IN MEXICO INCIDENT

Kidnapers Seek Ransom, Freedom For Prisoners

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — Police said today they had found an abandoned car at first believed to be the one used in the kidnaping of President Luis Echeverria's 83-year old father-in-law. But they said it was later determined not to be connected with the abduction.

The terrorist kidnaping Wednesday was a direct challenge to Echeverria, whose government since 1973 has refused to cooperate with political kidnapers.

"A thorough check of the vehicle and its registration shows that our first impression was incorrect," said Juan Jose Jasso, information officer for the State of Jalisco. He added, "up to this minute we have no clues."

The "Revolutionary Armed Front of the People" — the mysterious terrorists who kidnaped U.S. Consul General Terence Leonhardy here early last year — claimed responsibility for the kidnaping.

A Mexico City radio station said the guerrillas were demanding a $1.6 million ransom and the release of 100 political prisoners in return for the life of Jose Guadalupe Zuno Hernandez, father of Echeverria's wife Maria Esther.

Zuno, a political power in Mexico for half a century, was abducted Wednesday by four gunmen who forced his chauffeured car to the curb in a Guadalajara slum.

It was feared that the ailing and aged Zuno would not be able to long withstand the ordeal. Sources close to the family said he suffers from diabetes which has weakened his heart.

Despite his age and illness, police said, he "must have resisted. We found signs of a struggle in the back seat of the abandoned car."

Police said a rigorous search of Guadalajara, Mexico's second largest city, turned up the abandoned 1966 car Wednesday night whose description matched the one used in the Zuno abduction.

Troops threw roadblocks around the city while local and federal police systematically searched cars and houses.

Echeverria's government maintained official silence about the investigation into the kidnaping, which occurred four days before the president's scheduled annual report to Congress on Sunday.

A presidential spokesman said there will be no changes in the speech or ceremony and "the nation's work must go on."

The abduction posed a dramatic challenge to Echeverria and his policy of refusing to negotiate with terrorists, instituted after the Leonhardy abduction.

President Ford Leans Toward Nixon Pardon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford feels Richard Nixon has suffered enough from the Watergate scandal, and he thinks the country agrees. While making no commitment, Ford said he is reserving his right to pardon his predecessor should Nixon be prosecuted.

Ford also told his first White House news conference Wednesday that Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski "has an obligation" to take whatever legal action he deems warranted against Nixon or anyone else involved in Watergate.

A White House official said Ford was leaning toward a pardon for Nixon if his case should reach the President's desk.

Ford faced another busy schedule today, with presidential appointees, United Autos Workers President Leonard Woodcock and Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Omar Saqqaf.

Ford, outwardly calm and confident throughout the nationally televised news conference in the East Room of the White House, also said he totally has rejected wage and price controls to solve economic problems.

"Wage and price controls are out — period," he said. But officials said voluntary wage-price guidelines were under consideration.

Ford reiterated that the nation's number one problem was inflation. He promised budget cuts to hold federal spending below $300 billion in the fiscal year ending next June 30. He spoke of a $5.5 billion reduction in spending and said that "will convince people who might have some doubts that we mean business."

On other matters, Ford: — Repeated that he "probably" will be a candidate in 1976 and said he and vice-presidential nominee Nelson Rockefeller would make a "good team."

But Ford added that the ultimate decision would be left to the Republican National Convention.

— Hinted that U.S. policy of sanctions against Cuba could change "if Cuba changes its policy toward us and its Latin neighbors." But he said the United States "would certainly act in concert with other members of the Organization of American States." Several Latin American countries have broken the economic embargo on Cuba and resumed diplomatic relations with the Castro government.

In a friendly atmosphere, contrasting to the hostility evident in Nixon's last few news conferences, Ford fielded 27 questions in a half hour and appeared at ease.

He said he had asked for "prayers and guidance on this very important point" of possible immunity for Nixon, who selected Ford for vice president and then turned the White House over to him.

Responding to one question, Ford said he agreed with Rockefeller that Nixon had, figuratively speaking, been hanged and that the tone and mood of the country was against having the former president "drawn and quartered."

Until there is some legal action, Ford said, "I think it is unwise and untimely for me to make any legal commitment."

But he said his right of presidential pardon is a "proper option" and "I am not ruling it out."

Jaworski is said to be agonizing over whether to proceed against Nixon. The former president has hired a Washington lawyer, Herbert Miller, to represent him in any legal proceedings and has said Jaworski is giving him "trouble."

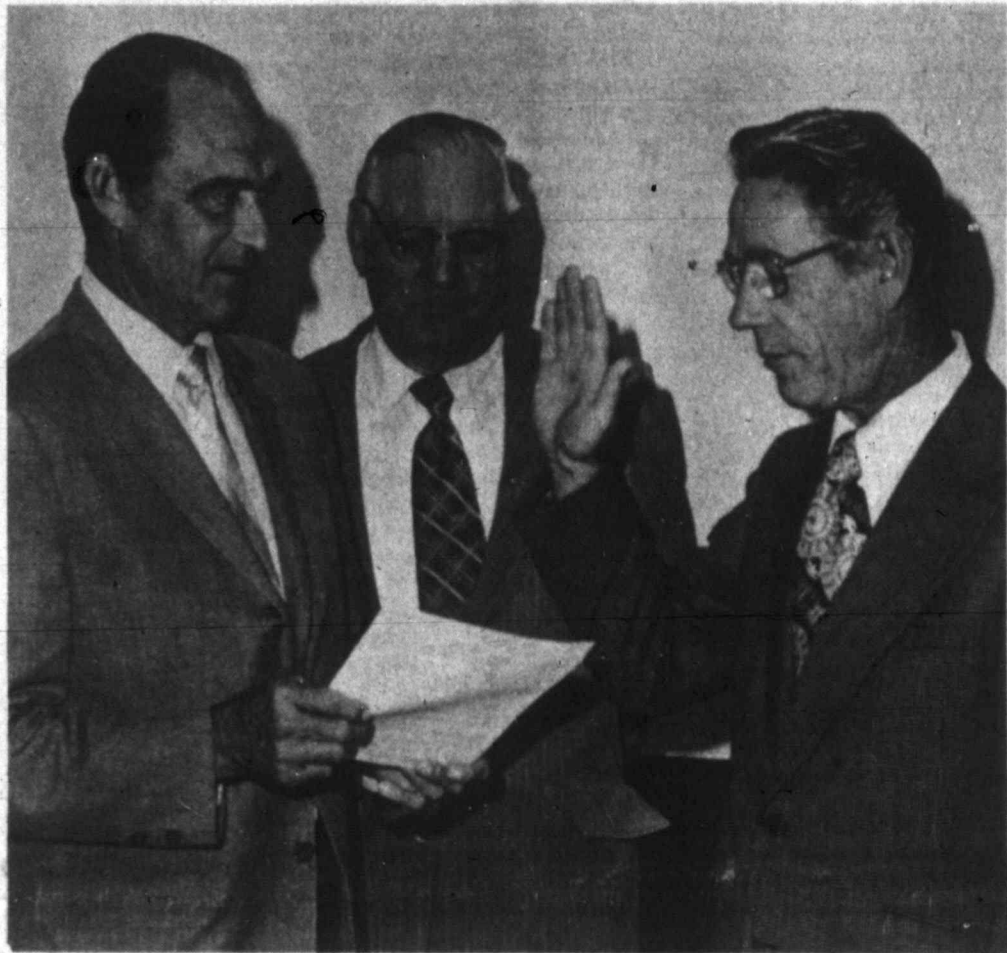

Ford said there would be no Watergate scandals in his administration because "there will be no one person nor any limited number of individuals who will make decisions. I will make the decisions and take the blame for them or whatever benefit might be the case."

"The code of ethics that will be followed will be the example I set," he added.

Ford also:

— Held out the possibility of a major public service employment program to help areas of high joblessness, saying that "we will approach this problem with compassion and action where there is a need for it."

— Gave no indication that he expected a significant slow down of inflation very quickly, advising wage earners to "watch every penny" and follow the federal government's example of belt tightening.

Arab Guerrillas Killed By Patrol

United Press International Israeli soldiers patrolling the southern Golan Heights ceasefire line shot two men suspected of being Arab guerrillas, the military command said today.

There were no shots fired at the Israeli troops, the command said.

The brief encounter came late Wednesday night at the southern end of the line near a deep ravine which separates the Syrian and Israeli troops.

The military command said they did not know if the two men shot by the Israelis were killed.

The communique said, "an Israel Defense Forces patrol established for the prevention of terrorist activities in the southern sector of the Golan Heights last night encountered a unit."

The communique did not make it clear if the men were a unit of Syrian soldiers patrolling their side of the line or a group of terrorists trying to cross into Israeli-held territory.

"It was too dark to see and we really don't know," a military spokesman said. "It was probably a group of several terrorists. It was a brief encounter and there was no pursuit."

Four guerrillas who killed three women at the Galilee settlement of Shamir June 13 had infiltrated the country through the Golan Heights, the command said.

Earlier, King Hussein of Jordan said he would allow the guerrilla-led Palestine Liberation Organization to claim the occupied west bank of the Jordan River if other Arab states support the move.

The Palestinians "can decide if they want a Jordan and a Palestine, or if they want a united state, a federation, or a separate state for which they choose the leadership," Hussein told the Beirut newspaper Daily Star.

"Jordan can either be a state responsible for the liberation of its occupied territories, or the Arab nation should tell Jordan that the PLO is fully responsible for political and nonpolitical efforts regarding every inch of Palestinian soil," Hussein said.

TO CONSIDER REFUGEES U.N. Security Council Calls Special Meeting On Cyprus

United Press International The U.N. Security Council called a special meeting today to consider ways of bringing relief to tens of thousands of refugees left homeless by a month of warfare on Cyprus.

In Nicosia, Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denkash protested the U.N. meeting, saying the Greek Cypriot government on the war-torn island had no authority to ask for the session without his approval.

In Izmir, Turkey, Premier Bulent Ecevit received a hero's welcome when he defended his country's July 20 invasion of the island as a national and human duty. A government spokesman in Nicosia said Turkish troops looted the northeastern village of Adana Wednesday and took eight Greek Cypriots hostage. U.N. troops said they could not confirm the report.

City Council Plans Budget Work Session

The Pampa City Commission will convene at 7 p.m. today for a budget working session, according to City Manager Mack Wofford, who said officials would be studying the mechanics of the proposed fiscal 1974 - 75 city operations cost schedule.

A public hearing was conducted before the commission Tuesday when nearly 30 citizens listened to discussions concerning the budget as submitted by the commission.

A portion of the proposed budget was brought under fire during the hearing.

The commission has proposed reformation of a Board of City Development to work in conjunction with the Pampa Industrial Foundation. Cost of the proposition would be 3 cents per $100 assessed valuation to the taxpayer.

Opposition to the move contended Tuesday the BCD would not be a benefit to the private taxpayer, leaning toward promotion of industry and business.

The pro-BCD faction attending the hearing pointed out the development of the BCD would benefit the whole community by attracting business, broadening the tax base, and easing the tax burden for all taxpayers.

The commission will consider the public hearing in the work session today.

Rossides asked the Security Council to meet this afternoon to consider ways of overcoming the growing economic and humanitarian problems on Cyprus.

Rossides said he mainly wanted to discuss ways the world body could aid refugees, now estimated at 140,000 Greek Cypriots and 5,000 Turkish Cypriots out of the island's total population of 700,000 persons.

Diplomatic sources at the world body said Rossides had met privately with representatives of nonaligned countries in an effort to work out a plan of action, but no agreement could be reached.

Rossides also said he had hoped to hear a report on the refugee problem from Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, but the U.N. envoy was hospitalized with flu after returning Monday from a trip to Cyprus, Turkey and Greece.

The Turkish army's two blitz attacks on Cyprus captured 40 per cent of the island and drove thousands of Greek Cypriots from their northern homes to the safety of British bases on the island's southern coast.

In Nicosia, Turkish Cypriot leader Denkash, the island's vice president, charged Wednesday that President Glafkos Clerides had exceeded his authority by asking for the U.N. meeting.

Storms Pound Central Texas Sections Again

United Press International More rain and thunderstorms pounded a central strip of Texas between its north and south borders today, raising streams again to flood level.

Victoria had heavy rain and street flooding. Minor stream flooding was reported between Junction and Uvalde.

A 3.5 inch rain deluged San Antonio between 6 and 8 p.m. Wednesday. It caused minor flooding which stranded motorists. Lightning knocked out 35 electrical transformers.

The LBJ Ranch at Stonewall was isolated several hours Wednesday by high water in the Pedernales River. The river ran over both the high water and low water bridges to the ranch.

A cold front causing the rain inched to a line that extended from Laredo to Laredo. The front was hard to find and was expected to wash out. But the rains were expected to last into Friday.

The rain today did not appear to be as hard as Wednesday, when it fell at the rate of three inches an hour, flooding many streams.

Flood waters brushed automobiles into streams at Killeen, which reported six inches of rain. It swept a pickup truck from a bridge at Ft. Hood, drowning S. Sgt. Dennis W. Coppens, 27, who lived in Copperas Cove, Tex., with his wife and two children.

Strong winds wrecked a 160 square foot building near Belton and forced the evacuation of 110 persons from a taller park in nearby Nolanville. There were no reported injuries.

The Llano River overflowed its banks in Kimble County and swept through a mobile home and campground. It delayed several schoolchildren on their route home.

The rains abated during midday and flood waters receded. Harper, in the Texas Hill Country, received 9.5 inches of rain, the heaviest rainfall reported.

"All our creeks and rivers are up but we have had no trouble yet," Mrs. J. V. Harper of Harper said. "It came down in sheets. We had quite a bit of thunder and lightning with it but we didn't have any wind."

