CO-OPERATIVE FARM MARKETS ARE DEFENDED

Lynch Davidson in Speech At Nocona Pleads Cause Of Agriculture

MEANS STABILITY

He Says it Is Only Sure Way to Economic Independence

NOCONA, Texas, Aug. 7.—A vigorous defense of co-operative marketing as a means of stabilizing the agricultrual industry was sounded here today by Lynch Davidson of Houston in an address before the annual ex-Confederate reunion. The speaker touched on a wide ad varied field in his remarks on farming generally, particularly in Texas; he warmly lauded the Montague county pioneers who turned out in numbers to hear him; but the scientific marketing of farm products wa sthe topic he dealt with most.

Make it Secure.

"The business of farming, the greatest business of all, is to be made secure bythe individual economic independence of the farmer,' Mr. Davidson declared. "Intelligent and economical methods are essential, but still more essential is a dependable, regular, profitable income from his production. So long as the individual farmer with his sample in his hand peddles his crop from door to door, just that long will the income from his crop be destructively violated and ruination wrought to his business. One single item of Texas farm products—cotton, within a period of less than five years has ranged up and down in price more than 300 per cent.

"Farm marketing scientific salesmanship is the silver lining to the cloud. In its most modern and advance form salesmanship has become science. It is a science of co-operation through corporation. The stockholder buys stock in a corporation—banking, manufacture or 'otherwise'—and immediately becomes a co-operative unit dealing in some particular product and represented by scientific salesmanship.

Forging Ahead.

"Co-operative farm marketing organizations are fighting their feeble way to the front. I do not presume to say that co-operative marketing organizations are cure-alls, but they are at least a nucleus around which efficient scientific salesmanship may be established. It is a self-evidence truth co-operative, co-ordinated or corporare marketing, all meaning more or less the same thing, are a fundamental necessity to the farm producing business. These organizations can only succeed by controling a substantial flow of production. I should say at least 50 per cent and by the same means control the sale of the production of the farm.

"Financing is essential to such control, and I observe with a great deal of pleasure that the co-operative marketing organizations are now adding financing corporations' to their activities.

Would Gain Control.

The speaker asserted that a sales control of output would immediately follow co-operative control of financing production. This, he continued, would result in the farmer's product at least following the law of supply and demand; would regulate the course of his income and would forestall speculative raids upon his revenues.

"Let the business men of the country join the farmer in making the farmer salesman a familiar figure in the marts and markets of the world, and thereby bring to the farmer much needed economic independence," Mr. Davidson concluded. "The world's welfare lies in being your brother's keeper in this needed evolution in the marketing of the nation's agricultural products.

Before launching on his plea for co-operative marketing, the former lieutenant-governor devoted some time to a discussion of states rights. He traced the battles of the early pioneers for liberty and freedom for mankind and then assailed the federal government which sought to arrogate to itself some control in matters primarily those of the state. He characterized the democratic party as "the sole guardian of the right of soverign states to pursue, in their own way, political and economic progress."

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch.
The Useless crutch.

Life is a matter of mind and heart
And not of the years and days.
Whenever you see the sun depart,
Then eastward turn your gaze.
Don't weep so much for the day that's done
You miss the light of the rising sun.
Nor look at life through memory's tears
And miss the joy of the present years.

Life is a matter of mind and heast,
And not of the things we touch,
The world looks kind to the very kind,
To the sad looks sad too much.
There was never a road seemed very long
To the soul that traveled the road with song.
And never a grief too great to bear
If we still believed there was joy somewhere.

Life is a mater of mind and heart,
And not of the days and years,
And the youthful mind looks the youthful part,
And the old the old appears.
So I laugh whenever I get a chance,
Though folks may say, "He's a fool to dance,"
But I say that they are the fools indeed
Who carry a crutch that they do not need.

IOWA PARK MAYOR

Two Cities Destined to Become One Says J. T. Hines to Tech Club

ANTAGONISM GONE

Wichita Falls Men Enjoy Picnic at Iowa Park Friday Evening

IOWA PARK, Aug. 7.—Preaching one big city, which in the words of J. T. Hines, mayor, will be the natural outcome of a year or so more of residence building and development along the Iowa Park-Wichita Falls highway, the Iowa Park chamber of commerce was host to the Technical club of Wichita Falls at a picnic and inspection trip at the experiment farm southeast of this city this evening.

"It is merely a matter of time until we'll have one big city here," J. T. Hines, mayor of Iowa Park, told the visitors. "The last year or so has seen a large number of new residences and business houses spring up along the highway between our community here and your city over there. With these houses and stores that highway has taken on an urban aspect and the time is sure to come when it will be impossible to distinguish where Wichita Falls ends and Iowa Park begins.

Glad to See It.

"And for my part, and I believe I speak on behalf of most of Iowa Park's business men, I will be glad to see that come. It will mean a greater Iowa Park just as it will mean a greater Wichita Falls."

The mayor's sentiments were echoed by Tom Corridan, cashier of the First National bank of Iowa Park, and the first white child born in that city. His earliest memories, he said, were of the feeling of antagonism that Iowa Park had for Wichita Falls. Wichita Falls was county seat of Wichita county when Iowa Park should have been—so they thought back in those days, Mr. Corridan said. "Later I started to work in Wichita Falls," he continued, "and suddenly discovered that all of that antagonism was at Iowa Park. Wichita Falls was too busy building a city to think about fighting anybody. Iowa Park's present prosperity, I think, and its future welfare is due very largely to the friendship and good will that exists for it in Wichita Falls. This is probably best demonstrated by the bond issue of $4,500,000 of a few years ago for the irrigation project, from which Iowa Park has and will always derive the greatest benefit.

Rain Doesn't Hurt Party.

The Technical club was slated for a picnic at Lake Kemp on July 29, but was rained out. Tonight's picnic at the experiment farm faced rain also, but due to the efforts of a committee composed of Ernest Burk, Bob Anglin and Earl C. Wilson, superintendent of the experiment farm, failure was averted and it was made a great success. About fifty Wichitans were guests at the affair, which included a picnic and inspection tour of the farm.

The visitors were shown the farm, an agricultural laboratory covering something like 160 acres of land. As explained by Mr. Wilson, superintendent, the farm is purely an experiment station where failures are oftentimes intended. It was a unanimous expression of the visitors, however, that the crops were in splendid condition, nevertheless.

Picnic Follows.

The picnic followed the inspection tour just north of the station. A cafeteria lunch was served by the Boy Scouts of Iowa Park. Melons grown on the farm itself were among the things offered the visitors.

Music was furnished by Miss Katherine Sule Ralston and Miss Thelma Matthews, who sang and accompanied themselves on ukeleles.

Members of the Iowa Park chamber of commerce who helpcl to make the visit of the Wichitans a success were H. T. Danner, president; D. C. Smith, A. H. Smith, Dr. Frank Clark, J. C. Hines, mayor; Tom Corridan, C. C. Hudson, editor of the Iowa Park Herald; Sam B. Jack and Ellis McKinney.

Bob Anglin was toastmaster for Iowa Park, while Dr. A. H. Douglas was in charge of the Wichitans.

HUSBAND HELD FOR BRUTALLY SLAYING WIFE

Man Near Beaumont Admits Beating Her And Then Firing Gun

BEAUMONT, Aug. 7.—A body brutally beaten and shot through the back, Mrs. Sam Hair, about 25, was found in a dying condition in a log cabin nine miles north of Silsbee about 7 o'clock this morning. She died two hours later as physicians attended her, and her husband, Sam Hair, surrendered to officers several hours afterwards, as an inquest was being held over the body.

Characterized by Sheriff G. C. Gardner of Hardin county as the most brutal murder ever committed in the county, the killing, according to the husband's statement, took place following a quarrel the pair had early this morning. Hair freely told all the details. He beat his wife with a chair and then flung her against the log walls of the cabin, tearing a deep gash in her head, he told officers. When this failed to end her life, he said, he took up his gun and shot her through the back. CONTROL OVER AFRICA FRENCH DREAM, CHARGE

Italian Facist Senator Makes Charge Against Neighbor Nation

AS GERMAN "KULTUR"

Says France Is Armed Now Like Germany Was Yesterday

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug 7.—(AP)—A declaration that a great dream of supremacy in northern Africa dominates French policy, and that France by a system of slow absorption is attempting to suppress the free Italian nationality in Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco, was made by Count Antonio Cippico, Italian facist senator in a lecture at the institute of politics tonight. He charged that France had failed to observe her conventions with Italy regarding Tunisia and was trying to enforce her moral supremacy upon the world as Germany tried to enforce "kultur."

"The formula of the moral superiority of France is resented by many but it will perhaps be accepted by some so long as France is today the most formidably armed nation of the continent of Europe," he said. He criticized the "social contract" of Rousseau as tending to level down the spiritual, intellectual and physical differences of individuals under the brutal rule by numbers. This theory of nationality was being pursued by France today in her program of continental and eastern expansion, he said, and might one day prove an obstacle to her own interests in the "little entente" which she conceived and formed.

"Yesterday," he continued, "Germany was armed so as to carry through her program of cultural hegemony. Today it is France, who by the armed peace of her presumed historical mission, tries to enforce her moral supremacy upon the world."

Youth Shoots Parents; Says "Not Awake"

ALLISON, Iowa, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The strange story of a youth, who while "not fully awake," last night shot and killed his father the Rev. R. P. Vandervoort, Methodist Episcopal pastor at Parkersburg and wounded his mother was told here late today by the slayer, Warren Vandervoort, 17 years old.

Constant Quarrels

In a written statement to Henry W. Burma, sheriff of Butler county, Vandervoort recited details of constant family quarrels, the purchase of a 22 calibre rifle. The shooting of first his father and then his mother, when she appeared at the doorway of her bedroom to learn the cause of the first shot, his sudden "awakening" and his attempt at a getaway.

He was formally charged with first degree manslaughter here today and will be lodged in the county jail until the October term of court opens.

Vandervoort said in his confession that he believes his mother's mind was diseased which was the reason she quarreled with her husband and son. He insisted that he and his father had been good friends.

He graduated from the Parkersburg high school last spring, was considered one of the brightest boys in the class and had planned to enter Cornell college this fall.

Bought Rifle

Yesterday afternoon Vandervoort said he purchased a rifle at the store and hid it in the house. A violent quarrel at the supper table ensued when the mother "suspected something" and during the course of the bickering she declared that she wished she were dead. A few minutes later Rev. Vandervoort made the same statement.

After the family had retired the boy, who sleeps in a tent on the lawn, crept upstaris armed with the rifle. He shot and killed his father who was in the hallway and when his mother appeared at the doorway of the bedroom shot her in the temple.

"I was not fully awake," he insists in his written confession, "to know what I was doing, although I know that is no excuse.

Tried to Get Away

"When I had done it, I woke up and my first thought was to get away from those awful figures on the floor" he said.

When arrested this morning he said that another man had done the shooting and that he had been forced to accompany the murderer but said he gave up this story when advised to make a "clean breast of it."

Warren is an only child and members of the family have been noted for their devotion to each other, Parkersburg residents declared today.

