

UN Drive Goes Well, Says MacArthur

Scharbauer Expansion Work To Start In April

Arrangements and plans for enlarging and remodeling Midland's Hotel Scharbauer have been completed and actual construction of the million dollar project will begin in April, Clarence Scharbauer, Jr., announced Saturday.

He said Wyatt C. Hedrick of Midland and Fort Worth has been awarded the architectural-engineering contract, and Gene Brewer, Midland builder, has the general construction contract.

The National Production Authority in Dallas has issued a permit for remodeling and expanding of the six-story, 250-room hotel here. The permit called for construction to begin within 60 days. The cost was estimated at "just under a million dollars."

More Guest Rooms
Scharbauer said plans call for adding 80 to 100 guest rooms, and the complete remodeling of the first and mezzanine floors. The entire building will be air-conditioned. About 50 per cent of the hotel now is air-conditioned.

The additional rooms will be situated in a six-story annex to be erected at the southwest corner of the hotel property where the hotel garage now is located. A foundation for 12 floors will be installed. The hotel's new main entrance will be on Lorraine Street, about midway of the block-long building. The main entrance now is on Wall Street. A spacious garage will be provided in the basement, with the entrance on the south side, Missouri Street.

The lobby, according to the plans, will be re-located about where the hotel's central garage now is situated. Four elevators will be installed to replace the two now in service.

The entire first floor will be re-modeled completely, Scharbauer stated. The coffee shop and drug store quarters will be enlarged to (Continued On Page 12)

Red Cross Campaign Still $2,800 Short Of $15,000 Objective

Returns in the 1951 Midland Red Cross finance campaign Saturday totaled $12,161.96—$2,838.04 short of the $15,000 goal.

Treasurer Murray Pasken, in announcing the figure, said several teams, including one or two women's groups, still are on the job and have not made final reports. W. H. Thams, office building division chairman, said he expects to file a complete report early this week.

G. E. Mershon, campaign chairman, expressed satisfaction at the results of the drive to date, and predicted the county's quota will be exceeded before the March 31 deadline.

He urged volunteer workers to complete their assignments and file final reports as promptly as possible. He expressed appreciation to volunteer workers who have assisted in conducting the campaign in all sections of the city.

Men, women and children who have not been contacted by campaign workers are requested to mail their contributions to the Red Cross, Midland, Texas, or leave them at the Chamber of Commerce.

"Every citizen is asked to contribute to the American Red Cross, a most worthy cause," Mershon stated.

Mrs. Joe Chastain Files As Candidate For School Trustee

A contest in the April 7 school trustee election was assured Saturday, final day for candidate filing, as Mrs. Joe Chastain, filed as a candidate with Mrs. Ernest Sidwell, secretary of the Board of Education of the Midland Independent School District.

Two other candidates—Robert M. Payne, independent oil operator, and R. V. Fitting, Jr., consulting petroleum engineer—previously had announced for the two trustee positions which will become vacant next month.

The three-year terms of V. C. Maley and Mrs. W. H. Gilmore as board members expire this year. Mrs. Chastain is a housewife and owns and operates the Hobby House at 1307 West Tennessee Street.

Vicious Political Move?

(An Editorial)

What kind of business is this—this congressional re-districting plan which was distributed Friday among members of the State Legislature by one State Rep. Paul Wilson of Geneva???

The proposal, which vitally affects Midland and which almost surely would toss Congressman Ken Regan out of the U. S. Congress, has all the appearances of a vicious political move and definitely has no place, even for consideration, in the Fifty-Second Legislature, which to date has done one of the most commendable jobs in the history of the state.

If the proposed bill is not pure politics, then its author apparently is completely ignorant of economic conditions and boundaries in West Texas. But the Geneva representative (Geneva, by the way is located in Sabine County in deep East Texas) proposes changes in certain North, Central and East Texas districts which seem to be just as ill-advised, making it appear there is more involved than just ignorance.

We do not know Rep. Paul Wilson and surely we do not know just what he has against Midland, West Texas, Congressman Ken Regan and other U. S. representatives, but apparently there must be something.

It sounds like a rather crude joke, but the author claims advance approval of almost two-thirds of the House members. That is rather difficult to believe, but if true, then citizens best had take prompt steps to block the adoption of the bill in the Senate.

The new bill would take Midland County out of the present 16th Congressional District, putting it in a sheep and goat district with counties ranging as far away as Val Verde, Bandera and Medina, of which San Angelo is the center. It would separate Midland, the headquarters city of the vast Permian Basin Empire, from other leading oil counties of West Texas. We certainly have nothing against the sheep and goat counties, but Midland's major interests are oil and cattle and this county has nothing in common economically with most of the counties south and east of San Angelo.

Representative Wilson's proposal would give Ken Regan an entirely new alignment of counties in most of which he would be a stranger, giving Rep. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo a definite edge over the Midland congressman in next year's elections.

We are not too familiar with the situation in other districts, but we do know the proposal is not at all popular in some other sections.

It is hoped legislators will toss out the Wilson bill promptly. It is not deserving even of their serious consideration.

Funds For Hospital Sought In Auction Of Midland Painting

"This is Midland." And Midland is the home of the modern Midland Memorial Hospital.

This fine hospital is here because the city's people have big hearts.

And now the French artist, Maurice Saint-Lou, has given this city's people the beautiful, impressive painting "This is Midland." It is his gift of appreciation to a highly progressive city.

The painting will be sold at auction and bidding is by mail to the sponsor, The Reporter-Telegram. Checks accompanying bids will be returned to those not successful in purchasing the story in art of a section of downtown Midland.

All proceeds will go to the Memorial Hospital. Checks should be made payable to the Midland Memorial Hospital, and names of bidders will be published unless the newspaper is otherwise advised.

Absentee Ballots Now Being Cast In City Election

Midland residents who'll be out of town April 3 may cast their ballots now in the city election.

City Secretary J. C. Hudman said Saturday that supplies are on hand for absentee voting and may be obtained either in person or by writing to his office.

Voters will select a mayor and three City Councilmen at the election.

The absentee ballots can be cast until three days before the election.

Initial Plans For World Championship Midland Rodeo Set

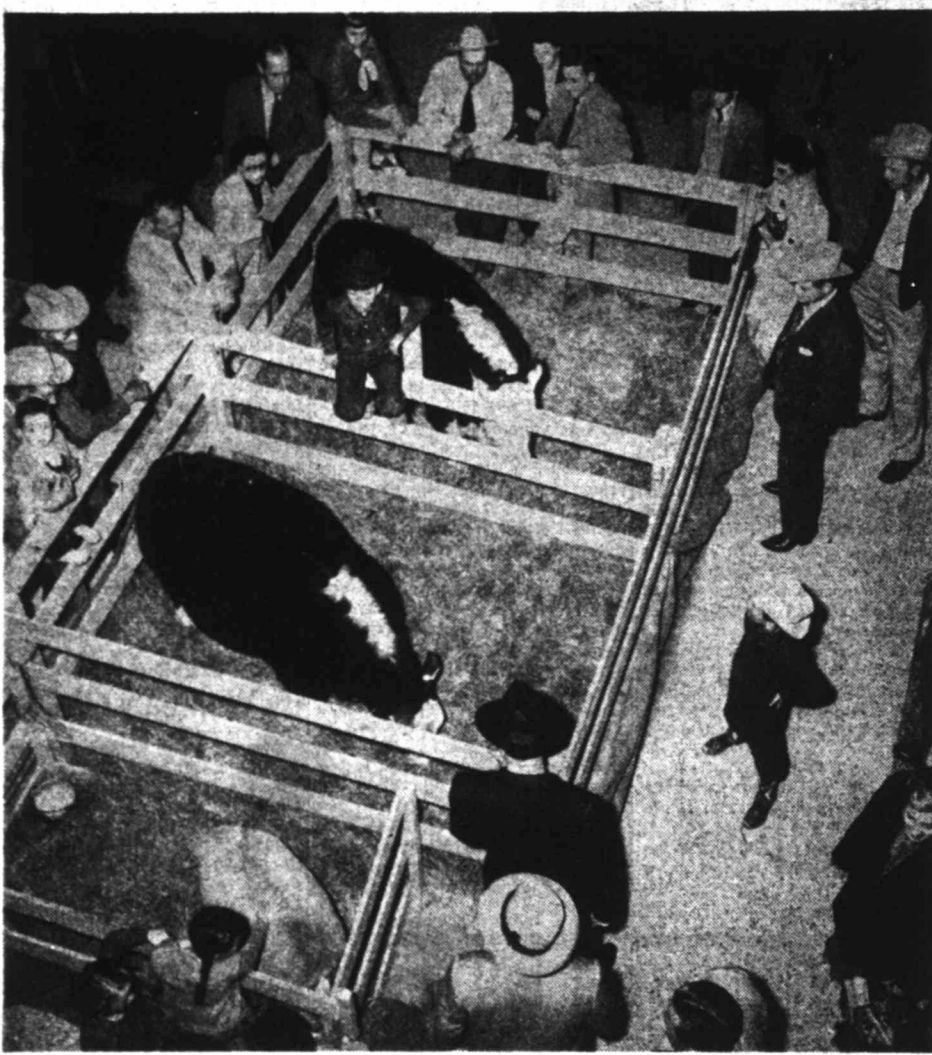

Plans for presenting a "good old-fashioned rodeo with top novelty acts" at the annual World Championship Midland Rodeo, May 30, 31, June 1, 2 and 3, were outlined Saturday by Clarence Scharbauer, Jr., president of Midland Fair, Inc., sponsor.

In announcing committee assignments and proposed improvements at Fair Park, Scharbauer said everything possible will be done to make the 1951 event the best and most entertaining ever held here.

Reserve seats will be available in the huge grandstand this year for the first time, the fair association president announced. The lighting arrangement in the rodeo arena also will be improved to make the grounds the best lighted in the Southwest. Light fixtures on each pole will be increased from four to eight, Scharbauer stated.

The proposed remodeling of the arena and chutes has been delayed because of National Production Authority restrictions on materials, but Scharbauer said the plan has not been cancelled and the project will be carried to completion as promptly as possible.

Committee Assignments
Personnel of committees as announced by Scharbauer are as follows: Rodeo—John Dublin, Jr., Buster Cole, Marion Flynt and Frank Cowden, Jr.; Parade—Frank Cowden, Jr., chairman; J. O. Nobles, Jr., T. Paul Barron; Tickets—J. T. Baker; Advance Ticket Sale—John P. Butler, John B. Mills and C. E. (Bud) Blaisell; Advertising—Publicity—Marion Flynt, chairman, Delbert Downing, J. M. McDonald, Barney Greathouse and Bill Collins; Time Keepers—Aldredge Estes, Sr., and Hollie Tyson; box seat chairs—A. A. (Poostie) Jones.

Lloyd Nash, 57, Oil Firm Land Manager, Found Shot To Death

Lloyd Nash, 57-year-old land manager for the Tide Water Associated Oil Company here, was found shot to death outside his home at 1407 West Outhbert Street shortly after 8 a.m. Saturday.

A .38 caliber revolver was found near the pajama-clad body. Police Chief Jack Ellington said Nash had been in ill health for several months. Apparently, officers said, he died instantly from a gunshot wound through the heart.

Contents of a note, found in the home, were not disclosed. Funeral services, which are being arranged by Newell W. Ellis Chapel, have been set tentatively for Monday.

Nash came to Midland in 1948 from Houston, where he had been division land man for Tide Water, with which organization he had been connected the last 12 years. A native of San Antonio, he had lived in Midland a number of years ago, and was connected with the Gulf Oil Corporation.

Surviving are the widow and a daughter, Mrs. Joe Butt of Evansville, Ind.

Condition Of Joan Edwards Worsens

Joan Edwards has been unconscious 26 months. Saturday marked the anniversary of her tragic jolt into darkness in an automobile accident near Odessa, Jan. 17, 1949.

Her condition Saturday had become worse. She is at Rankin at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Edwards.

Reports from there Saturday feared she might not live through the day. Her condition at several times during her long period of unconsciousness has been critical. However, this time her parents were fearful that she was sinking.

GOP Committee To Meet In Tulsa

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Republican National Committee has called a meeting for May 11 and 12 in Tulsa, Okla., to decide the site and date for the party's presidential nominating convention in 1952. This is six months earlier than usual, but Chairman Guy Gabrielson said it is necessary to arrange hotel accommodations far in advance this time.

A committee announcement Saturday said six cities so far have indicated a desire to be hosts for the convention—Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

M. L. Martin, 41, Is Injured Fatally In Oil Field Mishap

Marvin Louis Martin, 41-year-old Midland oil field worker, was injured fatally Friday afternoon when struck in the head by a broken long line on a drilling rig five miles southwest of the city.

He died in Midland Memorial Hospital about 9 p.m., several hours after the accident in which Richard Oliver Butler, 30, of Midland, also was injured.

Butler's condition was not considered serious although he suffered back injuries.

Both were employees of the Hall and Stewart Drilling Company. Funeral services for Martin, who came to Midland two years ago and resided at the Sky Haven Trailer Courts, will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in the First Methodist Church in Sterling City with the Rev. H. L. Bloodworth officiating. Interment will be in Foster Cemetery at Sterling City.

Greeks Beat Off Chinese Suicide Rush

TOKYO—(P)—Greek troops, using fixed bayonets, bloodily repulsed Chinese Red banzai attacks Saturday in Central Korea. In the west and east, other Allied forces rolled north toward the 38th parallel against light resistance.

A heavy censorship shielded the progress of the advance. Allied troops were as close as 15 miles to the 38th parallel when censorship was clamped down Friday.

General MacArthur's headquarters said the banzai attacks northwest of Hongchun in Central Korea were the only sizable ones the back-tracking foe could muster.

The U. S. Eighth Army said 4,850 Reds were killed or wounded across the front Saturday, in contrast with only 950 the day before. That pushed beyond 176,000 the total of Reds killed or wounded by ground action since the Allied offensive began January 25.

Saturday's bag of 395 Red prisoners was one of the highest in weeks.

In the east-central sector, some Allied advances were unopposed.

The Greeks killed 222 Reds and wounded 600 more in capturing and holding a hill position on the approaches to Chumchon. The enemy must hold that vital base only eight miles below the 38th parallel if they are to stay anywhere in South Korea.

The Greeks beat off three Communist counterattacks in 50 minutes. It occurred in an area where the Reds are estimated to have up to 250,000 men massed north and south of Chumchon.

Red Transport Halted
U. S. Fifth Air Force pilots reported spotting no trains and only about 160 vehicles Saturday night after shooting up five trains the night before. In the last week, Allied planes claim to have knocked out 1,100 enemy vehicles and 360 units of railroad rolling stock.

The Allied drive was "going well," General MacArthur said on his return to Tokyo Saturday night from his second visit to the front in 10 days.

There was no immediate indication whether MacArthur's surprise trip to captured Hongchun on the central front meant new offensive planning was underway, or was simply a routine inspection.

Accompanied by his top air, sea and ground commanders, MacArthur jeaped within 22 miles of the 38th parallel, once the political dividing line between North and South Korea.

MacArthur would not say whether he planned to order his forces north of the parallel for a second time, or hold them in the hills to the south while a negotiated settlement is sought.

A member of MacArthur's party said the Marines whom the supreme commander visited were preparing to blast the enemy from a hill as the party left. He said, "The whole hill went up in flames from jelled gasoline just as we flew away."

Censorship Tightened
The Eighth Army permitted correspondents to report only a few lines Saturday night.

Correspondent William C. Barnard on the central front said American forces northwest of captured Hongchun hurled back a company-sized attack by Chinese Communists.

There was virtually no contact with the enemy on the east-central front, said Correspondent Nate Polowetzky.

Midland Officer Wins Scholarship To Police Institute

Jimmie Joyce, assistant identification officer of the Midland police department, Saturday was awarded a scholarship to the Southern Police Institute at Louisville, Ky.

The three-month course of study will begin April 2. The 24-year-old Midland man was selected from among hundreds of candidates nominated to the institute by police departments throughout the South.

"I think it is a distinct honor for Officer Joyce and for the Midland police department," said Col. Milan N. Plavsic, director of the city's Department of Public Safety.

Plavsic was notified of the award in a telegram from David McCandless, director of the institute.

Joyce, a veteran of World War II in which he flew in the Pacific Theater as a flight engineer on a Navy patrol bomber, joined the police force two years ago.

Strange Roadblock Snarls Traffic On U. S. Highway 80

ABILENE (AP)—One of the strangest roadblocks in West Texas history snarled traffic for three and one-third hours Friday on State Highway 80 three miles west of here.

Taffy, 8,000-pound elephant with the heart of Texas Carnival, fell from the back end of a truck as the vehicle wacked an incline.

Cars and trucks, creeping slowly around her 8,000-pound bulk, truck drivers set out flares.

"She's just a mule," said Barons as he tried to coach Taffy to her feet. "When she's ready to get up, she'll get up."

But at 11:28 p.m. Killeen waved his hands before her eyes. She didn't blink. Taffy was dead, at 85 years of age.

"Is that old for an elephant?" asked a reporter.

"That's too old," Killeen replied sadly.

Canary Dinah Shore Is Due For Cinderella Treatment

By ESKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — Behind the Screen:

This may bowl her over, but I got wind today of Paramount's plans to build Dinah Shore into 1951's top musical comedy queen.

Bill Peiberg, who with co-producer George Seaton will star her in "A Song From The Heart of Dixie," crystal-balled it to me:

"We wouldn't have made this picture without Dinah. We couldn't see anyone else. I don't like to make predictions, but the public will make her one of Hollywood's biggest stars. I think she's a wonderful actress and the screen needs her honesty and sincerity."

"I bring them into my living room and tune my TV set in on a western. After a couple of sessions they yawn at gunfire."

There's been some hissing at the idea of Doris Day in a black wig playing the film biography of Helen Morgan. But it's not worrying Doris, who told me: "I don't think they'll give it to me. I'm not the type. It would be difficult for me to do. Actually, it doesn't matter. I don't care what I do as long as the story is good."

West Texas Merchants Hear Explanation By OPS Official Of Ceiling Price Regulation

West Texas businessmen and women packed the district courthouse Friday night to hear an explanation of Regulation 7 price ceilings.

C. J. Taylor, acting price executive from the Lubbock district office of Office of Price Stabilization, told the group pricing charts must be filed with the OPS by March 29.

When the chart is filed merchants affected by Regulation 7 may begin operating under a percentage mark-up regulation rather than a "dollar-and-cents" freeze regulation," Taylor said.

The Lubbock office was opened two weeks ago and so far has only a small staff to cover the large West Texas region. He urged that business groups assist in finding "top men" to take responsible jobs with the OPS.

He explained that Regulation 7 is "practically the same" as Maximum Price Regulation 580, issued by the OPA in World War II.

"It relates to the same items and uses practically the same chart," Taylor said.

Wide Range Of Goods

Regulation 7 covers a wide range of consumer durable goods, excluding food and drugs and a few other items.

Here are some of the fundamentals of Regulation 7:

Each retailer affected by the order makes up a chart showing what he sold goods for on Feb. 24, 1951, what he paid for the goods and what his margin was between cost and selling price.

One copy of the chart must be filed with the OPS by March 29.

Navy Plane Will Fly Young Cancer Victim And Mother From Houston To West Coast

HOUSTON —(P)— Monday is to be a big day for Luther Rae Stevens III.

The United States Navy is sending a big plane to Houston just to fly the five-year-old cancer victim and his mother to Coronado, Calif. Luther's father is stationed at a Navy amphibious air base there.

Mrs. Stevens was busy Saturday packing for the journey. Tears filled her eyes when she noticed a shiny red tricycle, a Christmas present to Luther from his father. Christmas morning there wasn't a happier kid in town than little Luther. And for almost a week after that he practically lived on the tricycle.

Then one day his mother heard him crying. She opened the front door and there he was, crawling up the stairs. He said he felt bad.

At the City-County Hospital he was placed in the polio ward. But his condition became worse and on January 28 an operation discovered a tumor on his spine.

Gets Emergency Leave
Seaman Stevens obtained an emergency leave to be here for the operation.

A few days later the doctors said young Luther has a cancer on his spine and there is nothing they can do. He is paralyzed from the waist down.

Stevens tried to get a transfer to a Navy base in the Houston area but was unsuccessful. Then he decided to move his wife and son to California. The Navy is helping with the plane.

"Luther is all excited about the plane ride and seeing his daddy," Mrs. Stevens said. "I somehow feel a change of scenery, living in a different part of the country might help. My husband and I hope Navy doctors might get interested in our son's case."

The brown-haired, brown-eyed Luther has a tough time ahead of him.

But the men whose name he bears have had it a bit rough in their time.

Seaman Stevens, a veteran of six years in the Navy, has three rows of service and combat ribbons. Grandpa is Gen. Luther Rea Stevens, who survived the notorious Bataan death march and a sentence to face a Japanese firing squad.

11 GI's Convicted Of Money Smuggling

VIENNA, AUSTRIA —(P)—Eleven American soldiers were convicted in Vienna recently on charges of transferring funds estimated at $300,000 out of Austria illegally, an Army spokesman said Saturday.

A series of courts martial showed the group had accepted dollar military currency from non-Americans not authorized to be in possession of the military scrip, the spokesman said.

The soldiers, according to the testimony, then transferred the money to Switzerland and other countries for the benefit of the non-Americans who desired to set up dollar accounts outside this country.

The spokesman said the soldiers were tried on a total of some 250 specific charges, most of which were proved.

Sentences against the soldiers already have been reviewed and sustained by higher Army authorities.

The soldiers and their sentences included:
Cpl. Lloyd R. King, Houston, Texas, one year at hard labor and a bad conduct discharge.

Young Bobby Sale Is Quite A Rancher

Bobby Sale is nine years old—quite a rancher or stockman-to-be, in his own right.

Bobby captured the "big double" at the 1951 Midland Livestock Show. His steers took blue ribbons in both the dry-lot and milk-fed divisions of the district competition.

