One enters county race

Herald staff report

At least one county commissioner race will be contested in next year's elections.

Emilio Rey Molina Sr., 1103 N. Scurry St., has filed for the position of Precinct 1 Commissioner, currently held by O.L. "Louie" Brown.

Brown has held the position since 1976.

Molina was not available for comment.

Incumbent Bill Crooker is the only person who has filed for Precinct 3 Commissioner.

Those interested in running in the county elections must file their intent by Jan. 4.

Sheriff, tax assessor/collector, county attorney, precinct 2 constable, and justice of the peace precinct 1 place 1, elections will be included on the ballot, along with district clerk, district attorney, state senator and state representative.

Volunteers' spirit fits the season

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

The warm spirit of volunteerism arrived just in time to shield Addie Oliver against the bitter cold that accompanied Monday's snowstorm.

Sixteen volunteers converged on Oliver's home at 604 N.E. 10th St. Saturday to give it a facelift.

The volunteers who wielded hammers and distributed sandwiches and steaming cups of coffee to hungry workers gave freely of their time as participants in the Christmas in April project.

Christmas in April is a program aimed at helping local elderly and handicapped residents make needed repairs to their homes. Projects are usually done the first week of April, but are done immediately in emergency cases, Sandra Burrows, a member of the Christmas in April board of directors.

"There is no program without the volunteers," said Bob Noyes, board president.

Work accomplished at the residence included renovation of a carport, replacement of siding and a door, repairs to a roof, trimming of windows and doors, installation of a new water heater, and construction of a new water heater closet.

Noyes noted that Texas Electric Company also pitched in to install new electric lines to the home, and Drinkard Electric Company also contributed by connecting electrical fixtures.

The Big Spring Business and Professional Womens Club prepared and served sandwiches and cake to the laborers. Complimentary coffee was provided by Pronto Store No. 2.

However, despite the turnout of volunteers, additional workers were needed to complete the housing renovation, Noyes said.

Volunteers will return to the home to complete "touch up work" when the current spell of cold weather passes, Noyes said.

Wayne Froman and Floyd Earls were among those volunteers who donated their time to make repairs at the home Saturday.

"This was a worthwhile thing. The lady really needed help," Froman said.

Earls said he "was glad to lend my help where it was needed."

"I think this project is going to be a good thing," Earls said.

Meanwhile, Robert Smith, Oliver's son said his mother is "quite pleased" with the work.

The work came just in the nick of time before the cold snap hit," Smith said.

"This is the best Christmas I've ever had," Oliver said.

"The workers all did a wonderful job and I'm very thankful," she said.

Repairs, on a lesser scale, but similar to those accomplished at the Oliver residence, are planned at several other homes in Big Spring through the April in Christmas project, Noyes said.

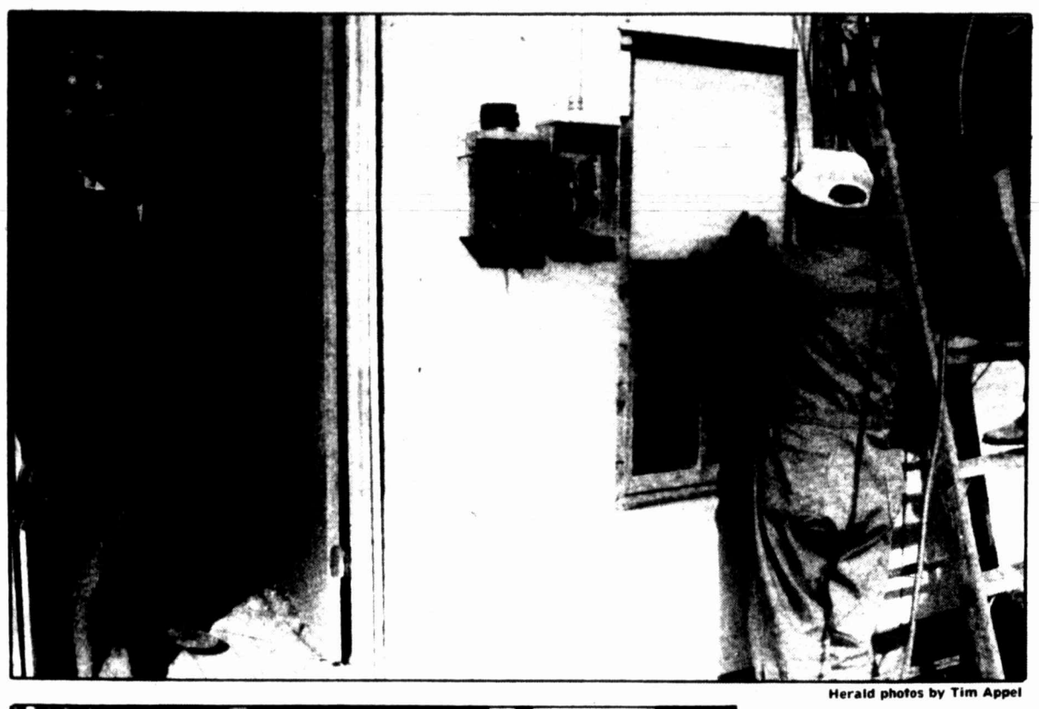

"Emergency winterization work, such as plumbing and furnace repairs and replacement of glass at several homes is planned," Noyes said.

Civic and church groups as well as individuals are still needed to help with the housing repairs.

"We are asking groups to volunteer to pick a project to do next April," Noyes said.

Anyone who wants to serve as a volunteer for the Christmas in April project should contact Noyes at 267-5811.

Donations also can be sent to the Big Spring Christmas in April Project Inc., P.O. Box 3311, Big Spring, 79721-3311.

Retailers object to widening

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

Merchants whose business would be affected by a proposed widening of Gregg Street from 10th Street to FM 700 are expected to voice strong opposition to the highway project at a work session following next Tuesday's, Dec. 22, City Council meeting, Big Spring business owner Bill Draper said this morning.

About 30 business and property owners on both sides of Gregg Street met Monday night to form a plan of action to oppose the widening project, Draper said.

"Those business and property owners who attended the meeting are in strong opposition to this project," he said. Draper owns Faye's Flowers.

Elimination of customer parking spaces in front of their stores and potential loss of business while the road widening work is underway are the two main objections being raised by merchants along the highway, Draper said.

The proposal to widen the 18-block stretch of Gregg Street seven feet on each side to allow for construction of a center turn lane was announced Nov. 17 by Bill Burnett, State Department of Highways District 8 engineer.

The widening is one of 12 Howard County road improvement projects for which $10.4 million in state highway funds have been allocated. Burnett estimates it would cost $750,000 to complete the Gregg Street work.

If embraced by Big Spring City officials, the Gregg Street widening would not begin until late 1988 or early 1989.

However, property owners along the street are determined to put a stop to the project before it even gets off the drawing board, Draper said.

"A petition opposing the project has been signed by 90 percent of the business owners along the highway," he said — a petition that will be presented to City Council at Tuesday's work session.

"We are in hopes that we can get this project stopped before a public

Democrats woo Hispanics at South Texas debate

Herald bureau report

EDINBURG — Although the nation's voters may already be tiring of debates, excitement is high in South Texas for the first presidential debate ever held in the Rio Grande Valley.

While candidates of both major parties have been sweeping through Texas with increasing frequency, tonight's debate by the six Democratic candidates in Edinburg, one of the nation's poorest regions, is plain good politics — a chance to win favor in a heavily Democratic area capable of delivering a huge bloc of Hispanic votes.

The 7 p.m to 8:30 p.m. debate will feature U.S. Sen. Paul Simon of Illionis, the Rev. Jesse Jackson of Illinois, U.S. Sen. Al Gore Jr. of Tennessee, U.S. Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri, Massachusetts Gov. Mike Dukakis and former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt. In Dallas, it will be broadcast on a tape-delay by WFAA-TV Channel 8 beginning at 11:30 p.m.

"This area, this group of Hispanic voters, is such an important group that the Democrats no longer can take it for granted," says Dr. Jerry Polinard, political science professor at Pan American University in Edinburg, site of the debate.

"The Rio Grande Valley is the last remaining bastion of a heavily Democratic area in Texas," Polinard says. "(But) the Republicans have been coming in and presenting issues that are attractive to many Hispanics and the Democrats have got to come in and try to attract the Mexican-American vote.

"We used to be the stepchild of politics," Polinard says. "Now, since 1976, every presidential candidate of one or both parties has spent time in November, right before the general election."

The March 8 "Super Tuesday" primary has succeeded in forcing candidates to campaign in Texas much earlier than previous presidential contests and "debates" have proliferated all over the nation.

In spite of the debate frequency, convincing all six Democratic candidates to appear in Edinberg "is a coup," says an advisor to one of the candidates.

"To have all six of the candidates at the debate really says something about the attention they are paying to Texas and, especially to South Texas," says the advisor.

Another, Missy Mandel, Texas campaign manager for Gephardt, says the invitation to debate in the Valley is a signal from the region's political leaders. They're saying "We are important and going to be very important in the primary. And all the candidates recognize that," Mandell says.

Willie Velasquez, director of the San Antonio-based Southwest Voter Registration Education Project, seconds Mandel's comments concerning the voting strength of Hispanics.

Velasquez notes that 85 percent of all Hispanics are concentrated in Texas and California. Those states hold 76 electoral votes — about 28 percent of the votes needed to capture the White House.

Coahoma school board OKs asbestos payment

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — School district trustees unanimously agreed to accept a proposed litigation settlement from two asbestos suppliers during their regular meeting Monday evening.

The suit, filed against W.R. Grace Company and U.S. Gypsum, was filed by Coahoma and 82 other Texas school districts in an attempt to recoup asbestos-removal expenses incurred this year, according to Superintendent Gary Rotan.

Under terms of the agreement, which was approved after a 20-minute executive session, the district will recover $23,682.95 of the $36,288 it spent to remove asbestos from district-owned buildings, Rotan said.

"We believe it was a good settlement," said Board President Jim Wright. "It was more than we thought we'd get, and we're very pleased."

