Terrorists threaten to kill hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A pro-Iranian extremist group threatened Friday to kill two American hostages if U.S. forces attacked Lebanon and to kill a Frenchman if France supplies arms to Iraq.

In another development, the magazine that broke the story of American arms sales to Iran reported Friday that hostage negotiator Terry Waite was in captivity, but would be freed next week.

The death threats were made by the Revolutionary Justice Organization in Arabic statements delivered to a Western news agency and the independent newspaper An-Nahar.

That group claims it holds Joseph James Cicippio, 56, formerly of Norristown, Pa., who was acting controller at the American University of Beirut; Edward Austin Tracy, also 56, a writer from Rutland, Vt., and Jean-Louis Normandin, 35, of France's Antenne-2 television station.

Friday's statements were accompanied by two polaroid pictures showing Cicippio and Normandin wearing dark blue track suits.

Normandin was kidnapped last June 8. Cicippio was abducted Sept. 12, and the Revolutionary Justice group announced last Oct. 21 that it held Tracy.

The latest statement noted that the Iraqi state minister for military affairs, Gen. Abdul Jabbar Shanshal, was visiting Paris, and said any agreement for France to supply arms to Iraq "will change everything into a tragedy very fast."

Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980.

Terrorist groups holding other foreign hostages had earlier threatened to kill their captives if U.S. armed forces struck at Lebanon.

In the latest in a series of unconfirmed reports on Waite's fate, the weekly Ash-Shiraa quoted unidentified Islamic sources in Beirut as predicting the Anglican Church envoy who disappeared Jan. 20 would be released "after the U.S. military storm in the Mediterranean settles down."

IRS agrees W-4 form confusing, promises to improve it

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service pledged Friday to try to improve its new W-4 withholding form, acknowledging the document is so confusing it could cause many Americans to doubt that the tax system has been overhauled.

"We are moving heaven and earth to address the problems" with the W-4, IRS Commissioner Lawrence B. Gibbs told congressional panels. "I hope in the next several weeks we will be able to come out with something," especially for lower- and middle-income taxpayers. March 1 is a reasonable target date, he said.

However, Gibbs would not promise flatly to revise the form — or more specifically, the instructions and worksheet designed to make it easier for taxpayers to claim the correct number of withholding allowances. The simpler the W-4 becomes, he said, the greater the chance a taxpayer will have too much or too little withheld from paychecks.

The commissioner did promise to search for a way to avoid imposing penalties on taxpayers who make an honest effort to have the right amount of tax withheld but fall short because of problems with the W-4.

In the meantime, Gibbs recommended:

— Continue filing the new form. Otherwise, the taxpayer runs the risk of being overwithheld (giving the government free use of the money) or underwithheld (perhaps having to pay a penalty a year from now).

— If the federal tax withheld from a worker's paycheck this year is significantly less than was taken from the last check received last year, the employer should be asked to take out at least enough to make up the difference.

Gibbs testified for 90 minutes before the Senate Finance subcommittee that oversees the IRS and then moved to the other side of the Capitol for a session with a House Ways and Means subcommittee. Lawmakers let him know how upset they are about the new W-4.

"This really does a job on the American taxpayer," Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., complained.

"A veritable hailstorm of protest" has resulted, said Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, who heads the House subcommittee.

"The W-4 form...has started a prairie fire across America that is leading to a taxpayer's revolt," said Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate panel. He reminded Gibbs of the biblical story of Zaccheus, the despised tax collector who later repented and became a disciple of Jesus.

Ector DA says reports of child abuse 'mostly incorrect'

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — A regretful Ector County district attorney said Friday that earlier reports on the condition of a 3½-year-old girl believed the victim of sexual assault and child abuse were "blown out of proportion" and "mostly incorrect."

As a result, District Attorney Eric Augesen will not prosecute the child's parents, Genovevo Dominguez, 28, and Guadalupe Dominguez, 22, on charges that were filed in early January, he said during a Friday afternoon news conference.

And the father's court-appointed attorney, Richard Alvarado of Odessa, said Friday he will discuss with his client the possibility of filing a lawsuit in connection with the case.

Alvarado, who pointed out that his client spent about 40 days in jail for no reason, said the discussion would hinge on glaring conflicts between the findings of the girl's initial medical examination and one subsequently completed by a team of eight doctors.

Addressing the conflicts for reporters Friday, Augesen listed nine points on which the initial examining doctor — Dr. John Kelley at Women's and Children's Hospital in Odessa — and eight other doctors — including Drs. Robert Bright, a pathologist, and Edgardo Dujon, a pediatrician — disagreed.

Autopsy report pending on man indicted in shootings

By JULIE HILLRICH
Staff Writer

ODESSA — An autopsy report determining the cause of death of a 59-year-old man indicted in connection with a Monahans shooting spree last month was pending Friday.

W.D. "Doug" Smith died late Thursday at Odessa's Medical Center Hospital, a hospital spokeswoman and Pathologist Dr. Robert Bright said.

Smith received gunshot wounds to his back and abdomen Jan. 6 after a six-hour stand-off with lawmen at his west Monahans mobile home. Three policemen and an 18-year-old bystander also were seriously injured in the shooting spree.

Odessa Justice of the Peace R.G. Hungerford pronounced Smith dead at 9:45 p.m. Thursday.

Bright said results determining the cause of Smith's death would not be released until the autopsy is completed. He declined to disclose preliminary findings without Hungerford's approval.

He said state law prohibits doctors from releasing autopsy results without the signature of the presiding judge or peace justice.

DA investigator still analyzing HRC report

By RAMONA NYE

A Midland social service agency's former director Friday failed to repay a promised $5,000, prompting the agency board to file a report against the man with the district attorney's office, the board president said.

Martha Garza, Human Relations Council Board of Directors president, said her organization Friday requested charges be filed against the agency's former executive director, Robert Jones.

"He called today and said he couldn't come up with the money," she said.

D.A. Investigator Dewey Lee said Friday he will analyze the report before any action is taken. District Attorney Al Schorre will call a press conference Monday to reveal his office's decision, Lee said.

Jones resigned last Monday after an internal audit revealed $4,600 was missing from the agency's books.

The missing funds were discovered last week by Ms. Garza after she found someone had forged her name on three checks within the last month, she said.

Jones and Ms. Garza are among three people authorized to sign Human Relations Council checks, she said.

Attempts to contact Jones have been unsuccessful. Ms. Garza said she is unaware of the man's Midland address.

Snake handler tries to dispel myths that surround rattlers

By ED TODD

Rattlesnakes are enshrouded by fables. And veteran Sweetwater snake handler Bill Ransberger, who said he has been bitten 38 times, is dedicated to exploding the "fables and old wives' tales" surrounding the often-maligned critter.

He will share insights into the rattlesnake today and Sunday in the third annual Rattlesnake Show sponsored by the Sandhills Rattlesnake Club in the Andrews County Civic Center. The show, which includes a display of arts and crafts, will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. today and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Ransberger, who helped launch the original Jaycees' Sweetwater Rattlesnake Round-Up 20 years ago, listed myths believed about rattlesnakes:

— They will chase you down and bite you. "They will not," he said.

College sets enrollment record

From Staff Reports

Midland College set another record for its spring semester enrollment as 3,612 students enrolled for credit classes.

That's 4.4 percent higher than the previous record of 3,457 for the 1985 spring term and 9.7 percent above last spring's final count of 3,290 students.

The all-time registration record was the 3,683 students who attended the 1986 fall semester.

"We were delighted with the final count, which was almost exactly what we had predicted for this semester," said Dr. Jess Parrish, college president.

Parrish noted that the college's off-campus classes in Fort Stockton, Big Lake and Midland contributed significantly to the increase. He also said that January's two-week Winter Interim classes also had higher enrollments than in previous years.

"Several factors had impact on this spring's enrollment. One, of course, was the Abell-Hanger Foundation's scholarship offer to all 1986 graduates of Midland High, Midland Lee, and Greenwood; another was our lower cost for the first two years influenced some students to stay at home and attend Midland College rather than going away to a university," Parrish said.

"Economic conditions also had a major role, since many residents are training or retraining to enter new fields of employment, or take classes to upgrade their present job skills," he added.

Parrish also credited the availability of financial aid for many students with influencing their enrollment at Midland College.

"The Fasken Foundation's Top Five Percent Scholarships, plus the many other scholarships and financial grants, were determining factors for quite a lot of students," he said. "If we didn't have a great number of generous individuals, clubs, and businesses in this community, literally hundreds of students wouldn't be in college today."

Seedlings available

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Windbreak-tree seedling for enhancing landscapes and reducing wind erosion on farmsteads will be available to rural Midland families Feb. 26 by the Midland Soil and Water Conservation District.

The hardwood and conifer seedlings will develop into trees "not just for the aesthetics" but to cut erosion, according to Tomas Dominguez, range conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service for Midland County.

The value of trees "depends on how you plant them," Dominguez said. He recommended that the seedlings be planted in staggered rows of two to better block the wind and to hold down blowing sand when the trees mature.

Those who have ordered seedlings by Feb. 18 may pick them up after 10 a.m. Feb. 26 at the Midland County Exhibit Building, Feb. 18 is the deadline for ordering the seedlings through the SCS office here. Hardwoods are selling for $40 for 100 seedlings, and conifers are $40 for 30 seedlings. Those who have not ordered seedlings may contact Dominguez at 684-8722 at the SCS office at 1348 S. Fairgrounds.

"Midland SWCD offers this program as one of their continuing efforts to protect the land from wind erosion," Dominguez said. "Trees are to be used to protect farmsteads or any rural area that may be subject to wind erosion."

Both large and small farmsteads may qualify for the seedlings, he said. "It's mainly for rural areas; it doesn't have to be great acreage." A rural homestead as small as one or two acres would qualify for the seedlings.

"It just adds to a better environment around the home," Dominguez said. In addition to enhancing the landscape and the lives of the residents of the farmsteads, the windbreak trees attract wildlife — mainly birds.

Hardwood seedlings offered by the Midland SWCD include the burr oak, Caragana, desert willow, green ash, honey locust, little walnut, Osage orange (bois d'arc), pecan, Russian olive and skunkbush sumac. However, the burr oak, green ash and pecan have been sold out.

Conifers include the Afghanistan pine, Arizona cypress, Austrian pine, Ponderosa pine and the red cedar. Of those, the Afghanistan pine and red cedar have been sold out.

So far, approximately 4,800 seedlings have been ordered for delivery here on Feb. 26, Dominguez said.

It was referring to the flotilla of U.S. warships stationed off Lebanon. U.S. officials have said they were scaling down the buildup and that no attack was planned.

The Anglican Church has said it could not confirm Waite, who disappeared while on a mission to negotiate the release of foreign hostages, was being held against his will.

Ash-Shiraa quoted Islamic sources as saying Waite's case was "segregated from the rest of the foreign hostages held in Lebanon."

"These sources consider the lack of a public responsibility statement for his abduction or detention leaves the door open for negotiations concerning him," the magazine said. It did not say who was holding Waite.

"Waite's release requires only a completion of formalities and security arrangements," the magazine said.

The magazine said that during negotiations with Waite there was "traffic of messages abroad and answers back." It did not say who was involved in the negotiations.

FORMS

"Mr. Commissioner, today we want you to repent...We want to offer you the opportunity for salvation," Pryor said.

While not repenting, Gibbs did acknowledge that the confusion about the W-4 works against the goal of having taxpayers adjust their withholding to reflect major changes brought about by the 1986 tax-overhaul law.

"If this is the result, then our efforts toward accuracy (in having the right amount withheld) are less productive, and in the larger picture we risk having the public's perception of tax reform negatively affected," he said.

As part of the big tax overhaul last year, Congress directed the IRS to produce a W-4 form that would more nearly accurately permit taxpayers to balance their withholding with the tax liability. In striving for that accuracy, Gibbs conceded the instructions and worksheet have become more complex.

