sistent Advertising Is Necessary Achieve Maximum Efficiency

by T. B. Klepper

occasional advertiser may get excellent results from in- al insertions; however, he never expect to receive um value from advertising. ertising can never be fully ive unless it is repeated tently over a long period e. Consistent advertising is tant to the progress of a operation for two major s.

the first place, it is a time principle that repetition in ising is necessary to estab- ublic confidence in a com- or a product. No one has the knowledge to judge the qualities of more than a few millions of available con- products. Our best insurance in buying is faith in the integrity of a well-known name. That faith is established by repeated advertising.

The rapid turnover of patrons of any business is another major reason for long-term consistency in advertising. For instance, bicycle shops lose approximately ten per cent of their customers to used car dealers each year. In turn, used car buyers just as quickly move to the new car market.

Both of these reasons for consistency in advertising are dramatically illustrated in the baby food business. An official of Gerber's Baby Foods estimates that the baby food industry loses a satisfied customer to adult menus every eight seconds. Therefore, advertising has the task of replacing that customer every eight seconds.

"If there is any audience that calls for consistency in advertising, it is young mothers. You can't win their confidence by advertising that starts and stops, nor with special drives, deals and other hit-and-run tactics," the Gerber executive said.

He added that retail grocers are the most consistent advertisers in the country, and for good reason: "They have found it pays," he said.

Monthly Report of Cemetery Association

The monthly report of the Crowell Cemetery Association has been released by Mrs. N. J. Roberts, president, and those who contributed to the support of the cemetery in the month of August follow:

Mrs. M. S. Henry, $10.00; anonymous gift, $5.00; Mrs. W. C. Erwin Estate, $5.00; Mrs. Will Jones, $10.00; Fredia Miller, Childress. $3.00; Mrs. J. W. Owens, Lubbock, $7.00; Gusta Davis, $10.00; J. J. McCoy, $10.00; Salmon Bulkeley, Santa Fe, N. M., $5.00; Roy Steele, $10.00; C. P. Sandifer, $20.00; and 3½ loads of dirt by George Self.

Mrs. Roberts issued the following statements in regard to the finances and upkeep of the cemetery:

"Through the summer months our income has fallen far short of our expenditures, which makes it difficult for us to operate. We are having to draw on our small reserve, which we like to keep for emergencies, such as extra dirt, tools and street repairs.

"We are trying to keep our operating expenses at a minimum —no extra help as badly as it is needed. Our power mower has been in the shop most of the summer, and our sexton has had to operate with a hoe, rake and wheelbarrow. During the heavy rainy season, almost a hundred graves had to be filled. In the last two weeks, five funerals have been held—never has the cemetery been so hard to keep, and the new addition rapidly filling up.

"We have no city tax as Vernon and Childress and we are obliged to make out on what interested relatives and friends have a mind to help. A complete financial report is given at our annual meetings, and we have a record for every subscription for 13 years. We are proud of our fence that was built from receipts of two fall rummage sales and gifts for that specific purpose. No person has ever been asked to make a donation other than the appeals in our local paper.

"Maybe your lot doesn't look as well as you think it should, but consider the size of our grounds, and only one man to keep it—it's quite presentable. Please remember your cemetery."

County Judge Meets with Highway Commission in Austin Last Week

Foard County Judge Leslie Thomas, three Foard County commissioners and two land owners were in Austin last week to attend a meeting of the State Highway Commission.

Judge Thomas requested the Highway Department construct the 38-mile Ranch Road 1919 as originally planned instead of a straight-line route proposed two months ago by the Highway Department. Thomas' proposal would be 2.5 miles longer than the new plan.

However, he said the new plan would take up 229 acres as compared to 169 for the old route and not enough money would be available to buy the new right-of-way through some of the best farm country.

The road in question is the proposed Crowell-Seymour highway for which $50,000 was voted by Foard County residents to buy right-of-way some time ago.

School Valuation of District Property Shows Increase

According to L. A. Andrews, assessor-collector for the Crowell Consolidated Independent School District, the 1957 tax roll for the School District has been completed and payments are being accepted.

