Four Jap Destroyers Sunk Off New Guinea

Fifth Damaged In Abortive Effort To Aid Biak Troops

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

FOUR Japanese destroyers were sunk and a fifth damaged Thursday by American bombers that thwarted an attempt to reinforce crumbling enemy positions off northwestern New Guinea, Southwest Pacific headquarters announced today.

A Japanese task force of six destroyers and a cruiser was spotted off Manokwari, Dutch New Guinea, 150 miles west of Biak island where U. S. Sixth Army troops have seized one airdrome within bombing range of the Philippines and are preparing to drive on two others.

While Lightnings engaged intercepting Zeros, ten Billy Mitchell medium bombers attacked the Nipponese flotilla at masthead height. After four destroyers were sunk by direct hits and the fifth damaged, the cruiser and the remaining destroyer fled.

Five Zeros Downed

Five Zeros were shot down out of the ten interceptors. Three American planes were the only price paid for the Japanese defeat. Three other Zeros were shot down Wesnesday out of a flight of 25 interceptors over Truk. One bomber was lost in that Caroline island raid.

The air-sea battle is reminiscent of Japanese attempts to reinforce their beleaguered armies in the Solomons. So far this week Southwest Pacific headquarters has announced the sinking of five Japanese destroyers, and the damaging of two destroyers and one cruiser. These are the first naval casualties in this area in months.

Japs Push On In China

New Japanese war clouds threatened unoccupied sections of north-central China yesterday as Allied troops took advantage of a break in the monsoons to push the enemy back in Burma and India.

Chinese-American soldiers seized on one of Myitkyina's northern airdromes. Airborne Chindits took a village north of the encircled enemy base in North Burma. Chinese captors of Myitkyina's southern airstrip penetrated deeper into the town itself from the south.

To the west, Chinese closed in from the four points of the compass on Kamaing, Mogaung valley strongpoint. Two villages were seized, a quantity of material captured and 300 Nipponese killed. The Chinese are from six to twelve miles from Kamaing.

Encircling Third Base

Allies began encircling the third Japanese North Burma base—Mogaung. It is southeast of Kamaing and southwest of Myitkyina. Infantrymen occupied a village south of Mogaung, inflicting severe casualties. Chindits established strong hill positions east of the base.

British troops in India pushed 14 miles south from Kohima and drove north from Imphal. A long-held Japanese roadblock was clamped between the two forces.

Nipponese concentrations in north China indicated Tokyo was preparing for a three-fold renewal of the Honan province offensive.

[illegible] into northwestern Honan and neighboring Shensi province, a smash into southwestern Honan, and recapture of 70 miles of the Peiping-Hankow railway in central Honan.

Rebuilding Railroad

Chungking reported the invaders have rebuilt 25 miles of the railroad and are tearing up unwanted tracks elsewhere for a further extension of the line.

To the south in Hunan province, Japanese columns were only seven and a half miles from Changsha, strongest defense point on the Hankow-Canton railway. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has ordered the defenders to hold the city, regardless of costs.

American fighter planes destroyed nine Nipponese locomotives in two strikes at China rail lines.

Central Pacific bombers made four raids on the Caroline islands, hitting Truk twice, Ponape and Pakin. The phospate island of Nauru and by-passed Marshalls also were bombed.

IT AIN'T SO

CORONA DEL MAR, Calif. June 9. (AP)—Jim Kennedy heard a rustling in the cellar of his cafe and discovered a large skunk — with distressing results. But Jim had read somewhere that it took a skunk ten days to recuperate its offensive powers and so he confidently returned the next night to the attack. The reading, he admitted ruefully, was erroneous.

Fifth Continues Breakneck Pace

Viterbo Falls To Smashing Yanks

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, June 9—Pursuing the shattered German 14th Army at continued breakneck pace northwest of Rome, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army forces swept through the communication centers of Viterbo, Vetralla and Tarquinia today as Nazi troops in the Adriatic sector joined the general enemy flight up the Italian peninsula.

Viterbo, a vital highway and rail junction 40 miles from Rome, fell before a swift seven-mile thrust from the area of Lake Di Vico. Tarquinia, on the main coastal highway 55 miles northwest of the capital, was seized in a 10-mile stab by Allied troops driving on from the captured port of Civitavecchia. Vetralla is on a lateral highway connecting Viterbo and Tarquinia.

May Go To Florence

There yet was no sign that Field Marshal Albert Kesserlring had been able to rally his fleeing remnants, and it was doubted here that he would attempt to make another serious stand short of a line beyond Florence, some 150 miles from Rome. Although Clark's forces were averaging roughly 15 miles a day in their grim chase they found it difficult to keep within shooting distance of the Nazis.

A five-month deadlock was broken in the Adriatic sector when the Nazis, after carrying out heavy demolitions, began withdrawing along a five-mile front between the coast and Crecchio. Eighth Army forces pressed after them two miles and occupied Tolla, only seven miles from the provincial capital of Chieti. The Germans thus were retreating along virtually the entire width of the peninsula.

Eighth Army Sector

Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese's main Eighth Army continued to meet stiff resistance from German rearguards east of the Tiber, but drove some 10 miles beyond Riboli and seized the towns of Agosta and Palombarasabina. Further east, Leese's spearheads approached the village of Civitella Roveto, only seven and a half miles south of Avezzano.

Allied fighters and bombers destroyed another 195 enemy vehicles and 28 rail cars and damaged at least 170 more vehicles in their ceaseless attacks on German transport. The Mediterranean air forces flew 1,500 sorties during the day, losing six planes and destroying four enemy craft.

Reds Said Ready For Big Smash

Flareup Reported In Tarnopol Area

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, June 10.—A spurt of fighting northwest of Tarnapol in old Poland was announced early today in the broadcast supplement to the Russian communique.

The announcement came after earlier Moscow dispatches had indicated the Red Army is ready to open its expected offensive from the east in coordination with the Allied invasion of Europe from the west.

In the Tarnapol sector German infantry broke into a populated place yesterday but was driven out by fierce Soviet counterattacks which inflicted heavy losses on the Nazis, Moscow said.

Another Height Taken

Soviet units also have taken another height north of Iasi in Romania, wiping out more than a company of the enemy, the supplement stated.

Elsewhere the front remained quiet, although Moscow said German aerial stabs over the region northeast of Stanislawow increased. The supplement said the losses of the German Air force were high, while the broadcast Romanian communique stated that 20 Soviet aircraft were shot down.

There were new indications of uneasiness in Germany and among the Axis' Balkan satellites as the Russian drive was awaited.

The Nazi radio commentator Ernst von Hammer, who said that powerful Russian forces had launched an offensive on a wide front north of Iasi in Romania, backed down today, declaring that "yesterday's fighting north of Iasi petered out somewhat."

Called Local Fighting

The German high command's communique said simply that the Russians "made several unsuccessful counterattacks northwest of Iasi yesterday" and that "local fighting is reported from northwest of Tarnopol," a sector and 200 miles above Iasi.

Indications were plain, however, that the big Red Army offensive was about ready to roll. Associated Press correspondent Eddy Gilmore cabled from Moscow that "all signs pointed to an early opening" of the offensive.

Official Moscow accounts intimated in typically guarded phraseology that the Soviet forces in the Iasi area has seized the iniative there and were steadily improving their positions despite the stubborn strength of the enemy and the disadvantages of terrain.

Italian Sets Up New Government

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, June 9.—Seventy-one-year-old Invanoe Bonomi, new premier of Italy, filled 17 seats in his government today with men who had no Fascist past to live down.

The places in the new government were about equally divided between underground liberation leaders who had operated in Rome during German occupation and the Anti-Fascist leaders of southern Italy who two months ago joined the cabinet of Marshal Pietro Badoglio to give it a broader base.

All Parties Represented

All six of Italy's liberationist parties are represented and Count Carlo Sforza, Benedetto Croce and Palmiro Togliatti, who were in the Badoglio government, continue in the cabinet without portfolio.

Bonomi himself has taken the foreign and interior ministries.

Bonomi, a veteran anti-Fascist who was premier for a short period in the spring of 1922, was a hunted man up to only five days ago, slipping from house to house, sometimes in disguise.

A member of the old Italian Socialist party, Bonomi lived in obscurity for the 20 years of the Fascist regime. He was not molested, but was prevented from taking part in politics by his refusal to join the Fascist party.

Late in 1942, six underground political parties, feeling the defeat of Italy and collapse of Fascism near, formed an anti-Fascist coalition in Rome. They were the Democratic-Labor, Liberal, Christian Democrats, Communist, Socialist and Actionist groups.

Administration Is Dealt Major Blow

Senate Passes Controversial Bankhead Amendment In Extending Life Of OPA

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP) — The administration suffered a major reverse tonight when the Senate passed a price control extension bill bearing the controversial Bankhead amendment providing for adjustment of textile ceilings with a view to raising the price of raw cotton.

