MEXICAN ACE PLUNGES TO DEATH

Negro Threatens Suit To Force Participation In Primaries

Mr. Weeks Works—Roads to Wichita—Take 'Em Off—Any Program—

Here's cheerful news: Charles Weeks, California colonization expert, returns to this city and begins conferences with land owners as the first step in his program of bringing settlers here. It is to be hoped Mr. Weeks will have little difficulty in securing the 5,000 acres set as the goal for the project. For a complete program, the Californian must have considerable land to handle, and certainly Wichita Falls and Wichita county need the new producers who would make homes on small tracts carved from 5,000 or more acres.

A Breckenridge story tells of new roads which will make hard surface highways available through Northwest Texas to Wichita Falls through Eastland, Shackleford, Taylor, Jones, Palo Pinto and Stephens counties. All Northwest Texas is slowly and surely being linked by good roads, and most of these highways lead to Wichita county.

This county will need additional roads, not of the designated highway type, if Mr. Weeks is successful in his project here. Hundreds of farmers and poultry raisers, occupying tracts in the Wichita valley, would demand good lateral roads tapping the highways to Wichita Falls. We can afford to build and to pay for these roads as new settlers come here to add to the wealth of the county.

Coach Dana X. Bible will be one of the honor guests at a party of A. & M. ex-students here next week. Perhaps a good Aggie yell or two might convince the gridiron wizard Wichita Falls deserves a glance at his farmer eleven within the next year or two. With a proper place for such games, no other city in Texas should be able to offer such good attendance, or such virgin territory to major football clashes.

Briscoe county farmers now have a market for their grain for the first time in 30 years, due to the extension of rail facilities to that section by the Fort Worth & Denver. It is estimated farmers will be saved 12 cents a bushel by eliminating the long haul to reach transportation. Railroad extensions and good roads are adding rich new sections to the Wichita Falls trade territory. The wise business man will take off his smoked glasses.

First work of the Wichita Falls zoning commission is planned at a meeting here Friday. The job of zoning and districting a city is a hard one, always certain to meet opposition from some quarter. But the sooner Wichita Falls enters on its program, the better for the city. Lack of restriction and planning has already cost property owners thousands of dollars, and will cost more thousands. Any program is better than none.

DAMAGE SUIT MENTIONED IN BLACK'S NOTE

Charles I. Francis Gets Warning From El Paso Negro

NOTE IS ANSWERED

Francis Suggests G. O. P. As Proper Party For Complainant

Threat to file a personal suit for damages against Charles I. Francis, vice chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and to seek federal intervention to compel the Democratic party of Texas to allow negroes to participate in the primary is contained in a letter to Mr. Francis from L. A. Nixon, El Paso negro, it was revealed here Friday.

Mr. Francis made public Nixon's letter, simultaneously with his reply which advised the negro that "the Republican party of this state, aided by a few disgruntled Democrats, will doubtless be glad to have your cooperation and assistance in selecting their state and national candidates, as was true in the case of their selection of candidates for president and vice president."

In demanding the right for negroes to participate in the Democratic primary, Nixon charged that the state executive committee violated the constitution in providing for a "white man's party." The letter also declared "you of course understand that we dislike to do anything of this sort, and feel that your regulation is arbitrary and in violation of the law."

Executive Committee Ruling

The Democratic executive committee action in restricting the Democratic primaries to white persons is in accordance with a supreme court decision and under a new act of the Texas legislature, Mr. Francis told The Record News Friday night. The supreme court held unconstitutional the old Texas law applicable to such restrictions, but indicated that political parties have the right to name the qualifications of their members, Mr. Francis said. Following this decision, the Texas legislature passed a law conferring on the executive committees of all parties the right to determine the qualifications of their members. The Democratic executive committee subsequently restricted the state primaries to white persons.

Nixon's letter to Mr. Francis follows:

El Paso, Texas, July 7, 1928.
Mr. Charles I. Francis,
Democratic committeeman,
Wichita Falls, Texas.
Dear sir:

I notice that you and your associate members of the Democratic

Democracy's Strategists Confer

The Democratic fight against Herbert Hoover and the Republican administration was being planned as the above picture was snapped. It shows the meeting of Gov. Al Smith and Senator James A. Reed in New York, where a meeting was held of the Democratic national committee. Reed, who had been rejected by his party as a presidential nominee, will do the heavy bombarding of the Hoover camp.

SMITH ENDS CONFERENCES

Governor Returns to Home In Albany, N. Y.

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Bringing to a close a series of conferences with members of the Democratic national committee which has partially perfected a campaign organization, Governor Smith returned late today to Albany. His plans for the immediate future are indefinite.

The Democratic presidential nominee indicated that for the present he would remain in Albany where it is planned to notify him officially of his nomination. A date for that ceremony has not been fixed.

With John J. Raskob, new chairman of the national committee, out of the city for the week-end, Governor Smith spent most of the day before his train departure conferring informally with others who will assist in direction of his campaign. It is probable that Raskob and other leaders will confer with him in Albany next week, not only regarding his notification but as to the type of campaign he will conduct.

At a press conference an effort was made by a representative of El Mundo, a Havana newspaper, to ascertain whether the Democratic platform plank on Latin-American affairs meant that the party and its presidential nominee favored nullification of the Platt amendment.

"I don't know what the Platt amendment is," Smith declared, adding that he would not discuss questions of so much importance without giving them careful study.

Kin of Executed Group Lay Claim To Pine Coffins

EDDYVILLE, Ky., July 13. (US)—All seven of the pine coffins containing the remains of the seven convicted murderers who went to their deaths in the electric chair at the state penitentiary here early today, had been claimed by relatives this afternoon.

Brief funeral services were held in the prison chapel for the four white men, Milford Lawson, Orlando Seymour, Hascue Dockery, and Charles Mitra. Services for the three negroes were to be held in the cities in which they were convicted.

After relatives had paid respects to their respective dead, seven short funeral processions passed out through the prison gates, two of which were bound for remote burial grounds back in the mountain passes.

At one minute after twelve this morning the first of the doomed men passed down the steel and stone corridor of the death house to the "chair" room. He was Milton Lawson, convicted of shooting a neighbor in the hill country. Three minutes after being strapped to the chair he was dead.

Accused Makes Confession

Orlando Seymour, for whom a sanity hearing was conducted in the prison chapel last night, was second. As he entered the room of death he turned to guards and confessed to the crime for which he was convicted, that of murdering a Louisville business man.

Hascue Dockery, who had agreed to be the first to die, broke down when guards prepared him for the "last walk" and asked for a priest. He was made a member of the church before his prison number was removed and was happy that the church had taken him in. He walked unflinchingly to the chair. Charles Mitra, convicted of shooting a grocer in Louisville, died without making a confession. Before he was taken from his cell he turned and addressed the warden.

Negroes Cheerful

The three negroes were all cheerful while they waited their turn. They knew when the extreme penalty had been paid by the others. The lights in their cells would flicker when the switch in the chair room was thrown. This signal of death they ignored by constantly chanting a song in an undertone.

GASOLINE TAX CUT ONE CENT BY DECISION

Question of Validity Of Motor Fuel Levy Settled

SAVES MILLIONS

Legislative Act Goes Into Effect September 1 Under Ruling

AUSTIN, July 13. (AP)—Assistant Attorney General D. A. Simmons ruled today that the state gasoline tax would revert to two cents per gallon on September 1. It now is three cents. The ruling will save several million dollars yearly to automobile owners.

There was some question as to whether the tax would drop to two cents, because it was not mentioned in the title of the act passed by the last legislature. The constitution provides that such an act must be referred to in the title as well as the body, but Attorney General Simmons held that it merely was an oversight and the constitution must be construed liberally.

Comptroller S. H. Terrill said that a revision to two cents a gallon would deplete the school fund $1,500,000 a year and the highway fund $4,500,000, as compared to present revenues from the three cents tax.

One-fourth of the tax goes to the schools and the remainder to the highway department.

Validity Questioned

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, July 13.—The attorney general's department Friday afternoon upheld the validity of the act of the fortieth legislature reducing the gasoline tax from three to two cents on the gallon, effective September 1.

The opinion was to Comptroller S. H. Terrell, who questioned the validity of the act because the caption did not specify the amount of the reduction. Assistant Attorney General D. A. Simmons, who wrote the opinion, said that "the amount of the tax is a detail of legislation and surplusage in so far as the title is concerned."

Two Lost Polar Explorers Rescued By Planes

List of Men Saved From Ice Fields Gains When Successful Delivery Is Effected By Airmen

KINGS BAY, July 13. (UP)—It was officially announced tonight that the Swedish airplane Uppland and the Finnish plane Tarku had arrived shortly after 5 p. m. with the rescued polar explorers Captain Sora and his companion Van Dongen.

The two explorers, who had been lost since they went on a dog sled expedition to find members of the Italia's crew, had suffered great mishaps. Sora and Van Dongen sighted the rescuers and waved flags to attract attention.

The rescue fliers then notified the Russian ice breaker Krassin that their efforts had been successful.

The Krassin's commander immediately broadcast the news.

Sora and Van Dongen had been compelled to kill five of the nine dogs they started out with. They had eaten nothing but dog meat for two weeks but neither was considered in a serious condition, according to reports reaching the Krassin.

Sora was much weaker than his companion, however. Both were overjoyed when the rescue planes were sighted.

FEELING AGAINST NOBILE GROWS

LONDON, July 13. (US)—Bitterness against Gen. Umberto Nobile was growing throughout the Scandinavian countries tonight, according to an Exchange dispatch from Stockholm, which stated that public opinion "is demanding a full explanation of Nobile's reasons for permitting Dr. Finn Malmgren to leave the Nobile group to search for help although he was suffering from a broken wrist."

There was also thinly veiled feeling against the two Italian companions of Dr. Malmgren, Zappi and Mariano, who were quoted in Moscow dispatches as revealing that they had left Dr. Malmgren behind with both legs frozen. This, it was said, was equivalent to leaving him to die, as in his helpless condition he could not have moved about sufficiently to keep his blood in circulation against freezing.

From Berlin came additional reports of the growing feeling against Commander Nobile. The Communist newspaper Welt Am Abend printed what purported to be reports from Oslo stating that political circles were contemplating the arrest of Nobile on a charge of manslaughter if he entered Norwegian territory.

"The Scandinavians are so enraged," the German newspaper declared, "that Nobile is in danger of lynching if he enters their territory."

STORM IS BLAMED

"Good Will" Flier Thought Struck by Lightning Before Crash

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., July 13 (UP)—Captain Emilio Carranza, his sturdy silver monoplane flaming meteor-like above a storm-raked wilderness, plunged to his death in a bog near Burlington Thursday night, less than an hour after he had started on the last leg of his flight from Roosevelt field on Long Island to Mexico City.

Capt. Carranza

Flying home to a triumphal and tumultuous welcome awaiting him, Mexico's greatest aviator boldly drove his Ryan monoplane through a severe electrical and rain storm which broke immediately after he left Roosevelt field. Apparently, his craft was struck by lightning.

Downward toward a rough and tree-covered wilderness, with only brilliant flashes of lightning to guide him, Carranza's plane tumbled. The pilot evidently had applied courageously to right his craft and probably did so at about the moment it thundered into the tree tops.

Wing Crumples

In that first desperate contact with death, the right wing was torn from the plane but it did not go down. At terrific speed it plunged ahead through the darkness, a golden streak in the storm as it dashed through the tree tops for nearly half a mile.

There in a tiny clearing the left wing crumpled; there the broken and burned craft shot to the ground as the flier leaped or was thrown nearly 60 feet through the underbrush; there—where terrified berry pickers later stumbled upon his broken body—did Emilio Carranza end his triumphal homeward flight.

Schooled in Texas

Carranza was 22 years old. He was a graduate of the West Texas Military school of San Antonio, the national preparatory school of Mexico City, and the national school of aviation in Mexico.

He was a veteran flier of three military campaigns against rebels and Indians. His first important flight was from Chicago to Monterey with several stops. Later he made a non-stop flight from Mexico City to Juarez, near El Paso, in September of last year. On that flight he battled for and storms but skillfully brought his plane through.

Recently Married

It was revealed tonight that Carranza started his homeward flight in the face of adverse weather because he was anxious to reach his bride, whom he had married shortly before his flight to Washington.

When the Mexican flier's aged father, Sebastian Carranza, was told of his son's death friends in New York said he went at once to his apartment there—without saying a word.

Carranza's body was brought here from Chatsworth late tonight where it will be held pending arrangements by the Mexican consulate.

Carranza made a perfect take-off at Roosevelt field shortly before a heavy rain and electrical

DETROIT, Mich., July 13. (UP)—Henry Ford was sued today for approximately $2,000,000 by one of his former workers, who claimed the automobile manufacturer failed to pay him for certain inventions used on Ford cars and tractors.

DETROIT, July 13. (INS)—Henry Ford, through a close associate today indicated that he will decline to take an active part in politics.

County Superintendent Candidates In Verbal Clash at Speaking Bee

With speeches of candidates limited to five minutes as members of group one met at the Adams Street Methodist church Friday night, when the fire of criticism was shorn from most of the races, with the county school superintendent race furnishing the fireworks and the state representative sweepstakes most of the vaudeville.

Burl Bryant, candidate for superintendent of schools, accused by Clyde R. Wofford of not giving sufficient time to personal supervision of schools and asked what he did with the $50 allowed him monthly for traveling expenses between the schools, asked for time out to argue the point—and the two men's debate was under way. Mr. Bryant denied he received any gasoline expense money.

R. J. Long, candidate for representative from place 1, district 111, again submitted his platform of being the man less disqualified for the office.

