TESTIMONY TOLD PLOT TO COLLECT INSURANCE

Verdict of Jury Ends Case That Started When Waybourne Found Beaten To Death Last March 11.

BASTROP, Texas, July 27.—A verdict of guilty of the murder of W. W. Waybourne, Smithville railroad man and a penalty of 45 years was fixed upon his 46-year-old widow, Mrs. Rosie Waybourne late Friday by a district court jury which heard Hugo Middleton, a blacksmith lover, tell of hiring a Mexican at her solicitation to do the killing.

The closing argument of District Attorney Merton L. Harris, a novelist, was punctuated by Mrs. Waybourne's sobs and cries from a cot near the witness stand.

As the district attorney hurried the charge of "felony" at her, Mrs. Waybourne's hysteria provoked her to sit upright and scream.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

Too often the turmoil and noise and heat, the disorder and unattractiveness of a home in summer make children nervous, unhappy and ill. For children, in spite of the opinion of their elders to the contrary, are just as susceptible to ugliness of surroundings as adults.

There is such a thing as making work a game, or at least part of it. And why not let the children have a hand in the game? Why not make the house and yard a sort of "pretend" place?

Vacation is really the only time of year you have your children at home unless they are under six. Why sweep carpets and wash curtains and wear your life out on things like that when the magic summer time is flying away on wings? You can sweep and do up curtains all winter, and then some.

If I were to do it over again I should strip the house of unnecessary things and keep it cool and dark and quiet. I should get out of the house on every possible occasion! I should work that little back porch overtime, or a shady corner of the back yard. I should put in vines or quick-growing shrubs early in the spring to add attractiveness and assure a certain amount of privacy. I should serve all meals on the porch, or in the yard and turn the entire family into a carry-out, carry-in party at meal time to save the added steps. I should sew out-

FEW PARTIES

Informal Gatherings Feature Summer Days

Interest in elections, combined with the usual lull of summer, has crowded out the attention to social functions and few parties are being given at this time. Even picnics, which were popular during the last few weeks, have not been given during the last days because of rains and women of the city are finding pleasure in a few hands of bridge during the afternoons. Other small groups gather for the evenings together.

With the exception of parties for visitors, and many of these are very small and informal, few socialities are being scheduled.

J. P. Kerlin, of Ralls, who has been at the Painter House for the past week, is returning home today with his daughter who recently underwent an operation at the West Texas Hospital.

Miss Louise Allen is returning to her home in Dallas tonight after visiting Miss Alma Girard for several days. Miss Allen had been visiting in Ralls for a month.

THE FINESSE—1

In the manipulation of the cards, the finesse is one of the most useful "working tools." It is a maneuver which assists in winning a trick for you with a card lower than the one which is still out against you. It also helps to establish a suit, that is, to give you complete control

The Marked Preference—

McDONALD PACKING CO.
"The South Plains' Fastest Growing Industry" of it so that you may win a trick with every card in that suit.

An illustration of the finesse in a situation frequently encountered may be described as follows: Should West hold the King and four of hearts, Dummy, the Ace, Queen, East holds none and the Declarer holds the two and three of hearts.

The only way in which the declarer can win two tricks in hearts is to lead a small card from his hand to the Ace-Queen. If West holds the King, both the Ace and Queen will win tricks. If West plays the 4, the declarer plays the Queen; if West plays the King the declarer covers with the Ace in the dummy and the Queen is then sure to win a trick.

If East holds the King, the declarer will lose the Queen and the finesse will fail. This, however, does not lessen the value of the maneuver. There is a chance of making a trick with the Queen and if it is made, the declarer will be played from the dummy; he would be sure to lose a trick regardless of whether east or west held the King. This finesse gives the declarer his only chance of winning two tricks in the suit.

Police Make Raid On Revellers At Cafe In "Village"

Thirty-Five Men and Fifteen Women Held After Foray by Officers To Famous Resort.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 27.—"Julius," well known, Greenwich Village night club and restaurant where the Village intelligentsia was wont to sit and drink, was raided early today and 25 men and 15 women were arrested.

The frequenters were charged with disorderly conduct and held for a hearing. The promoter, Walter Anderson, 32 years old, and a waiter, John Murphy, 50, were charged with violation of the Volstead act.

Fight Breaks Out
Tet-a-tete discussions, were going on when seven headquarters detectives announced everyone was under arrest. This interruption of the intimate conversations aroused a surmising against the invaders which shortly turned to physical combat. The detectives, however, quickly quelled the disturbance and started to lead the men and women out of the place.

While the exodus was underway someone threw the switch extinguishing the electric lights and once again a battle ensued. Many of the Villagers and detectives were roughly handled and somewhat battered in the melee that followed.

The Woman's Day

By Aliene Sumner

Exclusive aviation clubs where only the highest monkey-marks can fly or be flown are not in process of development and it is not at all unlikely that they will become within less than a decade as socially impregnable as Palm Beach, Southampton, and other locales feared to our Utterly. Such organizations are not well established abroad.

Well, right at this writing it looks as if the richly and socially exclusive wouldn't have to worry about too much of the hot-pilot in the ether for some time. But maybe it's just a matter of time before that dire event. Some day without a doubt all the flyer owners will be flying through the air and our great minds will be seeking subterranean transportation to solve the aerial traffic problem.

DO YOUR KIDS "RUSTLE"?
Do you make your children "rustle"? Mrs. Lillian Gubbreath, who has gained considerable publicity as an industrial engineer while she also engaged in the job of producing and raising eleven children, tells parents in her new book, "Living With Our Children," that the main trouble with the average parent is that he or she does not make the children "rustle."

She tells how hers often moved into a large rambling house rather than a modern apartment in order to make the children "rustle." Each of the eleven had its daily duties—not always the same, of course. One day the lawn to be mowed, the dishes to be washed, potatoes peeled, mending, dusting beds, etc. Mrs. Gubbreath is not the first mother to say that large families makes less work if each child is given household duties proportionate with its age and strength and general ability.

I think she's absolutely right. The big criticism that such of us who are not parents make of those who are the making of "door mats" of themselves which most parents engage in. The old story of mama washing and baking and ironing and cleaning up while daughter sits in the parlor with her story book.

Mrs. W. A. Wright, of Dimmitt, was operated on for appendicitis at the Lubbock Sanitarium Thursday. Her condition is very serious, but it was stated yesterday that she was doing as well as could be expected. Mrs. Wright is the sister-in-law of Harold Griffith, of the Rix Furniture company.

