Roy Kincaide, deputy sheriff of Roosevelt county was seriously and dangerously injured Monday night when his car in which he was driving in company with a brother-in-law of Dick Morrison overturned near Otton, Texas.

Kincaide was driving a Chevrolet coach, and in making a curve a few miles this side of Otton on the detour, a rear tire blew out, the car turning over several times.

Kincaide's companion was uninjured, other than a few scratches. The car top and fenders were bent up when the car turned over but not otherwise injured.

The Portales Motor Company was notified of the accident and the manager, Add Hobbs, accompanied by Fred Maxwell, drove over and accompanied the wrecker.

Hobbs and Maxwell brought Kincaide back to Portales where surgical aid was administered by Dr. Brasell where it was learned that the victim was suffering a dislocation of two places in his neck. The car was driven back under its own power.

Wednesday afternoon reports from Kincaide were that he passed a restless night and was suffering intense pain. His condition is considered serious.

Kincaide is serving as deputy sheriff under Sheriff Bond, and is one of the popular deputies of this county, having assisted in the arrest of several desperadoes.

Rams to Invade Hereford Friday

The Portales high school Rams will play the opening game of the 1934 season tomorrow afternoon at Hereford. Coach Brown plans to take a large squad of players.

The local gridsters plan to avenge the defeat of last year when the Hereford team came to Portales and whipped the Rams 26-0 in a run-away game.

Although Brown started the season with only five letter men out for the team he has developed what looks like might be a good team. Several faculty members and business men drove the Rams to Clovis last Friday afternoon to the Clovis-Hobbs game in which Clovis defeated their opponents 52-0.

Floyd Raymond, who is attending Texas Tech was in Portales the first of the week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Raymond.

1500 Gallon Well Developed at The CCC Camp

A 1500-gallon well has been developed at the CCC camp for the supplying of water for the lake. This well is cased with 15 and one-half inch casing and a 12-inch Touraine pump has been installed. A 60 horse power motor will be used for pumping.

To retain the camp a well of 500 gallons was required, and much difficulty was experienced in the drilling on account of quicksand. However, the well was completed in the third strata, and has been tested out. This insures water supply for the big lake at the park.

Mrs. A. R. Hunt of Laredo, Texas came in Wednesday afternoon for a visit to her sister, Mrs. E. C. Luna. Mr. Hunt has charge of the Penney store at Laredo, Texas.

"Old Grey Mare" Applauded at Fair

The 35-piece Portales band, marching down Polk street, playing "The Old Gray Mare" was one of the features of the New Mexico Day at the Tri-State fair at Amarillo last Friday.

The colorful Portales delegation headed by the band, Coe Howard and Bert Rawlins, was an outstanding example of the New Mexico delegation.

Donald W. MacKay, president of the Eastern New Mexico Junior College, made a short broadcast. He told a few facts about Portales and the college. Harry F. Taylor, head of the music department sang a song.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Lellie Mae Harris.

Carl Turner was in charge of the New Mexico exhibit. He was assisted by Mr. R. A. Young and some of the vocational agriculture boys of Portales high school.

Coe Howard headed races. He was garbed in cowboy regalia of boots and ten-gallon hat.

The New Mexico day at the fair was the best one in record. There were more people in attendance at the fair than any other day. Governor Hickenhull and many other New Mexico celebrities were prominent at the fair.

Racers Will Play
First Game Here on Saturday Morning.

The Eastern New Mexico Junior College football squad will be known as the Greyhounds. It was decided after a heated discussion by students in an assembly held in the basement of the Methodist church Tuesday morning. The school colors are to be silver and green. The school paper will be named "The Chase."

President Donald W. MacKay opened the assembly and made a few announcements. Harry F. Taylor led the entire group in singing "Fair New Mexico," accompanied at the piano by Miss Kathryn Mondell.

The meeting was then turned over to Francis Deidoso, who opened the discussion on the emblem and the school colors. After a heated argument by students of the college he brought the matter to a vote. Therman Harris brought up the matter of the name for the college paper. After a few talks it was taken to a vote.

Jack Gracie of Raton gave a saxophone solo. He was accompanied by Miss Mondell.

Mr. Taylor made an announcement regarding the concert to be held Thursday night. A famous violinist will be in Portales on that date.

Coach "Tiny" Reed of the newly named Greyhounds made announcements about the coming football games. The Greyhounds will play a practice game here Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with the CCC camp eleven. They will formally open college football in Portales on October 6, when the A. & M. freshmen invade here.

Students led the assembly in a yell and the school song was sung. President MacKay made a pep talk and dismissed the assembly.

COLLEGE TEAM PLAYS FIRST GAME

Meet CCC Team in Practice Game Saturday

Local fans will have a chance to see the Eastern New Mexico Junior College football team in action on the Portales high school gridiron next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock when they meet the CCC boys in a practice game.

Coach "Tiny" Reed of the Junior College said this game would be unimportant and that he would try every man who came out for the team.

Monday's practice showed an indication of football form for the collegiates. There were 44 men who are turning out regularly for practice. Several of the men out for practice are high school stars of other days. Carol McCasland was a new man out Monday. McCasland formerly played on the Lubbock high school championship team.

