Boy, 12, Is Shot By Red Border Guard

BERLIN (AP) — A 12-year-old boy trying to escape from East Germany was shot dead by Red border guards, West Berlin police reported today.

The shooting occurred last Sunday during the Whitsun holidays when two groups of East Germans were trying to tunnel their way to freedom.

Because the shooting took place on the East side of the Communist wall, West Berlin police did not get details immediately.

His death brought the known number of deaths along the wall to 36.

Another 14-year-old East German boy was shot last week by East Germans as he swam a canal to the West. He escaped with seven bullet wounds. He still is in West Berlin hospital.

Apparently incensed by the number of successful escapes, the Communist regime is strengthening the barricades around West Berlin.

Six concrete bunkers have been located at strategic points, and they added a seven-foot-tall covered firing position facing the U.S. sector border opposite Zehlendorf.

From me to you A DAILY VIEW

Rev. R. Charles Spivey

"You shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I, the Lord, am your God and there is none else. And my people shall never again be put to shame."

A multitude of disasters had happened to Israel, chief among them a swarm of locusts. But God says for them not to fear, for He will show them his greatness and his love.

He will cause the grain to grow, he will increase the flocks. He will do all things to show them that he is in their midst.

Now, we Americans ought to sit back every now and then and contemplate what the Lord has done for us. We quite often take for granted this great land of ours and the freedom we cherish. And we take it for granted that we will not do anything about freedoms that are slowly but surely slipping away from us.

We need desperately to sit back and count off the blessings of God—that he is the Lord and there is none else like him.

Canine Has Many Days In Court

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For two years, Georgia judges have been peering over the bench at a lemon and white pointer and wondering: Does she or doesn't she know who her real owner is?

W. L. Scott of Sylvania says the dog's name is Dale and belongs to him.

But George McDonald of Savannah says the dog's name is Queen and belongs to him.

Scott claims he raised Dale from a pup and that McDonald stole her.

McDonald says he raised Queen from the time she was six months old and a friend gave her to him.

McDonald was charged with theft of a dog and he, Scott and Queen (or Dale) went into Superior County Superior Court.

For the duration of the litigation, the dog has been boarded with Dr. W. H. Gibson, a veterinarian.

The solution seemed simple. The dog was turned loose in the courtroom. Both men called.

"Here, Dale," called Scott. The dog ran yelping to him.

"Here, Queen," called McDonald. The dog ran yelping to him. A Screven county jury believed Scott's story and convicted McDonald of kidnapping.

Dr. Jack Birch of the university's special education and rehabilitation department said one aim is to find out what effect early admissions will have on the school system in later years.

Another aim is to prove that some children are ready for formal schooling earlier than others.

Jollyng 'Em Into Sack

By DIANE HECKERT DAYTON (AP)—Ever, wished your youngster's bed were like a space capsule?

Think of it. It could have a compartment for the snack he is certain to demand. It could have a little spigot to dispense the classic drink of water. It might even feature the recording of the one that writes bedtime story—the one that always puts you to sleep with its soothing voice.

Well, I, said the mother.

The sleep capsule's escape hatch could work only from the outside.

Silliness at 8:30

Getting the kids to bed can sometimes be as complex as a rocket launching, according to one mother of four middle-sized youngsters.

Simply everything goes smoothly on the usual occasions when a wave of silliness strikes about 8:30 p.m. The final raid on the rebels may reveal the whole crew burrowed down in the bottom of one bed, hiding from some deliciously frightening monster.

It seems that most youngsters at bedtime fall somewhere between the poles of docility and demon-possession. Almost none is above using delaying tactics.

Water Cooler Gambit

The youngster may have shown no signs of thirst all evening, but bed makes him as painfully parched as a ride on a train with its fascinating push-button water cooler. Going to the bathroom is a better gambit because it gets him all the way out of bed.

The tad may have watched half a dozen food commercials on TV without batting an eye, but the minute he lays his head on the pillow, he is seized with hunger pangs like those he gets when passing the caramel corn counter in the dime store.

There is nothing like Mom's final turning out of the light, and her footsteps receding down the hall, to bring out the conversationalist in the most taciturn child.

