Rain Beats Texas Down

By United Press International

Rains, up to six inches in one community, tornadoes, hail and rising river water plagued Texas again today with no immediate relief in sight.

Storms continued through the night and early today over most of Northwest and Southwest as and into sections of Central Texas. Several severe thunderstorms were indicated by radar in these areas.

Pampa received .24 of an inch in an early morning shower.

Four cars of a Sante Fe Freight were derailed when a bridge washed out about seven miles southeast of Lefors Tuesday night. There were no injuries.

Tornadoes touched ground today near New Home and O'Donnell, south of Lubbock, and near Stratford, north of Lubbock. No damage was reported from either twister.

Hail was reported in Abilene and near Lubbock.

Skies were clear to partly cloudy in East Texas.

Showers and thundershowers decreased in intensity today but were still fairly numberous over much of the state west of a line running from Corpus Christi to Wichita Falls. Clear to partly cloudy skies prevailed east of this line.

Early temperatures ranged from the upper 50s in the Panhandle to the mid 70s along the lower coast.

At times the tornado alert, issued sporadically Wednesday by the U. S. Weather Bureau, covered 44 counties. Funnel clouds were sighted near Valentine, in mountainous Jeff Davis County in West Texas; 10 miles north of Plainview, 10 miles southeast of Sulphur Springs and near Benbrook. The Weather Bureau said none of the twisters touched ground.

High winds and hail hit Plainview and Waco during the afternoon and at Malone, about 50 miles south of Fort Worth, where a shed was blown down, several windows were broken and power failures occurred in many parts of the community.

A low pressure system moving across the Panhandle was blamed for the violent weather in North Texas.

Johnson County, in North Central Texas, was perhaps the hardest hit by rain and flash floods. Six inches of rain was reported at Venus and three inches fell on Godley and Joshua.

Streets were flooded in Cleburne when three inches of rain struck the city. Numerous motorists were stranded.

Hail and winds to 80 miles an hour hit Arlington. Police reported little damage.

Severe thundershower and flash flood alerts were issued the Weather Burea thrughuta the day. Tarrant, Dallas, Johnson and Denton counties were

Viet Cong Rebuffs Nixon's Proposals As Unreasonable

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong today rejected President Nixon's call for a mutual withdrawal of U.S. and North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam, calling it "unjust and unreasonable."

The statement did not mention other points in Nixon's eight-point peace proposal made on television Wednesday night.

"In fact, the United States is still sticking to its old, unjust and unreasonable proposal in changed form," an official statement from the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front said, "calling for mutual withdrawal of troops, putting onto the same level the aggressor and the victim who is resisting aggression—a proposal we have rejected many times."

An agreement between Communists and the Allies on a mutual pullout still appeared to hold the key to settlement in the talks.

The Viet Cong accused Nixon of pretending to display goodwill.

Nixon did not reject outright the Viet Cong's peace package of last week although he made it clear some parts of it were unacceptable. His mutual withdrawal point was a basic part of his proposal.

The two main points of Nixon's statement ran in opposition to the two main provisions of the Viet Cong plan.

The Viet Cong had demanded

Justice Fortas Steps Down Under Administration Fire

Copy of Resignation Sent to President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas has submitted his resignation to President Nixon, it was announced today.

A Supreme Court spokesman said Fortas submitted his resignation to Nixon in a letter delivered to the White House Wednesday night. A copy also went to Chief Justice Earl Warren

A statement given reporters by a court spokesman said:

Associate Justice Abe Fortas sent his letter of resignation from the Supreme Court to the White House last night and at the same time sent to the chief justice a letter of explanation about the Wolfson family foundation fee.

"Both were delivered last night, and he is announcing his resignation from the court this morning."

The court spokesman, Banning E. Whittington, said there would be no further amplification of the statement.

Asked whether the letter would be made public, Whittington said, "I don't know. He didn't say anything more to me."

The Fortas resignation came 11 days after Life magazine made public for the first time Fortas' receipt of a $20,000 fee from the family foundation of Louis Wolfson, wealthy financier, after Fortas became a member of the court in 1965.

Fortas issued a statement the same day, May 4, acknowledging that he did receive a fee—he did not say how much—from the foundation. He said he later returned it. Life said he did not return it until 11 months later—after Wolfson was indicted on federal charges of stock manipulation.

Wolfson is now serving a year's prison sentence in Florida.

The resignation came as the first moves were afoot on Capitol Hill—amid strong criticism of his alleged impropriety in taking the fee—toward possible impeachment of the eighth ranked of the nine justices.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., asked the House Judiciary Committee Wednesday to begin a preliminary inquity into the Fortas Wolfson relationship.

While MacGregor did not characterize this as the beginning of impeachment proceedings, some lawmakers viewed it that way. Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, had indicated he would go along with the MacGregor request.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R- had served notice days ago that he was prepared to begin impeachment proceedings. He was holding this in abeyance pending the possible judiciary inquiry.

MacGregor demanded that Fortas be summoned to testify

Scottish Clan Defends Its Lake Monster

INVERNESS, Scotland (UPI) —For centuries, Loch Ness has been the monster in Nessie's and the Clan Fraser aims to keep it that way—come Hell, the Campbells or a yellow submarine.

Lord Lovat, the Fraser Clan chief who led commandos across European beaches in World War II, today piped a call to the defense of the Loch Ness monster against an American-built miniature submarine. He is one of Scotland's major landowners.

"The monster is Scotland's greatest invisible asset," Lord Lovat huffed. "I don't mind the scientific survey going on to try to identify it, but I do object to it being harried and harrassed by a submarine."

Lovat is asking Inverness police to enforce national laws which forbid attempts to "molest or hit the monster if it is sighted." He is also rallying clansmen and private landholders on the loch to stand ready to keep the submarine out of the icy waters.

The one-man submarine is enroute to Scotland by freighter from Norfolk, Va., to assist the Loch Ness Phenomena Investi-

Lt. Gov. Barnes Here For PPROA Convention

Walter (Zany) Blaney really has a serious side, according to Robert T. Dunnigan who introduced the entertainer atl ast night's banquet of the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association.

The smorgasbord dinner was served in the Starlight Room, which could barely hold the members and their guests.

Tonight's closing banquet, also at Coronado, will feature Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes as speaker.

But Blaney was more zany than serious, as his audience soon became aware. The colorful Houstonian entered from the rear of the room tossing a lariat which ended in a loop directly over his head as he faced the crowd, then vanished magically.

This was the first of a series of demonstrations of his prowess as a prestidigitator. Others followed, to the hilarity of everyone.

A hit of the evening was his work with four "assistants" invited to the stage and treated to the distinction of becoming "Honorary Texas Marshals."

Teaching the men a routine of exchanging the colored sombreros he had given them, Blaney, after the fellow actors became hopelessly entangled in the routine, deftly picked their pockets while onlookers roared their applause.

One of the "assistants" was called back to the stage and, while studiously following the speaker's instructions, was wholly relieved of his shirt as diners watched.

"That's a trick that might come in handy sometime," the victim said later.

The assistants were Bill Aabelman, Ed Brooks, Lawrence Hagy and Joel Plunk.

Blaney continued with a line of patter such as turning to a man behind him. "Can you imagine my getting a thousand a night for doing this?" Pause. "Yes, I know, but can you IMAGINE it?"

Or suddenly, to a man seated near the stage, "I don't mind your going to sleep but you forgot to say goodnight."

Or, suddenly, pointing to himself, "No talent, just charm."

At another point, "I know all about hypnotism. If that's not true I'll give you my personal check for $1,000— or ten cents in cash."

That serious side that Dunigan mentioned is evidenced by the fact that Blaney was a candidate for Congress in California— "I ran ahead of Nixon; he had 44 per cent and

Blastoff Sunday, Apollo 10 Ready

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— Astronauts and ground crew are sailing through preparations for Sunday's Apollo 10 blastoff with hopes the weather won't become a last-minute obstacle.

A lightning storm Wednesday drove ground crews from the pad where the rocket and spacecraft are being readied. The launch director said such a storm near takeoff time could force the poised astronauts out of their spacecraft.

A space program weatherman said the general weather situation is right to produce electrical storms, although it's too early to make a forecast for Sunday.

Apollo 10 spacemen Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan are keeping an eye on the weather, but staying relaxed in the final stages of getting ready for their eight-day moon orbiting mission, which will be followed by OPERATES AUTOMATIC DRILLING MACHINE — Don Mills, sitting in an air-conditioned van, operates a complete drilling operation simply by pushing buttons on the control panel in front of him. The new drilling machine is currently being used to drill a well northeast of Lefors.

Easy as Dialing a Telephone

Derrick Drills by Push-Buttons

By RUTH LEWIS

Persons residing in an oil-producing country all know what a derrick looks like. They think.

But when they go out looking for the new automatic drilling machine pioneered by Texaco on the R.C. Mayberry lease they —sort of — get lost.

"You see, they are looking for a conventional derrick and this could scarcely qualify."

So says G.B. (he admits the initials stand for Good Boy) Hogan, field office manager for Texaco at Lefors.

There just isn't anything conventional about this automatic, electrically operated drilling rig. From a little distance it looks like a huge tower of steel scaffolding with automatically moving arms that keep the bit working. (Or maybe they don't call it a bit any more.)

This gargantuan monster, set up two weeks ago, has nearly finished the job it was brought here to do and soon will be ready to move on, Hogan said.

"There still are some electronic bugs to be eliminated," the Texaco man added, after a minor failure Tuesday afternoon when the generator went out.

This automatic machine, manufactured by a company of the same name, Automatic Drilling Machines, at Dallas, is unique. It is the first, and so far only machine of its kind. The Texaco operation at Lefors is the fourth that the machine will have completed. The other sites were Gainesville, Bowie and Dallas, Tex.

Don Mills, who might have been called the driller, or tool pusher, in the old days, is the manager of the drilling operation. Quietly he pushes a button here and there, to start the machine or to set it right if something goes wrong. Together with two roughnecks, he can handle the whole drilling process simply by sitting at a panel with flashing red, green and white lights. As easy as dialing a telephone. Or so it seems to an onlooker.

The old-fashioned derrick was taller than this one, usually about 96 to 100 feet, Hogan notes, This new one is 75 feet high. But at a little distance it looks like the steel framework of a sizable house structure, rather than a derrick.

Incidentally, Hogan says some of the very old derricks were made of wood and he adds that one still is standing in the Borger field. Another is, or was not long ago, extant in an area southeast of Pampa. It had been supported with boards to hold it upright.

"These derricks were made of wooden boards, usually 2x12," said Hogan. "I've seen them myself."

Nobody seems to know how much it cost to build the new automatic, the Lefors man says.

"I've asked them and they say they don't know. But some one does and it's probably a professional secret."