The college team are centering all activity on the opening game to be played here on October 6, with the A. & M. freshmen. October 6 is dedication day at the Junior college.

Friday, October 5 has been designated as Portales day at the Eastern New Mexico State Fair at Roswell.

Plans are being made to take the school band and a large delegation from here on that day. This day will be of special interest as it is also Old Settlers day, and the old timers will stage a colorful parade.

Portales and Roosevelt county will have a display at the fair under the supervision of Carl Turner.

REV. J. T. REDMON'S CONDITION SERIOUS

He is now in the Southern Methodist hospital at Tucson in a very critical condition, and there is the possibility that the foot will have to be amputated.

Free Library In Masonic Building

The Roosevelt County Free Library is now housed in the Masonic Building, room 203 on Liberty street.

The Library board expresses thanks to the Masonic home board for this privilege and also to Mayor Bryant for the use of his building for the last four months.

The Junior College, with Mr. Brough as representative, extended to the library board the service of an additional librarian through the FEPA, whose hours are from 4:00 to 5:00 on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the afternoon and 10 to 11 Saturday morning.

Miss Betty Van Dembort, a student in Junior College filling this office.

This is greatly appreciated and will enable the public to have easier access to the library, especially the rural patrons.

The present librarians and board give their time free to this work and books are free for two weeks, except a few new ones for rental.

TO PRESENT ARTIST TO PORTALES FOLK

Christian Thaulow to Appear in Concert
This Evening.

NOTED VIOLINIST

Son of Famous Fritz
Thaulow, Renowned Norwegian Artist.

Christian Thaulow, one of the outstanding violinists in the world today, will be presented this evening in the auditorium of the First Methodist church, under the auspices of the Eastern New Mexico Junior College. This is one of a series of concerts to be sponsored by the college during the year.

Thaulow has been classed by Leopold Auer, the eminent teacher, with Jascha Heifetz, Micha Elman and Toscha Seidel. He was born in Paris in 1895 of Norwegian parents. He started the study of the violin at the age of five. He showed so much talent that the following year his father, the renowned artist Fritz Thaulow gave him the famous Stradivarius he now uses in concert work.

Thaulow has studied with eminent teachers in Europe such as Ysaye, Vincent d'Indy and Leopold Auer. During the world war Thaulow, being a lieutenant in the King's guard of Norway, could not join the allied armies, whereupon he decided to give cheer to the boys in the trenches by playing for them at the front. In appreciation of this he was decorated with the Reconnaissance Francaise by the French government.

Mr. Thaulow is at present director of the Amarillo Philharmonic orchestra. Before coming to Amarillo he was for several years director of the school of violin at Simmons University Conservatory of music.

Hjalmar Bergh is a graduate of the Minneapolis School of Music. He has been accompanist and coach in New York. Before coming to Amarillo Junior college last year he was for five years director of piano and theory at McMurry college, Abilene. He is a thorough musician of marked ability and talent.

The concert will be presented at the Methodist church auditorium

Get Ready for Business

Portales is in for an increase in business. A great development is coming to Roosevelt county within the next few months, and it is up to the city to get ready to handle this increase in business.

Before snow flies there will be many oil scouts and prospectors in the county, and indications are that Roosevelt county is in for a real oil play within the next 12 months.

This means much business for Portales. But at this time the housing situation is serious; there is a growing demand for houses and apartments. The opening of the Junior College has exhausted the supply of rooms and apartments in Portales, and applicants are turned away daily. More and better hotel accommodations will be needed. In fact the city of Portales will have to get up on her toes to meet the situation, and when she does it will mean more business for everyone.

Do Not Let Politics Overshadow Community Interests

From now to the election in November, politics will be the topic of the day. Politics is important, but community interests are of more importance.

Do not let politics overshadow the community interests, and delay the development of Roosevelt county. There are many things of vast importance to the city of Portales and Roosevelt county as a whole, and these matters should not be overlooked during the political campaign.

In fact by bringing the needs of the city and county to the attention of the various candidates, this development can be hastened.

Cover Forests

Cover forests have proven successful in many sections, not only of the United States, but in foreign countries as well. The plan of President Roosevelt to plant a forest 1000 miles long by 100 miles wide, required the brains of a man with a vision. Such a forest extending along the eastern border of New Mexico would prove of untold value to the farmers of West Texas. In addition to providing a wind break, it would conserve moisture on the semi-arid plains, and as a result crops would prove more productive.

Eastern New Mexico should get together with the people of Amarillo, Lubbock, Plainview and other West Texas towns that this may be accomplished. Then it is for Curry and Roosevelt county to get together and work for a supplementary forest to be planted across Roosevelt county in the Black Water draw, to provide a windbreak for Roosevelt and Curry counties.

Such a forest as this would prove of untold value to the farmers of Curry county, as it would break the force of the prevailing winds from the southwest, and for Roosevelt county as it would provide a frost shelter to the south.

Senator Hatch expressed himself in favor of this move, and by striking while the iron is hot, there is no reason why such a forest may not be designated by the forestry department.

Become College Minded

Every citizen of Roosevelt county should become college minded. The Eastern New Mexico Junior College opened with a great enrollment that has proven the great need of this college on the eastern side of the state. The college is attracting many citizens to the valley, who desire good living conditions and a good school town.