The form itself, the one-third of a page that the worker gives to the employer, is basically the same as it has been for 20 years. The almost two pages of instructions and worksheet have become almost four.

Accountants, tax lawyers and many ordinary taxpayers have complained to Congress about the complexity.

The IRS is testing one proposed new form but already is concerned about its accuracy, Gibbs said.

"My guess is that when we come out with a new form, we are going to find it will be a form that, in order to have unacceptable levels of underwithholding or overwithholding, will not be usable by all taxpayers," he added.

— The rattlesnake's striking distance is equal to its length. The snake can only strike "half" its length.

Ransberger, a 62-year-old retired locomotive engineer for the Santa Fe Railroad, said that the original Sweetwater Rattlesnake Roundup in 1958 was conceived to contain the prairie reptile.

"There were so many people and livestock bit by rattlesnakes," he said, "and we were trying to control the species." This year's Sweetwater rattlesnake hunt and show will be held March 12-15.

Last year, 25,000 rattlesnakes were caught in the Sweetwater Rattlesnake Roundup, he said.

Ransberger handles and milks venom from the snakes. He talks freely and compulsively about the snakes, myths surrounding them, how good their fried meat is, and how valuable their venom is to medical science, their blood to research, their skin to leather workers, and their organs — heart, gall bladder and liver — to the palates of some Orientals.

In his dealings with the rat- and rabbit-eating snakes, Ransberger said he has been bitten 38 times from "milking snakes more than anything else."

"Not one of them has been fatal," he said. "I can recognize an accidental (snake bite) fixing to happen." He said that the "venom won't kill" but that the resultant shock may.

"The worst thing you can do when you get bit is to pack ice on it (the wound)," he said. That effectively "doubles the toxicity" of the venom.

The most effective techniques to retard the flow of venom to the heart is to tie a constricting band between the wound and the heart, perhaps cut the swelling wound area to relieve pressure, not panic and seek immediate medical attention.

Even today, Ransberger said he "jumps" if he is startled by a rattlesnake when he is hunting.

"I don't really like rattlesnakes," he said. "I've seen a lot of harm the rattlesnake can do. I have a very high respect for them. Nobody can jump higher than I when I see one."

REPORTS

An examination completed by Kelley Dec. 31 last year indicated the child had been repeatedly sexually abused, both anally and vaginally, and was suffering from a venereal disease, broken bones or possibly rickets, malnutrition and brain damage or retardation.

According to Augesen, none of those diagnoses were found to be true during subsequent examination.

As to a head wound, initially described as "cigarette burn down to the skull," Bright's found that the injury was of another nature.

"According to the mother of the child and the grandmother of the child and two older brothers," Bright told reporters, "the injury was the result of an accidental fall from a car on Dec. 24."

"It was Christmas Eve when the family returned home and was in the process of getting the kids into the house. (The child) was left in the car, asleep on the back seat and either rolled or fell from the seat," stated Bright.

Saying he had interviewed several relatives and friends, Bright added that "All stated they had never seen the little girl abused."

The girl was removed from her home Dec. 31 by state children's services case workers and taken to Women's and Children's Hospital for examination.

Peace Justice Manuel Valles later set bonds totalling $65,000 for the father on charges of aggravated sexual assault of a child, injury to a child and failure to report child abuse. Valles also set bonds for the mother totalling $15,000 on charges of injury to a child and failure to report child abuse.

After reviewing a detailed chronology of 20 visits to the Dominguez home by children's services case workers, Augesen questioned why the charges were even filed.

According to a listing of the visits handed out to news media members, a case worker visited the Dominguez home Dec. 22. The note following the date stated: "Home visit — delivered Christmas presents. (The child) looked fine. No bruises."

A notation Dec. 31 stated: "Complaint received that about three weeks ago while babysitting complainant noticed burns on (the child's) feet, black eye two days ago. Bruised up. Body scratched and bruised."

Bright said the family had been living in a barn-like building previously used to store feed. It wouldn't be too unlikely for a child who moved around a lot, not too steadily at times, to hurt herself, he said.

As to the 150 to as many as 200 scratches and scars on the child's body, Bright explained that this was not unexpected when people were "poor and uneducated."

"They just didn't know how to take care of medical problems," he said.

Augesen told reporters that, because of the lack of evidence as to who might have injured the child, he would not prosecute the cases of injury to a child which are pending against the parents.

He added that he would refer misdemeanor charges of failure to report child abuse to Ector County Attorney Gary Garrison.

Late Friday afternoon, Garrison said he could make no determina-

Several attempts to reach Hungerford by telephone were unsuccessful.

Smith was charged Jan. 16 with two counts of deadly assault on a police officer and three counts of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

Although reasons for the Jan. 6 melee remain unclear, it began about 3 p.m. when Smith started banging on the front door of his mobile home, busted the window and proceeded to shoot indiscriminately at passers-by, witnesses said.

Phone negotiations and use of tear gas grenades were unsuccessful in persuading Smith to surrender to law enforcement officials during the six-hour siege.

Police later stormed the trailer, throwing a concussion mortar into the residence for their own protection, Monahan Police Chief David Mills said.

At the time, authorities were unsure whether Smith suffered from gunshot wounds or mortar fragments.

He was listed in critical condition in the Odessa hospital's intensive care unit after undergoing exploratory surgery and remained there during his month-long battle for life.

Storms causing local pollution to infiltrate global air chemistry

WASHINGTON — Thunderstorms appear to act as engines that drive columns of air pollution high into the atmosphere, where it can spread to affect regional and global air chemistry, scientists say.

Researchers, who flew around thunderstorms to trace the movements of polluting gases, say the storms move air from near the surface to higher levels much more quickly than it would travel normally.

In a report published in the journal Science, scientists from the University of Maryland, the National Center for Atmospheric Research (NCAR) and other institutions said storms cause local pollution to infiltrate global air chemistry.

Pollution such as photochemical smog, acid rain and ozone are serious environmental problems at the city and state levels, the researchers said.

"How far these phenomena extend on the regional or global scale is a major unanswered question in atmospheric science," they continued.

Theorists, including Robert Chatfield of NCAR, suggested that strong vertical mixing of the air, which occurs during thunderstorms, may be an important factor in changing the chemical composition of the atmosphere.

To test the idea, Russell Dickerson and colleagues at Maryland, working with scientists elsewhere, used three aircraft to fly in and around thunderstorms over Oklahoma and Kansas.

Instruments in the planes traced the paths of carbon monoxide, ozone and nitrogen compounds such as nitric acid during the atmospheric disturbances. These data were combined with information from radar, space satellites, weather balloons and instruments on the ground.

Scientists estimate it normally takes about two months for air in the lowest mile of the atmosphere to move up to the higher levels of the troposphere, the weather-producing region that extends to about 10 miles above the surface.

Woman tells tale of color

By CAROL RUST

BEAUMONT (AP) — Back when my only goal in life was to be tall enough to see over the kitchen counter, things were clearly defined. Good. Bad. Hot. Cold. Yes. No. Shreveport was a sleepy little town back then, mired in red dirt, talk of cotton prices, the leathery smells of saddles in the hardware store and Augusts that dragged by more slowly than a pregnant hog.

There were good, honest, Christian men who worked and sweated hard for a living and sang "How Great Thou Art" in church on Sundays. Those were the white men.

The black men, even though most worked and sweated hard for a living, too, and went to church and had kids and everything that the white men did, didn't get quite the same credit. They were the lazy, shiftless sort you couldn't trust to do anything but not show up for work. That's what folks said, anyway.

That was one more designation of my youth, and perhaps the most obvious: black and white.

There were black and white waiting rooms at the doctor's office, black and white water fountains, black and white schools, black and white churches. There would have been black and white swimming pools, but the city didn't waste time building pools for Negroes, using the polite term. They'd tear the pool up in a year or two, you know how they are. That's what folks said, anyway.

Well, I didn't think much of it, because that's the world everybody else lived in back when I was 5 or so years old.

Another part of my world as the first-born child of a veterinarian was the official title of gate-opener down at the pasture when Dad was on call.

The phone call one Saturday morning couldn't have come at a more unfortunate time because Tom was just fixing to knock Jerry to king m come and Bugs Bunny was coming on right after that.

And some stupid cow somewhere was sick and I was going to miss it all.

I reluctantly got ready to go, dreading Dad's dusty truck that didn't have a proper place to sit and smelled so much like animal medicine that pretty soon you started tasting it, too. We bounced along, almost clear to Mansfield, and I was mighty happy by then to get out and open the gate when we finally did get there.

The colored man who kept the land for whoever owned it came up to Daddy's side of the truck and pointed way out the pasture. I'm not sure what he said, but whatever it was, it made Dad think twice about taking me with him.

So he pointed me to the colored man's front yard right up next to the road, where a little black girl was playing, and told me to stay there and play with her.

You could have knocked me down with a feather. Not that Daddy ever told me to stay away from colored people, but he didn't exactly encourage it, either. And here I was supposed to play with one.

I walked in the yard, not knowing what to say to this girl about my age who was so very black. I couldn't say much anyway because my tongue was just about stuck to the roof of my mouth, dry and all medicine-tasting, from the long ride down.

She was hopping around, making little clouds of dust in the grassless yard with her feet, and holding the most delicious-looking, half-eaten purple Popsicle in the world.

I guess my eyes stuck to that purple Popsicle about like my tongue was stuck to the roof of my mouth. "Hey," she said.

"Hey," I said.

Then she lifted the Popsicle up between us and held it there. I stared at it stupidly, and only a minute later did I realize she was offering it to me.

A half-eaten Popsicle. Purple. That a colored girl had already bitten into.

I knew I would drop dead if I took one bite, even a slurp. I might drop dead if I even thought about taking a slurp.

And yet I was awful thirsty, maybe the thirstiest I'd ever been in my 5 years.

I took it in my hand. That was the longest moment of my life. I felt suspended in time as I was drawing that purple Popsicle up to my mouth.

I was fixing to drop dead and go to hell forever and ever and never see my little brother again.

But I took a bite anyway. All in all, I took two bites and three slurps before I gave it back to her. It was a very good Popsicle.

And after that, when I saw all those signs over water fountains and on doors and in conversations saying, "black" and "colored," I thought someone must have tricked a whole bunch of people or something along time back and no one had found out about it yet.

Sure, there's black and white always has been, always will be.

But there's also purple, the color of the juicy Popsicle a little black girl gave me one hot, Louisiana afternoon when I was thirsty.

Judge calls Kyle 'remorseless liar,' sentences him to five years in prison

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ricky Kyle, who said he killed his millionaire father in self-defense, was sentenced to five years in prison Friday by a judge who denounced him as a remorseless liar.

Superior Court Judge Robert Altman indicated that jurors, who rejected a murder charge and convicted Kyle only of involuntary manslaughter, chose the wrong verdict in the July 22, 1983, shooting death of Henry Harrison Kyle Sr., 60. Altman suggested Henry Harrison "Ricky" Kyle Jr., 24, had pulled the wool over their eyes.

"The court feels he is putting on a show for the jury. It is the court's belief the defendant hated Henry Kyle. His actions were cruel, deliberate and remorseless," Altman said, rejecting pleas from Kyle and his lawyers for probation without prison time.

However, Altman said he acceded to jurors' wishes for leniency, expressed in a letter to the judge, by imposing less than the six-year maximum term the Dallas-born Kyle could have received.

Several jurors wept in court as sentence was pronounced.

Kyle's attorney, Stephen Sumner of Dallas, called the sentence "tragic" and said he was shocked at the harshness. He said Altman had undermined the jury verdict.

"A jury of 12 citizens found him not guilty of the offense of murder," said Sumner. "I felt the judge was saying he did not agree with the verdict and somewhat set it aside. To that extent, the judge undermined the verdict."

But Deputy District Attorney John Moulin said the sentence was "a very cheap price to pay for killing someone."

Moulin attributed the jury verdict to naivete and a successful defense effort to put Kyle Sr. on trial as a violent, abusive man.

"The jury may have felt emotionally that the father was a terrible person and got what he deserved," said Moulin.

