

Pantex protestors will go to jail for climbing the fence

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Two anti-nuclear protestors convicted two years ago of trespassing at the Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant near here face prison sentences for climbing its fences a second time.

A third woman also was convicted and faces sentencing.

A federal jury took just half an hour Tuesday to convict the defendants, Ladon Sheets, 49, of Berkeley, Calif., Kathleen Jennings, 24, of Pittsburgh, and Christine Eirene, 32, also of Pittsburgh, of trespassing at the plant Feb. 16.

They could be sentenced to prison for up to a year.

Sheets and Miss Jennings were members of the so-called Pantex Six, who were convicted two years ago of trespassing.

Miss Jennings was given an eight-month prison sentence, and Sheets was sent to prison for a year. Mrs. Eirene is the wife of another Pantex Six member.

The Pantex plant is the final point for assembly of nuclear weapons. The three defendants climbed a barbed-wire fence around the 9,100-acre complex and then used a homemade ladder to scale one of two eight-foot chain-link fences, according to testimony Tuesday.

The defendants did not have a lawyer and called no witnesses Tuesday, although Miss Jennings made a closing argument in which she asked the jurors to consider their motives.

Miss Jennings said the group entered the plant to pray for peace and "beg God to have mercy."

The nuclear arms race is "the most important thing happening in our lives," she said. "What we have to consider as human beings is our responsibility for what is going on."

The defendants sat silently during the proceedings, but laughed and joked during recesses, displaying photographs of their arrests to the audience and ridiculing the prosecutor, Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert McRoberts.

Perryton keeps top cop despite huge protest

By SHERILL McLEAREN
Special Correspondent

PERRYTON — Hundreds of Perryton citizens jammed city hall Tuesday and demanded the jobs of the city manager and police chief, after the chief fired an 18-year veteran of the police force April 5.

At the end of a three and a half hour meeting Tuesday evening, the council voted unanimously to support Chief Joe Hannon's decision to fire patrolman Charles Sharp.

Sharp's appeal to the council Tuesday was denied, despite petitions that were signed by hundreds of residents who want the heads of Hannon and City Manager J.B. Whigham.

Residents Troy Barkley and Fred Herman gave council members the petitions Tuesday, immediately before the elected officials heard three hours testimony about Sharp's dismissal.

Mayor Quentin Rizley accepted the petitions and said the council would take them "under advisement."

Sharp, 56, was fired by Hannon April 5. The chief said he fired the 18-year veteran under a chapter of city rules alleging "incompetence or repeated neglect of duty."

The patrolman appealed the firing to Whigham, who turned him down last Thursday. Sharp appealed to the council at Tuesday's meeting.

During the packed hearing Sharp's fellow officers from both the city force and sheriff's office said he was not a competent officer; while several citizens spoke out to support the former patrolman.

Defending his job, Sharp, who also runs a Perryton pawn shop, said his only evidence was "myself and many friends."

"I always tried to be fair and only issue good citations and make legal arrests. I'll let my 18 years speak for itself," Sharp said.

He told the council he wants to keep his job.

Hannon told the council and gathered citizens that Sharp's "lack of proper performance spoke for itself."

The police chief cited one recent incident when in downtown Perryton, Sharp stopped a man driving a pickup with a gas pump nozzle sticking out of the neck of its gas tank. Hannon said Sharp issued no citations and let the driver continue on.

Hannon said sheriff's deputies later stopped the same driver north of town.

He said the driver had earlier jerked the hose off a gas pump at a Perryton station, spilling gasoline all over the drive. The driver was drunk, the chief said. Hannon said the deputies arrested the man Sharp released. He said the drunk driver registered .18 on a blood-alcohol test, well over the legal limit for intoxication.

Sharp told councilmen the damage to the station had not been reported when he stopped the driver and that he had no indication he was drunk.

Fellow officers Lt. Pete Larowe, Joe Boren, Bob Maness, Ochiltree County Sheriff Joe Hataway and Chief Deputy Melvin Drum all told the council Monday that Sharp is an incompetent officer.

The officers variously said Sharp slept and worked at his pawn shop while on duty, failed to complete paperwork, lost evidence, including a suicide note, and took long coffee and lunch breaks.

Several citizens, including prominent Perryton businessmen, a school board member, and a former police officer, all spoke on Sharp's behalf.

Former Perryton officer John Lighthouse, who now works for the Hugoton, Kan., police department, drove down for the hearing and said

Sharp "always did his job." He said Sharp just didn't "fit in with the clan." He said Hannon and the young officers on the force are the problems, not Sharp. Lighthouse said he would never work for Hannon again.

Resident Jack Kile said Sharp was the only mature officer on the force and deserves a second chance. He said other officers on the Perryton force are involved in pending lawsuits alleging police brutality and false arrests.

"I knew my decision would not be popular. Luckily, I'm not an elected official. The decision was not easy, and it was not made to punish anyone. If you want me to leave, I'll leave," Chief Hannon told the crowd.

Councilmen Doug Hale, Mike Richardson, Charles Kelly, Terry Jones, Wayne Sexton and Rizley backed Hannon.

The council members voted unanimously to support the chief on a motion that he acted properly in firing Sharp. The council said it would take no further action on Sharp's appeal. The motion to support Hannon was amended to later consider the fired patrolman for another city job, so that he may complete three more years needed until retirement.

Senate about to kill Reagan's withholding

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a major break with President Reagan, the Republican-controlled Senate is about to abandon for four years and perhaps forever his plan for withholding taxes from interest and dividends.

"Very honestly, we didn't have the votes" to block repeal, Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., chief backer of withholding, told colleagues Tuesday night.

Kenneth Duberstein, a White House lobbyist, said today the White House had no part in the agreement. "We have not endorsed the compromise" and Reagan is sticking to his promise to veto any repeal measure, Duberstein added.

The banking industry, which helped generate a record amount of mail against withholding, said it was encouraged. "We ... believe that the elements now exist for a solution acceptable by all," said Jerry Lowrie, chief lobbyist for the American Banking Association.

The Senate could approve the compromise today. But, because of Reagan's earlier veto threats and House leaders' support for withholding, there was no assurance the law will be repealed.

Negotiators for Dole, Republican Leader Howard Baker and Sen. Bob Kasten, R-Wis., who was leading the fight to repeal withholding, worked out the agreement Tuesday night after it became clear to Dole that the battle was lost.

Dole said he could count only 28 votes on his side — 23 short of a majority and six fewer than required to uphold a Reagan veto of repeal.

Kasten offered this explanation of the compromise while cautioning that many provisions have yet to be spelled out:

—Withholding of 10 percent of interest and dividends, due to start on July 1, would be delayed at least until July 1, 1987.

—In the meantime, stiffer penalties would be authorized for people who don't pay taxes on such income. Copies of 1099 forms listing interest and dividends earned would have to be filed with individual tax returns. IRS would have to match those 400 million forms with 97 million returns.

The compromise would worsen the federal deficit; just how much will not be known until details are worked out.

Cauble gets to keep his financial empire

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — Rex Cauble, a millionaire Denton rancher convicted of marijuana smuggling, has fended off an attempt by the government to seize holdings that include his western wear stores and six Texas ranches.

Prosecutors told U.S. District Judge William Steger that Cauble has not complied with a court order to disclose financial information to the U.S. Justice Department.

The government claims Cauble has squandered millions of dollars over the past three years in commodities, futures, stocks and bonds trading, and lost $50,000 while gambling in Las Vegas last year.

But Cauble's attorneys said he has complied fully with government requests for financial information. A computerized accounting system will be installed at Cauble Enterprises to inform the government regularly of his financial status, the lawyers said.

Steger ruled that the federal government could not seize Cauble's property.

"I'm still a general partner," a smiling Cauble said after Steger's ruling. The government wanted all of Cauble's property, including Cauble Enterprises, placed in the hands of a receiver.

Cauble, 69, was convicted in January 1982 of embezzlement, conspiracy and racketeering.

Coming down

On Tuesday morning workers began to dismantle the giant oil derrick that stood on the site of the once-planned Pampa Oil and Gas Museum. With plans for the museum now scrapped, the derrick is being taken down so it can be transported to its new home, the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon, where it will join other pieces of historical significance to the Panhandle. (Staff photo by Bruce Lee Smith)

Dresser employees given 15 minutes to pack up

PERRYTON (Sp) — Two company officials from Oklahoma City told employees at Dresser - Titan, an oilfield transport company here, that they were dismissed Tuesday and had 15 minutes get their things and clear out.

Perryton's Dresser - Titan yard, where 22 people worked full time, was closed Tuesday morning.

Employees said they had no indication or prior warning that the yard would be shut down.

Company officials Jerry Bryan and Don Wade arrived at the yard before noon Tuesday and told employees to clear out.

Perryton workers at the quickly - closed business included two mechanics, three office workers, a division manager and 16 truck drivers.

Dresser - Titan, a division of Dresser Industries of Houston, hauls chemicals and products to oil and gas wells.

Bryan and Wade told employees that the shut down was effective immediately, but said they would be paid through Thursday.

The officials announced no reason for the shutdown, but told employees it was related to the current slump in the oil patch.

About nine months ago, the Dresser - Titan yard employed 40 people full time. The number was gradually reduced to Tuesday's 22 employees. The yard is located on Loop 143, about two miles north of Perryton.

Search continues for more bodies, logbook

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Searchers combed the rubble of the U.S. Embassy today looking for more buried victims and a log book that might help establish a firm casualty toll from Monday's devastating bomb attack.

U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon said today the current toll from the explosion was 24 confirmed dead, including nine Americans, and 25 other people missing and presumed dead. Eight of the missing are believed to be Americans.

Dillon explained that the overall death toll had risen from 47 to 49 "because we did not include two of our official visitors in yesterday's total."

"It may be some days before we realize the extent of the loss," he said.

U.S. Undersecretary of State Lawrence S. Eagleburger and Assistant Secretary of State Nicholas Veliotis were flying to Lebanon today to escort the bodies of the American bombing victims back home, Dillon said.

One of the slain Americans was Robert Clayton Ames, the CIA's Near East and South Asian analyst, official in Washington announced in a rare identification of a U.S. intelligence agent working abroad.

U.S. Marine warrant officer Bi Henderson said Marines were trying to recover the log book used at the bulletproof glass guard booth in the embassy lobby. The names of everyone entering the seven-story building entered in the book, which could provide the names of those inside the embassy at the time of the fiery blast.

"If it is found, then we will have final (casualty) count," said Henderson, of Artesia, N.M.

The explosion, which collapsed the facade of the embassy's central wing from the ground up to the roof, occurred about 20 yards from the boot.

Police said 120 people were wounded in the explosion, including Americans.

Foreign students picked as students of month

By JULIA CLARK
Staff Writer

Celene Berube and Mark Teakle, Pampa High School's foreign exchange students, were recognized as students of the month Tuesday at the regular meeting of the Pampa Independent School District Board of Trustees.