The amendment, which OPA Administrator Chester Bowles warned would "shatter the entire stabilization structure," was approved 39 to 35. Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) denied it was inflationary.

It was tacked onto the bill extending the price and wage stabilization act of Dec. 31, 1945. The measure now goes to the House.

Several other last-minute changes were wirtten into the bill. One, by Senator Stewart (D-Tenn), would direct OPA to adjust ceiling on fresh fruits and vegetables

Brin Quits FEPC Post And Query Referred To Capital

DALLAS, June 9. (AP)—Leonard M. Brin announced today that he had resigned as regional director of the President's committee on fair employment practice, effective June 30.

Brin said he had submitted his resignation three weeks ago and that he had made his decision two or three months ago, before a statewide discussion arose over activities of his office in directing employers engaged in essential work not to specify negro and white in advertising for help.

He said he was resigning "for personal reasons" and that he needed a vacation.

Brin said today that policy questions posed by Governor Coke R. Stevenson on PFEPC operations in Texas 'must be referred to the committee in Washington."

Stevenson, in a letter to Brin which the PFEPC official said he had not received late today, asked by what authority PFEPC conducted activities in Texas; what

Rites Set For Slain Deputy

TAHOKA, June 9. (Special) — Funeral services for Con Burns, 64, Lynn county deputy sheriff who was shot to death Thursday night on O'Donnell's Main street, will be held at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist church in O'Donnell, Deputy Tom Reid said tonight.

Pallbearers will be B. M. Haynes, Sam Floyd, Calloway Hussake, Tom Reid, B. L. Parker and T. J. Wandell.

Charge Filed On Pugh

L. B. (Bud) Pugh, about 35, operator of an O'Donnell wrecking yard, was still in jail on a charge of murder with malice, Reid stated. Pugh, a resident of O'Donnell approximately 10 years, had not been arraigned, Reid said.

Burns had been a Lynn county officer six years and was a former Knox county peace officer.

Pugh made a statement to District Attorney Rollin McCord, but declined to sign it.

The state obtained the names of several witnesses to the shooting, and several statements were dictated to the district attorney.

Told To Go Home

Some witnesses told McCord they understood the deputy sheriff had requested Pugh to leave Main street and go home; that he remarked after Pugh had left that "I had to ask him to get off the streets — he's had too much to drink."

The witnesses said further that Burns several minutes later was standing about the same place.

Allied Forces Keep Rommel From Sleep

LONDON, Saturday, June 10. (AP)—The Berlin radio tonight described Nazi Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel, upon whom Hitler is depending to stem the Allied tide in the west, as looking as though he had little sleep for two days.

Gallup Poll Shows U. S. Thinking Dubious

Little Chance Is Seen For A Permanent World Peace

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 9. — The majority of Americans today do not regard the present conflict as a war that will end all wars.

GALLUP

They, like the greater number in Australia, incline to take a very sober view toward the chances of permanent world peace after this war. They are inclined to look upon the problem of world peace as a continuing problem.

This attitude possibly explains why no such slogan as was used in the last war—"the war to end wars"—has risen in this war.

A reflection of U. S. public thinking on the question of world peace today is to be found in the results of a survey in which voters in all 48 states were asked:

"As soon as Germany is defeated, do you think she will start making plans for another world war?"

The replies:

YES	60%
NO	21
NO OPINION	19

Thus, even as the continental invasion moves forward against Nazi Germany, the majority of Americans are convinced that Germany, unless something is

Nazi Main Lines To Cherbourg Severed

Air Power Roars Back Into Action Despite Bad Weather

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Saturday, June 10.—Allied air power roared back to the support of the French invasion during the night after bad weather that found the American, British and Canadian ground forces advancing against hard-fighting Germans on the Cherbourg peninsula and southwest of Bayeux without their accustomed aerial aid.

Shortly before dawn today it was announced that RAF heavy bombers went out over France in strength during the darkness. Their targets were not disclosed immediately.

Main Supply Lines Cut

Even without the vital weapon of air support, Allied headquarters announced in a post-midnight communique that an American flying wedge of parachutists and infantrymen had cut the main German communications lines to the potentially great landing-port of Cherbourg by capturing the town of Ste. Mere Eglise and sweeping on across the broad-

BELGIAN INVASION SEEN

LONDON, June 9 (AP) — German broadcasts predicted today that the Allies would invade Belgium soon "between Dunkerque and Ostende," and said that airborne reinforcements on the invasion front were helping to pack an Allied punch in an increasingly bitter battle of Normandy.

Predicting the new invasion, the German radio said:

"A Division ready in northeast England . . . and Scotland have not yet been thrown into the fight. It can be assumed a big part of these forces will be thrown into some invasion attempt which should start within the next few days . . ."

After claiming yesterday that the Allied beachheads were being narrowed by Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel's counter blows, Nazi broadcasters today conceded the main bridgehead had been widened.

gauge Cherbourg Peninsula railway and the parallel highway in heavy fighting, and that repeated German naval attempts to interfere with the beachhead operations had been nipped at their inception.

Axis broadcasts said 400,000 men were fighting in Normandy, about 200,000 on each side, and that Allied reinforcements had been pouring into the beaches all Friday night with many tanks.

A late front-line Allied dispatch from the Caen area, scene of the heaviest armored combat of the whole front, described Allied tank convoys coming through in endless columns.

The communique gave these additional points in reporting the fourth day of the Allied invasion of Normandy:

Additional Details

Heavy fighting continues in all areas;

Fighting is severe in the area of Caen, where the Germans are making a desperate effort to stop the British-Canadian advance;

The weight of armor on both sides is increasing;

Numerous enemy strong-points that originally were by-passed have now been eliminated;

The weather has deteriorated but the beachheads nevertheless are being developed steadily;

Poor visibility and stormy weather cut air activity to a minimum;

Eight British, Canadian and Polish destroyers blew up a German destroyer, ran another aground and damaged two off Ushant island near the Brittany peninsula before dawn Friday; and an American-led destroyer force intercepted a force of heavily-armed German light craft and drove them off the beachhead area in the vicinity of St. Marcouf isles in the Seine bay.

The previous communiques, issued Friday shortly before noon, had announced continuing gains in all sectors.

The Germans said the Americans had advanced another mile beyond Ste. Mere Eglise, which is 18 miles southeast of Cherbourg, and intimated that the weak secondary roads left to the Nazis in the peninsula were already threatened if not broken by Allied parachutists who, the enemy said, were operating on the other side of the peninsula near Lessay, bottleneck of the westcoast road and a small spur railway.

The Americans, commanded by Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley, who himself was in the field, also made gains on the southeast flank of their 28-mile stretch of beachhead by capturing Formigny, midway east between St. Mere Eglise and Bayeux.

Nazis Battered In Naval Scrap

Sneak Blow Fails, Two Warships Lost

By NED NORDNESS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Saturday, June 10—Eight British, Canadian and Polish destroyers intercepted four German destroyers apparently bent on a sneak smash at the Allied Normandy coast line before dawn yesterday, blowing up one of them, chasing another aground in flames and scoring hits on the other two which escaped, a communique announced early today.

The grounded enemy vessel was believed to have been finished off later by a bombing attack.

This point-blank engagement—which cost the Allies damage and a few casualties on only one ship, the British destroyer Tartar—was the most dramatic of three surface actions announced, and was fought off the tip of Brittany near Ushant (Ouessant) island.

Batter Invasion Coast

In addition, Allied naval units continued their battering of the invasion coast, plastering 46 shore targets during the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. yesterday.

Spotted by a patrol plane before midnight Thursday the quartet of German destroyers was intercepted by the British destroyers Tarta, Ashanti, Eskimo, and Javelin, the Canadian destroyers Haida and Huron, and the Polish destroyers Blyskawica and Piorun.

The Germans, apparently coming up from the Bay of Biscay around the tip of Brittany, joined battle on parallel northward courses, loosing a torpedo barrage which the Allied craft dodged.

The Tartar "passed through the enemy's line" and at point blank range scored repeated hits on the Nazi leader. Soon there was a general melee. A torpedo fired by the Ashanti blew up one Nazi ship. Another enemy vessel turned tail for the coast, and the Canadian destroyers Haida and Huron ran this one down, beaching it in flames on the Isle De Bas.

Others Take Flight

The other two German craft fled westward with four Allied craft in pursuit. They escaped after being hit several times.

During Thursday night an Allied destroyer force under Rear Admiral Don Pardee Moon of the U. S. Navy intercepted a force of heavily-armed German light craft, which might have been either E-boats or rocket gun ships and "drove them off," the bulletin said. Casualties, if any, were not disclosed. The action occurred between the mainland and the Isles de St. Marcouf, just off the American landing zone on the east side of the Cherbourg peninsula.