"I was in Electra campaigning for the first time. Dr. Graves used to live there. When people heard

POLE FLIGHTS ARE DECRIED

French Explorer Deplores Loss of Life

PARIS, July 13. (UP)—Until aviation has been developed to provide greater security, further attempts to uncover the mysteries of the North Polar regions by air are both criminal and useless, in the opinion of Dr. Jean Charcot, outstanding French explorer—considered by the French a fit successor to the great French explorers of history, Cartier, Marquette, Joliet and Champlain.

Dr. Charcot condemns the wrecking of the Nobile dirigible Italia and the disasters which attended the rescue of the Italian crew as a useless exposure of human lives. Nothing is to be gained by aerial exploration of the Polar regions, but rather by scientific study and soundings from sturdy ice-crushing steamers, he believes.

"Evidently the access to the Pole is easier by air than by steamer and eventually when the Polar regions are opened up it will be by air," Dr. Charcot said to the United Press before putting off in the French Polar exploration ship "Pourquoi Pas" for the relief of Major Rene Guilbaud of the French navy and Roald Amundsen.

Need Security

"But we must wait until aviation has progressed and offers greater security. We have, unfortunately, too many examples of the inability of present day dirigibles and planes to stand the rigors of the Arctic."

The air race to the North Pole for the purpose of discovery of uncharted land and the claiming of the land for any nation except that whose frontiers it may face, is not to be taken seriously in the opinion of the French explorer.

"It is childish to think that the mere act of flying over land and dropping flags on it is sufficient to establish incontestable claim to it in the name of any nation," Dr. Charcot said.

"The act of possession is not valuable, in my opinion, until a base has been established and men have walked on the ground above which they fly their flag. That is one reason why no country can ever claim the North Pole."

Unknown Land

"It has been conclusively proven that the position of the mythical Pole is a vast ice-covered sea without land within a radius of 100 miles. This is constantly in slow motion and I doubt if any of the flags which have been dropped on the exact site from airplanes or dirigibles are today within 20 miles of the Pole.

"There do exist around the Pole a certain number of pieces of land, but they all depend to one continent or another. Much of the land is attached to the Asiatic continent, part to Greenland, whose exact extent has never yet been determined and may yet prove to be a continent as large in area as South America, and part to the North American continent."

Booze Seizures Fail To Put Crimp In "Exports"

WINDSOR, Ont., July 13. (UP)—Undaunted by the large liquor seizures made by the provincial government from export docks here, smaller dealers for the most part today are still "exporting" their stocks, a large part of which the government claims finds its way back to the dominion to be bootlegged.

Detroit is not suffering from the seizures. Price across the river have not been increased by the bootlegging trade and the supply seems to be as large as ever. The larger exporters, however, are reported to be speeding disposal of their stocks.

BORGLUM ON 'SOUL' HUNT

Texas Artist Reaches N. C. In Search of Genius

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 13. (AP) Gutzon Borglum, sculptor and artist, is in this section on a strange quest, search for a ragged youth artist who "has a soul."

Borglum does not know his name, or what he does, or where he lives, only that it is somewhere in North Carolina. But he terms the boy a genius and is determined to find him. That is why he left his studio in San Antonio, Texas.

Some time ago the youth walked into Borglum's studio. He had gone from North Carolina to watch the sculptor at work. He brought with him a few poems, a sketch and a small model or two. He wanted Borglum to pass upon them.

The sculptor was busy. The boy sat all day watching him. At nightfall he left, saying there was a job in North Carolina that he had to get back to.

Three or four days passed before Borglum paid any attention to the poems, the sketch and the small models. Then his search began.

"That boy has a soul," Borglum said in Greensboro before leaving for Raleigh to continue his search. "That boy has a soul and I don't even remember his name. I call him a genius. There was life in what he did.

"I want to find that boy, I want to tell him that whatever others think of him. I believe he is a genius. I want to help him, too, if I can."

Dean Wannamaker of Duke university has suggested that Judy Rayford of Mobile, Ala., one of his students, may be the boy Borglum is seeking. The dean said Rayford told him he intended to "bum" his way to Texas and make an effort to talk with Borglum. He described the youth as a "peculiar chap" with a "bent for art."

C. W. Coffey was in charge of the excellent program of readings and songs which followed the business session. Misses Lois and Ruth Rivers, daughters of Lion W. W. Rivers and students of Baylor college, entertained with college songs Miss Lois Rivers read "It Wasn't a Success." Misses Margaret and Doris Owens gave several songs and readings.

Out-of-town visitors at the meeting were Juvenile Officer J. C. Cabe, Attorney E. E. Freuchte and George A. Smoot, all of Wichita Falls. Several interesting talks were made.

Natives of Orient and South Africa Present Pleas to Christian Meeting

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 13. (UP)—Christendom was appealed to for leadership today as natives from the Orient and South Africa appeared before the world's Sunday school convention, in session here.

Matias Cuadara, a Moro chieftain from the Philippines, told 7,000 delegates to the world conference that America should continue to rule in the islands. The United States brought great good to his native land, the chief said, and there was need for much additional work.

"The black men, too, have a soul," was the theme of a talk of Miss Violet Makanya of Natal, South Africa.

Each of her grandfathers, she said, had seven wives and frequently dined on human flesh. The coming of white men, she continued, brought both good and evil to her people.

Bride of 70 Divorced After Short Rorance

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 13. (UP)—A 70-year-old bride, Mrs. Rose Ann Bloomquist, was granted a divorce here from Adolph Bloomquist, 65, after a romance of less than seven months.

They did not have enough money to go out together of evenings, so Bloomquist took what they had and sought entertainment for himself, his wife charged.

WEAK WOMAN GETS STRENGTH

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lawrence, Mass.—"For years I suffered and would sweat cold and feel as if I would faint. At such times I could neither walk nor sit down with comfort and my work is sitting down all day. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound through friends I work with, and I began to take it as a tonic six months ago. I am much improved. I recommend the Vegetable Compound and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. Marie Machera, 169 Oak Street, Lawrence, Mass.

Hen Hatches Out 13 Fish Bait Robbers On Friday, 13th

LANCASTER, Ohio, Friday, July 13. (INS)—Today was "black Friday" for the little red hen that scratches in the barnyard of Charles George, farmer, at Pleasantville, Fairfield county.

She became the foster mother of 13 black, snapping turtles, after the 32 tedious days of "setting" on 18 eggs George placed under her protecting wings, nearly five weeks ago, after he found the embryo axphibia on a river bank.

Health Officials Check Sore Throat Epidemic

LEE, Mass., July 13. (UP)—With no new deaths and only four new cases reported, state and local officials today believed the septic sore throat epidemic which has claimed 16 lives here in the past two weeks, had been definitely checked.

PILOT PLANS WORLD FLIGHT

World War Aviator Leaves For England

WASHINGTON, July 13. (UP)—G. H. Storck, a world war aviator, is preparing to make a lone-handed, aerial "pleasure flight" around the globe, it was learned here today.

Storck has been proceeding quietly with his plans and has secured the cooperation of the coast guard in establishing gasoline bases on the Aleutian islands, and Alaska.

Storck is en route to England to secure his plane, a single seated Avro-Avron seaplane with a 60-horse powered engine.

Storck said he would fly from England to India in a series of short flights. From India he will proceed across Asia to Japan.

From Tokio, Japan, his course would carry him to the Kamchatka peninsula of Siberia, to Attu island, to Alaska, Juno and down the Pacific coast to Seattle.

After reaching Seattle, Storck said it was his intention to cross the continent and then fly back to England by the way of Greenland and Iceland.

If the ambitious flier completes his proposed trip, he will have covered approximately 35,000 miles.

Storck is an American citizen, born in Paris, and has been living in Shanghai during the past few years. He flew for several years in France during the war.

While he was here Storck told officials his flight would simply be a pleasure jaunt with no attempts to break speed or distance records.

He advised officials he expected to start within a few weeks and asked that the gasoline be placed on the Aleutian islands by the latter part of August.

Marie Theresa

MARIE THERESA has two fights on today.

Not that I like to fight, but . . .

Now, there is the policeman—a sort of law, so to speak, who walks right in and teases the animals at the muny zoo even though a sign has been posted on the cage, saying, "Please don't tease the animals." The little boys standing about, on first one foot then another, are observant of the law, but the law is evidently a law unto itself, therefore. . . . . .

ROUND two has to do with one of the leading citizens of Wichita Falls who drives furiously through a funeral procession, almost colliding with a car in the train in his eager haste.

While this column is not interested in the destination of the leading citizen, chances are his mission was of no particular moment, compared with the impression he made upon those paying the last respects to a departed friend.

Absent-minded action?

Common courtesy is a matter of sub-conscious thought and stopping to let the procession pass would have been the absent-minded act. Texas has long ago passed the frontier stage, and an excuse for such crudity cannot easily be found.

A YOUNG MAN in a far distant state stole a hearse to take his girl friends for a joy ride. The police of the city soon got wise, because, they reasoned, people who take rides in hearses are not in the habit of walking home.

THE PIPE ORGAN is being installed in the new First Methodist church, South, this week. It will be ready for action, September 1, the interim to be spent in the actual installation of the instrument. (Would you call a pipe organ an instrument?)

Now, if that pipe organ will have to undergo the same amount of tuning those chimes did some few months ago, I know a church building that is going to have a sad beginning in making new friends, and a neighborhood that is going to witness a general exodus of hard working citizens.

Installing a pipe organ, pipe by pipe, if you are familiar with musical terms, as it were, over a period of nearly two months! Will it be done silently? What are the habits of the separate pipes of a pipe organ, anyway?

This corner was called down by a local musician for admitting that the chimes of the same church were somewhat out of tune. Said all good chimes acted that way. I suppose some of the musical denomination will call me up and tell me sarcastically, that all pipes are installed without piping.

Peggy Joyce Yields to 'Most Romantic Proposal' of Popular London Clubman

PARIS, July 13. (US)—Digging her pink toes into the sand of Deauville beach today, Peggy Hopkins Joyce shyly admitted to Universal Service that she is marrying Lord David Northesk as soon as his divorce from his present wife, the former Jessica Brown, of Follies fame, becomes effective.

Peggy said:

"David's proposal was the most romantic I ever have had. Last night, when we were dining alone at the Ambassadeurs, David went over to the orchestra and asked it to play 'When I Marry You.'

"A few minutes later he whispered, 'When, Peggy?' and I said, 'Yes,' and I guess that is all."

The future Countess Northesk delicately poised one white leg and dipped it into the water before joining the young Englishman, who was already bathing. Peggy shuddered, decided the water was too cold, and awaited his lordship on the beach.

Besides Apparel

Besides Peggy's bathing suit looked very impractical for bathing. It resembled a pair of nursery rompers. The blouse was of green crepe de chine, very tight, and worn over short panties, very full. Green slippers and a huge emerald ring completed Peggy's bathing kit.

Peggy's romance with Lord Northesk began on the Ile de France, when the popular London clubman returned after consulting his wife about the details of their divorce. Lady Northesk's action was filed a fortnight ago, and the decision is expected in another month.

Both his lordship and Peggy were registered at the Hotel Crillon, and arrived here day before yesterday. They have kept quietly apart from the crowds, choosing the most secluded corners of restaurants for dining, and bathing only at the oddest hours when the rest of the smart world was lunching or teaing.

Young Northesk has a past almost as romantic as Peggy's. He is a familiar figure at the Broadway night clubs, as well as the exclusive Piccadilly dancing places in London's west end. This winter, at St. Moritz, he was a member of the bob-sled party which invited the king of the Belgians to take his initial try at that perilous sport and which almost resulted disastrously.

Stirs Gossip

Gossip was rife at the time that young Northesk was going to marry the lovely Doris de la Vigne, who recently married Lord Valentine Castlerosse, son and heir to the Earl of Kenmore, owner of Killarney.

One of the most disappointed men in Paris tonight must be young Count Frederick de Janze, who had been Peggy's most assiduous cavalier during her last visit. De Janze is remembered by reason of the scandal following the shooting by his wife of Raymond de Trafford in the Cafe du Nord, Paris.

Subsequently, the French court awarded Frederick his freedom. A title will not be a novelty to the beautiful Peggy, who counts among her ex-husbands Count Morner, Swedish nobleman. When the marriage of Northesk and the blonde beauty is celebrated, it is probable that Broadway will lose Peggy for good. Her friends say she is preparing to buy a mansion near the Bois de Boulogne, and will make her home in Paris.

Charlotte Royre Kirk will probably grow up to be a thoroughly feminine member of the human family, witness the dainty ribbon bracelet and the frilly moccasins as well as the lacy dress. Some flappers adopt masculine attire rather early in life, but not Charlotte.

Charlotte is somewhat of a blonde and caters to colors for blondes. Her vocabulary is somewhat childish but she can make herself understood when occasion demands.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Kirk of 3124 Bridwell street.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Record News

NEW YORK, July 13.— prominent business man of New England came to Manhattan, spent two days here in attending to a number of transactions, and left for Chicago without ever having set foot on its streets. He did not happen to look out of a window at any time, so it may be said that he spent two days in New York without seeing the city.

He did not attempt to do anything unusual. He arrived at Grand Central station, which is connected with a number of buildings and the subway by underground passages. After registering at a hotel, and visiting two office buildings in different sections for conferences, he lunched and returned to his hotel without touching a street. That evening he bought some books, dined at another hotel, listened to convention broadcasts and returned to his room without going out into the air. The following day he visited another office building, made purchases in two department stores, visited an art gallery, all without seeing a street. That evening he departed from Pennsylvania station, which is like Grand Central, the center of a network of underground passages.

Tammany Young, the New Yorker who disputes the title of champion gate crasher with One-Eyed Connelly, was unable to go to the Democratic convention in Houston. But he kept his record clear by crashing a hall here where the convention broadcasts were being received.