Petersburg, near Harper, had 8.5 inches and Fredericksburg nearly five inches.

The storm system, set off by a cold front stretching from Wichita Falls to the Pecos River, produced several funnel clouds near Houston.

West of Palm Springs, Calif., fire raged up steep mountains, burning thousands of acres and chasing hundreds from their homes.

FOR EMPLOYEES, OFFICIALS County To Study Salary Increases

Monthly salary increases for county elected officials and other employees will be considered at the regular meeting of Gray County Commissioners Court Sept. 14.

The 10 a.m. session at the courthouse will be the fourth open meeting at which pay raises will have been discussed, according to County Judge Don Cain.

The subject will be considered at next Monday's meeting of the county court, as noted in a separate news story.

At the Sept. 14 meeting, the following increases are to be proposed, the first figure being the current monthly salary, the second being the proposed salary, with the dollar amount of the increase in parentheses:

County Judge - from $1,201.71 to $1,401.71 ($200).

Tax Assessor - Collector - from $929.69 to $1,079.69 ($150).

Sheriff - from $901.58 to $1,051.59 ($150).

County Clerk - from $899.69 to $1,049.69 ($150).

County Treasurer, County Attorney, and District Clerk - same figures as for County Clerk.

County Commissioner - from $685.75 to $785.75 ($100).

Justices of the Peace - from $500.86 to $600.86 ($100).

Constables - from $493.04 to $573.04 ($80).

Foremen, Road & Bridge - from $597.56 to $672.56 ($75).

Operators - Truck Drivers - from $549.39 to $624.39 ($75).

Chief Deputy Sheriff - from $617.98 to $717.98 ($100).

Field Deputies - from $563.29 to $663.29 ($100).

All others - $50 increase.

Employees of Highland General Hospital are not included, since they have their own wage and salary scales.

Monthly travel allowances of the County Judge and County Commissioners are to be raised from the present $100 to $150.

Several weeks ago, when the matter of pay raises was first proposed, the monthly salary of the County Judge was to be increased by $400 and that of the other elected officers by $200.

As noted above, these two increases have been scaled down to $200 and $150 respectively.

Other raises remain as originally proposed.

The raises are to go into effect Oct. 1, 1974.

Commissioners Plan Meeting On Labor Day

Labor Day will be somewhat of a routine working day for members of the Gray County Commissioners Court.

They will meet at 10 a.m. Monday to consider a brief agenda.

Aside from the normal routines of paying salaries and bills, and transfer of funds as recommended by County Auditor, the board will also:

— Consider a resolution in memory of the late Paul R. Bowers, former member of Commissioners Court, former member of the Gray County Hospital Board, and serving at the time of his death as member of the Gray County Airport board.

— Consider bids for a 1974 pickup truck for Precinct 1, from revenue sharing funds. A trade-in is involved.

— Consider authorizing sale of a typewriter stored in McBean.

One other item is likely to receive special attention. Agenda item four is:

"Consider salary adjustments." (See story this page.)

Hunter's Course Planned

Novice and experienced hunters and those who have never before picked up a shotgun can enroll in a hunter's safety class, sanctioned by both the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and National Rifle Association, which will soon be held in Pampa.

The course, which will be mandatory for all hunters age 17 and up starting with the 1975-76 Texas hunting season, will be for a minimum of eight hours. It is already required in a few states, including New Mexico and Colorado.

The course will be taught by state-certified, trained instructors, including Paul Edwards, A. L. Phillips and Carroll Jones, all of Pampa.

Four things will be covered in the class sessions - hunting rules and regulations, familiarization with hunting techniques, familiarization with as many firearms as possible and first aid and survival in the field.

A fee of $1 is required for test materials and ammunition, which will be furnished by the state. The ammunition will be used in target practice and during the live outings, which require a 1974-75 hunting license. Those students under 17 need an exemption for hunting turkey and deer during the course. However, nobody is required to go on the outings.

Interested persons need to sign up between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday at 1900 Alcock.

Starting dates for the courses will be announced later.

Chamber Directors Hear Committee Reports, Plans

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday in the Chamber office for activity reports from committee chairmen, and announcement of annual Chamber banquet plans. The 1974 banquet will be conducted Oct. 17.

The recently held Miss Top O' Texas Beauty Pageant was reported as another successful event. Mrs. Doug Coon, director, and her production committee received the plaudits of the board for their good work.

Art Aftergut, chairman of the sports committee, said this year's Tri-State senior Golf Tournament was "a highly successful event". The group voted to return to return to Pampa in 1975 after being invited by officials of the Pampa Country Club.

Aftergut also gave a report on the upcoming Top O' Texas Golf Tournament scheduled for Labor Day weekend, the Harvesters Club's activities, and the current football season.

Melvin Kunkel, chairman of the industrial committee, reported the Sandra Corporation plans to build a new 50,000 sq ft warehouse and distribution center at the Industrial Foundation's park number one. He also said other industrial prospects were being pursued.

Lee Fraser, chairman of the fire prevention committee, said his committee was considering sponsoring a Burn Seminar here sometime during November or December if sufficient interest was evident in the city and surrounding area.

A nominating committee of past presidents was appointed to select a slate of 14 names to go on the ballot from which the membership will elect seven for three-year terms on the board.

The committee is composed of Jerry Sims, chairman; Roy Sparkman, Kay Fancher, Don Lane, and Gene Green.

The board was reminded of important dates on the calendar leading up to the Chamber's annual banquet, Thursday, Oct. 17, in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Auditorium.

The ballot for election of directors will go out Sept. 9, and the installation of both officers and directors will be held on Sept. 19.

The speaker for this year's banquet will be Lt. Governor George Nigh of Oklahoma City. The Cowboy Hall of Fame will again bring an outstanding art exhibit for display in the lobby of the auditorium immediately before and after the banquet.

Banquet tickets will go on sale soon after Sept. 1, and may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office, or from any of the members of the board. Complete information regarding the banquet will be announced within the next few days, said chamber officials.

FAA Guidelines Observed Locally

Pampa area airplane pilots have been reminded by a spokesman at Perry Lefors Field that they have until Nov. 1, 1974 to complete the biennial flight review required by recent Federal Aviation Administration regulations.

Following are excerpts from the November, 1973 issue of FAA Aviation News: "Certain other named flight checks will serve to meet the requirements, such as check ride for a pilot certificate or rating, required proficiency checks for airline pilots, etc., within the prescribed two years."

"Recent revisions in the Federal Aviation regulations represent the first basic changes governing airman certification since the modern standards were introduced in 1938."

The article also notes that the revised regulations represent a new "total operational training concept" in place of specific requirements.

Convicts Escape Studied

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (UPI) - Two escaped convicts whose arrests ended a three-state murder, robbery and rape spree, will remain in Erath County until the entire story of the escape can be pieced together.

"We are going to keep them here until we complete our investigation," assistant district attorney Quay Parker said Wednesday. "I don't know how long that will take."

Authorities have indicated that once their investigation is complete, the convicts could be transferred to Dallas or Fort Worth, Tex., to be arraigned on federal charges.

A NURSE aide training course will be taught at Highland General Hospital beginning September 23, 1974 and completing Sept. 27, 1974. In the 40 hour course, basic nursing skills will be taught. These skills are requirements for employment as a nurse aide. The course will be held in the third floor classroom from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. There is a $15.00 fee for the course.

Anyone interested in taking the nurse aide training should contact Mrs. Chandler, R.N. at 665-3721 on the following dates: September 2nd, 3rd, 9th, 10th and 17th, 1974 9:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Posse's Captain Arrested In Death Of Sweethearts

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) - Police arrested the captain of a sheriff's posse Wednesday on charges of killing 20-year-old sweethearts in an execution-style slaying that has baffled investigators for more than 12 years.

The suspect's estranged wife said he told her he was assigned by the U.S. Army to kill two people in 1962 but "got the wrong ones."

William Wayne Macumber, who will be 39 Friday, was charged with the killings of Joyce Anne Sterenberg, Scottsdale, Ariz., and her fiancé, James T. McKillop, Phoenix.

The bodies were found in the desert north of Scottsdale May 24, 1962, by children. Each had been shot twice in the head with a .45 caliber pistol. Miss Sterenberg had not been molested, and $60 was left on the bodies.

Months of investigation, and an offer of a $10,000 reward, turned up no clues and the motive for the killings remained a mystery.

Macumber, an employee of Honeywell, Inc., was captain of the Maricopa County Sheriff's Posse, a volunteer organization that aids in desert and mountain search and rescue work, which he joined only eight months ago. The posse members are not regular sheriff's officers.

His wife, Carol Jane, is a secretary in the sheriff's office.

Phoenix city police detectives said Mrs. Macumber told them that on the night when the couple was killed, her husband came home covered with blood. She said he told her at the time he had gone hunting and stopped to help occupants of a stalled car, who beat him up.

FOR HOLIDAY TRAVEL DPS Commander Warns Motorists

"It is indeed tragic that so many men, women and children will become victims of motor vehicle accidents this last holiday weekend of the summer when thousands of motorists traditionally take to the highways for an outing."

Major C.W. Bell, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today.

Bell said the DPS will use all facilities and personnel at its disposal in an effort to reduce the predicted death toll.

A special "Operation Motorcade" will be activated at 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 30, and continue through midnight Monday, Sept. 2.

During this period, all uniformed DPS officers and equipment will be used on the highways to enforce traffic laws.

During the holiday period the DPS will tabulate each traffic death, and the totals will be announced three times daily in order to call public attention to the highway dangers.

More people are killed in Texas each year in traffic than are killed in all the United States by murder and homicide," Bell continued, "and the deaths are just as senseless, as needless and as tragic, but not nearly as well publicized."

"Psychologists say that one reason the general public fails to take positive action in matters of traffic safety is due to a lack of personal identification with the problem. "It might behoove all drivers in our state to stop and consider that they have less than a 50-50 chance to go through their driving career without being involved in a traffic mishap, or without incurring injury to themselves or one of their family."

The more than 1,550 persons killed in traffic crashes on Texas streets and highways this year had no idea that they would be involved in an accident either," Bell said.

"In the final analysis, traffic safety must rest on the shoulders of every person who gets behind the steering wheel of a car.

"With the proper attitude of alertness and with the acceptance of responsibility, we can see positive results in our attempts to halt the increases in the number of traffic mishaps," Major Bell concluded.

Thieves Strike Parked Vehicles

Harold Barrett Ford, Inc., 701 W. Brown, reported to police today the theft of four hubcaps from a 1974 Ford pickup parked on the company lot. The loss was placed at $100.

Jimmie Keel, 1612 Christine, reported to police this morning the theft from his parked car of a tape player valued at $150, two stereo speakers worth $36, and $170 in cash. Entry to the locked vehicle was by use of a wire to unlock a door, police said.

St. Vincent's Announces Policy On Free Lunches

St. Vincent School announced its policy for free and reduced price meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch Programs.

Children from families whose income is at or below those shown on the eligibility income scale may receive free meals.

Family size is listed from one through 12, the scale running $2,910 for a family of one, to $11,530 for a family of 12.

In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expense, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

SOME TIPS ON THE ART OF PACKING A LUNCH

F74-8

Lunch is an important break in the day, especially for children. Which brings us to the problem of packing healthy and appetizing foods in a lunch box.

Children have a tendency to eat snack food which might not be as nutritious as you wish, so it's doubly important that their lunches are nutritious. It's not difficult to add nutrition and zip to a lunch box and here are some helpful hints on the art of packing lunches.

When planning lunches try to plan the week's lunches in advance; it will save time and money. Keep in mind the four basic food groups. By adding at least one item from each of the groups of bread and cereals; meat and fish; milk and dairy products; and fruit and vegetables, lunch will be nutritionally balanced and good to eat.

Line the lunch box with foil — this will keep food cooler and more appetizing. Add some colorful napkins, perhaps depicting the season, for a cheery note.

Chunks of cheese in a plastic bag are a good way to pack a dairy product, and they're especially good with a crunchy apple.

Vegetable sticks are a good addition and you can have them ready in advance. Store prepared vegetables in the refrigerator in a closed container of water. Cherry tomatoes are a nice surprise. If you sprinkle some water and salt on them and refrigerate in foil overnight, they're ready to pack and eat.

Vary lunch by using different varieties of bread. It will keep in the refrigerator for at least two weeks. Be sure the bread is vitamin enriched.

Add some vitamin C to peanut butter by stirring in some orange juice before you spread it. This is easy because you'll have the orange juice out for breakfast, won't you?

ORANGE PEANUT BUTTER SURPRISE SANDWICH

For each sandwich you'll need:

- 2 tablespoons peanut butter
- 1 teaspoon single strength orange juice
- 2 slices of bread

Mix the orange juice and peanut butter together and spread on your favorite bread. For an added treat, cut the sandwiches into different shapes — use a cookie cutter on the bread before spreading or use a knife and your imagination.

Little Ones Need A Good Lunch

AUSTIN--Pre-schoolers need the same vitamins, minerals and energy foods as their older brothers and sisters. A hearty, inexpensive lunch is one way to see that they get them, said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

"Now that school is starting, it's important not to forget well-balanced lunches for the little ones left at home," White said. "Every-one should eat some food from the four basic groups every day — meat, milk, bread and cereal and vegetable and fruit."

Texas Department of Agriculture home economists suggest the following lunch menus to please youngsters and give them the nourishment they need.

Sunday--Cheese sandwiches, peaches, hot cocoa.

Monday--Peanut butter sandwiches, celery, apple pie, milk.

Tuesday--Bean or split pea soup, celery, biscuit or cornbread, apple, milk.

Wednesday--Potato salad, cheese toast, peanut butter cookies, milk.

Thursday--Bologna sandwiches, potato soup, banana, milk.

Friday--Beans and cornbread, rice pudding with raisins, milk.

