Settlement Of Berlin Strike Is Announced

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, June 11.—American-Russian agreement tonight signalled the end of the Berlin rail strike. Prompt union acceptance, predicted by strike leaders, promised to break a 22-day economic stranglehold and clear the way for an all-Germany trade pact.

American negotiations with the Russian-controlled railway management brought a settlement which within hours may open the floodgates for 150,000 tons of supplies tied up in what amounted to a "little blockade."

Acceptance Promised Today

Leaders of the anti-Communist rail union, the UGO, said the 14,000 strikers would formally accept tomorrow a set of peace terms backed up by a solid western guarantee and that traffic would move as soon as snarls accumulated in three weeks of chaos are cleared up.

Brig. Gen. Frank L. Howley, the U.S. commandant, negotiated the railway agreement. He announced the terms and told strikers "it is the conviction of the Western Allied commandants that this is a fair offer and I have been assured that it will be carried out exactly."

The offer:

The Soviet-controlled reichsbahn (railway) promised Howley it would pay at least 60 per cent of the workers' wages in West marks. The west Berlin city government will authorize payment for the next three months of up to 15 per cent additional to the workers in the same currency.

Union Recognition Sidestepped

The workers had demanded all their pay in West marks, worth four times as much as the Soviet-sponsored east marks. They also had demanded recognition by the Russians of their union and assurance of no reprisals.

The union failed to win recognition, but said the fight for it would go on. The issue was sidestepped in Howley's negotiations. UGO leaders said, however, they were glad to have "firm Allied guarantees" that the Communist management must live up to its promises.

A meeting of UGO district committeemen tomorrow will vote formal acceptance, strike leaders said. Strikers estimated it would take eight hours to repair jammed switches and uprooted rails and

Acheson Meets With Vishinsky

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, June 11—Andrei Vishinsky and U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson had a chance tonight to thresh out the whole German problem at a dinner given by the Soviet foreign minister.

Vishinsky invited Acheson after having spent several hours in contact with Moscow over the Big Four German deadlock.

Acheson took along his top advisers on Germany, a handy move in case Vishinsky had some new idea to put forward which could break the logjam. They are Dr. Phillip C. Jessup, Robert Murphy, and Charles E. Bohlen.

Dinner Held In Embassy

The dinner tonight was in the Russian embassy. A week ago Vishinsky was Acheson's guest at a small dinner party.

At Vishinsky's request the foreign ministers council was taking a recess until Sunday. Most western officials believed the Soviet diplomat was awaiting fresh instructions from the Kremlin.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson decided to take along his top advisers on Germany—just in case the Russian had some new idea to

Hurricane Warning System To Begin Operation Wednesday

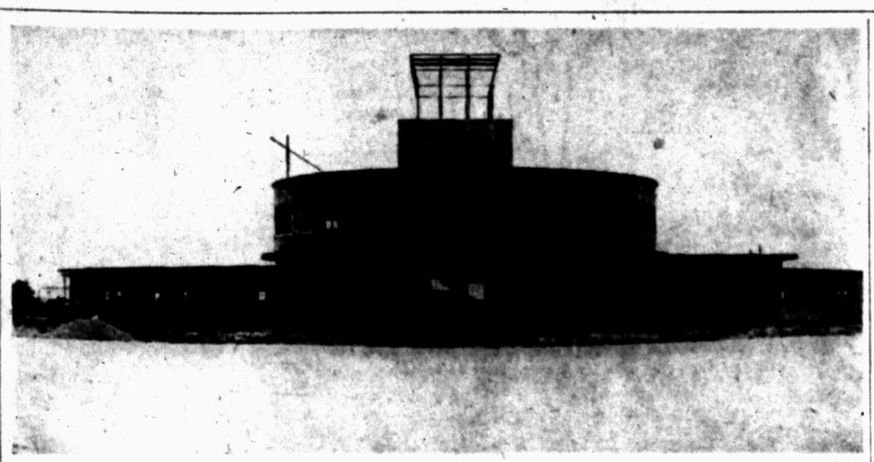

MIAMI, Fla., June 11 (AP)—Comes midnight Wednesday and the storm king takes up his sceptre again. The season of tropical hurricanes returns.

The southern coasts from Brownsville on the gulf to Charleston on the Atlantic are as ready for the unpopular season as it is possible to be.

A couple of hundred new hurricane warning flags have been issued. The hurricane circuit—a teletype warning network—begins to function at midnight Wednesday. And at the same time the Weather bureau's storm warning service goes on 24-hour watch.

ADDITIONAL IMPROVEMENTS ARE OKAYED

Airport Work Speeded

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

THE City of Lubbock will be the proud owner of one of the brightest spots in the nation's airport picture when current projects are completed this fall.

The improvements are being accompanied by a remarkable increase in air traffic and aircraft business.

Significant developments Saturday gave further assurance that Lubbock's airport—to represent an investment just short of $5,000,000—will be unparalleled by any city the size of Lubbock in the nation.

Contract Awarded

Most significant were these announcements:

1. That the City of Lubbock will call for bids soon on a complete runway resurfacing program, to be financed by the federal government at a cost of $226,000.

2. That a contract has been awarded to a St. Petersburg, Fla., contractor for installation of an instrument landing system at the field which will allow "blind" landings of passenger planes in weather which now causes the airport to close. The system, federally financed, will cost an estimated $100,000.

3. That Lubbock will be the first airport in a five-state CAA region to receive a federally-operated control tower, out of a current appropriation for 12 such towers in the nation. With it will come an estimated annual payroll of $35,000.

Bids To Be Called

4. That bids will be received June 29 on the concession for an airport restaurant which, it is hoped, will be one of Lubbock's showplaces.

Approval of the runway project followed a conference in Fort Worth last week.

Ed Colby, airport director, R. L. Oldham, director of public works, and G. K. Harris, city engineer, flew to Fort Worth in Colby's personal plane for negotiations with Civil Aeronautics authorities in the regional office there.

Early Approval Assured

They stopped at Big Spring to pick up J. D. Church, CAA district engineer, who participated in the negotiations with Dewey Powell, engineer in charge of airport paving, Ed Travis, superintendent of airports, and other officials of the CAA regional office.

The Lubbock officials were assured of early approval of the project, which will see nearly 3 million square feet of runways resurfaced and a large portion rebased.

Purpose of the work will be to restore the runways to brand-new condition, Colby explained.

"The airport is entirely safe and useable in its present condition," Colby said. "But the past severe winter clearly brought to light the fact that the Army's lack of maintenance and extremely heavy airplanes caused damages that will show up over a period of time.

"Congress has provided the means for reimbursement to cities for the Army's lack of maintenance or overload on runways during the war, and we are applying for this reimbursement. When the work is finished, Lubbock will have, to all intents and purposes, a brand-new airport."

The runway improvements will coincide with the final stages of work on the $458,000 air terminal building which is now rising to dominate the airport landscape.

Air conditioning ducts were being installed by workmen Saturday afternoon. Brick masonry work is nearing completion and the steel frame of the control tower has risen at the highest point of the building.

The Thompson Contracting company of St. Petersburg, Fla., was awarded a contract for constructing and installing the ILS (instrument landing system). CAA officials advised the Lubbock men during the conference. Based on similar installations, the cost will

MEET OPENS 1950 VOTE DRIVE

Midwest Farm Conference Is Slated By Top Demo Leaders

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11.—President Truman's top political lieutenants are headed for the corn belt with the administration's big farm program as a vote-getting argument for 1950.

They will open a two-day political conference in Des Moines, Iowa, Sunday afternoon, aiming to lay the groundwork for next year's congressional campaigns and to hold Democratic farm gains of last fall.

From the capital are coming such Democratic leaders as Vice President Barkley, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, Secretary of Labor Tobin, Attorney General Clark, Sen. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, the Democratic national chairman, and Sen. Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee.

The farm conference is the first major field move of the Democrats in their battle with the Republicans for the farm vote.

Midwestern farm states have been credited with playing a major part in Mr. Truman's 1948 presidential victory.

Party leaders said several thousand midwestern Democratic chieftains as well as representatives of farm, and consumer groups are expected to take part.

The immediate goal of the meeting will be to sell the idea Democrats can and will do more than Republicans to solve postwar problems of Agriculture overproduction and declining prices.

COP Strikes First

The sales talk will center largely on a new farm plan advanced by Secretary Brannan. The plan features high-level returns to farmers and cheap food for consummers when there are surpluses. The gap between high returns to producers and low prices for consumers would be bridged by government payments to farmers.

Senators Kenneth S. Wherry, of Nebraska, Republican Senate floor leader, sought to take the edge off the Democratic sales campaign. In a nationally - broadcast speech from Alliance, Neb., last night, he charged the Brannan plan would put farmers under direct control of thousands of government agents.

16 States Represented

States to be represented at the Democratic conference include Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

The Democrats are trying to break a string of off-year election losses in the farm belt. Since 1932, Democrats have won every presidential election, but received set-

$2,800,000 In Bonds Sold By Tech Board

FORT WORTH, June 11 (AP)—Purchase contract on $2,800,000 in bonds to make possible addition of two wings to the Texas Tech administration building and other improvements was awarded today to Stife Nigalaus of Chicago and associates.

The Chicago firm's bid was low.

The board of directors of Texas Tech awarded the contract in a meeting here.

The firm's bid was for an average net interest rate of 1.5965. The board said that if all options provided for are exercised by directors the average net interest rate will be 1.45.

Directors present were Charles C. Thompson, Colorado City, chairman; C. E. Weymouth, Amarillo; Mark McGee, Fort Worth; Kyle Spiller, Jacksboro; O. B. Ratliff, Lubbock; A. C. (Pat) Hayes, Paris; Robert B. Price, El Paso, and Leon Ince, Houston.

(Plans for the sale had been made at a meeting of the Tech board in Lubbock recently. More concrete action on the building program will be taken at later meetings.)

Floods Reported Delaying Red March On Nationalist Capital

CANTON, China, June 11 (AP)—Floods in the path of the Communist advance towards Canton gave some reason today for the continuing lull in the Chinese civil war.

Reliable reports said heavy rains disrupted rail and road travel and put three to five feet of water in such key cities as Changsha, Hengyang, Chuchow, Foochow and Hanchow.

The same sources said more than 200,000 Communist troops were massed in North Kiangsi, ready to push towards Canton as soon as the floods subsided. Their most advanced positions were about 300 miles north of this provisional Nationalist capital, with no appreciable movement for nearly a month.

Other reliable sources said the Communists were waiting until the harvest season, starting late in July, so they could obtain enough rice in the country side to feed their armies in an all-out offensive.

7,000 Persons Attend Closing Program Of Boys' Club Rodeo

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

THE American Business club last night wrapped up its 1949 annual Boys' club rodeo into a finished package, termed it a success, and contributed the net proceeds from it to the capitol fund of the Lubbock Boys' club.

The ABC, sponsor of the Lubbock Boys' club last night did not make public the amount netted from the four performances of this year's World Championship rodeo, but a public announcement is expected sometime within the next few days

The final performance last night in Jones stadium was presented before approximately 7,000 persons and was almost entirely without incident. No Brahma bulls broke their chutes and escaped from the rodeo grounds as they did Friday night, and no performers received falls severe enough to require treatment by a physician, as was the case Wednesday night.

Nevertheless, the show last night was excellent. The field apparently had dried out enough after recent rains to permit contestants to

16 Are Killed In Accidents Over State

(By The Associated Press)

SIXTEEN persons died violently in Texas Friday and Saturday, getting the weekend death toll off to an unusually severe start. Traffic accidents caused 10 of the deaths.

Two head-on collisions Saturday took a total of six lives.

One crash occurred two miles west of Merkel, killing four persons and seriously injuring two. The other accident, 15 miles north of Mineral Wells, took two lives. Two other persons were seriously hurt. Dead in the early-morning Merkel crash were Leon Chapman, 21, of Grand Falls; O. L. Bishop, 59, and his wife, 55, of Trent and their son, Oscar Sherrell Bishop, 35, of Midland. Mrs. Oscar Sherrell Bishop suffered a fractured skull and Mrs. Wayne Bolin of Corpus Christi, daughter of the elder Bishops, sustained a fractured pelvis.

Rain Extinguished Flares

Tena, eight year old daughter of Mrs. Bolin, also was slightly hurt.

Highway patrolman G. G. Fitzhugh said the Bishop family was returning to Trent after attending a funeral at Waco. Fitzhugh said their car apparently was forced to swerve suddenly to avoid a torn-up section of U.S. highway 80. warning flares at the scene had been extinguished by a heavy rain earlier in the night.

In the crash north of Mineral Wells, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Smith of Oklahoma City were killed. Maj. and Mrs. John C. Weisler of Fort Sam Houston were seriously hurt. The Smiths were traveling southward to visit a foster daughter, Mrs. B. O. Elder of Mineral Wells. The Weislers were enroute from San Antonio to Chicago on a vacation. The scene was one-half mile south of Perrin. The pavement was wet from rain. The accident occurred at 7:30 a.m.

Coal Stoppage Begins Monday

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 11—John L. Lewis' miners today completed what may be their last shift in the nation's coal mines for several weeks to come.

The men do not work Sunday and Monday. They begin a scheduled week-long work stoppage ordered by the United Mine Workers chief to "stabilize" the industry.

However, the forthcoming shutdown may not end on June 20 as directed by Lewis. The miners' 10-day vacation starts June 25 and many diggers probably will decide to remain idle during the period June 20-25. They get $100 for the vacation period.

Pact Expires June 30

When the vacation ends July 5, the miners will report back to the pits only if the union has negotiated a new wage agreement with the operators.

The existing pact expires midway in the vacation—June 30.

Thousands of miners reported for an unusual Saturday workshift today in anticipation of next week's shutdown.

Ordinarily the mine workers have two days a week off although a sixth day of work is optional with the operators. Some mines have been working only two or

Heavy Rains, High Winds Cause Damage; Child Swept To Death

THUNDERSTORMS continued to strike at numerous points over the state Saturday, causing some damage and at least one death, and no immediate relief was in sight for much of the state today.

A child was swept to its death in a flooding drainage ditch at Beaumont and wind damaged several buildings of a resort at Costello island on Possum Kingdom lake, the Associated Press reported. And heavy rain disturbed telephone service at McKinney for a time.

Meanwhile, the Weather bureau station in Lubbock said that thunderstorms which dumped heavy rain and hail over the area for the past week were due to return today, some possibly during the early morning hours. Possibility of hail also was foreseen in some areas. No heavy rains were reported in the area before midnight.

The downpour at Beaumont totaled 3.3 inches in a two-hour period late in the afternoon. W. D. Phillips, jr., 3,

RECORD OUTPUT STILL SEEN

Dry And Warm Weather Is Needed By Cotton Farmers

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

DRY and warm weather have become "imperative" to maintain the present excellent prospects for the 1949 South Plains cotton crop.

This observation was contained in the report issued Saturday by K. N. Clapp, area representative for Anderson, Clayton & Co., Houston cotton firm, since 1923.

He and other observers agreed that the weather of the next two or three weeks will be one of the critical factors in determining the size of the 1949 harvest.

Warm and reasonably dry weather would enhance immeasurably the prospects for a production more than twice as large as that of any previous year. A 2,000,000-bale crop would become at least an even money bet. The previous record was 959,000 in 1937.

But the crop prospects are expected to deteriorate in almost exact proportion to the volume of the moisture between now and June 20 to 25. The greater the quantity of moisture, the less the ginnings are likely to total.

But Clapp is inclined to the optimistic view and his report Saturday contained considerably more good news than bad.

Loss Less Than Feared

Most farmers prefer to finish their planting by May 20 or thereabouts. But they can plant, or replant, with an excellent crop expectancy as late as June 20 to 25. Some replanting as late as July 4 this year would not be surprising.

The replanting made necessary by scattered rains of washout volume and spotted hail is considerably less than was feared two or three days ago. Estimates then were that 200,000 to 300,000 acres would have to be reseeded. This figure dropped Saturday to 100,000, and many observers considered that high.

Weeds are becoming an increasing problem in many fields too wet to work. But several thousand farmers have mechanical weed choppers. With a few days of dry weather, the weed problem will be brought under control. The weeds, meanwhile, are helping to absorb some of the excess moisture, thus speeding the drying of fields.

Crop In Top Condition

Grasshoppers still are causing some uneasiness in scattered areas, but there is no real alarm on this score. The infestation may be considerable, but confidence prevails that the condition can be brought under control in time to avert serious harm.

Meanwhile, the present excess of moisture puts the crop in the best condition in history to weather summer drouth, providing the next two or three weeks include a reasonable quota of warm, dry days. Summer drouths have ruined more cotton on the South Plains than all other factors combined. The farmers don't have to fear that this year.

Clapp's more detailed investigations late last week, he reported, have altered one of opinion of

Bandit Gets Shock Instead Of Loot In Chicago Holdup

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 11. — A 30-year-old Chicago woman turned the tables on a would-be holdup man today—and sent him running, shouting pleas back over his shoulder for her not to shoot.

Mrs. Elinore Maitland told police she was driving home from work when her car was curbed by another and a gunman jumped out, telling her it was a stickup.

She said that as the bandit reached for her purse she told him her money was in the glove compartment.

Mrs. Maitland then reached into the glove compartment—and pulled out a pistol.

The unnerved gunman screamed:

"My God, woman, don't shoot."

Mrs. Maitland fired once as the bandit wheeled, hopped into his car and escaped in the traffic.

One Person Hurt In Wreck Near Lorenzo

J. M. McClarin, 25, of near Petersburg, was injured about 10:30 p. m. Saturday, when his 1946 Plymouth failed to negotiate a turn one mile north of Lorenzo and overturned.

Gene Lester, 19, of three miles south of Idalou, a passenger in the car, was unhurt, and rushed McClarin to Lubbock Memorial hospital in a pickup truck which he borrowed from a nearby farmer.

McClarin suffered injuries to his left knee and right shoulder, extent of which will be determined by x-rays today, the hospital reported. An attending physician said, however, he believed there were no fractures.

The Texas Highway patrol was investigating the accident.

Congress To Be Asked For 'World Aid'

By ERNEST B. ACCARO
Associated Press Staff Writer

LITTLE ROCK, June 11 — President Truman today called for rearming of Europe, said trimming funds for helping Europe would be "false economy" and disclosed he soon would ask Congress to help needy areas of the world.

Reaction from members of Congress was swift and mixed.

On his three points, the President said.

"It is of vital importance that the Atlantic Pact be followed by a program of military aid to increase the effective strength of the free nations against aggression. . .

"A slash in funds available for European recovery at this time would be the worst kind of false economy."

Benefits Farm Program Seen

As for legislation to give America economic and technical know-how help to underdeveloped regions," he said it offers "enormous potential benefits in a growing world ecenomy."

In Washington, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), head of the GOP policy committee, observed that rearming of Europe might have "the opposite effect," although he expects to vote for the Atlantic Pact. Taft said, too, he didn't believe a 10 per cent cut in ECA funds would eliminate any essential benefits.

The reaction of Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) was to propose a billion-dollar reduction in foreign aid spending.

Connally Backs Plan

Senator Connally (D-Tex), chairman of the Senate Foreign relations committee, commenting on Mr. Truman's proposed world economic program, said he understood only a small appropriation would be necessary at first. The Texan added that he will go along with the President on his help-Europe-rearm program.

In his speech here, before an estimated 12,000 persons the President spoke of continuing "Communist pressures" and sharply challenged those who he said maintain "we cannot afford to pay the price of peace."

United States aid, Mr. Truman said, has stopped "the disintegration of the Democracies of Europe" and "turned the tide in favor of freedom and peace." But he warn-

Several Thefts Are Probed Here

Law enforcement agencies here enjoyed a relatively quiet Saturday, with several thefts as the only reported offenses of consequence.

J. K. Fulton, who lives on route 5 on Levelland road, told police someone split the top of his convertible automobile and stole a tuxedo, a pair of black patent leather shoes, a white shirt and a black bow tie. The property, valued at $75, was taken at the Friday night performance of the ABC Boys club rodeo.

Car Is Stolen

A black 1939 two-door Ford sedan, bearing license AS 9010, was stolen from the 1200-block Texas avenue, J. M. Bowles of 2022 Sixteenth told police. The vehicle was owned by M. L. Davis of 316 Ave. T, Bowles said.

Willie Fontana, of 2400 East Ave. G, reported theft of four unmatched shoes from a shoe sample case, the sheriff's department said. The property was valued at $35.

A handsaw and two hammers, valued at $7.50, were reported stolen from a pickup belonging to C. H. Grisson of Lubbock route 2.

Iowa Senator Bitterly Objects To Secrecy Bars Raised In Congressional Probe Of Atomic Board

By OLIVER W. DEWOLF
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) today bitterly protested the raising of secrecy bars in the congressional airing of his "incredible mismanagement" charges against the Atomic Energy commission.

The Iowan, chief critic of AEC chairman David E. Lilienthal, demanded a one-day delay in public hearings to thresh out the problem—but with only partial success.

Senator McMahon, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Investigating committee, turned down the delay request but agreed to a closed-door session of the committee Monday afternoon to hear Hickenlooper's objections.

McMahon said Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who directed research on the atomic bomb, had been called to testify before the committee Monday morning. Oppenheimer now heads the Institute of Advanced Studies at Princeton, N. J., and is chairman of the AEC's general advisory committee.

Hickenlooper, bitter over a 9-to-8 committee decision yesterday requiring him to present his evidence against the commission's loyalty review program behind closed doors, had said earlier:

"No progress can be made in this investigation if the curtain of secrecy is rung down every time embarrassing evidence is offered."

McMahon said he wanted an open hearing plan for two reasons: (A) There had been "conflicting testimony" on the matter of shipments of radioactive isotopes to foreign countries, and (B) Dr. Oppenheimer is "visiting the West Coast next week and is only available for testimony on Monday."

McMahon has advocated closed sessions of the committee only for that phase of the inquiry govern-

BI-PARTISAN EFFORT BOGS DOWN

Split Develops In Senate Move To Junk T-H Injunction Clause

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11—Senators trying to junk the Taft-Hartley law's provision for injunctions against strikes which threaten the nation's welfare found themselves split today on how to do it.

Senator Morse (R-Ore) parted company with a group of Democrats opposed to the injunction and reopened discussions with Senator Ives (R-NY) on that and other labor law issues.

Meanwhile, Senator Aiken (R-Vt) said he believes President Truman is blocking an effective compromise.

"Sometimes it looks as though the White House doesn't want good labor legislation," Aiken declared.

Politics Charged

He added that the President apparently wants to make the Taft-Hartley law a campaign issue again in the 1950 congressional elections.

The big Senate battle over whether to keep the T-H law's court order section—bitterly opposed by the labor unions—is expected to reach a climax in a few days when voting on a new labor law begins.

The T-H provision lets the government get 80-day injunctions to block strikes which imperil the national health or safety.

The administration labor bill before the Senate would repeal the present law and replace it with the old Wagner act plus a few amendments. The administration measure has no injunction provision. It calls for only a 30-day cooling-off period in critical disputes.

Solon Withdraws Support

A week ago a group of Democratic and Republican senators got together and decided that the administration bill needs sharper "teeth" for dealing with such disputes—but something short of the T-H law's court order section.

Members of the bi-partisan group said then they had agreed on a plan for giving the President authority to seize struck plants in national emergency cases.

The group named Morse, who then was out of town, to introduce the amendment. When he returned, Morse said the proposal did not satisfy him and he refused to go along.

Meanwhile, Ives offered an amendment which would require Congress to deal separately with each national emergency labor dispute. The President could recommend seizure, but that plan would be out the window if both branches of Congress vetoed the idea.

Ives told a reporter they might turn up with several amendments to either the administration bill or to a substitute measure sponsored by Republican Senators Taft (Ohio), Donnell (Mo) and Smith (NJ).

The substitute bill would make 28 changes in the Taft-Hartley law, but retain its basic provisions—including the emergency injunction.

Senators trying to get rid of the injunction feel that their chances already have been dealth a blow by John L. Lewis' action in ordering a week's shutdown of the coal mines, starting Monday. They believe that Lewis strengthened the hand of those who favor the injunction.

First Band Concert Is Set For Tuesday

The first of five summer concerts will be given at 8 p. m. Tuesday by students of the Texas Tech Summer Band school, D. O. Wiley, director, announced Saturday.

Approximately 240 performers will take part in the 75-minute concert, scheduled for presentation on the green north of the Tech band building, about 100 yards south of the college gymnasium.

Three bands will play a total of 11 selections at the concert, Wiley said.

The "Red" and "Blue" bands, each composed of about 75 pre-college musicians, will play three numbers each.

The "Red" aggregation is directed by Joe L. Haddon, assistant director of the Texas Tech band, and Charles A. Wiley, graduate student and oboe instructor at the summer school.

Directors of the "Blue" band are G. T. Gilligan, band director at Kermit High school, and J. W. King, Big Spring High school director.

A concert band, with 92 performers who are advanced pre-college musicians, college students and graduates, will play five numbers on the Tuesday evening program.

The concert will be the first of the 16th annual season at the Tech summer school. Admission will be free, with ample facilities for all persons attending.

MANFORD RAPS STATE SPENDING

Lawmakers Warned Texas May Be Facing 'Financial Disaster'

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 11 — Texas is headed for what may be the "worst financial disaster in her history," Speaker of the House Durwood Manford said today.

In a letter addressed to members of the House of Representatives, Manford said revenues for the next two years will be $38,000,000 less than previously estimated.

Manford wrote the letter as the legislature finished its 22nd week with the tough finance-spending problem still unsolved.

General Fund Almost Gone

He said the great general fund surplus which existed at the start of the session is almost gone, and the course being followed by the 51st legislature will leave a deficit of $100,000,000 "as a heritage to the 52nd legislature."

The present legislature must solve the problem by holding present appropriations to minimum essentials and by providing the state with "substantial new revenues," Manford declared. He indicated it would take a special session to get the job done.

Declining production of oil and gas is the chief reason for the drop in state income, the speaker said.

Need For New Taxes Seen

"The true seriousness of our situation appears in the 1951-53 biennium," Manford continued. "By that time the full impact on the general fund of the Gilmer-Aikin, Colson farm-to-market, salary increases, and other emergency bills, and the abolition of the ad valorem tax will have become apparent."

He estimated total revenue accruing to the general revenue fund by then will be only $15,000,000 a year, while the annual departmental, eleemosynary, higher education costs and the ordinary expenses of state government will approximate $70,000,000.

"It must be obvious from the facts before us that the state must be provided with substantial new revenues," Manford said in the letter which House members will find on their desks Monday morning.

"If the expenses of government are to be maintained at the rate now being considered, the amount to be raised approximates $55,000,000 per year."

Delay In Building Urged

Manford suggested that the legislature defer action on "all appropriations for buildings and other construction until such time as adequate financing plans for these expenditures have been developed."

This indicated the speakers belief that even the much sought new state hospitals should be delayed until the state finds out how it is going to pay for them.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester has recommended an eleemosynary building program costing more than $20,000,000. He said he would call a special session if the matter were not taken care of during the current session.

Manford said such a burden as the $55,000,000 additional which will be needed to meet expenses "should not lightly be imposed upon the people and the economy of Texas.

" . . . such a sum of money cannot be collected without affecting most of the people and most of the business of the state."

Favors Special Session

But he added, "the situation grows more acute each day, and appropriate action must be taken before the beginning of the next biennium (Sept. 1, 1949)."

Believing that there is not enough time remaining in this session "to develop all the facts necessary to a satisfactory long-range solution of this difficulty," Manford suggested appointment of an interim committee.

The committee should develop all the facts and submit them to the 51st legislature "before the beginning of the next biennium," the speaker said.

Asked if this meant a special session before Sept. 1 of this year, Manford said it should be by then "or within a reasonable time in the immediate future."

He declined to recommend what kind of new tax or taxes he thought should be levied by the state.

"That will be up to the tax committee," he told reporters.

JESTER COMMENDS SOLONS ON STUDYING FINANCES

CORSICANA, June 11 (AP) — Governor Beauford Jester said today it was good to know state expenditures were being measured.

He commented on Speaker Durwood Manford's letter to legislators on the state's financial condition.

The Governor said:

"It is good to know that the legislature adds up the appropriations granted and those under consideration; that expenditures and proposed expenditures are being measured against the surplus now on hand and that at the beginning of this session, and the present revenues and the revenues of the coming biennial."

Manford had warned legislators that Texas is headed for what may be the "worst financial disaster in her history."

He presented a detailed analysis of the state's finances.

Baltimore Doctor Saves 'Dead' Patient By Massaging Heart

BALTIMORE, June 11 (INS) — A 49-year-old Baltimore man "died" twice within 30 minutes and was revived when a surgeon massaged his heart by hand.

The event was related today by officials of the Maryland General hospital, where James W. Stanek, a printer, appears to be recovering speedily from his brush with death.

Dr. Joseph V. Castagna was given credit for bringing Stanek "back to life." Castagna worked to revive the printer after other physicians and nurses had given him up for dead.

Stanek was hospitalized early this week for a hernea operation. When Stanek was given an anaesthetic, surgeons found that he had stopped breathing and his heart had ceased beating.

The patient was given stimulants immediately without results. Castagna then made an incision in Stanek's chest and massaged his heart.

After 20 minutes, Stanek began to show signs of life only to stop breathing again in a few seconds.

Nurses and other physicians left the operating room, abandoning hope, but Castagna continued massaging and 10 minutes later the patient was revived.

GUNMAN BAMBOOZLED

CHICAGO, (U.P.) — Bogus tears, turned on when a gunman demanded her money, not only saved Mrs. Josephine Halper a few dollars but earned her another one —from the gunman's pocket. Mrs. Halper found the bandit in her kitchen. She began to cry. She told him she was broke and "starving." He lowered his gun, fished a dollar from his pocket, threw it on the kitchen table and ran out the back door.

Plane Contest Planned Here

Plans currently are underway for the Lubbock Plymouth Model Plane contest, scheduled July 16-17 at Lubbock Air Force base.

Fifty-five trophies and a free all-expense trip to the International Model Plane contest August 22-29 in Detroit are being offered as prizes in the local competition.

The trip will go to the grand prize winner, selected on a high point basis, J. R. Callahan, general contest chairman, has announced. The top winner also will receive a high-point trophy.

The local event will feature 27 divisions, with trophies to be awarded to the winner and runner-up in each.

Events scheduled include:

Free flight gas—Classes A, B, C and D combined. Junior, senior and open.

Rubber power—Stick and cabin combined. Junior, senior and open.

Control speed—Classes A, B, C and D. Junior, senior and open.

Control precision (stunt)—Junior, senior and open.

Beauty event—First and second.

The contest, which will be free to the public, is being held under sponsorship of three Lubbock Plymouth dealers, Fenner Tubbs, Dickinson Motor company and Hub Motor company.

Reagan Howell, chairman of the aviation committee of the local Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been named contest director.

Although entry blanks are not yet available here, full information regarding contest regulations may be obtained from Callahan, at the Hub Motor company, or Howell, at Plains Furniture company. All boys interested in competing are urged to contact either of these officials as soon as possible.

Texas Building Sets Record During Week

AUSTIN, June 11. (AP)—Three new records for building in Texas were reported today by the Texas Contractor, engineering journal.

This week's total of $65,099,392 is the largest on record.

Texas building in May hit a new all-time high for one month with a staggering 77 and one-half million dollar total.

Project Boosts Total

Boosting this week's figures to the unpresedented $65 million high was the Katy park project at Houston on a negotiated contract of 50 million dollars, the magazine said, calling it "the largest single private job ever let in Texas."

May's $65 million was nearly $4 million ahead of the last monthly mark set in May, 1948. The survey showed residential building still leading all classifications last month with $45,371,179.

The Katy park project included a 28-story office building, a 10-story warehouse and track facilities. It was awarded to the O'Rourke Construction company of Houston.

This non-residential project shoved residential building into second place for the week, with a total of $8,244,500. Houston had 587 large and small home building jobs let during the week, and one apartment project of 60 units for $1,500,000, the magazine reported.

Immediate Action On Contraband Labor Problem Urged In Report

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 11.—Quick medicine to cure the wetback problem, called a "major source of social and economic infection," was urged today in a report by the Study of Spanish-Speaking People.

The report said a new invasion of illegal alien laborers called wetbacks who come into the United States from Mexico "is rising toward peak numbers." It asked for immediate action by state and national officials.

The Study of Spanish-Speaking People is a research project sponsored jointly by the University of Texas and the general education board of New York. The preliminary report issued today was signed by Dr. George I. Sanchez, director, and Lyle Saunders, research associate.

Wage Scale Affected

The report charged "uncontrolled importation of contraband labor." The wetback is described as a laborer who must work for whatever pay is offered under conditions chosen by the employer; as one whose "home is a shack or brush shelter, or a blanket thrown beside a ditch."

This, it said, is only one aspect of the situation.

"No citizen who wants to live in even a minimum of comfort and decency can compete with the wetback wage scale," the researchers said.

"With an oversupply of cheap, unprotected labor always present, organization of workers is impossible, individual bargaining is futile. There are two choices: Work for what the wetback works for and live as he lives or leave the area. . ."

Two Documents Presented

The report said "the ill-gotten profits from the exploitation of this illegal labor seems poor compensation for the myriad real evils and potential dangers attendant on the use and encouragement of wetbacks."

The Sanchez-Saunders report was made to the large advisory committee of the Study of Spanish-Speaking People, "to call attention to the seriousness of the wetback problem."

It included as exhibits two documents: A study of wetbacks in the El Paso area by Art Leibson, an El Paso Times reporter, and a general statement on the wetback situation by Sanchez, Gus Garcia and R. A. Cortez, to David Niles, executive assistant to President Truman in Washington last January.

Cortez is national president of the League of United Latin-American Citizens and Garcia is an attorney. Both live at San Antonio.

Immediate Action Urged

Sanchez, Garcia and Cortez asked the President for immediate application of all existing remedies, emergency legislation to penalize the use of illegal alien labor, and the immediate appointment of a commission by the President to study all aspects of "the situation confronting the Spanish-speaking people in the Southwest.

The report of Sanchez and Saunders estimated there were from 100,000 to 500,000 wetbacks in Texas. It called them "homeless wanderers—men, women and children without legal status, without skills, without knowledge of our ways and customs, without protection, and without opportunity for improving their condition."

The report charged that a large part of the economy of Central, West and South Texas "is being founded upon most dangerous ground: The shifting quicksand that is the wetback—contraband labor."

'Hidden' Costs Cited

"The cotton and citrus industries, vegetable farming, and similar enterprises there, by the short-sighted dependence on wetback labor, are sowing the wind and as a result, the state and nation will reap a whirlwind of social misery and unrest, of expensive remedial action, or international embarrassment," the report continued.

"Those enterprises, by their very dependence on wetbacks and on modified peonage, are exposing themselves to economic disaster. . ."

"In every piece of fruit, every vegetable, every product of any kind that is produced in areas of wetback concentrations there is a hidden cost that never appears in the retail dealers' price tags.

Disease Spreads Easily

"It is a cost that is shared by everybody; worker, consumer and producer—a cost that appears in the form of higher taxes for welfare and other community services; in illness and deaths from dysentery, tuberculosis and more recently polio; in adult populations of citizens who can not speak the language of the country in which they were born; in the labor of children and the consequent denial to them of opportunities of education and mental and physical development; in the slums of San Antonio and Corpus Christi and El Paso; and in the maintenance in much of Texas of a permanent minority group, the majority of whom are citizens, who are denied many of the opportunities, rights and privileges that their fellow citizens enjoy. One begins to wonder if grapefruit and cotton are worth it."

"No citizen of the state, or of the other states into which many of the wetbacks eventually drift, can escape the consequences that grow out of the importation of this contraband labor — consequences which appear in the form of poverty, disease, slums, ignorance, dependency, low wages and social and personal disorganization not only for wetbacks themselves but for the Spanish-speaking citizens in whose communities they and the thousands of displaced persons live."

The report said that with about 200,000 Mexican aliens being caught and returned to Mexico each year, "it is evident that several times this number must cross the border during the course of any given year."

Soldiers Held In Attempted Robbery Of Hotel In Houston

HOUSTON, June 11 (AP) — Two Carswell air base soldiers were in city jail today facing charges of carrying pistols and attempted robbery by firearms after two men made an unsuccessful attempt to hold two clerks at the Earl hotel about 2 a.m. today.

Charged were Dillard E. Henderson, 23, and Colley Vernon Cox, 22.

Ed Tulley and Cyrus O. Wertz, clerks at the hotel, said two men came into the hotel about 2 a.m. today and one brandished a pistol then demanded the money from the hotel safe. Tulley said about that time a porter at the hotel, stopped the elevator and let several people out into the lobby.

"Somebody's coming," Tulley hollered and the two men ran out of the building.

'WETS' IN 'DRY' AREAS HAVE RIGHTS, TOO

Basic Facts On Texas Liquor Laws Discussed By Officials

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Of all the laws of Texas, the liquor regulations probably are among the least understood by the public, County Attorney Waggoner Carr said Saturday.

As a result of this lack of understanding, many law-abiding Texans in "dry" areas are unduly concerned as to how enforcement of these laws affects them, he declared.

Questioned directly as to what can, and cannot, be done legally in regard to possession and transportation of alcoholic beverages, Carr explained the laws at length.

One Basic Point

The regulations center around one basic point, he emphasized. They are designed to prevent the sale—not the use — of alcoholic beverages in "dry" areas, or the possession of such beverages for the purpose of sale in these areas. The laws are not intended to prevent possession of alcoholic drinks intended for personal consumption.

The matter of "personal consumption," which courts have ruled to mean family consumption, is the deciding factor in all cases where there is a question of liquor law violation, Carr explained.

In outlining the specific regulations, Carr said the laws fall into three basic categories—(1) sale, (2) possession, and (3) transportation of alcoholic beverages.

Information Is Given

Then, discussing these in order, he gave this information:

(1) The sale of alcoholic beverages in a "dry" area is illegal, regardless of the quantity, or profit, involved.

(2) Possession of liquor or beer is illegal in a "dry" area only when it is for the purpose of sale. Such beverages may legally be kept in unlimited quantities so long as the posisessor can prove that they are intended for personal consumption.

Here the widely-known "quart and a case" regulation enters the picture. If a person possesses not more than a case (24 12-ounce containers, or their equivalent) of beer and a quart of liquor, the law presumes that such beverages are meant for personal consumption, unless there is evidence to the contrary. But if the quantity of either beer or liquor exceeds the limits mentioned above, it is presumed that the beverages were intended for sale, and it becomes the responsibility of the possessor to prove otherwise.

Purpose Deciding Factor

Thus, Carr explained, possession of amounts within the prescribed limits is not necessarily legal, nor is possession of amounts exceeding the limits essentially illegal. The purpose for which the beverage is intended is the deciding factor; the limits determine only the responsibility for proving the purpose for which the beverages are intended.

The county attorney emphasized that an effort always is made to determine the possessor's intent before any charges are filed. Each case is considered in view of its individual aspects and surrounding facts. Often a person's past record and reputation are factors in reaching a decision.

(3) Transportation of alcoholic beverages intended for personal consumption is legal if the beverages are bought where their sale is legal and carried to a place where possession is legal. The driver of a vehicle is responsible for the total quantity of such beverages in the vehicle, regardless of the actual ownership of the beverages. The appellate courts have held that if the driver is aware that more than one case of beer, or more than one quart of liquor, is in his vehicle, the responsibility for proving that the beverages were for his own personal consumption rests with the driver.

Other Points Discussed

Discussing other points of the liquor regulations, Carr said arrests for violation may be made by any peace officer.

When questioned as to the policy of the Texas Liquor Control board in making searches, Fred Prestage, in charge of the Lubbock office, said searches are not made on a "hit or miss" basis.

"We search a building or a vehicle only after we have good reason to believe that there is a violation," Prestage said. "Even after we receive information that a violation is being committed by some person, we check further into the matter until we are ourselves convinced that this is so. Then the necessary steps for enforcement of the law are taken."

Penalties for liquor law violation increase with succeeding convictions. A first offender is subject to a penalty of a $100 to $1,000 fine and/or a jail sentence not to exceed one year. A second offense is punishable by a $200 to $2,000 fine and up to two years in jail. Each additional offense is subject to a fine of $400 to $4,000 and/or a jail sentence of not more than four years.

Subject To Federal Charge

In addition, a violator is subject to any federal charge arising from his failure to possess necessary licenses for sale of alcoholic beverages.

State laws also provide for forfeiture of all illicit beverages, of vehicles used for transportation of illicit beverages, and of any equipment designed to be used for illegal manufacture of illicit beverages.

Carr explained that by "liquor" the law refers to any beverage containing alcohol in excess of 4% by weight. "Beer," under Texas law, is any malt beverage containing one-half of 1% or more of alcohol by volume, and not more than 4% of alcohol by weight.

After outlining the regulations, the county attorney re-emphasized that the laws are designed to prevent only the sale of alcoholic beverages. They are not intended to prevent possession or transportation of such beverages intended for personal consumption.

"All citizens living in 'dry' areas should realize that the liquor laws of our state as now written make it unlawful for a person to engage in what is commonly termed 'bootlegging.' Therefore, only those persons who possess or transport liquor for the purpose of sale, or who actually sell it, should fear enforcement of these laws," Carr concluded.

Lubbock Man Will Speak At Spur Merchants' Meeting

SPUR, June 11. (Special) —A. B. Watkins, assistant manager of Dunlap's Lubbock store, will be speaker at a monthly meeting of the Spur Retail Merchants' association at the Liberty theater at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

A. J. Harvey is president of the association and Mrs. W. D. Starcher is secretary.

Norwegian Armed Forces Are Given Detailed Battle Orders

OSLO, June 11. (INS)—Detailed battle orders, extending to guerilla resistance, to be put into operation in the event of an enemy attack were issued today to all officers of the Norwegian armed forces.

A royal directive also warned that a "fifth column" may strike in support of open aggression as in the case of the Nazi invasion of 1940.

Last year army weekend leaves were canceled on Easter weekend because of fear of a Communist coup.

The royal order, without mentioning Communism or the possible source of attack, instructed all commissioned and non-commissioned officers to report to their units at once in the event of aggression and resist attack.

Two Lubbock Girls Win Honors At Camp

Two Lubbock girls won honors at the state Y-Teen camp which closed Saturday morning at Tres Rios, Dallas YWCA camp at Glen Rose.

Mona Rae Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Powell of 2324 Twenty-sixth, was elected state girls' executive for next year's camp. Along with adult executives, she and the registrar and hostess chosen from among girls at the camp will plan next year's camp. Only the three girls are eligible to return to the camp for a second year.

Miss Rossi Ann Stiles, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Stiles of 2902 Twenty-second, won the swimming meet held at the camp. The championship was determined on basis of races, swimming form and diving.

Miss Edith Caveness, a sponsor of the Y-Teen club in Senior High school, accompanied the girls to camp. She had charge of one of the cabins.

The sponsor and two girls returned to Lubbock Saturday afternoon. The camp had opened the previous Saturday.

Miss Powell is president for next year of Lubbock High school Y-Teen club.

The planning conference for next year's camp will be conducted the first weekend in November at a place to be announced later.

CROCKETT, June 11 (AP) — Louis Franklin, 76, left handed fiddler from Denton, was a first prize winner in the 13th annual Fiddlers festival.

He took the contest open to all fiddlers over 65. Grady Hester of Houston won the best fiddler prize in the class of fiddlers under 65. The festival was held yesterday.

The first earth tremors in 10 years shook towns in Southern Rhodesia recently.

INFECTION DANGER INCREASED

Lubbock Group Cites Shortage Of TB Sanatorium Facilities

Danger of infection to other persons exists because of lack of sufficient sanatorium facilities for tuberculosis cases of Lubbock county, according to information given by Lubbock County Tuberculosis association.

Forty-six known cases of active tuberculosis in Lubbock county are on record with the county association. Of that number, 11 cases are receiving care in the state sanatorium at present. Fifteen of the 46 have received some sanatorium care and instruction, but are continuing their treatment at home.

Infection Possible

A majority of those cases in the home are in contact with other members of the household, which places other members in direct path of infection since tuberculosis is transmitted from one individual to another and not inherited, as many persons believe, according to information compiled by Mrs. Bobbie McLeod, nurse of the association, following recent discussion of the problem in a meeting of the association's board of directors.

Acceptance "Good"

Acceptance of tuberculars from Lubbock county in the state sanatorium has been "exceptionally good," but some have been rejected due to their far advanced condition. Those are the cases which endanger other persons the most, according to announcement. "Some are fortunate enough to have a home where they can carry out their treatment, which consists of regular, long and routine hours of rest in bed, whereas others remain in hotel rooms or crowded apartment quarters where they have to eat their meals in public dining places or prepare their own meals."

County Facilities Suggested

The county association announced it was only making conditions known, and the solution must lie either in an enlarged state sanatorium or in county facilities. County sanatoriums have been provided in some counties to take care of tubercular patients of those counties, accepting patients from other counties only on a limited scale.

All individuals who are diagnosed through the clinic of the tuberculosis association are advised of the desirability of sanatorium care in treatment of their disease. Applications are filled out through the association's office when the individual wishes.

A marked shortage of beds per ratio of tuberculars has existed for years in Texas and a large percentage has to depend upon rest in the home.

State Facilities Short

The state sanatorium now is the only available sanatorium to which tuberculars from Lubbock county can hope for admittance, unless they can afford services of a private sanatorium, which is rare because of higher rates.

The state sanatorium has a capacity of only 951 beds, 771 of those being available for adults and 180 for children. All tuberculosis patients are limited to a period of nine months and must have been a bona fide citizen of the state three years prior to filing their applications.

"Those who are admitted to the state sanatorium usually show marked improvement in the nine months time they are allowed to remain," it was stated. "However, tuberculosis is such a slow healing disease that in most cases, unless they have only minimal involvement, nine months just starts the individual on the road to regaining his health. Thus, when the limited stay at the sanatorium is completed, the tubercular is again confronted with the problem of how and where to carry out the training and teaching he was given at the sanatorium."

The horse was charged yesterday with "having an appetite like a horse". . . even to eating car seat covers, in a suit filed in Seventh district court.

James A. Hankerson, jr., an attorney representing himself, named Sandy's owner and the owner of a lot where Sandy is tethered, as defendants in the case. Hankerson wants the horse moved from the neighborhood.

Military Rites Today For Pfc. Grady Pike

POST, June 11 (Special)—Reburial services for Pfc. Grady J. D. Pike, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Pike of Post, will be at 3 p. m. Sunday in Terrace cemetery.

Rev. T. M. Gillham, pastor of the First Baptist church, will officiate, with members of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars in charge of military rites. Burial will be under direction of Mason & Co. Funeral home.

Pike was killed in action July 17, 1944, at St. Lo, France. At the time he was with Co. L, 134th Infantry, 35th Division ,in Gen. George Patton's Third Army.

Born April 1, 1918, in Bonham, Pike later became a member of the Baptist church.

Went Overseas In '44

He entered the Army at Brenham, Tex., in April, 1942, and later trained in Louisiana, Tennessee, California, Alabama and North Carolina before going overseas in April, 1944.

Survivors include the parents; four sisters, Mrs. Ruby Willis of Houston, Mrs. Marion Brown of Rock Springs, and Misses Laura and Glenda Joyce Pike, both of Post, and three brothers, L. J. Pike of Floydada, Charles Pike of Houston and Jackie Pike of Post.

Relatives from Floydada, Waco and Houston will attend the reburial services.

HERE IS MORE Proof

From Your Texas Neighbors

THAT YOU CAN TAKE OFF

Ugly Fat

IT'S SIMPLE. IT'S AMAZING, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly according to instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

NOTHING HARMFUL IN BARCENTRATE

Barcentrate is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off weight. No starvation diet. No diet list to pay for. No vitamins to fortify you against hunger for you won't be hungry. Ask your doctor about the Barcentrate formula. Barcentrate contains; Sassafras, Oregon Graperoot, Senna Leaves, Prickly Ash Bark, Cascara, Magnesium Sulphate, Saccharin, Sodium Benzoate. LOWEST IN PRICE—HIGHEST IN RESULTS.

OVER ONE AND THREE-FOURTHS MILLION BOTTLES SOLD IN TEXAS

LOST 70 POUNDS

"I have gotten wonderful results taking Barcentrate," writes Louise Benham, Brookston, Texas. "When I started I weighed 220 pounds. I now weigh 150, a total loss of 70 pounds. I feel 100% better and am glad to recommend Barcentrate very highly to anyone."