Young Sale is from Martin County and winning stock show blue ribbons is bound to come natural with him. His dad is J. C. Sale, who is taking over where E. B. Dickenson left off, winning blue ribbons with fine stock. Sale runs the ranch, 18 miles from Midland.

Well-Ribbed

Bobby's winning entries in the Midland show already were pretty well-ribbed in blue. "Pinky," a dry-lot steer was reserve champion of the Martin County Stock Show; won its class at the Sand Hills Show (Odessa); was first in class at the Lamesa Stock Show. This one took the dry-lot class of the Midland event.

His "George," a milk-fed, was grand champion of the Martin County Show; won his class in hot competition at the Sand Hills Show; took the grand championship at the Lamesa Stock Show. It was judged best milk-fed in the Midland event.

Bobby is a sturdy little showman. He can hook his leg under the flank of his big steers and show them with the best and he is businesslike in handling the lead strap of his animals.

The wave of a judge's hand, or a nod, brings him right into position desired with his steers.

Sale Ends Livestock Show—

Boy Scouts. Martin Flynn bid $1.10 a pound for a 121-pound lamb and said he plans to donate it to the Polio Fund.

Some of the bidding was unusual in that one steer, last in its class in judging, brought $1 a pound. This was more than the county champions brought.

Some of the higher prices were offered in the latter stages of the bidding and helped to push up the averages.

Veteran show attendants said they believed the general averages, exclusive of champion animals, would be the best in the history of the livestock show.

May Be Added

However, this was not determined immediately because it was believed certain funds allotted to buy animals from the club youngsters and had not been exhausted would be added to the prize they received. This would raise the average even more, they said.

Complete sale results (including animal, feeder, club or town, approximate weight, buyer and price per pound):

Three Plead Guilty To Federal Charges In Auto Theft Ring

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. —(AP)—

Three men arrested this week in what the FBI terms the largest car theft ring it has seen pleaded guilty Saturday to interstate transport of stolen autos.

Seven persons have been arrested in the ring so far, and U. S. Attorney Everett Grantham reported Saturday that his office has filed complaints against three more. He said names of the last three are being withheld pending arrests. The FBI said the ring operated in Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico.

At arraignment Saturday in federal court, Harden C. Kemper of Tope, N. M., and Clark Kelling of Idaho, Calif., pleaded guilty to two counts of counseling, inducing and procuring theft of autos in interstate transportation.

Edward Schoeffner, Jr., Childress, Texas, pleaded guilty to two counts of transporting stolen autos across state lines.

The other four men arrested so far were Newel Alfred Kelling, about 36, brother of Clark Kelling and also of Idaho; James Edward Van Hus, Brownwood, Texas; Raymond Gainski, 21, Albuquerque, and E. H. Sigler, 24, Texas, Texas.

The FBI said the ring obtained titles to wrecked cars, stole good cars, mostly in other states and altered motor numbers at Tope to conform to the wrecked car titles.

The autos were disposed of on used car lots in Tope and Albuquerque.

Robber's Attempt To Shoot Station Attendant Flop

BROWNWOOD —(AP)— A robber tried three times to shoot him in the head while holding up his service station Friday night. George Heifner said Saturday.

Heifner said three youths and a girl in a 1950 dark green Plymouth drove up to his station. They robbed him of $215.

One of the youths, urged on by another, snapped a loaded revolver three times in his face. Heifner said. The gun did not discharge.

As the hijackers left their car almost collided with one driven by Richard Mayfield of Brownwood. Mayfield pursued the car to Bangs, 10 miles west of here, where it escaped but not before Mayfield got the license — California number 3U9479.

F-80 Jet Fighter Hits Power Wires, Two Houses, Windmill, Truck; No One Killed

SAN ANGELO —(AP)— An F-80 jet fighter lost its power Saturday and clipped telephones and power wires, knocked the tops off a windmill and a power pole, plowed through a house, hit a car, and set fire to another house, another car and a pickup truck.

No one was killed. The pilot and another person were injured seriously.

The fires, fed by kerosene spraying from the jet's broken fuel line, destroyed the plane, both houses, and the two cars.

Lt. Henry S. Anthony Jr., 26, of Williams Air Force Base, Ariz., suffered third-degree burns and shock. Joseph G. Harris, occupant of one of the houses, was reported in fair condition with burns about the head and arms. He was the only person in either house when the crash occurred.

The plane lost its power and shot down shortly after taking off from Goodfellow Air Force Base here. Anthony was on a routine two-plane flight from Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, to Randolph Air Force Base, San Antonio. His wingman cleared the field without mishap.

Anthony's wife, Edna, and their daughter live at Williams Field. Off-duty officers first reached the crash scene and helped Armstrong burn away from the burning jet.

Magnesium in the plane's structure burned for more than two hours after the crash despite a chemical drenching from eight fire trucks.

Big Four Deputies Still Deadlocked As Second Week Ends

PARIS —(AP)— The Western deputies told Andrei Gromyko in hardening words at the windup of the second week of conferences Saturday that they want a Big Four foreign ministers meeting—but not at any price.

A French spokesman said the Soviet deputy foreign minister, Philip Jessup of the United States, Ernest Davies of Britain and Alexandre Parodi of France had a rather bad session, with each side repeating a lot of "known arguments."

Parodi was quoted as telling Gromyko the West will not go to a Big Four meeting "with its hands tied."

"We are not in Prague," he said. "This is not the way to negotiate."

No Concessions

But the western deputies extracted no concessions from Gromyko that might lead to ironing out a list of subjects to be discussed by a foreign ministers meeting with a view to easing off the mounting international steam pressure.

On Monday, the deputies will hold their thirteenth session with the situation just about as it was when the talks began March 5.

Gromyko is demanding that the demilitarization of Germany and reduction of armaments of the Big Four be taken up as separate and paramount items.

The West, in an amended agenda, has offered to discuss these questions, but insists that they be considered in relation to the cause of armaments—the present tension.

Eisenhower Denies Reported Deal With Truman About 1952

PARIS —(AP)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Saturday night denied that President Truman ever "mentioned to him any political possibilities of 1952."

The statement, issued through an official spokesman, was in response to inquiries about a story by Merrill Mueller, NBC commentator, saying "President Truman made a deal with General Eisenhower to make Ike available for the presidential campaign of 1952."

The story was written for Quill, a magazine published by Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, and was released in Miami, Fla., by John T. Elias, managing editor of Quill.

Mueller quoted the President as saying the general would be recalled from Europe in mid-Summer of 1952 to make him available for the nomination for President.

At Key West, the President's press secretary, Joseph Short, said "I have no comment x."

No Comment, No Reaction

Reporters at Eisenhower's headquarters also were told there was "no comment, no reaction," to the story.

But Saturday night, Brig. Gen. C. T. Lanham, Eisenhower's chief of information at SHAPE (Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe), denied the story.

Mueller, a former foreign correspondent now stationed with NBC in San Francisco, wrote:

"The Chief Executive told Ike that one Harry Truman did not want to be accused of exiling a potential powerful contender for the honors of the White House."

The writer continued: "He also told me—in contradiction to his written reply to my letters over the past five years—that he would run in 1952 if drafted by one of the political parties."

"About the same time, President Truman told friends around him in Washington—several of whom I have talked with since—that Ike could have the presidency if he wanted it."

He added that the general "proposes to keep completely silent" so Europeans would be confident his work in organizing their defenses was "totally sincere."

HOT STEEL, COLD SNOW—

Returned Marine Tells Of Withdrawal In Korea

The boys in Korea worry mostly about their folks worrying about them.

Then, of course, there are the Chinese and North Koreans to worry about.

Marine Private First Class Burl Timmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Timmons, 504 North Baird Street, is home on 30-day leave before returning to duty at Camp Pendleton, Calif. He's wearing civvies and a Truman-style sports shirt.

"That withdrawal wasn't a retreat," he insisted. "We stayed up there until orders to pull back came in. It was well organized. Wasn't a case of just get out if we could."

Second Overseas Stretch

Then he added proudly: "We brought out our men and equipment."

This was the Midland Marine's second overseas stretch. He was graduated from Midland High School in 1948 and a month later enlisted. Eighteen months on Guam, then stateside and to the fighting in Korea last August.

Over there, he saw an old school mate, Jimmie Coker, and other Midland fighting men: Thomas Keele, now of Lamesa, who enlisted with him and was wounded twice, enough to be ordered home, and Don Brooks, whose folks now live in McCamey.

San Francisco gave the shipload of war heroes a big welcome. Arrival date was proclaimed Fighting Marines Week and the mayor issued a welcome card to each man. It entitled him to free movies anywhere in Frisco.

Timmons has been so busy visiting old friends and relatives that he has had little contact with his high school except to attend the senior class play. His sister, Barbara, is a high school freshman. In San Francisco he spent a night with a brother, Nolan, with the Navy. Another brother, Carl, lives in Abilene.

Unwounded, Unfrozen

As for the toughest fighting that brought about the famed withdrawal to Hungnam beachhead, Timmons said the "Chinks" opened up with bugles, whistles and flares.

A first wave drove in to locate the positions, then a second and third wave poured in back of them and on their flanks. Timmons was firing an 81-mm mortar.

"We fired flares all night," he said.

But he walked out, unwounded and unfrozen amid almost constant fighting from Chinese on the high ground. It was a 10-day march, one the First Marine Division will never forget.

"It was those Marine Corsair pilots that got us out," he said. "Those pilots came down so close we could see the color of their eyes."

Dake said about six other persons in the elevator almost fainted.

The father carried the baby and Mrs. Dake walked out of the elevator to the ward, where a doctor was called. Until six months ago Mrs. Dake had been a nurse in the ward.

The 5 1/2 pound baby and Mrs. Dake are doing fine.

Aggie Professor Depicts Transformation Of A Rural Community In Lone Star State COLLEGE STATION—(P)—Transformation of a rural Texas community, identified only as community "A," has been described by a Texas A&M professor.

The problem was tackled in an unusual way, by allowing the people to criticize themselves and their community, and then seek out ways of correcting shortcomings.

The cooperative experiment began in 1948 in a rural community of 2,100 persons, said Dan R. Davis, associate professor in A&M's Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology.

The town was not otherwise identified except that it is primarily dependent upon agriculture, which most rural towns are.

Davis, working with local leaders, first interviewed the county agent, home demonstration agent, and public officials on long-term trends in population, level of living, health, education, rural road development, agricultural practices and income. The community leaders were asked (1) the community's three greatest assets; (2) its three greatest weaknesses; and (3) what could be done to make the community more wholesome and progressive.

Assets listed most frequently were churches, schools and civic organizations. Weaknesses were many. One leader told of "lack of community spirit and cooperation, poor law enforcement as related to gambling, drinking, and traffic violations, few sanitary ordinances, inadequate sewage systems, no library, little industrial payroll, too many honky-tonks and liquor stores, too little businessman-farmer cooperation, no hospital, need for farm to market roads, need better movie houses, no recreation program for youth, poor cemetery care, no rest room facilities for rural people trading in town, need for diversified agriculture and better farming practices." This leader added: "We need something to cause all citizens to unite in a common effort to make this a better community."

Davis said some other criticisms were more severe. "Perhaps," he added, "an outside expert on community affairs could not have been more accurate in stating the problem."

"Since they themselves acknowledged the specific weaknesses there developed a feeling that 'we must do something,'" Davis related. "Experts might have given a similar analysis of the community. However, it is believed that an outsider's comments would have immediately killed the possibilities of this experiment in community organization."

Use Common Sense to Take Off That Ugly Fat

Overweight can be a menace to health, but common sense should be the watchword to get rid of the extra pounds. A rigid diet over a protracted period of time, can do harm. It is advisable that you seek your physician's advice before trying to take off weight via the diet route.

Possibly one bulky person in 100 has some glandular disturbance and that is truly a case for the physician. But for the other 99 per cent, judgment should be used in deciding the "plan" decided on to reduce. Overeating is one of the main contributing causes of excess fat. You may say you do not overeat—that you only eat enough to satisfy your hunger. But your intake of food may be greater than necessary for the energy you spend. Thus, the excess food turns into fat. You can eat all you want—maintain bodily requirements and still eat LESS. Sounds like double talk, but it isn't. A recent survey among Texas druggists has shown that there is one outstanding reducing aid on the market that definitely cures the appetite. At the same time it dehydrates and eliminates. This product contains no harmful drugs. On the other hand it does contain ingredients to make you feel better—more alive, active and peppy. Nearly four million bottles of this preparation have been sold in Texas in the past eight years.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

The 1951 Midland Livestock Show was one of the best, and congratulations are in order for all individuals and groups who had parts in its planning and staging.

DeQ extends congratulations to all winners in the various show classes and divisions.

Scores of visitors from Midland and adjacent counties were on hand Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to attend the stock show and sale.

Young Bobby Sale of Martin County, who showed both the drylot and milked champion steers, of course was the hero of the attraction.

But nine-year-old Bobby was no more proud than was E. B. Dickenson, veteran Midland cattleman from whose ranch the champion steers came.

Dickenson Ranch calves, by the way, have annexed championships at the Midland Livestock Show seven out of the last 11 years. A pretty fair record.

As usual, the district champions, two fat steers and a fat lamb, spent Thursday night in the lobby of Hotel Scharbauer, where they attracted the customary O.H.'s and A.H.'s of homefolks and visitors.

Jimmy Holloway, the Martin County lad who last year spent the night in the hotel lobby with his drylot and milked champions (both E. B. Dickenson animals), was back in the lobby Thursday night as an interested and admiring spectator.

Jimmy now is almost 22 years old and is over age for 4-H Club work, but he still is engaged in raising top-quality Herefords. He is associated with J. C. Sale on the Dickenson-Sale Ranch in Martin County, where his 4-H training now is paying off for him in his commercial stock raising program.

Young Holloway started out on the stock show circuit back in 1943 and that same year he showed a champion in the Midland Livestock Show. He climaxed his club career by showing two champs at the 1950 Midland event, but between 1943 and 1950, he exhibited blue ribbon calves in shows all over the South-west.

He now is raising stock on a commercial basis and is spending his spare time helping 4-H and FFA Clubbers pick, feed, groom and show their fancy animals. Holloway is a strong 4-H Club booster.

Flop Roberts, popular foreman of the Scharbauer ranches, was among those admiring the show animals in the Scharbauer lobby. Flop says last week's rainfall, what there was of it, definitely benefited range-lands, particularly in the sand country. It will bring some grass and weeds, he stated.

Flop said the rain was heavier to the north and that the Scharbauer Five-Well country received more than an inch of moisture.

The American National Livestock Association will hold its 1952 convention in Fort Worth January 6-9. It was decided at a meeting of officers and directors in Fort Worth last week. The convention is expected to attract 1,200 visitors to Cowtown.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scharbauer, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Foy Proctor, Mrs. Free Bird and son, and Bob Hill were among those from Midland attending the annual convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in Dallas last week.

Buck Harris, who ranches in the Fort Stockton country, was a Midland Livestock Show visitor Thursday. Buck, a former Midland resident, says his stock is doing "pretty good" and that Pecos County range land is in fair condition. He is the son-in-law of Charlie Cox, Glasscock County rancher.

Stockers In Strong Demand At Midland Livestock Auction

The market at the Midland Livestock Auction Company sale Thursday was steady on 455 head. Stockers especially were in strong demand. Steer calves were bid as high as $45 cwt.

Steer yearlings sold for $32 to $36 and heifer yearlings the same. Stocker cows went as low as $22 to $26. Fat butcher calves and yearlings drew $32 to $34, mediums $28 to $32. Fat cows ranged from $23 to $28, medium $21 to $23, canners and cutters $17 to $21. Bulls auctioned for $26 to $28.50.

Red Cross Contribution A group of good white-faced heifer yearlings that weighed 650 pounds brought $34 cwt. Another small package of heifers weighing 500 pounds sold for $36.

Calves from Midland Livestock Show which failed to place were sold at the auction and drew up to $37 cwt. Sam Preston and Bill Moore bought one of the show calves, then resold it to a packer and contributed $330.32 to the Midland County Red Cross finance campaign.

Martin-Howard Soil Conservation Service notes:

Permanent irrigated pastures seeded last October are making a good start showing at the present time. H. R. Solomon, located north of Midland, and Fay Harding in the Tarsan area, have approximately 20 acres each. Permanent pastures seeded in the Fall of '49 also are making rapid growth. B. E. O'Neal, whose place is four miles south of Midland, has completed distributing barnyard manure and super phosphate on 38 acres of pasture.

Level borders for flood irrigation are being staked on the Leroy Mattingly and Fay Harding farms in the Tarsan group and the Curtis Powell and Dr. Clyde Thomas farms in the Courtney group.

Lespedeza Plants Available

The district has received 3,500 shrub lespedeza plants to be distributed for the purpose of erosion control, soil improvement, and food and cover for wildlife. It is recommended the plants be spaced about a foot apart in rows three feet apart along the edge of cultivated fields. They should be watered at the time they are set out to insure a good start. A few lespedeza plants should be set out where they can be given special attention for a possible source for future plantings.

Toots Mansfield of Big Spring, world champion calf roper, and Jess Goodspeed of Waurike, Okla., are matched in a calf roping event to be held April 20 in the new rodeo arena at Big Spring. They will rope and tie 12 calves each.

The contest is sponsored by the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion. A jack-pot calf roping, open to everyone, also is carded.

Perry Walker's lightweight steer was named grand champion of the 14th annual Howard County Livestock Show held last week in Big Spring. Lloyd Robinson had the reserve champion, a heavyweight.

Sonny Choate showed his South-down lambs to the grand champion of the sheep show, while Bobby Powell had the reserve champion.

Results of the 1950-51 West Texas beef cattle progeny test will be announced at a field day to be held March 31 at the agricultural experiment station at Balmorhea.

Differences in the inherent rate of gain in breeding animals are determined in this experimental work, which is being conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in cooperation with West Texas ranchmen.

There are 200 head of cattle in the current experiment. Of these, 170 are breeding cattle. The balance are crossbred steers on rations to compare the feeding value of three kinds of cottonseed meal.

Separate Pens

The various groups of breeding cattle will be shown in separate pens, with a record of their daily gains. Barbecue will be served at noon, followed by a short speaking program.

J. J. Bayles, superintendent of the Balmorhea station, reports most of the cattle are doing good and will make a good showing by the end of March.

Commercial meat production in Texas totaled 78,534,000 pounds during the month of January, which was nine per cent more than a month ago and about 17 per cent more than a year ago. This estimate includes beef, veal, pork, mutton and lamb slaughtered in federally inspected plants and other wholesale and retail plants, but does not include farm slaughter, according to a U. S. Department of Agriculture report.

The fairgrounds at San Angelo will be the scene of the 1951 San Angelo Rambouillet Ram Show and Sale scheduled July 9, 10 and 11. John Williams of Eldorado is general chairman.

All consignors to the show and sale must be registered Rambouillet breeder-owners. A breeder-owner being a breeder who owns the ewe when she is bred.

More than 450 registered Rambouillet rams already have been entered in the show, according to Jack Taylor, secretary of the American Rambouillet Association.

Bob Hewitt, well-known West Texas rancher and a former sheriff of Tom Green County, celebrated his 86th birthday anniversary in San Angelo last week. Hewitt has been a San Angelo resident 57 years. He is a frequent visitor in Midland.

Pecos County Judge Paul Counts of Fort Stockton was a Midland visitor one day last week. Judge Counts, a former manager of the Fort Stockton Chamber of Commerce, says conditions are excellent in the Fort Stockton country.

Bill's father is an employee of the Gulf Oil Corporation.

ALL WOOL AND A YARD WIDE—At least that's what this prize wool-producing English Roman sheep seems, as he poses with five-year-old Angelita Sorto at Punta Arenas, Chile. It's sheep-shearing time down at the southernmost tip of South America, where 2,600,000 of them are being rounded up for the clipper. This fellow gave 26½ pounds of wool contrasted with the average of 10 pounds. Most of it is exported to the U. S.

Officials Set To Ask Meat Price Rollback

WASHINGTON—(P)—Price enforcement officials said Saturday they are ready to seek court orders, if necessary, to roll back any meat price increases based on higher cost of live animals.

Edward P. Morgan, enforcement director, said reports from many sections of the country indicate a number of meat packers and processors have raised prices in the belief they are entitled to do so because they were paying more for live animals.

Any such increases—passed on to distributors and wholesalers and ultimately to consumers—are strictly illegal under the general price freeze of January 26, Morgan told a reporter. That freeze order limited prices to their highest levels from December 19 through January 25.

Prices of live animals were not covered in the general freeze. But Morgan stressed that meat prices were and still are frozen.

He said his field agents are making a full investigation of reports on meat prices and steps will be taken promptly to roll back any increases.

At the same time, price officials disclosed they are working full speed on a new regulation to set dollars and cents ceiling prices on live hogs and pork products at wholesale and retail levels.

One OPS official said it might be three weeks before the order will be ready. Another said there is an outside chance it might come within the next 10 days or by April 1.

Food Group Leads Slight Price Drop

NEW YORK—(P)—Wholesale commodity prices, as measured by the Associated Press index, declined slightly last week, with the food group leading the way.

The index of 35 important commodity prices eased back to 212.63 from 212.90 of last week-end and compared with 160.26 a year ago. The base year of 1926 equals 100.

Since recent testimony of industry spokesmen, oil-state congressmen have expressed increasing optimism that the committee will turned down the Treasury request.

Geological Survey Publishes Geologic Map Index Of Texas

A geological map index of Texas has been published by the Geological Survey, the Department of the Interior announced today.

This index shows areas in Texas that have been geologically mapped and the results made available to the public since 1891, the date the Texas Geological Survey released several geologic maps in its second annual report. The scales of the geologic maps located on it range from detailed mine maps to reconnaissance geologic maps approximately 25 miles to the inch.

