Elvis ballots

Ballots to choose between a younger or older Elvis Presley to be depicted on a postage stamp are available at local post offices — and are going fast.

Eager voters have even snatched up so many of the ballots that the U.S. Postal Office in Midland has had to reorder more, according to Stan Sartain, manager of customer service.

"We've already had such a tremendous response that we've run out in a couple of stations," Sartain said. "We got a better response than we anticipated."

Midland post offices originally received several hundred ballots but should be restocked in all offices next week.

"We should have about 2,000 more next week and I don't expect them to last too awfully long," Sartain said.

The voting began April 6 and ends April 24, when ballots must be postmarked.

Street closing

Construction work will force the temporary closure of Wood Drive at Greenhill Court beginning at 9 a.m. Monday.

The street should be closed three or four days while city crews build a sewer line there. The city has advised motorists to find an alternate route during that time.

Where to carry it?

HOUSTON — Harris County authorities are working on regulations that would require topless dancers to be licensed with the sheriff's department and would clarify the definition of lewd conduct in the county. Senior Assistant Harris County Attorney Terry O'Rourke said it is no coincidence that the new rules are being considered before the Republican National Convention comes to town in August. The new proposals graphically detail what is prohibited and include a ban on so-called table dances, where patrons and performers engage in physical contact. "Writing these regulations is a mine field of difficulties because you have police power bashing right up against the First Amendment," O'Rourke said. The licensing provision would require dancers to apply for a special photo identification badge, costing up to $200 a year. The 25 pages of proposed regulations could be reviewed as early as next week by county commissioners. "Houston wants to be a convention city," he said. "It's important for people coming from other places to know they won't be part of a raid." The Men's Club, an upscale topless club, was raided last month and several dancers were arrested.

AUSTIN — The Texas Board of Criminal Justice on Friday enacted a massive prison expansion plan that would add more than 25,000 prison beds in 29 communities.

But Odessa, which had hoped to become a prison site, is not on the list.

"We were very disappointed," said Mayor Lorraine Perryman. "But we were pleased some West Texas locations were selected. At least there's some recognition at the state that we need the sites in this part of the state."

Ms. Perryman said the Permian Basin would reap some economic benefits from prisons nearby — such as those expected in Fort Stockton and Mitchell County. In Odessa, she said planning for

Bomb blast rocks London, two die

Associated Press

LONDON — A suspected Irish Republican Army car-bomb rocked London's financial district Friday night, killing at least two people and injuring 80 others, Scotland Yard said. A second car-bomb exploded hours later in northwest London, but no one was injured.

The first explosion ripped through the City of London district at 9:20 p.m. (3:20 CDT), shattering hundreds of windows, shaking sidewalks and reverberating miles away.

Hours later, at 1:10 a.m. Saturday (7:10 p.m. CDT Friday), a van packed with explosives blew up at an intersection at London's Staples Corner, 8 miles of the financial district. No one was hurt, police said.

Warnings using known IRA codewords were provided before each blast, Scotland Yard said.

After the first explosion, a huge area of London's business district, including the Bank of England, Royal Exchange and the Stock Exchange, was sealed off.

Police searched rubble for people who might be trapped.

Hundreds of financial workers, some of them in tuxedos and evening gowns, were in the area after offices closed to celebrate the Conservative Party's reelection Thursday, which caused stock prices to surge.

"It was absolutely terrifying, I was shaking like a leaf, and I just ran like hell," said John Walker. "It was bloody awful."

At least two people were killed, one person was in critical condition, 14 were seriously injured and 65 suffered minor injuries, police said.

Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist squad Commander George Churchill-Coleman, who was at the scene, said British Rail's Waterloo station received a telephoned warning from a man who provided a recognized IRA codeword. Waterloo is south of the River Thames from the blast.

The caller said a bomb in a white van parked outside the Stock Exchange would go in 20 minutes, Churchill-Coleman said.

"That call, of course, was quite erroneous," and prevented

Report: U.S. feared 10,000 casualties in Gulf War

By John H. Cushman Jr.
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Shortly before the allied offensive in the Persian Gulf war, the U.S. command anticipated that coalition casualties might run into tens of thousands killed and wounded, according to a report on the war issued by the Pentagon Friday.

Although the eventual toll never remotely approached that magnitude, a previously undisclosed order approved by President Bush, revealed in the report, suggested that casualties could run as high as 10 percent of ground combat troops.

The order shows how seriously the Pentagon viewed the possibility that a bloody campaign might be required to oust nearly half a million Iraqi troops from Kuwait, even if a steady air campaign cut Iraq's strength in half before ground troops moved in.

In December 1990, Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf was given, among his "operational imperatives" in fighting the war, the order to "accept losses no greater than the equivalent of three companies per coalition brigade," according to the report.

The orders, while not put in terms of specific figures, translated into casualties of 10 percent among allied ground

Water Wonderland prepares for 11th season

By Mella McEwen
Staff Writer

For the 11th spring, workers are mowing the grass, making repairs and cleaning up Water Wonderland in preparation for the park's opening.

The park is located between Midland and Odessa on U.S. Highway 80.

Les King, general manager, said plans are — weather permitting — to open the park on weekends beginning May 9. It will open full-time in June when school is out.

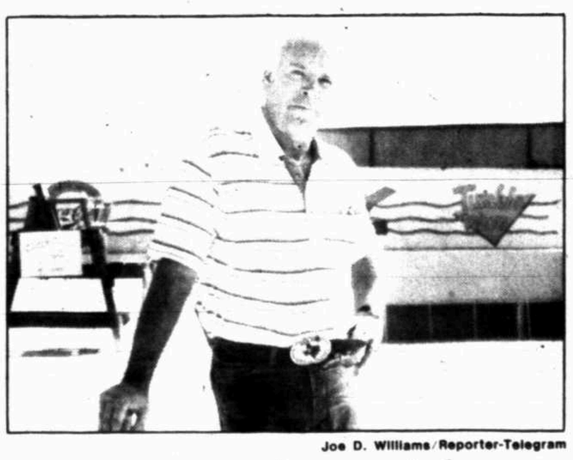

In addition to the improved landscaping and repainted pools, Water Wonderland is expanding, King said. The park has acquired, for the summer, 10 amusement rides that will be located at the back of the 22-acre park. The rides include seven rides for children and three that are more adult-oriented such as the Ferris wheel and loop-de-loop.

"We have plenty of water rides; we wanted to be able to offer something different," he said.

Officials are also negotiating to bring in a roller coaster ride next summer.

Plans are to offer end-of-school parties for area students — last year's student appreciation day drew 5,000 students.

Consumer prices jump, fed reports

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Consumer prices, jolted by sharp increases for food, gasoline and clothing, jumped 0.5 percent last month, the Labor Department said Friday.

It was the biggest increase in the Consumer Price Index in 17 months but economists for the most part dismissed the surge as a one-time event that was unlikely to be repeated given the economy's prolonged weakness and the expected anemic recovery.

"Even though we had a disappointing one-month number, there is a lot of slack in the economy and wage costs are moving down," said Lyle Gramley, chief economist for the Mortgage Bankers Association. "This is not the beginning of a trend. It is an aberration."

The stock market, still basking in Thursday's surprise cut in interest rates by the Federal Reserve, took the inflation report in stride. The Dow Jones industrial average was up more than 30 points at mid-afternoon.

The New York rally was given new life by a sharp rise in the Tokyo market where a key stock market index posted its fifth-biggest one-day gain. Japanese

Should MISD adopt pure feeder system?

Should Midland Independent School District have a pure feeder system?

School board trustees will decide the fate of MISD's feeder system — or method of sending junior high school students to high schools — at Tuesday's board meeting.

The addition of a fourth junior high school — to open in 1993 — will make it possible to divide the student population equally. Students from two junior high schools could "feed" directly to Midland High School and two junior highs would feed its students to Midland Lee High School. This would allow students to become part of academic and extra-curricular programs for one particular high school beginning in the seventh grade.

Is the current system sufficient for our athletes and band students? Can Midland students continue to compete with their peers in pure feeder systems in Abilene, San Angelo and Odessa high schools? Would academics benefit from a pure feeder system? Or will targeting students for a particular high school in the seventh grade intensify crosstown rivalries?

The Cityline COMMUNITY PULSE wants to know. Call 560-2400 and select category 1890 to vote for or against a pure feeder system. You may also stay on the line and express your opinion.

This special survey will remain open until 5 p.m. Monday. Results of your calls will be tallied and reported in the Tuesday edition of the Reporter-Telegram.

Wilson died Friday in a Lubbock hospital following a lengthy illness.

He was born in Bokchito, Okla., and he moved to Levelland in 1946 from Walters, Okla. He married Alice Bishop on Feb. 7, 1941, in Walters. He was a retired truck driver for Amoco, and was active with Little League, Boys Club and the VFW.

He was a member of the Fairview Baptist Church in Levelland.

Anadarko buys Calley & Fowler

Staff Report

Anadarko Petroleum Corp. of Houston has signed a definitive agreement to purchase 100 percent of the outstanding stock of Calley & Fowler Production Co., a privately-held Texas corporation, for $11 million in cash.

Midland-based Avalon Energy Corp. acted as agent for Calley & Fowler in the deal.

The acquisition includes primary and secondary oil producing properties and lease acreage located in the Permian Basin. Last year, these properties produced approximately 500 barrels of oil per day.

Anadarko's division office in Midland, which manages the company's existing waterflood properties, will be responsible for the new leases.

The acquisition complements Anadarko's existing waterflood operations in the Sharon Ridge field of Scurry County, where the company now has 115 producing oil wells and 48 injection wells.

Anadarko said it plans to install additional secondary recovery or "waterflood" facilities over the next two years to maximize production of the reserves. Currently, about 42 percent of Anadarko's crude oil production comes from waterflood properties.

Anadarko expects to close the transaction by the end of May, subject to satisfactory review of environmental, tax, title and financial review of Calley & Fowler and the underlying properties being acquired.

Missing woman found

AUSTIN (AP) — A woman was taken from her sister's home and tied to a tree for more than 20 hours before escaping from her armed abductor, police said Friday.

Yvette Knight's disappearance from her sister's home had triggered a massive air and ground search by dozens of law officers. No arrests had been made in the case by Friday.

Ms. Knight called 911 Thursday night from a telephone at a K mart Discount Store, the Austin American-Statesman reported. Officers rushed to the store and found Knight hysterical.

"The police said there's nothing wrong with her except she's shaken up," said Ms. Knight's mother, Raquel Garza-Gongora.

The store where she was found is about two miles from her sister's home.

Ms. Knight, a native of Laredo, has lived in San Antonio for about seven years.

American Airlines fare restructuring draws raves

NEW YORK (AP) — Travel agents enthusiastically endorsed American Airlines' price restructuring Friday, saying it would mean cheaper and easier travel and restore calm to an industry beset by price wars.

American's move, matched by most rival domestic carriers, becomes effective Monday.

"I love it," said Juergen Krenzien, Midwest president of American Society of Travel Agents. "It brings some sanity to the industry."

The public also seemed happy with the new fares. Airlines reported their reservation phone lines were jammed Friday, the day after the plan was announced.

Under the new system, the airlines will offer only a first-class fare, a coach fare that can be brought anytime before a flight and two discount rates, one requiring 21-day advance purchase and another requiring seven-day advance purchase.

American is betting the strategy will encourage more people to fly. United, Delta, USAir, Northwest, Continental, Alaska Airlines and America West matched the plan either completely or partially.

USAir also said Friday it would cut fares on its hourly New York to Washington, D.C., and New York to Boston shuttle routes by up to 35 percent. Delta, which also operates shuttles on those routes, responded with a similar offer.

In recent years, the airline industry has been plagued by price wars and confusion. Sometimes there would be a myriad of rates for a single route.

"You had to carry a bag of rutabagas and whistle Dixie to get the cheaper fares," said Andrea Rader, a spokeswoman for American.

The new structure is more just, said Philip Davidoff, president of the American Society of Travel Agents in Alexandria, Va.

"It provides consumers with more equitable and consistent fares when the traveler is looking for three things: value, value and value," Davidoff said.

Travel agents also applauded the elimination of the "Use it or lose it" nonrefundable clauses on tickets. Travelers will now pay a $25 surcharge for any changes.

Under the old nonrefundable system, travel agents couldn't reissue or refund discount tickets, although sales offices at airlines often did, said William Cooper, president of Adventure Travels in Pompano Beach, Fla.

"This restores our credibility with our clients," he said.

Travel managers for large corporations said it was still unclear how the new fares would affect their plans.

"We're in the middle of a lot of confusion," said Barbara Cook, vice president of Topaz Enterprises, Inc., a fare-auditing business in Portland, Ore. "This comes as a surprise to corporate America."

In the past, corporate clients received discounts of up to 45 percent off coach fare, she said.

But Cook and Brent J. Garback, president of Detroit-based Total Travel, whose clients include General Motors Corp., said some airlines were negotiating new deals with important clients.

Airline officials said they were unaware of any such negotiations.

American has said the new structure will mean bigger profits in the long run and cut expenses associated with the current quagmire of fare setting. But some airlines were worried about the immediate impact on earnings.

Trans World Airlines, a frequent fare-chopper that is undergoing reorganization in bankruptcy court, said it was studying the plan.

Garback also cautioned that there had been several attempts since 1978 to simplify fare structures, with none lasting more than 90 days.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Outdoors has allure today

Staff Report

Some days are meant for the outdoors.

Today is one of them.

Bearing that out is the National Weather Service's forecast for sunny weather today and comfortable temperatures between 85 and 90 degrees. Winds are to be breezing along at 5 to 15 mph from the south and southwest.

The weatherman at the NWS at Midland International Airport is calling for a low temperature tonight in the mid-50s. Sunday's peak temperature is to hover in the mid-80s.

Friday's high temperature was 89 degrees, and the overnight low was 52.

The record high temperature for April 10 is 95 degrees in 1948, and the record low is 30 degrees in 1952.

STATE

It was partly cloudy, humid and warm across Texas Friday.

Winds were southerly at 5 to 15 miles an hour and temperatures rose into the 70s and 80s.

A few showers lingered in East Texas and the upper Gulf coast, while sunshine filtered through the clouds in West Texas, where a dry line remained entrenched.

West Texas was expected to have decreasing cloudiness over the weekend, becoming mostly fair by Sunday. Highs were to range from the mid-70s in the Panhandle to the mid-90s in the Big Bend lowlands. Lows were to range from the 40s in the north to the 50s in the Big Bend.

The forecast for North Texas was for partly to mostly cloudy skies today with a slight chance of thunderstorms. Highs were to be 80 to 86 followed by lows of 55 in the northwest to 62 in the southeast. It was expected to be partly cloudy tonight and Sunday with Sunday highs 77 to 86.

NATION

Rain and snow were scattered from the northern Plains across the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley Friday, with up to a foot of snow in Wisconsin.

Snow extended over Montana, eastern North Dakota, northern and central Minnesota, northern Wisconsin, northern Lower Michigan, and southwestern Upper Michigan. And freezing rain was scattered over west-central Minnesota.

By midday, about 12 inches of snow had fallen at Grantsburg, Wis., before turning to sleet, the National Weather Service said. Other reports, all in Minnesota, included 8 inches at Pine City, Shell Lake and Spooner, and almost 7 inches at Little Falls.

Rain fell across southern Lower Michigan, southern Wisconsin and southern Minnesota.

And rain and thunderstorms extended over the lower Ohio Valley. Hail as big as golf balls fell at Madison, Ind., during the early afternoon, the weather service said.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

BOMBS: Blasts shatter London's Friday night

(From 1A)

police from safeguarding the public, Churchill-Coleman said. The bomb detonated a half-mile away outside the Baltic Exchange, which fixes cargoes for merchant vessels.