After dawn yesterday the Germans again made attempts to enter the invasion coast area both from the east and west sides, sending in a force of E-boats. These were intercepted and also driven off by Allied light coastal forces, and in a short gun action off Pointe De Barfleur "hits were observed on two of the enemy before they escaped."

The British cruisers Belfast and Frobisher were declared to have "done considerable execution on enemy concentrations" Friday morning.

Some details were disclosed of

Marshall, Arnold, King In London

Major Strategy Decisions Likely

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 9.—At a critical state of the invasion of Europe, America's three top commanders arrived in London today for a close-up review and possible major decisions on the strategy of the grand offensive.

President Roosevelt, through his secretary, Stephen Early, announced the arrival in Britain's invasion capital of Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army chief of staff; Adm. Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the American fleet, and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the air forces.

Combined Staff Session

The four-star officers went to Britain, Early said, to attend a meeting of the combined chiefs of staff which had been planned to be held "as soon as possible after D-day," which was Tuesday.

The President, Early said, is "happy to announce" that the officers have "arrived safely in London."

The trio had conferred with President Roosevelt on Tuesday a few hours after the invasion began. Like other military officials here, they are understood to have been extremely well pleased with the progress to date.

Nonetheless it was possible to figure out weeks before the invasion that critical decisions affecting the success of the whole operation would have to be made immediately after the first limited beachheads were established.

Possible Big Question

While the Allied strategy remains one of the great secrets of the war, the map of developments to date suggests that one possible question facing the leaders is this:

"Whether to concentrate on exploiting the areas already attacked or to make an equally heavy assault at some other position.

This is the question which undoubtedly has the Nazi high command most seriously worried at the moment. Whether Allied plans are already fixed or not, the Germans cannot commit their forces until they know where the weight of the attack is directed. On the other hand, a display of enemy weakness would open up opportunities to General Eisenhower for further attack or for exploitation of positions already assaulted. Such major decisions might preferably be passed upon by the chiefs of staff rather than by the invasion commander alone.

Refugees Pour Out Of Europe

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—Refugees are streaming out of Europe in such numbers that shelter centers will have to be doubled in capacity, President Roosevelt said today in announcing that 1,000 will be brought to this country and housed at Fort Ontario, near Oswego, N. Y.

Mr. Roosevelt told a news conference that 1,800 refugees reached s uthern Italy last week from Yugoslavia alone. He said haven already established at Casablanca and elsewhere in the Mediterranean area have facilities to care for 20,000 and that these will be expanded and new ones established to make room for 40,000.

The 1,000 to be brought to Fort Ontario, Mr. Roosevelt said, are all that he anticipates will come to this country. It was indicated, in fact, that bringing them here is primarily intended as a token of the United States' willingness to do its part in meeting the problem.

The President directed that the Army and Navy cooperate in arranging transportation for the 1,000. He placed the War Relocation authority in charge of administration of the camp, but instructed that the Army "take the necessary security precautions so that these refugees will remain in the camp."

The refugees will be brought to the United States outside the regular immigration procedure but Mr. Roosevelt instructed Ambassador Robert Murphy at Algiers to be sure "that the necessary health checks are made."

A U. S. AIRBASE, Somewhere in the Soviet Union, June 9. (AP)—The Fifteenth Air force is the toast in this corner of the Soviet Union.

American and British correspondents journeyed here to observe what kind of a welcome this great flock of Flying Fortresses got from the Russian people, seeing for the first time such things as American heavy bombers in their skies and GI's in their streets.

"It is wonderful," said a commander from upper New York state. "I even got kissed by one captain with a long black beard.

One major came up and said: "Look what I got. A Russian gave me his cigaret lighter. He made me take it."

We went to the nearby village where the United States bomber crews billeted. It was a typical village with a long main street, and pretty houses strung out for a long distance. It was a warm day and the girls and women stood out with gay-colored dresses and the old men and young boys had bright shirts.

We saw an American sergeant playing soft ball with four Russian boys. Further on, three GI's were strolling along with three Russian girls, laughing and joking in the sign language.

We stopped to talk to two colonels—how did they like Russia? They liked it fine — even

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

(A letter of local news for you to send to a man in the armed forces serving in this country or somewhere overseas.)

June 9, 1944.

DEAR:—

D-day was theoccasion for many friends and relatives of officers and soldiers overseas, visiting Lubbock churches to extend prayer for God's guidance in their lives. First service was held at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at the First Methodist church, after fire department sirens had heralded the news. Residents who turned on their radios and heard the news called friends and hundreds of persons sat by their radios until daylight, listening to reports of the long-awaited day.

You likely are interested in the outcome of the injunction brought by M. R. Free on behalf of "Jehovah's Witnesses" to restrain trustees of Lubbock Independent school district from requiring students to salute the flag of the United States. The suit was dismissed by Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson on a defendant's motion.

A resolution was adopted, under the terms of which no pupil will be denied the right to attend schools conducted by the Lubbock Independent School district by reason of any failure to take the pledge of allegience or to salute the flag, but insisting that each pupil must remain at attention during the flag ceremony.

At periodic intervals, according to the resolution, the pupils of the schools will be assembled in their classrooms or in assemblies and on each occasion the flag will be brought in and displayed. The pupils who desire may evidence their adherence to the pledge, holding their right hands over their hearts, but no pupils shall be compelled t pursue this form of observance. However all pupils shall be required to stand at atention and remain perfectly quiet during the ceremony.

Three offenses for breach of the foregoing requirements shall mean the pupils may be expelled under direction of the board.

Judge Davidson spoke a few words in dismissing the case, wherein he set out a few of the ideas and ideals of education Thomas Jefferson had in mind when said "The ignorant voter with the ballot in his hand is more to be dreaded than the musket of foreign lands." In order to obviate that situation, Jefferson was one of the first to see the advantage of public schools, the judge explained. He saw the need of education for every man's child but one giving the right kind of impression or the purpose would be lost.

"If a person can look at the flag of his country and say he is neutral and not interested in the war, he shows that he is not interested in the government and free institutions," were the words from the bench. "A man that is neutral should have independence enough not to put his child in a public school and one who will not salute the flag should not send his child to the public school. The school ought to have courage enough to prescribe a course of study that will train citizens intelligent enough to cast the ballots to cary it on," he concluded.

Lubbock and Amarillo representatives have signed an agreement to cooperate in a joint effort to provide feeder airlines to serve their respective trade teritories. This decision was reached this week after a three-hour conference. Each city is to endeavor to provide feeder airlines to serve its own territory; each city will have the same number of routes: the Lubbock territory will be south and the Amarillo territory north of a line from Clovis, N. M., through Tulia and Paducah.

Of course if the Civil Aeronautics board denies a certificate authorizing the operation of the proposed feeder lines, probably the entire project will have to be abandoned.

Several outstanding men were interviewed when the directors of Texas Technological college met at Fort Worth this week but no successor to President Clifford B. Jones was chosen. The board announced, however, that another meeting will be held within a short time at which time choice of a president will be discussed further; perhaps a decision reached.

Radio tation KFYO is carrying a heavy schedule of programs from the newly-organized Blue network, formerly part of the NBC but now controlled by Time, Life and Fortune. The usual Sunday morning schedule, filled in the past with local preachers, has been discontinued.

"Civilian D-day," next Monday, will touch off the fifth war loan drive. Neil H. Wright and E. J. Parsons are chairman and vice chairman of Lubbock county's campaign and our quota is $4,685,000.

Lubbock county farmers and landowners are making plans to eradicate Johnson grass, a menace which is beginning to show its ugly head on the farms around here.

City garbage department employes walked off the job Saturday, having asked for a raise of ten dollars monthly. They were back on the job Monday after conferences with City Manager Marlin, R. Smith, jr., and city health officer Dr. J. W. Rollo, Thursday at a meeting of the city commission, increased wages were refused and the special committee reported that wages paid in Lubbock are higher than for work in most Texas cities. W. W. Stafford has resigned as superintendent of the garbage department and Ed Branch has been employed in his place.

Each of the boys visiting the field has raised enough extra food to feed a soldier for a year.

That's all for this week. Take care and write when you find a few spare minutes.

Dupree Cautions On Government Trends

George W. Dupree, as guest speaker at the luncheon of the American Business club Friday noon in the Hilton hotel, said that every business man should do a lot of thinking along the lines of trends of the times as he sees them.

In speaking of the trend of governmental affairs away from private enterprise he said, "If we can not stem the tide of governmental control of business we will be forced to close our businesses and turn them over to the bureaucrats in Washington. Every man has the right to control his business."

He added, however, that this country would be in a bad shape if we did not have the OPA and other like organizations, but that after the war is over American business men should pledge their support to private enterprise.