The total valuation of property for the year 1957 is $5,920,710 whereas it was $5,720,328 for 1956. This shows a net gain in valuation of $200,382.00, which, according to Mr. Andrews, is due primarily to increased oil production within the district. The total taxes levied for year 1957 is $88,810.65 against $85,804.92 for 1956.

Following his custom started years ago, C. P. Sandifer was again the first taxpayer to pay his 1957 school taxes, he having paid on July 10, 1957, and received official receipt number one, Mr. Andrews stated.

State Capitol NEWS

by VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

Austin, Tex. — Students are trooping back to school for another year of readin', writin' and 'rithmetic.

But the knottiest school problems are not in the math books.

For parents the problem is the high - cost - of - practically - everything. Tuition at state colleges has doubled. Even the parents of first graders are wincing as they add up the "outfitting" bills. Cost of blue jeans, plus crayons, plus lunch money, takes an ever growing bite out of most family budgets. Many mothers will go back to work this fall to help balance the income-outgo equation.

On a bigger scale Texas school agencies and administrators have the problem of the "old woman who lived in the shoe." They have so many children they don't know what to do. Their problem of trying to balance school facilities against school needs is complicated by the fact that one side of the equation—needs—keeps on growing.

Some 1,885,640 children are expected to enroll this month. That is 70,000 more than last fall. To keep the education mills grinding, Texans will spend an estimated $526,000,000 this year. It's twice as much as was spent eight years ago. Local districts are pouring some $40,000,000 into new buildings this year.

SHOWDOWN ON WATER — It's now or never for Texans to solve their water problems in an orderly manner.

This, in effect, is the attitude of Gov. Price Daniel as he sets the wheels in motion for a "big push" this fall.

First attack will be by a 100-person statewide water planning committee appointed by the governor. It is to meet in Austin beginning Sept. 9 to develop planning and leadership for a master plan for water conservation and flood control over the state. Committee members include civic leaders and persons interested in and acquainted with water problems from all parts of the state.

They'll also be asked to help plan future water legislation and develop support for the proposed constitutional amendment that would provide a $100,000,000 bond issue for water projects.

Second phase of the governor's plan is the special legislative session to pass needed additional laws. Target date for the session still is October, the governor has indicated.

Two pieces of water legislation are proposed by Governor Daniel: (1) Creation of a state water planning division to draw up a master plan and (2) a law enabling the state to purchase water storage space in federal reservoirs (a measure which failed last session).

Planning division probably would cost from $500,000 to $1,000,000, says Daniel. This can be obtained, he says, from special funds appropriated, but not used, for other purposes.

If Texas doesn't face the responsibility for its water planning itself, declared the governor, the federal government will take over with a "take it or leave it" plan.

GREENHILL APPOINTED — Joe R. Greenhill of Austin will become an associate justice of the State Supreme Court on Sept. 30.

Greenhill was appointed by the governor to replace Judge Few Brewster, who is resigning because of ill health. A former Houstonian, Greenhill, 43, will be the youngest judge on the high court.

He is a former assistant attorney general to Daniel and was the governor's campaign manager in '56. Daniel termed him "one of Texas' ablest lawyers."

COTTON CROP SLOW — Ginning of Texas' cotton crop is lagging behind 1956, but a larger yield than last year is still expected.

By mid-August only 365,504 bales had been ginned, reports the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. Last year at this time almost twice as much had been ginned.

But crops in many areas are late due to prolonged rains. USDA still predicts the '57 crop in Texas will be 3,775,000 bales compared to 3,615,000 last year.

MORE ERRORS FOUND—All the excitement over moving the State Insurance Department out of the International Life Insurance Co. building in Austin was for naught.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has ruled invalid that part of the reorganization bill which ordered a new building.

Wilson says the bill was improperly drawn.

MOST ARE SOUND — Most Texas insurance companies are strong. So said Judge Penn Jackson in his first public speech since becoming chairman of the Board of Insurance Commissioners.