The outline of each area mapped and the approximate scale are shown by patterns in four colors.

A bibliography printed below the index gives the sources and dates of publication of the geologic maps and the names of the geologists who did the work. About 350 mapped areas are shown on the index.

The Texas index is 28th in the State series being published by the Geological Survey to give information about areas in the United States that have been mapped geologically. It is on a scale of approximately 1:1,000,000 and is printed on one sheet measuring 53x41 inches. It was compiled by Leona Boardman.

Copies may be purchased at 60 cents each from the Distribution

Section, Geological Survey, Denver Federal Center, Denver, Colo., and at Room 1210, General Services Building, Washington, D. C. Copies will also be available for over-the-counter sale at the Geological Survey field offices at 180 New Cuthbert, Denver, Colo., and 234 Federal Building, Tulsa, Okla.

The Oil Pusher

Large Attendance Due At Amarillo Meeting Of API Production Division

AMARILLO — An outstanding program has been arranged for the Spring meeting of the Mid-Continent District, American Petroleum Institute Division of Production, which will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in Amarillo. More than 600 oil and gas men from the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma, Kansas, Indiana and Illinois are expected to attend the sessions in the Herring Hotel.

Illinois and Indiana are new additions to the Mid-Continent district, having been transferred from the Eastern District recently. R. C. Kay, of Amarillo, an independent operator, is chairman of the arrangements committee, and V. J. Mercer, of Perforating Guns Atlas Corporation, Wichita, Kans., is chairman of the program committee.

Lawton To Address Annual Meeting Of Independent Group

AUSTIN—Richard G. Lawton, production chief of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, will be the luncheon speaker at the fifth annual meeting of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association in Beaumont March 28.

Lawton is president of the Lawton Oil Corporation, Magnolia, Ark. His experience in the industry dates back to the early Ranger field days. There he worked as a member of a drilling crew following his graduation from the University of Oklahoma where he majored in geology. Later Lawton's work carried him into Shreveport where he became a partner in the McAlester Fuel Company in charge of that company's new oil production division. His oil interests soon extended through Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, and New Mexico. In August, 1950, Lawton gathered together his interests in the four states and placed them in a separate corporation, Lawton Oil Corporation.

The convention, TIPO's fifth since it was organized soon after World War II, will open at 10 a.m. March 28. Committees meet in Beaumont throughout the day before to compile reports and complete preparations. Approximately 300 independent producers and owners of royalty from every part of the State will be present.

April Meeting Of SEG Is Slated For St. Louis

The Society of Exploration Geophysicists will meet April 23 at the Jefferson hotel in St. Louis, Mo., for its 23rd annual meeting.

During the three days of technical sessions, those who attend will hear 29 addresses by leading geophysicists covering the most recent advances in the techniques of prospecting.

Meeting jointly with the SEG will be the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists, providing a program which includes the majority of methods by which minerals are found.

In addition to its own program, the SEG will present four papers in joint meetings with the other societies.

The importance of discovering greater reserves of strategic minerals needed to meet the present national emergency is expected to make this the largest convention in SEG history. More than 500 geophysicists will attend, according to advance registration, and it is anticipated that over 3,000 scientists from all parts of the world will be in St. Louis during the week.

TIPRO To Define Position On Gas Price Proposals

AUSTIN—The fight to remove "inequities and discrimination" in the price pipeline companies pay for natural gas in Texas may take on a new complexion Monday when the executive committee of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association meets at Dallas.

The executive committee previously had committed the association to whatever action necessary to remove what it termed "price inequities and discrimination" on the part of gas companies.

Without the united support of the statewide TIPRO organization of independent producers and royalty owners, present bills aimed at fixing minimum prices in the prevention of waste are given little hope of passage.

Considered almost certain to receive TIPRO endorsement is House Bill 99 providing for ratable take of natural gas. Some members of the committee expressed belief that the association will come out at this meeting in support of a bill to authorize the Railroad Commission to set minimum prices for gas in individual fields where the free forces of supply and demand are inoperative and when necessary to prevent waste.

Strong opposition exists within the association, however, on bills providing a statewide minimum price without respect for special conditions existing in individual fields.

TEXAS OIL ROUNDUP—

Residents In 30 States Would Be Affected By Pending Gas Legislation

By MAX B. SKELTON
AUSTIN—(P)—Many residents of 30 states receiving Texas natural gas would be affected by a half dozen bills pending before the Texas Legislature.

The bills propose to establish a 10 cent minimum price for each 1,000 cubic feet of Texas natural gas used for commercial, industrial or residential purposes.

That is about twice the average price the state's gas producers now receive.

Any increases undoubtedly would be passed on to consumers. An estimated five-sixths of all Texas gas that went into transmission lines last December went to out-of-state consumers.

At the present Texas natural gas tax rate—3.72 per cent of market value—any one of the six proposed bills would raise from $16,000,000 to $20,000,000 in state revenue annually.

One bill has a companion proposal that would boost this tax rate to 11.44 per cent, with an estimated $32,000,000 to $40,000,000 a year in taxes.

Conservation Measure
Each minimum price plan is labeled a conservation measure, but the various authors primarily are interested in one or more of these points:

1. The state faces a $100,000,000 deficit during the next two years unless current operating expenses are slashed sharply or unless additional tax levies are approved before the Legislature adjourns early in May.

2. The income of Texas gas producers must be placed on an equity with nearby states—Oklahoma and Kansas—which already have established price minimums.

3. Some legislators fear the Federal Power Commission eventually will attempt to establish gas prices.

None of the price bills have made much progress as yet, but most of the authors say they will force floor fights at a later date if necessary.

There is strong opposition from major oil and gas companies. They have branded the proposals as arbitrary price fixing. They also claim such price minimums would be unconstitutional in that they would break existing contracts.

Strong backing organized by independent producers and royalty owners who long have been dissatisfied with the wide price variations prevailing in many Texas fields.

Royalty owners and producers in the Guymon-Hugoton gas field in the Texas Panhandle particularly are upset.

The vast underground reservoir extends into Oklahoma and Kansas. Oklahoma recently established a seven cent minimum price for its portion of the field and was upheld by the Supreme Court. Kansas established an eight cent minimum for its share.

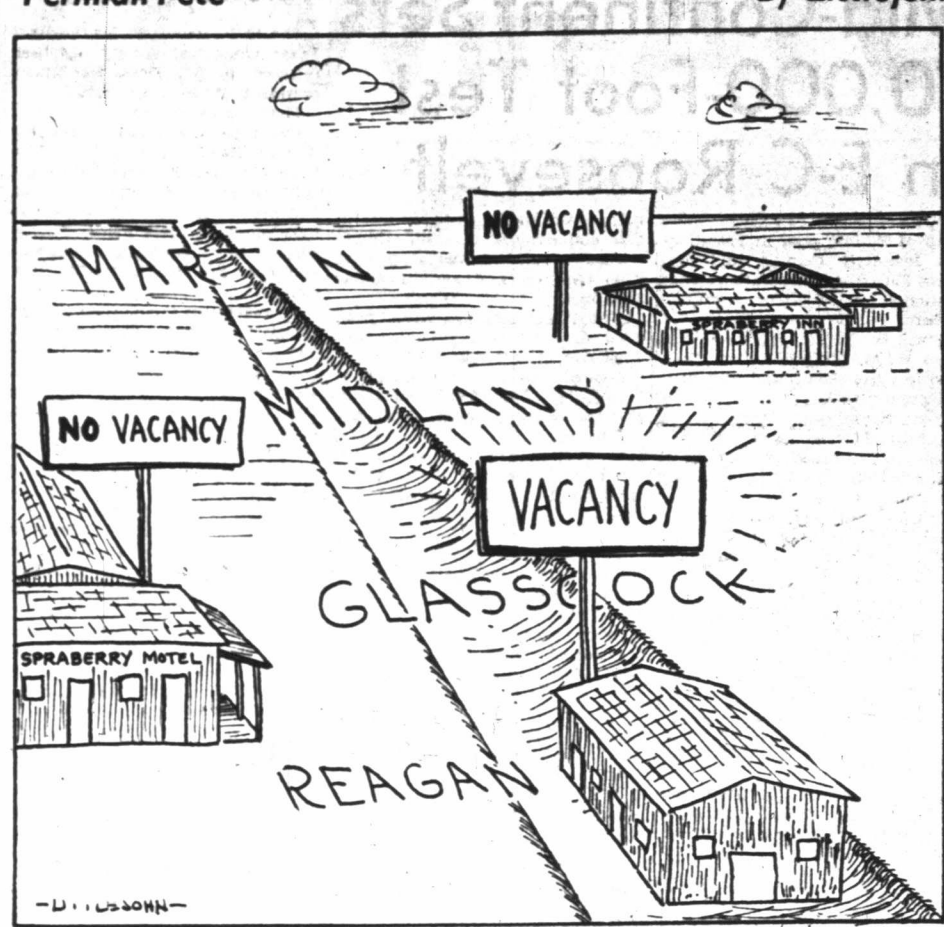

State Senator Grady Hazelwood, Amarillo, puts it this way: "Why should Texas Panhandle producers take three and four cents a thousand for gas from the same reservoir when Oklahoma and Kansas producers receive seven and eight cents?"

Hazelwood and another Panhandle legislator, Rep. William J. Craig, Miami, have teamed for a three-fold attempt to bring the Texas Hugoton prices into line.

Each has introduced three bills. Identical in each House. The first would establish a 10 cent statewide minimum. The second would give the Panhandle a 10 cent price. The third would leave it up to the Texas Railroad Commission to establish minimum essential to gas conservation.

Hazelwood plans to give the House of Representatives a "fair chance" to act on one of its five bills.

Mid-Co Gets Oil And Gas Shows In Dawson Project

Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation has found good indications of possible production in the middle of the Spraberry section at its No. 1 R. C. Moore, Dawson County wildcat.

The petroleum signs came in a drillstem test at 7,917-84 feet. The tool was open three hours. Gas was at the surface in one hour and 45 minutes.

Recovery was 316 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud. There were no signs of water.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was 150 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure after 20 minutes was 350 pounds.

Making More Holes
The prospector was making hole below 8,017 feet in shale and lime Saturday.

The oil and gas cut mud in the above test was the first indications of possible production the project has found.

It is approximately two miles southwest of Lamesa, and the three-quarters of a mile south of the lone producer in the Huddle-Manning field. That well gets its oil from the Spraberry.

WASHINGTON OIL—Petroleum Product Prices Continue Upward Swing Despite General Freeze

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Petroleum product prices keep rising despite the general freeze which went into effect January 25, and federal price controllers are disturbed.

The Labor Department's weekly wholesale price report indicates an advance of 1.2 points in the gasoline price index since February 6 to a high of 132.6 nationwide; for distillate fuels, the advance was 1.4 to 132.4.

The line has been held for crude oil, kerosene, residual and lube oils.

Quarried, the Labor Department offers several explanations. One is that prices advanced to reach ceiling, another that there have been violations, chiefly in California. Further, that gasoline price wars have held down prices, which just now are catching up.

Office of Price Stabilization officials, just catching up with the significance of Labor Department price report, first questioned the statistical methods, and then launched a full inquiry into whether there have been violations.

Since the bulk of the petroleum industry has held the price line, if there have been violations, they would have to be of some magnitude, according to OPS officials, to affect the general price level as much as one full point.

A checklist of 27 petroleum and of some 200 other industry expansions in the works is furnished in a Defense Production Administration listing of companies granted speedy tax amortization privileges.

One of the largest certificates was to Pan-American Southern Corporation, New Orleans, La., which had been headed by Bruce K. Brown. Brown is the "without compensation" deputy director of the Petroleum Administration for Defense.

Area Committee Makes Plans For OIC Work

Plans for the activities of the Oil Industry Information Committee in West Texas during 1951 were discussed at a meeting in Midland Friday.

Marvin Miller of Big Spring, who was recently appointed area chairman for the OIC in this region, presided. Miller succeeds John W. House of Midland, who served as area chairman for four years.

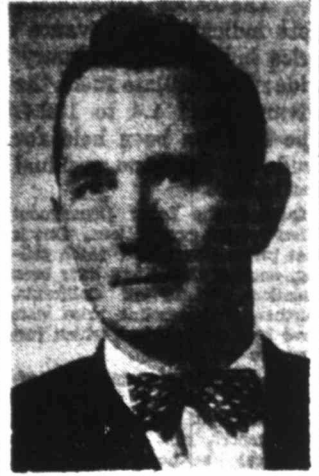

Miller announced that he will shortly appoint chairman for each county in West Texas who will in turn select several other persons in those counties to work with them in telling the story of the oil industry to the public through various media.

Roy M. Stephens of Houston, state chairman for the OIC, attended the gathering and outlined the objectives of the nationwide program which is being supported by all segments of the oil industry.

Agnew Also Attended
Don Agnew of Dallas, who is a member of the committee's staff in charge of the working in the six states of the Gulf-Southwest region also attended.

Others present were members of the West Texas area committee and representatives of newspapers and radio stations. They were guests of House at a luncheon at the Petroleum Club at noon Friday.

Miller is vice president of Occidental Petroleum Corporation, in charge of sales. House, who remains as a member of the West Texas area committee, is division superintendent of Humble Oil & Refining Company in the Permian Basin.

Marvin Miller

superintendent, Gulf Oil Corporation, Odessa; B. L. Ryan, area manager, Shell Oil Company, Midland; J. E. (Ed) Warren, president, Carl B. King Drilling Company, Midland and C. H. McCall, Humble, Midland.

Miller announced that several other persons will be added to the area committee in the near future.

Emergency Spacing Is Ordered By RRC

The Railroad Commission of Texas, in its effort to conserve steel during the national emergency, has issued an order calling for only one well on a maximum proration unit.

The order became effective March 15 as an emergency measure and will be made permanent on April 1 if no bona-fide protests are lodged.

In the emergency order, the commission outlined distances to be considered the minimum authorized to permit flexibility in locating wells on the proration units. The commission stated that the purpose of the order was to permit only one well to a maximum unit.

The order, in part, follows:
(a) Statewide spacing, or Rule 37, which is 330-933 spacing, will for all practicable purposes, be considered as 30-acre units, even though these units are not used in allocating the allowable for proration purposes.

(b) Fields having spacing rules with no proration units in the allocation formula.
1. 330-660 spacing will be considered 10-acre proration units.
2. 467-933 spacing will be considered 20-acre proration units.

3. 660-1320 spacing will be considered 40-acre proration units.

(c) Fields having spacing different from proration units where units enter into the allocation formula.

1. 330-660 spacing will be considered 20-acre proration units.

2. 330-933 spacing will be considered 20-acre proration units.

3. All fields having spacing rules calling for less than 20-acre units but containing 20-acre proration units in the allocation formula.

4. 330-660 spacing will be considered 40-acre proration units.

5. 467-933 spacing will be considered 40-acre proration units.

6. 330-933 spacing will be considered 40-acre proration units.

7. 467-1320 spacing will be considered 40-acre proration units.

8. 660-933 spacing will be considered 40-acre proration units.

9. 330-770 spacing will be considered 40-acre proration units.

10. 330-1320 spacing will be considered 40-acre proration units.

11. 555-1,060 spacing will be considered 40-acre proration units.

12. All fields having spacing rules calling for less than 40 acres but containing 40-acre proration units in the allocation formula and all

A drillstem test from 4,763 to 4,798 feet, with tool open three hours, developed 465 feet of brackish salt water with no shows of oil or gas.

Operator then cored from 4,798 feet to 4,828 feet. Recovery was 30 feet of dolomite with 10 per cent porosity. A core was then taken from 4,828 to 4,846 feet. Recovery was 100 feet of dolomite with 100 per cent porosity.

Operator then pulled a core from 4,846 to 4,875 feet. Recovery was 29 feet of dolomite with 10 per cent porosity and a trace of fluorescence.

Location is 1,900 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 31-17S-20E.

Shamrock Oil Corporation No. 1 Lightcap, wildcat in extreme Southeast Chavez County, is coring below 8,223 feet in dolomite and shale.

A previous core from 8,861-7 feet recovered 13 feet and seven inches of black fossiliferous lime. A core from 8,875 to 8,899 feet showed 24 feet of which the top 15 feet was gray black fossiliferous lime, nine feet was gray dolomitic material.

Another core from 8,869 to 8,922 feet showed 22 1/2 feet of which 16 feet was gray dolomitic material and six feet and six inches of gray dolomite. The Devonian was topped at 8,890 feet.

No shows have been reported in the prospector.

Drill site is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 13-8S-29E.

SE Roosevelt

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 J. B. Brown, deep wildcat in Southeast Roosevelt County, is digging below 7,118 feet in shale.

Drillstem tests of formations so far drilled failed to develop indications of possible commercial production. The exploration will be drilled to 10,000 feet to test the Permian.

The No. 1 J. B. Brown is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 6-2S-34E.

Malco Refineries, Inc. No. 1 Union Federal, a shallow wildcat in Southeast Chavez County, is drilling below 1,077 feet in anhydrite.

Eight and five-eighths-inch casing was cemented at 563 feet.

The project is at the center of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 13-13S-29E.

The same operator's No. 1 D. B. Anderson, another shallow wildcat in Southeast Chavez County, is drilling below 1,947 feet in dolomite.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 4-14S-29E.

E. J. McCurdy & McElroy No. 2 Key, three-quarters of one mile north of the Eddy County line and in Southeast Chavez County, is drilling in anhydrite below 1,700 feet.

The exploration is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 34-15S-29E.

Sooner Ags, ACC Win At Cowtown

Brady Grabs High School Class Crown

FORT WORTH—Tall Charles Holding Saturday leaped higher than any man had ever jumped in Texas. It was a dazzling feat in a Southwestern Recreation Track and Field Meet that had six records broken and two tied.

Holding, a six-foot-six freshman from East Texas State College zoomed six feet, nine three-quarter inches — an inch and a quarter under the world's record — to furnish the highlights of the two-day meet that saw Oklahoma A&M win the prized university class championship.

The Oklahoma Aggies raced to 30 3/4 points to win the blue ribbon division — four and three-fourths better than Southern Methodist, a surprise second-place finisher.

Abilene Christian College won the college division with 32 1/2 points. Texas took top honors in the college freshman class with 38. Victoria easily captured the junior college title and Brady whipped the defending state schoolboy champion, Odessa, in the high school class with 27 2/3 points. Odessa got 25 points.

Best Leap Since 1941
Holding's great jump not only set a new record in the college division, where the standard was a six foot, four and one-half inches, hung up by Bill Hunt of East Texas State in 1939, but was an over-all record. It eclipsed the university class record of six feet, eight and one-fourth inches set in 1940 by Dean Don Boydston of Oklahoma A&M.

As far as known here, it is the highest recorded since Les Steers of Oregon set the world record at six feet, 11 inches in 1941. Holding tried for Steers' mark Saturday. He leaped three times with the bar at six feet, 11 1/4 inches and barely failed on each effort.

Holding's record was the only one in the college class. The university division produced two. Jim Brown, one of the great Arkansas distance runners, loped the mile in 4:20.3 to wipe out by four and two-fifths seconds the record set in 1931 by Glenn Dawson of Oklahoma. Dawson's mark was one of the oldest in the books. Jim West, another Arkansas distance star, ran the special two-mile event in 9:47.4. This beat the record of 9:53.3 set by John Case of Texas Tech in 1938.

Schoolboys Come Through
The college freshman division produced one record—a joint affair. Roscoe Vrooman of Oklahoma A&M and Tommy Ward of Texas each high jumped six feet, three and three-fourths inches. This beat the record of six feet, three and one-fourth inches set by Ray Womack of Texas in 1949.

The high school boys came through with two records. Bill Turner of Brady did the 220-yard low hurdles in 21.9 Friday in the preliminaries to beat the mark of 22.6 set by Bobby Dean of Corpus Christi in 1949. Saturday, with a strong cross-wind handicapping him, Turner won the hurdles in the finals in 23 flat. The other high school mark was a six foot, three and three-fourths inch high jump by Wayne Delaney of Sherman and Bob Harbin of Paschal (Fort Worth). The old record was six feet, three inches set in 1947 by Byron Townsend of Odessa and tied in 1948 by Holding, when he was competing for Waco High School.

Dean Smith of Texas tied the 100-yard dash record in the college freshman division in the preliminaries at 9.8. The record was set by Elmer Helbing of Texas Christian in 1934 and tied by Paul Wells of Oklahoma A&M in 1950. In the finals, bucking the wind, Smith again did 9.8.

The other record tied was by Joe Childress, the great Odessa sprinter who ran a 214 220-yard dash in the prelims to equal the mark set in 1944 by Charles Parker of Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) and equaled in 1949 by Childress.

ON ST. PAT'S DAY—

Irish Patty O'Sullivan Keeps Titleholder Lead

AUGUSTA, GA.—(P)—Patty O'Sullivan, playing in a shamrock green skirt, combined her Irish luck with brilliant playing Saturday to stay at the head of the parade in the Titleholders Golf Tournament.

The little Irish girl from Orange, Conn., shot a third-round 77 for a 225 total to stay in front of Claire Doran, Cleveland, Ohio, school teacher.

Claire, Patty Berg and Beverly Hanson, ranking in 1950 by Charles Thomas of Cleveland. In the finals Saturday, Childress won in 10.2.

Not a single defending champion repeated in the five divisions of the meet. Odessa, which had come through in 1950 in the high school class, could have taken the title had it won the mile relay—last event on the program, in which Brady did not have a team. But Odessa finished entirely out of the money.

Third in the high school class was Amarillo with 14 points. Oklahoma A&M was defending titlist in the freshman class but the little Aggies wound up with only 11 points and sixth place Saturday. Southern Methodist was second in the freshman class with 18 points. University of Houston was third with 17, while Baylor was fourth with 16.

Abilene Christian College beat out North Texas State in the college class by four and one-half points. In fact, North Texas finished up third with 28, a half-point back of Howard Payne.

