Many Dramas In School Tragedy

Third Worst School Fire

CHICAGO (AP)—The fire that struck Our Lady of Angels School Monday was the third worst school fire in the nation in the last 100 years and the worst in Chicago in 55 years.

The greatest school disaster occurred March 18, 1937, when 294 died in a school explosion and fire in New London, Tex.

The other major school fire claimed 176 lives in the Collinwood School in Cleveland March 4, 1908. The worst fire in Chicago took 602 lives Dec. 30, 1903, when the Iroquois Theater burned.

In June 5, 1946, 61 persons perished in a fire in the LaSalle Hotel, Chicago.

There have been 26 fires in this country in which as many as 50 persons died. Two were school fires. Only eight fires with such a loss of life have occurred in the last 20 years, none of them in schools.

Worst of these recent fires was the Coconut Grove Night Club blaze in Boston Nov. 28, 1942, in which 498 died.

Other fires with major losses of life in the last two decades are: Dec. 7, 1946 — 119 dead in Wine-coff Hotel fire, Atlanta, Ga.

Oct. 20, 1944 — 135 killed in Cleveland liquid gas explosion and fire.

July 6, 1944 — 168 dead in Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus fire at Hartford, Conn.

April 23, 1940 — 198 killed in Negro dance hall fire at Natchez, Miss.

Hospitals Plead For Blood Donors

CHICAGO (AP)—Hospitals treating the injured in the Our Lady of Angels School fire appealed to the public today to help by donating blood. Between 400 and 500 donors are needed immediately.

Hospital officials urged that potential donors call one of four blood collection centers instead of the hospitals caring for the injured. They are:

Chicago Blood Donors Service; Michael Reese Hospital Research Foundation; Beverly Blood Center; and Interstate Blood Bank.

No Classes For 'Several' Days

CHICAGO (AP)—Pupils of Our Lady of the Angels school will not return to classes for several days, Superintendent of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese School Board said today.

Memorial services are planned for the 87 children and three nuns who died in the fire.

No program for intensified inspection of parochial schools has been discussed, Msgr. McManus said. Inspection for fire hazards are made by the fire department and other city agencies.

$50,000 Damage In School Blaze

CHICAGO (AP)—Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn today estimated that the damage to the Our Lady of the Angels Grade School was $50,000.

Fight For Defense Increases Spurred

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy was invited by Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) today to put up a fight for a substantial increase in defense funds in the new budget.

Basic decisions on the size of the administration's military budget may be made at meetings of the National Security Council Wednesday and Thursday.

Chavez, who heads the Senate's Defense Appropriations subcommittee, said in an interview he understood McElroy wants more money for the military than President Eisenhower's fiscal advisers are willing to see spent.

"I'm on McElroy's side," Chavez said. "If he will fight for the funds he needs, he will find the majority of Congress behind him. We're going to vote every penny needed for national security."

In the past, Chavez's subcommittee generally has voted to increase defense spending above the total previously allowed by the House, which acts first on all money bills. In most cases the subcommittee's decisions have been upheld by the full Appropriations Committee, which will be controlled by a 2-1 margin by the Democrats in the new Congress.

McElroy has hinted that next year's military budget request may be a billion dollars higher than the current $40,800,000,000 level of defense outlays.

Eisenhower has been attempting to hold the total of defense and all other spending down to keep

BUSY DAY FOR SANTA CLAUS
Big sleigh parked in front of courthouse

Santa Grooms Thousands Of Youngsters On Visit To City

Santa Claus probably won't lose any time getting off to the Land of Nod tonight.

The apparently tireless old gentleman took time out from his busy pre-Christmas rounds to spend the day in Big Spring, visiting personally with thousands of youngsters and mentally logging their Christmas requests.

The line of children waiting to see Santa wrapped nearly half way around the courthouse square at times. First, second and third graders were given recesses from school and were taken by bus to the downtown district in order that they might see Santa.

School buses and vehicles from Webb AFB and Howard County Junior College participated in the massive shuttle on a close schedule that was in effect from 9 a.m. until nearly 3 p.m.

Mingling with the school children were the hundreds of preschool youngsters and their parents.

Some 2,000 of the 5,000 bags of candy furnished by the Chamber of Commerce were distributed before noon.

The Ritz Theatre also was doing a booming business with its offering of free comedies. Scores of mothers parked their children in Christmas shopping.

Santa's visit officially opened the Christmas season here. Lights on downtown street decorations were turned on for the first time last night.

Also launched Monday was the first of three Santa's Smart Shopper contests to be conducted on successive weeks between now and Christmas.

Next big event on the Christmas schedule is the religious parade to be staged by local churches on the evening of Dec. 16.

$300 Worth Of Tools Stolen

About $300 worth of tools were stolen here Monday.

The police reported that B. H. Robinson, 1203 Sycamore, had the carpenter tools in a garage and they were taken from there. In addition, a bicycle was taken.

The Auto Super Market, 905 W. 4th, reported loss of a tire and wheel, and A. F. Overton, 602 W. 4th, lost the chrome finishing from a headlight on his 1958 Ford.

A trailer hitch was stolen from H. A. Burner, 812 W. 3rd. At Big Spring Court, Bob Dietz reported a .22 caliber pistol stolen.

Evangelist May Preach, Not Touch

DALLAS (AP)—Evangelist Edwin Tiemann and his wife may preach to their hearts' content in front of downtown Dallas theaters, but they must not interfere with the theaters' business.

That was Judge Claude Williams' judgment yesterday in 160th District Court in a suit brought by Interstate Circuit, which sought to stop the sidewalk evangelists from preaching and carrying signs in front of the Majestic, Palace and Tower theaters.

Interstate had alleged that Mr. and Mrs. Tiemann interfered with business by exhorting patrons not to enter because they would be sinning and would go to hell.

Reds Demand U.S. Pull Out Of Asia

TOKYO (AP)—Communist North Korea and North Viet Nam demanded today that the United States pull its troops out of South Korea, Japan and the Formosa Strait and "stop interference in South Viet Nam."

They charged in a joint communique that American was blocking peaceful unification of both Viet Nam and Korea.

CHEERLESS CHEER?

The CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND, wholly dependent upon unsolicited gifts, went cheerless Tuesday. Not a soul mailed in a contribution to the Herald or handed one to the city firemen.

And that didn't look good for the poor kiddies who look to the CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND for something besides another day on Dec. 25.

Thus far, only $25 has been received for the fund.

Every gift will be gratefully acknowledged by the Herald, and every penny will go for its intended purpose. This is first of all to provide toys, principally through the repair and renovation of the hundreds of items which people graciously give. Fire Chief H. V. Crocker anticipating the usual good response to the CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND, had ordered upwards of $800 in spare parts for bicycles, tricycles, wagons, and materials for repairing dolls, tiny furniture and a host of other toys.

So you can see that help is urgently needed. The only appeal you will have is this one on the Herald. This is no pressure campaign, but one of unsolicited generosity. Won't you send in what ever you want to give to the Herald or hand it to the city firemen?

Year's Building Total One Of City's Highest

With the $222,625 in new construction started in November, the city's building valuations for 1958 soared past the $4.4 million mark.

This already ranks 1958 among the five best construction years in history with another month to go.

The total for the year could go over the $5 million mark since the permit for construction of two dormitories at HCJC, which will total over $467,000, hasn't been issued.

The total for the 11 months thus far is $4,422,530 and at this time last year, the total was only $3,489,960.

The $222,625 in building last month came from 57 building permits issued by the city, and it ran the total of permits issued this year to 919. During the entire year last year, only 757 permits were issued.

During November of last year, the city issued only 36 permits for construction totaling $114,415.

Only four years in Big Spring history have recorded more building in the entire year than the 11 months of 1958.

Record-setting 1948 hit $7,136,395. It was $5,773,690 in 1952, $4,685,190 in '50 and $4,286,895 in '56.

Pastors Slate Special Program

The Big Spring Pastors Assn. will discuss the visit of a national, known Baptist minister here at their meeting Wednesday morning.

The association meeting is scheduled for 7:30 a.m. in the First Presbyterian Church. Dr. P. D. O'Brien, First Baptist minister and president of the association, will be in charge.

Dr. R. G. Lee, pastor of the Bellevue Baptist Church in Memphis, Tenn., is scheduled to be here the evening of Dec. 9. He plans to deliver a sermon, "Pay Day Someday," that has become so much in demand he has preached it more than 600 times.

Jury Picked For Civil Suit Trial

A jury was selected to try a suit for compensation brought in 118th District Court Monday afternoon and instructed to report to the court on Wednesday morning for duty.

The case, styled James H. Banks versus Texas Employer Insurance Co., is scheduled to begin at that hour.

However, there were reports at the courthouse that negotiations are under way and the case could be settled by agreement before it is called for trial.

It is the only civil case on this week's civil jury docket in the court.

Youth Injured In 'Cycle-Car Mishap

Edward Martinez, about 15, who lives at 500 N. Nolan, is in Big Spring Hospital with a broken ankle as result of a motorcycle-car mishap on U.S. 80 near the Air-base road at 5 p.m. Monday.

Highway patrol officers and deputy sheriffs investigated the accident but details as to just what happened were not complete. River Funeral Home ambulance took the injured youth to the hospital.

Involved in the accident was Johnny Phelps, 15, of Ellis Homes, who was driving a 1955 Ford.

Flash Fire Sends Worker To Hospital

One Latin American was burned when a flash fire occurred at the Reef Fields plant at Vincent Monday.

Treated at Malone & Hogan Hospital for the burns was Benny Gomez who lives at the Vincent plant. He was the only person injured, and no damage was reported to the plant.

Red-Trained Army

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesians will train in Communist Czechoslovakia to use military equipment purchased there, the government announced today.

The announcement did not specify what equipment was involved in the recently signed technical assistance agreement.

Fire Causes Light Damages To Truck

Small damage was sustained in a fire here Monday.

A truck owned by the United Oil & Grease Co. of Abilene caught fire while unloading at 307 W. 3rd. Firemen from the main station extinguished the blaze after only a small amount of damage was done.

3rd Worst School Blaze In 100 Years

CHICAGO (AP)—Grim investigators today shook off the shock of Chicago's worst school fire and strove to find the answer to this question:

"How did it happen and why?"

The fire that flashed through Our Lady of the Angels School Monday shortly before closing time cost 90 lives—87 children and three nuns.

More than 85 youngsters remained in hospitals.

It was Chicago's most disastrous blaze since the Iroquois Theater holocaust in 1903 and the third worst school fire in the nation in 100 years.

The flames shot up in the two-story brick building like fire from a blowtorch. Heat and smoke trapped the victims on the upper floor of the north wing of the U-shaped structure.

Twenty-four bodies were found in one room. Most of them were jammed near windows. Firemen, sickened by the spectacle, said a few of the children were still at their desks, apparently paralyzed by fear and panic.

Others leaped from windows.

The little survivors suffered from burns, bones broken in falls and the shock of the horror they beheld.

C-C Board Hears Year-End Reports

Monday was report day for Chamber of Commerce directors season and the end of the chamber's fiscal year.

Manager Bill Quimby gave a terse account of all the Christmas shopping season plans, including Santa Claus' visit today and the big parade Dec. 16.

Directors approved recommendations that the Patterson sales course be given the green light. They also affirmed the plans for the annual banquet, acknowledging that it will be held in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College.

The tab will be $3.50 per plate. Speaker will be Russell Manion, former Notre Dame law school dean and an outstanding speaker.