But, he added, "a smaller number are losing ground and may or may not be able to survive."

NEW COURTS — A new district court in Austin and one in Dallas now are open for business.

Judge Mace B. Thurman, formerly of Travis County's County Court-at-Law, was named to the new bench in Austin.

Judge Claude Williams, Dallas attorney, was appointed to the new court there.

Short Snorts

Texas ranked seventh in the nation last year on per capita income, reports the Bureau of the Census. Texas per capita income, $1,686. National average, $1,940.

Dr. N. Jay Rogers of Beaumont and Dr. Ira E. Woods of Grapevine have been re-appointed by the Governor for six-year terms on the State Board of Optometry.

Another motor vehicle inspection period has arrived. You have until next April 15 to get your new sticker, however. But early inspections are urged by the Department of Public Safety.

quite wood ground into a a source of bulk in ra- r cattle when other rough- re scarce and relatively price.

ding steers fed a ration con- 7.2 pounds of ground mes- ood gained 2.2 pounds per ily in feeding tests at the Agricultural Experiment at Spur, said P. T. Marion, station superintendent. Similar steers fed cottonseed hulls instead of mesquite meal gained 2.29 pounds daily. The feeding period was 140 days.

In a more recent test lasting 112 days, yearling steers fed a ration containing 12.23 pounds of ground mesquite wood per head daily gained an average of 2.54 pounds, compared with 2.71 pounds gained daily by steers fed a silage ration, he added.

The steers fed the mesquite meal made a higher net profit on the basis of $10 per ton for ground mesquite and $18 per ton for cottonseed hulls than those fed the cottonseed hull ration.

A chemical analysis shows that mesquite meal has a higher protein, fiber and calcium content than cottonseed hulls, but a slightly lower fat and carbohydrate content.

Carotent (VitaminA) also is in the mesquite meal, but this essential element is not present or is very low in quantity in many dry roughages.

Mesquite to be used should be green stems and branches 1 to 3 inches in diameter, and should be allowed to cure for 5 to 7 days before grinding. Curing will make grinding easier and will lower the moisture content, eliminating molding after grinding.

The wood apparently may be harvested at any time of the year, but it usually has the highest nutritive value in the spring before leaf development begins.

THIS WEEK —In Washington

With Clinton Davidson

Democratic leaders casting about for a Presidential candidate in 1960 have put Texas rancher Lyndon Baines Johnson near the top of their "shopping list." He is available.

Better known as Senator Johnson, the Majority Leader in the Senate, he sometimes is called "Mr. Congress." His leadership in Congress has stamped him as potential Presidential timber.

During the first session of the 85th Congress, Sen. Johnson increased his political stature in keeping with his broad-shouldered 6 ft. 3½ in. frame, to establish his place as the No. 2 man in Washington, out-ranked only by President Eisenhower.

Most of the time he worked to carry out legislative programs advanced by President Eisenhower, but he did not hesitate to oppose the President on issues where there was a difference of opinion, as in the civil rights battle.

Johnson's ranking as the second most powerful man in government stems from his own abilities, plus his position as Majority Leader, and chairman of the important Democratic Policy and Democratic Steering Committees.

When Johnson gave a bill his approval the odds were it would pass, but if he opposed a bill its chances were slim. He came as close as any one man could of being Mr. Congress.

What sort of man is he, what are his interests, how does he think and operate? Will he one day be President of the United States? The answers could sway the future of the world.

Johnson, just one week past 48, is a quiet, unassuming man—by Texas standard. The force of his character and ability lies deep, rather than on the surface. He is a forceful speaker, but not an orator of the William Jennings Bryan order.

In Washington he has few interests other than his family and the Senate. He and Mrs. Johnson (he calls her Lady Bird) attend a minimum of social functions. "No time," he explains.

He dresses conservatively in Washington, but on his ranch near Johnson City (pop. 683) he goes native Texan with a flair for bright colors. His pride and joy is his herd of whiteface Herefords.