"Rubber checks," which means checks the banks ignore socially, are less a novelty on Fraudway than most any other place in the world. And since necessity is the mother of invention, shops have found a way to keep from being victimized without the risk of offending a good customer. They simply never keep more than $15 in the cash register, no matter how large the volume of business.

"If a man writes out a check for $25, we do not refuse him at once," a shopkeeper explained. "We merely open the cash register, point to the few dollars lying there and shrug our shoulders with regret. The man thinks we would have cashed his check if we had had the money. We never lose any money on a check."

But the system causes a lot of trouble for the man who doesn't happen to have anything smaller than a $20 bill.

Because of the large number of stick-ups they run into, New York taxi drivers never carry much change. A hackman drove me around for half an hour one evening, trying to get a $20 bill broken. Finally he had to take my card and trust me to send him the amount.

New York visitors are advised to carry plenty of small change.

Caddies are no respectors of persons. The proverb ought to be revised to "No man is a hero to his caddy."

Charles M. Schwab tells of making a very bad drive on the links, and as a good many persons were standing around, he sought to divert attention from his discomfiture by reproving his caddy: "That was your fault, you ought to have told me to keep my head down."

The caddy didn't know the great steelmaster from Adam, and didn't care, and when the next moment Schwab was about to take another lick at the ball, the boy yelled: "Put your damned head down, you big slob."

"And I did," says Schwab.

Those who have seen the MMS. say that when "Doomed Ship" is published next winter, it will be a literary sensation. The author is Judd Gray, who died in the electric chair a few minutes after Mrs. Snyder. He is supposed to have written it in the death house at Sing Sing.

Mine Workers Leave Wage Problem Unsettled

INDIANAPOLIS, July 13. (UP)—The United Mine Workers of American policy committee, meeting here to consider among other grievances the demand of the Illinois miners to be released from the Jacksonville wage agreement as a basis for wage negotiations, adjourned today without any announcement of a decision.

One-Minute Sermon

Thou visitest the earth and waterest it: thou greatly enrichest it with the river of God, which is full of water: thou preparest them corn, when thou hast so provided for it.

Thou waterest the ridges thereof abundantly: thou settlest the furrows thereof: thou makest it soft with showers: thou blessest the springing thereof.—Psalms, lxv, 9-10.

An Increasing Epidemic

YOU consider such things as diphtheria, infantile paralysis, smallpox, typhoid fever and malaria deadly scourges, do you not? Wouldn't you be alarmed if the death rate from those diseases showed a sudden increase?

Undoubtedly. Yet Public Safety, the magazine issued by the National Safety Council, reveals that in Illinois last year automobiles killed more people than all of those diseases combined.

Rather a staggering fact, that. It is one more indication that the time has come when we must treat the traffic problem as a major problem, devoting our best efforts to its solution. The death rate must be cut down; it is a national disgrace.

A "Magnolious Affair"

WHEN Anne Bruce marries Lou "Slim" Gordon, co-pilot of the transatlantic plane Friendship, in Chicago on July 20 the affair will be a sort of civic celebration.

The marriage is to be held in the Trianon ballroom. At least 10,000 Chicagoans will attend; Mayor William Hale Thompson will be master of ceremonies, and the city will be gladly decorated for the occasion.

Ordinarily a large public wedding has a suggestion of vulgarity about it. But not this one. When a transatlantic flyer marries the sweetheart of his choice it ought to be done with a flourish. A famous flyer isn't a private individual; he's a public character. Why shouldn't he let the whole town help him celebrate his wedding?

We wish Slim and Anne all kinds of happiness, and we hope that Chicago outdoes itself to give them a splendiferous wedding.

When the Wind Calls

A HIGH SCHOOL lad was picked up, pennfless, in New York the other day. He had run away from his middle western home to go to sea; and he confided to the officers who took him in tow that it was all the fault of the west wind.

He didn't exactly put it that way, of course. What he said was that every morning, as he went about his tasks on his father's farm, the wind came sweeping in over the meadows, clear and odorous with the winey scent of a country dawn. It stirred strange longings in his breast; his attempted flight to sea was an effort to realize those obscure urges.

He was given a railway ticket and sent back home. He may never see salt water again. But the wind probably will continue to torment him. It is one of the little spurs with which the earth rowels her children now and then, so that they may not be content to become clods or automatons.

There are many similar little spurs in this life; things that stir us to sudden longings for escape, that persuade us that there are rich experiences in the world which our daily lives miss. Yet to yield to these moods—to run away to sea, as this farmer's boy did—is to miss the point entirely.

Consider the farmer's boy for a minute. He stands in a dewy pasture, just at dawn, and the morning breeze sweeps in on him and makes him feel that there are far places and great events awaiting him elsewhere; so he wants to go to sea. Yet if he should become a sailor, and ship for Singapore or Socotra, he would be no better off. The wind and the dawn would still delude him, though his ship were anchored at Mandalay itself.

For the truth is that these disquieting hints given us by nature are ends in themselves. They are not meant to be acted on, for that is impossible. When you look down your street on a quiet moonlight night, and the familiar scene is transfigured, so that you feel that life somehow ought to be richer and more beautiful than you have found it—that, in itself, is enough. Unless you are more fortunate than most you never will be able to indulge the wanderlust that a fresh morning inspires; but to feel your heart beat in unison with the morning is sufficient.

The savor of life is made up of just such trifles. To be able to catch the hints that nature throws out, even if you cannot act on them—that is the secret. That brings conviction that the earth is lovely. It brings understanding—and a measure of deliverance.

POLITICS ADD TO WARMTH

To some people the weather doesn't seem warm enough. They insist on making the humidity all the more unbearable by working themselves into a frenzied heat by an unrestricted and vehement discussion of national politics which, we must admit, presents more possibilities for debate than ever before. It has even come to the point where doctors have warned old men with high blood pressure to refrain from political arguments!

Often we wonder if the situation merits all the energy expended. Both parties have their bad points. The real guiding hands—the big butter and egg and tape and ticker men behind the guns—are shaping political destiny to dovetail with their individual scheme of things. It is tragically unfortunate that the days of Jeffersonian democracy are deep in the discard, but such is undoubtedly the case.

Oh, well; it's time for another coco cola.

AVIATION IMPROVING

The pendulum of aviation is still swinging outward and upward. New incentives to progress in the industry are arising each day, and progress is being made in a record-breaking manner.

The development of aviation is going forward at an unprecedented rate, and it is coming nearer and nearer to Vernon. On Independence day an airport was formally opened at Wichita Falls. At that time officials of the department of commerce, aeronautics branch, predicted than an air mail, express and passenger line would be established to Wichita Falls in the near future.

With the airplane rapidly becoming one of the railroad's major competitors, it is reasonable to believe that air lines will soon follow much the same route as the big trunk lines, since the demand for transportation service naturally is found along these lines. It does not take a wise man to see that in the near future Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Dallas will be connected by airway.

Obviously Vernon will be located on this airway, but whether this city will reap any benefits from such a commercial line depends on the steps taken to provide proper landing facilities here.

'MISSING LINK' FOUND IN HUNT

Scientist Discovers Traces Of Giant Race

VIENNA, July 13.—A scientific expedition into the heart of South Africa consisting only of an Austrian explorer and his wife, to whom a child was born during the journey, has discovered the missing link to the so-called "Rhodesian Man."

Dr. Victor Lebzelter, custodian of the Austrian Museum of Natural History and noted explorer, is back in Vienna today bringing with him data of several important pre-historic finds permitting the establishment for the first time of a scientific chronology of pre-historic cultures of South Africa.

"The only two members of my expedition into South Africa were my wife and I, in the beginning," said Doctor Lebzelter to Universal Service.

Baby Born in Wilds

"Later, we were joined by a third member, our baby, who was born in Windhook, in the log-palace of the black princess, Amaxosa, under the burning African sun. The black princess was our hostess at that time, and she became the godmother of our child.

"Our expedition was fruitful, and not only in respect to the family. Thanks to the support of the Austrian government and the friendly assistance of all South African British authorities we were able to make very important discoveries in the fields of archaeology, anthropology and ethnology.

"Several pre-historic finds gave us the clue to the development of the African cultures, and we succeeded in establishing the first scientific chronology of the pre-historic cultures of South Africa. The remnants of extinct civilizations, buried in their original strata showed us the way in which humanity progressed.

Trace Missing Link

"Another important result of our expedition was the discovery of the missing link to the so-called Rhodesian man. This I found in the Munknayama race, a race of giants, where the men are all taller than seven and a half feet. Both sexes are beautifully built and mentally, as well as physically, far surpass all neighboring negro races.

"Our anthropological investigation proved that the negro races of South Africa are related to the Australians. They are indeed, a hybrid race, a mixture between Australian descendants and Semetic-Bushmen-Hottentot races. We examined about 9500 Bantus and Hottentots and more than 100 Bushmen.

"We found that the natives, even the 'wild' Bushmen are very peaceable creatures if they are let alone. They distrust every white man, as they seem to have had some bad experiences with our race.

Gone Two Years

"Our expedition started from Cape Town about two years ago. First we explored the southeastern regions, the Suasi land, Natal, Banuto land, Griqua land and Transkey, then we crossed the Calahari desert and we made excursions in the Samba land and southern Namib.

"At last we came to the east again and left Africa through Durban in the middle of May, 1928. During the first part of our voyage we rode on horseback, but in the desert land we used an automobile and engaged only few servants and seldom a guide."

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service — by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Chiri stood with an arm carelessly around his neck while she asked him if he'd brought any of his Russian cigarets along.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Virginia Brewster, upon the sudden death of her father, goes to live with a friend, Clarissa Dean, and her father. Her fiance, Nathaniel Dann, objects to this for he mistrusts Dean's motives. Upon phoning Niel's studio late one night, Virginia is surprised when his model, Chiri, answers. This causes a quarrel which is later mended.

Hoping to get Niel away, Dean arranges to have him offered a position in San Francisco. Niel begs Virginia to marry him and go west, but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art.

Clarissa becomes jealous of Virginia, and the latter resolves to leave but Dean opposes her departure and asks her to marry him. When she refuses, he threatens to reveal the fact that her father cheated him out of $100,000 in a deal. Recklessly, Virginia pledges to marry him if she fails to earn the money to repay him in one year's time. Then she pawns one of her rings and finds a quiet hotel in which to live. She goes to Niel's studio, but her joy at seeing him is clouded for she does not dare reveal the compact she has made. Niel takes her out to dinner.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXI

They had happened upon the place where Chiri was dining, and Virginia had seen her as soon as they entered the room. She was sitting at a corner table with a thin-faced, alert-eyed young man who stared coldly at Nathaniel when he and Virginia took seats close by.

Chiri's presence annoyed Virginia. Couldn't she ever see Nathaniel without having to come in contact with his flamboyant model? Instantly she felt impatient with herself for the thought. Chiri was part of the world Niel belonged to. Was she going to start interfering with his life? She certainly did not mean to. Still the thought that Chiri represented something she did not like, persisted in Virginia's mind. But what had that to do with the feeling she had when she saw the girl just now—the feeling or gratification over Niel's expression of his belief in personal liberty?

Virginia worried over it until the waiter brought the clam juice cocktail. Then she put it out of her mind to devote herself to being agreeable.

She wanted to know about the charcoal drawings on the wall and Niel told her of the artists who had frequented the place until fame had come to them and they'd moved uptown.

Virginia sighed. "Why do artists have to be poor?" she asked.

"Because money makes so many demands upon time and energy, and creative art requires all that's in a person if it is to amount to anything," Nathaniel replied earnestly.

"But . . ." Virginia's remark was interrupted by Chiri's coming to their table. Nathaniel started to rise but she pushed him back in his chair and stood with an arm thrown carelessly around his neck while she asked him if he'd brought any of his Russian cigarets along.

Nathaniel fished out a package and handed it to her. She leaned down quickly and planted a grateful kiss on his forehead and then started back to her own table. Her companion glared at her.

Virginia was not any less displeased, for Chiri's conduct had served to answer her perplexing question. She was becoming jealous of this tempestuous creature. Afraid of her in fact. That was why she was glad to have a reason to give Niel for postponing their wedding—a reason that he had helped to build up. He would have to agree now that everyone has a right to make sure of his own strength, to prove his ability to justify his existence before consenting to accept protection from another individual.

Virginia knew that if she had no reason at all to give him Nathaniel would question her love and . . . that would be another girl's chance, if there was anyone to "understand" and sympathize with him when he felt himself disillusioned. She realized now that her unacknowledged dread of Chiri's influence had prompted her to seek this reason, to keep Nathaniel from doubting her. But why Chiri? There must be other girls he could turn to.

Virginia glanced across the table where Chiri, small face cupped in her hands, blew smoke into the air and smiled indifferently at the eager young man who was talking to her in low, excited tones, apparently expostulating with her over some offense.

"Who is he?" she asked, turning back to Nathaniel.

"Hugo Mance. She's got him pipped. Poor devil."

"Why do you call him poor devil?"

"Not a chance with Chiri."

"How do you know."

"Chiri changes her boy friends with the seasons. If she's wearing black she gets a blond to go with it, but if it's a red vogue he's got to be dark and she'd kill a redhead who looked at her then."

Virginia was silent for a moment. "I wonder if you aren't mistaken about her," she said finally. "I don't believe she's so shallow. It may amuse her to play with men's affections but I imagine when her own are concerned she would be very intense."

"She'd sizzle a fellow all right if she really loved him, but luckily for some chaj she isn't capable of it."

"Do you know her so very well, Niel?"

"I know her well enough to understand that she tried to make a fool of me, along with others," Nathaniel declared, "and I'd say her methods aren't those of a profound nature, either. But of course she might fool us all some day and fall so hard she'll crack the veneer. Then maybe we'll find out what's inside. I'll lay my bet it's sawdust."