The settlement calls for gross recovery by the district to be $37,488.75, with attorney's fees and litigation expenses of $13,805.80 subtracted, Rotan said.

He noted that 5,000 square feet of asbestos has been removed from district buildings. The remaining material — 1,500 square feet — has been encapsulated. Encapsulation costs are not covered by the agreement, he added.

The settlement must be agreed upon by all concerned districts by the end of the year, Rotan noted.

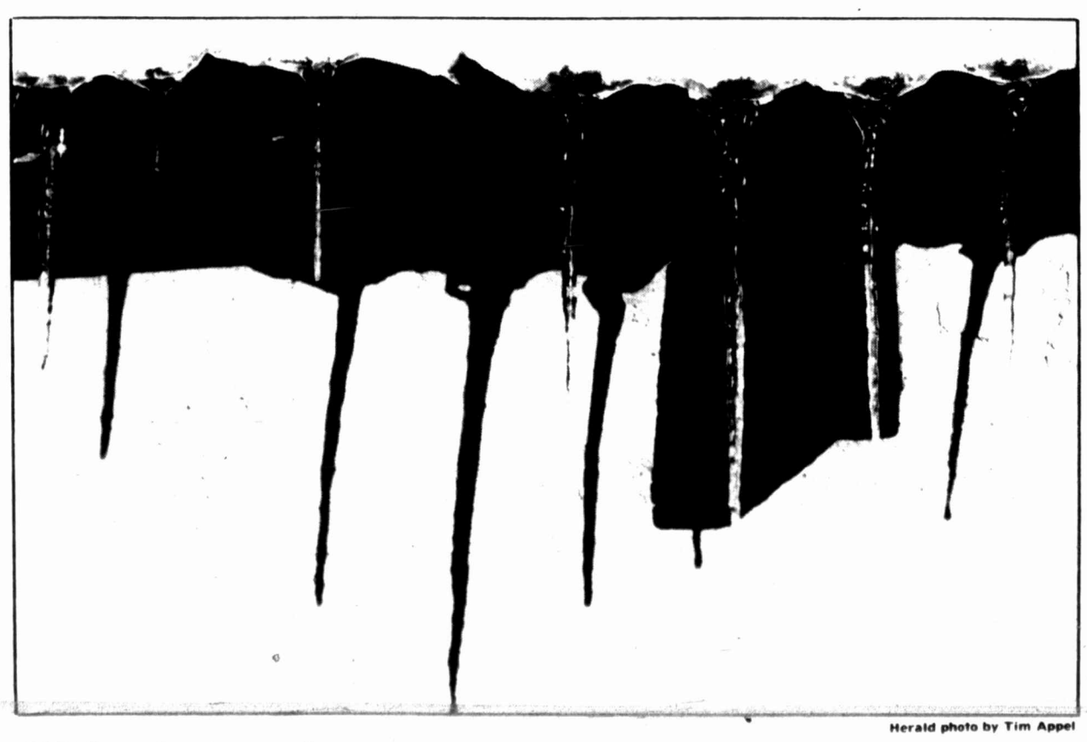

In other business, the board:

- Voted not to renew an insurance policy covering school equipment. The coverage was for theft or mysterious disappearance of school audio-visual equipment.

Rotan recommended nonrenewal because, in effect, the property is doubly-covered, he said.

School buildings and contents are already covered by a $12.9 million policy, with a $1,000 deductible. Item loss in the past has been negligible, and most was not

Appraiser chosen by commission

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Jack Shaffer of Big Spring was appointed Monday as review appraiser for the U.S. Highway 87 expansion project.

Howard County commissioners appointed Shaffer during a regular Monday meeting in the county Courthouse.

He will review appraisals on seven parcels of land that were submitted by court appointed appraiser Jerry Worthy.

A review by a second appraiser is required according to state law, County Judge Milton Kirby said.

The county is participating in the State Highway Department expansion project through an agreement to purchase the right of way from Hearn Street to Ranch-to-Market 33.

Construction is scheduled to begin in July and will take about one year, according to state

Repair projects discussed by Forsan schools

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

The Forsan Independent School District Board of Trustees voted Monday night to consult architects regarding such projects as the reroofing of the Forsan High School Junior High/High School building and repairs to the deck of the swimming pool.

The trustees also voted to replace several air conditioning units at the junior high/high school. "These are several units that are about 12 years old and these have been causing some maintenance problems," according to FISD superintendent J.F. Poynor.

He said the board determined to replace the air conditioning units before having a new roof put on the building, so the installation of the air conditioners would not damage the roof.

In addition, the board approved modifications to the Elbow Elementary school cafeteria — upgrading the kitchen hoods to meet state requirements and installation of a new major cooking appliance called a braising pan.

The board also decided to consult a different architect, one who specializes in and can do contract work with athletic track surfacing, to determine whether to resurface the school's track.

The board will consult the architect about what materials to use in the resurfacing if the decision is made to redo the track.

Carpet restretching and possible replacement of some carpet inside the high school also was discussed and approved.

The board viewed a video presentation concerning the Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) virus during a continued discussion of a communicable disease policy.

Poynor said the discussion would continue through at least the next meeting of the school board. Board members are being sent copies of a Texas Association of School Boards policy recommendation called Update 30, specifically aimed at communicable disease policy.

"That contains what the TASB recommends, and it is in compliance with the law and what the Texas State Department of Health and the state education commissioner recommend," Poynor said.

Staffing considerations for the 1988-89 school year also were discussed. The board voted to accept the resignation of High School Principal Jack Woodley, effective at the end of his contract in 1988. Applications from current employees will be considered to fill the vacancy during the January meeting.

The board also heard a request to consider adding a school nurse to the Forsan staff for 1988-89.

The board voted not to buy theft insurance at this time for the school's computers, but to consider a variety of anti-theft devices instead.

In other business, the trustees:

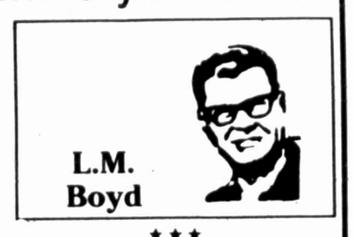

- Heard and approved financial reports.
- Approved paying the district's bills.
- Approved the 1986-87 performance report.
- Approved the exit test results for the current junior class.

Approved rejoining the Texas Association of School Boards.

- Approved purchase of a tennis ball machine for the athletic department and a video camera for use by the entire district.

Discussion of the accreditation report from the Texas Education Agency was again postponed because the agency has not yet made its report available to the board.

Four injured in local accidents

Herald staff report

Slick, icy roads contributed to three traffic accidents which injured four people in Big Spring Monday.

- Domingo Louis Rodriquez, 21, Knott Route Box 60, remained in stable condition at Scenic Mountain Medical Center this morning after being admitted for injuries he sustained in a traffic accident on Highway 80 west of Birdwell Lane.

Also injured was a passenger, Consuelo Rodriquez, 24. She was treated and released from the Scenic Mountain Medical Center emergency room, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Rodriquez's 1979 Chrysler Newport was eastbound on Highway 80 when it encountered an ice patch on the roadway while changing lanes, police reports said.

Rodriquez lost control of the vehicle and it left the roadway and struck a utility pole, reports said.

Rodriquez was cited for unsafe speed.

- Alice Bedwell Henry, 43, Sterling City Route, Box 150, was treated and released from the Scenic Mountain Medical Center emergency room for injuries she received in a traffic accident on U.S. 87 south of FM 700.

Henry's 1982 GMC Sierra Classic was southbound on U.S. 87 when she lost control of the vehicle after crossing an icy patch on the highway, according to police reports.

The car left the roadway and struck a guardrail. Henry's vehicle slid down the guardrail for 27 feet before jumping the railing and flipping over on its top, police reports said.

Damage to the guardrail was estimated at $500.

No citation was issued.

- Dixie Cramer, 77, 3300 Fordham St., also was reportedly injured in a two-vehicle traffic accident at South Gregg Street and West 22nd Street. Cramer refused treatment, police reports said.

The accident occurred when Cramer's 1987 Mercury collided with a 1981 Mack van driven by Steve Alan Hannabass, 29, 1517 Wood St.

Cramer was cited for failure to yield right-of-way from a stop sign.

Christmas helpers

Christmas in April volunteers are shown renovating the house belonging to Addie Oliver, 604 N.E. 10th St. Volunteers will continue to do minor repair work on area homes throughout the winter, according to Bob Noyes, Christmas in April chairman. A related story and pictures appear on page 1-A.

covered under the non-renewed policy's $250 per-item deductible, Rotan said.

He stressed that school equipment will still be insured, and the district will save $4,849 by cancelling the additional coverage.

- Decided to re-post bids for sale of district-owned houses. Rotan told members that no bids for the properties had been received by the posted deadline, but a bid had been received by his office Monday.

Since the bid was submitted after the deadline, the district is required by law to re-bid before any action can be taken. In addition, the district will contact an area realtor to help with the sale of the properties, Rotan said.

- Placed a total of 44 teachers on Level II of the career ladder. Of that total, 42 will be maintained at Level II and two teachers — elementary instructor Kathy Nichols and high school band director Billy Goff — will be promoted from Level I, the superintendent said.

The designated teachers will receive their $1,500 lump-sum payment this month, in addition to their regular December paychecks. The money will come from a combination of state and local funds, Rotan noted.

- Appointed Rotan and 12 district teachers to the Textbook Committee for the current school year. The committee will be responsible for overseeing textbook selection for the district.

- Heard an enrollment report from Rotan. He noted as of Nov. 20, there were 925 students enrolled in the district, a decrease of 23 from the same time in 1986. Average daily attendance for the month was 881.99, he added.

- Elected to renew membership in the Texas Association of School Boards and TASB's Legal Assistance Fund. The fund was established in 1980 to assist districts in defending challenges or issues that impact public schools, Rotan said.

hearing is even held," Draper said.

Loss of business during the construction phase of the project was a major concern expressed by business owners who attended Monday night's meeting, according to Draper.

"Small businesses along Gregg Street couldn't stand the loss of business during the construction period," Draper said.

City Manager Mack Wofford said he met with Draper Monday afternoon, prior to Monday night's merchants' meeting.