Johnson first came to Washington in the nineteen-thirties as Secretary to Rep. Richard Kleberg, owner of King Ranch. I met him in his Congressional office in 1937 shortly after his first election to the House. He was then only 28 years old and he exuded energy from every pore. After five 2-year terms and one special term in the House, he was elected to the Senate in 1948 and re-elected in 1955. He is a member of the Armed Services and Appropriations Committees.

His work-day starts at 7:30 a. m., with a breakfast of fruit and tea or sanka, with dried milk added, and ends somewhere around midnight when he goes home to dinner. In between time he grabs a hamburger, a bowl of soup or a cantaloupe.

His entrance at his office is the signal for a staff conference to discuss his schedule and plans for the day. He is nearly always on the floor of the Senate, but seldom makes a speech.

His is one of the busiest telephones in Washington. He averages 30 to 40 out-going and incoming calls a day. He is included in most White House conferences on legislative problems.

As a man grows older and wiser, he talks less and says more.

Explosive Tools to Be Used to Shape Airplane Surfaces

Because of their constantly increasing speeds, modern aircraft require high-strength, heat-resistant, absolutely smooth metals to thwart the thermal thicket and insure stability in flight.

Scientists in the aircraft industry are now exploring the use of "explosive tools" to accomplish the job of shaping hard, difficult-to-form metals into complex contours devoid of rivets. Such an "explosive forming" method involves blasting the metal to be formed with forces from shock waves traveling at the incredible speed of 18,000 miles per hour.

Gunpowder, one of the cheapest, most powerful and easily controlled sources of power, is being investigated for the task, along with .22 caliber rifle cartridges and eight-gauge shotgun shells. The aircraft company working on the explosive-forming development project carries on its experiments in a bomb shelter of World War II vintage.

Outdoors business is picking up rapidly right now. When the weather begins to get a little cooler, conditions will be exactly right for bass. The hunters have already started on doves, with open season on other game coming along soon.

Let's talk about fishing first. Although a lot of fishermen take home full strings in Summer, it's pretty generally agreed that Fall is a better time, for several reasons.

In cooler weather, fish are inclined to move around more. That takes more energy, and the fish therefore are prompted to do more feeding.

Thus, in Fall, the bass are hungry and their normal sources of food are apt to be somewhat scanty. So they look with favor on your minnow or plug.

Old timers in the bass fishing game have started already, as a matter of fact. Their top-water lures dusted off and hooks sharpened, they may be seen at daylight these mornings and late afternoons, moving along slowly in their boats, tossing plugs or flies along the edges of weed beds, under willows, close to stumps and rocks.

Such a procedure is calculated to pay off, especially when that change in weather comes. Want advice? Try just before and just after the first norther.

Those Old Cats

Catfishing has been the best bet for most anglers during the Summer, and in many lakes and streams, the trotline operators have been highly successful. Catfishing is good in Texas the year round. Here's a fish that responds readily to almost any bait, offers excellent sport to the still fisherman, and affords a tasty dish for the table.

A word about carp. This fish was imported from Europe many years ago. There, it was and is considered a delicacy. Taken handily in most Texas lakes and streams the carp is a valiant fighter, and he comes in king sizes. Rig your line with a nylon leader, and tie your sinker so the fish won't feel tension when he samples the dough bait. Let him run with it and then strike—hard.

Now about coastal fishing—the outlook is excellent. Back in 1951 there was a freeze that killed many game fish. But now, the young have had time to mature.

Indications of good salt water fishing came in the Summer, when many anglers returned with record catches of trout. In numbers and in size they were better than they had been for years.

Nine pound trout were captured. A pair of Austin anglers, Steve Eichelberger and Eldon Powell, took 229 specs, weighing 394 pounds, in 3½ hours from the intercoastal canal near Austwell. The fish took shrimp as long as the supply lasted, then they hit spoons.

That was the biggest catch ever made by two fishermen, as far as the boatman knew.

Come Fall, there will be more catches of trout, and the redfish will start striking. When it gets a little cooler, the sheepshead will be active.