Virginia said nothing but she was inclined to believe he should have substituted quicksand for sawdust. And what he said hadn't helped her to overcome her disquietude concerning Chiri's potential importance in his life. It annoyed her that this should be so. "It's ridiculous for me to feel this way," she scolded herself. "Most likely she isn't interested in Niel at all."

But, take herself to task as she would, the rest of the dinner lost its savor, and she was glad enough to leave as soon as they'd had their black coffee.

For a while they walked around, nosing in and out of book shops and looking in windows filled with an amazing amount of antique jewelry.

Nathaniel suggested going back to the studio. The idea was impossible to Virginia in her present state of mind. He'd be certain to renew his pleadings and she dared not trust herself to refuse him. It seemed that her burden grew heavier with every passing hour, and the temptation to lay it aside was not one she wanted to resist in Nathaniel's arms. So she told him she was tired and wanted to go back to her hotel.

They drove uptown in a taxicab and Virginia was conscious all the way of Nathaniel's disappointment. He sat with his arm about her but he did not talk much. Ordinarily he was animated and eager to engage in conversation about some of the many things that interested him so vitally.

His sulkiness seemed to vanish, however, when he kissed her good-night in the cab. Virginia went up to her room with at least a splinter knocked off the "cross" she was bearing.

The next morning she was up early. As soon as there was anyone to answer the telephone in Mr. Gardiner's office she was asking for information about the list she had left with him. He was not in but his secretary assured her there was no question of her ownership, and she was free to make whatever disposition she liked of the things.

Virginia packed them all back in her suitcases, batting her eyes furiously as she went about the task, and it must be said that only a very few tears got past the vigilance of her silky lashes and spattered down into the bags.

When the straps were buckled she got her handbag and fished for the pawn ticket to get the broker's address.

He greeted her affably when she arrived at his shop and had her things carried in by the taxicab driver. His first glimpse of the suitcases told him a very old story. This girl was on her uppers. He already knew she was inexperienced in the matter of raising money on her possessions. But if he hadn't known it before the mere fact that she had brought so many things at once would have given her away. He dealt as fairly with her as any other would under the circumstances and she seemed satisfied.

From his shop she went straight to a young broker she knew on Wall street, but this person dealt in stocks and bonds and not in jewelry. She was admitted to his presence as soon as her name was taken in to him. He came toward the door of his private office to greet her, hands outstretched in welcome.

"Virginia, this is a pleasure," he exclaimed warmly. "I was one of those who tried several times to see you," he added and then waited until she had taken the chair he placed for her before he went on to tell her of his sympathy in her bereavement.

Virginia struggled to restrain her emotion when he spoke of her father. Tears seemed to come so terribly easy to her! And she was here purely on business. Grieving would have to be kept for her solitary hours.

"Everyone was so very kind," she said, dabbing at her eyes with a black-bordered handkerchief, "I'm afraid I haven't thanked you all properly, but you see it was such a shock to me. Father's death, and then finding out that I hadn't any money!"

"You didn't know that before?" he exclaimed in astonishment.

"I hadn't the faintest idea, Oliver. If father had told me, I might have found some way to help him. At least I wouldn't have kept on spending money as I had always done."

"Of course you wouldn't! Unforgivable of me not to have thought of that. I did wonder a little why anyone should have thought it worthwhile to keep right on until everything blew up. It looked like that, you know," he added in self-defense.

"I suppose it did," Virginia admitted tolerantly; "but you mustn't blame father. I'm sure he was trying to spare me from knowing it as long as he could."

"Very likely, but it's too bad he didn't realize how much harder it would be for you eventually."

"Oh, I'm sure he expected to live long enough to see me happily married and he knew money wouldn't mean so much to me then."

"You aren't breaking your engagement are you?" he asked with an eagerness that startled Virginia. Until then she had actually forgotten that Oliver Cutter had once begged her to marry him.

A PASSING THOUGHT

Yes, this old world must spin on through hot or cold,
Loving and hating; working—sometimes playing.
Or choosing youth, but always growing old,
The merchant bills us, and the law commands us;
So doggedly we fight our way forever on.
And soon the Master Reaper comes to take us,
And few recall our names when we are gone.

Two Can't Live as Cheaply as One Despite Lovers' Myth, Says Dix

Bursting the "Two-Can-Live-as-Cheaply-as-One" Bubble — Should the Girl Who Went Wrong Marry Her Clean-Living Sweetheart—Are the Letters in This Column From Real People?

Dear Miss Dix—My girl knows and loves fine things. Her only mistake is to have chosen me as her future provider. I tell her that I am not a gold mine, and that it will probably be four or five years before we would be able to live in an easy manner. She pretends she would like to work much for us, and that two can live cheaper than one. And that with her ideas! Can I depend on that? Don't you think it dangerous to try such a life? I fear the washing machine would kill her love.

BILL.

Answer—Don't be deluded into believing for a minute that two can live cheaper than one. It is a favorite theory of optimistic young people in love, but it is a fallacy. There is nothing in it. It is all to the bad.

A married man can't live as cheaply as a single man because he can't take his wife to live in the places that he can live in. He has to give her a better environment, and certainly by no process of mathematics can you figure it out that two can eat as cheaply as one, or dress on as little money.

A woman's upkeep is always more expensive than a man's. Furthermore, when a man gets married he can't count on there just being two. There are generally three or four or more, and there are always doctor's bills and drug bills that he wouldn't have as a single man.

So that's that. Forget the two-can-live-as-cheaply-as-one argument, because they can't.

I agree with you that it is a risky experiment for a man to marry unless he is making a decent living. That does not mean riches. It simply means that in order to insure the success of his marriage a man should be earning enough money to provide the necessities of life for a family—food and shelter and clothes.

Where there is not freedom from debt and from anxiety about tomorrow, and where there is not a certain degree of physical comfort, there can be no happiness for either the husband or the wife.

It rasps a man's nerves raw to be continually hounded by the bill collector, and to live in shivering dread of what would befall his family if he should fall sick or lose his job. No man under such conditions can be happy, or be a cheerful, tender, considerate husband.

And no woman can know the depths of poverty, its privations, its overwork, its torturing fears, and still keep herself beautiful and dainty and serene and gay as she was when her husband married her.

But between poverty and riches there is a long space in which a man has neither, but who is making a fair living, can safely marry, and then it is all up to the woman whether the marriage is a success or not.

If your girl is one of those who are dress crazy and amusement crazy, to whom fine clothes and good times are necessary; if she is bound to have a car and go with her old crowd, then you will certainly be courting disaster to marry her. She will make you miserable and be miserable herself. And, as you apprehended, the washing machine will leave her all wet.

But if she is a real girl she will love you enough to prefer you to Paris frocks and imported hats. She will get more joy out of an evening at home with you than she would out of going to the opera. She will make work a game, and she will find, as thousands of other women have who have married poor young men have done, that the best thing that can happen to any woman, the thing out of which she really gets the most kick is marrying a poor and ambitious man and working up with him.

A friend of mine, who is married to one of the richest and most influential men in this country, has often told me that the happiest time of her life was when they were young and so poor that she used to wash his shirt after he went to bed so it would be clean for him the next day.

And don't be afraid to marry a girl because she has been used to better things than you can give her. That cuts no ice. The girls who have had things all of their lives care less for them than the girls who have never had anything and are hungry for them. Let me repeat, it all depends upon the girl. Be sure that she is genuine. The real thing. A good sport. Then go ahead.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am in love with a young man who has always been a very clean-living fellow, and who has a very wonderful position. He loves me, but his family is very much opposed to his marrying me, because my past life has not been what it should have been. When he is with me he tells me that he does not care anything about my past life and nothing that people say can separate us, but when he gets home to his family they discourage him and he does not call on me for weeks at a time. Why can I not marry the man I love and start all over again? What should I do?

A. B.

Answer— think that the wisest thing you can do will be to forget the young man, because the chances are that his family will prevent him from marrying you. Besides, there would be small chance of happiness for you if you did marry him.

Because always the memory of your past life would be a shadow between you.

There are a few men—not many—who can forgive the woman who has sinned and who comes to them with the mud of the streets on her garments, but evidently your sweetheart is not of this "all-for-love-and-the-world-well-lost" type.

He shows that by his hesitation in marrying you. He realizes that he will always be ashamed of you because his family and society will not be willing to receive you, and he knows in his heart of hearts that he will always distrust you, that he will never be sure of you as he would if he had married a girl who had never gone wrong.

And, believe me, you would be a miserable woman if you were married to a husband who felt that way about you, and who in every time of domestic stress would throw up your past to you.

Don't be too hard on the young man's parents. If you had a son, you would not want him to marry a girl who was not a good girl. You wouldn't think that a girl with a past was fit to be the mother of his children.

But that is the price you have to pay for your wrong doing, for none of us, alas, can go back and start all over again, and blot out our mistakes.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My husband says that the letters in this department are not real—just arguments. Are they? My husband claims that he could start philandering and I wouldn't know it, and that what I didn't know wouldn't hurt me, but I think any wife who truly loves her husband would know instinctively when his love for her lessened in favor of some other woman.

We have several neighbors who think children should have no work to do, and whose children are a nuisance because they interfere with the tasks which we expect ours to do. What would you do with such youngsters?

PUZZLED WIFE AND MOTHER.

Answer—Every single solitary letter published in this column is a genuine human document written by some puzzled or troubled man or woman. As I get from 600 to 1000 letters a day presenting every human problem, it would be a work of supererogation to start an argument on my own account.

I agree with you that it would be very difficult for a man to deceive his wife about his philandering unless he had been such an iceberg before hand that she wouldn't notice the drop in temperature of his affections.

Many wives claim to be surprised when they find out that there is another woman in their husband's lives, but it always seems to be that they must have been either dumb or blind or both.

Put your neighbor's children to work helping your children with their tasks. They may enjoy it and be of real assistance. If they don't they will quit coming.

DOROTHY DIX.

CHIC CHERIE

LATEST FASHIONS

The pin Cherie is showing you in the small sketch to the left is a shoulder pin of colored stones that can match the color of one's dress. It's a pin, too, that can be worn on a hat—Cherie is always practical! Passing on to the evening gowns, this is a special drawing to give you a view of the hemlines of some of the newest ones. They aren't even, you see. Not any of them. Not even the one to the left whose hem you can't quite see. That dips down in the back. The moire frock has the minaret silhouette which is probably the newest one there is. The black lace gown has the peacock silhouette—a skirt that droops to the floor and spreads out in soft folds. The tulle dress has still another fashion of lengthening its skirt. The front and sides of the skirt are even at the hem, but just in back two extra flounces of the tulle are added and make a train—or would if they quite touched the floor. It is probably things like these that Dina and Cherie are discussing in the dressing room, but they point a moral and adorn a tale by showing you that the necklines of evening frocks can also be interesting. Dina's sheer crepe is of the new eggshell color and the collar is formed by a loose drape of the material which folds over into a narrow panel stitched into one with the panels about the waist. Cherie's scarf of sheer lame is detached and can be worn at any angle desirable.

Bride of Heir To Palmolive Riches Foils Attacker

NEW YORK, July 13. (INS)—With the aid of police, Frederick B. Johnson, youthful heir to the Palmolive soap millions, was guarding his bride today against the return of a taxicab driver who stole her $4,000 bracelet and attempted to kill her in their home off Fifth avenue.

Recently Mrs. Johnson returned from a downtown shopping tour in a taxicab. Upon entering her house, she noted the loss of a platinum bracelet set with three large diamonds, a gift of her mother-in-law.

A few days later she received a telephone call in response to an advertisement. But when Mrs. Johnson asked the speaker to come to the apartment with the bracelet and receive the offered reward, the voice replied:

"I don't want money. I want you. I am the driver of the taxi where you lost the bracelet and I liked your looks."

The girl warned the man to stay away and hung up the phone. Fearing the taxi driver might attempt to carry out his threat, she ran to the basement trunk room, procured her husband's revolver, which was unloaded, and returned to her apartment just as the doorbell rang.

A small wiry man wearing a chauffeur's cap entered and held the bracelet before her.

"Here it is, honey; you'll get it if you treat me right," he said.

Mrs. Johnson pointed the pistol at the man's face.

"I don't want the bracelet, get out of here," she ordered.

The driver grappled with her, gained possession of the gun and pressed it against her side.

"I'll give you a minute to decide then I'll pull the trigger," he said.

"No," she replied promptly. The man pulled the trigger, again and again, and threw the revolver away.

"My own's loaded. I'll get it," he told her as she fled from the place.

Ironically Mrs. Johnson was arrested on a charge of violation of the Sullivan law because Johnson had only a Virginia permit for possession of a revolver.

Hilton Hotel For Plainview

Special to The Record News.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, July 13.—William R. Irwin of Dallas, secretary for the Hilton Hotel company, was in Plainview this week and assured local citizens that actual construction work would begin here on a modern eight-story Hilton hotel by Sept. 1.

The contract calling for the construction and operation of a hotel in Plainview by the Hilton Hotel company was signed about 30 days ago by Mr. Hilton and local business men and calls for the completion of plans and specifications within 60 days from that date. At a banquet given in his honor at the Ware hotel Mr. Irwin made public announcement that the complete financing had been arranged, that the brick garage on the site would be razed immediately, and that following that the excavation would be made and construction work started not later that September for the Plainview Hilton hotel.

Irwin stated further at the dinner that the plans were being rapidly completed and that they were now ready to give the matter their undivided attention and that Plainview could expect a hotel of individuality especially planned for the needs of this particular community; that it would be comparable in structure and service rendered of the other Hilton hotels located in different parts of Texas.

DEATH STOPS MEXICAN ACE

Capt. Emilio Carranza Killed in Crash

storm broke. Observers at the field reported the Mexican flier had trouble in gaining altitude after the start, but it was assumed he was speeding toward his goal today although no cities on his route had sighted a plane.