"The group has requested to be placed on the agenda for next week's meeting. I am sure the council will be happy to hear what they have to say," Wofford said.

City officials are currently conducting research to determine the cost of relocating utilities in the proposed Gregg Street widening area.

Although the city would be required to pay the expense of relocating utilities, right-of-way purchased would be unnecessary because the state owns the land.

"We are not even close to determining how much it would cost to move the utilities," Wofford said.

officials.

Plans call for the two-lane segment to be widened and a center turning lane to be added. Estimated cost of the entire expansion project is $2.2 million.

Commissioners Monday also heard a request from Humane Society Director Margaret Lloyd for funds to help operate the center. Lloyd said it costs about $500 a month to feed and care for the approximately 50 cats and 100 dogs housed at the center.

Commissioners tabled the request to seek advice from the county attorney on the legality of donating funds to a non-government agency. They also suggested Lloyd seek support from the Big Spring City Council.

In other action Monday, commissioners decided to remain with the county's present insurance provider — Blue Cross/Blue Shield.

Premiums for county employees will rise from $97.16 to $115.40 and from $268.33 to $318.68 for employees who include their dependents.

The plan includes added stipulations not included in the last insurance plan to keep premiums as low as possible, County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin said.

The deductible charged for non-hospital medical treatment was increased from $100 to $200, and a $100 deductible was added to hospital costs, which were covered 100 percent in the last plan.

Franklin said a prescription drug program was added that allows employees to use a card and pay $5 for each prescription.

Pre-certification, second opinions and pre-admission testing also are required under the new plan, she said, adding that meetings will be conducted to explain the changes.

Odessa man injured in I-20 accident

Herald staff report

Icy road conditions were a factor in a one vehicle accident Monday on Interstate 20, according to a Department of Public Safety spokeswoman.

Hassan Hamidullah Akbar, 33, Odessa, was treated at Scenic Mountain Medical Center for injuries sustained in the one-vehicle accident, according to a hospital spokesman.

The accident occurred at 5 15 p.m. while Akbar was traveling over a railroad overpass on I-20, about five miles east of Coahoma.

Akbar was westbound in the outside lane when he reportedly lost control of his vehicle and collided with the north concrete guardrail then the south concrete median.

Icy road conditions and driving at an unsafe speed were listed as contributing factors in the accident.

VA to host Christmas program

Herald staff report

The First Baptist Church Senior Adult Choir and Bauer Magnet School Bell Ringers will present a special Christmas program for patients at the Big Spring VA Medical Center Wednesday at 2 p.m. according to Director Conrad Alexander.

After the program, which will be held in the hospital's main lobby, service organizations will distribute Christmas gifts to all patients, Alexander said, adding that refreshments will be served.

The activities are in connection with Veterans Administration Voluntary Service Day, set aside every year for organizations to give Christmas gifts to medical center patients, he said.

Sheriff's log

Herald staff report

Earnest Lee Paul, 18, Route 1 Box 377, was released after signing a bond Monday. He was arrested Sunday in Sand Springs on charges of aggravated assault. The amount of the bond is pending, according to a sheriff's spokeswoman.

- Don Adams, 29, HC 62 Box 15A, surrendered to the sheriff's office on a warrant charging him with revocation of probation on theft over $750 and under $20,000. He was released on a $5,000 bond.

- James Owen Winchester, 19, 103 E. 20th St., was transferred to the sheriff's office Monday and released on a $5,000 bond. He was arrested by city police Sunday on charges of possession of marijuana over four ounces.

- Dwight Russell Turner, 19, 1403 Alyford St., was transferred to the sheriff's office and released on bonds totaling $5,500. Turner was arrested by city police on charges of possession of marijuana over four ounces and under five pounds and possession of marijuana under two ounces.

- Eriberto (Eddie) Hernandez, 27, 1205 Ridgeroad Drive, surrendered to the sheriff's office on judgment nisi, burglary of a building. He was released on a $10,000 bond.

- Jimmy Olivarez, 23, Gail Route Box 265-A, was released Monday after serving time on a driving while intoxicated judgment.

- Jimmy Wayne Grant, 42, Coahoma, was transferred from the police department and released on bonds totaling $400. He was arrested on charges of Department of Public Safety traffic warrants.

- Gary L. Grant, 40, Coahoma, was released on a $2,000 bond after being transferred from the police department. He was arrested Monday on charges of DWI.

Police beat

Herald staff report

A burglary and misuse of a credit card were reported to Big Spring police Monday.

- Someone broke into the Sam Anderson Kindergarten building, located on the 200 block of Airbase Road, according to police reports. Nothing was reported missing, but reports indicated that a door sustained $100 worth of damage.

- Someone reportedly used a revoked credit card to purchase merchandise from Payless Shoes, 2011 S. Gregg St.

One arrest also was made by Big Spring police Monday.

- Anthony Ray Hayes, 1002 N. Main St. was arrested on a charge of burglary of a motor vehicle.

'Little Boy Blue' suspect arrested

Herald bureau report

AZLE — The arrest of Eli E. Stutzman, 38, in rural Parker County Monday could provide the solution to a mystery that began two years ago with the discovery of the body of an unidentified, pajama-clad boy — now believed to be his son — in a freezing Nebraska cornfield.

The weeklong search for Stutzman ended early Monday when he stepped from his mobile home with his hands in the air. Authorities said his arrest on a felony child abuse warrant could lead to murder charges in the death of the long-anonymous boy, who was identified last week as Daniel E. Stutzman.

After a puzzling investigation that crisscrossed the country's heartland, authorities in Thayer County, Neb., early this month issued a warrant for Stutzman, alleging that he left the child's body in a rural corn field outside Chester, Neb., where it was found on Christmas Eve 1985.

"We had been beating the bushes for two years and we never had a lead," Thayer County Sheriff Gary Young said. The body, believed to be that of a boy about 10 years old, was discovered by a pheasant hunter. Clad only in blue, sleeper pajamas, "the one-piece kind with the footies," the small body already had been ravaged by wild animals and the bitter Nebraska cold when it was found, Young said.

Snowfall buries El Paso

EL PASO (AP) — Winter is usually the dry season in this desert city — little snow, little rain.

But in the 24 hours ending 5 a.m. Monday, 16.7 inches of snow fell at the airport, transforming El Paso from a bustling metropolis bisected by brown mountains into a snowbound city overseen by snowcapped peaks. Schools were closed Monday, and El Paso International Airport opened and closed numerous times.

By the time the snow stopped about 1:30 p.m. Monday, 22.4 inches had fallen, setting a record for snowfall in a season, according to the National Weather Service. El Paso's previous record for snowfall in 24 hours was 8.8 inches on April 4 and 5, 1983. The previous record for a season was 18.5 inches in 1982-83.

"It's the kind of day when you want to be outside," Doug Mosier, a spokesman for the Border Patrol, said Monday. On reflection, he said: "Actually, it's the kind of day when you want to curl up in front of the fireplace and a picture window with a view of the mountains."

Although mountains were pretty, the scene on the streets was ugly. Most city streets were open Monday, except for Transmountain Road and a five-mile stretch of Interstate 10. Police were discouraging travel, said J.R. Grijalva, spokesman for El Paso police.

"We've had numerous accidents, and it's hard to get to some calls," he said. Police reported no deaths or serious injuries.

Colleen Collard, a dispatcher in the El Paso County sheriff's office, said the storm was one of the worst she had seen in her 20 years in the city. Driving the unplowed streets was treacherous.

"El Paso is not geared for major winter storms," she said. "It's gorgeous to look at. If you don't have to drive in it, it's beautiful."

The Red Cross was ready to help people whose heat had been knocked out by the storm, or whose health was in danger because of the cold, said Sharon Dennis, director of emergency services. She said only a few people had called by early Monday afternoon.

She said the Red Cross was investigating reports that houses in Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, had collapsed from the weight of the snow.

Just 45 miles to the north in Las Cruces, N.N., all roads were closed because of the heavy snowfall, said Mary Hendricks, a dispatcher for the Dona Ana County sheriff's office. Schools, offices and most business were closed, she said. Snow was still falling at noon Monday, obscuring the jagged Organ Mountains just outside the city of 50,000.

"They usually look really gorgeous when they're covered with snow," she said.

Snowfall east of El Paso generally was lighter. Van Horn and Balmorhea reported accumulations of about 3 inches.

Francesa Carreon is knee-deep in about two feet of snow Monday afternoon as she begins to dig out of her front yard in El Paso. The National Weather Service reported 22.4 inches of snowfall on Monday, a 24-hour record for the West Texas city.

Attorney general: 2,000 Texans may get car refund

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 2,000 Texans stand to get money and extended warranty protection from Chrysler Motors Corp. in a settlement of the company's odometer rollback case, Attorney General Jim Mattox says.

Chrysler entered a no contest plea in federal court in St. Louis, Mo., on Monday, agreeing to pay more than $16 million to owners of the cars as part of a settlement of current and potential class-action lawsuits.

The settlement calls for Chrysler to pay at least $500 to the owners of about 32,750 vehicles that have been identified as having been part of what the company called its Quality Assurance Program, Mattox said.

That program involved company employees taking vehicles home to test them before being shipped to dealers. Mattox said owners never knew the cars had been used before being sold.

Mattox said about 2,180 Texans would receive a total of $1.7 million and extended warranty coverage under the settlement.

"This is a major victory for consumers in Texas," said Mattox, noting that his office had been involved in the negotiations with Chrysler.

But Mattox said he isn't entirely happy with the outcome. "We are disappointed that we are not able to identify each and every car involved," he said.

Court approval is required for the settlement, Mattox said. "It is expected that the necessary court approval could take several months," he said.

Eligible Chrysler product owners will be contacted by mail during the process, Mattox said. They don't need to file claims to be eligible to receive payment, he said.

On other subjects, Mattox:

— Said he and most of the nation's other state attorneys general have issued guidelines for the airline industry that the state officials hope will eliminate "potentially unfair and deceptive business practices."

The National Association of Attorneys General guidelines, which explain what advertising and marketing practices are legal under various state laws, follow consumer complaints over fares, frequent flyer programs and other practices, Mattox said.

