County Goes Over Top In Red Cross Drive

Water Conservation Meeting Held Here Last Friday

Approximately 50 Persons Attend; 17 Towns Represented

Spur, as well as other towns and farm lands in the upper Brazos river basin will profit greatly from construction of dams at strategic points on the Brazos river and its tributaries, in that these dams will provide water for irrigation, municipal use, prevention of soil erosion and recreation, J. S. Reger and C. C. Maxey, economic analysts from the Bureau of Reclaimation, Austin, were told Friday afternoon at a meeting at the Spur Inn.

Aproximately 50 persons representing 17 rural areas in the upper basin testified at the meeting explaining their need for better utilization of the Brazos river as a source of water.

Evidence submitted by these and other representatives in the basin will be compiled into a preliminary report by April 1, and preesnted to Congress for approval before conducting a more detailed investigation.

Dr. M. H. Brannen, Spur, a charter member of the Brazos river conservaton and reclaimation district board, acted as official host for the occasion

In speaking of the survey being conducted through out the 44,000 square miles included in the Brazos river basin, Reger, who presided at the hearing, said that the Reclaimation bureau was interested in the small projects as well as the large ones and urged delegates to state their need for water regardless of seeming unimportance.

Each project, Reger said, would be considered on a multi-purpose basis, that is, how it will aid irrigation, water supply, flood control and recreation.

Testimony reveaed that Knox county needs water for irrigation and a number of small towns in the upper basin need municipal water supply. Residents of these small communities resort to hauling water to meet their needs.

C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, veteran worker in water conservation, said that he would "stop every drop of water at the 98th meridian," because the area south of that point has suffcient water supply.

"Take care of Texas," Caldwell continued, "and it can take care of 100,000,000 people."

Caldwell complimented R. E. Dickson, superintendent of the Experiment station, for his work in water conservation and prevention of soil erosion at the station. He remarked that Dickson "is the best educator in Dickens county."

The Experiment station will receive honorable mention for its water conservation program in the basin-wide investigation report, Reger said.

In a brief talk, Dickson stated that "there are unlimited possibilities to use unlimited amounts of water in this area and we haven't visualized yet what we can do."

Results of a recent experiment on calves at that station, Dickson said, revealed that calves allowed to graze on green wheat gained on an average of three and one-half pounds per day; whereas, calves pastured on grass only gained one-half pound per day.

This experiment proves that "this old thing of using native grass twelve months in the year is a thing of the past," Dickson stated.

Of particuar interest to Spur and nearby areas was the mention of a proposed project on Duck Creek.

Truman Green, city engineer, said that Spur needs additional and better water supply. The present supply contains sypsum causing the water to be hard and unpalatable. A dam constructed on Dockum and Duck creeks would provide Spur with a sufficient supply of good water.

A.C. Hull Announces Candidacy for Water Commissioner

A. C. Hull, a new comer in local politics, but an old timer in Spur, announced his candidacy for election to the offce of city water commissioner, Wednesday.

About 17 years ago, Hull came to Spur in the capacity of principal of Spur high school. After serving for several years, he entered the drug business He came here as a young, gangling school boy and has remained to become one of the ablest business men of the city.

"Slim," as he is called by his old friends of college years at Simmons University, is known throughout West Texas for his friendly smile, his good business judgment and his avid interest in civic and government affairs.

Hull has served as an official of the West Texas Druggist Association and has held the positions of president of the Spur Civic club and the Chamber of Commerce. He has also served as a member of the board of directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Moreover, he has been and is a loyal supporter of the City of Spur.

In consenting to become a candidate, Hull said that he felt he could render a service to his fellow man and the community in the capacity of water commissoner.

Many of Hull's friends have expressed themselves as being pleased to have him come out for the office of city water commissioner, and that they believed he would give a valuable service to the city of Spur.

(This announcement prepared and made by friends of A. C. Hull.)

Truman Green Sees Soaring Planes for All in Postwar Era

"It is unlikely that the salaried man in the post-war era will be financially able to own an airplane for pleasure but he can own a soaring plane (commonly called glider)," Truman Green, city engineer, told Rotarians and young guets at the "Kid's Day" luncheon of the Rotary club Thursday of last week at the Spur Inn.

"Motored planes," Green continued, "cost around $2,000, and require gasoline, which costs about twenty-five cents per gallon, numerous repairs, hanger expense and instruction in handling the planes. Conversely, gliders requre no up-keep, instruction or hangr expense (the wings can be folded up and the glider carried home on a trailer) and cost a minimum of $250.