He also spoke on the recent U. S. Supreme court decision regarding the negro's right to vote in the Democratic primary in Texas, saying that it is not a question we can solve by mob violence, but by far-seeing thinking by the citizenship as a whole. "If we do not think this thing out many tragedies will result."

Dupree was introduced by Oscar Killian. The luncheon was presided over by J. Ray Dickey, club president.

Farm Club Boys SPAAF Guests

More than 355 4-H Club boys from 19 surrounding South Plains counties climaxed a two-day visit at South Plains Army Air field Friday afternoon, two days crammed full of events during which the young men were given a complete picture of the implements of modern warfare as it is used at the nation's largest advanced glider pilot training center.

In charge of their county agents and headed by state officials, the visitors were given the two field days at SPAAF in recognition of their outstanding farm production achievements in which each of them raised enough food to feed one or more soldiers.

A total of 235 4-H Club boys were in the first group Thursday, more than 120 visiting the field Friday.

The boys and their county agents were headed by L. L. Johnson, state boys club leader.

The counties and their agents who visited the field Friday included Lubbock, Jason O. Gordon; Yoakum, H. B. Horn; Terry, A. L. Hartzog; Garza, W. M. Kimbrough; Scurry, Raymond L. King; Borden, S. W. Medley; Dawson, Lee R. Pool. Those visiting the field Thursday included Briscoe, Lem Weaver; Parmer, G. A. Harper; Castro, M. U. May; Swisher, C. C. Brookshire; Floyd, L. C. Ranson; Hale, C. B. Martin; Bailey, J. M. Hancock; Lamb, V. F. Jones; Crosby, W. R. Kimbrough, and Lynn, Robert L. Stone.

Bus Firm Wins Suit For Damages Here

After deliberating for more than an hour a federal district court jury returned a verdict Friday afternoon in favor of the defendant in the civil suit of Loyd Hightower against Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma coaches. Testimony of several witnesses was heard Monday and Tuesday before Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, presiding judge of the June term of federal district court.

Plaintiff Hightower was seeking damage for alleged serious and permanent injuries received by Hershel Hightower a minor, when one of the defendant's busses allegedly struck him as he attempted to flag it to a halt near Andrews, in April, 1942. Hightower claimed negligence on the part of the bus driver.

The civil case of Edgar Jones and others against Commerce Insurance company, a suit for damages, set for Friday, was postponed until 10 o'clock this morning when it will be tried before a jury.

WE'RE GLAD TO SERVE

The U. S. Treasury recently issued a statement to the press praising the work of the banks in the war effort. It was pointed out that 13½ billion dollars—over 80% of all bonds sold in the 4th War Loan—cleared through banks. Banks did this job at their own expense. They received no remuneration. They paid out large sums for salaries, overhead and advertising. We appreciate this recognition, but seek no special praise. We welcome the opportunity to help win the war.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Our Allies Underground

THE inclination seems widespread to expect that Europe's heroic "underground" will play—perhaps even now is playing—a decisive role in hastening the defeat of the Axis.

Perhaps these expectations are justified. Possibly events will bear them out. But the sounder supposition seems to be—and the one shared by most of the responsible leaders of the United Nations—that the help to be expected from the underground is limited sharply.

This does not suggest any lack of willingness—even of burning eagerness—on the part of the underground to help, in every way possible, to drive out the tyrants. Nor does this attempt to minimize in slightest degree the importance of the assistance that the underground might give. In critical moments, a little often means a great deal. It often means the difference between victory and defeat.

However, it is well to consider the probable limitations of the underground—and, without question, these have been considered by the Allied leaders in mapping their strategy. It must be borne in mind that all Axis-occupied countries have been stripped of their best manpower. Many of the leaders have been murdered. Many are in concentration camps. Most of the remaining able-bodied men and a great many of the women have been sent as slave labor into Germany's deepest interior. Minimum estimates of slave labor deportations from France alone are 3,000,000, and the exact figure may be much larger.

Further considerations, in this connection, are that fighting equipment in the hands of most of the underground is sure to be limited and probably of inferior quality. Nor is the fact to be ignored that the physical quality of those in the underground is bound to have suffered from years of starvation and strain. Likewise, it must be recognized that practically every individual in every occupied land is under suspicion and probably under closest Axis surveillance.

None of this is said with the intent to belittle the underground, nor to suggest that its role in hastening victory is unimportant. On the contrary, too much praise for the underground would be impossible. Nor is there any question that these undercover forces will do all they can—which will be a great deal, considering what they have to do with. But there simply aren't enough of them, and they haven't the equipment, to do as much as some of their more enthusiastic admirers seem to expect.

Victory Is Everybody's Job

THE report that 344,113 pounds of waste fat for war have been collected on the South Plains during the past year should encourage us when we feel, as all do at times, that our individual parts in behalf of victory are so small that they hardly seem worth doing at all.

If you should be depressed by such a feeling, think of that 344,113 pounds of waste fat. No considerable portion of that large total came from any one source. The aggregate is large because thousands of people each did the little that they could. The average of the individual contributions doubtless was relatively small. But all the "little bits" that individuals did combined into 344,113 pounds of a vitally needed material of war.

Consider further that these collections came from an area comprising half, of less, of one congressional district. Suppose each of the 435 congressional districts would match that record. The total per year would exceed one billion pounds of waste fats. That, as the saying goes, would not be hay, even in the most terrible war in history.

These statements that have been made with reference to waste fats apply to everything else connected with the victory effort—to all other kinds of salvage, to War Bonds and stamps, to scarce commodities of all kinds, to any extra bit of energy we might exert for victory.

So no one should allow himself or herself to become discouraged by contemplation of how little the individual can do toward the enormous job that must be done. Bear in mind that, when you do the little that you can, you encourage the other fellow to do the same. Remember, too, that there could not be any enormous whole without the small individual parts.

In short, remember just this: That the individual parts of all of us add up to nothing less than victory.

"Due to an error, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Graham, instead of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Grant, are parents of a girl born Thursday."—Illinois paper. People should be more careful.

The One Minute Sermon

The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God. They are corrupt, they have done abominable works, there is none that doeth good.

The Lord looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to see if there were any that did understand, and seek God.

They are all gone aside, they are all together become filthy: there is none that doeth good, no, not one.—Psalms 14: 1-3.

FACTORY

Lunch hour, 11 to 11:30, is a pleasant interlude. At lunch hour, most all of Kerry Kraft picks up its paper bags or lunch boxes and goes outdoors. In front of the plant you can sit on the curbstone that separates street from "lawn"; in back you can go across the field past "Receiving"—a separate building—and sit on empty packing crates. There's a 50-yard strip of field and then the fence. Behind the fence there are woods, and Eunice, Gert and I have staked out our claim to a certain packing case just in the edge of the trees' shade.

There are a number of small unchanging lunch groups all around us—mostly men, a few mixed company, and perhaps a dozen clumps of girls. On hot days the men take off their shirts and lie in the sun, the girls pull their slacks up over their knees, which causes a good deal of dutiful whistling and shouting of wisecracks.

Gert, Jennie and I dress unglamorously in cotton blouses and blue slacks; so do a good many others, but the majority agree with Babs that a girl wants to look nice, so they wear alarming "pajama suits," bright yellow, pale pink, gorgeously flowered. All of the girls wear makeup and keep it constantly touched up, and I discovered recently that Gert has been quite troubled about me because I didn't renew my lipstick with sufficient frequency. "That's the first thing I noticed about you, Annie," she told me, in a talk as intimate as a Lifebuoy ad; she had figured that up where I came from maybe girls let themselves go like that, but, just the same, it made her a little uncomfortable. I agreed to reform. "When in Rome . . ." I said unthinkingly. "Rome" said Gert. "Where's that at?"

"Hi," "How's things?" "How ya doin'?," these are the forms of greeting; "So long," "Be seein' ya," and "Well, take it easy," the words of parting. To catch the attention of anyone at a distance you yell, not "Hey" or "Hi," but "Yo." "Yo, Bill! Yo, Annie! Yo, youse guys!"

Everyone except the topmost of the Bosses and the from-another-world Big Shots is called by his or her first name. Females are usually "girls," sometimes "ladies," never "women." What Babs didn't like about working at the Paper Mill was that on the door of the Ladies' Room it said "Women." The word has some derogatory implication: When I asked, "Who is that woman?" Nell corrected me, "That there lady?"

Eunice works across the aisle, in Bench. "Tap-tap, tap-tap, tap-tap" goes her hammer. She is amazingly quick, far defter than I would be. They make metal objects, half an oval in shape and perhaps 10 inches long, which are "nose-ribs." The nose-ribs, when finished, have to be stamped with a small die which is hit with a hammer. Eunice trots around stamping everyone's for them—for some reason she likes to do it. Since she is probably five times as fast as I am, I get her to do my Inspection stamping and in return I do her filing, because it makes her "blood go goose-pimples."