"If airlines abide by the guidelines, then we agree they are in a safe harbor," Mattox said. If they don't, lawsuits may be filed, he said.

— Predicted that a lawsuit filed by atheists seeking to block a state employee-organized Christmas caroling program in the Capitol building probably wouldn't get a hearing before Thursday.

Houston man on parole slays neighbor

Herald bureau report

A Houston man who was granted early parole last year from the Texas Department of Corrections fatally stabbed his neighbor Monday, then held police at bay for seven hours before being subdued by a police Taser stun gun, officials said.

Martin Trevino, 27, was hit with an electrical dart from the stun gun about 9:30 a.m. as he stepped out of his home in the 200 block of Velasco to scream at officers, said Danny Turner, a spokesman for the Houston Police Department.

Seven hours earlier, Trevino allegedly stabbed a neighbor, Jesse Medina, 30, during a fight over loud music, Turner said. Medina died a short time later at Ben Taub Hospital.

Trevino, who has won early parole from the TDC three different times, was charged Monday with murder. He was denied bail.

The suspect told police he stabbed Medina after the victim struck him in the head with a "large club," Turner said. After the stabbing, he said, Trevino ran into his house and refused to come out, prompting the HPD's Special Weapons and Tactics Team to surround the northeast Houston residence.

Six family members were in the house, including the suspect's parents and two young boys, but none of them were harmed and they were not held against their will, Turner said.

During the standoff, he said, Trevino repeatedly stepped out onto his porch and yelled at SWAT officers. "The suspect basically stated, I'm not coming out. My brother's an attorney and you don't have a warrant," Turner said.

The last time Trevino stepped outside police "Tasered him," Turner said.

David Nunnelee, a TDC spokesman, said Trevino was sentenced to eight years in prison for auto theft in February 1984. Trevino was paroled on "mandatory supervision" on July 30, 1986, Nunnelee said.

Trevino received a two-year prison term in April 1980 for burglary of a motor vehicle, but he was paroled a year later, Nunnelee said.

Opinion

Kennedy choice seems a winner

President Reagan might have a winner this time in Anthony M. Kennedy.

Unlike two previous U.S. Supreme Court nominees — Robert Bork and Douglas Ginsburg — Kenendy doesn't appear to have a rigid right-wing agenda that almost automatically sparks opposition from liberals. Nor is he likely to surprise the White House with tardy revelations of vice or other socially questionable behavior.

The record of this federal appellate judge suggests his views are similar to those of Lewis Powell, the retiring justice he would replace. Given the fact that Kennedy, or whoever eventually succeeds Powell, may become the swing vote on crucial issues, Kennedy's judicial temperament and moderation may be right for the times.

He is not likely to take extreme views or try to reverse long-established court precedent. Lawyers who appeared before him described him as a fair-minded judge who weighs each case on its merits.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, however, should scrutinize Kenendy just as carefully as it did Bork, whom the Senate rejected. Ginsburg withdrew before the committee ever held a hearing on his nomination.

However worthy his qualifications, Kennedy isn't a saint. He must be questioned, for instance, about his work as lobbyist fo Schenley Industries Inc., during a time when the liquor manufacturer allegedly paid thousands of dollars in illegal kickbacks to restaurants and liquor distributors.

He should be asked why he remained a member of the all-male Olympic Club in San Francisco during a time when he ruled against comparable worth, the concept of giving women equal pay for jobs deemed of equal value to predominately male occupations.

We are encouraged that Kenendy approves of the advice-and-consent process of conforming high court justices and is eager to answer questions. If Kennedy survives Senate questioning — and we predict that he will — the Supreme Court should have a ninth member by the start of the new year.

Amendments — not even God can stop them

Capitol Report

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate last week shoveled more than $600 billion into a single appropriations measure and created the most costly single piece of legislation in the history of the Republic.

It did so because there was no apparent way to pass the 13 individual appropriations bills needed to run the agencies of the government and still permit Congress to adjourn before the 1987 calendar runs its course.

The catch-all bill represented a tempting opportunity for many.

It was unlikely to be vetoed by President Reagan — even if he objected to individual sections — because it contains the money needed to keep most of the government's programs operating.

Since the legislation was presumably veto-proof, senators stood in line to slip amendments under its protective umbrella.

But it all took time. Some began to wonder if Congress would be able to adjourn before New Year's Eve.

Chaplain Richard Halvorsen, who opens each Senate session with prayer, was asked if he could pray for an early adjournment.

Halvorsen said that while he could, the prayer might not be totally effective.

"I have concluded that not even God can prevent a senator from offering a amendment," Halvorsen said.

And the amendments flowed in. The issues they covered were almost beyond counting.

"This horse can carry only so many riders," said Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo.

But apparently acting on the theory that one more among so many could not possibly hurt, Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., rose to offer yet another proposal.

The Melcher amendment, he explained, would provide $300,000 in "seed money" to help pay for a 1989 meeting in Washington of the "National Silver Haired Congress," an association of senior citizens.

"I offer it because my hair is just about as white as anyone's in this chamber," Melcher said.

He explained that participants in the Silver Haired Congress would come from every state and congressional district in the country, organize themselves in the manner of the real Congress, debate issues of concern to the elderly and present the resulting proposals to the House and Senate.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, who has just as much white hair as Melcher, said he found the whole idea of a Silver Haired Congress "difficult to comprehend."

"The senator from Ohio is eligible," said Melcher, referring to his colleague's hair color.

"I know I am eligible," Metzenbaum replied. "But I'm not sure I want to come to the meeting. I do not know if I want to participate in that $300,000 party. I do not know that there is any great demand to do something of this kind."

Everyone wants to be supportive of the elderly, the Ohio senator said.

But he added that he had received no demands or requests or suggestions from senior citizens organizations for such a meeting, to be paid for in part out of the Senate's contingency fund.

"Why are we suddenly standing on the floor at 10 after eight at night talking about calling a meeting in Washington and spending $300,000 of the Senate's money for a National Silver Haired Congress in 1989?" the senator said.

"I really question the merit."

Melcher replied that $300,000 was "only a small amount"

But Metzenbaum wanted to know how the $300,000 would be paid out, and to whom.

"What about anybody arriving in town who is 92 years old and totally bald?" he said.

Melcher finally withdrew the amendment and offered a substitute.

It merely put the Senate on record as encouraging and authorizing the convening of a National Silver Haired Caucus in 1989.

The $300,000 payment was dropped.

Melcher said the silver haired would be able to raise the money they needed on their own.

The Senate accepted the modified amendment and moved on to other business.

But not before Senate Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas had a comment.

"We are down to about 106 amendments now," he said. "We have made a lot of progress. Last time, we had 105. And now it is 106."

Finally, shortly before 3 o'clock Saturday morning, the amendments were dealt with in one manner or another — more than 70 were adopted — and the bill was passed.

"The rosy-fingered dawn is creeping over the eastern hills," Simpson remarked.

"I give up."

Conservatives crying down with the Gipper

Art Buchwald

By ART BUCHWALD

It's enough to make a secular humanist cry. The right wing in the United States has turned on the Gipper, the man who led them out of the Carter political desert into the land of deficits and Star Wars.

The wrath of the conservatives was caused by Reagan saying they do not understand the arms pact and have accepted the idea that war is inevitable.

Archie Sovereign, a right-winger of impeccable credentials, as frothing at the mouth. "He has joined the evil empire."

I said, "Not necessarily, but there is some truth to the idea that your people believe war between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. has to be."

"Maybe we do and maybe we don't," Sovereign said. "Peace hasn't worked that well anyway. But that's not the point. How would the flaming liberals like it if Reagan stabbed them in the back?"

"They wouldn't like it, but it's hard to imagine any occasion when he would stab us. Ronald Reagan started his political life as a liberal and it's obvious he wants to end his career as one. If it makes his day to sign a nuclear peace treaty with the Russians, I don't see any reason for the neo-conservatives to get all excited about it."

"There is more to this than a lousy arms deal," Sovereign said. "What if I told you the Soviets turned the President around and he now works for them?"

"How could they have done it?" I asked. "He goes to bed so early."

"They put something in Reagan's Ovaltine."

"You ultra-conservatives are really loony. Who would do that?"

"Gorbachev. Since the days of the Czar it has always been the dream of the Russians to have an American President in their pocket. Suppose after putting something in the Ovaltine he persuaded Reagan to sign the paper?"

"Reagan would never sign anything he doesn't believe. He has said many times that the treaty is good for both sides. By reducing nuclear weapons, and stressing verification, the world will be a safer place to live in."

"It sounds like something the Soviets would instruct Reagan to say. You have to be blind not to see the President gets his orders from the Kremlin."

"Shame on you. Is red-baiting the only thing the right-wing fringe knows how to do? Just because you're mad is no reason to question the loyalty of those who support arms reduction. It may interest you to hear that there are quite a few patriotic Republicans who have urged Reagan to put his signature on the treaty. For heaven's sake, Archie, you people aren't losing a missile system — you're gaining the Star Wars Initiative."

"Where in the treaty does it say that the Soviets will cry uncle?"

"If we start down that road, the cold war will begin anew and we'll all be in the freezer."

"It's better than Gorbachev walking off with everything in the Oval Office. You know, from the beginning we fringe people never did trust Ronald Reagan. He talked tough, but he had disarmament written all over his face."

"OK, so you don't agree that he should sit down with Gorbachev. What are you going to do about it?"

"We're going to start impeachment proceedings."

"You can't impeach Reagan."

"Maybe not, but it's a great way to raise new money for old right-wing causes."

Star Wars fear may have pushed accord

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The primary reason Mikhail Gorbachev seemed determined to engage in meaningful arms control negotiation — including the signing of a medium-range missile treaty in Washington last week — is fear of President Reagan's Star Wars research program.

He has good reason to be afraid.

The president is bent on pushing his Strategic Defense Initiative through the final hour of his administration in 1989, even if it means bypassing Congress and the 1972 Antiballistic Missile Treaty with the Soviet Union.

In a series of columns, we have revealed Reagan's personal approval of a secret program, codenamed "Zenith Star," to test a chemical laser in space in the early 1990s.