Berube and Teakle were commended for being ambassadors of goodwill and making a contribution to the Pampa Community. They have spoken before many civic organizations during their stay in the community. Mr. and Mrs. Leonel Ford of 1612 Evergreen are Berube's host parents and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hughes of Bowers City Highway are Teakle's host parents.

Berube has been active on the girls basketball team as well as taking part in other activities. A native of the French-speaking part of Canada, Berube has had to learn to speak and understand English.

Teakle, a native of Australia, said he had to learn to speak English Texas style. He has been active in Future Farmers of America, exhibiting livestock in several shows, including the recent Top 'O' Texas Junior Livestock Show.

Teakle said he learned, "It's not the place, it's the people who made his visit to our community worthwhile." Berube nodded her head and smiled in agreement.

Basic reading will be a required course for Pampa high school freshmen whose reading ability is two or more years below their grade level, starting next fall.

In other business the PISD Board of Trustees approved a recommendation by the curriculum department for two new reading courses at the high school next year.

John English assistant superintendent of schools, reporting for the curriculum department, recommended the addition of basic reading skills and developmental reading and study skills to the high school curriculum. He also reported that an expert reading teacher has been found to teach the courses.

Basic reading skills is a full year course required for freshmen students whose reading ability is two or more years below grade level in reading development. Intensive instruction is given to correct problems such as faulty visual perception, unfavorable reading attitudes, inadequate basic reading skills, disorganization in reading and study habits, short attention, and other learning difficulties. Individualized instruction will be used and the instructional setting will be a fully equipped reading lab. Freshmen who are required to take this course may postpone world history until their sophomore year.

Developmental reading and study skills is a one-semester course designed for junior and senior students with average and above-average reading ability. One of the objectives of the course is to increase the efficiency of the student in reading speed and comprehension. Other topics which will be emphasized during the semester include, organizational and time management skills, test-taking skills, listening skills, memory training, note taking and library skills.

The board also accepted the bids for football equipment for the 1983 season as recommended by Paul Boswell, purchasing agent. The athletic department will purchase equipment from Champion, Bucks, Vance Hall, Holme Pampa Hardware and Alamo for a total of $8,770.87.

In other business, committee appointments were made, due bills and invoices and the budget report were accepted and approved.

Personnel changes effective the end of this school year were approved. Donna Jean Belcher, Travis Elementary School fourth grade teacher; David Egerton, elementary counselor; Julie Murray, Mann Elementary second grade teacher and Harold Murray, Lamar Elementary fifth grade teacher have all resigned. Leaves of absence were approved effective the end of the school year, for Janis Johns Spearman, a fourth grade teacher at Mann Elementary and Jill L. Duggan, a third grade teacher also of Mann.

The board also approved hiring Debra D. Tolbert to teach Spanish and English as a second language at the high school effective August 22, 1983.

Tom Spence sworn in as mayor of Skellytown for second term

By MARY COUSINS
Correspondent

City officials for the next two years were sworn in at the city council meeting in Skellytown Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Skellytown City Hall conference room.

Ballots from the April 2 election were canvassed and approved, and Mayor Tom Spence, who was reelected, was sworn in by Sheri Daves, city secretary, for a two-year term. Spence has been mayor since August 1981.

Margie S. Dennis and Wayne Pogue were sworn in by Daves as aldermen. Dennis was reelected to a second term and Pogue had been an alderman from 1977-1979. Both will serve two-year terms.

The city council appointed Larry Brown to complete the term vacated by alderman Ken Robinson, who resigned earlier this year to become city marshal. Brown will serve the remaining year of Robinson's two-year term.

The council heard reports concerning city-owned heavy equipment. The Allis-Chambers D17 tractor was expected to be back in town by the end of this week, after its power steering is installed. The council voted to keep the Ford tractor the city owns and look into the possibility of repairing it, and learned that the city-owned motor grader is currently in Panhandle for repairs.

Council members discussed a feasible way to repair city streets, and the renovation of city hall, including work to be done on the restrooms, and the installation of a new filing system and a ceiling for the conference room. The council decided it will advertise for bids when needs are completely assessed.

The council also discussed several items, including setting weight limits on trucks carrying liquefied natural gas through the city, a proposal to buy city property on Elm Street, and the hiring of summer youth help. The council also discussed the updating of several city ordinances and the possible appointment of a city judge. Action on all five items was tabled.

Meza trial may be set for May

By LORI-ANN D'ANTONIO
Staff Writer

Jamie Moriel Meza, 23, who is charged with the murder of Jose Carlos Soto on August 14, 1982, will probably be tried next month, according to his lawyer, David Martindale.

Martindale, Meza's court-appointed counsel, said Tuesday that he was not quite ready to take the case to trial this week as scheduled. He said he expects to have his case ready by May 16 when the next 223rd District Court docket call is scheduled.

The trial will probably begin on May 17th. District Attorney Guy Hardin, the prosecutor in the case, said Monday he was ready to prosecute Meza.

Meza is charged with the shooting death of Soto in the Tex's Rose Lounge on West Brown on the night of August 14, 1982 during a dance. Soto was reportedly playing pool when the shooting occurred.

An autopsy revealed that Soto had been shot five times with a .22 caliber rifle. Meza was arrested in September, 1982 in El Paso, where authorities feared he would flee to his native Mexico. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Margie Prestidge on September 27, and was denied bond. He has been confined in the Gray County Jail since his arraignment.

In other court business conducted yesterday, Donald Ray Hill of Pampa pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary of a habitation, and was sentenced to eight years in the state penitentiary by 31st District Judge Grainger W. McIlhenny. He was placed on seven years probation for arson on June 18, 1982 and was on probation when he was charged with the burglary.

Ricky Lynn Calloway of Lefors was placed on five years probation and fined $750 by 223rd District Judge Don Cain April 15 after he pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful delivery of a methamphetamine. He was arrested with on January 9, 1983 for selling 2.59 grams of "speed" to an undercover Pampa police officer. A second charge of unlawful delivery of methamphetamine against Calloway was dismissed.

Several motions to revoke probation were filed in 31st District Court Tuesday. Gordon William Skillings was placed on probation for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle on July 1, 1981. Tracy Childress was placed on probation for theft of service by deception on April 16, 1980.

Motions to revoke probation were also filed against Cecil Ray Williams, who was placed on probation on May 28, 1981 for injury to a child, Larry D. Freeman, who was placed on probation August 3, 1981 for theft by taking and Steven Gregory Elston, who was placed on probation March 27, 1980 for theft of stolen property. The motions to revoke were for various probation violations.

Foreign investors now own 13.5 million acres of U.S. farmland

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP) - Foreign investors continue to nibble at U.S. farmland, according to the Agriculture Department.

Based on report submitted to the department, foreigners added a million acres to their holdings in 1982, raising the total to 13.5 million acres.

Peter DeBraal of the department's Economic Research Service said Tuesday that compared with 12.5 million acres owned by foreigners at the end of 1981 - an 8 percent increase.

But despite the gain, foreign ownership still accounts for only slightly more than 1 percent of the total U.S. agricultural base of about 1.25 billion acres.

The 1982 growth might have showed up smaller than the 8 percent increase had it not been for a computer error a year ago. At that time, the annual report - which is required by law - showed that 12.7 million acres were in foreign ownership.

However, DeBraal said that it really should have been 12.5 million acres because a computer translated 28,000 acres into 280,000 acres.

The annual analysis is based on reports submitted to the department under the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978.

DeBraal said that 424,000 acres of the 1982 total growth of one million acres were actually acquired prior to 1982 but were not reported in time for the 1981 figures.

In all, he said, the 13.5 million acres owned by foreigners were estimated to have a current value of about $11 billion.

According to the filed reports, foreign owners plan to keep 92 percent of their acreage in agricultural production.

"They also reported no change in tenancy or rental arrangements on 42 percent of the acres, some change on 29 percent of the acres and 'no response' for the remaining 29 percent," DeBraal said.

Forest land accounts for 55 percent of all foreign-owned land, cropland for 13 percent, pasture and other agriculture for 27 percent, and non-agricultural and unreported uses for 5 percent.

Some other highlights:
- Corporations own 83 percent of the foreign-held acreage; partnerships, 9 percent; and individuals, 6 percent.
- The remaining 1 percent is held by estates, trusts, associations, institutions and others.

- U.S. corporations with 5 percent or more foreign ownership reported owning 63 percent of all foreign-held acreage. The remainder was reported held by foreign persons not affiliated with a U.S. corporation.

- Some land is held only in part by foreign investors. If adjusted, that would translate into 12.1 million acres owned by foreigners instead of 13.5 million.

- Foreigners from Canada, the United Kingdom, Hong Kong, West Germany and the Netherlands Antilles own 75 percent of the foreign-held acreage.

- The largest holdings were reported in Maine, where foreign ownership accounted for 2,658,669 acres or 14 percent of the state's privately owned agricultural land. Maine also accounted for about one-fifth of the total of foreign-owned land in the United States.

"Three large timber companies own 96 percent of the foreign-held acres in Maine," the report said. "One company has only partial interests in 33 percent of the acres, and the other two companies are U.S. companies which are partially foreign owned."

Except for Maine, foreign holdings are concentrated in the South and West. Rhode Island is the only state with no reported foreign-owned agricultural land.

The report said that according to the reports, foreign land-holdings in the United States as of Dec. 31, 1982, included:

Alabama, 590,145 acres; Alaska, 753; Arizona, 225,755; Arkansas, 116,401; California, 898,711; Colorado, 461,796; Connecticut, 801; Delaware, 8,051; Florida, 491,723; Georgia, 944,154; Guam, 336; Hawaii, 56,374; Idaho, 165,594; Illinois, 148,774; Indiana, 95,581; Iowa, 35,529; Kansas, 68,003; Kentucky, 40,403; Louisiana, 147,007; Maryland, 44,492; Massachusetts, 442; Michigan, 192,612; Minnesota, 103,218; Mississippi, 336,061; Missouri, 61,721; and Montana, 347,816.

Also, Nebraska, 85,348; Nevada, 70,147; New Hampshire, 103,106; New Jersey, 23,908; New Mexico, 661,744; New York, 358,304; North Carolina, 268,728; North Dakota, 19,205; Ohio, 43,902; Oklahoma, 28,435; Oregon, 527,400; Pennsylvania, 158,785; Puerto Rico, 1,388; South Carolina, 507,140; South Dakota, 41,379; Tennessee, 347,305; Texas, 912,784; Utah, 239,445; Vermont, 94,318; Virginia, 127,353; Washington, 390,411; West Virginia, 58,240; Wisconsin, 18,604; and Wyoming, 123,563.

Grab your boots and kids for a real barn party

By LORI-ANN D'ANTONIO
Staff Writer

The Grandview-Hopkins P.T.A. invites the public to an Old Fashioned Barn Party, Thursday night from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Grandview-Hopkins School Gym.