About 50 minutes before the second blast, a man called a telephone operator in Northern Ireland's Portadown to warn that a bomb in a white van would go off on Staples Corner, Scotland Yard said. Police located the vehicle, and evacuated the area before the explosion.

The IRA has claimed responsibility for recent bombings in London, mainly directed at rail lines, as part of its campaign against British rule in Northern Ireland.

Churchill-Coleman estimated the first bomb contained 100 pounds of high explosive.

It left a crater on St. Mary Axe road near Leadenhall Street, in the City of London, a square mile governed separately from the rest of the capital. Nearby buildings were heavily damaged, including the 34-story Commercial Union Building, where dozens of window were broken, leaving shards two inches deep on sidewalks.

The site is near one of the capital's main train stations, Liverpool Street.

Police attributed reports of other explosions to the blast echoing off tall buildings.

Traffic barriers and police tapes were erected as the whole area resounded with police, ambulance and fire sirens.

Laborer Brian Raynsford, who was working in an office near the explosion, said "The building really shook. We poked our heads out of the window, and there was what seemed to be kapok and paper coming down — floating down like snow."

Earlier, political commentators in Belfast said they feared the surprise electoral defeat of Gerry Adams, leader of the political party that supports the IRA, could provoke a new campaign of violence.

Home Secretary Kenneth Baker said, "Once again the terrorists have tried to make their point through violence and not the ballot box."

On Feb. 29 a bomb went off outside a government prosecutor's office in the capital, breaking windows and slightly injuring a woman who was running for a bus.

That blast came hours after the IRA claimed responsibility for the bombing a day earlier at the busy London Bridge train station that injured 28 people and disrupted the morning commute.

One man was killed and 40 injured by an IRA bomb at Victoria Station on Feb. 18, 1991.

ECONOMY: Consumer prices jump sharply

(From 1A)

investors were heartened by the Fed's cut in U.S. interest rates, believing it will give the Bank of Japan maneuvering room to cut Japanese rates.

President Bush hailed the Fed's decision to nudge its target for the federal funds rate, the interest that banks charge each other, down a quarter point to 3.75 percent and said "there might be room to do more."

"I'm sure (Fed Chairman Alan) Greenspan would be sensitive to further action if it should be required," Bush said at a White House news conference.

While saying that most economists believe the country is now in a recovery that will be "reasonably good," the president refused to make his own prediction. He said he did not want to repeat a mistake he made last year when he forecast a "rather robust recovery" that failed to materialize.

The 0.5 percent increase in consumer prices last month, the biggest gain since a 0.7 percent spurt in October 1990, reflected higher costs in a number of areas.

Grocery store prices jumped by 0.7 percent, their biggest increase in almost two years, as fruit and vegetable prices soared, reflecting the continued fallout from flooding in winter vegetable areas of Texas and California.

Tomato prices soared 22.8 percent in March alone, and their cost is up by 110.1 percent so far this year. Bucking the higher trend, prices of oranges continued to decline, dropping by 6.9 percent last month and 38.9 percent over the past six months.

Energy prices, which had fallen for two consecutive months, advanced 0.6 percent in March, led by an 0.8 percent increase in gasoline prices. However, analysts said that pump prices have been falling since the March survey and they predicted the April report would show a decline.

The big March price increase, if it continued for an entire year, would translate into an inflation rate of 6.2 percent. However, for the first three months of the year prices are rising at an annual rate of just 3.5 percent, reflecting more modest increases of 0.1 percent in January and 0.3 percent in February.

For all of 1991, consumer prices increased at a five-year low of 3.1 percent and many economists believe the increase this year could be almost as small, giving the country its best back-to-back inflation performance since the mid 1960s.

Excluding food and energy, prices rose the same 0.5 percent in March, led by higher costs for clothing, which were up 0.6 percent after an even bigger 1.6 percent surge in February.

Also up were prices for tobacco, new cars and medical care, which has climbed 7.8 percent over the past year, the worst performance for any of the major areas in the survey.

Analysts said they believed clothing prices would begin falling again as wary consumers balk at paying higher prices, and they said price cuts just announced by major airlines would also help to hold down the overall Consumer Price Index.

"I think the March increase will turn out to be a one-month blip and nothing more than that," said Allen Sinai, chief economist of the Boston Co.

Economists, however, said it probably means the Federal Reserve will not be able to cut interest rates again until later reports confirm inflation is not accelerating.

Analysts did not believe Thursday's small cut in the federal funds rate would trigger a drop in banks' benchmark prime lending rate. But they said it should help to ease upward pressures on mortgage rates.

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported Friday that mortgage rates fell significantly this week for the first time since the year began. Thirty-year, fixed-rate mortgages dropped to 8.84 percent from the 8.96 percent of the week before. Analysts said the Fed's credit easing could mean mortgage rates will drop to 8.75 percent or lower.

The jump in consumer prices was at odds with a much more modest 0.2 percent increase in wholesale prices for March.

The various changes left the Consumer Price Index at 139.3 in March compared to 135.0 a year ago.

WAR: Report outlines successes and failures

forces — meaning that upwards of 10,000 allied soldiers might be killed or wounded.

The report to Congress, printed in three volumes and more than two months late in delivery, is the Pentagon's definitive if somewhat defensive version of how the Persian Gulf war was fought and what lessons have been learned from it.

The disclosure in the report of the casualty ceiling shows an important development in war planning at a time when the administration was still seeking the political consensus to support a military offensive.

Perhaps as significant as the scale of the anticipated casualties, which reflected the belief that chemical weapons, artillery and land mines could decimate an attacking force, is the fact that President Bush, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and Gen. Colin Powell, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, had all agreed on an upper limit for the price of liberating Kuwait at a time when President Saddam Hussein of Iraq still apparently planned to fight a defensive war of attrition.

Schwarzkopf repeatedly mentioned his determination to keep casualties at a minimum. In fact, an order like the one he was given implies that a commander who failed to obey it would be replaced.

U.S. casualties in the war totaled 148 killed in combat, including 35 by friendly fire, and 467 wounded, including 72 by allied fire. In keeping with the Bush administration's dictates since the war began, the report issued today made no mention of Iraqi casualties, either military or civilian.

The report shows that military planners believed that the initial air campaign would last about 18 days, and that the ground assault would take about two weeks more. In fact, the air campaign lasted six weeks and the ground offensive lasted 100 hours.

While the report discusses in some detail shortcomings of various weapons, notably those needed to eliminate the vast mine fields that Iraq laid on land and in the sea, it generally attributes the swift allied victory to the use of high-technology weapons and to the post-Vietnam War tactics of speed and surprise that the weapons helped make possible.

The report does not include discussions of all the shortcomings identified in various weapons, because many of the more serious ones are classified. A separate classified version of the report has also been prepared.

Although the report, written by committees and subjected to prolonged debate among rival groups within the Pentagon, seeks to hand out credit for the victory evenhandedly, in the end it seems to give the Air Force first rank among equals for the decisive role played by air power.

"The decisive character of our victory in the Gulf War is attributable in large measure to the extraordinary effectiveness of air power," Cheney said in his overview of the report. "On the other hand, air power alone could not have brought the war to so sharp and decisive a conclusion."

But in the report's barrage of facts and analysis, vision and historical revision, there are oases of silence about some of the war's most troubling features — including tne lingering question of why it ended with Saddam still in power and much of his military crippled but not crushed.

"Unfortunately, Saddam Hussein's brutal treatment of his own people, which long preceded this war, has survived it," the report states in a reflection of the administration's lingering unease over Baghdad's continuing war of nerves against the victors. "The world will be a better place when Saddam Hussein no longer misrules Iraq."

The report does not mention the decision on Feb. 27, 1991, to end the war, an omission that stands in sharp contrast to its extensive discussion of the secret strategy sessions at the Pentagon, the White House, and in the field when the details of how the war would be carried out were decided.

Bush's decision to stop the war was suprising at the time because it appeared that Schwarzkopf wanted to press on. A month after the cease-fire, Schwarzkopf told television interviewer David Frost that "my recommendation had been, you know, continue the march" because the fighting was about to become a "battle of annihilation."

Schwarzkopf had been instructed to "destroy" the Iraqi Republican Guard, Baghdad's best equipped and best trained units, as part of his formal orders when the allied offensive began on January 17, 1991, Friday's Pentagon report confirmed.

But partly because of the timing of the cease-fire, elements of those elite Iraqi units survived and have been reconstituted.

The report, which accuses Iraq of "widespread and premeditated" war crimes, offered no comprehensive accounting of the military power of Iraq that survived its defeat.

It acknowledged that the Bush administration had no strategy for responding to Iraqi war crimes, adding that such a strategy is needed "to make clear that a price will be paid for such violations."

The Pentagon report offers a detailed evaluation of these and other points in the performance of United States forces and weapons in the war, and during preparations for it.

The absence of "fully developed defensive plans between the United States and Saudi Arabia hindered initial operational planning" after the invasion of Kuwait in August 1990, the report says.

Also, the "initial military options were limited by the time required to move large forces into the theater" and U.S. forces were plagued by a "slow build-up" of armored forces during September-October 1990 due to a shortage of fast and efficient transport ships.

The report does not cite the failure of post-war negotiations by Pentagon and State Department officials to pre-position tanks, artillery and other heavy forces in Saudi Arabia for use in any future Persian Gulf crisis. Instead the report makes the case for increased spending on transport ships, aircraft and maritime pre-positioning ships.

High technology weapons and stealth "gave the coalition a decisive edge," although the bombing campaign against Iraq's nuclear program suffered from incomplete intelligence. Accurate and up-to-date information on bomb damage was at times not available. Cruise missiles were used successfully, it says.

Also, the suppression of Scud missile launchers proved a far more difficult task than projected, the report says. The lack of precision-guided bombs required multiple bombing runs with nonprecision weapons, and Iraq's electrical power grid was more heavily damaged than originally planned.

PARK: Water Wonderland to open

(From 1A)

Other plans include a music student appreciation day.

King said a number of private parties have already been booked for the park and its catering arm, Malibu Catering. Odessa chamber officials are making plans to utilize the park during a major convention to be held in the area in 1994.

Promotional deals have been made with Coca-Cola and KCHX-FM (Foxy 106) radio, among other, and King said Gandy's is considering Water Wonderland for its "Ice Cream Scream.".

The opening of the Confederate Air Force headquarters and museum at Midland International Airport, approximately a mile east of the park, has Water Wonderland officials very upbeat.

King said that last year, the park drew approximately 65,000 visitors during the summer and he expects that to increase to between 90,000 and 100,000 visitors, due largely to the CAF.

The park draws visitors from a 300-mile radius; owner S.F. "Sonny" Henderson has estimated that 10 percent of the park's attendance comes from Lubbock.

"Chamber officials tell me all the time they couldn't do without us," King said.

School tax case becomes class lawsuit

AUSTIN (AP) — A federal judge Friday certified millions of Texans as a class in a taxpayer lawsuit challenging use of the current school tax system, which has been declared unconstitutional.

But while asserting his authority to rule in the case, U.S. District Judge James Nowlin indicated that he is concerned about using that power.

The judge asked lawyers for the state, school taxing entities and taxpayers to see if they can agree on some way to at least temporarily resolve the problems in the lawsuit before him, allowing room for the Legislature to act.

He suggested they look for agreement on some method for taxpayers to seek refunds in case the current system stays in place for another school year, or credits.

Gov. Ann Richards has said she wants to call lawmakers into special session in early May to try to address a Texas Supreme Court ruling that the current school tax system violates the state constitution. The court gave lawmakers until June 1, 1993 to fix the system.

But a number of taxpayers have challenged the collection of those school property taxes for 1991 and 1992. They say the action denies them due process, violating the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

"I agree that the development of the school finance program is something better left to the state . . . My concern is my responsibility to try to enforce the federal constitution," Nowlin said.

He said he is concerned about cases like this one because of the potential effects if he grants relief. Nowlin said he does not want to interfere with the legislative process, and that state officials want to resolve the problem.

The judge said he understands why the Supreme Court put off the effect of its ruling. But he also said that action is difficult to accept "from a legal and logical standpoint."

Nowlin issued an order certifying as a class taxpaying individuals and businesses subject to school taxes levied, assessed or collected by the county education districts (CEDs) for the 1992 year.

The CEDs were created to shift tax dollars from property-rich to poorer school districts within new taxing regions made up of one or several counties.

Assistant Attorney General Toni Hunter said she would ask Nowlin for a clarification to see whether the 1991 taxpayers also are included in the class.

The taxpayers number more than 8 million, said Jim Keahey, lawyer for plaintiffs in the case.

"This was a great day for the taxpayers, for the people of Texas," Keahey said. "We're going to work towards a solution of these problems, and we're not going to have an unconstitutional tax imposed upon the citizens of Texas, I don't think."

EXPAND: State assigns 30 facilities to 29 cities

the future begins today.

"The chamber is having a strategic planning session that had already been scheduled, so we're going to get started right away," she said. "All the work done (on the prison proposal) was not wasted. It can be used for other purposes."

The state's prison project includes the proposed purchase of six controversial facilities from N-Group Inc., which are located in remote areas of the state.

The nine-member panel also accepted a facility and site from Pampa to create a 300- to 400-bed pre-parole prison, and approved building a 550-bed psychiatric hospital in Lubbock.

"When we get through with these next 25,000 beds, we will have probably — consistent with the California prison program — the largest prison system in America," said Selden Hale, the board's chairman.

The California Department of Corrections system is authorized to have just under 82,000 beds by October 1993, said CDC spokesperson Christine May.

Texas jails will have more than 70,000 beds following this expansion of 30 sites in 29 cities.

The corrections system estimates it will spend nearly $642 million over the next four to five years to build the prisons, with each unit taking between 18 months and two years to construct.

State lawmakers voted last summer for the board to create 25,000 prison beds, including 12,000 intended for substance abuse rehabilitation. The 3,000 beds to be bought from the N-Group comes from that allocation, officials said.

Several board members said they feared entering an agreement with N-Group because of the company's tainted reputation, while others voiced concerns with the remote locations of the firm's six sites.

Patrick and Michael Graham, brothers who headed N-Group, were indicted in Pecos County in October for state antitrust violations for not taking bids on their construction and management contracts.

"This is a poor decision that would affect the system long-term. It is nothing more than a bail out by a quick-talking, snake oil salesman," said board member Allan Polunsky of San Antonio.

Polunsky suggested the state try leasing the buildings, a plan he said would "immediately" relieve county jail overcrowding but would not burden the state with ownership of the property. His motion failed.

Prison executive director James Lynaugh said leasing the prisons could cost the state as much as $900,000 per month. He said by owning them instead, "we could use (the sites) for four or five years and come out with no loss to the taxpayers."

Panelist Ellen Halbert of Austin said the "reality is that we're in a crises situation and we need the beds." Her motion to purchase the site was approved 7-2.

N-Group's facilities are in Cotulla, Fort Stockton, Lufkin, Marlin, San Saba and Tulia.

Bush blunts paralysis report

N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Apparently trying to counter the notion of policy paralysis in the White House and a re-election campaign adrift, President Bush answered reporters' questions in the Rose Garden for an hour Friday, discoursing on matters ranging from Peru to Perot and from parks to perks.

On the substantive issues he addressed — welfare, for example, and the environment, health, education and the economy — Bush broke little new ground.

But he displayed a presidential mastery of those topics and used the occasion to rail against Congress and to deny reports that he had brought his son George to Washington to put the White House and the campaign in order.

Of foreign policy, he said he would support subjecting Peru to "outside pressure," including economic sanctions, to promote a restoration of democracy there.

The setting was made to order for the cameras, outdoors under the blooming tulip magnolias on this spring's warmest day yet, and it played to Bush's political strength.

He performs much better in a casual give-and-take with reporters than he does in a formal speech, where he tends to be stiff, or at a campaign rally, where he is often awkward.

