Harding Mourners Packed 15 Miles

TRAIN STEADILY LOSES TIME ON JOURNEY EAST

Train Forced to Slow Down to Rate of Walk

GREATEST RECEPTION

Aldermen Board Train and Present Wreath of Sympathy

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Father Dearborn bowed his head in mourning today as the nation's burden of sorrow reached Chicago.

Through miles upon miles of people, the funeral train bearing the body of Warren G. Harding passed scarcely faster than a man might walk.

Crowds Pack on Track

Fifteen miles from the great railroad terminals, the bare headed throngs grew dense as the funeral cortege drew near to the largest city through which it will pass.

Slowly the black draped engine moved through the great throngs, at times so dense that they were crowded onto the tracks in front of the funeral cortege even as they tried to make a path for the train of mourning.

As the train reached the railroad yard where it transferred from the Chicago and Northwestern to the Baltimore and Ohio to continue its long journey from the Golden Gate to the capital, traffic was halted for blocks at every street intersection and the people were massed so densely along the right-of-way that the train could only creep and at times stopped altogether. It was probably the greatest demonstration for a public figure the city has ever witnessed and can compare only with the reception accorded the body of the only other chief executive ever brought here—Abraham Lincoln, in 1865.

Over Two Hours Late

Not only did people gather in the hot, dusty railroad yards and stand for hours wedged so tightly together that they could scarcely breathe, but they peered by the hundreds from windows and from the house tops. Every point of vantage had its compliment of mourners.

Due to the great crowds that thronged about the funeral trains as it reached the more densely populated sections of Iowa and Illinois, the cortege entered Chicago shortly before 6 o'clock, more than two hours and one-half behind schedule. It departed at 7:15 o'clock, nearly four hours behind the estimated running time.

The formal demonstration of the city's sorrow was made through an aldermanic committee, which took aboard the train at the Kedzie avenue station a huge wreath of lilies and roses bearing the inscription "Chicago's sympathy." The wreath was presented to Secretary of Commerce Hoover by Acting Mayor Martin J. O'Brien.

Delayed For An Hour

The train paused in its transcontinental flight only long enough for the change of engines and the necessary delays. Due to the crowds, however, it was here for a little over an hour, moving along at a snail's pace most of the time. Besides the city's floral offerings many other floral pieces were put aboard the train.

Marion To Bury Dead President As Own Citizen

By The Associated Press.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 6.—Though the nation will conduct appropriate funeral services for Warren G. Harding as its president in Washington, Wednesday, Marion, Friday will attempt to forget his exalted official position as head of the nation and bury him as one of the distinguished citizens.

For Marion, the funeral services will be for the late president as that of a private citizen, with full recognition that he was the most distinguished in the nation. There will be no pomp or elaborate ceremony in the laying to rest of the dead president. What dignity there is will be more through the presence of distinguished persons who journey here to pay last tribute, than through any effort to make it so. The funeral, in so far as possible, will be a meeting of relatives and friends to bid a last farewell to a loved one.

Such is Mrs. Harding's wish and her wish will prevail.

Washington Saddest Today Since McKinley Funeral 22 Years Ago

Full Honors Planned As Harding's Body Will Arrive In Washington Today

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—All the military and civil honors that a great nation, in sorrow and prayer, may bestow upon its dead, will be paid to the memory of President Harding in the state funeral ceremonials here tomorrow and Wednesday.

Preparation for the saddest ceremony in the life of the country since the martyred McKinley was brought here from Buffalo 22 years ago, were completed today under the guidance of President Coolidge. Tonight the national capitol, draped in mourning, awaited in grief the arrival of the funeral train.

Coolidge to Meet Train.

President Coolidge, cabinet member, Chief Justice Taft and Senator Cummins of Iowa, president pro-tem of the senate, will meet the train as it draws into union station. Members of the guard of honor—soldiers, sailors and marines—will remove the body from the car where it has rested since the long trip from San Francisco began, and bear it to a black draped caisson at the entrance to the president's room. As the casket is taken through the station concourse, the marine band will play a funeral dirge.

On the broad plaza outside will be drawn up a squadron of cavalry and a battery of field artillery. As the casket is lifted to the caisson they will form in line to "present arms" and the marine band will play as the casket is strapped into place. On signal the cavalrymen will swing away in column, leading the way to the White House. Behind them the caisson and flag draped casket will follow, then some members of the party that made the fateful journey with the dead chieftain, President Coolidge, other officials and the battery of artillery.

Will Rest in East Room.

Passing through the streets cleared of traffic, the cortege will turn southward to the capitol grounds, down the winding roadway to Pennsylvania avenue and then over the historic route that has witnessed every great moment of joy or sorrow in the nation's life. The caisson alone will enter the White House grounds, the troopers swinging aside to line the broad avenue before the executive mansion, sitting motionless and with sabers at "present" until the casket has been lifted down and carried into the stately east room where it will rest until Wednesday.

Mrs. Harding will not ride in the procession from the station. Accompanied by some members of her party as she may designate, she will go to the White House immediately after the train arrives and will be received by Mrs. Coolidge and the wives of the cabinet officers, who will await with her the arrival of the body.

Wreaths to Be Placed.

While the casket is in the White House, there will be placed on the bier a wreath for Mrs. Harding, one by the President and Mrs. Coolidge, one for the supreme court by Chief Justice Taft, one for congress by Senator Cummins and Speaker Gillett, of the house of the representatives, who is accompanying the body, and wreaths also from the heads of foreign and state governments.

S. E. Patton, president of the institution, made this statement: "Being unable to meet the demands of our depositors, this bank has closed and has been put in the hands of the state banking department."

Fail to Realize On Loans.

He continued: "The immediate cause of our closing was due to rumors which were circulated to the effect that the bank was in bad condition, these rumors resulting in a number of quiet withdrawals of funds on deposit in the bank.

"On account of the light yield and low price of wheat we were unable to realize on our loans as rapidly as we had hoped to meet the requirements of our depositors."

J. D. Pennington of the state banking department is expected to take charge of the bank Tuesday morning. Stockholders say that the bank will pay out and even show a little profit for the stockholders.

The attorney general had not been requested to rule on the question of whether curtailment of production would constitute restrain of trade, it was said, but the action by the state probably will depend upon the legal department's opinion.

MORE ABOUT TRAIN

As the train bearing the president's body moved along, those watching from the train, saw the sorrowful faces of the thousand, with all eyes directed toward the last coach where lay the body of the nation's chief and where rode his widow. Tears trickled down the cheeks of men and women as the funeral cortege passed. Little children followed the train as it moved down the tracks, some of them sobbing.

200,000 to 500,000 Gathered.

Despite the great throngs, and it was estimated that those who saw the funeral cortege as it passed Chicago numbered anywhere from 200,000 to 500,000 persons, there was scarcely a sound as the train rolled slowly by. People stood with heads uncovered and almost breathless as they witnessed the spectacle for which some of them had stood along the dusty, hot and uncomfortable right-of-way more than four hours.

Airplanes dropping flowers circled overhead as the train entered the city, some of them swooping down only a few hundred feet above the black draped train to drop their tribute of blossoms.

Winding its way through the 30 miles of Chicago railroad yards today, the funeral cortege might well be said to have passed through a cross section of America.

Hum Of Commerce Stilled.

Through the great steel and industrial section of the city, the packing plants and the lumber yards, the nation's burden of sorrow was carried and the great machinery along the way was stilled as the workers stood bareheaded outside the factories.

Then on into the wholesale and business sections crept the funeral special and again the place of business were silent and the hum of commerce was stilled.

HEART OF AMERICA FILLED WITH SORROW FOR HARDING

ON BOARD HARDING FUNERAL TRAIN, at CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The heart of America—that great prairie region between the Missouri river and Lake Michigan—was filled anew with sorrow today as the funeral cortege of the republic moved eastward through the states of Iowa and Illinois and then onward toward Washington.

Train On Last Lap.

Leaving Council Bluffs on the banks of the Missouri in the early morning hours, the special train bearing the body of President Harding the train travelled steadily eastward to arrive late in the day at Chicago. Transferred it sped eastward into the darkness on the last portion of the long and sad journey from the Golden Gate.

Never in the history of any nation perhaps have such scenes of poignant sorrow for the dead and such manifestation of deep sympathy for bereaved loved ones been witnessed as during the day when countless thousands marked reverently the passing of the funeral train. To those aboard the train it seemed as though the American people had moved into the two states traversed and were standing silently with uncovered and bowed heads. Eyes grew misty and throats choked at the unconcealed display of emotion by a stricken people.

Like Lincolns Cortege.

The old and the young, the weak and the strong, and the rich and the poor were there. It was a proof of patriotism and loyalty that America will not soon forget.