The machine was designed especially for offshore drilling on the northern slopes of Alaska, its crew reports. It can drill diagonally and thus remain stationary while completing 30 to 60 holes according to Mills.

The average conventional drill operates to a depth of about 4500 feet, maximum, whereas the automatic can go as deep as 13,000 feet. So far the Lefors operation has gone to about 3000 feet.

Mills was being assisted last week by an electrical engineer, Bill Brown, flown in from California to work on some minor flaws in equipment, and Walter Ellwood, a hydraulics engineer.

Hogan has been with Texaco 34 years and has participated in the drilling of 350 wells, he estimated. Old-time drilling required a crew of five men; the automatic uses three.

The crew travels very com-

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—If you had to single out one new television series that seems a sure-fire ratings failure next season—no matter how good it is—it would have to be ABC's "Love—American Style."

And yet one can only praise ABC for trying to bring some long-missing and long-needed romantic stories to the home screen, and hope that the network can triumph over the very heavy odds against the series.

To begin with, "Love—American Style," which will be a collection of unrelated romantic tales focusing on the young, will be up against two formidable series: the Carol Burnett Show and the Monday night movies.

Will Be Anthology

Furthermore, since the stories of the hour long, weekly "Love—American Style" are unrelated, that means the series will be, in effect, an anthology. And an anthology is usually considered a dead-letter item on the networks nowadays because it has few or no running characters for the audience to identify with on a steady basis.

The only shows to do well on television without running characters in recent years have been the various movie reruns—but chiefly because they have the name value, stars, high production gloss and glamor that video cannot match.

So, in effect, the movies have become the anthologies of television, killing off most original series attempts of this kind by the networks.

The virtual death of original anthologies on television is really an unfortunate fact of life, because some of the best video programs in memory appeared on excellent series of this kind that just dind't last.

Original Dramas

There was a time, of course, when anthologies hosted by Dick Powell and Bob Hope—as well as the Du Pont "Show of the Week"—gave network television some good small dramas, at least original. But that was before the overwhelming influx of movies—which may not be as generally popular as in previous seasons, but which are still formidable entries.

ABC-TV, in fact, is also trying a sort of cross between an anthology and the movies next season in another series. This one is called "Movie of the Week," and will offer 90 minute originals made especially for television.

And it will not be interesting to see how this series makes out as well, for not only is it opposite such tough foes as Red Skelton and "Julia," but also the established Tuesday night movies.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —It was disclosed at a recent congressional hearing the U.S. Army is spending $1.1 million on "the introduction of a new pfc stripe."

I wouldn't have deemed this especially significant except for the fact that the hearing involved the Army's supplemental budget request for Southeast Asia.

"Well," I said to myself, "the Army has tried just about everything else in its efforts to end the war in Vietnam. The new PFC stripe just might do it."

Seems Like "Overkill"

To a civilian, however, the expenditure of $1.1 million on PFC stripes seemed like something of an "overkill." So I called up the Pentagon to see what I could find out about the program.

It isn't easy to find anyone at the Pentagon who can talk in terms of a million dollars.

"Are you sure you don't mean a billion dollars?" asked the first party I contacted. "I don't recall ever hearing anyone mention a million around here."

The second party I contacted said, "What's a pfc?"

But I finally got in touch with a low-ranking Army officer (a colonel) who was able to she dome light on the matter.

He explained that the Army now has two grades of privates, the E-1 and the E-2. With the naked eye, however, you couldn't tell them apart.

Body Discovered Hanging on Pole, Youths Arrested

PAOLI, Pa. (UPI)—Police on the fashionable Main Line of suburban Philadelphia arrested two youths Tuesday for stealing a body from a cemetery and running it up the flagpole at Great Valley High School.

Students saw the body on the flag rope at the top of the 60-foot pole Saturday morning when they arrived to decorate for a dance, police said.

The youths were identified as Terry D. Darlington, 18, of Malvern, and Hey S. Belber, of Berwyn. They were released on $1,000 bail.

14 Taxpayers Are Heard by Board Of Equalization

The city tax Board of Equalization wound up its one-day public hearing at City Hall yesterday with only 14 persons appearing to protest.

City tax collector-assessor Aubrey Jones said several hundred notices had been sent out notifying property owners, both personal and real, that valuations had been increased for the 1969 tax roll.

They also were notified to appear at yesterday's hearing if they were of the opinion increased valuation was not warranted.

The boaard heard all complaints and questions and George Scott, chairman, stated the testimony given yesterday will be reviewed at a study session and property owners will be notified of the decisions. Other members of the city board are Quentin Williams and Calvin Whatley.

The Pampa Independent School District's board of equalization also met yesterday to hear protests of property owners residing inside the city. A later hearing will be scheduled for property owners in the district outside the Pampa city limits, according to Homer Craig, school business services director.

Members of the school board of equalization are Lee Fraser, Buz Tarpley and W. B. Jackson.

Hoiles Is Named To Humane Studies Institute Board

R.C. Hoiles, president of Freedom Newspapers, Inc., has accepted a directorship of the Institute for Humane Studies, Menlo Park, Calif.

The institute founded by the well-known economist and author Dr. F.A. Harper, is a research center seeking "to focus all fields of knowledge on the individual person. . .on individual liberty."

Hoiles was asked to join its membership, the board stated, because of his "remarkable devotion" to institute objectives and his "tolerance and well-wishing toward others" working for the organization's aims.

There was no immediate official reaction to Nixon's statement from the North Vietnamese delegation. But there was little doubt the Hanoi delegation fully backed the Viet Cong brushoff.

The 17th session of the peace talks will be held Friday this week rather than the normal Thursday which this week is a French holiday.

Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. negotiator at the talks, was expected back in time for Friday's session. He returned to Washington Wednesday hours before President Nixon's speech.

PHS Senior Class Sells Tickets To Wear Shorts

No short shorts was the word at Pampa High School today. To raise money for a Senior Class project, seniors sold 15 cent tags which entitled the wearer to attend school in shorts.

School administrators had the last word on length of shorts for both boys and girls and warned students "any indecent length will be sent home."

With the warning issued by Weldon Trice, assistant principal, known as "Bulldog Trice," about 75 per cent of the PHS students wore shorts, but according to Trice, "no one had to be sent home for wearing shorts too short."

Seniors will meet Friday to discuss the class project and tabulate how much money was made in the "short tag" sale.

Egypt's Reprisal Plans Take Shape

By United Press International

Egypt is considering retaliation against an attempted Israeli commando raid across the Suez Canal, Western diplomats said today. A Syrian delegation in Peking got Communist China's support. Iraq said it was preparing to hang 10 convicted of spying for Israel.

Israeli planes raided the Tabkat Fahl area of Jordan Wednesday and a Jordanian military spokesman said their rockets kiled six civilians and destroyed a house.

Western diplomats said the Egyptian government was considering possible retaliation against an attempt by Israelis in three rubber boats to cross the Suez Canal Wednesday. But the diplomats said Egypt was expected to act cautiously.

Egypt said the Egyptian troops sank one Iisraeli boat and hit a second to break up the attempted crossing.

Peking Radio said a Chinese army general had told a visiting Syrian delegation the Arab nations had China's "resolute support" in the struggle against Israel.

Canadian Names Valedictorian, Salutatorian

CANADIAN — Kevin Koch has been named valedictorian of the senior class. Reanne Conyers will be salutatorian.

Running neck-to-neck for the highest grades all during high school Kevin with four-year average of 94.573 won out over Reanne whose four-year average was 94.107.

Kevin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhart Cook and Raeanne is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Bonnie Conyers.

Graduation exercises will be May 23.

Canadian Man Missing in Action

CANADIAN — Sgt. Charles C. Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Newton of Canadian, has been reported by the Special Forces as "missing in action."

He was on his third tour of duty with the Green Berets in Viet Nam. Sgt. Newton had been wounded three times previously in Viet Nam action.

Charles graduated from Canadian high school in 1959. He enlisted with the U.S. army on December 16, 1959. He joined the Basic Airborne school with the 82nd Airborne Division in June 1960. He remained with that unit until March 1962. Then served in the 1st Airborne Battle Group 504 Infantry and Co. B. 2nd Batallion, 509 Airborne Infantry in Germany, returning to the States in 1964.

He volunteered for Fifth Special Forces Group in Viet Nam in November 1966. He attended the 5th Reconnaissance School in Nha Trang and was assigned to Detachment B—56 5th Special Forces Group, Long Range Reconnaissance Platoon. He was again wounded in action on January 9, 1968 and was returned to the United States.

Staff Sergeant Newton is holder of the Service Medal, Good Conduct Medal, Air Medal with V Purple Heart, Combat Infantry Men's Badge, Senior Parachute Badge, the Bronze Star medal for Meritorious Service and the Bronze Star medal V.

Pampan Wrecks Auto, Tavern

A Pampa tavern suddenly became a drive-in tavern Wednesday evening.

According to arresting officer Roy Denmon a pickup driven by Joseph M. Kennemer, 68, of 910 Alcock, smashed through Curley's Bar, 2218 Alcock, about 5:38 p.m. Wednesday.

According to Denmon's report the pickup driven by Kennemer knocked down two road signs on Rider St., struck a vehicle, driven by Willie Sims, Jr., 40, of 1057 Varnon Dr., on Alcock then came across the road and slammed into the bar.

The bar sustanined $500 worth of damage, an employee in the bar received a broken arm and Kennemer was charged with driving while intoxicated. His bond was set at $1,000 by Justice of Peace Nat Lunsford.

Sims was taken to Highland General Hospital but was not seriously injured.

Officers Search For Jail Escapees

Officers in the Panhandle area were on the lookout today for two boys who broke out of the Lispcomb County jail about 4 a.m. today.

Officers were looking for Bobby Dalton Laird, 17, and Jerry L. Armitage, 18. Laird was described as a white male, five feet, two inches tall and weighing 110 pounds. He has blonde hair and hazle eyes.

Armitage was described as five feet, six inches tall and weighing about 153 pounds. He too has blonde hair and hazle eyes.

The two boys were last seen in Higgins where a motorist reported he let them out of his car. They were walking west on Highway 60.

How they broke out of the jail is not known.

They had been in jail for kidnapping and car theft.

Rocky's Tour Triggers Riots In Latin America

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's Latin American tour triggered student demonstrations that led to shooting and death in Tegucigalpa Wednesday.

Police charged into an unruly crowd protesting the governor's visit and during the skirmish one youth was shot and killed. Police said an officer's gun had been dropped and accidentally discharged.

The incident occurred outside the presidential palace where Rockefeller was conferring with Honduran President Osvaldo Lopez Arellano over lunch.

After the meeting, Rockefeller strode out into the crowds waiting to see him, shook hands and kissed women spectators.

