SIX ARE KILLED IN SHIP CRASH

Millions Will Be Needed To Pay Pensions

Total Of $3,500,000 Will Be Required To Support Program During The Fiscal Year

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 24—Giles L. Avriett, auditor for the old age pension organization, estimated today an extra $3,500,000 would be needed to support the program during the fiscal year starting September 1.

He made the calculation in response to an inquiry from the senate's efficiency and economy committee. The legislature will be called in special session about September 20 to levy taxes for old age and teachers' pensions and the state's general fund.

Would Repay Bank Loan

Avriett asserted the $3,500,000 would be sufficient to repay most of a loan of $1,626,487 from a Dallas bank in addition to meeting current requirements. After the loan has been liquidated, he said, only about $2,500,000 extra money each year will be required.

"Assuming the law is not changed," the auditor wrote, "the average number of pensioners during the next two years will be approximately 120,000.

Need $840,000 Per Month

"On the present basis of $14 state and federal money per person, we will need $840,000 per month plus $42,000 administrative expenses. It may be necessary to raise the average budget about $14. If we are permitted to care for the doubtful, meritorious marginal cases, the number of recipients will exceed 120,000.

"If the old age assistance commission is allowed a fairly liberal policy and takes care of marginal cases and liquidates the outstanding indebtedness, my estimate is that it will be necessary for the legislature to provide for the 1937-38 fiscal year a minimum of $3,500,000 additional money.

Will Need $2,500,000 Yearly

"If and when liquidation of the indebtedness is accomplished, a minimum of $2,500,000 must be provided for the 1938-39 fiscal year."

Avriett suggested the state would

"Big" Jim Robinson Is Named Lubbock County Jailer; To Assume Duties On Sept. 1

"Big" Jim" Robinson, former Lubbock police chief and known sectionally-wide, Sept. 1 will become county jailer, Sheriff Tom Abel said this morning.

In Lubbock county "always," and remembered for his range days activities, Robinson was described by the sheriff as "a man straight and honorable in all his relations with the public and a man I have been proud to call a friend since I met him 24 years ago."

Abel said he had selected Robinson after considering "numerous applications." He said Robinson, however, had made no application for the position.

Robinson, who in his long span of residence in and near Lubbock "since the beginning of things out here" had been a peace officer, a cowpoke, a chuckwagon cook, and a farmer. Resigned as chief of police after serving approximately two years, his friends said. His resignation was voluntary, and made so that he could return to former activities. He began farming.

His administration as police chief was after that of Guy Hufstedler. Administrations of T. E. May, John LeMond, Wiley Metcalfe, Bud Johnston, and Don Reeder, present chief, followed in succession.

Robinson, as jailer, will be in charge of the jail kitchen. His ability to cook has been recognized many years through his selection to supervise preparation of barbecues and special outdoor dinners.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson live at 1628 Fifth street.

Five Proposals Okayed By Texans; Fee Plan Defeated By Voters

BY TEXAS ELECTION BUREAU

(Special To The Journal)

DALLAS, Aug. 24—Five of the six proposed amendments to the state constitution, laid before the Texas electorate yesterday and receiving only a hatful of votes as compared with full strength, today definitely were given the "go" sign.

Only amendment to fall by the wayside was that which would have given the legislature right to abolish the salary system of paying various district, county and precinct officials. Opponents had contended it would merely pave the way to a return of the fee system, abolished several years ago after long agitation and a legislative investigation.

Totals Are Announced

Totals compiled up to noon today by the Texas Election Bureau were announced as follows:

From 88 out of 254 counties, including 18 complete, accounting for 79,114 votes: Bank stock liability, for 50,685, against 25,360; aid for destitute children, for 55,393, against 23,357; abolishing salary system, for 32,87, against 44,901; tax discount, for 58,819, against 19,228; Harris county road plan, for 42,031, against 28,980; aid for blind, for 59,566, against 19,548.

Endorsement of four proposed constitutional amendments and rejection of two others was given by Lubbock county voters here Monday in the most expensive election in the history of the county, insofar as per-vote cost was concerned.

With six small rural boxes still unreported at noon today, tabulations showed that fewer than 600 votes were cast as against an election cost of approximately $500 to the county. Of the voters, approximately 125 were election officials who were required by their duties to be at the polling places.

Unofficial Totals Given

Unofficial totals for 26 out of 32 precincts in which elections were held in the county show, on various propositions:

For bank stockholder's liability aendment 317; against 208.

For aid to dependent children, 352; against 190.

For abolishing the salary system or compensation for district,, county and precinct officials and restoration of the fee system, 244; against 274.

For amendment providing that property shall never be assessed for taxes at more than its fair cash market value, 417; against, 124.

For Harris county road financing plan, 200; against 229.

For aid to needy blind, 380; against 153.

Total vote from the 26 precincts was 533, as compared with a qualified registration in the precincts of about 4,900.

Although vote throughout the county was the lightest in history, it dropped almost to the vanishing point in rural districts. Top precinct was No. 1, southwest Lubbock, which has a registration of more than 500. The low precinct was Abernathy where three of the five votes polled were by election officials.

Lubbock and Slaton both gave majorities to all amendments.

James A. Street Was Known By Old Timers Of Section

James Alexander (Alex) Street, special investigator of the New Mexico state police, who died in a Santa Fe hospital Monday night, was well known to the earlier South Plains residents through his activities in eastern New Mexico and in Texas in the early days.

Street was in Lubbock six years ago during the famous Spikes suit against the XIT and Capitol Syndicate and J. Evetts Haley. He was a witness for the defense.

On the stand Street related many incidents of the New Mexico cattle range. While here he met many old friends, whom he had known in his days in Texas as well as in New Mexico.

Street last spring resigned from the U. S. department of justice after having served there since 1920. He later joined the New Mexico force.

Street solved the famous Henrietta Schmerier murder case on the Apache reservation on the White River in Arizona and the Rhone case in Oklahoma.

Lubbock Officers Are Kept On Jump Last Night And Today

A diversity of complaints engaged attention of Lubbock police officers Monday night and this morning.

Bond of $750 was set this morning by S. E. McMillan, justice of peace, after L. S. Mast had been charged with driving while intoxicated, a felony, in a complaint sworn to by W. E. Renfrow of the state highway patrol.

Opposition To New Session Is Growing

No Practical Good And Maybe Some Harm Will Come From Action, One Leader Says

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—A group of influential house Democrats expressed strong opposition today to a special congressional session in the fall on the grounds it might increase party dissension.

One leader who preferred not to be mentioned by name said "no practical good and maybe some harm" would come from a special session on farm and wage-hour legislation. He said he and others of the same view would so advise President Roosevelt before leaving the capital.

Be Poor Policy

He argued time was needed to allow heated tempers to cool and that it would be poor policy for the president to run the risk of reopening party strife in October or November.

Many members, he said, might feel none too kindly toward the administration and its legislative program if they were summoned back to Washington while in the midst of building political fences for next year's election.

To the cvontention that action on a farm bill and a wage-hour measure in the fall would permit shrotening the regular January session, this party chieftain retorted that a special session would not mean "taking 15 minutes off the regular session."

Others Are Favorable

Some house members nevertheless said they would prefer to have the farm and labor standards issues disposed of in a special session, and talk persisted that the president would call one.

Rep. Miller (D-Ark) said he thought a special session might be desirable.

Miller talked to the president yesterday and predicted afterwards that Mr. Roosevelt would announce in a few days whether he will call one.

Speaker Bankhead at Birmingham predicted yesterday the session would be called.

Secretary Wallace left the White House yesterday asserting he favored a special meeting and several legislators who have seen Mr. Roosevelt in the past few days indicated the chief executive was considering the possibility strongly.

Bold Kidnaper Being Sought

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—Police officials pressed every available man into the search today for a three-months-old girl and the abductor who snatched her from a baby carriage in full view of hundreds of shoppers.

The child, Diane Carol, disappeared from the carriage outside a grocery in the north side Wilson avenue district while her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Lucas, 22, was making supper purchases yesterday.

The abductor apparently escaped without arousing the suspicion of anyone in the street crowds. Police were unable to find anyone who had seen the baby taken. Nor did they uncover a plausible motive.

Believed It Was Joke

Mrs. Lucas waited nearly an hour before notifying police. She said she thought her husband, Herman, 31, had taken the baby as a joke during her 10 minutes absence and would soon return. Police found the father at home, unaware of the abduction.

Investigators expressed doubt the infant was taken for ransom. They said the parents were in moderate circumstances. Lucas is a carpet layer and repairman.

Police Sergt. Michael Ahern advanced the theory the girl was taken by a childless couple or by some mother who recently had lost a child.

Additional Charges Filed By Johnston

Former Police Chief H. L. (Bud) Johnston announced this morning that another of his series of written statements, in which he has been setting forth charges directed at city and county officials, was being delivered to Mayor Ross Edwards.

"I want to give the city commission every opportunity to take whatever action it believes it should take and I want to furnish all the information I can," Johnston said.

Today's letter continued charges against official actions of Sheriff Tom Abel, BOD Manager A. B. Davis, City Manager W. H. Rodgers and City Attorney Durwood Bradley. It also alluded to Johnston's more than three-year tenure of office as police chief and to what he charges were acts of failure of other officials to co-operate with his department.

Japan Opens Big Offensive

Mighty Death Weapons Are In Full Play

Plane After Plane Launched; Suicide Detachments Leading Thousands Of Reinforcements

BY JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24—Japanese planes, naval guns and landing parties smashed at Shanghai today in a promised "big offensive" against stubborn Chinese resistance.

I saw two Japanese airplane carriers anchored near Saddle islands at the mouth of the Yangtze catapult plane after plane into the air to bomb Chinese machine gun positions near the Woosung shore.

Americans Evacuated

In the midst of exploding bombs and artillery shells 212 Americans were evacuated aboard the liner President Pierce for Manila.

The battle raged down the Whangpoo and along the Yangtze. Japanese landed thousands of reinforcements. They were led by suicide detachments of the "white band of death."

The Japanese were driving in from the north to assault the Chinese left flank. Japanese army spokesmen declared reinforcements they landed in the Woosung area yesterday and today already had advanced at different points from one to two miles.

Matsui In Command

General Iwane Matsui, former commanding general of the island of Formosa and a former member of the supreme war council, came out of retirement to take command of all Japanese forces in the Shanghai area.

A member of the Japanese staff declared: "Our forces will meet the Chinese troops, regardless of the time and place."