Proceeds from the party will be used to provide educational field trips for the fifth and sixth grade students. Admission will be $2 for adults, 50 cents for school-age children, or $5 per family. Pre-school children will be admitted free.

The fun will begin at 6:30 p.m. when Mrs. Jolynn Davis will present the Grandview-Hopkins students in a program of folk dances. Students from all levels, kindergarten through sixth grade will be dancing.

Following the program, Dick Morton's Band and a second band of western musicians, headed by Jimmy Carroll, will donate their time and talents for the dancing and listening pleasure of the audience. Among the songs to be played will be Cotton Eyed Joe, Put Your Little Foot, polkas, schottische, and waltzes.

Refreshments will be sold by the P.T.A., which will provide homemade cakes and pies, coffee and soft drinks. Popcorn will be on each table free of charge. No intoxicating beverages will be allowed, by order of state law.

The event will be patterned after old-time parties when parents took their families to barn raisings and play parties. The public is invited and it should be a fun night for all.

Directions to Grandview-Hopkins: sixteen miles south of Pampa on Highway 70, then two miles west and 1/2 mile north on Farm Road 293.

Tickets available for Cowboys-Cops basketball

Tickets are still available for the charity basketball game between the Dallas Cowboys Hoopsters and the Pampa Police Department Blue Knights, this Friday at 7:30 in the Clifton McNeely Field House, according to Shariot Bradley, chairman of ticket sales for the Pampa Crime Stoppers.

The $6 tickets are available at the Pampa police station, Uteus and Archies Aluminum.

The proceeds from the game will go to benefit the Crime Stoppers reward fund.

Order fails to halt use of cancer drug

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge's decision ordering a Houston-area clinic to stop making or shipping across state lines a cancer drug derived from human urine was hailed by the clinic because it stopped short of telling doctors not to prescribe the substance.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald Tuesday granted a request by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for a temporary restraining order against Dr. Stanislaw R. Burzynski.

The FDA contended the clinic never sought the agency's approval, as required by federal law, before manufacturing and distributing the drug, antineoplaston.

Cameron Frye, a spokesman for the Burzynski Cancer Research Institute in suburban Stafford, said he was pleased with the order.

"The government wanted to endanger the lives of the patients of Dr. Burzynski by completely cutting off their treatment," Frye said. "But Judge McDonald refused to comply. She ruled compassionately and our operation has not been affected."

Burzynski is treating 130 patients with the drug, described as two chemical fractions extracted and purified from human urinary peptides, Frye said.

A spokesman for the FDA, who declined to identify himself, refused to comment on the judge's order.

Anthony J. Whitehead, chief of the agency's Houston office, said in a lawsuit that investigations starting as early as June 1978 have shown irregularities in the manufacture of antineoplastons at a Houston-area lab.

Among the findings of the investigations were that laboratory animals were kept in a drug manufacturing area and some human urine samples were not properly examined or stored.

The FDA filed the suit April 5, saying an inspection last August found violations, including shipping injectable forms of the antineoplastons without prior tests for safety.

The suit asked Ms. McDonald to force Burzynski, the Burzynski Cancer Research Institute, North American Consultants Ltd., and Frye to follow agency procedures agency regulations in the manufacture, use and distribution of the drug.

Frye, who is president of North American Consultants, said a request for FDA approval would be filed within 21 days.

Frye said the patients from "many parts of North America" are receiving antineoplaston treatments costing about $180 a day for injections or pills.

"Not only are we convinced the treatment is effective but we feel that eventually it will be proven to be a major step in the fight against cancer," Frye said.

However, he has declined to say what trial had been conducted to lead him to that conclusion.

Board to reapportion judicial districts eyed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has approved two proposals that could result in the first widespread changes in state district court lines in more than 100 years.

Since 1876, when the Legislature last reapportioned districts, population increases and shifts in populations have made it more difficult for the courts to deliver "speedy justice," according to Sen. Kent Caperton.

On Tuesday the Senate approved two measures by Caperton to equalize burdens on district court judges throughout the state.

A proposed constitutional amendment that would allow the creation of the Judicial Districts Board was approved 26-5, and a bill was OK'd to put the constitutional measure into effect, if it is approved by voters at a Nov. 6, 1984, statewide election.

The amendment and the bill, which cleared the Senate on voice vote, were sent to the House.

"This is a significant chance to make a dent in the judicial backlog," said Caperton, D-Bryan.

He said the proposals had been in the making for over 20 years, and had had the support of the State Bar of Texas and Texas Supreme Court for years.

His supporters hardly wavered although Sen. Bob Glasgow called it a "highly dangerous precedent" to create a board that could reapportion judicial districts at its whim.

Glasgow, D-Stephenville, said the board could change court lines "every six months, nine months — once a year forever ... even daily with no basis."

"We can't even amend it (reapportionment plan)," Glasgow said.

"For the Legislature to grapple time after time with this issue is a waste," Caperton said in a statement after the vote. "The board will be composed of equally qualified yet wholly diverse and representative individuals who will be insulated from the day-to-day political hassles that confront the Legislature."

Caperton noted in debate that the Legislature by majority vote would have to approve any judicial reapportionment plan proposed by the board.

Sen. Ed Howard,

D-Texarkana, tried to substitute two-thirds approval of the Legislature for majority approval, but Caperton said, "Let's not tie the hands of the Legislature by requiring a super majority."

"If you required two-thirds, you never pass judicial redistricting," said Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin.

Howard's amendment failed 24-7.

Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Mesquite, suggested that legislators be authorized to approve, reject or amend changes in judicial districts by majority vote, but his amendment was rejected 21-10.

An amendment by Sen. Craig Washington, D-Houston, that would have required single-member judicial districts lost 18-13.

Psychiatrist to testify today

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Cameron County District Attorney Rey Cantu says a court-appointed psychiatrist will dispute earlier testimony by witnesses and testify today that a young farmer was sane when he killed a schoolteacher and her fiancée, who tape recorded his own death.

Psychiatrist Joel Kutnick of Corpus Christi examined defendant Paul Wolf, 21, of La Feria, on State District Judge Darrell Hester's orders last month, Cantu said.

Wolf is charged with murdering Leticia Castro, 26, a fourth grade teacher from Pharr. He faces trial later for the slaying of his wife's former husband and Miss Castro's fiancée, Billy Staton.

Wolf has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the killings.

Psychologist Curtis Wills of Beaumont testified Tuesday that Wolf was insane when he clubbed Miss Castro with a hammer and bludgeoned Staton with an iron bar July 16, 1982.

Cantu challenged Wills' diagnosis and read from a publication titled the American Psychiatric Association Statement on the Insanity Defense.

"The line between an irresistible impulse and an impulse not resisted is probably no sharper than that between twilight and dusk," the statement said.

Wills agreed and said it's "a very thin line."

Wolf's attorneys rested their case after Wills testified.

Two other mental health professionals testified last week that Wolf was unable to handle the stress caused by the screams of his wife's child over having to visit her natural father.

Staton was divorced from Wolf's wife, Sherry, and is father of their daughter, Melanie, who was 2½ when the killings occurred.

Melanie was taken to a psychologist after she began displaying fear over visiting her father.

Her psychologist, Bert Levine of McAllen, testified Melanie suffered from "severe panic reactions" when she was with Staton or his parents. He said he advised the Wolfs to keep the child away from her father.

The mothers of the two victims testified Tuesday, however, that Melanie was happy when she was with her father.

Staton's mother, Neta Staton, said Melanie would be crying when she went to the Wolf house to pick her up, but would "be laughing and happy as she could be" as soon as she and Melanie drove away.

Miss Castro's mother, Maria Castro, said Melanie "was very happy" when she was with Staton and Miss Castro.

Cantu alleges that Wolf and his wife ambushed Staton and Miss Castro using Melanie as "bait" the last time Staton came to visit his child at the Wolf house that mid-July evening.

Mrs. Wolf will be tried later for the two slayings.

Staton had concealed a mini-cassette recorder under his shirt hoping to gather evidence showing the Wolf's displayed animosity toward him over his visitation rights.

Instead, he recorded his own slaying on a tape Cantu calls "23 minutes of murder."

Wolf, who testified in his own behalf, says the so-called "murder tape" actually depicts an unplanned attack.

Worker rescued

Buried worker finds air pocket, lives; coworker dies

HOUSTON (AP) — One of two construction workers buried when the walls of a trench collapsed found an air pocket and survived as a crew dug for 2½ hours to rescue him, a paramedic says, but his coworker died.

Eddie Moore, 45, was in serious but stable condition Tuesday night, a Hermann Hospital spokeswoman said. Officials said he had a broken leg.

Demetrio Lozano Garcia, 34, of Richmond, died Tuesday in the rubble of the 30-foot-deep excavation, officials said.

"We didn't think either one of them would be alive," said Houston Fire Department paramedic T.P. Litzinger, one of the workers who freed Moore. "He's lucky to be alive."

Litzinger credited five members of the construction crew with saving Moore.

"They just kept digging and digging and digging until they found him," he said.

Officials said Moore was located under about four feet of dirt about half an hour after the 4:10 p.m. accident. Workers realized he was alive 15 minutes later and shoved an air line into the pocket.

Garcia was found lying beneath Moore, Litzinger said.

Armando Martinez, a foreman for the work crew, said the two men were in the center of the hole tying off a sewer line when a wall caved in. He said the men tried to run but were caught at the northeast end of the hole.

Officials said workers were installing a pump station for a sewage treatment plant. Martinez said the project was begun Monday.

Litzinger said workers had to dig carefully for fear of additional cave-ins.

Martinez said the men were planning to use long boards to shore up the walls today.

A spokeswoman for ICB Inc., the company doing the work, said the firm would have no comment on the accident Tuesday.

SMU denies gay group recognition

UNIVERSITY PARK, Texas (AP) — Alumni, trustees and students joined forces and persuaded student leaders that a homosexual student group did not belong at Southern Methodist University.

The Student Senate debated the school's denominational beliefs and philosophy for four hours Tuesday before refusing to recognize the Gay and Lesbian Student Support Organization as an official campus organization.

Students, SMU's board of trustees and several alumni lobbied the Student Senate heavily before the 17-11 vote against recognition.

The group's founder, Robert Rios, said it will explore alternative methods of seeking recognition.

"If this were not SMU, we would not have been defeated," Rios said. "SMU has not seen the last of this group. We'll be back again by doing whatever it takes to be recognized."

SMU president L. Donald Shields said he questioned the group's purpose.

"The response I have received from the trustees and board of governors has been totally negative," Shields said. "I think they felt as I did that there were some serious questions about this group in terms of resources being available to them."

Several senators who voted against recognizing the group said alumni had held private meetings with them during the past week urging them to vote against the group. Other senators said the school's board of governors would have vetoed any vote in favor of recognition.

"We're at a private university and the board of governors has the power to do whatever it wants," said sophomore senator Ted Brabham, who argued against recognition.

Several alumni attended the senate meeting Tuesday.