Those whos tood mourning the passing dead included among their numbers who remembered the passing from Washington to Springfield in Illinois 58 years ago of the funeral cortege of the martyrd Lincoln. There were more who recalled the sad days of 1901 when a similar train bore the body of McKinley from Buffalo to Washington and thence to Canton, Ohio.

Mingled with the epression of grief always were the manifestations of sympathy for Mrs. Harding who during the day left her room and spent some time in the black-draped and flower-walled chamber of the last car where rests the bier of her husband. Through it all she still remained the bravest of those aboard the train, in keeping with her promise not to break down.

President's Brother Arrives.

The bereaved widow was joined in her sorrow during the days by George T. Harding, Jr., brother of tht late president, Dr. Harding, accompanied by Dr. Carl E. Sawyer of Marion, met the funeral train at Dixon, Ill., having been brought there from Chicago on a special train over the Chicago and Northwestern.

FUNERAL TRAIN MORE THAN THREE HOURS LATE

THOUSANDS ASSEMBLED WHEN TRAIN PASSES GARY

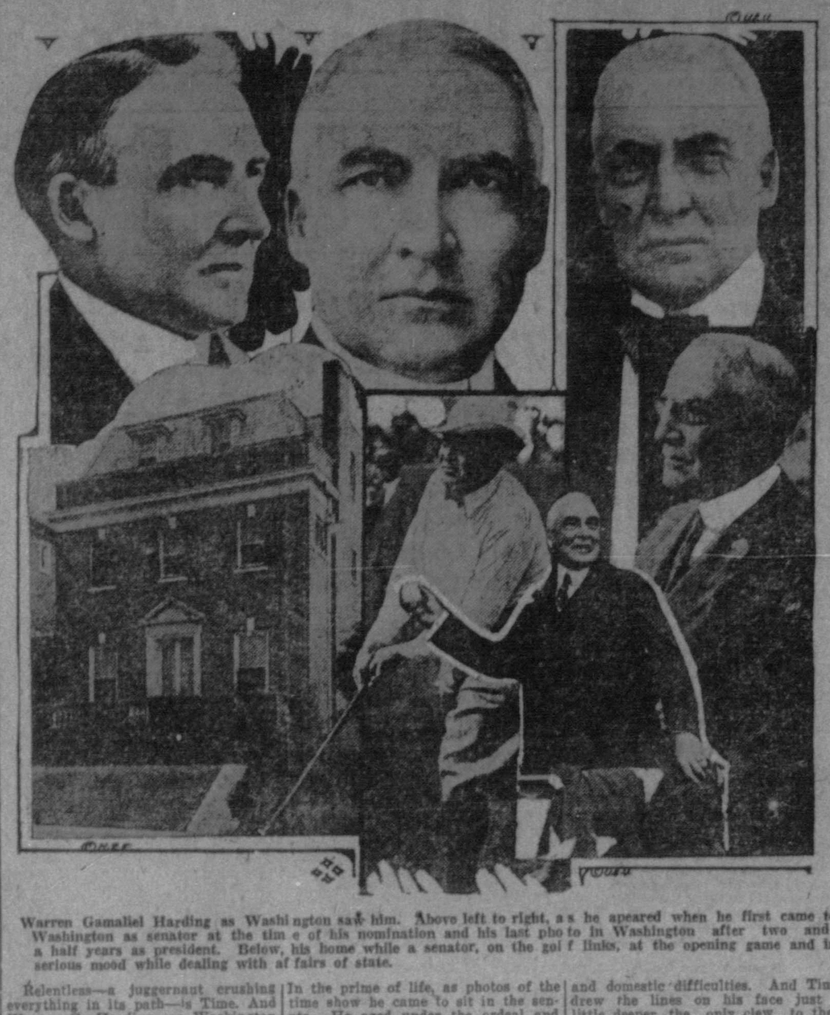

By The Associated Press.

ON BOARD HARDING FUNERAL TRAIN AT GARY, Ind., Aug. 6. The Harding funeral train passed through here, 33 miles from Chicago, at 9 p. m. central standard time, traveling about 15 miles an hour.

Thousands of people lined the track here and for several miles through the city, coming from the industrial section near here. Delegations were here from Hammond, Crown Point, Lowell, Hobart and other cities. Many had stood in the hot sun the greater part of the day waiting for an opportunity to pay their respects to the dead president.

The assemblage in Gary's downtown history of the city. Business firms section was one of the largest in the closed in the early aftrenoon to expectation of receiving the funeral train about 4:00 p. m. There was little or no demonstration, the assembled thousands standing silently with bared and bowed heads as the train continued its slow pace toward Washington.

How Harding Aged Rapidly Under Strain Of Duty

Relentless—a juggernaut crushing everything in its path—is Time. And Warren G. Harding, as Washington knew him from the days he first came there as a United States senator, through the trying reconstruction period and now in death, is a mute example of that relentlessness.

In the prime of life, as photos of the time show he came to sit in the senate. He aged under the ordeal and at the same time of his nomination, though the picture of health, he bore traces of Time's handiwork. Then followed the trying and worrying problems of America's foreign relations and domestic difficulties. And Time drew the lines on his face just a little deeper, the only clew to the great strain against which his staunch heart was battling. But Time is relentless and though Harding's great spirit was willing—the flesh weakened and Death, Time's ally, won.

SOLUTION ON LAGOON HERE?

The muchly talked of and ever present menace, the Monroe street "lagoon" which has been the prime subject before the city council for several months will be definitely disposed of next Mondayq night and a remedy offered, the council decided Monday night.

The plan that is now being considered and which appears at the present time the only way to relieve the condition existing after every rain in the lagoon area is to lower Avenue E. In this manner the water will come down the middle of the street and be carried on to sewers and will prevent the overflowing of yards and gardens as in the past.

SMALL-TOWN PEOPLE

Seneca Falls is a very small town, and yet a very historic one in the state of New York. John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford were not born in the heart of Seneca Falls, but near; and Elihu Root, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucrecia Mott first saw the light of day in the vicinity of the Falls.

It goes without saying that the two billionaires of America made their get-away from the Falls in early youth. This may have had something to do with their subsequent careers as business geniuses and fortune builders.

No man has known the thrill of freeman's will
Who does not know that comradeship exists.
With dusky, winding road and babbling brook,
With tints in sunset glow and mountain mists,
Who has not found within a friendly book
The touch of kindred soul, or felt with hill
A like pine-scented hope and stood intrigued
By mysteries whose cosmic links are leagued.

No man has sipped from freedom's cup at all
Who does not feel a fellowship with least
Of living things, who has not recognized
The kindred claim of Man and Bird and Beast,
And granted rights, which he for self has prized,
Unto all forms of life, both great and small.
No freeman stays the flight or clips the wing
Of longing hope in ay living thing.

No man has worn a freeman's diadem
Who has not loved the flash of gleaming trout
And left them dancing in the mountain rill,
Who has not sought the woods and birds without
A gun, or touched the garden daffodill
A freeman grants all life the same him.
Of freedom that the Master yields to sweet hymn

SARAZEN CORRECTS GOLF FAULTS

BY GENE SARZEN
World's Champion Golfer.

We come now to what I think is the most important part of the stroke on the drive—the downward swing. Fifty per cent of the golfers in this country take the club back properly—they keep the left arm straight and the right elbow well down. They have smoothness and rythm in their backswing when they reach the top they are well poised for the shot.

But when on the downward stroke they lose everything, power, direction and precision—by not hitting through all the way or rather by stopping the club abruptly and particularly by not staying down to the shot.

You've heard ball players and managers in speaking of a weak batter "he doesn't stay in there when he swings," meaning he is stepping away. Golfers do exactly the same thing.

When you strike at the ball the weight of the body shifts to the left foot, which sustaining the full force of the blow. When you have completed your follow-through all of the weight should have been transferred to the left foot. You ought even to be able to lift the right foot in this position without losing your balance.

But a great many players in their anxiety to see the flight of the ball jerk up their heads, with the result shown in the "incorrect" posture here. Others attempt to hit the ball without shifting the weight from the right foot at all—also shown in the "incorrect" picture.

When you swing at the ball, get the right shoulder into the blow as well as the right knee and hip. The "correct" picture illustrates my point.. If you do that you will find that you are facing the flight of the ball and that your body and hands are well around when the stroke has been completed.

Inventive Genius Makes Calomel Delightful

Most Valuable of Drugs Now Purified and Refined From Its Nausea and Danger — "Calotabs" the Name.

The medical virtues of calomel are in no way connected with its nauseating and dangerous qualities, as is proven by the fact that the perfected calomel tablets called Calotabs, is free from objectionable effects yet retains all of the liver-cleansing and system purifying qualities of the old-time calomel. For biliousness, constipation and indigestion, and wherever calomel was essential, the new de-nauseated calomel tablet is a practically perfect remedy.