I sailed down the Whangpoo with the American refugees who boarded the President Pierce. For the first time United States officials decided the refugees should be convoyed with a warship.

Against the clear sky, Japanese sea and land planes emblazoned with the rising sun insignia darted over Chinese positions, dropping bombs and swooping down to blast machine gun bullets into the Chinese lines.

Guns Are Uncovered

After the party of refugees was transferred to the President Pierce, the destroyer uncovered her guns and escorted the liner through the raging battle to the sea.

Coming back, I saw four huge shell holes in buildings of the University of Shanghai on the Whangpoo river. The institution is run by American Baptists.

The battle area immediately about international Shanghai was vastly different from yesterday. Because of the Japanese flanking movement, Chinese forces in the Yangtzepoo and ward road jail areas withdrew to new positions north of the international settlement boundary.

The districts of Hongkew and Yangtzepoo, which 24 hours before had been in the center of machine gun and shell fire, were as quiet as a grave.

Today only ruins and scores of burned buildings were left to be guarded by street corner Japanese sentry posts.

Flanked by their warships, the Japanese transports crept up to the Woosung wharves in the pitch darkness just before dawn. The Chinese positions were ominously silent until the first launch was lowered. Then, as though at a signal, the still blackness became a living inferno of flame and noise.

The small improvised armored launch bore 70 picked and self-named "shirodasukitai," literally the "white band of death." The only color they wore was a white sash around their back and shoulders — the traditional guard of Japan's proud Samurai who enter combat prepared to die.

As the little boat with its suicide band touched the water, the almost solid wall of Chinese machine guns and artillery blazed at point blank range and the Japanese warships replied with broadsides.

Japanese warplanes hovering in the darkness overhead swooped suddenly to within 500 feet of the Chinese lines, blasting with machine guns and bombs.

As the bottom of the launch scraped the Yangtze mudflats, the band of death leaped into the waist-deep water and waded ashore in the face of withering fire from machine guns and hand grenades.

As they scrambled up the low river bank a Chinese land mine was touched off and the "white band of death" was enveloped in a lurid sheet of flame. The few survivors closed in hand to hand combat with the Chinese.

The fighting raged along the banks of the Yangtze river from

Problems Face Legionnaires

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 24.—Rehabilitation and employment problems held the stage at the morning session today of the American Legion, department of Texas, convention here. H. Miller Ainsworth, Luling, member of the national rehabilitation committee, served as chairman as discussions were given by Wynn S. Goode of Austin, department service officer, George C. Betts of Austin, state service officer, and others.

J. Fred Johnson, jr., of Florence, Ala., national vice-commander, was to speak late this morning and the feature address this afternoon will be that of the Rev. Bryan H. Keathley of Mineral Wells, national chaplain.

Troublesome Resolution

A troublesome resolution, carried over from several previous conventions, and on which a compromise was reported out by a divided committee here, is that providing for the organization of negro posts of the legion. It is to be acted on by the convention this afternoon. The compromise provided for sponsorship of such posts voluntarily by the white local posts but the negro veterans would have no voice in local, district, division organizations.

Dr. W. J. Danforth of Fort Worth and Charles A. Osborn of Dallas went into the finals of the convention contest over selection of a department commander. Pat La Toushe of Houston was reported this morning to have withdrawn from the race.

Austin was accorded a virtual cinch on selection as the next convention city. Texarkana was putting in a strong bid, however, with a proposal for a tri-state—Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma—convention in 1938.

WPA Workers To Be Available For Employment On Farms

AUSTIN, Aug. 24 (AP) — H. P. Drought, state administrator for the Works Progress administration, said today farmers can obtain WPA workers for seasonal crop gathering.

He advised farmers to direct requests to county judges and farm agents, and the national reemployment and Texas state employment services.

"These offices are familiar with our policy of suspending WPA projects if necessary to provide workers for private employment," he said.

Clergyman Claims 16-Year-Old Girls Know Too Much Of Sex

(By The Associated Press)

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 24.—A Michigan clergyman, once a physician, told Buffalo's interdenominational Bible conference last night that the average 16-year-old girl of today "knows more about sex than her grandmother did after she'd had her first baby."

"Debauchery of sex and the sanctity of the home are driving America toward moral doom," the Rev. Dr. M. R. de Hann of Grand Rapids, Mich., said at the annual Bible retreat at Evangelical park.

"Just look at our modern families," he declared. "People have forgotten that in the old days it was considered a chastisement from God when a family was childless.

"People don't want children anymore. They have forgotten that children are a heritage from God.

"Oh, yes, one child is all right, and you can have two and still remain in high society.

"But three or more! That brands you as some sort of an uncivilized being."

Disaster Sends Big Plane Into Watery Grave

(By The Associated Press)

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 24—Disaster—for the first time—struck the navy's armada of giant flying boats last night, sending a new $150,000 plane crashing in San Diego bay, where early today rescuers hunted the bodies of its dead.

Six men, including three officers, of a crew of eight were killed, the others injured, when the plane fell.

Hull submerged in shallow water, the wreck was quickly surrounded by navy and private ships as giant searchlights illuminated the bay.

The dead, four of whom were believed still trapped within the plane, were listed as: W. C. Dey, jr., lieutenant; F. L. Wallace, lieutenant junior grade; W. M. Freshour, lieutenant junior grade; R. Fall, aviation chief machinist's mate; R. M. Purdy, radioman, second class, and H. K. Bryan, radioman, third class, naval aviation pilot.

Lifted out of the hull and rushed to naval hospital, two survivors were treated for injuries. J. W. Blackman, aviation ordnanceman, second class, was only slightly hurt. T. P. Dougherty, aviation machinist's mate, third class, suffered severe shock and multiple lacerations.

On Practice Flight

The ill-starred plane, PBY-1, whose sister flying boats have flown in mass formation to Honolulu and the Canal Zone in the past two years, was undergoing a "routine night practice flight" for a forthcoming hop to Panama in September.

As it swooped down for a landing after being in the air several hours, the seaplane struck the Narwhal, an abandoned whaling ship once used in filming "Moby Dick."

The 63 1-2 - foot hull of the flying boat nosed over in the bay mud, crushing its metal framework like paper.

Only the bottom of the fuselage and the two wing pontoons showed above water.

Imperiled By Fire

In desperate haste to extricate the victims, three of a crew of 175 navy men were imperiled by a sudden fire, started when sparks ignited spilled gasoline.

The trio jumped into the bay and were pulled out again after fellow searchers extinguished the flames.

After the fire, a body, the second to be found, was taken from the wreckage. His legs caught in twisted metal, the dead flier was waist

Sheriff Tires Of This Job

(By The Associated Press)

GREENUP, Ky., Aug. 24.—Sheriff Jake Fisher nursed bruised ribs as he went about his duties today, and he made it plain that if anybody wanted to know any more about who threw those rocks out at Ira Gillum's place he could go find out for himself.

Gillum, an elderly, puzzled mountain farmer, reported Saturday someone had been throwing rocks at his house intermittently all last week. The house sits in a small clearing completely surrounded by high, wooded hills.

Suffer Minor Wounds

Three days of vigilance, during which the sheriff and his son, Deputy Joe Fisher, suffered minor wounds from rocks and flying glass as they lay in hiding, were climaxed last night when the officers decided the rocking was an "inside job."

The younger Fisher said Gillum's son, Joe, told the officers Mrs. Coy Gillum, wife of another son, was the mysterious rock-thrower. Deputy Fisher said she "evidently had been trying to ghost the old folks out."

"They can settle it themselves," said Sheriff Fisher. I'm done with it."

The couple left, sans license.

Atascosa County Almost Loses Its Chance To Cast Votes

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 24 (AP) — The opportunity of Atascosa county citizens to vote in yesterday's election nearly passed them by. Somehow or other the fact that the state of Texas was voting on six proposed constitutional amendments had escaped the Atascosa county commissioners. They had forgotten to print the ballots. And only after an urgent appeal to Bexar county requesting a "loan" of the necessary ballots was it possible for the voters to indicate their views.

Gigantic Indian Ceremonials Will Begin On Wednesday

The gigantic inter-tribal ceremonials, one of the most famous Indian tribal ceremonials of the southwest, will begin Wednesday and close two days later at Gallup, N. M.

More than 7,000 Indians from 30 or more tribes, will take part in the impressive ceremonial, depicting the spiritual and ethical life of the Indian. The corn dance, the turtle dance, the night chant and the mountain chant are among the most famed.

On September 11-13 the ancient Spanish Fiesta will be held at Santa Fe. This picturesque ceremony dates back to September 16, 1712.

It commemorates the re-conquest in 1692 by Don Diego de Vargas Zapata Lajan, of the vast province that had been lost to the crown of Spain a dozen years before. Time honored customs will be reborn in colorful street dances and beautiful pageantry.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

School Lines Are Changed

Changes of boundaries for several Lubbock schools which open Sept. 6 were announced late Monday by City Superintendent W. B. Irvin as a means of adjusting facilities to population growth.

High eighth grade students will attend Junior High school rather than Senior High school and only three grades will be taught in Senior High school.

To Attend Junior High

A principal change provided that high fifth grade students of the entire territory west of the Santa Fe railroad will attend Junior High school and no students below high fifth standing will be taught in Junior High school. High fifth students east of the Amarillo branch of the railroad will continue to attend Sanders school.

Teaching of high fourth and low fifth grades west of the Santa Fe railroad will be concentrated in Central Ward school.

To Transport Students

High fourth and low fifth grades will be eliminated from Junior High school and the fifth grade from the ward schools in the southwest and northeast corners of the district. Buses will transport students in those areas of the low fifth through eleventh to city schools.

Boundary changes did not effect K. Carter, Dupre, George M. Hunt, or Sanders schools, Guadalupe school for Mexicans, or Dunbar school for negroes.

Previous Announcement Void

Superintendent Irvin asked that a recent announcement of school boundaries for next year be disregarded, since a meeting of officials since has revealed need for changes. New boundaries are:

Senior High

Low ninth to high eleventh inclusive for all the school district.

Junior High

Low sixth to high eighth inclusive for all school district.

High fifth for all territory west of the Santa Fe railroad.

Central Ward

Low fourth for territory east of Avenue Q, south of Broadway, and west of the Santa Fe railroad.

High fourth and low fifth grades west of the Santa Fe railroad.