Why W. E. James Should Be Elected State Superintendent Of Public Instruction

1. He is exceptionally well qualified. He is a man of scholarship and practical experience. By persistent effort as a teacher he has climbed from the one-room rural school to the university. He is making the race on his own merit.

2. He is a friend to the poor as well as to those of means and stands uncompromisingly for equal educational opportunities for every child.

3. He will fight graft whether in connection with text-book contracts or other matters, will substitute efficiency for politics, and will give the people a democratic rather than an autocratic educational administration.

4. His usefulness is not impaired by age or political entanglements. He will perform his duty fairly and efficiently. He is in the prime of life and is looking forward rather than backward.

5. He is a leader and not a driver of men. He understands human nature and knows the value of co-operation. Under his leadership we may hope for a harmonious and progressive administration.

Flint Is Well Qualified For Land Office

The son of a Confederate soldier, left penniless after the Civil War, E. I. Flint came to Texas from Madison County Alabama at the age of seven. He grew to manhood in Erath County, obtaining his education in Stephenville where he specialized in mathematics and civil engineering.

In 1896 he came to Hardeman County and was County Surveyor for sixteen years—compiled an abstract of title to Hardeman county lands, and engaged in the land and abstract business for many years.

His work both as abstractor and surveyor, was accurate in the extreme and in demand in all parts of the Panhandle and West Texas. Friends of Mr. Flint feel that his familiarity with land conditions of the state, his reputation for honesty over a long period of years, his own competence and worth recommend him highly for such a position of trust as the State Land Office.

Mr. Flint is the owner of several farms in Hardeman County and is at present engaged in managing them. If elected Commissioner of the General Land Office he promises an efficient and economical administration.

The present incumbent has held office for nearly twenty years and is asking for another term.

Cuts Out Radio Tex Blames It For Fiasco

NEW YORK, July 27.—Radio and "million dollar" fights don't mix, George L. (Tex) Rickard, promoter of last night's battle of the century, said today, and in the future his championship bouts will not be broadcast.

Rickard, whose Madison Square Garden corporation lost in the neighborhood of $200,000 on the Heeny-Tunney bout, blamed the radio and the 25 per cent Federal tax on all tickets over $5.

Thousands who ordinarily would have paid to see the fight, either went to the theatres or stayed at home to hear the returns over the radio, Rickard said.

"No, sir," Rickard said, "you can't beat both the tax and the radio."

American Tennis Ace Breaks Past French Nemesis

"Big Bill" Calls Out Burst Of Power Such As He Knew In Younger Days And Beats LaCoste.

BY THOMAS T. TOPPING Associated Press Sports Writer

AUTREUIL, France, July 27.—Celebrating his reinstatement as a member of the American Davis Cup tennis team, Big Bill Tilden called forth a burst of the furious tennis of his younger days today to defeat his arch-nemesis, Rene LaCoste of France, for the first time since May 20, 1927, and give his country an even break in the first day's play in the challenge round for the cup now held by the French.

The American broke through the machine-like perfection of his old rival's game after losing the first set and won 1-6, 6-4, 2-8, 6-3. With a victory by Henri Cochet over Tilden's young teammate, John Hennessy, 5-7, 9-7, 6-3, 6-0, in the other match of the day, the French drew up to even terms.

Saving Tilden for his singles match against Cochet on Sunday, the American team will play George Lott and Hennessy, the youthful midwestern pair, in the doubles match against Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon tomorrow.

Reporter Gives British View Of Big Fistic Show

Compares Scene to That of Bull Fight; Enthusiasm of Crowds Was Most Noticeable Feature.

BY BERNARD RICKATSON-HATT Staff Correspondent of Reuter, Ltd. (British News Agency)

NEW YORK, July 27.—Only in New York, that monstrous tuberculosis of civilized life, could a spectacle like last night's fight be adequately presented. It could never be the same in London or Paris. Only in America's premier city would it be possible to stage a spectacle which combined the atmosphere, and many of the features, of a Spanish bullfight, an English soccer match, a gain performance in a Roman gladiatorial arena.

No fire-breathing Andalusian bull ever put up a gamer fight than the New Zealand and no matador could have wielded a sharper sword than Gene Tunney. Some forty thousand fans outstretched Herod in their excitement, like a crowd at a football championship in Glasgow. When the coup de grace was about to be administered the referee intervened as the empero Nero might have done in the coliseum at Rome on behalf of a gladiator who, though in extremis, had nevertheless proved his manhood and his worthiness to live and fight another day.

Apart from the colossal scale on which everything was planned, and conceived the mammoth spurge of publicity and the frenetic "ballyhoo" an excellent word which the editors of the Oxford dictionary might gratefully and gracefully receive) one of the things which struck me most about the fight was the uncontrollable enthusiasm and feverish emotionalism of the crowd.

At a big night in London, one might hear a few restrained handclaps, a murmured "Well hit, sir," but that is usually all there is to it. Perhaps Mr. Rickard would do well to remember this, should he ever think of staging a heavyweight championship in England, as he did me the other day he hoped to do.

English papers do not devote a twentieth of the space to boxing that the American papers do, and there is nothing like the same interest in boxing on the other side that there is in racing or football. A chosen few could doubtless be found to give fifty or even sixty dollars for a seat, but their number would hardly be enough to pay the steamers fares over of Mr. Rickard and his staff.

Fat Check Soothes Heeney's Hurts

$100,000 Payment From Rickard Is Balm; Magnate Lost $155,000

NEW YORK, July 27.—Soothed by a $100,000 balm in the form of a payment check for the hurts Gene Tunney slashed in his features, Tom Heeney was well on the way to recovery today but the wounds inflicted in Tex Rickard's bankroll by last night's heavyweight championship fight probably will leave permanent scars.

With Tunney, the champion who has taken on a new significance as a "killer" successor to Jack Dempsey, visiting for a few days with friends in Connecticut, the promoter of the financial fiasco in the Yankee Stadium held the center of the stage today.

Owens Holds Ex-Mates To Eight Hits and Wins, 2-1

SAN ANTONIO, July 27.—Owens, who used to pitch for San Antonio, showed about 600 fans Friday he is as good as ever when he held his former teammates to eight scattered hits, as a result of which Shreveport won the opening game of the series 2 to 1, the only Bear run was a home run by Mason in the 7th. Cox was the victim of a questionable hit on Holman's grounder to third in the fifth inning, which was instrumental in putting over the first run and Kadoff's home run in the sixth was the clincher.