"Experts say that soaring planes are much safer than motored planes because they land at a lower rate of speed and eliminate the hazard of fire," Green concluded.

"Kid's Day," so called because each Rotaran was supoposed to bring a child as his guests, was inaugurated so that youth of today could actually witness how Rotary works.

Children ranging in ages from six to 15 years of age attended the luncheon, given in their honor.

Other guests at the meeting were J. S. Reger and C. C. Maxey, economic analysts from the Bureau of Reclaimation, Austin.

Jack Christian, vice-president of the club, presided in the absence of President Oscar McGinty.

Three Spur Men of 362nd Infantry Fighting in Italy

Three Spur men are fighting in Italy's Appennines before the Po valley with the 362nd infantry regiment which is attached to the Fifth army, a release from the public relations office reported.

The men and ther duties are Pfc. Marvin A. Hagins, Route 2, truck driver; Pvt. Donal K. Powell, ammunition bearer, and T/Sgt. Linnie Eivens, platoon sergeant.

Their regiment broke through the well defended Gothic line and across the Sieve river attaining the top of Mount Calvi, 2225 foot-high mountain in which the German had emplaced artillery in tunnels running 50 feet underground in rock.

At the entrance of one of these there had been seven enemy guns emplaced. The outfit captured 400 Germans and killed and wounded many others within eleven days during this part of the drive, the release said.

Commanded by Col. John W. Cotton, who is a veteran of 31 years service, the 362nd was activated at Camp White, Ore., Aug. 15, 1942. The men were trained intensively for a month at their first overseas station, Oran, Algeria, and joined the Fifth army in Italy last June.

MAYOR LAWIS LEE

COM. O. B. RATLIFF

Mayor Lawis Lee, Com. O. B. Ratliff To Seek Re-election

Mayor Lawis Lee and Commissioner O. B. Ratliff announced this week that they would definitely be candidates for re-election to the offices of mayor and city commissioner, respectively

Lee and Ratliff, who are finishing their first term as city officials of the City of Spur, released the following prepared statement Wednesday:

"We have served the people of Spur to the best of our ability and we shall continue to render as efficient administration as we are capable. You, as well as we, realize that these wartimes have been difficult times in which to give the type of service that we would like, but we look forward to the time when peace again will prevail and we can do many things for the betterment of the City of Spur that, heretofore, have been impossible.

"Our records of accomplishment are open to each and every one of you citizens of Spur. We are proud to boast of one of the best financial statements of the City that has been rendered in a number of years, and we invite you to meet with us at any time to see the condition of your city business.

"The City shows a larger net gain in income than has been shown for a number of years, and we feel that is is due in part to the savings which we have effected.

"We have worked diligently to increase the gas and electric customers of the City. The City of Spur has invested $125,150. in cash in U. S. War Bonds with the end in view of having a backlog for some needed post war improvement projects, and at the same time assisting the armed services in financing the war now.

"We have plans for a paving project to come after the war whereby some paving can be done without a bond issue or an increase in taxes.

"In 1944 we were able to complete a new sewerage disposal plant which has long been needed and which is a credit to any town of 5,000 population. This plant was built at the request of the State Health Department as the old one was a detriment to the community.

"Through the splendid financial cooperation of the Spur Rotary club and the Spur Aeronautics Association, we were able to establish an approved C.A.A. municipal air port.

"The City has recenlty installed a treatment for the city water supply which we hope will prevent so much scaling in hot water heaters and boilers.. This has cost the Spur people untold hundreds of dollars in the past years.

"We offer our continued cooperation to other political subdivisions, churches, schools and civic organizations, and we appreciate the kind cooperation and friendly advice given us during the past months."

County 4-H Club Boys Complete 209 Demonstrations

This week, along with nearly two million other young Americans, 154 Dickens county 4-H club boys are celebrating National 4-H club week.

During 1944, these county 4-H club boys completed 209 demonstrations with livestock and crops. They grew 70 acres of grain sorghum, 51 acres of cotton and 17 home gardens. In addition to this they marketed 45 beef calves, 5 sheep, 85 hogs and cared or 39 dairy cattle and 21 horses, Charles A. Taylor, county agricultural agent ,said.

"Out of this group, 25 boys produced enough food and feed to feed and clothe 39 soldiers for one year," Taylor commented.