Saturday--Peanut butter sandwiches, raw carrot, coffee cake, milk.

Enjoy Baking Bread? Here Are Some Tips

AUSTIN--A loaf of bread straight from the oven can trace its origins to earliest civilization when someone discovered it made sense to grow grain instead of spending all the time hunting for food.

In modern times wheat has become the most widely distributed of all cereal grains, according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. It has special types of proteins which form a gluten, the substance that gives dough its soft, springy quality when being kneaded.

"Though most people buy their bread, many have returned to baking it," White said. "This can be an enjoyable and educational activity when the children are involved."

Texas Department of Agriculture home economists point out that store-bought bread keeps best in its own wrapper, and stays fresher longer at room temperature. In hot, humid weather, however, it is better protected against mold when kept in the refrigerator.

Yeast dough can be frozen about a week though it is better to bake the bread first and then freeze it. To use frozen dough, thaw and shape it, allowing it to rise double before baking.

Breads can be stored in the freezer up to three months if they are wrapped and sealed. Thaw bread in its package at room temperature three hours before using.

Whole wheat flour contains all the wheat in its natural proportions and is preferred by some people for its nutritional value. Its baking strength, however, is less than that of white flour and the volume of an all whole wheat loaf will not be that of one made with white flour.

All-purpose enriched wheat flour is made from refined wheat to which vitamins and minerals have been added. Prepared by milling and sifting cleaned wheat, this flour consists essentially of the endosperm or inner portion of the grain.

The following bread recipe is especially good when served warm with Texas honey.

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD (Makes 1 Loaf)

- 1 package dry yeast
- 1/2 cup warm water (110-115 degrees)

- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 Tbsp. brown sugar
- 1 Tbsp. molasses
- 1 1/2 cups enriched white flour
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 cup whole wheat flour

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add milk, brown sugar, molasses, salt and whole wheat flour. Beat well. Add half of white flour and continue to beat until smooth. Gradually add remaining flour just until a soft dough is formed. Let rest 5 minutes. Knead 5-8 minutes. Place in lightly greased bowl, turning to grease entire surface. Cover. Let rise until doubled. Punch down. Let rest and shape into a loaf. Place in lightly greased loaf pan. Let rise until almost doubled. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack.

Let's Ask the Cook

by Nan Wiley

By NAN WILEY

Dear Nan: For years I have looked for a pickle recipe like the ones an old aunt used to make. They were long and yellow, cut into quarters, not sour but the main thing is that they were crisp and oh so good. Marie Meyers, Nashville, Tenn.

You're talking about the German, sweet-sour yellow pickles known as senfgurkens. Let's hope the classic recipe I have is at least close to those your aunt made, although she may have judged amounts of vinegar and sugar to suit herself, just as cooks have always done.

Peel 12 large yellow cucumbers and cut them into slim strips about 3 inches long. Remove seeds. Place them in a brine of 1 part coarse canning salt to 9 parts water for 12 hours. (Never use iodized salt for any pickles. Even uniodized salt contains a filler that may make the pickles lousy.) A good system is to dissolve the salt in a small amount of water and then add the rest.

For the pickling mixture you will need 1 gallon vinegar, 8 cups sugar, 1/4 cup mustard seed, and 3/4 cup mixed pickling spices tied in a cheesecloth bag. Boil just about 5 cups of the liquid at a time (always with the spice bag in it) enough to cover the bottom of a large pan to a depth of about half an inch.

To the boiling solution add just enough cucumber strips to cover the bottom of the pan. Bring solution to a boil again. Then remove the strips at once. Pack them in hot jars, fill with liquid and seal at once. Process for 15 minutes in a boiling water bath. Good luck!

Dear Nan: I hope you can help me. I hear there's a recipe called poor man's spaghetti, but I have been unable to find it.

Thank you whether you can help me or not. Mrs. Charles McIntire, Bates City, Mo.

My guess is it's the spaghetti squash we've talked about here before. I grew some last year, more out of curiosity than anything else. Mine were close to football size by the time they yellowed so, as the seed package directed, I boiled them whole for 30 minutes, then cut them in half, scooped out the seeds and started the "spaghetti" unraveling with a knife tip touch. Only a very thin shell was left.

We liked it best with spaghetti sauce but it may be seasoned with butter and any favorite seasoning salt. Sprinkle with grated cheese if you like.

Driver Says M-8 Just Car With Lot Of Armor

HOUSTON (UPI) — Peace-loving Norm Callahan, standing Patton-like high above the crunch and confusion of rush hour traffic, soaked up the respect given his restored World War II M-8 armored car.

"It's just an expression of the individual," he said, cruising along Interstate 610, feeling the warm, moist breeze in his face.

"Just another way of expressing individuality; another way to get away from the crowd, as the cigarette ads go."

mored, olive-drab turtle, with a humpback gun turret aimed harmlessly at a tiny yellow car in front. Callahan's "tank" accelerated smoothly and quickly.

"Patton used it as his platoon for recon platoons," Callahan said, "because he could penetrate with it."

"He would send a recon platoon behind enemy lines, and really mess them up. And with this 37 millimeter cannon on here, you could really wipe them out."

The M-8 was built by Ford in 1944 and nicknamed the "Greyhound" for its 65 mile an hour capability. Callahan, a lieutenant colonel in the Texas National Guard, his daughter Stefani Koch and a friend bought it last winter.

"We bought it at a Department of Public Safety auction in Lubbock, worked on it three days and obtained a license and drove it 600 miles back to Houston," Callahan said.

Mrs. Koch now owns the M-8 under the corporate name of Armored Fighting Vehicles.

"She hopes to own a string of them, just for fun you understand," Callahan said.

Just for fun, Callahan, Stefani and Callahan's son, Stephen, drove the tank into a drive-through hamburger stand.

"The kid at the pay window did a double take," Callahan said. "I was riding the side of the tank and was eyeball to eyeball with him. He was speechless."

"After we paid, everybody from the street started coming up, looking at our 'tank' and asking about it. It's like that everywhere we go."

"It's insured just as an ordinary passenger automobile," he said. "It is a lot safer from the standpoint of other motorists because they can't miss seeing it."

As a light rain began to fall, Callahan came down from his spot above the gun turret, crouched down inside the tank and hand cranked the turret and its cannon around to the rear for protection against the driving rain.

Other drivers, meanwhile, seeing the cannon barrel swing wide over the tank and then come their direction, gave it a wide berth.

Callahan and his son drive the M-8 to the store and back, to children's birthday parties and, of course, in military parades.

The tank, which uses nonleaded regular gas, is more economical to drive, Callahan said, "than that Thunderbird there in front of us."

Callahan wants drivers in Houston to consider his "car" just one of the gang.

"That's the concept we have to get across," he said, "that this is an automobile with a lot of armor on it."

There are over 100 parks, forests and beaches in Massachusetts.

Firing Squad Executes 7 Moroccans For Plotting

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — A firing squad executed seven Moroccans Tuesday who had been condemned to death on charges of plotting against King Hassan II, defense attorneys said today.

The seven men had been accused of stockpiling weapons and planning an uprising in the Middle Atlas mountain range in 1973.

Six of those executed had been sentenced to death last January. The seventh defendant received a death sentence a year ago.

A number of military officers and civilians have been shot for anti-royalist plots over the past few years.

The defense attorneys said seven other persons held in prison for political reasons have been granted provisional freedom.

Alaskans Vote To Move Capital

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — Residents of this city, which owes its livelihood to state employment and tourism, are reeling at the blow Alaska's voters dealt them in this week's primary election.

Twice before, since statehood came in 1959, Juneau and its friends in the state's southeastern panhandle mustered counterattacks to defeat proposals to relocate the capital. But not this time.

More than half the state's voters turned out to approve overwhelmingly building a new seat of state government nearer Anchorage and Fairbanks, the state's two largest cities.

The reaction from residents ranged from denunciations of "selfish Anchorage" to questions that the panhandle form a new state of South Alaska.

"After all, there is a North and South Alaska," said Marjorie John, 19. "Why not a Southeast Alaska and let the rest of the state go its way?"

The main argument for moving the capital was that Juneau, accessible only by air or water transportation, was too far from most of the state's population. Proponents of the move also noted that Juneau often is fogbound for days.

"We'll just have to drive harder with more pressure to get that pulp mill and its 1,100 jobs," Mayor William Macomber said.

He referred to a proposed pulp mill to be located about 40 miles north of here. The proposal has been tied up in the courts by lawsuits over environmental questions.

State government offices employ about 2,700 persons. The city has a population of about 17,000.

A state-financed study by Boeing Computer Services, Inc., concluded the capital move would reduce the city's population to about 10,000.

Various estimates of the cost of building a new capital complex have ranged from $110 million to $500 million, depending upon the site chosen.

Richard Freer, a member of Gov. William Egan's staff, noted the move would not be immediate.

"The way the initiative is worded, it will be six years before the first contingent of state offices will be moved," he said. "There will be some time to supplant the negative impact on the Juneau economy."

Judge Refuses Watergate Delay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, saying that Judge John J. Sirica knows what he is doing, has refused to grant any further delay in the Watergate cover-up trial set to begin Sept. 30.

In a four-page opinion Wednesday, Burger turned down an emergency appeal from defendant John D. Ehrlichman that the trial be postponed at least until January on grounds of massive prejudicial publicity surrounding former President Richard Nixon's resignation.

Burger said any doubts about Sirica's decision to press ahead with the trial now — especially since a federal appeals court did not reverse it — are not sufficient to form a basis for contrary action by a single Supreme Court jurist.

"The District Court bears responsibility commensurate with its authority in such matters, and only in the most extraordinary circumstances should an individual justice intervene," Burger said.

He said he could have referred the issue to the entire nine-man court when it returns Oct. 1, but noted this would have had the effect of putting off the Watergate trial until late fall.

Burger did note the "gravity of the claim of prejudicial publicity" in the cover-up case, but said these questions "must await the normal appellate process" if they arise once the verdict is in — in other words, if Ehrlichman is convicted.

Ehrlichman and five other former key Nixon aides, indicted last March in the cover-up, had been scheduled to go to trial Sept.

9. After Nixon resigned Aug. 9, four of them asked for a lengthy delay on grounds of extensive publicity about Nixon's admitted role in the plot had made a fair trial impossible.

Sirica at first refused, but relented last Thursday after the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia "suggested" a three-or-four week postponement and rescheduled the trial for Sept. 30.

The lifespan of a chicken, if uninterrupted, would be 30 years.

FDA And Its 'Protection'

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is the Federal agency which is supposed to protect you against impure food and dangerous drugs. The bureaucrats manning the agency claim that they are more competent to decide what goes into your body than are your family doctor, the medical profession, drug manufacturers and food processors; all of whom must be experts in their fields or lose out to their competitors in the market place.

We're willing to give the FDA a high mark for sincerity and goodness of intent, while being convinced that the agency, with its coercive meddling, does far more harm than good; most bureaucrats believe that they are performing a valuable, necessary function, and those of the FDA are probably no different in this respect.

However, for an agency which is supposed to protect consumers from dangerous drugs, and if the testimony of a group of rebelling FDA staff doctors is reliable, that regulatory body has been acting rather strangely of late. Instead of protecting the consumers from dangerous drugs, the federal agency may be actually endangering the public by suppressing unfavorable information about certain drugs.

This was the gist of a charge made by a group of eleven FDA staff doctors who were recently subpoenaed to testify before a Senate panel.

According to the testimony of the eleven as reported the FDA has in numerous instances suppressed unfavorable reports on new drugs and disciplined those who draft them.

Six of the FDA staff doctors, who had made unfavorable reports on drugs, said they were subsequently transferred to less important jobs after speaking out against certain drugs or against FDA procedures. Others testified to the effect that, after having made unfavorable reports, they were taken off the case and the drug assigned to another doctor who recommended its approval.

"I was harassed, I was reprimanded for speaking out in such a fashion," charged Dr. J. Marion Bryant, a cardiologist with the FDA with 30 years experience in his field, about a drug he believed to be "exceedingly dangerous." Bryant, the AP story said, was subsequently transferred by the FDA to non-cardiological duties.

Several of the testifying doctors, AP continued, said that their unfavorable reports on certain drugs were later changed to reflect a more favorable finding.

Still others testified that they were pressured by FDA officials to change and modify their recommendations to pave the way toward FDA approval of drugs they believed should not be marketed.

"I've had significant portions of some of my reviews deleted," Dr. Carol Kennedy, a specialist on psychiatric drugs, was quoted by AP as saying, who noted that she was transferred to a section within the FDA that checked contact lenses after voicing her criticism of FDA procedures.

As noted earlier, suppressing adverse information about drugs is a strange way of protecting the public from dangerous drugs. And we can certainly sympathize with the several FDA doctors who resent being harassed and having their reports changed by the FDA hierarchy.

Moreover, we admire the doctors' courage in speaking out in the face of possibly even more disciplinary measures by their FDA bosses.

However, we cannot help but wonder if it has occurred to the rebelling doctors that their efforts to protect the public from dangerous drugs are being applied at the wrong place?

The place to work toward safer drugs for the consuming public is in the drug manufacturing industry where competition is a strong force for insuring that drugs are properly tested before being marketed, not in a federal agency which, in a spirit of spite, can keep a SAFE drug OFF the market or, for reasons best known to the agency hierarchy, OK a DANGEROUS drug for sale, thus leading the consuming public to believe that it is safe.

EDUCATION IN AMERICA

Veteran Teacher Has 'Had It'

By M. RAFFERTY

Q — "After 22 years in the classroom, I'm ready to quit. You're right, most children will do only what they are made to do — like most people. To say that children will engage in a personal program of self-education is to dream. They don't now, they didn't back years ago and they won't in the future."

