PIONEER ROUND-UP

Pioneers and visitors from over the entire Panhandle gathered at Clarendon July 4th for that city's pioneer round up and Centennial celebration. All pioneers who had resided in the Panhandle 40 years or more were registered at the Clarendon News office, and were given a free dinner at noon at the First Christian Church. Lack of space prevents our naming all those present. The Hedleyans at the dinner were C. W. Williams and wife, H. F. Fortenberry and wife, Frank Kendall, J. W. Noel and wife, J. D. Shaw and wife, W. I. Rains and wife, W. H. Jones, F. A. Finch and M. McQueen. Guests from Giles were E. H. Watt and wife and Mrs. J. A. Lemmon.

One of the principal events of the morning was the dedicating of Highway 5, paving of which recently been completed. J. E. Porter, Clarendon attorney, introduced Sam M. Braswell of Paducah, former publisher of The Clarendon News, who made the dedicatory address. Mr. Braswell was one of the originators of the movement to pave Highway 5. A number of visitors were introduced, including W. J. Van London of the highway dept. Judge Matthews of Claude, T. E. Johnson of Amarillo and Claude Wells of Memphis.

Another event of the morning was the parade, which included bands from Clarendon, Pampa and Memphis, many beautifully decorated floats, etc.

In the afternoon, community singing and baseball games provided enjoyment for all. In the singing contests, a quartet arranged by Bub Hefner of Hedley took 1st in the quartet contest, and a quartet arranged by W. H. Moss of McKnight was 2nd; Clyde Hudson and Miss Stewart of Clarendon won the duet contest, with Julia and Mary Earthenman of Clarendon 2nd; a chorus arranged by Lou McClellan of Ashtola won the chorus division.

In the baseball games, Windy Valley beat Goldston, 6 to 2, and Clarendon defeated the Smith Refinery of McLean, 17 to 16.

Many pictures and relics were on display in various shop windows, and proved very interesting to both old timers and visitors.

NOTICE

I offer through the Hedley Auto Supply the following introductory specials for the rest of this week. All good standard auto necessities.

Screwdriver 10c, pliers 10c, can of cold patch 10c, all 3 for 25c. Genuine Gates fan belts, model A Ford 25c, Chevrolet 45c.

Heavy duty tubes, 20 and 21 in. 95c, others reduced in proportion.

I have a general line of parts and accessories. Air blast spark plug cleaning, tire and tube re-storing. Have installed modern water and air facilities, including a Traflase air line tire gauge. It gets the job done quick. Drive around and try it. You are always welcome.

OLD SETTLERS' PICNIC

There seems to be some misunderstanding in regard to the Old Settlers picnic at the Tate grove at Hedley. This picnic will be the 14th of August just as it always has. The pioneer round up in Clarendon July 4 is not the Old Settlers picnic. Clarendon has royally entertained the pioneers, and I feel greatly honored to be one of the number. As we gather from time to time we see so many faces absent. I feel we, as pioneers, do not get together often enough. Clarendon was a perfect host city. Now the Old Settlers picnic will be our next meeting. All of you plan now to be present. We will try to entertain you in an old fashioned picnic. This will be six years the old settlers have been together. As president, I'd like to extend to every one who has resided in Donley county 20 years and longer a special invitation to the picnic. Come on old timers. A very special invite to all the newspaper men. Watch for further details. W. I. Rains

The following have been appointed on a committee to have charge of handling the barbecue to be served at the Old Settlers Reunion Aug 14. M. W. Mosley, J. Lee Hawkins, C. C. Cavender and Orville Doherty. Any contributions toward defraying the expense of the barbecue may be given to this committee which will be duly appreciated. W. I. Rains, pres.

The sixth annual vacation church school at the Methodist Church will close Friday night, July 10, with a program given by the children. Parents and interested ones are invited.

Forty three children have registered. The four classes have been well attended and the children have shown much interest.

In a three way match this week Hobart Moffitt defeated Gene Youree and Richard Longshore, winning the second flight cup in the city golf tournament. He will retain the cup for one year.

Mrs. Bentley of Paris is visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Burden.

Telling Time at Night

Mrs. Green bought a sundial at a sale and had it erected in her garden. She called in the builder and instructed him to move it to a more suitable place.

"Where would you like me to put it?" asked the builder.

"Under the electric lamp in the porch," she replied. "Then we shall be able to see the time when it's dark."—Pearson's Weekly.

Quite So

The fisherman saw what looked to be a likely pool and turned to a man lounging on the bank.

"Is it a crime to catch fish here?" he asked.

"Crime?" was the retort. "If you catch any it'll be a miracle."

NEW KITCHEN STOVE MAKES ITS OWN GAS

Housewives Marvel at Coleman Range That Lights Instantly Like City Gas—Cooks a Meal with 2c Worth of Fuel

A new kitchen range that offers every cooking convenience of the finest city gas range is now available to housewives, wherever they live.

W. C. Coleman, pioneer inventor of gas-pressure appliances, brings to a lifetime of inventive genius his crowning achievement in this amazing new Coleman Safety Range. This new stove makes its own gas from ordinary, lead-free gasoline. A patented method of carburization converts liquid fuel into gas, much the same as in present day automobile engines.

The Coleman Range lights instantly, like city gas. Its fuel-saving Band-A-Blu Burners, another of Mr. Coleman's outstanding developments, produce a clean, clear-blue flame, so hot that a low flame does all ordinary cooking. Tests show an average family meal for five takes about 2c worth of fuel.

Coleman Ranges are finished in gleaming porcelain enamel. Their pleasing colors combine outstanding beauty with unequalled performance.