WRIT GRANTED BY MARTIN ON COUNTY'S PLEA

Action Directed at Jim Irwin on Iowa-Park-Clara Road

NEW BOOZE WAR STEP

Hearing Will be Held To Make Injunction a Permanent One

The first padlock injunction to be issued in Wichita county against alleged bootlegging houses was signed Friday afternoon by Judge P. A. Martin of the Eighty-ninth district court. It was applied for by George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, and names Jim Irwin as defendant. Irwin's place of business is set out as being on the Iowa Park-Clara road, about three-quarters of a mile from Iowa Park.

Under its provisions the place, which is alleged to be "a house where intoxicating liquors are kept for the purpose of sale" must be closed immediately pending a hearing to make the injunction permanent. The district attorney's office will seek to padlock the doors for a period of one year; or require the owner to perfect heavy bond forfeitable at any time proof is offered of intoxicants being kept there. The hearing on the permanent injunction will be held in a short time.

For Immediate Service

Anderson stated last night after the order was signed that it would be turned over to Sheriff Fred K. Smith for immediate service.

That this first order is but the forerunner of a number of others to be sought by the district attorney's office was indicated by Mr. Anderson. No more injunction applications are as yet ready for presentation to the courts, he said, but work is under way on additional ones and these are to be formally filed within a few days it is understood. All are expected to include the "padlock clause."

Asked as to how many such injunctions he contemplated filing Mr. Anderson said he did not know definitely but that "there will be a lot of them, you may be assured of that."

Latest Booze Fight

Enforcement of the injunction clauses is the most drastic step yet taken by officers in their campaign against liquor traffic. A series of raids on roadhouses in and around the city have resulted in closing of a number of such places where whiskey and beer is alleged to have been dispensed; but these have had only a temporary effect. The court order, however, makes handling of any kind of whiskey a precarious occupation and if properly enforced can be the means of absolutely locking up those houses against the rule is directed.

Place Is Raided

A two-hour search in which officers literally raked the place with a fine tooth comb was rewarded Friday morning in finding by city police of what they said was three quarts of corn whiskey in the White Elephant soft drink parlor at Seventh and Ohio streets. Two men were arrested and charges were later filed in federal district court here against J. B. Davis and E. A. Ketchum. Charges of possession of whiskey were alleged in the complaint.

The raid by the police was made when a man was seen going into the place with a bundle under his arm. The institution had been under serveliance for some time and has been visited frequently by officers who have been unable to find anything on which to base evidence.

Yesterday, however, they went to work on an exhaustive search and finally located what they were looking for hidden behind a cleverly constructed double wall in a back room. The place was so constructed that a container could be hidden almost instantly; with assurance that it could escape detection in anything but a minute search.

Gasoline Consumption Takes Mammoth Strides

Figures Show 1925 27 1-2 Per Cent Better Than 1924

GOOD YEAR SO FAR

Mid-Continent Shows Better Than 35 Per Cent Increase

In an analysis of the trend of gasoline consumption the Western Petroleum Refiners association reveals some interesting facts.

It says in part: "The trend of United States demand seems to be quite accurately shown by the figures for 32 great consuming states for which inspection figures are available, and the following small table presents some interesting comparisons of the tendencies of the various geographical groups of states:

Percentage increases in gasoline consumption, corresponding periods 1925 over 1924.

District—	Jan. to Mar.	Jan. to Apr.	Jan. to May.
Southeastern	25.15	27.09	28.95
Northeastern	19.51	20.75	18.35

Total 32 states	27.39	28.09	27.50
United States domestic demand	27.74	28.84	27.53

The consumption of gasoline during the first five months of 1925 was 27 1-2 per cent greater than during the same period of 1924. The five Mid-Continent states made an increase of 35 1-2 per cent. It is as good, if not better, than by all the other 27 western states whos percentage increase was 24 1-2 per cent.

The good export business that Mid-Continent refiners enjoyed during April and May had a great deal to do with the splendid showing of this group.

Mayfield Objects to Congress Aiding the Farmers of Country

DALLAS, Aug. 7.—Opposition to various measures that have been introduced in congress during the past few years to bring relief to farmers was expressed today by Senator Earle B. Mayfield, speaking before the Cotton States Protective league.

The effect of every measure introduced was to create a central board at Washington to control marketing of products, he said.

"I believe the farmers of America are capable of managing their own business, and if agriculture is made successful, the farmers must manage their business from planting time until their products reach the consumer."

GAS-CRUDE PRICES CUT

Gasoline Prices Lowered

One of Oklahoma's largest refiners and a big manufacturer of gasolines has reduced its motor fuel prices from one-fourth to three-fourths of a cent a gallon and the reports to that firm indicate that the action broke the buying lethargy that has held Group 3 for some weeks. Increased sales are reported by other refineries who have accepted the action of the larger refiner. Fuel and gas oils are reported very active with prices strengthening.

Bellevue Crude Cut

The increase in appropriations was due largely to the opening of a large new high school, enlargement of some of the older building and establishment of a school department of health.

"BOOZY" ODOR CLINGING OVER PICKFORD CASE

Defense Attorneys Still After The So-Called "Publicity Plot"

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—(AP)—An odor of strong drink still clung to the Mary Pickford kidnaping case as defense attorneys prepared to resume at today's sessions of the trial their attack on what they called the "publicity plot" that caused Charles Stephens, Claud Holcomb and Adrian Wood to be indicted for conspiracy to kidnap and hold Miss Pickford for a $200,000 ransom.

Stephens testified yesterday that Louis Geck, a police informer, was always eager to discuss the possibility of kidnaping Mary Pickford, Jackie Coogan or some other screen celebrity; so eager that he habitually supplied liquor to help the conversation along.

On the night that detectives overheard him and his co-defendants indulging "in kidnaping talk" in a hotel room, Stephens said Louis Geck was there with a bottle and the bottle made it easier to listen to Geck while he discoursed on the value of Miss Pickford as a kidnaping victim.

And on the day he was arrested near the Pickford studio, the witness added Geck was with him, because Geck had persuaded him to drive to the studio "to see a friend."

Holcomb and Wood were expected to testify today.

Veteran News Butcher Saves Money For Rainy Day But Need Not Have

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 7.—(AP)—For 35 years or more Harry Mitten traveled on railroads out of Kansas City, dispensing papers, magazines, fruits and other commodities handled by "news butchers."

Last night as he was returning to the single room that has been his home for many years he was stricken with heart failure and died on the street before aic could reach him. He was 75 years old.

Jay McKay, local manager of the company that has employed Mitten, declared he must have traveled more than a million miles. He added that "saving his money for his old age" was Mittens' hobby. According to Mittens' attorney, he leaves between $10,000 and $15,000 in stocks and bonds, the result of long and careful saving.

Only in recent years had Mitten made short runs. He used to take 1,000-mile trips, particularly on the Rock Island lines.

NEGRO HANGED FROM TREE BY MISSOURI MOB

Former Scene of Jesse James Depredations Has Lynching

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A mob of a thousand persons lynched Walter Mitchell, negro, here late today for an alleged attack about midnight last night on a young white girl in the country several miles from here. The mob obtained entrance to the city hall, in which the jail is located, by the ruse of a false fire alarm, and dragged the negro through the main streets, past the fashionable Elms hotel to a a place about a mile south of town, where he was hanged to an oak tree.

Beats Black Off.

The alleged attack occurred last night while the girl was being taken to her country home by Leonard Utt. Several miles from town the negro jumped on the running board of their car and brandished a flashlight with which he struck Utt in the mouth, rendering him temporarily unconscious. The negro then forced the girl into the rear of the car where he attempted to attack her but was beaten off. Frightened by her cries, the negro ran toward Excelsior Springs. The police traced the negro early today by his tracks. They found him asleep in the small house where he lives. Nearby lay the flash light. Utt identified him at once and the young woman did later. When news of the identification spread, a crowd formed about the jail, where Mitchell had been taken. There were threats, but no violence as the crowd was without a leader. Chief of Police J. F. Craven and eight or ten deputies guarded Mitchell and attempted to disperse the crowd. An attempt by the officers to remove Mitchell by way of a basement door proved futile, for part of the mob was guarding that exit.

Not until a false fire alarm was turned in was there any attempt on the part of the mob to storm the building, said Chief Craven. From the fire department room housing only a truck, a door leads into another large room, from which entrance is made to the cell room of the jail. When the large outside door was opened for the truck the mob poured in. One man with a sledge hammer battered down the door leading to the cell room and smashed the lock from the cell. The negro, already in handcuffs, was dragged from the building amid shouts of "burn him!"

Aid Is Too Late.

Down Thompson avenue, the main street of this little resort town, women and children in its wake. Past the Elms hotel, where guests crowded the verandas, the negro was dragged and on out into the open country. A rope was procured on the way and upon arrival at an oak tree about a mile from town, a man shinned up the tree, tossed the rope over a limb and five other men pulled the negro into the air. Fifty policemen from Kansas City, armed with riot guns, arrived at the hanging about fifteen minutes too late. They cut down the body and turned it over to the coroner. Tonight Clay county, scene of many a stirring crime in the days when Jesse James held forth, was quiet. The streets of Excelsior Springs had taken on their usual nightly appearance, with groups of vacationists strolling about. In the meantime authorities were conducting an investigation in an effort to learn the identity of leaders and members of the mob.

Schools at Burk to Open September 14

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 7.—Announcement was made here today that the Burkburnett public school will begin on Sept. 14, with an enrollment of 2,000 pupils.

The newly elected superintendent, W. B. Hogg and his corps of about 65 teachers will be in attendance at the county teachers' institute which will be held the week before to the opening of schools here.

The general prospects are good for a most successful year.

J. E. Woodward, the former superintendent for the past seven years has accepted the same position in Brownwood, and is moving this week with his family to that city.

CAL LETS IT ALONE.

Indications Are That President Will Keep Out of the Fight.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 7.—Strong indications were given today at the summer White House that President Coolidge does not intend to become involved at least for the present in the anthracite wage controversy.

Efforts to obtain comment on the situation from the executive failed, and the inference was given that despite the break in negotiations between operators and miners with expiration of the present wage scale less than a month away, he is still hopeful that an agreement will be reached without a move on the part of the government.

Woman Wanted Slender Ankles, But Loses Both Legs Intead, Files Suit

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—(AP) Suit for $500,000 damages was filed here yesterday against Doctors E. W. Littlefield and James L. Chapman, plastic surgeons, by Mrs. Helene C. Herrington, widow of Bert Herrington, a noted criminal lawyer.

In her complaint Mrs. Herrington states that the defendants attempted to remove superfluous flesh from her ankles, but that she came out of the operation with a bad case of infection instead of the slender ankles she sought and that it finally became necessary to amputate both her legs. This, she alleges, was due to the negligence of the surgeons.

Mrs. Herrington's husband was prominent as a criminal lawyer. He defended Clara Phillips, so-called "hammer murdress" of Alberta Tremaine Meadows, and died suddenly shortly after her conviction.

MONKEY LAW INJUNCTION IS ASKED FRIDAY

New Test of Bill to Come Up in Near Future At Hearing

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A petition for a temporary restraining order against officials of the state of Tennessee and others enjoining them from the enforcement of the Tennessee anti-evolution law, was filed in United States district court here today by attorneys representing Robert Wilson of Rhea Springs, Tenn., a tax payer of the state.