Friends Watch Young Girl Leap 15 Floors to Death

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Deborah Weinstein, 15, told her two young girlfriends to go into the bedroom. She had a "surprise" for them.

They did. Miss Weinstein then leaped to her death from the 15th floor of the apartment building.

Miss Weinstein, a patient at a psychiatric hospital, went to dinner with Theresa Reynolds, 17, of Joplin, Mo. They were invited by Shari Cohen, 19, who lives in the apartment in the Ambassador Town House.

Police said Miss Weinstein, of Margate, N.J., was a patient at the Institute of the Pennsylvania Hospital. Miss Reynolds also is a patient and Miss Cohen a former patient.

PHS Officials To Attend Confab At West Texas

Three Pampa school officials will participate in a conference on "Early Childhood Education" sponsored at West Texas State University Saturday by WTSU and PESO Education Service Center.

The conference is intended for all school administrators, elementary school teachers, kindergarten teachers, church school workers and parents of young children. Consultant will be Dr. James L. Hymes, of University of Maryland, and author of several books on child development.

Interest group consultants from Pampa will be Mrs. Marjorie Gaut, education coordinator; Bob Parks, Wilson Elementary School principal; and Miss Joy Schultz, kindergarten teacher at Wilson School.

Interest group topics will be the administrator's role, program development, identifying abilities and disabilities; involving school personnel, and parents, developing a good physical environment, teacher of the five-year-old, and discription of pilot programs in the Panhandle area.

Pampa and Dumas are participating in a pilot kindergarten program this school year, the first taught in public schools in the two cities. Pampa's kindergartea is taught at Wilson school to four five-year-olds from each school area in the city.

Dr. Kenneth M. Laycock, dean of the WTSU school of teacher education will preside for the educational conference.

Food Buying Guide

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that food shoppers will find good displays of meat and poultry and adequate supplies of some fresh fruits and vegetables in food stores and supermarkets this third weekend in May.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys continue to be the most abundant and available meats. Beef roasts and steaks are also considered abundant in most areas. Good selections of beef liver may also appear in some areas.

Bacon, ham, and smoked picnics should be conspicuously available in most areas along with Boston butts, roasts, and chops in some areas.

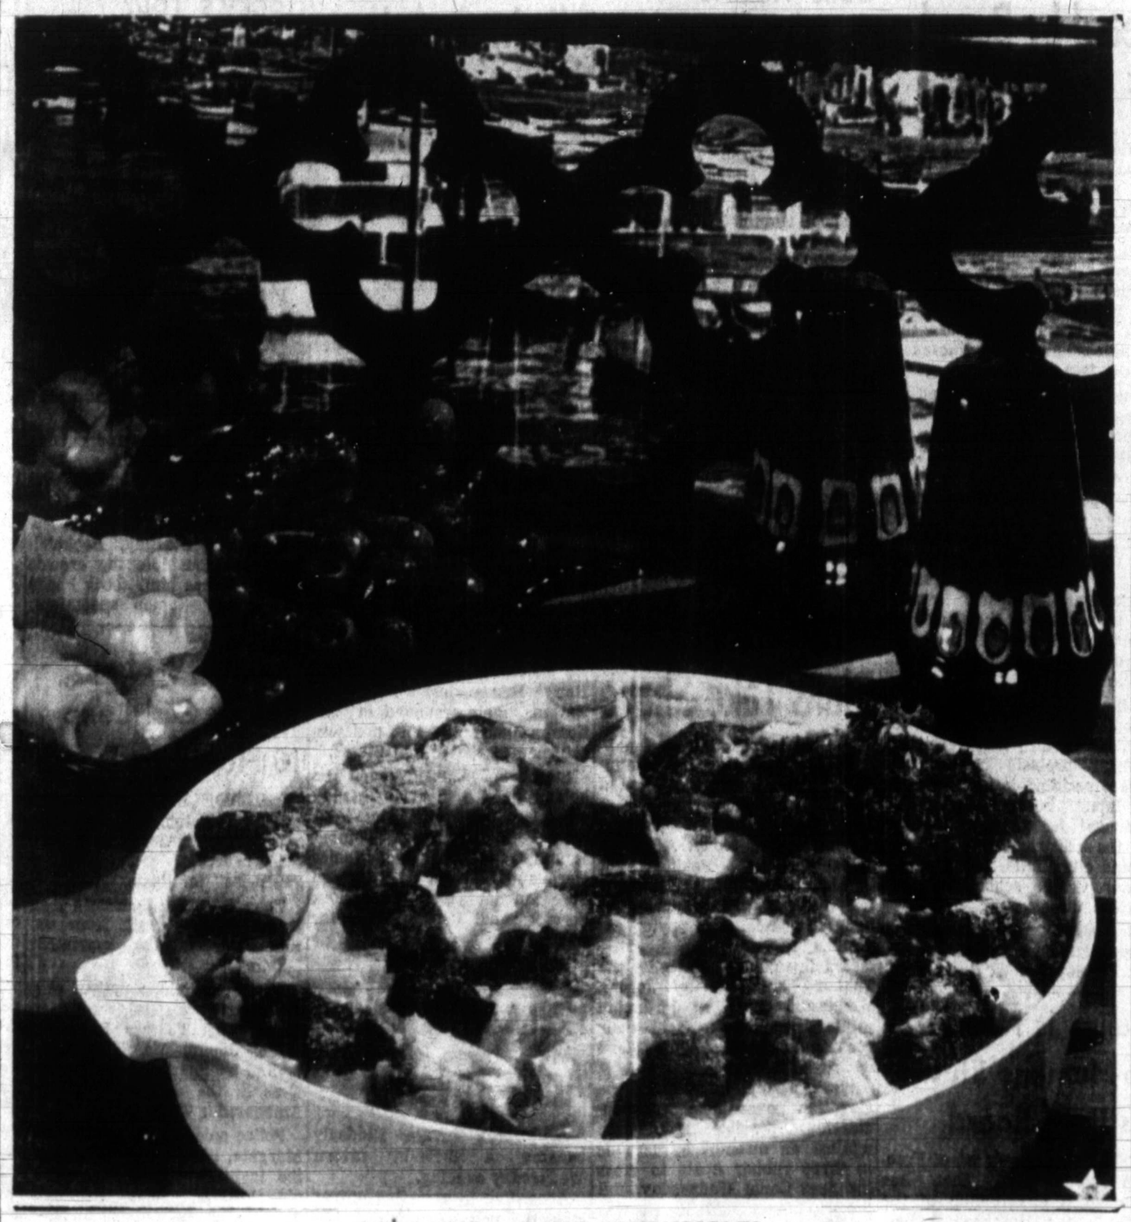

Maine sardines, canned pink salmon, and fish sticks and portions are the fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Fresh vegetables in good supply are cabbage, onions, and potatoes. Grapefruit, bananas, and oranges are the fruits in best supply in most areas along with strawberries in some areas.

USDA's plentiful foods list for May, in addition to turkeys, onions and Maine Sardines, features canned and frozen green beans, canned and frozen corn, canned beets, and canned tomatoes and tomato products.

Venetian Cookery Needs No 'Frills' To Make Tasty, Wholesome Dinner

Venetian cookery is straightforward. One might say it's "homey," for this is an agricultural region which abounds in good foods that can be plain but tasty.

This valley of the Po abounds in beef, dairy products and green vegetables. Lush Alpine pastures are said to give these foods exceptionally good flavor. Thus a dish like Venetian Beef needs no frills to make it acceptable. It's delicious to taste because wholesome and flavor-packed foods go in it.

There's a surprise in Venetian Beef, too. Although a less-tender steak is used, the cooking time is short. Blade steaks from the chuck are cut into thin strips and marinated in Italian-style dressing so they will cook quickly to tenderness. Baking time on the casserole is 15 minutes.

The preparation can be done in a leisurely manner. Beef strips marinate overnight, in the refrigerator, of course. To save last minute flurries, cook the noodles, drain and combine with other ingredients before browning the beef.

Do make plentiful use of vegetables as this is the season when families are apt to want the lighter foods. Green beans with mushrooms make a satis-

Peach Melba Is Perennial Choice

By GAYNOR MADDOX

The famous chef Escoffier created Peach Melba in honor of Madame Nelly Melba, the noted Australian singer, in London in 1892. It never occurred to him that this dish would still be an American favorite in 1968. But it is, and offers an excellent way to embellish our everyday dessert of ice cream.

Serve Butterfly Shrimp With Hawaiian Sauce

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We dined recently in Honolulu, high over the city, on the lanai of Japanese friends. Among the many interesting dishes, we enjoyed most the butterfly shrimp served with a sauce of apricots and native Hawaiian rum. It was prepared with much love, our smiling hostess assured us.

On a warm leisurely evening when you want to entertain a few loving friends, this is the dish to prepare for them. The wonderful sauce can be made in advance and refrigerated.

BUTTERFLY SHRIMP
ALOHA NUI LOAH
(Butterfly shrimp prepared with much love)

2 pounds large shrimp
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
2 tablespoons water
1 egg, well-beaten
1 teaspoon salt

BUTTERFLY SHRIMP with sauce of much love.

Combine all the ingredients, except the shrimp, into a batter. Split cleaned raw shrimp, with shells and veins removed, down their backs to within half an inch of their tails. Dip shrimp in the batter and drop into deep, hot fat. Cook until brown. Drain on paper towels, and serve at once with Apricot Sauce Honi. About 12 servings.

APRICOT SAUCE HONI

¼ pound dried apricots
1 cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
1 cup Hawaiian rum (or water)
1-3 cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons honey
1 teaspoon paprika

Cook the dried apricots in covered saucepan until soft, about 30 minutes— until most of the water is absorbed. Pulverize the cooked apricots in an electric blender or food mill, add rest of ingredients and beat until smooth. This sauce will keep for months if properly refrigerated. About 1 pint.

● Peach

and place on ray or in a pan. Return to freezer until serving time. Drain canned peach halves. If using fresh peaches, peel, halve and dip in lemon juice to prevent darkening. At serving time, place ice cream balls in large bowl, add peach halves. Cut strawberries in half and scatter on top. For individual serving, place a peach half, an ice cream ball and strawberry in each dessert dish. Add a spoonful of whipped cream and pour on Melba sauce. Makes 8 servings.

MELBA SAUCE

2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon water
½ cup light corn syrup
½ cup currant jelly
1 cup fresh strawberries

Mix cornstarch, water, light corn syrup, currant jelly and strawberries in small saucepan. Stirring constantly, bring to a boil over medium heat and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Strain. Chill. Makes about 1½ cups.

fying duo while relishes fill the desire for crisp foods.

With such a hearty main course, dessert can be simple. Poached or canned pears, chilled, are enough with sweet, nut cookies for nibbling.