He began the unusually long news conference by reading a statement in which he ran through the news of the week and his activities as president: his meeting Friday on welfare policy with Gov. Tommy G. Thompson of Wisconsin; his pleasure on learning Thursday that the Federal Reserve had cut an influential interest rate; his speech on the former Soviet Union at an editors' meeting; his conversations with leaders in Ukraine, Czechoslovakia, Venezuela and Nicaragua; his satisfaction on learning of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega's conviction on drug charges, and his support for a political settlement in Afghanistan.

In other words, Bush stressed the theme his political advisers have established for him: that he can best run for re-election by acting presidential. In the first 250 words of his statement, he used the word "reform" nine times.

Later, when a reporter asked him why he wanted to be president for another term, Bush began his answer by saying that he wanted to "enhance world peace and democracy around the world" and to "improve the lives of people here at home."

Then he said, "I think the people want change."

Bush took specific issue with an article in The New York Times Friday that quoted aides as saying he was unhappy with the operations of the White House and his campaign and had asked his son George to review the situation.

"It simply is not true," the president said. "If I were dissatisfied, you'd know about it loud and clear, and I'm happy about it."

He acknowledged, however, that his son was in town and had visited the campaign office.

The president refused to discuss Gov. Bill Clinton of Arkansas, who presumably will be his Democratic opponent in the fall campaign, or H. Ross Perot, the industrialist who has said he is interested in running as an independent.

Bush also said he had sent "specific instructions in writing to our people to stay out of the sleaze business."

On policy matters, he made these points:

■ Achieving education goals, like making American students first in the world in math and science, would be his top priority in a second term.

■ He favors the principle of legislation passed by the House of Representatives Thursday night that would raise the amount of money the elderly could earn without losing Social Security benefits, but he opposes the House bill because it would increase the budget deficit.

■ He will not introduce health insurance legislation this year because Congress would not pass it. And besides, he has not decided exactly how to finance it.

■ He is granting official waivers of federal law to states like Wisconsin that want to cut welfare benefits because he wants the states to be "laboratories" for welfare experiments.

■ He has not decided whether to attend a meeting of world leaders in Brazil in June to discuss the environment, but he is determined to find the proper "balance" between environmental protection and economic production.

■ He has no objection to Caterpillar Inc.'s hiring of permanent replacements for striking workers as long as no laws are broken.

Several times during his news conference, Bush reasserted his view that Congress was to blame for many of the nation's ills.

Yeltsin promises to step down as prime minister by year's end

MOSCOW (AP) — Offering a compromise to save his decree-making powers, President Boris Yeltsin on Friday promised to soften his economic reforms and step down as prime minister by the end of the year.

In a brief speech to the Russian parliament, an obviously tired Yeltsin offered the minor concessions to the former Communist lawmakers who have doggedly attacked his reforms and tried to limit his authority.

Both Yeltsin and his Communist critics claimed the Russian president's promises represented a victory for them.

Presidential adviser Galina Starovoitova said Yeltsin had preserved what was most important to him. "Presidential decrees are the locomotive of reform," she said.

"I think his position as president has been weakened," said lawmaker Amangeldy Tuleyev, a member of the anti-Yeltsin camp.

Still, in the politicking that led to the compromise, Yeltsin forced his opponents to give up more than they gained by threatening a national referendum, or even new parliamentary elections, if they revoked his powers.

Yeltsin spoke to the 1,046-member Congress of People's Deputies after it passed, on first reading, a resolution that maintained his sweeping powers but urged him to relinquish the post of prime minister within a month.

Yeltsin currently has the authority to directly set economic and military policies and appointment government officials. Parliament, dominated by former Communists, has the power to end reforms or strip Yeltsin of all but ceremonial functions.

Volcano erupts in Nicaragua; 4,000 evacuate

LEON, Nicaragua (AP) — Under a rain of ashes and hot sand, 4,000 peasants on Friday fled the slopes of a 2,600-foot volcano that erupted unexpectedly in northwestern Nicaragua after being dormant for more than 20 years.

Dirt roads were clogged with ox-drawn carts piled high with people and belongings. Other residents moved out on horseback or on foot.

A small child and a middle-aged woman were hurt, falling from a roof near Leon while trying to sweep away ash.

Cerro Negro, 15 miles northeast of Leon, erupted late Thursday night and spewed volcanic debris inches deep over an area 40 miles around.

Villages being evacuated included Rota, Los Urroces, Telica, Chacraseca and Quezalguaque. Corinto, Nicaragua's main west coast port, was blanketed in ash.

"There was rumbling. At first we thought we had the first downpour of the rainy season. But it was raining ashes instead," said Nina Gutierrez, a student at the National Autonomous University.

She had been staying on the slopes of the volcano. She fled to Leon, a city of 150,000 people.

The government declared a state of alert. Defense Minister Humberto Ortega said military helicopters were sent out to assess damage.

Cerro Negro forms part of the Marribios volcanic chain on Nicaragua's Pacific coast. At least 12 of the volcanos are active.

Leon Mayor Luis Felipe Perez said the volcanic debris is spreading in the shape of a cone from six miles to 50 miles wide.

People in Leon covered up and put on hats before going oudoors to protect themselves from hot ash and sand. Many tried to sweep the ash off the roofs of their homes, fearing the roofs would collapse under the accumulation.

It was Cerro Negro's 15th eruption since it first turned active in 1867.

Leon was founded for a second time in 1610. The original city called Leon Viejo, founded by the Spaniards in 1524, was destroyed by an earthquake.

Major vows to establish 'classless' community

LONDON (NYT) — Emboldened by the Conservative Party's unexpected triumph in the national election on Thursday, Prime Minister John Major vowed Friday to lead Britain out of recession and toward the "classless society" he envisioned when he took over the government from Margaret Thatcher 16 months ago.

Appearing outside 10 Downing Street only hours after voters defied pundits, bookmakers and poll takers who argued the Conservatives were likely to fall to the Labor Party, the prime minister chose to strike a deliberately conciliatory tone after one of the most closely fought British election campaigns in recent memory.

He promised he would expand opportunities for education, job training and home ownership, and assured voters he had no intention of ever privatizing Britain's National Health Service, as Labor had asserted during the campaign.

"Every government that has ever been elected in this country has had people who didn't vote for it," said Major, 49, whose personal popularity among voters helped extend the Tories' winning streak to four elections, beginning in 1979. "And my job as prime minister is to make sure I never overlook their interests when I frame legislation, and when I decide what the government does."

But as Major beamed and Conservatives took solace in their narrow escape — they watched their majority of 86 seats in the House of Commons shrink to just 21 — the rival Labor Party was plunged into despair and recrimination over its failure yet again to topple the Tories, in spite of Britain's worst recession since the 1930s.

Neil Kinnock, 50, who as head of the Labor Party has now lost two successive elections to the Conservatives, went into seclusion Friday, amid speculation that he might resign as the party's leader.

Aides to Kinnock released a brief public statement that said, "I am consulting with colleagues to inform them of the action which I propose to take in the wake of the election defeat."

Close aides to Kinnock said the Welsh coal miner's son had been devastated by the defeat, since he believed, on the basis of public opinion polls and the Labor Party's own analysis, that he was headed for victory on Thursday.

With the final results in from balloting in all 651 seats in the House of Commons, the Conservatives won 336 seats; Labor, 271, and the centrist Liberal Democrats, 20. Regional parties won 24 seats.

Experts on parliamentary government said a majority of 21 seats would give the Conservatives just enough of a cushion to insure passage of their legislative program, although party whips would have to exact a stricter discipline among members to assure attendance for critical votes.

For Major, the election marked a personal triumph, and gave him his first popular mandate to govern.

He had assumed the premiership by default in November 1990, when Mrs. Thatcher was ousted in a Conservative Party revolt.

Major wasted little time Friday in working to put his own stamp on his new government, and aides to the Prime Minister said he was likely to announce a reshuffled Cabinet today.

News of the unexpected Conservative victory sent London stocks and bonds soaring, after weeks of uncertainty among businessmen and traders, who said they feared that plans by Labor to increase taxes and public welfare spending would set back any hope of economic recovery.

Officials expect Iranian vote to favor Rafsanjani

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iranians voted Friday in parliamentary elections expected to strengthen the hand of President Hashemi Rafsanjani as he seeks to improve the economy and expand ties with the West.

"We would like to think that these elections are a stepping stone for future political and economic decisions," Rafsanjani said after casting his ballot at a prayer hall where Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini usually preached. It was the first such election since the 1989 death of Khomeini.

The results, due Wednesday, were likely to deal a blow to hard-line Islamic fundamentalists who still adhere to Khomeini's policies. Iranians and diplomats said they expected Rafsanjani's more pragmatic supporters to win 70 percent of the 270 seats.

The president's faction argues that economic reform and more foreign trade will help cure unemployment and inflation. But the radicals see ties to the West as a betrayal of Khomeini's teachings.

Complete results might not be known for weeks because of the complex electoral system, runoffs and challenges.

By official count, 2,030 candidates were in the race. About 1,000 others were disqualified a week before the vote, including 40 of the president's most rabid critics in parliament.

Rafsanjani urged voters to cast ballots even if they oppose the government, and to write any criticism on their ballots.

He kept the polls open an extra three hours to encourage people to vote, but turnout appeared slow. There were no official estimates of the turnout.

Anyone over the age of 15 in the 60 million population can vote. Privately, senior Iranian officials said they expected no more than 8 million people to cast ballots.

However, they said the official media were likely to report an exaggerated turnout, closer to the 17.5 million ballots reported cast in the 1989 presidential elections.

Radio and television broadcasts told Iranians that every vote was "a powerful punch in the face of the West." Listening to the radio, Ali Shamsi, owner of a confectionery store, snapped: "I don't want to punch anyone. I just want to stay home and enjoy my only day of rest."

Some voters expressed hopes that a gradual liberalization will curb inflation, raise employment and dilute revolutionary zeal.

"We need educated and specialized candidates to go into the Majlis. Then we will have an improved economy and better reconstruction," said Yacoub Akhbari, 37.

Security was heavy around the 30,000 polling stations, with 90,000 police on alert. But Tehran appeared calm.

U.N. reports Afghanistan agrees on interim government

GENEVA (AP) — Warring parties in Afghanistan have agreed to form a council that will hand over power to an interim government, U.N. Secretary-General Butros Butros-Ghali said Friday. But one rebel leader rejected the accord.

Boutros-Ghali described the agreement as the "first step of reconciliation" in a country where 2 million people have died since civil war began in 1979, when the former Soviet Union invaded to prop up the communist government.

The secretary-general declined to say whether President Najibullah, in power since 1987, would have a role in the interim government.

The creation of the "pre-transition council" was meant to prevent the sudden collapse of Najibullah's government and further anarchy in the already shattered country.

"Most of the parties concerned recognize that the transfer of power from the current government in Kabul to the interim government must take place in an orderly manner if chaos and civil war are to be averted," Boutros-Ghali said in a statement.

He said it was expected that the 15-member council would assume executive powers before the end of the month.

"At this most critical stage of Afghan history, I appeal to all Afghans to put aside their differences and let the wounds heal," the secretary-general said.

But the best armed and most radical rebel leader, Gulbuddin Hekmatyar, rejected the U.N. accord, and said from Islamabad, Pakistan, that without his party's participation any agreement would fail. More moderate rebel groups accepted the plan.

Mild earthquake shakes Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — A mild earthquake shook Tokyo and the surrounding area late Friday. Officials said there were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

The quake's epicenter was at a depth of about 50 miles under eastern Tokyo, the Central Meteorological Agency said. It had a preliminary reading of 4.6 on the Richter scale.

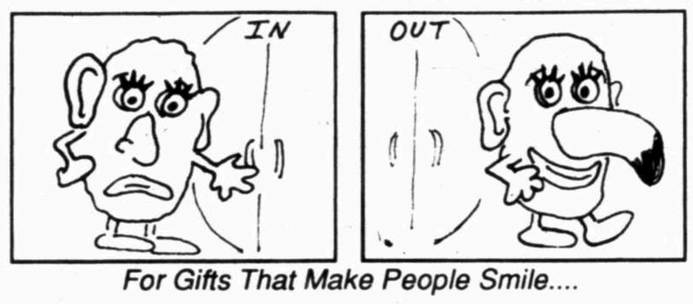

The agency said the quake registered three on the Japanese scale of seven in Tokyo, Kofu, Nikko and Yokohama. A tremor of that scale is strong enough to sway buildings.

The Richter scale is a gauge of the total magnitude of an earthquake.

Kuwait begins new trials for accused collaborators

KUWAIT CITY (AP) — A new series of trials for those accused of collaborating with Iraq starts today, and authorities are striving to avoid the allegations of human rights abuses hurled at them during similar trials last year.

"Judging by the preparations for the trials at the Justice Ministry, I believe that the mistakes of the past will be avoided this time," said Imad al-Seif, a lawyer and critic of last year's trials.

The first collaboration trials were held last May, in the highly charged atmosphere that followed the liberation of Kuwait by U.S.-led coalition forces in February 1991.

Many Kuwaitis who suffered the Iraqis' brutal seven-month occupation were howling for revenge. Those perceived to have supported the August 1990 invasion, particularly Palestinians and Jordanians, were thrown in jail or hounded out of the emirate.

The hearings were sharply criticized by international human rights groups and Kuwaiti defense attorneys for the lack of evidence presented by authorities.

The trials were suspended June 26 when martial law was lifted.

Twenty-nine people had been sentenced to death, but these were commuted to life imprisonment. Another 164 people were given 25-year sentences and 35 defendants were acquitted.

Starting today, about 100 defendants will go before civilian judges on charges ranging from informing to joining the Iraqi Popular Army.

These no-jury courts are presided over by three judges. The martial law courts had two military judges.

Al-Seif, who is defending at least eight people, said the authorities have dropped charges in some cases for lack of evidence.

"We've learned the lesson," he said. "Officials are now convinced that respecting human rights in Kuwait means more respect for Kuwait, especially as we're still asking the world to help us return our POWs."

U.N. warns Iraq not to harm spy planes

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council on Friday warned Iraq it would face "serious consequences" if it interfered with U-2 spy plane flights by U.N. weapons inspectors.

Iraq had urged a halt to such flights and said aircraft and pilots were in danger from possible "unfortunate incidents."

Angry U.N. officials urgently asked the Security Council to get assurances of safety from Iraq. Flights scheduled this weekend were expected to proceed.

After closed consultations, the council issued a written statement which President S.S. Mumbengegwi, the ambassador of Zimbabwe, read aloud to reporters and gave to acting Iraqi Ambassador Samir K. al-Nima.

It said the members "warn the Iraqi government of the serious consequences which would ensue from the failure of Iraq to comply" with obligations to protect U.N. aircraft and crew. The "consequences" were not spelled out.

A response from the Baghdad government was expected.

The overflights are used by the U.N. Special Commission, which inspects and oversees dismantling of Iraq's weapons of mass destruction under provisions of the Security Council resolutions which ended the Gulf War last year.

One U-2 plane is on loan to the commission from the United States. It is manned by a U.S. pilot and flies usually twice a week.

De Klerk fails to gain Nigerian agreements

ABUJA, Nigeria (NYT) — President F.W. de Klerk of South Africa ended a two-day visit to Nigeria Friday without obtaining any promise of formal relations with Africa's most populous nation.

Despite the warm reception de Klerk received, no agreements emerged from his visit, the first by a South African head of state to Nigeria, a country that for years was among the most militant critics of apartheid.

After more talks Friday morning with President Ibrahim Babangida, de Klerk said at a news conference that their wide-ranging discussions had been "extremely constructive" and had taken place in "a very warm and friendly atmosphere."

But Babangida also said that diplomatic relations would not be forthcoming before South Africa formed a multiracial transitional government.