Tip to Bootleggers Just Watch Wasps and Hens

EVANSTON, Ill., July 27.—Wasps and hens could give the bootleggers a few tips on tricks of the trade in the opinion of Arthur I. Kendall former dean of Northwestern University's medical school.

"For strange as it may seem, wasps and hens frequently become inebriated," Dean Kendall said in an address prepared for delivery before the American Chemical Institute today.

Explaining how wild yeast set bruised fruits, fallen to the ground, in fermentation, he said he had seen hundreds of wasps and drunken hens go away resting in direct violation of the Volstead Act, after eating of the fallen fruit.

Bacteriology first was practiced, though unwittingly, by the ancients, who found they could preserve milk by putting the curd of sour milk "casvin" into fresh milk, Dr. Kendall explained.

"The Mohammedans call this the 'millet seed of the prophet,' and they don't know they are practicing bacteriology. From this came the first uses of bacteria as lactic acid fermentation. This acid is

Former Nominee Pledges Support To Smith Drive

James M. Cox and Governor Ritchie of Maryland Visit Smith at New York And Talk of Campaign.

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 27.—Assurance of a Democratic victory at the polls in November were brought to Smith headquarters today by three of the party's most prominent leaders—one of them a former presidential nominee.

Two of them, Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio placed themselves at the disposal of the national committee. The third, United States Senator William E. Tydings of Maryland, already is actively engaged in the campaign as chairman of the national committee's speakers bureau.

"I'm ready to take off my coat and pitch in to do whatever I can for Governor Smith," said Cox, who was defeated by Harding for the presidency in 1920.

At a conference with John J. Raskob, chairman of the Smith campaign, Cox discussed the lesson he had learned in his campaign against Harding.

Governor Ritchie, who has carried Maryland since the platform of the state's eight electoral vote would go to Smith, as would it would South.

Another visitor at Smith headquarters today—Anton C. Cermak, president of the Cook county Illinois board of county commissioners—reported remarkable Smith sentiment in the midwest and particularly in Wisconsin and Illinois.

San Francisco Turns Out To Welcome Hoover Home
SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—This throng-filled city behind the Golden Gate welcomed home today California's most distinguished son, Herbert Hoover.

For more than one hour the man upon whom the Republican party has placed the mantle of a presidential nomination was within the presence of the city and state and from office store, factory and home.

in his address of welcome in the vast marble rotunda of the city hall it was a non-partisan welcome—enthusiasm of San Francisco to the former secretary of the treasury who came here thirty odd years ago to seek his fortune and who left to travel upon the road that has led to the highest honors a great political career may bestow.

Mr. Hoover treated it as such in his response to the Mayor for his welcome—despite the fact that it might be called, was at the conclusion of his address in which he thanked the people of his state for presenting his name to the Kansas City convention.

Austin, Texas, July 17, 1928
to the People of Texas.

It being impossible for me to visit you in my campaign for the second term as one of your Railroad Commissioners, I am taking this method of thanking you with all my heart for the splendid vote given me by you four years ago when you elected me to fill out the unexpired term of the lamented Allison Mayfield.

My record, as Railroad Commissioner is before you and the people of Texas, showing that every act and in every vote in the Commission was for and in the interest of the people of Texas and I am before you asking your endorsement by giving me a second term in that office, and I am especially asking you and all my friends to see to it that there will be no confusion of names when you come to cast your votes for Railroad Commissioner on July 28.

As "Lon" A. Smith I served our years as State Comptroller, as "Lop" A. Smith I have served you four years as Railroad Commissioner and so far I am advised there has not been one word of complaint or criticism of the administration of those offices.

Lost, and raised in Rusk county, every man and woman knows me and what I stand for and have stood for all of my life. As a young man I attended school at Henderson, Rusk county, served as county clerk, State Senator, State Comptroller and now asking your endorsement by giving me the second term as one of your Railroad Commissioners.

cordially yours,

Indians to Prance for Old Settlers

Scenes of Plains' Last Indian Fight, at Blanco Canyon Will Be Re-Enacted

CROSBYTON, July 27.—Plans for the West Texas Old Settlers Association which is to meet at the Uncle Hank Smith Memorial Park in Blanco Canyon nine miles north of here on August 15th and 16th, are pretty well completed. Much interest has been manifested by the Old Settlers and Mr. McDermitt, who has charge of several of the entertaining features, estimates that the attendance will be 10,000 people.

All the old settlers have been notified that they will be expected to bring well-filled baskets for an old time basket dinner on the first day and the second day they are to enjoy an old time barbecue of beef, pork, mutton and chicken. There will be plenty of food and ice water on the ground. Twenty or thirty Indians have been invited from Oklahoma, and other entertaining features of the meeting will be a rodeo, goat roping and racing. The presence of the Indians will be a very appropriate setting for the reunion as near the Uncle Hank Smith Memorial Park is the spot where the last fight was had with the Indians in this section of the country.

Fifty years ago this was a widely known spot in the pioneering outskirts of civilization. Many of the old timers will be present to live over again the times of fifty years ago.

Henry Ford Will Insure His Auto Rubber Sources

No Future Foreign Monopoly Will Cause Henry To Run Up Prices On His Automobiles.

DETROIT, July 27.—Henry Ford has moved to insure his large organization against possibility of a future foreign monopoly of the world's rubber supply.

The action involved the departure here last night of a large expedition of Ford engineers and rubber specialists to develop the 500,000-acre rubber tract which Ford says will yield annually enough rubber to make tires for two million cars.

On Amazon and Tapajos The tract, located along the Amazon and Tapajos rivers, was purchased from the Brazilian government shortly after the British rubber monopoly made itself felt in the American market and sent prices soaring. Similar projects were inaugurated by the Firestone and United States Rubber companies.

According to company officials the Ford land already has a number of native rubber trees growing on it and has been found by experts admirably suited for intensive cultivation.

The expedition sailed from Detroit on the Ford motor ship Lakemore, which was outfitted to function for the next two years as an engineering and hospital base for the development work. The Lakemore will be joined by the ship Lake Fraga, to take on additional supplies before continuing on a 5,700 mile journey. The Lakemore left Detroit July 11 with a cargo of machinery and other supplies for the expedition. The Lakemore's equipment includes a modern hospital, chemical and experimental laboratory, machine shop and refrigerating plant.