Looking also to the end of the year, the meeting of the nominating committee at 5 p.m. Wednesday was announced by Clyde McMahon, chairman. R. H. Weaver, chairman of the by-laws committee, said that some revisions in the by-laws was being contemplated.

Reports also were heard from the highway committee and the proposal accepted by the city commission to boost the highway sign population figures past 30,000.

Parker Jr., 4; Rosa, 19 months and Fay, 7 months died before their sleeping parents could rescue them from the blaze. Both parents and another child suffered serious burns. ## Stunned Relatives Identify Their Dead

By EDMUND D'MOCH
CHICAGO (AP)—The acrid stench of burned bodies and clothing hung heavily over the morgue at the Cook County Hospital today.

Inside, scores of priests and hospital attendants tried to comfort bereaved relatives still trying to identify the bodies of schoolchildren who died in Monday's fire at Our Lady of the Angels Roman Catholic School.

Ninety sheet-covered bodies lay on stretchers in three rooms of the morgue basement. Some had been identified within hours after the fire.

Some fire-blackened bodies contorted in agony may never be identified.

Among white-clad nurses and morgue attendants could be seen the frocked figures of priests. Here was one with his arm around the shoulder of a weeping woman, trying to console her.

"It was the will of God," was heard in a low whisper from the priest. "Your daughter is an angel in heaven."

The woman wept unrestrainedly.

From the other side of the room came a shriek. A woman collapsed and immediately attendants rushed to her, easing her into a chair and administered smelling salts.

Nearby stood a couple in their 30s. Pale, dry of tears, they fingered a rosary, their lips moving wordlessly. The man had said earlier his daughter was not reported in any of the half-dozen hospitals to which many of the children had been taken. The couple came to the morgue, but had not looked at any of the unidentified children. They were praying she still might have only been injured, perhaps still in a hospital through some mixup in names.

Hovering among the parishioners was Father Joseph Ognibene. This 32-year-old priest, a native Chicagoan, came to Our Lady as the parish was known, in 1952. It was his first assignment after ordination.

He was "Father Joe" to everyone.

It was his daily routine to walk about the schoolyard and near the entrances during recess, the noon lunch period and as the children left the building at 3 p.m.

Monday, Father Ognibene met an old friend for lunch. They dined at the table. Then he noticed it would soon be time for his young parishioners to leave school for home.

"I was hurrying to the school in my car," he said. "I saw smoke coming from the upper windows and drove my car the wrong way up a one-way street. I parked the car and ran into the building."

"Some children were leaving the building in an orderly fire-drill manner. Others were running about, screaming. Then everything was ablaze."

"I tried... I wanted to... It was the will of God."

When the first bodies began arriving at the morgue, Father Joe was asked to make tentative identification. He "knew the greatest force of the fire was concentrated in the section housing Rooms 207, 208, 209, 211 and 212."

Scores of these children he knew by name. All were his friends.

Yet, when he had to identify them by name, or grade he could only whisper: "I'm not sure of this little one... I think this one was in 209. This boy was... I'm not sure."

He pressed a thin, shaking hand to his temple. For a moment, it appeared that he might collapse. An attendant slipped a bottle of salts to the priest's nostrils and he straightened up, backing away from the pungent odor.

Then he walked among the bereaved relatives. He stopped, talked with a weeping father.

"It was the will of God, Stanley. Your daughter is now an angel in heaven."

Churches Get Together For College Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Catholic bishop offered a prayer. Bowing their heads were a Jewish rabbi and ministers of the Baptist, Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Latter Day Saints, Congregational and other denominations.

Thus began the birthday party for an organization that for 30 years has confounded those who claim that the great American religions cannot work together.

The clergymen and 200 others Monday night celebrated 30 years of the University Religious Conference, a unique experiment in interfaith unity.

The dinner was held at the conference's new $500,000 building next to the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles.

In 1928 the various religious groups sought a meeting place to propagate faith amid the free-thinking students of the era. State law prohibited any such move by the university.

One of the founders, now Catholic Bishop Thomas K. Gorman of Dallas, told how it started: "We were suspicious of each other. We weren't used to working together and one might think the other had an ulterior or underhanded motive."

"We weren't going to compromise. It was not a question of compromise but of achieving what we could only do together."

As the conference grew it attracted wide interest.

Executive Director Adaline Guenther said the religions have worked well together because the founders wisely "planned for no wiping out of differences, but chose instead the harder way of recognizing the importance of all differences and learning to live with them."

She told of the conference activities: a student-run camp for 650 underprivileged children; the Panel of Americans—young speakers who tell of their religious and racial backgrounds; and one of the most far-reaching, Operation India. In seven summers UCLA students have talked to half a million students in India. They have been credited "with doing more than a little to break the power of communism in the Indian student world," said Director Guenther.

Scientists Term Competition Good

HOUSTON (AP)—Don't fret if the Russians mark up scientific break-throughs before the United States. Uncle Sam won't be far behind — and he'll be ahead at times.

That's the word from two Nobel Prize winning scientists who think Mr. and Mrs. America get their dander up a shade too high with every trumpeting of Russian accomplishments.

Competition's good for the scientific game, they say. Stirs 'em all up.

"We should not look on this as a football game," Dr. Felix Bloch, physics professor at Stanford University, said.

"This is a cooperative thing. If the Russians make an advance, we will be able to find it, too."

Dr. P. J. Debye, Cornell University physicist, nodded in agreement.

"It does us good. It shakes up people," Dr. Debye said. He won his Nobel Prize in 1936 and Dr. Bloch in 1952.

Dr. Debye was born and reared in Holland and Dr. Bloch in Switzerland.

Come nuclear-powered aircraft or what have you, Dr. Bloch said, it "doesn't make much sense to worry over whether the U.S. or Russia is ahead on the scientific front."

Science is not the private domain of any one nation. Dr. Debye said.

"People think it is so terrible when the Russians come out with something new," he said. "It is not rational. Such events merely stimulate our work."

If a scientist in one nation advances to a new achievement, he said, there are others working in the same field who are soon to follow.

But the two agreed with another Nobel Prize winner, Dr. E. M. Purcell of Harvard University, who said the United States should worry about its field of education. "I am afraid that here is really where the crux of our deficiency lies," Dr. Bloch said. "I am not sure that science education in general is not better in Russia and Europe than it is here."

The scientists were interviewed at the Robert A. Welch Foundation's annual conference on chemical research. Aim of the conference is to promote chemical research in Texas.

Jack Spratt Contest Set

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP)—This hearty-eating city is going to find out who can eat the most — the fats or the leans.

The leans can weigh up to 165. The fats must weigh 210 or more. They will compete in an eating contest Dec. 18.

Sponsors are the National Gastronomic Academy and the National Assn. of Chefs.

The ground rules warn: "The promoters disclaim any responsibility whatsoever for any damage real or imagined now or in the future to the health of contestants. They stuff at their own risk."

Contestants can come from anywhere in Italy.

Sole dish for the contest will be a standby, tortellini in brodo. The tortellini are little, round, meat-stuffed pastas, shaped like doughnuts and tasting like ravioli. They're served in rich broth.

Just to eliminate the pikers, contestants will have to gulp their way first through three bowls of tortellini — each dish weighing a pound—in 45 minutes.

Those who can still hold a spoon and fork after that are in the finals.

They get one dish after another of the tortellini for 90 more minutes. The one who puts away the greatest poundage of it in that time is the winner.

He will be awarded a golden tortellini.

Children Left At Home Die In Fire

AUSTIN (AP)—Two children burned to death in their home here yesterday. The mother was at work and the father was out looking for a job.

The dead were identified as Harold Washington, 5, and Leon Washington, 4, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Washington.

The house was burned to the ground. Mrs. Washington said her husband called her earlier in the day to say he was leaving the house. He told her the younger son had set fire to a paper sack and a chair but he extinguished the flames.

Firemen said they did not know the cause of the fire.

DEAR ABBY

CHEERFUL MEMORIES

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The letters from the 82-year-old woman who wanted to live alone sure hit home with me. Why, oh, why wasn't my Aunt Alice like that? My mother's old maid sister came to live with us when I was 10. She couldn't eat this and didn't like that and all she did was complain and criticize. She almost drove my poor mother crazy, but Mother always gave into her and wouldn't let us kids say anything because we were supposed to "respect our elders." We never went on a vacation because Aunt Alice didn't care for motor trips and we couldn't leave her home alone. Dad was easy-going and didn't interfere. Besides he was gone all day. Mom and Dad have passed away, but Aunt Alice is now where she should have been 30 years ago. With her own generation in a rest home, still complaining and criticizing. I wonder how many others have had their childhoods ruined by an "Aunt Alice"?

DEAR ABBY: I am almost positive that my wife has another man at the house while I am at work, but I can't get any definite proof. Little things like the place smelling of smoke (neither of us smoke) packets of matches from places I have never been and I even found my razor wet once. I don't want to come out and accuse my wife in case I am wrong, but I have to find out. I can't afford to hire a private eye. Please advise me how to handle it.

NEEDING PROOF
DEAR NEEDING: If you found your razor wet, I'd say it was a pretty close shave for some guy blade. Don't build up anything in your own mind. TELL your wife of your suspicions and give her a chance to defend herself.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to the sweetest boy in the world. I don't know how this should be put, but here goes. I've dated William for three years and I've never once seen his ears clean. He is very well groomed other than this. Also his mother never taught him table manners. William is studying to be a minister so I think cleanliness is very important and table manners, too. Should I be the one to tell him about these things or maybe wait until after we're married and then mention them? I've tried hinting around but it doesn't work. He's so sweet I hate to hurt him.
DEAR MARYANN: A young man who is old enough to be "engaged" is old enough to take constructive criticism like a man.

Tell him as diplomatically as you can, but tell him soon.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of four children. My husband is 22 and still wets the bed once in a while. He doesn't want to see a doctor. With four children and my husband's problem I have my washing machine going seven days a week. Please tell me what to do in a case like this?

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: INSIST that your husband see a doctor. This could be a symptom of something far more serious than the inconvenience of washing constantly.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DEAD BROKE: Of course you're "dead broke." Never drink on an empty wallet.

Teacher Pay Looms As Big Controversy

(Editor's Note: This is another in the series of stories based on results of an extensive mail survey by The Associated Press on thinking of the members of the 56th Legislature.)

By FRANK N. MANITZAS
AUSTIN (AP)—More pay for teachers will be an issue in the Legislature but the lawmakers are not sure what the outcome will be.

The legislators also agreed the report by its own Hale-Aikin committee of 24 which has studied the public school problem from the grass roots up will cause a controversy. If adopted, its recommendations would cost taxpayers about 225 million dollars more in 1960-61.

"Salaries to teachers are still too low," Rep. William Kilgazin of Houston said in answer to a poll by The Associated Press in a survey of legislators' views.

"Everybody wants some more money," another representative answered.

"Hell no," was the unsigned answer by a member to the question of pay boosts. He wanted to remain unknown, he said, "because I don't want to get the teachers mad at me yet."

But Rep. Maud Isaacs of El Paso, one of the three women in the Legislature, gave the answer that 44 per cent of the members indicated was their thinking. She said:

"I should like to see teachers given more money, if the taxes to provide it can be raised without a sales or income tax or even a gross receipts tax."

Ten per cent of those answering the statewide poll gave a sharp "no" on more money for teachers. Thirty-four per cent had no comment, and 12 per cent said they were undecided.