Citizens so attracted are of the class that are city builders, and should be encouraged. The Junior College is the biggest thing that has come this way and everyone should become college minded and back this college to the limit.

Morals in the Business World

Morals and ethics, say some smart business folks, are something you hear about Sunday, but you have to forget about them Monday. "All right in the pulpit, of course, but they don't apply when you are buying and selling."

Many men say that if they paid strict attention to the rules of honesty, they would have to quit business. Some claim it is impossible to succeed in this world, if you tell the whole truth and deceive no one.

"I should lose orders, if I did not sometimes hand a rake-off to the buyer," salesmen have been known to say.

Possibly a firm or an individual can win a temporary success by these excessively clever methods. But one should not be too confident that such success will last. The merchant who sells you inferior stuff for a good price, without making it clear that it is inferior, often makes money for a time. But some day his customers wake up to the fact that they are being buncoed. Gradually they disappear, and patronize old-fashioned concerns that are more anxious to please their customers than to get rich all at once.

Similarly the salesman who depends on rake-offs and hand-outs, may be known as a tremendous go-getter, for a time. But the concerns that permit their buyers to accept such tips, will probably get loaded up with a lot of inferior stuff. The accounts sold to such houses do not appear to be too good a risk. A trade built up of honest sales, to buyers whose only concern is to get reliable goods at the best possible price, will last longer. Our guess is that when you find a concern that has a substantial business that lasted through the recent hard times, it paid some attention to morals and ethics on days other than Sunday. That's the kind of business we do in Milford and most of Delaware. —Chronicle, Milford, Del.

Need Spirit of Pioneers

The government has been pouring out relief funds for two years. There has been an emergency and it was imperative that relief be given millions of people. In this land of plenty no one should go hungry, nor be cold for lack of clothes.

But the public relief has been abused, and it is high time men and women for their own future welfare take stock of their situation. We do not want to have our people become improvident and shiftless dependents.

Relief workers report that it is difficult or even impossible to induce some persons who are asking for public relief to go to the exertion of planting a garden or canning vegetables or fruits. Men have been hired to grow community gardens, and women are to be paid for their services in canning the vegetables from these gardens. The canned goods will then be given to the people who are in need of food next winter. The garden and canning projects are commendable enterprises. There are families in this county where the mother in the household is ill and who has not the strength or the equipment with which to can the vegetables. She and her family must be given food that has been prepared for them.

But according to reports there are men and women who have the physical strength to plant and care for gardens and the produce from them who simply neglect to do so thru shiftlessness. These people will have to be fed; they cannot be allowed to starve, but the brunt of public opinion should bear down heavily on them. It is disgraceful for a person to ask for public charity or to take feed and supplies from public relief agencies who does not actually need them.

The greatest recovery program that could be launched in this country would be to arouse the latent spark of pride in self-support. It is demoralizing to have thousands of people in this state maintained by public charity. We need more of the spirit of the pioneers.—Union, Princeton, Minn.

ODD THINGS AND NEW—By Lane Bode

PUBLIC FORUM

A PUBLIC STATEMENT

Having been informed that I have been placed on the Socialist ticket for county school superintendent, at their convention in Portales, September 15, and not knowing the officers of the party in this county, if they have any, I take this method of trying to explain my position in the matter, if our two county papers will allow me the space.

There is no reason why the Socialists of Roosevelt county shouldn't place a life-long democrat on their ticket when the democrats of California nominated a life-long socialist for governor!

But there are several reasons why I cannot accept the proffered honor.

In the first place, I am in no position to accept a place on any party's ticket. I am financially unable to make a decent campaign.

Then too, I have never been an office seeker, having always felt that my role of political service, if I have any, was in the capacity of critic.

And right here I wish to digress to say that I suspect that my frequent criticism of the leaders of both the major parties has led some to think I am a socialist. The state platform of both parties have always been pretty much the same kind of twaddle, the out pointing to the atrocious outrages of the ins (and each telling the truth), and neither offering a platform with specific objectives that would modernize our chaotic state government. The only issue I have been able to see between them has been the pie counter—and the creation of more and more jobs.

I criticize the leaders of my own party more than I do others for the same reason that I criticize my own children more than I do others—I want them to be right. But I have just about despaired of hope, and am ready to line up with a real progressive independent party of any appropriate name; but I am not going to assume the name of Republican for the misnomer of "Progressive."

In the second place, while I have carefully studied every socialist national platform since 1893, when they endorsed the "Peerless Leader," the democratic candidate for president, and while I approve many of their demands, some of which have since been adopted and enacted into law by one or the other of the old parties, I do not know enough about Marx's philosophy of government (tho I have given a lot of study to it) nor about what is required of the members of the party to be sure that I could qualify.

I feel very much like the old dorky expressed himself when the white man tried to borrow ten dollars from him:

"Bos, I ain't seen ten dollars in ten years, but I sho do thank you for de compliment!"

COMMON INTEREST

It was with interest that The News editor reviewed the history of the University of New Mexico in the Lobo, university paper, this week.