The petitioner declares that he is the father of five children who attend the public schools and that under the provisions of the Tennessee statute he cannot properly educate them in the modern sciences because he insists that the evolution theory is an inseparable link in the teaching of modern sciences.

It is also insisted that, being a tax payer and contributor to the public school fund of Tennessee he is being deprived of liberty and without due process of law. It is claimed that the act violates the constitution of Tennessee and of the United States and particularly section one of the constitution of the United States.

Governor Austen Peay, Frank M. Thompson, attorney general for Tennessee and A. T. Stewart prosecuting attorney of Rhea county are made defendants in the bill. Solicitors signing the petition are Dr. John R. Neal of Rhea Spring, Clarence Darrow of Chicago, Frank B. McElwee of Rockwood, Tenn., and Bainbridge Colby of New York.

OFFICERS FAIL IN EFFORT TO SOLVE MURDER

Relatives of Man Claim It Was Not Murder; Little Known

MARTINEZ, Calif., Aug. 7.—(AP) A mystery that is almost uncanny continued today to surround the explosion and fire which occurred more than a week ago at the Pacific Cellulose company in which Charles Henry Schwartz, heavily insured chemist, disappeared immediately after the charred body of an unidentified man was found in the wrecked laboratory of the plant at Walnut Creek.

Nothing Found.

Today a week ago, new clues and evidence were brought to light and were destined to lead to the same result—an abrupt ending neither indicating the whereabouts of the missing chemist or the identification of the burned corpse which still rests in the San Francisco morgue.

Standing in the foreground of every avenue of investigation is the phantom figure of Schwartz, a German chemist, who studied at Hiedelberg. In Walnut Creek he was the central figure in a corporation which depended upon him to perfect a process for the manufacture of artificial silk. As a hobby he dabbled in a study of the "perfect crime" and although a man of family, he was recently made defendant in a $75,000 breach of promise suit filed by an Oakland girl.

Today his wife, his family physician and his intimate friends insist that he was blown to bits while experimenting in his laboratory.

Wanted for Murder.

The official viewpoint is represented by a complaint charging Schwartz with the murder of an unknown person killed in the explosion, in rewards posted for his apprehension, and in an appeal to Governor Richardson to increase the price on Schwartz' head.

Each bit of information has been minutely investigated and several men have been given the role as the victim, but the supposed dead man has reappeared or it was discovered that he did not fit into the part. Other clues are still in hand, however, which may lead to the apprehension of the identification of the body, but virtually all evidence is fragmentary.

OHIO MAN ELECTROCUTED

PAROLED NEGRO CONDEMNED

Black in Chicago Sentenced to Be Hanged

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Campbell McCarthy, a negro, was today sentenced to be hanged Oct. 16 for the killing last May of Christian Getzen, a watchman. Asked if he had anything to say, McCarthy replied:

"It was his life or mine. He pulled his gun, but I beat him to it."

McCarthy had been paroled from the penitentiary only three months before the killing.

POLITICAL SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

Those who are gifted in the way of watching the political barometer are able to read the political signs of the times. Robert M. La Follette organized the Third Party. He called it the Progressive or People's Party. He predicted that it would cut a wide swath in the coming years and in time supplant one of the ancient political organizations. His guess was that the democratic party would perish and the La Follette party would be the liberal party of America.

La Follette had behind him the Big Four Railway Brotherhoods. Warren S. Stone was his friend. Warren S. Stone was the man who had made the Big Four Brotherhoods almost invincible. He had behind him thousands of organized workmen who sympathized with the demands of the brotherhood. He had behind him the American Socialist Party with a membership of a million. This was only last year.

Now La Follette is dead, Stone is dead, the American Socialists led by Eugene Debs have cut loose from the Third Party and will go it alone in the future, the Big Four Railway organizations have declared against independent political action in future and lastly the American Federation of Labor has decided to return to its own political program—that is its members will vote for candidates who are friendly to the cause of labor and its demands but will not affiliate with a third party movement in coming campaigns.

Death is the great scene shifter. He takes his toll and he takes it without playing favorites. Samuel Gompers was dragged into the La Follette movement by the more radical of his lieutenants. For almost forty years he had guided the American Federation of Labor against independent political action. Now Samuel Gompers, perhaps the greatest of labor leaders that America has known, is no more. In less than a year two of the greatest political idols of America have passed away and they were preceded on that journey across the styx by two idols of the wage workers of this greatest of republics.

Now the death knell of the party founded by La Follette has sounded by the labor chieftains who stepped into the vacant shoes of Warren S. Stone and Samuel Gompers. There is no great third party camped on the firing line. There are no battle scarred leaders of independent political thought left on the firing line. Unless the signs of the times are most misleading the two ancient political organizations of America will battle for supremacy in the congressional elections next year and will be face to face in another gladiatorial struggle in the presidential year of 1928.

There are no emotional political evangelists of gigantic mould and golden tongue to arouse the passions and the prejudices of the people. All ready the die has been cast for the republicans. Calvin Coolidge will be their standard bearer. Now who will carry the standard of the ancient party to Jefferson? Who will be the Moses to lead the democrats out of the wilderness? Or will they find a Moses in the near future?

When Roosevelt died his legions disappeared. When Wilson died his warriors deserted the firing line. When La Follette died his independent party went to pieces. When Gompers died there was brief eulogies and now his name is not mentioned in the newspapers. Eugene V. Debs is the last of old guard fighters who has decorated the national stage of action for more than thirty years. He has been dying for twenty years. He has been jailed for his convictions. He has been crucified and then cauterized by a hostile press and pulpit and public. He has been branded as all men are branded who preach the doctrine of Karl Marx in this western world. He was a young man when William Jennings Bryan, Theodore Roosevelt and Robert M. La Follette were young men. He carried the flag of the socialist party as its presidential standard bearer in four campaigns. He carried it knowing that he was going to defeat. He was sent to prison in war time and Woodrow Wilson refused to pardon him.

Warren G. Harding came in. He paroled the grim chieftian of the American socialists and when he was paroled eminent doctors said that Debs was dying in his prison cell. Isn't this a mysterious old world? All the great political actors, all the great labor chieftians, contemporary with Eugene V. Debs are dead and some of them are almost forgotten.

But this isn't the way the tale began. Third parties have come and gone. Now the party founded by Thomas Jefferson and the party founded by Abraham Lincoln remain the great majority and minority parties of America. The republicans have their Moses. Now it is the mission of the high priests of democracy to find a Moses.

NORRIS ON THE WAR PATH.

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska is opposed to the repeal of the federal inheritance tax. Senator Norris is a republican but there are times when he is as untractable as an unbroken colt running wild on the prairie. President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon, Congressman Martin B. Madden and all the regular republican lawmakers are for the repeal of the inheritance tax. Norris does not dispense the patronage of Nebraska. He may see the light later along. President Coolidge holds many fat places at the public crib. He may let Norris in. There are many ways to tempt men of t - Norris tribe. Patronage is one of the ways.

BIG SUGAR CROP.

Porto Rico will produce a crop of sugar of more than 650,000 tons this year, the greatest in the history of the island. By the way when is Porto Rico to be made an American state? This was the pledge given more than twenty years ago.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

The Two Pillars.

Another storm of words has subsided.

Again men have argued themselves hoarse, made themselves ridiculous, in a violent dispute over the fundamentals of existence.

And again the two pillars of civilization, religion and science stand as firm and serene as the pyramids have stood after the sand storms of thousands of years have swept over them.

Let us be glad today that the bitterness that is still aroused when people become excited over matters of belief now takes the form of oratory and the peaceful precedure of lawmaking bodies and the courts of law.

It was different not so long ago. It was different in the time when the Founder of the greatest of all religions suffered the death penalty in a hideous form because He was more progressive in His belief than were the men of His time.

Even the fundamentalists, who believe that there has been no change in conditions of thought since the Mossaic law was laid down, will have to admit that science has abated religious wars.

Men may now meet and discuss religions without bloodshed.

They still become excited, it is true. They still belabor each other with words; they still heap ridicule on one another.

But they leave lethal weapons at home.

The charge that the people who cried out on the doctrine of evolution wanted to bridge religious freedom as did the fanatics of old is not true. They would never think of killing one another in order to enforce their belief.

And science, which means knowledge, has done that.

Through science men have learned more about the wonders of the world they live in and have gained more reverence for the Creator of life than they could possibly have had when they did not understand an iota of the majesty of the universe.

A being which could create unlimited sidereal systems, whose works compass all space—far beyond the imagination of man to think of is surely a greater being than one who could merely build a world in seven days, and fix the sun and the stars and the moon immovable in the firmament.

Men have begun to think, and as they think they study and investigate.

Study and investigation brings them face to face with mysteries and miracles far beyond any that were dreamed of in the days when they fought bitterly over differences of doctrine.

Today science, which is knowledge of what exists—as far as such knowledge can be gained—stands side by side with religion, which is veneration for the author of life, to support our civilization.

There will be other disputes, other fantastic evolution trials, other school teachers disciplined by communities which prefer to remain in darkness.

But gradually these will subside.

And day by day, year by year, century by century science and religion together will work to solve the mysteries that still remain unsolved, until the mind of man is far more divine, and far more truly religious than it is today.

SARGENT AND HIS PAINTINGS.

John Singer Sargent was an American born artist. He could not find fortune and fame at home and for this reason he spent the greater part of his life abroad. No, not American born, but an American because his parents were Americans as he was born under the sunny skies of Italy.

John Singer Sargent became one of the noted portrait painters of the world. When he died those familiar with his private affairs estimated the fortune that he left behind him at $200,000. And then there came a sale of his sketches, his pictures and copies that he had made of famous art treasures which hung on the walls of the galleries of Europe. As far as prices were concerned this auction sale of Sargent pictures established a new high record. More than a million dollars were handed over to the auctioneer by the greedy buyers who flocked from all corners of the earth.

Governor Allie Fuller of Massachusetts invested sixty thousand dollars in three small paintings. There were collectors from New York who went almost crazy in their eagerness to add to their collections. And so it happened that the artist in his life time had amassed a comfortable fortune. And so it happened that after the death of the artist more than a million dollars were added to that fortune by collectors the wide world over who had the money to buy.

Many of them did not know what they were buying. They knew that in the future they could point to their treasures and say to their friends, "It is a Sargent." This because they love art for the sake of art. Money talks the world over and Americans with their bags of golden coin are capturing the art treasures of all foreign lands. 'Tis well. We are a nation of art lovers and the Europeans are mere barbarians.

COTTON IS KING.

A cotton crop only 36 per cent normal in Central Texas, and 43 per cent in Southwest Texas; a state-wide cotton crop of 57 per cent normal with a prospective yield of only 3,450,000 bales, was predicted by State Agricultural Commissioner George B. Terrel Satuday, based on reports from agents in every cotton producing county of the state.

A corn yield of 41 per cent average, the shortest in many years, was also reported to him by the state survey.

Texas produced 4,951,389 bales of cotton last year.