Individualized instruction sounds great but it's impossible to implement for 30 pupils for 180 days and live! But there is something else more serious confronting the teacher, and that is lack of respect and co-operation from the pupils. You tell today's child to do something, and he will tell you right back that he is not going to do it. You can't touch him, so you send him to the office. The next day he's back laughing at you. Somebody had better get tough before it's too late!

— Mrs. R. P. B. Jacksonville, Fla.

A — "I'm not saying you're wrong, but you do seem a bit gloomy. Any other teachers out there who want to paint a brighter picture? Be my guests."

Q — "Of all things that have transpired lately — even Watergate — this stupid foreign police of 'detente' has the country the most worried and concerned. The man in the street, my patients and friends just cannot understand and accept the idea of underwriting the reconstruction and technical development of our avowed enemies, who do not disguise their aim of world domination."

"Can you?" — Dr. H.H.N., Indianapolis, Ind.

A — "Come off it, Doc. I'm just a poor ole small-town schoolteacher. Back where I come from, it's always been common sense to keep your intended murderer as weak and as weaponless as possible. But in the brave new world of Kissinger diplomacy, the rules have been changed. Now we not only furnish our enemies with new guns, we load 'em for them."

Q — "Here are a few more national asinine acts you can add to the list compiled by F.W.F. in Monroe, La. — 'Paying farmers not to grow things when there are hungry mouths all over the world.'"

"An archaic fiscal policy which has produced a $400 billion national debt. 'Letting Daniel Ellsberg go scot-free after he confessed stealing and setting government papers.'"

"Failure of our courts to support local law enforcement efforts with strong, firm action." — R.C.A., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

A — "When I compiled that original list of American jackasseries, I remarked that it was tough to limit it. Thanks for adding some more asinities. Maybe — just maybe — we can learn from our own mistakes."

Q — "In the column you wrote about the 12 most intelligent men who ever lived, why didn't you include Solomon? He was supposed to be the wisest of all."

"Also, why not list the 12 most intelligent women, if you can find them?" — R.S., Townsend, Tenn.

A — "I thought of including Solomon but decided that any man who would deliberately get married 1,000 times just can't be all that smart."

As for listing the 12 wisest women, forget it. I'm in enough trouble as it is. (Dr. Rafferty welcomes questions for use in this column once each week, but regrets he cannot answer all mail personally. Please send your questions to him in care of Dr. Max Rafferty, Los Angeles Times Syndicate, Times Mirror Square, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.)

Labor Goal: Job Enrichment

By VICTOR RIESEL

LONDON — It's impossible to eat one's way across Europe from the Danube to the Thames without some semi-skilled intellectual knocking "enriched" (new word) American auto factories and describing the new proletarian dawn at Volvo's new showpiece car plant in Kalmar, Sweden. Show place, it is indeed.

The high-priced Swedish car is made there by 25 teams of 15 men and women each. Their working lives have been enriched. Each team has a wall-to-wall carpeted rest room replete with a refrigerator and a coffee-making machine. Also a "changing room" with special toilets, telephones, showers — and, yes saunas. And they make their own pace at this plant which was unveiled June 5 in the presence of King Carl XVI Gustaf.

They also make about 50 cars a day — which is half the eventual quota. Further, this is on the Baltic coast to get away from urban abrasives. Car bodies are shipped in from Gothenburg where things aren't so wall-to-wall carpeted.

Well, the other day I studied a report developed by the International Metalworkers' Federation (IMF) Auto Councils — Swedish Metalworkers' Work Reorganization Seminar. Some 40 union delegates from 10 to 12 nations participated. This, in a sense, is a forerunner of other conferences which will have "input" into an International Labor Organization labor-management-government conference in Oslo, Norway, shortly — on labor's right to participate in management decisions.

But back to the Valhalla at Kalmar. The IMF seminar had some "misgivings." Most of the participants were Socialist. So some believe that Volvo at Kalmar was a factory which may not completely eliminate the traditional ship floor conflict — "but merely softened them." The wall-to-wall carpeting just isn't deep enough, I suppose, so the wall-to-wall carpeting has begun.

But other conferees said that "Kalmar is a Swedish solution to a Swedish problem." Further, "It is also obvious that Volvo's presentation (Hollywood-type grand opening — VR) of the Kalmar factory is part of a successful advertising campaign."

Somewhere along the line someone asked me what American auto producers would do about their "job-alienated workers."

They had heard that Sen. Edward Kennedy was developing a solution.

Well, we Americans have to stick together. A long time ago I heard Sir Winston Churchill say that he never criticized his countrymen when he was abroad. Fact is that Kennedy is a member of the Senate Labor and public Welfare Committee. Some time ago he won a $20 million appropriation for its subcommittee on Employment, Poverty, and Migratory Labor to study work alienation. And shortly after it winds up its work on manpower, and what's left of the legal services and OEO papers, it will turn to "the whole major area of job satisfaction." Probably in September — study, hearings and all.

There probably will be much testimony on the need for job satisfaction, the strikes at GM's Lordstown, O., small-car plant and a search for, in the words of a New York Times intellectual, an "antidote to the worker alienation and discontent troubling industrial societies everywhere."

Well, before I flew into Eastern European bloc capitals, I talked with some United Auto Workers (UAW) union officials. No one can impugn their loyalty to their 750,000 followers. They smile without smirking. They simply point out that there is job dissatisfaction, yes. But not because of job alienation, rather uneasiness stirred by the high cost of living. Their demands are for more wages, heavier insurance, and longer Supplemental Unemployment Benefits.

What the UAW people want is more time away from the factory entirely — more holidays, shorter workweeks, shorter workdays, ever shorter work hours, more coffee and toilet breaks.

One UAW leader pointed to the UAW national convention which ran in Los Angeles during the same week Volvo opened its Kalmar plant.

"There was mighty little enrichment talk at our convention," said he. "It's just not an issue. There is virtually no rank-and-file inquisitiveness even. The theorists just have no relevancy to the rank and file. It's like the big four-day-week fad they pumped into a national sensation."

"Further, suppose you do an 'enrichment job' and give a worker a greater sense of achievement. How long does it last? I'm not deriding this, but six weeks later the same discontent will set in and they'll be asking: what have you enriched for me lately?"

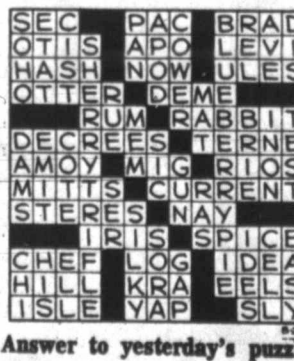

The American auto union leader's point was: his followers would like to take it easier but they're not uptight on the overhead assembly line. They don't really want their jobs' work plans reorganized. They want more time away from the job, regular three-month sabbaticals as in the steel industry. Earlier retirement. They want a slower assembly line, sure, but not lower pay. And they're not staying as long as they used to.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Debate On Detente Put Off--Perhaps For Good

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON — If you've been wondering what became of that much-touted "great debate" on detente — it's been quietly shelved; probably permanently.

It simply was swamped by the triphammer series of world-reverberation blockbusters — resignation of President Nixon; accession of President Ford and the headline-making changes he is effecting; and the Turkish invasion of Cyprus and seizure of one-third of the island.

Also a factor was Secretary Kissinger's lack of enthusiasm for the debate idea in the first place. He reluctantly went along with it, only because he more or less had to.

The grandstanding project was the brainchild of lame-duck Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the prestigious Foreign Relations Committee.

A fervent dove and zealous internationalist, Fulbright heartily approves of detente — not only with Russia, but Cuba's Communist dictator Castro, and Panama's leftist pipsqueak "strongman" Gen. Omar Torrijos.

Revealingly illustrative of Fulbright's viewpoint and attitude is his dispatch last month of his staff director, Pat Holt, to Cuba to see how things are going on there. After a short stay, Holt came up with a glowing report of political, economic and social conditions in the iron-ruled island.

Fulbright, who is eagerly trying to promote resumption of ties with Castro, warmly hailed these laudatory findings.

Because of Fulbright's backing of detente, Kissinger had no choice but to agree to be the first witness at the opening of the "great debate" — slated to be staged in the big marble caucus room of the Senate Office Building. It was to be a grandiose affair — with TV coverage and other hooplah paraphernalia and trappings.

It was all carefully planned and arranged, but the spectacular never came off. It was abruptly pigeonholed by President Nixon's dramatic resignation, and is still there — and from all indications, likely for good.

Yes — But! A determining reason for that is the new President's highly significant difference of approach toward detente with Russia.

President Ford favors continuance of this policy. He has said so and sincerely means it. There is no question about that. His statements are emphatic and unequivocal. At the same time, his basic thinking and concerns vary distinctly from those of his predecessor.

President Ford's primary absorption is domestic problems — inflation, soaring interest rates, the alarmingly lagging gross national product, the dormant housing industry, etc.

Solving domestic dilemmas and difficulties is his first priority. He is extensively familiar with them and their urgency, from 25 years' service as a congressman. Backed by a comprehensive grass-roots understanding and grasp of this sphere, he is acting accordingly.

As a consequence, detente has to take its turn in his sequence of interest and action.

It's not that he's against detente, it's just that to the President it's not as uppermost as it was to his predecessor — who throughout was far more intent on foreign affairs than domestic.

Another decisive factor is that President Ford views detente quite differently from his predecessor in one crucial regard.

President Ford firmly holds detente should be strictly quid pro quo; that concessions on the part of the U.S. must be equally matched by Russia. As he sees it, that's the true meaning of detente and the only way it can be lasting; it's got to be of mutual benefit to both sides.

A one-sided detente just won't work out. In the long run, it's bound to lead to distrust, recriminations and enmity.

Pulling Kremlin Wires President Ford definitely subscribes to the opinion enunciated by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., leading critic of the Nixon-Kissinger concept of detente — particularly as contained in the controversial SALT I nuclear arms limitation agreement.

Jackson maintains, "If there is to be an agreement with the Soviet Union, it must not be one based on faith. To be meaningful, such agreements must be mutually self-enforcing. If we are going to rely on their word or their interpretation, that is an illusion."

"I think it is vital that any agreements that we reach with the Soviet Union must be mutually beneficial, so they can be implemented and carried out to the satisfaction of both countries."

To President Ford, this principle is fundamental as the basis for genuine detente.

It is also authoritatively known that President Ford has studied Sen. Jackson's thinking and comments regarding detente, and is much impressed by them. One informed source cited the following as noteworthy among them:

"The Soviets have serious need for our science, our technology, our business-management technicians and a vast amount of our agriculture and agricultural know-how. In the light of this, we should in our bargaining relate it to a reordering of priorities in both countries."

"I don't see why we should subsidize Russia's military-industrial complex. I would be willing to make some economic and technological considerations, if I could see a movement away from the Soviets' armed build-up toward arms reduction. We must never lose sight of the fact that we don't really know the role of the military in the decision-making process in Russia."

"It is an indisputable fact that Marshal Grechko is now a member of the Politburo. We well know what the role of the military is in our own decision-making process. The President and the Secretary of State make the final decisions. But in Russia, there is ample evidence to indicate that the military really call the tune."

"I am convinced the failure of the recent Moscow summit stems from the fact that neither Secretary Kissinger nor the President (Nixon) could accept what was being proposed by the Russians. That had nothing to do with the U.S. military. They were not and are not making U.S. policy. In Russia, the military have and are continuing to make basic policy."

Also, definitely playing an important role in President Ford's attitude towards detente is the little-known fact that the new French regime of President Giscard d'Estaing and West German Chancellor Schmidt, who succeeded Willy Brandt, have quietly put the damper on the vigorous detente of their predecessors.

Both Paris and Bonn are now marking time — due to heavy preoccupation with domestic ailments and problems, just as President Ford is in the U.S.

Bride's broken beak breaks bank

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We drove 500 miles to attend the wedding of a relative. Our son was to be in the bridal party. The wedding was to take place at 4 P.M. on Saturday. On the Friday night before the wedding, the bride and groom got into a fight and the groom broke the bride's nose so the wedding was cancelled.

What do we do with the wedding gift we were going to take to the church? Who pays for the tuxedo our son rented for the occasion and never got to wear? And how about the motel bill?

I think the bride's parents who invited us here for nothing should help us out. Should we ask them?

STUCK IN ILLINOIS

DEAR STUCK: That's what you are. Stuck. Stuck for the wedding gift—unless you can return it. You're stuck for sure for your son's rented tuxedo, and you're stuck for the motel bill.

And no, don't ask the bride's parents to help you out. They've got enough trouble trying to comfort a bride with a broken nose.

DEAR ABBY: My husband died very suddenly not long ago. It was a terrible shock as he had been in the best of health and had no warning whatsoever. We had 43 good years together, which is more than many couples have, but somehow, I still feel cheated.

I was in such a state of shock when this happened that my eldest daughter took me to her home where I stayed for three weeks. When I returned to my own home, I was stunned to find that every trace of my beloved husband had been removed. Not one thing belonging to him remained!

My two daughters and one son (all married) took it upon themselves to go through my house and dispose of all their father's clothes.

I broke right down and wept. They tried to explain that they thought they had done me a big favor. Abby, wasn't it MY right to dispose of my late husband's things in my own good time? Perhaps I wanted some memories of him around.

It's too late in my case, but please print this for others who one day may presume to do what my children did.

CRUSHED

DEAR CRUSHED: Please consider the motivation. They undoubtedly wanted to spare you what they thought would be an agonizing task. But you make a good point. Perhaps they should have asked.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male college student. I am being married in the near future. Both of us would like to have a big wedding and invite our many friends, but the cost would empty her parents' pocketbook.

My fiancée and I feel that the tradition that says her parents must foot the bill for the wedding is entirely outmoded, but I'm afraid her folks would feel hurt if my parents offered to chip in.

