone."

"This way, Monsieur." Pierre turned toward the curiously narrow dining room, then stopped abruptly. "You are not, by any chance, Lieutenant Rollins, non?"

Greg halted in surprise. "Yes, I am Lieutenant Rollins but how in the world . . ."

Pierre's face fairly beamed. He waved excitedly toward a table in the corner, and Greg's heart stood still. It was a dream. It must be . . . a cruel dream that . . . But, no, she was actually smiling at him and beckoning to the other chair. It was Joan Davaar!

As if in a daze, Rollins approached. Automatically, he removed his cap, tucked his cane under his left arm and bowed. Still automatically, he sat in the chair as Pierre placed it under him.

She was smartly attired in civilian clothes — a bottle green tweed suit topped by a sailor Breton. Her face was flushed with pleasure.

"Good evening, Greg, aren't you glad to see me?"

Rollins finally found his tongue. Impulsively he reached out his hands and clasped hers. "Of course I am, Joan. I'm so glad I could . . . no matter what . . ."

She laughed happily. "I knew you'd say that. You are a very lovable person, Greg. I phoned out to Aldershot this evening and found you had gone on leave. There was only one place I could hope to meet you, and even then I doubted—but you remembered."

Greg's face was troubled, but he still held her hands in his across the table. "Forget it, Joan. You must have escaped, and you are in danger. What can we . . .?"

She laughed again, gently removing one hand. "Just a minute, Sir Galahad. I'm disobeying the strictest of orders in showing you this paper, but I'm a woman, too, and, I'm afraid, rather in love." She opened a folded letter from her purse.

Greg's eyes widened as he read. It bore the letterhead of the British intelligence and was signed by one of the most famous names in England!

The letter was addressed to "Agent R-72 Joan Connaught" and contained warm personal congratulations for "your most commendable counter-espionage work in connection with Troopship Convoy MX."

Mixed joy and bewilderment stood out on Greg's face. "But, Joan, what . . . ?"

"Not so loud," she warned in a low tone. "There are many things I can tell you, and I know they will remain a secret." He nodded. "I haven't the time to go into detail so I'll be brief.

"I was planted in the German Embassy at Ottawa through devious channels 15 months before the outbreak of the war and, shortly before you sailed, I drew another assignment, to play the role of a nurse—with the name Davaar—on 'T 9.'

"Evidently the Intelligence had information as to which ship the Nazi agent was on, or, had a counter-espionage agent on each troopship—that I don't know. The matron, a Winnipeg woman, had no choice but to accept my official credentials as a nurse on 'T 9.'

"The first night on deck—the night I had to lie about smoking—remember?" He grinned. "I knew I was on the right track because I saw the flashes, evidently to some other agent on land. But the party managed to slip away before I could cover the distance from the forward end of 'A' deck. Anyway, you popped up, and I had to make an excuse so that an alarm wouldn't be spread and the agent go into a shell.

"I kept watching the light flashes from the battle cruiser in order to keep in touch with what was going on. I knew the code and was on guard lest the cruiser see the nightly searchlight business and warn our O. C."

Rollings interrupted. "Then the Nazi agent must have been . . ."

She made a motion for him to lower his voice. "Yes, it was Harry Miley. Poor Tees found out first!"

"That explains," murmured Rollins, "why he was so curious about you. He must have seen you approaching that night on deck, put two and two together when he saw you studying the cruiser signals and was on the watch for any secret discussions between us, just in case I was with you."

"Check. And, the night I caught him red-handed, there was no choice but to shoot him when he tried to go for his gun. I had just taken the flashlight from his hand when you came up from the rear. I couldn't reveal my identity to you, but did so privately to the colonel after you left. Secret papers were found in Miley's gas mask. He claimed to be British, but he was really a German-educated in England.

"It was on my suggestion that the quarantine scheme was employed. We had to cover up in order to let one of our men take Miley's place on shore until the seat of the Nazi ring is found in England. His job had evidently been to flash regularly each night at the same time from a high deck to guide any prowling U-boat flotillas.

"Suicidal? Perhaps. And, if he got through, he was probably supposed to speed information of the convoy's arrival, what trains, how many, and so on. It was a remote chance, but the Nazis had some idea of the course we might be taking. The flashes the night before we sailed were undoubtedly to inform an agent on land that the ship was getting up steam."

Greg squeezed her hands.

"That's the grandest news I've ever heard. Now how about us?"

"Not so good. Greg. I'm leaving on the midnight train. They've found another job for me—in the Balkans this time." She searched Greg's troubled eyes.

"But they can't, Joan, dear," he

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

MAYBE your job isn't very glamorous.

Maybe you are tired of office routine or the daily housework grind.

Want to change? Want romance, adventure, travel, change (maybe with a few days in jail every now and then)?