More than 40 per cent of the members answered the poll saying education ranked among the top three issues they will face beginning Jan. 13.

Leon Thurman, new representative from Anson, said he planned to sponsor a bill to give teachers more money.

The Hale-Aikin committee's tentative recommendations include a $600 pay raise for public school teachers, increasing the school year from nine to 9½ months and perhaps 10, and providing additional teachers and more buildings for overloaded schools.

The committee rejected any type of federal aid for construction. But it finally agreed federal aid for school lunches and vocational education would continue to be accepted.

The teachers got a pay raise last year, but it was only after the bottom of the treasury was dredged.

"Certainly there will be a controversy on the Hale-Aikin committee's report—what part of it to carry out and where to get the money to follow its recommendations," said Rep. Ted Springer of Amarillo.

"Salary increases and longer school terms will be the big fight," Rep. George Hinson of Mineola said. "I expect an attempt to shift more financial responsibilities to the local school district, perhaps on a 7-30 basis."

Rep. Den Johnston of Houston, a new member, said: "It is rightfully expensive but even more necessary."

Rep. Bob Bullock of Hillsboro tossed the problem of pay raises back to the people. He suggests a constitutional amendment whereby the people would vote on whether to increase teachers' salaries.

Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro, Gov. Price Daniel's floor leader last session, commented only that teacher's pay was the No. 3 major problem for the lawmakers.

Rep. W. W. Glass of Jacksonville said: "The Legislature cannot possibly consider these proposals, along with the other work prescribed for it during the first 120 days of the session. So these proposals, if enacted into legislation, will have to go to a special session."

NEW OFFICE BUILDING FOR CLYDE McMAHON CONCRETE CO.
Modern, spacious facility is nerve center for extensive operations

PUBLIC INVITED

McMahon Opens New Facilities

McMahon Concrete Co. will observe "open house" from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday in its new office building at 605 N. Benton.

The public is invited to inspect the new facilities, said Clyde McMahon. Coffee and donuts will be served throughout the day.

The new building, of masonry construction and affording 1,440 square feet of floor space, was especially designed by the architectural firm of Gary & Roberts for McMahon's operations. The structure houses McMahon's office, a contractors' plan room, accounting offices, plant dispatcher's equipment and allied facilities.

It is located adjacent to McMahon's main ready-mix concrete plant, and is in constant communication by radio with the firm's four other concrete plants and fleet of 20 vehicles.

Clyde McMahon has been in the ready-mix concrete business here since Nov. 1, 1953, when he purchased the facilities of Pruitt Concrete Co. Previously, McMahon had been in the sand and gravel business here since the fall of 1950.

He had been producing sand, gravel and other road materials throughout West Texas since 1947.

Last spring, McMahon sold his sand and gravel operations to the R. E. James Gravel Co. and since then has engaged exclusively in the ready-mix concrete business. McMahon operates permanent plants at 605 N. Benton and at 3300 Eleventh Pl., and has three portable plants now operating on a semi-permanent basis. One is at Coahoma where McMahon is producing some 19,000 cubic yards of concrete for U. S. 80 improvements. Another is situated at the site of the Capehart Housing development near Webb AFB, and the third is operating at Webb under the direction of the Corps of Engineers in the construction of Air Force facilities.

The company regularly serves the area within a 40-mile radius of Big Spring, and provides concrete for more remote sections through transfer of the portable plants.

McMahon personnel will be on hand to show visitors through the new facilities Wednesday.

U.N. Assembly Drags Into Its Home Stretch

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Assembly today dragged into the home stretch of one of the least eventful sessions in its 13-year history. There appeared little to stop the world body from winding up on schedule Dec. 12.

The 81-nation main Political Committee pressed to conclude debate on the Cyprus issue by midweek. That would leave the Assembly with only three main items to discuss — atomic radiation, Algeria and Hungary.

The Cyprus question appeared headed for a deadlock. The committee neared a vote on half a dozen rival resolutions. None appeared to have enough support to get the two-thirds majority needed for Assembly approval.

A compromise resolution entered Monday night by India and eight other nations called for Britain to continue negotiations to promote a self-government for the island. The British said the proposal was not acceptable, virtually dooming prospects for passage.

The radiation issue was expected to be disposed of quickly. Twelve nations represented on the U.N. Scientific Committee on Atomic Radiation have put in a resolution proposing that the agency continue its work. It was expected to be approved without serious opposition.

The Algerian discussion promised to be a heated but one-sided affair.

The French have served notice they will not take part in the debate on grounds the future of the North African territory is a French internal matter. Most of the 28 Asian-African nations and the Soviet bloc are expected to speak fully on the colonial issue, however.

Informed sources said India was working on a resolution whereby the Assembly would call for negotiations to settle Algeria's future but it had a doubtful future.

The Hungarian question, which is expected to generate considerable East-West heat, goes directly to the General Assembly.

The West is expected to concentrate its fire on the executions of former Premier Imre Nagy, Gen. Pal Malter and others who led the abortive 1956 rebellion. The Assembly's Special Committee on Hungary has issued a communique deploring the executions and later put out a special report outlining other sentences against Hungarian freedom fighters.

Linda Anderson, 12, said she was pushed out of a window in a second-floor classroom. "Our backs were burning. Then someone pushed me out of a window," she said.

JUMPED OUT WINDOW
Her cousin Andrea Gagliardo, 12, jumped out of a window in a second-floor classroom. When she looked out we saw them lying still on the ground. It was like a miracle when we saw the firemen with their ladders."

A boy who lives across from the school, Derby Hewlett, 13, gave this graphic description: "Kids were hanging from the windows, jumping or falling in groups of three or four at a time. Smoke and flame poured from the windows. A little girl stood at the window of a ledge, screaming for help."

Early reports that there had been an explosion were discounted by firemen. Commissioner Quinn said the boiler room was intact. Then he said, "This could have been a touch-off. It spread too damn rapidly."

Fire investigators were closely checking the story of Mrs. Barbara Glowacki, who operates a candy store adjacent to the school on the north. She said just before she learned about the fire a man came into her store and asked to use a telephone.

The man, said Mrs. Glowacki, ran out quickly, calling out, "The school is on fire," after she told him she had no public telephone.

Police began a search for the man, described as middle-aged. With a toll of 90 the fire is the nation's third most disastrous school tragedy in the last century. The toll is exceeded only by the New London, Tex., explosion and fire which killed 294 March 18, 1937, and the Collinwood school fire which claimed 176 lives March 4, 1908 in Cleveland.

In Chicago it ranked as the second greatest fire killer of the century. On Dec. 30, 1903, 602 persons died when flames swept through the downtown Iroquois Theater.

CAA REPORTS

Near-Crash Still Being Investigated

FORT WORTH (AP)—The near-miss of a jet training plane and a passenger craft carrying the Abilene High School football team still is being investigated by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The near-tragedy occurred Friday over Big Spring, while the team was en route to El Paso for a Class AAAA playoff game with Ysleta High School.

J. M. Leslie of the regional CAA office said the jet trainer, a T33, was from Webb Air Force Base, near Big Spring. He said the report of the pilot indicated the two planes were at about 6,500 feet.

"Our district office still is investigating the incident," Leslie said, "and we will not have a complete report for about another week."

The pilot of the passenger plane said the T33 flew within 25 feet. He said he put his craft into a steep bank to avoid a collision.

Several Abilene players and an assistant coach were shaken up and bruised.

Webb AFB officials pointed out that while it is not at all recommended, planes on visual flight—as in this case—may fly through the airspace reserved over Big Spring for training purposes. However, the effect of such action is to proceed at one's own risk. The Air Force strongly recommends that such flights descend to 3,500 or go up to 9,000.

Child Cruelty Charges Filed

MIAMI (AP)—A Marietta, Ohio, man faces a hearing tomorrow on charges of cruel and unlawful punishment of a child he claims was given to him and a companion last July.

Juvenile Court authorities filed the charges against Donald Wallace, 29, who was arrested for mistreating a boy, 5.

Wallace at first claimed he was the child's father but Arthur Hutto, assistant state's attorney, said a New Orleans couple gave the boy to Wallace and a companion, Raymond Jacobson.

Wallace produced a birth certificate and a "bill of sale or lease" signed by Mrs. Donna Sloan as the boy's mother and Jacobson as witness.

The child was born at Orange City Hospital, Tex., and Mrs. Sloan wrote over her signature that she "gave the boy to Wallace for one week."

The boy's parents, who live in a trailer with two other children at New Orleans, said they surrendered the boy to Wallace and Jacobson last July, according to chief of detectives William McNamara of New Orleans.

Miami police uncovered the case when neighbors called them to the trailer park where Wallace and Jacobson lived with the child.

'Hotfoot' Is Oil Recovery Method
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two experts said yesterday that 190 billion barrels of oil classified as unrecoverable may be recovered by the use of a new method called an oil hotfoot.

The method was outlined in a report to the annual meeting of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission. T. W. Nelson of Socony Mobil Oil Co. and J. S. McNiel Jr., Magnolia Petroleum Co., made the report.

Nelson said the recovery method involves starting a fire in the underground oil reservoir through the use of injected air. The heat pushes the oil ahead of the fire to the production well, he said.

The hotfoot is a "promising new method that has the unique ability of recovering a high percentage of a reservoir in a relatively short time," Nelson said.

The industry has been experimenting with the hotfoot for six years in its search for a practical way to get at oil which has resisted conventional producing methods.

About 400 delegates registered for the IOCC meeting, which ends Wednesday. They included governors or their representatives from 29 oil or gas producing states. The IOCC is devoted to oil and gas conservation.

West Texas Skies Clear

By The Associated Press

All but West Texas was blanketed by fog, clouds and drizzle Tuesday.

Skies were clear over West Texas, however.

Predawn temperatures varied from 58 degrees at Brownsville to 29 at Dalhart.

Temperatures ran mostly in the 50s and 60s Monday, ranging from 67

HAWKS TRY DECATUR IN 8 P. M. DEBUT

A crippled Howard County Junior College basketball team makes its 1958-59 debut here tonight, meeting Decatur Baptist College in an 8 o'clock joust.

Local fans will be given a last chance to purchase season tickets for Hawk games. The $2 adult ticket, good for ten games, will be offered at the box office for tonight only. Students can purchase a ticket good for all home games for a mere $1.

Decatur brings a 1-1 won-lost record here. The Indians opened with a 76-65 victory over Arlington but last night dropped a 70-52 decision to Odessa Wranglers in Odessa.

HJC will be without the services of three regulars. Delbert Shirey won't be ready, at the earliest, until after the Temple Tournament this weekend. There is some doubt that he'll even be able to play this year, due to a knee injury.

Benny Carver has returned to the practice court after a siege with the flu and a leg injury but he won't get to play tonight. The little Bowie star, second leading point-getter on the team last year, will be employed sparingly in the Temple meet.

Tommy Zinn, who injured his wrist in practice recently, won't be on the floor at the opening whistle. Coach Harold Davis says he may use him some tonight but doesn't know how much mileage he can get out of the Irving soph.

Davis announced that his starting lineup would be Gilbert Bell of Meadows and Bobby Davis of Dallas at the post positions and Jimmy Evans, Big Spring; Jesse McElreath, Big Spring; and Ray Clay, Hobbs, N. M., out front.

Davis emphasized he had no worries about the ability of those boys to work together but expressed concern over who to use when the regulars originally named.