This review is hereby reproduced so that those who have any doubt as to the success of the Eastern New Mexico Junior College may see what difficulties the great university of New Mexico went thru in its earlier years.

In 1907 the University of New Mexico had only 29 college students. The first week of the Eastern New Mexico Junior College shows around 225 college students, a rare start for this husky youngster.

The university is filling a great need in this state and is an institution of which the state may well be proud of.

The Eastern New Mexico Junior College is also filling a great need and is providing the means of many young men and women in securing a higher education that they would not have had had this school not have been established. The News trusts that the University of New Mexico will prove a big brother to the Junior College and that they may fight together for each other, instead of fighting each other; that greater things may be accomplished in the educational lines in this state.

Provided for by congress 45 years ago, it struggled for 18 years before attaining the standing of a college. Since that time its growth has been steady and sure, building and moulding character for the benefit of future generations.

Its younger brother has had a more fortunate start in life and is becoming a husky youngster, building and moulding character, becoming a feeder for the university that they both may serve more people and give New Mexico a greater service.

It will be of great interest to watch the growth of these institutions for the next 27 years.

The article follows:
Dr. John D. Clark, senior member of the university faculty, spoke to the freshmen Friday morning in the assembly on the "History of the University of New Mexico."

Dr. Clark, who has been an instructor on this campus for 27 years, has watched this campus grow since 1907, and is reputed to know more about the history and traditions of this campus than any other person.

The following contains some of the most interesting points of Dr. Clark's talk:

On February 28, 1890, Congress set aside 46,000 acres of land in the territory of New Mexico, for a university for that territory. There were three very important words in the bill to establish this school—the location of the school must be "high and dry"—therefore, our campus was placed above the city on now what is called "the hill." At that time, it seemed as far from downtown central to the campus, as it now seems from Albuquerque to Santa Fe. The road which led to the campus, was so hilly and in such a bad condition that the few people who owned automobiles abandoned the car in favor of the horse when coming to the university.

As the common school law was not passed until two years after the bill which established the university, there was practically no one ready for a higher education—to say nothing of high school. So, at the beginning, the university was nothing but a high school and some work of sub-high school character.

E. S. Stover, former governor of New Mexico, was the first president of this university and began his term of office in 1891. The university at that time consisted of one building.

The first class graduated in 1894—five students received their degree of Bachelor of Pedagogy. Three years later, the alumnae association was formed, and has been in existence since that time.

During the presidency of Dr. C. L. Herrick in 1899, the University had 89 preparatory students, four in college and five graduates.

At the 1904 graduation, caps and gowns were worn for the first time. And in 1907, the commencement exercises were held under the same trees that our present day graduation is held.

When Dr. Clark arrived on our campus in 1907, it had grown to the large enrollment of 29 college students. Buildings had been erected, which consisted of an administration building, the dining hall (the present music building) two small dormitories, and a wooden gym, which was built for only $480.00. The Albuquerque high school was the big athletic rival, and often times was victor in their contests.

OUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

A Code for Child Health

While the industrial codes we read about may come and go, be popular or unpopular, a code for child health will always be a requisite of successful parenthood. Let us review the elements out of which such a code should be made.

I believe most parents would list first: the quart of milk daily, taken in different forms; two or more vegetables, with at least one the green leafy variety daily; some fresh fruit; meat, fish and eggs; and bread and butter.

The amount of sleep is important; restful, quiet sleep. The young child should have an afternoon rest in addition. Fresh air and sunshine must be in the health budget in liberal allotments. And the diminished sunshine of winter calls for one of the fish liver oils as a regular item in the code.

Be sure that the child's right to playtime is honored. Let nothing interfere with this natural heritage. Permit some time every day when the child may do as he pleases. Consider seriously the annual health examination by your family physician and dentist. Insure against smallpox and diphtheria. There are the routine daily health habits such as cleanliness and elimination to be added to the code. Finally do everything possible to bring happiness to the child and to make him feel secure and safe. Give him companionship; laugh with him; encourage his confidences.

Next week Dr. Ireland will write about Health Protection.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Conducted by Dr. J. R. Eary
Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health.

SPEAK OUT MAN!

"I do not sign my name here because I do not care to be a witness in the case." So runs a letter addressed to one of my colleagues in the State Medical Association. He asserts that a certain unlicensed healer is pretending to cure sickness and to be a doctor and is robbing people both of their money and of their chance to get proper medical advice.

There are such people. Sometimes a public spirited district attorney will prosecute one of them. For the defense it is said that this person gives his services for the sake of humanity, that he collects no fees but sometimes has accepted a free will offering. There will be plenty of his customers who know not the difference between post-hoc and proper hoc and who will swear that they have received benefit. And when the district attorney calls for witnesses from among those who know that they have been defrauded there will be very few answering voices. Too many will not care to be called as witnesses.

One of the conditions of successful democracy is that there shall be in the hearts of the people governed a desire for social righteousness that is greater than the desire for personal gain or for personal safety.

Phi Kappa Alpha Estufa.
In 1908, the university sold some of its timber land—and then was able to remodel the main building into a Pueblo style of architecture, and to build Rodey hall. This was the beginning of the "going Indian" on our campus.

A trolley line was finally extended as far east as Edith street. This was made possible by generous contributions made by the faculty.