"Zenith Star" was secretly pushed by the president, then-Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, now-Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci, who was then the national security adviser, and the Pentagon's SDI chief, Lt. Gen. James Abrahamson.

The president, we are told, was slightly snookered. He thought he was walking into a simple briefing on different SDI programs. But Weinberger manipulated it into a decision-making session, securing firm presidential approval for various SDI efforts, including "Zenith Star" and a program to develop a "heavy lift launch vehicle," which would loft large SDI components into space orbit.

What Gorbachev surely knows by now is that Reagan admitted at the meeting that the "Zenith Star" test would break the 1972 ABM Treaty with the Soviets. That treaty bans the development and testing of ABM systems based in space.

Abrahamson pushed the president to notify the Soviets of a pending breach of the ABM Treaty, but Reagan wanted to keep the program under wraps — including keeping it a secret from Congress, which was already making the most of the embarrassing Iran/Contra scandal.

It was not the first time the president dallied with the notion of breaching the 1972 ABM Treaty. As we have reported, Reagan signed a secret National Security Decision Directive in 1985 saying he had "re-examined" the treaty and gained "new insights into how this treaty can objectively be interpreted."

No creative interpretation was needed if Congress followed the president's script for the SDI program, the secret directive concluded.

On the eve of Gorbachev's arrival for the summit, the president continued his not-so-subtle program to undermine the ABM Treaty. At a speech before his conservative think tank, the Heritage Foundation, Reagan accused the Soviets of being poised to break the treaty with their own antiballistic missile system, which US officials calla "Red Shield."

On the same day, Gorbachev told a U.S. TV audience that Reagan and his scientists could "indulge" in any SDI research they wanted as long as it did not violate the ABM Treaty.

The two men likely spent much of their time last week tip-toeing around that treaty, trying to decide how far eitherside can go with imaginative interpretation.

The treaty gave both sides an out by allowing for a reopening of the ABM talks when science and technology made the leap to the laser weapons that were only dreamed of back in 1972.

Reagan's predecessors — Nixon, Ford and Carter ... east in public, Reagan bought ood that nterpretation early in his ad- as would tration. When he unveiled the 1972 Wars in 1983, the president d a National Security Deci- Directive assuring that SDI not designed to violate the Treaty.

In 1984, Reagan signed another directive underscoring the admonition not to transgress the ABM Treaty limits with STar Wars research. But apparently that was before the president realized that his time in the White House would end before SDI became a fait accompli.

MINI-EDITORIAL — Libyan dictator Moammar Gadhafi is evidently worried about his fading image as one of the world's really bad apples. So he tried to recapture the international spotlight recently by demanding "reparations" from Italy to cover the period of Italian colonial rule from 1912 to 1943.

We doubt that the gambit will squeeze so much as a lira out of Rome. But Moammar might want to try the same tactic on the British, who drove Mussolini's and Hitler's men out of Libya, and the French, who ruled part of the desert kingdom from the middle of World War II 'til 1952. Then there's Turkey and the 350 years of Ottoman hegemony ...

Aunt, uncle get custody

BRIDGETON, N.J. — The aunt and uncle of 5-year-old Rachel Rauser say they'll wait to tell her the details of a custody dispute that began when Rachel's father was charged with trying to sell her to them for $100,000.

The dispute ended Monday when a judge granted custody of Rachel to Deborah and Gary Stern, who posed as buyers on March 10 when Joseph Waltman was arrested in the parking lot of Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J.

Waltman, 23, of Alloway Township, is free on $10,000 bail pending his trial next year on charges of endangering the welfare of a child. The Sterns, of Sunrise, Fla., cooperated with police in the arrest.

Court bans abortion law

CHICAGO — An Illinois abortion law struck down by the U.S. Supreme Court was legally flawed and aimed at punishing young women for getting pregnant, an American Civil Liberties Union lawyer says.

The law required girls under age 18 who were financially dependent on their parents to wait 24 hours to have an abortion after telling their parents or a judge about their decision.

Colleen Connell, who argued the case before the high court, said involving parents in such a decision was not the real reason behind the 1983 statute.

Hart to file, aide says

CONCORD, N.H — Gary Hart, who dropped out of the Democratic presidential race in May, apparently plans to file today as a candidate in the New Hampshire primary, a former campaign aide says.

Susan Casey, former assistant campaign manager for the Colorado Democrat, said she had been authorized to announce that Hart will be at the secretary of state's office in Concord at noon. The deadline for filing in the Feb. 16 primary is Friday.

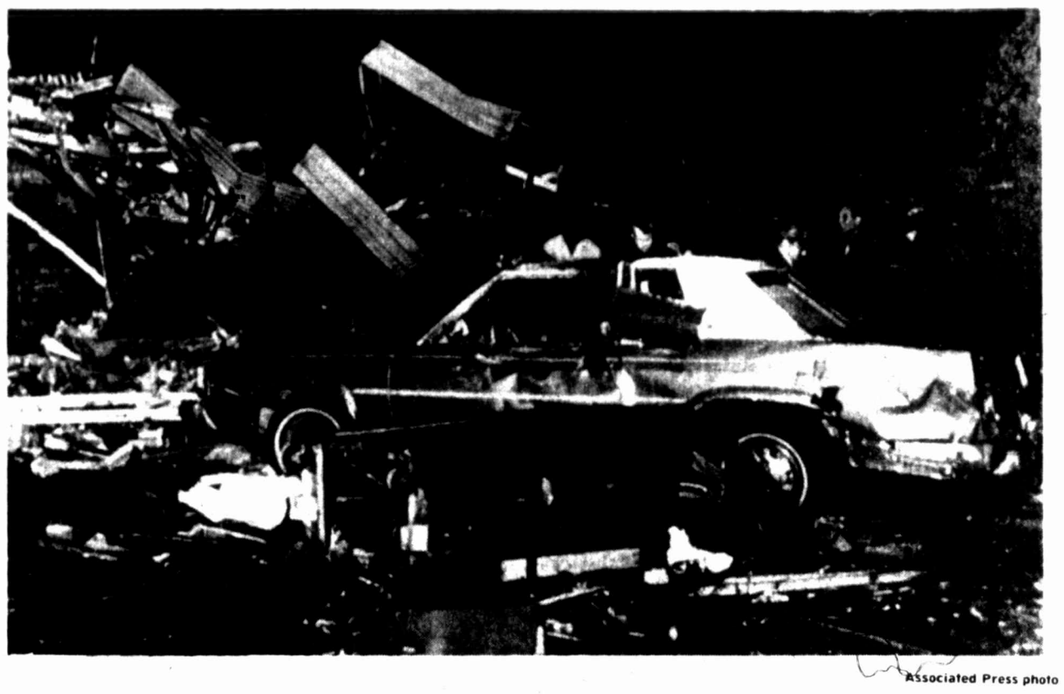

Kennedy hearings start

WASHINGTON — Anthony M. Kennedy is taking a low-key approach in his quest for confirmation to the Supreme Court by stressing the importance of open-mindedness, impartiality and judicial precedent on issues ranging from abortion to the death penalty.

Kennedy, who is President Reagan's third choice for a Supreme Court seat that has been vacant for six months, returns to the witness chair today to resume testifying before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

During nearly five placid hours of testimony Monday, he delicately skirted a question on how he would approach the issue of abortion rights.

"In any case, the role of the judge is to approach the subject with an open mind, listen to counsel and look at the facts," he said.

Rescue workers pick through wreckage left Monday night by tornadoes that caused widespread destruction and killed four people in West Memphis, Ark.

Killer storm

Snow, tornado kill 11 in Midwest

By the Associated Press

A storm system blamed for 11 deaths and packing thick snow, sleet and high winds roared across the Midwest today after spawning tornadoes that smashed through four Southern states.

Worst hit was West Memphis, Ark., where a tornado late Monday killed at least five people, injured dozens, turned buildings into rubble and prompted a search for bodies this morning in a devastated apartment complex, authorities said.

"I lost count at 60 in the emergency room," said Myrna Clark, supervisor of admissions at Crittenden Memorial Hospital, where 13 of the patients treated were admitted. "They've come in bloody, lot of fractures."

Chicago and other Midwest cities fueled up plows and salt trucks as they awaited the snowstorm that pounded the Southwest with up to 30 inches of snow Sunday and Monday, paralyzing ill-prepared Sunbelt cities.

"We have everything with wheels on it moving" to clear streets, said Phillip Wilhelm, street and sewer superintendent in Decatur, Ill., where nearly 6 inches had fallen by early today.

The storm was expected to move into southeastern Ontario in a day or two after dumping up to a foot of snow on the Great Lakes region, said Hugh Crowther of the National Weather Service's Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo. Warnings of more than 6 inches were posted for Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain preceding the storm in the Northeast were expected to hit New York State and New England today. Winter storm warnings or watches were also in effect all day for parts of western Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Bitter cold knifed into the West and Southern Plains today, freezing over snow-covered highways. It was 8 degrees early today at Lubbock International Airport in Texas, tying a 68-year-old record.

"There are troopers here who have been out on the roads many years saying the driving conditions are the worst they've ever been," said police dispatcher Allan Grantz in the Oklahoma Panhandle, where up to 14 inches of snow fell.

"Nothing is moving," said a desk clerk at the Sands Motel in Vega, Texas, about 40 miles west of Amarillo, which had 5-foot snow drifts.

The storm, centered over southeastern Missouri, carried heavy snow that extended from Missouri to Wisconsin, said Crowther.

"It will probably end up being one of major storms of whole season," he said. "What's really unusual about it is that so many of these areas have not had major storms yet. They're really being hard hit right off the bat."

Kansas City, Mo., recorded 10 inches of snow by early this morning, a 24-hour snowfall record for the month, the weather service said.

In southeastern Missouri, a tornado touched down in Bloomfield, toppling mobile homes and injuring at least one resident.

Hundreds of travelers were stranded when Trans World Airlines canceled its flights at Lambert-St Louis International Airport. Dozens of minor car accidents were reported in the area.

In Tennessee, up to 20 homes were destroyed and at least 29 people left homeless after a series of twisters touched down.