NOT A HUNGRY MOMENT

Mrs. W. J. Burns, 3823 Falls Drive, Dallas, Texas, writes as follows: "I gladly recommend Barcentrate to anyone overweight, because it has proven such a wonderful thing for me. No dieting and no harsh drugs. I was overweight, felt sluggish and run down. I have already lost 7 pounds and I never know a hungry moment. I find Barcentrate a grand tonic also. I now keep my weight normal with Barcentrate."

22 POUNDS GONE

"I want to recommend Barcentrate to anyone who is overweight," writes Mrs. B. J. Brod, 1011 Howard Street, San Antonio, Texas. "Since taking Barcentrate I feel like a different person. I lost 22 pounds. I also had a gall bladder condition that bothered me. Since taking Barcentrate, the trouble is completely relieved. No wonder I praise it so highly."

48 POUNDS LOST

Mrs. Myrtle Thompson, 924 South Hampton Road, Dallas 11, Texas, writes as follows: "I highly endorse Barcentrate for reducing and for good health. The very first bottle helped me to lose weight. I have kept my weight down from 184 pounds to 136. I have not dieted a day since I started taking it. I eat any rich foods I want and don't gain a pound while taking it. I also find it a good medicine for constipation and gas on stomach. Keeps my weight down and I never go hungry."

NO STARVING

"I am well pleased with Barcentrate," writes Mrs. H. O. Hanson, Route 3, Box 237, Sherman, Texas. "I lost 20 pounds but will keep on taking it for my health's sake as I feel so good and I don't go without any of my favorite foods."

LOST 20 POUNDS

"I am middle aged and weighed 156 pounds before taking Barcentrate," writes Mrs. Beatrice Bryant, 1434 South 12th, Waco, Texas. "I have lost 20 pounds and find that it is a sure way to keep my weight down."

LOST 30 POUNDS

"Before taking Barcentrate I weighed 180 pounds. I now weigh 150. I find that it keeps me regular and removes bloat. I have never left out starches from my diet, but taking Barcentrate, I do not desire so much heavy food. I have tried different reducing aids, but found Barcentrate the most satisfactory. I am going to keep on using it until I have lost another 10 pounds." Signed: Helen Beasley, 2805 East Belknap, Fort Worth, Texas.

LOSES 18 POUNDS

"I have lost 18 pounds since I started taking Barcentrate," writes Mrs. Irene Barnes, 715 Hawkins Street, Fort Worth, Texas. "I can tell anyone that Barcentrate is the safe way to get rid of extra pounds. It is not necessary to go hungry. You can eat three meals a day and still lose weight. I feel so much better since I lost some of those extra pounds."

NO DIETING

Mrs. S. P. McEvoy, 1600 Avenue H, Beaumont, Texas, writes as follows: "Barcentrate has helped me so much. I have lost 20 pounds without dieting. I feel so much better and I would not be without it. I shall always praise Barcentrate."

CHANGE IN POLICY IS STUDIED

Western Powers Face Dilemma In East-West Trade Problem

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager INS

PARIS, June 11—Western Power policy makers are confronted today with a dilemma over the question of promoting the development of East-West trade.

Economic experts generally agree that Western Europe cannot become self-supporting without greatly increased trade with Eastern Europe.

Some leading American diplomatic planners, on the other hand, fear that the development of unrestricted trade with the East would serve to strengthen Russia's war potential and help perpetuate Soviet domination over the Eastern European countries.

Eastern Prosperity Feared

Eastern Europe's chief need is for capital goods. Such exports, however, cannot be sent in the required quantities without tending to strengthen the Soviet bloc in a military as well as economic sense.

The view has also prevailed for sometime in certain American diplomatic circles that if the West helps promote prosperity in the Soviet satellite bloc, it will make it easier for Russia to maintain its control over those countries.

This belief is based on the theory that improved economic conditions will make the masses less disposed to resent the system that dominates them, even if it denies them political freedom.

Trade Blockade Urged

There is a school of thought among some western, and especially American, diplomatic planners which has favored the maintenance of a virtual trade blockade against Eastern Europe in the hope economic difficulties would gradually bring about the disintegration of Soviet rule.

Fear of the danger of war with Russia also has influenced the thinking of this group.

Those planners reluctant to see anything done which might strengthen Russia's war potential have thought that Western Europe could sacrifice the eastern markets by developing trade with colonial possessions, particularly increasing the production of scarce raw materials that could be sold to the United States for dollars.

There are indications that the influence of this group on western governmental thinking is now waning.

British Favor Trade

Most Western European, and especially British, leaders appear to favor the development of trade with Eastern Europe.

In the first place, they believe the economic splitting of Europe into two camps, with trade kept at a low level, is irreconcilable with the maintenance of the present economic structure of Western Europe.

It involves not only a dependence of the West on dollar food supplies, but, in addition, the questionable task of attempting to fit a restored German industrial capacity into a market structure in which there is no room for it, save at the expense of the exporting industries of its neighbors, such as Great Britain.

The natural outlet for German exports is largely to the east and southeast, where they are badly needed.

Further, the western leaders believe that without a big expansion of trade with the East, Western Europe's economic recovery can be maintained only with the permanent aid of American dollars.

End To U.S. Aid Foreseen

In view of the present mood of Congress in respect to foreign expenditures, the Western European governments are by no means sure how long Uncle Sam will be disposed to keep footing the bill for their foreign trade deficits.

In addition, Western European observers believe the East might prove capable of out-waiting the West in any such protracted economic cold war.

Lack of capital goods and western markets would, in the opinion of these observers, certainly slow down the recovery and development of the eastern countries. American restrictions on the shipment of strategic supplies to the Soviet bloc has already had this effect.

However, the Western European observers fear that Marshall plan aid to Western Europe is likely to end before the economic difficulties which the East is experiencing, due to lack of western capital exports, could lead to the disintegration of the Soviet bloc.

It also felt that once America stops pouring in billions of dollars, Western Europe faces economic collapse unless it has found by that time some other means of meeting its foreign trade deficit.

Therefore, the Western European planners are inclined to favor increased trade between East and West in the interests of European recovery generally.

They hope a prosperous Western Europe will in itself prove a deterrent to the spread of Communism. They also profess to believe, perhaps with an element of wishful thinking, that eventually Russia will agree to relax its domination of the Eastern European countries.

Texas Fiddler's Reunion To Open July 4 At Arlington Downs

ARLINGTON, June 11 (Special)—Massive Arlington Downs, located half way between Dallas and Fort Worth on Highway 80, will resound to the notes of old-fashioned fiddle music July 4 following official word this week that the 14th Annual Texas Fiddler's reunion and contest will be held there on that date. The event, which annually draws as many as 40,000 persons, will be sponsored by the Arlington Lions club and the Arlington Chamber of Commerce.

Entries were coming in this week as old fiddlers throughout Texas heard of the event via the grapevine route, and began to respond. H. C. Staunton of Athens, Texas, secretary of the association and general program chairman, indicated that the program would be even bigger and better than in previous years because of the high interest in the affair at Arlington Downs, former mecca of Texas horseracing fans.

Applications for individual fiddlers and fiddle bands are being received by Elmer Atkins, president of the Arlington Lions club, and by Staunton at Athens.

Petrillo Re-Elected Head Of Musician's Union In California

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11. (AP) James E. Petrillo—to the surprise of no one—was re-elected president of the AFL American Federation of Musicians yesterday.

Petrillo had token opposition. He defeated Edward Henne of Mattoon, Ill., 1,401 to 83.

It was the first time in nine years Petrillo had been opposed for the $20,000 a year office.

Henne said he ran against Petrillo to show the union was "a democratic organization."

Delegates to the closing session of the convention chose Houston as next year's meeting place.

ACC Ex-Students To Meet In City Today

Ex-students of Abilene Christian college will attend a business meeting and social at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Party house in Mackenzie State park.

Approximately 412 ex-students of ACC known to be living in this vicinity received invitations to the meeting, which will open to all ex-students of the college.

Officers of the local ACC ex-students' organization are J. C. Rigney, president; Lennon Hill and Howard Garner, vice presidents, and Earl Kerr, secretary-treasurer.

Army Announces Execution Of 15 Jap War Criminals In Japan

TOKYO, June 11. (U.P.)—Fifteen more Japanese war criminals have been hanged by the U.S. Army, including the two top officers convicted of responsibility for the Bataan death march in the Philippines, it was announced today.

An announcement by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the executions took place in Sugamo prison courtyard where former Premier Hideki Tojo and other top Japanese war criminals were hanged last year.

'Books For Orient' Pile Up In Texas University Building

AUSTIN, June 11 (AP)—A "books-for-the-orient" campaign has passed from the bundle to the box-car stage only there are no boxcars.

A stack of 50,000 pounds of books for Philippine island children are piled up here, waiting for a hitchhike to California. They overflow an entire floor at the main building of the University of Texas.

They have been gathered under the supervision and through the inspiration of H. A. Dunn, custodian of the university building.

Search Scheduled For Owner Of Gun Used In Reuther Shooting

DETROIT, June 11. (AP)—Police set up plans today for a systematic search in 26 cities for the owner of the gun used in Victor Reuther's shooting.

Within a few days, according to the program, a detective will go to each city.

He'll take along a picture of the weapon, a shotgun abandoned in bushes at Reuther's home, and its description. Also, he'll have the information on $217,500 in rewards.

Chief Inspector James J. Maher said the gun may have been one of a batch of 20 made by an eastern manufacturer. Only these 20 bore the initials "J.H." The "J.H." was on the Reuther gun.

Reuther, educational director of the CIO United Auto Workers, was shot at his home the night of May 24. He lost his right eye. His brother, Walter, UAW president, was shot under similar circumstances April 20 of last year. He almost lost his right arm.

HOUSING SHORTAGE HITS

Israel's labor force, swollen by immigration, has not been mobilized rapidly because of a severe lack of housing in industrial areas, Tel Aviv reports.

California Police Hold Suspect In Several Texas Jewel Thefts

CORONA, Calif., June 11 (U.P.)—Edwin L. Garrett, 21, of Houston, was held by police today on suspicion of stealing thousands of dollars worth of jewelry in four Texas cities.

Garrett was arrested here yesterday after suspicious jewelers called police when he tried to pawn some of the gems. Police reported they found diamond earrings and broaches, pearl necklaces and other kinds of jewels in his suitcase.

BOYS WARNED TO FOLLOW RULES

Derby Entries Put Finishing Touches On Soap Box Racers

South Plains youngsters who have entered Lubbock's second annual Soap Box Derby are now concentrating on putting the finishing touches on their tiny racers which they will drive down the 1,000-foot course in the big race here on Monday, July 4.

The race is sponsored jointly by The Avalanche-Journal, Kuykendall Chevrolet company and the Lubbock Exchange club. Winner of the local race will receive a free trip to Akron, O., for the All-American Soap Box Derby finals on Aug. 14 and a chance to win a $5,000 four-year college scholarship.

Completion of assignment of sponsors was made the past week and all sponsors and boys have been notified. Several errors have been made in assignment of sponsors and corrections are being made as soon as the Derby editor of The Avalanche-Journal is notified.

Follow Rule Book

If there are any additional errors, the Derby editor should be contacted in person or by telephone so that matters can be straightened out.

Boys who are building cars for the race are reminded that they should follow their rule books carefully so that when inspections are made the latter part of this month, their racers will conform with regulations.

The inspecting officials make every effort to ascertain that all contestants have lived up to the letter and spirit of the rules. The official rule book is the guide to inspectors, who also are ever mindful of the factor of safety in every car.

In order that inspection practices will be the same for every boy, they are standardized throughout the country in every race, and at the Akron finals. Thus each contestant, no matter where he races, will be subjected to the same standards as every other contestant, and champions from all cities will meet in the national finals on an equal footing.

Primarily, the inspecting committee is alert to see that every car is boy-built. This is one rule to which there can be no exception. If there is any suspicion that the boy contestant has had adult help in his car-building, the inspection committee, locally and at Akron, is severe. Remember that adults — your father or older brother, your friends or school teachers—may give advice only.

The new rule banning the use of power tools or paint sprayers will be subject to the closest scrutiny by the inspectors, who may question contestants about construction details on the car.

This rule was imposed by the National Rules committee to make it more certain that all boys will have an equal chance. Rule changes of 1948, still in force, also were designed to this same end.

The committee decided that the use of power tools by those few boys to whom they were available gave them an unfair advantage over boys who had no way of obtaining such tools.

And remember, boys, just because you cannot use power tools does not mean that your racing car won't be as good as the cars of previous years. You know that most of the finest products of American workmanship were done by hand.

Another new rule which will change inspection techniques is the one which governs weight. In the 1949 rule book it is stated that the only weight limit is 250 pounds on car and boy combined. Previously, the car itself also was limited to 150 pounds.

This means that a lightweight boy may build weight into his car, if he thinks it will make the car go faster, to make the total weight approach the 250 limit. Inspectors will still be strict, however, in determining that there is no added weight "which is not necessary in the construction of the car and is used primarily to increase car weight."

COMPLETES HIS RACER—Carl Cates, of 2214 Eighth, is all set for Lubbock's Second annual Soap Box Derby to be run on July 4. Young Cates has his racer completed and is ready for inspection during the latter part of this month. He is pictured above in the car he will drive in the big race. His sponsor is Vernon's Drive Inn. Young Cates is 14 years old and a student of Carroll Thompson Junior High school. (Staff Photo.)

Illinois Chapter Is Acclaimed Best Among National Jaycees

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 11 (U.P.)—The U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce acclaimed the Peoria, Ill., chapter the best of its 1,800 groups today.

Awards were made at a luncheon session. The group winds up its 29th annual convention tonight with election of officers.

Clifford Cooper, a 32-year-old industrial relations expert of Alhambra, Calif., appeared to have the strongest support to win the national Jaycees' presidency.

In other honors meted out, Vernal, Utah, and El Paso, Tex., and Peoria won the Clarence A. Howard awards for the best chapters in their population groups.

Nebraska took first in state project competition on the basis of its caravan to the convention in Philadelphia last year. Tennessee Jaycees were cited for their youth activity programs, and Kansas was a state winner for its production work on the Hoover report.

"DESERT" RECLAIMED

SYDNEY, Australia, June 8. (AP)—South Australia will be able to fatten 5,000,000 more sheep because of the success of the Australian Council for Scientific and Industrial Research in reclaiming 3,000 square miles of the so-called Ninety Mile Desert. Although rainfall was good, the area was a wasteland where only sparse vegetation grew and sheep died slowly. Scientists discovered the soil lacked trace elements of cobalt and copper. For less than a dollar, an acre can be treated to carry two to four lambs.

Time Element May Act To Bar Perjury Trial Of Harry Bridges

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11 (AP)—CIO longshore chief Harry Bridges may never come to trial on charges of conspiracy and perjury growing out of his naturalization proceedings in 1945.

Bridges has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges he swore falsely he was not a Communist at the time of his naturalization.

Also indicted were longshore officials J. R. Robertson and Henry Schmidt. They were charged with conspiracy.

But the statute of limitations may intervene to throw out all criminal action against the defendants.

Houston City Council Sets Up New Health Advisory Board

HOUSTON, June 11 (U.P.)—A nine-man advistory board of health was the newest development today in the city's effort to revamp the Houston Health department, target of varied criticism in recent weeks.

The city council authorized the board yesterday, and Mayor Oscar Holcombe immediately named six of the members. The other three, he said, would be selected later.

Named were Dr. Denton Kerr, Dr. Charles D. Reece, Dr. J. S. Cunningham, Dr. J. W. Williamson, Daniel J. Martin and W. Stewart Boyle.

First meeting of the new group will be next week, where reports on the health department will be reviewed. Up for particular consideration will be an analysis by Dr. George A. Denison, a public health officer at Birmingham, Ala., who made a study of the Houston Health department at the mayor's request.

Criticism of the city health department started when, during the recent horse meat scandals, state officials and inspectors conducted a wide investigation of public eating places.

The city council stipulated that the new board will consist of a practicing physician, a physician trained in communicable diseases, a practicing dentist, a veterinarian trained in public health work, a person specially trained in environmental sanitation, a registered nurse,a person experienced in industrial sanitation, and two private citizens interested in public health.

School For Vets Is Slated Here

Training in distributive occupations for veterans under the G.I. bill of rights will be offered in Lubbock beginning July 1, it was announced Saturday by Earl Fine, coordinator of the Lubbock County Vocational school.

The school is sponsored by the Lubbock county school board under supervision of the Texas State Board of Education and the Veterans administration.

237 Are Enrolled

The course to be offered will be designed to give individual attention to working veterans who desire to improve their qualifications in the distributive field.

Courses for such occupations as salesmen, bookkeepers, stenographers, assistant managers and managers of retail concerns and insurance agents will be offered.

Instructors include S. Harry Kelsey, who has joined the staff as supervisor of the distributive education course, and W. C. Marshall, instructor.

Two hundred men are already enrolled in an agricultural course conducted by the school, and 37 negroes are enrolled in two distributive classes for negroes.

Veterans interested in applying for the course should go to the school office at 1122 Thirtieth or telephone it, at number 2-1636, Fine said.

Methodists End 1949 Meeting In Houston

HOUSTON, June 11 (U.P.)—The 1949 Methodist conference ended here yesterday with changes and new conference appointments being read by Bishop A. Frank Smith.

Major changes included the announced retirement of Dr. Robert E. Goodrich, superintendent of the Tyler district, and Dr. S. Stephen McKenney, superintendent of the Longview district.

Budget Approved

In earlier business meetings, some 1,000 ministers and lay members of the church approved an annual budget of $262,000 for the coming year, and heard a report that donations throughout the state the past year amounted to more than $6,500,000, a new high.

The conference also voted a salary boost for district superintendents, from $6,000 to $6,500 annually; set a new membership goal of 8,885 for the coming year; elected Pat Thompson of Bay City to his fifth term as lay leader of the church, and appointed Rev. A. C. Bell, former Carthage, Tex., pastor, executive secretary of the Board of Evangelism.

A membership report showed that the conference gained 4,649 members during the past year, for a total membership of 162,332.

'BAD TIMES' MYTH, CLARK SAYS

Psychology Of Fear Over Nation Scored By U.S. Attorney General

TOPEKA, June 11. (AP)—Attorney General Tom Clark said tonight the nation is being indoctrinated with a psychology of failure and fear that is not borne out by the facts.

The cabinet member declared that there are influences loose in the land that would strike the American people down with fear of unemployment, recession, depression and war.

"But the fact is, times are better now than they were for the ordinary man before the war," Clark said in a speech at a Jefferson-Jackson victory dinner gathering of Kansas Democrats.

As an example, he asserted that 17,000 more persons were employed in May 1949 than in May 1948.

Many Advances Cited

"That's good times, not bad," he declared.

Clark described Secretary of Agriculture Brannan's farm plan as a "farsighted American effort to help the nation's 6 million farmers."

Lamesa Student To Receive Memorial Scholarship At Tech

A. J. Broyles, senior agriculture student from Lamesa and a two year letterman in tennis at Texas Technological college, has been chosen as the first person to receive the David C. Storey Memorial scholarship at the college.

The announcement came from the dean of men, James G. Allen, whose office is in charge of the scholarship which was set up only last year. It was established by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. T. Storey of Littlefield in memory of their son, David.

Killed In Action

David C. Storey was a 1943 Tech graduate. He was an outstanding scholar and athlete while at the college. He was killed in action in the European theatre in 1944 while serving with the U. S. Army.

Storey was a member of the Double T club, an honorary athletic organization, and a leader in campus activities. He was, like Broyles, a student in the agriculture division. His parents have established a fund of $50 per semester to be given to a junior or senior student who has lettered in tennis and has proven himself a leader, both scholastically and within the student body.

Leadership Praised

In making the award to Broyles, Dean Allen said he was "highly pleased to present this honor to such an outstanding student and to a boy who has proven himself to be one of the best leaders in minor sports ever seen at Texas Tech."

He went on to say, "the outstanding sportsmanship which Broyles has shown on the tennis court, both as a loser and a winner, is proof that he is indeed worthy of being the first student to receive the David C. Storey Memorial scholarship."

Broyles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Broyles of Lamesa. He is a member of the Double T club and also of Phi Eta Sigma, national scholastic society for freshmen. He is a member of the Class A doubles championship team and is runner up in the Class A singles in tennis in the Border conference.

Car That Can Fly Over Traffic Jams Is Nearer Reality

LONGVIEW, Wash., June 11 (INS)—The long time dream of fretting drivers, a flying automobile, was one step nearer reality tonight as road tests were given the automobile section of an experimental model.

M. B. Taylor, president of Aero-Car, Inc., announced that the tests are being made. Aero-Car will produce the revolutionary craft, meant to enable motorists to fly right over many a traffic jam.

Taylor said so far the car has shown up even better than the designers expected. With the engine in the rear and a front-wheel drive, it has handled well on the highway, he said.

He forecast that the first flights will be made in July. Work on the wings and the tail is going ahead swiftly, he reported.

Taylor said the flying automobile will be covered by a new plastic known as fiberglass. It is reported to be lighter, stronger and cheaper than metal.

Plainview Man Named To Head Post Office Clerks' Federation

SAN ANTONIO, June 11. (AP)—Jack P. Campbell, of Plainview, former vice president of the Texas Federation of Post Office Clerks, was elected president of that organization at the close of its 28th annual convenutlion in the Gunter hotel here Saturday.

R. M. Collier, Tyler, was elected first vice president; W. H. Taylor, San Antonio second vice president; Walter H. Hill, jr., Austin, secretary; H. T. Sparks, Fort Worth, legislative representative, and William Silverman, El Paso, treasurer.

Mineral Wells was chosen as the site for next year's convention.

Mrs. Glenn Ridge, Lubbock, was named secretary of the Woman's auxiliary to the federation.

Czech Catholic Group Assails Opposition Of Church To Reds

By A. I. GOLDBERG
Associated Press Staff Writer

PRAGUE, June 11.—A pro-government group of Roman Catholics issued a statement yesterday attacking the church's opposition to the Communist-dominated regime.

The statement was signed by 118 Roman Catholic priests, including two monsignors, and several laymen.

It said that the group recognized the "holy father as visible head of the church, and we submit to him in all matters concerning faith, morals and church discipline and in matters concerning the eternal salvation of the faithful."

However the remainder of the document was chiefly a defense of the government's position in the church-state dispute and an attack on church authorities whom the group blamed for the breakdown of church-state negotiations.

Church Action Attacked

It also said "we are convinced no real peace and quiet will be forthcoming in this world until the profit society is replaced by a new society—a socialist one."

The statement attacked the church for suspending priests who took part in political activity without permission and accused some active priests of "subversive activities."

Recent letters by Archbishop Josef Beran of Prague have not been published in Czechoslovakia, but those privately circulated predicted some such organization as the new action group would be set up as a first step towards creating a new Catholic church.

Official Issues Statement

The archbishop has been advising his clergy privately in circular letters that they must disobey government "official gazettes" and he has called some government figures "Judases" for co-operating in the program of restricted freedom.

Last Sunday Archbishop Beran made his first public statement since a breakdown in church state relations in February.

Speaking at a pontifical mass the archbishop told his congregation "there can be no true Roman Catholic church without its head in the Vatican."

Late last year Archbishop Beran, in one of his last public pronouncements before the bishops' gazettes were banned on the ground that paper was in short supply, told his flock they must prepare for a "new test of their faith."

MATERIALS SHORT

Saudi Arabia's unprecedented building boom has brought shortages of building materials, particularly steel bars and cement, Mecca reports.

Camp Hood Officers To Be Speakers Here

Two Army officers from Camp Hood will speak at a public meeting of Lubbock residents at 4 p.m. next Sunday, June 19 at the First Baptist church on "The New Set-up of the Army."

The officers are Chaplain E. A. Burgess, who will speak on "Spiritual Welfare and Character Guidance," and Lt. D. Clavio, who will speak on "Educational and Recreational Advantages of Today's Enlisted Man."

Announcement of the meeting was made by Mrs. C. M. Kaigler, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union in Lubbock. The officers will come here as guests of the Lubbock WCTU.

Upon invitation from Miss Margaret S. Banister, chief of the women's interests section, Department of the Army, Washington, D.C., Mrs. Kaigler several weeks ago went to Camp Hood to attend the Fourth Army Regional conference of the advisory council to the women's intesest section of the Army. Women from different denominations, college and university women, federated club women, other club women, Parent-Teacher association representatives and others attended.

Many of those attending expressed wishes for lectures in their home towns by Army officers on advantages of today's camps over the old Army camps. Major General James G. Christiansen of Camp Hood announced availability of officers as speakers.

New Improvements To Give City One Of Top Airports In Nation

be approximately $100,000.

When it is finished, Lubbock's weather requirements will be approximately one-third what they are now.

At present, airliners cannot land at Municipal airport when the ceiling is less than 600 feet or visability is less than a mile.

With ILS, the ceiling requirement will be lowered to 200 feet and visibility to half a mile for planes equipped with the ILS gear.

The work will involve running underground conduits from the new airport building to an 80-acre city-owned tract just south of the airport and to a point north of the building.

Two specialized radio transmitters will be operated. One a "localizer," will be south of the airport; the other, a "glide path" transmitter, north.

An airplane will be able to follow the path thus set up to a perfect landing on the runway with the pilot never seeing the runway until he is on it.

"With this equipment, and in normal years, there will not be more than two full days a year when airliners cannot land," Colby predicted.

That Lubbock will receive one of 12 control towers recently appropriated by Congress was welcome news to the airport official.

"Congress approved 12 control towers for the nation, and the fourth region of CAA, which includes Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana and Arkansas, gets fou rof them," Colby said.

"Lubbock will receive the first one, we were advised."

Air Traffic Increases

The control tower will be located on the new airport terminal building, but it may operate temporarily in an existing tower across the field until the building is completed.

The tower will give communication with aircraft traffic in a five-mile radius.

A tremendous increase in air traffic in and out of Lubbock is responsible for the preferred treatment, CAA officials explained.

By way of illustration, Colby pointed out there are 32 air carrier movements a day at the airport. These are regularly scheduled airline flights.

In addition, there is an average of 0 movements of transient aircraft at the airport daily. These include oil men, businessmen and private fliers who arrive and depart at the airport in private planes or on non-scheduled flights.

Between 100 and 300 daily movements of local aircraft boost the traffic total still higher.

Approximately 100 privately-owned airplanes are now hangared at Municipal airport.

"When our improvements are completed, cities like Denver and Salt Lake City may very well visit our airport and envy it," Colby commented.

The total investment in the airport to date is $4,158,000. Added to that will be the $226,000 runway improvements, approximately $75,000 worth of landscaping and road paving which the federal government will help finance, and other improvements.

The airport director has mailed invitations to operators of the large airport restaurant chains as well as to local restaurateurs for bids on operating the restaurant concession in the new building.

Situated on the second floor of the circular portion of the building, the restaurant will command a full view of all the runways. A lunchroom on the first floor will be available for quick snacks and will be operated by the restaurant concessionnaire.

Hope was expressed that the restaurant will be outstanding enough to attract townspeople as well as transients.

The chains invited to bid on the concession included Sky-Chef, Hull-Dobbs and the Harvey House system, all of which operate on a nation-wide basis.

Bids will be considered either on a long-term fixed rental basis or on a percentage of gross returns, Colby indicated.

The healthy condition of Lubbock's aviation industry is indicated by recent business activity at the field. Roy Neal, who operates the Wes-Tex Aircraft distributorship at the airport sold 12 Piper cubs last month to individuals. James E. Vickers, operator of Vickers Aircraft, sold two $16,000 private planes. Both business noted increase sales of gasoline to fliers.

Best estimates indicate that between 1,800 and 2,000 airline passengers are now departing from Lubbock every month.

prospects as expressed several days previously.

Scattering reports about a week ago indicated, he said, that a large portion of the cotton land rained or hailed out after that time would be replanted in grain sorghum.

Inquiries of wider scope, he said Saturday, now indicate that most of the famers will keep on replanting cotton until at least June 20, and possibly after that date. Their opinion is that the higher support price makes cotton, even when planted late, a better risk as a cash crop than grain sorghums. The support price for sorghum was set at a disappointingly low figure and another hazard is the serious question as to whether storage would be available if this crop should be produced.

Clapp plans to make another survey of actual cotton acreage within the next two or three weeks, he said. These investigations extend to practically every community of the 20 cotton-producing counties meanwhile. Meanwhile, he observed, he does not expect the acreage to vary much from the 3,000,000-plus forecast on April 15, unless conditions are extremely unfavorable during the next two weeks.

A surplus of labor is available for the crop, he observed.

Jester Okay Seen On Rent Decontrol

SAN ANTONIO, June 11 (AP)—The San Antonio Express says a likelihood that Gov. Beauford Jester will sign into law the statewide rent decontrol act just passed by both the House and Senate in Austin came to light here today.

"The paper says the fact that Gov. Jester has already committed himself to signing the act was revealed in a letter, dated June 2, from the governor to Arthur E. Biard, prominent San Antonio realtor."

The governor's letter was in answer to one Biard had written in which the realtor had recommended the decontrol of rents in Texas.

Jester's letter to Biard said in part:

"Estimates such as yours impel me to say that if the bill is passed and comes to my desk, I will sign it."

This was the first indication of Jester's attitude toward the rent decontrol act. Friday U.S. housing expediter Tighe Woods conferred for 45 minutes with the governor, urging him to send back or veto a bill that was passed overwhelmingly by both the House and the Senate.

At the time, it was said that Woods returned to Washington with no definite answer on the matter from Jester.

ed on the road. The accident occurred in a driving rainstorm.

Ernest Schneider, 52, a disabled veteran of World War I, drowned Friday night while fishing in a lake near Giddings.

Lightning Kills Man

Near Ector, in the Bonham area, Riley Besley, 32, was struck by lightning as he started a tractor. Besley had just handed his infant child to his wife when the bolt struck. The wife and baby were not hurt. The accident occurred Friday.

The same day E. Burton, 78, who organized the first rural mail route out of Winters in 1906, was killed in an automobile accident near Carrizo Springs. For the past year, Burton had served as postmaster at Winters.

At Dallas, Gloria Maxine Hawkins was killed Friday when she was hit by a bus.

Daughter Of Levelland Couple

Mrs. Smith, the Oklahoma woman killed in the accident north of Mineral Wells, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith of Littlefield. She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. B. R. Estes of Vernon; Mrs. Jess Blackman of California and Mrs. Victor Pyle of Pauls Valley, Okla.

J. W. Earl, jr., 20, of Dorchester, near Sherman, drowned in a stock tank southwest of town Saturday.

Ovid Newton Nippert, 43, of Levelland, was killed late Friday when his car was in a head-on collision with a truck between Smyer and Hurlwood, about 15 miles west of Lubbock.

W. D. Phillips, jr., three-year-old Beaumont child, drowned in a flooded drainage ditch there Saturday afternoon.

The child fell into the water while playing on the bank of the ditch.

Leo B. Shouldis, 35, New Orleans, was a traffic accident victim at Texas City late Friday night. A Galveston justice of the peace termed the death accidental, and freed the driver of a truck under which he was fatally injured.

LUBBOCK MAN'S SISTER INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. John C. Weisler of San Antonio, who was injured in the automobile crash near Mineral Wells, is a sister of W. Earl Creel, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post here.

Mrs. Weisler, the former Miss Donnie Creel, lived in Lubbock for a number of years.

Coal Stoppage

three days a week because of a slump in coal demand.

However, countless operators called the men to work this Saturday to fill railroad cars for shipment during the June 13-20 stoppage.

Rail Workers Affected

Thousands of workers on coal-carrying railroads also have been laid off in anticipation of the mine closure. The Pennsylvania, New York Central and Reading lines have furloughed 21,000 employes.

The UMW president was criticized severely for calling the mine shutdown by James C. Petrillo, head of the AFL musicians union.

The musicians union president's statement coincided with the predictions of administration leaders in Congress that Lewis' action would jeopardize repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

Lewis Remains Silent

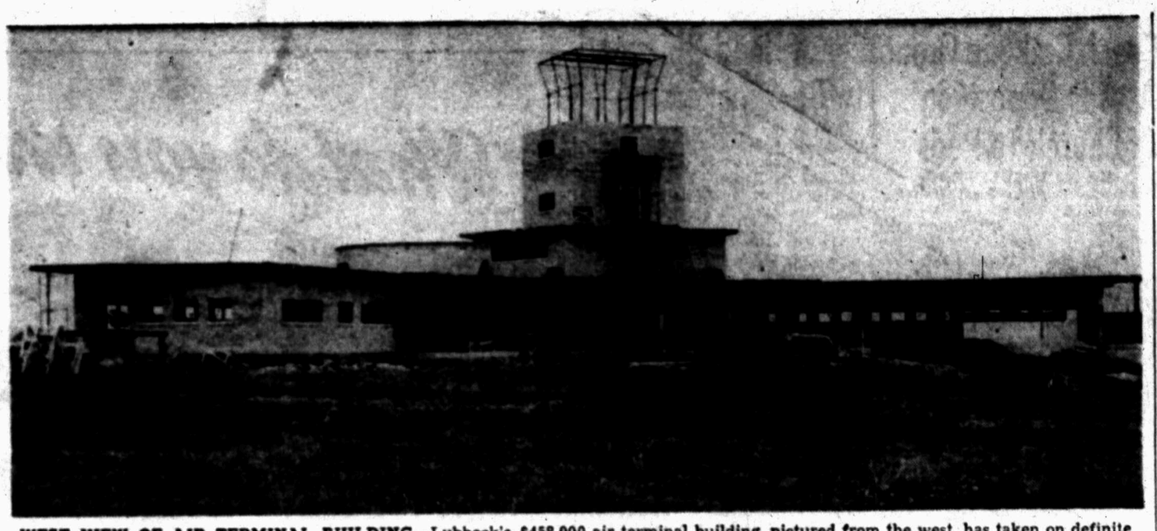

Lewis has remained silent under this criticism.

The mine shutdown apparently was ordered to eat up surplus coal stocks, now totaling 56 days industrial supply, and put the UMW in a better bargaining position for a new wage contract.

The union negotiates with two groups of operators next week.

Lewis will meet in Philadelphia with U. S. Steel officials Monday to discuss a new contract covering the company's 20,000 miners employed in "captive" pits—mines which produce coal for the steel mills only.

Tuesday, John Owens, UMW secretary-treasurer, will resume negotiations in Bluefield, W. Va., with the Southern Coal Producers association. Four previous days of closed-door bargaining proved fruitless.

Comedy acts and special feature performances were well-received by last night's crowd. Drawing big applause was the comedy routine of the Moore family and Beeswax; Ann Hendricks and her dancing horse, King Richard; comedy acrobatic trick roping by Jack and Bobbie Knapp; and the exhibition of Roman riding and jumping by Byron Hendricks.

Roundly applauded for its novelty and intricacy was the Lightning C Ranch horseback quadrille which was led and directed by Everett E. Colburn. The act featured eight matched couples on horseback in a series of intricate riding formations.

Winners in last night's events were:

Calf roping contest: First, B. J. Pierce, 11.1 seconds; second, Toots Mansfield, 12.5; third, Bill Eaton, 13.5.

Steer wrestling contest: First, Hank Mills, 8 seconds; second, Hobert Flowers, 8.4; third, Lee Roberts, 12.

Bareback bronc riding contest: First, Harry Tompkins, Ardmore, Okla.; second, Tater Decker, Roswell; third, Wag Blesing; fourth, Jimmy Schumacher, Phoenix, Ariz.

Saddle bronc riding contest: First, Manuel Enos; second, L. E. Weeks, Abilene; third and fourth split between Burl Joseph, Larry Finley, and Wag Blesing.

Winners Are Named

Winners in the finals of the various cowboy rodeo events for the entire four-night show were announced last night as follows:

Calf roping: First, Lanham Riley, Fort Worth; second, B. J. Pierce, Clovis, N. M.; third, Toots Manzfield, Rankin; and fourth, Shoat Webster, Lenepah, Okla.

Bareback bronc riding: Harry Tompkins, Ardmore, Okla.; second, Wag Blesing, Glendale, Calif.; third, Manuel Enos, Fort Worth; and fourth, Tater Decker.

Steer wrestling: First, Hank Mills, Pueblo, Colo.; second, Lee Roberts, Roswell, N. M.; third, Bill McGuire, Phoenix, Ariz.; and fourth, Dub Phillips, San Angelo.

Saddle bronc riding: First, Larry Finley, Phoenix; second, Manuel Enos, Fort Worth; third, Lee Roberts, Roswell, N. M.; and fourth, Wag Blesing, Glendale, Calif.

Bull riding: First, Loyd Lippie, Yuma, Ariz.; second, Hobert Flowers, Ardmore, Okla.; third, Lee Roberts, Roswell, N. M.; and fourth, Bill McGuire, Phoenix, Ariz.

ABC Expresses Thanks

Management of the ABC-Boys' club rodeo expressed appreciation to those who cooperated in staging the affair.

"Although it will be several days before we will know whether we made or lost money, we wish to thank all those persons who made our rodeo possible," Harry Van Horn, general chairman, said.

"We are especially indebted to Texas Tech, Dr. D. M. Wiggins, the Athletic council, Athletic Director Morley Jennings and Head Coach Dell Morgan, the Lubbock Lions club, which always does a fine job with the concessions and the Lubbock Jaycees for their promotion of Frontier Week," Van Horn said.

"The Lubbock County Sheriff's Posse and the Will Rogers Range Riders of Amarillo are also due a share of praise for their participation in the opening parade and first performance."

Ship activity is booming again at Ecuador's port of Guayaquil.

ing personnel of the atomic energy commission.

Referring to the committee's 9 to 8 vote yesterday to have closed sessions on that aspect of the investigation, McMahon said today:

"All other matter must be tried fully and fairly in public, insofar as national security permits."

McMahon told a news conference:

1. He will again bring up the matter of shipping radioactive isotopes (atomic bombarded material) to foreign nations if Hickenlooper is not ready Monday.

2. The committee is turning to Attorney General Tom Clark and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover for advice on how to proceed with the loyalty issues raised by Hickenlooper.

Decision Still Pending

3. No decision has been reached whether to hold hearings, either public or private, on "case A." That is the designation of an Atomic Energy commission employe who, according to Hickenlooper, wrote "one of the hottest atomic documents ever assembled" after he had been suspended following an FBI loyalty check and then reinstated.

"Case A" has asked the committee for a hearing, and AEC Chairman David E. Lilienthal insists it should be a public one. McMahon indicated that this is one of the major problems which the subcommittee will lay before Clark and Hoover.

The commission's radioactive isotope export program came under congressional fire last week after it was learned that iron istopes had been sent to the Norwegian military establishment.

Public Answer Sought

Radioactive isotopes are atomic particles useful as "tracers" in many fields of research, both military and non-military. The question of whether an iron isotope, such as sent to Norway, can help in the development of heat resistant metals for jet planes and rockets still is in dispute.

McMahon disclosed that he also wants to get publicly the answer to a question put last week by Senator Vandengerg (R-Mich) as to whether the AEC's Military Liaison committee had been fully advised in advance of the Norwegian shipment.

Military Aid For Europe Is Urged

ed "we are only midway" in the struggle and "the cause of peace and freedom is still threatened."

Speaks At Reunion

The President spoke at the dedication of a War Memorial park here in connection with the annual reunion of the 35th Division—with which he served in the first World war.

The speech was broadcast by the major radio networks and beamed overseas.

The white-suited President marched 15 blocks—the full route—in the annual reunion parade of the 35th. He was flanked by Secretary of Defense Johnson, Gov. Sid McMath of Arkansas and Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughn, presidential military aide.

A crowd estimated by Police Chief Marvin Potts at 100,000 thronged the hot streets to greet Mr. Truman.

Opposition Is Assailed

In his address, the President said, in referring to the European Co-operation administration program:

"There are voices which claim that because our policy has been successful so far, we can now afford to relax. There are some who want to slash the aid we are giving to the economic recovery of recovery of other nations; there are some who wish to abandon our efforts toward the revival of world trade.

"These are the same voices that misled us in the 1920's. They are misguided by short-run considerations. They refuse to face the plain facts. They try to convince us that we cannot afford to pay the price of peace."

Mr. Truman then said:

"If we were to falter now and cut down our aid, the momentum of recovery would be destroyed. The people of these countries would be thrown into confusion and their advance toward economic self-reliance would be blocked."

(Paul G. Hoffman, ECA administrator, has said he will resign if ECA funds are cut greatly.)

A cut in ECA funds, said the President, "would be a great gain for Communism.

To maintain prosperity, Mr. Truman contended, Congress should go along with his domestic proposals.

"We must develop our natural resources.

"We must establish a fair distribution of business opportunity.

"We must have a free labor movement, able to hold its own at the bargaining table.

Pact's Okay Seen

The President's speech sounded the theme that this country still has a long way to go "before we can make the free world secure against the social and political evils on which Communism thrives."

"The cause of peace and freedom is still threatened," he said.

Predicting that the North Atlantic pact "will soon be passed by an overwhelming majority in the Senate," Mr. Truman declared it is "vital" to follow this up with a program of military aid to increase the effective strength of the free nations against aggression.

He also disclosed that he will soon send Congress legislation to launch his program of American help to the world's "underdeveloped regions," declared that it offers "enormous potential benefits in a growing world economy."

Along this line, the President defined in detail the ties which he said exist between the domestic prosperity of the United States and its foreign policy. . . .

Hope of world recovery, he said, depends largely on American prosperity, while economic failure here would plunge other nations "into chaos and despair."

Of his program for the underdeveloped regions, Mr. Truman said:

"It is not a program of relief. While it is intended ultimately to bring about a great movement of capital through the channels of private investment for the development of these poverty stricken regions, it is not a program of imperialism. The development of these areas offers enormous potential benefits to a growing world economy."

Five Drowned When Fish Boat Capsizes

SEATTLE, June 11 (INS)—Five men drowned and four were rescued when the salmon purse seiner Sunset capsized in turbulent seas in False Pass, Alaska.

The coast guard in Seattle reported four survivors and three bodies were picked up by another fishing vessel which radioed "two bodies lost."

Pass On Tip Of Alaska

False Pass is situated on the westermost tip of the Alaska peninsula approximately 500 miles west of Kodiak.

The channel flows between the Alaska peninsula and Unimak island, the first of the Aleutian island group. It leads from the north Pacific to the Bering sea.

The crewmen aboard the ill-fated Sunset were:

Capt. Nick Mardesich, sr., owner and skipper of the Sunset; Mardesich's four sons, Tony, 30, Nick, jr., 23, Joseph, 23, and August Paul, all of Everett, Wash.

A nephew Tony Mardesich, San Pedro, Calif.; Vincent Vlaskelica, Everett; Frank Suryan, Anacortes, Wash., and H. R. Morrovich, Seattle.

Agreement Reached

said then the trains would roll again.

Howley was asked if some elements might try to reject the offer tomorrow. He replied: "That would be a terrible thing."

Race Against Deadline

Once the union votes, the four powers can proceed with talk on the all-German trade agreement designed to revive commerce between east and west zones despite th obstacle of two currencies.

The economic chiefs of the four powers met here tonight in an attitude of "do or die," because, on the recommendation of U. S. Secretary of State Acheson, the foreign ministers in Paris had set Monday as a deadline for clearing away differences in Berlin.

Russia and the West agreed in New York to lift the Berlin blockade and the Allied counterblockade of East Germany on May 12, but little more than a fleeting truce was achieved.

The strike threw a stranglehold on traffic which virtually annulled the blockade-lifting agreement.

In its early days the strike caused the deaths of two demonstrators and injury to hundreds in battles on railway property.

The 2,000,000 west Berliners, badly hurt by the strike, continued to look for their existence to the airlift, which roared along at an 8,000-ton daily clip.

The Berliners now look forward jubilantly to the end of the strike, which means they will get more out of life than the bare necessities. West Berlin freight yards clogged with loaded freight trains now will disgorge their cargoes. Industries gasping for breath will get a new lease on life with normal rail communications assuring a supply of raw materials.

At stake in the 16-state area will be 11 Senate seats and 146 House seats. Nine of the Senate seats and 79 House seats are held by Republicans.

The meeting will be held in the home state or perhaps the sharpest critic of the administration's farm proposal — President Allan B. Kline of the American Farm Bureau federation. Kline contends the Brannan program would subject farmers to "complete governmental regimentation." This the Democrats deny.

Sunday's activities will be devoted to committee meetings and closed conferences. Monday will feature speeches by Barkley and Brannan.

Britain's first "civic cinema" has been opened at Oundle.

AT HOUSTON

Sheriff Moves In On Bookie Shops

HOUSTON, June 11 (AP)—Sheriff Buster Kern pinioned the nerve center of Houston bookie shops today in nine calm and swift raids that followed the lead of La Porte Constable Dale Richardson.

Some 35 deputies, led by the sheriff, moved in on the racing wire service headquarters and eight other spots simultaneously. It was Sheriff Kern's first raid on alleged bookie shops inside the city.

At the room housing the wire service controls, Sheriff Kern stepped up to the master microphone and announced to all subscribers in the city, "all right, boys. This is the last race."

Two men were arrested on the spot, and deputies caught another as he attempted to jump from a second-floor window.

The sheriff's department, moving swiftly and calmly, and without violence, took an undetermined number of operators and patrons into custody. An early estimate was that 35 were arrested and would be charged.

Paris Meeting

put forward which would break the logjam.

At Vishinsky's request, the Foreign Ministers council was taking a day's recess until Sunday. Most western officials believed the Soviet diplomat was awaiting fresh instructions from the Kremlin.

Strategy Conference Held

Acheson and his advisers—Dr. Philip C. Jessup, Robert Murphy and Charles E. Bohlen—will be Vishinsky's guests at dinner tonight in the Russian embassy. A week ago Vishinsky was Acheson's guest at a small dinner party.

Acheson, French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin conferred this afternoon to map strategy for Sunday's session.

With the conference still in deadlock, there was a growing belief by many of the Western Power delegates that Germany can be unified only by the Germans themselves.

Red Proposal Renewed

In the final session of the now three-week old conference, Vishinsky dusted off his old proposal that the powers get busy on a German treaty and pull their troops out of Germany within a year after it was signed. The Western Powers said talk of treaty at this time was futile in view of their inability to agree either on unification of Germany or of Berlin.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson proposed instead that they get on with discussion of the Austrian treaty and some provisional arrangements for Germany. During the coming three days, he said it would be possible for deputies to examine whether any hope of agreement on a German treaty remained. He bluntly stated he was not willing to remain beyond the end of the coming week.

Differences Widen

It seemed to put a seal on the prospect of any real East-West agreement at this meeting of the Big Four.

East-West differences, widened and hardened since the 1947 Moscow conferences, are now so frozen that the belief is growing there will be no formal peace treaty on Germany by the Big Four.

It is believed the Germans will have to work out their problems with their neighbors piecemeal as the years go by since the Big Four are unable to agree even on the procedure for a peace treaty conference let alone the treaty itself.

The East and West have taken steps which make it almost impossible for them to change their positions and go back to the positions at Moscow in 1947.

Reconciliation Difficult

Today there is a West German state. The Western Allies created it. They are forced to back it. They cannot junk it in return for five or a dozen central agencies. All they can do is to offer to let Russia's East Germany join it.

The Russians have backed a Communist East German regime which probably soon will be a government. If they join a West German state under Democratic conditions Communist influence in Germany would be reduced to a shell.

Apparently there is no reconciling these two positions in the foreseeable future.

Heavy Rains Hit Parts Of State

fell into fast flowing water as he played along the bank of a ditch and drowned. His death was the third in Texas in two days as a result of the weather. Near Ector, in the Bonham area, Riley Besley, 32, was killed by lightning as he started a tractor. James Ross Hopper, 9, of Borger, drowned in a rain filled drainage ditch there Friday.

Heavy rain and some hail fell in the Costello island storm, the Associated Press said. The island is in Palo Pinto county. The storm hit it about 3:30 p. m.

Winds of about 75 miles an hour unroofed a restaurant, damaged docks, and blew several boats ashore. The rain at McKinney struck during the night.

Meanwhile, Lubbock escaped rain for the first time in a week Saturday, although heavy clouds hung over the city most of the morning.

The heavy cloud blanket cleared too late in the afternoon to allow much of a warmup and the maximum temperatures recorded was 76 degrees.

While Lubbock was free of rain Saturday, scattered showers fell in the southern and far western portions of the South Plains, and more was forecast for today. Lamesa reported a light shower early Saturday morning and scattered showers were reported over that area, it was the seventh day of rain at Lamesa in a row. The fall for the 24-hour period ending Saturday morning at Lamesa was .24, bringing the June total there to 2.18 and for the year to 9.55.