A father of four tells it this way: "I come home from work and ask my kids, 'What did you do today?' They say, 'Oh, nothing. Please Dad, we're busy watching this show.' After their bedtime, my wife and I settle down with our books in the living room, when all of a sudden, a steady stream of kids starts going by.

"One of them will say, 'Hey, Dad, are you going to the Scout banquet with me next week?' The next one says, 'I forgot to tell you to get me up early for French class tomorrow.' Pretty soon comes, 'I need a map for school.' The next says, 'Dad, I learned a new piece on my trumpet today. Want me to play it?'

Subtle Tactics Help

Besides the obvious bit about setting a standard bedtime and being firm about it, parents can use other subtle tactics to prevent rows.

One mother helps her children simmer down gradually by reading to them before bedtime. Try to pluck them up from a hearty wrestling match and tuck them in, and you're licked before you start.

Dads often get into the act.

"I've told them 'The Three Bears' in six different versions," says one.

Another mother says that ever since her children learned how soldiers in the Army go to bed, evenings have been a breeze at her house. Dad just goes upstairs and whistles taps.

Even when the whispered conversations die away after bedtime, she doesn't take it for granted that the tuck-ins is over.

"I've wakened at midnight with a feeling of claustrophobia," she says. "And I find all three of them in bed with us."

HONOREE AND MOTHER—Miss Juaney Teaff, left, bride-elect of Carroll Carver, was honored with a gift reception Thursday morning at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Pictured with Miss Teaff is her mother, Miss Teaff is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Teaff of Snyder. Mr. Carver is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Carver of Houston. The couple will be married June 22. Hostesses for the gift reception were Mmes. M. H. Roe, Porter King, G. E. Clark Jr., Amos Joyce, Harold Brown, Ben Thorpe, M. W. Pilcher, Silas Devenport, Gene Best, Harry Ward and Miss Ethel May Sturdivant.

Over Million Retire In '62

This year, approximately 1 and 13 million Americans will arrive at the threshold of their own "new frontier"—retirement.

By and large, families who enter retirement today have a greater variety of financial resources than their parents and grandparents reports the Institute of Life Insurance.

Some of these resources, such as Social Security and pension plans and some life insurance policies are designed to provide a regular income after retirement. Others, like savings and investments, and the ownership of a home, make up a financial reserve which the family can turn to if the need should arise.

While total resources vary widely from family to family, all indications are that people at retirement today are better off financially than those of a generation or more ago. More than half the nation's industrial and office force is now enrolled in pension plans where they work, including insured pension plans underwritten by life insurance companies, and nearly all working people come under Social Security. Two out of three other families who live in cities and suburbs now own their own homes, most of them mortgage-free. Older persons tend to be healthier, as a study of those receiving Social Security benefits shows. Furthermore, the typical retired family is not in debt, where money is saved, the amount is likely to be small.

The prospect of retirement in circumstances of financial independence has turned family life into a more leisurely one than they thought it would be.

Nation's Capital Still Has Plenty Of Natural Beauty

BY INEZ ROBB
WASHINGTON—And now, as I say a really fond farewell to the nation's capital, it's beauty overwhelms me—not the beauty of its famous buildings or its great monuments but the transcendent beauty in mid-June of its parks, the abundance of its great trees and the multitude of its private gardens.

"Washington has shady streets," a cynic once said, "to match its shady way." But, in June, the optimism cannot help but feel the great virtue must abide in a capital that has managed to preserve so much of the loveliness with which nature has endowed it.

Despite the constant encroachment of vast apartment houses, Washington's residential streets and areas are still green with the expanses of lofty trees such as few cities its size enjoy.

Granted that the White House is a noble building, it is doubly enhanced by the green lawns that roll away from it and the huge old trees that shade it.

But my constant apprehension while here has been that I would not live long enough to enjoy the capital's beauty or elan. The traffic here is wild. There is no other way for it. Whether official life drives men—and women, too—to desperate deeds and derring-do behind the wheel is something for the psychiatrist or the coroner to decide.

For years the traffic in Rio de Janeiro has struck me as being the world's most hazardous. But Washington has moved into a lead. Every time I stepped into a car, I sat in the back seat with eyes closed and prayed.