When the students learned that Dr. Clark had been a manager of a football team in the east—he was promptly put on the athletic council. He introduced some eastern athletic ideas into the campus—and it was Dr. Clark that arranged for the first football game to be played between the University of New Mexico and the University of Arizona. For a couple of months the university had a real coach, who brought in the finest team of ringers we have ever had—but unfortunately the University of Arizona got some better ringers from the copper mines.

The first summer session was held in 1912, under the guidance of Dean Clark.

Dr. Lynn B. Mitchell, now second oldest member of the university faculty in service, arrived here in 1912. Dr. Clark and Dr. Mitchell planned the first intrascholastic track meet which took place between Santa Fe and Albuquerque. During 1916 the university received its first recognition and was admitted to the Rocky Mountain conference.

Also, during 1916, the Santa Fe railroad and a street car line was brought to Albuquerque. The road to the university was in such condition that one of the professors kept a shoe brush hidden in a bush down near the present Santa Fe hospital, so that he could keep presentable looking.

Dr. Clark during his first ten years of service saw an increase of 1000 percent in enrollment.

During 1919, all preparatory work was stopped and the university secured the North Central association rating. Last year, the university was fully accredited by the American Association of Universities, due to the intensive work of President J. F. Zimmerman. This recognition by the A. A. U. means that the work in the University of New Mexico is on par rating with the best institutions of the United States.

Some of the old social traditions of this campus which are of particular interest are picnic at Bear canyon, during which school was closed; most of the trees on campus were planted by the students on Arbor days; a large banquet which was open to all was given on Washington's birthday; the reception of new students was started 30 years ago, and still continues; the annual Christmas party and the Engineers' St. Patrick celebrations, both are 14 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyre Beal and son John, who live 20 miles south of Elida were in town yesterday Mr. Beal was here on corn-hog business.

Bill Nelson left Tuesday for Canyon to enter W. T. S. T. C. where he will be a senior.

Rev. C. A. Loris was a visitor at the Clevis hospital Monday afternoon.

Wheat Acres
May be Planted
To Forage Crops

An administrative ruling designed to continue encouragement to cooperating wheat farmers to use their contracted acreage for the production of forage crops in 1935 was announced by the AAA. Much of this land, which totaled approximately 7,500,000 acres, went into drouth resistant forage crops this year as a result of the AAA program.

This decision supplements the recent announcement authorizing an increase in 1935 wheat plantings of cooperating wheat farmers up to 90 percent of the three-year base acreage of the wheat program. The 1935 wheat program is expected to produce, under average growing conditions and allowing for normal abandonment, approximately 775 million bushels of wheat for harvest in 1935. By continuing encouragement to plant the contracted acreage to forage crops, administration officials expect to furnish that much additional insurance against livestock feed shortages if there is a drouth next year, and to provide a reserve if weather conditions are favorable.

The ruling, which virtually completes the outline for the 1935 wheat program, is the first announcement of the administration's policy in handling land held out of basic crop production this year. Specifically, the ruling provides that contracted acreage:

1. May be seeded to any grass or legume such as timothy, alfalfa, lespedeza, clover, etc., and these grass crops may be used for hay, pasture or seed production.
2. May be planted to emergency forage crops such as millet, soybeans, barley, oats, etc., when crops are used only for hay, pasture, or roughage, and are not grown for seed or allowed to reach maturity.
3. May be summer fallowed, planted to forest trees, or left unplanted, if such action will not cause serious damage from soil erosion and provided that noxious weeds are controlled.
4. May not be used for planting of the basic commodities listed under the AAA. These are: wheat, corn, barley, grain sorghums, flax, rye, cotton, tobacco, rice, sugar beets, sugar cane, and peanuts. Neither may this acreage be used for the production for sale of any special crops such as truck crops, potatoes, or small fruits. Small grains, however, may be used as a nurse or companion crop, provided they are pastured or harvested before maturity.

Special Permit
Enable Hunters
to 'Get' Antelope

SANTA FE, Sept. 26.—Antelope hunting enthusiasts, through a special permit season, will be enabled to again try their luck this year, according to a recent statement by State Game Warden Elliott S. Barker.

The season will be from October 1 to 5 inclusive. Hunters must have, in addition to the regular big game hunting license, a special antelope permit which will cost $5. One hundred and fifty of these permits will be issued. Warden Barker states that applications for these permits will be received in his office up to September 20. Applications must be accompanied by a remittance of $5. Should more than 150 applications be received, permittees will be determined by a drawing.

The area to be open for hunting is much the same as last year, being the San Augustine plains country between Magdalena and Beaverhead. To prevent congestion in some parts of the area, hunters will be assigned to certain localities when they check in at Magdalena. The antelope in this section are in normal condition, and feed is now very good. One back, with forked horns, is to be allowed each hunter. The object of this open season," states Warden Barker, "is to remove a surplus of old bucks from the herds; thereby tending to improve the quality and vigor of our antelope."

ODD FELLOWS TREATED TO BIG BARBECUE ON TUESDAY

Through the courtesy and hospitality of one of the new members of the I. O. O. F. of Portales lodge No. 17, the Odd Fellows, Rebecca and immediate friends were treated at an old time barbecue which carried with it black coffee, and many other delicious eats, that took on the appearance of days long ago when Mr. Wood, wife and family and the history of New Mexico was young.