It was the second trial for Kyle. The first ended in a mistrial when jurors deadlocked 10-2 in favor of a murder conviction.

Before Altman pronounced sentence, Kyle stood and told the judge in a soft voice: "I feel that the circumstances in this situation would never happen again. I feel I would be a productive member of society. I want to go back to school, get a job and have some peace in my life again."

But the judge said Kyle was putting on the same act he had on the witness stand.

"This court did not find the defendant in any way a credible witness in the course of this trial," said Altman.

"The court feels the defendant has not the slightest degree of remorse," Altman said. "The defendant's only remorse is for himself, that he did not get away completely with what he did."

Altman sentenced Kyle to three years on the involuntary manslaughter conviction plus two years for using a gun in the commission of a crime. Attorneys said he will serve 2½ years, half the five-year sentence. He was convicted Jan. 9.

Kyle testified that his father opened fire on him as the two, armed with handguns, searched for suspected prowlers at the father's Bel-Air mansion. Kyle said the gun went off as he scuffled with his father.

Most people obeying no-smoking ordinance, Dallas officials report

DALLAS (AP) — In the year since city council members tried to clear the air with a no-smoking ordinance, most smokers appear to have stubbed out their habit in public areas to comply with the new law, officials said.

Municipal prosecutors received only four complaints in the past year against smokers who might have lighted up illegally. Chief prosecutor Toni Baggett said none of the complaints resulted in trials or fines.

Ms. Baggett said the first person to complain apparently was a hospital patient whose roommate insisted on smoking in their no-smoking room. So he asked the smoker for his name and address and reported him to authorities.

But the smoker had the last laugh. Officials said he had given a bogus address and could not be served with a complaint.

The other three complaints were filed by the same person against three people at three separate places. But Ms. Baggett said the anti-smoking crusader hasn't signed the complaints and the smokers won't feel the heat until he does.

The city Health and Human Services Department received about 300 complaints concerning businesses that allegedly did not post no-smoking signs, said Elissa Turner, assistant director for environmental health.

She said about half the complaints indicated violations by the businesses. Letters notifying the businesses of the complaints and asking them to comply with the ordinance were sent.

But unless there is a second complaint, no one follows up on the letters, he said.

STATE IN BRIEF

Murder suspect sought

AUSTIN (AP) — Police are still seeking a member of the Bandidos motorcycle club who was indicted on an attempted capital murder charge in connection with the December shooting of a Department of Public Safety trooper.

A Travis County grand jury named Donnie Wayne Snell in a sealed indictment Jan. 28 and recommended a bail of $150,000. The indictment was unsealed Thursday.

Snell is accused in the Dec. 28 shooting of DPS Trooper Lance Coleman.

Coleman, 25, suffered a gunshot wound to the right hand after stopping a vehicle near Lake Travis, officers said. The suspect drove off after Coleman was shot and managed to elude an extensive search.

Snell, who also is wanted on an unrelated federal firearms violation, became a suspect in Coleman's shooting several days later, police said.

Trucker killed in pileup

WELSH, La. (AP) — One trucker was killed and two others injured in a three-rig pileup touched off when one of them fell asleep at the wheel and his 18-wheeler wandered across an interstate median, state police said.

Jack Creason, 49, of Jackson, Miss., died immediately when the truck driven by John Marabel, 56, of Houston, slammed head-on into his rig on Interstate 10 near Welsh, said Sgt. Waymon Jones.

He said the third truck, driven by Gilbert Pena, 37, of Houston, ran into the rear of Creason's on a wet, slippery stretch of the interstate.

Pena and Marabel both were seriously injured and taken to Lake Charles Memorial Hospital, Jones said.

Natural gas prices fall

AUSTIN (AP) — Natural gas prices for Texans decreased by more than 9 percent last year, Railroad Commission member Jim Nugent said Friday.

Nugent said lower prices were due, in part, to gas utilities' efforts to hold the line on service costs.

The commission's analysis of gas prices in 25 Texas cities showed the monthly bill for 6,000 cubic feet of gas dropped from $32.65 in January to $29.81 in December.

El Paso consumers had the lowest December bills, averaging $20.95. The highest December bills were in Tyler, where the average was $39.29.

Auto salesmen sued

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Friday filed a lawsuit charging that two Lubbock men and their auto sales businesses illegally rolled back odometers on used cars.

The suit was filed in Lubbock against Mike Hubbard, doing business as Lease Sales, and Ray Morgan, doing business as Diamond Auto Rental and Sales, also known as Re-sale Auto, according to Attorney General Jim Mattox.

Included in the suit are allegations that Hubbard and Morgan altered the mileage readings on a total of 85 vehicles and then sold them to auto dealers.

The suit seeks restitution for consumers who bought the cars and penalties that can be as high as $10,000 for each illegal act.

Officials reveal Yugoslav smuggling ring

EL PASO (AP) — About a dozen people in three countries are involved in an alien-smuggling ring that has helped hundreds of Yugoslavs enter the United States illegally, a Border Patrol official said Friday.

Three men indicted here on federal charges they helped smuggle Yugoslavs through the U.S.-Mexico border were just "the local connection," said James Selbe, associate Border Patrol chief in El Paso.

"There's quite a few people involved through the United States, Mexico as well as Yugoslavia," said Selbe. "It's a pretty large-scale thing."

The Border Patrol became aware of the ring's existence about two years ago, he said.

"This was just the first step," Selbe said of the indictments. "We're looking for a good many things down the road."

Selbe said he expects more arrests but that the investigation by the Border Patrol and other agencies was continuing.

"We know many of the players, but we don't know them all," he said.

Gaetano Tancredi, Alberto Rodriguez Martinez and Juan Palacios Carlos were named in a federal indictment returned Tuesday, charging them with smuggling five Yugoslavs into the United States.

Tancredi, an El Paso taxi driver, was arrested and booked into the El Paso County jail Wednesday. He appeared Friday before a U.S. magistrate who set bond at $5,000 cash, said a court clerk.

"The Yugoslavs are heading into the North and Northeast of the United States," Selbe said. "There is not a big Yugoslav community here. They'll go to where they have friends and relatives."

Selbe said the ring has been smuggling an estimated 30-40 aliens a month, but added he did not know how long the group had been operating before the Border Patrol became aware of their activities. He said that with few exceptions, the aliens were exclusively from Yugoslavia.

"They (alien smugglers) will deal with aliens from a particular country and often they'll narrow it to a section of that country," he said. "They'll specialize, just like drug dealers."

American reporter says freedom 'best' birthday gift he could get ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — American reporter Gerald F. Seib, freed from captivity in Iran, hugged his wife in a joyful birthday celebration Friday and denied Iranian charges that he spied while there on an official press tour.

"I am thrilled and thankful to be here," he said. "This happens to be my 31st birthday. And just being here is the best birthday present possible."

He said he was not physically harmed during several days of custody in Iran. Seib, who reports for the Wall Street Journal from his base in Cairo, had gone there with 56 other foreign journalists invited by the government to visit battle areas of the 6½-year-old war with Iraq.

The journalist was arrested last Saturday, accused of spying for Israel, and released Wednesday to the Swiss Embassy, which handles U.S. interests in Iran. He arrived in Zurich on a Swissair flight and was greeted by his wife, Barbara

They embraced on the tarmac and went into the terminal, where Seib read a statement that said in part:

"I am still not sure why I was detained or how I was released. All I know is that any suggestion I was involved in any kind of espionage is completely false. I am a journalist and that is all I am."

Iranian officials said Wednesday the decision to "expel" Seib was made after completion of a "judicial probe into his case."

In Washington, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said,

"We are certainly happy that he's been released, pleased to see him reunited with his family," and added on a personal note: "Gerry's a good friend and a good reporter and I know this has been a tough ordeal for him."

Chairman Warren H. Phillips of Dow Jones, which publishes the Wall Street Journal, said: "We're delighted at Gerry's safe return. His family joins his colleagues in thanking the many public and private individuals in many countries whose support and assistance made his return possible."

Middleman reportedly tries to meet with captors

BONN, West Germany (AP) — A government middleman has returned from the Middle East, where he sought to meet with the captors of two West Germans abducted in Lebanon, security sources said Friday.

The sources said the middleman reported on his trip to Bonn government officials Friday. His identity has not been disclosed, but sources have said he is not a West German.

It was his second such trip to the Middle East in quest of freedom for businessmen Rudolf Cordes and Alfred Schmidt, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Officials said they could not confirm the go-between was in Bonn.

News accounts have speculated that Cordes and Schmidt were kidnapped in hopes of winning the release of Mohammed Ali Hamadi, who was arrested Jan. 13 when he arrived at the Frankfurt airport from Beirut.

Government officials have said the cases are linked but have not confirmed that any trade had been sought.

The United States seeks Hamadi's extradition on charges of air piracy and murder in the June 1985 hijacking of a TWA airliner to Beirut.

99 percent of armed forces supports Aquino, general says

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The armed forces chief said Friday 99 percent of the military supports President Corazon Aquino's government, although other officials have said two out of five soldiers voted against her new constitution.

"The armed forces of the Philippines — 99 percent — have been faithful in upholding the constitution, the flag of the republic," Gen. Fidel V. Ramos said at a military ceremony. "Ninety-nine percent do not constitute a problem for this government, neither do they constitute a problem for our people."

The government's Philippine News Agency, meanwhile, said authorities filed rebellion charges against 119 civilians who joined about 200 soldiers in seizing a television station during a coup attempt last month. A prosecuting attorney will decide if enough evidence exists for the case to be brought to court.

The civilians, mostly supporters of former President Ferdinand E. Marcos, joined what the government called an attempt to pave the way for Marcos' return from his Hawaiian exile. Four courts-martial have been established to try the approximately 400 soldiers captured after their assaults on military and media facilities.

Various government officials have reported that 40 percent of the military vote in Monday's plebiscite went against the charter. Overall, only one out of four Filipinos who voted cast his ballot against the constitution, according to the official count of half the vote. The final tally is expected in the coming days.

Mrs. Aquino strongly backed the charter, which among other things gives her a 6-year term without new elections and bars the military from all political activity except voting. The government has ordered soldiers to pledge allegiance to the charter on Monday or face dismissal.

Ramos, whom Mrs. Aquino credited with crushing the January coup attempt, said the military's performance "assured our people that they will remain on the job and they will do their jobs well."

Officers loyal to Mrs. Aquino have helped her put down three coup attempts since a civilian-military uprising ousted Marcos and swept the 54-year-old Mrs. Aquino to power in February 1986.

But some officers have been angered by Mrs. Aquino's peace overtures to Communist rebels and the presence of what they say are leftists in her Cabinet.

Renewed hostilities with the leftist rebels appeared imminent. National level rebel negotiators pulled out of peace talks Jan. 30 citing what they called government insincerity and military abuses. A 60-day cease-fire expires Sunday.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Official says countries want better relations with U.S.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Poland, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria want to improve relations with the United States, the No. 2 man in the State Department said Friday.

"It was evident that all three countries are ready to embark on a step-by-step process which could lead to improved relations," Deputy Secretary of State John C. Whitehead said in a statement.

Whitehead completed tour of Eastern Europe on Thursday and was scheduled to return to Washington today.

In Brussels, he briefed NATO ambassadors on the trip, but said he could not disclose details. Whitehead said he visited the three countries to "listen and learn and to explain American policy."

Whitehead also held talks Friday with Belgian Prime Minister Wilfried Martens. Ed Elly, a spokesman for the U.S. mission to NATO, said he had no details on the meeting.

Ex-soldier to be retried

QUEBEC (AP) — A judge on Friday ordered a second murder trial for a former Canadian army corporal accused of killing three people in a 1984 machine gun attack in the Quebec provincial legislature.

Judge Jacques Durois rejected defendant Denis Lortie's attempt to plead guilty to second-degree murder charges and ordered him retried on first-degree murder charges.

Lortie, 26, had been scheduled to stand trial a second time last month when the prosecution agreed to reduce the charges if he changed his plea to guilty.