Of the 18 boys who opened workouts, only 13 will be in uniform tonight.

There was some doubt if Clay would be available to the team yesterday. The speedy soph from New Mexico had a stye on his eye over the weekend and it required some treatment yesterday.

Davis scouted Decatur in its game with Odessa and said, with a little luck, the Indians could have won. They limited Odessa to four points in the first period and led by one point at half time.

Decatur is coached by Durward Smith, former HSU athlete. He succeeded Glenn Morrison to the position.

The Hawk B team challenges Snyder's Tigers in a 5 p.m. contest. Snyder originally was scheduled to play Stamford tonight but that game was called off due to the fact that Stamford is still in the playoffs.

Philadelpia was one of the clubs interested in Temple. With Solly Hemus gone to manage St. Louis, the Phils are hurting around second. They have offered pitching to land Temple.

Milwaukee also is anxious to find a replacement for Red Schoendienst who is hospitalized with tuberculosis. Temple would be their first choice.

Second base seems to be the focal point of the trading talk.

The Giants have made strong overtures to the Cardinals for Don Blasingame. They are willing to give up shortstop Daryl Spencer and one of their three young outfielders — Bill White, Willie Kirkland, or Leon Wagner.

The Giants have surplus talent because of the return from service of White and Jackie Brandt. Thus, they have made a proposition to the Phils for two of their strong-armed pitchers, right — hander Jack Sanford and Jack Meyer.

Manager Billy Rigney declined to say who he was offering, but acknowledged interest in both men.

The American League market was stalled.

Boston had hoped to make a deal with Washington, but it fell through at the last minute.

Calvin Griffith, Washington president, said negotiations with the New York Yankees had hit a snag "because the Yankees haven't offered enough."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds appear to be in the midst of a series of trade negotiations involving Pittsburgh, San Francisco and Philadelphia.

The St. Louis Cardinals also were in there pitching, hoping to improve their weak attack.

Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager, huddled for several hours Monday night with his new manager, Mayo Smith, and Joe Brown, Pittsburgh general manager.

It was reliably reported that the Pirates had offered Frank Thomas, their power hitting infielder — outfielder, and catcher Hank Foiles for left-handed pitcher Joe Nuxhall, catcher Ed Bailey and third baseman Don Hoak.

One version had it that the Redlegs also were interested in adding shortstop Roy McMillan to the package if they could snatch Dick Groat, the talented shortstop, from the Pirates.

Smith acknowledged that several clubs had made inquiries about Johnny Temple, his fine second baseman.

Philadelphia was one of the clubs interested in Temple. With Solly Hemus gone to manage St. Louis, the Phils are hurting

LSU Runs Up A Huge Plurality In Poll

Louisiana State, the nation's only major unbeaten-united team, ran up an overwhelming plurality in the final Associated Press college football poll of 1958 to win its first national championship.

The Bayou Tigers, titans of the Southeastern Conference, collected 139 first-place votes from among the participating 212 sports writers and broadcasters.

Iowa finished second, followed by Army, Auburn, Oklahoma and the Air Force Academy.

Louisiana State will receive the second Associated Press national football championship trophy. Auburn won the first last year.

LSU rolled over 10 opponents, opening with a 26-6 victory over Rice Sept. 29 and closing with a 62-0 annihilation of Tulane Nov. 22. The Tigers had only two close calls — beating Florida 10-7 and Mississippi State 7-6. They scored 275 points to their opponents' 53.

In the national balloting, LSU collected 1,904 points on the usual basis of 10 points for a first place vote, 9 for second, etc. Iowa had 1,459, Army 1,429, Auburn 1,396, Oklahoma 1,200 and the Air Force Academy 800.

Iowa, which will play California in the Rose Bowl, replaced Auburn, which had held second in last week's poll. Auburn squeezed past Alabama 14-8 in its season finale last Saturday.

The first 10 was rounded out by Wisconsin, Ohio State, Syracuse and Texas Christian in that order, TCU, upset by Southern Methodist, slipped from seventh place.

The top 10 teams with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Louisiana State (139) ..... 1,904
2. Iowa (17) ..... 1,459
3. Army (13) ..... 1,429
4. Auburn (9) ..... 1,396
5. Oklahoma (10) ..... 1,200
6. Air Force (2) ..... 800
7. Wisconsin (13) ..... 797
8. Ohio State (3) ..... 571
9. Syracuse (1) ..... 340
10. Texas Christian (1) ..... 311

Second 10: Mississippi (2) 303; Clemson (1) 246, Purdue 196, Florida 134, South Carolina 101, California 78, Notre Dame (1) 61, Southern Methodist 52, Oklahoma State 49, Rutgers (1) 46.

With 1958 college football virtually dead sponsors of professional games will double up this weekend to fill some of the sudden gap fans will unquestionably feel.

A late Saturday game originating from Los Angeles will pit the Rams against the Western Division champion Baltimore Colts.

The Rams have nothing to win except the satisfaction of knocking off the champs, an apparent thrill in this mad game called football.

The Colts showed their superiority two weeks ago by soundly trouncing the Rams. However, home fields do make a difference in pro ball, and this could wind up being an upset, especially if the Colts relax after taking the Western Division crown.

Sunday's game is as traditional as they come when Chicago's two teams fight it out for the championship of the Windy City. Record books can go out the window even though the Bears look better in the win-loss department than the Colts. Both teams list as many Southwestern conference stars that it would appear to be an intra-conference melee. Bobby Joe Conrad, John David Crow, LaMar McLean, Willard Duveault, and Gene Bentley are just a few of the starters for the Windy City affair.

Both games will be co-sponsored by American Petroleum and can be seen in this area over station KEDY-TV. Big Spring.

Trouble Erupts Among Owners In Pro League

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League is beginning to look more like itself again.

Recent league meetings have been so peaceful and full of brotherly love they appeared more like Quaker seminars.

But Monday the bubble burst. The NFL owners were acting like NFL owners. Commissioner Bert Bell confirmed it in a backhanded sort of way.

The commissioner presided over the annual early draft session during which the clubs drafted 48 of the nation's top college football players. Iowa's Randy Duncan, a fine passing quarterback from Iowa, was the No. 1 pick. Green Bay selected the 21-year-old Big Ten star.

Then Bell and the owners secluded themselves in executive session. Apparently there was fireworks. Bell told the press: "I told them (the owners) to stop squabbling or they could have my job."

Bell attempted to smooth over the disclosure by describing it as a heart-to-heart confab with his bosses. He said he wasn't angry, didn't threaten anyone.

"I told them I didn't want to be a czar. I have always tried to run this league by persuasion," he said.

"I told them the individual bickering among owners, the squawking by coaches has got to stop. If it doesn't I'll have to run the league by the book instead of persuasion. If I can't run the league the way the book says, I will give up my contract."

The owners retorted, so Bell reported, by giving the commissioner a unanimous vote of confidence and told him to operate by the book come what may.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:
LARRY RUNDLE, co-captain of the Oklahoma State football team:

"Touchdowns don't come easy but neither do those studies, and it's true that you can't put too much emphasis on good grades."

BILL VEECK, scoffing at football coaches who complain of being hung in effigy:

"When I had the Browns and was threatening to move the franchise out of St. Louis, they not only strung me up and burned me in effigy, but they dipped me in oil first."

GREASY NEALE, former football coach, discussing the modern pro game:

"Not enough pressure is put on the offensive quarterback. Most pro teams are using a four or five-man line on defense and they're not stopping the running attack or the passes. You've got to put the pressure on those passers. You start letting them pin-point and they destroy the spirit of your defensive line. . . . I stole a lot of plays in my life. People in the stands don't ask where you got the plays if they work."

BOB TODD, Midland High School basketball coach:

"Just because we have all our boys back doesn't necessarily assure us of a good team. It's the same bunch that couldn't win half its games last year. And, providing we do win our district — and with everything in the league figuring to be stronger, there's no assurance of that — to get to Austin, we'd still have to beat Pampa, the state champions, who return four or five starters from last year's club."

LEO DUROCHER, former big league manager:

"When we (the Giants) beat the Cleveland Indians four straight in the 1954 World Series, a lot of writers called me a managerial genius, comparing me with John McGraw, Casey Stengel and the like. Yet we beat Cleveland only because Dusty Rhodes' home run was hot. Me a genius? I tried several times to trade Rhodes that season."

BOB WATERFIELD, former pro football star, now an assistant coach of the Los Angeles Rams:

"The greatest player I've seen this year is Jimmy Brown. The best team? It would have to be the Baltimore Colts. They have more balance. Most-improved team? I'd have to go with Detroit. The Lions got off to a bad start but they had too much talent to keep losing. We were lucky we got them early and beat them. Then they shellacked us the next time out."

FRANKIE ALBERT, San Francisco 49er mentor:

"Tobin Rote (of Detroit) is the best quarterback we've faced. The thing about Rote is that everything swings one way and then comes a 215-pound quarterback the other way. He worked the bootleg (fake) perfectly. Then there are those passes, the angle jobs. It is impossible to keep a receiver covered all the way when he's slanting in. The passer hits 'em early or hits 'em late. Rote knows just when to hit 'em."

JACK MARA, president of the New York Giants, after watching his team lose to Pittsburgh:

GUARD COMMANDER RECEIVES PROMOTION
C.W.O. Eggleston, right, pins captain's bars on Wallace

UNIT COMMANDER

National Guard Promotes
Elton Wallace To Captain

Elton D. Wallace, who has served practically all of his National Guard time as a member of the Big Spring Guard unit which he now commands, received his captain's bars Monday.

The insignia were pinned on by Chief Warrant Officer Billie L. Eggleston, administrative assistant, who has made out every request for promotion of Wallace from corporal to captain.

A native of Big Spring, Capt. Wallace was born Nov. 2, 1930, and is the son of Mrs. Edson Barbee, Route 1. He attended the old Morgan school northeast of Big Spring from 1936 through 1944 and graduated from Big Spring High in 1948.

He attended John Tarleton State College, Stephenville, from 1948 through 1950. He and Betty Jeanette Minard were married in 1950 and reside at 3211 Auburn. They have three children.

Wallace joined the National Guard in Stephenville Sept. 23, 1948. He transferred to Big Spring's Battery B, 132nd Field Artillery Battalion, as a corporal on July 16, 1951. He was promoted to sergeant in July, 1951, and was commissioned as a second lieutenant on July 13, 1952.

He served as assistant executive officer and executive officer of the battery, being promoted to first lieutenant in July, 1952. He became unit commander in October, 1957.

Capt. Wallace has completed several Army training courses, including the Associate Field Artillery Officer's course at Ft. Sill, Okla. As a civilian, he is employed by Texas Electric Service Co.

Eggleston also attended the old Morgan school, finishing in 1940. He has logged 15 years of military service, the last 10 as a full-time administrator for the local Guard unit. He has enlisted 209 men in the organization. He served with the First Infantry Division in Europe during World War II.

Patricia Evans
Funeral Rites
Are Held Today

STANTON (SC) — Funeral services for Patricia Ann Evans, 11, fatally injured in a railroad crossing accident here last Saturday, were held at 3 p.m. today in the Stanton Church of Christ. Elmore Johnson, minister of the church, officiated assisted by Olan Holland. Burial was in Evergreen Cemetery and Arrington Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

The child died at a Big Spring hospital early Monday morning of skull fracture and other injuries received when the car, driven by her mother, in which Patricia and her two brothers were passengers, was involved in a collision with a train.