Commissioner Terrell predicted a national cotton crop of thirteen and one-half million bales this year, and estimated 25 cents should be the minimum price for this year's crop.

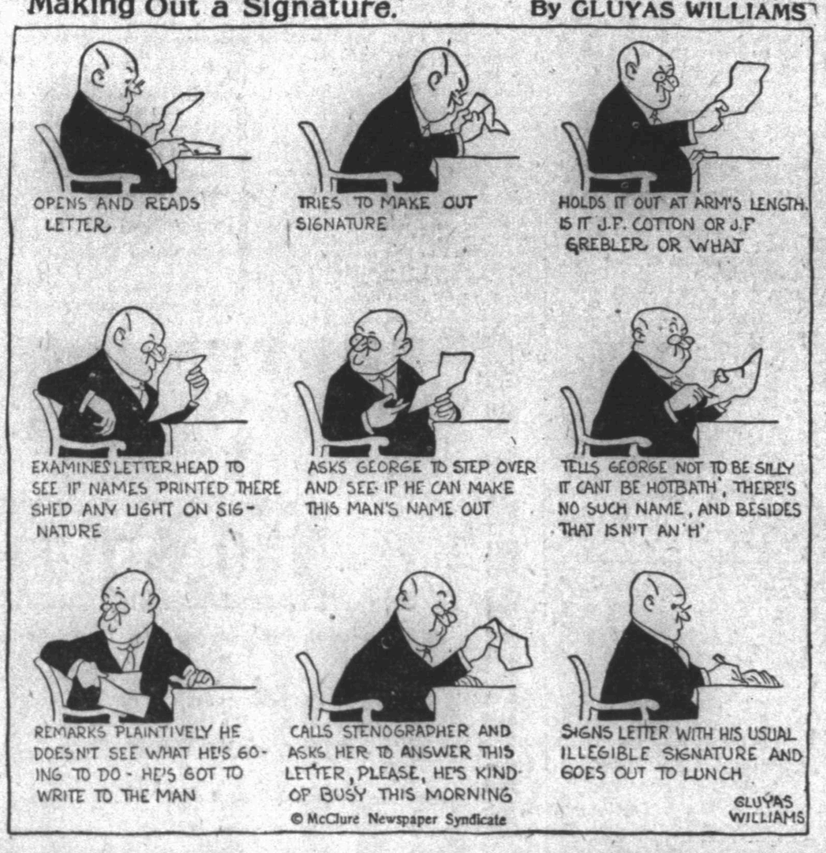

As a proposal to remedy drouth area conditions, Commissioner Terrell suggested allotment of funds for highway work and other public work to provide labor in the drouth stricken area. Such steps would keep the farmers on the farms ready to grow another crop, he said.

Terrell said his reports judicated the following prospective yields of cotton by districts: Eastern, 73 per cent normal; northern, 70 per cent normal; western, 58 per cent normal; northwestern 67 per cent normal; central, 36 per cent normal; southwestern, 43 per cent; average 57 per cent. Yield in bales for each section last year was: Eastern, 656,466; northern, 847,470; western, 453,945; northwestern, 892,882; central, 1,485,529; southwestern, 616,097.

Important changes in the cotton crop prospect may develop according to the turn of August weather, Terrel said. Texas is Texas.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

Leo.

Today's planetary aspects are very favorable, and the vibrations stimulating. In all fields of endeavor or enterprise, success is practically assured. In business, good fortune awaits the action you take. In sports, you will triumph today where before you failed. In the home and social circle, there will be neither disappointment nor chagrin. It is an exceptionally auspicious opportunity for the "plighting of troths," or for marriage. Any engagement entered into today will end in quick and happy mating; all those who wed today are, according to the signs, assured of a partnership that will yield a large net income of contentment and love.

A boy born today will be physically strong and healthy, and the few ailments from which he may suffer need cause neither anxiety or alarm. On the other hand, a girl will show signs of weakness and debility, but given regular care and proper nutrition, she will attain a normal womanhood. They both will be blessed with pleasing dispositions, but they will be more lazy than studious or industrious. They will not be ambitious, but will show every evidence of being satisfied with conditions as they are, and, above all, with themselves. In spite of a disclination to work or to persevere, they will be happy and lead contented lives.

If today is your birthday, you have remarkable intuitive powers, and, as a result of the invariable correctness of your judgment, you are looked upon by your friends as something of an oracle. You also possess a very persasive manner, both in act and speech, that enables you to make others see as you see and think as you think. If to these two very valuable ingredients of either social or business success, you would add energy and persistency, much could be accomplished. You, however, are lakadaisical and very keen to put it off till tomorrow what should be done today. You have all the fundamentals of success, except perseverance, without which nothing worth while is obtainable.

Successful people born on this date are:

HOW IT STARTED

"Kicking the Bucket"

Not everybody who is dead has kicked the bucket; not everybody who has died by his own hand has kicked the bucket, though in the process some of them have kicked over other things. This is no attempt to proselytize—it is not a revelation of the after-life. It is simply an explanation of how it started.

The term has come down to us for every method of leaving this world for the next. The particular means which popularized it, however, was introduced hundreds of years ago by one Belzeber, who, having lost his reasoning, decided to commit suicide by hanging himself. In looking around for a support over which to throw his rope he found a beam so high over his head that it was necessary to stand on something in order to reach it. The nearest thing happened to be a bucket, which served the purpose very well. After completing the necessary operations the poor man actually and verily kicked the bucket.

IRRIGATION

Fencing the Road to Lake Kemp.

In a recent article we told how the irrigation district had to buy from Mr. Waggoner the right of way for a road 60 feet wide from Maybelle to the dam at Lake Kemp.

They had to provide this road because the lake would submerge and destroy a section of the highway connecting the towns of Seymour and Vernon.

The cost of the land was probably the smallest item of expense in connection with this new road. The largest was the grading cost. The whole road had to be graded and put in first class shape for heavy travel.

During the construction of the dam the hauling of materials used at the dam was done over the prairie, and the grade was not built until the big dam was practically complete.

The contract between the irrigation district and Mr. Waggoner calls forthe fencing of this highway. The particular paragraph covering it reads about as follows:

"In addition thereto the irrigation district shall fence both sides of the road with a substantial stock proof wire fence which shall be maintained by the irrigation district during the time of the construction of the dam."

The road was not fenced during the construction period. Only recently Mr. Waggoner notified the irrigation district that they would have to carry out their part of the contract and fence this highway.

FORMER SENATOR DIES.

Retired Judge U. S. Circuit Appeal Court Succumbs.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 7.—George Gray, former United States senator from Delaware and retired judge of the United States circuit court of appeals, died at his home at 4:15 p. m. today. He was 85 years old.

It was a stubborn tussel that took all her knowledge of horsemanship to maintain, and strength and patience were both nearly exhausted before the end. But humoring and coaxing, managing him with consummate skill, she drew her horse at last to a stand and waited for the valet to come up with her. Beaten, but unrepentant, Eblis stood as quietly as his restless nature permitted, snorting his disgust and pawing the soft sand while Diana mopped her heated brow, watching the fast-approaching Spahis who were near enough now for her to distinguish their features.

Riding tall, wiry horses of almost incredible thinness, picturesque in flapping scarlet cloaks and snowy turbans bound round with fold upon fold of twisted camel's hair, they were both broad shouldered, well built specimens of their race, looking bigger than they really were in the loose, ill-fitting blue uniforms that, creased and travel stained, bore evidence of a long journey. Heavily armed, though bandoleers and accoutrements were not wholly innocent of string, they presented a sufficiently formidable appearance; but Diana could see that they were stooping in the saddle with weariness, and that the hard-pushed horses were almost spent.

They drew rein with the usual dramatic suddenness and one of them dismounted stiffly. Reeling with fatigue, his bronzed face a mask of dust and sand, he walked up to Diana and saluted with military smartness.

Perfectly aware, apparently, of her identity, he inquired for the Sheik, and, learning of his absence, promptly tendered a dispatch which he drew from the inside of his tunic.

Wrestling with Eblis, who was wheeling and shrieking defiance to the two strange horses who were too tired to answer him, Diana took the letter and asked a few kindly questions before she rode on, leaving Gaston to direct the exhausted Spahis to the camp.

She slipped the packet into the pocket of her coat. It could wait, and she knew without reading it whom it was from, had also a pretty shrewd idea as to its contents. There was another similar dispatch lying on her writing desk that had come four months ago, only a few days after the Sheik's departure. She could but deal with this one as she had dealt with the last. She was unable herself to cope with the situation that had arisen. She could only wait for Ahmed's return—and oh, dear God, when would that be!

Trouble crept back into the deep blue eyes that saw no longer anything of the beauty of the surrounding country nor the glory of the setting sun, and her heart was heavy with dread as she fought again with the fears that crowded into her tortured and imaginative brain. Strong and resourceful above the average, she knew him to be—but he had gone alone, and what would even his abnormal strength avail him if. . . . She shuddered violently and a great sob burst from her.

The sound of it horrified her—she had not realized how near she had come to the breaking point—and she clenched her teeth, forcing herself to calmness.

She would not give way. She would not allow herself to think. To distract her mind she turned to Gaston, who had at last overtaken her, and waved him alongside.

"Where have they come from, Gaston?"

"From Touggourt, Madame."

She looked at him inquiringly.

"Is the general, then, at Touggourt?"

"Yes, Madame."

Her thoughts flew to the son who was waiting at the garrison town.

"Any trouble there?" she asked, striving to keep her voice steady.

Gaston shrugged slightly. "A few local disturbances, Madame. Nothing of any real moment. Dissatisfaction with the new tax—and a small Touareg raid."

"Touaregs, so far north!" Diana exclaimed incredulously.

Gaston shrugged again, disallowing any personal responsibility for the statement.

"So they said, Madame," he replied dryly. "But Madame knows what they are, they will say anything, ces gens la! As for Touaregs——" he laughed softly as if the idea amused him. "There are plenty of malcontents who will risk something to annoy the government, or for their own ends. The black veil is useful sometimes, Madame," he added significantly.

His meaning was obvious and Diana smiled as she turned her horse's head homewards. "Useful, perhaps," she commented, "but awkward for the masquerader should he meet with the genuine article."

But Gaston, who had a disturbing recollection of having once caught a glimpse of his young master arrayed in the peculiar dress of the redoubtable and unconquered tribe under discussion, was not desirous of continuing a conversation that might lead to unexpected revelations.

Madame was sufficiently troubled by Monseigneur's absence. It would be a crime to add to her trouble by allowing her a deeper insight into the imprudences and diableries of Monsieur Ahmed. Somewhat she knew already—but not as much as Monseigneur, not as much as he, Gaston, knew. And there was no need that she should know. Monsieur Ahmed was young, and full of life and strength. Some day he would be older and wiser, would turn his back—please God—on the youthful follies that perhaps, were very largely due to natural high spirits seeking an outlet, and to environment. It was a wild life, this desert one, that was full of temptations, full of pitfalls. And, after all, he was only a boy, a lovable, mischevious, thoughtless boy. There was time enough yet for him to learn the stern necessities of life.