He urged de Klerk to stop political violence and to step up talks on a constitution giving blacks equal rights.

Judge sentences Keating to maximum of 10 years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Keating Jr. was sentenced Friday to the maximum 10 years in prison and fined $250,000 for swindling investors, many of them elderly people left destitute when his Lincoln Savings collapsed.

Keating, 68, was denied bail while he appeals his securities fraud convictions stemming from sales of junk bonds through his savings and loan. He hugged family members and was led away by bailiffs.

Superior Court Judge Lance A. Ito said Keating deserved the maximum prison sentence because of the number of victims and the large amount of money lost in the fraud.

"This whole situation has been a tragedy for everyone involved," Ito said.

Keating, a developer based in Phoenix, was convicted Dec. 4 of 17 state securities fraud counts involving Lincoln Savings and Loan investors who lost $1 million. They were a few of the more than 17,000 who lost $250 million when Lincoln became the costliest thrift failure ever.

■ More national news/7C

District Attorney Ira Reiner called the sentence "a grand slam." Prosecutor William Hodgman said that with time off for good behavior Keating could get out of prison in five years.

Keating was taken to the Los Angeles County jail. Where he will serve his prison term wasn't immediately determined.

In denying bail, Ito called Keating a "significant flight risk." He noted that Keating had property in England as recently as 1989 that had not been accounted for. He also cited Keating's foreign contacts and significant overseas currency trading.

Keating, in a brief statement to the court, said that far from looting bondholders' money to support a lavish lifestyle for his family, the money went to solid real estate developments in Arizona.

"Someday I hope I will be able to tell that story in full," said Keating, who so far has cited his Fifth Amendment right not to testify.

As the sentence was pronounced, Keating sat glumly with his chin perched on his hand. At the end he turned toward his wife and 20 other family members, mouthing silently, "I love you."

Ito said he was impressed by a laudatory report about Keating and said he obviously had a proud and caring family. But the judge said that it was apparent by February 1989 that "something catastrophic" was going to happen to Keating's companies.

Yet Keating continued to let his American Continental Corp. junk bonds be sold to his Lincoln Savings investors — securities that became worthless two months later.

"I think when you go into a federally insured institution you expect it to have some degree of safety," Ito said.

Keating was tried in state court on charges that investors, many of them elderly, were duped into believing risky junk bonds were safe. American Continental junk bonds were sold at or near branches of Lincoln.

Caterpillar, UAW agree to meet for negotiations

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Caterpillar Inc. and the United Auto Workers agreed to resume negotiations to end a bitter 5-month-old strike that has idled nearly 13,000 employees, both sides said Friday.

However, Caterpillar vice president Wayne Zimmerman said the company's final offer was still on the table and he believes negotiations remain at an impasse.

"Anytime you're discussing things, it's progress," said Zimmerman. "But, I don't know if it's a breakthrough."

Company and union officials will meet Monday with representatives of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in a Chicago suburb, the agency said.

New breakthrough helps people tune into voices, not noise.

Chicago - The new, American-made ClearVoice K hearing aid, recently introduced by Beltone Electronics Corporation, uses breakthrough technology to help overcome the problem millions of Americans have understanding voices and conversations in noisy places. The unique K-Amp™ microcircuit amplifies only the soft sounds. Loud sounds, like people shouting and dishes clattering, pass through without any amplification, as if there were no hearing aid present. And ClearVoice K circuitry can be contained in a hearing aid so tiny it fits hidden in the ear canal. People rarely notice when it's worn.

If you have trouble understanding words and voices, you may be a candidate for the Beltone ClearVoice K. Call Beltone to make an appointment for a FREE Voice Understanding Assessment. Call 682-2180. There's absolutely no cost to you and no obligation.

George wants title

HOUSTON (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman says his fight tonight in Las Vegas against Alex Stewart could be his last unless he gets another shot at the title now held by Evander Holyfield.

"If it is (his last bout) I plan to go out my way — having fun and eating to win," Foreman said Friday in a column he wrote for The Houston Post.

Foreman said tonight's fight was part of a plan he had with the expectation he'd get a rematch with Holyfield.

Meager field opens relays

■ Only four boys teams will participate in today's track meet at Memorial Stadium.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

The on again, off again Tall City Relays are back, although pared down to a meager four-team, pre-district, boys only trial run today at Memorial Stadium.

San Angelo, Odessa Permian, Midland Lee and Midland High make up the field and will not include girls, who are headed to Roswell, N.M.

Action begins at 9:45 a.m. with field event finals. Running preliminaries will be at 10:30 a.m. and finals begin at 1:30 p.m. with the 3200-meter run. There will be both varsity and junior varsity divisions.

This is the last meet of the season before next week's District 4-5A run at Abilene Christian University, so the final tune-up is needed — but so are some more teams.

"We've looked for teams everywhere, but there are meets in Amarillo, Lubbock, El Paso and Abilene this weekend," said Jack Tayrien, Midland athletic director. "The two Abilene teams are hosting a meet in Abilene and they didn't want the other district teams in their meet since the district meet is next weekend. Odessa High is also not coming for the same reason. Some of the schools in smaller classifications don't want to run against 5A teams.

"It's been a hard sell, but we are comit-

Golf veteran Raymond Floyd blasts out of a sand trap on the second hole in Friday's round at Augusta, Ga. Floyd is two shots off the lead at 7-under.

Woosnam conquers the greens

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Ian Woosnam located his long-lost putting touch and Craig Parry found a birdie in a trash bag Friday as the lush green acres of Augusta National once again became a foreign playground.

Woosnam, the 5-foot-4½ Welshman who is the defending champion, and the 1½-inch taller Parry, an Australian, each shot 6-under-par 66 and shared a one-shot lead at the halfway point of the Masters.

They were at 135, nine under par on the fabled old course that continued to be surprisingly vulnerable to the strokes of golf's greatest players.

Examples:

— The 145 score required to qualify for the final 36 holes matched the lowest cut in the Masters' 56-year history.

— The record assault on par reached new heights with 18 rounds in the 60s and 29 others under par — this after 18 in the 60s and 17 others under par in the first round.

Bulldogs, Rebels face off in 2nd-half baseball opener

■ Midland High and Midland Lee begin the second half of the district baseball season against each other.

Staff Report

Even if it weren't for the Midland High-Midland Lee rivalry, today's game between the two baseball teams would have plenty of intensity.

That's because when the first pitch is thrown out at 2 p.m. on Johnson Field, both Tall City schools will be in the thick of the chase for District 4-5A's two playoff berths.

Lee is 9-8 overall and MHS is 7-12, but both stand at 3-3 in district play at the completion of 4-5A's first half. Today's other district games feature Odessa Permian (4-2) visiting Odessa High (1-5), while 5-1 Abilene Cooper and 3-3 Abilene High battle at Hardin-Simmons University.

Though today's game will be at Lee's home field, the advantage is minimized because both schools should have vocal contingents in attendance. The Rebels could have a psychological edge, though, having defeated MHS twice already this season.

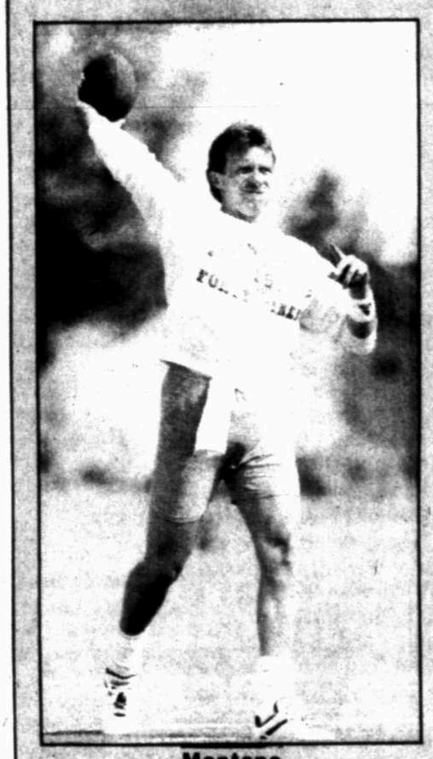

The Rebels posted a 13-12 comeback victory over the Bulldogs in the Tournament of Champions, then downed MHS 5-2 in the district opener March 17. Lee is coming off an 18-16 scorefest win over San Angelo Tuesday, and though Julian Urquidez (5-0) and Jimmy Patton (2-2) both pitched in that game, Patton ought to be the best rested after throwing 1⅔ innings.

■ District standings, Lee-MHS stats/3B

Having the league's open date Tuesday, the Bulldogs did not play a non-district game and should all be rested. While Brian Rounding (2-5) has recorded the most decisions, the Rebels might also see Dewayne Culpepper (2-3), Mario Rodriguez (1-0) or Joe Urquidez (1-0).

NOTE: For batting practice observers, the Lee boster club will open the concession stand at noon and will be serving grilled hamburgers and sausages until game time.

No glitches in Montana's arm

Montana

Associated Press

SANTA CLARA, Calif. — Joe Montana had more problems with his feet than his throwing arm on Friday while going through his first formal workout since having elbow surgery.

Montana, trying at 35 to come back from the elbow injury that sidelined him all last season, went through a variety of throwing routines — from short tosses to fullspeed, seven-on-seven passing drills — during a 75-minute workout session at the 49ers minicamp for rookies and free agents.

"This told me two things," Montana said. "One, that my arm feels pretty good. The other is that it's a little different dropping back, throwing with timing. I almost tripped over my feet a couple of times."

The first 49er on the field for the workout, Montana alternated with Steve Bono and Bill Musgrave in every drill, not shying away from anything. His arm looked strong throwing all types of passes, including a 40-yarder over the top that fell incomplete.

Missions bag Angels in opener

Staff Report

SAN ANTONIO — The San Antonio Missions put on a hefty display of power Friday night in the Alamo City, dumping the Midland Angels 10-2 in the 1992 Texas League opener for both teams.

The Missions pounded out four home runs — all of which came off starter and loser Paul Swingle (0-1), who was roughed up for nine earned runs in his three inning appearance.

In other league openers Friday night, El Paso shut out Wichita, 8-0; Tulsa downed Jackson, 3-2, in 10 innings, and 1991 champion Shreveport defeated Arkansas, 3-1.

The most bitter pill for Swingle to swallow was that seven of the Missions' first nine runs came with two outs.

The barrage began in the first when all four San Antonio runs came after Swingle had retired the first two batters. Tony Barron hit an 0-1 pitch over the left field wall for the first homer of the season against Angel pitching.

In the San Antonio second, Jorge Alvarez led off with a round-tripper to give the Missions a 5-0 lead. Later in the inning, Mike Piazza knocked a two-run shot out of the park. After Piazza rounded the bases, Billy Ashley took the very next pitch out of the park with a solo homer of his own.

Starter Dave Hansell retired the first 12 Midland batters before the Angels' Tony Brown led off the fifth with a dou-

MHS golfers hang on to second place

Midland High was hoping to improve its lot in the District 4-5A boy's golf race during Friday's Tall City tour stop.

Abilene High was out to tighten its grip on first place and San Angelo looked to clamp down on the second-place Bulldogs.

Only the visitors accomplished their goals.

AHS, which came into the third of four league outings with a two-stroke lead over MHS, upped that advantage to seven strokes with a day's-best 312 at Green Tree Country Club and stands at 933 after three rounds. Meanwhile, the Bulldogs' two-shot lead over San Angelo was halved.

But for James Reyes' tap-in for birdie on the finishing hole, MHS and San Angelo would be tied for second place. The Bobcats teamed for a 316 and MHS finished at 317 as the race for second place moved down to a

MC's McKinney on familiar turf in All-Star game

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

■ Texas vs. USA All-Star Basketball Game, 7 p.m., Chaparral Center.

The 1991-92 junior college basketball season returned Midland College to the Region V tournament and provided fans with ample opportunities to witness an entertaining style of play during the season.

The just-completed season also brought to MC the welcome return of above average guard play.

After a two-year letdown at the position that brought a string of mostly forgettable performances, MC was loaded at the position this year. Terrance Rone and his long-range shooting ability. Shawn Morris' unselfishness, passing and ball-handling ability. And, of course, there was Chris McKinney.

McKinney, a sophomore transfer who started for San Diego State in his freshmen season, was the Chaps' leading scorer this season, averaging 20 points per game. After the disappointment of garnering only an All-Western Junior College Athletic Conference honorable mention, McKinney now finds himself in the lineup for tonight's Texas squad in the annual Texas-USA All-Star game at Chaparral Center.

"I don't consider that I made the all conference team," he said. "But I feel I worked hard enough to make it."

McKinney, who says he isn't sure where he'll be going to complete his collegiate career, finds himself in familiar territory for tonight's game.

As one of the guards for the Texas team, McKinney will more than likely find himself matched up against an old nemesis from this season, WJCAC Player of the Year Greg Brown, of New Mexico Junior College. Brown, a 5-7 point guard who averaged 18.5 ppg, and 9.5 assists last season, has committed to play for

Twins first to knock off Texas, 7-1

Associated Press

American

MINNEAPOLIS — Five pitches into the game, it was all behind Shane Mack.

Five pitches into Minnesota's home opener, the ball was behind the wall, the Twins led 1-0 and the sellout crowd was cheering wildly for the defending World Series champions.

Mack, knocked cold by a beanball in his last at-bat, hit a leadoff homer and added three singles Friday as the Twins won 7-1 and handed the Texas Rangers their first loss.

"He certainly had a super night," Twins manager Tom Kelly said. "I'm really happy for him. He's a tough athlete. He told me he's taken some awfully tough blows playing football, but that was a pretty good shot the other night."

Mack homered off Milwaukee's Chris Bosio on Wednesday but was hit in the head by Mike Fetters his next time up. Mack sustained a concussion and missed Thursday's game.

Any concern that the beaning might have caused him to lose his aggressiveness at the plate was erased on Bobby Witt's sixth pitch, which Mack deposited over the center-field fence.

Mack, who replaced Dan Gladden as Minnesota's leadoff batter and left fielder, also stole a base and made a diving catch in foul territory. He was 4 for 5 in his second career four-hit game.

"I was confident," he said. "I didn't feel intimidated. I just put it behind me. I didn't feel any jitters."

After the homer, Witt was the jittery one.

"After that situation, I try not to let it affect me, but tonight it was hard," said Witt, who was seeking his first win since May 26. "I had trouble with my fastball, getting behind the hitters. Anytime you do that, it's going to be a problem."

Meanwhile, Minnesota's Kevin Tapani breezed through seven innings against a team that had opened the season with four victories over Seattle and had scored 38 runs on 50 hits in the process.

"That was a great contrast — (Tapani) getting ahead of all the hitters, Witt getting behind all the hitters," Texas manager Bobby Valentine said. "We were on our heels the whole time."

Blue Jays 4, Orioles 3

TORONTO — Pat Borders tied the game with a ninth-inning home run off Gregg Olson and Roberto Alomar singled in the winning run as the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Baltimore Orioles for their fourth straight victory.

Toronto, off to the first 4-0 start in its history, drew a SkyDome regular season-record crowd of 50,424 for its home opener. The Blue Jays last year became the first team to draw 4 million in one season.

Baltimore led 3-2 before the one-out home run by Borders. It was the third of the season for Borders, who didn't hit his first last year until July 30.

Devon White then doubled with two outs and Alomar lined a run-scoring single to center.

Pat Hentgen got the victory, allowing one hit and striking out four in two innings.

Baltimore took a 3-0 lead in the first off Jimmy Key when Brady Anderson and Joe Orsulak hit consecutive doubles, Cal Ripken singled in a run, Randy Milligan grounded into a double play and Mike Devereaux hit his second home run of the season.

John Olerud hit a sacrifice fly in the second and Kelly Gruber hit an RBI double in the eighth off Todd Frohwirth.