More Forecast Tonight

Lubbock's total for the year remained at 18.41 inches as no measureable rainfall was reported at the Weather station Saturday.

An abrupt end to the city's one-day "drouth" was predicted by the weather station. Showers and thunderstorms are forecast for this area again this morning, tonight and Monday.

Thundershower activity was expected to start before dawn today and continue up into the morning. The station said there was some possibility of hail.

Precipitation will be from moderate to heavy in the path of the thundershowers, it was predicted. The activity will probably resume tonight and Monday the station said.

Warmer temperatures are foreseen today.

Many Areas Hit

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported the following picture for the weather over the state late Saturday night:

Thunderstorms had brought light to moderate rains to Abilene, Austin, Big Spring, Harlingen, San Antonio, Waco, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Fort Worth, Ozona, San Angelo, Mineral Wells, Junction, Tyler, Dallas, Wichita Falls, Palacios, and Bryan.

For a 24 hour period ended at 6:30 p.m. Saturday San Antonio reported 1.25 inches of rain; Abilene .90; Waco .70.

Midland and Odessa were drying out from heavy rains.

Presidio's 98 degrees was the day's highest temperature reported to the Dallas Weather bureau. The lowest maximum was 76 at Lubbock.

Cloudy Skies Prevail

Cloudy weather prevailed in the Panhandle and South Plains; from the Abilene section eastward, and along the Texas coast.

Late in the day it was clear at Midland. Before daylight rains had brought the total there since Friday afternoon to 2.38 inches. Ten miles west of Midland the air terminal measured 2.54 inches of moisture.

Water still stood in the streets in low sections of the city and gutters ran full as the water drained toward the Midland draw, east of the city.

Ball Park Drained

Pumps worked on the Midland baseball park. The heaviest Midland rain was in an hour period Friday. It flooded downtown streets and low spots. Water entered a number of stores, but damage was not excessive. Some damage to residences was reported in the Latin-American section—in the east part of the city. City Manager H. A. Thomason said damage to streets was extensive.

Several cotton fields south of Midland went under water as deep as six feet, and there were fears of extensive crop losses.

Range lands benefitted. Lakes and watering places were full for the first time in years.

Grasshopper Threat Acute

At Big Spring early Saturday, showers brought .52 inches of moisture. Cotton farmers in that area looked at a heavy growth of weeds and an acute grasshopper threat.

Farm Agent D. W. Lawter said unless rains let up much cotton land may be diverted to grain sorghums. Current supplies of grasshopper poison were about exhausted.

The state entered the weekend with its wheat harvest slowed by moisture and South Plains cotton farmers faced with replanting an estimated 300,000 acres of destroyed or damaged cotton.

No damage was reported on the mainland near Costello island. Damage on the island included lodging buildings. The property is owned by Bedford Jones.

COMPROMISE REJECTED

BEAUMONT, June 11. (INS)—Officials of the Beaumont city bus lines refused all union offers of compromise today as the public transportation system remained idle into the fourth week. The company indicated before 900 persons at a mass meeting this morning that only a fare increase would stimulate an attitude of agreement.

Tractor School And Implement Show Is Well Attended In City

More than 300 farmers, FFA and 4-H club members attended the Lubbock County Tractor School and Implement Show at Texas Tech Saturday.

Sponsored by the Texas Extension Service with the cooperation of Lubbock farm equipment and tractor dealers, the show attracted visitors from all over Lubbock and surrounding counties.

The group first assembled in the Aggie auditorium and heard an address of welcome by Dean W. L. Stangel, head of the agriculture division.

A movie, "Tractor Safety" was first offered on the program. Then followed a class in tractor maintenance in the A. H. pavilion. In this class farmers were shown how to adjust carburetors, ignition and other minor details to improve the economy of their tractors. They were also shown repairs and adjustments that can be made right on the job.

Displays On Hand

County Agent D. W. Sherrill and his two assistants, Joe Jones and Jack Carothers, helped to keep the program moving along smoothly.

From 11 a. m. through the lunch hour the visitors wandered among the scores of displays on the west side of the agriculture building.

On display were all the well-known makes of farm tractors and attachments for planting and cultivating. There were grass seeders, spray and dusting attachments, hay bailers and rakes, ditchers, feed lifts and many other units.

The afternoon was devoted to another movie, "Tractor Maintenance" and additional classes in the care of farm equipment. Lunch at noon was prepared by the FFA and 4-H club boys.

Most of the farmers attending the school were quick to voice their approval of it and commend those who made the show possible.

J. P. Turner, Route 1, Brownfield, who farms 400 acres of sandy land, said: "Such schools and displays as this one are really helpful to the farmer. And they are very interesting too."

"It was a good practical school," C. W. Phares, Lorenzo, said. "I learned a lot that will be helpful to me in caring for my farm machinery."

H. P. Musgrove, Route 1, Idalou:

"I found a lot of information on new machinery here at the school. It sure helps to bring a farmer up-to-date on equipment."

Bill Becton, Petersburg found: "It was worth every minute of the time it took to come over here and attend this school. I will be able to do a better job now and know what to look for when I get ready to buy new machinery."

All well-known makes of tractors and equipment were included in the displays.

Army, Civilian Planes Continue Hunt For Missing Texas Fliers

PRESCOTT, Ark., June 11 (U.P.)—Three Army planes and some 30 civilian planes were still searching an area from Hot Springs, Ark., to Dallas today for two Texas fliers missing since May 29.

A $1,000 reward was posted yesterday for information leading to the whereabouts of the plane which disappeared on a flight from Hot Springs to Stephenville, Tex. Aboard the maroon and gray cabin plane were T. C. Elkins, prominent Stephenville industrialist, and his pilot, Ben Ferguson, also of Stephenville.

Anyone with information pertaining to the plane was requested by the missing men's relatives to call Gene Elkins at the Broadway hotel here, headquarters for the search. The reward for a clue on the missing pair was offered by citizens of Stephenville and Merkel.

Latest information on the fate of the missing plane and its occupants came from a farmer near Sarasota, Ark. He said he heard a plane flying low over the dense wooded section the foggy morning the craft disappeared.

Sheriff Resigns At El Paso To Enter Private Business

EL PASO, June 11 (U.P.)—Sheriff Allan G. Falby today announced his resignation, effective July 15. He submitted his letter of resignation to County Judge Victor Gilbert. He has been sheriff since Jan. 1, 1943.

Sheriff Falby said he is leaving his post to go into private business.

LaGRANGE, June 11 — A jury here Tuesday will be asked to decide whether Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, San Antonio surgeon, is insane.

It's a matter of life or death to the doctor.

For Ross, murderer of four persons, is doomed to die in the electric chair. But Texas does not execute the insane. If the jury finds that his crimes, his confinement and his lost court battles have cost him his mind, he will be locked in an asylum.

A weary, broken man of 43, Ross shuffled around the bull pen of the Fayette county jail today, awaiting what could be his last chance. The Harvard honor graduate, once dapper and assured, now is unkept, puffy-faced and sullen.

Opinions Differ

"He's high tempered but not crazy," Sheriff Jim Flournoy said. "If that jury finds him insane he'll have to play crazy the rest of his life to stay out of that chair."

Sheriff T. W. Lane of Wharton county, where Ross was confined many months, recently expressed another opinion.

"He's just a man in a daze. He's dying every day—dying by inches. I think he'll burn and I think he thinks so, too, if he thinks at all."

On a bright Sunday, May 25, 1947, Ross killed Willard York, San Antonio investment banker, and three members of his family. The Yorks, who resided in Comal county, were on their way to church. Ross, waiting with a rifle on a lonely country road, halted their car, poked the snout of the rifle through an open window and began firing. York; his wife; his son, 9; and Mrs. Mary York, York's 67-year-old mother, were blasted to death. But the Yorks' 13-year-old daughter eluded the killer. Shot in the hip, she made her terrified way through brush to a farm house and gave the alarm.

Victim's Daughter Testifies

And it was her testimony, later, that nailed the surgeon to his atrocities. During the trial here in 1948, the defense sought to show that Dr. Ross "cracked up" after he lost his savings, about $150,000, which he had entrusted to his friend, York, for investment.

But on Oct. 23, 1948, the jury convicted him of murdering Mrs. York and sentenced him to die. The trial was transferred to Fayette county after it had been found impossible to select a jury in the county where the slayings occurred.

"I was glad to get shed of him," Sheriff Lane said at Wharton. "I don't want any more like that."

The insanity trial will be held in the old stone courthouse that rises from the tree-shaded square of this pleasant, South-Central Texas town. District Attorney J. Lee Dittert, who prosecuted Ross at the murder trial, will be handling the case for the state.

But the burden of proof this time will be with the defense lawyers—it will be their chore to prove Ross insane.

Twice the Texas court of criminal appeals has turned down the physician's appeal from the death sentence conviction. The last time was last May 11 after the doctor's attorneys had pleaded he was insane when the crime was committed.

A MEMORY BOOK OF PROGRESS OF LUBBOCK AND THE SOUTH PLAINS 1873 — 1949

From the earliest days, those who have built Lubbock have proved by deeds that, in their view, only the very best they could provide in educational opportunity was good enough for their children.

The third frame building erected on the Original townsite was a school—preceded only by the first Courthouse and hotel. From that day in 1892 until this, the educational opportunities of the community have been superior, when judged by the standards of their times.

In 1897, the population had increased sufficiently to organize the first school district, embracing the entire county. Three schools were built. The largest was the Groves school, about eight miles northwest of Lubbock. It served only four families, but two contained 10 children of school age each, and another nine children.

The second largest school, the Young school, was about two miles west of Slaton and the third and smallest, named the Canyon, was closer to the present site of Lubbock. The initial enrollment there was only about 10 pupils.

But growth, in every sense of the word, was rapid—unfailingly stimulated by community consciousness of the importance of education. In view of this feeling, it was inevitable that the system of public schools of the South Plains should become outstanding by every standard of excellence.

Women's West Texas Golf Meet Set Tuesday

GETTING READY FOR WOMEN'S TOURNEY—The Women's West Texas Golf Association's 12th Annual tournament will be played this week at the 18-hole Lubbock Country Club course. An entry list of between 100 and 200 is expected to be here for the tournament, the women's top tournament of the year. These Lubbock women this week took to the fairways and greens to polish their game. Mrs. Sam O'Neal of Odessa will be the principal golfer these women will be out to defeat. Mrs. O'Neal is defending champion and she is expected to have rough going. In the picture at left, Mrs. George Soash is shown following through on one of her drives. She is one of the favorites in the tourney. Watching her, left to right, are Mrs. John Markham, Mrs. T. K. Sampson and Mrs. T. E. Patterson, also contenders for the championship. In the photo above, two members of the Meadowbrook Publinx Golf club tune up for the tournament. Mrs. Billie Lee, in slacks, is shown putting, while Mrs. Tom Gilbert of 2520 27th street pulls the pin. (Staff Photos by C. W. Ratliff and Tyler Curtis.)

Middlecoff Is National Open Golf Champ

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, June 11 — Cary Middlecoff, the young golfing dentist from Memphis, Tenn., won the 49th National Open Golf championship with a 72-hole score of 286 today, while an old familiar jinx rose up to haunt Samuel Jackson Snead.

Snead, hard luck loser in three previous Open tournaments, faded on the 71st hole after a spectacular rally to finish in a second place tie with Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N.C., one stroke back at 287.

Turnesa In Third

In third place came Jim Turnesa, of Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., and Bobby Locke, the South African visitor, with 289's.

Al Brosch of Garden City, N.Y., who led at the halfway point with a sub-par 141, wilted and finished with 293.

Middlecoff, after shooting a 69 over Medinah's 6,981-yard, par 71 layout in the morning, also soared in the hot, humid afternoon for a 75.

The 286 winning score, two over par, was the first time the Open had been won by an over-regulation figure since unknown Sam Parks did it at Oakmont in Pittsburgh in 1935.

Snead was still out on the course when Middlecoff's score was recorded.

Middlecoff Discouraged

"Well, I muffed it," he said dejectedly as he looked on the board to see that Snead, finishing with a rush after trailing six strokes going into the last round, needed only par in for the last three holes.

Snead played 16 in par and then needed only two pars for the tie. One birdie and a par would have given him the championship to lay beside the Masters and PGA crowns he already holds.

But on the 193-yard lake hole 17th, Snead ran into an old and despised chum—his Open bugaboo.

After laying his tee shot on the fringe of the green, he took three costly taps at the ball and there was another championship gone out the window. His first putt was six feet past and then he rimmed the cup with his next try—but the ball stayed out.

Snead's Putter Fails

On the 18th—on which he needed a desperate birdie to tie—Snead was down the middle with his drive, but was wide of the carpet on his six-iron approach. He had to struggle for a par four

More Than 100 Aim For O'Neal's Title

Mrs. J. W. Ross Of El Paso Expected To Provide Outstanding Competition

A tense field, swelled by late entries from El Paso and Amarillo, is standing by waiting for the opening of the Women's West Texas Golf Association's 12th Annual tournament, which will get underway Tuesday at the Lubbock Country club.

While first round play actually won't begin until Thursday, warm up matches will precede the firing and competition is expected to be keen. Some 150 to 200 women golfers will be in Lubbock for the tournament and all will be aiming for the crown worn by Mrs. Sam O'Neal of Odessa, current defending champion.

Mrs. O'Neal has indicated that she will be here for the tournament and she is expected to be in the thick of the fight to defend her title.

Outstanding competition will be provided for her from all over West Texas, with Mrs. J. W. "Betsy" Ross of El Paso one of the leading contenders. Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, first champion of the association, will be another favorite. Mrs. Ida Mae Powell of San Angelo, former city champion, will lead the assault from her city.

Mrs. Gene Mitchell of Plainview has been established as another prospective champion to replace Mrs. O'Neal, Mrs. E. A. Dietz of Fort Worth and a pair of San Angelo golfers, Mrs. Hezzie Carson and Mrs. J. H. Lockaby, all will be watched with interest.

Top golfers from the Meadowbrook Publinx Golf club in Lubbock will be Mrs. C. M. Hitchcock, Mrs. Oscar Taylor, Mrs. Tom Gilbert, Mrs. H. C. Simms, Mrs. D. P. Trammel and Mrs. Bill Bell.

Outstanding Lubbock Country club members will be Mrs. George Soash, club champion, Mrs. John Markham, Mrs. Tom L. Sampson, Mrs. T. E. Patterson and Mrs. Fenner Tubbs.

Mrs. E. B. Harriage, president of the South Plains Women's Golf Association, expects to see many South Plains golfers in the tournament. Definite entries have come from Abilene, Amarillo, Big Spring, Borger, Brownwood, Del Rio, El Paso, Midland, Pampa, Plainview, Brownfield, Sweetwater, Littlefield and Levelland.

Entrance of the El Paso and Amarillo women will add to the colorful field already lined up for the tournament. Mrs. D. D. Smith, representing the El Paso group, stated that the Border City players definitely will be after the championship.

Chick Trout, men's club champion, is busy lining up men to play in the mixed foursome activity slated for Tuesday at 1 p. m. A buffet supper at 7 p. m., will conclude the first day's activity, with first and second places in low net and low gross being announced at that time.

A breakfast will open Wednesday's schedule, with qualifying starting at 9:30 a. m. except for the 18-hole and nine-hole high and low handicap flights, an innovation to the tournament this year. A barbecue and Calcutta Pool conclude Wednesday's activity.

Tournament play will begin Thursday morning at 9, second round matches on Friday and semi-finals on Saturday. Finals in the tourney will take place Saturday.

Social activities during the tournament play will include a bingo party Thursday night, a cocktail party and dinner Friday night and a dance Saturday night. Prizes will be presented Sunday evening at 5 and a cold buffet will conclude the 12th Annual WWTGA tournament.

Mrs. Howard Edminston of Brownwood, president of the association, will preside at the dinner Friday night. Arrangements for the week's program are headed by Mrs. Tubbs, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. W. F. Eisenberg, Mrs. C. L. Dean, Mrs. Guy McAfee and Mrs. O. D. McCoy.

Hubbers Turn Back Blue Sox, 6-1

Chris Haskins Hurls Three-Hit Game In Near Shutout Thriller

ABILENE, June 11 (AP)—Chris Haskins fashioned a beautiful three-hit pitching chore here tonight as the Lubbock Hubbers hit in the clutch to score a 6 to 1 victory over the Abilene Blue Sox.

It was the first victory of the year for the Hubbers over the second place Sox, but it was earned. The visitors collected only seven hits off Jerry Rodriguez, but they made them count. Abilene didn't threaten until the ninth, when they averted a shutout.

For eight innings Haskins had a two-hit shutout, and with the help of three double plays the Sox were laid away in order in six of the innings.

Abilene also executed three double plays to snap up the one hour, 45-minute game. But the Abilene batting attack failed dismally. Jackie Wilcox, released first by Lubbock and then by Lamesa, signed for a look with the Sox today and played centerfield. He singled in the ninth, moved up on a ground play, scored on another for Abilene's lone tally. Previous singles had been limited to Fernandez and Lopez, but they went for nothing.

Lubbock counted in the first when Joe Wisniewski led off with a single. Al Duarte followed with another and Nelson Davis was hit by a pitched ball. That loaded the sacks with none out, and Jim Prince lofted to left after which Wisniewski scored. Bo Dempsey hit into a double play.

Mike Dooley led with a single in the second, stole second, went to third on a bad throw to second by Rodriguez and scored on a double play which retired Buddy McCallum, who had walked, and Jackie Sullivan.

In the fourth, Prince led with a walk, Dempsey singled and Dooley moved them up. McCallum doubled to score them both.

The signals were set to walk Prince intentionally in the eighth, but he reached out and snapped a double to left to score Wisniewski, who had singled and Duarte who had walked for the two runs in the eighth.

Houston Buffs Blank Oklahoma City, 1-0

HOUSTON, June 11 (AP)—Hal Epps, for the second straight night, came through with a line single to the outfield to score a man from second base and give the Houston Buffs a victory over the Oklahoma City Indians in the extra innings. The score was 1-0.

Epps came to bat here tonight in the last of the 13th to break up a tight pitching duel between George Anderman of the Indians and Jack Creel of Houston.

The win ran Houston's win streak to three games, the first time this season the Buffs have won three in a row.

HARLINGEN, June 11. (AP)—Sharpshooters Capt. Mig Brown, Waco, and Mickey Michaelis, jr., Galveston, each banged 299 of 300 targets today to tie for top place in the main event of the skeet shoot.

Their scores were made in the finals of the all-bore bracket.

Miss Nancy Burrus, Dallas, turned in a straight 100 in the women's division. The two and five man team firing events also fell to Dallas contestants.

Clovis Hammers Sox For 9 To 7 Victory

AMARILLO, June 11 (AP)—The Clovis Pioneers jumped off for five runs in the first inning and then went on to garner a 9-7 decision over the Amarillo Gold Sox here tonight.

The New Mexico visitors punched the offerings of starter, Steve Lagomarsino from the start. Jess Jacinto singled and went all the way to third when Rightfielder Dick Gentzkow let the ball go through him. He scored on George Mendoza's single through the box. Then a wild pitch advanced Mendoza and I. B. Palmer, who had also hit safely, and both counted on Jess Rogerson's one base blow that followed a walk to Bob Moniz.

Wiley Moore's single tallied two more and brought in Lefty Bob German to Lagomarsino's rescue. Glen Coats singled, but Moore was held at third and then a double play—one of four for the Sox in the contest—ended the frame.

Amarillo also batted around in their half of the inning, but accounted for only four runs on two hits and four bases on balls given out by Ray Drake. John Waselchuk, who received credit for the win, relieved Drake after two were out and got the first batter to face him to stop the rally.

The Pioneers added two in the second on four hits, a walk and a fielder's choice then single ones in the sixth and seventh. The one in the sixth came as a result of Mendoza's home run over the left field wall. Jerry Folkman homered for the losers in the sixth with the bases empty.

Loboes Take Pampa, 22-2

LAMESA, June 11 (Special) — Lamesa's Loboes exploded in the first inning here tonight for four runs, more than enough to win behind Manager Jay Haney's steady hurling, then went on to run wild against the Pampa Oilers for a 22 to 2 victory.

The game was a rout after the first inning, with the Loboes scoring in every frame except the fourth and sixth. Pampa hurlers, Merlin Hubbard, Homer Matney and Dick Lockwood, dished out 16 bases on balls, committed seven wild pitches, hit one batter and gave up 15 hits, eleven of which were singles.

The Loboes never were retired in order and they ran amok against the near cellar Oilers. A crowd of 1,200 pleased fans watched the slaughter which consummed exactly the score of the game, two hours and twenty-two minutes.

Wilfred Rheingans opened the first with a double, Hank and Eddie Melillo singled to plate one run and another scored when D. C. Miller grounded out. Glenn Selbo and Jim Sinovick walked to load the sacks and Frank Calo doubled home two runs.

Calo was the batting star of the night for the Loboes with five hits in six trips, four of the hits singles.

A doubleheader is on tap for tomorrow with Selbo and Stan Grzywacz hurling for Lamesa against John Martin and Charles Bodine.

Orange High School's McDonald Plans To Enter Texas In Fall

ORANGE, June 11 (AP)—Bill McDonald, star center for the Orange High school football team last season, announced today that he will enter the University of Texas this fall.

McDonald had been the object of the affections of athletic talent scouts from throughout the south and southwest.

MIYAZAKI IS ARRESTED

TOKYO, June 12 (Sunday) (INS)—Kojo Miyazaki, who set the 100 meter free style swimming record in the Los Angeles Olympic games, was arrested today on charges of possessing narcotics. Miyazaki, now 35, has been operating a small hotel and is known to police as a minor gang boss.

Between The Lines by Joe Kelly

Next weekend the Lubbock Gun club is going to hold a trap and skeet shoot with some of the finest prizes and trophies that we've heard of as rewards. But more than the prizes and the trophies, the idea that the club is interested enough to provide first class competition for everyone is important. Any club, no matter what, will suffer unless some one with foresight provides entertainment. And if the entertainment is in the form of competition between members, it makes it that much better.

This time the Lubbock Gun club has come up with some first rate entertainment in the form of competition. There will be awards for various classes of shooters in both trap and skeet for men, there will be awards for women and there will be awards for boys, both 17 and under and 13 and under. Altogether, 61 awards will be made. That's next Saturday and Sunday at the club's trap and skeet fields located on the North Air Base at SPAAF. If you like guns and shooting, and the two go together, you won't want to miss this two-day shoot. There's an opportunity for everyone.

The baseball fan can have his choice of four league races that are about as close as the proverbial fit of a new shoe. The National League race is the closest, but the American, Texas and West Texas-New Mexico races are all just about as tight. As of Friday night, only half a game separated the first two clubs in the National, only four games were between the two top teams in the American, Dallas held a narrow game and a half margin over Shreveport and Albuquerque and Abilene virtually were tied. There wasn't much of a spread between the first and fourth place clubs in any of those leagues either and all the leading clubs had a chance to go up overnight.

It's anybody's guess as to how the races will turn out. No one thought that the Yankees would take the bit in the teeth and go out ahead so far in the American loop. They still might not make it, for it's a long time until September. In the National, any one of four teams have an excellent chance to come in first. It could be the Cards, the Dodgers, the Braves or even the Giants. It's no more certain in the Texas or West Texas-New Mexico circuits. Dallas dropped sharply after getting off to a flying start. Albuquerque started a little more slowly, but is going down rapidly. It's a case of "you pays your money and you takes your choice." And if we were putting out money, we wouldn't give any odds on any club.

The Women's West Texas Golf Association's Women's tournament opens here Tuesday and there should be good galleries to watch the ladies tour the tricky Country club layout. Mrs. Sam O'Neal of Odessa is the defending champion and probably will be made the favorite to repeat. She is one of the better women golfers in the state and she is certain to attract a large following. But there are more than a few fine golfers right here in Lubbock and they will be out to keep the championship in this city. Such golfers as Mrs. T. E. Patterson, Mrs. Fenner Tubbs, Mrs. Hooper Stiles, Mrs. George Soash and others will be a threat.

One thing is certain, when the opening day field has been pared down to the quarter finals and semi final rounds, only the best women golfers will be left. The firing is apt to be hot and heavy, with par taking a beating. We hope that the weather cooperates and sends its usual sunny rays beating down on the course, fanned, of course, by a gentle breeze. Given good weather, the tournament ought to be one of the best held so far. The recent rains ought to make the course better, soaking the fairways and making the greens almost perfect for putting. If you can spare some time during the week, visit the Country club and watch the golf.

Appointment of Frankie Frisch as manager of the Chicago Cubs probably won't mean too much this year. The Chicago team is mired in the cellar, where they were pushed Friday night. Maybe mired is an injustice, but they are, or were, 11½ games off the pace of the Brooklyn Dodgers. And with the four top teams fighting such a close battle, there isn't too much hope for the Cubs. Naturally no one will forget the rousing 1932 pennant finish of the Cubs under Jolly Cholly Grimm. That was the year the Cubs won something like 18 or 19 games in a row at the end of the season to finish with the bunting tucked in their hip pocket. It's improbable that they could do the same this year, but not inconceivable.

At any rate, the National league is richer for having Frisch off the coaching line and back in as manager of a club. He's one of the top players of the past and one of the

Cloverlake Drops Clovis VFW Twice

Lubbock's Cloverlake Dairy softball team won both ends of an exhibition doubleheader at Jumbo Webster field Saturday night over a highly rated Clovis, New Mexico, Veterans of Foreign Wars nine, 5-0 and 4-1.

Cecil "Smoky" Hale hurled a no-hitter in the first affair, setting down the first 16 men to face him. Cloverlake committed no errors in either game. Bill Flippin pitched for the VFW team, and allowed seven hits and five runs. Clovis made four errors.

In the second game, Fred Schultz gave up five hits, three of which he allowed in the last inning. VFW scored their lone run in the last inning also. Clarence Shipman, the Clovis moundsman allowed six hits and his side committed two errors. The game was almost a shutout, with the losers staging their rally in the ninth. Schultz racked up two singles in three times at bat.

The exhibition doubleheader will be returned next Saturday night when Cloverlake travels to Clovis. Tonight's loss was Flippin's first in six starts.

Sunbeamers Cop Twin Bill

BROWNWOOD, June 11. (Special)—Lubbock's Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers softball team upset the Brownwood softball team in a doubleheader here tonight, winning 5-0 in the opening tilt and taking the second 4-3.

Warren "Stringbean" Pope received credit for both victories, hurling a shutout in the opener and relieving G. W. Warden in the second game.

Pope fanned 15 batters in the initial contest and hurled steady ball in the final tilt to cut off any Brownwood rally. Warden had his string of scoreless innings halted in the nightcap, but the games were exhibition only and did not go into the official book.

The Sunbeamers opened up early in the first game, jamming two runs across the plate on successive hits by three men. Don Allen led off with a double and Willis James promptly followed with a two-bagger that scored Allen. Tommy Moorehead singled to plate James and the Sunbeamers had a lead they never gave up.

In the second tilt, James Abbott singled to open the contest and Jimmy Joe Reiger poled a long home run to put the Sunbeamers ahead. But Warden couldn't hold the lead and Brownwood tied it up in the third with a pair of runs.

Brownwood took a 3-2 lead in the fourth, but the Sunbeamers came back to deadlock the count with a single tally in the fifth and won the game in the sixth.

Reiger led off the inning by grounding out, but James pumped a single into the outfield and Moorehead followed with one. James crossed the plate with the winning run on the shortstop's misplay on Warden's grounder.

Westerner Record Good

The past season for the Lubbock Westerner baseball team has been a prosperous one for Fred Taylor's nine.

Not highly regarded by anyone in Lubbock at the start of the season, but given the nod to win the south half of the District 1-AA race with little trouble, the Westerners came through as expected, but then something hoped for but generally unexpected happened—Amarillo was beaten in the district playoff and Wichita Falls fell to Lubbock in the bi-district series to open the door to the first Texas Interscholastic league baseball championship in Austin.

Team Record Good

Going into the state finals, Lubbock had won 19 games while dropping only four, and the 2-0 loss to Austin's Maroons gave the team a season's record of 19 victories and five defeats, one of the better marks of teams in Texas. No other team participating in the state tourney had played as many games as the Hub City school.

Over the season the local squad scored 209 runs, slightly less than nine per game, and the opposition has scored 107 times, slightly better than 4.5 runs in each tilt.

Of the games lost, Amarillo handed the Westerners a 7-3 defeat for the widest margin in a game lost. In the game won by the widest margin, Lubbock defeated Brownfield, 19-3, in the second district contest. Two games were lost by one run, and the other two were lost by two runs.

Leading the hitting for Lubbock this year was Second Baseman Charles Galey, in his last year with the Westerner nine. In 69 times at bat he hit safely 30 times for a .435 average. The hits included four home runs. His play in the field was outstanding, and he combined with Shortstop Bobby Brown for one of the best double play combinations in the state in schoolboy circles. In the nine district games Galey's batting average was .619, 13 hits in 21 trips to the plate.

Brown Runner-Up

Brown was runner-up to Galey in hitting, having a .382 average. In the early part of the season Brown suffered an ankle injury which kept him out of the line-up but did not seem to bother his hitting or fielding upon return to the fold. In district games Brown batted .529.

Other noticeable figures during the season were Powell Hinson's .444 batting average in district play; Catcher Morris Turner's .400 in district and .321 the full route; Jimmp Sexton's .313 in district; and Pitcher Jimmy Hamilton's .300 batting average in district.

CURTIS, DEMCHECK IN SEMI-FINAL

Balk Estes And Bob Cummings Meet In Main Go Wednesday

The referee will be in for a busy night Wednesday when Balk Estes and Bob Cummings tangle in the main event at Sled Allen's emporium of grunt and groan.

Grunt and groan, to the uninitiated, is wrestling and Estes and Cummings allegedly like each other about as much as the average person likes poison ivy or rattlesnakes. They will meet in a two out of three falls main event with a one hour time limit attached.

The semi-final brings together Johnny Demcheck of Toronto, Canada, and George Curtis of Vicksburg, Miss. Curtis is an old campaigner in Lubbock, while Demcheck demonstrated that he knew his way around in the ring with his work last week.

Brady, Bruckman Meet

In the preliminary event, one fall or 20 minutes, Art Brady of Huntington Park, Calif., meets George Bruckman of Washington, D. C.

Last week changed Cummings' outlook on Estes. He previously had refused to meet the rough and ready wrestler from Elk City, Okla., but Estes virtually forced him into a match. After he had challenged Cummings on the public address system, he passed the ring, grabbed a foot and pulled Cummings out of the ring.

Before the referee could separate them and get Cummings back in the ring, Estes had landed several solid blows. As a result, George Dusette easily won the first fall. But Cummings returned to win the match and eagerly signed to meet Estes.

Demcheck barely lost his fall to Estes last week and it took an injury to accomplish the deed. Until the time he was put out of action for the rest of the night, Demcheck had had the upper-hand. He and Curtis should make a good match.

Brady is a veteran of the Bataan death march in the Philippines, but Bruckman, a Navy veteran, says that he hasn't seen an Army man yet that could hold his own against a Navy vet.

Matches start at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday and tickets will be on sale at Wylie's Drug store from 9 a. m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Nance, shown here putting at Meadowbrook Publinx Golf club, where she is a member, will be one of the contenders in the tourney here Thursday through Sunday.

Longhorns Will Meet Oklahoma Aggie Nine

AUSTIN, June 11. (AP)—Two college teams with fine won-lost records fight it out for the Region C National Collegiate Athletic association baseball title here this week.

They are the Texas Longhorns with a won-lost record of 18 to 7 and the Oklahoma A. and M. Cowpokes with a more impressive record of winning 22 and losing 4.

The Longhorns faced more professional teams in their early-season play.

Toby Green's Oklahoma A&M nine qualified for the meet by defeating Kansas university, two games out of three. The Aggies, champions of the Missouri Valley, are representing NCAA District 5 for a second straight year.

Bibb Falk's Longhorns are back in the NCAA playoff after passing up a bid last year to represent District 6. The Longhorns advanced to the finals of the western regional in 1947 in California, the eventual national champion.

The 1949 Region C series will open Thursday afternoon at Clark field, where the Longhorns have won 47 of their last 48 appearances against collegiate competition. The only school to defeat Texas on its home field during the past three seasons was Ohio State, which salvaged the final game of this year's three-game series.

Black Hubbers Will Play Host To Dallas Red Sox Nine Today

Lubbock's Black Hubbers play host to the Dallas Red Sox this afternoon at 3:30 at Rosenthal field in the first of a two-game series between the two clubs here.

Either John Childress or J. T. Hutchinson will go to the mound for the Black Hubbers, who have now won five out of their last six games. Manager James Sedberry of the locals did not know who Dallas would use.

Tomorrow night at 8:15 the same two clubs meet again at Rosenthal field.

Matt Palacio Qualifies For Final Round In Wichita Golf

WICHITA, Kan., June 11 (INS)—Matt Palacio of Wichita qualified for the final round of the Kansas Men's Amateur Golf championships today by eliminating Al Littleton, defending champion from Wichita, 8 and 6.

Palacio will meet George Lee of Topeka in tomorrow's finals for the coveted Kansas Men's Championship crown. In a semi-final match Lee advanced to the finals by defeating Bill Kuhl of Wichita, one-up.

Four Oil Belt Games Set Today

Four games are scheduled today in the Oil Belt league, but the outcome of the games is not expected to have any effect on the present leaders in the league. All games start at 3 p.m.

Sundown will take to the road to tangle with the potent Denver City team which has not lost a game since dropping the opener to Sundown, 9-7, the first day of the season.

Second place Seagraves will play at home and face Slaton again, the team that handed them a licking on the first day of the campaign. Even if Denver City lost and Seagraves won, Denver City would retain its hold on first place in the standings.

Tahoka Meets Post

Tahoka will play at Post, a revision of the first schedule, in order to give more games at Post. This change and several more grew out of a meeting in Brownfield the past week. Tahoka is runner-up to Brownfield for the cellar position, but Brownfield seems capable of holding on to the spot it has fallen heir to since the second week of the race. On that day all the previous losers found the victory column and left Brownfield in the bottom spot.

Going into today's games, Brownfield will be out for its first victory in twelve starts against Levelland at Brownfield. Levelland is in the number three spot in the league, half a game ahead of Post and one game ahead of Sundown.

Rio Grande Valley Baseball League Sets Meeting Monday

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 11. (U.P.) A meeting of the Rio Grande baseball league was slated here Monday to re-arrange the loop's playing schedule.

The confab was called after Robstown replaced Donna in the league.

Fowler's Big Bat Tops With .429

Sunbeamer Hitting, Pitching Set Pace

Lubbock's Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers softball team seems to be picking up in 1949 where the 1948 team left off.

The Sunbeamers June 4 finished the first half of the Texas Softball League season in first place, their customary standing. This year, however, they were representing only half of the loop, for the league is in two divisions and the Sunbeamers could claim mastery over only the western division.

Win 11 Of 12 Games

But their record seemed to be no different than it was in 1948. They had played 12 games and had won 11 of them. Moreover, seven of their victories had been by shutouts. It sends them into the second half play well on the way toward their second straight TSL title.

G. W. Warden, the Texas Tech student, leads the way on the mound with six victories and no defeats. Warden has piled up three shutout victories, two of which were no-hit, no-run games. He has allowed only 16 hits in his six victories and only seven runs, while striking out 45 men.

Fowler Tops Hitters

Warren "Stringbean" Pope, his partner on the mound, has suffered only one loss, that by Den Denham of Crane, and has won five games. Four of his victories were by the whitewash route and one of them was a no-hit, no-run game.

Pope has given up 25 hits and 10 runs in six games and has piled up a total of 83 strikeouts.

Wally Fowler, Sunbeamer first baseman, tops the hitters on the team with a gaudy .429 average. He has garnered 12 hits in 28 plate appearances and has scored seven runs. Fowler has a pair of doubles, three triples to top the club and lacks only a home run to have the cycle.

Roy Butler and Tommy Moorehead also are over the .300 mark, Butler batting .334 and Moorehead slamming the ball at .307. All three marks are well above the team average of .220.

Cloverlake Nine Leads City Loop

Cloverlake Dairy, The Avalanche-Journal and Barber college softball teams are heading their respective leagues in the leagues sponsored by the Recreation Department of Lubbock.

Cloverlake has won three games without loss to top the Major League standings. Avalanche-Journal has won six and lost one to head the Commercial League. And Barber college has won three without defeat to pace the City League standings.

This week's schedule in the Commercial loop brings together Calvary Baptist and Exchange Club and Post Office vs. American Legion Monday night. Tuesday night DeMolays face Avalanche-Journal and First Methodist plays First Baptist. Wednesday night Lubbock Auto play American Legion and Exchange Club meets Avalanche-Journal.

Post Office plays First Baptist and Calvary Baptist meets Avalanche-Journal Thursday night, while Friday night's games bring together DeMolays and First Methodist and Lubbock Auto against First Baptist.

Legion Squads To Meet On Monday

Squad A and Squad B will get the American Legion Junior League schedule underway Monday night at Chapman Field, playing the first game in the Junior League schedule at 6 p. m.

Joe Holmes, Legion athletic director, announced that complete schedules will be made up during the week. For the present, the first week's schedule is as follows:

Tuesday, Squad C vs. Squad D; Wednesday, Squad E vs. Squad F; Thursday, Squad B vs. Squad C; and Friday, Squad F vs. Squad A.

Teams in the league are senior Junior League players, ranging in age from 14 through 17 years old. They will play all their games at Chapman Field, beginning at 6 p. m.

France and Italy hope that their newly agreed-upon Customs Union will bring lower prices, higher standards of living and full employment.

Brooklyn Wins Sixth Straight With 11-3 Victory Over Cincy

Cardinals Cop 6-2 Triumph Over Phils

BROOKLYN, June 11. (AP)—Brooklyn mauled three left hand pitchers today and ran their winning streak to six straight in a 11-3 triumph over Cincinnati.

Roy Campanella hit two home runs and Pee Wee Reese cashed in another.

The victory, coupled with Boston's defeat by the Chicago Cubs, widened the Dodgers first place lead to a game and a half.

Don Newcombe, giant negro righthander, held the Reds to five hits for his third victory without a defeat. He fanned nine and walked two. Two of the Reds' runs resulted from homers by Jimmy Bloodworth and pinch-hitter Danny Litwhiler.

The Dodgers knocked Raffenberger out in the sixth adding two more tallies. They chased Kent Peterson with four more in the seventh.

Warm Up Shoot Is Held At Club

Lubbock Gun club members and friends warmed up for the big shoot coming up a week from today with both skeet and trap practice yesterday afternoon at the club's fields at SPAAF.

Clyde Tatum, usually a top contender, turned in the best score of the afternoon, knocking off 71 of 75 birds. Cecil French was a close third with 69 out of 75, while Hal Langford took over second place with a fine 70 out of 75.

Several good scores were turned in on the 25 bird shoot, with Julian Fairly getting 23 out of 25, Clint Keith knocking off 24 of 25 and Dr. C. C. Mansell hitting 20 out of 25 with a .410 and 24 of 25 with a 12 gauge shotgun.

John Plugh, Harold Blank and M. T. Darden were visitors at the club and shot for the first time.

In trap, Langford hit 23 out of 25 birds the first time he ever tried his hand at trap shooting. Si Gooden was up with 44 out of 50 and Rowland Ponce had 21 out of 25. Clint Keith and Dr. Mansell each had 20 out of 25.

Next week the Gun club will have a two-day shoot, during which time numerous trophies and merchandise prizes will be awarded for the best scores in both trap and skeet.

NEW YORK GIANTS TAKE 4-3 WIN OVER PITTSBURGH

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP)—Bobby Thomson's inside-the-park home run with one aboard climaxed a four-run eighth inning and gave the New York Giants a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today. The victory enabled the Giants to snap a five-game losing streak.

Lamesa Legion Plays O'Donnell

LAMESA, June 11 (Special)—Lamesa's American Legion Junior baseball team, unbeaten in three starts, will meet the O'Donnell Juniors Sunday afternoon at 3 in a practice tilt at O'Donnell.

The local Legion nine has defeated Hobbs 14 to 5, Lubbock High school 6 to 4 and O'Donnell 7 to 2. The defeat of O'Donnell came Friday afternoon at Pope Field.

King Will Start

Joe Spikes, Lamesa manager, said that he would start Lefthander Royce King on the mound, opposing Righthander Tommy Hickman of O'Donnell. Bill Hart also will see action for Lamesa.

Lamesa, according to District Director Joe Shell of Midland, is in District 6. Other members include Odessa, Midland, Stanton, Big Spring (two teams), Forsan, Coahoma, McCamey, Fort Stockton and others. A schedule meeting will be held soon.

Certified Players

Certified to play for Lamesa have been Bobby Hawkins, Jesse Leathers, King, Hart, pitchers; Delbert Dickenson, Roy Taylor, Jerry Brown, Lenual Kidd and Jerry Howell, outfielders; Frank Loop, Pat O'Neil, Lowry Martin, Jerry Millsapps, John Pruitt and Carlos Berry, infielders; Jim Bob Boothe, catcher. Kidd and Hawkins also will serve as utility men.

Tyler Trojans Bought By Two Businessmen

TYLER, June 11 (AP)—Two young Tyler businessmen today became the new owners of the Tyler Trojans in Class C East Texas league.

Hal E. Felker, oil man, and James C. Turner, consultant for Sonotone Corp., now head the Tyler Baseball association, which fields the club.

They completed a transaction today with former owner Harry Faulkner, whereby they assumed the obligations of the club in exchange for its assets; a paid up lease of the local ball park for 10 years; players contracts; other physical properties; and a continued working agreement with the Cincinnati Reds.

Felker and Turner entered into the baseball business for their first time. They are operating the club as equal partners.

They promised immediate action to put the club on a winning basis and get the Trojans into the top division of the league before play-offs start.

The club now rests in seventh place in the league.

Odessa Aces Meet In Finals

BROWNWOOD, June 11 (AP)—A couple of Odessa blond bombers, Don Cherry and Bobby French, will play for the championship of the West Texas Golf tournament tomorrow.

Cherry, 25, beat Bill Smith, Midland, 5-3, and French dumped Spud Cason of Fort Worth 5-4 in the semifinals today.

This is the third try for the WTGA title for Cherry. The former Wichita Falls ace was runner-up the last two years.

Maxwell In Consolation

Bill Maxwell, 1948 WTGA winner, and Jack Williams, Plainview, San Angelo title winner over Cherry two weeks ago, will play an 18-hole consolation final tomorrow.

In quarterfinal play earlier today:

French of Odessa beat Bobby Watson of Wichita Falls, 5 and 4. Spud Cason of Fort Worth edged Bobby Malone of Fort Worth, 1 up.

In the lower bracket Don Cherry of Odessa swamped Medalist T. A. Avarello of Fort Worth 5 and 4. Bill Smith of Midland eliminated Carl Vandervoort of Fort Worth 1 up.

Three Aces Recorded

Play then moved into the semifinals. The finals will be held tomorrow.

The tournament saw a hole-in-one for the third day in a row. It was made by H. G. Agnew, Ballinger left-hander, on the No. 4, Par 3, 137-yard hole in the senior flight.

Bob Barber of San Angelo aced the 170-yard No. 2 hole in qualifying Thursday. Bill Smith of Eastland gave the same sort of performance on No. 8, a 129-yard hole, yesterday.

Veterans said they remembered no other holes-in-one in 21 year of WTGA tournaments.

ATKINSON OPENS UP IN STRETCH

Capot Runs Away From Favored Ponder To Win Belmont Stakes

BELMONT PARK, N. Y., June 11 (INS) — Capot, the Preakness winner, came flowing out of the pack at the eighth-pole today to win the 1½ mile Belmont Stakes in a stodgy but artful 2:30 1/5.

Less than a length back in second place came the heavily favored and belatedly aroused Ponder, king of the Kentucky Derby, who just missed out in one of those last-jump finishes that fills the eye and hardens the arteries before their time.

As they crossed the line, Capot, the Greentree-Whitney pride, was in front by three-quarters. A moment later, he was behind by a half. It was that close.

The winner's purse was $60,900. The complete payoff was $91,500.

Palestinian, chronic and persistent "defeatist" in this high trinity of three-year-old stake runners, was only a half-length back of Ponder at the end to produce one of the great climaxes of Belmont history. Nothing else from the eight-horse field was close. Nothing else figured to be.

Second 'Move' Surprise

Sun Bahram was some 10 lengths back in fourth place, but was only for the chart-callers.

The eyes and hearts of the 40,421 crowd were transfixed upon the big three as Jocky Ted Atkinson brought Capot up on the inside with an adroit and surprising second "move," a classic of stretch running that will live as long as the race itself.

For though it was Capot (the rough equivalent French for jackpot, incidentally) they cheered as the winner, it was Atkinson's brilliance that won it for him.

He tricked all the others with Capot's slow pace, played them for patsies and wound up maneuvering home to the pay-off with a colt that presumably couldn't go 12 furlongs without a motorcycle escort.

To show how deeply ingrained this notion had become, the winner paid a handsome $13.20, $4.90 and $2.80 across the board in a field of eight horses, some of whom might have looked better between the shafts.

Ponder, the come-from-behinder, was backed away down around 4-5, and wound up paying $2.60 and 2.10 for place and show, meanwhile burning up a "bundle" of win-bets by those who deemed highly the devil-red of the Calumets and Ben Jones. Palestinian, the Broadway special, was a short $2.40 for third.

Actually it was a personal triumph for Atkinson and the strategy of trainer Johnny Gaver—a triumph over those who were to sit smugly back and take too much for granted. They thought that all they had to do was wait for the stretch.

Unfortunately, for them, Capot and Atkinson were waiting for the stretch, too, even while making the pace most of the way. That pace, as these intermediate times show, had the thing slowed down to the progress of a cortege:

Leach Named As Top Player

AUSTIN, June 11 (AP) — By unanimous vote, Robert Leach of Denison was named outstanding player of the 1949 State High School Baseball tourney.

The championship Bowie of El Paso team placed six men on the All-Tournament team announced today.

Leach is a 16-year-old freshman lefthander. He and Ruben Porras of Bowie, also a pitcher, were the only unanimous choices for the first team. Each registered two victories in the tournament.

First baseman T. R. Taylor of Waco, pitcher Jackie Brinkley of Austin, outfielder Luther Knebel of Austin and shortstop Bobby Brown of Lubbock missed unanimous selection by a single vote. The team was chosen through a poll of sportswriters and professional baseball scouts.

Also making the team were catchers Ramon Camarillo, Bowie, and Teddy Tate, Austin; second baseman Dick McCoy, Austin; third baseman Jose Gelerza, Bowie; utility man, Andy Morales, Bowie; and outfielder Ernesto Guzman, Bowie, and Fernando Gomez, Bowie.

Outfielder Joe Buenrostro, Waco, pitcher, Joe Mac Gresham, Waco, and catcher Wendel Lackey, Stephenville, led the balloting for the second team. Others selected were Joe Miles, Austin, first base; Charley Galey, Lubbock, second base; Danny Burger, Austin, third base; Jim Dishman, Beaumont, shortstop; Gahlen Dinkle, Marshall, utility; Travis Eckert, Austin, outfield; Jose Corona, Bowie, outfield, Richard Todar, Waco, catcher; Hollis Morton, Marshall, pitcher and Riley Verdine, Austin, pitcher.

Joe Louis May Spar With Ezzard Charles

KANKAKEE, Ill., June 11 (INS)—Joe Louis, retired heavyweight champ turned promoter, said today he wants to box one or two rounds with Ezzard Charles at the Cincinnati boxer's fight camp near Kankakee next week.

The Brown Bomber explained: "I surely would get a line on Charles if I swapped punches with him. It would give me a true line on his ability."

Jersey Joe Walcott's manager, Felix Bocchicchio, nixed the thought of Louis sparring with his title contender, however. He said:

Walcott's manager added: "Louis has been out of competition for a year, and I'm afraid Walcott might let go with his deadly left hook, or right cross, and drop Louis . . .

Yanks Blast Feller, Zoldak To Whip Cleveland Indians, 14-7

Tigers Blow Lead To Give Nats Win

CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP) — The New York Yankees blasted Bob Feller and Sam Zoldak, his successor, for nine runs in the first inning, and went on to defeat the Cleveland Indians today, 12-7.

A ladies day crowd of 61,523, of which 31,308 were paid admissions, saw 13 Yankees go to bat in the first inning. They rocked Rapid Robert for five hits before he retired in favor of Zoldak. It was the second straight for the Yanks over the Indians, after a four-game losing streak.

Feller pitched to eight batters and retired one. The most damaging blow was a bases-loaded double by Yogi Berra.