Mrs. Evans, who was painfully injured, was removed by Arrington ambulance from Big Spring to Stanton on Monday night but it was said she may have to be returned to the hospital here. The two young boys who were injured in the accident were dismissed from the hospital Monday morning.

Patricia was a student in the Stanton schools. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Evans, her two brothers, Glenn and Paul, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Evans, Floydada. There are several aunts and uncles.

Evans, who is an employee of an implement company, and Mrs. Evans were married in England and Mrs. Evans' relatives live in that country.

Jr. Reserve Champ

Lile Lewter, 13, son of Durward Lewter, former Howard County Agent, and noted for the number of championship steers his progeny have shown in national shows, failed in his effort to take the Chicago International Livestock Exposition grand prize Monday.

Young Lewter's entry, reserve grand champion steer of the junior show, lost out in the open classes and quenched the chances that the Lubbock boy had of taking the coveted grand championship.

His summer, Hereford, yearling wound up second in his class in the final judging.

De Gaulle Faces
Smooth Sailing

PARIS (AP)—Charles de Gaulle's certain to be France's next president, expects a prolonged honeymoon period during which he can run the new National Assembly without too much trouble from the rightist majority.

This point of view has been expressed repeatedly by his entourage before and since the election Sunday that swept into office a flock of individualists unused to parliamentary harness. Their reasons:

1. The heavy vote that threw out the old and brought in the new faces was a vote for De Gaulle and not for any party organization.
2. Nobody in the Assembly is likely to risk his political future in a battle with De Gaulle at the peak of his popularity—which is likely to continue high for some time.
3. De Gaulle and his advisers loaded the new constitution to give the President just the power he wants to have over the Assembly.
4. The mood of the country, as indicated by three successive national votes, is against any stubborn or obstructionist parliamentary hanky-panky.

Yet the election pushed Jacques Soustelle, leader of the overthrow of the Fourth Republic, into the front political rank. Around him will be grouped, at least nominally, nearly 250 of the 546 Assembly members. Many alarmed liberals fear that Soustelle is out for a quick rise to dominance in France and will do whatever it takes to get there. Soustelle himself scoffs at the idea, and so do the people around De Gaulle.

It is hard to see how Soustelle could challenge De Gaulle even on such a difficult problem as Algeria. Many of Soustelle's followers in North Africa don't see eye to eye with De Gaulle. But Soustelle himself comes nearer to agreeing with De Gaulle than with diehard rightists in the new Assembly about reforms and help for Algeria.

The one thing that Soustelle can

Romance Slack
During November

Romance was at a low ebb in Big Spring in November.

Only 23 marriage licenses were issued during the month—which is a sharp decline from the number which have been sold during other months of the year.

Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said she could not explain why so few applicants for licenses reported during November.

Girl, 16, Arrested
For Theft Of $10

A 16-year-old Latin American girl, accused of stealing $10 from a Big Spring woman—which she later used to pay a taxi driver to haul her to Stanton—was placed in the juvenile ward at the Howard County jail Monday afternoon.

A. E. Long, juvenile officer, said the girl would be brought before the county juvenile court this week. He added she had been in trouble with the court on another occasion.

Long said the taxi driver who made the drive to Stanton told him that his young fare paid for the trip with two $5 bills. The woman reporting the theft said she had been robbed of two such bills.

Old Glory Comes Out On Top
Despite Virginia's Flag Flap

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Old Glory comes out on top—literally speaking—when it comes to displaying the federal and state flags from the domes of state capitol buildings across the nation.

Flag-flying policies here stirred up a genuine fuss recently when Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. announced Virginia's blue standard would replace the U.S. banner on the capitol's lone center stanchion.

Almond readily explained he wasn't hauling down the Stars and Stripes for keeps but that until a second pole of equal height could be erected the state banner would wave alone.

Last week Almond altered his stand somewhat. The high stanchion on the center roof was bare. Both state and federal flags were displayed at opposite ends of the capitol until the flagpole work is completed on the main roof.

The state-by-state flag count showed that the red, white and blue flutters atop all but one stanchion on the capitol. Maryland hoists only the state flag. The U.S. flag goes up on national holidays side by side with the state banner.

Twenty-six states display the federal banner higher than their state flags. Fifteen give equal height.

Kansas and Colorado fly only the U.S. flag, with the state banner displayed either on the interior or on the outside grounds.

Dixie states, where the federal versus state power fight is centered, report a preference for the American flag over their state banners.

Mississippi displays both flags from separate poles of equal height but puts the U.S. banner on the right.

Louisiana displays the national flag alone from the outside of the building and gives the state flag a subordinate position at the capitol's entrance hall.

South Carolina flies the U.S. flag above the state banner from the same pole. Texas on separate stanchions but the U.S. flag slightly higher. Florida displays the national banner over its dome with the state flag having a less prominent place over one wing. Georgia gives preference to the national flag in its display.

Arkansas displays its two flags from opposite sides of the capitol.

Alabama has a dual flag policy, flying the state flag when its Legislature convenes and the U.S. flag from a pole on the lawn. At other times the flags have a reverse position.

Oregon law does not prescribe billing for the state flag. But when both fly from the same stanchion the American flag is always on top.

New York gives equal billing whenever both are flown. The U.S. flag flies daily and the state flag during legislative sessions.

In West Virginia, the American flag is always at a slightly higher elevation.

Jaycees Plan
'Turkey Shoot'

Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce is pushing plans for its big turkey shoot on Dec. 21 and the organization reported interest good at the regular meeting on Monday noon at the Wagon Wheel.

The Jaycees are using the turkey shoot as a means of financing its share of the series of Christmas parties planned for patients at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Bill Gray was program chairman for the day. He presented Sam Blackburn, Big Spring newspaperman, who spoke on Pearl Harbor.

The address was a "repeat" performance of a speech which Blackburn had delivered for the Jaycees two years ago. Gray said that the speaker had been invited to repeat his talk because of the interest it created when originally presented.

LONDON (AP)—For 30 years Mrs. Fanny Martin had a spotless backseat driving record. Until Monday.

"It was all Fanny's fault," he told the judge.

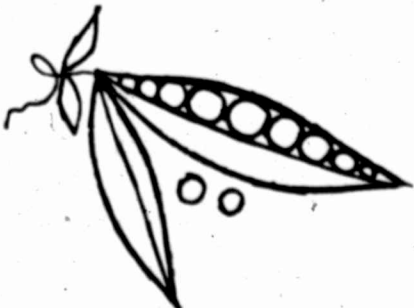

"As soon as we start to move, she's off. 'Watch out... Be careful... Mind that cyclist... Slow down...'"

It was the nagging, he said, that caused him to miss the signal.

A Devotional For Today

"Apart from me you can do nothing." (John 15:5. RSV.)

PRAYER: O God, through Christ our Lord, receive us this day that our lives may be made fruitful in Thy perfect life. Let us be so much a part of Christ that, in seeing us, the world may see a reflection of Him. In the Saviour's name. Amen.

Looking Still Further Ahead

There remain two other major highway matters which should be given increasing consideration here in the immediate months ahead. They are the completion of the south arterial belt represented by FM-700 and the provision of a new north-south bisector.

Something like seven million dollars worth of highway improvements are on the boards for Howard County, including Interstate 20, the conversion of U. S. 87 north into a four-lane highway, the widening of U. S. 87 south, and the paving of FM-700 from U. S. 87 south to U. S. 80 east.

To realize maximum utility from these improvements and to look ahead to vastly increasing amounts of traffic, the two matters mentioned may become more and more necessary more rapidly than we realize.

Before it is completed, many are already saying that FM-700 as a southeast loop will accomplish more for the city than its staunchest supporters dreamed. Well, there is no matter of conjecture as to the completion of the loop from U. S. 87 south to U. S. 80 west. Outside of certain spots on U. S. 80, FM-700 west of U. S. 87 carries the heaviest volume of traffic of any road in the county. Obviously, the load will be increased with the opening of FM-700 as a south-east loop. This simply means that need for widening or perhaps partial rerouting of FM-700 west will grow by the day.

Now, if U. S. 87 north is to be made a four lane (and before long it will be that character road at least as far north as Amarillo) and if it is to be made much wider south, we may assume a considerably greater volume of traffic on this road. How is it going to get across town? Obviously, the railroad overpass at Gregg will not be sufficient. We are going to need another.

Same Old Drivers

California dedicated a new $28 million bridge across Carquinez Strait, 35 miles northeast of San Francisco, last Tuesday. Came Thanksgiving Day, heavy traffic, and a heavy fog.

One car bounced up on a traffic divider on the bridge, partially blocking two lanes of traffic. Another car plowed into the stalled one. Then a third car hit the second—and so on and on, until the place looked like a junk yard.

More than 20 cars were badly damaged, many more only scratched or bent.

One man age 60 was virtually scalped. Thirty-two persons were variously injured—happily none of them fatally.

A fine new bridge, a short-cut for many travelers; fine automobiles—but the same old kind of automobile drivers.

No matter how carefully roads and bridges are constructed, or how strict the laws are, or how diligent the traffic cops, traffic safety still depends on the old human equation.

Every driver is responsible not only for his own safety and that of his passengers, but for the safety of other cars, drivers and occupants. Let one driver pull a boner, or make a miscue, and you can have a memorable pile-up—death and destruction.

South Of The Border, Inflation Too

MEXICO CITY—The dimensions of the task facing Mexico's new President, Adolfo Lopez Mateos, are not essentially different from the outlines of the job confronting any one of a number of newly elected governors in the United States.

One word sums up most of the troubles—and they are grave indeed—that Mateos must try to master: inflation.

The rising cost of the services government provides, plus an ever-increasing number of services, an empty treasury and the menacing spiral of rising living costs—these are the elements of the problem with which the studios new President must grapple. But they are far more acute here than they are north of the border. While living costs rose something like six per cent in the first six years of the Eisenhower Administration, they have gone up here about 40 per cent in the same time.

Mexico has had a tremendous boom. It is evidenced in this extraordinary city which is pushing the 4,500,000 mark in population, moving into the top 10 of the world's cities. To one who has not been here in 20 years, the changes are fantastic—the great glass and steel skyscrapers, the broad avenues, the unending traffic.

This is altogether another Mexico from that simpler era of two decades ago when the country still lived for the most part in the feudal past. Taking office for a term of six years to which he cannot be re-elected, Mateos inherits a dilemma that this predecessor, Ruiz Cortines, managed to escape, but only by a narrow margin.

The new President must make some really tough decisions or accept a continuing inflation that threatens both the government and the economy. He must raise taxes and at the same time scale back the inflated bureaucracies of Pemex, the government petroleum corporation that took over the expropriated properties of the private oil companies and the state-owned railways. But to take these steps will certainly alienate important elements that have supported a middle-of-the-road course for the past 18 years.

Nor can Mateos ignore the swollen cost of the military service. Since under Mexican law no high-ranking officer ever retired, they all continue to draw full pay and emoluments.

During the riots this past August the Army was completely loyal to the government and played an important part in stopping disorders touched off by an increase in bus fares. Knowledgeable observers here believe that if the Army had wavered, the government might have been overthrown and a dictatorship installed. So for the new President to tamper with the privileges of the military would plainly endanger a delicate balance.