To inspire public confidence in the discovery the manufacturers have authorized druggists everywhere to refund the price if the customer is not "perfectly delighted" with Calotabs. Sold only in trade-marked packages. Prices 10c and 25c. One tablet at bedtime, with a swallow of water, that's all. No taste, no nausea, no griping, no salts. "World's Greatest Paragrapher"

ROBERT QUILLEN

Robert Quillen, "World's Greatest Paragrapher," has joined the staff of The Record News.

Mr. Quillen has climbed to success and fame up a ladder of little paragraphs.

His "Small-Town Stuff," that appeared for three years in The Saturday Evening Post, added still more to his renown.

It would take most people five hundred words to say as much as Quillen frequently says in twenty. You will like his style. He doesn't cajole. He doesn't bombast. He uses two-and-two-makes-four reasoning. He is convincing.

Quillen's typewriter is a regular machine gun. He hits the target ninety-nine times out of a hundred.

We feel sure Mr. Quillen's paragraphs will be one of your most irresistible habits, once you get to reading them.

Look for them every day on the editorial page.

DARBY-SWIM NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED

One of the prettiest of the recent informal home weddings was solemnized Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Darby when their daughter, Exia was married to William B. Swim of Dallas.

The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with tuberoses and ferns.

Preceding the ceremony Misses Glenore and Josephine Fisk sang a duet "Children Pray This Love to Cherish" by Louis Spher accompanied by Miss Ila Cook who also played the wedding march by Mendelssohn. MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" was played very softly during the impressive ring ceremony which was read by Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, pastor of the Lambuth Memorial M. E. church at Dallas, and a former classmate of the groom at Southern Methodist university, Dallas. The only attendants were Miss Audra Faye Darby bridesmaid, who is a sister of the bride, and Earl Swim of Vernon, best man, a brother of the groom.

The bride wore a dainty gown of white crepe-de-chine draped in white net and edged with tiny opalescent beads with beaded bandeau and accessories to match. She carried an arm bouquet of tube roses and gladioli.

An informal reception was held after the ceremony during which fruit punch was served by Mrs. Patrick Moreland of Dallas.

The Practical Wife and "Toy."

"Man's toy" is a phrase applied to women that has always had a disagreeable sound to our ears. But woman's role as toy is an important one and it is well to look into it.

The "toy" woman is a woman who does not take herself too seriously. She is a pack of nonsense,—a popgun, and like a feather in the scale of life: full of fun and merriment, frothy, light, and airy and idle.

And men have loved her! History proves it.

So the practical wife fully to retain her husband's love, had best take a hint and not let her husband know how practical she is.

Men love festivity and merry-making and skylarking, and when they are in the mood for it they want the "toy" type of woman to share it with them.

As almost every woman is anxious to be everything to her husband, let her not forget that he needs a toy!

SLIM SILHOUETTE OF GOWNS SUPERSEDED

Screen Beauties Don Airy Gowns of Rust, Black and White

The bouffant gown has superseded the slimt, straight line silhouette in today's gowns. They are worn here by two well known cinema beauties, Miss Helene Chadwick on the left and Miss Evelyn Brent on the right and in the center.

The gown Miss Chadwick wears is a "rust" colored tea gown and while it is one that could be worn by any age it has more mature lines than either of the others. It is fashioned of silk Chantilly lace with a georgette foundation of a darker shade. The girdle of dark brown velvet has a long streamer which is worn under the lace over-dress.

The black taffeta frock at the right is a particularly attractive and youthful model. Pussy willow taffeta with a satin stripe is used. The basque is cut fairly tight and the skirt has a pegtop effect at the hips. The sleeves are very short and edged with white pussy willow, and the waistline is also marked with a line of the white. A bertha of handmade lace with narrow streamers completes the quaint effect of the little gown. A black and white hat appropriately tops the costume. The college girl would find this a most useful little gown for her coming college year.

It would be hard to picture a more graceful gown than the airy white georgette crepe in which Miss Brent is shown in the center. A rather tight fitting basque is again used but the skirt makes up in fullness for any lack in the bodice. The hem line is very uneven, "Zigzaggy" in effect. You will notice no ornaments other than the large white feather fan and worn with the frock.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

There is no reason for the American woman to remain in ignorance concerning her sisters in foreign lands for it seems that daily foreign women leaders are arriving to tell us of conditions in the far-off places. Mme. Sushila Devi, representative of the modern women of India, has just arrived in New York to lecture on her native countr yand to sell the wares that the women of her Industrial School for Widows have made.

She tells of the great strides made in her native country through the influence of Mahatma Ghandi. This is Mme. Devi's first visit to America and she hopes to carry back the best of American customs and civilization to her countrywomen. Mme. Devi is a writer, an educator and social worker. She runs the Industrial School for Widows which she founded and in which she teaches widows trades and handwork with which they may support themselves. As if her work were not enough she adopted 12 Indian children some time ago and she is educating them.

OUR WOMEN LAWMAKERS

Pennsylvania seems to lead the list of states with eight women in the legislature, all elected to the house and all republicans. Miss Helen Grimes of Knoxville is one who has a long record of active interest in civic affairs. In 1920 Miss Grimes gained some attention as one of the three agents sent out by the women's division of the department of justice in Washington. She toured the middle western states speaking on methods of reducing the high cost of living. She was also sent to search out the profiteer and expose him to the women buyers of the country. Miss Grimes will keep up her vigilance in matters of costs as a member of the lower house of the Pennsylvania legislature.

Child-wives in Calcutta are estimated at 18,256. Of these, 14,000 are between 10 and 15 years of age.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. "Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 3227 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

ZONAGALE

In Collaboration With Russell Gore Writes On

THE DRESS DESIGNER

Against the gray Gothic walls of the corridor the most modest colors flame like Venetian sunsets. And the young woman at the information desk uses the more modest phases of the prism only as breathing spells between her race to outdo the lilies (the tiger lilies) of the field in vividness.

"Investigate that girl at the information desk," commanded one occupying a private office opening off the gray corridor. The former member of a university faculty thus ordered to return to the psychological inquiry research which once was his daily job lifted his eyebrows, and requested details. Specifically he asked in what phase of the young woman the inquirer was interested.

"Oh, not personally, you may be quite sure of that!" was the response. "The color phase—the new frock—every day complex. She is a flaper; not an idea in her head. It would ruin her complexion to think. But she has some austere passion for clothes—for the colors in clothes. Just enough of her personal background in your report, please, to explain this mania to make our Gothic corridor look like fete day in Seville. I'll give you a week to gather your data."

At the end of the week the one-time professor gravely handed in a written report as follows: "Subject: flapper at information desk in hall with particular reference to taste for bizarre colors. Girl, 19. Only child. Fairly well-to-do parents. Works for fun. Has part of a high school education. Stopepd at tenth grade because it bored her. Stoped music lessons because practicing tired her. "Never reads anything but the comics, the beauty hints and serials in daily newspapers.

"No apparent ambition of any kind not even to get married. Apparently not interested in the boys who hang around her desk except when they comment on her clothes.

"Could probably be romantically inclined toward anyone even midle-aged yours truly, if proper stimulus in the way of expert appreciation of new frocks were supplied. Investigator made great hit first day by pointing out vivid contrast between her current heliotrope effect and gray walls of corridor. Ran out of suitable comments third day.

"She understands nothing of the psychology of dress, but reaches out blindly for variety in daily color schemes. Confesses to having 18 frocks, 14 hats, and 11 pairs of shoes or oxfords.

"Russian boots you have noted cost $30 a pair. (Patient's remuneration is $18 a week.) But loving parents exact no heard, and in crises like that of the Russian boots dad seems to be susceptible to cajolery. Apparently she is the apple—or should one say the posy—of their collective eye!

"Not pretty, as you may have noticed; not apparently interested in the lords of creation; admits dressing for members of own sex rather than opposite; seems sane, wholesome, but hopelessly stupid. Please append final diagnosis of symptoms on back of this report and return.

The page returned to the professor's desk with this on the back: "Stupidity comment unwarranted and (may I add?) impertinent. Patient apparently victim of limitations due to parents' lack of vision of latent possibilities.

"Has definite art impulse; lacking technique of music, painting or any of the arts, personality becomes fluid when brought into contact with colors in shop windows. Means sufficient to buy rainbow effects at random are responsible for present condition.

"Prescribe development of the misguided but undoubtedly genuine instinct for beauty. When? Where? How? These trivalities need not detain us. Thanks for data enabling me to get her color complex off my mind."

A few weeks later, a wise, suave and unostentatious older woman employed by the institution in which inquirer, professor and flapper were cogs, inveigled the young lady into a costuming conversation, which ended by the younger receiving an invitation to be present at a lecture that evening at the art institute on the subject of the use of color in reference to dress design.