Yankees 7, Tigers 3

DETROIT — Charlie Hayes drove in three runs with three hits, leading Melido Perez and the unbeaten New York Yankees past the winless Detroit Tigers.

Mel Hall homered and drove in two runs and Danny Tartabull had an RBI single as the Yankees improved to 3-0. Detroit is 0-4.

Perez, acquired in an offseason trade that sent Steve Sax to the Chicago White Sox, won his Yankees' debut. He pitched 5 2-3 innings and gave up three runs on five hits and six walks.

UNLV regents approve Rollie

LAS VEGAS (AP) — The Nevada Board of Regents approved on Thursday a five-year contract that will guarantee new UNLV basketball coach Rollie Massimino at least $386,000 a year.

The regents didn't see the contract, but relied on information provided by UNLV president Robert Maxson.

Regent Shelley Berkley complained about the way the contract was presented, saying in the future she would like to see the documents she is approving.

Massimino reportedly had an annual package worth about $300,000 at Villanova before taking over at UNLV last week.

one-stroke battle, 940-941. Abilene Cooper, which tallied 318 at GTCC, is fourth at 950.

"My heart was beating pretty fast there on that last putt," said Reyes, whose 74 was the best of the day for MHS and only one of two Bulldog scores that broke 80.

"We're not in very good shape to win," MHS coach John Ford said. "I'm disappointed with our performance on a home course where we should have had a 10 or 12-stroke advantage. Now we'll just have to see who wants it the most."

AHS, led by Jody Crowe, whose 71 Friday increased his lead in the medalist chase to 13 strokes over Abilene Cooper's Chad Wellhausen, had three players shoot in the 70s. The only other team to accomplish that feat was Midland Lee — not Lee's No. 1 team, but it's No. 2 contingent.

"It's hard to believe. The No. 2 team practiced on all the courses in town while the No. 1 team played out here every day last week except for Wednesday," said Lee coach Bobby Dunn, who watched his No. 2 squad shoot a 320 — five strokes better than the No. 1 Rebel squad — and move up five places in the standings to seventh overall at 1,019. Lee I's 325 left the Rebels in sixth place with 976 strokes.

"I really thought the scores would be better than what they were," Dunn said. "Heck, we shot a 306 in the Tall City Tournament."

Danny Holtzclaw led Lee II with a 77 and Cody Vaughn and Brian Bookings shot 79s.

MHS got a 78 out of Dean Watson, who fell into an eighth-place tie with teammate Josh Ham in the medalist race. Each Bulldog stands at 235 with only next Friday's round at Odessa Country Club left to determine the two medalists and two teams that will advance to the Regional Tournament, May 1-2, in Lubbock.

Ham entered the round in fourth place among the medalist hopefuls, and he turned in a solid one-over-par 37 on the front nine. But he ran into trouble on the North Nine, where he even had to pitch his third shot on the par 5 ninth back away from the hole to get it safely out from the heel of a green-side bunker.

Reyes, who chipped to within three feet of the flag on No. 9, sits at 233 and is tied with San Angelo's Jeff Jost for fifth place. The pair is 16 strokes behind Crowe, but just three shots off the second-place pace set by McCandless.

Lee's Mitch Spence added a 79 to his first two rounds of 76 and 79 and stands at 234, alone in seventh place for individual honors.

Reds' Oliver homers for win over Houston

Associated Press

National

HOUSTON — Joe Oliver hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning and Chris Hammond won his fourth consecutive decision against Houston as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Astros 8-5 Friday night.

Barry Larkin and Paul O'Neill also homered for the Reds, who had lost three of their first four.

Hammond, troubled by tendinitis in his elbow during the second half of last season, got his first victory since beating the Astros last July 5. He allowed six hits in six innings, struck out five and walked one.

Norm Charlton entered with the bases loaded in the ninth and finished for his second save. He allowed an RBI single to Steve Finley and a run-scoring double to Jeff Bagwell, but Craig Biggio was thrown out at the plate by Larkin's relay from shortstop. Ken Caminti then flied out, ending the game.

Ryan Bowen (0-1) was pounded for all eight runs and eight hits in five innings.

Hal Mortis gave Cincinnati the lead with a two-run single in the first, but Pete Incavgilia hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the inning, his first home run with the Astros.

Larkin hit a two-run homer in the third, and the Reds took an 8-2 lead in the fifth on O'Neill's solo homer and Oliver's three-run drive.

Jeff Bagwell hit a run-scoring single in the sixth following Finley's triple.

Expos 4, Mets 0

NEW YORK — Everything was fine for Dwight Gooden in his return to Shea Stadium except the final score.

The capacity crowd cheered when Gooden's name was announced in the starting lineup and he went on to pitch seven strong innings. But Ken Hill pitched a little better and the Montreal Expos beat New Yorkin the Mets' home opener.

It was Gooden's first start at Shea Stadium since Aug. 22, when he left with stiffness in his right shoulder after five innings. It turned out to be a slight rotator cuff tear and Gooden had arthroscopic surgery Sept. 7. There were some doubts he would ever be the same.

Gooden's life also was complicated by a rape investigation during spring training. Prosecutors said Thursday that no charges would be filed, but Gooden still was concerned about the reaction from the home crowd when he took the mound.

He got cheers at the start, cheers when he batted in the third inning and cheers when he left with two outs in the seventh. He wound up allowing two runs and three hits in 6 2-3 innings.

Cardinals 2, Cubs 1

CHICAGO — Rex Hudler and Ray Lankford hit consecutive doubles in the 11th inning Friday as the St. Louis Cardinals Cardinals spoiled the Cubs' home opener.

Hudler doubled over centerfielder Sammy Sosa's head with one out and scored on Lankford's double to right-centerfield off Paul Assenmacher (0-1).

Cris Carpenter (1-0), the third St. Louis pitcher, got three outs for the victory and Lee Smith pitched the 11th for his first save.

Pirates 3, Phillies 2

PHILADELPHIA — Barry Bonds hit his second home run of the season as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies for Jim Leyland's 500th managerial victory.

Randy Tomlin gave up two runs and four hits in 6 2-3 innings, struck out four and walked two. He had a shutout until the seventh, when pinch-hitter Jim Lindeman hit a two-run homer. It was Lindeman's first home run in 116 at-bats since June 17, 1990, when he was with Detroit.

Braves 5, Giants 3

ATLANTA — Jeff Blauser hit a bases-loaded triple to cap a four-run first inning and Brian Hunter homered in the eighth as the Atlanta Braves held off the San Francisco Giants.

Charlie Leibrandt shut out the Giants on four hits through the first five innings, but gave up three runs in the sixth. Alejandro Pena pitched 1 2-3 innings and Mike Stanton got the last out for his first save.

MASTERS: Couples sits in third place — For the first time, the field averaged under par for the second round — 71.69.

(From 1B)

Woosnam, who last season became the fourth consecutive European winner of this event and the sixth in nine years, took his piece of the lead on the strength of a confidence-restoring return of the putting touch that has been missing for about six months.

"It's beginning to feel like last year," Woosnam breathed after opening and closing his round with 20-foot birdies.

"Usually when you hole a few putts, it all starts to come back," he said. "My confidence is getting a lot better and that makes all the difference."

Parry, who plays most of his golf on the European tour but took time out for a couple of home-grown victories Down Under earlier this year, got his share of the top spot with a birdie from a trash bag.

His errant tee shot on the par-5 15th came to rest in a large, green plastic bag marked "TRASH" far to the right of the fairway.

The ball was located inside a not-quite-empty drink cup. Parry pulled out the ball, shook it off and played on without penalty, eventually dropping a 6-foot putt that took him to the head of a host of Australians eagerly seeking to become the first from their country to win the Masters.

"It probably hasn't hit me yet," Parry said of the tie for the lead, then noted, "The tournament doesn't start until the final round. I think I'm capable of going out there and keeping myself in position."

Parry and Woosnam, however, could not completely shake an American Ryder Cup pairing — Fred Couples and Ray Floyd — and longshot Ted Schulz.

Couples, who has led world golf over the last 10 months, scored nine birdies — including five in a row — in a 67 that put him menacingly in third at 136. And that was despite a double bogey at No. 14 caused by a chunked chip that Couples said "looked like a 40-handicapper."

Floyd, 49, the indomitable campaigner who won the Masters in 1976 and lost in a playoff in 1990, came back from his third double bogey of the tournament, shot a 68 and was at 137, two off the pace.

He was tied with Schulz, winner of two titles in a five-year career on the PGA Tour. Schulz had eight birdies in his erratic round of 69.

The other Americans in the top 13 were Jeff Sluman, D.A. Weibring, Davis Love and Lanny Wadkins.

Weibring, with a 68, and Sluman were tied at 139 with another Australian, British Open champ Ian Baker-Finch, who shot 69.

Sluman, who shared the first-round lead with Wadkins, slipped to a 74.

Wadkins was one stroke higher at 75 — breaking a record-matching streak of seven consecutive subpar rounds in the Masters.

RELAYS: This may be meet's last year

(From 1B)

ted to running. Permian, for instance, can't get into another meet and Coach (Waymond) Griggs said he can't afford to take a week off before the district meet."

So, the meet is on today, but the Tall City Relays may be off again next year.

"We're just not going to have this meet if we can't get teams here," Tayrien said. "We'll try again next year, but we won't have it again if we can't get the teams."

Permian, which has lost only one meet title this year in the prestigious San Angelo Relays, should cruise to an easy title with depth galore. San Angelo will be a distant second with Lee and MHS battling for third place.

Lee's Scott McLeod is the only local boy trying to earn a return Region I berth in the shot put. This will be a key meet for him as he shoots to break the 55-foot mark, an effort he feels will give him a shot at his goal of obtaining a state berth.

Lee's Tony Olivas owns the district's best toss this year in the discus with a 155-8, but that came early and he needs to get back into that range with the district meet looming. Lee's Mike Nunn, with a 43-7½ in the triple jump two weeks ago, ranks second in the district and needs to maintain that level.

Midland High doesn't rank first or second in any event, but its sprint relay team ranks third with a 43.24. The Bulldogs must maintain that level and hope that either state-ranked Odessa High or Permian falters.

MHS' Thomas Acrey has a win to his credit this year in the 110 hurdles against the Permian favorites of Robert John and Kendrick Parrett and he will get another shot at them today.

Some other key performers to watch out for include San Angelo's Joe Machado in the 3200 and 1600, San Angelo's John Greene and Thomas Talley in the shot put against McLeod, Permian's Parrett and Cort Petterson in the 300 hurdles and the Permian sprinter John Williams. Permian's Gerrod Bergen, another sprinter of note, has been injured recently and may wait until next week to compete in the district meet.

No Tall City records appear to be in jeopardy today, but the triple jump winner will own a record since this is the first year for the event.

Knicks' win keeps them atop Atlantic

Associated Press

NBA Roundup

NEW YORK — The New York Knicks maintained a two-game margin atop the Atlantic Division and snapped a three-game losing streak with a 115-99 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers on Friday night.

Both the Knicks and Boston Celtics have four games to play. The Celtics, who beat Milwaukee 109-100, would win the division if the two teams finish tied.

Xavier McDaniel scored 10 of his 21 points during a 20-8 run in the third quarter that gave New York control of the game. Gerald Wilkins led the Knicks with 22 points, Patrick Ewing had 20 points and 15 rebounds and Kiki Vandeweghe scored 19 points.

Ron Anderson scored 21 points for the 76ers, while Armon Gilliam had 18 points and Hersey Hawkins 17. Charles Barkley, who missed half the third quarter after jamming the middle finger on his left hand, was held to 13 points, more than 10 under his average.

Heat 108, Bullets 93

LANDOVER, Md. — Miami inched closer to its first-ever playoff berth, beating the Washington Bullets behind a 24-point performance by Rony Seikaly.

The victory enabled Miami (36-42) to move within a half-game of idle Atlanta (36-41) in the race for the eighth and final playoff spot. New Jersey holds the seventh position with a 37-40 record after beating Cleveland on Friday night.

Seikaly made 14 of 15 free throws and Glen Rice had 22 points for Miami, which never trailed in completing a sweep of the season series with the Bullets. It was the first-ever 5-0 sweep for the Heat, now in its fourth year in existence.

Nets 110, Cavaliers 86

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Drazen Petrovic got hot from long range and scored 24 points and the New Jersey Nets inched closer to their first playoff berth since 1986 by defeating the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The victory was the sixth in seven games for New Jersey (37-40), which opened a one-game lead over idle Atlanta (36-41) for the seventh-best record in Eastern Conference. The Nets have five games left in the regular season, notably a Saturday night visit to Atlanta.

The Nets certainly played like a playoff-caliber team in handing the Cavaliers (54-23) only their fourth loss in 19 games. The 24-point deficit equalled Cleveland's largest this season, a 126-102 setback to Chicago.

Celtics 109, Bucks 100

BOSTON — Kevin McHale scored 26 points and Reggie Lewis 24 as the Boston Celtics breezed to their fourth consecutive victory and 11th in the last 12 starts, handing the Bucks a club record-tying 11th loss in a row.

The Celtics, keeping alive hopes of overtaking New York for the Atlantic Division title with four games remaining, built a 25-16 first period lead and a 52-31 advantage at halftime en route to their 14th consecutive Boston Garden victory over the Bucks since April 12, 1985.

Boston extended its current winning streak at the Garden to 16 games, while the Bucks lost on the road for the 24th consecutive time, a club record, since Jan. 2.

Pistons 125, Hornets 106

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Joe Dumars' 32 points led the Detroit Pistons to their highest scoring total of the season in a rout of Charlotte.

The Pistons, who stayed one game behind Boston in the race for fourth place in the Eastern Conference and homecourt advantage in the first round of the playoffs, extended their winning streak to four games. Detroit's previous high score was 123 points against Utah on Nov. 15.

The Hornets (30-47) dropped their sixth straight game on the road, where they are 9-30 this season.

Bulls 108, Pacers 96

INDIANAPOLIS — Michael Jordan scored 35 points, including nine straight for Chicago down the stretch, leading the Bulls to a victory over the Indiana Pacers.

Reggie Miller scored 26 points and Detlef Schrempf had 17 points and 10 rebounds for the Pacers, who now lead New Jersey by a half-game, Atlanta by 1½ and Miami by two in the Eastern Conference standings. One of those teams will not make the playoffs.

Blazers 113, SuperSonics 106

PORTLAND, Ore. — Terry Porter scored 14 of his 27 points in the fourth quarter and the Portland Trail Blazers beat Seattle, preventing the SuperSonics from clinching a playoff berth.

Eddie Johnson kept the Sonics in the game with 36 points, 14 in the final period when the 10-year veteran hit seven of nine from the field.

NHL's first strike over, games resume Sunday

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The first strike in National Hockey League history ended early Saturday when owners and players came to an agreement in principle on a new contract.

The agreement was announced by NHL president John Ziegler at a joint news conference with Bob Goodenow, executive director of the Players Association. The two had engaged in a day-long series of negotiations beginning Friday morning.

The regular season will be resumed Sunday with all 30 remaining games to be completed before the Stanley Cup playoffs begin.

The strike, the first in the NHL's 75-year history, began April 1 after players rejected the first of several "final" offers from the owners.

On Tuesday, the owners made a revised offer and set a deadline of 3 p.m. EDT for the players to accept it or face termination of the season.

Beaming from a dais that included Goodenow, NHLPA president Bryan Trottier of the Pittsburgh Penguins and Mike Gartner of the New York Rangers, Ziegler said:

"I am pleased to report that after a very long and difficult day that demonstrated the spirit of the relationship between the players and owners, we have come to a meeting of the minds and reached an agreement in principle.

"The owners have accepted this offer and the players association has endorsed it and recommended it to its membership."