Allie Reynolds, who had not started since Memorial Day, could not go the distance. Joe Page replaced him and stifled the threat, although the Indians picked up two more runs on a hit batsman and an infield out.

Joe Gordon smashed his ninth homer of the season. It was Feller's sixth loss against one victory.

SENATORS RALLY TO DROP DETROIT TIGERS, 9 TO 8

DETROIT, June 11 (INS) — The Detroit Tigers blew a 7-run lead today and lost to Washington 9 to 8 in a battle of home runs before 20,887 fans in Briggs Stadium.

Nine pitchers trudged to and from the mound in the contest, with Reliefer Dizzy Trout being charged with the defeat and Dick Welteroth gaining credit for the victory.

Six homers were blasted, four by the Senators. Clyde Vollmer hit two for the Nats and Gil Coan and Ed Stewart one each. Don Kolloway and Hoot Evers poled one each for the Bengals.

Walt Masterson started for Washington but was shelled from the hill in the third. His relief man, Joe Haynes, was batted out in the fifth when the Tigers had run up an 8 to 1 lead.

Tiger starter Fred Hutchinson, who gave up only two hits in the first five innings, suddenly lost control of things in the sixth and was whacked for three circuit blows, good for five runs. He was removed with none out.

Trout got his lumps in the next inning when the Senators added three more runs. The deciding tally coming on a double steal by Sherry Robertson, who scored, and Ed Robinson, who swiped second.

TSL Officials Discuss League Unification

SAN ANGELO, June 11 (AP) — Officials of the Texas Softball League and the Inter-City Softball League meet tomorrow in Austin.

They will discuss possible coordination of rules and a general program for the 1950 season.

The San Angelo Standard Times said there was a possibility that the two organizations — largest softball circuits in the state — would arrange a playoff at the end of the current season. It said incorporation under one banner in 1950 is another possibility.

Ralph Bumpass of Lubbock, Sam Baize of Stamford, Fred Russ of Brownwood and Hugh Welch and Marcus Welch of San Angelo will represent the Texas Softball League.

The United States has about 40,000 new car dealers.

That was in 1934 at St. Louis, when the Cardinals possessed such rousing, redblooded players as Dizzy and Daffy Dean, Pepper Martin and a score of others. That was the famed "Gas House Gang" that won the pennant on the last day of the season and then trimmed the Detroit Tigers in an uproarious World Series. Gassers Blast Dukes Behind Venable, 7-2

BORGER, June 11 (AP)—The Borger Gassers jumped on the West Texas-New Mexico league leaders here tonight, to hand them a 7-2 pasting behind the three hit pitching of Jack Venable.

Venable struck out sixteen men. Every Duke fell victim to the right hander, except Manager Martin and Dick Dawson.

There were no circuit blows, doubles bringing the only extra base blows for the night.

Manager Hershal Martin and company had several discussions during the contest, but the top came off in the sixth inning. Clyde Bell, Gassers' left fielder was on second base, and Gordon Nell pounded out a long fly ball to deep center field.

Attyd misjudged the ball, and let it get behind him. Nell rounded first and attempted to stretch the hit into a double, getting thrown out at second base. Bell in the meantime had scored from second on the play. Martin thinking that Nell had been thrown out before the run crossed the plate, protested the remainder of the game when Bell was awarded the run on the discussion.

Jack Venable was in trouble in the sixth inning, with the bags jammed with Duke runners, but struck out one, and two flew out to retire the side.

Again in the seventh, Venable had trouble in finding the plate and walked four straight to bring in the Duke's second run of the contest.

Bracketed with the unhappy West Virginian in the runner-up slot—just one club swing from golf's most coveted prize—was big, 230-pound Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N.C., a dejected man himself.

Heafner, who battled Middlecoff down the stretch in a two-man duel watched by most of the record crowd of 14,000, blew a six-foot putt on the final green that would have given him a tie.

Turnesa, six strokes back going into the final day's 365 holes, fired rounds of 70-72 to threaten right up to the end. Locke bracketed 73 and 71. Following them at 290 were O'Neal (Buck) White, the leathery free-lance pro from Greenwood, Miss., and Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., a dark horse, who had 290's.

Eagles Lead Team Offensive; Indians, Individual

Dallas And Oklahoma City Get Monopoly On Texas Averages

DALLAS, June 11 (AP) — The Dallas Eagles and Oklahoma City Indians practically monopolized the Texas League's offensive statistics today although the Indians were in fifth place, several games behind the pace-setting Eagles.

The Eagles, who have led in almost every team offensive department as well as the league standings since the season opened, dominated the team figures, but had to share the individual honors with the heavy-swinging Indians, according to official averages through June 8.

Cats Steal Most

Dallas' .296 batting average was 16 points ahead of the Indians and the Eagles also led in RBI's with 350, home runs with 56, doubles with 19, hits with 576 and runs with 372. Oklahoma City led in triples with 22 and Fort Worth in stolen bases with 58.

Indian and Eagle swatters divided the top five individual batting places, Herb Conyers, Ransom Jackson and Grant Dunlap of the Indians ranking 1-2-5 and Ben Guintini and Bill Serena rating a tie for second and fourth spot, respectively.

Serena Drops Slightly

Conyers jumped from third a week ago to first with a .367 average, an increase of 19 points. Jackson surged up from 12th to second with a .348 mark; Guintini from seventh to tie Jackson at .348; Serena dropped from second to fourth at .346; and Dunlap from first to fifth at .344.

Aside from stolen bases and a tie for the lead in runs scored, all the other individual leaders were either Eagles or Indians.

Tom Upton of Beaumont led in stolen bases with 16, while Johnny Lane of Tulsa shared the runs lead with Serena at 48.

Two Perfect Marks

Jerry Witte, Dallas, led in home runs with 14 and RBI's with 56; Jackson in triples with five; Conyers tied Buck Frierson of Dallas in doubles with 18, and in hits with 72.

Among the pitchers, Roy Sanner of Dallas and Hank Wyse of Shreveport had each won five games without a loss, while Dave Jolly of Tulsa and Joe Landrum of Fort Worth had won the most games, seven each. Jolly had dropped three contests, Landrum five.

Clarence Iott of Dallas led in strikeouts with 66 and also had issued the most free passes to first —60.

Jolly had pitched the most complete games, nine, while Landrum had worked the most innings, 99.

Batting Averages For Lubbock Hubbers

(Club batting and club fielding averages are for games through June 1, except Lubbock at Borger May 16 and 17 and Amarillo at Borger June 5 and 6. These averages are official as released by Troy Kegans of Abilene, official league statistician. Hubber individual batting averages are through games of June 17 as compiled by The Avalanche-Journal sports department).

Cerdan, Lamotta In Title Bout Wednesday

DETROIT, June 11 (INS)—Marcel Cerdan, preparing to defend his world's middleweight championship against the challenger of Jake LaMotta next Wednesday night in Briggs stadium, expressed confidence today that he will defeat the Bronx bull.

Cerdan, like LaMotta, is already on edge for the fight. Today's boxing drills and another sparring session Sunday will terminate the gymnasium work of both fighters.

Asked whether he felt he could beat LaMotta when they meet for the crown next week, Cerdan's expression became one of pained surprise. He answered curtly:

"Qui!"

Then back went the French-speaking titleholder from Casablanca to his gym chores.

New Canadian Wells May Rival World's Major Oil Discoveries

(By The Associated Press)

CALGARY, June 11.—Canada's newly discovered western oil fields are spouting black gold at a rate that may make the discoveries one of the world's major sources of oil.

North American oil companies are spending vast sums there—about $100 million this year—and are planning larger programs later to develop this strike.

They think it worth the risk, because in a little more than two years fields have been established with estimated reserves of 500 million barrels. Others are in a promising stage, and it seems fair to say that exploration has just started.

Extensive Reserves Seen

Joseph E. Pogue, vice president of the Chase National Bank of New York, who specializes in petroleum economics, said recently "it requires no great stretch of the imagination" to picture Canada locating five to 10 billion barrels of oil. Others predict 20 billion barrels.

This compares with United States discoveries to date of 60 billion barrels.

Where is this new oil country? Extend Montana, North Dakota and western Minnesota northward, and there it is. It is part of the same continental interior plain in which lie the oil fields of the Gulf Coast, Oklahoma, Kansas, Illinois, Wyoming and Montana. And it gets its oil from the same beginnings, the old seas and sea life which millions of years ago flowed from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic.

Action Centers At Edmonton

The Canadian provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba and the MacKenzie river basin of Canada's northwest territories extend to the Arctic ocean, 1,500 miles away.

They cover about 1 million square miles. Half of it, or about twice the area of Texas, is possible oil land.

Just now most activity is in the Alberta wheatlands with the hot spot at Edmonton, some 300 miles north of the Montana border. There you'll find a city of 130,000 people virtually ringed with oil. And for all anybody knows, they are sitting on it. Twenty-seven months ago, few even knew what crude oil looked like, and that's the story of Leduc.

In February, 1947, Imperial Oil Ltd., Canadian subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. (N.J.), brought in a 1,000-barrel-a-day well at Leduc, 17 miles southwest of Edmonton.

300 Wells Drilled

That changed nearly all thinking regarding Alberta oil. For one thing, the well was carried deeper than the point at which some others had been abandoned as dry. More important, it was in a formation similar to West Texas and proved that the oil conditions of the United States extended north into Canada.

A year later Woodbend came in to the north of Leduc. It is either an extension of Leduc or a new field. Then in late 1948 came Redwater, 30 miles north of Edmonton.

Today Leduc - Woodbend has more than 200 wells with an estimated reserve of 200 million barrels, and Redwater has reserves estimated at 300 million barrels.

This year a sensational new well has been brought in at Golden Spike, four and a half miles west of Woodbend, with an oil-bearing limestone 545 feet thick, compared to Leduc's 38 feet and Redwater's 150. Other wells are being drilled to determine the extent of this field, and until that is done it won't be known whether Golden Spike is just a sensational well or whether it is a sensational field.

Another promising well, which may establish a major field, has been drilled at Stettler, 112 miles southeast of Edmonton. Other wells give varying promises.

So far the producing discoveries are in what are known as the D2 and D3 zones of Devonian limetone, at depths varying from around 3,000 feet to around 5,000 feet.

Present production is held down to get the greatest ultimate recovery of oil according to modern conservation methods. By the end of the year production will be taking care of virtually all the 65,000-barrel-a-day needs of the three prairie provinces.

Tardy Wife Causes Mate Bitter Agony

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 11 (AP)—Radio patrolmen found James Christie, 26, sitting angrily in his car last night with his hand bleeding and his windshield smashed.

Christie said it was all right, police reported—he had just been waiting for his wife and punched the windshield in anger because she was late again.

Doctors at Elizabeth General hospital took eight stitches to close the wound.

Disabled American Veterans Group Formed At Levelland

LEVELLAND, June 11 (Special)—Organization of the Levelland chapter of Disabled American Veterans was completed and officers were elected at a Friday night meeting in the courthouse here.

C. T. Lee was named commander of the post which was named for John and Wilbur Lee Gravitt, sons of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Gravitt. Both men were killed in World War II.

Other officers named were Walter Magers, senior vice commander; Terry Caddell, junior vice commander; Ted Darwin, adjutant and treasurer; Harold McCann, officer of the day; William T. Bridges, sergeant-at-arms; James A. Pince, service officer; Harold Clingan, sr., judge advocate.

The officers were installed by Robert O. Pugh of the Lubbock chapter.

Anton Boy To Take Part In Contests

ANTON, June 11 (Special)—Paul Dean Friemel, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Friemel, route 2, Anton, is leaving Sunday for College Station, where he will compete in the state 4-H and FFA contests.

He and Winford Caswell of Smyer will represent this district in the state contests in tractor maintenance. Assistant County Agent James A. Foy of Levelland will accompany the boys to College Station.

The Anton Lions club contributed $25 toward young Friemel's expenses to the state contests. Should he win at A. & M., he will get a free trip to the national contests at Chicago.

Young Friemel has been "practically raised on a tractor," and helps his father in regular farming chores, driving the tractor most of the time. He is a student at Anton High.

Bond Election At Sundown Sought

SUNDOWN, June 11 (Special)—Petitions are being circulated in Sundown calling for a $430,000 bond election for water, sewer, gas and paving facilities for this bustling Hockley county oil town.

A meeting of the city commission has been called for Monday night to consider calling an election, Mayor Lester Dudley said today.

The proposal calls for $180,000 in bonds for a water system, $100,000 for a sewer system, $100,000 for a gas system and $50,000 for street paving. The water, sewer and gas bonds would be revenue-bearing and the street paving bonds would be tax obligations.

Gasoline Plant Nearby

The Lubbock engineering firm of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper has been conducting a survey and doing engineering work on the project.

Sundown, center of the Slaughter field, was incorporated in September, 1947, and now has a population estimated at 2,500. The engineering firm estimates that 600 meters will be required to service the town.

The Slaughter gasoline plant, recently opened by Stanolind Oil & Gas company and seven other oil companies, is located four and one-half miles west of here and most of its workers have moved to Sundown.

Sundown is now served by private water and gas systems, but the bond proposal calls for "purchase and improvement of the present systems or construction of new systems."

Levelland's city attorney, J. A. Ellis, is assisting Sundown's commission with legal work in connection with drawing up the election proposal. Other members of the commission are: Geo. D. Denton and Jack A. Williams. E. A. Edwards is city clerk.

Tomorrow, Droney will receive his bachelor of science degree at commencement exercises.

Last night his wife gave birth to their first child.

Today, as he sat in his apartment, the building was struck by lightning, but he was unhurt and there was little damage.

Said Droney: "This has been quite a weekend."

REA Head Backs Plan To Grant Loans For Rural Phone Service

By CHARLES HABLET
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Claude R. Wickard, head of the Rural Electrification administration, today supported legislation to permit loans for rural telephone service under the REA act.

Farm telephone conditions are inadequate and deplorable, he told the Senate Agriculture committee.

The legislation would permit the government to lend money over a 35-year period at about two per cent interest to groups or companies for installing rural telephones and refinancing existing indebtedness of rural companies. Loan priorities would go to existing systems.

Service Claimed Necessity

"Looking at it from every angle, no group of people needs telephone service as much as farmers," Wickard said. "It is far more than a convenience. It is an absolute necessity."

More than half of the farmers and 3,380,000 farms have no telephones, Wickard said.

"There is unmistakable evidence," he said, "that the A.T.&T. and the large independents are not going into typical farm territories where a high financial return is not in prospect.

"On the other hand, the small independents and mutual companies simply cannot get adequate financing today to enable them to take care of these territories."

Senator Hill (D-Ala.), one of the sponsors of the legislation, said opposition to the bill, comes principally from two sources—the Bell Telephone company which he said had a "monopolistic control" in telephone communication and manufacture of equipment, and "from some who claim to speak for independent companies."

X-RAYS OF SPINE FOUND CAUSE OF TROUBLE

This case came to the STEPHENS CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC and had X-Ray pictures of his spine. The X-Ray pictures showed the cause of all his troubles. The Neurocalometer (nerve test) revealed the amount of nerve pressure in his spine.

RESULTS FROM SPECIFIC CHIROPRACTIC

After a course of specific chiropractic service the following letter will describe his results in his own words: "I went to Dr. Brooke F. Stephens' Clinic on Jan. 5, 1945. I had suffered with pins and needles sticking in my arms and legs. Dr. Stephens gave one adjustment; I began improving. I have gained about 25 pounds and I'm not bothered any more with the pins and needles, and don't often have any headaches. I still go to him once a week for a check-up." (Name on Request).

'MALICIOUS ACCUSATION' CHARGED

Apology Demanded Of FBI Chief For Evidence Used In Spy Trial

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards, demanded tonight that J. Edgar Hoover apologize to Mrs. Condon because her name was mentioned in an FBI "data slip" produced at the Judith Coplon espionage trial.

The man with whose name Mrs. Condon was mentioned was identified, meanwhile, as a recent suicide.

He was Norton E. Kent, 48-year-old Harvard graduate and former government employe. According to the FBI report, he tried last year to contact a Bulgarian suspected of being an agent for the Russian intelligence service.

Body Found On River

Kent's throat-slashed body was found last Saturday in the Potomac river. District of Columbia Coroner A. Magruder McDonald pronounced the case a suicide. Kent's wife said he had been depressed over the recent loss of his job.

Dr. Condon branded as a "malicious accusation" a statement in the report that his wife gave Kent an address for a Bulgarian tabbed by the FBI as an espionage suspect.

He declared that Mrs. Condon gave Kent the address of a man he wanted to contact for business purposes.

"Who attacks my wife must take me on. Mr. J. Edgar Hoover owes her a personal apology. I hope he is man enough to deliver."

Hoover is director of the FBI, from whose files the information came. Informants are identified only by code number, however, and the reports contain nothing to indicate how much credence the agency places in them. The government objected to their introduction by Miss Coplon's attorney.

Hermit Hopes To Sail Away From 'Crowded' Desert

LOS ANGELES, June 11 (INS)—The desert has become too crowded and the cost of living has soared too high.

So hermit Frederick William Fester said today that he is trying to buy a surplus Navy lifeboat to sail away from it all.

The recluse complained:

"There's too much population and too much traffic around Palm Springs. It's time to leave."

He added that even on a diet of bread, milk, cheese, fruits and vegetables he was just able to get by.

Fester is strong and husky despite being 65 years old. He hasn't been to a barber in years and he has long white hair and a long white beard.

He hasn't yet selected the site of his new hermitage. Under consideration are Paru, Ecuador, Cocos island, the Galapagos islands and a lonely island off Australia.

Tucker Asks Probe After Indictment By Federal Jury

CHICAGO, June 11. (U.P.)—Would-be auto manufacturer Preston Tucker charged today that a "competitive alliance" teamed up with politicians to prevent his Tucker Corp. from turning out a new advanced rear-engine car.

He demanded that the U.S. Senate launch an investigation of "political connections as well as competitive alliances working against us."

From his mothers' home at Ypsilanti, Mich., Tucker said that an indictment returned yesterday by the federal grand jury here was "silliness."

Eight Are Charged

The indictment charged Tucker and seven of his past and present business associates with using the mails to defraud and violating the securities and exchange regulations.

The dapper promoter denied U.S. Attorney Otto Kerner's assertion that he spent $2,000,000 of the Tucker corporation's money but "turned out only 25 handmade automobiles."

"Only one was handmade," Tucker said. "The rest were built by dies, jigs and fixtures. They were production models."

The indictment charged that Tucker Corp. stock was sold despite Security and Exchange commission warnings and that money was obtained fraudently by mail through sale of certificates, franchises and accessories to dealers.

18 Claimed 'Victims'

The government listed 18 persons as alleged victims of mail fraud. They included 13 Tucker dealers and five stock purchasers.

Those indicted with Tucker were:

Floyd D. Cerf, 60, Chicago investment banker who underwrote the Tucker stock sale; Robert Pierce, 50, Detroit financier who served for a time as Tucker director and treasurer; Harold A. Karsten, North Hollywood, Calif., who helped form the company; Fred Rockelman, Chicago, Tucker's director of sales; Mitchell Dulian, general sales manager; Otis Radford, present treasurer, formerly of Detroit, and Cliff Knoble, director of advertising in 1947 and 1948.

If convicted on all 25 counts of mail fraud, five counts of security law violations and one count of conspiracy, each defendant faces a maximum of 155 years imprisonment and $60,000 fine.

BURGLAR GETS CREAM

TACOMA, Wash. (U.P.) — A hungry burglar invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark G. Seabloom in their absence. When the Seablooms returned they found the house ransacked, but nothing gone. Then when they got the milk off the back porch they found the cream off the four bottles missing.

Wichita Falls Refining Firm Office To Be Moved To Dallas

DALLAS, June 11 (AP)—An officer of Panhandle Producing and Refining company said today executive offices of the concern would be moved here late in June. They are now at Wichita Falls.

R. C. Sanford, executive vice president, said the move would provide more centrally located headquarters. The company has properties in North, West and South Texas and the Panhandle.

The concern—a 34 year old independent company—has a refinery at Wichita Falls, and another plant at Leuders, West-Central Texas. It has subsidiaries engaged in steel fabrication and general construction.

Head Of Independent Petroleum Group Says Oil Imports Continue To Hurt U.S. Industry

FORT WORTH, June 11. (AP)—"Petroleum imports are continuing to injure the domestic industry," Fred W. Shield of San Antonio, president of the independent Petroleum Association of America, told The Star-Telegram in a telephone conversation today.

He made the statement in reply to the testimony of Eugene Holman, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, before the House Small Business committee in Washington last Thursday.

Holman stated then that petroleum imports are not injuring the domestic industry.

Policy Claimed Reversed

"I was surprised to note that Mr. Holman in his appearance before the committee stated that imports of petroleum into the United States were not injuring the domestic industry. All recent, visible effects on the market outlet for domestic crude oil point to the opposite conclusion," Shield asserted.

"Some months ago, Mr. Holman assured the domestic producers and state conservation bodies that his company was going to reduce its imports. I assumed then that his position was that imports were excessive, else he would not have announced the policy of reduction. Since his company is the principal importer, the statement was greatly encouraging," the IPAA chief continued.

April Imports Increase

"I now find that the actual reductions were confined to February and March. In April, the latest month for which I have full official figures, imports were higher than in 1948 and were above the average of the first quarter of 1949. Preliminary, unofficial figures since April indicate a continuance of the increase."

Shield added: "I had hoped he (Holman) would indicate a recognition of the seriousness of this situation and offer the large measure of constructive help which is within his power. Instead, I am informed his position was that imports have not yet reached the level where they are injurious. I have difficulty in recognizing this attitude with the action this week of the company which he heads. In three important producing states, the company reduced its purchase of crude oil by 15 per cent.

Government Figures Cited

"According to government figures, the accepted source of industry use, Mr. Holman was incorrect when he gave the impression that there was a downward trend. In fact, after the reduction in two months, imports again are rising to record levels.

"It was a disappointment to me to learn that Mr. Holman stated his opposition to legislative relief that would provide a firm basis of control so as to protect the petroleum security of the United States.

"After announcing a policy of reducing imports and making that policy effective for two months, other importing companies, not similarly disposed, continued their increases. In that increase, the company headed by Mr. Holman joined in April so that total imports exceeded the March daily average and were considerably higher than the average for the year 1948. We now find Mr. Holman defending the entire importing group."

LOS ANGELES, (U.P.) — Slot machine devotees, crapshooters, horse players and card sharks could benefit from a course in mathematical "probabilities" to be given this summer. Prof. Paul Hoel will teach summer school students at the University of California campus about odds and elements of chance. But he is restricting the course to serious students of mathematics.

AIRCRAFT'S NEW NEW LOOK—This jet-powered Air Force research plane was built by Consolidated Vultee to prove the design superiority of the triangle-shaped wing over conventional "swept back" styles. It is now being tested at the Muroc, Calif., Air Force Base. Engineers say the new wing offers far less drag and therefore provides greater performance in the transonic and supersonic speed ranges.

NEWS BRIEFS

Jack Wadsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wadsworth of 2512 twenty-fifth, left Saturday by plane for Rochester, Minn., for a physical examination at Mayo clinic. Young Wadsworth has been in ill health since undergoing an operation several months ago.

Rites Slated Today For Mrs. B. B. Baron

Funeral services for Mrs. B. B. Baron, 43, former Lubbock resident who died in Kerrville at 9 p. m. Friday will be held in the First Presbytarian church at 4 p. m. Monday with Rev. Dr. Jack Lewis, pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Baron was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Holmes of 1902 Broadway. She and her husband had lived in Lubbock since 1921 but were forced to move to Kerrville in 1947 when Mrs. Baron's health failed.

She was the daughter of a prominent pioneer South Plains family and was widely known in cotton and ginning circles as both her husband and her family have operated gins in and around Lubbock for many years.

Mrs. Baron had been a member of the First Presbyterian church for many years and was active in church and civic work until her health failed.

Survivors include her husband; her parents; a son, Bennie Bob, and one brother, Graham Holmes, of Lubbock. Pallbearers will be Roy Gamble, Sam Jondahl, Hugh Dyer, Olin Stewart, Hardin Bingham and J. O. Garlington.

Burial will be in the Lubbock cemetery under the direction of the Rix Funeral home.

State Guardsmen Receive Awards

NORTH CAMP HOOD, Tex., June 11 (AP)—National Guardsmen of the Texas 36th division today saw belated battle honors awarded to units of the division and heard others cited for outstanding peace time emergency service.

Also, in a surprise ceremony during a colorful two-hour review, the Guardsmen saw Gov. Beauford Jester pin the stars of a major general on Col. Isaac S. Ashburn.

Gen. Ashburn, former commandant of Texas A. and M. college and present general manager of the Texas Good Roads association, was assigned a deputy commander of the Texas national guard.

Crowd Jams Bleachers

A large crowd jammed the bleachers to view the ceremonies and see the huge parade of 5,300 troops and 600 vehicles—from jeeps to tanks—that passed in review.

Earlier, standing erect in a jeep with the flag of Texas flying, Gov. Jester had trooped the line past the division drawn up in formation. Col. James E. Taylor, chief of staff, had read the citations of battle honors for the 2nd battalion, 143rd Infantry for outstanding performance of duty in action against the enemy in December of 1944 near Mount De Sigolsheim and Fme Boux, France, and the 3rd battalion, 143rd Infantry and attached units, formerly cannon company, now heavy mortar company of the same regiment, and Company C, 111th Engineer combat battalion, for outstanding performance of duty in combat at Ribeaufille, France, in December 1944.

Jester Praises Guardsmen

In citing units of the division for peacetime service, Gov. Jester paid tribute to the Guard as always prepared to meet any emergency—peace or war.

He cited the 36th Signal Company for service during the sleet storm at Denison, Jan 16; Company H 141st Infantry for services during the flash flood that struck Alice April 26; and units of the 142nd Infantry for services during the tornado that struck Amarillo May 15.

The reviewing stand was jammed with top brass of the National Guard and high Army officers as the Governor and Maj. Gen. H. Miller Ainsworth of Luling, division commander, reviewed the troops.

The 36th division is here for its annual field training period.

Free Movies To Start At Parks

The first free movie of the summer offered in Lubbock parks will be shown at 9:15 p.m. today in the Party house in Mackenzie State park, the City Recreation department announced Saturday.

Free movies are offered each summer.

The schedule to be followed until Sept. 2 follows: Sunday nights, Party house, 9:15 p.m.; Monday nights, Pioneer park, 8:30 p.m.; Tuesday nights, Wagner park, 8:30 p.m.; Wednesday nights, Carlisle park, 8:30 p.m.; Thursday nights, Mexican park, 8:30 p.m.; Friday nights, Booker T. Washington park, 8:30 p.m.

Religious Film Slated

On Sunday nights, the program will consist of religious motion pictures and community singing. Time has been set so that the programs will follow church services. Tonight's movie will be "Beyond Our Own," described by the Recreation department as "designed to give a concept of the Christian church and to awaken in each individual a new sense of his own personal Christian mission."

From Monday through Friday nights, the same show will be offered in each park on the schedule. The show this week will be "Adventures of Rusty." Short subjects, comedy and part one of a serial, "Valley of Vanishing Man" will be offered. The picture, "Adventures of Rusty," is a story of a lonely boy and his faithful dog.

Attendance Large

The serial will be offered the entire summer. It offers the story of "Wild Bill" and his adventures in the territory of New Mexico after the Civil War.

The Recreation department estimated that from 500 to 1,500 saw shows each night last year.

MEET SET AT EL PASO

AUSTIN, June 11 (AP) — El Paso, center of the long-staple cotton area, has been chosen as the 1950 convention site for the cotton spinner-breeder conference. Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas cotton marketing professor said El Paso was the choice of spinner-breeder conference in Charlotte, N.C., and was the result of increased interest in West Texas.

It will cost $260,000 to remove 5,000 anti-invasion "dragons' teeth" from England's Suffolk coast, placed there in wartime.

DRUMSTICKS PLUS—This three-legged chicken is really a shopper stopper. The unusual bird arrived in a shipment to a Cleveland, O., poultry shop but it won't end up on someone's dinner table. She's on display in the store window and owner Andy Hocevar says he'll keep the hen as a pet.

MARKET Reports

Wall Street

MARKET IN SHARP SLUMP

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—The stock market wasted away this week on a diet of unfavorable business news and fear of the future.

The week's decline was the fourth in a row. Since mid-May market value of stocks listed on the exchange has been chopped more than $4,000,000,000. Last week the loss totaled around an even billion.

At the close of trading Friday the general level of prices was the lowest since May, 1947—and a mere trifle above a five-year low.

The market ended the week a little closer to the historic resistance levels of 1946, 1947 and 1948. In the past sufficient buying power has developed to prevent it from going below the resistance points and they have come to be regarded as formidable barriers. A break-through would be regarded by many Wall Streeters as a clear sign of a further decline. This theory inspired a high degree of caution.

Some of the week's more prominent losers included:

U. S. Steel (new) down 62 cents at $21; Chesapeake and Ohio, down 50 cents at $30.50; Chrysler down $1.37 at $45.50; General Motors down $1 at $53.25; Anaconda Copper down 62 cents at $26.12; American Woolen down 75 cents at $23.25; Santa Fe down $1.37 at $63.62; Bethlehem Steel down 87 cents at $24.62; Carrier Corp. down 75 cents at $13; Commonwealth & Southern down 25 cents at $3.62; Consolidated Natural Gas down 75 cents at $39.25; Continental Oil down $1.87 at $51.87; Dow Chemical down $1 at $43.75; Eastern Air lines down 37 cents at $13.50; Emerson Radio down $1.12 at $13; Wheeling Steel down $3.37 at $31.37; U. S. Rubber down $2.62 at $35.87; Standard Oil (NJ) down $2.25 at $62; Southern Pacific down $1.87 at $24.87; and Schenley, down 87 cents at $23.25.

Polio-Fighting Team Flying To San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, June 11 (AP)—A team of polio-fighting specialists will fly here Monday night from Stanford university.

The San Angelo Infantile Paralysis committee announced the help is being sent by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The committee said it is the first team sent anywhere this year by the foundation.

Meanwhile, the official count of polio patients from this area in hospital wards here rose to 64. About half of them are San Angelo residents.

New Cases Admitted

Eight new cases were admitted up to midnight last night. One patient was dismissed. No deaths have been reported since the seventh child died a week ago tonight.

The foundation also is sending a resident physician to a San Angelo hospital at the request of the hospital administrator, the committee said.

The Stanford team was requested by the city health officer and the Tom Green County Medical society through Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer.

Since January 1, 141 residents of the San Angelo area have been treated for polio in hospitals here.

Services Set In Post For W. I. Smith, 78

POST, June 11 (Special)—Funeral services for W. I. Smith, 78, retired farmer of Post, will be held at 4 p. m. Sunday in First Baptist church here.

Rev. J. T. Clinton, of Lubbock, will officiate, assisted by Rev. A. B. Cockrell, pastor of Post Methodist church.

Burial will be in Terrace cemetery, under the direction of Hudman Funeral home.

Smith died about 10:30 a. m. today in his home here. He had resided in this vicinity since 1915, and was a member of the Baptist church here.

Survivors include the wife; three daughters, Mrs. L. M. Chappell of Lubbock, Mrs. Horace Felder of Lubbock, and Mrs. Hinton Fluitt of Post; two sons, Hardie of Post and Wallace of Grand Prairie; two brothers, Linus and J. Ollie, both of McKinney; two sisters, Mrs. W. B. Hansel of Dallas and Mrs. B. T. Higginbotham of Houston; 11 grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Henry Edward, Jack Meeks, Willie Kuykendall, Jack Kuykendall, Carl Fluitt and Douglas Livingston.

POLES PLAN YOUTH CAMPS

BIALYSTOK, Poland, June 11 (AP)—children in the northeastern Polish province of Bialystok are going to get long summer holidays at the expense of government agencies. A total of 39,000 children are being sent to health resorts and day camps for their vacations.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 11. (AP)—The grain market overcame the influence of a highly optimistic official crop report and bounded up in late dealings today. Trading was active with a good deal of short covering accounting for much of the market's strength.

Reports of crop deterioration in the southwest because of recent rains increased. Some of these rains have been very heavy.

Whatever deterioration has occurred came later than June 1, the date on which the Agriculture department made its crop survey announced late yesterday. That survey estimated a winter wheat crop of 1,036,741,000 bushels, which was pretty much what the trade had expected.

In general, the crop survey included no surprises, traders said. It was noted that the oats forecast at 1,474,934,000 bushels was quite high, particularly in view of large stocks still back on farms, and that the rye outlook remained low at 21,597,000 bushels despite an increase of 323,000 bushels from a month ago.

The close was at the highs. Wheat ended 1¼-1¾ higher, July 61.96¾-.1¾; corn was unchanged to 1¼ higher, July 1.32-1.32⅛, oats were ⅛ higher, July 80⅛.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, June 11. (AP)—Wheat No. 1 hard 2.08⅛-2.16⅛.
Oats No. 2 white 81-81½.
Corn No. 3 white 1.69-1.70.
Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo per 100 lbs 2.35-2.45.

Ceremonies To Mark Opening Of Intracoastal Canal June 18

BEAUMONT, June 11 (AP)—Ceremonies will be held on the Intracoastal canal at a point about half-way between Brownsville and Corpus Christi June 18 when the new section of the waterway is opened to traffic.

Some 100 persons will participate.

Because of the remoteness and inaccessibility of the site, the ceremonies will probably be limited to ribbon cutting, according to J. W. Fulbright of Beaumont, president of the Intracoastal Canal Association of Louisiana and Texas.

The new canal section will complete the waterway across Texas and will represent an aim of the association for 43 years, according to Fulbright.

Rites Set For Accident Victim

Last rites for Ovid Newton Nippert, 43, of Levelland, who was killed late Friday night when his car was in head-on collision with a truck between Smyer and Hurlwood, will be read at 4 p.m. today in the Fifth Street Baptist church at Levelland, Rev. J. H. Halford, pastor, officiating.

The body will be brought to Lubbock for burial in Tech Memorial Park under direction of Price Funeral home of Levelland.

Nippert, who was born in Jester, Oklahoma, and had resided in Levelland for the past 22 years, is survived by his wife and a 13-year-old son, Wayne, both of Levelland; four sisters, Mrs. Hugh Poole and Mrs. Homer Rogers, both of Jester, Okla., Mrs. Mollie Hill of Fort Worth, and Mrs. G. H. Tubb, of Levelland; and four brothers, G. W. Travis and Rodney Nippert, all of Jester, Okla., and H. W. Nippert, of Gruver.

Four Others Injured

Nippert was returning to Levelland from Lubbock at the time of the accident. He was believed to have attended the Friday night performance of the ABC Boys club rodeo, since a souvenir program of the event was found in the car which he was driving.

Meanwhile, only one of four others involved in the accident remained under treatment in a local hospital.

Claudell Pryer, 17, of 313 N. Monroe, remained in Porter clinic hospital for additional X-rays of her head. An attendant said Miss Pryer had suffered a head injury and lacerations about the legs. It was believed that no concussion was involved in the head injury, the attendant said.

Woman Suffers Cut Head

Earl Turnell, 32, of 2412 Seventh, driver of the truck in which he and the other three injured were returning to Lubbock from Levelland, suffered abrasions on both hands and on the lower limbs, and had received a severe blow on the chest. No ribs were believed broken, and he had been dismissed after treatment at West Texas hospital.

Two other persons injured in the wreck were also dismissed from West Texas hospital following treatment.

Frances Anderson, 20, of 2809 Ruby, suffered a laceration on the forehead which required seven sutures to close, bruises on the left arm and thigh, and her left leg below the knee was badly swollen. X-rays revealed no fracture of the leg, she said.

Bob Estes, 19 of Clyde route 1, the fourth member of the party in the truck, received lacerations and bruises on the right leg below the knee, and x-rays were taken of the leg. No fracture was evidenced, hospital records showed.

Tech Artist Course To Present Famous Negro Folk Singer

Huddie Ledbetter, better known as "Lead Belly," who has long been one of the foremost American negro folk singers, will be presented on the summer Artist Course at Texas Technological college Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Ledbetter, who was discovered by the late famous authority on folk music, John Lomax, has recorded a collection of 117 of his finest songs for the U. S. Library of Congress. "Lead Belly's" songs are unique. They are his own "unwritten music" chronicling the life he knows.

Experience Is Varied

To the music of a 12 string guitar, the native of Louisiana pours out his heart into blues and spirituals alike. Many of his songs are "sinful songs" in the picturesque language of the country where he grew up. In that section, singing was termed "sinnin," unless it was spiritual or religious.

By the time he was 16 years old the negro singer had worked at everything from a professional musician in honky-tonks to herding cattle in West Texas. In the early period of his life when he was singing in the cabarets and honky-tonks he got into some real trouble and found himself singing with the work gangs of the state pens in both Texas and Louisiana.

Upon gaining his freedom, "Lead Belly" toured the south with John Lomax. Together they made a vast collection of recordings, searching out the regional music of many obscure sections across the south.

The Artist course will be held on the Administration building green at the college. The original program featuring tenor Gordon Gaines which had been scheduled for Friday has been changed to June 21. Admission will be $1 per person for everyone except students holding artist course season tickets.

Boy Says Puppy, 'Sixdo,' Goes Playmate's 'Fido' One Better

SPARTANBURG, S. C., June 11 (AP)—Little Johnny Blanton is four but he knows how to count to six.

He named his new puppy "Sixdo."

"Boy down the street calls his dog 'Fido'—mine's one better," he explained.

COOKING OUT—Wednesday is "cook's night out" at Girl Scout Camp Las Leonitas at Buffalo Lakes and the girls take over. Each unit has four other cookouts during the week, choosing breakfast or supper hours. Barbara Batton, left and Nancy Dennis, Intermediate Scouts, were busily engaged in preparing a meal when the photographer dropped by.

HANDCRAFTS—Weaving of yucca and other grasses into place mats and chair coverings and making of pottery objects from clay dug on camp site are of interest to Girl Scouts at Camp Las Leonitas. Interrupted at a weaving hour were, left to right Nan Durham, Kay McLaughlin, Anne Armstrong, Madeline Holmes and LaDonna Vae Rieger.

OFF FOR HIKE—Hiking over trails at Buffalo Lake is an important item on the camp schedule. Leading four Intermediate Scouts for a walk on a sunny afternoon is Nancy Conder, assistant unit leader. Others are Carolyn Fluke, Joan Lawson, Joyce Davison and Sue Spangler.

CAMP DUTIES—Five new tents with platform and side railings have increased interest in camping at Camp Las Leonitas, which is sponsored by the Lions club. Four intermediates were at chores in their new tent one day last week when the photographer called. Holding the water bucket are Sheila Green, left, and Kay Burnam. Avonlee Fentress is making her bed and Yvonne Skinner is on the steps.

Girl Scouts Complete First Week In Camp

FIFTY Intermediate Girl Scouts completed their first week at annual Camp Las Leonitas, Buffalo lakes, Saturday. Party night was held Friday and camp was broken Saturday afternoon by two units, Unit 3 to remain for another week.

The full schedule was devoted to outdoor living, camp craft, outdoor cooking, nature crafts, handcraft, studies of flowers, rocks, insects and birds.

Miss Madeline McDonald, executive director of Lubbock Girl Scouts, is camp director.

Area girls will be enrolled the last three weeks of the six week period.

Miss Martha LaRoe Is Bride Of William Franklin, III

FIRST Methodist church was scene of the marriage of Miss Martha Jayne LaRoe and William Easley Franklin, III, which was solemnized Friday night at 8 o'clock with Dr. H. I. Robinson reading a single ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Duncan LaRoe, 1913 Twenty-fifth, and the bridegroom is a son of Mrs. W. E. Franklin, jr., and the late Mr. Franklin of LaGrange, Tenn.

The church was decorated with baskets of white flowers, natural palms and woodwardia fern. Ferns and white flowers banked the altar rail and candelabra formed a pyramid shape through the decorations. Candle-lighted bouquets market the bridal aisles.

Mr. Plowman Sings

Mrs. Mamie I. Neal, organist, played a wedding prelude and accompanied Elton Plowman as he sang "Because" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." "Oh, Perfect Love" was played during the ceremony.

Mr. LaRoe gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a wedding gown of slipper satin, fashioned with illusion neck with appliqued French lace, basque effect with tiny covered buttons from nape of neck to waistline, tight sleeves, button trimmed and ending in points over the hands and bouffant skirt sweeping into a long train. The bride's veil of illusion was attached to a crown of stephanotis and she carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids, with stephanotis shower.

Mrs. Fred Brown was matron of honor and Misses Charlotte Scoggin, Betty Jenkins, Joan Prouty and Elizabeth Howard were bridesmaids. They wore dresses of pale cream chiffon over pale yellow taffeta skirts, made with basque waists, Colonial necklines and full circular skirts. Mrs. Brown carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and wore a matching headband and the bridesmaids carried daisies and wore them in their hair.

Atendants To Bridegroom

John W. Franklin of Atlanta, Ga., attended his brother as best man and Bert LaRoe of Dallas and Frank LaRoe of San Angelo, brothers of the bride. W. G. Streicher and Jack Givens were ushers.

The candles were lighted by Joe Kirk Fulton and Larry LaRoe.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Joe Bowman, 1906 Twenty-ninth. The table was centered with a three-tiered, Victorian cake, topped with yellow throated confection orchids and stephanotis, surrounded with croft lilies.

Assisting in hospitalities were Mrs. W. E. Franklin, jr.; Mrs. L. E. Birdsong of Greenville, grandmother of the bride, Mesdames Al O'Brien, John McLarty, Robert Pirtle, Jack Leftwich, Bowman,

IN Europe most of the shops close from noon until 1.30 or 2 o'clock and everyone leaves for an afternoon rest, similar, of course, to the Latin American's siesta. Although it's inconvenient for the American who is accustomed to shop a while after he eats his lunch, we find ourself wishing the custom would hold here, especially during the summer months.

LIVER, broccili and asparagus are the three foods most disliked by American collegiates, a survey reveals. Also, the popular theory that teen agers live on candy bars was exploded. It was discovered that the average intake was only two bars a week . . . With the exception of the candies given to them by their American friends, European children do not know what a candy bar is and one sees them munching on rolls, with apparent relish . . . Although we hesitate to mention it, it occurs to the writer that American parents might learn a lesson or two on how to discipline their children from Austrian and Italian parents. From casual observation one gets the idea that the children over there mind and without grumbling about it . . . The sight of entire families, including teen agers, out for a stroll or holiday bound on a bus or sitting on park benches, is pleasing. Can you imagine teen agers in our country being content to have their parents along when they are out for a good time?

We know that we have beautiful parks in the United States, but they do not seem laid out for the pleasure of the people. On the other hand, in Paris, London and Edinburgh, the parks are for the people and they make full use of them, eating lunches, taking sunbaths, sitting on benches and strolling along through the grounds.

St. John's Methodist church was scene of the wedding of Miss Betty Jo Hancock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hancock, 2314 Fourteenth, and Francis E. Miller, jr., son of Mrs. Francis E. Miller of Sudan, which took place Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. Dean Brookshire, minister of the Plainview Church of Christ, performed a double ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with gladioli, greenery and candles.

Bob Scoggin, organist, accompanied Loyd Thompson as he sang "Because" and "O Promise Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white organza dress made with a fitted bodice buttoned to the waist in front, a full skirt and short sleeves. Her veil of bridal illusion was edged with Chantilly lace and her long gloves were of matching lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Sister Attends Bride

Mrs. Levi Self of Houston, sister of the bride and matron of honor, wore a pink net dress over taffeta. Her bouquet of pink daisies was surrounded by pink net. Bridesmaids, Miss Evie Johnson, Jacksboro, Miss Wanda Mills, Snyder, Miss Patsy Smith, and Miss Dorothy Harrison of Midland, and the maid of honor, Miss Bonnie Holland, wore dresses of yellow and orchid organdy. They carried matching bouquets of daisies.

Best man was Bill Miller of Sudan, brother of the bridegroom, and ushers were Douglas Boren, Sudan, Boddy Martyn, George

Entertainments Planned For West Texas Golfers

A CALENDAR of events has been planned, courtesies to participants in the twelfth annual tournament of the Women's West Texas Golf association, scheduled at Lubbock Country club Tuesday through Sunday.

Mrs. T. E. Patterson and Mrs. Fenner Tubs are co-chairman of the tournament committee; Mrs. C. L. Dean and Mrs. Guy L. McAfee, co-chairman of entertainment; Mrs. O. D. McCoy, handicap; Mrs. W. F. Eisenberg, prizes and Raymond Marshall, rules.

Following mixed foursomes Tuesday afternoon, a buffet supper has been planned at the club house. Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock there will be a kickoff breakfast, during which time rules will be discussed. A barbecue has been planned for 7:30 o'clock that night.

Other entertainments will include a cocktail party and dinner Friday, beginning at 6 p. m.; a dance Saturday night at 9 o'clock and a cold buffet Sunday, following the afternoon round of championship.

Coffee Is Scheduled For Methodist WSCS

First Methodist Women's Society of Christian service will meet Monday between 9:30 and 11 a. m. for a coffee in the Sam Hildreth home, which is located just off the Plainview highway and northwest of the Lubbock Country club grounds.

The China circle, of which Mrs. Ira L. Spann is chairman, will be the hostess group. All members of the First Methodist WSCS are invited to attend the coffee, which will replace the regular Monday afternoon meetings of the various circles.

Methodist Pastor To Be Guild Speaker

St. John's Wesleyan Service Guild will hear a talk by the pastor, Rev Hubert H. Bratcher, at a monthly program meeting at the church Monday night at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Stuart F. Shafter will be vocalist.

Texas Tech Faculty Leaves For Study And Vacations

FOR MOST college instructors and professors, the summer months mean either relaxing on vacations, working in non-teaching professions or becoming students again themselves while working on their higher degrees at other colleges and universities. Members of the Texas Tech faculty are scattered over the nation with a mixture of pasttimes from sunning to working on dissertations.

Miss Cecilia Thompson, instructor in speech at the college, will relax in the sun and surf of Florida for awhile before going to New York city to spend the remainder of the summer.

Dr. and Mrs. Alan L. Strout, 2512 Twenty-first, will spend six weeks in Cowles, N. M., during his vacation from teaching. He is a professor in the Tech English department.

P. Eldon Dennis, a lecturer in the geology department, is working for the United States Geodetical Survey Water division this summer, and Charles Renfroe, also a lecturer in the same department at Tech, is a summer employee of the Arkansas Geological survey.

Miss Gussie Teague, associate professor of English, is visiting her brother's family in Howe.

Miss Edna Houghton, assistant professor of architecture, will leave the first of this week for California, where she will spend the first six weeks of the summer working on her M. A. degree in fine arts at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

O. A. St. Clair, professor and head of the department of industrial engineering and engineering drawing, is vacationing in New York and Pennsylvania during the first summer school semester.

To Go To Minnesota

During the second summer term, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Kleinschmidt, 2324 Broadway, will visit his parents in Minnesota and take a fishing trip there. They will leave Lubbock about July 20, and return the first part of February. Mr. Kleischmidt is professor and head of the Tech architecture department.

Cecil Overby, instructor in civil engineering, will spend the summer in Austin, where he will work on his M. A. degree at the University of Texas.

Charles D. Decker, associate of civil engineering, is employed in the Lubbock City Engineering office for the summer.

Visiting his son and daughter in San Antonio and Harlingen for the first six weeks term is George Smallwood, English professor, and Mrs. Smallwood.

Dr. Don Marshall, associate professor of agricultural economics at Texas Tech, is not teaching the

District P-T Institute To Be Held At Tech College

DISTRICTS 14 and 16, which comprise Area 8 of Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers will conduct an institute on "Parent-Teacher Leadership" June 21 and 22 at Texas Technological college, according to Mrs. E. S. Smith of Lorenzo, District 14 president. The institute is being sponsored by the Texas P-T congress and Tech college.

The two-day program has been designed for parent-teacher leaders and members, school administrators and college faculty members who desire to study cooperatively the need, the purpose, the activities and the leadership practices in parent-teacher work. Past, present and future officers and leaders in various local parent-teacher units and councils in Districts 14 and 16 and parent-teacher workers and state board members are invited to attend.