But Durois said Friday he could not accept the guilty pleas after testimony he had heard about Lortie's family history and psychiatric state at the time of the attack. The defense argued Lortie was emotionally unstable when he burst into the legislature spraying gunfire that also wounded nine people. A sergeant-at-arms eventually talked him into surrendering.

Collision kills 20 people

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — A gasoline truck collided with a bus and burst into flames near this coastal resort, killing 20 people, officials said Friday. The only survivors — two babies — were reported in critical condition.

Arturo Martinez Flores of the federal highway police said the dead included the four crewmen of the truck and 16 of the 18 people on the bus.

"The two survivors, two small children, are in a critical condition with third-degree burns and are hospitalized in the Social Security Hospital. No one has claimed them," Martinez Flores said by telephone.

He said the bus and the truck loaded with gasoline collided Thursday afternoon on the Acapulco-Mexico City highway.

St. John's
defeats BC
in Big East

BOSTON (AP) — Senior Willie Glass scored 25 points and Mark Jackson added 23 as 19th-ranked St. John's rolled to a 65-50 Big East victory Friday night over Boston College.

Glass scored for 17 points in the second half, including 10 in the first nine minutes of the half as the Redmen opened a 46-32 lead with 8:49 remaining.

Boston College guard Jamie Benton hit a jump shot with 1:49 remaining to pull the Eagles to 57-46, but the Redmen shot 6-for-8 from the foul line down the stretch.

Frenchmen wins title

ANTIBES, France — France's Thomas N'Kalenkete stopped Tony Laing of Britain in the ninth round Friday to become new European super lightweight champion.

The first three rounds were slow paced, before N'Kalenkete started to land punches to Laing's head and midsection. A right from N'Kalenkete floored Laing in the eighth round but Laing was saved by the bell. N'Kalenkete ended the fight early in the ninth.

N'Kalenkete now holds the title that was stripped from Britain's Terry Marsh, who failed to defend it in the time allowed.

Bucs sign Reynolds

PITTSBURGH — Outfielder R.J. Reynolds signed a one-year contract Friday with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Reynolds, 26, batted .289 last season in 118 games with nine home runs and 48 runs batted in.

A switch-hitter, Reynolds was acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers on Sept. 3, 1985, along with first baseman Sid Bream and outfielder Cecil Espy in exchange for third baseman Bill Madlock.

The Pirates also invited outfielder Moises Alou and right-handed pitcher Lee Tunnell to their 1987 major-league spring training camp, bringing to 11 the total number of non-roster players invited.

Gaines resigns

SAN DIEGO — David "Smoky" Gaines, whose team is mired in the longest losing streak in San Diego State basketball history, will resign as head coach at the end of the season.

His decision after the Aztecs lost their 13th straight game and fell to 2-19 overall and 0-9 in the Western Athletic Conference.

In eight seasons at San Diego State, Gaines has an overall record of 109-111.

SEATTLE (AP) — There's no Spud Webb, no Dominique Wilkins, so it's Air Jordan against the world Saturday as the NBA puts on its annual flying show, also known as its slam-dunk contest.

Air, who under the name Michael Jordan leads the NBA in scoring with a 37-point per game average, has never won the slam dunk contest — he was runner-up to Wilkins two years ago, then missed Webb's victory last year when he was sidelined with a broken foot.

But he became the man to beat this week when Wilkins withdrew, complaining of soreness that won't keep him from being a starting forward for the East in the All-Star game Sunday but will prevent him from soaring and twisting in Saturday's contest at the Kingdome. Webb, Wilkins' 5-foot-6 Atlanta teammate, is sidelined with a knee injury.

"There aren't many players, maybe Dominique, who can think of doing some of the things he does," Atlanta general manager Stan Kasten says of Jordan. "That's the spontaneity. He has genius like an artist has genius."

Wilkins' defection left brother Gerald, who plays for the New York Knicks, as both the defender of the family honor and the principal threat to Jordan. Gerald made it to the semifinals last year.

"The contest is a lot of fun," Gerald says. "I want to come out strong and get established with the crowd and win them over. You have to do that to get into the second round."

In last year's contest, Gerald dunked over a man sitting in a chair. This season, in the interest of safety, the NBA has ruled that props are out. Instead, players may use more than one ball in a dunk attempt.

"They took the chairs away from me but I have some other ideas that are creative," Gerald says. "I'll be throwing the ball in the air the way Spud Webb did last year."

Another contender figures to be Terence Stansbury of the Seattle SuperSonics, who made it to the semifinals the past two years as a member of the Indianapolis Pacers.

The other Slam-Dunk competitors are Johnny Dawkins of the San Antonio Spurs, Ron Harper of the Cleveland Cavaliers, Tom Chambers of the Sonics, and Clyde Drexler and Jerome Kersey of the Portland Trail Blazers.

Also scheduled Saturday at the Seattle Coliseum, home of the Sonics, are the NBA's three-point shootout and an old-timers' game. Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics is favored to win his second straight three-point title against a field that includes Craig Hodges of the Milwaukee Bucks. Hodges lost in last year's finals to Bird.

Also entered in the three-point event are Michael Cooper and Byron Scott of the Los Angeles Lakers, Dale Ellis of the Sonics, Detlef Schrempf of the Dallas Mavericks, Danny Ainge of the Boston Celtics and Kiki Vandeweghe of the Trail Blazers.

In Sunday's All-Star game, the West starters will be Akeem Olajuwon of the Houston Rockets at center, Chambers and James Worthy of the Lakers at forwards and Magic Johnson of the Lakers and Alvin Robertson of the Spurs at guards.

Starting for the East will be Dominique Wilkins and Bird at forwards, Moses Malone of the Washington Bullets at center, and Jordan and Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers at guards.

The other West All-Stars are Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Lakers, Mark Aguirre and Rolando Blackman of the Dallas Mavericks, Eric Floyd and Joe Barry Carroll of the Golden State Warriors, Walter Davis of the Phoenix Suns and Alex English of the Denver Nuggets.

Also on the East All-Stars are Charles Barkley and Maurice Cheeks of Philadelphia, Bill Laimbeer and Isiah Thomas of the Detroit Pistons, Robert Parish and Kevin McHale of Boston, and Jeff Malone of Washington.

K.C. Jones of Boston is the East's coach while Pat Riley of the Lakers will coach the West.

MHS girls win in OT

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

Like that fabled superhero of old, Amy Cummings stepped out of the phone booth she had been hiding in most of the game and lifted Midland High to a 54-52 overtime win over San Angelo Friday night.

And she did it with not a minute to spare. Twelve seconds, actually.

After not scoring a point in the first half and only connecting on six of seven free throws in the third quarter, Cummings, MHS' "woman of steel," crashed the boards and put in an offensive rebound for her first field goal of the game to tie the game at 46.

Though both teams had chances to win it in regulation, including a missed Brenda Rodriguez free throw with '06 remaining, Cummings' first bucket seemed to ignite her and the Lady Bulldogs.

In the extra period, Cummings went to work. The MHS senior scored six of the first eight points in overtime as MHS grabbed a 52-48 lead. And with the Bobcats fresh out of kryptonite, the Bulldogs were on their way to their sixth straight district win.

"I didn't think they would let me score many points, so I was concentrating on playing defense, getting assists and scoring if I could," said Cummings, who finished with 16 points and 14 rebounds. "But near the end of the game they had me worried. (In overtime) I was just able to get open and get my shots."

THE VICTORY puts MHS in position to claim its first girls District 4-5A title ever with a win at Abilene High on Monday. The Lady Dogs, 10-1, 21-6, are already assured of their third straight playoff appearance. The Bobcats, 8-2, 17-7, are now just one-half game in front of Midland Lee in the race for the second playoff spot.

"We feel like we beat a very good team tonight. San Angelo played a whole lot better than when they beat us down there," said Bulldog coach Jane Young after drying off from a New York Giant-like Gatorade bath. "San Angelo outrebounded us bad in the first half, but I can't say they outthrust us because we were still right in the game."

MHS has counted on Cummings all season, but when San Angelo's defense made her disappear in the first half, the Lady Bulldogs didn't exactly panic.

Instead, Sebrina Finch hit all five of her first-half shots and the rest of the lineup picked up some crucial points as MHS scrapped and scraped to a 23-22 halftime lead. Finch, who could hardly walk after slipping on a battery in a school hallway Thursday, was flawless in the first half on her way to a team-high 18 points.

"The ankle hurt a lot before the game, but once I got into it, I really didn't think about it," Finch said. "I felt like I could take it inside on their zone and we knew they were going to hold on to Amy because she scored 22 points in the first game."

BUT IN the third quarter, the Bobcats' Terri Washington began to put on a show of her own as they took a 30-25 lead. But Cummings, who had awoken from her first half hibernation, was nearly perfect from the free throw line and brought the 'Dogs back with six of MHS' 10 points in the quarter.

Washington, who scored 28 on the night, was just heating up however. She scored 10 fourth-quarter points and led the Bobcats to leads as big as three points on two occasions.

The last was a 43-40 advantage with just under three minutes to go. But a Brenda Rodriguez jumper and a steal and lay up by Kim Jackson gave MHS a temporary 44-43 lead. San Angelo's Garlanda Freeze layed one in to retake the lead and a Washington free throw made it a two-point spread.

But Cummings was just getting ready to slip into her new jersey, the one with the 'S' on the front.

Rebel girls slug Cooper, 60-26

From Staff Reports

ABILENE — The Midland Lee girls kept their faint District 4-5A basketball playoff hopes alive here Friday night with a 60-26 rout over Abilene Cooper.

Lee climbed to 8-3 in district play with the victory, but needs San Angelo, a 54-52 loser to Midland High in overtime Friday, to lose one of its last two games.

The Lee girls took command early against Cooper, vaulting to a 16-6 lead in the first quarter and outscored the Cougars by an awesome 22-0 margin in the second period for a 38-6 lead at the half.

Pietie Mayfield and Leah Burnett led the way for the Lady Rebels with 10 points each. In all, 10 Lee girls scored in the game.

In the only other District 4-5A game, Odessa Permian defeated Odessa High by a 50-41 margin.

Cooper snuffs out Rebels' playoff hopes

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

Any hopes the Midland Lee Rebels had of rallying their way into the bi-district playoffs were laid to rest Friday night as the Abilene Cooper-Cougars kept it a three-team race with a 61-50 District 4-5A victory at Chap Center.

With the victory, Cooper is in control of its own playoff destiny as the Cougars host league leading Odessa Permian Tuesday and travel to second place San Angelo on Friday.

Permian posted a 57-47 win over Odessa High Friday for an 8-1 record while San Angelo used an 84-66 win over Midland High to improve to 6-2. Cooper is a half-game behind the Bobcats at 5-3.

However, despite the 11-point margin, the Cougars didn't have it as easy as appearances might show. This was a game where momentum didn't know whose side it was on. One minute the Rebels were stomping on the Cougars and the next they were struggling to keep from being blown out.

After scoring the game's first two buckets, the Cougars suddenly found themselves shell-shocked as the Rebel attack hit full stride. Led by Mark Van Cott's eight points and Danny Allen's six, Lee gunned in 10-of-14 field goals to lead the way to a 20-10 first quarter advantage.

Things were just the opposite the next eight minutes as Cooper powered its way to a 32-30 lead at the half.

Both teams battled to an 11-point draw in the third quarter with San Angelo leading by as many as five points, 39-34 only let Lee take a one-point advantage a few minutes later at 40-39. The 'Cats scored two of the final three baskets for a two-point edge going into the final quarter of play.

Bobcat Doug Starr quickly spread the lead to six points on a pair of 10-footers, 47-41 and Lee was never got closer than five points the rest of the way as Starr, Scott Pugh, Brian Beadle and Jay Estes hit from all angles to offset Lee's attack.