As it stands now, my future in-laws feel a bit inadequate alongside my well-to-do-family.

If you can come up with a solution, it would be a most welcome early wedding gift.

DOOMED GROOM

DEAR DOOMED: Why not break with tradition in the interest of common sense? Perhaps your future in-laws wouldn't be as "hurt" as you think if your parents chipped in for the kind of wedding you want. Ask them. If they refuse, go the traditional route, and after you return from your honeymoon, your parents can throw a party for you and all your friends.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARK: Lose her. She has a "gelt" complex.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Knight-Adamson Exchange Vows

Miss Deanna Louise Knight of Amarillo, and Riley Bernard Adamson, Hedley, were united in marriage Aug. 14 in a double-ring ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Manning, Amarillo.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Marland P. Hayes, 334 N. Rider, Pampa.

THE CEREMONY

The bridal aisle was lighted with candelabra and the path was covered with white daisy petals. The ceremony was performed before a pedestal arrangement of white daisies.

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal wedding gown of white nylon organza and re-embroidered Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. Her imported illusion veil featured a wide border of matching Chantilly lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies atop a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Nina Mullins, Amarillo, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Jeanie Thomas and Miss Cheryl Cherry, both of Amarillo. Flower girl was Stacy Dickey and ringbearer was Louis Dickey.

Danny Manning, Amarillo was best man and groomsman was Jimmy Simmons. Jerry Dale Cherry served as usher.

RECEPTION

The Manning's hosted a reception in their home. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with yellow daisies and topped with love birds.

For the wedding rip to Red River, N.M., the bride wore a blue knit pant suit. The couple will reside in Hedley.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Pampa High School.

Out-of-town guests attending the affair were Mrs. Pearl Ledford, Mrs. Louise House and Mrs. Enebina Hays, all of Pampa; and Mr. and Mrs. Don House and family, Fort Hood.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Willy Wonka & the Chocolate Factory," a family movie, will premiere as an NBC Thanksgiving television special. The musical fantasy stars Gene Wilder.

Schad-Etheredge Vows Solemnized In Gruver

Nuptial vows were solemnized Sunday, Aug. 11 at 3:30 p.m. in Gruver First Baptist Church by Miss Deborah Gayle Schad and Billy Joe Etheredge.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Schad of Gruver. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J.L. (Pete) Etheredge, Pampa.

THE CEREMONY

Spiral candelabra and large basket arrangements of white mums and pink gladioli flanked the wedding party. A prayer bench completed the wedding setting.

Rev. Kim Bradstreet, pastor, officiated for the double-ring ceremony. Organist, Ann Dorman, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Jerry and Gary Letherman as they sang "More," and "The Wedding Prayer."

THE BRIDE

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of white silk organza over bridal taffeta designed with a fitted bodice, Venice lace in small daisy design outlined a Victorian yoke and a traced pattern over the bodice. Lace also enhanced the waistline. Her sheer long full sleeves fell to deep cuffs of lace and the slightly gathered skirt fell to a deep flounce of old fashion lace.

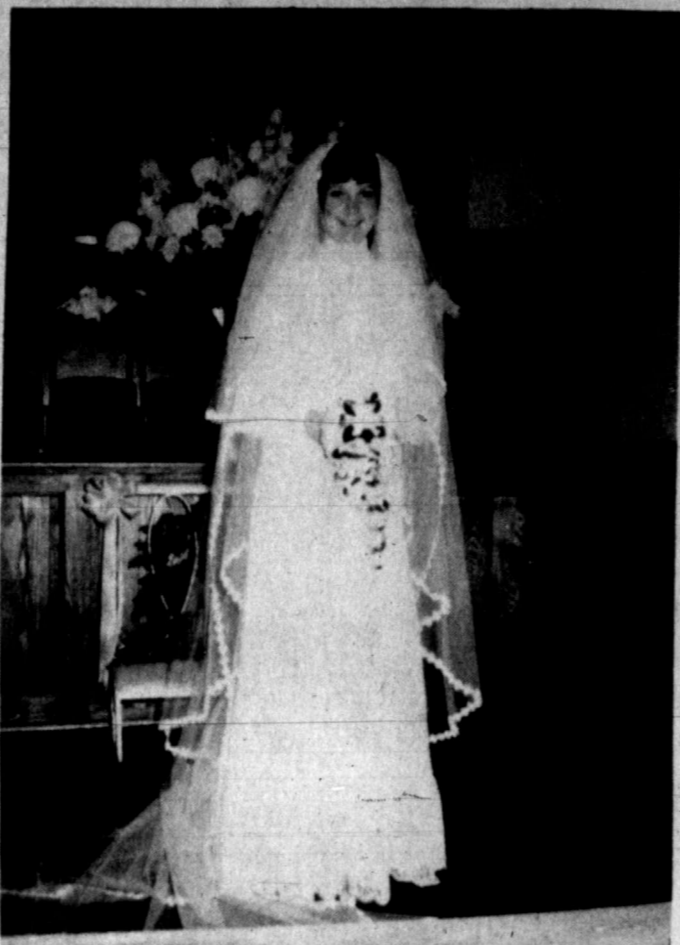

Her tiered veil of cathedral length, was edged with Venice lace in daisy design, and fell from a miniature coil. She carried a cascade of gardenia surrounded by pink rose buds.

ATTENDANTS

Deborah Bevell, Gruver, was maid of honor wearing a pink floral floor length gown and a pink garden hat enhanced with fresh flowers and pink ribbon streamers. She carried a nosegay of daisies, carnations and baby's breath.

Cindy Womble was flower girl and Richard Schad and Sherry Womble lighted the candles.

Best man was Gary Hicks and Jessie Etheredge.

MRS. BILLY JOE ETHEREDGE
...nee Miss Deborah Gayle Schad

Ronnie Cunningham, and Gerry Chapman, seated wedding guests.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in fellowship hall of the church. The serving table was decorated with silver candelabra, pink flowers and candles, and a four-tiered white wedding cake decorated with pink roses.

Serving cake were Barbara Cunningham and DeAnn Chapman. Sherry Etheredge poured punch and Jeannette, Schad registered guests.

The bride wore a pink knit floor length dress and a gardenia corsage for the wedding trip to Colorado Springs and Glorieta.

The couple will reside in Plainview.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride attended West Texas State University and Amarillo College. She is a member of Delta Zeta sorority.

The bridegroom attended Clarendon Junior College and WTSU. He was youth director at Highland Baptist Church and a member of BSU at WTSU. He is presently employed by Cabot Corp.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

A wedding shower in Gruver recently was held in the home of Mrs. George Lowe.

Aug. 9, at Gruver, a bridesmaid luncheon was hosted.

A church fellowship and love offering honored the couple at Highland Baptist Church, Pampa recently.

Another wedding shower recently at Central Baptist Church, Pampa, honored the bride.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted Aug. 10.

DIETING

Low carbohydrate diets may cause undesirable metabolic changes in the body. Sally Springer, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said this week. An adequate supply of carbohydrates should be included in the diet to supply glucose, an essential energy source for brain and muscle tissue.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, AUGUST 30

Your birthday today: Finds you striving for balance, putting mind over matter, discovering personal experience in previously unknown and unsuspected areas. Material affairs go according to your logical plans and continued diligence. Relationships demand attention. Today's natives often work at remote specialties, sometimes mathematical or technological disciplines using exact calculation.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Assume another's feelings to be as sensitive as your own. Stay busy with what you've begun; avoid changing direction as you finish the work week.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Make this a slow but methodical day. Give care to and be tolerant about checking facts and figures. Don't take anything seriously in lively discussions this evening.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Withdraw for a period of individual experience; depend on nobody for cooperation. Get a new perspective on social contacts and where they lead.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Confirm what's been done lately rather than begin something completely different. People go off on their own tangents; let them go in peace.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: You least resist useless bickering, impatience. Stop and realize that most issues are transitory. Then opt for long-range plans.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Your own feelings and those of others can be easily bruised in hasty or humorous references to current concerns. Put your wishes aside and help another.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Being tactful isn't enough; place deep trust in those you love. Verify stories going around before you accept them as fact. Postpone purchases of personal items.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Move in business on faith and without adequate preparation. Don't pry or scoff at associates; they have much on their mind. Summon the initiative to finish your work week promptly.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Nothing goes quite as planned. You save the day with good humor and sympathetic support for loved ones, but expect no immediate acknowledgment or gratitude.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan.

19]: Make this a calm day of minor routine, fine adjustment. Follow well-established, thrifty financial habits. Don't pursue a difference of opinion very far.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Unsolicited or free advice of yours is taken in a manner you didn't intend. Friends pursue ventures suitable to their, not your taste. Let them do so in peace.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Keep life simple today. Do only what you've promised; don't attempt more activities. There's enough already in progress to fill all your time.

The Double-Duty Smooth-Top Range

COLLEGE STATION — The biggest boon to cramped kitchen space is the smooth-top range. Lillian Cochran, home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, pointed out.

"Turn on the current and invisible units heat food much like the conventional range. But switch it off and the flat surface cools to become an addition to your counter-top working surface," she said.

Anyone who dislikes the chore of cleaning a messy range will love the easy cleaning of the smooth-top model, she continued.

Just wipe off the cooled surface with a cloth, sponge or paper towel. The heating units are sealed under the counter-top surface so there's no way dirt and grease can collect in them.

"For the best appearance, make sure you wipe off the smooth-top surface soon after it cools. Then clean it regularly with a silicone cleaner to prevent stains."

These ceramic smooth-tops are durable and crack resistant. Diamonds and sand will scratch them, but normal use will not, she said.

Celanese Announces Personnel Promotions

Ladin E. Moore has been appointed production superintendent (Monomers) at the Pampa Plant of Celanese Chemical Company.

He is promoted to his position from his most recent assignment as process engineering group leader at Pampa.

Moore will be responsible for the planning, directing and coordination of the monomer and special products processes. He is primarily concerned with the most effective use of manpower and facilities to insure continuous operation of specification product in order to meet customer requirements in terms of quantity, quality, and shipping dates.

Moore joined Celanese in August, 1964 at Pampa as an operations engineer, and has subsequently served various capacities in both the technical and operations departments. He received his B.S. degree in chemical engineering from Texas Tech in June, 1964.

Moore will be replacing Huey P. Prater, who is transferring to Chemical Company's New York office as a senior economic evaluation engineer.

Other personnel changes effective at this time include the promotion of H. Wayne Hill to unit supervisor in Area II, the transfer of Joe F. Roberson to production superintendent (Acids), the transfer of Carl J. Brugger to the position of process engineering group leader and the transfer of Ron G. Wood to production engineer in Areas II and III.

Texas Farmers Qualifying For Aid

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

It's that time of year again when parents should attempt to "safety proof" their youngsters — many of whom are entering school for the first time.

Whether walking, riding in a bus or car, or bicycling to school, plans should be made to ensure the safety of every child, reminds the Texas State Department of Health.

Darting across streets without looking, crossing at mid-block from between parked cars, and doing bicycle tricks in traffic are just a few of the pitfalls to be avoided, advises the Health Department.

Parents can caution their children about all careless practices, and they also can show them. If your child is starting to school — or going to a new school — it's a good idea to make the trip at least once with the child.

If he will be pedaling to and from school every day — often in inclement weather — you'll want to be doubly sure that your child is observing safety rules. If you're a motorist in the vicinity of schools, be especially wary, says the State Health Department.

What are the trouble spots for bicyclists and motorists? Collisions between motor vehicles and bicycles occurs about as follows:

— Well over half at intersections.

— Seven out of ten during daylight hours.

— Most bicycle riders killed or injured in traffic accidents, were violating a traffic law at the time of the incident.

— Half of the motor vehicle - bicycle accidents involved a violation on the part of the motor vehicle operator.

— One out of five bicycles involved in accidents had some mechanical defect.

Some of the most common traffic violations of cyclists are (not in order of frequency):

— Failure to yield right-of-way. (In most cases, the cyclist did not "see" the car; in some cases he intentionally infringed on the motorist's right-of-way.)

— Riding in the center of the street.

— Speed too fast for conditions of traffic and road surface.

— Disregard of traffic control devices — signal lights and stop signs.

— Improper turning.

To avoid such situations as just described, here are some safety rules for bicyclists:

— A skillful bicycle rider always has his bike under control. He never drives too fast and he never rides too far. He always has both hands free to steer.

— The cyclist must develop skill in balancing and pedaling to avoid swerving into traffic, hitting a fixed object, running off the sidewalk or highway.

Parents have the responsibility to be certain their child has the skill to cope with traffic before permitting him to ride on the street.

Astronauts Lose Calcium During Extended Flights

HOUSTON (UPI) — Loss of calcium in the bones and weakening of muscles caused by weightlessness must be prevented for man to take one and a half to three year trips to Mars and beyond, two scientists said Wednesday.

Steady losses of calcium and other bone minerals over the very long interplanetary trips could return the astronauts with wet-spaghetti-strength legs. Muscle deconditioning could render them unable to move their limbs easily.

Dr. Leo Lutwak of the UCLA School of Medicine said a proper diet and a method to strain the legs, torso and arms of the astronauts on the long missions must be found before the flights could be undertaken safely.

Physician-astronaut William R. Thornton said Skylab studies showed muscles can be kept firm through rigorous daily exercise on several difference devices.

The two scientists discussed the findings of their experiments at the Skylab Life Science Symposium at the Johnson Space Center which ends today.

Lutwak said meticulous mineral balance tests run during the three Skylab flights proves a steady loss of calcium, phosphorus and nitrogen occurs in the muscular and skeletal systems in weightlessness.

"A calcium loss rate of 3-4 per cent per month takes on a clearer and more ominous significance when it is realized that flights to Mars and return, when ultimately conducted, will take from one and one-half to three years," Lutwak said.