There have been other danger signs. In July the Communist-dominated Federation of Trade Unions, under the direction of Vicente Lombardo Toledano, captured the Railway Workers Union, one of the largest in the country. An avowed Communist, Demetrio Vallejo Martinez, was put in as its head. The rail workers had been getting, on the average, a dollar a day and the government raised their pay 15 cents, which was considered insufficient. The Electrical Workers Union also has elected a Communist, Augustin Sanchez Delint, as president.

These are large straws in the inflationary wind. The bitter squeeze between wages, which always lag behind swiftly spiraling prices, can give the Communist-dominated left, greatly emboldened during the boom, a new and sinister opportunity. Mateos is given high marks by almost everyone as an honest man of noble intentions. His election campaign, conducted under Mexico's one-party system, is said to have been the first in history in which attacks on the United States did not figure. Mateos expressed an earnest desire to continue the good relationship that has long prevailed.

The pressure is great, and not alone from the left. In his three-hour talk at Acapulco with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, Mateos stressed, as he had done in his campaign, the need for greater United States capital investment, both governmental and private.

The two men, both of them having backgrounds of hardship and even poverty in the Southwest, got along very well. But whether the United States can continue to pour dollars into Mexico when inflation threatens more and more to erode their usefulness is a larger question, and only the new President can answer it.

If he resists demands to devalue the peso, which will mean more inflation, and if he takes the harsh steps that are essential, then the investment boom and one-party government of the center will continue and there is high hope for the future.

In more ways than one this inauguration is a turning point. It will not be possible for very much longer to coast. Out of the complex heritage of the past have come insistent demands that cannot be ignored.

Accident Report

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—More California workers are injured in accidents involving stationary vehicles than moving vehicles, the State Division of Industrial Safety reports.

The division's statistics show that during 1957 one out of every nine injuries to workers involved motor vehicles. Of 17, 141 injuries involving vehicles, 8,854, or about 52 per cent, occurred on stationary vehicles.

The large majority of vehicles-at-rest injuries were found to occur during loading and unloading and getting on and off.

That Darned Old Khrushchev!

WASHINGTON (AP) — That old Nikita Khrushchev. American taxpayers ought to be good and mad at him. If he'd just act nice, if he'd just quiet down—But no! He keeps acting up and costing us money.

Here was President Eisenhower saying just about a month ago—and very firmly too—that in his last two years in office he'd fight as hard as he could to keep down federal spending.

That was Nov. 5, the day after the elections. Eisenhower wasn't happy about the election returns. But he said the Democrats the voters chose were spenders, and "that is what I say is going to be the real trouble."

As for himself, he said this: "For the next two years, the Lord spare me, I am going to fight this (spending) as hard as I know how, and if we don't, I just say that, well, in the long run, everybody else that is responsible has got to fight it."

Since this year government spending is running about 80 billion dollars, and the Defense Department is spending just about half the 80 billion, what place seemed more likely for real economy than that department?

And maybe Eisenhower and his advisers thought some cuts could be made there. But then old Premier Khrushchev started cutting up again, talking about getting the Allies out of Berlin.

He sounded so mean about it, and so insistent, that the United States can't at this minute know what it's in for, or how rough things will get, but it does know it can't afford to take chances with defense.

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy visited Eisenhower last week in Georgia. McElroy is a dutiful subordinate. He knows Eisenhower wants economy, and apparently McElroy had been looking every which way to save a penny.

But when he got all through talking to Eisenhower, McElroy talked to newsmen and he said, first, it would be pretty rough trying to keep defense spending down to this year's level of nearly 41 billion dollars.

And then, second, he indicated that next year his department might have to increase, not decrease, its spending and wind up shoveling out a billion dollars more than this year.

So where is Eisenhower going to practice the economy he pledged himself to? In foreign aid? Probably not. And no wonder. The Eisenhower administration itself has tentatively put together a casual visitor can stay in this beautiful capital city for 24 hours without realizing that Argentina is haunted by two vengeful Banquos who will not be exorcised, Evita and Juan Peron.

Six years after her death and three after his exile, they cast fearful shadows over this once rich and powerful nation whose political and economic destruction they all but accomplished. Only now is Argentina, broke and on the edge of financial disaster, beginning to pay the full price of the Peron years.

When I last visited Argentina 12 years ago, Peron had been in power but six months. The nation was the richest and proudest in Latin America, literally a land that seemed to flow with milk and honey.

Its monetary unit, the peso, was fixed at four to the dollar, and seemed as firm as Gibraltar.

Today, government printing presses race to pour out pesos to meet the swollen federal payroll. Anywhere on the free market, a dollar bill will buy 75 to 78 pesos. Since January 1 of this year, 10,000 million pesos have been added to the currency, a boost of one-fifth in the amount of money in circulation.

Foreign investors, notably the Germans and the Japanese, are running to cover before the inflationary storm, while the government hastily throws together a national austerity program it hopes the Argentinians will buy.

How two ruthless persons, with the aid of associates, could have looted a rich nation and brought it to its present catastrophic state, is incredible. But loot it they did, with Evita and Peron's share of the swag estimated at about one and a half billion dollars, at a minimum.

But the mills of the gods, once they

BATAVIA, N. Y. (AP)—State Police here had to cope with a skunk wearing a space helmet. Well, sort of a space helmet. Sherman Patterson of nearby East Pembroke reported the skunk was roaming his backyard with its head stuck in a bottle, looking something like a creature from outer space.

Trooper Warren Terryberry and Patterson teamed up. Terryberry tugging at the bottle and Patterson gingerly holding down the skunk's tail with a long stick. They freed the skunk, who appreciatively left the air still fresh and clear.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Southern California's retail food clerks want the supermarkets and corner stores to finance a psychiatric care fund for clerks who crack up and management implies somebody's already crazy and it's not management.

Well, the proposal is rather bizarre even for Southern California. But while one can't blame the clerks for asking or management for refusing, we do think the idea has some possibilities if properly applied.

Why not, for instance, include management? The managers not only have the same troubles the clerks have, they have the troubles the clerks make, too. And how about the people who would have to pay for all the visits to the local psychiatrists?

From what we've seen of the Thanksgiving preparations of the average homemaker, it's not the clerks who are most of all in need of a little psychiatric soothing at the end of the checkout counter. It's the customers.

In public affairs, it sometimes happens that everybody's business is nobody's business. That is to say, we depend upon energetic and public-spirited volunteers to carry on activities of vital importance to us all.

A good case in point is the work carried on by the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report. These recommendations for improving the efficiency of government, now 64 per cent enacted, will save the taxpayers $3 billion or more a year.

Yet it is a fair estimate that no such excellent results would have been obtained without the unrelenting promotion and pressure generated by this group of citizens.

The committee is now disbanding after six years of effort. Its members deserve grateful appreciation for their tremendous accomplishment.

Inside Dope On How Toys Are Sold

It is my opinion—and my considered opinion—that an awful lot of kids are going to get exactly the kind of toys that Dad wants most this Christmas.

I will admit it is remotely possible I am doing the fathers of the community a disservice. I only know that I spent half an hour in a toy shop looking on whilst Papa poked around the shelves.

Mama, on the other hand, was a little more discriminating in her choice. I noted. She seemed to be looking for specific things—perhaps toys or games which had been suggested to her by the youngsters before she went shopping.

Dad, however, was fascinated with the amazing assortment of powerized and novel gadgets which he saw. So much so that he was slower on reaching for his billfold than was his wife.

Toys with wheels and toys modeled after scientific devices were holding the male eye with fascinating solidity.

When I was a kid, the usual piece de resistance of the Christmas toys was a toy wagon. And it was an excellent choice, to be sure. The wagon, as such, would not last long under the battering it would be subjected to by its young owner. However there were six parts of that wagon which were of immeasurable value. These were the four wheels, and the two axle rods.

Even after the wagon had gone to pot, the wheels and axles could be salvaged and it was a doddle who couldn't do wonders with these parts. There were endless possibilities as long as the supply of packing cases and Pop's can of family nails held out things were hunky-dory.

Today's youngsters would probably turn up their little noses at such a gift.

Look what's on hand for them if they can wheedle their folk into buying—rockets which can actually be sent as high as 300 feet in the air; gasoline powered model cars big enough to drive; astronomical telescopes with 40 power lenses; chemical sets so complex that ordinary high school graduates of 20 years ago would be at loss to recognize all the component parts.

Model airplanes which really fly. Electronic toys so accurately made they rival their full-scale counterparts.

Microscope sets so efficient that they would make old Hans Janssen turn green with envy.

I was impressed by the tolerant eye the proprietor cast on the busy-fingered adults toying with his toys. He wasn't afraid of breakage. On the contrary, he didn't seem disturbed at all.

He explained.

It is common human nature on the part of the average male to want to "play" with such toys.

Psychologically it was the best sort of salesmanship. There was a great possibility that the shopper would become so absorbed in the toy that he would throw all caution to the wind and buy it.

The toy dealer slyly admitted that when the dealers go to the toy markets in June, they have a ball.

"We play with all of 'em," he gleefully reported. "We keep telling ourselves we wouldn't know otherwise whether they were what our customers would buy."

And I have a notion that a lot of toys are bought at that market solely for the reason they catch the boyish fancy of balding and paunchy toy buyers.

Awful Legacy Of The Perons

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina—Not even a casual visitor can stay in this beautiful capital city for 24 hours without realizing that Argentina is haunted by two vengeful Banquos who will not be exorcised, Evita and Juan Peron.

Six years after her death and three after his exile, they cast fearful shadows over this once rich and powerful nation whose political and economic destruction they all but accomplished. Only now is Argentina, broke and on the edge of financial disaster, beginning to pay the full price of the Peron years.

When I last visited Argentina 12 years ago, Peron had been in power but six months. The nation was the richest and proudest in Latin America, literally a land that seemed to flow with milk and honey.

Its monetary unit, the peso, was fixed at four to the dollar, and seemed as firm as Gibraltar.

Since January 1 of this year, 10,000 million pesos have been added to the currency, a boost of one-fifth in the amount of money in circulation.

Foreign investors, notably the Germans and the Japanese, are running to cover before the inflationary storm, while the government hastily throws together a national austerity program it hopes the Argentinians will buy.

How two ruthless persons, with the aid of associates, could have looted a rich nation and brought it to its present catastrophic state, is incredible. But loot it they did, with Evita and Peron's share of the swag estimated at about one and a half billion dollars, at a minimum.

But the mills of the gods, once they get going, grind exceedingly fine. For the ironic tale that follows, I have no proof except its wide circulation in Buenos Aires. I repeat it only for what it is worth and not as gospel.

The tale insists that Swiss bankers will eventually wind up with the approximately $700,000,000 in loot stashed in Swiss banks by Evita under the name of "Eva Duarte." So far, the story goes, none of Evita's heirs have been able to get a penny out of the Swiss banks, because they are unable to prove that any such person as "Eva Duarte" ever existed.

There is no birth certificate registered in that name, since she was an illegitimate child. Nor is there any death certificate in the name of "Eva Duarte." Without any documents to prove that such a person as "Eva Duarte" ever existed, it is widely reported that the Swiss bankers have stubbornly refused to admit her existence and are sitting on the swag.

The companion story concerns Peron, more or less happily in residence in the Dominican Republic, run by another dictator of the Peron stripe. Peron, too, is said to have socked away at least $700,000,000 in Switzerland, in the name of one of his most trusted aides.

In recent months, Peron and the aide have quarreled violently, it is reported, and the aide has gone up the creek with the cash. Without him, Peron can no more get at the stolen funds than Eva's heirs can pick the Swiss locks and benefit by her massive theft. Unfortunately, Peron won't starve, as he squandered away large sums in other lands, too.