Well, there are plenty of jobs open that may appeal to you.

Here are a few that are advertised in the current issue of The Billboard ("The World's Foremost Amusement Weekly"):

"Want Electrician, Secretary, Ride Help, Agent for Grind Stones and Wheels, Ball games and others. Want Man to handle Monkey Show. Stay out all winter."

"Want Minstrel Show performers, Tilt-a-Wheel and Octopus foreman, Spitfire and Wheel foreman."

Openings for Fish or Duck Pond, Clothes Pin Pitch, Cigarette Gallery, Pan Game. We play Georgia all winter. Wire, write or come on."

Or maybe you'd like to go into business for yourself. Read this:

"For Sale. One 24-seat Mix-up, perfect condition. Now in operation in Southeastern State Fair. First $600 takes same."

If you have a dog, pony or seal act or a small merry-go-round and Eli Wheel get in touch with the advertisers. They'll make a deal with you right away!

Are these people happy? Do they make money? Here are a few personals from the the "Pipes for Pitchmen" column:

"J. Waner is reported getting the shekels in San Francisco."

"Joe Hess of fountain pen fame is expecting Uncle Sam's call any day now. Joe has been managing a bingo game on the Asbury Park, N. J., boardwalk, while his wife, Betty, continues to work hose menders to nice takes on the Ocean Grove Boardwalk."

Bill Gates, we are told, "is getting the geedus with feelers" while Ben and Ann Tease are doing well with their seafood restaurant.

Ken and Greta, wire artists, report on good takes at the Montpelier (O.) Fair and with they are Mrs. Gibson, shell jewelry; Bill Westfall, peelers; Rowland, root beer and Johnny, the needle worker.

SOUNDS nice, doesn't it? One great big family.

A merry life and a gay one, nothing to do but travel, wash dishes, do the laundry, sleep in tents or wagons, eat chow cooked over a woodstove—18 or 19 hours of work and "plenty of geedus."

It' a shame you have to work from nine to five every day with only Saturdays and Sundays off, at that piddling job of yours.

Want to do something really BIG?

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

MISUSE of more than a million dollars of the First National bank of Detroit's monies, whose closing precipitated the 1933 financial crisis, is alleged against Treasury Secretary Henry L. Morgenthau, jr., and Currency Comptroller Preston Delano in a suit filed in the Court of Claims.

Both officials are liable to impeachment if the stockholders' petition is upheld, according to the lawyers who have brought the action.

The attorneys contend that the money was used to pay expenses of clerks and other employes in Washington, although they state the law specifically provides that the cash of an insolvent institution cannot be used for that purpose. Congress appropriates sums for federal personnel engaged in this work, so it is charged that the assets "illegally" and secretly abstracted."

The plaintiffs further allege that there was never any need for putting the establishment out of business in the first place. Depositors, they say, have been paid $1.07 on the $1 and they announce that the receiver is about to liquidate the institution without accounting to anyone, even Congress, for 20 million dollars of trust funds which he has disbursed.

WASTED: The suit suggests that managing the affairs of the almost 300 financial houses that shut their doors from 1933 to 1939 has provided a lucrative "gravy train" for the politicos. Should the Banking and Currency committee of the House or Senate launch an investigation of the situation no one would be astonished.

From 1933 to 1935 there were 256 failures, whereas there were only six from 1936 to 1939. Nevertheless, the Treasury spent $300,000 more for salaries in Washington in the latter period than it did in the years when it had 40 times as many fiscal concerns on its hands.

The total paid out from 1933 to 1939 was approximately $1,500,000—and that is not "political hay." According to the Court of Claims petition involving the Detroit bank, most of that money was "uselessly wasted."

GAIN: Army-Navy renegotiation of munitions contracts has been severely condemned by manufacturers at private hearings which a House Ways and Means subcommittee has been conducting in the last few weeks. Some of the nation's most prominent industrialists, both Democrats and Republicans, were unsparing in their criticisms.

The argument which appealed most to the congressmen was that the House, the taxing authority by constitutional grant, has delegated this power to the military and naval agencies. Witnesses pointed out that Uncle Sam would probably collect more in excess profit levies than was saved by the renegotiation process.

SQUABBLES: Administration spokesmen—James F. Byrnes, Fred M. Vinson and Marvin Jones—have delivered a daring challenge to one of Washington's most powerful lobbies at executive sessions of House and Senate Banking and Currency committees. They hurled their defiance while their proposal to aid producers through subsidies rather than price increases was being weighed.

The White House scheme has been bitterly fought by the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Grange, which have long been recognized as representatives of the growers. They have written or influenced most of the agricultural legislation for more than 40 years. And when they oppose a measure, it generally receives scant congressional consideration.