And as the professor was leaving she bubbled to him. "You know I've always wanted to get some brains in my bean, but nothing interested me before! Now I'm breaking a date with my dressmaker to hear this highbrow talk. I'm going to learn dress designing."

Today's Poem

WHEN MUVVER CRIED

One time when I 'ist wouldn't mind
An' had been very, very bad,
My muvver didn't say a word
But looked so dreadful sad—

I didn't look at her, but at
The pattern on the nursery wall,
An' I kept sayin' to myself:
"I'm bad, an' I don't care at all!"

I felt so stubborn all inside
An' just as cross as I coud be,
An' swinged my feet an' waited for
Her to come there an' punish me.

The minutes they went by so slow
'At I got tired, an' by-an-by
I peeked at her a little bit
Out of the corner of my eye.

An' 'en, oh dear!—the stubborn there
On my inside, an' all the mad
'Uz gone so quick I wondered why
It 'us 'at I had been so bad.

An' I jumped down an' runned to her
An' hugged an' kissed her, an' said:
"Oh muvver, I'm so sorry, an'
I 'ist most wish 'at I 'uz DEAD!"

An' se laughed kind of shaky-like
An' stroked my hair an' kissed me then,
An' I said "honest, CROSS MY HEART"
I never would do so again.

I've thinked about it ever since,
I can't forget it when I try—
MY DADDY SAYS NO GEN'LEMAN
WOULD EVER MAKE HIS MUVVER CRY!

"I AM NOT GOING TO BREAK DOWN"

The discussion as to which sex has the greater capacity for suffering goes on indefinitely.

Mrs. Harding's exhibition of self control at the simple service held for her husband in San Francisco has provoked world-wide admiration.

Mrs. Harding's first statement when her bereavement came was: "I am not going to break down." It is possible that she will be able to carry out her first impulse in the trying days that are to come.

Should she do so, hers will be an exhibition of womanly courage exceeding anything in recent history. It is true that the humblest among us may have the same capacity for suffering as has the greatest. But there is something of the dramatic and forceful in the larger canvasses of life—such as Mrs. Harding is now experiencing—which tend to crush the individual actors.

Mrs. Harding's courage is all the more remarkable because of her recent illness, advanced years, and nervous temperament.

"I am not going to break down." One may almost see her lips as they form these words.

We admired Mrs. Roosevelt for the modesty and gentleness which caused her to withdraw from the picture at the time of her husband's death. She remained at home, not even attending the funeral. But there is something even more admirable in the strength of a frail and affectionate character which chooses to face the strain of public sympathy. The example may prove a comfort for thousands of women who are called upon to go through a similar ordeal.

It may not be possible that Mrs. Harding will be able to carry out her first resolutions, for the human body can withstand only that which it can withstand. However, the will is admirable, and it is of that quality of greatness that will stand, even should the body crumple before the final public services at Marion.

BRYAN AND HIS BLACKLIST.

William Jennings Bryan is playing his old game. In 1920 he blacklisted William Gibbs McAdoo, James M. Cox and all the others who had presidential aspirations with the exception of Senator Robert Owen of Oklahoma and the late Thomas Mitchell Campbell of Texas.

Now he has blacklisted Senator Oscar W. Underwood, who he says, is a "wet" and for Wall street. Whenever W. J. B. dislikes a fellow democrat, he brands him as a "wet" or a minion of Wall street. He has worked this game successfully since the campaign of 1896. He is going to do his best to work it successfully next year.

Before and after the nomination of James M. Cox by the San Francisco convention, W. J. B. pierced the back of the Buckeye with his long bladed knife. He made it impossible before the convention for him to say a word for Cox after his nomination by the convention. In the Hearst newspapers this man of many states branded Cox as a creature of the Ohio brewers and his platform a beer keg.

Every prohibition politician in America quoted the words of Bryan against Cox in the campaign that followed. Thus far W. J. B. has blacklisted Governor Al Smith of New York and the senator from Alabama. William Gibbs McAdoo is a southerner, a native of Georgia, a prohibitionist, a equal suffragist, government ownership of railways advocate and an avowed champion of organized labor.

Will he be satisfactory to the gentleman who was born in Illinois, lived in Nebraska 30 years and then became an educated political seminole in the swamps of that state known as the Land of Flowers.

THE WAYS OF ACTOR FOLK.

Irene Castle has been granted a divorce. There was no scandal. Her husband loved her, but she did not love him. Elsie Ferguson has been granted a divorce, no scandal. Her husband did not sympathize with her artists longings and she preferred the stage to the home. Tom Moore has been sued for a divorce. Mrs. Moore says he is a brute, and as this is the golden age of women, there is no place in it for a male brute.

Advertising is the life of trade and public entertainers know the value of publicity. But as a famous actor said in the long ago, "What is a woman or two or a dollar or two in a profession where life is just one—thing after another."

Fatty Arbuckle is behaving himself. He has a vaudeville skit of his own. He is taking down $6,000 a week, he is living with his own lawfully wedded wife and eastern newspaper correspondents declare that he is as dry internally and outwardly at all times as Dr. Sahara Atticus Webb.

California prosecutors made a total abstainer out of Fatty and Mrs. Arbuckle is doing her best to make a Christian out of him. And he never blamed the booze.

LOS ANGELES.

When the federal census was taken in 1920 Los Angeles had 226,100 salaried workers. Now Los Angeles has 415,300 salaried workers and the vast increase is largely due to the motion picture industry according to the census takers. In the year 1915 Los Angeles had a population of 391,000. Now Los Angeles has a population of more than 900,000 with a dozen cities in its suburbs. Los Angeles is the only city in the world with the richest of oil fields within its gates. Never sneer at the movies. They have helped to place Los Angeles on the map and they have helped to make it the fifth city in point of population in the United States.

THE SOUL - SCAR

By HELEN DUFF

INSTALLMENT NO. II.

MISS MERILDA TILLINGHAST, seeking adventure, decides to spend a vacation at One Pine Inn, Mink Harbor, lured by an advertisement which features a "mysterious bird bath."

NATALIE MALLINSON, her niece, goes along. As the boat docks at Mink Harbor, she slips off the gangplank, but is rescued by

JONES, clerk at the Inn. He holds her unnecessarily long, thinks Natalie, to whom his face seems vaguely familiar.

BIL, the Inn's chauffeur, runs his jitney into the ditch.

BILL, the Inn's chauffeur, drives off with the new guests, reluctantly consenting to carry an unlabeled white package which Jones throws into the car. The car turns over and Jones forces Natalie to ride with him in his baggage cart. At the Inn, Bill and her aunt having gone on ahead, Natalie is shocked by the resemblance of the "bird-bath" (really an old horse trough) to a coffin.

MISS PRINGLE is manager of the Inn. Aunt Merilda is disgusted with the place and decides to leave, but, lumbago forces her to stay and she spends the next day in bed, reading about SCHUYLER CHANNING, a society man, in whose doings she is interested, although she does not know him.

SAMMY TODD, a not-too-bright country boy, frightens Natalie by watching her through some bushes. He is seized by Jones, who is about to strike him.

The bushes parted and a face pushed its way into view—the face of the farmer's boy whose hay wagon had ditched them the day before. Its expression was vacant, puzzled.

Holding his tattered straw hat before him, he pointed to something lying in the depths of the crown.

"For you," he mouthed, "because you are a pretty lady."

Natalie followed the pointing finger. In the hat were a dozen mangled butterflies.

"You horrid boy!" she cried. "What have you done to them?"

"Fixed them for your hair. It's a crown of glory—glory, glory hallelujah!" he chanted and, with a meaning finger against his chest. "Sammy Todd's a smart boy—he knows something. Something about—down there!" His clawlike hand traced a semicircle toward the inn.

Natalie shrank back.

"If you don't want to hear it from me, ask Jones. Ask him what he buys over to Lakeport, by the railroad station. Ask him what's in the little white package and who gets it? Ask him——"

A muscular arm shot out and he was caught by the collar.

"You little interfering devil! I told you if I found you snooping round here again I'd break your neck, and now, by——"

It was Jones, his voice low—terrible. In palpitating horror she started at the picture of fury he presented. A brick-red haze seemed to envelope him like an aura. His eyes, two smoldering pits of hate, glared down at the writhing figure gripped in the crook of his left arm. His fist was raised to strike.

CHAPTER VII—"THEOTHERTHING—WORSE."

"Oh!" Natalie wailed. "Oh, don't! I can't bear it—I can't bear it!"

At the sound of her voice, Jones' fist lowered.

There was a moment of indecision. The gripping arm relaxed; the prisoner was free. Jones turned and surveyed her coolly.

"You're funny," were his words.

Natalie rose and stepped back. Again that sense of physical inequality made her seek the advantage offered by the rising ground. What would he do—this strange, undisciplined creature in whose arms she had twice felt herself as helpless as an infant?