Honor graduates named by Miami High School

The Miami Public Schools have announced the selection of the valedictorian and salutatorian of the graduating class of Miami High School.

April Bursell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bursell of Miami is valedictorian, graduating with a four-year straight A average of 95. She plans to attend West Texas State University at Canyon in the fall.

Salutatorian is Richard Bean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bean of Miami. He graduates with a four-year average of 90, and plans to attend Texas Tech University in Lubbock in the fall.

The Miami High School Class of 1983 has scheduled graduation exercises for 8 p.m. May 19, preceded by a Vespers service on Sunday, May 15 at 8 p.m. Both services will be in the auditorium at Miami High School.

Lengthy jail stay was all in vain

HOUSTON (AP) — Cleveland Hicks was behind bars 10 months longer than his sentence awaiting a chance to prove his innocence of trespassing charges.

He's out of jail now, but unable to have his new day in court.

An attorney's failure to make sure testimony at the trespassing trial was recorded means that Hicks will be unable to win an appeal of his conviction, officials say.

Ron Mock, the court-appointed lawyer for Hicks, said the absence of records in the case means an appeals court cannot decide in his client's favor.

"By law, they (the appeals judges) will have to affirm the conviction," Mock said.

The Texas Court of Appeals reacted with shock last week when it learned that Hicks, who had been jailed 200 days before being sentenced to a 180-day term last June, had not been freed on bond after deciding to try to clear his name.

Hicks, 24, returned to jail for another 10 months because he could not post the $2,500 appeal bond. The appeals court strongly criticized County Court-at-Law Judge Jimmy Duncan, but did not rule on Hicks' request to overturn his conviction.

Hicks was arrested in December 1981 at Methodist Hospital's job application center for allegedly refusing to leave when he filled out employment forms.

Mock said he did not remember why he failed to ask that the testimony be recorded. However, Mock said earlier that he did not expect Hicks to appeal the conviction because he had already been in jail longer than the six-month maximum sentence.

Trial testimony is recorded in Duncan's court when attorneys in the case specifically request it.

Hicks said he appealed the conviction because he was innocent and "fighting for what was right."

Patrol probe sought in drowning

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Three international organizations are being asked to investigate the U.S. Border Patrol's involvement in the drownings of Mexican farmworkers during immigration raids.

The request is being sent to Amnesty International, the Organization of American States, and the United Nations, by the Sacramento Roman Catholic Diocese, El Concilio of Sacramento, and the Central Valley Equal Rights Council of Modesto.

At a news conference Tuesday, Father Keith Kenny, representing Sacramento Bishop Francis Quinn, said of the drowning victims, "These are not criminals. These are people whose only crime is seeking a better way of life. Yet they are paying with capital punishment."

The groups requesting the investigation say four

Boy Scout Troop 414 has cancelled its Friday night camp out near the Pampa Youth Center grounds, prior to the Scout - O - Rama Saturday.

The boys were told the camp out is cancelled because some of the older ones had invited some non - troop friends to join them in their tents after lights out. These older boys are 15 and 16 years old.

According to one of the boys in the troop, these older boys had let it be known they planned to have friends in their tents to talk and play music all night, so the scoutmaster and some other fathers cancelled the camp-out.

It is our understanding there are twenty young men in Boy Scout Troop 414 and about five adult men leaders.

Where are the parents of these boys? Where were they when they were supposed to be teaching their children responsibility for their actions? When are young men going to accept the leadership role for which they are supposedly training?

The Boy Scouts of America has a tradition of training young people to be responsible leaders, and now it comes to our attention that the parents and boys have somehow missed the boat.

We are acquainted with the scoutmaster of Troop 414, and know him to be a loving, caring individual who goes all out for his boys, but who also expects them to do the work to earn their merit badges themselves, as befits a true Boy Scout.

We don't blame the Scoutmaster for cancelling the camp-out.

But we do blame the parents of the boys responsible for the cancellation, and the boys themselves. The parents have had 14 or 15 years to instill pride and a sense of personal responsibility in their sons. The sons are now old enough to accept that responsibility.

What a shame a few immature little boys had to spoil a potentially good growing experience for the rest of Troop 414.

Biotechnology is a fast worker

By PAUL HARVEY

Genetic engineering will produce a whole new harvest of things:

Cornell is already on the way to making plastic from waste paper.

Rubber from cornstalks.

Car fuel from sawdust.

That's now - wait'll you see what's next!

If you could choose a time and place in all history for yourself and those you love, this would have to be the time - and this would have to be the place.

The wonder world of biotechnology is creating life - teensy specks of life - which will change yours as nothing heretofore has.

Including food, energy, medicine - made from "nothing" -

Within 25 years biotechnology - in medicine alone - will encompass a 23 billion dollar market.

A hormone to help undersize children grow.

Vaccines against hepatitis, malaria, rabies, venereal diseases - Synthetic interferon, our most promising cancer "cure" was derived from genetic engineering.

Now the best - educated prognosis is that we are within 24 months of a vaccine to prevent most cancers.

On the farm:

Food crops that grow in salty soil, resist insects and fertilize themselves.

Cattle nurtured from handpicked embryos - maturing beef cattle in six months - developed milk cows the size of elephants to produce more milk, more calves. We can do that now.

Enzymes to turn waste into useful sugars and, or alcohol.

Microbes to separate metals from ore or to extract and purify new oil from old wells.

Presently there are 146 biotechnology firms in the U.S., more than 3,000 related patents have been approved.

Product sales could total three billion dollars within five years. No fledgling industry in world history has grown that much that fast.

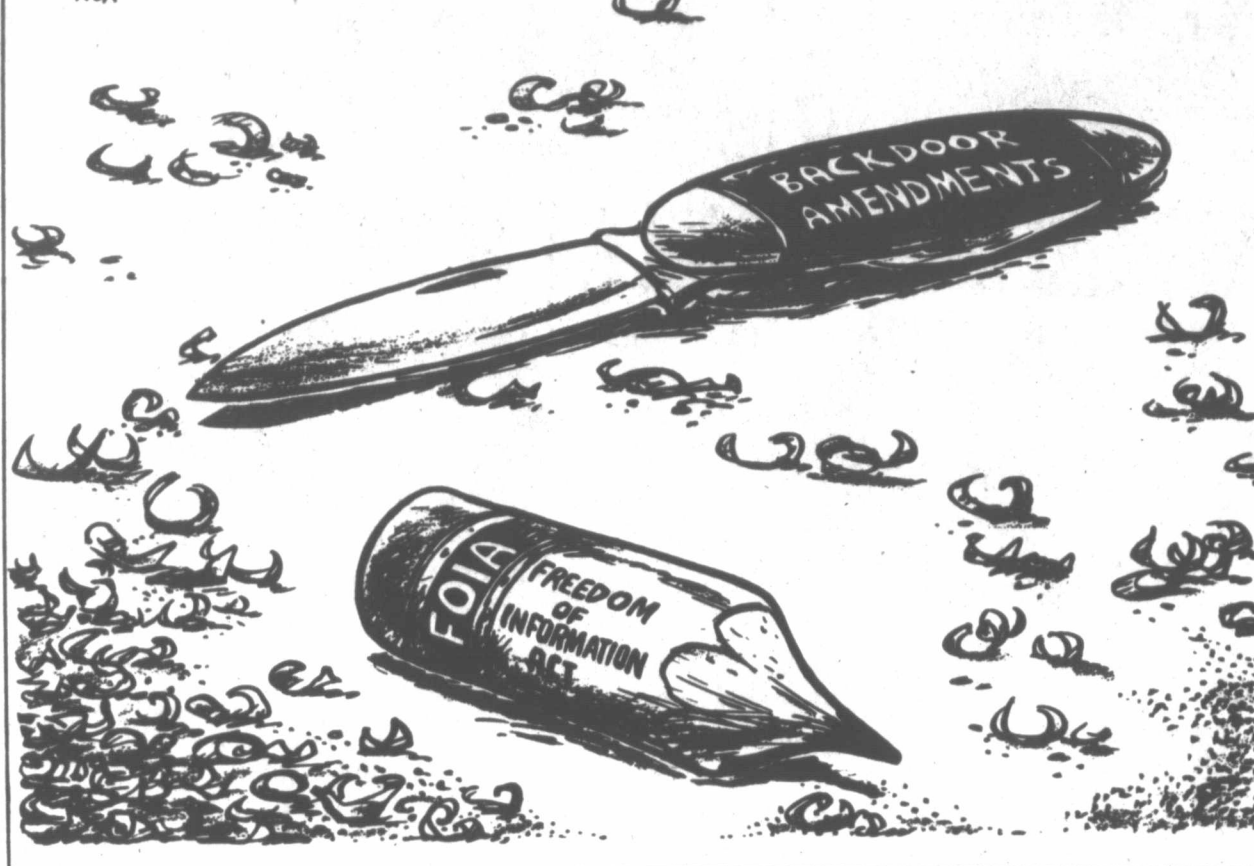

Biotechnology makes something of nothing and compounds itself.

Social Security's generation gap

By KINGSLEY DAVIS

In the 1960s, it was next to impossible to pick up a newspaper or turn on the television without encountering one particular phrase - "the generation gap." In those days of social, political and philosophical upheaval, the term was a shorthand way to express widespread smoldering conflict between adolescents and their parents or other middle-aged authority figures: conflict over a spectrum of issues; from the trivial - length of hair and style of dress - to the monumental - human values and political morality.

Today, the generation gap no longer makes the cover of Newsweek, but it is still very much with us, though the circumstances have changed. The adolescents of the sixties have become parents themselves, their parents are of retirement age and the new bone of contention centers on economics.

This year's headline - making story with generation - gap overtones has been the fragility of the Social Security system, and the potential for breach of the government's implied promise to take care of those whose working lives have ended. This promise, and the question of whether it can or should continue to be honored, raise even more basic questions about the very nature of the compact between the generations in modern America.

The burden placed on society at large by any group is calculated by subtracting the value of the goods and services they produce from the value of the goods and services they use. Employing this formula to the elderly the conclusion is inescapable: as the elderly population grows in number, while their participation in the work force declines, the burden of their support placed on the young grows steadily heavier. The actual figures bear this out. In 1978, the total support of the aged reached $148.5 billion, representing 15.5 percent of the earned income of persons under age 65. On the average, every employed person under 65 contributed $1,600 of his or her income for this purpose. By comparison, this sum is 26 percent greater than the combined expenditures of all government agencies for education and 37 percent greater than the national defense budget. Clearly, the young cannot sustain such a burden indefinitely. And as the aging population grows, the burden can only be expected to increase.

A scattered and disparate people continues to destroy itself. That seems the clearest significance of the announcement from Amman that neither Jordan's King Hussein nor the Palestine Liberation Organization will enter into peace negotiations with Israel. Once again Palestine's Arabs are divided and confused, and their leaders held hostage by the most radical among them. It is a bit like France's National Assembly during the height of the Revolution, when no party dared to be seen sitting furthestmost to the right, and all scrambled to be hailed as most radical. Anything less might be branded treason punishable by death.