VENETIAN BEEF

2 pounds boneless beef chuck steak, cut ½ to ¾ inch thick
Two-third cup Italian-style salad dressing
1 package (8 ounces) noodles, cooked and drained
1 can (10 ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
½ cup grated Mozzarella cheese
½ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup chopped pimento
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dehydrated minced onion
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder, if desired
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Cut beef in strips (3" x ½" x ¼"). Marinate overnight in salad dressing. Drain. Brown beef strips in 1 tablespoon marinade. Combine cooked noodles, cream of celery soup, Mozzarella cheese, sour cream, pimiento, salt, onion and garlic powder. Fold in meat. Pour into greased 2-quart baking dish. Sprinkle top with Parmesan cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 15 minutes. 8 servings.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — There seems to be wide agreement, WRSM Financial Service observes, that the market's advance of the past two weeks "was essentially a case of spontaneous combustion". Price movements that unfold without benefit of clearcut motivation are described as "purely technical," the firm says. The investor, faced with a purely technical movement, is apt to spin "rationalizations designed to surround the market's performance with an aura of logic that he can live with".

Measures of market breadth suggest that the slump from late 1968 was in fact a minibear market, a genuine though brief turndown of the primary trend, according to Spear and Staff Inc. So far, however, much of the buying in the current market has come from reinvestment of money that was previously in stocks, while "the FED, with its tight money stance," is drying up the money supply at large. Thus, the rally may be running on borrowed time, the firm points out.

Alexander Hamilton Institute looks for a moderate decline in stock prices "as a normal result of profit taking following a strong rally". This will provide "a good opportunity for investors interested in the longer term to establish positions...in well situated groups," the firm adds.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

The Finns, with a 793-mile border with the Soviet Union but oriented toward the West, have become the world's most expert neutrals.

Therefore, it came as something of a surprise when early this month the Finns suddenly proposed that theid capital of Helsinki play host to a European security conference including the United States and Canada.

The Finns proposed an ambitious program, including first a preparatory meeting to set up an agenda and then the conference itself.

They further proposed that in the preparatory stage there should be a number of bi-lateral meetings. Among these Finland suggested talks between East and West Germany and between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Finns denied a suggestion that they were carrying water for the Russians.

"It was," said a Foreign Office official, "Finland's own initiative, her own decision to make this move."

Nonetheless it was a proposal certain to please the Russians.

Religious Art To Be Displayed In Flame Room

Pampa Fine Arts Association will present a preview of a religious art display May 22 in the Pioneer Natural Gas Company Flame Room after the association's membership dinner and officer election at the Coronado Inn. The art display will be exhibited May 22-26.

"Speaker for the membership dinner will be William Angus Moore, West Texas State University speech and drama teacher, who produces "Texas" at the Palo Duro Canyon," Ted Gikas, association president, said.

Sketches of Byron Wolfe, who did the program sketches for "Texas" will be on display. Feature artist slated to attend is Mrs. Sybil Pierson Dickey, a water color artist and daughter of Mrs. Luther Pierson, Pampa. Mrs. Dickey has recently returned from Europe, Gikas said.

"Moore will discuss Pampa and its early Little Theater period and other aspects of theatrical production. He has also produced performances of "Oklahoma," at WTSU. To attend the dinner, it isn't necessary to be a member of the association, but to vote in the officer election you have to be a member," he said.

The Squeeze Tightened on Fortas

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration gave its blessing yesterday to a move to start impeachment proceedings against Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., immediately proposed formally that the House Judiciary Committee initiate an inquiry into what he called "failure of good behavior," on Fortas' part.

Word of the administration's position came in a statement issued by the Justice Department after Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell talked by telephone with MacGregor. Mitchell pledged the administration's cooperation with Congress in any proceedings against Fortas.

MacGregor hand-delivered his written request for a preliminary inquiry to Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. He asked for a meeting of the full committee next Tuesday and asked that Fortas and Mitchell be invited to appear.

MacGregor, a member of the committee, has contended that it would not be necessary to prove Fortas guilty of "high crimes and misdeameanors" for the House to impeach him and the Senate to try him.

He argued that the justice could be tried for breach of the constitutional provision that he holds office during "good behavior."

A Justice Department spokesman said Mitchell told MacGregor that the attorney general "could have no objection to actions which are legally within the prerogatives of the House."

"As yet, the department has received no formal communication from the house on the matter," the spokesman said.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called on Mitchell to disclose what if any information he has about Fortas' activities.

Kennedy told reporters that by meeting privately with Chief Justice Earl Warren last week and then later disclosing the meeting, Mitchell indicated that he possessed "information of significant importance."

"I feel strongly," Kennedy declared, "that the attorney general should be making that information available to the members of Congress and the American people."

At the same time, Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia became the fourth Democratic senator to urge Fortas to give up his seat on the court.

Byrd, who ranks third in the Senate democratic hierarchy, was asked by a reporter if he felt Fortas should step down.

"Yes, I do," he said without elaboration.

The other Democrats who have advocated Fortas' resignation are Sens. Joseph D. Tydings, Md., Walter F. Mondale, Minn. and James B. Allen, Ala. Tydings and Mondale both had been supporters of Fortas' nomination last year to succeed Warren as chief justice.

MacGregor announced to the House his inquiry request a few minutes after submitting it to the Judiciary Committee. He said, "it is well known that some members of the House are contemplating impeachment proceedings against Justice Fortas" and are preparing papers to that end.

MacGregor said "that may be the right course" but that the only way to determine that was to conduct a preliminary inquiry into the accusations. He said the Judiciary Committee was the appropriate forum.

Celler, after reading the MacGregor letter, promised to discuss it with him "later that day."

Earlier, Kennedy had asked the Senate Judiciary Committee to make itself available as a forum where Fortas could answer questions arising from the disclosure that the Wolfson family foundation gave him a fee, which he later returned.

Mrs. Campbell Hosts Varietas Club Meeting

Mrs. W. L. Campbell waswere also from the Campbell hostess to the Spring luncheon of the Varietas Study Club Tuesday noon, with Mrs. Clyde Ellis and Mrs. DeWitt Seago as co-hostesses.

The serving table was covered with a linen cloth decorated in cut work and centered with a basket arrangement of Spring flowers. Quartet tables were decorated with arrangements of orchids from the orchid garden of Dr. and Mrs. Campbell. Orchid corsages worn by the president and president-elect garden.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. F. A. Cary, club president, called the business meeting to order and presented Mrs. H. Price Dosier Sr., who gave a report on her recent trip to the district convention in Dalhart. She announced Varietas Study Club won five first-place awards and three second-place awards for their 1968-69 programs as reported at the convention.

Mrs. Cary installed the club officers for 1969-70, Mrs. H. Price Dosier Sr., president; Mrs. Luther Pierson, vice-president; Mrs. Cecil Dalton, secretary; Mrs. Clyde Ellis, treasurer; Mrs. DeWitt Seago, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Otis Nace, reporter.

Mrs. Cary concluded the installation with the presentation of the club gavel to Mrs. Dosier.

Those attending the luncheon were Mmes. F. A. Carey, W. L. Campbell, Cecil Dalton, Mrs. Dosier Sr., Clyde Ellis, S. C. Evans, Lee Harrah, J. E. Kirchman, Luther Kirk, R. W. Lane, Otis Nace, L. B. Penick, Luther Pierson, DeWitt Seago, J. R. Spearman, W. A. Wagoner, and Sherman White.

Touch of Romance

Long, flowing-in-the-wind chiffon scarves add a touch of romance to a daytime or evening outfit.

Wash Floor Daily

Because modern floor waxes withstand washing without losing their shine, it is a good idea to dip a sponge mop into a pail of soap and wipe the kitchen floor daily. This way insures that sand and mud will not be tracked into the rest of the house.

Rho Eta Chapter Sponsors Patio Party

Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi had a Patio Party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Lee.

A Mexican supper was served to members and their husbands. Each member brought their special Mexican dish.

The evening was spent in playing games and visiting.

Those present were Messrs. and Mmes. Charles Snider, Benny Stout, Charles Thompson, Ronald Beard, Tommy Hill, Warren Chisum, Woodrow Cradshaw, Richard Serrurier, Robert Benyshek, Jim Cunningham, and Sonny Golden.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: An article appeared in the local newspaper stating that girls between the ages of 16 and 24, who have never been married, were eligible to participate in a contest!

I applied, was accepted, and after several rehearsals was turned away because I had a year-old son.

I am working my way through college. I am a cheer leader, college news reporter, softball pitcher, volley ball captain, band student, basketball player, on debate team, take ballet lessons, and have a superior rating in singing.

I work after school, keep my own apartment, and take care of my child.

What more can I do to correct my mistake of having a baby out of wedlock? What must I do to gain a place in society? I do not have a bad reputation. Only a baby.

MARION W.,
LAWTON, OKLA.

DEAR MARION: You may not have won this "contest," but if your impressive list of activities is an index to your determination and ability, you look like a sure winner in the more important contests of life.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who was bitter because her ex-husband was marrying a "Vietnamese prostitute" and bringing her back to the states prompts this letter.

The expression "war is hell" is an understatement at best. I wonder how many American women would choose starvation over prostitution.

In observing many foreign wives who have come home with our GI's, the majority of them have become excellent wives and mothers. Their greatest problem is adjusting to the bigotry so predominate in American society.

It's not important what a person has been. It's what a person is—and is becoming that's important.

God's forgiveness is just as sure for the prostitute as it is for the man or woman who had indulged in premarital sex. Your compassion for the "Vietnamese prostitute" was noted and appreciated by this—

KOREAN VETERAN

DEAR ABBY: Recently a woman wrote that her ex-husband was bringing back to the states a "Vietnamese prostitute." Abby, I think she was mistaken.

Before an American service man can marry a "native girl" overseas there is a mountain of paper work which must be completed. This includes a thorough investigation of the girl. She must have a health check, police check, and vice check. And unless she passes these 100 per cent, she'll not be issued a visa.

I doubt whether many American girls would survive such close scrutiny. I have been in the service for 24 years, so sign me . . .

"OLD TIMER"

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday, in a space reserved for a paid "ad" the following item appeared in our local newspaper: "Mr. and Mrs. ——wish to publicly apologize for their belated thank you to all their friends and relatives for the very fine gifts they received for their wedding of February, 1968."

Would you please give me your interpretation of this item? Thank you.

CURIOUS IN N. Y.

DEAR CURIOUS: It is plainly a public "thank you" for unacknowledged wedding gifts. Nearly a year and a half late.! It could have been placed there by the newlyweds themselves, or even by embarrassed parents. While it is certainly an unconventional thanks, it beats no thanks at all.

Methodist Class Installs Officers

The Friendship Class of United First Methodist Church had their annual salad luncheon and installation of officers at noon in Fellowship Hall May 10.