"What's the idea?" Jones demanded. "You act as though I wasn't fit to touch your little finger. Are you one of those people who think a clerk isn't a human being?" His big hands twitched. "In order to get a nod from you, I suppose a man would have to have a family tree that had sheltered the original anthropoid ape. Or is it just a question of—money?"

"I shouldn't think you'd have to ask," was the sharp reply. "It's your beastly temper that makes me hate you—you bully!"

"Oh! So you hate me, do you?" Again the short laugh. "I'm satisfied."

Natalie could have wept in her vexation. Why was she so unable to put this man in his place?

Bill appeared over the rock.

"What's up?" Jones asked.

"You better hurry," the chauffeur said. "The other thing—worse'en we thought—we're all in for it now, I guess."

Natalie watched them disappear through the back door of the inn.

Something was going on in Miss Pringle's establishment, but—her shoulders went up—why meddle in other people's business?

See what had almost happened to Sammy Todd for being a meddler! Would Jones, but for her, have carried out his threat and wrung the boy's neck? Impossible! No matter what the provocation, a man could not kill in cold blood—and then—the blinding revelation! She remembered where she had seen that sidelong smile before. She fled down the hill, but at the foot of the stairs leading to her room, stood Jones.

"Miss Mallinson, when are you and your aunt going to leave?" he demanded.

The girl drew back.

"What right have you to question a guest? Kindly let me pass."

"Wait!" He looked uneasy. "I'd rather you didn't tell Miss Pringle I said anything, but—you must go. This house is all wrong."

"You——"

"Hang it all! Don't look at me like that." And then, with a groan: "You're right—that temper of mine—it's forever getting me into scrapes. I'd give my shirt if I could conquer it, but—it's too deep in the grain. We've all had it—the men of my line. It's a birthmark, a soul-scar."

The nails of Natalie's hands cut into the tender palms.

"Five years ago, on The Empress of Manchuria, it was your 'soul-scar,' I suppose, that sent a fellow human to eternity."

The man before her went suddenly white.

"What's a coolie more or less?" he asked huskily. "It was fate."

"It was murder!" she stoutly declared, and, brushing by him, mounted the stairs to her aunt's room.

CHAPTER VIII—THE WHITE HAND.

Miss Merilda greeted her niece's entrance with a gyrating movement of the right hand.

"Natalie," she exclaimed, "thank heaven you've come! I was right—there is a mystery in this house."

Natalie listened to a jerky and incoherent story about Miss Pringle, tea tray and a half-opened door. When it was finished, she asked sharply:

"What were you doing in the hall? I thought your lumbago was too bad for you to move."

Miss Merilda set her lips.

"I'm always willing to suffer if it's in a good cause. I'll be more free to act if they get the impression that I'm laid up. You remember where Sherlock Holmes let everybody think he was dead, so he could——"

"Whatever put it into your head"—her niece forestalled a digression—"that there was anything unusual about this unumbered room, as you call it?"

Miss Merilda gave an exasperated flounce.

"Didn't I tell you about the tray in front of the door and the hand—the white, puffy-looking hand that reached out and pulled it in? They can't fool me—there's more than old furniture in that room!"

Natalie began to grow interested.

"It's on the floor above?" she asked.

"Yes; in a cul-de-sac under the stairs leading to the roof—a likely place for hiding a maniac or—an escaped convict. Natalie, this is a mighty queer house. Everyone in it has a past of some sort. Take the cook—she belongs on the stage, a circus rider, vaudeville performer or something—doesn't live with her husband. She ran ran away from him because he's a big no-account Swede cut-throat like that round her if she weren't up to something, would she? Oh, and there's the other one—Jones. What do you think of him? What's THAT?"

Slowly, far off, with the low menace of an approaching army, came the roll of thunder.

"A storm," said Miss Merilda, "and a bad one."

By six o'clock that afternoon, the country for miles around Mink Harbor had felt the heel of the conqueror. Trees were torn up by the roots and hurled headlong over fences. The road had turned into yellow streams of mud, littered with broken branches.

Tomorrow's installment tells of the Princess Lady and what was found in the Bird Bath.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg. Eighth and Indiana

INTO WHAT SIZED FARMS SHOULD THE SURPLUS LANDS ON THE IRRIGATION PROJECT BE DIVIDED?

Growing Legumes Under Irrigation

Legumes are often roughly defined as pod-bearing plants. Peas, beans, peanuts, the clovers and alfalfa are examples of leguminious plants.

All legumes under proper bacterial and soil conditions have the property of taking nitrogen gas from the air and putting it into the soil in such form that it can be used by plants.

Nitrogen is the main fertilizing agent of our most expensive commercial fertilizers. Chilean nitrate and ammonium sulphate are examples of high-grade fertilizers which have nitrogen as a base.

Any plant that will yield a highly profitable crop and at the same time fertilize the soil in which it grows is a most valuable plant. Legumes do all this.

Some legumes such as alfalfa only need to be planted once in ten or fifteen years and do not come into full bearing for several years after planting; others are planted once every two years, sweet clover for instance. Still others have to be planted every year. Peas and beans are good examples of annual planting.

In soils where there are diseases that affect such plants, the crop that is planted and harvested each year has a considerable advantage over the one that takes several years to come into full bearing. This is a fact that may be of considerable importance on tis irrigation project.

The whole subject of the growing of legumes on our irrigation project here is a most important one, and one that deserves special treatment.

We have already discussed the subject of hay growing and its influence on the size of the farm unit and as legumes are mainly used for hay we will not go into the subject further at this time.

Tomorrow we will take up the possibilities of fruit growing on the project.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

By MARY BLAKE LEO

Today the moon is ruled by mercury, which is a planetary combination that governs the nervous system. The influence of the good aspects lasts until about 10 a. m. after which conditions are not so favorable. There is a tendency to speak and act impulsively and make careless mistakes in an effort to obtain quick results. Be patient with the opposite sex, for quarrels today will terminate very unhappily for those involved.

A child born today will be especially gifted and is destined to have great social and intellectual triumphs.

You are somewhat of a temperamentalist if born today and rather given to watching the dramatic effects of your own emotions. Instead of merely obeying chance impulses that come to you, you deliberate such impulses and try to put yourself in situations which will develop all sorts of strange and exciting reactions.

This is because your imagination is naturally powerful and fanciful and your sense of judgement is entirely swayed by it. To you there is only one life and you wish to experience every sensation it can give you.

You should be a forceful and convincing talker, as you have the rare faculty of putting your entire personality into what you are saying and your mind is quick and clever enough to make you quite efficient at repartee.

You have a great deal of the actor in you and you always contrive to look the part you are playing. In affairs of the heart this trait will stand you in good stead, as you are naturally rather cold and unresponsive but at the same time amorous.

You are faithful, sincere and earnest. When you marry and this you can't escape, much longer, you will be fond of your home in a proprietary fashion and egotistically fond of your children and the members of your family, although you will never experience that strong parental feeling that is so pronounced in those born under other signs.

Successful people born on your birthday are:

John F. Dryden—Senator and president of Prudential Insurance company.

Malvern W. Iles—Metallurgist.

Powell Clayton—Governor of Arkansas.

SUNSHINE PELLETS

Speaking of duty,
There's nothing so tough
As leaving the table
Before you've enough.

If you'd cheat the grave, give the cradle a square deal.

Better to be carried away with some idea than by some preventable disease.

If we'd give more heed
To the baby crop,
We'd mighty soon see
The death rate drop.

Two-thirds of the deaths that occur in the third year of life are caused by diseases that could be prevented.

If you are living today you will live fifteen years longer than you would have lived had you died 60 years ago.

Even though our days are numbered,
Let us live them unencumbered
With useles ills;
Let us spend them not in moping,
Spend them not in useless doping
With useless pills;
Let us take our trusty brassie,
Shoot an eighty, true and classy,
Where the course is smooth and grassy—
Across the hills.

A city with an infant mortality rate of fifty or under is a mighty good place in which to live; but where the infant mortality rate is a hundred or more—detour here.

About 1860, the average length of life was around 40 years; today it is around 55 years, and Dr. Dublin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company predicts that it will soon be increased to 65.

More Truth Than Poetry

ADVENTURE

Although you often have been told,
My little wistful friend,
That you may find a pot of gold
Beneath the rainbow's end,
Full often toward that shining goal
Have youthful steps been set,
But not a single eager soul
Has ever found it yet!

Perhaps the clouds are silver lined,
But vain is every quest
Among their rose-hued banks designed
To fill a treasure chest.
You'll never turn to living fires
The glow-worm's tiny flame;
In vain are most of our desires—
But hold them, just the same.