Now come the President's economic advisers, charging that these organizations do not speak for "The Man with the Hoe." They assert that the tillers are behind their plan and say they have evidence to prove it.

In short, the White House is preparing to battle the "big boys"—Ed O'Neal and Albert Goss—on a grand scale. It may start one of the most sensational squabbles that Capitol Hill has listened to in many a year.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THE shops of the land will enter the Christmas season with business never better and manpower never worse, according to national retail organizations in New York.

Normally, merchant boost their holiday pay rolls 25 to 75 per cent. This year they are handicapped by the universal labor shortages and by a wage scale below that in war industries.

Personnel managers will hire the aged, the two-hour workers—almost anyone. They are willing to experiment with bizarre promotion schemes to corral elusive help. But to date even seemingly brilliant ideas have mostly proved dismal flops.

For example, a Manhattan establishment inserted 25,000 teasers in monthly mailings to customers begging them to enlist as temporary employes; only 31 recipients heeded the call. A Midwestern concern distributed a four-page brochure dramatizing by cheesecake art and financial statistics the advantages of a saleswoman's life; the response was negligible.

A Washington D. C. series of radio pep talks was dropped because none of the listeners took the offered advice.

APPEAL: California managements are baffled not only in trying to find new clerks but by the War Manpower commission's warnings in several cities that it intends to raid their regular staffs as they are in nonessential trades.

A de luxe bus prowls Chicago streets hunting job applicants. It parks on corners and invites visitors to enjoy its easy chairs, paintings and other furnishings. Then traveling hostesses urge the guests to sign up for one of the big stores.

Detroit emporiums have set up "help wanted" booths on their many floors.

In cantonment areas retailers are attempting to reach the wives of servicemen by contacting morale officers or posting notices on Army bulletin boards. Credit men tactfully suggest to persons with long unpaid charge accounts that part-time assistance would be an easy way to settle the old bills.

Concerns hope to locate potentials by asking regular forces to make suggestions. Others appeal to "alumni" to come back to the old stand.

VACATIONS: When youngsters employed in stores during the summer returned to classrooms, some bosses wrote letters to parents thanking them for what their sons and daughters had done and then hinted that perhaps mothers might desire to replace their children.

One of the most fertile sources of spare clerks is still the schools. In many cities educators plan to cooperate with merchants by closing them one to three weeks earlier for the Christmas vacation or by dismissing the more proficient students at noon so they may come to the rescue of the understaffed shops. Even Santa Claus may be drafted for work behind the counter.

CARNAGE: Introduction of new weapons by all belligerents is the latest practice in combat theaters. The Nazis secreted land mines in the streets of Naples, composed of plastics and cement instead of metal to escape the notice of all "magnetic bloodhounds."

The Russians are said to have built the best mine detector of all. However, United States ordnance experts invented one whose excellence was manifested in the Tunisian campaign.

It is now permissible to disclose that the British and French were so pleased with its effectiveness that they made requisitions for additional equipment from General Eisenhower on the eve of the Sicilian invasion. Consequently, when the American commander cabled orders for electrical instruments in April and May, the quantities asked were beyond what the Army supply officers had estimated or collected."

They sent everything in stock and at the last moment rather than hold up the advance and flew extra "divining rods" across the Atlantic by cargo plane.

Had these not arrived Yanks, Tommies and Maple Leaf veterans would have engaged in an even bloodier fight in the mountains around Etna than the carnage that took place.

Here And There In Texas

By GORDON SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN, Oct. 15. (U.P.) — Two Texans who are supposed to be in close touch with public sentiment in the state take divergent views of the approaching presidential campaign.

U. S. Sen. Wilbert Lee O'Daniel has predicted the renomination of President Roosevelt with the added comment that a Republican candidate with "appeal" can defeat a fourth term candidate in Texas.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson has made no prediction about the nomination but says that "if" President Roosevelt is the nominee, Texas will vote for him.

Texas' first step toward participation in seection of the next president will be May 6, 1944. Both Democrats and Republicans will hold precinct conventions, gathering at firehalls, school houses, auditoriums, stores and even residences.

The precinct conventions will name delegates to county conventions to be held May 9 at the various county courthouses. The county conventions, in turn, will select delegates to the state conventions to be held May 23. At the state convention the delegations to the party national conventions (usually held in late June or early July) will be selected.

Texas Has 48 Votes

The number of delegates sent to the national conventions may vary. The number allotted to each state is fixed by the national party organization.

Texas will cast 48 votes in the Democratic National convention. In the Chicago and Philadelphia Democratic conventions, Texas had 46. The two extra votes were provided by the bonus system which gives extra votes to the states naming Democratic electors.

DESPITE the war news and the world series, capitol circles continue to become involved in political discussions.

Generally, one of the first questions a person from a distant part of the state asks after arriving in Austin is: "Is anyone going to come out against Coke?" meaning of course Governor Stevenson.