Other points to their credit in reviewing their years work are winning 10 medals in Safety; four victory garden medals; 1 soil conservation and 1 meat animal medal.

These boys exhibited beef calves, dairy calves, sheep horses and swine at the Dickens county Animal Livestock show in 1944. One boy exhibited two beef calves in the District 4-H club show, Wichita Falls.

Nearly all of these boys, Taylor said, worked full time on the farm during the summer months doing the work originally done by their older brothers who are now in the armed forces.

These 4-H club boys have pledged greater undertakings for 1945, Taylor concluded.

Eleventh in State to Reach Quota; Raise Total of $6,389.60

Dickens county answered the Red Cross plea for funds, Friday, by contributing $6389.60 in the one-day campaign—thus exceeding the quota of $5500. by $889.60 with all reports not in—and placed eleventh among counties in Texas to arrive at their goals first, Jack Christian, county Red Cross chairman, announced Wednesday.

These figures, Christian said, are incomplete as some communities have not turned in their reports. Also omitted from the total are the expected contributons from out of county corporations with interests in the county.

A telegram of commendation for the results of the Dickens county campaign was received by Christian, Monday, from a Red Cross official in the St. Louis office. It read:

"Under your fine leadership, the people of Dickens county have demonstrated their confidence and support of the work of their Red Cross through early attainment your minimum war fund goal. 11th in State. Keep up the fine work until every adult is given opportunity to contribute.

(signed) "Milton C. Taiwer."

Spur, alone, raised $3320.22, overshooting the $2750. goal by 570.22. Broken down into different groups, the report reveals that the employers contributed $2358. of the total. This figure includes the $240. received from out-of-town businesses with interests in Spur. The employee group gave $540.35; the residental contributed $559.87 anl the Negroes gave $102.

Results in other parts of the county: Dickens raised $677.71. Its quota was $400.

Afton raised $658.43 of its $800. quota.

With a goal of $650., McAdoo surged past that mark with 678.50 for the fund.

Wichita was slightly under its goal with a collection of $176.40.

Croton contributed $77.25 of its $100. quota.

The Dickens county Mexicans gave $50.90.

Communities in the southern part of the county contributed as follows:

Wilson Drew $62.50; Duck Creek $85.50; Spring Creek; $11.10; Soldier's Mound $96.50; Highway $94.19; Red Mud $20; Red Hill $44.10; Twin Wells $35.25; and "X" community (just over the hill north of Spur) $61.05.

Although the primary drive in Dickens county is over, booths will be erected in down town Spur Saturday, to give those who have not contributed an opportunity to do so.

In a statement to the press Wednesday, Christan said that he wished to express his gratitude, not only to the various committee chairman and workers who helped in the campaign, but to the people of Dickens county for their splendid cooperation and participaton in the recent Red Cross drive.

Duck Creek Soil Conservation District NEWS NOTES

RILEY WOOTEN, Chm. OSCAR McGINTY, Sec.
WILL WRIGHT TOM MURDOCK A. A. FRY

C. H. Floyd in Conservation Group 7 just west of Elton, has built approximately 16 miles of terraces on his 317 acre farm. This year he is maintaining these terraces by plowing them up with a mole board plow. The maintenance of these terraces is almost complete at this time. Floyd is proud of his terrace system. His terraces are in better shape now than when they were first built

Another good job is maintaining terraces may be observed just north of Spur on the Neal A. Chastain farm. He has not yet completed the maintenance work. It would be well worth anyone's time to stop and observe the good work he is doing.

Mrs. Erie Foster who has a 1,922 acre stock farm northwest of Spur, is to be commended for the conservation practices she has carried out on her place since she signed an agreement with the District in 1942.

Acocrding to Mrs. Foster, she had practically no grass of any description in 1940. She said there were large areas with no grass at all, and the remainder was only sparsely covered with buffalo and needle grass that showed no vigor. She sold all her cattle in the fall of 1940 and the place was given a compete rest untl January 1942. The year 1941 was a favorable year for range improvement, and the recovery ths range made was almost unbelievable for that peroid.

In January fo 1942, Mrs. Foster purchased 43 cows, and in the fall she sold 12 calves, fed out 12, and held over 16 of her best heifers for breeding purposes—a total of 40 calves or a 95 percent calf crop. In 1943 she marketed nine calves at weaning time, fed 15 calves, and held 15 of the best heifers to go into the herd, a 92 per cent calf crop. In 1944 she got 42 calves out of her 43 old cows and nine calves from the 16 heifers she saved in 1942. She has sold 21 of the calves and plans to feed out 30 head for the market.