Readers of this paper wishing full information about these wonderful new Coleman Ranges will receive beautifully illustrated literature and a valuable stove check chart by simply addressing a postcard to Mr. W. C. Coleman, Dept. WU-236, Wichita, Kansas.—Adv.

So We've Noticed

None of the pleasant episodes in life seem to be called "experience."

CARDUI

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine for the relief of functional periodic pain, nervousness and weakness due to poor nourishment.

"I have used Cardui and had good results from its use," writes Mrs. W. E. Barnett, of Taylors, S. C. "I suffered with cramping and headaches and would have a chilly feeling. Sometimes I would feel miserable and have pain more than a day, and I would be nervous. After taking six bottles of Cardui, I had less pain and was regulated. I feel much better."

Of course, if Cardui does not seem to relieve your trouble, consult a physician.

Blemishes Made Her Old Looking

Face Clear Again with Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Here is a letter every skin sufferer should read. Its message is vital. "There were blemishes on my face, of external origin, and they made me look old and haggard. They were red, hard and large. They would hurt, and when I scratched them the skin would become irritated, and I would lie awake at night and start digging at my face."

"But after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one tin of Cuticura Ointment my face was cleared again." (Signed) Mrs. L. Whetzel, 2nd St., Florence, Pa., June 15, 1935.

Physicians can understand such letters. The Cuticura formulas have proved their effectiveness for over half a century. Remember, Cuticura Soap and Ointment are also for pimples, rashes, ringworm, burning of eczema and other externally caused skin blemishes. All druggists. Soap 25c. Ointment 25c.—Adv.

No Need to Suffer "Morning Sickness"

"Morning sickness"—is caused by an acid condition. To avoid it, acid must be offset by alkalis—such as magnesia.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—the most pleasant way to take it. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system and insure quick, complete elimination of the waste matters that cause gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Start using these delicious, effective anti-acid, gently laxative wafers today. Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letterhead. Select Products, Inc., 4402 23rd St., Long Island City, N. Y.

FIRESTONE'S NEWEST... MOST SENSATIONAL TIRE DEVELOPMENT... THE New Firestone STANDARD TIRE

FIRST LINE QUALITY—The new Firestone Standard Tire has been designed and constructed by Firestone skilled tire engineers—it is a first quality tire, built of high grade materials, embodying exclusive Firestone patented construction features.

FIRESTONE NAME AND GUARANTEE—Every Standard Tire is backed by the Firestone name and guarantee—your assurance of safety, dependability and economy.

LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE—The wider, flatter tread is scientifically designed with more and tougher rubber on the road for long, even wear, and thousands of extra miles.

GUM-DIPPED CORD BODY—Eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every one hundred pounds of cotton cords by the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping. This not only provides greater strength, but gives greatest blowout protection.

TWO EXTRA LAYERS OF GUM-DIPPED CORDS UNDER THE TREAD—Cushion road shocks. Afford extra protection against punctures and bind the whole tire into one unit of great strength.

IT COSTS LESS TO BUY—VOLUME PRODUCTION SAVES YOU MONEY—The new Firestone Standard Tire is the greatest tire value ever offered car owners—volume production, efficient factories and the most economical distribution system make it possible to sell this new tire at these low prices.

FOR TRUCK AND BUS OWNERS

GIVES LONGER MILEAGE AND MORE ECONOMICAL SERVICE AT VOLUME PRODUCTION PRICES!

WHETHER you operate one truck or several, dependable service is your greatest asset. In hauling produce to market, operating fast local deliveries, in heavy cross-country hauling, operating school buses, or in any type of trucking service, you need a first-quality tire, built of first grade materials to give you long, trouble-free mileage. Now, for the first time, you can get such a tire at prices you can afford to pay.
Come in today and let us show you how the new Firestone Standard Truck and Bus Tire will give you better service and save you money.

HAWAII EAGER TO BECOME 49th STATE

Majority of Island People Favor Statehood; Hawaii Contributes Liberally to Support of Federal Government, Yet Congress Withholds Favorable Action.

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

YAP is a loyal American citizen who lives in Honolulu. He went to American schools. He talks, thinks and acts American. But there is one American privilege he does not have, and he wants it—he wants to vote for a president of the United States. That is Yap's reason for wanting Hawaii admitted as the forty-ninth state.

Vernon C. Yap was born in the islands of Chinese parentage. His father and mother were small farmers on the island of Molokai. He has a Chinese wife and one son. His home is a small and unpretentious cottage, but typically American in furnishings and cleanliness. Yap is typical of a very large percentage of the second and third generation of the orientals in the islands, all of whom want to vote for a president of the United States.

I went to the islands to ascertain whether or not the people of Hawaii desired statehood. A sub-committee of congress had done the same thing. The members of the committee had held sessions in Honolulu and listened to statements made by 105 residents who wished to appear, of whom 90 advocated statehood.

In its report the committee stated that a "comfortable majority of the people of the islands favor statehood," that the territorial legislature since 1903 had repeatedly passed resolutions favoring statehood, and other reasons.

Oriental quarter of Honolulu, where Chinese and Japanese stores thrive and the fish markets clamor with activity.

that seemed to favor admission of the islands as a state. But the committee voted five to three against the statehood bill then before congress. I wanted to know why.

Americanization Needed.
I talked to many people representing all classes and all races. Mr. Lorin Thurston, publisher of the Daily Advertiser, does not believe the islands are ready for statehood at this time, but will be when the orientals are thoroughly Americanized and when the dual standards of wages, of hours and of living have been overcome. He believes these will be accomplished within a few years.

Mr. Joseph Farrington, publisher of the Daily Star-Bulletin, is insistent that congress grant statehood now. Under the present territorial status he feels congress can at any time legislate the islands out of business by restricting or prohibiting exports to the American mainland, as was done in the case of sugar.