Although the governor holds the key to several state office races, he has not indicated whether he will be a candidate for a second elective term or retire.

One thing is certain, however. He has dispelled rumors that he might run for Congress with the brusque statement that "I'd rather be a constable in Junction (which is near his ranch home) than be a member of Congress." That's a remark with finality as far as the governor is concerned.

Several persons who claim to be soothsayers in political spheres say Stevenson will be a gubernatorial candidate. Maybe they know. Maybe they don't.

"Possibilities" Cropping Up

Recently the names of two East Texans have come into the limelight General Gerald C. Mann seeks another position.

They are Fred Erisman of Longview, district attorney of Gregg county, and Grover Sellers of Sulphur Springs, present first assistant attorney general on Mann's staff.

And for some time the name of State Sen. Jesse Martin of Fort Worth also has been mentioned as a probably candidate for the job as the state's chief legal counsel.

There are still several months before the political pot will begin to boil, but until Stevenson announces his intentions there probably won't be a great deal happening.

STATE Labor Commissioner John D. Reed every month has mimeographed a list of boxers, wrestlers, promoters, matchmakers, managers and referees who cannot operate in Texas.

Part of Reed's duties as state commissioner is to regulate the professional boxing and wrestling business.

The suspensions are finally decided by the National Boxing or Wrestling associations as a result of the state's action. Through the associations, states, in turn, recognize members' rulings.

Take the case of boxer Fritzie Zivic. In June, 1943, he failed to fulfill his contract for a match in Chicago. As a result the Illinois commission suspended him indefinitely. Other states, including Texas, have followed suit. There is no way of telling how long "indefinitely" is, but one boxer, Red Allen, has been suspended indefinitely by Kentucky authorities since July, 1930.

Reed's list shows that 55 boxers in the nation are suspended indefinitely from performance in Texas, nine are permanently prohibited, and six have suspensions ranging from one month to five years.

Eleven wrestlers are indefinitely suspended, as are 10 promoters, two matchmakers, 18 managers and six referees. One referee is permanently restrained from appearances in Texas rings.

Short-Changer Succeeds

One hairnet costs only 10 cents but fast talk costs one Dallas cashier $10.

She told police that a middle-aged woman purchased a hairnet and gave her a $10 bill to pay for it. After the cashier had handed the woman $9.90 in change, the customer asked for the $10 bill back, explaining that she had found a $1 bill in her purse.

The cashier returned the bill and made change for the smaller one. Before she realized she had been duped, the woman left the store.

"Grandma never even thought of doing a lot of things the modern girl doesn't hesitate to do," wails a moralist. Perhaps that's the reason why grandma was such a good girl.

STOCKS CONTINUE RECOVERY

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Stocks continued the recovery today although volume remained relatively low and profit taking near the close stemmed the rising tide for many market leaders.

The Associate Press average of 60 stocks was up .5 of a point at 80.3. It was the largest upturn since Sept. 18. Transfers of 555,600 shares compared with 474,043 the day before.

Farm machinery issues had the benefit of talk of widening priorities for agricultural implement manufacturing. Pullman was up 2⅜ on forecasts of growing orders for railway equipment. Cudahy Packing made a new top for the year with a gain of 2. N. Y. Central was the liveliest performer of the session, ending with a net advance of ¼.

Upswing of 1 to 2 points included Eastman Kodak, International Harvester, Oliver Farm, Caterpillar Tractor, Chrysler, Dow Chemical, Air Reduction and American Can. Lesser improvement was retained by Santa Fe, Southern Railway, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Allied Mills, Standard Oil (NJ), American Telephone and J. C. Penney.

Given a lift in the curb were American Cyanamid "B," Cities Service, Cuban Atlantic ugar, Phoenix Securities, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Sherwin Williams. The aggregate here was 133,375 shares versus 120,775 yesterday.

CIO Joins Fight On Sales Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP)—The CIO, arguing that a federal sales tax would be "the equivalent of a military defeat", teamed up with the administration today in a determined effort to turn back the fast-developing drive in Congress for enactment of such a levy.

Philip Murray, CIO president, told the House Ways and Means committee, in a firm tone, that if this tax became law organized labor "would be compelled to demand a proportionate increase in wages to make up for this unjustified wage cut."

Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson earlier had predicted a sales levy would cause demands for wage and price increases, and thus open the way for wild inflation.

Most Of Textbook Contracts Extended

AUSTIN, Oct. 15 (U.P.)— Texas public schools will keep most of their present text books in use at a saving of money to the state and a saving of paper under text book awards announced here today by the state board of education.

Bids had been called for texts in 21 school courses. With the exception of a Spanish book for eighth grade pupils and supplementary readers for grades up to the fifth, old contracts were extended. The extensions vary from one to three years.