Body Discovered

The flier's body was hurled from his craft and was discovered by John H. Carr late today. Carr, his mother and his wife were picking berries when they suddenly stumbled upon the wrecked plane and the body. They did not investigate but hurried to Burlington, where they reported the wreck to police. Carranza was identified by a telegram found in his pocket.

The sturdy monoplane in which the Mexican pilot had flown from Mexico City to Washington last month was torn apart and buried in the mud and soft earth of the bog. The pilot's body was badly burned and mangled.

Carranza was known as the "Lindbergh of Mexico," and had many remarkable and daring flights to his credit. His projected non-stop flight from Mexico City to Washington was unsuccessful, but he battled fog and rain to within a few hundred miles of his goal before being forced to land. His monoplane was a sister ship to the Spirit of St. Louis.

Take-Off Is Surprise

Captain Carranza surprised officials at Roosevelt field Thursday night when he suddenly decided to start his homeward flight in the face of adverse weather conditions. He arrived at the field shortly before 7 p. m., and half an hour later was shooting away to the southwest, fighting for altitude.

He had reports from Washington and other points, however, which convinced him the flight was feasible, he said. Immediately after his, monoplane slid over the horizon, the little crowd of watchers at the field was driven to cover by a severe storm. Lightning and hard rain which was reported as general in this section aroused fears for the flier's safety, but no field reported his landing.

Little Uneasiness

At dawn, when he was due in Galveston, there still was no report from the silver craft in which Carranza had started for his native capital—a flight which was to have ended in a great triumphal welcome at Mexico City.

Because of Carranza's great skill, there was no great uneasiness on the part of officials either in the United States or Mexico, although it was unusual that he would not have been sighted at some point.

Then late today a terrified berry picker rushed into the police station at Burlington to report he had stumbled upon the body of a flier and a wrecked airplane. In his terror, Carr had not investigated and could offer no clue to the identity of the victim.

Body Identified

A police party started for the scene and half an hour later notified police headquarters here that the body had been identified as that of Carranza.

His body was taken to the Central Railroad of New Jersey station at Chatsworth, in Burlington county. Chatsworth is near Sandy Ridge where the machine was wrecked. Colonel Kump, commanding officer at Fort Monmouth, started for the scene to investigate the accident.

Sandy Ridge, where the monoplane fell, is eight miles southwest of Chatsworth, in Burlington county. A bog affords excellent territory for berries and pickers often visit it. The plane had plunged into the midst of a little wilderness of bushes and trees and was not near the highway.

Probably the wrecked craft would have gone unnoticed for days had not Carr and his wife and mother sought berries in that particular area today. They came upon the body at about the same time, but were too terrified to investigate. They rushed to Chatsworth and summoned men at a garage.

"I nearly stepped on an aviator," Carr cried. "His plane is up in a tree!"

Face Mutilated

The garage men called police at Burlington, and Carr guided them to the scene of the accident.

Capt. Carranza's face was mutilated, his leather jacket and trousers were torn to shreds and burned.

A parachute, unopened, was found in the cockpit indicating Carranza had held the stick and battled to right his plane until the final moment of the rumbling downward plunge which ended a flight which was to have led to triumph and acclaim.

Parts of the broken wings were charred as though the plane had been burning while in the air.

Limbs and tops of trees were broken off for a distance of more than a quarter of a mile where the silver monoplane had been crushed under the driving rain and had roared downward to a fatal crash.

When Carranza's body was brought here, it was discovered that a flashlight had been found in his right hand. The force of the fall had drived the flashlight against his wrist and broken several bones in his arm. His skull was crushed and both legs were broken.

A roll of new bank notes in his pocket had been cracked—not ripped—by the force of the crash.

Mexico Grieved

MEXICO CITY, July 13. (US)—Mexico was plunged into despair tonight at the news of the tragic death of Captain Emilio Carranza, its premier airman.

Premonitions of disaster grew stronger as the hours passed without news of the flier, and 15 minutes before word was received of the finding of his body and the wreckage of his plane, his mother called at a local newspaper office. Learning that there was no word of him, she said:

"I always have feared that death would overtake Emilio on one of his flights. I am sure, that this time, he has met his end."

Official and unofficial Mexico joined the bereaved mother in sorrow when the tragic tidings finally came. President Calles and Ambassador Morrow both spoke feelingly of his loss. The president in a formal statement said:

"From the bottom of my heart, I lament the tragedy of Captain Carranza, which I atribute to fatality and the fury of the elements.

"With absolute confidence in the skill of its pilots, the Mexican government has faith in the complete success of the flight from Mexico City to Havana which soon will be undertaken by Lieutenant Colonel Roberto Fierre."

Mr. Morrow said:

"I am greatly shocked. The people of the United States will share the sorrow of the people of Mexico over the death of this gallant officer."

CANDIDATES IN SPEAKING FEST

Time Limit Holds Down Ardor of Talks

one of my opponents was Dr. Graves they turned away and laughed. Mr. Swanson is running on the qualifications of being 40 years old.

"You people don't know what I am sacrificing in dignity to run against these two," he concluded.

Dr. Joseph Graves was not present.

The third candidate for representative, F. G. Swanson, declared that he, "unlike my young opponent, am not attempting to compete with Will Rogers," and declared himself to favor an elimination of personal property taxes and the taxation basis on land values."

Love Fest, Too

The race for county attorney, hitherto a whirlwind of accusations, resolved itself into a lovefest with each of the four candidates complimenting the other three on their abilities. Bill Davenport characterized Wayne Somerville as "an excellent gentleman, well qualified," W. E. Wilson as a "capitalist," and Bob Crain as "a wealthy young bachelor, who doesn't need the job."

Mr. Davenport drew the rather friendly fire of his opponents.

"Mr. Davenport has asserted that he is not radical," Robert K. Crain said. "I have never seen an insane man who admitted it; I have never seen a drunk man who said he was drunk. I wonder if the parallel cannot be drawn further."

"Every time Bill Davenport makes one of these talks," said W. E. Wilson, "I go to my office next morning to find it crowded with people trying to get me to pay past due bills. I ought to sue him for libel."

Wayne Somerville, the fourth candidate for county attorney, submitted his record in a campaign for re-election. "It's a god record," he said, "good enough for me and Bob Crain both to use."

M. A. Bundy, candidate for re-election, submitted his record as county commissioner from precinct one. J. L. Mears, his opponent, offered a platform of tax reduction.

Mrs. W. W. Gardner, seeking the office of county treasurer, stressed her ability and her need for the office. T. W. McHam, running for re-election, spoke briefly of his record, reminding his hearers that he was the only county official to pass the 10-year audit without owing the county.

J. A. Hood, who didn't get mixed in the Bryant-Wofford debate, asked for election as county school superintendent on a record of 17 years' experience.

Experience Stressed

Mark Banta, Robert S. Dunaway, B. L. Trevathan, Everett Hughes, N. A. Moore and Max Shumate, candidates for county tax assessor, all stressed experience in assessment work in asking for election.

Harry Bunnenberg and Judge P. A. Martin, candidates for judgeship of the 89th district court, expressed mutual admiration and approbation.

Mr. Bunnenberg asked for the office because he felt that being younger he could "speed things up" and Judge Martin asked for the office because he was older and more experienced.

The qualifications for county judge, whether the man elected should be a lawyer or a business man, formed the issue between P. B. Curd, E. W. Nicholson and John P. Marrs. Judge Nicholson and Mr. Marrs are lawyers. Mr. Curd is a business man, and was water commissioner for four years.

The talks in most instances were short and the meeting had disbanded before 11 o'clock.

ON THE SPOT

Mrs. Wilmans Addresses Crowd Attracted By Childress Fire

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 13.—Making the most out of an opportunity, Mrs. Edith E. Wilmans, woman candidate for governor, made herself ready for an impromptu address here this afternoon, when a blazing automobile and the roars of the fire trucks attracted a substantial crowd.

She was passing through the city on the way to Chillicothe. Calling the crowd together after the fire had been extinguished Mrs. Wilmans presented her claims for the executive office.

SECOND GROUP AT HOUSTON SCHOOL

Group No. 2 of the Wichita county and district candidates delivered their campaign speeches Friday night at Sam Houston school building to a crowd of about 200 voters which finally dwindled to around a dozen voters before the meeting closed.

Speeches were limited to 10 minutes which occupied so much time that the candidates for judge of county court-at-law, district clerk, constable of precinct No. 1, and justice of peace of precinct No. 1, were not able to deliver their talks.

Very little mud slinging was done. E. Van Deventer, candidate for representative, aroused great interest when he challenged his opponents to rise and give their attitude toward bills concerning the liquor laws and tax bills.

John Humphrey presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers.

The candidates spoke as follows:

For District Attorney

W. L. Scott: "In selecting your district attorney I believe that you will choose a man who is qualified and who will enforce the law."

E. F. Fruechte: "I am basing my campaign on the ground of ability and I believe that I am both experienced and capable of serving you."

Sam B. Spence: "I have worked all my life and I believe that I am still capable of working, that is why I am asking you to elect me."

Mrs. John B. Rhea spoke in behalf of her husband, who is ill, giving a summary of his personal life.

For Tax Collector

Guy C. Raley: "I have pitched my campaign far above low, slimy, mud slinging politics and I ask re-election on my record in office alone."

Arthur C. Howard: "I am not out to sling mud, but I will not ask for a third term in the office if I am fortunate enough to serve you two terms."

For Sheriff

H. L. White: "I promise you a clean, honest administration and I hope you will consider me along that line."

W. G. Bralley: "I am in the office to collect criminals and not fees. I have decreased the number of crimes in this county and if you you think I have served you honestly and well, I ask you again for the office."

S. M. Spruiell: "I have nothing to say against my opponents. If they have made good records it is a monument in their honor. If they have not it does not add an ounce to my capability."

District Judge, 78th Court

H. F. Weldon: "I think that it is unwise for a man seeking a judicial position to make promises to the voters of convictions or acquittals but he should deal fairly to the state, every man and the defendant."

Ben P. Allred: "I enter into no agreement as to how I shall run the court, but I do promise the voters that I will try the cases, enforce the law and dispatch justice."

George Smoot: "I think that cases should be set down and given speedy trials with fair dealings and impartial trial to all."

W. W. Cook: "I am sure that when cases are before the judge and jury that you do not want snap judgments but that you desire ample time and consideration of all the facts."

Representative, District No. 113

A. V. Grant: "The legislature is the board of directors of the state. Therefore, the voters should choose the best men possible to sit in it. I know of no law that should be made but I know of a great many that should be abolished or changed."

Cecil Story: "You cannot be too careful in selecting the man to represent you. This may apply to me but I think that with my experience I am able to serve you."

E. Van Deventer: "I will support the Democratic ticket, but I am a prohibitionist, and, if Al Smith repudiates the Houston platform I think the people of the south are justified in repudiating Al Smith."

CRASHES TAKE TOLL OF DEAD

Plane Accidents in Texas Claim Lives

HOUSTON, July 13. (AP)—V. W. Barnette, 28, field manager and an emergency pilot for the Texas Air transport, holders of the air mail contract in Texas, was killed today when his plane crashed at the Houston airport.

Pilots at the field were unable to assign a reason for the crash. Barnette, they said, had gone up for a pleasure spin and the plane an OX-5 similar to the air mail planes, was in good order when he left the ground.

Barnette came to Houston recently from Dallas. He is survived by his widow.

Three at Del Rio

DEL RIO, Texas, July 13. (UP)—A pilot and two passengers were killed here today when their plane went into a tailspin at an altitude of 250 feet and crashed on a downtown street, barely missing a pedestrian and bursting into flames. Those killed: Earl Parker, Texas City, pilot; Max Weinberg, Boston; Ralph Green, Galveston.

Two Killed Instantly

WABASH, Ind., July 13. (AP)—Two men were killed instantly when their mono-coupe airplane went into a nose dive and crashed into the ground about a mile north of here this afternoon. The men were Charles Wenrick of Wabash, pilot, and Lloyd Keister of North Manchester, Ind.

State Ends Testimony In Kentucky Slaying

KARNES CITY, Texas, July 13. (AP)—The state concluded its testimony this afternoon in the trial of Norman Lunday for murder in connection with the killing of E. B. Bowen, night watchman, at Kennedy three weeks ago.

State's attorneys introduced only five witnesses, three of them said to be eye witnesses.

COLONEL SCREWS LEADS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 13. (UP) Col. William Screws, Baltimore, in charge of national guard affairs on the third corps area, is the leading aspirant to the presidency of the Rainbow division, holding its tenth annual convention here.

Colonel Screws formerly was in command of the 167th infantry of Alabama.

WOOD REACHES L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 13. (INS)—Approximately 1,000 points ahead of Capt. Frank M. Hawks, his nearest competitor, John P. Wood, flying a Waco biplane, today retained first place in the Edsel Ford reliability tour.

Negro Sends Threat to Sue

state executive committee of Texas have fixed a qualification of voters in the coming Democratic primary election to be held on July 28, 1928, so as to allow only white Democratic voters and none others to participate, which will unquestionably prohibit me, a duly qualified voter and taxpayer, but a negro, in aiding the selection, not only of the county, district and state officers, but also electors for president, vice-president, congressman and senators of the United States.

You may be acting under chapter 67, first called session of the fortieth legislature, which was passed to avoid the decision in the case of Nixon vs. Herndon, 273, U. S. 536, by which case I tried to get the right to vote guaranteed to every citizen under the constitution of the United States. The courts of Texas have held that a Democratic primary in Texas is equivalent to an election.