This time King Hussein seemed willing to negotiate, if only the more radical Yasser Arafat would approve, and Yasser Arafat seemed willing to approve, if only his more radical colleagues would let him, and they doubtless turned to others still more radical for permission...until eventually the plan was bound to be turned down. In Arab politics, all issues are still reduced to the most...lical common denominator, with ruinous results.

Hussein sounded particularly bitter even in the official, diplomatic announcement. He doubtless understands that, the longer the Arabs wait to negotiate, the tighter the Israeli hold grows on the West Bank. He had an opportunity to negotiate for it shortly after the Camp David treaty was concluded. That's when the Israelis declared a temporary freeze on Jewish settlements there, and Jordan was invited to join the talks as a representative of the Palestinians. The king failed to seize the moment, knowing the PLO would disapprove, and more to the point, knowing that the penalty for acting without its approval is assassination.

Now Hussein has missed another chance to negotiate - after having received Yasser Arafat's tentative approval. Barred from entering negotiations by the PLO and his own fears, the king must also realize it is unlikely he will be able to seize the West Bank by force, as Jordan did in 1948. And so he must watch it slip further and further away.

Jordan is free to join the negotiations at any time, but the brave little king isn't that brave - or foolhardy, some would say. To talk peace without the PLO's permission would be to risk joining the long list of Arab leaders who talked with the Israelis and paid for it - beginning with the king's grandfather Abdullah, and including Egypt's Anwar Sadat and Lebanon's Bashir Gemayel.

Should Hussein miss the point, the assassination of Issam Sartawi this week was enough to drive it home. A high-ranking member of the PLO, Mr. Sartawi long had advocated more contact with Israel. Knowing how unpopular his stand was, he resigned from the Palestinian

National Council in February, but his resignation was not accepted. This week he was shot down.

Hussein isn't about to make that fatal error. As the official explanation from Amman put it: "We respect the decision of the PLO, it being the sole legitimate representative of the Palestinian people. Accordingly, we leave it to the PLO and to the Palestinian people to choose the ways and means for the salvation of themselves and their land, and for the realization of their declared aims in the manner they see fit. We in Jordan, having refused from the beginning to negotiate separately from the Palestinians, will neither act separately nor in lieu of anybody in the Middle East peace negotiations." In brief, the king was washing his hands of the entire matter; the style in which he did it was probably the smoothest seen in that part of the world since Pontius Pilate.

Jordan could well represent the Palestinians in peace negotiations if it chose. Jordan itself was part of Palestine under the original mandate granted the British by the League of Nations for the purpose of establishing a "Jewish national home." Instead, the British chose to make this part of Palestine a kingdom for the Hashemites, Hussein's dynasty. The population of Jordan remains largely Palestinian with half or more of Hussein's subjects identifying themselves as such. But he is not eager to share Anwar Sadat's fate.

The upshot is a setback for Jordan, the U.S., and perhaps Israel as well. Jerusalem's grand plan to settle a million Jews on the West Bank by 2010 may only bring continual tension in the absence of a peace settlement. Instead of that they have created another Northern Ireland, and their resources could better have been used to develop the Galilee.

The Israelis expressed no disappointment in Hussein's announcement, never having put much stock in the Reagan Plan to draw Hussein into the negotiations. Now they can say they told the rest of us so. But whatever satisfaction there may be in that, it cannot match the satisfaction of progress toward peace.

The principal victims, again, will be the Palestinian Arabs, done in once more by their own leaders. Yasser Arafat is only the latest in a long line of Palestinian chieftains who, by refusing to accept compromise, may have assured defeat. The tradition goes back at least to the 1940s and Haj Amin el - Hussein, who was going to enter Palestine with General Rommel's panzers, and later in the wake of seven victorious Arab armies; he could see no reason to talk peace. In the 1950s, Ahmed Shukairy was going to drive the Jews into the sea with a little help from the Egyptians and Syrians. In the 1960s, Yasser Arafat was going to mold a "generation of revenge" after the Israeli victory in the Six Day War. And he seems to have succeeded, for revenge has worked its usual way on those who cannot see past it.

Cut down the big waste first...

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Liberals in Congress who profess to be interested in reducing the federal deficit should heed the recommendations of the President's private sector task force.

This task force, headed by J. Peter Grace, chairman of W. R. Grace & Co., reported April 6 that the government could save $48 billion over the next three years, mostly by clamping down on benefits to federal workers.

In its study of opportunities for cost - cutting, the task force concluded that $34.7 billion could be saved by better management of the 2 million federal workers.

Revamping the Civil Service Retirement System, which in some cases provides benefits more lavish than those available under private pension plans, would save $15.9 billion. The federal government allow workers to retire at age 55 if they have 30 years service, whereas many companies permit retirement only at 62 or 65.

The task force also pointed out that $18.8 billion could be saved by changing the way the government calculates wage scales. The federal government pays higher wages than state or local governments.

In addition, the task force said that tightening the conditions for food stamp benefits would result in savings of $5.1 billion.

For months, liberals in Congress have agreed that it is essential to slash defense spending in order to reduce the budget deficit. Now, Mr. Grace and his associates have suggested a way to save $16 billion a year without tampering with essential national security programs.

If the liberals in Congress were sincere in their concern about excessive government spending, they will insist that the task force's recommendations be implemented immediately.

It would be naive in the extreme, however, to expect the liberal bloc in Congress to approve the cost - cutting measure suggested by the private sector task force. The truth is that many liberals are more interested in slashing America's defenses than they are in reducing the deficit. These liberals form an anti - defense lobby that is bent on unilateral disarmament of the U.S.

Other liberals have been courting federal employees for years, and are determined to treat them as a privileged element, no matter how much this burdens taxpayers who aren't on the federal payroll. Consider the resistance to placing new federal employees under Social Security. The Grace commission, by the way, recommended that all present federal employees below the age of 45 be placed under Social Security, a logical step.

The task force report underlines what President Reagan has been saying for years, namely that there is massive waste in federal spending. The public should insist that essential economies be made.

Anwar Sadat is sorely missed in Middle East

By PAUL GREENBERG

A scattered and disparate people continues to destroy itself. That seems the clearest significance of the announcement from Amman that neither Jordan's King Hussein nor the Palestine Liberation Organization will enter into peace negotiations with Israel. Once again Palestine's Arabs are divided and confused, and their leaders held hostage by the most radical among them. It is a bit like France's National Assembly during the height of the Revolution, when no party dared to be seen sitting furthestmost to the right, and all scrambled to be hailed as most radical. Anything less might be branded treason punishable by death.

This time King Hussein seemed willing to negotiate, if only the more radical Yasser Arafat would approve, and Yasser Arafat seemed willing to approve, if only his more radical colleagues would let him, and they doubtless turned to others still more radical for permission...until eventually the plan was bound to be turned down. In Arab politics, all issues are still reduced to the most...lical common denominator, with ruinous results.

Hussein sounded particularly bitter even in the official, diplomatic announcement. He doubtless understands that, the longer the Arabs wait to negotiate, the tighter the Israeli hold grows on the West Bank. He had an opportunity to negotiate for it shortly after the Camp David treaty was concluded. That's when the Israelis declared a temporary freeze on Jewish settlements there, and Jordan was invited to join the talks as a representative of the Palestinians. The king failed to seize the moment, knowing the PLO would disapprove, and more to the point, knowing that the penalty for acting without its approval is assassination.

Now Hussein has missed another chance to negotiate - after having received Yasser Arafat's tentative approval. Barred from entering negotiations by the PLO and his own fears, the king must also realize it is unlikely he will be able to seize the West Bank by force, as Jordan did in 1948. And so he must watch it slip further and further away.

Jordan is free to join the negotiations at any time, but the brave little king isn't that brave - or foolhardy, some would say. To talk peace without the PLO's permission would be to risk joining the long list of Arab leaders who talked with the Israelis and paid for it - beginning with the king's grandfather Abdullah, and including Egypt's Anwar Sadat and Lebanon's Bashir Gemayel.

Should Hussein miss the point, the assassination of Issam Sartawi this week was enough to drive it home. A high-ranking member of the PLO, Mr. Sartawi long had advocated more contact with Israel. Knowing how unpopular his stand was, he resigned from the Palestinian

National Council in February, but his resignation was not accepted. This week he was shot down.

Hussein isn't about to make that fatal error. As the official explanation from Amman put it: "We respect the decision of the PLO, it being the sole legitimate representative of the Palestinian people. Accordingly, we leave it to the PLO and to the Palestinian people to choose the ways and means for the salvation of themselves and their land, and for the realization of their declared aims in the manner they see fit. We in Jordan, having refused from the beginning to negotiate separately from the Palestinians, will neither act separately nor in lieu of anybody in the Middle East peace negotiations." In brief, the king was washing his hands of the entire matter; the style in which he did it was probably the smoothest seen in that part of the world since Pontius Pilate.

Jordan could well represent the Palestinians in peace negotiations if it chose. Jordan itself was part of Palestine under the original mandate granted the British by the League of Nations for the purpose of establishing a "Jewish national home." Instead, the British chose to make this part of Palestine a kingdom for the Hashemites, Hussein's dynasty. The population of Jordan remains largely Palestinian with half or more of Hussein's subjects identifying themselves as such. But he is not eager to share Anwar Sadat's fate.

The upshot is a setback for Jordan, the U.S., and perhaps Israel as well. Jerusalem's grand plan to settle a million Jews on the West Bank by 2010 may only bring continual tension in the absence of a peace settlement. Instead of that they have created another Northern Ireland, and their resources could better have been used to develop the Galilee.

The Israelis expressed no disappointment in Hussein's announcement, never having put much stock in the Reagan Plan to draw Hussein into the negotiations. Now they can say they told the rest of us so. But whatever satisfaction there may be in that, it cannot match the satisfaction of progress toward peace.

The principal victims, again, will be the Palestinian Arabs, done in once more by their own leaders. Yasser Arafat is only the latest in a long line of Palestinian chieftains who, by refusing to accept compromise, may have assured defeat. The tradition goes back at least to the 1940s and Haj Amin el - Hussein, who was going to enter Palestine with General Rommel's panzers, and later in the wake of seven victorious Arab armies; he could see no reason to talk peace. In the 1950s, Ahmed Shukairy was going to drive the Jews into the sea with a little help from the Egyptians and Syrians. In the 1960s, Yasser Arafat was going to mold a "generation of revenge" after the Israeli victory in the Six Day War. And he seems to have succeeded, for revenge has worked its usual way on those who cannot see past it.

Walesa says workers have right to celebrate May Day

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Solidarity chief Lech Walesa said today Poles have the right to celebrate May Day as they wish, despite a government warning that an underground call for protests that day jeopardizes Pope John Paul II's visit to Poland in June.