Soldiers Join Hunt For Missing Youth

NEWVILLE, Pa., Oct. 15 (AP) — Soldiers of the Carlisle barracks medical field service school joined today in a hunt for 8-year-old John Coover, lost since yesterday in a forest near this central Pennsylvania community.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coover, said the boy entered the woods near their farm home to look for firewood.

Tattling Italian Is Reported A Suicide

BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 15 (AP) The Swiss newspaper Dovere said today that Marshal Ugo Cavallero, former chief of Italian armed forces, killed himself after informing the Germans of the Italian capitulation, thereby forcing the Allies to change their invasion plans.

Cavallero's suicide had been reported previously by Stefani, German-controlled Italian news agency.

Dovere, in an Italian border dispatch which quoted "a reliable Rome source," said the armistice signed on Sept. 3 was not intended to be made public until Sept. 20 to give Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's British forces time to land at La Spezia on the northwest Italian coast and cut off Nazi forces in southern Italy.

Cavallero, although watched, learned of the armistice and found means of advising the German embassy, the dispatch said.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, informed of Cavallero's action, was compelled to announce the armistice Sept. 8, the dispatch continued.

Senate Fight Brews On Post-War Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — An eleven-member internationalist bloc challenged the Senate Foreign Relations committee today to strengthen a proposed declaration on post war foreign policy or face a fight on the floor of the Senate.

Publicly spurning the plea of Chairman Connally (D-Tex) that they accept a foreign relations subcommittee draft "as the best thing they can possibly get," the eleven decided to lay specific amendments before the full committee next Tuesday.

Three of the group, Senators Ball (R-Minn), Hatch (D-NM) and Pepper (D-Fla) then joined in a public statement in which they said that if efforts to "strengthen and clarify the resolution in the full committee are unsuccessful, the group and other senators who have similar views will seek to strengthen the resolution on the Senate floor."

43 Countries Accept Meeting Invitations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — All 43 countries invited to the United Nations relief meeting in Atlantic City, N. J., next month have accepted, became known today, and several will be represented by their prime ministers.

The office of foreign relief and rehabilitation has practically completed the agenda for the meeting, which will start Nov. 10 and probably will last four or five weeks.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 15 (AP) — Wheat rose today to new highs on the current advance, paced by the December contract, on the action of the House banking committee late yesterday in voting against subsidy payments to control food prices. Oats and barley were weak, but rye met good buying.

Late selling pushed oats down a cent and canceled all gains in rye, substituting losses. Wheat resisted the slump. At the close wheat was ⅛ lower to ¾ higher, December $1.55-1.54⅞, May $1.53¾, rye was down ⅜-⅝, December $1.12⅛-⅜, oats were unchanged to 1⅛ lower and barley was off ¾-1 cent.

"Dead End Kids" Of Corsica Aid In Fight

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 15 (AP) — Corsica's Dead End kids, lean from hunger, their tough and bony bodies covered with tattered and patched rags, helped liberate their homeland from the Nazis.

Now they want to follow the French army into France.

A delayed story sent here from Corsica by Captain Karl Quigley, American liaison officer with the French, said of these Corsican 'teen-agers and their guerrilla bands:

"One sees them everywhere. They are standing by the roadsides looking for lifts toward the front (the story was written while fighting was still going on in Corsica). They are in the hills marching doggedly through the rain squalls that appear and disappear continually. They are traveling only in one direction . . . Toward the Boche who for more than three years has made their lives hell.

"These kids with their hunting knives hanging from worn leather belts and Sten guns or German rifles slung over their hunched up shoulders, are fighting a war. Until now they have fought it better than the Italian army with all its modern arms and classy equipment. They are up forward where the going is tough and they are behind the Nazi line that stretches across the northern end of this mountainous terrain.

"When they get caught their lives are not worth a damn."

stantial success of his drive through the vaunted Volturno line. "The Fifth Army continued its strong drive which is rolling the enemy slowly back," it said. "Numerous pockets of resistance are being wiped out."

Allied engineers, who were among the principal heroes of the initial assault early Wednesday, continued to throw bridges "of every sort" across the river, dispatches said. Although the infantry was able to wade the Volturno at numerous points, it would have been impossible to move heavy equipment across without bridges.

Synthetic Plan May Be Junked

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP) — President Roosevelt virtually wrote off the wartime $750,000,000 synthetic rubber industry today as a peacetime competitor with natural rubber for making automobile tires. He said that when the war is over tremendous amounts of rubber will be coming from all over the world and it will be cheaper than synthetic.

Mr. Roosevelt mentioned this prospect at a press-radio conference at which he also announced that the Office of War Mobilization, headed by James F. Byrnes, is going to have a unit to study problems of reconversion and disposition of war plants and property.