Rains Give Slaton Best Crop Outlook

Rainfall for First Part of Week Aggregates Almost Five Inches; Little Hill Damage.

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATON, July 27.—Fine rains over this section during the past week have given the territory around Slaton the brightest crop prospects known within several years, according to many leading farmers and observers. The rainfall here was almost five inches during the early part of the week, thoroughly drenching the dry soils and making farmers and business men alike smile broadly in anticipation of the prospective fall season they now can picture so vividly.

Cotton and feed crops were planted about one month earlier here this year than in 1927, with which is coupled the present advantage of enough moisture to carry these crops along toward early maturity and bountiful yields, it conditions remain anything like favorable. Very little hill damage, considering the section as a whole, has been experienced in this area during the year.

Business is taking on new life since the rains, and optimism prevails generally. Building activities in Slaton were good during the first half of the year, with prospects for the latter half setting a high record.

Downtown Revue

A novel method of begging was demonstrated down town yesterday. A blind man walked slowly down the street, playing a guitar and singing popular ballads as he went. He was led by a little girl, who held the inevitable tin cup. This was something new, at least, and somewhat enjoyable, for the man had a good tenor voice.

In a deserted store entrance, a swarthy woman sat, swathed in dark and muddy-colored Hindu robes. In the window, a large placard, headed "Phrenology," informs the passerby that a lady student of the Orient will read the head like an open book. Many people read the announcement, but no one stops, and the gypsy lady looks bored.

"Now seems to be the time to beat the poor merchants out of their little profits," a sale-lung, a sale there, sales on every side greet the bewildered shopper. And he hardly knows which way to turn, or which line to swallow.

"Come over to th' house and get a bite to eat," is the cheerful invitation which a farmer extends to a companion, as he slips him on the back—the typical Texas spirit!

Hypnotic Display Made by Doctor Canadian Solves Murder Mystery, Then Shows Power to Subdue Game Fowls

(By Associated Press)
EDMONTON, Alta., July 27.—After helping to solve a murder mystery, Dr. Maximilian A. Langsner, Viennese criminologist, subdued two enraged fighting cocks by means of what he described as hypnotism.

From Verno Booher, Dr. Langsner obtained in 15 minutes information as to where he had hidden a rifle. Then Booher confessed he had killed his mother, brother, and two farm hands. The doctor said he obtained his information by reception of thought.

Two fighting cocks, which the doctor had never seen before, were placed upon a table where they immediately began fighting furiously. Dr. Langsner, grasping the birds by the wings, concentrated his will power on them. The cocks slowly quieted down, their heads bowed and their respiration was the only sign they were alive. Laying the cocks side by side on the table, the doctor stepped back. As he snapped his fingers, releasing them, he said, from the hypnotic spell, they sprang to their feet and began fighting again. Scientists, police officials and reporters saw the demonstration.

Explaining his method, Dr. Langsner said that the act of thinking sends out vibrations of waves similar to radio broadcasts. In every person, he said, there is an undeveloped sixth sense by which these waves can be received. This sixth sense, he said, can be developed by training.

NEW ORLEANS TRADING

NEW ORLEANS, July 27. (P)—Cotton prices opened lower in sympathy with relatively easier Liverpool sales. First trades showing losses of 1 to 3 points. The market promptly rallied, however, on buying induced by general rains in the belt shown by the weather map. October sold up to 20.52; December 20.47; and January 20.43, or 17 to 19 points above yesterday's close.

When these offerings were absorbed, recent buyers began taking profits and towards the end of the first hour prices had eased off to about a level with the previous close.

Fears of large end of the month crop condition reports and a bearish government condition and estimate on August 3, helped the decline which carried October off to 20.24; December to 20.21 and January 20.20, or 23 to 28 points down from the high and 6 to 12 points under the previous close.

As a Candidate for Public Weigher, I again take this method of soliciting the votes and influence of all voters, both ladies and gentlemen, and if elected will do my best to give the service that will be satisfactory to all.

As to the matter of where cotton will be weighed, which has been brought up by my opponent, I wish to say that I have arranged for both a yard and platform scales for the handling of cotton and other products to be weighed.

I will weigh cotton for the farmers and others interested, where they wish store their cotton, either in the yard or otherwise.

Large Crowd Hears Candidates For County and District Posts Speak

Wester and Rountree, candidates for the legislature, Judge Clark M. Mullican, candidate for re-election as judge of the 99th district court; Miss Mae Murfee, candidate for county superintendent of public instruction, and Dennis Kemp, of Slaton, candidate for county judge, no reference to personalities were made in any of the talks and those indulged in by the above mentioned were of a mild and unoffending variety.

The evident surprise and disappointment of the crowd candidates for sheriff, comprising one of the most hotly contested races on the ticket, were brief, good natured, impersonal and entirely to the point. Comments made by departing citizens were complimentary to the high plane upon which they based their claims for consideration.

Wester's Speech High Point.
The speech of J. K. Wester was the high point of the program from a standpoint of the audience. The veteran law maker, who in the past has represented both Jack and Lubbock counties in the state legislature, replied to remarks concerning his candidacy made by his opponent, Carl Rountree, who had preceded him and his efforts brought forth a generous applause coupled with cries of "whoopie" and similar encouragements.

In the contest for judge of the 99th district court, Judge Clark M. Mullican, attacked County Attorney L. A. Howard, as he has in previous speeches and introduced figures pertaining to the campaign. His opponent, County Judge Chas. Nordyke, however, did not reply to Judge Mullican's statements but utilized his time in proferring his own qualifications for the office.

Time Is Limited.
Candidates for district offices were allotted a 12-minute speaking period each, those running for county posts were given seven minutes and precinct candidates 5 minutes each. The following is a brief report of the speakers' remarks:

The talks of L. M. Campbell and C. T. Jackson, candidates for public weigher of Precinct One opened the program. Both spoke of their qualifications for the office and pledged an honest and efficient disposition of their duties.

Stressing the importance of good roads throughout the county, George C. Cooney made his plea for votes for the office of county commissioner of Precinct Four. He was followed by his opponent, L. C. Denton, the present incumbent, who cited the construction of various roads election two years ago and stating throughout the county since his that he "will make a dollar of the county's money go just as far as mine of my own."