Plenty of Birds

Dove hunters know that the supply of these birds is abundant this season. Spring rains caused the cover crops to grow well. Rains during the season will cause the birds to scatter, and cold weather will inspire them to migrate southward, but all considered, the dove hunting prospects are superb.

The same applies to quail. Not only has there been a good normal hatch, but landowners have contributed by adding to the supply.

Hunters Get Ready

Range is good for deer and antelope, as a result of spring rains, and the hunters are getting that look in their eyes. Unquestionably, there will be a fine deer harvest this season.

Turkeys abound, too, but there has been a reduction in limit in some counties. And that statement calls for a warning: Check local regulations before you go hunting, because county laws vary widely.

From Canada, the news is that there has been a fine season for the duck and goose hatch. These birds will be in Texas when wintry winds blow.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.
HENRY A. HOLLE, M.D., Commissioner

Austin—Texas' new "hazardous substances" law is now in effect, aimed at restricting the sale of poisons that last year claimed at least 15 young lives in this state.

Chief target of the law is thallium sulphate, a potent insecticide and rodenticide. But all substances, with few specific exceptions, which are hazardous for humans are included.

The law was passed by the recent legislature with strong backing from the State Department of Health. The task of administering and enforcing it now falls to the state health commissioner with the help of city and county health officers.

In Houston alone last year, more than 50 cases of accidental thallium sulphate poisoning were reported. Almost as many occurred in San Antonio. In most instances the deadly material was mixed with graham crackers or vanilla wafer crumbs as a base, which made it especially attractive to children.

Even before the law became effective, Galveston authorities banned the sale of products containing more than three per cent thallium salts.

The substance can kill by absorption through the skin or by inhalation, as well as by ingestion. Compounded originally for use only by professional insect and rodent exterminators, there is no known antidote for the almost tasteless product.

Even when the case of accidental poisoning doesn't end fatally, the victim's vision is often impaired and his sense of balance upset.

With the law now in effect, it will thereafter be unlawful to sell any product containing more than one per cent of any thallium salt.

It will also be unlawful to mix any poisonous substance with food or drink. Exceptions are water or a mixture which has lost its identity as food and is not likely to be mistaken as food for human consumption.

Manufacturers of hazardous substances, the new law says, must spell out on the container the nature of the hazard, first-aid treatments if any, and instructions for safe handling, storage, and disposal.

Violations are punishable by $1000 fine or a year imprisonment or both.

Specifically exempt are products manufactured exclusively to be exported, soap or soap products, or products coming under the jurisdiction of the State Railroad Commission.

The attorney general has ruled that city and county health officers have authority to take legal action against violators in their jurisdiction if requested to do so by the state commissioner of health.

Using Your Time

A transistor timepiece and a quartz clock were featured among more than 200 unusual watches unveiled by the watchmakers of Switzerland at the National Jewelers Association convention held this month in Chicago.

Other miracles of timekeeping in the exhibit included a skin-diving watch, thoroughly water and pressure-proof; a timepiece that records phases of the moon; a 'round-the-world watch; chronographs for split-second recordings, and calendar and alarm timepieces.

Considered the world's most unusual collection of men's and women's jeweled-lever watches, the exhibit also featured models nearly as thin as a 50-cent coin, and several with faces less than one-fourth inch in diameter.

The transistor timepiece represents the most advanced stage yet achieved in the search for an electronic watch. The balance wheel is the only moving part in the mechanism. The quartz clock contains an oscillator, with the quartz crystal fitted in a thermostat. It varies less than 1/100 second per day.

All this ingenuity is necessary to answer, "What time is it?" — a recognition that time is precious. And this leads to a greater question, "What are we doing with our time?"

Each man has an allotted number of years on earth, the span wholly unknown. They can be used in selfish pursuits, in idle pleasure, in doing things which bring shame. Or they can be used in constructive living, in doing righteously, in the service of God and man.

Each tick of the clock brings us a second closer to death, a second closer to eternity when time will be no longer (Revelation 10:6).