It has long been the custom of Portales lodge to have frequent entertainment and barbecues provided by the Rebecca, which has contributed largely to Portales lodge being one of the strongest in the state, and having the honor now of having the Grand Master, C. O. Pendley, and which has assisted in providing many happy occasions for its members and particularly in honor of its new members.

But on this occasion through the interest in the principals of Odd Fellowship and devotion to the cause and friends, Mr. Wood suggested that at the next regular meeting that he furnish some fat beefs, and put on an old time barbecue where some of the real worthwhile and true principals of Odd Fellowship might be known felt and expressed without signs or symbols; so about 7:30 on the evening of September 25, 1934, about 100 cars assembled at the Odd Fellow hall in Portales, and conveyed some two or three hundred Odd Fellows, Rebecca and close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wood and family to the old ranch home where Uncle Bob Wood had settled with his family as one of the earliest settlers in the territory of New Mexico, and upon arrival, it was found that Mr. Wood had enlisted the services of F. T. Burke, an experienced barbecue man, who had prepared some of the finest barbecue that was ever served upon any occasion, and the ladies brought all of the necessary trimmings to make it a perfect feast, and after the dinner was over, C. M. Compton, Jr., was requested to be toast master, and have an informal program, and in short order, a large bon fire was built and the crowd assembled around the fire, and the program started off and was led by Uncle Bob Wood, joined by the crowd in an old time cowboy yell, that would have really brought music to the ears of any old time round up, or moving herds to Kansas City, or other market points in an early day.

At this barbecue, various lodges in the county were represented, and also Clovis was represented by

Darrow Speaker at Crop Assn. Meet, Roswell

The New Mexico Crop Improvement Association, at its seventh annual meeting, which will be held at Roswell October 3, at the same time as the Eastern New Mexico State fair, will have as one of its principal speakers Mr. W. H. Darrow, southwestern representative of the AAA, from Washington, D. C.

Mr. Darrow will talk to the seed growers and others on "The Meaning of the AAA and Its Effect on Future Cropping Practices."

Mr. Darrow is on a trip through the southwest, meeting and helping local committees in the different counties with their AAA problems.

It is expected that a large number of interested farmers and business men from the Pecos Valley and adjoining counties will come to this meeting to get a better understanding of the workings and possibilities of the AAA within their particular communities.

The subject of Mr. Darrow's talk has a direct bearing on the seed grower and every farmer. The business men of New Mexico are also vitally interested in knowing what may be expected from their farmer customers for the next few years.

It is not the purpose of those in the lead to allow the program to drop immediately but to make it of permanent value and prevent a smaller agricultural crisis in future years.

Mr. Darrow is anxious to discuss these problems with the many community leaders and citizens as possible now, so that they may live at a better understanding of the long time influence of the adjustment program on their farming and business enterprises.

The retirement of Dr. William Holland Wilmer by Johns Hopkins university has furnished the metropolitan press with an interesting subject for debate. The question at issue seems to be: Was the university justified in thus retiring the ablest eye clinician in America? Dr. Wilmer was born August 23, 1863, which would indicate that a man should be retired at seventy regardless of his mental or physical fitness. Doubtless retirement affords relief from detail duties and routine work incident to a professional career. The question still arises, however, should one be retired from active service when there still remains the unquestionably efficient service of many future years? Or, to put it in another way, should the public be deprived of professional service at just the age when experience would make that service all the more valuable? In other words, just when should an old man stop work?

Let us remember that much of the finest work in art and literature as well as in medicine has been accomplished by those who labored most effectively far beyond the age of seventy. Some business concerns have a rule that a man must stop work at sixty-five, others at seventy. The reason advanced is that room must be made for the younger men. Other business concerns refuse to employ a man who is over forty. A writer, a member of a certain firm was thus retired and went to England, where he established a rival business, which proved a great financial success. The better part of wisdom would have been for that American firm to have kept that man on its payroll.

Is it not true that no organization is competent to say just when a man should stop work? Does it not depend entirely upon the man himself? Some men are old at forty, others young at seventy. Should not efficiency decide the issue? A man without a job is not only unhappy, he is miserable. Many a man has "passed out" shortly after relinquishing active work.

The man, himself, however, is not the only one concerned. Public health demands the best judgment that experience can afford. In business the wisdom of those who have successfully weathered the storm is far more valuable than the opinion of the young man just about to set his sails aloft. In literature and art we want more of that "better self" which Michelangelo gave to the world at eighty. What shall be done with the old man? Would it not be better if we would let him decide for himself, provided he is still mentally and physically fit?

Entries Already Received For Rodeo Events

ROSWELL, N. M., Sept. 26.—Entries from all over the southwest have already been received for the rodeo to be held each afternoon of the Eastern New Mexico State fair at Roswell October 3, 4, 5, and 6. Contestants are limited to amateurs and the thousands of visitors are assured of a snappy show, with every event being hotly contested. Johnny Mullins, experienced rodeo director, has assured the fair management that the show will keep moving, and that there will be no waits, and that every minute of the two hours will provide a laugh or a thrill.