Co-chairmen of the local arrangement committee are Mrs. M. E. West, district vice president and Mrs. J. B. Adams, president of Lubbock Parent-Teacher council. Members of the institute planning committee are Mrs. H. F. Godeke, chairman; Mrs. H. G. Stinnett, Plainview; Mrs. E. S. Smith, Lorenzo; Mrs. Holland Holt, Abilene; Frank Monroe, Midland; and Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Dr. E. N. Jones, Dr. R. E. Garlin, Dr. Doyle D. Jackson, Dr. Albert Barnett, Dr. Agnes True, O. L. Caskey, Dean Margaret W. Weeks, Miss Sannie Callan, Miss Martha Graves, Mrs. Johnnye G. Langford, Miss Mozelle Craddock and Frank Junell, all of Tech. Dr Garlin and Mr. Junell are coordinators of the program.

General sessions are to be held in the Tech Aggie Memorial auditorium. Registration is to be made by June 17 with Mrs. M. E. West at 2515 Twentieth, Lubbock. Women who wish may stay in Women's dormitory IV on Tech campus and men may stay in Drane hall.

Parent-teacher and educational problems and needs of children are to be discussed during the program. Various type workshops are to be conducted, also. Featured speakers will be several of those listed on the planning committee.

Gift Tea Is Honor

As a courtesy to Miss Juanita Reynolds who will marry Morris B. Cranford, jr., June 28, a gift tea was given Friday night in the home of Mrs. Don Reeder at 2404 Ave. T. Hostesses with Mrs. Reeder were Mesdames Marvin Hunter, W. C. Mauzey, B. W. Howard and Vernon McCullough.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Reeder, the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Carlos E. Reynolds, her sister, Miss Anita Reynolds, and mother of the prospective bridegroom, Mrs. M. B. Cranford. Mrs. Hunter was at the bride's book and Mrs. McCollough presided at the gift table.

A miniature bride standing before a church centered the refreshment table at which Mrs. Howard presided. The center arrangement was surrounded by flowers, greenery and yellow candles. The honoree's chosen colors are green, lavender and yellow. Misses Joy Reeder and Sue McCullough assisted with serving.

Forty-four guests called.

A lingerie shower for Miss Reynolds was given by Mrs. Robert L. Kelley Wednesday night in the home of her mother, Mrs. H. E. Tippit, 1705 Ave. T.

Guests were Mesdames Dennis Patterson, Donald Hogan, M. B. Cranford, sr., Carlos E. Reynolds, Tippit, and Misses Charlotte Cranford, Nell Rhodes, Helen Simpson, Ruth Crosby, Glenna Hackney, Marjorie Sims and Anita Reynolds.

Party Is Courtesy To Billie Jean Sewell

Miss Billie Jean Sewell, who is to marry Clifford Bloodworth, was honored when Mrs. Mayme Fite, 2211 Seventeenth, entertained with a miscellaneous shower Thursday night.

Misses Louise Robertson and Margaret Wilson assisted in hospitalities.

The house was decorated with spring flowers.

Twenty-five called.

Frances Bethany Will Wed Mr. Willbanks

The wedding date of Miss Frances Bethany and Benny Willbanks is being announced as July 2 by Mrs. W. B. Bethany, 2412 Sixth, mother of the bride-elect. Mr. Willbanks is son of Mrs. Ila Willbanks of Dallas.

St. John's Methodist church is to be scene of the wedding.

June Bride To Be Honored At Tea This Afternoon

Mrs. Tommy David Bumpass, the former Miss Billie Jean Cathey, will be complimented at a tea to be given this afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock by her mother, Mrs. E. M. Cathey, in her home at 2408 Twenty-second. Miss Cathey was married Saturday, June 4, at 8 p. m. in the study of First Methodist church. Dr. H. I. Robinson performed a single ring ceremony.

At the tea this afternoon, those in the receiving line will be Mrs. Cathey, the bride, Mrs. J. C. Bumpass, mother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. T. R. Bumpass, aunt of the bridegroom. Others in the houseparty are to be Mrs. Ralph Bumpass, Mrs. Kelly Lee, and Misses Jeannine Mullins, Pat Branson, Rita Lane, Betty Thomas and Jan O'Neal.

MRS TOMMY BUMPASS

In Green And Yellow

A color scheme of pale green and yellow will be used in table appointments and decorations throughout the house. The table is to be laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow daisies.

For her wedding, Mrs. Bumpass wore an aqua dress designed with a tiered skirt. Her accessories were in taupe and she carried a white peony on a white Bible which belongs to Mrs. O. W. McDonald. The flower was showered with white satin streamers and white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Bumpass attended the couple.

The newlyweds will leave in three weeks on a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo. They are at home at 1511-G Fourteenth. Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Lubbock High school where Mrs. Bumpass was a member of Sub-Deb social club. Mr. Bumpass works with his uncle at Sunbeam laundry.

Through the Coral Doors

Hi, Folks:

Things still buz behind those coral doors. Broadway and N. Brides packages are filling the wrapping room, and I stood around and watched Bee and Josie plan—with careful detail of silver—china—crystal—and linens—for a couple more brides-to-be. Sorry, I can't call names, but that's a secret—the girls would never forgive me if I told. Of course you can just tell by the look in a girl's face that she is to be married, but the tactful thing to do is be surprised and let them tell you the entire exciting story—and of course you had never suspected a thing.

Bee's desk was piled high with invoices to be checked for one of her Midland jobs that she will finish this week. A peek at Josie's desk, and you would think she was planning a dozen jobs. "No", she said, 'It's just one of those jobs where I'm trying to make my budget balance and naturally that requires a lot of thought and planning.

Just in case you want to know who those two attractive girls were that Fredda had out to lunch—one is the charming red-headed sister of a movie producer that you would know by name (if I could call names). She prefers that Decorator Studio touch too.

I noticed a table set with some unusual accessory pieces that I think you should see. Salad plates, that look like a big pineapple, were placed on red porcelain square plates—on blue-green mats—laid on modern iron glass top table is a setting long to be remembered by your guest when the temperature rises this summer.

Rosa had her head in another barrel, so I had to go see what else was coming in at Decorators Studio—corner of Broadway and N.

See you next week.

Grandpa Nosey

P. S. Ann and James are in mid-ocean, so I guess we won't have any news for awhile from them.

Virginia reel, a Paul Jones or some other "shine" step has spread throughout the entire nation now with schools started for learning the calls of the square dance. Even phonograph records that teach the calls are having an amazing sale. Swanky night clubs and even the 35-cent ballrooms are all having square dance sessions. Ho hum! It seems as if the rest of the nation is about to catch up with a pleasant form of recreation that has been popular in our section for a decade.

Lena Jean Holt To Marry Alvin Dickson Tuesday

Miss Lena Jean Holt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Holt of Slaton, and Alvin N. Dickson, son of Mrs. N. C. Dickson of Slaton, are to be married Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the Holt home. Rev. W. F. Ferguson of Lubbock will read double ring vows before a fireplace covered with greenery entwined with small white flowers. Baskets of peonies and candles will complete the arrangement.

Mrs. J. A. Wright, pianist, is to play a medley of soft wedding music preceding the ceremony and will accompany Mrs. Morris Ward as she sings "Because." Traditional wedding marches are to be played and "Roses of Picardy," Sans Souci club song, will be offered during the wedding.

Mr. Holt will give his daughter in marriage. Her dress will be mauve crepe designed with a high neckline, fitted bodice and a bustle effect in the back. Her hat is of shirred mauve crepe complemented with white veiling and her mitts are of white lace with mauve crepe ruffles. She is to carry orchids arranged with stephanotis and tube roses.

Mrs. Gene Collins of Lubbock who is to be matron of honor will wear a turquoise crepe dress with a halo of multi-colored sweetpeas. Her nosegay is to be of sweetpeas, also.

Ralph Dickson will be his brother's best man.

Assisting with hospitalities at the reception to be given after the ceremony will be parents of the bride and bridegroom and Mesdames Robert Lee, Lula Caldwell, Gordon Burrell, F. A. Drewery, B. G. Guinn, Carl Lewis, Hern Pettigrew, Sed Meadors and Bob Fondy.

The bride's table is to be laid with pink net over white taffeta. White candles are to be placed on either side of a centerpiece of pink and white rosebuds. A double ring wedding cake will be served.

Out-of-town guests are to be from Littlefield, Post, Crosbyton, Amarillo and Munday.

MISS LENA JEAN HOLT

For a plane trip to Chicago, Ill., and points in Canada, the bride will wear a navy blue gabardine suit with navy and white accessories and an orchid corsage. After July 1, the couple will be at home in Lubbock where Mr. Dickson is employed by Pioneer Air Lines. Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Slaton High school and the bride is a graduate of Tech. She was a member of Sans Souci social club, Tech Association of Women Students, Junior council, Alpha Chi and Sigma Delta Pi.

Wedding Is Saturday

The wedding of Miss Doris Killebrew and Frank McCrummen was read Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Killebrew, 2111 Twentieth. Mr. McCrummen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCrummen of Seminole. Rev. C. J. McCarty performed the ceremony before an improvised altar decorated with white peonies and lemon leaf.

Miss Connie Wood, pianist, played "I Love You Truly" and "Always" and accompanied Miss Mary Joplin as she sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white crepe dress with a fingertip veil caught by a halo of net. She carried a nosegay of daisies and baby's breath. Mrs. Peggy Richards who attended the bride wore a blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of daisies.

J. Lewis McCrummen of Crosbyton was his brother's best man.

For a reception given after the ceremony, the bride's table was laid with a lace cloth and arranged with tapers, regal lillies and greenery. Daisies were placed around the wedding cake.

Guests were from Seminole, Crosbyton, Lorenzo, Anson, Abernathy and Clovis, N. M.

After a trip to New Mexico, the couple will be at home in Seminole where Mr. McCrummen is associated in business with his father. For travel, the bride wore a navy blue dress with white accessories.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Lubbock High school and the bridegroom is a former student of Texas Technological college.

MISS JIMMIE LEE BOLCH

MRS. ROBERT C. HARVEY, JR.

McGhee - Bolch Wedding Will Be Today; Mr. Harvey Marries In Sharon, Pa.

Miss Jimmie Lee Bolch of 3402 Twenty-seventh and John A. McGhee of Victoria are to be married in a double ring ceremony to be performed this afternoon at 3 o'clock at St. John's Methodist church with Rev. Fred McPherson, pastor of Southside Bantist church officiating. Miss Bolch is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bolch, sr., and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Johnston, sr., of Jayton. Mr. McGhee is son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. McGhee of Victoria.

Baskets of white gladioli, white tapers burning in candelabra and ferns and palms are to be arranged on the altar. White satin ribbon will mark the bridal aisle. Mrs. Jerry Dye of San Angelo, aunt of the bride, will play a prelude of organ selections including Concerto In B Flat Minor, Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life, Indian Love Call, One Alone and The Rotary. She is to accompany Mr. Dye as he sings Always and Because. As vows are repeated Clair de Lune is to be played.

Brother Is Escort

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her brother, William H. Bolch, jr., will wear a white eyelet embroidered batiste dress over satin. It is made with a high neckline with a sweetheart yoke, long fitted sleeves pointed over the hands, a fitted bodice and a full flaring skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion falls from a tiara of seed pearls. The bride's shower bouquet of white spring blossoms is to be centered with a detachable white orchid corsage. For something old, she is to wear a ring which belonged to her mother.

Mrs. Hunter Tolbert of Alamosa, Colo., who will be matron of honor will wear a dress of pink dotted swiss patterned after the bride's. Her bouquet is to be of pastel colored flowers in colonial design. Miss Carolyn Hunnicutt of Girard and Miss Paula Dye of San Angelo, cousins of the bride, are to be bridesmaids. They will wear green and yellow dotted swiss dresses with pink wristlet corsages of carnations.

Jimmie G. Terrell is to serve as best man and Clarence A. Loveless of Amarillo and Howard Johnston will be ushers.

Reception At Hall

At a reception to be given at the church Fellowship hall following the ceremony, the bride's table will be laid with lace and centered with a three tiered wedding cake flanked by candelabra. Baskets of flowers are to be arranged throughout the room. Mrs. J. M. Johnston, jr., and Mrs. Howard Johnston, aunts of the bride, will preside at the table, assisted by Misses Phyllis Atnip, Mary McNeely, Inez Green and Reda Mae Gary. Others assisting with hospitalities will be Mrs. Tom Hunnicut, aunt of the bride, grandparents of the bride, parents of the bridegroom, and Miss Frances McGhee, sister of the bridegroom.

Out-of-town guests are to be from Victoria, Jayton, Girard, Anton, Anson, Amarillo, O'Donnell, Matador, Plainview, Floydada, San Angelo, Chicago, Ill., and Alamosa, Colo.

For a wedding trip to San Antonio and point along the Gulf coast, the bride is to wear a suntan linen suit with a panama hat, white organdy blouse, green shoes and bag and a white orchid corsage. After June 20, the couple will be at home in Victoria.

Miss Bolch is a graduate of Jayton High school and Wayland Junior college. She is a member of Zeta Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and until recently she was employed by J. D. Leftwich Construction company. Mr. McGhee is a graduate of Waco High school and a 1949 graduate of Texas Technological college. He served three and one-half years with the Army Air force. In Victoria, he is to be assistant manager of the Victoria Ice company.

A rehearsal dinner for Miss Bolch and Mr. McGhee was given Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johnston. Assisting hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Johnston, jr., of Jayton.

Sharon Church Scene Of Formal Wedding

SHARON, Pa., June 11 — The wedding of Miss Patricia Iola Templeton, daughter of Mrs. Lenore Templeton of Sharpsville, Pa., and the late Robert M. Templeton, and Robert C. Harvey, jr., of Sharon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Harvey of 2602 Twenty-second, Lubbock, Tex., was solemnized Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church in Sharon. Dr. William L. Wishart read a single ring service before an altar of orange blossoms, greenery and tapers burning in candelabra.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. H. E. Smith and Kenneth Morrison.

Robert R. Templeton gave his sister in marriage. She was gowned in satin. The dress was made with a high neckline of illusion edged in lace, long sleeves, a fitted bodice and a train. Her halo of orange blossoms caught a fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

Mrs. Howard Evans of Sharon, sister of the bride and matron of honor, wore a bright yellow dress of lace and marquisette, simply fashioned with a high neckline and cape sleeves. She carried a trailing bouquet of white daisies with yellow centers and wore a daisy wreath in her hair. Bridesmaids, Mrs. C. H. Alter of Sharon and Mrs. W. L. Shorts of Cleveland, Ohio, wore dresses identical to Mrs. Evans.'

DeWitt Harvey of Lubbock was his brother's best man. Ushers were Fred Thornton, Robert T. Martin and John Pelsh, all of Sharon.

Janet Hughes of Sharon, flower girl, wore a yellow organdy dress with a wreath of daisies in her hair.

At the reception given after the ceremony, the bride's table was centered with a five tiered wedding cake. Guests were from Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Denver, Fresno, Calif., Grand Island, Nebr., and Tulsa, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey are to be at home at Sharon after June 20. For a wedding trip, the bride wore a tailored white suit with navy blue and white accessories. Mrs. Harvey is a graduate of Hickory High school in Sharon and attended Youngstown, Ohio, college. Mr. Harvey, who will be in the advertising and sales promotion partment of Westinghouse Electric corporation, is a graduate of Lubbock High school and Texas Technological college. He was a member of Kemas social club.

Mrs. Earl Kenney of Dallas is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Bettye Lou Kenney, and Kenneth B. Poole, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Poole of Rt. 5, Floydada, which took place recently at the First Baptist church chapel in Lubbock. Dr. J. Ralph Grant performed a double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with tall baskets of blue and pink larkspur and white tapers. Greenery and daisies formed a background.

Bob Scoggin played a medley of piano numbers preceding the ceremony and accompanied Mrs. Lowell Heckman as she sang "Because." The soloist offered "The Lord's Prayer" as a musical benediction.

MRS. KENNETH B. POOLE

The bride, given in marriage by Henry Hinton of Floydada, wore a light blue suit with white accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with pink rosebuds and stephanotis. Miss Jean Holt of Woodsboro, maid of honor, wore a white pique suit with blue accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Billy Morrison of Floydada served as best man and Kenneth Ring of Floydada and Ed Slagle were ushers.

Service Is At Church

In a double ring ceremony performed at First Christian church Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock, Miss Dolores Thompson, daughter of C. H. Thompson of 2204 Twenty-fourth, became the bride of James Tillman Henson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Henson of 121 Temple. Baskets of white gladioli and peonies and greenery lined the altar space.

Mrs. Emil D'Acosta, accompanied by Miss Iris Ferren, organist, sang "Because" and "One Alone."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an aqua suit with a white blouse and white accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. G. T. Hemphill, sister of the bridegroom and matron of honor, wore a beige and cocoa brown dress with talisman roses. C. H. Thompson, jr., brother of the bride, served as best man.

After a wedding trip to Santa Fe, N. M., the couple will be at home at 1303 Twenty-third. Mrs. Henson is a graduate of Texas Technological college and is a member of Lubbock Junior Womans' club, Mrs. Henson is employed by Kuykendall Chevrolet company.

Mr. and Mrs. Poole are at home in Floydada where the bridegroom is engaged in farming. Both the bride and bridegroom attended Floydada High school.

Reunion Is Underway In Blackwell Home

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Blackwell of 1507 Ave. U and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of Oviedo, Fla., are spending several days in Denver, Colo. Other guests of the Blackwells who remained at their home here are Mrs. Blackwell's mother, Mrs. Charles F. Kunsemiller of Oviedo, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Barrett of San Pedro, Calif.

Mrs. Barrett and Mrs. Wilson are sisters of Mrs. Blackwell's. This is the first reunion of the family in 22 years.

Wartime diversion of chemical fertilizer manufacture into production of munitions is hitting back at Germany now, as prewar high agricultural yields per acre (the result of heavy fertilization) have dropped sharply.

July Date Is Set By Pair

Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Martin of 2508 Twenty-second are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Geane Edwena, to Kenneth R. King, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. King of Odessa, formerly of Lubbock.

The wedding is to be performed Saturday, July 23, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at First Christian church.

Miss Martin graduated from Texas Technological college in May with an applied arts major and Mr. King has just graduated from Texas A. and M. college with an architecture major.

Miss Mary Boyd Will Be Afternoon Bride

HAMLIN, June 11 (Special) — Standing before a green organdy fan decorated with pink and rose peonies, flanked with baskets of fern and peonies and backed by lighted tapers, Miss Mary Boyd and Jack Hagelstein of Lubbock will exchange wedding vows at First Baptist church Sunday afternoon. Rev. J. Henry Littleton Baptist district missionary, will read a double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Boyd and Mr. Hagelstein is a son of Mrs. Chris Hagelstein of San Angelo.

Mrs. Phil Sparkman of Sweetwater will serve her sister as matron of honor and Ele Hagelstein of Ozona will be his brother's best man.

Ushers Are Listed

Ushers will be Wright Boyd of Lamesa and W. L. Boyd, jr., Plainview, brothers of the bride; Wight Grant Boyd of Lemesa, her nephew, and Fred Hagelstein of Ozona, brother of the bridegroom. Miss Cecilia Albritton of Hamlin, niece of the bride and Miss Pamela Hearn of Lubbock, her cousin, will light the candles.

Mrs. W. Henry Albritton organist and sister of the bride, will play the wedding music and accompany James Robert Weatherby of Jacksonville as he sings "O, Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, escorted by her father, has chosen an imported white Irish linen dress trimmed with medallions of drawwork. Her white straw hat is trimmed with powder blue ribbon and veiling and she will carry a white satin Bible topped with a white orchid, showered with stephanotis.

The matron of honor will wear pink Irish linen and carry a Colonial nosegay. Miss Albritton will wear aqua waffle piquie and Miss Hearn will wear yellow organdy.

Assist At Reception

A reception is to be given at the home of the bride's parents, with the couple's parents and Mrs. Sparkman assisting in receiving and the following in the house party: Misses Annie Laurie and Carrie Johnson of San Angelo, Mrs. Lott Shell, jr., of Abilene and Mesdames Tate May; W. C. Russell, Delma Shelbourne, Oscar Poe, Holly Toler, O. D. Roland and John Walton of Hamilton.

The bride's table will be laid with a handrawn linen cloth and and topped with a miniature brister and the matron of honor's bouquet. The two-tiered cake is decorated with sugar organments and topped wit ha miniature bridal couple standing in a pink gondola drawn by white swans.

When the couple leaves on a trip to Colorado, the bride will wear a cocoa silk shantung dress with matching jacket, natural colored straw hat and black accessories and will wear the orchid that tops her Bible.

The couple will be at home at 2615 Thirtieth upon their return.

Miss Boyd is a graduate of Lamesa High school, a former student at Hardin-Simmons university and Texas Technological college and holds the A. B. and M. degrees from Baylor university. A public accountant, she is president of the Lubbock Altrusa club,

Wedding Of Couple Is Revealed

Miss Barbara Jean Sievers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Sievers of Oklahoma City, Okla., became the bride of George W. Brewer, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brewer, sr., 1912 Ave. Q, early this week in St. Paul's Episcopal cathedral in Oklahoma City at 8:30 p. m.

Rev. John S. Willey performed a double ring ceremony in a setting of woodwardia fern and tiers of white tapers. White gladioli filled the altar vases and large floral arrangements were placed in baskets before the background of greenery. White tapers tied with satin streamers marked the bridal aisle.

A musical prelude and traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. Inez Gose Lee, organist, who also accompanied Bill Blew as he sang 'O Perfect Love" and The Lord's Prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white marquisette designed with an off-the-shoulder yoke outlined by a ruffle of Chantilly lace. On each side of the bouffant skirt were rows of Chantilly lace which came to points in the back and covered the length of the cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell from a halo of pearlized orange blossoms, and her bouquet, an orchid showered with stephanotis, was carried atop a white prayer book.

Sister Is Attendant

Mrs. Edward E. Soule, wearing a dress of white frosted organdy over apple green, attended her sister as matron of honor. She carried yellow snapdragons on a yellow maline fan tied with green streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Lee Nansen, Webster Groves, Mo.; Miss Betty Mulholland, Ferguson, Mo.; Miss Joanne Simpson, Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Erle E. Thompson, Norman, Okla. Their frocks were styled identically to that of the matron of honor, and their underskirts were of pastel pink. Pink snapdragons were tied to their pink maline fans with green ribbon. All of the bride's attendants wore ruffled horsehair hats. Kay Armstrong of Lubbock, a cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl and wore a white organza dress edged in lace. Pink carnations were worn in her hair.

James D. Owens was best man, and ushers were Bert Clark, Wichita Falls; Stanley West, Norman, Robert Moss and Thomas Gray. John Trowbridge and John Coleman were acolytes.

A reception was held following the service in the Mirror room of the Biltmore hotel. Assisting in the houseparty were Misses Barbara Burke, Muskogee; Jo Riner, Wichita Falls, Germaine Millspaugh, Jerry Garrett and Carol Young, and Mrs. Tom Armstrong of Lubbock.

Following a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will be at home in Norman. For traveling the bride chose a navy blue and white ensemble and an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brewer and son, Charles and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Armstrong and daughter, Kay, were among the out-of-town guests.

The occasion honored Dr. and Mrs. Rogers who were here for freedom chapter installation ceremonies Monday night at First Presbyterian Fellowship hall.

Aussies Ship Beef To British By Air

PERTH, Australia, June 11 (AP)—An Australian air lift is giving Britain a little more high grade beef. Cattle carcasses today are being flown to ports from lonely stations (ranches) in the north of Western Australia. This air lift began the day after the Berlin blockade ended.

But if you are very superstitious, maybe you would not eat this beef. The first plane carried 13 carcasses. It landed at the port of Wyndham at the 13th hour of the 13th day of May—Friday the 13th.

The people who are pioneering this scheme are not superstitious. They reason that it will give more and better beef to Britain and will pay them good dividends.

Before beef took to the air, cattle were driven 300 miles to Wyndham. Some died on the rough stock routes. Those that got to Wyndham had to be fattened again before being slaughtered.

The air lift has ended these worries. Cattle are killed at Glenroy station, 190 air miles from Wyndham, and in a few hours the carcasses can be loaded aboard ship at the port.

Present plan is to fly out between 4000 and 4500 carcasses in the next five months before the tropical wet season begins. That's a lot of beef on anybody's ration—about 2,400,000 pounds.

Pennsylvania Trainmen Are Credited With Saving Home

GALLITZEN, Pa., June 11 (U.P.)—The crew of a passing Pennsylvania Railroad train was credited with an assist in putting out an early morning fire.

The locomotive crew noticed that the roof of a home was on fire as they passed through the town, so they radioed the next railroad tower. The towerman called the local police chief and the alarm was sounded.

The occupants of the home didn't know there was a fire until the firemen arrived.

More Oil Reserves In Alberta Than In Texas, Says Canadian

HOUSTON, June 11 (AP) — A Canadian geologist says one province of his country has more oil resources than Texas—even more the the whole United States if you count sand tars.

Dr. Theo A. Link, consulting geologist of Toronto and Calgary, told the National Oil Scouts and Landsmen's association Friday that Alberta is the province. It has a real boom on, he said.

Dr. Link spoke to the association at its 26th annual convention. A business session wound up the convention Saturday.

Link said the discovery of the great Leduce field in February, 1947, brought Alberta's boom.

Link said Canada's proven oil reserves have been increased by more than 750,000,000 barrels of oil since 1947. Last January, he said, his country was producing 13 per cent of the crude oil it needed.

SPEAKING OF Furniture

By FREELAN GROCE

THE USE OF COLOR

One of the most perplexing problems of re-decorating, is what to do with rooms which appear too long; or with ceilings which appear too low. Where we have to use the furniture already in the room, one of the solutions is the use of color.

In the living room sketched above, the too-long narrow effect was lessened by the correct use of color alone. The side walls were treated with a tint in a light, receding color to make them seem farther away and widen the room. The wall end was painted in a warm, dark advancing color which seems to bring it forward.

If you cannot paint your wall, you can get something of the same effect by placing dark masses against it in the form of book shelves, panels or draperies.

Horizontal color lines are also used to bring down the ceiling and to lengthen the walls. Using dark color on the ceiling helps further to make it seem lower.

We would enjoy discussing your furniture and decorating problems with you. Drop in to...

GOSSIP

DEAR BUCK:

It's been so long since I've written you that I hardly know where to start.

We sure had a good season out here at the Larrymore Dance Studio. With Summer classes and trying to remodel the studio at the same time we are still plenty busy. I can hardly wait until the studio is finished so we can get started on decorating it!

Maybe you have heard about the acrobatic course. Larrymore is bringing America's foremost acrobatic teacher to Lubbock for one week starting July 18th, and there will be acrobatics from all over this part of the country to take this course. We are trying to get all the good acrobatics here in Lubbock started to working this week so they will get in shape for the course. His name is James A. Rozanas, and he is really great. He is the guy Larrymore sent Jimmy Carter to summer before last. I'll tell you more about him next week. Maybe I can send you his picture.

There has been so much happening. And so many changes made her in the studio that I couldn't start to tell you all about in this letter, but I'll write you again next week.

Love,
WING.

Betty Mae Worrell Is To Marry Floyd L. Boston

Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at First Methodist church, a wedding ceremony will be read for Miss Betty Mae Worrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid B. Worrell of 1520 Thirty-fourth, and Floyd Leach Boston, 2421 Ave. K, son of W. W. Boston of Tulia. Dr. H. I. Robinson is to perform a double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of pink and white gladioli. There is to be a background of palms, fern and candles.

Organist, Miss Geranline Frazier, and soloist, Mrs. Joe Barron of Bryan, cousins of the bridegroom, are to present wedding music. Mrs. Barron will sing "Because" and "I Love You Trutly" and will offer "The Lord's Prayer" as a musical benediction.

Miss Worrell is to be given in marriage by her father. Her dress which was made by her mother is made of nylon marquisette over satin. It is fashioned with a lace yoke with beaded trimming and a lace ruffle, a long fitted bodice which buttons down the back and a skirt made with a bustle back and train. The leg o' mutton sleeves are trimmed with lace and come to points over the hands. For something old, she will wear a gold bracelet belonging to her maternal grandmother. Another piece of jewelry will be a double strand of pearls, gift from the bridegroom.

The bride's fingertip veil of illusion falls from a tiara of pearls and sequins and is edged with Chantilly lace. She is to carry a colonial bouquet of pink roses.

Attendants To Bride

Miss Doris Prater, maid of honor, is to wear a dress of blue taffeta fashioned after the bride's. Her bouquet will be of Better Times roses. Bridesmaids, are to be Miss Pearl Boston of Denver, Colo., sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Dorothy Jean Elliott, cousin of the bride. Miss Boston will wear a coral colored dress and will carry white roses. Miss Elliott's dress is to be of yellow taffeta and her bouquet will be of talisman roses.

Lois Ann Hampton of Louisiana, cousin of the bride and flower girl, will wear a white organdy dress. Candlelighters are to be Miss Ima Joe Lewis of Lake Worth, Florida, cousin of the bride who will wear yellow taffeta and Frank Boston of Tulia, brother of the bridegroom.

Henry Boston of Tulia, is to serve as his brother's best man and Ed Boston and Tommy Boston, other brothers, will be ushers.

Reception Is Planned

Wedding guests will attend a reception in the church parlor after the ceremony. The bride's table is to be covered with a hand-made lace cloth over pink satin. Decorations are to be baskets of pink and white gladioli. A four tiered wedding cake will be served. Guests will be from Stratford, Dalhart, Tulia, Plainview, Hereford, Bryan, Kress, Lake Worth, Florida, Louisiana and Kansas City, Mo.

After July 1, the couple will be at home in Lubbock. For a wedding trip, the bride is to wear a pink faille suit with blue and white accessories.

Miss Worrell is a graduate of Lubbock High school and a Junior at Texas Technological college. Mr. Boston is a graduate of Tulia High school and a junior at Tech. He served one and one-half years in the Navy.

OLD FAITHFUL

One of the "heirloom" cars which provided so much amusement for Tech students last semester has another successful trip to its record. The The 1929 black Ford cooperatively owned by several girls in Dorm III, when college closed, was driven to Fort worth by Jane Hyer and Mary Ruth Morris. The girls had little trouble, with the exception of using up 10 quarts of oil and driving the last 25 miles of the trek without lights.

After delivering Jane at her door, Mary Ruth drove on to her home in Waco alone, and from all reports was probably greeted with stony silence by her family. It seems that both of the girls' mothers drove to Lubbock to transport daughters and luggage home together, but learned that they would only have luggage for company on the return trip. Mrs. Norris had not been told of her daughter's current mode of transportation, and even the cars loyal owners had to admit that their "old faithful" was an unusual sight with its oil cloth upholstery, and (also with its constantly thirsty gas tank.)

England's Salesmen Learn To Sell Again

BRIDLINGTON, Eng. June 11 (AP)—The buyers' market has returned to England. But, say most merchants, it was gone so long most salesmen have forgotten how to sell.

To teach salesmen how to say something to customers other than "sorry, we are all out of that item," the local chamber of commerce has issued these 12 tips.

1. Always be neat.
2. Greet customers pleasantly because people just naturally avoid a sourpuss.
3. Be courteous instead of nosey, gossipy or too friendly.
4. Refrain from flattery and go easy on the "soft soap."
5. Make friends with children and pets.
6. Be alert and anticipate the customers' needs.
7. Sell, don't high pressure customers.
8. Do your best and don't kid yourself that you are getting by the easy way.
9. Make friends by promptly handling complaints.
10. Always be cheerful.
1. Be sure your sales story is sincere, but don't make it sound like a recitation.
12. Don't carry gossip. The customer reasons "if he gossips about other customers he probably will gossip about me."

Woods As Potential Candidate For Governor Swells Race List

By O. B. LLOYD, JR.
United Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 11—Dr. L. A. Woods, bounced by the Gilmer-Aikin acts from his job as state superintendent of schools, let it be known today that he has his eye on another office—that of governor of Texas.

"If the encouragement (to run) continues as it has thus far, I'll be in the race," he said.

Woods probable entry swelled the field of potential contenders in 1950 to eight.

Possible Runners Named

They included Caso March, an announced candidate; state Sen. Carlos Ashley, who is "considering" the race; Lt. Gov. Alan Shivers; Land Commissioner Bascom Giles; Railroad Commissioned Olin Culberson; Attorney General Price Daniel, and William C. McCraw, former attorney general and now Texas departmental commissioner of the American Legion.

Of the eight, March and McCraw are the only two to have made the race before.

McCraw, entering the running in 1938, dropped the political ball to W. Lee O'Daniel, then making his first successful try for office.

March has tried twice, once in 1846 and again in the 1948 elections. He was out-distanced both times by Beauford Jester.

Slogan In Mind

It was too early, Woods said, for a definite campaign announcement. However, he had what appeared to be a slogan.

What Texas neers, he said, is "more government for the money, and not more money for the government."

The "encouragement" to run, he said, was "picking up." He had, he said, the backing of no particular organization. However, he immediately added "I haven't asked for any."

The implication was that help was there if Woods wanted it. So far, he said, his "help is coming more from just natural, good citizens than it is from any professional group."

Woods, a former Waco school teacher—the home town of former Gov. Pat Neff, taught school there for seven years.

He began his job as state superintendent of public instruction in January, 1933.

During that time, Woods said, he has been responsible for spending 37 cents out of every state tax dollar. That's the amount that went to the state school system.

If it's experience in state government that the voters want, Woods said he thought he had it.

He was "solicited" to make the race for governor two terms back. "But things didn't shape up," he added.

Basically, he explained, any potential candidate sits back, sizes up the situation and "if you think you can win, you enter the race."

Politically, he said, he was focusing his eye only as high as the governor's office.

"If I do make the race," he said, "it will be no stepping stone."

Range Feeds Plentiful, Grass Slow Starting, Reports USDA

AUSTIN, June 11. (U.P.)—Range feeds were plentiful over the entire state at the end of last month, but summer grasses were slow starting because of a decrease in ground moisture, the United States Department of Agriculture reported Saturday.

General rains were needed, the USDA report said, over the eastern and southern two-thirds of the state to assure a green summer feed supply.

Cattle and ewes made rapid gains in May on an abundant spring feed supply.

The USDA reported the April Livestock slaughter in Texas at a 50,945,000-pound total, a 20 percent drop from the previous month and 33 per cent less than the same period a year ago.

The decreases were higher than for the nation as a whole, which was only 11 per cent down from March and 1 per cent less than April of last year.

Town Talk

HOME FROM a week's fishing trip at Greer, Ariz., are Mrs. Reginald Rushing and Messrs. and Mesdames Ralph Walker, Troy Price and Paul Crabtree of Big Spring.

The vacationers say the fishing was fine and the scenery was beautiful. They especially enjoyed throwing snowballs in June and kept a fire going all of the time.

Miss Joan Mason of St. Louis, Mo., has been a guest this week in the home of her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Holmquest, 2013 Main. She has been vacationing in Dallas, but came to Lubbock to attend her first rodeo. Although the pretty young lady was disappointed that the weather interferred with her attending all of he performances, she liked the ABC western show.

The Missouri miss attends Washington university in St. Louis, but is taking a summer holiday now. She will leave Lubbock sometime today.

Mrs. Carol Rogers and her daughters, Nanci and Kay, 2015 Sixteenth, left Saturday by automobile for Florida.

After relaxing in the sun and surf of the southern state, the Lubbockites will fly to Cuba to continue their vacation. It will be the first trip to the island for all of them.

The Rodgers trio will return to Lubbock about June 25.

Buffet supper will be served tonight at the Lubbock country club to members of the club and their guests. Reservations should be made in advance.

No individual parties or entertainments will be booked at the club all of this week because of the West Texas Golf tournament lasting from Monday through the coming Sunday.

Mrs. H. M. Phillips entertained with a coke party Friday as a courtesy to Miss Joyce McMurry, bride-elect of Glenn Ricketts. The couple will be married on June 15.

Guests attending were Mesdames W. A. McMurry, mother of the honoree; Douglas R. Coker, E. E. D'Acosta and Miss Laura Hightower.

A hostess gift was presented to Miss McMurry.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie M. Morrisset will arrive tonight from Galveston to spend the summer with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Morrisset, 2420 Twenty-first, and Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Leonard, 2211 Twenty-second.

Leslie will be house physician at Lubbock Memorial hospital for the summer, and his wife, Barbara, will be employed in the hospital record room.

Mrs. Lamar Jones, the former Betty Ruth Cobb, was honored recently with a bridal dinner and bridge held at 6:30 p. m. in the Homer L. Pharr home, 2608 Twenty-second with Mrs. Pharr, her daughter, Mrs. Robert Dawson, and Miss Mary Faye Bonds as hostesses.

Guests attending were Mesdames Cleveland Cobb, mother of the honoree; Jimmy Williams, and Johnny Waddell and Misses Frances Hackfield and Margaret Ann West.

A hostess gift of pottery was presented to Mrs. Jones, who is now a resident of Plainview.

Mrs. R. H. Forbes, 2115 Twenty-eight, left Friday night for Austin to visit her daughter, Mrs. Glenn Green, jr., who is the former Virginia Forbes.

Mr. Green, an International News Service staff writer, has been transferred to Washington, D. C., and has already gone to the nation's capital. Mrs. Green will join him about July 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Collins, 2702 Twenty-third, and Mr. and Mrs. Buster Welch, 3005 Twenty-fifth, were hosts for a buffet supper served Thursday night on the terrace of the Lubbock Country club.

Summer flowers were used in decorating, and 45 guests attended. Dancing followed the supper.

The Centennial club held its last meeting of the season with a traditional luncheon being given by four "losers" during the year, Friday at Chicken Village. Later, bridge was played in the home of Mrs. J. H. Hankins.

During a short business session Mrs. Hankins and Mrs. W. W. Rix were re-elected president and secretary, repectively.

Hostesses were Mesdames Dan A. Blair, Charles C. Crenshaw, and Hankins and Miss Margaret Turner.

Descendants Of Two Famous Russian Heroes In School

MOSCOW, June 12 (AP)—Descendants of two famous Russian military heroes are to be found in one Soviet aviation school.

They are: Boris Prokofiev, a great grandson of Fieldmarshall Kutuzov, the Russian general who deefated Napoleon and drove him out of Russia, and Valentine Chapaev, a grandson of V. I. Chapaev, one of the greatest military leaders and heroes of the Russian civil war.

The picture-magazine "Ogonek" recently carried a photo of these two heirs of Russian military tradition at their studies in aviation school on its cover.

Orange sections may simmer for about five minutes in a sugar syrup and then be used as an accompaniment for a baked ham slice. For a delicious flavor addition stud the outside rim of fat around the ham slice with cloves before baking. Scalloped potatoes, flavored with a little onion, are good served with this ham and orange combination.

Installation Is Conducted

W. D. Rogers, jr., sales manager of the Coca Cola Bottling company, was guest speaker at the annual bosses banquet given by Insurance Women of Lubbock Friday night at the Cactus Inn. Roy Bass was master of ceremonies and installed the following clubs officers; Mrs. P. J. Graham of Read and Denman agency, president; Miss Velda Hilton, Casey-Delaney agency, vice president; Mrs. Paul Ayer, Woolley and Hall Claim service, treasurer; and Miss Geneva Harkey, Lubbock Insurance agency, secretary.

Mrs. R. M. Cundiff, retiring president, gave the welcome and introduced guests. John Shropshire, Exchange club president, responded to the welcome. William A. Harrod, accompanied by Mrs. Newton Walton, pianist, played a violin solo and Raymond Shook played a piano solo.

The U-shaped dinner table was centered with a large arrangement of mixed spring flowers in a silver foil container flanked by pink tapers. English ivy and pink candles were placed at intervals down the table. Blue napkins, lettered in silver with IWOL, were used and silver place cards, lettered in yellow, marked places for the 75 persons attending.

Sue Tyson Is Married To Thomas J. Lovett

Wedding vows were read Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock at First Methodist church for Miss Mary Sue Tyson and Thomas J. Lovett of Lubbock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Tyson of 1316 Thirty-fourth, and the bridegroom is son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lovett of Perryton. Dr. H. I. Robinson officiated. The church altar was arranged with baskets of white and lavender stock and larkspur banked with fern fronds. Candles burned in the background.

Solos offered by Jimmy George were "Because," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and the benediction, "The Lord's Prayer." The organist, Mrs. Mamie I. Neal played soft wedding music and accompanied Mr. George.

The bride wore a dress of imported white organdy styled with a lace bodice with a deep shoulder effect, and a full gathered skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a halo of net and baby's breath and she carried a bouquet of red roses in colonial style centered with a gardenia corsage. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

MRS. THOMAS J. LOVETT

The maid of honor, Miss Gail Tyson, sister of the bride, wore yellow nylon marquisette fashioned with a gathered plunging neckline, short puffed sleeves and a full gathered skirt. She carried a bouquet of tiger lilies. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Wyland Mathis of Fluvanna, niece of the bride, Miss Katherine Eubank, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Richard Hicks, cousin of the bridegroom. They wore dresses of marquisette in pastel shades and wore halos of marquisette rosettes. Their bouquets were of sweetpeas and baby's breath.

Miss Lou Ann Sullivan, niece of the bride, and Miss Jo Ann Bruckner, candlelighters, wore pale green organza dresses with halos of sweetpeas and larkspur.

Richard Hicks was best man and Jack Lovett of Perryton, Bobby Jordan and Nunley Morris were ushers.

Parents of the bride, members of the wedding party and Mrs. Lonnie King and Mrs. T. J. Sullivan assisted with hospitalities at the reception given in the Tyson home following the ceremony. The bride's table was laid with a hand drawn cloth and decorated with pink and lavender larkspur and baby's breath, white tapers and a wedding cake. Bouquets of stock and larkspur were arranged throughout the house.

Among guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lovett and Mr. and Mrs Jack Todd of Perryton and Mr. and Mrs. Wyland Mathis of Fluvanna.

For a wedding trip to Santa Fe, and other points in New Mexico, the bride wore a navy blue linen suit with white accessories and a gardenia corsage. The couple is to live at 1319 Fourteenth after June 14.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Texas Technological college where the bride was a member of Future Teachers of America. She teaches at Overton Elementary school. Mr. Lovett, a veteran of the Marine corps, is a member of SPEBSQSA.

Proposes Route Across Tehuantepec

Sea Level Canal Across Mexican Isthmus Easy To Defend In War, Engineer Claims

BY WILLIAM GIANDONI
United Press Staff Correspondent

MEXICO CITY, June 11—A sea-level canal across Mexico's Isthmus of Tehuantepec could be defended easily in event of war, Herbert A. Hard, Columbus, O., engineer told an international civil engineering congress here.

Hard, who surveyed a proposed route for the Tehuantepec Canal in 1945 at the late President Roosevelt's orders, said that the canal could be "repaired in days, like the Suez Canal, if bombed."

He said the United States, on whom the burden of defense would fall, could put airplanes over the canal in a short time from such points as Mexico City, New Orleans or Ixtepec. The last named point is the location of a magnicent airport, capable of handling almost any type of aircraft known. The Ixtepec air field was constructed by the United States Airport Development Program during World War II with the co-operation of the Mexican government.

Easier To Defend

Hard maintained that a Tehuantepec canal would be much easier to defend than the Panama Canal or proposed canals through Colombia or Nicaragua.

Though Hard holds no official post in the United States government, he has been "gathering data" for Sen. Dennis Chavez (D., N. M.), who has a bill calling for construction of a canal through Mexico pending in Congress.

Hard, definitely opposed to plans to rebuild the Panama Canal to make it sea-level, said he estimates the cost of a canal through Mexico's narrowest bit of land at about $3,500,000,000. That would be about $500,000,000 more than the cost of reconstructing the Panama Canal, he said.

"The security and future economy gained would make this percentage of increase ridiculously small," Hard said.

Trip Shortened

Though the Panama Canal and Coatzacoalcos, the northern end of the proposed Mexican canal, are about the same distance (2,040 miles) from New York, the run from Salina Cruz, on the south, to northern Pacific ports is about 1,500 miles shorter than the trip from the Pacific end of the Panama Canal.

Hard said the saving is even greater on voyages from New York to Asiatic ports, or about 2,000 miles.

The canal route, as surveyed by Hard in 1945, is 140 miles long, "a more or less direct line from Coatzacoalcos to Salina Cruz." The canal would employ the estuary of the Coatzacoalcos River for 20 miles and follow the river, cutting through its loops, for the next 70 miles.

A 900-foot-high hump, about 25-30 miles across, runs at right angles to the proposed canal's route along the Isthmus, Hard said. Cutting through the hump "presents a staggering cost burden," he explained, suggesting a ravine to the east, leading to the upper Coatzacoalcost River, be used. He said employment of the ravine would reduce the deep excavation to six miles, without great deviation of the canal direction.

An estimated 1,000,000,000 cubic yards would have to be excavated to dig the canal, Hard said. It would be from 400 to 600 feet wide and have a depth of 60 feet.

He calculated the canal could be built in three years, "under war pressure." It would take a somewhat longer time to dig in peacetime, he indicated.

Doctor Husband Inspires Best-Selling Novels

Woman Winks At Primping, Pursues Several Careers

BY MARGARET WEIL
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 11 — Pretty Evelyn Barkins looks more like a sophomore cheer leader than a woman with three children and seven careers.

At 31, she wears little bows in her short, taffy-colored hair; clothes her collegiate figure in sweaters and skirts, and forgets to put her make-up on.

"I just don't have time to go wacky over clothes," she says with a smile. "Every woman has to decide what comes first—even if it means carrying a birth certificate around!"

Time Used Otherwise

Perched on the edge of a chair, Evelyn hugged her knees teen-age style as she explained that winking at "trimmings" gives her time to be a successful novelist, lawyer, lecturer, horticulturist, concert pianist, domestic relations counsel and—when needed—a nurse in her doctor husband's office.

Her husband, incidentally, inspired her best-selling novels, "The Doctor Has A Baby" and "I Love My Doctor."

"I just had to get all that modern malarkey about babies and marriage off my chest," said Evelyn who, along with her husband, makes fun of parlor psychiatrists.

"Nowadays," she added, her brown eyes half-serious," people have to have a reason for everything!"

Grew Up On Farm

Although born in New York, Evelyn grew up on a New Jersey farm where she learned about milking cows, grading eggs, raising tomatoes—everything except cooking!

"If it wasn't for frozen foods and pies, my family would actually starve," she said. "But, the deep freezer has made me a genius!"

At 15, Evelyn entered St. Lawrence university as a music and pre-law student. There she met John Barkins, a young interne, and over the protests of "everyone within 3000 miles" married him while they were still in college.

After they received their degrees, Evelyn became her husband's office nurse, intending to practice criminal law on the side.

Turned To Civil Law

Her first case changed her mind.

"Goodness!" she recalled with a shudder, "when I took up law, I didn't stop to think that if I lost a case, somebody would land in jail!"

Her first client didn't, but Evelyn took no more chances. Instead, she turned to civil law—and has never lost a case!

"How could I?" she quipped. "I never take a case unless I'm interested in it. And I'm only interested in good cases."

Besides her writing and legal practice, Evelyn gives piano concerts and is a "real bug" in her Scarsdale, N. Y., garden.

"I don't torture our lawn by cutting it too often," she laughs. "But, just the same, they ask me to lecture at garden clubs."

In her next novel, Evelyn intends to debunk progressive education which she calls "retrogressive education." Her characters will be her children, Lizzie, 9, Martha, 5, and George, 3.

"The psychos have suddenly discovered that children need lots of love!" she exclaimed. "But goodness! How could anyone help but love their children?"

This high-waisted skirt owes its smooth, snug fit to three small stays placed inside waistband.

Achieve "Stay-Put" Skirt

BY ALICIA HART, NEA Staff Writer

All the pulling and hauling, pins and tucks in the world, won't keep a high-waisted skirt up when it's inclined to crush, slip or fold at the waistline.

But a tiny purchase at the notion counter of three small stays will fix all that skirt-tugging nuisance. (Usually tiny stays no longer than those used to shape men's collar points will make a skirt top gravity-defying.)

Try out the boning by first pinning at strategic positions along the inside of the droopy waist band. Next, sew on tapes to form tiny slots at places you've marked. (Matching skirt material can be used to even better advantage as inner slots.) Slip in the boning and you've a "stay-put" skirt.

The inner-boned waistliner makes for better teamwork between any skirt and blouse, but stay-up stays are particularly effective with Empire-styled skirts and wide-banded summer dirndles.

Noted Jap Author-Doctor Gains Popularity As Ray Death Nears

TOKYO, June 11 (AP) — These are golden days for a frail little Japanese doctor who awaits death in a tiny hut on a Nagasaki hill. Each hour is precious, for it brings word of his skyrocketing influence as Japan's most popular author-doctor.

Before 1945 Dr. Takashi Nagai was virtually unknown. Today three of his books are first, third and seventh on Japan's best-seller lists. A fourth, which has just reached the stands, already is 12th.