THE FOUR Cougars who kept Lee at bay in the final minutes had a steady night as each scored in double figures led by Estes with 18, Beadle with 16, Starr 13 and Pugh 12. For Lee, Van Cott scored 17 and Allen 14.

Breland KO's Volbrecht to win welter title

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Mark Breland, a 1984 Olympic champion, won the World Boxing Association welterweight championship Friday night when he knocked out Harold Volbrecht with a crashing right to the jaw in the seventh round.

Breland chased Volbrecht for most of the first six rounds, then finally cornered him late in the seventh.

Breland pinned Volbrecht near the ropes and hurt him with a right to the face that made Volbrecht lean to the ropes. Breland followed with a right and a left, then landed a chopping right to the jaw that dropped Volbrecht to his left knee in a neutral corner.

Volbrecht then slumped to the canvas and referee Tony Perez counted him out at 2:07 of the seventh round.

The unbeaten Breland became the second member of the 1984 U.S. Olympic boxing team to win a world title, joining Evander Holyfield, the light heavyweight bronze medalist who is the WBA junior heavyweight champ.

Before the fight, Breland had said of his 30-year-old opponent: "If he runs a lot, it may stink the fight out. To me, he's a boxing runner."

Going into the seventh round, it appeared the fight would be a stinker, as Volbrecht continuously moved back and forth and occasionally lunged in with both arms.

He simply wouldn't give the 6-foot-2 Breland a target.

But although he was unable to land solidly on his 56 opponent, the 23-year-old Breland, of New York, was in control of the fight when the end came.

It was his 17th victory and his 12th knockout as a pro after he posted a 110-1 amateur record.

Breland got his championship bid before 2,000 fans at the Atlantic City Convention Center ballroom when Lloyd Honeyghan of Britain relinquished the title.

Bill Elliott to lead qualifying assault

By MIKE HARRIS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Track record-holder Bill Elliott is expected to lead an assault on the Daytona International Speedway qualifying mark of 206.114 mph today when the top two spots in the Feb. 15 Daytona 500 are determined.

Elliott, who set the record of in February of 1985, won the pole position for last year's Daytona 500 with a fast lap of 205.039, then set the all-time stock car qualifying record of 212.229 in May at Talladega, Ala.

Speeds in preseason testing at both Daytona and Talladega have far outstripped the official record at the former, but Elliott says a lot depends on weather conditions today at the 2.5-mile tri-oval.

"We've had some rain and cooler temperatures this week," said the driver from Dawsonville, Ga. "If it stays cool and overcast and we have a dry track, I could see some real high speeds. I figure the record is gone."

Daytona 500 Trials

But the overall stock car mark should be safe Saturday, despite the fact that Elliott did several laps over 214 in testing last week at Talladega.

"The two tracks are totally different," explained defending Winston Cup champion Dale Earnhardt, himself a longshot to win the pole here. "At Talladega, you've got a nice wide track, but Daytona is real tight by comparison. You've got to have the car set up right to get through the turns here or you're not going to get the speed."

"And, if you get in trouble here, you're in trouble in a hurry, especially at the speeds we're running now."

CALE YARBOROUGH found that out the hard way.

The three-time Winston Cup champion became the first driver to drive a lap above 200 mph on Daytona's high banks during time trials for the 1984 race. But on the second of his two qualifying laps, the car took off in a terrifying soaring flip into the wall.

Since then, 200 mph laps have become almost commonplace here, a compliment to the improved aerodynamics, tires and chassis men.

"The cars are so much better that now you're a lot more relaxed in the car," said Earnhardt. "Of course, relaxing to me in a race car is not gripping the wheel so tight your knuckles turn white."

Elliott, Earnhardt and Yarborough all are definite candidates for the front-row positions for the season-opening race, but so are more than a dozen others, including defending champion Geoff Bodine, Terry Labonte, Darrell Waltrip, Kyle Petty, Rusty Wallace, Neil Bonnett, Ricky Rudd and Buddy Baker.

EVEN SEVEN-time Daytona 500 winner Richard Petty, whose forte never has been qualifying, is considered a possible candidate for the pole.

And, whoever wins the top spot, it's going to be fast.

"From all indications, 210, 211 sound like good numbers to shoot at," said Yarborough Friday as rain delayed the opening of NASCAR stock car practice.

After the top two spots are filled, the rest of the 40-car field will be determined by a series of qualifying rounds Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, as well as twin 125-mile qualifying races on Thursday.

Players sitting in catbird seat

By Phil Collier
Copley News Service

It's no wonder major-league owners blame salary escalation on arbitration, rather than free agency.

In 1974, when arbitration began, the first big winner was Reggie Jackson, who was awarded $135,000 rather than the $100,000 offered by Oakland owner Charlie Finley.

Since arbitration's inception in 1974, 224 cases have been heard. The players figuratively have won every one, though a majority of decisions (123-101) have favored the owners.

Players losing in arbitration have received raises averaging 41 percent. Players winning their cases have received raises averaging 147 percent.

Baseball Report

Only once has a player emerged with a pay cut. Detroit pitcher Aurelio Lopez suffered that misfortune in 1983, when an arbitrator awarded him $250,000, or $35,000 less than he received the previous season, when he was 3-1 with the Tigers and 4-0 with their Class AAA Evansville affiliate.

Last year, 15 players won in arbitration, and 20 lost. Of those who won, 12 failed to approach their 1985 performances. Kansas City's Bret Saberhagen, awarded an $825,000 raise, went from a 20-6 record and 2.87 earned-run average to a 7-12 mark and 4.15 ERA. The Dodgers' Orel Hersher went from 19-3 and 2.03 to 14-14 and 3.85 after winning a $788,000 pay boost.

This year, eight players and six clubs submitted arbitration figures of $1 million or more. In previous years, players had reached that plateau 18 times.

PRESEASON HIGHS
Preseason interest is running high in Cleveland and Dallas-Fort Worth.

The Indians' winter caravan played to sellout luncheon crowds that cheered throughout the club's 1986 highlights film. In Cleveland, the annual Wahoo Club luncheon for boosters drew 900 fans, compared with 500 in recent years. Ticket sales are said to be double those of 12 months ago.

The Texas Rangers' season-ticket sales have reached a club-record 5,190.

THE QUOTABLES

Joe Garagiola, talking about catchers: "Show me a guy who can handle a pitching staff, and I'll show you a guy hitting .200."

Reds manager Pete Rose, on moving first-base coach Tommy Helms to the dugout as an adviser: "I'll probably have cancer of the feet by the time the season is over, because of Tommy spitting tobacco on my shoes."

Langer bags driver, shares 1st with Couples

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Bernhard Langer left his driver in the bag on the way to an 8-under-par 64 that lifted him into a tie with Fred Couples for the lead Friday after the second round of the $600,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament.

"I carried it around just to show off," joked the West German star who completed two trips over the Waialae Country Club course in 134, 10 strokes under par.

Langer said he used a 3-wood off most tees because "I'm hitting it pretty good and I just wanted to keep it in play."

The strategy helped produce the best round of the tournament, a bogey-free effort that included one string of four consecutive birdies.

He was tied with Couples, who shot a 65 while playing in the same threesome with Langer. Couples 2-putted for birdie on the 18th hole.

Nancy Lopez fires 66 to tie Johnson for 1st

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, who needs one more victory to qualify for the LPGA Hall of Fame, shot a 6-under-par 66 Friday to make up a six-stroke deficit and tie Chris Johnson for the lead after two rounds in the $200,000 Sarasota Classic.

The seven-birdie, one-bogey performance was the best of the two-week-old LPGA season for Lopez, the 1985 Player of the Year who missed most of the 1986 tour to have a baby.

She has 34 career victories in 10 seasons as a professional and needs No. 35 to qualify for automatic inclusion in the tour's Hall of Fame. Accomplishing that goal in Sarasota would be special because Lopez won her first title here in 1978.

"It would be nice," said Lopez, who finished the day with a 36-hole total of 5-under-par 139.

"When I won my first it was a very emotional time for me," she added.

Johnson, the first-round leader Thursday after shooting 67 on the 6,124-yard course at Bent Tree Country Club, retained a share of the lead with a 72 that featured two birdies and two bogeys.

Voss seizes bowling lead

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — Two-time champion Brian Voss of Tacoma, Wash., averaged better than 243 and won seven out of eight match games in the fifth round and took the lead in the $150,000 Quaker State Open Friday.

Voss, whose last victory came in the 1984 Houston Open, had games of 277, 222, 226, 225, 233, 204, 234 and 276 to take a 92-pin lead with a total of 8,064. His only loss was a 212-204 decision to early leader Eddy Kelley of Amarillo, Texas.

Ron Williams of Cahokia, Ill., who led after four rounds, dropped to second place with 7,972, well ahead of the rest of the field.

BASEBALL— The St. Louis Cardinals, citing medical inquiries made earlier this week, say they do not intend to pursue talks with free-agent catcher Lance Parrish. Dr. Stan London, team physician, determined "the risk was there," based on a back injury Parrish suffered last season, GM Dal Maxvill said.

The Cleveland Indians signed right-handed pitcher Dennis Lamp, one-time Midland Cub, to a major-league contract for the 1987 season, with a club option for 1988. "My record last year wasn't as good as I would have liked, but everything went right for me in 1985. When you pitch in a lot of games, it's very unusual to always have things go your way. I'm very happy to be coming to Cleveland and I think I can fill a role in long and middle relief." The 34-year-old appeared in 40 games for Toronto in 1986, 39 of them as a reliever. He had a 2-6 record for the season, with two saves and a 5.06 ERA.

In 10 years in the majors with the Chicago Cubs, Chicago White Sox and Toronto, Lamp compiled a record of 74-76 and an earned run average of 3.90.

BOXING— The WBA will sanction the Mike Tyson-James "Bonecrusher" Smith March 7 heavyweight fight as a title match if it is held under WBA rules.

— WBA rules be used.
— The fight be scheduled for 15 rounds. The WBC championship limit is 12 rounds.
— The winner fight the top available WBA contender within 90 days.

FOOTBALL— Dallas Cowboys kicker Rafael Septien will go to trial March 30 in Denton on charges that he sexually assaulted a 10-year-old girl, it was determined in a hearing Friday.

Bobby Ross, Georgia Tech's new coach, will be paid $90,000 in the first year of a four-year, self-renewing contract, according to a preliminary version of the pact. In addition, Tech will pay the premiums on a $125,000 life insurance policy for Ross and will provide him with disability insurance in the amount of his salary.

TRACK— Ireland's Eamonn Coghlan, the 34-year-old "Chairman of the Boards" who was so impressive in winning the Millrose Games' mile, will be a heavy favorite today's Dallas Morning News Indoor Games. Steve Ovett, suffering from the flu, will be missing. Ovett finished last in the Wanamaker Mile in the Millrose Games.

BASKETBALL— The Southland Conference placed McNeese State's on probation for two years, commissioner Dick Oliver.

HOCKEY— Fines totalling more than $18,000 were handed down by the NHL to the Philadelphia Flyers and the New Jersey Devils as a result of a postgame melee Jan. 24.

Red Wings SWC full of basketball snake pits knock off Minnesota

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN

DALLAS — Basketball life on the road in the Southwest Conference can be like Halloween eight times a year.

But gymnasiums in the SWC don't have particularly spooky or menacing names.

Daniel-Meyer Coliseum, G. Rollie White Coliseum, Barnhill Arena, Lubbock Municipal Coliseum, Autry Court, Hofheinz Pavilion, the Special Events Center, Moody Coliseum, and Heart O' Texas Coliseum hardly sound like basketball temples of doom.

These are not friendly YMCA gymnasiums. The fans can get nasty. The bands can get loud. The lights can be too dim and the floors can have bad boards. The rims can be floppy and the referees faint of heart in calling fouls on the home team.

Home cookin' they call it. It's the home court edge and the reason oddsmakers figure a homestanding team in the SWC is leading 6-0 before the tipoff.

Here are the Freeman File rankings of the rankst places to play in the SWC and how many points it means to the home team.