Demands Participation

Now, on behalf of myself, and the other duly qualified negro Democratic voters of the state of Texas, I respectfully demand that you and the members of the Democratic executive committee of the state of Texas, amend your instructions so as to allow me, and all other qualified Democratic voters to participate in the primary, or we will be compelled to enforce our rights in the federal court under Revised Statutes sections 2004, 1979, 1980, which we think makes you personally liable, and in case we are denied the right to vote, I will file suit against you individually for damages caused by preventing me from exercising my right of franchise.

Claims Constitution Violated

I make this demand on behalf of myself and the other qualified negro voters, because the right is guaranteed us under the constitution of the United States, and because I believe that the act of the legislature of the state of Texas, passed at the first called session, as chapter 67, is void, and in violation of the constitution of the United States.

You of course understand that we dislike to do anything of this sort, and feel that your regulation is arbitrary and in violation of the law, and deprives the Democratic negroes in Texas of a very valuable right, and hope that you will amend your regulations so that we may vote in the primary.

Yours very truly,
L. A. NIXON.

Mr. Francis' reply to Nixon's letter, follows:

Wichita Falls, Texas, July 13, 1928.
L. A. Nixon,
El Paso, Texas.

I received your letter of July 7, 1928, requesting that the Democratic executive committee allow you to participate in the ensuing primary wherein the Texas Democrats are selecting their candidates for state and national offices.

While I did not attend the meeting at Waco at which this qualification was fixed, I believe that the committee acted in accordance with the provisions of the Texas law which was enacted pursuant to the decision of the United States supreme court in the Nixon case.

The Republican party of this state, aided by a few disgruntled Democrats, will doubtless be glad to have your cooperation and assistance in selecting their state and national candidates, as was true in the case of their selection of candidates for president and vice president. The Republican party in its platform and through its presidential nominee has made a bid for negro support, and it may be that the Republican policies are more in line with your ideas of government than are those of the Democratic party in Texas.

CHAS. I. FRANCIS.

ADOLPHE MENJOU

The gentleman on the right is Adolphe Menjou, the incomparable philanderer; the purveyor, par excellence, of smooth and dulcet entertainment for the bright minds of those who sit in dark places and gaze at the illuminated sheet; whose acting never promotes a pain in the neck, and whose eyebrows, collectively and individually, are the most significant features of the sophisticated screen.

Menjou makes a specialty of portraying waiters who look more like counts than counts look like themselves. Says he's a 9-o'clock man in the midnight film colony—always in bed by 9 a. m.

Here's his favorite line of guff:

"I've a very wealthy friend here in Hollywood," he told me, "a director who recently built a $1,000,000 residence. He invited me out one evening to look the place over.

"He was showing me the appliances and conveniences of each room when finally, we reached the master bedroom.

"'I had the place built so that I wouldn't have to go to the bathroom in order to take a bath,' he explained. 'There's a special arrangement whereby I can just touch a button by the side of my dresser and the bathtub runs in here beside the bed—already filled with water.

"'It's much warmer and so much more convenient. Let me show you—it's really quite simple.' So he pressed the button and the bathtub glided in.

"It had water in it, all right, and, to his dismay—his wife!"

SPUDDERS BUNT AND BAT WIN BEHIND STEENGRAFE'S HURLING

MILT TURNS IN 6 TO 1 VICTORY

Galloway's Varied Attack Bewilders Exporters

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Following the hectic two games with the Houston Buffs, our Spudders took it easy yesterday. Thanks to some superb chucking by Milt Steengrafe and timely hitting Jim Galloway's men captured the opener of the series from the Beaumont Exporters.

The score of 6 to 1, however, might indicate that it was rather a rout. Which it wasn't, at least, not for seven innings. The Spudders scored two runs in the second after the Exporters tallied in the first inning and it was anybody's ball game from there on, with no further markers until the eighth when Darrough became unsteady after hurling a fair brand of ball and Eberhard, the rescuer, was no better.

Spuds Mix Attack

The Spudders deviated from their usual play, and that of about all ball clubs, in the amazing frequent and successful employment of the bunt. It seemed until yesterday that bunting was a lost art. But the Spudders tapped, tapped, tapped, sometimes for base hits, on other occasions for sacrifices. Players who never could bunt before found they could bunt yesterday. Poor Darrough was running around in circles trying to field the flock of taps, taps and more taps. A high wind was blowing in against the batters, making the frequent use of bunts the proper play.

Mixing up an attack, with straightaway hitting and bunting, such as the Spudders employed yesterday, will have opposing clubs in the air. It wasn't so much that they won yesterday, but the fact that they resorted with such excellent effect to a bunting game when the situation arose, that indicates the Spudders will be a mighty tough bunch to beat from now on. It's been many a year since I've seen a minor league club, and even a major loop nine, bunt as well as the Spudders did yesterday. Give Jim Galloway, resourceful, fighting leader, credit for that.

Tom Jenkins, the mighty slugger, crossed the opposition by beating out two bunts. Rabbit Benton beat out one. Turgeon bunted twice to sacrifice and Benton once.

Benton had a perfect day at bat, with three hits in as many times up. Jenkins banged another hard knock for a safety in addition to his two bunts. Eldred and Lapan each helped the old average with two smashes.

Steen Hurls 5-Hit Ball

Steengrafe limited the hostiles to five hits, two of which they bunched in the first inning for their run. He kept the other blows scattered over as many rounds and except in the fourth, when he temporarily lost control and passed two consecutive batters, held the enemy safe.

The Spudders made three hits count for a brace of runs in the second inning but though they made six more blows, including two in the sixth, did not score again until the eighth.

Darrough yielded all the Spudders' 11 hits and is charged with the six runs, two of which were on base when Eberhard went to the hill. Darrough is charged with the defeat.

Spuds in Second Place

The victory enabled the Spudders to go into second place, a game ahead of the San Antonio Bears. We still are half a game back of the pace-setting Houston Buffs.

Two hits and an error, the only Spudder misplay, enabled the Exporters to tally their lone run in the first inning. Marshall was safe on Swenson's error after one was out. Kirkham singled to center, Marshall, with heads-up base-running, going to third. Bagwell doubled to left, Marshall scoring.

The Spudders scored twice in the second. Swenson doubled to left with one out. Marshall fumbled Stanton's grounder, Swenson going to third and Buck was safe at first. Lapan singled to right, Swenson scoring and Stanton reaching third. Steengrafe tifted to Bagwell, Stanton scoring.

Four runs were scored by Galloway's Ten Gallons in the eighth. Eldred led off with a singled to deep short. Jenkins bunted and beat it out for the second time. Eldred going to second. Darrough threw the ball away on a peg to third on Swenson's bunt, Eldred and Jenkins scoring and Wally going to third. Stanton walked. Eberhard relieved Darrough. Lapan and Steengrafe strolled. Swenson ambling home. Benton's hoist to Kirkham scored Stanton.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM IS NAMED

Tilden and Three Others Seek to Regain Trophy

PARIS, July 13. (UP)—The personnel of the United States Davis cup team for the interzone final at Paris July 20, 21 and 22 was announced by William T. Tilden, II, captain of the team, today as follows:

Frances T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y.

John Hennessey, Indianapolis.

George Lott, Chicago.

William T. Tilden II, Philadelphia.

William F. Coen Jr., 16-year-old Kansas City boy, who aws taken abroad with the team, was not selected for the interzone matches.

Tilden declined to name his partner for the doubles until Wednesday. Meanwhile, Tilden is trying out each man as a possible partner.

Tilden paired with Hunter in the Wimbledon championships in which they were beaten by the Australians, Gerald Patterson and J. B. Hawkes. They also paired together in the Davis cup final against France last year, defeating Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon.

The United States will meet the winner of the Italy-Czecho-Slovakia tie which opened at Milan, Italy, today, each team winning one match.

The winner of the interzone final will meet France in the challenge round at Paris, July 27, 28 and 29.

Lancer was the first horse to fall. Be Still, on which McTague was directly behind, went down, followed by Cartago.

Boganowsky and Butler were taken to a hospital.

Runyon Says Fight Will Go Limit With Gene Winning Close Decision

Damon Accords Heeney More of Chance Than Given by Most Scribes; Possibility of Draw Looms

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

NEW YORK, July 13.—Possibly because my nature is more optimistic in hot weather than some of my confederates, I seem to be giving the old Rock of Down Under, Thomas Heeney, more of a chance against Mister Gene Tunney than the average sports writer.

I rather look for the battle to go the full 15 rounds, with the referee, possibly Mr. Louie Magnolia, and the judges, perhaps Messrs. Charles F. Mathison and George Kelly, getting together on a verdict in favor of Mr. Tunney.

I expect to see Mister Tunney taking no more than eight rounds by any considerable margin. Thomas Heeney ought to split the remaining seven with old friend even. I mean to say, he ought to win four or five rounds, leaving the others a tossup.

But then perhaps it's just the heat that makes me this way.

I anticipate something of an argument over the merit of the decision. There are always a lot of chaps around after a fight eager to say, "Well, the worst he oughta had is a draw."

A draw wouldn't get Thomas Heeney much, because, under the injustice of these times, a champion remains champion when they call it a draw. He doesn't have to split his title with the contender, which is very strange, at that, when you think of it.

Once Is Enough

A return match, you suggest. Well, I doubt if the clients will be eager to see Mister Tunney and Thomas Heeney go another 15 rounds after they go their 15 rounds on July 26.

Of course, there is the possibility that if Thomas Heeney should acquire a draw, he may fall heir to Mister Tunney's title. They say Mister Tunney is to retire after this one. "The kid's last fight," you understand. All who believe that will kindly stand on their heads.

Mister Tunney will retire at that moment when they all retire, which is to say when it finally dawns upon his extreme intelligence that he can't fight any more. I doubt that this will be after the battle on July 26. I doubt it even more while considering the possibility of Thomas Heeney winning the "Duke," or decision, as we say at the club.

Mister Tunney will be so mortified, and chagrined at losing his title to a good old ale inhaler like Thomas Heeney that he will probably go before the American Legion and get it to support an act of congress requiring Thomas Heeney to fight him again before the following Tuesday for the title.

And yet "can happen," as the Chinks say.

Thomas Heeney, for all his 30 years, is no punch soggy old war horse like Jack Dempsey, with a pair of spongy legs under him. He is a very rugged gent.

Little Chance for K. O.

The reader will observe that I seem to dismiss rather lightly the possibility of a knockout of Thomas Heeney by Mister Tunney, or of a knockout of Mister Tunney by Thomas Heeney.

That is because neither are knockers-out, or knocker-outs, as the case may be. Thomas Heeney is less of a puncher than Mr. Tunney. Thomas Heeney knocked out Edward James Maloney, of Boston, 'tis true, but I am informed that at the moment Thomas Heeney let fly that punch at Edward James, someone opened a side door of Madison Square garden, and a big breeze blew in off the street, which may have had as much to do with the wafting over of Edward James as Thomas Heeney's wallop.

Mister Tunney has knocked out a number of citizens, including Thomas Gibbons, and M. Georges Carpentier, but without going too deeply into detail on the Gibbons matter, it took him until late at night to knock out M. Georges. I would say that Thomas Heeney is tougher than any of the lads that Mister Tunney knocked out in the past four or five years, anyway.

I wish to make it clear, however, that I allow for Mister Tunney having improved. He is a clean living chappy, and has done nothing to undermine his constitution aside from reading a little more Shakespeare than is good for a man. He has prepared himself very carefully for this battle in many ways, and he is champion of the world. This last counts more than you might think.

Tunney Skillful

For all his attitudinizing outside the ring, Mister Tunney is a first-class ringman when he crawls inside those ropes. He affects to despise the boxing game and everyone connected with it, but nonetheless he knows how to fight.

He is a great boxer, especially a great defensive boxer. He apparently wasn't the gamest fellow in the world when he started, but gameness in fighters is often a mere matter of experience. As a matter of fact, Mister Tunney's apparent lack of gameness may have been due largely to his sense of caution. He has all the fighting heart he needs now.

It would probably be a good thing for the boxing game, if anything is good for the boxing game, if Mister Tunney lost his title to Thomas Heeney July 26, in view of Mister Tunney's frequently expressed disapproval of the game and his aloofness therefrom. But that isn't apt to have any bearing on the result of the battle. The most unpopular champions have always been the hardest men to beat.

The fact that Thomas Heeney is Mister Tunney's personal nominee for the office of contender may argue that Mister Tunney has had a peek at Thomas, but those personal selections are the most dangerous. A personal selection in a case of this kind almost invariably turns out to be sharper than a serpent's tooth in nibbling the hands that feeds him.

The odds of 3 to 1 against Thomas Heeney are out of line.

I make him about 7 to 5.

Yes, it really must be the heat.

OLYMPIC TRACK MEN WORKOUT

Attack On Paddock Puzzles Athletes, MacArthur Says

By FRANK GETTY

ABOARD THE S. S. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, July 13. (UP)—Members and officials of the United States Olympic team headed for the Olympiad at Amsterdam were perplexed today over the criticism from home of the selection of Charley Paddock as a member of the track and field team.

Declaring that no evidence had ever been introduced to show that Paddock was anything but an amateur, Major General Douglas MacArthur, president of the American Olympic committee, said:

Morale Unaffected

"The United States team is puzzled over this sudden attack from home just as sailing for foreign shores. These fine young Americans don't understand this sniping from the rear, but the morale of the team is as yet unaffected. They appear serene and confident and feel intuitively that this criticism is not representative of the country and that America's heart is with every one of her representatives."

The track team took its first workout on the ship track today. Members of all of the other teams limbered up and at one time or another every athlete took part in some sort of workout.

Transportation for Stowaways

Hugo Leistner, hurdler, and Frank Hussey, sprinter and member of the 1924 team, who attempted to stowaway on the boat, have been released from custody after transportation had been provided for them by friends.

The only unexpected activity has been Major General MacArthur's reply to the criticism made public in New York by General Palmer Pierce of the Intercollegiate association relative to Paddock's selection.