A prominent native woman, who does not wish to be named, agrees with Mr. Thurston. She fears Japanese domination and Japanese control of state offices.

Doctor Dean, former president of the University of Hawaii, and Mr. Atherton, representing the industrial interests, are as insistent upon statehood as is Mr. Farrington.

Yap lives in a modest but comfortable bungalow of five rooms. His small boy has shoes, but he wears them only on stated occasions and then under protest. Earl Thacker, one of the islands' prominent citizens, lives in a beautiful home in the Diamond Head district. His children have shoes, but they are worn only on stated occasions, and then under protest. The children of these two families typify social conditions in the islands. Children of such families attend the same schools, play the same games, compete in the same contests, without any regard to racial distinction.

Take Politics Seriously.
In a social, political or cultural way there is no race problem in Hawaii.

The island people, whether they be "haole" (whites), orientals, Polynesians or native Hawaiians, take their politics seriously. But in politics there are no racial blocs. There are not more than 25 negroes in the islands, but a negro was elected to the island legislature. By far the largest single racial group are the Japanese, but never more than three Japs have been members of the legislature at any one time.

The Democratic national committee-man from the islands, and the present postmaster, John Wilson, is a mixture of Polynesian, Hawaiian and Scotch Irish. He served as mayor of Honolulu for nine years and is an ardent advocate of statehood as a matter of justice for the island people, believing they can better regulate their internal affairs than congress can do the job for them.

The professor, who rates as probably the top in higher mathematics at the University of Hawaii, is a Chinese woman. Teachers of all races are to be found in all of the school grades.

Japs Maintain Schools.
The one possible fly-in-the-ointment is the Japanese language schools. They are maintained by the elder Japs, those born in Japan. To these schools go the Japanese children before or after regular school hours. Here Japanese teachers teach the Japanese language. Japanese history and Japanese customs and culture.

The attendance at these schools is diminishing rather rapidly with the diminishing population of alien Japanese. In 1920 the total population of Jap aliens was 56,273. By 1930 the figure had dropped to 47,781, a decrease of nearly 15 per cent a year, and the annual decrease grows larger each year. Without the influence of the elder Japs the language schools could not continue.

There has been no Japanese immigration since 1900 and it will be but a few years when all the Japanese born will have passed away and with them will pass the Japanese language schools.

The business of Hawaii is agriculture, confined to three commercial crops so far as exports are concerned. They are sugar, pineapples and coffee. For local consumption there are truck garden, dairying and live stock raising.

Sugar and pineapples demand large scale operations. They are produced on big plantations of many thousands of acres on each of which you find villages peopled by plantation employees, good schools, churches, a hospital, recreation and playground centers, plantation stores, and always the big sugar mill.

Steady Work for All.
In the fields you find Japanese and Filipino workers. Whites and native Hawaiians work in the sugar fields. Chinese serve as clerks in offices.

Help on the plantations is well paid.

The work of cultivating, cutting and loading sugar cane is done largely on a piece basis by the Japanese and Filipinos and their average earnings run around $80 a month, to which is added free house rent in comfortable homes, free fuel, cut to stove lengths for cooking, free medical, hospital and nursing services. The lowest flat wage paid to anyone is $1 a day, to which is added the free rent and all the free services.

There is no such thing as seasonal labor. Every employee is encouraged to work six days of each week and 52 weeks each year if he will. In fact, a bonus of 10 per cent is paid to those who work as many as 23 days in a month.

Workers in the sugar mills, most of them white or native Hawaiians, average better than $100 per month, and they too receive free rent and other free services, excepting only those who get $150 a month or more, who are charged a small hospital fee only.

The islands have a total population of some 384,000 people. Of that number in 1930, 61,445 were foreign born aliens. The population is larger than that found in ten of the present 48 states of the Union.

The islands pay more taxes into the federal treasury than 16 states and they pay their own governmental expense, except for the salaries of the governor and the members of the legislature.

Hawaiian Status Unique.
In Hawaii you never hear a reference to "the states" or to "the United States." To the people there it is "the mainland" and "the islands." The people insist on their place as a part of the United States. They resent being considered a foreign country, and especially resent such a reference when made in the halls of congress by congressmen, as has happened on several occasions.

The people insist the islands are not a stepchild as was the case with the Philippines and is the case with Puerto Rico. The islands are not a possession of the United States, but have a territorial status and as such are just as much a part of the United States as is any state.

They are not a conquered people. They sought annexation and did so at a time, in 1898, when the islands represented tremendous value as a naval base. The people tell you they could have been admitted as a state instead of a territory at that time, but the leaders of that time did not believe conditions then existing made statehood desirable.

Conditions, they say, have radically changed in 40 years and today they are asking that the status of the islands be changed from that of a territory to that of the forty-ninth state.

Right to Statehood Cited.

To demonstrate the right of the islands to statehood the people will quote you many figures. They will tell you the islands buy mainland products to the extent of more than $70,000,000 annually; that there is in the island property values of $385,565,812; that there are shipped to the mainland from the islands products valued at over $90,000,000 annually.

They will add that the islands have 154 excellent public schools employing 2,674 teachers and enrolling 83,319 students; that with all of the mixture of races there is only 15 per cent of illiteracy; that from 1900, to 1936 the population has grown from 154,000 to 384,000; that the people of the islands own and drive more than 50,000 automobiles; that Honolulu is one of the great ocean ports of the Pacific, with close to 1,300 ships of more than 1,500,000 tonnage, arriving and departing each year.