Enumerating the various changes through which the county's funds were distributed and explaining the tax situation among the property owners, W. L. Brashear, candidate for re-election for made his appeal for votes. He was followed by W. F. Pruitt, Brashear's opponent, who promised an honest and faithful disposition of the county's business if elected. B. N. Wheeler, another candidate for the commissioner's place did not appear.

Farrish Pledges Work.
Hon. Frank L. Farrish, unopposed candidate for the State Senate from this district, was the next speaker. He paid tribute to those who have come before, mentioning especially the standard set in the Senate by Senator W. H. Bledsoe and others. "I promise you," Mr. Farrish said, "that as I go to Austin, I shall do the hardest work I have ever done in my life for the district."

"Just a country lawyer practicing country law in a country town, but I promise you that I believe I can make a good representative," Carl Rountree of Lamesa, candidate for representative, stated as he was entering the campaign for the position "because I feel that this district has not had proper representation for the past several years." Mr. Rountree entered a somewhat mild attack at his opponent, J. K. Wester, but kept his remarks rather subdued, making only light statements about him. "The Tech doesn't belong to Lubbock any more than it does to the nation," Mr. Rountree said as he assured his listeners of his support of the institution.

Wester Attacks Rountree.
Mr. Wester, his opponent, threw the meeting into an uproar with his urgent appeal for votes and counter-attacks on Rountree. "Tonight's the first time I've mentioned his name or said anything about him," Mr. Wester said, "and I wouldn't have then if he hadn't started it. He cited the various records made while he was a member of the legislature. A man with experience in the legislature can always do more good than a green candidate." Mr. Wester said as he cited Rountree's inexperience in law-making. Ripping off laughter swept the room throughout his speech as he directed the jabs at Rountree.

Judge Homer L. Pharr of the 72nd District Court who is unopposed in the race this year made a short talk in which he stressed the importance of voting right and for the qualified man.

Mullican Speaks.
He was followed by Judge Clark M. Mullican, of the 99th District Court who continued with his attack upon the record of his opponent, Judge Charles Nordyke. Judge Mullican's talk explained statements said to be misleading which have been made by friends of his opponent. He said, "The sad test in every lawyer's eyes when his cases of higher courts to be affirmed or reversed," he explained. My opponent's records show that the percentage of cases he has affirmed is 47 while the average is 61, he said. "I have a percentage of 81 per cent." Answering the question presented about the disposition of the civil suit against Sheriff H. L. Johnston Judge Mullican stated that in the first cases it was not even in his court and that in the second place when called for trial, the plaintiff her attorneys nor none of the witnesses were present.

Judge Charles Nordyke, Mullican's opponent, sidetracked any reference to his opponent and spoke only on the qualifications of the office and of his law and court record in which only 7 civil and 1 criminal cases have been brought back for retrial.

Judge Nordyke outlined his records while in Lubbock county and stated that he had disposed of all cases in the fairest possible means and that he "is for justice, equality and fairness to all men."

Miss Flora Green, district clerk, who is unopposed, did not appear to make a talk.

Citing the statement of a state inspector that Lubbock county had the greatest percentage of brick school buildings and teachers of any county in the United States, and explaining the cooperative buying of the school system, W. M. Pevehouse made an appeal for his re-election as County School Superintendent.

He was followed by Miss Mae Murfee, his opponent, who stated that she wanted to see the children taught the lesson to do by doing method which has worked efficiently in many schools. Miss Murfee attacked the statements made by Pevehouse in his opening remarks. She pointed to her own experience in handling children and "since that time."

"What we need more than ever is for the children to realize the native values of country life."

Thanking his opponents for the clean campaign which had been run, Benjamin Kucera presented his qualifications in the interest of his candidacy for county attorney. He declared that the man best fitted as a prosecutor for boys and girls should be elected to fill the office of county attorney. Kucera stressed the reformation of delinquent youths, stating that officials should do everything to make good citizens out of law-breaking children. J. J. Dillard, self-styled "ugliest man in the United States," furnished the high spot of comedy of the whole speaking, keeping the audience in an uproar of laughter during his entire talk. Dillard said: "I don't need the honor. It doesn't take a Clarence Darrow or a Dayton Moses to fill the office of county attorney. If it did Lubbock county would be a blown up dago."

stated in making his plea for votes that he felt as if he were better qualified now for the office than at that time. He mentioned his law record and stressed the point of law enforcement being the keystone to the liberty and protection of the people. He stated that he had been and would always be a Democrat. Mrs. Vaughn Fann pledged her willingness to assume the responsibilities of the county treasurer's office, stating that she felt well qualified for the position. Her opponent, Miss Annie Ford pointed to her 18 years of business training as a great aid in meeting the qualifications of the office. She promised, if elected, efficient and satisfactory service to the people.

Dennis Kemp, of Slaton, candidate for county judge, was mentioned in the campaign of two years ago.

vote runs more than the expected 500 he would win without a runoff. On the same 700,000 basis, if L. J. Worley, another candidate for governor, supported by former governor James E. Ferguson, gets about the same vote Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson got in 1926, and the other had arranged to broadcast from radio station WBAF.

Mayfield's closing day was at San Antonio and that Mrs. Fisher Cunningham, also seeking his seat, at Galveston. Her headquarters announced here Friday that a "distinguished broadcaster" also would speak for her by radio from San Antonio. Congressman Tom Blanton, another senatorial candidate, went to Abilene for a homecoming speech and Alvin Owsley, a fifth opponent of Mayfield's wound up at Dallas.

Besides these five senatorial candidates, a sixth, Jeff McLemore of Hebronville, is on the ticket. In accordance with the custom, the state capital will be closed for election day. In the summer, the capitol knocks off Saturday afternoon anyway so the employers really lose half a day by the fact that the election is on Saturday.

Mayfield confident of victory. In a statement here Friday, Senator Mayfield said he had "not the slightest doubt" about the election result, that all of his opponents admit that he will be high man, and that whether he receives a majority will be determined by the size of the total vote more or less dependent on the weather.

Thos. B. Greenwood, associate justice of the supreme court, Attorney General Claude Pollard, and George B. Terrell, commissioner of Agriculture, are the only state candidates without opposition.

In the governor's race, Governor Moody is opposed besides Wardlaw by Mrs. Edith E. Wilman of Dallas county, and William E. Hawkins of Stephens county, former justices of the supreme court. Mrs. Wilman was in the last race.

Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller is opposed for re-election by J. D. Parnell, Wichita county, H. L. Darwin, Lamar county, State Senator Tom Lowe, Dallas county, and John D. McCall, Jefferson county.

 The fair workers decided upon their rules, regulations, premiums, and other routine affairs and will be busy from now until a few days after the fair with the work. The directors plan to relieve each department superintendent after the judging, thus giving the workers a rest after they have completed their job of entering and arranging and supervising the judging of the many articles in their department.

Those present at the meeting yesterday were: Mrs. Jas. H. Goodson, director; Mrs. Hub Jones, assistant director; Mrs. W. B. Price, assistant director; Mrs. Geo. C. date for county judge also thanked his opponents for carrying on a clean campaign in his talk which was featured by the appeal of fair play from Lubbock for an outside representative in the county. He is the only out-of-town county judge candidate.

He was followed by George W. Foster who brought out the fact that the county's business was one of much financial importance. Not being a lawyer, but having served six years as judge of Dawson county, Foster presented his vote claim entirely upon his ability as an executive.

Robert H. Bean, of Lubbock, the third man in the county judge's race, stated that he was running strictly upon the qualifications of the office and that he believed a county judge, one who is to sit in the trial of more than 700 cases should be a lawyer. "We also need a man who can advise the commissioners on the business of the county."

Following these talks, four of the candidates, W. B. Smith, Wade Hardy, C. A. Holcomb and Roscoe Parks each made short talks.

Rolie C. Burns, present tax assessor, was not present for the meeting but his two opponents, Charles B. Metcalf and A. B. Ellis, each made a plea for support. The final talk was made by A. J. Clark, unopposed candidate for county tax collector.

LOVE FOR TWO

RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 by NEA Service

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BERTIE LOU WARD married ROD BRYER, who had previously been engaged to LILA MARSH. They spend an ideal honeymoon and the only shadow on the young bride's happiness is the persistent annoyance of Lila after they return.

Too much hospitality in the new home upset their financial budget. This worries Bertie Lou and she is happy when Rod accepts a position in New York with TOM FRASER.

Anxious to make a good impression, they go to an expensive hotel until they can find an apartment. This seems to antagonize MOLLY FRASER, who urges Bertie Lou to buy more than she can afford. Feeling under social obligation to the Frasers and having won some money from Tom at poker, Bertie Lou has a night club. Lila arrives to visit Molly, who includes her in the party and seems to enjoy Bertie Lou's discomfiture.

The affair cost Rod more than $100 and he had to borrow $50 from Lila. Bertie Lou upbraids Rod for the extravagance and they quarrel for the first time. Strained relations continue until they receive money from home for their old furniture.

Bertie Lou is surprised when Molly phones announcing Lila's engagement to MR. LOREE. Lila asks Bertie Lou to go shopping with her to buy the trousseau and begs her to forget the unpleasant things she has done to her and be friends.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

"But I have a fur coat," Bertie Lou replied. "Oh yes, that old mink! That mink! Mink! Mink!"

"It was the nicest looking coat in Wayville," Lila put in. "You can say so," she answered. "Cyrus told you to get a mink, didn't he?"

"Anything I want," Lila agreed solemnly. "And he insisted upon my having a real wedding gown. We're going to be married at 'The Little Church Around the Corner,' she said directly to Bertie Lou. "Then we're going on a trip to Florida."

"It was the sensible thing to let Cyrus pay for my things now so I won't have to do any shopping after we're married. He knows I couldn't buy the sort of clothes his wife should wear."

"Aren't you going home first?" Bertie Lou asked, thinking of her parents. "I'd like to be married there," Lila replied. "But Cyrus has a horror of small towns. Can you imagine him shopping at the Arlington? He wants me to send for Dad and Mother."

"She didn't say whether she intended to do so."

"It's a shame you can't be married in Wayville," Molly regretted. "They'd never get over talking about it." Unconsciously she expressed Lila's own thought.

"Well, here's Madam Lamore's," she remarked a little later. "I think you can get most of your things here, Lila, and if you like they'll send out for matching shoes and bags and those things. It will save you a lot of time."

Poor Bertie Lou! She loved

thing you think would look nice on Mrs. Bryer?" Madam had. "Show it to her. I'll telephone to Rod myself," Molly added to Bertie Lou.

Of her own accord Bertie Lou would no more have thought of buying a second new evening gown than of flying. But there is an influence in example that is hard to resist when it is in line with one's inclination.

Lila selected five. Madam Lamore kept the shop open late to accommodate her. Bertie Lou forgot to think of time. For love of beauty does extend to the appreciation of lovely garments.

Bertie Lou had worn nice things for years. But never had she seen such an array of buying as Lila indulged in. It was intoxicating.

"I'm afraid we won't have time to look at coats for you," Molly said to her finally, glancing at her wrist watch. Bertie Lou looked at her own timepiece. Great heavens, Rod must be home now!

"I'll have to go," she told Molly with a little worried smile. "Why? You aren't doing your own cooking, are you?"

"Of course, I am," Bertie Lou responded instantly. Molly always said such absurd things. Just as if she didn't know how much money Rod was making.

"Well, you're a fool to do it," Molly answered evenly. "There are lots of nice little restaurants that aren't any more expensive than preparing food at home. Time's too valuable to waste in the kitchen."

"But Rod will be worried," Bertie Lou said. "New York's such a big place. So many accidents. When he's late I'm simply distracted."

"You'll get over that," Molly assured her complacently. "Sorry you have to leave us. Tell me what Telephone Rod and ask him to come over to our place. Tom will be home now, expect. And Cyrus is coming. We'll make a party of it. Go somewhere afterwards."

"I couldn't, Bertie Lou refused. "Not in this dress." She couldn't think of a better excuse offhand.

"Get on then. You can't have too many evening dresses. A few times in a night club does for me of them. I'm sure Madam Lamore will have something for you, Molly insisted. "Madam have you anything you think would look nice on Mrs. Bryer?" Madam had. "Show it to her. I'll telephone to Rod myself," Molly added to Bertie Lou.

Of her own accord Bertie Lou would no more have thought of buying a second new evening gown than of flying. But there is an influence in example that is hard to resist when it is in line with one's inclination.

Lila selected five. Madam Lamore kept the shop open late to accommodate her. Bertie Lou forgot to think of time. For love of beauty does extend to the appreciation of lovely garments.