Mrs. Foster plans to build her breeding herd up to 75 head. She sees that she can do this and still get improvement on her range. The pasture land consists of 980 acres fenced into six different pastures that are well watered She has an ideal setup for and is practicing rotation of grazing, deferred grazing, and other conservation measures. She has 942 acres of cultivated land on which she sows plenty of wheat for winter grazing and plants enough grain sorghums to maintain a good feed reserve at all times. In 1941 she dug and filled a 100-ton trench silo that is still being held in reserve.

Since 1942, Mrs. Foster has dug one new tank with approximatey 1.8 acre feet of storage capacity ,and dug two new wells for better water and grazing distribution.

She has done an enormous amount of terracing on her cultivated land. At present, she has completed 20 miles of terraces on 397 acres, and the grader work has been completed on 13 additional miles. All new terraces are planted to some fibrous rooted crop the first year to prevent deterioration from plowing, etc., before they are fully settled. Other conservation measures she practices are contour tilage on all cultivated land, sequence crop rotation, and crop residue management.

Mrs. Foster is very well pleased with the results obtained from th conservation measures she has practiced; however, she does not that the job is complete by any means and enumerated several other practices she intends to carry out in the near future along with those already well under way.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE COST OF DISCIPLESHIP
International Sunday School Lesson for March 11, 1945.
GOLDEN TEXT: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—Matt. 22: 37-39.
Lesson Text: Matthew 19: 16-26, 29.

From time immemorial mankind has speculated upon the mystery beyond the grave. During the time of Jesus the same problem confronted the earnest individual and our lesson today is based upon a question asked the Great Teacher, how eternal life might be attained.

We are told that the person making this inquiry was wealthy. We know that he lived morally and took a great interest in the religious affairs of his community, for he was a ruler of the local synagogue. His manner of life, externally, had been exemplary, for he could confidently assure Jesus that he had observed certain commandments consistently. Yet, this rich young churchman had not reached the correct answer to his own question.

Jesus, in order to bring out the lesson he sought, replied by reciting the fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth commandments, adding thereto a general summary of them, "thou shal love thy neighbor as thyself." As to these, the young man could say he had been faultless in their observance, and, although realizing the importance of these things, he asked what further requirement was lacking. Knowing his devotion to riches, Jesus pointed out that his dependence upon them stood between him and perfection.

Jesus did not give similar advice to every wealthy man or woman with whom he came in contact, for we know that Martha, Mary and Lazarus were rich, and it is fair to assume, as Bishop Potter does, that, "wealh has duties to perform in the constitution of our modern society," which "poverty could never perform. The progress of science, of the arts, of higher education, the organized efforts of philanthropy, require capital in the hands of a few just as truly as trade requires capital."

"The possession of wealth entails great obligations, so great in fact, that Jesus voiced the difficulty confronting a rich man in entering the Kingdom of God."

"Jesus was the world's greatest psychologist,' says Charles Foster Kent. "No one has analyzed the motives in the mind of man as did he. No one appreciated more clearly than he how great an obstacle the possession of riches placed in the way of a man's obtaining the highest development and fullest measure of his ability.

"At the same time, his scientific impartality is shown by the statement that it was not absoutely impossible for a man to surmount this obstacle. It called, however, for divine help. To discharge one's obligations as a social citizen, far more of the love and power of God is required in the heart of the rich than of the man with moderate means."

When one realizes that the American people spend approximately twice as much for tobacco as they do for the support of all Protesteant churches, the hospitals and colleges in this country, and fully half again as much more for gasoline to ride about on pleasure trips, the need for an addtional realization of the spiritual responsibilities involved in the proper use of wealth becomes apparent.

It is not enough that a man be honest, thrifty and benevolent in financial matters, but he should recognize that he holds material possessions only as a trustee, that they are not paramount to spiritual values, and that as a Christian he is obliged to control and use his wealth for beneft of humanity and the promotion of human happiness.

The idea of stewardship should not be confined to money, however, but applied with equal force to the use of our physcal strength the abilities and capacities which we may possess, and the employment of the years of life which we are given to enjoy and use.