From such investigations as I was able to make, I would say that between 75 and 85 per cent of the people want statehood and an opportunity to vote for a President, but I did not discover why the congressional committee voted against admitting Hawaii as the forty-ninth state, unless it was the reason assigned by people in the islands—politics.

Age of Gustatory Miracles.

MR. EATMORE'S DIET

ONCE there was a Respected Citizen named George Eatmore who should have taken off his Hat to his Tummy. For the humble pear-shaped Organ had been through many a War. The Fact that it was not worn out, but was still trying to stay on the Job proves that Nature is more wonderful than Art for when it comes to all-round toughness the Rhinoceros runs second to Man.

Before the stomach finally went on strike it earned many a Service Stripe. Through years of gourmandizing and guzzling it was a True Pal to George, always right there when needed and doing its Duty cheerfully under the most trying Circumstances.

And yet, for several Decades, Mr. Eatmore never referred to his faithful Glizzard except in Language of Complaint. And he would not have dreamed of introducing his Stomach as a Topic of Conversation in Polite Society. He adhered to the old-fashioned Belief that the Alimentary Canal is entirely a private Affair.

It would be impossible to produce a Novel, Play or Movie without featuring the Heart. The Cardiac Mechanism is put in the Center of the Stage and flooded with Spot-Lights while the hard-working and reliable stomach, situated only about Eight Inches to the Southwest, is permitted to toil at the most menial tasks in utter Darkness, with never a word of Sympathy or Encouragement. The prudens say that One who becomes too specific regarding the old Food-Trap is immodest and guilty of a Social Error.

The Lungs often receive Honorable Mention and many a Vermiform Appendix, with little to be said for it in the way of Looks, is carefully preserved in a Bottle and shown to Callers, but the Stomach has been and continues to be, as you might say, the Step-Child of the Human Organism. It endures all of the Hardships and gets most of the Blame.

For instance, take the Case of George Eatmore. Even while he was very Young and on the Milk, he would often ask his Digestive Apparatus to take on such Odds and Ends as Buttons, Pins, small Pieces of Coal, Calling Cards and Lint. Soon after he was weaned he put into the handy Receptacle a most varied Assortment, including Green Apples, Raw Turnips, Molasses Candy, Strawberry Pop and all of the dye-stuff Berries and oleaginous Nuts growing in the Wild-wood.

Did the Craw rebel when it was bombarded at all hours? On the Contrary, it stood up and never was devoid of Pep. Each morning it would look up at George and say, "Well, my Hearty, what's the Program for Today?"

WHEN COLLEGE LADS LEARNED SOMETHING

It was while George was in High School that he got quite a Giggle one day from reading in his Physiology that the Stomach of Man contains about Three Pints. Very often he had eaten as many as two Watermelons at a Sitting and anyone who says that two Watermelons are not more than three pints has never studied Botany. It just goes to show how little the Authorities really know.

After George entered College he and the Receiving Station took many a hard Trip together.

Once in a while the hard-worked Pouch would try to suggest to George that it was not a Waste Basket but he seemed to think that the Proper time to eat was between meals. Whenever there was a complaint he would ignore it and urge the patient Slave to keep on working overtime.

We now discover Our Hero as a struggling Law Student, trying to live on Nothing per Week. It was during these Lean Days, after Dad had discontinued the sending of Checks, that George seemed to regard the Dough-nut as Vitamin B.

About the Time that he got a foot-hold he married a very sweet little Apricotina who had been taking Music Lessons and cooked accordingly. George could have played Eighteen Holes with one of Her Soda Biscuits. It was truly said of her that she could tear the Lining out of Tosti's "Good-Bye."

For a long Time they could not afford a Swede and it was during this Period, when the Little Woman was trying to turn out Angel Food which could be cut with a Knife instead of Pair of Scissors, that Mr. Eatmore and his Alimentary Side-Kick earned a couple of Carnegie Medals for Heroism. You say that Anybody can make Tea. Even a man. Well, Sweetie could do something to it which made it taste like Sheep-Dip. And not the best Quality of Sheep-Dip at that.

At last the Sun of Prosperity began to shine on the Eatmores and they had a Lot of Servants. They had only Two at one Time, but they had a Lot in the course of a Year. The colored Mammies would prepare everything Southern Style, while the Transients imported from Ireland favored Corned Beef buried in Cabbage, and several who had escaped from Germany to avoid Military Service put Caraway Seed in every Vland and then laid a Dill Pickle on top of it. Just when the Gullet thought it had transported every known variety of Chow, along would come a pleasing Novelty, such as Raviooli, or Tripe with Apples chopped up in it, or Olives stuffed with Torpedoes, or Hungarian Goulash, or Chicken Livers wearing Festoons of Garlic, or Gutta Percha Pudding dashed with Shellac, or the seductive Alligator Pear swimming in the Lubricant which you see advertised at every Filling Station.

THEN HE'LL GET AN EARFUL

When a good Doctor goes over a Man he always listens to the Heart. Sooner or later Science will devise a Dingus which will enable Doc to listen to the Stomach and in that Event the Specialists will get many a Earful. For instance, the Stomach which accompanied Mr. Eatmore could have written quite a large Volume on "Unexpected Guests."

Not until George became a Prominent Citizen and began to attend Formal Dinners did he put his Digestion to the Supreme Test, and start in to lean heavily on Bi-Carbonate of Soda. We are referring to the Age of Gustatory Miracles when every Diner-Out found an Exhibit of Glassware in front of his plate and was supposed to fly at every kind of red, white and blue Fluid during the prolonged Battle with the heavy Courses. A real Dinner, in the old days of cheap Liquor and the deadly Toast List, made Belchazzar's Feast look like a Cafeteria Snack.