State visits on the part of heads of foreign governments have been so constant since World War II, and particularly during the Kennedy Administration, that nothing ruffles Washington's savior faire. But the visit of Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus shook it up a bit when the capital learned that the proper form of address for the Archbishop and first president of the island is "Your Beatitude."

"I don't mind saying 'Your Royal Highness' or 'Your Majesty' or 'Your Imperial Majesty,'" an independent Senator, on several powerful committees, complained. "But how can I address another man as 'Your Beatitude'?"

When does a house organ become "an advertising brochure?" When it deliberately uses several pictures of the First Lady as a promotion gimmick, answers the White House. Hence, the recent White House demand for the suppression of a house organ—or advertising brochure—put out by Air Force magazine, on which Mrs. Kennedy flew from Rome to New Delhi on her recent visit to India.

"There is an understanding in this country that the First Family is never used in any way in an advertisement," says Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary. "Mrs. Kennedy's trip was used as an advertising vehicle by Air India. On that trip, she also used Air Pakistan and Pan American World Airways, which did not violate the rule."

That takes the reporter, who accompanied Mrs. Kennedy, off the hook. At first it was rumored that the White House objected to reproduction in the house organ brochure of six pictures of these newsmen decorously dining at a gay Home restaurant during Mrs. Kennedy's stopover in that city.

"Nonsense!" says Mr. Salinger. "The rest of Washington is chucking over another brochure, that of a new, push-ins just opened in Georgetown where the management provides 'an instruction booklet which will help the guest enjoy the refreshing benefits' of its exotic plumbing, borrowed from the French.

"Old World touches at the inn," the brochure continues, "includes message slips that do not merely say, 'While You Were Out' but rather 'Whist Thou Were Out.'" Joe called and willist thou call him back.

Man Known By What He Hasn't Done

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—A man is known by the footprints he leaves in the sands of time. But deeds are not the only measure of identity.

What you haven't done tells you more in this world just about as surely as what you did do.

For example:

I am the fellow who at $1 never has won more than $5 on a horse race.

Gods scuba diving. Shaken hands with a Republican president born east of the Mississippi River.

Kissed a great-great-grandmother.

Married a red-haired girl, but did marry a brunette and a blonde.

Wrote a newspaper column with the title.

Read a novel by Leo Tolstoy.

Ridden on the back of a fire truck.

Saved a ticket for jaywalking, or bought a ticket to a policeman's ball.

Known a man who carried his Phi Beta Kappa key in his pocket.

Borrowed money from a millionaire, or known one who'd lend me any.

Played handball, squash, water polo or lacrosse.

Used snuff or learned to like cigarettes.

Gone grouse shooting with a king, or danced with a queen or princess.

Heard a defeated politician admit he had lost in a clean election.

Slept where George Washington never did—in the White House.

Dared to talk back to a woman who muscled in ahead of me at the checkout counter in a supermarket.

Seen a bank robbery or a holdup in progress.

Saved an old lady from a burning building.

Been given a gold watch for devoted service to the organization.

Now you know who I am. Who are you? Just tell me enough things you haven't done, and I can pick you out from any other human being who ever lived.

King's Plane Forced Down

UDON, Thailand (AP)—The plane carrying King Bhumibol Adulyadej and Queen Sirikit on a tour of U.S. and other Allied military camps in Thailand made an emergency landing today. But the royal couple refused to let the incident interrupt the tour.

The twin-engine C-47 had just taken off at Nakorn Panom for the 162-mile flight to Udorn when the right engine began belching smoke. The plane quickly turned back and landed.

The engine trouble was diagnosed as a burst line that spewed oil into a cylinder. The royal party switched to another C-47.

The king and queen extended a personal welcome to the 1,800 U.S. Marines camped at Udorn and thanked them for coming to Thailand's aid. The Marines in turn put on an impressive display of air and ground power.

Junior Editors Quiz on SCIENCE

QUESTION: Why does Dry Ice burn the skin?