What may be his final work is now in the hands of a publisher.

Dr. Nagai was a professor at Nagasaki medical college. His field was rays. His experiments over 20 years had exposed him to radiation which medical experts told him would doom him to an early death. Serene in his adopted Catholicism, he continued his teaching and work. Then on the morning of Aug. 9, 1945, the atom bomb burst on Nagasaki as Dr. Nagai was teaching in his classroom.

His wife was killed and his home vanished. His school was destroyed, and he suffered severe burns on the right side. The death of which he already had been warned was brought close and made certain.

Donated Blood

Dr. Nagai donated his blood to researchers in efforts to save the lives of bomb radiation victims. He personally visited the injured until too weak to resist orders to go to bed. Doctors now say he may live through the summer, perhaps into the autumn.

Unable to continue visiting the dying to tell of his faith in a hereafter, his hatred of war and his belief in the brotherhood of man, Dr. Nagai decided to write his views. His first published book was "Leaving These Children Behind," a collection of essays on Christianity, the atom bomb and his two small children, who were not in Nagasaki when the bomb fell, and thus escaped.

This book has sold more than 200,000 copies and tops Japan's best sellers. Dr. Nagai's first book was "Bells of Nagasaki," which was published last January, three years after a publisher had accepted it. "Beads of the Rosary" and "River of Life" are his two other works.

Despite ever-increasing royalties, he has not altered his simple living habits. He draws only enough money for daily expenses. The rest goes into a fund for rebuilding a war-razed Catholic cathedral, a children's library and a beautification program for his beloved Nagasaki.

ON DUTY IN JAPAN

WITH THE EIGHTH ARMY IN NARA, JAPAN:—Recruit Billy E. White of Floydada, Texas, is now on duty with the Eighth Field Artillery Battalion, which is stationed at Nara, Japan, and is part of the Pacific famed 25th Infantry (Tropic Lightning) Division, commanded by Major General William B. Kean. His present duty is that of cannoneer in Battery B. Joining the Army on January 5, 1949, he was sent to Camp Chaffee, Arkansas for his basic training. He arrived in Japan on April 26, 1949.

Russian Hunter Outwitted, Loses Live Decoy To Otter

MOSCOW, June 11 —It's better to be an otter than decoy duck, "Evening Moscow" related the facts of the case.

A hunter was sitting in his duck blind the other dawn. His live decoy was in the water nearby quacking its Judas call to the morning sky. Suddenly the quacking ceased. The decoy disappeared under the water only to come up struggling. An otter had sunk its teeth into the decoy.

The hunter fired into the water near the commotion. He didn't touch the otter (for it's against the law to shoot them) but he banged up the decoy so badly she died.

TO STAR IN BROWNFIELD RODEO—Monte Hale, above, western film star, will be featured performed in the Brownfield Junior Chamber of Commerce rodeo, scheduled for June 23-25. President John Kendrick of the Brownfield Jaycees has announced $1,500 in prizes have been added to entrance fees in the rodeo. Besides Hale other added attractions will include the Moore family and Beeswax, their taximeter mule, and George Fairchild as clown. Stock is to be furnished by Howard Brown of Dublin. Frank Szydloski, rodeo chairman, has announced that the new $20,000 rodeo arena is completed and will accommodate 3,000 people at each of the three nightly shows.

SHOULDN'T HAPPEN TO DOG

SINGAPORE, June 11 (AP)—Ten shots to kill a stray dog, complained a citizen, is a form of cruelty to animals, a waste of ammunition—and something should be done about it, he told the Singapore Rural Board. The chairman listened sympathetically, but ruled that "only so much efficiency" can be expected from a dog-shooter who gets only $12 a month.

Yankees In Uniforms Of '76 Are Planning "Invasion" Of England

HARTFORD, Conn., June 11 (U.P.) Sometime next year, plane and boatloads of Colonial musket men will give the English countryside a chance to see what Cornwallis and his red coats were up against 175 years ago.

But this time, the soldiers' muskets won't be loaded or their swords drawn. Instead, some 2,000 representatives of Revolutionary units, garbed in their reds and blues and plummed hats, will arrive as ambassadors of good will and to return relics captured from the British at the battles of Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill.

At the head of the "invasion" will be Col. Sam E. Dockrell of the Putnam Phalanx of Connecticut, wearing his three-cornered hat and tight fitting britches, replete with lace and frills. Under his wing will be representatives of the Ancient Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, the oldest military group in this country, the historic Lexington Minute Men, the Georgia Hussars, the Richmond Blues and other groups of the 13 original states.

Second Pilgrimage

It will be the second time since the turn of the century that a pilgrimage of this type was made to Europe. After the first World War the Phalanx was joined with the Connecticut Governors' Foot Guard and the Virginia Blue on a similar voyage.

All the units are members of the Centennial Legion of Historic Military Commands, organized after the centennial exposition was dedicated on July 4, 1876, at Philadelphia to represent each old military unit of the 13 states. They pledged to keep alive their ancient traditions and to preserve records of their military achievements.

The good will trip is being planned like a big military operation and many of the travelers will retrace the ground they covered in one or two world wars.

Plans Kept Secret

Although some of the plans are a "military secret," Col. Dockrell did reveal that the beachhead would be established at London, where a wreath will be placed at the tomb of the British Unknown Soldier at Westminster Abbey. From there, the regiments will move on to Paris and Brussels.

All units will carry the flag of the riginal 13 colonies in addition to their command colors, and there will be a big brass band. The Phalanx band will be complete and may be augmented with instruments and musicians from other units.

The trip has drawn widespread attention in spots across the ocean and in Congress and individual states. In Connecticut, the general assembly passed a resolution calling the journey the "occasion for the confirmation of international friendship and mutual understanding."

Other legislatures are considering bills to underwrite financing the trip for their respective groups. Word has reached London. Several Britishers are already at work on plans to greet the "Yanks."

Health Officer Gives Tips On Fly Spraying

AUSTIN, June 11. (U.P.)—Texas' state health officer said today that an unplanned fly spraying program is like using "toilet water to overcome B. O."

It doesn't, he said, get at the root of the trouble.

Dr. George W. Cox said his state health department "heartily endorses a fly spraying program, provided it includes a general clean-up program carried out during the entire year."

"For example," he said, "why spray a garage heap that not only inyites but actually breeds flies when it should have been removed. Why spray the city dump," he asked, "when it really should have been covered?"

'Spray Gathering Places'

"I fear," he added, "the unplanned spraying program is similar to the application of perfume or toilet water to overcome B. O. or the application of powder to cover dirt."

In a well-planned program, the health officer said, all places where flies gather, such as dumps, rubbish piles and decaying vegetation should be cleaned up by hauling away and burying.

Proper garbage and rubbish containers with fly-tight covers "should be demanded from all." All buildings should be screened.

"Then," Cox said, "secure a sprayer outfit, preferably with one or more hoses, each manned by a skilled operator to spray the areas where flies and other insects will light." It does little good, he said, to spray the center of the street, the ball diamond or the sidewalks.

Spray the surfaces, he said, where the insects light or breed.

CHICAGO COPS ARE TOUGH

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Detective Phillip Lauth and his partner captured a couple of burglars. There had been some gunfire but Chicago cops have to expect that sort of thing now and then. The next day Lauth had a bachache. He asked his son to rub it with liniment. The boy soon saw another type of treatment was needed. The detective had been shot.

Woman Illinois Mayor Turns Down Office To Have A Child

EAST CARONDELET, Ill., June 11 (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Pugh came up with a different reason for not choosing to run again.

She was mayor for more than a year, but did not run again because "you can't watch a town and a baby at the same time." Now her small son, Jerry, gets her full attention.

The elephantine amblypod, a curious animal, had three sets of horns. It vanished from the earth millions of years ago.

Russian Navy Paper Is Telling Sailors To Beware Of All Spies

MOSCOW, June 11 (AP)—A recent lead editorial in "Red Fleet" told Soviet sailors to beware of foreign spies.

The editorial declared that "agents of foreign intelligence services are attempting to obtain various information; in particular, information on the armed forces of our country." It said that the "very character of military service obliges every soldier, sailor and officer to be always watchful and on guard."

"Red Fleet" added that "for enemy agents any—even the most insignificant information—has interest" and explained that "from details the large picture is built up."

"Red Fleet" declared that "enemy agents especially are on the lookout for people who are morally unstable and who are sycophantic before things foreign, for slipshop persons and gossips."

The enemy, the paper said, uses widely the weapon of "bourgeois cosmopolitanism" attempting to weaken Soviet people and undermine their Soviet patriotism.

It is a mistake, declared the editorial, to think that only when a sailor is on watch must he be on the lookout. He must all the time exercise his eare and be vigilant, on or off duty. The editorial concluded: "The minister of the armed forces obliges all Soviet warriors to be always in battle readiness. And battle readiness presupposes also high vigilance.

Quadruplets Plenty Of Work But Not Too Much Trouble, Says Mom

LATROBE, Pa., June 11 (U.P.)—This may sound like a fairy tale, but Mrs. Andrew Zavada says quadruplets mean four of everything but trouble.

Mrs. Zavada changes 500 diapers a week on her quartet of 15-month-old youngsters, and she works from 6 a. m. to midnight, but she's less ruffled about her job than the average mother of one.

"It's not hard," she smiled, "if you have a system. And it helps when the babies are as good as mine."

Doctors said the birth of the Zavada quadruplets was one in 600,000 when they were born last year in February, but the mother says they're at least four in a million. John Michael and his three sisters sleep much of the time. They wait patiently for their turns at being fed, bathed and changed.

Appetites Good

They eat almost everything that is poked into their mouths, and they treat visitors to smiles and friendly gestures.

All that co-operation makes it easier for their efficient mother, but it's still an 18-hour-a-day job to take care of four babies, a six-year-old, a steelworker husband and an eight-room house. A practical nurse comes to help with the famous quartet on six days and Mrs. Zavada's mother comes two days a week to help with the chores, and it's still a long day for the mother.

The quads get up at 8 a. m. after their mother has been getting the father and their six-year-old brother off for the day. First on the schedule is milk all around, then baths and breakfast at about 10 o'clock. They go to bed around noon, when a second bottle makes its appearance, and they play until about two. A meal of strained vegetables, meat and fruit is next on the schedule. They get two more bottles between that time and 8 o'clock, when they hit the hay for the night.

Between times, Mrs. Zavada keeps her house shining, cooks and does a washing every day. A diaper service handles that end of the wash, but there's still plenty to do. The quads wear at least one outfit and a different nightgown every day. Besides that, the cribs must be changed, too.

Fortunately, the toddlers have been in good health. One scare came when Anna Mary spent five days in Latrobe Hospital with bronchial pneumonia. She came home on Mothers Day, a fine present, Mrs. Zavada said.

Johnny is the heaviest at 20 pounds, and he has 10 teeth. The girls average 16 pounds and only have one or two teeth apiece.

Mrs. Zavada is the only one who cna tell her famed offsprings apart without fail. But she still puts tiny identification bracelets around their ankles.

Woman Accused Of Nude Dancing Is Threatened By Hooded Group

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 11 (U.P.)—A 42-year-old grandmother charged today that a hooded group broke into her home, roughed her up and forced her to watch a cross burning after accusing her of "dancing in the nude."

Mrs. Hugh McDanal, although only recently discharged from a hospital following a brain operation, bravely defied the intruders.

When she lifted hoods from the faces of several of the group, she said she was hit on the head by one man and on the arm by another. One arm was bruised and her head bore a small cut from the encounter.

Threatened With Hanging

Mrs. McDanal, who lives on the Atlanta-Memphis highway near here, said the crowd threatened "to string up her and her husband" if they heard "any other reports from neighbors."

She said there were about 100 hooded and robed members of the group and "at least 10" knocked out the glass in her front door, released the night latch and entered. She said they were armed with partly-concealed pistols.

"I asked them what was the meaning of this," Mrs. McDanal said. "Then they started accusing me of running an immoral house, dancing in the nude and selling whisky."

"I've never been guilty of either," she said.

"One of the men said there was a preacher in the group and asked him to pray for me. I told him that he had better have the preacher pray for this group for the Lord had better have mercy on your souls."

She said the preacher did not step forward.

Mrs. McDanal said they forced her to stand only in her nightgown and watch the cross burn in front of the 100 hooded men and several passersby who had been forced to stop by the group's motorcade.

"I lifted up the hoods and saw the faces of four or five members of the group," she said. "I believe I could recognize them."

Medical Weapon Found To Combat Arthritis, Is Tried Successfully

By PAUL F. ELLIS
United Press Science Writer

NEW YORK, June 11 — Medical science appears to have found the weapon to combat arthritis, a disease that disables many thousands of Americans each year.

The new weapon is a hormone, now known as compound E. It has bee nmade synthetically, but only in the smallest of amounts, and it may be several years before it can be made in enough quantity to assure general distribution.

However, while the compound is not now available, the arthritic person surely has cause for hope, because the first experimental tests on human beings in the Mayo Clinic showed without question that compound E is a powerful weapon in the battle against arthritis.

Cripples Relieved

The compound was particularly effective against rheumatoid arthritis, the type that often strikes young adults.

Persons who had been crippled for years got up and walked with no pain. One elderly patient even managed to dance a jig.

It was found that the symptoms returned when use of the hormone was stopped, so the development probably means that persons suffering arthritis may have to use the hormone steadily, just as a diabetic must have his daily insulin.

Merck & Co., Rahway, N. J., which is manufacturing the new compound, reports:

"The very small amounts of compound E currently available have already been allocated to investigators who are studying the best conditions for using the new drug.

"They test the drug under various conditions to determine its safety and effectiveness. They determine the dosages and investigate the possibility of any harmful effects from prolonged use. Much time and great effort also are needed to develop the manufacturing facilities and processes.

"By the time the new product is being manufactured in ample amounts, the necessary backlog of knowledge concerning its safety and effectiveness will have been built up, with resulting benefit to the public."

Hope For Sufferers

The lack of ample quantities of the compound will be disappointing to the thousands of persons suffering from arthritis but they should remember that streptomycin, penicillin and the other "wonder drugs" also were hard to get at the start. Today, streptomycin and penicillin are easily obtained.

The Merck scientists believe that new methods of manufacturing compound E will be found and that the production problem will be whipped. So, it appears that compound E may follow the same pattern as in the case of sterptomycin and penicillin.

New Vistas Opened

Some medical experts believe that the discovery of a compound that relieves arthritis opens the door to an entirely new approach in the matter of treating degenerative diseases, such as hardening of the arteries and perhaps even mental cases.

The evidence more and more points to the theory that health in man depends on the proper hormone balance. It has been shown that in some cancer patients they lack certain hormones that normal persons have. Also, it has been shown that some cancer patients have an excessive amount of certain hormones.

The life span of the American has risen considerably in the past decade. It might well shoot up again in the next ten years, the scientists believe.

Restoration Of Old Kremlin Wall Is Nearing Completion

MOSCOW, June 8. (AP)—Restoration of the ancient Kremlin wall is nearing completion. During the last few years workmen have been rebuilding the Kremlin wall's many towers and all but one, the Arsenal Tower, have been restored. Work has started on this tower.

The Kremlin wall is made of bricks, the large kind that were fashioned many years ago. In restoring the wall the workman are using specially made large bricks looking like the old ones.

Complete restoration of the walls, towers and walks is expected to be completed by the end of this year.

British Money Is Problem For Army

TEDDINGTON, Middlesex, England, June 11. (AP)—The children of this London suburb are saying again:

"Got any gum, chum?"

The 500 officers and men stationed here at the British Air Transport Command's Bushy Park seem a bit different from the Americans who were here in war time. The 500 are the headquarters of the Third United States Air Division, working very hard at administering the affairs of the three American bomb groups training in the United Kingdom, and of the great machine shops at Burtonwood where the American mechanics tune up planes.

This Army seems different because there is little of the glamor and urgency of war time. The soldiers' families are about. Headquarters men live in English homes and fume like Englishmen about fireplaces that smoke. They stand in queues to get English rations, and blend inconspicuously into the community lives of a dozen villages. They can be inconspicuous because in off duty hours they may wear civilian clothing.

The Third Air Division's tasks fall into two quite separate activities. One is the training program. The bomb groups fly over from America for three-month training periods, and are based at Sculthorpe, Lakenheath and Marham. They fly about in tricky English weather, often collaborating in the RAF training program.

The other job is at Burtonwood, where specialized troops on indefinite assignment service the planes on the Berlin air lift.

Soldiers who do not live in barracks need sterling to pay the rent, and the American in uniform is approached by slick characters who offer pounds cheap for dollars. It's black marketing, discouraged by the Army and regarded with horror by the British treasury.

So the division converts some dollars officially and soldiers may have any portion of their pay in sterling. But once having accepted sterling they cannot convert back into dollars, a situation full of headaches for soldiers expecting to be transferred on short notice.

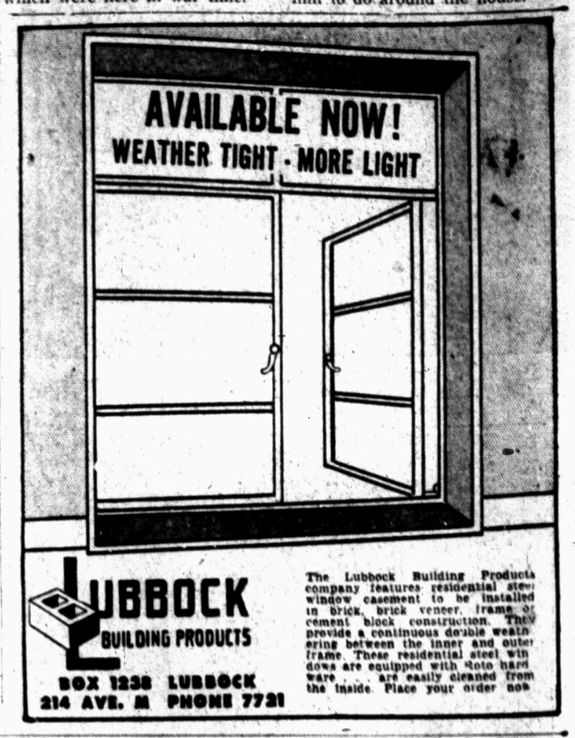

Numerous American children contribute to the family atmosphere which distinguishes headquarters from American units which were here in war time.

Oklahoma Newspaper Columnist Says Right Thing, Wrong Time

HOBART, Okla., June 11 (AP)—Charlie Klein is going to learn to control his enthusiasm when it comes to promoting civic projects.

Bald Cotton And Stiffer Oats Developed For New Machinery

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11. — Plant breeders are designing new farm crop plants almost like automobile designers create new style cars.

They're doing this to build up resistance to disease and hardiness against bad weather—but also so that the plants will fit new and super-efficient harvesting machinery.

The scientists have produced a cotton with "bald" leaves that won't tangle in a picking machine, a round sugar beet that can be scooped up with a shallow digging machine, oats with shorter and stiffer straws that will stand up to a reaper.

Adapting still more crops to machine harvesting is one of 1949's major projects in plant breeding work. Much of this work is being carried on at the government's huge experimental farm at Beltsville, Md., near here.

Plant Genes Cataloged

The plant builders work with some materials they can't even see or identify, like genes.

Genes are units of inheritance in the life cell. They pass along certain characteristics, like tallness or resistance to disease, from parents to offspring.

Scientists don't know exactly where the genes occur in the cell. Nevertheless they can catalog them.

Breeding experiments determine rather accurately which genes certain plants carry. In over-simplified terms, when plant breeders attempt to obtain certain characteristics, they study the catalogs and the plants and then breed new plants with these characteristics.

The plant breeders have succeeded in crossing a red garden beet, which is almost round, with the sugar beet. The result is an almost round-shaped sugar beet, streamlined for mechanical harvesting.

Tall Corn Worked Over

Spectacular things have been done with corn.

Farmers like to boast they live where the tall corn grows, but tallness in corn can be costly. Scientists grew some varieties so tall that seed growers had to get up on stilts to reach the tassels.

You can't work with tassles that high, so the scientists, obligingly brought the corn down to a proper and uniform height.

Uniform height corn also fits the corn picker, and its kernels are as good and nourished as those of other corn.

Farmers also needed a new-style soybean plant. Some plants had their pods so low that picking machines missed them.

Scientists juggled the genes of several varieties and produced soybeans that bear pods at just the right height.

One of the best examples of gene juggling is the bald cotton plant. This work started with bug experts—not plant breeders. They wanted to eliminate the hair from cotton leaves because it harbored destructive insects.

But the hair also catches on cotton pickers and draws leaves and other trash into the machines.

Several years ago scientists in Mississippi came up with bald cotton plants. They didn't produce so much cotton as haired plants, but when they were crossed with high producing varieties a high-production bald cotton plant was created. It's now being tested.

Beltsville cotton breeders say it may add $10 to $15 to the value of every bale of bald cotton grown.

Cunard Line Plans New Super Vacation Cruise For Winter

LONDON, June 11 (AP) — The Cunard Line's Caronia, newest liner in its fleet, will make an 80-day cruise next winter to South America, South and East Africa, Egypt, the Holy Land and the Mediterranean. The cruise, covering 19,000 miles, is planned to attract American tourist dollars.

The 34,000 ton Caronia, designed especially for cruising, will sail from New York Jan. 12 and end the cruise at Southhampton March 25. Passengers will then be free to spend some time in England—and more dollars—or return to the United States immediately in one of the company's other liners.

A feature of the cruise will be a chance for vacationers to strike out through the interior of Africa and rejoin the ship 17 days later at Mombasa. In the Mediterranean, the Caronia will call at Tel Aviv, Malta and Italian ports.

OPPOSE REGISTRATION

Europeans at a public mass meeting in Mombassa voted overwhelmingly against Kenya's National Registration Bill, providing for finger-printing of all males over 16.

DOCTOR LAUNCHES SECOND 40 YEARS—Dr. I. B. Howard, portly, florid and 74, rides into town in Williamson, Ga., in an ancient buggy for a neighborhood celebration in tribute to his 40 years of practice there. Bill Beckman, negro driver who started working for the doctor 39 years ago, holds the reins. Actually Dr. Howard switched to autos years ago but reverted to the horse and buggy and derby hat—just for sentiment's sake. During his practicing years he has delivered 2,643 babies; wore out two horses and 26 Fords.

Initial-Carvers Still Go For Stone Walls Instead Of Wood

BRIGHTLINGSEA, Eng., June 11 (AP)—The council of 700-year-old All Saints Anglican Church sat down and tried to figure out how to keep visitors from carving things in the stone walls.

They formed a plan. They had a wooden board nailed to a nearby oak with a sign saying:

"If you must leave your name or initials, please put them on this board and not on the church walls." That was 25 years ago.

So what happened? Report from the vicar, the Rev. Charles Heard:

"Not a single initial has ever been carved on the board. Visitors still carve their initials on the walls, at the rate of several hundred a year."

'Missing Link' Believed Found

GRANVILLE, O., June 11 (AP)—A Cincinnati geologist believes the recent discovery in South Africa of a primitive culture may help solve the problem of the "missing link" between ape and man.

Dr. George B. Barbour, liberal arts dean of the University of Cincinnati, said the ancient bone-and-horn culture was existing "apparently thousands of years before it had any right to be there."

He said permission to release news of the puzzling discovery was given him by Dr. Raymond Hart, South African scientist who has been working for years on the problem of man-apes.

"Signs of this culture have been found at the Limeworks cave at Makapan, 150 miles north of Johannesburg, with the remains of Australopithecus, a primate of special significance because he fills an important gap in the picture of man's background," Dr. Barbour explained.

Australopithecines, he said, show a puzzling combination of human and ape-like features. Anthropologists have found skulls of this group with a capacity between that of the largest brained apes and the smallest skulled humans, with a range that overlaps both.

The college dean said the culture which has been uncovered in South Africa seems to differ little if at all from that of the Peking man discovered in China.

Final answers and significance of the new discovery, he said, have to be made.

BUT HE RECOVERS

A native houseboy in Laurenco Marques, Mozambique, slept with his mouth open, swallowed a cockroach, rushed to the kitchen and drank a whole bottle of cockroach killer—and is slowly recovering.

Time-Consuming Task Of Bedmaking Can Be Eased Considerably By Letting Them Lie

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—There's just no "one best way" for every woman to make beds, the Agriculture department (that's right) concludes.

"Much depends on the type of bed, the kind and amount of bedding, the skill and speed of the worker," says a mimeographed release entitled, aptly, "faster bedmaking."

Special Study Made

Taking note of reports that bedmaking is "a tedious, time-consuming daily task of so many homemakers over the years," Marianne Muse of the Vermont experiment station made a special study in her state in an effort to ease the situation.

The findings:

Seven women interviewed found they could save time "and still do a good job" by making up one side of the bed completely and then making the other side.

Several suggested using one warm blanket instead of two lighter blankets, thus saving handling, steps and effort.

Two-Person Job

Four women, with no regard for manpower, believed that bedmaking should be a two-person job.

Following up the once-around-the-bed method, Miss Muse ran a series of tests to discover that for skillful workers this could save considerable time.

On the other hand, the report said, "some women disliked it because they found difficulty in tucking in the lower sheet smoothly and securely with all the covers on the bed at one time. They preferred to put on the lower sheet first and carefully mitre the corners before adding the rest of the covers."

A majority of the 183 experienced homemakers interviewed suggested the greatest time could be saved by omitting some of the conventional steps—such as putting on counterpanes daily, or (note this) "by not making beds every day."

Changing Types Of Polio Virus Slow Research On Vaccination

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4 (AP)—Everybody gets infantile paralysis at one time or another, not just once, but several times, on each occasion with a different type or strain of the disease virus, says Dr. William McD. Hammon of the University of California.

Dr. Hammon says that whether a person gets sick from the infection probably depends mainly on how much virus he has absorbed, whether he has exercised heavily, is tired or chilled and whether he has had an operation on his nose or throat. There probably also are some undiscovered reasons why the infection turns virulent. In women, pregnancy may add to the hazard.

For each different infection a person acquires an immunity which protects him against future invasion of those same kinds of virus.

But polio virus strains are changing continually. It would be impossible to make enough vaccine from all the strains to protect people against them all. For that reason vaccination doesn't look very promising, Dr. Hammon says.

Poland's Miners Expected To Boost Coal Production

KATOWICE, Poland, June 11 (AP)—Poland's coal miners expect to turn out around 75,000,000 tons this year. The 1949 target is 74,000,000. That would be an increase of about 14,000,000 over 1948.

Additionally, coal miners have pledged themselves to exceed production targets assigned to them. They expect to produce 1,500,000 tons of coal above their "norms."

All through the coal industry, the ministry of mining and power is encouraging "work races."

That means champion miners vying against each other to see who can produce the most coal. Thus far this year, a total of 800 miners are reported to have exceeded their targets by 151 to 400 percent.

Poland exported 26,000,000 tons of coal in 1948. Exports are expected to top 30,000,000 this year.

Military Personnel From Base In Louisiana To Visit Lubbock

When the military personnel s moved into the recently reactivated Lubbock Air Force Base they will not come here as strangers. For some time the "Barksdale Bark," official base newspaper at the Shreveport, La., air installation, has been regaling the officers and men there with pictures and stories of Lubbock and its surroundings.

The 'Bark' makes it clear that the information it is passing along is not just 'chamber of commerce stuff" but first hand information obtained by an advance guard that came to Lubbock. What they saw and heard was carried back. From the looks of the 'Bark' most of it was favorable.

Group Due Here

Not co nt with this method of indictrinating the men who are to be transferred here, the commanding officer of the Barksdale base is selecting 18 outstanding noncommissioned officers to make a special trip to Lubbock. They will arrive here Monday at 11 a. m. and will be met by a committee of 12 prominent business men. From then on they are the guests of the Chamber of Commerce.

From the airport the 18 enlisted men will be brought into town for luncheon at the Lubbock Hotel. After the luncheon a special bus will be chartered to take the men on a tour of Lubbock and the environs. This tour will last about two and one-half hours.

Accompanying the visitors will be E. K. Hufstedler, jr., Don Davis, H. S. Humphries, Neil Wright, jr., George Dale, E. F. St. Clair, jr., Steve Matthews, W. H. Carpenter, B. R. Mills, Horace Gearhart, Mayor W. H. Rodgers, and Russell S. Wilkinson.

Barbecue Planned

After the tour of the town the 18 men will be released and 'on their own' until 5 p. m. Tuesday afternoon. At that time the men named above, together with Spencer Wells, Earl Collins, L. E. Davis, H. D. Grant, Homer Maxey and Chas. A. Guy, will play hosts to the military guests at a barbecue. The barbecue will be served at Lower Buffalo Lake.

After the men have been given the full hospitality treatment they will return to their home base at Barksfield Field at 8 a .m. Wednesday. From that time until they are transferred to Lubbock they will to available to answer the hundreds of questions that will be fired at them by their many buddies.

"What's Lubbock like?"

"Are the people friendly?"

"What can we do in our off time?"

These and many more questions will be asked. The 18 men will probably learn most of the answers while they are here this week. To be sure that nothing is overlooked a similar trip will be made by 18 officers on June 15.

Advance information indicates the men are clamoring for a chance to come to Lubbock and they consider it quite an honor and a treat.

The Chamber of Commerce asks the cooperation of all Lubbock residents to make the Air Force visitors welcome and happy with their brief stay here. These men will be representative of the hundreds who will follow them later on in the year.

Army Family Of Nine To Join Officer Based In Greenland

WESTOVER FIELD, Mass., June 11. (U.P.)—The largest Army family ever moved out of the country by air, Mrs. Charles H. Williams, 35, and her eight children, took off from here today in an Army C-47 bound for Greenland.

They are going to Narsarrssoak Air Force base to join 1st Lt. Williams who is personnel officer at the base. The children's ages range from 1 to 14 years.

The family came from Lackland Air Force base in San Antonio, Texas, where Williams was stationed until three months ago. Williams' home is Kenton, Ohio.

Grave In Luxembourg Large Enough To Hold General's Body, But Too Small For Legend

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

HAMM, Luxembourg, June 11. There is a grave here big enough for a man, but too small to hold a legend.

In the grave lies Gen. George S. Patton, jr., and it holds him securely. But his legend reaches across the miles and years to all those who aspire to what he lived by and that was leadership.

They didn't bury "Georgie" here, they just put him underground. But nobody shoveled earth on what he stood for nor can anyone as long as men put their faith in valor.

Perhaps the word is glory. Georgie used that word often. He liked the sound of it and he believed in it. He didn't fight the system under which mankind has dwelled in worry and wonder since Cain killed Abel.

Heritage Is Struggle

He took it as it has been. He said it would probably continue and he believed and lived and died in that belief—that man is born to warfare and that since his heritage is struggle, those who struggle with the firmest courage are the people who face life in the finest way.

There is probably a wisdom above war called peace — the world's unknown adventure. Whether peace is good or bad for the human race has never been fully determined because always since the Garden of Eden this race, facing life with more vanity than the insects but with four fewer legs, has expressed its frustrations in a sterile pattern of weary violence.

War Collective Murder

In individual cases these outbreaks are classified as homicide, a kind of crime. In the cases of nation against nation there is the softer word, war, a kind of polite and collective murder. Under this surprising moral order you can be hanged for killing a man you have a personal grievance against or can be awarded with a medal for killing 25 strangers you don't know.

Georgie Patton took mankind as it is and as it always has been. His real monument was a ruthless, personal honesty. He believed that people, being what they are, made war inevitable, not just once but over and over.

Honest With Public

Because his courage came out of his mouth as well as his heart, because he spoke as bravely and straightly as he acted, he was with them than they were with him. They compromised and quibbled. He acted. He did what they wanted done.

They wanted victory and he gave it to them. There are diplomats in military as well as civilian life. Diplomats want success without the attrition and risk of gambling.

Georgie was smart enough to know that a bold general spends men's lives to save other men's lives. He hated foxholes because he really believed that digging in was wasted energy, that in attacking again and again lay success and few losses.

And when the Army needed a tough man to do a tough job, there was Georgie, tough enough to order one man to his death to keep two other men alive. And that was the courage he had—a courage above military politics.

The Russian-British frontier in Germany was opened up to let through six performing Russian bears bound for a circus in the British zone.

Two Soldiers Sentenced To Prison In Robbery Attempt

BURTONWOOD, Eng., June 11 (U.P.)—Two U. S. soldiers were sentenced to prison today for attempted arm robbery of a hotel near the American Air Force base here last March.

Corp. Mitchell O. Sowell, 21, Memphis, Tenn., was sentenced to five years at hard labor and given a dishonorable discharge. Pvt. Cecil C. Geiger, 22, Warren, Tex., was given two years at hard labor and dishonorable discharge.

Sowell told the Army court he tried to hold up the Chorlton Arms hotel at Metlock, Eng., last March 30 because he owed $300, "and they were pressing me."

Geiger said he "needed some money to go on leave."

Prospecting Still Tough Man's Job

By KENNETH LAMB
United Press Staff Writer

REGINA, Sask., June 11 (U.P.) — The atomic age prospectors who are swarming into the great northern wilderness are a far cry from the men who grubbed for gold.

They get a free lift over the backbreaking terrain in government airplanes.

They carry Gieger counters. They dream of a uranium strike.

But they still haven't licked the two things that have made the life of a prospector a miserable one for two years, bloodthirsty mosquitoes and black flies.

It's still a job for tough men. The bearded back-to-nature boys with the million-dollar dreams who now are assembling at Lac la Rouge, Prince Albert and Flin Flon for a plunge into the Saskatchewan wilderness are a sinewy lot. The beards aren't an affection. They are mosquito protection.

Many Licenses Sold

More prospectors' licenses were sold this spring than in any previous similar period. More than 250 men are expected to be hunting precious metals in one province within the next month.

The thing that caused it was the uranium deposit that LeRoy Toby and John Albrecht found while looking for a lost bear trap last year. They sold the development rights for $15,000 cash and a share of the profits, which may net them several hundred thousand dollars.

There are three kinds of prospectors in the field this year.

The independents pay their own way.

Equipment Supplied

The largest group is sponsored by the provincial government. They are supplied with equipment, including canoes, outboard motors, Geiger counters, rifles and food. An airplane flies them to their destination, then visits them every few weeks to bring food and other supplies and take out their samples for assaying.

This class of prospectors must agree to spend at least 100 days in the bush. They still look for silver and gold, but the main search is for uranium.

Prospectors, usually working in pairs, sometimes cover 50 square miles in a season, wandering over the countryside looking for promising rocks.

The uranium search also is expected to attract hundreds of short-term adventurers who plan to devote their vacations to this million-dollar poker game.

New Manager Is Appointed By Austin Chamber Of Commerce

U. N. Health Group Plans Large All-Out Fight Against Disease

By GABRIEL De SABATINO
(INS) Staff Correspondent

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., June 11—A huge all-out offensive against disease embracing the cooperation of scientists and healthy experts from all parts of the world is planned for next year by the World Health organization.

The 63-nation organization, a specialized agency of the United Nations, will make plans for the health assembly opening in Rome on Monday.

Doctors and scientists from seventy nations will take part in the program to eradicate or bring under control such scourages as tuberculosis, cholera, plague, malaria, venereal and other diseases.

Report Is Basis

Basis for action will be a 170-page report, "Program and Budget estimates for 1950," which envisages an entirely new, supplementary program to go into effect next year in addition to W. H. O.'s regular health activities.

The program, already approved by W.H.O.'s 18-nation executive board, calls for $9,152,520 in voluntary contributions from member governments to help finance the undertaking. The sum is in addition to the regular W.H.O. budget of $7,893,000.

The program outlines new techniques, based on experience gained by W.H.O. medical and nursing teams in the field, for attacking health problems over the world, notably in underdeveloped areas.

Proposes Team Technique

W.H.O. proposes to apply this technique in "health demonstration areas"—selected parts of underdeveloped regions of the world where health problems are most acute. In such areas there are usually found one or more endemic (continuously present) diseases, such as cholera, plague, relapsing fever, or malaria, which can be eradicated through the application of modern medical methods. Deficient sanitation, poor hygiene, unsatisfactory food supplies also add to the disease control problem in such regions.

W.H.O. hopes to attack all these problems in the health demonstration areas using mixed teams of health and nursing experts who will teach their special techniques to local health personnel and personnel from surrounding areas where health problems are similar.

Serve As Starting Points

In this way, the health demonstration areas will serve as starting points in the campaign to wipe out endemic diseases and to raise health standards generally.

On other fronts, the organization plans expanded activities in the B. C. G. vaccination program which is being carried out jointly with the United Nations international children's emergency fund and various Scandinavian health enterprises.

B. C. G., a preparation used to ward off T. B. infection, has been used with some success in the anti-T. B. campaign, although its full results are yet to be determined.

Millions of children already have been tuberculin-tested and vaccinated in Europe and North Africa, and campaigns are starting in India and other countries.

Committees Set Up

In addition, increased effort is contemplated in the fields of mental health, environmental sanitation, maternal and child care, and the control of venereal, pestilent and tropical diseases. W.H.O. already has set up working committees of experts to study these problems.

Other subjects included in W.H.O.'s program include public health education, training of doctors and nurses, and the improvements of public health administrations and nutrition. Long-term international health activities initiated by the old League of Nations and taken over by W.H.O., such as the standardization of therapeutic substances, also are included.

Warning System Planned

Finally, the program envisages the continuation and expansion of services rendered to governments by the epidemilogical section of W.H.O. These include timely warnings of the outbreaks of pestilent diseases in any part of the world by cable and radio, and the compilation of data and statistics on epidemic diseases.

The United States will be represented at the health assembly in Rome by Dr. Frank A. Calderone, director of the New York office of W.H.O.; Dr. Fred L. Soper, director, and Dr. Miguel E. Bustamente, secretary general, of the Pan American sanitary bureau in Washington, the American regional office of W.H.O.

'Love Notes' Bring Anything But Pleasure To Tax Evaders

MUENSTER, Germany, June 11 (AP)—Mystery "love notes" in the diaries of several business men here cost their owners a lot in income tax arrears.

When arrested on trivial charges their notebooks were inspected by the police. The police asked the meaning of mysterious notes. The men replied that they were "love notes" ciphered to prevent discovery by their wives.

But cryptographers found they were really notes of business deals on which no tax had been paid. So now they have had to pay their back taxes and fines.

ALL-WEATHER SYSTEM

An all-weather system of 10-mile wide airways and collision-free corridors, to enforce order in the air, is expected to be in operation over Britain by the end of 1949.

His Honor, 16, Finds Big Welcome On Tour Of Europe But He's Happy To Be Home

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

DOBBS FERRY, N. Y., June 11. Mayor Finnerty was bushed. And he had every reason to be. His honor had just returned from a three-week tour of five European nations. He had been greeted by New York's Mayor O'Dwyer. He had been on the radio. He was getting ready for a television broadcast.

Quite a strain for any executive, but Mayor Finnerty is only 16. John Finnerty is his real name, and what he mayors is the Children's Village, a 400-population community for underprivileged boys at Dobbs Ferry.

Mayor Finnerty was sent to Europe—specifically, to Germany, France, Italy, Austria and Switzerland—as a correspondent for Young America magazine. His assignment was to report on children's villages in those countries.

Europeans More Mature

Slim and serious, Mayor Finnerty found European children more mature in mind than American youngsters of comparable ages. But "they are undersized," he says, attributing their malnutrition to the war years.

He found, he said, as he tried to suppress a yawn, that European children think seriously about such problems as politics and peace.

"What they'd like," he said, "is world government. World peace, too, of course, but first and foremost they want world government."

Mayor Finnerty kept a log of his trip, at least of the first part of it. The impressions he got of his flight abroad, of Paris, of Germany, are mirrored in his own words:

"Waved farewell to group assembled. . . Ooops! Here we go over the Atlantic. On our merry way to Europe I hope! . . . Ah yes! Columbus (myself) just discovered a small island out in the ocean all by its lonesome. . ."

Meets Ambassador

"I saw a French woman with three colored hair—blond, black and another shade of blond. . . . I'm to meet Ambassador Jefferson Caffery at our Embassy. He said it was good to see another American—a real one, not a Europeanized one. . . Walking on marble floors is tough on feet."

"I had a fine dinner—they couldn't understand why I would not drink wine. . . Visited Chartres. . . Took a picture of one of the base gargoyles. . . Nice people, the French. . . They say what they mean, I think."

"For dinner (in Wahlwies, French Zone, Germany) I had potato soup and bread soaked in sugarless rhubarb. This meal was a TREAT in my honor. . . On the train . . . a man came along selling candy bars. I paid him two bucks for a bar. Wait till the kids back home hear of that!"

German Cows Bigger

At Stanberg, another boys' village. . . Girls don't get much attention here. They are taught sewing and cooking. What do I think of this? I am not quite sure I know. Have to think about it more. . . Visited a farm nearby. . . . Why are German cows bigger than ours?"

"Got up at 4:30 . . . Boy do I keep early hours! . . . Left for Zurich. Chuggety-chug-chug. . . Met a toothbrush salesman. He had lost his sales kit and refused to buy a toothbrush because he had a gross of them in his kit."

Mayor Finnerty made his headquarters at Trogen, a Children's Village in Switzerland. There children, orphaned by the war, live in houses supervised by house parents.

"House parents make the best psychiatrists," he says.

Children of the same nationality live in the same house at Trogen. There is a Greek house, a Hungarian, Finnish, Italian, French and others. In the morning, the children stay in their own house, learning their mother tongue. Afternoons they mingle and "educate each other," as the Mayor says.

In Germany, the children welcomed Mayor Finnerty by singing The Star Spangled Banner in German, and then, "Then they sang boogie-woogie in German." You'll have to take the Mayor's word on that.

Mayor Finnerty tried to talk to the children about the war, but the scars are still near the surface.

"I couldn't peer too deep into a child's past," said the 16-year-old foreign correspondent. "One adult tried it, and a child broke down."

While Europe's few children's villages are doing their best, the problem of the continent's homeless youngsters is a grave one. In Greece alone, 100,000 children are estimated to be living in fields and caves.

"Home sure looked good to me," said Mayor Finnerty, with a big, and tired, grin.

Paul Bunyan To Take Swing At Chicago's Railway Fair

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP) — Paul Bunyan, the mythical axman, is going to take a swing at the show business.

An animated figure of the lumberjacking giant will be on view at a Chicago and North Western exhibit when the Chicago Railroad Fair opens its second season June 25.

Here are some statistics: Height (seated) 23 feet. Cap, size 42. Neck, 80. Waist, 150 inches. Boots, size 69.

Bunyan's voice will be rigged with microphones, sound recording devices and amplifiers. Electric motors will move his lips, eyes, head and arms.

American Raccoons Increasing In Kirgiziya Area Of Russia

MOSCOW, June 11 (AP) — The American Racoon has become a native of far-away Kirgiziya.

The paper "Soviet Kirgiziya" recently reported on the progress of development of this animal which was released in Kirgiziyan forests in 1936.

American racoons apparently have multiplied during the last thirteen years and are migrating to new areas in the republic.

The newspaper called on Kirgiziyan hunting authorities to assist measures to prevent the animal from being hunted until such time as it has fully established itself.

China Reds, Nationalists Jockey For Positions In New War Phase

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

Both the harassed Chinese Nationalist government in Canton and the triumphant Communist leadership in the north are maneuvering energetically for position in the forthcoming fresh phase of their bloody civil war.

Diplomatic efforts directed toward the western world are in part taking the place of gunfire during a pause in the victorious Red drive. From Nanking comes word that Communist officials there are urging western powers to withdraw recognition of the nationalist government. Meantime the Nationalists have appealed again to Uncle Sam for aid, this bid having been made in Washington by Dr. Kan Chieh-Hou, special emissary from China's acting president, Li Tsung-Jen.

No Recognition Yet

So far as concerns any withdrawal of recognition from the Nationalists, Washington has taken the position that it will not recognize any Communist regime so long as a responsible Nationalist government exists. While the military prospects of the Nationalists seem dim, this country isn't going to do anything to contribute to their collapse. The other western powers have been playing along with America in this policy.

In the matter of the Nationalist bid for further aid, there is no sign that Washington intends to shift its policy of not giving further military help. American aid at present is limited to providing economic help out of a fund of some $54,000,000 which is handled by the Economic Cooperation Administration. This assistance is mainly for food in the sections not captured by the Reds.

Dr. Kan has stated in Washington that the Nationalists have a "definite plan" for defense of territory still in their hands. He didn't say what that plan might be. However, the Nationalist government in Canton is said to be preparing to move to the old wartime capital of Chungking, leaving any army behind to defend Canton against the Reds. Meantime former president Chiang Kai-Shek has organized the defense of the great island of Formosa off the east coast.

Of course, the Communists aren't rushing into establishing a "government" of their own at this juncture. They aren't expected to make this move until autumn, and so meantime they aren't eligible for international recognition. Naturally their position would be strengthened if they could persuade the western powers to withdraw recognition of the Nationalists. The Communists already have laid down the conditions under which they will be prepared to enter diplomatic relations with foreign powers. The conditions are these:

"Withdraw Forces"

1. Foreign armed forces must be withdrawn from China.

2. Relations must be based on "equality, mutual benefit and mutual respect for each other's independence and territorial integrity."

3. Recognition must be withdrawn from the Nationalist government.

Obviously America will recognize the Communists if and when they establish a responsible government for China. However, the signs seem to read that even then the western powers aren't likely to abandon any Chinese elements which are friendly to the west, no matter what their political complexion.

China is going to present a strange and complex picture for a long time.

Appointment Of U. S. Marshall In Southern Texas Being Delayed

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—More than a dozen Texans want the job of U. S. marshal for South Texas but a check of the situation today indicated no appointment is likely to be made soon.

Eventually, it will be made by President Truman. He probably will appoint whoever is recommended by Texas Democratic senators Connally and Johnson. Such jobs usually are filled on a patronage basis.

Frank Hammond, South Texas marshal for many years, was retired May 31 after reaching retirement age.

Senator Johnson told a reporter he plans to talk with Senator Connally before making any recommendation.

An aid to Connally said the senior Texas senator has been too busy to make a recommendation.

Temporary Appointee Named

Anyway, he said, a temporary appointee has been named and there is no need for a presidential appointment immediately.

Those whose names have been submitted to the senators as applicants for the job include Sheriff T. W. (Buckshot) Lane of Wharton county; Robert H. Potcet, Mc Allen; Otto Reichert, San Benito; J. D. Oakes, La Porte, and Roy E. Floyd, Sam W. Rogers, Angus Morrison, Neal Polk, O. E. Dubois, Neal Arnold, W. P. Haley, Frank Paul, W. L. Fuller and W. S. Ashford, all of Houston.

The fact that a man's name does not appear on this list does not preclude the possibility of his appointment, aides of both senators said.

They made this observation in response to a query about Clifton C. Carter of Bryan, a friend and supporter of Johnson, who has been mentioned informally as a possible appointee to the job.

"Tight Little Isle" Gets More Crowded

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—Move over, grandpa. This "tight little isle" is getting more crowded every year.

And it's mostly the old folks who are taking up the space. The "65 and over" group make up 10.5 percent of the population, as compared with only 7.4 percent in 1931.

Government officials say the trend seems to be toward a population boost of about one million every five years. The total population of the United Kingdom—which takes in England, Wales, Scotland and northern Ireland—is estimated to have been 50,033,000 as of June, 1948, the latest figure available.

Officials say the population increased by over a million since 1944, by two million since 1939, by six million since 1921, and by about 40 millions—or over 300 per cent since 1800.

"Though the birth rate rose sharply after 1941, many births were postponed until after the war. To them the high rates of the postwar years are largely due. Until the war disturbance has died away, it will be impossible to form any opinion as to the likely future trend of the birth rate," an official statement says.

It also says migration is not a major factor in the population trend in the United Kingdom.

Innerspring Mattress Just Too Much

Nurse On China Mission Feels Fear In New York

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 11. — For years nurse Ruth Ingram travelled on horseback through Communist-split China—but she never felt fear till she came to New York this week.

"I'm going to smother," she wailed. "It's these American innerspring mattresses!"

Miss Ingram, who is the World Health Organization's missionary in backward Chinese provinces, knew innersprings will until four years ago.

As director of nursing schools in New Orleans and St. Louis, she had supervised precision bed-making for 14 years.

"But for the last 14 months I've seen nothing in the way of beds except dried-up riverbeds," she said, "and I can't get acclimated to comfort."

Nurse Ingram, who will return to her riverbeds sometime next month, took the United Nations (with which W.H.O. is affiliated) by enthusiastic storm when she arrived.

Delegates didn't know her, but they knew "of" her.

She was the 58-year-old woman who left easy-street jobs in America four years ago, to take her chances in a wortorn country that badly needed medical insight.