When Mr. Eatmore took his Stomach away with him after one of those three-hour Feeds he didn't have to be told that his Stomach was present. He would throw it a little Pepsin and tell it to behave. During all his years of Alimentary Acrobatics, George never took any Blame on himself. He would curse his Stomach and feel that he was the Injured Party.

Late this Season Mr. Eatmore was entertained a great deal by Friends who had Pre-War Stuff. It was made before the War between Hoover and the Senate. At the Hospital he told the Nurses and Everybody that it was Gastritis. The Stomach had no opportunity to speak up and say "I went into the Ring once too often."

As some of his old-time Associates were driving back from the Cemetery they removed the Black Gloves and said they couldn't understand why George had to check in at the Early Age of sixty-two, because the Old Scout certainly had taken the Best of Care of himself at all Times.

MORAL: One may listen to a Radio Station 5,000 Miles away.

HOW ARE YOU TODAY

DR. JAMES W. BARTON
Talks About

Dangers of "Slimming"

"IT IS interesting to note that the so-called reducing preparations on the market fall into three categories; first laxative that deny the body the benefit of its food intake as the salts, crystals and herb teas; second, obvious frauds that depend for effect upon the stringent diets as part of the 'treatment'; and third the unquestionably effective but dangerous articles containing thyroid or dinitrophenol, both of which act by speeding up the use of the food." I am quoting Mr. W. G. Campbell, chief of the Federal Food and Drug Administration, Washington.

What about the first kind of these preparations, the laxative? This is the use of epsom or other salts in patented form which act by not only causing diarrhoea and that much loss of water from the system but carry out with them some of the actual food products of the blood thus causing thinning of the blood—anaemia. As a matter of fact small doses of "salts" for a few days at a time may be helpful when the liver is sluggish and not filtering the poisons from the blood properly. The salts thus thin the blood and remove some of the poisons from waste food products. However, the use of salts for long periods of time and in the amounts often recommended for reducing, takes some of the body building elements from the blood and hence every cell in the body is deprived of these necessary food elements to some extent. Thus tuberculosis, anaemia, or a serious shock to the body can readily occur.

The second kind of preparation that really depends upon reducing the food intake rather than any merit in the preparation is likewise dangerous because the amount of food advised being much less than the body needs, the body has to give up some of its fat and other tissues to supply the food needed to carry on the body's work.

Giving up its fat is, of course, of help in reducing weight, but other tissues of the body muscle tissue, for instance, has considerable fat in it, which cannot be given up without damage to the muscle itself. And delicate nerve tissue needs fat to enable it to do its important work in the body.

Fallacy of Diet Fads
The reduction in the amount of food eaten is good treatment if the amount of reduction were not so great. An example of too much reduction is the 18-day diet that swept through the country a few years ago, resulting in hundreds of deaths and making invalids of many others.

The third method of reducing—the use of thyroid extract or the drug dinitrophenol overhauls the body and so melts away fats and burns other tissues.

Research physicians record a number of cases where the use of thyroid extract to reduce weight has caused the dangerous type of goitre, permanently damaged the heart by overwork, and in other cases has made necessary the daily use of iodine and the need of almost constant rest.

While dinitrophenol in the hands of research physicians in San Francisco has met with a fair measure of success its unsupervised use has caused severe skin eruptions, cataracts to form in the eyes, and even death in a number of cases.

Sane Way to Reduce
Now there may be some cases where tiny doses of epsom salts daily for a few weeks may help remove liquid weight from the body and supply the body with an alkali to help overcome the acidosis that occurs during weight reduction. Also the slight reduction of food over a long period of time is bound to reduce weight without injury to the body.

And finally there are cases where the use of thyroid extract is the proper method of reducing weight. It is quite likely also that the day will come when with a pure preparation and under strict supervision dinitrophenol will be more generally used in weight reduction.

However, for 95 per cent of overweighted people, the safe, sane and ever effective method of reducing weight, is to cut down on the food intake and, if physically able, increase the exercise.

Warm Weather Reducing
In spring and summer when the weather is warm it should not be difficult for those seeking to reduce their weight, to cut down on all foods, particularly starch and fat foods.

This would mean that the amount of these kinds of foods—fat builders—could be cut down safely by one-quarter to one-half without causing any real discomfort.

The difficult thing would be to cut down on the liquids—water, soft drinks, ice cream—but a simple rule would be to take liquids whenever the feeling of thirst came, but to drink only half the usual quantity each time.

Finally, cutting down on the amount of able salt used in the cooking and in the meals, would mean that the fat tissue would be holding less water.

"Wasting my time," Barry told Harwood, the next morning, in the city editor's busy office at The Globe. "My time, and nearly a hundred dollars of the paper's money. Winslow had it straight. The Fane girl was strutting her stuff from one o'clock until long after the murder."

"Well, it's good to be sure."

"Yes, and I'm mighty sure now. Every step I've taken since our last meeting leads right up to Mrs. Kelly."

Harwood looked at him quizzically. "Step No. 1?" he asked.

"My advertisement offering a reward for the number of the cab that killed that artist's wife."

"You don't mean that you got it?"

Triumphantly, Barry opened his note book.

"There it is," he said. "O29017. The figure under it is the number of the driver who gave me the information."

Ernie copied both numbers.

"Well work," he commented. "Anything else?"

"Lots. This fellow had a passenger who got out at Twenty-third street around midnight. When the woman was killed—two hours later—the driver bumped into him again in Sixteenth street, very much rattled, and looking as though he'd committed a murder."

"Any description?"

"Rather a vague one. That doesn't matter. I'm sure, in my own mind, that this passenger was the caller Kelly expected, and that he wasn't the murderer. I'm equally sure that he knew murder had been committed."