DANIEL-MEYER COLISEUM — The TCU Horned Frogs and a plus 10. The fans have become the throatiest in the SWC thanks to recent successes. I particularly like the yell in which fans on one side of the court shout "Killer," while those on the opposite side answer "Frogs."

BARNHILL ARENA — The Arkansas Razorbacks and plus nine points. You can get scared just walking into the building with all the fans in Hog hats staring at you. The noise level can shatter ear pans and destroy free throw shooting touches.

G. ROLLIE WHITE COLISEUM — The Texas Aggies and a plus eight points. If you can hit a free throw with the Cadet Corps yelling, the band playing and Reveille barking then you have freon in your bloodstream.

HEART O' TEXAS COLISEUM — The Baylor Bears and a plus seven. It's so dim it's like shooting under a street lamp. The crowds are small but vocal and in the second half you have to shoot free throws looking directly at a trombone player waving a funny hat.

LUBBOCK MUNICIPAL COLISEUM — The Texas Tech Red Raiders and six points. Bring your nasal spray and Chapstick because it's a little dusty and drafty. The Tech fans invent some great distractions, like holding up Playgirl posters. Coach Gerald Myers sometimes does a better intimidation imitation of Attila the Hun than ole Attila himself.

HOFHEINZ PAVILION — The Houston Cougars and a plus five points. The electricity isn't back to the levels of the Siamma Jamma days but the Cougars are no pussycats in this place. It's a cozy place to play. When the Cougars fill it with fans, they can be dunkin' dangerous.

MOODY COLISEUM — The SMU Mustangs and a plus four. The band counting each dribble before a free throw can be distracting. As can the leggy pom-pom girls on the other end of the court.

AUTRY COURT — The Rice Owls and a plus three points. Sounds like tennis should be played here because the silence can be so deafening. The Owls usually play very well on Autry and the opponents normally shoot like there is a piano wire stretched over the hoops.

SPECIAL EVENTS CENTER OR THE SUPER DRUM — The Texas Longhorns lead even. The national champion Lady Longhorns plus 20. When the men play, an average of 5,000 fans rattle around in this wonderful facility, perhaps the nicest in the conference.

Lawyer's new diet consists of books, third-graders

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Local lawyer Mary Helen Berlanga is gaining more than she's losing on her new diet.

And, to her credit, so are about 120 third-graders at Crockett Elementary School.

The menu is simple, but rich in the kinds of things most mothers wouldn't dream of putting in a lunchbox.

The meat-and-potatoes of the plan are children's stories, sandwiched between noon and 1 p.m. each day. During that prime diet time, Mrs. Berlanga reads to 8- and 9-year olds at Crockett.

"I'm always worried about eating the wrong thing, or eating too much, so I thought this would distract me during my lunch hour," Mrs. Berlanga said.

Although she hasn't lost inches, Mrs. Berlanga said, she's gained pounds of fulfillment from the reading sessions.

"It makes the person who's doing this for the youngster feel good. You're really helping them to not only have a positive attitude about school, but also in their work in school," she said. "If we can get them to become readers, they're going to be successful in school."

On one recent month, Mrs. Berlanga treated a group of students to Dr. Seuss' "The Grinch Who Stole Christmas" and E.B. White's "Charlotte's Webb."

The youngsters didn't speak as they munched on CCISD hamburgers and french fries, listening closely to their mentor.

Now and then Mrs. Berlanga would place her hand on a child's shoulder, or lean down to share the book's illustrations with another.

"It's like an after-dinner theater," she said. "You put a little bit of dramatics into it, and then you have them."

The lawyer, a mother of four, began her own school-adoption project after learning Crockett was not part of Corpus Christi Independent School District's Adopt-A-School program. Through that program, employees of local businesses volunteer to tutor students at a particular school.

"I knew they had been trying to get adopted, and I was thinking about it one evening. I read to my kids just as often as I can," she said. "I thought of all the kids whose parents don't find time to read to them, or they can't because they don't know the language."

After Crockett Principal Mary Alice Gonzales gave the OK in September, Mrs. Berlanga began her project. She started out using a microphone and read to all students in the cafeteria. The noise of changing lunch shifts, however, made that virtually impossible.

She then began working individually — behind the stage — with two third-grade classes.

LIFESCOPE

Theft At All Time High!
Your Lifescope Says,
"Turn Over A New Leaf!"

You must not steal nor lie nor defraud. You must not swear to a falsehood, thus bringing reproach upon the name of your God, for I am Jehovah.

If anyone is stealing he must stop it and begin using those hands of his for honest work so he can give to others in need.

Don't you know that those doing such things have no share in the Kingdom of God? Don't fool yourselves. Those who live immoral lives, who are idol worshipers, adulterers, or homosexuals - will have no share in His Kingdom. Neither will thieves or greedy people, drunkards, slanderers, or robbers. There was a time when some of you were just like that, but now your sins are washed away, and you are set apart for God, and He has accepted you because of what the Lord Jesus Christ and the Spirit of God have done for you.

Don't fool yourselves. Do you really think that you can steal, murder, commit adultery, lie and worship Baal and all of those new gods of yours, and then come here and stand before Me in My Temple and chant, "We are saved" - only to go right back to all these evil things again? Is My Temple but a den of robbers in your eyes?

Dear friends, don't imitate what is evil. Follow only what is good. Remember that those who do what is right prove that they are God's children, and those who continue in evil prove that they are far from God.

Run from anything that gives you the evil thoughts that young men often have, but stay close to anything that makes you want to do right. Have faith and love, and enjoy the companionship of those who love the Lord and have pure hearts.

Taken from Lev. 19: Jer. 7:1 Cor. 6: III Jn. II Tim. 2, The Living Bible

National association evolved from seance

RELIGION

EDITOR'S NOTE — After three sisters in upstate New York claimed they had made contact with the spirit world 140 years ago, seance circles began to spread. A reporter who had never tried to interview dead folks recently sat in on a seance at a spiritualist church in the suburbs of Albany, one of several hundred such groups around the country.

By JEFF DONN

LATHAM, N.Y. (AP) — You've never seen a church like this one. No sign on the lawn out front. No inspirational messages. No "Jesus saves." Not even "Have a Nice Day!"

Inside, no stained glass, no holy objects, no crosses.

Look again. There's a scroll on the wall with a "declaration of principles." Principle one: "We believe in Infinite Intelligence."

Principle five launches your mind into a new orbit: "We affirm that communication with the so-called dead is a fact, scientifically proven by the phenomena of Spiritualism."

The National Spiritualist Association of Churches also has a history like no other church. No savior or messiah here. The association evolved rapidly from its origins near Rochester a scant 140 years ago when three sisters claimed to produce spirit "rappings."

Katharine, Margaret, and Leah Fox of Hydesville so amazed neighbors in their central New York community that their reputation soon spread. Some heard in their mysterious thumpings a clear signal that communication with the dead was possible. Some suspected it was the devil's work. Others caught the pungent aroma of hoax.

Their growing fame carried them to Albany and finally New York, where they attracted the interest of some notable people, like Horace Greeley, founder and editor of the New York Tribune.

Greeley witnessed the "rappings" of the Fox sisters when they came to New York City in the spring of 1850. He eventually came to believe in spiritualism, hosted the Foxes on their trips to the city, wrote favorable stories about them, and even sponsored their lectures. He participated in the seances of the so-called "New York Circle" of early American spiritualists.

Margaret Fox eventually admitted that their "rappings" were fraudulent, produced by the cracking of joints in their toes and fingers. But many spiritualists today insist Margaret was paid to disavow the rappings.

In any case, seance circles did begin to form in an effort to conjure up those percussive spirits — whatever they were — and those small groups grew into a national organization incorporated at the 1893 World's Fair in Chicago. Today, the association claims 300 camps, societies, and churches around the country — with affiliated groups in 39 nations. The church in this Albany suburb is one such group, with the same prerogatives and tax-exempt status as any other recognized church in the country.

The rappings at Hydesville were the rappings that were heard around the world. Alice Hughes said recently Miss Hughes, at 99 one of the oldest spiritualist ministers in the nation, co-founded the Capital District Spiritualist Church in 1978 with Stephen Robinson.

The Capital District Spiritualist Church concerns itself largely with helping members develop their own psychic abilities, according to Robinson, who now serves as full-time, salaried minister. He said the goal is to find "the ultimate truth, made of intelligence, which is essentially creative."

The church holds Sunday services, much like other churches. There are "lectures" which sound like sermons, hymns, and, of course, a chance for everyone to drop a few bucks into a basket.

But the similarity ends there. People begin to come forward with messages for one another. They are messages from the spirit world — warnings, exhortations and encouragement.

The seances held regularly in the basement of the church focus even more exclusively on honing the sixth sense and talking with the hereafter. At one recent seance, about two dozen people sat in the traditional circle in total darkness while "The Planets," by Gustav Holst, a turn-of-the-century English astrologer and composer, provided otherworldly muzak. Participants were told to imagine a beach. Then they were instructed to let their minds drift away from that beach and into the clouds. Soon, they were mentally motoring among the stars.

No spirits materialized that evening — at least none visible to one first-time visitor. But circle members, many of whom were also attending their first seance, did manage to sense some apparently accurate facts about one another based only on a first name.

Psychical development takes on more rigor at the church's Psychic Studies Institute. One of the church's major sources of income, along with fund-raisers and voluntary member pledges, the institute offers instruction in such abstruse topics as psychometry and telepathy exercises; clairvoyance, clairaudience and trance, and the phases of physical and mental mediumship.

The classes brought Hillary Kramer of Clifton Park into the church four years ago. She now teaches at the institute and sports a business card as a "registered medium and psychic."

"I had never thought of myself as a psychic," she said. But, she added, "I knew I was intuitive."

Like many members of the church, Mrs. Kramer was raised in a traditional religious setting. However, she felt a desire for something beyond her Jewish upbringing.

Of spiritualism, she says, "The difference I would see between this and most religions is there is no death, that you live on and can communicate with the dead. We believe that there's another world, a spirit world that's on another vibration, but that's here — a higher vibration, let's say."

She also likes the emphasis on individual moral responsibility and freedom from doctrine. "There's no such thing as committed sin, so to speak," she said. "The only sin would be how you view it."

Detractors have often seen spiritualism as diabolically inspired. But Robinson said the church actually accepts no devil.

The result is a church with a distinctly ecumenical, freewheeling spirit.

"There's a positive feeling that sometimes you don't find in other places of worship," Mrs. Kramer says.

Churches turn to self-analysis, study members

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — As if gazing in a mirror, churches regularly examine the state of their constituencies these days, probing their attitudes, behavior and motivations.

What do members think and do about various matters?

Such sociological research has become a common pattern among most major religious bodies. Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish, with some making occasional studies, others doing so on a continuing basis. They turn up sometimes odd and surprising snippets about congregational life.

For instance, a new study by the Lutheran Church in America finds that "baby boomers" are more interested in a local church's friendliness than in its particular doctrine or practices of piety.

Research in 111 congregations with above-average participation by that generation — Americans born between 1945 and 1965 — shows they look for a "sense of being wanted" in picking a church.

Issues of "denominational pedigree, rightness of doctrine and constancy in the practice of piety" have lost drawing power, says the study. However, it adds, baby boomers are willing leaders in church programs.

A long-range project by the Presbyterian Church (USA), now in the second year of a three-year task, involves periodic surveys of approximately 3,700 adult members chosen on a scientifically representative basis.

Among the findings, with reports issued periodically, are these:

Three-fourths of Presbyterians consume alcoholic beverages at least occasionally. A third say that such drinking has caused past or present family problems, and 15 percent of clergy and laity say they at some point have been concerned about their own drinking patterns.

A fourth are abstainers. Thirty-four percent of members say they are "very happy" and 57 percent "pretty happy," with only 7 percent "not too happy," compared to 13 percent unhappy in a general population sample.

A smaller percentage of Presbyterians, 14 percent, smoke cigarettes than the general public, 28 percent. Three-fourths of members say they do not personally notice when God is referred to as male in worship, and 77 percent say the church should not avoid male references to God to soothe feelings of those who object.