So, with these thoughts in his mind, the devoted little Frenchman plunged straightway into simple home topics and chatted continuously as the horses raced neck and neck towards the camp.

He was a born raconteur with a shrewd insight into character and a dryly humorous way of expressing his opinions and today, in his keen desire to distract his mistress's thoughts, he surpassed himself, giving her a dramatic and highly original account of a petty squabble that had arisen between two of the tribesmen, and feeling himself amply repaid as he saw the trouble fade little by little from her eyes and heard her laugh of amusement when he drew his story to a close.

"But what a storm in a teacup! What children they are, Gaston. Bring them to me tomorrow and let them tell me their grievances, if Yusef can't settle the matter." Yusef could very easily have settled the matter, but it was extremely doubtful whether his chief's wife would have approved of his methods. Diana managed her people as she managed her difficult horses, and her way was not the Sheik's way, nor Yusef's either. In her husband's absence she had felt it her duty to keep herself conversant with all that went on in the camp and she had taken his place at the little weekly courts of inquiry, settling disputes and patiently listening to complaints, no matter how trivial. She knew that petty grievances left unheeded can often ripen into fruitful sources of really serious trouble.

The sun was almost setting when they reached the camp, and, before entering, Diana drew rein for a moment to look at the crimson splendor of the heavens, and watch the long procession of slow-movng camels that were being driven in for the night. Supercilious-eyed and haughtily disdainful, the great, ungainly beasts stalked on one by one snatching greedily as they passed at anything that looked eatable and indifferent to the blows and curses of the slim-legged lads who accompanied them. The greater number had already reached the camel lines, whence came a hideous chorus of querulous snarlings and protestations; only a few stragglers remained, breaking in every direction and roaring their discontent as they were headed back to their own quarters.

Eblis abhorred camels, and he lashed out furiously, as a large and particularly evil-tempered brute almost lumbered into him with tail erect and open, snapping jaws.

There was a warning cry from Gaston, and a wild rush of half a dozen Arabs who were lounging near. But Diana dragged him aside where he proceeded to give an exhibition of temper on his own account, rearing perpendicularly and fighting her for a full five minutes before he at length consented, ungraciously enough, to take her back to the tent, which he did in a series of bucking leaps that would have unseated a less practiced rider.

Breathless and laughing, she slid to the ground and soothed his ruffled feelings with a lump of sugar, rubbing his valvety nose and admonishing him for his bad behavior. The horse's moods were as divorse as they were startling, and, apparently content with having demonstrated his independence, he stood now with an air of guileless innocence, and suffered himself to be led away by the grooms with almost lamblike docility.

With a word to Gaston, Diana vanished into the tent to bathe and change her clothes.

An hour later she came back into the softly lit sitting room to find Yusef waiting with the usual daily report.

Motioning him to a heap of cushions near the divan, Diana settled herself to listen to his concise, businesslike statement of the day's happenings, glancing at him from time to time while he talked, partly in Arabic, partly in French. There was little left of the slim, dandified youth whose airs and graces had amused her when she had first known him. Particular about his dress he was still, but his slimness had gone forever. And, though ten years and more the Sheik's junior, he looked considerably older than his chief. Married young, and the father of two sons who were older now than he was when Diana had been brought to Ahmed ben Hassan's camp, he had acquired a stability of poise and gravity of manner that made him appear older than he was.

Diana's thoughts were back in those early days as she sat listening to his quick, rather high-pitched voice, and when he ceased speaking it required a moment's mental readjustment before she could bring her mind to the present. She kept him for a few minutes longer, asking his advice on sundry matters and referring certain difficulties to his greater knowledge and experience.

But of the prolonged absence of the Sheik she said nothing, neither did she mention the truant son who was causing her so much uneasiness. And Yusef also, whether prompted by Gaston or for reasons of his own, refrained from bringing the names of either into the conversation. It was as though a conspiracy of silence had been tacitly agreed between them.

But both knew what was in the other's mind.

And as if wishful to make her realize what he would not put into words Yusef's manner was more than usually attentive, his salaam more than usually deferential when at last he took himself away.

Diana looked after his retreating figure and heaved a sharp little sigh. Almost she wished that he had spoken. But, after all, what could he have said!

He knew no more than she of the whereabouts of the Sheik. It was not possible for him to criticize her son. And there the matter touched him as nearly as it did herself. Where she was anxious, so was he—and with additional reason. His sons were responsible for the safety of the boy, but they had no authority, and had never displayed any inclination to curb his actions. She took a broader view of the situation than Yusef did. Whatever his parental wrath might move him to do or say, she knew that, no matter what happened, Ramadan and S'rir would not be to blame. The boy alone was answerable for his own misdeeds.

With a feeling of mental weariness she went to the writing table and tore open and read the dispatch that the Spahis had brought this afternoon.

It was, as she guessed, from the military governor of the Sahara. Almost word for word a replica of the first letter, but a little more urgent, a little more strongly worded, it was a frank appeal for help to a chief, who, though independent and acknowledging no suzerainty, was known to be friendly towards the French government and a powerful factor in his own part of the country. Ahmed ben Hassan's cooperation was asked, indeed implored, in tracking the instigators of the unrest that had become evident in all parts of the land, and in discovering which tribes were disaffected and which might be counted on to remain loyal to the administration.

SIX LIBERTY MOTORS MAKE HUGE ENGINE

DAYTON, Ohio, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The Dayton News says today that an airplane motor, capable of furnishing power for the Barling Bomber, the world's largest airplane is being built for McCook field. It will be the most powerful gasoline engine ever constructed, the News states.

Official government bulletins show that the contract to build the motor was let recently to an Indianapolis engineering firm.

Comparing it with Liberty motors, the gasoline consumption of the new power plant will be approximately 120 gallons an hour.

Death Inquiry to Be Held in Denton Case

DENTON, Aug. 7.—Convening of the sixth district court of Denton and Cooke counties in special session to immediately investigate the shooting to death of Deputy Sheriff R. B. Parsons here yesterday was discussed today over long distance telephone by County Attorney Elbert Hooper and District Judge C. R. Pearman. The two will confer tomorrow when Judge Pearman returns from Gainesville.

W. A. Martin of Denton submitted to arrest last night at 10:45 o'clock on a warrant charging him with the murder after nearly 200 rounds from automatic rifles and high powered rifles had been fired into his house where he had barricaded himself. A group of about 50 officers from Denton and surrounding counties had surrounded his home.

Hooper said today he would not be a party to any agreement for bond for Martin, who was taken to jail after his surrender. Hooper is taking the sworn statement of nearly 50 people who witnessed the shooting of Parsons about a block from the principal busness section of Denton.

Martin had not retained counsel late today and no effort had been made to obtain an early preliminary hearing. Parsons was 59 years old, and had been a peace officer for 40 years.

Cal Dream Castle Is Now Deserted

PASADENA, Calif., Aug. 7.—Except for the halting footsteps of an aged caretaker, Castle Rosamond, the dream of Baroness Ross von Zimmerman, stands silent and deserted in the quiet hills near here.

The baroness and her husband came to America nearly 14 years ago. A dream which she had been harboring for a long time became a reality in 1917 with the completion of Castle Rosamond, which with its 40 rooms and huge baronial hall, is said to have cost $1,000,000. Baroness von Zimmerman died April 26, 1917, and shortly after the United States entered the World war, the property was seized by and still is in the hands of the alien property custodian.

Baroness von Zimmerman was born March 12, 1860, in Gnadenfeis, Germany, the daughter of a wealthy brewer. She married von Zimmerman, manufacturer of munitions, when a young woman. Later her father died leaving her a vast estate and an annual income from Russian railroad securities, which became worthless when the czarist government of Russia was overthrown.

A large portion of her estate, valued at $3,000,000 was bequeathed to three sisters then living in Germany. To an adopted daughter, little Beatrice Denton, eight, nothing was left. A legal battle followed and a short time later the court awarded her $15,000.

Plainview to Give Pretty Home Medal

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Aug. 7.—(AP)—An annual pretty homes contest, a contest carried on by few other cities in Texas, does more to make Plainview attractive and sanitary than any number of city ordinances looking toward sanitation in the opinion of Judge L. S. Kinder, long a resident in this city. Competition is carried on in three classes, large owned home, small owned home and rented home, with a total of $100 being distributed each year among the 10 winners of each class. A house is eligible for competition in the "owned" class when it is occupied by the person who holds title to the property. A "large owned" home is one of six rooms or more, while the "small owned" refers to houses of five rooms or less.

In order to assure impartiality, out of town judges are imported each year. Judges for 1925 were W. J. Flesher, Canyon; E. G. Hill, Tulia; and W. M. Boswell, Sherman. These judges have just announced the winners for 1925 as follows: Large owned home class, J. A. Oswald; small owned, Jamie Owens; and rented home class, John Mathis.

Factors entering into the decision of the judges are: Cleanliness of front yard and curb, cleanliness of back yard and curb, trees and shrubbery, flowers, lawn, painting and improvements and general attractiveness.

Credit for originating the pretty homes contest is given by Judge Kinder to Floydada, where the contest was started as early as 1920. Plainview started its contest in 1922.

"It is remarkable to note the enthusiasm which is generated each year by the contest," said Judge Kinder. "The enthusiasm usually begins with the mother of the family, spreads to the children, and finally seizes the father. Small boys need but little encouragement from their parents to make them tireless workers in the beautifying of their homes. The knowledge they are competing against their boy pals and that their labor stands a good chance of being materially rewarded furnishes all the inspiration they need."

Plainview prides itself on its pretty homes and visitors to the city have commented on the attractive residential sections of the "City at the end of the rainbow," the slogan of this city of the south plains.

Advertising as first employed in American newspapers was in the form of "readers" now employed chiefly as "classified" advertising. It was advertising that was a great success.

More Truth Than Poetry

FUTILE EFFORT

For years through restaurants have I been looking,
With watering mouth and an expectant eye,
To find the old time flavor of home cooking—
In doughnuts, corn beef hash and apple pie.
But always for these viands I quested vainly,
Repeated disappointments have I had—
The food the roving public gets is mainly Pretty bad.

The pies were not at all like mother made 'em,
The dishes which the menus call "ragouts,"
Although swell mannered servitors purveyed 'em,
Could not compare with good old fashioned stews.
The fowls while richly stuffed and nicely basted,
Brought to my jaded palate little joy,
My mind was on the chicken that I tasted
As a boy.

The men who keep the city eating places,
Observing that their food is lacking charm,
Are now engaged in studying the graces
Of menus that are served upon the farm.
The failing off of trade has quite nonplussed 'em,
They hope to teach their chefs the rural knack
Of making tempting dainties, so their custom
Will come back.

But though they make the self-same savory messes
That you and I as kids were wild about,
The meals they serve will not be big successes
For there'll be one ingredient that's left out.
When we were twenty-five or more years younger
All food was fine and fair to look upon—
If taken with the youthful spice of hunger—
But that is gone.

Ennis escaped jail by sawing through the bars and dropping to the ground. All but one of the men have been recaptured. Two were taken here, two in Denver, Colo., and one in Oklahoma City.

Previous to his trials in Bell county, Ennis had served a term in the penitentiary for burglary and about five years ago escaped.