It was concluded that unless protective measures can be developed, capable musculoskeletal function will be threatened in ultimately to be conducted space flights.

Lutwak suggested weight-bearing stress could be a deterrent to or an aid to the correction of the bone disorder.

Thornton said the strenuous exercise could keep muscles firm. The same exercises, with proper diet, could also help the calcium problem.

Three industry groups have been "in the doghouse" for some time and "very likely," will lead the next market upsurge, according to Comparative Market Indicators. The investment advisor says one group, the utilities, appears to be bottoming out, while another, defense stocks, probably will benefit from a policy shift in the Ford administration. The third group, savings and loan institutions, will react to any drop in short-term interest rates, it adds.

The New Hampshire state legislature in 1919 made the purple lilac the state flower.

Jan, who has a 10-year-old daughter, said she offered many ex-convicts their first chance to put down roots.

"When they come in, if they don't have a dime, I take money out of contributions that have been sent in, and give them gas money, bus fare money or cigarette money. I don't care what the cancer society says, I'd rather give them cigarette money than have them steal a package."

She said the former inmates usually were apprehensive about job hunting.

"They're nervous and scared, afraid they're going to be asked if they've been in trouble, but they know when they walk in the door here, that I know they've been in trouble, and that the employers know it and take them anyway."

The Ex Employment Agency is their hope, when they walk in the door they have hope, and a little bit of confidence.

Jan said for many prospective parolees, having a job waiting on the outside is the only way they can get out of prison.

"Nine out of 10 don't make it unless they have a job."

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lionel D. Edie & Co. says the "most worrisome aspect" of the inflation outlook now is the future shape of wage settlements. It says a "hefty" wage settlement seems to be in prospect for the coal miners whose contract expires in November, and the Ford administration's job will be to prevent the boost from spreading to other industries.

The "light at the end of the tunnel" for the depressed housing industry is a decline in short-term rates and easier credit for mortgages as business slows down and inflation eases, according to the First National City Bank. A cooling of inflation in the coming months should bring about a housing "turnaround" by late winter or next spring, the bank adds.

Argus Research Corp. points out that in the space of 20 months automobile prices have risen by more than 20 per cent. Since consumers' face "anemic" increases in their "real" incomes for the next few quarters, the company adds, they are not likely to boost the proportion of their incomes for spending on autos.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe earlier told Duncan the Walker County grand jury would investigate the incident.

"Our concern is not that the Walker County grand jury might be incapable of rendering an objective opinion on what occurred on the night of Aug. 3, 1974," Duncan said in a letter to Briscoe Wednesday.

"Rather, our concern is that the participating agencies—the Texas Department of Corrections, the Texas Department of Public Safety and the Texas Rangers—hold most of the evidence."

"To allow these agencies to hold the most important evidence and to depend upon

United Mine Workers Settle: Walk-outs Continue In L.A.

United Press International — The United Mine Workers of America reached agreement today in a 13-month, violence-ridden coal mine strike at Harlan, Ky. Two key work stoppages ended in the auto industry and there was partial settlement of a third.

But marathon negotiations failed to produce a settlement in a Los Angeles transit strike.

Shortly after 4 a.m. S.D.T. today, after 16 hours of nonstop negotiations, W. J. Usery, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service director, announced the agreement on a contract between the UMWA and the Eastover Mining Co.

Usery had called both sides together Wednesday after a miner was shot in a resurgence of violence.

Sources close to the negotiations said the new contract covering Eastover's Brookside Mine was similar to collective bargaining agreements the union has with other coal producers.

In Washington Wednesday, the Labor Department said strikes idled American workers more during the first seven months of 1974 than during either of the two previous years.

From January through July 29, 455,000 man-days of idleness were recorded due to work stoppages, compared to full-year totals of 27,066,000 man-days in 1972 and 27,948,000 in 1973, the department said.

In Los Angeles, Mayor Tom Bradley called for round-the-clock negotiations to end the 17-day bus drivers' strike in Los Angeles County and three other Southern California counties which affected thousands of commuters.

Workers accepted a new contract at A. O. Smith Corp., Milwaukee, Wis., where a strike forced thousands of layoffs in the auto industry.

But the company, which provides frame and suspension parts for the auto industry, said production probably would not resume until next week because its employees would honor picket lines of two smaller unions.

A tentative agreement has been reached with one of the two small unions and agreement was reported to be near in negotiations with the other.

The A. O. Smith workers, in balloting Tuesday and Wednesday, overwhelmingly approved the agreement, which provides a cost of living escalator and retirement after 30 years' service.

They will return to work when the other strikes end.

Members of the United Auto Workers ended a nearly seven-week strike against General Motors' Lordstown, Ohio, plant and returned to their jobs Wednesday. Full production at the plant — GM's fastest assembly line — was expected to resume within a few days.

Workers also were back on their jobs Wednesday at Briggs & Stratton Corp., Milwaukee, ending a strike that also had affected the auto industry. Briggs & Stratton manufactures door and ignition locks.

But an apparent agreement to end a strike at GM's St. Louis, Mo., assembly plant has fallen through. The UAW canceled a ratification meeting which it had scheduled for Wednesday. A union spokesman said, after a long negotiating session, that working conditions remained an issue.

In New York City, 4,000 drivers and package sorters, members of Teamsters Local 804, struck the United Parcel Service Wednesday night, halting delivery of some 200,000 packages today in the metropolitan area.

Ex-Prison Inmate Begins Business

DALLAS (UPI) — Jan walked out of the Texas State Penitentiary in 1969. She was 30 years old, frightened and jobless.

"When I first came home, I went from one job interview to another. As soon as I filled out the partabout prior felony convictions, I never heard about the job again."

"I know how it feels — I washed dogs for a dollar a day," she said.

Jan, who prefers to keep her last name anonymous, set up the Ex Employment Agency in August, lining up employers who will offer a job to convicts on parole.

"I will get them a job to come home to," she said. "I have everything, from cooking sandwiches, to working heavy duty equipment, air conditioning repair, working in a factory — every single kind of job."

Jan, a large woman who wears rhinestone studded glasses, filled three jobs in the first week. She now has 43 companies on her list who say they will hire an ex-convict.

For Jan, who served a year in prison for passing worthless checks, the biggest problem keeping her business together is money. The agency operates strictly on a voluntary basis because Jan doesn't have the funds to apply for a state license. The agency depends on donations but has not been able to get the financial help needed.

will be threatened in ultimately to be conducted space flights.

Lutwak suggested weight-bearing stress could be a deterrent to or an aid to the correction of the bone disorder.

Thornton said the strenuous exercise could keep muscles firm. The same exercises, with proper diet, could also help the calcium problem.

Three industry groups have been "in the doghouse" for some time and "very likely," will lead the next market upsurge, according to Comparative Market Indicators. The investment advisor says one group, the utilities, appears to be bottoming out, while another, defense stocks, probably will benefit from a policy shift in the Ford administration. The third group, savings and loan institutions, will react to any drop in short-term interest rates, it adds.

The New Hampshire state legislature in 1919 made the purple lilac the state flower.

Jan, who has a 10-year-old daughter, said she offered many ex-convicts their first chance to put down roots.

"When they come in, if they don't have a dime, I take money out of contributions that have been sent in, and give them gas money, bus fare money or cigarette money. I don't care what the cancer society says, I'd rather give them cigarette money than have them steal a package."

She said the former inmates usually were apprehensive about job hunting.

"They're nervous and scared, afraid they're going to be asked if they've been in trouble, but they know when they walk in the door here, that I know they've been in trouble, and that the employers know it and take them anyway."

The Ex Employment Agency is their hope, when they walk in the door they have hope, and a little bit of confidence.

Jan said for many prospective parolees, having a job waiting on the outside is the only way they can get out of prison.

"Nine out of 10 don't make it unless they have a job."

United Press International — The United Mine Workers of America reached agreement today in a 13-month, violence-ridden coal mine strike at Harlan, Ky. Two key work stoppages ended in the auto industry and there was partial settlement of a third.

But marathon negotiations failed to produce a settlement in a Los Angeles transit strike.

Shortly after 4 a.m. S.D.T. today, after 16 hours of nonstop negotiations, W. J. Usery, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service director, announced the agreement on a contract between the UMWA and the Eastover Mining Co.

Usery had called both sides together Wednesday after a miner was shot in a resurgence of violence.

Sources close to the negotiations said the new contract covering Eastover's Brookside Mine was similar to collective bargaining agreements the union has with other coal producers.

TCLU Charges Law With Seige Cover-up

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Civil Liberties Union (TCLU) says three state law enforcement agencies may be withholding evidence on the Huntsville state prison shootout that killed Fred Gomez Carrasco to protect themselves.

TCLU director John Duncan again asked Gov. Dolph Briscoe to insure a thorough, independent investigation of the Aug. 3 incident in which Carrasco, inmate confederate Rudolfo Dominguez and two hostages died.

A paroled inmate said he saw a law officer kick bullet proof helmets off the two inmates and shoot them in the head. This contradicts an official version that the inmates committed suicide.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe earlier told Duncan the Walker County grand jury would investigate the incident.

"Our concern is not that the Walker County grand jury might be incapable of rendering an objective opinion on what occurred on the night of Aug. 3, 1974," Duncan said in a letter to Briscoe Wednesday.

"Rather, our concern is that the participating agencies—the Texas Department of Corrections, the Texas Department of Public Safety and the Texas Rangers—hold most of the evidence."

"To allow these agencies to hold the most important evidence and to depend upon

FmHA Office Receives Loan Information

The Gray County office serving the Farmers Home Administration has received new information regarding Emergency loans to farmers and ranchers.

Financial assistance to livestock and poultry producers under the Emergency Livestock Credit Act is now available through a new loan guarantee authority of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), a rural credit service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Robert A. Keown, FmHA County Supervisor, said the agency will be prepared to implement the recently enacted law by guaranteeing up to 80 percent of possible loss on loans made by legally organized lenders to livestock and poultry producers.

Under terms of the act, the loan guarantee program will be in effect through July 25, 1975.

It may be extended for 6 months beyond that date if the Secretary of Agriculture determines that it is needed.

to help the livestock industry obtain sufficient credit.

The law calls for loans to be made by banks or other legally organized lenders. Keown said interested producers are urged to make applications to, and complete loan arrangements with lending institutions. The lender in turn will ask FmHA for a loan guarantee if one is required. The lender will process the application, close the loan and service it.

The maximum loan to any single borrower that can be assisted by an FmHA guarantee is $250,000. Loans will be repayable in 1 to 3 years, although renewal for 2 years may be authorized. Interest rates are determined between borrower and lender.

Mr. Keown said the agency is authorized to guarantee up to 80 percent loss a lender may incur on loans to bonafide farmers and ranchers who breed, raise, fatten or market beef and dairy cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, chickens and turkeys.

A majority of the borrower's income must come from the operation, and a majority portion of the borrower's time must be devoted to the livestock or poultry production.

In the case of a corporation or partnership, assistance can be extended only when the majority partners or stockholders are primarily engaged in the livestock or poultry production.

FmHA guarantees will be made only when the bonafide farmer or rancher cannot obtain financing without guarantee. Loans may not be used to expand operations.

Keown said the county FmHA office serving the area where the borrower's livestock or poultry operations are conducted will handle requests from lenders for guarantees, or supply information on the loan guarantee program.

The FmHA Office serving Gray County is located at the Gray County Courthouse Annex on Highway 60 in Pampa.

Swimming Popularity Prompt TSDH Training

Swimming is more than a sport in Texas — it's a way of life which the Texas State Department of Health recognizes and has a part in thorough training of swimming pool operators.

Thousands of new pools will be constructed this year throughout the nation. In Texas at this moment, well over 50,000 pools are attracting swimmers like bees to a flower.

This is all to the good, because swimming lends itself to social adjustment. It teaches coordination and builds stamina and character. A child who overcomes fear of water has learned courage.

But there are also elements of risk. This accelerated interest in swimming creates hazards to life and limb, and dangers of disease transmission. That's why the State Health Department's regional offices conduct courses to teach pool operators the various skills of their jobs.

"Short schools" for pool operators are concentrated during the months of spring and early summer, the intention being to enroll as many operators as possible before hot weather and overflow crowds make it hard for them to get away from their work.

Co-sponsored by regional and local health departments, courses consist of six hours of intensive technical and practical instruction. It covers such things as how to disinfect the water, and how to control water acidity. Water acidity, incidentally, is the factor which causes swimmers' eyes to burn, rather than chlorine as is popularly supposed.

The course also covers pool safety, bathhouse sanitation, and the various filtering systems used by modern pools.

How important are swimming pools as links in the chain of disease transmission? Eye, ear, nose and throat, skin and intestinal infections are among the most common conditions spread in swimming pools. Typhoid fever and diarrheal diseases have been traced to neighborhood pools.

Most prevalent, however, is ringworm of the feet, commonly called "athlete's foot." It is not contracted in pool water, but by walking on wet walks and floors on which the spores of the infection flourish.

Social Security Q And A
(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Howard L. Weatherly, Branch Manager, Social Security Administration, 1541 N. Hobart, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

Q. By H.L. WEATHERLY
I've heard I should call the social security office about six months before my retirement. Why?

A. So that the social security office representative can discuss with you what proofs you need for your claim and advise you as to how to obtain these proofs. It could mean your check will be paid more promptly upon retirement.