ANSWER: The man at the ice house, in our picture, is explaining to two of his young friends the difference between regular ice and Dry Ice. Regular ice, he says, is formed when water is chilled below the freezing point. The block on the right is regular ice; it is shiny and is melting into water under the rays of the sun. But the block on the left is quite different. It is a chunk of solid carbon dioxide, made by compressing carbon dioxide gas to a liquid, cooling this into carbon dioxide snow and compressing this again into a block. This block on the left looks whiter than the other and doesn't melt, when warmed, into water; it turns into gas again. It is also much colder than regular ice, which is why it will damage the skin if coming into contact with it, producing an effect much like a burn from heat. Notice that the man is wearing heavy gloves. Also, Dry Ice is wrapped in heavy paper or packed in metal containers when handled. It is very useful for shipping perishable food, since it lasts longer than regular ice.

FOR YOU TO DO: Dry Ice can be used in many fascinating experiments. But you should not play with it unless some adult is present who knows how to handle it. If you put it into your mouth, it could seriously burn you and to handle it with your bare hands will give you severe burns.

Bufs Win; Yanks, Phils In 1-1 Tie

It was all for-taught here Tuesday as the Boston Red Sox, Yankees and Philadelphia Phillies fought a 10-inning tie in a game in which the Red Sox won 1-0 and the Yankees and Phillies tied 1-1.

Ken Bell, who pitched for the Red Sox, was the winning pitcher. He pitched seven innings, allowing only one run, two hits and one walk. He struck out seven batters.

The Yankees and Phillies tied the game in the eighth inning. The Yankees scored first on a home run by Mickey Vernon. The Phillies tied the game on a home run by Dick Hall.

The game was tied 1-1 in the eighth inning. The Yankees scored first on a home run by Mickey Vernon. The Phillies tied the game on a home run by Dick Hall.

Yank Jerry Owen also sparked in his seven-inning hill stint. He gave up seven hits, but was double-tough in the clutch. The Phillies bunched two of their bingles off him in the run-producing fifth, when Jay Williamson led off with a single and scored on a one-base blow by Corky Fox.

Leslie Brown chucked the final three frames for the Yankees. He struck out the side in the eighth and ninth, and experienced trouble only in the tenth, when the Phils managed to load the sacks in a final attempt at victory.

The Yankees also scored their lone run in the fifth when Andrew Ramirez walked and was eventually platted when Douglas Fuller laid down a perfect squeeze bunt.

Phillie Bobby Koy doubled to start the game's only extra-inning.

The Snyder Savings and Loan Bufts incited a little closer to the top of the Pony League ladder in the nightcap by blanking the Rotan Cats 3-0 behind the masterful two-hit twirling of David Holt.

Holt aided his own cause with a pair of singles in three trips to be the only player for either team garnering more than one safe.

Summitt and Rick Hall had the sole extra-base bingle, a double in the Cardinals, Athletics Notch Decisions

The Little League Cardinals strengthened their grip on second place in the league standings Thursday by submerging the Braves, 8-1.

Steve Holder hurled the three-hit win, scattering three singles during the course of the game. He struck out five and walked one while going the distance, and boosted his own fortunes with a third-inning double.

Gene Greer strung twice for the Cards, also to be the only player collecting more than one hit.

Lozer Drake Snyder started on the hill and pitched for three frames before stepping down in favor of Randy Owen.

In an American League game of the same evening, the Athletics stayed hot on the heels of the league-leading White Sox with a 6-2 triumph over the Yankees.

Ray Nokes was the only Yank managing to fathom the offerings of winner Elroy Benitez. His first-inning leadoff single and third-frame two-bagger were the sum and substance of it for the Yanks in the area of base hits.

Benitez doubled in the first, also, for one of just two hits his mates registered against starter Loser Stewart Sims and relief hurler Raymond Rodriguez. Together they issued 10 bases on balls, however.

FL Cards Biff Giants; Yanks Powder A's

By plowing under the Braves 9-6 here Thursday, the Farm League Cardinals befeep up their league lead over the Giants, who were idle, by upping their record to 7-3 for the year.

Gordon Gray went the distance for the victory. Bernard Garrett was the only Brave touching him for more than one hit, lacing out singles in the third and fifth innings.

Redbird base hits were a bit more abundant. Terry Downing led the way with three singles in a like number of appearances, while Dollins doubled and singled to spur the effort. Landing two singles apiece were Terry Clemmer, David Coy, Kent Hargrove and Clarke Bostick.