Victoria rolled up 42 points for the biggest margin in any class, taking the junior college crown by 15 4/5 points over Southwest Texas. Schreiner was third with 17 1/5.

Mishaps Mar Meet
In the university class, Baylor was third with 24 3/4 points and Arkansas was next with 21.

Paul Wells, Oklahoma A&M's fine sprinter, who did 9.8 in the 100-yard dash preliminaries, pulled a muscle and couldn't compete in the finals. Another mishap that robbed the meet of a likely record was a sprained ankle that Paul Faulkner of Abilene Christian College suffered. A great waiter, Faulkner repeatedly has bettered anything this meet has to offer.

The biggest point-maker in the meet was Bill Walters of Victoria Junior College, who wound up with 15 1/2. Val Joe Walker, Southern Methodist hurdler, led the university class with 10 points. Leon Lepard of Abilene Christian College topped the college division with 11 1/4 points. Charles Thomas of Texas wound up at the top in the college freshman class with 10 points. Three tied for high point honors in the high school division with 10 points apiece. They were Childress, Jimmy Samuelson, Brady weight man, and Turner.

that order after the second round, needed only 76 strokes apiece, to move up one notch each on Miss O'Sullivan. Claire's total is now 227. Patty Berg's 229, and Beverly's 231.

Babe Zaharias partially cured her current troubles with an improved 77 but her total of 236 practically removed any hope she has of successfully defending her 1950 title. The Babe's other rounds were 79 and 80.

Behind the Babe but still among the better ranking golfers are: Peggy Kirk, Findlay, Ohio, with a 78 for 237; Marlene Bauer, Midland, Texas, an 81 for 241; Marge Lindsay, Decatur, Ill., 80 for 241; Mrs. Julius Page, Jr., Chapel Hill, N. C., 84 for 243; Alice Bauer, Midland, Texas, 81 for 244; and Mary Lean Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., and Marjorie Burns, Greensboro, N. C., tied with 245's after rounds in 75 and 81.

Scores of other leaders included: Helen Dettweiler, Indio, Calif., 84-87-77-248.

Betty MacKinnon, Mt. Pleasant, Texas, 87-83-79-249.

Dot Kirby, Atlanta, 85-83-82-250.

Betsy Rawls, Austin, Texas, 83-88-80-251.

A&M Plasters Texas In Dual Track Meet

COLLEGE STATION — (P) — Texas A&M took an even dozen first places and a host of seconds and thirds Saturday to defeat the University of Texas in a dual track meet 91 1/2 points to 44 1/2.

Darrow Hooper of A&M and Ralph Person of Texas tied as high point men, each taking first in two events. Person took first in the 100-yard dash and the low hurdles. Hooper, Cadet weight man, took first in the discus and shot put. His shot put of 53 feet, three inches was a foot more than the Southwest Conference record.

The sprint relay, won by A&M in a time of 42.7 seconds, was one of the best races of the day. Texas' Bob Cone used high wind effectively to toss the javelin 194 feet, 10 inches. His and teammate Ray Marek's throws were more than 10 feet further than the best A&M could do. A&M dominated all events except the javelin, 100-yard dash, broad jump and low hurdles.

SACK TIME—Tom Casagrande, who the Phillies are teaching to play first base, stretches for a short one at the National League Champs Clearwater, Fla., training camp. Also a pitcher, the gigantic Fordham junior was paid $40,000 for signing a contract. (NEA)

Four Years, Four Loop Titles For Sul Ross College

ALPINE — (P) — Folks hereabouts figure they have a football coach with a record that will compare with anybody.

It's perfect—four years, four conference championships.

That's what Paul E. (Red) Pierce has done at Sul Ross State College. Sul Ross is one of the traveling teams in the country. It has to make a lot of miles to play a schedule because Alpine is a long way from most places that have senior colleges.

The Lobo team will hop around 5,000 miles per season, doing most of the travel by plane.

For instance, take the 1951 schedule. Eight games will be played in Texas, some of them clear across the state. And Texas is mighty big. The other two games will be: California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo, Calif., and Florida State University at Tallahassee, Fla.

Pierce came to Sul Ross in 1946. The college had discontinued football in 1939 but when Dr. Richard M. Hawkins became president in September of 1945 one of his first acts was to reinstate intercollegiate athletics. He employed Pierce and

Red showed up for Spring training in 1946.

There wasn't much of a team in sight but Pierce was a good developer. He had just come out of the Navy and it was while in the service in Maryland that he coached the powerful Bainbridge Navy team.

In 1947 Sul Ross got into the New Mexico Conference after playing independent football a year. For three seasons Sul Ross won the conference championship. Last year the Lobos stepped up into the Lone Star Conference and proceeded to win the title to most everybody's surprise.

Pierce is a Sul Ross ex-student. While here in 1935 and 1936 he played fullback on the Sul Ross team and was quite a performer. In one game he scored 39 points—all the points made in the game.

Mulbry Resignation Accepted, Baseball Executives Reveal
MIAMI BEACH, FLA. — (P) — Walter Mulbry's resignation as secretary-treasurer of baseball has been accepted to become effective at the Executive Council's pleasure, it became known Saturday.

Mulbry's ouster was requested by A. B. (Happy) Chandler, baseball commissioner who was refused a new contract by major league club owners at a meeting here Monday.

The owners have voted 16-0 to request the Executive Council to terminate Mulbry's contract "at their pleasure" and at Chandler's request.

Executive Council members accepted Mulbry's offer to resign, but agreed to keep him on his job for an indefinite period. His services could be terminated at any time. It was considered certain he will be out when a new commissioner succeeds Chandler.

Sooner Ags, ACC Win At Cowtown

Brady Grabs High School Class Crown

FORT WORTH—Tall Charles Holding Saturday, leaped higher than any man had ever jumped in Texas. It was a dazzling feat in a Southwestern Recreation Track and Field Meet that had six records broken and two tied.

Holding, a six-foot-six freshman from East Texas State College zoomed six feet, nine three-quarter inches — an inch and a quarter under the world's record — to furnish the highlights of the two-day meet that saw Oklahoma A&M win the prized university class championship.

The Oklahoma Aggies raced to 30 3/4 points to win the blue ribbon division — four and three-fourths better than Southern Methodist, a surprise second-place finisher.

Ablene Christian College won the college division with 32 1/2 points. Texas took top honors in the college freshman class with 38. Victoria easily captured the junior college title and Brady whipped the defending state schoolboy champion, Odessa, in the high school class with 27 3/4 points. Odessa got 25 points.

Best Leap Since 1941

Holding's great jump not only set a new record in the college division, where the standard was six feet, four and one-half inches, hung up by Bill Hunt of East Texas State in 1939, but was an over-all record. It eclipsed the university class record of six feet, eight and one-fourth inches set in 1940 by Dean Boydston of Oklahoma A&M.

As far as known here, it is the highest recorded since Les Steers of Oregon set the world record at six feet, eight and one-half inches.

ON ST. PAT'S DAY—

Irish Patty O'Sullivan Keeps Titleholder Lead

AUGUSTA, GA.—(P)—Patty O'Sullivan, playing in a shamrock green skirt, combined her Irish luck with brilliant playing Saturday to stay at the head of the parade in the Titleholders Golf Tournament.

The little Irish girl from Orange, Conn., shot a third-round 77 for a 225 total to stay in front of Claire Doran, Cleveland, Ohio, school teacher.

Claire, Patty Berg and Beverly Hanson, ranking in 1950 by Charles Thomas of Cleveland. In the finals Saturday, Childress won in 10.2.

Not a single defending champion repeated in the five divisions of the meet. Odessa, which had come through in 1950 in the high school class, could have taken the title had it won the mile relay—last event on the program, in which Brady did not have a team. But Odessa finished entirely out of the money. Third in the high school class was Amarillo with 14 points.

Oklahoma A&M was defending title in the freshman class but the little Aggie wound up with only 11 points and sixth place Saturday. Southern Methodist was second in the freshman class with 18 points. University of Houston was third with 17, while Baylor was fourth with 16.

Ablene Christian College beat out North Texas State in the college class by four and one-half points. In fact, North Texas finished up third with 28, a half-point back of Howard Payne.

Victoria rolled up 42 points for the biggest margin in any class, taking the junior college crown by 15.45 points over Southwest Texas. Schreiner was third with 17 1/2.

Mishaps Mar Meet

In the university class, Baylor was third with 24 3/4 points and Arkansas was next with 21.

Paul Wells, Oklahoma A&M's fine sprinter, who did 9.8 in the 100-yard dash preliminaries, pulled a muscle and couldn't compete in the finals. Another mishap that robbed the meet of a likely record was a sprained ankle that Paul Faulkner of Ablene Christian College suffered. A great vault, Faulkner repeatedly had bettered anything this meet has to offer.

The biggest point-maker in the meet was Bill Walters of Victoria Junior College, who wound up with 15. Val Joe Walker, Southern Methodist hurdler, led the university class with 10 points. Leon Lepard of Ablene Christian College topped the college division with 11 1/4 points. Charles Thomas of Texas wound up at the top in the college freshman class with 10 points. Three tied for high point honors in the high school division with 10 points apiece. They were Childress, Jimmy Samuelson, Brady weight man, and Turner.

that order after the second round, needed only 76 strokes apiece, to move up one notch each on Miss O'Sullivan. Claire's total is now 227, Patty Berg's 229, and Beverly's 231.

Babe Zaharias partially cured her current troubles with an improved 77 but her total of 236 practically removed any hope she has of successfully defending her 1950 title. The Babe's other rounds were 79 and 80.

Marlene Haas 241.

Behind the Babe but still among the better ranking golfers are: Peggy Kirk, Findlay, Ohio, with a 76 for 237; Marlene Bauer, Midland, Texas, an 81 for 241; Marge Lindsay, Decatur, Ill., 80 for 241; Mrs. Julius Page, Jr., Chapel Hill, N. C., 84 for 243; Alice Bauer, Midland, Texas, 81 for 244, and Mary Lean Paulk, Thomasville, Ga., and Marjorie Burns, Greensboro, N. C., tied with 245's after rounds in 75 and 81.

Scores of other leaders included: Helen Dettweiler, Indio, Calif., 84-87-77-248.

Betty MacKinnon, Mt. Pleasant, Texas, 87-83-79-249.

Dot Kirby, Atlanta, 85-83-82-250.

Betsy Rawls, Austin, Texas, 83-88-80-251.

A&M Plasters Texas In Dual Track Meet

COLLEGE STATION — (P) — Texas A&M took an even dozen first places and a host of seconds and thirds Saturday to defeat the University of Texas in a dual track meet 91 1/2 points to 44 1/2.

Darrow Hooper of A&M and Ralph Person of Texas tied as high point men, each taking first in two events. Person took first in the 100-yard dash and the low hurdles. Hooper, Cadet weight man, took first in the discus and shot put. His shot put of 53 feet, three inches was a foot more than the Southwest Conference record.

The sprint relay, won by A&M in a time of 42.7 seconds, was one of the best races of the day. Texas' Bob Cone used high wind effectively to toss the javelin 194 feet, 10 inches. His and teammate Ray Marek's throws were more than 10 feet further than the best A&M could do.

A&M dominated all events except the javelin, 100-yard dash, broad jump and low hurdles.

Four Years, Four Loop Titles For Sul Ross College

ALPINE — (P) — Folks hereabouts figure they have a football coach with a record that will compare with anybody.

It's perfect—four years, four conference championships.

That's what Paul E. (Red) Pierce has done at Sul Ross State College. Sul Ross is one of the traveling teams in the country. It has to make a lot of miles to play a schedule because Alpine is a long way from most places that have senior colleges.

The Lobo team will hop around 5,000 miles per season, doing most of the travel by plane.

For instance, take the 1951 schedule. Eight games will be played in Texas, some of them clear across the state. And Texas is mighty big. The other two games will be: California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo, Calif., and Florida State University at Tallahassee, Fla.

Pierce came to Sul Ross in 1946. The college had discontinued football in 1939 but when Dr. Richard M. Hawkins became president in September of 1945 one of his first acts was to reinstate intercollegiate athletics. He employed Pierce and

Red showed up for Spring training in 1946.

There wasn't much of a team in sight but Pierce was a good developer. He had just come out of the Navy and it was while in the service in Maryland that he coached the powerful Bainbridge Navy team.

In 1947 Sul Ross got into the New Mexico Conference after playing independent football a year. For three seasons Sul Ross won the conference championship. Last year the Lobos stepped up into the Lone Star Conference and proceeded to win the title to most everybody's surprise.

Pierce is a Sul Ross ex-student. While here in 1935 and 1936 he played fullback on the Sul Ross team and was quite a performer. In one game he scored 39 points—all the points made in the game.

Ferrier, Shields Share Golf Lead At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.—(P)—Jim Ferrier, tournament veteran, and Jack Shields, tournament novice, shot their second straight four-under-par 68's Saturday for the 36-hole lead in the $10,000 Jacksonville Golf Open.

Ferrier, the big husky Australian who plays out of San Francisco, had 33-35 for his 68. Shields, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, did it with 34-34.

Their 186 totals put them four strokes out front of two youngsters—Bob Toaki of Northampton, Mass., and Milton Marusic of Albany, N. Y. Toaki and Marusic each added 69's to opening round 71's over the 6,508 yard Hyde Park course for 140.

Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., first-round leader with 67, needed 74 Saturday and had a total of 141.

Art Doering of Richmond, Va., matched Friday's 71 and stood at 142.

Eddie Johnson, 18-year-old State University freshman from Tallahassee, also had a 68 Saturday. He was tied with a group of professionals at 143, and took over as leading amateur. Hobart Manley, Jr., of Savannah, Ga., whose 71 topped the amateurs Friday, added 77 for 148.

The pros tied with Johnson at 143 were Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif.; Max Evans of Detroit; Ed Oliver of Seattle; Art Wall, Jr., of Bronxville, N. Y.; Jackson Bradley of Chicago; Marty Furgol of Long Beach, Calif.; Joe Kirkwood, Jr., of Hollywood, Calif., and Dave Douglas of Newark, Del.

Mulbry Resignation Accepted, Baseball Executives Reveal

MIAMI BEACH, FLA.—(P)—Walter Mulbry's resignation as secretary-treasurer of baseball has been accepted to become effective at the Executive Council's pleasure, it became known Saturday.

Mulbry's ouster was requested by A. B. (Happy) Chandler, baseball commissioner who was refused a new contract by major league club owners at a meeting here Monday.

The owners have voted 16-0 to request the Executive Council to terminate Mulbry's contract "at their pleasure" and at Chandler's request.

Executive Council members accepted Mulbry's offer to resign, but agreed to keep him on his job for an indefinite period. His services could be terminated at any time. It was considered certain he will be out when a new commissioner succeeds Chandler.

Mackey And Puett Lead MHS Golfers To Tourney Title

FORT WORTH—With Graham Mackey and Roane Puett showing the way with 77's, Midland High School's golf team captured the Southwest Exposition Golf Meet here Friday afternoon at Meadowbrook greens.

A strong south wind kept the scores from being the best, as the Midland team's 319 total was 14 strokes over the 305 shot by winning Capitol Hill of Oklahoma City last year.

The Capitol Hill team finished second here Friday, posting a 321 score for the four-man team, two strokes back of the winning Bulldogs.

In addition to the 77 scores posted by Mackey and Puett, Raymond Leggett shot an 82 and Johnny Ward posted an 83 to round out the four-man team Midland scores.

It was the sixth meet of the year for the unbeaten Midland High linksters, as Coach Audrey Gull's youngsters continue to look like the class of Texas high school golfers.

Twenty-seven high school four-somes entered the meet here, with Sunset of Dallas, Highland Park of Dallas, Amarillo, Breckenridge, Poly (Fort Worth), Paschal (Fort Worth), Corsicana and Arlington Heights (Fort Worth) finishing in that order behind winning Midland and runner-up Oklahoma City.

Defending champion Capitol Hill furnished the medalist winner, as 17-year-old Abe Justice scored an eagle duce on the 14th hole to finish with a 73 score.

But the well-rounded, steady play of the Midland team more than made up for the brilliant playing of young Justice. The Midland golfers were cheered throughout the 18-hole grind by a host of encouraging Midland High School students.

Once it required 44 hours to travel from New York to Washington by stage coach, a trip that today can be made in 90 minutes by airplane.

Irish Bob Murphy TKO's Bucceroni, Challenges Maxim

NEW YORK —(P)— Irish Bobby Murphy Saturday dared Light Heavyweight Champion Joey Maxim to put his title on the line and then went out to march with the St. Patrick's Day paraders.

The grinning, stout-hearted redhead from San Diego celebrated St. Paddy's Eve by blasting out a technical knockout over lanky, green Danny Bucceroni in 51 seconds of the fifth round of a bloody slugfest in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

A few minutes later, still in his blood-stained trunks, Bobby went on a television network show to tell the folks how he did it. Then home for a warm bath and to prepare his brown suit, green tie, and a shamrock for the march up Fifth Avenue.

Brigham Young Is NIT King

NEW YORK —(P)— Brigham Young's magnificent Nomads, getting an all-America performance from bouncing Roland Minson, shattered Dayton's Cinderella dreams 62-43 Saturday night to win the National Invitation basketball championship.

The six-foot Minson, a midget in this day of Hardwood giants, thrilled a Madison Square Garden crowd of 18,379 with a fantastic exhibition of rebounding, stealing and shooting. He couldn't be contained.

The energetic youngster with the crew haircut shot Dayton dizzy, hitting with either and both hands and from all parts of the floor to rack up 26 points.

Dayton Star Handcuffed

With a 20 point lead, 61-41, and two and a half minutes to play, Coach Stanley Watts pulled out his regular team—Minson with it—amid a deafening roar from the crowd.

Minson's six-foot-five teammate, Mel Hutchins, nullified Dayton's potent scoring threat, long Don Meineke, limiting the six-foot-seven pivot start to seven points including only one field goal. Meineke was the tournament's leading scorer with a total of 77 points for his first three games.

With Meineke completely handcuffed, Dayton's popular little round man, 230-pound Leland Norris, took the Flyers offensive burden on his own ox-like shoulders and gave a show that fell only a mile short of that of Minson.

New Norther Brings Windstorms, Snow, Hail, Rain To State

By The Associated Press

A windstorm in Arkansas knocked out Texarkana's power briefly Saturday night. Thundershowers were reported in Texas from Longview to Texarkana.

Earlier in the day, a Spring norther brought light, wet snow to the Amarillo and Dalhart sections of the Panhandle.

Texarkana's power went off for about 45 minutes when a windstorm knocked down a high tension line about 10 miles away in Arkansas. Power also was off for a second time at Ashdown, Ark. Rain fell both north and south of Texarkana. There was some hail. Winds were clocked at the Texarkana Municipal Airport at 54 miles an hour.

Longview had a thundershower and so did Tyler. A pilot reported hail over Mt. Pleasant. There was a heavy hail at Terrell.

While Amarillo was reporting 34 and Dalhart 36-degree afternoon readings, Alice and Laredo had 91.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said that by Sunday morning there should be showery weather in South Texas and colder weather in North and West Texas.

A cold front spreading southward was forecast to reach the coast Saturday night. Small craft warnings against stiff winds were up from Brownsville, Texas, to Morgan City, La. The warnings also were raised east of Morgan City to St. Marks, Fla.

There were showers between Dallas and Waco Saturday. Forecasts called for low minimums of 28 to 32 degrees in the extreme northwest part of East Texas; 20 to 28 in the Panhandle and 26 to 32 in the South Plains.

Saturday afternoon temperatures included El Paso 69, Big Spring 71, Brownsville 83, Corpus Christi 78, Houston 76, Beaumont 72, San Antonio 84, Waco 82, Dallas 77, Fort Worth 74, Wichita Falls 62, Lubbock 46, Abilene 70, San Angelo 81 and Texarkana 76.

Mother Of Actress Found Dead In Bed

BLOOMFIELD, CONN. —(P)— Actress Katharine Hepburn, returning to her home here, found her mother dead in bed Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas N. Hepburn, mother of the actress and wife of a prominent Hartford surgeon, was widely known for her long-time interest and leadership in the birth control movement.

The "corn-hog ratio" often used in U. S. farm statistics means that it is profitable to grow hogs when 100 pounds of pork will buy 11 or more bushels of corn.

Truman Reported Ready To Approve New, 18-Man WSB

WASHINGTON —(P)— The government Saturday was reported preparing to create a new 18-man Wage Stabilization Board, even without a formal agreement between labor and management as to the board's powers.

Some officials expect the action to be announced by President Truman within a week or two, possibly before the end of this week in an effort to head off a meat-packing strike March 28.

One of the first tasks of such a board would be to consider whether to relax wage controls to permit a wage raise to meat packers.

The President will return here Thursday from Key West, Fla.

The new board, twice as big as the one that was crippled a month ago when the labor members walked out, reportedly would have limited powers to settle defense plant disputes—along the lines proposed by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston.

Neither management nor labor has approved those terms, and may not formally approve them. But management groups have said they at least would participate on such a board, and some labor leaders have indicated labor would also participate if the board were created.

National AAU Cage Tourney Set Sunday

DENVER —(P)— Maybe not the best, but probably the biggest basketball tournament in the land opens Sunday for a week-long run at Denver's City Auditorium.

Forty-one teams will battle through the one-game elimination meet for the championship of the National Amateur Athletic Union. The defending champion, Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., are favored strongly to repeat. The Oilers have lost the title only once since 1945.

Tourney Director Willard Greim said there'll be 10 games Sunday and another 10 Monday night to trim the field. While several Eastern and Midwestern teams are entered, the Rocky Mountain and West Coast areas are sending most of the entries.

Becker at Seoul was permitted to say that American and South Korean patrols grobed vigorously north of the Han River.

The new censorship regulations—including double scrutiny in the field and at Tokyo—banned identifying Allied units, their locations and commanding officers. Information obtained from prisoners of war or Allied agents also will be banned in the future.