"Let's call it a mere supposition. In that case, Kelly was killed around two o'clock. At two o'clock, Mrs. Kelly wasn't in Harlem."

"How do you know that?"

Barry's answer was a full report of his adventures of Saturday. "With-out Step No. 1, Step No. 2 means nothing. In other words, if Kelly'd been killed at midnight—which is the theory everyone's worked on—Mrs. Kelly's alibi would have been holeproof."

Harwood joined his finger-tips in an almost prayerful gesture. "I wish we could find the guy who looked as though he'd committed a murder."

Barry made no reply.

"That's always the trouble," the city editor went on. "What kind of a skate is this Luis Morano? Tough?"

"On the contrary. Cries over a mammy song."

"There's a heap of 'em do," Harwood philosophized.

"He's a Southerner, with a soft voice, and a funny impediment in his speech?"

"That so?" Harwood inquired.

"Where is this Cocoonut Bar?"

Barry told him, and promptly returned to Mrs. Kelly. "How the deuce are we going to prove what she did after she got home?"

"That's up to you," Ernie said. "I'm off on a new tack now." His eyes twinkled. "One that would go a long way toward establishing your theory of coincidence. Gosh, I'd give my two uppers to break this story within the next week or two."

Thursday evening, Barry spent in his room, mostly thinking. He had telephoned Pat twice since their luncheon together, and found her enthusiastic over her guests. "There's nothing wrong with the boy," she declared; "nothing that a few weeks out here won't cure. He's on the beach now, with his mother."

Judge Hamblidge had taken to the little fellow at once. Almost like having a grandchild. It kept his mind off his worries. And no one could see Peggy, being brave, but always staring at nothing, always thinking of what might happen, without pity that warmed into affection. "She's really an awfully good sort," Pat said, from Southampton. "I like her a lot. When are you coming out?"

"Tomorrow, I hope."

"Well, we'll expect you for dinner."

That breach was healed, all right. Pat had called him "the scum of the earth." In the same hour, he remembered again, he had told her he loved her. As to that, she still maintained silence. "That's the kindest thing she could do," Barry thought. "A Judge's daughter, and I—"

Barry had learned not to think of the future. "Nor heed the rumble of a distant drum," as his own father had put it. Just for now, it was pleasant to be somebody who knew Pat—and he wanted to take that awful look out of the other girl's eyes. Barry thought. "If I could get that Filipino to talk. He knows when Mrs. Kelly came home, and he's probably got a darned good idea what she did afterward. If we could get that Oriental—"

At which point, Evans came, and he had been drinking.

"Sorry, sir," he apologized, taking the nearest chair. Evans had none of Willetts' compunctions. "Sorry, sir, but I've been having dinner with Kelly's chauffeur."

"Liquid nourishment?"

"Yes, sir," Evans admitted, sheepishly. "But that was the only chance I had with that Irishman."

"Well?"

"Well, I drove Miss Hamblidge, and Mrs. Rogers, and the boy to Southampton, like you said. And I started back today. It was nearly eight when I made the garage, and I was good and hungry."

"There's a decent cafe a few yards away. Nolan—that's Kelly's chauffeur—was sitting at a table, with a load he ought to've gone twice for."

Evans smiled.

"Ed had a grudge on women in general. And he was chomping plenty. I hadn't been with him long when he opened up on Mrs. Kelly. There's something queer between her and this Filipino, he says."

"Charlie?"

"That isn't his name, but let it go at that. And, when Ed said 'queer,' he didn't mean anything wrong. Just some kind of an understanding. Mrs. Kelly's been giving the Chink coin and jewelry, regular. Charlie showed him some of it, Ed says."

"Well, the night of the murder Nolan drives Kelly to the Cocoonut Bar. And home—at nine o'clock. When he gets out at his house, Kelly says, 'Put the car in the garage. Mrs. Kelly's gone up to Harlem, and I won't need you 'til tomorrow morning.'"

"Ed obeys orders. He goes back to Kelly's, and sits in the kitchen. This Chink is in the butler's pantry. Getting a tray ready. And, while the two of 'em are down there, the damnedest row starts upstairs—"

"Rogers and Kelly."

"No. This was around nine o'clock. Mrs. Kelly. She was laying Mike out so you could have heard it a block."

Ernie copied both numbers.

"Well, this goes on for ten or fifteen minutes, and then the bell from the parlor rings. Charlie starts upstairs with the tray. He gets up two steps, when Kelly appears at the head of the flight. 'Come up here, you lousy spy. Come up here while I tell you where you get off!'

"Charlie sets down the tray, and goes. Nolan follows into the pantry, and has a stiff drink. Then he sits down again, and listens to Kelly laying out the Chink."

"Could he hear anything? Words, I mean?"

"No. Just Kelly's voice. Mrs. Kelly was out of it. She'd gone to her room. Nolan thinks. But Kelly made noise enough for two. And, after another ten minutes or so, Charlie comes back."

"I'm fired," Charlie says—in the Chink lingo. 'I got to get out. That blankety-blank told me to go quick, or he'd kill me.'"

"Are you going?" Nolan asks.

"Sure," the Chink says. "I got to get my money first. He chased me out of the room when I asked for it, but I'm going back," the Chink says.

"Nolan then took the cook to a movie, and when they get back, everything's quiet. It's after midnight, because these two walked home. Kelly's upstairs, talking to somebody, and the Chink's in his room, packing and muttering to himself something frightful. So Nolan says good night to the cook, who goes into her room, and then Nolan slips into the pantry, and takes another shot of that hooch."

"What hooch?"

"The rye whiskey I was telling you about."

Barry sprang from his chair.

"The rye whiskey?"

"Sure. And it was in a cut-glass decanter."