K. Carter

First to low fourth inclusive west of the Santa Fe railroad to Avenue Q and north of Broadway. (Pupils in those grades living west of Avenue Q may attend either K. Carter or Dupre schools.)

Dupre

First to low fourth inclusive for pupils west of Avenue Q. (Pupils in those grades living west of Avenue Q may attend either Dupre or K. Carter schools.)

George M. Hunt

First to high third inclusive south of Broadway east of Avenue Q, and west of the Santa Fe railroad.

Sanders

First to high fifth inclusive east of the Amarillo branch of the Santa Fe railroad.

Guadalupe

First to high fifth inclusive for Mexican children.

Ward Schools

First to high fourth inclusive in the southwest and northeast corners of the district.

Dunbar

Negro pupils in first to fourth inclusive in the old school building.

Negro pupils in fifth to eleventh inclusive in the new school building.

No transfers will be granted until Sept. 7, the second day of the school term, said Supt. Irvin. Students are to register according to announced boundaries Sept. 6 and apply Sept. 7 for a transfer, "if absolutely necessary."

Boundaries might be changed "if after school opens it seems wise," said the superintendent, who plans to make a survey to see to what extent buildings are being used.

A Fortress In The Clouds

Burnished metal against a cotton-boll background, an army air corps "flying fortress" moved effortlessly over Dayton, O., at 13,000 feet as this official U. S. army photo caught it. Up Where The Tall Corn Grows

If you think you've seen tall corn, here's some 17 stories high, but it has a head start. The crop, along with other vegetables, is growing high above mid-town New York on the terrace of Mrs. Regina Jais' Fifth Avenue penthouse. She's shown here picking a few ears of choice corn. It's no trouble for her to go to market. She just steps out the front door.

Holiday Ends With Death

POMONA, Calif., Aug. 24 (AP) — Death terminated the California holiday of James Doyle Phillips, 40, New York Times correspondent at Havana, Cuba, when the automobile in which he was driving his family homeward crashed here against a motor truck.

His wife, daughter and sister-in-law were injured. The daughter, Martha Jean 11, is in a critical condition with fractured skull, broken right arm and right leg.

Blinded By Sun

Bright rays of the early morning sun, investigating officers said, apparently blinded Phillips as he drove his automobile into a Texas-to-California motor truck.

Mrs. Ruby Hart Phillips, treated for a rib fracture and cuts and bruises, was released from the hospital Monday afternoon.

They were returning eastward, planning to stop at Oklahoma City, where her sister, Mrs. Irma Hart Carrier, 31, who was with them, resides. Mrs. Carrier was cut and bruised.

Inquest into the accident was set for Wednesday by the county coroner.

The heavy truck was driven by T. H. Coleman, 35, of San Angelo, Tex. His wife and daughter were with him but the three were unhurt. Coleman was not held.

Man Suicides After Slaying

(By The Associated Press)

BARTLETT, Aug. 24 — An all-night search for Edwin Dusek, 40, after the slaying of his wife, ended at dawn Monday when officers and bloodhounds came upon him fatally wounded near here.

Peace Justice J. W. Carlisle returned a verdict that the farmer's death was from a self-inflicted pistol bullet wound.

Dusek's estranged wife, Mrs. Myrtle Dusek, 35, was shot to death last night as she sat on the porch at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hunt of the Science Hill community. The slayer slipped up in the darkness and fired three shots, then disappeared.

Sheriff John R. Bigham of Belton organized a posse. Bigham said that just as day was breaking he thought he saw someone running through the brush. Shortly afterward the pursuers heard a shot and went in the direction whence it came. They found their quarry writhing in pain. He died shortly afterward.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dusek were members of widely-known families.

At the close of the World war the British flying corps had 30,000 officers and 22,000 planes.

Sleep Impossible Until The Gly-Cas

Herbal Remedy Gives Lady New Health; Rheumatic Pains In Shoulders, Arms And Knees Greatly Relieved; Feels 100 Per Cent Better In Every Way

"Gly-Cas was the only medicine of the many I tried that was able to give me the results it claimed to give," said Mrs. J. L. Middleton, 705 East Jackson St., Harlingen, Texas. "For three years I had suffered from unbearable pain of rheumatism in my body. It was almost more than I could stand suffering as I did. I knew not what a good night's sleep was. My stomach was badly disordered and awful headaches were a constant source of distress. I began hearing so much praise for Gly-Cas and decided it must be worthy of a trial—it took this new remedy but a short time to distinguish itself from the ordinary medicines of the present day.

MRS. J. L. MIDDLETON

"Gly-Cas made a complete change in my condition," continued Mrs. Middleton. "My stomach has been regulated so that I am once more able to eat the foods I wish without fear of that awful after distress. Rheumatism has been improved 100 per cent, my nerves have been quieted, am able to enjoy a good night's sleep, and even my work is so much lighter for me, feeling as I do now. Headaches are a thing of the past and I feel stronger and better than I have in years—and all of this was made possible by the use of just one medicine—Gly-Cas—there can be no doubt as to its merit now."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns. Adv.

Giants Have Backs To Wall In Series Opening Today With Cubs

National Race Is Hotter As Days Advance

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Giants may have their backs to the wall, but at least it's their own wall.

New York's National league candidates for a five-cent World series aren't the iron-clad invincibles in the Polo Grounds that the sure-fire Yankees are in their ball yard just across the Harlem river. The Giants have lost more than twice as many home games—22 to 10—as the Ruppert riot squad, but even so their record there is better than on the road.

Open With Cubs

The short targets in right and left field, familiar to Mel Ott and Co., may stand the Terrymen in good stead as they start today an eleven-game stand against the west that opens with a brief but potentially decisive two-game setto with the Cubs.

Charley Grimm's Bruins go into the opening game against mealticket Carl Hubbell still holding the four-game lead with which they left Chicago a week ago. A strong finish against the Reds after a poor start against the Pirates kept their margin safe. In addition, rain washed the Giants out of doubleheaders with the Phillies two days in a row.

The good news that Ripper Collins might be back in another two weeks spurred on the Chicagoans. The Giants, on the other hand, had three front-line performers on the doubtful list—Rowdy Dick Bartell, the pepper-pot shortstop; Slick Castleman, who has to pitch in a harness if at all, and Sam Leslie, the slightly slow-footed but slugging first baseman.

Yanks In Good Shape

The Yanks, swinging into the west for the last time and stacking up against the White Sox, are in much better shape to sew up the American league flag once and for all.

For virtually the first time this season, Manager Joe McCarthy had all five of his outfielders on hand. The latest to leave the list of injured and ailing is George Selkirk, who hasn't played regularly since July 1, when he bruised his shoulder, but still ranks with the leaders on his 17 homers.

Besides the Giants and Phils, the Dodgers and Bees were rained out yesterday. Today Brooklyn met the Cards in a doubleheader, while the Bees faced the fast-coming Pirates and the Phils met the Reds. Detroit, seeking to clinch runner-up honors, faced the Athletics. Boston was at Cleveland and the Senators at St. Louis.

Indians Maintain Even Dozen Lead

(By The Associated Press)

Oklahoma City's Red Skins rode high on top of the Texas league heap, maintaining a baker's dozen lead in the standings by victory yesterday, 3-2, in the third and last game of a series with the San Antonio Missions.

The Fort Worth Cats on the other hand, were tumbled from the first division by Galveston, on a winning spree of seven in a row. The score was 6 to 1.

Tulsa salvaged the final game of a series with Beaumont 6-0, and the Dallas Steers choked off a ninth inning rally to break even with Houston 5-3.

Virtually All Favorites Are Still In Women's Tourney

ST. PAUL, Aug. 24 (AP) — Virtually all the favorites remained in the running as match play in the 37th annual Women's Western golf tournament got underway today over the town and country course.

Mrs. Opal Hill, veteran of many national and international tournaments in the past decade, set a new competitive course record of 75 in winning the qualifying medal yesterday.

Second in the qualifying, all with 78's, were Patty Berg of Minneapolis, Mrs. E. F. Cary of St. Paul, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Texas, and Virginia Ingram of Chicago.

Palestine Prexy Denies Club Will Not Finish Season

PALESTINE, Aug. 24 (AP)—A. M. Burns, president of the Palestine Pals, today denied reports his club would not finish the current East Texas league schedule.

Burns entered a protest Sunday night at a meeting of league directors at Tyler against the Marshall club, charging it had used an ineligible player.

The directors decided Marshall must bench outfielder Lou Prierson. Burns and two other club owners voted for forfeiture of the games in which Prierson was used.

The Pals, now in fifth place, still have a mathematical chance to get in the title playoff.

Par Proving Tough For Amateurs

Last Stand Is Scheduled On Soggy Course

BY FRANK GORRIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 24 — Any competitor who aspired to win medal qualifying honors in the National Amateur golf tournament, as the reduced field of 150 sharpshooters made a last stand for the 64 match-play places today, faced the almost necessary task of breaking par over the rain-soaked course of the Alderwood country club.

Arthur L. Doering, jr., of Chicago, the No. 1 man of the Stanford golf team, and Frank Strafaci of Brooklyn, former national public links title holder, were the only contestants of the starting field of 171 able to turn the trick in yesterday's downpour.

Set Wicked Pace

They set a wicked pace with 71s, one under par, and they teed off with the pressure tougher than ever against them, but with a one-stroke lead over the mob, nevertheless.

First away, however, were eight competitors who were caught by darkness at 7:20 o'clock last night, and were forced to finish the last two and three holes of the opening 18 this morning.

Mat Palacio, jr., of San Rafael, Calif., had an excellent chance to join the leaders as he needed only two pars for a 73.

Yesterday the weather looked fine at the outset but the clouds brought torrential downpours at times during the morning, and light rain fell intermittently in the afternoon.

Scores Soar Higher

Scores soared and the experts figured 156 or 157 for the 36-hole route would be good enough to place in the match-play competition starting tomorrow.

Doering set up the pacing score of 71 with cards of 38-33 over the par 37-35 course. Strafaci counted 37-34.

Right on their heels with perfect cards of 72 were Eddie Hogan of Portland, Ore.; Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Harry Givan of Seattle, recent repeater in Pacific Northwest amateur and Walker cup member last year, Robert Babbish of Rochester, Mich., and Roger Kelly of Los Angeles.

Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, the defending champion, picked on too many trees and traps to give the gallery much of a thrill, and wound up in a tie with 16 others at 76. He had a pair of 38s. Joining Fischer were such well known performers as Eddie Held of Denver, former public links and Trans-Mississippi winner; Freddie Haas, jr., of New Orleans and Don Schumacher of Dallas.