The purpose was to avoid disclosing anything of value to Communist intelligence.

Chinese Reds Manned
Before the security clampdown, Correspondent Leif Erickson reported from Eighth Army headquarters that "four Chinese armies (corps) were getting set along ridges and high points southwest and southeast of Chunchon. That important Red base is eight miles south of Parallel 38.

Four more Red corps were in reserve to the north.

Normally the Chinese corps, each composed of three divisions, numbered 30,000 to 40,000 men. This meant 120,000 to 160,000 Chinese were on the front for the defense of Chunchon and an equal number was in reserve to back them up.

It was possible, however, that the Reds would clear out from all positions south of the 38th parallel.

An American intelligence officer in Seoul was quoted in a field dispatch as saying: "There are indications the enemy feels he cannot hold his line in view of our superiority in equipment. He may withdraw."

Chance For Diplomats

United Nations commanders generally felt that the diplomats at Lake Success now had their first important chance to gain an acceptable peace in Korea since the Chinese Reds intervened late last October.

The Allies have proved they cannot be driven off the peninsula; have proved that even with the Chinese advantage in manpower, the Communists can be forced to retreat; and in seven weeks have inflicted an officially estimated 17,000 casualties on the Reds.

In case any Reds were considering surrender, Allied transport planes roved the lines to encourage them. They dropped 2,000,000 surrender leaflets Saturday alone.

The aerial war continued at a peak effort Saturday, against slight opposition.

One U. S. Shooting Star jet, however, collided with a Russian-built MIG-15 and both pilots were presumed dead. The collision took place south of Mamsi, Northwest Korea.

Texas Regents To Probe Accusations Against Dr. Ayres

AUSTIN —(P)—The "Truth or Falsity" of statements attributed to an economics professor whom legislators charge with advocating socialism will be investigated, the University of Texas Board of Regents said Saturday.

The charge, leveled by Rep. Marshall O. Bell against Dr. Clarence E. Ayres, dominated legislative developments this week. The House ordered university officials to decide whether Ayres should keep his job.

Denying the accusation, the 59-year-old professor and member of the school's Faculty Committee on Academic Freedom said he did not consider himself a Socialist. He said he never had advocated socialism nor been a member of the Socialist Party.

An investigation will be made within the 10-day period set by a House resolution passed Thursday. Chairman Dudley K. Woodward, Jr., of the Board of Regents said in a letter to House Speaker Reuben Settleff.

Freedom Of Thought
At the same time, Woodward's letter called the Legislature's attention to the board's philosophy that a professor is "entitled to freedom of thought and expression, subject of course, to the limitation that he shall not teach doctrines of a subversive or illegal nature."

The regents unanimously approved the letter, which Woodward said was based on careful consideration of the House resolution.

A three-man committee, comprised of University Chancellor James Hart, President T. S. Painter, and Board Member Claude Voyles of Austin, was authorized to represent the board in making the investigation and report to the Legislature.

St. Patrick's Day Hit Parade— Little Bit O' Heaven Fell To Make Ireland; Did Little Bit Of Sandstorm Make Midland?

Wearing their green, Midland's Irishmen Saturday were heard humming the good St. Patrick's Day tune about a little bit of heaven falling out of the sky and they called it Ireland.

It's the good song of how Ireland got its name.

No doubt you remember it tells about the sprinkling of stardust to make the shamrocks grow and the dotting of silver.

But there was another song in the air in Midland on St. Patrick's Day.

To the tune of the Irish song, it tells how Midland got its name.

Navy Storekeeper Slaps, Arrests Air Force Major General, Winds Up In MP Hoosegow

HONOLULU —(P)—A Navy enlisted man slapped and "arrested" an Air Force major general early Saturday, and wound up in military custody himself.

The general, however, said he did not intend to press any charges against the sailor.

Henry McCoy of The Reporter-Telegram Saturday night was judging eight quarters in his hand. He looked at one quarter. It was dated 1940. He looked at another. It was dated 1947.

Then he really began to look—1941, 1942, 1943, etc.

You guessed it—the eight quarters dated consecutively from 1940 through 1947.

Both were in civilian clothes, but the older man calmly identified himself as Maj. Gen. David M. Schlatter, commanding general of the U. S. Air Force Research and Development Section and former commander of the U. S. Air Force in Europe.

Burt was turned over to Military Police. He said he had encountered the general talking to some sailors on a street in Waikiki.

"He asked me if I was happy with my job and why didn't I join his outfit," said Burt. "He was saying the same thing to the others. He did not say what his outfit was and would not identify himself."

"I figured he was a Communist, so I slapped him a few times, threw him into a cab and brought him to the station."

"I don't know what to say about it," General Schlatter told reporters. "He (the sailor) just walked up to me and started slapping me on one side and the other."

The general said he was enroute home from a trip to Korea.

Series Of Investigations Brings Reverberations From Several Quarters

WASHINGTON —(P)—A sensational series of investigations into such topics as multi-billion dollar government lending, military surplus sales and the underworld's activities Saturday produced:

1. A charge by Senator Taft, Ohio Republican, that the Administration is guilty of "political corruption."

2. A decision by a House committee chairman to give John Maragon, former White House hanger-on, a chance to tell what he knows about George Dawson, Britisher described as a kingpin in massive deals in surplus property.

3. A double threat of contempt and perjury charges against Frank Costello, boss racketeer.

4. U. S. Treasury moves to pin income tax evasion charges on "many" mobsters and gamblers.

In a speech at Charlottesville, Va., Taft charged that "five per-centers and influence peddlers are still doing business in Washington at the same old stand."

He called for "complete abolition" of the powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make new loans. A Senate subcommittee has accused the RFC of bowing to White House pressure and displaying "favoritism."

Network Of Crime
Turning to the subject of the underworld, Taft said a Senate investigation headed by Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.) has "revealed a network of crime extending throughout the country, and tied into political organizations on the state and local level."

On the surplus property front, Representative Bonner (D-NC) announced plans to press his probe into reports that huge quantities of American trucks, electrical equipment and other surplus, turned over to the West German government, had been sold to private traders and resold at fancy prices.

Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, White House aide, once wrote a letter to a general saying John Maragon was working for "George Dawson and company" and was interested in purchasing surplus.

In Paris Saturday, the Dawson figuring in the current investigation said he knew Maragon but never did any business with him.

Dawson denied he made $100,000 in surplus deals, as reported. He said his trading was carried on fairly and squarely "under fierce competition."

At Key West, where President Truman has said his Administration is composed of honorable men, there was no further comment Saturday, except that a secretary said the Vaughan letter was old stuff, publicized two years ago.

Sticks To Plans
Senator Fulbright (D - Ark.), chairman of a subcommittee, inquiring into the RFC, stuck by his plans to wind up the hearings Monday. He said he has proved amply that his charges against RFC officials were not asinine, as President Truman called them.

To continue, he said, would produce a "Roman holiday" that could serve only political ends. He wants a non-political commission to study morality in government.

But Republican senators pressed for a continuation of the RFC investigation. For one thing, they said they wanted to re-question former Rep. Joseph E. Casey (D-Mass.) about a profitable transaction in tankers. Also they would like to ask him how he got his present post as a top aide to Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston.

Casey has declared he never had any undue influence anywhere in government and that all his dealings were strictly proper. Nobody has accused Casey of anything illegal.

Investigations into other subjects were popping also. In New York Rudolph Halley, counsel to the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, announced that transcripts of testimony given by Frank Costello, underworld mogul, were being turned over to the U. S. attorney for possible perjury action.

The crime committee, meeting in Washington, voted to start contempt action against Costello and two other underworld figures for refusing to answer certain questions. The other two are Joe Adonis and Frank Erickson.

The U. S. Treasury announced that an elite corps of crack investigators is being formed to track down tax frauds of gamblers, racketeers and mobsters.

Mrs. Pitre is the third person to be sentenced to death in connection with the destruction of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane Sept. 9, 1948.

Senator's Condition Worsens Slightly

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH. —(P)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg's condition remained grave throughout Saturday.

As the Supreme Soviet starts spending its highest budget in history—including more "defense spending"—work goes ahead on the great industrial chain which Russia is forging from the boundaries of Eastern Europe to the North Pacific Coast. The Newsmag above gives known highlights of the Soviet program, much of which has been built in great haste since the end of World War II. Military secrecy shrouds most of what is going on in Northern Siberia, but it is known that the Reds have been converting the vast Arctic wastelands into a great military bastion.

IT WAS A GOOD GAME—Midland High School students shake hands after an exciting game of tennis. With Spring just around the corner tennis courts are becoming popular spots. After school is out in the afternoon boys and girls gather at the courts to watch or participate in the sport. Tennis players, happy over the results of the game, are, left to right, Bill Crenshaw, Betty Sivalls, Fifi Pryor and Jim Ervin.

—Signs Of Spring—

OUTDOOR PARTIES—Wednesday is the first day of Spring and Midlanders' thoughts will be turning to outdoor parties, picnics and barbecues. Many Midland homes have barbecue pits and picnic equipment in back yards, ideal for entertaining friends on Spring or Summer evenings. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stubbsman, 1202 West Texas Street, are in the midst of preparing barbecue in their modern barbecue pit.

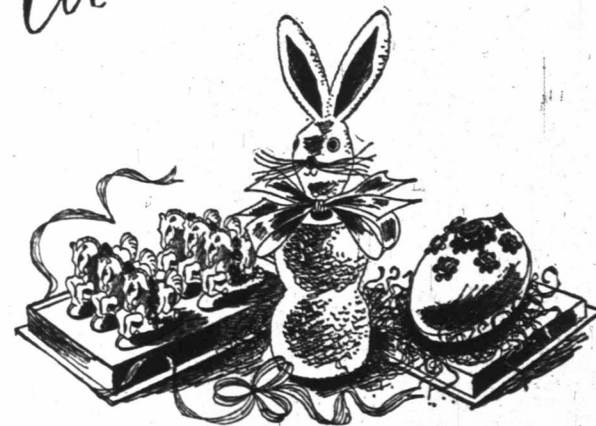

SPRING GARDENING—With the coming of Spring, garden enthusiasts begin to shake off the dust from their gardening tools and try to repair the damage old man Winter has done to their flowers and vines. Mrs. Frank Aldrich, 1207 West Louisiana Street, digs dirt around her climbing rose vine before beginning to prune and spray the branches. The garden clubs in Midland soon will begin the Spring pilgrimages to flower gardens, and Mrs. Aldrich will have her garden ready. Plans also are underway for the clubs' individual Spring flower shows.

GOLF ENTHUSIASTS—Spring is the traditional season for the appearance of golf widows. Let the first warm days come and no golfer worth his salt could ignore the call of the links. Mrs. Charles Wallace, left, and Pat Garner agree that Spring is a time to escape to the golf course. It isn't as if they neglected the greens the rest of the year, though. Mrs. Wallace is golf chairman for the Ladies Golf Association of the Midland Country Club, while Miss Garner is recognized as one of West Texas' foremost women golfers in the amateur bracket. She not only has participated in a number of amateur tournaments in West Texas, but also made the headlines a few years back by applying for a position on the Texas Christian University golf team, an application which was turned down on the theory that the field was strictly masculine domain.

'Selfish' Daughter-In-Law? Mama Should Keep Hands Off

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Writes a mother: "My son has married a girl who is very selfish, bossy and determined to have her own way in most things. We were not in favor of the marriage, though we have tried to be agreeable and accept her as our daughter."

"She promised before they were married that she would work. My son is not quite through college and now she doesn't want to work so that he can finish. My heart bleeds for him, but what can I do? I would work, myself, so that he could finish his education, but I am not able. Can you offer any suggestions?"

Yes, but you won't like them. First of all, tell your heart to behave itself and quit bleeding over a son who is old enough to be married.

You were against the marriage, but he made his own decision. It's time for you to realize that your only duty to him now is to keep hands off.

Way To Wreck A Marriage

If you want to ruin him and his marriage, tell him how sorry you feel for him. Remind him that his wife is letting him down in not taking a job as she promised. Tell him how much nobler you are—that you would work for him if you were physically able.

But if you want your son to shoulder his own responsibilities, to make a go of his marriage, to be a man instead of a mama's boy, let the introduction.

him alone. If he wants that education bad enough, he'll manage to get it, some how. Maybe the reason his wife decided not to go to work is that she is afraid he'll come to depend on her more than is good for him.

You'll probably not relish this straight talk or take this advice. But if you want someone to tell you that you're absolutely right, you'll have to go to someone else. (All rights reserved, NEA Service, Inc.)

You go up to talk to a person who obviously does not remember you.

WRONG: Say: "I don't believe you remember me."

RIGHT: Spare the person the embarrassment of having to admit he doesn't remember you by saying "I am Dorothy Smith. I believe we met at the Grayson's last Summer."

You are standing with your husband at a party when a person you have met, but he hasn't, comes up to talk to you—and you cannot think of the person's name.

WRONG: Go along talking without making an introduction.

RIGHT: Admit that you can't remember the name and then make the introduction.

Flowers Go To The Head For Easter

These flowered hats are special bonnets for Easter Sunday. Mago Hayes uses pale blue hair braid (upper left) to make a tiny cloche sprinkled with forget-me-nots. Sally Victor's wide-brimmed rough white straw sailor (lower left) blooms with large red poppies. A vivid turquoise ballbunt by Walter Florell (above) has a brim full of red velvet flowers. Chantreuse forget-me-nots trim a bonnet (upper right) by Lenesta. Jougille provides charming balance for a rippled brim bonnet (lower right) in jonquill yellow by Sally Victor.

NEW YORK — An Easter bonnet, as every woman who's ever worn one knows, is a special hat.

Even in a Spring such as this, when hats are relatively simple and uncluttered, the Easter hat is gorgeous with flowers and ribbons, and 1951's top designers have made them real confections.

Sally Victor, for instance, does an unmistakable Easter bonnet in jonquill yellow and gives it a rippled brim. She places small clusters of jonquills under and over the brim to make a flower frame for a pretty face.

A dramatic Easter hat by Walter Florell is in turquoise ballbunt straw, its wide brim covered with huge red velvet flowers. A coarse mesh face veil is in the same brilliant turquoise.

A fragile cloche from the hands of Mago Hayes is pale blue hair braid covered over with tiny forget-me-nots in various shades of blue. It's banded in velvet ribbon in a deeper shade of blue.

Another true Easter bonnet, this one by Lenesta is handwoven chautreaux hair braid, its rippling brim finished with a fringe of hair braid. The trim for this hat is chautreaux forget-me-nots.

Even the wide-brimmed sailor will appear in the Easter parade bedecked in flowers. Sally Victor does one in rough white straw braid, gives it large, raggedy red poppies as trimming. The brim is literally loaded with these poppies, to create an effective hat that will turn many a head on Easter Sunday.

Don't keep fresh mushrooms too long before using them—three days in the refrigerator at the most. Use low heat when you're cooking them and don't overcook.

Scouts Observe 39th Birthday With Programs

Midland Girl Scouts put 39 candles on their birthday cakes Wednesday and Thursday to celebrate the founding of the national Scout organization that many years ago. The anniversary was observed with programs in the Little House.

Six of the seven programs followed a similar pattern. The story of the Scout founder, Juliette Low, and the World Friendship Fund was given by a student from the dramatics department of the high school. Mrs. Jack Ewing, program chairman, followed this with an explanation of the World Flag. A film on "World Friendship" was another program feature.

The girls made their contributions to the World Friendship Fund and the Midland Girl Scout Association presented to each Scout a world pin signifying membership in the World Association of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides. Meetings were begun with the presentation of the colors, followed by group singing.

High school speakers and the groups they addressed were as follows: Roberta Stewart, second and third grade Brownies; Virginia Kroenlein, Senior Scouts; Agatha Tabor, fourth grade Brownies; and fifth and sixth grade Intermediates, and Joan Fitzgerald, junior high scouts.

The seventh program was a style show presented by Mrs. Milton Loring and featuring the Senior Scouts who have just completed a modeling course under Mrs. Loring's direction.

Flower arrangements were sent by the Boy Scouts. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a cloth depicting the Girl Scout pin of all nations.

The MATURE PARENT

Don't Bribe Your Child
If You Judge Him Wrong

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Bury fathers and mothers are bound, once in a while, to judge or punish their youngsters unjustly.

When it does happen, it is important that the situation be dealt with promptly and properly.

It is improperly dealt with when we make fussy apologies, or try to make up to our youngster for our mistreatment by granting him extra favors and privileges.

Mrs. R. is an excellent cook. One evening she made a batch of cookies to serve to guests. Fred R. came home early, snatched several of the cooling cookies and went off for a handball game.

When Mrs. R. discovered the loss, she accused seven-year-old Janet.

"But, Mother, I didn't take them," her daughter protested.

"Janet," said her mother in disgust, "it was bad enough to take the cookies, but to lie about it..."

When Fred came home the truth came out. Mother R. attempted to make it up to Janet by giving her a dollar for a doll.

What she did was to reward her little girl for failing to stand up and fight for her right to be believed.

No material favor or privilege we can give a misjudged child can compensate for the loss of confidence he suffers when he knows he has failed to make us see the truth of his motives or actions.

Giving favors or privileges may afford us a pleasant glow of satisfaction that we have disposed of the wrong we had done. But the pleasant glow has left untouched a

Mauve Note For Easter Trimmings

These accessories are spice for an Easter costume. A fingertip envelope (upper left) in navy calf with gold plated handle bar is right with capes and the ensemble look. A necklace of odd-shaped turquoise beads (lower left) is combined with filigree gold and pearl rondelles. The cluster earrings make a set. Fluffy fox (center) in a new color, amber, makes a handsome, inexpensive stole. Gloves in double-woven cotton (upper right) have white pique cuffs that unbutton. The all-important scarf (lower right) is shown here in silk chiffon, a square revealing mauve lace on a pale pink ground with a border of navy on pink.

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer
NEW YORK — One touch of mauve, the high shine of black patent, the gleam of white in a glove—these are the small things

Mrs. Hurley Talks On Mums, Gladiolus

Mrs. Butler Hurley of the Midland Garden Club spoke to members of the Beginners Garden Club Friday on Chrysanthemums and Gladiolus, Their Growth, Care and Planning. The American Association of University Women's group met in the home of Mrs. W. H. Carter.

In a short business session, Mrs. W. E. Cox was named vice chairman. Mrs. Mann Rankin was a guest. Members attending were Mrs. Jimmy Gaines, Mrs. J. C. Mayes, Jr., Mrs. William Johnson, Mrs. Richard Sullivan, Mrs. C. R. Gaylord, Mrs. B. J. Ferris, Mrs. F. D. Richardson and Mrs. B. W. Bourne.

A small amount of crushed quick-frozen strawberries will make a confectioners' sugar frosting look pretty and taste good. Add the berries after the butter or margarine and sugar have been creamed, then thin as that help to make an Easter costume. The special twist of a new scarf or a fluff of amber fox can work wonders with a simple suit.

The woman who feels she can't possibly afford a suit or dress for this Easter would do well to concentrate on accessories. She can give last year's good gray suit new life with a navy calf handbag and a pale pink carnation pinned, not on one shoulder, but at the center of the neckline. She might pick slim, pointy pumps in black patent, carry a patent handbag and wear a shiny black straw hat.

Because mauve is the leading accent color this Spring, the mauve touch could come in costume jewelry, in flowers or in a huge silk square showing mauve lace on a pale pink ground. This particular scarf has a border of navy on pink. Because this is a suit-and-street-dress Spring, small furs and fluffy furs are newly in the spotlight. Foremost among these is amber fox, both for its beautiful color and its low price. Amber fox is used for one stole that will see its wearer through several Easters.

A navy calf handbag in the new fingertip envelope shape is a good investment on any Spring day. Topped by a gold-plated handle bar, it can be carried in the hand or under the arm.

Mauve appears often in costume jewelry this Spring but vivid colors are seen, too. The right accent for a gray suit might be a necklace of turquoise striped beads combined with filigree gold and pearl rondelles. To wear with this necklace, there are clip-on cluster earrings in striped beads, small pearls and filigree gold stars.

A glove that can lead a double life is a good buy at Easter or any other time. One such glove, in double-woven navy cotton, has a scalloped white pique cuff that unbuttons, leaving a very short shortie. When the pique is removed, the button-hole can be clipped with small sparklers.

SUNNY SIDE UP City Inspectors To Move In On Egg Grading Violators

The Midland health department doesn't care whether the eggs are served scrambled, sunny-side-up or in an omelet.

But, when the housewife buys them, they must be properly graded and marked.

This warning came Saturday from Dr. F. E. Sadler, director of the city-county health unit.

"Most of our eggs are good," he explained, "and our wholesalers and retailers, as a whole, are okay."

"But we've had some pretty sad experiences with eggs in the past. We just want to guard against having a lot of bad eggs dumped on us."

So Dr. Sadler dusted off the six-month-old egg ordinance and announced that its provisions would be enforced.

The ordinance was approved last August by the City Council but, said Dr. Sadler, it has never been enforced.

"We wanted to wait," he said, "until other cities in this area had passed similar ordinances so it could be enforced generally."

Edwin Stitt, assistant city attorney, met with Dr. Sadler and members of his staff Thursday for a discussion of the ordinance and its provisions.

It was Stitt who drew up the ordinance, using as a pattern one prepared by the state health department.

Also at the conference were A. E. Cass, sanitarian; R. G. Boydston, junior inspector, and Mrs. Cotter Hiett, senior secretary.

Four Grades Listed
The ordinance lists four grades of eggs, under which all eggs sold either retail or wholesale must be classified. These ranged from Consumer Grade AA down to Consumer Grade C.

It also sets the standards by weight for the various eggs, such as jumbo, extra large and large.

It says, too, that no eggs shall be sold as fresh eggs "or under any words of similar import such as 'new laid eggs,' 'henery eggs' or 'newly laid eggs' which do not meet the minimum requirements of Consumer Grade A.