"I, too, am pleased to say we have reached an agreement," Goodenow added. "We will be recommending acceptance of the agreement.

"The logistics are going to be hectic for a couple of days."

Ziegler said the revised schedule for the completion of the regular season and the playoffs would be released later Saturday.

Both sides seemed relieved that the strike was over.

"This hasn't been a pleasant experience for the owners, the players, the fans, anybody in hockey," Penguins co-owner Howard Baldwin said in Pittsburgh. "But I believe the NHL will be better off for what happened."

Minnesota North Stars vice president Ron Forecia said: "We haven't received all of the specifics. Many will be worked out in the next days and weeks. But we have agreed in principle."

Texas beats A&M's Granger for second time

Associated Press

SWC Baseball

COLLEGE STATION — Chris Abbe and Robert DeLeon hit home runs Friday night as seventh-ranked Texas beat Texas A&M 10-3 and continued its mastery of All-American Jeff Granger, beating him for the second time this season.

The Longhorns (32-8 overall and atop the Southwest Conference at 19-4) widened their lead over the second-place Aggies to 6½ games. A&M is 25-14 overall and 12-10 in league play.

Scott Harrison outdueled Granger to log his seventh victory against two losses. He allowed nine hits in six innings and struck out five. Harrison has allowed only three runs in his last five starts covering 29 1-3 innings.

Granger, who has not won a game since March 13, surrendered seven hits and seven runs and struck out only three batters in 5 2-3 innings.

Brooks Kieschnick returned to the Longhorns starting lineup for the first time since injuring his ankle March 14 against Houston and the sophomore All-American contributed two of Texas' 10 hits despite being unable to run at full speed.

DeLeon's two-run shot highlighted a six-run sixth in which Texas sent nine men to the plate and Granger to the dugout. It was his second homer off Granger this year.

TCU 2, Texas Tech 1

FORT WORTH — Scott Malone hit a two-run double in the first inning and Jon Mock scattered seven hits over 8 2-3 innings as Texas Christian edged Texas Tech.

John Turner and Mike Losa led off the first inning with back-to-back singles off Mark Brandenburg (8-4) and scored on Malone's double to left.

George Kilford led off the top of the ninth with a double, advanced on a sacrifice fly and scored on Randy DuRoss's double to pull the Red Raiders within 2-1, chasing Mock.

Reliever Craig Farmer struck out Joe Davis on a wild pitch, but catcher Clay Caruthers couldn't handle the pitch and Davis reached first to put runners at the corners with two outs.

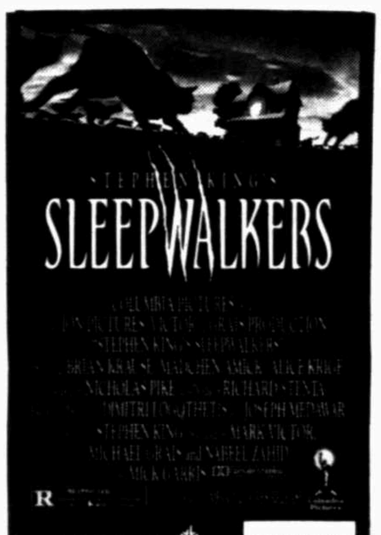

Farmer then got Trent Petrie to ground out the Malone at first for his seventh save.

Mock (3-1) didn't walk a batter and struck out five as TCU improved to 18-20 overall and 8-14 in the Southwest Conference.

Rice 6, Houston 1

HOUSTON — Darrel Richardson scattered nine Houston hits in his sixth complete game and Harry Duffey and John Rodgers had two RBIs in Rice's victory over the Cougars.

Richardson (9-4) allowed no earned runs, walked one and struck out five.

Conner win eliminates Kanza from semis

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dennis Conner made all the right moves with Stars & Stripes and gave Kanza no chance to make any in the America's Cup semifinals on Friday.

Conner, the defending America's Cup skipper, played the wind shifts right and beat Kanza by 1 minute, 11 seconds to end his two-race losing streak and clinch no worse than a sail-off for a spot in the defender finals.

The victory had the Stars & Stripes sailors in a celebrating mood, and they sang "Happy Birthday" to bowman Scott Vogel, 34, as they crossed the finish line.

Stars & Stripes led the whole race, sailing the eight-leg, 20.03-mile course in 2 hours, 57 minutes, 51 seconds in a westerly breeze that ranged from 5 to 12 knots. The race was delayed 30 minutes while the wind settled in.

ble to right-center. Brown advanced to third on a balk and was driven in when J.R. Phillips singled to left-center.

The Angels' only other tally came in the seventh when Jeff Kipila drew a two-out walk and scored on a Bobby Jones double hit deep down the right-field line.

San Antonio completed its double-digit night with a single run in the seventh.

Joe Kraemer will start for the Angels tonight at 7:30. He'll face San Antonio's Dennis Springer, last season's Texas League strikeout champion.

the University of New Mexico next season.

Listed as the No. 1 guard in the country by one rating service, Brown, who'll see ample playing time for the USA team, played a role in one of the more memorable Chaparral moments this season.

In the two teams' first meeting of the season in Hobbs, N.M., the Chaps' McKinney drove the baseline to put MC ahead, 92-90, with four seconds remaining. After a timeout, Brown then brought down an inbounds pass at midcourt, took a couple of steps and launched a three-point attempt at the buzzer, a shot which McKinney batted away to assure the MC win, a minor upset at the time.

"That was maybe one of the best games I've played in junior college," McKiney recalled. "To get there (Caster Activities Center) and see that hostile environment, it just made me appreciate junior college basketball.

"I'm looking forward to playing against Greg again. The game tonight is what I've been looking forward to for a long time."

NMJC may have lost to MC on its home court, but the T-Birds returned the favor a month later, beating MC at Chap Center to virtually clinch the conference championship. It was that moment that Brown likes to remember more than the loss in Hobbs.

"I tell Chris he may have got one over at Hobbs, but it's the party we had at mid-court at his place that I'll always remember," Brown said. "That shot (Brown's desperation trey attempt at Hobbs) probably wouldn't have gone in anyway."

McKinney and Brown aren't the only familiar names in tonight's lineup. Three other WJCAC sophomores — Odessa's Robert Shannon, Clarendon's Covington Cormier, and South Plains' Terry Alexander — will also see playing time for the Texas stars.

The Texas team will be coached by Roy Thomas, of Tyler Junior College. The USA stars will be under the direction of Charles Anderson, head coach of the 1991 NJCAA champion Aquinas (Tenn.) Junior College.

ALL-STAR NOTES: The Texas-USA All-Star game has proved to be a reliable predictor of future basketball talent. Some of the more prominent names who have played at Chap Center and proceeded to more success include Mitch Richmond, of the NBA Sacramento Kings; former OC star Larry Johnson, now of the Charlotte Hornets, and a favorite for Rookie of the Year honors this year; Houston Rocket forward-center Carl Herrera, and University of Texas forward Dexter Cambridge. ... Texas Tech's James Dickey, the SWC's Coach of the Year and guest speaker at Friday's All-Star Banquet, told the group of players gathered that new legislation by the NCAA is taking away scholarships and one assistant coach at each program, but "if you have that degree in hand when you leave college, no one can take that from you."

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

HOW THE BIBLE HELPED WIN A WORLD WAR I CAMPAIGN!

THE TURKS, UNDER GERMAN HIGH COMMAND, WERE A CONSTANT THREAT TO THE BRITISH-HELD SUEZ CANAL, ENGLAND'S LIFE LINE TO HER COLONIES DURING WORLD WAR I! IT FELL TO GENERAL SIR EDWARD ALLENBY TO SQUASH THIS THREAT! IN A SERIES OF BRILLIANTLY EXECUTED BATTLES, ALLENBY SUCCEEDED! IN PLANNING HIS BATTLE ENGAGEMENTS, HE AND HIS STAFF STUDIED, ALONG WITH THEIR TACTICAL MAPS, ALL THE RECORDED BATTLES IN THE BIBLE AND, IN SOME INSTANCES, FOLLOWED THE SAME TACTICS THE ANCIENT JEWS HAD EMPLOYED....

ONE SUCH EXAMPLE OCCURS IN THE BATTLE FOR THE PASSES OF MEGIDDO, INTO THE PLAIN OF ESDRAELON, DURING SEPTEMBER OF 1918. TAKING A TIP FROM SUCH ANCIENT GENERALS AS JOSHUA, KING DAVID, AND KING OMRI, ALLENBY ATTACKED ON A BROAD FRONT BUT MASSED HIS CAVALRY AT ONE POINT TO BREAK THROUGH THE TURKISH LINE—THIS DONE, THE CAVALRY RACED HARD, DUE NORTH, TO CUT OFF THE TURKS' ONLY MEANS OF RETREAT AT THE PASSES OF EL AFFULE AND BEISAN, THUS ENTRAPPING THE ENTIRE ARMY SO THE ADVANCING INFANTRY COULD FINISH THEM OFF!

ALLENBY'S STAFF PLACED MUCH CREDIT FOR THE SUCCESS ON CONSTANT STUDY OF THE ANCIENT TACTICS IN THE BIBLE, AND AS ONE BRITISH "TOMMY" PUT IT..."H'IF TH' BLOOMIN' TURKS 'AD STUDIED OUR BIBLE TH' WAY WE DID, THEY MIGHT 'AVE MADE H'IT A LOT FLIPPIN' ROUGHER FOR US!"

NEXT WEEK: DID JESUS REALLY CURSE THE FIG TREE?

LONDON (AP) — Anglican envoy Terry Waite has resigned his position as Secretary for Anglican Communion Affairs to write a book on his nearly five years as a hostage of a Shiite Muslim group in Lebanon.

He has accepted an honorary fellowship at Trinity Hall, Cambridge, where he will spend the next year writing. He said royalties will go to church work for the poor.

He was a special church envoy seeking to negotiate release of Western hostages when taken captive in 1987. He was released last November.

Archbishop of Canterbury George Carey said Waite, who has served the Anglican Communion for 12 years, has done so "faithfully and with distinction" and he leaves with "a great deal of affection."

■ Minister reports on Zaire

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — An American Baptist official says social conditions in Zaire are deteriorating so dramatically that "a human catastrophe of unimaginable proportions" may be imminent.

The Rev. Ivan George, Africa area secretary of American Baptist Churches' International Ministries, said in a telephoned report:

"The gates to the city's major hospitals are welded shut; maternities are closed. People die because of a lack of proper medical care and adequate medicines."

He said the African country's unemployment rate is reported to be 90 percent and "persons accustomed to eating three meals per day now eat one meal every two days, if it can be found or afforded."

Conditions in the country have worsened since last fall when President Mobutu Sese Seko's economic policies and human rights abuses produced widespread unrest. Many missionaries have left the country.

State in brief

■ Collector buys Oswald toe tag for $6,600

NEW YORK — A collector of Jack Ruby memorabilia paid $6,600 for the toe tag that Lee Harvey Oswald wore on his way to a Texas funeral home.

Anthony Pugliese also received a lock of Oswald's hair with the toe tag at Thursday's auction. The Florida resident already owns the gun Ruby used to kill Oswald, and the shoes and hat Ruby wore when he pulled the trigger.

Oswald had been arrested in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, and was being transferred between jails when Ruby shot him on live television. Pugliese paid $220,000 for the gun Ruby used on Oswald.

The toe tag was taken by an ambulance attendant who drove the body from a hospital to a funeral home in Texas, said Herman Darvick, a New York auctioneer.

"The ambulance drivers routinely threw away the tags. This guy kept it as a souvenir," Darvick said.

The ambulance driver, Jay Phillips, died in a car accident in Germany in 1967. His mother, Elizabeth, of George West, Texas, put the toe tag up for sale.

Other items sold at the auction were a receipt Ruby got from the Dallas police when he was arrested, which brought $3,300, and a note Ruby wrote to a deputy saying he was a political scapegoat, which sold for $9,350.

■ Officials name contractor in indictment

CORPUS CHRISTI — A contractor has been accused of bilking the Defense Department out of more than $10 million in a fraudulent billing scheme.

Edward P. Cantu, president of Corpus Christi-based Universal Unlimited, was named in a 71-count indictment alleging money laundering, bank fraud, conspiracy to defraud the U.S. government and making false claims to the Defense Department.

Also named in the indictment handed down Thursday by a federal grand jury are: Ronald L. Smith of Portland, Texas; Isaac C. Anthony II of Corpus Christi; and Jerome R. Payne of San Antonio.

The 102-page indictment is the culmination of a yearlong investigation into Universal, which was awarded government contracts totaling more than $35 million to produce military tents at a Brownsville plant.

■ Officials dedicate new levee system

REDFORD — State officials gathered Friday in this tiny community hard-hit in recent years by crop flooding to dedicate a new levee system.

U.S. Rep. Albert Bustamante, D-San Antonio and Railroad Commission of Texas Chairman Lena Guererro joined local officials for ceremonies in Redford, 493 miles southwest of Dallas.

Bustamante pledged his support to Redford Valley farmers who in 1990 and 1991 saw more than 1,000 acres of farmland washed out by Rio Grande flooding.

At the request of Presidio County Judge Monroe Elms and county commissioners, Bustamante said he will introduce legislation designating the Redford farming valley as a flood control project area of the International Boundary and Water Commission.

Contributing to the problem was the Mexican government's release of water into the Rio Grande from the Mexican Rio Conchos.

Late last year, Presidio County officials had the valley declared a disaster area by Texas Gov. Ann Richards, and secured a $375,000 grant from the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs to make repairs to the seven-mile- long levee.

Amendment dispute could rupture harmony

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dispute between Dallas and Fort Worth over flight restrictions at Love Field is "poisoning the well" and could rupture a relationship that recently had been harmonious, two Texas congressmen said Friday.

"As someone who represents both Dallas and Fort Worth, I think the city of Dallas is wrong and making a tremendous mistake and they are poisoning the well on a whole range of issues," said Rep. Martin Frost, D-Dallas.

He and Fort Worth Democrat Pete Geren called a news conference on Capitol Hill Friday to deplore Wednesday's action by the Dallas City Council to renew debate about the federal law.

The Dallas vote sparked a rapid response by the city of Fort Worth, which filed suit Thursday to bar Dallas from seeking to overturn the restrictions, known as the Wright Amendment.

"This is a huge rift," Geren said in an interview.

Only Congress can change the amendment, named after its author, former House Speaker Jim Wright. It limits Love Field's commercial flights to Texas and the four neighboring states. The amendment, adopted in 1979, was designed to protect the then-fledgling Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

Both Geren and Frost laid blame for the flap at the feet of Dallas Mayor Steve Bartlett and the city council — and said Congress would not repeal the amendment.

"I think it's an enormous mistake. I think they are wasting their time," Frost said. "Congress is not going to repeal the Wright Amendment. That's very clear."

The chairman of the House aviation subcommittee, Minnesota Democrat Jim Oberstar, has indicated he doesn't favor bringing the issue up for debate again — effectively blocking further repeal attempts.

Geren, an aviation subcommittee member, said the issue was considered at length last year and no valid reason found to overturn the amendment.

"There's no practical way you can expand Love Field without doing serious damage to the operation of DFW," he said.

Dallas' attempt to tamper with the amendment is a sign that the city is reneging on its agreement with Fort Worth to promote DFW, Geren said. Opponents also contend repeal could jeopardize DFW's $3.5 billion expansion plan.

Supporters say repeal would spark competition among airlines serving the region and lead to lower air fares while boosting Dallas' economic base.

Geren said Bartlett is "tilting at windmills."

"If he's going to pull this off, it's going to be a boat he is going to have to row on his own. He is not going to get any help at all from the Texas delegation," Geren said.

Bartlett and Fort Worth Mayor Kay Granger did not immediately return telephone calls Friday.