Go watch the clouds that slowly drift
Across the harvest moon;
Or watch them slowly melt and lift
Beneath the sun at noon;
No silver lining meets your sight,
But on that frescoed dome
You'll find more visions of delight
Than he who stays at home!

Go searching for the rainbow's end—
You'll hear along the way
The thrushes, singing as they bend
Above their nests all day.
And though you find no gold at all,
And walk for many a mile,
You'll be content at eventide—
The journey's worth the while.

ECONOMY

One saving could be effected by electing Mr. Ford president. The white house would do with a smaller garage.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE

Fame.

Fame is usually attained by genius. With genius these articles have nothing to do.

Genius will make its own rules. It is not to be advised.

Discouragement will not check it. It requires no help from the student of life.

Always, if it is real genius, it has unflagging patience, and continual industry.

For it is supremely interested in doing what it is sent into the world to do. And interest is a hard driver.

But genius is always interesting for it is so beyond the reach of the ordinary mortal.

"Genius hath electric power,
Which Earth can never tame;
Bright suns may scorch and dark clouds lower—
Its flash is still the same."

Perhaps nothing is so much envied as fame.

The desire to be distinguished from one's fellows, to be known, to be set apart from the common run, is almost universal.

Every newspaper editor knows to what lengths some people will go merely to see their names in print.

Look at any crowd, and you will find many people struggling for notice.

The writer has seen at a big boxing match hundreds of men run to the arena before the battle began and call to one or the other of the boxers merely to impress others with the fact—if it was a fact—that he was acquainted with the man famous because he was big and powerful, and not afraid of getting hurt.

But fame, as a rule, is its own reward.

When it comes after death, as it often does, it is little consolation to the man to whom it is accorded.

And often when it comes during a man's life it is not so sweet as it seems.

Byron, an undoubted genius, though vain and frequently malicious, found the fame brought him little of what he considered valuable.

In one of his moods of gloom he wrote:

"He who ascends to mountain tops shall find
The loftiest peaks most wrapped in clouds and snow,
He who surpasses or subdues mankind
Must look down on the hate of those below."

Byron indeed did "look down on the hate of those below." But he roused a great deal of it not because of his surpassing mankind, but because he was a good hater himself, and gave his enemies abundant reason to hate him.

Few are geniuses. Few attain fame.

But there are compensations. Those who are not geniuses are not the slaves to unremitting toil that a genius must be. Those who are not famous at least do not need to look down upon the hate of those below!

Rats Drink Coconut Milk

The destruction of young coconanuts throughout the vast groves of British Honduras reached such proportions in the last few years that a close watch was maintained, but no pest was discovered. Appeals to several scientific bodies in the United States to whom samples of the damaged nuts were sent brought no light.

In the midst of the last annual dry season, when the streams as usual shrank to nothing, the whole country was arid, and it was difficult to get fresh water to drink, watchers observed rats climbing the trees and attacking the young cocoanuts to quench their thirst. The cocoanut mystery was solved.—New York Times.

POEMS THAT LIVE

THE SCHOLAR

My days among the dead are past;
Around me I behold
Where'er these casual eyes are cast,
The mighty minds of old;
My never-failing friends are they,
With whom I take converse day by day.
With them I take delight in weal and woe;
Seek relef in woe;
And while I understand and feel
How much to them I owe,
My cheeks have often been bedew'd
With tears of thoughtful gratitude.
My thoughts are with the dead; with them
I live in long past years,
Their virtues love, their faults condemn,

My hopes are with the dead; anon
My place with them will be,
And I with them shall travel on
Through all futurity;
Yet leaving here a name, I trust,
That will not perish in the dust.

German Coal Operators in Ruhr Reach Agreement

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—The German coal operators in the Ruhr have come to an understanding with the Franco-Belgian authorities operating the Ruhr railroads under which, the Germans will cease their opposition to the shipment of coal on reparations account to Italy over the lines operated by the allies.

This arrangement, which was announced at the foreign office today, is regarded in French official circles as a sign of the weakening of passive resistance to allied action in the Ruhr.

New Ruhr Violence Feared

Do you Want Knowledge? Here's Method of Socrates

Once upon a time, according to an old story, a young man went to Socrates, the Greek philosopher, and said: "Sire, I come to you in search of knowledge. I heard much about you, and have come a long way to find you. Will you not tell me how I can gain knowledge?"

Socrates said: "Follow me."

The youth followed Socrates to a body of water and was surprised to see him wade into it up to his waist. He followed him and Socrates grasped him by the arm and ead and thrust him there until it seemed the youth would surely perish. He dragged him to the shore and waited for the youth to catch his breath; then said: "My boy, what did you most desire when I held your head under the water?"

The youth replied: "Air."

Socrates said: "Go your way and remember that when you want knowledge as much as you wanted air when you were under the water, you will get it."—Forbes Magazine

TAYLOR BROTHERS & RHINE Equipped to Handle Large or Small Millwork Jobs. Experts in Cabinet Work and Home Building

From a small one-man shop to a planing mill and cabinet plant that is now employing 20 men and doing an extensive business in Wichita Falls and throughout this section of the state—this in brief is the history of the Taylor Brothers & Rhine Manufacturing company, now located at 302 Oak street. The establishment claims a prominent place in the industrial life of Wichita Falls and has been built on the principle of satisfaction to its customers and the enterprise of the men back of it.

The officers of the corporation are C. R. Taylor, president; J. H. Taylor, vice president; R. H. Rhine, secretary-treasurer; C. T. Ashmore, mill superintendent and L. C. Cole, cabinet foreman.

The institution first began operation on the site where the Kemp hotel now stands, under the name of Taylor Brothers, 14 years ago. Four years later the plant was moved to 1113 Ohio street, and four years ago, the business having increased to such an extent that more floor space and yard room was necessary, the brothers moved to their present location. Soon after the business was incorporated and Mr. Rhine joined the firm. The growth of the business has been rapid in the past few years. The plant now covers 16,000 feet of floor space.

To Mr. Ashmore, as mill superintendent, is given much credit for the reputation that has been established through his efforts, combined with those of the Taylor Brothers and Mr. Rhine. Mr. Cole is recognized as an expert cabinet man and none other than highly efficient cabinet and mill workers are employed.

Among the important contracts of this company are all the mill work and cabinet work for the new Junior College, The Burk High School, and many of the finest homes in Wichita Falls. Just this week they have presented their contract on a building masterpiece which means the expenditure of sixty-five thousand dollars.

The business of the concern has expanded to such an extent that it has become known throughout North Texas, and has earned a well established position in the state. There is no need for any business man or home builder to go outside of Wichita Falls for this class of work.

Too Much Hal Carlson Beats Gassers Twice

HAL CARLSON BIG HERO IN IRON MAN STUNT AGAINST TAIL END SHREVEPORT CLUB

Gassers Held to Six Hits in Both Games By "Swede Hal"; Makes It Five Out of Six for Spudders In Series of Twin Bills; Play the Steers At Dallas Today.

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 6.—Hal Carlson pitched the Wichita Falls Spudders to a double victory over Ira Thomas' crippled Gassers here today. Carlson allowed the Gassers only six hits in both games, while in the last affair he held the locals scoreless till the last inning when they bunched three hits for two runs. The first game ended 4 to 1, and the last 4 to 2 with the Spudders on the heavy end of each.

The Spudders can give Carlson full credit for winning both games as he easily outpitched Schilling and Brewer. He breezed through both without any apparent trouble, and at no stage of either game was he in a dangerous position. In the last game Carlson was about to register a shutout over the Gassers, when he momentarily weakened, allowing three hits for two runs.

Wichita Falls outbatted and out played the Gassers. They hit when hits meant runs, and a number of these hits were for extra bases. Eight hits were made in the opener and the same number in the nightcap.

Carlson was also given better support than the Gassers gave their pitchers. Only one error was made in the first contest by the North Texas team, it being harmless, while Shreveport made four that figured greatly in the run making.

In the first game Shreveport managed to get three singles till the fifth inning when Joe Burns doubled to right and scored on a single by Schilling to right. From here on out Carlson allowed only one hit, a single by Simmons, who made half the total of hits secured by the Gassers.

Start In Fourth

Things looked bad for Wichita Falls till the fourth as Schilling had his curves and fast ball well under control. In the fourth the Spudders staged a rally that netted three runs, and in the fifth they added one more for good measure.

Bescher started Schilling on his downfall by walking. He went to second when the Gasser pitcher threw wild trying to catch him off first. Locker sent Bescher to third with a sacrifice. Bescher scored on Tanner's infield hit. Tanner stole second and went to third on Cotter's infield out. He scored when Weiss doubled to left. Berger put Weiss in home with a single.

Carlson opened the fifth by beating out an infield hit to second. He went to second on Grigsby's sacrifice and scored on Bescher's double to right. On Tanner's single, after Locker had grounded out Bescher tried to score and was thrown out at the plate on a pretty throw by Simmons.