Groups three and four were hostesses for 49 members and guests present. Tables were decorated with Spring flowers.

Dr. DeWitt Seago gave the invocation. Officers installed by Mrs. W. R. Campbell were Mrs. Chet Henry, president; Mrs. W. H. Burden, vice-president; Mrs. H. B. House, second vice-president; Mrs. J. A. Knox, secretary; Mrs. Mary L. Jones, assistant secretary and Mrs. N. C. Jordan, reporter.

Teacher of this class is Mrs. Kermit Lawson. John Reynolds provided piano selections during the luncheon.

Mrs. Greene Inducts Area Officers

WHITE DEER (Spl)— Mrs. Clem Greene installed new officers of the Venado Blanco Study Club recently in the home of Mrs. Joe Wheeley.

She used a ceremony titled "Keys of Life," to induct into o[ffice] Mrs. H. H. Keahey, p[resident]; Mrs. Grady Milton, [vice] president; Mrs. R. T. L[aurie], secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Lee Lockridge, historian; Mrs. Chester Nunn, publicity chairman; and Mrs. Paul Hinton, parliamentarian.

Softness in Hair Styles

Hair styles have gone from very straight to very curly and have now found their happy medium in the attractive "soft" hair styles of spring—soft page boys and waves are way "ahead" this season.

Here, a carefree out-door look with great mix-and-match possibilities. The bold paisley print overblouse in swirls of Bitter Lemon and Blue teams up with a two piece culotte suit and open crochet knee socks . . . all in Bitter Lemon with a knit fabric blouse. Soft, silky and lustrous, these knits have the feel and color of pure silk matte jersey plus the easy care qualities of nylon.

Leisurely Beauty

Advice for a rainy, lazy weekend, or any time you have nothing "special" to do. Convert your time into beauty hours—give yourself a facial, a manicure, take a luxurious bubble bath — in short, pamper yourself. The time will pass more quickly and you'll be rewarded for your rainy day efforts.

Lasts Longer

To keep eye shadow on longer, use a light-colored make-up base or stick underneath your eye shadow.

Pueblo Affair Prompts Officer To Quit Navy

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Lt. Edward Murphy Jr., executive officer of the Pueblo, said Wednesday he had submitted his resignation from the Navy because of "baseless allegations" about his conduct aboard the ship.

Murphy said he mailed a letter to the secretary of the Navy Tuesday night in which he said, "I leave the Navy with regret because I know I am still fit to make a valuable contribution to the service."

"I bear no grudges or bitterness."

Murphy said in his letter, "I am especially proud of the way the United States government acted in the Pueblo affair, quietly negotiating to secure the release of our crew without kow-towing to the demands of the North Koreans."

Murphy added, "But I admit to being confused about the Navy's action in regard to my career.

"I do not want to harbor a suspicion that this decision had any political overtones, and I hope the Navy will see fit to reassure me along these lines."

Murphy said he is "self-satisfied with my performance" aboard the Pueblo.

Malaysia Declares A State of Siege

By MAX VANZI

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—More han 3,000 police and troops with submachine guns enforced a curfew ordered to halt rioting between Malays and Chinese that killed more than 30 persons and left entire block aflame.

Prime Minister Tengku Abdul Rahman went on television with tears in his eyes to declare a state of siege and to appeal for order. He blamed opponents of his ruling Alliance party for whipping up emotions between the native Malays and the migrant Chinese.

The Chinese wing of Rahman's party said it was withdrawing its members as nominees for appointment in the government Rahman is forming as result of Saturday's election victory.

Rahman, a Malay, has tried to team Malays, Chinese and Indians in his cabinet in an attempt for harmony. Still strife has erupted. Malays contend Chinese have all the wealth. The Chinese claim Malays have all the political power and are lazy.

Gangs of Malays and Chinese battled with clubs, stones and steel bars Tuesday night and set fire to entire blocks of homes.

Kuala Lumpur's streets, normally Asia's cleanest, were littered with scores of overturned cars and trucks, street signs, broken bottles, clubs and steel bars. Smoke curled hundreds of feet into the sky from burning buildings.

UPI correspondent Hari Subramanian said firemen were working to put out fires all over this city of 600,000 persons. One block of 12 homes was entirely burned out.

The battling groups fought from behind overturned auto barricades in many instances, Subramanian said. He said a mob of 200 persons beat to death a woman in one Kuala Lumpur suburb and two miles away, another crowd attacked and killed a mother and her child.

Rahman's party barely got enough votes to stay in office last week. It was the biggest setback for him since Malaysia's independence from Britain in 1957.

Curfews were in force with a shoot-to-kill order for violaters in Kuala Lumpur and throughout Selangor State, Penang State 200 miles to the north and in half of neighboring Perak State.

Lady Strips For Board Members

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The young lady in the straw hat stood up in front of a stockholders meeting, unbuttoned her yellow blouse, and tossed it at a startled board chairman.

Evelyn Y. Davis of New York had a shift on underneath. She pulled her pseudo- strip at the annual meeting of the Communications Satellite Corp. to dramatize the removal of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) from Comsat's board of directors.

"I stripped this off just like we stripped ITT from the Comsat board," Miss Davis said.

Amarillo Minerals Agrees On Purchase of Company

CHICAGO — Amarillo Minerals, Inc., a subsidiary of Pioneer Natural Gas Company, and Continental Oil Company have agreed to purchase the interests of Homestake—Gulf Coast Partners in two uranium ore bodies and a block of approximately 16,000 undeveloped acres in the Texas Coastal Plain area, according to a statement today by A.F. Cox, executive vice president of Pioneer and president of Amarillo Minerals, speaking before the Public Utility Securities Club of Chicago. No purchase price was disclosed in the transaction.

Cox also announced to the analysts that Amarillo Minerals has entered into an agreement with partners to do some exploratory uranium drilling on a large block of leases in southeastern Colorado and northeastern New Mexico.

Four executives of Pioneer made an appearance before the Public Utility Securities Club of Chicago. In addition to Cox, the company was represented by C.I. Wall, chairman of board, B.P. Smith, president, and E.S. Morris, president of Amarillo Oil Company.

In his remarks to the group, Wall announced that Pioneer is scheduled to start trading on the New York Stock Exchange on May 20. Wall also pointed out that the New York Stock Exchange has assigned PNA as Pioneer's symbol for trading on the "Big Board."

Total County Social Security Recipients on the Increase

Approximately $308,000 in monthly social security benefits was being paid to residents of Gray county at the end of December, 1968, according to Howard L. Weatherly, officer-in-charge of the Pampa social security office in the Hughes Bldg.

"Throughout the country, monthly benefits payable at the end of 1968 amounted to nearly $2.1 billion," Weatherly said. "Approximately three-quarters of the increased monthly amount resulted from higher benefit rates authorized by the 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act. The remainder of the increase was due to the greater number of beneficiaries."

Although retired workers comprise the largest group of beneficiaries, almost one-fourth of all people receiving benefits are under age 60. Almost four million children and a half million young widowed mothers receive monthly benefits.

In Gray county, 696 people under age 60 are receiving benefirs. 2.862 persons 60 or over receive monthly social security payments.

Many students are continuing their education with help provided for in the 1965 amendments to the law, which extended survivors and dependents benefits to students until their 22nd birthdays. In 1968, 470,000 students received benefits under this provision.

Monthly payments to the family of a worker who dies leaving a widow and two or three children range from $82.50 to $434.40 a month, depending on the worker's earnings under social security. Payments to the young family of a worker who dies at an early age could total as much as $85,000 to $100,000.

Weatherly also pointed out that at the end of 1968, approximately 90 percent of Americans 65 or older were either receiving cash benefits or would have been eligible for benefits if they or their spouse had not been working with high enough earnings to cause suspension of payments for all or part of the year.

Medicare provides hospital insurance benefits for almost all people in the country 65 or older. Ninety-five percent of all older persons have elected coverage under the voluntary supplementary medical insurance plan which helps pay physicians' fees.

Astronauts Get Preview of Moon

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The Apollo 10 astronauts got a preview of the "fantastic" panorama of jagged mountains and gapping craters they expect to see on their record 32-orbit trip around the world.

Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan, aiming toward a Sunday blastoff, spent much of the day reviewing lunar topography with astronaut-geologist Harrison H. Schmitt.

Of prime interest to Stafford and Cernan was a three-by-five-mile oval site on the Sea of Tranquility, where Apollo 11 is scheduled to land if the Apollo 10 mission is successful. The two Apollo 10 pilots will fly a lunar lander within 50,000 feet of it.

To moon walkers, the landing site is expected to resemble sandy beach dunes with what might look like a layer of crushed and pulverized coal spread over it. To Stafford and Cernan, as they hover over the site, it will look gray with smooth-rimmed craters ranging in size from a football stadium down to as small as they will be able to see.

The Apollo 10 team, meanwhile, got a 12-hour rest in the countdown before resuming at mid-afternoon with most work concentrated on removing test equipment from the spaceship and installing flight gear.

"Everything is proceeding on schedule," a space agency spokesman reported.

ADDS $480 MILLION

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate has completed congressional approval of a bill to add $480 million to the International Development Association. "If we choose between this operation and direct foreign aid, it seems to me this is more efficient," said Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in arguing for the bill. Ida, administered by the World Bank, grants 50-year loans to underdeveloped nations.

Mamie Recounts Ike's Loyalty

NEW YORK (UPI) — Enroute to Europe for a vacation, Mamie Eisenhower reminisced recently about Dwight D. Eisenhower.

At a news conference aboard the liner United States Mrs. Eisenhower reported that she will probably return to the Eisenhower farm in Gettysburg, Pa. to reside when her trip is over.

The widow of the 34th President told reporters about an incident which she felt described her husband's loyalty to America.

"We were only married two weeks, I was 19 and thought I was quite something. One day my husband sat down and told me, 'My country comes first, you come second.'

McLendon Takes Over as New Rocket's Boss

DENVER (UPI)—John B. McLendon Jr., 52, author of "fast Break Basketball," created no shock waves Wednesday when he took over the Denver Rockets and announced they would be a fast moving squad during the next two years.

Mc Lendon, new head coach of the American Basketball Association club said he added "wrinkle" would be the four-second offense.

"You'll get to know it," Mc Lendon said. "It means that every player must clear the backcourt in four seconds."

McLeondon, head coach at Cleveland State University for the past three years, was named to succeed Bob Bass who stepped down to re-enter the college ranks.

National League Roundup

Mets' Cleon Still a Ball Banger

By United Press International

Cleon Jones of the New York Mets lost the National League batting lead to Rich Hebner of the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night but won new recognition as one of baseball's unsung winning-type players.

A .297-hitter last season, Cleon went into Wednesday night's game with a league-leading .397 average which topped Hebner's average by five points. Jones finished the game with a .392 mark and Hebner with a .398 figure but it was Cleon who was the happier player.