Health inspectors are empowered under the ordinance to inspect and condemn eggs that do not meet the specified requirements.

Violation of provisions of the ordinance carries a fine of from $10 to $100.

Tender meats take a dry heat via roasting, broiling, and pan-broiling. Use moist heat for less tender meats by braising them or cooking them in water.

There's One Office Nobody Is Seeking In Service Club

PECOS—Election time at the Pecos Lions Club is approaching and at least five candidates are campaigning in reverse.

Nominees for other offices are Jack Hawkins, Ray McPherson, Frank Kelly, A. W. Bingham and Woodrow Douglas, all for president; Charles Hutchins, William Hestess, Bob Bickley, W. D. Martin, T. A. Withers, Bill Spears, Ernest Epley and Milford Johnson.

New Furniture Stresses Utility

New furniture designs built around homemakers' problems include seating arrangements which may be easily combined. Choice of standard units enables purchaser to fit dimensions of a particular room (above). Other co-ordinated units are upholstered as one piece in fabric designed to complement structural lines (lower right). Square corner table features sides upholstered in matching fabric. These save space by doubling as sofa arms.

By ANNE LARSEN
NEA Staff Writer
NEW YORK—Just by looking at the new furniture for 1951 and pulling out a drawer or two, you can almost see the sort of people for whom the various pieces were designed. Mostly, they're people with problems.

Crisis Care For Your Automobile Outlined

TOLEDO, OHIO—Care for your car is vital today because the war crisis may make it difficult to get another. This is the opinion of Dean A. Walters, service manager for a motor manufacturer (Willys-Overland).

He suggests: (1) Frequent brake and wheel alignment tests; (2) frequent oil changes; (3) an undercoat on the car to prevent rust; (4) an engine, carburetor, air filter and electric system kept in adjustment; (5) wax on the body.

shirts, the mother who's engaged in a running battle-of-the-couch with small fry feet, those who must double up in closet-sized quarters—all are being given a break this year.

The result is a common-sense collection of furniture that stresses utility as well as beauty. One important new trend is that of fitting furniture to the particular room you're furnishing. Since a massive sofa in a tiny room tends to be overpowering, one company hit upon the idea of offering a choice of four lengths to homemakers.

You may also select from six army-styles and two types of cushioning, virtually designing your seating units to your own tastes and needs.

When you move into a larger or differently-proportioned home, you may purchase matching units to create furniture more in keeping with the new dimensions.

Another firm with a similar scheme will upholster as one piece the units you choose, rather than leaving them as sectionals. The effect is that of custom-built furniture. Fabrics by well-known designers aid in coordinating upholstery with structure of the pieces.

Persons who use one room for sleeping, dining, entertaining and relaxing are aided in avoiding a hodge-podge by multiple-purpose furniture. This is designed to look right in whatever room of the house you need it, in temporary arrangements now or permanent homes later.

One firm, for instance, offers low two-drawer chests that can serve as bedside tables, as end supports for a vanity unit, or as occasional tables beside living-room chairs. The design is perfectly coordinated with other pieces in the line.

Another piece designed to ease crowded living is a plywood and metal room divider, which serves the double purpose of a screen and storage wall. Color is heightened and expense is lessened by the use of plastic for side and back panels.

Although the exterior design of new furniture is forward-looking, the interiors are old-fashioned in a practical sort of way. Compartments are important this year. Shelf and drawer dimensions seem to have been determined by actual measurements of things to be stored there. Shallow drawers, too, are reappearing in great numbers

West Masters, Noted Organist, Playing At Donohoo Restaurant

H. W. Donohoo, owner of Donohoo's Restaurant, announces the presentation of West Masters, "The Organ Master of the Hammond Organ," playing daily for luncheon and dinner.

Masters has an enviable reputation as an organist. He has been featured in many of the large theaters on the West Coast, including the Paramount in Seattle and Loew's, Public and Universal in Los Angeles. He also has played in theaters in Denver, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Washington and New York City, and has played over national radio networks. He recently has completed engagements at the Yung Hotel, New Orleans; Carpenter's Grill, Pensacola, Fla., and the Esquire, Chicago.

His playing includes both the classical and popular numbers.

An 1850 timetable of the Boston and Maine Railroad announced that those buying tickets for a Sunday train would be required to sign a pledge that they would use the tickets only to attend church.

THE WAY TO CALVARY

After the elders decided Jesus must die, they took him to Pilate to be sentenced according to law. The Roman governor dismissed the angry mob and tried to evade passing judgment. Questioning Jesus, he learned He was a Galilean.

Galilee being under Herod's jurisdiction, Pilate sent the Nazarene to the tetrarch who happened to be in Jerusalem. Herod tried to joke with the Savior, and asked for a miracle. Jesus was silent. Finally Herod mockingly arrayed Him in a gorgeous robe and sent Him back to Pilate.

Pilate tried again to enrage the crowd. When he offered them the choice of freedom for Barabbas, a murderer and seditionist, or Jesus, they cried for the release of Barabbas and crucifixion for Jesus. Pilate then washed his hands, saying, "I am innocent of the blood of this just man: look ye to it."

Seaside Kiddies Have Poor Swim Record

It Took Policeman To Separate Couple

TOKYO —(AP)—Masao Aoki, 20, and his sweetheart paced Tokyo's streets for hours like fond lovers, hand in hand. But there was no ordinary stroll; they were searching for an unknown man who would separate them.

Finally they located the policeman whose handcuffs Aoki found and impetuously clamped shut on himself and his girl.

New Pumps Are Trim And Ladylike

Ladylike, pretty pumps are right with 1951 spring fashions. The flat beige linen pump (upper left) has black patent heel and binding. NEW YORK—Light and ladylike shoes with a trimmed-down, slim look are the ideal companions for Spring fashions. The sheath, for example, looks best with Paris-inspired pumps, those with pointed toes and thin, high heels. And certainly, the pump in its many variations is the most universally flattering shoe.

The woman who finds the pump her pet shoe may, without difficulty, assemble an entire wardrobe of pumps this Spring. She might start with a beige linen flat with a shallow black patent leather heel and black patent top binding. This shoe could easily take her neatly and comfortably on shopping tours, out walking, see her to spectator sports.

Her next choice might be a navy calf suit pump with medium heel and slim lines. Its vamp perforated for prettiness. A closed shoe, it will look right with suits and with tailored dresses, too.

She can get a flattering high heel into her wardrobe and, at the same time, introduce a flash of color via a purple calf pump with narrow self strips across a V throat. These strips terminate in the shoe's only trim, small shiny jet buttons. This is a shoe for suits and for afternoon dresses.

For very high style, for grace with gray in any form, and for fun, she might then add a simple but sophisticated gray patent pump with a pointed toe, squared heel, slim lines.

The final touch could come in very dressy pumps in beige silk shantung embroidered in white. Lovely in its pale, subtle colors, this shoe is right with understated clothes for after five.

IRAN'S PREMIER—Hussein Ala, above, strong pro-Westerner and former Iranian ambassador to the United States, has been named premier to succeed Gen. Ali Razmara, who was assassinated recently. Hussein Ala handled Iran's complaints against the Soviet Union in the United Nations in 1946-46.

Hair Pieces Add Color

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

If glamor's your goal, don't forget to include in your magic box of tricks a good hair piece. These pin-on tresses, when chosen in a color and texture matching your own locks, can cover a multitude of mistakes—both your own and those of nature.

Hair pieces, whether they are used for concealing results of overzealous scissors sessions, for hiding more fundamental hair problems, or simply for varying your coiffure, are important beauty aids in the hurry-scurry of modern living.

Many women, whose busy schedules allow no time for the lengthy hair-dressing sessions required by elaborate coiffures, style their hair simply—depending upon hair pieces to add interest to the arrangement.

Others rely upon these supplements to help them avoid that unkempt look that descends upon many of us between hair settings.

If your own hair is unsuited to dressing in coiffures currently holding fashion's eye, try a hair piece to help you achieve the effect you desire. Various types are suited to every budget and any mood.

A pony-tail switch, perky with grosgrain ribbons for daytime wear, becomes glamorous after nightfall when combed into a small bun chignon worn high on your crown with velvet bows.

For extra-special evenings, this same type hair piece can be arranged in a cluster of bustle-back curls.

Chignons, worn low on the neck, lend an air of sophistication to the most casual, short haircut. They may be dressed in a variety of puff arrangements to conceal the ends of brief tresses; adorned with jewels or flowers for formal occasions.

The best hair pieces, according to a leading firm, are constructed of real hair in natural colors. Switches made of hair that has been bleached and re-dyed are often dry and brittle as a result of this process, as well as unnatural-looking in color. As a rule it's difficult, they say, to match the texture of your hair with that of these poorer-quality pieces.

Once you have chosen a hair piece, give as careful attention to its styling as you do to that of your own hair. Avoid sticking it on in makeshift fashion at the last minute. Plan ahead, treating your hair piece as an extension of your own tresses, if you wish to derive from it the ultimate in beauty.

Sydney R. Montague, a former member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and philosopher and adventurer of note, will be the guest speaker at a dinner-meeting of the Midland Knife and Fork Club March 27 in the high school cafeteria, Carroll L. Thomas, president, announced Saturday.

Thomas promises club members an evening of rare entertainment packed with rugged adventure, philosophy and a shrewd glance into the future up near the Arctic Circle. Montague, Thomas said, long has been a headline attraction on the American platform and is one of the most popular men appearing before the American public today.

Montague was in Alaska twice last Summer and he recently completed the material for a new book which will be published later this year.

Reservations for the March meeting may be made by contacting Newell W. Ellis, secretary-treasurer. A near-record attendance is anticipated.

Foundation Gets Polio Patient Care Payment

AUSTIN—More than $90,000 due Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation for polio patient care will be paid from the recent March of Dimes, it was announced Saturday by Ralph Frede, Central Texas representative for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Frede explained the debt for treating infantile paralysis victims was incurred during the late months of 1950 and that it accumulated primarily because Texas NFIP Chapters ran out of money because of the heavy polio incidence.

The 2,778 new polio cases reported in 1950 set a new high for Texas and climaxed three severe years from the disease.

The February 1 indebtedness of $90,595.22, as reported officially by the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, covers 75 of the state's 284 counties. The entire state incurred a bill of approximately $250,000 at Gonzales last year.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Duggan-Field link may be clue to seven unsolved disappearances or deaths following revelations in Alger Hiss case; Whereabouts of Noel Field is No. 1 American mystery in Europe.

(Ed. Note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

FRANKFORT — The No. 1 American mystery of Europe continues to be the sudden and unsolved disappearance of four Americans in the Noel Field case after Field was named by Whittaker Chambers as a member of the Communist cell in the U. S. State Department. This case now is being linked for the first time with another unsolved mystery in the United States—the strange death of Laurence Duggan, found in a snowbank 16 floors below his New York office. Duggan also was named in the State Department investigation, though cleared by the Justice Department.

The amazing thing is that a total of seven persons now have died mysteriously or disappeared even more mysteriously following revelations in the Alger Hiss case.

The four persons who have disappeared behind the Iron Curtain with or in the wake of Noel Field are: Field himself, who disappeared in Czechoslovakia May 10, 1949. His brother, Herman, vanished August 22 that same year while traveling in an airplane between Warsaw and Prague. A few days later Mrs. Noel Field disappeared while trying to find her husband in Prague. Then, a year later, Erica Wallachs, a friend of the Fields, went into the Russian Zone of Berlin in search of them and never came back. All these disappearances occurred during about the same period of three mysterious deaths in the Hiss case. They were: Death No. 1—Harry Dexter White, former assistant secretary of the Treasury who reportedly died of a heart failure Aug. 16, 1948, after testifying before the congressional committee at which Elizabeth Bentley had charged White with being a member of the elite Communist group inside the government. White's death was not announced until one day afterward and he was buried hastily. Later it was reported the real cause of his death was an overdose of digitalis, not heart failure.

Death No. 2—Walter Marvin Smith, Justice Department attorney found at the base of the Justice Department staircase where he had fallen or jumped Oct. 20, 1948, shortly after the House Un-American Activities Committee had questioned him on his notarization of the transfer of title of a Ford automobile from Hiss to William Rosen, described as a Communist organizer. Hiss, according to Whittaker Chambers, insisted on turning over his car to the Communist organizer. Smith was the only actual witness to the transfer.

Death No. 3 and the most mysterious of all what that of Laurence Duggan, the former State Department official who, "while putting on his overshoes to go home," fell through a New York skyscraper window. Duggan had been questioned a few days earlier regarding Communist spies in the State Department. Insurance investigators believed it unlikely a man would commit suicide while putting on his overshoes and paid his widow non-suicide death benefits.

Clue To Mystery?

It now develops there was a personal link between Duggan and Field which may supply one small clue to this international mystery. Duggan and Field not only served in the State Department at the same time but, for one period, they shared the same house together off Judiciary Square in Washington. Duggan informed his superiors during the war that he once had attended Communist meetings in Alexandria, Va., during his early days in the State Department but he never had joined the party and became unsympathetic with their ideas. A man would commit suicide while putting on his overshoes and paid his widow non-suicide death benefits. Field, meanwhile, had left the State Department in 1936 and joined the League of Nations Secretariat. During the war he served as European director of the Unitarian Service Committee which took him to Poland and Czechoslovakia, where he established medical centers and children's homes. He thus had become well acquainted with these two countries and, after the war, remained abroad to write a book on Poland and Czechoslovakia. On May 8, 1949, Field went from Switzerland to Prague and on May 12 he failed to keep an appointment. He has not been heard of since. Apparently he did not plan to disappear because his room showed no signs of departure. He did not notify the friend with whom he had the appointment nor his wife, Herta, who planned to join him in a few weeks.

Five months later, however, when the Communists tried Hungarian Foreign Minister László Rajk, the Hungarian press reported that Rajk testified that Field had persuaded him to become "a servant of American imperialism." Later, in the Fall of 1950, six East German Communists were charged with dealing with "the American spy, Noel Field."

More recently Czech refugees have reported that Field would testify in the trial of Czech Foreign Minister Valdimir Clementis, though there has been nothing to substantiate this.

Meanwhile, Field's brother, Herman, in August, 1949, decided to go to Prague to find his missing brother. He boarded a plane in Warsaw on August 22. Friends accompanied him to the airport and the American Embassy, checking the plane's manifest later, found his name was on it. However, when the plane arrived at Prague Herman Field was not on it. He never has been heard of since, either, except in one respect.

On Feb. 25, 1950, Vilem Novy, editor of the Czech Communist newspaper, Rude Pravo, was denounced by a member of the Central Communist Committee for having betrayed state secrets to a Western espionage agent when Novy was a refugee in Krakow in 1939. Herman Field, who then was doing refugee work among Czech refugees in Krakow, knew Novy and was apparently that alleged agent.

Theories On Mystery
Meanwhile, Mrs. Noel Field left Switzerland on August 3 to seek her husband in Prague but she, too, disappeared from sight on August 17. A year later, with the Fields' whereabouts still unsolved, their friend, Erica Wallachs, wife of a Washington attorney, persuaded her husband to let her go to Switzerland to locate them. Mrs. Wallachs went to Berlin alone, reportedly was met by Leo Bauer, editor of the Soviet-controlled Berlin radio whom she knew. She never has been heard of since.

Several theories are given for these disappearances. One is that Field had been working with the Communists and, when the congressional investigations got too hot, he wanted to be taken into protective Communist custody. Another theory is that the Fields had worked with the Communists in their early days, when their vital secrets, and became too dangerous for them to have on the loose. Another is that they wanted Noel Field as a witness against key figures, such as Hungarian Foreign Minister Rajk. Field not only worked with refugees during and after the war but also with the OSS in Czechoslovakia and Hungary in an effort to unseat Hitler's puppet governments.

Meanwhile, until Field and his family are heard from direct, his whereabouts remain the No. 1 unsolved mystery of Europe.

The first U. S. patent for wireless (radio today) was issued to Dr. Mahlon Loomis in 1872.

Cream Created By Birthmarked Beauty Helps Others Put Best Face Forward

By ANNE LARSEN
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—To neighbors who saw Lydia O'Leary pass that long-ago afternoon, it was like any other Saturday. The girl walked as she had fallen into the habit of doing—head bowed, shoulders hunched.

They'd heard the child was having a hard time of it since she'd entered Junior High. But then—they turned from their windows—there was nothing they could do.

There was nothing anyone could do. The port wine birthmark that flamed across almost half of Lydia's face remained like an indelible stain despite the efforts of numerous doctors. Radium had worked no better than anything else.

Lydia, ducking her head low to hide her blemish, walked on past the last outskirting houses of New Bedford and into the country. She had to think.

Her room at home wouldn't do. It had become, like the locker room at school where she cringed during lunch hours, just another hiding place.

Nor could she ponder her problem in the midst of her family. They had guided her with enlightened understanding as far as they could through what might have been a bog of sympathy or self-pity. But now the situation had changed.

Lydia O'Leary stood alone in the fields, hearing in the rustling of the wind, echoes of whispers in the limbs of the trees, reminders of pointing fingers. She quietly began to weep.

Then suddenly her head snapped back. Who were those pimply adolescents to assign her to a lifetime role as an ugly duckling? Her features were good, her eyes were nice, her hair was bright and curly. Lydia stopped sniveling; thrust her handkerchief decisively back into her pocket.

Miss O'Leary's refusal to let her life be ruined by what "after all, is only a big freckle" is only part of the story. It's quite another to meet the world head on, determined to do something about your problems.

There's no need, Miss O'Leary contends, for a person to feel set apart and different all his life simply because nature slapped a blotch of off-shade pigment in the wrong place. Her answer is a color repair-job—hiding birthmarks with a skinned-toned cream preparation.

The discovery of this cover-cream was a comedy of errors, shadowed with overtones of tragedy.

Lydia O'Leary, whose discovery has freed thousands from embarrassment: "After all, a birthmark is only a big freckle."

It occurred at a time when Miss O'Leary was beginning to wonder if resolution was, after all, enough.

Her courage had seen her successfully through the last of high school, college, and six years of teaching. But then, after coming to New York to find expression for her artistic leanings, she had spent 17 months in unfruitful job-hunting.

It seemed prospective employers could never wrench their eyes past her blemish to look at her excellent qualifications. Lydia was discovering that, unfair as it seems, "people do take you at face value." She resorted to small do-at-home jobs in order to stay on and keep trying.

It was one evening, as she painted a still-life of irises for a friend, that she made the important mistake of her life. She painted one petal too dark.

What she did next changed her life. Instead of removing the pigment and starting over, she tried applying over the purple the lavender she'd originally intended. It worked!

In that instant she realized she'd solved her blemish problem. With trembling hands, she mixed paint to her own skin tones and covered her birthmark. She rushed to the mirror to stare at the new beauty of her unmarred face.

Actually this was only the first step toward the perfection of the only "cosmetic" that the courts have ever awarded a patent. It took months of experimentation, with the aid of a chemist, to produce a cream that wouldn't crack when she smiled, that wouldn't rub off, that wouldn't dissolve with the first splatter of rain.

When at last the cream emerged in usable form, Miss O'Leary again tackled an employer she'd hounded for months. This time she got a job.

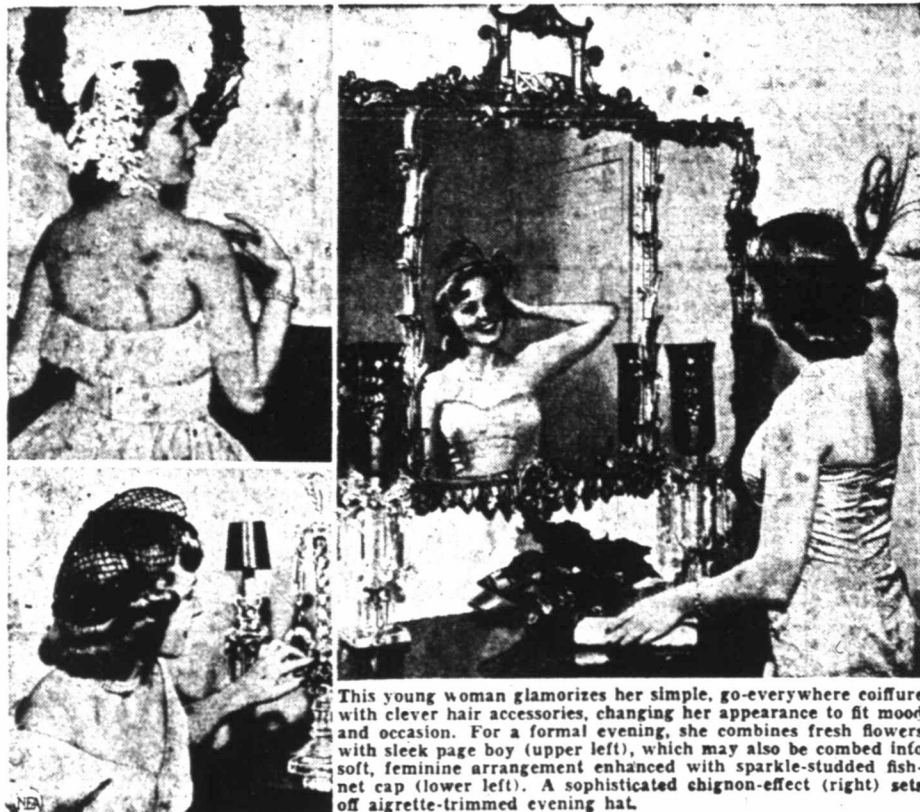

She wore her discovery happily for months before realizing there were others who needed it, too. She then decided to make her cover-cream her life's work, feeling that she, better than anyone, could offer understanding and guidance along with her product.

This Miss O'Leary has attempted to do—from the beginning when she tremulously rented space for one desk until the present time. Today she presides over a spacious salon, graciously receiving those customers who seek her personal help.