Crosbyton Wins In Donkey Ball Game

CROSBYTON, Aug. 24, (Special) —Crosbyton's jackasses either were more amenable to reason, or something, and Lions of that city batted out a 5 to 2 donkey polo win over a service club aggregation from Lubbock last night.

The five innings required only a few hours. Those who had roles in the saddle last night will attempt to play again Wednesday night, when a return game is played at Lubbock.

Home Run Is Feature

Outstanding in Monday's game was the home-run by J. R. Ormand, principal of the Crosbyton schools, which cinched the match for the local aggregation.

Donkeys used in the game have been trained especially for this type of sport.

Sports Gossip: Scribe Bets Jim Braddock To Get As Many Cheers As Old Manassa Mauler

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP)—Two guys who are going places in baseball are Dan W. Hill, president of the Piedmont league, and Earl Mann, boss of the Atlanta Crackers. . . . One big league club is said to have its eye on Mann as boss of a planned farm system. . . Southern fans who went wild over Al Schacht say he has developed a half dozen new acts.

It's going to be a tough break for Purdue university (and all football, for all that) if Nobel Kiser isn't able to coach again. . . . As the date of the big fight nears, it looks more and more like a $250,000 gross for Louis and Farr. . . Among the ex-champs at the ringside will be Jack Dempsey, James J. Braddock, Jack Sharkey and Max Baer . . . Bet you Braddock rates as many cheers as Dempsey when they are introduced from the ringside. . . . The Giant front office is getting durned good and tired of denying that new Terry contract report and may make it official any hour now.

Only superstition of Tony Lazzeri, Yankee second sacker, is a clean home plate. . . He deliberately kicks dirt over it every time he's in the batter's box . . . Yes, the umps get sore. . . Survivor Of Forest Fire Tragedy Relates Experience; Trapped On A Rock Ledge

EDITORS NOTE: Erl Davis, federal bureau of public roads employee, was among the persons trapped and seriously burned in the forest fire which cost 12 lives near Cody, Wyo. From his hospital bed, he gave this version of his experience to the Associated Press.

* * *

By ERL DAVIS

CODY, Wyo., Aug. 24 (AP) — We were damned lucky to escape. Another five seconds and we would have cooked.

It was nobody's fault that anyone was trapped in the blaze. A high wind sent the flames every which way and no one could have prevented the tragedy.

A party of us was working trying to block the fire off a clearance near timberline Saturday afternoon when the flames shot around us.

There were eight of us and about 50 CCC boys from Tensleep. H. S. Post of Buffalo, Wyo., was in charge of the CCC contingent and Burt Sullivan, bureau of public roads foreman, was directing our crews.

Found Ourselves Surrounded

As we worked our way up the hill, we suddenly found ourselves surrounded by fire which had broken out from "spot fires" on all sides of us. We were on the tip of a rock ledge and were completely penned in.

For a time we just sat there, hopeful the wind would take the searing flames away from us. As we watched the round ball of fire advance we thought we were gone.

We lay down among the rocks with our faces to the ground and prayed something would happen. We couldn't get out.

Could Hear Awful Roar

We could hear the fire approach —it's roar was awful—and its flames licked out and scorched our backs like a hot iron. I know we all felt we were washed up.

Billy Lee and two CCC boys broke away from the group and ran into the flames in an effort to escape. Lee, poor chap, is dead now. I don't know what happened to the two CCC boys.

Then the flames roared over us.

We just lay there exhausted from the experience. We had to wait three hours for the ground below us to cool off so that we could walk to safety and help. As quickly as it cooled off, some of us left.

Another five seconds in that searing heat under that round ball of fire would have cooked us all.

Duncan, Okla., Team Still In Running For Baseball Title

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 24 (AP) — Duncan, Okla., national semi-pro baseball champion of last year, was still in the race for the 1937 crown today following its 7 to 1 triumph over Arkansas City, Kas.

In last night's first game, Wichita Kas., put Baltimore, Md., out of the meet, 7 to 5.

Tonight's schedule: Buford, Ga., vs. Enid, Okla., 8 p. m. Asheboro, N. C., vs. Mount Pleasant, Tex., 10 p. m.

Battlers Will Taper Off In Bouts Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP)—Amid the noisy but so far ineffective beating of the ballyhoo drums, brown-skinned Joe Louis and rugged Tommy Farr today get in their final training licks for Joe's first defense of the world heavyweight championship.

Louis, whose preparations have gone like well-oiled clockwork, is scheduled for his last six rounds of sparring, at Pompton Lakes, N. J. Farr, in keeping with the slightly hysterical atmosphere which has pervaded his Long Branch, N. J., headquarters, has announced his intention of going the equivalent of 25 rounds to make up for a rained-out session yesterday.

To Arrive Thursday

They'll both take it easy tomorrow and come to New York Thursday morning to weigh in and rest a while before they clash for 15 rounds or less in the Yankee stadium Thursday night.

Partly because it is the second title bout in a year that has seen the important heavyweights in the ring a good many times, and partly because no one has conceded the British empire champion any sort of a chance, the public has shown little interest. Unless ticket sales take a sudden jump in the next two days, the gate is not likely to go much higher than $300,000, with Farr reported to have been guaranteed $60,000.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, still hopefully predicting a $300,000 gate, took steps to remedy this situation yesterday by announcing firmly that

Rudy York Hitting Home Runs At Fast Clip; His Average Is Better Than DiMaggio's

DETROIT, Aug. 24. (AP)—Rudolph Preston York, the big Detroit Tiger rookie who plays five or six positions and is now catching, is hitting home runs at the fastest rate in major league baseball.

York has hit 23 circuit drives in 67 games while Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee star who leads both big leagues, has clouted 36 in 106 games. On the basis of times at bat York is hitting for four bases approximately every 10.8 trips as compared with 12.2 for DiMaggio.

Unofficial figures also show York driving in runs at a swift rate, 69 in 67 games.

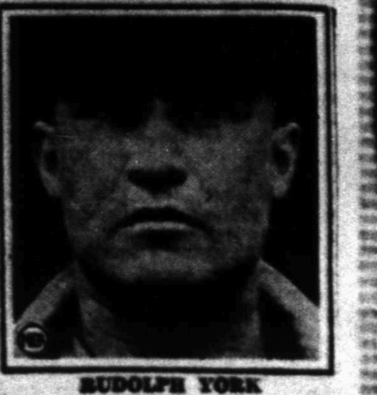
Although York might not be able to maintain his rate over a full season, fans in Chicago, St. Louis and Detroit who have watched York recently appeared convinced the big rookie is no flash in the pan.

York's batting average is approximately .275. He has been moving up since Manager Mickey Cochrane told him to put on the mask and shin guards in the middle of the last eastern trip.

York had been on the bench while the Tigers were being drubbed by the Yankees and Red Sox on that trip. Earlier he had played third base while Marvin Owen was out with a broken hand. By choice he plays first but his next preference is outfield.

In Boston Cochrane considered using York as a pitcher but didn't act on the idea. When the team got to Philadelphia Cochrane, convinced his team lacked power more than pitching, told York to catch.

* * *



RUDOLPH YORK

York, who caught several seasons ago in the Texas league, has been the regular backstop since then and the Tigers have climbed back into second place.

"I expect York to lead the major leagues in home run hitting within a year or two," Cochrane said.

Three Tiger catchers, Ray Hayworth, Birdie Tebbetts and Cliff Bolton, were benched for York.

York, 24 years old and part Indian, was voted the most valuable player in the American association last year. He played first base for Milwaukee but was unable to displace Hank Greenberg when he came to the Tigers.

Now Greenberg says of York, "that fellow is beginning to make me look like a bunter."

Stars Of 1936 Arrive For Football Training

DALLAS, Aug. 24 (AP) — Headline-makers of the 1936 intercollegiate football campaign will begin arriving in Dallas today for first practice Wednesday of the Dutch Meyer and Matty Bell coached Pan-American All-Americans.

After an intensive twelve day period of training, they will clash on the night of Sept. 6 with the professional Chicago Bears in the south's second big football dream game in the Cotton bowl.

Two Stars Added

Two unexpected additions were made to the squad today, bringing the total to twenty eight. They are Steve Toth, 200 pound fullback of the Northwestern university Wildcats, and Joe O'Neill, pass-snaring wingman of the Notre Dame Ramblers.

Expected to report here Wednesday were Walter Roach, T. C. U., Bill Stages, Texas A. & M., Charlie Needham, T. C. U., and Buck McCarn of North Carolina, ends; Bob McGee, Santa Clara, Drew Ellis, T. C. U., and John Whitfield, Texas A. & M., tackles; Bolon Holt, T. C. U., Paschal Scottino, S. M. U., and Lionel Rodgers, Santa Clara, guards; Charlie De Ware, Texas A. & M., center, and Bob Finley, S. M. U., Ney Sheridan, University of Texas, Johnny Stovall, North Texas Teachers, Al Londe, University of Missouri, Fred Funk, U. C. L. A., and Sam Ages, Vanderbilt, backs.

Play In Softball Tourney Is Started At Post Monday

POST, Aug. 24, Special) — A thrilling 2 to 1 decision of Tahoka over Postex Mills of Post last night initiated play in a district softball tournament. Play will continue each night, with seven clubs entered.

A homerun with two aboard in the seventh inning boosted Tahoka's score from naught and proved satisfactory to take the opener from the Mills. The Mills team managed to force across a run in the second inning, but failed to tally afterward. Erby Boyd, Postex pitcher, hurled shut-out ball with exception of the fatal seventh.

Tonight's match will be between the Hale Grocery team of Spur and Post All-Stars. Wednesday night will see the Spur Ramblers tackle a team representing radio station KFYO at Lubbock. The Meadow firemen drew a bye. Finals will be played Saturday.

Max Schmeling would not be seen in the ring with the winner this year. He gave the lateness of the season as the main reason.

The first airmail trip in the United States was on May 15, 1918, between New York and Washington, D. C.