The reason was up on the scoreboards in New York and Pittsburgh. The Mets beat the Atlanta Braves, 9-3, with the aid of Jones' first major league grand-slam homer while the Pirates lost to the San Francisco Giants, 3-0, despite two hits in four at bats by Hebner.

Jones' homer was the climactic blow of a club-record-tying eight-run eighth-inning rally by the Mets after they had been held hitless by Phil Niekro for six innings. The rally enabled Tom Seaver to raise his record to 5-2 with ninth-inning relief help from Ron Taylor.

Has No-Hitter

Niekro, now 6-2, had a no-hitter until Ken Boswell led off the seventh with a triple and scored on an infield out by Jones to cut the Braves' lead to 3-1. Then came the eight-run rally—with Tommie Agee doubling with the bases filled to tie the score and Jones delivering the big blast.

Hebner, a leading early candidate for National League rookie of the year honors, had a single and a double but Juan Marichal of the Giants had no trouble rolling to his fifth victory of the season. Marichal aided his own cause by driving in the Giants' first run with a single in the fifth inning. Jim Bunnng allowed two runs and five hits in eight innings but suffered his fourth los sagainst two victories.

The Chicago Cubs shaded the San Diego Padres, 3-2, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2, the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers, 2-1, and the Houston Astros topped the Montreal Expos, 3-1, in other National League Games.

The Cubs rallied in the ninth inning to beat the Padres when Ernie Banks tied the score with his fifth homer of e season, Nate Oliver doubled and pinch-hitter Willie Smith singled to complete the two-run burst. Don Nottebar, who shut out the Padres in the ninth, received credit for the victory while Johnny Podres suffered the loss.

Alex Johnson's tie-breaking homer in the third inning and Lee May's homer in the eighth were the big blows for the Reds as Jim Merritt won his third game with ninth-inning relief help from George Culver. Deron Johnson drove in both Philadelphia runs with a double in the first inning.

Joe Torre drove in one run with a single and Vada Pinson, back in the lineup for the first time since suffering a hairline fracture in his right leg on May 2, hit a sacrifice fly in the fourth inning to provide the Cardinals with their victory over the Dodgers. Nelson Briles won his second game of the season although he needed the shutout relief help of Joe Hoerner over the infal 22-Innings.

American League Roundup

Blair's Bat Puts Orioles First

By United Press International

The Baltimore Orioles continue to hold first place in the American League's Eastern Division and one of the big reasons could be Paul Blair's sudden emergence as a power hitter.

Last season, Blair, bothered by a leg injury, batted .211 with seven home runs and 38 runs batted in as the Orioles finished Detroit. Blair smashed his seventh and eighth homers of the season Wednesday night to lead the division-leading Orioles to a 9-8 victory over the Minnesota Twins, the Western Division front runners.

Blair also singled in two runs to give him five RBIs for the night and 20 for the season, just 18 less than his entire output of last season. His two home runs boosted him past his 1968 figure and he's batting a highly respectable .317 to rank sixth in the league.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston nipped Oakland, 2-1, California edged Washington, 1-0, Chicago blanked Detroit, 6-0, Cleveland downed Kansas City, 3-2, in 11 innings and New York stopped Seattle, 5-4.

Blair Homers

Blair homered of the left field foul pole with a man on to climax a five-run outburst in the second inning against rookie Dick Woodson and hit a solo homer in the fourth. Blair's two-run single in the fifth capped a three-run burst which helped Tom Phoebus record his fourth consecutive victory without defeat.

Tony Conigliaro singled in both runs as the Red Sox beat Oakland to remain a game behind Baltimore in the Eastern Division.

With the score tied at 1-1, Dalton Jones doubled in the eighth and loser Chuck Dobson intentionally walked Carl Yastrzemski walked, stole second and scored Boston's first run on Coniglaro's first-inning single. srikeouts, added 11 more Wednesday night in winning his sxith game against one loss.

Rookie Carlos May smashed hsi ninth homer of the season to back Gary Peters' six-hit pitching and led the White Sox over Detroit.

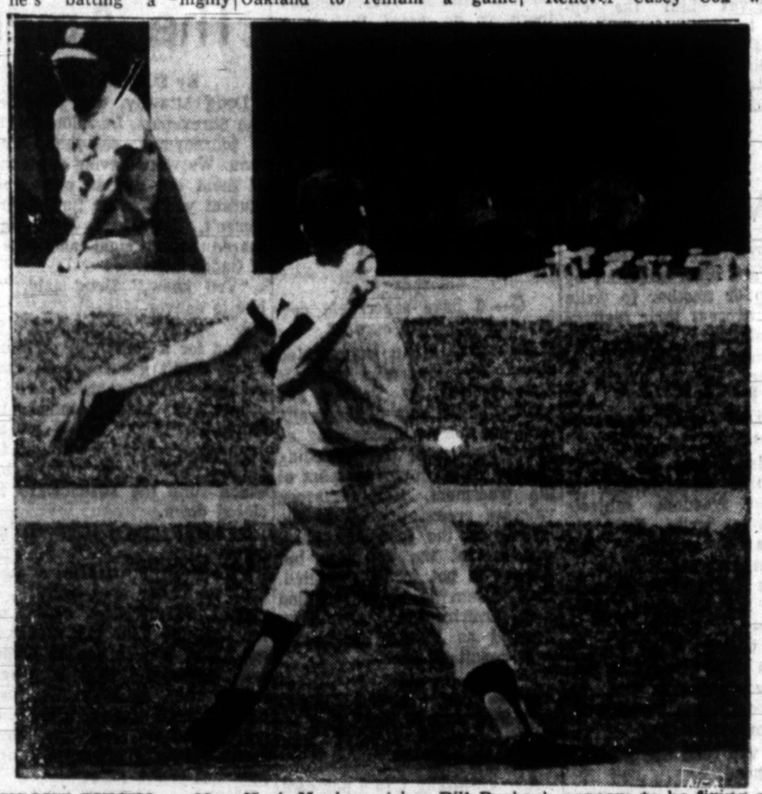

May homered with none out in the fourth off loser John Hiller for Chicago's first run and Duane Josephson doubled in two more in a four-run sixth inning.

Peters struck out three batters to reach the 1,000 mark in career strikeouts.

Morton Walks

Reliever Casey Cox walked Bubba Morton with the bases loaded in the sixth inning to force in the game's only run as the Angels beat Washington.

Washington starter Ji mHannan walked Jim Fregosi and Roger Repoz around Jay Johnstone's single to load the bases. Cox relieved and struck out Aurelio Rodriguez before walking Morton on a 3-1 pitch.

Horses Off, Running Saturday at LaMesa

"They're off and running"...This will be the signal, Saturday, for the beginning of La Mesa Park's Twenty-Fourth Annual Race Meet, set to offer 49 days of the nation's "King of Spectator Sports", $1000,000.00 in improvements to the "Friendly Western Track" this season include complete remodeling of its popular Turf Club, addition of 100 new seats with spectacular views of the finish line, a new and bigger wagering line and horseshoe-shaped bar; new 5,200 ft. lighted asphalt landing strip for private and charter planes at La Mesa airport; re-modeled and re-decorated General Offices; and deep-plowing, with the addition of large quantities of river silt, to the track surface for a top-notch running oval.

Highlights of the track's coming '69 meet, expected to top the million-dollar mark in total purse monies for the first time, are the $150,000.00 Oklahoma Quarter Horse Futurity July 6; the First Running of the $50,000.00 "Land of Enchantment" Derby July 20; Second Running of the $125,000.00 "Land of Enchantment" Futurity, the Southwest's richest thoroughbred race, July 27; and the $120,000.00 Raton Quarter Horse Futurity, August 3.

Horse racing, with twelve races daily at 1 p.m. MDT, begins this Saturday and Sunday, May 17 and 18, at La Mesa Park and continues with racing on Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays through September 7.

Whether you are a racing fan or not, a visit to the "Friendly Western Track" to sample the colorful ceremony and action-packed competition between horses "bred to run" and jockeys "the little iron men" who are among the nation's finest athletes, should be an enjoyable one.

Raton, 6,666 feet high, nestled at the foot of the Sangre de Cristo Mountains and historic Old Raton Pass, offers an excellent headquarters for short trips to explore the most scenic, historic areas in northeastern New Mexico. The town, founded in 1880, has a delightfully cool summer climate due to the rincon or horseshoe of mountains around it.

Raton has something for everybody in the recreational line-whether it be horse-racing, fishing, golfing, swimming,

Player Favored To Take First Colonial Open

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—This may be the year for Gary Player, who has won prestige tournaments all over the world, to add the so-far elusive Colonial National Invitation title to his collection.

The little South African makes his 10th try at t he $25,000 first money today when he tackles the demanding 7,100-yard par 35-35—70 Colonial Country Club layout in the first round.

Jark Niiklaus, who also has never been able to conquer Colonial, also is starting here fresh from a vacation. His only action in the past month was a 36-hole stint at New Orleans where he played so poorly he failed to make the cut.

Defending champion Billy Casper, also coming off a rest period while giving his allergy time to clear up, managed a 69 in practice, but wasn't too happy with it.

Pre-tournament talk varied among the 100 contestants on what effect the alteration of nine holes of the course will have on the scoring.

It could be embarrassing:

Taxes Are Inflationary Too

The purists' (neo-classical, free market, sound money economists') definition of inflation is: "An increase in the amount of money in circulation without a corresponding increase in production of goods and services." The result: With more money bidding for the same amount of goods and services, demand exceeds supply and prices, responding to the natural law of the market place, move upward.

We have no quarrel with the definition. It places the blame for rising prices — in so far as price increases are due to an increase in the money supply — squarely where it belongs; on the federal government which controls that money supply.

However, in a recent column F. A. Harper has called attention to the fact that taxes, although in themselves not adding to the supply of money in circulation, do, in fact, have the same effect upon the prices of goods and services as if they did. Their arguments, if one refers back to a basic economic fact, are unassailable.

That basic fact is simply this: The total costs of producing goods and services must, eventually, be borne by the individual consumers who purchase and use them. Therefore, anything that adds to the costs of, or interferes with, production in any manner has the effect of causing higher prices. Consequently, since taxes of all kinds, although not inflationary in the purist sense, do, in fact, both add to the cost of, and interfere with, the productive process, Columnist Harper is on firm ground when he points out that taxes ARE "inflationary" with respect to prices, not withstanding the fact that taxes, in themselves, are not inflationary of the money supply.

Dr. Harper, moreover, went on to show, that government, by penalizing and punishing incentive and good management, thereby inhibiting the maximum production of goods and services, causes prices to rise in a multitude of different ways.