Everyone eats more or less perpetually: sandwiches (always one at the "five-minutes"), pretzels, candy bars. Everything is passed around to one's immediate neighbors, and it is difficult to refuse without giving offense. Almost everyone chews gum steadily; brilliant posters in the cafeteria tell us that gum steadies our nerves and helps the war effort. Perhaps so with some, with me it decidely hinders any effort of any kind other than that of chewing. I try in vain to copy the calm rhythm of my fellows, but gum-chewing is, for me, an occupation to which one gives heart and soul and body, all one's faculties and all one's energies. So, at risk of offending, I generally refuse, and this is accepted along with my other idiosyncrasies.

We climb up onto our packing case at lunch time, Eunice, Gert and I. We each have two sandwiches and an apple or an orange. Eunice and Gert have grabbed bottles of soda from the wagon; I have coffee. Half an hour is longer than you think; we finish eating and stroll over to a "smoking section." That is the only drawback to our packing case: it is in a "restricted area." Why? What makes that edge of the field more inflammable than another part? No one knows. "Why aren't you allowed to smoke here?" I asked a guard. He looked at me pityingly. "Because of that there sign, sister—if you can read." I was withered.

Eunice knows a girl whose "honey" is a Lead-man on one of the assembly lines. She has told him my heart is over there with the rivet-guns and drill-motors and assures me that everything is "in the groove," that he's going to help me get my transfer.

Texas Soldier Took Along His Guitar

LONDON, June 6. (U.P.)—A Texas private with the invasion forces apparently was prepared to start the invasion off on the right note and perhaps indulge in some serenading once a beachhead was established, it was reported today.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

YOU PROBABLY read about the death of Dr. Eugen Steinach, famous rejuvenation expert, about whom considerable controversy went on some years ago.

Dr. Steinach, as you know, claimed that he could "reactivate" aged persons by an operation, and many people who had themselves rejuvenated loudly sang his praise.

The medical profession, however, has never approved of his method, and Dr. Morris Fishbein of the American Medical association wrote:

"Unfortunately, those wishing for renewed youth suffer inordinately with the will to believe."

I am not a physician, and I have no intention of ever having myself rejuvenated by Dr. Steinach's or any other process.

But I certainly think that Dr. Fishbein was way off the beam when he said that people suffer by the will to believe.

It's just the other way around.

The will to believe, in my lay mind, is the best tonic, the best cure, the best incentive in the world.

Without the will to believe there would be no progress, no happiness, no self-reliance.

The will to believe that you will get well helps you to get well.

The will to believe that you are young keeps you young.

The will to believe that you can achieve something makes the achievement easier and often possible.

I HAD a case in my own family recently.

My mother-in-law was dying. Several physicians whom we called gave her not more than a week to live.

We had already made arrangements for her funeral with the undertaker.

She showed no interest in anything, she had lost the will to believe in anything.

Then one day my wife said to her:

"Mother, why don't you hurry and get well. You don't want to be here in the hospital all summer when everything is so beautiful outside."

On the next visit she brought her mother a bouquet of her favorite flowers of lilacs, tulips, irises and pansies, all picked in our garden which was one of the old lady's favorite spots.

When she saw the flowers she perked up.

"I want to see the roses when they are in bloom," she said, and the will to believe had come back to her.

The roses will be in bloom any day now. The old lady is sitting up in bed, kicking about the food, the nurses, the doctors—a sure sign that she is getting better.

I am almost sure that when the roses bloom she'll be out among them, in a wheel chair, maybe, but alive.

"What do you think caused the sudden change in her condition?" I asked the doctor.

"Search me," he said, "something must have happened to make her want to live."

"I didn't tell him.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

AN OFFICIAL breakdown of the 1940-1944 industrial migration explains why politicians of both parties approach the presidential election with greater doubt regarding the outcome than ever before in American history.

In general, the movement appears to improve Republican chances, but other hidden factors color that conclusion. For one thing, will the drifters take the trouble to register and vote in their new habitats?

Will Republicans who left farm areas for the plane factories and shipyards of the West Coast support FDR because of their pocketbook gains and their concern over the war? Will Southern Democrats who have flocked to Northern and Middle Western centers carry their former loyalties with them?

RUSH: Itis estimated that approximately 13,000,000 men and women have been involved in this unprecedented and confused hegira. The most noticeable trend has been an exodus from Middle Atlantic states (New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware) to the Pacific region.

The second area into which folks moved in large numbers includes Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky. New England ranks third in gains of population.

Losses occurred mainly in the section comprising the two Dakotas, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico. Metropolitan districts which suffered tremendous declines include New York, Chicago, Boston, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh.

The recent back-to-the home trend further clouds the picture for the partisan strategists. Such previous hives of activity as Buffalo, N. Y., Baltimore, Md., and Richmond, Cal., report large monthly departures that began even before the invasion of Italy. Brilliant successes in the assault on Europe will probably accelerate this rush to familiar firesides.

SHIFT: The politicos base all their analyses of this phenomenon on the seemingly sound premise that the majority of industrial employes will favor FDR's re-election. Young and old have progressed from 1933 breadlines and relief rolls to steady and profitable employment.

That belief underlies the setting up of Sidney Hillman's CIO Political Action committee. Its function is to persuade the migrants to make themselves eligible for the ballot in their new quarters and to vote next November. In several isolated instances his organization appears to be performing its assignment.

Nevertheless, it is probable that millions will not bother to qualify in their old and new residences.

Election laws requiring delays before newcomers can enroll may also keep them from the polls. It is on this prospect that GOP-ers think they have been helped by the shift of population.

SLUMPS: New York City alone, for instance, has lost more than 800,000 workers. The President carried the metropolis by 709,000 in 1940, and he needed every ballot, for his state-wide plurality was only 225,000.

Pennsylvania and New Jersey have around 600,000 fewer voters than they had four years ago. Chicago's census total dropped about 70,000.

The Pittsburgh area lost almost 120,000.

Other urban centers which helped to provide the President with his majority in their respective commonwealths have registered slumps. Eight now doubtful states that Mr. Roosevelt swept in 1940 have shown declines ranging from seven to 15 per cent.

Two final considerations encourage the Spanglerites: The outward-bound flight has been from states which have great strength in the electoral college. And had Wendell Willkie carried 12 of their leading cities, he would have been elected.

TRIP: Although engaged on a highly important mission, three distinguished Americans have just set a world record for hitch-hiking. They are Eric A. Johnston, President of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce; Joyce O'Hara, his aide; and William L. White, author and magazine correspondent.

They were invited by Stalin to visit Russia, and FDR favored the trip. But they had to take potluck on transportation. An Army bomber ferried them from Washington to Casablanca, where they had to wait several days till another plane was ready. At Cairo they were delayed again before making the hop to Teheran. And there they were hung up till Ambassador W. Averell Harriman's ship met them.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

DIPLOMATS read a hint of moral and official support to India in Secretary Hull's statement that the United States will continue to encourage peoples to seek liberty.

Since April, tight censorship has been imposed on mails in the subcontinent over the war curb on overseas communications. As a result it is more difficult for outsiders to get Indian public opinion.

But nationals here to lecture in our summer college sessions bring word that the hope of post-war independence is brighter than ever before. They inform that New Delhi and London authorities have promised a settlement satisfactory to both Hindus and Moslems as a reward for their aid in the struggle against the Axis.

More than 2,000,000 troops have been mobilized in their country, the largest volunteer force in world history. Millions more are employed in war plants and in servicing British and American soldiers there. Indians outnumber all other Allied forces in Burma.

It was to an Indian regiment that General Von Arnim surrendered in North Africa and the Italian Duke of Aosta in Ethiopia. The Fourth Division is now in the headlines for its gallant fighting in Italy.

GIRLS: American interest in India's present and future is more than academic, as thousands of Uncle Sam's boys are on the frontier and tour the country on furlough. Here are some of the things they see, based on the experience of a New York officer on leave:

Trains follow the European practice of first-, second- and third-class compartments. Yanks naturally crowd into the best—with or without permission—and Hindu trainmen, impressed by the uniforms, do not question their right. Each private compartment is equipped with a bathtub. Locomotives travel at a speed of 35 miles an hour and stop about every 15 minutes at way stations.

A de luxe hotel room with meals in Lucknow costs $3.20 in U. S. money. Service is elaborate, with warm plates and fresh silverware for each of the many delicious courses. Dinner is served from 8 to 10 p. m.

English residents keep up the custom of formal evening dress and one would never know, says the correspondent, that there is a war on. Dancing is enjoyed afterwards; the girls are usually pretty Anglo-Americans who know the latest steps.

MAGNIFICENT: The Manhattan veteran was invited to a Hindu women's college, normally as restricted as a Sultan's harem.