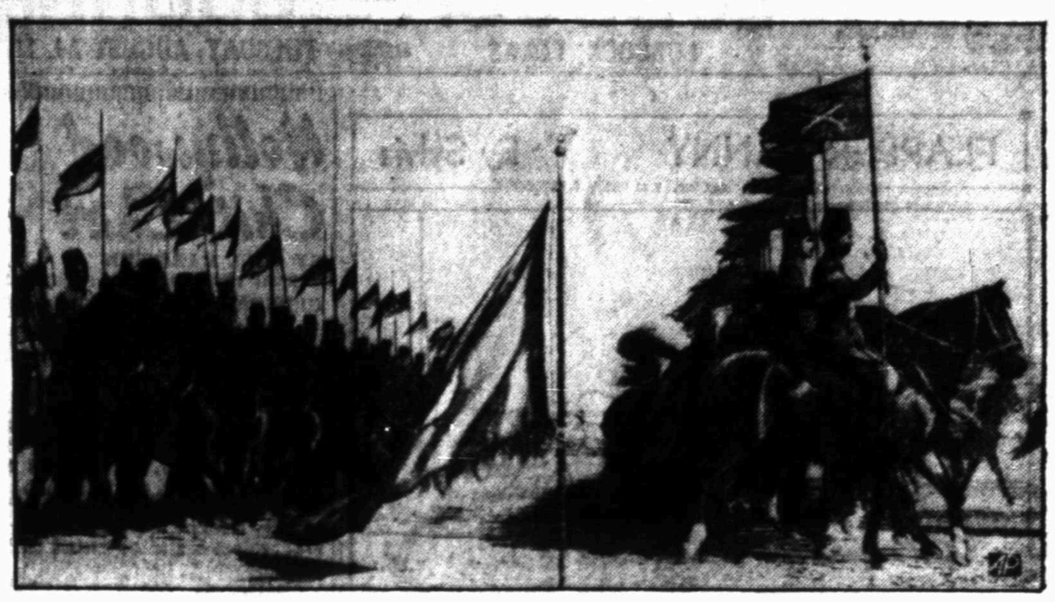
—The News Of The Day Through The Camera's Eye—

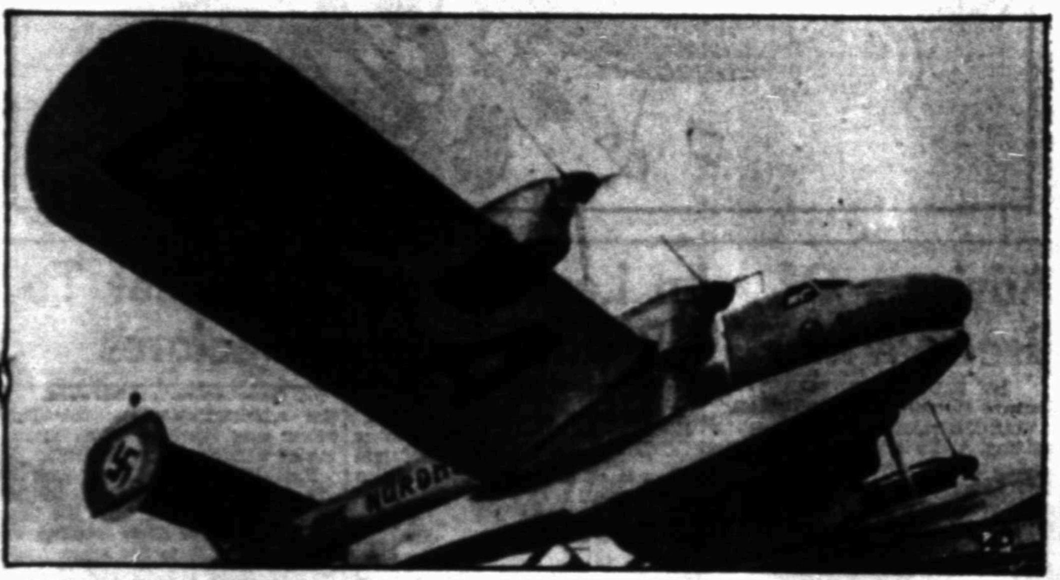
NO. 1 RACQUETEERS. Alice Marble of San Francisco, national women's tennis champion, and Donald Budge, men's singles champion, met at the eastern grass court tournament and discussed plans to defend their championships at Forest Hills, N. Y., late in August.

SHE ALSO SINGS. Phyllis Randall, 21, Hollywood singer and dancer, was chosen "Miss California," and will compete in the Atlantic City "Miss America" contest.



MAKE WAY FOR THE KING. Swarthy sons of the desert, guardians of the Nile, holding standards of Egypt aloft, formed a picturesque cavalcade as they rode in review past young King Farouk after his investiture. Theirs is the task of protecting the rich valley of the pharaohs from invasion by any foreign power as Britain relaxed her protectorate over the ancient nation.

PHARAOH ON A PONY. Following his investiture as ruler of Egypt, 18-year-old King Farouk, first real monarch of the land of the pharaohs since Cleopatra, sat astride his charger to take the salute at the impressive review of his military forces.

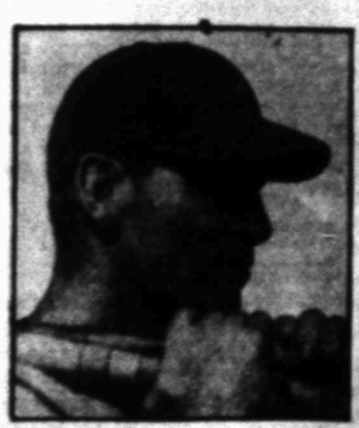


GERMANY'S ATLANTIC LINER. Here is the German flying boat Nordmeer which was scheduled to enter the race to establish trans-Atlantic air service with eight survey flights to New York. The 17-ton flying boat, powered by four giant diesel motors, is launched from a catapult ship. A twin seaplane, the Nordwind, also will participate in the test trips across the sea.

TONGUE TWISTERS. If you st-st-stutter and c-c-can't say "alfalfa" or "Eunice" or "potatoes," just study these faces of trouble tongue twisters who met at the Arkansas stutterers' convention to discuss their various t-t-trou-trou—difficulties. Men were in the majority at the meeting where it was estimated that a million persons in the United States, most of them men, stutter.

HIS HOUSE DIVIDED. Jeremiah T. Mahoney, pro-New Deal candidate for mayor of New York, was labeled a "Roosevelt" candidate by Tammany foes. The President denied interest. Mahoney, shown with James A. Farley, accused Al Smith, Tammany leader, of going over to the Liberty League.

BACK IN SPOTLIGHT. Into political limelight stepped Herbert Hoover with the suggestion that the G.O.P. "take stock of party position" prior to the 1938 elections through a convention. Chairman John Hamilton, shown with the former President, would make no comment on the plan.



SPORTS ACE. Clarence "Ace" Parker, 1936 all-America football back with Duke, is now a shortstop with the Philadelphia Athletics.

GREAT OPERA. Meeting in Honolulu, Shirley Temple and Tito Schipa, did a duet for the natives.

OFF THE RECORD. While Princess Juliana of Holland was posing for the court photographer, her husband, Prince Bernhard, sneaked this candid camera study of the attractive heiress to the throne in the land of windmills and dykes.

UP AND OVER. It seemed rather early and sort of summerish for football, but the Los Angeles Bulldogs, pro team, started out on practice sessions to prepare for an early opening season. Here Orv Mathews, former USC star, is giving the line a once over.

FIERY FIORELLO. In the midst of New York's red-hot mayoralty race stood Mayor La Guardia, not a Democrat, nor yet strictly G.O.P.

RIDES THE TIGER. Backed by Tammany for Democratic mayoralty nomination, Sen. Royal S. Copeland hurled bitter words at the New Deal.

OH, MISTER SHAW. George Bernard Shaw is shown as he received the hearty congratulations of a lady admirer on his eighty-first birthday at Malvern, Worcester, England. The playwright celebrated by watching the first performance of his new play, "The Millionairess."

POLITICS IS HOT. Midsummer political activity hit a new peak this year in both parties. The Illinois farm of Frank O. Lowden (left) was reported in Washington to be the scene of a planned Republican pow-wow, which would include both Alf Landon (right) and former President Hoover.

The new salesman swung jauntily into the home office.

"Well," he announced to the boss, "I got two orders from Goofus & Co. yesterday."

"Fine," said the boss. "What were they?"

"One was to get out—and the other was to stay out!"

SOMETIMES wonderfully kind and beneficial ideas come out of deep sorrow or tragedy and one of those times seems to be in connection with the New London school tragedy of last spring.

According to the State Observer of Austin, John Lumpkin, an oil company executive, vowed when his only child was lost in the explosion that he would, in the future, give as much of his time and effort possible in helping people — especially children.

He set as his goal the hauling of 100 children and parents to Sunday school each Sunday. He purchased a 50-passenger bus, which he drives himself, and last week made his first run.

His first run netted 20 children and one mother. He picks up the passengers at their doors, transports them to their respective churches and then calls for them and takes them home.

How much better it is for John Lumpkin to honor his dead son's memory by serving others, than to give way to being sullen and morose!

Under his plan the boy's memory will never die.

Senator Guffey, of Pennsylvania, makes big talk about "rebels" being driven from the "ranks of our party."

What does he mean, "our party?"

He's no more Democrat than Herbert Hoover and his record shows his Republican connection with Pennsylvania's Mellon gang.

"Our party"—nuts!

He's just another free rider on the bandwagon.

ONE of our sleuths down in Austin reports that things look pretty certain for a West Texan to be lieutenant-governor after the 1938 elections.

Only two candidates have their lightning rods up and both of them reside in the West. They are Senator Wilbourne Collie, of Eastland, whose brother, J. T. Collie, is a longtime resident of Lubbock; and former House Speaker Coke Stevenson, of Junction.

Senator Will Pace may run and, of course, if he does it is no cinch that the next lieutenant-governor will be a Westerner. Senator Pace resides in Tyler and would be stiff opposition for anybody.

AFTER the death of Will Rogers, a good many newspapers started skirmishing around for someone to write a brief feature which would somewhat acceptably fill the void caused by the loss of the great humorist's daily stint.

Governor Tom Berry, of South Dakota, who looks like Will Rogers but who isn't as funny, was tried.

Irvin Cobb, who neither looks like Will Rogers or is as funny, was tried, along with others who names escape us now.

Then came Bob Burns.

* * *

Newspaper editors snatching at straws gobbled up the Burns daily story as fast as salesmen appeared with contracts.

Burns was funny on the air and in the movies. He ought to be funny in the papers, too, so "Well, I'll Tell You—" was born and, in most instances, was slugged "Page 1, Must."

For awhile Bro. Burns was pretty good. Then he slipped and now most of his humor is of the vintage of 1910.