Frankly, it all sounds too pat and Aesop Fable-ish to me. But nothing can keep me from hoping the affairs Swiss is true.

The Gallup Poll

Kennedy Has Slight Independent Edge

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 2—If the 1960 Democratic National Convention should narrow down the choice of candidates to Adlai Stevenson and Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, there are indications today that there would be a "battle royal" for the party's top prize.

A nationwide survey by the Gallup Poll finds the two men running exactly even as the "show-down" choice for the nomination, with each of them polling 42 per cent of the vote today among rank-and-file Democrats.

Among Independent voters, however, Sen. Kennedy holds a commanding 5-to-3 edge over the former Illinois governor. Stevenson and Kennedy have ranked as the Number One and Two favorites respectively in recent Gallup Poll "presidential primary" tests, in which names of all leading candidate possibilities were presented to Democratic voters.

In the most recent candidate popularity test, reported last Sunday, both Stevenson and Kennedy had improved their position since a similar survey in June of this year. Stevenson climbed in popularity from 23 to 29 per cent as the Number One favorite, while Kennedy was up from 19 to 23 per cent.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee was third with 11 per cent.

In today's survey, experienced opinion reporters put this question to a cross-section of Democrats across the country: "Suppose the choice for President in the Democratic convention in 1960 narrows down to Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. John F. Kennedy. Which man would you prefer to have the Democratic convention select?"

The vote:

KENNEDY VS. STEVENSON (DEMOCRATS ONLY)

Per cent

Kennedy ..... 42

Stevenson ..... 42

Undecided ..... 16

The fact that Sen. Kennedy shows greater strength than Stevenson among the nation's Independent voters would be considered in political circles as a valuable asset. This is the group which holds the balance of power in elections in this country.

Here is the way Independent voters line up on a "show-down" between the two leading Democratic possibilities for 1960:

KENNEDY VS. STEVENSON (INDEPENDENTS ONLY)

Per cent

Kennedy ..... 49

Stevenson ..... 32

Undecided ..... 19

Among Independent voters, Kennedy was named the Number One favorite in candidate popularity by 30 per cent of Independents, while 20 per cent named Stevenson and 10 per cent picked Kefauver.

An Institute test among Democratic voters, reported in February of this year, showed Kennedy holding a commanding lead over Kefauver as the "show-down" choice for the 1960 nomination.

At that time, 56 per cent of Democrats said they would prefer Kennedy to head their ticket, while 35 per cent expressed a preference for Kefauver and the rest were undecided.

The young Massachusetts senator first forged ahead of Kefauver in the summer of 1957. A survey in June of that year showed him leading Kefauver by a vote of 50 per cent to 39 per cent among Democrats, with 11 per cent undecided.

Kennedy's emergence on the national political scene was rated one of the leading public opinion events of 1957 by members of the field staff of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Easily Made Gift

Blocks of felt or plastic are easily made and are lots more fun than a spoon or wearing apparel. You may find that Baby will choose your gift above all others if the blocks are colorful and easy to handle.

Dresses, Spoons Rate But Blocks Are Fun

Well-meaning relatives often select pretty dresses and silver spoons for a child's first Christmas. But any baby will be quick to indicate that dresses aren't as much fun as a set of blocks.

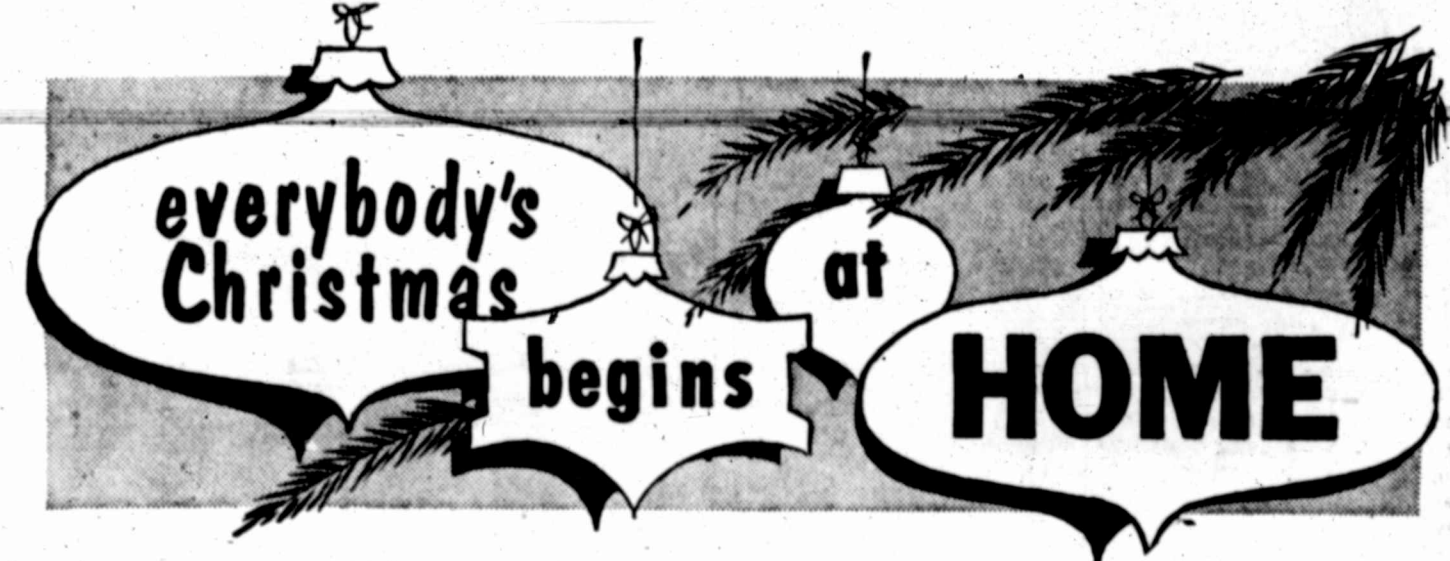

A bright idea for the home seamstress is to stitch up a set of colorful soft felt blocks for all the babies on the Christmas list. They are easy to sew, they have no sharp corners and, most important, the baby will have fun with them.

Here's how it's done: For each block, cut six squares of felt measuring approximately six inches across. Cut letters or animals of contrasting felt and applique on one or two squares of each block. Then sew blocks together, leaving a three-inch opening along one seam for stuffing. Stuff with shredded foam rubber or kapok, and close seam.

Make each block a different color, or use several colors on one block. If you don't have felt scraps around the house, you can make these blocks of any fabric leftovers in your ragbag. Just remember to back each square with a non-woven interfacing such as pelfin, if you use a light-weight fabric. This will give the blocks enough body so that they will retain their square shape.

Plastic fabric also may be used for the blocks.

Whatever you select, you will find that soft blocks are quick and inexpensive to make. And the chances are the baby will be playing with them long after the Christmas decorations are put away.

Big Ships May Use Seaway Next April

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—Canadian seaway officials believe the St. Lawrence Seaway will be ready for deep-draft ships next April— as promised four years ago.

Workers have been toiling for four years to complete the 135-mile system of seven locks, four canals and other deep channels.

Bennett J. Roberts, seaway president, emphasizes the seaway won't be fully finished by April. Remaining work includes dredging to widen channels along the new route and completion of a turning basin at the seaway entrance in Montreal Harbor. But Roberts said the unfinished work will not create any bottlenecks once the seaway is opened.

"Barring unforeseen events," he added, "there will be a 27-foot channel from Montreal to Lake Ontario."

Three locks in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence, 65 miles west of Montreal, have been operating since July 4 for 14-foot navigation. All three, Canada's Iroquois lock, and the two United States locks near Massena, N.Y., are ready for 27-foot draft ships.

Four other locks, all within 30 miles of Montreal, have been completed and tests of mechanism started this fall. They will be ready for 27-foot draft ships.

Ten new bridges for railway and road traffic crossing the seaway route are almost finished. Tenders are to be asked next year for construction of a six-million-dollar high-level bridge at Cornwall, Ont., to link with a new bridge already built from Cornwall Island to the U.S. mainland.

Talks are under way to write a formal agreement on toll schedules, which need to be ratified by the Canadian Cabinet and approved by President Eisenhower before going into effect. Preliminary toll levels announced this summer call for 6 cents a ton on the gross registered tonnage of ships, plus 42 cents a ton for bulk cargo and 95 cents a ton for general cargo. This toll applies to ships using the seaway and the Welland Canal; there are partial tolls for partial transit.

The seaway, with its 800-foot locks will be capable of handling almost 75 per cent of the world's present cargo ships. Most of the world's cargo ships, however, are built for the Great Lakes by the old locks, only 260 feet long.

But shipping experts say the most significant impact of the seaway will not be on ocean vessels but on lake carriers with a carrying capacity of 25,000 tons. These ships have space for eight times as much cargo as present canal users. They will expedite movement of iron ore from Labrador and Ungava to Great Lakes steel mills, and shipment of Western grain to upper St. Lawrence elevators for ocean transshipment.

House Probers Ask Ballots In Coya Vote Be Preserved

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House committee has asked Minnesota authorities to preserve all ballots in the disputed election which brought defeat to Rep. Coya Knutson (D-Minn.).

The committee acted amid confusion over the status of a $200,000 suit filed by Mrs. Knutson's husband, Andy, against William Kjeldahl, Mrs. Knutson's top aide. Last week, Kjeldahl made public a letter purportedly from Andy Knutson and saying that Knutson was dropping his suit alleging alienation of affection and slander. That letter also said Knutson had fired his Washington lawyer, Benedict F. Fitzgerald.

Monday, Fitzgerald said Knutson had no right to act personally in dropping his suit. The lawyer also said he has not had any notice from Knutson that the case has been removed from the case.

But the U.S. District Court clerk's office said a memorandum signed by Knutson to dismiss the case was enough.

Mrs. Knutson declined to talk with newsmen, but a member of her office said the congresswoman was living with her husband. The aide said she did not know where they were staying.

Differences between the Knutsons became news last spring when Andy publicly appealed to his blonde wife to give up politics and return home. He is a hotel operator in Okla. Minn.

Disregarding this appeal, Mrs. Knutson ran for a third term but was defeated narrowly by Republican Odin Langan.

After announcement that her husband was dropping his suit against Kjeldahl, Rep. Knutson asked the House Elections Committee to investigate.

Mrs. Knutson charged a malicious conspiracy by her political opposition.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Federal authorities have arrested a suburban banker on a charge of making a false entry of more than $800,000 in the bank's records.

The U.S. attorney's office said more arrests are expected.

"The shortage at the bank may be in excess of one million dollars," the FBI said Monday as it arrested John E. Petersen, 49, who resigned several days ago as vice president and cashier of the Sun Valley National Bank. The bank was sold Saturday.

Just what happened to the money was not explained. It was originally reported that Petersen had been accused of misappropriating the funds. But the FBI said the charge against him was that he "made or caused to be made a false entry in the bank's records."

The falsification consisted of failing to charge to the individual customers' accounts at least $800,000 paid out by the bank for checks drawn on the accounts, said William Alexander, of the Los Angeles FBI office.

All Petersen said was: "I don't have any of this money."

Sun Valley National was sold Saturday to the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles.

Holiday's Traffic Toll Reaches 454

CHICAGO (AP)—Thanksgiving holiday traffic claimed 454 lives between 6 p.m. (local time) Wednesday and midnight Sunday. The figure, though impressive, was about par for any 102-hour period when figured against 38,500 traffic fatalities in the nation last year.