On the faculty were five American missionaries. Students wore native dress, sandals and the sari. Their garments were fashioned from six-yard pieces of fine silk with real gold thread woven in. After the sari is deftly wrapped about the little body, it resembles an alluring and exotic negligee.

On being introduced, the girls cutely held their hands together, as in the attitude of prayer, and made little curtsies. One had an MA from Columbia. The president of the college, a Brahmin, has degrees from Columbia, the University of Chicago and Boston university. Her magnificent home is filled with servants who do all the work.

A Yank jokingly asked her daughter if she could boil an egg. The young lady replied seriously that although she had never done it, she thought she could.

Houston Plans To Become A Great Medical Center

By BRACK CURRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

IMMINENT construction of a $6,000,000 Navy general hospital at Houston emphasizes the development of Texas as a leading state in medical research, treatment and education.

In the Texas Medical Center at Houston the state will have another great medical and research institution.

One of the largest naval hospitals in the nation, the 1,000-bed Navy general hospital will be built on 130 acres adjacent to the proposed Medical Center near Rice Institute. Construction will begin in July.

The Navy project will require 450 medical corps personnel and several hundred civilian employes for maintenance and operational work. Half of the construction will be permanent with 500 additional beds in temporary quarters.

Foundation Backs Project

After the war the hospital may be utilized by the Veterans administration to complement the Medical Center, which will embrace Baylor University's Medical college, the M. D. Anderson Hospital for Cancer Research, the Houston-Harris County Anti-Tuberculosis hospital, and the University of Texas' School of Dentistry.

With the lifting of wartime construction restrictions, millions of dollars already pledged will be spent in building and developing the mammoth Medical Center.

Backing the Center is the M. D. Anderson Foundation, created in 1936 by the late M. D. Anderson, a founder of the great cotton firm of Anderson, Clayton and company. The foundation has an estimated value of about $20,000,000.

To house the Baylor Medical college, a $1,000,000 structure will be built by the foundation.

In addition the college will receive from the foundation $100,000 annually for 10 years. The Houston Chamber of Commerce is undertaking to raise $50,000 each year for 10 years, making a total of $2,500,000 in gifts.

TEXAS' first statewide hospital devoted to the cause, prevention and cure of cancer, the M. D. Anderson Hospital for Cancer Research is operating in temporary quarters. A staff of technicians from all parts of the nation are directing a statewide campaign designed to reduce the 4,000 cancer deaths in Texas each year.

The $1,000,000 institution was made possible by a legislative grant of $500,000 plus a $500,000 gift to the University of Texas, which operates the hospital, by the Anderson foundation.

Land has been designated at the center for the erection of new buildings by the University of Texas' School of Dentistry, formerly the Texas Dental college.

To provide better facilities for the Houston-Harris County Anti-Tuberculosis hospital, the people of Houston have voted $650,000.

New Wrinkle Planned

Near the Center are two accredited pre-medical training institutions — Rice Institute and the University of Houston.

Plans for a School of Geographical Medicine at the center are being considered by the University of Texas. Proposed by Dr. Chauncey Leake, head of the University's Medical school at Galveston, this unit would deal not only with the study of and research into tropical medicine but with research on all diseases.

UNSUNG heroines on the home front include Mrs. Fritz Lanham, wife of the congressman from Fort Worth, who for 18 months has devoted every Tuesday night to work at Washington's famed Stage Door Canteen for service men.

Mother of two boys, one in the Navy and at sea on a destroyer escort in the Atlantic, Mrs. Lanham is chief hostess the one night each week. Located in the old Belasco theater near the White House, the canteen features free food and clean fun for soldiers and sailors.

Radiating Texas hospitality, the lovely and gracious Mrs. Lanham greets all the boys when they come into the place, but she makes it a point to engage in conversation those youngsters who seem kind of depressed, homesick.

Solon Entertains, Too

Not infrequently they confide in her, seeking counsel and sympathy. That she is held in deep affection by many is seen in the fact that occasionally she receives letters from those who have gone back to their ships, or overseas.

Every few weeks Congressman Lanham himself puts on a show at the canteen, performing tricks learned in a lifelong hobby as a magician. And for those who don't know it, it might be added that he can perform on a par with the country's best professionals.

RECENTLY a worried young private confided to Mrs. Lanham that he was debating entering the ministry. He was puzzled about the effect of the war on his life. She suggested that the young soldier go up to the capitol the following day and have a man-to-man talk with her husband, explaining that he was a Methodist and had often filled the pupit as guest speaker. Well, the boy had the talk, apparently reached some peace of mind, and went away resolved to help out all he could in services among the soldiers and enter a theological school as soon as the war is over.

USE SEA POWER TO GET HOGS IN A HURRY
FEED STANTON'S 20% PIG RATION
Today, more than ever before, it is extremely important to speed up growth and keep mortality down in young pigs. Feed is too precious to waste on the laggards and pork is too valuable to lose before it goes to market. Stanton's 20% pig ration provides extra protection against both. In hundreds of hog lots, it is working consistently to improve pig health, speed up growth and reduce mortality because it gives little pigs the same kind of boost that chick starter gives to baby chicks. It is being fed widely to sows before farrowing and through creep feeding—to pigs from 2-3 weeks of age on up.

MANAMAR
In Stanton's 20% pig ration supplies the hard-to-get feeding essentials—fish proteins, food minerals and vitamins, including the important Vitamin B "complex."

S-G PLUS
Is a patented vacuum concentrated extract from fish. This new and potent product, resulting from ten years of tireless research and experiment, supplies extra tract minerals and vitamins in Stanton's 20% pig ration

LOW PRICED ISSUES ACTIVE

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP)—It was another selective stock market today with low-priced issues providing the greatest percentage of the volume.

Cheering to bullish forces was a rally in the rails, persistent demand for independent motors and further strength of peace-rated securities such as oils, liquors, automotive accessories and a variety of specialties.

Trends were a shade mixed after the start and, while advances of fractions to a point or more were widely distributed at the close, many leaders failed to get out of the minus column.

Generally bullish invasion news was helpful but warnings on over-optimism restrained some potential purchasers.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 52.8. Transfers totaled 849,257 shares compared with 961,860 the day before.

General Gas and Electric "A" was the fastest mover, up ⅛ at 3⅛, a new year's high, on blocks running to 22,000 shares. Proposed revision of recapitalization plans which would benefit the company's junior stocks spurred the revival.

Railway bonds stiffened.

NO COCHRAN BILLS

MORTON, June 9. (Special) — A Cochran county grand jury that had been impaneled Thursday returned no bills when it reported this afternoon to Judge Dan Blair of the 106th judicial district.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP)—Prices rallied sharply in the final hour and cotton futures closed from 15 to 45 cents a bale higher today.

Reports that the Bankhead amendment to raise cotton textile ceiling prices was gaining support in Washington, together with new commission house and New Orleans buying stimulated late trade.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 9 (AP) — Late profit taking and hedging sales erased most of the grins made by wheat futures in quiet trading today. A brief period of short covering had boosted wheat prices almost a cent a bushel but the market was unsettled and offerings on the advance were heavy.

Rye prices advanced in sympathy with wheat, then fell back just as quickly when wheat turned. Trade in the rye pit was nervous in tone, reflecting reports distillers opposed its use in industrial alcohol manufacture because of increased production costs.

Wheat closed ⅛ to ⅜ higher than yesterday, July $1.60-1.60⅛. Oats were ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, July 74⅝. Rye was off ⅛ to ⅛, July $1.04¾-⅞. Barley was ⅛ to ¼ lower, July $1.18⅝.

across the street south from O'Donnell's theater. Pugh drove up and parked. Burns approached Pugh's car, in which Pugh, Mrs. Pugh and the pair's 9-year-old son were sitting.

Shooting Commenced

Pugh, they said, got out of the car "on the driver's side." Shooting commenced. Burns pitched over dead on the sidewalk.

Examination of Burns' .41 caliber pistol showed it had not been fired. It was lying beside the officer's body.

Pugh's pistol, a .38 special, had been emptied. Six discharged cartridges were found, McCord said he had been informed.

The district attorney said he understood "there had been trouble between the men once before, in connection with an arrest."

The grand jury, which was served by Burns as a bailiff, had recessed only 10 hours before the shooting. Its recall date is July 31, McCord said, but "may be called back earlier." It had voted one felony indictment, charging burglary to a negro.

No Arrangements Set

The body of the officer was taken to Rix Funeral home in Lubbock. It, as disclosed by officials of the 106th judicial district after examination by a Lynn county physician, was pierced twice through the heart. There was a wound in the left arm.

Burns is survived by his widow; three daughters, Patricia Ann of O'Donnell, Mrs. Stanley Smith of Melrose, N. M., Mrs. Mary England of Eldorado, Ark.; two sons, Michael, who is a twin of Patricia Ann, and Bert Burns.