As a result, a lot of editors are just waiting for contracts to expire before starting another search for the elusive "successor" to Will Rogers.

The Plainsman personally thinks it will be a long time hence, if ever, when there appears upon the national scene a worthwhile successor to the great Oklahoman.

* * *

WHILE they are not philosophers by any stretch of the imagination, it occurs to The Plainsman that George and Mrs. Burns—who is Gracie Allen, professionally speaking—are a couple of good bets which have been overlooked.

Not that their crazy cracks can be compared to the writings of Will Rogers, but they are usually funny—much, much funnier, we think, than any of the boys who have gotten a play as the wearers of the Rogers mantle.

Just to give you an idea of the possibilities of Burns and Allen in the papers, here's a part of a column they wrote, free for nothing, for George Ross who writes a daily New York column for The Journal, but which The Journal doesn't regularly use.

The Plainsman, while no golfer, thinks it's pretty brightly done and some smart syndicate guy might well take a whirl with Burns and Allen.

The bit is dubbed "Shooting Under Par", and is based upon George Burns giving golfing advice to Garrulous Gracie.

* * *

Here goes:

"ME—To the beginner in golf it is first of all important to obtain a variety of clubs, such as the putter, the driver and the mashie—

"GRACIE—Why, George, that isn't right. First of all you get those dice—

"ME—What dice?

"GRACIE—Those dice you roll on the pool table, of course.

"ME—If you'll pardon me, Gracie, as soon as I pardon you for interrupting my dictation—I thought the game under discussion was golf.

"GRACIE—Wasn't it, George? I thought so, too.

"ME—It was. As far as I know you've never played golf, therefore if you just sit quietly by, you'll get the fundamentals.

"GRACIE—I think I'd rather learn the easy part first. But I did play it once, and we did use dice, and it was golf!

"ME—Wait a minute, Gracie—what kind of golf? Are you sure it wasn't called African golf?

"GRACIE — African, Australian, American, Mexican—what's the difference, George? Golf is golf.

"ME — Mexican golf? Whoever heard of such a thing?

"GRACIE—How can you sit there writing like an authority and say that you never heard of Golf of Mexico?

"ME—You win, Gracie. To continue, however, with our first golf lesson. Let us take the driver and address the ball.

"GRACIE—Just like a man. Take a nice new ball and get it all spotted up with ink or indelible pencil.

"ME—I repeat, let us address the ball, with the driver.

"GRACIE—If you mean that boy who carries the golf-bag, George, he isn't called the driver, on account of why should he be? He's called the caddy.

"ME—NEVERTHELESS, it is essential to have a driver.

"GRACIE—And don't forget the driver's license.

"ME—Gracie, this is not advice on what to do with an automobile; this is a column concerning a golf club.

"GRACIE—Then you ought to remind them first to join the golf club.

"ME—Thank you, Gracie.

"GRACIE—Tell them about my famous motorboat shot, George.

"ME—Which one would that be?

"GRACIE—The one where I go putt-putt-putt.

"ME—I'm afraid, dear reader—if you're still here—I'll have to give up 'Advice to Golfers' for the time being, and start work on something to be known as 'Advice to Gracie.'"

* * *

MAYBE you'll say The Plainsman's sense of humor is screwy—which is entirely possible, since anything is possible in this cockeyed world.

But to us, this little Burns and Allen skit is considerably better than nine-tenths of the humor one sees in the newspapers today—including that done by the so-called successors to Will Rogers.

Chapter 50
Race Against Fire

A great sweep of wind bent the treetops with a roar as of distant ocean waves.

Both men started, and glanced up, then Josh Hastings slumped back again.

"Get me out of this damned uncomfortable position, can't you?" he rasped.

Ted made no answer, as he gazed anxiously at the white clouds that scudded past overhead, and sniffed the faint acrid smell that began to penetrate the fragrance of the pines. Ignoring Josh Hastings' groans and protests, he pushed ahead, his alarm growing as the hours passed, and the wind continued to rage with ever increasing velocity.

There was no telling how fast the fire might travel under these adverse conditions! A brownish haze obscured the sun, and already it was hard to make out the outlines of the distant ridges. He could just see the bold profile of the central divide, with the cut of the pass through it, as he plunged down into a canyon. The next time he emerged it was lost in the fast growing smokiness of the atmosphere.

Josh Hastings, who had lapsed into a semi-conscious state of wrathful resignation, scanned Ted's face as he came back from his last survey of the ridges. The light had perceptibly dimmed, and the two men coughed continually with the irritation of smoke in their lungs.

"Nice mess you've made," Hastings groaned. "Head over to the west, can't you? Or do you want us both to be cremated?"

"I've got to get to the south ridge of the central divide," Ted doggedly set off again, pushing his way through the timber as the darkness fell, and ignoring the sporadic outbursts of Josh Hastings, who alternately commanded and pleaded with him to make for the western divide.

But though Ted could ignore Josh Hastings, there was no ignoring the conviction that if Marion had kept her promise and stayed in the shack, she was in definite danger of being cut off.

He came to a sudden decision.

"I'm leaving you here," he announced gruffly, and pulled Josh Hastings off his horse roughly. "I've got to make faster time. The chances are a hundred to one you're safe here. And they are a hundred to a hundred, I'll be back!"

Disregarding the curses Josh Hastings screamed after him, Ted raked the flanks of his reluctant horse, so that with a wild snort, he finally plunged ahead into the darkness.

At The Murder Scene

After a few hours together, Kay and Marion felt as though they had known each other always. Their eager exchange of confidences had left very little that they did not know about each other, and their mutual liking had ripened to a real feeling of friendship.

Taking a chance on leaving the hut long enough to let Kay show Marion where she had found the steel stud that she had later identified as coming from Josh Hastings' gauntlet, they went up in the early afternoon to the scene of the murder.

Kay carefully stepped off the distances and outlined her theory, after relieving Flicker of his saddle and tethering him by some of the luscious feed near the water.

"We have nothing but the vaguest circumstantial evidence against Josh Hastings," she explained. "But what we have combined with the proof of his guilt in that other case, should at least prove strong enough to discredit him, if nothing more."

"The trouble is, that discrediting Josh Hastings isn't going to be enough to clear Ted's name," Marion worried. "I wonder if it wouldn't be better for him to disappear for a while, after all?"

"No!" Kay declared proudly. "This is the time for him to clear his name. And then, if what you say about his feeling for me is true—" She left the sentence unfinished, but the color that flooded her cheeks ended it for her.

"If only Dad is safe, and I can make him see reason, we might have a double wedding," Marion suggested. "I know you'll like Hal as much as I do Ted."

Forgetting their anxiety for the moment in their absorbing plans for the future, the two girls made their way back to the shack, pushing against the wind that swept up from the south.

The Smell Of Smoke

"I hope this wind will die down," Kay exclaimed anxiously. "I don't want any more fires to reckon with! And there might be a chance of its reaching our timber ridge, although Shorty assured me it couldn't."

"Of course it can't," Marion soothed. "These winds always spring up around noon, and die down again almost as soon as they've started."

"It seems to me the smell of smoke is much stronger." Kay sniffed the air.

"Of course it is, with this wind." Marion pushed ahead. "That doesn't mean anything. But we must get back! We've been away too long now."

Once back at the clearing, sheltered by the surrounding timber, the acrid burning smell was less noticeable, and the girls forgot the fire in the absorbing discussion of their more personal affairs. They decided to have an early supper, and then take turns watching, so that one would always be on the lookout.

Marion insisted on Kay having the first rest, and promised to wake her at 10 o'clock. Leaning back on her bunk, she watched Kay in the flickering light of a single candle. Kay had thrown herself down on the bunk that Ted had occupied, and in no time at all, was fast asleep.

Watching her through half-closed lids, Marion mused on the strange coincidence that had brought these two to her, and she let her thoughts wander down the vista of the years, seeing a wonderful friendship ripen between Hal and herself, and Kay and Ted.

Gradually her eyes closed entirely, and her head drooped to one side, as the relaxed sleep, that had so long been denied her in her lonely vigil, crept over her unawares. The candle flickered lower and lower. Finally it sputtered and went out, leaving the shack in inky blackness, but there was no movement from either of the exhausted girls.

It was hours later, when Marion suddenly sat bolt upright coughing and rubbing her eyes.

"Kay! Kay!" The note of terror in her voice roused Kay, who struggled to a sitting position.

"What is it? I—" she broke off coughing.

Ted rescues the girls as the flames close in about the cabin, tomorrow.

Today's Journal Editorial . . .

WE CAN'T SAFELY KEEP IT UP FOREVER!

The United States State department is having to draw a very fine line these days for the protection of its nationals in Shanghai.

And as The Journal sees it, it is time for a fine line to be drawn.

Secretary Hull is sending 1200 additional marines across and will ask for an emergency appropriation of $500,000 to aid in relief and evacuation, but announces that the government will not continue forever to protect stubborn Americans who insist on remaining in China.

Is it too much to hope that the State department means exactly what it says? The marines, reinforcements for those already stationed with the legation in Shanghai, won't arrive for five weeks.

U. S. nationals will be repeatedly warned to leave, Secretary Hull says. Barring transportation complications, wouldn't it be reasonable to assume that all Americans who haven't left by the time the additional marines arrive, and who show no inclination to do so then, are definitely "on their own"?

Having made them cognizant of their danger and offered them opportunity to get out, might not the government disclaim all responsibility for them?

And just step out and leave the whole mess?

The Journal thinks so. What do you think?

A Thought . .

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

This is the first of seven stories by Paul Harrison on the funny girls of Hollywood, and how and why they got that way.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24 — Most woman comics are either dour and dead-pan, wise and waggish, or foolish and fluttery. The movies seldom have enough of any type, which is why the Hollywood gaggals are so busy that their friends and families seldom see them except on the screen.

That's the reason, too, why a promising new comedienne can attract more attention locally than many a potential glamor star. Especially a comedienne such as Joan Davis. She can be acidulous, silly or smart. Also she can be violent. This latter fitness for the exertions of low comedy is of primary importance because most of the feminine funsters go in for the gentler nuances of nonsense.

Miss Davis, though, can dish it out and she can take it. She can take it on the chin, or anywhere, preserving a certain dignity the while and seeming to enjoy it.

In 10 months she had 10 roles of varying strenuousness beginning with a bit part in "The Holy Terror" and ending with a week in a hospital after "Sing and Be Happy." Two of her latest pictures, "Thin Ice" and "Life Begins in College," have not yet been released. Twentieth Century-Fox producers are squabbling over her services for future films. A particularly choice assignment for this fall probably will be the part of Mary in "Sally, Irene and Mary."