Iranians strike tanker

MANAMA, Bahrain — Iranian gunboats attacked a Greek tanker bound for Saudi Arabia twice in seven hours today, the second time setting it ablaze and forcing the crew to abandon ship, maritime salvage executives said.

The crew's quarters of the 102,088-ton Ariadne were rocked by an explosion in the second attack, said the executives, who spoke on condition of anonymity. There was no immediate word on casualties.

In the first attack, off the coast of Oman near the entrance to the Strait of Hormuz, two gunboats raked the tanker with machine gun fire, causing only minor damage and no casualties, the executives said.

Terrorist trial begins

ROME — A Palestinian extremist charged with leading a terrorist attack that left 16 people dead at a Rome airport was placed inside an iron-barred holding cage for the start of his trial today.

The trial of Mahmoud Ibrahim Khaled began 2½ hours behind schedule because the court had to wait for the arrival of an Arabic language interpreter.

Khaled was the only one of four Palestinian commandos to survive the attack at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport on Dec. 27, 1985. A nearly simultaneous terrorist attack at Vienna's airport left four dead and 47 wounded.

Ortega denies claims

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — President Daniel Ortega discounted a claim by his his brother, the defense minister, that the nation's army plans to grow to 10 times its current strength.

Ortega said Monday that Defense Minister Humberto Ortega was just promoting participation in the country's defense forces when he spoke of expanding the military to as many as 600,000 soldiers.

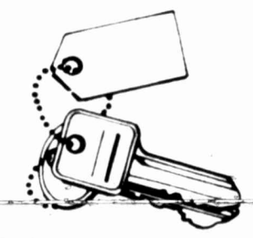

The Sandinista president said Nicaragua's army will remain at its current strength of 60,000 to 80,000 troops because that is what the country can support.

Mexico devalues peso

MEXICO CITY — The government Monday announced a sharp 22 percent devaluation of the peso, the first of a series of sweeping measures expected to be put in place to shore up the nation's faltering economy.

The Bank of Mexico, the nation's central bank, issued a one-paragraph statement announcing that the controlled rate of the peso was adjusted to 2,200 pesos to the dollar. It had traded at 1,796.9 to 1,805.2 on Friday.

"As part of a cooperative program between the government and the worker ... and business sectors ... the controlled exchange rate has been increased today to 2,200 pesos to the dollar," said the statement.

is helping control costs.

We do more than say, "We care." We show it. One way is by making sure the funeral service is meaningful and dignified. Another important consideration is cost. Certainly we understand the family's need to control cost. In caring concern, we offer every available option to do so. (The cost does not affect the dignified quality of our service.)

College education too broad in the minds of upset parents

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: You told "Upset Parent," who objected to the lack of moral supervision at college: "When a grown child goes off to college, parents cannot expect the authorities there to assume guardianship of their children's sexual behavior."

Abby, the college authorities have a responsibility to provide living quarters that are free of drugs, alcohol and a brothel atmosphere.

Every generation of college administrators has probably found enforcing dormitory rules a headache, but the current generation is the first to "turn the zoo over to the animals." Our young people are being exposed to sexual stimulation at an age when their hormones need no nudging. Why should we make it easy for them?

Look into the matter. You will be shocked by what is going on in 95 percent of our colleges. Men and women live on the same floor, share the same bathrooms and showers; they are openly sleeping together, and nobody blinks an eye!

ANOTHER UPSET PARENT

DEAR PARENT: After reading the mail this week, I feel more like Rip Van Winkle than Abigail Van Buren. I confess I was not aware that the situation is exactly as you described it in all but a very few colleges in our lovely liberal land. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I live in a university town and I frequently visit other universities as a speaker. I am usually housed in the women's dorm. There is no security. I have gone to the ladies' bathroom at midnight and found men and women showering there — together! Reputable hotels do not permit visitors who are not registered to remain overnight in rooms or hallways. A university dormitory should be run at least on the level of a reputable hotel — not a hot sheet place in the red-light district.

APPALLED, NORMAN, OKLA.

DEAR ABBY: I was barely 18 when I went away to a state university. I didn't drink, smoke or engage in sex with the men I dated. Living in a college dormitory was a new experience for me. There were no restrictions whatsoever. My roommate's boyfriend would spend the night in her bed, which was only inches from mine, so I had to find somewhere to sleep or just stay in the same room with them! I requested a change of roommates, but my new roommate was no better than the first. When I complained to the authorities again, I was told: "If you keep this up, you are going to get a reputation for being difficult!"

Years ago, college students were not allowed to have their own apartments on campus because the college authorities wanted to keep their moral standards high. Today, the students who want to keep high moral standards must move out of the college dorms and get their own apartments.

DISGUSTED IN MASSACHUSETTS

DEAR ABBY: We sent eight children to college over the last 24 years, and I have witnessed an unbelievable change in the so-called house rules. Underage drinking, partying, sex, pot and drugs have become so common and "acceptable" they are seldom cause for disciplinary action. Abby, please make some surprise inspections of some college dorms. You will be surprised.

FATHER OF EIGHT

DEAR ABBY: I agree with "Upset Parent" concerning the free and open sexuality in college dorms. I believe college authorities should take some steps to control immorality in the dorms.

First, they should eliminate coed dorms. I strongly object to your statement that "If young adults are inclined to fool around, they will find a way to do it on their lunch hour."

If young men were kept out of young ladies' quarters and vice versa, it would certainly help to correct this situation.

How did we ever get into this mess, and where will it end?

HARRISBURG PARENT

DEAR PARENT: We got into this mess when the rules were so consistently ignored they might as well not even have existed. And it will end when enough students and parents get that message to the college authorities.

Everything You Need To Know About THE BIG SPRING HERALD And Don't Know...

How to submit stories or ideas:

If a story needs our immediate attention, call the News or Sports Departments. The earlier the better, as we do have many demands competing for our attention. If the story is not urgent, please write the details, including your name, address and a telephone number where you can be contacted during the day for more information.

Don't forget, too, that you have a voice to the community through the Herald's "letters to the editor" column. (Your letters must be signed)

How to announce an engagement or wedding:

Some newspaper charge to run wedding and engagement stories. We don't because we believe that the biggest news of your life is meant to be shared. Our Lifestyle Editor will guide you in providing the necessary details. Either call via phone or stop at the Herald office where printed forms are available.

Return them to us as soon as possible, along with black/white photo (your choice of composition.) We won't print a wedding story received later than five weeks after the event. Eventually you have to draw the line.

How to place an advertisement in The Big Spring Herald:

Whether it's a classified word ad, classified display or retail ad, call 263-7331 and one of our advertising representatives will assist you. By picking up the Herald ad into our Window Shopper you will have Total Market Coverage.

How to subscribe to The Herald:

Have The Herald delivered to your home every afternoon-Monday through Friday, and Saturday and Sunday mornings. Just call 263-7331 to start your paper today.

What to do to arrange tours of our building:

We're getting good at giving tours. If your group wants a close look, call our News Department at 263-7331. We prefer afternoon visits, Monday through Friday, and a minimum of one week's advance notice to keep our scheduling straight. Tours include each area of the newspaper and last between 20 and 30 minutes, depending on how many questions you ask.

How to use the Herald for your printing needs:

Let the Herald save you time and money on all your printing needs. We have very competitive prices and fast service. We do envelopes, letterheads, invoices, flyers, books and magazines just to name a few of our many services. Just call Bob Rogers at 263-7331 for your next printing order.

How to use the Herald Window Shopper

The Window Shopper is published every Wednesday and delivered to everyone in the Big Spring market area that does not take the Big Spring Herald. Call 263-7331 and ask for an Advertising Representative for more information.

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a good day to get out and do some comparison shopping for Christmas — be sure you get the best buys. Get together with some partners and plan how you can get a project operating more smoothly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't fight the changes which are happening around you; accept them instead. Use great care while driving today and this evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve your efficiency and take care of your finances. Your mate has a new plan in mind, so listen to it and try to improve it if you can.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your mate may not be using good common sense, so try to be helpful. Be understanding tonight, and don't lose your temper.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A higher-up in the outside world could create a problem for a family member. Fix up your home for entertainment tonight.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Something about a letter from a partner might surprise or annoy you, but don't argue over it. Take care of travel plans tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your financial situation, but don't do anything drastic to change it right now. Don't take any unnecessary risks in business.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Someone who is known for good judgment may not agree with you about a joint venture, so think it over wisely this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't talk over an important matter which has you worried with a stranger. This situation will work itself out by tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may have some misgivings about your friendships, but be sure you retain those which are tried and true. Drive with the utmost care.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Pay special attention to your duties at work today. You may have to rearrange your schedule, but make time for social affairs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you have some ideas for advancement, study them well before putting them into operation. You can make a great new friend tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study your responsibilities and be sure to prioritize them. This is a good day for business. Try to improve your financial situation.

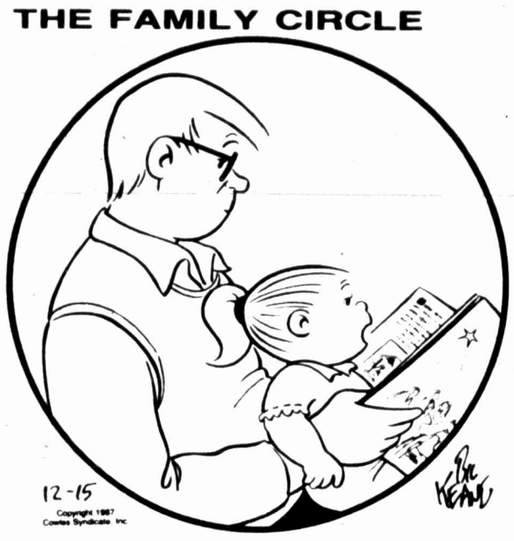

If Your Child Is Born Today
He or she will have a great amount of artistic talent and will do well at anything which requires neatness and precision, but will try many different occupations before the life's work is found. The latter part of your progeny's life will be full of happiness and comfort.

HAGAR THE HORRIBLE

49ers humble Bears

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jerry Rice is so hot he's catching balls he can't see and making proud defensive backs whimper in embarrassment.