Meets With Agencies

He issued a statement saying Byrnes met yesterday with heads of various agencies "concerned with the problems of terminating or revising war contracts in the light of the changing demands of our war strategy."

"The work has deliberately been placed within the Office of War Mobilization," the statement continued, 'to ensure that such reshaping of our war program as may be required will be carried through with a view to increasing the effectiveness of our war effort. While we must prepare for necessary post-war adjustments, this preparation must not interfere with the long and hard war programs which are still ahead of us."

The President brought up the subject of rubber while relating that he gave a stag dinner last night for President Lescott of Haiti who is here on a visit. He said Haiti was making a substantial contribution to the war effort, and at the United States' suggestion had made large plantings of cryptostegia, a rubber-producing vine. About 10,000 tons of rubber, he added, are expected from that source this year.

Natural Rubber Cheaper

Mr. Roosevelt went on to say that these rubber plantings would give Haiti a post-war problem, and then made his remark about the prospect that after the war natural rubber would be cheaper than synthetic.

There probably will be political efforts, he added, to put a tariff on rubber and he hoped if he was out of the White House that somebody would veto any high tariff on rubber.

Honest-To-Gosh Wacs Reach "End Of Line"

NEW DELHI, Oct. 14 (Delayed) (AP)—Real honest-to-gosh WACs—three of them, all told — finally have arrived at "the end of the line" and are causing more excitement than the top-ranking generals who have been conferring with Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten.

Capt. Elizabeth Lutze, of Sheboygan, Wis., former aide to Col. Oveta Culp Hobby, head of the WACs, was the first WAC ever to set foot in the China-Burma-India theater. With her were two sergeants—Therese March of Chicago and Louise Hull of Smithport, Pa.

The three are the vanguard of a sizeable contingent expected in the near future.

Japs Say Raiders At Rabaul "Repulsed"

(By The United Press)

Japanese imperial headquarters today broke its four-day silence on the bombing of Rabaul, New Britain, with a communique saying that the Allied planes were "repulsed" by Japanese fighter planes and anti-aircraft batteries.

The communique, broadcast by the Domei news agency and recorded by the OWI, said only 15 Japanese planes and one ship were lost in the raid, contrasted with the official American announcement that 177 Japanese planes and 123 vessels were destroyed or severely damaged.

The broadcast said about 200 Allied planes took part in the attack, and that 13 were shot down and four others damaged.

Short Staple Cotton Loan Efforts Fail

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP) — Representative Mahon (D-Tex) said today he had not been successful in efforts to get the government to place a loan on three-fourths inch cotton, but had received assurances an attempt would be made to keep the market price up through greater purchases for Army goods using that grade staple.

Acting on behalf of growers throughout a large section of West Texas, where drouth has caused an estimated 1-4 to 1-2 of this year's crop to run only three-fourth's inch, Mahon conferred with both the Commodity Credit corporation and War Food Administrator Marvin Jones.

He asked that the present minimum requirement of 13/16ths inch cotton put up for security on CCC loans be reduced to include three-fourths. Present market level for that grade is about 14 cents; a 17-cent loan was sought, said Mahon.

The CCC and Jones both declined to lower the limit, said Mahon, on the grounds that the government already held an excessive quantity of lower grade staple. They then promised him that efforts would be made to induce the Army to order a greater use of the three-fourths inch staple in such items as sand bags, sacks and blankets.

Texas Politics

from Amarillo to Austin, and could not be reached for comment on Mann's statement.

Yesterday at Amarillo, he was quoted by the Globe as saying he would be a candidate for re-election, but denied that he had announced for office.

Attorney General Since 1939

Mann, 36-year-old former Southwest conference football star at Southern Methodist University, has been attorney general since 1939. He studied law at Harvard, working part-time in a garment factory and also as pastor of a Congregational church. He served as assistant attorney general under both William McCraw and James V. Allred, and as secretary of state.

He ran third in a race with W. Lee O'Daniel, Lyndon Johnson and others to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. Morris Sheppard, but did not enter the contest for the ful lterm.

"I think our state needs new, liberal, constructive leadership," his statement said. "The government of Texas should be returned to the people. . . .

More Co-Operation

"Franklin Roosevelt at this time is entitled to the full co-operation of every Texan. We need in the governor's office more co-operation and less backbiting. We need forceful, liberal leadership. Governor Stevenson can not give us that leadership because he has too long been on the other side."

The incumbent of another state office, J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, disclosed in Dallas today that he would be a candidate for re-election. "I have a job to do that is yet uncompleted and I want to finish it up," he said.

GOVERNOR VISITS HERE, INDICATES HE'LL RUN

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, who stopped in Lubbock yesterday afternoon en route from Amarillo to his Junction ranch, did not flatly say he would be a candidate for a second elective term in the state's highest office, but it can be taken for fact that "unless a miracle happens" the towering West Texan's name will again appear on 1944 ballot sheets.