"I am a worker," Walesa told a midday news conference at his apartment in the Baltic port of Gdansk. "I will celebrate May Day in a working man's way, but now I cannot tell you exactly how." In Europe, May 1 is traditionally a holiday honoring labor.

The 39-year-old Walesa declined to give further details on his contacts with the Solidarity underground or his recent interrogations by police. He was questioned for four hours Tuesday after being summoned to the Gdansk police to undergo his third interrogation session in a week.

Walesa today stopped short of endorsing the protest call, which was issued after his meeting with the union underground, but he urged Poles to make their feelings known.

"I believe the working class has a right to celebrate its own holiday the way it wants," he said. "I believe in the working class and I believe it will celebrate the holiday with dignity."

Walesa, who met with Poland's Roman Catholic primate, Cardinal Jozef Glemp, on Sunday, said that no member of the church has tried to dissuade him from taking part in the May 1 demonstrations planned by Solidarity.

The Polish government and the Communist Party Politburo issued a toughly worded communique

Tuesday warning that the protest call jeopardizes the June 16-22 visit to Poland by the Polish-born pope.

Walesa was questioned in Gdansk Tuesday about his reported April 9-11 meeting with the five fugitive members of Solidarity's Temporary Coordinating Commission. The commission issued a call for demonstrations on May 1.

Walesa and three companions were stopped by police en route from Gdansk to Warsaw on Monday as they sought to place a memorial wreath at the monument to the 70,000 Jewish martyrs who died in the 1943 Warsaw Ghetto uprising.

Authorities made no attempt to interfere with Walesa's 90-minute session with about 50 western reporters.

Trudeau charm has worn thin at home

TORONTO (AP) — Fifteen years ago a dashing, witty law professor named Pierre Elliott Trudeau became prime minister, giving Canadians a giddy sense that their country was taking a chance on a new kind of leader for a new era.

Trudeau, 63, is now the longest-serving head of government in a Western democracy. And while he has maintained his ability to charm an international audience, the charm has worn thin at home.

An insouciant attitude and willingness to unleash a biting tongue once was part of the Trudeau appeal. But now, they provide grist for regular eruptions of outrage in the Canadian media over what is seen as the prime minister's insensitivity.

Canadians looked to Trudeau, the bilingual offspring of a French-Canadian father and English-Canadian mother, to hold their country together when separatists seemed to be gaining strength in Quebec.

In the crisis sparked by Front for the Liberation of Quebec kidnappings in 1970 and then in the province-wide independence referendum in 1980, Trudeau stood firm as champion of a united Canada.

But at the same time he presided over increasing economic troubles, with unemployment cresting recently over 12.5 percent.

Despite the advantage of undistinguished opposition leadership, Trudeau and his Liberal Party have sunk to new lows in the polls — the choice of only 30 percent of the electorate in the latest Gallup Poll.

Less than two years remain in Trudeau's fourth term in office. It is likely to be his last, although a harsh and sometimes dirty leadership scuffle among the Tories has revived speculation that Trudeau might run again, especially if former Prime Minister Joe Clark regains his party's top job.

Trudeau first became prime minister on April 20, 1968, to a chorus of praise from Canadian and foreign observers.

"We find ourselves attracted to Mr. Trudeau because he is a thoughtful, articulate man, probably one of the most brilliant, joyous intellectuals that have ever appeared in Ottawa," The Toronto Star wrote in an editorial. "His cool, logical mind — along with his obvious charm and wit — would make any Canadian proud to have him speak for Canada at home or abroad."

Last summer, after Trudeau was seen on television gesturing with his middle finger at a group of protesters, the Star commented: "When the prime minister himself resorts to loutish behavior, he sets a vile example, demeans his office and contributes mightily to a coarsening of our political debate."

Many other Canadian newspapers called for his resignation.

When Trudeau joined the Liberal Party and entered politics in 1965 as a member of Parliament, he was known in Montreal from his days as editor of the magazine Cite Libre, part of the intellectual renaissance that transformed Quebec — formerly a conservative, clergy-dominated society — in what was called the "Quiet Revolution."

He attracted little attention outside Quebec until late 1967, when, as minister of justice, he argued in the House of Commons in favor of bills liberalizing divorce and decriminalizing homosexual acts.

Richard Gwyn, in a biography of Trudeau, describes how he became an "instant star by the way he argued his brief: eloquent, cool, cerebral yet impassioned, fluent in both languages, above all, so modern and so daring."

And Trudeau also tossed off a phrase that was soon on everyone's lips: "The state has no place in the bedrooms of the nation."

Taxes being shifted to the states

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Is it a tax cut or a tax shift? That's the political argument, but the hard facts are that federal taxes are coming down for the most part while state taxes are going up.

Whether there is a net loss or gain remains to be seen. Also for the future is whether any impetus to the economy from the federal tax cuts will be offset by rising taxes at the state and local level.

President Reagan says despite what is happening with taxes elsewhere, his economic recovery program is working and he will veto any effort to repeal the federal income tax cut scheduled for July 1.

This would be the third year of a phased in reduction of personal income taxes planned to average 25 percent by 1984. The first reduction in payroll deductions was 5 percent beginning Oct. 1, 1982. Last July 1 another 10 percent was removed, and the final 10 percent comes this July 1.

The idea was to free money from the federal tax collector and put it in the hands of private investors. Their investments would spur an economic recovery based on private enterprise initiatives. According to the Reagan doctrine, this would be less inflationary, more effective and longer lasting than federal pump priming.

But while federal taxes have been coming down, federal budget deficits have been going up, federal aid to state and local governments has been shrinking, and unemployment has skyrocketed. This has put an extra strain on state-dispersed welfare services at the same time Washington is withdrawing assistance.

This leaves state and local governments with the responsibility of caring for citizens deposited from job, home and daily bread by the long recession.

It also means they are losing tax income because the unemployed pay no income taxes. Those without jobs and those who have jobs but fear losing them also spend less and therefore pay less sales taxes. These are the two major sources of state finance.

To help hold down the deficits and perhaps fend off more cuts in federal support for programs administered at state and local levels, some members of Congress talk about postponing or canceling the July cut and possibly the tax "indexing" scheduled to follow.

An Associated Press survey made in February showed the states facing a combined $5.8 billion deficit. Since most states cannot operate legally in the red, this must be made up by the taxpayer or services must be slashed.

In all of 1982, the first year states began to feel the full impact of the recession, 13 states raised their broad-based taxes, the personal income and sales taxes. Already, in the first quarter of this year, 12 states have raised these taxes. Five others did the same in special sessions during the last two months of 1982.

Another 14 states have raised other taxes, from business levies to excises.

Twin twins born in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Rare quadruplets — two sets of identical twins — were born to a farmer's wife in Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island, the woman's obstetrician said today.

Myoko Hane, 32-year-old wife of Eiji Hane, gave birth Tuesday to the four boys at a Iwamizawa Hospital.

Two sets of identical twins at one birth is rare, said Dr. Hiroyoshi Hayashi of the Sorachi Obstetrics and Gynecology Hospital in Iwamizawa, 400 miles north of Tokyo. Mrs. Hane had not taken fertility drugs, he said.

The Asahi Evening News reported that quadruplets are born in only one out of 510,000 births.

NBA playoffs

Celtics edge Hawks

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Just when then Atlanta Hawks were on the verge of an upset victory, Larry Bird snatched it away for the Boston Celtics.

"You could see for a time that they got the smell of victory," the Celtics' Kevin McHale said of Atlanta's 85-81 lead midway through the fourth quarter. "They were like wolves smelling blood."

But Bird scored eight of his 26 points in the final 3 1/2 minutes and Quinn Buckner hit three long jumpers to rally the Celtics to a 103-95 victory in the opener of their best-of-3 National Basketball Association Eastern Conference playoff series.

In Tuesday night's Western Conference playoffs, Phoenix beat Denver 121-108 for a 1-0 lead in their mini-series. In tonight's other openers, New York is at New Jersey in the East and Portland is at Seattle in the West.

"I thought we played well and they played excellent," Bird said. "If we had played this one in Atlanta we would have lost. Atlanta's defense was tough. They forced us into a lot of bad shots and turnovers."

"Atlanta's slowdown pace is tough," said McHale, who scored 12 points for the Celtics. "It's tough for the other team to get into a running tempo. I'm glad it didn't come down to a basket at the end where one shot could be the difference."

Buckner tied the score for the sixth time at 87-87 with the first of his three open jump shots. The Hawks never caught up after Bird put Boston in front 89-87 with two free throws.

Forward Dan Roundfield led Atlanta with 24 points and 20 rebounds, earning praise from Boston Coach Bill Fitch.

"Roundfield was effective from outside early," he said. "He was the only one hitting for them and he kept them in the game. His inside game is as good as any power forward in the league. He's an excellent player."

Dominique Wilkins added 21 points and Johnny Davis 18 for Atlanta, while Robert Parish had 18 points and 16 rebounds for Boston.

The game was close in the first three periods, with the Celtics never leading by more than eight points until the final moments. It was 22-22 after the first quarter, and Boston was ahead 48-45 at halftime and 72-70 going into the final 12 minutes.

Game 2 will be Friday in Atlanta, with the third game, if necessary, back in Boston Sunday. Suns 121, Nuggets 108.

Guard Dennis Johnson had 28 points, 12 rebounds and eight assists while Phoenix held NBA scoring champion Alex English to 16 points.

Cowboys' schedule

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, the National Football League's most televised team, open and close the Monday night ABC extravaganza this year, according to a schedule obtained by the Dallas Morning News.

Sandwiched in between are dates on Thanksgiving and Sunday night.

Dallas, which has lost in the National Conference title game the last three years, opens at Super Bowl champion Washington on Sept. 5.

The Cowboys are at St. Louis Sept. 11, return home the next two Sundays for games against the New York Giants and New Orleans Saints, then travel to Minnesota on Oct. 2.

Tampa Bay travels to Dallas on Oct. 9 and the Cowboys are at Philadelphia the following Sunday.

On Oct. 23, the Los Angeles Raiders come calling in an 8 p.m. game televised nationally by ABC.

The next four Sundays find Dallas at New York, Philadelphia in Texas Stadium, Dallas at San Diego, and Kansas City in Texas Stadium.

St. Louis is the Thanksgiving Day guest and the Cowboys are at Seattle Dec. 4.

Washington comes calling Dec. 11 and on Dec. 19 the Cowboys are at San Francisco in a Monday night match-up.

The schedule:

- Sept. 5 — At Washington, 8 p.m.
- Sept. 11 — At St. Louis, noon
- Sept. 18 — New York Giants at Texas Stadium, 3 p.m.
- Sept. 25 — New Orleans at Texas Stadium, noon

Adult soccer results

Unwavering offensive pressure led Fatherree Insurance past Kyle's Welding, 4-2, in Pampa Adult Soccer League action last weekend.

Scoring for Fatherree were Apollo with two goals and Daniel Felix and Allen Gann with one each. David Silva paced the defense. Silva is also the team's coach.