During the last week entries in the big opening parade on Wednesday morning have been coming in rapidly. There will be more and better floats than in past years, and the lady on the winning float will be declared queen of the fair. Gov. A. W. Hockenhull, Senators Cutting and Hatch and Congressman Chavez will also be honored guests on the first day of the fair and ride in the parade.

Word received from many of the counties indicate an unusually heavy entry of agricultural products in the classified section and of articles from women in the domestic arts department. Every farmer in Eastern New Mexico has been urged to try to make at least one entry of crops. The livestock department will present one of the best Hereford shows ever seen in the state.

There will be amusements galore both during the day and each evening at the grounds.

The Old Timers committee is making plans for a gala day on Friday for all these who have lived in New Mexico 30 years or longer. In addition to the morning parade of and by the old timers, they will be guests at a barbecue at noon.

Eulogy Goes To Press For Success Of Fair

AMARILLO, Texas, September 26.—"The outstanding success of the 1934 Tri-State fair, one of the greatest from every standpoint in the fair's history, is a great tribute to the efficiency and economy of newspaper advertising and publicity," said Wilbur C. Hawk, president of the exposition, at its close here.

"Sixty newspapers in the great Tri-State territory each carried newspaper advertising for several weeks on the fair with exceptionally satisfying results."

Mr. Hawk declares that this year such forms of advertising as tire covers, window cards, orad signs and expensive items were eliminated from the fair budget and the entire advertising expenditure placed with the newspapers of this territory. The result was an attendance much greater than even during the prosperous years and a generally improved interest in the fair.

"This is another striking example of the results to be expected from newspaper advertising and I deeply appreciate the part played by the newspapers of this area in making the 1934 fair so outstanding an event, especially from the standpoint of attendance from such a large territory," said Mr. Hawk.

Serious Shortage Of Range Grass

There is still a serious shortage of grass on the ranges of Roosevelt county. The rains of two weeks ago started the grass, but cool weather has retarded its growth, and farmers and cattlemen are complaining that more rain is needed.

Should frost come about the 15th of October, grass will not have started sufficient to provide winter pasture, and many are planning the planting of rye, barley or wheat for winter pasture.

Late crops are slow in maturing, owing to the cool weather of the last two weeks, and indications are that there will be a shortage of feed over a greater portion of the county.

TWINS ARE BORN

Twin babies were born at Adams Diggings, New Mexico, to Mr. and Mrs. George Burns, a girl weighing five pounds named Alta Joy and a seven pound boy, named Alton Joe and they are friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Green of Center and Mrs. J. S. Green drove over to Lubbock Saturday to take Truman Green to Tech. Truman is student assistant at the college this year.

Early Payments on Production Loans

Of the money borrowed by farmers from production credit associations this year, over $6,300,000 was repaid before September 1, according to a statement today, (Sept. 17) by C. R. Arnold, deputy production credit commissioner of the Farm Credit administration.

"The largest part of the loans of the associations," Mr. Arnold said, "were made this spring with maturities of a year or less, and are not yet due; but favorable marketing conditions in many sections are encouraging farmers to make repayments from the earliest sale of cash crops; and they will save considerable on interest by doing so."

Up to September 1, over $55,000,000 had been loaned to farmers this year by production credit association, not including commitments of $15,000,000; and $6,368,000 repaid, or more than 11 percent.

Mrs. Ellis Sprinkle and daughter Ruth have moved to Portales for the winter from McAllister, N. M. They are located on South Second street. Ruth is attending the Junior college.

The Hiway 4-H club met at the school house Saturday to plan the achievement program for Saturday, September 29. The sewing was judged and five demonstrations were given.

The third year sewing girls put on the costume they made in 4-H club work this year and Mrs. Willson took each girl's picture. Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Westfall and daughter were present, as they judged the sewing.

We are expecting a big day Saturday and every member is urged to be present.

Mrs. Billy Ohnson and Mrs. Geo. Hicks of Clovis spent Sunday with Mrs. J. C. Hicks.

THE CUBBING PROGRAM

A home-centered program of things to do, entirely different from Scouting and graduating in to it.

Stressing large meetings less and between-meetings more; based on natural neighborhood settings, leaders, and play groups; concerned about stimulating creative doing and crafts; encouraging boy hobbies and natural learning; involving a health check-up of each cub; its infrequent outings by the family; a joy-increasing game in which Dad shares.

Home Centered Program

Cubbing is not a scheme which calls boys away from home, rather, it is a program of natural things to be done in and around the home. It pulls toward the home. Cubbing offers activities which center in the neighborhood and are aimed at the boy's own free time. Home and the "boy gang" are the two greatest influences of character, hence cubbing is centered there; in scouting a boy is brought, and properly so, from home to a central meeting and thence out to serve beyond the home circle; in cubbing the trend is reversed to permit the cub to grow to the full in his natural neighborhood setting until nature, with the onset of physiological changes in scout years, tends to push him out. The movement wants to do nothing to sever these determining home relations before nature's time. Do not take away from the home its functions, rather must we encourage it to perform them.