In the game number one Tanner got two singles out of four times at bat, while Weiss and Bescher each contributed doubles. Grigsby, the Spudder batting ace went hitless in both contests.

In the afterpiece the Spudders started scoring early. Tanner opened the second with a double to right and advanced to third on Cotter's infield out. He scored on Weiss' double to right field.

Locker opened the sixth with a single, and went to second on Tanner's sacrifice. He scored on Cotter's single to center.

In Shreveport's half of the fourth they threatened Carlson with two singles, but got no further than second base on both blows. Two batters were retired on fly balls and Simmons, the slugging Gassers outfielder went out on strikes.

Last Won In Fifth

Wichita Falls won and Shreveport lost the game in the fifth. Bischoff, first up singled to left and was sacrificed by Carlson. Grigsby flied out but Coombs doubled to left scoring Bischoff. Coombs scored when Simmons fumbled Locker's single to left. That ended the Spudder damages, but it was enough to win a ball game. In the sixth inning Cotter doubled, but the other visiting batsmen were easy outs.

In the seventh inning the Gassers suddenly came to life and hit the puzzling Carlson for three hits and three runs. The sudden Gassers outburst only proved half strong enough to damage Carlson as he ended the game by striking out Brewer.

Simmons started the artillery going with a single. Eichrodt struck out, but Bobby Stow doubled to left, scoring Simmons. Jolly, batting for Moore flied out to Coombs. Joe Burns doubled to right scoring Stow.

Cotter and Locker were the hitting heroes in the last battle, while Tanner, Weiss and Coombs secured doubles.

Ira Thomas' ball players have found the Spudders a tough proposition since their three day stay here. They have lost five out of six to the Spudders, and have failed to hit with any damaging amounts in every game. Al Simmons was the only Gasser who could solve the offerings of the Spudder pitcher.

Dallas Today

The Spudders leave here tonight for Dallas where they take on the Steers in a four-game series.

From First Base To Home On Measly Little Single

Some of the three-runs-and-a-single stars. Left to right above: Gavvy Cravath, Frank Baker, Walter Lutzke and Emil Meusel. Below: Nap Lajoie and Heinie Wagner.

Few baseball happenings furnish a bigger thrill than that of a fleet-footed gent legging it home from first base on a single. The event is much rarer than the sectacular steal of home, the triple steal or the race for home against a pitcher's heave in a squeeze play.

But the spectacle of two runners scoring ahead of that winged-footed gent on the one-base hit is even more rare—and by the same token (as Battling Nelson would say), bigger stuff.

Cleveland fans had a chance to see that last trick turned a while ago when Rube Lutzke, young third sacker, clipped out a base hit against the Athletics.

The fans who saw that little exhibition of speedy hoofing and the resulting three runs are now in a class with just fifteen other groups of fans. For the stunt has been pulled just 16 times in the history of the National and American leagues.

According to the dope at hand—and watch the busy little statisticians try to call me—eleven other players in the American league can shake hands with Lutzke. And just five bozoes in the old circuit got away with it.

The ten other American leaguers are Hub Northern, Nap Lajoie, Steve Yerkes, Frank Baker, Heinie Wagner, Oscar Vitt, Les Nunamaker, Duffy Lewis, Ray Demmitt and Buck Weaver.

The five old leaguers are Kitty Bransfield, Jack Miller Sherry Magee, Gavvy Cravath and Emil Meusel.

In other words, these fifteen gentry are in a class as select in their circle as are the no-hit boys in the pitching world.

It's an interesting fact that Nap Lajoie, one of the old timers to shove three home with a single, did it at the expense of an old warhorse who is still going strong—Jack Quinn who is still with the Yankees.

Hub Northern, the first American leaguer to turn the trick, picked the one and only Walter Johnson for his veitim back in 1910. Northern was with the Browns.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

THE "DOG PADDLE"

What is the best stroke for beginners to learn first?

Answered by
BILL BACHRACH

Illinois Athletic club; most famous and successful of all swimming coaches; has turned out champions such as Johnny Weissmuller, world's fastest swimmer; Norman Ross, Sibyl Bauer, Perry McGillivray, Harry Hebner, Arthur Raithel, Bob Skelton and Mike McDermott.

The dog paddle, because it is most easily self-taught. The body lies flat on the water, the head held high enough to permit breathing through the mouth. The motion is simple, merely a crawling action with arms alternating. It is well to keep the hands and arms below the surface of the water; to bring them out results in splashing, which interferes with breathing and with vision.

Railroad Reorganization Endorsed by Committee

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Resolutions endorsing the action of the directors of the Western Pacific railroad corporation in arranging a plan for the re-organization of the Denver-Rio Grande & Western railroad, were adopted today by a committee representing stockholders, bondholders and others interested in the road, meeting here today.

It was stated that at the time the reorganization is effected a stock dividend will be declared at the rate of one share of preferred and one share of common stock for each six shares of preferred and each six shares of common now held, the preferred and common sharing alike.

Penny in Light Fuse Brings Call for Firemen

The old-time story of a penny in place of an electric light fuse ran true to form again last night. Firemen were called to 1303 Lamar street last night but no damage was done. Fuses had been placed but constantly kept blowing out, when a penny was placed in a light fuse. Immediately there was much smoke. Result: Call for the fire department—much smoke, but no fire.

Problem Solved

Socalled "indelicate displays" of lingerie seen in newspaper pictures of women tennis players have unspeakably shocked staid citizens of dear old England. So strong is the feeling that there is talk of barring photographers from tennis meets or restraining them from taking pictures "of an objectionable nature." In the meantime this young woman has solved the problem by adopting trousers.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Shiek Wears Suspenders

Rudolph Valentino, who sailed the other day with his wife, formerly Winifred Hudnut, on the Cunarder Aquitania to visit his relatives in Italy and her folks in Paris, revealed to the ship news reporters by flipping back the coat of his gray suit that he wore silk tan suspenders, and thus could not be considered strictly in sartorial rapport with the he-world of fashion. But this did not seem to disturb his equanimity. He talked freely about himself and his wife with a dash of confidence in tone and manner, remarking that attempts to find a substitute for him in the movies would result in failure, because "it can't be done."

He said he still believed himself popular, as he received between two thousand and three thousand letters of admiration a day, and that Mrs. Valentino got almost as many. The expense of answering these, inclosing photographs, was considerable, but hang the expense! He said he wanted to emphasize the fact that he was an Italian and not a Spaniard, an Irishman or a Japanese, as had been variously reported, and that his real surname is Guglielmi.—New York Herald.

STOCK MARKET REGAINS FAITH

Saturday Losses Recovered in Session Marked By Quiet

FEATURES

Total stock sales 443,900 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 88.51, net gain 1.31. High, 1923, 105.38; low,—89.91. Twenty railroads averaged 78.02, net gain 1.24. High 1923, 90.03; low, 76.78.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Saturday's losses in the stock market which resulted largely from the liquidation of investors and speculators alarmed at the possible consequences of a change in administration were recovered in today's quiet market.

Wall Street More Optimistic.

Wall street started the week in a more optimistic frame of mind, due to the expressions of confidence in President Coolidge by banking and business leaders, reports from steel centers of an improvement in forward buying and circulation of private cable reports indicating a resumption of friendly negotiations on reparations between France and Great Britain.

United States Steel which had sold as low as 86 Saturday, snapped back to 88 1-8. Gulf States Steel advanced 2 3-8 and Republic and Crucible about a point each.

Baldwin, Studebaker, American Can and other pivotal stocks also showed net gains or 1 1-2 to nearly 2 1-2 points on the day. American Beet Sugar, Maniti Sugar, United Fruit, Woolworth and American Water Works 6 per cent preferred advance three to four points.

Call Money Lowest Yet.

There were a few weak spots in the industrial group, notably Allied Chemical and Kresge droped 3 3-8 on two transactions.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent, the lowest in a month, and then advanced to 5, where it closed.

Trading in foreign exchanges were quiet because of the bank holiday in London. The feature was another collapse in German paper marks, which carried them down to 50 cents a million, a week-end depreciation of more than 40 per cent in quoted value. Demand sterling dropped about half a cent to $4.56 1-2 and French francs slumped 5 points to 5.57 cents.

Prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow spot 9.50@10.25; September 9.36; December 8.47; March 8.74, all bid.

WHEAT VISIBLE SUPPLY GROWS

Prices Averages Higher Despite Increase In Total

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Despite a huge increase of the visible supply total, wheat averaged a little higher in price today. Absence of any aggressive selling was a feature. The close was unsettled at a range varying from 1-4 cent net decline to 1-8 cent advance, with September 96 3-4 to 96 7-8 cents and December 100 1-8 to 100 1-4. Corn finished 1-4 to 5-8 down, oats 1-2 cent off to 1-8 cent up, and provisions at 10 to 17 cents gain.