• • •

Has Green Eyes

She is just under five and a half feet tall, has green eyes, a nice figure, a deceptively quiet voice and manner, and she recently turned 26. But Miss Davis has been in the show business ever since she was 7 and doing a single on the Pantages circuit billed as the "Toy Comedienne." In 19 years she has played everywhere from Manhattan's Palace Theater, when it was the last stand of the two-a-day, to theaters so small —

"—so small," declared Miss Davis, "that the manager of one of them asked me not to take any more bows because I was scattering dandruff in the lobby."

To go back even farther than that, Joan was born Josephine Davis, in St. Paul, Minn. Her parents were not actors, but she always has figured that she inherited a sense of timing from her father, who was — and still is — a train dispatcher.

• • •

Silence Was Thunderous

One evening she braved an amateur bill to sing a song and do a serious little dance of her own devising. Her performance laid an egg, the silence was thunderous. Instead of going home in tears she went home mad. Next evening she went to another theater and did the song and dance again, but this time for comedy. She won first prize. After grabbing 27 consecutive firsts on amateur nights she turned professional and was taken on tour by her father.

They did very well, with few of the vicissitudes encountered by most troupers. True, they did have a little trouble in New York the first time, where Papa Davis was brash enough to defy the law against children-on-the-stage by representing his little daughter as a midget.

"It wasn't until I was 15 that I finally appeared in New York. By that time I was out of the midget class and could pass for 18."

As long as she was a solo performer, mostly doing hayseed song-dance-and-patter, Miss Davis met only with such violence as she could inflict upon herself. But life became more strenuous when she teamed with Ben Blue. They did a comedy adagio act, and for the finale she was supposed to leap into his arms from the top of a flight of steps. Sometimes he'd catch her and sometimes he'd just step aside and let her crash. He and the audiences thought this was very funny.

• • •

They Didn't Get Along

For one reason and another, Mr. Blue and his partner didn't get along very well. So she teamed with an actor called Si (real name, Serenus) Wills. She said, "I figured the only way to get any laughs out of the act was to marry the guy. So I did, in August, 1931.

"I kept right on taking falls—neck-falls, pratt-falls, any kind of falls. We got out of our rube costumes and went into evening clothes. It was pretty expensive, getting splinters in evening gowns. I didn't mind 'em in me so much; I was tough.

"The worst splinter I ever got was from a stage in—of all places on earth — Grand Rapids, Mich. Probably a golden oak splinter.

"Anyway it broke off in me and I'll never forget what a time a doctor had getting it out. He tried a couple of times and I was actually too tough to cut! He had to get out a little whetstone and sharpen his knife. I had hysterics, which was as good as an anaesthetic."

• • •

A Sucker In Poker

The Wills, Joan and Si, have a 4-year-old daughter named Beverly. "The other day I took her to a party and everybody fed her and she had to have castor oil afterward," said Miss Davis. "So right now she thinks Hollywood is kind of rough. But she's going to be a comedienne or know the reason why. Keeps asking us when she can go to work. We may have to give her some papers to sell.

"Si is telling all over Hollywood that I gave her a nickel to go to bed early, and then went in and stole the nickel, and next morning gave her a licking for losing it. Of course that isn't true. It was a quarter, not a nickel."

Joan and Si (he's a radio script writer now) were not struggling young hopefuls when they came to Hollywood last winter. They already owned a nice house in Beverly Hills which they used for summer vacations from the stage. The pair were headliners, always busy, and saved quite a lot of money after Wills put Miss Davis on an allowance of $20 a week.

"Before that," she confessed, "I was such a sucker for blackjack and poker that actors would take a cut in salary just to be on the same bills with me. They knew they'd win all my money right after payday."

Joan Davis likes Hollywood. She also likes to dance and go to movies and ride horseback and play with Beverly. She sings, but never had a voice lesson. Her musical education was confined to two years' serious study of the violin. At the end of that time she was able to play "Pop Goes the Weasel."

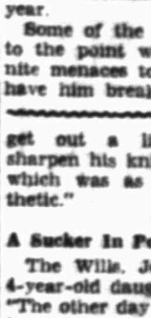
Advisors Of John Lewis Urge CIO Chief To Break With FDR, Rodney Dutcher Declares

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—The national radio address which John L. Lewis will deliver the Friday before Labor Day is expected to be an attack on enemies of the C. I. O., an aggressive defense of the new labor movement and a statement of C. I. O. policies.



Dutcher

There will be another Lewis speech on Labor Day.

Lewis is more than likely to enter the political field in one or both speeches. But he hasn't decided yet what tacks to take and which ones to leave out. He has been consulting with a large number of advisers. If the seriousness with which Lewis takes his speech of Sept. 3 is indicative, it will be one of the momentous addresses of the year.

Some of the advisers are radical to the point where they are definite menaces to Lewis. They would have him break with Roosevelt, be contemptuous of "public opinion," declare flatly for a farmer-labor party now and ignore moderate counsels of other important union chiefs in C. I. O.

• • •

See Lewis' Tactics

Some of the other leaders have worried about the sourness of Lewis toward Roosevelt and the former's seeming obliviousness to C. I. O.'s increasingly bad public relations. One C. I. O. leader privately wisecracked:

"John expects Roosevelt to go on the picket line while Mrs. Roosevelt collects money for strikers and the Roosevelt children recruit new union members. We think Roosevelt has done all for union labor that we can reasonably expect."

Some men close to Lewis keep whispering that his glowerings at Roosevelt are just tactics—designed to get the last ounce of administration help he can. Others insist Lewis is genuinely sore because he hasn't had "enough" help from Roosevelt in the steel strike. It is difficult to pass judgment on this point, aside from pointing out that some C. I. O. leaders think Lewis expects too much and some don't.

For many weeks Lewis has been laying low as a strategic maneuver, ignoring the public. To friends who have urged him to make public defense against attacks on C. I. O. he has heretofore replied:

"Why the hell should I do that? We're gaining members, aren't we?"

Lewis claims 3,000,000 members for C. I. O. and says 2,000,000 have been added in the last year. The A. F. of L., although it lost about a million when C. I. O. unions moved out, claims about the same total and nearly 700,000 new members in the last year.

High Court Ambitions

Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, Hoover nominee for the Supreme court who was turned down by the Senate several years ago after strong labor and negro political lobbying, still yearns for a seat on the highest bench. Sitting as head judge of the fourth circuit court of appeals—which covers parts of the Carolinas, Virginia and nearby border states—he has surprised most folks by various pro-New Deal decisions. But the two statements have no necessary connection. A conservative lawyer says of Parker:

"He tries to be conservative, but he can't."

One of the charges that helped block Parker here was that he had been a lawyer for public utilities. But he has conspicuously upheld the administration in the Duke power case involving PWA financing of municipal power plants.

Recently Parker undertook to show up Chief Justice Hughes, who had adjourned with his court for the summer after sending the Duke case back to the lower courts because of a technicality of omitting one word in a pro-New Deal decision. (Hughes was believed to have done this in order to avoid a threatened 4 to 4 decision.)

Parker at once went to District Judge Glenn, urged prompt action, got a decision from Glenn in May, set a session of his own appeals court for Aug. 3 and produced another favorable decision, with the technical omission repaired, in three days. This midsummer speed, his friends believe, was aimed by implication at Hughes and was another indication of Parker's Supreme court ambition.

National Association Of Life Underwriters Are In Session

DENVER, Aug. 24 (AP)—More than 2,000 insurance men, sounding the theme of "you don't have to die to get it," gathered here for the opening of the 48th annual convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

Shortly before calling the convention to order, Theodore M. Riehle, president of the association, announced United States life insurance companies have paid out a grand total of $41,900,000,000 since 1845, when the first company was founded.

"As late as 1900," Riehle said, "only one person in eight owned life insurance. Today every other person holds a policy."

Riehle, deprecating the "you have to die to win" conception, declared that in 1936 "$1,460,000,000 more than 60 per cent of the total paid out in that one year, went to living policy holders."

Farmers in Cheyenne County, Nebraska, have formed precinct organizations—not for political purposes but to fight grasshoppers. Crews will scatter poison bait over the entire county.

R. R. Donaghey, Vernon, Wins 112th Representative Race

WICHITA FALLS, Aug. 24 (AP)—R. R. Donaghey, Vernon attorney, was elected representative from the 112th district, comprising Wichita and Wilbarger counties, in Monday's special election.

On virtually complete returns from both counties, Donaghey had a clear majority over his four opponents. The election was to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Rep. Albert D. Walker of Vernon.

Gov. Allred Is Fined At San Angelo Legion Session For Voting For 'Ma' Ferguson

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 24 (AP)—Gov Jimmy Allred was fined here Monday afternoon for voting for "Ma" Ferguson.

Charged by a deputy marshal, the governor was arraigned before the "Judge Roy Bean Court," holding supreme over the city, and found guilty of voting for his erstwhile opponent. The judge, typical Law West of the Pecos court, found the governor guilty and fined him 10 cents and costs and 10 minutes in one cell jail located on the street in the downtown business section. "He paid the fine."

Bruce Brannon of Laredo acted as judge in the court which sentenced the governor. The funds raised by the court will go to the welfare work of ex-service men and to aid in expenses of the "Wreck," held by the 40 and 8.

The cigar box used as a cash register was heavy with silver as the dimes poured into the coffer at the close of the second day of court. The revealing of telephone numbers or jail sentences were alternatives offered all attractive women arraigned before the judge.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24 (AP) — Cotton opened steady today at net declines of 1 to 3 points and then dropped a few points lower in first trades to make new season lows.

Liverpool cables were lower than expected. Also contributing to the decline were recent rains in the northwest, belief that the government loan would be set at 9 cents and steady spot sales.

Oct. opened at 9.55, Dec. at 9.69, Jan. at 9.74, March 9.80, May 9.90, and July 9.96. A few additional points were lost in the early trading.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 4 to 9 lower due to easier Liverpool cables and foreign and southern selling. Oct. 9.53; Dec. 9.58; Jan. 9.62; March 9.70; May 9.83; July 9.88.

Perdue Is Selected Association Head

(Special To The Avalanche)

PLAINVIEW, Aug. 24 — George Perdue was named president of the association of former Seth Ward college students at the annual banquet here Saturday night. There were 85 present.