Two Girls Tell Story Of Wife Murder and Suicide Of Husband On Board Boat

PETERSBURG, Alaska, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Two girls, five and three years old, respectively, told federal authorities here yesterday that a moving boat on which they were passengers was the scene of a spectacular murder and suicide which left them at sea adrift and alone in the craft.

The principals in the tragedy were Tom Rise and his wife. After Rise beat the woman, he threw her overboard and then jumped overboard himself. Mrs. Rise was formerly Mrs. Hogue, widow of a wealthy Petersburg merchant.

As if guided by a providential hand the vessel beached itself and the two little girls crawled off the ship when the tide went out and walked to a cannery three miles up the beach near here.

The five year old child was an adopted daughter and said her foster parents had been drinking before the fatal fight.

ARCTIC PLANES SEEK ADVANCED LANDING BASE

One Engine Fails And a New One Is Installed; Tests Contine

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Planes with the MacMillan Arctic expedition planned today to fly from Eath, Greenland, over Smith Sound to Ellesmere Island in the hope of selecting a suitable base about half way to Cape Thomas Hubbard on Axel Heiberg Island where the advance flying base will be located. A water lead is opening in the ice off Smith Sound between Eath and Ellesmere Island.

Tests with the planes yesterday showed them loaded too heavily and rearrangements of the cargo was made necessary. Lieutenant Commander Byrd, in command of the navy section of the expedition, in a radio dispatch sent last night to the navy department told of the activities of the fliers and reported the failure of the engine on the NA-1, one of the three planes carried north. A new engine was put into the machine.

Treasury Hopes to Recommend Tax Cut

WASHINGTON. Aug. 7.—Some treasury officials now hope to be able to recommend a tax reduction of $350,000,000 or even $400,000,000 to the next session of congress.

Heretofore the understanding has been that $300,000,000 would be about the limit of the recommended cuts. The suggestion of a greater reduction resulted from greater tax receipts this year than had been expected. A budget of $3,100,000,000 for the fiscal year of 1927 now is the aim of Director Lord of the budget bureau, who today began preparing the fiscal program.

The total is about $290,000,000 less than the expenditures for the present year and on the basis of present figures would be the lowest of any year since the war.

FRENCH READY TO LAUNCH BIG DRIVE, REPORT

Efforts to Be Made to Bring Riffs to Terms in Near Future

FEZ, French Morocco, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Operations on a large scale, designed to bring the rebellious tribesmen to realization that further fighting is useless, are said to be ready for launching. General Naulin, in supreme command of the French forces in Morocco, has just returned from Rabat where he had a long conference with Marshal Lyautey, resident French governor of Morocco, at which it was decided that the time was ripe to strike a decisive blow against the Riffians.

The French troops operating in the Fez-Ey-Bali have stormed a strong enemy position in the Kourmieu region, the enemy fleeing in disorder, leaving 50 dead on the field.

In the Ouezzan region, northwest of Fez, Riffians who have been filtering through threatening to cut the Ouezan-Soukel-Tarba road, were driven back to north of Mzfroun and Azgune, but reappeared later in the Azgune region.

Treasury Hopes to Recommend Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Some treasury officials now hope to be able to recommend a tax reduction of $350,000,000 or even $400,000,000 to the next session of congress.

Heretofore the understanding has been that $300,000,000 would be about the limit of the recommended cuts. The suggestion of a greater reduction resulted from greater tax receipts this year than had been expected. A budget of $3,100,000,000 for the fiscal year of 1927 now is the aim of Director Lord of the budget bureau, who today began preparing the fiscal program.

The total is about $290,000,000 less than the expenditures for the present year and on the basis of present figures would be the lowest of any year since the war.

FRENCH READY TO LAUNCH BIG DRIVE, REPORT

Efforts to Be Made to Bring Riffs to Terms in Near Future

FEZ, French Morocco, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Operations on a large scale, designed to bring the rebellious tribesmen to realization that further fighting is useless, are said to be ready for launching. General Naulin, in supreme command of the French forces in Morocco, has just returned from Rabat where he had a long conference with Marshal Lyautey, resident French governor of Morocco, at which it was decided that the time was ripe to strike a decisive blow against the Riffians.

The French troops operating in the Fez-Ey-Bali have stormed a strong enemy position in the Kourmieu region, the enemy fleeing in disorder, leaving 50 dead on the field.

In the Ouezzan region, northwest of Fez, Riffians who have been filtering through threatening to cut the Ouezan-Soukel-Tarba road, were driven back to north of Mzfroun and Azgune, but reappeared later in the Azgune region.

Price of Entertainment

In three fights (if he chooses to perform in that many) it is estimated that Jack Dempsey can clean up something like a million dollars. Allowing three months genuine training, and the hour, or so, of actual fighting they would demand, what does it represent?

A sum almost fourteen times larger than that drawn by the President of the United States.

A sum more than eighty times larger than each member of the President's cabinet draws for a full year of heavy mental and physical labor.

The psychologist and the philosopher will tell you there is nothing out of the way there. The gift, of entertaining the public, always pays better than a capacity for sharing the major responsibilites of a nation. To paraphrase Key:

"Let me amuse the country, and I care not who makes its laws."

For further information on a thing which does not seem just, when relative values are considered, see income tax returns of Charlie Chaplin, Doug Fairbanks, Gloria Swanson, Jackie Coogan, etc.

Old Days Are Gone

The treat 'em rough athletic clubs have given way more or less to the pink tea and box office clubs. Skin-tight gloves and bare knuckles have yielded to the four-ounce and the pillows. There system.

In some ways perhaps it is better, are few battles nowadays on the old science has its place, and the battler who learns to stall, to maneuver and to save his strength and place his blows, perhaps is a better and greater fighter than the old-timer who waded in, swapped wallops with the best and did it, not for money, not for a purse, but for the honor of the title of champion of the district.

The old time system of having champions for each community has about disappeared. Few care whether Benny Leonard comes from the Bronx or from Brooklyn, or whether Jack Dempsey developed in Salt Lake or Los Angeles.

In present day battle more of the racial than of the geographical element is revealed, but somehow in these days of big purses, of super-scientific boxers who haven't the strength to do a day's work, but can hit, romance and local pride and partisanship have largely disappeared.

The old treat 'em rough athletic clubs, where men fought each other for the honor of their cross roads or their section of town, have disappeared. True, in a few parts of the country we still find local champions, but not many. In the old days, the honor of being the "bully boy" of your county or your village meant something.

The days of the old-time battlers are gone, but the romance of those days, when men fought because they loved to fight, still remains. One of the greatest of all the old champions of the 'treat 'em rough clubs' was Black Bill, who once explained his system of fighting.

"In a barroom fight," he said, "you've gotta know whether or not a fellow is game. The first thing to do, of course, is to get in the first wallop. You knock a guy down, then kick him until you wedge his head under the bar rail. Of course, any game guy will stand for that —but if you want to test him, take your pencil, shove it up his nostril and pry—and if he stands for that you've got a fight on your hands."

Past Battles

One of the greatest of the fights recorded in the treat 'em rough clan was that between White and Newman down in southern Ohio many years ago. White was a logger, a man of great strength, but not large. Newman was a tremendously big fellow and they were rival bullies. There was no ill feeling between them, but there was a sincere desire to discover which was the better man. Several times their backers tried to arrange meetings, but nothing came of it because neither would go out of his way to seek a battle.

They met one stock sale day in Hillsboro. The fight started in the poolroom of a hotel. They battled until the place was wrecked, with cues, balls, anything they could lay hands upon. Then the fight was interrupted by the police. The men adjourned to the Commons, a few blocks away, and resumed the battle. At the finish one had lost an ear, and both were taken to the doctors for treatment, but White was generally adjudged the victor and his opponent became a calm and peaceful citizen. White himself was one of the least quarrelsome fellows in the world and he fought only when challenged. His son later was a well-known major league pitcher.

There was a historic battle on the Nipogen River in Canada, many years ago. Joe McDonald, a Scot, was one of the bullies. The rival gang leader was "Mons" Hilderbrand, who was half French, half Norsk, and, they said, a trace of Sac Indian. Both were great river men and were rival leaders in driving gangs.

Their fight took place in the rapids above the falls of Nipogen. They fought on floating logs, on the river bank, with peavies, with calked shoes, with bare fists. Three or four times they went into the water, and at the finish McDonald had Hildebrand under water, half drowned and beaten to a pulp.

And the following season Hildebrand was foreman for McDonald's gang, and his staunchest supporter. There was another fight which was historic in the a French Canadian named Borveu (per-North woods, a fight between Olson and haps Borveau.)

There is scarcely a trace left of the great woods in which this battle was fought. It was near what is now the village of Acme, which then was a dense pine forest stretching for fifty miles in each direction and a hundred miles north and south.

The fight had been brewing for years —for they were rival champions. Their gangs never happened to be in the camp at the same time until one spring at pay off time when they met. According to one witness the fight lasted from just after dark—until past ten in the evening. At the end Olson, terribly beaten, landed a kick on his opponent's jaw, jumped upon him with his spiked shoes and finished him. Olson was afterward sheriff and fire ranger in Benzie county. He told me that Borvou was the strongest man he ever knew.

SPUDS GET ON TWO PITCHERS FOR 24 BLOWS

Bodie Wallops Home Run Number 28—Query And Distel Flash

BEAUMONT, Aug. 7.—Wichita Falls swamped the Exporters 12 to 6 here Friday afternoon in a slow listless game. Many of the 24 hits obtained by the Spudders were of the scratch variety, as the ball bounded to all sides of the baked infield. Neither Fillingim nor Williams, starters, lasted the full route.

The Spudders got off to an early lead by scoring three runs in the first inning.

Distel singled to center, and took third on Fitzgerald's two base wallop. Bodie singled to left scoring Distel and Fitzgerald. Turgeon went out third to first, Bodie going to second. Callaghan smacked a single to center, scoring Bodie.

Beaumont came back for one tally in the first inning on a single by Ormand and a double by Johnston.

The Spudders added two more in the second inning. Query singled past third. He stopped at second when Williams singled off Fillingim's glove. The bases were filled when Metzler attempted to sacrifice and Fillingim fumbled the bunt. Distel drove one over the right field fence for two bases scoring Query and Williams. Fillingim was then given the hook and C. Morgan was sent in to finish the pitching job.

Another in Third.

The Spudders registered another score in the third. Callaghan walked and went to third on Query's single to right. Williams smacked a single to left sending Callaghan romping home. Taylor cut Query down trying to make third on the hit.

It was in the fourth inning that Ping Bodie poled out his twenty-eighth home run to add three more to the Spudder column. Distel and Fitzgerald watched the fourth ball go by. Bodie hit his homer over the right-center field fence.

Harry Schwab's home run over the right center field fence was the Beaumonters' scoring attack in the sixth.

The Spudders shoved over another score in the seventh. Metzler led off with a walk. Distel bunted down the third base line, and beat it out. Metzler went to second, and took third when Fitzgerald hit into a double killing, short to second to first. Bodie singled to center, and Metzler spiked the rubber.

Williams Goes Out.