"Are you certain?"

"Nolan is. And he's just as certain that it was still in the pantry when the guy upstairs left."

"Why?"

"Because he heard the front door close ten seconds before he went out the back way."

"Gosh!" Barry exclaimed. "That puts it up to Mrs. Kelly, all right."

Evans shook his head, drunkenly.

"Mrs. Kelly wasn't home," he said. "She went to her sister's after the high-jinks in Harlem, and Nolan got her there the next morning, before they called the police. There were only three people in that house after the guy went who was visiting Kelly—Kelly himself, cook, and a mighty mad Chinaman."

"Filipino."

"Whatever he was, he was mad, and the decanter that killed Kelly was downstairs with him until just about the time Kelly was killed."

"Thanks," Barry nodded. "I think we've got something."

"TO BE CONTINUED"

Ernie Copied Both Numbers.

"Oh, I forgot to give you this. It came—to Southampton—just as I was leaving," said Evans.

"This" was a cablegram. Alone, in the smoke-filled room, Barry opened it. Nine words. "Father and I sailing for home Sunday. Love. Mother."

For an instant, he stood, frozen, the wire in his hand.

Directly before him, an evening newspaper lay open on the table.

"Out-going passenger and mail ships," he read. "Sailing tomorrow—Steamship Oranje Nassau. For Port-au-Prince, La Guayra, Curacao, Maracaibo, Carupano, and Pampatar. I'm on my way to one of 'em tomorrow!"

CHAPTER IX

Barry's panic was short-lived.

Between him and the sailing list had come a vision of Peggy, with beaded lashes screening eyes forever staring at nothing.

"I can't do it," he said to himself. "I can't run away and leave that girl in the lurch. Nor Pat either. I've tackled this job, and I've got to go through with it."

"Anyway, it begins to look as though the end were in sight. If Ridder sails Sunday—"

He went back to the shipping news.

"If Ridder sails Sunday, that's the Bremen and she's due here the following Saturday. That gives us eight days. I'd better see Winslow."

He called Peter next morning, but the attorney was in the country. "Left last night," his secretary reported, "and won't be back until Monday."

Barry had a dinner engagement at Southampton. "Well start things humming on Monday," Barry told himself. "I've got my house to put in order, too. Ridder's house, that is."

Evans telephoned around ten, and before noon they were on their way to Southampton. "My last week-end with Pat," he was thinking. "Where'll I be next Saturday? Out of luck, and out of a job. In jail, maybe, and in the newspapers. That's my finish with—everybody."

There was a new atmosphere at the Hamblidge's. Pat had been right in telling Jack that he'd "cheer my father up a lot." "They're building a railway on the beach," she laughed, when the boy—sunburned, and active—joined them before dinner.

"You must go to bed now," Pat bade him. "If we're to take our ride in the morning. We have a canter every day before breakfast."

She added to Barry, ringing for a maid to take charge of the youngster. "I discovered the dearest little pony in the village, and the man brings it over at nine o'clock, with another horse for me. Jack's getting to be a regular Buffalo Bill."

The strained expression of a week ago was beginning to disappear from the face of Judge Hamblidge. But the greatest difference was in the boy's mother. Naturally imitative, as Barry had remarked, she had been quick to observe and emulate Pat's moderation with make-up. Her speech, too, had lost all but an occasional inadvertent reference to "guys" and "dames." She had stopped staring into space. "What's the news about Jack?" she asked, quite calmly.

"Free next week," Barry declared ringingly.

At the dinner table, in spite of herself, Peg caught some of the contagion of Barry's new confidence. Nolan's story sounded like the solution of everything, they agreed. "We've got to get Jack out before Saturday," Barry said. "His father'll be home then."

Both women looked up at him.

"What'll happen to you?" Peggy asked.

"The main question," Barry urged, "is what's going to happen to Peg. And Jack. And Jacky."

"We'll meet that when it comes," Peggy returned, steadily. "But now I'm worried about you."

She excused herself early, with the plain purpose of leaving Barry with Pat. But the Judge stayed on. His legally trained mind had been busy with the Nolan disclosures.

"If Mrs. Kelly slept a her sister's, why didn't she say so to you? It would've been her best alibi."

"Yes, but it would have involved admitting that she'd had a run-in with Kelly."

"That's true," Hamblidge admitted. "But Nolan was drunk last night, you say. And some parts of his story simply don't hold water. I don't believe there was anything 'queer' between Mrs. Kelly and the Filipino. Kelly's finding that out wouldn't account for his calling the man a 'lousy spy,' would it?"

"No," Barry retorted. "But listen. If the Chink was a 'lousy spy,' he got paid for it, didn't he? Wouldn't that explain Mrs. Kelly's giving him 'coin and jewelry'? And everything else? The Chink's reporting Betty Barclay's message, and all the rest of it? I tell you, this story's as straight as a string. Betty Barclay went on the road with her show about the time Mrs. Kelly sued for divorce. I found that out some time ago. She got back the day of the murder, and phoned Kelly. Mrs. Kelly learned of that from the Chink, and lit into Mike. Then Mike lit into the Chink, and the Chink killed him. I think we can prove that."

The Judge shook his head.

"Anyway, it certainly establishes reasonable doubt of Jack's guilt."

"They can't convict Jack," the Judge insisted. "Peter says so, and I've never known Peter to be wrong when he made an assertion like that. But acquittal means waiting for the trial, and waiting for the trial means that Jack will still be in jail when his father returns."

Pat remained silent, but the next morning, on the beach, she drew Barry away from the little group engaged in railroad construction.

"Thanks," Barry nodded. "I think we've got something."