The sea is very calm and there have been no cases thus far of seasickness. The heat, however, is intense.

Former Longhorns Play On Texas League Clubs

DALLAS, Texas, July 13. (AP)—Both members of one of the greatest keystone combinations ever boasted by the Texas university Longhorns are playing shortstop for Texas league teams this season.

Heinie Odom, filling the shortfield for the Beaumont Exporters, and Walter "Flop" Kibbie, star of the Fort Worth Panther inner works, were important factors in winning two or three Southwest conference flags for Coach Billy Disch's teams. Odom played second base for the Longhorns.

Morgan and Martin Try To Fight Again Tonight

NEW YORK, July 13. (UP)—For the sixth time Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy will attempt to stage the 15-round junior lightweight title match between Tod Morgan of Seattle, Wash., and Eddie (Cannonball) Martin of Brooklyn, former bantamweight champion, at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, Saturday night. The weatherman has interfered with all of the previous attempts to stage the bout. Morgan remains an 8 to 5 favorite.

WASHINGTON, July 13. (UP)—The Washington Senators have purchased Joe Cronin, 21-year-old infielder from the Kansas City Blues, while Pitcher Fred Sheridan has been released on option to Walter Johnson's Newark Bears.

Cronin may not be brought here until early fall. He had a reputation for heavy hitting with the Utah-Idaho league last year.

DAILY DOPE
By Larry Dailey

WHEN BALL PLAYERS resort to fists to settle arguments it is indicated that regardless of whether it is viewed as "rowdyism" or not, they are out there fighting to win, with their heart in the game. I don't approve of fistic clashes of diamond athletes. Still, I confess to holding admiration for the lads who will do battle. There is enough of hand-shaking and indifferent ball playing, and the chaps who throw all their energy into the game, even to the point of engaging in a fistic battle, are to be admired if the provocation is there.

◆ ◆ ◆

There is a limit to such affairs, however, and I think the Buffs and Spudders have engaged in about all the melees necessary to show they're fighting. I think the managers of the respective clubs and the umpires should stress the fact that two fights in a season proves beyond question that the boys haven't any love for the other teams and that further fights WILL smack of rowdyism.

◆ ◆ ◆

IT SEEMS THAT batters always have played on Houston clubs. I can recall back when I was a schoolboy at Oklahoma City, some 15 or so years ago, that the Buffs always were good for a scrap. That was in the days when Hunter Hill was manager and J. Doak Roberts and Otto Sens owners. Hunter was a fine ball player and a scrapper. He surrounded himself with fighters, too, one of whom was Pat Newman, who later managed the Buffs. I saw some hectic affairs on the ball field back in those days when Hill and Newman and their crowd fought poor old Doc Andrews and George Kelsey and others of the Oklahoma City club, who were as willing and ready to fight as the Buffs.

◆ ◆ ◆

DEL PRATT may manage the Chicago White Sox. Irving Vaughan, a baseball writer for the Chicago Tribune, in The Sporting News intimates that Del could have the job for the asking. Indeed, Vaughan goes so far as to hint that Pratt may succeed Lena Blackburn, who stepped in as boss of the Hose when Schalk "resigned." Even if he were tendered the Chicago post it is doubtful whether Pratt would accept. In addition to drawing a substantial salary as playing manager of the Waco Cubs, Del is understood to own a block of stock and to receive a tidy percentage of the sale of every player. Except for the advancement as a big league manager, the uncertainty of leading the Sox would not be as attractive as the job at Waco, which is apparently a most lucrative and permanent job.

◆ ◆ ◆

The Wichita Falls and Beaumont clubs, now engaging in a series here, boast young shortstops of great promise. Scouts have followed Ed Roetz the Spudder and Marshall the Exporter, and though neither may go up this year they are marked for careful future consideration. Roetz' hitting, of course, has been the magnet for the ivory hunters. His fielding has been erratic. A tendency to "fight the ball" and to take his eye off the ball just before reaching for it, doubtless in his eagerness to make the play, must be curbed before he is a dependable fielder. But those are faults of inexperience and can be eradicated.

◆ ◆ ◆

MARSHALL HAD ABOUT the same weakness as Roetz when the season started—over-eagerness. But he has about overcome such tendencies and is to be regarded as a likely lad. Petrie, the 22-year-old outfielder, however, seems to be the best Beaumont prospect. He seems to be a natural hitter, which with fielding and base running skill, including judgment and speed, tend to make him a most valuable athlete.

Sandlot Tossers Will Play Today

Wichita Falls Team Meets Sweetwater Nine

The Wichita Falls Longhorns, champions of the junior city league, will play the champion junior league team of Sweetwater at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the district elimination series which is a part of the nation-wide eliminations for the American Legion junior league championship.

Under the leadership of C. C. Frazee, the boys left Wichita Falls in automobiles Friday for Sweetwater, where they arrived Friday morning.

Money for their expenses on the trip was provided by the Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion and by the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

District, state and east-west championships will precede the national championship game which will be played at San Antonio in October during the national American Legion convention.

MAT AND RING CARD TUESDAY

Parelli Grapples Kopecky In Ball Park Windup

A rough and tough time for all principals present Tuesday night in Spudder park at the presentation of wrestlers and boxers is promised by Alec Ross, who has arranged the card.

The "headliners" on the card will be Joe Parelli and Joe Kopecky, in a finish wrestling match under New York commission rules. Both in past performances in Wichita Falls have manifested that they do not mind "roughing it up."

Two 10-round boxing bouts have been carded by Ross.

Jack Matlock and Ted Lewis will step around the ring for 10 stanzas. Both of the mitt pushers are rated as top notcher-sluggers and are "out to win," according to Ross.

Dempse Moore will hook up with Seaman Bentley. Moore won his way to the top of amateur boxers in the United States and recently turned professional. Bentley is rated as being as clever a boxer as Moore and fast on his feet and he has announced to Ross that he will make it a "fast 10 rounds" for Moore.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Renewal of realizing or liquidation in the cotton market today caused a further decline in prices of nearly $1.50 a bale which carried the market below the low points touched after the government acreage report last Monday. October contracts sold off to 21.52, a net decline of 39 points and a break of 135 points from the high level touched toward the end of last month, and closed at 21.65. The general market closed barely steady, at net declines of 24 to 28 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 13 to 19 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, with some selling, apparently on private reports of rains in West Texas. Early offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying, said to be partly for Liverpool and continental account, but demand was supplied on very moderate bulges, and prices worked off to net losses of 2 to 25 points during the forenoon.

Pressure subsided somewhat around the 21½-cent level for December, and the mid-day market steadied up on covering, combined with trade or commission house buying on prospects for further showers in the eastern belt, and the official detailed weather reports which did not show as much rain in the west as some early sellers had anticipated.

July advanced from 21.45 to 21.58, or within 10 points of yesterday's closing quotation, while December sold up from 21.50 to 21.70, or within 3 points of Thursday's close. Business, however, tapered off on this advance, and the failure of bullish features to have a more stimulating effect on demand appeared to discourage holders of contracts. At any rate, there was a renewal of liquidation by recent buyers and some stop orders were uncovered as prices worked under the low levels touched at the beginning of the week. Their execution sent the price of December off to 21.33, while July sold down to 21.30, net declines of about 34 to 40 points on the general list.

Selling slackened at these figures and last prices showed rallies of 10 or 13 points from the lowest on covering and trade buying.

Port receipts today 5,809 bales. U. S. Port stocks 756,377. Exports, 9,865, making 7,618,673 so far this season.

Futures closed barely steady, 24 to 28 points lower. Spot quiet; middling 21.95.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 13. (AP)—Business was light in the cotton market today and although the official forecast promised rain in the eastern portion of the belt where moisture is considered detrimental to the crop, the general trend of prices was downward. The lows of the session were reached in the final trading when active liquidation by recent buyers forced October contracts down to 21.06, compared with 21.33, the day's high, and 21.36 at yesterday's close. The option closed at 21.06 with the general market steady, 30 to 38 points net lower.

The opening was easy in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables, first trades showing losses of 11 points. The market continued to ease off after the start, the decline being aided by private reports of rain in the western drought section and bearish British board of trade returns. October traded off to 21.13 and December to 21.10, or 22 to 23 points under the previous close.

When the weather map failed to confirm the early rain reports, the demand increased and was further stimulated by the official forecast for rain in the eastern portion of the belt, where it is not needed. Before the buying had subsided October had recovered to 21.33 and December to 21.29, or 19 to 20 points up from the lows.

After mid-session the market weakened again under a renewal of liquidation by recent buyers, based on the more favorable character of crop reports from the interior. Reports of rains in the western drought section helped the easiness. Before the offerings were absorbed all months had slumped to new lows for the day with October at 20.96 and December at 20.91, or 40 to 41 points net down. The market closed a few points above the bottom.

Dealing in Stocks Light as Rally Follows Easing Call Money Rate

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, July 13.—Easing in the call money rate from renewal of 7½ to closing of 6 per cent rallied the stock market today. Dealings were light and advances were small in most instances. The advance in the rediscount rate to 5 per cent caused weakness at the opening but bull leaders threw in support and outstanding liquidation was stemmed quickly. There was only a small amount of short calling by professionals so that Durant and other leaders were able to keep the market firm by advertising again with General Motors.

Motors recovered 2¾ points, Steel 1¼, Montgomery Ward 3⅞, Texas & Pacific 7 and Wabash 1⅝. It was funds from out of town, attracted here by Thursday's high call rate, that brought the 6 per cent closing.

All European currencies dropped lower in response to the advance in the rediscount rate here. Week-end realizing, enhanced by bearish weather advices, caused weakness in cotton, wheat and other commodities.

While the stock market rallied, the bond market did not and all Liberties and other high grade investments sold to new lows for the year. The first sign that the credit situation has been corrected to an extent to warrant an upward price trend in securities will be given by the bond market.

None knows just the extent that bonds go to make up the brokers' loans total, but it is known that dealers have a good supply of new issues on their shelves and that some recent syndicates still hold the bag.

Institutions now do not want to buy any short term obligations at all, and even the long term issues are going extremely slow because of the change in money conditions.

Before the bond situation can improve, the stock market must be stabilized and quieted and then the new investment market must be liquidated before the banking powers will approve another "bull market."

The strength of General Motors was taken as evidence that the Durant group has not "quit" and still labors under the belief that it can coax the public back into the market in a big way, despite the obvious tightness in money conditions. However, the group did not have as much success with its pool stocks as it did in General Motors. According to one brokerage report the reason therefor was the important group liquidation going on under cover of the strength of Motors.

The recovery in the railroads was of better appearance than that in the industrials for in addition to the improved outlook the carrier stocks were not exploited to the same degree as were most industrials during the recent bull orgy that necessitated the present corrective measures in the money market.

Texas & Pacific's skyrocketing was accomplished on comparatively light buying because of the scarcity of the stock available for the market. Missouri Pacific's advance resulted from renewed operations by those expecting settlement of back dividends before the end of the year. The St. Paul shares which were quietly absorbed during recent irregularity added fractionally to their gains.

Grain

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE
(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, July 13.—Softer and lower was the grain market for the greater part of today's session, and with three minor exceptions all the futures closed at prices below those of the day previous.

At the end wheat was down ⅝c to 1⅛c; corn was unchanged to ⅝c lower; oats were ⅛c higher to ⅛c off; rye was ⅛c higher to 1⅛c lower.

At the start wheat showed a slight flash of strength. As a flash it was comparable to a quickly extinguished match lighted on a rainy day. Later during the period of trading wheat showed another similar flash of strength.

The wheat market seems to have been well cleaned out. It may hang around at the present level or drop lower; but to sell wheat down here, after the big decline it has had does not appear to be wise trading. The trader need not buy it. He can for the present remain out of the market. That is what a good many traders are doing.

The corn situation is giving members of the board of trade plenty to think about. It is putting wrinkles on foreheads and whitening hair. Probably it will clarify itself before this month is out, and the readjustment of prices of the futures to what they really ought to be—whether much higher or much lower—may be startling.

Instead of delivering the surplus from time to time on July contracts, the elevators can hold this until the end of the month and then deliver it in volume. Thus bulls who were willing to take in corn and pay for it would have no chance to merchandise it until next month at the earliest.

If they wished to hedge the corn they got on July contracts, as they probably would have to do if they took in a lot of it, they would find themselves forced to hedge it in the September future at a discount under the July future of some 9c or perhaps more. If they hedged it in the December future their hedging disadvantage would be nearly twice as much more.

As always, the bulling of the tail-end of a crop because of a tight cash situation is dangerous. Oats, with an almost negligible visible supply, have showed that this year. At such times it invariably happens that more of the grain than anyone supposed was in existence comes to market from the farms.

To this writer corn looks like a very dangerous market to trade in at present.

DUN'S WEEKLY STATEMENT

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Dun's tomorrow will say: It remains a distinguishing feature that the normal summer contraction of business is less marked in some quarters now than is usual at this period. Conspicuous vigor in commercial operations invariably is the exception in mid-July, yet the volume in certain basic lines had been better sustained this month than was commonly expected. A few branches reflect activity that is not being experienced everywhere, but their bearing on the public purchasing power and on conditions generally is constructive. Sentiment has been favorably affected by a larger gain in unfilled steel orders than was anticipated, and the textile division discloses signs of additional gains. Continued high temperatures over much of the country naturally have quickened retail distribution of seasonable goods, reducing stocks and necessitating some buying for replenishment, and the latest report of railroad freight traffic makes a better comparison with the movement a year ago. The status of the principal crops, although disappointing in some respects, has improved recently, and nothing in the current agricultural or mercantile situation is analagous to the renewed depression in the stock market.

Weekly bank clearings $10,209,377,000 an increase of 10.7 per cent over a year ago.