A Day-Time Program

Cubbing's activities are day-time activities except those that the boy may carry on at home in the early evening, alone, or with his dad or mother. Den meetings, both formal and informal, take place in the daylight hours. Pack meetings are also daytime meetings.

Boys and Their Dads

The operation of the cub program in and around the home at once involves the dad. The handicrafts, the stamp collection, the back-yard den, the infrequent outings—all these open the door to dad association. Probably two-thirds of our adult leaders in cubbing are fathers of cubs. This is the age for the dad who wants to have influence with his boy in the later teens, to start the "doing things together" which makes that later influence possible.

Boy Handicrafts

Boys of cub age love to make things. There's a reason for it—nature is perfecting the skill coordinations between hand and eye, for example, and calls therefore to hand work. Cubbing's handicraft is not to be formalized with making a blue print in advance, with every boy making the same thing, in the same way, the same size, at the same time. It is a program of "natural learning through exploration," encouraging each boy to exercise initiative and creative imagination, as desired, and is to be judged from a boy standard of results rather than from an adult standard of quality.

Some activities of the cubs are as follows: Secret codes, make-believe, other handicrafts, radio, electricity, model boats, air crafts, farm and home tools, things that go, simple machines, craft gifts, Indian crafts, music, drawing, reading, nature, animals and pets, garden, soils, bachelor cooking, camping, and know your city.

This is the second of three articles on the new cub movement for boys 9, 10 and 11 years old. There are now five cub packs in Eastern New Mexico, located at the following places: Clovis, Melrose, Hope, Vaughn, and Roswell. Any institutions desiring to include cubbing in its boys work program may secure information and cooperation from Ivan G. Bridges, Clovis, New Mexico, or from Boy Scout Headquarters, Roswell. The next and last article will tell how to start a cub pack.

Claudell Development Company Well Now Drilling 24 Hours a Day

A News reporter visited the Claudell Development company well on the T. A. Wilmes ranch, 32 miles southwest of Portales last Sunday. Work of setting the new 6-cylinder 200 horse power climax engine had been completed and the drilling was in full swing.

Drilling operations are under two towers, from noon to 12 o'clock at night when crews are changed and another 12-hour crew goes on. The massive steel derrick shines out for miles as one drives to the location, and in closer inspection it presents a sturdy structure well braced to stand the heavy work of deep drilling.

Every device is used for efficiency and safety to the workmen and it is interesting to see the speed with the heavy tools are handled.

Driving home, the party stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Wilmes, on whose ranch the well is being drilled, for lunch. Mr. and Mrs. Wilmes are old ranch neighbors of the News editor, and are as fine people as one could wish to meet.

They have two daughters who have grown to young ladies, courteous and attractive, and when Mrs. Wilmes was asked how she kept the young men away, replied "we have two dogs."

Casing crew ran a 400 foot string of 15 1/2-inch casing in 5 hours Tuesday afternoon, cementing same in place on the night tower.

The well is running over 100 feet higher, stratigraphically in correlation with all cut logs of previous wells in Portales area, with due allowance for regional elevations.

They expect to reach the top of rustler at around 1200 feet. Other wells in this neighborhood have found it at 1350 to 1450 feet.

This heavy string of casing is to act as anchor casing, being set in cement at bottom with casing clamps at top.

The casing weighs 70 pounds to the foot.

Within the next week or ten days the political battle will begin and the voters of the state will be bombarded with oratory.

November 6, the voters will have their inning and on going to the polls say who is their choice. Political forecasts are that this will be a democratic year again for New Mexico, and that the entire state ticket will be elected.

Both conventions have selected the best line up in years.

Martin Douglas, who formerly lived in Portales, arrived back in town Tuesday. Mr. Douglas has secured a position in the State Street Barber shop and will be glad to meet his friends there. Mrs. Douglas and daughter Margaret will arrive in Portales about October 15.

Must Maintain Rigid Standards Says O'Donnell

Certain standards must be maintained by householders who keep students from Eastern New Mexico Junior college, stated William O'Donnell, director of personnel at the college.

The college assumes the responsibility for the welfare of each student. The accrediting agencies require certain standards to be maintained for housing students.

A list of requirements for approved houses has been worked out and a meeting of householders will be held at an early date for the purpose of discussing these requirements, according to O'Donnell.

1. The hours in which students are due in their rooms will be determined after a meeting of householders and students. In the mean time reasonable supervision must be given each student.

2. A room must not be occupied by more than two students. Exceptions to this rule may be made only by special arrangement with the dean of women or dean of men. Beds in dining rooms, living rooms and kitchens prohibited.

3. Cooking in sleeping rooms is to be discouraged.

4. No house can be approved where more than eight people must use one bathroom.

5. Men, other than members of the family, may not room in houses where women students reside. Exceptions arranged for only thru the office of the dean of women.

6. No contract between students and householders should be signed before October 1.

7. Any change of students moving in or out must be reported to the dean of women or dean of men.

8. Office of the dean of women or dean of men should be notified two weeks in advance of householders intention to move.

9. Any illness of students of more than one day's duration must be reported to the office of the dean of women or the dean of men.

10. Houses must not be left over night without responsible persons in charge.

11. There should be sufficient light during the day and night for study purposes.