The two cities, about 35 miles apart, have in recent years collaborated on issues ranging from the super collider to the V-22 Osprey aircraft and a mass-transit system.

The feud over the Wright Amendment could jeopardize future collaboration, both congressmen said.

Dallas council members will vote May 27 on a resolution that urges Congress to amend the restrictions. Most have said they favor modifications to allow through-ticketing, which would eliminate the need for Love Field passengers to change planes and recheck luggage for flights outside of the five-state region.

Girl washes hair with gas, causes fire

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A girl who washed her hair with gasoline to rid herself of lice was in critical condition Friday with burns over most of her body after a pilot light in a water heater sparked a fire.

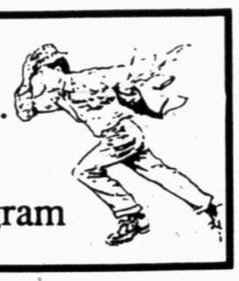

Tulsa Fire Captain Jim White said Jamie Lewis, 16, suffered second- and third-degree burns over as much as 90 percent of her body Thursday night.

Miss Lewis was flown Friday to Shriner's Burn Institute in Galveston.

Family members told police that a classmate recommended Miss Lewis, who feared she had lice, wash her hair with kerosene. But Miss Lewis used unleaded gasoline instead.

Miss Lewis is undergoing facial grafts and may need to have her fingers and a foot amputated, her family said.

Don't be the last to find out what's happening.

President ready to curb school's race relations

ARLINGTON (AP) — A day after being named president of the University of Texas-Arlington, Ryan Amacher on Friday fielded questions about his plans to improve race relations at the 23,000-student school.

Amacher, 46, a dean at Clemson University, was named president of UT-Arlington, the system's second-largest school, by the University of Texas Board of Regents.

But the vote Thursday was not without controversy. Before the two votes were taken, the regents heard pleas from activists upset at the board for not including blacks on the UT-Arlington presidential search committee.

The Rev. Zan Holmes, a regent from Dallas, asked the board to delay its vote on the position and create a new committee. His motion died for lack of a second.

After a Friday morning news conference at UTA, Amacher said "people were cordial and welcoming."

"It was a very good feeling and my wife and I are eager to get started," he said.

Amacher faced questions on his plan to curb racial tensions at the school.

"I expected people to be cynical . . . but all I ask for is a chance," he said.

Amacher said he wants to take a "personal role in recruiting" top minority students and faculty. Fewer than 1 percent of tenured or tenure-track faculty at Texas-Arlington are minorities.

"Equal opportunity is the law and I'm going to make sure it's enforced," he said from his hotel room after the news conference.

He said he will look at national averages concerning minority faculty to see how UTA compares with other universities.

"You have to have the facts first," he said.

Amacher said the recent controversy would not hamper efforts to raise money for minority scholarships.

"It's possible to raise money for student scholarships," Amacher said. "Business is eager to get well-trained and qualified minorities for their management positions.

Congressman acknowledges 12 more bad checks

WASHINGTON (NYT) — With the House ethics committee scheduled to release its final report on congressional overdrafts next week, Rep. Dick Armey on Friday acknowledged 12 more bad checks on his record.

Armey, who initially said he had seven overdrafts at the now-closed House bank, said new information provided by the ethics panel indicates he actually had 19. The Republican lawmaker, whose district includes Arlington, blamed the overdrafts on carelessness.

"My explanation is that I made a mistake," Armey said. "I kept sloppy records and I'm paying for my carelessness."

Armey's mea culpa came as the ethics committee announced plans to release the final list of more than 300 lawmakers with overdrafts on Thursday. The bipartisan panel already has named 22 lawmakers identified as the worst abusers in the check-kiting scandal.

The committee has been deluged with appeals from lawmakers hoping to avoid a political embarrassment that has already cut short the careers of some of their colleagues. Ethics committee members worked until shortly before midnight Thursday considering appeals from about 150 of the 355 lawmakers with bad checks on their records.

Rep. James Hansen, R-Utah, the committee's top-ranking Republican, described the appeal process as a "gut-wrenching experience" for lawmakers forced to stand in judgment of their colleagues.

"I was talking to a member's wife this week and she couldn't finish the conversation. She broke down in tears," he said. "I feel terrible about some of these situations. I've seen a lot of tears in a lot of eyes."

The five-month ethics investigation initially found 355 lawmakers with overdrafts during the 39-month period covered in the bank audit. The committee chairman, Rep. Matt McHugh, D-N.Y., said 15 to 20 lawmakers will be dropped from the final list because of successful appeals.

At least 15 Texas lawmakers have acknowledged overdrafts, including Rep. Pete Geren, D-Fort Worth; Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford; and Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas. Geren said the ethics committee has told him that he had three overdrafts.

The final list is also expected to include former House Speaker Jim Wright of Fort Worth.

Ethics committee members stressed that many lawmakers on the final list did not intentionally abuse their banking privileges. All of the overdrafts were covered by later deposits and did not cause the loss of any taxpayer funds.

"These guys kind of fell into it," said Hansen, who compared the overdrafts to driving 65 mph in a 55 mph speed zone. "Unfortunately, everyone was driving at 65 when they should have been driving at 55, is what it amounts to."

Several lawmakers listed among the top 22 worst abusers have announced plans to retire after this term. The ethics committee concluded that the top 22 lawmakers "routinely and repeatedly" wrote checks drawn on insufficient funds.

The only Texan on the abuser list is Rep. Ron Coleman, D-El Paso, who wrote 673 bad checks during the 39-month period.

Armey, a conservative Republican who has joined efforts to blame the scandal on Democrats, acknowledged that his latest admission is likely to damage his credibility. The Texas congressman said the additional 12 checks did not come to light initially because he did not examine his bank records for the full 39-month period covered by the ethics investigation.

Armey's Democratic opponent, John Wayne Caton of Bedford, said he does not plan to exploit the check issue.

"There are a lot of other things that are more important to discuss," he said, citing the federal deficit at the top of the list. "I haven't found large numbers of people that are all that interested in it."

Massive gas explosion claims second victim

BRENHAM (AP) — A woman who suffered severe burns in this week's massive gas explosion died early Friday at a Houston hospital, making her the second victim of the blast, officials said.

Gloria Diver, 46, died shortly after 2 a.m. from injuries she received Tuesday when her car — which may have ignited the inferno — was crushed and burned in the explosion Tuesday near Brenham, Hermann Hospital spokeswoman Lisa Lagrone said.

Meanwhile, state officials said Friday that they have expanded their probe into the explosion after determining that two pipelines in the area apparently did not cause the leak that led to the deadly blast. However, federal officials said they have not yet ruled out anything in their investigation.

Texas Railroad Commission spokesman Gary Garrison said state investigators have determined there were no problems with two six-inch pipelines located in the area. One line is owned by Seminole Pipeline Co., and the other by Coastline Gas Pipeline Co.

"We've determined that both the Seminole and Coastline pipelines were not damaged before the blast. It wasn't a rupture of either of those pipelines that resulted in this explosion," Garrison said.

State investigators studied pressure readings and other records provided by both companies, he said.

But National Transportation Safety Board spokesman Michael Benson said federal officials have not reached any conclusions.

"For us, we are still looking at everything. We're trying to determine what the source of that leak was," he said. "We don't want to rush to any judgments."

Garrison said investigators are expanding their probe "to look at the entire area out there," he said.

The blast erupted near a liquid propane storage facility owned by Seminole. Several pipelines feed the facility, where fuel is stored in caverns inside the salt domes.

Garrison added that the NTSB still wants to run some final tests in Washington on a valve obtained from the Coastline pipeline. Coastline has said the valve was operating properly and was shut at the time.

NTSB investigators said Thursday that they have shifted their focus from the remote control valve, which had moved hours before the eruption. George Mocharko, NTSB investigator in charge, said another valve next to the one that moved remained closed.

"So had it moved, there would have been a second one in place," Mocharko said. "Even if the (warning) signal in fact determined that the valve moved, there is no consequence because there is a valve that is closed adjacent to it."

Seminole said its pipeline resumed operations Friday. Company officials also said the 350,000-barrel storage cavern the pipelines feed had closed before the blast and "indications are that there is no damage" to the facility.

The salt dome shut automatically when a hazardous gas warning was received by Seminole officials prior to the blast.

Derrick Meinen, 6, was killed in the explosion, which injured 19 others. Preliminary estimates have put damage to property at $3 million.

Jane Meinen, Derrick's mother, suffered severe injuries in the blast and remained in critical condition Friday at Hermann.

Two other people who were in the car with Ms. Diver also remained hospitalized at Hermann.

Delores Medve, 27, Ms. Diver's daughter, was in critical condition.

Editors grill Perot in heated exchange

WASHINGTON (NYT) — Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot, encountering his first extensive grilling as a potential presidential candidate, said Friday that he has never cheated on his wife, never cheated on his taxes and never used any drugs stronger than aspirin.

In an often acrimonious exchange with the nation's newspaper editors and a battery of political correspondents, the might-be candidate from President Bush's home state also:

■ Denied published reports that he favors a state income tax for Texans.

■ Insulted Jim Oberwetter, the Texas chairman of the Bush-Quayle campaign, by likening his name to "bed wetter." Oberwetter called the remark an ethnic slur against his German-American heritage.

■ Outlined his top priorities as cutting the deficit, creating jobs and helping underprivileged families. He said he does not know if a tax increase will be necessary, explaining, "I don't have the numbers. When I know, I'll tell you."

Perot's appearance before the American Society of Newspaper Editors subjected the Dallas industrialist to the most extensive barrage of media scrutiny since he announced his willingness to run for president nearly two months ago.

In a tense question-and-answer session with editors — and a chaotic, roving news conference afterward — Perot was pressed for his positions on the issues as well as details of his personal life. At one point, during relentless questioning from one editor, Perot interjected, "Do we have to be rude and adversarial. Can't we just talk."

The scrutiny essentially marked a new turn in Perot's embryonic presidential campaign after weeks of generally favorable publicity focusing on his fast-surfacing popularity among protest voters turned off by Democrats and Republicans. Supporters are circulating petitions in all 50 states to place him on the ballot as an independent candidate.

Perot responded "no, no" when a reporter asked, "Have you ever cheated on your wife or cheated on your taxes." As for drug use, he said, "About as strong as it gets is aspirin in my life."

Perot, listed as the richest man in Texas with a net worth of $2.2 billion, said he would meet legal requirements for financial disclosure as a candidate but seemed unwilling to take the extra step of releasing his income tax returns.

Perot stressed his concern for reducing the deficit, improving racial relations, combatting drugs and advancing education. But members of a panel of editors who presided over the questioning reprimanded him for not providing further details.

"You haven't answered any questions," complained Acel Moore, associate editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer. Perot said it may difficult to fully detail his plans until after he gets in the White House and has access to government records.

Asked by Moore if he would resign from private clubs that discriminate, Perot responded, "I received an award from the Urban League last year, and I doubt that they would give it to me if they thought I was a racist."

Following his speech, Perot also told reporters that he belongs "to a couple of clubs" and would resign if he runs for president, The Associated Press reported. He did not identify the clubs.

If he fell short of providing a complete cure for America's ills, Perot offered a preview of a potentially combative political style as he bantered with journalists and lampooned his critics.

Asked about a critical remark by Oberwetter, Perot responded: "I get confused sometime with bed wetter. . . . This is a young guy that probably has trouble buying catfood, he's so inexperienced."

Oberwetter, a Hunt Oil Co. executive in Dallas, said in a telephone interview that he was offended by the remarks. "I haven't been called names like that since I was in grade school," he said. "That's my name he just attacked."

Oberwetter accused Perot of an "ethnic slur" that he said would offend German-Americans.

Oberwetter, in a Dallas television interview the night before Perot's Washington appearance, cited a 1991 article in a Beaumont newspaper that quoted Perot as favoring a state income tax. But Perot said Friday that the article, which was picked up by The Associated Press, is inaccurate and denied that he supports such a tax.

Perot also disputed another article and bluntly criticized the Dallas columnist who wrote it. In a 1988 column in the now-defunct Dallas Times Herald, Laura Miller wrote that Perot was pushing a plan in which Dallas police would cordon off a predominantly black section of South Dallas and conduct house-to-house searches for drugs and weapons.

"I did not say it and it's just one of those unfortunate things that got into print," Perot said.

Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot faced his first real grilling as a potential presidential candidate Friday.

Boston stabbing

Kevin Wells, 26, of the Dorchester section of Boston, wields a knife and stabs Christopher Abraham, 32, of the Beacon Hill section of Boston during a street fight on City Hall Plaza in Boston Thursday. Abraham suffered three wounds, which were not life threatening, and was treated and released. Wells was arrested after the attack.

Noriega trial implicates Castro, others

MIAMI (AP) — Manuel Noriega's trial implicated Cuban leader Fidel Castro, Nicaragua's Sandinistas, a mysterious U.S. diplomat and others, but prosecutors refused to say Friday if more indictments are on the way.

"We can't mention any ongoing investigations we might have," acting U.S. attorney James McAdams said the day after the ousted Panamanian leader was convicted on eight drug and racketeering charges.

But former federal prosecutors who put Noriega's 1988 indictment together said more cases are possible.

"There's a lot of fertile ground out there — it's a matter of how you attack it, and you certainly need a lot of cooperation," said Richard Gregorie, a former federal prosecutor who now works for the Dade County state attorney's office.

In some cases, he said, a five-year statute of limitations makes prosecution of Noriega's alleged cohorts difficult. But the same racketeering laws that helped convict Noriega could kick in if prosecutors find a continuing conspiracy.

On Friday, Noriega was moved from Miami's federal courthouse, where he had been staying in a basement cell during the trial, to the federal Metropolitan Correctional Center outside Miami. He could remain there until his July 10 sentencing or be moved to a high-security federal prison.

Noriega's wife, Felicidad, faces her own legal problems. On Friday, she had an attorney enter an innocent plea to charges she and a friend stole buttons from expensive dresses at a department store.

Castro has often been rumored to be a target of U.S. drug investigations, and in one Noriega racketeering count the jury specifically determined the Cuban leader was also linked to Colombia's Medellin cocaine cartel.

Judge orders striking drivers back to work

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A judge on Friday ordered striking transit employees to return to work next week and told management and labor to stop dragging their feet in contract negotiations.

Commonwealth Court Judge Silvestri Silvestri said the approximately 2,700 striking members of Amalgamated Transit Union Local 85 must begin returning to work Monday morning. Silvestri ruled on a lawsuit filed by Mayor Sophie Masloff seeking to end the strike that began March 16.

Local 85 attorney Joseph Pass Jr. said drivers and mechanics would return to work Sunday, a day earlier than the judge asked.

"If the judge says we have to go back, we might as well help the public out," he said.

Port Authority Transit's bus fleet could be rolling Sunday and the trolley service should be ready for Monday's rush hour, PAT executive director William Millar said.

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: New emotional security and financial success will be yours when you put down roots. A midsummer vacation can be fun, even if you spend it in your own back yard. A warm-weather romance could turn serious by October. Loans are more likely to be granted in December. Focus on your career as 1993 gets under way. Wise investments will make monetary worries a thing of the past.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Louise Lasser, fashion designer Oleg Cassini, actor Joel Grey, Ethel Kennedy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Check into the advisability of financing a promising enterprise. You may get better terms when you deal with people you know well. Pay bills on time and answer important letters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Believe that wishes come true — they really do. Confidential help from a friend or special group could make it happen. Talking shop with your colleagues pays off handsomely.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You will get a positive feeling from what happens this weekend. Share your optimism with your mate and children. Get a message to someone before it is too late. Offer your full support.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Everything begins to fall into place for you emotionally and financially. An unexpected visit proves very rewarding. Fulfill your obligations to others to the best of your ability.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): By slightly altering your weekend plans, the whole family can participate in the fun. A moral sense is very important when making a financial decision now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Avoid behavior patterns you know will get you into trouble. Good nutrition will keep you feeling fit and energetic. Once you settle a debt, you will find it easier to relax and be happy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Listen to someone's explanation before going off on your own. Certain shortcuts may not save time. Find out what is behind a child's thinking and you will draw closer to each other.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Treat yourself to something special today. A change of pace is just what the doctor ordered! Do not be afraid to express your concern for a loved one or friend. Travel is favored.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A woman's viewpoint may help you find the right solution to a recurring problem. Follow your intuition and good things will happen. A heart-felt compliment will lift your spirits sky-high.