Bertie Lou had worn nice things for years. But never had she seen such an array of buying as Lila indulged in. It was intoxicating.

"I'm afraid we won't have time to look at coats for you," Molly said to her finally, glancing at her wrist watch. Bertie Lou looked at her own timepiece. Great heavens, Rod must be home now!

"I'll have to go," she told Molly with a little worried smile. "Why? You aren't doing your own cooking, are you?"

"Of course, I am," Bertie Lou responded instantly. Molly always said such absurd things. Just as if she didn't know how much money Rod was making.

"Well, you're a fool to do it," Molly answered evenly. "There are lots of nice little restaurants that aren't any more expensive than preparing food at home. Time's too valuable to waste in the kitchen."

"But Rod will be worried," Bertie Lou said. "New York's such a big place. So many accidents. When he's late I'm simply distracted."

"You'll get over that," Molly assured her complacently. "Sorry you have to leave us. Tell me what Telephone Rod and ask him to come over to our place. Tom will be home now, expect. And Cyrus is coming. We'll make a party of it. Go somewhere afterwards."

"I couldn't, Bertie Lou refused. "Not in this dress." She couldn't think of a better excuse offhand.

"Get on then. You can't have too many evening dresses. A few times in a night club does for me of them. I'm sure Madam Lamore will have something for you, Molly insisted. "Madam have you any-change when Madam Lamore remembered that she had a much-copied original model greatly reduced in price that might please Mrs. Bryer.

It did, and Bertie Lou pretended great delight in having obtained a bargain. She even succeeded in making Molly feel a little envious for in what feminine soul is there no love for a bargain?

"I'll lend you a wrap," Molly promised her on the way home. "Thanks, but I'll wear 'this and check it.'" Bertie Lou declined. "Did you tell Rod to dress?" Molly said she had.

When Rod arrived at the Frasers' Bertie Lou was in Lila's room. Her new dress was spread out on the bed and she was about ready to slip it on.

Utterly without a thought of immodesty she had run out of the connecting bath in her bare skin to put on her underwear in the bedroom so Lila could have the bath.

Lila, too, was unclothed. And neither girl gave a moment's thought of it. But Bertie Lou might have had a few thoughts very different from those that possessed her at the moment if she had known what caused Lila to smile so strangely under the warm shower.

Happier Lives: Opportunities come to us every day to make life richer and freer for ourselves and others.

Happier Lives

Opportunities come to us every day to make life richer and freer for ourselves and others. They are not mammoth advantages that present themselves with great effulgence and pomp, but just simple little chances to show kindness and forbearance and to serve and share.

Clear the Air

Democrats and republicans are dicker-ing for radio broadcasting privileges. Both of them want their political campaign speeches heralded to a waiting world.

self. How many speeches at the two major political conventions did you hear? Even though he may be deeply interested in citizenship and even has a passing interest in politics, it is in spite of political speeches. When all the powerful stations are linked up on the political circuit, that's about all a radio fan can pick up with his set.

Snakes as Gifts

It is reported that a friend of an eastern editor brought to his office a real live rattlesnake as a personal gift, but the editor evidently could not appreciate the gift, for he wrote in his editorial column thus:

So Think We

We think people should be very careful in handling automobiles on the highway or in the city, but especially in the city, where there are so many ways in which accidents may occur, and through which death may overtake some child, elderly person, or even one that is active and strong.

Conserving Old Material

For a good many years we have wondered why there was not some way of utilizing the old steel that comes out of the automobiles that have served their days of usefulness, and reconvert it into new cars, etc.

Out Our Way

So Think We

We think people should be very careful in handling automobiles on the highway or in the city, but especially in the city, where there are so many ways in which accidents may occur, and through which death may overtake some child, elderly person, or even one that is active and strong.

It is Reported

It is reported that the democratic campaign manager says that Al Smith has a chance to carry every state. We noticed where Al said a few days ago that campaign managers had a habit of claiming most everything, and we presume that Al's manager is merely living up to the ideas of his boss.

Laughs

Remarked little Tommy, "Everybody in our family is some kind of an animal." "What do you mean?" asked mother. "Why, mother, you're a dear, you know."

Press Comment

The tariff and the farmer: The tariff is an economic and not a political question. Furthermore, it seems to be an established principle in the United States. The demand is no longer for free trade, but for adjustment of tariffs for the purpose of equalizing the benefits derived therefrom.

South Plains Press

GET IT RIGHT: The following letter was printed in a recent issue of the McCamey Leader: "The Tri-County Record of July 13 published a letter signed by W. C. Fowler captioned 'Are Boots and Spurs a Dilemma?' The writer of this letter having been born in West Texas and having lived on the ranch for 40 years, sleeping in the open with nothing over him but the canopy of heaven, having trailed as hero over four states, feels that in justice to the old-time cowboy that the correct interpretation be put on these hardy plainsmen; evidently the writer of the letter referred to received his conception of a cowboy from reading western magazines and the moving picture shows; doubtless he like some other boll weevil from up near Lubbock, tore his cotton sack up on the grasswood brush 'n' coming to this section of the country. We are wondering why he should take exception to any remarks about boots, spurs and ten-gallon hats. Had these remarks concerned buck shoes, one suspender and knee pants, he would have been justified in defending same."

Public Opinion

A Muddy Adventure: "Hey, Pal, hold this cigar while I give another heave on the beach end of this bus. All right boys? One-two-three, push! Boy—that's better. Keep your wheels straight and don't raise the engine. Keep in the rut, Mary, you're going fine now. Don't be afraid, just try to guide it when it begins to slip. Well if there isn't Sam in this ditch again! Come on boys we must—"

Sunday-School Lesson BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson for July 29, 1928.

General Topic: The First Foreign Missionaries.

Scripture Lesson: Acts 13:1-5, 13-15, 44-49.

1. Now there were at Antioch, in the church that was there, prophets and teachers, Barnabas and Symeon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaco the foster-brother of Herod the tetrarch, and Saul.

2. And as they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Spirit said separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work wherunto I have called them.

3. Then when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them, they sent them away.

4. So they, being sent forth by the Holy Spirit, went down to Seleucia; and from thence they sailed to Cyprus.

5. And when they were at Salamis, they proclaimed the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews; and they had also John as their attendant.

6. Now Paul and his company set sail from Paphos, and came to Perga in Pamphylia; and John departed from them and returned to Jerusalem.