The tall, speedy wide receiver notched three more touchdowns Monday night in the San Francisco 49ers' 41-0 rout of the Chicago Bears, but shrugged off the two NFL records he tied as if they were mere footnotes.

Rice raced past cornerback Vestee Jackson, left safety Todd Bell in the dust, then padded stealthily into the night dressed in black turtleneck, black leather pants and black alligator shoes with silver tips on the toes and heels.

Rice stole the show again, even on a night when the 49ers' defense played its finest game of the year.

Quarterback Steve Young, who filled in admirably when Joe Montana hobbled off with a hamstring injury in the first quarter, called Rice "the fastest human in the world when the ball is in the air."

Young put the ball in the air often enough for Rice to tie Mark Clayton's league record of 18 touchdown catches in a season and a long-standing record of 11 consecutive games with touchdown catches.

All of which meant little to Rice, who said "there's only one thing on my mind and that's the Super Bowl."

Rice, who has played 10 games in this strike-shortened season, has two games left to break the record Clayton set in 15 games at Miami in 1984. Next Sunday against Atlanta, Rice can break the consecutive-game record held by Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch of the 1950-51 Los Angeles Rams and Buddy Dial of the 1959-60 Pittsburgh Steelers.

Rice's second touchdown was his most spectacular catch of the night, a 16-yarder in the corner of the end zone just over Jackson's head that the 6-foot-2, 200-pound receiver snared in his fingertips.

"I lost that football in the lights and it was a desperation catch," Rice said. "I threw my hands out and the ball fell right in."

Chicago Bears head coach Mike Ditka gestures and yells at rowdy San Francisco 49ers fans who were throwing things at him as he was departing the field at halftime in Monday's night game against San Francisco.

Everything seems to be falling right in place for Rice this year, much to the dismay of his opponents.

"This is an embarrassment," Jackson said. "Everything went wrong tonight. It's just terrible."

Defensive end Al Harris called the defeat, "the worst I've ever been beaten — high school, college or pro."

Rice's accomplishment was all the more noteworthy because the three-year veteran had to make a quick adjustment to Young's left-handed passes.

"Steve's got a different rotation on the football, so I had to watch the ball all the way into my hands," Rice said.

Rice has 19 touchdown catches in his streak, which began in the final game last season. He had consecutive three-touchdown games against Tampa Bay and Cleveland in late November. Over those 11 games, he has 61 receptions for 1,001 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Rice's first touchdown was the first completion of the game for Young and came three plays after Montana left.

On a second-down play from the Bears' 1-yard line, Young rolled to his right and hit Rice, who sprinted right and caught the ball just over the goal line. The touchdown, with 6:11 remaining in the quarter, gave San Francisco a 7-0 lead.

Rice's final touchdown was a simple slant out from the 2-yard line. Young lofted a soft pass that Rice caught with no defender within three yards of him.

"For some reason the defensive back didn't bump me and I was able to get a free release," said Rice, who added he was surprised at how little the Bears blitzed in the game.

Even when Rice wasn't scoring, his presence led to a touchdown as Dwight Clark scored on a 13-yard pass from Young in the second quarter.

Young said Rice was the first option on the play but he was smothered by defenders.

"They kind of left Dwight alone, and by looking at Jerry they all kind of collapsed and Dwight got in behind him," Young said.

Cowboys will try Pelluer this week

IRVING (AP) — With the Dallas Cowboys assured seats by their television sets during the NFL playoffs for the second consecutive year, Steve Pelluer is expected to get another shot at proving he's the quarterback of the future.

Pelluer, nusring a sore knee, watched from the sidelines on Sunday as the Cowboys lost to Washington 24-20 despite Danny White's record-book passing performance.

The loss eliminated the Cowboys' playoff chances with two games still to play, at Los Angeles, Monday night Dec. 21, and at home against St. Louis Dec. 27.

If Pelluer is healthy, Dallas Coach Tom Landry said he will likely start against the Rams.

Pelluer was the starting quarterback in losses to Miami and Atlanta at Texas Stadium. Pelluer suffered a swollen knee against Atlanta and didn't practice last week.

Sunday's loss to Washington was the 14th for Dallas in the last 18 games. Dallas hasn't won a game in December since 1985.

Dallas Cowboys quarterback Steve Pelluer will get the starting nod when the Cowboys take on the Los Angeles Rams Monday night in Los Angeles.

White set a team record and tied another. His two touchdown passes broke Roger Staubach's career touchdown record of 153. His 49 passing atempts also tied the club's single-game high established by Staubach in 1975 and Gary Hogeboom in 1985.

The 359 yards passing by White ranked as the seventh best day by a Dallas quarterback.

White also set another record, becoming the first Dallas quarterback to pick a fight with a middle linebacker.

Seattle's Tom Chambers (24) goes up for a shot against Utah's Karl Malone (32), Mark Eaton (53) and Thurl Bailey (41) in NBA action Monday night.

Utah Jazz romps to victory over Sonics

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The presence of John Stockton in the Utah lineup gives his teammates a big boost, Seattle Coach Bernie Bickerstaff says.

"Stockton raises the level of the other four guys on the floor," Bickerstaff said after the Jazz posted a 116-95 victory over the Supersonics in the Monday night's only NBA game.

"He's developing into a nice point guard," said Bickerstaff, who really needed no demonstration. But he got one anyway when Stockton went 9-for-10 from the floor and 8-for-8 from the free throw line for a career-high 26 points in addition to making five steals and handing out 13 assists.

Thurl Bailey scored 29 points and Karl Malone added 22 for the Jazz, who went 29-for-36 from the free-throw line.

Dale Ellis led the Sonics with 29 points. Tom Chambers added 13, all in the second half after the Jazz had taken an insurmountable lead.

The Jazz used a 21-5 spurt to take a 28-13 lead. Utah extended its margin to 56-36 at the half and the closest the SuperSonics could get in the final period was 17 points.

Sonics point guard Nate McMillan tried picking Stockton up in the backcourt, but, "We knew they'd do that," Stockton said. "And, with our style, if we get dominated back there — if it takes 10 or 15 seconds to bring the ball up the floor — we're going to lose.

"So I just tried to push the ball by him as hard as I could. We wanted to put some pressure on their other guys."

Utah Coach Frank Layden said, "I'm very happy for John. He played a tremendous game, but then he's capable of playing like that regularly. John wasn't the only player who played well tonight. I can't think of one of our players who didn't have a good game."

Layden drew his first technical foul of the season, when he yelled at Marc Iavaroni, who was having an animated discussion with referee Mike Lauerman.

"I went to get Iavaroni. I got out on the floor a little bit," and referee Jack Madden called a technical foul, Layden said.

Texas high school coaches will look into tie-breaking procedure

DALLAS (AP) — High school coaches across Texas will be surveyed next spring concerning their feelings on the controversial tie-breakers used when football playoff games end in ties.

The Texas High School Coaches Association voted Sunday at its winter meeting to conduct the survey. Changes will be proposed if most coaches are against the system, the association said.

Under the current system, playoff games that end with the score tied are decided by the number of penetrations inside the opponents' 20-yard line. If that category is tied, the number of first downs becomes the deciding factor, then total yardage. If a tie remains, a coin flip decides which team advances.

Some coaches have argued that the present system works in favor of a team that grinds out long drives, in which they get several first downs, and against teams that feature potent runners who frequently break for long runs that produce touchdown drives with fewer first downs.

If the survey shows coaches are displeased with the present system, new proposals will be presented to the University Interscholastic League in the spring. The UIL executive committee could accept the proposal, refuse it or put it to a vote in a referendum among the state's school superintendents.

"The UIL is simply the governing body," said John Reddell, a member of the THSCA board of directors and football coach at Trinity High School in Fort Worth. "Therefore, they only wish to govern in a way that is just and in accordance to having the best possible program. If there is a consensus that there is a better way, then the governing body will give it deep consideration."

Texas is the only state that does not decide ties on the field.

The most popular tie-breaking system used by other states is the so-called "Kansas Plan." Under those rules, the ball is placed at the 10-yard line and each team has four chances to score.

Other tie-breaking ideas are sudden death, putting the ball at the 25 or midfield and giving each team four plays. The team that gains the most yardage in four plays wins the game.

"In my opinion, there is a better way to settle a tie," Reddell said. "I believe they will choose one. I think this is a step in the right direction and it has a favorable chance of being accepted."

Bulldoggettes win it all

OZONA — The Coahoma varsity girl hoopsters ran their record to 9-4 while winning the Ozona tournament this past weekend.

Coahoma defeated Junction 67-29 in the first game of the tourney. Ann Damron and Kelli Williams scored 13 points each in the win.

The Bulldoggettes then defeated Fort Hancock 61-35 as Williams and Shona Drewery scored 12 points each. In the championship game the Bulldogettes downed Crane 72-63 behind Drewery's 23 points. Jo Hudson, Damron and Williams scored 14 points each.

Drewery was named Most Valuable Player in the tournament and Williams was named to the all-tournament team.

Bulldogs win consolation

OZONA — The Coahoma varsity boys basketball team won the consolation trophy at the Ozona tourney this past weekend.

Fort Hancock downed Coahoma 62-49 in the opening game. Murray Maddox led Coahoma with 12 points, and Anthony Hernandez scored 11.

Curtis Hudson scored 20 points while leading the Bulldogs to a 62-44 win over Reagan County. Donnie Paige scored 13 and James White followed with 12.

In the consolation finals, Coahoma defeated Junction 58-53 as Matt Rowell scored 21 points. White followed with 14.

White was named to the all-tournament team.

Coahoma is now 9-3 for the season.

Steers to face Central

The Big Spring Steers will be on the road tonight when they battle the San Angelo Central Bobcats at 7:30 p.m. in the Central gym.

The Steers, 8-3 for the season, are coming off a consolation win in the Denver City tournament this past weekend. The Steers defeated Snyder 70-56 in the consolation finals.

Central, 5-3 for the season, defeated Lubbock Monterey 83-69 Friday.

Big Spring and Central played last week in Steer Gym, and the Steers came away with a 95-87 win. Brian Mayfield paced Big Spring with 39 points and 13 rebounds. Scott Marschall led Central with 30 points.