St. Paul admonishes us, "Make the best use of your time, despite all the difficulties of these days" (Ephesians 4:5, Phillips' translation). The poet adds:

"Only one life, 'twill soon be past;
Only what's done for Christ will last."

Deepest, Dampest Seat Ejection

A Navy pilot owes his life to the ingenuity of aircraft scientists and engineers who developed emergency ejection seats rugged enough to work under water as well as high in the air.

In a recent unusual accident, a Navy lieutenant was strapped into the seat of his jet interceptor when the brakes failed and his aircraft rolled tail-first over the side of an aircraft carrier on Pacific maneuvers.

The force of the dunking momentarily stunned the pilot, and he was 75 feet below the surface before he tripped the ejection device. He was hurled from the plane still in the seat, and as the straps were released, he was able to swim to the surface. He was rescued by a helicopter.

First use of the abbreviation, U. S. A., was to stamp approval on barrels of gunpowder made at a mill near Frankfort, Pennsylvania, for Washington's Army.

Home Demonstration Notes

MRS. MARY D. BROWN

This Saturday, Sept. 7, the District Three 4-H Girls Dress Revue will be held in Wichita Falls. Ginger Rasberry and Carol Bell will both model dresses in this revue. Ginger, the county winner, will have her dress judged in the district competition. Carol was Junior winner of this county and she will model her dress in the district revue, but it will not be judged.

I'm sure you will all join me in wishing both of our girls good luck in the District Dress Revue.

Our recipe this week is

Cheese Souffle

1/4 cup butter or margarine, 1/4 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1/2 pound package nippy spreading cheese, 4 well-beaten egg yolks, 4 stiffly-beaten egg whites.

Melt butter or margarine in double boiler; add flour and salt; blend. Add milk; cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Add cheese; stir until melted. Gradually add sauce to egg yolk. Carefully fold in egg whites beaten stiff but not dry. Pour in ungreased baking dish. Bake in pan of hot water at 325 degrees F. for 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until mixture doesn't adhere to knife. Serves 6.

"Hot Rod" Can't Keep Up with Jet Bomber

One of the strangest "drag races" in the history of hot-rodding takes place quite often at one aircraft manufacturer's airfield. The race is between a V-8 station wagon and a jet-powered heavy bomber.

The station wagon, because of its inferior speed range, is given a "handicap" of about 500 feet—nearly two city blocks—before the mammoth jet bomber releases its brakes. Within half a mile, the bomber is going 70 miles an hour, and it then overtakes the station wagon traveling at about the same speed. Next, the bomber decelerates, allowing the wagon to catch up for a second try.

Object of this offbeat drag race is not to prove that the bomber is faster than the station wagon—a fact which both aircraft and station wagon drivers readily admit. The high-speed taxi runs are utilized to give the bomber's ground crewmen, aboard the station wagon, a good look at the ground operation of the landing gear, brakes and outrigger gear.

Men in the station wagon maintain radio contact with the bomber while watching its steering, anti-skid features, or braking.

ELEMENTS FOR HURRICANE

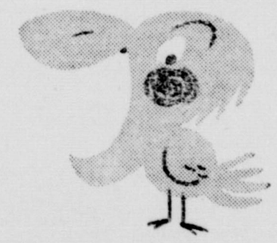

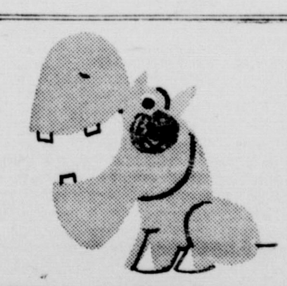

Although the exact process of the formation of a hurricane is not known, canditions generally favorable for the start of a storm are light variable winds, high humidity, low atmospheric pressure, and strong solar heat, according to data compiled by the Navy's Hurricane Hunters.

On March 21 and September 23, day and night are of equal duration in every part of the world.

DID YOUR FARM PLOW LAST YEAR?

by John Lowe and Bill Koos, Soil Scientists.