Spots Show Little Strength at Close

Cotton was quoted at 21c by D. W. Wiley and at 20.85 by R. O. Harvey and company, local cotton brokers, Friday. The price is slightly lower than the opening at the beginning of the week. A midweek slump following general rains over the cotton belt was responsible for the drop. The trend at the last of the week was toward recovery.

Produce prices were only slightly changed with few additions to the market. Texas peaches, reaching the market late last week, registered a short drop.

OIL MEN ARE CHEERFUL NOW

Sweet Oil Demand Takes Better Turn

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., July 13.—One hundred and one new wells were begun the week just closing in Oklahoma and Kansas, 86 being in Oklahoma and 15 in Kansas. But if the corporation commission removes the lid on drilling in Little River, as reported, next week should see more than 150 in Oklahoma.

Midcontinent operators are generally optimistic over the future of oil, believing that the worst is over, and say that continued drawing of sweet oil storage is proof that the oil situation has turned the corner. Only the sour oil situation is still serious.

Magnolia Anti-Knock Gasoline Will Pull You Through

Powerful Even Burning Knockless

The Big Bend Country of Texas claims the affection of vacation motorists, who wish to leave the beaten trails, to escape the habits and amusements of city life and to glory in spectacular sunsets, towering mountains, bracing altitudes, long twilights and refreshing rest in crisp, cool nights. The person whose heart cries out for primitive joys beyond the range of the daily newspaper and the telephone; where traffic means less than a dozen cars a day, or none; where a man can be alone with nature and himself—that person can find a longed-for happiness in the Davis Mountain Country of West Texas.

The tourist can find in the Davis Mountains realms no man has mapped and few eyes have surveyed. It is the haunt of the wild deer, the bear and the ranging coyote. The graded highways pass, but do not explore its recesses. Mountain roads with steep grades, sudden turns and awe-inspiring panoramas give into it.

You will find Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline to be your best friend when you go exploring. It has that "something extra" for the long, heavy pull, extra power for the steepest grades and keeps your motor quiet and from over-heating.

Magnolia ANTI-KNOCK Gasoline is a Red gasoline, but all Red gasoline is not ANTI-KNOCK. Look for the Magnolia sign.

Zoning Committees of City Start Work On Program of Improvements

Committees are now at work preparing a tentative city zoning law for Wichita Falls following the organization meeting of the Wichita Falls zoning commission in the offices of the chamber of commerce Friday.

C. Y. Tully was named vice chairman of the committee, and Mrs. P. A. Welty was named temporary chairman. Walter S. Curlee is chairman of the commission which was named by the city council several weeks ago.

The present idea is to divide the city into a number of areas or "zones," each of which is named to designate in a general way its intended scope. These zones are: the single family zone, the multiple family zone, the retail business section, the warehouse and light manufacturing section and the heavy industrial section.

Race segregation, the keeping of nuisance industries outside of the city limits and similar problems also are a part of the work of the committee.

The chairman was asked to name a publicity committee. A resolution onthe death of W. E. Whightsel, a member of the commission, was passed.

Committees named include:

Residence streets, subdivisions of sidewalk spaces, street lighting, street signs, street corrections and extensions, billboards committee: J. W. Thomas, chairman; J. C. Barnard and C. Y. Tully.

Railroads, subways, new railroads, yards, union passenger station and street railways committee: B. D. Donnell, chairman; S. A. Covington and C. E. McCutchen.

Drainage and water supply, irrigation and subdivision committee: W. B. Hamilton, chairman; Dr. C. W. Stevenson and F. M. Rugeley.

Public buildings, parks and playgrounds, boulevard system, schools and school playgrounds committee: Dr. J. W. Cantwell, chairman, and Mrs. C. R. Hartsook.

Community centers, industrial and manufacturing sections committee: A. E. Kelly, chairman, and H. J. Awker.

Residences, hotels, duplexes and race segregation committee: J. Wilkie Talbert, chairman; Mrs. P. A. Weltey and Harry Naylor.

Woman Charges Her Husband "Common Bootlegger"

A Wichita Falls woman was awarded custody of her child, and her husband, now living in Schleicher county, was ordered to pay her $100 monthly alimony by Judge W. W. Cook in 78th district court Friday morning.

In the petition for custody of the child and for alimony, filed by R. E. Taylor, attorney for the woman, it was alleged that the man "is a common bootlegger and gambler and unfit to properly care for the child."

Warren Belcher, deputy sheriff, taking the stand, testified that he knew the man in question and that he was morally unfit to raise the child.

AIR EXPERTS GIVE TESTS

Federal Officials Here To License Pilots

Aviation was given another boost in Wichita Falls Friday evening when Robert I. Hazen and Ray B. Quick of the department of commerce, landed at the Wichita Falls municipal airport to give the first examinations for licenses to ships, pilots and mechanics.

The inspectors arrived from Dallas in a Stinson Detroiter biplane cabin ship. After a brief inspection of the field they went to their room at the Kemp hotel, where they commented on the excellence of Kell field, the absence of obstructions, its excellent location with regard to a paved highway, the good and large field marker and the ease with which they had found the field.

"They told us in Dallas that the field was just a little to the north and east of the city, and we had no trouble at all in finding it," Mr. Hazen said.

"We are here to examine ships for licenses, if there are any," he continued. "We also are ready to give fliers and mechanics their examinations for pilot's licenses, so that anyone wishing examinations may get in connection with us. We will be glad to give all the assistance possible."

Chester Bales, local pilot, was the first to take advantage of the opportunity to take the examination for a pilot's license. He went to the Kemp Friday night and spent several hours working over the written part of the examination. He had already passed the physical tests. Saturday or Sunday he will have his flying tests.

LODGE ROOMS READY

Furniture in the new lodge rooms of Wichita Falls lodge No. 635 A. F. and A. M. has been installed in the Masonic temple and only a few fixtures remain to be placed.

The building and finance committee met Friday afternoon and discussed the completion of the new rooms. A formal opening will probably be held within the next few days.

Weeks Conferring With Land Owners

Conferences between Charles Weeks, the agricultural committee of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce and landholders of the Wichita irrigated valley continued Friday and probably will continue for several days, it was learned from Hubert Harrison, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Friday evening.

"They are working on details of the colonization plan and on the terms of Mr. Weeks' contract," Mr. Harrison said. "Until this work is completed there probably will be little to announce."

Mr. Weeks came to Wichita Falls at the request of J. A. Kemp and the Chamber of Commerce from California, where he put over a small-farm colonization project.

Mid-Continent Refiners In Cheerful Mood

TULSA, Okla., uly 13.—Mid-Continent refiners were more than optimistic Thursday, all reporting gasoline orders coming in, and the market looking strong. One refiner stated Thursday was the banner day of the year for gasoline sales, even excelling sales over the fourth of July holidays. Many jobbers are in the market for gasoline supplies.

The Empire company advanced the price of 58-60 U. S. motor gasoline 1-8 to 8¼ cents spot, effective Thursday morning, and it is understood other companies were following suit.

The kerosene market is looking much better, almost 1000 cars having been purchased during the past 10 days by large distributors for the July and August supply. It is understood the Humble company purchased from 300 to 400 cars for domestic use, while the balance was purchased by other companies for exporting.

"Hot sox" is perfectly good flapper slang, these days, but if that is correct, there is something equally as good to be found a few miles east of Jolly on the Fort Worth highway, namely "hot sox supporters" as sold by the merchants at Henrietta at the reasonable price of two bits each. If there is anything louder in the line of sox supporters sold in Wichita Falls than in Henrietta, we are curious to know where it is.

◆ ◆ ◆

In the vernacular of the super dignified man of 40 years ago, "Consider Bebe Daniels." Yea, bo! Consider HER. She is in "Hot News" at the Majestic theater. This is a motion picture, not the name of a brand of this or that. "Hot News" should be a knockout.

◆ ◆ ◆

And speaking of "Hot News," hot sox, hot sox supporters and the like, there is one more hot spot to be noted among the clothing store displays of men's unmentionables. Women are noted for their love of color and brilliance, but shades of the northern lights, the old tallow candles, and the bright lights of the roaring forties! You should see those new and brilliantly colored and decorated track suits—at least they look like track suits.

◆ ◆ ◆

While looking in the windows, don't pass up the lobby display at the Majestic theater. There is usually something interesting in the pictures and signs there. Perhaps it is the fact that the Majestic entrance happens to look more like a big city theater that makes it attractive, but there is something of Clara Bow's famous "It" in that lobby.

◆ ◆ ◆

"The Girl from Chicago" at the Strand ought to do a great business as it packs a punch that a policeman or one of Alex Ross' pugs would envy. It is a vitaphone picture that has enjoyed considerable success in New York and elsewhere.

◆ ◆ ◆

Saturday is the first day of Ken Maynard in "The Canyon of Adventure" at the Mission. Saturday also marks the coming of the third chapter of the picture Manager Charley Moorehead is boosting to the sky, "The Man Without a Face." It's a real mystery picture, and believe me, it is the kind of a picture from whence came the old-time expression of a "movie thriller." Pathe, the only producing organization that through the years has maintained a steady output of high-grade serial pictures, is the producer of "The Man Without a Face."

◆ ◆ ◆

The Olympic theater is closing the present week with "Lost at the Front," a comedy with a contrasting pair of big time comedians in the leading roles. They are George Sidney and Charlie Murray. If you want to see two different kinds of comedy in one picture by two of the most famous comedians of the day, be sure to take in this picture. Yes, it's hot, too. So is the weather.

Conrad Nagel and Myrna Loy in "The Girl From Chicago," at the Strand theater, a Vitaphone picture.

Sewer Rentals Paid At Rate of $1000 Day

Sewer rentals are being received by the water department at the rate of $1000 a day, it was said by George D. Fairtrace, city manager, Friday afternoon.

"The city is doing everything it can to get these back bills collected without inconveniencing citizens," said Mr. Fairtrace. "However, if those who have not paid their past due sewer rentals or do not come to the auditorium to make some arrangements to pay them, it will be necessary for the city to enforce the ordinance to the letter and cut off both water and sewer service."

Permit Granted For Mt. Pleasant Church

A permit for the immediate construction of the new Mount Pleasant Baptist church at 400 Sullivan street was granted by the city clerk's department Friday. The building will cost $25,000 and will be one story high of brick, 50 by 72 feet.

H. D. Johnson is the contractor, according to the permit.

25 APPLY FOR ABSENTEE VOTE

Ballots Forwarded by County Clerk

About 25 voters of Wichita county have been forwarded ballots for voting in the primary of July 28, according to Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk.

Persons planning to be out of Wichita county on election day can make application for a ballot by exhibiting their poll tax receipts to a notary public and applying for a ballot on a special form, which can be secured from the county clerk. This application must be in the hands of the county clerk prior to July 18, after which date those who will not be here to vote may mark their ballots in the presence of the county clerk up to three days prior to the election.

Miss Hall has suggested that railroad men and others who may be called out of town unexpectedly on election day and who wish to vote in the primary cast an absentee vote.

City to Repair Water Mains and Street

Water mains on Seventh street at Bluff avenue, in front of the new memorial auditorium, will be repaired Monday so that repairs may be made in the paving at that point, it was learned Friday from Dr. A. H. Douglas, manager of the water department.

The line is a six-inch line that is thought to be leaking at the joints. It serves the district immediately east and north of the leak.

As soon as the leak is repaired, the pavement, which has been in bad shape for some time, due to the effects of the leak, will be restored.

Master Plumbers Meet at Vernon

Eight Wichita Falls men will attend the meeting of the Master Plumbers of this district which will be held in Vernon, Saturday afternoon.

They are George W. Winburne, president of the district organization, and J. F. Nunn, Charles B. Hughes, Charles Kaufman, J. H. Castledine, Bert Dimock, B. A. Moore and M. O. Moore.

A general discussion of methods for improving plumbing and sanitation in the district will be taken up at the meeting, according to Mr. Wilburne.

Towns which will send representatives are as follows: Nocona, Bowie, Paducah, Crowell, Seymour, Chillicothe, Childress, Vernon, Electra, Olney, Henrietta, Archer City, Quanah and Graham.

Decision Expected Soon On Bus Lines

A decision on the bus transportation case heard in the 78th district court room Friday will be given in about a week if the unsual procedure of the Texas State railway commission is followed.

Whether the bus franchise will be granted to H. A. Penrod, who seeks the right to run a line through Windthorst, Antelope and Jacksboro to Mineral Wells or to the Southern Bus company which seeks the right to operate from here to Jacksboro will be known when the decision is made.

The Southern Bus company and the West Texas Coaches protested the application of Penrod on the grounds that a Southern Bus line to Graham at present connects with the West Texas coaches there, through Jacksboro to Mineral Wells.

Wichita Falls business men are said to favor the direct route to Mineral Wells with no transfers by the one line.

Milk Vendors Must Obey City Ordinance

Explaining that the health department has been notified recently of instances where milk was sold in the city in such a manner as to fail to comply with the ordinances, Dr. H. D. Fillmore, manager of the city health department, Friday issued warning that all persons handling milk must have health certificates and that milk containers are also subject to regulation. Anyone calling at the office of the health department in the Memorial auditorium will receive full information, it was said.

PAPA WHO PAYS

Woman Demands Weed Cutting Lot Owned By Husband

Weeds on a vacant lot near her home did not appeal to the aesthetic taste of a Wichita Falls woman Friday who demanded of the city health department that the city have the weeds cut.

Inspection by R. W. Morgan, inspector of the city health department, showed that the weeds should be cut. The order was issued and the weeds were cut.

Then, in accordance with the city custom of finding the owner of the lot to determine who should pay for the cutting, Mr. Morgan checked the records of the city tax department and found that the lot was one of many belonging to the woman's husband.