And nowhere was this ability and willingness of government to increase the cost of living more evident — or more supportive of this newspaper's reiterated statement that unions, in reality, are today an arm of the government — than in the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which gave to union bosses the power to penalize workers who exceed union-decreed production quotas in factories and other productive enterprises belonging to others, and in which the unions have not one penny invested.

If this country has now come to the point where some individuals, striving to get ahead and better themselves, can be frustrated in their efforts by union labor bosses with the blessings of the highest court in the land, then, indeed, we are in a bad way.

War Evaders Aren't New

Every war this country has fought has seen its share of deserters, sitter-outers, evaders and those who could not in good conscience participate.

The Vietnam war is no different, although we sometimes get the impression that all these categories are more heavily represented than in any previous war.

Since the beginning of the massive U.S. troop build-up in Vietnam three years ago, more than 100,000 servicemen have been officially listed as deserters (absent without leave for more than 30 days).

Until last year however, the desertion rate per 1,000 servicemen was comparable to that during the Korean War and is still well below the rate during World War II.

More than 85 per cent of those carried on the rolls as deserters eventually turn themselves in voluntarily, says the Pentagon. Only 853 deserters have sought refuge abroad, and 40 per cent of these are aliens who have decided that U.S. citizenship is not worth the price of military service.

Another matter entirely is the thousands of young men who have signified their opposition to the war or the military by fleeing abroad before they could be drafted. An article in the National Observer puts the number at 50,000, chiefly in Canada and Sweden.

This figure is probably higher than in any previous conflict, though as a percentage of the population, it can't compare with the Revolutionary War when whole families of dissenters left the United States permanently for Canada or the British West Indies.

Draft evasion and resistance were also notorious during the Civil War. In July, 1863, draft riots in New York City killed an estimated 1,000 persons.

What is remarkable about the Vietnam war is not that so many young men are voting against it with their feet, but that, in a war that probably is the most unpopular in the nation's history, there have been relatively so few.

Not Government's Business

That doctor down in Houston thought he was doing the right thing when he put an artificial heart into a man to keep him alive.

If he had not, the doctor said, the man would have died quickly.

But the idea was only to keep the patient alive long enough to obtain a natural heart for transplant, as soon as one was made available.

When one was made available, the doctor thought he was doing the right thing to substitute it for the artificial heart, which could not continue to function for long.

The patient died. He developed rejection symptoms, complicated by kidney failure and pneumonia.

The dead man's widow thinks the doctor was right in both instances. "My husband was dead before and he would have been nothing if they didn't try." It was a dramatic story. Like many dramatic stories, it ended sadly.

But another story began, and it is more gruesome than dramatic.

It seems that the federal government has been making "grants" of funds to do research on artificial hearts. And, of course, it has all sorts of guidelines governing how the money is to be spent and to what purpose the results are put.

Were federal funds involved? Were federal guidelines violated by the Houston doctor?

It might be a good time for people to begin considering carrying a new sort of medical tag on their persons, just in case emergency should arise. The tag might read:

"The matter of a new heart for this body of MINE is of concern to only the voluntary donor, my doctor and myself. The government is hereby enjoined to mind its own business — if any."

A thought for the day: William Faulkner said, "I believe that man will not merely endure; he will prevail."

The earliest positively attested veidence of domesticate grain is that from Jarmo, Iraq, dated about 6750 B.C.

THE GLOBAL VIEW

Who Is Backing N. Korea Dictator in Baiting U.S.?

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (NEA) — The Nixon administration is searching for the reasons behind the "irrational acts" of North Korea's dictator Kim Il Sung. Is he preparing to launch a full-scale guerilla war against South Korea not unlike the one under way in Vietnam?

What U.S. foreign policy specialists are especially anxious to determine is whether Russia or Red China is backing Premier Kim. Did he seize the Pueblo and then destroy the U.S. reconnaissance plane with the knowledge of Moscow or was he encouraged by Peking to explore the reaction of the "American paper tiger"?

Pyongyang's trigger-happy strongman is a former Soviet citizen who came to power with the aid of Moscow. But there is no evidence that the Kremlin was aware he would attack the EC-121 so soon after the Pueblo incident.

The Russians, in fact, are reported to have warned Kim that another war on the Korean peninsula would be sheer "adventurism."

Nor is there reason to assume that Kim, never noted for his moderation, acted with the encouragement of China. Peking never trusted Kim, who killed scores of Mao Tsetung's partisans when he seized power in 1958.

Why, then, does he risk U.S. retaliation without the assurance that he will be backed by Russia or China?

According to East European diplomats, Kim, like most Communist dictators, needs a war psychosis to whip up nationalist sentiment and divert the attention of North Koreans from home economic difficulties.

Above all, he seeks to destroy the power of attraction of South Korea, whose relative freedom and economic prosperity is a constant threat to him.

"We must accomplish the South Korean revolution and unify the fatherland in our generation," Kim said recently in a speech to his parliament. "We must quickly make all conditions ripe for the realization of the unification of the Korean people."

Since in Kim's view the only obstacle in the South Korean revolution is the U.S. military presence, the basic task of North Korea is to discredit "American colonial domination."

A diplomat who served in Pyongyang said that next to South Korea what Kim fears most is the "liberal" trend that is currently disturbing the rulers of other Communist countries.

Even Russian movies are banned in Pyongyang. North Korean students are no longer sent for training to Moscow. Those who were subjected to Soviet "revisionism" are sent for reindoctrination to labor camps, mines and factories.

No one can say whether he was impressed with President Nixon's message that attacks on American vessels and planes carry the risk of retaliation. In the view of East European diplomats, Kim will continue to commit acts of aggression as long as they serve his plans.

"He seems to believe," one diplomat said, "that the apparent antiwar sentiment of a vocal segment of the American people gives him the opportunity to engage in military adventurism without the danger of immediate retaliation."

H. L. Hunt Writes

DON'T FORGET TO WRITE!

People are often exhorted by one group or another to write others to express their feelings on legislative issues and governmental policies. It is good advice. Clearly expressed letters in newspapers and magazines do influence lawmakers.

There is a way to extend greatly the effectiveness of letters on freedom subjects That is to write them to newspaper editors for publication and send copies of the letters and clippings of other published For Freedom letters to members of Congress. They will know that the letter already has had a wide circulation and that they probably will be hearing from other constituents on the same subject.

So they will read and perhaps they will heed.

Writers of letters to the editor or to congressmen should follow a few simple rules. Make your letter brief and to the point. Deal with only one subject. Take pains to insure that your writing, if you do not use a typewriter, is legible. Sign your name and address.

As for subjects to be discussed, the range is as wide as the writer's concern for the preservation of freedom. Specific legislative bills are a fit subject for attention. So are policies of the Executive Department as they affect the continuing struggle between totalitarianism and the personal enterprise system.

Some legislation and some policies necessarily have to be condemned, but letter writers should not confine themselves to calling attention to things that are wrong. When commendation is possible, it should be extended. A public official who is standing up for freedom is always encouraged to know that someone is watching and listening.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G BRANSTADT

There's Some Dandruff Always Present in Scalp

Q— I have an itchy head with lots of dandruff. What is the best treatment for it?

A — Although a low-fat, low-starch, low-sugar, high-protein diet is usually recommended, there is no proof that it is beneficial. You should wash your scalp two or three times a week with one of the dandruff-removing shampoos and remember that, since dandruff is the dead outer layer of skin, you will always have some of it as a proof that you are still alive and producing new skin. In other parts of your body this dead skin is rubbed off unnoticed.

Q— I have seborrheic dermatitis. What will cure it?

A — This is an exaggerated form of dandruff that is characterized by itching and scaling of the skin of the scalp, face and chest. Shampooing as recommended in the preceding answer is an important part of the treatment. Betamethasone valerate cream applied to the lesions on the face and chest will control the condition but a cure is not to be expected. This cream is a prescription item. Overtreatment should be avoided as it may aggravate your condition.

Q — What is the normal eosinophil count? What does an abnormal count signify? How can it be treated?

A — Normally 1 to 4 per cent of the white blood cells are eosinophils. The commonest causes of an increase in their count are allergic diseases, Pemphigus, dermatitis herpetiformis, trichinosis, schistosomiasis, hookworm, round worm, filariasis, some forms of the tapeworm, leukemial polycythemia, pernicious anemia, Hodgkin's disease, aresnic poisoning and periarteritis nodosa. There is no treatment for a high eosinophil count but when the underlying cause is corrected the count returns to normal.

Q — Does the body contain any copper?

A — Copper is found in minute amounts in all body tissues. For this reason it is believed to play a vital role but that role has not yet been discovered beyond the fact that the element is necessary for the formation of several of the enzymes manufactured in the body. There have been no reports of a copper deficiency in human beings.

Uncommon Boy in Oregon

By PAUL HARVEY

Young Kone Hancock was working at the furnace in the basement of his Pendleton, Ore., home, an aerosol can in his hand. From the heat the can exploded.

In an awful instant, through the blur of blood, the boy could see that he had remaining but half a hand.

Mother was working, Dad was on an errand, Kone was alone in the house except for a brother, very young Miles Hancock, age 8.

But Kone has been a boy scout. Among his merit badges is one for first aid. Suppressing the sick panic in his stomach, he applied the thumb of his left hand to the artery in his right wrist. He directed his younger brother to pick up the telephone and dial "O" for the operator, to ask her to send an ambulance. He did and she did.

Then Kone asked the boy once again to dial "O" for the operator and ask to find his mother at her place of employment; she did.

Kone's mother arrived ahead of the ambulance. At the sight of her injured son she grew faint, terrified, was helpless.

It was he who comforted her. It was Kone, with everything under control including himself, who calmly reassured his mother, said for her not to worry; everything would be done that should be done; he would be all right.

They rushed young Kone Hancock to the hospital. His own first aid had saved his life, immediate surgery on his right hand saved three fingers.

When that was over, Mrs. Hancock, distraught, distressed, desperate, was brought from the waiting room to see him. Again it was he who comforted her. As soon as he awakened and realized his mother was by his bedside in the recovery room, it was young Kone who reassured her. He said he was fine now. Tenderly he said that she must go home now and rest because he knew this was very hard on her.

When I first learned of Kone Hancock's near tragic accident, I recognized that his first reaction might have resulted more from shock than from courage.

But in the days since I have watched, through others' admiring eyes, the continuing gallantry of this inspring young man. On his parents' first postoperative visit to the hospital he was busy demonstrating improved skill; writing and eating and otherwise using his left hand.

A reservoir of fortitude, he has continued to quiet the anxiety of his parents with calm reassurance and cheerful optimism.

He went home from the hospital eagerly teaching his left hand the new strengths and skills and dexterity it would need now.

Within a week, his right hand still bandaged, he was bicycling Pendleton streets delivering papers on his route.