Other officers named were: Elliott Tracy, vice-president; Mrs. J. B. Cardwell, secretary and Mrs. Welcome Ragland, treasurer.

Herbert S. Hilburn, editor of the Plainview Herald, welcomed the visitors and Lamar Forrest, Lubbock and Lamesa, responded. Memorial services were held for those former students who died during the past year. Mrs. Cardwell was in charge and Mrs. C. E. Moreman of Lubbock of Lubbock was among those assisting.

An interesting program was held. Stokie Bishop of Dallas was toastmaster.

Six-Year-Old Child Is Victim Of Thousands Of Angry Bees

LANDER, Wyo., Aug. 24 (AP)—His face and body swollen beyond recognition from the strings of thousands of angry honey bees, six-year-old Clifford Fabricius, son of a Riverton valley farmer, died here today.

The boy was found, screaming with pain, on the muddy bank of an irrigation ditch near his farm home after his 10-year-old brother, Harry, had staggered into the house hysterical.

Alex Fabricius, father of the boys, said "thousands of bees" from a nearby apiary were swarming over Clifford.

COLLIN CHILD IS DROWNED

McKINNEY, Aug. 24 (AP)—Four-year-old Patsy June Smith drowned today when she stepped off a bridge into a swollen creek as she played in the rain near her home at Princeton, six miles east of here.

League Is Asked To Halt Attacks

(By The Associated Press)

GENEVA, Aug. 24 — The Spanish government asked the League of Nations today to stop "the criminal conduct of the Italian government in attacking Spanish merchant vessels.

Although the appeal was filed under the League of Nations covenant article which permits a member nation to summon a meeting of the league council, government Spain left with the president of the council the decision of whether a meeting would be called.

RUSH TO DEFEND CITY

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 24 (AP)—Shopkeepers, chauffeurs, mechanics and fishermen of desperate Santander rushed to the defense of their besieged city today.

Despite a series of government counterattacks, insurgents held a spearhead in the fortified ring southeast of Torrelavega, defense outpost of the city which is the last main government-occupied port on the north Spanish coast.

(An Italian official in Rome said Italy's attitude would be to ignore the protest. He said Italy could not take seriously "constant accusations from Valencia by a government not recognized by this nation.")

Article eleven of the league's covenant, which the Spanish government invoked today, provides that the league "shall take any action that may be deemed wise . . . to safeguard the peace of nations."

Peace Has Been Threatened

Peace has been threatened by "incidents" in the Mediterranean, Spain declared.

The Spanish appeal referred particularly to sinking of the government tanker Campeador on Aug. 12 and death of several of its crew.

Education Need In Texas Cited

(By The Associated Press)

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 24—Dr. T. O. Walton, president of Texas A. & M. college, today told rehabilitation workers for the Resettlement administration that he could foresee nothing for Texas agriculture except decadence unless the general level of education among rural families is raised.

Doctor Walton, who recently returend from a European tour, said that the success of cooperatives in Denmark was made possible by folk schools established nearly 100 years gao.

Denmark Level Higher

"The level of intelligence in Denmark" he said "is nearly twice that of many of our states and nearly three times that on our own beloved Texas."

Paul V. Maris of Dallas, acting regional director for the RA, said the administration was seeking to make a specific contribution to a broad agricultural program.

Clifford Day of Plainview, vice president of the Texas Agricultural association, called cotton loans and subsidies "a soothing syrup to try and make us forget a permanent agricultural cure, a permanent farm program."

More than 300 rehabilitation workers are here for a six-day conference.

Ginnings Show Gain Over '36

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 — The census bureau reported today that cotton of this year's growth ginned prior to August 16 totaled 514,675 running bales, counting 5,094 round bales as half bales.

Ginnings to August 16 last year totaled 208,500 running bales including 487 round bales. Two years ginnings were 317,139 running bales, including 892 round bales.

Ginnings by states were:

Alabama 6,337; Arizona not included, Florida 1,114, Georgia 19,947, Louisiana 32,624, Mississippi 6,398, Texas 447,784, and all other states 471

Posey Gin Is Reported To Be Ready For The Season

The Posey gin, owned by F. B. Tudor of Slaton, is in readiness for the season, the owner reports.

Some cotton in that section of the county is opening, but Tudor said he did not expect a first bale until next week. Prospects in and around Posey are good, he added.

Local Men Remember Their Anniversaries Because They're Often Reminded Of Them

Lubbock men "always" remember their wedding anniversaries because they are "reminded of it enough."

"How can we forget it?" they chorus.

Employ Strong Hints

Women complain they are forced to use subterfuge in order to get their husbands to buy presents. They have to employ strong "hints."

One man gave his wife a $1,000 sterling silver tea set for their anniversary. Another sent her a wire in mid-ocean, in lieu of a gift. Some men never give presents to their wives—and save money and excuses.

One woman "got mad" because her husband brought her a set of china which broke her fine dishes—because of their weight—when they were washed together.

Forgets The Date

One man "couldn't tell the date of our anniversary if I had to."

Jewelry stores thrive on anniversary trade. One store sold more silverware for anniversaries than anything else. Next came jewelry. Another store sold more watches. Men, the storekeepers said, were not embarrassed at purchasing anniversary gifts, but, "rather proud."

Florists say men are not forgetful about flowers for anniversaries. Flowers most frequently purchased are carnations, roses, gladiolas, asters, and marigolds. Sometimes the men tell florists the kind of bonquet they want and sometimes they "just leave it to us."

AFOL Plans Probe Of Non-Partisan League

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 24 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor executive council directed William Green today to make an investigation of Labor's Non-Partisan League with a view to withdrawing A. F. of L. support.

"Some reports come to us that, instead of being what its name implies, it's a C. I. O. organization," Green said in explaining the councils action

"If we find out it is definitely a C. I. O. outfit, we will advise our local officers to act accordingly."

"We will advise them that support given that agency (The Non-Partisan League) would mean support to C. I. O." he elaborated.

Green asked whether he thought the country would be ready for a labor party in 1940, said:

"I'm inclined to believe the leaders of the C. I. O. intend to set up a labor party, and when they do we'll find out whether the country is ready for it.

"I said from the first that the C. I. O. was founded for political as well as economic domination of the country."

Houston Lad Finds He Can't 'Bail Out' Of Airplane Ride He Forced Pilot To Make

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Aug. 24 — Jack Hammerly was told today he couldn't "bail out" of an airplane ride he took last Wednesday.

The 19-year-old Houston lad, charged with robbing a taxi driver and kidnaping an airplane pilot 200 feet in the air, was bound over to the grand jury without bail at a preliminary hearing.

"I hate to bind you over without bail," Justice J. M. Ray told the young defendant, "because three good ladies from Huntsville and your own mother have begged me not to. But there's nothing else I can do.

"But let me tell you son, if you happen, by any streak of luck to get through the other courts, you cut out this kind of foolishness."

Bill Ray, taxi driver, testified that he picked up young Hamerly at his home and was told to drive to the Minor Stewart airport 10 miles out.

When he neared the airport, Ray said, Hamerly drew a pistol and ordered Ray out of the cab. Hamerly then drove away in the taxi, the driver added.

Robert Hunt, 21-year-old pilot, said Hamerly appeared at the airport and said he wanted to take a 15-minute ride. When they got in the air, the pilot said, the youth prodded him in the back with a pistol and told him to keep on flying.

"We're going to Laredo," Hunt said Hamerly told him.

Hunt said they landed in a pasture near Sugarland because the gas was running low. They started toward a group of buildings and discovered it was a prison camp.

"We can't stop here, let's take off again," Hamerly was quoted as saying.

They took off and landed again in a pasture three miles from Rosenberg.

While Hamerly was bargaining with a farmer for some gasoline, Hunt said he seized the youth and disarmed him.

U. S. Public Debt Is At New High Monday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (AP)—The public debt, increasing steadily since 1930, rose above the $37,000,000,000 level today to a new high.

Exact figures were unavailable, pending compilation of today's fiscal records, but treasury officials said the sale of $50,000,000 in discount bills lifted the gross debt above $37,000,000,000.

This figure compared with $33,401,000,000 a year ago, $16,185,000,000 in 1930, and $26,596,000,000, the war peak, in 1919.

Present federal obligations represent a debt of about $285 for every person in the country, compared with a per capita debt of $257 a year ago.

Frazier Is Held In Sweetwater Jail

Bob Frazier, former Lea county, N. M. resident, was placed in Nolan county jail at Sweetwater Monday by Deputy U. S. Marshal C. E. Luce of Lubbock to await transfer to New Mexico to face charges there.

He is charged in federal court with the burglary of and theft of funds from the post office at Eunice, N. M., July 29.

Transferred To City

Before committing him to the jail at Sweetwater, he was transferred here by Luce from Seminole where he recently was arrested by authorities there. The complaint against the man, sworn to by Frank Taylor, United States district attorney at Fort Worth, before J. A. Feagin, acting United States commissioner there, set out Frazier broke into a building "used in part" as a postoffice "with intent to commit larceny" and stole postal funds amounting to $358.03 and stamp funds valued at $65.45. The complaint also set out Frazier was a fugitive from justice.

When in Sweetwater Luce released Robert Southard whose $1,500 bond was approved yesterday by Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. commissioner. Southard was charged recently with violation of United State counterfeiting laws.

Texan Escapes Hasty Death

FORT WORTH, Aug. 24. (AP) — Flier Charles L. Sharp, jr., formerly of Fort Worth, at first reported killed and later reported wounded Monday in China was learned to be neither last night, but it was not the fault of an angered Chinese army colonel.

Word of the young pilot's narrow escape from summary execution came after the fears of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Sharp, were allayed by information that he was safe.

Young Sharp, flying for the China National Aviation corporation, a subsidiary of Pan-American Airways, was ordered from Hankow to Nanchang ostensibly to return with a cargo of currency for Shanghai banks, according to messages received by Rev. Mr. Sharp. At Nanchang soldiers began loading the large air transport with ammunition. Sharp promptly began removing the dangerous cargo from the ship.

Ordered To Be Shot

Then, Rev. Mr. Sharp was told, a Chinese colonel ordered a soldier t shoot the aviator. As the soldie delayed, the officer seized the rif and shoved home the bolt.

It was death or obey instruction for Sharp and he hastily agreed t convey the ammunition. When h related his experience on his arriva at Shanghai, officials agreed tha flying operations should be suspend ed until a cessation of hostilities.