Corn declined in price as a result of rains which seemed to assure a good crop this year unless serious damage by frost occurs. Oats, although firm at first, were afterward easier with corn. Provisions reflected an advance in hog values.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 6.—Monday's receipts in the cattle division cleared to a very good demand. The market showe dmore activity than on most days last week. All classes held to a generally steady level, but, at the close there was some weakness in the calf trade. Receipts amounted to 4,000 head of cattle and 3,200 calves. The southern division received a few carloads, but the big end of the supply was again found in the native division.

A few cars of good native steers sold at $7.85, and a large number of deals were made at a spread of $4.50 @6.75. A range of $1.50@2.25 caught most cow deals. One car of choice light calves went to an order buyer at $7.25 and a few cars ranged around $6.50@6.75, but packers were stopped at $6.00.

Hogs averaged steady to 10 cents higher with about 1,500 head on hand. Packers took two carloads of a choice sort at $8.10, the day's high level. Most of the run sold at $7.75 @8.00. Pigs remained steady, a few fat pigs going at $5.50, while stockers sold at $5@5.25.

An advance of 10 cents was marked up in the sheep house. Receipts were limited to 1,000 head. Some choice wethers brought $7.25. Most of the supply consisted of stockers.

Burglars Loot Field Summer Home

Mrs. Marshall Field, III.

Burglars, who have been reaping big harvests in jewelry from summer homes of society folk, got away with $12,000 worth of gems belonging to Mrs. Marshall Field, 3d, at her home in Manchester, Conn. Mrs. Field arrived at home at midnight. She placed her jewelry on the dresser in her bedroom and retired. Some little time later when she got up the jewelry was missing. It is thought burglars waited on an adjoining balcony until Mrs. Field went to sleep, then slipped into the room.

COTTON SCORES BIG ADVANCE

October Up $15 a Bale After Drouth Report From Texas

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Increasing alarm over the southwestern crop prospect seemed chiefly responsible for heavy general buying and a sharp advance in cotton today. October sold up to 23.95, making a net advance of 135 points, and an upward movement of 313 points or more than $15 per bale, from the low price touched shortly before the publication of the government cotton crop report last week. That delivery closed at 23.74 or about 21 points off from the best with the general market closing steady at net advances of 113 to 150 points.

Showers Increase Weevils.

The market opened firm at an advance of 40 to 57 points on reports that the weather had continued dry and hot in the southwest over Sunday. These showed that temperature has been very high in Texas, while the showers reported in the eastern belt section were followed by increasingly numerous complaints of boll weevil activity, and both these features had a stimulating influence on demand. December advanced to 23.90 and January to 23.69 with active months generally showing net gains of 130 to 135 points during the middle of the afternoon and with October selling at very nearly the 24 cents level. The demand tapered off at these prices and there was some reactionary talk around the ring, but realising sales were taken on reactions of about 20 points from the best.

Port receipts today 4,158. United States port stocks 175,936. Exports 8,880, making 24,594 so far this season.

GRAHAM BANKS IN FINE SHAPE

Ten Young County Banks Show Deposits of Seven Millions

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 6.—With 10 banks in the county, four national and six state, Young county is showing a healthy condition at this season of the year. The deposits are seven times the capital stock of the banks, the capital being $411,000 with total deposits of approximately $3,000,000. Graham has two of these national banks and one state bank, with deposits of over half that of the county, or $1,900,000 out of a capital of $175,000.

The county has just harvested a good grain crop with prospects of a normal crop of cotton. The oil situation is in a slump, however, due to the price of crude but conditions are expected to be better in the fall.

CIGARETTE SETS LAWN AFIRE

A fire alarm was turned in from South Cherry street at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon where a carelessly thrown cigarette had ignited the dry grass. Due to the gh wind, the fire spread rapidly to the adjoining yard and threatened the garage. It was put out with fire extinguishers before any material damage was done.

Famous Blackstone Had Poor Success as Lawyer

It is 200 years ago since William Blackstone, the compiler of the famous "Commentaries," on the law, was born. He was called to the bar at 23 years old, and was only 25 years old when he became recorder of Wallingford. As a practicing lawyer he does not seem to have been much of a success at first, for he was "not happy in a graceful flow of elocution." Perhaps not much would have been heard of him if he had not been advised to lecture in law at Oxford. The lectures were successful and when the chair of English law was founded at Oxford he became the first professor. His success there reacted on his private practice, which he still continued. He took silk in 1761, and when 40 was made solicitor general. He found that his Oxford lectures were being published by persons who had imperfectly reported them, and to counter this he assembled them as "Commentaries" and gave the first volumes to the press in 1765. Three other volumes followed in the next four years.—Manchester Guardian.

Victorian Days

The average flapper pettishly describes everything that is dull and proper as being Victorian. She thanks heaven that she is far removed from the Disraelian days when maidens blushingly admitted that they had limbs, but would not confess to legs. Queen Victoria was a rigid social disciplinarian, and there was no room or patience for indelicacies in her court. She was the unsullied champion of British motherhood and her influences were always for clean and wholesome living. Poor Victoria could never have stood up under the jazz outbreaks of the present day. If the royal band had ever played "Hot Lips" instead of "Annie Laurie" she would have drawn her white robes over her and committed her soul to its eternal anchorage. But it would be mighty unfortunate if the Victorian influence should be forever lost. When a girl loses her capacity to blush she forfeits about 90 per cent of the charm that belongs to her sex.—Los Angeles Times.

COUNCIL NEARLY GOT BIG SHOCK

They Thought There Would Be No Paving Kick, But There Was

The unexpected which is said to have a tendency of never failing to happen did NOT happen at the city council meeting Monday night but it was a close call.

Several streets were to be ordered paved by council Monday night and is the custom the city fathers were allowing a public hearing on the matter. Those who want streets paved, precedent proves, never come to the public hearings. Those who object are usually on hand to show cause why they should not be asked to pave in front of their property.

Ah! A Surprise!

One by one the blocks to be paved were called off and two by two and three by three, possibly two by four, the citizens voiced their disapproval. Finally Mayor Collier called off the block on Lamar between Seventh and Eighth and asked if anyone wanted to protest. The mayor and council settled back to hear a few hard luck stories. A depressing gratitude pervaded the sanctum of the council chamber and still no one came forward to protest.

Commissioner Shepherd, in a voice showing both haste and surprise, moved the hearing be closed and the street ordered paved. Commissioner Clifford seconded with alacrity. Just as quickly did Mayor Collier put the motion which carried unanimously and enthusiastically. The council was feeling fine. The unexpected apparently had run true to form and did its old stunt of happening.

Nix—Surprise Blasted!

Sequel.

About an hour later as the council was concluding the evenings business and preparing to go home a citizen stepped forward and modestly asked for a moment to speak.

"Beg pardon, gentlemen. Got in a little late but understood you were having a hearing tonight about paving. Now I have a piece of property on Lamar which at this time I don't feel able, etc., etc., etc., and on with the usual complaint.

The councilmen listened respectfully and with the same attitude as before. The record which was so near, yet so rudely snatched away, was ruined. The unexpected played a practical joke and refused to happen.

Legal Points On Paving Aired At Council Meeting

The question of whether all persons with property abutting the intersections of streets being paved should pay the expense or the persons whose property is on the street first paved should bear the cost was brought before the city council Monday night by J. C. Mytinger.

It was pointed out that persons on cross streets who paved after the main street had been paved did not have to pay for the intersections but the persons on the street first paved had to bear the whole expense, under the present system. City Attorney W. E. George was instructed to look up the legal questions in the matter and report at the next meeting.

WOMEN VAGS CAUGHT BY TWO DEPUTIES

A round up of women vags was made in different sections of the city by Deputies W. W. Belcher and George Hawkins Sunday night, 11 being arrested and placed in the county jail.

Most of the women made bonds and others plead guilty and paid fines in justice court Monday.

Special Sermon Series At Walnut St. Baptist Church

Rev. C. G. Lee will preach a series of three sermons beginning Wednesday night at the Walnut street Baptist church. The women of the church will give an ice cream supper in connection with the Thursday night services, for the benefit of the church. The church is located at Walnut and Mississippi streets.

Beg Your Pardon

A report from Olney in The Record-News of Sunday to the effect that a test being drilled on the Logan tract in the Swastika area by Bullard, Donohue et al. of Wichita Falls had been abandoned, has been pointed out as incorrect by Messrs. Bullard and Donohue Monday.

These operators said the well on the Logan tract had not been abandoned but was shut down temporarily because of a water scarcity. The well will be carried on down to the Swastika depth as planned from the beginning, just as soon as water connections are available, the operators said.