If we hold a proper conception of this responsibility, the possession of great riches will not overshadow in our minds the supreme purpose of life, to so live that we may have and enjoy that eternal life about which the young ruler questioned. Jesus did not concern himself with bestowing earthly benefits and privileges for as said by Caleb D. Bradlee, his attitude is represnted by the imaginary statement: "I do not concern myself about these small matters, but I promise you rest, peace, joy, opportunity, honor and glory in the Celestial Kingdom."

THE STATE OF TEXAS

D. 1945, in this cause, numbered 1873 on the docket of said court and styled ANNIE MAE BISHOP, Plaintiff, vs. WILLIAM THOMAS BISHOP, Defendant.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to wit: Being an action and prayer for judgment in favor of plaintiff and against Defendant for decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony heretofore and now existing between the parties, and for the care and custody of their minor son, Carl Wayne Bshop, a boy and age nine years; plaintiff alleges abandonment for more than three years on the part of the defendant, and further alleges that no community estate exists to be partitoned by the court. The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and make due return as the law directs.

THREE COUSINS FIGHT IN MARS TASK FORCE TO OPEN BURMA ROAD

Sgt. Bernice Bilberry, his brother and their cousin, Sgt. Alvin L. Woodburn, met recently in Burma and had their pictures made, according to a story in the Portales Daily News, New Mexico.

The Bilberry brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bilberry, who live near Spur.

Sergeant Woodburn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Woodburn of the Bethel community near Portales, New Mexico.

Now assigned to the 124th Calvary, Seargeants Woodburn and Bernice Biberry were formerly with the Mars Task Force that opened the Ledo road. Sergeant E. J. Bilberry is with an air corps unit.

While with the Mars Task Force, Woodburn wrote his family that they had to hack their way through the dense forest so that their pack-mules could get through. The following is a part of his letter:

"I have time for a few lines so will let you know that I am all right and still feeling well. They said that I can write that I am a member of the 'Mars Task Force' and that we have contacted the Japs. They are sure a no good bunch of so and so's. The ones here are a little different than I had pictured them. Some are about six feet tall and pretty good size. Have had some unusual experiences and anyone that says they won't run is crazy. Maybe it was our looks that scared them.

"I thought this was a warm country, but I found out that it can frost here. I waked up one morning and thought it had snowed. Frost was about an inch thick all over everything. The altitude is pretty high was the reason."

CPL. STEPHEN BARCLAY, above, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Barclay, Spur, after 32 months of action with the marines in the South Pacific, is home on a 30 day furlough. Following graduation from high school, Corporal Barclay joined the Marine Corps and was sent overseas in 1942.

R. D. Collins, Mineral Wells, manager of the Brazos River Authority, expressed his interest in all the projects and suggested that persons interested in them acquaint their senators and representatives with the probems in this area and the proposed remedies.

Other speakers heard were O. B. Ratliff, Spur; E. H. Boedeker, Dickens; Bruce Campbell and O. L. Jamison, Knox City; Clay F. Grove, Munday; C. M. Randal, Seymour; John N. The United Nations Must Stick together to Solve Serious Post-War Problems

"Complete victory over the Germans now is near," declares Premier Joseph Stalin, of Soviet Russia, in announcing that the Red Army has killed or captured 1,150,000 Germans in the great winter offensive now underway.

The Russian leader says that the Germans lost 800,000 killed and 350,000 captured between January 12, when the Soviet offensive began, and February 20th. He adds 3,000 German planes, 4,500 tanks and self-propelled guns and 12,000 guns destroyed or captured in the same period.

Stalin does not overlook the contribution of the Anglo-American forces in recording the statistical summary of what is probably the greatest land offensive in the history of the world. He points out that "the Red Army, together with the armies of our Allies," is successfully completing the rout of the German Fascist army.

We should not overlook that the Western Allies, since the invasion of Europe last June, have captured 900,000 Germans. The successful landing on the beaches of Normandy represents an achievement that equals anything accomplished in recorded warfare. The campaign which followed brought our armies to the borders of Germany, where, it seems, they are beginning a major offensive, undoubtedly designed to score decisive results.

We think it is the part of wisdom to give generous credit to our Allies, the Russians and the British, or their great contribution to the defeat of Germany. There is much to be gained by achieving an intelligent understanding of the suffering, sacrifices and exertions made by those who fight with us in a common cause.

In this process, however, we should not be blind to the fact that the United States, fighting in two great wars, has made a contribution that is unsurpassed.