An even greater majority, 88 percent, say language of the Bible should not be modified to eliminate its frequent male references to God.

Nearly all the Presbyterians look favorably on modern science and technology. Asked whether it has "changed life for the better or for the worse," 65 percent said for the better, but 33 percent of members and 53 percent of pastors say "both."

Among United Methodists, a national survey of 2,400 of them finds that about 85 percent approve abortion in case of rape, incest or danger to the mother's life, but 85 percent oppose its use for birth control.

Only about a third approve it for women who can't afford children. Three-fourths approve public school sex education, but a third say parents should be informed if contraceptives are provided sons or daughters.

Ninety percent support high school and college programs on the dangers of drug abuse and casual sex, and strongly oppose legalization of marijuana.

About half support mandatory screening for AIDS, which fatally cripples the body's immune system, in schools and places of employment.

Among 3,000 members of the United Church of Christ, a recent survey found that 83 percent think sexuality and sexual ethics should be part of the church's educational program.

Seventy-two percent think the church should "offer guidelines" to individuals in matters of sex, but only 16 percent say the church should lay down hard-and-fast rules.

In a recent issue of Review of Religious Research, sociologist Jean Hoge of the Catholic University of America in Washington says Roman Catholics and Protestants are becoming more alike, partly as a result of intermarriages.

He reports that 40 to 45 percent of Catholic marriages today are with those of other faiths. Jewish research also finds that about 40 percent of Jewish marriages are with Christians.

Conservative movement to ordain women cantors

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's leading seminary for Judaism's Conservative branch says it will certify women as cantors to lead services among the movement's 1 million congregants.

The Jewish Theological Seminary's announcement Thursday came two years after it ordained its first woman rabbi.

Although the seminary has issued bachelor's degrees in sacred music to women, it has only issued cantorial certificates to men.

Unlike rabbis, who are viewed as teachers, cantors represent congregations in prayer.

The main objection to women as cantors had been that women are not obligated to perform all of the Bible's 613 commandments, said Ismar Schorsch, the seminary's chancellor.

But Schorsch said one rabbinic opinion, issued in connection with the ordination of women rabbis, found that women could take on the obligation to obey all of the commandments.

Schorsch said he expected some of the more traditional congregations would be unhappy with his decision.

The seminary's cantorial program is a five-year program. The first women to receive the cantorial certificates will be Maria Barugel, 31, of Mamaroneck, and Erica Lippitz, 30, of Evanston, Ill., both of whom graduate in May.

"All of us feel called to this profession," said Ms. Lippitz, "and in my eyes, God does not look at gender. God has given me the gift of voice and I am returning this to the community."

Judaism's Reform movement has invested 44 women as cantors since 1975.

Orthodox Judaism, the most traditional branch, does not allow women to be rabbis or cantors.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Human sexuality workshop offered at St. Mark's UMC

Kelley Riley, a doctoral student in family therapy at Texas Tech University, is leading a workshop at St. Mark's United Methodist Church this weekend.

The workshop, on the theme of "Christian Understanding of Human Sexuality," is for junior high school age students and their parents.

"Our goal is to help persons grow in understanding and acceptance that they are male and female, which is a positive aspect of human existence, and to affirm their own sexuality as a gift of God and to help them learn to make responsible, moral decisions with their life investment," says the church's minister, the Rev. Jack Riley.

There are 16 youths and their parents involved in the study.

The United Methodist Church has been a leader in communication skills in human sexuality for many years, the church's minister says.

Ms. Riley is being supervised by Riley, who is a certified leader.

Sister joins St. Ann's Parish

Sister Dolores Thimmesch, A.S.C., has joined the St. Ann's Catholic Parish staff as the new director of the Parish School of Religion.

She will direct the religious education program from the pre-school level through junior high, as well as work with adult religious education.

Sister Dolores, daughter of Louise Thimmesch and the late John Thimmesch Jr., became a professional member of the Sisters Adorers of the Blood of Christ, Wichita, Kan., in 1943. She received her bachelor of science degree from Sacred Heart College, now Kansas Newman, in Wichita, her master's degree in administration from St. Mary's College, Kansas, and her master's in religious studies from St. Louis University.

Dave and Barb Anderson will present "More Than a Concert," sacred and contemporary music at the 6:30 p.m. Valentine Banquet/Concert, Holiday Inn Convention Center, Feb. 14.

The Andersons have recorded eight albums, the two most recent being "Life High The Cross" and "Dave & Barb Sing Favorites."

During 1984, among many other engagements, the two sang for the Billy Graham Crusade, Anchorage, Alaska. They also led from between 8,000 and 15,000 people in worship and praise during the Great Commission Convocation, St. Louis, Mo., in October of 1984.

For more information or to make banquet/concert reservations call 694-1789 or 683-5338.

Gospel groups perform

The gospel singing groups Crystal River of Lubbock and Shekinah Glory of Midland will perform 7:30 p.m. Saturday at La Gloria de Dios Church, 611 S. Terrell St.

Both groups will minister biligualy. The two groups performed as one 12 years ago under the name of The Young Disciples.

Both groups will sing at the same church, 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

The public is invited to attend.

Church dedicates facilities

La Gloria de Dios Church will dedicate its new facilities, 611 S. Terrell St., at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The congregation has moved to the former Bethel Assembly of God building. More than $8,000 was spent and all members and friends have donated labor in order to renovate the building to its present condition.

Dr. H.T. Goodwin will be the speaker for the service. The choir from Foursquare Gospel Church will sing along with Shekinah Glory Gospel Group.

A reception in the fellowship hall of the church will follow the dedication service. The church's pastor, the Rev. Hector R. Gonzalez, invites the public to attend.

Midlander called to Korea

Robb Rigtrup, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Newell K. Rigtrup, has been called to serve as a missionary for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Taejeon, Korea.

A former Eagle Scout, the 19-year-old is an honors graduate of Lee High School. He attended Brigham Young University for a year and majored in engineering. He plans to continue his education when he returns from

Korea

Rigtrup enters the Mission Training Center in Provo, Utah, Feb. 25 where he will learn the Korean language. He will leave for Korea April 25, and will serve as a missionary for two years. Rigtrup has been saving for his mission for the past year and will pay for about half of the cost. His parents will pay the rest.

Korea is about 20 percent Christian, the highest rate of Christianity of any of the Asian countries.

"It will be interesting to live in a different culture and learn a different language," Rigtrup says. "I have a testimony that Korea is where the Lord wants me for the next two years. It will be a challenge to teach to Koreans about Jesus Christ when many do not have a Christian background."

Volunteer shares works

Margaret Viers, who has spent the last six months working with refugees in El Salvador, will present an informal talk and slide show presentation on her experiences, 7:30 p.m. Monday at El Calvario Methodist Church, 1209 Garden Lane.

Ms. Viers, a member of the Little Rock, Arkansas, Friends Meeting, has previously lived in Costa Rica, where she attended high school. She now holds a master's degree in anthropology and is working in a volunteer capacity with Christian Volunteer Ministries.

Midland Friends Meeting, along with others, sponsors her work in El Salvador. For more information call 1-367-9253 or 694-4751.

Prince Philip plans to visit U.S.

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip, the husband of Queen Elizabeth II, will visit the United States in April on behalf of the World Wildlife Fund and to dedicate a new telescope in Hawaii, Buckingham Palace announced Friday.

Philip, president of World Wildlife International, will make stops in St. Louis, San Francisco and Honolulu while in the United States from April 23 to 29, the palace said.

In Hawaii, he will open the James Clerk Maxwell telescope, a joint project of Britain and the Netherlands.

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Part of the New Mexico State Penitentiary will be turned into a movie set for a new version of "And God Created Woman" by Roger Vadim, the director who made the original 30 years ago.

Filming should begin next month at the prison building south of Santa Fe and should continue for several weeks, Lenny Vullo, the film's production manager, said Wednesday.

Vadim, perhaps best known as the ex-husband of Brigitte Bardot and Jane Fonda, is directing and co-producing the picture, which Vullo said will likely be released later this year.

Rebecca DeMornay will play an inmate at a women's prison in the film's early scenes, Vullo said. Her role was originally played by Ms. Bardot.

Vadim's original film was in French, while the remake will be in English, said a spokeswoman for California-based Vestron Pictures, the show's producer.

Paul Lazarus, director of the state Film Commission, said the film is expected to cost about $4 million. "It's going to have a different plot," he said. "It's not technically a remake."

The prison building that will be used for filming is usually used by the corrections department's training academy.

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Actor and political activist Ed Asner says the upcoming ABC-TV miniseries "Amerika" will "make the Russians even greater enemies."

Asner, 57, was the main attraction at Thursday's opening news conference for the Monterey Film Festival.

The former president of the Screen Actors Guild, who was TV's "Lou Grant," praised the new Vietnam War film "Platoon" as a great anti-war war movie that rebuffs "Rambo" films.

The film "teaches our young what war, I imagine, must really be like," he said. "Here we have a plus."

But "Amerika," a dramatization of American life after a Soviet takeover, "will make the Russians even greater enemies and it will provide nothing but further problems to finding peace in the world," Asner said.

HUNTINGDON, England (AP) — Britain's first artificial heart patient left the hospital Friday, praising the life-saving machine with a "threshing" sound that sustained him until a human donor heart was found.

Raymond Cooke, a 40-year-old father of five, said he was looking forward to drinking a pint of beer and to campaigning for the British Cardiac Patients Association.

"I want to let people know how successful my heart transplant has been so that more people become donors," Cooke said as he left Papworth Hospital.

Cooke received a Jarvik-7 on Nov. 2 after surgeons decided his condition was deteriorating so swiftly that he would not live until a donor organ was found. Two days later, a second operation gave him a human heart.

Cook said the Jarvik-7 had "a threshing sound, but once I had been in its presence for a while it became the sound of a normal, steady beat. It sounds comforting, knowing that it had saved my life."

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australian movie star Bryan Brown, panned in last year's $27-million flop "Taipan," hopes to win over the critics with the movie, "The Good Wife," to be released in the United States later this month.

The movie, co-starring his wife, English actress Rachel Ward, is set in the Australian bush, portraying the obsession of a bored country housewife for the town lothario.

Brown, in keeping with the strong, silent but sensitive character he developed in "Breaker Morant" and "The Thorn Birds," plays her bewildered but caring husband.

He shrugged off the failure of "Taipan" with the critics, saying, "They were in the mood to cane me." His other movie for 1986, "FX," had done well, he said.

Brown and Ms. Ward wanted to promote "The Good Wife" in the United States, but the couple are expecting a child later this month, Brown said.

"Rachel can't go, so I'm not going either," he said. "I want to be here when the baby is born."

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A television station is pulling Ruth Westheimer's sex-advice show "Ask Dr. Ruth" off the air because viewers complained it was offensive.

"We're going to take it off," KRDO General Manager Neil Klocksiem said Thursday. "I do not feel it's right for this time period." The show, which had been on the ABC affiliate at 9 a.m. daily since last month, might find a place in KRDO's late-night schedule, he added.

"I'm not going to jump every time I have a lot of criticism on programming," said Klocksiem. "But I take into consideration everyone's input ... and also the content of the show, which I feel is ill-placed for this time period."

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Country singer Tammy Wynette was in excellent condition after abdominal surgery and will resume performing late this month, a Mayo Clinic spokesman said Friday.

Ms. Wynette, 44, who has been at St. Marys Hospital since Jan. 9, underwent surgery Monday, the hospital said.

"We anticipate she should be hospitalized another two weeks," said Meg Black, Mayo Clinic communications specialist.

The clinic has refused to disclose the nature of Ms. Wynette's illness, and Ms. Black refused to comment beyond the statement. Ms. Wynette's husband-manager, George Richey, has been with her but has not responded to inquiries about her condition.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Sonny Bono, who became a pop music star in the 1960s with his former wife, Cher, said Friday he will run for mayor of Palm Springs next year.