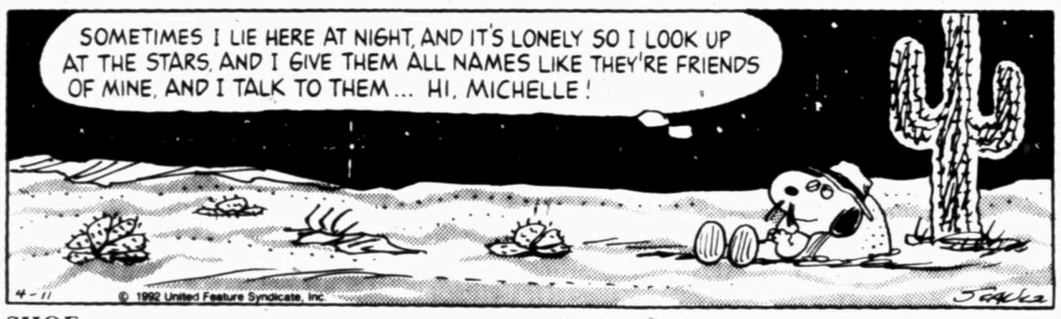

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): What goes up will come down — and you will be better for it. Lukewarm approval is not enough for a child. Be more supportive! You are in a position to score big gains.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): All that glitters is not gold. Proceed with caution. A lovable bumbler may be just what you need in your personal life right now. Give this loyal new admirer a chance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You have to have both heart and resolve to get ahead. A controversial approach may offer the best chance for success. Confide in someone who has earned your trust.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are decisive, spontaneous and witty! Only a tendency to be impatient can keep them from enjoying widespread popularity. Although these Aries claim to hate the limelight, they tend to wear eye-catching clothes and call attention to themselves. Wise parents will encourage these children's dreams while emphasizing the need for diplomacy. Burning one's bridges is almost always a mistake! A gift for public speaking makes these Aries effective debaters.

Frank Sinatra's pasta sauce falls far below his popularity

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — Old Blue Eyes may have captivated America with his voice, but he's bombing with his pasta sauce.

The curtain is dropping on four pasta sauces named for Frank Sinatra and produced by Armanino Foods of Distinction Inc.

Apparently, 1991 was a bad year for new premium brands as cash-strapped shoppers searched for deals.

"In the last six or eight months, sales really deteriorated," said chief executive William Armanino. Sinatra could not be reached for comment Thursday.

Meanwhile, Paul Newman continues to do well with his marinara sauces and salad dressings, which were better established before the recession hit, said Richard Mazer, senior partner at Marketing Corp. of America in San Francisco.

"Anyway, they both have blue eyes, so we know it's not the eye color," Mazer said.

NEW YORK — Arsenio Hall says he and Jay Leno are not friends and he will have no qualms battling Leno for late-night television viewers and guests.

Hall

"I'm going to treat him like we treated the kid on the high school basketball team who was the coach's son. He was there because he was anointed, too," Hall said.

Hall's syndicated talk show, "The Arsenio Hall Show," has been wooing younger viewers from NBC's "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" since Hall went on the air in 1989. Leno will take over full-time "Tonight" duties from Johnny Carson on May 25.

Hall, 34, accused Leno of getting the "Tonight" job without earning it.

"I always hear that Jay and I are friends when they interview him," Hall said. "Jay and I are not friends."

HONOLULU — Constantine Walker was cleared by a federal jury on charges the renowned reggae band member tried to bring marijuana into the United States.

Walker, 40, of the band Ziggy Marley and the Melody Makers, said he didn't know there was less than a teaspoon of marijuana in his shirt pocket when he arrived in Hawaii from Australia last year for a concert series.

U.S. Customs officials charged Walker under the federal "zero tolerance" law. He was cleared this week.

Walker, who has dreadlocks to his waist, admits he smokes marijuana, but said he's not a dealer.

"I'm a peaceful person. I make people happy with my music," he said.

Walker played with reggae legend Bob Marley, the late father of Ziggy Marley.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Audrey Hepburn was honored by Brown University for her work to reduce world hunger.

Hepburn, who won an Academy Award playing opposite Gregory Peck in the 1953 film "Roman Holiday," blamed the arms race for creating much of world hunger. She said nations spend millions on arms while children of the Third World — about 40,000 a day — are dying of hunger.

Hepburn

"This is one of the great tragedies of our time. No flood ever killed 40,000 people," she said Thursday.

"In a world wherein a matter of weeks we can launch a massive military campaign, hunger anywhere — especially among children — is needless and appalling."

Brown President Vartan Gregorian presented the actress with an award for her work as a goodwill ambassador for UNICEF, a United Nations relief agency.

DALLAS — On the court, Charlotte Hornets forward Larry Johnson is known for his fierce rebounding and rim-rattling dunks. But back home in Texas, he may be better known for his assists.

Thanks to a $2,000 gift from Johnson, a group of boys, all 12 and under, will compete this weekend in a national basketball tournament in New Orleans.

"It was fortunate that we knew Larry and that he was interested in giving something back to the community," said Jackie Peel, business manager for the Exline Recreation Center.

Johnson used to play at a gym in south Dallas.

Peel said that the players would have had to pay more than $200 each for hotel rooms and meals during the trip. She said she had planned to buy the gasoline, and the Dallas Black Chamber of Commerce and McDonald's also offered to help.

Then she left a message for Johnson, who had conducted a basketball camp at the recreation center last summer, asking him for help on her fund-raising ideas.

"Larry called and said he would have the check in the mail that day," Peel said.

Nation in brief

■ Ashe: AIDS sufferers shouldn't carry stigma

NEW YORK — Arthur Ashe, who disclosed this week that he has AIDS, says it's time the public accepted that people with the deadly disease shouldn't carry a stigma.

"It really is demeaning for someone in my situation to have the 1990s version of leprosy, to have to walk around on eggshells, when we know that I am absolutely no danger to anyone," the retired tennis great said in an interview taped for broadcast Friday night on ABC-TV's "20-20."

"I mean, you can kiss me, you can hug me, you can shake my hand, you can drink out of the same glass," he said. "I can sneeze on you, I can cough on you — you're not going to get it from me."

Ashe said the stigma "will stop one day, and I hope to be a part of that abatement."

Ashe, 48, the first black man to win Britain's Wimbledon tournament, announced Wednesday he had contracted AIDS from a tainted blood transfusion he received after a 1983 heart operation.

He said his 5-year-old daughter, Camera, knows he has AIDS, but "she's not really sure what AIDS is."

"She knows the word, and we tried to relate that to other sicknesses that she can identify with," he said.

Ashe said he has also taken his daughter's advice on life.

"For Camera, the future is tomorrow afternoon," he said. "I'm living day to day, and enjoying as much of it as I can."

■ Judge waits for high court abortion ruling

SALT LAKE CITY — A federal judge on Friday dismissed most objections to Utah's anti-abortion law, but said he would wait for an upcoming U.S. Supreme Court decision before ruling on the law's constitutionality.

U.S. District Judge J. Thomas Greene said he would rule after the high court acts on a Pennsylvania case that many legal experts believe could eliminate or sharply limit the constitutional right to an abortion. The high court's ruling is expected this summer.

Utah's law, which isn't being enforced, would ban abortions except to save a woman's life, if her health is gravely endangered, if the fetus would be born with grave defects, or in reported cases of rape or incest.

The only question still before Greene will be whether those restrictions are unconstitutional under whatever standards the Supreme Court sets out in the Pennsylvania ruling.

The judge said he would rule on that question without holding a trial.

■ Highway worker uses metal as space joke

EMPORIA, Kan. — A piece of burned metal that scientists thought might have been part of a Russian booster rocket was placed near a highway by a turnpike worker as a joke, a state official said Friday.

The metal, which measured about 1 foot by 1 foot and contained two red Cyrillic letters, was found Tuesday near Interstate 35, about 120 miles southwest of Kansas City, Mo.

Scientists who examined the scrap believed it was from a booster rocket launched from Russia on Tuesday. They said it probably traveled through the Earth's atmosphere before slamming into the Kansas prairie.

But Lisa Callahan, spokeswoman for the Kansas Turnpike Authority, said Friday a turnpike worker admitted putting the object by the highway.

"We're going to handle it internally. We're deciding now whether there will be a suspension or something," she said.

If the practical joker hadn't come forward, scientists would have learned of the hoax on Monday when an analysis of the piece was completed, said Max Ary, who heads the Kansas Cosmosphere and Space Center.

Ary said the person did a fairly good job of making the metal scrap look real. But he wasn't happy about the hoax.

"It makes it very difficult when legitimate claims do arise," Ary said in a statement.

■ Leona Helmsley gets last-minute appeal

NEW YORK — Leona Helmsley is getting a last-minute chance for freedom.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Tuesday will take up the hotel queen's request to perform community service rather than go to prison.

Mrs. Helmsley, 71, is supposed to report Wednesday to a federal prison in Kentucky to begin a four-year term for evading $1.2 million in taxes.

The appeals court decided Thursday to consider her appeal.

Her lawyers argued last month that prison would be the death knell for Mrs. Helmsley and her ailing, 83-year-old husband, Harry. A judge rejected the argument.

Bush allows Wisconsin to cut welfare payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration gave Wisconsin permission Friday to cut payments to many teen-age welfare mothers.

President Bush encouraged other states to come up with welfare changes of their own. But the Child Welfare League of America said Bush's action would "end up hurting the very children we seek to help."

The administration issued a waiver allowing Wisconsin to reduce the additional benefits given to a welfare mother for having more than one child.

Bush said he was "pleased to make good on my promise" of changing the welfare system.

Wisconsin Gov. Tommy Thompson, asked if there is any evidence of unwed motners having additional children simply for the added income, replied:

"No, there isn't. There really isn't but there is no evidence to the contrary, either."

A summary of the Wisconsin initiative says it applies to welfare recipients who are first-time parents and under the age of 20. It will be will be tried in Milwaukee and three other counties for five years.

Recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children will receive only one half of the current increase for having a second child — and no additional aid for more children.

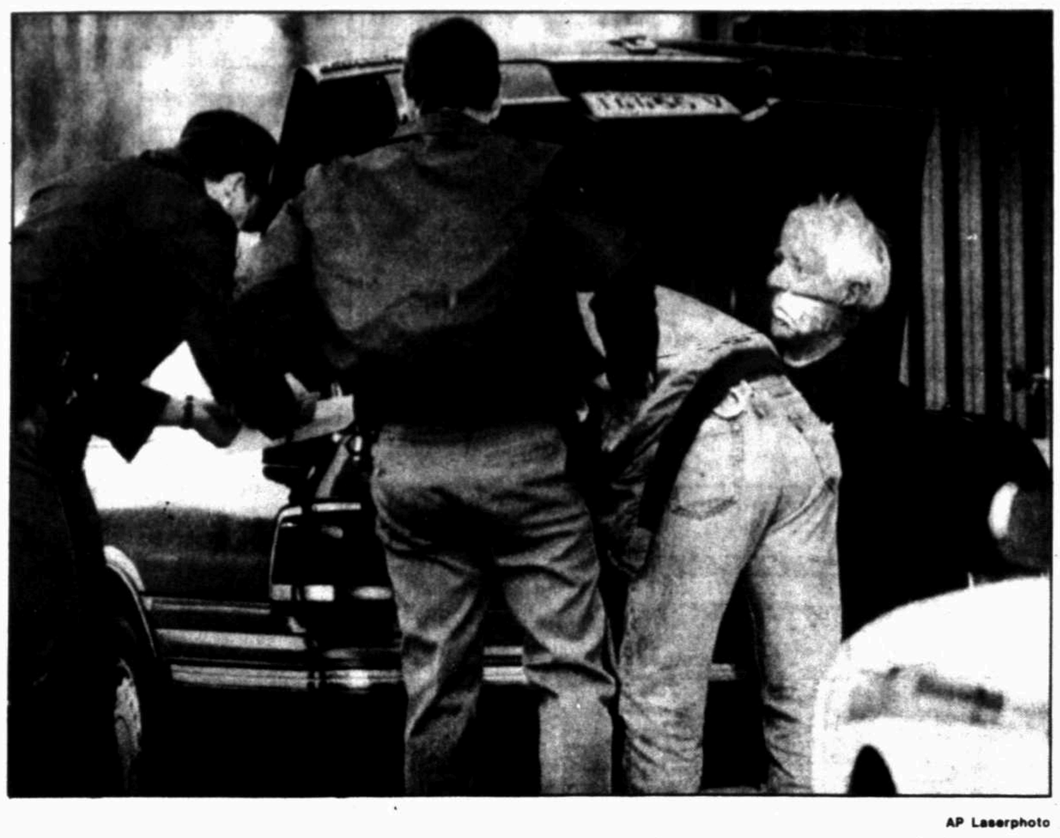

Now, a single mother in Wisconsin with one child receives $440 a month from AFDC, which will not change.

But a single mother of two children will receive $479 monthly, down from the current $517. And a mother of three children would also receive $479, down from the current $617.

The executive director of the Child Welfare League of America, David S. Liederman, called the federal waiver "outrageous."

"AFDC is the largest children's program in the country, serving 8 million children," he added. "By withholding benefits to their parents with the intent of modifying behaviors, we end up hurting the very children we seek to help."

Liederman also said that the typical AFDC family consists of a mother and two children, "and more than half of the families who receive AFDC are on assistance for less than two years."

Senate OKs $1.5 trillion budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan Senate approved a $1.5 trillion federal budget for 1993 on Friday that embraces President Bush's call for $292 billion for the post-Cold War military.

By a 54-35 vote, lawmakers adopted their first budget since the former Soviet republics dissolved their union. Democrats tried to shave billions of dollars from Bush's military plans after the dismantling of the world's only other superpower, but lost three votes on Thursday.

Voting for the budget were 36 Democrats and 18 Republicans, while 15 Democrats and 20 Republicans voted against it.

The spending plan, for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, would closely track most of Bush's domestic priorities. The most dramatic changes lawmakers would make — spending about $1.1 billion less than Bush for law enforcement and $1.8 billion more for welfare — amount to shifts of one one-thousandth of the overall budget.

Senate negotiators will next try to write a compromise budget with members of the House, which approved a similar plan last month. The final product does not need the president's approval, because it serves only as a blueprint for future congressional spending bills.

Much of Friday was spent debating, and ultimately turning aside, a plan by Republicans and conservative Democrats to shrink the federal deficit by limiting the uncontrolled growth of most benefit programs, such as agricultural support payments.

"We do this because we don't know any other way to save America for our children," said Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M. "Everyone in this country has to understand there is no money left in the Treasury."

Sponsors withdrew their proposal, which was not binding, after the Senate voted 66-28 for a Democratic amendment exempting veterans benefits. The vote was a vivid indicator of how difficult it will be to get lawmakers to cut such popular programs.

Benefit programs are the fastest growing part of the budget but are rarely cut because they serve politically potent groups.

Democrats said the proposal, which would have exempted Social Security, ignored rapidly rising medical costs. They criticized Bush for failing to introduce legislation that would control medical expenses and accused Republicans of cutting programs that largely serve the poor to fix the government's fiscal ills.