Asked point blank by a Morning Avalanche reporter: "Governor, will you run for re-election next year," the state's chief executive replied:

"It looks like the decision has been taken out of my hands!"

When he spoke, the Stevenson "poker face" was on in a big way, but his eyes twinkled. He referred to a news story, originating with the Amarillo Globe and carried on press wires Thursday night, which said he would be a candidate but did not directly quote him to that effect.

Most of the governor's friends, as well as nearly all close observers of Texas politics, have expected the governor to run again. The truth is, unless conditions change sharply he is not expected to have serious competition. Some thought the governor had his eyes on Washington — on a seat in the Congress, perhaps. But with characteristic Stevenson directness he exploded that idea 10 days ago in Austin.

Asked in a press conference there is he had Washington in mind, the governor said:

"I'd rather be a justice of the peace in Junction than go to Congress."

Since the governor is not a disciple of political double-talk, it safely can be stated that "he meant what he said."

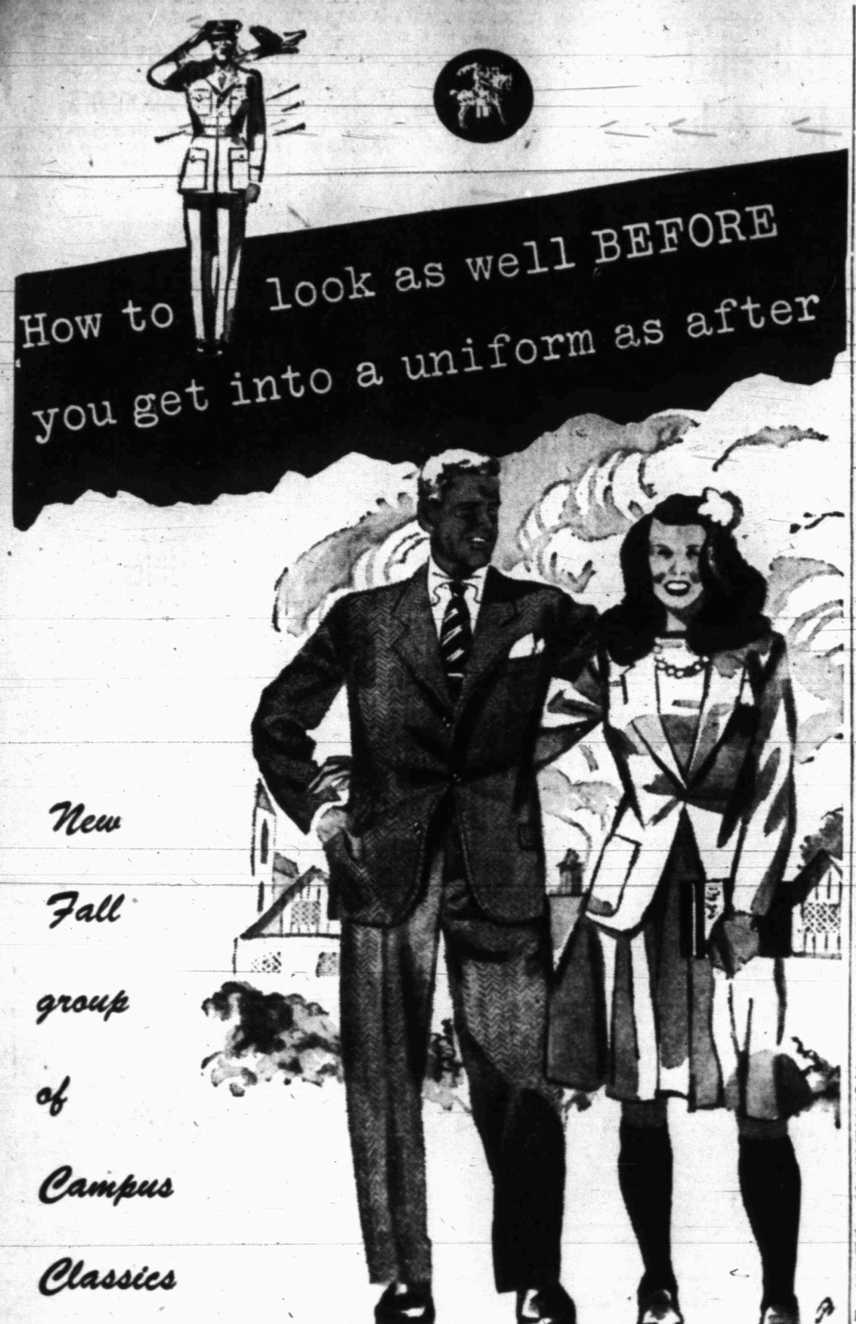

The governor stopped in Lubbock for lunch and only a few intimate friends knew of his presence in the city. He was accompanied by his executive secretary, Ernest Boyett, Charles Simonds, secretary of the State Democratic Executive committee, and Highway Patrol Segeant Angus Jones.