For Kyle's Welding, Carl Prater and John East drove in goals with an outstanding assist from Jo Karbo.

Led by two first-half goals by Scott Little, the Rough Riders edged First National Bank, 3-2.

Adding to the winning cause was a goal by John McCall and impressive all-around play by Christy Cates. First National's scoring punch was provided by Scott Fleming's two goals. Rick Nix and Kathy Smiles provided additional team support.

Future adult soccer games will be played at Lamar grade school.

Texas League roundup

By The Associated Press

Shortstop John Stevenson raced home with the winning run on a wild pitch in the 10th inning Tuesday night as the Shreveport Captains took a 4-3 victory over the Tulsa Drillers.

In other Texas League action, El Paso slipped past Beaumont, 2-1, and Midland defeated San Antonio, 3-1. Jackson's scheduled game at Arkansas was postponed because of rain.

Stevenson had doubled and stolen third to set up the winning run. Mark Schuster's three-run homer had given the Captains a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning.

Tulsa scored one run in the fifth when Jim Foit singled home Kyrre Buechele, who had doubled. The Drillers tied the game at 3-3 in the sixth when Mike Ruble homered after Chuckie Canady singled.

Dennis Long, 1-1, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Larry McLane, 0-1.

Ernest Riles singled home Carlos Ponce with the winning run in the seventh inning as the El Paso Diablos edged the Beaumont Golden Gators, 2-1.

Ponce had doubled. Billy Max had two hits in four trips to the plate for El Paso.

Bryan Cutterback, 1-2, who allowed only five hits, was the winning pitcher. George Stablein, 1-2, who gave up seven hits, was the losing pitcher.

Three wild pitches helped the Midland Cubs score two runs in the second inning in their 3-1 victory over the San Antonio Dodgers.

Trey Brooks singled, stole second, moved to third on one wild pitch and scored on another for the first Midland run. Tom Johnson then walked, went to second on a wild pitch and scored the second run when Bruce Chaney singled. The Cubs added a run in the eighth when Chaney singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Rick Baker's single.

Darrell Banks, 2-0, pitched a six-hitter to pick up the victory. Ken Howell, 2-1, was the losing pitcher.

Nicklaus ready for MONY tourney

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus said his ailing back, which forced him out of the Masters, is fine and he's ready to compete in the $400,000 MONY-Tournament of Champions.

Nicklaus, however, was expected to be the last of the elite field of 28 title-winners from the last 12 months to arrive at the La Costa Hotel and Country Club for the tournament that begins Thursday.

"I talked to him by phone and he said his back is fine. He said he hit some balls last weekend and is looking forward to playing here," Tournament Director Tommy Jacobs said Tuesday.

Nicklaus, a five-time winner of the Tournament of Champions, was forced to withdraw from the Masters two weeks ago when severe back spasms made it impossible for him to tee off in the second round.

Seve Ballesteros of Spain, the eventual Masters winner, had a previous commitment — he's defending his title in the Madrid Open this week — and was unable to join the winners-only field that will be chasing a $72,000 first prize here. There's a $4,700 guarantee to the man who finishes last.

Among the leading contenders are defending champion Lanny Wadkins, Craig Stadler, Ray Floyd, Tom Watson and 1983 leading money-winner Tom Kite, runnerup in the Masters and winner of the Vardon Trophy the last two seasons.

Cal Peete and Bob Gilder each has won four times in the eligibility period, which began with this tournament last year. Floyd won the PGA championship last fall and holds two other current titles.

Watson, twice a winner of this title, currently holds the U.S. and British Open crowns. Other double winners in the eligibility period are Wadkins, Stadler, Keith Fergus, Jay Haas, Gil Morgan and Hal Sutton.

Spurs player injured

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — San Antonio guard Johnny Moore injured his eye during the first day of the Spurs' mini-training camp here, a team spokesman said.

The cornea in Moore's left eye was scratched Tuesday when guard Robert Smith accidentally hit Moore in the eye with his finger.

"He may be wearing a patch for another day or so," trainer John Anderson said. "What can you say?" Coach Stan Albeck said. "You always worry about something like that. You just hope he recovers soon."

The Spurs were awarded a bye in this week's first round of the National Basketball Association playoff for clinching the N

San Antonio will face the winner of the Phoenix-Denver series, which the Suns lead 1-0.

The Spurs first began traveling to El Paso to practice for the playoffs last year.

AGENTS TO BLAME

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lefty Driesell, basketball coach at the University of Maryland, blames the agents for so many college players turning pro while they still have eligibility remaining.

"The agents just tell the kids they should go," Driesell said. "Remember, the agents don't get any money if the kids remain in school. Naturally, they are going to influence a young man to leave school and turn pro. That's the only way they get paid."

Soviet patrols on Texas coast may increase, military says

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Soviet submarines and warships routinely cruise the Gulf of Mexico and the Texas coastline and patrols may increase as Moscow steps up its activities in Cuba, military officials say.

Information gathered by Naval intelligence sources indicates that the last time the Soviets were spotted near the Texas shoreline was between Nov. 25, 1982, and Feb. 1, said Lt. Aaron Long, a Washington spokesman for the Navy.

"We know they came into the Gulf of Mexico and proceeded up the coast, making a semi-circle at some point in the Gulf," Long said. "They came within 50 miles offshore from the Texas-Louisiana border."

He said the vessels spotted were a Soviet guided missile cruiser, a guided missile frigate, a diesel submarine and a supply ship.

"They could be on information-gathering missions, masked as fishing fleets ... monitoring airwaves, phone calls, mapping the surface or observing shipping trends," Lt. Col. Richard Zucker told The Port Arthur News in a story published in Tuesday's editions.

Zucker, chief of long-range planning for the Air Force, said the patrols are apt to become more frequent because the United States has detected increased military activity by the U.S.S.R. in and around Cuba.

Foreign warships can come as close as three miles from the U.S. shore along the Gulf of Mexico without violating existing agreements and international law, said Capt. Tom Matteson, head of the Coast Guard's Region 8, headquartered in New Orleans.

"The Soviets have three classes of submarine — Typhoon Class, Yankee Class and Victor Class," said Zucker, who is stationed at Randolph Air Base in San Antonio. "These subs are on constant patrol on our coastline, we feel like they're out of the Cuban area."

Information about sightings of foreign war ships in international waters along the U.S. coastlines is available to the public, Zucker said. He said President Reagan decided about one year ago to declassify such information.

Hyatt backs out of Braniff deal

DALLAS (AP) — Former Braniff International employees hoping to fly again with the grounded carrier were dealt another blow when the Hyatt Corp., the latest and perhaps the last suitor, backed out.

The Chicago-based hotel chain, which had offered about $35 million to put 31 Braniff planes and 2,000 former employees back to work, actually informed Braniff officials it was withdrawing its offer before Braniff's board of directors met Monday to discuss the plan.

Hyatt said Tuesday that its letter was delivered Monday afternoon to Braniff, only hours before the Texas carrier filed a plan of reorganization in federal bankruptcy court in Fort Worth.

"In order to avoid further acrimony, it seems in the best interests of the parties involved that Hyatt withdraw its proposal," the Hyatt letter read. "We truly regret any hopes that have been raised and dashed among a wonderfully loyal and dedicated group of Braniff employees."

Braniff chairman Howard Putnam said Hyatt was the last potential partner with which Braniff was formally negotiating, but added he would welcome any new offers until May 16, the last day Braniff could submit to the bankruptcy court plans to resume air service.

Hyatt said Braniff's situation was unwieldy, and pleasing courts and creditors was a difficult task.

"The proposed transaction is complex and must be completed under difficult time constraints. This requires a higher degree of cooperation and support than has been forthcoming," Hyatt said.

Braniff's reorganization plan sets up a Dallas-based maintenance operation and leaves the door open for resumed air service. But Braniff has only until May 16 to come up with a plan and $60 million to put planes back in the air before its remaining aircraft are put on the auction block.

Putnam said a Braniff board member Tuesday talked 40 minutes with Hyatt chairman Jay Pritzger trying to convince the head of the hotel chain to resume talks.

Representatives of Braniff's unions met Tuesday night with retired pilots Glenn Shoop and Jack Morton, who helped bring Hyatt and Braniff together, and drafted a bitterly worded letter to Braniff's board accusing the airline of refusing to deal in good faith.

Marvin Schlinke, president of Local 19 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, said he hoped there would be an

Bill to coordinate health care

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators have approved a bill to create three councils to coordinate services for children, the elderly and disabled people.

The Legislative Budget Board estimated the three councils would cost the state approximately $935,000 over the next two years, but Sen. Chet Brooks said revisions had reduced the projected cost.

Brooks, D-Pasadena, said the proposed councils are the result of a two-year study by a special committee on the best way to deliver human services in Texas.

The committee "found apparent gaps and inequities in services, unnecessary duplication and overlap of public and privately funded programs, and maldistribution and fragmentation of service delivery," according to a printed analysis of Brooks' bill.

His bill was sent to the House on voice vote Tuesday.

Local teachers plan to attend Kappa Kappa Iota convention

Representatives of Pampa's Gamma Conclave of Kappa Kappa Iota hope to again bring home superior ratings for their press book when they attend state convention in San Angelo April 29 through May 1.

Kappa Kappa Iota is the oldest national sorority for professional women educators. Kappa's purpose is to promote a high standard of professional ethics, to foster good fellowship and cooperation among women educators, to elevate the dignity and service of teaching and to oppose all forces detrimental to the schools of the United States.

Pat Southerland of Pampa as state president is directing activities for the convention, including registration of members and delegates. Nickie Gordon of Pampa is to conduct the Past State President's meeting.

Also planned are workshops on parliamentary procedure, pressbook exhibits, scholarship fund raising, training for local presidents and treasurers, protocol and professional courtesies, state by-laws and business meetings.

Friday, April 29, nominating and scholarship committees will hold committee sessions. Jo Johnson is a member of the nominating committee.

Saturday, April 30. Southerland will conduct a business meeting where scholarships will be awarded, a slate of new state officers elected and general state business conducted. Following the business session a luncheon will be held when numerous awards and honors will be presented to members, and conclaves.

National President Lenora Mahan of Denver, Colo., is scheduled to appear as a special guest. Mahan will conduct a workshop for local presidents and install the new officers at the banquet Saturday, April 30. A reception honoring the new state officers will follow the banquet.

Other Gamma members attending from Pampa include Bethel Walker, Sheryl Shuck, Maureen Leverett, and past state presidents, Laura Penick and Nickie Gordon.

Banana oat bread comes to the fore

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Banana cakes came into wide favor in the United States and Canada in the 1920s. Banana quick breads followed along and won popularity.

At first recipes for banana breads were made with white flour. Later the white flour was combined with another grain. For example, in the following recipe oats are used; they provide a coarse texture many eaters approve.