Our Russian allies deserve praise for their magnificent resistance to the German invasion of Russia and for the resolute fashion in which they have ousted the enemy from Russian soil. Our British allies, who stood alone in the battle against Germany and Italy, at a critical period in the history of civilization, undoubtedly deserve applause for their magnificent courage and determination, which, among other things, gave the United States time to prepare for battle.

In fact, few nations have justified their right to existence in nobler fashion than the British when, in 1940, they stood alone and almost unarmed on their beaches, and, notwithstanding, fought and held the brutal, all-out bombing offensive of the German Luftwaffe.

Considering our contribution to the defense of civilization and culture, it should be borne in mind that the United States, in addition to a major contribution to the successful warfare in Europe, has managed, with very slight aid, to turn the tide against Japan in the far reaches of the Pacific and to bring about conditions in that distant theatre of warfare that now guarantee the utter defeat of that aggressive empire.

The full scope of our war effort against Japan has not yet been revealed, nor do the people of this country understand the full import of our Navy's heroic performance in 1942 and the early part of 1943.

No consideration of the war effort of this country would be complete without taking cognizance of the tremendous production of ships, tanks, guns, munitions, equipment and supplies, which, in addition to serving the needs of our fighting men, contributed greatly to the strength of our Allies.

The miraculous production of the tools of warfare, which was deemed impossible by many Americans and our enemes, has demonstrated the amazing ability of our industrial empire, including the loyal and patriotic cooperation of business men, laborers and the peope of the nation, who, by their taxes and purchases of war bonds, have strengthened the Treasury to finance such a vast undertaking.

It would take a book of many pages to describe the development, training and fighting of our soldiers in arms, another volume to describe the expliots of our warships as they faced the seven seas and a third volume of considerable size to recount the bare details of the magnificent industrial output.

Even so, no recital of the achievements of this country in its struggle for life and the preservation of liberties, would be complete without a fourth volume to outline the organization and development of our air forces and to recount, in briefest summary, the far-flung operations of our pilots, bombers and crewmen as they have boldly carried the war through the sky and deposited their explosives in the enemies' frontyard.

There is no basis for discrimination in the praise that should be bestowed upon Soviet Russia, Great Britain and the United States. Each nation, in accordance with its capacities, has contributed mightily and effectively to the overthrow of the arrogant, free-booting buccaners of the Axis. Their efforts may differ in degree and kind, but there is no difference in the resolute courage the determined faith and the bravery of their sons as they offer themselves on the field of battle.

The cooperation of these great nations in the task of warfare has undoubtedly fostered an abiding friendship that, let us hope, offers the world the promise of a brighter future and a long period of peaceful cooperation for the improvement of mankind.

Certainly, the people of the United States, who have willingly made such a contribution to the war effort, are not only willing, but anxious, for their government, in their behalf, to make permanent the ties that bind us to our fighting allies and to assume any responsibility that may be necessary to safeguard the future peace of the world.

There as no difficulties and no dangers associated with the cooperation of peace-loving nations that approach in magnitude the difficulties and dangers that have been surmountd in connection with the present war.

What is Being done for the War Blinded

"The armed forces and the Veterans Administration have intensified their efforts to set blinded service men safely on the road back to useful lives."

A rehabilitation center has been established at Avon, Conn. It is called the"Old Farm Convalecent Hopital." Before the blind soldiers are sent to this institution they receive medical and surgical care and have a preliminary course in social adjustment. At Avon their education in sightless social living is continued. They are encouraged to take up vocational work.

The patient's morale is lifted by the consultant who endeavors to help him understand that there is much that he can do He is taught to wait on himself. He soon learns to dress himself neatly, to keep shaved, to find his way about indoors and outdoors. The blind usually develop a very keen sense of touch, which helps them to learn Braille.

If he wishes, he will be taught to write on a Brailla typewriter. and to use a Braille wrist watch. He will be taught an occupation for whch he has an aptitude and in which he is interested. This gives him confidence and helps him to realize that he can find a useful place in the world.

He will have lessons in stenography, typing, clerical work, metal and wood work. The men will be taught to operate various types of business. While they are still in training they will be given experience in industrial plants. Blind men have been repairing machines of all kinds for many years.

Before a man is discharged, his home is visited by a special officer who prepares the way for him. Relatives will be told how to treat him. He must not be made to feel sorry for himself. Relatives must not be over sympathetic; they must be taught to save the blind man all unnecessary embarrassment.