Lozer Mike Shearburn worked the first two innings and gave up seven runs before turning it over to Bernard Garrett, who finished out the contest.

The second game of the evening went in the Yankees' favor, who smothered the Athletics by 10-2.

David Rushing was the winning pitcher in that one, tolling the score game for the decision. Mike Morris was tagged with the loss.

Catcher Rick Mirick singled in the second and followed up with a double in the third to give the Yanks a 2-0 lead.

David Rushing was the winning pitcher in that one, tolling the score game for the decision. Mike Morris was tagged with the loss.

Harlin Climbs Into City Softball Lead

The one scheduled City Softball League game of Thursday ended in forfeit, with Ray Taylor Well Service bowing before the Harlin Oilers.

The decision gave the Oilers a 2-0 record, which is tops in the league nearing the end of the first week of championship play. Denon Gull is a half-game back with a 1-0 mark.

A doubleheader is on tap for tonight. Meeting in the first game will be Sunray (0-1) and West Texas Machine (0-0), while the nightcap is to feature R. E. Smith (0-1) and Denon.

Jordan Olivar has coached Yale football for ten seasons.

LACY'S SPORTS FACT

Speaking of about-faces, the 1956 Texas University grid team jumped from a miserable 1-9 record under Ed Price to a commendable 6-4 mark in 1957 with Darrell Royal at the reins.

'Big Four' Dominating

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP)—An eye-dozing number of players are within three strokes of defending champion Gene Littler after one round in the 62nd U.S. Open golf championship but it still shapes up as a four-way race among:

1. Littler
2. Arnold Palmer
3. Gary Player
4. Jack Nicklaus

They were the big four when play began on the 6,894-yard, par 36-35-71 Oakmont Country Club course Thursday and there they were when dusk had dropped nearly 13 hours later.

Littler holed a 100-foot wedge shot for an eagle 3 on the 480-yard, par 5 and sank three 30-foot putts after that for a 2-under-par 69 that led the field of 150 of the nation's best.

Palmer and Player both had putting troubles, but wound up with even par 71s. At 72 was power-hitting Nicklaus, the freshman pro who had seemed headed for a spectacular round after sailing birdies on the first three holes.

Young Bobby Nichols and veteran Bob Rosburg trailed Littler by a stroke at 70, the only others to better par.

Touring pros Billy Maxwell, and Frank Boynton, and two young pros—J. C. Goswiec and Bobby Schooner of Bethlehem, Pa.—were with Palmer and Player at 71.

With Nicklaus at 72 were amateurs Gene Francis of New York and John Guenther of Reading, Pa., and Canada's Stan Leonard.

After today's second round, the field will be cut to the low 50 scorers and ties for black Saturday, the stamina-testing final 36 holes. Sam Snead, trying for the 22nd time to win this tournament once, will need a rally to survive the cutoff. After an opening 76, he has 62 players ahead of him.

Littler, totally unimpressed with his lead, said, "We were just jockeying for position and you notice that Arnold and the others were right up there. I was very fortunate—that wedge shot and then those long putts. You can't count on those things happening every day."

Said Palmer, who ballooned to 2-over-par after 12 holes, then fired five straight 3's to save his chances: "I wasn't putting well, but I'd sure like to place the ball in the same spot that I did on the second round. I didn't miss a fairway and never hit a bunker." But he missed six putts of 6 feet or under.

The Way Grows Much Brighter

When God Gives Us Our Marching Orders

HIS DAY

Come Sunday, the world will pay homage to a very special fellow. He is the husband—the father—the breadwinner and the sturdy foundation of our community. We pause to do him honor. He may be gruff, and stern, and tanned of face, but he is Dad. Just get an x-ray of his heart if you really want to see something rare. What strange, but wonderful people these fathers are. They are, the world's easiest victims of love's attack. Just pour on a little attention, seasoned with about two parts of tenderness and give in very small doses... since he could never stand a big dose. Then just sit back and watch his big heart warm up. It will respond in true father fashion. This Father's Day, won't you take him to God's House for an hour of worship?