These days banana oat loaves attract many cooks for a special reason — both bananas and oats are low in sodium.

BANANA OAT
PECAN BREAD
1½ c. all-purpose flour
4 t. baking powder
1 t. salt
½ t. cinnamon
4 small (each 4 ounces ripe bananas
2 large eggs
1-3rd c. sugar
½ c. corn oil

1 c. quick-cooking oats
½ c. chopped (medium-fine) pecans
Oil the bottom of an 8 by 4 by 2½-inch loaf pan.
On wax paper or in a small bowl, thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon.
Into a medium bowl, slice the bananas; with an electric beater beat until pureed — there should be 1 cup; add eggs, sugar and oil; beat until blended. Add the flour mixture; stir just until it is moistened. Stir in the oats and pecans. Turn into the prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake

Donna Holland demonstrates the "hair carry," a rescue technique to basic swimming instructor (BSI) candidates Julie Long, (front) and Linda Forman (rear). The BSI candidate she is demonstrating on is Dusty Neef. Neef, Long, Forman and Margaret Murphy, all of Pampa, were certified after they completed their BSI course this weekend.

Beside Holland at poolside is Ruth Carter. Holland and Carter, both of Pampa, are instructor trainer candidates (ITs). When they have completed their training, they will be able to teach BSIs without supervision. Red Cross supervisor Michael Wieting of Oklahoma City supervised Holland and Carter this weekend. Swimming instructors trained

By LORI-ANN D'ANTONIO
Staff Writer

Pampa has four new Red Cross trained Basic Swimming Instructors (BSIs) as a result of a class held over the past two weekends at the Pampa Youth and Community Center.

Dusty Neef, Linda Forman, Margaret Murphy, and Julie Long, all of Pampa, are the new BSIs who will teach beginners swimming, advanced beginners swimming and water safety courses this summer in Pampa. Classes are run both at the Youth Center pool and the municipal swimming pool.

But the real twist about the classes held the past two weekends was that there were teacher trainers learning to teach as well. Donna Holland and Ruth Carter of Pampa are in training to be "teachers to teachers," or instructor trainer candidates.

Holland, who teaches an adapted aquatics for physically and mentally disabled children, was happy with the way the class went this weekend.

"I was real pleased with the class and I'm glad we're doing BSI classes," Holland said. She and Carter will decide with Michael Wieting, a Red Cross water safety and disaster expert from Oklahoma City, when they're ready to be appointed as instructor trainers (ITs).

Wieting said the purpose of training both BSIs and ITs in Pampa is to give the city and Gray County a jump on areas that do not have ITs. The only areas in the Texas Panhandle that have ITs are Amarillo, Canadian and Dumas, he said.

With ITs on location in Pampa, the area will have experts on hand to give advice and train BSIs so that more classes can be held.

"It's important that this local area develop its own organizational program so it can function without help," Wieting said Saturday.

The goal is to have someone be skilled and knowledgeable enough to be safe in and around the water."

Some of the Red Cross programs are not aimed at teaching people to swim, he said, but to feel safe in and around the water, so they won't panic and be afraid of the water, even if they don't swim. This would also be helpful if they are with someone who does swim and they get into trouble, Wieting said.

Classes will be conducted in Pampa throughout the summer, Holland said, and since they will be at both the Youth Center pool and the municipal pool, they will be accessible to many Pampans.

"We want people to enjoy the water, but we also want them to live long enough to enjoy it," Wieting said.

Holland said she and Carter may have to teach three or four more classes before they're ready to be official ITs. The BSI course calls for a minimum of 15 hours of instruction and a water safety instructor's course calls for at least 30 hours of instruction, Holland said.

Honey and raisins jazz up yogurt

More youngsters are learning to cook and enjoying it thoroughly.

Here is a special honey-raisin frozen yogurt those from 7 to 11 can put together. Some supervision may be necessary while boiling ingredients, for example.

Set a timer for 30 minutes as a reminder to check initial freezing before final blending. This recipe does not require an ice cream freezer, but you will want to check freezing time.

HONEY-RAISIN FROZEN YOGURT

1 cup raisins
1/2 cup honey
1/4 cup apple juice concentrate
1/4 cup water
1 pint unflavored yogurt

2 eggs, beaten

In saucepan, combine raisins, honey, apple juice concentrate and water. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from heat; cool to room temperature. Combine yogurt and eggs to blend; stir into raisin mixture. Pour into shallow pan and freeze until mixture is firm, about 1-inch around edges. Turn into mixing bowl and beat with electric mixer until smooth. Return to freezer to freeze firm. Serve plain, or top with additional raisins, chopped nuts, shredded coconut, etc. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 3 1/2 cups.

Astro-Graph by bernice bede osol

Opportunities are likely to come to you in rapid succession this coming year, but you must be careful to try to make each one count for something.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Keep your guard up today or you could be outmaneuvered by your opposition, especially in business matters. Don't underestimate competitors. Order now. The NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Taurus Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Limit your spending today, particularly in areas where you are merely out to impress others. Extravagance could dent your image as well as your checkbook.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Problems in friendships could stem today from things which are owed or loaned. Make it a point not to participate in either practice.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Assess situations very carefully today, especially where you are trying to accomplish something which will require the support of others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't let yourself be intimidated or pressured into making commitments today pertaining to matters where you have lingering doubts. Spend time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The world doesn't owe you a free ride today, so don't kid yourself into believing that it does. You'll get what's due you — no more, no less.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't try to match wits with "sharpies" today, especially if they're on their home turf and you are not. Wait until you get them in your bailiwick.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try not to let responsibilities overwhelm you today. By the same token, don't treat lightly matters which should be taken seriously.

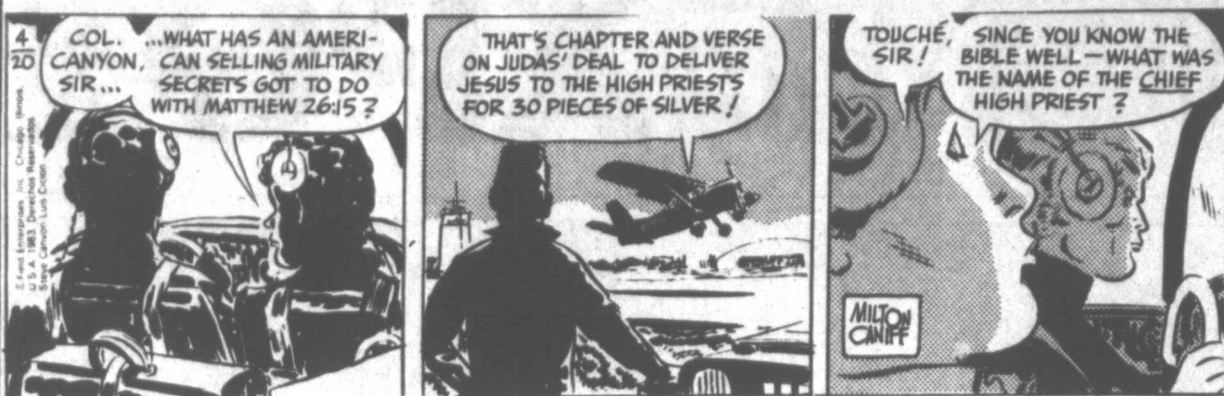

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Everybody has their good and bad days, so keep this in mind and it will help you be more tolerant if an old friend lets you down today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try to be consistent in your behavior today. Don't be harsh and demanding in one instance, then give the store away in the next.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Usually you are very forgiving, but today it may take only a few words from the wrong party to ignite your temper. Avoid arrogant individuals.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be realistically aware of your financial limitations today. If you try to stretch your budget too far, the string could suddenly snap.

Reagan signing Social Security rescue plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is ending two years of bitter partisan conflict over Social Security by signing a rescue plan that raises the retirement age while forcing workers to pay more and retirees to take less.

Reagan was signing the $165 billion legislation into law today in an elaborate ceremony on the South Lawn of the White House. Invited guests included congressional leaders of both parties, members of the reform commission which drew the blueprint for the rescue package and leaders of senior citizens groups from all 50 states.

In all, White House aides said, about 800 people had been invited.

Among provisions of the plan Congress passed last month are:

—Higher payroll taxes in 1984, 1986 and 1989.

—A six-month delay in July's cost-of-living increase in benefits.

—A first-ever levy on benefits going to more affluent retirees.

—Mandatory Social Security coverage for new federal workers and employees of non-profit organizations beginning Jan. 1.

—A gradual increase in the retirement age from 65 to 67 in the next century.

The biggest impact on the program's beneficiaries — retirees, disabled workers and their relatives — will be the delay in their annual cost-of-living increase from July until next January.

That delay will cost a typical retiree who gets $408 a month about $14 a month, or roughly $80 over the six months.

The ceremony, with Reagan's political allies and opponents in attendance, marked a truce in the ongoing skirmishes the president has been engaged in with members of Congress over defense, budget and foreign policy issues.

It was only after Reagan and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., embraced the recommendations of the National Commission on Social Security Reform in January that Congress was able to draft legislation to avert the impending collapse of the system, which serves 36 million beneficiaries.

Names in the news

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Singer Connie Francis has begun a campaign for the U.S. Postal Service to issue a stamp recognizing the burdens of crime victims, who she says suffer silently and get little help.

"There very rarely is (a government) appropriation for victims because they have no voice. There is no money behind them. They are not a special interest group," said Miss Francis, 44. She has been active in crime victim programs since she was raped at a Long Island hotel in New York state in November 1974.

Miss Francis and New Jersey Gov. Thomas H. Kean signed a petition Tuesday asking the Postal Service to issue the stamp.

BERLIN (AP) — Ex-Beatle Paul McCartney has been ordered to begin making monthly payments of $282 to a 20-year-old woman claiming to be his daughter.

McCartney, 40, was ordered Tuesday by a West Berlin court to make the payments to Bettina Huebers pending the outcome of a paternity suit. The court said payments were retroactive to Sept. 29, 1982, when the suit was filed, and must continue until it is settled.

The mother, Erika Huebers, 41, first publicized her paternity claim two years ago. There was no immediate comment from McCartney, whose whereabouts were unknown. But he repeatedly has denied being the woman's father.

McCartney has three children by his marriage to Linda Eastman and a stepdaughter by his wife's previous marriage. The couple, married since 1969, formed the pop group Wings after the Beatles broke up.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Bianca Jagger, the former wife of Rolling Stones singer Mick Jagger, is trying to help her native country by promoting "Nicaragua Now" movie exhibitions at the Filmex movie center.

"I'm sure it's from guilt — guilt over the fact that I've had a privileged life," she said Monday about her work.

One of her uncles was ambassador to pre-Castro Cuba under Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza, who was overthrown by the Sandinistas. Her father ran a thriving commodities business.

After the 1972 earthquake that leveled Managua, the Jagers raised more than $200,000 in relief help. "I visited the barrios," she said, "and I saw a country that was a million miles away from what I saw when I was growing up."