For example, they'll be taught to set his dinner plate the way he had been accustomed to having it set while still under military care. "The plate is considered to be the face of a clock with the potatoes at 2 o'clock, the meat at 6, the peas at 9, and so on—so the blind man will always know where to look for them."

Education, industrial training or other training desired by the veteran will be provided by the government. Blind men with no other disabilities are entitled to pensions up to $190 a month under regulation compensation laws. Guide dogs will be provided, if needed, as will any other help or necessary equipment desired and required by the blind veterans.

CLIMATE PLANNING

This has been a bad winter. Almost every time I've gone outdoors I've suffered with cold, and I have felt that the government should do something about the climate.

It would not cost the government more than a thousand billion dollars to heat the outdoors in winter and to cool it in summer.

This would double your present income taxes for a couple of generations, but it would give millions of jobs and redistribute wealth until we'd all be broke.

Yes, I think Uncle Sam should air-condition all-outdoors and make it cozier in winter and cooler in summer—for the pee-pul.

To the Public

From time to time, the City Commission has passed certain Ordinances for the purpose of safeguarding the health and wellbeing of the Community. These Ordinances are reasonable and necessary, and should be enforced. They are:

PLUMBING AND GAS FITTING ORDINANCES:

These Ordinances lay down minimum requirements for laying Gas and Sewer lines and the installation of all Fixtures. They require that permits be applied for before work is begun, and that all work and materials must be inspected and tested before being put into service. Faulty or improper work or materials will be condemned and must be replaced. Only experienced and licensed persons should be employed to do this work. Poor plumbing will endanger your health, and unsafe and improper Gas lines will endanger life, health and property.

These Ordinances were passed for the benefit of all, and it is to the interest of all that they be enforced. It is hoped that every citizen will do his duty by co-operating to the fullest extent.

My Dreams are Getting Better All the Time

Well, what do you know, he smiled at me in my dreams last night,
My dreams are getting better all the time,
And, what do you know, he looked at me in a different light,
My dreams are getting better all the time.

To think that we were strangers a couple of nights ago,
And though its a dream I never dreamed he'd ever say hello,
Well, baby tonight he'll hold me tight when the moonbeams shine,
My dreams are getting better all the time.

Betty Jo Nix and Robbie Scott fell (far) for Don Hill and Joe Max. What next?

Vernell wants John to keep dreaming or maybe do something to play up to his dreaming. OH!

Where was Lane on Monday night, Feb. 26th? Who knows?

Bonnie Thompson and Cleston Pritchett certainly had fun after play practice Tuesday night.

Speaking of after play practice! Some crazy people were out walking in the snow last Monday night. Wonder who?

Jean Williams and "Her' Clark Gable certainly had a wonderful week end. She took up William Randall soon after Clark left.

We're going to tell Donald how Inez flirts with Kenneth. Better watch it, Penny!

Alton is all out for Dickens now. It was little Taylor, wasn't it?

Parker is supposed to come in next week—is Susie happy or not?

Gene Hensley was pretty unhappy when she saw who Dick was with Tuesday night—Margaret!

Brydean has a very nice looking cousin—pass him around—"Brydie'

Mavis and Carl are getting pretty chummy nowadays, she really gets around.

Mafoi got around that night after the F.A.A. Artaban party. Does Jimmie Draper know about that?

Jackie sure is glad Orville is back in school—who isn't

O. E. didn't come to play practce one night. Because of Lois???

Dot Karr really likes sailors—especially sailors named Paul.

Aline and Lois threatened to leave home—because of O. E. and Lane.

Eurena and Jiggs Nolan had a nice time, we think.

Casey said he had a date with Betty Nix. Betty said he didn't. Who knows?

Gene Rogers was certainly interested in Peacock a few Sundays ago, Dot, she seems to be beating your time

The flame amost went out on the Rumfield-Meadows romance but again it is shining brightly.

Bert has that gleam in her eyes again. Could R. C. Rich have anything to do wth that? Hold him, Bert, he's cute.

Will Jimmie Draper ever find him a girl?

Why don't some of you boys notice that cute Donna Gene Wright? What more could a boy want?

Inez, was it necessary to cry when you lost Donald's ring? Anyway, we are glad you found it.

Well, Kenneth, make up your mind. Will it be Dyess or Susie? You better be careful when the merchant marine comes home.

Nell was stumbling around school Friday because Pete left Thursday night. Can't say we blame you though.

Several girls have been walking around in a daze lately. The Fleet's in.

What have the out-of-town boys and girls got that Spur doesn't have?