Brin Quits Post

was the scope of its operations and the objective sought; whether purpose of the activities included violation of any of the segregation laws of the state, and whether it was the purpose to "establish policies which are in violation of state laws?"

Brin said that he would be glad to get the questions and that "every effort would be made to answer them."

Not To Attempt Answer

In Washington, Malcolm Ross, chairman of the committee, said he would not attempt to answer Stevenson's letter, which neither he nor Brin had received, but that his comment in respect to press reports was:

"It is well known that the committee operates under executive order 9346 issued by the President of the United States on May 27, 1943. That order has for its purpose the maximum utilization in war industries and federal government service of the nation's available manpower through the elimination of discrimination on account of race, creed, color or national origin.

"The committee neither in its purpose nor in its activities does violation to any valid laws of any state, nor has it established any policies contrary to such laws."

Drops Advertising Cases

Brin also disclosed that "under present orders of Washington the Dallas office of the committee is not processing advertising cases, pending the committee's action in clarifying the types of businesses or services which are subject to its jurisdiction under executive order."

He said that the committee had been using a War Manpower commission list of plants considered essential to the war effort, but that the committee was now compiling its own list, and said that advertising cases were "only a small part" of PFEPC acitvities.

A recent letter from Brin to the Dallas Morning News asked the paper to refrain from referring in classified advertising columns to the race of persons desired for employment. Later, Ross instructed Brin to withdraw the request on the basis that newspapers were not considered war industries and not subject to PFEPC regulations.

Long A Federal Employe

Brin has been a federal employee for a number of years. He was connected with the National Labor Relations board and before joining the PFEPC he was with an agency carrying on secret war activities. He became Dallas regional PFEPC director in January.

Field Examiner W. Don Ellinger was expected to be named acting regional director, although there has been no official confirmation.

Ellinger said late today that Brin was en route to Washington.

Referring to Brin's announcement of resignation, Ellinger said: "When I took the job with the agency in March, Mr. Brin told me he had taken his job from the first of June to the first of July."

Agreement Nears On G. I. "Rights" Bill

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP) — Senate and House conferees approached final agreement on a compromise GI "bill or rights" tonight by settling differences over unemployment compensation provisions.

Senator Clark (D-Mo) said the compromise will provide a maximum of 52 weeks of unemployment compensation at $20 a week, for jobless veterans of the present war for two years after their discharge.

Clark said the committee still was in disagreement on a provision for placing veterans in jobs.

though they had slight headaches. Why the headaches?

"We found out about vodka," they said almost in chorus.

"Boy, are these Russian girls strong," said Lt. Strait Kimmons of Houston, Texas. "I saw two of our GIs struggling along with a couple of big cans of soup. Then two Russian girls came up and took them away with a laugh. They handled the cans as if they were toys. Wow, what people!"

I looked in on Lt. John Johnson of Draffin, Ky.—the fellow who kept secret a painful appendix just to make the trip, only to be stricken later and operated on in Russia at an American field hospital. He is doing fine here—and I saw another one of those strange coincidences.

"Why, I know his sister," smiled nurse Josie Lee Vest of Whitesburg, Ky. "She's one of my good friends and look!—Here we meet in Russia and he's my patient."

Lt. John Puntch and Capt. Paul Smyers of Amarillo, Texas, hadn't seen each other since the war began. They met at this airbase.

"Of all places in the world to meet an old boy from Amarillo Junior college," said Puntch. "Why, you could have knocked me over with a Flying Fortress."

It was a case of a typical group of just plain Americans meeting and mixing with just plain Russians.

To a man they liked Russia, and as far as they could find out the Russians liked them.

done about her, will begin to plan for another world war as soon as she is defeated.

Significantly, thinking in Australia runs along the same lines as that in U. S., although measured by a different question. In Australia, when asked if they thought there would be another world conflict within 25 years, the dominant number said yes. The actual vote, as tabulated by the Australian Public Opinion poll, was:

YES	42%
NO	34
NO OPINION	24

In Britain, in 1942, in a survey asking voters what they thought Britain's attitude toward Germany should be after the war, about one-half of those questioned gave replies indicating the necessity of preventing Germany from starting another war at some future time.

WRITER CAPTURED

LONDON, June 9. (AP) — The German radio said today that James W. Lee of Oklahoma, whom it identified as a war correspondent for the Jewish telegraph agency of New York, had been taken prisoner—presumably in France.

Nazi Peninsula Lines Are Cut

the Allies held onto an important hill and poured their armor into a fight that may prove to be the key to the tank battleground between Bayeux and Caen.

Fiercest Around Caen

The fiercest fighting of the whole invasion swirled around Caen, nine miles inland from the bay of the Seine, where at least two German Panzer divisions were trying to hold that strongpoint and win maneuverable control of the good tank-fighting zone to the west.

The headquarters communique made clear that the Allies also were getting their heavy armor into action and that the Germans had not been able to out-match it.

It was disclosed that the Allies have taken 4,000 to 5,000 prisoners since the invasion began.

Near the Allied left flank in the Caen sector, the British and Canadians withstood a furious German armored counterattack.

One German spearhead gouged into the Canadian lines, said a front dispatch, but was thrown back again.

Whole Front Ablaze

The whole Bayeux-Caen front was described as ablaze.

The Americans, personally commanded in the field by Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley, and the British and Canadians all are making "satisfactory progress," headquarters said, despite stiffening German resistance and ominously deteriorating weather that stopped virtually all air operations and hampered reinforcement of the beachheads.

It was announced by the Allies that American parachute troops who landed on D-day near Ste. Mere Eglise had carried out the most successful airborne operation in history. Some French parachutists went along as guides.

Americans Fan Out

The Americans, having linked up their airborne and ground troops, were fanning out in two directions from the center of their beachhead near Carentan at the neck of the peninsula, and had taken more than 800 prisoners.

Place names remained scarce in the news from the sprawling beachheads, which now extended over 60 miles, from just east of Caen to the vicinity of Ste. Mere Eglise in depths varying from a mile or so to more than ten.

The Germans conceded that one beachhead was nine miles deep along the Orne river to Caen and that a wedge had been driven through Bayeux and five miles on southwest towards St. Lo — a depth of ten miles.

Supreme Allied headquarters said the main German counterattack in the Caen area was held and ground was gained by the Allies. The Germans said a tank battle at Caen was raging towards a climax.

Armor Increasing

The weight of armor on both sides was increasing at numerous points, and field dispatches from Allied correspondents said the assembling of German tanks and infantry foretokened strong new attacks against the Allies in the early future.

Near the east flank of the Allied front, the Canadians fought off German tank attacks over open sights at 200 yards in an armored battle described as the largest yet fought since the invasion began Tuesday.

The British and Canadians were disclosed to have landed originally in the region of Berniers Sur Mer, 10 miles west of the Orne river mouth, and to have quickly captured Berniers. Field dispatches today said the British and Canadians had joined in the drive on Caen. The Canadian Third division was one of those in action.

It was announced that besides Berniers, coastal villages taken by the Canadians and British the first day included Courseulles, St. Aubin, Lion, Luc, Quistreham and Hangrune.

As the Allied beachheads slowly merged and took shape as a continuous front, the weather grew worse and was described as almost as great an enemy as the German troops.

The Germans contended that despite the weather the Allies already had put their third assault wave ashore and had other airborne divisions in northeast England and Scotland to support an amphibious attack which, the Nazis said they expected to come between Dunkerque and Ostende in the next few days.

Nazi Ships Sunk

the loss of one American destroyer in the early part of the invasion. (President Roosevelt said on Tuesday that two American destroyers and one landing craft had been lost up to noon of that day.)

A German inland battery in repeated fire hit the U. S. destroyer while its guns were engaged in clearing a beach for the landing of ground forces. It sank only a few thousand yards off the coast.

It is not permitted to identify at this time either the destroyer nor its commander, who was among the survivors.

Spotted By Nazi Battery

The ship had gone into action before dawn Tuesday, blasting the beaches from a position 4,000 yards offshore. The firing opened 20 minutes ahead of schedule when a German battery spotted the ship. The German battery was silenced and the destroyer then swung back to its assigned targets "when something hit us," the commander recalled.

He said he tried to head the ship out to sea, but she went into a tight circle. Finally she stopped with her engine rooms flooded and orders were given to abandon ship. When all were overboard the commander said he "just stepped off the bridge into water" which already was neck-high. He was picked up by other destroyers which raced in to lower boats on one side while their guns still were firing shoreward on the other side.

Allied Ship Losses Hit New Low Mark

WASHINGTN, June 9. (AP)—Allied shipping losses from U-boat action in the pre-invasion month of May were "by far the lowest for any months of the war," an Anglo-American statement reported today. At the same time it was noted that a lull in German undersea activity might indicate a possible sign of "preparations for a renewed offensive."