That is all there is to the story. I just thought it would be a shame if lesser "demonstrations" get more mention and attention.

If we focus the eyes of the news on the spineless and the gutless and the dopey and the dirty and the lazy.

And fail to note the likes of Kone Hancock who is brave and clean and reverent.

And 11.

The American Way

By D.R. SEGAL

Doug Attaway, who publishes the Shreveport, La., Journal, is a journeyman soft-shell crab man. We were having a mound of them one day in some restaurant you'd never find if you weren't, like Doug, born and reared within sight and smell of Caddo Lake.

"You know," Doug said, "I like to deliver kicks."

A "kick," incidentally, is jargon for a complaint that the paper didn't get delivered that evening. Usually there are a couple of kids detailed to delivering kicks; but a lot of complainers don't get around to calling until 8 or 9 o'clock, by which time the switchboard is closed down.

So they call the publisher at home.

"When I get a kick, I just grab a paper and deliver it myself," Doug said. "Most of the time the folks say, 'Shucks, we didn't expect you to come over personally with a paper tonight, Mr. Attaway. We just figured you'd want to know the kid missed us. But, say, how about having a drink with us, now that you're here?"

"I always let them twist my arm. It's a great way to spend the evening."

I told Doug I have had much the same experience. I've delivered papers to complainers, with just about the same results. They feel sort of sheepish, seeing you standing there on the doorstep with their paper, and it's almost always good for a drink, a cup of coffee or maybe some home-made strawberry ice cream, depending on the neighborhood.

Now I find this is not an exclusive fringe benefit of publishing. One of the principals of a large retail department store uses the same tactics when people call him at home to complain about this or that. He goes around to see them, right now. They say something like "O, my gawd, I didn't mean to have you come over and worry about this thing. You must think I'm an awful ass. Come in and have a drink."

Well, if you insist. . .

One of the curses of big and little-big business is that the man in charge gets further and further removed from the ultimate consumer of his product or service. He has to depend more and more on the specialists who tell him how the customer feels and what he wants and what he's going to do next, maybe. A.P. Giannini of the Bank of America used to deal personally with the pushcart produce vendors, because he had been one of them; and it was his personal touch that made the little fellow feel he could identify with the huge, rich, powerful bank. The great merchant princes like Gimble didn't have to hire eyes and ears to represent them among their customers; they were, themselves, members of the group which made them successful merchants.

Government has moved away from the governed, too. The bigger and more complex government becomes, the more unresponsive it gets. Experts tell the government what's best for the governed. The touch is gone. Patrick Dennis says if Adam had been a chorus boy, there would be no human race. Well, if Thomas Jefferson had been a graduate of the Government Management Institute, there probably wouldn't be a United States of America either.

The last straw is about to be placed on the camel's back. . . the militants are going to take over the churches.

If the churches don't pay off 60 percent of all income they get the militants will seize church facilities, offices, telephones, etc....what divine guidance must be given the oppres't.

Along with new faces in the pulpits, new sermons on the mount, there must also be new hymns coming from the voices...

"Bles't Be The Income That Binds," "Rock & Roll of Ages," "It Came To Us Upon a Midnight Clear," "Praise the Lord And Pass the Demand Box," "Hark! The Forman Angels Sing!," "The Little Brown Clutch in the Vale," "In The Militant Garden," "Seize the Showers of Blessings," "Bringing in the Sheaves at 60 Percent," "How Great Thou $500 Million Art," and "Onward Christian Manifesto."

It hurts me to say it, but they will also have to change my alltime favorite to "The Old Double Cross."

It appears that worship of the golden calf has finally come full cycle.

WIT AND WHIMSY

The teacher had just given her second grade class a lesson on magnets. Now came the question session and she asked a little boy:

Mrs. Rice (the teacher)—My name starts with an 'M' and I pickup things. What am I?

Instantly the boy replied,

Little Ricky — A mother.

The Cuckoo bird is known as the "rain prophet."

12 State Schools Get Warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twelve Texas school districts have received final warnings to adopt acceptable school desegregation policies or face the loss of federal funds, according to a report issued recently by the Office of Civil Rights.

The progress of desegregation in 50 other school districts, including such large ones as Denton, San Antonio, Abilene, Corpus Christi, San Angelo, Austin, Texarkana, Kilgore, Lubbock, Nacogdoches, Palestine, Plainview and Tyler, is under review.

The report was issued to members of the Texas delegation in Congress.

The report was mellowed with an addition which read "a statistical survey of all Texas school districts with more than 3,000 pupils indicates that Texas leads all other southern states in the desegregation of Negro students."

The 12 districts in danger of having federal funds stopped have been notified of their eligibility to present their cases to federal examiners before final action is taken.

The 12 independent school districts threatened are Arp, Calvert, Center, Cypress-Fairbanks, Garland, La Vega, Lufkin, Madisonville, Richardson, San Augustine, and South Park.

Twenty-one of the 50 school districts under review are being studied at the regional office and the other 29 have been recommended to Washington for enforcement action.

Those referred to Washington are Anahuac, Atlanta, Austin, Galena Park, Cameron, Cason, Crockett, Daingerfield, Dayton, Elysion Fields, Hearne, Hemphill, Jasper, Jefferson, Karnack, Kilgore, Lubbock, Marshall, Nacogdoches, Palestine, Pewitt, Plainview, Rusk, Shelbyville, Taylor, Texarkana, Timpson, Trinity and Tyler.

Those being studied regionally are Abilene, Bay City, Butler, Concord, Corpus Christi, Denton, Ector, Garrison, Greenville, Jackson, Jeddo, Katy, Klein, Liberty, Monahans-Wickett. Those being studied regionly are Abilene, Bay City, Butler, Concord, Corpus Christi, Denton, Ector, Garrison, ren-Gville, Jackson, Jeddo, Katy, Klein, Liberty, Monahans-Wickett-Pyote, Mt. Haven and West Orange Consolidated.

The Family Lawyer

Is Ignorance an Excuse?

It takes more than 100 volumes, each one huge, to describe what the American law is today. Viewing this mass of material, you may well quaver at the thought that every person is presumed to know the law — that ignorance of the law is no excuse.

Is that true? Are you really supposed to know everything in those books?

No — not in any absolute sense. For one thing, you can't fairly be expected to know about laws that are totally unrelated to your own activities. A New York pedestrian, crossing Broadway, need not be aware of the jaywalking rules in Pasadena.

Furthermore, your ignorance of the law may be an excuse if you're accused of a crime that requires a specific guilty intent. Consider this case:

A landlady, noticing ink stains on the rug in a boarder's room, took possession of his radio. She planned to hold it until he paid for the damage to the rug. But he promptly retaliated by having her arrested on a charge of theft.

In court, the landlady pleaded ignorance of the law, saying she had honestly thought she had a right to take the radio. And the court decided she could not be convicted of theft, because she lacked the specific guilty intent called for in that crime.

Still, the rule that ignorance is no excuse does apply in the vast majority of cases. Our whole system of criminal justice would fall apart if the excuse of ignorance — so easy to claim, so hard to disprove — were to be generally accepted.

For example, imagine the chaos if every motorist who had been caught speeding could escape punishment by saying:

"I did go fast, Your Honor, but I didn't realize that speeding was against the law."

True, the ignorance rule may be hard on the occasional individual who really did not know he was breaking the law.

Reverend Hits Church Structure

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — He had the title belonging to a man of the cloth but his words sounded like that of the student revolutionary.

"You have to break church laws in order to move ahead."

The words came Tuesday from the Rev. Walter Hollenweger of Zurich, Switzerland, and a member of the World Council of Churches in an address at a preconference of the 181st U.S. General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Chruch.

"The church structure needs to be changed so they do not hinder a man from being a man," Hollenweger said. "Denominations will play practically no part in the Christian church in the future. We will always have denominations but they will not be what is carrying the church forward."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Early Users of Rubber

An Amazon River tribe, the Omaguas, had rubber drinking goblets, rubber bottles and rubber utensils for preparing food, according to the 1777 edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Honored By Stamp

A five-cent postage stamp was issued in honor of Eleanor Roosevelt. The only other "First Lady" so honored was Martha Washington.

Geologists Unearth New Answers To Mysteries

"For boys long on mechanical ability and short on college futures, there's good money in the construction trades. One winner—electricians."

A —A live-wire suggestion. Construction electricians (also called wiremen) have annual earnings among the highest in the building trades. This is both because of the hourly rate, and because the seasonal nature of construction work affects electricians less than most other construction workers. According to the Feb., 1969 issue of "Construction Review," U.S. Department of Commerce, in the first 11 months of 1968 gross weekly earnings of electrical workers averaged $198.00 compared with a 12-month average of $168.00 or workers in all contract construction.

HIGH VOLTAGE JOB. The construction electrician's a pretty important guy. As an example, have you ever watched a magnificent apartment skyscraper soaring in construction? It stands like an empty frame, dark and impersonal. Later, after residents settle in and you eye the same building at night, now spectacular with lights, the shell seems to have come alive! It was the electrician's work that made it possible: the light and heat, motion and sound. Just before the plasterers began their work, wiremen were busy laying out, assembling, installing and testing electrical fixtures, apparatus, and dozens of other intricate operations. They follow blueprints, work in high voltages safely, and spot, connect and service complicated electrical equipment and controls.

THE BOSS. The international Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) estimates there are nearly 300,000 construction electricians. Most work for electrical contractors. Many are self-employed, and others work for government agencies or private business. Many change employers by the job, others work for the same contractor several years or more.

CHARGING YOUR BATTERY. Most training authorities recommend completion of a four-or five-year apprenticeship program, after which you must pass exams to become a licensed journeyman or master looking toward abolition to 24; a high school education is required. Your state employment service office can refer you to the local joint apprenticeship program, sponsored by the National Electrical Contractors Association and IBEW. For career data, write IBEW, 1200 Fifteenth St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20005.

It started out as our brewmaster's own private recipe. Something he brewed a little at a time for his friends.

Introducing ENCORE.

What began as an experiment in the art of brewing has ended in the discovery of a beer with a flavor never before achieved.

Our brewmaster created it as his own private-recipe beer. And since he never intended that it be sold to the public, he added a few refinements—like slow-lager ageing. A time-consuming, rather costly way to make beer.

Only recently have we been able to make enough to offer it for sale.

Today, you'll find ENCORE in certain fine restaurants, good bars, and in leading take-home stores. Discover it soon, and see what sets ENCORE apart from all other beers.

What is "Quality"?

Quality is the loving accumulation of little things, in which each part is as important as the whole. It is the unique combination of care, concern, and craftsmanship. It is a quiet, invisible something that need not call attention to itself—that exists even when it is ignored by those who know no better. Quality is the attitude that nothing is too unimportant to be good.

ENCORE. Our brewmaster's own.