Q. Exactly what proofs are needed to prove my birthday?

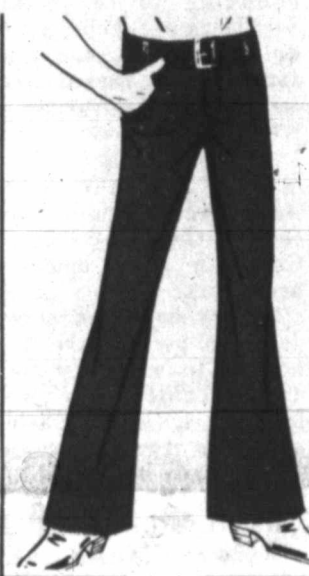

A. If there is a birth certificate or church record of your birth made before your fifth birthday, this one record is sufficient and must be presented. Otherwise, there are a variety of proofs which can be used: the older they are, the better.

Q. Can I file my claim by telephone?

A. Most social security claims can be filed by telephone.

Q. I receive disability payments under social security. How much can I work and still get these payments.

A. Your responsibility is to notify the social security office if you go back to work. A decision must be made about your ability to do substantial gainful work. This decision cannot be made until all the facts are known.

Damage Causes Heart Failure

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read quite often of a person dying of heart failure. Is there any way a person can tell he might have a failing heart?

With most heart conditions a person knows what is wrong and can try to avoid whatever might cause it, but how about a failing heart? — D.P.

I rather suspect you are confusing "heart attack" with "heart failure," and I am inclined to question how often you have actually read of a person dying of "heart failure."

A heart attack is an abrupt and usually unexpected thing, occurring when blood flow to the heart muscle, or some part of it, is suddenly shut off.

Heart failure is another matter. It means that the heart, damaged in one way or another, no longer is able to do as much work as it used to do. It is usually a slow, gradually progressive situation, recognizable by a physician who then advises his patient to be careful not to exceed the amount of activity his heart can handle.

It is not something a person can diagnose for himself. It involves the patient's medical history, along with various findings from examination and tests.

Shortness of breath on slight exertion (or even at rest in bed) can be an early symptom. So can swelling of the ankles — although of course there are other causes for that.

Fatiguing easily and a cough due to lung congestion aside from a "cold" are other clues.

Along with such signs, the doctor can evaluate additional evidence: heart size, rate lung findings, electrocardiogram, and so on.

I might add that people fairly often don't know they have a heart condition because they find excuses for symptoms.

One with angina pectoris or coronary artery disease often passes off pains as "indigestion." A cough related to heart trouble may be attributed to smoking or "bronchial trouble." Swelling of ankles or legs may not be recognized by the patient as having anything to do with the heart.

Since heart disease (of one type or another) is the most cause of death, it behooves all of us to understand something about the heart, how it acts, and what can be done to help it.

That's why I wrote my booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," which explains, among many other things, the difference between a heart attack and heart failure.

If you'd like a copy, and I rather think you will find that it answers a good many questions for you, send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson, at Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About two months ago a candle flame singed my eyelashes at the outer corner of one eye. The lashes have not yet grown in. Will they? — S.G.

They probably will grow in again if the roots were not damaged by the flame — and I doubt that they were, or you'd have been getting treatment for so severe a burn. But eyelashes just do not grow as rapidly as hair in other areas of the body, so be patient.

Note to Mrs. J.S.: She finds fault, gripes constantly, is always being picked on she says, is lazy, sloppy, fumes about bathing, blows up and becomes furious, feeling hurt and sorry for herself.

Hard to see how she is going to make a success of life until that attitude changes. I doubt that the average physician can help in this case — except ask your doctor if there isn't a child guidance center in your community.

Some school systems have psychological staffs that can help. Or, of course, a child psychiatrist. I, like you, think something should be done.

Troubled with gout? To learn of new treatment for this painful disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of him, Dr. George C. Thosteson at Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120 for a copy of his booklet, "Gout — The Modern Way to Stop It."

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Jan Sterling Makes A Choice

By EARL WILSON NEW YORK — The show must go on... but when you gotta go, you gotta go.

Gifted actress Jan Sterling had to make a choice, and a quick one, between those famous rules of conduct, about 20 minutes into her gala opening performance of "Come Back, Little Sheba" at the Queens Playhouse at Flushing, N.Y.

"You gotta go" was, at the precise moment, much more urgent than the great code of show business. And so she went as swiftly as she could. She not only went, but she stayed and stayed.

But first she came from the wings, looking very white, and interrupted two other performers to announce, "Ladies and gentlemen, I can't go on. I'm sick."

"At first I thought it was part of the show," Anna Sosenko, the antiquarian who was in the audience, said later. But Trish Hawkins and Roger Hill ceased their performing and followed Miss Sterling out but in a much more leisurely manner.

On stage came producer Joseph S. Kutzruba asking for a 10-minute break. But Miss Sterling was quaking in the Ladies' room, being treated by a doctor, and given oxygen. She was also endeavoring to think of a proper description of her ailment. She decided that "food poisoning" sounded much more elegant than medical terms that could have been used.

"I had crabmeat for lunch," she explained. Adams Douglas, 19, her son by the late movie star Paul Douglas, who doesn't often wear whole suits, had bought a new one hours before, and brought his girl to his mother's opening. They returned to Manhattan where Miss Sterling said she'd do the opening the next night.

"It's the only time I ever missed a show except the two nights when Paul died in 1959 when I was doing "The Gazebo," she said.

Comedian Dick Shawn, chancing to be in the audience, filled in delightfully — and then sangria and cheese were served to such celebrities as Werner Klemperer, Lotte Lenya, Rita Gam, Sylvia Miles and the Burt Bacharach who'd been taken there by Milton Goldman in a double-decker bus.

History had been made. Jan was perhaps the first actress to make her own announcement she was leaving. It was probably also the first time the leading lady went, and the show didn't.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Robert Vaughn and Loretta Swit were on "The $10,000 Pyramid" game show. Vaughn was to give his partner a clue to the key word, "Sinatra." In the excitement Vaughn said "Mia Farrow's father," the key contestant said, "Oh sure, Sinatra." The answer was right even though the clue was wrong and the boy won.

Sinatra incidentally is no longer publicized by Hollywood press agent Jim Mahoney after 15 years as of last week.

The Teddy Kennedys will be occupying the Presidential Suite at the NY Hilton during the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Tennis Tournament... many others will also be there. Bobby Riggs is bringing his long time glamour gal Sandra Giles.

Carol Channing's "Lorelei" leading man Peter Palmer leaves the show Sept. 12 (and so does his wife Aniko Farrell, who's also in the show... A London paper reports the David Hemmings (Gayle Hunnicutt) are in Splitsville after "a stormy six-year marriage".... Herb Sherry figures that now there are two Happy Rockefellers.

Show Biz Quiz: Elizabeth Taylor got third billing in her film "National Velvet," who was billed above her? Ans. to yesterday's: Bob Fosse was the only person to win the Oscar, Tony and Emmy award in one year.

Don Kirshner wants to do a "Bobby Darin Story" TV. with Robert Blake... An oversized bed was delivered to the Athenaeum Hotel in London for an oversized guest: John Wayne... A reviewer who rapped the Osmond Bros. says he got a letter signed by more than 200 mini-boppers: "We hope your typing fingers get inched and fall off!"

Herb Stone Gingold'll replace Margaret Hamilton in the new company of "A Little Night Music" in LA... Barbra Streisand would like to have her very good friend Jon Peters in her next film "Rainbow Road."

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT Today's Best Laugh: Rodney Dangerfield, who gets no respect, recalls that he proposed to his wife by saying, "Let's run away together." And she said, "No — you go."

Wish I'd said that: John Markus claims his home town is so far from the big cities "that I can't even get interference on my TV set."

Remembered Quote: "One man in a million seems to know what the country really needs. But you meet him every-time you get in a cab or take a haircut."

Earl's Pearls: Victor Borge, during his concerts, lifts the wide lid of his grand piano, and thoughtfully asks the audience, "Is that too drafty for you?"

A famous British actor told Rex Harrison he lived in a house he'd bought in 1939.

"How I envy you," murmured Harrison. "For 35 years the same house... the same wife... and the same performance." That's earl, brother. All rights Reserved

Under Twenty

By PAULA PRENTICE

If you are one millions of young people who must (or desire) to lose weight, don't be taken in by the many crash programs proposed in books and magazines. While doctors argue about them, just stay away from them because dieting isn't all that complicated once you determine to lose some weight.

Most weight-loss programs you hear about are designed for older people who find it considerably more difficult to take off the accumulation of years of pounds. While you are growing and maturing, many of these diets can be dangerous to your health by creating an improper balance in your growing body.

In addition to the crash diets there is another danger in the use of pills. Once again, they are designed for older people and even here they should be used with extreme caution.

Under no circumstances should you use pills to help you reduce without the definite advice of a physician. Pills, improperly used, can be disastrous to your long-term health.

How, then, do you lose weight? Once you've decided to do so, really committed yourself, the answer is a simple one. Just take in less calories in the course of each day than you're using. This can be achieved by cutting down on certain foods and increasing the amount of activity and exercise.

The combination of proper foods and increased exercise is your most healthful approach to losing weight. As you lose weight by dieting you keep your body firm (or make it firmer) by exercising.

Exercising can be as simple as bicycling, walking instead of riding when you can, joining in school sports or basic morning exercises.

As for the food aspect, use your own willpower in not eating the foods you know contain large amounts of calories. You know what they are. Sweetened soft drinks, candies, fried foods, breads and rolls — the things so often associated with your between-the-meals snacks.

Cut down sharply on the intake of these foods and you'll find that you'll lose weight.

You need not starve yourself. Between meals, use sugar-free drinks, try skim milk, fill the vacuum with fruits, vegetables and salads. Cut the fats from meat and eat broiled and baked foods, rather than fried.

Don't become impatient and look for dramatic changes. You will lose weight with this simple approach and you won't be starving or endangering your health. If you have a serious obesity problem (a rarity), consult your doctor for help.

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — The highway patrol ordered a van that sat unattended beside busy Interstate 5 for more than 14 hours hauled to a garage Tuesday, where an employee decided to see what it contained.

He found five human corpses.

Several hours later, Phil Beckwith, 20, San Diego, appeared to claim the truck and cargo. Beckwith is a driver for the Telephone Society, a low-cost cremation society.

Thomas Officially Waived By 'Skins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Football player for sale. Price $100. Talent as running back unquestioned but some personality problems.

In effect that's what the Washington Redskins have done with Duane Thomas, the player who led the Dallas Cowboys rushers in 1970 and 1971, running for 57 yards in the Cowboys 24-3 victory over Miami in Super Bowl VI.

Thomas, with Charlie Harroway jumping to the World Football League's Birmingham franchise and a year with the Redskins behind him, was certain of a Redskins starting job.

But Washington Coach George Allen, like Tom Landry of Dallas, reached the end of the line with the talented but troublesome Thomas, officially putting him on waivers Wednesday, making him available for a 24-hour period to any team in the National Football League willing to give the Redskins $100.

After that period Thomas will be available as a free agent to any team in the league without the $100 payment—including the Redskins—if they can reach agreement with him. But it appeared unlikely that any team wants to cope with the kind of problems that Thomas brings with him.

Staubach Hopes Ribs OK Soon, Coach Doubtful

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Quarterback Roger Staubach hopes his cracked ribs will mend within a week but Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry says it is doubtful his No. 1 quarterback can return before the regular season opener.

The Cowboys meet Kansas City Saturday at their Irving, Tex., stadium and close the exhibition season Sept. 5 at home against Pittsburgh. Quarterback Craig Morton, who has signed to play with the Houston Texans of the World Football League next year, is scheduled to start both games with Staubach on the sideline.

"Hopefully I can be back in a week," Staubach said Wednesday. "The problem I'm having right now is with muscle spasms."

Staubach cracked two ribs in the Cowboys' exhibition loss to New Orleans last week.

"Hopefully the best you can look for is a little action from him in the Pittsburgh game," Landry said. "But I'm more inclined to look at Atlanta (the regular season opener) before I'd play him—before I'd want to risk him."

Top Flight Still Open In Tourney

By PAUL SIMS
Players with a two-handicap or less still have a chance to play in the Top O' Texas Invitational Saturday through Monday at the Pampa Country Club.

Those low handicappers are eligible for only the championship flight, which is 15 players short of its 40-man limit. According to assistant pro Sherwin Cox, "we won't get 40 people in it, there just aren't that many true championship-flight players around here."

Among those entered in the flight are Eddie Duell and David Parker of Pampa, John Farquhar, John Zett, Bunky Preston and John Shankle of Amarillo, Dick Weston of Plainview and Otis Gollighugh of Phoenix, Ariz.

Those will probably be the top contenders for the championship flight crown, which went to now-pro Jodie Richardson of Borger a year ago.

Two Oklahoma State golfers—Harry Turner and Gary Wilcox—have entered the flight and should be strong.

The only other Pampans in the flight are Jim Simpson and Bob Hudson.

Caprock Bowlers To Start Tonight, 8:15 Meeting Called

The Caprock League bowlers are scheduled to begin their season at 8:45 p.m. today at Harvester Lanes.

Team captains need to attend a meeting at 8:15 p.m. prior to the start of competition.

Brock Near Wills' Mark

United Press International
Lou Brock has just about "stolen" the National League's Most Valuable Player Award from the sluggers.

'Lectrifin' Lou moved two thefts closer to Maury Wills' single-season stolen base record Wednesday night and became only the third player in modern history to steal at least 90 bases in a season when he pilfered a pair to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-1 triumph over the San Diego Padres.

Brock joined Wills and the legendary Ty Cobb as the only three players since 1900 to steal at least 90 bases in a season, and it now seems he will easily beat Wills' record of 104 steals set during the 1962 season.

If he can accomplish that feat, which is akin to breaking Roger Maris' single season home run record, he would stand a pretty good chance of being named the league's MVP ahead of such power hitters as Cincinnati's Johnny Bench, Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt and Los Angeles' Jimmy Wynn.