Smart Silks for Spectator Sports

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF THERE is one place more than another that daytime fashions show off in a panorama of surpassing style interest, it is at the races. The influence of the French races and Ascot was very evident at the openings of our own American tracks this season. Although there were no trailing skirts there were the reminiscent cartwheels, the tiny elaborate "doll" hats which smart Parisiennes love so well with flower, vegetable and bird trimming—millinery fantasies such as are almost amusing in their eccentricities, yet quite worthwhile in that they are adding such zest to the current mode. Silk taffeta frocks and suits were numerous and set the pace for an interesting style movement. Skirts 14 inches from the ground, any number of short-sleeved dresses and jackets with universally square shoulders were likewise interpretative of new fashion trends.

Typical of the choices of many well-dressed women was the very short black silk crepe suit with a fitted jacket that is worn with an enormous black feather-trimmed cartwheel hat. A huge white kid water lily at the shoulder gave a dramatic touch. Much is being said in fashion circles in regard to water lily colorings and water lily boutonnieres and corsages. As to suits of this type the fashion parade includes them in dark silk failles, in faconne silk taffeta, and of course, the gay printed silk suits are that ubiquitous they are taken for granted.

As to the newer silk prints there is a marked tendency to select tiny neat patterns for daytime wear. Made up in trimly tailored frocks with short sleeves and matching jackets, you have the costume-ideal for going about town and for the practical hours of general activities. Now that summer is nearing the trend toward cool silk sheers, both plain and print are obvious. To glorify these intriguing prints one must be accessory-minded to a high degree, which is not at all difficult since the shops are filled to overflowing with the most fascinating neckwear, gloves, bouquets, belts, footwear and handbags that genius might devise.

Some of the smartest women are endorsing tunics over slim skirt foundations. See the tunic model to the left in the picture. Schiaparelli's new glingham silk taffeta is the fabric chosen for this tunic. It is worn with a red leather belt over a black silk crepe skirt.

Seen at the Belmont race track was the jacket dress centered in the illustration. It is styled of dotted silk crepe, white on gray (a very important color in this season). Fitted jacket, square shoulders with big sleeves, and a ruffled jabot on the dress are details that interpret high swank. The bag is white calf, the hat a black straw pillbox with red and chartreuse flowers.

The contrast jacket is a pet project with fashion these days. Note to the right in the illustration the stunning model. Here a black sheer silk dress is topped by a short swaggar jacket of white silk crash emblazoned with coin dots in jockey colors—maroon and blue. The hat is of white silk crash with extreme eye-shading brim which is inspired by a jockey's cap.

WHITE LINEN SUIT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The linen suit in natural or pure white is an important number on the style program for summer. The accent on suits has been most pronounced all spring and now enthusiasm for suits is continuing for summer—suits of linen particularly that are cool and comfortable as temperature rises. The classic white suit here pictured is of linen of superfine grade imported from Moygashel, Ireland. It is particularly smart for town wear when accompanied with dark accessories such as fashion decrees with white. Note the navy beret, the navy striped silk shirt, the navy gloves and bag. These identical accessories carried out in Dubonnet red are stunning.

A Fox Bracelet

For bracelets are next. Fox takes the lead and either bands the elbow or encircles the lower arm just above the wrist.

CIRCULAR LINES FOR NEXT AUTUMN

While most women are concentrating now on the purchase of their summer wardrobes those who are designers of fashionable clothes are concerned about next fall and winter's styles. They are considering the creations shown in recent Paris collections and thinking up ideas to produce something new in the way of silhouettes for the autumn.

The first inkling of the trend which has leaked out of the workrooms concerns the width of hemlines. Circular lines are said to be so well liked that every one of us will be wearing skirts that whirl around us like ballet costumes before many months have gone.

Camisoles and Petticoats Should Be in Vacation Bag

Every young woman's bag packed for vacation this summer will carry its supply of dainty camisoles and rustling petticoats. The favored ones are lace-trimmed. The camisoles are made with shoulder points front and back, and are edged with lace. Many have shoulder straps made of one row of insertion banded on each side with lace. Others are made of sturdy net with Val trimmings.

As for petticoats, some are the old-fashioned fine muslin with eyelid embroidery; others are of pastel taffeta, or plaid, or flowered taffeta, with rows and rows of narrow Val lace ruffles.

Swankiest Tailored Suits Are Boasting Lace Gilets

Many of the swankiest tailored suits boast lace gilets. They are dainty and soft and provide just the right background for a beautiful clip, brooch, or treasured strand of pearls. Some of the daintiest gilets have lace fronts and collars and net backs with elastic in the waistline. Others are backless; others are really all-over lace blouses with short sleeves. Alencon, yards of val, or net are the favored materials. If you visit the smart neckwear departments or lace yardage departments you'll want a supply of gilets to provide variety for your stand-by suit.

Younger Women Like This Easy Laxative

There's no need to dread a laxative... dread its griping, nauseating, upsetting effect. Take Feen-a-mint, the delightful chewing gum laxative. As soon as you start to chew it, its stomach-settling mint brings a clean, fresh taste to the mouth. And Feen-a-mint acts gently. For as you chew out the laxative ingredient which is absolutely tasteless, the flow of digestive juices is increased. The laxative is mixed with them and carried into the system evenly. It passes through the stomach without upset and into the bowels scientifically, so that your action is wonderfully easy and thorough. Try the pleasant, refreshing Feen-a-mint way. Doctors prescribe its laxative ingredient for both children and adults. It is non-habit-forming. Sold on a money-back guarantee. Generous family size package 15c and 25c.

Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons

Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, leg pains, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nervous, feel all unwell and don't know what is wrong?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly for functional kidney disorder permits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. You can get the genuine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.