She helped set up hospitals, train nurses, educate Chinese who'd never seen Westerners.

Humor Saving Grace

U. N. officials expected her to be tired, a little grim, and certainly nervous.

Miss Ingram met them with an untroubled grin and a calm voice that said:

"Well, I haven't forgotten how to use a fork—but I've surely forgotten which fork is for what."

Those who heard her decided immediately that humor is the saving graces that keeps the nurse so buoyant in her arduous task.

But Miss Ingram wouldn't admit it.

Teaching the natives of China to use modern medical and nursing techniques is no laughing matter, she said, and sometimes it leaves her "stumped" and definitely humorless.

Prepared For Task

The fact that she speaks and writes mandarin, having been born and raised to college-age in Peiping, doesn't help either. "It just makes you realize how much more the people are suffering."

Before she went to China, first with UNRRA and later with W.H.O., nurse Ingram trained herself for the job by acting as supervisor of nurses at Pennsylvania hospital, Washington university, and Touro Infirmary in New Orleans.

When she felt she was ready, she volunteered for duty with UNRRA in Peiping. There began her "mercy health missions," which have led her on horseback through thousands of miles of Communist and Nationalist territory.

Job Is Rugged

"It's been rugged," she admitted, "but I can hardly wait to get back. And that isn't going to be easy, but I'll make it."

Though her home-base of operations, Shanghai, has been taken by the Communists, she "just knows" she can get baek in and continue her work.

"Much as I love innersprings when I get used to them," she said soberly, "the U. S. seems too terribly affluent to me now."

She said she will take a few samples of that affluence—mainly nylon lingerie—and fly back to Shanghai next month. Because, as most nurses do, she wants to "help people."

And for another reason, not quite so nebulous:

"I can't resist teaching modern ways of living to a people who are so retarded that they stare with wonder when they see a glass window."

Rapid Increase In Growth Of Polish Trade Unions Revealed

WARSAW, Poland, June 12 (AP)—Polish trade unions are having a mushroom growth. Their membership today totals 3,576,000. That's almost double the 1947 figure and it more than quadruples the 1939 membership of 900,000.

Technically non-partisan, the trade unions play an active role in national politics, solidly backing up the Communist - dominated Warsaw government.

Trade unions are expected to embrace about 4,000,000 workers by the end of 1949. Membership drives are being pushed in all industries.

Railway workers, with 368,000 members, form the strongest trade union. Others include building workers, 340,000; textiles, 311,000; coal miners, 287,000; municipal employes, 251,000; metallurgists,

Ancient American Ball Game May Be Played Again In Mayan Ruins

By ROBERT PRESCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent

ZACULEU, Guatemala, June 11 (U.P.)—One of the world's oldest ball games, a weird and brutal Mayan sport so tough that the winning player won the clothing and jewelry of the spectators, may be revived in the ruins of Zaculeu.

Archeologists reconstructing this ancient Mayan capital as a "living monument" to the once-mighty race have restored the stone-faced call court for a possible comeback of the soccer-like sport that flourished as a semi-religious "Olympic Games" of the Americas five centuries ago.

The game was so difficult that the lucky player who managed to knock the ball through a stone heap won not only the game but the clothing and possessions of the spectators.

With the audience scattering in fright to avoid paying the forfeit, the ball game broke up with the fortunate player and his friends in close pursuit to collect his prizes.

To Change Rules

Archeologists said the modern version of the game, which may be staged for tourists and special festivals, would eliminate the "grand prize" rule.

The game, which for 1,000 years was the principal athletic contest of the Mayans and Indian tribes from El Salvador to Northern Arizona, is expected to be staged again by descendants of the vanished Mayan civilization. One form of the game still is popular among Mexican Indians.

Played on a red-painted, I-shaped stone court, it featured a solid rubber ball which players were not allowed to touch with their feet, hands or head. Most players were expert at off-the-hip shots. One way to score was to knock the ball into the opposing end-zone, with green and black tallies marking the score. The game was automatically won, however, by the extremely difficult shot through the iny stone hoop.

Wagering Heavy

Archeologists said in some contests large teams apparently were used, while at other times only two players had held an all-night vigil of prayer over their equipment, which included sandals, knee-guards, a breech-cloth and brilliant plumbed headdresses and necklaces.

The Mayans wagered their lands, clothing and even personal liberty on the outcome of important ball games. The losers often became paupers or slaves, and sometimes whole populations lost their citizenship when chiefs put up tribal lands as bets.

Zaculeu, its temples and pyramids being restored by the United Fruit company as a "museum" of the Highland Maya empire, is about 50 miles from Guatemala City.

Arkansas Town Amends Ancient Blue Laws, Remits Three Fines

PINE BLUFF, Ark., June 11. (AP)—The Pine Bluff city council and the city attorney apparently have ended the furore here over a pair of ancient Sunday "blue laws."

The council Friday amended the old ordinances—one of them dating back to 1872—to allow approximately a dozen "essential" industries to operate on Sundays.

At the same time city attorney R. A. Eilbott, jr., said "Sabbath breaking" charges would be dropped against several persons, including Sunday newspaper distributors and the superintendent of the city transportation system.

He said he would seek remission of fines already imposed against two bakers and one newspaper distributor.

Spokesmen for groups objecting to the old laws threatened to "close up the town" on Sundays if the ordinances were not changed.

Husbands No Longer Handicap To Bank Of England Girl Employes

LONDON, June 11 (AP) — The girls who work for the Bank of England have won a point—they may be married without losing their standing as permanent employes.

The court of directors relaxed a rule of thirty years' standing which provided that women employes on marrying assumed an "acting" status, subject to dismissal as staff needs flustuated.

Now they can keep their bank jobs, husbands notwithstanding.

FOUR ARE EXECUTED

BELGRADE, June 11 (U.P.)—Four persons were executed yesterday at Osjek after their conviction by a people's court on charges of plotting to overthrow the government and trying to poison thousands of pigs on state farms.

American Who Stole Into Reich To Visit Family Ordered Home

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 11. (AP)—Daniel Little, ex-GI from Portland, Ore., who stowed away on an Army transport to see his German wife and child, must go back home, possibly without seeing his family.

The 30-year-old Little arrived in Bremerhaven Thursday on the Army transport General Maurice Rose. His wife, Margaret Kreuger Little, 30, lives at Darmstadt.

When the ship docked, Little, who had given himself up at sea when he got hungry, was turned over to U. S. military authorities.

He was charged with entering Germany illegally and lodged in a Bremerhaven jail. The court ruled he must return to the U. S. aboard the same transport when it sails from Bremerhaven Sunday.

Little said he had tried to get his wife and son to the United States but had had no luck because U. S. authorities would not recognize his marriage.

Little, veteran of the Sicily and southern France invasions, had been married secretly under German law after his commanding officer refused him permission to wed.

Mixed Drinks Recipes Printed On Aprons Favored As Gifts

JACKSON, Tenn., June 11 (AP) Rachel Moore makes money selling upside-down recipes to sober bartenders. As Miss Moore sees it, the well-groomed host or hostess should be wearing an apron when the guests begin calling for their favorite mixtures. So why not have the recipes right there on the apron? And, to make it easy on the wearer—and hard on the kibitzer—why not put the recipes on topside-bottomwards?

Several years ago a Memphis liquor dealer gave her some cloth stamped with recipes for mixed drinks. She put it away and forgot it until she go to worrying about Christmas ideas in 1947. Then she cut out the recipes and sewed them on apron bases—upside down, of course—and sent the aprons to her friends.

The stunt went over so well she decided to keep going. She got recipes from bartenders all over the country, worked out a deal with a textile printer in Texas, and began mailing out samples.

A "tips to the bartender" towel was added and Miss Moore has begun working on variations. There's an apron for new brides, and something else known as "operations new baby" that's in the planning stage.

New Book Collection Bought For Sudan Library By Clubs

SUDAN, June 11 (Special)—A collection of special interest books has been purchased for addition to Sudan city library, according to an announcement from the 1935 Study club, sponsors of a library room in the local city hall. Thirty-three volumes are included in the new assortment, which marks the first time an extensive selection of non-fictional writings has been offered to Sudan readers via the public library.

Purchase of the new books was made possible through the yearly contributions of the Sudan Rotary club and the 1935 Study club, totaling $100. President Eldon Nichols presented the Rotary group's check.

The new books include information on hunting, fishing, poetry, etiquette gardening, bridge playing, music, flower arranging and child care. A few novels and children's books also are included.

Library committee members this year are Mrs. Milton Wiseman, Mrs. R. S. Gatewood and Mrs. Ray Wood. Mrs. W. O. Stephens will head the incoming committee, which will have as its first project securing additional shelf space to accommodate the new books.

Mrs. W. O. Eddins, city secretary, acts as librarian.

SOAK THE RICH

PARIS, June 11 (AP) — Harder economic conditions for the rich seem reflected in a Paris press report that the network of state-controlled pawnshops will soon be extended to more wealthy districts of the city, where they expect to receive mainly luxury goods such as jewels and furs.

Local Woman Misses By Syllable $50,000 Chance

It was a $50,000 question for Mrs. Pearl Lee Callens, 1704 Avenue J, when the Columbia Broadcasting Company called her on the long distance telephone last week.

After assuring the voice on the wire that she was, indeed, Mrs. Callens, she was advised that "Sing It Again" had picked her name for a chance to answer the question. The correct answer to the question was worth an accumulated $50,000 in assorted merchandise.

Help From Audience

Mrs. Callens was considerably excited and after getting calmed down somewhat she told the voice she was ready to try for the correct answer.

The question was, "Who was the attractive baseball fan who married a well-known baseball figure and who was he?"

Mrs. Callen had some visitors in the room with her at the time and while she tried to control the lump in her throat one of them whispered, "Day. Day."

Missed By Syllable

Mrs. Callen blurted into the telephone "Laraine Day."

"That much is correct," said the voice. "Now who is the man?"

"That got me," Mrs. Callens said. "I had it almost right when I said 'Lou Roacher' but the man told me he was sorry I had missed."

"Anyway," Mrs. Callens said happily, "they told me I had won an automatic electric dishwasher worth $300 and I certainly can use it."

She can too. Mrs. Callens has a boarding house and there are plenty of dishes to be washed there three times a day.

California Twins Go To Service Schools

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 12 (AP)—Unification? Ken Moll, personifying the idea, sits on opposite sides of the field at Army-Navy games.

Ken Moll is twin brothers. Midshipman Kendall D. Moll is a second-classman at the Naval Academy. Cadet Kenneth G. Moll is a second-classman at West Point.

Why do the 22-year-old twins from Oakdale, Calif., go to rival service schools? Midshipman Moll has the answer:

"Even as a small child he wanted to be a mounted policeman, and I wanted to be a pirate." Townspeople of Oakdale used to refer to the twins as "two heads beating as but one brain," says Kendall.

"Now one-half of that brain is beating in the class of 1950 overlooking the Hudson River; the other half is being beat to death right here on the banks of the Severn."

"Frankly, I could do with both halves," Kendall adds after a tussle with Academy exams. The real confusion started when the twins served recently with Army and Navy units on combined amphibious operations.

"One of the officers, fascinated at seeing me in so many places at the same time, suggested that I was taking the whole operation too seriously, so I relaxed," Kendall says.

He says Mrs. Erna S. Moll of Oakdale often asks herself what has officer training done for her sons.

"It has accomplished a lot when you stop to consider it," says the midshipman. "Now it's almost impossible to sleep until noon."

POLAND TRAINS NURSES

WARSAW, Poland, June 11 (AP) The Polish health ministry is pushing a program for the training of nurses and soon hopes to have more than 19,000 of them. Jerzy Sztachelski, vice-minister of health, said there are presently 10,500 nurses in Poland. Another 9,000 are needed to staff all medical centers.

Famous Thackery Letters Go Up For Sale Soon In London

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—Letters from William Makepeace Thackery will be sold in London by descendants of one of the novelist's intimate friends.

One of them, an invitation to dinner, bears a note scribbled in the handwriting of the "Vanity Fair" author: "I have two bottles of wine and credit at the butcher."

The letters are in an album prepared by Mrs. Kemble Gatin, whose ancestors were John Kemble and William Donne, intimate friends of the author.

WARSAW HOTELS

WARSAW, Poland, June 11 (AP) Hotels in Warsaw have boosted all room rates by ten percent. An average room with bath now costs $125 per month. Its facilities compare roughly with those of a third or fourth rate American hotel.

Ex-Nuernberg Prosecutor Warns Against Strong German Revival

Editor's Note: Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, former chief American prosecutor at the Nuernberg trials, warns strongly against re-creating a militaristic Germany because it would "be our enemy."

Taylor opposes frequent suggestions that German heavy industry should be rebuilt to permit the western sectors to aid European powers in resisting any aggression from the east. The 41-year-old soldier-jurist vigorously urges a continuation of the re-education and democratization of Germany because only a Democratic Germany would be a useful ally in war, whether "hot" or "cold."

By BRIG. GEN. TELFORD TAYLOR
(Distributed By INS)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Today we hear with growing frequency the view that talk of re-education and democratization in Germany may have been all very well in 1945, but that it is obsolete in 1949.

Germany will never again be able to threaten world peace, we are told, and there is much more powerful and immediate menace from farther east.

The holders of this view say we should rebuild Germany's heavy industry, put German affairs back into the hands of those who once before made her a great military power, forget the oppressions of the Nazis, raise a new army under the German officers' corps, and make of Germany a strong ally against the Soviet union.

Not 'Realist' View

Advocates of this sharp reversal of policy regard west Germany "as an arsenal and a recruiting ground."

Protagonists of these views like to think of themselves as "realists," but such notions are fantastically unrealistic, and their adoption would work grave injury to ourselves and our allies, whatever the future holds.

A German regime forced from these elements might well be "strong," but it almost certainly would not be our ally, because such a regime would have no interest in achieving the goals of our foreign policy, to wit, a stable peace, disarmament, and free intercourse among nations.

Threat To World Peace

On the contrary, a reactionary, militaristic German government would be a terrible threat to world peace; it would surely seek to exploit and stir up international tension, and would regard a new world war as an opportunity to revive German might, and a chance for the Krupps and the field marshals once again to play a big part in world affairs.

Nor should we overlook the close relations, which have lasted through two and a half decades, between the German officers' corps and the Red army. It is not long since Russia served as the secret training ground for the Wehrmacht.

We have it on the unimpeachable authority of the late Field Marshal von Brauchitsch, the commander-in-chief of the German army, that "good relations with Russia were valued very highly in the German army, which had many points of close contact with the Red army."

Nazis Train Reds

Today the so-called "people's police" in the Soviet zone of Germany are being trained by General von Seydlitz; the activities of Field Marshals von Paulus and Schoerner behind the curtain are shrouded in mystery, but obviously some of these connections between the Red army and the German generals are being maintained.

In short, a militaristic Germany would inevitably be our enemy, not our ally, and furthermore, support of such a regime would cost us sorely-needed friends.

The western European democracies are not our allies because they want war with Russia, but because they want peace and security against aggression.

We do not buy their allegiance with arms or money; they are aligned with us because they want and desperately need an era of peace and freedom, in which they can be the masters of their own fate, and not mere battlegrounds.

Revival Means Mistrust

Should we assist in the revival of German miltarism, we would not only foul ourselves in the eyes of those who have been so recently ground under the Nazi heel; we would give them reason to believe that our foreign policy consists of preparation for war and nothing more.

We would furnish the Russians with a heaven-sent opportunity for a most effective propaganda counter-offensive. Such a policy would isolate us abroad and divide us at home.

So our original objective in Germany is not only sound but a vital element of our foreign policy. We have a heavy stake in a Germany which shares the same political common denominator with the western European democracies.

Blonde Airline Executive Spends Most Of Flights Sitting In The Passengers' Laps

By JAMES PADGITT
INS Staff Correspondent

BURBANK, Cal., June 11 — Passengers flying the Los Angele-San Francisco run of Robin Airways don't even raise an eyebrow when a blonde executive of the company climbs on their laps and strikes up conversation.

The attractive blonde happens to be the nation's youngest airline official.

She is Robin Kessler, 3½, majority stockholder and member of the board of directors of the airline that bears her name.

Flying Since 5 Months Old

Robin has been flying since the age of 5 months. Today she is a veteran of 18 transcontinental trips, countless flights to San Francisco and a total of 100,000 miles in the air.

She knows more about the operation of a plane than any half-dozen passengers.

When she flies the route to San Francisco she sits right next to the pilot and watches his every move.

During course of flight she'll make several trips back to the passenger compartments of the DC-4s and will tell the customers what to do for that ringing in the ears, not to be afraid and to strap on their safety belts before a landing.

Attends Board Meetings

Robin sits in on all board meetings. She has plenty to say, too, even though her father presides at the sessions.

Of course, Robin's most impassioned plea is for free lollipops and more toys on planes.

She thinks air travel is in a frightful state because lollipops and toys are missing from planes.

Once she told a passenger not to flick his cigar ashes on the floor.

If a passenger looks a little apprehensive when the plane rides over an air bump, Robin is right there to tell them:

"Oh, is this your first flight? Well, don't be afraid. There's nothing to be afraid of at all.

Presence Quiets Passengers

Kessler said that presence of the tot on the plane does more to quiet the nerves and instill confidence in the passengers than any gimmick other executives could try out.

Robin is 100 per cent for this aviation business. Oftentimes she handles the controls herself when she's along on a flight.

In a few years she will learn to fly a plane and her father expects her to be ready for dual flying when she is 8 or 9. She won't be allowed to fly solo, of course, until she is of age.

When Robin reaches 21 she will take over the board of director meetings, without benefit of her father.

"When that time comes," Kessler said today, "I'll be relegated to a spectator's chair and Robin herself will tell the boys what is what."

Resort Owner Recalls Own Experience, Now Holds Cooking School For Brides

By GUY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 11 (U.P.)—Mack Weiner, resort operator, believes a bride should learn how to run a kitchen at the same time she's finding out how to run a husband.

Weiner presides at White Roe Lake at Livingston Manor, in upstate New York. The resort caters to honeymooners in June, and is typical of most mountain playgrounds except for one thing.

Weiner has started an intensive cooking course for brides, a course which he says grew out of "my own sad experience immediately after I married."

Weiner said, "My wife was a perfect dream girl to look at but hopeless when turned loose in the kitchen.

"At first we just joked about her poor cooking, but as time went by, mealtime became an explosive occasion," he elaborated.

He said that after a few months of bicarbonate of soda and family quarrels, "I took matters in hand and started teaching the missus what you do with pots and pans."

"I dug up all my old textbooks," he continued, "and proceeded to conduct a home experiment in domestic science."

Weiner said the story ended happily, for his wife eventually became a kitchen artist. But the whole thing caused him to open the cooking classes at White Roe last year for the first time so other husbands won't have his troubles.

Weiner is a graduate of the hotel management school at Cornell University and is a veteran of the resort business both in New York and Florida.

White Roe offers cooking instruction only during June, when the honeymoon season is at peak. Weiner said the courses aren't confined to women.

One bachelor wrote that as a "cook by circumstance, not choice," he'd learned a lot from the course. Weiner does keep husbands out of the course at the beginning.

"Why embarrass the poor girls?" he asked.

Last year's pupils didn't get any diploma. But this year Weiner said they'd get an elaborately decorated "gag" document they can hang in the kitchen in case any arguments come up over a meal."

Sudan Navy Reservists Leave For Cruise To Cuba, Panama

SUDAN, June 11 (Special)—Seamen apprentices Jim Eddins and Ralph May of Sudan, members of the U. S Naval Reserve unit at Texas Tech, left Lubbock Friday for New Orleans, where they will weigh anchor for a three-weeks' training cruise to Cuba and Panama.

They enlisted in the college reserve unit last September. Eddins has played freshman basketball at Tech and May went out for football. A group of friends accompanied them to Lubbock to wish them "bon voyage." They expect to return to the States via Key West, Fla., the latter part of June.

The practice of tatooing decreased among primitive peoples with the advent of clothing, but is still practiced by civilized peoples.

New 'Transistor' Speeds Up Long Distance Phoning—But Can't Cut Out Wrong Numbers

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11. (U.P.)—If you are old enough, you probably remember grandad cranking up the party line phone and calling "long distance." Talking to somebody 20 or 30 miles away.

Gramps doubtless could have done just as well standing out there in the hollow and blowing his echo against the four winds.

Well, to hear the Bell people, who run the phone business, tell it—all that sort of thing is old fashioned. The "hello" gang has come up with a tiny new device that cut the old gent down to a whisper.

Current Stepped Up

It's called a "transistor." It consists of a piece of something they call "germanium" and is about the size of a pin head. An electric current sent into the transistor controls a current that comes out 100 times stronger.

You get the idea .You can hear Tokyo, say, as clearly as you can the guy next door when he calls on the phone in the middle of the night to tell you to cut down on the noise.

The way they do it is so complicated I won't try to explain it. Wouldn't, even if I understood it myself.

I went through the Bell exhibit of the "Phone of Tomorrow" at the Washington Hotel here. A Mr. Prescott, who was a study in brown and acted like he knew all about it (not saying he didn't), guided us around.

Better Than In '27

He had a chart on the wall. "Take 1927," he said, pointing a pointer to a chart which said "1927". In order to place a call from Washington to Chicago at that time you asked the operator for long distance. Then you asked for a number in Chicago. All of that went through a half dozen switch boards. In five minutes, if you were lucky, you had the party. You had a patch-work of wires from here to there. Maybe you could hear and maybe you couldn't."

All of this was accomplished in two minutes in 1940, the bright young man said. Now? It's zingo! Less than a minute.

It all adds up to a lot of radio relay systems which shoot the message through the air. (It says right here.)

Mr. Prescott led us to believe that the new system of talking to yourself around the world—and being able to hear yourself—will be a lot cheaper.

I hope so.

I have paid so many long distance phone tolls in my time I don't much care whether we eventually have phones in our cars and television over the telephone. Or what.

All I am happy about is that I got one on the house from Bell. I talked to an operator in Chicago named Geranium. (Why Bell isn't smart enough to hire "hello girls" named Pearl or Gladys leaves me cold.)

She said the weather was right nice out there in the windy city. Very little wind. I said it was pretty here, too. The Jap beetles were about to beetle and capitol was still capitalizing.

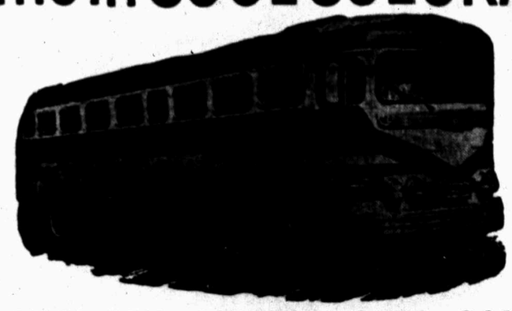

She thought I had a nice voice over the phone. I said as much for her.

The man asked would I like to talk to anybody else? Since it was free, I said, yes. Let's get hold of Aunt Mable up in Mariette, Wis. We tried the new system. Around the world in nothing flat. I got hold of a pant-presser named Bob in Manitowoc.

Wrong number.

Another Addition Gets Natural Gas Service

West Texas Gas Company has completed the installation of new facilities to furnish low-cost natural gas service to another new housing addition.

Approximately one mile of new gas mains and other facilities have been installed in the Whitehead Addition, adjoining the city of Lubbock. The new mains will furnish low-cost natural gas service for 56 customers in this addition.

Mrs. L. P. Denison, shown above holding her son, Vick, and her husband used natural gas several years before moving to their new home in the Whitehead Addition. They, like many of their neighbors, said natural gas service will provide them a worthwhile saving over former fuel costs.

This year West Texas Gas Company is investing over $2,225,000.00 in new facilities to maintain good gas service and extend low-cost natural gas service to new customers.

New Discoveries Indicated In Two Wildcats In Northwest Scurry County; Previous Activity Resulted In Dry Holes

Pipe has been set and tests are scheduled to be underway early in the week at Sinclair Oil & Gas company No. 1 Williams, dual pay discovery in northwest Borden county, 11 miles northwest of Gail.

The venture recovered free oil on drillstem tests in a formation between 9,830 feet and 9,938 feet tentatively identified as Mississippian.

Controversy still is rife as to the true dientity of the horizon which flowed iol at the rate of 20.75 barrels in 30 minutes on a drillstem test at 9,945-10,000 feet.

That examination showed 1,300 feet of salt water when drillpipe was pulled. It also yielded water on a test immediately following.

The tool was open three hours at 10,000-10,035 feet, showing gas in 55 minutes. Gas volume was neither gauged nor estimated. Recovery was 1,100-foot water blanket and 6,300 feet of salt water with slight oil stain.

Test Coming Up

Many geologists have picked the deeper formation as Ellenburger, while some are under the opinion it is Siluro-Devonian.

On last report, the venture was waiting for cement to cure on seven-inch casing cemented on 10,035 feet, total depth in dolomite, with 750 sacks.

It is due to drill plug Sunday, then perforate and start testing. Perforations are to be shot opposite the lower section first, then work upward for a thorough investigation of the two structures.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 45, block 32, T-6-N, EI&RR survey.

In north-central Borden county, seven miles north and slightly west of Gail, Seaboard Oil company of Delaware was drilling ahead with its No. 1 Clayton & Johnson from 7,887 feet in lime and shale.

The wildcat is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 37, block 31, T-6-N, TP survey.

Seaboard No. 1 Jerry Clayton, south-central Borden county wildcat projected to 8,500 feet, 662.5 feet from east and 660.3 feet from south lines of the southwest quarter of section 47, block 32, T-4-N, TP sruvey, was making hole under 3,184 feet in shale and anhydrite.

Dry Holes Previously

New discoveries were indicated at two wildcats in northwest Scurry county over the past week. Previous exploration in that area has resulted in dry holes.

Approximately three miles northwest of Fluvanna, Superior Oil company and Intex Oil company have made oil shows in a formation thought to be Ellenburger at their No. 1 Jordan, wildcat being "drilled tight," all information with-held.

The venture is rumored to have entered the Ellenburger around 8,390 feet and, drilling ahead to 8,410 feet, drillstem tested for 45 minutes with packer at 8,390 feet. Recovery was 1,400 feet of clean oil.

A considerable amount of oil was said to have headed out while the drillpipe was being pulled. So far as is known, the prospector has shown no water.

The exploration is unofficially reported as coring from 8,410 feet, after running a Schlumberger survey on that depth.

Canyon Lime Test

The other possible strike is at C. L. Norsworthy, Jr., No. 1 E. H. Williamson, wildcat eight miles northwest of Snyder and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 256, block 97, H&TC survey.

The venture drillstem tested for four hours in the Canyon lime of the Pensylvanian at 7,044-56 feet, showing gas in one hour and 58 minutes and recoverying 220 feet of clean, 34-gravity oil and 230 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud, estimated at 40 per cent oil, plus 20 feet of drilling mud cut with oil and salt water.

A Schlumberger survey was being run on last report, as the development awaited further orders.

Further exploration of the northwest Gaines county Devonian developed more water at Pacific Western Oil corporation No. 1 Oil devolopment, deep wildcat between Seminole and Russell fields.

A three-hour and 45-minute drillstem test was run at 11,585-620 feet, using a 1,000-foot water blanket. Recovery was the water blanket followed by 3,000 feet of water cut drilling mud with a slight show of oil and 1,000 feet of slightly oil cut, salty sulphur water.

Orders Awaited

The prospector was waiting on further orders. There is a good possibility of its plugging back to investigate shows of upper formations.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 315, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Clear Fork-Permian production has been indicated for Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 Andrews, five-eighths mile northeast outpost to the Ellenburger discovery opening the Flanagan field in south-central Andrews county. So far, every exploration in this immediate area which has drilled through the Clear Fork has shown pay in that formation.

The Shell venture ran a two-hour drillstem test at 7,142-7,230 feet, showing a good blow of air part of the period. Gas reached the surface in 17 minutes. Gas volume was neither gauged nor estimated.

Recovery was 2,700 feet of 36.1-gravity oil and 360 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud.

A second drillstem test of the Clear Fork at this project found the water table.

The examination was at 7,231-7,255 feet, with the tool open two hours. Gas showed at the top in one hour and 42 minutes.

Recovery was 450 feet of slightly gas and oil cut drilling mud and water plus 810 feet of salty sulphur water.

More Hole Being Made

This venture, 660 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block A-23, psl survey, was drilling ahead from 7,634 feet in lime, continuing for an exploration into the Ellenburger.

Also in the area, oil and gas shows were developed in a lime formation thought to be Glorieta-Permian at Shell No. 2 Hawkins, Flanagan outpost projected to the Clear Fork, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

A one-hour and 45-minute drillstem test at 6,348-6,450 feet recovered 120 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud.

More hole was being made from 6,786 feet in lime.

Attempting to complete as a producer in the Clear Fork is George P. Livermore, Inc., No. 1 Head, venture three miles southeast of the Flanagan discovery, after making water in the Devonian at 10,530 feet and plugging back to 7,800 feet.

Unofficial reports say operator perforated a one-foot section around 7,259 feet, tested and made salt water. The water was believed the result of faulty cement job. The perforations have been squeebed off and the pipe re-cemented. Operations were waiting for cement to cure.

Location is 631 feet from north and 610 feet from west lines of section 12, block A-23, psl survey.

Gaines Well Abandoned

Magnolia Petroleum company was drilling ahead toward the Flanagan-Ellenburger with its No. 1 Flanagan, east offset to the discovery, 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 9, block A-23, sl survey.

Last reort had it beyond 10,737 feet in lime.

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware has plugged and abandoned its No. 1 Doss, deep wildcat in southeast Gaines county, 10 miles south of the Cedar Lake field.

Tentative top of the Ellenburger was called at 13,560 feet, on an elevation of 3,114 feet.

A one-hour drillstem test was run in that formation, using a 3,000-foot water blanket and recovering water blanket followed by 9,850 feet of salt water. There were no shows of oil or gas.

The dry hole is 4,620 feet from east and 7,430 feet from south lines of league 292, Lynn CSL survey.

In south-central Gaines county, about 10 miles south and a little west of Seminole, Ralph Lowe was making new hole with his No. 1 Cunningham-Shell, Pennsylvanian strike continuing to the Ellenburger.

It was under 10,878 feet, penetrating lime and chert.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 4, block A-24, psl survey.

Dawson Test Started

The Pennsylvanian has been eliminated as a possible pay formation for Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 15 American Warehouse, deep wildcat in the Cedar Lake area of northeast Gaines, and the venture apparently is a failure.

After making water in the Ellenburger in drilling to 13,186 feet and reducing hole to the Devonian only to develop more water, the exploration plugged back to test the Pennsylvanian.

The venture set whipstock and drilled a side-tracked hole to secure a test free from the mud in the old hole. The examination was for two and one-half hours at 8,516-35 feet, recovery 2,966 feet of salt water. Further orders were being awaited.

Location is 1,650 feet from south and east lines of section 5, block H, D&W survey.

Production tests have started at the second exploration into the Spraberry-Deep pool of east-central Dawson county, in an attempt to complete for commercial production from the Spraberry-Permian.

The venture is Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 2-D Shafer, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 48, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

Operator was running tubing to clean out after shooting the section at 6,464-6,664 feet with nitro glycerin. A drillstem test indicated pay from that formation.

Total depth is 6,665 feet, with 5½-inch casing set on top of the Spraberry at 6,438 feet.

No Shows Recovered

Drillstem test to check slight oil shows logged in samples recovered no shows at Barnsdall Oil company No. 1 Billie Williams, central Lynn county wildcat, four and one-half miles southwest of Tahoka.

The The examination was at 7,049-82 feet in the Spraberry sand section of the Permian, with the tool open 30 minutes. A 1,000-foot water blanket was used. Sole recovery was the water blanket.

The venture was drilling ahead beyond 7,215 feet in sand, shale and lime.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block 8, EK&RR survey.

Drilling was continuing at Sinclair No. 1 George C. Lindly, slated 11,500-foot wildcat one mile north of O'Donnell in south-central Lynn county.

This exploration, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block 8, EL&RR survey, was under 10,444 feet, penetrating chert.

After cutting successive cores of a lime and shale formation yielding no shows, the Ohio Oil at its No. 1 Emery, northwest Kent county wildcat, 15 miles southwest of Spur and 1,980 feet from north, 819 feet from east lines of section 191, block 1, TP survey.

Last report had it below 7,458 feet in lime.

Outpost Spudding Prepared

Stanolind Oil & Gas company was preparing to spud another outpost to the one-producer Landon-Devonian field in south-central Cochran county as its No. 1 C. H. Grollman.

The drillsite is 660 feet from west and 407 feet from south lines of section 4, block L, psl survey, about 25 miles southwest of Lehman.

The Devonian is expected to come in above 11,700 feet. Rotary tools were being rigged up.

Also flanking the Landon-Devonian pool, Stanolind No. 2 Holt was drilling ahead from 9,148 feet in lime and chert.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 3, block L, psl survey.

Humble Oil & Refining company was making new hole toward the southwest Cochran county Devonian with its No. 1 Masten, slated 12,000-foot wildcat six miles southwest of Lehman.

Last report had it below 8,039 feet in lime and shale.

Drilling Near Idalou

In east-central Lubbock county, three miles northwest of Idalou, Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 C. D. Bradford was below 3,194 feet, drilling lime.

This wildcat is 660 feet from south and west lines of the northwest quarter of section 35, block D-7, EL&RR survey. It is projected to 6,000 feet.

Amerada No. 1 Turrentine, east-central Yoakum county wildcat, three miles southwest of Tokio and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 41, block Q, psl survey, was boring ahead from 6,529 feet in lime.

General American Oil company has plugged and abandoned its No. 5 A. F. Byrd as a 5,310-foot failure in the Arick region of southeast Hale county.

The dry hole is 1,650 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of section 17, block K, TTRR survey.

In the Anton-Irish field of southeast Lamb county, Anton Oil corporation has completed its No. 4-B Leftwich for a daily initial pumping production of 179.49 barrels of oil.

Gas-oil ratio was 100-1. Gravity of the petroleum was 28.9 degrees. There was no water.

Production followed an 18,300-gallon acid areatment in the pay at 5,548-6,014 feet.

Polished Rice Held A Cause For Large Singapore TB Rate

SINGAPORE, June 11 (AP)—Arthur Eveleigh, adviser to the U. S. China Relief Mission, told the Singapore Rotary club that malnutrition can be combatted by more nutritive rice and wheat.

He said the present "wasteful diet" of polished white rice must be changed to stop undernourishment and this must be done at once if the people of Asia are to survive.

The cure for tuberculosis, he continued, is not to be found in clinics but in nourishing the people. "People abroad will read about TB in the colony and will be wondering how such deplorable conditions can possibly exist. They will not know that it is entirely due to voluntary or self-inflicted malnutrition," he said.

A recent survey showed Singapore's tuberculosis rate the highest in world.

Arkansas Farmer Puts Cow Milking On A Higher Level

CONWAY, Ark., June 11 (AP)—If milking bossy gives you a back ache, former H. O. Proctor figures he can save you a lot of stoops. It's just a matter of putting the cow on a higher level than the milker, says Proctor, who operates a farm near here.

Proctor used to wear himself out stooping over to milk his 20 cows each day. He thought up the idea of building a ramp around his barn big enough so that when he has to milk all he does is reach out and attach electrical squeezers. Everything is set—with no back bending.

The old method required one bend to wash off each cow's set of faucets; another to attach the electrical milking machine and a third to remove the mechaniecal apparatus. That's six squats per cow per day. Since Proctor milks an average of 20 cows twice a day for 10 months, that represents 36,000 stoops he now saves each year—or so he figures.

Coal Spokesman Claims Natural Gas Can't Supply Fuel Demands

By MAX B. CKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, June 11.—Reactions of the coal industry to gas pipe lines might surprise natural gas producers.

At least one coal spokesman believes natural gas reserves will not permit the eastern and midwestern trend toward natural gas to continue indefinitely.

He is Joseph Pursglove, jr., Pittsburgh, Pa., who suggests the coal industry be ready when the gas industry cannot meet demand.

In a paper prepared for the recent Cleveland, O., convention of the American Retail Coal association, Pursglove says the industry eventually will have to accept a larger role in the nation's energy supply pattern.

He suggests gas-from-coal can supplement natural gas once "the impact of growing demand has overcome the ability of natural gas sources and long pipelines to meet the overall need or to meet appropriate economy."

No Agreement

Government officials and petroleum spokesmen long have debated the extent of the nation's oil and gas reserves. There is little likelihood complete agreement ever will be reached.

Predictions that the United States will face a "synthetic fuels era" have ranged from 25 to 1,000 years.

This week the U. S. Army engineers awarded a $1,341,637 contract to a New York firm to survey 37 states and Alaska for areas suitable for manufacture of synthetic liquid fuels.

Raw materials to be studied include coal, oil shale, natural gas and oil impregnated strippable deposits.

Experiments in synthetic fuels are being conducted by both the petroleum industry and government agencies.

Crude Crisis Predicted

A few purchasers and producers are predicting crude oil prices will experience a crisis within 10 days.

Numerous price adjustments have been made since demand began to fall last January but most involved specified grades of crude.

Gulf Refining company, however, this week posted a 13-cent per barrel reduction on purchases made in six south Texas and Louisiana fields.

Also, ESSO Standard Oil cut its crude runs to the Baton Rouge, La., refinery by 15 per cent. This action reportedly contributed to the Arkansas oil and gas commission's ordering a similar cutback in crude allowables for all the state's controlled fields.

Federal and state officials continue to kick that controversial tidelands ownership issue around.

Latest Developments

1. Administration leaders next week are expected to comment on a possible compromise plan as submitted to them by state representatives following a conference with Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

2. Congress has received an administration bill which would relinquish any government claim to rivers, bays, harbors and other water areas inland from the low tide mark.

3. Five major oil companies holding 40 percent of Louisiana's tideland oil leases have used the state to be relieved of lease obligations until the federal-state ownership squabble is settled.

Celebration To Spotlight Two Basic Problems Of Our Times

By ROBERT N. SCHWARTZ
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 11.—Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago predicted tonight that the international Goethe festival will be an epoch-making milestone in the intellectual history of the Western world.

The noted educator, chairman of the festival to be held in Aspen, Colo., June 27-July 16, said the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of the German poet-philosopher-dramatist spotlights the two basic problems of our times.

Hutchins said these problems are:

1—The universality of knowledge, and 2—The universality of man.

Uneducated Expert Menace

Johann Wolfgang Von Goethe, said Hutchins, was the mightiest mind of modern times. His philosophic wisdom and penetrating insights into the workings of man and his civilization are as valid and valuable today as they were in the 18th century.

Hutchins explained:

"We have forgotten the lessons of Goethe in the last few years. Now everything is science. The world is our oyster—and science is going to open that oyster for us.

"But we forget one thing:

"The uneducated expert is the greatest menace in the world today."

The tall, spare, graying University of Chicago chancellor whose unorthodox educational theories rocked the academic world when he took over the helm at Chicago 20 years ago at the age of 30, continued:

"And now we have atomic energy. That's the answer to everything. But it isn't. Atomic energy is only a tool. With it we can blow up our whole world or find a cure for cancer.

"What we need—urgently and desperately—is the knowledge and inspiration, gained from sources other than science, to tell us how to use this potential Frankenstein wisely.

Thinking Is Néed

"Of what value would it be to find a caure for cancer if people don't know what to do with their lives after we save them—if their lives are frustrated, aimless and sterile."

What we need, said Hutchins, is to learn how to think and to get something worth thinking about.

For these things, he said, we must go back to Goethe. Not for an explicit answer—because no one has that—but for clues. Goethe, he continued, stands forth as a great figure of the past, a universal man who understood the role of the individual in society, the relation of science to society. Hutchins added:

"Goethe embodied the universal man in himself; he was a poet, a philosopher, a dramatist, a scientist, and a statesman. He did not recognize national boundaries; he was a pre-nationalistic character."

Now, said the chancellor, it is time to hark back to Goethe, time for a rebirth of the humanities and the concept of a liberal education.

These things must be revived, he stated, to preserve our civilization.

Hutchins said scholars and educators associated in the Goethe festival believe that it offers a wonderful opportunity to dramatize all this for the world—to re-examine the thinking of Goethe and determine its value for modern man.

To do this, Hutchins asserted, many world famous scholars will journey to Aspen, the remote resort village in the heart of the Colorado mountains. Among them will be Dr. Albert Schweitzer, famed doctor-philosopher-theologian-musician from French West Africa, making his first appearance in the United States and, Jose Ortega Y Gasset, Spain's foremost living philosopher.

The festival will hear a number of other speakers and a series of 10 concerts by the Minneapolis symphony orchestra under the direction of Dimitri Mitropoulos.

Hutchins said Aspen was chosen as the site of the festival because "we wanted it to mean something; we didn't want people dropping in after the movies or a night club."

The idea, he said, was to choose a site that made the trip to the festival a pilgrimage. Hutchins said Aspen was a happy choice because it was remote but not inacessible, and because of its scenic beauty.

The festival is being sponsored by the Goethe Bicentennial Foundation of which former President Herbert Hoover is honorary chairman and Hutchins is chairman.

Longtime Lubbock Residents Announce New Jordan-Spain Auto Service Establishment

Establishment of Jordan-Spain garage at 1008 Ave. J was announced Saturday by W. J. (Bill) Spain and Doyle Jordan, partners in the firm.

The garage will offer complete automobile repair service, and will partners said. The 50-by 125-foot building will be remodeled.

Jordan has lived in Lubbock since 1929, with the exception of five years spent in Amarillo. He was with Firestone Tire and Rubber company nine years, and Newsom Paint and Supply company five years. He is a member of Lions club.

Longtime Residents

Mr. and Mrs. Jordan and three children, Revis, 12; Jerry, 7, and Judy, 2, live at 1915 Twenty-third.

Spain has lived in Lubbock 20 years. He worked for Firestone as service manager and assistant manager for three years. He was with Lubbock Auto company 10 years, six years as manager of the No. 2 and No. 3 stations, the three years in the used car sales department.

Mr. and Mrs. Spain and one son, Bill Ross, 9, live at 2809 Twenty-third.

The partners bought the business of Clarence Bestick, leasing his equipment and stock.

Engineers Use New Machinery

CLARKSVILLE, Va., June 11 (U.P.)—Push button methods are being used by Army engineers in a multi-million dollar project to tame the long-unruly Roanoke River.

Automatic and semi-automatic machinery, some of its so new that engineers here had never seen it before, has been moved in now that test pourings have been finished on the $78,000,000 Buggs Island Dam.

Buggs Island is the first and largest of 11 such structures planned along the length of the historic stream here on the Virginia-North Caroline border.

After more than two years of preparatory work on location, test pourings were made in mid-April. By the end of a week, workmen using "robot-type" machines had become skilled enough in their operation to pour 1,000 yards a day. Full capacity of 2,500 cubic yards a day will be reached by mid-May.

Keyboard Used

One of the machines already in use is a giant concrete mixer with a keyboard like the console of an organ with lights, butons, dials and recording instruments.

An engineer hands the operator a formula for the type of concrete desired, the operator adjusts his dozen or more dials, presses a few buttons and sits back.

In a completely automatic operation, the machine works like a druggist filling a prescription. It weighs the materials, dumps the proper amounts into tumbling drums, gives them a thorough mixing and pours the "filled prescription" into huge buckets.

Tape Record Kept

That isn't all. The machine keeps a tape record of every batch it mixes so that inspectors and engineers have immediate records of the quality of concrete in every portion of the construction job.

Such engineering marvels as this giant mixer are saving taxpayers untold amounts of money. Other savings are being made by the elimination of a complicated system of hundreds of miles of water pipes used to cool the setting concrete in dams like the Grand Coulee.

Engineers here are getting around that internal cooling system simply by using ice instead of water in the formulas for mixing the concrete.

Chow Line As Powerful As Atom Bomb, Claims Doctor

NORFOLK, Va., June 11 (AP)—The United States' chow line is "as great a military weapon as the atomic bomb ever will be," according to Dr. Berton S. Clark.

The re-elected president of the Associates of the Quartermaster Food and Container institute says this country's ability to feed vast overseas armies was one of its decisive weapons in World War II. "A-bombs or no A-bombs," says Dr. Clark, who is research director of the American Can company, "the millions of men fighting in distant points of the world still have to be fed."

The Curious Reporter

OPAL DIXON

THE QUESTION
Would it be good or bad for Lubbock county if cotton acreage were reduced under a government control program?

(Considerable discussion of a cotton control program as a likelihood in 1950 has taken place among farmers. Cotton acreage control is a part of Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan's proposed farm program. Farmers answering the question live in Lubbock county, in the heart of the 18-county area in which is located about three million acres of cotton or half of the cotton acreage of Texas. Lubbock county alone contains about 425,000 acres of cotton.)

C. L. GOBLE, Lubbock route 3, farmer and dairyman: "In some ways it would be a good thing and in others it would be bad. As far as the land is concerned, it would be a good thing. Cotton makes it wash and and blow. People wouldn't have the cotton to sell, but they might get more for it. It wouldn't change me at all. I grow feed and alfalfa and have 70 acres of wheat."

J. B. GARNER, Lubbock route 1, who has about 340 acres in cotton on a 400-acre farm: "I believe it would be a good thing. We need something to build our soil. We've raised this cotton too long. The soil needs something put back in it that cotton doesn't have. I would raise cattle and hogs along with as much cotton as they would let me."

FLIM V. DUNN, Abernathy route 1, whose farm home is in Lubbock county: "It would be a good thing—to hold the cotton price up, for one thing. We'd make just as much money with half acreage as we would with five-cent cotton and there's a chance for it to go to five cents if we don't control the acreage. I'd plant grain sorghums and wheat."

C. F. MAYSE, Lubbock route 7, who farms a little more than 100 acres, about one-half in cotton and one-half in wheat and feed: "I don't think they should cut it. I think we need it. They're going to make more clothes and people are going to buy more clothes and I think we still need all the cotton. That's just by opinion. I don't know whether I'm right or wrong. If we put it in feed, I don't know whether feed would be high enough that we could afford to raise it. I'd probably raise a little more wheat."

C. E. NEWTON, Idalou route 1, farmer, who has about 520 acres of cotton and 15 acres of wheat on his 600-acre farm: "In a way, I'm for it. I hate to have it done, but we're going to overdo cotton business if we don't control it. I'd rather raise less for more money. I'm just as much to blame for too much cotton as anybody. As long as it is high, you can take a cotton crop and make your land clear $150 an acre while grain might clear $75 to $100. We know that if we protect the price we're going to have to have a control program. I think the farming world would agree that if we didn't have a protective price this year we wouldn't get enough to pay to gather it with so much being raised. We all know we tried four-cent cotton and didn't get anywhere. I don't know about this land we're going to take out of cotton production. There are two ways of looking at it. If you own land, you can raise stock and make pasture of it. If you rent it, I don't know what would be best. The tenant wouldn't want to pay enough rent to justify it. If they do put a control on it, I think it should be on percentage of tillable land rather than what you've been raising. It would be fairer to everybody."

W. V. MADDOX, 3201 Twenty-seventh, partner in Lubbock laundry and farm owner: "I think it will be bad. This is cotton country. Over a period of years, cotton is usually the surest crop we have. I really don't think they should put on government control. We have wheat control now. We put regulations on when there are people in the world starving, so it's definitely a distribution problem rather than a problem of over production, in my opinion. Why not send wheat to Europe rather than money? People there don't have enough to eat, and some people in this country don't have enough to eat. A lot of people could use the cotton, too, if we could get it to them."

UN Delegates Declared Shaky Over Success Of Organization

GRINNELL, Iowa, June 11. (AP) Assistant Secretary of State George Allen says aggression, if it comes, will destroy the United Nations.

He added in an address yesterday at Grinnell College Institute of International Affairs, "I fervently hope it will not. But we who believe in this great world organization and are working and praying for its success are apprehensive."

Allen, in charge of public affairs for the State department, blamed Russia for fear the United Nations will fail. He said Russia "must dominate or it refuses to play on the team."

The League of Nations failed, Allen declared, because "democracy was crushed in Germany and because a totalitarian regime controlled the Soviet Union.

"The league was doomed to failure because it was not a federation of free peoples," he continued.

Asserting that people must "face the facts squarely and honestly," Allen said:

"Aggression, if it comes, will destroy as surely as it destroyed the league. And in totalitarianism, of either the right or the left, lie the seeds of aggressive action."

UN, Allen said, "has not been able to achieve freedom from fear. The reason is easy to understand. Its second most powerful member is not a democracy. The Russian people are not free."