"I like it here. I'm a businessman," said Bono, who runs a restaurant and tennis complex called Bono's.

"But there's an attitude problem. We need to grow," he said Friday. "My goal is to make this the desert French Riviera — the playground for Los Angeles and California. This is one of the great glamour capitals in the world."

Bono, who has lived in Palm Springs for 13 years, is seeking the non-partisan office being vacated by Frank Bogart, who has decided not to run again. The election will be held in April 1988.

Bono said he knew of no other candidates, and added he was confident he can get elected.

Quadriplegic dies after judge grants him right to fast

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Quadriplegic Hector Rodas, who didn't want to live because he could not speak, swallow or move, died Friday in the 18th day of a fast he began after a judge granted him the right to die.

Rodas, 34, almost completely paralyzed from drug abuse, died at Hilltop Rehabilitation Hospital early Friday morning from starvation, his doctor and a spokesman said.

"He died bravely and with dignity and without pain," said Roy Carson, Rodas' friend who had power of attorney. "He said to tell you after he died that his last message was, 'Please, don't do drugs.'"

Rodas had not taken any food or only a little water since a judge ruled Jan. 22 that he had the right to remove the stomach tube that provided him with nourishment.

He suffered damage to his brainstem last Feb. 10 after taking a mixture of cocaine and amphetamines. But doctors said Rodas' paralysis did not result from one drug-taking episode, but rather from long-term abuse.

A woman who admitted she had supplied drugs to Rodas — but not the drugs that induced his injury — was at Rodas' bedside with his wife and sister when he died, according to Carson.

Robert Graves, Rodas' physician, said he slipped into a coma at midnight and died of "dehydration, with the final event being respiratory arrest."

Rodas was "in a hopeless situation, trapped in a meaningless existence," said Graves.

NATION

"I do not want to suffer any more," Rodas repeatedly told family, friends and court officials throughout his ordeal.

Two days before he died, Rodas told one of his lawyers goodbye: "Thanks, I am now free."

Rodas had requested his body be donated to science, but Graves said Friday that pathologists determined "this sort of autopsy would not lend a great deal" to research.

Rodas, an auto mechanic and the father of an 8-year-old boy and a 6-year-old girl, was an illegal immigrant from Guatemala City who came to Los Angeles in 1972 and moved to Grand Junction in 1978.

He fought off years of deportation proceedings and also served a probation term for stealing tools. He had been arrested for shoplifting and drunken driving.

Rushed to St. Mary's Hospital last Feb. 10 after his wife found him collapsed in their home, Rodas later said the last drugs he injected into his system were not what he thought they were.

On March 5, Rodas was transferred to Hilltop, and on June 17, using a letter board operated by a speech therapist, Rodas spelled out, "My will they feed, call civil rights, don't feed. I don't want food. Against."

Hilltop officials refused to end his feeding. On July 8, Rodas told them, "I am capable of making my own decisions, please help me."

The hospital continued to feed him, but put him in touch with the American Civil Liberties Union, which filed a lawsuit on his behalf seeking to establish Rodas' right to die.

On Jan. 22, District Judge Charles Buss ruled that Rodas was competent and had the constitutional right to refuse medical treatment.

Hilltop officials decided against appealing the decision, since it cleared them of civil and criminal liability in Rodas' death and "provided us with the direction we needed," attorney J.D. Snodgrass said.

The decision did not end the legal action. A civil lawsuit filed by the ACLU on Rodas' behalf three days ago seeks damages from Hilltop for feeding him against his will.

On Wednesday night, U.S. District Judge Sherman Finesilver of Denver dispatched a neurologist to determine the competency of Rodas to authorize the ACLU to file the lawsuit.

Lawmakers say U.S.-Iran affair hearings to be delayed until April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of congressional committees investigating the Iran-Contra affair, acknowledging the complexity of the case and the absence of any previous testimony from crucial witnesses, said Friday it will be sometime in April before public hearings can get under way.

The Democratic chairmen of the House and Senate panels and the GOP vice chairman of the Senate committee, during a private one-hour luncheon meeting, also renewed a pledge of cooperation and discussed procedural issues in probing the diversion of Iranian arms sales profits to Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

"In every respect we will try to coordinate our activities and to share documents and information," Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House committee, told reporters after the meeting.

"We want very much to coordinate the investigation. We don't wish to present to the public a confused state of affairs," added Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, who heads the Senate committee.

During the luncheon, which also included Sen. Warren B. Rudman, R-N.H., vice chairman of the Senate committee, and top aides from each panel, the legislators also agreed to jointly interrogate certain witnesses and respond jointly to President Reagan's offer to make certain personal notes available to investigators.

Rep. Richard Cheney, R-Wyo., the vice chairman of the House committee, was out of town.

In Decorah, Iowa Friday, Attorney General Edwin Meese III, during an appearance on the campus of Luther College, said he never advised Reagan that oral consent was sufficient in authorizing a secret arms deal with Iran.

Meese quarreled with a Senate Intelligence Committee report released Jan. 29, which indicated he gave the advice to Reagan administration officials.

"I did not give such advice to the president," Meese told reporters. "And I believe that the Senate Committee misunderstood something that Mr. (former national security council adviser Robert) McFarlane had said. We are trying to find out exactly what was testified to."

As for when public hearings will begin, Hamilton said, "It depends on how much cooperation we have in receiving information that we request. But we would like very much to begin the hearings during the month of April."

Inouye, meanwhile, acknowledged that earlier estimates that the hearings might begin in early March were too optimistic.

"We have been impressed that the work before us is of a greater magnitude than we first anticipated," Inouye said. "If we are to expedite the public segment of the investigation, it would be well to prepare ourselves adequately," the senator said.

Inouye added that the Senate committee is still aiming to complete its report by August or September. The House report is due by October.

The legislators also reiterated that they plan to keep in contact with Lawrence Walsh, the independent counsel appointed by a federal judicial panel to probe possible criminal violations.

However, no decisions have been reached yet on granting immunity from prosecution for key witnesses in the case.

Former national security adviser John M. Poindexter resigned, and Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, a staff deputy on the National Security Council, resigned, in late November as Attorney General Edwin Meese III was disclosing that profits from the clandestine sales of U.S. arms to Iran were diverted to the Nicaraguan rebels.

Two men killed, seven injured when two freight trains collide

CONCORD, N.Y. (AP) — A 50-car southbound freight train, pulled at 30 mph by three locomotives, collided head-on Friday with a northbound freight, killing two men and injuring seven others, authorities said.

The crash 25 miles south of Buffalo ripped the first engine of the southbound CSX Transportation Inc. train in half horizontally, splitting off a 75-foot section and spewing metal shards over a wide area of snow-covered woods.

A diesel motor the size of a compact car was shredded at impact. Batteries from inside the broken locomotive were hurled 40 feet up an embankment from the 8:57 a.m. accident.

"When I got down there, one guy was pinned in the train and one guy was laid up on the cab and one was over the rail," said East Concord Fire Chief Ronald Miller. "We just kept calling for more ambulances. After that it was just chaos."

The two dead and the two most seriously injured, who were hospitalized, were in the cab of the northbound train, said Erie County Sheriff's Chief Gerald Mack.

Neither train was carrying toxic materials, railroad officials said.

Five men were aboard the larger southbound train, and four crewmen were on the 21-car northbound train, said Mack.

Killed were Sidney T. Smith, 45, of Salamanca, the engineer of the southbound train, and David Varner, 52, of Punxsutawney, Pa., the brakeman.

The southbound train was headed from Buffalo to Chicago, while the northbound train was headed from DuBois, Pa., to Buffalo, said CSX Superintendent David R. Daniels.

Mack said it was not known why the two trains were on the same track.

Investigators from the Federal Railroad Administration were sent to the scene, said spokesman Thomas Simpson.

One worker, Willis Wier, 55, of Brockton, Pa., was in serious condition at the Erie County Medical Center in Buffalo with a back injury, said hospital spokeswoman Marian Marianowski.

Another worker, John Courman, 45, of West Seneca, was taken to Buffalo's Mercy Hospital in stable condition with a back injury.

Police disarm pipe bomb

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Police disarmed a pipe bomb found Friday in a briefcase delivered to the Oregon State University computer center, authorities said.

After the briefcase was delivered Friday morning, an anonymous caller told campus police it contained a bomb, university spokesman Wally Johnson said.

A security officer placed the briefcase in a grassy area near the university library and the nearby buildings were evacuated, Johnson said.

A state police bomb squad from Salem X-rayed the briefcase and confirmed that it apparently contained an explosive, he added.

The squad blew open the briefcase, but the bomb did not explode. Troopers then used another method to blow off an end of the pipe. The explosive powder inside was removed, and the bomb was rendered harmless, said Dave Stauch, another university spokesman.

1787 Constitution Daybook

Associated Press

Wednesday, Feb. 7, 1787
PHILADELPHIA TODAY

The College of Physicians had as their Constitution: "To advance the science of medicine and thereby lessen human misery, by investigating the diseases and remedies which are peculiar to our country..." There were presently 12 senior fellows and 11 junior fellows as members of the College. Junior fellows were under 24 years of age.

Jacob Hiltzheimer reported that "Mr. Hunt's negro Tom came here with a wagon, to take a load out of his master's shallop (boat), which cannot get up on account of the ice in the Delaware (River)."

CONFEDERATION TODAY

Congress assembled in New York. Only six states were represented so it adjourned.

In a letter to John Jay, secretary of foreign affairs, the Marquis de Lafayette wrote:

"I hope the Convention at Philadelphia will answer the essential and urgent purposes of the Confederation, commerce, and the establishment of a uniform and republican militia. Each state has within itself the means fully sufficient to set right the opinions of mistaken citizens, and those means seem to me principally founded on the good sense, knowledge and patriotic liberality of the people. Every wrong measure of theirs would hurt, not only the consequence of the United States, but also the cause of liberty in all parts of the world."

Today, Thomas Jefferson informed Gov. Randolph of Virginia of the proceedings on the unveiling of a bust of the Marquis de Lafayette in Paris.

DELEGATES TODAY

George Washington noted it was 36 degrees in the morning, dropped to 30 at noon and rose to 32 at night. "At sun-rise it began to snow and continued to do so, more or less all day."

LOOKING BACK

Amusements
Quaker Philadelphia was not without its amusements. One of Philadelphia's favorite sports was "driving." Philadelphians, some said, never walked, but chose to ride in their carriages. Drives along the Schuylkill River were always fun, and on Sundays, Germantown streets came alive with carriages of families or friends touring the countryside, or just taking in the day. During winter, coaches were replaced with sleighs. Sleighting parties were a favorite on the weekends, driving out of the city, over the snow, to a country tavern for dinner and dancing.

Hunting was common, but by far the most popular outdoor sport was fishing. It was popular along the Schuylkill, Lehigh and Delaware rivers. There were several fishing clubs along the Schuylkill, usually engaged in friendly rivalry. The oldest fishing club was the State in Schuylkill, formed in 1732. Some of Philadelphia's most prominent citizens were members. Thomas Wharton, president of the Supreme Executive Council in 1776, Thomas Mifflin, the Bingham, Joseph Galloway (former member), and a host of colonial and post-war politicians and businessmen.

On June 8, 1787, a special meeting of the State in Schuylkill was held at Robert Irwin's White Horse Inn, at 7th and Market streets for the planning of an exclusive dinner held on the 14th, in honor of Gen. George Washington, in town for the Constitutional Convention. Twenty other Army, Navy and government officers were invited. The dinner was held at The Castle, their lodge, in Fairmount.

Most men's clubs, like the State in Schuylkill, served as social centers as well as for sporting purposes. The Schuylkill fishing clubs, the Gloucester Hunt Club, and others, were examples. Other clubs were organized specifically for social reasons: St. George's Society, the Tammany Society, and the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. There were immigrant aid clubs, usually organized by specific ethnic groups. There were business societies, and others, like fire companies, that provided the basis for friendly social activity.