Brock, who was thrown out for the 21st time in his first attempt Wednesday night, stole his 90th base in the fifth inning then singled in the seventh and promptly stole No. 91 to set the stage for a four-run inning which proved decisive.

Walks by Reggie Smith and Joe Torre moved Brock to third and Bake McBride snapped the 1-1 tie with a two-run single. Ted Simmons then capped the rally with a two-run double. Simmons also doubled home a sixth inning run in helping Lynn McGlothen to his 15th win.

In other NL games, Cincinnati nipped Philadelphia, 4-3; Atlanta topped Montreal, 4-2; Pittsburgh beat San Francisco, 3-1, in 11 innings; Houston edged New York, 3-2, in 10 innings, and Los Angeles downed Chicago, 7-6.

New York blanked Minnesota, 5-0; Chicago shut out Boston, 30; Detroit nipped California, 21; Texas defeated Baltimore, 4-2; Cleveland whipped Kansas City, 7-1, and Oakland topped Milwaukee, 3-1, in American League action.

Reds 4, Phillies 3
Pinch-hitter Terry Crowley doubled home Darrell Chaney in the eighth inning to give the Reds a victory over the Phillies. Bob Boone homered for the Phils.

Braves 4, Expos 2
Ralph Garr's two-run triple triggered a three-run ninth inning that lifted the Braves over the Expos. Carl Morton gained his 14th win for the Expos.

Astros 3, Mets 2
Cliff Johnson's fifth pinch-hit homer of the year with two out in the 10th enabled the Astros to defeat the Mets. Johnson connected off reliever Jerry Cram and moved to within one of the record for most pinch-hit homers in a season set by Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn in 1932. Rusty Staub homered for the Mets.

Pampa, Vernon To Meet

Pampa fans and Harvester coaches will get their first good look at the progress made by Pampa High's football team as Vernon will take on Pampa in a scrimmage starting at 7:30 p.m. Friday, preceded by a Pampa junior varsity intersquad scrimmage at 6 o'clock, in Harvester Stadium.

There will be no admission charge to the Vernon scrimmage, which will be played as a regular game in the first half and a controlled scrimmage in the second.

The only exception to a game situation in the first two periods is there will be no kickoffs—teams will take over on their own 30 following a score.

Pampa and Vernon "tied" a year ago with each team scoring a touchdown and booting the point after. However, the Harvesters outgained the Lions statistically.

Royal Again Beseet With 'Problems'

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Darrell Royal could talk a day and a night on the problems his Texas Longhorns face getting ready for the 1974 season. It's an old and annual story.

There's the loss of Roosevelt Leaks, injuries to other key players, a lack of depth in certain areas and a multitude of inexperienced freshmen and sophomores.

And there's talk that the Southwest Conference as a whole is closing the gap which Texas created during its last six years at the top.

"I guess it's just the natural trait of a coach to be jumpy before you get into competition," Royal said Wednesday. "I know the quality of the athletes and the quality of the coaches at the other schools. And I just don't see that much of an edge for us."

Still, it is apparent that beneath his crocodile tears Royal knows his team is loaded with talent. And his players seem to possess a winning attitude.

"This can be one of the best teams we can have around here," senior defensive tackle Doug English said. "Maybe I'm not supposed to say that. But the attitude's been great and I am really fired up."

The Longhorns suffered the loss of two starters they had counted on before training ever began. Senior tight end Parker Alford died in an automobile accident in Houston in mid-August.

Leaks—who gained over 1,000 yards in each of his first two seasons and who would have been a serious candidate for the Heisman Trophy this year—tore up his right knee in spring training. His doctor said he would tell Leaks on Sept. 14 whether the post allow him to play this year.

"I never have thought he's going to play," Royal said. But to replace Leaks, Royal has junior fullback David Bartek and freshman Earl Campbell, a sensational high school rusher who is expected to achieve stardom with the Longhorns.

Quarterback should be little problem with juniors Marty Akins and Mike Presley, both of whom saw action in 1973, returning. "We're comfortable with either one of those guys in the game," Royalsaid.

The Longhorns may come up with formidable outside running game with a corps of five speedy halfbacks. Senior Don Burrisk is back in form after missing the 1973 season with a knee injury. Junior starter Joe Aboussi, sophomores Raymond Clayborn and Rucker Lewis and freshman Gralyn Wyatt have all impressed coaches in preseason drills.

DOVE SEASON for Texas hunters starts Sunday with the requirements being the same as last year. Besides having a new hunting license, regulations are: shooting hours between 12 noon and sunset; a daily bag limit of 10 birds; shotguns must be plugged permanently to three shell capacity and may not be larger than 10 gauge; use of rifles to take doves is prohibited.

LUBBOCK — The Texas hunting season goes off with a bang Sunday noon Sept. 1, as the 1974 dove season gets underway.

The hunting requirements for Texas wingshooters are set annually by both the state and federal regulating agencies. Since doves are classed as a migratory bird, regulations are stricter than for the quail or pheasant that Lone Star hunters bag.

The mourning dove is found from Alaska, South Canada throughout the U.S., most of Mexico to Panama. The doves also migrate south from the Panhandle in certain areas when ice snow or cold winds are prolonged. The habit of the dove in Texas covers all of the farmlands, ranches, towns, mesquites, woodlands, open country and desert. Nests are usually a flimsy platform of twigs in trees, shrub, cactus, or on the ground. An average nest will have two white eggs.

Nearly all nesting is finished and the youngsters are flying by the beginning of hunting season in September.

Many hunters consider the mourning dove a difficult target and the ten birds-in-the-game-bag may require as many as thirty expended shotshells to collect that limit.

Doves can be found everywhere by hunters but these birds seem to flock to sunflower patches, grain fields or water holes in the afternoon. Since shooting hours are from 12 noon to sunset, many hunters wait until 4 o'clock to get set in their favorite easy chair near a weed patch or water hole and there they wait for the fast incoming doves to showup.

Sportsmen will argue about what gauge shotgun to use on dove but most will agree that small size shot such as number 7½, 8 or 9 are adequate to stop the birds permanently.

The enjoyment of the hunt is not over at sunset though as the birds are either plucked clean or skinned ready for the frying pan. The whole family will comment on the good flavor of the meat and suggest that you go back to the dove field tomorrow. This is the excuse that you wanted to get back into the Texas out-of-doors anyway.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

...it tells you how

It won't be long before the last of the late summer dog days will be blown away by the early breezes of autumn. Which means we're fast approaching the last good kite flyin' days of the year. And that makes this a good time to tame the wild Indians in your house (for at least one long evening) by putting them to work on the "lastest and bestest" kite of the season.

It's easy, according to Jim Baker in his book, How To Be A Kid Again. Beg some of the little cone-shaped cups from any office or store that still uses a bottled-water fountain, fish a few split-lead sinkers from dad's tackle box, buy a ball of string... and you're in business. I haven't tried this one personally, but Jim says the kite flies amazingly well. It's worth testing!

NEW YORK (UPI) —

Now is a good time to buy antiques. In this inflationary economy, they're a protection for your money.

This is the view of Sigmund Rothschild, who for more than 30 years has been in the business of appraising and restoring art and antiques. Much of his work is in the prestigious areas like the White House or the Smithsonian.

"We're still in an inflating economy," he said. "I put the classical antiques in perfect condition, as something equivalent to buying prime bonds. If held long enough, they will go up. Think of antiques as useful commodities. I'd rather have fine American pieces, for instance, than stocks."

A real Tiffany lamp continues its rising value, even though reproductions have been flooding the market.

And although by U.S. Customs ruling, any item must be at least 100 years old to qualify for duty free import, Rothschild figures we are making our own antiques as we go. "Things of our past should go into the future."

"Every new material used may decline in value for a generation and more," he said in an interview.

"Then regenerated say 40 to 50 years later, it's valuable again. On a trip to London recently, I bought my daughter a 1920s dress. It's worth more now than originally."

He foresees no shortage of antiques even though museums keep stockpiling.

"I found in Britain that the government is proposing another personal tax," he said. "That would put a lot on the market from the big estates. London is one of the prime sources."

Rothschild, who also teaches a "What's It Worth?" course at Long Island University, offered some tips to the neophyte collector.

Start with a specialty that interests you. It may be something that grows from a hobby.

In Rothschild's own case, his father collected stamps. "I was sorting for him when I was 12. I was his disciple."

"Buy things in good condition. Buy perfection. I don't believe in compromise here (although restoration for museums and the like is part of his job). Look for intrinsic artistic value. Buy what you like and use. That could be my first and last rule."

"Read. There are volumes on almost every phase of antiques and the arts. Windowshop at dealers and auctions. All widen knowledge, help shape taste."

"But if you're motivated by looking for bargains, don't," he said. "They only come along when least expected."

You will make mistakes. But don't repeat them.

Rothschild no longer collects. "I don't need anymore," he said. "It's unethical anyway for me to buy when I'm also appraising."

Business Today

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) —

If you want to cast a keel for a sailboat nowadays, chances are you will have to dig a hole in your backyard and do it yourself. You aren't likely to find a small foundry that will do the job.

But the amateur boat builder is one of the least among those hurt by the serious problems of the foundry industry, says Charles E. Fausel of Lester B. Knight Associates, Inc., who also is president of the American Foundrymen's Society.

The Defense Department is very upset over the shrinkage in the number of foundries," Fausel said. "The Army has had a great deal of trouble buying small and medium sized quantities of castings to replace heavy equipment losses—tank and artillery castings in particular. Many industries find it very difficult to ferret out a foundry that can take an order for a one-of-a-kind casting or a small quantity. This hampers design engineers and investors."

The foundry industry, dating back some 6,000 years, admittedly has been backward in some respects, Fausel said. It does many things exactly as they were done centuries ago and American foundrymen spend a piddling half a million dollars a year on research and development.

"If we spent the same proportion of our sales on R&D as more progressive industries, we'd be paying out $240 million a year for it," Fausel said.

But this big basic industry that had a sales volume of $13 billion in the United States last year is undergoing an alarming shrinkage in number of units and a more alarming shrinkage in the numbers of workers and technicians, who are real craftsmen, Fausel said.

About 66 American foundries have closed their doors annually for the past four years, he said, and the pace of failures of small foundries is accelerating. There still are about 4,200 foundries in the country and they employ 375,000 persons but many of them are captive plants working only for one industry.

To bring the importance of castings home to the ordinary American, Fausel pointed out that your home probably contains two and a half tons of castings. Your automobile's engine block and cylinder head, the crankcase, the transmission and rear-end housings and smaller parts are castings. The frames and other heavy parts of most machinery are castings.

Why is such a flourishing and necessary industry having so many pains and losing so many firms?

Big demand for castings made in large quantities, by the automobile industry, for example, is one reason, Fausel said. This demand soaks up the scarce raw materials.

The biggest shortage is in scrap metals, especially scrap iron and scrap steel. "We are exporting scrap steel and scrap iron that we need badly at home because foreign steel mills outbid our mills for it," Fausel said.

But the worst problem is stiff pollution and safety laws. "In many cases," Fausel said, "the cost of modernizing to satisfy these laws is greater than the net worth of the business. And if the money is spent, the proprietor can see no way of getting prices or volume big enough to yield anything on the increased investment."

Four big game animals are found in Oklahoma—whitetail deer, Rio Grande wild turkeys, pronghorn antelope and elk.

Youth Is New News Carrier

WHEELER — Curtis Forrester, a ninth grader, and son of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Edwards, is the new carrier for the Pampa Daily News in Wheeler.

Curtis, who is 14, and has lived here for the past five years, feels he knows the town well enough to do a good job in seeing that readers of the Pampa newspaper get their papers on time and in good condition.

His father has been employed by Natural Gas Pipeline for the past 20 years. His mother is employed at the Wheeler Times.

Dear Consumer

Real Estate: There's A Lot To Know

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Owning land is part of the American dream—your own house or an investment for the future.

But a dream can become a nightmare if you buy without understanding legal aspects of real estate.

Before you talk with a real estate agent or a developer, become familiar with the words and terms used in real estate transactions. Here's a guide:

Title—ownership of land.

Mortgage—a loan made by a bank or financial institution for the purpose of buying or developing real estate.

Recording—the act of putting a deed or sales contract into the county record. This makes the sale a matter of public record and gives you, the buyer, the right to be notified if a claim is made against the land.

Covenant—an agreement between the landowners and the developer usually limiting uses of the land (for example, prohibiting the use of trailers). These restrictions are included in the deed.

Contract for purchase—an agreement between two parties obligating one to sell and the other to buy which usually includes the amount of the purchase and any other terms or restrictions.

Lien—a claim on the property made by someone other than the purchaser. Usually a lien is filed against the property owner when a contractor (engineer, contractor, plumber) has done work on the land or house and has not been paid. As a buyer, you cannot get clear title to the property until the lien is cleared.

Encumbrance—a mortgage against the land which usually occurs when the developer borrows money using the land as security. As a buyer, you usually cannot get title to the land until the developer has paid a portion or all of the mortgage.

Easement—the right of another party (the telephone company, a utility) to use a piece of the land for a specified purpose (to install telephone poles, electric wires).

General warranty deed—a document in which the seller promises that the deed is free of encumbrances and liens. This is the only deed which gives you reasonable assurance that you have clear title to the land.

Quit claim deed—a document transferring the seller's rights, if any, to the purchaser. With such a deed, you may not have title if there are any encumbrances or liens against the land.

Special warranty deed—a document in which the seller promises that he personally has not encumbered the land. However, if he is not first owner of the land, prior mortgages may still exist.

Waiver of Purchaser's Reversion Rights—a document that a purchaser signs when he agrees to give up the right to cancel a contract to buy land. Under the Interstate Land Sales Act, you have the right to cancel a contract within 48 hours unless you sign this waiver. Before a purchaser may agree to waive this right, he must have had an on-site inspection of the property and must receive a property report.