Boys, you had better start giving the girls a little more attenton because the Junior-Senior Banquet is not far off.

Jane, what's the matter with your love affair? If you don't want him, you can at least give someone else a chance.

Guess who we found parked on the hill one night. None other than Dub Rumfield. Who with? ChiChi!

Wendel George is really keeping in corrspondance with a girl named Gail, at Lubbock.

Preston Bennett is the Pin-up boy of the week. He is also Freshman favorite. These new boys really hit the spot.

Ned is writing poetry about Jane and Dewie. Such inspiration!

What went on in the hall one Tuesday between Ju Ron and a few senior girls? Lucky guy!

Tillie and Runt have really been hitting the high spots. So have Nell and Pete.

Bill McMahan makes eyes at Imogene Thornton in B. A. Class. Wait until Billy Sherrill hears about this.

There's a certain little brown-eyed Fish after Marjorie Randall. Want to know who? Lloyd Boone.

Harold Casey and Vernell were together the other night. Ha!

Mary Hudson got asked for a date one Saturday night. Can you guess who asked her?

Jean Holloway and Mafoi Carlisle really had a time Saturday with none other than Louis (Dumont) Hodges.

Well, so long until next time. Be careful because I'll be watching you.

F.F.A. CONTESTANTS GO TO WICHITA FALLS

Four boys of the F.A.A. chapter of Spur and instructor, Walter Labay and county agent Chas. A. Taylor went to Wichita Falls, last Wednesday for a boys fat steer judging contest, in which 17 teams took place. The steers were in a class of four and had four classes to judge. Oral reasons of placing steers were given on two classes. There were 67 milk fed steers in the building and 60 of the best ones were to be shown Thursday while seven were to be culled out. Don McGinty had two fine calves there from Spur placing 12th with one. The ones that made the team were Billie J. Calvert, Harold Casey, Dewie Watson and Cleston Pritchett. Harold Casey was high score man with a total of 470. Spur got eleventh place.

THE PLACE OF HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS IN THE WORLD OF TOMORROW

By Nelda Hindman

We, the youth of today, will be the doctors, lawyers, statesmen, nurses, business men, farmers and ranchers of tomorrow. In our trust will be the liberty that the boys today are winning with their lives. We must train for our positions of tomorrow. We will have stiff competition. Look how much Russia has advanced in the last 25 years. In World War I, Russia was in the war only a short time and then made no showing before they were defeated by Germany. Look at them now, great generals, good soldiers,, comparatively good equipment, how much they have advanced under the hand of Stalin. South America, the continent of rich undeveloped resources,is becoming industrialed. They are coming out of their old ways. Mexico is also a land of rich resources which when developed will make Mexico a powerful nation. Great Britian has always been stiff competition and will be again after the war. China under the leadership of such great leaders as Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Sun Yet Sin is slowly becoming a modern nation and after the war with no Japanese interference will advance steadily. India is gradually becoming more modernized and may soon be able to handle their own government.

In our own country ,each of us will have much competiton. We are becoming a nation that requires its citizens to have an education in order to keep up with our rapidly advancing nation. We must study, keep up with current events learn to think better and more rapidly and thinking brings in another important factor in our world of tomorrow, physical fitness. And you cannot have physical fitness when such things as intoxicating liquour narcotics and tobacco are involved. We can not study, work or think at our best when we are not well or under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Compulsory military training has its place in the post war world. "To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace," were the words of our first president, George Washington.

We must have men and arms ready at any time to intervene when some nation does as Germany did. We should have done that when Germany took Austria instead of waiting until they attacked us. We see our mistake now and must profit by it. We must prepare for the future!

JUNIOR PLAY

The Junior class has selected their play. It is a comedy entitled "Girl Shy" by Katharine Kavanough.

They have started their practice and we are sure this will be a very good play. The characters are:

Tom Arsdale, who is girl shy—Dewie Watson
Oke Stimson, who isn't—Cleston Pritchett
Caroline, Tom's aunt—Jean Arthur
Anthony Arsdale, Tom's father—Dean Wright

School Census Will Be Taken in March

The school census will be taken during the month of March, C. F. Cook, superintendent of Spur schools, announced Tuesday.

Parents who have children that will be between the ages of 6 and 17 inclusive, on or before September 1, 1945, should enumerate them and give the list to me, Cook said.

"If your neighbor has a chlld help them enumerate their child or call me," Cook emphasized.