Displaying pictures of those she has aided, she remarks, "So many marriages have resulted from their improved good looks that I sometimes feel I am running a matrimonial bureau."

Proudly clutching the photos in her right hand, she waves good-bye with her left. As her hand descends, you catch the gleam of a wedding band on her third finger, too.

Accessories Sparkle Hair

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Because there's usually so little time for arranging elaborate coiffures during the holiday whirl, many clever women turn during this busy season to simple versatile hair-dos that can be prettied up with accessories.

Jean de Chant, noted hair stylist, suggests for this purpose, a new longer bob that is adaptable to whatever your social calendar may offer.

An easily-kept page boy style, which is sufficiently simple for the most informal occasion, becomes glamorous enough for the most sophisticated affair when fluffed into a loose shining roll that just touches your shoulders. For additional femininity, de Chant swirls a soft, flat curl down upon the forehead.

This arrangement becomes as pretty as a Christmas tree when you don a dainty cap of rhinestone-studded fishnet which rises high in front to frame your face, and dips its velvet frame low in back to accent the shining sweep of your locks. For formal evenings, de Chant combs the same basic hair-do into a sleek effect to set off a spray of flowers which he arranges on one side in an attractive asymmetrical fashion.

For gowns of delicate fabric and feminine style, he recommends a cluster of tiny pastel blossoms. For dresses of heavier material and more dashing cut, flowers a bit bolder in size and color may be used.

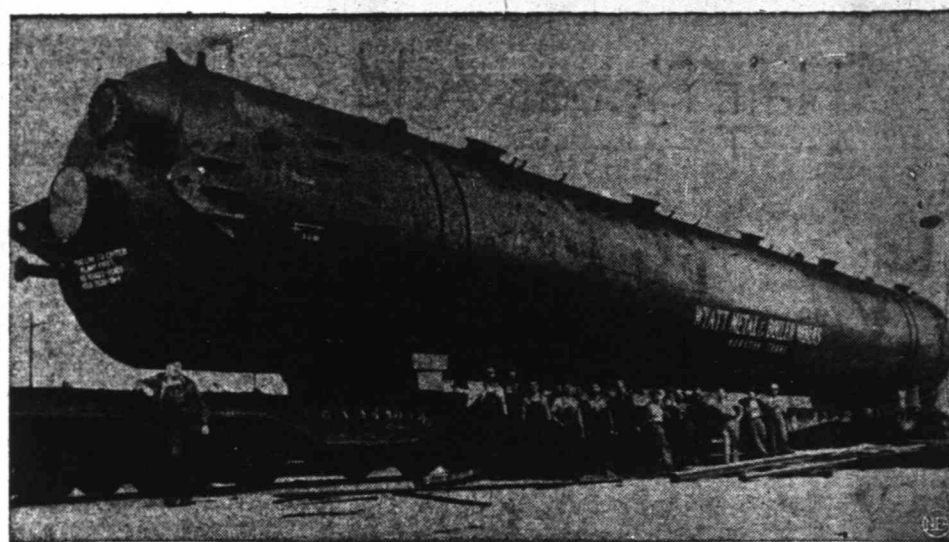

This adaptable coiffure may also be pulled back into a Chignon arrangement when the occasion and your own mood call for a touch of sophistication.

To achieve this quick transformation, de Chant brushes the page boy roll vigorously from underneath, stroking from the end of the hair inward to the nape of the neck. This backward brushing fluffs the hair and gives it body. Side hair is brought back until the roll falls into a soft, half-moon chignon.

For additional glamor, he chooses a bird-of-paradise evening hat. This round of velvet, to which graceful, towering aigrettes are attached, is fastened to the back of your head, just above the curve of your chignon. Fine veiling is drawn across your forehead and nose for a final touch of holiday illusion.

You can make a cup of diced chicken do for a family meal if you team it with cooked elbow macaroni and condensed tomato soup. Season with finely grated onion (pulp and juice) and a little minced parsley or green pepper if available. Top with grated cheese and bake until very hot in a moderate oven.

GET A LOAD OF THIS LOAD—Workmen at Houston, Tex., railroad yard are dwarfed by the heaviest piece of petroleum refinery equipment ever shipped by rail. The 601,236-pound monster, loaded on three flat cars, is a 49-tray depropanizer, 13 feet 4 inches in diameter and 120 feet long.

Hardwood Flooring Manufacturing Now Specialized Industry

Although hardwood flooring has been produced in America from the time of the first white settlers, the separate and distinct phase of the lumber business is a twentieth century development.

Until about 1900 hardwood flooring was simply one of the many products of the nation's sawmills. Today its production is a specialized activity in mills designed exclusively for that purpose. Public preference for hardwood floors has grown steadily and now they are used in more than 85 per cent of American homes.

Inside And Outside Check Of Future Home Recommended

"The old adage, 'never judge a book by its cover,' is a good rule for the prospective buyer to follow when he is in the market for a new or old house.

It's obvious that house "coverings," walls and roof, that protect the home from rain and snow, sun and wind are basic to comfort. What may not be apparent is the degree of comfort and convenience the interior will provide for the occupants after they move in the house.

Here are some Tile Council of America suggestions on what to look for when inspecting your future home:

Foundation Parts: Walls of solid concrete should be examined for cracks. Masonry walls should be examined for loose or missing mortar.

Exterior Walls: After examination of structure and basement equipment, exterior masonry walls should follow. Check masonry walls for cracks, broken bricks, especially over doors and windows. Examine wooden walls for decay and stucco walls for cracks, chipping or falling out of particles.

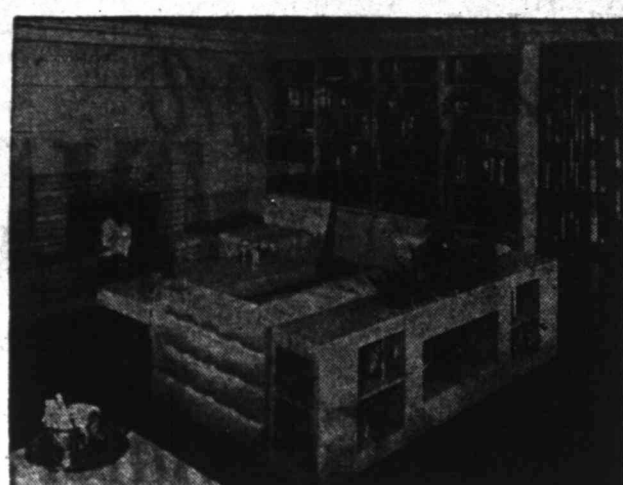

Interior Inspection
Interior: Inspect all doors, windows, walls and flooring. If flooring and walls are worn in rooms where large quantities of water is used such as kitchens, baths, and laundries, replace with durable and waterproof material such as clay tile.

Heating equipment: There are many types of heating systems and details of inspection necessarily vary. Best time to inspect heating systems is Spring or Summer when unit is shut down.

Roof: Leaks in roof cannot be checked from outside. If there is no ceiling in attic, holes can be detected from inside. Slate, wood, or composition shingles are to be checked for broken, missing or loose pieces. Examine wood for decay.

Outside of Window: Check to see if weatherstripping is in good condition and turns rain water over window caps.

When laying cables under the ocean, 108 miles of cable are laid for every 100 miles of distance to be covered to give the necessary slack.

COZY, EASY TO MAINTAIN—Hardwood veneer furnishings and wall paneling in handsomely-grained blond oak lend warmth and beauty to this cozy living room. The matching furnishings and woodwork are of hardwood plywood and face veneers.

Final Details Of New House Insure Comfort

In building a new home, interior trim is the final phase. When the wood trim is in place, radiators or warm air grilles for the heating system are installed; then lighting fixtures, plumbing equipment, kitchen cabinets, and sink, clothes-washer and other facilities requiring plumbing connections.

Most kitchen cabinets now are delivered assembled to the construction job. They are fastened to the kitchen walls with large screws driven into wall studs.

Screw holes usually are provided at proper intervals in the backs of cabinets, but if the cabinets are not absolutely firm and tend to vibrate, additional fastening should be provided. Cabinets should fit snugly against the walls with no gaps left to catch dirt.

Convenient Kitchen
The U-shaped or L-shaped kitchen has been found the most convenient, but every arrangement possibility should be explored.

Plumbing fixtures also should fit tightly against wall and floor, firmly anchored so that they will not vibrate. Fastening devices specially designed for the various fixtures are supplied by manufacturers, together with instructions for installation.

A detail not to be overlooked is filling the small crevice between bath-tub and wall with a plastic preparation which soon hardens and leaves no opening for water to seep down between tub and wall.

Warm air grilles must be firmly secured. If not, dust will tend to seep through the joint and discolor the walls. Hot water or steam radiators are held in position by their connections to supply pipes.

The net result will be a more simplified, functional type of design, it is believed.

"Because the front of the house is nearest the street utilities, an increasing number of homes will be designed with kitchens and bathrooms at the front of the house," the Bureau said. More material will be saved by placing kitchen and bathroom back-to-back for shorter runs of supply and waste pipes.

Storage Units
Pre-assembled storage units will become still more popular because they require less framing and nailing and make the best possible use of space.

Since flat roofs consume less material, this type of architecture may gain in popularity, although in defense areas expansion attics will be encouraged for rental to war plant workers. If glass continues in good supply, it is probable that greater use will be made of window-walls.

Suggestions Given To Ease Drudgery Of House Cleaning

Spring cleaning turns many a house into a place that nobody wants to come home to—not even the cat. By tradition, it's a period of upset for the family and of drudgery and disagreeable toil for the homemaker.

A good plan of attack and proper organization, however, can take 50 per cent of the headaches out of this usually arduous session, according to a Tile Council of America report. Even as simple a thing as spreading the operation over an extra day will ease tension and leave the homemaker in a happier mood. Here are some suggestions from the report:

1. Safety comes first in all house cleaning. About half the 27,500 fatalities from home accidents in 1950 were caused by falls, so be sure to use stepladders for climbing and proper equipment for window cleaning. Make a safety check of the entire house.

2. Check for needed major repairs and have them made before starting cleaning.

3. If the bathroom needs redecorating, plan to install a permanent material for floors and walls.

4. Be a little ruthless in discarding things you do not really need.

5. Do one room at a time. Take the clothes closet first, then bureau and dresser drawers, walls, windows and floors.

6. Have two large baskets or containers for the work. Keep supplies in one and use the second for things being discarded.

7. Before washing walls and woodwork, clean dust from ceilings and walls with a vacuum long-brush attachment. Resurface grease or water-stained wall surfaces in the kitchen with clay tile, which is stainproof and easy to keep clean.

8. Vacuum the rug and rug pad, then sweep the floor and wash or wax its surface. Turn rugs end for end, to distribute wear evenly.

Defense Program Seen Affecting Design Of Homes

NEW YORK—As a result of the severe curtailment on use of various critical building materials due to the national defense program, principal attention on house design during the next several months will be centered on conservation of materials, according to the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

The net result will be a more simplified, functional type of design, it is believed.

"Because the front of the house is nearest the street utilities, an increasing number of homes will be designed with kitchens and bathrooms at the front of the house," the Bureau said. More material will be saved by placing kitchen and bathroom back-to-back for shorter runs of supply and waste pipes.

Since flat roofs consume less material, this type of architecture may gain in popularity, although in defense areas expansion attics will be encouraged for rental to war plant workers. If glass continues in good supply, it is probable that greater use will be made of window-walls.

Gets Name Back After 30 Years

PITTSBURGH —(AP)—Vincenzo Michele Vinciguerra is going to get his wish—to die with the name he had when he was born. More than 30 years ago he came to this country as an immigrant from Italy. Shortly afterwards he got the court to change his name to plain "Vince." And as plain "Vince" he prospered as an insurance agent. Not long ago, the 65-year-old man went to his attorney and said: "I want to die with the name I was born with."

The attorney told his story to Judge Clarence B. Nixon. The judge said he'd be happy to oblige and signed an order restoring "plain Mr. Vince" his name of Vincenzo Michele Vinciguerra.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

Texas Post Offices Drop Despite Population Gain

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON—(P)—Texas has gained in population for 50 years, but the number of its post offices has shown a steady drop. Texas isn't alone in this respect. It's a national trend.

In 1900 there were 76,688 post offices in the U. S. By 1920 the number had dropped to 52,638. In 1950 the total was 41,464.

On Jan. 1, 1951, there were 1,996 post offices in Texas, compared with 2,261 in 1925 and 3,112 in 1900.

Development of highways and growth of larger towns and cities, say postal authorities, accounts principally for the trend.

The automobile and good roads along with the expansion of rural mail service have eliminated the need for the cross-road country store post office.

There were 2,209 R.F.D. routes in Texas in 1925, aggregating 60,991 miles. The number of routes on Jan. 1, 1951, had dropped to 1,705, but they were operating over a total of 86,406 miles.

Many Offices Vanish
Many small post offices vanished when their communities were absorbed by growing nearby cities, although some of them have been kept open as branch postoffices.

Mass Of Corn Meal Dough Staff Of Life For Mexico's Citizens

MEXICO CITY—(P)—The Mexican's menu rests on a mass of corn meal dough, a mass that has shrunk lately.

Housewives or their housemaids line up at small shops where "masa," dough is sold. Sometimes poorer customer line up before dawn to make sure of their day's supply.

Out of this dough come the thin toasted pancakes known as tortillas, the Mexican bread. Cooking it in corn husks to make tamales is another of the dough's uses.

Masa is the Mexican's staff of life, largely because it is cheap. It sells for 55 centavos a kilo, which is just under three cents a pound.

"If you took the Mexican's masa away from him you would cause a revolution," said Juan Garcia Lopez, a sidewalk "taco" vended.

Compared To Hot Dog
The taco is a tortilla rolled around a meat and avocado salad. It is to the Mexican what the hot dog is to Americans. The laborer, the white collar worker and the business man make a sidewalk snack of tacos. In Mexico City, with about 2,500,000 inhabitants, the vendors sell a million tacos a day.

The government estimates three quarters of Mexico's 25,000,000 inhabitants eat an average of 7 1/2 tortillas a day.

The cornmeal dough, also known by its Aztec name of nixtamal, is the basis of many dishes, even in upper class homes. Cooked in water, flavored with chocolate, strawberry, pineapple, vanilla or whatever one likes, it makes a thick drink supposed to be especially good for nursing mothers.

The dough is used mostly, however, for tortillas, which in turn have many uses. A tortilla wrapped around meat or beans and baked in the oven is an enchilada. If the combination is fried flat in deep fat, it's a tostada. The tortilla can be eaten buttered as bread. Rolled up, small pieces serve as a spoon to dip in stews. Leftover tortillas that are cold and hard are broken up in a vegetable soup.

Like Potato Chips
In fashionable bars, pieces of fried tortilla are served like potato chips. Similar bits, hot with chile pepper, are sold in paper bags in movies, parks, and bull rings.

The millers of masa or nixtamal buy corn from the grower but the government gives them a subsidy of around $5 a ton to keep down the price of dough.

The whole corn is soaked in lime water until the hard outer shell comes off. What is left on the ground is unleavened dough.

The dough is sold in retail shops, where women employes pat it between their hands into the tortilla shape and thickness. This is harder than it looks. If it is not done right, the thickness will not be uniform and the tortilla may have holes in it. Machines are starting to displace the hand patting.

Some old-fashioned cooks prefer to buy dough itself from the retail shop, pat their own tortillas and cook them at home. But most customers have the raw tortillas cooked on the hot, greased iron plate in the shop where the dough is patted out.

This year the corn supply is rather short, so that masa has been a matter of public concern. The government has ordered industrial users of corn—starch, malt and glucose factories—to obtain all their grain abroad.

A new type wet-cell battery, using magnesium and cuprous chloride in place of the familiar lead plates and sulphuric acid, has been developed by the U. S. Army Signal Corps. These batteries will operate at temperatures down to 85 degrees below zero and take up only 16 cubic inches.

Greenland's ice cap is estimated to cover the island with a 5,000-foot thickness.

HUNTER BAYS WILD DOGS
BURNS LAKE, B. C.—(P)—Avery Goodwin killed a female wild dog with a shot near Decker Lake. Looking around, he found a den which had five half-wolf pups. Four of the pups were destroyed but Goodwin kept the fifth.

About 90 per cent of today's higher priced cars have automatic transmissions. In the medium priced price range, 60 per cent have them, and it is expected that about 40 per cent of the lower priced cars eventually will be equipped thusly.

Rep. Wingate Lucas of Fort Worth was troubled the other day when his grade-school daughter showed him a quiz paper asking what two states were republics when they joined the union.

He told her to hold everything, he'd ask the Congressional Library to name the other state.

"They mailed me a reply," he commented. "The answer is supposed to be Vermont, but it really was not recognized by other nations as a republic, as was Texas, and Vermont didn't have a president."

The answer said Vermont joined the union March 4, 1791, the first state after the original 13. It was an off-shoot from New York, and from 1776 until 1791 was "virtually an independent republic" with self rule.

Singapore Bans Textile Re-Export

SINGAPORE—(P)—The Singapore government has banned the re-export of textiles to the British crown colony of Hong Kong.

The action was taken to halt activities of some merchants who had imported large quantities of textiles—some of which had come from Hong Kong—and shipped them back to that colony because of a much higher-priced market.

Singapore authorities also want to be in a position to maintain textiles re-export trade with Indonesia and neighboring territories. This business runs into millions of dollars annually.

PRETTY NEARLY EVERY AMERICAN
IS A CAPITALIST.

Every family with a life insurance policy or a bank account has capital. So have the families who own houses and automobiles.

More than six million families own stock in some company. Add in the proprietors of small one and two-man businesses, and the farmers who own their farms and agriculture machinery and you see that America is definitely a nation of capitalists.

Our American system isn't perfect yet but it has helped us produce more, and have more than any other nation in the history of the world.

We can go on to still better things if we hang on to the principles that got us where we are.

U.S. Steps Up B-36 Production In Huge Plant At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH—(P)—Uncle Sam is quietly stepping up production of the B-36, the world's biggest bomber. About 28,000 persons are working here in the world's largest integrated aircraft factory, but they all are mighty silent about the strength of the intercontinental bomber fleet they are building.

Convair Division of Consolidated Aircraft Corporation probably has made at least 170 of the giant atomic bombers. That many were ordered by 1949. No numbers have been revealed since the Korean war began. One-third more men were hired last year to speed production on the 546-acre plant site.

It takes an Air Force permit to peek inside the giant workshop, a windowless shed four stories high covering eight blocks. Motor scooters buzz around a concrete surface that would pave a four-lane highway for 30 miles.

Appropriately, this super-sized incubator hatches supersized chicks. Performance figures of the new models are phenomenal. One plane lifted 84,000 pounds of bombs—equivalent to the combined weight of 26 automobiles. A reconnaissance model photographic plane flew for 51 hours and 20 minutes.

Figures Are Guarded
The Air Force carefully guards exact performance figures on the B-36, but concedes its biggest machine can fly more than 435 miles an hour and climb eight and one-half miles.

More power is the B-36 success secret. Convair engineers say they could "fly the factory" if they could get enough power. Bigger piston engines and better jets have helped designers double the power packed in an air frame planned 10 years ago. At high speed, the present six propeller engines and four jets produce the drive of nine locomotives.

Development of the plane has been a long-term project. It began in the early days of World War II before atomic bombing entered military strategy. Convair engineers produced the best design in an Air Force competition for a plane to fly 10,000 miles lugging five tons of bombs half way.

This order actually amounted to a combat radius of 4,000 miles—enough to strike across oceans. The Air Force likes to get its bomber crews back and allows gasoline reserves for poor weather and evasive combat action. The actual operational radius of any plane is about 40 per cent of the distance it can fly.

Remain Top Secret
Operational figures on the B-36 remain top secret, but it is probable that the relatively light weight atomic bomb, previously delivered in smaller B-29's, has plenty of elbow room in B-36 bomb bays. There may be extra room for gasoline to stretch the range. Recently six planes tested an advance base in England by landing outside the United States for the first time.

For its size, the B-36 probably has grown faster than any other airplane. The first order for two strategic bombers was placed just before Pearl Harbor in 1941. Wind tunnel testing and a full-sized wooden model were completed the following year. Late in 1942, the project was moved from San Diego, Calif., to Fort Worth. Priority went to B-36 Liberators bombers urgently needed on all war fronts. Only a handful of the 30,000 in Convair's plant here worked in the experimental building of the first B-36's by hand.

On V-J day, consumer demand for bombers fell to zero. The first B-36 roared down the runway on its maiden flight on August 8, 1946. Behind the flight was five years and $20,000,000 worth of research. Another year passed before the first production model flew.

Tremendous Potential
Like all good airplanes the B-36 air frame has a tremendous growth potential which keeps both Air Force and Convair engineers busy at their drawing boards. They've made hundreds of changes. Currently the company is test flying a new model with even more powerful propeller engines.

The most important power increase has come from jet engines in pods suspended from the wings. They produce extra boost for take-off and increase speed in the target area. Per pound, the jets give more thrust than propeller engines. But piston engines use less fuel.

Crewmen like the B-36. Its safety record is impressive. Only three have crashed. The old Air Force joke about the bomber boys "flying a house from the front porch" is outdated by the B-36. The plane is as big as three five-room houses. The pilot sits way out in front of a wing 230 feet long. It's a little like flying a football field from a seat on the fifty-yard line.

Convair assembles the B-36 from 88,000 manufactured parts. Engines, guns, and electrical equipment are made at other factories.

If Washington calls for all-out B-36 production, the company is ready to expand rapidly. Machine tools are being made for other firms so that 25 per cent of the basic air frame can be made in smaller, scattered factories.

Like the main plant, many of these will be in the Southwest. The region is far from the industrial heartland of the nation. Distance helps protect it from enemy bombers.

Baylor Students Help New Radio Station Get Start

WACO — Eleven students at Baylor University are helping a radio station in Marlin get a knowing start in life.