7. But they, passing through from Perga, came to Antioch of Pisidia; and they went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day, and sat down.

8. And after the reading of the law and the prophets the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them, saying, Brethren, if ye have any word of exhortation for the people, say on.

9. And the next Sabbath almost the whole city was gathered together to hear the word of God.

10. But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with jealousy and contradicted the things which were spoken by Paul, and blasphemed.

11. And Paul and Barnabas spake out boldly, and said, It was necessary that the word of God should first be spoken to you. Seeing ye thrust it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles.

12. For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, I have set thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldst be for salvation unto the uttermost part of the earth.

13. And as the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of God; and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed.

14. And the word of the Lord was spread abroad throughout all the region.

15. Time: Paul's first missionary journey, A. D. 47-49.

16. Place: Antioch in Syria to Antioch in Pisidia, through Cyprus from east to west, thence to Perga, in Pamphylia, and thence north to Antioch in Pisidia.

17. Golden Text: Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Matt. 28:19, 20.

of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Matt. 28:19, 20.

Introduction.

Let our churches remember that our Pilgrim Fathers came to this country in order to establish here the home of religious liberty. Let them not forget the rock out of which they were hewn, else the days of their prosperity will be numbered.

"When they come to realize that they have inherited so much, they will open their eyes to the duty of giving to others. Since they have so freely received, they are to give as freely, or else drop back into a slumber that knows no awakening. The alternatives are: give and live, or deny and die. What debt Christians owe to Antioch! How else can we pay it except to carry on to others the blessings we have received from the early missionaries of Christ in foreign lands."

The First Foreign Missionaries, v. 2

"The Holy Spirit said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work wherunto I have called them." The Spirit spoke to and through the prophets just mentioned, v. 1. Saul from his conversion was set apart by the Holy Spirit for the great work of foreign missions (Acts 9:15; 22:16, 15:16, 17). Barnabas was providentially raised up to be his comrade, for he was probably educated much as Saul had been, he had introduced Saul to the church in Jerusalem, had brought him to Antioch, and had labored successfully with him there for a year.

"Then, when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them." This laying on of hands was in token of the bestowal of the special grace and might of the Holy Spirit, enabling Barnabas and Saul to perform their task in the Spirit's power and with results well pleasing to him. "They sent them away."

"Missionary," from the Latin missus "one sent," means by derivation the same as "apostle," which is a Greek word meaning "sent forth."

"Sent Forth by the Spirit" v. 4. "So they, being sent forth by the Holy Spirit." There was a human and a divine commission. The representatives of the church were acting under the direction of the Holy Spirit. "Went down to Seleucia." The seaport of Antioch, sixteen miles distant. "And from thence they sailed to Cyprus."

"As Barnabas was a native of Cyprus, and probably widely acquainted there, that large island in the eastern Mediterranean made an ideal starting point for the journey. Moreover, Cyprus was not far from Antioch, only a few hours' sail away, seventy miles, and the Cypriotes in the Antioch church would furnish the two missionaries with introductions to their relatives and friends in Cyprus."

Saul, also called Paul, v. 9.

From this point Saul steps to the front in the expedition, and Luke speaks no longer of "Barnabas and Saul," but of "Paul and Barnabas"; for, be it noted, at this point Saul seems to have dropped his Hebrew name, and to have taken up the Greek-Latin name which he had probably carried also from boyhood, as more suited to his work among the Gentiles. Some think that Saul called himself Paul after the Serapis Paulus.

Paul in the Synagogue, vs. 14, 15.

"And they went into the synagogue on the sabbath day." Though he is the apostle of the Gentiles, it is ever to the synagogue that Paul first finds his way.

"And after the reading of the law and the prophets." The law was the Pentateuch (Five Books), the first five Books of the Bible, written by Moses. It was read through in the synagogues every three years, a designated portion each Sabbath.

The prophets included Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve Minor Prophets, and also the Books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel and Kings.

"And Paul stood up, and beckoning with the hand said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, hearken."

This gesture seems to have been a favorite one with Paul; see Acts 12:17. The apostle addresses the Israelites present, and also the Jewish proselytes, "ye that fear God."

Very likely also some Gentiles were present, but Paul did not formally include them in his audience.

Paul's Sermon, vs. 16-41.

Paul was at home here; 1. In a Green environment—and he was a Greek by youthful associations. 2. In a Roman colony city—and he was a Roman citizen. 3. In a Jewish synagogue—and he was a Jew. In such surroundings he delivers his first public address that has come down to us.

How scriptural it is! Herein he sets a good example to the preacher of any age. Those Old Testament writings were a common ground on which he could meet. His Jewish hearers with the gospel of Jesus. The Bible in such a universal book that biblical sermons conciliate, appeal, interest.

The discourse has three divisions: 1. God's gracious dealings with Israel (vs. 7-22). 2. The facts about Jesus are in accordance with Old Testament prophecy (vs. 23-37). 3. Salvation for all who believe, and a warning for those who reject Christ (vs. 38-41). Paul ties up Jesus to the Old Testament; if they hold to it they are bound to accept him. By not doing this they prove themselves undeserving of eternal life.

Paul Turns from Jews to Gentiles

"Seeing ye thrust it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life." They had not merely refused to believe, but they had pushed the gospel away from them with bitterness and wrath. Paul's sarcasm is keen: they had been judging themselves and not him; Jesus had bidden his followers not to cast their pearls before swine. "Lo, we turn to the Gentiles." With this epochal saying, repeated by Paul on other similar occasions, the great Apostle to the Gentiles inaugurated his life work. Henceforth Christianity was not confined to one small nation and one race, but was to go "into all the world," as its founder had commanded.

Paul Divinely Directed, v. 47

"For so hath the Lord commanded us." Paul would not have taken such a step without the definite command of the Lord, given him by Christ himself on the Damascus road (Acts 26:27), and repeated three days later through Ananias (Acts 9:15). "Saying, I have set thee for a light of the Gentiles." This quotation from Isa. 49:6 shows that the offer of the gospel to the Gentiles was not an outgrowth of any sudden emergency, but was a part of God's age-long plans for the salvation of the entire world. "That thou shouldst be for salvation unto the uttermost part of the earth," on wherever there are souls to save.

this command literally. No region too barren, too inhospitable, too unhealthy, too savage, or too distant of the entire world. "That thou shouldst be for salvation unto the uttermost part of the earth," on wherever there are souls to save.