Threats Used

Allen, former American ambassador in Iran, said the Soviet Union had used threats of violence two years ago in an effort to force an oil concession from Iran.

"Iran and other nations today remain in constant fear of an attack from a powerful neighbor," he said.

Allen hailed the North Atlantic treaty as an arrangement which has done much to achieve "freedom from fear" for western democracies which subscribe to it.

"Some people in this country," he said, "particularly among the young intellectual group, have swung to the Soviet side in the belief that the Kremlin's program offers the best opportunity for reducing nationalistic barriers to international cooperation.

"Such reasoning is utterly fallacious. World conquest can never be the basis for lasting world federation. The key to world federation is freedom, not slavery; democracy, not tyranny, and cooperation, not conquest."

Python Killing Popular Sport In Residential Singapore Sections

SINGAPORE, June 11 (AP)—Python killing has become a popular pastime in residential sections of Singapore. Police eliminated one that was eight feet long and the thickness of a man's arm as it rested after swallowing a hen not far from a physician's house.

An hour later, the same day, police killed an even larger one—10½ feet long and 15 inches thick, as it came across a highway from vegetation behind the Seven Day Adventist church.

A HOLLYWOOD Column

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—Jimmy Stewart was wearing a white linen suit, a straw hat and a pained expression.

"I've got a stomach-ache," he said, "I think it's intestinal flu."

I didn't have the nerve to tell him that all 41-year-old bachelors facing matrimony complain of stomach-aches.

Johnson

It's the sudden shock, I've been told, to the nervous system.

But I didn't hesitate to kid Jimmy about acquiring both a wife and a family. Gloria Hatrick McLean, whom he'll marry in August, has two small children by a previous marriage.

"Not only that," grinned back Jimmy, "but she's also got a big police dog."

I asked him what bachelor habits he as planning to eliminate from his life.

"Well," he welled (just like Jimmy Stewart does on the screen), "I really don't know which ones I'll have to give up. Give me a few months in this married club and I'll let you know."

The other: A woman at Santa Anita was asking Joe a lot of stupid questions about horse racing and Joe was at the cracking point. Finally she asked:

FINDS EXCITEMENT

GLENN FORD spent two weeks with Rita Hayworth on location in the High Sierras for "Carmen," but he says the two weeks he just spent at New York's Bellevue Hospital were much more exciting.

An M-G-M company went there for semi-documentary scenes in "Bodies and Souls," the story of a young interne and a girl, Janet Leigh. They shot scenes in the morgue, in the operating rooms and in ambulances speeding through crowded New York streets.

Director Curtis Bernhardt hid his camera in a bakery truck, inside orange juice stands and even behind a newspaper rack in the newsstand at Times Square.

"It was exciting," Glenn said. "The camera crew would arrive early in the morning at the orange juice stand, for example, and hide the camera before any people were around.

"Then we'd synchronize our watches and at the exact moment I walked in and ordered orange juice, the camera would start turning. The regular customers didn't even know we were there. If someone recognized me, we packed up and went somewhere else."

This is Glenn's first film at M-G-M, the studio that turned him down 11 years ago on his first visit to any movie lot. He was turned down because he wasn't "pretty" enough and was told: "You're a character juvenile and difficult to cast."

Despite rumors of a tiff, Ellen Drew has only the nicest things to say about hubby Cy Barlett. She just reported to M-G-M to co-star with Joel McCrea in "Stars in My Crown."

FINED FOR KISSING

Fined 60 cents at Karachi for kissing his best girl in public—a practice forbidden by a local law—Izzat Mohammad, clerk in the Pakistan Foreign Ministry, pleaded that he kissed with the girl's consent.

Balding Men Urged To Use Garlic Rub, Slow Down Drinking

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP) — Men are worried about falling hair should cut down on their before-dinner Martinis, rub a little garlic on their noggins and exercise regularly.

That is part of the advice proffered by Florence M. Doyle, scalp specialist.

"Heavy drinking and dietary excesses of almost any kind are apt to cause a person to lose his hair," Miss Doyle said. "A diet deficiency, on the other hand, also may be responsible for such a condition."

She said if a person expected to keep his hair, he must stay in good physical condition.

"This rule is particularly important for men who live sedentary lives," she said. "I find that the less active a person is, the more inclined he is to baldness."

Cleanliness Needed

Miss Doyle said the condition of the scalp was even more important than that of the body.

"The scalp must be kept clean at all times," she said. "However, it is not wise to wash the hair more than once every two weeks. Water is bad for the hair and scalp. When washing the hair, use a good shampoo and not ordinary face soap."

To keep the scalp from becoming dry, she advocated the use of olive or castor oil.

"In most cases," she continued, "a man's hairline begins to recede because of lack of stimulation at the roots of the hair. To avoid this, the scalp should be vigorously massaged every day. The use of certain sitmulants will help too. One of the best stimulants I know of is garlic. It can be purchased in processed form, completely deodorized."

Baldness Increasing

Miss Doyle said that baldness often was caused by illness, eyestrain, worry, overwork and hypertension. She said hats, unless they were very tight, did not affect hair growth.

She said baldness is more frequent today than ever before. It is now common among men in their early 20s, as compared to 30 a generation ago.

Occupation and climate also affect the hairline, she said. She observed that baldness ranged this way among various job holders:

1. Accountants.
2. Airplane pilots.
3. Musicians.
4. Newspapermen.
5. Professional athletes.

Agent Gets Stars To Rome, Sun Valley In Nothing Flat

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD, June 11 (AP)—"I want to be in Rome day after tomorrow. Get me there."

A request like this wouldn't throw Ray Cardillo, whose travel agency gets many Hollywood stars where they want to go. After 17 years of it, nothing surprises him.

"Most of my trade with the stars is spur-of-the-moment," he commented. "For instance, I learned about the Bob Hope tour about three days before he was to leave."

Jaunts Cost $100,000

He referred to the comedian's tour of the nation earlier this year. The two air jaunts touched on 80 cities and ran up a transportation bill of around $100,000. And there was nary a hitch, except for a 15-minute take-off delay because singer Billy Farrell overslept.

The Hope junket was the biggest thing Cardillo has arranged. He has also fulfilled star requests for hotel reservations in Long Beach, 20 miles distance. Nothing is too big or too small.

You and I may be thinking about vacations this time of year, but not movie stars, said Cardillo.

"They seem to figure they should be doing something in the summer—either plays or tours like Hope's," he remarked. "And I guess the truth is that they can't afford to be idle. As Hope says, 'I'd like to take a vacation, but the government won't let me'."

Trips Are Deductible

But there's one consolation for the actors: their trips are almost always deductible from their income tax. They can be charged off by doing some appearances, interviews or business negotiations.

Cardillo has detected a trend in the travel habits of the stars:

"They used to all go to Tijuana, or whatever was in vogue at the time. Now they seem to want to get away from each other."

He has to get used to the travel habits of the stars. For instance, Bing Crosby and Jimmy Durante will not fly, Frank Sinatara always does.

Most popular distinction is New York. Most frequented vacation spots include Sun Valley, Palm Springs and various guest ranches in the west And then there's Europe.

"We're booking trips to Europe the same way we used to book 'em to Catalina," Cardillo said.

Laine Now Solo On Matrimonial Circuit, Awarded Quick Divorce

LOS ANGELES, June 11 (AP) — Singer Frankie Laine is solo on the matrimonial circuit today.

A favorite of the younger set, he won a quick divorce Friday by testifying that his wife of only six months "drank much too much."

Laine, 36, said that his wife, Nellina, 24, caused him mental anguish and affected his work with her drinking. The singer, whose real name is Frank Paul Lo Vecchio, was married to Nellina at Las Vegas last Oct. 11. His brother and manager, John Lo Vecchio, gave supporting testimony.

The court approved a property settlement giving the wife $5000 and several items, including a white horse.

'Elephant Boy' Denies Being Father Of Dancer's Daughter

LOS ANGELES, June 11 (AP)—Sabu Dastagir, 25, "elephant boy" of the screen, has denied formally that he is the father of a daughter born to Brenda Marian Julier, English ballet dancer.

Miss Julier, 23, demands $500 a month for support of the girl, born in Dublin, Ireland, last Sept. 12.

Sabu, who married actress Marilyn Cooper last October, filed his answer in superior court Friday. He denied Miss Julier's claim that the child was conceived at Sabu's North Hollywood home from August, 1947 to January, 1948. Miss Julier is now living in London.

Police Tear Gas Fails To Thwart Colonel's Suicide

SANTA ANA, Calif., June 11 (AP) Defying police tear gas, Lt. Col. Charles A. Morris, 41, shot and killed himself in his garage apartment Friday.

The retired Army officer fired twice at the score of officers surrounding the place in the attempt to thwart his suicide attempt. Police Chief Boyd A. Hershey fired three tear gas shells into the room.

Morris' body was found a bullet wound in the head and gun in hand. Nearby was a note addressed to his wife, Margaret. Chief Hershey said it cited financial difficulties and added: "I didn't have the nerve to take you with me."

Actor Lee Tracy's Wife Found Unconscious In New York Hotel

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP)—Helen Irene Tracy, wife of actor Lee Tracy, was in a serious condition in a hospital today, after being found unconscious in her hotel suite.

Mrs. Tracy, 37, a native of Wanamie, Pa., occupied a suite at the Hotel Astor with her husband, who until recently has been appearing on Broadway in Herman Wouk's play, "The Traitor."

She was found unconscious on the floor of the suite by a hotel employe, police said.

Tracy said he was downstairs in the lobby when she was stricken.

"She had been perfectly well," he said. "She just suddenly became ill, very ill."

The Tracy's home is in Los Angeles. They have been married about 10 years.

Determined Aussie Rabbits Eat Through Plastic Fence

SYDNEY, June 12 (AP)—A young Englishman thought he had the answer to Australia's rabbit problem.

He made plastic "wire" netting, took it to the rabbit country and set it up.

"If they get through that I'll eat my hat," he said. The rabbits ate all his plastic fence.

Actor's Wife Gives Him Hard Look And Sneer At Day's End

By PATRICIA CLARY
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, June 11. (UP)—Many men get their pipe, a footstool and a kiss when they come home from a hard day's work, but an actor's wife gives him a hard look and a sneer.

"Ha!" says the actor's spouse. "All worn out from kissing Jeanne Crain."

Actor Bill Lundigan declares this to be an actual statement made to him by his wife Rena when he returned from work in Darryl F. Zanuck's "Pinky" at 20th Century-Fox.

And he reports that Gregory Peck, Richard Widmark and the other leading men get the same thing from their fraus. Wives think a day spent kissing Betty Grable or Hedy Lamarr is good, clean entertainment.

"They don't know what we go through," he sighed dejectedly. "It's the same thing over and over—and in those hot lights. Even the mechanics of the thing are rough. You have to hold the girl just so, or you bump noses or make her look like you've broken her jaw."

No Sympathy

Lundigan, who Zanuck believes will become one of Hollywood's top stars after his scenes with "Pinky" come out, has labored through arduous clinches with stars like Olivia de Havilland, Bette Davis, Deanna Durbin and Hedy Lamarr.

"Other husbands come home from shops and offices, and their wives offer to take their shoes and get out the footstool," he complained, "but not an actor's wife in this town does that.

"Our wives come out with some subtle remark like, 'What's the matter? Does Linda Darnell hug that hard?'"

Lundigan gets more sympathy after 18 holes of golf than he does after a day working in the movies.

"It all goes to prove that it's appearances that count," he said. "I can't even convince my mother that working with Jeanne Crain would be work."

PANIC BUYING STARTS

Mysterious Writer Of Scare Letters To Teachers Gives Up

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—The mysterious writer of "scare letters" to the nation's would-be school-marms apparently has given up the campaign.

The flow of letters which reached a peak this spring has now stopped, says Belmont Farley, press relations director for the National Education association.

The letters apparently have been without the effect the writer desired. Young women are still going into the teaching profession by the thousands.

The association asked the FBI to investigate after it learned that the letters, all postmarked at Seattle, had been sent to thousands of women in schools of education throughout the country.

Called Lonely Road

Mimeographed on cheap paper and signed "one who has observed," the letters said in part:

"Teaching is the worst matrimonial blind alley that ever a girl can get into. Many teachers never marry.

"In the years to come, you may be spending your holidays alone, or your relatives may patronize you and allow you to look in upon them . . .

"The people who operate these training institutions told maid factories are greedy for your sacrifice so they can continue in their positions."

Both the FBI and the Post Office department conducted inquiries.

Farley told a reporter that so far as the NEA has been informed the investigations have been without result. He said he suspects that some disgruntled teacher used up "a good part of a year's salary" on the postage and other costs of the letter.

Suicide Decides In Midair He Wants To Live, Is Still Living

MELBOURNE, June 11 (AP) — Sidney Charles Dyer, tired of life, dived from his Melbourne hotel window, 40 feet above the street. In the air he made a snap decision to live some more. Today he is still alive.

Dyer told police that when he felt himself falling through space, he wanted to keep on living. "I twisted in air and back-somersaulted on to a shop veranda next to the hotel," he said.

The fall knocked him unconscious, but he suffered only bruises. Dyer, 35, is an artist.

Drama Students Gain Experience Aboard Last Of The Old-Time Ohio River Boats

HIRAM, O., June 4 (UP)—The last of the Ohio river showboats has opened its 1949 season at Point Pleasant, W. Va.

Captain Tom Reynolds, a showboat pilot for 36 years, is skipper of the dramatic venture. Students from Hiram College provide the acting ability.

The Majestic is the only traveling ship of its kind left, and has a seating capacity of 425. Built in 1923, it has survived the depression, war usage, treacherous river ice and the growth of other forms of entertainment.

Twenty-six dramatic students of Hiram college are following showboat dramatic tradition as closely as possible. They have dug through forgotten trunks in musty attics, traced down many a showboat captain or performer believed dead, and collected one of the most complete files on showboat lore in existence.

Features of this years program are "The Drunkard; or The Fallen Saved, a Temperance Melodrama in Five Acts," and "John Loves Mary," of recent Broadway fame.

In addition, there will be five vaudeville acts, and a marionette show for children in the afternoons.

The project is a co-operative venture. Students will not be paid salaries but will share in whatever profits there may be after all expenses are met.

By the time the season ends on Oct. 1, the Majestic will have stopped at almost 50 towns and cities in Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

British Shoemakers Crusade Against The Word 'Cobbler'

GREAT YARMOUTH, England, June 11 (AP)—British shoemakers don't like to be called "cobblers."

The National Federation of Boot Trades associations adopted a resolution asking newspapers to stop using "this offensive word."

Few delegates to its annual conference backed a speaker who said "cobbler" was part of the language and objecting to it would only draw more funny headlines. Most of them sided with another man who said the only meaning he knew for "cobbler" was "clumsy workman."

Dictionary definitions of the word include both shoe mender and clumsy workman.

England's only perpetual legal holidays are known as "bank holidays." These have been celebrated since 1871.

Nine total eclipses of the sun will be visible somewhere in the continental United States during the next 100 years.

American Cotton Men Seek To Hold Market; Dixiecrats Stymie Housing

THE FIGHT IS ON

Some Progress Made

THOSE who view with uneasiness the virtual certainty of increased world production of cotton are likely to find reassurance in the activities of the Statewide Cotton committee of Texas and numerous other State and national groups comprising the National Cotton Research congress.

Practical cotton men readily admit the seriousness of the production problem. The United States produced a surplus last year, with a larger one anticipated this year. Several other nations —Brazil, Peru, Mexico, India, China and Egypt—are growing more and more cotton. Some experts say Brazil eventually will raise more than the United States. Production costs in all the nations are far lower than in the United States.

But American cotton men are facing the problem with complete realism. They aren't trying to kid themselves. They frankly acknowledge that the survival of the American cotton industry may depend on one or both of two achievements: (1) Increased usage to absorb the production and/or (2) reduced American production costs.

The progress in both directions is most encouraging, according to a recent report of the Cotton congress. The need of millions of people for more materials made of cotton is conceded, and the congress is trying to devise ways which will enable the people to get them. Research is seeking new uses for the staple, and the results are encouraging. And there is no question in the minds of most cotton men that production costs will be reduced very substantially, sooner or later, with mechanization.

None of the major problems has been solved, nor is there any guarantee they will be. But the best cotton minds in America are concentrating on them with all the energy and ability they possess. Most Americans would jump at the chance to bet, giving odds, upon them.

And, to bring the matter nearer home, there's cause for special pride that Texas Tech is one of the important reliances in the search for enduring prosperity for American-grown cotton.

A Continuing Job

COMMON sense tells everyone that the the success of any community in precautions against the outbreak of an epidemic—or in coping with one which breaks out—depends largely on the individual citizen.

San Angelo's recent tragic experience with polio sounded the alarm for Lubbock, and every community in a large area surrounding that city, to get busy with precautions. Most South Plains communities have heeded the warning. Health officials got busy promptly. They suggested methods by which the individual could cooperate. The response has been gratifying.

But, to minimize the hazards to each individual and community, this cooperation must be continued indefinitely —and, most particularly, through the hot months. No one is asked to do much work, or to go to heavy expense. Cooperation involves nothing more than keeping weeds chopped and disposed of, or treating with disinfectants, those places in which files, mosquitos and other insects might breed.

These precautions will not guarantee immunity from polio or other diseases to any community. But they increase immeasurably the chance of escape from such outbreaks and, if epidemics should break out, they will minimize their seriousness and make them easier to bring under control.

The Right Position

WE BELIEVE Attorney General Price Daniel is following the course most Texans prefer in declaring—and actively continuing — his opposition to any compromise with the federal government on this State's claims to its own tidelands.

Mr. Daniel has been quoted from time to time as opposing the compromise idea. But on no occasion has he been more positive in stating his position than when he visited Lubbock a few days ago and was interviewed on the subject by The Avalanche-Journal.

Mr. Daniel expressed an intensely realistic view of the prospects.

He recognizes that refusal to compromise may mean the federal government will appropriate all our tidelands. But he also is of the opinion that right, justice and law are on the side of Texas and that the State has a good fighting chance to win a legal battle for undisputed title to the property.

On this basis, we believe most Texans are more than willing to string along with the attorney general in fighting the issue to a finish.

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal

TEXAS COTTON FARMERS WO ULD BE AFFECTED BY PLAN

Hearings On Cotton Acre age Control Bill To Open

By SARAH McCLENDON
(Avalanche-Journal Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 11 — The hearings starting June 14 before the Senate Agriculture Committee on Senator Clinton Anderson's cotton acreage control bill have much interest for farmers of Texas and New Mexico.

Co-sponsors are Senator Tom Connally, Texas; Chavez, New Mexico; Hayden and McFarland, Arizona, and of course the senators from California. Senator Anderson is believed to have achieved something phenomenal when he obtained other co-sponsors from the older cotton states. Those from Alabama, Florida, North and South Carolin, Tennessee, Louisiana and Arkansas have also signed. Senators from Georgia are noticeably absent.

J. S. Wilson, Pecos, representing cotton farmers of the irrigated sections of West Texas, and also those joined in the cotton organizations of far West Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California, has been most active in pressing for passage of provisions in this bill.

Rep. Poage Opposes Plan

The whole movement to get this bill through started at Memphis some weeks ago when cotton growers from 19 southern and western states met there and decided they were in agreement on the plan for acreage control. Leaders of some of those states which would undergo acreage cuts expressed willingness to go along as they felt without acreage cuts, none of the cotton farmers would make any money. Other who have opposed the Memphis plan have said only large commercial farmers of the delta regions or of historically new cotton-growing areas want it. Rep. W. R. Poage, Texas member of the House Agriculture committee, criticized the groun as not being representative of the little cotton farmer. Poage also said their program posed a formula for acreage cuts that would not give Texas farmers credit for their historic cotton production in counties where farmers deserted cotton for war crops.

When the Anderson bill finally emerged, however, it included a method whereby credits can be given in crop reporting districts for war crops that were planted in lieu of cotton.

Plan Is Given

HERE Senator Anderson in his own words tells what the bill will do:

"It amends the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938. It eliminates the objectionable features of the old Act which continued obsolete provisions that would serve to make any kind of a production control program inoperative and impracticable. It makes specific provision for shifts and trends which have occurred since the last year of marketing allotments in 1943. It provides a method whereby credits can be given in crop reporting districts for war crops that were planted in lieu of cotton under the terms of Public Law 12. A more detailed analysis is as follows—

"Section 342 sets up the provisions under which marketing quotas and market allotments may be set up by the Secretary of Agriculture. It calls for acreage allotment where supply exceeds normal supply by more than eight per cent. It requires proclamation of marketing quotas by Oct. 15.

"Section 343 provides for a referendum to be held not later than November 15. It establishes minimum baleage allotment of 10,000,000 bales or 1,000,000 bales less than domestic consumption plus exports of the preceding year, whichever is smaller. This would prevent any unreasonable reduction of cotton acreage in the United States in any one year.

Base Years Set Up

"Section 344 provides for a five-year moving base commencing in 1953. This sets up special provisions for the years 1950, 1951 and 1952 as follows—1950 and 1951 allotments to the states shall be computed by using a four-year base, namely, the years 1945, 1946, 1947 and 1948, to which will be added credits earned under Public Law 12 (war crops) and makes specific adjustments for trends and shifts and acreage which have taken place during the war years. This provides for a national base acreage allotment of 22½ million acres which may be increased or reduced with equal percentage adjustments upward or downward for each state. Commencing in 1952, the special provisions for shifts and trends are leminiated and for that one year the average plantings in the years 1946, 1947, 1948 and 1950 are designated as the national base. This makes it

IT always gives me a pain in the neck when I hear about the failure of marriage.

The statistics do look discouraging, but you can do almost anything you want with statistics.

When I read that one in every four marriages goes on the rocks; I simply don't believe it. But even if it were true it wouldn't be so awfully terrible.

One is every four sounds bad. But when you look at it another way it means that out of every million marriages, seven hundred fifty thousand are successful, or at least stick together.

I wonder where the statisticians get their figures.

Naturally, people who spend a lot of their time in night clubs are not going to be successful at marriage.

In the big cities there are bound to be more divorces because there are so many more temptations.

Human beings are not all exemplars of virtue and of moral strength.

Satan, if you believe in him, is a little bit like those folks in the Kremlin.

He has plenty of under-cover boys and girls to lead susceptible victims astray.

But I maintain that there is nothing wrong with marriage fundamentally, any more than there is anything wrong with Democracy fundamentally.

But just as Democracy has to be practiced and not preached, marriage has to be practiced and not just played at.

Marriage is a partnership.

If one partner in business steals, the partnership is eventually going to go on the rocks.

If two partners fight with each other too much, they usually dissolve the partnership.

Marriage is just like that.

Divorce is simply a dissolution of partnership.

THE trouble is that happy marriages never get any publicity, except when a couple celebrate their silver or their golden wedding anniversary.

But I get plenty of letters from long-married people who seem to

ACTION WAS REFUSED

Test Vote Rejected

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — One of the big issues which helped elect Truman and a Democratic congress last November was public housing. Despite repeated pleas from Taft, Truman and others, the 80th Congress refused to act on a housing bill.

PEARSON

Came Jan. 1, the 81st Congress convened, and the housing bill was considered one of the sure-shots on the Truman program. There wasn't any argument about it certainty of passage. Even the real estate lobby virtually gave up hope.

Six months have passed since then, during which Truman foes have become bolder and bolder. Perhaps that was why, last week, three Dixiecrats stymied the entire housing program.

The three Dixiecrats are Gene Cox of Georgia, William Colmer of Mississippi and Howard Smith of Virginia. And they blocked the housing bill by a vote in the powerful rules committee, which holds the key to whether a bill shall reach the floor of the house for debate by all congressmen.

Inside fact was that two of the Dixiecrats —Cox and Colmer—had indicated to Speaker Sam Rayburn before the meeting that they would vote out the housing bill. Cox of Georgia, a warm personal friend of the speaker's, definitely assured Sam that he would go along. Rayburn was also convinced that Colmer of Mississippi would vote the bill out of the rules committee, with the understanding that in the final balloting on the House floor he would vote no.

With these supposed assurances, Rayburp decided against a test vote in the Democratic caucus one day before the rules committee acted. Relying on his Dixiecrat friend he figured that a favorable rules committee vote was assured.

But when the rules committee met in secret session, Virginia's Smith and Mississippi's Colmer went to the rear of the room for a private huddle, then called in Georgia's Cox.

After some brief whispering, the trio demanded that the committee delay final action three more days, after which Cox argued vigorously against a record aye-and-nay rollcall. Apparently, because of his promise to Rayburn, Cox didn't want to be recorded as voting against housing.

Both proposals were voted down, following which the three Dixiecrats lined up with the Republicans to block further consideration of the housing bill.

The meeting ended with an agreement for reconsideration next Monday, but not before Indiana's two-fisted Democrat, Ray Madden, fired a withering tirade at the public housing opponents.

"You shout about this legislation to provide decent low-cost housing for our people as being socialistic," blazed Madden, "but when you throw people out on the street, you are feeding subversive agents in this country their best argument for Communism or Socialism."

A SUSPICIOUS-LOQKING fellow sat down at the press table prior to a joint Senate-House hearing on the budget the other day.

Press Attendant Del Malkie, always on the lookout for imposters, sidled up to the stranger and asked what newspaper he represented.

"Drew Pearson," responded the intruder.

The stranger fumbled in his pockets, muttering: "I've got a card somewhere, but I don't like my picture on it."

"It's all right now, but you'll have to move as soon as the hearing starts," Malkie warned sternly.

The stranger moved all right—up to the committee rostrum where he took a seat alongside other members of Congress. He was Congressman Clare Hoffman, Michigan Republican.

NOTE—Hoffman, a vitriolic critic of this column, once served as a merry-go-round guest columnist. He was given free rein to broadcast his criticism through the column, and did so—pungently.

Nazi Cartels

On April 29, the Ferguson committee published its official report blasting the military government of Germany for not breaking up Nazi cartels, especially the giant I. G. Farben chemical monopoly. One day later, Gen. Lucius Clay, then in Germany, issued a hot denial. He claimed the cartels had already been broken up, including I. G. Farben.

But shortly after Clay returned to the U. S., Maj. Gen. George P. Hays in Germnay announced that the Army was now beginning to do what General Clay said had already been done.

Gen. Clay, April 30—"The decartelization of economic enterprise has been accomplished in Germany on a scale without parallel elsewhere . . . Germany's largest industrial combination, the I. G. Farben enterprise, has been broken into separate units, of which there are 50 in the U. S. zone alone . . ."

A. P. report on Gen. Hays, June 1—"A major step toward breaking up the I. G. Farben chemical empire will be taken soon by offering one of its units for sale, Maj. General George P. Hays said today . . . Hays estimates it would take five or six weeks to work out technical procedures and advertise for bids. He said Farben stockholders would be invited to sit in consultations before the sale."

A Communist meeting in a London market place was abandoned after stallholders pelted the speaker with over-ripe tomatoes.

One-Minute Sermon

AMERICAN BERNARD SHAW

Mencken Is Against Everything

"A MENCKEN CHRESTOMATHY," edited and annotated by the author; (Knopf).

THE American language, which Mencken knows so well that he practically owns it, seems ungraciously to have failed him in the matter of a title. Anyway, the Greeks already had a word for it: Chrestomathy. As the publisher explains, it means "a collection of choice passages from an author." Offering substantially the same definition in his preface, Mencken comments further that he likes the word even if "a few newspaper smarties" expected it would mystify readers. So now you know what this book is, whether or not you like Mencken and his customer, as he says, have been to school.

The selections, from books out of print, date largely from the 1920s and early 1930s. They run to 600 pages. They are the colorful words of a cantankerous, obstreperous, opinionated but agile and virile thinker. They are better arranged than the words of most contemporary writers; they constitute at a guess the largest working vocabulary of any contemporary writer; though occasionally exasperating, they are ceaselessly provocative and entertaining.

He's An Aginner

Sometimes you suspect he takes the unpopular side o fa question just because his acidulous, vigorous vocabulary is loaded in that direction. He is philologically, professionally and personally against . . . against democracy, the simonpure Anglo-Saxon, the telephone, radio, opera, zoo, the Gettysburg Address. He calls the Greeks "the most overestimated people in all history," and a master stylist himself, he belabors books on style written by "schoolma'ams, bucolic college professors and other pseudo-illiterates."

He is, in a way, against the human race. Man is much less efficient than protozoa, he claims, and "as animals go . . . man is botched and ridiculous." But neither animal nor protozoa ever wrote a book as absorbing as this. Despite the exaggerations, or perhaps because of them, he is the American Bernard Shaw.

Jesse James Again

"JESSE JAMES WAS MY NEIGHBOR," by Homer Croy; (Duell, Sloan & Pearce).

BORN in the James country of Missouri the year after one of Jesse's fellowers shot and killed his leader in St. Joseph, Croy grew up with the popular idea that Jesse wasn't such a bad yegg after all. He has not changed his opinion importantly. Moreover, he has scrupulously run down the bandit trail, and come up supposedly with the facts.

Frank was born in 1843, Jesse in 1847. They fought in Confederate guerrilla bands in the Civil war, and no doubt Border warfare conditioned them for a highwayman's career. Frank was in on the first American bank robbery, in Liberty, Mo., in February, 1866, and later the same year Jesse, who was 19, followed in his big brother's footsteps.

Business Didn't Pay

Toting up the loot roughly, you arrive at the vague, unreliable but possibly indicative figure of $1,750 as average annual income for each brother for the first 10 years. Their business, as Croy calls it, obviously didn't pay. After the Northfield, Minn., failure, Jesse fled to a Tennessee farm and Frank to Nashville. It was too late to start scrabbling for a living, so Jesse, to keep wife and babies in the style to which train robberies had accustomed them, went looking for more trains. Bob Ford shot him in 1882. Frank finally surrendered and, as no jury would convict, was freed. A couple of the other boys wound up as skeletons in doctors' offices.

Son of a preacher and stepson of a doctor, Jesse was such a good businessman that he always kept his finger on the trigger, and he'd pull it if he didn't like your looks; he inherited, says Croy, his loving mother's temper. Apparently he never jerked the legs off flies or kicked the dog; he sang hymns, saved a negro's life, helped a poor widow, loved his wife. But the fact that people didn't use to like banks and railroads is a weak excuse for his depredations; and before I can really be fond of a guy, I want to know something more in his favor than that, on a few rare occasions when he might have killed a man, he didn't.

The James boys have been the subject of 450 novels and six major movies, Croy tells us, and certainly there is the stuff of real drama in this account. You'll like the book, but not is heroes.

"Newspaperwoman"

"NEWSPAPERWOMAN," by Agnes Underwood; (Harper).

MRS. Underwood is city editor of the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express, which is said to be the first hustling metropolitan daily in this country to entrust direction of its city staff to the distaff side.

The author believes, apparently, that if this isn't a man's world, at least you have to act like a man in it. Born in San Francisco in 1902, she lost her mother when she was six. Her father put her out to live and board with relatives, some of whom wanted her and some of whom didn't. Formal education stopped with sophomore year in high school; she worked in a department store, as telephone operator and waitress, when she wasn't on her uppers; was married at 17 and finally, to buy silk stockings which her husband couldn't afford, took what she thought was a temporary job on the Los Angeles Record switchboard.

Covered Big Stories

She has been a rabid newshound ever since, working up through a variety of positions to woman's department and city staff and moving to Hearst's Herald-Express in 1935. She has covered general assignments on fires, strikes, plane crashes, political and military celebrities, movie stars; but most of her amazing stories have to do with crime, with "Tiger Girl" Clara Phillips, the "noonlight murder" of librarian Ruth Muir, the slayer who gave himself away with a wink and the one who did it with a yawn, the killer who buried his victim under an avocado tree and the one who buried his under a squash patch.

For two years now she has been the boss, sending someone else out to dig under squashes and avocados, interview suspects and condemned, escape death by drowning or conflagration but get the story, be the "first with the latest." She expects reporters to be as good as she was. She could use a man's blistering language; she could kick the opposition in the shins to get a scoop; and she could quickly sock a reviewer in the snoot if he didn't like her book. But this does.

Redeemer Lutheran Church To Hold Cornerstone Laying Today

A special service is to be conducted at 3 p. m. today at which the cornerstone of the new Redeemer Ev. Lutheran church will be laid, church officials have announced.

The service will be conducted at the building site of the new church Ave. W, just north of the present church.

Rev. Harold Heckmann, pastor of the Emmanuel Lutheran church of Littlefield, will be guest Speaker for the occasion. His sermon topic will be "Building." Rev. Karl W. Keller, pastor of the Redeemer church, will serve as liturgist and will be in charge of the cornerstone laying ceremony.

To Include Documents

"It is the custom of the Lutheran church that a cornerstone be so constructed that it may contain documents which are of confessional and historical interest, Rev. Keller said.

"To that end, the cornerstone of Redeemed Lutheran church will contain a copy of the Bible, the Augsburg confession, the Small Cathachism of Dr. Martin Luther a brief history of the congregation and a roster of membership, a copy of the congregational constitution, the latest editions of The Lutheran Witness, the official publication of the Lutheran church, Missouri synod. Also to be included are recent copies of the local newspapers," Rev. Keller added.

The new church building of Redeemer Lutheran church will represent an investment of some $58,000 upon completion. Contracts for a new organ and the first unit of church pews were let last week.

A. B. Ohlenbusch is chairman of the church building committee.

TO CONDUCT REVIVAL— Evangelist J. Calvin Dennis, pastor of the First Baptist church of Trinity Heights, Dallas, will conduct a series of revival services this week at the Central Baptist church, 1309 Eighteenth. Rev. Jack Welch, pastor of the local church, has announced that services are to be held daily at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Rev. Dennis is visiting Lubbock for the first time.

First Christian Church To Dedicate Sanctuary Window

In celebration of the first anniversary of worship in the church sanctuary, which was completed slightly more than a year ago, the First Christian church will dedicate its new sanctuary window this morning.

The window was recently installed. A folder containing a picture of the "Holy Trinity" window and its interpretation will be available for each family at the service.

For his sermon of dedication, Rev. Travis White, pastor, has chosen as his topic, "The Road Ahead."

Lubbock District Of Methodist Churches Plan Meet Monday

The annual organizational and set-up meeting of the Lubbock district of Methodist churches will be held at 10 a. m. Monday at the Overton Methodist church, Forty-sixth at Overton Drive, Dr. J. O. Haymes, district superintendent, has announced. Dr. Haymes will preside.

"The all-day meeting, open to pastors, their wives, district stewards, church lay-leaders, Sunday school superintendents, presidents of Women's Societies of Christian Service, and all other interested Methodists, will be concerned with getting the district organized and in operation for the new conference year," Dr. Haymes said. "Emphasis will be placed on the overall program of 'Advance for Christ and His Church,' the church official added.

Ladies of the host church will serve lunch at noon.

Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of First Methodist church of Lubbock, will preach at the morning worship service which is to be held in conjunction with the meeting.

Others who will participate in the day's activities include Rev. Jordan Grooms, Levelland; Rev. H. L. Thurston, Brownfield; Dr. C. A. Bickley, Asbury church of Lubbock; Mrs. M. B. Hilburn, Mrs. C. A. Ross, and A. N. Gamble, all of Lubbock.

be just as happy as the day they were married—or even happier, because they have learned to know and adjust themselves to each other.

Only today, for instance, I had a letter from Mrs. Hilda Oller, of Waynesboro, Ga., who just celebrated her 32nd wedding anniversary with a happy family party.

"Thirty-two years of happy marriage means a lot to us," she writes. "Sure we've had our ups and downs. We've had arguments, but they never amounted to much. We weathered the depression and raised fine children. We are happier today than we were on our wedding day. We have so much to live for."

And then Mrs. Oller closes with a comment on a recent column in which I said that I stopped praying.

"You haven't stopped praying," she writes. "Good thoughts are prayers, too, and your column shows that yo uhave lots of good thoughts."

Good thoughts, by the way, also make for happy marriages.

Honor guest at the affair will be Rev. F. J. Huegel, missionary to Mexico City, who will speak. Each family has been requested to bring sandwiches. The drink and dessert will be furnished.

Kansas Mayor Decides 24 Years Is Long Enough Time In Office

HUDSON, Kas., June 11 (AP) — There's never been a big turnover in Hudson city officials. The community, population 225, has a new mayor for the first time in 24 years.

William Krug, who had served continuously since his first election in 1925, had been saying he believed he had held the office long enough. And this spring he said definitely he would not be a candidate. So Hudson elected Krug's son-in-law, Leonard Brim.

Hudson was incorporated as a city in July, 1908, and the office of mayor has nearly always been in the Krug family. Gustav Krug, father of William, served as mayor from 1913 until his death in 1920.

Ex-Baseball Player Advocates Brighter Clothes For Men; Flashy Ties Boosted

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP) — Time to rise and shine, men. You've been foils for women long enough.

Another man joined the clamor for brighter male attire. Leonard Tarmon, a flat-nosed ex-baseball player, has just contributed a matching wool tie and belt set in luscious shades as his part of the brightening campaign.

"Men," Leonard said, "are inhibited by women." If it weren't for women's scorn, he's firmly convinced that men would go in for color some place besides their socks.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson is at the top of his list of well-dressed men who are overly conservative. Movie star Clark Gable and Lou Boudreau, Cleveland Indians shortstop and manager, are on the list, too. Tarmon thinks they'd be knockouts in the sartorial line if they'd accept a few suggestions from him.

"As it is," he said, "men are just foils and dull background for women. Even in the magazine ads they dress the men in dark suits and use them as background for the flashy cover girls."

Tarmon has been making neckties since his days as a machinist's mate on a cutter in the Pacific. On shipboard he made them from scarves he bought as souvenirs of Japan.

Now he's got a thriving business in the Bronx, where he dreams up new ways to overcome man's inhibitions. The new necktie and belt sets come in shades like lime green, lavender and hot pink.

Brighten the male midriff, 27-year-old Tarmon figures, and you take a big step in pepping up his general appearance. If the ladies don't like it, well, Tarmon shruggedged a sportily clad shoulder and voiced total unconcern.

"It's time the men were emancipated anyway," he said.

INSURANCE FOR BEES

Bees have their own health insurance plan in Britain now, where payments of 20 cents a year insures keepers a coverage of $8 if their swarms become infected and have to be destroyed.

Housing Can't Keep Pace With Changes In Australian Family

ADELAIDE, June 11 (AP) — It takes a long time to have a house built in Australia.

One young Adelaide couple asked the local council for permission to build a home.

The permit still hasn't come through.

In the meantime, the young husband and wife have been divorced and the wife has married again.

The new husband has taken up the building negotiations where husband No. 1 left off. But he doesn't like the style of home planned by the first husband. He has submitted new plans.

The council has deferred consideration.

permissable for a state committee to retain 10 per cent of the state allotment for adjustments within the state and also makes similar provisions for county committees. 'A frozen acreage' provision makes it possible for growers to indicate in advance their intention of using acreage allotments, thus enabling more complete utilizaton of alloments.

"Section 345 provides for farm marketing quotas similar to those in the old Act.

"Section 346 establishes penalties for over-planting.

"Section 347 exempts from the Act extra long staple cottons and identifies them by variety and area of production. It also provides means whereby long staple cotton can be brought under production controls in the even supply should exceed demand.

"Section 302 (c) amends the old Act to specifically provide that price supports be made on the basis of 7-8 middling spot cotton on the ten markets designated by the Secretary with appropriate adjustments. The principal changes from the 1938 Act are (1) The elimination of undesirable and antiquated provisions. (2) For the years 1950, 1951, and 1952 full recognition is given to all of the various factors including special provision for such states as Oklahoma, where extensive shifts have taken place due to the increased acreages in grain sorghums and wheat during war years."

A list of witnesses to testify at hearings is being compiled now by the Senate Agriculture committee clerk.

Capital Worker Honored

THIS week marked a memorable occasion in the history of the 16th congressional district.

A wonderful character, about whom much of the area's history has revolved, celebrated her 30th anniversary in public service in Washington.

Mrs. Kate George, secretary to 16th district Congressmen, did not want much written about her. There could have been volumes. As always, she is self-effacing, permitting the spotlight to rotate to the persons upon whom she has always tried to turn it—her boss. And in turn, her boss, Rep. Ken Regan, is just as proud of her.

With characteristic humor, when the 30-year milestone was mentioned to Mrs. George, she remarked: "I don't know whether to laugh or to cry. But I'll say that it is good to be alive and it is beautiful weather we're having."

Later, at a reception given in her honor by Miss Altavene Clark of Amarillo, executive officer of the House Agriculture committee, Mrs. George was toasted by Judge Marvin Jones, chief of the U. S. Court of Claims, in the presence of Senator Lyndon Johnson, Reps. Regan, George Mahon, Lubbock, Eugene Worley, Shamrock, and others.

"It is rare indeed to find one who is both gracious in her home and efficient in her office. Mrs. George is both of these. I heard Speaker Sam Rayburn say of her—'I think she is one of the most efficient secretaries I've ever seen.'"

Con. Regan paid her great tribute when he said "No man ever came to Congress with a greater feeling of assurance and relief at contemplating the tasks ahead as I did when I heard Mrs. George would stay on and be my secretary."

Mrs. George responded by saying: "It's worth these 30 years to hear these remarks today."

Miss Gladys McCarthy, El Paso, who holds an important administrative position with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, returned to Washington recently from a four-months rest in Texas. En route she passed through Houston. After a stay in the El Paso climate, South Texas was a marked contrast. "How could that city of Houston grow so fast when it has such a terrible climate?" she asked.

Rep. Clark Fisher, San Angelo, will bear the whole civil rights burden on his shoulders next Monday night when he will debate Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, negro, New York, over the American Forum of the Air (Mutual) on the question "Should We Have Fair Employment Practices Law?" The time is 10 p. m. (EST). Powell is chairman of the sub-committee which recently approved the bill after extensive hearings. The full committee has not yet reported out the bill for congressional action. Fisher will also be subjected to a deluge of questions from an unfriendly audience.

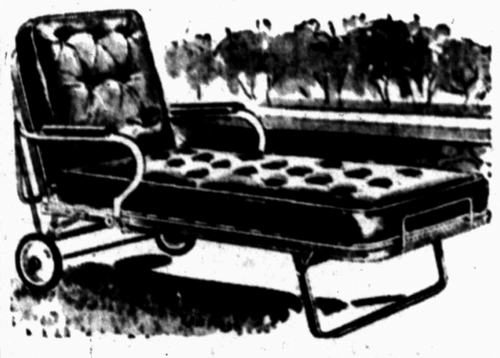

Roy G. Baker, Sherman, retiring president of Young Democratic Clubs of America, debating the head of the Young Republicans on the same program last week, found himself answering questions aimed at Texas most of the time, on civil rights, tidelands, Dixicrats, and finally votes by individual congressmen on labor, housing and displaced persons.

Moscow Elephant Strolls In Street, Obeys Traffic Rules

MOSCOW, June 11 (AP) — The Moscow circuis elephant Punchy likes to walk and nothing makes her so happy as to walk the streets of the capital.

She's even learned to obey the traffic lights. An "Evening Moscow" account of her strolls said she halts when the light is red and, when it turns green—and traffic starts to flow — she hurries across the intersection.

Her attendant gets tired on these strolls sometimes and sits down for a rest. But Punchy wants to go on and she tugs him by the arms with her trunk.

New Seed Drill Machine Bought For Use On Lubbock Area Farms

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

To further the program of soil conservation and to improve area pastures and range, the Lubbock Soil Conservation District supervisors have purchased the latest type grass seed drill.

It is the plan of the supervisors to rent the machine to any farmer who wants to seed irrigated pasture or range. The rental charge is 50 cents an acre.

"This small charge is made only to defray the cost of maintaining the machine and absorbing depreciation," E. R. Davis, Acuff, chairman of the board of supervisors, said Saturday.

The seeder has eight large seed boxes and four small ones. The small boxes have two drops or feeders to match those of the large ones. Any type of grass seed can be used.

Buried Three-Fourths Inch

Small, fine and lightweight seeds are fed through the small boxes. Coarse, fuzzy and large seeds are planted as they drop from the large containers. As the seeds drop into the soil they are covered by a device on each disc which prevents seed from being buried more than three-fourths of an inch deep.

Purchase of the seed drill was announced Friday following the regular monthly meeting of the Lubbock County Soil Conservation District Board. Members present were Davis, Edwin Merrell, Shallowater; Joe S. Walker, sr., Slaton, and H. L. Williams, Lubbock Independent School District. The other member, G. K. Horton, Hurlwood, was absent.

The machine will be available at the USDA soil conservation office for farmers who want to use it. The machine is mounted on rubber wheels and can be pulled easily behind a car or pickup. Arrangements for the use can be made through soil conservationist Marshall Howard, 1605 College avenue, County Agent D. W. Sherrill, 1320 Avenue Q, or through any of the five supervisors. The user must call for the machine and return it.

Members of the board of supervisors believe they have taken a big forward step in the promotion of pastures, range and soil conservation in Lubbock county.

"The majority of farmers have been sowing grass seed by the old hand broadcast or 'whirlwind' method," Davis said. "This is not only a great waste of seed but a poor distribution.

Coverage Not Good

"These old methods do not allow for proper coverage of the seed. They are often blown away or concentrated into clumps.

"With this new seed drill a farmer can get a smooth, even distribution of seed, have it properly covered and protected, and do it in a fraction of the time it would take him to do the job by the old time-worn methods," Davis said.

"As more and more farmers join in the 'save the soil' program, we may see the day when we are able to utilize 100 percent of the soil of the South Plains and get a maximum production from it," Davis concluded.

Babies Play With Cobras In Indian Town Where Snake Charmers Learn Weird Art

NEW DELHI, India, June 11 (AP) Babies fondle cobras and vipers instead of playthings at Molar Bund, a dusty village 15 miles from New Delhi.

Molar Bund is a village of snake charmers. There are wicker baskets of assorted reptiles in every family hut, and every male is taught the art of charming almost as soon as he can walk.

When a boy is old enough and skillful enough, he is sent away with a bag of snakes and musical instruments to earn a living in the cities. Only the failures and the women stay behind.

There is more to snake charming than blowing a gourd flute. Among other things, a Molar Bund apprentice must learn how to catch a snake in the field, how to keep him happy in captivity and how to mix a quick antidote for bites.

He also must know how to extract venom. Contrary to popular belief, snake charmers seldom put on a public show with deadly reptiles. It would be too risky.

Baby Takes Test

"Bite people," the head charmer of Molar Bund (now retired) explained to a visitor.

The head charmer, an old man with dots of gold inlaid in his teeth, got out a round basket to demonstrate how the job is done. He stripped off a wrapping of damp rags and lifted the cover. Coiled inside was a five-foot cobra, greenish-gray on top with creamy underneath. It had been caught the day before.

As its head swayed up and out of the basket, the old man grasped it with a thumb and forefinger just behind the eyes. With a tiny knife he made a deft cut near the inner angle of the jaw and scooped out a pale sac about the size of a pea. The snake hissed.

"Bad poison," the old man said.

A circle of teen-aged apprentices sat on the ground playing fat gourd flutes, home-bade zithers and drums built of wood and rubber innertubes. They wore dirty turbans of many brilliant colors and their ears were pierced with ivory rings.

Nearby, in the shadow of a hut, a dozen or more snakes were feeding. Some of them lay half submerged in huge flat pans that contained a thin mixture of milk, water and some kind of meal. Two boys keps an eye on them.

There were cobras, vipers and one snake as fat as a man's biceps which looked like a python. Not more than ten feet away, a naked, fly-tormented baby boy sat crying in the mud doorway of the hut.

The head charmer gathered the big snake around his shoulders, walked to the hut and folded the great coils around the baby's knees and stomach.

"Waaaa," screamed the baby, louder than before.

The snake's head swayed up inquisitively, flicking a dark tongue at the infant's mouth. Fascinated, the baby stared. Then he patted the heay coils with tiny fists—and grinned.

"Snake good," said the head charmer.

New Zealand Governor-General Warns Against Drink, Smoking

AUKLAND, New Zealand, June 11 (AP) — Sir Bernard Freyberg, New Zealand war hero, has a word of advice for the young of the world: Don't drink spirits, and don't smoke too much. Sir Bernard, who won the Victoria Cross in World War I, is now New Zealand Governor-General.

"I am disturbed when I see young people drinking spirits and chain smoking," he said at a university graduation ceremony. "They are only storing up trouble for themselves."

OLD GREY MARE

KENILWORTH, Australia, June 11 (AP) — At Yabba Yabba near here there's a pony mare whose known age is 38 years. Her actual age no one knows. Her head and mane have gone grey with age, but otherwise she's nearly as good as she used to be.