Beaumont got to Williams in the last half of the seventh, and Sutherland was sent to the relief. Singles by Morgan and Johnston, sandwitched in with a walk to Ormand filled the bases. Williams then had a bad streak of wildness and passed Schwab and Taylor, forcing Morgan and Ormand over the pan. Deriveros singled to left sending Johnston and Schwab home. Sutherland then went in and retired the side.

The Spudders scored their final pair in the ninth. Singles by Metzler Distel and Fitzgerald filled the bases. Metzler scored on Bodie's fly to center field. Distel scored on Callaghan's single to right.

Donohue Hurls Cincinnati To 2-1 Victory Over Giants

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Pittsburgh came from behind and scored three runs in the ninth today to win from Brooklyn 10 to 9, a single by Spencer driving home Traynor with the winning run. Max Carey and Burleigh Grimes came to blows near second base while the Pirates were at bat in the seventh. Carey sought to return to to second base after starting for third and collided with the Robins' twirler, who stood on the base line. Grimes started to swing his fists. Both were put out of the game. Chief on Warpath After Fisher's Scalp!

E-E-E-EEE YAH! WOW WOW!

Behold! The savage Indian Chief Wow Wow, fierce Oklahoma Redskin grappler who mixes with Lightweight Champion Jack Fisher here Tuesday night in the feature event of the Motorcycle Officer E. E. James benefit mat program to be staged under the auspices of the new Wichita Falls Wrestling association at Eleventh and Indiana.

Wow Wow has defeated Jack Gorman twice, and thrown a number of the best boys in the country at his weight. In the last match which was staged Monday in Kansas City, the Indian pinned Cyclone Hayes in straight falls. Hays, as any close follower of the wrestling game knows, ranks in the upper crust of his division.

The match Tuesday is to be a finish affair, best two out of three falls.

Stage All Set For Tri-State Field Trials

Wichita Falls Sportsmen To Entertain At Wheeler

Quite a number of Wichita Falls sportsmen will enter dogs in the tri-state field trials which begin at Wheeler Monday. Some of these are L. O. Landon, Jack Gotcher, Horace Robbins and J. M. Vann. Landon will put his dogs in the members' all-age stakes.

WHEELER, Texas, Aug. 7.—The stage is set for the opening of the tri-state field trials here next Monday morning. The camp site is in order, with its restaurant, confectionery, dance platform, stables, kennels and plenty of ground cleared for followers of the trials to pitch their tents.

There are nearly 400 dogs in training for this event. Camps are located in Wheeler, Collingsworth, Gray, Hemphill and Lipscomb counties.

F. T. Collins of Amarillo, president of the association, has been on the ground this week looking to final arrangements. He says he has never seen as much game on which dogs can work. Prairie chickens are on the course in great abundance. A short ride over the course of 150,000 acres of rolling prairie land brought up more than 200 birds.

Sportsmen of Amarillo are offering a $1,500 trophy in one event. The town of Wheeler will give a silver cup in another. Toney Chisum again will offer a silver water service as trophy in the gentlemen's shooting dog race.

In the professional events a guaranteed purse of $1,000 has been offered. There will be very keen competition in the puppy stakes. Drawing for the races will take place Sunday night or Monday morning.

The Wheeler chamber of commerce will give a big feed to members of the association at the camp one evening during the trials. It will take more than a week to run off the five races which are to be a part of the trials.

Ederle Postpones Channel Attempt

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 7.—The atempt of Miss Gertrude Ederle, American girl swimmer, to swim across the English channel from the French to the English coast has been postponed until August 17.

Although there was a change in the weather this morning, making conditions for a channel swim none too suitable, Miss Lillian Harrison, the Argentine girl, may start tonight in accordance with her plans.

Arrangements had been made for Miss Ederle to start for the English coast about 10:30 o'clock tonight, 20 minutes before Miss Harrison, but she became unexpectedly physically indisposed and her trainers and advisers recommended postponement until the next favorable tide which is on August 17.

INTERSCHOLASTIC LOOP BARS HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETE YEAR WHO CHANGES HIS RESIDENCE

Transfer Must Produce Certification By Former Superintendent Removal Made on the Square

AUSTIN, Aug. 7.—A football contestant, moving from one school district to another in Texas, is ineligible for interscholastic league competition for one year, unless he is eligible at the time he withdrew from school, was the new rule adopted for the 1925-26 season by the executive committee of the University of Texas interscholastic league here today.

The rule further provides that the transferred pupil must be able to furnish certification from the superintendent or principal of the school from which he moves, that in his opinion, the parents or guardians of the contestants were not induced to move on account of the athletic ability of the contestant.

The resolution adopted by the committee on football contestants settles a controversy which embroiled nearly every high school in the state. It follows:

"Whereas, contestant complaints have been made to the state executive committee of the interscholastic league that families containing high school athletes have been induced by certain interested parties to move from one school to another, and that remuneration has been paid parents of such athletes for moving; and

"Whereas, this matter was placed before the state meeting of delegates in Austin and this meeting recommended to the state executive committee that incorporation of a rule which would prevent this abuse; and

"Whereas, the vote for the rule is 136 for and 99 against (schools west of the 98th meridian voting 45 for and 42 against);

"Now, therefore, the state executive committee directs that a rule be framed and incorporated in the 1925-26 issue of the constitution and rules rendering ineligible for one year football contestant moving from one school district to another, who was not eligible for interscholastic league competition in football at the time he withdrew from school; Further he must be able to furnish a certification from the superintendent or principal of the school which he moves that in his opinion the parent or guardian of the contestant were not induced to move on account of the athletic ability of the contestant; this rule does not affect in any way movement of contestant from lower to higher class school as at present provided for in the rules."

Burk Wrests Pro Golf Title From Cooper

DALLAS, Aug. 7.—Jack Burke, of Riveroaks country club, Houston, wrested the 1925 championship of the Texas Professional Golfers association from Harry Cooper of Dallas today by making one of the greatest shots of the tournament to sink a birdie two from the rough to the right center of the green. Burke's total for the 72 holes was 294. Cooper was second with 298.

"Beetles" Juelg of San Antonio, was third with 306. Willie McGuire of Houston and Harvey Penick of Austin were tied for fourth place with 309. Fred Greenhill of Dallas, was fifth with 312.

By noon it was apparent that the championship was between Burke and Cooper. At that time Burke was three strokes up. On the first hole in the afternoon play, Cooper took a phenominal three, lifting the ball from off the green and sinking it. Burke was playing conservatively; missed a putt and took a five, cutting his lead to three strokes. John Bredemuss of San Antonio, third member of the threesome was badly of this game, and while he kept playing most of the way around, he did not finish the game.

Cooper took a three to Burke's four on the next turn and the lead was reduced to two strokes. Cooper gaine danother stroke on the fourteenth, cutting the lead to one. This was the nearest Cooper got to the title. In addition to the championship, Burke got first prize of $200, to be applied on his expenses to the national tournament and also a set of golf equipment offered for the best six holes of the tournament. Second place prize was $150. Four prizes of $25 were awarded the next four best scores.

Advertising as first employed in American newspapers was in the form of "readers" now employed chiefly as "classified" advertising. It was advertising that was a great success.

PALMER POLES ONE OVER FOR ONLY CAT RUN

Four Double Plays Put On By Buffs to Stop Champs

HOUSTON, Aug. 7.—Marvin Goodwin won his twentieth victory of the season here today when he bested Joe Pate in a mound duel 3 to 1. Each of Goody's five starts against the Cats has resulted in a Buff victory. The Panthers' sole run was the result of a home run by Palmer. Del Gainer struck himself on the knee with a bat in the fifth inning and Harry McCurdy finished the game at first. Four double plays by the Houston infield helped considerably.

PUBLIC GOES TO NEW YORK STATE AGAIN.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Once again the national public links golf championship will come to the east and to New York state, the finalists in tomorrow's play at Salisbury being Ray MacAuliffe of Buffalo and William F. Serrick of New York. By their victories in the semi-finals today these men became eligible for the national amateur tournament to be played at Oakmont. MacAuliffe performed sensationally to gain his honors.

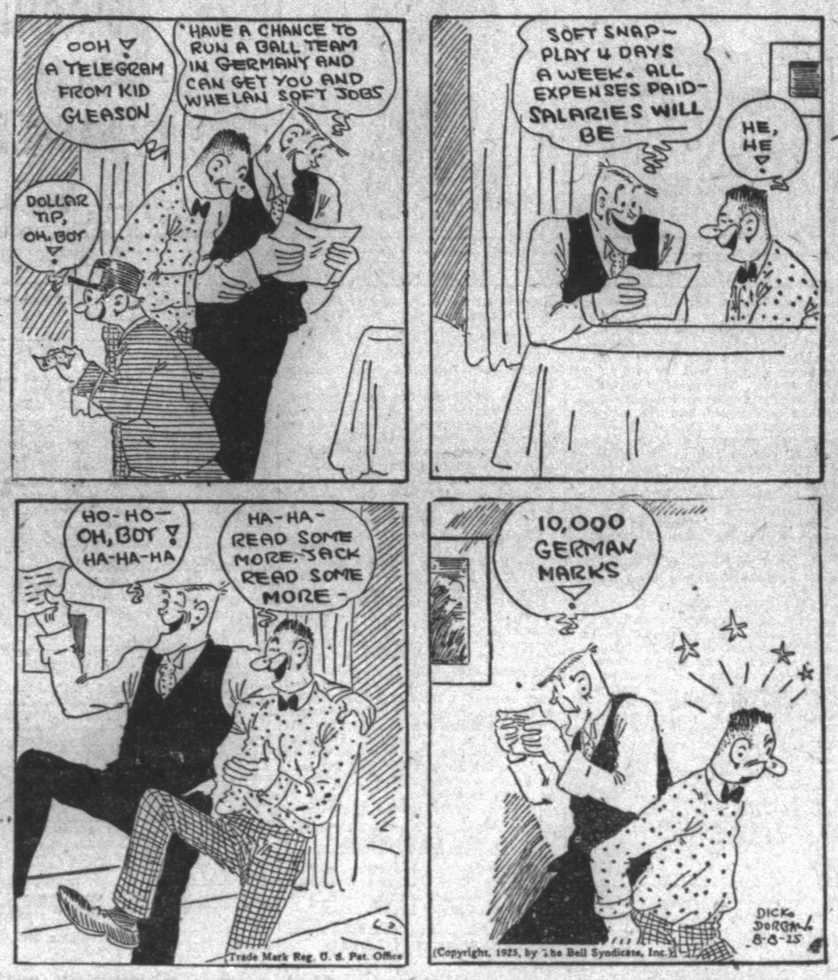

Serrick also had a struggle for he gained the decision over Johnny Wall of Spokane, Wash., by a lone hole in the morning and then had to face Al Houghton of Washington, D. C., who had conquered the former champion of the event, Dick Walsh of New York, in the round before the semi-finals by one up.

Schoell Scraps Shade Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. Aug 7.—(AP)—A ten-round bout here tomorrow night Frankie Schoell of Buffalo, Pacific coast welterweight champion, will try to down the world's title hopes of Dave Shade of Concord, Calif., leading contender for the belt worn by Micky Walker.