Junior varsity action begins at 6 p.m.

Ditka deadly with gum

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police said they planned to interview Chicago Bears Coach Mike Ditka about allegations he tossed a wad of gum at a woman following his team's 41-0 loss to the San Francisco 49ers.

Police officer Richard Galliani said the gum "was found and booked as evidence."

Troy State players killed

BREWTON, Ala. (AP) — Brothers who played on Troy State University's national championship football team were among four men killed when a car collided with a tractor-trailer, authorities said Monday.

Sean Tracy Miller, 20, and Thomas Willis Miller Jr., 19, both redshirt freshmen, were killed Monday in the accident 15 miles north of their Brewton home, Conecuh County Coroner Danny Garnett said. Sean's twin brother, John Stacy Miller, and a family friend, 20-year-old Wayne McDuffie Stallworth, also died.

Elizabeth Biggs, a dispatcher at the Alabama State Troopers post in Evergreen, said a car driven by John Miller was traveling south on U.S. 31 about 12:45 p.m. when it skidded into the path of a tractor-trailer driven by Gerald Douglas Stodghill of Cumming, Ga., who was not injured.

"Actually, the car went up under the tractor-trailer," she said, adding that all four of the victims were declared dead at the scene.

Rhoades said the athletic department was notifying all of the team's players about the accident because he didn't want them to find out through the media.

SMU rolls over S. Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Eric Longino led a high-scoring guard court with 21 points as Southern Methodist University defeated winless South Florida, 87-66.

It was the only college basketball game Monday night involving a Southwest Conference team. In the only game involving an SWC team tonight scheduled tonight, Alcorn State visits Arkansas.

SWC

Guards Kato Armstrong and Todd Alexander added 16 and 13 points for the Mustangs, 6-1. Forward Carlton McKinney scored 11. Glenn Puddy grabbed 10 rebounds.

Senior Darrell Coleman scored 21 points and had a career-high 18 rebounds for South Florida, 0-5. Hakim Shahid scored 20 points and freshman Tony Armstrong had 10.

South Florida built an 11-6 lead, and SMU didn't catch up until midway through the first half. The Mustangs led 42-33 at halftime and played mostly reserves in the second half.

Southern Methodist was outrebounded 39-33 but shot 57 percent from the field. Longino hit 10 of 14 shots and Armstrong made seven of nine.

Iowa St. moves into Top 20

By The Associated Press

There has been precious little basketball success at Iowa State over the years, so the Cyclones' entry into the Top Twenty this week is cause for celebration by Coach Johnny Orr.

"This is what I wanted to do when I took this job," said Orr, who has a 111-103 record in his eighth season at he Ames, Iowa, school. "This is a great thing for Iowa State and a great thing for our players."

Basketball in the state of Iowa usually means the Univesity of Iowa, and nothing has changed with the Hawkeyes, who are No. 7 with a 6-1 record. But Iowa State has crashed the party this year, winning seven of its first eight games and checking in at No. 20 this week.

Iowa State beat Arizona State 99-85 and Creighton 115-73 last week. The Cyclones beat then-No. 2 Purdue 104-96 in the second round of the Big Apple NIT before falling 96-89 in the semifinals to Florida, this week's No. 11 team.

It is the first time since 1956 that Iowa State has been ranked.

"I was only in grade school then," Orr cracked.

Actually, Orr was coaching at Dubuque High School as Iowa State's 1956 team started its season 8-1. That team finished 18-5, establishing a school record for victories that stood until Orr's 1985 Iowa State team won 21 games. His next team won 22 — and that just about wraps up the highlights of Iowa State basketball.

There could be more this season, especially if the Cyclones can get by Saturday's opponent, Iowa.

Kentucky, 4-0 after nipping intrastate rival Louisville 76-75 on Saturday, remained No. 1 in this week's poll, collecting 41 first-place votes and 1,224 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Arizona, 7-0 after knocking Iowa from the unbeaten ranks 66-59, improved two spots to No. 2. The Wildcats got 19 first-place votes and 1,168 points.

Pittsburgh, ranked second last week, beat Chicago State and West Virginia to improve to 4-0, but fell to third. The Panthers got the other three first-place votes and 1,118 points.

North Carolina, Indiana and Wyoming were 4-5-6, each advancing one position from last week as Iowa slipped four places. Temple, Syracuse and Duke rounded out the Top Ten.

Florida leads the Second Ten, followed by Purdue, Michigan, Oklahoma, Nevada-Las Vegas, Missouri, Kansas, Georgetown, Memphis State and Iowa State.

Last week's Second Ten was Temple, Florida, Purdue, Georgetown, Michigan, Oklahoma, Nevada-Las Vegas, Kansas, Notre Dame and Memphis State.

Notre Dame, 3-2, fell from the Top Twenty after losing 73-69 to DePaul.

Missouri, ninth last week, dropped seven spots after losing 76-68 to Memphis State.

Forget the personel records; he wants state championship

By BRAD TOWNSEND
The San Antonio Light

CUERO (AP) — Robert Strait is setting Texas high school yardage and scoring records, and he doesn't have his senior ring yet.

Strait, only a junior, is a superstar running back for the unbeaten, untied Cuero Gobblers, who have finished second the past two years in Class 3A schoolboy football and are intent on winning it all this year.

Judge him not by his 3,071 yards and 51 touchdowns this season, or by the heights his 6-foot-2, 215-pound body may yet take him.

Judge him by Cuero's 15-0 record and No. 1 statewide ranking this season, its 44-3 record since he became a starter and by his immediate ambition — the 1987 Class 3A state football championship.

"That's what I'm worried about right now," says Strait, whose Gobblers beat Cameron, 34-27, Saturday in the semifinals. "I'm just looking at the state championship. People always tell me not to get big-headed; I just tell them if I was going to get big-headed, I already would have."

They play McGregor, also 15-0, for the state title Friday night in Austin.

The legend, meanwhile, continues to grow. Strait rushed for 233 yards and three touchdowns against Cameron to move into third place on the Texas high school single-season rushing list.

He went into the semifinals contest needing only 10 yards to pass Billy Sims for fourth place and 90 yards to become No. 3, breaking the three-and-a-half decade stranglehold that Sugar Land's Kenneth Hall (1950-53) has had on the top three spots. Strait's 114 career touchdowns, with still another year left, already rank within reach of Hall's previously unapproachable 127.

Seldom has anyone even come close to stopping Strait. As a freshman Strait started every game, scored 24 touchdowns, rushed for more than 1,000 yards and had nearly 1,000 yards receiving.

Strait has averaged 25 points per game this season, the most unforgettable night being the 47-point, 304-yard splurge against Smithville in the bi-district round.

"Could he play 5A?" Seguin coach Mike Honeycutt asked rhetorically, after watching Strait run for 193 yards against Floresville three weeks ago. "He could play 5A, NC-two-A, any A you want."

Eventually, Strait would like to do just that, and then some. He makes it no secret that he likes Oklahoma's style of play, but that decision is more than a year away.

He runs to punish. He has fun. He copies no one.

"I've got my own style," Strait says. "People always ask me, 'How come you run over people instead of around them?' I don't have too much choice sometimes.

"When I was 10 years old, I wasn't interested in football," Strait says. "Other kids would go out to play football; I wanted to play baseball. One year I was a day late to sign up (for Little League) and they wouldn't let me play. I kind of got upset. I said, 'Forget baseball, I'll play football.'"

Wise move. But Strait still dabbles in other sports. He made the regional track meet last spring in the long jump, high jump, shot put, 400 relay and mile relay. He went to the state meet in the high jump.

"Robert has got real good speed," Cuero football coach Pat Blessing says. "He's big and he's strong and he's smart. He can run over you and around you. He's the best high school running back I've ever seen. And I've seen one or two. I'd say he's an Eric Dickerson type."

His emphasis on grades has changed since early in middle school, when he was put back a grade.

"Before, I didn't ever try to study," he says. "Maybe 30 minutes. Now, all I think about is, 'scholarship, study.' It kind of helps your motivation."

Next year, however, won't be quite the same for Strait or the Cuero football team. Many of the team's best players are about to graduate.

Strait will be back next year, but this is the last chance for the seniors. Consecutive state title game losses to Daingerfield (47-22) and Jefferson (24-0) the past two years have made getting back imperative.

Now the Gobblers are in the state championship game again.

"We know what to expect now," Strait says. "When I was a freshman playing against Daingerfield, that name just scared me."

For use with issue: Cooking Up Christmas

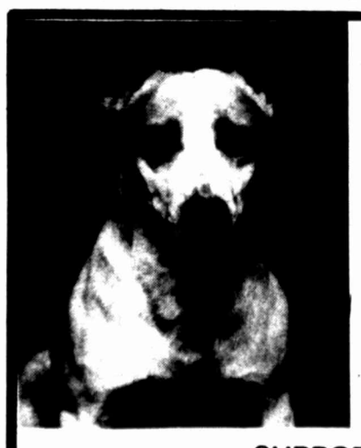

Main idea: This issue includes some recipes to make for Christmas. Also included is a guide for work. The following is a list of activities to be used with this issue. They are listed in order of difficulty, with the easier pre-reader assignments listed first. Ask the children to do the following.

1. Get another copy of this issue. Cut apart the pictures of the utensils and mix them up. Match them with the pictures in the issue that's not cut up.
2. Have you ever cooked anything? What did you make, and how did it turn out? Are you familiar with the different utensils you need for cooking? Talk about what utensils you would need to make the recipes in this issue. Find the pictures of the utensils you will need in this issue.
3. Decorate a jar or box to put cookies or crackers in for a Christmas gift.
4. On construction paper, draw different pieces needed for a table setting. Cut them out, then practice setting a table following the drawing in this issue.
5. Answer the following questions:
   a. How many quarts are in a gallon?
   b. What are some foods that can be grated?
   c. What are some kitchen activities or some kitchen utensils for which you need an adult's help?
6. Find the following utensils pictured in this issue: rolling pin, tongs, casserole, egg beater, baking pan, wire rack. How is each used?