The Associated Press counted 626 dead from all types of accidents during the four-day weekend, with 54 of these fire victims.

The period closed before the disastrous parochial school fire in Chicago Monday.

Love For School Ends In Tragedy

CHICAGO (AP)—Margaret Chambers was forced to stay home from her fourth-grade classes at Our Lady of the Angels Catholic grade school Monday morning because she had a cold.

At noon, the 9-year-old pupil told her mother, Rose Chambers, she wanted to go to school in the afternoon. Reluctantly, her mother granted permission.

Margaret was one of the 87 pupils who perished in a fire which swept the school.

U.S. Families Cut Off From Water

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—About 54 American families on United Fruit Co. plantations in eastern Cuba were down to a one-day water supply today because of rebel interference with the pipeline.

A company spokesman said it would be necessary to evacuate the families if rebels who cut the pipeline continue to prevent its repair.

Mrs. Barrick, Early Resident, Dies At Age 92

Mrs. Ella Lorena Barrick, 92, for more than half a century a resident of Big Spring, died in a rest home here last night.

She had fallen and broken a hip in October and had been an invalid since that time.

Funeral for Mrs. Barrick will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church where she was long an active member.

It is in this church that the woman's missionary group, the Ella Barrick Circle, is named in her honor.

Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, her pastor, will officiate and burial will be in the James T. Brooks family plot in the City Cemetery under direction of River Funeral Home.

Mrs. Barrick was born in Mississippi and moved with her parents to Texas when she was nine years of age. They settled in Chico and she was married to Milford L. Barrick in 1883. Three years later she was widowed with two children.

For five years she served as postmistress at Harrell. When, in 1903, her father, Samuel P. Kelly, bought a furniture business in Big Spring, Mrs. Barrick brought her two daughters and came here too.

Both her daughters, Mrs. Blanche Richardson and Mrs. James T. Brooks, preceded her in death. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Betty Carr, Sweetwater; a grandson, James T. Brooks Jr.; a granddaughter, Mrs. Edw. L. Byrnes, both of Big Spring; and two great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Temp Currie, R. Middleton, Lee Porter, A. Porter, Rex Bishop and Dalton Mitchell. All friends will be considered honorary pallbearers.

Next Movie

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Cecil B. DeMille's next movie will be the story of Lord Robert Baden-Powell, British soldier-hero who founded the Boy Scouts in 1908. DeMille said Monday the film will go into production early in 1960.

Actor Thinks Men Need 'Male Call'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Do American men need more time among themselves? Fernando Lamas thinks so, if they are not to be dominated by their wives.

The Argentine actor feels it is important for American males to be victors in the age-old battle of the sexes.

"In Latin America, we have a very fine custom—the afterwork cafe," Lamas declared. "When the men finish their jobs for the day, they drop by for a drink or some coffee. They talk against their employers and their wives and get it out of their systems. Then they go home happy."

"In this country, men have little opportunity for fellowship with each other. They go directly home to their wives. Because of this, they are in danger of losing their masculinity."

But Fernando is all for the American woman. He has demonstrated by marrying one, Arlene Dahl.

Many foreigners tell me they cannot stand America, women because they are too bossy," he remarked. "I think such men are cowards. They prefer foreign women because they are willing to be subservient. To me, those women are too docile. After centuries of trying, they have given up trying to reach equality with men. Living with them might be easier for men, but it would also become a bore.

"I like American women because they know how to fight," Lamas declared. "When the men are not willing to fight back, aren't willing to fight back. And so they wind up being assistant housewives, washing dishes, changing diapers and wearing aprons as badge of their defeat."

"A man shouldn't enter the kitchen unless he really likes to cook as a hobby," Fernando stated. "When he comes home after being away for 10 hours at work and on the highway, he shouldn't be required to do housework."

What can a man do to avoid enmeshment around the house?

"Fight," the actor said militantly. "American men are the best fighters in the world; they've proven that in battle."

"Women fought for the right to vote, and they won it. Now they're fighting to subjugate the male. The men will have to fight back, that's all."

Kilgore Celebrates Van Cliburn Return

KILGORE, Tex. (AP)—The folk of this East Texas oil center turned out in a big, day-long celebration today to welcome home their most famous son—Van Cliburn, the modest but highly gifted young pianist who has become the toast of two continents.

Although the lanky, 24-year-old youth has visited here since he vaulted to fame by winning the Tchaikovsky International Piano Competition in Moscow earlier this year, this was Van Cliburn Day in Texas and Kilgore.

Gov. Price Daniel underscored the mood of the day when he told a crowd of 500 at a civic luncheon:

"In this day and time, when the eyes of the world are usually on material achievements, it is heartening to know that mankind can still be impressed by the cultural accomplishments of a young man who has devoted his life to making other people happy through great music."

"Van Cliburn has brought great credit to his state and nation far beyond his contributions as a world-famous musician. The talent, intellect and moral and spiritual strength of this young Texan has become an inspiration to other young people in many countries."

"As a pianist, Van Cliburn has been awarded the highest honors in the world of music. As a diplomat and ambassador of good will, he has contributed to international understanding and the crusade for world peace."

Following the luncheon Cliburn gave a special concert with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra for a capacity house of school children. Tonight he will give a concert with the Dallas Symphony for adults. All tickets for this concert were sold out last summer.

For these concerts he played the Robert Schumann Concerto in A Minor and Sergei Rachmaninov's Concerto No. 3 in D Minor. After the evening concert the pianist and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Cliburn, were to be guests of honor at a reception.

In a special edition devoted to the occasion the Kilgore News-Herald said yesterday of Cliburn: "We love you not so much for the international success you have achieved as we do for the indomitable will and unfaltering dedication you displayed on the long and tedious road to it. Some may measure your success in terms of security and public fame, but we are certain that you know your real wealth is composed of the untold thousands whose hearts you have gladdened."

Cliburn was only four years old before he could read music when he gave his first concert here. For 14 years his mother, a talented pianist, was his only teacher.

Daniel Rebuffed On Selection Of Advertising Head

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Industrial Commission has rebuffed Gov. Daniel's selection for executive director, a spokesman from the governor's office said today.

The commission met yesterday and agreed in secret session to ask the Legislature for $200,000 to advertise Texas. Part of the meeting was open, but the budget talk was closed to the public.

Bob Bray, who is executive secretary of the commission and working with the governor's office, said the commission in "a personal affront" to Daniel refused to approve him (Bray) as life executive director under the proposed 1960-61 budget.

The commission has not announced who it will place in the $16,500 a year post.

Daniel asked the Legislature to reactivate the commission and he appointed the members. However, the Legislature did not appropriate any money for its operation, much of which now is supplied by private industry.

Bray said conflict existed between the commission and Daniel "but not on the surface." He did not elaborate.

In its proposed budget, the commission seeks to use $75,000 annually for advertising in nationally circulated business publications, for travel by commission representatives and for other costs in the promotion of Texas as an ideal industrial site.

Until Nov. 4, Texas was forbidden to use tax money for advertising. Voters approved an amendment which eliminated the prohibition from the State Constitution.

Neavel Moon, 18, of Houston, told officers he borrowed a gun from his victims to kill two men and a boy at a target range after demanding their money. Dead were Bertram J. Appleton, 38, his son Steven, 11 and Lee Hanson, 40. Moon said he became frightened when Appleton started to run and fired shots at the trio.

Woman Sets Talking Record

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Have phone, will talk.

That seems to have been the view of a woman who set some kind of record by talking to the Roanoke Police Department for exactly 7 hours and 15 minutes.

The police did not identify the lady by name. She called at 11:44 p.m. and reported a watch stolen. Once that complaint was disposed of she launched into a conversation which covered practically everything from home furnishings to politics. Busy police answered other calls but the lady kept right on talking.

The end came shortly after 7 a.m. She began to slur her words, then came what police described as a soft bump followed by the sound of snoring.

Loan Sharks Top Legislative Issue

By ED OVERHOLSER

AUSTIN (AP)—A former secretary of state said recently Texans have lost more from the sharks of the loan shark trade than from stock and insurance frauds combined.

A Houston Business Bureau official testified in Austin two years ago that 250 loan sharks in Houston were grossing one million dollars a month on loans of $5 to $50. A senator from North Dakota once labeled Texas the worst loan shark state in the Union.

This problem has been a barb in the Legislature's side for years and again it rates as a priority matter before the 56th session, according to a poll of legislators conducted by The Associated Press.

Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas said the Legislature needs to pass "some sort of law that will enable people without bank credit to borrow money at a price they can afford to pay and still make such loans attractive to the lender."

You'd have to vote "aye" on that but the question is how to achieve it, several members indicated. Tom Reavley, former secretary of state, said the only laws involving small loan operations that have met favor with the Legislature in 10 years have been calculated to help the loan shark.

"There remains in all the books of laws we have written not anything of any effect, to protect the Texas borrower, to limit what he has to pay for money he has to have, to provide pains and criminal penalties against usurers," Reavley reported.

Usurious interest, as defined in the Constitution, is a rate of interest in excess of 10 per cent per year. The complicated problem of usury dates back to the days of the Republic of Texas. A loan shark generally is one who lends small sums of money to poor borrowers at a high rate of interest for a short period of time, thus encouraging refinancing and snowballing charges.

In recent months the attorney general's office, has cracked down on loan companies in scattered spots throughout the state for charging illegal rates. Another agency actively involved now in the problem is the Legislative Council which is expected to announce its recommendations for laws in December.

Gov. Price Daniel said he also has been studying the problem and may have some recommendations of his own to give.

A move to place small loan companies under a regulatory state agency such as the banking commission was suggested by Houston's Rep. Chris Cole.

Rep. Tom James of Dallas, who listed the loan shark problem as the third most important before the Legislature, warned that in setting new requirements and penalties "We do not make it impossible for the legitimate small loan company to stay in business."

"This is a problem that is more urgent than many may realize and long neglected by the Legislature. It is time we faced up to the problem with a practical solution," said Rep. Hal Coley.

A closely-related issue was attacked by the State Board of Insurance which May 1 chopped back the commissions allowed lender-agents of credit insurance under an order in effect since May 1. This type insurance gives protection to the lender in case of death or illness of the borrower.

Former King's Ex-Rival Dies

LONDON (AP) — Ernest Simpson, who lost his wife to King Edward VIII, died Sunday after a long illness. He was 62.

Simpson was the second husband of Wallis Warfield, the duchess of Windsor, who divorced him in 1937 and then married Edward VIII after he abdicated.

A successful and wealthy shipping broker, Simpson kept out of the limelight after his divorce from "Wally." Simpson and refused offers of up to 100,000 pounds ($280,000) to publish his memoirs.

He had suffered from a throat ailment for more than a year and had been hospitalized two weeks ago. His fourth wife, the former Mrs. Avril Leveson-Gower, was with him when he died in London's Middlesex Hospital.

Simpson was born in New York and had a British father and an American mother. He chose his father's citizenship and served in the Coldstream Guards during World War I.

His first marriage, to Mrs. Dorothea Parsons, ended in divorce in 1928 and he then married Wallis Warfield of Baltimore. After their divorce he married Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray of Baltimore, a close friend of the duchess, who died in 1941. He married Mrs. Leveson-Gower in 1948.

Simpson and the duchess had remained friends and she sent him a bouquet of flowers during his illness last year.