The group was in Lubbock less than an hour.

"It's no use, Greg," she injected tenderly. "This is war, and I must go."

Rollins had already shown he could act when action was necessary.

"Then what would normally take months must be done in two hours." He spoke in measured tones. "Will you marry me tonight—now?"

There was no hesitation on the girl's part. She nodded.

Rollins jumped to his feet and picked her up from her chair. His arms crushed her to him, and their lips met in the ecstacy of a first kiss. The "Welcome Snail" drifted away and in its place, they stood in a romantic heaven all their own. Unheeded, outside, the sirens were wailing an "Alert."

Pierre was tapping their shoulders, his face reflecting supreme e m b arrassment, "Monsieur, Mademoiselle . . . pliz, you are in the 'Welcome Snail' . . . "

He turned as a gale of laughter swept through the little restaurant. Pierre, being a discerning head-waiter, quick to appreciate the moods of his customers, shrugged his shoulders in a gesture of tremendous helplessness.

"C'est la guerre!" he apologized.

12 Plains Men Jap Prisoners

The War department Friday announced that twelve men from the South Plains area were included in a list of 552 U. S. soldiers held as prisoners of war by Japan. More than a fifth of the group were from Texas.

The South Plains men as well as the majority of the other Texans were members of the now famous "Lost Battalion" who were in Java at the time it was captured by the Japs early in 1942.

Most of the men had previously sent prisoner of war postal cards from Jap prison camps in Java but Friday's announcement was the first official recognition of their status since they were announced as missing in action more than a year ago.

Names of the men with next of kin in Friday's list were as follows:

Pvt. Donald F. Barnes, Mrs. Dora Breedlove, mother, route 2, Lubbock; Pvt. Jesse F. Bumpass, Mrs. Hester O. Bumpass, mother, 2402 Avenue U, Lubbock; Pfc. Glenn B. Two Cadets Parachute To Safety From Plane

Robert G. Boozer of Boyle, Miss., and Wilbur C. Birkner of St. Louis, Mo., aviation cadets from Lubbock Army Air field Thursday night joined the ranks of the Caterpillar club when they parachuted to safety from their training plane about seven and one half miles southwest of Ralls.

They were on a routine night training flight en route from Lubbock to Munday, Vernon and Amarillo.

LAAF officials had issued a request for information on whereabouts of the missing plane and cadets about mid-morning, the plane having been unreported into Amarillo where a landing was scheduled. The two cadets telephoned the field shortly after the announcement that the plane was missing.

According to meager reports received at the field from the cadets over a rural telephone line, one of the motors of the plane 'conked out' and they were forced to 'hit the silk.' The fliers were uninjured, it was said at the field.

Cadet Boozer is married and he and his wife are residing in Lubbock during his training period at LAAF.

Fire Destroys New Laundry At Camp

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 15. (U.P.)—Fire swept through a newly constructed laundry at Camp Robinson early today, causing loss estimated by Army officials at $350,000.

The blaze was discovered by a sentry shortly after a night shift of civilian workers and German war prisoners left the building, officers reported. The flames spread so rapidly, they said, that it was impossible to summon help from nearby municipal fire departments.

Camp officials said there were no indications of sabotage, but reported a board of officers had been appointed to conduct a "complete investigation."

Son Of Villa Wants Job In War Factory

SAPULPA, Okla., Oct. 15. (U.P.)—Pancho Villa, jr., who is not one bad hombre, said today he wants to get a job in a war factory at Tulsa to sort of brighten up the family name, and, besides, his real monicker is just plain Willie.

For the son of a border outlaw, Willie made a rather unspectacular entrance into Sapulpa. He came on foot, and went directly to an attorney's office to enlist aid in securing a birth certificate so he can get a job pronto.

The son of Pancho explained that he wants to "work for Uncle Sam" so he can "start paying back for some of the trouble Villa caused him in the past."

Willie is 38 and able "perhaps to pay off in some way the millions of damage done to Columbus, New Mexico, in 1916 that my father is said to have done in one of his most spectacular raids."

Pancho's son picked up the name "junior" from loyal followers of Villa.

Willie doesn't remember Pancho Villa as a pistol packin' papa, but he recalls that, for some reason, his father always wore a brown suit. Once, when Willie was nine, his father took him to Vera Cruz and Mexico City and that was one of the highlights of his young life.

"I saw every brilliant dive in those two cities and a bull fight in Mexico City," said Willie.