Mr. Sandy Land Farmer, it is time to think about those dreary blowing days which roll around each spring. One might ask the question, why worry about spring before spring gets here. Well, it is like this. Most farmers produce a certain amount of grain sorghum each year, and it is this crop stubble which affords much protection to your land if properly left standing and tilled.

A survey was made in the Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District to determine the erodibility of different soils under different types of farming practices. This study was based upon the amount of crop residue or stubble left on the land and the amount of clioddishness or roughness of the land.

One farm was examined where a deep sandy soil had stubble left that was 8 inches tall. If this land remained in this condition for the year, the soil would be removed at the rate of 500 tons per acre. This is equivalent to 74 dump-truck loads of soil, each containing 5 yards of soil being removed per acre from this field.

On another farm where a 14-inch stubble was left on the land and the land was also chiseled, it eroded at the rate of only .2 ton per acre.

On sandy land fields where bare ground exists, the top soil will blow off leaving a hard layer of clay subsoil. The sandy topsoil will bank up on the nearest fence or be deposited in dunes over the field.

In which of these three categories will your farm be? The one that loses all the topsoil; the farm that loses a large portion of the topsoil; or the farm that loses very little of its topsoil. You too can keep the sand down on your farm by leaving plenty of stubble on the ground.

Color Television to Be Expanded

The National Broadcasting Co.'s color television schedule for the 1957-58 season will be launched at a level 67 per cent above the start of the previous season.

There will be about 250 hours of color programming for the fourth quarter of this year, compared to 149 hours for the fourth quarter of 1956, including an average of more than two hours of color daily and will frequently offer from three to four hours of color during a single afternoon and evening.

NBC will colorcast all World Series game played in the park of the American League pennant winner. NBS also expects to present in color several of the nation's top college football games.

Special to be done in color will include musical-variety programs built around many of the leading figures in show business, all-star entertainment shows and major dramatic and operatic presentations.

Tentative plans reveal that a part of the programs presented every day in the week will be in color.

DID YOUR FARM PLOW LAST YEAR?

by John Lowe and Bill Koos, Soil Scientists.

Mr. Sandy Land Farmer, it is time to think about those dreary blowing days which roll around each spring. One might ask the question, why worry about spring before spring gets here. Well, it is like this. Most farmers produce a certain amount of grain sorghum each year, and it is this crop stubble which affords much protection to your land if properly left standing and tilled.

A survey was made in the Lower Pease River Soil Conservation District to determine the erodibility of different soils under different types of farming practices. This study was based upon the amount of crop residue or stubble left on the land and the amount of cloddishness or roughness of the land.

One farm was examined where a deep sandy soil had stubble left that was 8 inches tall. If this land remained in this condition for the year, the soil would be removed at the rate of 500 tons per acre. This is equivalent to 74 dump-truck loads of soil, each containing 5 yards of soil being removed per acre from this field.

On another farm where a 14-inch stubble was left on the land and the land was also chiseled, it eroded at the rate of only .2 ton per acre.

On sandy land fields where bare ground exists, the top soil will blow off leaving a hard layer of clay subsoil. The sandy topsoil will bank up on the nearest fence or be deposited in dunes over the field.

In which of these three categories will your farm be? The one that loses all the topsoil; the farm that loses a large portion of the topsoil; or the farm that loses very little of its topsoil. You too can keep the sand down on your farm by leaving plenty of stubble on the ground.

Color Television to Be Expanded

The National Broadcasting Co.'s color television schedule for the 1957-58 season will be launched at a level 67 per cent above the start of the previous season.

There will be about 250 hours of color programming for the fourth quarter of this year, compared to 149 hours for the fourth quarter of 1956, including an average of more than two hours of color daily and will frequently offer from three to four hours of color during a single afternoon and evening.

NBC will colorcast all World Series game played in the park of the American League pennant winner. NBS also expects to present in color several of the nation's top college football games.

Special to be done in color will include musical-variety programs built around many of the leading figures in show business, all-star entertainment shows and major dramatic and operatic presentations.

Tentative plans reveal that a part of the programs presented every day in the week will be in color.

Benjamin Franklin was the first Postmaster of the United States.