They are Professor W. B. Helton's class on radio programming. Without telling them why, he told them to imagine they were operating a radio station at Marlin. Then they were to write research papers on what types of program would have most appeal.

The students visited Marlin and studied in detail such matters as the ratio of negro-white population, urban-rural population, range of ages, economic levels of residents, whether the people traded in Marlin, etc.

After grading the research papers, Professor Helton packaged them up and sent them to Mr. and Mrs. M. W. L. Pennington of Marlin. The Penningtons will open a radio station in Marlin in early summer and the research information is just what they need.

Woman Is Leader Of Bus Burners

KUALA LUMPUR, MALAYA — (P)—A big, fat Chinese woman who uses copious quantities of lipstick and makeup is credited here with being the leader of one of the Communist terrorist bands operating in Selangor state.

Bus drivers say her gang carries a small black book to check the numbers of identity cards taken from passengers when a bus is held up. The woman and her aides sometimes lecture bus passengers on Communist aims before they are ordered out and the bus is burned.

Twenty-seven buses have been held up and burnt by terrorists in Selangor state since last September.

First woman airplane pilot, Mme. De La Roche, made her first flight at Châlons-sur-Marne, France, in 1910.

Colonel McCall Is Back To Stage Sixth Land Sale Here

Colonel McCall's the name, sub-Col. C. H. McCall—born in Georgia and raised in Kentucky.

But not even Georgia or Kentucky, sub, have anything to compare with Midland.

"Old Mother Soil in Midland," he proclaimed, "is the best investment in the world."

"Just hold on to it, son, and in 18 months it'll be worth many times what you paid for it."

"You can take my word for it, because Colonel McCall knows what he's talking about. Just ask anybody around here."

The 53-year-old "colonel" with the voice of a musically-inclined bullfrog ought to know something about that.

Three thousand times he's banged his gavel around here. And 3,000 times a building lot has been sold and new houses began sprouting up like blue grass on a sloping hill in Kentucky.

Kentucky Colonel
"That's where they started calling me colonel—in Kentucky," he explained.

"All auctioneers are called that in Kentucky. At first I didn't like the title but now I stick to it."

Colonel McCall, naturally, is an auctioneer.

And Monday, he's going to climb on top a truck in the new Sun Garden Village, in the northern section of the city, and sell 186 more lots which have been developed there.

It's going to be an honest-to-goodness old-fashioned auction—no tricks and no strings and no fake bids—and the lots will be sold to the highest bidder whatever the price may be.

"It's the sixth such development I've sold since I came out here back in 1937," Colonel McCall explained.

"Yes, sub, I came out to Odessa 17 years ago to stay 30 days and I've been in and out ever since."

"I sold 20 developments in Odessa alone."

Then he came on over to Midland and started with the West End Addition. Since then, he has handled College Addition, Garrett Addition, Park Lea Addition and South Park Addition.

Fast Development
"It was only two years ago that I sold 517 lots in the South Park Addition," he continued. "Since then there's been a million dollars worth of homes sold out there."

"Yes, son, Midland is growing. Nothing can stop it. It's the best investment in the world. Why, the oil men tell me we're going to have the biggest boom in history and they're putting up their money to back it up."

Colonel McCall will sell 186 lots in the Sun Garden Village, which adjoins the western boundary of the Ranchland Hills Country Club.

"Just go north on Big Spring," directed the colonel, "until you come to Oak. Turn to the right and keep going. You can't miss it."

"Yes, the auction starts at 2 p.m. And, son, by 5 o'clock, the Lord and the weather permitting, there won't be a lot left."

There were no children born in the month of January before the year 700 B. C. The month of January did not exist until that time.

Abundant Living

By E. STANLEY JONES

Gen. 18:23-32

EVIL IS A PARASITE UPON THE GOOD

We must spend one more day on the self-destructiveness of evil, for many have the idea that goodness is bondage and that evil is freedom. But we know that evil is freedom only to get into trouble with ourselves.

I was urging a politician to give up an illicit affair he was having with a woman, for through it he was breaking up his own home, the home of another, and snarling up his own life. To ward off my appeal, he told of an English general who had been challenged by the Oxford Group with their four absolutes—absolute honesty, absolute purity, absolute unselfishness, and absolute love—but who was not prepared to build his life on them. So, in order to ward off this challenge, the general, half humorously and half seriously, said he was going to organize another Group movement—the Cambridge Group Movement—and its principles would be the opposite: absolute dishonesty, absolute impurity, absolute selfishness, and absolute hate.

The politician expected me to laugh, but instead I replied: "Why not? Why don't you go in for evil and make it absolute? Why are you so tentative and hesitant? Why don't you sin with the stops out?" "Oh, no," replied the politician, "we couldn't make the evil absolute; for if we did, it wouldn't work." "Ah," I replied, "you have given away the case. All evil has to have enough good thrown around it to float it. It is a parasite upon some good. Pure evil would be self-destructive. You cannot build a society on absolute dishonesty, for no one would trust another; absolute impurity—the society would rot; absolute selfishness, for no one would think of another; absolute hate, for hate is centrifugal. So every dishonest man is a parasite upon the honesty of some honest man whose honesty holds society together long enough for the dishonest man to practice his dishonesty; every impure man is a parasite upon the purity of some pure man whose purity keeps the society from rotting and makes it sufficiently livable so that the impure man can practice his impurity in it. Evil could not exist were there no good thrown around it to keep it going.

O God, help me to rid myself of the parasites of evil in my life. The good within me holds together my world long enough for the evil to exist. Let me fulfill the statement of Paul: "I prove myself at all points a true minister of God." "At all points"—let there be no decaying points in my life; make all points sound and under Thy control. In Jesus' name. Amen.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Crossing Bridges

The rain fell in the Great Forest. It rained and rained and rained some more, rivers and oceans and lakes of water. The rain filled the Duck Pond, and the creek, and even the Whispering River.

When morning came, the Whispering River wasn't whispering any more. It made a roaring noise as though all the water in the world were trying to rush through it to the sea.

"I don't know, I don't know," Daddy Ringtail said when he saw it. He said it to Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, because he didn't know how they were going to cross to the other side of the river to look for chinkapins on the Chinkapin Tree. The river was much too full of water to swim, and the Whistleriff had borrowed the riverboat.

"Maybe we can go up the river and cross over the bridge," said

Mugwump. And so they started off through the forest, on up the river to the place the bridge was supposed to be. "Oh-oh," said Mugwump suddenly. "What if the water has washed the bridge away?"

"That is what may have happened," Daddy Ringtail said as they walked along by the river and saw how very much water was in it. The bridge was maybe washed away and down the river to the sea.

"Then how shall we ever cross?" Mugwump wanted to know.

Daddy Ringtail shook his head. He didn't know how they would cross, or what they would do, if the bridge were gone. "We'll just have to wait and see," he said, "and we don't cross bridges until we come to them." He meant they wouldn't worry about crossing the bridge until they came to the bridge to cross.

Oh, but the bridge was there, all right. It wasn't washed away at all. Daddy Ringtail and Mugwump crossed it, and found Chinkapins and came back home again safe and sound. There was never a reason to have worried at all.

And if you ever see anyone who is worrying about how to do something when it isn't yet time to do it—or worrying about how to cross a bridge that maybe isn't there—you can tell them what Daddy Ringtail said. "We don't cross bridges until we come to them." Happy day! (Copyright 1951 General Features Corp.)

STORK MISSES TIMETABLE
ANDERSON, IND. —(P)—Mrs. James Rose gave birth to a child in an ambulance on the way to a hospital a few years ago. So she called the same ambulance recently when the stork hovered near again. This time the stork arrived sooner than the ambulance. The new baby, a boy, was born at the threshold of the Rose residence.

THE BULLDOG

Written By The Journalism Class Of Midland High School

An Editorial

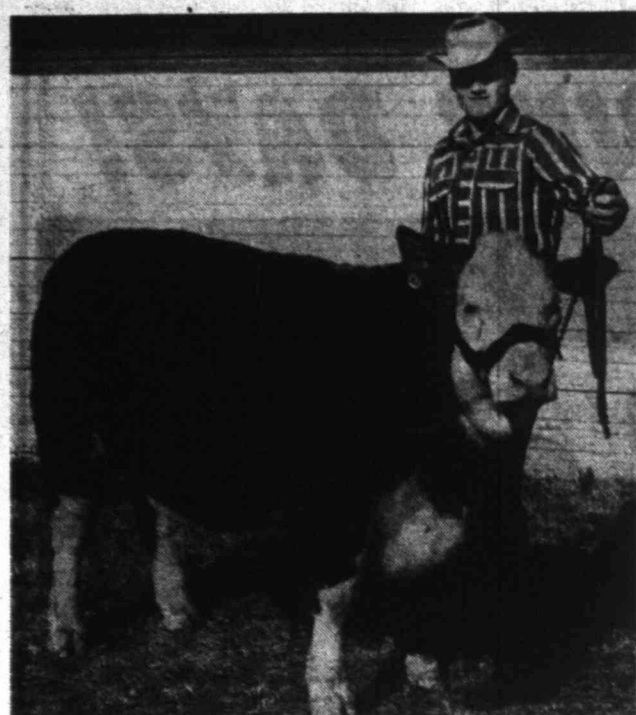

Andrew Jackson's Mother Writes A Letter

Andrew Jackson, seventh president of the United States, was born March 15, 1767. He was orphaned at an early age. When his mother realized that she probably would never see her young son again, she wrote him the letter printed below.

"Andrew, if I should not see you again I wish you to remember and treasure up some things I have already said to you: In this world you will have to make your own way. To do that you must have friends. You can make friends by being honest, and you can keep them by being steadfast. You must keep in mind that friends worth having will in the long run expect as much from you as they give to you. To forget an obligation or be ungrateful for a kindness is a base crime—not merely a fault or a sin but an actual crime. Men guilty of it sooner or later must suffer the penalty. In personal conduct be always polite, but never obsequious. No one will respect you more than you esteem yourself. Avoid quarrels as long as you can without yielding to imposition. But sustain your manhood always. Never bring a suit at law for assault and battery or for defamation. The law affords no remedy for such outrages that can satisfy the feeling of a true man. Never wound the feelings of others. Never brook wanton outrage upon your own feelings. If ever you have to vindicate your feelings or defend your honor do it calmly. If angry at first, wait till your wrath cools before you proceed."

HIGH SCHOOL CHAMP—Midland High School's Norman Drake is shown with his steer, Big Un, the champion dry-lot steer of the county division of the Midland Livestock Show last week.

Win Or Lose, The Show Was Success

The stock show sent a wave of excitement through the halls and classrooms of old Midland High School Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The usual occupants of the many vacant desks could be found working with their stock, watching the judgings or milling around at the Midland fair grounds.

The stock show produced all the interest and activity of a track meet or basketball tournament. Boys and girls, too, could be seen in all directions grooming steers, trimming sheep or scrubbing pigs in preparing for the judging contests.

It was a big day for a boy who has tended to an animal for a year—feeding, bathing, and training. He has spent the past week giving special pains in trimming and grooming their animal.

When he led his calf, pig, or sheep in front of the judges, he tried to remember the instructions his FFA or 4-H sponsor gave him on how to show his animal to the best advantage. He was anxious and tense as he watched the judge look over his pet.

His heart jumped a beat when he heard the words, "I put it on this one."

If it was his, he felt rich and thought of the little Hereford raph he is going to make a down payment on.

If his did not win, he was still happy because he was almost rich and felt glad it was all over.

The sales the next day made even the last place winners satisfied—they went home with a bank roll, and they came back to town early, because they did not have to feed their stock any more.

But maybe a little tear came into their eyes when they looked into empty stalls and the big glassy eyes of "Big Un" or "Pinky" do not greet them anymore.

Most people in Midland who have heard of the series of fights, pranks, and the heckling of freshmen during the past few weeks, probably have the opinion that many boys in MHS have a long road to go toward manhood.

This is the reason why I think it necessary to tell a story which contradicts this impression.

Mr. Mathews and Dean Mashburn called a meeting of all MHS boys, Tuesday morning, to discuss the fights and hazings. They explained the situation to the boys in their usual informal, but sincere way. They told of several incidents which had been brought to their attention by angry parents—they excluded all names. After expressing their personal views concerning the seriousness of the thing, they turned the discussion over to the boys.

First, one boy stood up and admitted his and three other boys' guilt in hazing a freshman. This admission was relayed as an apology and as a warning to the others.

Another boy arose and said he probably got into more trouble than anyone else. He said he realized that when one boy gets into trouble it gives a bad name to the rest.

The meeting was adjourned with a general feeling among the boys that they could make it unpleasant for anyone who continued such conduct.

I think a few who walked into the meeting as boys—walked out as men.

Woodblock Prints Being Exhibited By Art Department

The Art Department of Midland High School is exhibiting a collection of Oriental woodblock prints from Thursday, March 15, until Thursday, March 22. Miss Parker, art teacher, obtained the prints from the Robert-Lee Gallery at Newton, Connecticut, and they are offered for sale.

Woodblock is an interesting and exacting process which requires great skill. The prints are made from three to fifteen blocks, carved from cherrywood. They are printed by hand on mulberry paper and rice paper.

Birds, flowers, and lovely Japanese scenes make up the exhibit and the prints sell from seventy-five cents to fifteen dollars, according to their size. Admission is only five cents and the exhibit is being held in Room 211 at MHS from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. It is open to the public and everyone is invited to see this collection.

'Icebound' Is Presented By Seniors

"Ice Bound," the Senior Class play, was presented Thursday and Friday evenings in the Midland High School Auditorium.

The play is based on a New England family, which waited anxiously for the mother's death; each hoping for a share of the family fortune.

The money is left to the housekeeper, to the surprise of the family. She uses it to teach the family a lesson.

The cast included Clint Dunagan as Henry Jordan, Joyce Howell as Emma, Marjane Forrester as Nettie, Mary Nell as Sadie Feltow, Shirley Harrison as Orin, Mary Jo Heil as Eli Jordan, Joe Barnett as Ben Jordan, Dolan Brinson as Judge Bradford, Beverly Keisling as Jane Crosby, Daphne Tabor as Hannah, Guy Vanderpool as Jim Jay, and Clifford Wilcox as Dr. Curtis.

The play was directed by Verna Harris, MHS speech teacher. Swan Hagler acted as student director and manager.

The set was constructed by Russell Fuller, Douglas Atwell, Kenneth Wright, Swan Hagler, Lynn Griffith, and Ruby Goina.

The programs were made by Jo Ann Nelson. The cast furnished their own costumes and make-up. Publicity was handled by Leon Cline. Ushers were Wanda Burnside, Margie Cramer, La Dean Johnson, JoAnn Nelson, Isleta Terry and Nancy Webb.

The proceeds go to the senior class fund.

Here's How 'Bulldog' Is Written, Edited

By CORKY MOSS

Have any of the Midland High School pupils ever stopped to think of what goes on "behind the print" of their school paper? If not, here is their chance to find out.

If one should happen to enter Room 205 (Mrs. Rowland's room) any time after three o'clock, he would most likely hear much discussion of news about the high school.

He would hear Leon Cline, the editor, "yelling his lungs out," either trying to find out if someone has collected the money for a picture that was in a recent edition of the Bulldog, or else to see if everyone has checked his "beat." If they have checked their "beats" and each person didn't get a story, then Editor Cline wants to know why.

Or he might see Suzie Young or Gail Baker, news editors, making out the "assignment" sheet, which is a list of all items of news value and to whom the articles are assigned.

He may even find out who writes "Humphrey Haunts!" He would probably see Mary Ann McRae, the exchange editor, mailing copies of the Bulldog to other schools.

Then, there is Nancy McKinley, whom he would see "pecking away" on a typewriter, or pasting copies of the paper in the scrap book belonging to the paper staff.

Dianne Anderson keeps the "Kennel Rations" column, which is the menu for the high school cafeteria, for the following week. One would probably hear Dianne discussing with Mrs. Rowland, the journalism sponsor, what a good topic for an article would be.

Sue Ann Francis writes the column entitled "Club News." Sue is usually rushing around the hall of Midland High gathering up news for her column.

One would probably see Annie Lee Everett gathering news about girls' sports; and the sports editor, Corky Moss, writes the "dope" on football, basketball, track, tennis, and whatever sport is in season at the time.

Buddy Johnson has the "Ag News," and is usually pretty busy writing that column.

Shirley Wenter's "beat" is the library, and almost every week, Shirley has an article about the library.

The editorial editor is Pat Grover. Pat spends a great deal of time with her editorials.

Peggy Simmons is the social editor, and does other types of reporting, also.

During assembly, one might see Jean Ferguson, or Sue Ann Francis, "scribbling away," which means only that one of these girls has been assigned the assembly to write up.

But on Friday, there is (for once!) a "breathing spell," and even Editor Cline smiles once in a while.

Who's Who

Nancy And Asa Are Youngest Seniors

Nancy and Asa

The distinction of being the youngest boy and girl in the Senior class goes to Nancy McKinley and Asa Bland.

Nancy's birthdate was Nov. 23, 1934, in Midland, and Asa was a welcome little stranger on Oct. 22, 1933, in Houston.

They are both interested in school activities and are popular with their schoolmates.

They share a likeness in selecting fried chicken on their favorite menu and football is their favorite sport.

Nancy plans to go to Texas Christian University, when she graduates from Midland High School. Asa, on the other hand, plans to join the Navy and see the world.

An old and proven saying states, "A little child shall lead them," so big things are expected of Nancy at TCU and Asa should be nothing less than an admiral in the Navy.

Happy college days to Nancy and Asa.

With the auditorium ringing with applause, the curtain of the Senior play, "Icebound," closed for the last time Friday night. The play was presented on Thursday and Friday nights and each performance was considered a huge success.

Shirley Wenter served as captain of the Midland B team at the volleyball game held at Andrews Tuesday night, and she really set a good example. When a high ball sailed in her direction, Shirley was all set to give it everything she had. With a mighty swing she missed the ball and fell flat on the floor. She suffered nothing from her fall but injured pride.

Midland, Midland, Rah, Rah, Rah! Yes, hopeful cheerleaders galore are preparing their lungs and their yells for the tryouts to be held on March 28. The top talent of the school have their eyes and hopes set on the job so keep on the lookout for a close race.

After sweating through an hour and a half, seven members of the National Honor Society completed the annual tests offered to students in the honor society throughout the United States. David Lavery, Fern Claybrook, Mary Nell, Don Drummond, Fred Underwood, Jo Ann Nelson, and Suzanne Young were the MHSers who took the test on Wednesday, March 14. The purpose of the test was to win a scholarship but as one student said, after completing the test, "It was the hardest test I ever took but who wanted a scholarship anyway!" (They all did!)

What is this we hear about Ella Mae Blair, girls' PE teacher. It seems that some of her students have composed a song just for Mrs. Blair. We know what the song is all about but it is a trade secret.

The Business Club is planning to give handbooks on selecting a vocation to the seniors sometime in the very near future. The books include information about choosing a career and how to plan for it.

While in Lubbock on Friday, March 9, Toya Chapple took a test given by Stanford University. The purpose of the test was for entrance to the university and we certainly hope she passed with flying colors.

Remember When?

About a year ago this week—Twenty new students had enrolled during the past month.

The Importance of Being Earnest, the contest play, was presented in assembly.

Charles Crowley was the featured student of the week.

Midland students journeyed to the conference 3-AA Literature meet held in Lubbock on March 17.

Dan Black and Jackie Ewald, recently elected sophomore favorites, were featured in the Bulldog.

Midland was host to the West Texas Teachers Association.

New qualifications for cheerleaders were announced by the Student Council.

Club News

The Vocal Music Club studied the life and works of the composer, Johann Bach, during club period Monday, March 12.

Nell Curran gave a short biographical sketch on Bach.

Evelyn Heil played "Two Part Invention No. 4," Tommy Miller, "Two Part Invention No. 1," and Wanda Burnside, "Two Part Invention No. 8" and "Prelude," all piano selections by Bach.

Jerry Geisler played "Sophtatto" by Bach's son.

Irving Berlin will be the subject of study at the next club meeting.

Mrs. Ernest Sidwell was the guest speaker for the National Honor Society. Accounts were given of recent trip to Frankfurt, Germany, and other parts of Europe.

She described Hitler's home and the famous places where he spent his time.

She also spoke on the customs and people of other European countries.

The National Honor Society's project for this year is to donate its money to a fund for a typewriter for the Catholic staff.

The Red Cross gift boxes were received Monday, during club period, and the club divided up into groups of five to purchase articles to fill the boxes. The contents will cost approximately $2.

These boxes will go overseas to be distributed by Red Cross workers to the boys and girls of European countries.

It was announced that plans for the program to be given at the Big Spring Veterans' Hospital were in progress.

Georgia Stump was elected program chairman for the Business Club assembly.

The program for the club period consisted of a discussion on topics of good business habits by Mike Brunner, Norma Gwyn, Maxine Hill, Patty Hammon, La Dean Johnson, Nancy Webb, and Shirley Winters.

"Rub Each Other the Right Way" from the NEA Journal was the theme of the program for the Future Teachers Club. It was presented by Loretta Early.

Pair From MHS Go To Music Meet

Joe Barnett and Kenneth Wright, Midland High School band students, attended the 1951 Southwestern Music Educators Conference in Oklahoma City, March 8, 9, and 10, where they were members of the All-Conference Symphonic Band.

Joe and Kenneth were selected on their past music record to play in the 100-piece band which was composed of band members from seven southwestern states.

Joe, who plays the trombone, won the third chair in competition against 12 other players. Kenneth plays the baritone and won first chair, competing against six players.

The All-Conference band practiced six hours a day for three days, under the direction of Paul Lavalle, conductor of the Band of America.

A dance and a concert by the Oklahoma City University band was provided for entertainment.

Saturday, March 10, the band shared the program with the All-Conference orchestra and chorus.

The Southwestern Music Educators Conference is composed of the music educators of seven southwestern states.