A Shade-Walker meeting has been in the making for some time with the New York athletic commission insisting that the champion meet Shade before taking on other challengers.

A victory for Shade tomorrow will clarify his claim for a chance at the title. If Schoell wins, he will be in line for a crack at Walker.

Shade is a favorite in the betting. Shade and Schoell have met twice. Shade took one bout by decision and the other was a draw.

MACKS SPLIT WITH TRIBE.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—(AP)—After dropping the first game to the Cleveland Indians, 10 to 4, the Athletics came back in the second game today and won, 3 to 0. Rommel and Uhle tangled in a hurling duel in the second game and the Mackmen were held hitless until Cochrane led off with a single in the seventh inning. Simmons followed by hitting his 18th home run of the setason scoring Cochrane ahead of him. The Indians' two hits, both singles, were made by Spurgeon in the second inning and Jamieson in the third.

The game was played in 56 minutes, said to be the shortest ever played in the American league.

Fitz Leaves Los Angeles for East With Champ Signed

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 7.—(AP) Floyd Fitzsimmons, Michigan City, Snd., promoter, departed today for Chicago with the signature of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion to an agreement for a title bout with Harry Wills, July 4, 1926 at Michigan City, Ind., it was announced by B. H. Benton of Dempsey's staff. Benton said that Chicago financial interests will back the bout and that arrangements were completed last night by telephone and telegraph between Fitzsimmons and Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP)—"It's all a joke," said Jack Kearns today, when told of the report from Los Angeles that Floyd Fitzsimmons has Jack Dempsey's signed contract to fight Harry Wills at Michigan City in September. He seemed unconcerned about the report and declared that it meant nothing.

Speaking of the reported signing for a Gene Tunney-Harry Wills fight he said:

"Tunney is not in Wills' class. He should be fighting welterweights, like Walker. Wills should beat Tunney easily if they are matched."

DETROIT 3; NEW YORK 1.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Detroit handed the Yankees a 3 to 1 set back today, the veteran right hander George Dauss limiting the Hugman to five hits. Fothergill's double followed by E. Johnson's muff on Manush roller and Heilmann's triple brought two bengal tallies in the first inning. The other run came in the sixth on Manush's double, Heilmann's infield out and E. Johnson's slip-up on Blue's bounder. Score:

East Bests West In Tennis Play

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 7. (AP)—Taking three of four matches, tennis stars representing the east held a decisive edge over their opponents from the west today at the end of the first half of the two-day intersectional battle.

Robert and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco, in the final match of the afternoon scored the west's only triumph when they staged an uphill struggle to conquer William T. Tilden and George Lott, young Chicago star recruited for the east's forces. The Kinseys outplayed their opponents after dropping the first set, gaining the match by scores of 2-, 6-2, 715. Tilden was forced to fight practically alone hand against the national champions after the first set with Lott stroking erratically and the singles king was not equal to the task of breaking up the brilliant team work of the coast brothers.

The other doubles encounter went t the east when R. Morris Williams and Vincent Richards volleyed their way to victory over William M. Johnston and Clarence Griffin, San Francisco veterans, 6-3, 6-4, while both singles tussels also went to the Atlantic seaboard representatives. Dr. George King of New York took the measure of John Hennessy of Indianapolis in short order, 6-1, 6-1, and Manuel Alonso, Spanish Davis cup ace rallied to upset Cranston Holman the young Stanford star 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The cotton market was about the dullest in a long while trading being extremely narrow. Long intervals elapsed at times between trades while th eprice spread did not exceed 15 points. Moderate covering by shorts in advance of tomorrow's government report was responsible for the small net gains. Active months opened seven points down and then immediately rallied 9 to 11 points for a gain over the previous close of two to three points. At the highest of the day October was eight points above the previous close and finally closed four points net higher, while late months closed one to three points net up.

At the start Liverpool was about as due but the local market opened seven points down immediately rallying nine to 11 points to restore the parity with New York which market had opened at a slight gain. The opening figures of 23.33 for October and 23.54 for December proved to be the low points of the day. The market gradually improved during the middle of the morning until October traded at 23.48 and December at 23.67, or 13 to 15 points up from the lows. These levels proved to be the highs of the day. The close was a little off from the highs showing a trifling net gain for the day.

Secretary Hester made mill takings for the week 158,000 bales against 61,000 last year. Fall river reported sales for the week of 50,000 pieces of print cloths.

DUNN'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say:

It is the more common report now that business is gaining, something being added each week to the progress recently made. The advance is gradual yet this is more to be desired than a rapid expansion that might lead to excesses and increase the possibilities of a sudden reaction. Except for the threatened coal strike, the present indications are encouraging, and the greater activity in the formation of new enterprises reflects confidence in the future. The prospect of further tax reduction is among the factors that have tended to strengthen sentiment, while there remains the constructive influence of the improved financial position and enhanced purchasing power of farmers in the west and the south. The latter phase is highly significant for national prosperity largely depends upon favorable conditions in agricultural sections.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP)—An outburst of enthusiasm in today's stock market carried the industrial average to a substantial increase. The advance, which ran from three to 10 points in many issues, was led by United States Steel common and the Van Sweringen railroad stocks buying of the latter being based on reports of a private settlement having been reached with the Chespeake and Ohio minority ipterests. U. S. Steel common moved up over three points to 123⅛, the highest price reached since March, on total transaction of over 200,000 shares. Except for reports of continued expansion in various lines of trade, there was little in the day's news to influence the movements. Operators for the rise derived encouragement however from the assertions of New York bankers that the reduction in the Bank of England discount rate could be construed as an indication that no immediate increase in the New York federal reserve rate was likely. Periodic circulation of rumors that the New York rate was to be increased invariably have been followed by the heavy selling of stocks.

The weekly mercantile reviews were cheerful. Bradstreet's characterized the business situation as "fully fair."

Dun's stated that except for the threatened coal strike the present indications are encouraging, and the greater activity in he formation of new enterprises reflects confidence in the future.

High priced industrials again displayed a buyoant tone. Midland Steel Products preferred soared 11 points to a new peak price at 143 on reports that approximately $16 a share was earned on that stock in the first six months of the year. General Railway Signal, which recently received a large order from New York Central, jumped ten points to a record high at 247½, or more than 100 points above the initial transaction on the "big board" a few months ago.

General Electric closed 8¼ points higher at 310 after selling as high as 311½. Mark Trusks jumped six points to 158 and net gains of four to six points were recorded by Burroughs Adding Machine, the commercial solvents issues and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe.

International Combustion Engineering which recently closed some important contracts crossed 48 to a new high level for the lear for a net gain of over three points on the day. American Can also moved up over three points crossing 218 to the highest price in its history. Other outstanding industrial strong spots included Air Reduction, General Baking, Glidden company, Great Western Sugar.

International Shoe colloped 15 points to 103 on selling inspired by the federal trade commission ordering that company to dispose of its stock of a rival concern but it regained half of its loss before the close. Heavy selling of Mullinson just before the close sent that stock down more than four points. Heaviness was also shown by Coco Cola, Frank G. Shattuck and International Telephone which yielded to profit taking sales.

Van Sweringen issues all recorded sharp gains. "Nickel Plate" common jumped seven points to 133 and the preferred moved up two to a new 1925 high at 96. Chesapeake and Ohio closed 3¼ points higher at 100¼ after attaining a new maximum at 100⅝. Perre Marquette showed a net gain of three points at 68¼. Errie common and first and second preferred each showed net gains of about 1½ points. Revival of activity and strength in New York, Ontario and Western which was run up four points to a new top at 29¾ was another outstanding feature in the railroad group.

Call money ruled unchanged at 4½ per cent. Time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates. Foreign exchange rates were chiefly reactionary. Demand sterling held firm around $4.85⅝ but French and Belgian francs ruled slightly lower at 4.68⅛ and 4.51⅛ cents, respectively.

Q. A. & P. HAVE BIG PLANS FOR A PLAINS ROAD

Officials Say That Their Line Would Shorten Rail Routes

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Shortening of the real distance from New York City to Los Angeles by 400 miles and shortening the rail distance from St. Louis to El Paso by 200 miles are ultimate effects that may be expected if the interstate commerce commission grants the application of the Quanah, Acme & Pacific railway to extend its line from McBain, 30 miles southwest to Floydada, county seat of Floyd county, Quanah, Acme & Pacific railway backers here for the South Plains rail extension hearing claim. Hundreds attending the hearing have presented evidence of what may be expected from extnsions of the Quanah, Acme & Pacific.

Filed But Few Days

At the rail hearing at Plainview, the Quanah, Acme & Pacific, because it field its application for an extension just a few weeks ago, appears only as a protestant and not as an applicant. The Quanah, Acme & Pacific, through its general counsel, Cecil Smith of Sherman, and its president, Sam Lazarus of St. Louis, protested the application of the Fort Worth & Denver City railroad, which seeks to build a road from Estelline to Dimmitt and a line from Silverton to Lubbock, as well as the application of the Santa Fe which purposed to build a line from Lider to Silverton and one from Plainview to Dimmitt. Although the Quanah, Acme & Pacific appeared only as a protestant, it was regarded as certain much will be said of far-reaching plans, looking toward the creating of another transcontinental system.

Quanah, Acme & Pacific attorneys are certain to read into the record the report of the El Paso chapter of the American Association of Engineers regarding the rail needs of territory tributary to El Paso. For days a committee of the El Paso chapter of the American Association of Engineers traversed the mountains of Southern New Mexico, made surveys, and studied feasability of many routes, and made with respect to bringing of a railway into El Paso from the South Plains the following report:

Has Possibilities

"The situation presents the following possibilities for the construction of such a road and its incorporation into some of the great railroad groups, first, connecting with the Frisco system at McBain, using the Quanah, Acme & Pacific from Quanah; second, connecting with the Santa Fe; third, connecting with the Fort Worth and Denver City.

"The first possibility, the extension of the Frisco system (Quanah, Acme & Pacific is a subsidiary of the Frisco lines) to El Paso, offers the most attractive solution from the broad viewpoint of railroad statesmanship. This solution would afford to the communities served another railroad connection with a group naturally competitive with the existing roads.

"Extension of the Frisco system to El Paso would form a line in a new transcontiental line with the Pennsylvania, the Frisco, and he Southern Pacific which would be the shortest line from New York to Los Angeles. In connection with the Mexican and Northwestern and a proposed line from this region of undeveloped resources to the St. Louis gateway."

The Quanah, Acme & Pacific now runs 86 miles southwest of Quanah, the terminal, to McBain.

Phone Girl Saves Woman, Gets Medal

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 7.—Before 1,000 guests, officials and employes of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, V. E. Cooley of Dallas, division traffic superintendent of the company, presented Miss Lottie Burge, chief operator of the Mission exchange, with the Theodore N. Vail medal tonight.

Miss Burge was awarded the medal in recognition of her action in saving the life of Mrs. T. W. Carmichael who was stricken with paralysis and collapsed at the telephone when she tried t ocall a physician. Distinguishing the faint call of "doctor" Miss Burge called a neighbor over the telephone and asked her to go to the house where the call was from. A doctor was thus called and he said later that timely medical attention probably saved Mrs. Carmichael's life.