The joint statement, issued by the office of War Information under authority of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, said Cargo-ship losses in May were but a fraction of the destruction inflicted on Axis shipping.

Several U-boats are being sent to the bottom for every merchant ship destroyed, the statement noted.

A hint that new electronic detection devices are contributing to the anti-submarine campaign was given in the statement. Allied successes were attributed not only to the vigorous efforts of the armed forces, but to "the scientists who support them in a brilliant manner."

Negro Convicted In San Angelo Slaying

SAN ANGELO, June 9. (AP)—A general court martial found Pvt. Sylvester Davis, negro soldier, guilty tonight of murdering 20-year-old Peggy Lou Arnold and sentenced him to death by hanging.

The court deliberated about 20 minutes to reach the verdict, the first murder sentence in the history of the two air fields here.

Miss Arnold, telephone operator, was attacked and fatally beaten May 28 at a bus stop here. She died June 1 of the injuries.

Davis refused in court to offer a motive, answering "I don't know" repeatedly. In a statement given Maj. Owen D. Barker, trial judge advocate at San Angelo Army Air field, May 30, he said it was "meanness" in him.

Blow For FDR

to take into account producers' losses due to the "hazards of production and marketing" such perishables.

Other amendments would lift the government loan rate on six major farm commodities, including cotton, corn and wheat, from 90 to 95 per cent of parity, and remove the authority of the War Labor board to veto increases in wages up to $37.50 a week, when the increases were mutually agreeable to employer and employe.

The Senate rejected 42 to 25 an amendment by Senator Thomas (D-Okla) to substantially increase crude oil prices.

Bowles has claimed the proposal would cost consumers more than $250,000,000 a year and might disrupt the entire price stabilization proposal. Senator Bankhead and other supporters of the amendment have contended, on the contrary, that it would not raise consumer costs.

Nineteen Republicans voted with 20 Democrats including Texas Senators Connally and O'Daniel for the Bankhead plan while 22 Democrats, 12 Republicans and one Progressive opposed it.

Pay Increase Asked For Glider Units

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—Legislation adding $5 and $10 a month to the pay of fighting infantrymen and boosting the wages of glider units to conform generally with those of parachutists was approved today by the Senate military committee.

Acting on Secretary of War Stimson's assertion that current operations have demonstrated "the importance of highly trained, tough and aggressive infantry," the committee unanimously reported out one measure that would:

Increase by $5 the monthly pay of infantrymen who attain a standard of proficiency or perform satisfactorily in action, and provide a $10 monthly boost as recognition of exemplary conduct in action or satisfactory duty in a "major" operation.

Additional Penicillin Depots Are Selected

CHICAGO, June 9. (AP)—Addition of 1,000 hospitals to those already serving as depot hospitals for the limited distribution of penicillin to civilians was announced today by the chemicals bureau of the War Production board.

This brings to more than 2,000 the total number of hospitals serving as depots, the WPB said. The step was taken, officials related, to make the drug more conveniently available to hospitals in the less populated areas of the country.

LIFE FOR MURDERS

TULSA, June 9. (AP) — Roy E. Jones, 36-year-old former convict, was sentenced to life imprisonment last night for the kidnap-robbery last November of Dr. B. H. Humphrey and L. N. Kibbe, both of Sperry. Jones pleaded insanity.

KNOX'S WILL IN PROBATE

CHICAGO, June 9. (AP) — The will of Col. Frank Knox, secretary of the Navy and publisher of the Chicago Daily News, leaving an estate estimated at $2,000,000, was admitted to probate today. The entire estate was left to his widow, Mrs. Annie Reid Knox.

Congratulations To:

Moore Leaves For N. Y. Today

With the 440 yard runway at New York's National AAU track and field meet as his goal, Burl Gene Moore, Lubbock's Blonde Comet, will leave at noon today for San Antonio where he will join the remainder of the Texas trac. stars for the trip to New York.

Moore received word from San Antonio this week that the party would leave from that city sometime Sunday, going by way of New Orleans to the big meet in New York.

Moore did not know whether the party would be joined in New Orleans by the Southern AAU winners or not. The Southern AAU meet was held at New Orleans.

The meet in New York will be staged June 17 and 18. There are five members of the Texas party that were certified for the National AAU meet. They include Charles Parker, the sensational San Antonio sprinter, August Erfurth, the San Antonio hurdler, Bob Umstadt, the Texas University distance runner, and Edgar Guice, 880 yard runner from Prairie View college.

Moore time of 49.5 seconds, set in the state meet at Austin early last month, was the fastest time recorded in the nation this year for the 440 yard dash, AAU research records revealed.

LAAF Softball Loop Has Close Battles

Play in the Lubbock Army Air Field softball race was resumed Friday afternoon with Flight B, Flight A, Hanger, Finance Department and Section B winning victories.

Flight B won an easy 13 to 0 victory over the Administration Officers behind the pitching of Hayes. Hollis pitched and batted Flight A to a 3 to 2 decision over Section F when Hollis' homer broke up a duel between himself and Patton, the Section F mound ace.

Lovell out pitched Koeling to bring Hanger a 3 to 2 victory over Section A. With White pitching steady ball, Finance Department pounded out a 12 to 3 win over the Flying officers. Section B won a 4 to 1 decision over Section E with Baker winning the mound duel against Vyletel.

Lions, Kiwanis Win American Loop Tilts

The Lions Club junior baseball nine opened the American League race with a closely battled 8-to-7 victory over the Junior Chamber of Commerce nine, but the Opimist club's opener was spoiled in the second game of the league by the Kiwanis Cardinals winning a 14-to-11 decision.

Lefty Jack McCabe went the route for the Jaycees, and encountered one bad inning when three hits were combined with errors and walks to push across six runs. Outside this one bad inning, McCabe allowed only two hits.

Gallegos started for the Lions club, but was driven from the hill in the fourth inning when a four-run rally tied the score. York shed his mask and protector and took the hill to pitch three no-hit, no-run innings and his mates pushed over the winning run in the sixth inning.

The Kiwanis Cardinals took an early lead in their game with the Optimists, but the Optimist nine rallied in the fourth and took a 10-to-9 lead. A five-run comeback by the Cards washed out this lead and iced the game away.

Travis, Tatum and Louder were the batterymen for the winners while Davidson, Griffin and Sandlin worked for the losers.

Byrd Keeps Up Fast Golf Pace

PHILADELPHIA, June 9 (AP) — Sam Byrd of Detroit added a subpar 67 today to his opening 66, stretching his lead to three strokes with 133 at the half-way mark in the $17,500 Inquirer 72-hole invitational golf tournament at the Torresdale-Frankford Country club.

Craig Wood, the blond National Open duration champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y., turned in the best score of the second round, 66, to stream into second place with 136.

Another three strokes back was Bud Lewis, Marine inductee from Oreland, Pa., with 69-70 — 139, while Harold (Jug) McSpadden of Philadelphia, with a pair of 70's, was next with 140. Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., yesterday's second placer with 68, skidded to 73 today to tie at 141 with Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, who started the tourney as a co-favorite with McSpadden.

Austin Golfer Cops Amarillo Tournament

AMARILLO, June 9 (AP)—Red Gober of Austin won the tenth annual Tri-State Senior Golf championship here today by defeating Defending Champion Harrison Smith of Oklahoma City 5 and 4.

When they got on the first green Gober found he had forgotten his putter but Smith had an extra one and loaned it to him. Gober one-putted the hole for a win and used it all the way around.

On the fourteenth, where the match ended, Smith rushed up and shook hands with the new champion, then Gober handed him his putter and thanked him.

Gober was one-up through the first nine, then won the next four holes to dormie the match. They halved No. 14. The Austin player was three over par.

Gober is 56, Smith 55.

Seven residents of Massachusetts are on the Dartmouth baseball squad.

Intersectional Grid Games Return Again

NEW YORK, June 9. (AP)—Intersectional football games, glamour dates of the pre-war schedules, are making a return appearance this fall.

The cross-country type of grid contest went into a two-year hibernation following Pearl Harbor but stages a definite comeback this season with Notre Dame, whose collection of nicknames includes that of Rambler, participating in five and Pennsylvania and Duke scheduled in three each.

Penn's program, however, is unique in that the Quakers won't leave their home gridiron all season.

Not all the traveling will be confined to the Eastern sector. Texas Christian comes North to Kansas City for a game on Sept. 23 with the University of Kansas and Texas A. & M. crosses over to Miami, Fla., for a Dec. 8 clash with Miami university.

Tulsa, a participant in the last two Sugar Bowl games, is the opponent of Mississippi university in Memphis on Oct. 23 and host to the Iowa Seahawks Nov. 4.

In addition, there will be almost weekly visits between Oklahoma of the Big Six and members of the Southwest circuit and between the latter loop and the Southeast circuit, especially Louisiana State and Tulane.
